AN APPRECIATION.

There passed from among us in the closing days of the old year one who, in a very unostentatious, but nevertheless effective way, rendered valuable service to the Exercise. Unknown, even by name, perhaps, to many ringers of the new generation, but remembered with appreciation by all who came in contact with his labours in Essex, Canon T. L. Papillon served our Exercise in a manner open to few men. He was a contributor to various influential journals, among them 'The Times' and 'The Guardian,' and his pen at every opportunity was used in the cause of the art of ringing. He endeavoured to stir the clergy to a sense of their obligations in regard to bells and ringers, and the public to an appreciation of the ringers' work. In those days, now nearly forty years ago, it was well nigh a hopeless task, but Canon Papillon's labours were not entirely in vain, and probably had indirect results from which the Exercise is reaping the advantage to-day.

Canon Papillon was never a great ringer in the ordinary meaning of the term, indeed he readily admitted to being an indifferent practical performer on church bells. He was 43 years of age when he began to ring, but the reason which prompted him to start was a highly laudable one. He was leaving New College, Oxford, where he had been a tutor, to become Vicar of Writtle, and knowing that he was going to a church with a peal of bells, but with few ringers and little or no change ringing, he felt, if this were to be remedied, it was better to know something about it himself. And he set about learning how to handle a bell and gaining a knowledge of the rudiments of the art. It would be an enormous gain to the Exercise if every parish priest, who has a peal of bells in his church, would realise in this way his responsibilities in regard to the belfry. Since the days when Canon Papillon felt it his duty to get a practical knowledge of ringing, we have made advances in the recognition which ringers have gained from Church authorities, but we are far from having reached the ideal stage, when every incumbent is as fully acquainted with the belfry as he should be. Canon Papillon was a busy man in many spheres of life, but he made time to be in the belfry on practice night and to take part in the service ringing. His example is one which, if followed generally by our clergy, would do more to bring the ringers into the church than all the pulpit lectures which ringers have to suffer at most of their meetings.

It is impossible to measure fully the service which Canon Papillon rendered to the Exercise, quite apart from his immediate connection with the Essex Association, both as secretary, and, afterwards, as Master. He laboured not only for the advancement of change ringing in his own tower and association, but his influence was felt beyond the confines of the county of his adoption. Advancing age and infirmity caused him to cease his labours, and we know of no one upon whom his mantle has descended. He filled a special niche in the Exercise which has not been filled since he retired from it, but we ought to remember with gratitude all that he strove to do for the art and for ringers in the days when he wielded a trenchant and persuasive pen.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE BEGINNING OF STEDMAN'S PRINCIPLE.
BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The statement that the original Society of College Youths became extinct in 1788 and that the present society is said not to be descended from it, is evidently a reference to a statement by Osborne. I intend at a convenient time to turn up his manuscripts and see what grounds he had for the assertion. Until we have them any comment is futile.

When Mr. Lukis states that Grandsire Triples was invented by Mr. Benjamin Annable and was subsequently improved by Mr. Holt, he does not mean the method; that came from the middle of the seventeenth century. He is referring to the London tradition that Annable was the first man to produce a true peal of both Grandsire and Plain Bob Triples. The fact that he spells Annable's name as the authors of the Clavis do (wrongly) shows that he was following them. As a matter of fact, in both Annable had been forestalled by John Garthorn, of Norwich.

From our point of view Annable's peal of Grandsire, which is produced by common bobs and singles only, is a great improvement on Garthorn's peal. It is, however, doubtful whether all contemporary opinion would have been the same; for Garthorn's peal, which is produced by common bobs, sixth-place bobs and two special singles, is all triple changes throughout, two doubles excepted, which Annable's peal is not. And in early times Annable's singles were quite as much special calls as Garthorn's. In what respect Annable's peal of Bob Triples was an improvement on Garthorn's we do not know, for the figures of the latter are lost, and there is now little hope that they will turn up as the figures of the Grandsire Triples did.

Mr. Lukis repeats the tradition of the Exercise that Fabian Stedman invented Stedman's Principle in the year 1657. Shipway is our fullest authority for this tradition, and the following is what he has to say about it:— 'According to Parnell the earliest artist and promoter of change ringing we have any account of was Mr. Fabian Stedman, born in the town of Cambridge 1631. He introduced various peals on five and six bells, printing them on slips of paper (being by profession a printer). These, being distributed about the country, were soon brought to London; but what progress the art made in the Metropolis at this time does not appear. The Society of College Youths, in the summer of 1657, on a visit to Cambridge, were presented by Mr. Stedman with his peculiar production on five bells, since called Stedman's Principle, which was rung for the first time at St. Benet's, Cambridge, and afterwards at a church on College Hill, London, where the society at that time usually practised, and from meeting at which place they obtained their name. It appears from this account that change ringing must have been much earlier than 1657; as before these curious and cross peals were discovered, single changes were universally practised, i.e., only changing two bells at one time; whereas the improved plan of double and triple changes, etc., i.e., every bell to change at one time appears to have taken place long before 1657 by Mr. Stedman having produced such a complex method of ringing as his principle.'

This is all clear and circumstantial enough; but, on the other hand, there is the fact that Stedman did not publish his 'Tintinnalogia' till 1668, and that book does not contain his Principle. It is inconceivable that had it been produced as early as 1657 he would have omitted it, for it is not only a much more complex method than any in the 'Tintinnalogia,' but it was a definite and deliberate attempt to break away from the old system of hunts, by which all early peals were composed and rung, and which for a hundred years kept change ringing within very strait bounds.

THE BRISTOL GUILD'S DINNER.

AN INFORMAL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD.

A record number of tickets have been disposed of for the Bristol United Guild's annual dinner to-morrow. Visitors will attend from London, Loughborough, Newport, Gloucester, Birmingham, Weston-super-Mare, Weymouth, Southampton and other places, and Canon H. J. Freeman (Bristol Cathedral), will be the guest of the evening.

Visitors are asked to meet at the Bristol University at 2.30 p.m. No. 8 or 9 tramcar from Temple Meads Station to tramway centre, and proceed by No. 18 bus (15 minutes must be allowed).

An innovation in the shape of an informal conference is to take place after the visit to the University, the subject being 'How can we obtain recruits to take our places hereafter and to fill the many present gaps?

NEW PEAL OF EIGHT FOR GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

Another new peal of eight is to be erected in Gloucestershire. This octave is to be installed at Cinderford, and Messrs. Mears and Stambank, of the Whitechapel Foundry, have been entrusted with the contract.

BICESTER RINGERS' ANNUAL DINNER.

The Bicester band of ringers held their second annual dinner on New Year's Eve. After a pull on the bells, a party of twelve sat down to an excellent repast at the Rose and Crown Inn, the Vicar, the Rev. O'Reilly, presiding. Afterwards, the loyal toast was honoured, and was followed by a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells.

Mr. E. Hims proposed the health of 'The Vicar,' who, in responding, said he hoped such gatherings would be continued in the future.

Handbells, etc., were kept going until 11.30 p.m., when the ringers returned to the belfry to ring the old year out and the new year in.

ANOTHER PEAL OF EIGHT IN GLAMORGANSHIRE.

Glamorganshire is now in possession of another peal of eight bells, namely, at Llantrisant. Messrs. John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, have recently added two trebles to the old six, and they are now a very good eight. They were dedicated some few weeks ago by the Bishop of Llandaff. A peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the bells last Saturday by members of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association.

MISTLEY BELLS REOPENED.

The bells of Mistley Parish Church, Essex, were reopened on Saturday, December 18th. In response to a hurried invitation, 25 North Essex ringers met at church at 4.30 for the special service, conducted by the Rev. Gardiner, curate-in-charge. A beautiful choral service had been arranged.

At 5.15, all were entertained to tea by the kindness of friends at the Institute. The Harwich ringers brought their beautiful hand bells, and entertained the party to tunes and carols in their well-known way. Mr. Tippins, an old ringer, much interested the company with ringing tales of 50 years ago.—Mr. Nevard, the District Master, returned thanks for the arrangements made.

YOUNG RINGERS' GOOD PERFORMANCE.

A peal at Shoreham, Sussex, on Boxing Day, was the first by three young ringers, who are to be congratulated upon the way they rang, as they had not rung any length before. The idea was to start for a quarter-peal, but the ringing was so perfect that the conductor decided to attempt the whole length, which was accomplished in the time mentioned without any mistake or false blow on their part.

On Saturday, January 1st, a 720 of Double Oxford Bob Minor was rung at Higham: F. H. Rowley 1, E. Pullen 2, W. Martin 3, K. Gilliver 4, H. V. Rowley 5, A. E. Rowley (conductor) 6. First 720 in the method by all except conductor. Rung immediately after midnight to ring the new year in.

TETTENHALL, STAFFS.—On Christmas Eve, for midnight service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes) in 47 mins., with 4, 6, 8 covering: E. J. Southwick 1, T. Taylor 2, H. R. Pickering 3, G. Smith 4, E. Genna 5, K. Taylor 6, R. Pickering (conductor) 7, T. Bate 8.

Owing to the large number of peals rung during the Christmas holidays and for the New Year, many reports of the performances are unavoidably held over.

BELL ROPES, MUFFLES. &

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The rehanging of the peal of six at Ightham, near Sevenoaks, Kent, was completed by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, on Christmas Eve, in time for ringing in Christmas.

The bells at Christ Church, Eastbourne, a light octave with tenor of 9 cwt., are shortly to be rehung by the Whitechapel firm, who will complete the new peal of eight for Brighton in time for Easter.

Mr. Joseph Rayner, the veteran steeplekeeper of St. Andrew's, Holborn, celebrated his 91st birthday on New Year's Day. A peal in his honour was rung on the previous evening. Mr. Rayner is still able to follow his occupation of a clockmaker.

The College Youths have had a gratifying reply from the Lord Mayor of London's secretary (Sir William Soulsby) in response to their letter of appreciation of the Corporation's strong action in opposing the threatened destruction of the City churches.

The first twelve-bell peal at Cirencester was Grandsire Cinques, rung by College Youths on January 7th, 1767. Only St. Bride's Church, Fleet Street, had a peal of twelve bells when the ring at Cirencester was increased to that number.

John Cox composed and conducted the first peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, rung in London eighty-one years ago to-day. It was rung at Southwark.

Enos Rednap, who rang in a peal in 1749, took part in 6,160 Bob Major at Twickenham on January 8th, 1769.

A peal of Stedman Cinques ought to be rung at Southwark by the College Youths next Monday, for exactly ninety years ago that day the first peal in the method on the bells was rung by the Junior Society. 'It had been for many years the wish to compose and call a peal in this method on the twelve bells, but the honour remained for the undermentioned persons, who in 4 hours and 17 minutes brought their labours to a conclusion.' Then follow the names, which included that of Edward Lansdell, who rang the eleventh, and who is remembered by metropolitan ringers still living. John Cox composed and conducted the peal.

It is just a year ago last Wednesday that the Exercise 'lost' Coventry bells.

The harp which Mr. E. A. Young is advertising for sale in another column is the one he used at the College Youths' dinner, when he accompanied the handbell solos given by Mrs. Hughes. Since he broke his ankle, Mr. Young has had to get a lighter instrument for greater convenience and comfort in carrying.

Mr. F. Jackson, of Bramley, near Leeds, who writes that he is delighted with his success in winning the late Mr. Shade's handbells, is a member of the St. Peter's company, Bramley. He took up ringing three years ago.

A unique attempt for a peal of Grandsire Caters was made at Stafford on Boxing Day. Five fathers and five sons started for a peal, which unfortunately came to grief after 1 hour and 14 minutes' good ringing. The five sons are only sons, and the whole of the band are Staffordshire sons.

LONGEST 'SPliced' PEAL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—With reference to Mr. F. Warrington's enquiry re the longest 'spliced' peal, I think I claim the record, having conducted 9,120 Oxford and Kent Treble Bob Major (the extent of the 'Ilkeston' variation) at Loughborough Bell Foundry on February 16th, 1924.

The peal Mr. Warrington mentions was actually two distinct peals rung continuously, and not spliced, each coming into rounds at the end, similar to ringing so many 720's of Minor. A 'spliced' peal must have two or more methods 'blended' together, starting from rounds and finishing at rounds, without repetition of rows.—Yours truly,

BERNARD MORRIS.

24, Coventry Street, Leicester.

NON-CONDUCTED PEALS.

A non-conducted peal of Stedman Cinques was rung on handbells at Birmingham last week, but owing to a misunderstanding between the referees who should have been present, neither attended, and the band started for the peal without them, and it was accomplished without the bobs being called.

The band fully realise that the procedure is 'out of course,' and therefore do not make any claim to the peal as a 'silent' one, but the names of the men concerned are a guarantee of the peal. The first attempt was made for it at Old Hill on December 18th, and failed after 1 hour 25 minutes.

On the previous night, two of the ringers, Messrs. G. F. Swann and M. J. Morris, had taken part in a 'silent' peal of Grandsire Triples.

'THE DAY OF REST.'

Dear Sir,—The lines 'The day is over,' etc., published in last week's issue of 'The Ringing World,' signed W. H. F., are entitled 'The Day of Rest,' and the words and music are by 'Claribel.'—Yours truly,

E. HANCOX.

DEATH OF CANON T. L. PAPILLON.

CLOSE OF A LONG AND ACTIVE LIFE.

The Exercise, and particularly the older members, will regret to learn of the death of the Rev. Canon Thomas Leslie Papillon, M.A., formerly for 25 years Vicar of Writtle, Essex, and hon. secretary of the Essex Association. Canon Papillon had reached the advanced age of 85 years, and passed away on December 28th at his residence, 41, Brittany Road, St. Leonard's, Sussex.

In a long life of many-sided activities, Canon Papillon found time to render valuable assistance to the art of ringing at the period when the Exercise was in the throes of that effort of belfry reform which eventually led to raising the status of the ringers and to the progress of recent years. Canon Papillon has written in 'The Ringing World,' to which, before his eyesight failed him, he was a frequent correspondent, of his early experiences, and his reminiscences, published a few years ago, were exceedingly interesting reading. After several years as secretary of the Essex Association in its early days, he served for a time as Master, and almost to the very last he maintained his interest in the art. For many years he was an honorary member of the Central Council, and only severed his connection with it when advancing years made it impossible for him any longer to attend the meetings.

Canon Papillon learnt his ringing at New College, under the tuition of Mr. Joseph Field, a capable instructor and a man of the highest character. This was just before he entered upon his duties as Vicar of Writtle in 1884, and, while the Canon was never a great peal ringer, having, in fact, rung comparatively very few five thousands, he devoted his energies to securing belfry reform by improving the status of ringers and securing the regular ringing of church bells for Sunday services. He edited the late Rev. F. E. Robinson's peal-ringing record, 'Among the Bells.'

Canon Papillon had had a brilliant career. Born on April 12th, 1841, the son of the Rev. John Papillon, a former Rector of Lexden, he was educated at Marlborough College, and went up to Balliol College, Oxford, in 1860. There his successes included the following: Hertford Latin Scholarship and 1st Class Classical Moderations, 1862; Chancellor Prize for Latin Verse ('Africa Explorata'), 1863; and 1st Class Final Classical School, 1864. Sharing fully in the college life, he rowed in the Tropic and the Eight. He was a Fellow of Merton College from 1865 to 1869, and during that period he was ordained by the late Bishop Wilberforce, of Oxford, as deacon in 1867 and priest in 1868. In 1870, he was invited to New College as Fellow and Tutor, and he resided there till 1884, being also Dean of the college. During part of that time he served as Junior Bursar of the college, and as Examiner in the Classical Honour School of Moderations and for University Scholarships. While resident at Oxford, he published a 'Manual of Comparative Philology' and a Commentary on 'Virgil,' both for the Clarendon Press. He was also Oxford Preacher at the Chapel Royal—an office now abolished.

In 1884, Canon Papillon accepted the New College benefice (or 'chaplaincy') of Writtle, and left Oxford, but continued for a time to act as Examiner for the University for the Oxford and Cambridge Schools Examination Board, for the Civil Service Commissioners, and for the Victoria University at Manchester (1892-4); and he was also an Examiner in Latin for the University of Leeds. During the early years of his residence at Writtle he worked single-handed, and this left him with very little of the literary leisure generally associated with a country parsonage. He was, however, a contributor to the 'Times,' chiefly of leading articles, and the 'Guardian,' upon educational subjects, and he contributed an article on 'Campanology' to the supplemental volumes of the 'Encyclopædia Britannica.' When his regular connection with the 'Times' ceased, he continued to write signed letters on a variety of subjects. Among the last of these were two, entitled 'On Growing Old' and 'Death and the Hereafter,' in 1924.

While at Writtle, Canon Papillon took an active part in local educational affairs, and served upon a number of educational bodies, including the Essex Education Committee, upon which he sat as the nominee of the University of Oxford. Another instance of his educational activities was his selection as one of the Mosely Commissioners who went out to America in 1903 to inquire into the American educational systems. For many years he served as one of the diocesan examiners of pupil teachers in religious knowledge, and also as a member of the Readers' Board instituted by the late Bishop of St. Albans.

In 1907, he was appointed Hon. Canon of St. Albans, and when he resigned the incumbency of Writtle in 1909 he went to live at St. Albans, but later took up his residence at St. Leonard's. On leaving Writtle, Canon Papillon was presented with a hand-made silver tray and spirit kettle on stand as a farewell gift from the parishioners. The Essex Association of Change Ringers presented him with an oak writing table, a silver inkstand, and an illuminated address.

A feature of Canon Papillon's work at Writtle was that his influence was always exercised on the side of toleration in ecclesiastical matters. While a loyal supporter of the Anglican Church, he never forfeited the esteem of other denominations in his parish. During his vicariate, Writtle Church was restored and beautified by a number of gifts from parishioners, and the services were brightened by the introduction of good singing and music.

In 1871, Canon Papillon married Miss Edith Mary Dalton, a daughter of the Rev. C. B. Dalton, Rector of Lambeth and afterwards Vicar

NEW STEPS TO PROGRESS.

THE COLLECTION OF PLAIN MAJOR METHODS.

Every ringer ought to put himself in possession of the Central Council's new publication, the 'Collection of Plain Major and Cater Methods,' to which we referred in our leading article a fortnight ago. To the student, it is enlightening and instructive, to the ringer who has a soul for anything beyond Plain Bob it is a book which will enable him, if he can get his hand like-minded, to find a wide range of methods that can be reached by easy and, one is almost led to say, imperceptible steps, from the simplest to the complex. Too long, ringers have been content to travel in a rut. It has not been entirely their fault, but whatever the cause there is no reason why, in the future, any band whose scope has been limited hitherto to Bob Major should not go on, and rapidly, to the achievement of a great variety of interesting methods: and even the 'elite' of the Exercise will find presented to them methods which will be well worth their attention, for some of the figures which are given show that, although the treble may have a plain hunt, the working bells have a complicated path which places the methods almost, if not quite, on the level of the simpler Surprise methods.

The committee who have been responsible for the publication (the Rev. H. Law James and Messrs. E. H. Lewis and J. A. Trollope) have presented to the Exercise a selection from a collection of over 800 plain Major methods, and they have done their work systematically and well. They have built the collection up in groups, each based upon what they term a 'key' method, and in this way methods with similar characteristics are brought together.

No fewer than 66 Major methods with one hunt (the treble) are given, and half a dozen with two hunts. The 'Little' methods comprise a group of eleven, and seven Cater methods are also added to the collection. In every case the manner of making bobs and singles is shown, and tables of lead ends and course ends will enable the enterprising conductor to prick out his own touches. Much attention has been devoted to peal compositions, and no less than 42 special compositions are printed, as well as instructions for adapting existing peals to the various methods.

Undoubtedly, the publication is one of the most carefully prepared and arranged productions that the Exercise has ever had placed before it, and we shall be surprised if the limited edition which has been printed is not quickly sold out. Even if a ringer is not in a position to put into practice the methods which are given, he cannot afford to be without the collection, if only as a means of advancing his knowledge of our art.

The collection is published at 1s. 9d., post free, and can be obtained from the Council's hon. Librarian, the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, Broadlands, Caversham, Reading.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting was held at Llandaff on Boxing Day, when a good number attended from both dioceses. Service was held in the Cathedral, the Dean officiating. His address was an excellent one, and listened to with the greatest interest. He quoted several stories of ringers of his early days.

The business meeting followed in the Prebendal House, the Dean acting as chairman. Arising out of the minutes, a long discussion followed on the question of presenting certificates to new members after ringing their first 120 changes. One proposition followed another, but was defeated, and it was eventually agreed that no change take place, but that the association continue as had been done hitherto.

Restorations and augmentations done during the year were reported on, and instructors' reports were received.

A number of new members were elected, including diocesan, out-diocesan and life.

The choice of Master for 1927 fell upon Mr. Tom Ford.—The auditors and hon. secretary were re-elected and thanked for their services, and the two representatives to the Central Council chosen were Mr. W. Bolton and Mr. J. W. Jones.

At the close of the meeting, the Dean invited all present to join him, and it was found an excellent meat tea was in readiness, which was immensely enjoyed and appreciated.

The bells of both Llandaff and Cardiff were available before and after the meeting, which will rank as one of the best in the annals of the association.

of Highgate. They had three children—two daughters, who died young, and a son, who showed great promise, but died after a few months' residence as a scholar of New College. Mrs. Papillon died in 1908. The Canon married Miss Laura Dickson, fourth daughter of the late Mr. Samuel Dickson, of Writtle, in April, 1909.

The funeral took place at Crowhurst Church, Sussex, on Saturday.

SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE.

BY W. TAYLOR.

Before any opinion can be formed as to which is the correct extension of any method, it is necessary to understand thoroughly the construction of the method; even then, it will often be found that two or more ways of extension claim our attention. To take an example which is outside of ringing, we can extend (or increase the area) of a rectangle by adding to its length, or, alternatively, we can add to the breadth. These two fix on to a feature and extend that feature instead of extending the whole. To extend the rectangle in every one of its properties, we must increase the length and breadth proportionately, that is to say, geometrically. The Rev. H. Law James' extension of Superlative increases the area of the rectangle by adding to its length. The supreme test of the correctness of an extension is that its diagram must correspond to that of the original. The Rev. H. L. James' extension fails in this test.

Superlative Surprise Major has the bells in original coursing order at the half-lead end. The best way of finding the reason for this is to examine the effects of the various shunts on the coursing order of the bells. In the following, a 'shunt' is any operation which alters the coursing order of any of the bells. The letters C.O. will be used to denote coursing order.

First, there is the 'two-bell shunt,' hereafter called a court shunt. The court shunt is made by one of two bells, which are coursing one another, making a place on each side of the other. Its effect is to make the two bells concerned exchange places in C.O. No matter which pair of bells make the shunt, the C.O. of all the other bells is unaltered. Take the go-off in Superlative or Cambridge as example:

...6.4... 64

Where it is clear that 4 and 6 have exchanged places in C.O.

An 'extreme' is a particular case of the court shunt.

The bells can be restored to original C.O. by another court shunt on the same pair of bells. In Cambridge Surprise, this second court shunt takes place in the second half-lead: this time 6 is the place-making bell, and 4 runs through. In Cambridge Major, four other pairs of bells, namely, 2-6, 8-7, 4-7 and 8-5 court shunt in the first half-lead, and each pair is restored to original C.O. by a court shunt on the same pair of bells in the second half-lead. The only other shunts in Cambridge are the two extremes with the treble. Since all the others are neutralised, these two fix the lead-end at 15738264.

If Cambridge on all numbers is examined, it will be found that it always consists of a series of court shunts in the half-lead, each corresponding to the Major, and each of which is neutralised in the second half-lead as in Major. The lead-end depends on the two extremes with treble always, and is 1573.....n. These facts, taken in conjunction with the diagram, prove that the recognised extensions of Cambridge are correct. No other proof is necessary.

Now look at Yorkshire Surprise; this consists of two court shunts above the treble, one on 4-6 and the other on 8-7. Each of these is neutralised by another court shunt, below the treble, on the same pairs of bells and in the half-lead; the half-lead end is therefore in plain C.O. and is 86745231. The Royal makes three pairs of bells court shunt above the treble, namely, 4-6, 8-0, 9-7, each of which is, in turn, neutralised by another court shunt under the treble and in the half-lead, again accounting for the half-lead end being in plain C.O. The lead ends are produced as in Cambridge. These facts, taken in conjunction with the diagram, prove that the Royal is the correct extension.

In Superlative Major, another type of shunt is used, namely, a three-bell or bob shunt, wherein any three bells which are coursing one another take part. The bob shunt is made by one of the three making 3rd's place above the other two, or, the last place but two under them. Its effect is to cause the place-making bell to jump over the other two in C.O. For example:

...5.78 C.O.
...587 875 Where it is clear that 5 jumps over 7 and
...578 587 8 in C.O.
...5.87

As in the case of the court shunt, all the other bells are undisturbed in C.O. The bob shunt may be made internally as a court shunt (see Double Norwich Caters). A bob shunt may be neutralized by making two more bob shunts of the same sort, on the same three bells, each bell making the place in turn, thus:

...3.56 C.O.
...365-653 3 makes Bob shunt and passes
...356-365 over 5 and 6 in C.O.

...653-536 6 makes Bob shunt and passes over 3 and 5 in C.O.
...635-653 thus completing the cycle and restoring original C.O.

Three bobs wrong or three bobs home cause three bells to work together in exactly the same way. The above is in fact, a 'Q set' in its simplest form. The bob shunt may be neutralized also by means of two court shunts which make the place-making bell court shunt with each of the other two bells in turn, original C.O. being again restored in a cycle of three steps. For example, look at the work of 124 in Superlative:

4 makes a Bob shunt and passes over 2 and 1 in C.O.

4 makes a Court shunt (and dodge) with Treble and exchanges with it in C.O.

4 makes a Court shunt (and dodge) with 2 and exchanges with it in C.O. thus restoring original C.O.

This may be described as a Q set broken. The cycle may be commenced at any step; more or less plain hunting can be introduced between the steps.

Superlative Surprise Major consists entirely of three-step cycles similar to the example on 124: in some, there is no dodging between the places of the court shunt. 135 work exactly as 124, but in the reverse order. In Superlative Surprise similar reciprocal cycles occur on 246 and 367, the bob shunt being the middle step of the cycle in both. A further reciprocal pair is 468 and 578, the bob shunt being the last step and first step respectively. The student will have no difficulty in finding the cycles if he proceeds as in the 124 example above.

Thus we see in the half-lead of Superlative Major, six cycles, each of three steps containing one bob shunt and two court shunts, having the bells coursing originally and finally in the same order, each cycle complete in itself and independent of the others. The six cycles make up the whole of the work in the half-lead and explain fully why the half-lead end is 86745231. Since they consist of three reciprocal pairs of broken Q sets, they also probably explain why there are three false course ends. The lead-end is produced as in Cambridge by the two residual extremes with the Treble.

It should now be quite clear that the true extensions of Superlative must consist entirely of the three step cycles, without addition to the number of steps or any other alteration; it is quite certain that such a method on a higher number will pass the test of the diagram. Superlative, unlike Bristol or Double Norwich, has not got any internal court shunts with the treble to complicate matters and give us difficulty in deciding which is the correct lead-end to aim at. The issue is clear, the two extremes with the treble fix the lead-end definitely at 1573.....n on all numbers.

NEWCASTLE CATHEDRAL GUILD.

SUPPER AND PRESENTATION.

The ringing members of the above indulged themselves in a little informal supper on December 14th at the Princess Restaurant, and a real jovial happy affair it proved to be. The new secretary, Mr. Payne, took the arrangements in hand and not only saw that the menu was 'beyond compare,' but saw to the presence of several gentlemen to entertain the company with joke and song. After the singing of the 'Froth-blowers Anthem' with due solemnity, the chairman (Mr. C. L. Routledge), on behalf of the whole of the members of the Guild, presented Mr. E. E. Ferry with a suit case as a token of their high esteem and of their high appreciation of the work he had put in as the secretary of the Guild since its inception, over 18 years. Mr. Routledge also complimented him on the progress of the young hand at Durham Cathedral. Though the association had been in existence for 50 years, it was now only through his efforts that change ringing had got a firm hold at this important centre of the work of the church.

Mr. Ferry, who had been taken completely by surprise, feelingly responded, and assured those present of his continued interest in the Guild and its progress.

In the course of the evening, the secretary of the Yorkshire Association (Mr. Percy Johnson) put in an appearance, much to the delight of all, and entertained the company with a delightfully humorous speech.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Payne for his good offices in the matter of the night's fun, and to the artistes, closed a very pleasant informal 'wee Scotch night.'

VARIATIONS OF THURSTANS PEAL

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Cave is a little 'out of tune' in the statements in his letter in your issue of December 24th, as he says that the variations of Brooks and Haley, on the six single plan, to his knowledge had neither been published nor rung. I can safely say that both have been rung, the former years ago, and again quite recently, and the latter only once to my knowledge. How Mr. Washbrook or anyone in his stead can claim an arrangement simply because it contains six singles, is a mystery to me, yet I think this is what Mr. Cave's letter signifies. If Thurstans had the same monopoly as Washbrook, I take it there would be no variations whatever, with the exceptions of Brooks and Haley's, as, although they are built around the three-course plan, they differ otherwise from the original setting. If an extra, an omit, or a single, rearranged in the original constitutes a variation, they why is not Mr. Dexter's a variation, as it differs both from the original and the one in question? Until one can tell me that a rearrangement, no matter how small, is not a variation, I cannot feel satisfied.—Yours truly,

E. W. TIPLER.

FIVE-PART AND FOUR-PART COMPARISONS.

Dear Sir,—I am sorry to trouble you again, but Mr. Hunt, in trotting up a 5-part with 10 singles to confound my remarks on reducing singles to a minimum, gives us a real and sorry example of his excitement to prove me wrong. In a most humble and respectful manner, I ask, 'Does he possess a regular 5-part with less than 10 singles, of anyone's from Thurstans' time to the present day?'

Now, Sir, if Mr. Hunt will send to me a touch of 1,008 Stedman Triples which will, on repeating four times, give a true 5,040 with less than 10 singles in the whole 5,040, then by return of post he will receive from me as a new year's gift a true 5,040 with no singles at all.—Yours truly,

F. H. DEXTER.

P.S.—I must admit that to me there is a certain amount of foginess as to where connection between Thurstans' 5-parts and my claim to a variation of the 4-part comes in. What about a week-end at Stuart Street? Mr. Hunt and myself could then arrive at some solution to this knotty problem.—F.H.D.

WHAT MR. WASHBROOK CALLED.

Dear Sir,—Just another few lines to explain why I am interested in 'Washbrook's' peal of Stedman Triples. On Thursday, December 18th, 1918, I rang my first peal with Mr. Washbrook. He very kindly asked me to call, but I declined, and he called the very peal that Mr. Dexter claims as his variation of Thurstans'. I have the report before me as I write, and underneath it says: 'Composed and conducted by J. W. Washbrook.' Thurstans' is not even mentioned!—Yours,

W. A. CAVE.

MR. SHIRLEY BURTON'S CENTURY.

The second M.C.A. ringer to have the peculiarity of scoring 100 peals and conducting just one Surprise peal, was Shirley Burton, of Leicester, who, with the Cambridge Major at Loughborough Bell Foundry on December 31st (which he conducted), completed his century as follows:

Cambridge Surprise Maximus, 1; Cambridge Surprise Royal, 16; Cambridge Surprise Major, 23 (conducted 1); New Cambridge Surprise Royal, 1; New Cambridge Surprise Major, 1; London Surprise Major, 12; Bristol Surprise Major, 6; Superlative Surprise Major, 12; Real Superlative Surprise Major, 1 (10,400); Yorkshire Surprise Major, 1; Princess Mary Surprise Royal, 1; Leicester Surprise Royal, 1; Pudsey Surprise Royal, 1; Kent Treble Bob Maximus, 1; Kent Treble Bob Major, 1; Double Norwich C.B. Major, 1; Stedman Cinques, 2; Stedman Caters, 4; Stedman Triples, 10; Grandsire Caters, 1; Grandsire Triples 2; Grandsire Doubles, 1; total, 100.

Rung in 38 towers and nine counties, for nine associations, with 159 ringers. Average points per peal, 34.5.

MR. OWEN H. GILES' 100 PEALS.

Bob Minor, 1; Grandsire Triples, 7; Stedman Triples, 27; Caters, 2; Bob Major, 16; Kent Treble Bob Major, 12; Double Norwich Major, 17; Superlative Surprise Major, 7; Cambridge, 9; London (Treble), 2; total, 100.

IPSWICH RINGERS VISIT CAMBRIDGE.

On Boxing Day last, five members of the St. Mary-le-Tower Society visited Cambridge, and were joined by others from Saffron Walden and local members to attempt the first peal on twelve bells at Great St. Mary's, Cambridge, for the Ely Diocesan Association. The band met one short for Maximus, and a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal was commenced, which unfortunately had to be brought round after ringing six courses, owing to the bad 'go' of the tenor, to the great disappointment of all. The ringing was particularly good up to the time the failure became apparent. The band stood as follows: C. A. Catchpole 1, R. H. Brundle 2, C. Mee 3, L. Pitstow 4, E. G. Hibbins 5, P. May 6, T. R. Dennis 7, A. G. Rivers 8, F. Dench (conductor) 9, F. J. Tillet 10. The bells were rehung in 1911 by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., and altogether about nine or ten peals have been rung on the bells since the rehanging.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

DEVIZES BRANCH ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the above branch was held at Devizes on Saturday, and was largely attended. Ringing commenced shortly after 2 p.m., the towers of St. John's (eight bells), St. Mary's (six) and St. James', Southbrook (6) being available, and were kept going in various methods till 4.30 p.m.

Service was held in St. John's Church, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. A. H. T. Clarke, M.A., the lesson being read by the chairman of the branch, Mr. C. D. Heginbotham.

Tea followed in the Parish Room, at which over 80 were present, including the Rector of Devizes, Rev. H. E. Tilney-Bassett, M.A. (Rector of Beechingstoke), Rev. Tudor Jeffreys (Vicar of Southbrook), Miss Mogg (Bishops Cannings), Mr. and Mrs. H. Brownlee West (Devizes), and others.

At the business meeting the Chairman (Mr. C. D. Heginbotham) first wished all present a happy new year. He stated that during the past year he had visited the 34 towers in the branch, and rung in 32 towers. At the other towers the bells are at present unringable, but steps were being taken to put All Cannings bells in repair, and something had been said about putting South Wexall bells in order, both of which he hoped would soon be done. He thanked all concerned for the very courteous manner in which he had been received.

The Secretary (Mr. F. Green) reported the receipt of a cheque for £1 9s. from the Parochial Church Council of St. James', Bratton, towards the funds of the branch.

The balance sheet was presented, and showed a balance in hand of over £10. Twelve meetings had been held during the year. The number of ringing members was 253, an increase of 12, and 15 honorary members.

Mr. C. D. Heginbotham was re-elected chairman, and Mr. F. Green was re-elected secretary and treasurer, both being thanked for their past services. Mr. B. Cook was elected vice-chairman, Mr. S. Hillier was appointed Ringing Master and inspector of bellfries, and Mr. Jesse Francis was appointed Assistant Ringing Master.

£2 2s. was voted from the branch funds towards the restoration of the bells at All Cannings, and an honorarium of £5 was voted to the secretary (Mr. F. Green).

Great regret was expressed at the absence of the Rev. Canon Mogg on account of ill-health and advanced age. It was announced that he was shortly resigning, at which great regret was expressed, as Canon Mogg had always welcomed any ringers who went to Bishop Cannings. Several new members were elected.

Ringers present included Mr. J. T. Dyke (secretary, Bath and Wells Association), Mr. C. Gardener (Swindon), and representatives from Devizes, St. John's and St. Mary's, St. James', Southbrook, Bishop Cannings, Beechingstoke, Trowbridge, Bath, Holt, Bratton, Westbury, Chippenham, Broomham, Hilperton, Urchfont, Chilton, All Cannings, Bradford-on-Avon, Melksham, Netheravon and Rowle. Ringing was continued in the evening, when touches of Grandsire, Stedman, Double Norwich and other methods were rung.

The usual votes of thanks were passed, for the use of the bells, to the Rector for conducting the services, to the organist, and to those who prepared the tea.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD.

TRURO BRANCH MEETING AT KENWYN.

A very successful quarterly meeting of the above was held at Kenwyn Church, Truro, on Saturday last, when about 50 members represented the following towers: Truro Cathedral, Kea, Gwulval, Illogan, Gwennap, St. Gluvias', St. Agnes', Redruth, and St. Newlyn East. The Vicar (the Rev. F. Thomas) conducted the service and gave a short address. The Rev. Burgess and the Rev. W. H. Browne (St. Agnes'), were also present. Mr. Oxland, of Illogan, presided at the organ.

The Vicar very kindly provided tea, for which he was heartily thanked.

The eight bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening by the various bands to Grandsire Doubles and rounds. A combined band of Gwulval, Kea, Kenwyn and Cathedral ringers brought round several touches of Grandsire Triples under the conductorship of Mr. H. G. Viles, of Newquay.

In the evening, the fine ring of ten at the Cathedral were available, and came in for a considerable amount of attention. Most of the ringers from the six-bell towers wished to try their skill on ten, and most of them soon got into the pace and rang rounds quite well. Several touches of Grandsire Triples were then brought round on the hack eight, one touch of 336 being particularly well struck by: E. Thomas (Kenwyn) 1, W. Wood (Gulval) 2, J. Wood (Gulval) 3, P. Hitchens (Gulval) 4, W. H. Southard (conductor) (Cathedral) 5, P. A. Harfoot (Kea) 6, A. S. Roberts (Cathedral) 7, H. G. Viles (Newquay) 8.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Illogan in March.

This was the first time that the Gwennap and Illogan bands had attended a quarterly meeting, as they have only lately become affiliated to the Guild.

The diocesan Ringing Master, Dr. Symons, was, unfortunately, unable to attend through sickness.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

An entirely new feature in connection with a festive gathering of ringers was introduced into the proceedings at Bristol on Saturday, when the United Guilds' annual dinner brought together a large company of those interested in the art. At the College Youths' dinner in November the suggestion was made by Mr. Albert Walker, of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, that advantage might profitably be taken of such occasions, when representative ringers from a wide area assemble, to hold an informal conference on some subject of interest to the Exercise. This idea was taken up by the Bristol Guilds, and the experiment was certainly an interesting one. Saturday's meeting resolved itself into a twenty-minutes' discussion on the important question of maintaining the strength of the Exercise, by bringing in recruits to fill the gaps as they arise. The subject is a vital one to the future of ringing, and it was well worthy of being the matter for debate at the inaugural conference.

In the brief time that was available in the course of a crowded afternoon, several useful views were elicited from men of long, practical experience. No resolutions were passed, even to embody the views put forward—that was not the intention of the conference, but some good should come of it if only ringers at their own meetings in their own districts will continue the discussions and consider means of putting into effect some of the suggestions made at Bristol.

The point that stands out most prominently from the conference is that there is no royal road to filling up the ranks. Whatever course is pursued, success can only be achieved by steady plodding, constant effort in face of frequent disappointment, and some sacrifice of time and energy on the part of those able to instruct. One of the most practical of all the suggestions, and one which has met with success, was that put forward by Mr. J. W. Jones, the hon. secretary of Llandaff and Monmouth Association. At his own church he is never without a pupil learning to handle a bell, and as fast as one passes into the ranks of those competent to ring—if only rounds—for Sunday services, another is found to start at the beginning; and so the process goes continually on. It involves an expenditure of time and patience on the part of someone; but it is obviously a successful course of action in the case of the church at Newport. Unquestionably the matter is one which presents numerous difficulties, and various speakers voiced some of the obstacles which are met with, and which are only too well known to those who do the spade work. But help in overcoming the difficulties may be found in a general discussion of the problems, and we hope that consideration of the subject will be freely taken up at ringers' meetings, so that practical good may grow out of the seed which this first informal conference at Bristol has planted.

KING'S NORTON BELLS.RINGERS' GATHERING.

A very enthusiastic gathering of ringers took place on New Year's Day at King's Norton, at the invitation of the Ringing Master, Mr. F. B. Yates. The bells, which have recently been augmented to a ring of ten by the addition of two trebles, the gift of the Ringing Master, attracted a large company of ringers, visitors attending from several towers in the Midland counties. Ringing commenced early in the afternoon, and was continued after tea, opportunities being given to all to get a pull.

A substantial meat tea was provided by Mr. Yates, and took place in the ancient school in the churchyard.—At the conclusion, Mr. A. E. Parsons, of Old Hill, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Yates for his kindness to the ringers on that occasion, and congratulated him on his magnificent gift to King's Norton.—This was seconded by Mr. T. E. Reeves, of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, and carried with acclamation.

Mr. Yates, in reply, expressed the pleasure it gave him to carry out his project and also to meet the ringers that afternoon.

Mr. Albert Walker, of St. Martin's Guild, thanked the ladies, Mesdames Yates, Moore, Laffin, Ball, Williams, and Webb (all wives of ringers) for their valuable help with the tea arrangements.

Mr. J. F. Smallwood, of Derby, thanked the Vicar, the Rev. T. S. Dunn, for his kindness in allowing the use of the bells and for the interest he took in promoting bell ringing in King's Norton.—The Vicar, in reply, expressed the pleasure it gave him to be associated with and to encourage the King's Norton ringers.

All the visitors were loud in their praises of the work which Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, have accomplished in the tower.

DEVON GUILD.

The annual meeting of the S.W. District Branch of the Devon Guild was held at Shaugh Prior, on Saturday, January 8th, presided over by the Rev. E. S. Powell and preceded by a service in church conducted by the Rev. A. Alexander.

The secretary's report was unanimously adopted. The year 1926 had been, he said, the most successful of the branch. Each band in union was able to report considerable progress, and the result of the meetings at Stoke Damerel was that four 720's of Cambridge Surprise and one of London had been accomplished.

The chairman and secretary were unanimously re-elected and thanked for their past services.

The next meeting of the branch will be held at Aveton Gifford, on Saturday, April 23rd.

STANMORE GUILD'S ANNUAL DINNER.PRESENTATIONS TO INSTRUCTORS.

The annual dinner of the Stanmore Guild was held on Saturday, January 1st, at the Abercorn Arms, Stanmore. The Rector (Rev. W. A. Hewitt) presided, and was supported by Messrs. G. Hughes (Ringing Master), F. Hill (hon. secretary), C. T. Coles (hon. secretary, Middlesex County Association), F. Edwards (Bushey), and a company consisting of some 25 ringers and friends. The various courses of the dinner having been successfully 'brought round,' the Rector proposed the loyal toast, which was drunk with musical honours.

The toast of 'The Rector and Churchwardens' was proposed by Mr. G. Hughes, who spoke of the success of the Stanmore Guild, mentioning that they were now negotiating the Stedman stage.—The Rector, in his reply, apologised for the absence of the churchwarden, and thanked the ringers for their loyal services to the church.

Mr. F. Hill proposed the toast of 'Our Guests,' coupling with it the names of Messrs. Coles, Edwards and Milner, and including the Isleworth ringers who were present, and the local friends who had joined them.

The Rector then performed the very pleasant ceremony of making presentations to Messrs. Edwards and Milner on behalf of the Stanmore ringers, in token of their services as instructors during the past year.

Mr. G. T. Coles first responded to the toast, thanking Mr. Hill, on behalf of the visitors, for his very kind words about them. He congratulated the local ringers on their progress, and Messrs. Edwards and Milner on having brought about such a satisfactory state of affairs. He warned them not to fall into the error made by so many bands, that of not looking to the future. It was always necessary to bring in and teach young ringers, and a mistake to wait until the actual shortage of ringers took place.

Mr. Edwards next responded, thanking the Stanmore ringers for their kind gift to him. It had been a great pleasure to him, he said, to do what he had done, and he had been amply repaid by the knowledge that some progress had been made.—Mr. Milner also returned thanks for the gift to him, and expressed the hope that the present excellent state of affairs would continue.

During the evening, the company were entertained with songs by Messrs. Lawford, Withers, and G. Hughes, sen., with conjuring tricks by Mr. Schofield, and with various selections on the handbells by Messrs. Goddard, Milner, and Tricker, from Isleworth, breaking-up time coming all too soon.

BELL ROPES. MUFFLES. &c

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. A. Paddon Smith, the genial hon. secretary of St. Martin's Guild for the diocese of Birmingham, sails to-day for India on a business trip, and will be absent from England for about three months. He will miss the Johnson dinner, which he has attended for 28 consecutive years.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Major rung on December 4th last at St. John-de-Sepulchre, Norwich, should have been credited to the Norfolk Guild.

Exactly two hundred years ago to-day the first peal of Double Bob Major was rung. This was achieved by the College Youths at St. Dunstan's Church, Fleet Street.

James Barham, the famous old ringer of Leeds, Kent, died at the age of 93 years on January 14th, 1918.

The first peal of Grandsire Cinques, was rung at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, on January 19th, 1724.

The Norwich Scholars, who rang 6,720 Norwich Court Bob at St. Michael's, Coslany, on January 15th, 1771, rang the first peal of Double Norwich Maximus at St. Peter Mancroft on January 20th, 1817.

The number of complete 720's rung during the year 1926, at Little Munden, Herts, was 116 in 17 methods, and the band have not missed ringing for both Sunday services throughout the year. This is a record number of 720's on the bells.

The Herts Association meeting, which was to have been held at Hemel Hempstead to-morrow, has been cancelled.

THE LONG PEAL ATTEMPT. SUCCESS STILL ELUDES RINGERS.

Once again success has eluded the band that has been seeking to ring a new record length of London Surprise Major at Warham, Sussex. The fourth attempt, made last Saturday, came to an end through a change course after three and a half hours' good ringing.

One of the band, who had sprained his foot a week earlier, arrived a bit late through fog and cold, and a start was not made, therefore, until 11.10 a.m., by which times Messrs. K. Hart (Brighton) and A. Dean (Leatherhead) had arrived to listen to the ringing. When the bells had been going for 3½ hours, one of the safest of the band dropped in a 'shift' and 'stand' was called within three leads, to the surprise of the listeners outside.

Later, Messrs. A. W. and C. T. Coles, and E. F. Pike, of London, arrived, and touches in various methods from Grandsire Triples to Bristol Surprise were rung.

A PEAL AT HEREFORD CATHEDRAL.

It has been the ambition of the Hereford ringers for some time past to ring a peal of Caters at the Cathedral. The first attempt was made on December 18th, when after 2 hours 20 minutes' good ringing a little man on a big bell missed his sally and failed to get the bell back in time and all was over.

The conductor immediately approached the Dean, who readily gave permission for an attempt on the 30th, and this met with success. The Dean himself struggled up to the ringing chamber on both occasions, and read the Office and wished the ringers the best of luck, saying that he should listen with great interest to hear the peal finish.

To ring a peal on these bells is a big job, owing to the wide circle and also the noise, as the ringing chamber is so close up to the bells that the sallies go round the wheels. In addition to this, the ringers have to stand amongst the timbers that carry the bell frame.

Great credit is due to all who took part in the peal, as the striking was throughout especially good and regular. The Dean wrote the conductor next day, congratulating all upon the peal, and also saying that the Dean and Chapter would have much pleasure in providing a suitable tablet.

PEAL POINTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was under the impression that 'points for peals' had been in disuse for the last year or so, but I noticed this method of rating peals was brought up in the report of Mr. Burton's 100 peals last week.

I think when such an unsatisfactory and extraneous method is not counted by the C.O. it should be dropped by the individual ringer.—Yours truly,

E. R. W.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

A practice was held at Curdridge on Saturday last by kind permission of the Vicar (Rev. W. Slater). The weather was not all that could be desired, but members were present from Southampton, North Stoneham, Portsmouth (St. Mary's and St. Thomas'), and Curdridge, and included the Master (Mr. G. Williams) and Messrs. W. T. Tucker (Winchester district secretary) and F. W. Rogers (Portsmouth district secretary). Various touches were rung during afternoon and evening in methods including Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise Major. The monthly 12-bell practice will be held at Winchester Cathedral on January 22nd, at 6 p.m., when it is hoped a good number will be present.

BRISTOL UNITED GUILDS.A CONFERENCE AND DINNER.

Visitors to Bristol for the United Guilds' sixth annual dinner on Saturday had a crowded afternoon and evening. Assembling at the University buildings, a magnificent and conspicuous pile at the top of one of Bristol's many hills, ringers with their wives and friends inspected the edifice, with its stately entrance hall, its handsome assembly room, its well equipped laboratories and lecture rooms, and then made their way to the lofty tower which dominates the building and is of striking architectural design and proportions. This handsome structure is 54 feet square and 200 feet high, and in it hangs 'Great George,' the fourth largest bell in this country. Cast by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, this bell, 8 ft. 4 in. in diameter, and weighing 9 tons 11½ cwt., is in E flat, as deep a note as Great Paul's, at St. Paul's Cathedral, which is more than 7 tons heavier. Its wonderful tone is a great sonorous boom, and in the tower, where the monstrous bell swings in a reinforced concrete frame, every blow seems to make one's own body vibrate. As many of the visitors as could climb to the belfry door, which is 132 feet above the street level, did so to see this splendid specimen of the founder's art rung. With a ponderous rope, three or four sturdy ringers gradually swung the bell to and fro until at length its prodigious, balanced clapper struck the sound bow, and a deep, pulsating boom went out over the city. For a minute or two the bell was rung, and was a source of great interest to the visitors, who afterwards descended to inspect other parts of the building and to join in a conference, the subject for discussion being, 'How can we obtain recruits to take our places hereafter and to fill the many present gaps?'

The Chairman of the United Guilds, Mr. H. J. Way, presided, and, after explaining the object of the conference, invited the views of those present. Mr. Albert Walker (Birmingham) suggested that the University Guilds might do even more than they did at present by getting young men who, after leaving university, would be able to use their influence to bring in young ringers. Mr. Uriah Braven (Bristol) advocated enlisting the sympathies of the elementary schoolmasters in order to get hold of boys about school-leaving age, and who generally made apt pupils.

Mr. J. W. Jones (Newport) said if by recruits they meant those who would ring the bells for Sunday services, then he had found an easy way of maintaining a supply. He always had someone learning to handle a bell, and as soon as he could ring rounds he was passed on to the change-ringing stage, and another beginner was found. At present he had three lads of twelve years of age who could ring rounds as well as he could, who were being trained, but he always had someone learning to handle a bell.

Mr. W. A. Cave (Bristol) pointed out that often a lad who had been in the choir until he was about 14 left because his voice was breaking. He urged these lads should be encouraged to take up ringing and so keep their connection with church work.

Mr. John Austin (Gloucester) thought the difficulty was not so much in getting recruits as in keeping them. They must make ringing more attractive, something which their beginners would take up and look forward to from week to week. Instead of sending out instructors, what they wanted in their country districts were organisers.

Mr. C. D. Heginbotham (Devizes) urged that old ringers should show more tact with young ringers than was often the case; that meetings should be less 'stodgy' and more sociable. Another speaker said that young ringers were often not given sufficient opportunities on practice night, and when it was in a tower where a band could ring higher methods they sometimes got little chance to make headway, and young people of to-day had not sufficient patience to endure that sort of thing.

Other speakers took part in the discussion, including Mr. F. E. Dawe (London), Mr. W. Knight (Bristol) and the chairman, who brought the debate to a close and thanked the speakers.

After 'ten and bun,' the large party proceeded to St. Stephen's Church, where service was held, and then they reassembled at the Royal Hotel, where over 160 sat down to an excellent repast, under the chairmanship of Mr. H. J. Way, the vice-chairman being Mr. John E. Jefferies. The guest of the evening was Canon H. B. Freeman, of the Cathedral, and among others present were the Rev. M. Paterson (St. Thomas'), Mrs. Way, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Pryce Taylor (Loughborough), Mr. E. Wilkins (Bristol), Miss N. G. Williams (Bath), Mr. and Mrs. Spurrier, Mr. F. E. Dawe, Mr. S. H. Wood (Almondsbury), Mr. C. F. Johnston (Croydon), Mr. S. F. Palmer (Sheffield), Mr. C. D. Heginbotham (Devizes), Mr. P. H. W. Cams (Bristol), Mr. and Mrs. A. Walker (Birmingham), Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hughes (London), Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking), Mr. A. Wright (Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Association), Mr. T. H. Beams (Bradpole, Dorset), Mr. J. W. Jones (Newport), Messrs. T. F. King, F. C. Rich and G. H. Harding (Bath), J. Austin, E. E. Davis and T. Baldwin (Gloucester), Miss E. Emm (Evercreech), Messrs. W. Farley (Box), J. R. Jones and J. H. Blackmore (Weston-super-Mare), and ringers from the towers of Bristol and surrounding district, many of whom brought their wives. The officers of the United Guilds who worked so hard for the success of the gathering, in addition to the chairman and vice-chairman, were: Messrs. P. C. Williams (hon. treasurer), E. Guise (hon. secretary), E. J. Brown, W. A. Cave, W. Knight, E. G. Trew and Miss E. Smith (stewards), who with the following constituted the Dinner Committee: Messrs. E. Abraham, U. Braven, J. A. Burford, J. Gould, P. Jewell, R. Seager and W. Stafford.

A feature of these gatherings is the musical programme, and once more Mr. W. S. Emery and Mr. E. Guise, who were responsible for this part of the arrangements, had succeeded in providing a diversified and thoroughly enjoyable bill of fare. Miss W. Rodd, who has a fine voice, sang, 'It is only a tiny garden' and 'Annie Laurie.' Mr. F. Griffin contributed 'O lovely night,' Miss M. Bishop rendered 'My heart is like a singing bird' and 'Pipes of Pan.' Miss R. Read played cello solos, and the songs of the Rev. J. D. Stancombe were much enjoyed. A feature of the vocal items was the songs of Mr. Jackson Potter, who appeared by permission of the Princes Theatre Management, and sang 'Onaway, awake,' and 'The Sergeant Major.' Mr. Marriott Edgar, also from Princes Theatre, greatly amused the audience by recounting in song and story his attempt to swim the Channel, and Mr. F. E. Lester gave a humorous recital. Handbells figured conspicuously in the programme, and Mrs. Hughes gave a delightful interlude. Her splendid rendering of 'Love's old sweet song' was followed by 'Land of hope and glory,' played with wonderful expression, and called forth uproarious applause. Mr. E. J. Brown's handbell party, which consisted of four ladies in addition to himself, also contributed some splendid selections, and familiar tunes were also admirably rung by the St. Thomas' handbell ringers. A very clever conjuring entertainment was given by Mr. R. Harris, who performed some wonderful tricks with cards.

The toast 'The King' was proposed by the Chairman, who also submitted 'The Church,' which was responded to by Canon H. B. Freeman. Mr. F. E. Dawe gave 'The Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association,' to which Mr. Albert Wright replied, and the Vice-Chairman proposed 'Kindred Guilds and Associations,' with which was coupled the names of Messrs. C. F. Johnston and A. Walker. The other toasts were 'The Ringing World,' proposed by Mr. J. W. Jones, and acknowledged by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, and 'The Artists,' submitted by Mr. C. D. Heginbotham and replied to by Mr. C. Read, the gathering concluding at a late hour with 'Auld Lang Syne.' A report of the speeches will appear in our next issue.

Many of the visitors, who stayed over Sunday, enjoyed ringing on several of the peals of bells in the city.

LONG SERVICE.

An interesting ceremony took place a short time ago at Bridgnorth, Salop. At the entrance to St. Leonard's Church a bronze tablet has been erected to record the ringing of a peal of Stedman Triples to commemorate the jubilee of Mr. J. Overton's service as head ringer, and a representative little company gathered for the unveiling ceremony. The Rector said a few words expressing the purpose of the gathering. St. Leonard's, he said, had been fortunate in the long tenure of its office holders in the past. Mr. John Sewell had been 59 years organist, Mr. H. Goodall 48 years vergers, and assistant vergers for many years previously, and they had set a standard of long and faithful service. Now their head ringer, after 50 years of office, was still with them and still able to do good work.

The tablet was then unveiled, after which some appropriate prayers were said, and a short 'touch' upon the bells brought the ceremony to an end. Three of Mr. Overton's sons and himself took part in the peal. The tablet was designed and executed by Mr. W. J. Fletcher, of Coalbrookdale, and was cast by the Coalbrookdale Co., Ltd.

LLANDUDNO RINGERS AT BANGOR.

On New Year's Day a small party of ringers from Llandudno paid a promised visit to Bangor. When they arrived at Bangor they found that they were one ringer short, but fortunately they found a good friend in Mr. J. H. Midwinter, who took a rope at a few minutes' notice. After ringing a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, Stedman Doubles and Grandsire Minor were rung. The ringers retired to the Westminster Cafe, where a good tea was enjoyed. On the homeward journey, it was decided to pay another visit in the near future. The quarter peal was rung by: J. H. Midwinter 1, R. L. Fairlie 2, A. E. Pegler 3, E. Lodge 4, S. Brown 5, A. Fairlie 6, W. T. Pegler (conductor) 7, T. Lowe 8.

MR. WASHBROOK'S PEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Please allow me to say a few words more on above question. I did not say it was possible to obtain a five-part peal with two singles. What I meant to convey was if our early composers had hit on the brainy idea that Mr. Washbrook did later on, the peal would have held preference over the five-part. I beg to thank Mr. Dexter for his kind invitation to visit him at Stuart Street. No doubt it would be worth while, seeing he was described in the columns of your paper recently as the Beethoven of the Exercise. It would be a great honour to be in such illustrious company.—Yours faithfully,

J. HUNT.

TRANSPPOSITIONS AND VARIATIONS.

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent, Mr. E. W. Tipler, will have noticed that in my letters I have been fairly consistent in giving dates of the various performances, and I hope he will not think me unreasonable if I ask the same in return. If he will kindly give me the date (if the peal has appeared in 'The Ringing World') or forward me an association report containing reference to the performances he speaks of, I shall be most grateful, and will pay postage both ways.

I will now venture to reply to his last sentence: 'Until one can tell me that a rearrangement, no matter how small, is not a variation, I cannot feel satisfied.' At the same time I realise that there are men in the Exercise better qualified to do so than I am, but I will do my best.

A.				B.

A is a peal of Bristol Surprise Major by the late C. H. Hattersley (which will not run true to Treble Bob), rung May 21st, 1912. B is the same peal, but reversed. As it has proved interesting to me, it might be of others, so I will explain how to reverse a peal. In the above example, take the last course of A. There is no call at W, which corresponds to M in the reverse, so the first call to put down is W2, then the H in the fourth course, and work backwards in that way, finishing with the H of the 5th course. That is reversing.

A.				B.
S.	L.			S.	H.	Q.
S.	H.	Q.		S.	H.	Q.
H.				H.	L.

A is the three-course block of 'Thurstans', B is a variation of that by Lates, and C is one by Brooks. You will observe that S in the first course, S. H. in the second, and H. in the third is common to all, that is because these are calls that affect the 6th. The other calls are varied, so this is a variation.

Regarding A as the original touch of two courses, B, C and D are simply transpositions. As with touches, so with peals. All those who are interested should (if they do not already possess a copy) get Snowden's 'Stedman,' and turn to pages 222 and 223. There they will find four transpositions of Sir Arthur Heywood's well-known No. 1. Two of these have the singles at 2 and 14, and two with singles at 9 and 11, but they are all the same peal.

I beg permission to insert an extract from Chapter V. of Snowden's 'Treble Bob,' Part I. (a book, by the way, which should be in the hands of every ringer who has any ambition to rise above the ordinary level). 'Transposition of Peals':

Before proceeding to explain the proof and mode of composition of Treble Bob peals, I will first explain several ways in which peals can be altered in the arrangement of the calling, so that, unless carefully examined, they may easily be mistaken for different compositions. The principles upon which these variations are produced should be thoroughly understood by all ringers, and especially by all composers, for although the former may assist in ringing as a new peal a variation of one which may be a hundred years old, the latter may not only assist in the ringing but may also put himself to much trouble and make himself the laughing stock of the Exercise by reproducing a variation of some well-known peal and putting it forth as an original composition.

It seems probable that transposition has been resorted to by persons unable to produce original peals, merely to vary the productions of others. To these variations they have then attached their names. . . . Of course, a composer may, in perfectly good faith and with the most honourable intentions, reproduce an old peal and be unaware of the fact. Then follow some examples of reversing peals of Treble Bob, of which I have given an explanation above.

I hope I have written enough to make Mr. Tipler feel satisfied that a rearrangement is not a variation: it is produced automatically.

Now, as to Washbrook's peal of Stedman Triples, Mr. Hunt, in his letter of December 17th, says: '... Mr. Washbrook's peal is not, in my opinion, a transposition of Thurstans.' I concur. Since then I have received a letter from an eminent member of the Exercise on the composing side, in which he says: 'I was amused by the correspondence re Dexter's variation of Thurstans', but what has Thurstans to do with it? The original composition was by William Hudson, of Sheffield. All that Thurstans did was to discover the extras and omits by means of which he put Hudson's quarter-peals together.' So you see, Washbrook's peal has as much claim to be called an original composition as Thurstans'. What the latter accomplished with omits and extras the former did with singles.

In view of what I have written, I challenge Mr. Pulling to establish the claim for the title of 'Variation' of Thurstans' for what has been known as 'Dexter's variation' when the Central Council meets at Whitsun. It is Washbrook's peal, and the composition is also his.—Yours, etc.,

W. A. CAVE.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

TEN-YEAR-OLD RINGER'S PERFORMANCE.

Monday, January 3rd, was chosen as the best day for a meeting of the Eastern District of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association at South Shields, as Saturday meetings are prohibited on account of the adjacent market, so that an attendance of 14 under the circumstances was quite satisfactory.

Touches of Kent Treble Bob Major, Double Norwich, and Grandsire were rung during the afternoon, and after an excellent tea at the Mecca Cafe, on the proposition of Mr. C. L. Routledge, the president of the association, Mr. R. I. Patterson was re-elected vice-president for the district (subject to confirmation at the February meeting of the association). A vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells was passed, and also one to the captain and secretary of the South Shields band for their assistance.

Shortly after ringing had been resumed, the treble rope broke, ringing being confined to six bells. A 720 of Bob Minor was rung, being the first 720 by the ten-year-old son of Mr. Stephen Stratford, of North Shields: Robert S. Stratford 1, E. Hern 2, Rev. A. W. Lister 3, T. T. Goffon 4, J. W. Parker 5, R. L. Patterson 6.

DEATH OF AN ILKESTON RINGER.

It is with deep regret we record the death of Mr. Henry Straw, who died in the Ilkeston Hospital after a long and painful illness on December 27th, at the comparatively early age of 40 years. His remains were interred on Sunday, January 2nd, in the churchyard of Mapperley (Derby). The first portion of the service (which was fully choral) was taken by the Vicar, and at the graveside the Rev. A. W. Bell, M.A., R.D., Vicar of Ilkeston, officiated. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the open grave by four of his old comrades.

The deceased ringer was most genial and unassuming, and a better colleague no society ever possessed. An excellent striker, he was always willing to assist in the bellry in any way possible.

Numerous floral tributes were sent, including one from his fellow-ringers. As a last tribute of respect, muffled touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung on the bells of the church he loved so well.

DEATH OF FORMER CHELSEA RINGER.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Charles Hindes, for over 30 years vestry clerk of St. Luke's Church. He passed away on December 31st, at the age of 68 years. Born in Buckinghamshire, deceased served for many years in the Scots Guards, retiring with the rank of sergeant. He had done no ringing for the past 20 years, but rang peals in the '80's and '90's, and no doubt will be remembered by the older members of the Exercise. He was a member of the College Youths and the Midland Counties Association. The ringers' last tribute, the 'whole pull and stand,' was rung on January 5th, the day of the funeral, by G. Watkin, H. W. Mance, W. Eyles, E. Reeve, A. Newman, C. Mitchell, R. Mackrill, W. Essery, H. Mance, L. Bayliss; and on Sunday, January 8th, for evensong, a quarter-peal (1,263 changes) of Stedman Caters, with bells muffled, by: H. W. Mance 1, H. H. Mance 2, G. Watkin 3, E. Reeve 4, W. Dean 5, H. S. Ellis 6, R. Mackrill 7, C. F. Mitchell 8, H. Mance (conductor) 9, W. Essery 10.

A JUBILEE DATE TOUCH.

The first peal on the bells at Lytham Parish Church, Lancashire, was rung on December 2nd, 1876. It was a peal of Grandsire Triples, To commemorate the jubilee of the event, the present ringers at the Lytham Parish Church on Tuesday evening, December 21st, rang a date touch, consisting of 1,926 changes of Stedman Triples, in 1 hour and 10 minutes: J. Allanson, jun., 1, J. Allanson 2, T. Allanson 3, G. Miller 4, S. Clark 5, C. Lewis (conductor) 6, H. Hunt 7, J. Hayes 8.

BARNSELEY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting was held at St. Mary's, Barnsley, on Saturday, January 8th. The following towers were represented: Wath, Wortley, Anston, Rotherham, Doncaster, Felkirk, Cawthorne, Darton, Darfield, Sandal, Horbury, Shalvey, Penistone, Royston, Crofton, and Barnsley. The methods rung during the afternoon were Grandsire Doubles, Bob Minor, Treble Bob Minor and Major. Special mention was paid by some to the higher flights of Minor, but a most pleasing feature was the successful efforts made by a good number of young and rising members.

Service was held in church at 4.30. the Rector, Rev. H. E. Hone, again officiating, and about 24 members attending. The prayers were selected and directed to the ringers. The address was a welcome one, and a plea to the ringers to dedicate their art by associating with it Christian thoughts and acts, remembering always how influential such work and example were, and that it would bring increased happiness over and above the mental pleasures and happy hours spent in the ringing room.

Tea followed, a company of about thirty, including the Rector, sitting down. Business followed, the Rector, who is honorary president, taking the chair. The report of the I. G. Shade fund and the secretary's report of year's work were passed as read. The treasurer's balance sheet audited by Messrs. R. Thickett and W. Moxon was passed unanimously.

Messrs. J. Buggs, E. Ball, P. Shaw, F. Bradley, T. Cullingworth, R. Harrop, G. Hepworth, all of Crofton, were elected members; Messrs. F. and J. E. Bracken, of Darton, were elected.

As president for 1927, Mr. W. Moxon, a popular member of Sandal, was unanimously elected. The treasurer, Mr. A. Panther, and Mr. C. D. Potter, secretary, were each re-elected.

Congratulations were expressed to the chairman on his appointment by the Bishop of Wakefield as Rural Dean.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector and churchwardens for the use of the bells, and the local ringers for their kind assistance.

COALBROOKDALE RINGERS' DINNER.

The Coalbrookdale ringers held their first annual dinner on Saturday, January 8th, at the Coalbrookdale Inn. Those present were the Rev. Presh. C. B. Crowe, M.A., R.D. (Vicar), the Mayor of Wenlock (Mr. W. Bishop), Mr. Thos. Doughty, the churchwardens, sidesmen, local ringers, and several visiting ringers, including Mr. Herbert Brown, of Shropshire, and Mr. J. L. Hayward, who had motored from Oxford. A first-class dinner was served up by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bayley, to which all present did full justice.

The cloth removed, the rest of the evening was spent in toasting and harmony. The Brosely Quartette party were in tip-top form; Messrs. Pryce and Francis also rendered solos; Mr. E. Heighing as a humorist was excellent; and Mr. Jack Garbett (elocutionist) rendered the 'Last Shot' with great effect. The local handbell ringers also contributed several items, one of which was a fine course of Grandsire Caters on Mr. J. L. Hayward's nice bells. The evening was a great success, and it was decided that the annual dinner had come to stay.

The same evening, and also on Sunday morning, the bells were rung half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Doctor Whitfield, for many years a resident of Ironbridge. The flag was also flown at half-mast.

THE LATE CANON PAPILLON.

At Writtle, Essex, on Saturday, January 1st, at the Parish Church, the local company rang a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples with the bells half-muffled, as a token of respect to the late Canon T. L. Papillon, whose death was recorded in our columns last week, and who was Vicar of the parish for 25 years, and was buried at 12.45 on the same day at Crowhurst, Sussex: W. Emery 1, T. Lincoln 2, H. Head 3, H. Edwards 4, W. Lincoln 5, F. G. Radley 6, A. Head 7, T. B. Fairhead 8.

Change ringing was introduced and a company formed in 1885 by Canon Papillon, W. Lincoln, the conductor, and F. G. Radley being the only original members who started with him. The rest, with the exception of ringers of 4 and 8, eventually joined and rang with Canon Papillon until his departure in 1909. He was interested in the continued progress of the band, and a fortnight previous sent congratulations to them after reading the report of a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples rung muffled for his late churchwarden, Mr. T. Williams.

VETERAN TENTERDEN RINGER.

The peal rung at Tenterden on December 31st was the second half-muffled peal upon this fine-toned ring of bells, the first having been rung December 31st, 1909, conducted by Mr. Robert Edwards. Mr. C. Tribe also took part in both peals. Congratulations are extended to Mr. Tribe, who attained the age of 69 years on January 3rd. He is also to be congratulated upon training so many ringers around Tenterden, including all who rang in the 1926 peal (except Messrs. Edwards and Wenban). The striking throughout the peal was maintained at a high standard.

Afterwards, the band spent a pleasant hour at Mr. R. Edwards' house, and then ascended the tower once more, when the New Year was rung in with 518 Grandsire Triples, conducted by C. Tribe.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM.ALL OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held at the St. Martin's Hotel, on Tuesday, January 4th, the presiding Ringing Master, Mr. Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., being in the chair. All the officers were re-elected en bloc for the ensuing year: President, the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Birmingham; vice-presidents, the Rev. Canon T. Guy Rogers, B.D., M.C., Rector of Birmingham, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., B.C.L., Messrs. W. H. Godden, John Carter, J. H. Shepherd, Wm. Kent, Thos. Russam; presiding Ringing Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., B.C.L.; deputy Ringing Master, Mr. Albert Walker; trustees, Messrs. T. Russam and C. Dickens; auditors, Messrs. T. H. Reeves and Jonathan Preston; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. A. Paddon Smith.

In thanking those present for their renewed expression of confidence, the Chairman said that although he would reach his 72nd birthday within the next few days, he would be quite pleased to continue to do all he could for the Guild, and to attend the meetings as regularly as possible so long as they desired him to remain in office. As a matter of fact, he had rung several peals within the last few months, and had several others arranged for the near future, so that he did not think he was quite 'played out' yet from the ringing point of view.

The Secretary informed the meeting that he was shortly proceeding to India on business, and that he would be unable to attend at, or complete the arrangements for the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner to be held on February 19th. He remarked that he had attended 28 consecutive dinners, and was sorry to have to break the sequence, but business must not be neglected.—On the proposition of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. J. E. Groves, the secretary was granted three months' leave of absence, the members wishing him 'Good luck' in his undertaking.

The Secretary announced that the Rector of Birmingham, the Rev. Canon T. Guy Rogers, B.D., M.C., had already consented to take the chair, and that the rest of the arrangements were well in hand.

Several new members were elected, and the following resolution was unanimously adopted: 'That we desire to express our appreciation of the generosity of one of our members, Mr. Frank B. Yates, in presenting two trebles to King's Norton Church, augmenting the beautiful peal of eight to a handy and musical peal of ten, which has given great gratification to the members of this Guild.'

It was also decided (subject to the Vicar's permission being obtained) to hold the next quarterly meeting at King's Norton.

Will members and intending visitors to the Johnson dinner please note that outstanding subscriptions and applications for tickets should be addressed to Mr. Albert Walker, 81, Baker Street, Spark-hill, Birmingham.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.BURTON-ON-TRENT DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

Owing to bad weather, the attendance at the above, which was held at St. Paul's Church, Burton, on Saturday, January 8th, was disappointing. Twenty ringers were present, including the vice-president. The bells were kept going in various Triple and Caper methods during the afternoon, and were made good use of.

At the business meeting it was decided that, there being no nominations from that district for the general officers and Central Council representatives, the present holders of office should be re-elected.

The vice-president (Mr. W. W. Worthington) and local secretary (Mr. R. H. Dove) were re-elected, whilst Messrs. G. F. Newman (St. Paul's, Burton) and Joseph W. Cotton (Overseal) were elected to serve on the committee for the ensuing year.

It was arranged to hold the next meeting at Alrewas, if possible, or otherwise at Measham, on March 5th.

Four new ringing members were elected from Burton Ashby, Measham and Newhall.

The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the vice-president for taking the chair, this being carried unanimously.

BOW BELLS—A GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

The silence of the famous ring at St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, has caused these bells, better known by repute than probably any other peal in the world, to come into the limelight within the last few days. 'The Times' has commented on this silence, and informed the public that the expenditure of a sum of from £3,000 to £5,000 is necessary on the bells and tower. It declares that the immediate reason for the stopping of the bells is the development of a crack in the tenor, and goes on to say that now that restoration is inevitable, something on the grand scale is necessary. Whether there is any fracture in the upper part of the bell, as 'The Times' asserts, we are unable to say, but such a definite statement must have originated from somewhere, and ringers who know this grand old tenor will await with interest and no little concern the views of the experts, who will doubtless be called in to make an examination. What we do know is that ringing at Bow was stopped because of the bad 'go' of the tenor, caused by grit getting into the bearings, and it may be that the 'breakage' has grown as the news has spread.

As to the necessary restoration of the fabric, we, of course, know nothing. The ravages of London's atmosphere have doubtless made renovation imperative, and if the bells are to be rung the structure must be made secure. That the bells will be made ringable again without unnecessary delay goes without saying while Bow Church has a Rector like Canon Gordon Ponsonby. The point that will interest the Exercise most, however, is whether a patchwork job will be carried out to satisfy immediate requirements, or whether the church authorities will enter upon a comprehensive scheme, not only to rehang the bells entirely, but to put in hand other improvements in the tower which would make it at once a model of its kind and a common meeting centre for ringers. Such a proposal is not the dream of a visionary. We believe we are correct in saying that a scheme has been actually submitted to the authorities, who are not unfavourably disposed towards it, and if it could be carried out it might give the Exercise what it does not at present possess, something in the nature of metropolitan headquarters.

Bow bells have been open for the use of London ringing societies to a greater extent than any other peal—Southwark is the only other comparable tower—and if the scheme for the restoration of the bells at the Cheapside Church could be carried out in its entirety, Bow might be made something more to the Exercise than a happy hunting ground for peal ringers. So far as the restoration is concerned, everything depends on funds.

The parish itself could not undertake a £5,000 project, but Bow bells, with their traditions and their associations with the life of the city, should make an appeal to the ancient and wealthy guilds and corporations which should easily ensure the raising of any required sum. 'The Times' has 'opened the ball'; if the opportunity were seized a wave of interest might be created which would carry the proposals to a successful issue. What is wanted is a bold initiative, courage and effort, and we hope to see these displayed by those who will be responsible for seeing the thing through. It is a great opportunity.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

SONNING DEANERY BRANCH DISCUSSES IMPORTANT MATTERS.

The Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild held its annual meeting at St. Paul's, Wokingham, on Saturday week. There was a large attendance. A helpful and inspiring service was held in the church, when the Rector, the Rev. H. M. Walter, officiated. Mr. G. Tanner was at the organ, and an appropriate and interesting address was given by the Rev. W. T. Stubbs, Rector of Easthampstead, from Psalm xcii. 10, 'Tell it out.' The preacher appreciated the value of the science and art of church bell ringing as a part of service for God, and instanced the love of English people generally for the church bells in a parish where he resided, in which non-campanologists as well as churchmen subscribed to the fund for renovation of the church bells. Should the time ever come, which God forbid, when the Christian religion should be forbidden in England, nothing would be so much regretted as the lost sound of the bells. The bells did remind us of our God and of our religion. It was a true instinct that in olden times led men to christen bells and to carve messages upon them. The message, remembered, brought back to memory their very tones. There was an appropriateness in the sound of the bell at certain special times in the celebration of the Holy Sacrament. The passing bell with its call to prayer to the faithful at the moment of a soul's departing was now almost a lost institution. Messages to the weary, the sick and the dying came from the bells. The ringers should be men of God.

Some 70 members were present at the service, which was much appreciated. The singing of the hymns, 'All people that on earth do dwell,' 'As with gladness men of old,' and 'O praise our God to-day,' was an inspiration to all.

Tea was next partaken of in the Parish Room. Mrs. Houlton ably catered, and was assisted by Mesdames Barry, Anslow, F. Heales, Misses Barry, Wolfe and Wakelam (2), Messrs. Barry, Houlton and Youldell.

LOSS OF HONORARY MEMBERS.

The business meeting followed, the Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge (chairman) presiding. He was supported by the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Guild), the Revs. R. H. Hart-Davis (President of the branch), H. M. Walter, P. H. Ditchfield, B. Long, J. A. Anderson, G. H. Francis, Mr. A. J. Wright (Guild treasurer), Mr. R. T. Hibbert (Guild secretary) and Mr. F. Dentry (branch secretary).

The balance sheet showed £15 13s. 10d. in hand, a slight increase on the previous year. The amount of honorary subscriptions had slightly fallen.

The Hon. Secretary reported a very quiet year. The attendance at combined practices had not been good, but local ringing in the various towers had been regularly kept up. Membership had slightly increased to 185. The losses recently by death had been heavy among the honorary subscribers. Honoured names were the late secretary, the Rev. E. E. Broome, Mr. De Vitre, Mr. S. S. Melville, of Wokingham, for 28 years a regular subscriber. The late Mr. H. J. Roe, who died within a month of his 100th birthday had been an honorary member for 16 years. The Rev. A. G. Parham had left the deanery for another area. A new name was Mr. Robin Gray, of Wargrave. He hoped, by individual effort of members, to have a full honorary list by the end of the year. The report and balance sheet were unanimously adopted, and thirteen new members were then formally elected.

The Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge was unanimously re-elected chairman of the branch.

Mr. F. Dentry did not seek re-election, so Mr. W. J. Paice was elected unanimously as hon. secretary and treasurer of the branch.—Mr. Dentry was heartily thanked for his past services and regret expressed at his being obliged to discontinue.

The branch committee, comprised mainly of foremen of the towers, was then re-elected.

Combined practices.—This committee reported a lack of success with regard to combined practices. Some discussion ensued, Miss Walker, Mr. Moth, and others taking part.

The Master of the Guild suggested a vote be taken as to continuing these meetings, and eventually it was decided that they be dropped, so the committee was not reappointed.

A resolution adopting quarterly meetings for the branch was then carried, to be held successively at Twyford, Sandhurst and Waltham St. Lawrence.

Branch representatives on the Guild Committee were then elected, viz.: Messrs. J. Moth, J. White, J. Rance, F. Dentry and (ex-officio) W. J. Paice.

This concluded the business.

On the invitation of the chairman, Rev. R. H. Hart Davis, who is in his 85th year, spoke. He referred to the inauguration, in 1879, in the rural deanery of Sonning, of a ringing association by the Hurst, Wargrave, Binfield and two Wokingham churches, before the Guild was started in 1881. A letter was written by Mr. Hugh Sturges, and a paper read by himself in 1880. He was anxious to know of anyone present who had rung in that smaller association of ringers, as he was anxious for information.

No one present had, however, done so.

A Mr. Fuller, of Wargrave, was one he knew, continued the speaker. At any rate, there was ringing going on in those five towers before this branch started. That was a little bit of interesting English history.

A CONFERENCE SUGGESTED.

The Master of the Guild referred to the question of getting ringing recruits of the right kind. The number of ringers was getting smaller and smaller each year. He suggested a conference be arranged. The Master advocated care, sympathy and patience in teaching the young ringer, and the desirability of not overburdening with too much at once. Ringers must give time to their work to become efficient. Of course, there must be practice every week. It was not the decline in members but in the perseverance that led to success. So many young men were ringers for a year or two and then drifted away. It would be bad for the bell ringers in the future. People were gradually waking up to see that ringers did not come down from heaven, but were ordinary men, of flesh and blood. He spoke thus so as to get the recruit that was really wanted for that really splendid branch of church work.

Mr. A. J. Wright, Guild treasurer, said that state of affairs spoken of by the Master had not affected the financial position. The Midland Counties Association has claimed to be the largest and the best, but the Oxford Diocesan Guild beat them, both in money and in members. The Guild members and subscriptions kept up well. An increase of about 10 per cent. was expected as things were going. The branches held at present somewhere about £153 under their own control. He advocated a more general purchase of the Guild Reports, which had an increasing circulation. He regretted Mr. Dentry's resignation, and wished Mr. Paice every success.

Mr. Tom Hibbert deplored the lack of efficient recruits. Young men only put in a year or two. The teaching must be made interesting: the youngsters must not be allowed to slip away. He hoped they would all give extra support to their new secretary. He thanked the Rev. H. M. Walter, the organist, and helpers for their hospitality, and especially the Rev. W. T. Stubbs for his excellent discourse.

The Rev. H. M. Walter, responding, alluded to the association of the past with the revered father of the preacher (the late Dr. Stubbs, Bishop of Oxford). He was very struck with the splendid singing of those present at the afternoon service.

The Rev. P. H. Ditchfield thanked the chairman, and reminded ringers that their host should be given for the Sunday services.

Both the local towers with their peals of eight bells were placed at the disposal of the members.

GREAT BARDFIELD, ESSEX.—On New Year's Eve, at midnight, 720 Cambridge Surprise Minor, 720 Oxford Treble Bob Minor, 360 Woodbine Treble Bob: W. Richardson 1, F. Suckling 2, W. Piper 3, A. Piper 4, E. Townsend 5, J. Jennings (conductor) 6. In the evening, the company were entertained to supper by the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Shead, and during the evening carols, etc., were rung on the handbells.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT OFFICERS.

The Southern District of the London County Association held their annual meeting at Lambeth last Saturday.

The tower was opened at 3.30, and ringing started with the standard methods. The belfry was soon filled with ringers, and at 5 p.m. an adjournment was made for tea, which was served at the Brew House, where about thirty sat down to a pleasant meal.

The business meeting was held afterwards, when Mr. H. Mance (the Master) took the chair.

The balance sheet showed a small balance on the right side.

Mr. H. Mance was re-elected chairman, a decision which met with the entire approbation of all, and Mr. Mance thanked the members for their confidence and reoccupied the chair.

Mr. C. F. Mitchell was re-elected secretary, and the offices of the treasurer and stewardship were accepted by Messrs. Mackrill and Essery respectively, while Messrs. Clark and Bayliss were elected committee men.

It was decided that the next meeting be held at St. Giles', Camberwell, when the bells, which are being rehung, are ready. This will be the first open meeting after dedication. Owing to the third Saturday in April falling in Holy Week, the meeting will be held on the second Saturday, the 9th, unless it is announced otherwise in these columns.

Only one new member was elected, viz., Mr. Ellingham.

A return was made to the church, where more ringing was done, but owing to a service a 'stop' had to be called at 7.30. Some thirty to forty members then adjourned for a very pleasant social.

The Hounslow ringers contributed handbell tunes, some sang songs and some rang changes on handbells, all of which were very much appreciated by the company.

The ringers wish to thank the Rector for the use of the bells, and also Mr. Hardy for making all the arrangements.

WEDDING BELLS.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The revival of Surprise Royal ringing reached a stage of definite advancement when on January 21st, 1898, a 5,040 Cambridge was rung at Cheltenham. It was supposed at the time to be the first ever rung in the method, but afterwards the Wakefield peal of 1822 came to light.

The Sussex Association was established on January 24th, 1885, and two days later the first peal was rung by the Brighton branch at Cuckfield. Two of that band are still active members of the association, Messrs. C. Tyler and J. Jay, and we believe there is another survivor in Mr. George King, who emigrated to Canada many years ago, and who, we hope, is still 'in the land of the living.'

The first peal of Stedman Caters at Snow Hill, London, was rung by St. James' Society seventy years ago next Monday.

A peal of 10,080 Bob Major was rung at All Saints', Fulham, on January 28th, 1735. It occupied 6 hours 40 minutes, and was rung by the Fulham Youths.

January 27th is the anniversary of 10,386 Grandsire Caters rung in 6 hours 56 minutes at Kingston-on-Thames in the year 1803.

Mr. E. Barnett, sen., wishes to thank the many ringing friends who so kindly made enquiries or sent letters of sympathy during his recent illness. He specially values the resolution passed at a meeting of the Ancient Society of College Youths and forwarded through Mr. Cockerill. He is now home again, and while recovery must necessarily be slow, he hopes soon to be able to resume his ringing activities.

Mr. S. H. Wightman, of 60a, Fairfield Road, Bromley, Kent, is compiling a list of the towers in this country containing rings of bells, which he hopes, when completed, to have printed. He will be glad if secretaries of bands will send him a postcard giving name of town or village, county, name of church, number of bells and practice nights.

THE INSURANCE OF RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The Castle Cary branch of the Bath and Wells Association has recently brought forward a matter which may well be of great moment to the Exercise in general. It concerns the insurance of voluntary ringers. Paid ringers, it is presumed, are covered by the ordinary Employers' Liability Act, but the unfortunate fatality which occurred but a short time ago gives one to think. It may be that the breadwinner of the family meets with an accident in the ringing chamber or among the bells, with the result that he is incapacitated for a time, perhaps permanently.

Your readers may have some information on the subject.—Yours truly,

J. T. DYKE.

CHESTER CATHEDRAL BELLS TO BE RESTORED. WHITECHAPEL FOUNDRY'S RECORD.

Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of the Whitechapel Foundry, have received the order to overhaul the peal of eight bells at Chester Cathedral.

This will make the twelfth cathedral in the country in which this old-established firm have carried out restoration work of some kind during the past eight years.

The peal of ten at Bromsgrove are being renovated by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who are putting up a new peal of eight at Cinderford, Gloucestershire, and are adding three bells to make a ring of six at Ockbrook, near Derby.

QUICK WORK.

On the Sunday before Christmas the clapper of the fourth bell at Kingston Magna (where the hon. secretary of the Salisbury Guild is Rector) 'struck work' and, according to the 'North Dorset Church Magazine,' Kingston was threatened with the prospect of not having its five bells for the Christmas Festival. By a felicitous inspiration someone thought of Mr. Samuel Braddick, engineer and 'time-expired' bellringer, who lives away down Station Road. To him the clapper was carted, and within 36 hours the old one had been forged into a new one and delivered with all fittings complete at Kingston Magna. The full peal was heard on Christmas Eve.

Such a hustle must be unusual, even for Dorset, and is an example which all leisurely bell foundries might ponder on.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BIG RESTORATION SCHEME FOR BOW ?

FAMOUS TENOR SAID TO BE CRACKED.

Concern has been occasioned among ringers by the announcement in the 'Times' last week that the famous tenor at Bow Church, Cheapside, is broken. The announcement was contained in the following statement: 'The bells of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, can no longer be rung with safety and will have to remain silent until repair work has been carried out on the famous Wren tower in which they are housed, and on the bells themselves. This work will cost from £4,000 to £5,000, and other essential work to the interior of the church and to the organ will involve another £5,000.'

The immediate reason for stopping the bell-ringing is that the great tenor bell, which weighs 2½ tons, is cracked at the point where it is attached to the woodwork. This can only be remedied by recasting the bell, and at the same time attention will also have to be given to the frame on which the peal of ten (sic) bells is set. To continue ringing the bells would have been most dangerous, since it is stated that in addition to the defects in the bells and their frame, the tower itself has been found to rock slightly.

This further trouble is very largely responsible for the big outlay which has now become necessary. The tower, 235ft. high, was shifted a few inches out of the perpendicular some years ago, when the first underground railway was constructed beneath it. It is now suffering, in much the same way as St. Paul's, from the vibrations of heavy and continuous road traffic, and, like the Houses of Parliament, from the corrosive effects of the London atmosphere.

We are unable to get any confirmation as to the tenor being cracked at the cannons. The reason why the bells are not being rung at the present is, we are informed, because one of the tenor gudgeons is 'scored' through grit having got into the bearing.

The present opportunity may, however, be taken to endeavour to carry out a comprehensive scheme of restoration both in the tower and church.

The article in the 'Times' quoted the vestry clerk of Bow as stating that the masonry in some parts is getting into a very dangerous condition, and it is not thought impossible by experts that pieces may fall into the street if repairs are not soon undertaken.

The interior of the church is also badly in need of restoration and redecoration. It has received no attention of this sort since 1907. Recently the plaster capsule of one of the pilasters crashed to the floor, and cracks have appeared in the south and west walls. The bells, as well as the church, have done good service at a comparatively small cost of maintenance. The tenor, with the six other bells then existing in the tower, was recast in 1762, and has given little trouble since.

There is no possibility of the parish being able to find the money necessary for this work. Up to 1875 it possessed very large trust funds, yielding an income of several thousands of pounds yearly. The bulk of those funds passed to the City of London Parochial Foundation in that year by Act of Parliament, which allotted only £130 a year to the church for repairs to the fabric. Recent attempts to get this allowance increased have been unsuccessful, and the Rector and churchwardens, having raised what they could in the parish, are about to make a wider appeal. This will be addressed to a great many interested bodies, including Holy Trinity Church, New York, which received a charter from William III. giving it the same facilities of conduct by a special vestry as were exercised by St. Mary-le-Bow, and which has had many relics from the London church at various times.

The silencing of 'the great bell of Bow' resulted in the appearance of an interesting leading article on 'Bells' in the 'Times' on Saturday.

MUFFLED BELLS.

On Wednesday, Jan. 12th, at Christ Church, Crewe, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples in 48 mins.: Wm. T. Holding 1, H. Edwards 2, Geo. Crawley 3, R. D. Langford 4, Hy. Overton 5, Wm. Edge 6, J. H. Riding (conductor) 7, E. J. Holloway 8. Rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mrs. Holding, widow of the late Mr. R. T. Holding, son, and mother of Messrs. R. T. and H. F. Holding, ringers at this tower. Rung by Sunday service ringers.

BEGINNERS' TOUCHES.

On Saturday, January 1st, at All Saints' Church, Hursley, Hants, 1,260 Grandsire Triples in 47 mins.: A. Warren 1, G. Pullinger 2, E. Wild 3, R. Hunt 4, H. Wilkinson 5, D. C. Williams (conductor) 6, G. Williams 7, A. Coward 8. This was the first quarter-peal by ringers of 1, 3 and 8. It was intended to start for a peal, but owing to the bad going of the 4th it was abandoned. This was rather surprising, as the bells were overhauled recently and rehung in ball bearings.

At Harwell, Berks, beginners have been scoring their first six-scores, and on January 12th 360 Grandsire Doubles were rung by: C. Hitchman 1, H. Palmer 2, W. Hitchman (conductor) 3, R. G. Rice 4, W. Corderoy 5, T. Mulford 6. Longest touch by 5th ringer inside and by the ringer of the 6th. Recently several six-scores by: C. Hitchman 1, W. Hitchman (conductor) 2, T. Bosley 3, R. G. Rice 4, W. Corderoy 5, T. Mulford 6, the first by ringers of 3, 5 and 6.

At a combined practice at Womersley, Surrey, 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor: W. R. Melville 1, N. V. Harding 2, C. Hazelden 3, G. Tomsett 4, E. S. Warner (first 720) 5, J. Goscher (conductor) 6.

VARIATIONS OF THURSTANS'.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am sorry to say that it is impossible for me to see eye to eye with Mr. Cave. Do not think that a variation claimed as mine has any influence on my opinion: it does not. Mr. Cave says this particular variation was called by Mr. Washbrook before I called it. That settles that. Ringing or publication, we take it, decides the issue, but those two variations are not the same. According to this new ruling, what becomes of any variation in anything? A variation is that which departs in some manner from an original, other than commencing from, say, the 10th course and finishing with the 9th, or reversing the same.

Mr. Cave tells us that the honour of composing this peal belongs to Mr. Washbrook. We are to understand that by connecting the four quarter-peals, the proof of which is known and is the property of someone else, you can claim the resultant 5,040, even if it has been done in a much better manner years previously. The argument may convince some of your readers; it will also please others, who will, no doubt, see how to claim variations as original. I claimed a variation, and a variation is all anyone can claim for either of Mr. Washbrook's peals, be the origin Hudson or Thurstans, a variation by the same rule that Mr. Washbrook's 12,896 of Cambridge is merely a variation of Mr. E. Hines' peal.—Yours truly,

F. H. DEXTER.

A WAY OUT.

Sir,—I have no wish to enter into any argument on this matter, but I think the best definition of the peals under discussion is to quote them as they appear in the Kent County Association report: No. 2993, 'Dexter's variation of Washbrook's'; No. 3049, 'Dexter's Variation of Brooks'.

This should satisfy all critics on either side, and I will adjust the M.C.A. peals likewise to this.

I can vouch for the statement that the late Mr. C. H. Fowler sent these figures to Mr. Washbrook, and received from him several peals in other methods, some of which were rung in and around Leicester. I had the honour to write up the late Mr. Fowler's peals, both before and after his decease.—Yours truly,

ERNEST MORRIS,

General. Hon. Secretary, M.C.A.

TRANSPPOSITIONS AND VARIATIONS.

Sir,—I beg to thank Mr. W. Cave for his very interesting exposition of reversing in last week's issue. I, for one, think if we had more from such able pens as Mr. Cave's it would do more to enlighten some of our budding composers. It is much more to the point at issue than some of the vulgar abuse that has appeared on this topic. It is no doubt highly amusing to some, but I would ask these writers how far does it take them, what progress do they make by abuse, either for themselves or for others? Cannot some of our 'young would-be composers' get to work, one take one method, one another, principally those generally rung, and work out all possible peals and all variations?

I am aware of Mr. John Carter's work on Double Norwich and Stedman Caters and Cinques, also of the recent masterly exposition of London by Mr. G. Lindoff. Now, why not tackle the other methods generally rung and produce all worth having?—Yours truly,

W. KEEBLE.

ST. PETER MANCROFT GUILD.

INTERESTING POSSESSIONS.

At the annual meeting of the St. Peter Mancroft Guild, Norwich, held at the Y.M.C.A. rooms, on Friday, January 14th, the officers were re-elected as follows: Mr. J. F. Duffield, Ringing Master; Mr. Geo. P. Burton, hon. treasurer; Mr. Geo. H. Claxton, hon. secretary. It was decided not to elect a deputy Ringing Master.

A great effort has been made of late to augment the depleted ranks of the Guild. During the last few years at least half a dozen capable ringers have left the city, or have otherwise unavoidably been prevented from assisting at Mancroft. Some young ringers are, happily, now approaching the Cater stage. The Guild is optimistic that, with the young bloods' advancement and the perseverance of the seniors, the difficulties which have prevailed for several years will be overcome.

An interesting piece of business was the acquiring of a collection containing letters written by Samuel Thurston and Hurry, leaflets bearing the figures of methods which were popular among the men of a hundred years ago, and many other things such as newspaper cuttings recording the deeds and 'differences of opinion' of bygone days.

A notebook in which Samuel Thurston recorded many of his peals, together with a photograph of his portrait which depicts him on the Mancroft tenor box, is already in the possession of the Guild.

GILLINGHAM, KENT.—On New Year's Day, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) in 50 mins.: C. Norris 1, P. Springham 2, C. Winsor 3, T. Beaumont 4, W. Haigh 5, T. Belsey 6, J. Haigh (conductor) 7, H. Haylor 8.

THE BRISTOL GUILDS' DINNER.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION'S BIRTHDAY.

The post-prandial proceedings at the gathering of the Bristol United Guilds on Saturday week was, as indicated in the report in these columns last week, of a very enjoyable nature. Interspersed in the varied musical programme were a number of toasts, the first of which was 'The King.'

The Chairman (Mr. H. J. Way) then expressed thanks to the registrar of the University for his kindness in permitting the visit to the University. It had been, he said, an instructive and interesting afternoon.

After the apologies for absence had been read by the hon. secretary (Mr. E. Guise), the Chairman gave some information about the Bristol United Guilds. The organisation was founded in 1921, the object being to arrange an annual dinner and thereby create that feeling of comradeship which was so necessary in connection with church work. That evening they had over 160 sitting down to dinner, and the officers of the Ringing Guilds must feel very satisfied with the results of their work. During the past year united practices had been arranged and fairly well attended, and a magnificent peal of handbells had been presented to the United Guilds by Mr. C. E. Cockey, son of the late Rev. H. A. Cockey, a past master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, and the Bristol ringers were very proud to own such a handsome peal (applause). Their thanks were due to Mr. Came for the arrangements in connection with the transfer of the bells to the Guilds. That day, continued the Chairman, was the 49th anniversary of the formation of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, and they were proud to have with them the present Master, Mr. Albert Wright. Next year, the jubilee meeting of the association would take place, and the arrangements for the festival had been left in the hands of the Bristol United Ringing Guilds, and he thought the Guilds would not be found wanting (applause). Proceeding, the Chairman proposed the toast of 'The Church.' They had had a service at St. Stephen's that afternoon. Some might think that they had tried to overdo their arrangements that day, but he thought they ought to use every opportunity to attend church and not to be content to say, 'I go once on Sundays, and that is sufficient.' If they cultivated this spirit, he was sure the clergy would reciprocate.

THE CHURCH'S POETS.

Canon H. B. Freeman (of Bristol Cathedral), who was the guest of the evening, responded. He was proud, he said, to be with the United Guilds on that occasion. Like a good many parsons, he had had a great deal to do with church bells. For 25 years he was Vicar of Burton-on-Trent, where he not only had one of the mellowest peals of bells in Staffordshire, but a very hearty company of ringers, one at least of whom had been in the service of the church for 40 years. They were very proud of their bells, and a firm connected with Burton, of whom some of them may have heard, named Bass (laughter) were so good as to have the peal retuned, rebung and reframed about twenty years ago. Those bells still had a set of melodious chimings, which played at various periods of the day, the tunes being varied with the days of the week, and one of the tunes was 'One evening when I lost my way,' played on Saturday nights (laughter). Continuing, the Canon said their favoured art of campanology represented the poetry of religion, the poetry of the Church, and the ringers should be among the Church's poets. He read with sorrow recently that the Bolsheviks had shipped from Russia a cargo of two hundred tons of broken bell metal from their churches. It seemed to him that in that cargo was carted away a good deal of the soul of Russia, the salvation of Russia and the religion of Russia. The speaker reminded his hearers that many of the great poets had found a theme in the bells, and he asked the ringers to remember that their work was the work of poets. He was glad to hear their chairman say he hoped that occasions like that one would be utilised to strengthen the co-operation between parsons and ringers. The ringers were doing a great work, and he was sure that they were not content with calling others to the banquet but were willing to enter the sacred walls after they had done their duty in the belfry and enjoy the spiritual riches for themselves. They, with the clergy, were co-operating in what was, after all, the grandest, greatest and most beautiful work in the world (applause).

THE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

Mr. F. E. Dawe submitted the toast of 'The Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association.' He said gatherings such as that had grown considerably in number during the last few years, and the good that they did could not be overestimated. For one thing, they provided an opportunity of bringing together the authorities and the ringers, and enabled a proper mutual understanding to be reached between them. As they had been reminded, that was the 49th birthday of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and judging by the gathering around him it was a singularly healthy and vigorous child for its age. He was the first life member to call a peal for the association. It was peal No. 7, and was rung at Tewkesbury Abbey. The association had now rung something like 1,500 peals, which indicated the continuous advances which had been made, and that they were still 'going strong.' In those early days the moving spirits of the Gloucester and Bristol Association were among those who formed the backbone of the ringing Exercise—they were men who paid every regard first of all to their striking, and would take more pains with a touch of Grandsire Triples than some people in these days would with a peal of 'Double Timbuctoo' (laughter). Continuing, the speaker said that of the peals which he had rung in Gloucestershire the one of which he was most proud was a peal of Stedman Triples at Gloucester Cathedral. It took him fifteen years to get permission. When at last he succeeded, the Dean and Chapter would not allow any artificial light to be used in the tower, and the band therefore had to ring in white shirts so that their arms could be seen going up and down in the dim light. Under the circumstances it was one of the finest peals he had ever taken part in. Proceeding, Mr. Dawe congratulated the Bristol Guilds on selecting one of their own number to act as chairman on that occasion, and uttered a word of warning to peal ringers to use tact and foresight, so that through overdoing it they did not lose their towers for peal-ringing.

Mr. Albert Wright (Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association) responded. He said he remembered the formation of the association. It originated from a meeting held at Bisley Vicarage, but the actual meeting to found the association was held in Gloucester 49 years ago that day. It started to secure belfry reform and the promotion of change ringing. Belfry reform was accomplished (hear, hear). The state of the towers to-day was far different to what it was when he began ringing. It began with their associations, and the clergy had to thank them for it; they certainly did not do it themselves. Indeed, it was through the negligence of the clergy that the belfries got into the state they did. Referring to the subject of the afternoon conference, Mr. Wright said they were always getting new ringers at Painswick, but what he would like to know was how to retain them. Young ringers in these days did not like to be told, and when anyone spoke a little sharply to them, as was sometimes necessary, they took offence, and not only left the band themselves but often took two or three other youngsters with them. In Painswick they had twelve bells and a population of twelve hundred people, and it was very difficult to maintain a band. It was the same in many other places all over the country. He added, in conclusion, that he hoped the association would go on and continue to prosper in the future.

NO DANGER FROM CARILLONS.

The Vice-Chairman (Mr. J. G. Jefferies) gave the toast of 'Kindred Guilds and Associations,' remarking that they had with them representatives of a great many of the leading societies, and they greatly appreciated their presence.

Mr. Cyril Johnston (Croydon), who first responded, thanked the Bristol Guilds for the cordial reception extended to the visitors, who were very delighted to be there to celebrate the 49th birthday of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and to wish that society 'many happy returns of the day.' They had discussed that afternoon the problem of keeping up the supply of ringers. In England, it was, however, fairly easy to get a good muster of ringers for a special occasion, and he could not help comparing it with an experience which he had in America when Mr. Newton, of Boston, and formerly of Manchester, made frantic efforts to get together a band to meet him (the speaker), and the pathetic joy of those five other men when it was found that they mustered a company to ring Kent Treble Bob. They had got a fine bell in Bristol, continued Mr. Johnston, and that afternoon he had seen three or four hefty ringers pulling it. He had made a mental note about them, because he wondered whether he would be able to get their help in ringing a twenty-ton bell, which later on would be put into a frame and swung at the Croydon foundry. He would be glad of their assistance (laughter). Referring to a recent letter in 'The Ringing World' with regard to carillons, and suggesting that the erection of a carillon in Bond Street was the beginning of a 'peaceful penetration' which would eventually oust the old English form of bell ringing, he (Mr. Johnston) assured them there was no danger of this.

Mr. Albert Walker (Birmingham) also replied, and congratulated the Bristol Guilds upon their enterprise. They were a very 'live' body, and kindred associations watched their activities with interest. At the College Youths' dinner last November he made a suggestion that good might be gained by holding, on such occasions, an informal conference to discuss matters of interest to ringers. The Bristol Guilds had given a very welcome lead in this matter, and the experiment had been an interesting one, and one from which he hoped good would come. Visiting ringers, Mr. Walker added, had spent a most delightful evening, and he thanked the Bristol Guilds for their welcome. He hoped that many of those present would attend the Henry Johnson dinner at Birmingham on February 19th, and he assured them that every effort would be made to give them an equally warm welcome.

Mr. J. W. Jones (Newport) proposed 'The Ringing World,' pointing out how important the paper was to the Exercise, and urging its support by every ringer.—Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, the Editor, briefly acknowledged the toast.

Mr. C. D. Heginbotham gave 'The Artistes,' and warmly thanked them for the excellent musical entertainment which they had given, especially mentioning the services rendered by Mr. Emery in organising the programme.

Mr. C. Read replied, and the enjoyable proceedings terminated with 'Auld Lang Syne.'

GOSPEL OAK.—At St. Martin's Church, on Thursday, January 6th, 720 Bob Minor: A. Harwin 1, R. Newman 2, W. Norton 3, E. Young 4, E. Bonfield (conductor) 5, R. Bayan 6.—Also 120 Grandsire Doubles with F. Bonfield 5rd.

BY W. TAYLOR.

(Concluded.)

Let us now turn to Shipway's Royal.

Look first for the 124 cycle: 4 makes a hob shunt at the go-off and passes over 2 and 1 in C.O. 3 then court shunts with 4, the shunt is immediately neutralised by 4 court shunting with 3, just as if the 4th was trying to take up the work of the 5th. This is exactly what has happened, because the place made by the 3rd at the first cross section has caused the 4th and 5th to exchange duty. They are restored to their original duties by the 2nd making the corresponding place at the 4th cross section. A very ingenious artifice, but not Superlative. It is no argument to say that the method will not come without it. Why not recognise that, because it has to be used, Superlative Royal is not possible on these lines? The diagram is so faulty that the great majority of the Exercise reject it, and, I suppose, always will.

The question then arises, Is there a Superlative Royal?

The following three methods, given by the positions of the whole pulls in the half-lead, are the nearest possible approaches:

From the ringing point of view, all have the serious blemish of 4 places being made at the 1st and 4th cross sections, two of which are adjoining places. If I were to argue that the method would not come without them, I fancy the Rev. H. Law James would be one of the first to correct me. A and B have the three step cycles, but find it necessary to add pairs of neutralising court shunts on account of the adjoining places bringing the number of steps up to five in some of the cycles. The diagram of B is most nearly like the Major. Odd place becomes 8th and 7th instead of dodge 8th's dodge, and correspondingly in 3-4. B is the nearest possible approach to Superlative Royal, but as we have been so frequently told that the nearest possible is not good enough, it must be admitted that Superlative Surprise Royal does not exist. It will be of advantage to the student to examine B again after dealing with Maximus. C has the three step cycles in a very imperfect state. It is only given because it must be considered in a complete analysis.

In Maximus, our choice must lie between the first three, A, B, C, of the following methods. D corresponds in some measure to C of Royal. It is shown because of exceptional and unique features.

14	14	14	16
5t	7t	5t	7t
38	30	36	30
147t	149t	1470	149t
30	30	58	1t
169t	149t	369t	149t
50	30	70	30

The order of crossing the treble is the same in both A and B, so we may produce two extra (though not double) methods by working as A above the treble and as B below the treble in the first half-lead, also vice versa.

A is the Rev. H. Law James' extension. C is that given in 'The Ringing World' of November 5th, 1926. In A, the three step cycle only works in the case of 468 and 579, which are inversions of one another. In all other cases, namely, in the cases of 124, 246, 357, and 135, two additional steps are added. The added steps are a pair of mutually neutralising court shunts, which operate on 2 and 4 below the treble, and on the corresponding pair 3 and 5 above the treble. It is as if we increase the area of a rectangle by adding to its length only. A similar state of affairs exists in Method B, the additional steps being court shunts operating on 46 and 57. In method C there is nothing but the three step cycle; these will be found acting on 124, 246, 460, 801 and inversions on 135, 357, 579, 9et. The cycles on 246 and 460 are coterminous, as are those on 357, 579. There are also three step cycles of the same sort on 5 bells, in which the three bells of the cycles 357 and 246 act as one bell, performing their own cycle at the same time as they are operating in the larger cycle. The bob shunt is on 5 bells, because of the three acting as one. One of the court shunts is made by the bob bell passing over the three acting as one, whilst the other court shunt is made by the bob bell and the remaining bell. The large cycles are four in number, and occur on 1(246)8, (246)80, 1(357)9 and (357)9e, the three bells acting as one being bracketed. The extension runs to any number of bells divisible by four. The cycle on (357)9e is shown for example:

...	3	5	7	9	e	—	e9753
...	3	5	7	9	e
...	3	5	9	7	e
...	3	5	7	9	e
...	3	5	9	7	e			g makes a Court shunt over (753) dodging with 7 and 3.
...	3	9	5	7	e
...	9	3	5	e	7
...	3	9	5	7	e
...	9	3	5	e	7	(a)	e753	(a) The 357 and 57e cycles
...	9	3	5	7	e	—	5e739	commence here.
...	9	5	3	e	7	—	5e739	g makes a 5-bell Bob shunt passing
...	9	3	5	7	e		95e73	over (357) and e.
...	9	5	3	e	7
...	9	5	e	3	7
...	9	e	5	7	3	—	9e735
...	9	e	5	3	7	—	573	g makes a Court shunt with e (no
...	e	9	5	7	3			dodge).
...	e	9	5	3	7		e9573
...	e	9	5	7	3
...	e	9	7	5	3
...	e	9	7	5	3	(b)	e9753	(b) The 357 and 57e cycles end
...	e	9	7	5	3			here.

Not only in the construction of method C, which contains nothing but the three step cycles, exactly corresponding to Major, but its diagram also resembles Major so much that anyone conversant with Superlative Major and Cambridge Maximus can learn it thoroughly in less than five minutes. The odd place is always in 90 and 34. The rule of when dodging to places make odd place last, holds good both for far and near places. The two five-step variations should be called 'Superlative Surprise Maximus, Variation A or B,' if ever they are rung. Suitable names may be substituted for A and B. The trio of Superlative Maximus is a feat well worthy of any band's effort to attain. Who will be the first to accomplish it?

Finally, a word about method D. It falls just short of the magic Surprise class, but it is the most remarkable and interesting of all methods up to Maximus. It is a double method which has the bells in plain C.O. at the quarter-lead, and the only one possible, the middle four changes of the half-lead being as in Plain Bob. This result is attained by means of two pairs of bells court shunting, each pair being neutralised by a second court shunt in the quarter-lead. The two pairs are 68 and 57. It is the most simply constructed Treble Bob method possible.

It will be no mean feat to ring it, and will be found to be quite musical. The bells are kept in their coursing order better than in Cambridge. Its name might well be 'Supreme Treble Bob Maximus.'

I have not by any means exhausted the subject. There is plenty of room for research on the same lines, and even the most expert will find the ground traversed exceedingly interesting and fruitful. The principles are quite general in application. If they appear to fail in any method it will be because the student has not completely understood them.

In conclusion, I would just like to refer to Q-sets. What is termed a plain Q-set is one in which a bell cowl shunts with all the other bells in order. It acts in quite a different way to a bobbed Q-set. The latter always operates on the same set of bells at each step, whilst the former introduces a fresh bell at each step. Both Kent Treble Bob and Oxford Treble Bob are founded on a plain Q-set, one member of which is missing. It is the absent member which fixes the lead end at 1426 n.

Although the preceding I have constantly called the 'extreme' a court shunt for the sake of simplicity, although, strictly speaking, an extreme, with its adjoining places, cannot properly be called a 'court' shunt. The difficulty can be got over by substituting another word in place of 'court,' for instance, 'dual' or 'double.'

W. TAYLOR.

Tower House, Penwortham.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A most successful meeting of the South and West District was held at Chiswick on Saturday. Ringing commenced at 3.30, and methods from Grand sire Triples to Cambridge Surprise were rung before service, which was conducted by the Rev. C. H. Sangster, in the absence of the Vicar, who was confined to his bed. Tea and business meeting followed in the Parish Hall, with Rev. C. H. Sangster presiding. Over 40 sat down to an excellent tea, ably served by Mr. A. Thurley, one of the local ringers.

Afterwards, routine business was transacted, and thanks accorded to the Vicar, the Rev. C. H. Sangster, the organist, the host and his assistants. Five new members were elected, and handbell ringing was indulged in. The tower was then again visited, and standard methods practised. The first meeting of the year was a great success, the number increasing to 50 during the evening.

NOTES BY THE WAY. By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

We know now more about change ringing in the seventeenth century than Shipway did, and it is impossible that the art could have advanced so much by 1557, as the quotation from Mr. Lukis last week might suggest. In that year the Puritan party were in full power, the monarchy and the Church were abolished, and though it is evident that ringing was still going on, it was not till the Restoration in 1660, when Church and King came again into their own, that the great advance in ringing, of which Stedman speaks, took place.

Still there is no reason to doubt that the College Youths did visit Cambridge in 1657. Stedman was then at the beginning of his work of improving ringing methods. No doubt he did give the Londoners improved 'peals,' which they rang, then at St. Benet's, and afterwards when they got home. In later years further advance made all Stedman's methods except his Principle obsolete. People then, as often now, imagined that it was the only thing that Stedman ever did. And so, when they heard their predecessors talk about visiting Cambridge and ringing Stedman's methods, they naturally imagined that it was the Principle which was rung.

We should like to know what has become of the records which Mr. Lukis says he possessed of ringing in Oxford, extending over one hundred and twenty years. It is quite likely they still exist, and some day will come to light. Fortunately we have a vivid account of many of these peals set down by the eighteenth century diarist, Mr. Richard Hearne. The ringers were not, as we might think from Mr. Lukis's references to Andrew Wood, undergraduates or members of the University. They were town tradesmen for the most part, or men employed in various ways in the colleges. Mr. Lukis gives a quotation from the 'Life of Andrew Wood,' which refers to his connection with Merton bells. 'He and his mother and two brothers, Robert and Christopher, gave £5 to Merton College in 1656, towards casting their five bells into eight.' These five were ancient bells, and were put in the tower when it was built in 1421. The tenor was supposed to be the best bell in England, and 'every one,' Anthony Wood says, 'was against the altering it, and were for a treble being put to make six, and old Sergeant Charles Holloway, who was a covetous man, offered money to save it, but by the knavery of Thom. Jones, the Subwarden (the Warden being absent) and Michael Darby, the Bell-founder, they were made eight. John Wilson, Doc. Mus., had a fee from the College to take order about their tuning.'

'May 14th, 1657, all the eight bells of Merton Coll. did begin to ring, and he heard them very well at his approach to Oxon in the evening, after he had taken his rambles all that day about the country to collect monuments. The bells did not at all please the curious and critical hearer. However, he plucked at them often with some of his fellow collegians for recreation sake. They were all afterwards recast.'

This recasting was done in 1680 by Christopher Hodson. Michael Darbie, mentioned above, was the East Anglian bellfounder to whom I referred in these notes some months ago. He wandered all over the country, setting up his furnace and recasting bells on the spot. His work is said to be invariably bad.

Oxford was one of the towns where ringing flourished from the earliest times, and though it never produced a man like Fabian Stedman, as Cambridge did, it must have had some men well versed in method composition as then understood.

The Exercise owes to Oxford two excellent methods—Oxford Bob (since Shipway's time called Double Oxford Bob) and Oxford Treble Bob. I do not think that there is any actually direct evidence of either being rung in the city. We have only the names to go on, but it is pretty sure that both were practised there on six bells in the concluding years of the seventeenth century, and that they were extended to eight bells elsewhere and later. Oxford Treble Bob apparently was not known in London in 1700, but eighteen years later the Union Scholars rang the first peal of Major at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East.

Grandsire Caters was the method generally practised in Oxford in the eighteenth century, and to the account of the peals rung in it I will come later.

'LOAVES AND FISHES.'

The facts put forward in the letter, printed elsewhere, from three members of the Society of Cambridge Youths, reveal a deplorable state of affairs at the famous Church of Great St. Mary, and illustrate once again the disastrous effects upon ringing which may result from having 'paid' ringers. For the sake of securing a larger share in a few paltry pounds a year a majority of the Cambridge Youths, we are informed, refuse to elect to their ranks a sufficient number of ringers to bring the band up to strength. This is no new attitude on the part of a paid company. It has happened times out of number, but it does serve to remind us that ringing can be made to suffer from the selfishness of a few. Great St. Mary's, with its peal of twelve bells, ought to be the hub of ringing in that part of the country, the centre round which the Ely Diocesan Association should revolve. The Cambridge Youths played a not unimportant part in the history of the art, and in the distant past were responsible for some memorable performances. To think that ringing at such a tower should stand the risk of being wrecked for such a reason as that given by our correspondents is enough to make Fabian Stedman turn in his grave.

The question of 'loaves and fishes' has been a stumbling block to progress in many belfries for many years. We have nothing to say against those who receive monetary consideration for out-of-pocket expenses in connection with ringing for service or for special occasions, but it is an undisputed fact that, speaking generally, less progress is made in those towers where the ringers are paid than in the belfries where the ringers' services are given voluntarily. The reason is not far to seek. The pound or two per man, which is usually the annual remuneration, is sufficient to stiffen opposition to the introduction of young blood, and the old hands set their faces against new-comers for fear of having to share 'the spoils of office.' The ideal will only be reached when all bands of service ringers are purely voluntary, but where payment is made it should be clearly on the understanding that the company should be maintained at sufficient strength to ring all the bells. It ought also to be a sine qua non of holding office that the members should be change ringers, or willing to learn change ringing, but unhappily church authorities often care very little about these things. They do not mind whether six or eight bells are rung where there are ten or twelve; or whether it is half pull ringing or call changes, so long as the bells are rung when required. It is up to the authorities, however, to see that they get their money's worth, and there can be no question that they ought to insist upon a full complement of ringers. We hope in the case

Great credit is due to Messrs. W. A. Tack and R. Howard for the enthusiasm which they have displayed in cycling from Barley to Stapleford, a distance of 12 miles, week after week, in all weathers, since the summer of 1925. Miss Willers and Mr. F. E. Haynes live at Trumpington, 2½ miles from Stapleford Church.

BUCKNALL, STOKE-ON-TRENT.

The number of complete 720's rung during the year 1926 at St. Mary's Church was 131 in 40 methods, comprising 25 Surprise, eight 4th's Place Delight, 5 Treble Bob and 2 Single Hunt methods. The ringers taking part were: W. Wheeldon (leader), Chas. Preston, Miss Alice Preston, Chas. Bowen, W. Fradley, H. Billings and Reg. Preston. Miss Preston rang in 116 720's, and conducted 35, including a full Surprise peal.

It is interesting to note that during the last three years 353 720's have been rung at this church.

LAMBERHURST, KENT.

The annual meeting of the Lamberhurst ringers was held on January 22nd, when the Vicar, Rev. E. S. Jose, invited the churchwardens and ringers to tea. Afterwards the report of the year's work was read, which showed the bells had been rung for matins and evensong each Sunday during the year, also for the 7 a.m. service on Easter Day and Christmas Day, with an average attendance of nine ringers for each service. During the year 113 720's were rung, 18 ringers taking part in them. They included 72 in 13 Surprise methods, 8 in 2 Treble Bob methods, and 33 in 8 Plain methods.

The Vicar thanked the captain for his report, and said how pleased he was that they had had such a successful and happy year.

Mr. Marshall thanked the Vicar for his kindness in inviting the ringers to tea, and the Rev. E. S. Jose, in reply, said he hoped that this was only the first of many such meetings they would have.

FIRE IN A BELFRY.SEXTON'S PLUCKY FIGHT WITH FLAMES.

All Saints' Church, Alrewas, Burton-on-Trent, where Lady Godiva is said to have been a worshipper, narrowly escaped destruction by fire on the evening of Saturday, January 15th.

Captain Lawton noticed the smoke coming from the tower, and the sexton, Mr. Kent (who is well known to ringing visitors to Alrewas), ascended the spiral staircase and attacked the flames with buckets of water.

Parishioners who rushed up formed a chain to pass up more buckets, and Mr. Kent stuck to his task until he became unconscious from the smoke. The firemen from Lichfield and Burton-on-Trent put out the flames after great difficulties. The cause of the outbreak is unknown. The bellringers' room and woodwork in the vestry were badly damaged.

Oak beams supporting the bells were replaced by an iron framework five years ago, otherwise the church would probably have been gutted.

The church was founded in 820. Dean Inge's boyhood days were spent there, his father being the vicar.

ROMNEY MARSH GUILD.

The annual meeting of the Romney Marsh and District Guild was held at Appledore on Saturday, January 15th. The towers represented were: Ashford, Merham, Stone, Rye, Lydd, Tenterden, Fairfield, Frittenden, Hothfield and the local band.

After ringing during the afternoon, a short service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. A. O. Scutt), and tea was provided by the Guild at the Swan Hotel, upwards of 50 members and friends sitting down. The business meeting was presided over by the Vicar, supported by the Master and hon. sec.

The balance sheet was adopted, and the secretary presented a very satisfactory report. Twelve meetings had been held, and eleven peals rung during the year.

The retiring officers were then re-elected, viz., Rev. A. O. Scutt, president; C. W. Everett, Master; C. W. Franklin, hon. secretary and treasurer.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Charing.

Afterwards, a most enjoyable musical evening was spent. The Stone Glee Singers gave some capital glees, whilst several members rendered good songs. The programme was in the capable hands of the Misses K. and M. Anderson, ably assisted by Mrs. Catt and the hon. secretary. At the close, members linked up and sang 'Auld Lang Syne' and 'God save the King.'

BEST BELLS IN HISTORY.BRISTOL'S SPLENDID SPECIMEN.

The article in the 'Times' to which we referred last week has been followed by a letter on 'Modern Bells,' signed by H. E. Nolloth, and written from Oxford. He says:

'The interesting article on bells in your issue of the 15th inst. will be welcomed by all true campanologists, because it directs attention to a subject about which there is a curious lack of interest and elementary knowledge, not only in people generally, but in those whose musical taste or intimate association with these instruments would lead us to expect better things. One reason of this is perhaps that ordinary bells are often afflicting to people gifted with a sensitive musical ear, by which the discords are heard more clearly than the harmonies.'

'But, some 30 years ago, the late Canon Simpson studied the methods by which Hemony, "the Stradivarius of bell-founders," and Van den Gheyn, succeeded in founding bells in which not only the three octaves, but the "third" and "fifth" were very fairly in tune with each other. Since that time, by the help of modern science and machinery, these methods have been applied with an exactness unattainable by the old Belgian founders, so that Mr. W. W. Stammer (the first to be appointed a Professor of Campanology) declares that better bells are being made now than ever before. About 18 months ago the Dean of Westminster (then Dean of York) and I went to Loughborough in order to hear the /ten-ton bell given by members of the Wills family to Bristol University rung in the foundry. I thought it the finest bell I had ever heard, either in England or on the Continent, and Professor Stammer is of the same mind. The somewhat larger great bell of York Minster is now being recast, and will be the deepest in tone of English bells. It is astonishing that the thousands of musical people in London have been so patient during the years that the raucous "Big Ben," with a crack through which a man can pass his arm, has continued to proclaim the hours from the Westminster Clock Tower. What must visitors from Malines and Bruges think of us? The cost of recasting and transforming it into a finer bell than any on the Continent would be a comparatively trivial item in the present expenditure upon the structure of the Houses of Parliament.'

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A peal of 'Real Double Eight Lu, with two bobs in a lead, as many 7th's as 2nd's, with bobs behind and before alternately,' was rung at Richmond, Surrey, on January 28th, 1816.

It is interesting to note that this was rung almost on the anniversary of the first peal of 'Real Double Bob,' which was composed and conducted by George Gross, and rung at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, on Sunday, January 29th, 1769.

Mention of St. Mary's, Whitechapel, reminds us that at this church the doyen of the College Youths, Mr. Ted Wallage, is the steeple-keeper, and he is there to chime the bells for the early service every Sunday morning.

There has just passed away at Walthamstow, Mr. William Haley, son of a famous father, Henry Haley. Mr. William Haley was a bell tuner, and after leaving Messrs. Warner and Son started in business for himself as a manufacturer of handbells.

His father, Henry Haley, one of the greatest composers and conductors of his day, died at Bethnal Green 41 years ago to-morrow. He was 86 years of age. His death occurred exactly a year after that of that other famous London ringer, John Cox.

Benjamin Annable, whose name has to be mentioned among those of the greatest in the Exercise, died on February 1st, 1756, and was buried at St. Bride's, Fleet Street.

On February 2nd, 1891, Harrison's 10,176 Treble Bob was rung at Warnham, Sussex, where, some day perhaps, the record peal of London will be rung. If there is such a thing as 'luck' and its opposite, it is evidently to be found at Warnham. Despite the large number of peals in Surprise methods, which Mr. A. H. Pulling conducts, he cannot succeed in calling one at Warnham.

Most of us have little personal ambitions in our ringing. Mr. James George is now setting about fulfilling a desire to fill up the gaps in the calendar. He is not far off the accomplishment of a peal on every day in the year, and we fancy the determination to reach the end of the task is responsible for some of these visits to Loughborough Foundry Campanile, which are becoming noticeable. We wonder how many men have rung a peal on the 365 days of the year?

LONG PEAL ATTEMPT.

THE SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE RECORD.

On Saturday, January 29th, eight members of the Lancashire Association intend to attempt the 11,232 of Superlative Surprise Major at the Parish Church, Bolton, starting time 10 a.m.

On the last occasion that this peal was attempted it came to an untimely end through a lady in the church unwittingly extinguishing the light in the belfry, through turning the wrong switch, after the bells had been going for five hours.

INSURANCE OF VOLUNTARY RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. J. T. Dyke brings forward a matter of the utmost importance to voluntary ringers—insurance against accident. The paid ringers are covered by the Employers' Liability Act, whether the Church Council insure themselves against it or not; but not so the voluntary ringer. It is possible, however, for the Church Council to take up an insurance to meet the case, as our Council has for some years past. The premiums are not high, and I would strongly advise all bands of voluntary ringers to communicate with the Manager, Ecclesiastical Insurance Office, Limited, 11, Norfolk Street, Strand, London, W.C.2, for full particulars, and then place the whole matter before their Parochial Church Council. The above office deals with all church insurance matters, and if any Council is not acquainted with it, ringers will be able to place some very interesting facts before them.—Yours truly,

F. WATKINSON.

THE BELLS OF ICKLETON, CAMBS. RESTORATION TO INCLUDE TWO TREBLES.

The little village of Ickleton, Cambs, where a broken tenor bell recently precipitated a restoration scheme for the whole of the ring, is setting to work to make a thorough job of the undertaking, thanks to the interest awakened by the enthusiastic leader of the local company, Mr. P. Webb, who, in the face of many obstacles, has now induced the Parochial Church Council, not only to rehang the bells in a new frame, but to provide pits for two trebles to complete the octave. This more comprehensive scheme makes it necessary to spend money on the repair of the tower, which work will cost from £50 to £80. The tower is to be cleared at once to enable the structural renovation to take place, and it is hoped that funds will soon be available to enable the order for the trebles to be given.

This means, of course, that a considerably larger sum than the original estimate of £400 will be needed, something like £700 being now the figure. The help of any of our readers who can contribute will be welcomed, for the ring of eight will not only be of advantage to Ickleton, but to the whole county, which is not rich in octaves. Subscriptions should be sent to Mr. Percy Webb, Ickleton, Cambs.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.CERTIFICATE DESIGN SELECTED.

The annual meeting was held at Shrewsbury on Saturday last, when despite the bad weather there was a very good attendance, a large number of members being present from all parts of the county, and also three visitors from Cheshire. Ringing commenced at St. Mary's soon after 3 p.m., and the bells were rung in Grandsire Triples and Caters and Stedman Caters for an hour.

The business meeting was held in St. Chad's vestry, Major E. R. Trevor-Corbett presiding.

The Secretary read the report, and presented the balance sheet, which showed a credit balance of well over £40, after all accounts had been settled. Since the inauguration last July, four peals have been rung, viz., Grandsire Doubles at Burwarton, Stedman Triples at Whitechurch, and Stedman Caters and Treble Bob Royal at Coalbrookdale.

A happy feature was the joining of three complete bands of ringers, viz., Wellington, Bishop's Castle, and St. Mary's, Bridgnorth, also four new members from Malinslee, and a few others.

Mr. E. V. Rodenhurst reported that the association peal book was entered up to date, and presented designs for the new certificates, which are to have on them sketches of seven of the principal change-ringing towers. After due consideration it was decided to have one twelve, one ten, three eight, and two six-bell towers, viz., St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, Coalbrookdale, Ludlow, Shifnal, Market Drayton, Moreton Corbet, and St. Mary's, Bridgnorth.

The Rev. H. S. T. Richardson was elected to represent the association on the Central Council.

It was decided to hold the quarterly meetings at Wellington, Wern, and Bridgnorth. The bells at Wellington are in a bad state, and it was thought, by holding a meeting there, it might start the ball rolling towards getting them rehung. It was also suggested that meetings for combined practice be held at some of the six-bell towers during the summer months.

The service was held in St. Aidan's Chapel, when the Rev. C. E. Jarman gave an appropriate address. Tea was afterwards partaken of in St. Chad's Institute, catered for by Mr. John Wall, who has been a ringer for many years. Tea over, the members visited St. Chad's, where the fine ring were kept going till nine o'clock in the following methods: Grandsire Triples, Stedman Caters, Bob Royal, Treble Bob Royal, and Grandsire Cinques.

DEATH OF A KENT RINGER.PASSING OF A RESPECTED LEADER.

It is with deepest regret that we have to record the death of Mr. William Henry Harper, of Swanscombe, Kent, after only a few days' illness. The deceased gentleman was ringing for morning and afternoon service on Sunday, January 9th, and his death took place on the 17th inst., at the age of 63.

It is safe to say that no ringer was held in greater respect than the late Mr. Harper. He had been a member of the Kent County Association for over 40 years, and in all his ringing career he had been attached to Swanscombe tower, where for many years he was the leader. How many had been taught the art at his hands, it would be difficult to say. He was ever ready with good advice to young ringers, always encouraging, and, although a fine conductor, would always give way to the younger members, for he took great interest in helping them on, both as ringers and conductors, and no one is more able to testify to this than the writer. Mr. Harper took part in many 'first' performances for the Kent Association, and as far back as 1889 was in the band that rang the first peal of Kent Treble Bob for the county. He was also a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

By Mr. Harper's death, Swanscombe has lost a valued friend, as, in addition to his ringing, he was churchwarden at the Parish Church, and had been a chorister for a great number of years.

At the express wish of Mrs. Harper, the funeral was of a quiet and simple character, and the respect with which the deceased gentleman was held was evinced when he was laid to rest in the quiet cemetery adjoining the church, a large number attending both at the church and graveside. Kent ringers were represented by Messrs. John H. Cheesman (one of the Central Council representatives), F. M. Mitchell (Rochester District secretary), W. L. Lane, R. Smith, and F. J. Ring (Swanscombe), W. Ware, G. Lingham and F. Draper (Northfleet). Mr. George Hayes, Mr. Harper's oldest and dearest friend among ringers, was able, in spite of his affliction, to attend and pay his last respects. Among the beautiful floral tributes, bells were sent from Swanscombe tower and Gravesend and old ringing friends, and wreaths from Northfleet and the Kent County Association, Rochester district.

In the evening, old and new friends assembled and rang a fine peal of Stedman Triples with the clappers half-muffled, which is recorded elsewhere. Prior to ringing, the Rector of Swanscombe, the Rev. Campbell Ward, visited the belfry and said a few prayers for their departed brother, and wished the ringers success.

Thus has passed from this world one who will be greatly missed. He has rung his last peal, for the Great Conductor of all things has thought fit to say, 'William Henry Harper—that's all. Stand!'

THE CAMBRIDGE YOUTHS.A DEPLORABLE STATE OF AFFAIRS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Difficulty has been experienced lately at Great St. Mary's Church, Cambridge, the headquarters of the society, in finding eight or more ringers to ring on the various occasions required by the corporation and University authorities, owing to deaths, removals and business.

The company at present musters nine ringing members, and in order to abolish the unsatisfactory system of obtaining unpaid casual assistance from members of the University Guild, and others, five qualified ringers from Cambridge and district were proposed as new members.

Voting took place at a monthly meeting held on Monday, January 17th, when all the names proposed were rejected by four votes to three, the voting being as follows: Messrs. A. T. Chenery, T. R. Dennis, E. G. Hibbins for, and Messrs. J. Taylor, P. Taylor, H. J. Hazell, and W. Easden against. Messrs. York Green and W. Welch were absentees through illness.

The sole reason advanced for this ill-tuned decision was 'money,' and that any increase of membership would prejudice the amount to be divided, and render any loss of time unremunerative.

The annual income derived from all sources averages roughly about 30 guineas, including hon. members' subscriptions, one guinea (when any are proposed and elected), and the whole of the money thus obtained is divided among the members according to attendances. The society's officials consist of a permanent secretary and a steward by monthly rotation, and the society has full use of the bells, ringing whenever it so pleases, and is entirely independent of the church authorities.

Ringings for Sunday evening services (mornings not permissible owing to King's Chapel) has never been performed by full members of the society, and it is only due to the generous support of the University Guild and local enthusiasts that any ringing in Cambridge on Sundays has been possible, and the remark by one that 'the bells have never been rung for service and never would be' is quite understandable.

During the past 20 years beginners have never been encouraged, although excellent opportunities exist for teaching the young on the Seage's apparatus. In one case a lad was told to go to the six-bell towers and get his experience before he came to them.

Gifts and donations to the upkeep of the bells, so far as is known, have been one guinea to the rehanging in 1911, and two guineas to the recasting of the cracked 7th in 1924, given in two instalments by an irregular amendment, an instance of unexampled meanness.

Constant upbraiding of the members on the unsatisfactory state of affairs fails to produce any effort on their part to reform, and it is in sheer disgust at the latest folly on the part of the majority that we have to make public this deplorable state of affairs. We leave the Exercise to judge whether reform is long overdue, and wonder if there is another tower in the land where such conditions exist. We therefore decline to have anything further to do with the society until such time as there is a manifest desire to remedy these evils and make the society fit for progressive ringers to belong to.—Yours, etc.,

T. R. DENNIS.

LEICESTER CATHEDRAL.AN INVITATION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It may be of some interest to those members of the M.C.A. who reside in the new diocese of Leicester to know that the service of hallowing the Cathedral will take place on Monday, February 21st, and that on Monday, February 28th, the service in connection with the enthronement of the Bishop will be held. These will be great events in the history of the new diocese, and in connection with them the sub-dean has asked me to have peals rung of a 'substantial' sort at the conclusion of each of the two services, say 4 p.m.

The Cathedral company think with me that it would be nice if any ringer resident in the diocese who can ring Stedman Caters or Cambridge Surprise Royal, and would care for a rope in either of the attempts which will be made, should have an opportunity to stand in one of the attempts, but will would-be Stedman Cater and Cambridge Royalists please refrain. The hands will be made up by the Cathedral and local companies.

The following may be the mere imagination, but should the attempts prove successful it is possible that a permanent record will be placed in the belfry to commemorate the performances and the occasion for which they were rung, along with a peal already rung by the Cathedral company commemorating the creation of the new diocese, thus forming a unique trio. Anyone so desirous of standing in one of the attempts please communicate with me, but it can be understood that under the circumstances we shall be unable to include any 'passenger'.

—Yours truly

F. H. DEXTER.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

NORTH AND EAST DISTRICT'S PROPOSED VOTE FOR BOW BELLS.

In wintry weather, the annual meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at Southgate on Saturday last, and it was not surprising that only 36 members put in an appearance. The first eight to arrive, however, started well by ringing a course of London Surprise Major, which was soon followed by touches of Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Caters, etc., besides rounds for the beginners. Divine service was held at 5 p.m., when an address, given by the Rev. G. W. Stainsby, was much appreciated.

After an excellent tea, served in the schoolroom, had been disposed of, the usual business meeting took place, Mr. W. Pickworth presiding.

The balance sheet, showing a credit balance of £4 9s. 11d. on the year's working, was adopted, the actual funds of the district standing at £22 10s. 7d., plus £73 13s. 8d. invested.

Thirty-six new members were elected, including the bands at Pinner and Harrow Weald. In the former case, the bells have recently been rung, and the association is now providing instruction, whilst at Harrow Weald an entirely new band has been formed under the able guidance of Mr. G. R. Goodship, already with good results.

With one exception, the whole of the retiring officers and members of the Central Committee were re-elected.

A sum of £5 was voted towards the restoration of Bow bells, should such restoration take place. It was deemed advisable to deal with this matter provisionally, as a year would otherwise elapse before the matter could be again considered.

The condolences of the meeting were given to the president (Mr. E. A. Milne, J.P.), who was himself unable to attend, at the serious illness of his wife, the members wishing her a speedy recovery.—The good wishes of the meeting were also accorded to Mr. E. H. Tubb, of Emdley, who is recovering from a long illness.

Hearty votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar (Rev. C. F. Peplow) for the use of the bells; to the Rev. G. W. Stainsby for his address at the service; and to the several ladies who had prepared an excellent tea.

Afterwards the belfry was again visited, and several methods, including Bristol Surprise Major and Cambridge Surprise Royal, were rung.

TRANSPPOSITIONS AND VARIATIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Now that Mr. Dexter abandons his claim to the peal known as 'Dexter's Variation of Thurstans', I will tell him why, in my opinion, it is not a variation, either of Thurstans' or of Washbrook's first arrangement of the same peal. The essential feature of Thurstans' peal is the extras and omits, and all variations must contain this essential feature; the variations were pointed out a fortnight ago and need not be repeated. Washbrook's peal does not contain this essential feature, therefore it is not a variation of Thurstans'. The peal Mr. Dexter claimed is merely a transposition of the original, i.e., the 7th making 5th's three times in succession instead of 6th's, consequently the block must consist of four courses, as it can only follow a 5-6 in the third course of a part, and must be succeeded by a 5-6 to bring the 6th home.

The term 'variation' is often used where 'transposition' is the correct one, the most notorious instance being, I should say, 'Groves' Variation of Parker's Twelve-Part.' It is not a variation at all, it is merely a transposition; but in this particular peal the transposition improves on the original.

When Reeves introduced an extra bob in each part of Holt's Ten-Part he created a 'Variation.' He not only added a bob, but he made the part-ends come up in the plain course order, so that it would run round true from any part-end.

When Johnson introduced a bob 'before' in Middleton's peal of Cambridge he created a Variation, and a very useful one, too.

A variation applied to composition is very different to the same term applied to ringing. You can get a variation in the latter without altering the composition a scrap. All the course ends of Thurstans', Lates', and Brooks' are alike, but start the calling a course or two courses later and see what you will get. It will not be a variation of composition, though.

In view of Mr. Dexter's last letter, I trust Mr. Morris will not carry out the adjustment he suggests. It would not be true, and it would not be fair. I shall suggest at the proper time that the peals be known as (1) Washbrook-Thurstans', (2) Washbrook-Lates', (3) Washbrook-Brooks', with the word transposition (in brackets) added, if the peal has been rung in a transposed form.

This is not a parochial matter: it is one that will affect, eventually, all the Exercise, not to say anything about the second edition of 'Stedman,' in which it is bound to find a place.

I beg to thank Mr. Keeble for his words of appreciation. Coming from such an able ringer and conductor they are doubly welcome.—Yours,

W. A. CAVE.

P.S.—Mr. Pulling must take more water with it, for I cannot find on page 795 of December 17th what he has evidently found there.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

RECORD MEETING OF NORTHERN BRANCH.

The quarterly meeting of the Northern Branch of the above association was held at Old Hill on Saturday, January 15th, when nearly every tower in the branch was represented. Good use was made of the bells by the members during the afternoon, and a service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. A. Chapman), who, after extending a hearty welcome to the association to Old Hill Church, gave a very appropriate address.

Thanks to the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Parsons, a sumptuous tea awaited the ringers and their wives and friends in the Trinity Schools after the service, and the host and hostess gave their guests a real Black Country welcome.

Tea was followed by the business meeting, at which the Vicar presided.—The Vicar and his two churchwardens (Mr. A. H. Bassano and Mr. H. Bennett) were elected hon. members. The Kinver company were elected members of the association, and several other new members were also added to the roll, including Mr. J. Goodman and Mr. H. Sheppard, of the Dudley Guild.

Two of the oldest performing members of the association (Mr. T. Albutt and Mr. J. Eades) were elected hon. members of the association, this being a request from Bromsgrove Church company as a mark of respect to two of their oldest colleagues.

Mr. T. J. Salter (Kidderminster) was elected as Central Council representative of the branch for the association, his name to be ratified at the annual meeting.

It was unanimously decided to accept the Vicar of Bromsgrove's kind invitation to visit his church for the next meeting, to be held on the third Saturday in June.

The Secretary (Mr. A. J. Skelding) moved a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address, for the service, for the use of the bells, and for presiding at the meeting; to the churchwardens, and organist, and to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Parsons for the magnificent way they had entertained so large a party.—This was seconded by Mr. W. E. Moore (King's Norton), and supported by Mr. H. Mason and Mr. G. N. Cockin.—The vote was carried in a very appreciative and enthusiastic manner.

Mr. Parsons, in reply, thanked the members very sincerely on behalf of Mrs. Parsons and himself for the very kind vote of thanks, and expressed a wish that in future all members would notify the secretary of their intention to be present at the meetings, so that those who may be catering would experience no anxiety at the last moment as to whether they had made adequate provision. He also tendered sincere thanks to the ladies and gentlemen of the congregation for helping at the tea tables.—The Vicar also replied, and said it gave him great pleasure to have the association at Old Hill. He remarked that he had learnt a good deal by being in a new world, the ringing world.—A fine touch of Stedman Caters on the handbells in the room greatly pleased the interested visitors. The tower was again visited, and ringing in various methods was indulged in. This closed the largest and most enthusiastic meeting ever held by the branch.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

LOUGHBOROUGH DISTRICT.

An enjoyable afternoon and evening were spent at Whitwick by the Loughborough district on Saturday week. Although members turned up rather poorly, the bells were well utilised.

It was decided at the business meeting that the Central Council representatives should be re-elected.

The new vice-president was Mr. Pryce Taylor, and local district secretary Mr. J. Saddington, whilst Messrs. W. Thorley and David Collins were elected to serve on the committee.

The next meeting was fixed at Sutton Bonnington on Saturday, February 19th. One new ringing member was elected, viz., Mr. J. W. Rawson, of Whitwick, and a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Canon T. W. Walters for his presence and kind use of the bells.

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

The annual report for 1926 is about to be printed, and to save any errors will any members who have changes of address, correction or additions to note, please advise me not later than February 5th?

Will members of the Nottingham district please forward subscriptions direct to me for the time being?

General Hon. Secretary.

WEDDING BELLS.

At St. Michael's Parish Church, Bishop's Stortford, on Saturday, January 22nd, on the occasion of the wedding of one of the ringers, Mr. Fred Springham, son of the energetic sexton and steeplekeeper, Mr. P. Springham, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: V. Matthews (first-quarter peal) 1, D. Hadyn 2, C. Beeston (first-quarter-peal as conductor) 3, J. Jarvis 4, H. Wacey 5, W. T. Prior 6, H. Dew 7, W. Bush 8.

DEDICATION OF BELLS AT HARTBURY.

END OF A SEVEN YEARS' SILENCE.

The dedication of the bells at Hartbury, Gloucestershire, took place on Saturday, January 1st, when about 50 members of the Gloucester Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association attended.

The bells, which have been restored and supplemented by the addition of a treble, were dedicated by the Bishop of Gloucester (Dr. A. C. Headlam). They had previously been silent for 7 or 8 years owing to the frame being in bad condition and unsafe. A new framework has been provided. The work was placed in the hands of, and satisfactorily carried out by, Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon. The new treble bell weighs $5\frac{1}{2}$ cwt., and bears the following inscription: 'Give thanks to God. 1926. C.H. and W.B., Churchwardens.' The peal now consists of six bells. The second is a Rudhall bell cast in 1712. The others were cast as follows: 3rd bell, 1626; 4th, pre-Reformation, probably 1450; fifth, 1626; tenor, 1628. The total cost of the restoration and the new treble, £456 10s., has been raised by subscriptions and garden fetes held at Hartbury House, the residence of Mr. Gwynne Holford.

The dedication service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Robert Perry) and the lesson read by the Rev. F. R. C. Paton (Vicar of Barnwood and chairman of the Gloucester Branch). Following the singing of the hymn ('Thy Hand, O God, has guided'), the Bishop, preceded by the Vicar and churchwardens, went to the tower, where the Bishop dedicated the bells and recited special prayers. A short touch was then rung by the following members: B. Etheridge, W. H. Harris, G. L. Brunson, J. Austin, E. Davis, and J. Williams. At the conclusion of the Bishop's address another short touch was rung by the same ringers, and, later, the bells were thrown open to the rest of the company.

Afterwards, the whole of the ringers were invited to the residence of Mrs. Gwynne Holford, where an excellent tea had been provided. After tea, the Vicar said he should like to take the opportunity of thanking all the ringers for coming and assisting them that day, also of thanking Mr. S. Roper for the trouble he had taken, on behalf of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, to make their peal of bells a success.—Mr. Roper thanked the Vicar for his kind remarks, and asked the Vicar to accept as a small present an inkpot made of bell metal.—The Vicar, in accepting it, expressed his delight at the gift.

Mr. J. Williams proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. and Miss Gwynne Holford for their kindness in providing tea for all the ringers. Mr. J. Austin, in seconding the vote of thanks, said the go of the bells was everything that could be desired, and if at any time the Vicar required assistance the members would only be too glad to come and help him.—Mrs. Gwynne Holford thanked the members for their kind vote of thanks, and said how lovely the bells sounded that afternoon, after being silent so long. It was a pleasure to have the members there that day.—The health of 'Mrs. and Miss Gwynne Holford' having been drunk, the members returned to the tower, and the bells were kept going in standard methods until 8 p.m.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Hunts district was held at Long Stanton on January 15th. The weather was fine, and there was a large attendance of ringers, the towers represented including Cambridge, St. Neots, Huntingdon, Gt. Staughton, Somersham, Godmanchester, Oakington, Trumpington, Chatteris, and Ashbourne (Derbyshire). Various touches were rung on the bells during the afternoon and evening, the methods including Plain Bob, Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Grandsire and Stedman.

A service was held, at which a very pithy short address was given by the Rev. R. F. R. Routh, Rector of Castle Camps. Tea was partaken of in the school, when about 35 were present, including the general secretary, the Rev. R. Copenman.

At the business meeting which followed, the chair was taken by the Vicar of Long Stanton, and four new members were elected, viz., Messrs. S. G. Peck and L. Currington, of Eynesbury, and Misses Doris Clarke and Ruby Davis, of St. Neots.—It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Great Staughton some time in May, with the permission of the incumbent.—Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to Mr. Routh for his address, and Mrs. Woolley and the ladies who served the tea.

WARWICKSHIRE PEAL OF SIX RESTORED.

LITTLE VILLAGE RAISES BIG SUM.

The bells of St. Nicolas' Church, Willoughby, have, after a silence of about seven years, been restored by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who have strengthened the existing frame, quarter turned the bells, and fitted them with ball bearings, new head stocks and wheels. In the opinion of the local ringers the 'go' of them is excellent.

Willoughby is only a small village of 300 persons, and since the scheme was started four years ago for the restoration of the tower and bells a sum of £500 has been raised. Mr. Johnson, one of the churchwardens, giving a donation of £50. The front five of these bells were cast in 1713 by Joseph Smith, of Edgbaston. The tenor, which was cast in 1781 by William Chapman, of Whitechapel, weighs 14½ cwt.

The bells were rung for the first time on December 23rd by the local ringers and friends from the neighbouring village of Braunston, when several 120's of Grandsire were rung.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE GHELTHENHAM BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Cheltenham branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association took place at Charlton Kings on Saturday, January 15th, and was attended by about 40 members. The bells, a ring of eight, were raised in peal about 5.30, and soon were going into Doubles and Minor for the benefit of the six-bell tower members. Service, held in this fine old church, was very musical, the Vicar (Rev. Edgar Neale) conducting, assisted by the Rev. Gardener (curate), the Vicar himself playing the organ and giving a fine address on bells, ancient and modern.

Afterwards, a move was made to the Church Room, where the ladies had a bounteous tea ready, and this was much appreciated.—At the meeting which followed, the Vicar presided, supported by Captain Trye, R.N., Mr. W. Yeend, sen., Mr. W. Dyer, the hon. secretary (W. Yeend, jun.), and representatives from Prestbury, Winchcombe, Dumbleton, Leigh, Tredington, Swindon, Leckhampton, Badgeworth, Cheltenham (St. Mary's and St. Mark's), and the local tower. The branch chairman (Rev. A. D. Pennington) wrote regretting that he was prevented from attending the meeting.

The Dumbleton Band were congratulated on having rung their first peal of Minor.

The following officers were re-elected, with the best thanks of the members for past services: Chairman, Rev. A. D. Pennington (Alderton); branch representative, W. Townsend (Leckhampton); hon. secretary, W. Yeend, jun. (Swindon).

It was decided to hold two full meetings and two ringing meetings during the coming year. Winchcombe (ringing meeting) and Alderton (full meeting) were decided upon for the respective spring and summer meetings.

One hon. and one performing member were elected, and Mr. Alf. Pulley (Dumbleton) was elected assistant secretary to work the Winchcombe Deanery.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar and all who had helped to make the meeting such a success.—The Vicar, replying, said he should always consider it an honour to have the members at his church, and hoped they would come again.

The tower was again visited and much useful practice obtained.

LADIES' GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Southern District was held at Farnham on Saturday, January 22nd, when in spite of inclement weather ringers attended from Aldershot, Ash, Guildford and Cranleigh. Ringing commenced about 3.30, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman were rung. The service was conducted by the Rev. H. Snelling, of Wrecclesham, who also presided at the tea.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector and to Mr. Clapshaw for his kind help.—Mr. Clapshaw responded with a delightful speech, in which he extended a warm welcome to all.

At the business meeting it was decided to hold the next meeting at Staines on the third Saturday in May.—The tower was revisited and further methods rung until 8.30.

MORE QUICK WORK.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I read in your columns last week about the quick work at Kington Magna, when repairs to the clapper of one of their bells were completed in 36 hours. In justice to the bell founders, I should like to let you know what Messrs. Mears and Stainbank did for us. We had the sixth clapper of Newbury bells fall out and break in half. I sent it off to London per passenger train on Tuesday, December 28th, at 11 a.m., asking them to let me have it back for New Year's Eve.

The clapper was returned with new stem welded and fittings complete, and reached Newbury on Thursday afternoon, December 30th, thus taking only 48 hours. Great credit is due to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, considering it was holiday week. We were then able to have the full peal to ring in the New Year.—Yours truly,

H. W. CURTIS,
Captain of Newbury Tower.

THE HEIGHT OF BOW STEEPLE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The article in the 'Times' from which you quote in this week's 'Ringing World' gives the height of the above tower as 235ft. I have before me Sir Banister Fletcher's 'History of Architecture,' open at page 732, where drawings and detailed measurements are given of the steeples of Bow Church and St. Bride's, Fleet Street. According to this authority the height of Bow steeple is 216ft. 1in., and that of St. Bride's 11ft. higher, viz., 226ft. 1in. These measurements are in each case exclusive of the weather vane, for which about 5 or 6ft. extra must be allowed, but even so the spire of Bow Church would only come to 222ft.—Yours,

H. B. WOOLLEY.

Long Stanton Vicarage, Cambridge,
January 21st, 1927.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

BELFERY CONDITIONS IN THE MIDDLE OF LAST CENTURY.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The picture that Mr. Lukis draws of the state of ringers and ringing in the middle of last century is black indeed. Coming from one whose sympathies were all in favour of bells and ringing, it must be taken as a pretty accurate one. But it must be remembered that he was writing primarily about Wiltshire, a part of the country where change ringing never flourished to a great extent, and where the circumstances (described in these notes a short time ago) which caused a decline in ringing in country districts were in full force. If we are to judge fairly the condition of the Exercise at this time we must look elsewhere; to the Eastern Counties, to London, Birmingham, and the North.

That there was great need for reform everywhere is certain. But it is not quite fair to put all the blame on the ringers, as Mr. Lukis seems to do. If towers and belfries were 'left to the sole occupation of unclean birds, and profane and irreverent ringers,' it was the clergy who really were responsible. The truth was that the conditions were the result of more than a century of neglect, and it has taken more than half that time to put matters something like right.

How scandalous the neglect was, is shown by the state of the towers and bells at that time, and on this point I will quote Mr. Lukis in full:—

'It is a matter for our grave consideration how it comes to pass that so many of our village churches should have their towers in so dilapidated a condition. I have seen several in the course of my Wiltshire rambles which are in so dangerous a state that the bells are forbidden to be rung. There can be no doubt that this arises from two causes. In the first place bells for which the towers were originally constructed were not subject to the same revolutions and tossings as now. They were swung to and fro, it is true, but very gently compared with the wild somersaults of change ringing, an art of comparatively recent date. Consequently, in constructing the towers, the architects of those days had not to take into their consideration the great vibration of the walls produced by the violent movement of the bells. In 1810 the spire of St. Nicholas's Church, Liverpool, fell as the people were assembling for service and killed twenty-three persons. This catastrophe was partly caused by the vibration of the bells. Anyone who has stood in the belfry of the lofty and beautiful tower of Magdalen College, Oxford, when a peal is ringing on its ten sweet toned bells knows the way in which a tower is made to sway. To a person of weak nerves it is perfectly alarming, and it is easy to understand how this kind of vibration must loosen the masonry and eventually endanger the building.

The following is an extract from the ancient churchwardens' account of St. Thomas', Salisbury: "At a vestry held 6 April 1640 Item by reason of the danger wch the tower is in by ringing of the bells, since they were hung high and in other respects it is agreed that the bells shall bee hung lower at the pitch they formerly were hung att, and the churchwardens are desired to do itt accordingly."

DEATH OF A RYE RINGER.

On Tuesday, January 18th, the death took place of Mr. Lawrence T. H. Seers, of Rye, Sussex, at the age of 62 years, after an illness of only a few days' duration. Mr. Seers joined the Rye belfry in 1900, and was a regular Sunday service ringer for about twenty-five years, but was prevented from taking part in any peals through a 'bad leg' which made long standing too great a strain. It was only on this account that Mr. Seers gave up ringing two years ago, but he has remained keenly interested and was always willing to fill a gap in an emergency.

For fourteen years the deceased was a member of the Board of Guardians and the treasurer of a local branch of Foresters, and in both of these capacities his services will be missed and his death deeply regretted.

The funeral took place at the Rye Borough Cemetery on Friday last. The bells of the Parish Church were rung fully muffled while the cortege was passing through the town on its way to the cemetery, where the local hon. secretary represented the ringers at the graveside.

The sympathy of all local ringers will be extended to Mrs. Seers and her son in their sad and sudden loss.

BELL MUSIC.

The article on 'Bells,' which recently appeared in the leader columns of 'The Times,' has created quite a considerable interest, and the correspondence which it has produced has included letters on the rival merits of Simpson and the old standard tuning. This is a subject which hitherto has been of interest almost exclusively to bell experts, and those contemplating the recasting of an old or the erection of a new peal. The letters in 'The Times' should widen the circle of interest, and ringers may find that a question which they looked upon as peculiarly their own bone of contention is becoming a topic of discussion in the musical world generally. But 'The Times' article touched another side of bell 'music.' The writer said :—

'One might hazard the view that nine cultivated people out of ten regard bells as an accidental survival of the primitive, and the Sunday-morning chimes, sounding against each other, as a logical cacophony, tolerable only for its purpose. On the other hand, there remains the indisputable fact that, considered ideally as a musical instrument, the three-toned bell is perfect, as the violin is perfect. The grace of its form—the curve of "haunch," "waist," and "mouth"—is not merely coincident with the grace of its music, but the cause of it. The probability seems to be that the only 'primitive' thing about great bells is the way in which they are commonly used. Certainly nothing could be more worthy of such a word than the clumsy and false-noted tune occasionally replacing that abstruse arithmetic of the campanologists which has afforded combined mental and physical exercise to white-bearded "College Youths" through so many centuries. It seems possible that we are just now on the verge of very great discoveries in this matter.'

This phase of bell 'music' is taken further in an interesting letter, which will be found on another page, in which Mr. Edgar Shepherd points out how some, at any rate, of the discoveries referred to by 'The Times' writer have long since been made, and the 'tittum' and 'handstroke' course-ends, particularly in Caters and Cinques, are analogous to the repetition of themes in orchestral music. Mr. Shepherd puts forward a view which we think has been, up to now, hardly sufficiently realised by the vast majority of ringers. We talk of 'musical' compositions as if they were only for the ear of the ringers, who, for example, prefer to hear the sixth rather than the second dodging behind with the tenor, but our correspondent points out that these musical properties are equally important where the outside listener is concerned, and he goes even further, and suggests that if the layman could be taught to listen for the course ends, or the sequences in which the 'music' is most pronounced, we should go a long way towards inculcating in the general public a greater appreciation of our art. But here let us emphasise an important point in this matter. Ringers themselves must not only ring 'musical' peals and touches, but they must for ever strive to ring well. Indifferent, let alone bad, striking

VARIATIONS OF THURSTANS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Cave has no need to reiterate his views for my benefit as to what is or is not a variation, for my views are diametrically opposed to his. I can only trust that both of us will live sufficiently long to hear what another generation will have to say to a claim put forward on a composition several generations earlier.

In reference to myself forgoing the rights to this particular variation, will Mr. Cave please note the following dates: Mr. Fowler passed away in 1914; obviously the figures were sent earlier, because he sent them. Mr. Washbrook called it in 1918.

Mr. Cave suggested he never saw them as mine, but Mr. Morris confirms my statement. Also in one of his letters Mr. Cave bluntly asserts there is no Dexter variation. Perhaps there is not. It is a detail either way, but it may interest him to know that I can give him every variation of the four parts, either with singles or by omits and extras.

Everyone knows that the quarter-peal must be connected either by singles or by omits and extras. Mr. Cave tells us that when connected by singles they (the variations) are all Washbrook's, therefore when connected up by omits and extras they must be all 'Thurstans', so there cannot be any Pitstow's or anyone else's variation, for you cannot have it both ways.

The following variation may interest some of your readers:

INSURANCE OF RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I think Mr. Dyke's letter re Insurance of Ringers should interest all concerned. It is a fact that some Church Councils insure their ringers, but I take it that they are only so insured when ringing in their own towers. Accidents are more likely to happen when visiting strange towers, and in my opinion what is required is an individual policy for all ringers. This, I believe, could be secured for an annual premium of not more than one shilling to cover all risks whenever and wherever a man was ringing. I believe that this would be a profitable business for any insurance company, as the risks are really not very great.

Such a policy would help any who were unfortunate enough to meet with an accident, or the relative of any ringer who might be killed while ringing or getting about the tower.

I sincerely hope that now the matter has been raised it will not be allowed to drop until something has been done in the matter.—Yours truly,

E. J. ELLIOTT.

NOTES BY THE WAY. BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Mr. Lukis further writes:—

'In the second place, and this I take to be the principal cause of the evil, the churchwardens have been sadly negligent. With a little grease, and new ropes allowed now and then, they have imagined that their duty to the bells and to the parish has been faithfully done, whereas mischief of a three-fold nature has been growing and increasing—mischief to the building, to the bells, and to the parishioners—the one ending in its dilapidation and ruin; the second in their utter destruction; and the third to the prejudice of their pockets. In a tower in this county I found three of the six bells broken, as I firmly believe, from this cause, and several peals of bells rendered nearly useless in consequence of the shaky state of the towers. As an instance of the way in which some, I may say many, churchwardens speak and act, I will mention that I was warned by a parish clerk to be very careful where I stepped in the bell-loft, for, said he, "the tower be main crazy." On asking the churchwarden for the key of the church, and mentioning the clerk's humane warning, he said, "Sir, I have known the tower these forty years, and he never was no better than he is now. He's quite safe. I'll tell'ee what, sir; one day the bishop come, and he said, muster churchwarden, you've a very pretty church, and he's in very good order. Another day another gentleman came. I think they call'un a rural dean, and he said, muster churchwarden, you've a very pretty church and he's sadly out of repair." When I returned the key, I did not see the churchwarden, or I should have told him that in my humble opinion both the rural dean and the parish clerk were right; for I had seen very many churches and many helfries, but few in a worse condition.

'And to illustrate the way in which these good easy parish officers will sometimes suffer the house of God to fall into decay, while I fear they spend what they rob Him of in their own bodily comforts, I will tell you that in ascending a Wiltshire tower with careful step I sank through the rotten floor of one of its stages and was preserved from a broken limb, if not an untimely end, by the joists, which happened to be less decayed.

'Bells require very constant attention to keep them in proper ringing order. When you consider their enormous weight, the different parts of their gear, the iron and wood of which it is composed, bolted and screwed together, the frame work on which they hang, and in revolving which they violently shake and vibrate; and then reflect that the iron and wood are both exposed to continual changes of atmosphere; and that under our condition of atmosphere, when one of these materials expands the other contracts, and that then the bells cannot oscillate so easily, you will form some idea of the care and attention they require to keep them in ringing order. Well, suppose screws to get loose and to remain so during many successive generations of churchwardens, the iron straps to become corroded, thin, weak, and then to snap; the gudgeons to wear unequally by the friction, and thereby to throw the bells out of the horizontal, you can imagine what the consequences must be. The bells revolve heavily, the frame work shakes and creaks, and the ringers, who have no voice in the vestry, and no power over parish moneys, do what they can to remedy some of the evil, and the very thing they do only increases the mischief. They put wedges between the frame work and the walls of the tower to stop the creaking; but the result of this is to set the walls shaking, and finally to destroy them. Or if this does not immediately happen, the clappers of the bells get out of order, and striking the sound bow suddenly in a fresh place cause them to crack instantly.

'I have frequently been much pained by observing the shameful state of filth and neglect of many of Wiltshire bell-lofts. Generally speaking, the dark winding stone staircases (when they have any) leading to them are dirty, worn and difficult to tread; and you have to corkscrew your way up with very careful step, and when you have secured your footing and are beginning to congratulate yourself on having passed every obstacle, you suddenly come upon a huge heap of sticks, straw, feathers, bits of cloth and other rubbish, the patient and laborious work of indefatigable jackdaws. When the towers have no stone staircase the bells have to be reached by a succession of crazy ladders, planted on equally crazy floors.

'How very shameful that any part of God's house should be so neglected! Why should towers be so desecrated? Are they not as much a portion of the church as any other part? Why should they be left to the sole occupation of unclean birds and profane and irreverent ringers? Why, the very jackdaws, starlings and owls used to stare at me and linger among the bells before they took flight, wondering, perhaps, what kind of evil bird I was, and with what possible object I had intruded unbidden into the territory to which generations of parishioners had given them a prescriptive right.

'We may, I think, attribute this state of things to two causes, first, to a want of interest in the art of bell-ringing; and, secondly, to the difficulty which is experienced by the clergy in managing the generally most unruly set of men in a parish—the ringers. However, there has been a salutary reform effected of late years among another branch of church musicians, and we may hope to witness a reform in this respect also before long.'

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION. LEWISHAM DISTRICT.

The quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District was held at Holy Trinity, Dartford, on Saturday. The bells were raised at 3 p.m., and kept going throughout the afternoon and evening. The methods rung ranged from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge Surprise Major. Service was held at five o'clock, the association form being used, and the Vicar gave a short address.

About forty members then repaired to the Church House to partake of a splendid tea, kindly supplied by the Vicar (the Rev. L. Hammond). Afterwards, six members entertained the company with touches on the handbells.

The business meeting followed, the Vicar presiding. The chairman and the Rev. W. E. Bott, Vicar of Christ Church, Erith, were elected hon. members of the association. Eight new members were elected, and the election of two members previous to peals was ratified.

Mr. W. J. Jeffries read a concise report of proceedings at the general committee meeting held at Maidstone in November last.—This was adopted, with a vote of thanks to Mr. Jeffries for his careful attention to his duties.

The next business was the selection of the place of next meeting. Chislehurst was proposed, and an invitation to visit St. Mary Cray was extended to the meeting.—On being put to the gathering, St. Mary Cray was chosen.

The meeting was notified of the death of Mr. W. Harper, of Swanscombe, and expressed their sympathy and respect by standing in silence for one minute.

Mr. W. J. Jeffries informed the meeting that an application to the Benevolent Fund on behalf of Mr. W. J. Law had been successful.

Mr. T. Groombridge, sen., moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and his address, for presiding at the meeting and for his generous hospitality in providing the tea, and to the organist for his kind services.—The Vicar responded, and this closed a very successful meeting.

The members then adjourned to the tower for further ringing.

LADIES' GUILD.NORTHERN DISTRICT MEETING.

The quarterly meeting of the Northern District of the Ladies' Guild was held on Saturday, at St. John's, Miles Platting, Manchester, where a nice ring of eight was made good use of in the various standard methods. About 40 ringers were present, and among the towers represented were the following: Ashton-under-Lyne, Crossestones, Dore, Handsworth, Hyde, Middleton, Prestwich, Stockport, Todmorden, Walsden and Worksop.

The local company are to be congratulated on the very excellent arrangements that were made.

A service was held in the church, at which the preacher, Canon Elsee (president of the Lancashire Association), delighted those present with a most interesting analysis of the fascination of change ringing for followers of the Exercise.

After tea, thanks were expressed by Miss Tayler, of Worksop, and the secretary to the Vicar and the church authorities for their kindness, and to Canon Elsee for having honoured the ladies by his presence at their meeting, and for his address.

Miss Tayler presided over the business meeting, at which 16 ladies were present, seven of them being elected new members of the Guild.

The next meeting was fixed for Easter Monday at Gainsborough, and the possibility of a ladies' peal for the Northern District discussed.

A feature of the ringing was a touch of Bob Major and a course of Grandsire Triples by bands of ladies.

The secretary would like to take this opportunity of expressing his very grateful thanks to all who contributed to the success of the meeting.

SILVER WEDDING.

On Saturday evening, January 22nd, to celebrate the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. Arthur Goad, a member of the St. Thomas' band, Exeter, an attempt for a peal of Grandsire Triples was made at the Parish Church, but after 2½ hours' ringing a change course brought it to an end: H. H. Thomas 1, E. W. Biffin (conductor) 2, R. Davey 3, J. Hoegood 4, A. Monkby 5, W. Howe 6, A. H. Goad 7, W. Bailey 8.

Afterwards, the ringers spent a very pleasant hour at Mr. Goad's house, where light refreshments were partaken of. Plain courses of Stedman Doubles were rung on the handbells by Mr. and Mrs. Goad and Miss Goad, which greatly delighted the company, who also took part with the handbells in other items. Through indisposition, Mr. T. J. Stokes, the district secretary, was unable to take part in the ringing, but met the company at Mr. Goad's house.

ANOTHER BIG CROYDON CARILLON.

Members of the American Society in London visited Messrs. Gillett and Johnston's bell foundry at Croydon on Thursday of last week, and inspected a carillon of 43 bells which will shortly be installed at St. Chrysostom's Church, Chicago, as a memorial to Richard Tower Crane, a pioneer bell founder of that city. The visitors also witnessed the casting of one of the bells of a carillon ordered for Princeton University. As the molten metal was being poured into the mould, Mr. A. H. Rowan, a Princeton graduate of 1899, threw in a silver coin for luck.

A carillon recital was given, of which, it was stated, gramophone records had recently been made, Mr. Kamel Lefevere, of Malines, being the carillonneur.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are also making a large carillon and clock for Toronto University, and are about to dispatch a clock for the memorial tower of the Canadian Houses of Parliament at Ottawa, where they are also placing the biggest carillon in the world.

YORKTOWN'S OLDEST RINGER.DEATH OF A RESPECTED LEADER.

On Tuesday, January 25th, the death took place of Mr. T. P. Kemp, of King's Ride, Camberley, Surrey, after a short illness. Mr. Kemp, who was 78 years of age, joined the Yorktown band in 1893, and was captain for some years and also a regular Sunday service ringer.

He carried on a business as builder and undertaker in the town. The funeral took place on Friday last at St. Michael's Church, the ringers being represented by Mr. G. Prime, bearing a wreath from his colleagues of the belfry. Mr. Prime joined the band with the deceased in 1893.

After the burial, the bells were rung fully muffled with the tenor open at the back stroke, and they were rung again in the evening, the ringing being conducted by Mr. F. Ewens. The sympathy of the ringers is extended to Mr. Kemp's family in their sad bereavement.

CADOXTON.—On Sunday, December 12th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,250 changes) in 40 mins.: R. Bendle (first quarter away from tenor) 1, H. Matthews (first quarter inside) 2, J. E. Bloxham 3, G. I. Lewis 4, C. Lake (conductor) 5, M. Walters (first quarter) 6.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—On Sunday, December 12th, at St. Peter's Church, 840 Grandsire Triples: Mrs. A. Wolstencroft 1, Miss Ida Wolstencroft 2, E. Johnson 3, Jas. Clayton 4, Wm. Hawke 5, Arthur Prestwick 6, W. W. Wolstencroft (conductor) 7, F. Robinson 8. Rung on the 102nd anniversary of the church, and as a farewell to the Rev. C. L. Schofield, whose induction to Ashworth, Rochdale, took place on December 18th.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The bells of Edgbaston Old Church are now at the Loughborough foundry. The old six are to be recast and trebles added to complete the octave. They are to be hung in a new iron frame with modern fittings.

Tickets for the Johnson Commemoration Dinner, on February 19th, are going rapidly, and intending visitors are advised to apply early.

An appeal has been issued for funds for the 'renovation and re-decoration of the interior of Bow Church,' but no mention is made in the bells. We hope that the important scheme for dealing with the bells is not intentionally omitted.

The bells of St. Martin's, Birmingham, are to be broadcast on Sunday evening, February 6th, and the Cathedral bells on Sunday evening, February 13th, both from 8 to 8.14 p.m.

To-morrow is the anniversary of two long peals. On February 5th, 1783, 12,672 Bob Major was rung at Bromley, Kent, in 7 hrs. 48 mins.

The first peal of London Surprise on handbells were rung at Roufford on February 6th, 1904.

There was a rare day's ringing on February 7th, 1783, when the bells of St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, were opened. Three different bands rang three peals in one day: 5,120 Oxford Treble Bob by the College Youths, 5,040 Grandsire Triples by the Cumberlands, and 5,216 Oxford Treble Bob by the College Youths.

The first Surprise peal in the Metropolis was rung at Bethnal Green on February 8th, 1850.

In reference to the peal of Cambridge Minor rung at Sproughton, Suffolk, on Friday, January 14th, 1927, and published as first of Cambridge Minor in either Suffolk or Norfolk, a peal of Minor in the above method was rung at Wreutham, Suffolk, for the Norfolk Guild on Thursday, July 3rd, 1924, conducted by F. W. Naunton.

The tea and service at the annual meeting of the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association at Isleworth on Saturday, have been advanced one hour. The service is now to be held at 4 p.m., and the tea at 4.45.

Members of the Eastern Division of the Yorkshire Association and friends will be sorry to hear of the loss sustained by Mr. W. Gibson, local secretary, of Beverley, on the death of his wife after a long and painful illness. The late Mrs. Gibson was always a willing helper at ringers' meetings and other church functions.

Mr. Edward Wallage, to whom we referred in this column last week as steeplekeeper at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, tells us that he has held that position upwards of 52 years. He has been a member of the College Youths for 57 years, and although he is now 76 he chimes at Whitechapel three times every Sunday and rings twice at St. Paul's Cathedral.

Mr. Wallage rang in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Whitechapel, conducted by J. R. Haworth, on January 7th, 1875, previous to the demolition of the old tower, and also took part in the first peal in the present tower—Stedman Triples—on February 5th, 1887, conducted by James Pettitt. He is the only survivor of those two bands.

More power to your elbow, Ted, and we hope you will long be spared to carry on the duties you now so ably discharge.

We referred last week to the ill-luck which pursues Mr. A. H. Pulling in regard to Surprise peals at Warnham, where the attempts have been made for the record peal of London. Last Saturday he got within half an hour of the end of a peal of Guildford Surprise, when the tenor clapper broke, which recalls the fact that one day last summer a band, of which the writer was one, visited Warnham for a Surprise peal. They met one short—Ike Shade was the absentee, a thing never known before—and thus Mr. Pulling was baulked of that elusive Surprise peal, although a peal of Stedman was rung.

Considering that their opportunities of practising the method are extremely limited, the Leicester men are to be heartily congratulated upon their peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus.

THE LATE MR. WM. HALEY.

The late Mr. William Haley, whose death we briefly recorded in a recent issue, was born in 1857, and was a son of Henry William Haley, the well-known ringer and composer. He himself, however, did not take any practical part in ringing.

He was employed as church and musical handbell tuner to Messrs. Warner and Sons for over 40 years.

He had a particularly keen ear, and had on more than one occasion been complimented by well-known musicians on the accuracy of his work. When the late Sir Arthur Sullivan came to inspect the bells which he had tuned for a performance of his 'Golden Legend,' Sir Arthur told him that he had a better ear than he himself had.

About three years ago Mr. Haley commenced business on his own account as a manufacturer of handbells, which he carried on successfully until a few days before he died.

He was the author of several books, the best known being the 'Bell Hymn Book,' published by Messrs. J. Warner and Sons, for which he received a testimonial from Sir George C. Martin, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral.

No definite decision has yet been come to as to the future of the business.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN CARTER.PASSING OF A GENIUS.

It is our sad duty to record to-day the death of Mr. John Carter who passed away, after a lingering illness, at the age of 72 years, on Saturday at his residence, 25, Lessing Street, Honor Oak Park, London, S.E.

Mr. Carter was one of the outstanding figures of the Exercise for a great many years. He was a man of genius, both in the mechanical world and in the realm of composition. His creative brain enabled him to produce his wonderful ringing machine, admitted by all competent judges to be one of the most marvellous and ingenious productions of man. Since his retirement from business, Mr. Carter perfected the machine which now finds a resting place in the Science Museum at South Kensington.

Mr. Carter's work in the composition of peals is well known, and his knowledge of Stedman was unsurpassed.

Next week we hope to give a more detailed account of his career.

THE SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE RECORD.PERFECT RINGING.

On Saturday last, the record length of Superlative Surprise Major, 11,232 changes, was rung at the Bolton Parish Church in seven hours and ten minutes.

The church selected was an ideal one, as the tower is over 200 feet high, and although situated in the centre of a large town the ringing was in no way a nuisance. The bells are a spliced octave, five by Henry Bagley, 1699, and the three trebles cast from an old bell of the 12th century, in 1806. It was a good splice, and the bells are of good tone. Last year they were tuned and relung in ball bearings. The tenor is 15½ cwt.

At 10 a.m., the appointed time, with the exception of Allan Bailey for Harry Chapman, who was suffering from an injured knee, the same band who had been foiled by being unfortunately plunged into darkness after 5 hours and 6 minutes' ringing, met again. They were delayed in starting owing to the Press photographer.

At 10.33 a.m., 'Go' was called with a beat of 25 changes to the minute, and during the 5½ hours that I heard them this beat was maintained, and the striking coincided with the name of the method. In my opinion it was the best part of the performance. Hour after hour rolled by without a miss blow, every hand stroke lead shown, and whatever record is set up in the number of changes, the striking will never be beaten. This was the general opinion of all who heard the ringing.

I think the conductor is worthy of praise in conducting the peal from a non-observation bell.

The bells came round at 5.43 p.m., and waiting to congratulate the band were ringers from Crewe, Huddersfield, Fendleton and Walkden, along with many local and district men.

The only regret the band had was that Mr. Harry Chapman had not been able to take part, as he had been one of the most interested men in the attempt, having rung in long peals before, and conducted the first peal of Superlative Surprise Major for the Lancashire Association.

Great interest was shown by the public also, probably owing to a paragraph in the local newspaper on Thursday evening, as large crowds gathered during the afternoon to hear the ringing, and ringers outside were bombarded with some awkward technical questions to answer.

The band wish to thank the Vicar for the use of the bells, the authorities for their trouble and expense of putting in gas fittings so as to doubly ensure the safety of the lighting, and the local ringers for all they did in preparation, and doing 'guard' over that fatal electric light switch.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS.THE OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The annual general meeting was held at St. Martin-in-the-Fields on Saturday, January 22nd. The attendance was quite good, although unfortunately bad weather prevented many from being present. The most noticeable absentee was Mr. Benjamin Fokkett (the 'father' of the society), who had not missed an 'annual' for many a year. Ringing commenced at 4.15, and as permission had been given for the use of the bells up to 6 o'clock and again after the business meeting, up to 9 o'clock, everyone present had the opportunity of a pull, either in Cinques, Maximus, Royal or Caters. Tea was served in the crypt at 6 o'clock, and after a short touch of Stedman Cinques and a course of Grandshire Cinques on handbells, for the benefit of the ladies who assisted at the tables, the members proceeded to the Church Room for the business meeting.

The treasurer presented the balance sheet, which showed a satisfactory increase on the year 1925. All the officers were re-elected as follows: Master, Mr. J. D. Matthews; secretary, Mr. J. Sparrow; treasurer, Mr. J. W. Cornford; senior steward, Mr. C. J. Matthews; junior steward, Mr. T. Bevan; trustees, Messrs. F. Smith and A. Hardy. New members having been elected, the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to all officers for their services during the past year.

THE 'MUSIC' OF CHANGE RINGING.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The interesting little article in a recent number of the 'Times' deserves more than passing attention. The writer, in the course of his remarks, ventures the opinion that the world is on the verge of a musical discovery in the mysterious regions of change ringing. The fact is that this discovery has long been made, and the thoughtful change ringer realises what the lay mind has so far failed to appreciate—that a peal of bells is a musical instrument, and that however circumscribed its powers it has certain definite musical possibilities.

The music of bells depends not upon combinations of notes but upon sequence and rhythm; that is, well ordered arrangement of notes and regular and stately beat. Even thus, there are, in change ringing, two clear and distinct ways of considering musical values. In Triples, and to a great extent in Major, the musical effect is secured by a judicious handling of terminations. We have discovered the value of such terminations as 468, 748, 678, 857, 867, and we strive to arrange our rows so as to produce these as often as possible.

In the wider regions of Caters and Cinques, more is possible. Here we approach much nearer to the ordinary scheme of musical composition. A symphony is built upon one or more themes, often simple pieces of tune, unannounced, repeated, varied, and woven into one whole. The music of Caters and Cinques depends on a theme. Annable, by throwing the heavy bells into the Tittums, showed us how to use such a theme, and in long touches and peals the back bells can be heard proclaiming this snatch of tune as they course to and fro among their smaller brethren. We have, in fact, something that resembles a fugue, in so far as the theme or subject must be listened for inside the 'trimmings.' (It is, of course, impossible to press the analogy.) The stroke of genius that fixed the 6th behind the 9th in Caters, and that which revealed the properties of the handstroke homo position, developed still further this little known method of producing music.

It seems to me that the subject, so imperfectly hinted at above, is really worthy of exploration. The general public must be quite ignorant of any prescribed attempt at musical composition in change ringing. Now in all attempts to develop musical appreciation the beginner is taught how to listen. In a tune, his attention is drawn to balance and climax; in a sonata or symphony, to recurring themes. Some of our enthusiasts are endeavouring to educate the public by means of lectures on bell ringing. It would be well at any such lecture to try by means of a handbell band or a piano to interest the audience in demonstrations of musical properties. The layman may never master the intricacies of change ringing, but if he can be brought to realise that it is a systematic attempt to produce music, and if he can but listen intelligently outside a tower for a few minutes, the bells will be to him more than a mere rhythmic jumble of apparently unrelated sounds.—Yours sincerely,

EDGAR C. SHEPHERD.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.SUGGESTED NEGOTIATIONS WITH GUILDFORD DIOCESE.

The annual general meeting of the Surrey Association was held at Leatherhead on Saturday. The bells at the Parish Church were raised at 3 p.m., and except for the tea interval were kept going until 9 p.m. in various methods from Grandshire Triples to Cambridge Surprise Royal.

The meeting took place at the Institute, there being 60 members present, and Mr. James D. Drowett (Master) occupying the chair.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Guildford. The following were elected as officers of the association for the ensuing year: Master, Mr. James Douglas Drowett, J.P.; hon. secretary, Mr. Chas. H. Kippen, jun.; hon. assistant secretary and treasurer, Mr. Chas. Dean.

It was left to the district branches to elect their own officers.

Messrs. J. D. Drowett and Chas. Dean were appointed delegates to the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers.

It was decided to print the annual report of the association for the year 1926, but in view of the shortage of funds it was resolved that a charge be made of sixpence per copy.

Mr. James W. Trappitt, who claimed to be the only living founder of the association, drew attention to the approaching jubilee of the association (May, 1930), and hoped the meeting for that year would be held at Reddington.

A discussion ensued with regard to the relations between the association and the Guildford diocese. No precise information was forthcoming as to the position and aims of the proposed new association for the latter area, and it was ultimately decided that a committee consisting of the officers of the association should endeavour to get into touch with the Guildford committee for the purposes of negotiation, and that a report should be presented to an emergency meeting of the association if occasion required.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to Mr. Arthur Dean for making such excellent arrangements concluded the meeting.

MODERN BELLS.

The following letter has been addressed to the Editor of the 'Times' by Mr. W. H. Jackson:

Sir.—Canon Nolloth's letter, published in your issue of the 20th instant, in which he comments upon your interesting article on bells (published by you on the 15th inst.), raises a question of great public interest, especially so as the famous bells of Bow Church may perchance become involved in the matter.

Put briefly, there is a considerable difference of opinion, both expert and amateur, as to the relative merits of the old standard tuning and the new method advocated by the late Canon Simpson.

The casting of bells, like Gothic architecture, developed along traditional lines from father to son, and exactly as we find in architecture the peerless structures of the late thirteenth century as the supreme glory of the craft, so in bells we have the exquisite tones, founded on years of experience, which the bell founders produced previous to the introduction of so-called scientific tuning by the late Canon.

Mr. Thomas C. Lewis, the famous organ builder, and, incidentally, himself a bell founder, wrote:

'Large bells must have two distinct notes—its "tap tone" and that which is called its "hum tone."

'The first supposition very naturally is that these two notes should be one to the other in relation to octaves, the "hum note" the lower note in pitch.

'Now, in fact,' he continues, 'there is nothing poorer than a large bell having the "tap note" of a definite stated pitch and a "hum note" accompanying it an exact octave deeper.

'On the contrary,' he proceeds, 'a fine bell with a "tap note" of F should have its "hum note" a major seventh below flattened, or, broadly speaking, it should be a flat F, and this, although it might be supposed to be discordant, really gives the best possible result for a bell, because,' he claims, 'the ear seeks the two blended tones,' and thus, of course, is exactly what the old standard method of tuning gives.

With regard to what has been said in the foregoing, it is interesting to note that very ancient bells were tuned with the octave 'hum note,' and it was only after experience that this was altered by official expert craftsmen, therefore it would appear that the new Simpson tuning is merely a throw-back.

I wonder, Sir, how many of your readers have stood in the quiet presence of Amen Court and listened to 'Great Paul' at the Cathedral booming out his invitation to prayer, and I wonder, Sir, how many of them would dare to say that the bell, although not scientifically tuned, is totally wrong, merely scrap iron, and only fit for the melting pot?

As a matter of fact, the bell is full of majesty. 'Boom! Boom!' he seems to say; 'listen to me. I am king of bells.'

May I suggest, therefore, that before anything is done with such an historic ring of bells as that at Bow the position should be carefully explored, in order that we may not lose the substance in seeking the shadow and give our descendants power, in their turn, to call us vandals, much the same as we do those who in the 1850's destroyed beautiful Gothic tracery to design new upon 'improved scientific principles.'

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD. ANNUAL MEETING OF WIRRAL BRANCH.

On Saturday, January 22nd, the Wirral Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild held their annual meeting at St. Peter's Church, Rock Ferry. This is a very accessible six-bell tower, and it was not surprising to find a goodly number of members putting in an appearance. Touches in methods ranging from Plain Bob to Surprise Minor were rung, everyone being assured of a ring, no matter how elementary or advanced his ringing status might be. After a hearty service in the church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. A. Ball, M.A.), an adjournment was made to the Parish Hall, where the annual meeting was held. Mr. J. W. Milner (president of the branch) taking the chair, supported by Mr. E. W. Elwell (general secretary of the Guild) and Rev. A. Ball.

The balance sheet having been read and passed, and the various officers having been elected for the ensuing year, in the course of which Mr. Milner paid a high, but well deserved, tribute to the work of the hon. secretary, Mr. H. Brocklebank, Mr. Elwell stated that he hoped, at the annual meeting of the Guild, to bring forward some scheme whereby the subscriptions of members could be reduced.

Then came the event of the evening, an innovation so far as this branch is concerned, in the form of a 'hot-pot' supper, to which between 60 and 70 members and friends sat down, and did full justice to a splendid repast. This was followed by an excellent concert, contributed to by some of the Rock Ferry ringers and their friends. It was an altogether successful gathering, and everyone went away well satisfied with the arrangements that had been made for their enjoyment. To Messrs. F. C. Amos and J. Cooke, and the other members of the Rock Ferry band of ringers, who were responsible for all the arrangements, the hearty thanks of the branch are due for their untiring efforts.

THE CAMBRIDGE YOUTHS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The letter in last week's 'Ringing World' on this subject should have been written years ago, and I emphatically agree with its purport. I have visited Cambridge on several occasions on ringing expeditions, and the lethargic state of ringing affairs at Gt. St. Mary's has always been a matter of regret to me, and a stain on the Ely Diocesan Association. It was noticeable to any observant stranger that there was an undercurrent of hostility towards progressive ringing running through the belfry. I remember on one occasion, when I visited Cambridge with another Ealing ringer, a scene took place in the belfry because the conductor endeavoured to correct mistakes of certain ringers during a touch. My friend and I, coming from a tower where youth and enthusiasm were prevalent, were appalled to find such ill feeling in a belfry. I should advise the Church Council to hold an inquiry into the present distressing state of affairs, and would suggest that last week's leading article should be placed before them by the signatories of last week's letter.

Drastic reform is urgently needed, and when it is effected I fully expect to hear that the twelve bells are once again pealing forth on the Sabbath, manned by ringers who ring from a sense of duty to the church and a love of their art, and not for a meagre pecuniary gain.

PAID RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In your leading article of January 28th it is implied that all bands of service ringers should be purely voluntary, and that remuneration should not be given to the local bands who on Sunday ring the bells for the church services. This procedure might be possible in 'Utopia,' but in our (ringing) world as at present constituted I think it is far preferable to give a regular quarterly or annual remuneration to the bellringers of the local band. The amount given is usually small, and it might properly be called an honorarium.

Every right-minded and nice man when he accepts remuneration (however small) for doing some specific work will always endeavour to carry out that work to the full and conform willingly to any rules that may necessarily be drawn up. They will assemble punctually at the stated times for service, and carry out the work to the best of their ability. On the other hand, if the work is voluntary there must be a great danger of slackness and irregularity of ringing unless there happens to be an exceptionally keen local band, and even then this keenness must be lasting and not merely spasmodic. It is quite possible and probable that the local band which accepts remuneration will be just as keen as the voluntary band which receives no remuneration.—Yours truly,

T. P. WALKER,
Churchwarden and Ringer.

A LONDON EXPERIENCE.

Dear Sir,—As a constant reader of 'The Ringing World' I should like to express an opinion on the matter referred to in your leading article in the issue of January 28th.

I also have reason to deplore the existence of 'paid ringing.'

A year ago we had, at a church not many miles from Bow, Cheap-side, a band of very keen young fellows, who, as regular as clock-work, turned up to ring for Sunday Services. We did not aspire to half-pull ringing, but used to strike some excellent call changes.

Unfortunately this particular church paid the ringers for the various festivals. Consequently, on these occasions, we were ousted out by some elderly and more experienced men, who, after collecting the few shillings due to them, vanished and did not reappear until the next 'pay-day.'

We put up with this for a year, and then, after raising an ineffectual protest, left, and thus ended a very promising band.

One often sees in 'The Ringing World' the question, 'How can we fill up the vacant gaps in our bands?' There are many eager and willing to be taught, but it is the 'rottenness' of the 'paying system' that keeps them away. Such, at any rate, is the opinion of

YORKSHIRE TREASURER'S WEDDING.

The Church of St. Michael, Headingley, Leeds, was the scene of a very interesting event on January 8th, when the wedding was solemnised of Mr. J. Cotterell, treasurer of the Yorkshire Association, and Miss O. L. Lumley, a member of the local company.

The ceremony was performed, in the presence of a large gathering of ringers, by the Rev. C. C. Marshall, Vicar of St. Chad's, Headingley, and president of the Yorkshire Association. Later, a reception was held at the Mount Hotel, Leeds.

After the service, 'firing' and touches of Stedman were rung by the local company. On the following Wednesday evening, a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major, which has already been recorded in its proper place, was rung in honour of the event.

THE PROPOSED GUILDFORD DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

YORKTOWN DISTRICT COMES INTO THE SCHEME.

The proposal to form an independent association of ringers for the diocese of Guildford, when this is carved out of the existing diocese of Winchester—an event which it is expected will take place about the middle of this year—was carried a step further on Saturday. The proposal was first put forward by the Guildford District of the Winchester Guild, and the Yorktown District, which includes an important part of the new diocese, has now decided to give its support to the scheme. At first, there was a feeling in this district against cutting up the existing Guild, and as long ago as 1923 resolutions were passed expressing a desire that the present Guild should remain, subject to various administrative changes and an altered title. Last December, however, representatives of the two districts met in conference, and at a special meeting at Bagshot on Saturday the Yorktown District again discussed the subject. The Vicar (Canon W. H. Stewart) presided, and members were present from Bagshot, Chertsey, Egham, Farnborough, Weybridge and Yorktown.

A memorandum setting out the Guildford District's views had been circulated to the towers. Replies had been received from a number including the following: From the Rev. G. R. M. Ellwood, Hawley, who was strongly in favour of forming a new association on the grounds given in the memorandum; from the Rev. F. Tritton, Weybridge, who favoured a new association, but thought any decision should not be final until the new Bishop had been consulted; from the Rev. C. E. C. Lefroy (Hersham), who thought an independent association would be altogether desirable; and from Mr. A. Woodrow, on behalf of the Hersham band, who were unanimous that they should follow the new diocese to which they would be attached.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, at the request of the members of the conference, explained in some detail the steps which had led up to that meeting, and also the proposals upon which it was suggested the new association should be formed. These included a reciprocal arrangement between the old and the new Guilds, whereby members of one could, on payment of one shilling, become compounding members of the other, thereby enabling them to retain their connection between the ringing organisations of the two areas; a suggestion that 75 per cent. of district income should be available for district purposes, and a proposal that there should be a small affiliation fee for towers in order to give the church authorities a direct interest in the association, coupled, if found practicable, with representation on the Management Committee.

Mr. H. J. Chaffey, Mr. S. G. Armstrong, Mr. F. Nye, and Mr. Crocker (who represented the district at the conference) spoke in favour of supporting the scheme for a separate association, subject to its receiving the approval of the new Bishop.

Representatives of Egham and Yorktown towers reported that the members of these branches had decided in favour of supporting the new association.

A number of resolutions were then put to the meeting. The first rescinded the motion passed in 1923.

It was then proposed by Mr. F. Nye (Bagshot), seconded by Mr. Gasson (Farnborough), and carried nem. con., 'that in the opinion of this meeting of the Yorktown District it is desirable that, on the formation of the diocese of Guildford, and subject to the approval of the Bishop, a separate and independent association of church bell-ringers be formed for the new diocese.'

Resolutions were next passed instructing the district's representatives on the Winchester Guild Committee to support proposals recommending that the area of the existing Guild shall, as from January 1st, 1928, be confined to the parishes comprising the dioceses of Winchester and Portsmouth, and that reciprocal arrangements be made to enable present members residing in one area to become compounding members of the other Guild on payment of a nominal fee of 1s.

The following were then elected to represent the district on the Organising Committee: Messrs. F. Nye, S. G. Armstrong, J. Corbett, H. J. Chaffey and Crocker, and, subject to his being willing to serve, Mr. A. Woodrow (Hersham).

On the motion of the Chairman, Mr. Goldsmith was thanked for his lucid explanation of the whole scheme, and his assistance at the meeting.

Cordial thanks were passed to Mr. Corbett for having kindly entertained the ringers to tea, to the ladies who had served the meal, and to the chairman for presiding.

Before and after the meeting, ringing took place on the Parish Church bells, opportunity being taken to give practice to a number of beginners in the art.

A QUARTER-PEAL IN SOUTH AFRICA.

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) has been rung at St. Mary's Church, Greville, Durban, South Africa, by the following: W. H. Royston 1, F. May 2, Miss M. Clarkson 3, T. Nash 4, F. W. Simpson 5, J. Prickett 6, E. Prickett 7, C. Clarkson 8. It was conducted by J. Prickett, and occupied 52 minutes. This is the longest completed number of changes rung by the reconstituted band of St. Mary's Church, and was rung with the thermometer registering a temperature of about 90 degrees between 7 and 8 p.m.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Gloucester Branch was held at Cirencester on Saturday, January 22nd, and, despite the wintry weather, was well attended. The following towers were represented: Cirencester, Fairford, Northleach, Maiseyhampton, South Cerney and Swindon. Watermoor bells were rung during the afternoon, and the ringers' service was taken by the Vicar (the Rev. Canon Westmacott). Tea was served at Messrs. Viner's restaurant, and was followed by the business meeting, the Vicar taking the chair.

The following officers were re-elected: Chairman, Mr. F. Edwards; hon. secretary, Mr. E. J. Lewis; member on Management Committee, Mr. J. Hope.

Several new members were elected, and Letchlade was chosen for the next meeting.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for conducting the service and for granting the use of the bells.

The Parish Church was then visited, and the bells made good use of. During the afternoon and evening, touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Triples and Caters and Bob Major were rung, and also a course of Grandsire Cinques, several members having their first pull on twelve bells.

BRISTOL BRANCH'S RECORD YEAR.

The annual meeting of the Bristol Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association was held on Saturday last at St. Philip's, Bristol. There was an excellent attendance of members, representing 16 towers, namely: St. Michael's, SS. Philip and Jacob's, St. Stephen's, St. Thomas', St. Werburgh's, St. Luke's and St. Peter's, Bristol; Henbury, Mangotsfield, Marshfield, Olveston and Westbury-on-Trym, while Miss N. G. Williams (Bath), Miss G. Staddon (Portishead), Mr. F. H. Fussell (Dursley), Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Tanner, and Mr. J. H. Jones (Weston-super-Mare) were welcome visitors. Touches in different methods were rung on the bells during the afternoon, and choral service was held in the church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. M. E. Thorold), who also gave an excellent address, taking for his text 'Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily as unto the Lord and not unto men.' Tea was afterwards served in the schoolroom, where 75 members and friends sat down.

The Chairman (Mr. J. Gould) presided at the annual business meeting, at which Mr. L. G. Tanner (Weston-super-Mare) was elected a life member, Miss G. Stadden (Portishead), Mr. W. Cook (Henbury), and Mr. Saunders (St. Thomas', Bristol), were elected performing members.

Warmley was chosen for the February meeting, and St. Michael's, Bristol, for March. For the quarterly meetings, Marshfield was selected for April, Coalpit Heath for July, Mangotsfield for October, and St. James', Bristol, for the annual meeting in January.

The Chairman said he was very pleased with the work of the branch for the past year, with its record attendances at the meetings, and especially the fine fellowship that existed. He hoped they would continue to go forward and progress, and he would do his best to help on the work. He thanked their hon. secretary (Mr. C. H. Jennings) for the time and work he put in for the cause.

The Hon. Secretary, in presenting his report, said it was gratifying to know the work of the branch had been well maintained. They had held 12 monthly meetings, and at Abson, Almondsbury, Dyrham, and St. Thomas', Bristol, about 60 were present at each meeting. The average for the 12 meetings constituted a record of about 40. They had an increase of 17 performing, 5 honorary and 2 associate members. The ancient ring of six at Abson had been overhauled and rebung in a new frame, and attention had been also given to the bells at Christ Church and St. Nicholas', Bristol. He hoped other churches would undertake similar work where needed. Change ringing had been up to the usual good standard, and he asked where possible for some of the other towers to bring on some of the younger generation in the art to fill the gaps. He hoped also that arrangements would be made at more towers to ring for the Sunday services. The hand of death had taken two of their active ringers, Mr. Walter Lewis (Marshfield) and Mr. Wm. Short (St. James', Bristol). Thanks were accorded to the incumbents of the various towers had had placed their bells at the disposal of the association, and to the incumbents of Almondsbury, Bristol, and Dyrham, for their hospitality, to the Rev. T. C. Fowler, who had taken the services on different occasions, to Mr. Wm. Stafford for auditing the balance sheet, to the chairman for his continued help, to Mr. P. C. Williams, the late hon. secretary, and all concerned.

The balance sheet showed a record on the right side. The receipts had been £42 15s., and expenditure £23 19s. 8½d., leaving a balance of £18 15s. 3½d.—This was adopted.

The election of officers next took place. Mr. J. Gould (chairman), Mr. J. G. Jefferies (representative on the management committee), and Mr. C. H. Jennings (hon. secretary) were re-elected en bloc, and thanks were given to them for their past services.

Heartily votes of thanks were passed with acclamation to the Vicar for all his kindness to them that day, to the organist and choir, to Mr., Mrs. and Miss Williams, assisted by the lady ringers at St. Philip's, Mrs. E. J. Brown, and the Misses B. and D. Jorden, for arranging such a splendid tea.—The Vicar (who is a real ringers' friend), responded, and this concluded another happy meeting.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.LEOMINSTER DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the Leominster district of the Hereford Diocesan Guild took place at Leominster on Saturday, January 15th.

Ringing commenced at the Priory Church at 4 p.m., and touches of Bob Minor, Stedman Triples, and Grandsire Caters were rung. A service was afterwards conducted by the Vicar (Rev. R. Gillenders).

Members of the Guild were entertained to tea at the Church Institute by the Vicar, who presided over the business meeting.

Mr. J. W. Worsey resigned the secretaryship during the year, and the statement of accounts was presented by the Acting Secretary (Mr. A. W. Davies, Hereford). This showed a balance of £5 3s. 2d., but other amounts have yet to come in.

Mr. E. Jayne, Kimbolton, was appointed Ringing Master and Secretary.

Mr. C. Edwards (Master of the Guild), in proposing that Mr. G. E. Wright be appointed an honorary member, said it was hoped to do something for the bells at Pudleston when the repairs to the church roof were completed. He was interested to find a pre-Reformation bell there, one of the oldest in the county.

In thanking the Vicar of Leominster for the use of the bells, for arranging the service, for providing the tea, and for presiding over the meeting, Mr. Edwards spoke of the encouragement given to the ringers when the Vicar of the parish took an interest in the work. He said they hoped to ring the first ten-bell peal at Leominster, but the attempt failed; they had, however, succeeded in accomplishing the first ten-bell peal by local ringers at Hereford Cathedral.

Preb. Turner, Madley, seconded the vote of thanks, and the Vicar replied, saying that he regarded bell-ringing as a very important piece of work for the Church.

The offer of Mr. A. W. Davies to bring over ringers from Hereford to assist the Leominster ringers, if other districts would also help, was accepted.

AN INTERESTING MEMORIAL AT NEWPORT.RINGER'S GENEROUS GIFT.

The belfry of the Parish Church, Newport, Isle of Wight, has recently been embellished with a handsome tablet recording two peals that were rung upon the bells—May 15th and 16th, 1923—in which a fair share of Islanders took part, to commemorate 'Rayner's centenary,' viz., Stedman Triples and Kent Treble Bob Major at Newport and Carisbrooke respectively, each conducted by George Williams, under the auspices of the Winchester Diocesan Guild.

The tablet is of polished slate, 23 x 32 inches, the lettering incised and painted white enamel, the work of Messrs. Cooper, of Newport. It was duly unveiled and dedicated by the Vicar, Canon Thompson, M.A., in the presence of the local ringers and neighbouring friends, the ceremony being of rather a private nature due to the modesty of the generous donor, who has been a ringer of the parish for upwards of 42 years.

The following is a copy of the footnote on the tablet, which forms an interesting link with the old Newport and Carisbrooke Society and the existing Diocesan Guild:

'These two memorable peals were rung in the evening of each day, and were brought round in a masterly manner to commemorate the centenary of the death of William Rayner, who was himself a prominent ringer of Newport, I.W. To my fellow ringers of this tower, a gift from Walter Scott, sen.'

It will be recalled that Mr. Walter Scott, sen., was responsible for the recovery of one of the old peal books of the Union Society, lost for nearly three-quarters of a century, which he kindly handed over to the tower trustees.

In thanking him for his latest handsome gift, the band who took part in these performances congratulated him on recently becoming a 'grandfather,' so we expect to hear, some day, of a 'Walter Scott Minor,' carrying on the work of Scott Major and Maximus in this belfry. In these days, when young ringers are hard to get and more difficult to keep, it is refreshing to quote the words of this veteran change-ringer: 'During the whole of my 43 years in the belfry nothing has given me greater pleasure than this opportunity of recording the names of my fellow-ringers upon its walls.'

JOHN CARTER.

John Carter is dead, and a giant has gone from the Exercise, for, intellectually in regard to ringing, he was literally a giant. Although in the last two or three years impaired health had reduced him to but a wreck of his former self, for something like half a century he had devoted his genius to unravelling some of the mysteries of our art, and his achievements have given the Exercise material such as few men have presented to us. He would take what appeared to be an abstruse problem, wave a magician's wand over it, and, presto! the thing was done. It was, perhaps, not really as simple as that, but to the average mind that was what John Carter seemed to do. The real truth was that he had a gift for getting to the heart of a problem, of realising its possibilities, of analysing its factors and constructing a solution, if solution there were. But his great achievements were only reached by patient study and research, aided by a richly endowed mind. His compositions of Stedman Triples, and his planning of those thousands of peals of Stedman Caters, to mention only two things, show how much he was above the average composer in his methods of dealing with things of this kind.

But great as was his wizardry in the realm of figures, his genius for mechanics certainly excelled any other accomplishment he possessed. In his business as a gunsmith he was responsible for not a few inventions which made more efficient and more deadly the lethal weapons in which he was interested, but in the ringing Exercise he will always be remembered as the inventor of the ringing machine. This marvellous piece of mechanism ranks among the cleverest creations of its type. Its uncanny perfection in producing changes is as much a mystery to those ringers who have been privileged to see it in operation as the permutations on tower bells, rung by human hands, are to the uninstructed public. But this machine can reproduce upon the bells, or upon paper, any method, however intricate, not only in plain courses, but in full extent. Indeed, wonderful as it would be if its possibilities were confined to plain courses, the marvellous ingenuity of the thing is revealed in the fact that it can make a bob in any method, provided the operator presses a key at the right time—and the machine cannot make a mistake!

This is the thing which has been the child of Mr. Carter's brain, which, through a long period of years, he has gradually brought to perfection, and which reveals to us the greatness of his intellect. Those who come after him and study its intricacies may understand the working of the mechanism, but few will be able fully to appreciate the magnitude of the mind that devised and planned its details. And yet John Carter was a humble man. He did not talk about what he could do. He just did it, and was content. He has gone from us now, but his works will remain. Without the ringing machine, his work as a composer would have ensured him an honoured place among the great men of the Exercise, but his name will endure throughout ringing history not only for his labours in the realm of composition, but for that other unique product of his fertile brain to which we have done but inadequate justice.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

GUILDFORD DISTRICT AND THE COMING DIVISION.

Matters concerning the suggested splitting up of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, when the new diocese of Guildford is formed, occupied the attention of the Guildford District at the quarterly meeting held at Cranleigh on Saturday. There was an attendance of between forty and fifty members from a number of the towers in the district. After ringing touches in the ancient tower, the members attended service, the Guild's form being conducted by the Rector (the Rev. P. Cunningham), who is a life member of the Guild. The organist was kindly in attendance.

The Rector addressed the members, and spoke of the coming division of the diocese. He referred to what had been accomplished in the raising of funds and preparing for the creation of the two new bishoprics. The project, which had occupied their attention for 15 years, had now reached the point where the Ecclesiastical Commissioners had been asked to obtain from the Privy Council an Order in Council for the creation of the dioceses of Guildford and Portsmouth. In faith and prayer they had accomplished great things, but there were, of course, many difficult and perplexing matters to be dealt with. He had heard that the ringers in that area were proposing to take certain steps to create a new diocesan organisation. He did not know how far they had proceeded, but he did not doubt they would have their own difficulties and perplexities in this matter. He urged them to face them with faith and courage, and he was sure they would be surmounted. The Bishop of Winchester had expressed the hope that even after the division of the diocese the daughter dioceses would sometimes meet the mother diocese in the great Cathedral at Winchester in acts of praise and worship, and would feel that they were still one with her, like grown-up children returning to their old home. He (the Rector) hoped this spirit would also prevail among the ringers, and that, although they would probably be separating from the parent organisation, they would from time to time be able to return and join the Winchester Guild in united services in the old Cathedral.

At the business meeting after tea, at which the Rector presided, the committee appointed at the annual district meeting presented a report detailing the work which they had at present done, and recording with satisfaction that the Yorktown District (as reported in our last issue) had resolved to unite with them in the formation of the new association.

Two resolutions were passed, requesting the district representatives to bring before the Winchester Guild Committee motions to recommend the annual meeting to resolve that as from January 1st, 1928, the area of the present diocesan guild should be restricted to the parishes comprising the dioceses of Winchester and Portsmouth, and that a reciprocal arrangement be made between Winchester and Guildford areas enabling a resident member of one society to become a compounding member of the other upon payment of 1s.

It was also resolved to request the Winchester Guild to permit the form of service now in use to be adapted to the requirements of the new association.

The other business included a report by the Ringing Master (Mr. C. Hazelden), who stated that it was proposed to hold a series of combined ten-bell practices at Epsom, Leatherhead and Guildford.

Two new members were elected, and votes of thanks were accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells, conducting the service and presiding at the meeting, to the organist and to the ladies who superintended the serving of the tea.

In the evening, further ringing took place.

YOUNG RINGERS' ACHIEVEMENTS.

Last September, 'The Ringing World' recorded the dedication on August 28th of two new trebles added to the ancient four bells of the historic plague village of Eyam in the Peak of Derbyshire, where change ringing was up till then unknown. It is a very great pleasure to record that on February 1st, a very excellent 720 of Bob Minor was rung by the following local band: Uriah Dane 1, Colin Marples 2, Ivor Facer 3, Rev. W. P. Wright (conductor) 4, William Barber 5, Kenneth Facer 6.

This is the first 720 for all excepting the conductor, and the first on the bells by a local band. The ringers are to be highly commended for the progress they have made in the time, due, of course, to their keenness, perseverance, and determination to become qualified change ringers, and they thoroughly deserve the success they have gained.

BEGINNERS' TOUCHES.

On Tuesday, January 18th, at Holy Trinity Church, Barrow-on-Humber, Lincolnshire, one lady beginner rang her first touch of four six-scores, and another her first plain course. The 480 Bob Doubles was rung by: E. Fowler 1, J. Barriok 2, Miss Eva Tong 3, W. Crowder (conductor) 4, E. Dannatt 5, R. Pratt 6. Afterwards the plain course with Miss B. Tong 2.

At Stapleford, Cambs, on Wednesday, January 19th, 720 Bob Minor: E. H. Finch 1, Miss K. Willers 2, R. Jordan 3, A. E. Austin (conductor) 4, F. E. Haynes 5, R. Howard 6. First 720 of Minor by R. Jordan.

At the Parish Church, Cirencester, Glos, on Tuesday, January 11th, 629 Grandsire Caters: H. Cook 1, A. Parsons 2, F. W. Bond 3, F. J. Lewis (conductor) 5, F. Edwards 6, W. H. Hayward 7, H. R. Acock, Fairford (first attempt on ten bells) 8, H. C. Bond 9, J. Roberts 10.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Central Division was held at the six-bell tower of Keymer on Saturday, January 29th. Ringing commenced at 3.0; but, owing to unforeseen circumstances, the service arranged for 4 o'clock could not be held. At 4.30, all adjourned to the Greyhound Inn, where twenty-four sat down to an excellent tea.

The business meeting which followed was mostly of a routine nature, and was presided over by the Master (Mr. J. T. Rickman). The following new members were elected: The Rev. H. T. Mogridge (Rector), Messrs. E. E. Truster and H. Steele (Aldrington), F. N. Smeaton and J. Langley (St. Nicholas', Brighton), F. C. J. Turner (St. Peter's, Brighton), E. Court and A. Trevatt (Henfield). The election of Mr. T. G. Bannister, South Norwood, and Mr. C. W. Roberts, London, as non-resident members, was confirmed.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the Rector of Keymer (the Rev. H. B. W. Denison) for the use of the bells; also to the Vicar of Ditchling (the Rev. C. P. Williams), where the bells were kindly placed at the disposal of the meeting after tea.

Keymer belfry was again visited after the meeting for about an hour, when all proceeded to Ditchling. The ringing at Keymer, which ranged from rounds to Surprise, and at Ditchling, where both Triples and Major were rung, was very good.

Altogether about thirty members were present at the meeting, representing the following towers: Aldrington, St. Peter's and St. Nicholas', Brighton, Crawley, Ditchling, Henfield, Hurstpierpoint, Keymer, and Lindfield.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Stroud Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association was held at Stroud on Saturday, January 22nd, and was attended by 22 members. The association form of service was conducted by the Rev. W. J. Clay, R.D., chairman of the branch. Tea was partaken of in the Corn Hall, the Rev. W. J. Clay presiding. The balance sheet and the report of the branch for the year were read by the secretary, and passed as highly satisfactory.—Three new members were elected.

The election of officers next took place, and the following were appointed: Rev. W. J. Clay, R.D., chairman; Mr. Albert Wright, secretary; Mr. H. Barrett, representative on the Management Committee.

The usual votes of thanks were passed to the officers for their services for the past year.

The tower was again visited, when touches of Grandsire Triples, Caters, Stedman Triples and Bob Royal were rung.

A SOMERSET PEAL REHUNG.

The church tower of St. Mary's, Ashill, Somerset, built in the year 1426, has just undergone a thorough restoration at the hands of Mr. R. C. Vile, of Puckington, under the direction of Mr. Caroe, architect, of Westminster. The work will be complete when the pointing of the southern side has been carried out. A new concrete floor has been made in the tower, on which the bell cage rests; the old floor of oak was thoroughly decayed, and had been in a dangerous condition for a long time.

The five bells were removed from the tower last March, and sent to Ipswich. The tenor and treble bells have been recast and the whole peal rehung on massive oak frames, with all modern fittings. The work has been carried out by Mr. Alfred Howell, church bell founder, of Ipswich.

Ringers from Puckington and Ilminster paid a visit to try the newly-hung bells recently, when several 120's of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles were rung. Everyone expressed their entire satisfaction with the 'go' of the bells, and it is hoped that ere long a young band of ringers will be formed to make good use of the newly-hung peal. It is about 20 years since these bells were rung. The tenor bell weighs about 12 cwt.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

The quarterly service and meeting of the Banbury and District Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday week. The Guild service was held at St. Mary's Church, at which the Rev. G. F. Cholmondeley, the Vicar, officiated, and an appropriate sermon was preached by the Rev. C. C. Brookes, of Duns Tew.

Mr. and Mrs. Cholmondeley afterwards entertained the ringers to tea, and Mr. Cholmondeley presided as chairman of the branch.

It was agreed to hold the next meeting at Somerton.—Five new members were elected, three from Heyford, and one each from Duns Tew and Adderbury.

The Chairman alluded in complimentary terms to the way the branch had grown in numbers, and expressed the wish and hope that it would continue to progress for the benefit of the church. Those social gatherings did a good work. Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar and Mrs. Cholmondeley for their kind hospitality, and the ladies who assisted at the tea, to Mr. W. H. Taylor, the organist, to the blower, and also to the Rev. C. C. Brookes for his interesting sermon. This comprehensive vote of thanks was expressed by Mr. Selwyn, vergor of St. Mary's, Banbury, and responded to by the Rev. C. F. Cholmondeley and the Rev. C. C. Brookes.

BELFERY GOSSIP.

It is a coincidence that Mr. John Carter should have died on the anniversary of the death of two other great composers, Huley and Cox. All three died on January 29th.

The dedication of the ring of ten bells at St. Giles', Camberwell, London, after the rehangings in new fittings by Messrs. Taylor and Co., will take place on Tuesday, March 8th. The service will be at eight p.m., and the Bishop of Southwark will perform the ceremony. Owing to the late hour, only a short touch will be rung by the local band. It is expected the tower will be available for a ringers' opening on Saturday, April 8th. Particulars will be announced later.

To-morrow is the anniversary of the 14,016 Kent Treble Bob (the record length in the method at the time), rung at Oldham on February 12th, 1821, where 9,399 Grandsire Major was rung on February 15th, 1825.

On February 14th, 1731, 7,018 Grandsire Cinques was rung at Cornhill, and on the same day in 1920 the record length for a 12-bell peal was made at Painswick, when 13,001 Grandsire Cinques was rung in 8 hrs. 45 mins. A commemorative peal will be attempted to-morrow.

A peal of 14,224 Bob Major was rung at Aston by the St. Martin's Youths on February 16th, 1789, and, in view of what has lately transpired regarding ringing at Gt. St. Mary's, Cambridge, it is interesting to recall that on February 18th, 1780, 6,000 Oxford Treble Bob Royal was rung there.

Two catastrophes are recalled this week. On February 11th, 1810, the spire of St. Nicholas' Church, Liverpool, fell with the loss of 22 lives, mostly children, who had assembled for a service. On February 17th, 1836, the peal of twelve bells at Christ Church, Spitalfields, was destroyed by fire.

Cannot the College Youths celebrate their record peal of Oxford Treble Bob Royal, which was rung at Shoreditch exactly a hundred and fifty years ago next Friday?

Mr. Edgar Rivers expresses his regret to the Wrentham company that he should have claimed the peal of Cambridge Minor at Sproughton as the first in Norfolk or Suffolk. He had not a copy of the Norfolk Guild's report for that year, and overlooked the Wrentham band's peal.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

The annual meeting will be held in London on Whit Tuesday, June 7th next, of which particulars will appear later. Will secretaries of the affiliated Guilds and associations please note that their subscriptions became due on January 1st last; and please supply the names and addresses of all representatives.

Those who have already paid are: Peterborough (January 7th), Ely, Ladies, and Surrey.

THE JOHNSON COMMEMORATION DINNER.

AN INFORMAL CONFERENCE.

Arrangements are now complete for the Johnson Commemoration Dinner at Birmingham on Saturday week, and a large company is already assured. Accommodation is not unlimited, and early application for tickets is therefore necessary.

An informal conference is to be held for half an hour after the close of ringing at St. Martin's Church at 5 p.m. The Rector has kindly placed the Baptistery at the disposal of the members for the purpose, and the subject, which Alderman Pritchett will open, is to be, 'How can we keep beginners interested in the art?' The choice, it will be seen, follows as a sequel to the subject which was discussed at Bristol.

Parties of ringers visiting Birmingham and reaching there earlier than the advertised times can have the use of the other peals of bells in the city, if they will communicate with Mr. Albert Walker, 81, Baker Street, Sparkhill, Birmingham, not later than Tuesday next.

Those who desire to find accommodation for the night can do so at the following central hotels: The Cobden, the Hen and Chickens, and the Market Hotel, Station Street.

ST. GILES' SOCIETY, READING.

St. Giles' Society, Reading, held their annual meeting on January 15th, at the Rising Sun Inn, when members and friends numbering about 24 enjoyed an excellent supper and subsequent musical programme.

Among those present were the Rev. F. C. Bond, tower warden, Rev. E. B. M. Shepherd and Mr. Goodship. Mr. H. Egby occupied the chair.

The business meeting included the adoption of a satisfactory balance sheet, the re-election of Mr. A. W. Osborne as foreman and temple-keeper for the 21st consecutive year, Mr. L. Osborne as sub-foreman, Mr. E. Humfrey hon. treasurer and secretary, and the Rev. F. C. Bond as tower warden.

Mr. Osborne made a very satisfactory report of the Sunday service ringing done for the past year, remarking that, although the membership had been below normal, they had been able to carry on with the assistance of visitors, but with the addition of three new members elected that evening the future of their ringing was satisfactorily secured for the ensuing year.

THE DEATH OF MR. JOHN CARTER.

RINGER, COMPOSER AND INVENTOR.

The passing of John Carter, whose death we briefly announced last week, leaves a gap in the Exercise which, in some respects at any rate, can never be filled. For nearly fifty years his name has been one to conjure with among ringers, for his interest in our art has been of a diversified nature; his researches have carried forward our knowledge in numerous directions, and his work has had the stamp of genius. His intimate friend, Mr. E. Alex. Young (secretary of the Central Council), in the notes which we append hereto, has dealt with Mr. Carter's early days, and there is no need to repeat those details. Suffice it to say that the incident which brought Mr. Carter into the ringing world was one which, insignificant and commonplace as it was, was destined to bear much fruit in the advancement of our art, for it gave the Exercise one of those men destined by his work and the love of his hobby to leave our knowledge of some of its mysteries a considerable stage beyond the point that he found it.

THE LATE MR. J. CARTER WITH HIS RINGING MACHINE.

Mr. Carter died at his residence, 25, Lessing Street, Honor Oak Park, London, S.E., on January 29th. He had been confined to his bed for nearly a year, and had been almost a complete invalid for some time previously, following a paralytic stroke in November, 1923. His wife and niece, and his friend and neighbour Mr. E. Alexander Young, were with him early in the evening, and he expressed a wish that his last should be given to all his friends.

SOME PERSONAL NOTES ON HIS LIFE.

Mr. Young, who, being a near neighbour of Mr. Carter, and in whose house the ringing machine was finally completed, in sending us the following notes, says they are culled from the many chats he had with Mr. Carter during the past three or four years, during which time they were much together. Where possible, the actual words as used are given, but it must be remembered that Mr. Carter's great gifts did not lie in the way of narration.

Mr. Carter was born at Darlaston, in Staffordshire, which, as he said, is in the midst of the Black Country. The date was April 30th, 1854. He was thus nearly 73 years of age when he died on January 29th last. His father was a gun-lock maker, and the family had lived at Darlaston for several generations. It was during his boyhood that the great advance in gun and pistol making took place (largely due to the Civil War in America), and the modern rifle came into being. The British Government took up the 'Sneider,' and then it was that many a Midlander came south, and with them Carter, senior, bringing his son, then a youth of 12, with him, and they both worked at the Small Arms Factory at Enfield Lock, near Waltham Abbey.

Young Carter had already worked for his father for three years. In those days, Mr. Carter has said, 'as soon as they could work, the little children went to the factory, and boys from the early age of five years had to blow the bellows for 2s. per week.' It is not to be wondered at that belated factory legislation interfered with young Carter, and it was not long before a rule was issued that no one under 14 years should be allowed to work in the factory. 'So my father took me from the factory,' he said, 'and placed me in the Enfield Highway School, and when I was 'supposed' to be 14 they found me a job in the factory again, where I then worked for over four years.'

It appears the Government cooled off on the 'Sneider,' or made a general reduction. At any rate, father and son resumed work in their native Darlaston. It was, however, at this time that John Carter took up shooting, in which he afterwards became so well known. He says: 'I was not old enough to be enrolled with the Volunteers at Enfield, so they made me a bugler, and I used to fire with the old smooth bore gun, and I won a first prize with it.'

HOW HIS RINGING CAREER BEGAN.

In the summer of 1873, he was at work at Darlaston, but residing with an uncle, a Mr. J. Brazier, whose sons, it so happened, had lately taken up ringing at the Parish Church. Again, to use his own words, 'one day, when going to practice, they asked me to accompany them, but it was, however, upon the following Sunday morning for eight o'clock service that I went, and that was the very first time I saw a bell.'

It appears he was particularly interested at once, and readily fell in with the offer on their part to teach him to become a ringer. 'So on the following Thursday,' he said, 'which was in the first week of July, 1873, I took my first lesson, and in two months I could ring Stedman Triples better than my cousins could. In fact, they were so disappointed at the way things turned out that they abandoned ringing for good!' So far, however, from his giving it up, he had by the Christmas rung a quarter-peal and a date touch, both of Stedman. After going to London and doing some general ringing, it was in June, 1874, that he scored his first peal at Willenhall—Grandsire Triples, conducted by W. Johnson. Two years later, he called 'Holt's Original' at All Saints', West Bromwich, it being the first time that it had been rung in the county. In May, 1878, he rang a peal of Cinques at St. Martin's, Birmingham, conducted by the famous Henry Johnson, and so his ringing career may be said to have well started.

RINGING IN LONDON.

In 1874, Carter, sen., had already returned to Enfield, the Government having then determined to make the well-known 'Marthin', and in early January the son followed him. The stay was only a short one—four months—but for him a busy one, for he was now a ringer. He attended the fortnightly practices at Waltham Abbey, and also visited Bethnal Green, at that time the seat of a famous band of ringers. Speaking of the former, he says: 'One night, after practice, I was invited to try the handbells for a course of Stedman Triples. I took 3-4, and it was my first attempt to do anything upon handbells, and they seemed much surprised at the end when I told them so. They then wished to see me repeat it, but at the second attempt I went all to pieces, being now too excited.'

It was by going to Bethnal Green one Sunday morning that he met, amongst others, Haley. He was asked to take a rope for Grandsire, and upon his saying he could only ring Stedman, Haley asked, 'What part of the country do you come from where they teach Stedman before Grandsire?' Carter replied Darlaston, and that though he hardly knew anything of Grandsire, the other he knew quite well. It was at this time, he says, he also met Cox, Powell and W. Alps (the latter is still alive).

In 1876, John Carter joined the Volunteers at West Bromwich. He says: 'By this time they had got the "Sneider," and I became well known in the shooting world. As a recruit I won first prize and also the third prize for the whole battalion. The Colonel said it was never intended, and the rules were altered to prevent recruits doing so again.' In 1879, Mr. Carter went to Wimbledon, and so on every year and afterwards to Bisley, until 1909. In 1888, he was a prize-man, being in the Queen's 300. It was when he was in London in 1878 that he joined the College Youths. 'When I came up,' he told me, 'I called upon Tom Reeves for a chat. He happened to be Master that year, and he asked me to ring with him at Southwark Cathedral and to meet them. I said I should be proud to join them, and I remember meeting Musket, Haley, Pettit, Dwight, Cox, Murray Hayes and Ted Horrex.'

THE RINGING MACHINE.

'It was some time in 1890 I got a hand together to go for a peal at Perry Barr, about three miles from Birmingham. I was at this time doing a considerable amount of peal ringing, for which I used to organise the bands in and around Birmingham, and even travelling as far as Manchester. On one occasion I had arranged this peal at Perry Barr, and whilst riding the three-mile tram car ride from Birmingham to Perry Barr I began thinking over in my mind a machine which would ring changes (the idea had struck me in the morning whilst at work). I concentrated my mind on it the whole journey to such an extent that when I met the band in the tower I could not call the peal. In fact, I could hardly ring, and the band were so astonished that someone said, "What is the matter, John?" and when I told them that my mind was occupied with the idea of a ringing machine, so I could think of nothing else, they were all very much surprised, but they let me off, with the remark that "it certainly was a very good excuse."'

NOTEWORTHY PEALS.

It is noteworthy that Mr. Carter conducted the first peals on handbells ever rung in Birmingham of Grandsire Major, Caters, Royal and Cinques, and also of Bob Major. On October 16th, 1883, he composed and conducted what was at that time the record peal on handbells, 10,176 Grandsire Major, rung in 4 hrs. 55 mins., and, later, a record peal of 6,137 Grandsire Caters on handbells. Not until December 5th, 1885, did he call a peal of Stedman Triples, which he succeeded in doing at Perry Barr. Then, after a lapse of thirteen years from the commencement of his ringing career, he conducted the first peal of Stedman Triples ever rung upon the bells at his native place, Darlaston. On November 20th, 1886, he rang the 2nd at St. Paul's, Burton-on-Trent, in the first 'silent' peal ever rung upon tower bells, while he also took part in the 'all conductors' peal at the same place on its anniversary. He could boast of being the first Birmingham man to ring a peal in a Surprise method, accomplishing this feat at St. Paul's, Burton-on-Trent, in Superlative, Cambridge and London. His first peal of Maximus was one of Kent Treble Bob, which he conducted at Sheffield Parish Church (now the Cathedral) on November 16th, 1889.

On May 10th, 1893, he had the honour of being selected as one of the national representatives at the opening of the Imperial Institute and bells by Queen Victoria. Elected on the Central Council at its commencement as the representative of the Birmingham Amalgamated Society, he was for many years up to the time of his death an honorary member of the Council, to which he had rendered great service on some of its committees.

In addition to the 10,176 Grandsire Major and 6,137 Grandsire Caters rung on handbells, Mr. Carter rang in 10,272 Grandsire Major at Rowley Regis, which he composed and conducted, and which contained the 120 course ends with tenors together; 7,001 Grandsire Caters at All Saints', Worcester, in 1890; 8,009 Grandsire Caters at St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, in 1893, believed to be the longest muffled peal ever rung. There were the settings of tragedy about this peal. On March 25th, a peal of 5,165 Grandsire Caters was rung at the same church—an excerpt from a 17,045 composed by Mr. Carter, which it was proposed to ring on Easter Monday, April 3rd. The tenor man, Mr. H. Roden, died after only a short illness on Good Friday, and the muffled peal was rung instead.

COMPOSITIONS BY THE THOUSAND.

As a composer, Mr. Carter had few equals. He was the author of a number of methods, among them Darlaston Bob, Forward, Aston, Handsworth and Carter's Principle, while in the realm of peal composition he was a Master. His knowledge of Stedman Triples and his patience in obtaining original peals has never been excelled, and his Old-Bob One Part will stand as long as the Exercise lasts as a monument to his genius. He was the first to get a peal on these lines, and the only composer who has ever obtained a peal in the method containing both odd and even bobs. His ambition was always to obtain peals of sterling quality, and many of his compositions are in the pocket-books of our foremost conductors. In Stedman, Grandsire and numerous other methods he found scope for originality, and he astonished the ringing world when he published his broad sheet of Stedman Caters, which was, as far as we know, the first attempt at composition on mass production principles. Most people are content if, by long application, they can get just one or two true peals. Mr. Carter has over 7,000 peals of Stedman Caters on simple plans in his broad sheet, and it is said that he has composed 500 peals in his dinner hour! That may be a little exaggeration in actual fact, although we believe it is true to this extent that in one of his dinner hours he found the plan by which 500 peals were afterwards produced.

THE WONDERS OF THE RINGING MACHINE.

But with all his ability as a composer and his energy and enthusiasm in bygone days as a ringer, John Carter will in the future be best known for his 'ringing machine.' Brought up and trained to be 'mechanically minded,' Mr. Carter made many excursions into the world of invention, and while he was associated with the firm of Webley, the famous gun makers, numerous inventions and improvements in firearms were the outcome of his fertile brain. It is not, therefore, altogether surprising that he should have turned his attention to a machine that would ring changes. The thought occurred to him one morning while at work, he concentrated on it during the afternoon, and was so absorbed in it while ringing in a peal that, as recorded in Mr. Young's notes, he astonished all his friends by his apparent incapacity to ring. The result was the peal was an utter failure, but the germ of the ringing machine had implanted itself in his brain. For thirty years afterwards he was thinking and plotting and scheming to bring this machine to perfection, and there rests now in the Science Museum at South Kensington the completed product of a master mind. To say that it is a truly wonderful machine is but stating a bare fact. There is nothing in the way of change ringing on any number of bells up to 12 that it will not do. It will ring a single bell, produce the two changes on two bells, the six changes on three bells, and so on up to the extent on twelve bells. It can be set to ring any method, either already in existence or which may be created in the future on any number of bells, or it can be made to work the changes without the bells ringing, the same as practising with the clappers tied. It can be made to print the figures of a method, or the course ends only, as they are being rung. It will make the diagrams showing the working of the method on which it is engaged;

it will show how many changes have been rung, and will make any kind of call, such as bob or single, always provided they are called (by pressing a button) at the proper time. This machine was to Mr. Carter a labour of love. It is impossible to say how many hours or how much money he devoted to its construction and perfection. He rebuilt it times out of number, always improving and correcting any little defects which revealed themselves to him. In fact, it seemed at one time as if he were loth to complete it—this child of his genius. But he did eventually do so, although none too soon, for he was stricken down not long after he had finished it to his own satisfaction. It now rests in the South Kensington Museum; its construction has been carefully recorded by diagrams and explanations, thanks to the interest which has been taken by Mr. E. A. Young, and a knowledge of its working has been imparted to Mr. C. W. Roberts, so that its intricacies may not be lost to future generations of ringers.

PEALS.

In all, Mr. Carter had rung 315 peals, and there are no more beautifully kept peal books than the two volumes containing his records. An index to each gives the number of the peal, the place where it was rung, the number of changes, the method and the conductor. Volume I. also contains in alphabetical list of all the ringers with whom he had rung peals and the consecutive number of the peals, and a similar alphabetical list giving the towers, with an index figure showing the method. The peals themselves are beautifully written in colours, many of the important ones illuminated, and, more valuable still, with every peal is the composition or a reference to show where the figures can be found. A fourth table is an analysis of the peals rung in the different years. The illuminated title page of the first volume, which contains 231 peals, is inscribed: 'A list of peals successfully rung by Mr. John Carter, of Birmingham, from 1874 to 1907, with full details written by his sincere friend George Chester.' They are the most carefully kept individual records that we have seen. The following is the list of his peals, the last being one of Stedman Triples which he himself conducted at Deptford in 1923.

His funeral took place on Wednesday week at Lewisham Cemetery, Ladywell. Mr. Alfred and Mr. John Carter, the deceased's two sons, represented the family. There were a number present from those who attend the Lee Chapel, at which the son, Mr. John Carter, officiates as pastor, and also Mr. Carter's nurse and Mrs. E. A. Young.

The Ringing Exercise was represented by Mr. T. Groombridge, Master of the College Youths, Mr. E. Alexander Young, hon. secretary of the Central Council, Mr. Albert Walker, representing the Birmingham ringers, with whom the deceased had rung for many years, and also Messrs. W. T. Cockerill, W. J. Jeffries, A. A. Hughes, H. Langdon, J. Milner, H. R. Passmore, T. H. Taffender, and C. F. Winney. Amongst the wreaths was one brought by Mr. Walker from St. Martin's, Birmingham.

The service in the chapel was conducted by the Rev. E. Rose, who gave an appropriate address, which was followed by the singing of the hymn, 'Crown Him with many crowns.' After the interment, * Plain Course of Stedman Cinques was rung by the following at the graveside: T. H. Taffender 1-2, C. F. Winney 3-4, A. Walker 5-6, H. R. Passmore, 7-8, H. Langdon 9-10, W. T. Cockrill 11-12. At the grave, Mr. John Carter thanked all the ringers who had come to do honour to his father's memory. He then led the singing of a verse from 'Gospel Bells,' which was taken up and joined in by all those present. And so, in the gathering twilight, in the now otherwise empty cemetery, was said the final farewell to John Carter.

A muffled peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at Wolverhampton on Saturday.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT LOUGHBOROUGH.

Loughborough, the place made famous by bells, was the scene of yet another successful gathering of ringers from far and near on the occasion of the third quarterly meeting of the Midland Counties Association on Saturday, January 22nd. Although the weather was wintery and uninviting, visitors turned up early, some with a view to a pull on the grand peal of ten at All Saints' Church (where the long peal of 18,027 Stedman Caters was rung on Easter Monday, 1909), or on the little peal of ten in the Bell Foundry Campanile. At the latter place, some weird exhibitions were witnessed on the light end, more like a gymnastic display than a campanistic one, as these 'little' uns want some handling. However, touches in several of the standard methods were more or less successfully rung. By an act of courtesy the Bell Foundry itself was thrown open to visitors by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., and all who went round the works were amply repaid by the interesting collection of bells in all stages of manufacture from and for all parts of the world.

The committee met in the Pearson Hall, and owing to the unfortunate absence of the president (Ald. R. B. Chambers, B.A., J.P.) through indisposition and the severe weather, Mr. Pryce Taylor was voted to the chair. The usual routine business was attended to, and the hon. treasurer gave a summary of the balance sheet, which was very satisfactory.

It was decided to print the 1926 report as usual, and charge 6d. per copy as formerly.

The Hon. Secretary asked if it was the wish of the committee to insert an advertisement for 'The Ringing World' in the report, and this was agreed to.

A request for a grant from the bell repair fund was received from Ockbrook, near Derby, where a peal of six is being erected in place of the old three bells. This was agreed to.

Tea was served in the same hall, and about 80 members sat down to an excellent repast, after which followed the general meeting.

The Rector of Loughborough (Rev. Canon Briggs, M.A.), was voted to the chair in the absence of the president, and there were present Mr. P. Taylor, the hon. treasurer (Mr. W. Willson), hon. secretary (Mr. E. Morris), Rev. Peter Wright (Eyam), Rev. I. B. Ll. Gibbs (Ockbrook), and members from Burton, Chesterfield, Cotgrave, Derby, Duffield, Ilkeston, Leicester, Loughborough, Melton Mowbray, Nottingham, Wigston, and other places too numerous to mention.

The Chairman, in welcoming the members to Loughborough, spoke with pleasure at his recollections of other meetings there, and hoped this would not be the last. He mentioned Messrs. Taylor's Bell Foundry, and how they had given Loughborough the name for bells it now possessed, and the proud feeling they had in the possession of one of the finest peals of ten bells at their Parish Church, and the crowning glory of the war memorial carillon, which none could equal in this country.

Thirty-nine new members elected since the last meeting were confirmed, viz., 14 honorary and 25 ordinary. Among the former, the president had enrolled the Mayors of Burton, Derby, Loughborough, Leicester and Nottingham.

Two auditors were elected to check the hon. treasurer's account, and the grant suggested to Ockbrook duly ratified.

Mr. P. Taylor gave an outline of the committee meeting, and announced that Mr. Jordon, Loughborough's official carillonneur, was present and would be pleased to show any members up the war memorial tower, and allow them to inspect the bells, clavier, mechanism, and also the war relics now deposited there. Needless to say, almost all present availed themselves of this unique opportunity, which was greatly appreciated. Mr. Jordon explained 'how it was done,' and afterwards played various selections for an hour. Ringing at the Parish Church till a late hour completed a most successful meeting.

COMPLIMENT TO A BISHOP.

At Birch-in-Rusholme on January 29th, at St. James' Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 50 mins.: G. Whiteless 1, R. Davies 2, W. H. Shaker 3, W. J. Wheadon 4, H. G. Frampton 5, F. Stoneley 6, A. Frost (first quarter as conductor) 7, T. Timperley (first quarter) 8.

This was rung after an unsuccessful attempt for a peal in the same method to mark the elevation of Canon Parsons, D.D., of St. James' parish, to be Suffragan Bishop of Middleton; also as a farewell to the ringer of the 5th, who is leaving the district. The thanks of the band are due to the ringer of the tenor who, although a young learner, stood in at a moment's notice to complete the party, and handled his bell extremely well throughout the ringing.

THE CROFTS COMMEMORATION DINNER. SHERWOOD YOUTHS HAVE ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL GATHERING.

The fifth William Doubleday Crofts Commemoration dinner proved no less attractive than its predecessors, albeit, the fashionable complaint, influenza, robbed it of a percentage of would-be attenders and artistes. The first item of importance was in the tower of St. Mary's, where the Vicar (the Rev. Geoffrey Gordon) dedicated, after the unveiling by Mrs. Gordon, a peal board recording the first peal of Spliced Grandsire and Stedman Caters, which was rung on the bells on October 31st, 1925. The tablet is the work of the conductor, Mr. Ernest Morris, and is an addition of considerable importance and beauty to the ringing room.

The dinner was held at the Welbeck Hotel, with the Master (Mr. A. Coppock) in the chair. Supporting him were the Sheriff of Nottingham (Councillor J. Hopkin), the Vicar of St. Mary's (the Rev. G. Gordon), and Mrs. Gordon, Messrs. Cyril Johnston (Craydon), Pryce Taylor and J. P. Fidler (Loughborough), J. F. Smallwood (Derby), W. P. Whitehead (Leicester), G. F. Cope (Nottingham), F. Blood (hon. secretary), F. Salter (treasurer), and F. Bailey (steward).

Letters of apology for absence were read from the Lord Bishop of Southwell, the Mayor of Nottingham, Canon Boden, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, and Mr. Geo. Walker.

Nearly 70 persons sat down to an excellent dinner, and the entertainment afterwards was equally enjoyable. A fine course of Caters on handbells following the loyal toast made a good send-off, and Mr. Fidler, in proposing the toast of 'The Church,' referred humorously to an incumbent who, being at variance with his choir and ringers, included in the next Litany, 'From ringers and singers, good Lord deliver us.'—The Rev. G. Gordon, replying, made use of an amusing Army anecdote, and contended that where an incumbent and his choir or ringers could not agree, there was possibly some fault on both sides, and strikes should not be entered into until each contending opinion had received due consideration.

The Chairman, in proposing the health of 'The Sheriff,' said that the Sherwood Youths, with the tradition of Robin Hood behind them, look upon the Sheriff as their lawful prey, but that instead of laying in wait to rob or harm him, they now asked him to honour them by appearing at their festive board. For many times, he added, he and the Sheriff had occupied the same platform, with the difference that the Sheriff had been chairman and he a 'common or garden' vocalist. —The Sheriff's reply was an uncommonly interesting one, dealing with the varied improvements, pending or accomplished, in the City. Regarding the bells for the new City Hall, he could give no definite information, but later it was elicited that the new clock would chime on bells totalling 16 tons in weight.

The silent toast followed a little later, when a brief sketch of the careers of C. W. P. Clifton, for a time a resident of Nottingham, William Wadsley (Bulwell), and William Clifford (Beeston) was given by the Master, the whole company drinking to their memory standing in silence.

Responding to Mr. F. S. Price's proposition of the health of 'The Visitors,' Mr. Cyril Johnston replied in his customary suave manner, slyly digging at the chairman for calling on him without any notice whatsoever. The Chairman herewith apologises, and is wearing sackcloth and ashes in consequence, but ventures to suggest that Mr. Johnston, and also any other gentleman who spoke, enjoyed his or their dinner all the more for having no mental worries during the meal.

The musical programme was of high character, including Madame C. Harris, a really delightful and cultured soprano, Miss Amy Blagdon, daughter of the steeplekeeper at Lenton, an exceedingly promising contralto, Mr. J. F. Adkin, basso, Mr. A. Coppock, baritone, with Miss N. Price and F. Blood as accompanists, the latter playing two delightful pianoforte solos. He also played a Charleston later, but we are forbidden to say anything further on this incident, the official programme having terminated. The proceedings herabouts developed into an informal conference on matters of scarcely sufficient importance to relate to the Exercise generally, but were none the less interesting and enjoyable.

The menu included 'Superlative' soup, fried fillets of whiting and 'Stedman' sauce, Roast Beef and 'Trebble Bob' pudding, Roast Lamb and 'S.H.L.Q.' sauce, 'Spliced' vegetables, apple tart and custard, jellies in the 'Tittums' position.

RINGER-CHURCHWARDEN.

At the annual parochial church meeting of St. Thomas' (City), Bristol, held on Thursday, February 3rd, Mr. F. G. Leaker, captain of the bellringers (as stated on the cover of the parish magazine), was elected churchwarden of that ancient church.

Mr. Leaker has been a ringer at St. Thomas' for the past 27 years, being one of a band formed there by Mr. W. A. Cave in February, 1900, at the request of the then churchwarden, Mr. W. T. Parker, upon whose proposition Mr. Leaker was elected to this high office. At the same meeting, Mr. Cave was re-elected as sidesman, upon the role of which are two other ringers, viz., Mr. H. Green and Mr. C. H. Jennings.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD. SLEAFORD DISTRICT PROGRESS.

The annual meeting of the Sleaford District of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Sleaford on Saturday, January 29th. Ringing commenced early in the afternoon, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, and Double Norwich Court Bob Major were brought round.

A short service was held in the Parish Church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. W. Norton-Howe, who gave an interesting address on the history and use of bells. Tea was then served in the Church Room, at which 38 ringers were present.

During the business meeting which followed, the Master, the Rev. H. Law James, congratulated the district on its successful meeting and on the ringing progress at Sleaford, and urged the paramount necessity of good striking.

The following officers were unanimously re-elected: Mr. H. E. Snow (president), Mr. Reginald Scott (secretary), Flight-Sergt. F. A. Holden (Ringing Master), Mr. W. H. Wood (district representative). The ringers, who came from Lincoln, Bransdon, Heckington, Great Hale, Ruskington, Ewerby, Folkingham, Grantham and Hough-on-the-Hill, then enjoyed the use of the tower bells until 3.30 p.m.

EASTERN BRANCH.

The annual meeting was held at Sibsey on Saturday, January 29th, when members were present from Boston, Butterwick, Frampton, Leake, Poterborough, Stickney, Surfleet, together with friends from the Elloe Deaneries Branch.

A service was conducted by the president (Rev. J. R. Trotter), and afterwards tea was partaken of at the White Hart, about 25 members and friends sitting down.

The business meeting followed, when the officers for the ensuing year were elected. The president, the Rev. J. R. Trotter (Vicar of Freiston with Butterwick) was unanimously re-elected. The vice-presidents were re-elected en bloc. Mr. J. Phillips, of Butterwick, was unanimously re-elected to the offices of hon. sec. and treasurer, and Messrs. W. E. Clarke and Alex. Sharp were also unanimously re-elected to the offices of branch Ringing Master and Guild representative respectively.

Frampton was selected as the place for the next quarterly meeting. Votes of thanks were heartily accorded the Vicar of Sibsey for the use of the bells and to the president for his instructive address and for the great interest he takes in matters concerning the welfare of ringers in the branch generally.

After the tea, the tower was again visited, the bells being kept going until close upon 9 p.m. During the afternoon and evening, touches in the following methods were successfully brought round: Double Norwich, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Double Court, Single Court, Double Oxford and Plain Bob Minor.

KENT COUNTY SIBSEY ASSOCIATION. ROCHESTER DISTRICT MEETING.

A quarterly meeting of the Rochester District was held at Sittingbourne on Saturday, January 29th, and nearly 60 members attended. The methods rung ranged from Grandsire Triples to Superlative Surprise, and the association service was conducted by the Vicar, Mr. E. A. G. Allen, one of the district ringers, presiding at the organ. Tea followed at Cremer's Restaurant, to which 50 sat down. At the business meeting, Mr. W. Spice, of Tunstall, was voted to the chair, and at the outset read a letter from the district secretary, Mr. F. M. Mitchell, apologising for his absence owing to illness.

The Chairman referred to the sad loss the association, and their district especially, had sustained by the death of Mr. W. H. Harper, of Swanscombe, who had been a member over 40 years, and the whole company stood in silence for a minute as a tribute to his memory. The action of the hon. secretary in sending a wreath and a letter of condolence to Mrs. Harper was endorsed.

One honorary member, the Vicar of Queenborough, Rev. O. F. R. Strickland, and ten new members were elected, and the ratification of an election of a member previous to a peal was confirmed. Queenborough Tower was again brought into the association.

The place of the next meeting was Queenborough, which was unanimously carried, to be held on the last Saturday in April.

On the proposition of Mr. W. Haigh (Gillingham), seconded by Mr. C. Winsor (Frindsbury), it was unanimously decided that the name of the district secretary, Mr. F. M. Mitchell, should be brought forward as a candidate from this district as a Central Council representative for the county.

A discussion took place as to the best means to try and get new members to take up the art, the general opinion being to start in the church itself, and try and get members of the choir and other organisations.

Mr. Haigh, district representative, gave an account of the business that was transacted at the annual committee meeting in November last, and was thanked for his report.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and conducting the service, and to Mr. Allen for presiding at the organ, concluded the business.

The tower was again visited, the bells going until nine o'clock in various methods. Eleven towers in the district were represented.

The district secretary thinks now he is justified in having a 'growl.' The names sent in for the tea were 27, and 50 put in an appearance. Owing to the absence of the secretary, through illness, this placed his deputy in an unenviable position, and if this should meet the eye of any of those who did not send in their names, and any ringer who is slack in this respect, please think of it in the future, as it is not always possible to arrange at such short notice.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY AT PUDSEY.

The usual monthly meeting of the Leeds and District Society was held at Pudsey on January 29th, and were again entertained to tea by the Pudsey company. The ringing started about 2.30 p.m., and continued until close on 9 o'clock. The tea was held in the rooms of the Park Hotel. As soon as tea was finished, the Leeds Parish Church ringers started 'Community' singing, conducted by Mr. H. Lockwood, who tried his best to explain where each part started, and if on the up or down stroke. As he could not get the best out of his choir, he turned them on to the handbells, where he again led them in 'Callers' hymn.

At the business meeting the chair was taken by the president, and five new members were elected.

The Secretary brought forward the question of providing tea for members at other meetings.—Mr. Robinson proposed that tea be arranged at meetings and advertised in 'The Ringing World' each month. This was seconded by Mr. S. Sadler (St. Michael's), and agreed to.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells and to the local company for the splendid arrangements was proposed by Mr. G. Barraclough (Leeds P.C.) and seconded by Mr. S. Wheatley (Calverley).

The handbells were again brought into use, and some very good ringing was heard on 6, 8, 10 and 12 bells, the company dispersing just after 10 p.m.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

Birmingham to-morrow is to try the experiment, suggested originally by one of its own prominent ringers and first put into practice last month at Bristol, of having an informal conference in conjunction with the gathering which will assemble for the Johnson Commemoration Dinner. At Bristol the experiment was an interesting innovation; it was part of a crowded afternoon, but it was certainly worth the trial, and doubtless a similar feature will find a place in the programme next year. At Birmingham the day's proceedings will not be so closely packed, and half an hour is to be given to the conference, between the close of ringing and the dinner. The subject chosen follows as an almost natural sequel to that discussed at Bristol, where consideration was given to the question of how best to obtain recruits for the Exercise. To-morrow's debate will centre round the question of how to retain the interest of beginners when they have been obtained. In view of present day tendencies the subject is no less pressing and no less important than the earlier problem.

Time was when recruits were not always welcomed to the Exercise. The young man who was attracted to ringing was not greeted with open arms, the mysteries of the art were not readily revealed to him, his place was on the belfry seat while his 'betters' were ringing, and it was only after a long and patiently spent probationary period that he was eventually, and even then sometimes grudgingly admitted to the select circle. It usually needed unquenchable interest and undaunted determination on the part of a man to force his way into the Exercise. How different are things to-day! We have far more peals of bells. Bells are going up faster than competent ringers can be found to man them; the gaps that occur in the personnel in the belfries are difficult to fill; the attractions of the picture palace and the dance hall are a lure which makes it increasingly hard to find young men willing to take a serious interest in our art. Even where beginners can be found, instructors lament that they cannot be kept; the close application and constant practice which, in the vast majority of cases, are necessary before a man becomes even a passable change ringer frequently damp the first enthusiasm of the learner, who then becomes an easy prey to the less intellectual, but more easily acquired pursuits which the modern world offers to everyone.

What the Exercise has got to do is to bring its methods of dealing with beginners more up to date. The treatment given to young aspirants fifty or sixty years ago.

has vanished, but it is by no means certain that introduction to and instruction in our art could not be made more attractive than it is at present. The problem is one that presents itself to all associations, and must be faced. In some few cases it is already forcing itself upon those organisations who are alive enough to realise its pressing importance. The conference at Birmingham to-morrow will have the opportunity of giving a lead on the subject, and we hope that out of it will come some practical suggestions, which associations and individual bands will be able to follow up and apply with advantage.

NOTES BY THE WAY. By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Mr. Lukis puts the blame for the scandalous state of affairs (already described in his notes which I have quoted) on the churchwardens, and, of course, legally and technically, they were responsible. Perhaps more so than they would be now. For in those days the fabric of the church was kept in repair by a compulsory rate levied by the vestry on all ratepayers in the parish, whether they were churchmen or not. The churchwardens were the representatives of and elected by these ratepayers, and they naturally claimed and exercised the right to say how the money should be spent.

It was not until 1868 that these compulsory rates were finally abolished. Not only the towers, but the whole fabric of the churches has enormously benefited by the system of voluntary contributions which has taken their place. Even under the old style I think that the clergy were chiefly responsible for the bad state things had got into, but it seems that belfries and ringers were the last thing they wished to be troubled with.

It took many years before anything like general reform came about. It began with the labours of men like the Revs. A. Gatty, H. T. Ellacombe and W. C. Lukis, who, by books and articles, like the one I have been quoting, stirred up the interest of archaeologists in the neglected treasures which hung forgotten in church towers. It was helped by the enthusiasm of men like the Rev. H. R. Haweis, who, though they got their inspiration from Belgian carillons, and misunderstood and despised our English change ringing, yet did much to popularise a love of bells. Chiefly it was the result of the greater reverence and care for everything connected with church fabrics which arose from the quickening of church life by the Oxford Movement.

Thirty years ago there were many towers still in the state Mr. Lukis describes. One of the first things the Central Council attempted to do was to bring home to church authorities the state of bells and belfries, and the need for keeping them in order and repair. In 1898 a committee was appointed (of which I was a member) to get together a trustworthy account of the state of every eight, ten and twelve bell tower in England. It was feared that the result would show a bad state of neglect, and the intention was to publish a statement with the idea of inducing church authorities to take action in the matter. The reports were published week by week in 'The Bell News.' When they were completed it was found that reform had already begun, and that the towers containing eight and more bells were, generally speaking, in a satisfactory condition; far more satisfactory in fact than was thought.

It was decided, therefore, that it was not necessary to publish the intended statement. It was not possible to collect full information about five and six bell towers. Among them very many cases of bad neglect would have been found, but since then there has been a steady improvement there also, and now, if you want to find bells in really bad condition, you must go to the smaller towers of big towns rather than to village churches.

VARIATIONS OF THURSTANS' PEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I please point out that Mr. Dexter makes a great mistake when he says I write about variations and transpositions for his benefit. I do not. I should not try to teach him anything about what he has proved himself to be a past-master of. What I wrote I did in the hope that it might be of some assistance to members of the Exercise generally, to enable them to differentiate between a transposition and a variation. They are not my views only. Turn to page 49 of 'Stedman,' you will find it says: 'The following is a transposition of our own.' Then follows what is known as 'Heywood's Variation,' but that does not make it a variation. Again, on the next page: 'The peal, as here given, is in a transposed form' (Lates one-part). On page 48 is given the 'Variation by Thomas Brook.'

As regards dates, it would be more to the point if Mr. Washbrook's reply to Mr. Fowler could be produced. I know Mr. Washbrook conducted the peal in 1918, but I do not say that was the first time. Indeed, I should very much doubt it. I expect 1896 or 1897 would be more correct. Mr. Washbrook knew and understood Stedman Triples far better than Thurstans ever did, and a simple transposition like the one in question would not escape him. During the years 1888-1890-1891 Stedman Triples was turned inside out, and there was very little left when it was finished with. It is open to anyone to become expert in the method for an expenditure of 2s. 10d. on a copy of 'Stedman.'

While writing, Mr. Editor, may I say I have received a letter from Mr. Tipler, in which he complains that you used your blue pencil too freely on a communication of his. If this is so, I am not surprised, for his letter contributed little of value to the subject being discussed. He sent me four peals, neither of which I propose to set out in detail. The first is, I take it, Tipler's 'Variation of Haley's,' which is certainly a variation of the Washbrook-Haley's peal and not a transposition. The fourth, which he describes as a 'variation of Thurstans' I have never before seen,' is merely Thurstans' peal, using omits first half and extras second half (treble sub-observation), with singles in the 9th and 19th parts, which I should term a simple transposition. The second and third examples are, I am afraid, false. It is called a variation of Thurstans', and runs thus:

I have only recently attempted to understand the proof of Stedman Triples, but to me the above seems to fail in two particulars to meet the requirements of a true peal. As far as I have progressed, I understand the rule is: 'If every 3-4 be bobbed, every 7-8 must be plained, and for every 3-4 that is plained a 7-8 must be bobbed.' That is the first failure. Also, 'If every 5-6 be bobbed, every 12-13 must be plained, and for every 5-6 that is plained a 12-13 must be bobbed.' That is the second failure. There is only one other variation in addition to the three which are so well known, and you get this by transferring the 12-13 in the second course above to 7-8 in the first course, making a six-bob set in every part, which is considered undesirable.

W. A. CAVE.

P.S.—Since writing above, I find the 'our' on page 49 of 'Stedman' refers to the Rev. C. D. P. Davies and not Sir Arthur Heywood, and that transposition of the Singles from 14 and 2 to 9 and 11 has suggested to me the following transpositions, in the last two of which the arrangement of the parts is varied.

Some variations and transpositions by Mr. Cave will be published in a later issue.—Ed. 'R.W.'

The annual general meeting was held at Carlisle Cathedral on New Year's Day. Members were present from Aspatria, Cockermouth, Keswick, Egremont, Workington, and the Cathedral band. The meeting was presided over by the Dean of Carlisle (the Rev. Henry Venn-Stuart, D.D.), supported by the Hon. secretary, Mr. Wm. T. Holmes (Cockermouth). The accounts showed a balance in hand of £6 11s. 3d., an increase on the previous year.

All the officers were re-elected, and it was decided to hold the annual ringing contest on Easter Monday at Crosthwaite Parish Church, Keswick, and, if possible, to obtain the same judge, Mr. Geo. Newton, of Liverpool.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Dean for presiding, also for use of bells and room.

The Cathedral belfry was afterwards visited, and the following methods rung: Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major and Kent Major. The association's certificate for Sunday service ringing was awarded to Crosthwaite with 724.88 points; Cockermouth were second with 454.92.

YORKSHIRE RINGER'S DEATH.

At Shelley Church, Yorkshire, on January 25th, as a last tribute to the late Mr. Amos Ramsden, who died on the 22nd of the month, after a brief illness, and was for 45 years an active ringer at the above church, 720 Oxford Treble Bob with the bells fully muffled: R. Sykes 1, H. Pearce 2, H. Roberts 3, F. Townsend 4, A. Goldthorpe 5, A. Boyle 6. The local ringers also rang for the funeral service in the afternoon.

THE SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE RECORD.

The following are the figures of the peal of Superlative Surprise Major (11,232 changes) rung at St. Peter's, Bolton, on January 29th, in 7 hours 10 minutes. It was composed on December 12th, 1925, by T. B. Worsley, and conducted by E. Jenkins.

GRIMSBY DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Grimsby District was held at Grimsby on Saturday, January 29th. Members attended from Bigby, Barrow-on-Humber, Barton-on-Humber, Ulceby, Burton-on-Stather, and the local tower. St. James' (eight) and St. Andrew's (eight) were available afternoon and evening. The service was held in St. Andrew's Church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. T. Russell Warrilow), who gave an interesting address. Mr. Harold Rushby, a local ringer, presided at the organ. Tea was served in the Church Hall, and 21 members sat down to a splendid repast provided by Mrs. Todd, which was greatly appreciated.

The business meeting followed, Mr. W. Heyhoe being voted to the chair.

The Rev. H. T. Parry, Rural Dean and Rector of Bigby, who was unable to be present owing to illness, was re-elected president.

The Secretary (Mr. H. T. Mingay) read his report for the past year, which was adopted, and he was re-elected. Mr. C. W. Taylor was elected as the representative to serve on the general committee. Mr. G. Blanchard was re-elected Ringing Master, and Mr. J. Bray Deputy Ringing Master. Mr. Abraham Hodge, of Grimsby, was elected as an honorary member, and Mr. R. S. Long, of Sheffield, a non-resident life member. The latter, previous to his removal to Sheffield, was Ringing Master in the district, and a much respected member of St. Andrew's company, Grimsby.

Caistor was selected for a meeting on May 14th, Thornton Curtis June 11th, Burton-on-Stather July 16th, Bigby August 20th, Scunthorpe September 17th, Barton-on-Humber October 22nd.

Mr. Heyhoe presented the accounts of the bell fund, which were very satisfactory considering the industrial depression from which this district, like others, had suffered.

It is interesting to note that amongst the company present was Mr. Richardson, who a few years ago was a member of St. Andrew's band. He is now in his 91st year.

Mr. H. Rushby proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks to the Vicars of St. James' and St. Andrew's for the use of the bells, to the Vicar of St. Andrew's for taking the service and for his address, to the caterers for the splendid tea, and to the local members for making arrangements. Also to Mr. W. Heyhoe for presiding at the meeting. Members are asked to note the secretary's change of address, namely, to 394, Wellington Street, Grimsby.

HOUNSLOW.—On Sunday, January 9th, for morning service at St. Paul's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 46 mins.: C. J. Tricker, jun., 1, F. G. Goddard 2, J. Kent 3, W. F. Ellingham 4, S. Stilwell 5, C. J. Tricker 6, J. Milner (conductor) 7, C. Gash 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A treble to the fine ring of five is to be installed at Goodrich, near Ross, by Mr. J. E. Groves, of Birmingham.

Oxford's city Church of St. Martin and All Saints is to have a peal of eight. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have been entrusted with the work of rehangings the present six and adding two trebles.

Major F. A. Yorke, R.A., through whose researches it became known that the College Youths' certificate was the work of Bartolozzi, and who has been for some time in Iraq, will shortly be in England on leave.

The 'Johnson Dinner' and week-end is, we hear, attracting a large number of ringers to Birmingham from distant towers. It is astonishing how the 'clans' gather for this always interesting and enjoyable event. On second thoughts, however, it is not so astonishing—to those who have attended one of these gatherings.

A peal of College Single Major was rung at Warnham, Sussex, on Saturday. The first peal in the method was rung there on February 18th, 1889.

The first peal by the Trinity Youths, one of the many defunct London Societies, was Grandsire Triples rung at St. Nicholas' Church, Deptford, on February 18th, 1782.

What was claimed as the first true peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung at St. Giles-in-the-Fields on Sunday, February 23rd, 1783, by the College Youths, 'the greatest performance ever achieved in the campanian art.'

A peal of Double Norwich Major was rung on handbells for the first time on February 23rd, 1891, by the Cambridge University Guild.

Mr. C. Edwards, of Ealing, wishes to thank his many friends who wrote him cheerful and sympathetic letters while in hospital, and to say he has now recovered sufficiently to return home, and hopes to be able to see them to thank personally before long.

The report of the peal of Oxford Treble Bob rung at Hemingford Grey, on January 29th, should have read: 'First in method by 1st, 3rd, and 5th ringers.'

At the annual meeting of the Yorkshire Association at Sheffield, on Saturday, the officers were re-elected. A report of the proceedings will appear in our next issue.

Mr. Thomas Russam, of Birmingham, celebrated his 70th birthday on Sunday. His interesting reminiscences of John Carter's early ringing days will shortly appear in these columns.

SEQUEL TO A PEAL.

When, in October last, the bells at St. John-the-Baptist Church, Pinner, were re-opened with a peal rung by members of the Middlesex Association, a wish was expressed by the ringers at that church that some assistance should be given them. Consequently they have since joined the county association, and on a recent Monday evening the hon. secretary, accompanied by the brothers Kilby, who have consented to act as instructors, visited Pinner with the object of commencing a series of practices in change ringing. A very encouraging start was made, several 120's of Grandsire Doubles being rung, most of the local ringers taking part.

The bells are a very fine ring of eight, with a tenor weighing 19 cwt. The restoration was undertaken by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who recast the cracked tenor and retuned the whole peal, which was rehung in an iron frame. The Whitechapel firm are to be congratulated on an excellent piece of work, as the present go of the bells leaves nothing to be desired; and the church authorities at Pinner are the proud possessors of one of the finest peals in the neighbourhood.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

WINCHESTER DISTRICT'S SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

A quarterly meeting of the Winchester District was held at Alresford on Saturday, February 5th. The bells at Alresford (eight), Old Alresford (six), and Bishop's Sutton (five) were available, and were kept going during the afternoon and evening to Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Triples, Bob Doubles and Minor, Double Norwich, Cambridge, London and Bristol Surprise Major.

Tea and a short meeting were held at Crock's Restaurant, presided over by the Rector (Rev. A. J. Robertson), the Vicar of Bishop's Sutton (Rev. Lindsay Browne), Mr. G. Williams, Mr. Geo. Pullinger, F. H. Rogers and members from Bishopstoke, Bishop's Sutton, Fareham, Twyford, Hursley, North Stoneham, Portsmouth, Southampton, Winchester, and some of the local ringers were present.

On the proposition of Mr. G. Williams, seconded by the district secretary, the Vicar of Bishop's Sutton was elected an hon. member, five of the Sutton band were elected full members, and Mr. W. Spiers (Alresford) an unattached member.

Mr. Pullinger offered to give instruction to the Bishop's Sutton band. This meeting was one of the best quarterly meetings held in the Winchester District for some years, 41 being present at the meeting. Votes of thanks were passed to the Rectors of Old and New Alresford and the Vicar of Bishop's Sutton for the use of the bells.

The next meeting will be held at Stockbridge on Saturday, May 7th, notice of which will be given in 'The Ringing World.'

WINCHESTER GUILD VICE-PRESIDENT DEAD.

AN ACTIVE WORKER FOR RINGING.

We have to announce, with deep regret, the death of the Rev. C. E. Matthews, vice-president of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, who passed away on Friday evening at the age of 63 years.

He was appointed hon. secretary and treasurer of the Guild in 1895, and occupied these joint offices for eight years, during which time he missed only one quarterly meeting, and saw the funds of the Guild raised from £63 to £128. It was while he was hon. secretary, also, that the Guild was divided into districts—a step which greatly extended the activities of, and interest in, the organisation.

In 1903, he was elected to succeed the Rev. R. C. M. Harvey as Master, which post he held until he was appointed to the chief executive office of the Guild, viz., vice-president.

Born at Elstead, Surrey, in 1863, the Rev. C. E. Matthews was educated at University College, Durham, and Salisbury Theological College. He was ordained deacon in 1887 by the Bishop of Colchester, and priest in the following year by the Bishop of St. Albans. He was licensed to the curacy of North Weald Bassett in 1887, and there learned to handle a bell. Afterwards he was at Ospringe, Kent; Shere, Surrey; and Hursley, near Winchester. He was presented to the living of Bursledon by Winchester College in 1899. He became Vicar of Titchfield in 1907, and a few years ago moved to Milton, near Lymington.

Wherever he has been he has actively taken part in schemes for restoring or increasing the rings of bells, and, being deeply interested in the archaeological side of bells, he was largely responsible for the Church Bell History of Hampshire. He was a writer of ringers' hymns, one of the best known of which is 'The Sacred Bells of England.'

Although not a great ringer, he was exceedingly keen on promoting the interests of the art and furthering the objects of the Winchester Guild, which he represented continuously on the Central Council from 1906.

Last year Mr. Matthews had a long and serious illness, from which he never really fully recovered, and his death will be a great loss to the Winchester Diocesan Guild, with which he was so long and so intimately connected.

THE LATE MR. JOHN CARTER.

SCIENTIFIC TRIPLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Amongst the many clever things the late Mr. John Carter did, one, to my mind, stands next to the ringing machine. It is that wonderful brain buster, his peal of Scientific Triples—a puzzle for the puzzler, brain power for the scientist. Composed in 1904, published in the 'Bell News,' page 133, July 21st, 1906, it does not conform to rules laid down by the Central Council, as the plain course produces 250 changes. In the event of this peal being rung, the band should be presented with gold medals. I would be pleased to give my mite towards them. This composition should be preserved by the Central Council, if only to show the exceeding cleverness of its composer.—Yours truly,

LOOKER-ON.

Mr. J. E. Dawe writes: I am sure that all will appreciate the very excellent account in your paper of the career of our dear old friend, Jack Carter, but one most important and, indeed, national invention of his was omitted. I remember him being a principal witness in a law case, somewhere about 40 years ago, in which he stated in the witness box that he was the actual inventor of the well-known 'Webb-ley' revolver, so extensively used in the Army and now of world-wide reputation. About that period also he won the much coveted badge of the 'Queen's Hundred,' the first time that it was a Hundred, and thus became probably the first change ringer to achieve this distinction.

At Coalbrookdale, on Monday evening, February 7th, with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mr. John Carter, 1,260 Grandsire Triples, Mr. Carter's favourite quarter-peal, was rung in 50 mins.: A. S. Bayley 1, W. Wase 2, J. Hanley 3, J. Stanier 4, R. Jones 5, W. Saunders (conductor) 6, J. H. Rixon 7, L. Jones 8.

Also 336 Stedman Triples, composed by Mr. Carter, was rung on the ten bells, 6, 8, 10 covering: A. Bayley 1, J. Stanier 2, J. H. Rixon 3, W. Wase 4, R. Jones 5, W. Saunders 6, J. Hanley 7, E. Wase 8, J. Garbett (conductor) 9, L. Jones 10.

It was intended to attempt a quarter-peal of Grandsire or Stedman Caters, had not influenza been just busy among the band. Mr. Carter was the first to subscribe £5 5s. to the Coalbrookdale bells fund. In the ringing chamber is also a very beautiful marble peal tablet, given by him, recording a peal of Stedman Triples which was composed and conducted by him.

At the usual practice at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, City, on Monday, February 7th, the bells were rung muffled as a mark of respect to the late Mr. John Carter. Courses of London, Bristol, Cambridge, Superlative and Norfolk Surprise Major were successfully brought round.

AN ANCIENT BELL.

AN ARCHÆOLOGICAL PUZZLE.

Probably one of the most interesting and unusual reconstructions ever undertaken was that recently carried out by Barimar, Ltd., the scientific welding engineers, of London, for Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, the well-known bell founders.

The repair related to an ancient bell which was extensively damaged and consequently useless. When it is recollected that bell-founding is almost 'an exact science,' and that the welding of an 8in. crack in metal produced by methods which have long since been superseded demands profound knowledge of metallurgy, it will be realised that this is an achievement which reflects the greatest possible credit on the welders. Not only has the tone of the bell been preserved, but the clarity is absolutely unimpaired.

An ancient bell—badly damaged—before repair by new Barimar process. All record of its origin has been lost. Can any reader identify it?

assuredly be a valuable contribution to antiquarian lore, and would clear up a mystery of considerable interest to the bell founders and also to Barimar, Ltd.

The bell, which is one of the oldest in the country, is said to have been cast in the early part of the 13th century, and is, therefore, over 700 years old. Unfortunately, from the point of view of the antiquarian, all record of its origin or history appears to have been lost; indeed, it is not even possible to trace from available records where it was originally hung.

Possibly someone seeing these notes will be able to identify the bell through its peculiar shape. Any information on the subject would

THE ISLEWORTH BELL FUND.

The South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild held their annual meeting at Isleworth on Saturday, February 5th, by permission of the Rev. H. M. Rotton, D.D. (Vicar). Ringing commenced shortly after three with touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples. Service was conducted by the Rev. M. E. Thomas, M.C., M.A., and a most interesting and delightful service it was—enjoyed and appreciated by all. The Vicar and churchwardens again entertained the members to tea, and their kind hospitality was appreciated.

Mr. Edgley (churchwarden) presided, on behalf of the Vicar, and was supported by Rev. M. E. Thomas, Mr. C. S. Bird (vice-president), and Mr. C. J. Bridges. Sixty members sat down to an excellent tea served by Mrs. Brown.

The balance sheet showed a credit balance of 18s. 11d. on the year's working, and the report stated that 39 new members had been elected during the year, including the new band at Ruislip, with Mr. G. Kirby at instructor.

The Isleworth Bell Fund now amounts to £116 10s., for which best thanks are tendered to all subscribers. The committee again appeal to all members and ringing friends for their liberal support, as much more is needed. £3 11s. was collected at the meeting.

All retiring officers and members of the Central Committee were re-elected.

The secretary was requested to send a letter of sympathy to the president (Mr. F. A. Milne) on the serious illness of his wife, and to Mr. Tom Beadle (Isleworth) and Mr. C. Edwards (Ealing), wishing them all a speedy recovery.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells and their kind hospitality, to Rev. M. E. Thomas for conducting the service, the organist (Mr. N. Wilshire), Mr. Edgley for presiding at the meeting, Mr. Bridges (manager of Barclays Bank, hon. treasurer to the bell fund), and the steeple-keeper. Afterwards, the tower was again visited, and Cambridge and Bristol Surprise were rung. Twickenham was also visited, where ringing was indulged in till 8.45, and thanks given to the Rev. Cole Skeane, Vicar, for the use of the bells, and Mr. E. Morris for the arrangements.

A LANCASHIRE DIAMOND JUBILEE.

In view of the diamond jubilee celebration at Hindley, Lancs., this week-end, the following, taken by Mr. T. Wilde from the peal book of his grandfather, will no doubt be of interest:

'February 18th, 1867, opening a new peal of bells at St. Peter's Church, Hindley, near Wigan, cast by Mears and Stainbank, with a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major (5,088 changes) in 3 hrs. 3 mins.: John Lawton treble, Hugh Shaw 2, Jno. Bramhall 3, Daniel Whitoley 4, William Fawcett 5, Joseph Rose 6, Robert Williams 7, James Wilde tenor. Composed and conducted by R. Williams. All are from Stalybridge except J. Wilde, Hyde.'

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the London County Association was held last Saturday, with a fairly good attendance of members, although illness was responsible for several absentees, notably Mrs. Pennington Bickford, whose presence was greatly missed. Ringing took place at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East and at St. Clement Danes' until 4.30, when the service was held, conducted by the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford, Rector and honorary chaplain, who gave a most appropriate and interesting address, taking as his theme the inscription on the Sanctus bell, 'Robert Mott made me, 1588.' Robert Mott was the founder of the Whitechapel firm now known as Mears and Stainbank, who restored the bells of St. Clement's in 1919. Some eighty of his bells still remain, but many were destroyed in the Great Fire. The preacher drew several lessons from the bell and its inscription. The Rector also referred to the great loss sustained by the Exercise in the death of Mr. John Carter, and associated himself with the words of the leading article in 'The Ringing World,' to whose editor he wished to pay tribute. At the close of the service, the 'Dead March' in Saul was played.

An excellent tea was awaiting the company on their arrival at the Parish House, the preparation of which had been carefully superintended by Mrs. Bickford at a distance. The meeting later expressed its sympathy with her in her illness, and its sincere hope for a speedy recovery. After tea, the tables were cleared for the business meeting.

First, the election of one member at the Southern District annual meeting was ratified, and five other new members elected.

The Secretary (Mr. A. H. Keighley) gave his report for the year, and referred to the various matters which had arisen. The practices had been fairly well attended, but further improvement was desired. The Southern District had carried out its arrangements successfully, but the Northern District Master, Mr. Alleway, and its acting secretary, Mr. Bottrill, had both been compelled to resign. In their places, the association had been fortunate in securing Mr. L. L. Gray and Mr. J. A. Hales, under whose guidance it was hoped the district would go forward.

New members elected during the year numbered 28, as compared with 26 during 1925, but the number of peals rung was smaller at 17, made up as follows: Bob Major 1, Stedman Triples 8, Cambridge Major 3, Stedman Cinques 1, Grandsire Triples 1, Cambridge Royal 1, Minor 1, Doubles 1. Mr. T. H. Taffender, the Master, conducted ten peals, and Mr. Symonds two, Mr. Brett one, Mr. Barker one, Mr. Mance one, Mr. Gannon one, and Mr. Judd one.

The financial statement was read and passed, showing an increase in funds in hand of nearly £4 10s. The peals were duly accepted to be sent to the writer.

The collection at the service amounted to £2 6s. 3d., which the Rector kindly gave to the association for disposal.—On the proposition of Mr. Mance, it was decided to give this sum to the St. Clement Danes' Sea Scouts, towards the purchase of uniforms, for which the Rector said he was very grateful.

Other matters were raised by the members, including a question relating to broadcasting, and votes of thanks were passed to the Rector for arranging the service and giving the address, to Mrs. Bickford for her kindness and invaluable help, to all those who had assisted, and, lastly, to the retiring officers.

Mr. J. Waghorn thanked the association for celebrating his 84th birthday by ringing a peal.

The elections of the district officers were confirmed, and the general officers appointed as follows: Master, Mr. T. H. Taffender; general secretary, Mr. A. H. Keighley; assistant secretaries, Messrs. R. Newman and T. W. Taffender; treasurer, Mr. E. A. Young; trustees, Messrs. J. George and P. E. Dawe; stewards, Messrs. F. W. Chorley and T. Wyatt, all these holding similar offices last year. The Master and Mr. A. D. Barker were appointed representatives on the Central Council for the next three years.

The Master announced that the association's gift to Mr. Keighley on the occasion of his marriage had taken the form of an oxidised copper curb, for which Mr. Keighley expressed his grateful thanks, stating that he would prize it very much, and that whatever he had done for the association had been a pleasure to him. Although he had wanted to be relieved of office, he would do his best for another year.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY.

A quarterly meeting was held at Darlaston on Saturday, January 22nd, the attendance being less than usual owing to the inclement weather. A service was held in church, and an interesting address delivered by the Rector, the Rev. J. W. Augur. At the Church Institute a capital tea was laid, the only regret being there were so few present to do justice to the abundance of good things provided.

A vote of thanks was accorded the Rector for his address, use of the bells, etc.; to the organist and choir boys who helped to brighten the service; and to the ladies who served tea.—This was responded to by the Rector.

The ringing consisted of touches in a variety of methods, and it is worthy of note that 'budding' conductors were conspicuous by coming to the fore.

The next meeting is provisionally arranged to take place at Bloxwich on April 30th.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

INTERESTING SUBJECTS DISCUSSED.

The ninth annual meeting of the Clan District was held at Clun on Saturday, when members from Clun, Clunbury, Hopesay, Knighton, and visitors from Ludlow attended.

At the business meeting, following tea, the Ringing Master (Rev. H. J. Scott) presided, and the hon. secretary (Mr. W. Moad) presented the balance sheet, which showed the income had been £5 8s. 6d., and the expenditure £3 1s. 7d., leaving a balance in hand of £2 6s. 11d. He said they had increased their balance on the year's working by 19s. 5d., had gained one new hon. member, but had lost five ringers by removals, etc. There were, however, good prospects of this loss soon being made up.—The balance sheet was accepted and considered very satisfactory.

The Rev. H. J. Scott was re-elected Ringing Master, and Mr. W. Moad re-elected hon. secretary; the Rev. I. Harrison, the new Vicar of Clun, was elected an hon. member, and one probationer was elected.

The next quarterly meeting is to be held at Bishop's Castle on Saturday, April 30th.

The Hon. Secretary said he had put two subjects on the agenda for discussion with the idea of making the meeting as interesting as possible. Both the subjects were of considerable interest to ringers, and were being discussed by other associations.

The first was, 'How to induce young men to become ringers, and how to maintain their interest afterwards'; the second was, 'The insurance of voluntary ringers.' He said the first was of great importance if they wished to increase their members or even to maintain their membership. The second was almost of greater importance on account of the risk to ringers when oiling the bells, repairing ropes, etc. At present, they had no claim on the church authorities, as they were not paid servants and were not included in their insurance.

The Chairman said he was very pleased the subject had been put on the agenda, and he should like to hear the views of those present and also suggestions.—Mr. F. Evans (Knighton) said the idea of maintaining the interest of probationers was to take them to all the ringing meetings within reach and so keep them interested. Of course, this could only be done when towers had funds of their own and were able to pay the cost of these outings.

Mr. A. Nason (Ludlow) said he wished to know, if any ringer broke an arm or leg during ringing, who was he to look to for compensation?

Service time having arrived, and the subjects not having been fully discussed, the Chairman suggested that the discussion be adjourned to the next meeting, the hon. secretary being asked to get as much information on the subjects as possible, and place the items on the agenda, which he promised to do.

Rev. H. S. T. Richardson proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his presence at tea and the meeting, and also for the words of welcome he knew he was going to give them at the service.—This was carried with acclamation, and the meeting concluded.

After service, the bells were again rung in Grandsire Doubles and Triples and Bob Major.

PRESTEIGN DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the Presteign District of the Hereford Diocesan Guild was held at Eardisland on Saturday, January 29th. Sixteen members attended from seven towers. The Guild form of service was held, conducted by the Vicar, Rev. P. A. H. Birley, one of the local ringers acting as organist.

Tea was afterwards partaken of in the schools, kindly provided by the Vicar. At the subsequent business meeting the Vicar presided.

The Secretary reported combined practices at Lyonshall, December 2nd, when ten members were present from four towers, and at Penbridge on December 11th, when eight members were present from five towers. In the past year, four meetings had been held, with an average attendance of twenty members, and five combined practices with an average of fourteen members. One practice was abandoned owing to bad weather. One tower had joined the Guild with ten members, and one had left. The number of members had increased from sixty-nine to seventy-six, viz., six honorary, 49 ringing, 17 probationers and four unattached members, and eight towers were in union with the Guild in the district.

The accounts for the past year were presented and passed as satisfactory, with a balance on the year's working of £2 17s. 4d., and a total balance in hand of £9 17s. 8d. Through the kindness of the clergy and friends in providing teas at the meetings, there had been no expenses to the Guild or the members in the past year.

The officers were unanimously re-elected, viz.: Ringing Master, Mr. W. Evans, Lyonshall; and hon. secretary, Mr. J. Preece, Staunton-on-Arrow.

Two new members were elected from Kingston, and it was proposed to hold combined practices at Dilwyn in February and at Presteign in April, and the spring quarterly meeting at Lyonshall in May.

The Rev. M. Berkley, of Kingston, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his kindness in providing tea and taking the service.

The tower was then again visited, other members having arrived in the meantime. The following methods were rung during the afternoon and evening: Grandsire and Bob Doubles and Bob Minor. Members attended from Burghill, Dilwyn, Eardisland, Kimbolton, Kingston, Lyonshall, Old Radnor, Staunton-on-Arrow, and Weobley.

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the letter published in 'The Ringing World' at January 28th last, the following words appear: 'and is entirely independent of the church authorities.' It should have read 'and claims to be entirely independent, etc.' It was the insistence of this claim, and the disinclination on the part of certain members of the society to meet the Vicar, that misled us to seek the columns of 'The Ringing World.' We regret that this statement should have appeared, and tender our apologies to the Vicar and his predecessors, and wish to place on record our appreciation of the courteous reception accorded us in a recent interview with the Vicar. Thanking you for your interest in the matter,—Yours, etc.

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE (NOT THE METHOD).

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I read with regret, though not surprise, of the sad state of affairs now existing at Cambridge, and quite agree with the remarks of your correspondent, Mr. Robin Goodfellow. I myself know a 'brother string,' a good ringer, who went to reside in the University town, and naturally hoped to be able to obtain regular (or, at least, some) practice in the art he loved, but I learnt afterwards that all his efforts to accomplish this aim met with so little encouragement that he eventually gave them up in despair. Now, how different are the conditions in some of the surrounding villages, where one often reads in these columns of real progress, regular practice, and peals in advanced methods, and I am sure that £ s. d. is the last thing that these ringers would think of considering.

I have often wondered why such a town as Cambridge, the headquarters of the Ely Diocesan Association, is so behind in things campanological. As many may know, there are the noble twelve at St. Mary's, a magnificent eight (tenor 32cwt.) at the R.C. Church, and a poor-toned eight at St. Andrew's—all, I believe, in good ringing order. Then there are the six at St. Benet's (Stedman's old tower), which, I expect, are by now unringable. Several years ago I had a pull on the tenor there, and wondered if it had been rehung since Stedman's time. Perhaps it hadn't. Also a six at St. Edward's, unringable, besides one tower with five bells and two with four in a like condition. At all the latter five towers I believe the pernicious habit of clocking has been allowed for years past. How sad, when one considers that some of these towers contain historical monuments in the form of pre-Reformation bells of great value, archaeologically, and should be preserved at all cost from their great risk of becoming cracked. Will they? Nobody knows, and, I fear, nobody cares.

In conclusion, may I express the hope that at the meeting of the Ely Diocesan Association, to be held at Cambridge on Easter Monday next, these urgent matters may be brought up for discussion, and should give serious food for thought to both those who ring the bells and the apathetic authorities who have charge of the rings that have become dilapidated, so that in the near future we may hope to reiterate in the words of the Village Blacksmith, 'Something attempted, something done.'

Apologising for trespassing so far on your valuable space, Yours faithfully,

'PLAIN BOB.'

DEATH OF AN OLD RINGER.

On Wednesday, February 2nd, there passed away a venerable and outstanding figure in the art of change ringing in the person of Mr. Joe Pickering, of Kirkburton, near Huddersfield, who died at the advanced age of eighty-nine years.

Readers of 'The Ringing World' will recall the article in these columns in 1923 giving a resume of Mr. Pickering's ringing career, which has extended well over a period of seventy years, as he was able to ring at contests before he was eighteen years of age.

The funeral took place on Saturday, February 5th, in the church where Mr. Pickering had for such an extended period been a regular service ringer, and was attended by ringers from the surrounding villages and towers.

On Sunday, February 6th, a muffled peal was rung for evening service, consisting of 5,024 changes of Treble Bob Major, as a tribute of respect to the late Mr. Pickering.

Mr. Pickering's two sons, Messrs. Herbert and Joe W. Pickering, are following their father's footsteps in the old belfry where their respected parent spent so many happy hours.

MUFFLED RINGING.

On Sunday, January 30th, at Leeds Parish Church for evensong, by the local band, 925 Stedman Cinques, rung with the bells half-muffled as a tribute of respect to the late Vicar of Guisborough (the Rev. O. G. Mackie), formerly senior curate of this parish: G. Barraclough 1, J. A. Teale 2, *C. E. Lawson 3, J. Hutchinson 4, H. Lockwood 5, *J. E. Redfearn 6, E. Renton 7, *J. Jessop 8, *L. Drake 9, W. Woodhead 10, W. Ash (conductor) 11, H. Smith 12. * Longest length in Cinques.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

READING BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Reading Branch was held at Reading on Saturday last. Proceedings commenced with touches of Grandshire, Stedman, and Bob Major on the bells of St. Laurence's and St. Giles' Churches. A well-attended service followed at St. Laurence's, led by the Vicar, the Rev. J. T. Mumford, who gave an inspiring address.

The members then proceeded to the Central Cafe, where an excellent meat tea was spread, 60 members in all sitting down to the tables, among those present being the Rev. J. T. Mumford, Canon Coleridge, Mr. W. P. Routh, Mr. A. W. Pike, Mr. R. Wing, Mr. A. J. Wright (treasurer), Mr. H. H. Wilder, Mr. H. Tucker, and representatives from most of the towers in union. Several who had hoped to be present were away through illness or other pressing engagements.

The business meeting followed, with Mr. H. Egby in the chair, as the chairman, the Rev. J. T. Mumford, had to leave early owing to another engagement. The balance sheet having been presented, the Secretary gave his report, mentioning that it had been a very successful year, and the quarterly meetings that were arranged last year had been extremely successful.

The election of officers then took place, and in every instance they were re-elected, namely: Chairman, the Rev. J. T. Mumford; secretary, Mr. F. W. Hopgood; auditors, Messrs. Foster and Wiggins; committee, Messrs. J. Swain, W. Appleby, and H. Tucker.

The quarterly meetings for 1927 were arranged for Shiplake, Chackendon and Caversham.

Tower reports were then given, and in most cases were satisfactory. Mention was made of three members whom the Guild had lost by death during the year, namely, Messrs. W. Webb, N. Cox, and the Rev. Lovett-Cameron, and members stood in silence as a mark of respect.

The latter part of the evening was spent in listening to the 'Maxims' concert party (under the leadership of Mr. F. Baker), who gave a very admirable programme, each item being very much enjoyed, and all agreed that once again the Reading Branch meeting had been a success.

NORTH BUCKS BRANCH VISIT NEW TOWER.

A visit of the North Bucks Branch, between the usual quarterly meetings, was made to Woughton on Saturday, February 5th, by an invitation from the Woughton ringers, whose bells have recently been rehung and augmented from four to six, and a nice little ring of six they are, the 'go' of them leaving nothing to be desired. A fairly representative gathering of the branch met, considering the unsettled weather conditions. The bells were started at 3 p.m. A service was held at 3.30 p.m., conducted by the Rev. L. Moxon, chairman of the branch, in the absence of the Vicar, the Rev. Canon Whittaker, who was unavoidably absent through a severe cold. Tea had been provided in the schools, where about 30 sat down. After tea, the Secretary (Mr. W. Sear) addressed the meeting, saying how pleased he was that the branch had been invited to Woughton, and stating the object of the North Bucks Branch and the Oxford Guild of which they were a part. He hoped that their visit would be rewarded by the Woughton tower becoming members of the branch, and that they would have the support of the branch to learn the art of change ringing by having instruction provided. The Secretary expressed regret at the absence of Canon Whittaker, and asked that good wishes for a speedy recovery should be conveyed to the Canon from the branch.

Further ringing took place, in which the local ringers shared.

CHESTERFIELD DISTRICT.

The first visit, and a very pleasant meeting, of the above was held at Dore on Saturday, February 5th. About 20 ringers, including six ladies, were present from Chesterfield, Dore, Handsworth, North Wingfield, Norton and Sheffield Cathedral. The musical little ring of eight by Taylor (tenor 11cwt.) were kept going at intervals from 3 to 7.30 p.m., the methods rung or attempted including Double Norwich, College Single, Oxford Treble Bob, and Plain Bob Major, and Stedman and Grandshire Triples. A feature of the practice was the scope afforded to learners, two local ladies scoring their first course of Bob Major; others their first attempts at Oxford and College Single.

Tea, at Hurst's Cafe, was presided over by the Vicar, the Rev. W. R. Gibson, who, with his usual geniality, welcomed the M.C.A. to Dore, and at the close provided cigars all round.

At a short business meeting, presided over by Mr. J. P. Tarlton (North Wingfield), six new members were elected, viz., Misses Jessie Davenport and Marjorie Helmer, Messrs. R. E. Johnson, A. S. Robinson and N. Short, all of Dore, and Mr. M. Wilson, Sheffield Cathedral.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Eyam, provided that permission could be obtained.

In reply to a vote of thanks, Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey (people's warden) extended a warm welcome to the M.C.A., as had previously been accorded to the Yorkshire Association and the Sheffield District Society, especially as they were really the Diocesan Society of the area, and expressed the hope that their first would be followed by other meetings in the future.

MASONIC PEAL TABLET.

UNVEILING AND DEDICATION AT GARSTON, LIVERPOOL.

There was a large assembly of Freemasons at Garston Parish Church on Sunday afternoon, January 30th, for the unveiling and dedication of a tablet recording a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, which was rung by a band of Freemasons to welcome the Lord Bishop to the diocese of Liverpool. The officiating clergy were the Rev. Canon T. Parnell Rowe, M.A., Vicar of Garston, and W. Bro. Canon T. J. Mitchell, P.P.G.C. The officers of the Province of West Lancashire present included the Rt. W. Bro. John Hearn Burrell, P.G.D. (Eng.), the Provincial Grand Master, W. Bros. L. C. Bailey, P.G.D. (Eng.), Deputy Prov. Grand Master, J. S. Cannington, J.G.D. (Eng.), J. A. Wilson, P.A.G.D.C. (Eng.), E. E. Jefferis, P.G.D.C., E. Arden, P.P.A.D.C., E. Fell and G. Atkin acting as Prov. Grand Deacons.

The tablet, which is of oak and has been placed in the porch of the church, was unveiled by the Prov. Grand Master, who said that it commemorated an event unique in the annals of masonry in the provinces.

The Bishop of Liverpool, Very W. Bro. A. A. David, D.D., Past Grand Chaplain (Eng.), after dedicating the tablet, said that the memorial was of beautiful simplicity, yet worthy of the spirit of brotherhood for which their order stood.

HIGH WYCOMBE BELLS AND BELFRY.

A PEAL MARKS THE CONCLUSION OF RESTORATION SCHEME.

The peal of Stedman Cinques at All Saints', High Wycombe, on Sunday last, was rung to celebrate the completion of the restoration of the exterior of the magnificent tower of the church, which marks the final stage of a great work which has been carried out step by step over a period of 17 years. In 1905, in an effort to stir up local interest in the state of the old ring of ten, Mr. W. H. Fussell bore the cost of recasting the poor old flat treble of this peal, but matters went from bad to worse, and the collapse of some of the gear about two years later finally called 'stand.' But the time of silence bore fruit, and on All Saints' Day, 1909, the present fine peal of 12 rang out for the first time, and the interior restoration of the tower as far as the base of bell chamber was completed.

Some time later the old carillon was removed, and an entirely new one installed by J. Smith and Sons, of Derby. A later stage of the work comprised a complete overhauling of the clock and restoring the illuminated dial, the old gas lighting being replaced by electric.

The work now completed comprises the removal and rebuilding of the old louvres (a delicate undertaking, as these were in an advanced state of decay) in order to give greater strength. Behind each of these a course of brickwork has been carried to about half their height, and this besides protecting the bells and gear from the weather, greatly lessens the sound of the bells in the immediate vicinity. The outer walls of the tower from top to bottom have been put in a thorough state of repair.

A member of the belfry has recently installed electric light in the ringing chamber.

Mr. Fussell's many friends regret he could not take part in the peal, having been knocked down by a car during the preceding week, but not seriously injured, and all his friends will hope for his speedy recovery. Thanks are due to Mr. Wingrove for stepping into the breach, also to Mr. Boreham for filling a gap at a few hours' notice, while Mr. Cork travelled from Hillingdon in case the band would be short.

NEW BOOKS.

There never was a period when ringers had as great an opportunity as they have to-day of studying the art in all its phases. The work which has been done by eminent men for more than two centuries is at their hand, and from time to time some new and valuable contribution comes from the press. Within little more than twelve months there have been issued three books which in their own particular spheres are not only of interest, but of real instructional value. First there was 'Method Splicing,' the theory and practice of which, explained respectively by Mr. J. W. Parker and Mr. J. P. Fidler, were brought for the first time within the comprehension of the general body of ringers.

Recently came that interesting and representative collection of Plain Major Methods, which has been issued under the auspices of the Central Council. This is a book which, like 'Method Splicing,' is intended not merely as an addition to ringing literature, but as a practical step towards enlarging the scope of ringers' practice. In the past the plain Major methods which have found favour have been almost as limited as the number of methods rung on seven or nine bells. Plain Bob and Double Norwich have provided, and still continue to provide, the bulk of the peals in plain hunt Major methods, but they need do so no longer. Hitherto the stumbling-block has been the absence of any easily acquired collection of methods—that difficulty has been disposed of. There are, we are quite aware, those who like to argue that the old methods are good enough for them, and that new ones are unnecessary and are unlikely to be practised. That same argument was used when the Collection of Minor Methods first came on the scene. But to-day the methods in that Collection are freely rung, and, later on, a new generation will turn to the Major Collection for methods that will give them variety in their ringing. Ringers of plain Major (and that class of course includes those who have passed on to the Surprise stage) should study the methods in this book, and, if they do so, we are quite sure they will find them so interesting that they will desire to ring them. Some of the methods offer opportunities which even the ablest ringers need not despise, but those whose capabilities limit them at present merely to Bob Major will find in this book not only an incentive to higher things, but actual stepping-stones by which they may, in easy stages, reach a much higher standard in the methods they practise.

The third book is one which is published this week. It is called 'Surprise Methods,' and really completes the work which Jasper W. Snowden contemplated before he was so suddenly cut off over forty years ago. Begun by Jasper Snowdon, continued by his brother, the late Mr. William Snowdon, the work has been completed by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, and, while admittedly limited in its scope—being confined almost entirely to the plan of the original author—the student will find in it a great deal to interest and help him. A dozen Surprise Minor methods are dealt with, and Bristol and Ipswich Major, in addition to the three which in Snowdon's time were the only ones practised, viz., London, Cambridge and Superlative. This book takes its place in the Snowdon series, and will be appreciated by ringers for the ability with which the subject has been treated, as well as for the link which it adds to complete the chain of work which Jasper Snowdon laboured so assiduously, though, alas, incompletely, to do for the Exercise.

FUNERAL OF THE REV. C. E. MATTHEWS.

The funeral of Rev. C. E. Matthews, R.D., whose death was reported in last week's issue, took place at Milford-on-Sea, Hants, on Tuesday afternoon, February 15th. A large congregation attended, being representative of all classes. The Winchester Diocesan Guild of Ringers was represented by Messrs. G. Williams (Master), G. Pullinger (hon. secretary), G. Preston (Christchurch District secretary), J. Elkins, W. Andrews (Winchester Cathedral) and E. Elliott (Lymington).

There was a large number of beautiful floral tributes, including wreaths from the Winchester Diocesan Guild, Winchester Cathedral bellringers, and Milford-on-Sea bellringers.

After the service, 120 Grandsire Doubles with the bells half-muffled was rung by the following: J. W. Elkins 1, G. Pullinger 2, G. Williams 3, W. Andrews 4, G. Preston 5; and rounds by the local ringers. During the evening, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,295 changes) with the bells half-muffled was rung at Christchurch Priory by Miss C. Sparshott 1, E. Hinton 2, A. Woolf 3, A. F. Martin Stewart 4, Mrs. E. Williams 5, G. Scragg 6, F. Sparshott 7, W. Fowler 8, G. Preston (conductor) 9, H. Gillard 10, followed by the whole pull and stand 63 times.

A quarter-peal was attempted the same evening at Winchester Cathedral, but came to grief. This was followed by the whole pull and stand 63 times.

In addition to the particulars given last week, it may be mentioned that Mr. Matthews took part in one peal, which was Grandsire Triples, at Shere, Surrey, on May 30th, 1896. He was also a member of the Winchester Diocesan Advisory Committee for the granting of faculties.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

DISTRICT SECRETARY'S LONG SERVICE.

The annual meeting of the Tonbridge District of the Kent County Association was held at Tunbridge Wells on Saturday, February 5th, when ringers to the number of about 60 assembled from Edenbridge, Horsmonden, Lamberhurst, Penshurst, Sevenoaks, Leigh, Mayfield, East Grinstead and the local tower of St. Peter's Church. A special service was held in the church, conducted by the Rev. H. L. Potter and the Rev. H. J. Peacock, whilst the Rev. A. Howell Smith gave the address, in the course of which he referred to the fact that it was during his vicariate there that the bells were installed. At first there were five only; later a sixth and a Westminster chiming clock were added; and in 1885 the eight-bell peal was completed. The reverend gentleman gave an appropriate address on the importance of the bellringers' part in the service of the Church. The organist was the well-known ringer, Mr. W. E. Pitman, organist and choirmaster of St. Gregory's Church, Canterbury. His work was much appreciated.

Adjourning to the Parish Room, which was gaily decorated, flowering plants lent by Mr. C. F. Collins adorning the tables, a party of about 70, presided over by the Vicar, supported by the Clergy and churchwardens of the parish, sat down to an excellent tea.

At the business meeting which followed, the District Secretary (Mr. W. Latter) reported that as the Cowdon and Hadlow bands had dropped out of membership, there were now 18 towers in union, with 155 practising members, as against 173 last year. The desirability of introducing new recruits was urged. The list of honorary members had been increased, thanks to the efforts of Mr. G. Edwards (Penshurst) and Mr. A. Relfe (Lamberhurst). The report dealt with the bell-hanging operations carried out at Horsmonden. Messrs. F. White and S. H. Green had taken part in a successful ringing tour in Devon and Cornwall. The balance sheet showed a credit balance of £21 3s. Mr. Latter congratulated Mr. T. Groombridge (Chislehurst) on his appointment as Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths. They at St. Peter's were proud to know that Mr. Groombridge began his ringing career in their belfry.

Mr. Groombridge, in replying, referred to his pleasure in meeting again the Rev. A. Howell Smith, and spoke with appreciation of his early days at St. Peter's.

Mr. G. Edwards (Penshurst) presented the report of the District Committee meeting held at Maidstone.

Mr. W. Latter (Tunbridge Wells) was re-elected district hon. secretary, having held the office for more than 30 years.

Messrs. Edwards and Markwell were chosen representatives on the District Committee, and Mr. F. White becomes an hon. member and ex-officio. New members from Penshurst, Sevenoaks, and Lamberhurst were enrolled.

Meetings for the year were fixed as follows: Spring, Horsmonden; summer, Hawkhurst; autumn, Speldhurst; annual, Sevenoaks.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar, curate and churchwardens; to Rev. A. Howell Smith; and to Miss A. M. Allen and her helpers, after which the ringers again repaired to the church, where ringing was continued until about nine o'clock.

KENDAL, WESTMORLAND.—At the Church of the Holy Trinity, on Sunday, February 6th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes, J. Wildo's) in 49 mins.: R. Donnison 1, F. Atkinson 2, S. Honour (conductor) 3, L. Townley 4, E. Towers 5, F. Martindale 6, Ivor Heap 7, William Salmon 8. The conductor (of Hatfield, Herts) wishes to thank the local band for the opportunity afforded him of calling and ringing this quarter-peal.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

NEEDED BELL RESTORATIONS IN DEVIZES BRANCH.

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at All Saints' Church, Westbury, Wilts.

The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. C. Alexander), and tea was provided in the Church Institute, to which 25 sat down, including the Vicar, the organist, Miss N. Williams and Mr. F. Rich (Bath), Mr. J. T. Dyke and Mr. R. Beck (Chilcompton), and Mr. E. Coward (Mere).

A short business meeting followed, the chairman of the branch (Mr. C. D. Hegginsbotham) presiding. He apologised for the absence of the secretary (Mr. F. Green) on account of illness in his family.

Arising out of the minutes, the Chairman said he had seen one of the churchwardens of All Cannings, who told him that they were still collecting funds for the restoration of their bells, and had about £150 in hand.

The Rev. W. A. Butler, Vicar of Seend, was elected an honorary member, and two life ringing members and several new resident members were also elected.

A discussion followed respecting letters which had appeared in the 'Wiltshire Times' respecting the bells at South Wraxall, and it was decided that the chairman should get into touch with the Vicar and churchwardens on behalf of the Guild and see if something could be done towards the restoration of these bells, which with All Cannings are the only 'unringable' peals at present in the branch.

On the proposition of the Chairman, a vote of thanks was given to the Vicar for the use of the bells and conducting the service, and also to the organist.

The Vicar, in returning his thanks, said how pleased he was to have the meeting at Westbury, and said he hoped they were nearing the end of their trouble with regard to the noise of the bells, and hoped at Westbury they would not be judged too harshly by visiting ringers for not allowing the use of the bells for peals, as they hoped to get over the difficulty shortly.

Ringers were present from Westbury, Bratton, Bath, North Bradley, Bradford-on-Avon, Chilcompton, Devizes, Rowde, Mere, Melksham and Trowbridge. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Kent and Plain Bob Major, also touches of Oxford and Cambridge Minor, were rung during the afternoon and evening.

DEVON GUILD.

MID-DEVON BRANCH AT BRIXHAM.

The eighth annual meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch was held at Brixham, where, recently, over £200 has been spent on rehanging the bells. Members were present from Exeter, Exmouth, Swindon, Buckfastleigh, Christow, Cockington, Collaton, Torquay, Paignton and St. Petrox (Dartmouth). A service was held in the Parish Church, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. S. J. Morris), and Rev. W. E. Jenner gave a very inspiring address, which was very much appreciated. A splendid tea was provided in the schools by Mr. Mutter, to which 40 sat down.

At the subsequent business meeting, Mr. F. J. Laxton presided.

The Hon. Secretary read the report, which was adopted. It was gratifying to note that good progress had been made at Brixham and Collaton in the art of change ringing, and both bands had gained the certificates of the Guild.

Mr. F. J. Laxton was unanimously re-elected chairman.

Mr. H. J. Hole (Paignton) was also re-elected hon. secretary, and in thanking the members for their confidence he also thanked those who had helped and visited the respective towns giving instruction. He said 56 visits had been made, and the result was very gratifying, and he congratulated both the Brixham and Collaton bands on the progress they had made.

The place and date of the next meeting were discussed, and ultimately Bovey Tracey was chosen.

The Chairman proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and Rev. W. E. Jenner, and Mr. Cook, organist, for the splendid service they had given them.

The Vicar said it was a great pleasure to welcome the ringers, and he thanked the members who had taken such a keen interest in their ringers, who, he said, twelve months ago were quite raw material, but with their help they had been moulded into proficiency sufficient to gain their certificates, and they were very grateful. The Chairman welcomed the visitors, including Mr. Shepherd (Exeter) and the young band of ringers from St. Petrox, Dartmouth, who, he hoped, would join the Guild and become change ringers.

Mr. Shepherd said he was delighted to see such a splendid attendance, and especially so many young men. His advice to them was first of all to become sound churchmen, and then as ringers they would become more interested in the work. If they wanted to make progress in change ringing, they must study the method at home and not expect the instructors to tell them everything in the belfry. Change ringing was good for the brain and muscle.

Rev. L. W. Browne thanked Mr. Shepherd for his advice, and he thought if the clergy attended their meetings more and visited the ringers more it would do a lot of good in encouraging the ringers to become more interested in the church.

This concluded the meeting, and a move was made to the belfry, and further ringing was enjoyed.

ANSTON COMPANY'S RECORD.

Through the long illness of one of the members who has been off work for 18 months, the records of the Anston band for 1926 did not come up to the previous years. Four 720's were rung at Swanmore, three at Owslebury, and three at Hambledon.

THE FIRST PEAL AT APPLEBY MAGNA.

Saturday week was, to the local residents of Appleby Magna, Leicestershire, a 'red-letter' day, as, although this church has possessed a peal of six bells since 1774, no complete peal had been rung on them, although several attempts had been made. This was accomplished as the outcome of a special request by Mr. Ernest Morris, of Leicester, whose ambition it is to ring peals at all possible churches in his native shire. It was only through the energies of the Burton District local hon. secretary, M.C.A., who made several preliminary visits, and hunted up a band for the task, that this peal was made possible, and although only 'G.D.' it was thought best not to be more ambitious and so spoil the chances of success.

In the belfry is an interesting set of 'Ringers' Rules' as follows:

'You gentlemen that ringers are,
Please read these rules and take great care,
No bell o'er turns, for, if you do,
Sixpence you pay before you go.
If you brawl, swear, ill words express,
Your forfeit then shall be no less:
Who offends by tongue or fingers,
Must forfeit pay to the ringers;
Then meet in love, and part in peace;
It will your comfort much increase.'

At the conclusion of the peal, an excellent tea was provided by the Rector, at which the churchwardens and local ringers were also present. The Rector gave the band his hearty congratulations on accomplishing the peal, which was the first on their bells, although others had attempted and failed. He gave the Burton Branch of the M.C.A. an invitation to come and hold a meeting there, and thus stimulate the interest of the local band.—Mr. Riley (churchwarden) seconded his remarks, and expressed his pleasure at hearing the peal, and congratulated the band on the good striking. Mr. E. Morris replied on behalf of the peal ringers, assuring those responsible for the good reception of their keen appreciation. He especially was proud to have got this peal, it being the 86th tower in Leicestershire where he had scored a 5,000; and, further, he hoped the local company would all join the M.C.A. when a meeting was held there, and so make a step to progress in the art.

OFF TO AUSTRALIA.

At Woodchurch, Cheshire, on Thursday, February 10th, 720 St. Clement's Minor was rung by: B. Hodgkiss 1, J. Johnson 2, H. Martin 3, G. Phillips (conductor) 4, T. Hodgkiss 5, H. Phillips 6, as a farewell touch to the treble and fifth ringers, who sailed for Australia on February 12th.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

One hundred and fifty years ago to-morrow a peal of 10,080 Grandsire Caters was rung at Leicester, and on the same day an exactly similar length of Bob Major was rung at Shrewsbury. Strange that in those far-off days there should have been such a coincidence.

February 26th, 1777, was indeed a memorable day, for, according to a contemporary record, there was also rung at Abingdon 'a peal of 5,040 Bob Royal on ten handbells by five persons, it being the first peal on handbells in ye kingdom, and is thought to exceed a course of Treble Bob Twelve in rung by ye College Youths in London.'

Henry Johnson was born on February 28th, 1809, and Edwin Horrex on February 28th, 1838.

At Painswick, on March 1st, 1734, 8,064 Grandsire Caters was rung, and on the first anniversary of that performance 10,080 in the same method, in 6 hrs. 27 mins.

The first peal of Canterbury Pleasure Major having been rung on December 17th, 1888, by the Warnham, Sussex, band, on March 1st, in the following year, they scored a 13,440 in 7 hrs. 45 mins.

Will members of the Middlesex County Association and others please note that the address of Mr. C. T. Coles will be 21, Vincent Road, Highams Park, E.4, after March 1st?

The peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Great Stanmore, Middlesex, on January 29th, should have been credited to 'the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild.'

AN ANCIENT BELL.

The Rev. W. Pearson, of Henley, Ipswich, writes under date February 18th: 'In Rev. W. Lukis' book on Church Bells, facing p. 120, is the drawing of a very similar, if not the identical bell, that you give a print of in to-day's "R.W.," said to be the first bell Manningford Abbots, Wilts.'

DEATH OF MR. BERNARD WITCHELL.

AN ABLE CONDUCTOR.

By the death, at the age of 64, of Mr. Bernard W. Witchell, Birmingham and district loses one of its most able ringers. Mr. Witchell passed away on Wednesday of last week from pneumonia, after only a very short illness, the disease supervening on a chill. A little while ago, Mr. Witchell underwent a serious operation in Birmingham General Hospital, and made a good recovery, but doubtless he had not fully recovered his strength and so fell a ready victim of the virulent disease.

Mr. Witchell had been a ringer for over 40 years, and he learned the art in Birmingham in a very exacting school. He was exceedingly competent as a conductor of Stedman, in which method, in Triples, Caters and Cinques, he had called many peals. He took part in the first peal of Stedman Cinques on handbells, out of London: he conducted the first short course peal of Stedman Cinques ever rung, and also called Thurstans' one-part peal of Triples on handbells the first time this was done out of London. Altogether he had rung about 300 peals. In his later years he was attached to the band at the R.C. Abbey Church at Erdington, and it was here that he was laid to rest on Saturday, when a number of ringers attended to pay a last tribute of respect.

Mr. Witchell leaves a widow, one son (who is abroad), and three daughters, to whom much sympathy is extended.

Mrs. Witchell and daughters wish to thank the members of the St. Martin's Guild, the Warwickshire Guild, and other friends for their kind sympathy in their sad bereavement, and for their floral tributes.

THE JOHNSON COMMEMORATION DINNER

ANOTHER BIG GATHERING AT BIRMINGHAM.
CONFERENCE OF VISITORS.

There was again a large and representative gathering of ringers from many parts of the country at Birmingham, on Saturday, for the proceedings in connection with the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner. In the absence of the hon. secretary of St. Martin's Guild (Mr. A. Paddon Smith), who is at present on business in India, the arrangements were made by Mr. Albert Walker, the Deputy Ringing Master of the Guild, who is to be congratulated upon the success which attended the function. Ringers were brought together from places as far apart as Newcastle and Plymouth, Shropshire and Essex, and the spirit, characteristic of these meetings—cordiality, good humour and happiness—was revealed in a marked degree. The bells of a number of churches were open for ringing during the day, the centre of gravity being, of course, St. Martin's. It was in the baptistry of the famous old Parish Church, after ringing had ceased, that an informal conference was held. It attracted a considerable number of ringers, the subject for discussion being, 'How can we keep beginners interested in the art?' Alderman J. S. Pritchett presided over the conference, and had two points to present. It was difficult in these days to get beginners for ringing, he said, and perhaps it was a more difficult task to keep them than to catch them. He urged, first of all, that they should give young ringers all the encouragement they possibly could. He had been a ringer for some 58 years, and he remembered many times in his young days going into a belfry when no one had spoken a word to him. He thought that would be impossible nowadays, but they ought always to be ready to give encouragement and advice to their young ringers. The clergy ought also to assist in encouraging them. When young fellows became ringers and frequented the belfry, the Vicar ought to take a kindly interest in them, and let them know that he hoped they would continue to render service to the Church in the capacity of ringers.

Mr. G. Braven, who has got a dozen boys of school-leaving age in his band at Bristol, also urged that the clergy and churchwardens should take as much interest in the belfry as in the chancel, and show the same respect for the ringers as they do for the choir. Some members of his own young band, having visited the well-kept belfry of St. Stephen's, felt that the belfry of St. Luke's was not fit for visitors. They therefore cleaned down the walls and distempred them one Saturday, and on Sunday morning before breakfast two of them scrubbed the belfry floor.

Mr. E. Alex Young said he was afraid some of the older ringers sometimes lost touch with the spirit of youth. They must show young ringers the utmost patience and give them praise whenever they could as well as finding fault when needed. Young men often came to them with more or less enthusiasm, and then drifted away, but although this had been recognised more and more in the last few years, the Exercise had always been up against that difficulty. In the old days they used to say they got only one ringer for every six taught, and he believed it was the same to-day. They would be better off if they recognised the difficulties and made up their minds to tackle them.

Mr. W. A. Cave said his way of encouraging young ringers would be by following the example of the great music societies and teaching them the theory of change ringing right from the start. A blackboard and chalk should be found in all belfries where there are learners, and the instructor should explain how changes are produced, and encourage his pupils to write out on paper, for his inspection at the next practice, as much of it as they had mastered. In this way the instructor would learn something of the possibilities of his pupils and perhaps save himself a lot of time and trouble in teaching those who showed no signs of grasping the theory.

VARIETY, PATIENCE AND TACT NEEDED.

Mr. J. P. Fidler advocated the introduction of more variety. Young ringers should be encouraged to go from one method to another and not stagnate in one groove. Unfortunately, in many cases the ringer in charge of the tower would not bother to do this, especially if he himself had had a trouble to learn. Youngsters to-day wanted change and variety; give them something fresh to work on, and their interest would be maintained. There were many good books of instruction on the market, but very few seemed to buy them; yet these books provided them with the surest steps to progress.

Mr. P. J. Johnson said the position was a very complex one. First of all he thought they must try to create a kind of public opinion in church life in order to alter the outlook of church people on the status of the ringer. Despite all that had been done, church people did not look upon the ringer as he should be looked upon. The ringing press was read by a strictly limited circle, and he thought they ought 'o try to bring in church papers like 'The Guardian' and 'The Church Family Newspaper' to help them, and to create an atmosphere from which the people in church life would realise that ringing was a desirable thing to take up. With regard to the teaching of theory, suggested by Mr. Cave, he thought it was open to question whether one ringer in twenty was able to give that instruction. He thought their best course was to stir up interest among a wider circle than they at present commanded. They wanted a continuity of policy, and they must never be weary of well doing. Their propaganda should be kept up from year to year in order to get an atmosphere in church life favourable to the young ringer.

Mr. J. E. Groves thought the solution of the difficulty lay entirely with the man in charge. In many places they would find the best ringer put in charge of the tower, but it did not follow that he was capable of teaching young ringers. What was required to retain young ringers was patience and tact as well as ability to help them.

Mr. James George emphasised the remarks of Mr. Groves. There were a great many ringers who were not even taught to handle a rope properly, let alone change ringing. They must have competent people in charge if they wanted to get good results.

Mr. C. H. Jennings thought they might do more by trying to interest the students of theological colleges in ringing. Then, when they went out to the churches, they would look upon it as part of their duty to encourage the lads in the parish to learn to ring.

In winding up the conference, the Chairman said the interchange of ideas on a subject such as that was useful and interesting, and he hoped would be very helpful.

THE DINNER.

The dinner was served at the Imperial Hotel, and the company, including a number of ladies, numbered 171. Canon T. Guy Rogers, Rector of Birmingham, presided, and was supported by Mrs. Rogers, Alderman J. S. and Mrs. Pritchett, Rev. C. D. R. Wormald, Rev. F. L. Edwards (hon. secretary of the Salisbury Guild), Rev. F. J. Cheverton (Rowley Regis), Messrs. T. Kendall (churchwarden of St. Martin's), W. E. Moore, J. W. Tilley, R. J. Heaton, F. Yates, E. A. Young (hon. secretary, Central Council), C. F. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walker, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hughes, Mrs. A. Paddon Smith, Mr. Donald Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Goldsmith, Mr. Harry Mason. Other representative ringers present were: Messrs. J. T. Dyke (hon. secretary, Bath and Wells Diocesan Association), P. J. Johnson (hon. secretary, Yorkshire Association), E. W. Marsh (Devon Guild), W. H. Barber (Durham and Newcastle Association), Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cave, Mr. W. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. May, Mr. C. H. Jennings, and a party of over 20 from Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Smallwood and Mr. A. Ward (Derby), Mr. J. Waghorn (West Ham), Mr. H. Langdon (College Youths, London), Mr. and Mrs. A. Coppock (Nottingham), Mr. W. Walmsley (Macclesfield), Mr. J. H. Shepherd (Swindon), Mr. T. R. Dennis (Cambridge), Mr. W. Saunders (Coalbrookdale), Mr. T. King (Bath), Mr. W. Burgar, Mr. S. Palmer (Sheffield), Mr. J. P. Fidler (Loughborough), Mr. Jos. Johnson (son of the famous old Birmingham ringer) and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. Tom Russam, and ringers from a large number of towers within a wide radius of Birmingham. After the dinner, the toast of 'The King' was honoured, and a quarter of an hour was spent in which many old friends were able to exchange greetings.

Mr. R. J. Heaton then proposed 'The Church,' to which the Chairman replied in a speech in which he made reference to the revision of the Prayer Book.

Mr. W. Walmsley, as one who knew Henry Johnson in the flesh, was entrusted with the toast of 'The memory of Henry Johnson,' and in a lengthy speech detailed the career and spoke of the characteristics of this great ringer. He presented to St. Martin's Guild two autograph letters of Henry Johnson, which he had been asked to convey to them.

Alderman Pritchett, who, as usual, submitted 'Continued Prosperity to the St. Martin's Guild,' and reviewed the year's work, prefaced his remarks by a touching reference to the late Mr. John Carter and a tribute to the late Mr. Bernard Witchell.—The response to the toast was made by Mr. Albert Walker, who took the opportunity of pointing out to the Rector and churchwardens that the time had arrived when St. Martin's bells would have to be 'soled and heeled.'

The other toasts were 'The Visitors,' proposed by Mr. J. E. Smallwood, and replied to by the Rector of Edgbaston and Mr. P. J. Johnson; 'The Ringing World,' submitted by Mr. W. A. Cave and responded to by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith; and 'The Chairman,' felicitously proposed by Alderman Pritchett and acknowledged by Canon Guy Rogers. A report of the speeches will appear next week.

The musical programme was exceedingly enjoyable. St. Martin's Quartette again very kindly gave their services and provided the whole of the vocal items. Their singing was delightful, and every one of their contributions received cordial acknowledgment. They sang 'Music all Powerful,' 'Linden Lea,' 'Two Snails,' and 'The long day closes.' Splendidly played selections on handbells were given by the St. Thomas' handbell party from Bristol, and a course of Siedman Cinques was rung by F. Perrins (Coventry), P. J. Johnson (Leeds), W. H. Barber (Newcastle), J. F. Smallwood (Derby), H. Langdon (London), W. A. Cave (Bristol). Undoubtedly, however, the greatest attraction in the musical programme was the handbell solos of Mrs. A. A. Hughes. The keenest interest was taken in her performance by the large company, who appreciated to the full not only her skilful handling of the two and a half octaves of bells but the artistic rendering of the various pieces. First she played 'Solveig's Song' (Grieg) and 'Beautiful Garden of Roses' (Schmid), and as an encore played Elgar's rousing song, 'Land of Hope and Glory,' and the whole company taking up the refrain. It was, as one speaker subsequently remarked, a never-to-be-forgotten performance.

Many of the visitors stayed over Sunday, when they enjoyed ringing at St. Martin's and other churches, and a party of them had the unexpected pleasure of being shown the wonders of the Birmingham Central Fire Station.

THE LATE MR. JOHN CARTER. REMINISCENCES OF AN OLD FRIEND.

It was with deep regret that I learned of the death of my old friend John Carter, and, after reading the short history of his ringing career, the writer thought a few words about his earlier ringing activities in Birmingham, by one who was intimately acquainted with him at the time, would not be out of place.

It was about 1874 the writer first met Jack, as we called him. He used to come occasionally on Saturday nights to Bishop Ryder's Church, a well-known meeting-place at that time. One would meet there all the noted ringers of that day. After tower bell practice, they would adjourn to a place nearly opposite, kept by a ringer's mother named Smith, where a room was at their disposal, which the writer has seen filled. Among them were some of the ringing giants of the day. The handbells were soon in use, and Jack got some good practice. In fact, not long after, I saw him and J. Bannister ringing courses of Triples 'four in hand.' From about this time onward he also used to attend St. Martin's on Tuesday nights for practice on twelve. In those days the bells began to go anything but well, especially the 11th, so they paid the expenses of a well-known Black Country ringer, W. Hallsworth, to come and tackle it. But as time went on, the writer and Jack with one or two more got further interested in handbell ringing, and we sometimes used to go over to West Bromwich to attempt a peal at a certain place where they sold the refreshments by the pound. As time went on, we used to try first at one place and then another, but without luck. Eventually, however, Jack Carter came to live in Birmingham, so we were together often. Previous to his coming, I remember meeting him one day in Birmingham. He greeted me with, 'Hello, Tum'—he always called me 'Tum.'

'Hello, Jack; what are you doing here?'

'Just after a job,' he replied. 'Can you direct me to Webley's gun factory?'

'Certainly,' said I; and I believe that that day he was successful in his application and remained with the firm of Webley and Scott until he retired. Jack then came to live in Birmingham, and I remember what a typical ringer's wife his first wife was. Always a welcome for ringers. We settled down to hard practice then, and I remember at one house Jack lived in in Hockley district he used to put a light in the window to guide us across some waste land. Eventually luck came our way, and our perseverance was rewarded. We scored our first peal at Jack's house in Heaton Street, Hockley, in the early part of 1882, and then we went all one way, ringing peal after peal.

We had formed a new society in Birmingham previous to this (Birmingham Amalgamated Society), there being no opportunity of young and enthusiastic ringers getting a chance at St. Martin's. The majority there were old and stubborn, and thought they were going to live for ever and did not want any young blood. But time proved otherwise.

About this time, too, some of us, including John Carter, thought we would have one big district association: the first round here. So we formed a deputation, including Jack, and approached the St. Martin's to father the project, but they would have nothing to do with it or us. Despite this rebuff, however, we launched it, and much to the surprise of all it numbered more than 150 members. Alas! both those societies are gone. In those days, there was a little friendly rivalry between Carter and Johnson in the composition line, but Johnson was always helpful to the younger man. One night we rang a peal at Jack's house, Grand sire Caters with certain qualities. The next Tuesday night, at St. Martin's, Jack showed the peal to Johnson. 'Yes, John,' said the old man, 'very good, but if you were to do so and so it would be true.'

Soon after came the crisis with one or two of us and Jack. We were all in the Holt Society, Aston, and when that society and St. Martin's became united it meant the partial break-up of Jack's handbell band, for St. Martin's were after the first peal of Stedman Cinques, and having again become members of St. Martin's by this merging we were bound to be loyal. I was sorry, for this was Jack's great ambition, but still he had a good following of ringers, but the handbell side was practically done. We were always good friends even after we left him, and had some happy times, and he never said anything about us going. You see, we were sort of helpless.

With regard to the ringing machine, I think I can claim to be one of the first to know what he contemplated doing. I lived by Jack 45 years ago, and I have lived by him until his removal to London. I carried a portion of the first attempt in one of my pockets for years, but it went somehow.

I think I will conclude this little account of Jack's early ringing life with an anecdote of him and his machine. When he lived near me, sometimes on a Sunday afternoon when I was resting there would come a ring at the bell. My wife would answer it, and there was Jack. 'Is Tum in?' he would ask. 'Yes, but he is asleep,' was the reply. 'Well, wake him up, and tell him I have got it set now,' for, perhaps, three leads of Treble Twelve or something. So up I had to get and go and listen, which of course meant no more sleep. That, I suppose, was an experience that was my own. But never mind. He was a decent soul, was Jack, and he will be greatly missed by his old friend the writer.

THOMAS RUSSAM.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION. ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Sheffield Cathedral on Saturday week. The day's proceedings were commenced by the audit, which was held in the Church House at 11 a.m., by Messrs. C. Harrison and R. Harrison, jun., who kindly officiated in place of the duly appointed auditors, Messrs. A. Craven and R. Harrison, sen., who were both prevented by illness from carrying out their duties. A meeting of the general committee was held in the Church House in the afternoon. Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. A. Walker, F. Cryer, H. N. Imeson, E. Barker, J. E. Blakiston and J. W. Addison.

It was decided that the president should give notice of motion, on behalf of the general committee, at the business meeting for an addition to Rule 2, and alteration of No. 1 of the 'Regulations for the Regulations of District Management.'

It was also decided to advise the business meeting to hold a joint meeting with the Lancashire Association if possible during the summer months.

Divine service was held in the Cathedral at 5 p.m., the preacher being the Rev. F. B. Shepherd, Vicar of Neepsend, who kindly took the place of the Archdeacon of Sheffield, who had been summoned to London.

Tea was served in the neighbouring Church House, and was followed by the business meeting. The president (Rev. C. C. Marshall) occupied the chair, and was supported by the principal officers of the association.

The Chairman, in introducing the report of the general committee, called attention to the great loss which the association had sustained during the past year by the deaths of three old and valued members, in the persons of Messrs. G. B. Bolland, of Tong, W. Lomas, of Sheffield, and W. Pearson, of Pontefract. Attention was also called to the fact that the last surviving link with the Snowdon family and the association had been broken by the recent passing away of Mr. Edward Snowdon. During the year, 58 new members had been elected, and 16 had died.

The balance sheet, which was carried on the motion of Mr. C. Harrison, seconded by Mr. R. Harrison, jun., showed a net gain for the year of £10 5s. 1d., and the total worth of the association was shown to be £262 1s. 4d.

The Chairman drew the attention of the meeting to the deaths of two old and valued members, Mr. John Carter, formerly of Birmingham, and Mr. S. Seed, of Sheffield, the members rising in their seats as a last tribute of respect.

The retiring president (Rev. C. C. Marshall) was re-elected without opposition, and he thanked the meeting for their renewed expression of confidence.

The President then gave notice of motion on behalf of the general committee of the following addition to Rule 2: 'If the ringers of a tower outside the county of York desire admission into the association as ordinary members, they shall give notice of such desire at a general meeting of the association, and the matter shall be decided by the vote of the members at the next general meeting. If it be decided to admit such members, they shall become ordinary annual subscribing members of the association, and shall be eligible for all offices, and possess full privileges of membership. Meetings of the association may also be held at such towers, which shall be called affiliated towers.' The President also gave notice of motion of the following alteration to Regulation 1 for the management of districts. After the words 'particular districts,' insert 'or shall be attached to towers affiliated to that district.'

The cordial thanks of the meeting were passed to the respective clergy, for their kindness in granting the use of the noble peal of twelve at the Cathedral, and the fine ring of eight at the neighbouring church of St. Marie, and also to the local company and ladies for arranging and waiting at the tea tables.

In a most interesting reply, Mr. S. F. Palmer called attention to the fact that the fine collection of ringing literature and manuscripts in the Cathedral tower were at the service of any who cared to peruse them, and that the Cathedral company would be only too pleased to do what they could to accommodate anyone living at a distance to have facilities for access to the collection.

It was decided to hold the next meeting of the association at Huddersfield on Easter Monday, and also, if possible, to arrange a joint meeting at Halifax in the summer months with the Lancashire Association.

In announcing to the meeting the resignation of the vice-presidency by Mr. F. Willey, owing to failing health, the Chairman thanked Mr. Willey for his many services to the association, and expressed the hope that the days to come would bring renewed health and vigour to an old and honoured friend.

So concluded a most interesting and pleasant meeting, business being tempered by the patient efforts of the Sheffield band to steer visitors through the mysteries of ten and twelve bell ringing until train time called a halt.

BRAMLEY, LEEDS.—On Sunday, January 30th, for morning service, 720 Tanner's Pleasure in 28 mins.: S. Helliwell 1, F. Blacketh (first 720 inside) 2, J. Guy 3, F. Jackson (first 720) 4, E. Redshaw 5, J. S. Eastwood (conductor) 6.—Also 240 Woodbine Treble Bob Minor.

COLCHESTER GAINS A PEAL OF SIX.NEW TREBLE AT ST. LEONARD-AT-THE-HYTHE.

The new treble bell at St. Leonard's, Colchester, was dedicated at evensong on Thursday, February 17th, by the Lord Bishop of Colchester in the presence of a large congregation, including ringers from the neighbouring parishes, Mr. C. H. Howard, Master of the Essex Association, and other officers being present. His Lordship, in his address, spoke very highly of the work of the ringers in the diocese, expressing a wish that other branches of church workers would show the same devotion and enthusiasm in their work as did the ringers.

St. Leonard's formerly had a ring of six. The tenor, 18 cwt. was sold in 1820 when the tower was rebuilt. In the summer of last year a new frame for eight was erected, and the fifth of the old ring of six recast and the remaining four bells retuned into a ring of five. It is hoped the two additional trebles to complete the octave will soon be provided. This ring of six is a welcome addition to Colchester, for with its twenty churches, many of them very ancient, save for St. Peter's eight, St. Nicholas' six not hung for ringing, and All Saints' tower, recently certified not safe for ringing, there is no other church with more than two bells.

Immediately after service 720 Bob Minor was rung by: A. Bowell 1, H. T. Pye 2, W. Button 3, E. J. Butler 4, F. Bowell 5, W. J. Nevard (conductor) 6, followed by 360 Cambridge Surprise: A. Fuller 1, G. Rashbrook 2, C. H. Howard (conductor) 3, W. Chalk 4, W. Honeywood 5, W. Duffield 6.

After tea, kindly provided by the Rector, Rev. H. F. V. Carter, 720 Oxford Treble Bob, conducted by F. Bowell. A young band, under the instruction of Mr. W. Button, is making good progress. The whole of the work has been carried out successfully by Messrs. Bowell and Son, and the 'go' of the bells is excellent.

It is 112 years since six bells were rung at this church, which is a fine specimen of 14th century work.

NORTHAMPTON'S OLDEST RINGER DEAD.

On Friday, February 11th, the death took place of Mr. J. Freeman, of 14, Great Russell Street, Northampton. Mr. Freeman, who was 82 years of age, learnt to ring at Irthlingborough when a lad, and had been a ringer at St. Giles', Northampton, for a great number of years. He had only rung a few peals, one on the treble, the others with the tenor behind. He was ringing regularly up to about 18 months ago, when he met with an accident. He was knocked down by a motor-car, and he never thoroughly recovered from the effects.

He was borne to rest by some of his fellow ringers: Messrs. F. Wilford, W. Farey, W. Rogers and G. Flavell.

Numerous floral tributes were sent, including one from the Vicar, churchwardens, and his fellow ringers, and as a last tribute of respect a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters was rung half-muffled on Tuesday evening by the following: W. Rogers (conductor) 1, F. Wilford 2, H. L. Key 3, J. Metherall 4, H. Blundell 5, W. Farey 6, F. Hopper 7, J. Dove (first quarter-peal) 8, G. Flavell 9, E. James 10.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.LECTURE AT PRESTON BRANCH MEETING.

A most successful meeting of the Preston Branch was held at St. Mary's R.C. Church, Chorley, on Saturday, February 12th, no less than fifty ringers being present from fourteen branch towers, and visitors from the Bolton and Wigan branches.

The bells, which have recently been retuned and rebung with all the latest fittings and improvements, were kept going in various methods from rounds to Cambridge Surprise, from three o'clock to nine, with an interval for tea and the meeting. All who were present were of one opinion, that the work had been well done, and that the tone and 'go' of the bells were all that could be desired. The tenor is 18 cwt. in E.

Tea was served in St. Mary's Hall by members of the Women's Guild, after which Mr. E. R. Martin moved a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies for so kindly catering, and for waiting on the party at tea. This was, of course, carried.

The business meeting followed, Mr. E. R. Martin presiding. He said he would like to ask those who had not sent word for tea if they would do so in the future, as it would help to make the catering arrangements more successful.

One new member was elected, and a vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. Canon Crank for the use of the bells and to local men for having all in readiness.

It was also observed that this was the first meeting to be held at this church by the association, and that it would be a pleasure to come again.

Mr. Martin then continued his lecture, which was not completed at the last meeting at Penwortham, on the 'In and out of course' of changes. After going briefly over the ground covered at the last meeting, he went on to give examples of course ends by which a conductor could tell whether a touch or a peal was right or not, and also showing that there were an equal number of in-course and out-of-course changes in any extent in any number of bells.

A vote of thanks to the lecturer closed the meeting, after which further ringing took place, all who had been present during the day having had a pull.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.INSURANCE OF RINGERS.

A very successful meeting of the South-Western Division was held at Barking on Saturday, February 19th. The bells were available from 3 p.m., and full use was made of them till 4.30 p.m., when those present attended the association service conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. L. S. Hunter, who also gave an inspiring address. Tea and business meeting followed, at which one new honorary, two ringing, and two non-resident life members were elected, and Chigwell selected for the place for next meeting.

A discussion ensued on the question of 'Insurance of Ringers,' and it was ultimately resolved that the matter be referred to the general committee at the annual meeting at Chelmsford on Whit Monday for discussion.

Hearty votes of thanks were extended to the Vicar for the use of tower and bells and conducting the service, the organist for accompanying the hymns, etc., Mr. G. Faulkner for arranging the meeting, and the Barking band for defraying the extra cost of the tea, also Mr. C. Penn, steeplekeeper, for having everything in readiness.

During the afternoon and evening, over 50 members and friends attended from Barking, Romford, Hornchurch, Brentwood, Bentley, Wanstead, Woodford, Loughton, West Tilbury, Orsett, Southgate, Edmonton, Greenwich, and London, and touches in all standard methods from Grandsire to London Surprise were rung, the bells being kept going to 9.30 p.m.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.BRIDGNORTH BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Bridgnorth Branch was held at Bridgnorth on Saturday, February 12th, when the bells at both churches were utilised. A short service was held at St. Leonard's, conducted by the Rev. Clark Maxwell, Rector, and assisted by the Rev. J. S. Jobling, of St. Mary's. Tea was partaken of at the Castle Restaurant, and 40 members sat down, among those present being the Rev. Clark Maxwell, Rev. J. S. Jobling, Rev. J. M. Wale, Rev. C. E. Curwin, Rev. J. S. Roper, of Quatt, Rev. Jackson, of Broseley, Rev. A. E. Barrow, of Norfield, Mr. S. E. D. Turner, churchwarden, of St. Mary's.

The Rev. Clark Maxwell occupied the chair at the business meeting, and welcomed the new honorary and ringing members from Quatt and Worfield.

A vote of condolence was passed to the relatives of the late Rev. W. J. Warner, of Broseley, Mr. C. H. Deighton, late churchwarden of St. Leonard's, and Mr. W. J. Meyrick, late churchwarden of St. Mary's, all of whom were honorary members and keenly interested in ringing and ringers generally.

The Secretary presented the report and balance sheet, which were very satisfactory.

Mr. John Overton was re-elected Ringing Master, Mr. Harry Baker was elected hon. secretary in the place of Mr. Walter Hayward (resigned), Mr. G. Case was re-elected hon. auditor, Mr. S. E. D. Turner and Rev. Jackson, of Broseley, were elected hon. members.

A vote of thanks was passed to the retiring secretary for his past services.

Mr. W. Saunders referred to the loss which the Exercise had sustained by the death of Mr. John Carter, of London, who was greatly interested in Bridgnorth and its ringers, having rung a peal at St. Leonard's and presented the belfry with a marble tablet recording the performance.

Quarterly meetings were arranged to take place at Quatt, Worfield, and Broseley, and a vote of thanks to the chairman terminated the meeting.

Ringings followed at both churches till about nine o'clock, all agreeing that the meeting had been a great success.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.LOUGHBOROUGH DISTRICT.

An afternoon and evening well spent with the five bells at Sutton Bonington marked the meeting of the Loughborough District. The bells, with a tenor being of about 20 cwt., were made good use of in various methods, including Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob Doubles. An excellent tea was partaken of in the Temperance Hall, where about twelve members sat down. Smokes and chocolates were handed round afterwards by the generosity of Mr. Oliver Thompson, churchwarden, who was made an honorary member of the association.

The chair was taken by the Rev. Frost, who is blind, and who is taking charge of the parish in the absence of the Rev. F. W. Soames, who has been ill.

Three new ringing members were elected, viz., Percy J. Sutton and Arthur E. Cook, of Kegworth, and George R. Horspool, of Quorn.

This is believed to be the first time the M.C.A. has paid a visit to Sutton Bonington, and the secretary urged each one strongly to support 'The Ringing World,' whereby they might keep in touch with ringing in general.

The next meeting has been fixed for Quorn on March 19th.

The Vicar extended a welcome to the ringers, and hoped it would be one of very many occasions. The bells are an interesting ring. The treble was cast in 1849 by Taylor of Loughborough, 2nd in 1899 by Henry Oldfield of Nottingham, 3rd in 1602 and 4th in 1579 by the same founder, and 5th in 1849 by Taylor of Loughborough.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.

The first meeting of the year was held at West Retford on Saturday week. Notwithstanding the raw cold and wet weather, there was a splendid attendance of ringers from Anston, Blyth, Workson, Wheatley, Gainsborough, Sutton-on-Trent, East Markham, Ordsall, Mansfield, Sutton-in-Ashfield, and Mr. J. L. Blagg, organist of West Retford, who had made every arrangement for the convenience and comfort of the visitors.

The Rev. G. E. Summers (Rector of West Retford) kindly placed the bells at the disposal of ringers from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m., and after tea, which was held at Cooke's Cafe, the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, Rector of Ordsall, very generously opened the Ordsall tower to give every ringer a chance and lessen the waiting period. The following methods were rung during the afternoon and evening: At West Retford, Bob Minor, Grandsire, Stedman and Bob Doubles, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob; at Ordsall, Kingston, Sandal, London Scholars' Pleasure, Kent, Oxford and Cambridge Surprise.

At the business meeting which was held in the belfry at West Retford, presided over by Mr. Fred Hargreaves, in the unavoidable absence of the Rector, with Mr. Revell, of Ordsall, acting as secretary, the following new members were duly elected: Mr. R. Hall, of Sutton-on-Trent, and Mr. B. Stockdale, of East Markham.

The next meeting will be held at Shireoaks in March, the hon. secretary to arrange the date.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Rev. G. E. Summers for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Hargreaves for presiding over the meeting.

SWANSEA AND BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD.SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

A quarterly meeting was held at St. Mary's Church, Swansea, on Saturday, February 12th, about 30 members attending from Aberavon, Baglan, Neath, Cadroxton, Morriston, Gorseinon, Sketty, Llanstephan, with the local band. The bells (eight) were set going soon after 3 p.m., the members later attending service, the Guild's form being conducted by the Rev. Barton, curate of St. Mary's, who afterwards took the ringers to Thomas' Cafe in High Street, where a splendid tea had been provided by the Rev. Canon C. W. Wilson, Vicar of St. Mary's.

The business meeting was held, the Rev. Canon Griffith Thomas, of Morriston, an hon. member of the Guild, presiding.

In view of the annual meeting being held at Llanstephan on July 16th, it was decided to miss the June quarterly meeting, and Cadroxton was the place fixed upon for the next quarterly meeting to be held the first Saturday in September.

Four new ringing members and three honorary members were elected.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Rev. Canon Wilson for the use of the bells, also for the tea, to the Rev. Barton for conducting the service and for his presence at tea, to the organist, and to the Rev. Canon Griffiths Thomas for presiding.

The tower was again visited, and ringing until 8.30 p.m. brought to a close a very pleasant meeting.

BOOKS FOR BEGINNERS.

The suggestion made by a speaker at Birmingham, on the occasion of the recent gathering there, that ringing books should be brought up to date, is one that deserves more than passing attention. There really is something to be desired in this direction, particularly in those books intended for the beginner. In the past the productions have been rather promiscuous, and despite the fairly considerable number of volumes which have appeared in connection with our art, from the 'Tintinnalogia' of nearly three hundred years ago, onwards, most people who have studied the question feel that there is still something lacking. Early authors endeavoured to give their readers in one volume all they knew about change ringing, but much of what they sought to convey was vaguely expressed and little of it was simply explained. Certainly these old books are inadequate to the requirements of modern ideas.

Later writers, who have tried to simplify the instruction have had to limit the scope of the subject dealt with, and elaboration of detail has resulted generally in restricting each volume to one particular method, with the result that the beginner who, for instance, gets hold of 'Ropesight' finds himself with information about nothing but Plain Bob. Now, one of the things which is discountenanced in these days is the ringing of Bob Doubles and Bob Triples, and to that extent 'Ropesight,' excellent as it is in the rudimentary instruction which it supplies, does not meet modern requirements even as a purely elementary treatise. Other books go out to deal exhaustively with all there is to be said about some particular method, with abstruse chapters on theories and proofs, which, of course, are absolutely beyond the comprehension of the beginner. It is well that these things should be available to all who desire to study them, but they do not help the beginner. His anxiety is to be able to grasp half pull ringing, and to go on from method to method by steady and almost imperceptible steps, without being burdened with indigestible treatises on points which, in his early days, he cannot be expected to understand.

In suggesting that ringing books should be brought up to date we do not think the speaker at Birmingham meant that someone should go through existing publications with a blue pencil, or bring editorial scissors and paste into action, but that the time had arrived when the beginner should have at his disposal a lucidly written, carefully planned, and skilfully arranged book which will guide him through the methods by the same easy stages that a schoolboy is led into the science of mathematics. What is wanted is a book which not merely lays down rules, or jumps from Grandsire to Stedman, as if they are consecutive steps in the progress of ringing; or from Treble Bob to Superlative as if there were no relation between the methods so far as the ringing of them is concerned. We should like to see a book which devoted itself to instructing the beginner in simple language and taking him from rounds to London Surprise on a plan which would show him each new step in relation to all that had gone before it, in a gradually developing scheme of progression, and leaving out all mention of conducting and composition, which might well be made the subject of a second book written on the same lines. There are one or two men in the Exercise who could write such a book, but it is almost too much to hope that either of them will undertake so big a task. If they did so, however, it would be an invaluable contribution to our art.

DEVON GUILD.

The quarterly meeting of the Exeter Branch took place at Broadclyst, on Saturday, in very inclement weather. The bells of Broadclyst (eight), Sowton (eight), Honiton Clist (eight), Pinhoe (six), and Poltimore (six), were rung by members of the Exeter, East Devon and South-West Devon branches. A very hearty service at Broadclyst, conducted by Rev. T. E. McCormick, was attended by 61 members. An excellent address, in which it was pointed out that bellringers had a three-fold mission of calling to worship, expressing sympathy with the bereaved, and joy with the wedded, was listened to with attention. The Vicar also remarked that at a parish in Somerset from which he came the beautiful tenor bell bore the unique inscription, 'Hark, how I call; prepare your heart to come to the house of God and the Kingdom of His Son.'

Tea and a business meeting followed, at which the opinion was expressed that the attendance would have been larger if the day had been finer. The re-opening of Alphington bells, near Exeter, had also attracted some members.

Grandsire, Stedman and Bob Major were rung at Broadclyst, and it is hoped the meeting will induce the local ringers to become members of the Guild. In the evening, some members proceeded to Bradninch and others to Alphington.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NEWBURY BRANCH.

A meeting of the Newbury branch was held at Beedon on Saturday, February 19th, when 27 members were present from Bucklebury, Newbury, Shaw, East Isley, Peasemore, Yattendon, Brightwalton, Tilehurst, Abingdon, and the local band. The service was taken by the Vicar (the Rev. L. H. Coles), who gave a very interesting address. Tea was served at the Vicarage by Mrs. L. H. Coles. Among those present were the Rev. L. R. Majendie (chairman of the branch) and Mr. H. W. Curtis (hon. secretary and treasurer). The Chairman referred to the death of the Rev. C. L. Jeayes, of Peasemore, an hon. member of the Guild, all standing for a few moments as a token of respect.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rev. L. H. Coles for his address, also the organist (Mrs. W. Wells), and Mrs. L. H. Coles for providing the tea. Mr. G. Caldwell and Mrs. A. E. Lock, of Abingdon, then played several tunes on the handbells, which were much appreciated by all.

A move was then made to the tower for further ringing, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Minor being rung during the afternoon and evening.

THE NEW LEICESTER DIOCESE.

In the official programme of the hallowing of the diocese of Leicester and its Cathedral the hope was expressed that wherever possible the event would be celebrated by the ringing of the bells in the belfries of the diocese. Many peals and touches have, in consequence, been rung.

At Belgrave, Leicester, on Monday, February 21st, at St. Peter's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) in 43 mins.: L. G. Pratt (first quarter-peal) 1, W. A. Skinner 2, H. W. Martin (first quarter-peal inside) 3, A. Disner 4, H. Morgan 5, J. Pole 6, R. Borrow (conductor) 7, J. A. Bishop 8. This was specially arranged and rung in honour of the hallowing of the restored Leicester diocese, February 21st to 28th. The ringer of the 5th belongs to the Cathedral band; the remainder are members of the local band.

On Monday, February 21st, at St. Margaret's, Leicester, in honour of the hallowing of the Leicester diocese, 1,260 Grandsire Triples by: (1. Humphries 1, T. Bent 2, A. Ballard 3, W. Tanser 4, E. Morris (conductor) 5, R. Grant 6, G. S. Morris 7, J. Grant 8.

At the Church of the Holy Saviour, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) in 50 mins.: S. W. Chapman 1, J. S. Needham 2, L. H. Whitehead 3, W. P. Whitehead (conductor) 4, E. H. Bagworth 5, H. Bell 6, A. Briggs 7, R. S. Bagworth 8.

THE LATE REV. C. E. MATTHEWS, R.D.
HIS WAR SERVICE RECALLED.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I wonder if it is known generally that the late Rev. C. E. Matthews served overseas with H.M. Forces during the Great War? It was during his days as Vicar of Titchfield, when I was learning to ring, that we used to visit his tower weekly for practices, and, as beginners, we were always welcomed by his very genial smile. The Great War came upon us like a thunderbolt, and ringing was forgotten when we took up fighting. Having got a bad 'packet' on the French Front, and passing the various field hospitals, I found myself at Hazebrouck in 1915, with a leg that looked like being amputated, till a visit from the padre, our late vice-president, started further negotiations, and it is due to his handling of the doctors on my behalf that I am fortunate enough to have two legs to-day. I lay there some ten days until moved to England in a pretty bad state, but always cheered by the visits of the padre, his kindly smile, and talks on ringing and better times to come. When fit to travel, it was he again who saw me off on the journey to England, to meet again after the war at our Winchester Guild meetings. What a debt I owe to him!

MILITARY MEDALLIST.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.BRISTOL BRANCH MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Bristol Branch took place at Warmley on Saturday last. The weather conditions were about as bad as have been experienced at these meetings for a long time, and prevented many from being present. Those who braved the elements were members from St. Matthew's, St. Stephen's and St. Werburgh's, Bristol; Mangotsfield, Marshfield and Mr. C. D. Heginbotham (Devizes). The Vicar (the Rev. H. J. Say) was at the church to meet the visitors. The bells were rung half-muffled out of respect for the sexton of Warmley (Mr. J. Hann), who was also an old ringer. He passed away on the previous Thursday.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, and was fully choral. The Vicar, in welcoming the association to Warmley, said it was the first church with which he had been connected since his ordination at which there was a peal of bells. He had been to six other churches, and he was pleased at last to have a peal.

Tea followed in the schoolroom, at which 26 sat down, including the Vicar, Mr. Brain (the organist), and Mr. Heginbotham.

Mr. J. G. Jefferies, in the unavoidable absence of Mr. J. Gould, acted as chairman, and proposed a vote of condolence to the family of the late Mr. J. Hann, which was passed by the members standing. He also proposed a vote of sympathy to the district chairman, whose daughter was lying dangerously ill, and the secretary was instructed to write to Mrs. Hann and Mr. J. Gould.

Mr. Heginbotham, who was entrusted with the vote of thanks to the Vicar, organist and choir, said he never remembered hearing a brighter service than he had that afternoon. They certainly wanted more such services.—The Vicar, replying, said they had looked forward to this meeting, and regretted the inclement weather. He wished the branch to come again in the summer, preferably about the second week in September, and the secretary promised to arrange a bye meeting.—The Secretary moved a vote of thanks to Mr. C. Harnell and his happy band of ringers for making such excellent arrangements, also to the ladies for looking after their comfort.

Another visit was then paid to the belfry, and ringing maintained until 8.30 p.m.

FREE RIDE FOR BELLRINGING.

Mr. Charles Ralph, one of three Otley (Yorkshire) men who had been bellringers for 64 years, has died, aged 76. When the railway from Arthington to Otley was opened in 1865 he rang in a peal in celebration and received in payment 1s. 6d. and a free train ride.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A week or two previous to their peal of Cinques at High Wycombe on the 15th inst., the band rang 3 hrs. and 7 mins., and had to 'stand' on account of the tenor bell being 'off colour.'

William Allen, a native of Chipping Norton, was buried at Slough on February 8th, in his 89th year. He moved to Slough some 70 years ago, and was one of the first team of bellringers when the ring of six were erected in 1855. The local members of St. Mary's tower gave him a muffled 'farewell touch' on the new octave.

A beginner asks us a question on the musical properties of the course end: How many times the '6th behind the 9th' comes up in a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus? Great Nicholas! what next!

The actual room in a public-house at Birmingham may be visited to-day in which the late Henry Johnson was overheard to remark that he thought the late John Carter 'would hardly ever make a ringer, but this was more than 40 years ago.

The first peal of Cambridge Surprise Major by the Yorkshire Association was rung at Drighlington on March 4th, 1899. Of the band, only two remain—Mr. J. Thackray, of Armley, and Mr. Charles Pratt, of Calverley. George Bolland was one of the band.

The first peal on the bells of St. Giles', Camberwell, was a 5,003 Grandsire Caters on March 5th, 1845. It was composed and conducted by John Cox. The bells are to be reopened, after restoration, next Tuesday.

A peal of '5,040 Double Bob Royal Ten In' was rung at St. Mary's, Nottingham, on March 7th, 1791. It was called by William Doubleday Crofts, the Nottingham solicitor, and required two men on the 9th and two on the tenor. They had to work for some of their peals in those days.

A hundred and ninety years ago next Tuesday, 12,603 Grandsire Caters was rung at Norwich. Tuesday is also the 120th anniversary of the first peal of Grandsire Caters rung at Stepney. This was performed by the Junior Cumberlands on March 8th, 1807.

On March 7th, either 1741 or 1742, a peal of 'Five Thousand and Forty of Richmond Triples' was rung by the Richmond Society, at Richmond, Surrey. Can any reader tell us what this method was? Was it a locally composed peal of Grandsire? William Walker, who rang the 7th to that peal, rang the 6th to a peal of Grandsire Triples 25 years later.

Mr. John H. Cheesman has rung in all sorts of long lengths from 5,000 upwards, and last Saturday added another among the 'thousands' by going over the 11,000 mark in Double Norwich. We believe he has now rung in peals of 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 thousand, as well as the 17,000 at Loughborough.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

NO SECRETARY FOR CANTERBURY AND DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the Canterbury District was held at Canterbury on Saturday last. There was no special service for ringers, but a good number of members attended the regular evensong at the Cathedral at 3 p.m. Over 60 afterwards sat down to tea at Gaywood's Restaurant, High Street, the towers represented being Dover, Lynginge, Elham, Faversham, Osprings, Headcorn, St. Nicholas, Herne, Littlebourne, Wickhambreaux, besides local ringers. Mr. S. H. Green from Tunbridge Wells was also present, and, later on, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Allen (Rochester) were found in the Cathedral belfry.

At the business meeting one honorary and ten practising members were elected. The two representatives on the Central Committee, Messrs. Harrison Smith and F. G. Brett, were re-elected, but no one was found to undertake the duties of district secretary.

The affairs of the district had been grossly neglected during the past year, and the subscriptions for 1926 had not been paid in. Possibly this fact may have acted as a deterrent, but that everyone should have fought shy of the office showed a sad lack of enterprise. It was decided to hold a meeting at Ash in the summer, at St. Lawrence in the autumn, and the annual meeting next January or February at Elham.

The Cathedral bells and the St. Alphege six were kept going until late in the evening.

THE FIRST PEAL AT FARNWORTH.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I notice in 'The Ringing World' of February 18th the report of a peal of Minor being rung at Farnworth, Widnes, Lanes, and is stated to be the first true peal on the bells. I wish to state that a peal was rung at the same church by a band of ringers from St. Paul's, Warrington, on Saturday, July 23rd, 1898, being a true and complete peal of Minor in seven different methods, and was supposed to be the first peal on the bells. It contained the following methods: Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, College Single, Grandsire, Oxford Single Bob, Canterbury Pleasure, and Plain Bob, and was published in 'Bell News' of the following week. Of course, that is many years ago, and the present band of ringers may not know about it, or may have overlooked it. I must assure them that it was a good and well-struck peal, as St. Paul's company at that time were noted for their striking abilities.—Yours,

W. BRAMMER,

One of the Band.

THE JOHNSON COMMEMORATION DINNER

ST. MARTIN'S BELLS.

Among those who sent apologies for absence from the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner at Birmingham, on Saturday week, were Alderman Sir Percival Bower (ex-Lord Mayor of Birmingham), who had been knighted by the King on the preceding Thursday, and was detained in London by the illness of his wife; Mr. Richard Wassell, director of music, Birmingham City Police, who had promised to act as accompanist, but was laid up with influenza; Mr. Albert Parsons (Old Hill), who everyone regretted was seriously ill; Mr. Bassano, Mr. Pryce Taylor (Loughborough), Mr. E. Guise (hon. secretary, Gloucester and Bristol Association), Mrs. Wilkins (Bristol), Mr. Tom Miller, and Mr. John Austin (Gloucester). Mr. W. T. Cockerill (hon. secretary of the College Youths) sent a telegram of good wishes, and Mr. W. H. Barber conveyed a letter of greeting from Mr. C. L. Routledge, of the Durham and Newcastle Association.

The toast of 'The King' having been submitted from the chair, 'The Church and State' was proposed by Mr. R. J. Heaton, who, in an interesting speech, referred to alliance between the two, and explained how by the adoption of the banners of the patron saints of the three countries of England, Scotland and Ireland, the Union Jack, typifying the strength of the nation, had been built up.

The Rector of Birmingham (Canon T. Guy Rogers), who was in the chair, replied to the toast. He referred to the close relations which, through the centuries, had existed between the Church and State, the Church which represented the spiritual side of national life having exercised its beneficial influence upon the civic, or material, side. Canon Rogers went on to allude to the revision of the Prayer Book, referring to some of the changes that had been made. He pointed out that the use of the new Prayer Book was not compulsory. It gave churchpeople a liberty which they had not enjoyed before, and he would have liked to see it made even more human than it is. The trouble was that the people who revised it were so occupied with theological questions that they, so desirous of seeing that the theology was sound, forgot to use human and simple language in all things. They wanted the Prayer Book to be a real help to them in their services; they wanted to make it so loved by the people that it would be preserved for many a long day, not only in documents and books, but in the hearts of the people (applause). In conclusion, Canon Rogers said he was proud to be chairman on that occasion; he was proud to be connected with St. Martin's Guild. He hoped as long as he was Rector of St. Martin's that he would remain closely identified with that historic and ancient Guild (applause).

'THE MEMORY.'

To Mr. W. Walsley, of Macclesfield, was entrusted the toast of 'The memory of the late Henry Johnson.' Why, he asked, did ringers meet year by year to do honour to Henry Johnson? It was not only because he had a master mind, and produced some very remarkable compositions; not only for his willingness to help others; not only for his geniality of soul; not only for his successful effort to leave the change-ringing world better than he found it, but more because he was, first and last, a gentleman. Proceeding, Mr. Walsley referred to the origin of those gatherings. Henry Johnson took part in a record peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's, a peal of 9,238 on his birthday in 1881. He was then 72. On his next birthday, February 28th, 1882, another peal of Stedman Cinques was rung, after which a party of 25 sat down to a dinner at the Dog and Partridge. This was the origin of the birthday dinners which were held yearly until his death. Subsequently, they were continued with the object of honouring his memory. He (Mr. Walsley) met Mr. Johnson two or three times, but from his very earliest days as a ringer the story of this remarkable old man's achievements had been to him a source of admiration and wonder. Those gatherings not only served to keep green the memory of one of the greatest members of the Exercise, but served a very useful purpose in enabling ringers from all parts to gather round the festive board, to meet old friends and to make new ones. Other ringing centres had taken up the idea, notably Bristol, Yorkshire and Nottingham, and now they had had introduced, in connection with them, at the suggestion of Mr. Walker, conferences at which they might discuss matters of vital importance to the art of ringing. Mr. Walsley went on to refer to various outstanding events in Johnson's life and to the friendship which he had with Mr. E. Matthews, of Macclesfield. The two often corresponded, and Mr. Walsley said he desired to present to St. Martin's Guild two autograph letters written by Henry Johnson to Mr. Matthews. Henry Johnson, he added, was a man of many talents; he did not bury them but rather used them to help others. He gave of his best to all who appealed to him. No one was more diligent than he, no one more ready to impart to others the results of his labours. He wielded a quiet and powerful influence for good; he probed the mysteries of an intricate science, not for his own glorification, but for the benefit of others. He never coveted other people's compositions, but was contented with his own discoveries. He was just, fair and upright; he won for himself the respect of everyone with whom he came in contact—in a word, he was a gentleman.

The toast was drunk in silence.

THE LATE MR. JOHN CARTER.

Alderman J. S. Pritchett submitted 'Continued Prosperity to St. Martin's Guild,' and gave his customary survey of the past year.

He alluded to the fact that he was described on the toast list as a man 'of cheerful yesterdays.' He thought he could claim credit to being cheerful as a general rule; he said, but when he commenced his remarks, as was his custom on that occasion, with reference to those who were not there that night, who had been with them on previous occasions, who were dear to them when they were there, and whose memory would remain dear to them still, he must confess to a feeling of sadness for the moment. Within the last few weeks it had pleased the Master Ruler of the universe to withdraw from the ringing firmament a bright particular star in John Carter, to shine, they all believed, with greater splendour in a brighter sphere. Since the death of Henry Johnson, that Guild and the Exercise in general had suffered no greater loss. His career, his great abilities, his industry, his character had been ably and fully commented upon in 'The Ringing World,' and he would not repeat anything they had all read in that paper, but he would like to make this one remark: Considering the opportunities that he had in life, the little education he had, and the fact that he went to work at the age of 12, John Carter's achievements were little short of marvellous. He (the speaker) knew him not only as a ringer but he knew him as a workman, and he knew his employers intimately. He believed that the large fortune that his employers made was largely due to the inventions which Mr. Carter placed at their disposal, and in that he resembled many clever workmen who had not the means to run their inventions themselves. He believed that if Mr. Carter had had the opportunities and the capital to put his own inventions on the market, he might have been a millionaire. Would they, however, have respected him any more for that? He thought not. They respected him for the man they knew him to be, the kind-hearted, genial, helpful friend that they always found him; and their admiration for him and for his genius and his achievements could not have been greater in whatever station of life he had been placed. It was three years or more since he was at one of those gatherings, and those last three years had been years of suffering patiently borne. His last message given to Mr. Young—who was with them that night—was to give his love to all his friends, and everyone in that room knew him at a friend. One star, continued Alderman Pritchett, differeth from another in magnitude. While John Carter was a star of first magnitude, there were other bright stars in the universe, and they had lost one only that week in their departed friend and fellow ringer, Bernard Witchell. When he (the speaker) began ringing with St. Martin's Guild, Bernard Witchell was one of the band; a splendid ringer, always ready to take part in a peal to oblige anyone. After his recent operation he had begun again, although in the weakest possible state of health, to busy himself in ringing matters and arrange peals, and it might be due to some extent to his unwise resumption of these activities that his end came quickly at the last in rapidly developing pneumonia. The Guild had lost two other members. Mr. F. J. Cope for fifty years rang in the belfry of Lichfield Cathedral. That period was not without precedent, but it was a long time. Last, but not least, he would like to mention the loss which they had sustained by the death of Mr. Isaac G. Shade, whose tragic death in a motor accident at the age of 74 they all deplored. He was glad to know that through the exertions of Mr. Goldsmith and 'The Ringing World' Mr. Shade's handbells realised so large a sum for his poor sister.

ST. MARTIN'S BELLS NEED REHANGING.

Proceeding, Alderman Pritchett said the past year had not been a very successful one, in a sense, for the Guild. The peals had been very few—only one in St. Martin's tower—and the attendance on practice nights had been small, and had got smaller. The reason was that the bells badly wanted rehangng (hear, hear). The people's warden represented the men who had the money, and he regretted he was not there that evening, but the Rector's warden was with them and would doubtless take heed. He had no doubt they had had warnings before, and he (the speaker) only wanted to emphasise them (laughter). They had with them the Vicar of Edgbaston. Last year they impressed on him the necessity of augmenting the bells at Edgbaston, and he was pleased to see that it was to be done, and Edgbaston was to have a peal of bells worthy of that wealthy and aristocratic neighbourhood. Although not much had been done at St. Martin's, a great many eight-bell peals had been rung, and in that branch of ringing progress had been made. He would like to congratulate the ringers of that neighbourhood on the augmentation of the peal at King's Norton from eight to ten (applause), through the generosity of Mr. Frank Yates, who took the warmest interest in all matters in connection with the ringers and bells. He hoped Mr. Yates would have many years to listen to the beautiful peal which he had so generously provided (applause). Alderman Pritchett went on to mention that they had with them that night Mr. Joseph Johnson, a son of Henry Johnson, who was present at that dinner for the 39th time, and Mr. Thomas Russan, whom they were very glad to see after his severe illness (applause). The absence of their most energetic and enthusiastic secretary, Mr. Paddon Smith, they did not deplore, because they knew that he had gone to India for his own good. Mr. Smith told him before he went that he hoped to come back with orders that would enable his firm to employ another thousand men (applause). If he did so, he would be a benefactor to that district (applause). In conclusion, Alderman Pritchett referred to the rest of the quotation against his name on the toast list, in which he was described as a man of 'confident to-morrows.' He did claim credit for this, he said, that he was confident of to-morrow as regards St.

Martin's Guild (hear, hear). It was steadily progressing. They lost old and beloved members, but for every one they lost two stepped into their places, and so he was certain it would continue. He would like to associate the prosperity of the Guild in the past, and that continued prosperity which he was convinced would attend them in the future, with the name of his Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. Albert Walker. What better proof could he have given them of his abilities than the fact that he had so admirably stepped into Mr. Smith's shoes and organised that large gathering of ringers in such a splendid manner (applause).

BIG RESTORATION SCHEME REQUIRED.

Mr. Albert Walker, who was received with applause, said that the work which he had been called upon to do in connection with that gathering enabled one to realise the immense amount of work which fell on anyone who organised a dinner of that kind. Whatever he had done, however, was rewarded by the large gathering that evening. With regard to the bells of St. Martin's, there was no doubt they had got to be 'soled and heeled.' It might be that the bells would have to be scrapped and recast. They wanted at St. Martin's a good peal of bells. They had a good peal, but as the times advanced they must admit there was room for improvement. There were now few, if any, old organs in the country—they were all scrapped, and, if need be, they must scrap their old bells and put in new ones, so long as it was proved that the new bells would be an improvement. There could be no question, however, that the bells at St. Martin's ought really to come right out and be properly rehung with any other necessary repairs, and he hoped the bells would take their turn for restoration with other schemes in their proper order (applause). If this were done, they might hope to get more ringers, but the bells could not be rung by beginners to-day—they 'go' too heavily.

The Rector said St. Martin's had a reputation for doing its duty, and he did not think they need be alarmed about the claims of the bells being overlooked. His churchwarden on his left would support him in saying that St. Martin's did try to live up to its responsibilities (Mr. Kendall: Hear, hear). On the following day, the Rector's wardens would celebrate his 78th birthday (applause), and he (the Rector) did not think he would resign until he had seen the bells put in order. So far as the people's warden was concerned, all he could say was that it had been remarked that the two were like the Siamese twins—what one thinks the other thinks (applause).

THE VISITORS.

Mr. J. F. Smallwood, in proposing 'The Visitors,' expressed the gratification of the members of St. Martin's Guild at the presence of such a representative gathering. Among the clergy present was Canon Blofield, Vicar of Edgbaston, who had taken the hint dropped to him at the last dinner and had decided to have a peal of bells in his church worthy of the neighbourhood (applause). They had representative ringers there from places as far apart as Newcastle and Plymouth, and the Guild, he could assure them, did appreciate their presence. They had with them the secretary of the Central Council, and among the Guilds and associations represented were the Durham and Newcastle, the College Youths, the Staffordshire, the Yorkshire, the Midland Counties, the Bath and Wells, the Gloucester and Bristol, which sent 21 representatives, the Devon Guild, Worcestershire, Surrey, Kent, Shropshire, Essex, and other associations. He was sorry he had not been able to attend the informal conference. The Exercise appeared to be just beginning to realise the importance of encouraging young ringers. If he might offer a few suggestions he would say this, that the first thing to do was to provide them with bells they could ring on and not pull their hearts out. Then they needed a little more toleration on the part of leading ringers, who were sometimes apt to get too impatient with learners. They also required better organisation at their ringing meetings, and their ringing text books should be brought up to date. This latter might provide work for the Central Council.

Canon Blofield, who first responded, said the new peal of bells for Edgbaston was to be cast during the following week. Continuing, he said there was no gathering which he went to in the year which he enjoyed more fully and thoroughly than that dinner, although he could not describe exactly why. He thought it must be because he felt he was one with them all. That evening had been especially pleasurable, for he would never forget Mrs. Hughes' handbell ringing. With regard to the subject of their conference that day, it was no compliment to the old ones to find, as they gave up, that there was no one left to take their place. He hoped they might be all 'confident to-morrows' as well as 'cheerful yesterdays,' and would look forward to a still more successful time in the future for the cause of bell-ringing and St. Martin's Guild.

Mr. P. J. Johnson (hon. sec., Yorkshire Association) also replied and spoke of the pleasure which it gave all the visitors to be associated with St. Martin's Guild in honouring the memory of a man like Henry Johnson. There seemed to be, continued the speaker, some feeling of trepidation as to what the future held for ringing, but while they had officials with enthusiasm, such as marked their presiding Ringing Master (Alderman Pritchett) and Mr. Albert Walker, who had so ably stepped into the breach in the absence of the secretary, they need have no fear. Mr. Johnson made an amusing reference to the alleged preparations being made for a peal by a band each less than 5ft. 3in. in height and more than 18 stone in weight, and said, amid laughter, that with men prepared to go to such lengths as this, there were no bounds to the possibilities they might achieve. He could say from personal experience that St. Martin's Guild always extended unflinching courtesy to visitors. They thanked the Guild very heartily for the expression of goodwill conveyed in the toast. He could assure them the visitors felt it an honour to be allowed to pay what little tribute they could to the great names which had been associated with St. Martin's Guild (applause).

Mr. W. A. Cave proposed 'The Ringing World,' in a kindly speech, in which he referred to the fact that the Editor discharged a difficult task in a most impartial manner.—Mr. J. S. Goldsmith responded to the toast, and referred to the much wider publicity which ringers and ringing were now receiving through the frequent notices which they received in the London and provincial Press and as the result of broadcasting. This publicity was, he said, entirely changing the view of many people in regard to bell-ringing, and it was important that ringers should at all times give of their best in order to create and maintain a good impression.

Alderman Pritchett, in a happy speech, proposed the health of 'The Chairman,' and the Rector having briefly replied, the proceedings closed with thanks to those who had contributed to the programme and to Mr. Woodhall who had acted as accompanist in the absence of Mr. Richard Wassell.

The enjoyable evening terminated with the National Anthem.

DEATH OF MR. J. G. BUCHANAN.

A FOUNDER OF THE HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

We regret to record the death of Mr. J. G. Buchanan, of Hereford, one of the founders in 1886 of the Hereford Diocesan Guild. He was always keenly interested in its affairs, and was hon. secretary in 1892 and 1893, and Master from 1894 to 1924. He lived formerly at Clun, where he introduced half-pull ringing, and his funeral took place there on February 19th.

After the funeral, several six-scores of Grandsire Doubles were rung on half-muffled bells, with 6-8 covering, on account of meeting short for Triples: F. A. Watkins 1, Rev. H. J. Scott 3, G. W. Roberts 4, E. H. Menditt (Clunbury) 5, W. Griffiths 6, W. Mead (conductor) 7, G. Long 8.

DONCASTER AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

A DIFFICULT YEAR.

The Doncaster and District Society's annual meeting was held at Doncaster on Saturday, January 22nd, when eleven towers were represented. The service was held in the Forman Chapel, and was conducted by the Rev. A. D. Clarke, Rector of Warnsworth, in the unavoidable absence of Archdeacon Sandford and the Rev. T. B. Powell. Suitable hymns were sung, the musical accompaniment being provided by Miss N. Spibey, a member of the society.

The Rev. A. D. Clarke gave an appropriate address, taking as his text 'Walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called' (Eph. iv. 1). He eulogised the good work which ringers often did as churchwardens and church officials. Although the ringers were unseen, and in many cases unknown, he said, yet their work was appreciated, not only by those who came to church but also by countless others who were unable to do so.

At the business meeting which was held in the belfry, the secretary (Mr. Harold Walker) presented the annual report, which was considered very satisfactory and adopted. It stated that the past year had been a very difficult one for the society in many respects. Owing to the industrial unsettlement, the attendance of members at meetings of the society had suffered considerably, but they looked forward to better and happier times, and improved gatherings, in the near future. The joint meeting at Whiston with the Yorkshire Association, the Sheffield District Society, and the Barnsley and District Society was a success in every detail. It was hoped to make a joint meeting an annual event, to take place in June of each year.

The number of peals rung during the year was ten, which was a record for the society, for only eleven peals were rung in the previous five years of the society's existence. The peal of Double Norwich at Whiston was the first in this method to be rung by the society. Many of the peals rung during the first year were due to the energy and enthusiasm of Mr. J. E. Cawser, of Tickhill. A performance worthy of mention was a half-peal of Minor rung at Sprotborough on Armistice Day, by Sprotborough and Conisborough ringers.

The Hatfield Church Bells Restoration Fund had received a severe setback owing to the industrial situation. A sum of nearly £400 had already been raised with the object of recasting and rehanging the peal of eight bells, and it was very likely that the work will be put in hand during the coming year.

After fifteen months, the report added, 'we are now able to ring the bells of Doncaster Parish Church, the tower of which has been thoroughly repaired, at a cost of nearly £2,000. The bells were rung for the first time in fifteen months on Christmas Eve, and the music of them was much appreciated by the public. The tower will now be open for practice on every Saturday evening, with the exception of the last Saturday in each month.'

Mr. Harold Walker was re-elected as honorary secretary for another three years. Archdeacon Sandford is the president of the society, Mr. G. Halksworth (Doncaster) is the vice-president, Mr. G. Clark (Arksley) Ringing Master, and Mr. H. Woodhouse, J.P. (Bentley), the hon. treasurer.

PRESENTATION TO MR. J. NEVARD.

RECOGNITION OF 50 YEARS' SERVICE TO RINGING.

The high esteem and respect felt by members of the Essex Association and friends for Mr. W. J. Nevard, churchwarden of Great Bentley and Master of the North-Eastern District, was evinced at Colchester on Saturday, February 19th, when he was the recipient of a handsome, engraved silver cup, the gift of his brother ringers. Twenty-six towers were represented among the fifty members present. After a united practice at St. Peter's Church, the company had tea in St. Peter's Parish Room. The large gathering here included the Bishop of Colchester, the Vicar of St. Peter's (Rev. C. E. Cardo), Messrs. C. H. Howard (Master of the Association), R. W. Stannard, Colchester district secretary, N. Division), F. Claydon, Earl's Colne (District Master, N.E. Division), W. J. Elliot (Kelvedon), D. Elliot (Assington), W. Duffield and H. T. Pye (Colchester), and J. Runter (Springfield). Mr. J. J. Gofton (Whitley Bay) wrote regretting his inability to be present, and sent birthday greetings, and Mr. W. H. Fussell was prevented from attendance owing to his recent accident.

The Master, who presided, said he regretted Mr. W. Keeble's absence, as he was greatly instrumental in bringing about the presentation and gathering. He read a letter from Mr. Keeble, wherein it stated that he had received no refusal, either verbally or in writing, to his appeal, and thanked Mr. L. W. Wiffen (Braintree), Mr. F. Claydon (Earl's Colne), Mr. E. Andrews (Therington), Mr. R. W. Stannard (Colchester), and Mr. W. Miller (Leytonstone) for their kind and able assistance. Mr. Keeble was, however, a victim of the 'flu' epidemic. This presentation, he said, was well deserved, for Mr. Nevard had done much for ringing for upwards of 50 years, had been District Master for many years, and had represented his association on the Central Council, which he had attended very regularly for a long period. Mr. Nevard was also a keen and enthusiastic peal ringer, and although he had recently celebrated his 71st birthday, he was still good for one, two or even three peals a day (hear, hear and laughter). Mr. Nevard was a devout churchman and very fine host, and few ringers had visited Bentley without enjoying his hospitality. That was why Mrs. Nevard's name was associated with the presentation.

The Bishop of Colchester, making the presentation, thanked the ringers for their hearty reception, and said he had in Mr. Nevard one of his oldest friends. He congratulated him upon his splendid record as a ringer, not only in Essex, as Mr. Nevard had rung in over 600 towers (applause). In fact, he didn't know where he had not rung (laughter). There was nothing that gave a man more satisfaction, after years of active work, than to receive some token of the affection, appreciation and regard from his brother ringers. The Bishop then handed to Mr. Nevard the cup, which was engraved: 'Presented to Mr. William J. Nevard, of Great Bentley, upon his 71st birthday, by fellow ringers of the Essex Association at Colchester, February 7th, 1927, in recognition of his service to the art of change ringing for upwards of 50 years.'

Mr. Nevard, who was completely taken by surprise, said he had rung a good many Surprise peals, but this surprise beat them all (laughter). All he had done was for the sheer love of the art. He knew of nothing more interesting than to see the fine old cathedrals, abbeys and churches and ring the bells placed in them. He had rung in 130 towers in Essex and over 100 in Suffolk. In fact, he had rung in every county in England, and he had also rung in Ireland. In all, he had rung in 603 towers, and belonged to 25 societies and associations (applause). He once rang three peals in one day (applause). He very much appreciated the spirit that had prompted Mr. Keeble and his many friends who had been instrumental in arranging for this handsome gift, and he and Mrs. Nevard would ever hold it in grateful remembrance.

Mr. Nevard was accorded musical honours, and Mr. W. Duffield, thanking the Vicar for the frequent use of the bells and the Parish Room, joined in the testimony to Mr. Nevard. The youthful ringer, he said, should take a lesson from the life of Mr. Nevard and be encouraged by his remarkable record.

The Vicar suitably responded; and Mr. Stannard, who is to be complimented on the admirable arrangements of the day, thanked the Bishop.

The meeting expressed a sincere wish that Mr. Keeble would have a speedy recovery, and the Master was requested to write a letter to him to that effect.

OLD PENDLETON RINGER'S DEATH.

Pendleton has lost one of its oldest ringers in the person of Mr. Joseph Winterbottom. He had been a ringer about 40 years, ringing his first peal in 1893. He joined in several first peals in the method for the association, his complete score being 46.

The funeral took place on February 24th, his brother ringers acting as bearers. The first part of the service was at St. Thomas' Church, and the interment at St. John's, Pendlebury, St. Thomas' yard being full. The Rev. S. Proudfoot, Vicar, officiated. The bells were muffled for service on Sunday, and a peal was attempted after the funeral, but was lost after two hours.

The deceased leaves a widow and son and daughter to mourn their loss. One son was killed in the war.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

YORKTOWN DISTRICT.

A meeting of the Yorktown District was held at Pirbright on Saturday. The weather was very wet, but that did not discourage members and friends from attending from Aldershot, Chertsey, Weybridge and Worplesdon, as well as the local band. Several touches were rung on the six bells before the service, which was conducted by the Rev. H. S. Kelsey, Vicar of Pirbright, who gave an interesting address on bells. Mr. S. Argyle, A.R.C.O., of Knaphill, a friend of the late Rev. C. E. Matthews, presided at the organ. The members then adjourned to tea, which had been arranged by Mr. D. Cheeseman at Pirbright Hall. The Vicar occupied the chair for the business meeting which followed.

The minutes of the last quarterly meeting and of the special meeting held at Bagshot in connection with the proposed division of the Guild were read and confirmed.—Mr. S. G. Armstrong gave an excellent report upon the proceedings at the Central Committee meeting held at Winchester.

One new member was elected.

A vote of thanks, proposed by the hon. secretary (Mr. J. B. Hessey) and seconded by Mr. H. J. Chaffey, was passed to the Vicar for the kind way he had received the district and for his interesting address.—The Vicar said he was very pleased to meet them, and hoped they would come again when the weather was more settled.

Ringing was again indulged in. Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Double Oxford Bob, Canterbury, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob were rung.

PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT AT NETLEY.

Despite the very unfavourable weather conditions on Saturday last, a successful meeting was held at Netley Abbey, when ringers and friends numbering 37 were present from Fareham, Hambledon, Havant, North Stoneham, Netley, Portsmouth (St. Mary's and St. Thomas'), Ringwood, Southampton, Swanmore, together with the Master (Mr. G. Williams). Owing to illness, the Vicar could not attend and conduct the service, but wished the meeting every success.

The members made good use of the bells until 5 p.m., when they adjourned to the Alexandra Cafe for the tea and business meeting.

At the outset the Chairman referred to the lamented death of the vice-president, the Rev. C. E. Matthews, who was formerly Vicar of Titchfield, and a keen member of the district, and the members stood in silence for a few moments.

Apologies for absence were read from the Vicar, the general secretary and also Bramshott and Wickham.—Two full members and ten probationers (including nine ladies from Hambledon) were elected. It was very gratifying to see no less than six of the Hambledon ladies present at the meeting, and they rang their first rounds on eight bells very creditably.

The Central Committee representatives gave a resume of the committee meeting held at Winchester on the previous Saturday, when several important matters affecting the division of the Guild were discussed and recommendations made, including the formation of a 'Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Association.'

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Hambledon on May 21st next, due notice of which will appear in 'The Ringing World.'

Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar for the use of the bells, the members wishing him a speedy recovery.

A further visit was then made to the tower until about 8 p.m. During the afternoon and evening, various touches were rung in methods which included Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major.

CHRISTCHURCH DISTRICT.

A very successful quarterly meeting of the Christchurch District was held at Brockenhurst on Saturday, February 26th, when, in spite of the inclement weather, 21 members attended from Bournemouth (St. Peter's), Brockenhurst, Christchurch, Lyndhurst, Lymington, Sopley and North Stoneham.

At the business meeting, Mr. Armstrong was elected chairman, and spoke of the great loss sustained by the Guild by the death of the Rev. C. E. Matthews. Respect was shown by the members standing in silence in the usual way.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Fordingbridge, subject to the restoration work at present being carried out to the bells by Messrs. Taylor and Co. being completed. Failing that tower, Lymington was selected, and due notice of this meeting will be given in 'The Ringing World.'

Good practice was held in the following methods: Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob and Kent Minor.

It may be mentioned that Brockenhurst possesses the lightest ringing peal in Hants, the tenor being only 4½ cwt.

WELCOME TO NEW RECTOR.

At the Parish Church, Richmond, Yorks, on Friday, February 25th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) in 47 mins.: T. Luna 1, T. Walton 2, S. Thorpe 3, J. Frenchum 4, J. Kinchin 5, R. Todd 6, G. Holmes (conductor) 7, W. Downall 8. Rung as a welcome to the new Rector, the Rev. A. M. Sullivan, who arrived on the above date. It is the longest length by an entirely local band, all being Sunday service ringers.

ST. HELENS BELLS DEDICATED.

CENTURY-OLD PEAL OF TEN FIND NEW HOME.

The Church of St. Helen, St. Helens, Lancs., has now a fine peal of ten bells, which were dedicated on Wednesday, February 23rd. The bells themselves have a peculiar and interesting history. They were cast in 1829 by Thomas Mears, of the Whitechapel Foundry, London, for the Church of St. Peter, Liverpool, and were first rung on Sunday, April 11th, 1830. They replaced a peal of eight, tenor 21 cwt., cast by Abraham Rudhall the first, the four heavier ones in 1707, and the four smaller ones in 1724.

The tenor of the present peal of ten is 4ft. 5in. in diameter, weighs 22½ cwt. net, and has a deep C note. Its original weight, with cannons and clapper staple, was 24½ cwt. The inscription on the bell is:

May all whom I shall summon to the grave,
The blessing of a well-spent life receive.

The Revd. Jonathan Brooks, A.M., and Augustus Campbell, A.M., Rectors of Liverpool.

William Peatt Bushby, Esq., Wilfrid Troutbeck, Esq., Church-wardens, 1829.

The Revs. J. Brooks and A. Campbell were the last of the 'joint Rectors' of Liverpool, and were instituted in the year the bells were cast.

St. Peter's, Liverpool, was demolished a few years ago, and the bells were sent to Loughborough for storage, pending the settlement of a new home for them. Eventually they were given to the new Church of St. Helen, St. Helens, and they then undertook their third journey, this time to return to their birthplace, the Whitechapel Foundry (Mears and Stainbank), London. Here they were cleaned by the sand-blast process and tuned. Their final journey was to St. Helens, where they have been hung in a massive teak frame, this material having been considered the most suitable for this district where ironwork does not enjoy a long and happy life.

The most modern principles have been adopted in the fittings. The bells swing on ball bearings, and the rollers also run on similar bearings, with lubricators attached. The clappers are fitted with specially bushed tops, with lubricators. The bell frame is bolted down to a reinforced concrete floor. The bells, when set, are several feet below the louvres, and the sound in the immediate vicinity of the tower is well softened.

All present at the opening ceremony were delighted with the tone and 'go' of the bells and their even clappering. The cleaning and tuning has effected a great improvement, and the bells now make a beautiful peal of ten.

It should be mentioned that in the first place the back eight only were to be hung, but representations made by the Lancashire Association against splitting the peal resulted in the complete ring being placed in the tower.

The dedication was performed by Canon Dwelly, of Liverpool, in the presence of a crowded congregation. Many were unable to gain admission to the church, and hundreds of people remained outside waiting to hear the bells for the first time. The St. Helens 'Reporter,' describing the scene, says: 'Somehow, the new association of those bells and their dedication to the new church left as deep an impression on the mind as did the consecration of the building. There was something magnetic about the thoughts of hearing the bells rung for the first time; it was not idle curiosity or casual speculation that drew so many people from their homes that night. The fascination that a peal of bells holds for the human mind is strong in itself, but the additional charm of the old bells of St. Peter's being installed in the new church of St. Helen—standing grander and more majestic than the sanctuary it replaced, made Wednesday's ceremony one that will live long in memory.'

The service was impressive, and in an inspiring address Canon Dwelly sketched the history of bells and drew lessons from their messages, in the course of which he said there was no period in English history which told a richer story than the period when the bells fulfilled almost every possible office of the corporate mind.

After the dedicatory prayers, the bells were rung in a few rounds, and at the conclusion of the service an opening touch of Grandsire Caters were rung by: J. Rigby 1, J. W. Hesketh 2, J. H. Hesketh 3, G. Saint 4, W. Bagley 5, R. Huxton 6, J. W. Hall (conductor) 7, S. Cadwallender 8, P. Bagley 9, P. Shaw 10. Others who took part in the ringing were Messrs. J. Gardner (Aughton) and G. Fisher (Liverpool), who rang on the bells on the last occasion they were rung in St. Peter's tower, 23 years ago, and also at Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee in 1897. Messrs. P. M. Cave and G. R. Newton (Liverpool), Booth, Grounds and Taylor (Standish), F. Ancough (Widnes), and J. Parr (Ormskirk) also shared in the ringing, and Mr. J. B. Tyler represented the founders, Mr. A. A. Hughes being confined to his home with a chill.

RUISLIP.—On Sunday evening, February 13th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles in 43 mins.: P. Thrift 1, W. Bunce 2, H. Ive 3, G. M. Kirby (conductor) 4, T. Collins 5, H. Woodman 6. First quarter-peal by all except the conductor.

RAINHAM, KENT.—On Sunday, February 6th, 720 Bob Minor (half-muffled): *G. Nichols 1, A. Manktelow 2, W. Seager 3, R. Ockwell 4, W. J. Walker (conductor) 5, Geo. Gilbert 6. * First 720.—On Thursday, February 10th, 720 Bob Minor: G. Nichols 1, A. R. Ockwell 5, A. Manktelow 4, C. Belsey 5, W. J. Walker 6, G. Gilbert (conductor) 7, Geo. Howland 8.

BEGINNERS' TOUCHES.

In St. Stephen's belfry, Hampstead, on Sunday, February 13th, 120 Grandsire Doubles on handbells: R. P. Hunt 1-2, B. F. Farnery 3-4, S. C. Reeve-Flaxman 5-6, E. Aylett 7-8, R. Hudson (conductor) 9-10, A. J. Carter 11-12. First 120 as conductor. Rung, as was usual some years ago at Grundisburgh, each couple acting as one bell. This procedure is helpful in learning to ring double handed, and in acquiring the beat and getting some of the enjoyment of twelve-bell ringing.

A very youthful ringer rang his first 720 at Thorington on February 2nd, when 720 Plain Bob was brought round by: L. Gladwin (first 720, aged 11 years) 1, P. Almond 2, J. Bowell 3, W. J. Nevard 4, G. A. Andrews (conductor) 5, S. Davey 6.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS VISIT OXFORD.

I now come to the extracts from Hearne's Diary, to which I referred a short time ago. The first recounts a visit the College Youths paid to Oxford in 1733. That was a time of great activity and progress in ringing. Although only eighteen years had elapsed since the Norwich Scholars rang the first peal in any method, all over the country there were bands attempting and ringing peals in several methods and on all numbers up to Cinques. In London alone there were no fewer than five societies of skilled ringers—the Union Scholars, the London Scholars, the City Scholars, the Eastern Scholars, and the College Youths. Every one of these had done some performance which made ringing history.

One of the College Youths was a Mr. Skelton. He was a man socially in a better position than the majority of his fellows, a graduate of Oxford University, who held the office of Registrar to the Bishop of London, and was a proctor in the Court of Arches, that is, a lawyer who practised in the ecclesiastical courts. Most likely he had learned ringing at Oxford, and in his undergraduate days had, like Anthony Wood, 'plucked at them' for recreation. In London, among the College Youths, he became an excellent ringer, and probably conceived the idea of taking a band of London ringers to visit his University city, and show the local men what good ringing could be like.

In the early days of George II.'s reign a journey from London to Oxford was no small undertaking. The roads were bad, and highwaymen not unknown. Railways were as yet a hundred years in the future, and even stage coaches were not general. If you were a wealthy aristocrat you would travel in your carriage with a retinue of servants. If you were well to do you would ride horseback. The rest, and that means the great majority of men, had to walk on their two feet and take what luck they could in the shape of an occasional lift by some waggon going to and from the villages on the way. In after years there grew up, somehow or other, a tradition that the College Youths of this period were an aristocratic and wealthy lot of men. There is an account published in a paper, which has frequently been quoted, which recounts how a peal of Bob Maximus was rung at Fleet Street, how the street was thronged by gentry who had come to listen, and how, after it was finished, all the twelve ringers went home each in his own carriage. On the face of it the thing does not seem very probable. One or two of the band, Geary, for instance, were very likely in good social circumstances, but I do not believe a little bit in the carriages.

At any rate, Hardman, the tobacconist, the one man in the band about whose ordinary life we know something, though he was at different times in his life pretty well to do, was certainly no aristocrat, and almost certainly never had a carriage. And even if he had, as he lived only a stone's throw from the church, he would scarcely have used it to cross the street. London then was very much smaller than it is now, and all the ringers probably lived at an easy walking distance from the towers at which they rang.

Anyhow, there were no carriages when they went to Oxford. I do not suppose Geary was in that band, but Benjamin Annable, who rang the tenor in the St. Bride's peal, was; and he and the rest of his band walked the whole way. If you have to walk a long distance there is no better time to do it than Whitsuntide, when the days are long and the weather generally fine and bright, and when English country is at its very best. It seems they did the whole 54 miles on that Whit-Sunday. They must have started pretty early, and it was a very tired and foot-sore band that crossed Magdalen bridge into the High Street late that evening. Skelton had ridden down horseback the day before, no doubt to see all was ready for them and to make final arrangements. The intention was to ring a peal at each of the three principal college towers, Christ Church, Magdalen and New College. They do not seem to have attempted one at Merton. Perhaps the bells were not in good enough ringing order. The local men gave them a cordial welcome, and during the Monday, when they were resting after their long journey, rang some touches at Christ Church and Magdalen in their honour. The London men did not ring a peal. Four attempts they made, and all came to nothing, but the fault was not the ringers; broken gudgeons and bad ropes were the cause.

TWICKENHAM.—On Monday evening, February 14th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples as a birthday compliment to G. Bradford and V. E. Beadle: Miss Kathleen Bradford (first quarter and first attempt) 1. R. G. Ilsley 2. V. E. Beadle 3. W. H. Hollier (conductor) 4. E. A. Morris 5. D. H. Brown 6. J. A. Trollope 7. G. Bradford 8. A peal was arranged, but owing to the fog the band arrived too late.

ACTIVITY AMONG BELL FOUNDERS.

One of the best signs of the public interest in bells is the continued activity of the bell founders. In all their careers the leading firms can seldom, if ever, have been as busy as now, and there seems to be no lack of work in prospect. This is probably due to various factors, first and foremost being a growing realisation on the part of church people that their bells are valuable property, and ought to be in as good order as the organ; that the bells have a definite place in the scheme of the Church's services, and that, therefore, if they are to be rung their mechanical efficiency must be maintained. Further, there is greater consideration for the ringers, and it is being realised more and more that men, who give their time and services in the work of the Church, are entitled to have the instruments they use kept in proper order, and not, on account of neglect, to have to labour unnecessarily in their ringing. It has not been always thus, and there are still many places where the condition of the bells seems to be the last thing that matters, but, speaking generally, the present demand for bell restoration is a practical manifestation of the fact that church authorities are beginning to appreciate their responsibilities.

Another factor is the attitude of the ringers themselves. They are now seldom content to go on with bells that are mechanically deficient, and they rightly demand that, in return for their services, the bells, their frame and fittings, shall be in tolerably good condition. The augmentations which are another happy feature of the activity in the bell founding world—and in our columns are constant reminders of what is taking place in this direction—are mainly, we imagine, the outcome of the enthusiasm of the ringers themselves, who are anxious to make advances in their art. New peals, too, are springing up in many directions, but this, gratifying as it is, forces home once more the realisation that we are probably not holding our own in regard to personnel in the Exercise. There are doubtless to-day many more change ringers than there were thirty or forty years ago, but has the number of bell ringers increased in the same ratio as the ringable peals of bells? We doubt it. The activity among the founders should find corresponding energy among the associations in teaching new ringers, for not only is there the constant loss of man power, from death, removal and loss of interest, to make up, but we have to meet the growing numbers of bells in all directions. It takes longer, as a rule, to make an efficient ringer than it does to make an efficient bell, and if we allow the number of bells to outstrip the number of ringers it can only mean the eventual neglect of many fine rings, upon which much money has been expended.

STEDMAN TRIPLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I be allowed to reply to the note of Mr. Cave's recent letter? He says 'I have complained as to the use of blue pencil.' I was not aware of this complaint, as I merely told him that it had been used, and that my letter did not convey all I wished it to. He also says my letter to him contained nothing of value. I might say it contained all I intended it to, and that was what he asked for, viz., the particulars of the Variation of Haley's and the date of peal. What more does he want? I must say that he has rightly guessed that of the peals I sent the first is known as Tipler's Variation of Haley's, but considering that he has had the figures of the peal, together with 'R.W.' peal card, by his side for three weeks, it is a marvellous piece of deduction. But where the 'Washbrook' comes about, I fail to see, as he has already admitted that neither Haley's nor Brook's on the six single plan had been rung or published, and I have always been led to believe the ringing or publishing decides the issue. As for the transposition he talks about, a transposition is another version of the original, so that settles that. Mr. Cave says that his notes are simply to prove that there is no such thing as Dexter's Variation, and that he has done so, but I am not so certain as yet about it. Although a member of M.C.A., I have not reports for 1912 and 1913, so cannot compare peals 2197 and 2284 to see what F. H. D. has done to the latter when compared with the former, and if my information is correct he can go back farther still.—Yours truly,
E. W. TIPLER.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Cave is right, but still a few years out. The peal in question was first rung at Boyne Hill, Maidenhead, on February 13th, 1890, conducted by Mr. Washbrook. When a lad, I well remember hearing him state that he had called 'Thurstans' peal without extras or omits, using six singles, two the reverse of two, and two to connect the two halves.—Yours,

FRANK SMITH.

BURTON-ON-TRENT DISTRICT.

A successful meeting was held at Measham on Saturday, March 5th. In spite of inclement weather, upwards of twenty members and friends were present from Ashby, Burton, Market Bosworth, Overseale, Netherscale, Appleby Magna and Tamworth.

The Parish Church bells were well utilised during the afternoon in various methods, ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Kent Treble Bob Major, whilst after tea handbell ringing was indulged in.

The Vicar (the Rev. J. R. King) welcomed the ringers, and on behalf of all present Mr. J. H. Swinfield suitably replied.

A short business meeting was held after tea, at which it was decided that the next meeting should be held at Repton if possible, or otherwise at St. Paul's, Burton. It was also decided that the meeting at Alreowas, which had been unavoidably cancelled, should be held later, when the repairs necessitated by the recent belfry fire had been completed.—Two new ringing members were elected, both from Appleby Magna.

AN EDINBURGH CELEBRATION.

A PEAL AND PRESENTATIONS AT ST. CUTHBERT'S.

As recorded in our last issue, a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh, on February 19th, to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the dedication of the fine ring of eight bells (by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough), the gift to the church of the late Mrs. General Anderson. The peal was well struck throughout, and afforded considerable satisfaction in that three of the ringers scored their first peal in any method, and one scored her first peal of Grandsire. Two of the band, it will have been observed, were ladies. St. Cuthbert's Society can boast of four lady members, and too much praise can scarcely be bestowed on them for the immense interest they take in the work of the bellry. It is seldom, if ever, they miss a practice or attendance on Sundays for two services, and sometimes three, and they are always willing to take their share in forming a band to bring on beginners, which, as all know who have any experience of teaching change ringing, is a very important matter.

Following the peal, a sumptuous tea was provided in the Church Hall, and a pleasant evening ensued, at which all the members of the St. Cuthbert's Society were present, with the addition of Mr. W. B. Sampson, representing St. Mary's Cathedral, and Miss Brown and Mr. Lawson, representing St. James' Episcopal Church, Leith. The thanks of the society are specially due to the church officer and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Macdonald, for the trouble they took on this occasion.

The main object of this meeting, however, was not only to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the dedication of the bells but to acknowledge the completion of 25 years of valuable service by Mr. William C. S. Heathcote, the esteemed instructor and conductor of the St. Cuthbert's Society. Change ringing in Scotland does not enjoy the same popularity as it does south of the Tweed. Open practices are almost unknown, recruits are few in number, and peals have to be attempted very sparingly. It says a lot, therefore, for Mr. Heathcote that, in spite of all these difficulties, he has kept up the interest in change ringing that he has done during his 25 years at St. Cuthbert's.

In the course of the evening, Mr. Ellis was asked to act as the mouth-piece of Mr. Heathcote's fellow ringers and friends, and to express to him their appreciation of his untiring energy, exceptional patience and skill as an instructor. Mr. Ellis said that the society felt that they could not let an occasion like that pass without asking Mr. Heathcote to accept some tribute of the affection and esteem in which he was held by all who had had the pleasure of being associated with him. The suggestion to make Mr. Heathcote a presentation was taken up with the utmost enthusiasm, and subscriptions were willingly given. Those who had long ceased to have connection with St. Cuthbert's contributed, and the value of their contributions was enhanced by the letters received, all of which testified to the pleasure it gave them to be parties to the project and to the admiration held for Mr. Heathcote.

Mr. Ellis, on behalf of the subscribers, then handed to Mr. Heathcote a gold hunting watch, suitably inscribed, with a gold chain and a St. Cuthbert's cross attached also in gold. He said that if the beat of the watch proved as true to time as the beat of affection in the hearts of the subscribers, Mr. Heathcote would have no cause to complain.

Other members also spoke, including the only two now remaining of the original band formed in 1902, viz., Mr. Adam and Mr. Stocks.

Mr. Heathcote, on rising to reply, was greeted with much applause and the singing of 'He's a jolly good fellow.' He feelingly and suitably responded to the remarks that had been made.

On Wednesday evening, February 23rd, the annual dinner of the society was held in the Caledonian Station Hotel. Ladies and gentlemen to the number of about 100 were present, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Mr. Fulton occupied the chair. The organist, Mr. Cowie, presided at the piano, and songs were rendered by ladies and gentlemen of the choir. A course of Grandsire Caters on handbells was rung by five members of the society, including two of the ladies.

The toast of 'The Donor of the Bells,' which was drunk in silence, was entrusted to the Rev. Dr. Maclean, senior minister of St. Cuthbert's, who had just returned from Australia.

'The Society of Change Ringers' was proposed by the Rev. Mr. Macleod, colleague to Dr. Maclean, and responded to by the secretary, Mr. Henry Mann.

The toast of 'The Church of Scotland' was eloquently proposed by Dr. Lyn, and replied to by the Rev. Dr. Maclean.

The Chairman, in a few well-chosen words, on behalf of the Kirk Session of St. Cuthbert's and with every expression of appreciation and goodwill, asked Mr. Heathcote's acceptance of a cheque for £25.—Mr. Heathcote, who was somewhat overwhelmed by being made the recipient of such a gift, spoke of the pleasure he had always had in his work as instructor to the Society of Change Ringers. He returned sincere and grateful thanks for the manner in which his services had been recognised by all concerned.

BISHOP'S ENTHRONEMENT.

To celebrate the enthronement of the Bishop of Blackburn, on Monday, February 28th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) was rung at Holy Trinity Church, Burnley, in 45 mins.: H. Wormwell 1, H. Entwistle 2, W. Stephenson 3, F. Bentley 4, W. Robinson 5, R. Hartley 6, W. Hunter (conductor) 7. The longest length in the method by ringers of 4 and 5. Owing to sickness, this was rung without a covering holl.

SHEFFIELD DISTRICT SOCIETY.

RANMOOR BELLS RESTORATION SCHEME.

Despite the unsettled state of the weather, about 50 members visited Ranmoor, on Saturday, March 5th, the towers represented being: Barnsley, Chesterfield, Dore, Handsworth, Killamash, Norton, Rotherham, Sheffield Cathedral, All Saints', St. Marie's, Treeton and Wortley, backed up by a strong contingent of the local company. The peal of eight bells are not in very good going order, consequently it was not surprising that the majority of attempts to bring touches round came to grief, though it was gratifying to land a course of London Surprise.

The Vicar, Rev. J. R. Lee Nicholls (a ringing member of the Society), conducted the service in the magnificent church, and gave a most interesting address which was commendable for its brevity.

Tea was provided in the local schoolroom with the usual thoroughness characteristic of the Ranmoor company, where the ringers were joined by the organist and the two churchwardens.

The business meeting, presided over by the Vicar, was opened by a course of Grandsire Caters on the handbells, after which the minutes of last year's annual meeting were passed 'as read.'

The balance sheet was presented, and showed a clear gain of £2 0s. 7d. on the year's working, which, together with the capital in the bank, indicated the society's worth at December 31st last to be £10 3s. 1d.

An extempore report for the year 1926 was given by the secretary (Mr. Colin Harrison), who took the opportunity to eulogise the services which the late Mr. Sam Thomas had rendered to the local company and the Sheffield District Society, and expressed the hope that the Vicar and his colleagues would in the near future take some steps to improving the condition of St. John's bells as a memorial to Mr. Thomas. Twenty-two peals had been rung during the year, which represented an increase of 7 over 1925, the methods ranging from Minor to Cinques, and including Grandsire, Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Little Bob, Double Norwich, Norfolk Surprise, Cambridge Surprise Major and Royal, New Cambridge, Yorkshire and London Surprise Major. The peal book was entered up to date, and the society had no outstanding financial liabilities whatever.

The whole of the officers and members of committees were re-elected with the exception of the president, Mr. Arthur Craven expressing the desire to retire on the grounds of indifferent health and other calls upon his time. Mr. J. P. Tarlton, of North Wingfield, was therefore unanimously elected to this honoured post for the ensuing year.

In replying to the vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens and local company, the Rev. J. R. Lee Nicholls said that they fully appreciated the remarks of the secretary with regard to the condition of their bells. He agreed that their rehauling, etc., would be a fitting memorial to the late Mr. Sam Thomas, and the local Church Council were unanimous in their opinion regarding the welfare of the bells and their ringers. They had already received two tenders from leading bellfounders for carrying out the intended work, which approximated to £700, but owing to the bad times through which we were passing, and the heavy drain which the diocesan fund made upon their resources (their quota to this fund was £400 annually), they did not think that the moment which they could call opportune had arrived to carry out an ambitious scheme.—Mr. Tindall, churchwarden, associated himself and his colleague with what the Vicar had said, and assured the gathering that the matter would not be shelved; they were only waiting for financial conditions to improve, so that, when they made their appeal for funds, they would be assured of a successful response.

Although the service, tea and business meeting occupied the best part of 2½ hours, members considered the time well spent in having the assurance that the Vicar and his colleagues were with them in their desire to perpetuate the memory of Sam Thomas in a lasting and much-hoped-for manner.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ROSSENDALE BRANCH.

A well attended meeting of the Rosendale Branch was held at St. Nicholas', Newchurch, on Saturday, February 26th. Ringing was indulged in from 3 o'clock to 5.30, when an adjournment was made to the Boar's Head, to partake of 'hot pot' kindly provided by the Rector, and to which ample justice was done.

Afterwards, a meeting was held, the Rector, the Rev. G. E. Knapps Fisher, occupying the chair. It was decided to hold the next meeting at St. Saviour's, Bacup, the date to be arranged. Two new members were elected, and Mr. J. H. Banks proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for his hospitality. This was seconded by Mr. Tom Rollerson, and the Rector responded. Thanks were also given to Mr. and Mrs. Cowell, the host and hostess, for providing such an excellent repast, to the Rector and wardens for use of bells, and to the local ringers for having all in order.

Every tower in the branch was represented, with one visitor, Mr. H. Davenport, of Todmorden, a total of 37 altogether.

After the meeting, an adjournment was made to the tower, where ringing was indulged in up to a late hour, and during the afternoon and evening Bob Minor, Grandsire, Stedman, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich, and other methods were rung. This proved one of the best meetings held in the district for a considerable time.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S, KILBURN.ANOTHER LONDON PEAL IN FIRST-RATE ORDER.

The bells of this church were cast by Vanaerschodt, of Louvain, in 1898, and were originally so hung that they were obliged to be rung with clappers striking the wrong side in order to be heard at all. Even so, clear strike notes were unattainable, and the trebles were much overpowered. Last August the timber frame, which was not designed to take the stress of the bells when rung, was removed, and the bells were sent to Loughborough. Messrs. Taylor have now re-erected them in a cast-iron frame carried by steel girders. One of the bells has been recast, but the remainder, which have the angular lips characteristic of continental bells, have been tuned, and Messrs. Taylor have provided entirely new fittings, including ball bearings for the gudgeons and pulleys and force-feed lubricators for the bearings of the clappers. The clock chimes have been altered, so as to produce correct Cambridge chimes, with an octave interval between the chimes and the hour bell.

The bells were rerung for the first time for evensong on February 23rd, the eve of the Feast of the Dedication of the church, when, after rounds had been rung by a local band, 420 Stedman Triples was rung by: E. M. Atkins (conductor) 1, J. A. Trollope 2, C. T. Coles 3, Miss E. K. Parker 4, G. M. Kilby 5, R. Holloway 6, G. Fletcher 7, Rev. M. C. Edgar 8. Afterwards touches of Double Norwich, Kent and Grand-sire were rung. On the following evening, 180 Bob Minor was rung by the following local band: W. Ball 1, Rev. M. C. Edgar 2, G. Margetts 3, Mrs. F. A. Atkins 4, A. Gardner 5, E. M. Atkins 6, R. Gilbert 7, H. L. Jones 8.

The bells will normally be rung on Sundays 10.15-11 and 5.45-6.30 (except in evening of first Sunday in the month), and on Thursdays 8.9.30, when any visitors will be welcome. They are not to be rung, however, during the last fortnight of Lent.

MR. W. J. NEVARD'S THANKS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I should like, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' to thank most heartily all kind subscribers for their handsome and unexpected gift of a cup presented to me at Colchester in celebration of my 50 years' ringing, and particularly those who, for various reasons, were unable to be present at the presentation by the Lord Bishop of Colchester.—Yours, etc.,

W. J. NEVARD.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.ISLE OF WIGHT DISTRICT.

A quarterly meeting of this district was held at Freshwater on Saturday, February 26th, when, owing to illness amongst island ringers, there was a poor attendance of members. Arrangements had been made by the Rector for the bells to be half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Rev. C. E. Matthews, vice-president of the Guild, and ringing commenced with the whole pull and stand rung 63 times. Prior to the service, 360 Bob Minor was rung: A. Long (Carisbrooke) 1, Mr. H. Barton (conductor) 2, Dr. J. B. Williamson (Ventnor) 3, F. Taylor (Carisbrooke) 4, B. J. Snow 5, A. R. Ward (Ryde) 6. The Rector, who conducted the service, made special reference to the passing of the late Rev. C. E. Matthews, who was a lover of bells, a friend of the ringers, and an ardent worker in promoting the interest of the art and in all Guild matters.

Both of the hymns in the Guild's form of service, written by the deceased, were sung, and at the close of the service the organist, Mr. J. H. G. Ives, played the 'Dead March.'

The members were entertained at the Parish Hall by the Rector and Mrs. Coombes to a sumptuous tea; and at the short business meeting following, over which the Rector presided, it was resolved to hold the next quarterly meeting at Brading on Saturday, May 28th, also a combined practice meeting at Carisbrooke on Saturday, April 30th.—The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the Rev. H. E. H. Coombes and Mrs. Coombes for their kind hospitality, also to Mr. Ives, the organist, for his service. Further ringing on handbells and the church bells was then indulged in.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The quarterly meeting of the Ashford District was held at Appledore on February 26th, but the attendance was not up to the usual average, only 17 members being present, representing Ashford, Frittenden, Hythe, Lydd, Stone, Tenterden, Willesborough, and the local band. Service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. A. O. Scott), and tea was partaken of at the Swan Hotel, kindly provided by the secretary.

The Vicar, having another engagement, gave a few words of welcome before leaving at the business meeting which followed. Mr. A. J. Battin was voted to the chair. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Rolvenden on May 21st.

Six new members were then elected, and the secretary gave a brief report of the committee meeting held at Maidstone in November.—Votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to Mr. G. Johnson, who had things ready, concluded the business, and a return was made to the tower, where the bells were kept going till 8.30.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. J. B. Joyce and Co., Ltd., Whitechurch, Salop, have just erected a new striking clock at Grinshill Church, Salop. They have also in hand a new striking clock for Tisbury Church, Wilts.

A writer in a London daily the other day referred to the 'tortures of the church bell,' and said that as the members of 14 other denominations can assemble without the clanging bell it is not necessary for the remainder.

He evidently overlooked the fact that most of the members of the other 14 denominations take their time from the church bell. Their services usually commence at the same hours, and the church bell, although provided by someone else, answers their purpose as well. They might not admit it, but—well, it is so.

We have had to wait until 1927 for the first peal of London Bob Triples. It was rung at Bridgend, Glamorganshire, on Saturday last, conducted by C. H. Perry. This method, which is quite interesting to ring, is given in C.C.C. of Methods as No. 5, but for some reason it is not named there.

The most interesting anniversary which falls next week, and one which ought to be duly celebrated, is the bicentenary of the first peal at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields. It was a 6,006 Grandsire Cinques, rung by the London Scholars on March 14th, 1727. It was one of the only three peals known to have been rung by the society.

The church had been consecrated on October 26th, 1726, and it is thought to be not unlikely that the society had its headquarters at St. Martin's. On the day following the London Scholars' successful peal, the College Youths had the use of the bells, and, going one better in regard to length, rang 6,314 Grandsire Cinques, which was called by Benjamin Annable.

These peals are outstanding events in the early history of ringing, and the 200th anniversary ought not to pass without suitable recognition.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are to recast the existing peal of five at Ropley, Hants, and add a treble. The peal of six will be rehanging in a new frame with new fittings throughout.

The first peal of Treble Bob Maximus was rung at Southwark on March 12th, 1758, by the College Youths.

Ninety years ago next Monday a peal of 10,133 Grandsire Caters was rung at Christ Church, Bristol.

Wednesday is the 160th anniversary of a peal of 10,080 Bob Major, rung at Debenham. This peal was excellently completed in six hours and one minute, a performance never before accomplished by eight men without assistance to ye great bells.

The first peal of Violet Treble Bob Major was rung at St. Peter's, Huddersfield, on March 16th, 1865.

Birthday greetings to Mr. Challis F. Winney, who was born at Nayland, Suffolk, on March 17th, 1858.

The 'Shrewsbury Chronicle' last week quoted the following from its issue of Saturday, March 1st, 1777: 'On Tuesday last was rung, at St. Mary's Church, in this town, by the Society of Change Ringers, the quarter-peal of Bob Major, containing 10,080 changes, in 5 hours and 56 minutes. To those who know the strict attention necessary to be supported by every person engaged in such an undertaking, during so long a period, this performance must appear very extraordinary; and what adds to the merit of the performers is their completing it at the first attempt.'

The ringer of the 7th in the 11,008 Double Norwich Major at Erith, on February 26th, was F. J. Cullam, not Cunningham. The ringer of the 6th in the peal at Pulford on February 5th was Albert J. Hughes, not James Swindley, as published.

A well-known figure in Yorkshire ringing circles has passed away in the person of Mr. Thomas Henry Haigh, of the York Minster Society, who died last week at the age of 74 years.

The Lord Mayor of London having kindly placed a room at the disposal of the Central Council for their Whitsuntide gathering, the meeting will be held at the Mansion House. This, we believe, will be the first time a Council meeting has been held 'in the City.'

'RUNG FOR THE FIRST TIME.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I may be thought awfully particular, but very frequently footnotes to peals state: 'This composition is now rung for the first time.' Now, without any reference of files of peals in various methods, how can one be certain that this assertion is correct, especially in Cambridge Royal, in which true peals are somewhat more limited than in other methods?

It is to be hoped that this subject will be on the agenda at the next Central Council meeting, and something definite decided on.—Yours truly,

G. E. SYMONDS.

RINGER'S BEREAVEMENT.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Edward Young of Thornham, by the loss of his wife, who died on February 23rd at the age of 61. After the funeral on Monday, Feb. 28th, the bells were rung, with half-muffled clappers, to touches in various methods by Messrs. Berry, Blaxwell, Lockwood, Moss, Nunn, Poppy and Steggalls.

PROPOSED NEW PEAL OF 12 FOR KENSINGTON.

OVER £100 COLLECTED AT GUILD'S DINNER.

The annual dinner of the St. Mary Abbot's Guild, Kensington, took place at the Parish Hall on Tuesday evening, February 28th. The visitors present were: The Vicar, the Rev. E. Marling Roberts, Rev. R. C. L. Williams, D.S.O. (chaplain to the Guild), Rev. H. H. Low, Rural Dean, Rev. S. A. Spackman, Mr. T. Groombridge (Master), Mr. W. J. Cockerill (hon. secretary of the College Youths), Mr. R. A. Daniell, Mr. E. Brown, Mrs. Wilkins, Bristol (hon. member), and the churchwardens, Mr. R. Carter (hon. treasurer of the Guild) and Mr. H. V. Kenyon. Letters regretting their inability to attend were received from Dr. Forrest Brown, sometime Bishop of Bristol (a resident of the parish and 93 years of age), Rev. R. F. R. Routh (a former member of the Guild), Capt. Fielding (church secretary), Mr. Shuttleworth (organist), Mr. A. B. Bennett, Mr. J. A. Dart, and Mr. W. H. Fussell. The unfortunate accident that befell Mr. Fussell not only prevented him from being present at the dinner but prevented him from making up to date the peal book of the Guild. This book, which is usually open to inspection at the dinner, was therefore not on view this year. Hopes were expressed that Mr. Fussell would speedily recover.

The proposal to take down the existing ring of ten bells (tenor 32 cwt.) and replace them by a slightly heavier ring of twelve, was brought up again at this dinner, the scheme having been in abeyance since 1913. Mr. Brown was the first to offer a donation, and Mr. Carter, who has done such great work for the Guild, immediately took up the cause, contributing a very handsome donation himself. Well over £100 was collected from those present at the dinner. An appeal is to be made for funds in order that the work may be put in hand as soon as possible.

The toast of 'The King' was proposed by the Vicar; 'The Church' was submitted by Mr. Smith and responded to by the Vicar; Mr. R. A. Daniell proposed 'The Guild,' and this was responded to by Mr. Garrard, who gave a report of the year's working. He reported that 11 quarter-peals and two peals of Stedman Caters had been rung.

The Vicar then specially thanked Mr. Garrard for his great work in the belfry.

The next toast was 'The Visitors,' proposed by Mr. Selby and responded to by the Rev. S. A. Spackman, the Rev. H. H. Low, and Mr. Cockerill. The health of 'The Hon. Treasurer' (Mr. Carter) was proposed by Mr. Sadler, and Mr. Carter responded amidst cheers from all present. During the past year, Mr. Carter has made numerous gifts to the Guild, among which is a new clock in the belfry.

After the toast list, songs and recitations were given by Mr. Daniell, Rev. R. C. L. Williams, Mr. Harris and Mr. Miles.

A course of Stedman Cinques and a course of Grandsire Caters were rung, the following taking part: Messrs. Daniell, Cockerill, Winney, Miles, Judd, Groombridge and Roberts. The evening terminated with the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne.'

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

WESTERN DISTRICT.

A useful meeting was held at Hemel Hempstead on Saturday, February 26th, members attending from Redbourn, Apsley End, King's Langley, Berkhamsted, Tring, Harpenden and the local band. The bells, available from 3 p.m., were made full use of in the following methods: Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent and Little Bob. Double Norwich was attempted, but would not materialise.

A short service was conducted by the Vicar, who gave a very appropriate address as well as interesting information about the bells of that tower. Afterwards, the whole company adjourned to St. Mary's Hall, where the Vicar had made ample preparations for a goodly company.

At the business meeting which followed, the Vicar (unanimously voted to the chair) cordially welcomed the ringers to Hemel Hempstead and offered apologies for the absence of Mrs. Robson and the churchwarden, but handed rounded cigarettes from the latter, in lieu of his presence that afternoon.

Two new members were elected, Mr. E. J. Wynn (Hemel Hempstead) and Mr. Robert Bruce (Apsley), and the election of Mr. C. W. Roberts prior to a peal was ratified.

The next meeting was arranged for Northchurch, the date to be left with the Rector and the secretary. The quarterly peal attempt was also left with the secretary.

The next combined practice was fixed for King's Langley, on Tuesday, March 8th, at 7.30 p.m. It was unanimously agreed that the secretary write to the Berkhamsted Parochial Council, drawing their attention to the condition of the 5th and 6th bells, and respectfully asking if they might suggest that this matter be one of the chief objects of improvement in the parish this year.

The Redbourn band, present at the meeting, were congratulated on having had four of their members included in a peal on their own bells.

A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar for his generosity in providing tea, for allowing the use of the bells, and for the interesting address he gave.

A course each of Grandsire Triples and Bob Minor in hand concluded this part of the programme. The ringers then adjourned for more tower ringing. Had the weather been at all kind, the meeting would have been one of the largest ever held in the Western District.

THE INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Your editorial in 'The Ringing World' of March 4th is good as far as it goes, but it does not touch the root of the matter. There certainly is need for an overhaul of the many instruction books in change ringing. I have most of these, from 'Grandsire Simply Explained' to Troyte and the whole Snowdon series, and though I believe I am endowed with an average amount of brain power, I must confess I have found them of very little value to me as a beginner. For so ancient an art the literature of change ringing is disgraceful. There does not appear to be a single writer on the subject who is able to express himself in explicit and grammatical English, and every authority seems to vie with every other in making confusion worse confounded. As for any ability to teach, it does not appear to exist at all in any writer on the subject.

There remains, then (I am thinking of the absolute beginner), only one way of learning the art, and that is by practical instruction in the belfry, but there is a great difference between the practical ringer and the efficient teacher. After seeing the methods adopted in about a dozen towers in different parts of the country, I have found only three or four instructors who have any teaching ability at all. I have watched three experts trying to teach a beginner at the same time. No. 1 told him to 'Make third's and go out back'; No. 2, 'Lead and hunt up'; No. 3, 'Go behind in the compass of four and get back in the compass of three,' while the ringer himself was mentally following what another expert had taught him, 'Lead, lead, 1-2, 1-2, lead, lead, 5-3-1-2-5-3,' etc. Now, sir, what value is there in instruction of this sort? Its certain result is that a novice, who has been kept up to rounds and call changes, gets 'fed up' and drops out after a few lessons of this sort in change ringing. I own that the experts have always been ready to teach me what they know, and many a time I have wished that they wouldn't!

There is such unholy haste to get young ringers on to plain courses, 60's and 120's, that there is no time for real instruction. Does anybody expect that a child who has just learnt to count 10 will be put straight on to the working of intricate problems with a schoolmaster shouting at him to tell him what figures to put down next? No, he must learn his tables and his four elementary rules. I have seldom seen any systematic teaching of the four rules of change ringing—counting the place, hunting, dodging and placemaking—but the novice is taken by the neck straight from his counting rounds and flung into the problems of Grandsire or Minor. It is of no use for the pundits to deplore the decline of the art while they make no effort really to teach the novice.

What is needed is a standardised system of instruction, the use of exactly the same terms, always bearing the same meaning, and the instruction of the instructors. It would be an excellent idea for the central authority to draw up a book of formal, systematic and progressive instruction which the various Guilds could adopt for the use of their ringers. The Guild could even arrange 'refresher courses' for the captains of belfries, so that they would be taught how to put their knowledge into a form that would be assimilated by their bands.

'The Ringing World' itself is much to blame for the present state of affairs, as it does little or nothing for the learner. Of what use to gardening would a horticultural journal be that confined its activities to the recording of the weights of the biggest marrows grown in the country and the occasional analysis of a chemical manure? 'The Ringing World' does little more than this for ringers.

If the central authority cannot adopt the idea of systematising the instruction in change ringing, why cannot 'The Ringing World' step in and do so? Then this journal would become a living force in the Exercise and not remain what it now is—the mere tombstone of a declining art.—Yours truly,

J. P. ARMSTRONG.

The School House,
Brockenhurst, Hants.

[Surely our correspondent's apportionment of blame to 'The Ringing World' for the state of affairs of which he complains is as much unwarranted as would be similar strictures on a horticultural journal for the failure of a potato crop through the incapacity of a so-called 'gardener.' That some form of systematised instruction in our art is necessary, we agree, but even in schools teaching is not done through a newspaper—schoolmasters and textbooks are employed.—Ed. 'R.W.']

BELLS AND GUIDE BOOKS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the guide and touring books issued by the railway companies, town councils, and travel bureaux, one generally finds a description of the churches in the various places treated in these books.

Often the architecture, the style of the tower, the interior, and the organ are described in detail, but rarely are the bells mentioned.

Could not something be done to remedy this state of things, as surely the bells are just as much a part of the church as a carved oak lectern?

Besides, reference to the bells would tend to keep alive the public's interest in them, and possibly induce some wealthy tourist to have his own neglected parish church bells put in order on his return home.—Yours faithfully,

'OBSERVER.'

NEW TOWER AND BELLS AT CRESWELL.

A PERFECT PEAL FROM LOUGHBOROUGH.

Creswell, a mining village on the borders of Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire, and situated in the Dukeries, three miles from Welbeck Abbey, the seat of the Duke of Portland, has just completed its Parish Church by the addition of a tower and ring of eight bells, and set the seal to one of the most successful schemes of parochial co-operation ever undertaken in a comparatively small town.

Some 13 or 14 years ago, Mr. S. Evans, J.P., Mr. John Eyre, the late Mr. Reuben Davies, and Mr. J. T. Blagg, agreed to subscribe £100 each to the proposed scheme. Through many reasons, including, of course, the Great War, the scheme was not proceeded with until the advent of the present Vicar (the Rev. W. Kay, D.S.O., M.C., M.A.), who immediately took the matter in hand, and has since worked with unflinching energy to realise its maturity. The serious work commenced in October, 1922, and since then all kinds of efforts have been made in aid of the scheme by the various sections of the church. Bazaars, dances, whist drives, etc., have been held in galore in order to augment the funds, but the most outstanding fact is that the parishioners themselves, including people of other denominations, decided by a canvass of the village, to support the scheme in its entirety. As a result of this canvass, no less than 1,231 people made weekly contributions to the effort. Altogether, the building of the tower and bells will cost a little over £4,000, of which about £3,667 has already been subscribed, and, judging from the support the scheme has already received, the balance will be forthcoming in a very short time.

The tower itself is a work of art, and congratulations must be showered upon the people who have been responsible for its erection. It is built in a late decorated style, with handmade brick, together with Weldon stone dressings, while the woodwork (doors, etc.) is of oak. The carvings in the tower (carried out by Messrs. A. H. Borrowdale and Sons, monumental sculptors, of London and Workson), comprise 18 ornamental bosses, eight of which are symbolic emblems. Those on the north and south sides represent the four evangelists, viz., Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John. The remaining ones on the tower are in the form of gargoyles, while those over the West doorway are ornamental floral bosses from the architects' design.

The bells, which come from the Loughborough Foundry, are 'harmonically' perfect, being tuned on the Taylor 'true harmonic' system, by which each bell is made absolutely true in itself, and also in perfect accord with the other bells. All the latest improvements in hanging and in the fittings have been introduced, including ball bearings. The new hollow box section cast iron headstocks, which have now replaced the wooden type, do not require screwing up and adjusting as did the old ones, and the improved design of clapper joints is of a vastly superior type. The Creswell bells are hung in a new strong and massive iron framework, designed specially for them, the frame being supported by stout steel girders, well-braced and bolted together, the ends of which are grouted into the tower walls, and, in addition to supporting the frame, are thereby a source of strength to the tower. The tenor is 12 cwt. 2 qr. 4 lb. in F sharp.

The bells are a very fine ring of eight, and great credit is due to Messrs. Taylor and Co., as the whole job is really as near perfection as possible.

The inscriptions on the bells are as follows:

Tenor.—'For the Honour of God this peal was hung in 1926 by the Parishioners.' W. Kay, D.S.O., M.C., M.A., Vicar; J. W. Eadson, J. W. Shacklock, Churchwardens.

7th.—'To the Glory of God in loving memory of Hannah Blagg and Ann Ellis. The gift of John Thomas and Sarah Ann Blagg, 1926.'

6th.—'To the Glory of God in memory of Father, Mother and Brothers. The gift of John Eyre.'

5th.—'To the Glory of God and in loving memory of Reuben Davies. The gift of his Wife and Children, 1926.'

4th.—'To the Glory of God and in loving memory of Richard Skinner (born 1825, died 1911) and Emily Skinner (born 1835, died 1913). This Bell was presented by their daughter, Ann Day, 1926.'

3rd.—'Day by Day we magnify Thee.'

2nd.—'We praise Thee; we bless Thee; we glorify Thee.'

Treble.—'To the Honour of our blessed Lord Jesus. The Children's Bell.'

The dedication was performed by the Bishop of Southwell (Dr. Heywood) on Saturday, February 26th, and the event aroused great pleasure and interest among the parishioners. The village was a scene of animation long before the time of the service, and the famous Creswell Colliery prize band, anxious to take their part in the day's proceedings, led the procession of Boys' Brigade, which formed a guard of honour to their graces the Duke and Duchess of Portland, who attended. The church was crowded to excess, hundreds having to be content to remain outside, anxiously waiting to hear their bells. The service, which commenced at 2.45 p.m., was conducted by the Vicar, assisted by the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, and many clergy from neighbouring parishes. The lower and bells were dedicated by the Bishop, and, while he with the clergy and choir returned to the chancel, the newly-formed band of Creswell ringers rang rounds for a few minutes. They did this exceptionally well, so well, indeed, that several older ringers could scarcely believe that they had not been helped.

The Bishop gave an address, in which he referred to the part which the bells played in the Christian life, and spoke, incidentally, of the practical interest in ringing in that county which had been taken in the past by his cousin, the late Sir Arthur Heywood.

After the service, the Bolsover ringers rang a four-course touch of Double Norwich, after which the bells were open to visiting ringers, and touches and courses were rung in the following methods: Kens Treble Bob, Stedman Triples, Superlative, Cambridge, Norfolk, London, Original Major, Duke of York and Bob Major, several of the Creswell ringers taking part in the latter.

A public tea was provided, to which 450 sat down, and about thirty ringers were invited. Congratulatory speeches were made by, among others, the Duke and Duchess of Portland, and the architect for the tower (Mr. Lewis Ambler, F.S.A., F.R.I.B.A., of Temple Chambers, London), representatives of the builders (Messrs. Vallance and Son, of Mansfield), and Mr. Pryce Taylor, representing the founders, were present.

The bells were kept going until 8.45 p.m., and arrangements were made for a band to stay overnight to ring for Sunday service. The methods rung for service were: Grandsire Triples, Double Norwich, Superlative, Cambridge, Yorkshire, London and Bristol. It is to be hoped the Creswell band will make headway after so brilliant a beginning. They have everything in their favour—beautiful bells, a good ringing room and an interested Vicar.

RICKMANSWORTH BELLS TO BE AUGMENTED.

TWO TREBLES TO MAKE A RING OF TEN.

The second annual dinner of the Rickmansworth Society took place on Tuesday evening, March 1st. Proceedings commenced by ringing from 6.30 till 8 o'clock, Cambridge, Superlative, Double Norwich, Stedman and Grandsire Triples being rung, and every touch brought round in good style. The company, 18 in all, then sat down to an excellent repast at the Red Spider tea-rooms, where the inner man was well attended to by the genial proprietor, Mr. Willard. The company included the Vicar (the Rev. Newton), Major F. Hinton and Mr. Clubb (churchwardens), Capt. J. H. R. Freeborn, Messrs. F. Brinklow and H. Hodgetts (Oxhey), M. F. R. Hibbert and C. H. Horton (Bushey), and Mr. S. H. Hoare (Watford).

Two toasts were proposed by Capt. Freeborn, viz., 'The Vicar and Churchwardens,' to which all three gentlemen responded, and 'The Visitors.' In proposing the latter toast, Mr. Freeborn alluded to a remark of Mr. Clubb, as to his ignorance of the art of change ringing, and said that in every trade or hobby the outsider could understand something about it, except in ringing. He said that all their ringing visitors that evening were expert men, and extended to them the thanks of the local band for their presence. He mentioned that the fund for the proposed two new bells would be opened shortly, and asked for the visitors co-operation in their towers.

Mr. Horton replied, and said that when he received the courteous invitation to be present he made haste to accept, knowing he was on a good thing. He alluded to the good attendances at the Herts Association district meetings, and thanked all present for their loyal support. He promised the support of the visitors to the scheme for making the Rickmansworth peal into ten, saying that such a peal was needed on that side of Hertfordshire.

At the close, Mr. Foster, the hon. secretary of the band, proposed a vote of thanks to Capt. Freeborn for the keen interest he takes in the local company. The company dispersed at 10 p.m., everyone agreeing that the evening had been most enjoyable.

YOUNG RINGERS DISCOURAGED.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Allow me space to fall in line with your correspondent, Mr. James H. Hales, who writes in your issue of February 4th. Mr. Hales gives an incident of a church in London where the ringers were paid for festivals. He goes on to say that a year ago he had a band of very keen young fellows who took a great interest in the art. At the time of these festivals they were ousted by some elderly and more experienced men, who, after collecting the few shillings due to them, vanished and did not appear again until the next pay-day, and thus offended and put an end to a very promising band. Putting aside the money point of view, this is exactly what is happening here and in many other places to-day. Only a few days ago I witnessed a similar incident in a steeple where a peal of eight have just undergone recasting and rehangings, and were to be rung for the first time since their return, for testing purposes. Instead of the ringers of the church, who are also chiefly young men, ringing them themselves, they, likewise, were ousted by a lot of elderly and more experienced men, who only put in an appearance when there is something special on, or when they want a peal. Consequently, what happened? Likewise, the local men turned away downhearted. It is nothing but these selfish shabby tricks that prevent young fellows taking the proper interest in ringing. There is that sex, who, when they become aged and experienced, especially if they hold some office, are inclined to be rather humphious and like to show their authority. From my experience, young fellows will not put up with this kind of thing nowadays. Where a thing is voluntary, there should be every encouragement, not punishment, given to those who volunteer. As your correspondent says, one often sees the question put in 'The Ringing World,' 'How can we keep young fellows interested in the art?' There are many eager and willing to be taught, I for one, but it is the selfishness of a certain number that keeps them away. Such, at any rate, is the opinion of

CHEAP RAILWAY TRAVELLING FACILITIES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Will you please publish the enclosed letters, by which the Exercise will gather that certain negotiations are pending in respect to the above, but so far, I fear, with little success.

May I ask those ringers who think they would care to avail themselves of the opportunity of a Sunday to Wednesday ticket to London at Whitsuntide, to please advise me of their names and numbers, as it will be necessary for me to have the vouchers printed, so that they can be issued by me in a proper and formal manner. It is obvious that unless taken up by a fairly large number it will not be worth while proceeding with at all.—Yours faithfully,

BELLRINGERS' ASSOCIATIONS' ANNUAL MEETING.

BELLRINGERS' ASSOCIATIONS' PERIODICAL MEETINGS.

Dear Sir,—With reference to your letter of January 25th last, and to your call with Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge at this office on the 8th ultimo, I have pleasure in informing you that the railway companies in Great Britain (except the Metropolitan, Metropolitan District and London Electric Railway Companies) have agreed to issue tickets at the ordinary single fare and one-third for the double journey, fractions of 5d. reckoned as 3d., minimum adult fare 1s., to persons travelling to attend the annual meeting of the bellringers' associations this year. Vouchers (to be printed by you in similar form to specimen attached), duly filled in, and signed personally by you, must be surrendered at the booking offices by the persons in whose favour the forms are issued. The cheap rail tickets will be available from the day before to the day after the meeting, and, in order that the various railway companies may be advised, I shall be glad if you will kindly advise me the place and actual dates of the meeting. (Sunday is a dies non).

I am desirous to add that if the total number of passengers who avail themselves of this facility falls below 200, the concession will not be repeated next year.

With regard to your application for a similar concession to be granted for the periodical meetings of bellringers' associations, the railway companies regret they cannot see their way to accede to your request.—Yours faithfully,

BELLRINGERS' ASSOCIATIONS' ANNUAL MEETING.

BELLRINGERS' ASSOCIATIONS' PERIODICAL MEETINGS.

Dear Sir,—I am obliged by your letter of the 2nd inst., and for your good offices in putting our case in the proper quarter. I observe that the railway companies mentioned are prepared to grant cheap travelling facilities for our annual meeting only, and that if the total number of passengers availing themselves of this facility falls below 200 it will not be repeated next year.

The meeting this year is in London, and by the courtesy of the Lord Mayor will be held in the Mansion House on Whit Tuesday, commencing at 9.45 a.m.

As our total number of elected representatives is only some 120, of which possibly a few might care to bring interested parties other than representatives with them, of course there is little likelihood of the 200 tickets being sold. But I take it that it is deemed desirable that the concession should be tried, in which I agree, for it might form the basis of further negotiations at a subsequent time.—Yours faithfully,

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

MOTION FOR LOWER ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION DEFEATED.

There was a representative attendance of members of the Elton Deaneries Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild at Spalding on Saturday, February 26th, when the annual meeting of the branch was held. About 50 sat down to tea, and at the business meeting there were present representatives of the following towers: Bicker, Butterwick, Deeping St. Nicholas, Donington, Folkingham, Fleet, Long Sutton, Lutton, Holbeach, Market Deeping, Moulton, Peterborough, Pinchbeck, Spalding and Surfleet.

The meeting was presided over by the Rev. H. Law James, M.A., Vicar of Surfleet, the Ringing Master of the Guild, who apologised for the absence of the Rev. B. G. Nicholas, Vicar of Spalding, who was unable to be present owing to being occupied in visiting the many sick in the town. He also regretted that, unfortunately, there could be no ringing that day at the Parish Church, as was the usual custom at their annual meetings, on account of sickness in the neighbourhood. Other peals of bells in the immediate neighbourhood, however, were available, and some ringers had already that afternoon rung at Fulney.

The following were elected officers for 1927: President, Rev. G. H. Clarke (Vicar of Bicker); vice-presidents, Rev. B. G. Nicholas, Spalding; Canon Hutchinson, Holbeach; Rev. H. Law James, Surfleet; Rev. E. Creswell Gee, Pinchbeck; Rev. T. G. Dovitt, Fleet; and Mr. G. W. Hensman, Pinchbeck: hon. secretary, Mr. G. Ladd, Pinchbeck: hon. treasurer, Mr. R. Smith, Spalding; hon. auditors, Mr. Rupert Richardson, Surfleet, and Mr. J. T. Brown, Spalding.

Mr. P. Bray, Lutton, was elected a ringing member.

A resolution that the subscription of ringing members be lowered, and that no expenses be allowed to members attending meetings, was practically unanimously defeated.

For the next places of meeting, the following were decided: Bicker (Saturday in Whitsun week), Holbeach (July 23rd), and Surfleet (October 8th), and secretaries of other branches are asked to note these dates.

The treasurer presented the balance sheet, which showed a balance in hand of £30 8s. 5d. Everyone agreed that this was most satisfactory.

On the proposition of Mr. R. Richardson, it was decided to make a collection at the close of the meeting, there being no special ringers' service that day. The collection amounted to £1, and will be devoted to the belfry repairs fund.

On the conclusion of the meeting, those not partaking in ringing were invited to attend evensong at the Parish Church. A party was made up to visit Surfleet, where they enjoyed ringing on the peal of ten.

LINCOLN DISTRICT'S SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

The Lincoln District held the first of their meetings for the current session at Bassingham on Saturday, February 26th. The meeting was successful, and ringers were present from Lincoln, Gainsborough, Blunkney, Branston, Washingborough, Collingham, and the local tower. The bells, a recently augmented peal of six, were set in motion early in the afternoon, and the local ringers, a very enthusiastic band, were given every opportunity of acquiring the art of change ringing.

A service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. T. I. Pocock. An excellent tea was served in the adjoining schoolroom, and the ringers found it difficult to avoid a 'change course' among the exquisite dainties before 'stand' was called.

A business meeting followed, over which the Rector presided. Letters were read by the secretary (Mr. H. Maroon) concerning the Eagle ringers, who had been asked to join the Guild, and it was decided that a representative body should visit this tower, and the secretary was asked to arrange accordingly.

Comprehensive were the thanks accorded to the Rector, members of the choir, the organist, and also the caterers.

Prior to the close of the meeting, the Rev. Pocock was complimented upon his excellent address, which, while being both interesting and instructive, was not so much in common with many other ringers' service addresses, and the resultant change was greatly appreciated.

Handbell ringing was indulged in vigorously in the following methods: Grandsire Triples and Caters, Bob Major and Royal. An attempt at a course of Treble Ten evidently presented some difficulty, as the band were unable to complete the distance in this instance. Ringing on the tower bells continued until nine o'clock, and by that time a good variety of methods had been rung, including Grandsire and Sledman Doubles, Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Double Court, Oxford Bob, St. Clement's, Cambridge and London Surprise.

Experience goes a long way, so the saying goes, and the experience of one ringer during the ringing of Oxford Bob resulted in a jocular comment being made when 'stand' was called. It appears that he did not hear the 'bob' portion of the method's term, and, of course, following the 'go next' he experienced difficulty in traversing his bell in Treble Bob style. The 'go' of the bells was excellent, and the easy swinging treble seemed to be a little too spirited on the hack stroke for some of the 'plain bearing' ringers. The bells were lowered about nine o'clock, and the chiming apparatus was manipulated to the tune of 'Now the day is over,' a most appropriate conclusion for the day.

TUSHINGHAM, CHESHIRE.—On March 3rd, 720 Oxford Bob Minor: S. Jones 1, J. W. Clarke 2, G. Jones 3, E. V. Rodenhurst 4, J. Morgan 5, A. E. Richards (conductor) 6.

BOW BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Can you obtain and give us any correct information as to what really is the matter with the bells and steeple of St. Mary-le-Bow? One report states that the fabric of the steeple is unsafe; another that the fittings of the bells are out of order; while another goes so far as to say that the noble tenor is cracked.

I am sure that most of the readers of 'The Ringing World' would be glad to have a correct report on this matter.

A good many repairs and additions to the steeple and bells have been made since the church was rebuilt by Wren, after the Great Fire of 1666.

In the 'Gentleman's Magazine' for November, 1822, it is stated that after the rebuilding of the church, 'the steeple was prepared for twelve bells, but that only eight were hung there.' These bells, I believe, were cast by John and Christopher Hodson. In 1738, the tenor, being cracked, was recast by Richard Phelps and Thomas Lester jointly. Phelps died in the same year, and the Whitechapel foundry was then carried on by Thomas Lester alone, who afterwards took Thomas Pack into partnership with him. The present tenor is the one mentioned above. The account in the 'Gentleman's Magazine' goes on to say that 'the tenor bell is the completest in Europe, but that the other seven are very much inferior, and by no means suitable to the said tenor.'

At this time it was proposed to recast the front seven bells and to add two trebles to make a peal of ten. The steeple was accordingly examined by Dance and Chambers, the two ablest architects of the day, who reported, 'that such additional weight, nor any weight that can be put upon it, will have any greater effect than the number of bells now placed there.' Accordingly nine new bells were cast from the old front seven with additional metal by Lester and Pack, thus forming a peal of ten, with the old tenor retained. They were rung for the first time on June 4th, 1762.

The steeple was again repaired under the direction of Mr. George Gwilt in 1819, when the belfry was surrounded by strong iron braces, both internally and in the masonry itself, the ashlar or external face being cut through to admit the same, space being left to admit of the expansion of the metal, the weight of these braces being about six tons. A record of this last repair is engraved upon the waist of the eighth bell as follows: 'These chain ties of cast iron were applied for the security of this tower, September, 1819. George Gwilt, Archt.' When the work was finished, the bells were rung for trial, and a subsequent examination of the steeple proved that everything was satisfactory. Several other repairs have since then been carried out.

In 1881, the peal was augmented to twelve by the addition of two trebles, cast by Mears and Stainbank, and about twenty years ago extensive work in the way of rehangng was carried out by the same firm, since which time several notable peals have been rung upon them.

Probably many of your readers will remember that I gave an account of these bells, with the full inscriptions on them all in your issue of December 26th, 1913, also what few particulars I was able to glean concerning the old bells before the Fire of 1666.—Yours, etc., J. R. JERRAM.

[There is no truth in the statement that the tenor bell is cracked, but it is believed that two of the others are, and may have to be recast. The whole peal require rehangng. As to the fabric of the tower, this shows some signs of that decay which in the course of years affects London buildings, but there is nothing radically wrong with the structure.—Ed. 'R.W.']

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A very enjoyable and well-attended bye-meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association took place at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, on Saturday, February 26th. Proceedings opened with a touch of Grandsire Triples. It was really funny to watch the antics of some of the members, for the bells require very careful handling; as the Master of the association is fond of saying, 'If you can ring at Whitechapel, you can ring anywhere.' Despite this, however, some excellent touches were rung. At five o'clock the company adjourned to the church, where the Rector, the Rev. J. O. Mayo (a very old and esteemed friend of the association) conducted a short service. The absence of the organist gave the members the opportunity to display their 'basso profundis,' and by the end of the service the Rector was quite convinced that the belfry's gain was the choir's loss.

About 30 members and friends sat down to tea, which the Rector had kindly provided. There being no business meeting, the handbells were brought into use, Stedman and Grandsire Caters and Bob Major being successfully accomplished.

The District Master, Mr. L. Gray, moved a very hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for his kindness, to which the Rector replied in suitable terms.

At eight o'clock a move was made to the tower and the bells were kept busy for an hour.

A BIRTHDAY TOUCH.

On Sunday, February 6th, the Leeds Parish Church ringers rang seven courses of Stedman Cinques on the tower bells in honour of Mr. Harry Brains, who reached his 70th birthday. He was the recipient of the good wishes of the ringers.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

NORTHERN DISTRICT ENTERTAINED AT WITHAM.

A meeting of the Northern District was held on Saturday week at the ancient Church of St. Nicholas, Witham, which dates from the year 1530. Members were present representing the following twenty parishes, viz.: Earls Colne, Braintree, Rayne, Stebbing, Great Bentley, Wormingford, Maldon, Dunmow, Sible Hedingham, Great Bardfield, Greenstead Green, Black Notley, Great Yeldham, Chelmsford, Witham, Wethersfield, Terling, Little Waltham, Feering and Ardleigh. The usual Ringers' Office was said in the church by the Rev. N. Hagger, who also gave a very interesting and helpful address.

At the close of the service, the ringers adjourned to the Church House, where a bountiful tea had been provided for them, through the generosity of Miss Eyre, sister of the late general secretary of the association, the Rev. H. T. W. Eyre. The Rev. N. Hagger occupied the chair, and a company of 47 was present.

The usual business meeting was presided over by the District Master, Mr. Frank Claydon, who was supported by the Master of the association, Mr. C. H. Howard, Mr. W. J. Nevard (Master of the North-Eastern District) and Mr. L. W. Wiffen.

Three new members were elected, including Mr. J. P. Fidler as a life member.

It was decided that, subject to the approval of the authorities, the next meeting be held at Felstead, and, failing that, at Stebbing.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded, on the proposition of Mr. C. H. Howard, to the Vicar for allowing the use of the bells, the Rev. N. Hagger for taking the service and for his helpful address, also to the organist. Mr. Howard also moved a very hearty vote of thanks to Miss Eyre for her kindness and generosity in providing the tea, and this was carried with acclamation.

During the afternoon and evening, touches were rung in the tower in most of the standard methods, and the thanks of those present are due to Mr. Andrew Evers for his splendid arrangements both for the ringing and the tea.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

We will let Hearne tell the tale in his own words:—

Thursday, May 24th, 1733—On Whit-Sunday last (May 13th) came to Oxford on foot fifteen ringers from London, and the day before came on horseback, one Mr. Skelton, about 14 or 15 years ago, a Commoner of Queen's College, Oxford, and an excellent ringer, and at this time Register to the Bishop of London (Gibson) and a proctor in the Arches. The next day being Monday, May 14th, the Oxford ringers gave them a short peal at Magdalen College, as they did in the evening a short one at Christ Church, the Londoners laying still that day that they might refresh themselves after the fatigues of their journey. On Wednesday, May 16th, they began to ring at Christ Church in the morning a quarter or more before twelve, and they rang till two most incomparably well, when the gudgeons being bad, the biggest bell (that is the tenth) fell down, but not through the loft, otherwise they proposed to have rung 5,040 changes.

Wednesday, May 16th, in the evening, they rang upon the eight bells at Magdalen College, but two or three ropes breaking, they could not proceed above half an hour.

On Thursday, May 17th, they began to ring at New College, proposing to ring the said number of changes, viz., 5,040, there. They began a little before twelve, and rang about three-quarters of an hour, when one of the ropes broke, and so they were stopped. Afterwards they dined at Weers beyond Friar Bacon's Study, and some (if not all) of them, stepping over to Ifley, they rang the six bells there (viz., 700 changes upon them).

The next day being Friday, May 18th, they were resolved to ring the above mentioned number of 5,040 changes upon New College ten bells, as they had begun to do before. Accordingly, they began a little before twelve, and rang full two hours in the morning, wanting two minutes, when the ropes broke, and put a stop to the peal, for which all were very sorry, as they were at the fall of the great bell at Christ Church. For their ringing at both places, as elsewhere, was most surprisingly fine, without the least fault from beginning to end, such as never was before in Oxford, and 'tis a scandal that the bells should not be in good order. Saturday, May the 19th, they went out of town.

Tuesday, July 9th, 1734.—Anno 1733 came out in London, a little book in 12's, being the third edition of Campanalogia or the Art of Ringing. One Annables is now putting out a new edition of the same book, which 'tis said will be the best of its kind that ever was printed on that subject. The said Annables is one of the London ringers that rang at Oxford at Whitsuntide in 1733. He rang the ninth bell, and is judged to understand ringing as well if not better than any man in the world.

On Tuesday, May 22nd, the great bell at Christ Church was got up again, and in the evening the Oxford men rang all ten, and endeavoured to imitate the Londoners, but they were soon out, and made poor of it in comparison with the others.

Hearne does not give the names of the ringers, nor the conductor, nor the method they rang. It is pretty certain, however, that Grandsire Caters was rung. As we shall see later, it was soon after this much practised at Oxford, and it was a method to which Annable had given much attention. He was the first man who discovered the musical qualities of the Tittum position. In the older compositions the big bells were mixed up without much regard for the musical effect.

The little book mentioned as published in 1734 was one of the editions of 'Campanalogia' by J. D. and C. M. The advance of ringing was so rapid that it was out of date at the time it appeared, and it was natural that Benjamin Annable, who was himself the leading authority on the art, should have thought of issuing a book of his own. Unfortunately, he never carried out his intention. It could hardly fail to have been a very valuable and interesting book. In the British Museum there is a manuscript of his which is evidently a draft of part of this book. It contains a large number of six-bell methods carefully written in an excellent handwriting. It has also a good many notes of eight-bell ringing, but these are much more roughly written, and evidently he did not get so far as to begin to arrange this part. Or, if he did, it is now lost.

Hearne's opinion of Annable's abilities as a ringer were shared by all his contemporaries. No man has ever occupied a more commanding position in the Exercise than he did. It was his abilities, his energy and his genius as a leader that gave the College Youths the position they held for so many years.

'MUSIC' IN MAJOR METHODS.

A writer in the recently published 'Surprise Methods' makes the following statement in regard to 'music' in change ringing: 'With the tenor turned in, if we can bring ourselves squarely, honestly and impartially to face the question, it is difficult to see how we can fairly use the epithet "musical" in any true sense of the word. Certainly some rows are less unmusical than others. But this is not saying much. The only salvation of even-bell ringing is an absolutely even beat, with punctilious keeping of leads. Otherwise, all rhythm is gone, and no one can tell where the rows begin or end. No. The writer at least is fain to confess that real "music" is conspicuous by its absence in even-bell ringing.' On the question of striking everyone will agree; on the question of 'music' most ringers, we think, will violently disagree. It is true that ringers who seldom ring even-bell methods often see no beauty in the rhythm of ringing with the tenor-in, but those who are accustomed to even-bell ringing can find a great deal of music in it. The indictment of even-bell ringing from the 'musical' standpoint will not, of course, perturb the Exercise, but those who appreciate Major ringing will rub their eyes to read the opinion that 'a row ending in 8, 2 is no worse than a row ending in 8 followed by any other bell, and in the row before and after it, if we have 2, 8, the tenor is last, the row is a musical one, and it matters not which bell is in 7th's.' This, surely, is diametrically opposed to all present conceptions, for if there is one thing which is aimed at by modern composers and demanded by conductors it is peals without the second with the tenor.

Another point on the subject, mentioned in this new volume, with which modern ideas are not altogether in accord, is that Cambridge Surprise is a 'hopelessly unmusical method.' This was the opinion expressed by the late Sir Arthur Heywood, but the condemnation of Cambridge on this score and on the more serious ground of its irregular construction, has had no effect on the practice of the method. Cambridge has supplanted Superlative in popular esteem, and, we think, for more than one reason; not only is the 'work' more varied, and therefore more interesting, but it is realised that the music is not so abominable after all, in comparison with the sister method. There are very few peals of Superlative in which the 2nd is less with the tenor than in the 5,056 of Cambridge, and we are rather surprised that the old prejudices against Cambridge should have been expressed without modification in a work published at this period.

Although having no connection with the 'music' of a method, there is in the new book considerable condemnation also for a structural feature which is described as 'backhanders,' meaning places made at back and hand, instead of hand and back strokes. To the purist London Surprise may be structurally 'lamentable' by reason of 'backhanders,' but this form of place making does not affect the interest in the ringing; and without it we should have no method like Bristol, which, in the opinion of experts, is capable of producing more 'musical' changes in a peal than any other method in the Surprise class. There is a little difficulty in 'Surprise Methods' in ascertaining whose views one is reading on these subjects, but they are hardly compatible with the opinions held to-day by most of the experienced practical ringers accustomed to even-bell ringing.

BARNSELY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

A monthly meeting was held at South Kirby on Saturday, March 12th, when the following towers were represented: Barnsley, Darton, Darfield, Arkey, Ackworth, Cawthorne, Crofton, Sandal, Felkirk, Wath, and a good muster of the local company. The bells were ringing with slight intervals from 3 p.m. to 8.40 p.m. in a great variety of Minor methods. Tea was kindly provided at the Rose and Crown Inn in a very welcome manner, and was duly appreciated and enjoyed by the visitors.

The business meeting was held in the belfry, Mr. J. W. Moxon, president, being in the chair. Two new members, Messrs. George Dean and Robert Webster, were elected, and it was decided to join in a combined meeting in June with the Southern Division of the Yorkshire Association, Sheffield and District Society, and Barnsley and District Association.

The next monthly meeting is to be held at Penistone.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Rev. F. G. Greenstreet, Vicar, also churchwardens and members of local company.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD. DEVIZES BRANCH.

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Bishop's Lavington on Saturday, March 5th. Unfortunately the weather was very wet and, in consequence, the attendance was small. The usual Guild service was held, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. P. Sexty. Tea was provided in the Bishop's Lavington Sports Club Hall, to which 19 sat down.

After tea, a short business meeting was held, the chairman of the branch, Mr. C. D. Heginbotham, presiding.

With reference to South Wrexall bells, the Chairman stated he had sent a letter to the local papers, and had heard nothing further about the matter.

The Chairman also brought forward the advisability of having a representative of the Guild on the Bishop's Advisory Committee, in the event of any alterations or repairs being done to the bells in the diocese.—A discussion followed, but no vote was taken on the matter.

Mr. S. J. Hector, Trowbridge, suggested the advisability of arranging for combined practices on the ten bells at Trowbridge.

On the proposition of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. S. J. Hector, it was decided for the secretary to write a letter of congratulation to Mr. H. Brownlee West, of Devizes, a former secretary of the branch, and now one of the vice-presidents, on the occasion of his diamond wedding, which was March 2nd.

The Chairman reported the receipt of a letter from the secretary of the All Cannings Bells Restoration Committee thanking the branch for the subscription sent, also one from the Rev. S. M. Davys, Vicar of Urchfont, and Rural Dean, stating he had decided to give a collection once a year for the funds of the branch, and also to hold a service for ringers at Urchfont once during the year.

On the motion of the Chairman, the Vicar was thanked for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, also the organist. The Rev. P. Sexty, in reply, said how pleased he was to welcome the branch to Bishop's Lavington, and also expressed regret that the local ringers were prevented from coming to the meeting in consequence of illness and other causes. He said how much he appreciated the work the bell-ringers did for the church, who, although they were not seen at their work, like the choir who appeared in their robes, yet their services were none the less real. He hoped the branch would soon hold another meeting there.

Ringers present included Mr. J. T. Dyke, Chilcompton (hon. secretary of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association), and members from Devizes (St. John's and St. Mary's), Southbroom, Potterne, Trowbridge, Bratton, Rowde, Holt, Bishop's Lavington, Market Lavington, Erelstone, Bradford-on-Avon and Bromham.

Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Minor were rung during the afternoon and evening.

Bishop's Lavington Church is a beautiful and interesting building, and includes work of the late twelfth and the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. The Dauntsey Chapel is built on the south aisle, and the Beckett Chapel on the south side of the chancel. The bells are a light ring of six and were cast by James Wells, of Aldbourne, Wilts. in 1810.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Dunster Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Association was held at Timberscombe recently, when nearly 70 members were present. The towers represented were: Minehead, Dunster, Carhampton, Old Cleeve, Porlock, Selworthy, Wootton Courtenay, Exford, Withypool, Winsford, Exton, Dulverton, and Timberscombe. The clergy present were the Rev. T. S. Dawson, Carhampton (chairman of the branch), H. H. Bell (Timberscombe), A. P. Lance (Wootton Courtenay), R. A. W. Newman (Withypool), H. P. Boulton (Exton), and J. C. L. Isard (Minehead).

Several of the members on their arrival found their way to the belfry chamber, and touches were rung on the eight bells. Ringing continued until 4.15 p.m., when the customary service was held in the church. It was conducted by Mr. Bell, and the choir were present. Lady Constance Ryder presided at the organ, the Rev. T. S. Dawson read the lesson, and the address was given by the Rev. R. A. W. Newman.

Tea, kindly provided by the Parochial Church Council, was served in the schoolroom, and afterwards the chairman of the branch expressed on behalf of the members their appreciation of the hospitality accorded them, of the excellent tea, and of the kindness of the ladies who had attended upon them, and moved a vote of thanks to this effect, which was seconded and carried with hearty applause.—The Rev. H. H. Bell, responding on behalf of the ladies and Church Council, voiced the pleasure which they at Timberscombe felt that the ringers should have come there for their annual meeting, especially now that they had their full octave of bells, of which they felt very proud. Referring to the address which Mr. Newman had given at the service, Mr. Bell said he had given them a very high ideal of what ringers should be. They could help very much to build up church life in the parish.

Before entering upon the business meeting, the company spent a few pleasant minutes listening to a very capable performance on a peal of handbells by Mr. A. Bryant, a young member of the Old Cleeve band, and, as was evident, a keen enthusiast in this respect. He rang first a course of Bob Triples, which elicited a storm of applause and some warm words of appreciation from Mr. G. Stacey (hon. secretary of the branch) and Mr. Bell. As an encore, he rang a course of Bob Major, and his tapping performance again brought another hearty round of applause.

The first business of the annual meeting, over which Mr. Dawson presided, was to receive the annual report and accounts for 1926. The annual report, which Mr. Stacey read, stated that there had been an average attendance of 50 members at the four meetings held during the year. Thanks were due to the clergy and the Church Councils of the places visited, viz., Dunster, Selworthy, Exford, and Dulverton, for the welcome extended and for providing teas free. The branch had made thirty new performing members and two honorary members, bringing the total membership for the deanery up to 190 (applause). Several members were falling behind with their subscriptions, and unless they paid up there would be a reduction of members for another year. 'We have to congratulate Timberscombe,' continued the report, 'on their having added two new trebles, making an octave of the peal, also Old Cleeve band on their ringing their first peal of Triples with the aid of a conductor only.' The report concluded with a word of regret at the loss, through departure from the district, of the Rev. H. G. McTaggart, Rector of Monksilver.

The statement of accounts showed receipts totalling £7 19s., of which £6 was transmitted to the diocesan secretary.

On the motion of Mr. G. Atkins (Minehead), seconded by Mr. H. Holloway (Dulverton), the report and accounts were passed.

The Rev. T. S. Dawson was re-elected chairman, and Mr. G. Stacey hon. secretary, both being heartily thanked for their services to the branch.

Mr. W. A. Hawkins was reappointed hon. auditor, and Mr. W. Hoyle, who has done excellent work in teaching bands on Exmoor, was elected Ringing Master, Mr. J. Farmer offering to retire in his favour.

Mr. H. Phillips (Timberscombe) was re-elected representative to the Diocesan Committee.

Several new members were proposed and elected, viz., Rev. A. P. Lance (honorary), and Messrs. E. Calloway (Monksilver), H. Perry, T. Powell, W. Sawyer (Exford), Gregory and Crookford (Wootton Courtenay), G. French (Dulverton), W. Bowden and F. Milton (Withypool), J. Summerhayes (Dunster), T. Elford and E. Hooper (Timberscombe), and J. Foster (Porlock) as ordinary members.

Minehead was selected for next meeting. Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar of Timberscombe, the Parochial Church Council, organist, and the blower at the service, Mr. Newman for his address, the ladies who helped with the tea, and everyone who had helped to make the meeting so successful.—Hearty applause endorsed the thanks, which Mr. Bell acknowledged. Thanks were also accorded to the chairman and the retiring officers, and afterwards there was further ringing, touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples and Bob Major being brought round.

BEGINNERS IN DEVON.

At Bradninch, Devon, on Friday, March 11th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles: J. Elworthy 1, B. Grater 2, F. W. Glanville 3, E. C. Edwards 4, R. Harris 5, C. Thresher 6. The ringers of 1st and 2nd belong Tiverton, the rest are members of the newly-formed local band, who have only been studying change ringing during the last six months.

ENCOURAGEMENT (?) OF LEARNERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I, too, can agree with the remarks of Mr. James H. Hales and Mr. Percy Amos in recent issues of 'The Ringing World.'

In South-West Middlesex there are certain ringers whose sole idea of ringing is to visit periodically certain towers for quarter-peals on Sundays and peals on week-days. All they require on these visitations is apparently a local man to ring the treble and another the tenor, but on practice nights (if a practice is held at all) these ringers are conspicuous by their absence. How, then, I ask, can such ringers be said to be promoting the art?

Progress, in my humble opinion, should be judged by the capabilities of local bands as a whole, but in looking round this corner of Middlesex what do we find performed by the locals for Sunday service? As far as I can ascertain it is more or less as follows: Sunbury, Hampton Keltam, Staines (St. Mary's), Uxbridge, Harmondsworth, Harlington, Norwood Green, Isleworth, Brentford and Chiswick, all ring call changes or have no ringing at all; Twickenham, Grandsire Doubles or call changes; Staines (St. Peter's) and Hounslow, Grandsire Triples; Heston, Stedman; Acton and Ealing (St. Mary's), Kent Treble Bob; Hillingdon, Grandsire Caters.

There is evidently much room for improvement, both in quality and quantity of ringing, and I would suggest to our association that we had much less quarter-peal 'stunting' and a little more interest taken in the practices at the various towers. Even for Sunday service ringing, learners might be helped to struggle with the inside work if the older ringers would only attend the belfries regularly and put their backs into the teaching.

'ROBERT SINGLE.

BARROW-UPON-SOAR CHURCH BELLS REHUNG.

The peal of five bells in the tower of Holy Trinity Church, Barrow-upon-Soar, Leicestershire, has just been rehung by John Taylor and Co., and last Thursday the peal was informally reopened. A few ringers from Loughborough met the local band in the tower, and several well-struck six-scores of Grandsire and Stedman were rung, everyone being delighted with the ease with which the bells go.

The tenor bell is 14 cwt., and the peal is now hung on modern principles, with hall bearings, and the local ringers were amazed at the wonderful difference between the old heavy going and the present smooth-running peal, as the bells can now almost be rung by a silk cord.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTH BUCKS BRANCH.

A quarterly meeting of the North Bucks Branch was held at Swanbourne on Saturday, March 5th, but owing to the inclement weather the attendance was very poor and very much below the usual average of the meetings of this branch. The object of visiting Swanbourne was to get the tower into union with the branch. The local ringers met the members and also attended a short service conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. R. C. Forrest, R.D.). Tea had been provided for rather more than those that attended, so a little deficit had to be made up.

After tea was over, the Secretary (Mr. W. Sear) explained the object of visiting Swanbourne, and regretted that owing to the weather so small a number was present, but he hoped that the local ringers would become members of the Oxford Guild, as it was essential that interest should be maintained from the ringers' point of view, and that they should support the ringing organisations.

The Vicar said that he was pleased to welcome the North Bucks Branch to Swanbourne, and promised to assist all he could. He said that he would become an honorary member that day.—The local ringers present agreed to become members, after having a meeting with a view to taking up change ringing. The Secretary promised that he would assist them all he could after their tower had come into union with the branch.

The ringing was not by any means up to the usual standard owing to the shortage of members, but good work was done amongst the local men, and several were put through 120 Grandsire Doubles, which left a favourable impression, and facilitated the object for which the meeting was held. A very welcome, but unexpected, visitor in the person of Mr. J. H. Shepherd, of Swindon, appeared on the scene, and thereby enabled one or two more touches of Bob Major to be accomplished. The Secretary proposed the usual vote of thanks to the Vicar, ringers and persons responsible for the catering, which brought an interesting meeting to a close.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are supplying a chime of ten bells (tenor 7 cwt.) for St. James' Church, Selby, to commemorate the diamond jubilee of the church, 1867-1927.

The rededication of the restored ring of ten bells at St. Giles', Camberwell, last week, was marked by extraordinary scenes of enthusiasm on the part of the parishioners. The great church, which seats 1,700 people, was crowded to excess, and hundreds remained outside to hear the bells.

The officials of the London County Association took part in the procession, in which the Mayor and Corporation of Camberwell, and various parochial organisations also took part. The dedication was performed by the Bishop of Southwark.

The bells have been rehung in entirely new fittings by Messrs. Taylor and Co.

It was unfortunate that services at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields prevented the celebration last Monday of the two hundredth anniversary of the first peal on the bells.

On March 22nd, 1734, a peal of 6,876 Grandsire Caters was rung at New College, Oxford. On the same day, in 1802, the Royal Cumberlands rang a peal of 7,104 Treble Bob Maximus at Southwark.

The first peal of Bristol Surprise was rung at Brighton on March 22nd, 1901.

Ninety years ago next Wednesday Elijah Roberts 'tapped' his great length of 19,440 changes of Treble Bob Maximus, beginning at nineteen minutes past four in the morning and finishing at four minutes past five in the afternoon.

The first recorded peal of Reverse Bob Major was rung at Harrietsham, Kent, on March 23rd, 1751, conducted by James Barham.

On the same date in 1783, 5,020 Old Double Caters, 'being the first peal ever rung in that method,' was achieved at Fulham by the College Youths, who on March 24th, 1784, rang 5,160 Double Twelve-in at St. Bride's, Fleet Street.

Apocryphal a peal rung at Wortley in honour of a certain interesting event, it wasn't dear old Uncle Joe who has got hung in an 'iron frame' and tuned on 'Simpleton's principle.' Oh, no; but he sends hearty congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy life to his namesake. May he complete the 'Sixty Course-ends,' is Uncle's wish for him.

Saturday, March 19th, is the Feast of St. Joseph, and we wonder if it will be so for eight of them at 'Brum.'

In the report of the handbell peal of Bob Major rung by the Cambridge University Guild on Ash Wednesday, and reported last week, for Rev. R. Woolley (Caius) read R. v. d. R. Woolley (Caius).

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

NORTH AND EAST DISTRICT AT HOMERTON.

A meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday last at St. Paul's, Glyn Road, Homerton, which church has a light peal of six bells, perched high up in a tower built almost entirely of wood, right over the centre of the main building. Although the attendance was not up to the usual average, some good practice was obtained, and several of the local ringers took part in touches of Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor.

A short service was held at 5.15, when the Rector (Rev. G. Andrews) gave an interesting address on bells and their origin.

After tea, the usual business meeting, presided over by Mr. F. A. Milne, was held, at which five members were elected, including four of the Homerton band.—The Hon. Secretary (Mr. C. T. Coles), in proposing their election, welcomed them into the association, saying that it was a pleasure to find them renewing their allegiance to the society, of which the Homerton band had once before been an important part. He hoped they would be loyal members, and find that the association would be a great help to them.

The Hon. Secretary announced that the annual general meeting would be held at All Saints', Poplar, on April 23rd, also that he had received a letter from Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, who invited the members to a ringers' rally at the Croydon Foundry on April 2nd to celebrate the completion of the greatest set of bells in the world—the carillon for the Victory Tower of the Canadian Houses of Parliament at Ottawa. Particulars would be sent to all towers, and he hoped that members would advise him as quickly as possible of their acceptance of the invitation.

The tower was again visited, and more good practice was obtained, the ringing during the day including touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain and Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

INSTRUCTION BOOKS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to your leading article in 'The Ringing World' of the 4th inst., re instruction book for beginners, would it be possible for the Central Council to get out a book of this sort, the cost of production being subscribed for by the different Guilds and associations, and then supplied at cost price to those who require them?—Yours faithfully,

B. COOK.

"SURPRISE METHODS."THE COMPLETION OF THE SNOWDON SERIES.

The publication of 'Surprise Methods,' which we have recently noted in these columns, completes the work begun by Jasper W. Snowden fifty years ago. It has been a long time to wait, and, useful as the book will be to students, we are afraid that it has lost some, at least, of its value by the long delay. The Minor methods, to which the first part of the book is devoted, have been anticipated by the Central Council's collection, which exhausts the field of six-bell ringing, and the Major is limited to the four popular methods, with the addition of Ipswich as an alternative to Cambridge, which, although fully discussed, is condemned root and branch.

The subject throughout is dealt with in an interesting and instructive manner, as one would expect from such able writers as the late Mr. William Snowden and the Rev. C. D. P. Davies. The former continued and amplified the earlier writings and notes by his lamented brother, and the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, who did so much in regard to 'Grandsire' and 'Stedman,' has, at the request of Mrs. Snowden, carried the work to a conclusion.

Apart from the instructions for ringing the methods themselves, there are skeleton diagrams of all the methods dealt with, instructive chapters on proof, and interesting facts of history with tabulated lists of the known peals of London and Cambridge rung up to the year 1900 and of Superlative up to the year 1893. After these dates, the peals rung became so numerous that it was impossible to detail them, and, as they are recorded in the columns of the ringing press, there was no need; but we think it rather a pity space was not found to record the progressive lengths in the methods, up to the date of the publication of the book, as was done with other methods in the series. The result is that we have no mention of the eight and nine thousands of Superlative, the fourteen thousand of London, and the thirteen and fifteen thousands of Bristol. Curiously, the 12,896 of Cambridge in 1923 is recorded and the composition is given, so that there can have been no objection to dealing with the other methods in the same way on the ground of the limited scope of the book. If another edition is printed, probably this omission will be remedied.

The compositions which are given are mainly historical, and, in view of the vast choice which is now open to conductors in all the methods except Cambridge, this was perhaps a wise line to take, for a selection of modern peals would have been either unrepresentative or too large for practical use. The new publication will be welcomed by all ringers who desire to study the Surprise methods, for it brings together in one volume instructive and valuable information about a number of methods which have not hitherto been extensively dealt with in this manner.

APPLETON ANNIVERSARY.THE BELLS REHUNG.

The 109th anniversary of the completion of a ring of six bells in the Appleton Tower was held this year on Saturday, March 5th. The tower now holds ten bells, as all the world knows, and visitors from various parts enjoyed some good ringing on them during the day.

The firm of White, which was responsible for hanging the bells originally, has recently carried out some skilful work in the tower, with the result that the bells now go better than perhaps they have ever gone. In this connection it is interesting to note that the ninth bell is still on the same bearings on which it has swung for over a hundred years.

Mr. Holfield, the senior member of the band, has also renewed the appearance of the ringing room and of the many and interesting peal record boards.

The company present sat down to a good dinner at the Thatched Tavern (so called because it never was thatched) at 4.30.

In response to the toast of 'The Appleton Society of Change Ringers,' proposed by the Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild (Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn), Mr. Holfield mentioned that Appleton owed its first ring of six to the lord of the manor, who by this gift sought to propitiate the angry villagers for having deprived them of much of their common land.

The feature of the evening's entertainment was, as usual, the tune ringing on 'Appleton horn' handbells by the five brothers White, also 'Appleton horn.' Altogether, it was one of the most enjoyable of many such 'March the Fourth days.'

FORTY YEARS ON.A REMINISCENCE.

It may not be known by many of the younger generation of ringers that a great record was set up at the Goose and Gridiron, a then famous establishment in St. Paul's Churchyard, London, on Friday, March 11th, 1887, when Holt's Original was rung non-conducted in 2 hours 39 mins. by the following members of the Ancient Society of College Youths:

John Christopher Mitchell	1-2
Walter H. L. Buckingham	3-4
Challis F. Winney	5-6
George T. McLaughlin	7-8

Umpires, Messrs. William Baron and George Wild, of the Royal Cumberland Society, Messrs. John W. Rowbotham and Frederick T. Gover of the College Youths.

The footnote says: 'The striking was faultless throughout, and the peal was rung without conducting, no signal being given during the performance and in the presence of competent judges, who pronounced it a masterpiece of intellectual ringing. This is the second non-conducted peal rung in hand.'

The first was Brooks' Variation of Stedman Triples on March 11th, 1854, in 2 hours 41 mins., by the following members of the St. James' Society:

John Cox	1-2
William Coater	3-4
Henry W. Haley	5-6
Matthew A. Wood	7-8

To celebrate the 40th anniversary of Holt's Original, a most enjoyable evening was spent on Friday, March 11th last, when Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, at their Streatham home, right royally entertained Messrs. Buckingham, Winney, Rowbotham, Newton and Cockerill.

After a sumptuous meal, touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major and Stedman Caters were rung on handbells, interspersed with conversation on bygone topics.

As the guests were leaving, hopes were expressed by the worthy host and hostess that a similar gathering may celebrate the jubilee.

RAILWAY CO. PRESENT A PEAL BOARD.UNVEILING AT SHILDON.

On Saturday, March 12th, an interesting ceremony took place in the belfry of St. John's Church, Shildon, Durham, the occasion being the unveiling of a peal board, which had been erected in the belfry to commemorate a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major rung for the centenary of the railway, on July 4th, 1925, the ringers being all in the service of the L.N.E.R.

There was a good number of ringers present from Darlington, Stockton, Bishop Auckland, and members of the local band, and a number of ladies who take an interest in church work (including the belfry) were also present. The Vicar (the Rev. H. B. Watts), in an interesting address, referred to the use of bells; firstly, the miniature bells worn on the garments of priests in the ancient times; secondly, the handbells; and, thirdly, the large bells hung in the tower, showing that the bell for ages has been used as a call to service.

Mr. W. Kirkup, an official of the L.N.E.R., then unveiled the peal board, and the dedication of the board and new furnishings to the belfry was performed by the Vicar. During the afternoon and evening, touches of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, and Bob Major were rung.

The new furnishings include linoleum and centre carpet, both of beautiful design, which gives the spacious and previously well-kept belfry a vastly superior appearance. The cost has been defrayed by a lady church worker. The peal board was given by the L.N.E.R. Company.

ST. SIDWELL'S SOCIETY, EXETER.

St. Sidwell's (Exeter) Society were entertained to supper at the Church Institute by the Rector (Rev. H. Lanyon Owen), on Shrove Tuesday. The company included the Rev. L. G. Rees (curate), Messrs. Helier and Yeo, churchwardens, E. Shepherd and C. Panter, ex-churchwardens, and Mr. Laxton, chairman of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Guild.

After an excellent repast and 'The King' honoured, the Rector expressed his great pleasure in being with his ringers again, and hoped as long as he was Rector to continue this annual social evening and to join them on their summer outing.—Returning thanks, Mr. E. Shepherd said the ringers were very loyal to their church, and by their diligence had become one of the leading bands in the city and county.

Songs were rendered by the Rector, Messrs. Helier and Hunt, a course on the handbells by Messrs. How, Richardson, Drake and Shepherd, and a humorous reading by Mr. Yeo.

The Rector presented to the Society a curious old handbell, inscribed 'Manor of St. Sidwell, 1824,' and hoped they would keep it in the belfry, which Mr. Richardson acknowledged and promised to keep as an interesting relic.—Mr. Shepherd considered this bell was used when the fairs were held in Sidwell Street over a century ago.

A toast to 'The Visitors,' to which Mr. Laxton replied, and the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne' concluded a delightful and harmonious evening.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

PROSPEROUS CONDITION.

The annual meeting of Dudley and District Guild on March 5th drew a large assembly of ringers to St. Thomas' Church. A short service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Canon A. H. Phelps). He based an excellent address on the words 'And the daughter of Zion is left as a cottage in a vineyard, as a lodge in a garden of cucumbers.' These strange words, he said, referred to one of those towers which used to be built when the vine was cultivated, so that a man could go up and see what was going on in the vineyard, and detect any trespassing or stealing. This lodge or tower was a picture of many of the towers in which the bells were rung. How many lonely towers there were in the area of their own association! Neltherton Church tower was lonely and isolated. The church was lodged on the top of a hill, and it could be seen from miles around standing up above everything else. Sedgley, King's Norton, and other towers in the area might be described as being lonely—like 'lodges in gardens of cucumbers.' The towers themselves were often very lonely and shut up from the rest of the church. The tower of Worcester Cathedral appeared almost like a separate church, and towers like St. Thomas' had to be approached from the outside. In one sense, the life of the ringers must be a lonely one while in their towers, because they were cut off from the rest of the building. There must be times when they felt that they were a part by themselves. They, however, must remember that they were parts of one large whole ministering to the whole body of the church, and serving God and their fellow-creatures. Their life in the tower was part of the spiritual life which they were living in their own way, each of them working for the glory of God, yet with a unity which could not fail to have gratifying results. Very heartily he welcomed them that afternoon in the old mother church, and hoped they would go away with new aspiration for their future efforts.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The annual meeting was held in one of St. Thomas' schoolrooms. The president of the Guild (Canon A. H. Phelps) occupied the chair, and was supported by Mr. Harry Mason and Mr. Hugh Watson (vice-presidents) and the officials of the Guild.

After a substantial tea, provided by funds subscribed by members of St. Thomas' congregation, and admirably served by a contingent of ladies, the hon. secretary (Mr. Herbert Sheppard) presented a report of last year's activities. He said the membership had increased, and financially the Guild was still in a prosperous condition, the balance on hand in February last being £10 4s. 3½d., compared with £7 16s. 5½d. in the corresponding month last year.

Mr. Mason congratulated the officials and the members on the very favourable report and balance sheet, and these were afterwards unanimously adopted.

Canon Phelps was again appointed president.

The vice-presidents were re-elected, and the Vicar of Rowley added to the existing number.

At this point Canon Phelps had to vacate the chair to keep another appointment, and was succeeded by Mr. Mason, who proposed that Canon Phelps be accorded a vote of thanks. He (Mr. Mason) for many years had been coming to meetings at Dudley, and could assure them the members of the Guild always had a very hearty reception from Canon Phelps, whose smiling face it was always a pleasure to see. Canon Phelps had not only conducted services in the church, but did everything he could to make their meetings a success.—The proposition was unanimously carried, and Canon Phelps appropriately acknowledged it.

Mr. J. Goodman, jun., was re-elected Ringing Master, Messrs. F. Evans (Sedgley) and T. Justice (Bilston) hon. auditors, and Mr. S. J. Hughes hon. treasurer and Central Council representative. Mr. H. Sheppard was re-elected hon. secretary.

Mr. Sheppard expressed appreciation of the continued confidence of the members, and the business ended with a vote of thanks to all who had in any way contributed to the success and enjoyability of the proceedings.

OVER SIXTY YEARS A RINGER.

Death has recently claimed one who for 62 years gave of his best in the cause of ringing. The passing of Mr. Frederick Hancock, of Eckington, Derbyshire, leaves a gap which will be hard to fill. Learning to ring at the age of 17, he acquired a reputation for being always at his post, and early, thus setting an example worthy of all men, particularly ringers, who depend so much on each other.

Though his ringing capabilities were chiefly confined to the treble, he was a safe man in that position. The records he leaves behind show that he spared neither time nor pains in following the art. It was not until two years ago, when his wife died, that it became noticeable that he was breaking up, and his bereavement certainly left its mark upon him. It was not, however, until October, 1926, that he failed to appear at his post in the belfry, for while he could just hobble and walk, with one hand on the wall, he continued to make his appearance. His nerve and sight then failed him; the old hero was compelled at last to hand over his charge to others, in the hope that they would keep the old bells ringing.

WEST GRINSTEAD, SUSSEX.—On Thursday, March 10th, 720 London Surprise: V. Turrell 1, F. Turrell 2, G. Warnett 3, V. Goacher (first 720 in the method) 4, G. Steele 5, W. Denman (conductor) 6.

INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Mr. J. P. Armstrong's letter in your issue of the 11th inst., following your editorial, is also 'good as far as it goes,' but it does not go far enough.

There is only one place to learn the practical side of ringing, and that is in the tower, and instructors, as a rule, are fairly good, practically. Given ropesight, there is no more (to a ringing aspirant) in learning elementary change ringing than in a child learning his 'ten-times table'—parrotwise; he does what he is told to do.

To continue Mr. Armstrong's analogy, it is not sufficient to teach the child to know 'twice ten are twenty.' Show him that, given two piles of ten, when counted straight through make twenty, and his application of common sense will help him to discover what three piles of ten are equal to. Interest him in the reason why, and if he keeps he will go on. Granted, he must be taught how to count onwards first, and here is your 'practice.'

Generally speaking, instructors are not good, theoretically. As an instance, the recent articles published on 'splicing,' where it was assumed that a man is ignorant of the method of tracing the path of a bell through the course, from the figures of the first lead, a detailed explanation being given, immediately to be followed with the lead-ends of a 720, without a word of explanation as to how these were arrived at. Either the former was unnecessary, or the latter a sad omission.

Mr. Armstrong's strictures on 'The Ringing World,' again are good 'as far as they go,' but how far? The editorial comment is pertinent, but (please forgive me) beside the point; instruction of the amateur is required, and not the practical gardener, which, rightly, he contends is hardly the work of a newspaper.

We must not lose sight of the Editor's point of view. He must cater for everybody—the more for the majority of his subscribers, the less for the minority (space for number). If more peal-space sends up his circulation, then he is justified in increasing it. He is unable to please everybody, and, naturally, the majority win.

Having attained the maximum for the majority, he turns to the minority, and here is our opportunity. Divided into two classes, who is more likely to buy 'The Ringing World' to learn? The round ringer in his desire to ring Doubles, or the change ringer in his desire to know why? Of the two, unquestionably the latter; but the Editor must have some grounds for supposing that this class of subscriber will be pleased with his innovation. Convince him of this, and he will do it quickly enough. It is up to you—you thousands of ringers who cannot prick out a touch by the lead-ends—to write to the Editor and tell him so. Give him a chance to know what you want, and what you will support, and he will get it all right. Tell him that you want something simpler than the books—that you cannot fully understand them, and he will give it to you. I happen to know that he likes the suggestion, but naturally he must be sure of his ground, because popular space has got to give way.

Believe me, this epistle is no effort at 'whitewash' on the part of a friend of the Editor, and if published will emphasise his candour in publishing Mr. Armstrong's letter; it is penned by a bitter opponent of 'bigger circulation, better results,' for I am a firm believer in 'better results bring bigger circulation'; but justice is justice. Give the Editor a lead, tell him what you want (it will only cost 1½d.), and if the demand warrants it you will get it; but you must all demand.

The Editor has already reviewed some articles by the writer on the above lines, and, rightly, has judged them to be unsuitable; it is difficult to make the written word simple enough. Proof positive that he is interested in the beginner. It may be that one day more will be submitted and published, and this is the sole reason for the anonymous signature, the criticisms being written in the honest endeavour for betterment.

It is the 'learners' job to prove that such articles would be welcomed, and the ventilation of the views of the gentlemen who have recently discussed these matters in conference would encourage the learners to 'demand' such articles by letter and then to buy the paper to support such an innovation.

Space used in such a discussion is no waste, Mr. Editor, and I offer no apology.

MINORMANIA.

LOST SENSE OF PROPORTION.

Dear Sir,—While quite agreeing with your correspondent, J. P. Armstrong, that some standardised system of instruction is necessary, I must say that he seems to lose all sense of proportion or fairness when blaming 'The Ringing World' for the lack of this, and the last paragraph of his letter amounts almost to an insult, as you have always gone out of your way (to a certain extent) to forward the interests of the Exercise.—Yours faithfully,

W. RUMSEY.

TENBY.—On Thursday, March 3rd, to mark the occasion of the enthronement of the Bishop of St. David's, the ringers of St. Mary's rang a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes) in 46 mins.: Rev. F. A. Oswell (first attempt in Triples) 1, T. Yeomans (first attempt on inside bell) 2, Geo. Jenkins 3, Wm. Jenkins 4, J. John 5, H. Jenkins 6, T. W. Griffiths (conductor) 7, J. Williams 8. All are usual Sunday ringers.

DEATH OF VETERAN YORK RINGER. FIFTY YEARS AT THE MINSTER.

As briefly recorded in our last issue, the death has taken place of Mr. Thomas Henry Haigh, who for 53 years was a bellringer and for more than half a century was connected with York Minster. Mr. Haigh, who was 74 years of age, obtained a grounding in the art at Clifton Church, and joined the Minster Company in 1875. Here he came under the influence of the late Mr. W. B. Howard, who did so much during his long life to help youthful ringers.

There were many good ringers at the Minster in those days, and Mr. Haigh rapidly made progress. He joined the Yorkshire Association in 1885, and retained his membership for the remainder of his life. On March 2nd, 1875, he became a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and rang with them in London. He was also for many years a member of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association, and had a lot of friends among the ringers of North Yorkshire.

His record of peals as shown in the 1924-25 report of the Yorkshire Association is 45, and of some of these he was the conductor. These included peals at York, Selby, Beverley, Hull, Knaresborough, Darlington, Newcastle and Scarborough.

Mr. Haigh took part in the last peal rung at St. Martin's, Coney Street, on October 9th, 1888. He was one of the band that rang the last peal at Selby Abbey (September 8th, 1906) before the bells were destroyed in the great fire in the following October; he took part in the first peal on the new ring at Eserick, on April 24th, 1926; and he conducted the last peal rung at York Minster (Grandsire Caters, 5,129 changes) on November 9th, 1892.

In his earlier days at York Minster Mr. Haigh used to ring at the heavy end, but latterly most of his ringing had been done on the treble, but wherever his position, his work was always good. No one was more pleased than he when it became known that the Minster bells were to be re-hung and tuned, and it was surely an unkind trick of fate that the only time he should be able to ring on them after their restoration was on the dedication day, August 28th, 1926 (he rang the treble at the opening), as he was taken ill a few days later, and had never been able to visit the tower since.

The Exercise is the poorer for his passing, and the sympathy of ringers up and down the country will be extended to his relatives.

The funeral took place on Saturday, March 5th, the first part of the service being held in the Minster Choir and being largely attended, for Mr. Haigh was well known throughout the city.

The clergy who took part were the Very Rev. the Dean of York (Dr. Lionel Ford), Canon C. C. Bell and the Rev. H. Spence (chamberlain). Mr. Spence read the committal sentences at York Cemetery. The coffin was met at the south door by the clergy, who were preceded by the cross-bearer.

The chief mourners were Mrs. T. Haigh (widow), Mr. and Mrs. H. Haigh (son and daughter-in-law), Mr. T. Haigh (son), Mr. and Mrs. A. Haigh, Mr. J. Haigh, Miss Minnie Haigh (niece), Mr. W. Haigh, Mr. and Mrs. R. Haigh, Messrs. C. and T. Haigh (nephews), Mr. and Mrs. Leadley, Mrs. Baker (niece), and Miss Snaith.

The York Minster Society were represented by Mr. G. Horner (secretary), Mr. A. Horner, Mr. W. Fountain, and Mr. H. N. Imeson, and the following members acted as bearers:—Mr. T. Hodgson, Mr. S. Steele, Mr. A. C. Fearnley, Mrs. T. F. Earnshaw, Mr. E. Rickitt and Mr. G. Worth. Representing the Yorkshire Association were Mr. Percy Johnson (Leeds), secretary, and Mr. L. Woodcock (Morton). The York Cricket and Bowling Club, the Burton Lane Club and Institute, of which Mr. Haigh was a life member, were also represented, and there was a large attendance of sympathetic friends.

A course of Grandsire Triples was rung at the graveside by: E. Rickitt 1-2, A. C. Fearnley 3-4, T. F. Earnshaw 5-6, and H. N. Imeson 7-8.

MUFFLED BELLS.

On Monday, March 7th, at St. Alkmund's Church, Derby, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung in 50 mins. with the bells half-muffled as a tribute to a tribute of respect to the late Mr. E. Coates, a highly esteemed member of the church, whose funeral took place earlier in the day: H. K. Waterfield 1, A. Mould 2, R. Boulton 3, G. Freebrey (conductor) 4, J. Bailey 5, G. H. Robinson, sen., 6, P. H. Tate 7, G. Robinson, jun., 8.

At Wingham, Kent, on Sunday, March 6th, for morning service, 720 Bob Minor with 7-8 covering: H. Chandler 1, H. Bates 2, H. Smith 3, L. Honess 4, J. Sharp 5, F. Fairbread (conductor) 6, L. Levey 7, A. Scarff 8. First 720 by treble (aged 14 years) and 2nd ringers. Rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect for the late Rev. J. M. Fox, a former Vicar of the parish, who was interred in the churchyard the previous day.

At Fulbourn, Cambs, on Thursday, February 24th, a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob (1,440 changes), with 7th bell covering: E. Webb 1, Charles Hall 2, John Giddens 3, Joseph Page 4, Arthur Page 5, B. D. Buttress (conductor) 6, J. Stanley 7. Rung on the occasion of the funeral of George David Bridge, who had been a ringer for over 25 years with the Fulbourn band, with the bells fully muffled.

At Southwell Cathedral, on Friday, January 21st, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: E. H. Clulow 1, G. E. Padgett 2, G. E. Foster 3, F. Pickard 4, H. F. Clulow 5, E. Foster 6, A. J. Chamberlain (conductor) 7, W. D. Shortrose 8. Rung with the bells half-muffled as a last token of respect to the late Rev. S. Gould, senior curate at the Minster, who was interred that day.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

The pre-Lent meeting was held at Lanchester in beautiful weather. The committee meeting was held at the King's Head Hotel, presided over by the president (Mr. C. L. Routledge).

Messrs. Routledge, Payne, and Ferry were elected to act as committee to revise the rules and submit them at the annual meeting. It was proposed that the date of the annual meeting be altered to bring it to more genial weather. This will also be brought up at the annual meeting.

Tea was afterwards held at the same place, the president presiding, supported by the Vicar (the Rev. L. Heatherington), the hon. secretary, hon. treasurer, the vice-president for the Western District and others, 21 sitting down.

There was no business to transact, but after the toast to 'The King,' a vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for helping in the arrangements for tea, to which the Vicar responded. Touches of Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung on the handbells.

The tower was then visited again. The ringing on the tower bells varied from Bob Doubles (with some locals taking part) to London Surprise Minor, and was kept going from about 3 to 8 p.m.

The following towers were represented: Durham Cathedral and St. Oswald's, St. Ignatius', Sunderland, Newcastle Cathedral and St. George's, Gosforth, Tanfield, Winklaton, St. John's, Newcastle, Chester-le-Street, Houghton-le-Spring and Gateshead. Some 32 or 33 ringers (including the locals) took part in the ringing.

The hon. secretary has received a very kind invitation from Mr. Cyril F. Johnston, for any members of the association to visit Greydon for a ringers' rally on Saturday, April 2nd, to hear and inspect the carillon for the Victory Tower at Ottawa. The carillon consists of 53 bells, total weight 53 tons, weight of tenor (or bass bell) 10 tons. Mr. Ferry will be pleased to furnish full particulars to any of the members of the association who are able to accept the invitation if they will communicate with him at 16, Gordon Avenue, Gosforth, Newcastle.

A PILGRIMAGE AND AN 'APPRECIATION.'

An excursion was arranged by the Supporters' Club of the Plymouth team early in the year for the match between Plymouth Argyle and Coventry City at Coventry. The date was February 19th, 1927. The 'Henry Johnson' Commemoration Dinner to be held before Lent, and generally in February. Would the fates be kind, and the dinner and football match coincide? The notice of the dinner in 'The Ringing World' was eagerly awaited, and you can imagine the joy when February 19th was the date selected.

On Friday night, February 18th, four eager ringers left Plymouth at 11.40 p.m. Coventry was reached at 7.10 a.m. on the 19th. After a vain and fruitless search to get some breakfast (the excursionists had filled every available cafe which happened to be open), we left for Birmingham. On account of a fog, this trip of 18 miles took 1 hour 20 minutes. We soon found the Cobden Cafe and some breakfast. Outside the cafe at 11.30 we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Walker and Mr. James George, who had arranged for several ringers to meet us Plymouthians.

St. Chad's was the first tower, and Stedman and Double Norwich were rung, the latter a treat for the visitors, as we get very few opportunities to ring this musical method. The pleasure of ringing a fairly long touch was therefore much appreciated. Then came Bishop Ryder's, with Stedman and Kent Treble Bob. Mr. J. George is Ringing Master here, and it is easy to see that he is very proud of being in charge of such a nice peal and such a well-kept ringing chamber. After lunch, St. John's, Deritend, was visited—more Double Norwich. By this time it was nearly 3 p.m., and one of the chief events of the day was due. As St. John's and St. Martin's are close together, you may be sure we were waiting on the top line at St. Martin's for the opening of that tower. Here we had the pleasure of ringing our first touch of Stedman Cinques, and we sincerely thank those ringers who gave us the opportunity to do so. We then rushed off to St. Phillip's and managed to get a ring on the ten at that tower, back again to St. Martin's in time for the very interesting discussion, 'How to keep beginners interested in ringing.' Some very able suggestions were brought forward, and it is to be hoped that this subject will be brought to the front wherever ringers meet. It was now 'dinner time,' and 'The Ringing World' has told its readers how well the whole affair was managed. Everything went as clockwork, and reflects great credit upon Mr. Walker and his helpers. It is a very good plan when bells require attention to get the Vicar and his wardens to attend such a function as this, as I am sure the appealing speeches of Alderman J. S. Pritchett and Mr. A. Walker will eventually secure for St. Martin's the attention that peal requires. It would be a splendid thing, too, if Mrs. A. Hughes could broadcast some handbell selections, not that broadcasting could do her justice, but her playing was certainly a revelation of the beautiful music which can be got from handbells. At 11 p.m. we took train back to Coventry, and at 12.40 a.m. we left for Plymouth, arriving at 7.30 a.m. Sunday morning—four very tired but happy ringers, two nights out of bed, had travelled roughly 500 miles, but it was worth it all. We appreciate very much the kindness of the ringers who made our trip such a success. The day will stand out as a 'red letter' one for us.

AN EXPLANATION.

Sir,—My attention has been called to the fact that in my recent article I misstated the number of false course ends to Superlative. I ought, of course, to have said: 'The two false course ends together with rounds form a group of three, and are probably so on account of the three steps of the cycle or the three reciprocal cycles.' I regret the error, and am annoyed that I made it.

There may be many who do not understand the full meaning of my article, so I would like to add the following: Each method, especially Treble Bob, has two sorts of shunt. First, those which move the position of the treble only in C.O., and consequently determine the lead head. Secondly, those which alter the positions of bells other than the treble, and having, in the aggregate, no effect on the lead head. The latter may be called additional shunts and are necessary in Treble Bob to prevent repetition of rows. It is essential that the additional shunts should be neutralised in the lead or occur in Q sets, otherwise Plain Bob lead heads could not possibly occur. It, therefore, follows that the additional shunts must have groups of related places or shunts. Each method has its characteristic grouping.

To extend any method, one of the fundamental laws is that the characteristic grouping of the additional shunts of the original must be repeated. As a rule this is either impossible altogether or easy to accomplish, once it has been found. Very occasionally the characteristic grouping has several forms of expression. An outstanding example of this is the Stedman blocks of Bristol Surprise. No amount of argument can prove which of the many forms is correct.

The real difficulty of extension occurs when we have internal shunts with the Treble fixing the lead head. In this case also no amount of argument can decide how many must be used in the extension or, in the event of having only the same number as the original, the positions they should occupy. This is the reason why extensions of methods like Double Norwich and Bristol differ with each, shall I say, 'expert.' The reason why Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge Surprise and Yorkshire Surprise cause no argument is due to the absence of internal shunts with the treble and the more or less fortunate hitting on the correct grouping of the additional shunts where such exist. Superlative, now that I have shown the characteristic grouping of the additional shunts, will be allowed in the near future to have the correct Maximus, as Mr. Geo. Baker gave it a few weeks ago.—Yours truly,

W. TAYLOR.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

FAMOUS COMPOSITION BY OXFORD RINGER.

Years before the visit of Annable and his men, there were good ringers and good ringing at Oxford, but the first peal in the city had yet to be rung. The attempts and the failure of the Londoners were a spur to local ambition, and three days after Annable was gone the tenor at Christ Church was rehung and a peal of Grand-sire Caters started for. But success was not for the Oxford men at that time. 'They were soon out,' Hearne tells us, 'and made poor of it in comparison with the others.' Failure did not dishearten them; they picked out their best men and began to practise in earnest. All of them were townsmen, but it is evidence of the interest taken in ringing by University men that their coach was Mr. Stone, a fellow of Wadham College.

Mr. Stone shares the distinction of being the first ringing parson of whom we have any account with Dr. Mason, who at this same time was ringing at Cambridge. We knew nothing about him except that he was a good ringer, as he would have to be to coach a ten-bell band. The conductor was John Vicars or Vickers, second butler at New College.

In later years this man and his doings were completely forgotten by the Exercise, and yet he fairly earned a definite and honourable place in the history of our art. He was a good ringer, a good conductor, though, as we shall see, he had one lamentable lapse, and a composer of more than usual ability. Hearne, who was a keen critic of ringing matters and by no means prone to distribute praise promiscuously, said of him that 'he is very ingenious in the art of ringing, and is excellent in calling the bobs and managing the music of ringing. I think he is one of the very best in England.'

The peal they attempted and the ones they afterwards rang would be pretty certain to be his composition. What they were like, whether in the tittums, which Annable had recently introduced, or on the older plan of hunts, we do not know—the figures are all lost. But we have evidence from quite another source that Vicars was really a man to be ranked with the early leading composers; for he has the great distinction of being the first man, or at any rate probably the first man, to produce a peal of Grand-sire Triples with ordinary bobs and singles.

At this time, as I have just said, Dr. Mason was ringing at Cambridge. He was a man who was not only interested in practical ringing, but who also collected compositions. Some of his manuscripts still remain in the library of Downing College, and among them are preserved the figures of Garthon's peal and also Vicars' peal. Readers of Jasper Snowdon's history of Grand-sire Triples will remember the description he gives of Mason's MSS. and these two peals. I will quote a short paragraph relating to Vicars' peal. 'This peal is of the greatest interest, and is really a remarkable one; where it came from and who Vicars, the composer, was, unfortunately, there are no means of ascertaining from these volumes, but it is such a wonderful improvement on Garthon's peal and so much better than the one by the unknown author which first appeared in the "Clavis" that it is strange, since it is a true peal, that it should so easily have been forgotten. In Vicars' peal we have what I think there is every reason to believe is the earliest or one of the earliest peals produced by ordinary bobs and singles only.'

And we may add that, not only is it the earliest, but it is the best of all the three-lead-course peals, only Taylor's composition equalling it in the symmetry of the arrangement of the singles.

If there were an earlier peal it would be Annable's, which London tradition erroneously stated was the first in the method. That peal is supposed to have been composed between 1737 and 1739, and it seems likely that Vicars' was earlier. There is no trace of its having been rung in early days, and apart from Dr. Mason's MSS. no reference to it anywhere.

As Mr. Snowdon says, there is nothing in the MSS. to say who Vicars was, and there is no direct evidence that he was the Oxford man. But there can hardly be any reasonable doubt about it. It is not likely that there would be two distinguished composers of the same rather uncommon name living in the early eighteenth century, one of whom left absolutely no trace of his doings.

There was a James Vickers, a member of the Union Scholars, who rang the fifth to the first performance of Holt's Original at St. Margaret's, Westminster, in 1751; but, apart from the fact that he was rather later, he is not at all likely to be the composer. There is no evidence that he was more than a practical ringer. If he had produced the peal the London men would have known of it, and probably it would have been included in the 'Clavis.'

AN ANSWER TO A CRITIC.

Our recent article on books for beginners has had a development which we hardly expected. The attack which has been made upon 'The Ringing World' for being 'much to blame for the existing state of affairs' was, we felt, unwarranted, and we said so, and this week our correspondent, because only one short letter has been published taking him to task for his accusation, pats himself on the back and jumps to the conclusion, apparently, that everyone else agrees with him. For our part he may enjoy whatever satisfaction such a conclusion may give him, but we desire to point out one or two reasons why it is not possible to make a paper like 'The Ringing World' largely a text book of instruction for beginners.

In the first place, it is a journal which is intended to give ringers news of the happenings in the Exercise, to place on record the noteworthy performances, and to bring to notice any new developments in the art. It has always been and still is ready to give what help it can to those anxious to learn, but it cannot be repeatedly telling beginners how to ring Grandsire Doubles, or what not. For information of this kind young ringers must go to the text books and to their instructors. What kind of a course, for instance, would our critic expect us to give? We may know where it should begin; but where should it end? To be logical, it should show the way from rounds to the Surprise stage; or, at any rate, as far as Stedman and Treble Bob. But here comes the difficulty. Begin a series of articles this week; and three months hence there would have come into the Exercise another group of beginners to whom the then current instruction would be useless, because it would be too far advanced. To meet the criticism of our correspondent we should then have to begin another series to meet the needs of the newest recruits, and so the thing, to be consistent, would have to go on ad infinitum, and the paper would become merely an instruction sheet. No, elementary instruction must be gained from other sources. As far as we are able we have published articles to increase the education of the ringer; we have given one series of elementary articles on ringing; more than one on conducting; we have printed numerous papers on composing and others elucidating various points in the theory of the sciences. For the encouragement of beginners we have opened our columns for the publication of 'first' touches, however short their length, but this opportunity has not been taken advantage of to anything like the extent we imagined it would be.

If the claim is to be upheld that it is the duty of 'The Ringing World' to instruct the beginner, it is equally its duty to instruct the more advanced ringer, and yet, while a great deal of what the tyro ought to know can be found in text books, when we publish for the information and education of the advanced members of the Exercise new arguments and material, we are often accused of wasting space on 'experts' that might be more profitably employed, by saying again what is, for instance, already said in 'Ropesight' or 'Troyte,' or by informing the world at large that somebody has rung another six-score of Doubles. In order, however, that the learner may have his chance of becoming interested, we are arranging to publish a series of articles suggested by 'Minormania' in our last issue. It will treat of the very beginnings of the theory of change ringing as viewed by an average ringer and the subject will be dealt with in a simple manner. We hope it will be studied with profit by all who are on the fringe of the art, and especially by those who think their interests have been neglected.

ST. JOSEPH'S DAY.

No, it was not St. Joseph's Day all day in Brum, although eight of the 'saints' did toy for a couple of hours with a method blessed with an awkward 'toperculinery' name. Then St. Martin just popped in to leave his card and assert his right to a day or a bit of it. He changed the courses, and St. Joseph's Day was at an end for those eight. St. Werburgh took 'em home in her basket, soothing them with the advice that they should have had two good labourers to carry the hod for them. Perhaps these two said labourers had an idea they would be wanted, as on a former occasion. Who knows? Anyhow, they both turned up; 'twas the same church, too.

NOTES BY THE WAY. RINGING IN OXFORD TWO CENTURIES AGO. BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The attempt to ring the peal of Grandsire Caters aroused great interest in Oxford. Some people declared that the ringers were trying for more than they could do and the peal would never be rung. This, as was natural at the time, led to a wager. They were to be allowed six attempts, and if they could not do it in them, they were to lose their bet. What the amount was we do not know. Actually they rang it at the first attempt, but the peal was by no means faultless. The worst mistake was not caused by any fault of theirs, but by one of the professors breaking in upon them and trying to stop them. Hearne says he heard all but three-quarters of an hour of the peal, and in that time counted fifty-two faults, nine of them bad ones. He was a very careful and acute critic of ringing, and it says much for the quality of the ringing of Annable and his men that he was not able to find a single fault in their attempts.

Here is the extract from Hearne in full:—

'1734.—January 2nd, Wednesday.—Christ Church bells being now in very good order, yesterday some select Oxford ringers rung them all for a wager. They were every man of them townsmen, but had received some considerable instruction from Mr. Stone, M.A., a man in orders, and a good ringer himself, Fellow of Wadham College. The wager was that they could not ring the 5,040 changes, quater or cater changes, upon them. They were to have six trials, and if upon the sixth trial they could not do it they were to loose. Yesterday they began (being the first trial) just at twelve o'clock and finished the whole twenty-seven minutes after three o'clock. This is the first time that this number of changes was ever rung in Oxford, the biggest bell at Christ Church falling down, and the ropes breaking at New College when the Londoners rang at both places lately, otherwise the said Londoners who rang at each place above two hours and never made the least fault would have done it with the greatest ease imaginable. The Oxford ringers yesterday made many mistakes, so that 'twas expected they must have gone over several times. I did not hear them till they had been at it about three-quarters of an hour, but afterwards I heard them quite out till they had done, and I observed fifty-two faults in the ringing, nine of which were very considerable ones. However, take it altogether, 'twas excellent ringing, and they may glory of it. The most considerable fault was occasioned by Dr. Gregory, Regius Professor of Modern History and student of Christ Church, who yesterday broke in upon the ringers, to their great disturbance. The names of the ringers were:

1. Mr. Richard Hearne, a Taylor.
2. Mr. John Vicars, Second Butler of New College.
3. Mr. John George, a Taylor.
4. Mr. Guy Terry, a pot-ash maker in St. Clement's.
5. Mr. Thomas Yates, Second Cook of Magdalen College.
6. Mr. John Broughton, a Barber of St. Peter's-in-the-East.
7. Mr. Richard Smith, a Glover in St. Peter's-in-the-East.
8. Mr. William Barnes, Second Cook of Christchurch.
9. Mr. Arthur Lloyd, of Holywell, Carpenter and Bell Hanger.
10. Mr. Nicholas Benwell, Sexton of Christchurch.'

Having scored their five thousand, the band began to think of a longer length. Four months after the Christ Church peal they attempted 6,876 at New College. One of their number was away, and could not stand in, and his place was taken by a Mr. Brickland, who was not quite up to the necessary standard, and it was through him that they lost it. It shows the interest that Hearne took in the ringing, that, though it was raining hard, he was abroad the whole time carefully listening. Apparently it was better ringing than at Christ Church.

'1734.—May 2nd, Thursday.—Yesterday, an attempt was made upon New College bells of 6,876 changes. They began a quarter before ten in the morning, and rang very well till four minutes after twelve, when Mr. Brickland, a schoolmaster of St. Michael's parish, who rang the fifth bell, missing a stroke, it put a stop to the whole, so that they presently set them, and so sunk the peal, which is pity, for 'twas really very good true ringing, excepting five faults which I observed (for I heard all the time, though 'twas very wet all the while), in that part of the parks which is on the east side of Wadham College, where I was very private; one of which five faults was the treble that was rang by Mr. Richard Hearne, and the other four were faults committed by the above said Mr. Brickland, who 'twas feared by several beforehand would not fully perform his part, but they took him now because Mr. Broughton (who otherwise should have rang) was out of town, attending as barber in a progress of Magdalen College. Excepting this Broughton and George, the ringers were all the same with those mentioned under January 4th last. Mr. George's hands (he is above fifty years old), being not quite recovered from some blisters he received the last ringing on April 15th last, Mr. Nash, cabinet maker (who came from London, but now lives at Oxford) who is an excellent ringer, supply'd his place and rang the third bell, so they were as follows: Mr. Hearne, the first or treble; Mr. Vicars, the 2nd; Mr. Nash, the 3rd; Mr. Terry, the 4th; Mr. Brickland, the 5th; Mr. Yates, the 6th; Mr. Smith, the 7th; Mr. Barnes, the 8th; Mr. Lloyd, the 9th; Mr. Benwell, the 10th or tenour. Mr. Yates before rang the fifth, and then the sixth was rang by Mr. Broughton, in whose room Mr. Brickland was now taken. When I mentioned afterwards my observations to ye sd. Mr. Smith, he told me that tho' he rung himself yet he minded the faults also himself. Upon which I ask'd him how many there were? He said three before that web stopp'd them. I told him there were just five before that, at which he admired my niceness. They rang in the said two hours and nineteen minutes 3,475 changes, which wanted 3,401 of the number proposed.'

HOW THEY FED THE RECORD BREAKERS.

CHOCOLATES AND BANANAS 120 YEARS AGO!

'The Manchester "Evening Chronicle" recently had an interesting article on the long peal of Superlative at Bolton. For a layman, the writer has kept fairly closely to the facts, and the article will doubtless enlighten many people as to what is involved in a record performance of this kind. One or two points outside the description of the actual peal will, however, doubtless amuse our readers. Here, for instance, is one of the "asides":

'Owing to the possibilities of failure of the human factor, rope breakages, mechanical breakdowns, and the like, only one record attempt of twenty, on the average, is successful.

'Often the human factor causes disappointment. "We were once ringing a short peal of 2hr. 40min. at Bolton Parish Church," another ringer said, "when the mind of one of the ringers became a complete blank, and as we failed to put him right and remind him of the sequences of figures he had to ring to, the peal broke down."

'The man had been reckoning up, as he afterwards confessed, how much money he would draw if Bolton Wanderers won that afternoon!"

'Bell ringing,' the writer also says, and truthfully, 'is a shirt-sleeves hobby, coats and vests usually being discarded,' and he adds: 'In the course of their training for the great record attempt at Bolton, the picked band of eight ringers went through a peal of 5,000 changes almost every week for twelve months—hard work which was preparation of both muscles and mind.

'Horny-handed though ringers usually are, these longest-peal men had to use glycerine for their hands to prevent painful blistering during the uninterrupted run of 7hr. 10min. There was also special diet preparation.

'The highest number of changes possible on eight bells is 40,320, and a peal using this highest-ever number was rung in Kent 120 years ago.

'By adding one bell, however, nine times 40,320—362,880 changes—would be possible, but recognising the alarming possibilities of compound puzzles with nine bells, no one in the ringing world has dared to suggest total-number peals on this scale!

'For the Kent 40,000 changes peal there were, of course, relief ringers, 13 men in all being engaged, and the ringers were fed with chocolates and bananas during their 27 hours' effort.'

A chocolate and banana diet for bellringing, especially 120 years ago, is distinctly good.

LADIES' GUILD.

The quarterly meeting of the Western District was held at Twerton-Avon on Saturday, March 12th. Unfortunately, the attendance of members was small, only 11 being present, the local ringers, however, being well represented, and several welcome visitors arriving, a very pleasant afternoon and evening were spent and some good practice obtained.

The service was taken by the Vicar, the Rev. B. Shephard Walwyn, who, in the course of a short address, said that it gave him great pleasure to welcome the Guild there that day because, although the Twerton bells were frequently in demand for peals there had not been a ringers' meeting held there for many years.

After the service, the ringers adjourned to the Parish Hall, where Mrs. King had prepared an excellent tea, which was much appreciated.

At the business meeting which followed, Mrs. Broome presiding, two new members were elected, viz., Miss Garland and Miss Tillard, of Bathford. Burnham was chosen for the annual meeting to be held in June or July.

At the close of tea, a vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for taking the service, to Mr. Temple for so kindly making all the necessary arrangements and to Mrs. King and her friends for preparing tea. The thanks of the Guild are also due to the Vicar of St. Mark's and Mr. A. G. Cole for the use of the bells in the evening, and to Miss Orchard, who kindly played for the service in the absence of the organist.

In the evening, St. Mark's, Bath, was visited, and touches of Grand-sire and Stedman Doubles and Cambridge Minor were rung.

DEATH OF WALTHAMSTOW RINGERS.MR. H. T. SCARLETT.

A well-known Walthamstow ringer, Mr. Hugh T. Scarlett, died on Thursday, March 10th, at the age of 65 years, after a long illness. Better known as Tom Scarlett, he was at one time an active member of the Royal Cumberland Society, and some years ago rang fairly regularly at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields and St. Leonard's, Shoreditch. Of late years, however, his ringing activities were almost confined to St. Mary's Church, Walthamstow, at which tower, up to about a year ago, he could be found any Sunday or practice night. Early in 1926, he moved to Stroud Green, and being almost continually ill with neuritis, coupled with a general decline in health, his old ringing friends lost sight of him.

In his younger days he was a member of the 2nd Essex Volunteer Battalion, and generally, when away camping at various places, could be relied upon to join in local ringing. One of the earliest recollections of him by the writer was of meeting him at Southover, Lewes, some 20 years ago, when a peal of Stedman Caters was rung during one of the camping periods. Mr. Keith Hart, of Brighton, conducted this peal, and Tom rang the tenor. He was also very active between 30 and 40 years ago with Mr. Arthur H. Gardom, and Tom's name appears on a peal board in the St. Mary's, Walthamstow, tower as conductor of a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major.

He was one of the first members of the Middlesex County Association, and his name appears in the membership list in the reports of that society from the first issue until the present day. He was also a member of the Essex, Sussex and London County Associations, and had rung in peals of Grandsire and Stedman, Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, on most numbers of bells. He had a very keen ear, and was an exceptionally good striker.

The funeral took place at Walthamstow Cemetery on March 15th. The St. Mary's Society sent a beautiful wreath, and the members were represented at the graveside by Messrs. R. Maynard and W. H. Freeman. In the evening, the bells at the Parish Church were rung with half-muffled clappers.

MR. W. J. COAKHAM.

An old member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, Mr. William J. Coakham, of St. Mary's, Walthamstow, died on February 23rd, at the age of 76. He was an almost lifelong resident in Walthamstow, and at one time an active member of the St. Mary's Society, although his change-ringing abilities were confined to ringing the treble in a straight hunt. He had, however, rung several peals, including a 'William' peal of Grandsire Caters, which is recorded in the belfry of St. Mary's Church, and which is a novelty in itself, the composer of the peal, the Vicar and the churchwardens, all being 'Williams.' William Coakham was also a noted 'wit,' and at the society's outings and dinners was well to the front with his jokes, and usually supplied a song, 'Ilford Jail.'

He was buried at Walthamstow Cemetery on March 1st. The St. Mary's Society sent a wreath, and the same evening rang the bells with half-muffled clappers.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER AT KING'S NORTON.
DONOR OF NEW BELLS ENTERTAINED.

The members of the St. Nicolas' Guild, King's Norton, met under very happy circumstances on Saturday, March 12th, the occasion being a complimentary dinner, held at the Bull's Head, King's Norton, to their esteemed Ringing Master, Mr. Frank B. Yates. It will be remembered that Mr. Yates was chairman of the committee which carried out the restoration of the old peal of bells, and also that in December last he gave two trebles, making the peal into a ring of ten, and the Guild desired to mark their appreciation of his generosity and popularity in a tangible manner. The party numbered 26, and included members of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, and a few other friends.

Mr. F. J. Smallwood, of Derby, presided, and an excellent repast, worthy of the occasion, had been provided and was thoroughly enjoyed. After dinner, the company settled down to listen to some good singing by Messrs. W. Dowding, A. S. Downes, H. Withers, and T. Ward. Selections on the handbells were given by Messrs. T. Russam, P. O. Laffin, A. Walker, H. Williams, H. Withers, M. J. Morris and F. Chambers.

The toast of 'Our Guest' was admirably given by the chairman and supported by Mr. P. O. Laffin.

Mr. W. E. Moore (hon. secretary) handed to Mr. Yates a cigarette box, suitably inscribed, with the best thanks and wishes of the Guild.

Mr. Yates thanked the ringers very heartily for the honour done to him. He expressed his gratitude for the useful present, and his great pleasure in holding the office of Ringing Master. He wished the Guild every success in the future, and complimented Mr. P. O. Laffin upon the work he had accomplished in making the King's Norton ringers a really efficient band.

Mr. T. Russam, the Birmingham veteran, delighted the company with his reminiscences of ringing and his earlier associations with the King's Norton tower. He spoke highly of the present status of the St. Nicolas' Guild, and urged them not to spoil their reputation by 'peal snatching.'

Mr. A. Walker submitted the toast of 'The Visitors,' and this was responded to by Mr. A. S. Downes (formerly of Shifnal), who expressed his delight in having spent a very enjoyable evening.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have the order for two treble bells to complete the octave at St. Mark's, Swindon, and it is hoped they will be installed shortly. The existing steel frame is to be repainted and the 3rd bell rehung. Any friends wishing to subscribe to assist the fund (which has been raised wholly by the local band) should send their contributions to S. Hopper, 79, Edinburgh Street, Gorse Hill, Swindon (hon. secretary, bell fund).

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are supplying a chime of eight bells (tenor 3 cwt.) to St. John's Church, Clay Hill, Enfield.

The band that rang the peal of Superlative Surprise on handbells at Oxhey last week may well claim it as a unique performance. That a man's first peal should be in a Surprise method is something quite out of the ordinary, and has been accomplished by very few ringers, but that this first peal should be rung in such a method with a pair of handbells is unquestionably unique, and Mr. Picton is heartily to be congratulated, as are the rest of the band, for in any event a Surprise peal 'double handed' is a highly meritorious performance.

The jubilee of the Norfolk Guild (formerly the Norwich Diocesan Association) is to be celebrated this year, and honorary and performing members are invited to luncheon free of charge by the president and committee. The Dean of Norwich will preside, and it is hoped that the Bishop of Norwich and the Lord Mayor of Norwich will attend. It is hoped that all members will do their utmost to be present and help to make the celebration worthy of the occasion.

We frequently read of someone who has 'completed the circle' in a tower, but we doubt if anyone has exceeded Mr. Walter Charman's record at Warnham, Sussex, he having just finished doing this eight times to peals in his own tower. We wonder what is the record number of towers in which a ringer has rung a peal on each bell?

Two days after the peal of 5,160 Double Twelve In at St. Bride's, on March 24th, 1784, the College Youths rang a 6,048 of Real Double Twelve In at St. Saviour's. The figures of the composition are given in the 'Clavis.'

On the day following this peal at Southwark, the Cumberlands rang their 12,000 Treble Bob Royal at Shoreditch, which stood as the record in the method for 130 years.

The first peal of Superlative Surprise Royal was rung at Wakefield on March 27th, 1826, and it was a hundred years before another was recorded in this method.

The only peal that was ever completed in that method, is the footnote to a peal of 5,040 'New Double Tripples,' rung at Shoreditch on March 28th, 1750.

Norwich ringers will have the opportunity of celebrating, on April 1st, the 200th anniversary of a noteworthy performance. A remarkable peal was rung by eight persons, called the Quarter-peal of Oxford Treble Bob, all eight in, or the Union Bob, consisting of 10,080 changes, which they rung in 6 hrs. 28 mins., on the 1st day of April, anno 1727. There was no change alike or bell out of course. The peal was rung by those famous Norwich worthies whose history has recently been so well recounted in our columns by Mr. J. A. Trollope.

It was 35 years ago yesterday since Mrs. George Williams made ringing history by taking a pair of handbells in a peal of Grandsire Triples—the first lady to accomplish this. It was accomplished through the enthusiasm of Messrs. Tom Blackbourne and Goddard, who were staying at Brighton with Mr. and Mrs. Williams, while engaged in rehanging St. Nicholas' bells, and the four used to practice at meal times and in the evenings until the peal was rung.

A FORTHCOMING HANDBOOK.

To the Editor.

Sir,—May I ask you if you can find room in your valuable paper to insert a second appeal to all secretaries of ringing bands, etc., to send me report books, or information of all churches they know, so I can complete the handbook of towers which I am preparing. I am anxious to get it into print.

The information I require is: Name of place, county, name of church, number of bells, practice night, weight of tenor. Thanking all those who kindly responded to the first appeal, Yours truly,

SIDNEY H. WIGETMAN.

QUICK PEALS AT LONG MELFORD.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the issue of 'The Ringing World' for March 4th, in the footnote to a peal of Bob Major rung in 3hr. 5min. at Long Melford, it was stated that it was the fastest peal rung in the tower. I should like to say it is not the fastest peal rung in that tower, as a 5,024 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung on Melford bells on June 21st, 1880, in 3hr. 2min.; on August 1st, 1891, a 5,088 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung in 3hr. 4min.; and a peal of Bob Triples was rung on October 10th, 1885, in 3hr. 3min. Also, on February 14th, 1891, a peal of Bob Major was rung in 3hr. 5min. Some of these peals are recorded on tablets in the tower.—Yours truly,

THEODORE E. SLATER.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.SOUTHERN DIVISION ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Southern Division of the Yorkshire Association was held at Handsworth on Saturday, and was a most successful gathering in every way: a sunny day, good ringing, a fine service, a good tea, an ideal chairman, keen voting for officers, and an evident desire on everyone's part to further the interest and art of change ringing. An attendance of upwards of 50 was recorded, members being present from Rotherham, Rawmarsh, Doncaster, Arksey, Wath, Barnsley, Wortley, Sheffield (the Cathedral, St. Marie's, All Saints, and Ranmoor), Bolsterstone, Leeds, Dore, Ecclesfield, Killamarsh and Norton.

Ringing in various methods was carried on until 4.30, when a short service was held. The Lord Bishop of Sheffield was the preacher, and his address was very interesting and helpful. Tea was provided in the schools by the local company, and was honoured by the presence of the Bishop and his wife, the Rector and his wife, and the churchwardens.

The business meeting was held immediately after tea, and the Bishop was asked to take the chair, which he kindly consented to do.

Six new members were elected, these being Miss Spiby and Mr. B. Hall (Doncaster), Messrs. E. Cooper (Arksey), L. Gray (Handsworth), W. Ashworth (Wath), and A. Parr (Killamarsh).

Previous to the election of officers, the Chairman referred to the splendid service rendered to the association by Mr. F. Willey, who for 10 years, as vice-president of the Southern Division, had given of his very best, and who had felt compelled by reason of ill-health to resign his position. He was sure the members would desire to place on record their very great appreciation of Mr. Willey's work during the tenure of his office, and at the same time to wish him a very speedy return to normal health again.—Mr. G. Halksworth (Ringing Master) also spoke of his associations with Mr. Willey and the recollections of Mr. Willey's work on behalf of the association, and these were fully endorsed by all present.—Mr. Willey thanked the members for their votes of thanks, and in return thanked the officers who had been associated with him and had given him such excellent support during his term of office.

Mr. G. Lewis (Ecclesfield) and Mr. W. Stubby (All Saints') were nominated for the vacant position of vice-president, and on a vote being taken Mr. Lewis was elected.—The new vice-president, in thanking the members for electing him to that office, said he knew he had a great deal to do to come up to the high standard of the late vice-president, but would do his very best to uphold the dignity of that office.

For the three places on the committee, Messrs. Wooler, Charlesworth, Palmer, Wilson and Watkinson were nominated, and the voting resulted in Messrs. Wooler, Wilson and Watkinson being elected.

Mr. Watkinson (Handsworth) was elected to serve on the general committee.

For the annual joint meeting, to be held in June, Conisborough and Wakefield were nominated, and the voting resulted in Conisborough being selected.

Votes of thanks to the Bishop of Sheffield for his kindness in presiding, and for his address, to the Rector and churchwardens, the local company and the ladies for their services, brought a most enjoyable meeting to a close.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

The annual meeting will be held in London on Whit Tuesday, June 7th next, of which particulars will appear later. Will secretaries of the affiliated Guilds and associations please note that their subscriptions became due on January 1st last; and please supply the names and addresses of all representatives.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A successful meeting of the Sonning Deanery Branch of the Guild was held at Waltham St. Lawrence on Saturday, May 12th. Ringing commenced shortly after 3 p.m., and divine service was held in the fine old Parish Church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. G. H. Francis, a thoughtful and practical address being given by the Rev. Riddesdel, Vicar of Bray.

Tea followed in the Memorial Hall, about 30 sitting down, including the Master of the Guild (Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn) and the Guild secretary (Mr. R. T. Hibbert).

The Vicar welcomed the branch to the parish, and expressed his pleasure in making himself responsible for the cost of the tea.—The Master thanked the Vicar for his kindness, also the ladies who so ably waited on the members. He also impressed upon those present what their membership of the Guild stood for. 'Something to give, and not something to get,' was what they should aim at.

The Branch Secretary thanked the Rev. Riddesdel for his address, also the young lady who presided at the organ.

The tower was again visited, the methods rung ranging from rounds to Cambridge Surprise.

Unfortunately, the chairman of the branch (Canon Coleridge) was unable to be present. The next meeting will be held at Twyford at the end of June.

INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It is obviously futile to continue a correspondence in which a letter, written in temperate language with no other object beyond the improvement of the art in which we are all interested, is described as an insult to 'The Ringing World.' Lest there should be two of your readers who so regard my letter, I had better state that I had no such intention. I merely tried to show how 'The Ringing World' could enlarge its sphere of usefulness, increase its circulation and enhance the progress of change ringing.

If that letter from Mr. Rumsey is the strongest you have received in reply to mine, I consider that I have got off very cheaply, as I fully expected a flood of letters telling me to mind by own business. I could have forgiven such letters, as I can understand how annoying it must be to find a fellow who cannot ring even a quarter-peal setting himself up to criticise the work of men who have devoted many years to the progress of the art. The total absence of letters of this character speaks well for the spirit of tolerance and the reasonable frame of mind of the great body of instructors, who, I am sure, would be as glad as myself to see their labours meet with a better reward than they now receive. Your correspondents all agree with me in my main contention, that there is urgent need for improvement in the instruction of beginners, and so does Mr. B. Cook who writes in the same issue. In addition, I have received letters from ringers ranging from the hon. secretary of a great Guild down to the novice who has 'chucked the whole business because I cannot get on with it,' and they all agree with me. As it is undoubtedly the opinion that the reforms I have indicated are necessary, it is up to some authoritative body to get a move on.

Your correspondent 'Minormania' does his best to support me, but he suffers from the drawback of most writers on ringing matters—he finds difficulty in expressing himself. If he had been writing on foot-and-mouth disease or the Chinese question I could have guessed he was a ringer by the way he rambles, and I strongly differ from some of his views. He states that in elementary change ringing the learner should do as he is told to do. Most learners do so, and soon get tired of doing it—they would much prefer to be taught to think so that they might understand the principles of the work. At present there is too much telling and too little understanding. Why should ringing be parrotwise? A child has not learnt his tables if he can only go through them from beginning to end parrotwise. He has learnt them when he can give the results in any order; in other words, when he has been taught to think. The great defect in the present mode of instruction is that ringers are not taught to think and understand. It satisfies most instructors if their learners will do as they are told.

Then comes the suggestion that learners should write to the Editor demanding the insertion of articles of elementary instruction. There is a great obstacle in the way of this. Learners do not read 'The Ringing World.' I have known learners buy one copy to see what it was like, but they do not buy a second, as they can easily see that it is not intended for them. I have heard instructors tell young ringers that 'The Ringing World' is of no use to them, and I have seen four learners in one belfry decline to take away the free copy provided for them with the remark, 'I've had some. That thing's no good for me.' If the Editor waits till he hears from 'the thousands of ringers who cannot prick out a touch from the lead ends,' he will wait in vain. Meanwhile, as long as the paper appeals to the peal merchants, we are to assume that all's right with the Exercise.

In conclusion, may I thank you for your courtesy in inserting my letter? I believe it will achieve its purpose in due time, as there is ample evidence that many people are thinking on the same lines as myself. Perhaps, some day, in spite of the demands upon your space, you may be able to afford a corner where the novice may find encouragement and real instruction.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN P. ARMSTRONG.

'MUSIC IN MAJOR METHODS.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The question raised in your last issue as to whether even-bell ringing is music or not, reminds me of an incident which happened to me many years ago when I was Vicar of Ottery St. Mary. There lived in the parish at that time a doctor who was very musical. He came up to me one day and said, 'I do not like to hear that tenor bell always coming in last when you are ringing changes, for it sometimes brings up to my ear wrong cadences.' I said to him, 'There is a skilled band of ringers coming here next week, who are going to try for a peal with the tenor in the changes. Come and listen to it.'

He did, and told me afterwards that he considered the music in it was far superior to that which we usually rang. The method rung was Double Norwich.

Now this testimony seems to me valuable as showing that to a musical mind even-bell ringing has more music in it than with a covering tenor.

Last night for evening service I took part in a six-score of Boh Minor which was well struck with the leads open, and even a Devon mind afterwards acknowledged that it was pretty music.—Yours faithfully,

Kelly, Devon.

MAITLAND KELLY.

CAMBERWELL BELLS REDEDICATED.

REMARKABLE SCENES.

St. Giles', the parent church of Camberwell, mentioned in Domesday, with its old square tower and ring of eight bells, was destroyed by fire in 1841. The present magnificent building, with its massive central tower and the finest spire in South London, was immediately erected. The old bell metal was recast into a ring of 10 bells (tenor 24½ cwt.), and hung by Messrs. Mears and Co. in 1844.

In 1919, under a new Vicar, the Rev. H. P. Lindsay, a strong local society of change ringers was founded, but the bells through previous inattention became gradually unringable, and ringing on them ceased in 1924. Through the agitation of the local society, the Vicar and Mr. Churchwarden Priest, the Mayor of Camberwell, Councillor F. C. Eaton, started a fund, and eventually Messrs. Taylor and Co. were instructed to carry out the restoration, which included all new fittings, except the oak frame, and right well have they done their work. Thirty-five 1in. 5ft. long tie rods, angle brackets, counter-balance clappers, ball-bearings, and ball-bearing pulley blocks have been put in.

On Tuesday, March 8th, the rededication took place amid scenes unprecedented in the history of the church. Nearly 3,000 people, it is estimated, were in the church, and thousands were outside, unable to gain admission.

The band of the 1st Surrey Rifles assisted in the musical portion of the service, and the ceremony was performed by the Bishop of Southwark. After the opening hymn, the Bishop, the Rev. H. P. Lindsay, Vicar of Camberwell, and the wardens, stood beneath the tower, and Mr. Churchwarden Priest presented the bell ropes to Councillor Eaton (the ex-Mayor, during whose term of office the restoration fund was inaugurated). That gentleman in turn handed them to the Bishop, saying: 'Reverend Father in God, we request you to re-dedicate these bells to the praise and glory of God.' The Bishop said: 'Be pleased, O Heavenly Father, to accept our offering of this work of our hands; bless and hallow these bells that they may continually call together Thy faithful people to praise and worship Thy holy name, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen. In the faith of Jesus Christ we dedicate these bells in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, Amen.' Handing the ropes to the Vicar, the Bishop continued: 'Receive these bells that have been solemnly set apart from all profane and unhallowed uses as a sacred trust committed unto thee as the appointed minister of Christ in this church, and take care that they may be ever and only used in God's service and for His glory.' The bells were then rung in rounds for one minute. Prayers were offered and a hymn sung.

The Bishop, in his sermon, remarked that they had been taking part that night in a service of the greatest possible interest to those in that parish and district, for that night, after an interval of two years, their bells had once again been rung. The bells contained metal from the old bells which time after time, through the long centuries, had rung out from St. Giles'. They had rung out after such events as the Armada, the return of Charles II., and victories like Trafalgar and Waterloo. Again and again they had been used for conveying good news to the people. Church bells had played a great part in making history. The bells of St. Giles' would once more call them to the worship of God.

During the singing of the hymn 'Saviour, blessed Saviour,' there was a procession round the church, headed by the Bishop, clergy and choir.

The Mayor and aldermen in their robes of office, preceded by the mace bearer and followed by the borough councillors, came next, and after them the ringers, led by the hon. chaplain of the London County Association (the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford, M.A.). The local ringers, including the Master of the association (Mr. T. H. Taffender), were accompanied by the remainder of the general officers of the association, Messrs. E. A. Young, F. E. Dawe, J. George, A. T. Keighley, T. Wyatt, and assistant ringers Messrs. A. J. Neale, C. F. Winney, W. Berry, etc., the officers wearing their full regalia, badges of office and decorations. Scouts, Wolf Cubs, Guides and Brownies, with their banners, the scholars of the Greencoat Sunday and day schools, the members of the Communicants' Guild, the St. Giles' Missionary Association, Mothers' Union, Parochial Church Council sidesmen, and members of other parish organisations joined in the great procession.

After the 'blessing' the ringers proceeded through the great crowd as fast they could to the belfry, where a long ring of rounds was followed by eight courses of Stedman Caters by the following: W. Berry 1, T. H. Taffender (conductor) 2, T. W. Taffender 3, C. F. Winney 4, J. R. Gammon 5, A. J. Neale 6, W. Rogers 7, H. Mance 8, James George 9, F. W. Chorley 10. Mr. H. H. Peters rang the treble to the rounds.

The arrangements for the ringing were admirably made by Messrs. T. H. Taffender, T. W. Taffender and F. W. Chorley. The ringing concluded at 10.10 p.m., and afterwards the ringers partook of refreshments at the Vicarage.

On Sunday, March 13th, for evening service at St. Giles', Camberwell, 1,263 Stedman Caters in 53 mins.: Miss E. E. Chapman 1, T. H. Taffender (conductor) 2, S. C. Mose 3, C. S. Burden 4, T. W. Taffender 5, J. Milner 6, W. Rogers 7, R. Sanders 8, J. R. Gammon 9, F. W. Chorley 10. First quarter-peal on the bells after restoration by Messrs. Taylor and Co. The composition by the late John Carter was specially composed and attempted to be conducted by him on these bells in February, 1924. It failed through the indifferent go. They were then closed down. Mr. Carter was a member of the local (St. Giles', Camberwell) society.

RINGERS' RALLY AT CROYDON.

THE PROGRAMME.

To celebrate the completion of the greatest set of bells in the world, the carillon for the Victory Tower of the Canadian Houses of Parliament, Ottawa, Mr. C. F. Johnston is arranging a 'ringers' rally' at Croydon on Saturday, April 2nd.

The carillon consists of 53 bells, total weight 53 tons, weight of tenor (or bass bell) 10 tons.

The programme is as follows:

2.30 p.m. to 3 p.m.—Ringers arrive at the works (entrance in Union Road, off Whitehorse Road, West Croydon). Inspection of the carillon for Ottawa; the carillon for Princeton University, U.S.A.; the recast bells for Coventry Cathedral; and sundry ringing peals in course of reconstruction; also the bell foundry tuning machines, giant electric clock for Ottawa, etc., etc.

3.30 p.m.—Recital on the Ottawa carillon.

4.15 p.m.—Ringing at the Parish Church, Croydon (ring of eight, tenor 30 cwt.), and St. Peter's, Croydon (ring of ten, tenor 30 cwt.).

5.15 p.m.—Invitation tea to all guests at the Baths Hall, Scarbrook Road.

6.30 p.m.—Ringing at Parish Church, Croydon, and St. Peter's, Croydon.

8 p.m.—Social and a few concert items (including hand-bell ringing) at the Baths Hall.

It is proposed to organise the departure of parties of ringers, 20 at a time, at quarter-hour intervals, so arranged as to get the peals of the Parish Church and St. Peter's going at the times mentioned.

Mr. Johnston extends a hearty invitation to all members of the various associations and Guilds who would care to visit the foundry, and names should be sent to association secretaries as early as possible, as the numbers may be considerable, involving a corresponding amount of work in organisation.

If any ringers wish to start the day's proceedings earlier than the time-table indicated, the bells of St. Mary's (Beddington) and St. Stephen's (Clapham Park) will be available, as announced in our notice column.

In any incumbents or wardens interested in their ringers or the ringing care to accompany the members, Mr. Johnston will be most pleased to see them.

Secretaries are urged to let Mr. Johnston have definite numbers by Monday next, March 28th.

There are trains from Victoria to East and West Croydon alternatively every ten minutes, and these stations are 15 and ten minutes' walk respectively from the bell foundry (or buses and trams going down Whitehorse Road pass the foundry).

'THE LIGHTEST EVER.'

Having scored the heaviest handbell peal yet rung, with a tenor size 26 in G, and weighing 4lb. 2oz., diameter 9in., certain Leicester 'pealites' desired to score the 'lightest ever.' After several unsuccessful attempts on Mr. Josiah Morris' 'Midgits,' they were dropped for the time being, but coming once more on the scene they met with a successful peal as reported elsewhere. This miniature peal was originally bought with wooden handles and iron clappers, but Mr. Tom Miller, of Birmingham, 'rebung' them with strap handles and bored the clappers, inserting box-wood strikers. The tenor weighs 3oz. and is 2½in. in diameter, while the total weight of the whole eight is but 21 ounces. Thus the single tenor of the 'heavy' peal is over three times the weight of the whole 'light' peal.

BRITH, KENT.—On Sunday, March 13th, for evening service at the Church of St. John-the-Baptist, a quarter-peal of Grand sire Triples (1,260 changes) in 44 mins.: F. Simms 1, S. A. Stagg 2, F. J. Cullum, sen., 3, E. J. Hott 4, L. J. Cullum 5, J. S. Morton 6, F. J. Cullum, jun. (conductor) 7, W. Darke 8.

BALCOMBE, SUSSEX.—On Sunday, March 6th, 720 Bob Minor: T. Exeter 1, A. C. Gasson 2, A. Laker 3, A. Steele 4, C. Holman 5, A. E. Gasson (conductor) 6.

PUTNEY.—On Sunday evening, March 6th, a quarter-peal of Grand sire Triples in 45 mins.: W. W. Bailey 1, T. Bolton 2, J. Herbert 3, E. Cassel (conductor) 4, R. Bullen 5, Chas. Moody 6, W. T. Elson 7, C. F. Edwards 8.

OVER, CAMBS.—At the Parish Church for evening service, March 6th, 720 Cambridge: H. Robinson 1, F. Warrington 2, B. Wayman 3, F. Ginn 4, F. G. Gleaves (conductor) 5, A. J. Ginn 6.—On Monday, 720 Minor: R. Thoday (first 720) 1, B. Wayman 2, F. Warrington (conductor) 3, A. J. Ginn 4, F. G. Gleaves 5, F. Ginn 6.

CHILDWALL.—On Sunday, at All Saints' Church, 720 Bob Minor: John Betley (first 720) 1, E. Gittins 2, F. C. Thomas 3, H. Hancock 4, W. Betley (first 720 as conductor) 5, C. I. Davies 6.

THURSTANS' OR WASHBROOK'S?To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I would like to say that Mr. Smith is hardly correct when he says that Mr. Washbrook first called the disputed peal or variation on February 13th, 1890. He called it at Boyne Hill, Maidenhead, on Saturday, February 15th, 1890. Why do I remember it so well? Because on that day I attained my majority, and rang a peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Giles', Cripple Gate, to commemorate the event. Mr. J. Washbrook and Mr. C. Hounslow came on from Maidenhead, and took part in this peal, which was conducted by Mr. F. E. Dawe. I well remember the doubt expressed on the face of the late Mr. James Pettitt when J. W. W., in his unassuming way, said that he had called 'Thurstans', that afternoon without 'extras' or 'omits'. This peal was published simply as Thurstans' Composition.—Yours, etc.,

R. T. HIBBERT.

ORIGINAL IN CONSTRUCTION.

Dear Sir,—I am sorry to have to trouble you again, but I must write to point out the ridiculousness of the title 'Tipler's Variation of Haley's', and to do this I must take you back a long way to the days when the 5,040 was produced with the same, practically, three-course blocks as we use to-day, with a special single in each quarter-peal, and it was this special single that was the great objection. Had it been an ordinary single it would still be rung. When Thurstans hit on the idea of extras and omits it was not with the block we know as 'Thurstans', it was with the one we know as Brooks'. We read that Thurstans selected that particular one because it was the best. Had he chosen Brooks' it would have shared the fate of Parker's twelve-part of Grandsire Triples in that the variation would have been rung more often than the original composition.

Now for Thurstans to be able to select a block he must have had several to select from, which proves, to my mind, that all the possible three-course blocks with the sixth doing regular work were known: Thurstans' (A), Haley's (B), Brooks' (C), and the unnamed and condemned (D), before the peal was rung in August, 1842, but probably after he obtained what we know as Brooks' in May, 1842. He knew, and we know, that what could be done with one set could be done with all. Heywood's 'Variation' of Thurstans' is also Heywood's 'Variation' of Brooks', Haley's and the other, and so with all the other so-called 'Variations' (more correctly transpositions). 'Brooks' and 'Haley's' is little more than a name given to a certain set of three courses, and cannot be varied. When Washbrook composed his peal he used the best set; he might have used Brooks' or Haley's instead of Thurstans'. How anyone can call it a variation of Thurstans' Four-part passes my understanding. It is distinctly original in construction, and, had he not composed it, it is safe to say we should never have heard of 'Dexter's Variation of Thurstans' or 'Tipler's Variation of Haley's Variation of Thurstans' Four-part' (to give it its full title), and this correspondence would never have started. I note that Mr. Tipler totally ignores the latter part of my last letter.

FALSE PEALS.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am very sorry to have to say that the peal of Stedman Triples, rung at Gilmorton on Saturday, November 27th, 1926, for the M.C.A., is false, as kindly pointed out by Mr. W. A. Cave in a recent issue.

The peal of 5,019 Stedman Caters, appearing in the M.C.A. report for 1924 (No. 3150) I regret to say is also false.—Yours truly,

W. P. WHITEHEAD.

NEWBURY RINGERS' TRIP.

The Newbury ringers had a half-day trip to Faringdon, Berks, on a recent Saturday. Starting at 2.20 by charabanc, they reached Faringdon at 3.40, and were met by the Faringdon ringers and three others from Swindon. The following Newbury ringers then rang the first quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples on this fine new peal of eight in 50 mins.: E. Crocker 1, C. Poole 2, C. Pearce 3, W. H. Adkins, sen., 4, S. Quintin 5, E. W. Smith 6, H. W. Curtis (conductor) 7, E. Challis 8. Tea was served at the White Hart Hotel, and tunes on the handbells were afterwards rung. The party then returned to the tower and rang several touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples with the Faringdon and Swindon ringers. Newbury was reached at 11 p.m., after a very enjoyable trip.

A DATE TOUCH.

At St. James' Church, Barlborough, Derbyshire, on Saturday, March 19th, a date touch comprising 1,927 changes, 487 Duke of York, 720 Kent Treble Bob and 720 Oxford Treble Bob, was rung in 1hr. 10 mins.: Ernest Sturman (longest length) 1, Horace Hibbard 2, Percy Morris (conductor) 3, Richard Reece 4, William Sturman 5, Philip Hibbard 6. All belong to the local band.

BELLS DEDICATED AT ELKSTONE.GIFT TO A COTSWOLD PARISH.

Two bells, cast in 1657 for Elkstone Church, have been retained to form part of an augmented ring at this Gloucestershire church among the Cotswold Hills. They were the treble and tenor of the original set of four, cast by Edward Neale, of Burford, Oxon, the two others having been recast, the second of the ring by Abraham Rudhall in 1719 and the third by Taylor and Co. in 1882. The bells had long been silent, when it was decided to have them restored. A committee was formed to consider the matter, and at the outset it was unanimously decided by the committee to place 'giving' on the very highest plane: to ban all promiscuous methods of raising money, and to rely solely upon voluntary offerings. In face of that decision it was almost startling when, a few weeks later, Sir Ernest and Colonel James Horlick, M.P., came forward and offered to bear the whole cost of the restoration as a memorial to the late Sir James and Lady Horlick, and also to give a new bell in memory of their brother, who gave his life for his country in the Great War.

The work of restoration has been satisfactorily completed, under the advice of the Diocesan Advisory Committee by Messrs. T. Bond and Son, of Burford (Edward Neale's successors), who have also cast the new treble bell, to make a peal of five, and put in a new floor. The bells 'go' exceedingly well, and the new treble is a capital 'splice'.

The inscription on the new bell is as follows: 'Great War 1914-1918. Gerald Nolekin Horlick died on Active Service, July 5th, 1918.'

About fifty parishioners and friends came to tea at the Rectory to meet the Bishop before the service, and at a few minutes to six the Bishop, accompanied by his chaplain (the Rev. Alec Robinson), preceded by the Rector and churchwardens, moved in procession towards the church, where a large congregation had assembled. The service, which took the form of shortened evensong, was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. T. S. Tonkinson) and opened with the hymn, 'We love the place, O God.' At the end of the third collect and after the hymn, 'Thy hand, O God, has guided' had been sung, the Bishop, preceded by the Rector and churchwardens, proceeded to the west end of the church, and standing under the tower dedicated the new treble bell in memory of Gerald Nolekin Horlick; and re-dedicated the other four in memory of his parents, James and Margaret Adelaide Horlick 'in the faith of Christ and to the Glory of God.' The Bishop then recited special prayers, and the bells immediately afterwards burst out into a short joyful peal. The hymn, 'O God, our help in ages past,' was then sung, and the Bishop, again preceded by the Rector and churchwardens, returned to the chancel. The Bishop preached from Psalm xxvi. 8, 'Lord, I have loved the habitation of Thy house and the place where Thine honour dwelleth.' During the singing of the last hymn, 'Praise, my Soul, the King of Heaven,' a collection was taken for the 'World Call,' which amounted to £9 3s. 1d., and with the Blessing, pronounced by the Bishop, a memorable service came to an end.

At its conclusion, Mr. Albert Wright and other members of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, who had very kindly come over from Painswick for the opening ceremony, rang touches on the bells in various methods, which were much appreciated by all who heard them.

The whole of the ringers then adjourned, together with the churchwardens, to the Manor, where an excellent repast had been provided for them by the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Hitch, and a happy hour and a half was spent, handbells adding much to the enjoyment.

HONOURING A BISHOP.

The bellringers of Middleton Parish Church paid a visit on Saturday, Feb. 26th, to St. James' Church, Birch-in-Rusholme, to ring a peal in honour of the newly-appointed Bishop of Middleton, who is Rector of that church and parish. They were met by Mr. Hailwood, the custodian of the belfry there, and then proceeded to ring a well-struck peal of Grandsire Triples, which was accomplished in three hours and five minutes. After this, the ringers were met by Rev. Mr. Barnett (curate of St. James'), who apologised for the absence of the Bishop, who had been waiting for the conclusion of the peal, but had had to go away before it was finished owing to a previous engagement.

All then adjourned to the Parish Room, where tea was served through the generosity of the Bishop and St. James' ringers, at the end of which the Rev. Mr. Barnett, Mr. Hailton (churchwarden), and Mr. Burrows (conductor) welcomed the Middleton ringers and congratulated them on their peal. Mr. Hardman, on behalf of the visitors, expressed their appreciation of the welcome and hospitality of the Bishop and Birch friends, and extended an invitation to the Birch ringers to Middleton in the near future.—This was supported by Mr. S. Holt and Mr. P. Ladin. A pleasant evening was spent with newly-made friends.

MORE SPADE WORK.

The amount of spade work which there is open to our ringing associations to undertake is being continually emphasised in many ways. In this week's issue alone, for instance, there is a report from Suffolk that over a hundred towers with rings of bells remain outside the Guild; the annual report of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, in whose area there are approximately 200 belfries with rings, refers to 'the many towers' not included in the list of members. We imagine that there are very few associations which can boast of more than fifty per cent. of the towers affiliated. What are the reasons for this poor result of many years of work? The fault does not always lie with the organisations, although there are too many cases where the association waits for those outside to come in of their own volition instead of keeping up a continual crusade to bring them in.

This, however, is not the only reason for the present state of affairs. The trouble often lies with the unaffiliated ringers themselves. There is an absence of esprit de corps in their constitution. It is frequently apparent in the indifference with which they regard their responsibilities towards the fellow members of their own band or to their church; and it is more manifest still when it comes to their relations with other companies or the parent association for the area. They fail to see that they are personally going to get anything out of joining and because they imagine there is no quid pro quo for their small annual contribution, they will have nothing to do with any diocesan or county organisation. This, of course, is entirely a wrong view to take. There is a great deal to be got out of participation in the activities of a ringing association, not least being the widening circle of friends and the increasing sense of brotherhood which comes from mingling with ringers from other towers, but the spirit in which the question should be approached is what can one put into the cause, and not what is to be got from it. The ringer who puts most into it, will certainly get most out of it, even from the actual ringing point of view, for, as he shows his enthusiasm, so will he find that others will be ready to provide him with opportunities which would never otherwise come his way.

On the other hand, there are still openings by which associations might make membership more attractive, and by which they might show their desire to help those ringers less well placed than themselves. District meetings are not the only means by which assistance can be given, and probably the best and most substantial work of all can be done in the home tower, with the aid of a few competent ringers gathered from neighbouring belfries. Here again comes in the spirit of 'giving' instead of 'taking.' There may be little attraction for a Surprise ringer to go to another belfry to ring Grandsire Doubles or Bob Minor, but where a man has time and opportunity to help forward the work of his association and the art, he ought not to hesitate to give his services. We believe a good deal more could be done in this direction with proper organisation than is at present accomplished, and probably more intensive spade work on these lines would bring into the associations many of the towers which now remain outside.

YOXFORD BELLS REDEDICATED.

The six bells at Yoxford, Suffolk, were rededicated on March 6th by the Lord Bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich. These bells had been silent for a great number of years owing to their very unsafe state. The old framework has been strengthened with iron braces and now timber added where necessary. The bells have been entirely rehung with new and modern fittings, consisting of steel headstocks and plain bearings. The work has been carried out by Mr. Alfred Bowell, bell founder, of Ipswich. The cost of the work has been defrayed by the balance of a fete held on Whit Monday, 1926.

The service of dedication was well attended by ringers from Leiston, Saxmundham, Halesworth, Wenham, Reydon, Peasenhall, Ipswich, Great Bentley, Mistley, Wrentham and Kelsale. Judging by remarks passed, the 'go' leaves nothing to be desired, and the tower now contains a peal worthy of a visit.

An appeal was made during the service for funds to pay for an instructor to the newly-formed band, and resulted in £7 5s. being raised at once. This was due to the great interest taken by the Vicar (Rev. C. H. Raven).

Immediately after service, 720 of Oxford Treble Bob was rung by Alfred Bowell 1, Fredk. Lambert (Halesworth) 2, Fredk. Bowell 3, Arthur Tooke (Halesworth) 4, Charles Howard (Halesworth) 5, Wm. J. Nevard (Great Bentley, Essex) 6.

The same firm also has work in hand for Fyfield (Essex), Hothfield (Kent), Egerton (Kent), and Sudbury (Suffolk), and have just completed the rehanging of the six bells at Wainfleet, Lincs.

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE AND YORKSHIRE RELISH.

At Crowle, Worcestershire, on Saturday, March 26th, a quarter-peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major (1,280 changes): C. Tansell 1, W. Niblett 2, S. T. Holt (conductor) 3, R. G. Knowles 4, W. Ranford 5, W. Lewis 6, J. J. Jefferies 7, C. Camm 8. First quarter-peal in the method by all.

NOTES BY THE WAY. OLD OXFORD RINGERS.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Mr. V. Bennett, the treasurer of the Oxford Society of Change Ringers, has very kindly sent me an account of the first peal rung in the City taken from the society's peal book. It states definitely, what I surmised from Thomas Hearne's account, that the peal was 'produced and called' by John Vicars. Mr. Bennett points out a discrepancy in the dates. Hearne says the peal was rung on January 1st, 1734; the peal book says it was rung on January 1st, 1733, which would, of course, be before Annable's visit at Whitsuntide in that year. Hearne, I think, was right, for the entry in his diary is dated the day following, and the peal book probably, as in the case of most old peal books, was not written till a few years later. A good deal of confusion, too, exists as to the dates of events in the early eighteenth century, owing to the fact that the year then legally began on the 25th of March and not on the 1st of January. It is quite clear that it was the visit of the College Youths which stirred up ringing in Oxford, just as their equally famous visit to Cambridge in 1657 brought Fabian Stedman into touch with the Exercise at large.

After the failure on May 1st, the band postponed their attempt for the six thousand till the autumn. October the 4th was the anniversary of the death of William of Wykeham, the famous statesman and Bishop of Winchester, who founded New College, and as it was a ringing day, it was a very suitable date for the attempt. Mr. Buckland, the schoolmaster, who was responsible for the previous failure, was dropped, and the best band available was got together. But things went awry. First Richard Hearne, the tailor (no relation of Thomas Hearne, the diarist), who usually rang the treble, would not start, and the band had to be rearranged. And then, sad to say, when they met, three of the best men were 'much in liquor.'

Perhaps that had something to do with Richard Hearne's refusal to ring. The three offenders were Lloyd, Barnes, and, worst of all, John Vicars, the conductor. In those days of heavy drinking to take a drop too much was no great matter. It might happen to anybody; there was plenty of it among the dons and heads of the University. But on such an occasion, as Hearne said, 'they ought to have been sober, and, indeed, there cannot be any true ringing but by persons that come perfectly sober.'

Lloyd, at the ninth, was too drunk to strike his bell, and, of course, that upset the compass. Before they had rung two courses Vicars missed a bob. Still they went on. Whether they forced up the correct course end does not appear. At 600 changes they had a bad muddle, then another at 1,100, another at 1,400, then a second missed bob, till at last they got into a hopeless tangle, and the attempt came to an inglorious end at the 2,714th change. They made a second attempt, but that also failed after 650 changes.

Altogether it was a pretty disgraceful exhibition. Hearne was quite ashamed of them, and so, too, were they of themselves, for they did their utmost to keep quiet who it was that had made the blunders. But Hearne was a genius for finding out details, and he very soon got to know all that happened inside the tower. However, as he thought it 'not to their credit to have their names mentioned, so neither was it for the honour of William of Wickham to discover who the persons were who performed so lamely on the day he died,' he expressed his intention of suppressing the names and also the cause of the trouble.

But before long the band displeased him in a matter upon which he felt strongly, and to punish them he put down all the details. I should rather like to know how he knew that the bobs were missed. It was not till some time after that he got to know what did happen in the tower, but he records the omission of one bob on the day after the attempt was made. He had a keen ear, and was a very careful listener, and, perhaps, this is the first account we have of the calling of a peal being taken down outside the tower.

'1734. September 28 Saturday 4 Kal. Oct. Yesterday being the obit of William of Wickham and the festival of St. Comas and Damianus, some of the Oxford ringers agreed to ring at New College proposing to ring 6,876 Cator changes upon the ten bells there. They designed to have begun at eleven in the morning, but 'twas near twelve before they begun for they had rang only two hundred changes when the clock struck twelve. They had so many gross faults that 'tis not worth while to particularise them all, only thus much may be noted that a bob was missed being called before they had got two hundred, and that they strangely blundered a little after they had rang 600, and so again after they had rang 1,100, and so after 1,400 and 1,900; and at length when they had rang 2,714 (which wanted 4,162 of the whole) they were quite out, it being then three-quarters after one. Then they set the bells and soon after began and rang 650, and made an end at very near half hour after two, so that the whole both times were 3,364 changes in two hours and nineteen minutes. I was very apprehensive yesterday when they first began that they would not perform their task, the compass being too wide and the person who rang the ninth bell making a bad step even at first. Though 'twas so wet, I heard them all the time, walking for that purpose up and down the parks on the east side of Wadham College. Had they finished the peal and done it well I should have taken care to transmit in print (in one of my books that I print at the Theater) the names of the several ringers to posterity, 6,876 changes having never as yet at one time been rung in Oxford. But, as the performance was bad (considering the character each ringer bore for his skill in the art of ringing) as it will not be for their credit to have their names mentioned so neither will it be for the honour of William of Wickham to discover who the persons were that perform'd so lamely on the day he died, which day ought to be observed with all possible decorum and the ringing should be then as clear and true as can be, for which reason I shall pass over (what might be further observed) in silence.'

DIPLOMAS FOR RINGERS?

To the Editor.

Sir,—As a young ringer I am naturally interested in the discussion of 'How can we keep young men interested in the art?' Now that the Central Council meeting is so near at hand, may I make a suggestion to them for discussion at their meeting?

I suggest that they issue diplomas, to be awarded to ringers ringing their first peal in the various stages of our art, say, one for plain methods, one for Treble Bob, and one for Surprise. The Council should surely, Sir, be able to issue a diploma worthy of any frame, and the cost, which should be small, could be charged to the applicant. Perhaps some enterprising member of the Council will bring this matter forward at the meeting.—Yours truly,

F. NEALE.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD NORTH BRADLEY WANTS MORE BELLS.

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at North Bradley on Saturday. Ringing commenced about 2.30 p.m., and at 4.40 p.m. the Guild service was held, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. D. F. A. Poulter, M.A., the lesson being read by the chairman of the branch, Mr. C. D. Heginbotham. Tea followed, after which a short business meeting was held. Mr. C. D. Heginbotham presided, and gave a short account of the business transacted at the Guild Committee meeting which he attended on March 15th, at Salisbury.

Two new members were elected from Holt, and it was proposed to hold the next gathering of the branch, which is a quarterly meeting, at Melksham, on Saturday, April 30th.

An application was received for a grant from the Guild funds towards the restoration of Market Lavington bells, and it was decided to forward the application to the secretary for the annual meeting of the Guild.

Mr. P. Harding, correspondent of the North Bradley ringers, expressed the thanks of the ringers at North Bradley for the assistance they had received from the branch, especially to Messrs. C. Andrews, J. Francis, S. J. Hector and W. Baxter for coming over from Trowbridge to help them.

The Chairman expressed the thanks of the branch to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, also to the organist.

The Vicar, in reply, said he was pleased to have the meeting there, and how keen the ringers were since they had learnt change ringing. They had lost one or two of the older ringers who had found it difficult, but others had taken their place. He remarked how nice it would be for them to have two more bells. They had put in a new organ, and perhaps it would be possible to put in the other bells some day. He hoped the branch would soon hold another meeting there.

Mr. Bartlett, the organist, expressed his pleasure at assisting in the service for the ringers. In his younger days, he said, he was a ringer at Westbury, and so he was pleased to do anything to help.

Ringers, including Mr. J. T. Dyke (Chilcompton), Miss N. Williams (Bath), and Mr. H. Baker (Gainsborough), were present from Devizes (St. John and St. Mary), North Bradley, Westbury, Trowbridge, Bratton, Hilperton, Rowde, Zeals, St. Martin, and Holt. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Minor were rung during the afternoon and evening. The ten bells at Trowbridge Parish Church were also available in the evening.

The Church at North Bradley, which is dedicated to St. Nicholas, is a very beautiful building, and contains on the north side a beautiful chapel erected over the tomb of Emma, the mother of John Stafford, Archbishop of Canterbury. The inscription on the tomb is in Latin, and the following is a translation:

'Here lieth Lady Emma, mother of the Venerable father and lord, Lord John Stafford, by the grace of God, Archbishop of Canterbury, who died on the fifth day of the month of September, in the year of our Lord, fourteen hundred and forty-six. On whose soul may God have mercy. Amen.'

She died at the Priory of the Holy Trinity, Canterbury; and was buried here by her son.

Sir Humphrey Stafford, father of John Stafford, lived at Southwick Court (which is in the parish of North Bradley), died October 31st, 1413, and was buried at Abbotsbury, Dorset. John Stafford, born in 1387, made LL.D. at Oxford 1413, Prebendary of Wells Cathedral the same year; Dean of Wells and Keeper of the Privy Seal, etc., by Henry V.; Bishop of Bath and Wells, 1425; made Lord Chancellor by Henry VI., 1432; Archbishop of Canterbury, 1443; died at Maidstone and buried in Canterbury Cathedral, 1452.

Before the dissolution of the monasteries, North Bradley was attached to the monastic church at Edington, Wilts. The bells are a nice ring of six (tenor 14 cwt.). They were rehung by Messrs. Meares and Staunbank in 1893 at the cost of £160.

The death occurred on Sunday, March 6th, of Mrs. Tullett, wife of the captain of the East Grinstead, Sussex, ringers. BELFRY GOSSIP.

Under his will, all the ringing books of the late Rev. C. E. Matthews will go to the Winchester Diocesan Guild, of which he was successively hon. secretary, Master and vice-president.

Congratulations to young Robert Stratford, of Whitley Bay, who has rung his first peal at the very early age of ten years.

When things go wrong with the exterior of a steeple or spire, there is usually a great saving of cost if the repairs can be done without the erection of expensive scaffolding. Church authorities will, therefore, be glad to know of a competent firm of steeplejacks. The advertisement of Messrs. E. Mossop and Sons, of Smethwick, will be found in this issue.

Two hundred years ago to-day, as we recalled in our last issue, 'a remarkable peal was rung . . . called the Quarter-peal of Oxford Treble Bob all eight in, or the Union Bob, consisting of 10,080 changes,' in 6 hours 28 minutes, at St. Michael's Coslany, Norwich.

'Although the record affirms that "there was no change alike or bell out of course," yet I think it improbable,' wrote Jasper Snowden in 'Treble Bob,' 'considering the very little knowledge then acquired concerning the proof requisite for such peals, that this one could be true, unless, indeed, a conjecture of Mr. Hubbard's with regard to this peal could be established.'

Hubbard's conjecture was that it may have been the peal having sixth-place bobs at the part ends, given in Shipway's work as the composition of J. Tobbs, of Leeds. But there is nothing but surmise to connect the two.

Another noteworthy old peal was rung on this day one hundred and fifty years ago, when the College Youths scored 8,000 Treble Bob Maximus at Southwark.

On April 2nd, 1888, 10,176 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung at Goddenham, and a similar length of Oxford at Ufford on April 7th, 1894. On April 3rd, 1899, 15,072 Double Norwich was rung at Erith.

April 5th in the anniversary of 10,097 Grandsire Caters rung at Shrewsbury in 1808.

The first non-conducted peal of Minor in seven methods was rung at Batley, Yorks, sixty years ago next Wednesday.

The famous 40,320 of Bob Major was begun at Leeds on April 7th, 1761, and finished on the following day.

The first peal of Court Bob Royal, composed and conducted by George Gross, sen., was rung at Shoreditch by the Cumberland youths on April 7th, 1801, and a peal board remains to 'hand to posterity the unparalleled abilities displayed in the performance.'

Thomas Tolladay conducted the first peal of Grandsire Triples at St. Dunstan's-in-the-West, in the City of London, where the bells are now seldom if ever rung, on April 1st, 1834.

The Rev. T. Lewis Jones, the veteran president of the North Wales Association, has just recovered from a serious illness.

A bad attack of influenza has left Mr. W. T. Peglar, Master of the North Wales Association, quite deaf. It is hoped that this may be only temporary. Mr. Peglar is still on the sick list.

The handbell peal at Bishop Ryder's Church on Saturday, and recorded elsewhere, was rung after the 'Masons' had met short for Cambridge, 'Ye many-coloured coated one' failing to turn up.

CENTRAL COUNCIL'S COMMITTEES.

I desire to remind members of the various committees of the Council of the necessity of appointing a convener wherever necessary, and also either publishing or sending me their annual report some time between Easter and Whitsuntide.

Hon. Secretary.

COLDSTREAMERS, ATTENTION!

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am very anxious to get into touch with fellow ringers who have served, or are now serving, with the Coldstream Guards. It is a task I have been asked to undertake.

Will all ringers who are Coldstreamers kindly communicate with me, therefore, giving their rank and number, and the stage they have reached in the art of ringing?—Yours truly,

SIXTY COURSE-ENDS OF TREBLE BOB.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Allow me, through your columns, to offer my hearty congratulations to Mr. Geo. Lewis on the achievement of his 60 course-ends peal of Treble Bob Major. Such peals may seem quite an ordinary thing to look at, but how many composers can show one? Mr. Lewis' peal will take some beating for the number of changes in a twenty-course composition.—Yours truly,

ARTHUR CRAVEN.

TO-MORROW'S GREAT RALLY AT CROYDON.

WORLD'S GREATEST CARILLON ON VIEW.

What promises to be the largest gathering of ringers that has ever taken place will assemble at Croydon to-morrow in response to the invitation of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, who are promoting the great rally to enable the ringers of England to see a collection of bell work unparalleled in the previous history of the craft.

The principal object is the inspection of the world's greatest carillon, which has just been completed for the Canadian Houses of Parliament at Ottawa, and which is to be erected in the magnificent tower illustrated in Messrs. Gillett and Johnston's advt. on our front page. This carillon, complete with all its massive framework, will be the central attraction, and visitors will have the opportunity of listening to a recital upon it.

In addition, there will be on view the carillon for Princeton University, U.S.A., the recast bells for Coventry Cathedral, and sundry ringing peals in course of reconstruction; also the bell foundry timing machines, the giant electric clock for Ottawa, etc.

There will be opportunities for ringing at Croydon Parish Church and St. Peter's, both in the afternoon and evening, and all visitors will be entertained to the tea at the Baths Hall, Scarbrook Road, at 5.15 p.m. A social will also be held in the same hall at 8 p.m.

The Bishop of Sheffield and Canon G. F. Coleridge (president of the Central Council) are among those who hope to be present, and nearly a thousand visitors are expected.

A few particulars about the great carillon for Ottawa will be of interest.

The carillon consists of 53 bells, extending through 41 chromatic octaves from the 10-ton Bourdon, 'low E,' to the top treble, 'high A.'

It is practically a 'sister carillon' to the one installed by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston a little over a year ago in Park Avenue Baptist Church, except that the Ottawa bells are heavier (the New York Bourdon weighs 9½ tons).

The whole carillon has also been carefully tuned on the Simpson five-tone principle to the scale of equal temperament, so that the performer can modulate from one key to any other without offending the ear. Before Bach invented the 'Scale of Equal Temperament' over 200 years ago, it was impossible to attain this result in ordinary music, and until the last few years this refinement was unknown to the bell world. The carillon has also been tuned absolutely to international pitch, which is in general use for ordinary musical instruments and modern concert practice in both hemispheres.

The total weight of the bells is 53 tons, and the weight of the steel framework and fittings is about 22 tons, so that the total installation weighs approximately 75 tons. The ten-ton Bourdon bell will be the second largest individual bell in Canada, and the third largest on the American continent. The inscription on the Bourdon bell is in English on one side and in French on the other; and round the top of the bell a continuous design of maple leaves has been moulded.

A world's record has been achieved in the time taken to construct the carillon. From the date when all the details were settled, all 53 bells with the necessary machinery have been finished in 18 months.

An elaborate 'practice clavier' is being supplied, with tuned bars and resonators and having a keyboard exactly similar to that of the carillon clavier (or console), so that the carillonneur can learn fresh pieces without annoying the neighbours. A more important use of the 'practice clavier' is to enable pupils to learn the rudiments of playing and acquire a certain amount of proficiency, particularly in pedal work, before playing on the lower instrument is permitted.

The great electric clock has been connected up with the four 'quarter bells' and the Bourdon, so as to chime the Westminster quarters and strike the hours during the demonstrations at the works.

The clock mechanism is divided into three separate units, the 'going train' driving the hands of the four 15ft. 9in. diameter clock faces, while the 'striking train' and 'quarter train' are placed fifty feet below under the bells. The old-fashioned clock weights are dispensed with, and in their place powerful electric motors lift and release the enormous hammers.

Shortly after Easter the carillon will be shipped to Canada, so as to be inaugurated on Dominion Day, July 1st. A temporary steel tower has been constructed adjacent to the Victory Tower to facilitate the hoisting of the bells and negotiating them through one of the sides of the tower at a high level.

The actual height of the tower is just under 300ft., and the bells will be approximately 200ft. above ground level. The situation is possibly the finest in existence for the purposes of carillon music.

The fourth-quarter bell, weighing 2½ tons, is the one of which the Prime Minister of Canada, accompanied by the High Commissioner, witnessed the casting last October, and the whole project is being followed in detail with the keenest interest by Mr. McKenzie King.

DEPTFORD.—At St. Nicholas', on Saturday, March 26th, after an unsuccessful attempt for a peal of Grandsire Triples, a quarter-peal: R. Steers (first quarter-peal) 1, W. Merritt (first quarter-peal with a bob bell) 2, J. Hurrell 3, F. Cobey 4, G. H. Daynes (conductor) 5, A. J. Ford 6, C. Elliott (first quarter-peal) 7, C. Davis (first quarter-peal) 8. All the above, except Messrs. Hurrell and Cobey, are Sunday service ringers.

SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Last June, after we had rung the second peal of Superlative Surprise Royal, I wrote some account of the method, and since that time several people have denied that it is Superlative because it does not agree with their particular theories.

Now I have been studying methods, their construction and extension for over 30 years. The collection of Minor and Plain Major methods were first compiled by me. I have also a very large number of Treble Bob methods ready to make another selection from in the future, and your readers must have noticed that in dealing with Superlative I advanced no theory.

I purposely abstained from advancing a theory because I know that methods have been extended in the past in various ways. Some extensions are simply theoretical, e.g., Double Norwich; some are purely practical, e.g., London Surprise; some are both theoretical and practical, e.g., Bob and Grandsire.

Now change ringing is not only a science, but it is also a practical art, and I wonder if our friends who object to Superlative Royal on theoretical grounds realise what the consequence of their action would be if the Exercise let them have their way.

Stedman Doubles was invented by Fabian Stedman; someone extended it to Triples, Caters and Cinques; and these extensions are practical, and by no stretch of the imagination can they be justified on theoretical grounds.

London Surprise Minor is a very old method; someone extended it to Major, and the Major is a practical extension of the Minor, but in strict theory it is a different method.

Double Norwich Major and Maximus were made from the Royal, and in theory they are the same method, but in practice they are very different.

If the first peal of Superlative Surprise Royal has not yet been rung, the first peal of Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques, and the first peal of London Surprise Major have also never been rung, and I am quite sure that the Exercise will never agree to that.

Facts remain the same, theories change, and we cannot have all the work of the past upset to agree with some passing theory.

The first peal of Superlative Royal was rung at Wakefield a century ago, and if a peal of Maximus is to be rung the method must agree with the Major and the Royal.

There was some excuse years ago for ringing Grandsire on even numbers and Kent and Oxford on 9 and 11 bells, but it would only be a disgrace to-day for a band of ringers to ring the method published in 'The Ringing World' as Superlative Maximus some weeks ago, in face of the Wakefield peal of Royal, and in disregard of all musical qualities.—Yours, etc.,

H. LAW JAMES.

THE OTHER VIEW.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Many of your readers may never have heard the history of Copernicus and Galileo. The first-named died in 1543, but his treatise on the revolution of the celestial orbs was not published until after his death because he was diffident of its reception.

Galileo, who was born in 1564, by his researches became convinced of the truth of the Copernican system, but the monks of those days would not listen to or have anything to do with Galileo; in fact, he was persecuted by the Inquisition, and the last nine years of his life was made a hell upon earth for him.

Galileo died in 1642, the year that Newton was born; the discovery of the laws of gravitation by the latter settled the question of the movement of the celestial orbs for ever.

Nature and all her works lay hid in night;

God said, let Newton be—and all was light.

Just as the 'powers that were,' in earlier days, refused to accept the truth, so to-day the 'powers that be' refuse to accept a truth that can be proved mathematically, i.e., that Shipway's so-called Superlative Royal is not a true extension of Superlative Major.

It has been pointed out many times that Cambridge Surprise is a double method on all numbers except for two single places behind when the treble is not in that position; if these two single places are added, then 'Cambridge' has no longer regular lead heads.

What is true of 'Cambridge' is true of innumerable methods, and Superlative Major (like Cambridge Minor), when extended as a double method to the higher numbers, is one of these.—Yours faithfully,

OWEN KAY.

[By a strange coincidence, the two letters appearing above arrived at the same time.—Ed. 'R.W.']

PEAL BOARD DEDICATED.

In the belfry at Ospringe (Kent) Parish Church, on Tuesday evening, March 22nd, a peal board was unveiled and dedicated by the Vicar, Rev. C. E. Hodges. The board, which is the gift of Mr. A. H. Whiting, is of oak and commemorates a peal of Grandsire Triples which was rung on November 6th last by a band of whom half were local ringers. The Vicar conducted a short dedication service, and also gave an address and thanked Mr. Whiting for his gift.

INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I regret that my letter should have rambled; I had hoped, in my ignorance, that I was following a train of cold logic.

However, I stand corrected; but Mr. Armstrong would do well to read the written word, no matter how badly done. In my letter, I can find no suggestion that a learner 'should' do as he is told; to my mind, the rambling conveys the desire to end this state of affairs. I stated that the learner 'does' do so, and I will elaborate; he does only what he is told to do, the more is the pity. Moreover, he does it parrotwise, and in no other way.

Unless your correspondent should take unto himself unmerited credit regarding the decision in your Editorial, I would state that I had no intention of 'supporting' him in the literal sense, having 'followed' his train of thought two years ago, with this difference, that something was done, even so little. Via a local band and a district meeting, the question was brought before the general meeting of our association, with the result that some indication was forthcoming of what was generally desired, and some small good was done. My personal effort for betterment did not mature, but the effort was there.

Perhaps his numerous correspondents will bestir themselves and their associations in like manner. If the 'secretaries of great Guilds' and other officials would devote more time and thought to this subject, something useful might be attained; and here is the opportunity for your correspondent and his friends to 'follow our train of action,' and to help the 'move on.' No matter what be the result of their labours, something will have been attempted.

In conclusion, may I, too, ramble from the point at issue in an attempt to guess your correspondent's name and address, had they not been given? Judging strictly by (1) his modest retirement, (2) the general tone of gentle courtesy, and (3) the painful rectitude of his many conceptions of the literal, my effort would have read: (1) 'Mr. I. Amit,' (2) 'The Eight Bells,' and (3) 'Bright 'Un.'

I would apologise for the necessity of still signing

MINORMANIA.

A BLUNT REPLY TO MR. ARMSTRONG.

Dear Sir,—It will, no doubt, be obviously futile on my part to ask you to realise that I have before me as I write your issues of March 11th and 25th. I had, many years ago, alas! St. Anno Domini will have his day, your very first issue, in the Frisian Islands that were, and when I perused that 'very first' I believed that a new era had dawned for ringing. I shouted, in broad Yorkshire, not Frisian, 'At last is St. Campanus come into his own.' But I spoke, as your last issue plainly shows, far too early, for if your issues of March 11th and 25th are to be believed, 'tis only in this glorious month, dedicated to hares, by the way, the Messiah of beginners arrived, and, above all, 'tis in Hunts (noted for hogs, I believe), that he has eventuated. I have read his letters. Oh, yes, Sir, I've not missed one punctuation mark. I love such metal—the real Damascene (no, don't substitute O B for that second A, Sir). I think that John P. must really be 'American,' for he sure does want the hull airth for threepence. And, Sir, unless I mistake me very much, he, and only the likes of he, gets it in the neck, thrown in big lumps; for on page 191 of your issue of March 25th, 1927, I note that 'Change Ringing,' by Charles A. W. Troyte, is advertised; 'Bob Minor and Major Simply Explained,' by I. and M. Broome, of Bath; and on page 192 of the same issue—sorry, Sir, I was going to say we have, but I should say John P. has, for it is plainly to be seen that you publish the journal for John P.; any left over are handed over to his official almoner to dispense or disburse to us other deserving cases—the Jasper Snowden Series and the Central Council Series. And on page 188 of the said issue we have a beautiful chromograph of a place where they juggle with girlers, carillons, and a few match stalks right on top of the sky line. Well, Sir, Mr. John P. wants something useful in the way of instruction for those with tender understandings (not feet). People understand in their heads sometimes, as well as their feet, though I admit that good feet are necessary to good ringers, and should be included in all the latest up-to-date ringers' outfits along with Troyte's and a marlinspike. Well, sir, I trust you will forward to good Mr. John P. along with my compliments, copies of your pages 191, 192, and 188. He will find more good solid instruction for beginners than you could publish in your pages in the next decade. I doubt if you could get all that is contained in those books published before John P. has gone to his rest. At the rate of two columns per week it sure would take a decent time to get through those books, and I rather doubt if John P. could assimilate more than two columns per seven days of real good instruction like 'Troyte' contains. That is, if I am to judge by his two letters. I know you will publish mine because it is no more vapid than those of John P.

And now, John P., what do you really want? If you want your ringing done for you and left at the door with your copy of the 'Mail' and the matutinal sterilised, just say so, and some of us will be happy to oblige. You certainly don't seem to ask for anything in your letter that isn't thrown at you in big lumps in 'The Ringing World' week by week. Instruction! Why, it oozes out of every line. If you think you could put a paper on the market that is a greater help to beginners than the 'R.W.,' just hop right to it, and we (no, Sir, that's wrong; make it we plus eye strikers) will buy it. If you can't run a paper, Mr. John P., send us a few real good articles on instruction, and don't forget that not a few of us know lumps more about instruction than you do. I have steered a matter of two hundred colts through their first peal, and I shan't be content to see any sob stuff from the pen of one who, in his two 'modest' epistles, has demanded so much. I don't quite see eye to eye with the Editor of this 'R.W.' on all subjects. We get out the copper coal scuttle and dustbin lid and have 100 up with King Billium the Axtieth's cues near every time we meet, so just see to it, Mr. John P., that those articles of instruction are—better than any that have yet appeared in the 'R.W.' up to date. I note that you can't ring a quarter-peal, Mr. John P., so you have sure got a busy job on to teach a lot of us. And now, Sir, just impress on Mr. John P. that the 'R.W.' as a paper, is what Mr. John P. described it as, viz., the 'tombstone' of a declining art. It is essentially to record what has been done in the Exercise; it is a record of that which many tyros have accomplished and wish placed on record that 'those who run may read.' John Brown rings his first 720. So good; let the world know it. Bill Timmings rings his first 'Gannie Gunter.' Then it must be inflicted on John P., this and to other. Someone foists a new and ambidexterous version of Ardschoke Triples on us, and in the pages of the 'R.W.' it is sent to the British Museum, and there it lies, like Hearn's Diary at Oxford, for all who come hereafter to delve into its pages and cull learning. Yes, Sir, don't, on your life, stuff your pages with kindergarten material which we can buy for a few coppers so ably expounded by Messrs. Broome. Don't give us any fables like 'Alice in Wonderland'; we get that in Snowden's 'Ropesight.' Just point out to all incumbents who have a ring of bells in their steeple that no one ever heard of the choir boys having to purchase their own psalters. Why the ringers should have to purchase their own music in 999 cases out of a thousand, gets me guessing. The whole of the Exercise is what it makes itself.

Mr. John P. evidently does not realise that the ringing Exercise is self-supporting, and receives no benefit or instruction from outside. Outsiders, however clever they may be, can never be of assistance to ringers, therefore the acme of perfection in ringing can only be what the most perfect ringers make it, and I should imagine that, as in any other science, the greatest savants are not the best instructors, as the gift of imparting knowledge is not vouchsafed to the majority. Very few scholars in a class learning Euclid would be able to clean the cobwebs off the 'Asses' Bridge' to the average schoolboy comprehension. The majority merely thunder it at the class and gasp with amazement that the light of immediate comprehension has not dawned on each boy's face. Pedagogue knows it, and why it is so. He can't put himself back thirty years, nor the boy's mind forward thirty years. Could he do so—well, sir, and that could be done, such letters as John P.'s would never have been written.

Now, good Sir, you whom I have known no long, as scapegoat, as purveyor of logic, compositions, history, god and bad, you've published my peals, my vapourings, my many pilgrimages, now that you have acquired a new calling I trust that you will live long enough, and at the long last, as chief monumental mason of our Exercise, write week by week some portion of the 'memento mori' of mine own declining art. Just tell John P. that, in ringing of all things, the good don't die young. Had it been so, I should not survive to-day, but I don't want the moon to play with for 3d. per week. If John P. wants it, just tell him if he climbs up among those match stalks on the top of page 188 of your issue of date March 25th, 1927, he will be just about as near Elysium as he can get—if he just shuts his eyes and walks about.—Sincerely yours (and his),

JOSEPH E. SYKES THE GREATER.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD.

ONE HUNDRED TOWERS WITH NO MEMBERS.

Two meetings have been held lately, one at Ufford on February 12th, another at Stowmarket on March 19th. Both were well attended, and there was a large amount of good ringing.

Just before the former meeting, a peal board was unveiled in Ufford tower to commemorate the ringing of the 'Charles' peal there on July 4th, 1924. The lettering is cut in gold on a slab of beautiful dove marble, on a black marble base. The work was done by Mr. Chas. Mee, one of the founders of the Guild, and the cost was shared between him and several other donors.

At the meeting, the Secretary pointed out that there were 50 towers where there were fewer members than bells, and the Guild lost by them not compounding; while there were over 100 towers where there were bells but no members.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

In the annual report of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association for the year 1926, the membership is shown as 1,042, an increase of 58. Appreciation is expressed of the work of the branch secretaries. In one or two branches, it is stated, increased membership had been looked forward to, but in these, as in other branches, there were many towers not included in the list of members. With regard to these, the executive committee is particularly anxious to assist, and will readily do so if approached. There are, approximately, 200 churches with bells in the two dioceses, so that they should enter upon a campaign at once to bring more of these into the association.

The balance sheet showed a gain on the year's working of £10 5s. 5d., but the committee would like to see a more general response to the Hefry Repair Fund, and members are asked to bear this in mind in 1927.

The peal performances for 1926 were 18 less than in 1925, and totalled 40. Restorations and augmentations carried out during the year were very encouraging.

BRISTOL BRANCH.

The monthly meeting of the Bristol Branch was held at St. Michael's (City), Bristol, on Saturday last. The attendance of members did not come up to expectation, but representatives attended from St. Michael's, St. Stephen's, St. Philip's, and St. Werburgh's, Bristol, Almondsbury, Henbury, Mangotsfield, Olveston and Stoke Bishop.

Ringling commenced at 3 p.m., and touches in the standard methods were rung up to 4.30 by the mixed bands. The service, which was of a very bright character, was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W. S. Hazeldine, and was fully choral. He also gave an instructive address. An adjournment was then made to the new Parish Hall, where an excellent tea was awaiting the members and friends, provided by that excellent church worker and lady bellringer, Miss E. Smith, who had spared no time and trouble to ensure the comfort of all. A company of 35 sat down.

The short business meeting followed, the chairman (Mr. J. Gould) presiding, supported by the Rector and Mr. Gregory (churchwarden).

Messrs. A. White (Almondsbury) and W. Cook (Henbury) were elected performing members. The question of securing a conveyance for the next (quarterly) meeting, to be held at Marshfield on April 30th, was discussed, and it was left in the hands of the hon. secretary to arrange for a motor.

The invitation at the ringers' rally, on Saturday next at Croydon, by Mr. C. Johnston, was discussed, and the secretary was asked to thank Mr. Johnston for this kind offer.

Mr. C. Harding proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, the Parish Hall, and taking the service, also to Miss Smith and her lady helpers for providing such a bountiful tea.

The votes in both instances were carried with acclamation, and the Rector, in responding, welcomed the association to his parish. It made a pleasant change, he said. He took great interest in his ringers, and either he or his curate visited the tower every Sunday. He apologised for the absence of his other churchwarden through illness.

Hearty votes of thanks were also given to the organist and choir for their valuable service. The tower was again visited, and ringing maintained until 8 p.m.

The notice of the next (quarterly) meeting at Marshfield will in due course be given in 'The Ringing World,' and a record attendance is looked for.

THE LATE MR. FREDERICK WEBB.

There has been recorded elsewhere in these columns a muffled peal rung at Kidlington, Oxon, on Thursday, March 10th, as a tribute of respect to the late Mr. Frederick Webb, who was laid to rest on that day. He had not been in his usual health since August last, but it was only shortly before he died that his condition gave cause for grave anxiety.

Frederick Webb was the last of a fine trio of church-bell ringers and loyal Oxford Guild members, all of Kidlington, the other two being William Bennett and Harry Judge. Twenty-five years ago they were to the fore in all ringing matters in that part of the Oxford Diocese, besides being the backbone of the Kidlington band.

At the same time the firm of Webb and Bennett were doing some good work as bell hangers in many parts of the country, and it was of course on the Kidlington bells as hung by them that the seventeen thousand of Double Norwich was rung. For many years, Mr. Webb served on the committee of the Oxford Guild, and was as regular and as helpful in his attendance there as he was at the meetings of the Witney and Woodstock Deaneys Branch. A man to be relied on, whose words were few and sincere, and whose actions were the outcome of an honest desire to do good. May he rest in peace.

HOME FROM CANADA.

At the Parish Church, Harpenden, on March 23rd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) in 50 mins.: A. Day 1, R. Jarman 2, R. Coburn 3, H. Burgess 4, R. Newson 5, W. Simmons 6, B. Jarman (conductor) 7, S. Barnes 8. Rung as a compliment to H. Burgess, who was home on holiday from Canada. Longest touch rung by W. Simmons.

SUDBURY VETERAN'S DEATH.

Sudbury, Suffolk, ringers, together with some friends, met at All Saints' Church on Saturday afternoon to pay a last tribute to one of the old company, Mr. W. Griggs, who passed away at the advanced age of 87 years, and was buried at the cemetery earlier in the afternoon.

The deceased was the oldest surviving member of the company that flourished in the eighties under the able conductorship of the late Chas. Sillitoe. Unfortunately the only other surviving member of that company, Mr. M. Sylvester, was unable, owing to ill health, to take part in the ringing, although he was present at the funeral service.

Two short touches of Grandsire Triples were rung with the bells half-muffled, those taking part being Messrs. A. Scott, C. Clark, G. Tatum, W. Heard, W. Lee, S. Gridley, L. Allington and G. W. Dixon, also T. Chianey (Melford), J. King (Polstead), and D. H. Elliott (Assington) conductor.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.LOUGHBOROUGH DISTRICT.

A most enjoyable afternoon and evening were spent by the Loughborough District at Quorn on Saturday, when 14 members joined quite a number of young local ringers, who consequently obtained some excellent practice on their eight bells. The Rev. H. E. Runsey, who presided at the meeting, gave the ringers a most hearty welcome, and said he was most pleased to do all he could to help to further the brotherhood which existed between ringers.

Methods indulged in were Grandsire Doubles, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Minor and Grandsire Triples.

The next meeting was fixed at Prestwold, but, in case the bells cannot be obtained, Wymwold was chosen as a substitute.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.WESTERN DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the Western District was held at Slinfold on Saturday, March 19th. A good number of members and friends attended from Heene, West Tarring, Billingshurst, Warnham, Lower Beeding, Shipley, Merstham, Horsham, Chertsey, Rudgwick and the local band. The six bells were kept going till five o'clock, when tea was partaken of at the King's Head Inn, where the ringers were met and welcomed by the Rector (the Rev. J. H. Hebbington).

At the business meeting, with the Rector presiding, the following members were elected: C. E. Smith (Godalming), W. Hooker (Warnham), A. Parker (Stokingfield), C. Denyer (Horsham), Chas. Smart and P. Knight (Pulborough), W. Tickner and E. Tickner (Itchingfield), J. T. Dyke (Othelcompton), and W. Robinson (Guildford).

Mr. A. W. Groves was re-elected as secretary, Messrs. Lindup, Doick and T. Adams were elected on the general committee, and Messrs. Charman, Burdfield and Burtenshaw as the committee of advice. Horsham was proposed for the next quarterly meeting in May.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for presiding and granting the use of the bells. The members then again visited the helfry for further ringing.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.EASTERN DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting was held at Howden on Saturday, March 19th, and was attended by upwards of some 40 members, representing the towers at Beverley, Eastington, Hemmingbrough, Hull, Kirk Ella, Market Weighton, Pontefract, Selby, Sherburn-in-Elmet, York, and the local tower, the beautiful spring-like day adding no little to the enjoyment of the proceedings.

The peal of eight (tenor 26½ cwt.) was, by kind permission of the Vicar (the Rev. A. Waring, M.A.), available during the day, and various touches were rung in the standard methods. Owing to an urgent engagement of the Vicar, the service which was originally arranged for 4 p.m. had to be unfortunately abandoned.

An excellent tea was provided in the Mission Room, followed by the business meeting at the same premises. The chair was taken by the Vicar, supported by the vice-president (Mr. F. Cryer, Selby). The Chairman, in his opening remarks, extended a very hearty welcome to the association, and commented that it was six years since the association's last visit to Howden.

Two new members were elected—Mr. H. Kneeshaw, of Market Weighton, and Mr. S. Kinnman, of Holy Trinity, Hull.

The next quarterly meeting was arranged to be held at Market Weighton in June, by kind invitation of the Rector.

The Exercise is the poorer by the death of two old ringers, which occurred during the last month—Mr. H. Jenkins, aged 82, of All Saints', Hull, and Mr. T. H. Haigh, aged 74, of York Minster, and to their relatives the members extended their deepest sympathy.

The retiring officers, Mr. F. Cryer, Selby (vice-chairman), and Messrs. A. Walker, sen. (Pontefract), W. Gibson (Beverley) and J. Drake (Goole), committeemen, were re-elected for three years. Mr. J. H. Howell, Hull (general committeeman), intimated his desire to resign, and Mr. F. W. Dale, Hull, was elected in his stead.

On the motion of the vice-president, a unanimous and hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar of Howden for the use of the bells, also to the ladies for serving the tea, and Mr. R. B. Smith and the local ringers for their excellent arrangements for the comfort of the visitors.

WAINFLEET BELLS REHUNG.

On Friday evening the Old Leake ringers paid a visit to St. Mary's Church, Wainfleet, to try the bells which have just been rehung by Mr. A. Bowell, of Ipswich. Owing to a breakdown with his motorcycle, Mr. G. W. Houghton arrived late, and Mr. H. Wellham (Ipswich) kindly took his place, and a well-struck 720 Rob Minor was rung: Percy Lakin 1, Miss Elsie Lakin 2, J. W. Lakin, sen., 3, J. Phillips 4, H. Wellham 5, J. W. Lakin, jun. (conductor) 6. Mr. G. W. Houghton arrived later, and further ringing was done, the methods being Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Double Court and Cambridge, and the local band took part in Bob Doubles.

The bells, which are a nice ring of six (tenor about 12 cwt.), have been rehung with all new fittings, and the 'go' of them is all that can be desired. The only fault is the noise in the ringing chamber, which it is hoped will be remedied by bringing the ropes to the bottom floor, as it is only about 40 feet from the bells.

ROMNEY MARSH GUILD.

The monthly meeting of the Romney Marsh Guild was held at St. Stephen's, Canterbury, on Saturday, March 19th, by kind permission of the Rector (Rev. Stonehouse). A special service was held, and the Rector gave a most interesting address on the history of the church. Tea was held in the Parish Hall, 36 members and friends sitting down, the towers represented being Ashford, Charing, Cheriton, Wye, Eastwell, Wickhambreau, Wingham, and some of the local bands.

The business meeting was presided over by the Rector, supported by Canon F. J. O. Helmore, Mr. C. W. Everett (the Master), and the hon. secretary (Mr. C. W. Franklin).

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Sellenge.

A vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. G. J. Youngs, was passed to Canon Helmore and the Rector for the kind way in which they had received the Guild.

The bells at St. Stephen's were kept going until late in the evening.

THE VICTORY TOWER Height 300 feet

OTTAWA

Where the World's Greatest Carillon is about to

CARILLONS AND THEIR INFLUENCE.

The world's greatest gathering of bell ringers assembled at the Croydon Bell Foundry on Saturday to inspect and hear the world's greatest carillon which is to be erected at Ottawa. The invitation extended to the ringers of England to make a personal acquaintance with this masterpiece of the bell founders' art was responded to so enthusiastically that it brought together, from all over the country, an assembly, the like of which had not previously been witnessed in the history of the Exercise. It was a remarkable gathering; the more so because the chief attraction was not a set of bells such as ringers in this country delight to use, and it demonstrated, therefore, how deeply is implanted in the soul of the average ringer the love of bells, in whatever form they are to be used. For every ringer who was present there were doubtless a dozen others who would have liked to be there had circumstances permitted. For those who were privileged to take part it was a memorable occasion in many ways. It was a day full of interest and of enjoyment, and those who were able to approach the carillon critically from either the musical or engineering point of view, must have been convinced of the marvellous pitch of efficiency to which our modern English bell founders have raised their art—a level far higher than that reached by their competitors, either on the Continent or in America.

The work which is being done in connection with the great carillons which are now forming such an important part in the English bell founders' output, must inevitably be a factor in improving both the musical and mechanical features of bells hung for ringing in our own church towers. The uneasiness which was felt by some at the action taken in regard to Coventry Cathedral bells—that it was the thin end of the wedge to substitute mechanical chimes for the fine old English practice of bell ringing—is dispelled by the frankly expressed opinion of Mr. Cyril Johnston, on Saturday, that in a country with something like forty thousand ringers and ten thousand rings of bells of sorts, a bell founder would be foolish indeed if he sought to oust from our churches the traditional use of bells. He showed how the making of carillons must reflect to the advantage of ringing in England, and thoughtful people will fully appreciate his views. Moreover, all the while our bell founders can draw in orders for carillons for those countries where change ringing is practically unknown, and where, therefore, such bells can in no way detrimentally affect our art, it is not only giving employment to workmen in an industry in which we as an Exercise are peculiarly interested, and are especially concerned to see preserved, but it will add to the efficiency of our foundries, induce them to maintain their factories at a high standard and continue their efforts to improve both the bells themselves and their appurtenances. Looked at logically, then, while we need to guard our own traditional methods of ringing in this country, we have every reason to welcome the great industry of carillon making which English bell founders are building up in this country for the first time.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

MORE HISTORY FROM HEARNE'S DIARY.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Ringling is such a self centred, self contained thing that, when we are thinking of the old ringers of one, or two, or three hundred years ago, we have great difficulty in fitting them into their contemporary setting. We think of them as ringers much the same as we are, rarely indeed as men whose life and surroundings, ideas and habits differed so very much and in so many ways from our own. And yet, of course, the bells and the bell ringling played their part in the social and political movement of the various times, and expressed feeling and excitement about causes and persons which are little more than names to us to-day and often not so much.

In 1733 all the bells in England were set ringling because an unpopular Excise Bill was defeated in Parliament. Sir Robert Walpole's sarcastic pun is well known, when a few years later he was, against his better judgment, forced into war with Spain. 'They are ringling their bells now, they will soon be wringing their hands.' In the Hammersmith peal board quoted in these notes on August 21st, 1925, we have another instance of the connection of ringling and popular excitement, and a much more notable one in the change of the name of the London Scholars to that of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, in honour of the victor of Culloden. In the burning question of that day the London Scholars and all London were solid for the Hanoverian King and the Protestant Succession.

It was not so everywhere in England. In the country houses and parsonages the feeling was strong for the exiled Stuarts. Oxford University and town were mainly High Church, High Tory and Jacobite, and no man held those views more forcibly than Thomas Hearne. He hated the revolution of 1689 which put William of Orange on the English throne, he detested the Dissenters and all their ways, and he looked on Low Churchmen as little better than they. In Queen Anne's reign he held a post as deputy librarian at the Bodlian, but he threw it up rather than take the 'wicked oaths' to King George I., whom he still continued to call Duke of Brunswick. There was, of course, a government party in the University—the government controlled the appointment to sufficient official positions to see to that; and so, when the fifth of November came round, they used the date to make a demonstration in favour of Protestantism and King George. Gunpowder Plot celebrations meant something then; the very fact that they still survive in a feeble, futile fashion shows how strong a place they once held in the minds of English people. It was near enough, too, to the date of the anniversary of the landing of William III. at Torbay to be a celebration of Protestantism, Whiggery, Low Churchism and everything else in Church and State that Hearne abhorred. And the leading thing in this celebration was the ringling of the bells.

The appeal that bells made to the popular imagination and their power as expressions of popular sentiment seem to have been far greater in the eighteenth century than now. Bells are still popular and increasingly so, but they can no longer express public feelings as they did once. If, for instance, England broke out into universal bell ringling because, say, the Labour Party was defeated at a General Election, we should think it not only strange, but positively wrong. But that is the sort of thing which would have happened two hundred years ago. Hearne and the Oxford Tories thought it wrong to ring for the Fifth of November, but if it had been for a political victory on their side they would have found no fault. Strong Churchman and Anglo-Catholic as he was, Hearne saw nothing amiss in ringling church bells for a wager. The ringers' opinions were not so strong as his. They probably thought that if James III. was king de jure, George III. was king de facto; anyhow, they wanted to make another attempt for the six thousand; and here was the opportunity, with the chance as well of earning a little money.

Hearne was very scornful about their ringling for money, and calls them 'poor mercenary ringers,' and suggests that they sold themselves for 'only fifteen shillings and sixpence a man.' Fifteen shillings and sixpence a head for a day's ringling does not seem very bad pay, even in these days when money is worth very much less than it was then, and I dare say there were many other occasions when there was paid ringling: the Founder's Day at New College, for instance, when they made their last attempt. But Hearne was one of those worthy souls who, when they have any feelings about Church and State affairs, feel far too strongly to have even any pretence of impartiality. Even among the ringers there was some difference of opinion, and three put principle before interest and refused to ring. That gave Brickland, the schoolmaster, another chance, and also made way for a beginner, one Crozier, of whom Hearne speaks very favourably.

The attempt was made at Christ Church, and the ringling appears to have been very good, but after about two thousand changes it came to naught. Hearne was torn between his political opinions and his love of the bells. He persuaded himself that for no reason whatever would he on such a day go and listen to ringling for such a celebration, yet, of course, a man must take a little exercise, and so he 'happened' to go through the White Walk while they were ringling. There he 'happened' to hear people say 'twas excellent ringling,' and so, on his way back, he comes through the cloisters and rather surprised himself by stopping to listen, merely, as he says, to find out if what the people said was correct. Just then they got into the muddle which, in the end, broke them down, and in a quarter of an hour Hearne counted 18 considerable faults to his no small satisfaction, for, however bad the ringling might be, 'twas good enough for the day.'

'1734, Monday, December 2nd.—On the 5th November last some Oxford ringers were resolved to show their zeal for the Government by ringling Cater changes as well as possibly they could upon Christ Church ten bells. They were some of the best ringers, and because they think they merited much by their performance, I shall here specify the names of every one of them, at the same time noting that three excellent ringers, Mr. John George, a Taylor, Mr. Thomas Yates, the second Cook of Magdalen College, and Mr. John Broughton, the Barber, acted much more for their honour and credit, who declined ringling amongst them that day by which these three avoided the censure of being poor mercenary ringers (for the others rang for money), and of giving credit to a downright false notion that the Prince of Orange landed upon the 5th, whereas it was upon the 4th of November, to say nothing of the Powder Plot, which many wise men give out was a meer sham. I happened that day, between three and four o'clock in the afternoon, to go through the White Walk, while the bells were ringling, and I heard several in the Walk say 'twas exceeding good ringling. Coming to the Cloysters, I stood still to listen (which I should not have done on such a day as that, were it not to see whether the character of its being exceeding good ringling were just or not), and in sixteen minutes I discovered eighteen considerable faults, the last six so very considerable that I found they would soon be confounded, as indeed they were, and so gave over, not being able to make clean work; and yet, notwithstanding this, they boast that 'twas extraordinary good ringing, and that they rang two thousand. I cannot say anything to the number of changes nor for the goodness of the ringing before the last quarter of an hour, and how bad that was I have fairly signified, and yet 'twas good enough for the day. I should likewise here remark that the reward of these mercenary ringers was only 15s. 6d. a man, and that one of the ringers was a learner or beginner (as it were) only, viz., Mr. Crozier, a Cork Cutter, and yet so skilful that he may deservedly be reckoned among the best Oxford ringers. The names (what I propose to give) of all these ten ringers were in order just as they rang as follows:

- 1.—Mr. Richard Hearne, a Taylor.
- 2.—Mr. John Vickers, second Butler of New College.
- 3.—Mr. William Crozier, a Cork Cutter.
- 4.—Mr. Guy Terry, a Potash Maker.
- 5.—Mr. Brickland, a Schoolmaster.
- 6.—Mr. Thomas Nash, a Cabinet Maker.
- 7.—Mr. Arthur Lloyd, Carpenter and Bell Hanger.
- 8.—Mr. William Barnes, second Cook of Christ Church.
- 9.—Mr. Richard Smith, a Glover.
- 10.—Mr. Nicholas Benwell, Sexton of Christ Church.

WELCOME TO NEW VICAR.

The induction of the new Vicar of Marshfield, the Rev. C. S. L. Alford, on March 29th, was celebrated by the ringing of a few touches of Triples before service, and afterwards a quarter-peal was rung by the following: C. H. Williams 1, J. H. Beazer 2, H. Woodham 3, E. Lewis 4, P. C. Williams 5, G. Robinson 6, J. G. Jeffries (conductor) 7, and J. H. Williams 8. The Vicar afterwards ascended the tower and congratulated and thanked the ringers for the happy thought which led to the cheerful ringing of the bells.

A SILVER WEDDING PEAL.

A peal of Stedman Triples, rung at Compton Gifford, Devon, on Saturday, celebrated the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Lilley, who were married at St. Paul's Church, Bedford, 25 years ago. The marriage took place on Easter Monday, March 31st, and earlier in the day Mr. Lilley conducted a 'bachelors' peal at Biddingham. The peal on Saturday was the 50th for the Devon Guild by Mr. G. Harry Myers, who was a pioneer of change ringing in Plymouth, and the band included two fathers and two sons.

It was the first peal of Stedman rung on the bells since October 12th, 1907, conducted by Mr. G. N. Price, and in which Mr. C. R. Lilley also took part.

BELLS REHUNG AT GAINFORD, DURHAM.

The bells of St. Mary's Church, Gainford, have been away to the Loughborough foundry, where they have been cleaned by the sand-blast process and retuned. They are now back in the tower and rehung in the old frame with entirely new fittings and on ball bearings.

On Saturday, March 5th, ringers from Darlington (Holy Trinity, St. Cuthbert's and St. John's) and All Saints', Hurworth-on-Tees, paid a visit to try them, touches of Bob Minor, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor being rung, and also 720 each of London and Cambridge Surprise Minor, and 360 of Cambridge Surprise.

The bells go well, but some difficulty was experienced with the treble and second, through the ropes slipping off the wheels, but this will, doubtless, soon be rectified.

The Vicar of Gainford (the Rev. R. A. Bidwell) kindly entertained the ringers to tea, and they expressed their thanks to him for his kindness, and for a pleasant afternoon. The bells are a nice ring of six, with a tenor of 14 cwt.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION.

A NEW BRANCH TO BE FORMED.

The quarterly meeting of the Swindon Branch was held at Chippenham on Saturday, March 19th, with a good attendance from the following towers: Aldbourne, Bath, Chippenham, Chilcompton, Devizes, Marshfield, Mangotsfield, Plymouth, Swindon, Slough, Weston-super-Mare, and Wootton Bassett. The secretary was pleased to see so many visitors from outside the district, including two who took advantage of a football special from Plymouth to come up to Chippenham for a ring and set an example to some of Swindon ringers who cannot attend the meetings when there is a football match at Swindon. Why is it that ringing has to take second place?

The bells of St. Andrew's Church were raised at three p.m., and kept going until a quarter to five, when a service was conducted by the Vicar. Tea at the Waverley Hotel was followed by the business meeting. The Vicar, the Rev. W. E. Wood, was voted to the chair, and the meeting opened with a few moments' silence in memory of Mr. William Hulbert, of the Chippenham band. A discussion took place on the suggested division of the district, and it was unanimously decided to form a Chippenham Branch, with the Vicar (the Rev. W. E. Wood) as president of the branch.

Furton was proposed for the April meeting, and St. Mark's, Swindon, for May, to be arranged, if possible, on the day of the dedication of the two new trebles.

This concluded the business, and a return was made to the tower, where Double Norwich, Stedman, and Grandsire were practised.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies has undergone an operation at St. Luke's Hostel, Fitzroy Square, London, and, we are glad to say, is reported to be going on satisfactorily.

The Rev. F. L. Edwards, hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, was the preacher at St. Clement Danes' Church on Sunday morning.

A peal of Minor has been rung at Yaxley, Suffolk, made up of one 720 of Bob Minor, two and a half 'extents' of Oxford Treble Bob, and three and a half 'extents' of Kent. Ringers have full liberty to follow their own dictates in these matters, but the Central Council ruling on a peal of Minor is that it should consist of at least seven true and complete 720's, but that the 5,040 may be extended by the addition of one touch of less than 720 changes, with or without extra 720's.

In view of the possibilities which Minor ringing now possesses, it would seem desirable that this ruling should be adhered to, and it only 5,040 changes are rung there should be only true and complete 720's. Splicing provides the opportunity for change of method.

When we get into April we get among the anniversaries of many long peals, for which the Easter holidays are chiefly responsible. Here, for instance, is the list for the ensuing week:

April 8th, 1844.—10,259 Grandsire Caters at Ashton-under-Lyne in 6 hrs. 10 mins.

1912.—12,160 Bristol Surprise Major at Knebworth in 7 hrs. 18 mins.

April 9th, 1830.—Elijah Roberts tapped 7,536 Kent Treble Bob Maximus in 4 hrs. 51 mins.

April 10th, 1848.—8,448 Kent Treble Bob Major at St. Matthew's, Bethnal Green.

1871.—10,272 Kent Treble Bob Major at Liversedge in 5 hrs. 48 mins.

April 11th, 1888.—13,265 Grandsire Caters at Appleton in 8 hrs. 5 mins.

April 12th, 1909.—18,027 Stedman Caters at Loughborough in 12 hrs. 18 mins.

April 13th, 1914.—14,000 Kent Treble Bob Royal at Ashton-under-Lyne in 9 hrs. 24 mins.

Mr. James George, who has done such great things at the 'heavy end' of our biggest peals of bells, has now created a record at the light end. Last week he rang the treble at Loughborough Bell Foundry to a peal of Minor, the weight of the tenor being only 2 cwt. 1 qr. 5 lbs. Mr. George had previously rung the treble at Lye, Worcestershire, to a peal of Stedman Triples. The tenor there is 3½ cwt., and Mr. George is the first to ring peals on the two lightest bells to be found hung in rings in this country.

His performance at Loughborough shows that despite his 73 years he still has 'touch' as well as stamina, for he handled this tiny bell in the fast ringing (the peal was rung under two hours) splendidly.

The new peal of eight bells at Edgbaston, Birmingham, which have been installed by Messrs. Taylor and Co., were dedicated by Bishop Hamilton Baines on Sunday. They are a very fine ring.

Mr. Albert Walker, the Deputy Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, gave a lecture on 'Campanology,' illustrated by lantern slides and change ringing on handbells, to a large gathering of the Birmingham Association of Mechanical Engineers (of the Council of which he is a member) at Birmingham last Friday evening.

Mr. A. Paddon Smith, the genial hon. secretary of St. Martin's Guild, returns to England next week from his long business tour in India.

RECORD PEAL ATTEMPT.

All being well, eight members of the Lancashire Association intend to attempt a record peal of Treble Bob Major (17,824 changes) in the Oxford variation, at the Parish Church of St. Thomas, Heptonstall, Yorks, on Easter Monday, April 18th, starting at 8.30 a.m.

DEATH OF A LANCASHIRE STALWART.

PIONEER OF CHANGE RINGING AT WALKDEN.

A well-known Walkden ringer, Mr. John Welsby, passed away on March 26th. Deceased had been in failing health for some time, but his death was rather unexpected, as he was out on March 23rd.

He was the last of the old band who started to ring in 1876, when the peal of six were put in, and he was one of the first to introduce change ringing at Walkden.

He was laid to rest on March 30th, and was carried to the grave by fellow ringers from Walkden, Worsley and Bolton. The Vicar officiated, and the hymn 'Lead us, Heavenly Father, lead us,' was sung in church, and a course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave by the following: F. Morris (Bolton) 1-2, P. H. Derbyshire (Worsley) 3-4, J. H. Ridyard (Worsley) 5-6, G. Pincock (Bolton) 7-8. A muffled peal was rung at night.

Deceased had rung 71 peals in the following methods: Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob and Double Norwich Major.

THE GREAT BOURDON BELL FOR CANADA. SOME COMPARATIVE SIZES.

Giant and pigmy well describe the comparative sizes of the great and small bells in the wonderful carillon for Ottawa. The bourdon bell, ten tons in weight, is 100 inches in diameter; the smallest bell of the 53 is 12 lb. in weight and 7 in. in diameter. The weight of the clapper of the bourdon bell, operated from the clavier, is 4½ cwt., and the clock hammer is 5 cwt.

THE CONCERT.

Among those who contributed to the enjoyment of the company at the concert which took place in connection with the Rally were Miss Norah Nelson, Miss Nora Johnston, Capt. Freeborn, and Mr. Cyril Sindall (vocalists), Mr. Richard Edridge and Mr. George Cooper, who collaborated with violin and piano, and Mr. Cyril Johnston, who performed on a 'drawing room' carillon, in other words, a set of handbells. A touch of Stedman Cinques was rung by a company of College Youths, and other change ringing was done by members of the Surrey Association. At intervals there was dancing to the strains of a synco-pated orchestra, and the evening was a delightful one.

NOTTINGHAM PARTY'S EXPERIENCE.

The Nottingham contingent had an unpleasant experience on the homeward journey. The engine of their train broke a tyre on one of the main driving wheels and became a hopeless cripple. Another engine was procured, but Leicester was reached three hours late. As a result, the connection to Nottingham was missed, and the party had to wait five hours, eventually arriving at Nottingham just in time to get a 'late mark' for Sunday morning ringing. Thanks to the self-denial of one Leicester ringer, who stayed up and procured refreshment, the discomforts of the delay were considerably reduced, but, writes a Nottingham ringer, 'we shall remember Croydon and must be thankful the breakdown was no worse.'

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Owing to Good Friday, 'The Ringing World' will be published a day earlier than usual next week, and will be on sale on Thursday.

All communications intended for that issue must reach us not later than Monday next.

COVENTRY BELLS.

In connection with the rehanging and dedication of the Coventry Cathedral bells on the afternoon of Easter Eve, April 16th, at 3 p.m., the Sub-Dean and churchwardens of the Cathedral will be very glad to welcome any bell-ringers, who are able to attend the service, to tea in St. Mary's Hall at the conclusion of the service. Will those ringers who hope to avail themselves of this hospitality send a post-card to Canon Holland, The Sub-Deaunery, Coventry, not later than Wednesday, April 13th.

In the unavoidable absence of the Bishop, the bells will be dedicated by the Sub-Dean. The Mayor of Coventry will attend the service, and at its close a recital will be given by Mr. Clifford Ball, capitaineur at Bourneville, and Mr. Harry Withers, of Edgbaston.

Ringers intending to stay over the week-end should write to Mr. F. W. Perrins, 45, Engleton Road, Coventry, who will be pleased to make arrangements for their accommodation on receipt of particulars of their requirements. It is hoped to arrange a social hour after the service and tea.

DEATH OF A VETERAN BROMLEY RINGER.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. George Durling, leader and steeplekeeper of SS. Peter and Paul's, Bromley. He had been a ringer at this church for the last 48 years, and was steeplekeeper for 38 years. He passed away on Sunday, March 27th, after only a few days' illness, having attended the usual practice on the previous Tuesday. He had been one of the most loyal and conscientious ringers from his early days, always being keen in all ringing matters, whether pertaining to the association, Sunday services or any other occasion and was always anxious for young ringers to have 'a pull.' Always punctual, he was ready to oblige everybody in anything that was in his power. He was, of course, well known in ringing circles, and was respected by all who knew him, and will be greatly missed by the whole district, especially by the ringers of SS. Peter and Paul's Church, who have sustained a grievous loss. The deceased was an excellent ringer in all standard methods, and had rung 146 peals, including the treble to several Surprise peals. He had conducted about 25 peals in the plain methods, and about 70 of his peals were rung in his own tower.

He was a very old member of the Kent County Association, and also a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and of the Sussex Association. He was in his 67th year, and was looking keenly forward to Easter Monday, when the Kent County Association will be holding their annual meeting in Bromley for the first time in their history.

THE FUNERAL.

The interment took place on Thursday, March 31st, the first part of the service being held in the Parish Church, the Vicar, Canon Wilson, officiating, assisted by the Rev. James, curate. The lesson was read by the Rev. F. J. O. Helmore, hon. secretary of the Kent County Association, who happened to be in Bromley on that day arranging matters for the annual meeting on Easter Monday. A large number of parishioners and many ringers were present (apart from the family mourners). The following towers were represented: All the members of SS. Peter and Paul's band, St. Luke's, Bromley Common (Mr. F. Keep), Beckenham (Mr. W. J. Rawlings), Chislehurst (Mr. T. Groombridge and Mr. Cyril Brett-Smith), Lewisham (Mr. C. H. Walker and Mr. H. Warnett, jun.), Bishopsgate (Mr. J. E. Davis), and Mr. W. A. Martin, of Sydenham. The interment took place at Bromley Old Cemetery, the committal service being read by the Vicar, after which a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the grave by the following members of the K.C.A.: P. J. Spice 1-2, I. Emery 3-4, C. Brett-Smith 5-6, T. Groombridge, sen., 7-8. The ringers then returned to the tower and rang a half-muffled 4-peal of Grandsire Triples in 47 mins., standing as follows: E. Mounter 1, C. H. Walker 2, G. F. James 3, A. James 4, G. Huxley 5, I. Emery (conductor) 6, T. Groombridge, sen., 7, H. Skinner 8.

On Sunday, March 27th, within an hour or so of his death, the bells were rung half-muffled for morning service, 504 Stedman Triples: T. Groombridge, sen., 1, E. Mounter 2, G. F. James 3, A. James 4, I. Emery (conductor) 5, G. Huxley 6, P. J. Spice 7, H. Skinner 8. All those present expressed their sympathy with the widow and family.

Among the many floral tributes were a floral bell from SS. Peter and Paul's band, a cross from St. Luke's, Bromley Common, and a wreath from the vergers and ringers of St. George's, Beckenham.

At Beckenham, on Thursday, March 31st, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung with the bells half-muffled as a last token of respect to the memory of the late Mr. G. Durling: R. Hollamby 1, W. Rawlings 2, F. King 3, F. Scutcher 4, F. Terry 5, G. Wickens 6, W. Smith (conductor) 7, W. Meek 8. First quarter-peal by R. Hollamby.

SUPERLATIVE MAXIMUS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I wonder if the Rev. H. Law James has ever examined in detail the Superlative Maximus which he so roundly condemns? I venture to say that, either he has not done so, or else his theories have overborne his judgment, for the more this method is examined, the more it will be found like the Major; in fact, it reproduces in exact detail every point in the Major, and I have no hesitation in saying that it is just as good an extension as Cambridge Maximus is of Cambridge Major.

Now, leaving the theoretical side alone—others can deal with that—I will, with your permission, Mr. Editor, make a few points on the practical side. Mr. Law James makes a great point over the fact that the tenors come home once only in the course—at the long dodge. But is this not so in Major? And I have never yet heard it condemned on this score. This is one point of similarity. Another is that the long dodges front and behind are all done with course bells, as in Major. In Major, all other dodges front and behind are done with secondary course bells (I use this for want of a better term), so they are in Maximus. For instance, the 3rd in Major does long dodges with 2 and 5, and all other dodges with 4 and 7. This is exactly the same in Maximus. In Major, bells on and off treble work dodge together in furthest place; so they do in Maximus. In Major bells leaving places and going to treble work, every bell dodged with is starting its place making; this is so in Maximus. In Major, two dodges are missed between long dodges; so they are in Maximus. But one could go on and give many more points of similarity which can easily be picked out by those who have eyes to see.

Another point: the late Mr. John Carter, no mean authority on method construction, rang the first course of this method on his ringing machine in 1912 and called it Superlative, so the Ipswich company did not have that honour, but they may ring the first peal. They rang for 2 hours 20 minutes in an attempt on Saturday last, and if they do succeed there will be no disgrace about it. The disgrace lies in Mr. Law James miscalling the mongrel method he rang Superlative. —Yours, etc.,

Ipswich.

THE DEARTH OF RECRUITS IN SUFFOLK.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have read your leading article on 'more spade work' and the report of the Suffolk Guild. Probably, when I tell you how things are in this area you will not be surprised at the state of affairs. Here are my experiences. At a supper given to all church workers in Glemsford in 1921, at which I was present, the question of raising a band of ringers for Glemsford was talked over, and it was left at that for some time. I was the only person in Glemsford who knew how to ring at that time, but after a while I was asked by my Stanstead friends, to which company I belonged, to find some youths towards raising a band of ringers. I, with a friend of mine, found some, but as soon as they got a bit handy they were scattered by death and unemployment, so that only two remain. I may also add that this parish has been hard hit by the industrial depression, and has lost one-third of its population since the last census. Think of that! There is no employment for young men in this parish. As soon as they reach the learn-to-ring age they have to go away in search of work. Those competent to teach deeply and seriously regret that things are as they are, and have always to keep on teaching even to get the bells rung at all. However, I have, after four years and after many disappointments and struggles, got a band able to ring Glemsford bells, six in number. This is the only six-bell tower in West Suffolk where there are enough men who live in the parish to ring the bells of the Parish Church. I am now trying to find another one or two so as to be sure of always finding a band, but the task seems almost hopeless. I may also add that this exodus of youths from these rural parishes has now spread to almost every parish in this district, so that it is very difficult to find the right sort of youth to teach. There are also no district meetings of the Suffolk Guild to bring together the old and young ringers, and towers where there are less than eight bells are thought little of. I have related to you my own experiences, so that you can see how things stand. It is not the fault of those competent to teach; it is because the right sort of young man is being driven out of this district by unemployment, and in consequence there is no one to teach. After all that we have done to maintain a change ringing band, I think we should be more credited than blamed. —Yours truly,

THEODORE E. SLATER.

DIPLOMAS FOR RINGERS?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I read with deep interest F. Neale's suggestion regarding diplomas. I endorse every word, and think that if this matter were taken up and given careful thought, the inevitable result would tend to inspire young ringers like myself to higher and greater ambitions in the art of bell ringing. Surely, there is some influential ringer who could use such a suggestion to advantage.

BEN ADHEM.

INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I should like to say just a few words in part reply to your correspondent on above subject. Mr. Armstrong was evidently very pleased because there have been only a few replies to his first letter. The reason for this is, most ringers prefer to treat his letter as they would a donkey's kick. I may say this modern Theophilus has yet to find out the true spirit of ringers. It is absurd to expect any weekly journal to be made a text book. Does he expect 'The Ringing World' to have leads or courses of Bob Singles and Grandsire Doubles permanently established therein, in the same way as tables of weights and measures are printed on exercise books? Can we pick up the 'School-master' or any other such papers and regularly find in its pages first standard sums? It is quite out of the question. If some have written agreeing with him that is no criterion of the general feeling, as there are many who have no ideas but just follow somebody or anybody.

With regard to the instruction spoken of, any teacher knows very well teaching is very trying, but if a learner cannot be told without knowing best, there is but one thing to do, for he will never get on. Many of our great men of the past in ringing have been men of little or no schooling, but they have taught well. They did not profess to be educated; and it does not follow that a University man is going to make a ringer any more than a man who does the most humble work. Good luck to 'The Ringing World.'—Yours truly,

JOHN BEAMS.

A STANDARD TEXT BOOK REQUIRED.

Dear Sir,—The correspondence which has previously passed through 'The Ringing World' regarding instructions to learners is a question which might have been raised long ago, and it would seem to come under two headings, lack of clear explanation in what text books are in existence, coupled with the absence of a standard book of instructions—that is, one compiled by, and which has the authority of, the Central Council. Also, not every learner, however, enthusiastic he may be, can afford the various books now in circulation, and which for his guidance it is suggested he should obtain.

I do not think there is much doubt that the methods employed by most instructors are so varied as to rather bewilder the aspirant to ringing honours, but can you blame the instructors when such chaos exists in the published text books, all of which differ in the wording of practically the same instruction.

It would seem, therefore, that the first trouble could be rectified by introducing a remedy for the second, and, surely, the Central Council could not make a better move toward the more efficient teaching of the art than taking up the question without delay, always with the point of cost in view, on something like the lines suggested by Mr. Cook in your issue of March 18th.

Mr. Armstrong's second letter would seem to favour sarcasm rather than straightforward argument. The learner who 'chucked the whole business because he couldn't get on with it' will, I think, never find his name at the end of a peal with the words 'composed and conducted by' in front of it, no matter what instruction or assistance he is given, if he is so easily discouraged. Looking at it from his point of view would make one wonder how our ringers of the past ever learnt the art at all, unless they possessed more than the average amount of brains.—Yours truly,

REX G.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A very pleasant and successful meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association was held at St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Holloway, on Saturday, March 19th, about 35 members putting in an appearance.

Some excellent touches in most of the standard methods were brought round in the afternoon. After tea at a neighbouring cafe, the business meeting was presided over by the District Master, and it was proposed to hold the next meeting at Waltham Abbey some time during May.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Turner for having everything in readiness.

After the meeting, several more touches were rung, and the bells were lowered at half-past eight o'clock. The methods were varied, and included Double Norwich, Cambridge, Superlative and London Surprise Major.

FIRST PEAL AT GAULBY, LEICESTERSHIRE.HEROIC BAND CONQUER DIFFICULTIES.

Like that of its sister church of King's Norton, some half-mile distant (an account of which appeared in these columns on December 10th last), a contemplated peal on the bells at Gaulby, Leicestershire, was fraught with difficulties. The tower and body of the church were rebuilt in 1741 by the bounty of Squire Fortrey, who at the same time gave five bells, adding a sixth in 1748. These still hang in the original frame, and, like all old bells, take the full swing from the canons, necessitating huge wheels and long ropes. The treble wheel is quite as big as that of St. Margaret's, Leicester, 33 cwt. tenor. Most probably these bells would have been rung by the Sherwood Youths, who rang a peal at King's Norton on May 28th, 1776, also by the Leicester Scholars, who also rang a peal there on June 4th, 1816. No complete peal was rung, however, until a band from Billesdon, Ilston, and Norton attempted one last year, and after over three hours' gruelling work lost it in the last six-score owing to the treble rope breaking.

Mr. Joe Norton, of Billesdon, however, was determined to get a peal accomplished, and so, with the help of other Billesdon ringers, wedged, tightened up the frame, spliced old and borrowed ropes, and generally did what he could. Then he invited Mr. Ernest Morris, of Leicester, to come and 'have a go' at what the critics said was 'impossible.' A peal of Minor would be almost doomed before attempted, owing to a huge box-cupboard between the treble and tenor ringers, who never see each other while ringing. Last Saturday, the attempt was made, and successfully carried through to the great satisfaction of everyone concerned. All had to strip for the job as though tackling a herculean task, the treble man with his shirt front open to the waist, and looking as though he meant to 'do or die.' The second man stood among the coal slack and rubbish heap, swinging his rope well in spite of his 'blisters.' The two brothers Geary rang with determination, meaning to do their 'bit,' although the fourth put the 'wind up' owing to the rope coming out of the wheel and sticking up aloft in the first few rounds prior to the actual peal. The hon. secretary, M.C.A., rang the fifth and 'called ye bobbes' with a grim resolution to add another tower to his long list, whilst another of the 'Ernest' band rang the tenor through in fine style, after simply saying 'I'll do it' at the go off. Anyhow, behind him were the freshes of the funeral bier in case of necessity. The lighting accommodation consists of an upright bar fixed in a huge rough stone, with a couple of candles on top. Happily, this was not needed, although the peal finished in semi-darkness. The belfry is on the ground floor, bare bricks in the rough, and littered with all the odds and ends not wanted in the church—the brushes, coal, tins, pans and other rubbish. In spite of all this, an excellent peal was rung, nothing higher than Grandsire Doubles being attempted to make success doubly sure. Afterwards, all the band were entertained to tea by Mr. J. Norton at Billesdon.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.WESTERN DIVISION.

The annual meeting of the Western Division was held at Bingley on Saturday, March 26th. Upwards of 60 members were present from Denholme, Guiseley, Mirfield, Leeds, Batley, Lightcliffe, Queensbury, Pudsey, Bradford, Keighley, Shipley, Idle, Armley, Bolton, Huddersfield, Lindley, and the local company.

Ringings commenced about 2.30 p.m., and at 4.15 p.m. a short church service was held, at which Canon Garard gave a very helpful address as well as the interesting information of a peal of 8,400 changes rung at Bingley in 1826, consisting of 'thirty-five twelve-score of Minor methods.'

After tea, the business meeting was held in the Church House, Mr. J. Cotterell (vice-president) being in the chair.

Six new members were elected, viz., Miss O. Renton, Miss E. Lawrence (Armley), W. Procter (Denholme), S. Barrett, A. C. Walsh (Guiseley), and J. A. Bowers (St. Chad's).

No new nominations having been received, all the retiring officers were re-elected: J. Cotterell (vice-president), R. W. Jennison, H. Smith and W. Ambler (committee).

There were no invitations for the June meeting, and it was left in the hands of the officers to arrange.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells and the address, to the organist, and also to the local company for the arrangements made.—Canon Garard and Mr. Wilson Bartle suitably replied, and the meeting terminated.

Ringings was then further indulged in until 9 p.m.

MR. T. HAMMOND'S 100 PEALS.

Minor 4, Bob Triples 1, Bob Major (on handbells 2) 9, Oxford Bob Triples 1, Grandsire Triples (on handbells 1) 9, Grandsire Caters 1, Stedman Triples 16, Stedman Caters 6, Stedman Cinques 1, Double Norwich Court Bob Major 19, Kent Treble Bob Major 8, Kent Treble Bob Maximus 1, Oxford Treble Bob Major 6, Oxford Treble Bob Maximus 1, Cambridge Surprise Minor 1, Cambridge Surprise Major 7, Cambridge Surprise Royal 1, Superlative Surprise Major 8: total 100, rung in 31 towers.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD.TRURO BRANCH MEETING.

A successful meeting of the above was held at Illogan recently, when about 60 members represented the towers of Camborne, Redruth, Perranwell, St. Gluvias, St. Newlyn East, Kenwyn, Truro Cathedral, Gwennap, and Gulval. The Diocesan Ringing Master, Dr. J. Symons, was also present.

The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. H. Oxland), who also gave an interesting address.

An excellent tea was provided by the local ringers, after which Dr. Symons proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for giving them such a warm welcome, and to the organist and choir for helping with the service.—This was seconded by Mr. W. Wood, who mentioned the good that these meetings were doing in bringing the various bands together and creating an interest generally.

The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening, except for about half an hour in the afternoon, when ringing had to be suspended owing to a funeral taking place. During this period handbells were brought into use, and Grandsire Doubles and Triples were practised and help given to those who are struggling with the first steps of change ringing.

In the evening, members from Gulval, Kenwyn and the Cathedral visited Camborne and rang touches of Grandsire Triples.

It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Perranwell in June.

CANADA'S CARILLON.

WONDERFUL PRODUCT OF THE CROYDON FOUNDRY.

INSPECTION BY TWELVE HUNDRED BELL RINGERS.

The great rally of ringers at Croydon on Saturday proved by far the largest gathering of members of the Exercise that has ever been drawn together at one time. The invitation issued by Mr. Cyril Johnston, through the various associations and 'The Ringing World,' resulted in over 1,200 people visiting Messrs. Gillett and Johnston's celebrated bell foundry during the afternoon, to hear and inspect the world's greatest carillon, which is now ready for shipment to Ottawa, where, in the new and stately home of the Dominion Parliament of Canada, it will form part of the national memorial to the heroic thousands from that distant part of the Empire who laid down their lives in the war. It will be dedicated on 'Dominion Day,' July 1st.

This new carillon is a wonderful achievement in the bell founder's craft. It is heavier than the one which Messrs. Gillett and Johnston made for Park Avenue Baptist Church, New York, just over a year ago, and its 53 bells range through four and a half chromatic octaves from the 'low E' ten-ton Bourdon bell to the top treble, musically described as 'high A.' The big bells are really majestic castings, majestic alike in shape and in sound. Round the shoulder of the Bourdon bell is a continuous design of maple leaves, and the inscription on the waist is duplicated, being in English on one side and in French on the other—a fitting tribute to the two nationalities which go to make the people of the great Dominion.

There is special interest also, in the fourth quarter-bell, weighing 2½ tons, for it was this bell which the Prime Minister of Canada saw cast last year, and into which he dropped a Canadian coin just as the metal was about to be poured into the mould. This bell bears the inscription, 'Cast in the presence of the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, C.M.G., M.P., Prime Minister of Canada, 19th November, 1926.'

The smallest bell in the carillon is a casting only about 12 lbs. in weight, but the whole of the bells have been tuned on the Simpson five-tone harmonic principle to a scale of equal temperament and to international pitch. The total weight of the bells is 53 tons, and they will be installed in the magnificent Victory tower at Ottawa in a framework and fittings weighing another 22 tons. The frame itself is a gigantic structure, with a foundation of enormous steel girders, the bells rising tier upon tier to a height of something like 50 feet. As the carillon was displayed in the foundry, it was in two sections, but when mounted in the tower at Ottawa, these sections will be superimposed.

In tone the bells form a glorious whole. The chords of the big bells vibrate like the deep diapason of a gigantic organ, the middle bells are singularly beautiful, while the high notes, so exceptionally difficult to reduce to true Simpson harmonics, pipe out their shrill tones with remarkable purity, and the whole form an instrument almost without parallel in the world. It is another triumph for Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, and, hearing the bells on Saturday one could not but reflect upon the joy which this great carillon will give not only to the present generation, but to generations of Canadians yet unborn.

MR. P. C. LARKIN, HIGH COMMISSIONER FOR CANADA, ACCOMPANIED BY MR. CYRIL JOHNSTON, INSPECTING THE SECOND LARGEST BELL (WEIGHING 7 TONS), ON THE DAY BEFORE THE RINGERS' RALLY.

ALL ENGLAND REPRESENTED.

Saturday's great gathering was a remarkable one. The opportunity of seeing this wonderful product of an English bell foundry captured the imagination of ringers all over the country, and from north, south, east and west they rolled up literally in hundreds. Many brought their wives or friends, and they came by train and car. Charabancs discharged their human freight at the foundry door, every train arriving at one or other of the Croydon stations between half-past one and three o'clock disgorged its contingent. They came from as far west as Devon and South Wales; Bristol and Gloucester sent representatives; Derby and Nottingham ringers came in numbers; the Midlands and Eastern Counties contributed scores, while from towers in the counties within seventy miles of London they came in their hundreds.

Mr. Johnston had invited the ringers of England, and they took him at his word. He was present at the foundry to welcome them, and he had an army of stewards assisting him to marshal the great crowd through the works. As the visitors arrived they were queued up in the erecting shop and slowly passed round the carillon, which was inspected with great interest, and, by many, with wonderment.

At one end, in a specially constructed pit in the floor of the building, was the clavier, that rather weird arrangement of keys and pedals connected up with wires and trackers to the bells, where sat the carillonneur, M. Kamiel Lefevere, principal assistant to M. le Chevalier Jef. Denyn, who is head of the Belgian National Carillon School, and carillonneur at St. Rombold's Cathedral, Malines. Throughout the afternoon M. Lefevere gave a recital which included classical pieces and many familiar airs, all of which he played with an expression which would be unbelievable had one not heard it. It was at once a demonstration of his own masterly skill at the clavier, and of the perfection of the mechanism of the carillon itself.

As the visitors passed by the performer they were able to look down upon his operations and thus get an excellent view of the way in which these carillons are manipulated. It is a task that not only requires a specialised musical knowledge and technique, but also a considerable amount of physical fitness, for, finely as the striking is adjusted, a long performance requires the output of considerable energy, for legs as well as arms find employment in operating the console. It was fascinating to watch M. Lefevere at work, but with the knowledge of the lengthy queue behind a long stay above the clavier was not possible, and the visitors passed on round the carillon, where they were able to get a closer inspection of the bells, to peer under the big ones, and to realise in some degree the immensity of the whole production.

THE CLOCK.

From this they passed to the clock department, where is being manufactured the great electric timepiece which will be connected up with the four quarter bells and the bourdon, so as to chime the Westminster quarters and strike the hours. The clock mechanism is divided into three separate units, the 'going train' driving the hands of the four 15ft. 9in. diameter clock faces, while the 'striking train' and 'quarter train' will operate the bell hammers. When erected in the tower, these will be fifty feet below the bells, which will be 200ft. above the ground level. Clock weights are dispensed with, and powerful electric motors lift and release the enormous clock hammers.

In addition to the central attraction, there were many other features of interest in the foundry, not least, to ringers, being the new bells for Coventry, which are now almost completed, and the front eight of which were heard chimed. Then there was the carillon for Princeton University, U.S.A., and another, almost a 'pocket edition,' in which the heaviest bell is only about 1 cwt. In the foundry, one saw the moulds of bells in various stages of preparation, the huge copes which contain the exterior mould of big bells, and, in the tuning shop, the great tuning machine was an object of much interest.

As the visitors wandered about the works, they could hear the music of the carillon, and they also got an idea of what such a heavy peal would sound like in changes. Mr. Tom Groombridge, jun., at intervals during the afternoon, 'tapped' a course of Grandsire Caters on 'the back ten'; a lead of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, and the first and last leads of a course of Grandsire Cinques. It was a most interesting and instructive afternoon, and one which will be long remembered by those who had the good fortune to be present.

A BIG TEA PARTY.

Mr. Johnston's hospitality did not end here, however. At the Baths Hall a meat tea had been prepared for the 1,200 guests, and hither they made their way from the foundry soon after five o'clock. So numerous was the company, that even this spacious building could not accommodate all the party, and an overflow section sat down in an adjoining hall. No such scene had ever been witnessed before in the annals of the Exercise. It was really an inspiring sight to see so many ringers gathered together under such happy circumstances. A bounteous meal, admirably and expeditiously served, was enjoyed by all, and the pleasure was enhanced by the opportunity which was afforded for old friends to sit and chat over the tea cups. Mr. Cyril Johnston presided over this huge gathering, and had supporting him, among others, his mother (Mrs. Johnston), the Lord Bishop of Sheffield (Dr. Burrows, who was a former Vicar of Croydon) and Mrs. Burrows, the Mayor of Croydon and Canon G. F. Coleridge, president of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, all of whom had been among the interested visitors to the foundry during the afternoon. Some interesting speeches were made after the tea.

The Bishop of Sheffield, who was received with loud applause, said they had been present that day at what was a unique sight and a unique hearing, of which they would probably never experience the like again, and they were present at a gathering in that hall which had more harmony in it than any other body at that moment. There could not possibly be a greater body of harmony than was represented by over one thousand bell ringers present that night (applause). A variety of thoughts, continued the Bishop, come to us at such a time, especially with regard to the great carillon which we have seen and heard. The first is, of course, that it is going to be a memorial, far off from these shores, to the splendid offering made by the men of the great Dominion of Canada, who gave their lives for their king and country. That is the first great thought that comes into our minds, and there are many present in this room to-day who will remember that unique service at St. Clement Danes, when the bell ringers commemorated in a most beautiful and wonderful and pathetic way their glorious dead. Another thought that comes to us is that we are taking our share in giving something to one of our great Dominions. This carillon is going to the capital of a Dominion in which there is a large number of French subjects of the Crown, as well as men of our own blood. It is an instance of the way in which various races are welded into the one Empire over which the King rules. Bell ringing and bell founding, like everything which is an art or a science, is international, and therefore makes for peace. This afternoon we have had a wonderful exhibition of carillon playing by one of the greatest experts, M. Lefevere, the celebrated campanologist of Malines in Belgium (applause). Then we have seen some of the great bells which are to go to Princeton University in the United States, and we know that last year a great carillon went from this foundry to New York. Thus we have an example of how bell ringing and bell founding bring all people together in helping forward that peace of the world which we all so much desire.

SPLENDID WORK.

Continuing, the Bishop said: I am very glad to be here in Croydon once more—a place where I spent five very happy years, and I am glad to think that my old band of ringers at the Parish Church have been doing their duty and are present to-day (applause). But it has been a greater pleasure to me to come and see the splendid work that Mr. Johnston is doing in this town and for the whole country (applause). I cannot help thinking that my dear old friend, his father, would have rejoiced and loved to see this day and to see how wonderfully his son is carrying on the great work in this bell foundry which he began. I have known Mr. Cyril Johnston ever since he was a young boy. I won't tell you about him in those days (laughter). Oh, he was always a good boy (renewed laughter), and the result is he has grown and gone from strength to strength. I cannot help telling you how much I admire and everybody else admires his enthusiasm, his skill and invention, his patient work, and the very admirable way in which he always gets on with those who work with him. These are great qualities and have made his name known, not only throughout the length and breadth of the land, but in other countries overseas. I am quite certain of this, that Mr. Johnston knows quite well there are two things which are essential to the carrying on of any great industry. The first is that there should be the very best possible relationship, good will, and patient, careful consideration between employer and employed, and that there should be the very best possible work put in by the workmen. The old country is able to produce every bit as good work, aye, and better work than any other country in the world (applause). If the millionaires of America and the Parliaments of our Dominions and of other parts of the world think they want first-rate work, they come to the old country for it. Let us then to it that we always bear that character, and that before the world we are known as a nation of first-rate workmen, whatever our work may be (applause).

ART AND MYSTERY.

The Mayor of Croydon said that gathering represented bell ringers from all parts of the country, and they had come to the town attracted by the noble work produced from the foundry in the White Horse Road, work which, as Dr. Burrows had told them, served many useful purposes. It served to spread the good name and fame of the Old Country throughout the Empire and beyond, and, at the same time, it spread harmony and good will. It also served to keep our business enterprise at concert pitch, and caused those who were concerned in the production of those wonderful musical instruments to put their very best into their work. He could not conceive, he said, any type of work calling for greater effort and giving greater pleasure than those marvellous productions such as they had listened to that afternoon. He rejoiced also at the international aspect of the matter. They remembered the Belgian colony which they housed in the days of war, and it was a pleasure in these fair times of peace to receive their friends and neighbours from across the seas, who came to show them the excellence and wonder of their work in all that appertains to campanology. In M. Lefevere they had the best of the best (applause). They had enjoyed his wonderful performance, and they were delighted to know he was to remain with them for a few more days (applause). As to the art and mystery of the craft of the bell ringers—he knew of no truer expression than calling both an art and a mystery—he knew nothing. He realised, however, that the exactitude with which they were now able to tune their bells had been a matter of much time and close and deep study, and it would not have been possible without a love for that work (applause). He hoped that great company would take back to their respective homes a pleasant recollection of their visit to Croydon. When they heard the name of Gilbert and Johnston mentioned up and down the country they would at least be able to say they had been to the source of the good things, and had seen and heard the wonderful works that the firm produced.

THE ORDER OF THE BATH.

Canon Coleridge said the previous speakers had spoken to them of what they had heard and seen that afternoon, of the international aspect, the municipal point of view and every point of view except one, and it was of that one other point of view which he wished to speak. Had it not been for their good friend Mr. Johnston, none of them would have been there that night. It was a great brain wave on his part which had brought together something like twelve hundred ringers from all parts of England (applause). Even from his little remote railway station in Devon he found that the ex-station master had travelled all the way to Croydon specially to be there that day, and ringers had come from many other distant places in the country. That showed how deeply they appreciated Mr. Johnston's kindness in asking them to visit him on that occasion. He had had a great response to his invitation, and there was no one who would not go away well satisfied with all that they had seen and heard, and, might he add, eaten as well (laughter and applause). They had heard beautiful music in the foundry, and had seen some beautiful bells, among them the new bells for Coventry Cathedral. Not so very long ago he (Canon Coleridge) tried his best, with others, to preserve the old bells (applause). They went to Coventry, where they spent a most interesting day with the Chancellor in the Consistory Court, with what result they all knew. The resuscitated bells were on view that day. Certainly they looked cleaner and more beautiful than the old bells probably looked, and all he could say was this, he was perfectly certain that the generations which were to come would appreciate the beautiful tones of these new bells, even as their forefathers appreciated the old ones in the years gone by, when they did not know so much about perfect tuning as the experts to-day (applause). Continuing, Canon Coleridge said they wished to thank Mr. Johnston with all their hearts for his hospitality (applause). They not only thanked him for the excellent tea, but also for the great honour which every ringer in that room would feel, to the end of his life, had come upon him. There might be some present in that hall who did not realise that those who were in the seats of the mighty, high up at the head tables, were seated upon what would be in ordinary times the dressing saloon of a swimming bath. Those just below were seated on the place from which the bathers took their headers, while those further down were on the floor of the bath. In addition to his other kindnesses that day, Mr. Johnston had therefore conferred upon them all the most honourable Order of the Bath (loud laughter). It only remained for him, in the name of that great assembly to thank Mr. Johnston for entertaining them so liberally, both at the foundry and in that hall (applause).

HOW CARILLONS HELP RINGING PEALS.

Mr. Cyril Johnston, whose rising was the signal for loud and prolonged cheering, said when they first thought they might show the world's greatest carillon to members of the various ringing societies throughout the country, they thought 200 or 300 might come along, but on Monday morning they knew the worst (laughter). The numbers ran into more than four figures, and that day they had had something like 1,200 at least through their works. 'I cannot say,' Mr. Johnston proceeded, 'how much we appreciate the honour you have done us. I think it has been an act of grace on your part, because, after all, a carillon is not a ringing peal, and there is nothing like a ringing peal for a ringer (applause). I have seen indications from time to time, in that journal which serves the ringing fraternity so well, of a fear that the carillon is a kind of peaceful penetration against the ringing fraternity, and that we are out to oust the ringers. There are, I believe, something like ten thousand ringing peals of sorts in this country, and 40,000 ringers. The bells are good, bad and indifferent; the ringers, all of them, are, of course, good (laughter). It would, indeed, be a foolish bell founder who tried to break that national tradition, which has flourished for three hundred years, since Falden Stedman, in Cambridge, invented Stedman Doubles; but if a bell founder has the opportunity of putting carillons, which are sets of chromatic octaves of bells, for the purpose of tune playing and organ playing, if you like, if he can put them into Dominion and foreign campaniles and in certain odd towers in this country, unsuited by their construction or associations for ringing peals, I consider it his duty to do it, and if he does it on a fairly large scale and in increasing quantities, he is forced to increase his plant and improve his methods, and all that is reflected in his work when he comes to casting and hanging bells for ringing' (applause).

CROYDON'S NEW INDUSTRY.

Continuing, Mr. Johnston said an old guide book described Croydon as being celebrated for a brewery and a bell and clock factory and an air that was not polluted. But there was another industry for which he thought Croydon must be making a name. He referred to the manufacture of Bishops (laughter and applause). Their last Vicar had just gone to one of the most important London churches; his four predecessors all became Bishops. That day, the Bishop of Sheffield and Mrs. Burrows had come down to be amongst their old friends. He was sure they all felt they could not too warmly express their appreciation of the kindness which the Bishop and his wife had shown in so doing. It was no small matter for Dr. Burrows, who was Bishop of one of the largest dioceses in England, to come to them 172 miles away from his own busy centre of activity (applause). He remembered it was a sad day for Croydon when Dr. and Mrs. Burrows, left them at the time Dr. Burrows became Bishop of Lewes. He (Mr. Johnston) felt that he had some little hand in the Bishop's episcopal training, as the first peal of bells he had to dedicate as Bishop was a Croydon-made peal at West Grinstead, Sussex (laughter and applause). Many of his old ringers were present that evening, including Mr. Bill States, Mr. Amos Clark and others. Mr. Johnston went on to thank the Vicars and wardens of the four churches where the bells had been opened for ringing that day. Their kindness, he said, had helped considerably in the enjoyment of the visitors from a distance. He also thanked Capt. Freeborn for having arranged a first-class concert, which they would later enjoy, and Mr. Tom Groombridge, jun., who had spent his time and energy on three or four occasions to come to the foundry to practise that wonderful performance of doing the work of ten or twelve men at once and chiming changes on the carillon. He also thanked Mr. Lefevere for his charming recital, and as he was staying for a similar purpose for a fortnight, he could only hope they would return him sound, whole and alive to Belgium at the end of the following week. He was indebted, too, for suggestions to ringers and members of his own staff and to the large army of stewards who had helped to organise the whole day's proceedings.

COVENTRY BELLS.

On the previous day, said Mr. Johnston, they had had at the foundry a large party of members of the Empire Parliamentary Association, who were not only interested in the carillon, but also specially interested in Coventry bells. One or two people had wished his firm 'in Coventry' in connection with this contract—(laughter)—but the bells were nearly finished, and he had had a letter from the Sub-Dean saying that the bells were to be dedicated on Easter eve. The bells had been cast in ringing sizes in case, at some future time, someone left forty thousand pounds to build a campanile where they could be hung for ringing. Some people, proceeded Mr. Johnston, might suspect that his firm had been guilty of a little scheme of propaganda during the last few days, but if they had done something bigger than anyone had done before, he did not know why they should not ask their friends to come and look at it (applause). He wanted them to understand that without the skill and hearty co-operation of the whole of the staff and employees of the firm the consummation of the carillon that they had seen that day would not have been possible, and any suggestion that the firm was seeking exceptional publicity was far outweighed by the pleasure and honour of welcoming that, the greatest ringers' gathering ever held (applause). 'I greatly appreciate the words spoken by the Bishop, the Mayor and Canon Coleridge,' concluded Mr. Johnston, 'and I particularly value the reference to my father. He would have loved to-day' (loud applause).

This concluded the speech making, and, as many as could do so, visited the towers of the Parish Church and St. Peter's for ringing. Hundreds, however, remained in and about the hall, meeting and chatting with friends from distant places and thoroughly enjoying the opportunity thus presented of an informal reunion.

By eight o'clock the hall had taken on a totally different appearance. The great floor had been cleared for dancing, and the sides were tiered with chairs, from which the company listened to the really brilliant programme which Capt. Howard Freeborn had arranged.

A number of ringers who arrived early in London were able to enjoy some ringing on the eight bells at St. Stephen's, Clapham Park, and the ten at St. Mary's, Beddington.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.

There has been a succession of distinguished visitors and societies to the Croydon foundry during the past fortnight, during which time M. Lefevere has given recitals. M. le Chevalier J. Denys also performed on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Last week there were visits from the Fellowship of the British Empire Exhibition, the Industrial Welfare Society, the City Livery Club, the Empire Parliamentary Association headed by Mr. Amery, the Colonial Secretary, and accompanied by the High Commissioner for Canada. On Monday members of the Federation of British Industries paid a visit; on Tuesday, the Anglo-Belgian Union, with the Belgian Ambassador and Baroness Monscheur, and Lord Burnham; while yesterday arrangements were made for a visit of the English-speaking Union and the Mayor and Corporation of Croydon; and to-day the American Chamber of Commerce will go to the foundry.

MR. JOHNSTON'S THANKS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I trespass on your space to express appreciation of the co-operation which the hon. secretaries of Associations and Guilds extended to us in connection with the 'Ringers' Rally'?

We had 95 per cent. of the numbers sent to us by Monday last (the date named as 'closing day'), and our plans were facilitated thereby considerably.

All the visitors, too, on Saturday made it possible to carry out the day's proceedings smoothly by the splendid way in which they adhered to the programme and general directions.

In addition, allow me to thank you sincerely for the valuable assistance of 'The Ringing World.' Your references each week to the proposed meeting helped the secretaries and ourselves, and contributed greatly to the success of a memorable occasion.—Yours sincerely,

CYRIL F. JOHNSTON.

NORFOLK GUILD'S JUBILEE.

There is an imposing list of Association and Guild Meetings next Monday, as is usual at Eastertide, and the most interesting one will be that at Norwich, where the Norfolk Guild celebrates its Jubilee. The Norfolk Guild is fourth in seniority of the modern county and diocesan organisations and it follows Devon, Lancashire and Yorkshire in the completion of fifty years of work in the cause of bell-ringing. It began its history as the Norwich Diocesan Association at a time when the diocese covered the biggest part of two counties, and in the course of its long career it can claim to have done some splendid work for the art in East Anglia. As in the days of old—the history of change ringing in Norwich goes back well over two hundred years—when the city could frequently claim some of the most able men in the Exercise, so the modern association has been able to boast of some of the most competent ringers of their day and generation. It has possessed among its members those who have made ringing history; whose names will remain as landmarks, if the metaphor may be permitted, as long as the Exercise lasts.

The association can pride itself upon having to its credit more peals than any other similar organisation. If there be some who look upon a record of this kind as a doubtful matter for congratulation because they deprecate peals as being, for the most part, rung for selfish ends, let it be remembered that, before peal-ringing can be brought to the pitch which it one time attained in the diocese of Norwich, when peal ringers could be numbered by the hundred and the peals were distributed over a large number of towers, patience and painstaking spade work must have been done and done very widely and thoroughly by a large number of men; success in this direction has not been achieved in selfish accomplishment, it was the outcome of enthusiasm and hard work in spreading the art.

The jubilee of the Norfolk Guild comes at a time when it cannot be said to have fully recovered from the severance of territory which followed the creation of the diocese of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich and the new Guild which was set up as a consequence. The 'pruning' that thus took place might have been expected to add vigour to the old stem, but this has not shown itself in any marked degree. Perhaps this jubilee celebration will arouse a new enthusiasm in the rank and file and lead them to put fresh energy into the cause of ringing in the county. There have been indications of a lack of interest in the work of the Guild—an unfailing sign of lack of interest, also.

in ringing itself—and the present is a time when a new call may well be made for a more general revival throughout the diocese. There are great traditions behind the organisation and the example of many great men who have made a name in the Exercise. A notable event like that which occurs this year should be a spur to renewed effort on the part of those who are to-day the inheritors of an association which has always been one of the foremost in the country.

A LECTURE TO ENGINEERS.

MR. ALBERT WALKER TALKS ON BELLS AND BELL RINGING

An interesting evening was spent by members of the Birmingham Association of Mechanical Engineers at the Grand Hotel, Birmingham, on Friday week, when Mr. Albert Walker (Deputy Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild), who is a member of the Council of the association, gave a lecture on Campanology, in which he dealt with the casting, tuning, hanging and ringing of church bells and carillons. There was a large attendance presided over by Mr. John Fearn, M.I.Mech.E.

Mr. Walker sketched the history of the development of bells, and, dealing with the metal of which bells are made, said copper and tin are used in the proportions approximately of 16 oz. of copper to 4½ oz. of tin, this alloy having been proved to be of the very best for the production of good tone. The note of the bell, he pointed out, is governed by diameter of the bell at its mouth and the thickness of the metal at the soundbow. The tone is governed by the shape or contour of the bell, and the thickness of the metal at various points in its height. The shape of a bell is of greater importance in the quality of tone than the quality of metal used, and a bell cast on correct lines, even if a slightly inferior metal is used, would give a very fair tone, whereas the finest quality metal with a wrong shape would produce a bad-toned bell.

A feature in bell moulding is the number of drying processes the mould undergoes. The loam is applied in five stages for average size bells and stoved after each stage. This is done to reduce the shrinkage to a minimum, as the shrinkage of the metal is calculated very closely. It would not do, as in the case of commercial castings, to allow an ample margin for machining, because the amount of tuning a bell will stand is very limited.

Mr. Walker went on to describe the methods of tuning bells, and dealt also with carillons. He also explained in detail the modern methods of hanging peals, and dealt also with the mechanical aspect of correct clapping. He briefly described change ringing and illustrated it with diagrams and demonstrations on handbells, in which he was assisted by members of St. Martin's Guild.

HANDBELL ILLUSTRATIONS.

The lecture throughout had been illustrated with a number of slides which had been lent by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, John Taylor and Co., and Gillett and Johnston, over 40 pictures being thrown on the screen. The handbell ringing included courses of Grandsire Triples and Bob Major, and at the close of the lecture a splendid course of Stedman Cinques was rung by: P. O. Laffin 1-2, G. F. Swann 3-4, T. Miller 5-6, A. Walker 7-8, A. E. Norman 9-10, M. J. Morris 11-12. Two tunes were also afterwards rung, 'Soldier's Joy' and 'Blue Bells of Scotland,' by Messrs. H. Williams, T. Miller and H. Withers. Other ringers who were present were Alderman J. S. Pritchett and Messrs. J. Neal, W. T. Froggatt and E. Price.

The President, after stating that it was not proposed to have a discussion on the lecture, said he was sure all present would agree that they had been given a very interesting 'paper.' It was more than a lecture which Mr. Walker, with the assistance of his colleagues, had given, and after such a paper they would have a far better idea of the art of bell ringing and its intricacies than they had previously. The President had great pleasure in proposing that a hearty vote of thanks be given to Mr. Walker and the gentlemen who had assisted him for the instructive and interesting entertainment they had given.

Mr. D. G. Mackintosh, M.B.E., M.I.Struc.E., said it was always a joy to listen to an enthusiast, particularly one like Mr. Walker, who had such a good knowledge of his subject. To the majority, the lecture had been something quite new, and they would have a more profound respect than ever for campanology in the future, because they would realise that there was much more in it than the mere tugging at a rope. Personally, Mr. Mackintosh admitted that he had by no means 'got the hang' of the tables of figures shown on the screen (laughter). It had been a great pleasure to listen to the lecture and to the examples of bell ringing which had been given, and he had much pleasure in seconding the vote of thanks to Mr. Walker and his colleagues.

ONE OF THE FINEST EXERCISES.

Upon being requested by the president to address the meeting, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., B.C.L., said it was indeed a pleasure to him as a visitor to say a few words in praise of his friend, Mr. Walker. He himself could speak with some knowledge on the subject of campanology. Mr. Walker had given an extremely lucid exposition of the subject. The paper was very well constructed, and the examples selected for the bell ringers were also well chosen. It was not easy to make intelligible to the lay mind the intricacies of changes in campanology, but Mr. Walker had gone as far as was humanly possible in that direction in his lecture. The association might be interested to know that Mr. Walker was one of the greatest bell ringers in the country. He could ring any method and for any reasonable length of time. His name was a household word amongst campanologists from Berwick-on-Tweed to Cornwall. He was the leader of the ringers at St. Martin's Church, Birmingham, where change ringing was indulged in every Sunday morning, and it was done in a manner which compelled the admiration of all who understood the subject. Mr. Pritchett added that he had not had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Walker as a lecturer before, and he was sure that everyone had been greatly interested in the paper and the bell ringing illustrations, also the pictures shown on the screen. He knew Mr. Walker as an expert can-panologist, but he had no idea that he was so good as a lecturer. If Mr. Walker was as good in his profession as an engineer, Mr. Pritchett was sure he was an asset to the firm with which he was connected. With regard to the bell-ringing demonstrations on the handbells, Mr. Pritchett said he had listened most carefully, and he had not heard a single mistake—not even in the last illustration of 12 bells that had been given, which was really a remarkable feat. It was all done so perfectly that one could imagine it was done by some mechanism. He could assure them that it took a tremendous amount of practice to acquire the ability to do that, and they (the audience) were very fortunate in having such a capable set of ringers to give the examples. Coming to the technical side of campanology, Alderman Pritchett said it would seem that in the future a contest would be waged between the old-fashioned bell ringing and the new carillon system. There were people to-day who regarded the old method of ringing as somewhat of a nuisance, and who held the opinion that we ought to have the mechanical bells instead, but he wished to point out that the human element came in there—the human touch, so to speak. Bell ringing, such as they had listened to and as described by Mr. Walker, was not only a fine physical exercise, but it also developed the intellectual faculties. Speaking of physical strain, he could assure them that to go on for about four hours at bell ringing the physical and mental strain was very great indeed. The exercise certainly tended to longevity, and he could commend it to any young man who was desirous of keeping fit. He described it as one of the finest exercises in which they could indulge, as it brought into play not only the muscles of the arms, shoulders and chest but also many other muscles—as novices found out after giving it a trial. It was also a good mental exercise. Alderman Pritchett said it gave him much pleasure to support the vote of thanks to Mr. Walker, which had been so ably moved and seconded by the President and Mr. Mackintosh.

The President (Mr. J. Fearn) said he could assure Alderman Pritchett that Mr. Walker did occupy a position of great responsibility in business, and from personal knowledge he could say that Mr. Walker filled the position admirably and to the satisfaction of one of the largest concerns in the world.

Mr. Walker, in responding, said he regarded it as the most difficult of the evening's proceedings (laughter). He thanked Mr. Fearn, Mr. Mackintosh and Alderman Pritchett for the vote of thanks and the nice things they had said about him, and he also thanked the audience not only for the way they had received the vote of thanks but also for the patient manner in which they had listened to his paper, and for the interest they had shown in the examples of bell ringing that had been given. It had indeed been a pleasure to him to prepare and give the paper, and he regarded it as time very well spent, especially after the kind expressions which had been made. Campanology was a difficult subject to explain to people who had not even a knowledge of its elementary principles, and there was also a tendency for the enthusiast to get carried away, so to speak, with his subject. It was rather difficult to explain, but he was satisfied that his audience did not regard the time they had spent in that room as having been wasted.

RAMBLING.
To the Editor.

Sir,—Contrary to the advice of my ophthalmic surgeon, I have stuck my nose within three inches of page 202 of your issue of April 1st, and with disgust one has read the 'blunt' rambling of Mr. Joseph E. Sykes (The Greater).

The point at issue, I believe, is the 'instruction of beginners,' and open my poor Milton eyes as wide as I may, I fail to see what a beautiful chronograph of a place where they juggle with girders, carillons, and a few match stalks 'have to do with the point. One has read a brief account of the juggle with the girder, and I think our friend shows very bad taste in hurling ridicule on a thing which might have turned out with fatal results.

For 'Ego,' might I commend to the Exercise these words: 'I have steered a matter of two hundred colts through their first peal.' Tut! tut! Such rambling! Steering colts through their first peals is a secondary process. Who had done the spade work before our friend started to steer? That's naughty! Who had inculcated the rudiments into these colts? Who had instilled, instructed, guided them through the labyrinth of technicalities? I'll tell you, it's the unassuming instructor who takes the rough edges off, and he does it without 'ego'!

I am holding no brief for Mr. Armstrong; for the instruction of the beginner I do. 'The Ringing World' was never intended to be a book of instruction. It was founded to supply a want, and 'The Greater' is not the only one who had the first copy. There's a few of the 'lesser,' who took 'Church Bells,' 'Bell News,' 'Campanology,' etc., and there's one here with his poor Bartimeous eyes who can see that the instruction of beginners will never be progressive till some of the egotists cut out that 'causer' of ringing two peals a day and are content to ring one, and then take up 'Troyte's' and fan the smouldering interest which is in the beginner into flame. Then, and then only, will the beginner make progress. Beginners must know something before they are in anything like form to be steered through peals. Let's have less ego, and let's inculcate something into the beginner. I could point the finger at where it is being done and where it is not being done.—Yours sincerely,

IRENAUS.

NOTES BY THE WAY.
MORE EXTRACTS FROM HEARNE'S DIARY.
 BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The contrast between September the twenty-seventh and November the fifth disgusted Hearne. That the bells should have been rung disgracefully in honour of the two Catholic Saints and the great mediæval Churchman, and excellently well in honour of Dutch William was more than he could stand. And the ringers being very proud of their performance at the Cathedral (though they did not get the peal) made matters worse. So he determined to punish them, first by finding out who were the offenders at New College and then by putting it down in his diary and so transmitting it to posterity. To-day the readers of 'The Ringing World' know all about John Vickers' extra glass of beer and his two missed bobs, as part of his punishment for having taken part in ringing on the wrong political side in 1734.

'And now I have mentioned this 5th of November ringing I will beg leave to take notice of the names of those who rang at New College (Friday) September 27 last, being the founder of New College's Obit, a thing I should not have done, had not the ringers been so proud of this 5th of November at Christ Church and been so much ashamed of what was done at New College. That they are ashamed of what was done at New College appears from all accounts. In so much that they have endeavoured as much as ever they can to conceal the names of those that chiefly erred or blundered in the ringing, which notwithstanding I have been able to find out. The names of the ringers are in order thus:—1, Mr. John Vickers; 2, Mr. Thomas Nash; 3, Mr. John George; 4, Mr. Guy Terry; 5, Mr. Thomas Yates; 6, Mr. John Broughton; 7, Mr. Richard Smith; 8, Mr. William Barnes; 9, Mr. Arthur Lloyd; 10, Mr. Nicholas Benwell. The day before ringing Mr. Vickers told me that Mr. Richard Hearne was to ring the first and himself the fifth and Mr. Yates the sixth; but Hearne excusing himself from being one of them, Vickers, thereupon, rang the first and Mr. Yates the fifth and Mr. Broughton (who was not otherwise to have been one) the sixth. As to Mr. Vicars he is very ingenious in the art of ringing and is excellent in calling the bobs and managing the musick of ringing. I think he is one of the very best in England as he is with all a very good ringer himself; and yet at this time he miss'd calling two of the bobs (one of which was before she had gone two hundred changes) as at the same time did likewise Mr. Arthur Lloyd and Mr. William Barnes (otherwise two famous ringers) commit most notorious blunders and these were the three chief blunders in this undertaking and 'twas from their mistakes that the peal was spoiled; and yet it must be owned that it happened purely from their being much in liquor, whereas they ought to have been sober as indeed there cannot be any true ringing but by persons that come perfectly sober.'

No further attempt for the six thousand seems to have been made during the winter. On March 11th, 1735, the band started again at New College, but failed after something over four thousand changes. Unfortunately Hearne was ill and could not hear the ringing and we are deprived of his criticisms. The attempt, it will be noticed, was made on a Sunday and probably would have filled up all the time between the finish of Matins and the beginning of Evensong.

'1735, March 12, Monday—Yesterday a new attempt was made at New College by Oxford ringers to ring 6876

Cator Changes, but they did not succeed as it was hoped they would. They began about half an hour after twelve and rang till a little after three in the afternoon. Being indisposed with a diarrhoea I could not go out to hear them and so will not pretend to be critical about the ringing.'

Nine days later at the same tower another attempt was made and this time it was successful!

'1735, March 22nd, Saturday.—On Thursday last the Oxford ringers began to ring at New College at three quarters after twelve o'clock and rang completely what they had attempted several times before, 6876 Cator Changes, finishing the peal about three quarters of an hour after four o'clock. 'Tis the first time that such a number of Cator Changes was ever rung in Oxford upon ten bells. I did not hear the ringing myself for the same reason I have specified above March 12th inst., but I have heard from good judges, that take it altogether 'twas a glorious performance. For tho' there were two very great blunders and some other bad ringing yet considering the length of the peal it was admirable ringing, such as can hardly be mended, unless it be by the Londoners, it being a thing as it were next to impossible to go through such a long tedious work without faults.

The names of the ringers were (as before—1734):

1. Hearne, the Taylor.
2. Mr. Vickers, second Butler of New College.
3. Mr. George, the Taylor.
4. Mr. Guy Terry, the Potash maker in St. Clement's.
5. Mr. Yates, second Cook of Magdalen College.
6. Mr. John Broughton, Barber.
7. Mr. Richard Smith, Glover.
8. Mr. Barnes, second Cook of Christ Church.
9. Mr. Arthur Lloyd, of Holywell, Carpenter and Bell Hanger.
10. Mr. Nicholas Benwell, who shows Great Tom.

They were much caressed when they had done and were handsomely treated or entertained at New College, but Mr. Barnes could not be at the entertainment, being obliged as soon as the ringing was done to go to his brother the Waggoner's in St. Aldate's then dying, who indeed died that evening of a dropsy. He is the same Barnes that set up a waggon in opposition to the Vice-Chancellor.'

The band was exactly the same and stood in the same order as in the first peal at Christ Church on January 1st, 1734. The Oxford Society's peal book gives the date of the peal as March 20th, 1734, instead of 1835.

The ring at Magdalen College was made into ten in 1740 and on Easter Monday, April 19th, 1742, the following band rang 7,000 Grandsire Caters in 4 hours, 25 minutes.

T. Roberts	Treble	Joseph Gent	6
J. Vickers	2	R. Smith	7
P. Manning	3	W. Carter	8
Guy Terry	4	A. Lloyd	9
T. Yate	5	Nicholas Benwell	Tenor

It was intended to have rung ten thousand but Vickers made some mistake in the calling and brought the bells round after ringing seven thousand. I take it the mistake did not make the peal false as it is recorded in the Oxford Society's peal book.

A DIAMOND JUBILEE CELEBRATED.

In commemoration of the 60th anniversary of the laying of the foundation stone of Christ Church, Aughton, Lancashire, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the bells in 42 mins.: J. Marsh 1, W. Fairclough (conductor) 2, J. Lunham 3, J. Gardiner 4, J. Taylor 5, T. Rothwell 6, E. Rothwell 7, W. Gibbons 8.—Also a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples in 43 mins., conducted by Mr. J. Marsh, with Messrs. W. Rimmer and R. Larkey standing in place of J. Taylor and T. Rothwell.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.EASTERN DIVISION.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Division was held at Eastbourne on Saturday, March 26th. The bells of All Saints' were available from 2.30 p.m., and good practice was had during the afternoon. The members proceeded to the Parish Church (St. Mary's) for the service at 4.30 p.m., the Vicar (the Rev. Canon Streetfeild) giving a most appropriate address. Tea was also provided through the kindness of Canon Streetfeild at the Pitman Institute, and 23 sat down to the good things provided. Upon his leaving after tea, the Vicar was heartily thanked for his address at the service, and also for his hospitality to the members.

At the business meeting, Mr. W. D. Smith was voted to the chair.

Mr. G. W. Stokes was re-elected hon. secretary. In responding, he pointed out that he would not be able to carry on beyond the year, and asked the members to look out for a successor before the next annual meeting, as he intended definitely to resign at that meeting.

Messrs. Franks and Miles were re-elected on the committee. Owing to the continued ill-health of Mr. G. H. Howse, Mr. W. Booth was elected on the committee in his place.

New members were elected as follows: Mr. G. Marten, St. Clement's, Hastings; Messrs. J. Bellingham, H. Brooks, T. Barrow, J. Bennett, E. Fenner, W. B. Hiscock, J. Hafenden, C. Jenner, W. Kitchenside, C. Medhurst, C. Pennygar, G. Shorter, and Miss R. Wicker, all of Mayfield.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Brighton in June.

Before closing the meeting, the Vicars of All Saints' and St. Saviour's were thanked for placing the bells at the disposal of the members. After the meeting, the members made their way to St. Saviour's, where good practice was had until 8 p.m.

A PEAL WITHDRAWN.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the peal of Bob Major rung at Salle, on March 22nd, and published in 'The Ringing World' on April 1st, this was rung one course short. After a bob at 'wrong' in 10th course, there was a hitch, and course-end 63425 came up, instead of 62345, the former figures being 11th course-end, and thinking the bells were right and the 11th course-end completed, I carried on the calling from the latter course-end to bring the bells home, a course short.—Yours truly,
W. B. DUNCAN.

Reepham, Norfolk.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.THE QUESTION OF CENTRAL COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVES.

A meeting of the North Western Division was held at Saffron Walden on Saturday, April 2nd. This clashed with the 'Ringers' Rally' that was being held at Croydon on that day, and possibly accounted for the rather small attendance. The bells were rung during the afternoon, and a service was held in the church. Afterwards 21 members were served with tea at the Abbey Tea Rooms. Following tea, the usual business meeting was held, the Rev. L. Hughes in the chair.

The question of delegates for the Central Council was put before the meeting. This question had been dealt with at two previous meetings, and each time left open for further consideration on the part of the members. After the question had been discussed at length, it was finally decided to refer the question to the next meeting.

Mr. L. A. Simmonds, of Saffron Walden, was elected a ringing member of the association, and Elvedon was selected as the next place of meeting.

In closing the business meeting Mr. H. Dew, on behalf of the division, thanked the Vicar for granting them the use of the bells and for the service which he conducted in the church.—The Rev. L. Hughes, in replying, said he was always pleased to see the ringers, and congratulated them upon the singing at the service.—Ringing was afterwards continued in the evening.

DEATH OF AN ESSEX DISTRICT SECRETARY.

The death occurred somewhat unexpectedly last week of Mr. W. H. Dyson, a well-known member of the Essex Association and hon. secretary of the Northern District. He had been unwell for some time past, and he passed away while on a visit to his daughter at Westcliff for the benefit of his health.

A J. PITMAN'S PEAL OF GRANDSIRE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The composition of Grandsire Triples in your issue of April 1st, by Mr. A. J. Pitman, is really a variation of the late Mr. Carter's twelve-part, I myself having a similar composition, which has been before the Exercise over 25 years, and was first rung at Stanford-in-Soar, Notts, in 1901. With due respect to Mr. Pitman, we cannot call them original compositions.—Yours faithfully,

H. WHITTLE.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We are asked to mention that there will be no ringing at St. Michael's, Cornhill, on Easter Day. The College Youths hope to ring there in future every third Sunday in the month, 5.45 to 6.30 p.m.

Barkby bells, Leicestershire, have, as a notice in the belfry inaptly puts it, been rehung on the 'latest pattern roller bearings' by a local firm of engineers. The party who last Saturday rang the first peal on the bells, only did so through grim determination and long suffering, the 'go' being dreadful and bells most difficult to handle. This is a similar case of the proverbial watch going to the blacksmith. The anniversaries of another batch of long peals occur within the next week:

April 17th, 1820.—7,200 New Treble Bob Maximus at Birmingham in 5 hrs. 8 mins.

1900.—9,512 Superlative Surprise Major at Irtlingborough in 5 hrs. 30 mins.

1911.—12,240 Kent Treble Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne in 8 hrs. 39 mins.

April 18th, 1737.—12,006 Grandsire Caters at Painswick in 7 hrs. 55 mins.

1894.—13,440 Double Norwich Major at Romford in 8 hrs. 26 mins.

April 21st, 1888.—10,304 Bob Major at Leiston in 6 hrs. 17 mins.

We have referred elsewhere to the fact that much ringing history has been made at Norwich. On April 17th, 1769, the first peal of Court Bob Royal was rung at St. Peter Mancroft. 'It was performed in 3 hrs. 29 mins. without a bell being out of course, and from the harmony and regularity of its changes filled every lover of the art of ringing with the most pleasing wonder and astonishment.'

This incomparable peal was invented in the year 1751 by Mr. William Porter, one of the ringers belonging to St. Peter's company, and though from that time it has been annually practised, yet never was perfectly gone through without the bells being out of course, till now, so that it may be affirmed that this is the first complete 5,040 that ever was rung in the known world.

The Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, of Hopesay, Salop, has been offered, and has accepted, the living of St. Nicholas, in the city of Hereford. This should be a great help to the ringers in the neighbourhood of Hereford.

A band of 'Georges' hope to meet on St. George's Day at the Church of St. George, in the parish of G—not George—for a Surprise peal. A peal has also been arranged in the adjoining parish by friends of the 'Georges' on the same day and at the same time, when a particular friend of one of the 'Georges' will be met with a medley of names. It is hoped the 'London' and 'Cambridge' will be 'united' in more senses than one, and a convivial enjoyed afterwards.

HALIFAX AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION. AN EIGHT-BELL CONTEST.

The Halifax and District Association held a quarterly meeting and eight-bell contest on Saturday, April 2nd, at Earlsheaton Church, Dewsbury. It was rather unfortunate that the elements did not smile upon the gathering while ringing took place, as it rained all the afternoon. The interest taken, however, helped the visitors to forget the weather. The draw was as follows: No. 1, Batley; No. 2, Huddersfield; No. 3, Birstall; No. 4, Lindley. The competition was 800 changes, any method, but each set rang Kent Treble Bob Major.

An excellent tea was provided in the schoolroom, and the meeting was held immediately ringing ceased, about 7.30. Mr. W. Frith (Huddersfield) occupied the chair, in the absence of the president. On the motion of Mr. J. E. Carter, seconded by Mr. W. H. Senior (Batley), a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the churchwardens, ringers and ladies of Earlsheaton for use of bells and for helping to make the contest such a success.—Major Goater (churchwarden) replying, said it was a pleasure to him if all had enjoyed themselves, and hoped the association would soon visit Earlsheaton again. He was sorry there was no Vicar to welcome them, as the late Vicar had only recently resigned, and another had not yet been appointed.

The judges, Mr. J. Broadley (Bradford), Mr. G. H. Hardy (Earlsheaton), with Mr. A. Goodhall (Earlsheaton), marker, gave their decision, viz., No. 1, 191 faults, total 191; No. 2, 221 faults, 221; No. 3, 145 faults, 10 penalties, 155; No. 4, 285 faults, 10 penalties, 295. No. 3 company, Birstall, were therefore declared winners of the cup.

Major Goater, on presenting the cup to Mr. S. Goodhall, leader of the Birstall band, said he hoped they would go on winning, as he was assured they must have deserved it.—Mr. Goodhall replied, and a vote of thanks was then accorded to the judges, on the proposition of Mr. J. E. Carter, seconded by Mr. G. Scholey.—Mr. Broadley, in acknowledging the vote of thanks, said he was sorry that there was not a cup for all the sets.

It may be mentioned that this was the 49th contest in which Mr. Broadley had acted as judge.

A vote of thanks to the chairman closed a very enjoyable meeting.

GOLDEN WEDDING BELLS.

A quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) was rung at Halesowen on March 31st to celebrate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Grove: W. Webb 1, T. Greenhall 2, W. Coley 3, A. Harris 4, V. White 5, W. Brown 6, A. Hackett (conductor) 7, B. Ashford 8.

NORFOLK GUILD JUBILEE. A BRIEF HISTORY.

In view of the jubilee of the Norfolk Guild, which is to be celebrated at Norwich on Easter Monday, the annual report which has just been published gives a brief history of the organisation, which will be read with interest. The Norfolk Guild will be the fourth of the diocesan Guilds and county associations to reach a jubilee year, says the report. The Devonshire Guild did so in 1924, the Yorkshire Association in 1925, the Lancashire Association in 1926, and now the Norfolk Guild in 1927. The early promoters of the Guild were the Rev. A. C. Copeman, the Rev. J. Crompton, the Rev. H. J. Coleman, the Rev. C. L. Kennaway, Gervas Holmes, Esq., Captain A. P. Moore, Dr. G. F. W. Meadows, and the Rev. G. H. Harris, by whom a meeting was called at Norwich on Feb. 10th, 1877, when it was proposed and carried that an association be at once formed and to be called the Norwich Diocesan Association of Ringers. On April 4th, 1877, a general meeting was held at Norwich, and at that meeting the Norwich Diocesan Association of Ringers was founded. The Right Rev. the Bishop of Norwich (Dr. Polham), patron; the Very Rev. the Dean of Norwich (Dr. Goulburn), president; the Archdeacons of Norfolk, Norwich and Suffolk, Sir Robert Buxton, Bart, M.P., Sir Francis Boileau, Bart., the Mayor of Norwich, Gervas Holmes, Esq., J.P., vice-presidents; the Rev. G. H. Harris, secretary and treasurer; and with 58 original members constituted the Norwich Diocesan Association. Of the promoters of the association only the Rev. C. L. Kennaway, now of The Vicarage, Tarrant Crawford, survives, and it may be of interest to note that the late Rev. H. J. Coleman is the father of our present general secretary and treasurer, Mr. Arthur L. Coleman, who now holds the same office as did his godfather, the late Rev. G. H. Harris, first secretary of the association in 1877.

The presidents of the Guild have been the following: The Dean of Norwich (Dr. E. M. Goulburn), 1877 to 1889; the Rev. Canon J. J. Raven, D.D., 1890 to 1899; J. Sancerft Holmes, Esq., Gawdy Hall, 1900 to 1916; the Dean of Norwich (Dr. J. W. Willink) since 1919.

The secretaries and treasurers: The Rev. G. H. Harris, 1877 to 1883; the Rev. N. Bolingbroke, 1884 to 1889; the Rev. H. Earle Bulwer, 1890 to 1902; the Rev. C. L. Kennaway, hon. clerical secretary, 1902 to 1913; Mr. Charles E. Borrett, 1902 to 1919; and Mr. Arthur L. Coleman since 1919.

The first peal was one of Superlative Surprise Major, rung at the Church of St. Mary, Redenhall, on Tuesday, November 6th, 1877, and of the band taking part only Robert Whiting, now of Pulham Market, survives. The late James Motts heads our list of peal ringers, having 559 peals to his credit at the time of his death, and Mr. Frederick R. Borrett comes a close second with 533 peals.

Our total of 4,160 peals during these fifty years contains many splendid performances and makes a list of which we may well be proud, including one of 16,608 changes of Oxford Treble Bob Major (at the time the long-length record). Nine over 10,000 and fifteen over 7,000 changes. The number of peals rung in the first year of the Guild (1877-8) was 9. The greatest number of peals in a single year was 291 in 1913; grand total of peals rung to December 31st, 1926, being 4,160, a record number not exceeded by any other Guild or association.

CHANGES IN TITLE.

The record year for total membership was 1,156 in 1913, the highest attendance at an annual meeting being 214 members at Norwich, September 25th, 1894, the average attendances at the annual meetings being 134 prior to the Great War, and since then it has fallen to an average of 55 members. In 1913, the diocese of Norwich was divided, and the new diocese of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich was founded, the whole of our East Suffolk area with the exception of the Lotheringland Drangery forming part of the new diocese, although at the division our Suffolk members decided to remain in membership, and the question of the reorganisation had to be held in abeyance during the Great War.

In 1919, the title of the association was altered to the Norwich Diocesan and Ipswich Association of Ringers, East Suffolk, as hitherto, remaining within the area of the association. In 1920, the association was constituted into two branches, called the Norwich Branch and the Ipswich Branch, with the title amended to the Norwich and Ipswich Association of Ringers, with the sub-title For the Diocese of Norwich and Archdeaconry of Suffolk.

In 1922, the title was again amended to the Norwich and St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich Diocesan Association of Ringers for the Diocese of Norwich and St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich, and the branches to the Norwich Diocesan Branch and the St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich Diocesan Branch. It was during this particular period (1921-2) in the history of the Guild, the Suffolk County Association was brought into existence and afterwards disbanded and re-formed itself into the Suffolk Guild of Ringers, sub-title, For the Diocese of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich, the area of the Guild being coterminous with the new diocese. This movement so seriously affected our position in Suffolk, with our Suffolk members divided between the two Guilds, that another reorganisation became imperative to meet the state of affairs in our Suffolk area, and at the annual general meeting held at Norwich on October 4th, 1923, it was resolved to make the Guild's area coterminous with the diocese of Norwich, and the title of the Guild finally amended to the Norfolk Guild of Ringers—sub-title, For the Diocese of Norwich, and provision was made for those Suffolk members wishing to remain members of their old association by becoming life members (non-resident) of the Guild.

The following veterans will also this year (1927) celebrate the jubilee of their membership, to whom we offer our hearty congratulations: William Ireland, Diss; Denison Hayward, Great Yarmouth; Frederick Knights, Norwich; Arthur Knights, Chesterfield; Robert Whiting, Pulham Market; Robert H. Brundle, Ipswich; Joseph Last, Hasketon; Edgar Pemberton, Ipswich; David Collins, Worlingworth—a fine record for our septuagenarian members.

The following item from the annals of the Guild may be of interest. With the view of constituting a central authority, a draft scheme was drawn up for a National Association of Ringers, and submitted to a committee meeting of the association on March 22nd, 1884, and received with general approval, after certain suggested improvements, and was entrusted to the secretary to forward to Captain J. E. Acland-Troyte, and that in the event of the National Association maturing, the Norwich Diocesan Association should be affiliated to it. What became of the scheme our records do not relate. However, eventually a central authority was constituted, when the Central Council of Church Bell-ringers was founded by the late Sir Arthur P. Heywood, Bart., in 1892.

Finally, may the Norfolk Guild of Ringers continue to flourish in the future as it has done in the past.

The Guild has to-day a total membership of 773, a decrease of 13 owing to the removal of the names of those in arrears with their subscriptions. There was an increase in the balance on the year's working of £4 9s. 10d., but the Guild has a reserve fund, the present value of which is £150 2s. 6d. During 1926, 61 peals were rung, in which 148 members took part.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

OFFICIAL MINUTES OF THE MEETING AT IPSWICH.

The third session of the twelfth Council (34th meeting) was held in the Council Chamber of the Town Hall, Ipswich, on Tuesday May 25th, 1926, at 11 a.m. The chair was taken by the president, Canon G. F. Coleridge, who opened the meeting with prayer. There were present 51 members, 23 Guilds and associations being represented.

Archdeacon Farmiloe, on behalf of the Suffolk Guild, welcomed the Council to the Diocese. The President, having thanked the Archdeacon, was then introduced to the Bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich, who had now entered the chamber. The Bishop said, in welcoming them, that though there were a few who did not appreciate bells, he was certain the majority of people realised that bells were one of the joys of life and one of the ways of expressing it. The Church accepted the help of ringers with great joy, and realised that they were fellow workers. The President then thanked the Bishop for his kindly welcome, and the Council proceeded to discuss the business upon the agenda.

The minutes of the last meeting having been published, were taken as read, and duly confirmed and signed.

Arising out of the minutes, the Honorary Secretary stated that about 40 letters had been addressed to the authorities in the various dioceses in reference to having a representative, with a knowledge of bells, on the advisory committees. There had been about 20 replies generally in agreement with the suggestion.

The Hon. Secretary reported, also, that he had had 500 copies of the Card of Instructions printed as directed, and a further 750 copies, as the first number were sold out, and he moved that his action be confirmed, which, on being seconded by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, was agreed.

On account of the restricted train service, following upon the General Strike, there were a large number of apologies for absence, following some doubt as to whether the meeting would have had to be abandoned. Apologies for absence were received from Revs. A. T. Beeston, Canon Baker, A. H. F. Boughey, E. W. Carpenter, L. S. Clark, C. C. Cox, H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, F. J. O. Helmore, C. C. Marshall, C. E. Matthews and H. S. T. Richardson, Mrs. N. Edwards, Messrs. J. Carter, Alderman R. B. Chambers, J. Cotterill, H. Day, H. Haigh, A. J. Hughes, P. J. Johnson, E. H. Lewis, T. Metcalfe, J. D. Matthews, D. J. Nichols, H. W. Wilde and W. Willson.

The balance sheet, presented by the hon. secretary and treasurer, showed that the year started with a balance in hand of £67 14s. 3d. The receipts included a donation of £5 towards the publication of the Cards of Instruction from the Rev. H. Drake, affiliation fees £13 10s., interest on stock £4 10s. 8d., and sale of Cards of Instruction 13s. 1d., a total of £24 13s. 9d. The expenditure, including the loss on the sale of publications of £5 12s. 6d., was £16 13s., leaving a balance in the bank of £70 16s. The accounts were adopted on the motion of the Rev. H. Law James, seconded by Mr. Pryce Taylor.

The Hon. Librarian, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, reported the completion of the Washbrook Memorial Scheme, and said that there was a balance of £28. Turning to the Council's publications, he said that the sales realised £4 19s. 1d., the expenses were £10 11s. 3d., including £9 2s. for advertising. He also reported that the 'Collection of Minor Methods' was out of print. He had purchased for the Council, Canon Elseo's stock of 'On the Preservation of Bells,' and also secured a considerable number of copies of 'Bell News' for 1912-1915, inclusive, but he still required some further copies to complete the years 1912, 1913 and 1915.

The four retiring honorary members, Mrs. Edwards, Rev. E. W. Carpenter, Mr. J. George and Mr. H. W. Wilde, were re-elected.

The following new members were then introduced to the president: Mr. J. Hammond (Swansea and Brecon), Mr. F. J. Davey (Deron), and Mr. E. P. Poppy (Suffolk).

COVENTRY BELLS.

The Hon. Secretary then reported on the steps which, after consultation with the president and Standing Committee, were taken in the Consistory Court to preserve Coventry bells. Unfortunately, though they put up a good fight, they were not successful. He said they were very much indebted to the services of Mr. Pritchett, an eminent member of the Bar, and a member of the Council's Standing Committee. The Hon. Secretary, referring to the long efforts which Mr. Cyril E. Johnston had made to save the loss of these bells as a ringing-peak, said if he had come to the Council for help those efforts might have met with more success. Mr. J. S. Pritchett then pointed out that the action was not altogether wasted, because it secured the bells being preserved as a peal of ten, instead of merely part of a carillon. The Hon. Secretary then moved that the Council confirm the action of the Standing Committee and pay the incidental expenses incurred. This was seconded by Rev. H. Drake, of the Suffolk Guild, which had, he said, supported the action enthusiastically. The President expressed the Council's heartiest thanks to Mr. Young and Mr. Pritchett, and the motion was carried. (All those present were presented by Mr. Young with a quarto booklet, giving the whole of the letters, etc., in the action.)

PEAL COLLECTION COMMITTEE.

Miss Parker reported that the work of adding the new Treble Bob compositions was proceeding. It involved the examination of the original peals to see that variations did not creep in, and it was hoped to have it in type for the next meeting. The report was adopted.

LITERATURE AND PRESS COMMITTEE.

In the absence through illness of the convener, Rev. C. E. Matthews, the Hon. Secretary reported that during the year the committee had been revising the Book of Rules, which they hoped to have in type before the next meeting. Incidentally, during the year the committee had been looking after the ringers' interests in the Press and in broadcasting. Rev. H. Law James said the report on Methods should not be reprinted in the book until the Methods Committee had brought it up to date. The report was accepted.

METHODS COMMITTEE.

Rev. H. Law James reported that the committee was still ready to print the Plain Major methods, and he moved that 300 copies now be printed. Mr. Burton having intervened on behalf of the Nomenclature Committee, it was moved by Mr. T. Hervey Beams, and seconded by Rev. C. D. P. Davies, and agreed that the matters referred to should be dealt with later in the day. The motion and report being seconded by the honorary secretary, were then carried and accepted.

PEALS ANALYSIS COMMITTEE.

The report as published was formally presented by Miss Parker, and on the motion of the President was unanimously adopted.

TOWERS AND BELERIES COMMITTEE.

In the absence of the convener, Mr. E. H. Lewis, the Hon. Secretary, reported he said that during the year Major J. H. B. Hesse and himself were asked to inspect and report upon the tower of the Church of St. Michael, Southampton. Major Hesse called attention to the necessity of painting metal bell-frames at least every five years. He said he had seen some bad cases of neglect lately. The President said he thought they should be painted every three years. The report being formally seconded by Rev. C. D. P. Davies, was carried.

RECORDS COMMITTEE.

Mr. T. Hervey Beams said the committee had practically nothing to report, and on the motion of the President the statement was accepted.

SCIENCE MUSEUM EXHIBIT COMMITTEE.

The Hon. Secretary (as convener) said they had now in the National Science Museum a small section illustrating their art, and that it included the famous ringing machine invented by Mr. John Carter. He proposed that, as there was no more work for the committee to do, it should be allowed to lapse, and the duties be taken over by the Standing Committee. These duties included the care of the Carter machine. It had, he said, been Mr. Carter's wish for it to be in the museum on permanent loan, under the trusteeship of the Council, and for him and Rev. C. D. P. Davies to be the first trustees. They had accepted the post, and now proposed to appoint Mr. C. Roberts, a London ringer, who had agreed to master the machine and to demonstrate it. He (Mr. Young) had been able to extract from Mr. Carter details of the machine, which he had incorporated in a book deposited with the machine. Rev. C. D. P. Davies, in seconding, congratulated the Council upon the arrangements made. Mr. J. S. Pritchett expressed appreciation of the services which Mr. Young rendered in the matter. It was resolved that the report be accepted and that the committee be dissolved, and the duties carried on by the Standing Committee, and also that representatives be appointed by the Council to act as trustees of the Carter ringing machine.

NOMENCLATURE COMMITTEE.

Mr. G. P. Burton reported for his committee, and said they presented their report a year ago. This year they had embodied with it 13 resolutions, all as per the typed copy which those present had in their hands. The interval had allowed time for reflection, and, of course, criticism; the latter they welcomed when it was helpful and constructive. He dealt at length with the position and with some of the points urged against their report, and, speaking of some of the old methods, said he realised that their history was reflected in their compound names; but too many adjectives were an encumbrance, and if of old there was the power to build up names, so there should be to-day the power to revise or undo them. It was wrong for any individual to have such liberty in nomenclature; it engendered trouble and even ridicule; it was also a duty they owed to the future to hand on suitable names. Flower names certainly should go, and to this and the other proposals he asked for a plain 'Yes' or 'No.' Mr. Burton then moved the 13 resolutions as published ('R.W.' April 2nd and July 9th, 1926).

Mr. J. A. Trollope moved as an amendment: 'That this Council, while urging on the Exercise the extreme importance of choosing suitable names for new methods, declines to interfere with such rights as bands and individual ringers at present enjoy of giving names to new methods. And, further, is of the opinion that no alteration should be made in the names of old and historical methods, except where urgently necessary.'

The speaker disagreed as to the alleged confusion and lack of system; on the contrary, he said, the present names were, on the whole, good, and some had been in use nearly 300 years. After all, what was wrong with 'Double Norwich Court Bob Major'? Such titles were replete with history, and could never be replaced with single-word names. The amendment aimed at non-interference with individual rights and prevention of any break in the continuity of their history.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies, in seconding, said he was against altering the accustomed names, and believed in natural growth in such things. The amendment was debated at considerable length, the Rev. H. Law James and Mr. E. W. Elwell strongly supporting it, whilst Mr. W. A. Cave, being in part agreement only, urged the resolutions be voted clause by clause. After the luncheon interval, Mr. J. S. Pritchett supported the amendment, and dealt with the Council's difficulty, i.e., there was too much to digest, for even if taken line by line they had work enough for a week. The committee would be wiser first to concentrate upon reform of the urgent and worst cases, for wholesale changes invited controversy; the lines upon which they might well proceed were suggested in the amendment, and their aim should be a less elaborate report. Though he agreed that non-historic and uncouth names required alteration, he preferred to keep the floral names. He was sure progress could be made if his suggestion was followed.

The Rev. H. Drake, speaking for the committee, said that the latter had discussed the amendment, and were largely in agreement with it. He agreed with most of Mr. Pritchett's remarks, but would remind them, however, that there had been the definite instructions of the Council to formulate their suggestions and revisions, and especially so in the case of the floral names. It would be found that they had so acted, and that the historical names were practically untouched. He suggested that the amendment be treated as a rider, then the committee could carry on albeit a little differently and with less feeling of wasted effort. This suggestion not meeting with favour, the amendment was then put and carried by 29 to 3, and was then agreed as a substantive motion without further discussion.

SIMPSON TUNING.

The Hon. Secretary then moved his motion, of which notice was given at Chester the year before, i.e., 'That the Council should consider whether "Simpson" tuning is in the best interests of the Exercise.' He said he had stepped into the controversy with some diffidence, the subject being naturally obscure and difficult. He was sure, however, that though most of those present might differ from him, all would find the subject of bell tones very near to them. Firstly, dealing with personal associations, he referred to two peals in his native Southampton, one the old tuning, and one the new, i.e., at St. Michael's and St. Mary's. Then passing on to the views for and against such tuning, he referred to the life and work of both the late Canon Simpson and also the late Mr. T. C. Lewis, and described what was meant by the Medieval, the Old Standard, and the Simpson methods. The Church to-day, he continued, was pressed for funds, and it was therefore the more wasteful to spend large sums in recasting, merely to comply with certain modern ideas, which latter might well be open to doubt. The money could be better spent over a wider and more useful field. Then turning to the practical side, it was well known that many conductors complained of the Simpson 'howl.' There were also the questions of ear fatigue, and, again, bell fatigue, due to excessive vibration, of which little was as yet known.

Mr. Young, who had given all those present his pamphlet on 'Bell Tones,' then dealt at length with the musical and theoretical sides of the case. A bell, he said, should have the right overtones in order to give a certain liquid quality to the natural percussive character of its note. He gave the accepted values of the consonant intervals, and demonstrated the 'thirds,' especially the difficult minor third, so characteristic of the Simpson-tuned bell. He referred to the disadvantages of the minor key, and contrasted it with that of the Major. It was remarkable, he said, that the change in musical ideas in the sixteenth century, as ultimately fixed by the great Bach, synchronised with the great alteration deliberately made by the English bell founders, a change not lightly to be set aside. In concluding, Mr. Young said the Simpsonian method was not necessarily 'scientific'; the term, he thought, belonged more properly to the 'Old Standard,' and that the present trend was a retrograde one. He trusted that the founders would most carefully consider the position and leave as many as possible of the old good bells as a legacy for the future.—Mr. W. A. Cave briefly supported and seconded the motion.

Major J. H. B. Eesse, speaking to the contrary from a lengthy and carefully prepared statement, claimed that the misunderstanding began when they attempted to define Simpson tuning. All knew that this new system originated with a certain firm of bell founders, who advertised their bells as tuned 'upon Canon Simpson's principle,' but after his death dropped it for 'in true harmonic tone,' as being more correct. He asked if it were not better to cast and tune with understanding rather than by chance. Would anyone really think that Rudhall and other past masters of the art could unconsciously and without knowledge do finer work than the scientific founders of to-day? Objectors should honestly say that their real reasons were sentimental and archaeological, and influenced by fear of the carillon. Continuing, the speaker gave a long list of towers containing successful Simpson peals, and said that many famous old bells proved to be nearly true to that principle.

It being here suggested that there be concurrently taken a motion upon the agenda, viz., 'That, in the opinion of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, historic bells should not be turned on the "Simpson" principle.' It was ruled by the president that the motion was 'out of order.'

Mr. Cyril F. Johnston referred first of all to the Coventry bells, which he said were not being destroyed but only recast; and he enlarged upon the difficulties which his firm had had to surmount. Turning to Simpson tuning, he reminded them that there was nothing new under the sun, and admitted that the new system was the rediscovery, and, he trusted, improvement also, of the practice of the mediæval founders. He agreed with Mr. Young that the harmonics at St. Michael's, Southampton, were very good, but the bells were recast owing to structural defects. The bell founders welcomed criticism; he disagreed, however, with the mover of the resolution in the matter of the 7th hum note, and, quoting Coventry bells as an example, showed that there was no sequence in their falsities, and that these were quite fortuitous. All good old bells, he claimed, possessed the minor third. Founders realised there were difficulties, and it was impossible to eliminate them in any system. They were much indebted to the late Canon Simpson for the new light he had thrown on tuning, and his efforts had undoubtedly induced certain founders to improve upon their work.

Mr. Pryce Taylor mentioned his own acquaintance with the late Canon Simpson, and referred to his firm's close connection with him. Habit and prejudice were hindrances, but no one who had experienced the musical satisfaction of Simpson peals could be content with the incomplete tuning which had hitherto passed muster. He claimed for his firm the honour of being the first to produce the scientifically tuned bells. Referring to the minor third, in his opinion it was a necessity in any good bell, old or new.

Mr. A. A. Hughes, following, said he had no doubt that scientific tuning had come to stay. Mr. E. Barnett thought that Simpson-tuned bells were offensively noisy and harsh against the beautiful softness of bells tuned by the old founders.

Mr. T. Faulkner, in moving an amendment 'That this Council as a body is not qualified to pass an opinion on the subject at present,' said that few of the Council possessed the necessary training, education or knowledge to pass judgment upon either method of tuning. This was seconded by the Rev. E. S. Powell in a brief speech.

The Rev. H. Law James admitted his conversion to the Simpson method of tuning, after some doubts on the matter, and made suggestions which he thought might prevent undue 'howling.' The debate was continued by Mr. T. R. Dennis, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies and Canon H. J. Elsee, the latter saying that whilst he himself preferred Simpson tuning, he allowed there was much to be said on both sides, and he thought the matter was one for the taste of the general public rather than that of the Exercise. It would be a pity, however, if old bells were melted down to be tuned on new principles, as it would be pure vandalism to destroy all examples of the work of bell founders of the eighteenth and previous centuries. Concluding, he endorsed Mr. Young's observations on the necessity of conserving Church funds for vital needs.

Mr. Young, in briefly replying, drew a parallel from the 'exact' and wonderful Parthenon at Athens. Columns, etc., were put out of truth to please the eye; could not a bell be slightly out of truth to please the ear?

There being only one dissentient to the amendment, it was put as a motion and agreed, nem con.

RINGERS ON ADVISORY COMMITTEES.

The Rev. Law James moved the following resolution: 'Forasmuch as the church towers of England contain a large number of valuable old bells, the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers request the Diocesan Advisory Committees of the various dioceses to co-opt some members, having knowledge of the archaeology, tuning and proper hanging of bells, to form a special sub-committee to advise them, when necessary, on all questions relating to the tuning, recasting or rehanging of bells, in order that bells may not needlessly be recast, and that rehanging shall be carried out in a proper manner.' He said very little had come of the previous circular letter in respect to putting a change ringer on the committees. Mr. R. Richardson seconded the motion.

Mr. Drake agreed with the motion, and he thought the Council should lay down rules dealing with the care of ancient bells. The debate was continued by Messrs. C. H. Howard, C. Mee and F. Wilford. The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn pointed out that it was not always necessary to have such a member upon the committee, as it was perhaps better to have an adviser outside it, which was his position in regard to the Oxford Diocesan Committee. Being reminded by the honorary secretary, the president pointed out that the matter was before the meeting last year, when a circular letter was sent to the secretaries of the 36 dioceses. The motion was carried.

RAILWAY TRAVELLING FACILITIES.

Mr. E. Guise moved 'that the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association earnestly requests the Central Council to continue to press the Railway Clearing Board for cheap travelling facilities to be granted to ringers.' He said that his association had taken it up with the local railway superintendent without success. This was seconded by Mr. E. Bishop. The President having referred to previous abortive attempts, the Hon. Secretary said that he had had an interview with the Central Authority, but though the case had been again considered, they had not been successful. He, however, suggested taking it up again next year. It was ultimately agreed to leave the matter in the hands of the president and hon. secretary to see what could be done.

Mr. T. H. Taffender moved, 'That the Council consider the question of the institution of a "Bell ringers' Sunday" by means of an annual service throughout the country, and make recommendations.' He said he hoped it would be possible for the Council to draw up a scheme for a bell ringers' Sunday in the same way that there were hospital and other Sundays. This was seconded by Mr. A. D. Barker, but considerable objection was made by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, and the Rev. H. Law James thought that it would be better for every Guild to have their own special Sunday service. Rev. Canon H. J. Elsee concurred with the latter.

After some further remarks by Messrs. T. R. Dennis, E. W. Elwell and J. Hunt, Mr. W. A. Cave suggested a bell ringers' Saturday, which being ruled out of order by the president, the motion was put and lost.

A resolution deprecating Simpson tuning of historic bells was next upon the agenda, but it had already been ruled out of order by the president.

Mr. T. Faulkner having raised a question as to the umpiring of record peals, after some discursive remarks and a few words from the president the matter was allowed to drop.

On the motion of the President, the Council accepted the offer of the hon. secretary to send, on its behalf, the Coventry Bells booklet to those members who were absent, and also to the secretaries of the affiliated Guilds, after the proceedings in the Consistory Court had been added in the book.

The President expressed the appreciation and thanks of the Council for all that had been done for their comfort and convenience by the Suffolk Guild, and Canon H. J. Elsee proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman. Both motions being carried with applause, the President briefly replied, and the proceedings terminated at about 5.20.

THE RURAL PROBLEM.

Ringers in the towns probably do not realise sufficiently the difficulties which confront those who seek to build up bands at country towers. In populous centres the trouble is to make ringing a sufficiently strong counter attraction to the many varieties of pleasure which claim the attention of the youth of to-day; in the country districts the obstacle is a far greater one. It is not the difficulty of keeping the beginner interested, but of finding anyone to take up the work at all. Many rural parishes, denuded of young people, who flock to the towns in search of livelihood, are, according to Mr. Slater, whose long experience in Suffolk enables him to speak with authority, absolutely without the new material to mould into ringers, however willing old hands may be to undertake the task. This rural depopulation is lamentable from many points of view, and every phase of country life is suffering from it. It has caused the extinction of many bands of ringers in places where once there were competent companies, and one is forced to recognise that this is a serious problem for the Exercise. Hundreds of willing teachers of ringing up and down the country know the heart-breaking task of patiently instructing beginners, by ones and twos, getting them to a useful stage in the belfry and then losing them through the demands of life's greater claims. Year after year some men train new bands, only to see them depart when the labour and time spent upon them are beginning to give their return. There are some ringers who have devoted their energies to this work of teaching for most of their ringing lives, and the Exercise seldom if ever hears of them, at any rate in this capacity, and yet this silent, unsung work, often full of disappointments, substantially helps to maintain the very foundations of the Exercise.

How can the problem which confronts so many of these rural parishes be solved? It seems callous and cold-blooded to tell them that they must work out their own salvation; and yet there appears to be little that can be done by outside organisation. Associations might, perhaps, render more generous and sustained help in many a country tower than is frequently the case, for, apart from the actual assistance given, the encouragement of this external help has a great effect in maintaining 'life' in a wilting company, as well as adding keenness and zest to the work of the struggling and enthusiastic band. Something might be gained, also, if the various county and diocesan organisations would give special attention to the needs of their own particular rural areas, and conferences with the authorities in the country parishes might lead to useful suggestions. But in the extreme cases, such as Glemsford, in Suffolk, with its dwindling population and no youth, it is difficult to see what can be done, except by the patient plodding and the will to keep going on the part of such men as Mr. Theodore Slater.

EDGBASTON'S NEW BELLS.

A BEAUTIFUL LITTLE RING.

Edgbaston, the 'aristocratic' suburb of Birmingham, is proud of its new peal of eight bells, which have just been supplied by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and were dedicated by Bishop Hamilton Baynes, as already briefly recorded in these columns. The ceremony took place at a memorable service, after which the bells were rung for a short time by the local men, assisted by members of the King's Norton Guild.

The former ring of six was recast and two trebles added, one by members of the congregation and the other by the widow of Mr. W. McC. Iliffe, in memory of her husband. The bells form a delightful little octave, with tenor about 10½ cwt. in G, and they are hung in the most modern fittings in a new iron frame. They are of beautiful tone, and the 'go' is perfect.

Of the old six, the four back bells were cast by the Bagleys in 1685, and the inscriptions have been reproduced as follows:

Tenor.—'Fear God and Honour the King.' 1685.

7.—'Matthew Bagley made mee.' 1685.

6.—'Henry Bagley made mee.' 1685.

5.—'Matthew Bagley made mee.' 1685.

3.—Cast by T. Pyke, Bridgewater. 1781.

To all the above inscriptions is added the words: 'Recast, Taylor, Loughboro'.

2.—A.D. 1927. 'To the Glory of God.' Given by members of the Congregation. Adeste Fideles. Stuart Blofield, Vicar; John Belliss, J. Staley Good, Churchwardens; Sidney Freemantle, Sexton. Taylor, Loughboro'.

Treble.—A.D. 1927. 'To the Glory of God.' 'Given in loving memory of William McCandlish Iliffe, by his wife, Florence Iliffe.' Taylor, Loughboro'.

For evening service, on the day of the dedication, Johnson's 1,008 Grandsire Triples: F. B. Yates 1, P. O. Laffin 2, H. Withers (conductor) 3, E. Rose 4, G. Large 5, W. Ball 6, C. Webb 7, R. Russell 8.

JAMES BARHAM'S PEALS.

SOME NOTABLE PERFORMANCES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—A gentleman residing in Suffolk recently lent me an old book, a complete copy of James Barham's peal book. A note at the end states: 'The aforesaid peals were copied from James Barham's book, written by himself, by John Naunton, of Ipswich, 1866.' The book was lent him by a person at Maidstone. A further note says the peal book was given to William Holland by James Barham, 1817. James Barham died January 14th, 1818, aged 93 years. The peals are numbered to one hundred and fifteen. Twenty were rung with the Lenham Society, 95 with the Leeds Youths. Four or five of the numbered peals came to an untimely end after exceeding five thousand changes. For instance, Peal No. 12, Leeds Youths: 'Monday, March 31st, 1755.—We attempted a 40,320 quadruple and triple changes Bob Major, and ended thus, viz., at 2 o'clock in the afternoon began, and on Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock the 6th bell clapper broke, after ringing 24,800 changes, this never being attempted before, and the greatest performance of ringing ever known. In this peal, James Barham stood 14 hours 44 minutes under the 7th bell, drank two glasses of wine and called all the bobs.'

Again: 'On Easter Monday, March 23rd, 1761, a fortnight before the long peal, Peal No. 25, we attempted to ring at home 40,320 of Bob Major, but had the misfortune to overturn a bell after ringing 17,000 changes.'

The long peal of 40,320 changes is number 26. The following are the names of the fourteen men: James, Thomas and Abraham Barham, William and Henry Tilby, William Davis, William Attwood, Thomas Lacy, John Crisp, Richard Masters, James Hampton, Edward Cook, Stephen Bayley, and John Borah.

The book also contains accounts of several prize-ringing contests, attempts for peals, etc.

A trip to London is mentioned. 'Sunday, January 21st, 1750.—We went to London to ring, and came home on Thursday.' Three peals rung by the College Youths appear in the book. 'Monday, March 19th, 1770.—James Barham's band rang at Sevenoaks a peal of Oxford Treble Bob, 5,184 changes in 3 hours 24 minutes.' The College Youths rang at the same time 5,056 of the same peal in 3 hrs. 22 mins., 'but they turned five bells out of course, which is not allowed.'

'Monday, November 15th, 1784, at Maidstone, the College Youths rang 5,040 changes of Old Oxford Treble Bob in 3 hours 40 minutes.'

'Monday, September 13th, 1800.—The College Youths rang at Leeds 5,039 Grandsire Caters in 3 hours 15 minutes very well.'

James Barham rang his first peal some time in 1744 (date not given), and his last on October 25th, 1813. He was then 88 years of age. I might say that before returning the book I made a rough copy of the book.—Yours truly,

GEO. W. MOSS.

THE DEATH OF MR. W. H. DYSON.

CLOSE OF AN ACTIVE LIFE.

The late Mr. W. H. Dyson, whose death at the age of 69 years was briefly recorded in our last issue, had had a long and intimate connection with church life in Braintree. For 60 years he had been a chorister, and for over 40 years a regular service ringer at the Parish Church. He was one of the small company who in 1879 founded the Essex Association, and had been secretary of the Northern Division for many years. Mr. Dyson had taken almost a lifelong interest in Friendly Society work, and had been a member of the Ancient Order of Foresters since 1880. He became secretary of 'Court Campbell' (Braintree) in 1890, and retained that office until June, 1923. He passed through all the offices of the Court, and was a Past Chief Ranger of the Colchester District.

A native of Castle Hedingham, Mr. Dyson went to Braintree at an early age, and all his working years had been spent with Messrs. John West and Sons, brush manufacturers, and he rose steadily in the esteem and confidence of his employers until fourteen years ago he was appointed manager of their works. His kindly disposition and readiness at all times to help on a good cause won him the respect and affection of a host of friends in Braintree, and in every circle with which he was connected his death comes as a profound loss.

Mr. Dyson, who was predeceased by his wife about two years ago, leaves two daughters, with whom he was staying at Westcliff for the benefit of his health when he passed away in his sleep.

The funeral took place at Braintree on Tuesday week, and was largely attended. The service held at St. Michael's Church was conducted by Rev. G. P. Bassett Kerry, Vicar, assisted by Rev. H. Jordan, Vicar of Finchingfield, and Rev. R. Williams, curate of Braintree. A wreath from the clergy, churchwardens, and choirmen of St. Michael's was placed in the late Mr. Dyson's empty choir stall and remained there during the service. Rev. H. Jordan read the lesson, and the hymn, 'For all the Saints' was sung. The Vicar of Braintree, in a short address, spoke of Mr. Dyson's faithful service to the Church, and said he was a devout follower of Christ whom they would all miss very much. At the close of the service the congregation remained standing while the organist played the Dead March from 'Saul.' From the church to the cemetery the cortege was preceded by members of the Court Campbell A.O.F. wearing their regalia. The Vicar read the committal sentences, and the Foresters' burial service was read by the Secretary and Past Chief Ranger, Bro. H. E. Hammond.

In addition to the family mourners and members of the Foresters, there were present representatives of the firm for which Mr. Dyson had worked so long, the Braintree and Bocking Building Society, of which he was a director, and Mr. C. H. Howard (Master), and other ringers representing the Essex Association. There were floral tributes from the Master and members of the Essex Association, St. Michael's Guild of Ringers, Dunmow ringers, and the company at St. Mary's, Stebbing.

In the evening, at St. Mary's, Bocking, by kind permission of the Very Rev. the Dean, as Braintree bells are at present unringable, 1,260 Grandsire Triples, with bells half-muffled: F. Webb 1, G. Wiffen 2, G. Lindridge 3, B. Redgwell 4, L. W. Wiffen (conductor) 5, H. Reason 6, W. H. Hammond 7, A. Wiffen 8.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A 'RINGERS' DAY' AT CAMBERWELL.

The Southern District of the London County Association held a very successful meeting at St. Giles', Camberwell, last Saturday, when ringers had 'their day' with the ten bells, which have just been rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co. It is seven years since a similar meeting was held at this well-known church.

The tower was opened at 3.30, and even before that time there were more men than bells. The bells were set going with the customary touch of Stedman Caters, which was followed by touches in the usual standard methods.

A choral service was held at five o'clock, and by this time there was a good muster of ringers. The Vicar officiated. Afterwards, a move was made to St. Giles' Hall, where tea, kindly given by the Vicar, had been prepared.

At the business meeting which followed, three new members were enrolled.

The tower was again visited, but unfortunately the ringing had to be curtailed somewhat owing to a concert being given at a hall opposite the church.

After the bells were stopped for the evening, those who did not have to travel enjoyed an impromptu social. Some of the members showed that they can sing as well as ring, and in between the songs some tunes were rung on the handbells, as were also one or two touches, a course of Grandsire Cinques sounding very musical.

Visiting ringers came from all parts of London and districts out-lying, and wish to thank the Vicar (Rev. Lindsay) for the use of the bells, for the service, and also for his kindness in providing the tea. They also wish to thank the ladies who helped the Vicar in the preparation of the tea.

WOOLTON HILL, HANTS.—On Sunday, April 10th, for evensong, 720 Double Oxford Minor: L. Robbins 1, N. Scott 2, T. Lock 3, R. Rex 4, J. Scott 5, H. Balaam (conductor) 6. First 720 in the method by all.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

RINGING AT OXFORD IN THE OLD TIMES.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

After Vickers' time Grandsire Caters continued to be the method almost exclusively practised at Oxford. Indeed, there seems to be no record of any other having ever been rung. As was the case throughout the country, the status of the ringers steadily declined. We hear no more of any interest being taken in the art by University men, and, by the middle of the nineteenth century, the Oxford ringers fully shared the bad reputation which was too common among ringers. But for many years there was a good band. The Oxford Society has two interesting pen and ink sketches recording peals rung in 1773 and 1781. These are framed and hang at the society's headquarters, the Turf Tavern at Holywell. I am indebted to Mr. V. Bennett for the following copies:—

'On 20th May, 1773, at the College of St. Mary Winton, Oxon, 6102 Grandsire Caters in 3 hrs. 55 mins.: Thomas Chaddington Treble, Peter Smith 2, John Curtis 3, Thomas Binkes 4, John Mason 5, Henry Geely 6, Sam Walker 7, John Baker 8, John Seearsbrook 9, Henry Smyth, gent, tenor. These two sketches were the work of John Baker. As was the universal custom down to the end of the eighteenth century, these compositions are given by the bob changes. It is in this way that the peals in the 'Clavis' are given. The modern plan of giving peals by the course ends arose early in the nineteenth century. Shipway seems to have been the first to use it extensively, but it is not quite clear whether he originated it. He says: 'The limited extent of this work renders it necessary that the peals should be given by course ends, wherever it can conveniently be done, which will doubtless be considered as least tedious by the experienced ringer and more agreeable than by bob changes; and I shall endeavour to assist the young practitioner by making the bobs with dashes under small letters at each course end as follows:—An m for middle, w for the wrong and an h for the right, i.e., at home.'

If this means that Shipway was introducing a new way of writing out compositions it is one more debt that the Exercise owes him.

Vickers' band never succeeded in ringing the 10,000 they started for at Magdalen. After that attempt history is (so far as I know) silent about their doings. It was not till 73 years later that 10,000 was rung in the city. That was at New College, and the following is a copy of a board in the tower:—

'March 27, 1815. Rung in this tower a complete peal of Grandsire Caters, containing 10,008 changes by the Junior Society of Cumberland Youths. Thomas Pavier, Treble; William Parker, Second; John Tagg, Third; George Pavier, Fourth; Henry Carr, Fifth; Charles Pavier, Sixth; Joseph Montague, Seventh; Edward Nickolls, Eighth; Johathan Pavier, Ninth; Thomas Cook, Tenor.

'This was the greatest number of changes ever rung in the University of Oxford. Composed and conducted by E. Nickolls. Tenor 19.cwt.'

The Paviers were a great ringing family at Oxford. Three of the name rang in the 1781 peal, and four in the 1815 peal; and though thirty-four years separated the performance, two of them seem to have rung in both.

In 1820 the Society of Oxford Youths rang 5,303 Grandsire Caters at Christ Church, and in 1828 the Society of Oxford Union Scholars 5,165 Grandsire Caters at the same tower. Both composed and conducted by W. Parker.

Coming down to more recent times, one or two peals rung at Magdalen are interesting from the names of some of those who took part in them. On Friday, April 11th, 1862, Holt's Original was rung, conducted by C. Hounslow. On Monday, October 8th, 1866, in 5,021 Grandsire Caters, 'F. E. Robinson, Esq.' rang the seventh. On July 17th, 1869, John Cox called 5,033 Stedman Caters, his own composition; and on April 1st, 1872, Mr. J. E. Troyte rang the fourth to 6,030 Grandsire Caters, composed and conducted by John Rogers. Rogers was at that time living at Oxford, but was afterwards prominent among the London Cumberlands. He was the composer of one or two peals of Grandsire Caters of more than average merit.

At the time Vickers was ringing his peals Christ Church bells hung in the Cathedral tower. Fifty years or so ago they were removed to a wooden building near the College Hall, which has since been hidden by a stone screen. They are a mixed lot. The tenor 1589, the eighth 1611, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11 by the Rudhalls at various dates from 1698 to 1747. The two trebles were given by the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

At Magdalen the sixth and tenor are by Ellis Knight, of Reading. The seventh has a black letter inscription and also 'William Ffoundor me fecit.' The others were by the Rudhalls in 1712 and 1740, but two have been recast. Michael Darbie cast the back eight at New College in 1655, and Abraham Rudhall the two trebles in 1712. Rudhall recast three of Darbie's bells (the 4th, 7th and 9th) and Henry Knight, of Reading, another (the sixth). Before 1655 there was a ring of five bells, which was heavy enough to make Darbie's eight, and, with surplus metal, pay all expenses of recasting.

HILLINGDON WEST.—At St. Andrew's, on Saturday, April 2nd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, in 44 mins., was rung on the occasion of the marriage of John Peddle, a member of the above tower: T. Smith 1, G. H. Gutteridge 2, J. Lucas 3, E. Hancox (conductor) 4, P. E. Jones 5, F. Corke 6, R. Carter 7, S. Humphreys 8.

Repeat the first ten courses four times, calling S for B* in 1st and 4th parts. The 5th part may be called like the last 15 courses instead of the 2nd part, the 4th will then be the 6th's place bell instead of the 3rd.

All calls are Double Norwich; Double Oxford is called when the treble is behind in 3rd lead, tenor making 7th's, thus cutting out two leads with the tenor full work on the front. The other six bells dodge once, then commence Double Norwich again without being called.

The work of the bells as follows: Two front bells dodge the whole lead, the one that is 3-4 places up dodges three times after and becomes the Treble Bob bell up. The Treble Bob bell down dodges three times in 3-4 and makes places. The bell that is due to make far places from behind, makes near places commencing with a dodge. The 7th, which is far places from the front, makes a dodge after.

MR. G. R. PYE'S 1,000 PEALS.

We print below the list of Mr. George R. Pye's one thousand peals, which he completed on Saturday week at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate. By reaching a four-figure total, Mr. Pye joins a small and slowly-growing band, but a remarkable feature about his achievement is the fact that he is the third member of one family to reach this number of peals, Mr. William Pye and the late Mr. Ernest Pye, his brothers, having previously accomplished the record.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The recast bells for Coventry Cathedral were dedicated on Saturday. They are, of course, only hung for chiming, but after a long silence their notes will doubtless be welcome to the citizens.

Among those who, prior to Mr. G. R. Pye's achievement of scoring one thousand peals, had accomplished this stupendous task, are the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, who was the first to do so, Mr. William Pye, the late Mr. Ernest Pye, the late Mr. I. G. Shade, Mr. George Williams, and Mr. Frank Bennett. The next for honours will be—, Yes, he is still going strong.

Mr. Albert W. Coles underwent an operation on April 7th at the London Hospital. We are glad to say he is now going on exceedingly well.

With the augmented ring at Edgbaston, Birmingham now possesses one peal of twelve bells, three of ten, nine of eight and one of six.

To-day, the anniversary of the 15,227 Grandsire Caters rung at Cheltenham on April 22nd, 1889, is also the fifth anniversary of the longest of all peals, the 21,363 Stedman Caters at Appleton, rung in 1922.

The Georges, who will attempt a Surprise peal to-morrow, have probably been the most successful 'name' peal ringers of any. They rang a peal of Stedman Triples at St. George's, Camberwell, as long ago as St. George's Day, 1857.

On April 23rd, 1778, the band at Braughing, Herts, rang a peal of 10,080 Bob Major, and preliminary to a 12,240 which they scored in the following year, but which even then was not a record, for in 1737 15,120 in this method had been rung at West Ham.

Bob Major must have made rapid strides in those far-off days, for it was only on April 26th, 1725, that the first peal in the method had been rung. It was scored at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, by the College Youths.

Among the anniversaries which occur next week are those of the 8,580 Stedman Cinques at Cornhill, by the College Youths in 1861, and the 15,840 Kent Treble Bob Major at Bethnal Green in 1865. Of the band which rang the latter peal, the late Mr. Ted Horrex was the last survivor. Both peals were on April 27th.

On April 28th, 1800, the Cumberland Youths rang 10,112 Oxford Treble Bob Major at Edmonton, and it was on this day four years ago that members of the Midland Counties Association rang the 12,896 Cambridge Surprise Major at Stony Stanton.

There is a band in Warwickshire which can sympathise with the company who recently visited Bankley, as when attempting a peal last Saturday they found the bells they had come to ring were hung in a 'hastie-sided' frame and oiled with something which must have been seccotine. Everything else about the church was faultless.

Mr. Frank Smith, of Bushey, was elected president of the Hertford County Association, for the ensuing year, at the annual meeting at St. Albans on Monday. Mr. Cartmel was elected secretary for the twenty-fifth time. A full report of the proceedings will appear in our next issue.

RECORD PEAL OF OXFORD TREBLE BOB.

Although we have not, at the time of going to press, received the official report, we are informed that the attempt for the record peal of 17,824 Oxford Treble Bob Major by members of the Lancashire Association at St. Thomas' Church, Heptonstall, on Easter Monday, was successful.

We have it on the authority of Mr. Harry Chapman, who listened to the peal, that in all his experience he has never heard anything to beat it or even to come up to the standard of striking that was maintained. Hour after hour it was the same, and the last course was as good as the first.

NEW PEAL OF TEN FOR SURREY. GENEROUS GIFT TO HASLEMERE.

Haslemere, on the southern border of Surrey, is to have a peal of ten bells. A few years ago the old ring was recast by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., and the octave now has a tenor of 13 cwt. 6 lb. A generous donor, who desires to remain anonymous, has now come forward and offered to defray the cost of adding two trebles.

Everything is now in order for the work to proceed, and it will be carried out under the supervision of Major J. H. B. Hesse, who is one of the members of the Central Council's Towers and Belfries Committee, and who resides in the parish.

The work will involve taking out the three present trebles and re-arranging the rider frame, for the front five bells will hang above the back five.

When the new bells are installed, Haslemere will have one of the lightest peals of ten hung in any English church.

GRANDSIRE TRIPLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. H. Whittle, with reference to the composition of Grandsire Triples published in your issue of April 1st, I may say I have had this composition for some years, not being able to discover whether a similar peal had been obtained, and I did not consider it a variation of the late Mr. J. Carter's well-known peal. However, seeing that Mr. Whittle had previously obtained a similar composition which he considers a variation, of course I have no option but to take the same view.—Yours faithfully,

A. J. PITMAN.

BARNESLEY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

A monthly meeting of the Barnsley and District Association was held at Penistone on Saturday, April 9th, when members were present from Barnsley, Hoylandswaine, Darton, Darfield, Felkirk, South Kirby, Wortley, Rawmarsh, Sandal, Shelley, Handsworth, Wath, and members of local company, together with several visitors.

The day was very wet and chilly, yet in spite of this drawback there was a full attendance. The bells were freely used from 2.45 until about 9 p.m., the methods mostly of Minor, ranging from Plain Bob to Cambridge Surprise. Tea was served in the National Schools, over thirty sitting down to a substantial and homely meal, kindly provided by a Penistone change ringer noted for his generosity to fellow members.

The Vicar (Rev. F. B. Carlton) was present at tea, and presided at the business meeting. Matters concerning Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, the Hoylandswaine company's cup contest, and the association's shield contest were satisfactorily dealt with.

Four new members were elected, and Felkirk was selected for the May meeting.

Votes of thanks were duly passed to the Vicar for his presence, to the donor of the tea, the churchwardens for use of the bells, and the local company for all arrangements made.

DEATH OF AN OLD LUTON RINGER.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Harry Shaw, who until two years ago was steeplekeeper at the Parish Church, Luton, and had to relinquish those duties owing to ill-health. He passed away on March 21st in his 66th year.

He was a member of the Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire Associations, and had rung about thirty peals of Grandsire and Stedman Triples. He always rang the tenor. The funeral took place on the following Thursday, when a wreath was sent by the local ringers.

To his memory, 1,260 Stedman Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled in 50 mins.: H. Walker 1, A. King 2, B. Wilson 3, A. Smith 4, H. Wood 5, F. Hunt 6, L. A. Goodenough (conductor) 7, A. Rookwood 8.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting was held at Cambridge on Easter Monday. The committee met in the vestry of Great St. Mary's at 11.15 a.m., and service followed in that church at noon. This, as the new Vicar has not come into residence, was conducted by the Rev. R. Copeman (hon. secretary of the association), who also, as the invited preacher did not arrive, gave the address.

Thirty-one members and visitors sat down to lunch at 1 p.m. at the 'Dorothy Cafe.' The Rev. A. H. F. Boughey presided, supported by the Revs. H. B. Woolley and R. F. R. Routh. After luncheon, the annual business was transacted.

The Secretary presented his report, showing that 29 peals (four on handbells), had been rung in 1926, one at Stapleford being 'York Surprise Minor,' which is believed to be the first rung entirely in that method.

The accounts for the years 1925 and 1926, which had been audited, were passed, and showed a balance in hand of £20 12s. 11d., which will be seriously reduced when the bill for printing the report is paid.

The officers were appointed as follows: Hon. secretary and treasurer, Rev. R. Copeman; auditor and representative on Central Council, Mr. T. R. Dennis; district secretary for archdeaconry of Hunts, Rev. H. B. Woolley; district secretary for archdeaconry of Wisbech, Mr. H. W. Giddings; district secretary for Marshland, Mr. W. G. Cross.

As Mr. A. E. Austin had expressed the wish to resign his post, Mr. F. Warrington was chosen for archdeaconry of Ely.

The following were elected to serve on the committee for one year: Revs. A. H. F. Boughey and R. F. R. Routh, Messrs. J. Taylor, A. G. Rivers, H. Fields, E. G. Hibbins, A. E. Austin.

It was decided to charge 6d. for the report.

A letter from the Vicar of Ickleton was read relating to the re-hanging and recasting of the bells after the fall and breaking of the tenor while the bells were being rung for service on September 12th, and a grant of £5 was voted towards the Fund.

Votes of thanks were passed to the incumbents and churchwardens for the use of the bells at Great St. Mary's, St. Andrew the Great, the Church of Our Lady, and Old Chesterion; also to the hon. secretary for his address and to Mr. Boughey for presiding.—Mr. Boughey, in his reply, moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Austin for his work in editing the report.

Ringings were then carried on in the above-mentioned towers and kept up till about 7 p.m.

THE RESTORATION OF ICKLETON BELLS. THE WHOLE PEAL TO BE RECAST.

The condition of the bells at Ickleton Parish Church has proved to be worse than was anticipated. The old frame and bells have been taken out of the tower. No. 5 bell was then found to be cracked as well as the tenor. The floor under the bells was discovered not safe, and when the bells were examined at the Croydon Bell Foundry, No. 3, when the head stock was removed, was found to be cracked.

At a meeting of the Restoration Committee it was decided that the ringers clean out the tower from top to bottom, and this has been done. A new floor has been put in, and the repairs to the tower are nearly completed.

On the advice of Mr. Cyril Johnston, it has been decided to have all the bells recast, as three already had to be recast, and the others were not perfect, as the treble was heavier than the second. The tenor will be a few cwt. lighter than before, as it would have taken a good deal of metal to make it up to its original weight of 19 cwt. The same amount of metal will be put in the tower as before, but it will be more evenly distributed.

The misfortunes of the ringers have been increased by the fact that two of the local band have left the village, and now they have lost their treasurer. Mr. Webb has just started six lads on the handbells.

The following contributions to the bell fund are acknowledged: Saffron Walden Society 10s. 6d., Leytonstone Society 5s., Mr. T. R. Dennis, Cambridge, £1.

Ickleton has suffered a sad loss by the death of Mr. H. F. Beales, who passed away suddenly on Tuesday night, April 5th. He had been treasurer of the local ringers' society since it was formed thirty years ago, and the ringers always found in him a true friend. Only a few hours before he passed away he was discussing plans for the restoration of the church bells with Mr. P. Webb, the leader of the ringers, and when he wished him good-night, said he felt confident they would raise the money.

The deceased was interred in the family vault in Ickleton Churchyard on Saturday, April 9th. Most of the local ringers attended, and at the graveside the six following rang a touch of Bob Minor and played 'Abide with me' on the handbells: G. Lilley, P. Webb, R. Clements, W. Hutley, W. Flitton and A. Lilley. No muffled ringing could be done as the church bells have been taken to the Croydon Bell Foundry. Among the wreaths was one from the ringers.

On the Sunday following, the Vicar referred to the loss the village had suffered through the death of Mr. Beales. Although not churchwarden for the last few years, he had formerly served in that office for eighteen years, and had done much for the church. The 'Dead March' was played after service.

NORFOLK GUILD'S JUBILEE.

A RECORD GATHERING AT THE CELEBRATION.

The jubilee of the Norfolk Guild was celebrated on Monday with a gathering that exceeded all previous records in the history of the organisation. Members assembled from every corner of the county, and a number came from Suffolk, which was originally in the diocesan area. There are still ten of the original members alive, and four of them were present to take part in the proceedings—Messrs. William Ireland (Diss), Denison Hayward (Great Yarmouth), Frederick Knights (Norwich), and Robert H. Brundle (Ipswich). Each of these veterans is hale and hearty, and entered thoroughly into the spirit of the day. The committee of the Guild, headed by the Dean of Norwich (Dr. Willink), who is president, had spared no pains to make the gathering a success, and they must have been gratified by the response to their invitation. The historic bells of St. Peter Mancroft were going before nine o'clock, and successive bands were occupied in ringing touches upon them throughout the morning, many ringers from distant parishes having their first opportunity of ringing upon twelve bells. The eight at the Church of St. John de Sepulchre were also in demand, and the little ring of five at All Saints' Church, where the tiny ringing chamber is also the vestry, were also utilised.

There was a short but impressive service at St. Peter Mancroft Church, conducted by the Dean, who welcomed the large congregation of ringers. The fine old building was filled with the singing of this company of men, who, accompanied by the organ but without the lead of a choir, sang the hymns 'Christ the Lord is risen again,' and 'Fight the good fight.' The address was given by the Ven. Archdeacon of Norfolk, from Psalm xcvi. 8, 'Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name; bring an offering and come into his courts.' In a very practical sermon he referred to the motives which induced men to take up ringing, and spoke of it as a reasonable and healthy recreation. It was an essentially social pastime, but he hoped also that they looked upon their work from the higher aspect of being an offering to God. He referred to the completion of fifty years of work by the Guild, and said how greatly the Dean and those who were associated with the Guild hoped that it would go on from year to year gathering strength and securing a succession of those who would give themselves to the art in a right and true spirit.

NOTABLE VISITORS.

A photograph having been taken of the members under the shadow of the church, the whole party adjourned to Snelling's Restaurant, where the Guild provided a luncheon. The Dean presided, and was supported by the Bishop of Norwich, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Norwich (Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bignold), Mrs. Willink, the Archdeacon (Ven. A. R. Buckland), Canon Aitken, Canon Grant, Canon Bell (Canons Residentiary of the Cathedral), Canon Meyrick (Rector of St. Peter Mancroft), Mr. A. L. Coleman (hon. secretary and treasurer of the Guild), Mr. C. R. Borrett (vice-president), Mr. G. P. Burton (auditor), and other officers of the Guild. During the lunch and between the subsequent speeches, the Norwich Singers rendered some delightful part songs and glees.

The toast of 'The King' having been honoured, 'Success to the Norfolk Guild' was proposed by the Lord Mayor, who referred to the part which bells had played, and still play, in the life of the nation. He spoke of the keen interest taken in the Guild by the Dean, and of the work which was done by Mr. Coleman. He wished success to the Guild in the future, and expressed the hope that it would continue to prosper under the officers of the association.

'THE GOLDEN WEDDING.'

The Dean, in responding, said his first word must be one of congratulation upon that record gathering. They had assembled in good fettle and good fellowship, and in a spirit of optimism which he thought was entirely justified. That was just as it should be, for it was their jubilee, or, if he might express it in another way, it was the golden anniversary of the marriage of the diocese of Norwich, with what they, as devotees, called 'The Exercise.' It was their golden wedding, and it was right that they should have at that festival as many as possible of the sons and daughters and grandsons and granddaughters as possible, to wish the bride and bridegroom of fifty years ago many more happy anniversaries in the days to come (applause). They were now a goodly company with the Lord Bishop of the diocese at their head and present among them that day for the first time. They were more glad than they could express to have him there on that occasion (applause). They had with them their vice-presidents and officers and numerous honoured guests. He thanked them all for coming that day, and he thanked the members of the Guild for their presence. He wished particularly to emphasise what the Lord Mayor had said with regard to the services of their hon. secretary and treasurer. They could look back on the past with pleasure in the sense of something attempted, something done, and he hoped they might also look forward to the future with a sense of fine determination to uphold the honour of their Guild and to translate their aims and objects into real and tangible results. Continuing, the Dean said to-day, alone of the nations of the world, England rejoiced in bells and in bell ringing such as was represented in their Guild. Bells were not unknown on the Continent, and in some instances were extraordinarily fine and sonorous, but change ringing was unknown except in England. Carillon ringing was a very different thing, and it was one of the many glories of their own dear Motherland that our bells and our ringing, particularly the art of change ringing, was our own.

AN HONOURED BODY.

It was in the early part of the 17th century that change ringing, as distinct from round ringing, was elaborated into the science that it had now become and had been for many long years. With the restoration of Charles II., in 1660, there came a perfect mania for new rings of bells and, above all, for the science of change ringing. Ringing became a fashionable pastime, and men in the highest fashionable circles took part in it. Many societies for its practice came into being at that time, some few of which still remain, such as the Ancient Society of College Youths. Then came, alas, a period of blackness and deadness, and for many years the art was neglected and almost forgotten, or at any rate held in low esteem. The all-prevailing view of intemperance at that time played havoc with ringers as with all other classes of the English people. But in the first part of the nineteenth century, somewhere, perhaps, about 1830, there came a reformer whose name ought for ever to be held in the highest esteem, the Rev. Henry Ellacombe, who presented the totally new doctrine that ringers were Church officers, and that their art should be consecrated to the service of the Church. Other good men supported him, and many ringers hailed with satisfaction this novel interest in their welfare. A steady improvement set in, and nothing in the history of ringing was more remarkable than the way in which during the last 60 years or so the large majority of bell ringers have raised themselves into a very highly respectable and much honoured body (applause). Diocesan Guilds were founded all over the country, and their membership now ran into many thousands. Without any kind of question enormous good had resulted from this new ideal of corporate life and service which had been held up before the members for the past 60 years. It was the duty of the Church to encourage them. Too often in the past they had been ignored and neglected, but a brighter day had dawned, and there in their own great diocese they might proudly claim and thankfully acknowledge that the old days of neglect were past and gone and a new interest created. New opportunities were offered to young men, and, he was thankful to say, to young women also, to consecrate their physical and intellectual powers to the glory of God and the welfare of the Church. For the past work of that Guild they were thankful, for the future they were full of hope, and he prayed for God's blessing upon their efforts, whether diocesan or parochial (applause).

THE BISHOP'S THANKS TO RINGERS.

Mr. C. E. Borrett proposed the toast of 'The Bishop and Clergy,' and referred to the very great help which the Guild had always received from the clergy, without whose support and assistance, he said, they might, as ringers, just as well put up the shutters and shut up the shop. In their Guild they had had the help of many clergy who had held office, among them the late Rev. Earle Bulwer.

The toast was acknowledged by the Bishop, who paid a warm tribute to the services which ringers rendered to the Church, and thanked the members of that Guild for the manner in which they so often welcomed him in the parishes in that diocese. He was usually able to thank personally the choir and the organist, but the ringers he seldom saw because their work was carried on out of sight. He therefore welcomed that opportunity of thanking them as a body.

Mr. A. L. Coleman proposed the health of the surviving foundation members of the Guild. These were ten in number, viz., the Rev. C. L. Kennaway (Spetisbury), Messrs. William Ireland (Diss), Denison Hayward (Yarmouth), Frederick Knights (Norwich), Robert Brundle (Ipswich), Arthur Knights (Chesterfield), Robert Whiting (Pulham Market), who was the only survivor of the band that rang the first peal for the association on November 6th, 1877, Joseph Last (Grundisburgh), Edgar Pemberton (Ipswich), and David Collins (Worlingworth). Four of these men were present at that gathering, and the Guild was intensely proud of their 50 years' service. These ten, between them, had rung 996 peals for the Guild, Mr. Brundle heading the list with 271, and Mr. Pemberton coming next with 259. Like old gold, these men became more valuable as the years rolled on, and such as they were the backbone of the Guilds throughout the country. They extended to these old members their most hearty congratulations and their good wishes for their happiness in the eventide of their lives (applause).

The toast was heartily drunk, and the four veterans were asked to bow their acknowledgments, as neither could be persuaded to make a speech, although Mr. Ireland overcame his shyness at the last moment and thanked everyone for the kind words spoken.

Mr. Burton proposed the toast of 'The Ringing World,' and referred in kindly terms to the services which this paper has rendered to the Exercise.—Mr. J. S. Goldsmith responded.

This concluded the speech making, and the annual business meeting was held.

All the officers were re-elected, with the exception that Mr. W. C. Duffield was added to the committee in place of Mr. D. O. Holme (resigned), and Mr. B. S. Thompson was appointed district secretary for the Norwich district, which office had become vacant through the removal of Mr. G. H. Cross, who was congratulated upon his appointment to the Civil Service in London.

Twenty-five new members were added to the roll, and the Secretary announced that the committee had decided to exchange the Guild's present holding of stocks into Savings Certificates.

A vote of thanks was passed, on the motion of the Dean, to the Archdeacon of Norwich for his address, to Canon Meyrick for permitting the use of St. Peter Mancroft Church for the service, and for the use of the bells, and to the Vicars of St. John's and All Saints' for the use of their bells also.

Subsequently there was a return to the belfries for further ringing, and many old friends spent a happy hour together in chatting over past days.

INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I suppose that some of your correspondents think that if I had any sense of decency I should consider myself knocked out by their onslaughts, but I do not feel as if I have even staggered up against the ropes. I have withstood the thunders of an Editorial—an honour, I assume, which has fallen to the lot of very few of your readers—I have survived a fair amount of abuse, and have not been put to silence by the attack of your 'Fighting Editor,' Bill Sykes. Can you tell me why he should be so unnecessarily offensive in his reference to Hampshire hogs? As a matter of fact, I am more North Country by one county than Bill Sykes himself, so his gibe has miscarried, but I am sure his brother ringers in Hampshire will appreciate his wit and thank him for the compliment. Abuse is no argument, and humour which can be understood by no one but the alleged humorist cannot be very effective. I have not the slightest intention of participating in a mud-slinging contest, so if my name offends Mr. Sykes I can only plead that it was my godfathers and godmothers who 'did for me.' I cannot see that my unfortunate name makes any difference to my ineptitude as a ringer or to my capacity as a critic, and my arguments cannot possibly be affected thereby.

As some of your correspondents are fighting bogeys of their own raising, will you allow me to put the plain issues before them? I contended that there was urgent need for improvement and standardisation in the instruction of beginners. I suggested that some authoritative body should issue such a course of instruction for the guidance both of instructors and beginners, that the Guilds should give courses of teaching to the instructors in their areas, and, lastly, that 'The Ringing World' should do something in the same direction. I have never attempted to pose as the first to preach this gospel, nor have I set myself up as an authority on ringing matters. I have no ambition to ring a peal—but I have a really useful member of my own band will quite satisfy me—but I have come across dozens of beginners who cannot make headway, and it was in the hope that some helping hand might be held out to them that I opened the subject in your columns.

Your correspondents are so loyal to 'The Ringing World' that they go much further than their Editor. Your own arguments are pretty sound and your position seems reasonable enough. I realise that you cannot be continually starting courses of elementary instruction, and it is certain that such articles, if inserted in 'The Ringing World,' would not reach the beginner. But I see no reason why you should not publish, week by week, instalments of what might easily become the standard course of instruction, which instructors could collect as they appeared and carefully preserve for their own guidance in the practical work in the belfry.

As I do not wish to occupy your space with matters which have no bearing on ringing, there is much in your correspondents' letters which must go unanswered, but if they care to write direct to me (I cannot do so to them in the absence of their addresses), I can assure them that they will receive a courteous answer. Bill Sykes can then sling me to his heart's content without robbing his fellow ringers of so much space in your columns, which could easily be devoted to better uses.—Yours faithfully,

School House, Brockenhurst, Hants.

JOHN P. ARMSTRONG.

THE CLERGY'S AID.

The annual report presented to the Hertford County Association by Mr. G. W. Cartmel, the hon. secretary, is always an interesting document, and contains much more than the dry bones of a past year's record. The report which he read to the members at St. Albans on Easter Monday contained food for thought, and was a contribution to the vexed question of maintaining the strength of bands of ringers. He suggests that probationers should be got from among the communicants of the Church. It would be well for the Exercise if this could always be done. Up to the present there are comparatively few churches where this is the sole recruiting ground, and probably the Exercise would not be as strong as it is to day had dependence been entirely placed upon this source for filling up the ranks. At the same time it unquestionably offers the ideal, even if, at present, it is not an entirely practical solution of existing difficulties.

There is a steady advance in the regard which not only the clergy, but churchfolk generally have for ringers, and the ranks of the Exercise are gradually being filled with a larger percentage of men and women who come into it from the desire to render a service to the Church as well as from an interest in bells. At the moment, however, it is probably the latter, rather than the former which is the greater inducement. In view of the changed conditions under which ringing is now carried on, the Exercise, we think, would benefit if the principle adopted were to make ringers out of Churchmen rather than Churchmen out of ringers. Not only would this remove any vestige that may remain of the old reproach that ringers do not attend church, but it would, or at least ought to, fill the belfries with a type of ringer who would regard his responsibilities from the highest standpoint, and bands would not suffer, as they do to-day, from the irregular attendance of the indifferent ones. The more ringers can be educated to realise that punctuality and regularity are the most essential of all qualifications, the better it will be for ringing in general. Mr. Cartmel's suggestion is the one best calculated to bring about the desired ends, but without a closer co-operation of the clergy this ideal is far off attainment.

There are many clergy keen and interested in their ringers, even if they are not ringers themselves, but there are a far greater number who display little or no concern in the belfry or the ringing of the bells. They are indifferent to how many bells are rung, or, indeed, whether they be 'rung' at all. They would be up in arms if the choir were late, or three parts of them were absent, and would probably make individual inquiry into the reason; but for the bells

—well, no matter. Here then, it seems to us, is largely the crux of the question. A greater number of the clergy must be brought to see the importance of the ringers' office, for it is to them we must look if bands of ringers are to be recruited from among the communicants. It is they who must show their churchfolk that the belfry, as well as the choir stalls, needs its full complement; that the bells as well as the organ have their part in connection with the services of the Church, and that the ringers' office is no less important or responsible than that of the choir. It is in the churches where the clergy are indifferent that slackness among ringers is most noticeable, and neither Churchmen nor outsiders can be expected to be brimming over with enthusiasm where no lead is given. If the clergy tackled the problem aright there would be little difficulty in recruiting communicants for the belfry, but until they do bands will have to be formed from any available source.

WEDDING BELLS.

At St. Mary's Church, Stafford, arrangements were made to attempt a peal of Bob Major on April 19th in honour of the wedding of the Rev. D. T. Sykes, Vicar of Dunston, but at the last moment one of the band was unavoidably held up. When the band was made up, time would only allow a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,376 changes), which was rung in 50 minutes: T. F. Hayle (first quarter of Major) 1, W. H. Jones 2, B. Garbutt 3, B. A. J. Yeates (first of Major with a bob bell) 4, R. J. Warrilow 5, J. Warrilow 6, A. H. Taylor 7, J. J. Taylor (conductor) 8.

STORY OF THE TRIUMPH AT HEPTONSTALL.

THE RECORD LENGTH OF TREBLE BOB MAJOR.

As briefly indicated in our last issue, and as now recorded in our peal column, the record length of Treble Bob Major was successfully brought round on the 'Taylor' octave of the Church of St. Thomas-a-Beckett, Heptonstall, on Easter Monday.

It was originally intended to attempt this peal at Whitworth, near Rochdale, but a visit there for a peal attempt some weeks previously convinced all concerned that it would be exceedingly risky to start for a long peal there, and Heptonstall was suggested as an alternative. Application was made, and brought a reply from Mr. L. Greenwood, the secretary of the local band, that the Vicar was rather staggered at the thought of eleven hours' ringing and the strain upon the bells. He (the Vicar) deemed it a matter for the Church Council. Their consent was, however, in due course obtained, influenced, probably, by the presence on the Council of some of the local band. Further correspondence took place on various matters, the chief anxiety being ropes. Messrs. Taylor and Co. were asked if they would lend a set of ropes. While they could not see their way clear to do this, they offered to repair the local ropes. Time was getting short, and Mr. Harry Chapman and the conductor (Mr. E. Jenkins) paid a visit to Heptonstall, which convinced them that the local ropes were useless for such a long job. However, Messrs. Sam Wood and Ben Thorp stepped into the breach. St. Michael's, Ashton-under-Lyne, were 'on the job,' and they could have the ropes from the tower, so that was settled.

The next step was the band. Sam Wood (the hero of many long peals) had notified some weeks previously that he could not stand in. A long and serious illness had left him quite unfit for such a task, while Mr. H. Chapman was also out of action owing to a bad knee, which had been 'out of course' for some weeks. However, eight good men and true were willing to say 'aye' to eleven hours, and all seemed well. Six days before the attempt, word came through Mr. J. E. Bibby was ill with that popular malady, 'flu.' Most peculiar, how it tackles long pealers. 'Shades of Leeds!' However, Joe was willing to stand in, and once more all was O.K.

Manchester was the meeting place on Easter Sunday evening for five of the band, and Pendleton the venue for service ringing. The 7.40 express from Victoria Station was required to make third's and up to Hebden Bridge, stopping at Rochdale to take on board the three of the 'Wanderers' Association, and the record of Oxford at Debenham in 1892 was recalled by the presence of Mr. P. Laffin, a native of that place, and Mr. G. Lindoff, an original member of the band that made an attempt for the 16,608 at Leiston. The past was resurrected, and tales of Suffolk and its many fine ringers brought the party to their destination, all too soon for the raconteurs. The visitors were met by Messrs. L. Greenwood and F. Robertshaw, not forgetting the dog. The two miles' walk up hill was successfully negotiated, though Arthur said he had come for a long peal, and that nothing had been said about a long climb. A brief chat with the local men and then to headquarters. Supper was prolonged by an interesting argument between he of Debenham and the figure wizard. 'When did a course-end become a course-head?' Perhaps they will settle it at their next meeting.

'Up with the lark' was the order, and right well was it obeyed, all doing justice to a real Yorkshire breakfast. At 7.30, the ringers were at the church waiting for a short service to finish, and then the tower bells were raised and ropes adjusted, including the careful fixing of the sleeve-valves of 7 and 8. At this juncture, the Vicar put in an appearance. A brief service was held, a hearty handshake and cordial wishes for a successful attempt were expressed. Further minor preparations were made, Arthur fishing out a pair of slippers for personal comfort. These are not the pair of 'Brum' fame; unfortunately, one was lost on that historic occasion—too many ones, perhaps. Peter also sported a pair of slippers, but they were terribly overlapped. At last, all were ready, and the bells were sent on their long journey at 8.21.

Perfect timing was noticeable right from the first lead, the tenors being rung (as W. H. B. once remarked) like a pair of handbells. The same perfect heat was observed all day. Only once were the band disturbed. The big 'un's rope stuck fast, but the next upward swing of the bell jerked it free. Arthur gave it a pull which would surely have broken Grandison's stay, but it put the bell in its correct place, and all breathed freely again.

And so to the end, when that ever-welcome cry extended by the conductor to 'That is all you'll get to-day.'

Some of the band were very shy of the crowd outside waiting to shake them by the hand. Perhaps it was the presence of famous lady ringers. Who knows? The umpire's verdict was exceedingly good: 'The finest peal I have ever listened to.' Cups of tea were provided most thoughtfully by Mrs. Robertshaw, and the ringers thought of her as a most wonderful woman to anticipate their wants so understandingly.

The band are under a great debt of gratitude of Messrs. L. Greenwood and F. Robertshaw and other members of the local band, who worked like Trojans, overhauling the bells and doing everything that was possible. Appreciation is also due to Mr. Harry Chapman, who helped tremendously with advice and acts, born of long experience of men and matters. Indeed it was most gratifying to find in this so-called modern time men who, at the critical moment, can rise to the occasion just as did their fathers and forefathers before them.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.ANNUAL MEETING AT DERRY.

In a few sentences the annual meeting of the above can be described: 'A glorious day, beautiful weather, splendid ringing arrangements, a divine service with an inspiring sermon, a successful meeting, and a delightful concert to wind up.'

Commencing early in the day, the bells of St. Andrew's (ten), St. Peter's (eight), St. Luke's (eight), and St. Alkmund's (eight) were kept going to all sorts of methods to suit the beginners and the accomplished ringers, and visitors arrived from all parts of the association's activities, including Burton, Chesterfield, Hinckley, Loughborough, Leicester, Nottingham and the local branch, and friends from Birmingham, Coventry, Sheffield and other places. A committee meeting was held at 3 p.m. in All Saints' Schools, presided over by the president, at which 25 committee men attended.

Service at 4 p.m. took place in All Saints' Church, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Canon Ham), and the Rev. H. Boorman (Vicar of St. Luke's) gave a most inspiring address. A collection for the bell repair fund amounted to £2 9s. 6d. An excellent meat tea was served in All Saints' Schools, to which about 120 sat down.

The general meeting immediately followed, presided over by the president (Alderman R. B. Chambers, B.A., J.P.), supported by Mrs. Chambers, the Rev. Canon Ham, the Rev. H. Boorman, Rev. H. E. Worthington, Mr. J. Griffin, the hon. secretary (Mr. E. Morris), and hon. treasurer (Mr. W. Willson).

The president referred to the activities of the association during 1926, especially to the work done by grants from the bell repair fund. The peals rung included several historic ones, and he especially noted the one conducted by the hon. secretary at the private church of Earl Ferrers at Staunton Harold, since which the earl had become a patron of the association. The president also referred to the work of the hon. secretary and seven district secretaries, and stated that the general committee had recommended honorariums to each of £10 and £2 respectively, now that the funds were in such a sound condition. This was ratified by the meeting.

New members elected since the last quarterly meeting, viz., 8 ordinary, 1 life, and 3 honorary, were duly confirmed.

The report and balance sheet was passed on the proposition of Mr. Chambers, seconded by Mr. C. H. Webb.—Mr. W. E. White, of Cotgrave, spoke as to certain phrases in the report, and after a lengthy discussion, in which the president, Mr. Coppock and Mr. Willson spoke, an amicable agreement was eventually reached.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Alderman R. B. Chambers, J.P.; hon. secretary, Mr. Ernest Morris; hon. treasurer, Mr. William Willson.

Four delegates for the Central Council were needed for the ensuing three years, and five were nominated. Mr. Coppock withdrew his candidature, and the following were then duly elected: Alderman Chambers, Mr. Pryce Taylor, Mr. William Willson, and Mr. F. W. Bailey.

The towers suggested for next meetings by the committee were ratified, viz., June, Earl Shilton; September, North Wingfield; January, 1928, Market Harborough; and next annual meeting, Nottingham.

The President read a letter from Miss Heywood (sister of the late Sir A. P. Heywood), in which she appealed for a memorial bell to be given to a new church at Pendleton, Manchester. It was suggested that a personal appeal be drafted and issued to all towers, and not to draw on the bell repair fund.

Votes of thanks to the local clergy for the use of bells, the local committee for arrangements, and the ladies for catering, were duly passed. After more tower-bell ringing, a smoking concert was held in the King's Cafe, and, in the unavoidable absence of the president, Mr. J. F. Smallwood took the chair, piloting an excellent programme of handbell selections and other items along to the keen approval of all present. The Littleover handbell band (under Mr. E. E. Bradley, an hon. member) gave splendid selections, and during the evening courses of Grandsire Caters and Stedman Triples were brought round. Vocal solos and duets were contributed by Miss F. Poyser, Mrs. J. Mellor, Mr. B. Staines and Mr. J. Dunning. Several of the songs were appropriate in that they referred to ringers or bells. Thus ended a most enjoyable and successful day, due entirely to the untiring efforts of the president, who spent much time and energy in making arrangements with the local committee and other individuals, to ensure a real good day's round of activities.

A number of 1925 reports may still be obtained from the general honorary secretary, and the new 1926 reports are now ready.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

The 20th annual meeting was held in Birmingham on April 23rd, at Bishop Ryder's. About 25 members attended, and, after ringing at Bishop Ryder's Church, tea was partaken of in the schoolroom, the arrangements having been kindly made by Mrs. James George.

At the meeting that followed, Mr. H. Argyle, in the absence of the president, took the chair. The officers of the Guild were all re-elected, with Mr. J. W. Pemberton in place of Mr. B. Wittchell, deceased.

Mr. H. Argyle and Mr. F. W. Perrens were elected to represent the Guild on the Central Council.

A vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. George for the trouble he had gone to in arranging the meeting, and to Canon Badger for the use of the bells.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

After their record peal of Treble Bob at Heptonstall, on Easter Monday, all the band are fit and well, and already one hears rumours of another 'long 'un.' Shades of Loughborough and Appleton!

Members of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, will extend their sincere sympathy to Mr. A. Paddon Smith, the general secretary, whose homecoming from India has been sadly clouded by the death of his father, Mr. Sidney Smith, who passed away on April 19th. Mr. Smith, sen., who had himself been a ringer, was a familiar figure at the Johnson Commemoration Dinner every year.

In the Gloucester and Bristol dioceses there are over 200 peals of bells. Those known are 4 peals of 12, 9 peals of 10, 47 peals of 8, 112 peals of 6, and 27 peals of 5.

Truro Cathedral's fine bells were heard by wireless listeners on Sunday evening, when they were heard before a special broadcast service in connection with the jubilee of the re-created See.

The first peal of which there is any authentic record was rung at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, on May 2nd, 1715—a peal of Bob Triples.

One hundred and ten years ago next Thursday, a peal of 12,312 Grandsire Caters was rung at Painswick in 7 hrs. 44 mins. Snowdon's Grandsire recalls the interesting fact that of the men who rang in this peal all but one reached an advanced age. From treble to tenor, they lived to be 89, 95, 87, 78, 80, 84, 80, 71, 70 and 85 respectively.

The first peal in the county of Dorset was rung just forty years ago. This was Grandsire Triples at Bridport, on May 5th, 1887.

Copies of the group photograph, taken at Norwich on the occasion of the Norfolk Guild's Jubilee meeting, can be obtained from Mr. G. Swain, 27, St. Giles Street, Norwich. The price is 3s. 6d. mounted and 2s. 6d. unmounted.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies is, we are pleased to say, progressing well, and hopes to be out of the London Nursing Home, where he underwent an operation, in about a fortnight.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Members are reminded that, by arrangements made between the hon. secretary and the Railway Clearing House, railway tickets, at a single fare and a third for the return journey, will be available for representatives and their friends travelling to London in connection with the Whitsuntide meeting. Application for vouchers must be made early to the hon. secretary. Unless at least 200 in all avail themselves of this privilege, the facilities will not be extended to members in future years, and it is hoped that every effort will be made to bring the number up to this total.

LLANDAFF & MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A quarterly meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at Usk on Saturday, April 23rd. The attendance was very much larger than was expected, and, as the Vicar humorously put it, caused a hitch in the kitchen. The towers of both dioceses were well represented. The bells, a delightful new peal by Taylor and Co., were raised early in the afternoon and rung until 4.30, when service was held in the church, the Vicar (Rev. Edward Morgan) officiating. His address, one well out of the common, was much appreciated.

Tea followed in the schoolroom, and seating accommodation was found with difficulty. However, all went well, and a bountiful meal was enjoyed.

Then followed the business meeting, the Vicar presiding. Restorations were reported upon by the hon. secretary (Mr. J. W. Jones), who stated that a new treble bell had been placed by Messrs. Taylor and Co. to the existing ring of five at Penhow, which now had a very musical and good-going ring of six.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Penhow, which follows the Glamorgan meeting at Aberdare.

A large number of new members were elected, including the whole of the Usk ringers to the number of fourteen.

The usual vote of thanks to the Vicar for his kindness and hospitality brought the meeting to a close. A visit was then made to the Priory grounds and gardens, which had been kindly sanctioned by Mr. Rickards, and was much enjoyed. Ringing was afterwards indulged in until late in the evening, and the meeting proved a huge success.

fortunate enough to be present. Words fail to express the jollity of the whole affair. Mr. Clifford Ball distinguished himself even more on the 'Golden Cross' piano than on Coventry's chime of fourteen, and Mr. Wilfred Kimberley never tired of singing beautiful songs in tones as sweet as those of the bells. Mr. Cyril F. Johnston and Mr. Harry Withers, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Ball, contributed some good, lively tunes on Mr. Johnston's 'drawing-room' carillon, and Mr. Elliot and Mr. T. Miller added to the evening's entertainment with songs. The thanks of those who were present are heartily extended to all who contributed to such an enjoyable evening, and to Mr. York, who so kindly placed the room at their disposal and attended to the cravings of the 'inner self.' 'The jolliest and most enjoyable ringers' social I have ever attended,' was the remark of more than one 'old hand,' and the thanks of all are due to Mr. F. W. Perrens, of Coventry, for the arrangements made for the visitors' pleasure.

DEDICATION OF COVENTRY CATHEDRAL BELLS.

RINGERS DELIGHTED WITH TONE OF THE NEW CHIME.

On Easter Eve, April 16th, the bells of Coventry Cathedral were dedicated by the Archdeacon of Warwick, the Ven. H. C. A. Back (late president of the Warwickshire Guild).

Bells were first hung at the Cathedral in 1429. In 1488, the Great Bell—called the Jesus bell—was hung. It is believed that there were six bells at that time. In 1607, the third and fourth bells were found to be cracked, and were recast. Sixty-seven years later, the six bells were recast into eight by Bagley, of Chacombe, Northants. In 1774, Pack and Chapman recast the eight bells into a peal of ten. Twenty-five years afterwards number six was recast by Mears, of London, and in 1805 the tenor was cracked, and recast by Bryan, of Hertford. The ten bells have now been recast by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, and four new ones added; but the weights of the ten recast bells are ringing weights, so that, in the event of Coventry's Cathedral ever having a tower which would stand a ringing peal, she has her ring of ten, while in the meantime many tunes can be played in two-part harmony on the chime of fourteen. The tenor bell weighs 34 cwt. (note D flat), and the total weight of the bells is approximately 8 tons.

The inscriptions on the bells are as follows:

No. 1.—'Ring out the old, ring in the new.'

No. 2.—'Ring out the false, ring in the true.'

No. 3.—'Although I am both light and small, I will be heard above you all. Pack and Chapman of London Fecit 1774.'

No. 4.—'If you have a judicious ear, you'll own my voice is sweet and clear. Pack and Chapman of London Fecit 1774.'

No. 5.—'Such wondrous power to Music's given, it elevates the Soul to Heaven. Pack and Chapman of London Fecit 1774.'

No. 6.—'Whilst thus we join in cheerful sound, may love and loyalty abound. Pack and Chapman of London Fecit 1774.'

No. 7.—'Ring in the valiant man and free.'

No. 8.—'To honour both of God and King our voices shall in consort ring. Pack and Chapman of London Fecit 1774.'

No. 9.—'Musick is medicine to the mind. Thomas Mears of London Fecit 1799.'

No. 10.—'Ring in the Christ that is to be.'

No. 11.—'Ye ringers all that prize your health and happiness. Be sober merry wise and you'll the same possess. Pack and Chapman of London Fecit 1774.'

No. 12.—'Ye people all who hear me ring, Be faithful to your God and King. Pack and Chapman of London Fecit 1774.'

No. 13.—'In wedlock bands all ye who join with hands your hearts unite. So shall our tuneful tongues combine to laud the nuptial rite. Pack and Chapman of London Fecit 1774.'

No. 14.—'I am and have been call'd the common bell, To ring when fire breaks out to tell. Stephen Corbet Act. C. Warden 1805. John Briant Hertford Fecit An. Dom. MDCCCV. Gloria Deo in Excelsis.'

(On each bell.—'Recast, or cast, by Gillett and Johnston, Croydon, 1927.')

AN ELECTRIC 'CARILLONNEUR.'

The installation also includes the bellfounders' latest type of electro-pneumatic operating mechanism, combined with their standard paper band type of automatic tune-player. A simple starting switch has been added to the existing tower clock, and this can be set to put the machinery in motion at any hour of the day. A self-contained power plant, operated by a small electric motor, produces compressed air, and low voltage electric current, the compressed air for operating the pistons which pull the wires to the clappers, and the electric current for operating the air valves as dictated by the perforations in the endless paper band. Entirely automatic in its action, the machine starts, plays through a certain number of tunes, and stops itself; it plays its music crisply and accurately, and it is capable of performing much more rapid passages than was possible on the old type of hammer lifting and releasing machines. As the paper bands can be changed easily, a large repertoire of tunes is possible. In this case, to begin with, different tunes will be played daily for a fortnight, as follows: Sunday, (1) Easter Hymn, (2) Austria ('Praise the Lord, ye heavens adore Him'); Monday, (1) 'Home, sweet home,' (2) 'Men of Harlech'; Tuesday, (1) 'The Minstrel Boy,' (2) 'O rest in the Lord'; Wednesday, (1) 'The Heavens are telling,' (2) 'Oft in the still night'; Thursday, (1) 'Ye Banks and Braes,' (2) 'With Verdure Clad'; Friday, (1) The Passion Chorus ('Oh, Sacred Head, surrounded'), (2) 'Lead, kindly Light' (Lux benigna); Saturday, (1) 'The Last Rose of Summer,' (2) 'Abide with me.'

The existing clock used to chime the 'Ting Tang' quarters on the old bells. These have now been discarded, and the firm's standard electric clock now chimes the full Westminster quarters on four of the new bells. The mechanism for this is also motor operated, and the old-fashioned weights dispensed with. A sturdy worm-gear motor-driven unit, released by the old tower clock, raises and releases the outside hammer with power and precision, and when the blows are struck, stops itself until released for the next quarter-hour.

Although the Coventry Cathedral bells are only hung 'dead,' a large number of change ringers took the first opportunity of hearing their beautiful notes issue from one of the most magnificent steeples in the world. Among those present were Messrs. C. F. Johnston

The dedication ceremony was performed in the presence of a very large congregation, and the Archdeacon gave a most interesting address, in the course of which he pointed out that, owing to the Cathedral tower and spire not being designed to carry the weight of these heavy bells swinging in full peal, they would not be able to ring out in their fullest tone, in the grand, ever-varying succession of order known as change ringing. Was it, he asked, within the bounds of possibility that, after one generous donor had recast the bells, others combining together might come forward and build a tower, so that the bells might once more ring out in full peal in that old English style?

A CAMPANILE WANTED.

After the service, people congregated in little groups around the Cathedral to hear a selection of tunes ably rendered by Mr. Clifford Ball and Mr. Harry Withers, the latter also giving a few much-appreciated selections of change ringing. Everyone, ringers included, gave unstinted praise to Messrs. Gillett and Johnston for the beautiful peal produced, and the more the ringers heard of them, the more they thought of what was often said about the old ten: 'How I should like to hear them peal.' The efforts of Mr. Cyril F. Johnston in his endeavours to get the bells hung for ringing have been much appreciated, but what a great pity it is that so large a percentage of the beauty of such a sweet-toned peal of bells should be lost, possibly for ever. Or will the Cathedral authorities strike while the iron is hot and make a start towards collecting funds for the erection of a campanile?

The ringers present were kindly entertained to tea in St. Mary's Hall, one of the oldest and most notable of Coventry's historic buildings. Colonel W. F. Wyley extended a hearty welcome to the ringers in the name of the churchwardens of the Cathedral, and Mr. J. F. Smallwood expressed thanks on behalf of the ringers. Mr. Hesian and his two assistants delighted the company with some tunes on the hand-bells, and a course of Stedman Cinques in hand was rung by F. E. Pervin, F. W. Perrins, P. O. Lafin, F. J. Smallwood, A. Walker and T. Miller.

In the evening, a party of about seventy ringers and their wives met in an upper room booked for the purpose at the 'Golden Cross,' and the social hours spent there will certainly be long remembered by those

SECRETARY'S SUGGESTION FOR PROBATIONERS.

'It would be well if all probationers admitted to our towers were selected only from active communicants of the Church—men and women who realised that in this was their offering.'

Mr. G. W. Cartmel, the hon. secretary of the Hertford County Association, made this suggestion at the annual meeting of the association, which was held at the Abbey Institute, St. Albans, on Easter Monday, when there was a very good attendance of ringers. The meeting was preceded by a service at St. Albans Abbey, and a tea at the Institute.

Enlarging upon his suggestion, Mr. Cartmel said: 'Where this is not carried out, the stability of the band is endangered. Its cohesion is only a matter of enthusiasm, which sometimes acts strangely. As you know, we live in days of rampant criticism, which is sometimes very cynical, and it is often those to whom religion has no charm who point the finger of scorn to ringers who habitually absent themselves from worship, after calling others by a beautiful touch. But the conductor's example is better than precept, if upon the lines of my suggestion.'

The Dean of St. Albans (the Very Rev. E. L. Henderson), who was unable, owing to a service, to remain throughout the meeting, said he was delighted to see the ringers again, as, for one thing, it was always said that when they came to St. Albans they brought fine weather with them (laughter). The ringers were doing very real work in the diocese, and he hoped they would continue. 'May your work be blessed, and may you be able to go on with it for a long time,' he added.

After Mr. Ben Jarman, the president of the association, who occupied the chair, had heartily welcomed all the ringers, the following new ringing members were elected: Mr. H. E. Austen (Bengeo), Mr. Edward Quick (St. Stephen's, St. Albans), Mr. F. Hawkins and Mr. F. W. Allaway (Stannore), Mr. Herbert Hocklesby (Redbourn), Mr. Colin Neale (St. Michael's, St. Albans), and Mr. G. Stanford and Mr. G. Lindsell (St. Albans Abbey).

Submitting his annual report, the Hon. Secretary (Mr. E. P. Debenham), who was received with applause, remarked that it appeared that St. Albans had taken the leading part during the year. Some of the other divisions might do a little more in the way of membership. At Easter last year, there was a credit balance of £13 3s. 2d., and this Easter the balance in hand was £13 15s. 7d. The total receipts for the twelve months, including the balance from last year, were £51 4s. 6d. The year's expenditure was £37 8s. 11d., of which £16 18s. 6d. was for printing and stationery. The reserve fund amounted to £19 18s., and the association also held £15 15s. 9d. in War Stock.—On the motion of Mr. Cartmel, seconded by Mr. H. E. C. Goodenough, the balance sheet was unanimously adopted, and Mr. Debenham warmly thanked for his services.

REPUTATION WELL SUSTAINED.

On rising to give his report, which is always a welcome feature of the proceedings, Mr. Cartmel was loudly applauded, and he proceeded to give a detailed account of the year's working. He mentioned that it was the forty-second year of the association and the twenty-fourth time he had given the report (cheers). Proceeding, Mr. Cartmel said:

'Our methods of procedure have not materially differed from preceding years. We have found that the work is best forwarded by means of the district meeting, supplemented, when possible, by a service and address, the latter reminding us that our work is not mere selfish pleasure, but is a real part of our service of praise and thanksgiving. May this ever be the ideal in view for every one of us.'

'The methods rung have been varied, and the reputation of the association was well sustained. Two peals, one of Original Triples and the other of New Gloucester Surprise Major, have been rung for the first time by any association, which is certainly a record. The peal of Original Triples is due to the enterprise of Mr. Maurice Hibbert, who each year endeavours to record something worthy of comment (applause). For the second peal we offer our congratulations to the Edmonton hand, and to the initiative of Mr. James Parker, who is still going strong, keeping pace with Anno Domini. Another feature has been the ringing of a peal of Superlative upon handbells by the Oxhey band (applause). A footnote to the peal in "The Ringing World" says "This is thought to be a unique performance, owing to the fact that it is the first peal of any kind by the ringer of 1-2. It is the first peal on handbells by the ringer of 3-4, and it is 17 years since the ringers of 5-6 and 7-8 rang a peal in the method on handbells." This peal has also added prestige to our association. During the year 27 peals have been rung on tower bells and one on handbells. The peal at Great Gaddesden was the first peal of Stedman Doubles by the whole band, and enabled Mr. C. W. Roberts to complete his ringing of peals from Stedman Doubles to Stedman Cinques. We congratulate also the Redbourn band, who joined our ranks last Easter, in four of their members ringing their first peal upon their own bells, probably the first local men to do so. We compliment also the Wiford band upon their successful peal.'

'We have to record the passing away of two of our oldest members, the Rev. Canon Papillon and Mr. Thomas Conley. To the older generation, Canon Papillon was well known, first as secretary of the Essex Association, and upon taking up residence in St. Albans he identified himself with us by becoming president of our association in 1914. Canon Martin Reed, who identified himself with us for many years, has also been called to higher service. Mr. Thomas Conley, of St. Albans, was a well-known figure at our Easter festival. His connection with the St. Peter's Society for the long period of 75 years was certainly exceptional. Royston also mourn the loss of Mr. W. Day, who met his death through an accident.'

GIFTS TO THE ASSOCIATION'S LIBRARY.

'Mr. J. O. Mitchell, whom many of you remember as a gifted ringer of St. Albans some years ago, has very generously presented the association with his library of ringing books and papers, which comprise 11 bound volumes of "Bell News," reprint of "Tintinnologia," 1895, reprint edition "Records of Early Handbell Peals, 1811-1876," the same in tabular form, three volumes of Snowdon's works, "Duffield," by Heywood, "Change Ringing," by Troyte, together with various society rules and ringing papers. We are deeply sensible of the kindness of our member, and desire to express to him our warmest thanks and appreciation of his kind gift. Mr. J. T. Hull continues to act as librarian, and for his services we thank him. Twenty-three books have been borrowed during the year, and all have been returned in good order.'

'I am sure you will like me to express in your name our deep debt of gratitude to our district secretaries for all they have done. The biggest shares in the success of our association is due to them, and I am sure that in the coming year you will heartily respond in attending, when possible, the meetings and services they arrange.'

'The peal book is entered up to Easter, 1926, and the number of peals to the credit of the association at that date is 1,063. The peals are written beautifully in the book, and we offer our compliments to Mr. W. H. Phillips.'

'We acknowledge with gratitude the kind support we continue to receive from our honorary members (both clerical and lay), and the ready assistance given by the various incumbents of the county, who by their sympathetic welcome help to make the various meetings so congenial. We thank also our chartered accountant, Mr. W. Mercer, for his part in kindly auditing the accounts.'

'What has been the result of the year's work? First, it has been one of progression in the art of ringing. In my early days there was only one tower where Surprise methods were rung. To-day, we have bands in every division, with capable conductors, and the majority of peals rung are in the higher methods. We have also plenty of beginners coming into stride, to wit, Redbourn, Watford, Apsley End, Baldock, Bushey Heath, Benington, and other places. There is a growing enthusiasm for change ringing throughout the land, and bell founders have their hands full of work. The immense gathering of ringers at Croydon the other day at the invitation of Mr. Cyril Johnston reveals the fact that this enthusiasm is contagious. It means work for the association—the training of beginners.'

'May you all go back to your respective towers refreshed and encouraged by the fellowship we have enjoyed, determined that you will give of your very best to your calling, and by your devoted and unselfish life not only encourage the art of ringing in your bellfries, but the standard of Christian life in your band. Finally, I would express my thanks to all those who have helped me in any way to carry out my duties as your secretary' (applause).

The Rev. George Edmonds, of St. Albans, moving that the report should be adopted, said they had an excellent secretary in Mr. Cartmel, and he had presented a very fine report.

The report was unanimously adopted.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

For the presidency, Mr. Jarman proposed Mr. Frank Smith, of Bushey. Mr. Maurice Hibbert seconded, and Mr. Cartmel supported the nomination, which was carried with acclamation.—Mr. Smith then took the chair and expressed his thanks for his election. He remarked that he would endeavour to visit all the towers in the course of his year of office.

Mr. Debenham was reappointed treasurer, on the proposition of Mr. W. H. L. Buckingham, seconded by the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake.—Replying, Mr. Debenham asked district secretaries to let him have their returns as early as possible.

Proposing the re-election of Mr. Cartmel as secretary, the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake said: 'We ask him to continue to be the best secretary of the best ringers' association in the country.'—Mr. Debenham seconded, and Mr. Cartmel was re-elected amid applause. In the course of his reply, he said he enjoyed the work, as he thought it was a piece of service to his church and his fellow men.

The Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake and Mr. W. Ayre were elected representatives on the Central Council. Mr. J. T. Hull was reappointed librarian, Mr. W. Mercer was reappointed auditor, and district secretaries were appointed thus: Northern Mr. G. T. Croft, Eastern Mr. W. H. Lawrence, St. Albans Mr. W. Nash, Watford Mr. C. H. Horton, Western Mr. W. Ayre.

It was agreed that Redbourn should be taken out of the St. Albans District and transferred to the Western Division, the reason being the travelling facilities available.

The Dean of St. Albans and the Vicars of St. Peter's, St. Stephen's and St. Michael's were thanked for allowing the bells of their churches to be used by the ringers.—Thanks were also accorded to the Rev. Henry Edwards, Vicar of Watford, who gave an address at the Abbey in the afternoon, and the ladies who helped to serve the teas.

'The message of the bells' was the subject upon which the Rev. Henry Edwards based his inspiring address.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

RECORD NUMBER OF MEMBERS ENROLLED.

The annual meeting of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at Poplar on Saturday, when members gathered from a large number of towers in the area. The attendance was rather below the average, about 65 ringers being present. The fine peal of ten at the Parish Church of All Saints have recently been completely restored by Messrs. Taylor and Co., and during the afternoon touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters and a course of Cambridge Surprise Royal were rung on them. An enjoyable service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. C. Mayne), who gave an address, in the course of which he welcomed the association. It was a particularly happy coincidence, he said, that they should be there to ring the bells on that day, which was St. George's Day, and the anniversary of the birth and death of William Shakespeare. Having referred to the need of unity in our national and industrial life, he concluded by referring to the fact that the bells at that church were now restored, and expressing gratitude to the Middlesex Association for the help they were giving to set the local band on its feet again.

The business meeting was held after tea. The chair was taken by the president (Mr. F. A. Milne, J.P.), who was supported by the joint hon. secretaries (Mr. C. T. Coles and Mr. W. H. Hollier).

THE REPORT.

In the report for the year 1926, it was stated: The most satisfactory result of the work of the association during the past year is the enrolment of an almost record number of new members, no less than 113 having joined our ranks during that period. Of these, a considerable number represent additions to the bands at several of our towers, a result which we are glad to think is in some measure due to the appeal in our last report. Three new towers have been affiliated to the association during the year, viz.: St. Mark's, Dalston, and St. John-the-Baptist's, Pinner, in the North and East district; and St. Martin's, Ruislip, in the South and West district. Instruction is being given at each of these towers; and we hope that the enthusiasm at present manifested will be maintained, and that the bands at these towers will become a credit to the association. New bands have also been formed at Christ Church, Ealing, and Harrow Weald, at the latter tower under the able guidance of Mr. G. R. Goodship, and good progress is being made. At St. John's, Hillingdon, Twickenham, and Hadley, there have also been good increases in the bands. To counter-balance these gains, we have to regret the loss of the St. James', Clorkenwell, band, which, owing to the very bad condition of the bells, has broken up. We have also to regret that the Feltham band has dropped away, owing to lack of enthusiasm, but in this case we hope that something may be done to re-form a once promising local society. There are a few other towers where the ringers may, with advantage to themselves and the association, make an endeavour to augment their ranks, and we would again urge upon our members the need of being continually on the lookout for young people in whom to instil an interest in our art. New members elected in the North and East district numbered 71, including two honorary members; whilst 42 were elected in the South and West district. After allowing for losses by deaths, resignations, etc., we finish the year with the highest total in the history of the association, viz., 826.

The report referred to the loss by death of Mr. Charles Parker and Mr. George Stevens (Northaw), Mr. I. G. Shade (who rang in 661 peals for the association), and Mr. W. Lawrence (Ealing), and went on to say: So far as the peals rung during the year are concerned, the total shows a slight decrease as compared with 1925. In all, 57 peals were accomplished, and, with the exception of one on handbells, these were rung in 30 different towers. The members taking part in the peals numbered 160, while 20 shared in the conducting. Three members rang their first peals, and 60 their first peals in a new method. The Southgate Society are to be congratulated on ringing the first peal of Cambridge Royal for the association by an entirely local band on April 17th, whilst a peal in three Cater methods was rung for the first time at St. Mary's, Walthamstow, on December 11th, conducted by one of the joint honorary secretaries. Two other peals are worthy of special notice. Eight policemen rang a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, on October 16th, this being the first peal in the method by members of the police force; whilst a peal of Bob Major, which was rung at Acton on December 9th, was accomplished by a band composed entirely of officers of the South and West district. This is the first time an 'officers' peal' has been rung by the association, and it is interesting to note that the whole of the officers of that district took part in the peal.

After referring to the various bell restorations carried out during the year, the report adds that it is sincerely hoped that the Isleworth bells will be augmented to ten during 1927. The fund which is being raised for this purpose now amounts to £116, but a considerable further sum is needed before the work can be started. The report concludes: The increasing number of our members who have so ably assisted us during the year by acting as voluntary instructors deserve our grateful thanks, as also do our honorary secretaries. We can best show our appreciation of the work done by the latter by a more frequent attendance at meetings. A well-attended meeting is a joy to the man who has taken pains to arrange it; a poorly-attended meeting is, on the other hand, a great disappointment to him. Let us all resolve to bear this in mind. The President moved the adoption of the report, and called attention to the fact that they had enrolled no fewer than 113 new members during the past year (applause). The total number was now 826, which was, he believed, a larger number than they had ever mustered in any former year. There was, however, still urgent need to secure new members in order to maintain the art. They all lamented the loss of their old friend, Mr. Isaac Shade, who was a member of their association for 28 years. They had to congratulate some of their lady members upon their performances, including Miss Hawksworth on her first peal of Double Norwich, Miss Phyllis Moss on her first of Stedman Caters, Miss Chapman on her first of Cambridge Royal, and Mrs. Hairs upon ringing a peal of Middlesex Surprise Royal. They particularly congratulated the Southgate band on ringing a peal of Cambridge Royal with their own band, and also the Master of their association, Mr. Pye, on having passed his 1,500th peal.—The report was seconded by Mr. Hollier and adopted.

A REDUCED INCOME.

Mr. C. T. Coles moved the adoption of the balance sheet, which showed that the Central Fund, which started with a balance in hand of £27 3s. 9d., received £22 12s. 8d. The expenditure had been £24 3s. 3d., leaving £25 13s. 2d. in hand. Mr. Coles pointed out that there had thus been a small loss on the year of £1 10s. 7d., but they had to bear in mind that the payments from the districts were now only 60 per cent. instead of 70 per cent., and that they had contributed £2 2s. to the Ladies' Guild towards the board recording their peal of Stedman Caters at St. Clement Danes'. When recommending last year that the proportion to the Central Fund should be reduced from 70 to 60 per cent., the committee estimated that they would just cover their expenses, and, without the special donation they had made, this would have been the case.—The balance sheet was adopted.

The whole of the Poplar band, with the Rector as an hon. member, were elected and the tower formally affiliated to the association. Mr. Coles pointed out that at one time Cubitt Town, St. George's-in-the-East and Poplar formed a little district of the association in East London, and he hoped that now Poplar, with its restored bells, had again become affiliated, they would remain for many years and become an important and successful part of the association. He appealed to any members who could do so to assist the Poplar band on their practice night.—Mr. B. H. Swinson, St. Albans, was elected a life member.

Mr. Milne was re-elected as president, and nominated Mr. C. S. Bird (South and West District) and Mr. W. Pickworth (North and East District) as vice-presidents.

Mr. William Pye was re-elected Master, Mr. Milne hon. treasurer, and Messrs. C. T. Coles and W. H. Hollier joint hon. secretaries, with grateful thanks for their past services.

The auditors, Messrs. J. E. Miller and W. Pickworth, were also re-elected and thanked, and the following were re-elected representatives of the association on the Central Council: Messrs. F. A. Milne, C. T. Coles, W. H. Hollier and R. Holloway.

It was resolved to allow the peal books to remain in the custody of the Acton tower for the ensuing year, the volumes of 'Bell News,' which formerly belonged to the late Mr. King and were left to the association by the will of the late Mr. Bertram Prewett, being placed also in this tower, with the peal books.

St. Mary's, Ealing, was selected for the next annual meeting.

Mr. C. T. Coles said he had received a letter from his brother, Mr. A. W. Coles, who was now in the London Hospital, where he had undergone a serious operation, asking to be remembered to his friends, and wishing them a successful meeting. He (Mr. C. T. Coles) was pleased to say the operation had been most successful, and his brother hoped to leave the hospital within a week.—The President asked the secretary, on behalf of the meeting, to convey their thanks to Mr. A. W. Coles for his good wishes, and to tell him how pleased they were to hear that he was so much better (applause).

MAJOR METHOD COLLECTION.

Mr. J. A. Trollope called attention to the recent publication by the Central Council of the Collection of Plain Major Methods. They were, he said, a method-ringing association, and their members would find this collection an interesting one. A great amount of work had been put into it, and even if they did not ring all the methods, the book was well worth their study. It was a good book for those who did not want to continue in a rut.—Mr. C. T. Coles supported Mr. Trollope's appeal, and pointed out that judging from experience many of the methods were interesting but not difficult to ring. Some of the methods had been rung to peals at Willesden, three of them at the first attempt and without previous practice. Many of the methods could be rung without Surprise knowledge, and those who had got to the Treble Bob or Double Norwich stage would find them a useful step towards something higher.

Mr. W. H. Hewett suggested that the association should arrange a twelve-bell practice occasionally, and after discussion it was decided to approach the Royal Cumberland Youths with a view to obtaining a practice at Shoreditch.

Mr. E. Barnett, sen., who was among those present, was congratulated on his recovery after a serious operation and pleasure expressed at seeing him again among the members. Pleasure was also expressed that Mr. T. Beadle, of Isleworth, who is in his 77th year, was now able, after his long illness, to do a little ringing again.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION. MEMBERS' SUGGESTIONS FOR RESTORATION OF CATHEDRAL BELLS.

In glorious weather the Worcestershire and Districts Association held their annual meeting at Worcester on Easter Monday. At an early hour in the morning bell music was floating over the city from most of the churches, and some good ringing was done in various methods from Doubles up to Bristol Surprise, whilst Cambridge Royal was successfully managed at St. Helen's. As usual, the ringing at the Cathedral was not of a very high order, as it is practically impossible to strike these bells well.

The business meeting took place in the afternoon in the Chapter House, the Dean, the Very Rev. W. Moore Ede, presiding, supported by the Master (Mr. J. D. Johnson), Archdeacon Peile, Rev. J. F. Hastings, and Mr. J. R. Newman, hon. secretary. A notable absentee was Mr. A. E. Parsons, who is slowly recovering from a serious illness. The president and members joined in good wishes for his speedy and complete recovery.

Most of the matters dealt with were of the usual routine character. The report and balance sheet were adopted.

The annual peal was left in the hands of the Ringing Master to arrange, and Worcester was again chosen for the next annual meeting.

The Central Council representatives elected were Messrs. T. J. Salter, R. G. Knowles and C. A. Binyon, whilst Messrs. Knowles, Matthews and Thomas were added to the lay vice-presidents, Archdeacon Peile filling a vacancy in the clerical vice-presidents. All the other officers were again re-elected.

A matter of great interest to the members was mentioned by the Dean, who stated that the Cathedral bells had been inspected with a view to having them put into good going order. A discussion then followed, and various suggestions were put forward as to what was best to be done to secure a satisfactory job, the general trend of opinion following the secretary's (Mr. J. R. Newman's) suggestion, that the bells should be taken out and recast into a lighter peal with a tenor of about 35 cwt., thus effecting a big saving in metal and a gain in efficiency; also that the frame should be overhauled and lowered. Mr. Newman assured the Dean that all the remarks by members were made in the spirit of helpfulness, it being the wish of everyone that their Cathedral should possess a peal that was second to none.

The Dean thanked the members for their suggestions, and remarked that it was apparent that more required to be done than had been anticipated. He, however, would carry the matter forward for examination, as they would like to feel that when they did proceed they were on the right lines.

The Rev. J. F. Hastings moved a vote of thanks to the Dean for presiding, and this closed the business.

After grouping for the camera, service in the Cathedral was well attended, part of the association service with an address by the Dean being combined with the evening service. The collection was in aid of the bell fund.

Tea, at which over 100 members and friends sat down, concluded a very satisfactory meeting, and members then commenced to scatter, some homewards and others for more ringing. J. P.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

On the motion of the President, thanks were expressed to the Rector of Poplar for the use of the bells and for his address, and to the Rev. I. Hardy (Cubitt Town), and the Rev. M. Davidson (Holy Trinity, Barking Road) for the use of the bells at their respective towers.

This concluded the business, and many of the members wended their way to Cubitt Town and Barking Road for further ringing. At the former church, during the afternoon and evening, Bristol and Cambridge Surprise, Bob Major and Double Norwich and Stedman Triples were rung, and, at the latter, Grandsire Doubles, Bob Minor, Cambridge Minor and Spliced London and Wells Surprise.

LADIES' GUILD.

NORTHERN DISTRICT'S SPLENDID MEETING.

A glorious day, and apparently unlimited kindness from the people in Gainsborough, rewarded those who had braved the difficulties of Bank Holiday travelling to attend the quarterly meeting of the Northern Branch of the Ladies' Guild held at this town on Easter Monday. Over 70 members and friends were present from the surrounding district and from Rotherham, Bradford, Sheffield, Peterborough, Dore, Duffield, Newark, Worksop, etc.

The fine peal of eight at the Parish Church and the six at Lea were available from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. A service was held in the beautifully decorated Parish Church at four o'clock, when the Vicar, Canon Morris, gave a short address.

A delicious tea awaited those present in a neighbouring room presided over by Mr. F. F. Linley (treasurer of the Lincoln Guild) and his wife, and to which the lady ringers were most generously entertained by the local band.

A vote of thanks, proposed by Mrs. Rupert Richardson, included the Vicar, choir and organist, Mr. and Mrs. Linley, the ladies and the local band.

Miss Phyllis Hare presided over the business meeting, at which 25 ladies were present and seven new members elected to the Guild.

The existing officers were re-elected until June, 1928, to give the newly-formed district time to settle down. Attention was drawn to the fact that the general meeting of the Guild was to be held at Northampton in July, and the next quarterly meeting of the district is fixed for July 9th, at Duffield.

THE COUNCIL AGENDA.

The Central Council meeting is drawing on, and tomorrow is the last day for receiving notices of motion for this year's agenda. Once again, as far as reports of meetings of the great ringing associations have revealed anything, there is a dearth of topics put forward for discussion at the 'Ringers' Parliament.' There is, perhaps, less time at the London meeting than at the provincial gatherings for debates on general ringing topics, as there is more formal business to transact, in the shape of elections of officers and committees, while this year the Council will also have before it the revision of the booklet, 'Rules and Decisions,' which is to be brought up to date. It may be that the actual contents of this little publication may cause some difference of opinion, and it may be that the 'Rules' portion, governing the Council itself, will provoke some debate. Under the circumstances, therefore, it is as well that the agenda is not likely to be overburdened with notices of motion.

That circumstance, however, does not alter the fact that it should be the aim of the associations, who elect the representatives, to provide the Council with subjects of general interest to the Exercise which they can discuss. At present it is left very largely to the ingenuity of the Standing Committee and particularly of the honorary secretary to frame an agenda, and, if it fails to produce something of real interest, the man in the rank and file of the Exercise is inclined to turn round and ask the old question, 'What is the use of the Council; what has it done again this year?' Where that feeling is aroused, it should be pointed out that the remedy, as we have so often said, is in the hands of the ringers themselves. They know the difficulties which they experience, they know the little problems they come up against; and they often realise how, even in little things, the general interests of the Exercise could be advanced. In all these directions they could find material, which, in a body representative of the whole of the ringers of this country, could be discussed with advantage, and help to secure uniform action, and, in some things, universal progress.

The initiative should lie with the individual, and the channel is through the association and its representatives to the Council. Even in the case of what may be termed the 'domestic' matters of an individual association, there is often the germ which might produce a fruitful debate in the Central Council. As just one instance, there may be some purely local administrative scheme which has proved successful in an association. Why should not this be passed on to be more widely discussed by the Council on the basis of general application, so that, if feasible, it can be adopted by other ringing organisa-

INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Having read with much interest the correspondence on the above subject, I know personally a ringer who can neither read nor write. He can ring somewhere about ten different methods. In his earlier days, when a fresh method was about to be practised, he was told roughly what the path of the ringing was like, and would then reply, 'I can manage that.' He would ring the method faultlessly and strike his bell perfectly. I would mention that instalments and ringing books of instructions were of no use to him.

When I was a boy, a very able Suffolk conductor used to say, 'Learn it at home and come to the steeple and do it.' I now make use of the same phrase.—Yours truly,

G. E. SYMONDS.

A COUNTRY CLERGYMAN'S WAY.

Dear Sir,—May I, as one who is not a great ringer (my few peals for Yorkshire were rung long ago), suggest a method of instruction which is within the power of most country bands to try? Four years ago there was a band here at Monk's Kirby who could ring call changes, more or less well.

For reasons not necessary to go into we were faced with the need of raising a new band. Some of the best possible young men offered themselves. We met in the tower and in my study alternately. The work in the study was talking over ringing (a pipe or cigarette helps), and, starting with four bells, practising change ringing on handbells, one to each ringer. We used Snowdon's 'Ropesight', and, later, 'Standard Methods,' which can be, I believe, sufficient if practised in this way. The result is a really keen band with plenty of ringers for Sunday ringing, morning and evening, really well-struck Bob Major, with some knowledge of Grandsire and Kent Treble Bob.

We have had no help from outside, and ringers who have rung with me realise that what success there has been must be due to the method of teaching, and that any tower could do it.

Ringers of Saltburn-by-the-Sea, who saw me through my first 720, may be interested to know that the handbells are the ones they gave me so many years ago, and which always recall to me such happy memories.—Yours faithfully,

ROBERT L. B. OLIVER,
Vicar of Monk's Kirby, near Rugby.

A PEAL BOARD UNVEILED.

Saturday, April 30th, saw the fulfilment of a promise made by Mr. E. Breeze, of Bebington, that when he rang in a peal of Double Norwich on the bells of his own tower he would make a present of a peal board to the tower. The peal, which was one of 5,136 changes, was rung on February 16th, 1924, composed by Mr. H. H. Tucker, late of Bristol, and conducted by Mr. G. R. Newton.

A company of Liverpool ringers assembled in the tower prior to the unveiling ceremony, which was performed by the Rector, Rev. H. E. Boulton. The Rector extended a cordial welcome to the ringers, and said how pleased he was at all times to see and hear visiting ringers. He paid a high tribute to the work and worth of Mr. Breeze as a ringer and also as a chorister, services which had been faithfully rendered over a period of upwards of 35 years. He thanked Mr. Breeze for his gift of the peal board, and hoped it would act as an incentive to the younger ringers not only to equal but surpass his achievement.

The band were particularly glad to see Mr. Tucker, the composer of the peal, present, and he, along with the conductor, suitably voiced the thanks of the band to the Rector for his kind welcome and also for unveiling the peal board.

Mr. T. B. Worsley's 5,088 Kent Treble Bob Major was afterwards rung to commemorate the event. This turned out to be Mr. Cannc's 200th peal for the Lancashire Association, and he is the first Liverpool man to attain that distinction.

The band were hospitably entertained by Mr. Breeze at the conclusion of the peal, his health being drunk, along with that of Mr. Tucker, who unfortunately could not stay or take part in the peal on account of ill-health.

MR. A. GREENFIELD'S 100 PEALS.

DEVON GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the North-East Branch was held at Huntsham on Saturday, April 23rd. The branch was well represented, about 50 members being present, and visitors also came from Exeter, Kenn, Newton Abbot, Chipstable, Chrislow, Littleham, Thorverton and Talaton. About 70 in all sat down to tea.

Service was held in the Parish Church, when the Rector (Dr. A. C. Keene) gave the Guild a warm welcome and a helpful address on the 'Power of Unity.'

Through the generous hospitality of Col. and Mrs. Troyte, a bountiful tea was provided in the Parish Room at Huntsham Court.

The general meeting followed, the Rev. G. E. F. Molineux (chairman of the branch) presiding. Many of those present heard with regret of Mr. T. Elsworth's departure from Halberton to Bridgewater. His skilful and untiring activities for the branch will be much missed.

Mr. W. Snell (Washfield) was elected Ringing Master in Mr. Elsworth's stead. Six certificates were awarded, viz., to Messrs. Harris, Pring, Glanville, Gould and Auton, of Bradninch, and to F. Redwood, of Upplowman.

A vote of thanks was passed to Col. and Mrs. Troyte, to Dr. Keene for the use of the church and bells, to the organist and to all who helped to make the meeting so successful.

By kind permission of the Rev. E. F. Sandford, Upplowman tower was open, and several bands enjoyed a ring there during the evening.

The date of the next meeting was fixed for June 18th.

BALDOCK LEADER'S DEATH.

By the death, at the age of 61 years, of Mr. J. J. Cawdell, of Baldock, Herts, the Exercise loses a most valuable member, and the local band their most competent ringer. Mr. Cawdell passed away almost suddenly on Monday, April 25th, after only a few days' illness. No one but himself knew the years of gentle perseverance he had put in at Baldock, teaching new members and doing his utmost to maintain ringing there at an efficient standard. He had been church clerk practically all his life, and lived and worked in the church daily.

His favourite method was Stedman Triples, and his name is recorded in the tower as taking part in a peal in this method. His desire to conduct a peal of Stedman he was never able to fulfil, but he conducted several of Grandsire Triples.

His mortal remains were buried on Friday, April 29th, at a most impressive service, at which the choir and many clergy and church officials were present. Numerous wreaths were sent, and touches were rung on the bells half-muffled after the funeral, and again in the evening.

Deceased was a bachelor, and leaves an unmarried sister to mourn her loss. They had lived together all their lives.

It will be hard for someone else to step into the breach in Baldock belfry, and carry on in the kind and gentle way that Mr. Cawdell always did. In the words of the Rector, he was 'faithful unto death.'

THE PEAL AT WALSGRAVE-ON-SOWE.A QUAIN RINGING CHAMBER.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I think the band who recently rang the peal at Barkby really ought to include a trip to 'the Sowe' in their itinerary, as it is the most unique tower I ever visited. When you arrive at the door of the—er—place where you stand to pull the ropes—ringing chamber would be a misnomer—you descend into a pit 10ft. by 5ft. by 6ft. deep, open to the elements, as there are no window frames or glass in the holes in the tower walls, and I don't believe ever have been. The names of the two heroes who ring a peal on the treble and tenor are the only two which should be published, as the other three are only accessories to the fact. The 2nd and 3rd 'go' really well; the 4th only tries to slip wheel once in each six-score. The fourth ringer being a good fisherman was used to the 'got another bite' sensation. The poor tenor man has to throw his rope out all the time, as the hole in the roof is so close to the wall, and he only has about four square feet in which to perform all his gyrations. If he exceeds this, he hangs the 4th ringer. But the poor treble ringer! His rope comes down exactly in the corner of the pit only three inches from the angle, and he is obliged to ring with his back to the rest of the band, with his face to the corner like a bad boy. Only the tenor goes really badly. The tendency to slip wheel could be rectified. 'Tis the ringing room and other appurtenances which are so bad. The tower is a nice one, and why such conditions prevail one cannot understand. Surely, the small sum required to rehang this fine little peal and augment them to a nice light ring of eight bells, and at the same time remodel that ringing pit, could be raised. Two of these bells are amongst the older bells in the county. Around the 4th is inscribed: 'All ye that do hear, our clappers want beer, 1702.' The undersigned is of the opinion that at the present day its poor cracked cry is: 'All ye that do hear, please get us recast!'

BELFRY GOSSIP

Under an Order in Council, published last week, the new Sees of Guildford and Portsmouth, carved out of the diocese of Winchester, came into being on Sunday last. There will eventually be a new Guild of ringers for the diocese of Guildford, but ringing matters in the two other dioceses will be continued, it is expected, under one management, with a dual title.

Congratulations will be extended to Mr. George Williams to-morrow when he reaches his 70th birthday. Few men are as well known in the Exercise as Mr. George Williams, and probably none has done more to advance the art than he has. He holds the office of Master of the Winchester Guild, and it is hoped to celebrate his birthday by a peal on the Cathedral bells.

'The best-laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft a-gley,' wrote Bobby Burns, and the truth thereof was again apparent down in Kent on St. George's Day. The eight Georges rang over two hours and lost their peal of London Surprise, and the companion peal of Cambridge, which friends of the Georges attempted in an adjoining parish, ended prematurely by the tenors coming up the wrong way. Sh-h-h, tell it not in Gath!

On May 7th, 1780, John Reeves and a party of London Youths rang the first peal on Harrow bells, a peal described in the records as '5,040 Bob Majors.'

The first peal of Grandsire Maximus, described in the Cumberland Youths' record as 'Grandsire Bob Maximus,' was rung at Southwark on May 7th, 1792. John Reeves called this peal also, and William Shipway was one of the band.

Another peal of which Mr. John Reeves was the conductor was a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major, with which Edmonton bells were opened by the Cumberlands on May 8th, 1788.

One of those long peals of Treble Bob Royal, which formed a source of rivalry between the College Youths and the Cumberlands in the latter part of the eighteenth century, was rung by the Cumberland Youths at Shoreditch on May 10th, 1777. It was 10,200, but was beaten nine days later by an 11,080 rung on the same bells by the College Youths. That was just a hundred and fifty years ago!

A record which still stands is the 14,112 London Surprise Major, rung at King's Norton on May 11th, 1903, in 8 hrs. 40 mins.

The restored peal of bells at St. Sepulchre's, Northampton, were dedicated on Monday week by the Bishop of Peterborough. Seven of the bells have been recast, and the whole rehung in a new frame and fittings by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston.

'The Midlander' for April publishes an interesting biographical sketch and portrait of Mr. Frank B. Yates, of King's Norton, who was responsible for raising funds for recasting the bells at that church, and recently very generously gave the two trebles to make a peal of ten.

Mr. Yates has been a prominent Midland cyclist, and put up many fine performances on road and track. A lover of horses, he has been a successful exhibitor, and in addition to being actively interested in ringing, he has done magnificent work in connection with the Church and philanthropic institutions. He was recently entertained on the occasion of his 50th birthday.

The meeting of the Axbridge Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, which was to have been held at Cheddar to-morrow, has been cancelled, owing to the lamented death of the district secretary, Mr. G. Chamberlain.

COURT BOB ROYAL.

MANCROFT PEAL NOT THE FIRST.

In our issues of August 10th and December 28th, 1923, we gave some details, culled by Mr. T. E. Slater, of Glemsford, and Mr. G. P. Burton, of Norwich, from old newspapers, by which it appeared to be established that the first peal of Court Bob Royal was rung at St. Peter Mancroft on April 17th, 1769.

Our reminder of this event under 'Belfry Gossip' a fortnight ago, now brings the information that a peal of 6,720 Court Bob Ten-In was rung by James Barham and his company at Leeds, Kent, in 1765. Mr. G. W. Moss, of Manningtree, Essex, who has a copy of Barham's records, writes:

'The following is from James Barham's peal book: "Sunday, January 20th, 1765, was rung at home, 6,720 complete changes of Court Bob Ten in 4 hours 42 minutes, being the most of this method yet rung, viz., William Attwood, Edward Mason, Thomas Lacy, Richard Masters, Stephen Bayley, William Davis, John Sweetlove, Edward Cook, James Barham, William Tilby."

'If it was the same method,' adds Mr. Moss, 'evidently the Norwich men, when they rang their peal in 1769, had no knowledge of the peal rung in 1765 by the Leeds Youths.'

There is, of course, more than one variation of Court Bob Royal, and it would be interesting to know which was rung at Leeds. Porter was the author of the Norwich peal, and it was the method to which we now prefix the word Norwich.

Shipway, in his 'Campanologia,' gives: 'Court Bob; containing three distinct systems, each consisting of Single, Reverse and Double.' One is called simply Court Bob, one is London Court Bob and the other Norwich Court Bob. Is there any further information available as to the method practised by Barham and his men? In any event, the 6,720 does not seem to be the first peal, for Barham states that this is 'the most of this method yet rung,' indicating that there had been previous peals.

FIRST PEAL OF SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE MAXIMUS.

IPSWICH MEN'S ACHIEVEMENT.

The first peal of the above ever rung was accomplished on Saturday last at St. Mary-le-Tower Church, Ipswich. It is most fitting that this should have been performed at Ipswich, for here it was that the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus, on August 15th, 1908, and also the first peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Maximus (November 28th, 1896), outside Norwich, were rung.

It was on Sunday, September 12th, 1926, that the first course of Superlative Maximus was rung, and altogether sixteen courses have been brought round, the peal being achieved at the seventh attempt.

The society wish to thank Messrs. Cross, Duffield, Kinsey, May, Mee, Shemming, Wood and Woodcock for their assistance in practices and peal attempts.

In 'The Ringing World' of April 1st, writes Mr. G. E. Symonds, the conductor, is printed over the name of the Rev. Law James: 'It would only be a disgrace to-day for a band of ringers to ring the method published as Superlative Maximus . . . in disregard of all musical qualities.' This is not correct, for grand music is produced by the tenor going up to the 8th, then the 9th coming up to the tenor, and the beautiful cadences ending with the 10th behind. Some of the best hymn and chant tunes end on this note, and the terrible monotony of the tenor always going up to the 10th, then the 11th up to the tenor, is relieved.

The St. Mary-le-Tower Society have now rung eight different Maximus peals in the present decade.

PASSING OF AN OLD MIDLAND RINGER.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Sidney Smith, which, as briefly announced in the last issue of 'The Ringing World,' took place at his residence at Handsworth, Birmingham, on Easter Tuesday, April 18th. Born in Devon in 1850, he migrated to the Midlands with his parents when he was a small boy of five or six years, and lived the remainder of his days in the neighbourhood of Birmingham.

As a youth, he was apprenticed to the late Paul Cashmore (composer of the well-known 5,056 Kent Treble Bob Major), who had a gun and revolver manufactory at West Bromwich, and was in due course introduced to 'the Exercise.'

Subsequently he married his employer's daughter, by whom he had three sons, one of whom is the present honorary secretary of St. Martin's Guild (Mr. A. Paddon Smith). It is interesting to recall that the deceased and the late Mr. John Carter for many years worked side by side at Paul Cashmore's, and were encouraged by their employer in the pursuit of knowledge of change ringing.

Mr. Smith became a member of the band of ringers at West Bromwich Old Church, and was laid to rest in the family grave in the beautiful 'God's Acre' attached to that church on Friday, April 22nd.

Mr. Smith was never a keen peal ringer, and had kept no record of the dozen or so in which he took part, most of which were rung under the auspices of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford.

He had for many years been a regular attendant at the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner, and was one of those who at the last dinner signed the menu card which was sent out to the secretary (who was then in India) by the Editor of 'The Ringing World.' This souvenir is much prized by the recipient, and it is a sorrowful thought that Death, the reaper, has already removed one of the signatories from human ken.

Mr. Smith was energetic and active to the last, and was very fond of a game at bowls and a hand at bridge. He looked good for many years still, but Providence ordained otherwise. He succumbed to heart failure following influenza, and passed peacefully away in his sleep, leaving a widow and three sons to mourn their loss.

'The moving finger writes—and having writ

Moves on; nor all thy Piety nor Wit,

Shall lure it back to cancel half a line,

Nor all thy tears wash out a word of it.'

Omar Khayyam.

LUNDY ISLAND PEAL RECALLED.

Readers of 'Among the bells' will remember the description of how the peal on Lundy Island was rung. The party were taken over from Ilfracombe in the 'Missions to Seamen' boat by the then chaplain, the Rev. A. E. A. Coombes, who is now Rector of Freshwater. During his incumbency in the Isle of Wight of 12 years or so, Mr. Coombes has been an honorary member and a good friend in general to the Island branch of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, always giving the members a hearty welcome to the parish. To their regret he is now leaving for Didsbury, near Manchester, and on Saturday, April 23rd, the first peal on the bells was rung as a token of farewell. Mr. Coombes met the band at the station, saw that everything was in order, and at the close of the performance entertained them to tea.

It is hoped that in his new sphere, Mr. Coombes will prove as good a friend to ringers in the district as he has done in the Isle of Wight.

The date of the peal coincided with the marriage of Miss E. M. Windsor, at Wroxall, Somerset (where she is well known as a change ringer) to Mr. S. Miles, of Ryde, I.O.W.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

ROCHESTER DISTRICT.

The half-yearly meeting of the Rochester District was held at Queenborough, Isle of Sheppey, on Saturday, about 40 members attending. The tower was open at three o'clock, and standard Minor methods were rung until 5 p.m., when the association service was held in the church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. O. F. R. Strickland), who also gave an inspiring address on bells and ringers.

The visitors to the island were then entertained to a meat tea in a nearby hostelry, and the age of miracles has not yet passed, as the district secretary had a great shock in seeing three vacant seats, which told that that number was less than had notified their intention of being present. It certainly was not the weather that kept any away—that was ideal. A keen north-easter from the sea improved the appetite, and full justice was done to the excellent repast.

The Vicar presided over the business meeting which followed, when five new members were elected, and Swanscombe was chosen for the summer meeting, the date being fixed for Saturday, July 23rd.

At the conclusion of the business, the District Secretary (Mr. F. W. Mitchell) offered the thanks of all to the kind donors of the excellent tea, and Mr. Haigh, in seconding, offered their thanks also to the Vicar for the use of the tower, for the address, and for presiding over the meeting, also to the organist for his attendance.

The Vicar, in responding, said how pleased they were to welcome the association to their ancient borough on the island, which was 'nearly off the map.' That was their first visit during his incumbency, and he hoped it would not be the last. On any future occasion they would be pleased to entertain them in a similar way.

The tower was again visited and ringing indulged in until the 8.40 train carried off the visitors who had so thoroughly enjoyed the meeting. A slight note of disappointment was expressed by the owner of the Austin 7, as he had to pay a toll of 1s. 6d. each way before he could cross the bridge at King's Ferry, which helped to swell the coffers of the S.R.

LEWISHAM DISTRICT ENTERTAINMENT.

The quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District was held at St. Mary Cray on Saturday, April 30th. The bells were raised at 3 p.m. and kept going to various methods throughout the afternoon and evening. Service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. E. Cannon), who gave a very interesting address.

Tea was kindly provided in the Church Rooms by the local band, about fifty members partaking of a substantial meal.

At the business meeting which followed, the Vicar presiding, seven new practising members were elected, and the chairman was made an honorary member of the association.

Mr. W. J. Jeffries gave a report of proceedings at committee meeting held at Bromley on Easter Monday.

Chislehurst was chosen as the place of next quarterly meeting.

Mr. I. Emery reminded the meeting of the loss of a trusted and respected member of the association by the death of the late Mr. G. Durling, of Bromley. He stated that application on behalf of his widow had been made to the benevolent fund, and that a grant had been made and received from that body.—The meeting signified their respect and sympathy with the bereaved by standing in silence for one minute.

Mr. T. Groombridge, sen., moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service, for his fine address, original both in style and substance, and for presiding at the meeting; to the ringers for their generous hospitality in supplying the tea; to the ladies for dispensing the same; and to the organist for his services.—Seconded by Mr. I. Emery, this was carried with applause. The Vicar responded, and said he hoped to see the association at St. Mary Cray again.—Mr. Lovelock, secretary of the local band, also replied, remarking that about ten years had elapsed since the association last visited St. Mary Cray. He hoped that less time would pass before they came again.—Mr. I. Emery assured the Vicar and local band that in view of the welcome accorded on this occasion the association would be only too eager to visit St. Mary Cray again.

This concluded the meeting, and a course of Grandsire Caters was rung on the handbells before adjourning to the tower for further ringings.

MUFFLED RINGING AT ANSTEY.

On Tuesday, April 26th, there passed away in the person of Mr. Laurie Jackson, of Bradgate Road, Anstey, a respected member of the Midland Counties Association. His illness had been a very brief one, and his death came as a shock to his many friends and acquaintances.

The funeral took place on the following Thursday afternoon, when he was laid to rest in the beautiful little cemetery at Anstey.

On the following Sunday afternoon, May 1st, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the bells of St. Mary's Church, Anstey, with the clappers half-muffled, in 45 mins.: Miss Mary L. Cufflin 1, W. Arthur Skinner 2, A. Disney 3, N. S. Bagworth 4, J. Pole 5, E. H. Bagworth 6, R. Barrow (conductor) 7, A. Cufflin 8.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

PROPOSAL FOR OUT-COUNTY MEETINGS DEFEATED.

A general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Huddersfield on Easter Monday. By the courtesy of the respective clergy, the rings of ten at the Parish Church, eight at Almondbury, eight at Longwood, and six at Kirkheaton, were available for ringing during the day.

A meeting of the general committee took place in the Parochial Hall, when arrangements were made for meetings to be held later in the year. Divine service was held in the Parish Church at 3.45 p.m., when the Vicar of Huddersfield (Rev. Canon Baines) extended a hearty invitation to the association, his kindly sermon being greatly appreciated by a large congregation.

About one hundred and twenty ringers sat down to a splendid tea in the Parochial Hall, the business meeting being held in the same building afterwards. The President (Rev. C. C. Marshall) occupied the chair, and was supported by the principal officers of the association. Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. C. Harrison and G. Halksworth.

A motion having for its object the giving of facilities to towers outside the county boundary to hold association meetings was heavily defeated.

On the motion of Mr. H. Walker, seconded by Mr. T. K. Kendall, it was decided to hold the next general meeting of the association at Ecclesfield on August 27th.

Messrs. H. Chew and Reginald Noble, of Northowram, were elected as members of the association, and a cordial vote of thanks to the respective clergy for kindly granting the use of their bells, and to Canon Baines for his excellent address, was moved by the President, seconded by Mr. F. Willey, and unanimously accorded.

A vote of thanks to the local company was moved and seconded by Mr. J. Broadly and Mr. G. Lewis respectively. The general secretary, in supporting the motion, stated that only twenty-eight applications for tea had been received, and more than one hundred and twenty had sat down to tea. Such laxity placed the local company in an unenviable position, and he urged his hearers to be more considerate on future occasions.—Mr. J. Barraclough responded on behalf of the local band.—The delightful weather enjoyed during the day contributed to make this meeting a memorable and pleasant one.

CHESTERFIELD DISTRICT AT EYAM.

The first association meeting ever held in the historic village of Eyam (Derbyshire), took place on Saturday, April 23rd, when between 40 and 50 members of the Midland Counties Association, including quite a number of ladies, assembled at the beautiful little 13th century church of St. Lawrence, and made full use of a delightful light ring of six bells (tenor about 8 cwt.) from 3 to 5 p.m. Among the towers represented were Bakewell, Chesterfield, Dore, Eyam, Great Longstone, Loughborough, Morton, North Wingfield, South Anston, Trecton and Wortley.

A good deal of creditable ringing was accomplished in methods ranging through Plain Bob, Doubles and Minor, College Single, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, to Cambridge Surprise. In the latter method, quite a number obtained their first touches. Another feature was a well-struck 720 of Bob Minor by the local company, conducted by the Rev. W. P. Wright, during tea, and a further 720 of Treble Bob by the same conductor at the close of the meeting.

A short business meeting was held in the tower, Mr. J. P. Tarleton (North Wingfield) presiding. Seven new members were elected, viz., five from Eyam, one from Dore and one from Morton.—Alfreton was selected for the next meeting, to be held on the third Saturday in June.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector (the Rev. H. Saunders Williams), who, although unable to be present at the tea and business meeting, visited the belfry several times and took a great interest in the proceedings; to the Rev. W. P. Wright for his kindness in making all the arrangements; and to the local company, who were congratulated on their progress.

During the afternoon and evening, many of those not actually ringing found great interest in the ancient church, its relics, and its tombs, redolent of memories of the Great Plague, and of the undying story of the heroic Mompesson and his wife; and in listening to the music of the bells, perhaps hardly realising the same tenor and its three brethren had called to worship and to rest those 267 souls who gave their lives for others in the tragedy of 1665.

OLD SUFFOLK RINGER'S DEATH.

The death occurred at Helmingham, Suffolk, on April 16th, of Mr. Walter Whiting, captain of the local company for 30 years. The deceased, who was 74 years of age, was buried at Helmingham on April 21st, when a half-muffled peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung in his memory.

Mr. Whiting had been a member of the Norwich Diocesan Association, and, afterwards, the Norfolk Guild, since 1879, and had rung 45 peals. He was also a member of the Suffolk Guild, and was always to the fore in all pioneer work. He spared no pains in teaching young ringers, and will be remembered by all who came in contact with him for his kindly disposition and genial nature.

THE RECORD PEAL OF TREBLE BOB.

Ringers will be interested to examine the new record length of Treble Bob which was rung at Heptonstall on Easter Monday. Appended are the figures, the length being 17,824 changes.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Central Division of the Sussex County Association was held at Henfield on Saturday, April 23rd. Ringing commenced shortly after three o'clock, and a special service was held, at which an address was given by the Vicar (Canon R. J. Lea). Afterwards, those present adjourned to the Parish Room, where forty-one sat down to a meat tea, provided in a most generous manner by the Vicar. The business meeting was subsequently held, the Vicar presiding.

Mr. A. D. Stone was re-elected secretary; Messrs. J. A. Hart, O. Sippetts and J. Wren were re-elected as members of the committee; and Messrs. Keith Hart, F. Bennett and C. Tyler were re-elected as committee of advice.

Easebourne (a six-bell tower) having become affiliated, the following members of the branch were elected: A. Allerby, L. Bishop, J. Booker, A. Cook, R. Drummer, J. Etherington, P. Goble, F. Harrison, G. Orchard, C. Soane, W. Stringer and T. Tribe.

The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his kind invitation to tea, for the use of the bells, and for the service and address.

The collection taken for the benevolent fund amounted to 8s. 4d. The tower was again visited, the methods rung ranging from Grand-sire Triples to London and Bristol Surprise. The following towers were represented: Aldington, Brighton (St. Peter's and St. Nicholas'), Burgess Hill, Billingshurst, Crawley, Heene, Hordfield, Hurstpierpoint, Keymer, Southover (Lewes), Lower Beeding, Turner's Hill, Warnham, also Mr. A. King (Luton), non-resident member.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD. DEVIZES BRANCH.

The quarterly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at the Parish Church, Melkham, Wilts, on Saturday, April 30th. Ringing commenced about 3 p.m., and the usual Guild service was held, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. B. Aston, M.A., M.C. Tea was followed by the business meeting, presided over by Mr. C. D. Heginbotham, of Devizes. The following new members were elected: Mr. J. Rodwell, of Tarranton, Norfolk, life member; Mr. O. Webb, Westbury, and Mr. F. Yule, Hilperton, ringing members.

The Chairman reported that Mr. H. Brownlee West, of Devizes, a former secretary of the branch, was in the Cottage Hospital, Devizes, seriously ill, and it was decided that the secretary should write a letter to Mrs. West expressing the sympathy of the branch with Mr. West, and expressing the hope for his speedy recovery.

A discussion followed respecting the annual meeting of the Guild, which is to be held at Wimborne Minster, Dorset, on Saturday, May 14th.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for conducting the service, to the organist, and the local ringers for having the bells ready.

The Vicar invited those who cared to do so to take a walk round the Vicarage Garden.

The following towers were represented: Devizes (St. John's and St. Mary's, St. James'), Southbrook, Bath, Bradford-on-Avon (Holy Trinity and Christ Church), Bratton, Westbury, Warminster, Bromham, Chippenham, Holt, Hilperton and Trowbridge. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob Major, Oxford Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise were rung during the afternoon and evening, the bells being a new peal cast by Messrs. Taylor and Co. in 1925.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday last, a quarterly meeting was held at Wellington, when there was a good attendance of members, there being between 30 and 40 present, and representing towers as far apart as Ludlow and Market Drayton. There were also visitors from Cheshire, Loughborough, and Birmingham. Ringing commenced soon after 2.30, and the bells were kept going till 4.30, when there was a short service in church, conducted by the Vicar, who gave a very helpful address.

The business meeting was held in the Parish Hall, and was presided over by the Vicar, in the absence of the Master (Major Corbett).

The new certificates were handed round for inspection, and met with general approval. They require signing by the Master and secretary, and will be distributed in a few weeks' time.

Tea was partaken of at the Y.M.C.A. Cafe, and afterwards a well-struck course of Grandsire Caters was rung on the handbells.

The members then returned to the tower, and the bells were kept going till 8.30. During the afternoon and evening, the ringing consisted of short touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major; a course of Kent Treble Bob was also rung, considerable labour being required owing to the terrific oscillation of the frame. It is hoped that a start will be made shortly to raise funds for the re-hanging, as the bells are in a terrible state at present.

It is hoped to arrange a meeting at Moreton Corbet, in June, for combined practice in six-bell methods.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Eastern District was held at Braughing, on Saturday, April 30th, when forty members were present. The event was favoured by a lovely afternoon, and the bells, which have recently been rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stambank, made the church an attraction for the goodly number which turned up. The bells are a very good ring, with a tenor of 19 cwt., by Miles Graye, and the 'go' of them leave nothing to be desired. The Vicar, churchwardens and ringers are to be congratulated upon raising the necessary funds for the restoration in so short a time. Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain and Treble Bob Major, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise were rung. A short service was held in church, conducted by the Vicar, after which the tea and business meeting took place, presided over by the Vicar (the Rev. F. W. B. Jobson).

Reference was made to the death of Mr. J. J. Cawdell, of Baldock, a much respected member of the association, those present all standing as a mark of respect. The district secretary was asked to send a letter of sympathy to the relatives.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar was proposed by the District Secretary and carried unanimously.

WELCOME TO NEW VICAR.

At Aldershot, on Saturday, April 30th, at the Parish Church of St. Michael the Archangel, on the occasion of the induction of the newly-appointed Vicar, the Rev. Hugh Le Fleming, 629 Grandsire Triples by: W. Denyer 1, C. W. Denyer 2, Miss A. Fisher 3, Miss N. Denyer 4, Alb. Goucher 5, H. Gardner (Seale) 6, R. Hasted (Farnham, conductor) 7, G. Peto 8.—After the service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,280 changes) by: Miss A. Fisher 1, C. W. Denyer (first quarter as conductor, age 16) 2, Alb. Croucher 3, Miss N. Denyer 4, W. Denyer 5, H. Gardner (first quarter in the method) 6, R. Hasted 7, G. Peto 8.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. THE INSURANCE OF RINGERS.

In fine weather, a delightful afternoon was spent at Marshfield on Saturday, when the Bristol Branch held their quarterly meeting. The following towers were represented: St. Matthew's, St. Nicholas', St. Philip's, St. Stephen's, St. Thomas', and St. Werburgh, Clifton, Bristol; Henbury, Marshfield, Olveston, Stoke Bishop, and Chippenham. Rev. T. C. Fowler and Mr. C. Spurrier, vice-presidents, Messrs. A. H. Drew (Dorchester), A. Burcombe (Stinchcombe), H. W. Fussell (Dursley), F. Lambeth (Chippenham), W. A. Lewis, N. Lewis, E. A. Lewis (Berkley), and Mr. and Mrs. W. Farley (Corsham) were also present.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. S. L. Alford), who is an active member of Toc H, and he told the members the aims and the great ideals of this movement, and he hoped the ringers' aims were equally as great.

At the business meeting, the chairman (Mr. J. Gould) was supported by the Vicar and Mrs. Alford, the two vice-presidents, and Mr. Thomas (organist), and 40 members were present. The chairman gave the visitors a hearty welcome. The meeting endorsed the action of the secretary in accepting the kind invitation of the Rev. Canon G. R. Wood for the branch to visit Almondsbury on August 27th.

An interesting discussion took place on the insurance of ringers. The Ocean Corporation, Ltd., had written to the secretary submitting quotations for the insurance of ringers. If sufficient members were insured, they could quote as low a rate as 1s. per member. The secretary was instructed in write to the general secretary to place it on the agenda for the annual meeting.

Winterborne was chosen for the next meeting on May 21st, and Dyrham for June 25th.—The Vicar was elected an honorary member, Mrs. C. Spurrier an associate member, and Messrs. R. Fletcher and G. Minett (Marshfield) performing members.

The Rev. T. C. Fowler proposed, and Mr. F. Leaker seconded, a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar, the organist and Mr. Beezer and ladies for assisting at the tea. Both the proposer and seconder paid a high tribute to the Vicar, who had been in the parish for just one month.

The Vicar was given a cordial greeting, and said how he welcomed the ringers. It was real good, he said, to get these gatherings, and he hoped while he was Vicar they would make it an annual affair.

After the meeting, the ringers returned to the belfry, and several who got little practice at Stedman or Treble Bob were pleased with the assistance given to them. The bells were rung until 8.15. The Bristol party had a most enjoyable motor-trip to and from Marshfield. The weather was all that could be desired, and the countryside was beginning to show signs of the advent of spring.

SUFFOLK GUILD.

WARNING AGAINST A BAD PRACTICE.

A meeting of the Lavenham District was held at Acton on Saturday, April 23rd, when the following places were represented: Lavenham, Long Melford, Little Waldingfield, Hartest, Lawshall, and the local company. Ringing commenced with several courses of 'Gravediggers' delight' by some of the local band. A short service was held in All Saints' Church, the Rev. A. C. Harpur, Vicar, officiating, after which the musical peal of five were kept going to Plain Bob, Grandsire, Stedman, St. Simon's, and Morning Star.

A business meeting was held in the school, the Vicar presiding, supported by Mr. S. H. Symonds, assistant secretary, who gave warning against the dangerous practice of 'clocking' bells. This wrong mode of chiming is employed at many towers in Suffolk.

Mention was also made of the scarcity of district meetings in the Guild's western area. It was proposed to hold the next meeting of the Lavenham District at Little Waldingfield on Saturday, May 21st.

The Vicar, on being proposed as an honorary member, said he was pleased to welcome the Guild to Acton, and hoped, before long, to become a real ringing member.

The usual vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for presiding and for the use of the bells. The meeting closed with a course of Bob Major on Mr. S. H. Symonds' 'pocket' set of handbells, the tenor of which is two inches in diameter.

SAXMUNDHAM DISTRICT.

A meeting of the Saxmundham District was held at Yoxford, on Saturday last, April 30th, and was largely attended, about fifty ringers being present, and no less than seventeen towers being represented. The bells, a peal of six which have recently been rehung by Messrs. A. Howell and Son, Ipswich, were set going soon after three o'clock, and touches in various methods were rung until 5 p.m., when, at the invitation of Mr. C. H. Lomax, an adjournment was made to the old school, where tea, which had been provided by a band of ladies, was greatly appreciated. The Rev. C. H. Raven presided, and was supported by the Rev. H. Drake, general secretary, who proposed a vote of thanks to the donors of the tea. This was carried with acclamation, and a vote of thanks was also accorded to the Vicar for the warm welcome extended to the Guild. This was moved by the district secretary (Mr. G. Wilson), who congratulated the young band on the progress they had made. Further touches were rung in the evening, the methods ranging from Bob Minor to London Surprise.

PEAL RINGING, PAST & PRESENT.

The tabulated summary of the peals rung in the year 1926 appears in our pages this week, and once again the Central Council's Committee deserve the thanks of the Exercise for the labour which they have expended in the compilation of this interesting record of a year's activities among the peal ringers. The statistics will be examined with interest by those who follow peal ringing, for there can be no question that, taken year by year, peals do indicate very largely the standard of ringing which has been reached. The progress of this or that association can be watched, and it becomes the more striking when comparison is made with a distant year.

In 1926 there was a slight falling off in the number of peals rung, but there was nothing like the extraordinary drop which occurred in the preceding twelve months, when the total fell by no fewer than 171 as against 1924. Last year's decline of 22 is trivial, and against this can be set a marked extension in the variety of methods rung. This year, for instance, there were five methods of Maximus rung as against three in 1925; twelve Surprise Major methods against ten, and four of Surprise Royal against three. There is thus no cause for misgiving in reduced numbers; while a distinctly encouraging feature is an increase in the number of conductors of peals.

We have before us as we write an old analysis table, which provides some most interesting comparisons with the state of peal ringing now and thirty-three years ago. In 1893 the total number of peals rung was 705, and the most active association, the Sussex, could then claim only 68 peals, against 130 rung last year by the Midland Counties Association, who in 1893 rang only 35. Two other associations in 1893 rang over 50 peals in the year; in 1926 fifteen societies exceeded this number. In those now seemingly distant days Maximus was confined to Treble Bob; Surprise ringing to London, Cambridge and Superlative. In Triples 219 peals of Grandsire were rung, and only 70 of Stedman; whereas in 1926 Stedman topped the bill with 209 and Grandsire came next with 182. The ringing of Surprise Royal and Maximus thirty-three years ago was a thing only to be talked about, most of the Surprise Major methods rung last year had not been invented; while 'splicing' was a thing almost undreamed of. With the three Surprise methods then rung it is interesting to compare the relative practice to-day. Last year there were 68 peals of London; in 1893 the total in this method was two only. Eighty-nine peals of Cambridge Major were rung in 1926; but only five in the year under comparison, when Superlative was the chief attraction and 29 peals were rung. Last year the number in this method was 44. In addition, of course, must be reckoned the twenty peals of Bristol and the twelve in other methods rung in 1926, which find no counterpart in 1893.

One other point, among many, we would refer to, and that is the disappearance of several of the societies which figured in this old table. Some, of course, have been absorbed into other organisations, but others have gone from the realm of ringing. We no longer have with us the United Counties Association, the Waterloo Society or the Trinity Youths; the Heavy Woollen District Association or the Birmingham Amalgamated Society. Gone, too, are many of the famous names that appeared among the conductors. The passage of time has made striking differences in the Exercise, but there have in this period been marked advances. In every direction we can see where progress has been made, and, while in peal ringing we are able, thanks to the statistics so painstakingly and so regularly compiled, to make definite comparisons, the advance in other respects has been no less certain and no less beneficial to the art.

RINGING PRACTICE AT MEETINGS.

On May 6th, with glorious weather prevailing, members of the above society visited Wortley, ringers being present from Ackworth, Barnsley, Bolsterstone, Ashton, Ecclesfield, Eckington, Handsworth, Norton, North Wingfield, Sholley, Sheffield Cathedral, All Saints' and St. Marie's. Ringing commenced at 2.45 and continued until dusk, many learners having ample opportunities in Minor and Major methods.

Tea was served at Burkinshaw's stores through the good offices of Mr. Wooler, of the local company, after which the president, Mr. Tarlton, presided at the meeting. He referred to the loss the society had sustained by the death of Mr. Wm. S. Plant, of Ranmoor, members standing in silence as a tribute to his memory, the secretary being requested to convey the members' sympathy to his widow and family. The Rev. Brashaw, Vicar of Wortley, was elected an honorary member.

Mr. Geo. Lewis referred to the practice of some members, who at meetings spent valuable time ringing a course of a method which they were perfectly familiar with. In one case, he quoted, all the members had conducted a peal in that particular method, and he contended that they would be serving the cause better by endeavouring to get learners through their rough passages. Whilst one cannot expect accomplished ringers to attend meetings for the sole purpose of doing 'spade' work, yet the present state of affairs could be materially improved if the local committee man (who is, according to rule, responsible for the order of ringing) would use a little tact and control the ringing order without fear or favour.

The secretary undertook to communicate with the committee men upon this matter, and hopes they will realise 'it is better to give than receive,' for there is much more pleasure derived from getting a learner through his first course or touch in a particular method, than standing up with a crack band to ring a course or touch which is only too familiar.

An appeal was made to all members to attend the joint meeting of the Yorkshire Association, Barnsley, Doncaster and Sheffield District societies at Conisborough on June 17th, the one opportunity of the year when all ringers in the Southern District of Yorkshire can meet to make and renew friendships.

DEATH OF A SHEFFIELD RINGER.

On May 3rd, the Ranmoor (Sheffield) company lost a respected and valued member in the person of Mr. Wm. S. Plant, who passed away after an illness lasting 10 days. Deceased, who was in his 68th year, had suffered for a long period from bronchitis and asthma, and, despite his more or less ailing nature, his death came as a shock and surprise to his brother ringers.

Mr. Plant had been with the Ranmoor company for 44 years, having joined them in January, 1883, and was a member of the Sheffield District Society and the Yorkshire Association. His peals totalled 29, rung principally at Ranmoor Church for the credit of the County Association, and the majority of them were performed under the conductorship of the late Mr. Sam Thomas.

Although a good ringer, Mr. Plant was of a retiring disposition, and did not go far away from home for his ringing, but, so far as his health would permit, he regularly attended for Sunday service ringing and on practice nights, his last pull being on Easter Sunday.

The interment took place on Friday, May 6th, at Fulwood Cemetery, ringers being present from the local company, St. Marie's, Dore, All Saints' and Sheffield Cathedral. Brother ringers carried him to his grave, where a course of Grandsire Triples was rung by: A. Craven 1-2, C. Harrison 3-4, J. E. L. Cockey 5-6, J. Thorpe 7-8, and in the evening at St. John's Church, with the bells half-muffled, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung as a tribute to his memory by: J. Osguthorpe 1, A. Craven 2, C. Harrison (conductor) 3, J. Thorpe 4, J. Parker 5, H. Thorpe 6, C. Haynes 7, Wm. Biggin 8.

FATHERS'-AND-SONS' PEAL AT BELGRAVE.

As reported in our peal columns, four fathers and their sons met and successfully rang an excellent peal at Belgrave, Leicester. All are Leicestershire ringers, the two Bartrams hailing from Melton Mowbray, the Beltons from Barwell, the Grants and Morris from St. Margaret's, Leicester. As may be expected of such a performance, it could not go by without some facetious remarks, but it is not true that one of the 'dadas' threatened the rope-end to his 'offspring' for suggesting 'putting the old 'uns on the heavy end to wear them out first,' although he glared rudely when the remark was made, 'I hope you elders will show us youngsters how to ring properly.' Anyhow, they did, in true 'fatherly' fashion, and it was well that Grandsire was rung, for it afterwards was pointed out that each respected father was also a 'grandsire.' Another peculiar feature of this peal is that there were four Richards (Dicks), two sons being so named, and the other two Ernests. Further, four were left-handed and four were right-handed ringers, although an argument on this point failed to convince the 'lefts' that they were not 'right.'

PEAL ATTEMPT AT EXETER.

Misfortune attended an attempt for a peal of Stedman Cinques on the great ring of bells at Exeter Cathedral on Saturday. The arrangements had been made by Mr. F. E. Dawe and Mr. F. J. Davey. The band was collected from many sources, and the loss was disappointing to all concerned. After 4,378 changes had been rung in 3 hrs. 26 mins., Mr. Davey, who was ringing the eleventh, had to give up. His big task was made all the more difficult by the sudden burst of hot weather, and that he should have had to surrender when so near the end (only 726 changes remaining to be rung) elicited the sympathy of all the band. The following members of the Devon Guild were the ringers: J. Arbury (Exeter) 1, T. H. Taffender (London) 2, A. W. Searle (Exeter) 3, E. Beck (Chilcompton) 4, Rev. E. S. Powell (Plymouth) 5, A. Wright (Painswick) 6, E. Bishop (Swindon) 7, F. E. Dawe (Guildford), composer and conductor 8, A. E. Reeves (Bristol) 9, J. T. Dyke (Chilcompton) 10, F. J. Davey (Exeter) 11, A. G. Betts (Sowton) and G. C. Woodley (Tallaton) 12. The tenor is 72 cwt. 2 qr. 2 lb. in B flat.

HANDBELL RINGING IN NEW ZEALAND.

Lancashire and Cheshire ringers will be particularly interested to read the above.

WINCHESTER GUILD MASTER HONOURED.OLD FRIENDS CELEBRATE A BIRTHDAY.

To do honour to the Master of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, Mr. George Williams, on his 70th birthday, a peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at Winchester Cathedral on Saturday. The band included a number of old friends, who had rung peals together between thirty and forty years ago, and it was a great delight to them to be able to meet and suitably celebrate the occasion. Peals at Winchester Cathedral are few and far between, and, on account of the services, it is always a middle-of-the-day job. Consequently, some of the company found it necessary to rise at, for them, an unusually early hour, to reach the ancient city in time. But it was a glorious May morning, and well repaid any unwonted effort. Soon after eleven o'clock they gathered in the Cathedral belfry, from London, Brighton, Slough, Woking, Swindon, the Isle of Wight, Portsmouth and Southampton. Several Winchester ringers were also present to join in the good wishes which were extended to Mr. Williams, and then, with barricaded doors to prevent any intrusion from visitors to the Cathedral, the ringing began. At first, about four courses were rung by way of practice, so it was said, although there was really a different reason for stopping. Then the bells went away again at noon, and were back into rounds just six minutes before the expiry of the time limit. The ninth man had a terrible grueling on account of the bad 'go' of his bell, but he stuck it like a hero, although for an hour and a half most of the band had had serious misgivings as to the outcome of the valiant struggle that was going on on that particular box.

Afterwards the ringers, with Mrs. Bayley and Mrs. Goldsmith, were kindly entertained to tea by Mr. and Mrs. Williams, and over the teacups the party naturally became reminiscent. One ringer could claim to have rung a peal with Mr. Williams 38 years before, and others well over thirty. 'Anno Domini' is thus rapidly passing with many, but none has it treated more kindly than George Williams, who, except for a few grey hairs, is the same active and enthusiastic George as of old.

Mr. Williams' first peal was rung at Soberton, Hants, on January 17th, 1884, and was the first peal by the Winchester Guild in Hampshire. His total is now well over a thousand, and throughout this long period he has laboured unceasingly for the benefit of young ringers, a great number of whom owe their early instruction in the art to him. In addition, he was for twelve years secretary of the Central Division of the Sussex County Association; he has been hon. secretary of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, and has now, for some time, filled the office of Master. He has been a member of the Central Council from its formation.

REPORT OF THE ANALYSIS COMMITTEE FOR THE YEAR 1926.

Again we have to report a comparatively uneventful year of peal ringing. As was the case in 1925, very few peals with exceptional features have been rung, and the total number continues to decrease. 1,667 peals in all were rung, being 22 less than the previous year. On eight bells and upwards, the decrease is actually 80, including 14 on twelve bells, six on ten bells, and 60 on eight bells, while Minor shows an increase of 19, and Doubles of 39. Separating the handbell peals, Cinques show a decrease of four, otherwise there is an all-round increase of one on ten bells, five on eight bells, three of Minor, and two of Doubles.

	Tower Bells.	Handbells.
Maximus	8	0
Cinques	21	2
Royal	46	13
Caters	86	7
Major	615	32
Triples	398	5
Minor	297	5
Doubles	129	3
	1,600	67

N.B.—Where spliced peals contain odd and even bell methods, they are included in the higher number.

The Midland Counties Association takes first place for the greatest number of peals, with 130, including one on handbells, as against 143 last year. The Kent County, which led in 1925 with 157, has only 112, all tower bells, the only other association to reach the century being Lancashire with 102, including three on handbells, as against 131 peals last year.

It is remarkable that more than half of the societies (24) show no decrease; in fact, 20 of them show an increase. Surrey has increased by 32, Yorkshire by 29, and Sussex by 28, a gratifying feature being Devonshire's increase from 12 to 28. Eighteen societies together show a decrease of 211 peals, while twenty societies show a total increase of 189.

There seems to be little compensation for the drop in the total number rung. Certainly, London Surprise Major has increased from 49 to 63, but taking all the Surprise methods together we find a decrease of 24 peals. Bristol Major one less, Cambridge Maximus six less, Cambridge and New Cambridge Royal three more, Major ten less, Superlative Major 28 less. Other methods, Royal one more, Major two less.

The variations of Treble Bob have slightly more than held their own, with an increase of three peals. The 186 peals are made up as follows: Maximus, two of Kent; Royal, 20 of Kent, one Granta and one Spliced; Major, 121 of Kent, 35 of Oxford, one Prince Albert, and five spliced; Oxford Major showing a gain of 10 peals.

Double Norwich has decreased from 111 to 102; Double Oxford again has two peals. Plain Bob has fallen from 147 to 139. To set against this there are: One peal of Forward Maximus, two peals of Canterbury Pleasure Major, one peal each of Duffield Maximus and Major, one Double and one Reverse Bob Major on handbells, 12 Spliced peals containing plain Royal and Major methods, and an increase of two peals in Little methods.

later, a spliced peal of Grandsire and Oxford Bob Triples with bobs only, by the Llandaff and Monmouth Association, the first peal of Stedman Caters by the Masonic Craft, under the auspices of the St. Martin's Guild, a 'Frederick' peal of Grandsire Triples by the Kent County Association, a peal of London Surprise Major by the Chester Guild, being the first peal in the method by six of the band, first peal of Stedman Cinques by Freemasons, a 'Charles' peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, a handbell peal of Doubles with one man ringing 1, 2, 3, 4, non-conducted peals of Stedman Cinques and Grandsire Triples by the St. Martin's Guild, and the Midland Counties scored the first 'Ernest' peal.

The number of peals rung each month in 1925 and 1926 is shown in the following table:—

	1925.	1926.		1925.	1926.
January	161	173	July	88	99
February	148	130	August	156	121
March	104	101	September	142	135
April	109	136	October	158	174
May	171	119	November	183	186
June	124	109	December	145	184

The peals rung on each particular day of the week show very little variation, the most notable being an increase of 23 Sunday peals. The figures for 1926 are as follows: Sunday 87, Monday 165, Tuesday 117, Wednesday 133, Thursday 144, Friday 71, and Saturday 950.

Analysing the footnotes, we find that ringers of their first peal numbered 584, of their first in a different method or method on a different number of bells, 1,045, inside 68, away from tenor 55, in method inside 55, Maximus 3, Cinques 1, Royal 26, Caters 25, Major 64, Triples 25, Minor 101, Doubles 28, on 12 bells 29, on ten 48, on eight 36, on six 6, Surprise 39, Surprise Royal 11, in hand 13, in method in hand 27, Royal in hand 4.

New conductors number 69, and conductors of a fresh method 96.

Peals by local bands number five, and by Sunday Service ringers 18.

A further 62 peals are recorded as being the first on the bells, 29 as first after restoration, etc., and 173 the first in the method on the bells. Half-muffled and muffled peals number 61.

Peals were rung for birthdays 234, weddings (silver, golden and diamond included) 62, church festivals 26, Empire Day 5, Armistice Day 16, anniversaries 51, memorials 3. Welcome and farewell peals 45, and three Masonic peals are also recorded.

The ladies still continue their activities, and the number taking part in peals during the year was 79. A peal of Stedman Caters was rung by 10 ladies, this being the first peal on ten bells by ladies only. One peal was rung with seven ladies, one with five, one with four, four with three, 27 with two, and 200 with one lady in the band. The methods rung numbered 25, and ranged from Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Maximus. The number of Surprise peals was 43, an increase of seven over last year. Handbell peals numbered 14, being eight of Royal, one of Caters, one of Major, three of Minor, and one of Doubles.

The individual performances of the ladies were as follows: Two rang 21 peals, one 15, one 14, two 12, one 11, one 10, one 8, four 7, five 5, five 4, five 3, eighteen 2, and twenty-nine 1. The conductors numbered six, one lady having conducted three peals and five one peal each.

We conclude our report by giving the number of peals rung in representative years since 1881, the total of the whole period being 49,998:—

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A successful meeting of the Newbury Branch was held at East Garston on Saturday, April 23rd, when about 50 ringers were present. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Thomas), and an address given by the Master of the Guild (Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn). It is interesting to note that East Garston is Mr. Jenkyn's native place, and where he first learned to ring a bell.

Tea, in the Parish Hall, was kindly given by the Rev. and Mr. Thomas, about 50 sitting down, including the Master (Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn), the Guild secretary (Mr. R. T. Hibbert), the Guild treasurer (Mr. A. J. Wright), the branch chairman (the Rev. L. R. Majendie) and the branch secretary and treasurer (Mr. H. W. Curtis).—A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas for their kindness, to the Master for his address, and to Miss Palmer for presiding at the organ.

This was the first Guild meeting held at East Garston, where the band only recently joined the Guild.

The tower was again visited after tea, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Minor were rung.

The summer meeting will be held at East Ilsley about the end of June.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.THE ANNUAL MEETING.

Following an unbroken custom, the annual meeting of the Bedfordshire Association was held at Bedford on Easter Monday, when members gathered from various parts of the county and enjoyed ringing at St. Paul's and St. Peter's Churches. Luncheon, followed by the business meeting, took place at the Silver Grill Hotel, and was presided over by Canon W. W. C. Baker, the president of the association.

The committee's report included the following:—

'It is again with much pleasure that we present our 43th annual report, which shows a slight increase in membership, both honorary and ringing. We hope that the coming year will show a still larger increase to our ranks, as we feel there is still much to be done, and many ringers in the county whom we should be glad to welcome to our association. There is, we note, a great falling off in the number of peals rung during 1926—the number being 24 against 42 for 1925, which number was of course a record for the association. The peals rung comprised: Cambridge Surprise Major 2, Kent Treble Bob Major 1, Stedman Triples 1, Minor, 7 Methods 13, Minor, 5 Methods 2, Minor, 3 Methods 1, Minor, 1 Method 1, Doubles, 3 Methods 1, Doubles, 1 Method 1, Grandsire Caters (on handbells) 1 (the latter peal being the first peal in the method in hand for the association). During the year, meetings for furtherance of the art have been held in each of three districts, and on the whole have been well attended. We are glad to welcome back to the county the Rev. A. Rust, for many years secretary of the association, and also to welcome the return of the Husborne Crawley Company back to our ranks. In conclusion, we again wish to express our thanks to our honorary members for their continued help, and to the clergy for welcoming us to the various parishes in the county, as we feel it is only by this continued goodwill and help that we can hope to carry on and make progress in our art.'

In proposing the adoption of the report, Canon Baker recalled that the association was 45 years of age that day (April 18th). Mr. Edwin Ransom had missed very few of their annual meetings, but he was absent that day as his health was not very good. They were pleased to have with them again the Rev. A. Rust, and Mr. Harry King, of Biddenham. Mr. King and the chairman were the only members present who attended the first meeting in 1882.

After the report had been received, Canon Baker was unanimously re-elected president.

Mr. E. Ransom, Miss Steel, Mr. A. King (Luton), and Mr. Cyril Herbert were re-elected vice-presidents, and the chairman was instructed to write to Mr. Ransom conveying the meeting's good wishes.

The Chairman said they must congratulate Miss Steel on having rung a hundred peals for the association. Mr. Harry Clayton, of Harrold, had performed the same feat.

Mr. Sharman was unanimously re-elected hon. secretary and treasurer, the Chairman remarking: 'I don't think we could get a better.'

Mr. Fred Tanqueray, of Woburn, was again appointed hon. auditor, and Canon Baker reminded the meeting that Mr. Tanqueray called the first 720 ever rung for the association. Mr. Tanqueray did no ringing now, but he looked after their money for them all right (laughter and applause).

The president and secretary were elected the association's representatives on the Central Council for the next three years.

PROPOSED JOINT MEETING WITH HERTS.

A discussion arose as to where the next annual meeting should be held, and Canon Baker said the association had never varied from their first choice. He did not think there was anywhere so central and so easily accessible for the whole of the county as Bedford.—For the 46th time, therefore, Bedford was unanimously chosen for the Easter meeting.

The committee recommended Luton for the summer festival, but an amendment in favour of Woburn, as being a more ideal place for a summer gathering, was carried by a majority of four.

The Chairman congratulated the Woburn company on ringing a peal of London Surprise. It was a great achievement, he said.

Mr. Stapleton suggested a meeting with the Hertfordshire Association, and said he thought that eventually there would be one association for the whole diocese.

The Chairman thought the present arrangement of an association for each archdeaconry was preferable, but that a joint festival could be arranged at St. Albans in connection with the jubilee of the diocese.

At the request of the meeting, the Chairman promised to approach the Hertfordshire Association upon the matter.

Miss Steel made an appeal for a 'little subscription' to help Tilsforth, who were 'frightfully hard up,' and wanted to re-hang their bells. A subscription of a guinea would show this little village, she said, that they had won the interest of the ringers of the county.—It was stated that the association had a balance in hand of £25, and a member suggested the subscription should be £5.—The President warned the meeting of the danger of making a precedent. The bells at Southill, he said, were getting very 'rocky.'—A member said Harrold needed about £1,000 for their bells.—The Chairman: There you are, opening the floodgates!—Miss Steel's resolution was carried.

The Vicar of St. Paul's and the Rector of St. Peter's were then cordially thanked for the freedom of their towers; and the meeting concluded.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Death removed a well-known Midland ringer on Sunday, when Mr. Charles Dickens, of Sutton Coldfield, died quite suddenly. He had been at work on Saturday, and appeared to be in his usual health. Mr. Dickens was a very fine ringer and striker, and a valued member of St. Martin's Guild, but of late years business had prevented him doing much peal ringing.

It was on this day in 1909 that Mr. Harry Withers 'called' a peal of Superlative without being in the tower. He stood about 30 yards away, and signalled the bobs by a bell fixed in the ringing room.

Ninety years ago next Sunday, the old St. James' Society rang a peal of 12,096 Grandsire Caters in 7 hrs. 50 mins. at All Saints' Church, Fulham. It was, at the time, claimed to be the longest peal rung by ten men only, and was conducted by Thomas Tolladay. Unfortunately for the St. James' Society and the ringers, there was no 'Ringing World' in those days, or they would have known that 20 years before the Painswick Youths had rung a peal of 12,312 changes.

May 15th also recalls the then longest length of Superlative Surprise Major, a peal of 8,800 rung at Loughborough in 1894, composed and conducted by Nathan J. Pitstow. The present president of the Central Council was one of the band, and the tenor was rung by the late Mr. John W. Taylor.

As last week's list of the long lengths of Treble Bob will have reminded our readers, the 16,608 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung at Mottram, Cheshire, on May 18th, 1883. Mr. Sam Wood, the conductor, is still on the active list, and but for indifferent health would probably have been in the still longer length of Oxford last Easter Monday.

Exactly a hundred and fifty years ago next Thursday, 11,080 Treble Bob Royal was rung by the College Youths at Shoreditch, and this, in just over a week, surpassed the previous record of 10,200 rung by the Cumberlands on the same bells.

The same day is the centenary of the second peal of Double Norwich Major, which was rung at St. Giles', Norwich, on May 19th, 1827.

The handbell peal rung at Islington and recorded last week, was umpired by Mr. F. G. Symonds.

Around the tenor at Brinklow, Warwickshire, is the inscription:—

'My mournfull sound doth warning give
That heare men cannot always live.'

The back five bells were cast in 1705, and Messrs. Taylor and Co. added the treble. The first peal on them was rung last Saturday.

There are still some Goldstreamers from whom Mr. F. Alleway, of 13, Athelstone Road, Wealdstone, Harrow, Middlesex, is desirous of hearing, especially Corpl. Sugg and Pte. Banwell, both of Somerset. Will these ringers, and any others who have been connected with the Goldstream Guards, who have not already done so, kindly write to Mr. Alleway?

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL'S SECRETARY.

Mr. E. Alex Young, the hon. secretary and treasurer of the Central Council, is at present in Gordon Hospital, Vauxhall Bridge Road, London, where he has undergone an operation. We are glad to be able to say that he is progressing favourably.

It is a strange coincidence that his predecessor in office, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, should also be in a London Nursing Home for a similar reason, and, stranger, still, that they should accidentally have met in a tube lift when on their way to Harley Street to consult their respective specialists a few weeks ago.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING.

We are informed by Mr. Young that the issue of cheap railway tickets to members and their friends to London at Whitsun are, at the moment, confined to Monday to Wednesday only. Mr. Young is endeavouring to get the tickets made available for the previous Saturday.

DEATH OF A TONG VETERAN.

By the death of Mr. Henry Oddy, of Tong, which took place on April 26th, another link has been broken between the Yorkshire Association and its early members. The deceased commenced ringing in 1877, at the Parish Church of Tong, long famous in ringing annals as the scene of the labours of the late Mr. G. B. Bolland, and rang his first peal at Tong in 1878. The only surviving member of this band is Mr. William Bolland, now in his 80th year.

Mr. Oddy took part in many peals of Minor, chief among these being a 10,440 rung in 1896, this being still the record for Minor by the Yorkshire Association. In all, Mr. Oddy rang 47 peals, the last one being at Drighlington in 1912. Leaving his native district to take up a post at Thornhill, near Dewsbury, caused a break in his ringing career, and broken health since his return home prevented his taking part in ringing of any note.

The funeral took place at the neighbouring Church of St. Paul, Drighlington, where many old friends assembled. A plain course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells at the graveside by Messrs. W. Idle, W. Popplewell, J. Thackray and P. J. Johnson, after which muffled ringing took place at Tong Church, as a last tribute of respect to an old and honoured friend.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION. THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual general meeting of the Kent County Association was held on Easter Monday at Bromley for the first time. It is somewhat strange that throughout the forty-seven years of the association's existence this attractive centre should have been passed over in favour of far less desirable places, in the district. Almost, if not quite, as delightful as on last Easter Monday, the weather was all that could be desired for holiday makers, or for wedding couples, who monopolised a great part of the morning, and thus kept ringers idle, except for a few minutes between one service and another. Doubtless, they were gratified by getting a wedding peal for nothing. Other towers, indeed, were open for ringing where matrimony was not so fashionable—Chislehurst, Beckenham, Eltham, and St. Luke's, Bromley Common. In the afternoon, Hayes (six) was also available.

The usual meeting of the Central committee was held at noon in the Church Committee Room. The annual service was dovetailed in between two weddings, the clergy present being the Vicar, Canon Wilson, Rev. H. T. James, assistant curate, and Canon Thompson (Hayes). The preacher was the Rev. H. P. Kennedy, Skipton, F.R.Hist.Soc. The organist of the church, Mr. Fertel, accompanied the service, and the collection for the benevolent fund of the association amounted to £1 19s.

Dinner followed in the Old Town Hall, nominally at 1.30 p.m., but it was nearly 2 p.m. before grace was said by Canon Wilson. The Mayor of Bromley, Councillor F. W. Hard, was in the chair, supported by the Vicar, Revs. Canon Thompson, F. Hassard Short (St. Luke's), H. T. James, the hon. secretary (Rev. F. J. O. Helmore), and members of the committee. The female element was not quite so much in evidence as on some former occasions, but the presence of Mrs. H. Baker (Frittenden), Mrs. Pitman (Canterbury), Mrs. A. Clark (Croydon), and Misses Hardcastle and Orr (Balham) prevented the entire predominance of the male. The company numbered 120.

Grace after meat having been said, the Mayor gave the toast of 'The King,' which was duly honoured.

Mr. F. White proposed the toast of 'The Archbishop and Clergy,' especially thanking the preacher for his address and Canon Wilson for his kindness in granting the use of the church and bells. These gentlemen having suitably replied, Canon Thompson expressed the hope that some would pay a visit to Hayes, and offered to give one or two a lift in his car.

The Hon. Secretary proposed 'The Health of the Mayor,' who responded in a neat little speech, welcoming the association to Bromley, and hoping that, as that was the first, so it would not be the last visit.

The business meeting followed. After reading the minutes of last year's meeting, the Secretary read his report, in which mention was made of the new system of combining two methods in one peal, 'splicing,' as it has been called, rather suggestive of matrimony; another uncomplimentary epithet had been applied to it, which would seem to cast a doubt on the legitimacy of such peals. Special mention was made of the death of Messrs. I. G. Shade (Greenwich), W. Harper (Swanscombe), G. Durling (Bromley), and John Carter.

The adoption of the report and balance sheets was proposed by Mr. Pitman, seconded by Mr. J. W. Steddy, and passed.

The re-election of officers followed, the names of two trustees, Messrs. White and Jeffries, being added, and Mr. S. H. Green being elected in place of Canon Clarke (Faversham).

Mr. F. M. Mitchell proposed the insertion of the words 'two trustees' in Rule 6, and to make 'eight' the number to form a quorum instead of 'three.'—This was seconded by Mr. J. Wheadon and carried.

An alteration of the rule respecting the election of new members before the start of a peal, proposed by Mr. W. J. Jeffries and seconded by Mr. I. Emery, was defeated by a large majority, only fourteen voting for it.

The voting for Central Council representatives resulted in the re-election of the old members, Messrs. E. Barnett, J. H. Cheesman, T. Groombridge, sen., and the Rev. F. J. O. Helmore, the three other candidates, Messrs. Mitchell, Green and Thornton, receiving comparatively few votes.

Business being finished, somebody tried to propose a vote of thanks to the secretary, but the company had had enough, and wanted to get out into the open en route for towers, where ringing could be enjoyed. So the room soon cleared, and the secretary was spared. What ringing was actually done, 'history doth not relate,' but it was generally felt that members had had a thoroughly successful and enjoyable day.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY.

The third quarterly meeting of the society's year was held at Bloxwich on Saturday, April 30th. A short service was held in church, when the Rev. J. C. Hamilton, Vicar, delivered a helpful address.

A capital tea was provided in the schoolroom, to which upwards of 30 sat down, following which a summary of the business transacted in committee was explained by the Rev. C. H. Barker, who also moved a vote of thanks to the Rev. J. C. Hamilton for his address, use of the bells, etc., and to the ladies for preparing tea and waiting at the tables.

In responding, the Vicar expressed his pleasure at having the visitors there, and kept the company in roars of laughter by his customary witticisms.

The annual meeting is fixed to take place at Lichfield on June 25th.

THE COUNCIL'S 'DECISIONS.'

The 'Rules and Decisions' of the Central Council is coming up for revision at Whitsun. This volume is the official publication, which sets out not only the constitution of the Council itself, but the various conclusions for the conduct of the art which have been come to by the Council from time to time. The proposal is to make it a little more pretentious than in the past, so that it will cover the history of the Council, and become, as it were, the 'blue book' of the central authority. In view of this, we hope that very careful consideration will be given to the material which it will contain, and its scope arranged so that it may, also, be of use to associations in a much more general way than it has been. There are many things which it might embody with advantage, including, for instance, those pamphlets, now out of print, on the preservation of bells, and the model rules for associations and local companies. The embodying of useful matters of this description would, we think, help the sales of the book and bring the 'decisions' of the Council under the notice of a much wider circle of ringers. We have had the privilege of seeing an advance draft of certain of the sections, and this leads us to emphasise the need of careful revision before finally committing the book to the Press.

There is a point to which we think special attention might be given, and that is in the conditions laid down for peals of record length. The subject was mentioned somewhat casually at the Ipswich meeting last year, arising out of the attempted long length of Stedman Caters at Leeds. The Council's present rule says (inter alia) that a sealed copy of the figures of the proposed peal should be lodged previous to the attempt with the responsible officer of the Guild or Association under whose title the band is to ring, and that if the attempt is unsuccessful he shall return the sealed copy unopened to the conductor. Further, it is recommended that a competent representative of each of the bands (i.e., of the band who hold the record and the band who are attempting to exceed it) shall be present during the whole of the performance. The object of each of these recommendations is obvious; the first is to prevent the figures falling into the hands of a rival company should the attempt fail; and the second to have accredited witnesses of the performance present from both sides.

The question arises, however, what is the use of the record holders sending a representative, if he cannot have access to the figures while the peal is in progress? There are probably not a dozen ringers to-day who would be competent to take down from outside the tower the figures of a long peal while it is being rung, and the strain of having to do this for twelve hours or more is more than can be expected of any one man, however capable. It is different if he has the figures before him to assist him. The Council's present decisions tend to some extent to defeat themselves, for, without the figures, the average witness could only say how long the bells had been kept ringing and whether they were well-struck, and could do nothing by way of vouching for the accuracy with which the peal was rung. This is a problem to which we think the Council might give further consideration. Safeguards must be made, but it is of no use to lay down stipulations which, in many cases, might be valueless.

RECAST NORTHAMPTON RING.

HOLY SEPULCHRE BELLS REDEDICATED.

The Bishop of Peterborough dedicated on April 25th the restored ring of eight bells at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, Northampton. Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, who were entrusted with the work, took away the old bells, seven of which were recast, while the old 6th became the 7th in the new peal, which have a tenor of 15 cwt. in the key of F sharp. New frame and fittings have been supplied, and the whole work reflects great credit on the firm, the 'tone' and 'go' of the bells being excellent.

The bells are hung about 12 feet lower than the old peal, and the ringing chamber is now on the ground floor.

The Church of the Holy Sepulchre is one of the few round churches in England. The whole of the restoration, which includes the repairs to the tower and spire and general repairs to other portions of the church, has been paid for.

Mr. Cyril F. Johnston was present at the dedication, and Mr. S. R. Roper was present in the evening, when members from all the belfries in the town tested the new peal. Methods were rung ranging from Grandsire to Cambridge Surprise. The whole of the arrangements were ably carried out by Mr. F. Wilford, Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

The dedication service was largely attended, and was of an impressive character. The Bishop performed the ceremony, and gave an inspiring address, in which he spoke of the message of the bells. 'When the bells ring out,' he said, 'remember that you have need in the future to show yourselves loyal, devoted and lifelong Christians, not once-a-weekers, nor once-a-monthers, but daily followers of our Lord and Saviour Christ.'

After the service, members of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild rang a touch of Grandsire Triples: F. Wilford 1, J. Bennett 2, R. Burgess 3, S. J. Lawrence 4, J. Burston 5, T. Jennings 6, B. Soden 7, A. Beckwith 8.

Tea was served at the Parochial Rooms by Mrs. Aston and helpers, and during the meal Canon Keysell, after thanking the Bishop, announced that a collection during the service had realised £15, an amount which, with other items, clears the debt on the bells. In reply, the Bishop congratulated St. Sepulchre's on having wiped out the debt, and wished the church prosperity and progress.

A BIRMINGHAM RINGER'S JUBILEE.

MR. TOM MILLER'S FIFTY YEARS AT ST. CHAD'S.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the Bishop's House, Bath Street, Birmingham, on Wednesday, April 27th, on the occasion of the ringing jubilee at St. Chad's Cathedral of Mr. Tom Miller, one of Birmingham's best-known exponents of our art. The Very Rev. John Canon Roskell, who presided, was supported by the Revs. A. L. Kelly, B. F. Cox, and E. Morahan and about 25 ringers. A substantial meal was enjoyed, after which Canon Roskell proposed the chief toast of the evening. He spoke of the long service that Mr. Miller had given at St. Chad's. Fifty years were, when one came to think, he said, a splendid record for anyone to possess as a ringer, but especially so when that time had been spent at one church. A ringer's duty was to call others to their duty to God, and in that respect Mr. Miller had in those years done his duty conscientiously and sincerely. Mr. Miller had at various times shown to him rows of figures, and told him, 'That is Bob Major,' and he had to confess that he had to let it go at that, because he could not contradict him (laughter). Mr. Miller, he added, had several times spoken of retiring, but he was sure he had now put that idea out of his head and would carry on ringing to the end of his days.—The Rev. A. S. Kelly, in seconding the toast, said that although he could understand music, he had to admit that bell ringing beat him. He loved to hear the sound of bells, and could appreciate the work that Mr. Miller had done at St. Chad's. He hoped that he had many more years in front of him to continue that work.

Mr. Miller's health was then cordially honoured.

Mr. T. C. Kelly spoke of his association with Mr. Miller in the belfry of St. Chad's, and was followed by Mr. A. Walker (Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild), who paid a compliment to Mr. Miller by saying that when he and his right-hand friend (Mr. H. Withers) were young men it was Mr. Miller who started them on their ringing career. Mr. Miller, he said, was ever ready to assist a young ringer, and many ringers of to-day had received advice from him in their earlier years.

Mr. Miller thanked the company for their kind remarks. He spoke of his varied experiences during his ringing career, many of them humorous. He recalled the time when St. Chad's had but five bells, and the means adopted to get them made up to eight. He was one of the band who went from house to house collecting for them. He spoke of the brotherhood that existed among bell ringers, and hoped that it would never be allowed to die out.

Mr. G. F. Swann proposed 'The health of Canon Roskell.'—Mr. A. Walker, in seconding, thanked the Canon for the way in which he had received them, and said that St. Martin's Guild would be ever ready to assist St. Chad's should they be required.

Tune ringing and a course of Stedman Cinques on handbells and singing of 'Auld Lang Syne' brought a very interesting evening to a close.

T. C. K.

SUFFOLK GUILD. THE FINANCIAL POSITION.

The annual meeting of the Suffolk Guild was held at Ipswich on Easter Monday. The bells of St. Mary-le-Tower (twelve), St. Margaret's (eight), St. Clement's (six), St. Matthew's (five), and of Sproughton and Bramford were, by kind permission of the various incumbents, available for ringing throughout the day.

Service was held at St. Mary-le-Tower's Church at 1 p.m., when a most impressive address was delivered by the Vicar, the Rev. A. W. Wallace, who took for his subject, 'The power of the Resurrection.'

An excellent luncheon was served at Day's Restaurant, Cornhill, at 1.30 p.m., and was followed by the business meeting, the president (Archdeacon Farmiloe) being in the chair.

The balance sheet was presented and read by the general secretary (Rev. H. Drake). The Treasurer moved the adoption of the accounts, saying he felt they could not be considered altogether satisfactory, as the expenditure had, as was shown, exceeded the income for the year.

Discussion followed, in which it appeared that many members were of the opinion that if the Guild reports were in the hands of members earlier, many more subscriptions would be received. It was agreed that this would follow, especially in the case of honorary members.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were: Patron, the Bishop; president, Archdeacon of Sudbury; vice-president, Archdeacon of Suffolk; Ringing Master, Mr. Charles J. Sedgley; general secretary, Rev. H. Drake; assistant secretaries, Messrs. S. H. Symonds and E. R. Pearson; treasurer, Mr. Charles E. Fisher. Messrs. J. C. G. Haggan and A. Watson were elected to fill vacancies on the committee.

The Rev. H. Drake, Messrs. Charles Mee and Charles J. Sedgley were appointed representatives on the Central Council.

It was decided to hold quarterly meetings at Hadleigh and Eye.

Mr. Haggan proposed a vote of thanks to Archdeacon Farmiloe for presiding, and this was carried with enthusiasm.—The Archdeacon briefly replied, saying it gave him real pleasure to be present. He pointed out that that meeting had already lasted over two and a half hours, yet he saw no abatement in the interest of the members present.

There was not a good attendance at the business meeting, no doubt owing to so many counter-attractions in the town, while the local football 'Derby' (held at Ipswich on Easter Monday) was probably an attraction to many. It is only fair, however, to record that the members who were present displayed a lively interest in all things connected with the Guild, and especially in anything which appeared to be towards the more effective working of this organisation.

SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE MAXIMUS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Allow me to congratulate the St. Mary-le-Tower Society on their well-merited success in ringing the first peal of 'Superlative' Maximus.

This performance will require a lot of beating, and the footnote telling us that Mr. R. H. Brundle is in his 76th year makes the achievement on his part more wonderful still.

Lest there be any misunderstanding of my attitude over the method rung by the St. Mary-le-Tower Society, let me point out once more that this 'Superlative' Maximus is a true RECIPROCAL extension of 'Superlative' Major, and anyone who has a sufficient knowledge of mathematical progression can prove this fact for themselves by examining and testing the following figures:—

'SUPERLATIVE' MAXIMUS.

First quarter lead progression, 18923670e45t.

Second quarter lead progression, 1450e672389t.

18923670e45t x 1450e672389t = 1234567890et.

Hence the back change comes up halfway in 'Superlative' Maximus if 11th's place is omitted.

Now we will compare the Major progressions with the Maximus.

Major: First quarter lead progression plus 90et = 1452367890et.

Maximus: First quarter lead progression, 18923670e45t.

Progression.
45980e = 345612.

Major: Second quarter lead progression plus 90et = 1452367890et.

Maximus: Second quarter lead progression, 1450e672389t.

Progression.
23890e = 561234.

It will not require much study to realise that 345612 and 561234 are closely related, and the figures that are here given should prove beyond a shadow of doubt that 'Superlative' Major and the Reciprocal Extension to Maximus are very close relations to one another.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE BAKER.

BISHOP OF LONDON'S RETURN.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies is leaving the nursing home in London this week, and is taking up residence in his native place of Tewkesbury, where his father was Canon.

Mr. E. A. Young, the secretary of the Central Council, is also progressing favourably, and hopes to be well enough to leave the Gordon Hospital in a few days' time.

Last Saturday, a few members of the College Youths visited him, and patients in the general ward were entertained to some handbell ringing.

The St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, wish, through 'The Ringing World,' to thank the numerous ringers from all parts of the country who have written and congratulated them on ringing the first peal of Superlative Surprise Maximus on April 30th. Every participant in this peal is a Sunday service ringer, which makes the performance the more noteworthy.

Mr. F. E. Dawe writes: In your last issue an error appears in the account of the attempted peal at Exeter Cathedral on May 7th. The method was stated to be Stedman Cinques, whereas it was simply 'Grandsires'!

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have been entrusted with the rehangings of the six bells at Tisbury Church, Wiltshire, with all new fittings in a new frame.

Mr. George Williams wishes to thank the many ringing friends who have sent him their congratulations and good wishes on his 70th birthday, and whose kind remembrance he has not yet been able to acknowledge direct.

The south-west tower of York Minster and the ring of ten bells was destroyed by fire on May 20th, 1840.

Three noteworthy peals were rung on May 21st; in 1861, 10,061 Grandsire Caters was rung in 5 hrs. 55 mins. at Winesbury; in 1888, 13,054 Stedman Caters in 8 hrs. 16 mins. at Cheltenham; in 1923, 12,675 Stedman Cinques in 9 hrs. 47 mins. at Southwark.

The first peal in Scotland was rung on May 21st, 1873, when Matt. Wood called a peal of Grandsire Triples at St. Mary's, Dundee.

The anniversary of the 17,024 Double Norwich at Kidlington occurs at Sunday.

In the year 1767 a peal of 10,080 Bob Major was rung at Debenham. On May 23rd, 1811, John Pettett, who had taken part in the Debenham peal, rang in a 5,040 Bob Major at Ipswich.

THIRTEEN BELLS AT ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

The restoration of the bells at the Parish Church, Ashton-under-Lyne, has just been completed by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and they were dedicated by Canon A. W. Thompson, Rector and Rural Dean of Ashton, on Wednesday of last week. The twelve bells have been retuned and rehung, and an additional bell added between the 2nd and 3rd to make a light eight. Ashton-under-Lyne is the only church in Lancashire with this number of bells, the addition to the ring having been given by Mr. J. F. Holmes, of Springfield, Ashton-under-Lyne, to commemorate the birth of his daughter, Eileen Beryl Holmes, on May 1st, 1926. The original peal of ten came from Gloucester in 1779, and in 1889 the Whitechapel Foundry added two trebles, one given by the Ashton ringers and their friends, and one by the late Mr. Samuel Moss.

The dedication service was attended by the Mayor and members of the Corporation. It commenced with the dedication of a tablet erected as a memorial to the men of the parish who laid down their lives in the war. An impressive service followed, in the course of which the bells were dedicated and rung, first the front eight and then the peal of twelve.

Afterwards, an appropriate sermon was preached by Canon Else, president of the Lancashire Association.

Those who took part in the opening ringing were, on the front eight, C. Bowers 1, S. Wood 2, H. Heap 3, W. Brammer 4, J. Mellor 5, A. Adams 6, B. Thorp 7, T. Jackson 8; and on the twelve, S. Wood 1, J. Carter 2, Miss C. Thorp 3, H. Heap 4, W. Brammer 5, C. Bowers 6, A. Gorrings 7, F. Althorp 8, J. Mellor 9, A. Adams 10, B. Thorp 11, T. Jackson 12.

HARROLD BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—A statement likely to give a wrong impression appears in the report of the Beds Association meeting held at Bedford on Easter Monday, and published in last week's issue of 'The Ringing World.' During a discussion re a grant to Tilsworth bells, a member made a statement that £1,000 was needed at Harrold, and as bell restoration was the subject being discussed, no doubt the reporter thought it was wanted for that purpose.

In justice to the bell founders who restored the bells, Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, I should like to say that Harrold bells are in as good condition and go as well as they did the day they were opened, nearly 30 years ago. The £1,000 is required for the repair of the tower and fabric of the church generally.—Yours truly, Harrold.

RAILWAY FACILITIES.

The concession for cheap tickets is now extended to cover the period from Saturday to Wednesday at Whitsuntide, and those desiring the necessary signed voucher should apply to me without delay.

The tickets will be issued from any station to and from London, at $1\frac{1}{2}$ the ordinary single fare, and they may be used by ringing members of our affiliated Guilds (who should apply to me through their general secretary), as well as by the elected and honorary members of the Council itself. The tickets may also be used by wives accompanying their husbands, who also will be welcome to attend the social meetings being arranged on the Monday.

The charge per voucher is 2d. (post free), which should be sent with an addressed envelope to me as under. It is hoped, in view of the future, that at least 200 tickets will be used.

SOCIAL PROGRAMME.

A social programme, more than usually attractive in connection with a London meeting of the Council, when representatives have been left very much to their own devices except in the evening after the business, is being arranged this year, the London societies having joined forces in providing for the entertainment of visitors.

The hon. secretary, as will be seen above, has now satisfactorily arranged for cheap railway tickets to be issued on Saturday, as well as Monday and Tuesday, and also hopes that it will be possible to make up parties of ringers and their wives and friends for river trips.

Mr. Young writes: 'In view of the likelihood of a number of visitors bringing their wives, I am endeavouring to arrange for the hire of a private launch to accommodate 40 to 50, for the purpose of visitors being able to enjoy a trip up or down the Thames, or both (if a sufficient number give in their names). The proposal is: Sunday afternoon, Westminster to Greenwich, leaving to at Bankside to hear St. Paul's bells from the water; Monday afternoon, Westminster to Kew, the gardens being now at their best.'

The following towers will be open for ringing:—

Sunday, June 5th: St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, 5 p.m.; St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, 5.15 p.m.; St. Giles', Cripplegate, 5.30 p.m.

Tuesday, June 7th: St. Paul's Cathedral, 6 to 7.30 p.m.; St. Clement Danes', Strand, 6 to 7.30 p.m.

On Saturday, June 4th, visitors will be welcomed at St. Mary's Church, Ealing, between 6 and 9 p.m.

SOCIAL MEETINGS.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

In the report for the year 1926, signed jointly by the Master and hon. secretary, and to be presented to the annual meeting next week, it is stated: The past year has been a satisfactory one from every point of view, the activities of the association in its various departments have been fully maintained, and the financial position as shown in the balance sheet gives every reason for satisfaction. The district meetings have been regularly held, and the attendance as a rule has been excellent. Our warm thanks are due, as in past years, to our kind friends in the various places of meeting who have contributed so largely to the social success of these gatherings. We are also glad to note the advance shown by the number of peals rung, and the quality of these performances.

Since the last report, the bells at Turner's Hill have been increased to eight by the addition of two trebles, the seventh and tenor at Rotherfield have been rehung in ball bearings, the five bells at Sturminster have been rehung with completely new fittings, and the bell frame strengthened, and at Christ Church, Eastbourne, the bell frame has been strengthened, fittings repaired, and the peal rehung in new bearings. All this work has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who are at present erecting a peal of eight (tenor 14 cwt.) at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Dyke Road, Brighton. It is anticipated that this new ring will be opened before the end of June.

At Lower Beeding, five bells have been recast and the eight rehung by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Croydon; and Messrs. Taylor, of Loughborough, have rehung the six at Easebourne.

Finally, we wish to urge all those members who have supported the association for many years to do their utmost to interest the younger members in its work and aims, for upon the coming generation will fall the duty of taking office in the association and carrying on its work. Especially we appeal to all to do their utmost by punctual and regular attendance to secure the highest possible standard of excellence in Sunday service ringing.

There is a balance on general account of £107 12s. 3d., an increase of £17 13s. 1d., and there is £50 in the reserve fund.

THE PEAL AT LEATHERHEAD.

The peal at Leatherhead on Saturday was especially arranged to celebrate Mr. W. Messam's 70th birthday, and he was heartily congratulated after the peal upon the way he rang.

Mr. Messam has been a ringer at this Surrey church practically all his life, and, although not ringing many peals, he is very regular in his attendance on Sundays.

This peal was Mr. Arthur Dean's 250th, and was his first attempt at peal ringing since his accident last February.

THE CLERGY'S AID.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Your kind reference in 'The Ringing World' of April 29th to the annual report of the Hertford County Association leads me to supplement further your most useful editorial on 'The Clergy's Aid.' The first rule of our association is: 1. 'Belfry Reform.' 2. 'The promotion of change ringing, and of social intercourse amongst change ringers, etc., etc.' Belfry reform was our first objective—ourselves. First things first. We sought to make the foundations sure before we began to build up a change-ringing society. We interpreted the fact that the belfry was a real part of the consecrated church, just as much as the chancel. It was not a smoke-room or gossip shop for the ringers above, whilst the people were praying below; but it was felt that the ringers should so conduct themselves that they could claim the presence of God with them in their work for the church. Hence my suggestion, enrol your members from your communicants. If this ideal is wholeheartedly pursued, it must in the end secure the sympathy and support of the parson. Personally, with few exceptions, I have always secured their practical sympathy, also that of the churchwardens. But, speaking generally, I am afraid we do not always keep in fullest touch with our clergy as representing county or diocesan associations. A chance district meeting perhaps is our only point of contact.

This leads me to offer a suggestion. Could not every incumbent of a church possessing a peal of bells be linked on to our associations as hon. members by the church itself paying the annual subscription, recognising it as a piece of propaganda work worthy of the support of the congregation? The various clubs of the parish are supported by the people; why not a definite subscription to the diocesan or county association which embraces the parish? It is up to our ringers upon Church Councils to bring the question forward. There are many clergy who cannot afford the annual subscription, and whose interest is consequently lost. If linked to our major associations they would receive notices of all meetings in their area, and the opportunity would be given them of learning to know more about ringers and ringing generally.

Another thought: Do the clergy as a body see 'The Ringing World'? Presumably a few who are ringers. Could the secretary of each local company see that a copy is passed on to their Vicar each week? If we want their sympathy and support in a larger measure, it is up to us ringers to do something to secure it, and I believe we shall get it if we show them that our ringing is not for mere selfish pleasure, but is an offering to the church to which we belong.

The situation to-day is one of thankfulness, for not only have the bells 'changed' into beautiful musical harmony, but the ringers themselves have changed. It is now becoming quite general for the service and address at the quarterly meetings. This fact alone must enlist the sympathy of the clergy. I trust these services will be multiplied in the future. We have a most happy fellowship in our ringing societies, one which I greatly value. May we make that fellowship more real, and our work more effective, by remembering it each week in prayer, so that our ideals may be accomplished.—Yours sincerely,

G. W. CARTMEL.

READING BRANCH.

The first quarterly meeting for 1927 of the above branch was held at Shiplake, on Saturday, May 7th. The secretary's spirits were very high, as the weather was good, and over 60 had signified their intention of being present. Members and friends came from all parts of the branch, travelling by private cars, motor and push bikes and a crowded bus.

Good touches were rung during the afternoon, both beginners and old hands getting a chance. An excellent tea was partaken of, kindly given by the Vicar (the Rev. J. C. Thomas) and churchwardens, at the conclusion of which a vote of thanks was passed by Mr. H. Egby, the oldest member, and seconded by Dr. Joyce, the youngest member in the art of bell ringing.

The bells were again set going until 7 p.m., when those who wished attended a service conducted by the Vicar.

Ringing was afterwards enjoyed until 9 p.m., everyone agreeing that the meeting had been a very successful one.

'THE RURAL PROBLEM.'

A PRACTICAL SUGGESTION.

To the Editor.

Sir,—With reference to your leader in a recent issue on 'The Rural Problem,' it appears to me that a good deal might be done to remedy the state of affairs to which you draw attention, and at the same time help to check the present steady depletion of the ranks of ringers by a closer co-operation between captains of bands throughout the country.

There are many men who, like Mr. Slater, go on year after year training beginners who drift away to other parishes after a short while. The number of potential ringers thus created must be considerable, and it is probably true to say that very few of these young fellows make themselves known to the captain of the band of the parish in which they settle, or join up with the nearest change-ringing band, as the case may be. This may be due to shyness, or fear of being deemed incompetent, or both, with the result that these beginners are lost to the Exercise for ever.

As an instance of this kind of thing, I should like to quote an example from my own tower. I recently heard, quite by accident, of a young fellow who had settled in the parish some months before, and who had a certain amount of practice at a Sussex tower. When I visited him and asked why he had not made himself known to us, he replied, 'Well, I did not like to intrude, as I can only ring the treble, or at most an inside bell to a plain course.' The fact that he could have continued his practices much better in the district of his adoption did not seem to occur to him.

I would, therefore, like to suggest that, whenever possible, captains of bands should make a point of notifying one another of the movements of these beginners, giving the new address where known. In cases where the nearest change-ringing tower is not known, the necessary information could be obtained from the secretary of the association covering the district, and in this way a lot of the time spent by instructors up and down the country in coaching beginners would not be entirely wasted, for some other tower or towers would be reaping the benefit of what they had done, and they in turn might receive assistance in like manner. This practice might be adopted with advantage in every case where a migrant ringer has not reached that stage of interest in the art when nothing on earth will keep him out of a belfry, no matter where he may land.—Yours faithfully,

FREDERICK G. WOODISS.

Sutton, Surrey.

OVERSEAL RINGER MARRIED.

On Easter Tuesday, the marriage took place of Mr. W. Brooker, of Overseal, and Miss B. M. Elverson, of Church Gresley, the ceremony being performed at the Parish Church, Gresley, by the Vicar (the Rev. E. E. F. Despard). The bride was a member of the Holy Trinity Church choir, Gresley, while the bridegroom has been a change ringer at St. Matthew's, Overseal, since the dedication of the bells in December, 1919, and a member of the Midland Counties Association (Burton District) since July, 1920. He has rung five peals, the last being at Appleby Magna, on February 12th of this year, when he helped the M.C.A. secretary (Mr. E. Morris) to add another Leicestershire tower to his long list and record the first peal on the bells.

After the wedding ceremony, the following ringers of St. Matthew's, assisted by Mr. A. E. Rowley, of Higham-on-the-Hill, who was on holiday in the village, rang a well struck 720 of Bob Minor in 25 mins.: W. Bosworth 1, L. Freeman 2, J. W. Cotton 3, C. Jewsbury 4, W. E. Clayfield 5, A. E. Rowley (conductor) 6. Touches of Doubles were afterwards brought round with the help of P. Grice and F. Boulstridge, of Netherseal.

The ringers wish Mr. and Mrs. Brooker success and happiness in their married life.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD. ORDER GIVEN FOR CATHEDRAL NEW BELLS.

The annual meeting was held at Lincoln on Saturday, April 30th. A glorious spring day brought quite a fair number of members together, but the lack of ringing facilities in the city no doubt kept the attendance a good deal below the average.

Owing to the work of restoration now proceeding in the vicinity of the Ringers' Chapel, this could not be used for the service, but the Dean of Lincoln (president of the Guild) very kindly arranged for this to be held in the North-West Chapel of the cathedral, and himself gave an intensely interesting address. Tea was arranged at the Co-operative Hall, to which about 100 members and friends sat down.

The Dean of Lincoln presided at the business meeting, supported on the platform by the Rev. H. Law James (Master), and Mr. F. F. Linley (vice-president and treasurer).

The following officers were unanimously re-elected, viz.: The Very Rev. the Dean of Lincoln, president; the Rev. H. Law James, Master; Mr. F. W. Stokes, hon. secretary; Mr. F. F. Linley, hon. treasurer.

The Rev. H. Law James, the Rev. H. T. Parry, Mr. G. Chester and Mr. Rupert Richardson were elected representatives on the Central Council for the ensuing three years.

Referring to the cathedral bells, the Dean stated that restoration work was now proceeding in the south-west tower. Unfortunately, they had found this tower (at all events in the lower stages) in a far worse state than the north-west tower was before restoration. He hoped, however, that before a year had passed the work would be completed. The order had been given to Messrs. Taylor and Co. for the four additional bells. The Memorial Fund was now sufficient to defray the cost of these, and there would still be a small sum in hand, which it was proposed to devote towards the cost of a memorial tablet bearing the names of those members of the Guild who lost their lives in the Great War, to be erected in the Ringers' Chapel. The twelve bells will eventually be hung at a much lower level than the present peal of eight—a better position both as regards the stability of the tower and as regards the sound of the bells in the near vicinity of the cathedral.

By kind permission of the various incumbents, the bells of the two six-bell towers in the city (St. Peter-at-Gowts and St. Botolph's) were open for ringing in the afternoon, and again in the evening, when the eight bells of Washingborough Church were also available.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD. GUILDFORD DISTRICT.

A district meeting was held at West Clandon on Saturday, May 7th, over thirty members being present. The bells were available at 3 p.m., and a service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Sir John Herschel, who also gave an address. The Guild form was used, and Lady Herschel presided at the organ. After tea, which was held in the Church Hut, a short business meeting took place, presided over by the Rector.

It was decided to hold a meeting at Frensham on Whit Monday, if it could be arranged.

A resolution was also carried requesting the secretary to write and congratulate the Master of the Guild (Mr. G. Williams) on his attaining his 70th birthday.

The meeting broke up after the usual votes of thanks to the Rector, organist and the ladies who kindly arranged the tea. Further ringing was then indulged in, both at Clandon and Merrow, under the guidance of the Ringing Master of the district (Mr. A. C. Hazelden).

WINCHESTER DISTRICT.

A quarterly meeting of the Winchester District was held at Stockbridge on Saturday, May 7th. During the afternoon and evening, the peal of six was kept going to Doubles and Minor, as were those of King's Somborne. Tea and meeting were held at the Town Hall, presided over by the Rector, Rev. G. Uppington, members being present from Bishopstoke, North Stoneham, King's Somborne, Hursley, Winchester and the local band.

On the motion of the Rector, the members stood in silence for a few moments as a mark of respect to the late Rev. C. E. Matthews (vice-president of the Guild), who passed away in February.

The following were elected hon. members: Mr. H. Johnson, Marsh Court, Stockbridge; Rev. G. E. H. Theophilus, King's Somborne; Mr. C. B. Scott, Manor Farm, Up Somborne; Mrs. Milburn, Compton Manor, King's Somborne.

The King's Somborne band were elected members, as also were the Upham band and three probationers from Hursley, and three from Stockbridge.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Wynne, of Hermit Lodge, Stockbridge, for her kindness in entertaining the members to tea.

On the proposition of Mr. Andrews, Mrs. Wynne was elected an hon. member for the year without fee. Thanks were accorded to the Rector for presiding and for the use of the bells, and also to the Vicar of Somborne.

Mr. J. H. Shepherd, of Swindon, arrived soon after 6 p.m. to report success of the peal at Winchester Cathedral in honour of the Master's 70th birthday.

The next meeting will be held at Sherfield English on Saturday, August 27th, notice of which will be given in 'The Ringing World.'

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

SOUTH-WESTERN DIVISION AT CHIGWELL.

The visit of the South-Western Division of the Essex Association to Chigwell was favoured with a glorious day, over fifty members and friends putting in an appearance during the afternoon and evening. The bells were set going to Kent Minor, followed by touches of Plain Bob, Grandsire Doubles, Cambridge Surprise and London and Wells Surprise spliced, till 4.30 p.m., when those present attended the service conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. M. W. Smith. Tea followed at the King's Head Hotel, said to be the original Dickens' 'Maypole.' At the subsequent meeting, two new honorary members and two new ringing members were elected, and Shenfield selected as the place for the next gathering.

The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for granting the use of tower and bells, Mr. Witlock for accompanying the service on the organ, and the local steepkeeper, Mr. J. Lucas, for having everything in readiness.

The bells were again set going, and touches in various methods rung till 9 p.m., whilst several wended their way across the fields, now in their beauty, for a pull at Chigwell Row, on the grand peal of six in that tower, which in spite of their not having been rung for over two years were kept going to Cambridge Surprise and Plain Bob till late in the evening.

SOUTH-EASTERN DIVISION ARRANGES PRACTICE MEETINGS.

A meeting of the South-Eastern Division was held at Boreham on Saturday, April 30th. There was ringing during the afternoon, and a service was held, at which the Rev. A. E. Hull, Vicar, officiated. Tea was kindly provided at the Queen's Head by the Vicar and churchwardens, and this was followed by the usual business meeting.

Seven new members were elected, and the election of one non-resident member was confirmed. Rettendon was selected for the next meeting in June.

The Hon. Secretary (Mr. P. Timson) announced that united practices had been arranged to be held at Great Baddow May 9th, Chelmsford May 17th, Writtle May 25th, Boreham June 2nd, and Widford June 10th. These practices have been arranged to help on several of the younger ringers in the division, and further arrangements will be made to hold practices at other towers.

Mr. C. H. Howard (Master) said this was a good idea, and he believed other divisions were adopting a similar plan.

Votes of thanks were proposed to the Vicar and churchwardens for permitting the meeting to be held at Boreham and for providing the excellent tea, at which about 25 members were present.

Touches were afterwards rung on handbells and the tower again visited. Members present represented Writtle, Maldon, Chelmsford, Broomfield, Springfield, Rettendon, Great Baddow, Braintree, Black Notley and the local company. Mr. Lewis Green, who is home from South Africa for eight months, was also present. Owing to the death of his father that afternoon, Mr. G. Green, District Master, was unable to attend.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

MORE MEMBERS WANTED.

A meeting of the Ely District was held at Over, on Saturday, May 14th, when members were present from Cambridge, Chatteris, Dry Drayton, Godmanchester, Hemingford Abbots, Huntingdon, Long Stanton, Stapleford, Trumpington and the local band. The service, held in the Parish Church, was taken by the Rev. H. B. Woolley (the Vicar being absent), who gave a very interesting address.

Tea was provided in the school, 20 members being present. On the proposition of Mr. A. E. Austin, seconded by Mr. A. J. Abram, a vote of thanks was accorded the ladies (Mrs. F. Ginn, Mrs. W. Ginn, Mrs. B. Wayman, assisted by Mrs. G. Gleave and Mrs. F. Warrington) for arranging the excellent tea.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar for the bells and to the Rev. H. B. Woolley for taking the service.

It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Stapleford, and, if possible, to couple Sawston the same day. Notice will be given in due course.

Mr. A. G. Rivers supported this proposal, and hoped that members would try to further the interests of change ringing and so get more members into the association.

The business meeting over, the bells were set going once more, the methods rung being Plain Bob, Oxford, Kent and Woodbine Treble Bob, London, York and Cambridge Surprise, several ringing their first courses in the methods. A well-struck 720 Kent (15 bobs), rung by F. G. Gleave 1, C. W. Cook 2, A. W. T. Ginn 3, F. C. Ginn 4, A. J. Ginn 5, F. Warrington (conductor) 6, brought a successful meeting to a close.
