DIOCESAN ADVISERS.

Diocesan Advisory Committees are not an unmixed blessing. They have an immense amount of influence, which, of course, they ase according to their lights; but the difficulty is that in the case of bells their lights are not always backed by knowledge. In Suffolk a recent action by the Advisory Committce for the Diocese of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich has caused the Sufoll: Guild to enter an indignant protest. The committee, according to report, advised the recasting of Cavendish bells without taking proper steps to find out whether this was the best course to pursue. As a rule, if there is any trouble, it is because when recasting is thought by the experts to be necessary Advisory Committees are reluctant to acquiesce; but here the boot appears to be on the other foot. Whether that is so or not - we are not fully acquainted with the facts-it is, as a general principle, a dangerous thing to advise on a technical matter without First consulting expert opinion if it is available. For this reason eflorts have been made in recent years to secure the appointment on every Diocesan Advisory Committee of someone with a practical knowledge of bells and bell ringing to assist the committees. While in a number of dioceses the authorities have gladly accepted this proffered help, there are unfortunately some of those responsible who still prefer to ignore the representations of the ringing organisations.

Bells are a subject which laymen know very little about, and there have been some conspicuous examples of mistakes being made in regard to lsells from failure to call in competent advice. In several dioceses, however, a leading ringer now has a seat on the Advisory Comnittee, and in others the committees make a practice of calling in the opinion of an independent authority from the diocesan ringars' organisation whenever they have a bell restoration or augmentation under consideration. Such action has been of advantage to all concerned, because the hands of local and diocesan bodies have been strengthented by practical views and this independent opinion has often been helpful also to the bell founders who have made recommendations as to necessary work. It is, therefore, all important that the county and diocesan guilds of ringers should, where there has as yet been no recognition, continue to impress upon the church authoritics the value of having at their disposal advice from someone with a personal knowledge of bells and bell ringing. It is to be regretted that there are still some clergy who decline to realise that a ringer can know anything about bell hanging, and that there are in high places some who, either from ignorance or perversity,

RINGER'S WEDDING.

On Saturday last, at the Clureh of St. Mary-the-Virgin, Shenfield, Essex, a very pretty wedding was solemnised, Mr. Tohn C. Furlong, oue of the local ringers, being married to Miss Y. [K. F. Leggett. Both the bride's father and brother are members of the Sherfield Guild. In a short address, the Reclor (Rev. J. W. Lewis), who parformed the coremony, made special reference ta ringing and ringers, and snid that every Sunday the bridegroom and lis friends took their places in the belfry and genf forth fie call to worshin, reminding everyone who heurd the bells that there is a church, hat thare is $n$ serviee, and, above all, that there is a Goil. Whan the bridal pair left the charch, the orgarist (Mis: S. J. Jinmell, A.E.O.O.) played Mendelssohn's 'Wedding Maroln; and the wells rang ont to 350 of Grandsirc Doubles by the hridegroom's fellow-ringers.

Later in the afternoon six ringers from the district rang a peal of Bob Minor in celetration of the event, with best wishes for tho future of the bride and bridegroom.

SHROTON RINGER'S DEATH.

It is with deep feerel we have to record the death of Mr. Feliz Arnold (captan of the Shrolon beltangers, and also instruetor in clange ringiag 1, who passed away on Christmas Day at the age of 51 years, after $k$ short illuoss of one week. His dieath cast a gloom over the purish as well as in the nelghbourhood, as he was well known in most of the towers in North Dorset. Decensed leaves a widow and one sou to monry their loss.
In addition to being a bellinger, Mr. Arnold was also a member of the church choir for many years.
The interment took place on Thursday wook, amidat every mark of respoct. The church was crowded. Rov. Canon Bower, Rector of Chilt Okeford, officined is the absence of the Rector (Rev. R. E. Gundry) lisough illuess.
The service was fully choral. The hells were mung half-mufted before the service, aurl open after the service, as at a recent funeral deceased was heard to remark that he should like lihe bells rung open if it were for him.
There were many boautiful floral thibutes, including one from tha Sbroton ringers and choir iu the shape of a bell, alse wreaths from [werne Minster and Child Okeford ringers. Ringers were prosent at the service from Child Okeforl, Fontwell Magnt, Iwerme Minster and olhers.

A GOOD OLD CUSTOM.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING AE ECCLESTIELD.

Eeciosfield's old custom of having a ringers' supper at Gluistmas time was kept ap on Saturday, December 22nd, when about 40 ringers and friends met at this tomuship on the outskirts of Stofliefd, visitors being present frons Sheffield Cathedral, All Saints' and St. Mame's companies.
Farious residents in the Lownship, who take a keen interest both in the bells and ringers, supplied the wherewithal for the meal, their generosily being evideneed by the amount of food placed at the disposal for the party, two legs of mutton, a fine piece of beef, potatoes, greens, seasoned pudding, Christmas pudding and rum sauce, followed by cheese and celery, providing $\pi$ repnst good enough to satisfy even the keenest of appelites.
During the afternoon a good peal of Treble Bob Major had beon suncessfully brought round, after which the band retired to the Black Buli Hotel and joined the wailing friends to partake of the supper gerved under the guidanee of Hostess Jackson. The Vicar (Rev. A. Pawson, M.A.) and the churchwardens were present, and after evaryone lad had their appotite appeased the tables were cleared in preparation for a jolly evening.

A good coupse of Grandsire Caters, followed by a capital course of Stedman Cinguea on the handbells, opened the proceedings. Then followed items by yarious soloists, each one being greeted with 'encore, particularly the visitor who is a member of the Orpheus Male Voice Choir. Especial mention should also be made of the two gentlemen who sang 'Grandfather's Clock' and 'Farmer's Boy,' which gave the audience an opportunity to test their vocal powers. The carols, composed by the late Dr. Galty, which heve become a special fenture with the Eeclesheld Christmas suppers, werc lustily surg, but the "tit-bit " of the evening was the entertainment provided by "Professor' Sayle with his mouth organs. One has heart of a piano heing made to 'talk," but 'Professor' Sryle and his month organs made his audience 'speechless,' so astonished were they at the intricate pieces he played with searcely a sign of movement aither of his mouth of mouth argan whilst playing.
One of the wisitors thanked tho Vicar and the chtreliwardens for their presence, also the artistes fol all they had done to make such

EASTERN DISTRICT'S SUCOESSFUL BEHTING.

The quarterly meeting of the Eastern District was held at Thorne on Saturday, December 15th, and despite the small attendance was thoroughly 日uecessful, the bells (eight) being rung to the various standari methods. A short service was conducted by the reaerable Vicar of Thorne (Canon J. J. Littlewood), who has heid the yicariate for close on fifty years. He will shorily celebrate lis gith birtbday, and still retains all his facalties to a remarkabla degrea. Ho gave an informal addreas, atud pleaded wilh ringers to attent an esrly celebration of the Holy Communion, in lieu of attending tho services for which they rang.
Tea was gerved in the Mission Room to twenty members, repsesenting towere in Arksey, Yoole, Femingbrough, Fuil, Pontefract; Solby, Saaith and Thorne, and was followed by the business meeting, the Vicar oceupying the chail-An apology for absence was received from Lhe Ringing Master. Mr. W. Middleton (Beverley).
The anaual meeting will be held al lonicfract (All Saints'), in March by kind invitation of the Vicar and local company.
One new member was elected, Mr. R. Grice, of Hemingbrough.
A unamimous hearty voto of limanks to the Viear and Mr , O. H. Thorley for the usual arrangemmats concluded a very harmonious meeting, the Vicar personally wishing every member present "a happy Ohristmas,' and bidding all gootl-byc, as he retives shortly.

The risging room limat been thoroughly cleaned and decapated, new carpets laid, amd the lighic ing conditions vastly improved. Tu Messrs. Lewis and Huddleston. The Viear expressed his delighl at boing ahle to be present, and with the previous speaker, he hoped that their custom of loaving a ringers" sapper weulf be carried on year by fear.

The evcuing passed all too quickly, but, like all other goard things, had eventually to come to an end, so with the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne, the pirly broke up, cacl extending to the others the geason's greetings, and honing for an good a time at next year's do

To the Edifor．

Sir－As ous of the committee azmointed to revise the College Youths＇laiest book of rules，perhaps I might be allowed，thaugh unofficially，to make a few comments in reply to the interestimg letter fromi the pen of＇Collegian＇which you have just published．

The association of Amable＇s name with the peal rung at St． Sepulchre＇s，Suow Hill，in 1690，certainly causes a difficulty io arise， and it is a very real one for tho very reasons which your corre－ spondent points out．He will be interested to know that it was remarkel upon by me two or three years ago，and that it was the subject of some debate amongst the committeo before，at my recom－ mendation，tho lines on page 6 were allowed to go forward，i．e．，＂It is stated in the records，＇ele．
The commitiee woro only instructed to bring out another edition of the Rule Book；like our predecessore，we used the data and gnaterial to hand．In one of the society＇s books，which was rebound and probably pertly rewritten about 100 years ago，there is an in troduction closely writteu aud running to two or three pages．The Folume is called，＇Copy Pal Book，No．I．，and apart from deli－ werate falsification this introduction looks remarkably genuine．For a part of its statements it purports to reproduce from MSS 100 years carlier，and，so far as 1 am aware，it has never been chat lenged．It is from this that the particular＇s on page 6 are twhen．
The details about the peal are intoresting in more than one way． They are fully given－method，time，changes，the band，and how they stood，who conducted and composed，and the dato thus：＂On the 7th of January，1689－90．＇The latter seems to favour its genera］ veracity，for it way the way of writing when the＇Old Gugle of dating the firsl quarter of a year was in vogue．It thus looks like a genuine iranseription，for a hundred years later they would have used＇Jambary 7ali，1630．＇
I＇lie adnuission of the peal will not，of course，remove the difi－ culty ahout Armable．I suggesf that he was far older than his contemporaries thought；perliaps a well－pyeserved and wizorous old man，at a time when all wore wigs．（I believe that when Mr． Daniel senrehed lie Register at St．Bride＇s，he found no details save that of the interment．）Failing this， 1 woulrl harard 1 hat jn the several transcriptions，Anomble＇s name wate ndded as conduetor and composer，where the original hat omitted to stute these，nad＂hear－ say，like a rolling snowball，had eventually added what was deemed the only possible name，and ineidentally overlooked the age diffi－ culty．There are other solutions one might add，but such may woll be left to the ingenvity of your readers．Research may yet help us， hut so far we are at a standstill，for a reference ta snowdoa and Oshome toes uat help us．The former caste doubts upon the peal， fund the latter suggests that it is only a presumption liased uposs no record．All，however，fllow that the peal of Cingues at Sti Pride＇s is the darliest resorded peal．If this be so，the＇College Foutles＇由ecm to have sprung into fame and strangth，nuch as Minerva sprang from tho head of Jove，fully armed for either field or Coun－ cil．Youtz faithfully，

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL BELLS

Te the Editor．

Dear Sir，－Permit，me to trespass on your valuable space and eath how much I appresiate the wondertul work which has been suecess－ fully accomplished in restoring the south－west tower of Lincoln Cathedral and the augmeatation of the bells to ar ring of twelve．

The restoration work has been a stupendous task－one cnnoob cealise until a personal inspection has been mafe how stupendons the task has heen．We are told that 10,502 holes－equal to five and a halt miles in lengh－have boen drilled into the walls ：ad sur－ counds of the soulh－wast tower，sind 19,280 gallons of gronl－in weight appoximately 84 tons－have heen Howed in．Mr．Confrey， clerk of the works，bas done his work well，and deserves every con－ gratulation．

The isells，I venture to say，sro tho mone of pertection．The new trebles are sweet and clear，and ean he liensul ititinelly when dodg－ ing with the tenors．Our thanks are dne to Messts．Taylar and Co． for what is surely the hest light ring of twolve in the country．

The blocking of the louvres and ihe colstruction of a lantern roul has proved a minceesful oxperinment．This，however，is not a new idea，for it was tried with suceess at．Bradford Cathedral in 1921．I wonder if the Dean and Chapter of York coulif be prevailed upor to make the same axperiment with the south－west tower of the Minsterf The truly megnifieent ring of twelve in that tower could then be beard to greater advantage，and perlaps the alleged＇nasal twang＇ would be eliminated．－Yours truly，

A YORKSHRRE TYKE IN LINOOLN．

This means that the tonos ate in $2: 3$ in lead－icad 17856342 ；and thal to bring up rounts from this hent－laead it must the transposod head will，of coulse，result in rounds：and so on．Incidentally，we can observe that the transpositions work both ways；i．e．，rounds will result if $2 / 3$ be trensposed by $2 / 4$ ，or $2 / 4$ by $2 / 3 ; 3 / 5 \times 4 / 6$ ，or $4 / 6$ $\times 3 / 5$ ，and so on．

In the orthodox operations（ $b, d$ and e）we transpose the rows back to rounds，and by the resultants we transpose certain plain course lead－heads，which produce tenors－together 「alse heads．These，in turn，are transposed by eertain plain course lead－heads，aud the false course ends are the results．
In the abridged Eystem we go direct from the rows to operation （ 0 ）Instead of using rounds in transposing lack the rows，wo use， as the Hidden Frotor，the lead－hoad which will bring up the courge ond from the Fend－lead indicated hy the＂positiona par in onn combination．Them by the resultant from this Fidaen Factor we Iranspose tho lead－head indicuted by the＇coursing pair＇in the can－ binailon，and we produce the false course end．

I＇lis must first be applied to every combination obtained foom the downward treatment of the two rows．The procedure is thits ：－ Rows $5-26$ gave us，downwards，the combination（1）＂68 in $2 / 3$ ．＂ The table＂RST＇（above）tells us that＇2／3＇will como＂home＇if trensposed by now＇ $2 / 4$ ．＇Then the Hidelen Factor＇which must be applied to row 5 is the $2 / 4$ lead－head．Read 18674523 in row 5 ，and under，in row 26，we slail find 15372486 as the resultant．Then，by this resultant，transpose the lead－head indicated by tho coursing pair＇of the combination，viz．，68．The $6 / 8$ lead－head（14263857）， trunsposed by the resultant（15372486），gives 13254678 ．
The caursing pair in a combination will indicate the lead of the plain course，and the positional pair will indicate the lead of the false course．Theretore，from the shove，we deduce that the $2 / 3$ lend of course 32546 will be false against the $6 / 8$ lead of course 23456. Or，shortly put， $\operatorname{PC}(6 / 81$ has $32546(2 / 3)$

We must now deal in a similar manner with the other downward combination，（2） 46 in $3 / 5$ ．The PC lead－lead $3 / 5$ is brought＇homo ${ }^{3}$ by 4／6．Thercfore，the Hiddna Fackor in row 5 is 16482735．Under this，in row 26，we lind 13258764 as a resultant．Then the coursing pair（46）lead－head 16482735，iransposed by the resultuit（13258764）， gives 14685378 ；and we deduce that PG（4／6）has $46253(3 / 5)$.
Ithe conbinations（3） 23 in $6 / 8$ ，and（4） 35 in $4 / 6$ ，from the up－ watd treatment of fows 5－26，are now fealt with in exactly the same way，except that the Hirden fiuctar iz read in row 26 ，and the resultank bll row 5.
To bring $6 / 8$ and $4 / 6$ homm，we use $5 / 7$ and $3 / 5$ respentively，as the Fidelen Factorg is row 26 ．The resultunts，from raw 5 ，are，first 16847523 and then 18762435 ．By these wa franspose lead－heads 23 anil 35 respectively，giving 13254678 and 14625378 ；nud we deduce that $\mathrm{PC}(2 / 3)$ has $32546(6 / 8)$ ，ant that $\mathrm{PC}(3 / 5)$ has $46253(4 / 6)$.
This，however，ought to be umecessary，as the formation of the false course ends from the upward treatment should be obtainable frum those of the downard

If any two rows be transposed back io rounds in the orthodox way，we find that the proving values of the resultant false haads will enth give the ather．This must he so，because rounds is the Eidden Factor which produces both，and it menns that eas false head，when transposed by the other，will result in the romads row．Agaig，if we fake any two lead－leads of the plain course and transpose each by the obher，how operations will result in the same row，viz．，a third lead－head of the plait contse；and to mather which two we take，we cannot get away frotn Elis particular course．Then our two 「alse heads，which produee the same row whem transposed by each other， may be presumed to helong to n mythical cotirse，of which rounds is a tlivd lead－head

Now，hy the false lieats protuced in the orthodox way，we trans－ pose plain course leathends，and the results，in turn，are transposed by piain course lead－heads，in our soarch for tenors－together false course ends．Then，the falae heads from any two rows being relaten， by their proving values，to the same thing（vounds），and the trans－ positions being boumal lyy this same thing（the plain course end－ rounds），it is reasomble to assume that the false course ends，from the downward and apward treatments of any two rows，should bo relater？，one to another，in some way．Up to the present this rela－ tionship has eluded me，fund the upward treatment of the two rows， in search of the formation of the false course ends，appears to be unavoidable．Incidentally，we may note，in the cases of the particu－ lar false course emeds here produced，that the proving value of each results in itself．They are what Mr．Baker terms＂simple transposi－ tion rows＇；and apparently，if the false course ends from the down－ ward troatment happen io possess this feature，those from the up－ ward will be identieal with the fenors in reversed positions，as slown by the reversal of the ormbinations，
There now remain the four combinations from rows $7-28$ ，i．e．，these which come from the alteration due to the lead－end，viz．， 35 in $4 / 6$ ， 23 in $6 / 8,46$ in $3 / 5$ ，and 68 in $2 / 3$ ．There appears to be no direet connection between the formation of the course ends fom rows 5－26， and those from rows $7-28$ ．I an convinced that thete is a visible relatiouship，or，at least，there should be，as I hope to show，but I am tuable to give it point．

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES.

To the Editor.
Sir,- $\mathbf{I t}$ is perliaps unnecessary after my last letter, but may I assure Mr. J. W. Parker that I never dleamt of 'attacking' Mr. Bankes Jhmes' arrangoment of Cnmbridge Miner: yor did my colleagues uf the Methots Gammittee. On the conirary, we propose to yive in the new Minar Collection no number of these arrangements applicable to all Treble Bob Methods. Whal I wanted to do was to urge that hoth the arrangements of Grandsire Doubles (known as Morris' and Pitman's) are legitimate and ullowable, and also to point nut that the wording of Mr. Parker's resolution passed at Hereford does not correctly express cither lis intertion of that of the Central Council, and should therefore be revised.-Yours truly,
J. ARMIGER IROLLOPE.

MORRIS' ARRANGEMTNT OF MOUBLES.

Defr Sir,- I have read with unhiassed interest the various opinions and arguments that have so far beon brunght to the notice of your readers, and being personally in agreement with your editorial remark, that 'in debating a question of this kind all sides of the subject should be ventilated, I purpose to enter more fully into the merits of the two arrangements of Gravdsire Doubles in quostionthe main issue-which, heving becn subjected to a prejudiced attack, has conveniently been lost sight of.

A much more appropriate and courteous manner of refurning to the subject this week would havo been a hiting reply to the facts and contantions set out in my letter of tice S1h mst. Annexce are the lend-end of (1) a spliced 240 on Morris' plan, and (2) a spliced 240 -n Mr. Pitman's plan:-

Marris' Arrangement.

An examination of Morria arrangement will show that the 24 leadends cumprise the 24 possible variations that can be produced by wriling down 2345, and pricking out the extent. Now consider what this entails. A more critical examination will show that this renders it impossible for any of the changes to repeat in the self-same conscousive order throughout the whole arrangement. Hence, two alike changes never occur at the same stroke. Consequently you get 120 true and complete changes at handstroke, and the same 120 true and complete changes at backstroke, simultaneously throughout.

Now vefer for moment to Mr. Pitman's arrangement. It will be seen thaf, the lead-ends do not comprise the 24 rows previously referred to, but repeat with no less than five lead-ends. This compels the changeg to repent in the selfemme conseative order, so that in a romplete 240 on this plan, you do not get 120 different changes at. handstroke nor 120 different changes at backstroke, hul a repetition of the amme changes at each respective stroke.
These are the main features of the two arrangements, jet both are true and complete in themselves.
You ask me to permit you to say that in Mr. Pitman's nrvangemeut the bells strike in 120 different orders bolore beginning the mext six-sere; but the absurdily of such urgument is apparent to anyone who refers to the lead-cads marked 合 in which rounds constitute the second lead-end as well as the lasb lead-end of the six-score. 'ithis fact farther proves that if after starting from rounds you have wo go two leads past the six-score and before rounds are again produced, Hur 120 diferent orders cannot have been gove through iu the first six-score, as you clam they have ween.... I hope that I lave mude the situation clearer, and, in conclusion. I will ask your vearlers to arbitrate betweos my contention that hoth arraugements, being perfectily true in themsclves, should hoth be allowed: and the editor's view that one should be recognised and the other suppressed. I manst express myself in complete agreement wits Mr. Erlgat Guisc, that the Conlral Council's decisions slound be aceepled as lamding on suels matters, but I still mainiain 1 liat you cannot reaudiate aus ome of the arrangements in ibis entegory truo in itself without discarding ill. LESLIE W. G. MOIRRIS.
Tho fact that Mr. Morris has, in his arrargoment, 120 landstrokes all different, and 120 backstrokes all different does not, in our opinion, make his 120 s true. Wha do not test the truth of a peal by doaling separately with liandstrokes and backstrokes; if cither is false with the other the peal is falso. Moreover, wo see no specinl merib in a false 120 morely because you lirst ring a nurnber of changes in a eertain order and then ring them in the reverse oder. Wr. Pitman's 240, as quoted by Mr. Morris runs in true consecutive 120's, if-as has always been pointed oul-rounds is considered ns the first row.... ED. 'R. W."]

Dear Sir-It sems as weh to point nut that allhough Pitmaris 240 of Doubles and Bankes James 5,040 of Gamblidge Minor are passing througl a very hot climate, ihey are still upheld by the Cenlral Council, as was made quite clear at Eereford. Yours faith fully,

RINGERS WANTED IN AMERICA

To the Editor.
Dear Six,-I should like to ask, through the columns of "The Ringing World, of anyone can Īurnish ws with the names emul addresses of any ringers who lave come out to U.S.A. in the wicinily of Boston, Mass., so that we may get inlo touch with them, and get $n$ band together if possible att times, as only very little ringing js done now ill the city.
Perlaps some are contemplating coming out here: if so, this part of the country is- an industrial area where work of different kinds can be found.

The only regular ringing doue here now is at froton. Sctuoch, bJ the boys thare, every Sunday. These bells were relung in ball liearings in the spring of this year, and are greatly improved. So now, if we want to have a ring, we get up carly and dirwo 40 miles to do it Any ringer thinking of coming to U.S.A. slould Writo to Mr. R. Newton, clo Merchants' National Bank, Boston, Mass, who will be pleased to answer any letters and give any information ronits conditions, ete.-Tours truly,

LIGHTING THE TOWER

To the Editor

Hear Sir,-The following description of the electric lighting of Thuro Cathedral bell tower, where we have recently clanged over from gas, may be useful to the Rev. H. Drake.

For use on practice and other nights, when the general lighting is not in use, a switch is placed inside the entrance door, with a light in buch a position at to effectivaly light the area between tho entrance door and the ringing chamber stairway door. In the winding atairway to the ringing clamber ( 30 ft .) are three 20 watt. vacuum lamps, controlled by a two-way switch at the boltom, and snother ut the top at the stairs. In the 18 ft . sguare ringing chambor itself is it 100 watt gas-filled peerl Osram bulb, contained in ant enamelled G.J.C. reflector, $18 f$. from the floor, which gives an even distributions of light round the raom. It is, of courge, a centre light

In the circular stairway from the ringing clamber to the helfry (ahmot G0ft.) are four 20 watt. vactum lamps, also with a rwo-way swich int lop und botiom. The space between the ringing chamber rons and tho belfry proper (which serves as a sound muffier and a stareroom for oil, tools, ropes, ele.), contains a 40 watt gas-filled bulh in in ordinary enamelted conical shade. The belfry itself is lit by means of at 100 watt gas-filled lamp in a reflector similar to that in the ringing chamber, suspended from the centre, and abouk 15 ft . above the luell frame. For lecal lighting there is a portable hamp, 40 wati vacuum, on a length of atrong workshop flex, lung enougli to reach to any part of the bells or frame.
Fointa to remember are that the tower circuit must be entiraly indupentent of the ehurch circuit (on a separate meter preferred). Switches for the bell chnmber mutt he placed so that lights can be furned on before one enters. Hore, too, a geacral light is a necessity for safely, a linad lamp only being quite insufficient. Two-way switehes at top and bottom of eircular siairs are not ouly very conveniment, but a mota of economy.

Tho iden! to aim at is aderjuate lightivg epenly distributed gnd diffused over the required rrea, and especially in the ringing chamber the source of light must be high enough to be out of direct line with tho ringers' syes. The 20 watt bulb at 10 ft , suggested geems to mie to be very inadequale and too low. Switches at the bothom of stairs for lights in the hell chamber, ete., are not to be recommended, us they are apt to be turned onf, and, nathing visible happening, loft on, the brightly-lit lewvers being a source of wouder to the pablic and curiasity to the night policeman. Switehes should be as local as possible.

An nlteruative method of lighting the ringing clamber is to have tou' hulbs, one at anch carner, high up, and fitted with 'Gecoray,' of similat, raflectors; or, for a centre fiting, a totally enclosed opal bowl the ordinary open-top type, being at beatiful trup for dust and dead flies, is noli to be recommended.

Flowever, if the lighting company can install a eystem which is eflicient but avoids glare and sharp ahadows, and is out of clireci fine of sight, there will not be much to camplain of.-Yours faithfully,
F. MURRAY ROBERTS.

DTOCESAN ADVISOLYY COMMI'IEES ACTION.
A meebing was held at Fintlosham nn December 15th, at which a mit very large but very teprosentative atiendance was reconded. Thesre were hombers from Essex as well as North-East Suffolk, and ungod aleal of useful prachico was put in, hoth on the bower bella and on handbeils, the latier being a feature of meetings fa this neighbobthond. Hea was - at bie feorge, and at the moeting afterwards, with Mr. Chas. Sedgeloy in the chair, there were two points of outshatring intoret. A now ring of six hells it Rushmere, on the outskirts of a baud of chango ringers flere.

Tho ohlet matter was the caso of the Cavendish bells. Apparently theso bells had been sent away to be recast, by advice of the Dioensan Advisory Commitiee, without proper steps having been taken to lind otil whether his wna lin best eonrse to take. Much indignation was expressed that the Advisory Committee should have aeted in his way, when there is a diocesan organisation ready to help then from falling into such mistakes. An Advisory Committce which adyisg abotut maters whimh it does not understanct, is surely in dibdrabeo rather hinn a help to Chareh work.

THE LETTER AND THE SPIRIT.

Those who have followed the controversy over what should constitute a peal of Ainor or Doubles will be interested in the suggestions put forward in another colum by the Rev. E. S. Powell. He offers for consideration certain definitions out of which might eventually be evolved 'conditions' which all would be prepared to accept, and doubtless these proposals will be fully discussed. Experience, however, shows that what we want to be clear about is not only the form of words, but the interpretation which is to be put upon them. It has been obvious in this discussion that what, at first sight, appeared to be perfectly plain Englist has been construed by diflerent people to have dianctrically opposite meanings. We are inclined to think that this has arisen, mot so much from any ambiguity of language, but because there are two opposite purposes in view. There are those-and we imagine them to be in a majority-who desire, when a peal of (say) Minor is rung, that it shal? consist of consecutive true extents. There are others who, as Mr. Willson aptly puts it in his letter, are satisfied with anything as long as it comes right in the end.

At the moment the conditions required by the Central Council for peals of Minor and Doubles are those which were adopted at Hereford. The essential point of the motion that was then passed is that the 720 's in peals of Minor and the izo's in peals of Doubles shall be true and complete, and that no row (rounds or otherwise) shall be repeated in any 720 or 120 respectively. Mr. Powell suggests as an alternative definition that ' compositions al Minor must be in 720 's and not in smaller touches; compositions of Dqubles must be in 120 's and not in smaller touches, and these 720's and 120's are to be true in themselves.' If this is intended to mean what it appears to mean, that the consecutive rows in each 720 or 120 included in a peal must be true and that any splicing must be in true round blocks, then, subject, perhaps, to the modification which has for many years existed in the conditions for peals of Minor, that 'a peal may be lengthened by the addition of any number of 720 's fulfilling the same conditions, with or without one touch of less than $720^{\circ}$ (and similarly with the 120 's), there seems little objection to be raised to it by those who support the spirit of the Hereford motion.

But what is to be read into the expression in the third section of Mr. Powell's suggestion, which refers to "groups of 720's or 120 's'? If it is to mean such combinations of three $720^{\prime}$ 's as in the Rev. E. B. James' Cambridge in which (counting rounds as the first row) three extents, each of $\% 20$ consecutive true rows, are rung, well (Continued on paga 18 .)

and good; if, however, the object is 10 cover the admission of a combination of permutations made up of cach of the 720 changes rung three times, without observance of any rule by which each of the three blocks of consccutive 720 's must be true in itseff, then the Council and the Exercise must decide a matter of important principle. They must decide the plain question, what is and what is not to be recognised as a true peal of Minor or Doubles? Hitherto the standard laid down has been that the extents must be in 720 or 120 consecutive true rows. It is for them to say whether anything lower is, at this date, desirable. When the Council next debate the subject there must be no sophistry. Any definition which is proposed must be made perfectly plain in its spirit, as well as in the letter.

THE FIRSI PERFORMANCES OF HOLT'S ORIGINAL.

THE NORWICH RECORDS.

In onf jusue of December 2lat it was stated that the first recorled performance of Holt's Origmal, in which the conductor rang the of the bells, was at Safron Walden on Christmas Day, 1753. Lask week Mr. 'J. E, SIater's correction of this was marle. 'Thue penl hat been rung twice before under tha same conditious at Norwich. MrG. H. Cross now sends extracts from the 'Norwich Mercury " of tho bime, and suggests that the reonds at Safion Walden aul Si. ©iles; in-the-Fields, and in the 'History of the Ancient Society of College Youtlis, should be corrected.
The following is takey from the record now in St. Peter Mancto leeffry, as copied from the "Norwich Mercury' by Mr. Philip Sadler, is Norwich:-

ST. MICHAEL'S COSLANY, NORWICH,

DEATH OF CHELMSFORDS SUBODEAN

The Frsex Association has lost an old and valued fricnd in chatur H. A. Lake, Sub-Dean of Chemsford Gathedral since 1924, tud Rector of Chemaford for 34 years. He pessed rway on Monday at the age of 81 years, as a result of an attack of pneumonia.

Canon Lake had always been decply interested in the Esfox A Esociation. He was usually present at the annual meeting, and last year at Chelmsford recalled his experiences at the coming-of-nge of the association, and said he was looking forward to the jubilee celebration mext Whitsun.
'Fhe deceased cleric, when at Cambridge University, was it prominent rumner, and had always been a great supporter of Essex and mmatear sport.

By a coincidence a report will be found in another column of a peal rung at Braintree on December 29th in homour of Ganon Jalke's birthday.

PEALS OF MINOR AND DQUBLES

To the Editor.

Siry-It is well known to us alt: that it is mo unusual thing for Parliament to mass an Act and for the Courts to decide subsequently that the worting is such that the thing actually done is the direct opposite of the intention of the Legislature. After fre interesting anit valuable correspondme in your columas it can be anater of little surprise Ilat the Centual Council, Iate on in the afternoon after a long session, shonid have fallen into a trap of this kind.

By this thre we must be all agreal that it is 110 oasy matter to ael down on paper the conditions that we feel should goverv these perls. Either we lint ourselves bauniag some that ought to be accepted, or allowing what might with ativantage be rejected.

We are all agreed that Mr. Bunkes Tanes ammogement is un adyance on what has gone before, and must on 110 accomit be banned. Most of as at this date camot acecpt lis 720'm as true and complete. It follows (does it nof?) that sone modifieation is essential in the Hereford resolutious.

Apparently we all are agreed that the aceptance of this arrangement of $720{ }^{\circ} \mathrm{s}$ involves the acceplance of Mr. Fitman's $20^{\circ}$ 's. And $I$ will go further. Yon eannot logically allow thesa without accepting Mr. Torris' trs well. 'The fluee stand or fall logether.
Fersonally, think that a mistake was mate in compressing the conditions for a peal of binor (or Doublest into a single resolation. At the presetn that, when spliwing amilue like is much to the Eore, a "portmantean" resaluiton is likely to have the effect of crabing waluahle advance. 1 would venture to suggest that we put our heails together and by to rlaw un a series of mdividual conditions which will carrg hs sone way on the rond we wish to travel, and which can he added to suluseguently as aeeds arise.
With this view I renture to pul forwart the following for writicism, amendment and addition:-

CONDITIONS FOR FIEALS.

(1) Compositions of \$inor must he in 720's and mot in sumaller touches. Composilians of Donbles must be iu $120: \mathrm{s}$ and not in smaller toudles, 'These 720 's and 120 's are to be true in themselves.
(2) In a peal of $\mathbf{i f}$ inor no wo $720^{\circ}$ s nay be alike in bouth ealling and melhod. In a peal of Doultes $120^{\circ}$ s in rount hlocks wifl be recognised with inevitahte repetition of calling, fut there must be as much ravietr as the woture of the method, or methods, adrmits with the ise of the winaty ealls employod th the method, or methods.
The wording of this resolution will need enveful consideration. It is of the utmost importane that $n$ peal af Girandsire Donbles shonld consigt of at lease 10 differeuthy called six-scores, and one of Bobs Minor of seven different $720^{\circ} \mathrm{s}$. Ai the same thme it is not easy to provide for this without excluding what we onglit to allow.
(3) At the end of cach round block, whelier this consist of 720 changes af Minor or 120 changes of Donbles (or groups of 720 's or $\left.120{ }^{1} \mathrm{~s}\right)$, the hells shiall immediately go ofl inta the next bloek.
(Theds is intended to provide that at fre end of a six-score (say) rounds is only to be struck once.)
There may be other points which it, wonld be well to inelude, hat: Ifeal sure that the acceptance of these three conditions in some form or other wotad go at long way bowards shandardising five and six loell poals in the way we all desite to do, white hee respeetive merits of Messres. Pitman's and Morris arrangements wan best be fett to the practical commonsense of the Exercise. If they are worlin preserving they wild continue to be fung (Central Council tesolulions or not. If mot, they will maturally disappear-Yours, ete,

PROGRISSE UR DETFNFIRACY?

Sils, Ilve time is ripe for some plain speaking, mad I think that most ringers who value the prestige of cur Ari will eudorse and support your editolial attiande.
Wila any unbinsed person state what progress is made thy the latest "jiggery-pokery of the live am six-boll merchatis? in atcompt is hemg mate to prove that nothing matters so long as it comes right at the end. The abation put chat by Mr. L. MForris suppositi to the a peal of Grandsire Doubles, juas four leads missing$3542,1235,3524,3435$ - the bells run round at the $39 t h$ change, and the rest are false. Ot what lusis does any same person-and I inchade especially Ar. J. A. Trollope-sugest that such pifte should e mecepted as a peal '?
If lamguaye means anything, a pual on live hoils is 120 tane changes (NOT 240) from roumds to rounds. On seven bells a peal is 5,040 (not 10,080 ), antif if the Central Council has at nay time sanctioned anything different, it has boen done by the casnistry of a few, who scen to annually hoodwink botlo members and chajrman.

Many lirst-closs performances on higliee mumbers of bells have been condemmer, and righEly so, because of the repetition of al ingle chansu, yet ou five hells wholesale falseness is permitted, solely for the gluvifuation of the bob caller, far it is nothing extra to the ringer. It is almost unthinkable that after 300 years of progrossive clange ringing men of intellect can he found to provide a 'reasun' (?) fol such retrogression.
Undar it, anyilling can he Eoisted on lhe Exercise as a 'preal.' Under it, a Bolb-and-Swinde "peal is assured before it begins. Weal bave seen enolyrl of that in years past, and wo ought to sec that listory bloes not repant iiself. Wheres falsencsis does not manter, what else can ho hamed? Every eonduchol of experience that burely see what a gateway it opens to frad. If the ohject in view is to exercise the ininds of the wingers, then Grandsire Doubles, howerer manipulated, will not do mach. Thare are more methods how iu existence than will ever be rung. There is more braiawork ju it scven-method peal than in one method, no matter what ealling is used. Since il las been atated in your columas that the Central Courcil endorses these monstrosities, I leg to ask Mr, Alex Vunng the secretany, to tell us from his minute book when mud where such thesolution whis passed.
W. WILTsON.

Observe these pairs in row 5 , and wuder them, in row 7, seateh for any proper coursing pair belonging to the block. Thus: $4 / 6$ in $10 w 5$ lave 46 under, which are the wrong way for Block $Y$; similarly wilh $6 / 8$ and $8 / 7$. The $7 / 5$ bave 72 under, the $4 / 2$ hare 45 wuder, fand these are not coursing pairs. But $2 / 3$ in row 5 have 53 under, and $3 / 5$ have 32 minder, both coursing pairs beity the correct way for Block Z. Here, then, we lave two combinations, $53 \mathrm{jn} 8 / 3$ and 32 in $3 / 5$; but $2 / 3$ and $3 / 5$ are the lead-ond symbels which are replacing the proper positional pairs of $4 / 6$ and $6 / 8$ respectively. Thus tho proper combinations ato 35 in $4 / 6$ and 23 in $6 / 8$, from the downward breatment of these two rows.Now exactly repeat this for the upward treatment. [Tlie reverga] of the cambiuations clocs not apply lere, beceuse we are dealing With at cross' collation; it comes haiber, as will the shown.) This produces two cormbinutions which happen to be identical with the dirat two, viz. : 35 in $4 / 6$ and 23 in 6/8. Iucidentally, these two treatments (downward and upward) are very easily done together. After In time it beemes natural to search both rows all ones, for holly positional and conrsing pairs. For insfance, we can look for 4 /6 ins row 5 and abserve 46 felow, and, vice versa, 4 ! below and cibservo 46 nbove; and so on.
We can ignore, for the moment, the four conthinations whiwh should come from the other pair of rows (wiz. 26-28), and cau trace the formalion of the false course ends.
(To be concluded.)

LIGHTING THE TOWER.

To the Editor.

Sir, -When tha bells at St. Augustine's, Kilburn, were rehung last year we reaganised the lighting very much on the lines gel nut by your correspondent re Truro, and have found the central light over the bell frame to be of very grent convenience indeed. The flex of the contral light in the ringing chamber passes through a lole in the ceiling, and is fixed with an ordinary countarbalance weight to the roof of the intermediate chamber. This enables the height to he regulated and the lamps to be lawered to be replaced without it being meecssary to erect a seeffold.
It is intercsting to know that the two towers, which are replicas of one another and such splendid examples of Pearson architecture, are lif in the same way:-Yours, ete.,
E. M. ATKINS.

AN IDEAL AREANGIAMENT,

Dear Sir, 1 would sugesest the followiug as being an ideal arrangement for the electric light installatian for Ufrod tower:-
I'lie ligits ins the stairease, batweer the ground level aud the fing ing chumber, should be controlled by two two-way switches, ove in The bottom and one at the door of the ringing chamber. 'this wil? conale the lights to ba switehed on at the bottow, and off at the lop, or vice versa. Tine remaining lights in the staitease ean be switched of from a switch placed just oulside the ringing chamber door.
The lights in the ringing chamber slow the controlled by a switch inside the ringing chamher, and that in the clock ronm by a switch in the clock roons, and that in the bell chamber by a switeh in the bell clammor.

These lights should be faed lights, and of sufficient watage to provide adequate illumination. It may be mecessary to have, in addition, a porlable ligit im hoth bell and clock chambers, aud for thes purpose a separate switch and plog shoutd be placed in a conrenient position in each chamber.
Regarding the lights for tho ringing chamber, if the ceiling is white in colous, a 100 watt lamp with it how! slade will probably give very saliaractory illumination, but in any case a very satisfaccory light will be obtained by using a 100 wati pearl glass light with at Holophane shade, and situated in the contre of, and close to, the eiling
As regards the installation itsolf, I do not recommend ane using lead-covered or metal sheathed cable but prefer the surface wiring syster of the Macintosll Cable Company, Lta, which does uot require any enthing or bonding, and can be installed with a traximum nertuess. - Your fatlifully.

BELFRY LIGHTING.

At many of the churches where the services of ringers are appreciated by the authorities a good deal more consideration is now being given to the convenience and comfort of the men and women who ring the bells than was once the case. It is all part of the spirit of reform which has been steadily progressing for the last fifty years or so. It began with efforts to banish the idea, at one time very prevalent, that the belfry and especially the ringing chamber, was primarily designed as the lumber room of the churci. Here and there are still to be found isolated cases where the derelict furniture of the church, the gravedigger's tools, and any unwanted articles find storage place in the tower, but, happily, these instances, at one time common, are fast disappearing.

It has been the ringers who have wrought the change. The application of steady pressure on the clergy athd officials and the energies of the ringers themselves have effected vast changes in hundreds of our belfries. Into the great majority of ringing rooms anyone may now venture withott risk of spoiling clothes, white in rumerous instances the care of the belfry is obviously a matter of real pride. This is only as it should be, of course; for the belfry is as much a part of the church as the vestry or the chancel. But in the treatment of certain important matters many churches still lag behind. In regard to the lighting of the tower and the ventilation of the ringing chamber a number of belfries contimue to leave much to be desired. There are ringing rooms with practically no effective means of ventiation; with windows which are too small, or inaccessible, or will not open, and some even without windows at all.

The lighting, too, is primitive, and particularly is this so on the dark and dangerous staircases which, being generally spiral, might easily prove a death trap. Indeed, it is almost a miracle that there are not frequent serious accidents in the unlit stairways, where the steps, often, are irregular and there is seldom any handrail. Then, too, the provision made in the bell chamber itself, where it is constantly necessary for a man to go and where, in the absence of effective lighting, accidents may easily happen, is, generally speaking, notoriousiy bad. An unprotected candle, which may be blown out at any moment by the wind; or, perhaps, a stable lantern is often the only means of lighting one's way across a bell frame at night, which, even if the bells be 'down,' is a risky thing. It is up among the bells that, most of all, it is important that there should be efficient illumination.

Another but lesser evil often to be found is the position of the light in the ringing room. Cases are numerous whete it comes close to，it not actually in，the line of vision and is trying to the eyes as well as making rope sight difficult．This defect in lighting is sometimes due to the necessity of keeping the gas or wil lamps at a sate distance from the ceilings，but even where electricity is not available，it ought to be possible in most of surith cases to devise some improvement．There catl be no doult，however，that an clectric lighting installation wherever it is possible lends itself best of all to the re－ quirements of a church tower，and we hope that the ringers at many belfries may profit by improvements car－ ried out on lines suggested in recent letters in＂The Ring－ ing World．＇

FIFTY YEARS OF RINGING.

HOW THE SURREY ASSOCIATION WAS FORMED
In the days when many of our ringing associations were in the making, conditions weve vastly different from those of to-day, and blose who wanted to get on in tho art of change ringing had to make their own opportunities. The ringers who are atill with us who had any exporience of ringing irr the now distant '70's are few, but one of ihem is Mr. J. W. Trappitt, sent, now living in Dublin, who learnt his ringing at the famous church of Beddinglon, Surrey, and is the last survivor of the little company who formed the Surrey County Association.
Mr. Trappite was born within the sound of Bow bells, but migrated to Beddington about 1875. He first landleत̉ a bell rope in June, 1876, when he was elected a member of the St. Mary's, Beddingion, Sariety of Call Clange Ringers. In the early summer of 1877 about four of the company walked on a Sunday afternoon to Fulham Parish Church (about ten miles) to get a pull for evening service. The Rector (the Rev. --. Fisher), who wha at that time a ringer bimself, ort of courtesy allowed then to have a pull after having come 80 far, but he informed them that he had made up his mind moi to allow any more eall change ringing on the hells of his church.
This get the Beddingtonites thinking and talking, with the result that they as a company, decided that they would never bo denied the use of bells if want of knowledge of change ringing was the only obstacle. From that time on, with the Jute Edgar Bennett as their conductor, their progress was steady. Early in the year 1878 they rang their first quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, Diyring the year they rang two other quarter-peals, three half-peals, and three peals, the first peal being on Novenber 8th, 1878, and the first peal ly sil the hanti. It was at All Saints', Curshalton, that they rang the first quaster, limf and complete peal, so that Carsbalton naturally lolds memories dear to him.
It was early in the year 1880, rifter a practice at Carshalton, that the ringers called in at the King's Arms, and in the parlour Fagar Bonnett, Charles Gorron, Tames Cawley, John Plowman, Samuej Greenwoorl, Gearge Pell. Daddy' Springhall, Mr. Slepherd, and J. Trappitt decided it was time to do something to forma county association of ringers. This was the birthplace of the Surrey Association.
On May 21st, in the schoolroom at Beddington, with the Rector (the Rev. Canou Bridges) is the chair, it was christened and launcled on its troublesome life, with a gentleman, named Percival, of Wimbledon, as secretary. Mr. Trappitt is the only one of the origiual founders left, and his eldest son continues to carry on thiat whicli his father had a band in starting.
But to revert to the Beddington company. On October 27th, 1880 , Lhey rang their first peal of Plain Boh Triples, and ou May 7th, 1881, their first peal of Grandsire Caters. On Tebruary 4th, 1882, they scored John Holt's oue-part peal of 1"lain Bob Triples, the firsi time this peal had been rung. On October 204h, 1883, they were successfui in ringiag their first peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, and on December 6tht, 1883, Mr. Trappitt called his first peal. On May 4 th, 1885, the compang rang their first peal of Bob Major, and on Auguse 5thl, 1886, heirir first peal of Kent Treble Bobb Royal. The hand on this oceasion included the Rer. F. E. Rohinson, whose first peal of Troble Ten it was also. All thesc peals, with the exception of the Troble Ten, were rung by the Sunday service riugers of the Beddington Society, and were the first in the different methods by all who took part ir them
On Jane 6th, 1888, Mr. Trappitt rang his first peal of Stedman Triples, conducted by J. W. Weslibrook; on the following dny lis first peal of Stedman Gaters, conducted by the Rev. E. F. Robiason. This was Mr. Trappilt's 50th peal. From this time on he fins no record of dates, but he hus rung penls of Double Norwich ami miet of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin s-in-Ule-Tields.
In 1895 tre migrated to Ireland, whore at St. Thomag*, Belfast, he manageit to teach a band till they rang thece courzes of Grandsire Triples. Fe also rang al Hollywoot, County Dowa. In 1896 he went to the sombl-gast of hreland, with no somid of a peal of bells mantil in 1897 he met Mr. J. W. Washbrook and Mr. J. W. Tayior with a Loughborough hand at the opening of a new elurch nut peal af bella st Arklow, County Wicklow. In Samuary, 1901, he settled in 'lear dirty Dublin,' and was made a member of the St. Patrick's ''uthedeal Society, of which lie is still a ringiog member. Among the nemorable peals in which he has taken parl in Ireland was one in October, 1901, at Arklow, when J. W. Washbrook rang the zwd and 4th hells. Mir. Truppitt rang in the first peal of Stednan Triplea, Treble Boh Major, Stedtuan Caters, and Treble Bob Royal, and Grandéire Oinques, in treland. Altogether he has rung abort 122 peals, of which he lias conducted nine. On Norember eth last, on the 50th anniversary of his fist peal, an attempt for a communaration peal was made, lut it came to grief after riuging three henurs. Mr. Trappitt is one of the few left who rang with the late Henry Halcy and Johu Cox. He lad not the pleasure of meeting It:r late Fenly Johnson, but one of the St. Martin's band of his time, Anoos Cressor, was an honornry member of the Beddington compaly for several months while working in the Croydon Bell Foundry, allid he rang a peal of Grandsire Caters with them on Jume 3rd, 1882. Othor honorary members of the company were the late Dr. A. B. Carpenter, Mr. E. F. Cole, arai Mr. C. E. Malin, who rarely missed in practice for several years. If these lines should meet the eye of cither of these last-named gentlemen or the Rer. E. W. Carpess-ur, a kindly thought will give pleasure to 'Little Jim.'

IPSWICH SURPRISE MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-In sending you these tro ponls of Ipswich Sitpuise Major, may I plead with the Exereise to give more consideritinu 1 en this mast oxcellent method. Produced by Mr. Arthur Craven, it whs brought into the limelight by Rev. C. D. P. Daries in 'Surprise Methods ' (sce pp. 52-54), where the author points out some of is many advantages. While structurally a great improvement on Cannbridge, its 'work' resembles the diagram of the latter enougil to make it much more easy for a Cambridge ringer to learn than (saw London, and it possesses (to quote Mr. Davies" own words) 'the: conspicuous advantage of haviag one, and only one, courat falste against the plair course,' thus offering 'wide scope iut the way of composition.

I believe I am correct in saying that since Mr. E. Jenkins called the first peal in the method ou May 21st, 1827, only ome more peal of it has been ruug. Surely this is a method weil worll the attenttion and practice of the many Surprise ringers who ring Midilelon'g peal of Cambridge regularly about ton tines a year.- Yours faithfully, STEPHEN H. WOOP.

HALEY, COX AND JOHNSON.

To the Edifor.
Sir,-Seeing mention labely of the fact that there are not many now left of those who lave rung with the three veteran ringers whose wames sland at the head of this letter, perhaps I ought io lat it be known that I aro one of the few remaining. I do not hink that I ever haug a poal with Jolin Cox, but I rang two or threo totuches with him at odd times. In my London ringing days (187880) ho was a Cumberland, and I was always a Callege Youdn. With Ealoy I rang regularly, and, to mention but one peai, f ring the secoud in the silent Foft's Original, with Haley ringing the treble next me. As regards Johnson, I rang in his last peal, one of Stedman Caters, at Aston, in which, I think, he rang the secmind, while I rung somewhere near the seventh. Fo camo to see how things were looking, and as we were one short of our number, wha -and I have always been thankful for it-persuaded to stand in at the last momenl.

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES

To the Editor

Sir, The molion carried af Fereford is perfectly corretet. It states that a peal of Minor musE consist of sevell true and complete $720^{\prime}$ s. Now, consider my brother's arrangement of Cambridge Minor. We mate 720 elanges of the bells so that we have the correct number of clianges made, but the last change made takes us into the next 720. We now ring througll that, and the last change made brings us into the next 720, and so on throughoul. The last clange in the scventh 720 brivgs us back into the first 720 agrin, and completes the larst 720 , so that each of the seven is true and complete

But the motion carried docs not say that each 720 must be compleded before the next one is hegun; if it did it would rule out every peal of Minor, beeaure it states llant the seven 720 's must be different. If so, then not only nust the row 123456 come up after every 720 th change is made, but the same applies to every other row, so that if 123564 comes up after the 12 th change from the heginaing it must also come $u p$ after the 732nd change is made, and this can ouly lie if we ring the same 720 geven limes over in the same methad.

The motion allows 1 as to ring severn true and eomplete compositions mixed up in sny way we like, and so emables us to get seven $720^{\circ}$ s. bringing $5-6$ up the ripht way at lle lnok in Cambritge Surprise and also in London Surprise, uad this canoot be done in any othar way.

1I. LAW JAMES.
IIf Mr. Law James will loak agnin at lle mation passed at Herefort has will see that the word 'diferent' is not nsed in the resolution. It maty be uscful to guole again the oxact wording which was adopted lor a peal of Minor: "That peals of Minor cousisit of at leasi, seven lrue and complele 720's, rung without interval and without rounds or any ather row being included or rung more than once in any 720. A peal may be lengthened thy the gddition of sny number of 720 's fulfiling the same conditions, with or withut one fouch of less than 720.' Thas it deherts nathing whith was not raled out by the previous delinition laid down by the Council.-Ed. 'R.W.]

GRANDSLRE TOOEDHES.

Dear Sir - Four comment nt the Cont of ML. Murris' letter wonld appear to put the matter in a mutshell. If wo are gaing to allow $240^{\prime}$ s of this type, there is nothing to prevent our takimg the ten sixscores and splicing them two by iwo, whiclı can bo done, unless my mathematics he rusty, in 1,080 ways. Yot would have to discard 90 of thuse ns they would consist of two ronsecative six-scares, and there waulil be a nimber of cluplicated 240 'ss but at uny rate there would be rather just under 500 of them, alld they would all contain 240 changes-i.e., esch possithle change twice. If 240 's on this plan, why 10t $360^{\circ} \mathrm{s}, 4 \mathrm{~B}^{\prime} \mathrm{s}, \mathrm{I}, 200 \mathrm{~s}$ ?
Mr. MLaris' arrangement is pond, hat contravenes the C.C. rasolaz tion-so that would appeat to he that.
The letrer of the Rev. E. S. Poweld is monstructive and gives food for thought, but ho will agree that, while the Hereford resolution ataris, the arragement thater discussion is inadmissible.
Mr. Wilson epparently wrote in a hurry. A letter full of slang and unkind wnids does not get us anywhere. To charncterise Mr. Morris' effort as an 'abortion ' (a horrible word) und a 'monstrosity, is going too far. Was Mr. Willson in such vinlent laste to castigate the five and six-bcll men-lie does not love them, apparently-that he inakes one obvians misstatement and commils an error in his English, both unusual things for W. W. Palpably, you cannot have more than 120 false ehanges in the 240 of Mr. Morris.
] would vendure to state that 1 think I could exercise W.W.'s mind to some considerable iune in Grandsire Doubles. The 50 six-scores which wo rand, all in a difterent way, some ycars ago, provideri a mental tesf quite as stiff as does a peal in seven methods or Minor. It is surprising that this methorl of producing peals of Doubles not more widely adopted-i.a, that of substituting other bells for the treble.

The number of 'legitimate" methods of Doubles is so smatl that credit should be given to anyone who makes an effort to ring something different, even though that effrm be on lines that are wrong, accorting to the Central Council.-Yourg, etc. T. T. DYKF.

TWO QUESTIONS.

Sir,-The arrangements of Minor and Doubles seem fo be taking a prominent, piace in your columns, at the present time. As to their truth or otherwise, perhaps it would be ns woll if those concerned would answer the following rucstions:

1. We are lold that 123456 constifutes the first row or change in Mr. Bankes James" arrangement of his peal of Camhridge Rinor. Will he iuform your readers which is the last row or change?
2. In whal way do these freak arrangements contrihute. to interest or advaneement in the arti of ringing to live and gix-bell ringers? Yotur truly,

SEVERN.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

SONNING DUANERY BEANGH

The Sonning Deanery Braumla of the Oxford Diomsan Guila heai its uthusal mueting al Wokirgbum oly Saturday, where the Lwo riuss wi' lells il All Saints' and St. praul's were utitised in a number of luhcins in the aftermoon and oveniag. $A$ well-attenden service was lom in SII. Paul's Ghurch, when ull cloqualt, uddress was given by the Rer. O. W. O. Jenkyn, Master of the Guild. Speaking froms Fipls, iji. 11, the Master took as his suluject the eternal purpose of fiond, and asked: What would life lie wihhout a purpose? It was a Jifficuld himg to be out of worls-withond a job, but even with both surnared, so inany lives, unfortubately, were wibhout purpose. They latd no rontinuity of sim. He, however, was talking to those whose life had a purpose, and who were interested in their work. All their intelligence and ideas wore baud up in what they had Lo do. But "vell so, there were times when purpose seemed ahsent, as when riugers failed to thris ug at combinad practices, and those who did were irft with mothing to do. But the text spoke not of theirs, hat with an eternal purpose, in Christ Jesua our Lovd. Jesus Ghrist, Crestor and Treserver of all thiugs, Who worked not haphazirdly But with an eternal purpose in Christ Jesus aur Jort. Jesus Christ, dik, the architect, unfolded the plan to the workmen. I'hrough His rolation to His Father and ours to Hin, we came into the eternal purpose, rolated both to Gerl and to one another. Ghrist unfolded The elernal purpose to the people of the world. What, he asked, latel the Guild of Church Bell Ringers to do with the oternal purphas? If true to their Guik, they woto doing what Jesus Christ wond have them do, and were working aecording to plan; with their contrihution towards the worship of cod, whind was central in the thought and heart of our Lord Tesus Christ, who worshipped in the 'Fermple and in the synagogue. F'heir work called for roal oceupalion of hodily and mental powers. Their felbwship was just a part of the great fellowship which Christ came to bring alnout, and which hard heen gradually unfolded in their ringers' Guitds in Jinglantpart of the 'eternal purpose.' Not all that they did came "rinder the otmenal purpose; but let them live up to their haptismal and sneramunhal privileges as true Christinns acceptable to God. He faithful retels in his own tower and for himself, not anoties. The preacher relcred in moring terms to the elernat purnose as revenled in the liglat of the removal by dealh of their great frienci, Master and thairmann, the late Rev. R. H. Hart Davis, and in the illness and rernvery of their chairman, Canon G. F. Coleritge, who was present with them that day. ## YORK MINSTER BELLS.

To the Editor.

Jenr Sir,-We read with intereat the two letters in The winging Worth,' ander the ahove keading.
We cannot agree with Mr. Horner hat the words nasal wang" lawe not been used in connection with thells. It was rather a common expression two or three years ago when Simpson tuming was criticised. In our opinion, at York the predominating lasmonies of the bells are at a discord with one another, whict ean only he desoribed as a "nasal twang."
Mr. Horner, in remarking about the difference in the reight botwen Birmingham and York peals, practically admits the labter alle preally too heavy or resonatit to he us sitisfactory as Pirminglamin.

Referring to the mast polite and polishad missive under the shiedded non-tie-plame of Emp, cloes low not realise that if one hears the perfect peal at hineoln and then hears Fork again, the lalter peal may sound move inferior?
We decply regret that our opinions are not the same as "Inp's" and because of thet he thinks we have hearing trouble. May we refurn the compliment and say that as his frearing is not the sane as ours, he is the one who is suffering, and we offer our sincere sympathy and wish him a speedy vecovery-Yours faithfully,

GHAS. H. KIPPIN.

THE EXAMPLE OF BRISTOL.

A concrete example in the Ringing Exercise of the oid adage that unity is strength is to be found in Bristol, where, in a city with more rings of bells than any other place in the world, in proportion to its size, the ringers have since the war been brought together in a brotherhood of common aims and purpose by a step which in its inspiration was a stroke of genius. The inauguration of the Bristol United Guilds brought together in one local body all the different companies in the city to develop the fraternal side of ringing and its uncualified success can be measured by its achievements. The annual dinner is, of course, the outstanding event each year, and this alone would be ample justification for the existence of the organisation. These gatherings have grown to be among the most important social functions in the Exercise, and this importance is increasing each year, as shown by the widening interest which is evoked.

But Bristol United Guilds have done much more than stage an annual dinner. In many ways they have encouraged the spirit of brotherhood among the bands in Bristol, and they have done some practical work in other directions. To their initiative is due the first " Ringers' Directory,' which made its appearance fast year and which, as time goes on, will become more and more complete in its information and correspondingly valuable to the Exercise. It was like most new things in connection with the Exercise, a venture of faith, and Bristol United Guilds, by undertaking the task, showed not only enterprise, but a desire to render useful service to ringers in general. Another matter in which the Guilds achieved success was in the manner in which they shouldered and so admirably discharged all the responsibilities entailed ia the celebration of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association's jubilee festival last year; and now, to round off an excellent piece of work, they have provided the association with a considerable portion of the funds required to defray the expenses. It is a crowning gesture which provides, if it were needed, proof of the spirit which permeates the activities of the United Guilds-a desire to render service.

Opportunities such as have presented themselves to the ringers of Bristol and which they have so readily scized, do not occur everywhere, but there are centres in which an organisation with the objects of the Bristol Linited Guilds might very usefully be started. Unfortunately, it is sometimes the case that personal grievances or petty friction keeps neighbouring bands of ringers apart, with the result that ringing inevitably suffers because of divided forces. A common meeting ground, providing (Continued on page 50.)

openings for common service, is the best antidote, and such societies as the Bristol Enited Guildis form the medium. A spread of such orgranisations could only beto the advantage of the Exercise, because the promotion of the social atmosphere strenethens and extends the bond of brotherhood which is a characteristic of the ringing fraternity.

I Hunt (Taunton), Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Smalwood (Derby), and Mr Auderson (Bristol's okest ringur).
$A$ the comelusion of an execllent repast the loyal toast was honoured. AN EXTRAORIUNARY CHANGE.

The Chisirman, it proposing the tonst of "The Ghureh,' said it was a Wery happy thing that the Bristol Unied (iuilds should choose, for the lonour of being chaimman, souctimes from the laty and sometimes from the elergy, su hat in proposing that foast they got, as it were, impartial expressions of opinion from bolh sides. He supposed it was natural to refleet, at a gathering of that kind, that by the term 'Church' they miglit mean wwo things. First, there was the material haikiag, and tlien there was the spintual building. It was obvious that if the material huilding did not exist, if, that was to sry, there were no charehes and tharch buildings, there would be ug such gatherings us thet, hocause there would be no bells, and there would he mined of ringers. When they took the spinituai meaning of the Chweh, they might reflect that ringers were also like the Glurch, because, as the Church was made up of all sorts and conditions of men and women, so were ringers. They Jitd in their ranks, he believed, certain of the nobility. They liad admirals of the Fleet, they had those who were offiecrs in His Majesty's Army, workmer, labourers, clerks, mud last, hut not least, they had a fow elergy. He put that last because, in the history of the Church, and of ringing, they sow a mosl extraculimary clantre. When bells were first used in the services of the Chumeh of God, the ringing of them was cutrusted almost entirely to the clergy or those, at any ratc, who were at that time in minor orders. That was insisted upon in the Chureh. They had heard a good deal during the past few years of rules and rubrics, and one of the rules of the Clurch originally toll a bell, Evidently, the clergy uf (hose dars had to know liow to ring. Unfortamately, in bhe course of fime, indeed, within the conrge of : few years, those words which seemed to insist that the clergy should be ringers, were changed, and the sentunce read that they should cause a bell 10 be tolled. Appurently, the clergy got teu lizy for their oflice nut dequted the ringing to others. That, he thought, was mulortanatre in many ways. After that, things went from had to worse; the dergy let things slite, and the belfrias of the whureh became noterl as the meeting-plue for atl the seallywags of the parish, and if they rearl some of the inseriptions on the bells they would see that somehow or other belfries and bells and heer twetrine assuclated tagether. After that period, belfries and bellringers got into a better condirion, and nowadays-he spoke as a ringer-ringers were more atul more definitely recognised hy those in abthoritw in the Chutely (applase). Fe did not say entirely as they ought to he Her hath often bern asked questions by Bishops and othera ahatal many things, hut never by any of those in authority whether he could ring a bell n' not-as if fhat did not matter. While they, us ringers, rejoies in the fact that they wore being more anal more reeognised as thamelworkers, he hoped all ringers would rio ryerything they could to keep that respect and recognition (hear, hear), There was a dumger to-day-they came noloss it once or twice last year when certain hodies of ringers went out on Sundays oan what was obviously a pleasure jaunt, aud desired to ring in churehes on their way, and, maybe, iluey were refusen, and as ringers they wanted to keep up hueir reputation in tha eycs of those ius authority. Let them not endanger that reputation by towering the dignity of Sinday and the way in which it was spent. One thing he deaired to say in conclnsion, They had during the past year or two laeurd a great deal about crises in the Church. When one read history om found that from ihe beginning there lad always been chises in the Church. What land been the result? Controversies and contidets had raged, and higls words had been used, but the Church liad alwayg come ont of these crises stronger and botter. If any mads were troubled hy the at hubbles and diffieuties of the present dits, let Lhem jusb look at the history of the Churcts, and they would see how, time and again, she had gone through these eonflets und hat come out of then a stronger, il better and a more glorious Church (applause).

MENORIFS OF 'TUEE GOOD OLD DAYS.'
Canon G. R. Wood, who replied, said lie was glad to be pesent, not only for this own anke, buit also in the sense of representing his bell-ringing son (applauso). It was extremely gratifying to find that some of them knew him. His son wrote to him from Glaspow and begged him to say how sorry lie was that he was mot able to be there himech, bull he would be wery much with them in spirit, and hoped they would have a very plensant evening. His son hat also asked him to say that, nllongh be was having a yery busy life, he was not being ide eampanologicalty. He was iu touch with hnoline 'conspirator' in Glasgow, Mr. Jewis, who was known tu many of them, and they were boping before long to be able wo reend & peal hy residemes iu Scotland (liear, hear). Camon Wood continued inat the controversies within the Church were a sigat Hiat the Church whis alive, that the Chureh was awake, and, despile all her faults, she was frying fo do ber job. He added that so far as his experiente went the rolations between the clergy and ringers, whick were so iniportant, were steadily improving. There was a growing fecling of friently understanding belween them, and there ought to be. Whacu he looked back to his early days at Ahandslury, thirty sears ago, he could contribute a litile personal evidence. in support of what the ehairmay had said as to the conditinns of the belficies in what they called 'the good old days.' At that time he found his relations with his ringers were not aliogether at the very best. They were sometinies a little strainct, and periajus if was hat to lie wondered at. The riagers steadily refused to acknow.
lecige that the belfry was a part of the church; they maintainerd that the incumbent liad mo right in the belfry, and hat nothing whatever to say to the fingers about tho bells (lauglater). Hir roulat see now, in his mind, the barrel of beer in the corner of the helfy which was faily fregtently used (laughter), nad the ringers garied the belfry as a elubroom. Those days, lee was glad ton hind come to an und. He did not know if there were stitl any hel fries to be fotmi wherc such a condition existed, but as fur us his knowledge went he believed there hat heen a wouderfal improve ment. He colald not speak for other diaceses, but he conld say that clergy generalle were reeply somsible of tho deep debth of gratimute which they owerl to the ringers. They made what some of then thought-alukough, forhaps, it was nob universally allowed-sweed music on the belis; bey kept alive what was a peculiarly Engisi tradition and custorn of change ringine. They calied the people 10 ringers showed a wonderfal keenmess and enthusiasm in their jol and althougla there might be differences of opiaion-that was only matayal and ineritable-they did show a wouderful example brotherhood and fellowship, which was good for all to see (asplause GUILDS GENEROUS GIFT

SGHEME FOR THHU FLTTIRT

Mr. W. A. Cave proposed 'The Ringing Wortro.' He saicl bley constratly spoke of powerful men itn the Excrcise. Different men had difliment sarls of power. When he started ringing, the most powerlinnes, hecnuse lie was the learting innm in thoge Eays. They hard tra of the College Youthother powerful man-Mr. Jas. Fullock, hfasPaster Manday lie rang SE. Pranl's Cathenas tonom to ar beal af Stedman Cimgnes (implatise). Then they liad reprosentatives of the hell founting firms with them, anul 引lo. Jolnston Enew something of power in patidng ap an 18 ton hell. Fe blought, however, the most powniful man in the Exercise toriay was the Fititor of 'The Ringing Work, who wielded a power ing the lanug. Continang, Mr, Cave said one of ihe most intereshing maters that was publishens in "The Ringing Wayla " lash year was an article with refrence to certificatos for lingers. "There were al ways two opinions on the subject, and aret in their own association onr hram strangly supported lie proposal for diplanas, and another was just as shougly against it. The subject came helore the Council, and if was defeated, betruse if the Council did a Hive they did it thoroughly and well. He thought diplemas and certilicates miglat come, but, if so, it would lue on a proper basis. He would like the Editor of 'The Ringing World' to arivocate n plan modelled on the procedure of the mont Musical Societies (hear; bear). If the thing wns worth anything at all, it was worth paying for, and it would the more appreciated if those who went in fol certificates paid in the same manmer that candidates paid for mosice examinations. They should be properly, examined by proper examiacrs and recelve recognised certificates if they qualjfied for them. He shagested that examinations should be helf quarterly in all the dioceses, and that there should be practical and Ilieoretical examiaations. He suggested that in the practical examimatians there slould be five grades-the first for round ringing and call chages, to prove that the ringer had proper command of his bell hefore passing on to the next grade. His candia opinion was that in their endeavour to make change ringers to-day they started them on change ringing too soon as a gencrat rule thicy started change ringing before they could handle a bell properly (hear', hear'). There were, in his schame, other grades running up to No. 5 , which woulrl be for ability to ring a peal of Surprise Major, or, what was, perhaps, even it little higher, to ring seven 0 simiar liuns, sund to mellods. The theory examination should be on ond and and cover the cost they should charge, say, 5s. per entiant, to be paid to the Ceutral Counci], who would provide the examimer. Such a scheme might not come in their time, bat if ringing and ringets were to be raised to the slatus he wand like th see, something of that sort would cone presently. He threw ont these suggestions to the Editor, iti the hope that he might he able to take them up. The Exerecise, he added, liad never been better served by the Editor of athy ringing paper tian oy Mr. Cioldsmith, hut if there was one thing which le would like to see introduced as a featare in 'The Ringug World' it was a page of compositions, which would be of great interest to all conductors.
The toast was accorded musical hovours, and Mr. J. S. fioldemith, on reply, while risclaiming that he had any special pownr itn the Exereise, said it lazd been ihe object of 'The Ringing World ' Ausing the elghten years of its existence to use its influme to clevate ihe polier. "The Ringing World" would advocate anylhing ealculated to advance that. end, and it would give all its suppord to any practieable scheme of diplomas that could be formalated on lines suggested by Mt. Cave. With regard to the suggestion that a page of compositions should form a regular teature of the paper, Mr. Goldsmith sated no one woula be more pleased than bitaself if ft unual ho adopled, but, apate from cansiderations of space, there was always the difficulty of seosting original compositions. Many people were anxions to get lheir figures published merely to ascerfain if thoy were origimal, and some even to find nut if they were true, and it was hardly fair to ask The Ringing world to become the nedium for that kind of bling. Further, the Ceneral Council had published several books of peals, and the diffoulty of finding any realy new compositions to make a regular fenture was considerable. At the same time, efforts were made to priblish the figtures of as many uew peals as possible. In conclusion, Mr. Goldsmith oxpressed thanks to Mr. Cate for bis kind! y remarks, and thanked the company fou their enthusiastic recention of his mame.
Mr. F. J. Hay gave the toast of The Artistes, and said that as their hon. secretary had taken pari in the hambell ringing, he was able to include Mr. Guise in the thanlsa which they desired to give bhose who had kindly entertained them. They had now had elght of those dinners, and Mr . Guise lad conducted fle business armagements for then all, and they knew the success which he had schieved. The musical part of the procedings had hecti the thauds: of their old friend, Mr. Road, for many years. He was pand and pareel of the Bristal Ringers Guild, and with Mr. Emery anuagly provided them with a most deliglitinl programme. They heartily desired to thank these gentlemen and anll who had contribulec to their entertajument
Mr. Charles Read, replying, said it was always of pleasume to don That they could to assist the Brisfol Upited Guitds This concluded the tonst list. The musical proaramme was of a very diverified mature. It was arranged by Mr. W. S. Ernery and Miss C. Spurrier, and Mr. C. Read, T. S.M., was the accompanist. Mo. Roberts ana Harold Knott gave a htmorous recital and a dever exhbilion of chapeauograply.' Another clever turn was a devengtration of paperograply' loy Wiss Molly Hydo, and by permission of the mavagement of the princess Theatre Miss Jennic Hartlay and Mr. George Lacy, of the l'antomime cast, very kindly gave ap a few nimutes to entertain the company. T.n addition, there was landbell tane ringing and change ringing, all of which went to make tup a most enjoyablo evening, whith eoneluded wilh 'Auld Lang Sytne.
The splentid arrangements marte for the gathering were carried out by a committee consisting of ilie chairman and vice-chairman, Messrs. $P$. C. Williams (hon. treasurer), W. A. Cave, J. G. Tefleries, W. Knight, Miss E. Smith and Mr. F. Way (stewards), Messrs. U. Brawen J. A. Burford, J. Gould, F. T. Jowell, W. Lansclown, H. ## PEALS ON FIVE AND SIX BELLS.

MINOR METHOI COLEECIION HELD UP.

To the Cditor.

Sir,-Ontil the question of eix-bell peals is settled, we camot finish the newt Collection of Minor Methorls, and that must be my exeuse tor writiug aboul it.
The: old idea of a six-bell peal was that it must consist of at teast seveu true and complate extems. The words 'true' and 'complete ' and 'extent' have been used in the Fxercise for a couple of cenrintes, and thes always have had, and have, a delinite and unmistakable meaning. Thien came 31: Bankes James' arrangement of Cambridgo Minor. The Exercise has fultr agreed that this is a valuable composition. It pueets a aced; whether or ua it falls wilhin the old ideas of what a peal should be, it cannot the ruled out.
The resolution passed at Tiereford was en attempt to adapt the ohl rule to the altered conditions; and it is. I think, not unfair to say that the intention of its promoters was to make just sufficient alieration to admit this arrangement (amer, of course, any others axactly similar'), but to exclude anything further. They feared, not withoub cause, that a wider vale might lead to lower the standard of six-bell peal ringing. The plan they allopter was to approximato this arrangement $\rho s$ far as possible wiil the old rule, and ibey tried to bring it within its spiril, if nob within its lebter. Thes aryued something like this, tf you withe out the rows which coniprise Mr. Jumes' Cambritige fon will find that, allhorgh it does not consist of seven Round Blocks, yet, if fou count Rounds at the slant, you lave 720 trie rows, followed by another 720 true rows (nut beginning and ending with lounds), and so on for seven times, and therefore the arrangemen does consist of seven true and complece extents. I think the argtument is quite wrong, and I thiak that if you consider what ringing actually is and what happans in thu tower, you will see why it is wyong. In the first place, ringing is change ringing, and no trow ringing. Jthe flistinction gaes to un very miture of ringing. The starting round is not a clange. The Dixercise never has considered it as a change, aud does not de so now. It is a misuse of the word 'change' to call it so. And umpess you che connt rounds at she start as a change, six of the seven $720^{\circ}$ channot hy any stretch of the word be considerecl true.
cunnot see why people stould hoggle at the meaning of the word change.' It is ath ordinary English word with an ordinary and definite meaning. It is not used in ringing in a technical sense, except so far as we tratally restrict it to the orders in which bells are rung. Primarily the word means the alteration from one thing to another, or one state to another; and it is essential that for ane clunge there should be two things. By an not uncommon process in the Euglisid langugge the word is used in a seemudary sense of the thing produced by the alteration. The double use of the word is as wid as clange ringing, and wus fuite familiar to the early vingers. Thus. if vou are going away for a weel-end vou might sar. '1 hink I will take a change with me, menning that you would whi an cal lave on
When we apply the word to ringing we catn easily see what Stedmank meant when he said that in Bols Minor there are seven hum${ }^{1 t}$ rers amd twenty clanges 10 he made. You start wilh 123456. Your first change is 214365 , and it is a mather of mathematieal fact that if you are going to have a true auf complete extent, the 720 hin musi be 123.456 . If it is anything else, thas 720 is neither thrue nor complete, nor an extent. If you want any proof of this youl have only fo take the action and opinion of the Exercise for three hinndred years. Nobody would dream of saying that Hole s recu-part was Frte or complete or an extent unless the lasl Single is made, althongh rounds was ruag at the beginning.
Went, then, if we can allow (as we assuredly mus, allow) an arrangement of Cambridge which contains six false anti incomplete $720^{\circ}$ 3, how ean we ia eillier justice or logis disallow an armangemant like Mr. Morris' 240's of Grandsire Dubbles? It may be that yon would not care to ring it yourself in a peal, but how tran you forbin others to do so?

MORRIS' ARRANGEMENT OF DOIBLES.

Merr Sir,-Evidenty it appeat's hant my mamalk fiillerto on the suliject have, so far as yots are concerned, failed to wonvey the orthoriox and logical interpretation I specially intemited they slogulid do. Have ever I clamerl that the individual 180' क that constitute the blocks of 240 's are true and emplete? Certainly not. I made this guite cear in ny first letter of ile 141 h nlt. Fet in your remarks upon my last letter you partietlarty centre wour eriticism in dis dirretion, so that it would appenr otherwise. What I did claim, and still claim, is that each of the complete blocks of 240 changes in both Morris' and Pitman's artangements wem the and complete in themselves, inasmuch as each uf the respective 240 blocks contain each of the possible 120 changes (wiec. Where then, I ask, are they (the courplete 240's) false?
I would further like to point out (especinlly addressing Mr. Willthe opinions and conclusions, not consist of abuse and ridicule, but a fesule of an unbiassed revien and careful surwey of the fants portaming to the case, and, still further, that his arguments mandiating all compositions in this categrory are entively beside the foiat at the present bime. Doubtless, in the mear future, defimite measires wid be taken to establish a recognised moderabading ats to kla abeceplsuce of aholition of such peals, but in the memitime staternats of this nature merely represent an indivintal opinion.
Anyone who has read my recent letters on the subject will have noled that the sole purpose and objects I Irad in view whi hot so much to 'foist ' anything an the Lxereise, but ta emplasise that all compositions or arrangenents on this plan (true in themyelves), being all guilty of volating the Central Council's puting, which, as I have prevously stated, demands that on ald numbers of bells a thte peal shatil in all cases start from aud ent with rounds, must necessarily all be dealt with in the same manner. I regted, sily ny repeated letters in reference to this subject, hat I feel it necensaty in the ends of justice to bring to the fore the exant siluatinn as il is at present, and to emplasise flat. if must inevitably penabin Lhus, unvil such definite measures, as I have alteady spoken of ate sinctioned and endorsed by the Coutrat Courcil.
Jeeds, Yorkslitre.
LESLIE W. G. JORRIS.

The tirandsire doubles trouble.

Sir,-Perhaps 1 ought to Ced lumiliated, chastiaed, make obeisance, then hide myself ha a coner: but somelrow the spell cloes not work, and I am as puculent: ass ever. T iam nfraicl I ans too weatherheaten and impervious to any pinpridhs hat Mr. J. T. Dyke can inflict. This is not a time for uicelies of expression, or suademís dissertations of hairspliting. The late SIt it. P. IMorwand onca called a cervain methorl 'a basiard-a mongrd.' The quidhanes of his day turned up theip eyebrows, latit it made no diflnence to Sir Arthur, who usually calledi a spade by its fueper asme. Mr. Drke says that he coud exercise me in Dotibles. Well, he might; ind: I liac ayy doots. Fordy-eiglit rea's ago, when I firsi hegar fo ring changes, "Grandsire Doubles" with inside bells is Lreble, was a common thing to the old brigude.
When be says that I 'am enstigrating the five and six-hell ringers, ${ }^{3}$ He is wrong. He and I tave rung seven-mediod peals tograther. I coukd call it by an Etiglish word commons in Linehouse, hiti led us ceptibilities of the sestlietic Dominie.
This cold tael remains: The foundation of ehange winging is TRUTH. Shal] we alow this foundation to bu andermined lw mixing fulse and trus?
I say that the word ' Splico ' in this wonection is $n$ misnomer'. You can splice methods, br two auticles, making then ztronger than before. The wansposition of figures is not splicing

At the foot of Mr. Dykes letter was anather, nsking tue same quteries, but Erom a famons six-beli rimger, Mr. C. Sewern, who lias been a conductor of multi-method peals as long as I can vemenber. He calls the latest imovations, "Freaks," and JE KNOWS. - Fours, positions and you cannot exclude arrangements which abrogate all the accepted theories of what should constitute a legitimate peal, such as calling bobs at eightythree consecutive leads of Grandsire Doubles, or ringing 5040's of Bob Doubles with three bobs only, Is ever Mr. Law James' London Surprise Minor composition worth it? It is not a question of whether these things would or would not be rung; it is a question of principle. If the bells in a peal on six bells are not to strike in 720 , or on five bells in 120 different orders, before beginning the next 720 or 120, then the accepted canoss of peal ringing built up in the centuries will be scrapped. Even the Methods Committee now realise they cannot lightly do this.

GUILDFORD DISTRICT＇S FIRSI ANNUAL MEETING．
The annual meeting of the Guildford District was held at Guildford on Saturday week．The bells of the Cathe－ dial Ohurch and of S ．Nicolas＂were available，and were made use of during the afternoon．The service，lield at the Gathe－ dral，was conducted by Canon E．C．Kirwan，and the Rer．J．D． Carter，of Witley，gave the addrebs．He based this on the text， ＂Whatsoever ye do，do all to the glory of God，＇from 1 Gor．X．This was the spirit，he said，in which all members of the Guild should enter on their dutfes．To his mind，bells were the mos：attractive of all ways of producing music in the open ait．He touched briehy on the history of bells from the time of the aations of antiquity through the gradual development of the art of rincing in this coun． try down to the prosent time．He reminded bis listeners that bells had played a prominent part in the history of the deltic peoples， especially the lrish．One of the first uses of church bells wes to call people to the services．This was an sbsolute necessity in the days when there were no watoles ar clocks．Bells were great mes－ zengers of joy and sorrow．They seemed to carry mestages for each season of the jear．He referred to the strange stories of the ties （now all past）to which belis and helfries were put in former days， and reniuded the members that the belfry was a sacred piace．He concluded by appesling to the Guild to do their duties in the spirit of lis text．
Members from the two Guilaford towers，Old Woking，Shalford， Godalming，Shere，Cladon，Haslemere，Granleigh，Worplesdon，Pir－ buight，Ewhurse and Albury，and visitors from Farnham，Pul－ morough，Chertsey，Ottershas and Aldersloot，to the number of 66， sat down to tea in Holy Trinity Hall．

THE FIRST PERFORMANCE OF HOLT'S ORIGINAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sin, tit your issue of the 11 th inst. you give particulars, supplied by Mr. (. H. Cross, of records of Holt's Original laving becti conducted on two oceasions in 1752 at Norwich by a ringer takine part in ithe peal, as taken from the 'Norwich Mercury' by Mr. Thbilip Eadler and you state that Mr. Cross remarks that the clain that this was the first achieved at St. (iles-in-the-Fiedds, Lonalon, in 1791, by tile Ancient Society of College Youtis, slould be rorrected in the recently published hiatory of that society. It might be well, therefore, for me to give the source from which the record clained by the College Youtis was taken by the comanitted appointed to revise and draw up the new Rule Boot.
In Snowdon"; 'Grandsire' on page 138 appears the following:-
Folt, as has already been related, called his one-part peal from a manuscript copy, and did not take any other part in the performance. the may be sure that many a conductar would fend ambitious to call the peal without such assistance, but jt was not until forty veara after itg first performance that this object was uttamed. On Stwday, October 23rd, 1791, the College Youtlis rang this peal at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, when it was conduated by James Bartlett, who rang the tzeble, and thus gained the honour of being the first man to conduct the peal and takc part in the ringing.'
One would hardy have supposed that at ringer of the parts of Mr. George Cross had not perused the pages of this interesting work of outstanding merit in the art of change ringing, and that he was apparently unaware of Snowdon's remarks on this subject, seems strange, to say the least of it. Passing over this point, however, if the statement now elaimed of there being two previous performances of this peal at Norwich and another at Saffon Walden is corrent, how can it be explaned that Snowdon, in his patient nud painstaking research work, should not have come across these records, or should have ignored thero altogether, if he did? Snowdon must lave been brought into very intimate contact with Norwieh when collecting data for his various books, and the question atises, Was there insufficient proof to satisfy lim that the peals referyed to were the fampus Original?
Wiils reference to Mr. Cross' recent letter in your issue of January 1814, imquiring whether the peal of Bob Triples rung at St. Peter Maneroft, Norwich, in 1715, was not the first peal of 5,000 changes ever rung, he will find this point very fully dealt with in Snowdon's 'Guandsire' on pages 117 and 118, and I would suggest his poseessing himself of a copy of this book.- Yours faithfully,
G. N. PRICE

YORK MINSTER BELLS.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir,-It would be interesting to know whether your corvespendents, Messis. Kippin and Darby, have actually liearl Yurk Minster and St. Martin's, Birminglian, bells, either in the towers or their immediate vicinity, or whether they are voicing "pinions they have formed from hearing them broadcast. in the latter event, $i$ sliggest they would be welt advised in reserve judgment wati! they have had an opportunity of bearing thems at elose yuarters. It is a well-known fact that some poor hells "come over.' the ether very well-take, for instance, the bells of tha Gathedral (St. lhilip's), Birmingham. These ate a vory poor lota venlly miserable ring of ten-and yct I have received from time to time scores of expressions of appreciation when they hare been broaleast Many of these have been from ringers, some of whum have taken me to task for saggesting that hes should be recnst not broadeast. I kuow irom personal experience that they do sound quite passable over the wirelesa, hut that does not alter the factio that as a ring of bells they aré $n$ disgrace to bibe Cadiedral and to tho city.
Again, I have just received a letter fram a ringer of rery wide expericnce who says that he hopes soon to have another opportunity of a pulf on the line new ring of twefle at St. Marvin's, hat adde, 'I don't eare for them much on the wireless.' This surely melientes that one is not snfe in forming an opiniou as to the tone: und guadity of bells that have only heen heard per radio. Pobsibly your correspondents bave heartl the bells direct, and, it so, 1, fil surprised that they should aver that York Minster belis have a nasad twang.' I don't know what this means-it doesn's sound very np-proprinte-but, as oae who bas heard ami rung on them, I would like to express the hope that it may prove to be a highly vontagious disease, and that other rings of bells up and lown the country may soon be 'suffering' from it.
A. PADDON SMITH.

THE WIRELESS EFFECT.

Dear Sir,-I lave noted the remarks of Messrs. Kippin and Dar'lay in the issue of 'The Ringing World ' dated January 18th. I wonler if these gentlemen have heard York Minster bells oflher than oyer the 'Wireless.' If the answer is in the affirmative, thens ting point at issue is an matter of upinion. If the answer is in the negrtive, lisen they are not in a position io judge what fork bells heturlly sound like--Yours truls.

THE SHERWOOD YOUTHS.

W. D. GROFTS COMMIEMORAITON DINNER

In the aucient history of change riaging hise Society of Sherwood Fouths played a not uniaportant part. Establisherl in the year 1672 -in the days of Fabian Stedman--the society has continued with farious vieissitudes down to the present day, and its most famons member was the Noitingham solicitor, Williari Doubleday Crofts, who was born in 1742, and died in 1809 . To him the Sherwood Youtha owed a great deal of their fame in the laiter part of the eighteenth century, and by his ability as a tinger and conductor they achieved many great performances. The resuscitation of the society was brought about largely in order io keep green rhe memory of Crofts, as well as to enconrage the not and to extend social intercourse among the ringers in and around Notinglasm Since 1923 a commemoration dinner has anmually been held. This year's gathering, which took place on Saturday ati Nottingham, bought tagether a party of between 60 and 70 , who spent an extremely enjoyable evening at the Welbeck Hotel under the chaimmanship of the Master (M1: Albert Coppock). The Lord Bishop of Southwell was the guest of the evening, and other guests were Canon Gordon (Rector of St. Mary's), the Slieriff of Nottinghann (Alaerman William Green), anti Mr. A. T. Baker ('Irenæus Pistor'), who was accompanied hy his daughter, Miss Muriel Baker. Among others present were the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson (OrdsalE), Mr. C. F. Johnston (Croydon), Messrs. C. Farrison, J. P. Fidler, D. Collins (Loughborough), W. E. White and J. F. Marshall (Gotgreve), G. Walker (Birmingham), Wiseman (Groxton Kecvil), J. S. Goldsmitlı (Woking), I. R. Cobbin, Miss I. B. Thompsan (hon. treasurer of the sceciety), $\mathbf{M r}$. F. Bioad (hon. secretary), F. W. Bailey (steward), Messrs. A. Archer, J. Ward, M. Bend and W. Flinders, veteran Nottinglam ringers, ete.
A feature of these gatherings is the entertainment, which is always a feast of good chings, thanks to the Master, who is closely in toncl with the musical fraternity of the dity. Miss Alice Varley -sang songs, including old favouribes, very sweetly, and took part in a duet with Mr. Coppock; Mr. Charles Worley, a talented tenor vocalist, yendered a number of snlos in great style, while kumorous contributions eame from Mr. Charles Riley (who alsa recited "Kissing Cup's Race' with great dramatic effect, and Mr. Eflgar Roulstone, who acted as accompanist. Variely was introduced into the programme by the solo dances of little ifiss Kathleen Pearce, Whose skill in this direction promises to take her far in the Jerpsichorean art. In addition, eonrses of Grandsine Caters and Triples, and tumes were runs on handbells.

A VERY IMPORTANT BODY.

After an excellent dimmer, well served and thorouglily enjoyed by the company, the Chaimaz proposed the loyal toast, which was cordially honoured. H.e then thanked the Bishop of Southwell and the Sheriff of the City for honauring the sathering with their presence. He poinced out to the Bishop that ehange ringing was as cricket was a Larwood or a funm, or any of the other fanous old mames, they felt it their dutiy to keep his menory alive.
Mr. J. P'. Fidfer proposed 'The Churoh, and remarked that in the church bellringers they had the mosf efficiently arganised body of voluntary chumohwarkers. As ringers they prided themselves on their work, which they did fa tine best of their ability. It was due to the ringers' organisations that a great change was introduced into the towers, which, while at one time places of ill-reputie, were now often kept and as much thought of as the annetuary. He thought the Church mud State, who of fate had been mgaged in sonewhat beated controversy, might follow the oxample of ringers, who, if tiley had differences, mot at dinner and hecame good friends. Dinmers such as the one they were enjoying that evening were lield in a number of centres, and they had a wonderful effect

The Bishop of Southwell, in responcliug to the tomst, said it was a geat honotir and a great pleasure to accept the kinc invitation given to him to be preseat tlixt evening. They were a gathering not merely of ringers but of a really fine body of charch voluntary workers, and he recognised that they were a very important hody. He was grateful to them for all they did, and he honoured their calling, although be was hopelessly ignorant of their art. He hard bad the honour of attending ringers dimers before, for in his patish at Poplar, and also at Hackney, there was a fine peal of hells.
So it was not the first time he had had the pleasure of sitting fown to dinner with bellingers, and lie recoguised fory sincerely what the chureh owed to then-itiowed them an rery great deal. Whatever bellringers might have been in taws grone by, there was lo-day ho finer hody of men connected with the church. He saw on one who was but a boy. In ringing; they had al! ages and types, oid and young, drawn together by their common interest is that wonderful science and art of ringing. He wished them all fod-speed in their work, and he gratefully acknowledged the debt which the Church owed to the noble band of rivgars all over the country (applause).

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

The annual meeting of tho Winchester District took place at Wincliester on January 19th, over fifty memberg attending from neighbouring lowers, including North Stomehayn, Wootton Hill King's Somborne, Highclere, Winchester, Twyford, Stockbridge, Micheldever, Rortsmouth, Hursley and Eling

After the service. Lite memberg adjourned to Messis. Dumpers ${ }^{3}$ Restanrant, where an ample tea iwaited flipm, the Rov. Watson and Rev. Theophilas, of King's Somhorne, joining the company.
The business meeting followed, with the Vicer of St. Maurice's in the chair. All the offeers were re-elected, dates and placos for the quarterly meetings were fixed, and votes of thanks werc passed to the Dear and Clapter for the use of the Cathedral bells, also to the Rev. Watson for the use of St. Maurico's betis. After this at adjournment was mate to the towers, where furtler ringing took pluce.
vantage the mixing of false and true in each cxtent gives over the original entity. There is a strong suspicion abroad that had the Cambridge Minor been the wark of a less illustrious composer then Rev. E. B. Jarnes, it would have been laugled out of court. It is on a par with a case that came before the Grimimal Court recently. A man was charged with engraving and nttering counlerfoit bank notes. So cleverly were the notes engraved that they bafled both counsel nad the judge to detect the false from ane irue, and called forth admiration for the work enlailed, but this did not deter the Lord Chief Justice from sentencing the prisoner to penal servitude. The notes were not 'legal tender.' They would go into the museum of curiosities, and that is where the latest Minor and Doubles productions ought to go. Clever, but not " legal tender." We assuredy must not accept the cleverest concoction in composition, no matter from whon it emnnates, when the same results-the extents-can bo obtaned in the lergimate manner-- yours, ete., Wr. WLLLSON.

DEATH OF MR. HENRY WILLIAMS, OF HEADINGLEY

 A GIFTED CONDUCTOR.Ringers of Yorketire have sustained a great loss by the aleath of 31. Henry Williams, who for move than thirty years was the conrluetor of the ringers at St. Miclael's, Headingley; Leeds. Bom sixty-4hree years ago, at Wolverley, near Kidderminster, tine decoased migrated it sll early nge ta Kidderminster, and was soon ideatified with a famous band of that period, whu made ringing history, under the able leadership of Mr. Richard Groves. His galling, that of a gardener, took him to Leeds rather more than thilty years ago, and it was not long before his commanding personality and wonderful ahility gatheved romad him a band who made it great name for themselves, both as splendid strikers and as pioneers in method ringing. Woe to the nowary visitor to Ecadingley at that day, who lhad nothing to commend him beyond a knowledge of a wide variety of methods, for he would be sharply teminded thut accurate striking was more important than a pletitiful supply of methods.

At that time Headingley was a splendid Lraining sroumd for the young ringer, and the visitor who showed aptitude and keenness was assured of a great welcome. An anistanding gift of Mr. Williams was the one of rehearsing the whole of the changes in his head while ringing was in progress, and it was no novelty to hear him lalk off the changes as they were being rung in some news and abstruse methon. At Feadingley was rung the first peal of London Sturprise in Yorkshire, in 190t, and at that time it was the ustual thing to lave five Surprise methods rung for Suuday service. On one momordble occasion the writer remembers ringing wilh the band al that day no fewer than eleven methods an the fine ring of eight at the Priory Church at Bridlington.
The deceased is believerl ta lie the only ringer to conduct a handharl peal blindfolded, this performance heing well authenticated. In all, Mr. Willians Jang 45 peals for the Yorkslare Assovirtion, and 35 For his agtive association of Worcestershire.
Neglect of a chill, contracted early in the year, brought on a sharp attack of pueumonia, culminating in death on Jantrary $22 t h$. The funeral took place at Armley Churcls an the following Tuesdsy, when the Yorkshire Association was represented by the prosident (Rer. C. C. Marsialt) and many of the principal officers of the associafion and members. In an aidress in the churols, the Vicar of Ampley puid a high tribute to tha deceased, and after the final prayers in the church bad been said by the presidents a well-struck plain course of Grandsire Triples wha rung at the west end of the nate lyy Messrs. F. Renton, $\mathcal{A}$. Cothorell, $P$. J. Johinson and J. Broadley. Anong Dhe ringers present were Messrs. Arthur Craven, Mr. and Mrs I. Coterell, Mr. and Mrs. T. Mahde (of Pudsey), Hessiz. I. [Brondley, E. Wheater, A. (bill, F. Renton, G. Tittoringtim, J. W. '「. Holgate, S. Sadler', W'. Whitaker, Cf. Barratough and J. Jobinson

The tecased will be greatly missed by a very wirle chele of frionds, antl this opportumity is thken of offering deep and sincere sympatliy to M s. Willians and ler riaughtor in their bereaveneut.

MINGLING AND COMMINGLING.

BY IRENETS PISTOR.

Sublay, January 20th, is set down in the menowande of the writer, firstly because it was the dedtation day of a paic of 'silver turmpets 'at St. Wilfyed's, West Hallom, Yorks; secondly, because one into whom he inculcated the first rudiments of the art and geience 'fell over' him withaut a word of apology or a kindly cheerio," hut passed by on the other side, like the Levite of old. Such 'chimeti ill' with the mingling and the commingling music of the glorious little octeve, whose trebles merrily sing out 'TAY-LOR ' before 345678 , which contain the metal of a mediaval ring cast by the Heathentes, of Chesterfield, metal cast by Hy. Oldfield in 1618, and metal cast by Wraner 1876.
Gone are those items mentioned in the Edwardian inventory, mingling and commingling in ous homogenaity in the back six. Gand are those who indented their signatures to the memoranda-which was given to the oflicers of the Boy King '-mingling and comminghing are their crumbling lust, goue to the bosom of Mother liarlh. Mingling and commingling 'neath a richly-ebrned altar tomb 113 the morth side of the chancel lies all that is left of the once mighty Powtrells; yet, reader, mingling and commingling in that eongregation were tine descendands of those whose names wore inficribed in the parochial registers of SE. Wilfred's, when the noble House of l'owtrell held zway over the parisla and manor. Mingling and commingling with those assembled to witness the simple and soul-stirring dedication were the shades of those who had gone before. They passed and repassed, like some phantasm, before the broken and shattered casements of the writer.

Hingling and commingling, nevertholess (at my olbow), in ous's own flesh, ran the blood of Elizabeln Topplice, whose transgressions lusd been mystically washed away at that massive octagonal font, which whe at that tive some 300 yents old. Lizaie, not content with the primary rita, didst, with love such as only Weat Hallam damsels can bestow-beguile one Robert Carryer, whom she married it 1658. Mragling and commingling it the veins of a ringer-who sat in the rear of the writer, at the base of that embattlea tower which was rehuilt by the Powtrells-ran that which whe a liferiving stream in the earthly habiljation of Cassandru Hodges (daugliter of one Richard Atut Abs Hunt), who was born in 1648.
(iono are tho Powiclls, Portes, and the Dowghty, yet there remanolh living witaesa of the lumble Eliabbelh and the meek Cas"abldra, mingling and commingling. Risen phochis-like from the ashes of the past to a further life-let the hope of centuries, are those bells which mingled and commingled with the very life, work and worship of Elizabeth Topplice and Classandra Iunt, wingling and commingling with the round, soft and velrety tone of the increased peal, ringe out in clarion accents the words chosen by the Lord Bishop of Derby for his text on this day of days, nud taken from 1 Cor. ix. 16: 'Vae Mihi $$ i$ Non Evangelisavero.' $A h$, reader, Whe is me if I preach not the Gospel -truth-for there is no ' masal twang ' in either this light peal of Taylor's which graces the steeple of St. Wilfred's, or in that rery triumphant example of Loughborough fame, which atoms the minter of Ehor.

Nnsal hwang ' is obviously mingling and commingling in the 'cheap recoiving set, owned by the Limited Company, who adversely criticiso the noble peal it York.
hanks, Mr. Editor, far your indrulgonce, but, finally, may I offer a lint to the owners of the 'cheap set '? If the nozzle of the village blacksuith's bellows is inserled into the lower end of the laternl curvature of the splac of tho Jond speaker, amd about two pull's are administered, it will renove all fragments of old conversations, liobates, and French lessous, that are mingling and commingling, without tuestion, therem, BARNSLEY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION. ELECTION OF OHJTCERS.

The annual meeting of the Barnsley and District Association was Held at Barnsley on Saturday, January 12th. The bells of Str. Mary's Church were ringing early in the afternoon, aud service was held in the Lady Chapel at 4.30. Rev. Canon Hone, M.A., Rural Dean, was the preacher, and took for his text the words, Rejoice with them that do rejoice, weep with them that weep, being of one mind one towards another.". His application of the text towards ringers' isociations was admirably put. The upward path to great success in the art of change ringing must always bs attended with trials, failures and disappointments, but unity of purpose, faith in one another, rejoicing with those who win, weeping with those who lose, would eventually create that union in which all would be of one mind one towards another.
Mr. W. Palmer (Badworth), a former president, presided at the organ, and the service was much appreciated, and joined in heartily. A tea was provided in St. Mary's Parish Room, about 34 ringer and several dallies sitting down. Afterwards, the business meeting was held, Canon Hone taking the chair. Letters of apology were rear from Mr. A. Hartley and Vice-President W. Reyuer (Sandal), who were unwell and unable to attend, also from Mr. Geo. Lewis, who was that day attending the funeral of Mr. Evinson, a Sheffield ringer.
A letter was received from Canon and Mrs. Hone, thanking the members for a beautiful photo of the association's garden party held in July last, when Bishop Eden extended.
Further business concerned the ringing contests to be held during the conning year, but the discussion was not so general as one would have expected on such matters. Members seemed to prefer to let the bells give a pronounced answer at the cetual contest, so matters will go on much as before.
There was only one nomination for president-Mr. A. Nash, Fath. This nomination of a popular, practical and active ringer was promptly and unanimously carried. For the office of treasurer, Mir. A. Panther was reelected, and the same applied to the office of secretary, to which Mr. D. Potter was reappointed.

The auditors (Messes. A. Nash and A. Goldthorpe) announced that the financial report of the treasurer had been found correct and in good order, and these were passed by the meeting.

No application being to hand for next place of meeting, the securetry was requested to secure wonk Rredinn.

Canon Hone was warmly thanked for all his work [or, aud interest in, the association.
Further ringing followed, and completed one of the best meetings ever lade by the association.

THE REVISION OF HUSTORY

History is being called into question by letters which have recently appeared in our columns on the subject of carly peals and the first performances of Holt's Original. First of all a correspondent questioned the College Youths' record that a peal, rung in $1688-9$, was composed and conducted by Benjamin Annable, when, according to Snowdon, in 'Grandsire,' quoting from 'The Clavis,' Annable died in 1755 between sixty and seventy years of age. Mr. E, A. Young's reply to this was the suggestion that Annable was alder than he was thought to be by those who recorded his age in. The Clavis.' Since this there has come another challenge to the records of the Ancient Society, viz., that the claim that its members rang Holt's Original on the first accasion on which it was called by a ringer taking part in the peal can no longer be upheld, other performances of this peal (between the years 1752 and 1754), with the conductor ringing one of the bells, having now come to light. In defence of the College Youths' claim, Mr. G. N. Price puts forward Snowdon's history of the Grandsire method, in which the peal of 1791 was treated as the first, and Mr. Price asks, if the other claims to earlier peals are correct, how can it be explained that Snowdon in inis patient and painstaking research wort should inot have come across these records, or should have ignored them if he did? 'Snowdon,' says Mr. Price, 'must have been brought into very intimate contact with Norwich when collecting data for his various books, and the question arises, was there sufficient proof to satisfy him that the peals referred to were the famous Original?"

On the question of Annable's age, it is doubtful if anyone can now provide definite evidence unless it can bo supplied from some of the ancient parisil registers. The question of the 'Original,' however, seems to be fairly plain. In the case of one at least of the Norwich peats the full details were given is the 'Norwich Mercury ' of the time ( 1752 ), inctuding the names of the ringers and the added intimation that the peal being so intricate the London Bell Ringers thought it impracticable for a man to ring one of the bells and call the bobs at the same time.' The particulars of the two peals, in 1753 and 1754, at Saffron Walden, were discovered about 15 years ago among some old newspaper cuttings from publications of the period, and in these, also, the names of the ringers are given. In view of these facts, therefors, there seems little doubt that the College Youths' peal of r79I was not the first time the 'Original' was performed under the same conditions.

Jasper Snowdon was, as we all know, a most painstaking man, but even he could not have searched all the newspaper files throughout the country, and it is quite easy to believe that the records of the Norwich and Saffron Walden peals never came under his notice. Had they done so it is only reasonable to assume that he would at least have mentioned them, even if he had had some doubt as to their authenticity, because he analysed at great length many other of the early performances. Even the questioned 1689 peal he accepts, with limitations, in the phrase 'it seems not improbable that such a performance may have taken place at this date.' Had Snowdon known of the Norwich and Saffron Walden peals, he surely then would have said something about them and not merely have left the subject with the statement ' we may be sure that many a conductor would feel ambitious to call the peal without such assistance (manuscript), but it was not until forty years after its first performance (1791) that this object was attained.

LIGHTING THE BELFRY.

To the Editar.

Dear Sir-Please allow we to thank those who have replied to my t'equest for adviee, both those who have writien to you and to the many who have written to me direct.

There is one point which puzzles me. Everyone has saicl that it is necessary to hare the lights on the stairs fixed on three wires, so that they can be turned off either at top or hotom, but mo one has said wly. It seems to me to be merely a stunt, the awantages of which are outweighed ly the disadvantages.
What is required is a liglat which ernuot be turned aff by anmume outside flae ringing chamber. This is casils arranged here, aj we ring on the ground foor. and the main switch is on the floor athors (the clock chamiber'). The stair lights should be simall, and each connceted to the chamber to which that flight of stains leads. They will thus be a sigu lhat that particular chamber is in use, umd who. ever is occupying it will not iundvertently be lecked up from below.
I agree that a eentral ligtit ower the bells, within reach of anyone standing on the hell-frame, is bost. But in ous case it wonla tue rery diffeult to enct at ihe centre of the roof (just under the leansi to lix it, and equally dificult ond costly to got theye for reparsTs the only alternative a bracket lamp over tie door?

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-There ras be mo reasonable doubt that the intention of the Council at Hereford was to widen the rule for five and six bell methods to meet the situation caused by Mr. Bankes James arrangement of Cambridge, nad at the same time provide a barrier against. merely freak peals. The intontion of the people who were originally responsible for the resolution was to open the door just wide enougl to le in Mr. James' Cambridge (and exactly similar compositions), but to bur it tightly against anything further. You, sir, will correct me if I am wrong liere. But the inteatiou of many people, who both spoke and voted in favour, was certainly wider than that. Mr. Law James seconded the resolution, and, if I temember righty, he assured us that its scope was wider. The Council can hardly have had the intention of disallowing his arrangement of London because it liad not then been pat together. It was, in fact, composed and published as an example of what the resolution did allow.

After the meating there was quite a lot of discussion and disagreement as to what actually the resolution did mean, and I think it is certain that, though the whole Conncil was agreed on the main prineiples, the details-the point at which the line was defnitely draws-were anything but agreed to.

Now let us turn to the resolution itself. And first it must bo pointed ouf that it must be read according in the ordinary grammatical meaning of the words and in view of the generally accepled custem and tradition of the Exercise, The intentions of its authors or of tive people who voted for it are not to the point. It lays down that a peal of Minor shall 'consist of at least seven true and complete $720^{\prime}$ 's. That is quite plain. Now, Mr. Bankes James Cambridge does not consist of seven tue nud complete $720^{\circ}$ s. Even if you count starting rourds and so reckon 720 true rows, the 720 is not complete. For a 720 is something pore than 720 rows. It consistis of so much luating, dodging and place making, so wany bobs and singles, and without these it cannot he complete. For instance, could you say that you had rung a complete 720 if the final bob or plain lead was not made? In the tower it is the work which maters above everythigg else, and if that is not complete the 720 is not complete.
Therefore, the resolution, if read according to the natural meaning of the words nud in light of the custom and tradition of the Exerthat is why I smy bat it does not express the intentions of the Council or of its anthors.
Mr. Bankes James' composition is not mate un of 720's. It consists of ane true 720 and two blocks of 2,160 . Each of these is madie thp of three incomplete $719^{\circ} 3$, no one of whicls can be brought rotind, and the three are joined together hy one $Q$ set. If you will turn to any 720 of Hoh Minor (single, hinll-way and end), where the Inalf-way is 43256 , you wild find an exachy similar composition. There ilie incomplete 719's are joinerl by Singles, and you will fimi the same construction in mpny old peals-Reeves' 13,440, for inEtance. The only difference is that Wr. Jomes las used eash of his 720 rows three times, anet seeing that in at 5,040 each row must he repeated, he was thoroughly justifierl in daing so. If you want io see what the composition really is, upply bir ancepled rules of variation. You will sperdily see that uny idea that it can he cousidered to be in separate 720 's, goes by the hoarl at onee.

The fact is that Mr. Tames has made a new departure in Minor composition. It is all in aceordance wiblit the antural development which is always going on in ringing. We should, I think, wy and see what it involves and what good we ean get ant of it, rather than try and form it by an unnataral mse of words into the old ithas. One thing [ mast say, and that is that il: recognises to the fiall the principles of truth und eompleteness on which sou and others rightly set such store. Antd so, too, doe- Mr, Morris arrangement of Dotales.

And now lel me ask you same phain questions. A'e we, in preparing this new bosk, to abide by the resolution passed at Hereford and exclude Wr. James Cambridge? Or ate we to read it liberally and twist its plain words so fs to ndinit if? And if we may so read it, why canat we also admit Me. Law James London? Dr muslif we wait until the Council has rleared up the mess? A leading ringer said to me, when we were in the miflle of that other dispulo about the names, "Why don't you go ahead and use your own furdgmend and "hance the result?' i' snid that I proferred. the thing to be dune legalty if possible, and lue only laughed. Would you like us to take his advice in this instance? I am unt at all sure that it was not goot andice, but even the Methods Comnilfer has somme regatri for the opinions and wishes of others.
fully recognise Mr. Severn's abilitieg as n six-hell ringen amd his right to speak on this matter, but I think he will tind his answor in the fact that other six-bell ringers are increasingly asing Mr . Jnmes' arramgoment, and that shows that it does meet a need.

Mr. Willson is more funny (unintentionally than convincing. He ledures me for presmang to say that we minst assuredly admit Mr. James' armagement that heing the opinion of the Central Conncil and probably the majority of the lixeresel, and a fen liges lator he forgets his lecture and announces pontifieally that we must not admit it.-Yours iruly,
T. ARMIGER TROLLOPE,
[As Mr. Trollope asks us a plain question, we would give a phatis answer, and say that, if the Hereford resolntion excludes Mr. Banhr:
James' acrangement of Cambridge, then the committeo should nat. include it in their new publication-Em. "R.W.']

ORTHODOX OR UNORTHODOX.

Dear Sir:-It has always been declared, all through the histors change ringing, to

Ring out the false,  Ring in the true, and righily so. It is the bed rock, fine very foundation of elange ringing, and a beautiful ideal.

It may, perhaps, be true that circumslances and conditions an different to-day, as compared with those prevailing at the lince of the commeacement of our art. But the word true has the same, identical, unchanged meaning to-day.
In the course of our ordinary, usual ringing, when a ciange comes up' a second time, a chango that has atready been pung, the ringing ceases, as this repeating is not true. No ringer, partimpating in a peal, on learing rounds ' come up, will contimue ing, because sumething hos lappened which causes the elange= be untrue, and the antrue will not be counterameed.
Perhaps the proper word to use to deseribe the controversial pranls of Doubles and Minor is "morthodox,' hecuase these compositions are vousual, away from, out of, the ordinary.
The rounds rung at the "pulling off" of the bells is mot pari of the peal composition, but the rannds at the conclnsion is the lat at clange. This final change, romads, completes the peal. That is 1hes orthodor. Therefore it is for the Central Counci? to say whether it will recognise orthodox and morthadox, or anly orthoilox compositions, or draw a line and recognise certain? whorthorlor composio ions, but refuse others.
I cannot see how the Central Council can vefuse others, and j orthodox compositions are accepted, it, must tend to make migige unorthodox, unasua, out of the ordinary-ycs, untrue.
But whaterer fule is passed, it must be properly worthed, anal
But whatever rule is passed, it must be properly wortled, and ith and fout or cliariots and horses.
Of course, it the Central Council does deaide io fail to tecognise anortherlox compositions, it does not necessintily folthw that they wil] nat be rung again, for the Central Gouncil cannot forbill.

The Into Mr. Winser had been ailing for the past fons months, and passed peacefully away on Sundigy morning, Jantary 20th, at the Hare of 56.

In addition to the femily mourners, the Kent Association was ropregented by the following members of Rochester Distriet: Messus. W. Raigla and W. Spice (district Leprosentatives), F. M. Mitchell (rlistrict secretary), E. A. G. Alleu, C. J. Norris, W. Easter, F.

NO TAMPERING WITH 'TRUTH'!

Few questions which have been debated in the Exercise have stirred the interest of ringers so much as that at present under discussion regarding what shall be recognised as a true peal of Minor or Doubles. It is a matter which goes to the very heart of ringing, and, now that thinking ringers are seriously considering the subject, there is a growing volume of feeling that nothing must be done to tamper with the old standards of truth in composition, and even the Rev. E. Bankes James' arrangement of Cambridge Surprise Minor is threatened with repudiation, in the determination to exclude from recognition such arrangements as the Rev. H. Law James' London Surprise Minor and Mr. Morris' Grandsire Doubles. Those who have been endeavouring to justify the two latter have certainly done a disservice to the former, and it is a little difficult to know where some of them stand. For instance, Mr. Trollope, in 'The Ringing World ' of December 14th Jast, said the 720's in the Rev. E. B. James' arrangement of Cambridge "are all true ' ; in our issue of January 25 th he said that this arrangement - contains six false and incomplete $720^{\prime}$ 's." Which statement does he wish the Exercise to accept? In a leiter in another column the Rev. H. Law James challenges Mr. Severn's assertion that the $7^{20}$ 's are false and calls upon him to substantiate or withdraw the allegation. How does Mr. Trollope stand in this matter?

Again, those writers who are so anxious to rearl into the Hereford resolution something which is certainly not apparent on the face of it, are endeavouring to persuade the Exercise that they alone know what the Council intended. Thus we have the Rev. H. Law James persisting in the view that the resolution means, not what it says, viz., 'seven true and complete $720^{\prime}$,' but seven differently constructed 720 's. In this definition of a peal of Minor the word 'seven' is used, we take it, with the same meaning that it has aiways been used since the Council defined a peal of Minor; it is used in conjunction with the words ' at least ' to indicate that any number of $720^{\prime}$ 's less than seven do not constitute a peal. It ought not to have been necessary to emphasise a point like this, but the argument that only by an arrangement of seven different 720's $\quad \boldsymbol{H}^{\prime \prime}$ a peal of London Surprise Minor be got, which would comply with the Hereford resolution, shows the shifts to which members of the Methods Committee are reduced to justify the views which have been put forward. Mr. James would hardly contend that in the corresponding resolution relating to Dotbles the 'forty-two' means that number of differently constructed six-scores.

Then the Rev. E. S. Powell suggests that the Hereford resolution was pushed through a jaded Council at the end of a tiring day; as if the matter were sprung upon hinem and they were mentally so exhausted that they were unable to grasp the issues. Mr. Powell's implication is entirely misleading, for, as everyone interested in the proceedings of the Council knows, the exact words of the resolution were published three months before the meeting, and it was actually discussed at a number of association meetings up and down the country. The majority of the Council was, at all events, wide awake enough to know what it intended, although some of the Methods Committee may have been so nearly asleep that it took them six months and the shock of an article in 'The Ringing World' to come to the conclusion that the resolution did not represent the intentions of the Council.

JUBIEEE OF THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GULLD

The Cambriage University Guild celebrated its 50lh birthdey on February 4ib, having been founded on that date in 1879.

Owing to the unfortunate death of thbe Rev. H. B. Wooller, one of the Guild's oldest members and firmest friends, it was decictert to postpone the jubilee celebrations till September, when the Guild will be holding its annual toar in the Cambridge district.
The occesion was, however, cclebrated by a noan-conducted peal
Bob Royal, which was sung on hathbells it the rooms of the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, president of the Guidd, in Triaty Coldege, on we evening preceding the jubilee day (as reported elsewhere in thits issue).

PARSON WHO "LOATHES' CHURCH BELLS

St. Michael's Church, Derby, has do hell, but the Cathedirul Church on one side and St. Alkmuad's on the other each possessen a peal. The ringing of the bells apparently interfereni with the parochial meering at St. Michael's, and the Vicar, the Rey. C. A. Page, made the following culburst:-

- Personally I absolutely loatho church hells. They are like a red rag to a bull to me. They are a mere row-no music at all.
'I always class three things together-church bells, Scottish hag pipes and eats at right. I do not know which is the worst.
I often wish that campanologists were made to camp on Sitis bury Plain and stay there
We have to thank a great many correspondents for sending us copies of the above, and regret we cannot print all the comments which we have received thereon.
One writer, however, asks what Mr. Page is going to do ahout his future destination. "There may be bells in heaven," he says: "in the other place there would be no risk of hearing them-the cemperature would melt them."

DEATH OF ANOTHER SUSSEX PIONEER.

Another old pioneer of ringing in Sussex passed away on Jajuiaty 30 th, in the person of William Palmer, who was for about 40 years a member of the St. Nicholas' Society, Brighton, and for some 35 years of that period was captain and steeplekeeper. In early lifs he was a sailor, but settling in Brighton be joined the St. Nicholas Society, and in company with the late Jamea Scarle, Jobn Jay, (i. F. Attree, Harry Weston and others, laid the foundation of change: ringing in Brighton. He joined the Sussex Association at its stalt in 1885. He kupt no record of his peals, but he rang about 170 altsgether. An excellent treble ringer, he rang that bell to a large number of Surprise peals in and around Brighton. Througla illhealth he gave up ringing about three yeara ago, and about two years ago had, under the doctor's orders, to give up work. Though well provided for, to walk about doing nothing was more thars 'old Bill" could stand, and he had lo bo taken to the Mental Hospital, at Haywards Heath, where he died, and was buried on Fobruary 2nd. Thus passes another veteran, highly respected lis all who knew him.

A FALSE PEAL.  To the Editor.

Kiphis, that a peal of 5,728 Kent Treble Boh Major, rung at Willesden by members of the Middleser County Associntion on January 10th, 1925 , is false. This peal is therefore being withdrawn from recards. I had expected this to be notified by the conductor, Mr. J. E. Syhes, but it is possible that ke is away from home. Yours faithfully,

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES

CONGTRDCTION OF LONDON MINOR GROUP

 To the Editar．Sir，－The Ringing World of February 1st contains a leading article，a lether from Mr．Parter and anothar irom Mr．Severn， Which ghow the writers have not yet underatoed my position．

About 15 montbr ago sumoone wrote and asked me for soven 720＇s of London Minar in which 5 －6 never come up the wrong way about at the linek．Under the ofd definition this is impossible；there are enly four 720＇s which will do mo．
When the molion was moved at Hereford，I seconded it，because I conld see that it would enable us to get a real peal of London Minor containing this very important condition．That answers Mr． Severu＇a question．
Mr．Parker publighes what be eatls a mixed 5,040 of London Minor， which he glates contains four extents having the tenor called WRW， but this is impossithle．There can be only one extent in which the tenar is calied WRW，and there is only one in which the 5th is called RWR，and 60 Mr．Parker＇s arrangement aloes nat satisfy the gondition．
To satisfy the definition as passed at Hereford we must have seven $720^{\circ} \mathrm{s}$, not one repeaiced seven times．
Hore are the four old ones which seep $5-6$ the right way about behind：－A

Q sets bobbed． 283646
There bre five more which alse heep 56 right，and I select the following three：－

Now $E$ and $F$ have 18 bobs in cach，but they fall into three eparate round blocke．$G$ has 9 bobs and falls into two threg－ part round bloget．

We introduce one of these round blocke into $E$ and the other into F，and obtain two round blocks containing three true and complete 720＂s．The $Q$ sets of cach are differently trested．Thus we got the ＊oven：－

Finally，Mr．Severn etate that my brother＇s seven 720＇s oi Cam－ bridge are all false．
It is very easy to make falae statements，and Mr ．Bewinl must either withdraw this statement of prove it true，and this br ema－ not do．

Sir，It is surnly a eithle unceasonable on your part la ery out lut． cause you canaot eat fowr cako And keep it．As Mr．Trollupe has already atated，the Methods Committee propose to ingert in the wis edition groups of $720^{\circ}$ on the Bankes James＇plan suitable for all ＇Irebie Kob methods as well as grouping，like thoge of his by＇ofls＇l lines indicated ill Mr．Abring＂letter in your assue of＂asuary Ilılı last．
The weight of epinion expressed in jour eorresponfence molumbls daring the pask weeks is undonbtedly due to the effect that all thas ure eaciuded by the actual wording of the resolutions passed at Herro ford．Some writers thing that cortain of the arrangements chan ral through the meshes，but moat take the view that all are suchluduh．
At the same time there is a strong feeling（whethor that of tha majority，time alone can show）that some at least of thom should be permitted．And if they aro to be allowed I am convincmal hat the members of the Exercige Fould wish to have the recognised al＂ rangements permanently available in the nam colleation．At $1 i, t$ same time it would be abviously improper fot the Mothout Gorm－ mitter to issue groupinge of 720 ＇s and six－scored which are now to hit accepted for peal ringing purposes．As a committea，we nre thst interested either was，It is for tha Contral Conncil to hay duw＇r ita policy，and then，whatever tha decision，we shall carry it ont
But with all respect to you，sir，there is grave doubt wt the moment as to whac the real policy of the Council is．The resala－ tions themsefres were pased somawhat hurricaly at the eñl of a long session，whea the mamberg were guite obviously tired．Murs－ over，the gentlemen responsible for bringing the mattor up lasi spoken witly divarse and even contradictory voices，Mr，i．h＂ Frrker would insist on 720 difforent rows being rung，abal theat another 720 rugg simatarly，and sn on，but is npparenty indifteruma as to how the seren rioupa aro spliced togelhor，but on no armounl would he accept spliced extenls such as those in Mr．Atjins letwr Your position in leading articles is somewhat gimilazr while Mr． Goldemitb，in proposing the resoltitions at Hereford，slateal eam gorically bofore the Gobncil that thoy wore intonded to admit frutil－ ings on the plan mentioned by Mr．Athine．Mr．Law James，who seconded the regolutions，puhliahed a fow weeks later the comprosin

Let me state onco more that in a matter of this kind thy int＂u tjous of those who proposed or roted on the lesplutions is wat lhat really important considerstion．Committes of Guilds and Astueia－ tjons are bound to take the wording of resolutions fa they stanti and act on them，and not on the supposed intention of thase who have legislaued for them．And your correspandence gons to show that some agociations would fecl bound to rejoct all peals an illinor and Doubles in which the 720 ＇s and 120 ＇s are nol in rowad blueks while other associations mould accept some and reject othn⿰⿱⺈⿵⺆⿻二丨⿱刀⿰㇒⿻二丨冂刂灬丶丶

AN APPEAL FOR EIVEBELL RINGERS．

Dear Sir，When Mr．W．Wilmon objects to＂nioetien of exprus－ gion＂and＂hair splicting＂he forgefs that these works deacrilme Lis own letters．They are expressiong of his disagreament with otduct， and he＇gplitg＇the difierences of epithots to descrito them，finally plumping for the term＂freak，＂With this conclusion I thoroughi＊ agree．But most developments in anture，as well as in art，Jutht gtarted with a freak．The first crobs per］＂must have apperatod at freak to men mho onjy knew＇plain changes，and spliced ramgise certainly aommed a freat at firat．If we try to legislate againal lin possibilfty of frenks appearing，we shalt bring about tha gieriljty wi death．We want our art to develop，and when freaks appuat wu want to teat them thoroughly，to gee if they can produce a boblaly developmont．
Mr．Willson teils us that a splice makes what is joined shronger thata before；but I would remind him that this does not spply to a splice that is bad or incomplete or imperfect，And it is becalab I am afraid that ane of theac terms applies to these splices，that int itot enamoured of them．
I ghould zile to gat how much I agree with all thet Kr．Trullope： has wititen on chis matter，bui，unfortunately，big lagt letter hu4 onte comes io a conclurical inmongigtent with the former age：amd sis

I liave alrealy expressed my agrecment with the former letter I am now in somewhat aif $n$ difficulty. Before, we understoot that those apileed arrangements were trio but mat complete. Now he says that suntil a peal is nuither true, nor complete, nor an extent.

Late us see. Suppose we write out the six rows of the changes on thred hella on six cerds. Now thense cards can be arranged in two dethodox ways, one of which would be a Stedman Quick Six, and the afher 4 Elow Six for you can call one A six in Even Mownment, uml the olber in Odd).

Hal we couldi also nrrange them in oliter ways, say, by drawiag frum a hat. Now each of whese arrangonents would be true, for olivionsly no row could be used twice. Also eath would be an extont, for all tho anards would bo used. And if each is tyue and an exlont, it does not seen possible to deny that cauh is complete. What is missing is not trutin nor completeress, nor the extent, hut sumntaing which porhaps many fue better deseribed as perfection. Thertly, it is a cortect thythme which is missing, but probably warald he beste deseribed by saying that these sixes are inperfect.
Tho siry that they are unorthodox at present is begging the ques. tion, as the question is whother we are to allow thom to be ranked nts orthodex.
(Simblat atguments, applying to splicing, could he uspd with art rangements of 12 cards, on whinh the six rows were writters out Iwite over.)
Wita regard to Me. Trollope's question as to what is to be cione witu regard to the Report, obvjously le canmot gel a definite answer from your colmoms. It is hy we meane certan that lue would get It1 answer if la loft it to the rext Conncil meeting. The Council mitht wall follow precedent, and sny it is not a mater on which Hay wers enpable of deciding.
Woudal it not satist'g evoryone if these arrangemeats were iuserted the Report, with e note saying that they ave contrary to a reision of the Council, but seem worth 2 ecording?
(Similatly, would it wot ha possible to note flant some call the " Woh' melhod 'D"lain, and also to sugges 'van alteruative to the two whes which rre still objected to.)

Bat what i shond like to mapport with all the power [ can is whe mase of live-bell ringere. Think of it, having to ring the same whi $120^{\circ}$ - week after week! I anm glad to lhenr that a large aumber live-bell medhods are to be publishod, and 1 hope ifiat while गuty he fis rigid ns we like an seqch or more lienlis-may, even (id walles, whothey of methats on chaling, for five-bell ringers.

THE RESTORATION OF CHURCH BELLS.

DMPORTANCE OF OBTAINING A FACULTY

At a Consistory Court held at St. Prul's Catbedral, the Chancellor of the Diocese of London (M1- F. H. L. Errington) heard a petition of the Viear and churchwardens of the parish of St. James Clerkenwell, for a freulty to conlium the removal of the bells from the churcls, and repairs to the organ, which had boen carried out, without a faculty having first been oldained. It was stated that the bells had been hroken up and were ready to be recast, after which it was intended to replace them in tho church with whatever inscriptions they previously hore. There was no opposition to the petition.
Evidence was given hy the Vicar (Rav. C. X. Parker), Mr. How (Vicar's clurchwarden), and Mr. G. F. Johnston, of the Croydon Foundry.

THE JUDGMENT:

The Chancellor, in delivering judgment, suid that esnction for ar minor work in connection with the organ was also asked for, and minor work in connection with the organ was also asked for, and this would be granted asy matter of courge. Proceeding, the Chancellor said that the church was consecrated in 1792 winh a peal of oight bells made by an old-established firm of bell makera, whose business is now oarriect on undor the style of Measers. Moars and Stainbank, of Whitechapel. He had no evidence that the bells were not a good avorage ring. In 1904, however, one bell craeked and was recast by Messrs. Mears and Staimlink. No faculty was asked for or obtained. In 1924 the bells were in need of repair, and Messrs. Mears and Sliainhank reported that they were in such a condition hat they must be either properly hung or left alone, and that the fitings needed rencwal. At the end of Januan', 1925 , Messrs. Qillett and Johnston, of Croydon, were called in and were mainly responsible for what follawed.
In Fobrualy, 1925, they Fecommended various repairs, involving the rencwal of numerous littings, and gave an estimate of $£ 187^{\circ}$, which included the remoral of the hells of their works. Owing apparently to lack of funds nothing was done until July, 1928, when the matter was re-opened by the petitioners, and the same firm offered to do the repairs at the redued price of 8180 . This quotation was accepted, and ihe bells were removed, no factuty being obtained.
On Soptemter 12th, 1928, Messrg. Gillett and Johnston for the First time suggested the recasting of tho heils. In a letter of that dats they set out the atvantages of the live Tone Farmonic or Simpson principle of tuming. The retuming, wauld involve the recasting of the bella, and liey grave an eslinate of EET5 for the work, or, with cerfain improvements in weight and offerwise, e345. The estimate of $£ 345$ whs accepted aind a contract signed- According to Messrs. Giileti and Johmston this systom of tuming was practised iu the Netherlands 300 years ago, and liad beon iately rediscovered and improved. Opinion, however, was not unamimous on the advantages of this system. What was gained in tuncfingess might be lost 'in power' ; and, hawever this might be, thert was obviously a great differenee hotween tuning the origimal bells in this fashion and breaking up and recasting an existing peal.

AN APPFAL TO BELE TOUNDERS

Refercing to the fact that no faculty hat been applied for until after destruction of the bells, the Chancellor said: 'The interest in the preserving of old things whiel now happily exists has, owing to the more expert, innowledge roquincd; nati get spread to the bells; and they grantly need the protection of this Court. J'ingy are fyequently takelz awny, mutilated by eutting of the en ons and atherwise, and then put back withou reforence to the Court on the ground that these are merc repairs. This is, in fact, the excuse put forward by the incumbent in the present case. I desire to point out that when repairs amome really to a remaking of the object concemed or involve its remoral fronin ahareh (I am rof concerned, of course, with trifing matters) they require a faculty. The incumbent has in this cass alan ploaded ignorance, which I bave to accept, though it is a source of canstant sunplise to me that many incumbents take so little pains to acquaint themselves with the rules reluting to thoir temporary occupation of their churches. Such ignorance on the parti of the clurchwardens who aro the officers of: the. Ordinary, is still less excusable.
"So far as conceris the bell founders, and having regard to their lange connection with churches, they arc, in my opinion, the worgt offenders becauge they, are ignoring that law in thejr own interest., Had the petitioners applied for a faculty int the lisual way the mattor would have boen refored to the Advisory Committee, and the petitionors would without any expense have obtained an expert opinion as to the work to be done On ith coming before me I should hare been able to exercise an informed discrotion as to the best mode of carrying th out. But by the precinifane petion of the petitioners, the Court has been deprived of all discretiona.

I camot leave thfochurch without its bells and lif not desive to adopt the altarnghe courke of directing the ghtyohwardens to

ANCIENT RECORDS UNKNOWN TO SNOWDON

Dear Sir, -As I whs the one wito showed to "The Ringing World who first oalled Holt's Origimal as well as ringing it, gexy I be allowed to answer Mr. Price's question? I claim that the 'Original' whs firgl rung at Norwich by eight men only. "The Norwicla Mercury' gives the recond of the peal and also clescribes the composition as lanving been rang in London amd Stoubam Aspal, but was rang by these men withont a prompt.' Tlue record also states "that it wng thoughi so intricate that no man could ring a bell and catl the hobs. ${ }^{\text {a }}$ It was again rung in Norwich a short time after. Alr. Priee asks if the gtatement now elaimed of there being two previons performances of this peal at Norwich and Saftron Walden is eorrect, how dan il be oxplained that Soowdon should have igoored them altogether?
May I inform him that Mr. Snowdon visied Norwieh in 1877 or 1879, and got what information lo coutd, but at that time the ringers at Nomwich had lost sigllit of the performances and forgotten all about them. Thoy did not know of their existence. If Hey had, when they redreanised their society (the Norwich Scholgrs) Lhay would have incladed these two peals in their list of performnuces. In a cony at the rules of the Norwich Scholars in my possessiun, dated 18解, no mention is made of a peal heing rung hetween 1737 ann! 1760 , and for the information relating to the pends rung in 1760 nati 1769 they relied on the Oshornc MSS.
Hotwean these dates the Norwich mon rang a peal at King s Lym in 1766, sitso 10,192 Riob Major in 1768, neither of which appears in the list of peals rung by the Norwich Scholars. Thus it is ensily explained. The men that rang it Norwich did not know of these pralt, and the recorts of them were brought la light and mate frowin through fle efforts of M1: P. Sadher and Samuel Slater, who careftaly fiearehed all the East Anglian newspapers seeking for ringing listory. Mr. Snowdau did nat know of the exisfence of iliese peal treotds. They were not brought to lirnit until after his thentilt.
On pare 118 of his 'Grandsire' Mr. Snowdon suys from what souree the College Youths got their intormation rolating to the peal in $1689-90$ tho is mable la sny, and that he helieved that tradilinu was ihn only sowre to which this stalement cha now be traced. 1 have henct tho question asked, Where dit they get their informalion frons" "hat all the change ringing historians lave tup till now been uuable to answer the question.

On page 118 of Snowdon's "Grandsire' ihn nuilor' states: 'As fap an the is aware, there is max exting record of a true peal of 5,000 changes liaving been rung prewious to the peal at Norwich in 1715 . 1 luavenat a record of one lawing been rung earlier,-Yours truly, Hunt"s Hiti, Glemstorn.
THEODORE E. SLATER:

REVISION OF HLSTORY

 wergone who has studied the numerous books by tho late Jasper W. The numerous extracts, frow old newspupers made by that late Samuel Slater form a most valuable asset to ringing bistory, umd have revealed many performances that would doubtless have buen losi sight of or forgotfen I have-through the guncrosily ni his son, Mr. Theodore E. Slater-been given certain copies and hafmelur others, many of which would hava been unknown to Snowdon.
I might add that I bave recently undertaken to write of JHistor of Change Ringing, and during the past few weeks have - heet privileged to sean and take extracts from valuable MSS. and bows lent through the generosity of many ringing friends throughour the Exercise. As you, sir, are aware, my own lesearhies and books on the subject are fairly extensive, yet even so, there ate many ancipuf performances of which I am ignorant. Will you, therefore, alluwe me to appeal to any friends (especially in the Norlis of Enyland, whers 'ancient' records seem few), who have, or know of, sarly performences or records of old societies, kindly to send me conjes for inclusion in my forthcoming 'bistory '? The toast of "The Kitag" having been duly honoured, the Chairusan alluded to the fact that the bella of bia own Parish Churd (Bt. Michael's) were not fvailable for any extended ringing, by the architect's advice, and referred to the curiew bell and to the many historic occasions on which St. Michael's peal bad been rugg. He expressed the hope that that dimmer would be made an manoal exens.
The Rector of St. Mary sie Crypt also urged the desirability of closer fellowship amongst the mombers, and supporied the Rural Dear in the suggestion that the dinner should be an annuy] affair. Mr. J. Austin said St. Michael's had a peal of six bejls until 1887, when two trebles were ndded in honour of Queen Victaria's ibsi jubilee, and a further pair it 1897 at the diamond jubilee, making a peal of ten. St. Michacl's Inutirs were amang the firat to rint Surprise methods and Norwich Ciaters, alera the first to ring Cam bridge Maximus. T'o accomplisil the latter they Irequently travelied to Cirencester and Cheltenlam io practise, having no twelwe-bell penl in the city. When the anatier was firat mooted it had been wirg gestard to him that the issue might be doubtful, but the many smil ing faces around him proved to the contrary. It had been buggestecl by previaus speakers that the dinner fhould be held annazlly, and as he was always willing to do his best for the association and mern hers, he woud propose the following resolution: "That the dinuer be an annual event, and apen to members, wives and sweehearts and lady ringers.'-The Rural Dean put the preposition, and it whe carried unamimously

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION

 SUCOESSTUL GATHERING AT LOUGHBOROUGH.Un Saturday, Fobruary gnd, the Midland Counties' Association held ita third quarterly meeting at Loughborough. Always an athatcion, the 'bellopolig,' as Houghboraugh has been termed, kept up is iradition in spite of the inclement wemther prevailing. Quite eally, visitors artived from all districts of the association's activiies, and good use was made of the ten bells of the Parish Church, notnd for the famous long peal of Stedman Gaters rung on them, onnl as one of the best peals of their weight in the kingern.
Fhe centre of attraction was, of course, the world-renowned bell foundry, which, through tho courtesy of Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., wis open to visitors and friends. Bells, frames, and fittings in great profusion and in all stages of the 'bell founder's art and crait, were to be seen. There were twentr-five old peals from churches all orer the country, amongt them being the fine uew pulal of twelve (tonor 26 cwt.) for Walsall Parigh Church, which Wha tapped' round so that the ribilors might lear them. There was also a carillon for $$ 4$. Helens (Lanes), and bells for Nassau, Thataras; West Maitland, Ausiralia; Mombasa, East Afriea; Tholo, South Afvica; Lagos, Weat Africa; Oranbrook, Michigan; Ames, Iawa, U.S.A.; and others too numerous to mention. It was indeed plozsing to alf lo note how busy the Taylor bell foundry was, and ikeping fully up to the traditions of their glorious past.
The small peal of ten bells in tho foundry campanile (tenor 6 ! cwt.) was also srailable for ringing, and some very amusing its were seen by visitars trying to handle the little bells; never1 hribes, some touchea did come round.

WHAT SHALL CONSTITUTE A 'PEAL'?

The discussion on the Minor and Doubles question is gradually resolving itself into the vital issue of what shall constitute a peal. Hitherto there have been some well established conditions which have to be observed before a peal has been recognised, the basis of which has been that it shall begin and end with rounds and that none of the intervening rows shall repeat. In the case of Minor and Doubles these conditions have had to apply to the separate extents of which the peal has been made up. The Exercise is now faced with the problem of whether it will or will not continue to insist upon the maintenance of these primary requirements. It is not only a question whether the internal extents of peals of Minor and Doubles shall begin from and end with rounds and whether there may be repelitions within the respective 720's or 120's, but whether, indeed, a peal need end at rounds at all. The experiment which the Rev. E. S. Powell proposes to make, coupled with the suggestion of Mr. Joyce, expressing the views of the Leytonstone band, that if a ten thousand of Bob Major were brought to a conclusion after the 5 ,oorst row, none could say that 5,000 true and complete changes had not been rung, and 5,000 true and complete changes constitute a peal," accentuate the fact that there are ringers who are prepared to admit a standard very different to that which has existed for more than two hundred years. We cannot imagine that the Exercise will welcome any such change. It is true that all our conditions for a peal are arbitrary; but there has always been an endeavour to maintain conditions of, if we may say so, common sense as well as those dictated by common practice. If Mr. Powell likes to ring a 5,040 Grandsire Triples in the way he suggests, no one would say him 'nay,' but, on the other liand, no one would credit him with having rung a "true peal.' His argument that it is exactly on the same lines as one of Mr. Bankes James' 720 's of Cambridge may be perfectly good, but there is no disputing the fact that Mr. Bankes James' 'peal 'begins from and ends with rounds, and Mr. Powell's Grandsire Triples does not. There is a great deal in what the Rev. HI. Law James says of his brother's composition, that the rounds at the end of the third 720 is actually the last change of the first extent; that, in other words, after ringing 719 changes, two 720 's are spliced in, and the 7 zoth change then rung. There are those who would exclude peals int which true and complete extents are spliced into other true and complete extents, and it is on this point that those who would insist upon the 720 's and I20's being irue in themselves may find it difficult to come to agree-

But of one thing we may be certain, the majority of the Exercise will not be prepared to accept compositions in which the 720 's and 120 's are not themselves crue, but are merely constructed so that, in the case of Alinor, no row is rung more than seven times, or in Doubles more than 42 times, in a 5,040 , without consideration as to whether rows naking up the respective $7^{20}$ 's or $120^{\prime}$ s repeat.

THE ISLEWORTH BEX, FLEND.

The aunual meeting of the South and West District was hellid a Isleworth on Saturday, February 9th. Ringing commenced shortly after 3 p.m., and methods were rung to suit all presem. A short service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. P. W. Shepleerl Smith), who gave a very interesting address. The party, to the number of about fifty, then adjourned to the Parish Hall for tea a the kind invitation of the Viear, who presided. He was supported by the charchwardens, all the officers of the district, and amoug the visitors wora Mr. Albert W. Coles, from the North and East District, Mr. E. M. Atkins, of Kilburni' and Mr. Brydges, ireasurer of the Isleworth Bell Fund. After the tea, and at the commencement of the business meeting, the hou. secretary asked ali memhers to stand for a moment in stlence as a mark of respect to lhe late Mr. H. Chander, of Hillingdou, who passed away or December 30th, 1928.

The Seeretary gave notice that a joint rnceting with the Oxford Diocesan Guild had been arranged for April 20th at St. John' ${ }^{\text {, }}$ Hillingdon, and that on March gth a mecting was to be held ai. Clurist Church, Ealing, with ringing froun 3.30 p.m., and in the evening a danee and sccial in the Parish Hail in gid of the Isleworth Rell Fund. The tickels would be 1s. 6d. each.-Mr. Brydges informed the meeting that at present the fund amounted to about $£ 138$, inelading promises.-A collection wns taken, vesultiug iv an additional $\mathrm{EL}_{2}$ 2s. 6d. being added.- A vote of thauks was accorded to Mr. Brydges for liis services as treasurer of the tund.
The Hon. Secretary then rearl the annual report and balance sheet for 1928, and they were both adopted. An encoursging feature of the former was the average attendance ai the montlily meetings during 1928, which was 41 .
Messrs. F. W. Goodfellow and J. A. Trollope were elected Ringing Master and hon. treasurer vespectively. It was ngrecd that it what advisable to lave a Deputy Ringing Master, aud Mr. F. Corke was duly elected. Mr. Hollier was then re-elected hou. secretary, and he suggested tiat au assistant hon. secretary would be of great help to him , as he was very busy.-.The meeting elected Mr. W. G. Wijsoin to be assistant hon. secretary-Messrs. R. Fardon, J. H. Hunnisett and E. A. Morris wers elected members of the Central Committee.

It was decided that the district should transfer their bank balance from the Post Office to Barclay's Bank, as a greater rate of interest could be obtained.
Four new ringing members wese duly elecied members of the assooiation, viz., M1. E. Stepney, of Isleworth, Miss J. Stapleton and Mr. E. Smith, of Twichenlam, and Mr. A. Deronaid, of St. Mary's, Ealing.
It was proposed and, aiter a long discussion, carried hy a substantial majority, that a new rula be added to the district rules as follows: "That no member shall lold the pust of Ringing Master for two consecutive years unless all offorts to find another have failed.' ## CHANGE RINGING RESEARCH.

WITE TEFFRENCLAO EARLY PEALS.

Tiy W. IT.
Soun 1 the jeare ago, when wriling in ' The Ringing World ' upull nuchine maker, I offery the suggestion that a committee of investigation the formed for encil comnty, wihh it view to looking up ifnme relating to early 'ringing listory' which are huried in the Jitsl issules of the counly press. This woukl entail some time and (ramlite, well worth whito, and mean each county being dealt with separately, the commitiee consisting of hato or three gentlemen who would woluiveer to systematicnlly search the files of the oldest county newspapers and note down lrieily, on special foolscap slieets, all the Indrumging subjects, torether with volume, page and date, they may cunte furnhs. Of course, any paragraph that gave erideuce of a empuptaty peal would be extracted in fuil.

This is no nem suggestiou. Some firty years ago the late Jasper Swowna made an appeal in 'Charch Bells' to the steeplekeepers, enmpusers and conductors of his dizy to send him particulars of old preurl- and copies of nucient poal tailets. For many nonths folJownif the editor of that paper kindly publighed oll peal records, which, incidentally, helped snowdon with the bistorical peal notes aphiristed to liis variaus works on method ringing. Before Snowchan', lime, Ellacombe glemed much ringing matter from the press of his yobnger days grid nineth a century ago severnl well-known ment Hef only had MSs. books lut collected gews cuftings '- Hopkins, of Birmingham, 1800-1862: Fricind, of Huytion, 1804-1881; Riley, of Clulterlıum, 1770-1834; Crofis, Notlingham, 1742-1809; and soveral others in Yorkshire anfl Lancashire, not onliting Rayner, I.O.W., Batlom, of Leeds, I, asrence, of Shifmal, and Hanmond, of Liverpoos. Ono of the enterprising celitors of abont 40 years ago hit upon an excellent iden, that of reprinting extracts Crom his journal of fifty or at hunched yeary previous. This was saou copied by other editors, and ly this micans the general public were ofton historically refreshed with fitule ringing paragraples of the 18 th and 19th conturics. It is these little 'reprints' that latue enlightenedi the present generation. According to Mr. Crickmer*s letter the peal was again rung at Not-wioh, "when the composition was callerl for the first time by one of the ringers in tle teazs.' This can be pevified in Norwich, and suverscles the London performance of 1791.
Theodore Ecclestou gave the 10 bells to Stonham Aspal in 1742 when a young linger (to replace bhe old ring of five), aud hoth the and his band were in good trim for Gramasire at the time of their performance. His vasidence at Mortlate far some years gave him practice with itue London Strikers, including Arnable, who called the frst peal on Mortlake belle in 1746; Worster, who called a 6,000 and a 20,000 of Bob Major there in 1775 ; and, perhaps, J. Holt its well (after 1751), from whom he Jay hawo personaliy had the figures of tho peal. Even in those days 40 yearg was a long time for a composition to be knocking about without someone maling an attempt to excel the firs nan, John Holt, to call it.

The nuthors of the "Clawis" were evidhenty determined that the famous ' one-part' should to longer remain 'in the brren womb of obscurity."

AN OLD MANCHESTER RECORD

A copy of a leaflet issued in 1830 , to celebrate a peal ol the bells of Manchester Cathedral, at that time, of course, the: Parisly Chureh, has been reproduced in the Manchester Guardian.' Surrounded by an ornate forder, and with a picture of the 'Collegiate Charch' standing in isolated surroundings, so entirely different from torday, the recort, after mentioning that the church was founded in the gth year of the regar of Henty V., 1421, by Lord de la Warr, says:-
Its tower, previous to the jear 1706, contained only five bells (put up by Warden Laogley in the time of Edward IV.), in which year they were reenst by the celebrated Abel Ruddall, of Gloucester, when three more were atded, making the whole number eight. In 1835 they received an ardition of two more, forming nuw an excellent peal of ters bells.

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES

REV. H. LAW JAMES PLEASED.

Io the Editor.

Dear Sir,-I am very pleased with the way in which the controversy about perls of Minor has been carried on in : The Ringing World, and I am quite sure Elat it will do nothing but goad.
The resolution passed at Hereford states that a peal of Minor must contain seven true and complete $720^{\prime}$ s.

We want to know exacliy what this means, and we must take the svords in their ptain granmatical meaning, without addiag ayything to them, or subtractimg amything from them.
First of all, what is a inue and complefe 720. Consider a true and complete six of Stedman Doublos.

We have six rows, of which 32415 is the first. We 1hat the six is trie, but it is not complete. We must make one more change to complete it, and this gives us 43521, the first row of the next six.

Now, sime we ite considering a peal of Minor and not simply one 720 , this same argument applies to the first 720 of the sevell. We start from 123456 , we make 719 chatiges, and so get 720 rows, the last of which is 124365. We must make one more change to complete the 720 chamges, and we get 123456 , which is not part of the litst 720, but the first row of the second 720, and so on, until we gel 124365 or 132465 as the 5,040 th row of the peal, and we must makc one more clange to complete the peal, as We have only made 5,039 changes so far. This last change bring us back to the first 123456, which is not the last row of the peal, but only the first row repeated.
Now there is one $Q$ set in which $5-6$ are at lome which can be treated differently from the rest. We start from 123456; when we get to 124365 we can make at hoh and produce 142356 ; when we get to 132465 we can go plain to 134256 ; and when we get to the 720th row we get 143265 , groing plain we get 142356, going by a bol we get 134256 , but we are not false, because it is the first row of the second 720. This holds good throughout the peal, but it must come round at the end.
Mr. Powell's idea of ringing 5,040 of Grandsire Triples fails because he will get 5,040 different rows, but he will only tEake 539 changes, and, moreover, a peal must come round.

Secondly, look at the words sevell 720 's.' Does this mean exactly what it says, or can it possibly mean what the writer of the leadine artiele in this week's' Ringing World' seems to think-the same 720 seven times over?
It must mean seven diferent 720 's-that is, the same composition in seven different methorls, of different compositions in the same method.

Turning to Doubles, theme are ton six-scores of Grandsire Doubles with the trable in the hunt, and also ten with the End, Jrd, 4th and Jth-fitty in all, and the same in Reverse Grandsire Doubles, sixty six-scores of Stedman, Carter's Doubles, Reverse Stedman and Reverse Carter, aud also a few six-seores of Dauble Grandsire.
H. LAW JANDS.

COWPOSITE 720's.

Sir-Referring to Mr. James letter in your last issue, I must confess that he is right in sajing that I do not understand his position. How, sir, can anyone understand him in face of the following, which fis mot argument or theory, but a statement of facts:
In your issue of February 1st, you published an absurdity by me, got, in the main, by dismembering 720 's into their component 240 's. Because it imeluded four $720^{\circ}$ s called WRW, and three with the 5th RWR, Mr. James says it does not satisfy the condition.
Mr. James then praceeds to give the four $720^{\prime} s$ with the tears the right way as follows: A: 5th, RWR; $B$, 6 th, WRW; C and $D$ from balb blocks; C, by omitting hobs when 6th is WRW; D, when Sth is RWR. He then says: ' There ave five more which also keep 5.6 right, and I select the fullowing three.'
And then follow figures which are not $720^{\prime} s$, but are six 240 's, and two pieces of a third 720 . E is the same as the 720 marked C retumer to its component paris loy onitting bobs when the Gh is WRWR and Fis the three $240^{\circ} s$ of $D$ got by omitting when the Sth is dWRW (check it for yourself). From this it would appear that Mr. James refers to three separate round blocks as a 720 , and he may use the same 720 twice, but oithers may not. Enough said!
Seeing that the Methods Commititee desire to include these in their new book, we must couclude that they consider the contention that, so long as each change is repeated soven times only, the peal is in accordance with the defmition of a peal of Minor passed at tle Hereford Council meetimg.
Then why nof include three of the $720 \mathrm{~g} \mathbf{A}, \mathbf{B}, \mathrm{C}$ and D twice, and bave a quick or a slow six on the various callings thus:-
$\begin{array}{ll}A=1 & \text { part of } A . \\ B=1 & \text { parit of } \\ 3\end{array}$
$\mathrm{B}=1$
$\mathrm{C}=1$ parit of BI.
C.

$A A C C B B$

BCABCA
C B $B$ A C coneluding with 720 D .

This method would give four different 5040 's, which, I helieve, would be more acceptable tio the Exercise tlan the Rew. H. Jaw James' mixtures.
However, if the Methods Committee believe that the dismentering of a 720 by amitting luree bobs, and the reassembling of the resultant parts into another well-known block by means of adning three babs, is something hew and origital, thel what can we say? They ought to know ?

Referring to 3ir. Powells s artangemont of 5,040 rows of Granisire Triples, may I say that in be cari find eight hetty men to ring it five times over, it will then come rommd ab the end, and, in my opinion, he will be right in satying that his baud has rung five whe and complete $5,040^{\circ}$ s at Crandsiro Triples.
In conclusion, way 1 atrize the members of the Methode Cominitee that, if they are going to bll the columns of "The Ringing Wordd' with their leiters and articles, they should extol the advartages of the Res. H. Jan* James' peals of Landon Surprise Minor and the Marris-Atkins' Doubles, and not liarp so much on the strings of the Rev. F. Baukes James arrangement of Cambridge. - Yours sincercly,

JOSEPH W. PARKER.

MR. SEFFRS REMEATS HIS GUESTIONS.

Sir,-In wour last issue, Mr. Latw James states that I have mot yet understood his position. it he will read my letters again, he will find that I have not leferred either to him or lis arvangement of London Surprise. What I lave written hus been agangt his brother's mrrangement of Ciambridge. He idua goes on to yive 115 a very elahovate statement as to how his arrangement of Lordon Surprise works out, first by giving us the four old arrangements; then he states there are five more, out of which he selects ilutee to complete his peal. Perhaps it will surprise him-or it may not-if I state that it is possible on obtain at least fom more ways in andition to his that will hring 5.6 up at track stroke, but, like his, the only place they are dit for is the W. P.B.
In the last parayraph of his letter, he says it is very easy to make fulse statements, and that I mast-I like the word 'must -either withdraw this statement or prove it fure, and ends wibl these words, and this le cabret do."

Now, sir, I am going to ask you to reprint the two questions which were the subject of hity first lefter:-

1. We are told that 123456 constitutes the first row or change in Mr. Bankes James arrangement of his meal of Cambridge MinorWill he inform your reader's which is the hast row or change?

PHE FOLCE OF THE ASSOOLALIONS.

Dear Sir, - Mr. Whitiugton's iden is just what we wish for, but would ho do the Exerelse a good turn by proposing at the naxt Central Council mecting, That this council be composed of represema-tives of the various nssuciations, and shall woice the opinions of Ifu association thoy represent Haviag succeeded with thiz, we call proceal upon the linés lay suggents, atherwise we cantot. Does he remomber 'Badges for leamers'? - Yours faith[ully, EDCAR GUISF.

Dear sir-I A SIX-BELL BAND'S VIEWS.
one of -I was interetal to Tend Mr. Fowell's letter giving we (the six-bell commany at, Leytonstone) bave discussed the, as several occasions, althougl from a slightiy difforent point of view. We proposed to ring : 720, commencing from the hamistroku, which rould run 'round at hand, thus throwing the G5's all the 'wrong way' ; altematively, to open "our leads at back, thus monking the $65^{\circ}$ s the "right-way-wrang." Further, to choose a method which has the $65^{\circ}$ wrong in certain places, and, in those places, 10 open our leads at backsinoke, thus making the 65's the 'wrong-wilyright.
Is there one who could say fliese 720's would not be 'true
I flink I may safely say that I express the views of my friend an Leytonstone in the following
(1) Rounds is a conventional row, rung in repetition before mal aiter a peal; it commences and ends a five thousand for the sake of convention only, and, as roumis has no bearing upon the truth of a peal. A peal would he guite true, complete, a round blowk, and satisfactory as to ito ' $Q$ ' yets, if it started and ended with 87651321. (2) Convention demands that rounds shat commence and end in peal. If a teu-thousand of Bob Major were brought to a conclusion after the 5,001 st row, none conld say that 5,000 irue and complete changes lad not been yring: and 5,000 true and complete clanges constilute a peal. But not au orthodor peal, which must commence and end with rounds. Tho Bsakes James" Cambridge is quite orthodox in this respect.
 nincteen mows whith inte propletions of ane whicls belongs to the particulat one shall be the last of the firsa ten ar the lirst of the last con.
(4) It takes two thiags to make a change. as Mr. Trollope shows with hias suits, so that to get 720 changes wo must have 721 raws, 720 boing true, aud one of them a reperition. Then at "rue and complate 720 charges' is lalso!
(5) A conventimal peai is forced to be a round block, and a true convertional peal cannot be womposed of parts that are roumd blocks. the are sacisfied if a part' endz "at 13425678 , provided that it is true within ilselt.
(6) Then a 720 in is five ihousand, heing one part, may end at any row (it need not be a ramad Wack), prorided that the 720 is trice within itself.
(7) Does lhe Bankes James' Gambridge monfonm to (6), and does Llev daw Janes' London? 'Jherein lies the unswer to the whole qutulion, Yours sincerely,

GEORGE L. JOFCE.
Si. Jolin's, Teylonstone.

WHY JHHN FUSS=

Dear Sir, Why nll his fuss about what is a livo peal, when the Contua! Council, prion to 1928, hant already definitely lain down a very plath instruction? All I havespuken to aboun it agree bhat it is a poud I'ule: 'That peals of Minor' gonsist of at least seven true and complete $720^{\prime}$ g, the bells striking rouma only once at the end of encli.' 'There is the fliug itz it mutshell, "1wi what ayery ringer, I fael sume, would land who both lanals For, that the liells staike roumal ai the oud. Howover clever anyone may be in composiog, something in whin you have to count rounds ab the slat is mot aconving to rule, and therefore out of order. Of course, it is weil known no one can prevent ringers ringing what firey L the , even Bob Doubles and Gramdside Mimor- Yours faithfuly, Ј. HUNT.

Deat Sin,-I motice that in the last paragraph of the lotber in this week's fasun by tha Rev. H. Drake, he makes the following romark: - Think of it, having to ring the sume old 120 s week after week. Why: i have leard the ringers of thin dishriet of 40 years ago say they unald ring 30 or 40 120's stroight ati. I think these would be masily Grandsare Variations, and would lave the merit of being true 120 s. I hare leard thrm cing many a? them myself. Fours fnitlo Norwicls

PEALS OF TRIPLES.

To the Bditor

Burn Sir--Will roference to the notic* unler the heading, "Peals of "I'riples, "on page 207, this is just the kinkl of thing I antieipaterl. Hed us presune the writer of that notice is not leg-puilizg, but in marnest, In the first place, thore is no society named, inerefore, from, sas, n legal point of view, mobody can say it will not bo a peal. On the oblur hand, if this 'artarsement is ytug mader the auspicien of a parliesulum society, is there any societ which defuitely shates in its tules whab a freal must be? I dont suppose there is shac, hud that homg so there is mo societs which ean say it wfll not le a peal. Eut cach ringer has his opinions ant thoughts about such 'Arvangments,' Mat, if rung, will be certain to cause some comment.
Fitels and any lond of vingers enn ring what it choozes, but if some - A"tagement is chosen which is, to sny the least of it, not orthoalus. it mast maturally and reasonably be expected that some vavil will manle afterwards againsi it being aceqpted as a peal.
 monts " lie rules of each society must he brought up ta date to bay them by delinitely shating in the rules what a peal shall be, cherwise I Iere is urs linit to what will come alous as a peal in the way of spmething hew, something exciting.-Yours sincerely, Itrockisy

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL'S POSITION

A letter in our last issue raises again a pertinent question in regard to the position of the Central Council in the Exercise. It is this: Shall the Council represent the views of the Guilds and Associations who elect the majority of the members, or shall it represent oniy the opinions of the individuals of which it is formed? It is a question of great importance to the future of the Council, and one which sooner or later has got to be met and deait with. At present the tradition of the Council is that the members attend the meetings free and untrammelled, to vote on any matter as they personally think fit; and, when we consider the conditions under which the Council was formed, the very loose organisation that existed among ringers throughous the country at that time and the still more meagre ties between the individual associations, it is obvious that in those days nothing which savoured of "authority" or "dictatorial powers " could have hoped to succeed. It was just a friendly gathering of men interested in the Exercise, selected by their associations, to meet annually, express opinions and pass pious resolutions which it was hoped ringers would accept as being for the benefit of the art. That position continues to this day. Although the associations have advanced in the hold which they have in their respective territories and have become, most of them, far more representative of the ringers, the Council remains constitutionally where it did?.

But the Council has done this: it has shown by its work that it is an indispensable part of the organisation of the Exercise. Despite all that may be said by those who pooh-pooln its value, the Councis is the real hub of ringing, and without it the wheel of the Exercise would become nothing but disintegrated units, with differing aims and nothing to co-ordinate their common activities. Realising, as the majority of ringers do, therefore, that the Council, with all its shortcomings, is an essential in the welfare of the Art, is it not time that it was put on to a more substantial foundation in its relation to the associations? In other words, should the members represent their own views or the wishes of those who send them and, who, in many cases, pay the expenses? There will be those who will say, 'Let well alone,' but there is a strong feeling in some quarters that if the interest of ringers in the Council is to be increased and their respect for its rulings maintained, some stronger link is necessary to bind the associations to the central body. At present there are those who look upon the Council's meetings as a pleasant holiday jaunt for those who have the good fortune to be elected (Continucd on page 130.)

CORNWALL RESIDENTS' SUCCESS

A peal of Grandsive Priples, rung at Phillacl on February 2ad, and recently published in the penl columis of this paper, brouglit to an end the long peciod Einco an eight-bell peal was ring in Corawal lny a band all living in the county. It was as long ago ata June th, $1083-46$ years ago-that Dr. J. Symons, the present Ringing Master of the Irtito Diocestin Guild, conducted a peal at St. Mary's, Penzatce. There was at that time no Truro Diocesan Guild, and the peal was rung for the Devon fituid. Alas! St. Mary's bells are now wningable, having heen in this state for yenrs, and out of Cortwall"s twenty-nite ontates are the only ting in this forlorm coadilion. Althougli heree is a substatitial sum in hand for the restoration, the churel andhorities seem far from keen to complete this work.
Several residents latve laken part in peala for the Thmo Guild during its twembefour yerrs pistence, especially during the mas thred fears, but in every anse the conductor and some of the had have conte across the thamar, from Devon. The pat on February 2nd was the fonrth atternpt during the past Eew monilos, the other three being at Truro Catliedral, where it was hoped to achieve the 'hirst, for the Truro Diocesan Guild. It semmed as if' peals would not come round on the Cathedral holls last jear: livery attempt proved elusive, cven Stedman Caterg hy a vory efficint band, muder the conductorship of Mr. Pratik Bemueht, Iast Angsist.
However, it was a reward to be able to jecord a peal rung withotat a ' trip' frons start to finish, and with beautifal striking. With tha previons falures, R. A. Wistis, A. 31. Thomas, Horace 13ennett, Harold Rembet, F. M. Roberts and H. Steplitus liteve to be associated

PEALS OF MINOR

MRR. JAMES REPLIES TO HIS CRITIOS.

Ta the Editor.

Dear Sir, Mr. Severy deserves no auswer to his two questions Ebeause be has broken through the friendly spirit with which this aiscustion has so far been carried on; but he slaall have his answers For the sake of others who are interested in this matter.

Question 1 is already answered, buE to make sure, the first row 123456 , the Iast is 124365. The first row of the Znd 720 is 123456, and the last is 143265 . The first row of the 3 rd 720 is 1.42356 , and the last is 132465. The first row of the 4th 720 is 134256 , and the last is 124365. The 5th is the same as the 2ad, the 6th as the 3rd, and the 7 tl as the 4 th .
Question 2 raises a very important question. Twelve or fourteen years ago I was talking one day to Mr. John W. Taylor, of Loughberough, and le said to me that the musical taste of the British Fublic was slowly improwing, and that the time would come when there would be a demand, first of all, for properly tumed bells, and, secondy, that the dhanges rung upon the bells should be good musical changes, and that if rizgers clid not take notice of these fomands, change ringing would become mpopular and fimally be elripped.

Now there ale a lage number of six-beli ringers who have a very ulable ambition to 1 ing a peal of Cambidge Surprise Mian and of Landon Surprise Minor, but they have refrained from doung so hecause before these irrangements appeared both these mathods brought wp 6.5 a hackstroke, which is a most objectionathe

And now, I turt to Mr. Patker, who asks, "Why not include three the 720 's twiee?Simply becauso that would be a step in the wrong diraction. Forty ars ago we used to see 14360 's in fourteen methods published in The Bell News' as a peal of Minor. Six-bell tingers lave not only that behind, hut to-day mevel think of ringing the same 720 wice in a peal, Look at the Minor peals published, l3ob Minor, - ven '720's, each called rifferentj", appeats wek after week, and azed to be necessary, being taken for granted.

Nr. Parker complains that the last three 720's are not $720^{\prime} \mathrm{s}$, I uppose because they are neither one raund black nor one continuous wing of rows, but each of them consists of 720 lows, and each of nis is produced by making 720 chamges, and they each of them from the first four because the $Q$ sets which are bobloed are the same, and tha whole ubject of the resolution which was sad at Hercford was to eliminate the neecssity of tound hlochs the definition of a peal of Mimor, and this was accomplished mitiong the siatement in the old definition daat the bells should ka round once at the end of exch 720.
H. LAW JAMES.

QUTFSTION OT DEGREE.

Theay Siry-We should keep the two attributes 'true' and 'comdistinch in ond minds. As las beon rightly sad, truth is a ther of principle. But it thoes not follow Elat this prinaple is ways to be observed stricty. As a matter of fact, ahout which are agreed, it is a principle whinh is strielly olserved on seven net higher numbers. לn five of six bells, the priuciple bas been anacd to allow of a 5,040 being made nip of extents. which are nkd together by one row only of rounds. What is row promosed iliat instead of extents being linked only, they may also be of rlegree. If it were a matter of principle, the same question principle must also exelude spliced methods. As I lave saicl, I bot anxious to allow the proposed "Fucaks," but I do not think those who wish to exclude them have made out a logical case. we are to maimiain lie attribute 'complete, Mr. Powell's peal be ruled out. If he had meant his proposal seriously, it would necessary to ask him how he intended to conelude the tinging. Tould he bave stoppeel abrupity, immediately his last change was ang? Surgly is difficult act after ringing a 5 , ORO. Suppose one or 1wo involuntary "changes' ware sonnded hefure the bells ceased, would this invalidate the peal? Or wend lie teach his band the last row by heart, so that they, would repeat it sereral times before neasing? Or would he 'Jtunp' the bells
It might sem that these are math mes? asking them in order to mako it abunclantly clear that the peal woula he 'anfinished, as evervole who hearif it wald be bound to eay. Therefore it must be incomplete, or, if the exact meaning of -liat word be doubted, imperfect; ol we might perlapss more exactly fy the illythrn of the ringing was broken.
But while the same process takes wace in Minor or Doubles, we not meet with the same catastrophe. The incompleteness of the cue extent is completed in the next for the imperfection $s$ mado aterfect, or the broken rifllim is united). The same thing could be done in Mr. Powell's peal, if il were not for the convention which Thakes us ling exactly the extent, and no mone oi less, on seven ralis only.

When I spenke of the same old six-scaves I purposely tsent ithe plural, while those who have eriticised me evidently are thinkiny of one specinl six-scove. My point was that by splicing you are hol limited to 120 changes in one cyclical round (or set) at at then You give fire-bell ringers a similav rhythmical (ol crelical pelief) to that which ringens on higher numbers get from splued metlonts.
 place from which you stay in Snowton's figure, or by wating each bell the liunt in furu.

HERBERT DREKR.

JAWS ARE NECESSARY

Sir,-May I congratulate you for so fully publishing so many views on the present controrersy, aud ail the same time trimg ib interpret to us what the rules and conditions of a peal unist be? I am suro all must agree that we must fave some laws, like then the Medes and Persians, and no Council should enterfaim hny saits or entrances but what are already laid down. Mehnimhs diat aur worthy elergy had better kept to 'splicing' at the thallece "bd of the chureh, then we should lave been saved much rontision. Yours tutuly, Tlleir recommendations as to the umats proposed were as published in 'The Ringing Worltl.' Mr. I. A. Trollope said thai they had carcfully revised the names and, as promised, had had them published. It would the seen that there had beerr no abuse of their powers, and that their list was practicully that presented by the Analysis Commitlee al Salisbury: so, despite what has been said, the difference between the two cormmittees was hut smali. As regards the previously proposed list of amendments, eta, their committee were perfectly neatral, their job boing lo settle the names in order of priority alone. Whilsi there should he an apportrunity given for discussing the wider point of view, the time whs now past, be thought, for any gencral review of the mames themselves.

After some discussion Mr. J. S. Goldsmith moved:-
That the following names be substituted in the Treble Boh methads for those contained in the committee's lizt, yiz.: No. 16
 Fuchsia") "Chiltern" No. ${ }^{22}$ (for "Foxglowe") "Colswold"; No. 23 (for "Hracinll?") Mendip"; No. 24 (for Marigold ") "P'ennine"; No. 27 (for " Dallia ") "Quantock" and No. 28 (for "Geraniun ") "Showden.
The proposer said that the avoidance of flower names, as suygested, was more digaified is belitting a product of mallienatical seience, and that thoy were in substitution of manes of recent origin only. Mr. P. J. Johnson, lunving seconded the motion, Mr. E. W. The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn then moved the dieletion of the words Castle ${ }^{3}$ and ' Abbey' from the names of Delight methuds, whici as secouded by Mr. T. F. Beams, and, after some explanatory emarks by the Revs. H. Law James and H. Drake, the notion was carried.
Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, having called the gttention of the Council So fertain difficulties which arose in the ringing of some Double Surprise Minor methods, Mr. J. Faulkner also pointed out diffculties which appeared to have urisen in connection with lie mames Primmose' and 'Canterbury,' wherenpon M1r. Trollope, for the committee, explained that the mame 'Canterbury had t,oen given to the wrong method is the first edition of the Conncil's Collection, and suhsequently corrected by the Analysis Committee. And in regard to 'Primrose,' though the previolls wame was atl older one it wes ereyally fiown in the Exercise to-lay as Primuse, He suggested the printing of na would the printing of appenax of such ana names, when "Kingolve any difficulty. Mr. T. I. Sulter then propasen. That S. Pritchatt the motion was lost.
The Rev. F. Drake then called attention to the following two names, viz, No. 40 of Jrd's-place Delight, 'Bogedone.' and No. 28 of the Surprise methods, ' Inmauuel,' names which he deprected. The President expressed some concurrence, and his suggestion that the committee should look into theso points wats accepted, and the committee's statement received

Also the resirability of consiactigg farther the acoustie properties of towers. mpecially as regards the ringing room. He glso thought much might be done to jmprove the rentilation of these rooms.-Tha Rec. 1. Ial. Siwards seconded and supported the adoption of the report. After some favourable discussion of the honorary librarian"es suggesfions it was, on the motion of the President, agreed that the cominitifes he instructed to inquire into and reporl upon the acoustic difficulties referred to, which he declaved carried.
Mr. E. M. Atkins, having asked what the commitiee were doing in respect to the weiding of old belis, Major Eesse replied finat he lad known cases which werc quite successfill in regard to tone, but it was sitl questionatie how long the bell would stryive, After some momarks by Mr. A. A. Hughes and Mi'. Hunt, on the stresses in bellis, the Hon. Secretary, also replying for the committee, said ilia1 hells were likely to be subjected to such undue stresses, whether they were brazed or recust, sud in regard to tha former fre expressed the hope, as a lover of mediseval bells, that the welding process should be tred wherever practicable. Mr. J. Huat, in seconcling, said that in the West the proposal found general support. It was furkier supported by Mr. F. Fopgood and M1. C. Edwards, but was strongly condemned lyy Mr, Jithes George.

It was thouglit loy Mr. P. T. Johnson and athars, that the proposed diploma should be issued by the afiliated Guilds ath noil hy the Council

Aftor seveabl other spenkers had roiced their riews for and nuninst, on a vote being taken, the motion was decared lost

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards ilen moved his motion, Deprecaling thu discontinamee of the curfew and other traditional bells and calling "pou all those associated with the Council to endearom to pherent stich brearhes with aucient usage. Mr. Edwards reviewed thiss sulhject historically, presenting many interesting facts for the considmation of the Coumcil, and urged fhat the subject luuched linging very closely-
Mr. F. H. Beams, in sceonding, drew attontion to the unfortroate liversion af money left for suil purposes and for the upkerp of binls. Several other speakers supported the motion, but Mr. A. He instanced that the Coumcil liad just pin ups a tablet to the memory of Sir Arthur Heywood. Ar. A. A. THuphes seconderd the motion. But, upon its being opposed hy Mr. James Gearge, Rev. C. A. Mr. Goldsmith explained the shorteomings of the present rale, and stated that the moinou was to place peals of Dontides on patailed lines to peals of Minol: And, while it would not ckelude pitanan's spliced 240 's of Grandsire, it would rule out Lhat practisod ty Mr. Marris whare each 120 sutfered foom at repeition of no less thath 40 changes. His aim was to ruibe the alandari! of peals. Jhu Hev. H. Law James sceonded, and explained the working of the proposedi arrangement.
The Rev. E. S. Powall supportad the mation, but moved a rifler that in a paral the calling shamal be as varied as tha methond or methods would permit.
After some further remarks loy Mr. Oules and Mr. E. 3. A1kins, Fir and against, the motion was carvied withont dissont, nut the rider, on leing secouded and pul separately, was lost by 13 to 9 .
A motion which had beeb received from Mr. W. Ayro, as regards dealing with cases of sickness amongst mentors, not having hece soconded, was ruled out of order, and the Conncil procecterl t.o consider the place for next Year's mecting. Tho president stated hate the stavding Committer reconnmended Chelmsford for 1929, in respect of which they had hat an invitation from the Nosex Association.
Blackburn, as an allemutive, luming been proposed and secondin, vote was taken, and Chelrisford was caryied by a large majority. The ahave concluded the formal business. But as the hour was not late, the Council gave permixsion, on the motion af the Presi-

Mr. R. Whittington propesied Hath hais Council invite its afillated associations and Guilds to unite in a scherae tor keeping toucl wiln ringers who removo from onc arca to another. Mr. Whittington, laving explaiocd lis schence, it was sevonded by Mr. A. H. Pulling, and received general suppor't, ineluding a word of praise from lite President, and was carried mimbithonsty. In connection with the motion, Mr. Goldsmilh olierwd to pableth its "The Ringing World, once a rear, a complete list if the sceretaries of thi" sfiliatme. Guilds, in order to facilitate itheremmamication.
There were two other motions on the addenda, and wich hatd been considered by the Stumiang Connmittee, but the president ruled them out of order. ## AN ABRIDGED SYSTEM OF PROOF

HlfRatIONS C. $A N D$ D.-The Hidden Factors will be the leadthds of those leadr which are indicated by the positionat pairs in the corbliastions (it is unnecessary to hring them "home' as beforej; by the lleabltants from these Hidden Factors transpose the leadneads of the courzing puirg, as done in the other sytem. The results will lue the false course ends, wilh the tenors in the places inclicated by the coursing and positional pairs, as ugual.
It is a grood plan to prepare a table of lead-ends, whicls will peint to the lead-end row of any lead-liead immediately, and which will be standard to atry regular methorl. There are seven, any whe of which may appear as the firsh lead-ent of a mothon, and they are given in the first column of the table helow. The same sever will, of conrge, keep recurring, no matier which of them is tho first leadend. "Ihe other soven column aic headed by the lead-end which is the first in the methor? under consideration, and tabulated in each column are the lead-heeds, to which the lend-end in the first columal pertains; e.g., our lead-end in London Major being 1462. cte. we use the fourth edumn; and, requiring the lead-end of the $2 / 3$ bud for insture aposite the 213 (in column 14, we find colum: No. 1 , the leas-end 15372846 .

| 15372846 | 315 | 517 | 213 | $7 / 8$ | $2 / 4$ | $6 / 8$ | 4/6 |

| 17.58 .624 | 213 | $3 / 5$ | $2 / 4$ | $5 \cdot 7$ | 4/6 | $7 / 8$ | $6 / 8$ |
| 18765432 | $2 / 4$ | 2/3 | 416 | 3/5 | 6/8 | 5/7 | $7 / 8$ |

We have, then, two combinations from the downward treatment of row 5 5-7, wiz. 35 in $4 / 6$ and 23 in $6 / 8$, which have to he transposed back 10 the ieratends of the positional para. Read, in row 5, the Fithun Factors, first tha A/6 lead-end in the table (18765432), and then the $6 / 8$ jead-end (16847253). The resuliants, from row 7 , are 18762435 and 16847523 respectively. $B y$ ihese we transpose the enurning pais lead-heads ( 35 and 23). The TiH 15738264 , transposed by the Resultanl. 18762435, gives 14625378. The JLS 17856342, transppstil by (R) 16842523 , gives 13254678 . Thus we have l'C (315) - 46253 (4/6), and PC (2/3) - 32546 (6/8), respectively, for the two mombinations from the downward treatment.

The npwards combinations we found to he inlentical, riza: 35 in 46 and 23 in $6 / 8$; the same Hidden Factors roat, in row 7, produce, from row 5 , identical results with thase from tie dowaward treatment. This mo happens, and need not of necessity be tho case.

There are new four further comhmations from the other pair of row's with the weble in third's place (whicli appear in the lower hall of the mellod), and these combintions will be the reverse of the alove, and happen to be in the same coarses. 'linas wre have

(Contianed from previons column.)

I am indebted to Mr. Georgo Baker for a courtcots explanation of his 'provitg value.' It was his use, as a row, of the positions aceupied by rounds in another" row, which led me to a proper undergtanding of chis fact, viz. : That a string of mumhers in atow may Ippify not only bells or positions, but, upon occasion, both of these. Further, by a cursory examination of the original draft of this article, Mr. Baker was able do correct certain obvious faltacies which appeared therein, for which I owe intm thanks. There may be some which still remaim, and the jnterested yeader slould rstare himgelf, by comparison with die orthodox, that fhese systems will work satisfactorily.

If he will take this troublo and will master the two systems, it may show profit. Ho will find that, by using the fables given herein, it is not impossible to sutisfy himself, withim three minutes, that a method with symmetrical seetions has a clean proof seala; ami that, well within fifteen, lie can prove a method which produces five false course ends in ten combinations:
Provided, as I have said, le is satisfied that the sysben will 'work. A supplementary article is to lollow on a further means of condensing the proof.

THE $18 \pm$ TON RINGING BELL the Bourdon of the Carillon of 64 Bells, about to be installeả at Riverside Cedrch, New Yorr, U.S.A.

One of the most striking things about our ringing organisations is the amount of work which many of the officials put in out of sheer love of the art and a desire to do all in their power to promote it. There are men holding office to-day who have bech carrsing on their task without fee or reward for more than a quarter of a century. Neither the apathy of the majority of the ringers nor their disinclination to shoulder either work or responsibility, deters these bulwarks of the Exercise lrom giving up their time and labour in the interests of ringing and of the organisations which they bave done so much to foster. Tbese men are the backbone of the Exercise. It is they who labour that others may benefit ; they who plan that others may enjoy the result of their energy and their enterprise. But with all the seeming indifference of ringers, there are occasions when the rank and file readily show that beneath the surface there is whole hearted appreciation of what has been done on their behalf. Such an opportunity has just occurred at Birmingham, where Mr. A. Paddon Smith has retired from the secretaryship of St. Martin's Guild after filling the office with efficiency and distinction for exactly twenty years, precisely the period, curiously enough, that the post was occupied by his predecessor.

Twenty years is a long time for anyone to give in voluntary service to any cause and, although the duties may not always be exacting, the office of secretary to a large ringing Guild, especially one like St. Martin's, which organises an annual gathering that is something in the nature of a national event, involves an amount of labour which none but those who have undertaken it can fully realise. Mr. Paddon Smith has severed his connection with office to the great regret of the members, who have not been slow to mark their appreciation of all he has done for them. The presentation made to him at the Johnson Commemoration Dinner on Saturday was a tangible recognition of that ungrudging labour, which has in no small measure contributed to the building up of the St. Martin's Guild to the position it holds to-day among the foremost ringing societies in the country. St. Martin's Society-was for long of purely parochial, or, at best, of limited urban importance. But it had great traditions in the annals of ringing and gradually attracted to its ranks the leading exponents of the art throughout the country, who were led to visit Birmingham on account of the part which it played in the Exercise. Then came the formation of the diocese of Birmingham, and St. Martin's Soctety seized its opportunity for expansion. The twenty years during whicti Mr.

(Tune, 'The Framer's Boy.')
As o'er The Plain' I wead my way, To take tine Tenor Bell
The dark brown earth, well strewn with aint, Yields up a goodly smell.
The corey whirra away on wing,
And 'puss' leaps up and 皿ees.
The peewhits pipe their mewing cry
An they swing-to in the bresze-the breeze. As they swing-to in the breeze.
The only music that I hear,
Born on the fitful wind,
Is 'Grandsira' mingling with the laric, A mile or bo behind
No rasping Klaxon's shriets doth break
God's peace on earth this morn,
For Satan's surely hound to-day,
And nought but peace is born-is born, And nought but peace is born.
Harti Netheravon raise their bellp, So we must speed our ways.
The plunging 'salliss ' soon shall merte The music of God's praige
And the ring of aix their voiges mix
With e world that's good today.
Thus this dear, dear land ahall ever siand
The grey set pearl it ever lay, The pearl it ever lay.

JOHN BRIANT.

THE MEMORIAL TO TRE HERTFOHD BELL FOUNDER.

The ceatenary of the death of Johm Briant, the noted Fertford church bell founder and turrei clockmaker, was celebrated at Hertford, on Wexlnesday, February 27th, the numiversary of his death. Briant was a native of Suffolk, and came to Hertford when 30 years of age, set up a hell foundry in Parliament Row, and for 45 years was famoug throlughout England as a churclı belfounder and turret clocknaker. We are indebied to the "Herts Mereury' for the following report of the proceedings:
The mentenary celebration took the form of a memorial service at All Sainss Clurch, Hertford, where, through the instrumentality of the East Herls Archeological Sociely, a tablet has been erected by public subscription, and fixed on the south-east pillar of the tower. This tablet was unveiled during the serwice by the Mayor Hertford, Sit Lionel Faudel-Phillips, Bart., in the presence of a representative gathering of bellyingers and archæologists from London aud all parts of Hertfordshire.
The table is composed of bell metal, and bears the following in-eription:-

- I'm satisfien with the station of life that God has placed me in. Tve enjoped more real pleasure in my favaurite pursuits than the wealth of Indin corlu aford. -John Briant
JOEIN BRINNT
Bellfounder and 'lumet Clock Maker, of Parlianent Row, Bertford, passed to lits l'est 27th Febrtary, 1829, in his 81st year.

Nr. Hertherl O. Audrews, the hon. secretary of the East Herts Arehoological Society, at the comelusion of the service, stated that ivo pears ago it came to the knovledge of the society that one of Hertfort's humble, thougls most worthy sitizens lad never received The recognitiou than was due to hink, via, John Briant, famous throughoat England as a hell founder and clockmaker. As a result of a suggestion then made they were assembled that attemoon to unveil a tablet which had heen erected to his memory.

Sir Zionel Fawdel-Pbillips, having unveiled the lablet, said: It is a great pleasure to me to come here to unveil tle lablet erected to the honour of that great hellfounder and turreli clocknaker, John Briant, of Hertford. who died one hundred years ago todaj, and ${ }^{w}$ liose mortal remains lie in the churchyard of All Sajnts', adjoining this beatilitu editice. John Briant was a greati oraftsman; a man whon Hertfordshire might well be broud. His work is knowa all fond lurrets, far and wide. Like usany ofiner master craftumen, he died a complete failute, financially, in the Harlborough Almshouses St. Alhans, a very seriking testimony to lis own words in which ive satd: "Im satisfed with the station of life that Got las placed me in. Гw enjored more real pleasure in my favourite purstits than thir wralth of India could afford. Many who hear the beatitiful results of John Briant s genius thoughout the whole country Will agmee that it is a righi and propel thing that this tablet, which I bave had the homour do mareil ioday, should be crected as a perpetual memorial to lis name and fame.
In the absence of the Archeracon of St. Albans, who was umable to be present throngh illness, the dedicatory prayers were then pronownecd hy the Rural Dean of Herdord, the Rev. N. 'I', Fardaer, Rectar of St. Andsew"s, commenning with the words: 'We dedicale this tablet to the filory of Gof and in memory of his servant, John Briant.
The serwioe suas conducted hy the Vicar of All Saints', the Rev. T. Landulph Smith, and the lessor was read by Mr. Herbert Ansrews.

Beforte alta atter the service the members of lise Fertford Society of Colloge Touths rang vouehes on All Sainus" bells, which were balfmufled, and again in the evening they rang on St. Andrew's Church bells, which were made hy John Briaut. Pwo of the olk hells at All Saints herore the churcli was bunt down in 1891 weve also made by him, and were nsed jn the casting of the new peal.
Johm Briant's Lambsione in All Saints' Chucclyard has been methored and renowatel at the expense of tho East Herls Anchrenogical Saciety. and after the serviee on Wednestay fom members of the Ancient Society of College Fouths came from London for the celebration, with XIr. It was it great satisfaction to do honour to such a man as John Briant, who made things that were good and heautiful as well as usefu. "I firm almost a worshipper of clocks, said Sir Lionel. ## WHAT SHALL CONSTITUTE A PEAL?

Destr Sir, In answes to Mr. Powell's letter in your issue of Februfely 15th, 1929 , giving notice of his intention of ringing a certain arrangutin of 5,040 rows of Grardsire Triples, I question his statetement that ' il is, in fact, exactly similar in all respects to any indi-中1dual 720 ju Mr. Bankes James arrangement." No one questions Whe trults of the first 719 rows of any individual 720 in Mr. Bankes James" pecal ; it is the 720 th row that all the fuss is about. Now, my point is that we can get inom tho $719 \mathrm{tl} \mathrm{l}_{1}$ row baok to rouads (asgumtag that the 720 started foun rounas) by either making a plain lead clange of a bob change. and I submit that this is essentially diffurmil luma Mr. Powell sifea of ending lis peal of Grandsire ifiples with we row 2164735
I wist to make it clank that I amb not using this argument in favour eff the contentinn that Mr. James' peal of Cambridge Minor compline with the Central Comeil's rules, hat simply as a means of [rointing out the difference between the two cases.
Tt: any case, Mr. Powril cannot expect his performance (if successfuli to be freepted by the Coutral Couneil os a true peal in face of the conditions requirad for peals" (gee page 15 of Rales and Decisions of the Council, 2nd edition, 1927, which, to the best of my linawledge, lins not been superseded), which begins: 'On all numhers wh bells a trae peal shall in all cases start from and end with rennds. 'This is perfeclly definite, and, to my mind, leaves Mr. Powell no loopliole of estape.
Witl ragard to thp muclu-debated question of 720 's of Minor, it seems Lo mo that tha, whole matter hinges on whether we cousider rounds as the first row of the 720 ov the last. If we adanit that roninds is counted as the first row, we are well an the way to admiting Mr. James' Cambidge Minor as a true peal. It does at Least pomo round al rihe end. (Of course, some of the 720's would not sharl, with 123456 , hut with 142356 and $13+256$, luat if we admit a 720 bluling wilh 123456 , ant ending at handstroke in the 124365, we might as well adnit Gate starting with 134256 and eudiug wibh 132-165.

Now file point is, are we prepared to admif that rounds is counfed & llu- linst row aud ueed not appear at the end? Is lie Central Conneit, is representing the Excrcise as a whole, prepared to admit this: OH all numbers of bolls greator than six thie conditions re quired for peals, which I have quoled above, provides a perfecty defirnte answer in the nerative. A peal must start from and end widn menals." I would driw paticular attention to the word 'from ' peal Etarlis from, not with rounds.
It mus be argued with reuson, thauglt wot witle finality, that this applies a so to 720's of Minor and $1200^{\circ} \mathrm{s}$ of Doubles, th the wovd "peral " was often used to mean "extent' in the case of tive amrt six Jeflis, I ruggest that when this condilion was laid down it was meand to apply not only to "penls" hut to "touches * generally, thongla lais is merely conjechure and chanot be ased as proof onc way ar the othar.
Ninf, HL: Law James, in Lis lelter in pour issue of February $22 n d$, 1929. falls itho n not attommon, hut none the less grietous, ertor of arfoment. He sets aut holdy by stating what he wants to prove, amel then draws whious rondusions, making no attempt whatever to suhsiunliate his sLalurionts. This is po proof at nll. Mr. James En5: ... Me get 123456, which is net pate of the first 720 but the
 to the: lirsid 123456, which is not the last row of the peal but only the first row repeated."
(in what athorily twes Mr. Jiantes make these statements, and bow dives he regoncile the second of then wills fhe above exituct from the Curntal Conncil's Rules und Decisions, which, I Elank, will heat repetilion, A peal alall in all eases stian from and end with mullais "p-Yours faiditutly

BRISTOL RINGERS AND CENTRAL COUNCIL

PROPOSAL NOT TO AFFILIATL.
A proposal that the Gioucester and Bristol Assaciation should cease to be affilited to the Ceatral Council was made to the monthy meeting of the Bristol Brameh held at St. Peter's, Bristol, on Fehruary 23 rd , when about 50 members aftended.
During the afternoon the bells wore rutig to all the popular methods, and the serrice was Laken by the Vicar, who also gave a very interesting address. Tea followed in the Parish Room, after which a bust buess metirg was lield, at which six performine membors were elected.
The Chairman said that it han been suggested to him that if the secratary could obtain a charabunc for the convenience of membera attending the annual meeting at Glipperbam, it would be of great assisfance. He aut it to the meeting, and it was decided that the secretary should, if possible, obtain one.

Mr- Guise, one of the association's representatives on the Gentral Conneil, gave notice of a proposition to alter rule No. 1 by the deletion of the words, "and shall be affilisted to the Central Conncil." Ee said the constitution of the Ceutral Council rules was not that of a tru representation of ringers throughout England, and that the associations had no voice in their rulings except in such aseb where the representatives chosen thouglat alike with their associations. The question of diplomas for vingers was definitely referrect to the assaciations, nud the representatives, upou obtaining instruction from their associations, were told by the president of the Central Council last year that they were to vote as membens of the Council and not as delegates. He anid, further, that as hon, secrefary of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, he accepted the office of pepresentative, and now that he was conversant with the rules of the Central Council, lie felt that lie could no longer act in this capacity as the word meall mothing of value to the association. He pointed out that the rules of the Council stated that no nember should rote until the association he represented bail pairl the fee of 2 s . Gd., and upon this rule being carried out a farther rule stated that the representative would he a nember of the Council and not vecessanily a representative of his association.
ML. J. Gould said be heartily agreed with what Mr. Guise had said, and would give lrim all his support.
This finished the business, alld ML", Gould, Hanking all for itacir presence, vacated the platform in favour of the chatrman of the Bristol United Guilds, whose anmal meering followed inmedatelv:

Fite said how fine a thing it was to ring a peal in honowr of the work that one minister had done, and then to ring a peal of welcome to his successor. Ee also said how good it was to have ringers from other perishes at such a service as that, for each churcls should get ousside and beyond its own parish, if they were to promoto the spirit of friendliness and fellowship.

Seventy years ago to-day a peal of 10,047 Steriman Cater's was 1 ung in 6 hrs. 16 mins. at Aston "by a miscellaneous company.' 'Tlise above peal,' says the record, 'was rung single-banded, and what eminently combines to enrich this performance is, it was rumg at the firat atfempt, and is the greatest number of changes ever completed in this intricate system. If was composed for this occasion by Henry Johnson and ably conducted by John Perks.'
On March 8th, 1737, a peal of 12,603 Grandsite Caters wins rung at Norwich in $8 \mathrm{hrs} .15 \mathrm{mins}$. , and was the longest in the method up to that time. Indeed, it was a great performance, seeing how baort a time before that the firat ter-bell peal was lithg.
The first peal of Treble Bob Maximus was rung at Soutlwark ly the College Youths on Mareh 12th, 1758.
The London Scholars, who afterwayds became the Royal Cumberland Yowths, rang the firat peal on the twelve bells of St. Martins-in-the-Fields, London, on March 14th, 1727. It was at 6,006 G14arsaire Cinques. The noxt day the College Youths wert there, amd rang a peal of 6,314 in the same method.

ST. GEORGE'S, SOUTHWARK.  To the Editar.

Dear Bir,-I was interested in the announcement contuined in "The Ringing World' dated February 15 th regarding the tower of St. George-the-Martyr, Southwark, which is now the lieadquariens ol the Metropolitan Police Guild. It was stafed that only call changes liad been rung here for many jears.
This church formerly possessed a very able band of change ringers, but its activities had to be suspended during the war. Tlie society lost several of its members in the war, bit it was restarted with the introduction of a few recruiks, of whom I was ore, ancl subsequently met with a good measure of success in change ringing. On the arrival of the prosent Rector, however, thinge were made too $111-$ comfortable for any self-respecting body, with the yesult that the members desiced to sever their conncetion.
Since that time, it is true, I believe, that no regular change ringing lins taken place. I cannot help wondering whether the Restor sfill intends to make the stipulation that ouly those who attend ilre services shall be allowed to ring the bells, and, further, whether tims Folice Guild las agrced to observe this rule. Some, no douh, would be inclined to sympatiise with a church possessing a good ring or belle which are not of hen rugg, but if the Rector's geveral atitude romains as it was $J$ cannat prophesy a long and happy ronnection with any ordinary company of change ringers. - Your faithinlly

Dear Sirt-Re the article published in your issue of the 22nd ult., and headen 'An old Manchester record,' I rhink that there musi be a great error, either on the part of the writer of the sume, or otherwise the printers, or compositors, inasmanh, if ran yead eatetully, you will note that the peal Kent Freble Bob Roval, consisting of 8,000 changes, is vecorded as hawing been ramg on Fohruary 23 r , 1830, whereas in another part of the matter it is stated that the hells were nof augmented to a penl fem until the verar 1835, of five yeam later than the fapossilile peal on eigint hells.

THE JOHNSON COMMEMORATION DINNER.

The forty-first gathering of ringers popularly known as the 'Johneon Dinnal' took place in Birminglam an Saturday, and although the attendance suficred somewhat through the illness of many who would otherwise have-been present, the Comnaught Rom of the Joperial Hotel was alled with a representative and happy company. In the afternoon the new bells at St. Martin's Cuurch were tried by a number of viaitors who thovoughly enjoyed the experience, while others ment to the Gathertral where the "pleasure" was tempered by the opportunity of ringing on badly-going peal of poor bells. Howover, the belfries were the rallying point of the gathering, and 8 company of nearly 140 sat down to dinuer later, undex the chairmanship of the Rectar of Bismingham (Canon T?. Guy Rogers). ## SCIENGE AND RELIGION

Mr. Reeves said that owing to lithe eriticisms and the differences belween the watious ruling bodies of the Clarch, the nverage layman dif not know quite where he stood. They had the challenge of the scientists which apparently knocked the very foundations of the faith of the Clurch away, but really did nothing of the sort Science itself was constanly doveloping, and what was onec necopted es true is proved by new knowledgri to be false; whereas the foundations of the Ghurch were in thatis itself, and the developments of science ouly go to prove more and more how sure are the Church's foundation. As regards the Siate, there werg many whe would like to see the Claureli freed from any connection with the State, especially after the recent controversy. The union was to the Clareh a matter of secondary importance. Slue was a divine society founded on Christ Himself, having for its ends the salvation of souls, and should she he separated from the Stare might well fulfil all her 1 unctions to perfection. Not so with the State. Take away the upfifting infucuce of the Church, nuth he was afraid it would become more and more materialistic and selfish. He would say, in conclusion, let Chureh and State continue to go hand in hamd and work together for the uplifting of the uation and the world in general.
The Rector, in reply, said $\mathrm{Mr}^{2}$. Reeves ${ }^{4}$ speech oponed the way to him to give them a long lecture, but he must content himself with a fow words. There was only one God, and iherefore the Gor of science and the Gorl of religion was one aud the same. Given time and patience, an open mind and a ready heart, they would eventually fina that the truth which came from religion and the fruth which came fran snience could be bamoniously blended. Therefore he was not in the least alarmed with the different shocks that came tio Elrem. With regard to the relations between Chureh and Siate, there wha any great quarrel with the State on any big moral issue ho would he amolig the first to ask for the freedorm of the Church, but ho did not fcel there was any great spiritual or moral question which lad arisen to divide Church and State. He was perfectiy happy to retain their connection with the State at the present moment, aud he felt that whalever action Parliament took in counection wilh the Prayer Book was taken deliberately in the Euterest of the Chureh itself. He believed Parliament believer the Church did not know its own mind suffieiently. THere was a strong minority in the Charel against the proposed revised Prayer Book, muri that being the case the State might Le well justilied in saviug, You must bold your ltand for the moment.' Continuing, the Rector thanked the Guikd for asking him to preside at bliat gathering. It wha a matter of greal regret tu him that Mr. Jadan Sumith had resigued the secretaryship after 20 years of splendid service. hat kow accepted the oftice of vice-president, which was a signal mark of the Guild's trust and conlidence in him now that he liad resigned the important post of secretary. He (the Rector) would like to express his own appreciation of Mr. Smith's kindness and his work for the Guild (applanse). He would also like to add lis appreciation of Mr. Recves. Ho felt they would find in him one who would consider the interests of the Guide, who would not jail them, and who would be a worthy successor to Mr. Smith lapplause).

HOW JOHNSON CONDUCTED A 'SJLNNT' PEAL.

Mr. John Jaggar proposed the toast of 'The immortal memory of Henry Johnson, and related the story of his verious meetings with the Birainglam veteran. CATHEDRAL BELLS RESTORAT1ON SCHLME SFFLYED.
During the year 1928 the Guild had gone steadily on and? had bew vory successfut, althongh it hari not heen able to ring so many peals
-fon obvons reasons. Eighteen peats had heen rung duribg the year, consisting of Girandsire, Livin aml Stadman Triples, Boh and Double Norwieh Major, Kent Trehle Boh rud Cashridge Surprise Royal, fud seven peals of Stedman Gimples. Tlaege Siedman Cingues iustuded a peal which was Mr. James tieorge's one thousandic peal (applause). Thero were only five persuns living who had rung over a thousand peals, and they had two of hem present kiat night, Mr. Gearge R. Pye, in addition to Mr: James George. It was a wonderful thing to ring a thonsand peals, and wery few men were able to accomplish it. Whring the yens the great event in their Guid dad beon the recusting and rolianging of the bells of St, Mrevin's Chureh, and a very bentafiful peal they now had, and one they were proud of, and hoped the Ciby of Birmingham would be proud oi'. Unfortundely, owing to illioss, the usual practioe and peal ninging had not yet been resumed, but they hoped they would be very shortly. Another interesting event, in which he personafly took parit, was the reopening of the twolva balls at Lincoln Cathedral. They, also, were a vory beantifil peal. Then thete was the reopening of the twelve bells at Woreosfer. Jhat also wat a memorable event in the amals of vinging during the past year. They had a Cathermi in Biminghan: unfortunately, the bells there were, in his opinion, worse than useless; they were a positive nuisauce-a nuisamee to those who hemed thern and a musance to those who had the misfortuno to ring them. The authorities of the Cathedral had the opportanity last year to do something to make them a credit to the Cathedral and the town by having the bells rectst and reaung, like the bells of the Parish Cliurch. Appareutly, the money was Fortheoming. They appealed for three Ehousand potmds nud they gat s5, 200 , but no pressure, tho solicitalious, aud no exliortation could persuade them to emulato the cxample of the Parish Olurch rand insfall a decent peal of bells ('SLame'). PRESENTATTON TO MR. PADPON SMITA,
The tonst having been drunk, ATderman Prifchett rose again and said that the honour liad fatlen to him to make a presentation to Mr. Paddon Snith. No words of his evold adecuately express their sense of appreciation of the services which had been so long and so efficiently rendered to St: Martin's Guild, and to the Art and Exercise in general by Mr. Paddon Smith, but they had endeavoured to express their feeling in a concrete form by making a presentation. this was to consist of a tea and coflee service, of beaten pewter, aud a three-tier dinner wagon, which could be converted into a table. He congratulater Mr. Snith, not only upon receiving that token of the admiration amd regard of his friends aud brolber ringers, but also upon daving his wife and two sous present to witness the esteem in which he was lich by the members of the Guild (applause).
Mr. Albert Walker paid a tribute to the services reudered by Mr. Snith, aud said that lais lask as Deputy Ringing Master had been made very much easier hy his assaciation with Mr. Snitll, who had done wonders for the Guild. Mr. Smith tad promised to resign on several occasions, but when this time he told them he liad finally determined to do so, it really came as a bit of a hombshelf. Ti'hey had not been left with auch time to organise that presentation, but there had been a ready response from friends in mayy parts of the country, and he had received some remarkable letters of appreciation of Mr. Smith's sorvices, not only to the Guild, but to the Exercise in general. He felt sure Mr. Smith would prize the gifis, which would eventually be suitably inseribed, and he hoped Mr. Sroith would always treasnue these mementoes of his long period as their secretary. He was glad to know thit although 3ly. Sinith had resigned the secretaryship he would not lose one iota of his interest in St. Martin's Guifd or in ringing (applanse).
Mr. T. Reeves also spoke, and referred to the datys when he and Mr. Smitll used to walk together three or four nights a week to practise at the various chmelies. Fe knew Mr. Smith had had his heart in the work as secretary of St. Martin's Guikd, and The (Mr. Recres) took the wark over from him, knowing he would receive from Mr-Smith all the support possilile. In finct, but for that he would not have agreed to lake on the position. The wished MrSmith suecess in his retirement from the cares of olfice, knowing full well that his interest in ringing and the tower of St. Martin's would continue (applanse).

Alderman Prithelt, though the gharman, then handed the tea and coffee bet to Mr. Smith amid applatuse. The table has not yet been deliverad from the manufacturers.

LOORTNG BACK.
Mr. Smith, who was very warmly cheercd, acknowledged the gifis. $H_{0}$ thanked the speakers for their ftatering remarks and the members for their presents. It was not every man, he said, who got his work appreciated as the members of St. Marting F Fuild and other Guilds had appreciated his, as shown by blose very handsome gifts. Twenty years continued Mr. Smith, was a long period. It was a big slice out of a man's life, yet. lookint badk on his twonty years as secretary, he could only wonder att tile speed with which it Lad gone. He would like to read two extracts from the minutes of St: Martin's Guild whidh he cante atross the other day: One was of a meeting on January 8th, 1889, 九t SL. Martin's Mission Foom (evea the buildiug was gone now), Mr. Henry Johnsan being in the chair. It was proposed by Mr. John Day, seconded by the Rev. H. C.
Courtney, and unanimonsly resolved that Mr. W. H. Goden ba elected Becretary of the Guild. Among those present at that meeting wore those whose names were household words in those days: Henry Johnson, Farry Bastable, Samucl Reeves, Wrm. Roek Small, John Saunders and Thomas Russam. Of all the names mentioned, only one man survived. It was Mr . Thomas Russam, and he the speaker') was sow'y that Mr. Russam was not well enough to be there that night. Twenty yearg later (1909y a meeting was held at the Church House, Mool Street (now no longer occupied by the clavols), with the Lord Bishop of Birmingharm in the dhatr. On the motion of Mr. Painter, seconad loy Mr. Russam, ho (Mr. Smith) was elected secretary of the Guild. Aldermat Pritchoth had spoken of the Guild going on for ever, but the Alderman himself seemed to be like Temyson's lurook. He semmed to go an for ever (applause). In the mintites of that meeting it was remorded that mr. servies. Only a few noments ago lie had done the same of him (Mr. Smithi), and he hoped sincerely that whell Mr. Reeves had done twenty years as scoretary Alderman luildiett would he thero to speak as nicely of Mr. Reeves as he had of Mr. Gridern and himsolf (applause). That mecting in 1909 was the only time in the hisfory of their Guild when they lad their matron, the Bishop, present at one of their meetings. Alderman Prituhett Jad said he thought Mr. Josepli Johmon was tile only person present that night who was hat the first commemovation dinuer. There were Lwo ofhers still surviving, but who were not sitin them that night-II', Themas Russam and Mr. Willimm Kent. During the Lwenty jears be bad been secretary the Guild had grown stronger, hoth vumerically and financially, than it had ever been. When he took up the jols he made a resolulion that be would do his very best not only to meintain unnarmished its traditions, of which he was very prond, but, if it were possible, to enhance them. If the Guild was now stronger than ever it was before, it was not owing only to his personal efforts but to the mbsuerving aud loyil support of evory brother offeer in the Guild (applatise). He could only hope that his successon would have the same support, and leg was not only fopiag but he felt stre he would get ii. These presents would occupy a very prominent position in his home, and would remind him for the rest of his natural life of the very many happy friendships he had formed and the many happy hours he had spent among bellringers (applause)

A GIET TO ST MARTINS TOWLER.

Another presentation followed. Mr. F. E. Dawe Ieferred to the lrearty welcome which was always extended to visitors to St. Martin's belfry and to the friendships that were there set up and comented. He said the ringers there were proud of their bells and of their rioging chanlber. He knew they were protid of their Rectou and churchwardens, and he believed their chairman was proud of his ringers. Seventeen years ago he (M1. Dawe) had the pleasure of lyeing their chairman, and on that oecasion he presented to the belfry a small photograph of the eliurch. He could not help thinking now that that photograph was tolally inadequate to the surroundings. He therefore ungarthed the old negative, had had it enlarged, and the picture framed to take the place of that earlier one. As it happened, although it had nob been mentioned, he was one of those who were present at the first Johuson dimer. Henry Tohnsan lifmself was there, in wonderful form, shremd, witly, clearheaded and humorous. He was traly a wouderful man. Althougla 53 years separated Henry Johnson's birthtay and his own, they were not only friends, but, which was very unusual for an old man and coung one, they were 'pals." He (the speaker) was neper able hoard money, but he cherished the letters which he received from nany distinguished persons. Fe was now going to collect the letters he liad received from Johnson, Reeves, Bashable and many otliersJohnson's letters were particularly interesting, and contajned many of the old man*a composilions-and it was lis intention, if the Cuik would accept then, to band them over at an early dase to hir. Reeves to be preserved in the archives (hear, hear). Fe loped o do the same thing with the letlers of other notable persons of 50 years ago, and to gire his letters from Hiley to the College Youths: those from John Cox to the Cunberlanels; those from Jasper Snow don to the Yorkshire Association: while those of James Wash-brook would find their way to the Oxford Guikd (applanse). Fe asked St. Martin's Guild to accept the gift of the picture in the lope that it would find a place in the ringing chamber (applause). The Rector gratefully accepted the gift on behalf of the Guild, and said it would be treasured in the ringing ehamber.
Mr. Alhert Walker proposed "The Visitors, ${ }^{\text {a }}$ and extendert a cordial wheome to the representatives of the many societies who had come to join St. Murlin's Guila in that commemoration. Referring to tho vatious dimars now held in difterent patts of the country, he said some of the smaller ones were held too elose to the larger gatherings, and he suggested that the organisers should endeavour to spread them out somewhat. They onglit to give every encourageinent to these dinuers which cemeated the fellowship thd brotherheorl anong ringers.

'PHE RECTOR ON THT RACT.

Mr. C. F. Johnston, who first respondect, said in coming to that athering, visitors ulways felt that their time and frouble were well They feli thai this roar they were present on an atspicious arasion. They had been presenting most morthy, hatworking menenfo, and they had leen Iistening to the new peal in St. Martints they liad enjoyed a very goorl dinnel aud had listened to thme most finished speeches, He felt he was interpreting the wishes the wisitors when he said they were enjoving themselves. He greed that if these dinners could be divided into periods it might e a litile easier for those visitors who wished to attend them. Last car an that gathering the Rector appeared to be rather on the rack there werc so mary attempts at advice as to how St. Martin's hells should be litugg athrl how they shomitd lae cast. They alf felt fome measure of pity for the Rector, and therefore they came that fay to join in their compliments anm congratulations to him and to the anthoritice at St. Wartin's who hat aut the gowlian knof. Flyey had gat their peal back rgain: everyood was happy in Birmingham. and they wele there to witness thein pleasure that evening applanze)
31r. E. W. 厄iwela also responded, and referved to the way ith which suct gatherings promoted good fellowship among ringerts, and by mat mea us did a great deal tes inprove change nimging and to keep members of the Exercise enthusinstic, keen, loyal ind good friendis one with another. From the geogiepliterl advailage which they hat in Frmmingham, the Fenry Johnson dimer drew vingors iron ald corners of the land, for they could get there without unduc, trothle. Those who came to that dimen were not oreatod as visitors, hut (Continued in next columw.j)

CENTRAL COUNCIL POLICY.

A fortnight ago we referred to the position of the Central Council in regard to the affiliated associations, and pointed out how the process of time had led to a growing opinion in some quarters that the relationship should be placed upon a different foundation to that which has existed since the formation of the Council nearly forty years ago. When the article was written we wre not aware of the strong feeling which had developed among a section of ringers in the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, and which has led to the suggestion that the association should withdraw from the Council until, in effect, the latter's constitution is' amended so that its policy retlects the views of the affiliated organisations instead of merely registering the private opinions of the elected representatives. As we said a fortnight. ago, this issue has got to be faced sooner or later, but it would, we think, be a disastrous step if associations, which may feel that change is necessary, should withdraw from the Council at this stage.

There are, of course, two sides to this, as to most questions, and the arguments in favour of maintaining the status quo are cogently put, in a letter elsewhere in this issue, by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, who, for so many years, was hon. secretary of the Cotncil. The point of Mr. Davies' contention is that representatives should heat the pros and cons of every subject before they come to a decision, and that they should not attend the Council meetings committed to vote one way or the other without having had the opportunity of hearing the arguments on all sides. There is much force in this contention, but ringers will ask what use is it, then, for the Council, as they have done on some fow occasions, to refer a matter to the associations for their views-as for instance in the case of the proposed diplonas for young ringers? Mr. Davies also argues that it is up to the associations to elect men who are in sympathy with the views of those who send them, but the difficulty in this mateer is that the representatives are elected only ance in three years and in the intervening period all sorts of things may crop up in which the associations and the representatives may difier

If the present policy of the Council is to be continued. it seems to us that to ensure the sympathetic representation of which Mr. Davies speaks, the constitution of the Council will have to be changed, so that the members are elected annually instead of triennially. It that were done the associations would be in a stronger position, and it would not materially affect the Council. Presumably the object of a three-year term of office was to sectire some (Cónthued on page 162.)

continuity of policy in the Council, but there is hardly likely to be any great upheaval by a change to an annual election, and, if there were, then it would be an indication that those who 'pay the piper ' desired a change of tune. The elections take place next year, and it would be a gond time to test the feeling of the asspciations, on matters of this kind.

ANABRIDGED SYSTEMOF PROOF

 BY•MINORMANIA.Iu the recent series of articles under thic Leading [ explinined tuat the false course ends from from 1 w- should beay a wilile relationship one to another; and that, it itis telationship were louth, the systems wouta combine into ane whith would he very unch ubridered. It is absund to have to admir thm iwo very abvious facts had not oceurred to me, and I now hope to puint io a delimite and visible relationship between those coarse eand (with temors tugellur-) which pertain to any four rows.
Given two course ends which cone from two pows of hike nature, the relationship lyetween them should lje govntned by tha Fidden Factor of 23456 , because futh have been produged by transpositions which are relative to rounds: and those which come liont the other pair of like mature rows similarly. In shott, the False course ende which come from rows of like nature ate related by the natural head of the plain condse 123456 ,
The two rows, whence the tirst paic of false course ends come, are related to the other two rows by a transposition of the lead-end of the method, and thas it is obvious that hoth pairs of contre ends should be relnted in some why: and, further, that the relationship should have some bearing upon the lead-end of the method. It was the conceatration apon this lead-ent that blinded me to one very obvious fact, riz., that, nu nater which of the seven "regalar" leadents be used, the relationship, between one pair of course cads and those of the other pair, shonid be standard, because the rows whence the latier come must appear somawhere in the plain course, however the first lead-end zay he varied.
We have, tizen, to decide whicly of the seven lead-cnds is the natural 'end. (in the theoretimal sense of the term 'end') of the plain course, in the same way as ithe lead-heat 12345678 is the natural plain course heat. In the articlea just concluded, I gare a table showing the coursing and positional pairs which the various lead-ends substitate for tho lead-head. It will ho observed therefn that ench lead-end substitutes one pair which is identical with the pair in the lead-hoad. $\ddagger$ have already explain that it is tumaterial which *way the figures of a pair as yend, once the combiuntion is properly establislied. For axamizle, the lead-ad 13254768 substitutes the $3 / 2$ for the $2 / 3$ of the lead-head, the lead-end 14628375 substitutes $4 / 2$ for the $2 / 4$ pair, and so onf. This neans that these particular pairs are undisturbed, and the lead-end which does not disturb the tenors (the $7 / 8$ pair) is 1.24365 .87 ; it is the onty letal-end which has $1-7.8$ 'at. home -a 'counse end,' as it were, and we may assume that 24365 is the natural end af the plain course, wheh should reIate one pair of course ends to the opposite pair, in a similar way to that in which 23456 relintes the unirs of each pair of eourse ende which cone from two lows of like nature. On, altermatirely, 24365 should be the felationship which links the comse ends from hwo rowe of opposite ratures.
Here, then, we lave two trantpositions which possibly will relate the coarse ends from two offl and two even lows, riz: 23456 and 24365, and I have taken the troutle to apply these iranspositions to the gixty, possible course entia (with tenors together). I find that the relationsinps are pertectry proportioned. There are four groups of sixtecn each (this does not meati sixby-fout course ends). Sixtern peirs are linked together luy 2315, rud sisteen pairs by 24365 , eath course end of the paw pronting nie other by the same transposition 23456. (Mr. Baker ierms these : Simple Transposition Rows 'I, and sixteen do likewise when related to 24365 : a total, appayently, of sixty-four. There ave, howerer, four which produce themselves whers related eitber to 23456 or 24305 , which I have counted twice in order to show an equal proportion. Thev are: $23+56,24365,265+3$, anal 25634.

The partioulay form of eransposicion which relates the course ende is hased on Mr. Baker's "Proring Value." The latter provides only for rounds as the Hidden Factor, bul any given row may be used in the same way. They ane related to $23+j 0$ thas:-
Read, in the course end, the separatos

The above is a straghtionward "prosing value' transposibions, as explaincil in the pretious nrricles, viz, the positlons ocempied by rounds in the course end $26+35$, give the P.V. 25463 ; hat I hare shown it in the abow manaer because it is not so simple when rounds is mot the Hidden Facton,

GUIEDFORD DIOCESAN GUIED.

If this is onncrete, it is necessary to produce only one false course and in every four, the remainder resting from these simple transpositions, and this means that only the hali lead of the method is necessary, plus the lead-end row. Below are given two examples, one showing rows of like bature, and the other showing rows of opposite natures, both being taken from the first halves of different methods. If tesired, the ' like nature system may always be ured, taking one row from each half when wecessary, but the double system is, of course, the shorter way. It is uaderstood, in an anymmetrical section, that two pairs of rows moust be dealt with.

ROWS OF LIKE NATERE.

Proceed (as described in the system which deals with rows of like nature, in the previous articles] with the downward treatiment only. If no combintion of coursing and pasitional pairs is revealed, the four rows are "clean. ${ }^{3}$ Produce the false course end for every conbination oltained irom this downward treatment. Then relate the course end (or ends) to 23456, and reverse the combinations. Finally, relate all course-ends to 24365 ; revetse the combinations aud alter them by the lead-end.

Rows.

(Lead-ent, 17583624)
The rows with ihe treble in second's placa (2-4), in this asymmetrical halt-section, are clean.' Rows $1-3$ show one combination ouly78 in 618 : and the false course end is 54263 . Thus we have, from the downward treatment PC(7/8)-54263(6i8). For the upwards, tho rows being of like anture, we relate the course end to $2 \widehat{3} 456$, as in ' $K$, above, giving 46325 , and reversing the combinations, we get PC(6/8)- $46385(7 / 8)$,
Now relate each of these to 24365 , as in "I ' nove, and we get 34562 and 62345 respectively. Then reverse the combinations and alter them to those which the lead-and (17583624) substitutes, as shown in thae table gifen on page 26 of "The Ringing World, of Janury 11 th. The combination 78 in $6 / 8$, when reversed, becomzs 68 in 78 , and the leat-end substitutes 46 in $2 / 4$ for the latter.
The other of the original combinations so treated, will result, of course, in the reversal of the last, viz., 24 in $n^{\prime} 6$. Thus we have $\mathrm{PC}(+6 ;-34562(2 / 4)$. and $\mathrm{PC} \mid 2 / 4-82345(4 / 6)$, as the remoining false course ends which pertain to the four rows with the treble at lead. ROWS QF OPPOSITE NATERES.
For rows of opposite atures the above is exactly reversed. Proceedi as described in the sysimem for opposite mature rows, producing all combinations and their respective false course ends from the downWavi treatment. For the upward, relate the course fad (or ends) to 24365: reverse the combinations and alter them by the lead-end. Finally, relate all course ends to 23456 , and reverse the combinations ordimarily (i, e, withour the lead-end alteration)

Pows.
13.27648513
$\frac{14}{25 .}-72465831$
$15 .+74256813$
$16 .+47528631$
(Lead-c1w 15312846 ) This hati-section is zymmetrical, and only Dhe pair of roms need be treated. Either pain (13-15 or 14161 give ' $46 \mathrm{in} 4 / 6$, with the false course and 32465 ; i.e., PC(4'6)- $32465(4 / 6)$ for the downward treatment. For the upward, the rows leing of opposite natures, we relate the course end to 24365 , giving 43265 . The comhimasion, when reversen, is identical, viz., 46 in +6 . Which, altered by the lead-end sulsstitution gives 78 in $7 / 8$; f.e., $\mathrm{PC}(7 / 8)-4326517 / 8)$.

These two, related to 23456 , and in reversed conbinations, give identical results, and thus the false course ends which govern the eight rows of this section are: $\mathrm{PC}(761-32465(461$, ant $\mathrm{PC}(7) 8)-$ 43265 (7/8).
It is understoot, if the downward treaiment reveals more than one combination and its resultant false course end, that each one must similarly be reated. Tt will be ohserved that the second example shows identical course enas when relaten 10 23456. This might so fappen when relating a course end to 24365 , and, as previously mentioned, when relating to both, in the eases of four of them. Sio that, if the downwame course end shend be either one of 24355 , 26543. or 25634, the whole four in that block will be identical. The combinations might, upon occasion, also be identical. For instance, if the combination were 68 in $68,{ }^{2}$ and the lead-end 15372846 , the raversal would be the same, and the alteration due to the lead-end also would he identical, riz., : 68 in 68 .'

It has been suggested that I should explain the significance of the combinations, once the course ends have been protiuced. They point to the leads of the respectire courses, e.g. PC(2/3)-24365(6/8) means that certain rows in the lead which follows the Niddle, position $(6,8)$ of course headed (and not ented') by 24365 . will be false against rertain rows of the lead which follows the 'Before' position (2:3) of the course headed by 23456 - the plain ccurse.
Herc, then, we have a system which enables us io prove a methot like Cambridge Major in five or Eix minutes, or, perhaps, in less, ly using a iable of related course ends. 1 would compile one ( Mitursmanias Ready Reckoner for Industrious Metlod Provers; False Gourse Fuds al a Glance, 2s. 104. post freel were it not for the fact that being so simple a proposition to compile it for oneself, the sales would he nil!

The first district meeting of this yen of the Guildford Diztruet of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Cranleigh on Sturday, Waroh 9th. Grandsire and Stedman Triples and various Major methods (includiag Cambridge and Superlatise Surprise) were rumg.

The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. C. F. Lytelton), who in an extremely interesting and novel addrass walcomen the members to Cranleigh. The service was briglthened by the Jact iant the organist had very kindly arranged for the atendance of an hoir.
Tea was served in the Church Eut, the ladies regponsible for it only charging their bare out-of-packet expenses, and very tindy handing over the balance to the district funds. The busizess meeting followed, at which, in the absence of the Rector, who hath lift to leave for London, the eurate, Rev. G. Mitchell, presided.
The chief item on the agenda was an invitation received from the Centra] Distriet, Surrey Associatiou, to hold a joint meeting at Guildford on August Bank Holiday.

After some discussion it was agreed that, as the date sugecested was an inconvenient one for a meeting at Guildford, the ider shouid not be entertained, but that the secretary should write to the Cinutral District of the Surrey Association and say that the nembrers would be hapny to join with that body in holding a joint meeting ast Eriiktford on some convenient Saturiay. One new member was edecied.
The meeting was fairly well attended by members from ('raubigh, S. Nicolas', Foly Trinity Catiodral, Clandon, 具nslemere ame thiking, with visitors from Shoreham and Otlershaw and several of heir - who omitted to sign the attendance register.

PEAL BOARD GIVEN TO HANSLOPE BELFRY
a pat boart tras been placed in the bedry of the Parish Churela al Fanslope, Sucles. This fine old spire, which rises to a height of 226ft., and is a landmark for miles around, has a dolightful riag of siz bella, with a tenor of 22 ewt. in E last relang in 1912 by Mr. Alfred Bowell. These were sel gaing by 3 o'clock, and at 3.00 the compary, not so large ns it wrould liave been had the neather comditions heen more favourable, moved to the churoh for a slart service, conrineted by thr Viear, who spoke on the true suirit of ringing, namely, mot only for pleasure but as a duty, to call poople to worship in the house of Cod. The Vicar also spoke of the close relationship the bells had with alnost every event of life. At the conclusion, the Ficar proceeded with the company to the beltiry. After the dedicntion of the board, the hend in their same order as for the peal, rang a short tomeh of Bob Minor, viz.: P. Amos 1, F. Burgess 2 (hath of Northamptnn), G. Parker 3 (Fingathorpe), S. Foskitt 4 (Wletehley), E. C. Lambert (conductor) 5 (Stony Siralford), T. Wise 6 (Woolton)
Ter was then partaken of at thr home of Mr. E. Edleins, formerly ane of the loal baud. At this, the Vical was unable to be present, but he came in at tho finisi and whs very interested in the musio giren on the handbells. He often wandered, he said. why this sart of thing was nat done more. He thought much interest might be roused in the villages if anly the handbells were used more oftens instead of lying inle in the belfy yenr after year. New reorlits, too, said the Tibar, could often be secured in this way, and by ather lyands coming aud ringing peals.
Mr. P. Anos said he ald his fellow-ringers were wery gratefiri to the Ticer for permitting them to ring this peal, and it was his suggestion that a board shauld be given. Hanelope was not a place where peals were rung every little while. I'here had only been two others rung there at all, the first heing oil the old five. prior to the treble being added in 1902, und it was 23 years since the last. The chief feature of this board, san hin. Amos, was the fract thaf it had bean made thtonghout by one of the band, namels, Mr. T. Wise, of Wootton, Northants. It was well ruade anrl writen to perfection, and Inc was sure that all who had segn if would congmatulate him on having tumed out-such a splendid piece of mork

The cost was then haded to Mr , Wise, who in response, said, although this sorl of thing was not his living, it lad given him great plensure, as one of the hath, to make the boatcl. As the chareh was being renovated he would hand a donation out of the costs towards the funds (apulause) vote of thanks of thanks was passed to the Ticar and ringers for welcoming the visitors there that day, and for the use of the bells. The ficar. in response, complimented the hand on having rung their peal, and loped they would come again.-Mr. P. Erans, on bobalf of the lacal ringers, sain they had great pleasure in welcoming anyone there to lave at pull any lime they liked io come. A move was then made to the belfy, where tonches of Grandsire, Epht, Stedman and Plain Boh were indulged in, the local cingers

MERE ALTTOMA'l'A.

To the Editor.

Sin,-If Mr. E. Guise, the able and deveted hon, secretary of the Gloncester ant Mristol Diocesan Association, is rightly reporterl (on page 150 as regrats his views of the constitumon and representative yature of the Central Council and of the qualification of jus elected members, I should esteom it a favour if you would allow me to advaze one cur two nrguments on the ohbres side. Mr. Gnise's chief complaint sems th be that the nembers of the Council were exhorted of the president and are expected to vote ancording to their best judgmemi on fach question as it arises, after baning carefully weighed the pros and cons that have been advancen in the course of discussion. So far as I can make out lis view, it seems to be that each member should tume to the meeting to vate, not aceording to the argmments hrouglat forward, but eccording to orders given them beforehaml. In ollier words, they should he nut thinking and reasonng human heings, bud mere antomata. We know this is actually tha ase in certain quarterg, sud that the result is Ilat the "majorities. obataner are often purcly fictitious, the result being that the fail freguenty wags the heat. But be this as it, may, it is at onve abvous that were it logically carried out to the fuld in the case of he Coumcil, the Council would have losf, any reason for a contimued existence, and I should be one of the lirst to sny. "Away with it.' Mr. Guise appears ba forget that the arguments be brings against ihe Council are equally applicable against the House of Commons. He seens to flimk it clerogatory to be asted to woto according to his own laest judgraent, on it Elat it is a for greater thing to vote acerot ing to someone else's a. len'. Well, we must, leave ininu to choose. Of course, it goes williond saying that the association which sends him io represent them will be exceedingly foolish it they have not takers every carc to satisfy themselves before electing him lhat his wiews are in general, and m particular, on crucial points, in sympathy with thein own, atherwise they have only thembelves to blanu if his sote does not please them. If evel the Canneil becomes a mere set of Fohots, I hope I may not the there to see. Yours fatilifully,

If blange ringing one of these enbjeotaf

Change ringing is hommal ua in the word 'true, and 'trua' is honnd up in change ringing.
True is the roundulianh, remstitution, the very life, the' 'he all and 'und all' 'of change ringing.
'True ' cannut be distorted simply in meel this 'somathing naw.' It mast be 'truns, or 'untruc '; there is no gashetween.
It must he aimitted than sorzotitree the new inlen has proved n aurerss (the formatiun of our (inilds und Assnciations is an instance), but, does our shange ringing, 25 all Art and Exermise (murk this designation, pletse, Ant and 耳xercise, not footbalit lent itself io all of these latest ideas in the way of "something new," sumethitg exciting?

We muste ever bear in mind that we are dealing with an Aut and Excreise which is ancient-300 yoarg old-nol a new motar-ear.
Let us go back and look at the beginning. When the bells are pulled off, thoy aro 'pulled off' in romids, not as a matter comention alone, but mose as a matier of fommation, constitution. 'Hhen our touch or peal' is constituted from, after, these rouzds, the firsli "pull" after these romels ljeing the first chazge, which is at handstroke, and the touch finishes with the last change as roundsrounds is the latt change. Inatances: The twuches and pent compositions as contained in Suowdon's 'Grandsive' ant 'Stedman."
[']is is the $A r E$ nad Exoreise- 300 years old. This is custom and tradition, as geterally necepted by ibe Exereise-the unwritten law.
If firis rerg constitution is to be braken down simply as being th cunvention, or for the sake of this 'somethiug new,' will usk these questions: If not rounds, what is to be ruag at the pall aff ? abd what is to lue dore at thre last change? Tt may be 851e3t72. Are the bells bo ceare in ihis mwful abrutht manner? Jusi look at this ploase, and think it out. Think of the other fellow, the outside public.
Thke, for instance, that 5038 of Grandsire Triples which it is proposed to ring witll 12345678 and 13254768 tacked on to the front, whe last change being the 12 tha change of a lead, 21647358 . It watild be at loast interesting to know if it is intended to cease the ringing at fhis 21647358 backstroke, aud, if not, what the next handskroke will be? Reatel's of Soowdon's book have no doubi read the find tematres on thes touch.
Now I presume that in long record atiempts that have failed, the the conductor las been able to wall the bells "lome" to rounds (note this please, liomre-rounds) at a particular point, say, 7,392 changes, it las ranked as a peal, but if not bronght home to rounds, althougln perhatps over 10,000 changos lave heen rung, the attempt lins counled for mothing. Why? Simply beatuse the belta didi not come 'home, fo rounds.
No, this change ringitug does not readily lend itself fo all these ideas of the 'something new.' Why, the very edifices in which the bells are situated, our cathodrals and churches, are leoked upon as being out of date, unpopular, with the crowd, but these beantiful, ancifnt: foundations, constitutions, monuments and their toaching will still be here long after the crowd has gone.

Is ith not so wilf our Art? It cannot, perhaps, he clnimed th be popilan with the crowd, but we hope and trust it will he here long after we and the crowd lave gone.
Even if it were possityle, we would not dream of playing ary pronks witl blie Churoh: therefore, do not lef ts think of playing with the verv faundation of our elange ringing or tampering witla the truth of its life.

It behoves us then, surely, as participators in this ancient Art, to put our very best jnto it, to ensure its being lunded down at least np to the standard, if not better than when wo received it.
Now the foundation, ganctitation, custom and tradition are well known to all the ringing fratornity. It is as unwritten law

To further our Art and buikd it up, associalions, Guilds and societies have been formed, and an enormous pile of good work lars been done. This was n new idea which has proved snccessful. Is it desirable to contime this good work? Of course, it is. Clange ringing minus the societies would be at a standstill. It is part of the work to put the louse in order.
we are to break down this constitution, this unwriten law chaos will surely result, for touches and peala will not be unfurm, hut start and finish anywhere and nowhere. On the olher hand, to rontinue the good work of putting our house in arder, owing to this new jdea, this 'something new, it will be essential and necesjary to formulate rules regarding this foundation, constitution and lite or ont change ringing. That is, if the majority is against this new iden of starting and finishing our touches and peals anywhere and cf using morthodox (at present) methods, ways and means.

This constitutiou, whicb les obtained up to the present as unwritten law, will have to be put into written law. Thlis bringe us to tho mules of the Central Council and our several societies. The rules of cuch sud every society on all vital paints must be identically in accordance witla the Central Council's ruline

For instance, if the G.C. fails to recogrise a cerlain kind of performanes and the wules of the several societies are not framed in mecoudance with that refusal, the unrecognised can still he performert, us peals aro not rung mader the nuspices of the Central Commil but according to the rules of the particular association

Even if one Ginild failed in its rules, it would still be possible to Ling nuything turecognisod by the Contral Council for this Guidel Therefore, the rule of cach and every society should be identical on all rital points affecting the foundation, constitution and life of change ringing Witli regard to all these (up to the present) unarthorlox compositions and proposed unorthodox ways of starting and finishity our ringing of touches and peals, by all means print then in any writed work, but with block type letters al the locat, "FALSE," and at the foot the anthor's name, date and remark, "Unrecoguised by the Central Council, 1929, so that the Cext and staceeding generations ean know the nature of some of the rew ideas of this out present time

FIte Central Council appears to have heen placed in a Fidieulons position regarding ilne Deatbles amd Minor controversy. F canmot innarine how it can tolerate undue preference by allowing any one uhowhodox composition, but 'Lo bav tightly against anjthing further.

That sort of procedure positively will not do, and to ask the Central Councit to recopt that which is admittedly untrue is expecting the inpossibile.
'I'here are some methods ruled as illegitimate, although perfectly thie, jeerase they fall short, in some respet, of a certan standawd, luti is it not more desirable to ring something illegitimate, bub nevertheless gute true, than that which is admittedy untuc?

It is certaiuly quite apparent that the resolution ohould not bave boon passed in this 'anything but agreer to fashion.

However, I am sure wa all hope and trust that the very bost will be rlone, and that noiling will be sanctioned that will be at all likely ulcimately to undermine the foundation, constitution and lifo of nut Art and Exercise, but that we shall all, as true change ringers, evor strive and combinuo to > Ring out the false,

> Ring in the true.

To the Eattor

Dear Sir, Wiall you allow me to thank, fbrough your colnmns, the many men who have kindly replied to my request for five-bell methoces, and to shy that I am sorry I have not been able (through lack of time) to thank them all inclividually.

We liad hoped that the boak would have been in prind by now, and that Mr. Joyce's difficulties about the names wontd have heen at an ena. The delay is not our fault. It is caused by the well meaning but misguided people who keep raising diffenllies first about tho names and now mout the compositions. If we had been left alone we should have printed such thigs as Mr. Bankes James' arrangement of Cambridge and Pitman's and Morris' arrangements of Doubles aud left them to present aud future generations of ringers to deeide whather they would ring them or not. Now the Exercise must decide itself before the book is issued.- You's truly,
J. ARMIGRR TROLLOPE.

SPLICING.' AN ANCIENT PRACTICE.  AN ANCIENT To the Editor.

Jear Sir. - Your editorial remarks and the various letterg on what shall constitute a peal on five and six bells are very intercsting and goon. To 1 no , as an ordinary ringer, it rppears that the matter requires very careful thought. As far as I cam see there is mothing to be gained ho it in splicing 120's together in the Doubles. If some of us dou't like to hear rounds come up at the end of each 120 , why da rpi couposers give us a peal of Spliced Doubles witls only rounds at the finish?

This, of course, would menn that certain rows would have to ogcur 43 times, as rounds are considered a change in Doubles. Ringers would cercainly not be able to call is monotonous, espectally if a clienge of method is adopteत every 6n cheuges, and, by the change, ring life reterse of a method.
ralking of splicing melbots. I was always under the impression that this was a modern introduction, but I find I am mistaken. I cacre across a porlion of an old boot with the title, "Tlie elements of music made easy, or, the mew harmouical spectator, by William I'minius, sen. I camot find the date of pabliontion, hut it certainly whs before 1750 , as there appears a name of a person in it at that date stating that it was his book.
The only eatry with reference to ringing gives us Grandsire Doubles, Grandsire Minor, and the following spliced method, wlacls it states is the 'grandest peal of all and is catled Crown Boh, whicla constitutes a lead of Oxford Treble Bob, a lead of College Pleasure, fand a lead of College Treble Bob; this, reperted fwe times, brings up the half-peal, and by using two siogles completes the whole peal with onlt two calls. The Editor remurks that he is indebted to his Friend Mr. William Miblears, of Swavefey, io Ganhridgoflire, who is an ingenious Pfalmodift, a fteady, ftrong Baffift, ancl an export Rimger: Is anything known of this mand
The EAitor remerks that he gave the original six-score of Denbles on : nother page, lut, unfortunately, this is torn out of my copr. Fous faithfuly

A FINANCIAL QUESTION

The agenda of the Central Council, which appeared in our last issue, promises to provide an interesting meeting at Chemsford, as a good deal of the business relates to matters which affect the Exercise generally and in which ringers as a whole can take an interest. This early publication of the details gives the associations the opportunity of considering the business of the Council, so far as it concerns them, and of expressing their views. Easter and the period up to Whitsun Tuesday, when the Council meet, is the time when the majority of the affiliated organisations hold their annual meetings and are thus able to consult their members on any special points that may be raised. Although the representatives are, under the constitution of the Council, free agents to vote as they choose, there are matters in this year's agenda upon which they may like to consult their associations. One of these is certainly the proposal to increase the affiliation fee.

Ever since the Council was inaugurated the subscription has been half-a-crown for each elected member, and this has formed the sole revenue of the Council. Its work has been carried on with this meagre financial support, oul of which, in addition to the expenses of the meetings, the Council has financed the issue of its many useful publications. It has always been the aim of the Council to publish these at the lowest possible price, with the result that there has been, on the whole, a net monetary loss to the Council in this department, but a great gain to the Exercise by the wider circulation of knowledge which this low cost made possible. On a very smail income the Council has done a great deal for the advancement of the art; on a doubled income, it could do a good deal more. From time to time we have suggested that the Council needed more money for its work, and if the associations had only to provide the affiliation fees there would be little to quibble about in raising the paltry half-crown subscription to five shillings. But the liabiity of most of the associations does not end here. Practically all of them pay the out-of-pocket expenses of their representatives, and this, when the meeting place is a distant one, is a heavy drain on those organisations which have only limited resources.
Much as we should like to see the Council's funds supplemented, the possible result must not be overlooked that an increased subscription might reduce the number of representatives elected. We can hardly think that affliated bodies would curtail their representation merely because they were asked to pay another half-a-crown for each member they send to the Council, but when we find (Contitinued on page 178 .

one association, which is entitled to four representatives, electing only one; and another seriously considering withdrawal altogether, because of dissatisfaction with the constitution of the central body, the possible effect of an increased subscription ought not to be lost sight of. Here, therefore, is one case where the early publication of the agenda may help to a considered vote being given at Chelmsford. All the associations which hold their annual meetings between this and Whitsun Tuesday should take care to bring the subject before their members so that the representatives may know their feeling on the matter. It will be better to know the views of the associations beforehand than to regret an action after it has been taken.

Tho North and East District meeting of the Midalesex Cunnty Association and London Diocesan Guild, held ait St. Ann's Church, Stamford Fill, on Saturday last, attracted some thirty members, who thorouthly eajoyed their afternoon's ringing on the pretity peal of six bells. These bells werc cast at the Whitcliapel Founclry in 1865, and wore recently quarter-turaed, reclappered and rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, with excollent yesults. The tone of the bells is greatly improved, and during the afternaon and evening of the meeting were rumg to as many methods at have been Fumg on them during their whole prowious existence.
The Ficar (Rer. A. T. Morgan) gure an interestigg addess at the service, speaking about the Farious uses of bells, and low they affected our daily lives. The sebool bells, when we wete young, bid us ceme to receive education, without which it would be impossible to progress; later, the factory bell called us to the work, without which life would be usoless indeed. Empty is the life of those who ga lhrough it without finding it necessary to do usoful work. Next the fire bell warned us of dagger, and the church bell called us to worship. So all through our tives bells had their uses in many waye.
After tea, which was served in tine Church Fall, the usual business meeting was held. The Vicar took the chair and was supported by Mr. W. Pickworth (vice-president . Mr, N. A. Tomlisson (Masler), and Mr. O. T. Coles (hor. secretary). Included in the company was Mr. IF. A. Barnett (Tottenliam). who has recently celebrated his golden wedding, aud whon everybody was especially glad to see.
Ten new members were elected. St. James, Clerkonwell, was chosen for the next meeting of the district on May 4 th, when, the hon secretary mentioned, the recast peal of eight voula be opened. Ho hoped members would note this alate, as it was especially desired to get a good meeting. Tlue Vicar had been good enough to inrite members to tea.
Notice was given of the anmual geamal meeting, which is to be held at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, on April 6th.
lhe business over, Mr. W. Pickworth moved a vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address, and for permitting the menting to be lreld; also to Mr. Ringrose and the ladies who had prepared tea. 'lhis was scconded by ML. G. H. Ross and catried umanimously.-Mir. Ringrose hriefy acknowledged the thanks of the members, and the meeting terminated.

NORFOLK GUILD'S PROPOSED REORGANISATION.

A PLEBISCITE TAKJN.

At the annual meeting of the Norfalk Guik at Norwich on Easter Frouday a decision will be taken on the quention of reorganising the area of the Guidd for administmive puposen. In the meantime, in order to ascertain the feeling of memberg, a plebiscite is being taken, ane the following memarandum has been sont out by the president (the Ven. G. M. MacDermoti) and the secretary (Mr. Arillur L. Coleman):-

Dobbtless alt menalis fre zware of the proposal for the reorgenisation of our Guilk. This proposal hes been considered at all bur general meetings in 1828 ; the reform suggester is to group tho elever existing districts into rhree large districts, comesponding to the areas of three archdeacomries of the diocese.

Each of thesa districts to lare a committec consisting of chairHnTh secretary, ant three or more elocted members to work tho дecessary lacal business anm $t 0$ 11wauge meetings, efc.; the offeers and commithee to be electen at an antinal meeting of each district.

It is hoped thereby to secuje more active co-operation of our members in the country districts and to strenglben the work of the Guild.

At the various meetings held, aturing the year it was thought inndwisable to come to a decision untll individual members had been offered an opportwnity of expressing an opinion.

At a special general meeting Jicld at Kins* Lynn on Pctober 29tl, 2928, the commititee was accordingly instructed to issue au chrular better with questions attached for members to answer. ${ }^{3}$

THE QUESTIONNAIRE.
Thle questions upons which the nambers have been asked to bay Yes ar' Fo are:-
(1) Alo you in fryour of hawing thres lange distucts instead of the present eleven small rlistricts?
(2) Do yat approve of these elistricts covering the areas of the mbehdeaconries of the diacese? Tlie incumbent of your parish will tell you the name of your arehdeaconry. The Aylsham, Creat Igrmouth, and Norwich districts are jn the Formich Amchaeagomry; Perklum, Diss, Lothingland, Redenhall and Wruondinam districts are in the Norfolk drchđeaconry; Tikenbam, King's Iymu sod Thedford are in the King's Iyyn Aveladeaconvy.
(3) Amd chonki the new districts be called: (a) The Nom ich ArehTeaconry? (b) The Nonfolk Anchdeaconry? (c) The King's Ly口и Arwheleaconty?
(1) Do vou consiter a committee consistitng of clairman, secretary, and three or more electen members call bo got together for
(5) catrying out the trork of toun own new aistrict, as proposed Diocesan Association of Ringers (the ariginal title of the (ruild)? or (b) The prescut title of the Guild lo rettain, wiz. The Kortolk (ruild of Ringers, for the Diocese of Norwich?
It is pointed out in contaection with (5) that in the event of the suggested reorganisation coming to pass, Lhe Bishop of the diocese thimks tho title should be " Norwich Drocesgan" rather' than "Norfolk, It being a diouesan society, and the mombers affee holders in the churels. It should be woted that Torfolk daos wot oxpress the true grea of tho Givilu, part of West Norfolk beigg in ilo diocese of Ely, and pant of Enst Suffolk being in the ciocese of Nouwteh, bence the title "The Norwieh Piocesan Associalion on Ringers" is the correct expression to denote the area comercal by libe Cinfli. Of course, flue title could remaim as at present, but, if so, the whole title, The Norfolk diuild of Ringers for the Diocese of Norwich, might be grineen in the sumo thye tive subscritprows

The atzmal report of the Guild, which has just been issued, afler dluding to tie activities of the past wear, lewurds the death of ten members, amongst whom were two oviginal manbers of the Guila, Fiz., Mr. Robert Whiting, of Pulbam Larket, aud Mr. Erederich Enighta, of Norwioh,

We woutd like to call the attention of mentoars to one item in the balance sheet, and to remind thent luat the petty casli acconnt for 5418 . 3 . is umpain and due to our secretary and treasurer The semetary's appeal 10 some of the clistrict secretaries and collec torg for unpaid subsithptions 10 he renitted before the end of the Fear in the result wag disappolutimg inasmuch as a largev ammont than usual, wiz., £6 3\{, is outstandiug for the year ending December 3lst, 1928, thus resulturg in a delicit of 84 gs . 10 d . instead of a ciedit balance of 57 14s. 2d. in lancl.

Fhere has been a tendency of recent years, on the part of those responsible, in deferving the collection of subseriptious until well toward the ead of the year, but as sueh method often leads to two弓eares subscxiptions becoming due together, and means sometimes the loss of a year's कulueription due to the Guild, we would remind al mombers that "all subscriphions shall be payable in adrance and become due on January lst in each year.

TEETS OF A DEFINITION.

To the Editor.

Sir,-On Marela lsi, the official minutes of the last Council meeting at Ferefond were printed. The definition of a peal of Minor is ne fallows: ' Mi 日ir bells: That peals of Miaor consiat of at least seven trug and complete 720 s , ruag wibhout interval and without "rautia" or any ether row heing included more than once in any 720, utce.

Niow, 'Minormania' hans complainent that I very often fail to mako my poinl: plain, and 1 must plead guilty to hariog mado bwo statements aboul thas rule withoul making them plain
(1) I have stated that we must ring seven different 720's. Does the word "severs mena semb different 720's, or cau it mean the game 720 rung seves times?
Test the twa statement thus: Does seven changes of Bob Major mean the same a= one change of Bob Major six times repeated?

Ohsinusly they nieau two difierent things, and seven 720 's therefore
(2) Seven brie aud cumpletu $720^{\circ}$ s.

Dnes Lhis mean that each 720 must be completed before another is hegna, or, given seven true and compleio $720^{\prime}$ s, ma we mix them?

Jest this as follows: A peni of firancisire lriphes must consigt of 72 true onal romplece plain corses. Does this mean that each plain courso mist be completed hofore the next is begun, ov may we mix them?

If my hraticr's Pad of Cathbridge Minor raes not canlain seven contain steven true and complete 720 s, then Holl's ten-part of Grandsire Triples does not cuntain a singte plain course of Grandsire Triples.
I believo hat I liaw nom coveren ald the groum. If, however, as far as possible.
H. LAW JAMES.

POR IHOSE WHO LAAVL MISSED THE TONTT
Sir, Mosk of you conespondents seem to appreciate my pupose in pablishiug the incompletur peal of Girandsire Triphes. For these, how in, whe lutve nissed the point, perhaps I may explain that 1 had iwo objects fri view.
first, I wislaed fir mate it clear thati no group of 780 rows of ane plete iu itgelif. Luct me gund myself here by addity that this daes not imply, Hi than ptople suppose, that it is therefore false.
In the sermad place I hoped hy meatis af the example to reveal to sonte yentuts at least thut bhere is all the difieronce in the warld thetwedt rows aud changes. It is malural fur those who lave not gonn below lin surface to assunue that 'rows "and changes ere only two way of expressing the same idea. Tret this is Enly two wnya of expressing the same idea. Trel this is not so whinl seven figures can he arronged, and you wonld naburally inturatio that if you ring all these withort repetitinon you havo me-certomd with changes athe not vows. Thas in a 720 there mont le 720 hue chamges, and any sum resolution as that of with Messrs. Whitlingtou nad Palling lave given notice is altogelier Incide the porint:

There is another point on which I slinuld like to make a few servations. There has been a preat deal of inoping onl terth and thinking. Really it ammunts to this, is a peal of 5,049 changes of Bulb Minor to he regardeul ns wh whate or is it seven independend touches of 720 eacts ${ }^{2}$ Na doulbt everyone will reply "The former, for wo arg all agreed that il a band sets ont to ring a 7,200 of Bob Minor and bronks down in the eiglath ol' a subsequent 720 it ennnot claia to hare lumg a 5,040 . But in effeed a considerable mumber of Four correspondents linve ndopten the latien interpretalions. Wo all know hat sou con cull the Single in Burton's 5,056 of Bob Major at the firsi Wrong amt ring the second half of the peal before Hhe first half. Anut the cosult is just as true as in the form whinh the romposition appurs in hao Cenlral Gounty Collection.

If a 5,010 ol Liol Binol consists of seven parts of a single wiale, thero is equally no reason (so fate as the trath of the composition is contentod why yut slould ant alter the grouping of the parts by splicing of other derice. Ithes, when we are tolf we must not saterifiee truth, some of us nte left mold.
OP course this dows not imply that all such arrangements aro of equal value, withat thene muy woi be some which it would be much Intien mot to atis.
At the presemt time the volemo at six-tell composition is in full *rupdion. Mtreh of what is heing fitrown ap will doulatess prove to ha mual an wamination, lat malit if is given time to solidify it in

An old chronicler records that "iwas a glorious performance, for tho' there were ewo very great blunders and some ather bad ringing, $y$ eft, considering the great length of the peal, it was admirable ringitg, such as cau hardly he mended, unless it be by the Londoners, it being a thing, as it were, uext to impossible to go through such a long, tedious work without-Titults."
This reconti of the peal is interesting, in that it gives the vocations of the ringers, who were:-

1. Hearne, the Taylor.
2. Mr. Yickers, second Butler of New College.
3. Mr. George, tle Taylor.
4. Mr. Guy Terry, the Potash Maker in St. Clement

THE FIRST PEAL IN WALES

After all, the peal of Guandsive Gaterg at Wrexham in 1803 was not the first peal in Wales. A peal was rumg at St. Giles Parish Church there on March 26tb, 1729, exactly two hundred years rgo next Tuesday.
Mr. Thomas Cathrall writes from Wrexham a follous:

- In your issue of Maroh lat the clam of the Callege Youths to the first peal in Wales is disproved by Mr. Jas. E. Groves, and he refers to a peal of Grandsire Caters rung liere on 311y $27 \mathrm{th}, 1803$. We have no records of this peal in our possession, hut there is a hoard in this tower lecording a peal of Grandsire Triples, 5,040 changes, rung on March 26th, 1729 , by a local bandi."

TRAGIC DEATH OF MR. JOSEPH E. SYKES.

"GASSED ' AT COPFNHAGEN.

The death has occurted at Coperhagen, Denmark, under tragic ipennscances, of Mr. Joseply Edwin Sykes, one of the best-known rimgers in Englancl. Me. Sykes, who was the eldest son of Mrs. Sykes and the late Mr. D. F. E. Sykes, a former well-known solicitor, of Ainsley House, Marsilen, Yorks, was employed by Messrs. W. O. Folmes aur Co., the well-known gas engineers of IIuddersfield, and travelled al] over the work superintending the erection of gas manufacturing plant. He had been engaged in this work in the Danish capital and was found gassed in a room in the works, with one of the gas cocks turned on. He died without recoverigg consefousmess. The canse of the tragedy is not yet known.

Mr. Sykes hat carvied out work for his firm in many parts of the world. He lad visited most of the countries in Europe, had erected gas plant in distant Manchuria, and in Canada, and in the conrse of gis business had visited almost every corner of the British Isles.

He whs an enthusiastic ringer, and wherever ha pitched his tent would hont up the ringers in all the towers around. His sole 'relavation" was found in ringing, and he was never happier than when on the ropo of a heavy bell. Tall and muscular, he was well fitted for some of the big tasks lie undertook when visiting neglected towere where bells go badly. He was a ready writer, with a sense of lumour, and a pungent eritic. To large numbers of ritugars throughont the country be was known as 'Uncle Joe,' and many contributions in this journal from his pen appeared over the mame of 'Samivel l'eppery.'
His absence from Fugland often took him away from ringing for lon $r$ periods, as, for instance, when he was in Wanchuria for eighteen months, but he newer lost his interest in the art, and returned to activity in the belfry like a giant refreshed. He received. "The Ringing World, in more countries than any oblier man, and he was a frequent and entertaining correspondent. Abont six monilis ggo, howerer, le retired from yinging, for what actual reason he never divulged. The Ediwn of 'The Ringing World, received a lether which Mr. Sykes deseribed as his 'Swan Song, and asking to be allowed to retire 'to his chimney comer' without comment.
And thnts he slid out of the Exercise, but he laft many friends, who will deply regret his tragie end and sympathise with itre bereaved wife and mother who are left to mourn their loss.

BIRMINGHAM'S VETERAN'S DEATH.

 FOTNDER OF THE HOLT SOCIETY.St. Martin's Gtilk has again, through death, lost anoiher of its old members in Willian Kent, one of the vige-presidents, who passed awny ou Mrtch 8th. The writer of these few lines has been happy in knowing and ringing witl, lim for 58 yerrs, ant can tesify as to what mamer of man lue was.

Bill, as his intimates called him, wan a St. Martin's Toutl, first nnd last. As a youlh he drifted down $[$ St. Martin's, along wit] Baliwin, Bastable, Avery, Johnson, jun., Butiery, Farmer and others, who were hrought nip winder the eyes of Henty Johnson, sen., Lates, Perles and Day, who baught them how to ring, and they learnt, the lesson well. Later on, Williain JEnst took over from young Eenry Johnson the towerkeephor of the famous Aston Chureh, started the Holt Society, and palbered aronnd hinn atendid bond, of whom the oulv ones now left are Charlie Stanbridge and the writer. Mr. Kent also used to go on Saburday nights to Suiton Coldifeld, is justructon. when the bells were made into eight, and among others who eame umber lis inluence were Gharles and Fred Dickens. He was a good condtector, but never maricious, and anyone who was capabie could call.
As a camposer he was of no moan ability. He lat some splendid short conrse peals of Grandsive Caters. As a linger, in bis day none were betid. FTe wns a good bandbell ringer, and took part in the first peal of Grandsire Triples in hand ' in Birmingham, rlong with Bastable, Avery and Jolinson, jun,, with Day and Jolnson, sen., as referees. He also rang 3-4 in the tirst peal of Stedman Cinques and the long peal of Giandsire Ginopues at St. Martin's. I do not know at the momend how many peals he had rung, but it nust have been a good number, and so one could go on. But of the man himself I should like to say a few words. Of a cuiet, massuming disposition, he was generous almost to a failt, and was nover knowin to speak harshly to anyone. In the 58 years the writer has known him, there has mever been the slightest jar to mar that long friendiship, atad Ehat was hoq he liad been all through his long life.
And so he was laid to rest on Ihnirstay, March lath, in Erdington Pavish Churchyard (witlo his wife who had predeceased him by a year or tmo) in the presente of the sorrowing male members of his family nud friends. Included among the wreatlis was one from St. Wartin's Guild, whose members were represented by Mossis. A. Walker (Deputy Ringing Master', G. Swann, T. Miller, J. George, F. Dickens und A. Padilon Smith. The first four rang a counse of Grandsire Thiples over the grave, and last Tuesday St. Nartin's bells ere rung maffled.
And thus we leave him, cerinin that he has left behind fim the beautiful namory of one of Nature's gentlemen.

Following my leiter of anquiry, ints passing reference

(1) It is the business of the Meltiods Committee alone a& to why
(2) Iltat Minor rinerers must await tho new' Collection athut pay their 1s. get. for the privilege of correcting the book for Which the Certral Counctl already has charged.
The first, cervainly, is not our business, oller than that we are interested in the rummy ${ }^{1}$ doings of a body which is gring to ask us (througla our *arigus associations) to contributo our nilites forward an affiliation fee of 55 . per menter.
The second certainly is our busimess, if only for the reason that we have paid our 9il. for our' 'Collections.' The lear inat Mr. Trollope (imperzonally. please) could lave done was to have fald us why we are calsen tpon to wait for the names. There pre of corirse, subjects whinh come up for disenssion at the funlal Conncil meetings of $\pi$ mathre on whieh is is certainly infunsilite to give an intelligent vule, oxcept only after hearing the full discussion, atnd on such subjects such a request as I lipre made rbove would be silly, and impracticable. On the other hand, on such definite nuestions as, szy, 'Diplomas for young ringers, of rast year, or item No. 7 on the present agenda, I contend, sir, that decisions should he reacled by demoeratic methods, nid shotid. certanly reflet the opiaion of the members of the affilated associations. Anyway, here is the chance for the rank and file of ringers to luave their say-if they wish to. I hope every district secresary will give them the oppordunty to do so. Yours iruly,

RULES SHOULD BF REVISED.

Sir,-Your leating article of Darch $15 t h$ stands in many wavs as a reply to Rev. C. D. P. Davies. There are one or two additional phints, however:
Firstly, during the last eight years (during the first four of which we harl one member; and during the laiter four three members upon the Central Comeil the cost to the Gloucester and Buistal Diocesan Association of ils connection with the Central Conncil has been £19 10s. 1d. (Dtring the last four yents the expenses comi for two nembers only, the third respected member not applying for expenses.) This is surely one reason why the associations should hawe a d'ecognised status.
If the answen to that is to be read in the Ceatral Council rules, it is in words to this effect: 'Associations (according to theit' numerical strengtla clect representatives upon the Couricil. Now in the "English Dictionnry" inis word means delegate. We know what happened about this word at Fereford, and the least thar is indicated is that the rules of the Coumeil should be altered to 'Associntions (aceorting to their numerical strength) elect the monbers of the Council. Tlais would put matters clearls that an association sould send members as members if they choose. and there wouth be no rloblbt in the minds of jinger throughout the comntry that the people whon they sent wond be there as free agents, and Mot mere altomata ol' Robies says in his letter: 'Of course, it goes without saying that the association which sends him to represent them will be exceedingly foolish if they have not taken every ente fo satis? themselves before electing him that his views are in geveral, and in paricular, on crucial points in sympatiyy with their own, otc. person at Hepeford who said, $I$ was instructed by my association to vote for cliplonas for ringers, although, personafly, if am against then:. At this point the presidend said, "You are hete to vofe as a member, num not as a delegates. I lako that an an indiention that the aceociation lue represents will be foolish if that smember is alected fyain.
Anotiner point is the reference to House of Common members. We, the electors, are usually inturdated wita letters from prospective candidates telligg as what they are going to do if we put hem in, and we have a goorl idea who nol la put in. Not so in Centural Commeil matfers. For instaner, how few, as members of the Council, wil] vote against No. 8b on Ine agenclit this year, yet, upon the allew hand, walrl they vote for it if they had the work to fins the money? Therg is mach to do in speneling associations monies to prowile change ringers by means of lonal instruction. [ lave at my hand sewen reports of other associations and I fril to find in ans of the rales given reference to the Central Council. I have not picked these out; they are all 1 have
This shows, therafore, that ther rules of associations should be revised upon the question of the contral hodry, but first the Centrad Council must pate the wry by revising its own rales, either by removinu the word 'representative' or hy adherimg to its correct meqning

Now a few questions: Why diol the Council refer an then to the associations:
Why do the ressciations refuse to give the Council ${ }^{\text {b }}$ powers to enforce '
The expense of the Central Counci! each rear must be rbout E1m0 to the assoriations throughaut limgland. Is it really word is?
put it to ilie Glaucester and Bristol members to settle this matter from their local standpoint.- Vnurs faithfully,

AN IMPORTANT ISSUE

Next Monday the members of many of the associations will probably be asked to express their opinion on some of the matters raised in the Central Council's agenda, and one of the most important to the Exercise at large is that relating to the conditions which shall govera the recog tion, by the Council, of peals of Minor and Doubles. No resolution which the Council may pass can prevent ringers ringing anything they like and calling it a peal, but the Council's decision, whatever it may be, will decide for the time being what shall and what shall not be handed ont in its records as a peal, and it will have a considerable influence upon what ringers will themselves ring and recognise in future. Nothing, in our opinion, can go more to the root of ringing than the question of what shall be recognised as a peal, and it may not be out of piace if, with next Monday's meetings in view, we refer to the differences of opinion between which the Central Council will be asked to decide at Whitsun.

Briefly, it comes to this, shall a peai of Minor consist of seven separate $720^{\prime} \mathrm{s}$, in each of which all the possibte permutations are rung once and once only; or shall it be permissible so to mix up these permutations that some may appear more than once within the limits of one $7 \geq 0$ and not at all in another, so long as each permutation appears only seven times in a 'peal' of 5040? In other' words, shall we ring these changes, or rows, how we like -and call it a peal-or conform to the well estabished rule of ringing out each 720 true and complete in itself before commencing the next? The same arguments which apply to Minor will apply to Doubles, and what is permitted in one must be permitted in the other. Nor is it possible to make limits which will include specific compositions and exclude others of like nature. If you ate to admit such arrangements as the Law James' London Minor, you must also admit as a peal such an absurdity as a composition of Bob Doubles in which each course is rang 42 times over before calling a bob to carry the bells into the next course. And then there enters the other phase, created by the Bankes James' arrangement of Cambridge. Can 'rounds' at the start be treated as part of the extent? If it cannot, then this ingenious composition must stand or fall upon the general question, but we can foresee a great diversity of opinjon upon the all-important point of that first row, "rounds.

Here, then, are some of the issues which the representa tives of the associations and gutlds will be called upon $t$ decide when the Council meet at Chelmsford, and at the meetings of ringers between now and then there will. cloubtless be many disputations. Whether or not mem(Continued on page 194.)

GUILDEORD DIOCESAN GUILD

A mpeting of the Chertsey Dishrict was held at Horsell on Saturday, March 16 th. Unfortumately, not many of the ringers of the district put in an appearance, filhongh those who did got plenty of practice, and a great deal of good was done in belping beginners to mose a step forward in other methots.

Three ringers from West Clandon were greatly weleomed, as their presence enabled London and Cambridge Surprise to be rung. BeEides those from West Clandon, ringers were present from Otter-三haw, Oatiands Park, and a good number of the loeal band, with visitors from Leatherhead and Wokiog, also an uwatlached member from Thames Ditton.
Tea was provided by the Vicar (Canon Pares) at the Institute, at which 17 sat down. Canon Norman Pares presided at the meeting, supported by the Rew. W. N. Willis, of Ottershew, and Admiral T. P. Walker (hon. treasurer of the Guild). There was but little business to iransact.

Admiral Walker proposed a very liearty fote of thanks to Canon Pares for the use of the beils, and for providing an excollent tea. Canon Pares, in reply, said how pleased he was to welcome the zingers to Horsoll. His oniy regret was that there were not more there.

A service was leeld at six o'clock, when part of the Guid service was combined with evensong. A ladies' choir fed the singing of the Guild hymans, making a very bright service and a welcome change. A friend of Canon Pares, the Rev. Cobb, gave an address and commented on the bells in Huatingdonshire.
Tlis bella were kept going till nearly nine o'clock in Grandsire Doubles, Bob Minor, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge and London Surprise. About 25 ringers put in an appearance during the afternoon and evening, but it wouli have been more pleasing to the officials had more of the district members atfended.

CRONDALL'S UNESUAL TOWERS.

The Farnham District held a mecting at Crondall on Saturday, which was atteuded by 38 members and visitors from Aldershot, Crondall, Farnham, Frensham, Seale, OEtershaw and Woking. The Guild's Eervice was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Cyril Balmer), who gave 8n appropriate address based upon these words: 'Enter into Thy gates with thanksgiving and into Thy courts with praise, which are ineluded in the prayers of the service.
A company of 34 sat down to a very enjoyable tea prorided by the local mingers and their wives, and at the business meeting the Vicar, after being elected as an hon, member, took the chair.
There was very litile business to he transacted, and at the conclusion the hon. Becretary moyed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Ficar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service, and his great assistance in arranging the tea; also to the local ringers and their wives who had so ably carried out the catering.
As the bells are in sad need of the bell hanger's attention, there Was not so much ringing done as there might bave been, and the visitors spent a lot of time exploring this very interesting old church, which datee from 1250 A. $\mathbf{D}$.
A very interesting point aboust the church is that the bells are in one tower, and the stairease in a separate fower about 6 ft . rumay, the two loing commeeted by little bridges or balconies. From the ton of the arair tower access is obtained to the roof of the church.
Ringing, which ranged from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise hinor, was brought to a close ut nine $0^{\circ} \mathrm{clock}$, when the bella mere lowered in peal.

BISHOP'S VISIT TO DORE

YOUNG RINGERS CONFIRMED AND PEAL RECORDS

 DEDICATED.Christ Clurch, Dore, was the scene of in interesting bintle ceremoney on Suaday afternoon, Jarch 17th.
It mas the ocoasion of the first Confirmation held there loy the frst Bishop of the new diocese of Derby (ME. Ret. Edmand Courtenay Pearce, D.D.), aud the pretty little church was filled with an interested congregation. Among the confirmees were six of Dore's young ringers, Misses F. M. Elvidge and K. M. Revill and Messrs. F. Eividge, C. Revill, J. Reynolds and N. W. Westlake, the latter four being also members of the choir. Before the actual service of Confirmation, the Bishop dedicated two gifts to the chancel, a handsome oak chair and a pair of solid silver Commumion chalices; Rnd, following the service, and before the Benediction, sereral gifts to the belfry.
The laiter occasion provided a pleasing and somewhat wusual little ceremony arranged in accordance with the Bishop's own suggestion. Following the last Confirmation prayer aud during the singing of the bymn, ' $O$ Jesus, I have promised.' a procession was farmed at the chancel stepa, and, heated by the verger (all. S. Thorpe) and the wardens (Messrs. H. E. Baggs and J. E. Lewis Cockey), with their wands of office, the Bishop, followed by the six ringers above-mentioned-the boys in their surplices-pronceded to the ringing chamber, where the rest of the ringers were assembled. Here a short ceremony was performed by the Bishop, suitable prayers being said and the four peal tablets dedicated. After a few words of greeting to those present, the procession was re-formed and the Bishop conducted back to the altar for the Benediction.
The four peal rerovis dedicated have already bepo described in - The Ringing World,' hut it may be of interest to mention them rgain. The frst two are handsome oak panels letsered in gold. One, preseated by the Rev. E. S. Powell, of Clyst Sr. fieorge, Fater, records the first peal at Dore to be conducted by a hady. Wen 3iss M. Davenport. The second, and the primasy ciase of the Bishop's risit to the belfry, recouds a poal ruag to commemovaie the foundafion of the diocese of Derby and the appointment of $D_{r}$. Pearce as first Bishop, given by the bank who rang the poal. "The remaning two are framed recordis given by Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey, the one recording a fully-muffled peal rung in memory of the Ri. Rov. Sir E. Hoskyos, Bishop of Southwell, who dedicated the kells about 20 vear ago, and the other, a framed set of eight "Ringing World" peal catds, each recording a learner's poal at Dove.
Owing to the presence of so many of the young Dore ringers at the actual Confirmation, some kindly and much appreciated rine ing assistance was given by Messrs. L. Charlesworth, R. Long, F. Norton, and some well-struck louches in various standard melhods were brought round before and after the service.

The kindly and considerate action of Dr. Pearce in thaking the rather awkward ascent to the ringing chamber in his canonicals was deeply appreciated, and this appreciation whs conveyed to him by the wardens: and the Bisliop, who signed the bell"w visilors' book before leaving, expressed his interest in, and appreciation of, the peal records, and his pleasure at coming in contare with so many young and promising lingers.

AN ANCIENT PEAL RECORD

To the Editor

Sir,-About geventy vears ago, during work comected witla alterations to the ringing chamber at the Parish Clurch of St. Alphege, Greenwich. e stome tablet was discovered, hidden by woodwork, recording a peal of Grandsirs l'riples rung in 1732. I mppend an exact copy of the inscription as it appears.
The tablet was aarefull restored and erected in a prominent position in the ringing clamber.
It would be of interest if either of our campanological historimes could enlighten us as to the probable composer of the pas.

I hope it map be my bappy privilege, lagelher with my few re maining Greenwieh colleagues and other helpers, tio attempt a similar peal on the 200th amiversary.-Yours fathfully

FREDERICK W. THORNTON.
The Socicty of Kentish Youlhs rang on Fryday, Fe 1st of Derembr, 1732, a peal of 5,040 Grandine mpiples in the eighth month of their practice by the persons under:-

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES.

DMPERFECT ANALOGIES.

Sir,-The analogies that Mr. Law James uses are imperfect. We do not need to say seven 'different' ohamges of Bob Major, because overyone krows that if we speak of seven changes we always mean sovon different changes. This is not so in the case under discussion: if it were we should not be disenssing it. The other amalogy happens to be true, but it makes an insufficient proof.

Instead of 'tests,' what we should ask (as a judge would ask) is, Woald the writer of the words have inserted 'different' if they meant 'different'? The unswer is undotubtedly 'Yes.' It would have heen quite easy to write "seven different 720's, eaclu true and complate in itself.' As these words wore not inserted, we must conchadw that the rule does not mean that the 720 's are necessarily to be different, nor each true, ete, 'in itself.' I think your legal readers will agree with me irs this.
On the other hand, Mr. Duffictit finds needless fault with some other words of Mr. Law James. To say that the midide eight of a four-and twenty ean bo 'brought romal' by itself, is the seme os snying it can be considered to be a 'round block.' Mr. Duffield seems to think that "bring round' is the same thing as to 'bring up roonds.' In practice they usarlly are, bult in theory they need not bo the same thing at all. If we start from Queen's we do nat hring the course round when rounds conces up, but when we get back to Quesn's.-Yours, efc., HERBER'C DRAKE.

THE SAME 720-BUT A DTHEEETNT ORDER.
Sir, With reference to Mr. Powell's letter for "those who have missed the point,' be there states: "Thus in a 720 there must be 720 true clannres, and any such resolution ... is altogether Jeside the point.' That point I certainly have t missed. Why, mast I ask, is it "beside the point'? Surely, the wording of the resolition seeks to elucidate that point. Many years ago, when I completed my firat 720 of Bob Minor, iu which I had rung the tenor, the dear old gentleman who had called it walked across the tower to me, shook by hasel, and said, "There you arc, my lad. I called yau Wrong, Right ant Wroag, and you have rung all the changes it is possibis to gel ons six belis, and if we lund gone on end rung six more such lots, lisatis reckoned as a poal of 5,040 of Minor:' He adied there are diozens of other methods you can ring, but you will still ring exacliy tho samo 720 changes as we bave just brought raund, the only fifforonce being that the changes will come up in a different order. That is the point of view from which I have always looked at this question, and I imagine tunclrens of other ringers have done so alsa, and, if our point of view is corfect, then resolution No. is very much to the point. Wours truly,

ROBER'T WHITTISGTON.

LORD PHILLIMORE.

Tho late Lord phillimore was laid to rest in the elurelyard at Sliplake, Oxon, on Monday. Masch 18il. Some thenty years ago Lord Platimore was the means of re-establishing the Shiplake band after they harl been on the "retired list" for' some eight months. His kindly handshake aud enouraging words formed hulwarks in the hearts of those who ring the bells af Shiplake.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

On March 29th, 1762, a peal of 10,080 Gtaudsire Cators was rung in 6 hus. 53 mins. at Fulham by the College Youths.
The Loadon Youths, another of the nhe Metropolitan sociuties which have disappeared, rang ateal of Uxford Treble Bob Majur at Lambeth on March $315 t$, 1778 .
One of the earliest long peals of Treble Boly was ruug on April 1st, 1727, at St. Michael Coslany, Norwich.
Thirty years ago next Wednesday o pend of 15,072 Donble Nurwich Major, then the record lengih, was rumg at linith. Five yuats 1ater, on April 4th, 1904, was rung Ran 11,008 Double Norwich ut, South Wigston, Leicester, as a rial peal for a record langth, which the same band afterwaris rang wn the same hells, Five of the company still survive.
Handbells will be at the disposal of wisitors to Leicester for the annual meeting of the M.G.A. on Easier Wonday. The smokerom of the Earl Grey, opposite St. John-the Divine, will be the rendezvous.

Among those who have rutng a handred peals in their own tower are Mr. Walter Charman, of Wamhan, Sussex, whose total is ahort 130, with the 'circle" completed eiglst times; and Mr'. W. O. Itumsey, of Debenham, Suffolk, with a lotal of sbout 120. M1. Rumsey has rung at least eleven peals on eacli bell, and conducted peals of Bob Major, Treble Bob and Doutse Norwich from all of them.
Mr. Edgar Pemberton, of Ipswich, has rang 177 peals on the bells of St. Mary-le-Tower, where he started ringing in 1878 , and 3 Mr . Edwin Barnett, senior, has not only rung 181 peals on his own church bells at Crayford, Kent, but also 141 at the neighburiag Parish Church of Erith.

Mr. Pappy rather wandered from the point in his comparison heLweer Mr. James George and Mr. Rebert Brindell. The latier, like the late Mr. I. G. Shade, is a marvel in ane direction, but Mr. George's prowess is in a differeme sphere. No other man has ever rung a tenor of 50 cwt. to a peal, at the age of well over 75.

After a lapse of eighteen months, through the serious motoring accident which befell him early in Seplember, 1927, Mr. A. #1. Pulling, of Guildford, has been able to return to peal ringing, and on Saturday conducted a peal of Duble Now wich Major at Warmhatm, Sussex.
We are asked to state, for the information of many inquirers, that letters for Mrs. SyFes, the widow of the late Mr. J. E. Sykes, should be addressed c/o Mr. G. Kirby, London Road, King"s ivmm, Norfolk.

KING'S GIFT TO BELLS FUND

The bells of Dersingham, near King's LJm, Norfolk, lave heel rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Con, wing have also recast ibe 2nul. They are to be rededicated on April IJ̃th hy the Archdeacon of Lyma (see notice columns).
The money for the restoration has all been subscribed, the contributions including f50 from H. K. the King.

KING ALFRED'S COLLEGE GUILD.

HANDBELL PEAL BY SFLDDENTS.
As a recruiting ground for ringers, effarts were mude to interest in the art, studeuts at King Alfred's College, Winchester, anti, thanks largely to the effarls of hf \% Nalan Golden, some good work las been done.

Practice in change ringing was begum in November last, and King Alfred's College Guild was formed in Janmary. Uader the instruetion of Mr. Golden, excellent progress iras been made on handibelis, and ou Wednesday week a peal of Bok Major was rung by six of the members. It is beljeved to be the lirsi peal rung at at iraining College. The ringers were Eric H. Ruffell, of Neblerton, Wilts: James W. Collins, of Hastings, Sussex: गesse Reyman, of Fairford, Glos.; Robert C. Day, of Compron Abbas, Dorset ; Nolan Golden, of Northrepps, Norfolk ; and Feginald M. Mallett, of Geldestoti, Norfolk. Mr. J. Gaylor, who umpired the peal, is from Watford, Herte, and kindly gave up his aiternoon to the task. He checked the calling and courses from manuscript.

RINGERS

In the belfry, and at night,
Gbostly in the candle-light,
See the ringers circle-wise,
See the ropes that fall and rise.
List: above the clash of hells
The leader some mew sequence tells,
In closing loand and opering fist,
The hand of an Evangelist.
For to those who never come
To Church, the Chureh had else been dumb;
As calls the Mussulman to prayer,
From minaret, those ringers there,
Their message reaches every ear.
Few may listen, all most hear ;
Lef the Ringers know that they
One and all are Preachers Lay.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

To the Editor
Sir, As with your leading article last week, so with Mr. Guise's letter in this weck's issue, there is much witl which I heartily agree. At the same time, there are one or two points in it that call for a word or two in reply. He says that the expease incurred by the associations in sending members to Council is a reason why they should have a recognised status. Buta what more 'status' cotrd they possibly have than they have alroady got? With the exeep" tion of the fifteen hon. members, the Council is wholly made up of the associations. It is the associations in Conmeil.
As regards the word 'representative, I an thankful to say that my copy of Johnson's Dietionary does not give 'delegate, as a synonym for it, nor do I remember any word in the Rules of Council other than 'members' But I may be wrong, as I only speak from memory
I am sorry that I fail to see the point in what Mr. Guise says as to voting against item 8 on the Coumeil's agenda. It seems to me to be a most desirable and lautable attempt to get ringing properly repregented in the Councils of the charels, and I do not see how it is going to cost the associations auything at all

No one laments nore than $I$ do the absence of refercuce to the Central Coumril in reports and rules of assosiations, but whose fault is it? Certainly mat that of the Combeil.

The Council, I take $i t_{1}$ referred the ifom' mentioned by Mr . Guise to the associations to give those who had not debated it an opportunity to to so, ank in the case of those who had debated it to give them further opportunity, so as to be certain of getting a wellmatured opinion from them.
The associations do not give the Council "power to enforce,' because they bave not got that power to give, and if they gave it the Council conld not use it.

Of course, if the Coumcil is not worth the money that it cosis, it will sonn die a matural death-or, rather, it wonld have died years ago.-Yours, ete.,

> CHARLES D. P. DAYIES.

DEIEGATE v. REPRESENTATIVE.

Sir, Is Mr. Guise correct when be writes that in the English Dietionary (there are nany, he does not say which) "this word "representative" means "delegate"' $p$ As a printer, I have been using a Standard Dictionary for the past 36 years, and this is what it says about both words:-
Delegate v.t. (delegatings, delegnited). To send as a. representative; to dopate; to commit to another's care. n. a representative; a deputy.
Representative-a. Fitted or serving to represent; conducted by the agency of delegates; typical. n. One wha or that which represents; a person elected to represent a constituency.

So you see, Sir, that hoth words as nouns are one and the same thing, 'repregentative. In addition, I may add that in all the reports of fassociations $I$ have by me are set out the names of the representatives upon the Central Gouncil of Chureh Bellringers
The Central Council has been in existence for 38 years, and I say, calmy and deliberately, that it has justified its existence, and I prophesy that, whatever happens at Chelmsford on Whit Monday, it will continue to carry on its good wort.
That it bas no power to enforce its decisions has not prevented its decisions from being enforced, or, at any rate, respected. How often do we see peals of Grendsire Major published nowadays? ar Plain Bob Triples or Caters? or seven-bell peals without a covering ieuor? The Central Council say they are to be discountensuced, and they undoubtedly are.-Yours, ete.,
W. A. CAYE.

TOO MUCH FUSS.

Sir, - I think the majority of ringers will agree that to us flue words "Representative" and "Delegate" nean exactly the same hhing, and it was a surprise to me, after making inguiries, wo learm there is a difference in the meaning. If Mr. Guise will look in the new Oxford Dictionary be can study it for himself. The presifent fthe Central Council was entirely within his rights when he made the statemert Mr. Guise refers to, and while those words "elect representatives stand, a member has a perfect right to give his awn persomal view and rote. Whether it is wise or not is another question. My own personal view of the matter is that there has been a lot too much fuss made over the natter. The Central Coun[f], we have been told several times, stand only in an advisory position. The rales they make can only be kent by the goodwill of the Exercise, and they have no means of enforcing them. I do not think the majority of the Exercise would welcome any body which injed to fine them over peal ringing, which, after all, is only a pleasure. I do not wish Mr. Guise to think I am aganst penalities. Sy own society has fines, and I believe in them for service ringingtrat that is at duty, although it may be a pleasant one. It is, however, an entirely Bifferent thing to peal ringing-Yours, etc.,
A. H. PULLIEG.

YEOVLL PARISH CHURCH BELLS.

At Yeovil Parochial Ghareh Council meeting, Mr. J. CiondeJiitel steward of the Pingers' Guid, read ab extract from the conductor report calling atitention to the state of the bells, antl especially the great inerease in the wibration of the frame, dun to their un even running, dansed hy gudgeons and bearings being walls out in truth. Not only did this vibration make the bells diffienth to rinu. but it involved constant wateh and attention, and might hame a hanl effect on the straftare of the tower. It was henty for yars sinch the bells were last relitugg, and during that time, with the exception of the tenor and rinth hells, they did not appear to have receiverd any attention from bell hangers. In lis (the conductor's) opinian. the time had now come when the question of calling in expert adwies should be coasidered.

The Council decided to seek the advice of a firm of helf foundre. Yeovil has a ring of ten bells with tenor of 72 cwt .

NOTES BY THE WAY.

BY J. ARMIGEL TROLLOPT.
'JHE CENTRAL COUNCIL'S AGTHORITY゙-TEE DEVELOPMEN'J OF RINGLNG—TOSEPF ETKES.
[ am interogted in a mild sort of way in this controversy ahout the Cambral Gouncil and the associations, because I rather think lhat it was some remarks of mine that started the wresent discussion. We were considoring lagt yenr the agenda of the coming Central Council meeting, and I said something like this: 'In the long run yon musti leave the decision ta your members. They will thean ail the arguments for and against. They are men whom you liate electad heause you can trust their judgment. The hest you can find (I was not one of them). They are pour representatives, not vour delegates. The presitent of the Central Council was present. and lo repeated the phrase al the Council's meeting. (It may have heen acoincidence.) What I was thinking was that memhers of the Central Council are in a similar position to Members of Parliament, not to felegates to a Trades Tinion Congress. But the whole moniter is easily squared by a little eommon sense.
If the associations are groing to debate and settle the items of the Centual Conncil ngnata before its meeting, I don't see why they need send il boprosentative; it posteard wonld do as well.
On the other hand, the man who represented an association would Ine ro fol who did not pay attention to the wishes of his constitucney. ## REV. H. LAW JAMES' INCONSISTENCY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir, I have reaci with interest Mr, Lap James reply to my list letter. He certairly puts farward a very interesting point, nimely, late since the ' leads" of even-bell metiods are (in geveral) joined together when the treble leads, and those of odd-bell trebledominatcd methods (in general) as the treble leaves the lead, it is nattral to conclude that in the former case rounds is the first row of the method, and in the latter case it is the last.
He also raises the question of rownd blocks. I am only gtating a well recognised fact when I say that there are few arts in which rore words and phrases are in everyday use, but which have to admit ambiguity when viewed through really critical eyes, than that of campanology. Now this term 'round block' is one of these, although in this oase the ambiguts is not very obvious at first sight. I submit that wo use this term "round block" to mean two different ftuings; there are the round block of which Mr. Law James gires ns examples the three leads of Bob Mivimus; these (he says) begin and end respectively 1234 and 1324, $13+2$ and 1432,1423 and 1243 , and are joined logether by makiug 2nd's place when the treble leads to give the 24 changes on four bolls. There is also the meaning which we have in mind when we say thar "a peal must be a round block, ${ }^{3}$ this being another way of saying 'a peaf must start from, and end with, rounds.' These two types of round block might well be dis$t$ inguished ns "open" and 'closed." A round block beginuing 12345678 and ending 12436587 would be an 'open' one; a. 'closed" one would have to satisf $\begin{gathered}\text { the fureher condition of actrally coming }\end{gathered}$ back to 12345658 (the row we stared fiomi. The difference between these two types is admittedly elighe, but it is an essential one.

Mr. Law James gives an answer to ray first question, which was, On what authority did he mane certain statements?" His answer, as I understand it, is that the stimements were based on what are (in his opinion] 'naturai lews, which cannot be attered,' and which he proceeds to set forth.
He totally ignores my second question, which was, "How did he reconcile his parsistent renarks to tha effect that "rounds is the first row of a peal nud not the last' with the Ceatral Council's condition that "a peal slaall in all cases start from and end with rounds"? I think ho will forgive me for assuming it as agreed that these two phrases are, in fact, irreconcilable.

I should like to say here, as one of the junior members of the Exercise to whom lae refers in tis letter, that we of the younger generation do realise what a vary deep delot of gratitude we owe to Mr. Law James and his brother for their large shate in the great increase of campanological knowledge which has tafen plece in the last 60 years and wo do resppect, and ralue their opinons hirghy. It is, therefore. in no spint af unfriendliness or disrespect that I take

If there is one ident which We Exercise should set itself above alt others it is that of consistency. We can hardly hope never to be inconsistent, hat I do urge that is is the comman duty of eacla one of us to do our best to ricl our exurentely complicated art of as much as possible that is inconsistent.
Now Mr. Law James has surely placed limself in a position of extreme inconsistency. He is on the Sinnding Committee of the Central Council, and he is also president of one, and a member of many associations which are affiliated to it; and yet he tolerates rales which are entirelr irreconcilable with whab he consiteps natural laws which canot be alberet.' Surely the mily consistent thing to do is to propose that the rules in question lie alteren. The rules of the Cantral Council are not unalterable: it is for its members to briug them into line with what they consider to he "natural laws which ofnnot be aitered.' Tuit while we are affiliated to the Central Counail it is surely no less than our duty io stick to what are at whe moment its rules num to refmin from making statenents which are in direct opposition to them.
The real trouble is that some of us are going about the jols the wrong way: we are starting from the wrong enci. Let us take the example of Mr. Bankes James" aremgentent of Cambidge Minor, I thak we are all 日greod that the arrangement is a vely clever one, and reflects great credit on the composer": but this in itself does nof make it a thue peal. A great many of us go further than this, and fpel that it roes supply a great need in that it makes it possible to ring 5,040 Cambridge Minor with wo $65^{\circ} \mathrm{z}$ at back stioke, without ringing the same 720 seven times So far so good; hut this is where certain people $h_{\text {ave left the rails of conaistmey nitogether: : they have }}$ proceened to fake the existing rule and twist it ahon! until they hafe decoived themseives and others into believing that it means something which no one reading it in an mbiassed and logical woy conld possinly imagine linat it wn ever intended to mean. Surely the reasomalo lime of action is to propose a rule (firee from ambiguity) which conforms with their riew of what should he regarded as a peal, and theu let the Central Conncil decide for or gegainst it.
Iu any case fhe existing mule lins not mored quite satisfactory, in vew of the conspicuous inability of the Fxereise as a whole to agree as to its raxet meaming: il is therefrre fo be homed, and, I think. assumed, that somethine will lan done nboul it al the next Gentrai (Continued in rest columes.)

'SPLICING.

The progressive development of the art of ringing is never stayed. It may have sometimes, and even for long periods in the past, shown only small advances, while at others it has gone rapidly forward, but it is always progressing. Even in what may be called the darkest days there were men who were 'exploring the land' and laying up a store of knowledge, which, in the brighter intervals, has enabled the enterprising spirits to give a big lift to the art. Even a cursory study of the history of ringing will show this. There never was a period, however, when progress was made in so many different directions as in the last twenty years. The spread of change ringing itself; the increasingly higher standard of methods rung; the wider field of practice and the growth of knowledge in composition and method construction are a few of the instances which may be quoted.

One of the directions in which this progress has shown itself most markedly is in that of method 'splicing.' First applied to Minor methods, in which it reached its acme of application in the peals rung by the Norbury (Cheshire) band, it was eventually adapted to methods on higher numbers. In Surprise ringing there was first the peal at Whitley Bay, where Cambridge and Superlative were spliced, and afterwards came that remarkable contposition of the Rew. H. Law James (first rung at Warnham), in which London and Bristo! were added to the other two, and which laid the foundation for those further wonderful peals in five and six methods which have been accomplished at Willesden. A ten method composition has now come on the scene, and so the expansion goes on. No one can foresee the limit of development on these lines, for it opens up new avenues for the ingensity of botl, composers and ringers. Only on Monday, 'splic* ing ' in its practical development was taken a step further when at Chelmsford a peal was rung in which Superlative Surprise Maximus and Cambridge Surprise Maxirnus were coupled.

There has, of course, been a grod deal done by way of joining up methods in approximately half peals. This is 'splicing' in its simplest form, but in interest cannot be compared to those forms in which methods are changed in every course or at almost every lead. Probably the time will come when spliced peals will be as common as are peals to-day in single Surprise methods. Composers might well devote their attention to obtaining peals in which some of the plain methods to be found in the Central Council's Major Method 'Collection ' are spliced on the same lines as the Surprise methods are now mixed in one composition. Mr. Pitman has done it in (Conitinued on page 210.)

regard to some of the Plain Triple methods, by changing the method when the hunt bell is changed and the splicing of selected plain Major methods ought not to prove an insoluble probiem. There is no question - as Mr. Trollope pointed out incidentally in his 'Notes by the Way' last week-that once an enterprising lyand has taken up 'spliced' peal ringing, a peal in any one method is a tame affair, and with the continued expansion of knowledge these multi-method peals will doululess grow in numbers.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

The Ely Diocesen Association held their anmual meeting again at Cambridge on Easter Monday. The aftendance of members it the lunch and business meeting was smaller than usual, but ringers from other places were spending the day in Cambridge, and ringing took place at Great St. Mary's, St. Andrew the Great, the Ghurch of St. Mary aud the English Martyre, "and also at Old Chesterton.

The committee met in the vestry of St. Mary's in the moruing, und the gervice in that chureh at noon was, in the absence through illuess of the Vicar, Dr. P. N. There were 32 peals rung during tho year, including one of Bob Royal on bandbells.

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES

To the Eutitor.

Dear Sir - Mr. Woot asks this week how I reconeile my statement that rounds is the first row of a peal with the statement that a peal shall in all cases start from and f:ind will rounds? I do not attempt to reconcile them; they are absolutely contradictory.
Change ringing is a science; tho rules of the Cantral Council dealing with tho scientific side of the matier are just like scientific sheories.

Now, a scientifie theory is like the clothes line on which the washing is hung out to dry, but if someone proceeds to hang in fourstone weiglat upon it the whole thing comes dowa.
In 1907 we published the Collection of Minor methods, hud we drew a line under 123456, gave the figures of the lead, and drew another line after the whole peal of the treble. Wo were simply following tradition; and there was really no excuse for us; we ouglit to have known better, for on page 3 in his work on ' Duffield,' published nine years before by Sir Arthur Fepwood, he tells us guite correctly that Duffield is pricked by the six heads.
When we published the Selection of Mrjor methods in 1926, we corrected the mistake, and you will lind the lines drawn in the right place.
Now turn to Minor forty yearg ago. Six-bell ringers gloried in 11 360 's in different methods: then came the delivition of a peal of Minor given in the last edtion of 'Rules and Decisions." That was our clothes line, and we were all proud of it. My brother produced his poal of Cambridge Minor; Hat was a four-stone weight, and the motion carried at Hercford last year was the ercction of in 1uew clothes line.
I blen produced the London Sinor, and, while I still think that the line holds, a great many people think otherwise.

What is to be done? I repeat, clange ringing is a science. Now scientific theories are tested by experiment, and so the proper thing to do is to wait until we have proved by experiment that the line is fetrally broken, and when that is proved to be very eareful before we attempt to erect another.
H. LATF JAMES.

LONDON SURPRISE MINOR.

Sir, Mr. James must be getting very short of copy to prove to pour readers that his peal of London and his brother's peal of Cambridge are true. First we get cammples of Singles and Doubles, and then, finaliy, Triples. Yes, sir, you may mix the 72 courses to get the extent of 5,040 , just as you may mix the six courses of London to get the extent of 720 , but you may not mix the three 720 's to get $2_{3} 160$. Mr. James would never tolerate mixing three 5,040 of Triples to get 15,120 , which is just the same thing as mixing thres 720 's to get 2,160 . They are both the extent in racl puethod, and must remain as such.
What we six-bell ringers-or the majoriby of us-are out for is $\overline{\text { E }}$ clear definition of what a peal of Minor slall be, and this is the definition we want: A preal of Minor shall commence from rounds and end with rounds; it must consist of at least seren true and complete 720 's, each 720 to be true an itself. ${ }^{x}$ If we get this definition all will be well, otherwise I am afraid all the ground will liave to be gone over again.

Here are three 720's of London Minor. Nos, 1 aud 2 lave two 5-6's at laad, No. 3 has four $5-6$ 's ot hand: 43 clanges part each $5-6$ in Nos. 1 and 2, mud 67 changes part eacli 5-6 in No. 3.

There are two variations to each 720 without disturluing the $5-6$ 's.
They are the best that can be produced from the Lonton method and, in my opinion, are far in advance of Mr. Tames'. The 720 's are twue in themselven, and there are only eight 5-6s at hand in 2,160 clanges. There is mothing heve to offond tlie musical ear.-Yours truly,
C. SEVERN.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

To lhe Edifor.

Sir,-Mr. Cave can Lave it eilher way, I do not mind. I have only triced to prave liatt 'Representative' is 'Delegate.' Mr. Cave states that if is the other way about, or, in piain words, the same thing. He tives not say if ifie word 'representative' should be hanged and drawn as tie word delegato was at Hereford. With reforence to ussociation reports, will Mr. Cave keep to the point? I stated that I fail to fimi in any of the rules given reference to tho Central Council. It is a barl policy to rush veplies, wasting space and croaling an unfair position to your other correspondents.
However, the rest of Mr. Cave's letter glorifies a sociaty created to chinr for a, very fer eelect scientific change ringers, and Mr. Cave's follow-ringorb, wha are only Sunday serrice church bellingers, are lefil to tile good and nule associstions to do for them what they did before the Central Council was thought of. There is too much stress taid on the scientific side of church helringing, and it is in this light thet I betieve the Centrat Council has Lozt its popularity among the less learned ringers.
Cpon the Central Couneil agenua is an item which has already heen pasbed by them onee, viz., 'Advisory committee consultant.' My experiene is that these advisory committees are conservative, and will only accept the adrice of those ther seek. (I cousd explain this fully if necessar;) Frurthermore, does the Central Council follow up all its recommendations and see that they are not forgotten? Here, bloove, is one instance that they do not know they bave already passerl a resolution down for this year's agenda- To be quite honest, I really do wish the Council (in an improved form) to carry on, but 1 should like to see a more democratic policy.
I am wery grateful to Res. C. D. P. Davies for his kind and conatrmetive reply. Tinfortanately, Mr. Davies missed a point when I onferred to 89 upon the agendu. He mistook me for 93 . It is 8B thit: I definitely referreel to. Anoller point is this ' matured opinion', from the associates. Whal happened to the 'matured opinions'? Whicn a representalive asid he was against these 'matured opinions * the president iold him he was there to wote as a member of the Conncil and not in the way his association had inetrueted him.
Mr. Pulling's letter is also wery helpful. Through these letters it i. quite elear, that, nlithough diferent ringers possess different " dretionaries," ilere is a gross raisunderstanding as to the status an a sooviation holds upon the Council. I do not agree that the Counell are associminns in Council, but, rather, a Council formed solely to reserve their owit personnl opinions, and opinions of associations
'pious opinions.' Can the hod: secretary say that his material for the nyenta comes spontrneously from the members of the Council or from the nssociations, and which does he think he woulid

Many have been the expressions of regret at the fate of Mr. §. T. Bykes. Mr. J. J. Lamb writes pointing out that he took part in Mr. Sykes" first peal, which was at Weplwich, on November 13th, 1902. He is the third menber of that hand to meet a tragic eud, the other two heing Messrs. E. Pye and 1. G. Shade.

The loesl watehmaker, who has charge of the clock, had been showing a friend the wonders of the clack, carillon and bells, and had descended as low the lhelfy. The frinnd gazed round in bewildered wonderment tutil his eyes rested on titu rope mats on the belfry floor, when he exclaimed, 'Well, I never kuew they knelt down to ring the bells before."

WELL-KNOWN RINGERS MARRIED.

A wedding of much interest to a large circle of ringers was solemnised on Saturday at St. Stephen's Church, Claplam Park, when Mr. Reuben Sanders was married to Miss Elsie Chapman. Mr. Sanders has for many years been one of the leading exponents of the art of ringing in London, and bis bride has proved herself one of the ablest among the lady ringers in the country.

MINSTER ABBEY CHURCH, SHEPPEY.

ANGIENT RING OF FIVE RESTORED.
On Saturday last, March $23 \mathrm{ra*}$, the re-dedieation of the bells of this arcient abbey church taok piace by the Very Rev. the Dean of Gagterbury. After the usual form of service, the Dean proceded to the base of the tower far the actual ceremory, and a few rounds were rung.
The Dean gave an inspiring address on the history of the hells and their uses, and the cusloms of ringing and ringers.
Several ringers from various towers in the Gochester district 1919 g six-scores of Grandsire, SLedman and Plain Bob, with the assistance of Mr. A. A. Hughes, of the Whitechapel Foundry
The bells, five in number, are dated alike, 1663 , the weight of the tenor being between 11 and 12 cwt. The truble, 2nd and Jnd have in small letters, Willam Hatch made me 1663' and the 4th and tenor, 'Wiliam Hatch made nue, in capital letters. The breble, owing to a crave, was recest in 1883. Messrs. Mears and Stainhank lave had the bells at their foundry, and, the 3 tod hell being cracked, has been recast. The four other hells bave been retuned, the hell frame strengthened, and new self-aligning tall bearings fitted. New headstocks, wheels, ash stays, sliders, and new pulleys, eudes, ropes, ete., bavc also theen litted. The 'go' and tone of ihe belle have heen greatly improved, and reflect great credit on the frm. Only ante regret remains, and that is that a treble was mot added to make them into a peal of six.
The cost of the work las been entirely defrayed by a memher al the eongregation, Mr. S. T. Hipwell, an ex-sergt.-major, R.E.

HERTEORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION. PRESDDENTVS GJFT.

Phe Hertfordshire County Association gathered at St. Albans on Monday for their aonual meeting, and during the day made full use of the bells at the Abbey and other churches in the city. In the aftemoon, a service was held in the Abbey, an address being given by the Rev. R. Gibbs, Vicar of Aldeulnam, and afterwards the ringers assembled at the Ver House for tea, followed by the annual meeting.
Mr. G. W. Cartmel, president of the nssociation, who is also hon. secretary, presided, supported by the Dean of St. Albans (the Yery Rev. E. L. Henderson) and the Vicar of Aldenham.

Tlie President, in lis welcome to the menbers, who numbered about a hundred and twenty, sprang a surprise on the company., it want to present to the assaciation this evening, a silver badge, ${ }^{\text {a }}$ he said. ' Last year you kept a secret from me wonderfully well; this year I had a gecret, and I kept it in ny own home. The badge is given to mark my year as president and as a token of my appreciation of tho esteem you bestowed upon me lasi year. I ask fou to accept this silver badge for the use of another president."

A torm of applause broke out as Mr. Cartmel passed ine baxige around. The silver badge, which takes the shape of a bell, las the inscriptions: 'To the Hertfordshire County Assaciation of Change Ringers, prosented by Mr. G. W. Cartmel, Easter, 1929.

The President rad a message frem the Bishop of St. Albans congratulating tha association and regretimy his inability to be present. Excellent progress in change rimging had taken place duriog the year, the Pregident added. The association's numberg had been well maintained, and they were in a sound finameial position.

Mr. Cartmel commenced the 44th anmund report with an expression of gratitude for the handsome manner in which the membern recognised his 25 years' service as their secretary, and also in conferring upon him the additional honour of president. Fhe year's work as regards peal ringing had been very successful, giving cause for much satisfaction. A perusal of the list of peals reveals a variety of methods. The peal of Yorkshire Eurpuise Major at North Mimms, and a peal of Surfleet Surnrise Minor at Wendens Ambro, were the forst in the methods for the association. Tive peals of Cambridge Sutprise have also been rung, the peal of St. Micbael's, St. Albans being the first rung in the cify- It was also unique in that the band represenfer the four towers of St. Alhans. Thirty-four peals were rung in 23 towers, with 19 different canductors, Mr. R. Howard topping the list with seven peals. Nine rang their first peat, and approximately 63 have rung their first peal in a new method, which is real progress.

The commitfee met at, St. Alhans on Fubruary 9th, and it was inieresting to record that every distriet secretary was present, besides representatives from other inportant centres. The secretary submitted proofs of a service paper for district metings, which was agreed to, subject to the approval of the Bishop of the diocese. Araft certificate of membership was subjected to much eriticism, and approved, after various suggestions had been incorgorated. The question of what constitutes a peal of Minor or Doubles was discussed, abil in view of the correspondence which had been carried on for some time in "The Ringing World," and also to give the representatives of the assaciation on the Gentral Council the opportunity of knowing the opinion of members, it was decided to make the question an agenda item. The committee agreed to the proposition brought forward by Mr. J. S. Goldismith at the last Central Council meeting, where it was carried without dissent

BISHOP'S STORTFORD'S ALOOFNESE.

Death, continued the report, had removerl many of their zealous honorary and ringing members, amung whom were Canon Nairne, the Rev. J. P. Haythornthwaite, Rev. A. G. Langdon, Rev. F. R. Foster, Mr. E. N. Wix and Mr. F. S. Cox. Among the rank and file they remembered Mr. W. Benneti, of Aldeuliam, who for 37 years was verger, Mr. Arthur Hull, of St. Albans, who was for 53 Jears attached to St.-Peter's belfry, and Mr. George Paice, of the Tamonton band. After referring to the joint meeting with the Midalesex Association, held at North Mimms in the summer, and the meeting of the Essex, Herts and Middlesex Associations at Waltham Abbey, the report recorded that the hells at Great Gaddesden had been augmented to a peal of six, and Bishop's Stortford had been rehung. The latter tower once held an important position in the association, and listed a band in the first annual report; but they hat left the association severely alone for mary years. The greatest acquisition to the county would be the addition of two trebles at Hafteld, making a peal of ten, in memory of the three sons of the Bishop of Exeter who fell in the war. This should spur the Hatfield members to grat achievements, and give a lift to the prestige and records of the association. Another event of great interest has beea the centenary celebrations of John Briant, the famous Hertfordshire bellfounder and clock maker, which was celebrated at Hertiford on Wednesday, February 27th, the anniversary of his death. Briant cane to Hertford when 30 years of age, and get up his bell foundry in Parliament Row. The departure from the counly of the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, a most loyal supporter of the association for many years and of ringing generally, was much regretted. Mr. T. J. Full, who acted for several years as librarian, liad sent in his ing the Contral Conncil mocting last year, conscquenfly thit resolution as to the aceessaty of appointing a commile to enguine as to the best methorl of meering urgent necessitous cases of sickmess amongst ringers, and nif affordigg help to their depentams, fell through. The resolntion wss, lowever, upon the agenda this year, and the sectelary dit the Central Counci] had promised to second it. "The Central Conncit," added the report, is a most useful body, having lone mach prood wowk in the past, and I am sure that it is to the adrabtage of the whole ringing comananty if persistently backed up loy them. It has been critieised, whith is a sign of usefulness. Genume eriticish mewer does harm, beoase if it is given and received in the zpirit of Christian followship it impats Fery often new life. I commiond ane suggestion recently put forward Mr. Alex Foung, the sorretary to the Counci, that on the oceasinit of the thanksiting selwice for the King's remarkable recovery from sickness, fingers shonlel murk the event with a joyous peal.
Thank weye atain fantered to the district secretaries for their splendid labours uf anotiour vear. Theis work was of the atmost importance for the success and progress of the assuciation, and ille attendances at the mertings showed that lhat opinion was shared by tio members also. There meetings were becuming more populay in ather associations, as wedl as theirs. In conclusion, they remom-heved with gratitnofe the services rendered by the rarion steenlekeepers who are responsitide for the "go' of the bells, the cla: gy for arranging services at district mectings, and for use of the luells a the annims aud distrixt meetings and for pents; and those who have generously proviled 1 ens; the sytipathetic co-operation atul shat port given by the lonorary and wingith memhers, and all whers who ciation. Let then in reemou show that they walued and appreciatend the many kindly acts af atheir supporters hy regular athendance at their respective olatrahes for service ringing amd practice, and coing all they could bithother the best interests of the association duriur all they could therther the best interests of the association rluring the coming

SPLICING, AN ANCIENT PRACTICE.

To the Eutor.

Dear Sir, -In yon issac of March 15th apperas an arlicle with the above title over itte uame of Joln Peryy, in which lie gives the composition of Crown Bob. I wha greatly interested in this, as at gave The methods winieh were sptied together and rumg under thas name.
It nay interest lim amit others lo know that Crown Boh was rung at Leek when tho Lower contained only six bells. Onfortunately noting but the mame survivos, together with the infomation that it would prodnce 360 cilsures anly. The ringers could not have known of the Single, as iliey nerer rang more than the eigiteen score.
[ was always of the opinion the methots used were contained iu the record of a performance given on a lablet in the belfry as fol lows:-

On Wednesday, November 12th, 1845, the five following peas were rung without intermission in 2 hrs, 25 mins. : Violet, College Trchle, Oxford Treble, College Plensure and Grandsire Bob, each peal containing 720 changres; 5 . Slieldon 1, J. Winterbottona 2, 0. Ball 3, U. Davenport 4, I. Fogg 5, J. Barlow 6.

The old six bells were placed in the tower in 1721, but we havc no knowledge when Growa Bub was first practised or how the ringers beeame possessed of it. As I hat never heard the fitle mentioned elsewhere I was inclized to think it was of local origin until this article appeared.
Tha recort on the tombstone of Uriah Davenpart in flte Parisf Churchyard reads as follows: '[Triah Davenport, of this down, died Fehruary $134 \mathrm{~h}, 1860$, in the 91 st year of his age. He was a ringer upwards of 70 ycars fut the Parinli Church, Leek.
Surely this must be approaching, if not, a recard.
During the later part of his life Drvenport's mind becane en foebled, and he was given la roaming; but this caused no anxiety to his family, as be was always to be found at the cund of his rambles in what they termed the Betl-us (Bell Housc).-Yours, etc

THE MEN-METHOD COMPOSITION.  To the Editor.

Dear Sir, In reply to Mr. C. T. Coles, I wish to poing out tha he is quite corcect in assuming that where the Bristol leads ean be rung they must be rang as home leads, between two bols home For instance, Bristol musi not be ivng for one lend ended plain followed by Cambridge 'Middle' lead and London "Wrong" Lead as in that case the liantatrokes of the treble leads will repent. I ain sending a copy of the lead of 'Gloucestershire,' which obtained from a well-known conductor recently, as I canot sa where the digures are published.
In conclusion, I sincercly congratulate the ringers whin have taken part in ringing Mr. Jimes spliced Major peals, and wisl them every success.- Yaurs truly,

A J. PITMAN

ST．HUGH DOUBLE SURPRISE MAXIMUS．

EY ARIHL゙Z CRAVEN．
Whe method given below is the gesult of my endeavour to make ＇Cambridge＇into a really porfect method．I shall leave it to the Exercise to judge whelher or mot I have succeeded．

The alterations from Cambridge Maximus are really very slight， alulrough the effect is great．
Ithe differance is wrought when the treble is in $3-4$ and $5-6 ; 7.8$ and 9．0．The 1－2 adjoining places are cul oul when treble is in $3-4$ ，and an ofld place made in 10th＇s when tho ireble is in 5－6．The dodgiug block with trable in $3-4$ is identical with Cambridge Major，where the legitimate placas aro 5th＇s and 8th＇s．The docleing biock whon treble is in 5－6 is exactly identical with the 5－6 block in Cambridge Royal，with one pair of bells dodging in 11－12．These operations produce the correct quarter section change mecessary to produce a double method，i．e．，：－

A PARTING OF THE WAYS: S :

After 38 years' service as Hon. Secretary of the kient County Association, the Rev. F. J. O. Helmore has, to the regret of all the members, resigned office. This step was, perhaps, not altogether unexpected. Advancing years had made his retirement a probability, and Mr . Helmore's recent serious illness precipitated the event. Nevertheless, the parting of the ways, after such a long and active official connection with the organisation, makes a break which all who have been linked with Mr. Heimote must feel as keenly as the late secretary himself. The Kent County Association has long been looked upon as one of the best managed among ringing societies, and its success has been in no small measure due to the guiding hand of the gentleman who has just handed over the reins. Mr. Helmore took upon himself the cares of office in the comparatively youthful days of the association. He has grown old with it, and in growing old has become part and parcel of it, until the Kent County Association and the Rev. F. J. O. Helmore were almost synonymous.

During the long period over which he has conducted its affairs, the association has risen to be one of the strongest numerically and financially among all the ringing organisations, and it has at the same time retained the interest of its members and propagated throughout the county the objects for which it exists. Many enthusiasts, whether Men of Kent, or Kentish Men, havi had a hand in helping forward the good cause, but, when all is said and done, it is on the chief executive official that the primary responsibility rests and in the part whicls he has played the Rev. F. J. O. Helmore has not only discharged the duties of his office with efliciency and success, but has set an example which should be an inspiration to all.
The ringing Exercise owes a debt, which can never be fully expressed, to those men who, like Mr. Helmore. give ungrudging set vice for the best part of their lives, in order that the rest of the fraternity may enjoy their art and practise it at will. The influence of the labours of such men is felt in many indirect ways, even when the work which they have done is not apparent on the surface. The Kent County Association has been doubly fortunate. Not only have the members had the benefil for nearly forty years of the experience of a very able secretary, but Mr. Helmore's association with the Diocest of Canterbury and its Cathedral has been a valuable connecting link between the organisation and the church authorities. Mr. Helmore takes with him into his retirement from office the good wishes of his ringing friends (Continued an page 226.)

THE PEAL AT WINCHESTER TRAINING COLLEGE.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir-Referring to the peal at Winchester Training College, I congratulate Mr. Golden in laving roused so much interest in the College, but it was not the first to be rung in a training college, as $n$ peal of Grandsire Caters was rung in the Music Room of St. Mark's, Chelsea, on May 16th. 1920 , but only one of the band was a resident. It is to be loped the juterest may be maintained. Wishing them the lest of luck, yours etc.,
W. AYRE.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

 A RECORT OF PROGRESS.Whe 32nd anmal general mecting of the Midallesex County Association and London Diocessn Guild was held in the City, and ptoved a great suzecss. 'l'he attendance during the afternoon and evening reaclied nearly ninety, and the thzee towers npeu for ringing were at tiunes filled to the limit of their capacity for comfort. The serviep, Jehli at St. Rotelph's Clazelh, Bishapsgate, at 4.30 , was very weil altenied. The lesson, taken hom 1 Cor, xiv, was read by Mr, hymn, 'Unchanging Gorl, Who livest,' was sthg. The address was given by the Rer. A. Cominardini, well-known for his mid-day inspiving sermons to eity warkers. After welcoming the members of the association, he chose for his text a passage from 1 Kings Tiz the clay ground, and drow ath analogy between the choice by King Solomin of a phare for motulding vessels of melal to adorn the tomple, atal God's fhoice of a way of moulding our lives. The orgnist at the service was Mr. Lconard H. Warner, well known to 13.B.C. listeners, whose rendering of the viarious hyms and other 13.B.C. listetrers, whose rendering of the various hymns and other music was zatueh appreciated.
An exeellem tea was served in tho Church Hall. The Rev. A Letmbardin, Mr. T. Walker and Mr. I. H. Warner joined the memhers of the association at the meal, although the former was unable (1) stas for more than a rew minutes. After tea, a well-struck course tof Stedrian Cingues was ring ois landbells by G. R. Pye, Mps. Ci. W. Flether, fi. H. Cross, J. Thomas, (i. W. Fletcler and W. pye increasing interesti of younger generation

The report, which had already becu dishributed amougst the memhers, was taken as read and adopted. Extracts from a alisfactory repart are as follows:-
The end of the war fotuld tis, like other associations, with our loral bands sadly dopleted, and in sotne cases almost broken up. In addition, quite a number of those menbers who returned from active service thok no furdier parl ith the ringing of our bells. However, the efforts required from those responsithe for lseeping the associalinn in ath aktive state was fortheoming, and to-day it is true to say that our strength has never been so great, or our activities so wide. Whing the period under review out membership has increased by tipwards of 100 , notwithstanding that dealh has taken a heavy foll. There has been a considerablo increase in the uunber of affiliated towers, and instruction has been given at rifferent times to several of our hands. Much credit, is tuce to those who lave undertaken this work, as well as to those leaders of local societies who, by coninmotis uxertion, have nol alloweil their bands to become depleted. Ghuing the Inst year or (wo a welcome sign has been the increasing interest slown in ringing by the younger generation, and at the last annual mpeting this was especially noticed. The future of our association is with these young men. Let us therefore continute our elforts to intarest theni in pur ard and in our Guild.:-
After referring to the satisfactary district meetings and the success of the joint meetings will ather associations, the report went on: The peals rung during the yenr numbered 69, two of which were rung on landhells and the remainder on tower hells in 38 different Tuwers. The conducting was slared ly 16 of the members, whilst 163 took part in the peals. Ten members rang their first peals, and 81 their first peals in a new method. Quite a large number of members, rang their hivgt peals of Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Maxinus, Cambridge Surprise Royal, and London and Bristol Surmise Mujor ; and sitl more their mitial peals of Stedman Caters and Triples. Miss E. E . Chmpman rang her first peal of Surprise Maximus, whilst Miss F. F. Orr trok part in the lirst penl of Yorkshire Surprise Major rung hy the association. To them, and to Mr. W. G. Wilson, who condueted his lirst peal, we cxtend our congratulations. The association ablained lhe honour of ringing the first peal of Superlative Supprise Maximaz in London, (his being accomplishod at Sobllwark Caltedral att Junury 14h. Teals of Yorkshire and Tincolnishite Stupprise Major were rung by the assaciation for the lirst time, the latter peal leciug rung without any of the land laviny previously practised the method! 'Two peals of Spliced Surprise Major in four methods were conducted from non-observation hells Messis. Willians and George R. Pyc, these being periormances of standing merit. Five Suprise Major methods were fung in one pral or the firat time on Becember 18 th ai Willesden, whilst an excelTrut performance wes accomplished on handledla at Ealing on Decomber 20th. Three of the peals were rung with half-muffeil dappors in mentory of the lite ©. I. Edwards, R. F. Holloway, and (i. Paice, at Heston, Acton and Edmonton, respeetively. Allicugls ant appearing in ottr records. wr must not umit to refer to Mr. James Goorge's 1,000 dh $^{\text {peal, which was rung at Wolverhampton on }}$ Oeloler 6th. Mr. George has been a loyal mumber of this association for some 30 yonrs, and whilsi congratulating him on his achievemont. we must express our pleasurc that a eonsiderate ntumber of liis peals huve boen rullg for this socicty. The quarter-peal list duntes prograss in eeriain lowers, but at the same time other lowers which were at one time prominent in the list show a decline. Several 720's at six-hell towers are noted, and the Northaw band must be congratulated on having rung some 30 extients of Minor, includiug one of Splieed Oxford and Kent Treble Rob.

31EMBERSHIP

The: membership jemains the same as last year. One lionerary and 00 ringing memhers were elected, but there were a large num ber of lapses, wlifst eight members ware laken from us by death In connection with the Japses of membership, most of which were caused by removals, members are reminded that the Central Cour cil has fommer a scheme for keeping in touch with ringers removing from one distriob to another. The scheme was ontlined in "The Ringing World " of June 1st, 1928. Loeal steretaries should advise their district secretary of ady removals, giving the new address At the same time, when local secretariss anc advised of removals into their district they should take every step possible to oitain the services of the ringer concerbed. During the year Messrs. Mears and Stainbayk have rehung the peal of six at St. Ann's, Stamford Hill, in new hearings, fud the eight belis at St. Mary's, Staines, in new fittings with strengthened framework. The bells at St. Paul's Cathedral have been overharled hy Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., who also hape in hand the relagnging of the bells at St. Mary Magdalene, Holloway. Messrs. Gillett end Johnston have rehung the bells at St. Joln-the-Baptist's, Chipping Barnet, on ball bearings, and are undertaking the complete recasting of the peal of eight at St. James', Clerkenwol. 'Me isleworth Bell Fund now reaches a total of fl34, and an appeal is made for furtlaer supporti as a con siderable sum is needed before the augmentation is put in thand The Belfuy Repairs Fund instituted in hise S. and W. district early last yenr amounts to &2 4s. 6d. Sincere tlanks are expressed to those of our members wha hate done greal service by way of in strocting at several of gur towers. Whithout this important work very little progress would be shown
The balance sleet, showing a Central Fund halance of $£ 29$ 3s. get. was adopled
Four new members were elected, whilst the whole of the retiring officers were raamimously chosen to continue for another year. death of M, ou the Central Counci, arising hougin the lamented Frank Corke, of Hiliingalon

THE COUNCIL AGENDA

Tire Central Council agenda was mext considered, and various views on the difference between a 'delegate' and a 'representative' wor stated. It wis generally agreed, however, that the "epresentatives when voting at the Gouncil's meetings, should consider the views of their members as expressed at association mectiags, or discussion a these meetings would be useless.
On lihis question, and on thac of the peals of Minor and Doubles contributions to the discussion were made by Messts. J. A. Trollope J. Parker, A. H. Pulling, G. L. Joyce, and C. T. Coies, but on the latter very vexerl subject vepresentatives were given an entirely free hand, it being considered n question for expert advice

Representatives werc " outhorised ' to stipport the proposal to raiso the affirition fees, althougla some tioubt, as to the wistom of the incranae was expressed. The possibility of some associations redue ing their number of representatives to the Council was considered as quite a bikely restilh, with lessened interest in the Coumel!'s setivities.
Support was given th the next two questions on the Counciles agenda, hut opposition was shown to the linal item.
Acton was closen ats the vente for next year's anmual meeting
Members were reminded of the joint neeting of the S. and W Distriet and the OxFord Diocessn Guild, which is to be held at Hit lingdon on Apriz 20th, and of the ropening of Clerkenwell hella on May 4th, whilst Ma. C. S. Bird made an appeal fot donations to wards a memorial whiel it las been decided to erect in tle Acton belfry to the late Robert Holloway

The Fresident proposed a comprehensive vole of thanks to all those to whom menhers were indebted for the succoss of the meet ing, inchuting the Rov. W. Hudson Slisw (Bishopsgetol, Rov. F. W lsaues (Cripplegate), ind Rev. H. ]. Fynes-Clinton (St, Hiagnus for the use af Lheir bells, the Rev. A. Walker, on hrlaalf of the Rector of Bislopsgate, replied t the vote of thanks, and expressed his pleasture at being present.
During the afternoon and evening a great deal of ringing wa Thames Street, and a large mumber of methods were rang, includian most of the standurd methods on eight bells, Stedman Culers an Cinques, Cambridge Royal, and Treble Bob Meximus.

STEDMAN AND CARTER'S DOUBLES.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir-Now that the publication of the Central Council's Colleution of legitimate methods has been postponed, it may be an opportune time to suggest luat Stedman's Soubles and its Reverge, and Carter's Doubles and its Reverse shoukd be given in their correct form with Rounds as first row in the new pulilication, whes issued, us follows:-

It will be noticed that the only difference between Stedman's Doubles and Reverse Carter's Doubles is that the ist place at the Division End in Stedman is converted into Sth's place in Reverse Carter"s Doubles; and vice versa, the 5 th's place of Reverse Stedman Doubles is coaverted into lat place at the Division End of Carter's Doubles.
There is one other peeuliarity worthy of notice, i.e., Carter's Doubles is the only one of the four methods that will extend perfectly, as a regular method, to Infinity.
Reverse Stedman Doubles will extend to Triples and Cinques, but the Caiers of this method is only a three part touch as follows:-

REY. F. J. O. HELMORE'S 38 YEARS'SERVICE.

'llag hon. secretary's report and halance sheet having been adopted, the Rev. F. J. O. Felmore said he wished to thank them all for sudden herearement. Owing to the severe trial he liad gone through fand bis advancing years (he was now 78) he said the time had come when he must resign his post as thoir hon. secretary, a position lie had held for 38 years. He thanked all who hati helped him during his illness-Mir. Mitchell, who had been his assistant, Mr. Sone for making the arrangeronts for the dinner that day, ant to the other district secretarics for their ever-ready assistance. When he first woak office, the number of members was abont 400 ; to-day it was nearly 1,000 ; the number of non-resifent members was 13, and now it was nearly 250 . 'I'he time liad now cone when lie must hand over the job to another.
Mr. W. Latter (Tonbvidge District secretary) said be had knowo Catoon Felmore during the whole period of his secretaryship, and it hatdy seemed possible to associale his mame without ' Kent County Association.' On behalf of them all le proposed ilyeir heartiest thanks to Ganon Helmore for his valued services as their hons. secretary, and said how sarry they all were that force of cironrnsiances lat compelled him to resign--This was seconded by Mr. W. During his iliness his assistant had renilesed good service, and he had plensure in proposing the name of Mr. Frederick M. Mitehell (anolher "Fred'), of Gravesend, as theit' hon. secretary. He would find plenty of work to do, but he was sure that Mr. Mitehell would do it to the best of his aliility until a mare suilable suecessor could be found.-This was seconded by Mr. W. E. Pitman (Canterbury) and canned unanimously.

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES.

To the Editot.

Dear Sir,-I note, from his letier of Aphil 51 , that Mv. Severn sneaks authoritatively for the majority of six-bell ringers, and in begging slightly to differ from hin I ara cateful to avoid this. atm told that there are 40,000 ringers in the United Kingdon, and a very vidiculous estimato would place tha numher of Minor vingers at (say) 1,000. A majority would then mean 501 opinions personally canvassed, and thes 1 liave not tone.
But tho majority of the (comparatively) few with whon I have spoken have expressed the wish to see something like the following:-
A peal (menning a live thousand or a tonch (of leas than this), shall commence and end with rounds.
In Major and upwards, it shall consist of at least 5,000 true changes, i.e., 4,999 different rows and two rows of roums one of the latter shall appear at the hoginning, aud one al the end.
In Triples, 5,040 true clanges, i.e., 5,039 alfferent rows, eld. different rows, and one row, i.e., 5,040 the changes, Rounds shall be the firsl and the last rows of the peal. Fach of the blocks slatl be produced differently, with provision for one additional touch of less than 720.
11 Doubles, similarly
I agree with Mr. James that the 'commence from roturts ${ }^{\text {a }}$ shouh bo amended; we are too prone blindly to follow tho nistakes of the past. We have an example of this (a piffling example, is is irue) in Mr. Severn's letter. He shows Hiree extenls of London Surprise (upoa which I congratatate him): he gives the figures before the bobs, when, actually, they follow the bobs. Why? Beanuse customary, but that does not make it correcl.
Let us get clowu to present-day veed, and frame something which will belp along rather than velard.
And a word about Mr. Guise's letlers. Fram memory, I think bu lias suggested that his Guild should ennsider whether the expenditure in sending delegates-representatives-members (as you will; to the Central Conncil, is worth while.
If so be thai this Guild should decide that it is not morth while, it is io be hoped that nome of its nembers will avall himself of the advantages to be obtainet from the Central Conneil's Collection of Methods, Collections of Peals (and what not?), which are published from time io time with the aid of my money.
Let onv eriticism be construetive. The Ceniral Council is a funy ode body, but it is well worth while!- Fours fathifully, St. Jolu's, Leytonstone GEORGE L. JOYCE.

Dear Sir, A stock argument of days gore by with the Rev. In ordor to pait the relation lyetween the fintld and the Advisory Committere of the diokese on a regular footing, it was agreed to choose as one of him offechs to loe elected cach year a consultant who would act as trolnical arlvises fo any tower, and of whose uppointment the Advisory Commitiee shotid be oflicially notified. There was cousiderable and lively discussion on the subject of splicing of extents, thout which there haki been so much eorrespondonce in 'The Ringing World. The following ressolution was ultimately thrided: The spicimg of methads is theoretieally unsound. But if lents in diwe or six-bell ringing should be allowed also.' There was nat vote against, the reasan given being ihat ii would wat be weli Jor the fuild to appeat to oppose so widely accepted a practice as splicing.

Fhue Secretary reporled that lie liad sent the resolutions which hat been paseed by the last anmunl mosting to the secretary of the CenIral bouncil for his information. To his surprize, when he entered Lhe mentiug, nt Herefork, he found that they were put down on the Mganda nsi ' late resolutious, to he considered at the end. Both, fowner, were thalt with in the course of previous discussions. Nimertheless, at the end of the mecting the chaimman, instead of passing therr over, went to some trouhte to explain that for some buscure point of order theso resolutions were wrong. Evidently lhota was mach confusion as to the relation between the Central Connall and its constituent badies. Ju one case there was even a proposal ta withdraw the representatives. Ho thought this quite landerg, and suggested that the best way to meet the difficulty was lo have some gtanding orders drawn up so that the associations woulal hnow what to do. It was absurd that, when a matter liad would hnow what to do. It was absurd that, when a matter liad lipen referred to the associations, they shoulal be told that they had hore wrong to pass a resolution on the suliject.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

THE GATHEDRAL PEAL.

The annual meeting of the Worcustershise and Districts Associntion was held as usual on Enster Monday at Woreester, when the fine weather, coupled with the athection of the new peal of twolve bells at the Cathedral, brought together a large number of members and visitors, who conmenced to arrive at an early hour. Among the latter were Messrs. F. E. Daw (London), J. P. Fidjer (Louglaborough), J. Austin (Gloucester), and A. Walker (Birmingham) The various city tower's were open for ringing, but not too much Hase semmed to be made of whem, the Cathedral seemimg to be the - Mecen * of cveryone. Ille authorities had this year kindly granted extra facilities for the bells at the Gatledral, and shortly after 12.30 their gloriots tones commented fo boom over the eity. The firsi item of the day was the unveiling of at peal tablet in the belfy recording the first peal to be rung on the new bells, riz., Sterman Cinques, on December 26th last. This was rumg by the tassociation, conilucted by the Master (M1. J. D. Johnson), who later expressed the gratification of the meubers to the Dean for making the long climb up to the ringing chamber to perform the ceremony.
As is usual on these occasions, the ringing was of a very moderate character, duc to various reasons. Althotgh there was au abundance of good twelve-bell men, it was exceedingly difficult to get then together owing to the congested state of the belfry and steps. As a consequence, some could not get in at all; some were wedged in and could not get out ; some endervoured to do their best on metsl much above their calibre, the resull heing as stated. Fowever, good humour prevailed, ayd everybody seemed happy.
The husiness meeting was heid in the Chapter Hause in the afternoon, the Dean (the Rev. W. Moore Ede, D.D.) heing in the chair. At ihe ontset, in welcoming the memhers, the Dean expressed the grateful thanks of the autharities to the members for their gift of a bell to the new peal, $£ 100$ having been raised. The 8 th bell is suitably inscribed to this effect, and a hoone tablet has been fixed in the belfry. Associated with this be also wished to montion the name of Mr. A. E. Parsons. He was sure that he voiced the regret of those present that he could not to with them that day awing tu indisposition. The speaker theo invited London and Birmingham expert opinion on the bells, and asked Mr. F. E. Dawe, of London, and Mr. A. Walker, the Depaty Ringing Master, of St. Martins Guild, to gay a few words. Mr. Dawe said he was delighted to listen to such a magniticent peal, and if consent were given he would be pleased to bring a hand of experts from London to show how they should be ruag.
Mr. Walker congratulated the Dean and Chapter upon possessing surh a noble peal, which he said wns worthy of the edifice, and offered a suggestion regarding the lourres to prevent the sound beating down. He alao incidentally remarked that they in Birmingham rather faneied themselwes as twelve-hell ringers, and if any invitations were going they would life the opportuuity. He would bring a band of ordinary ringers from Birmingham, who would do the bells justicc. They had rung a peal on the bells of Exetcr Cathedral, which wore the heaviest in the world.
The Chairman humorously remarked that he would see what could be done for both, and that they (the Worcester people) would then decide who were the real experts.
The routine husiness was afterwards proceeded with. The report and balance sheet were adopted.
$K r$. 'T'. J. Salter moved, and Mr'. W. Short seconded, that the association form a library for the circulation of ringing literature. and after some discugsion this was agreed to, Mr. C. W. Qopper, of Lye, heing nppointed librarian. It was hoped that mernbers would avail themselves of the epportunities of requiring knowledge.
A goodly number of new members were elected, and Worcester was again chosen for the anmual meeting, this seoming now to have: become an institutioth. The atrangements for the antual peal were left in the hands of the Ringing Master.
Mr. J. D. Johmson linving expressed a wish to retire, nominated Mr. R. G. Knowles to zheceod him as Ringing Master, and this was carried. Mr. H. C. Bird was added to the Central Committee, and all the other officors wert retelected. Tlis concluded the husiness. Service, which followed in the Cathedral with an address by Canon Blake, was well atfended, the collection being given to the fund for the augmenting and overhatiling of tle ring of six at St. John's, which will slertly be put in hand.
After being photograpledt, the assembly adjourved to the Caoperative Cafe for tea, well over 100 sitting down. With the condusion of this came the parting of the ways, some for home and others for more ringing, thus closing another suchessful sind enjoyable mexting

The work was executed by an old ringing compade, Mr. Chanjes Mee, of Sproughton, nud designed by Mr'. J. C. G. Faggar, also of Sprouglitor.
The Archdeacan said it gave him much plensure to unveil this mernorial to two ald members of St. Mary-le-Towor Society of Ringers. He referred to the fuct that Mr. James Motta was a valued member of the Guild, and commended his exmmple to the present members.
Afterwarda a good number sit down to tea at Lpons' Reslaurantw and ringity was indulged in at the various towers during the day.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL MEETING

 DIOCESAN TITLES DECISION AGAIN JEFERREDBy the customary routine the anmual mecting of the Midiand Counties Assaciation was held at Leicester, amd, despile the threat il a dul] and boisterous day, the weather was rot loo bad, and, as usual, a large number of ringing members and [riends from all parts of the association's activities were present from an eariy hour. Quite a umber of life member's from surrounding Guilds such as the Warwick, Feterborough, Lincolta, and North Notts Association, were welcomed.
'The bells of 5t. Margaret"s (12), the Catherlval (10), St. Fohn-therDivine (10), Sl. Saviou's (8), Belgrave (8), and All Sainta' (5) werc available throushout the day, except for short intervala for weddings, which oven 'All Fools' Day' could noil deter! Good use was made of the opportunities provided, althoagh, as is so often usual, the rimging was not of a high standard. Nevertheless, it was Thoroughly enjoyed by all.
The commitites met at $3.15 \mathrm{p}, \mathrm{m} .$, and carried out rather a heavy programme of routine and ather business, making various recommendations for the general raceting which followed tea. Among the latter was the proposal to grant 22 2s to the fund now being negotiated by certain Corporation and other high olthials of Derby to present Mr. R. B. Chambers, B.A., J.J., ihe highly-esteemed president of the association, with an oil paintimg of bimself. Tins painting is by Mu. E. Townsend, and is now on wiew at the Derly Art Gallery

Despite the announcement made by the geveral lon. secrefary regarding the sending of names of intention to be present at tea, some 30 or more failed to do this. Fortunatoly, however, the local committee ware able to cope with thesc, and sulusequently 140 sat down to a splendid repast.

The general meeting immediately followed lea, and in the absence of Mr. R. B. Chambers (president) the vice-president, Mr. Joseph Grifin, took the chair. He was supported by the hon. treasurer (Mr. Walter Wallace), the hon, secretary (Mr. Ernest Morris), and the Rews. H. Hursb and F. W. Prath, of St. Margarel's, Req. H. V. Williams, of St, Jolon's, and Rev. R. S. Wilkinson, of Rolford.
The Hon. Secretary firs: explained that for some time past the healuh of their wortliy president had been very critical, and the ratuse of much fuxiety, but despite that he had, in conjonction with Mrs. Chambers, sent lis regards and hest wishes to all members, and hoper all would have an enjoyable day and succossful meeting. 31 . W. Willson proposed that a letter of sympathy be sent io Mc. Cliambers, expressing from ali present good wishes for a speedy re-Inrn to health. T'lis was seconded by Mr. Clarles Draper and ctarried unanjmously.

The election of ten ringing and one life nember was duly ratilies. The report and balance sheet for 1928 were also received and passed on the proposition of Mr. W. I. White, geconded by Mr. C. Draper.

A NEW DIETRICT IN THE PEAK.

The recommendations of the committee for the next three quarbryy menting wete cluly conlitmed, viz., June, Bakewell; Septemher; Litwerworth; January, 1930, Bolsover.
The proposal to form a new branch of the w.C.A. in the Peak District of Derbyshire having been fully discussed at the last meeting, was-after the explanation given as to its territory and work hỵ the proposed new local secretary, Mr. J. E. Lewis Corkey, churchwarden of Doremuly, authorised, and its formation will take place as previously arranged.
"The Chairman acquainted the members of the nommittee"s disliberalians aud recommendations as to the payment of delegates' fees and expenses to the Central Conneil, the honorariuma to the general and lacal hon. secretaries, sfeeplekeepers, efe., which wore aty pasbed.
A discussion on tho Gentral Cauncil's agenda (motion 7 ) was dehated at length, and nfter Learing the views of Mr. W. Willan the drlegates were instructed to support same.
The officers of the association were re-elected *en bloc ${ }^{3}$ for 1929. Thr Chaiman announced that the tegtimonial find to Mr. Wm. Willson would dotinitely be elosed on April 301 h , nud il is hoped flam all towers and individuals will note this, and send on to the hon. treasurer accordingly.
The question of the alteration-or addition to-the litle of the association to include 'for the Dibceses of Derby, Leicester', Lichfirld and Sourthwoll' cauged quite a diversion, and a lengthy disenssion ensued in which Messus. H. W. Needlum, J. Harris, W. T. White, J. Swinfield, Rev. R. Wilkinson and 'A flat ' took part.
II was thought that the association's tervitory in the Lichifeld Diocese was so small, comprising, as it dif, Burtow-on-Trent and district, that the association could not riehily add that diocese without the Bislop's sanction. Burton, to which the essociation had in the pas been greatly indebted, not only as a peal-ringing entice, lut from the worthy tnen who upheln the associntion's well-being, unturally did not wish to be omitted. Therefore, as in other parts uf ihe M.C.A. activities, where they Sind other socictics and Guildis long much good work, the question was, ought the association to make it appear to be overlapping or ancroaching on these nlifer societies" territery?
As at last yoar's moeling, so diverse were the opinions expressed, i was ultimately proposed and caprien, that the nottel be daferrent.

This concluded the busitess, and My. W. Wallace proposed hearty rote of thanks to the various clergy for the use of bells, and especially for their presence at the meeting:-Both the Rey. H. Hurst, of St. Margarel's, and Rev. F. V. Williams, of St. Jolin's, replied most appropriataly, willa witty remarks and a "story " eacla, -The Rev. Wilkinson proposeri a learty vote of thanks to the chairman, Mr. Joseph Grifin, for presiding in so efticient in way, especially during the debate on the association's title, remarkiug lue would have made a good parliamentarian. Mr. Griffin suitably replied, and, in passing, remstred ous the fach that he was one of the very few original members left, he haviug hat the pleasuro of condinetmes No. 2 of the association's performances, viz. 5,040 Double Norwids Major on July 20th, 1882, at St. Paul's, 14urton-an-Trunt

After furlher ringiug on the vacious church bells, many of those participating assembled at the Victoria Hotel, where an impromptat concelt was provided. A very happy evening was spent, and those contributing to the programmo included Mr. Percy Harrison and family, with tunes on baudbells, also other tutues ly Messrs. H. J. Poole, E. Morris, C. H. Webb and P. Harrison. The new acquisibion from the "police,' a devotee to the art of ringing, Sergt. ## AN EXAMPLE TO ARCHDEACONS.

It would be well, in the interests of the Church as well as of the art of ringing, if there were more Archdeacons like the Ven. Ronald Irwin, the Archdeacon of Dorking. He has under his supervision approximately half the churches in the Diocese of Guildford and he told the members of the Diocesan Guild on Saturday that whenever he visits a church with a tower and bells he makes a practice of inquiring into their condition, and, what is more, he insists upon going up into the tower and seeing things for himself. He has not yet been a year in office, but already he has ordered certain restorations to be carried out in two towers. This is in striking contrast to the indifference usually displayed by Archdeacons in matters appertaining to the belfry. Unfortunately, their interest, as a rule, stops short of the tower, and it is not' surprising to learn from Archdeacon Irwin that, when he inquires about the bells, authorities sometimes look a little surprised. Many of the bells throughout the country that are now in a neglected condition would be quickly put into better order if the Archdeacons were thorough in carrying out their visitations. They are entrasted with the duty of inspecting the churches, but few of them trouble to make an ascent of the tower, even if they give so muth as a thought to the bells. If associations coukd get the ear of their Archdeacons in this matter much necessary work might be done. It is good to find at least one Archdeacon who needs no prompting in this matter.

It is strange, however, to find a parish anxious and ready to restore their bells and, with the money for the purpose already in the bank, having to hold their hand because of the obstruction of a Diocesan Advisory Conimittee. The little Bedfordshire parish of Tilsworth wants its bells rehung in a new iron frame; it has subscribed all the necessary funds; but because the Advisory Committee want a wood frame instalied instead of a metal one the scheme has been held up for nearly two years. That is one of the drawbacks of Advisory Committees who have no member among them with any teclnical knowledge of bells and bell hanging. Even the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings, the most conservative of all bodies where restorations are concerned, has come to the conclusion that a metal frame has advantages. Assuming other things to be equal, the only claim which oak has to preference is that it does not need painting, but, apart from taking up more room, there is great difficulty in obtaining really seasoned timber, and the frame is liable to shrink and warp, or be (Continued on page 242.)

attacked by insects. A metal frame, on the other hand, is not affected by the humidity of the atmosphere, it gives the rigidity required to ensure easy going bells and consequent protection to the fabric, and it is not, of course, liable to be attacked by insects. While it reguires painting at intervals to prevent corrosion, it has this great advantage that, when properly constructed and kept in proper condition, shock to the tower from the swinging of the bells does not arise. These are matters upon which the experts of the Ringing Exercise and the representatives of the S.P.A.B. are agreed. They are, however, probably unknown to the Advisory Committee which is dealing with the Tilsworth application, and that is another argument for the inclusion of a person with knowledge of bells and bell hanging on these authorities, or at any rate for securing the appointment of a 'Consultant,' such as is suggested in the motion which will come before the next meeting of the Central Council.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

CHE FIRSI YEAR'S WORK

The firg annmal general meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Guildford on Baturday, and was attended by about 120 menhers, many of whom participated in tho ringing during the afternoon, it the Cathedral and S. Nicolas Churches. The Guild serviec took place in the Cathedral, where a full choir led the singing. Canoa J. O. Kirwats (the Provost) officiated, and the lesson was Jead by the Rev. G. H. B. Coleridge (Vicar of Leatherhead), who gave the address.
Speakiug from the text, 'One star differeth from another star in glory" (1 Cor. xy. 41), the proacher reminded his hearerg that no Gwo things in nature were exactly alike. God never made iwo men thike; cach soul was mado to falfil somo particular part in the great harmony of the Universe, and to falfil the glory of God. So it was widh the various parts of the work for the Lronour and glory of God and lis Chareh. The Church had discovered that among bellringers a great work was being done for God. It might be that it was only on comparatively recent years that the Church had recognised the work of the bellringers, but that was, be thought, very largely bedituso the bellringers fid not themselves previously recognise that they were doing a piece of work for God-they had looked upon merely as a habby, a ciaft, an arb. But, tharrk God, during the pret lialf-century ringerg hud inerensingly recognised that they had a ercat part in the work of the Church, and without that part there would be something missing, Riglitly, therefore, they hat clatmed to bo looked upon as real, active fellow-workers for God. Such a thing as a diocesan servico for bellringers would have been an unimagimable thing fifty or sixty years ago. Continuing, the preacher said that belidingers in one sense stood for the great advertising ageney of tho Ghurch; they stoed in the light of propagandists. Where there were bells, no one noed be jagorant of the fact that itere was a church, and that there werc church services. The bells called men and women to do their duty to their God, which stood over and above their duty to their neighbour, and they enlerci into every phase of human life. Bellringers were, happily, coming into theit own, from the part they played in the hermony, which came brough the diversity, of the work which was being done for the glory of God Ter was served in Holy Trinily Hall, at which Mr. Walter Harrison, chairman of the committec, presided. He was supported by the Provost, the Rev. G. F. B. Coleridge, Sir Arthur Martindale, Major f. H. B. Heasa (Mastor), Admiral T. P. Wialker, D.S.O. (hou. tronsurer), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary), and Mr. C. A Rurdock (hon. auditor), while, later, the Archdeacon of Dorking (Canon $R$. Irwin) joined the pasty. Among those also present were Rev. Sir Jolin Hersehel (Wost Clandon), Rev. O. F. T. Willia (Dork ing), Mr. C. H. Kippin (bon. secretary, Surrey Association), Mr. J. Parkor (Edmonton), W. Charman (Warnham), Miss H. F. Mills (Briston), Miss Melville (Reigate), nad members from Aldershot Hagshat, Banstcad, Chiddingfolki, Cobham, Cranleigh, Dorking, Epsom, Frrulam, Godalming, Guildford (CaEhedral and S. Nicolas') Haslemere, Leuharlend, Oatlands Park, Ohtershaw, Seale, Shere Thames Ditton, Walton, West Clandon, Woking, Worplesdon, etc. frise Chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Provost for the nervice, to the Rev. G. H. B. Coleridge for his address, and to the ('athedral organist (Mr. Sowrorbutts).
In their first report the committee referred to the successful inatuguration of the Guild and the launching of the four districts. In ach district the Guidd was fortunate in obtaining enthusiastic off eners. The committee acknowledged with sincere thanks the serviees which thege gentlemen had rendered. The programme frawn up provited for six meetings in each district during the zear, and these metings were duly held, with, in almost every case, conspicuous success. In a few instances the attendance was not th to expecta tion, but when the numbers present were comparatively few, indi viduals were able to evjoy greater practice, so that cyen these meet ings had their compensations, sud certainly could not be written down as failures. The combined practices have met with warying response. It the Leathorhead Districl, where 33 wore held during the yoar, the scheme which lias theen carried out had had excellent resulis. Fare the object was definitely to assist the local band at tho tower where the practice sas held, nad some splendid spade work bad heen done. In the Guildford District the practice had been poontily, those held on Saturdlugg having been more suecessful than thosa in the mid-weak. In this distriet was proposed in future to hoid the meetings on the practice night of the tower visited. !he Glerlsey and Famhan Distriets there was a rather regretable lack of support for the combined practices, and it was hoped that the members would in futuro rally better to their officers and give ohelping linud, even if it bo at some little inconvenience.
During the year 22 peals were rung, and these included the Guild's first peals of Oxford Treble Bob Minor, Bob Minor and Surprise Whor, Grandsite Tripies, Dondie Norwich Major, Boh Major, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob Major, Superlatife, Cambridge and Lanton Sirpriee Major, Grandsire Gaters, and Kent Treblo Bob Royal. Sevanty-six ringers took part in the poals. of these, ten rang their dirst peal, two their first peal with a bob bell, one hid first in the anethod with a bol bell, 15 thoir first in the method, 10 their first pcal of Minor, five their first of Major, five their first on tell bella and four their first of Royal. The conductors were Messrs. A. Harman, 8; J. S. Goldsmith, 3 ; W. T. Beeson, 2; A. H. Winch, 2; F. R Tullett, H. Langdon, W. J. Robinson, Frank Bennett, C. H. Kippen R. Hasted and Fred Bennett, 1 each.

MEMBERSHIP AND FINANCE.

The membership of the Guild at the close of the year was 595 made up as follows: Life hon. members 19 , hous, members 38 , life ringing members 4, annual ringing members 393 , compounding memberg 111. Financially, the Guild might congratulate itself on the first year's working, for after paying the initial expenses, which were rather considerable, there remaned a balance in hand of ego 1s. 2d. on the general fund, while the balances in the four districts agguegate fil Ds. 10d. While the Guild could look back with eatisfaction on the first year of its existence, there was still a consider able amount of work to be done. Apart from the fact tuat some few towers still remained outside the Guild, many of those which were affliated were still below full strength in their bands. The first work of the Guild ought to be to help those companies to raise their numbers, so that the bolls might be fully manned for the Sunday service ringing. This could only bo done by the co-operation of aill the elergy and ringers in the parishes concorned, not less than the officers and members of the Guild. There wns still room for a grenter measure of support by the members generally of those whp were entrusted with carrying on the work of the Guild and who were doing their best to maintain its activities, create interest, and extend the art of clange ringing. In the past year the Guild had done well; the future depended not alone on the officers but upon the members as a whole, and the committee hoped that the coming year would see the meetings, and combined practices supported by still larger numbers.
The statement of accounts presented by the hon. treasurer showed receipts amounting to $£ 7117 \mathrm{~s}$. 4d., including 9915 s . from 39 towers which paid the affiliation fees, $£ 24$ 3s. from life members, 8718 . 6d from unattached and compounding members, 221 15s. 9d, the quota from the districts, and $f 85 s$. 1d. from other sources. The expenditure, which totalled 551 16s. 2d., included $£ 17$ 11s. 11d. incurred in connection with the preliminary organisation of the Guild. The balance at the close of the year on the general fund was thus £20 19. 2d.
The report and statement of accounts were adoplod.
The Hon. Secretary proposed the election of Mr. Waltor Harrison as the first vice-president of the Guild, and in doing so referred to the interest which Mr. Harrison took in the old Winchester Guild and the active and valued assistance he gave in the promotion of the new Guild, and since that time in carrying oll tis work. - Admira T. P. Walker seconded the motion, which was unamimously carried amid applause, and the the chairman adkowledged the compliment paid to him.
The retiring officers had been nominated by several towers, and as no other names had been received, the following were declared re-elected: Master, Major J. H. B. Hesse; hon. treasurer, Admira T. P. Walker; hon. secretary, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith; hon. auditor, Mr C. N. Burdock Canon Kirwan was elected a life member, Mr. James Parker a compounding member, and Mr. G. Penrce (Godalming) a ringing member.

Mr. B. H. Chark, hon. secretary of the Farnham District, pregented to the Guild a landsomely bound peal book, sufficient to record 500 peals, and he was cordially thanked for his kinduess, on the motion of the clinimman.
Various alterations to the rules were considered, and on the recommendation of the Executive Committea it was resolved that in future the nomination of general officers stould be made at the annual district meetings, and of the district officers at the district meetine immediately prior to the amual distriot meeting. It was also decided that alI elections, if necessary, should be by ballot.
It was also decided that in future members attending iz meating of the Executive Committeo shoukd be entitled to receive their travelling expenses, and that power be given to the Executive Com mittee to make grants, if applied for, to towers which are en deavouring to add new bells to the existing ring, or are carrying at extensive repairg, any such grant not to exceed $£ 3$.
It was resolved to print a report for circulation mang the resicat members
A discussion took place on the venue of the summer festival, which it was suggested should be held in conjunction with the jubileee festival of the Winchegter and Portsmauth Diocesan Guild at Petersfield and Haslemere. Several speakers expressed the vieny tha Haslemere should not be included on account of the distance which the two places are apart, and Mr. Hazalden regretted the fact that the jrbilec festival was bot to he held at Basingstoke, where the old Winchester Guild was founded.
The Master, hon. treasurer and hon. secretary were appointed as sub-committee to act with the sub-committee of the Wiuckester and Portgmouth Guild in making arrangements for tho festival.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Guildford, the date to be settled by the committee.
The meetiug then discussed the various motions on the agenda of the Central Council, and requested its representatives to vote for the principle contained in the proposal that the Council slould not recogrise as a peai of Minor or Doubles any composition in which the bells do oot strike in 720 or 120 different orders respectively before beginning the next 720 or 120.
The meeting was opposed to asking hon．nuembers of the Council to pay an afiliation fee of 5 s．each per annum，but agrced to the proposal that in future associations should pay a fee of 5s．per representative per annum．
In tho other matters full discretion was loft to the representatives to vote as thay thought fil，after hearing the arguments．

It was left to the Erecutive Committee to decide what support should be gipee by the Guild to the Bristol United Guilds＇proposal to enlarge the＇Ringers＇Directory．＇
The members agreed to a proposal to hold a joint meeting with the Royal Cumberland Youths at 马psom at some date to be arwanged．

THE ARCHDEACON AND THE TOWERS．
The Chairman welcomed the Archdeacon of Dorking，who，in reply，said it was always a great pleasure to him to come among the ringers，and also to meet them at，the churches he visited． There wers some towers he knew of where the aumbers were de－ ficient，and he hoped that more ringers might be brought in．If he was allowed to apply for grathts for bell restoration it would not be long before they regeived applications，because there were two towers where he had already ordered repairs to be carried out and the bells to be carefully inspeeted．Ho hoped the work would be taken in hand before long．He would tell these two parighes whare there was a lot of money to back them up（laughter）， Wharever he carried out an inspection ho always asked，＂What about the tower ？＇That sometimes cased surprise，but he always said to the churchwardens，＇I am going up it．＇He had had some perilous ascents（laughter）．He had found some towers sadly neglected，and he intead to see that they were put in order（applause）．With regard to the majorily of towers，he must congratulate them upon the wonderful improvement made and the very great care taken of them（hear，hear）．If there were any towers where it was neces－ sary that improvements should be caricd out，he would be only too glad if the Master or the hon，secretary would bring them to his notice，and he would bring the matters to the notice of the churchwardeas at his visitations next month．The churchwardons were the people primarily responsible for seeing that the bells and towers were in order，and if le could help the Guild in that way he was at their disposal．Continuing，the Archdeacon said that al－ though his engagenents were very numerous he hoped it would always be possible for him to look in at the Guild＇s meetings，and if he knew the dates a good iime aliead be would endeavour to keep ther free，because it kopt him in touch with a body of meu whoso wort for the church he greatly admired．He was sometimes glad he did not live immediately next to a tower（laughter），but it was always nice to hear the bells soumding from a distance，and the work of the ringors was f very essentind bit of chureh work in the diocese． Long miglit they continue their good work．He hoped lue might always be in touch with the bellringers in his own archdeaconsy， and if at any time he could possibly attend their meetings he wonld be glad to do so．His desire was not to ha some high，bloated dig－ nidary，but to bo their servant and brother，and one who was only too anxious to help them in any way he possibly could（applause）．
Admiral Walker gave an invitation to the members to the open－ ing of the now treble bells at Woking on May 11 th，and Mr．J．S． Goldsaith informed the meeting that the Guild was losing the ser－ vices of Mr．P．G．Woodiss，hon．secretary of the Leatherhead Dis－ trict，who was leaving for the North of England．He．proposed that the thanks of the Guild be given to Mr．Woodiss for his services to the Guild．The Archdeacon of Dorkiug seconded the motion，which wis warmly accorded．
The business concluded with a voto of thanks to the secretary for his services and to the chairman for presiding．

A＇TIRED＇PEAL．

PROPOSED RESTORATION ON BELLS AT NORTON，STATES．
Owing to the vary bad going of the abovo bells，ringing is at present confined to touches of about 240 changes．An expert from Messrs．Taylor and Co．has now bean called in to examine the bells， and in bis report be stateg that the metal is sbsolutely tired，and that the bells are all out of tune with each other，and that tho bearings are worn．The matter has been brought before the Paro－ chial Cburch Courcil，owing to an S．O．S．thrown out by the lender of the ringers，Mr．J．E．Wheeldor，and it was unanimously decided to issue an appeal to the parish for funds to rectify matters．
The bells have been in the tower since 1826 ．They hava，there－ fore，done very good service，and it is sincerely hoped that the appeal will meet with a response which will warrant the church ofli－ cials giving the order for a clear cut．
To have all the six bells recast will require a sum of e3Ag，which is rether a big undertaking for a village in these days，but there is every confidence that the natives will rise to the occasion，assisied by outlying diatricts，to whom Norton bells always appeal，as the tower stands on a hill，and the bells are heard fram far and near．

In the manatime the ringers intend to＂carry on＂as well as pos－ sible with their backs to the wal！（figuratively speaking）．

The commemoration dinner to the past officers of the Yorkshire Association will tuke place at the King's Head Hotel, Sheffeld, on Saturciay, September 2lst, af $6 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.
Forty years ago next Monday Mr. W. T. Pates callez the famous 15,227 Grandsire Caters at Cheltenham, which at that time was the longest peal rung on ten bells. Most, if not all, of tire band have now gone from us, with the exception of the Cheltenham veteran. The peal was ruug on Easter Monday, 1889, and occupied 9 hrs. 43 mins.
By a coincidence it was on the same day of the month in 1922 that the existing ten-bell record-and, in fact, the record lengtly for any number of belis-was set up by the 21,363 Stedman Caters at Appleton.

St. George's Day is the 60th anniversary of a peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Epsom, Surrey, by four fathers and four sons. The last surviving member of that band-Mr. Thomas Miles-died only last June. - He was 80 years of age at his death.
One of the earliest, if not the first, "George" peals was rung on St. George's Day, 1857, at St. George's Church, Camberwell.

The ringer of the 2 ad in the peal at Croscombe, Somerset, on April Ist was Franklin D. Rickards, and Frank D. Richards, as published.

Ringers visiting Belfast on holiday or business will be made very welcome at any of the towers, if they will communicate with the hon. secretary, W. Pratt, Kinnegar, Folywood, Belfast.

Mr. Arthur W. Searle, a well-known Exeter ringer, and one of the represeatatives of Devon on the Central Council, has been appointef deputy editor of the "Devon and Exeter Daily Gazette.'

With the opening of the new peal of 12 bells at Walsall, there are now three peals of 12 in the Archdeaconry of Stafford. Walsall is in quite a good position for 12 -bell ringers, as West Bromwich is only five miles distant, Wolverhampton 6 $\frac{1}{2}$, and St. Marlin's, Birmingham, is $8 \frac{1}{2}$ miles.

A CARILLON FOR NEW ZEALAND.

On Wednesday of last week the Rt. Hon. L. S. Amery, M.P., Dominion Secretary, and the Rt. Hon. Sir James Parr, K.C.M.G.', High Commissioner for New Zealand, visited the Croydon Beli Foundry, where they inspected the first carillon for New Zaalaud. It consists of 49 bells, the smallest being 91b. and the largest 5 tons, the total weight of the bells being $31_{3}$ tons. The carillon is to be arected at Wellington, and is a memorial to the men and wamen of New Zealand who gave their lives in the Great War.
Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are also carrying out the recasting of the bells of Derry Cathedral, and on Friday, in the presence of the Dean and members of the Fonourable Irish Sowiety, the new wenor of 31 cwt. was cast. To the new ring of ten will be added three gemitone bells for tune playing, which will be hang dead.

THE CENTRAL COUNCLL.
TRAVELLENG FACLLITIES FOR TEE ANNUAL MEETING. To the Bditor.
Dear Sir, The railway companies, having reduced tha gaalifying number to 100 , have agreed to issue a tioket to Chelmsford at a fare and a half, nvailable between May 18th and 22 nd gest, provided that not less than 100 adults use the tickets.

As the usual attendance at provincial meetings (including visitors) is generally about 100, if all those desirous of attending from near and far will avail themselves of the said tickets, it will be to the genoral advantage.
I shali be glad, therefore, if the hon. secretaries of the various Guilds and associations will lef me know, at once, tho number of tickets they wild require, for themselves and their friends, as unless somewhere near the required namber is guaranteed it will be useless for me to proceed with the printing of the necessary vouchers.-Yours faithfully,

However, as hon. secretary of an association with 1,000 members, the fear is not how to slop members buying publications, but how to get them to do so? The librarian, Rev. Q. W. O. Jenkyn, will boar me out in this.-Yours faithfully,

ADVISORY COMMIT'TEE'S 'OBSTRUCTION

CRITICISMS AT BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION MEETING.

'lhe action of the Diocesan Advisory Committeo in holding up the restoration of the bells at Tilsworth, Beds, was the aubject of some outspoken criticism at the donual meeting of the Bedfordshire Association at Leighton Buzzard on Easter Monday. The meeting followed lunch at the Plume of Feathers Hotel, when Canon W. W. C. Baker, president, oceupied the chair. Explaining why Leighton had been chosen for the meeting, he said they had wet at Bedford for the last 48 years, but a month ago it was reported to the committee that the bells of St. Paul's, Bedford, were not ringable, and they selected Leighton because the conditions for ringing appertained to those they were accustomed to at Bedford.
Mr. G. F. Greea, who supported Canon Baker, proposed the latter's e-election as president, and said he had thought they were honouring Leightan by their visit, but, from Canon Baker's remarks, they were there simply because they could not go anywhere else, a fact which had minimised the pleasure he had previously felt at having them there (laughter). Mr. J. Nieholls seconded the re-clection of Canon Baker, who, in reply, said he did not do muel ringing ouw, buf his interest in the assaciation was just as keen as cver it was. Fice-presidents re-elected were Miss E. Steel Bedford, Mr. A. A. King, Laton, My. Cyril Herbert, Woburn, and the Rev. A. Rust, Hushorne Crawley.
lu regard to the appoimtment of an auditor, Canon Baker said his brother-in-law, Mr. F. Tanqueray, who conducted the first 720 ever lung by the association, and showed his interest by being auditor, was very dangerously ill. Mr. Green suggested that they should reappoint Mr. Tanqueray and send him a letter of sympathy in his iilness. This was agreed to.

Mr. A. E. Sharman, Dunstable, was re-elected hon. secretary and treasurer, and Canon Baker and he were re-appointed representatives on the Central Council.

When the venue of the next annual meeting was under discussion, a guestion arose as to when the bells at Bedford would be ready; Hifss Steel said they had only about $£ 70$ towards the cost, and wanted about $£ 290$. They ought to be able to raise this sum, but there should be alternative places in case the balls were not ready.
Mr. Green suggested that as Leighton had ten bells and Linsdale eight, Leigliton be the alternative place to wisit, but added that it wouk be a disgrace to Bedford if the bells were not ready.
Miss Steel seconded, but Mr. Cyril Herbert suggested goma other centre more accessible to ringers from the othor side of the county. Luton and Biggleswade were other centres.
Mr. C. W. Clarke, Bedford, suggested Woburn, where they were sure of a good ring: They were bad bells at Luton.

A vote resulted: Leighton 10, Biggleswade 6, Woburn 5.

TILSWORTH BELLS.

Mr. F. Vickers, Linslade, thought that if the churchpeople of Bechfordsisire conld get Ganon Baker and Mr. Green on the Advisory Committee they would get the Bedford bells done this year. It mppeared that the present Advisory Committee, instead of helping the cause of bellrimging, were doing it a lot of harm.
Canon Baker said they could nat interfere in the matter of the Advisory Committee, because this was appointed by the Diocesan Canference. The committee was quite ready to listen to the representations of Mr. Rust.

Mr. Shaman: Do they take any notice of him? He went and reported on the bells at Tileworth, but they did not take any notice. To my idea they are an absolute waslout. The people of Tilswortli had been messed about for two years, because they had had the money in the hank all that time to carry out the work. It was disheartiening to the people who had raised the money.
The Rev. A. Rust snid be was asked to look at the Tilsworth bells, ank sent in his report. He said that tho bells werc in a deplorable condition, and that a clear sweop should be made, but he was just thanked for his letter and beard nothing more about it. Had he been asked his opinion he would have suggested an iron frame, but itse Advisocy Committee was keen on having wood frames. Architects, for some reason, always thought they should have wood frames. Ho bad the same trouble at Husborne Crawley, and insisted an an iron frame. He was afraid they were going to have a battle over wood or iron frames.

Mr. Siarmata: Yet the bell founders say they cannot guarantce a wood frame.

Mr. J. Nicholls: They cannot get seasoned oak nowadays.

Mr. Fickers said the advised the people of Thlsworth to get a new treble bell and make a peal of six. They raised 4400 , and the late Vicar, Mr. Green, gave them f50 for the new bell. This £450 had been lying in the bank since 12 months lase June. They could not get on with the job because the Advisory Committee would not budge. The Church Council baid thoy would have the job done as they wanted, or not spend the money.
Mr. Sharman gnid that at Totternioe a hand of young ringevs raised money outside the parisk for a new treble bell, but the davisory Committee had tried to put obstacles in their way Canon Baker replied that nothing could be done without a faculty, and the Chancellor of the diocese would not issue one except on the advice of the Advisory Committee. He did not know whist they could do except protest.
Mr. Sharman said if there was an organ with two or three bad pipes, it was replaced by a new one, but they must not change a bel! which was out of tune. What could they do if the bells were recest without applying for a faculty?
The Rev. A. Rust replied that ihey could be made fo take them down again.
Mr. Green could not understand the Advisory Committes having the least objection to bells being rehung. Whether it was a wood or iron frame should rest with the bell hanger. If he said it was much wiser to have steel they slould hava it. He could not understand Tilsworth having 8450 wis hand and the bells not heing rung- He would lave thought that the villagers would have been up in arms ('They are'). For the Advisory Committee to keep people waiting like thatewas absurd.
Mr. C. Herbert said the reason given for not favouring bells in motal fremes was that they spoiled the tone of the bells.

Canon Baker said he would zaise the question at the next dioceasa conference, and tell them of the indignation that had been expressed.

THE SLX-BELL PEAL CONTROVERSY.

Cansu Baker asked for some expression of opinion on what he described as the very vexed question of fivo and six bell peals. He had been ringing for 50 yeara, and did not think they could do better than stick to the old way of having seven seven-twenties, which were complete in themselves.

After discussion, Canon Baker said hefelt that the association dixl not wish for an alteration in the rules that would silow bits of seven-twentiea being rung and pieced logether to be called a peal.
A welcome to the members, on behalf of the Vicar and churchwardens, was given by one of the Leighton churchwardens, Mr. W. Gill, who said it was aice to have a predominant vote in favour of Leighton Buzzard for the next meeting. Referring to the excellent way in which the art of bellringing was carried out, he said ringers had verp littlo idea what it would mean to outsiders if they lost thair beils. He did not know of another theme more appealing than bellringing, and could not imagine what a town or village would be ke without it Canon Baker, in reply, expreseed thanks to the Vicars of Leighton and Linslade for the use of the belfries.
Now members elected were Mr. F. Bennett and Miss Sear, Totternhoe.

It was decided to hold the summer festival at Barton
The ringing at AlE Snints' Church included touches of Stedman Triples, Grandsire Gaters, Little Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Stedman Caters, Plain Bob Major, Bob Royal, Cambridge Surprise Major, and Little Bob Royal. Touches in various methods were also rung at Linsiade.

IRISH ASSOCIATION

NORTHERN BRANCH MEET AT ARMAGH.

The second annwal general meeting of the Northern Branch of the Irish Association was held at the Cathedral, Armagh, on Easter Monday, when about 70 memhers and friends fravelled from Belfast. A short service in the Cathedral was conducted by the Dean (Very Rev. Forde Tichbarne, MA.), assisted by the Very Rev. W. Dowse, M.A., Deau of Commor, and the lRev. Canon C. C. Manniug M.C., M.A., Vicar of Holywood. The Rev. W. J. Parr, of Carrickfergus, presided at the organ.
The Dean of Armagh gave a most interesting review of the history of the city and the Cathedinal.
The mecting was held in the Music Room of the Gathedral, where over forty mombers from Belfast, Carrickfergus, Holywood and Buagor attended.
The following officers were re-elected: President, Mr. W. Young, Carrickfergus; hon. treasurer, Mr. R. Adamson, Belfast; hon. secretary, Mr. W. Pratt, Holywood. New officers elected were Rev. Canon Mavning as chaplain, and the Rev. W.J. Pass as organist.
The secretary's report slowed that the assaciation was in a very healthy condition, and that an interest was being taken in change ringing by other towers in the North. The four quarterly meetings during the past year had been wall attended, and formed the basis for introducing the art to the ringers of the towers visited. The membership is at present 46, but it is hoped that by next year this will be very much increased. The members cannot yet clain a peal, but the Folywood band obtained their first extent of Doubles last August and 780 of Plain Bob on March $8 t h$ of this year, during a visit of Mr. Marris J. Morris, and since then several short touches of Triples.
The Dean was the guest at luncheon, and afterwards condueted the party over the Cathedral and library of Armagh. The observatory was also visited.
A demonstration of carillon ringing was given at the Roman Catholic Cathedral in the city by the Cathedral orgarist, Mr. TT. W. Folden.

A most successful meeting was held, and the thanks of the members are due to the Dean, who made the splendid arrangements.

PEALS ON FIVE AND SIX BELLS.

To the Editor
Dear Sir, Tri cach of your last three issues the Exercise has been urged not to be in too much of a hiturry to come to any decision about this vexed question of peals on five and six bells. I quite agree with tho wiadom of giving time and common sense of the Fxerase overy opportunity to play theiv part, but we anust not let this wibdom bliad us to the ather side of the question. We must moli 'drift.' Neither must we forget that the Central Council meetiaf is an annual affair, and that what it does not decide on ane Whit Tuesday it does not get another chance to discuss till twelve morthe later.
I want now to discuss certain points with an eye on the present and future, i.e., not taking into consideration whether they satisfy tho ambigutous rules of the past or not. And in so doing, may I express the hope that others of your readers will eriticise my yiews inn put forward their own, because I believe that this is a way in which we of the rank and file of the Exercise can be of wery real service to those whom we elect to be mervhers of the Central Council, and whom, after all, whelicr as delegates or representatives, wo more or less expech lo reproduce between them the geleral feeling of the Exercise.

Let us take first the real cause and crux of the whole argumentMr. 5nakes James' peal of Cambridge Minor. Now I am quite sure, both from my own expericnce and from perusing the many letters on the subject in this paper, that the majority of the Exercise would bo sorry to see this ingenious composition banned; I am equally cerluin that, according to the interpretation of the present rulc which is lield by the majority of the Exercise, it does not satisfy the conditions for a true peal. It is alis unsatisfactory state of aftairg which must at all costs be put right at the earliest opportunity. How is this to be done? Well, it is not at all an easy problem, but do not let us shirk it on that account.

I assume it agrecd (for the purpose of this argument) that we want to keep the liankes Jameg' peal, and therefore we must frame our conditions so that without any hint of ambiguity or being let in by the side-door it satisfies them.
Supposing first that the Council decides at Whitsun that it is premature to come to a complete decision on the zatter of peals on live and six bolls, and therefore leavos it over for another year for further investigation and discussion, may I urge that in this case they will put matiers on a move satisfactory footing by passing a resolution worded somehow like this: 'That pending a decision as to what shall constitute a peal on five and six bells this Couveil will in the meantime accept the performance of Mr. Bankes James arrangement of Cambridge Minor as a peal.' This would at least put things an a consistent basis until the whole matter is cleared up.
And now let us tackle the bigger problem. If we want to frame rules which admit the Bankes James' arrangement, there are three possibilities:-
(i.) A rule which admits not only this but certain other arrangements which lave not yet proved their value by the "acia test of cxperience,' and which $\mathbf{I}$, persoually, do not advocate letting in (at Jeast, at presont).
(ii.) A rule which lets the arrangement of Gambuidge Minor in but keeps others out. This is well righ impossible, and would cerlainly have to be done by back-door tactics, and must therefore be riscarded.
(iii) Lefting it in boldly as an exception. This is rather dratic, but it seems the only consistent and logical way out of the diffieulty, Ta make it quite clear, my policy is to accept the Bankes James' mrangement of Cambridge Minor, and to refuse the othere, which nuclude Mr. Law Jimes ${ }^{2}$ London Minor and Mr. Morris' Grandsire Doutiles. I am quite prepared to argue my full reasons for this with any of your readers but $I$ mast not trespass on your space to do it here. Suffle it to say that the ohief argument is that the Cnmbridge Minor fullils a need which the athere do not, and that it bas proved its worth by the 'acid test of experience,' which the others have not.

I will now proceed to set down as brielly as possible a series of suggested rules and couditions which I put forward as a possible way out of the difficully:
(i.) Add words to the present condition: "On all numbers of bells a true poal shall in alt cases start from and end with rounds," to make it quite dear that the word 'peal' includes 'extents' on six nud live bells.
(ii.) Pres resolution 'that peple of Minor shall consist of at least seven true and complete 720 's, each one satisfying the conditions for "extents " given above in (i.), i.e., cach startiag from and ending with rounds.
(iii) Splicing ta be encouraged, but to be kept within the bounds of ench 720 , i.e, splice as many methods ns you like inta any 720 , lut keep the seven " 20 's themselves separate.
(iv.) Pass resohtion 'That in view of the excentional eircumstances of Cnmbridge Minor, of which there is only one 720 with $5-6$ the right way, the Central Council will accept as a peal neven or more 720 's of this metbod, provided only that each contains no repetitions (the 720 's may be divided at handstroke for this purpose), that they are joined by ordinary plain or bobbed changes, and that the peal comes round at the end.
(N.B.-The actual wording of this would require some thought, but I hope that I have made its aim and object plain enough.)

This rough outline lays no claim to perfection, but I think that it is a reasonable and practicable way out of the difficulty, and that $t$ is consistent and satisfies the views of the majority of the Exercise. I have not mentioned Doubles, but my iatention would be to keep them in line with Minor, i.e., at least 42 separate 120 's, each stariting from and ending with rounds. I do not consider that as yef any exceptions to this are necersary.
I have stated my policy baldy, if briefly- I will refrain from expanding and explaining it in further detail until I see what criticisms are levelled at it.- Yaurs faithfully,

STEPHEN H. WOOD. Glasgow

METHOD SPLICING  \section*{To the Eatito}

Dear Sir,-I read in "The Ringing World" that at the annual meeting of the Suffolk Guild the following resolution was passed The splining of methoas is theoretically uasound. But if this departure from strict regularity is allowed, the splicing of extents in five or six-boll ringing should be allowed also." tit would be interestto know the reason why method splicing is unsouitd in theory, but none is given in your report of the meeting.
Will the hon. secretary of the Suffolk Guild please say if any reasons were advanced? Method splicing is being very widely practised on all mumbers of bells, but it is apparcnt from the correspondence lately published in your paper that many ringers are against any form of change, or any widening of the scope of ringing. The resolution in question is but another instance of this, and surely the large number of ringers who practice method splicing are entitled to know any reasous against their doing so. For if spliced experts are ruled out at the next Central Council meeting, wo way expect an attempt to get spliced methods wuled out also. Yours faithfully

PRESENTATI N TO MR W JUDGE.

APPRECIATION OF SERVICES AT TAOKLEY TOWER.

On Sunday evening, April 7th, an interesting function took place in the belfry of the Parish Church of Tackley, Oxon, when a presentation of a silver inkstand, in the shape of a bell, was made to Mr. William Judge, on his leaving the willage for Kirllington.
Mr. Judge lad been in Tackley for seven and a half yoars as vil lage blackamith, and during that period he had given to the struggling ringels all the holp he could. He came just at the time when the movement was on foot for augmenting the ring of five bells to six.
The ringers wish to tender Mr. Judge their most sincere thanks for all he has done, and they hope he will wisit them during the fine weather as often as convenient.
Mr. E. F. Honour, deputy foreman, made the presentation on be balf of the ringers, and in a few words he expressed the feelings of those whom he had helped so unstintingly and brought to such a degree of gutecess in the art of ringing, to that none can laye any fear in toking a bell in a six-bell tower
The present was supplied by Mr. I. E. Russell, of Woking, and was much admired by many.

YORKSHTRE ASSOCTATION

In cold, but pleassnt weather, a general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Whitby on Eisster Monday. By the courtesy of the Rector and churchwardens, the ring of ten at the Parisil Church of St. Mary were available throughout the day, and some sixty members made good and continnous use of then in a variety of methorls.
A meeting of the general committee was hefd in the Chureh Vestry in the afternoon, following which tea was served at Hood's Gafe on the Marine Parade, and the business meeting was held. To the great regret of the meeting, the president (Rey. C. C. Marshall) was un able to be present, owing to clerical duties demanding his presence at Leeds. Mr. J. Cotterell was voted to the chair, and letters of apology for non-attendance were announced from Messrs. A. Walker G. Halksworth, G. Lewis, J. Broadley, F. Clark, and J. Lawson.

An invitation having been received from Huntington, near Fork, it was agreed to hold the Scptember meeting there.
At this juncture, the Rector of Whitby, Rev. Ganon C. A. Hone, extended a hearty welcome to the association, and gave a most interesting description of the architecture of the Parish Church, whict combines beatty with quaintness in its varied style.
The very kind and hearty chat was greatly appreciated, and a votc of thanks to the Rector and wardens, and the local company of Whitby for their kind arrangements, on heing moved and seconded by Messrs. A. C. Fearnley and J. W. Addison arespectively, was car rien with acclamation.

Mr. G. F. Alexander briefly responded.

In announcing the date of the Snowdon Dinner, to be heid at Shefield on September 2lst, the General Secretary urged members to do all in their power to make that gathering a success.

Further ringing brouglt to a close a most pleasant and successiul meeting.

BARNSLEY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION FELKTRK'S FINE OLD CHURCH

A meeting was held at Felkirk on Satarday, April 13tit, wher members attonded from Sandal, Royston, Wath, Hoylandswaine, Shelley, and the local company. The bells commenced ringing early in the afternoon, and members arriring lato had the bencit of hearing the bells at their best. The tower, standing in open country, lends itself to sound and perspective. This Felkirk Church, which sounds zather. Scotlish, but is not, is ancient and honoured in its varied styles of avehitecture. On entering the church ode is struck by the sight of bases, clustered circular columns, and capitals of a Norman archway in the west end of the nave, in a desigu so pure, relimed and chaste that it is doubtful if even the Nomman work in Norwich or Durham Cathedrals can surpass it. Around and on this work has been built the present Gothic stucture in Early and Late styles. It consists of nave, north and south aisles, with clerestory, porch and noble tower. In the churchyard stands an old school built in the scholastic Tudor style, quiet and unpretentious, yet from its only door have passed hoys and men who liave lived to uphold the good name of Felkirk. To-day it is used for meetings and other gatherings, and as a room for clorgy and cloor, from which they walk in solemn procession across the churchyard.
Tho Vicar, Rev. H. R. H. Coney, M.A., was probably the most interested person at Saturday's meating. His eagerness to serve and care for the members was kindness itself. Service, whoh consisted of special and appropriate prayers and two hymus, was conducted by the Vicar, who also gave an address on the infuence of bells and their great power for good.
Tea was enjoycd in the school, the Vicar presiding at the meal and at the subseguent business meeting.
The next meeting is to be held at Shelley. A vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens, the ladies and the local company for all arrangements so well made, was proposed by Mr. W. Reyner, who rejoiced in the all-round acknowledgwent which the ringers received from the clergy, churchwardens, Church Council and Mrs. Fiach. The Vicar acknowledged the wote, and said he loped to gee the association meet zgain at Felkirk.

DEATH OF MR. R. TOMPSON, EALING.

He was a most capable conductor.
The ringers of Ealing highy appreciato the kindly remarks made by the Vicar of Ealing (the Rev. C. J. Sharpe) in the pulpit on Sunday evening, when he said how great a loss the Church had sustained by the death of Mr. Tompson, who was always at his post for service ringing to cill the people to church. Fe had becn 'called away,' and that on his silver wedding day, to a bigher post. He was taken suddenly ill on April 3rd, and died on April 4tl from an internal complaint for which lee was too ill to be operated on. The sympatisy of all would go out to his wife, son and daughter in their great loss

THE METHODS COMMITTEE'S CHALLENGE

The report of the Methods Committee, which is to be presented to the Central Council at Chelnsford, is printed on another page and from this it will be seen that the committee hope to induce the Council to give countenance to peals of Minor and Doubles which, judging from the trend of opinion expressed both in these columns and elsewhere, are contrary to the desires of the mass of the Exercise. The report is a bit of special pleading for the admission, in an official publication, of compositions which ringers of wide experience have bluntly denounced as 'false,' and which, if admitted, will open the door to questionable practices in peal ringing and will moreover set one standard for peals on five and six bells and another for peals on higher numbers. It is difficult to reconcile some of the committee's arguments with some of their previous individual statements. One fact, however, emerges. The committee want the Council to admit as a peal of Minor any composition in which each of the 720 rows appears only seven times, no matter how often any row or any block of rows appears within the limits of any one 720 . One is almost tempted to ask, 'What is behind this endeavour?' The report remarks that the contention that Mr. Bankes James' composition of Cambridge cannot be accepted on the ground that the 7 20's are true if rounds be counted as the first row, because 'it is contrary to the tradition and usage of the Exercise.' If that be so, how much more contrary to the tradition and usage of the Exercise is it to permit six-scores or 720's in which there are repetitions?

Before the Council adopts this report the Council must decide the principle of what is in future to be recognised as a true peal. The report would make it impossible for the Exercise to accept Mr. Bankes James' Cambridge as a peal if it is not prepared also to swallow Mr. Law James' London or Mr. Morris' Grandsire Doubles, and we imagine that there are a large number of ringers who. in those circumstances, will echo Mr. W. H. Barber's candidly expressed views and say, 'Scrap the lot.' There should be no juggling with truth, whether the peat be on six bells or any other number, and the plain question which the Council has got to decide, in answer to the challenge of the Metbods Committee, is whether it will adhere to ' the tradition and usage of the Exercise' and insist upon the 'extent' of a method as the unit of truth, or whether it will be content to recognise anything, no matter what happens internally so long as in a peal of Minor each row appears only seven times (or in Doubles 42 times) and the ringing ends with rounds.

METHODS COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The fallowing report of the Methods Committee is to be prasented to the Central Council at its meeting at Chalms-ford:-
Since the last meoting of the Council we have heen engaged on the new edition of the Collection of Dutbles and Minor Methods. The hook woult have been rady for publication before this, but for the fact lilat doubts have arisen in connection with certain compositions. Jxamples of thene compositions are given further on in this Report, atid wo propose to inelude them in the book, hut we think that first the Coumcil ghould have the opportunity of expressing its opinion about tlinem, if it thinks is necessary to do so.
Our rasous for including them are that we consider them to be fally in furmony with the traditions and usage of the Exercise, and we have ample avidence of their practical use to ringerg. In making thin atatement, it will be clarr from what follows that we do not wish it to be understood ilat these arrangenents or anything just biko Usern were rung in timos past, but that they are fully ia harmony with the fundamental principles of change ringing and are a logical dewelopmeut similar in character to the splieing of several Major muthods into ane peal.

We would state dearly that we consider that the first thing necesbury in a peal is that it: shoula be "true and complote." These words hava been tused in this conthechion by the Exercise from the earliest limes, and they liave in historical and definite meaning, and they axpross a fundamental principle of change ringing.

On saven bells 'hrte and complete' meang that the peal contains the lotal umber of changes without yepetition, starfing from and finishing with rounds. with all the work of the Method and all the bobs and Singles properly anato, ancl without any violation of the renggaised rules of ritiging. On eight bells and upwards the same holds good exeept that, ns ringing the total number of changes iseqomes is physical impossibility, the mumber 5,000 or upwards is substituled. On tive and six luelis the total number of changes is less that 5,0 on, atsi obriously a penl must contaits repetitions. Otherwise, the conditions stand.
When the demand of the five and six-bell riagers tinat their performances should be recognised as peals arose, the assumption was made illat their 5,040 's would consist of separate, independent extents, in other words, that each six-score or 720 would conform to the conditions laid down for a peal of Triples. (Throughout this Report we use the ward 'axtent ' to signify n round block cansisting ol the whotn number of clinges on the number of hells with which we are concermed. $)$ Ahont 18 ycars ago, however, peals of Grandaire Duubles were rullg of which the composition was on similar lines the the following, two or more Extents being spliced into one nnother, A band statts ringing an Extent of Grandsire Doubles with the 5th as half-hunt or observation holl down to the brekstroke row 12435 (say). At this point a switel is made into another Extent with the 4 th as half-htat bell, and this Extent is completed, bringing the hells bitck to 12435 , from which point the orifinal six-score is resumad hud catried to its completion.
In this arratgement we lave two true and complete Extents. Thoy are just as trituo and complete as two soparate Extents rung consoctutivoly, each from Rounds to Rounds, and it would be a misuse of words to call them falso. The main difference is that in the splicodin Extent the six-score rums not from Rounds to Rounds but from 12435 to 12435.

There is a popular fallagy among eight-hell ringers that this sort of thing is done sinply for the glorification of the conductor, hat this is hy no means the arse. The opportunities for variety among fivebell viagers are so few that inevitably they &et to know them all by Inart. Consequenty tingers who conld ring the ben regular Extents practically indefinitelt withont a falso struck blow are liable to pile up immediately some small atteration in calling is anade.
Thon the thesire of atranced riagers to score peals of Cambridge Su'prian on all even mumhers from six to twelve bells hrought to the frott the vory limiled number of 720's in all Treble Boh Minor Methods that do not bring up 6-5's at backstroke. It was in order to Jemove this intolerable blof Lart Mr. Bankes James introduced his arrurfemont. We would say that the chief reason why we think that this composition should bo considered as a legitimate and natural devolopmont in peal ringing is that it has heen tested by practical ringing. The fact lhat it is being rung by many bands in all parts of tho country, and has bear aciepteti by six-hell ringera, is, in our apinion, weighty evidence that it contains mothing out of harmony witl the traditions and usage of the Exotcise.
In this and similar composilions, instead of the peal heing made up of separnte Extents it is made up of larger blocks, in which necogsarily there is repetition of rows, but the principles of Truth and Completeneas are vigidly adhered to. We would point out that in nuy peal of Doubles ov Minor evory rhange must he repmated more than once, but this does nut necessarily mean falsemess, if that word is properly used.
Ftue Bunkes Tamins" arrangement of Canbridge referred to above floes not consist of geven Extents. It is made up of three round Blocks. Ones of these blocks is nun ordinary Extent. The other fwo compriae each 2,180 ehanges. Each of these again is marie up of thee inwomplete blocks. In these blucks 719 true changes are produced, but a point in reached where neither by a Plain Load nor Bob Lead can repetition be avoided. The three are, however, joined into one block by a $Q$ set, either bobbed or plaiaed, and the whole becomes a composition where hoth truth and completeness are ad hered to, every iadividual row, of cousse, appearing three times, a it would do if three independent Extents were rung consecutively.
The clam has heen made that this arrangement does really con sist of seven true ank complete Extents on the grounds that if wo count Rounds at the siart there are 720 true rows, followed nnother 720 true rows, followed by yet another 720 true rows. cannot accept this as sound argument. It is contrary to the tra tion accept this as aound angut, it contrary to the tradi ring and use of the Exercise, and contrary to the nature of change count Rounds at the start as a change. Ana, apart fo comple frst 720 changes do mot contain the necessary p compieteness. The justification of the arrangement lies in taking first 2,160 changes as one roulsd block, and we do not consider any particular importance (though of considerable interest) that thi block appears so nearly to consist of three true and complele Extents.

Mr. Morris' arrangement of Grandsire Doubles is of a diferent character to those we have alrcady described. It consists of 240 changes. The handstroke blows produce 120 true rows, and the back stroke blows produce likewise 120 true rows. Of course, there repetition between Handstroke and Backstroke, but no mora and no less than there would be between the separate six-scores ring con-自ctituvaly
It lias been objected that if ance the Councll recogaises anything which doss not consist of separaka and complete Extents the don will be openod to all sorts of fantastie arrangements and the standard of peal ringing will be definitely lowered. We do not think there is ans ground for such fenr. The primciple of Truth and Completeness is so deeply implanted in the tradition of the Exercise that it will be ample safeguard against auy excess. After all it shotid be remembered that the Exercise preserved a high standard in these matters and kept within rigid bounds for more thata tw centuries before there wers any definite written rules.
In conclusion, we wond point out that the Exercise at large, wht especially the five and six hell ringers as a whole, must be the final judge in this matter, and we confidently ask the approval of th Council to our proposal to prinit these Compositions and so put the proof whether they are of permanent value or not.

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES ROUNDS' FLRST, OR LAST?

Deay Sir, I was pleased to seo the letter in your last issue froma Mr. Joyco, and ongratulate bolh him and his friends jan joinimg the majority who desire to see the definition of peals of Minor end with the words, Rounds shall be the last row or change. It is im material to me wheher the word from" is deloted or not from th definition I gave in your issur of April 5ith, so long as raunds i is the last row of the peal. Now. why clo I stress this point? for en explanation I would like to refol him, and your readers. your issue of Fehruary 22nd, where Mr. Law James is defining, wl a peal of Minor shall he. After explaining the various 720 's. makos uss of these words: We have only inadin 5,039 changes far. This last ehange brings us hack to the first 123456. which is not the last row of the peal, luat only the first row repeated.' So will see, sir, that Mr. James would huve six-belt ringers ring last clange first, and then go on to complete the peal. What Mr. James object in desiring this definition? Simply this, to accep rounds as the last row at once proves his brotler's peal of Cambridg to be false, as rounds appears fwice in the last 720 (as I explained in your issue of March Bth1, and which Mr. James has not though fit to challenge.

With regard to my three 720 's of London, I fail to follow Mr. Joyce in his argument, but would like to point out that the 720 's wre set out by the course ends just the same as Major peals are, and the bobs under I. 4th. O. W. H. indicate the position of the 6 th when the bob is made. Care must be taken, where two 4th's are made in one course, la call the second 4th's before the bob 'Out' is called, otherwise the second 4 th's will be missing. I would advise Mr. Joyce and ather six-bell conductars, when conducting 720's of Minor with more than nine bobs, to adopt this plan-sound advice with forty fears' experience behind it. By doing so, they will be able to memorise the calling much easier. Yours truly,

AN ARGUMENT OWERDONE

Dear Sir,-As Mr. Wood invites criticism of his suggestions, re the settlement of the question of peals of Minor, perhaps you will allow me to romark on his suggestion No. 4. Firstly, ia Cambridgo Minor any more oxceptional than many of the other Surprise Minor methods? I submit not. Secondly, it is possible to ring seven complete '720's of Cambriage with varied callings, and each coming round in the ordinary way, without 6-5's at backstroke. I allow that some of the 720's would be variations of the athers, and in this respect not equal to the Rev. E. B. James' peal.
While on this subject, is not the question of 6-5's at backstroke being slighty overdome? If not, the first eleven Surprise methods might as well be consigned to the waste-paper baskot. - Fours faithfuilly,

EAST HERTS MEETING AT BRAUGHING.

This old-world village was visited on Saturday week by the Eastern Branch of the Ferts County Association. A very onjoynble time was apent by those who brawed the uninviling weather, and the fine toned bells were kept busy.
The Ficar welcomed those who gathered, and gave a helpful nddress in cinwreh, and afterwards sisited the tower

Braughing was in past years a favourite place for Squire Proctor to wisit, and was also renowned for its famous band of Bob Major ringers, as the peal tablets testify. The bells are a very musical ectave with a tenor of 19 cwt .

LIFTON CHURCH BELLS.

APPEAL FOR RESTORATION FUND.
The bells, framework, ote., in the tower of St. Mary's Church, Lifton, Devon, heve been oxamined by experts during the past twelve montbs, and scveral defocts hava been found. The bells, a ring of eight, with 23 cwt . tenor, were placed in the tower by Messrs. Taylor and Co. a hundred years ago, and hape been in congtant use ever since. They are now in a very unsatisfactory stata, and the proper ringing of them presents a very difficult and arduous tasic. Also, the belle are rather out of tune. The chief carses are two defective supporting beams, weakness of frame joints, and inadequate bracing in the construction of the frame; bell fitting showing bad aigna of wear in gudgeons, bearings and clappers. The bells require to be guarter turned, etc., in order to make the clappers strike true, and the whole system requires to be overhauled.

Estimates have been considered, and the Parochial Ghurch Gouncil have decided to place the work in the hande of Messrs. Taylor, Loughborougi, the origina! makers and bangers. "No defray the coal of this work approximately $£ 300$ is required, and the Council would like to faiae as mech as possible of this amount by voluntery dona. tions. An appeal ia therefore made to ringers as well as to pariahioners to subscribe to this fuad as liberally as they are able. and contributions will be heartily welcomed and gratefully received by the Rector (Rev. G. F. Newman) or E. Ball, hon. seeretary, P.C.C., and treasurer, Bell Fund.

The bride'a father is a respected member of the Westbury ringers, and her brother is alaca regular ringer at Bratton. ## METHOD SPLICING.

To the Editor

Sir, As Mr. Coles asks whethar there were any reasons advauced against method splicing at the amual meeting of the Suffolk Cinidd, I asn only say that we had a good representative meefing with our hest ringers present, and that a number spoke against it and no one int favour. There was one who voted ngainst the motion, but he dind not say anything in favour of splicing, but, as it was so widely pracfiscd, he thought we ought not to seem to disparage it. Everyone seem to have a tifferent reason for not supporting splicing, but ds no record was kept it would not be safe to say more than that it semed to be the genoral opinion that if we started to rimg a mathorl we should ring if and not change to someling else before concluding. My own reasou was that the theory we ring by is that we must keep to one method in what we rivg, varied by two kinds of calls, and only two. To have a third kind of call breaks this principle in one way; to splice in another method or methods breaks it in another way, and a broken principle is an unsound principle. you cannot rely onl it; it will not thear any woight of argument.
The line we took up was that we to not want to ring spicer melhods ourselves, but we do not watit to hinder others who wish to do so. Only if rules, or theories, or principles are to be hoketh or strained to allow of the splicing of methods, much more shonld the splicing of extents be allowed. The latter is interesting to the ordinary ringer, and is good practice, while the former only concerus advanced men. This point is especially telting in it diocese where there are so many fire-bell towers is there are in Suffoll.

MORE CROYDON CARILLONS.

WORLD'S LARGEST BELL ORDER TOR MESERS. GIILETT AND JOHNSTON.  THE WELLTNGTON CARILLON.

The first carition for New Zealand, which has been cast at the Groydor Bell Foundry and is to be erected at Wellington, is a memorial to the men and women of New Zealand who gave their lives in the Great War. The eavilkn has been given by individuals or groups of people, and will be one of the most important in the world. It consists of 49 bells, covering four and a quarter cliromatic octaves, the bass bell being five tons in weight. Each bell has an inscription bearing the name of some battleground or engagement of the war, whose names have now become household words, such as 'The Somme,' 'Jutland,' "Gallipoli,' 'Epres,' 'Anzac,' ' Delville Wood, " Hill 60,' etc. Some are dedicated to individuals, others to the memory of military units, such as that of the 5th (Wellington) Regt., "The Nurses' Bell" (dedicated to the rurses and V.A.D.'s who mate the supreme sacrifice), the officers and men of the medical service, members of Government departments, the Royal Navy and the Merchant Service, the New Zealand Mounted Rifles, the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps, the New Zealand Division, and the men of Wellington City and suburbs. Five of the bells beay

A formal inspection of the bells by the High Commissioner of New Zealand (the Rt. Hon. Sir Jarnes Parr, K.G.M.G.), was made at the Groydon Foundry, as briefy reported in our last issue. There was a large number of guests, who were veceiven by the gonial hoad of the firm, Mx. C. F. Jobnston, and they had the opportunity of hearing the fine qualities of the carillon, played hy Mr. Clifford Bull, of Bournville, and Miss Nara Johnston.
In the foundry the risitors saw the casting of bells for a curillon it Holland and many other interesting things comected with the making and tuming of bells.
Before adjourning for tea, Mr. Johnston referred to the accasion as 'Dominion, and enpecially +New Zealand, day at the foundry. $\mathrm{H}_{6}$ reminded the company that all the lig beil orders for different parts of the world were being carried out in England, and the furthest point from these shores which would have a carillon was Wellington. He referved to the many interesting points alout the new bells, and to the fact that this carillon would be shippori in a fortaight and be in New Zealand long hefore the fower to teceive them was complefed-in fact, the architect had not wet heen appointed.
Sir James Pary compzimented the firm on proving the fallucy of the idea that a British manufacturer always wanted about thre years to complete an order. There was under consideration a suggestion that the hells should first go to an exhibition in North-liset England for six months. Sir James expressed cordial sentiments on behalf of New Zealand, particularly on the fact that the bells were Britisl, and gave interesting information about the destimation of the carillon.

CHICAGO'S RECORD ORDER. SIXTY-FOUR BFLLS.

Speaking at the Now Zanland gathering at the Croydon Bell Foundy', M1. Cyril iolnston was able to announce that his dirm had obtained the largest contract for bells ever placed in one order. Adulvessing his guests, he said: I wauld like to fell you a dead scorel-at least it has been one unti! this moment. It concerns the University of Ghicago, which is a good example af the scale upon which edteational life is carried on in America. At Clicego 1he Thiversity pursties a poaceful existence some eight miles from the 'City af Gummen' and waving traffic. There are 800 profuseors attempting to instil learoing into 6,500 undergraduates in 75 buildings. The mewest building is the beautiful Gothe Clapel ly the Fimous archited, Goodhue, of New York. Arising from it is a thassive tower, 210 feet high, and dominating the whole hefglibourhood. In that fower will he placed a great earillon of 64 bells, the bourdon (or largest) weighing 17 lons, and one of lhe two largest eloeks in existence will chime quarters and strike the hours. This, the largest order for hells ever placed at one and the same time, has loren placed with this firm, and lure is the cable uathorising the anthouncement.

The toning and tone has becn pronounced exceptionally fine by no less an authority than Dr. Sydney Nicholson, warden and foumder of the Sehool of English Chureh Music, and late organist at Westminstor Abbey, who has especially commended the exellence of the small bells, the lightest of which weighs only 9 lbs .

In the construction of the gatilion there is the usual clavier for hand operation, the lowest 25 keys being attached to pedals as well as to the manuals. In addition the fitm's patent electro-pneumatic mechanism is attached, and las a dual function. One connects an jvory keyboard, similar to that of a piano, which can be fixed in any part af the tower for use by a musician, who is not necessarily a carillonneur, and the other operates a paper band machine, on the principle of the pianola, whereby tunes, specially arranged for carillon music, are played-the mechanism being released by a clouk at any intervals desired in the day. The machine will be equipped initially to play twelve tunes in this way, but other music will be added from time to time. There is no limit to the selection, but each tupe has to be arranged specially to suit bell music.

The frame waighs 34 tons, and is constructed to carry 53 bells eventually, ats the intention is to add four lower bells, the largest to weigh ten tons.

A successful joint meeting of the Gouth and West District of the Middlesex County Association and the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was leld at St. John's, Fillingdon, on Saturday, and was attended by a company of ovor sixty. Mr. F. W. ## LADY RINGER MARRIED Bagshot Church, Surrey, was the scenc of a pretty wedding on Saurrdey, when Miss Mabel A. Nye, only daughtey of Mr. and Mrs. E. Nye, of Lyulurst, Bagshob, whs married to Mr. Victor Welton, eldest son of Mrs. Welton, of Dulwiel. The bride"s father has been for many years one of the most enthusiastic ringers in the district, und the taride herself proved an apt pupil in the belfry. As a tcacher in the day and Sunday Schools and an active participatior in the social activities is the district, Miss Nye is extremely popular, and a large congregation of well-wishers assembled to witness the ceremony, which was porformed by her uncle, the Rev. A. V. Nye, Vicar of Brightmet, Bolton, Lancs. The bide, who wus given away by her father, wore a charming dress of white georgette, tyinmod with pearls, and a peil with a wreath of orange blossam. She cerrien a sheaf of Madonna Jilies. Three sisters of the bridegroom acted as bridemaids, aud they were atived in powder blue chepo-de-chine dresses. Mr. F. Nye, jun., was best man. The hymns, Lead us, Hearculy Father, and O Perfect Love, ware sung in the service, at the conclusion of which the bells were nerrily ring by the local ringers, and as the happy couple left the church the organist played Mendelssohn's * Wedding March.

large number of guests, ingluding many ringera, attended the suhsequent reception at the Pariah Hall, and, when Mr. and Mrs. Welton left for their honeymoon in the Isle of Wiglt, they deperted to the sound of the beils, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples being rung by: Mrs. Hazelden (Guildford) 1 , J. S. Goldsmith (Woking) 2. B. Hawkins (York Town) 3, H. J. Chaftey (Otterslaw) $\$_{1}$ W. Melville (Guildford) $5, F$. Nye (Bagshot) $6, \mathrm{C}$. Hazelaen (Guildford) (eonduetor) 7, E. Hunt (Bagshot) 8.

There wore gifts from the Vicar, superintendent and geholars of the Sunday School, the master, teachers and ptupils of the Day School, the Vicar, churelwardens and ringers of Bagshot, the Tennis Club, the Cricket Chub (of which Mr. Weltou is seerctary), as well as fum individual ringing nod oftiet friends.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A HAPPY LITTLE MEETING AT CHRIST CHURCH, EPSOM
Although only fourteen ringers attended a meeting of the LeatherInead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, beld at Christ Church, Epsom, on Saturday last, methods ranging from Graudsire Doubles to London Surprise Major were rung, and everyboty was happy. The towers represented werc Leatherhead, Epsom (St. Martin's), Banstead, Ewell and Newdigate, and those present included the genersi seretary of the Surrey Association (Mr. Chas. H. Kippin) and the secretary of the Central District of the same association (Mr. Daniel Gooper). In the absence of the Vicar, the service was conducted by the priest-in-charge, the Rev. H. Hamiltod Maughant, who took as his lext, 'We will make a joyiul noise unto the God of Jacob.' We thought his text singularly appropriate. A 'joyful noise' is a good term to apply to the average ringing at meatings (this particular meeting, of course, excepted). In the course of his address, the Rev. Maughan welcomed the Guild to Christ Church, and said how pleased he was to find that the bellrimgers in the Guildford Diocese had formed themselves iato "a definitely religious brolherbood.' In the course of his journeyings ahout the country be liad come across hands of ringers who would ring the bells for a service and then go to the nearest public-house, and ho was therefore pleased to meet a Guild of bellringers who never did that sort of thing.
Some of us wondered how we had earmed such a distinction. We all felt very good. It when nice to be told that we were not as other men are. The Guildford Diocesan Guild has reason to be prount of such members.

Immediately after tea, the Rev, Maughan had to leave, but before doing so expressed his pleasure in being able to serve the Guild in any way, and, on behalf of the Vicar, said he hoper we would enjoy our visit and come again. This was all the more welcone in view of the fact that Christ Chureh, Epsom, is one of the very few towers possessing peals of hells in the diocese which have not yet become affiliated to the Guild. -On the proposition of the district secretary, seconded by Mr. G. Marriner, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rev. Maughan for his kinduess and hospitality. This was earried with neclamation.
At the business meeting which followert, the following new ringing members werc electers: Miss J. M. I. Cotirell, Mr. C. 1 Read, Miss H. I. Port, and Rev. C. F. T. Willis, of Dorking, and Mr. William Robinson, of Christ Church, Epsom. The following belfry elections were also confirmed: Mr. R. Clanpell, of Dorking, elected as a ringing member prior to an attempt for a peel at Ranmore, and Mr. R. H. Dove, of Thornton Heath, elected as a compounding member: prior to pea! ai Banstead.
The District Secretary (Mr. F. G. Woodiss) briefly explained the eircumstances which conspelled him to relínquish his duties at so short t notice, as reportad in last week's issue of 'The Ringing Wovin,' and which made it necessary for thens to find a successor immediately $\rightarrow$ a successor who could be relied upon to carry out his duties efficiently and well. He was pleased to be in a pasition to inform the meeting that the dialrict committee had succeeded in finding such a man in Mr. Alnn R. Pink, of Dorking. Mr. Pink had consented to serve them at the sacrifice of other claims upon his time and leisure, and in proposing him as his successor, the District Secretary said he hoped they would give Mr. Pink the same wholehearted support as they had given him.-This was seconded by the Chairman (Mr. A. Harman), and carried unanimously.-The usual votes of thanks coneluded the meeting.
During the ringing in the evering, several members commented upon the fact that the 'go " of the bells was mucli wore than usual. Examination revealed the fact that the fittings were in a precarious mondition, and that this peal of bells, which have been regarded for the last thirly years as ideal for peal ringing, neederi the immediate attention of the bell hanger if serions damage was to be avoided. Plans were made En inform the proper authorities. F. G. W.

A USEFUL REPORT.

There are lew more important things in connection with church bell ringing than the acoustic arrangementsof the tower and ringing chamber. Not only is it a matter which affects the ringers, but, often more acutely, the public as well. The subject is one which is frequently before the Exercise and it again comes under notice by the report, which we print in another column of the Towrers and Belfries Committee of the Central Council. This report deals with the acoustics, both outside and inside the tower, and, because the former has previously received more attention than the latter, arrangements for regulating the sound of the bells internally receives rather more detailed consideration than the stopping of noise outside the tower. The value of the report lies in its recommendation of practical expedients, which have been tried and found effective. It will be read with interest and, we hope, with profit by all those who hear either too much or too little of some or all of the bells in the ringing chamber.

The question of subduing the sound of bells autside a church has previously been dealt with in an earlier report (Section 11 of the 'Preservation and Repair of Bells, Frames and Fittings'), and little is now added to elaborate those recommendations. Yet this is probabiy the most important phase of the matter. In a populous neigbbourhood, a peal of bells which is noisy in the vicinity of the church can be, if much rung, a decided inconvenience, not to say nuisance to those around, and it cannot be denied that all reasonable steps should be taken in such cases to minimise the cause of complaint. There are, up and down the country, numerous rings of bells which are far too noisy outside the tower for the comfort of the neighbours and even new and costly rings are sometimes erected without precautions being taken in this respect. There have been cases where large sums have been spent on new bells, but nothing has been done to allay thenoise outside, with the result that the bells soon come near to permanent silence out of consideration for the public who live or work close at hand. While we do not agree with those incumbents whose line is that of least resistance, which results in stopping the bells, when opposition to them comes from a small section of the public, there can be no question that where there is genuine cause for complaint every effort should be made to remedy the matter. In the vast majority of cases this can be done at comparatively small cost, particularly if the ringers will themselves do the work with material provided for them by the church authorities.

The Tower and Belfries Committee's report is a useful contribution to the subject of belfry acoustics, but if it is to be of real value, it must go further than the Council Chamber. The salient features of the earlier seport, to which only reference is made, should be embodied in a pamphlet with the material of the present report and should be available to associations for use among church authorities wherever an improvement is necessary or desirable. It should be printed in a form which stamps it as authoritative advice, and it should be brought formally to the notice of all the associations, and not left to them to find out casually that such a document exists.

EAST BERKS AND SOUTH BUCKS BRANCE JUBHEE.
The julvice celebrations of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch will be remembered for many years by those who attended at Boyae Fill on Saturday last. Some fifteen diferent towers in the branch area wers represenfed, and, in addition, a number of unattached members and visitors were preseat.

The bells were raised puactually at 3 p.m., and were kept going to various methods until 4.30 p.m., when the Guild service was conducted by Rev. W. S. Riddelsdell, M.A., Vicar of Bray and chairman of the branch. The Archdeacon of Oxford, Rt. Rev. E. Domett Shaw, D.D., gave an excellent address on the text taken from Zachariah xiv. 20 and 21, "In that day shall there be upon the bells of the horses, holiness unto the Lond, and the pots in the Lord's hotse shall be like the bowls before the altar. Yea, every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be heliness unto the Lord of Hosts."

An oxcellemi meal was served at the Parish Hall, where the compeny ineluded Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Guild), Rev Canon G. F. Goleridge (president of the Central Gouncil), Mr. A. J.
Wright (general treasurer of the Guid), Mr. W. Bottrill (MetropoliWright (Beneral treasurer of the Guid), Mr. W. Bottrill (Metropolitan Police Guild), Mr. F. W. Goodfellow (Ringing Master, South and West District, Middlesex County Assaciation), and Messrs. C. F. Winuey, J. J. Parker, W. H. Fussell, J, Evans, H. Colling and E. Keeley, the last-ammet being over 90 years of age.
The business meeting followed, the Chairman offering a warm- welcome to the Master and Canon Goleridge.
The election of 17 new members was confirmed, and the Rector of Fulmer and his band of eight ringerg were proposed as members by the Secretary, and clected forthwith. Tho son of the new Branch Thinging Master was also marle a member.

A wote of condolence was carried in silence to the relatives of three recently deceased members.
The financial statement was well receired and accepted, a qote of hanks keing accorded to the auditor. Whe Secretary commented on the present strang financial position of the brancl, and also on some of the more recent monthly practices, especially the mach enjofed joint mecting with the Middlesex County Association at Millingedon.

Canon Celeridge Ifumorously suggested that a new rule might be made compelling ringers to sitin in the front pews and not the back ones, to the beerefit of the preacher as well hs the listeners.

Numerous votes of thanks and appreciation were passed to all connected with making the arrangements.-Mr. J. J. Parker, responding, expressed his pleasure at laving been a member for 50 years.Mr. W. H. Tussell produced the receipt for his first subscription, dated July 26 til, 1879 .
The following officers were elected: Chairman, Rev. W. S. Riddelsdell, M.A.; branch secretary and treasurer, A. D. Barker; Branch Iinging Master, Mr. T. J. Fowler; branch representatives on Genera Committee, Mrs. A. D. Barker, Messrs. J. L. Kirk, T. J. Fowler, J. G. Truss and G. H. Gutteridge.

It was decided to pay the expenses, where necessary, of representatives attending the General Committee meeting.

It is hoped to vibit Amersham for the mext monthly practice.
Aftor the business was finished, a musical evening was enjoyed, and, following a touch of Stedman Triples on handbells, some excollent songs were rendered by Messrs. W. R. Ash, T. J. Fowler and Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn. Mr. Ayres, orgaisi, of Cookham, presided (Continued in pert column.)

GOLDEN WEDDING.

On Friday, April 19th, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hands, of Femalean Road, Caversham, celebrated their golden wedrling-
Mr. Hands is one of the oldest members of the St. Peter" Society, Gaversham, which was inaugurated in 1884, wlaen Canon Coleridge first took holy orders.
To mark the occasion, a quarter-peal of Cambridge Surprise Majom was rung on Sunday evening, April 21sli, by: H. Simmonds 1, A. 13. Cullum 2, J. Fands 3, W. Lewington 4. A. Wiggias 5, E. J. Menday 6, G. Essex 7, E. W. Menday (conductor) 8.
Messrs. E. W. Menday, G. Essex, J. Fands and H. Simmonds are four of the first change tingers of the St. Peler's Society, Caversham, and have been ringing every Sunday for 45 years. Mr. Hands, wios has passed 'the allotted span,' is still in the pink of health.
A little community singing formed part of the programme, aud the evening closed with the National Aathens.

It is rumoured that the arrangements for the centenary are already in hand, and it is hoped that although the meal may be chiefly in tabloid form, there will be liquid refreshment to suit all, as well as suitable cosy corners and seats for loving couples-mnless this is out of date in 1929.

THE METHODS COMMITTEE REPORT. MH TROLLOPE CRITICISES OUR COMNENTS.  To the Editor

Vear Sir, -The besi reply to your criticism of the Methods Commitcees repurt is, I thimk, the report itself. We want members of tho Contral Comeil to read it and mote what it says and what it does not any, and wote accordingly. Buat there ale one or two things which perhaps mas profitably tee said.

1. You ang that before the Coumel adopi this report it must decintr: the primeiple of what is to he recogaised as a peal. The prisciple was decided centirries ago: it is fruth and completeness. But if you mean the details, then, swely, you are puiting the cart before the horso- Jedwood justice "-sentence first and trial afterwards. What we desire is that the Excmoisc, and, particularly, the five end six boll ringers, should have the opportunity of tosting and judgiug these compnsilions. Later on it will be time enough to settle on a defnite rule. And in this contunction if would mosi respentfully suggest to eighit-hell ringers that they should suspend their final judgment on the matter. In eight-hell ringiag the opportunitios for expansion and development are practically unlimited. There is plenty of room to pick end choose. For live and six bell ringing it is not so. There the scope is wery limited, auf it does seem rather selfish for eight-bell ringers to refuse to five-hell yingers such opportunity for davelopment as there is.
2. All beated talk aboul ' nu juggling with truths,' is quite beside the point. No one warts to juggle with truth. No one would willingly ring it fulse peal. We propose to print these compositions beenuse, after having examined them jurinially, we are convinced that they ena puoperly be called holth titue and conplete. The only people who can faitly be said to juggle with truth are these who, by strainiug langunge beyond the breakitg point, iell us that the Bankes Inmes Canbridec comsists of seven true 720's.
3. I am quile aware that many fingers of wide experience, objeat to thase compositions, and even 'bluntly denounce them as fnlse. There never was any development in ringing that some rimgers uf wide experieme did not object to Little methoris, spliced rimging, titae ust of singles in amposition-all of them we have been told tre theoretically unsound. I remember' the highest authority in the Fixerdise saying thaI London was an illegitimate methad; and 1 ila not douht thal inn old Plain Cliange riugers of the seventconth century looked on Cross Peals as undesirable. People are fully in their rights in not liking these new compositions, hut thoy need not ring them unless they like: and, even if they are in a majority, that seoms on adoguate reasor for stapping those who do want to ring thom.
4. If $i_{s}$ mat fair to raid inta a formal domameal like this report, signod hy more than one person, anything which is not thare. We nowhore say that we wanl tine Conncid to admit as a peal of Minor any composition in whinh earln of the 720 rows appears only seven times, no natter how of teth any row or any bloch of rows appenrs within the limils of any one 720, or anything like it. Personally, I should sulscribe to no such opinion. We ask for agpuoval of our interntion to print certain definite compositions which we think are uneful to the Exercise.
5. The report does not set up one standard for peals on live and six bells and another for peals on higher numbers. It recognises that, owing to facts, a difimenee already rexists anit must exist, Narnaly, on seven bells you can and mast ring the full extend of the whangos. On night and mort hells you rannot, and therefore need nol ring thr inll extent, and on six and live you must repert elnuges. The older idea thal a peal of Minor must consist of geven geparnte mitenlis went whers the Hankes James arrangement of Cambidge was mosepterl. And as you yourself publicly accepted that arrangement as soubul, you canmen hlame ofr committee for doing the same thinge It is alogical and defersilsle position to take up thut a peal of Mimor mast consist of seven scparate 720's, but once you abandan that you esunat in fairness or logic admit a composition liko the Cambridge nunt womdemn Morris arrangement of Doubles. If you say the 120 's of the latter are false, so also are the 729 's of the tormer. If the former can be justified as a whole composition (as you do justify it), se can the lutter. They stand or fall fogether.
6. Of all the une nompositions we propase to include, there are only twn which yout lave not approved. We cannot see fanything in which theg diffor in prineiple from the athers.
7. May I romind you that the Exercise, while accepting as a matural thing the phituciple of tuabs anci completeness, has nover beten fulty agreed for any long time as to what does constitute a pasi of Minor or Dobbles? There has hecn a good deal of change Aud developmond of opinion on this maltor in the past, and there seerns na roason why there should not the further change and developmont in the future.
8. Our position is hrondly this: When we decided to inptove bhe "Minar Collection " by adding compositions, we found that there were two compositions whieh wero boginniog to be popular among five and six ball ringers. Both were diferent from nolder compositions, and we bud to decide whether to include them. The guestion was nat whetber we as intlivituals approved them, but whether the five and sis bell ringers wauled them, and whelber they ware likely to be of use to them. There could be no doubt as ta the answer.
In conclusion, may I suggest that it is rather u pity you did nat yield to the temptation to ask, "What is behind this endeavour? The alswer would have been no easy.-Yours sincerely,
J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

COMMIITEE'S CONFLICTING VIEWS

In the above letter, Mr. Trallope says that 'of all the compositions we (tho committed propose lo include, there are only two which you have not approved. Whe cannot see anything in which they dffer in principle from the others."
It is very kind of Mr. Trollope to refer to our Bpproval, but that is not the point that matters. The attiturle which we have adopted liss been one of supporting the intentions of the Central Gonnel as indicated at Herefard. The Exercise, und certainly the Counch have a rigat to know, whal the ather compositions fre-if they depart from the reognised standard of being tride anil complete ex-tonts-before they are printed and published under the name of the Council. Up to now the only compesitions which have been definitely mentioner in this controversy are Rankes James Cambridge, Law James' Londod, and Pitman's and Morris' Grandsire Doubles. Are there nny others? If 60 , the Council would prabably like to know.
Therc are a number of points in Mt. Trollope's perfectly fair criticism of our article with which we should like to deal did space permit, but for the moment space forbids. We cannot, however, resist coutrasting some of the statments, made ly members of the commitfee, which slow that they have wolshied pretiy considerably over this matter individually hefore making up their minds collectively, while Mr. Trollope in his letter this weels appears to lave Forgotiten what Mr. Trollope sairl in these columns on December 14tir

Mr. TROLLOPE, December 14th, 1928 :-

The 720's in the Rev. E. B. James arrangement of Cambridge are all true.

Rev. H. LAW JAMES, Janutry 18th, 1929:-

Consider my brother's arrangemont of Cambridge Minor. We make 720 changes of the bells so that we have the correct number of clanges made, bat the lagt change made takes ur into the next 720 . We now ling througl that, and the last change made bringe us into the mext 720 , and so on throughout. 'flye last change in tha beventh 720 brings us brek into the first 720 Bgain, and completes the first 720 , so that each of the seven is true and complete.
Mr. TROLLOPE,
The old idaa of as six-bell peal was that it must cousist of a least seven true aud complete extents. The words "true" and 'complete" and 'exteni' later been used in the Exercise for $H$ cotsple of centuries, and they al. ways have had and lave a thefinte and unamistakable thean

Mr. THOLLOPE, May 3rd, 1929:-
The only peopie who car fairly he said to juggle with truth are those who bs atraining language herond the breaking point tel us that the Bankes James' Cam bridge consists of seven trat 720 '
Mr. TROLLOPE, January 25th, 1929:-
Uuless you do count rounds at the start as a change, six of the sever 720's cannot by any streteh of the word be considered true.

Committee's Report, April 26th:- Bankey James arrange ment of Cambridge does not consist of seven extents.

Mr. TROLLOPE, February 8th, 1929
It (the Herefora resolution) lays down that a peal of Minor shall consist of at least seven brue and complete 720 's.

Commitioe's Report, April 26th, 1929:-
The Binkes James" arrange ment dous uat consist of sewen axtenis. . . . The justification of the arramement lies in taking the first 2.160 thanges as one round black.
Regarding Mr. Morris' arrangement, 1he Report says: 'Of course, there is repetition betweer handstroke and back stroke.

THE YOUNGER GENERATION.

Mr. C. F. Winney, quoting from the Middlesex County Absociation, Increasing imlerest of vounger

有 keoll friends, who are sad at the apathy of persons they bave tried to enenurage in this duty to the Chumgh.SUDDEN DEATH OF A BURTON LATIMER RINGER We deegly regret to announce the death of Mr. Harry Mcanows which took place with tragic suddenness on Tuesday evening, Aprit 23ad. The decensed had been to bis work that day as usual, and, in the cvening was at work in his garden, when about 6.30 he was sean to fall to the ground. A neighbous went to his assistance, but Mr. Meadows died in about two minutes. At an inquest which was helf, the dactor stated that a post-mortem examination revealed that the deceased's heart was twice the nomal weight, and the jury returbed a verdict of 'Death from natural causes.
The funeral took place at St. Mary's Church on saturday afternom, the Rentor (Rev. G. L. Lethbridge) officiating. In addition to the local ringers, there were also present Mr. R. G. He bad not bean a great peal ringer, but he had rung about twenty peals in all, the groater part of them having been Minor in seven mothods.
After the funeral the bells were rung balf-muffled to touches of ${ }^{1}$ lain Bob Stcdman and Grandsire. The bells were algo rung moffled for botlu services on Surday.

ARCHDEACONS WHO HELP.

To the Editar.

Bir, Witio reference to your learling article on this subject, I would like to say that in the Ven. Archdoacon Fowson, Archdeacon of Warrington in the diocese of Liverpoal, ringers have another valued friend and helper.

For many pears the Archdeacon has held the office of warden of the Liverpoof Diocesan Guild, which comprises the Liverpool and Wigan Branches of the Lancashire Association, and, what is still more to the point, feequently attends the hranch meetings.

He never loses an apportunity of encouraging our art amongst those newly ordained into Orders, and there are not melay towers in the district that he has nat visited. Despite advancing years, bis energy and work on behalf of ringers daes not diminish. In fine, we all love our Archdeacon for what he is-our friend.
I am also informed that the first Master of the Chester Diocesan Guild was Archdeacon Barber.

- APPRECIATORY.

LADIES' GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Northern District of the Ladies' GuiJd was hekl at Duffield on April 13th, whea again the attendance was extremely poor. Nevertheless with generous assisfance from the gentlemen quite a variety of methods was attempted, the ease with which the belis can be handlea making them most suitable for ladies to ring. A very appetising tea was provided in the schoolroom, after which the business meeting took place, three new memberg being elected.
The new rules for the Ladjes' Guld and also for the districts werf brought forward and passed, one of the latter boing thet the annual district meeting shall precede the annual gencral meeting.
Votes of thanks were extended to the Yicar, and especially to the local band for their efforts to make the meeting a success, also to the ladies who prepared auch an excellent tes.
Date and place of mext meeting mere left open peading arrangements for the unveiling of the ladies' peal tablet. Further ringing took place throughout the cveniag, bringing a most enjoyable meet ing to a close.

METHOD SPLICJNG

To the Editar
Dear Sir, Mr. Drake reply seems to call for some comment. He states that several reasons were advanced in support of the resolutian that the splicing of methods is theoretically unsound, but he only gives us his own reason. Fe contends that the theory we ring by is thas we must keep to one kind of methot in what we ring, varied by two kiads of calls. To do other than this breaks the principle, and a broken principle is an ansound principle.
I should like to ask Mr. Drake three questions: (1) Has ac evev rung 120 Grandsire Doubles, or Holt's Ten-part peal of Grendsire Triples? (2) Daes he consider that either of the different singles used breaks the Doubles or Triples principle? (3) If he agrees to breaking primeiples by the calling of any kind of single, in odd-bell methods, why does he object to further innovations which have the decided merit of incrensing the scope of ringing and making it much more complex and interesting?

It is a pity the other reasons advanced at the SuIolk Guild's meeting are not given. One can only come to the conclusion, regretfully, that there are still a number of ringers who object to change of any kind.-Yours faithfully,
G. T. COLES
P.S. In my letter published on April 19th an error occurs. In the last line but two the words "spliced cxperts" should read spliced extenf."

BELERY GOSSIP.

At Kington Magna, where the bells were rung on St. George's Day, the King's message to lis people was, at the Bector's request, read out to the ringers by the ateeplekeeper.
A minor tour, resulting in four peals of Major, took piace in Hanis last week. It extended over three days. The last of the peals was London Surprise on the new bells at Milford-on-Sea, and the band had a miraculous eseape from losing it. Just as the conductor nalled 'This is all,' at backstroke, his rope broke, came down in front of him and laid on the belfry foor. Has such a thing ever been known before?
Four fathers and four sons have repeated at St. Martin's, Epsom, the performance of extetly eixty years ago in the same tower. They have rung a peal of Grandsive Thiples
The peal at Henstridge on April 18th was rung by members of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association.
Next Sunday is the annipersary of the 12,312 Grandsire Caters rung at Painswick in the year 1817. Even at that date it was rot the record length, for a peal of 12,603 had been rung at Norwiob in 1737.

The frat peal of Grandaire Bob Maximus was rung at Southwarts on May 7th, 1792.
Edmonton bells were opened by the Cumberland Youths with a peal of ' 5,280 Oxford Treble Bobs,' composed and conducted by John Reeves, on May 8th, 1788.
'Many happy returns' to-day to Mr. Albert Waiker, Deputy Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, and on Tuesday to Mr. Georgo Williams, Master of the Winchester Diocesan Guild.

Mr. Cballis Winney writes that April 29th was the late 'Jack" Hayes' wedding day, and on that date in 1884 he turned in Southwark tenor. It was a vastly different problem in Lhose days, remarke Mr. Winney, compared with to-day, when the bell is tucked up in an iron stock. It was George Mash who pereuaded Hayes to tackle the the job one practice night.
Several correspondents have reminded us that Miss Lewis, who has been appointed general secretary of the Warwickshire Guild, is not tho first lady to hold such an office. Miss Violet Shorter was secretary of the Ely Diocesan Guild for twelve months, about six or seven years ago, and did most admirable work.

BUST TO BE EXEIBITED IN THE ROYAL ACADEMY
A bust of Mr. W. T. Cockerill, the hon. secretary of the Colluge Youths, is to be shown tht this year's Royal Academy exhibition. The sculptor is Miss Hiley (daughter of Mr. H. ## BELFRY ACOUSTICS.

The following is the report of the Towers and Bulfries Comimitter on Belfry Accustios, to be presented to the Central Council at the Chelmsford meeting:-
It is juportant in the case of rehanging and tuning to pay great attention to acoustic conditions. The tower is cleared of many large beams, thick planks and the accumulatiou of the dirt and dust of ages, which all teud to deaden sound, and into this empty room are placed the bells, readered by tuming more powerful in tome than before.

Much excellent rdyice is given in Section II. of the 'Préservation and Repair of Rells, Frames ancl Fitingis,' publisbed by the Council, and need not be repeated Isere.

So far as the noise outside the tower is concemed, there is nothing to add to this except to draw attention to the sound-deadening material known as Cabot's Quilt, which is of use jn forming a liniog to the wooden stutters suggested for the belfy windows.
As to the inside, and dealing first with the diffictaty of hearing one or two bells in a ring, the committee has notes of a successful experiment recenty carried out by Mr. Hosse in the Haslemere tower on the limes laid down in the above publication. [n the sume conneation special mention should be made of the ingenious, thougls very simple, contrivance of Mr. Pates in the tower of St. Mary's, Cheltenamm. Here the treble swings side by side with the tenor, and although a shuto was placed near the mouth of the treble it was quite inauible jn the ringing room after the first pull off in rounds. Sometbing was wanted to throw the treble sound fowards the shute, and at the same time to throw the tenor sound away therefron. This was effected by boarting in Lhe lower hadf of the tenor and trebie wheolg with half-ineh match boarding. The result is all that could be desired.
Then with regard to the comfortable hearing of a whole ring in the rivging room, ton much stress camot be laid upon the importance of thene being af least 2ft. Gin. between the fioor immediately under the bells and the ceiling of the ringing room, with no connect ing shutes of avy kind. If it can be 8 ft. or loft., so much the better In cases where a plastered ceiling is not practieable, e.g., where Wires und eranks of chiming lammers have to he accommodated, it will be necesary to lave a wooden ceiling, and in this case much can be done with Cabot's Quilt, Celotex, Lead (2lh. per font) or Felt, laid above the ceiliag.
In any chas, it is well to have some sound-deadening material immediately under the bells, and in some cuses round the walls of the belfry as well. This, of course, applies to towers where the ringing roon is obviously too neat to the bells and cannot be lowered.

Cabots Quilt is compased of seaweed ar eel grass that romes from Nova Scolia, It is usually made up into mats, but may be obtained loose for packing in between Moors. It can be obtained through the leading bell founders. Gelotex is a falted bourd made of sugar-cane, and can be obtaned through ary arehitect on buider.

A case is known of a heavy ling of eight to whin the ringerg' foor is so near that the sallies go ronm the wheds. There is only onf floor botween the rimgers and the bells. The noise was, of course, unbearable, but a rast improverumt was made by laying down Gabot's Quilt directly under the bells, the layers increasing according to the size of the bell.
There are many towers where both acoustic und other couditions would be far better if the bells were rung from the ground level. Wher the bells are being rehung this may well be considered. Often it brings tha ringer to exactly the right distauce from the bells, but it has also certain passible disarvantages.
The alternative plans of a cingers' ioft or gallery open to the church has very much to recommend it. fhis is especially adapted to a westrend tower with a high arch on the east side, and perhaps a large west window, with the floor of the nower required for church geating $\mathrm{Dr}^{\circ}$ a baptistry or a choir vestry. A flooy is put in 8 ft . or Ioft. from the ground, it may be of deal; across the easi arch runs sil oak frout, or a light iron railing, just high enough for safety. The window remains visible, and is in no way spoilt by the lianging ropes, as is sometimes supposed to be the casc. The floor is reached by a wooden staircase from inside the chath. Tlie ringers have perfeet ventilation without draught, are in good light and within good hearing of the bells.

Examples may be seen at Aidermaston, Bletchley, Clapham Park, St. Peter Mancroft, Painswici, Wokingham All Saints, and very many other places.

NEW OCPAVE AT KINGSTEIGNTON.

Kingsteignton, Devon, is now in possession of a fine rimg of eightf bells, cast, and hung by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. There was previously a peal of six in the tower, successors to an earlier riug. The new octave, which is, of course, tuned oa the five tone harmonic principle and hung in a new frame with all the latest modern fittings, has cost about $£ 650$, alI of which has been raised by voluntary subscriptions.
The dedioation was performed on Saturday week by the Bishop of Exeter, who, in an address, congratulated the parishioners on the mighty work they had completed, and added that the bells could speak a message to therm that no human tongue could teach. The bells told thom all things that interested them as a cormmunity. They were essentially a part of the whole social organisation of their civiligation. People forgot at times that they were a community and talked only as a set of individuals. He deprecated the selfishness of that old iden. Thinking of themselves alone conduced to what he described as a miserable hife.
Parties of ringers were aresent from Wolborough, Moreton, Chagford, Bovey Tracey, Chudleigh, East and West Teigumouth, Ipplepoa and Highweef. All expressed thernselves delighted with the music and 'go' of the bolls.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A quarterly meetiug was held at Coalbrookdale on Saturday, April 27th. The church is beautifully situated on the side of a hill, aud the bells are a very fine peal of ten by Mears and Stainbank About 25 members and visitors were present from Shrewsbury Alberbury, Malinglee, Worthen, Wellington, Bridgnorth, Sheriffales, Crewe, Birmingham, and the local tower, also two lady ringers from Cardiugton, who rang rounds on ten very well considering that their own tower contains onily four bells.
Ringing began at three o'elock and continued until five, when tea wh partaken of in Trinity Hall. The business meeting followed, the Viear, the Rev. F. Eland, presiding.
It was explained that this meeting would have heen held at Wellinglon, but permission could not be obtained. The tower there is very close to the shope, and numerous complaints are received if the bells are rung on a Saturday afternoon.
Nine new members were elected from Whitchurch
It was unanimously decided that Mr. W. Saunders attend the Central Council meeting at Chelmsford if passible, and that his expenses be paid.
Mr. A. Woodvine praposed that the assaciation print a balance ahect annually for eirculation amongse the members, and this was carried. The next meeting will be lield at Moreton Corbet on July 20th, if possible
Mr. Sauuders proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the bon. secretary (Rev. F. Tennison) for his presence at the meeting and his continuedi interest in the association. This was carried with applause, and itr the course of his reply the Rev. F. Tennison said how grateful the members were to the Vicar of Coalbrookdale for the use of tho bells and hall.
This concluded the business, and the members then returned to the tower for further ringing nintil 8.30. The methods rung during he day were Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Triples and Boh Major.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Southern District of the London County Asso fiation and the North Southwark Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday, April 20th, at St. Mary Magdelene's Church, Woolwich, and was fairly well attended. Ringing took place under the supervisiou of the District Master, Mr. H. Mance, some very good touches in various meithods being brought round, including a course of Cambridge. The begimers, also, were not forgotten, everyone being neenamodated.
A tery bright service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G M. Pickering), who gave the fassociation a hearty welcome, and a helpfuladdress. One of the local young ringers presided at the organ, and tho hymats and psalms, etc., were well rendered. Tea followed in the Mission House. where the party were the guests of the Rector, churchwardeus and the local band. a splendid repast thoroughly enjoyed by all, was presided over by the Rector, supported by the Master and the local Ringing Master (Mr. Aldridge). The husiness meeting followed, with Mr. Mance in the ellair. The rottine businesg was soon got througla, but there was an animated discussion under the heading of "other business." This arose because a tower laal not been obtainerd at which to hold a meeting, and it was stated that it was partly owing to the fact that the local band were not first asked their pernission. The secratary maintained that the proper person to ask was the inchmbent, whilst a momber moved resolution that the secretary be instructed to obtain satietion first of the local band. The resolution was, however, lost.
Dusing the meeting a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells, for arranging and conducting the service, also, as part host wiils the churchwarden and local ringers, or supplying the tea, to the ladies who prepared and served the tex in such great style, to the organist, and, last, but by no means least, to Mr. Cyril E. Palmer, local secretary, whose kelp in arranging details was regarded as most valuabie by the diatrict secretary. As a consequence of the discussion, a somewhat late return was made to the lower, when more ringing was indulged in, bust some meabers had to leave early, as woolvich is right at the extremity of the district's activities.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR A RINGER

To the Editor

Sir,-May I ask for a little space in rour columns to give a few delails albout the vacant post at Sherborme Abbcy, to which reference was made in 'Belfry Gossip' last week? I learn that the office is one of whole-time employment, atd the emoluments amount to about sloo a year. The vergor has to attend to the cleaning and besting of the building, work in the Abbcy close and so forth, besides the ufficial duties at the church services. In the event of some capable ringer obtaining the appointment, there will be a great opportunity of cloing valuable service in the cause of ringing. The eight massive hells afford a most interesting field of enterprise. -Your's faithfully,

Our readers will doubtless turn with interest to the study of the peals analysis for last year and to the report of the Analysis Committee. Those who judge the progress of the Exercise by the peals that are rung may read this report with some misgivings. There was a falling off of no fewer than 139 peals, which is perlaps disappointing in some respects, after the revival which $19^{27}$ showed upon the two immediately preceding years, but, surveying the post-war position as a whole, this falling off is hardly as serious as may appear at first sight. The year 1927 showed an exceptional jump forward of over a hundred and seventy peals, so that, compared with 1925 and 1926, there is nothing very alarming in the drop in 1928. The number rung ( 1,702 ) is well below the average for the last eight years, during which it may be said peal ringing returned to something like its pre-war conditions, but it was still above the number rung in the two years before 1927. Perhaps the most disquieting feature of the year's peal ringingl is the drop of 46 in the peals of Grandsire Triples. If this were offset by more peals in more advanced methods it might have been attributed to the progress of the ringers, but the decline is spread through all the grades of ringing and the drop in Grandsire seems to point in some measure to a lack of aspiration on the part of young ringers.

There is, however, another probable contributory cause, and that is that most associations are now holding more meetings and practices than they used to do. This somewhat curtails opportunities for peal ringing, but expands the worl of the ringing organisations, which is really a more important matter. Many other things may, of course, easily make a difference of a hundred or so peals in the aggregate. Even the element of uncertainty attaching to peal ringing might weigh more heavily against the ringers in one year than in another and so affect the total. There is, therefore, no need for pessimism. Peal ringing is bound to have its ups and downs; its good years and its lemer years. At the same time, those twenty-seven associations whose peal totals have dropped during 1928 compared with 1927 might do well to look into the causes of the failing off. If it is lack of interest or enthusiasm, now is the time to try and infuse a little more keenness into the members, because, when all is said and done, it is usually the peal ringers who are most competent as service ringers. Peal ringing, as a rule, not only makes a man a better method ringer, but often a better striker. This advantage whicls peal ringing gives is often overlooked by those who say that peal ringing is of no importance to anyone but those taking part. Unquestionably it is a factor in improving a person's ringing, and, if it does this, it is worth wide encouragement. At present the number of people who take part in peals is small compared with the total number of ringers and the general standard of ringing would be raised if more could be induced to interest, themselves in peal ringing.

DEATH OF LADY RINGER.

LOSS TO THE WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.
It is with deep regref we have to record the death of Miss E. M. Johnsoa, of Hinton, neal Evesham, whicl took place at her home on Saturday, April 27th, at ilse early age of 28 jears. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Johnson, and for several years held an important post in the Income Tax department at Evesham, and later was thansferved to Hereford. At the end of 1925 she was campelled, through failing health, to resign her post and lire an open-air life, which it was hoped would renew her vigour. Alhough her ilness was a lengthy one, ste bore it with great fortitude and checrfulness, and her thoughts were always for others rather than for herself. Although every care and attention was bestowed upon her, she passed away as above stated.

Miss Johnson was a member of the Worcestershire and Districts Association, the St. Martin's Guild, and the Ladies' Guild, and had on many occasions travelled long disiances to be present at the meetings of the latter. She was an adept handbell ringer, and nover happier than when ringing a pair of handibells in a peal. Fer last peal was rumg last Deacmber, and was her SIst, 50 of which were rung with her brother Joseph.
Referring to her death at the Sunday evening service, the Rector, the Rev. V. C. Blythe, said Miss Johnson had a great love for God and His Church. She had been a Sunday School teacher, a member of the Church Council, fun of all whon he had been privileged to visit he had never seen anyone who showed such sincerity and readiness for the last call. The important thing in our life, Jee said, was two-fold-the infuence we leave belind us and the character we take away with us. Nellie Johnson always slowed gentleness, quietness of manner, ability, kiuduess and love, and he loped her influence would bo for the good of all liss hearers.
The funeral took place on Tuesday, April 30th, when the pretty church was filled with mourners and friends. The Rector, the Rev. V. C. Blythe, and the Rev. J. H. Stallard, Vicar of Hallow, officiated. The grave was beautifully lined with flowers, and at the end of the service four of lee very near ringing friends with whom she had rung many haulbell peals rang a course of Grandsire Triples over the grave, viz.: FI. Middleton I-2, J. Hemming 3-4, G. J. Hemming 5-6, J. Hall 7-8. Later, muFted touches and the whole pull and stand wore rung on the tower bells, as a token of respect and esteem in which deceased was held. No less than 45 beautiful foral tributes were sent by relatives and friend, including two from her colleagres from the Evesham and Hereford tax deparments. The greatest sympathy will be exteuded to the bereaved parents and greaty.
The following is a lisi of Miss Jolmson's perls

DEATH OF MR. J. H, BATTING, OF BEACONSFIELD.

It is with deep regref that the Reaconsheld ringers have to an mounce the death of Mr. James H. Batting at the comparatively early age of 53 years. Born at Beaconsfield ju 1875, he had been a member of the local band about 35 years, and for the greater part of that period liad acted in the official capacity of steeplekecper. Fe had been ailing tor some time past, and an operation was found necessary, which was carried out at the King Edward Hospital at Windsor. From this, however, he never rallied, and quietly passed away on April 26th. The interment took place on Wednesday, May Ist, at tho Beaconsfield Cemetery, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. The burial service was impressively conducted by the Rev. R. Wells (Rector of Beaconsfield), and the sympathy of all goes out to the bereaved wife and children in their great-loss.
Mr. Batting's deatil leaves a gap in the lanks of the Beaconsfield ringers which will be hard to fill as he was always at his post for service ringing. He was not a great peal ringer, as he was debarred irom ringing many peals owing to a weakness left by a serious illness which he had some twenty-fire ycars ago. He had, however, trken part in a few peals, including the only local peal on the Beaconsfield bells. He was a very safe ringer in most of the standaria methods, his favourite method for service ringing being Stedman Triples. After the interment the local ringers raug a 504 in this method at the Parish Chumeh with the bells half-mufled: F. W. Buckland 1, Miss K. Fleteler 2, 3iss D. Fletcher 3, #. H. Fletcher 4 , H. Wiugrove $5, \%$. Blackmore 6 , R. Buckland 7 , A. S. Bagley 8 .

side bell for the ringers of the and and 4 th, the latter beine only 12 years of age.

ST. JAMES'. CLERKENWELL

GREAT RINGERS' GATHERING AT OPENING OF BELLS.
A great gailhering of ringers on Snturday altended the meeting of the Middlezex County Association and London Diocesau Guild, arranged in connection with the opening of the new ring of bells, which Meserg. Gillett und Johnston have installed at St. James' Chureh, Clerkenwell. A description of the worls which hus been done was given in oar last issue, and suffice it, now to say the visiting ringers found that ihe hells and the 'go' fully upheld the reputation of the Cruydon firm. An interesting point about the new ring is that they are the first in the city of London tuned on the Simpson principle, which gives them power as well as tone, and the probahility is that someling will have to be done to lessen the sound in the gitreets nround, and possibly to reduce the volume in the ringing chamber itself, Fveryone was extremely plensed with the bells, und the church authorities are to be congratulated upon the successful issue of their big restoration sclieme.
Everyborly was accommodated with a pull during the afternoon or ovening. undel the tower mastership of Mr. William Pye, aud in mil about 120 rinters took part.
A bright service was eonducted by the Vicar (Rev. C. J. Parker), the singing being led by the elooir, and a golo was sung by Miss Dawson. The Vicar gave a most appropriate and thoughtful address.
Subsequently the Vicar und churchwardens entertained the ringers to tea in the crypt of the church. This is now a commodious parish hall, complete with stage and other necessary accommodiation. "'was not blways thus. It is not so long since that it was a vast vault, piled sis feet high, with rotiting cofins and mouldering bones. These were reverently removed and busied elsewbere, and then came a somewnat daring huilding scheme. The huge brick pillars, eight fiest thick, supporting the church overhead, were cut away and the arches supported on girders cerried on stauchions, with the result that there is now i large and well-lighted apartment for parochial
The ringere gathering was presided over by the Vicar, supported by Mrs. Parker, Mr. C. F. Johnston, Mrs, Johnston, his mother, Rev. O. A. Areher and Rer. T. T. Thear (curates), Mr, W. 1'ye (Ringing Masterl, Mr. W. Piekworth (North-East District vice-president), Mr. C. T. Coles thon. socrotary), Mrs. How, Mr. A. J. Duncombe churchwarden). Tea was serped by members of the congregation.
Afterwards a brief business meeting was held, at whicl five now members wore elected, and it was left to the secretary, in conjunc(ion with the district secretaries of the Essex aud Herts Associations, L. 1 arrange the venue of the joint meeting between these threo organisations. There was a spriglitly discussion, howevel', before a derision was come to.

ONE OF THE FINEST PEALS IN JONDON.

Mr. C. T. Coles said they had heard that day perliaps the finest para in London: if it was not the fincst it was not far away from it. t was the dirst peal tumeri on the Simpson principle in the county Surrey, but hat was the first one in London, and he thought that all who fint heard them would say lley were a very fine peal of bolls indeed, and a great eredit to the firm of Gilletf and Jolnston (applauser. They congratulated Mis. Johnston and his staff on a very fine piece of work. Mayy tingers did not like bells hutug on so hung had a tendency to whip back, which resulted in the ringer having to hold the bell, but no one who lad rung on these new hells could fomplain of that. That whe the lirst time he had rung bells on ball bestings which went sa ensily. Many ringers distiked ball learings on bells because, they said, the ringer hat more wory than work. Th this case they could sar there was neilher worry nor work. As regards the tone, they wove a very fine peal of bells, both inside and outside the tower. Oulside, perhapa, they might be improved a little if the lourres were blocked up a littic more. The bells were still yery noisy near the tower, and he loped something might be clone in that respect. Continuing, Mr. Coles thanked the Viear, on bohalf of all present, for inviting thent to that ringers' upening' aud for meeting then iu the very finc style he had done. He wished to couple with that vote of thanks the names of the churchwardens, Mr. Howe and M:. Duncombe, who, with the Vicar', lad given them that excellent teu (applause). For a district meeting, that was $u$ record for their association. On one or two occasions they had had nore at their nunual meeting, but to his know-leage nover at an fistrict meeting. Iher were most grateful to the Virar nund churdwardens for thit kindness (spplause). Mr. Coles ako thanked the ladics of the congregation of St. James' who liad for their help at the service, He tongratulated the Tionr on being tho possessor-almost the sole possessor of this fiae peal of bells. He understnod that St. Tames was one of three churches in the connlry where the halls and other property of the chureh were vested in the Ficar and churchwandens for ever, and even Advisory Boards and Chancellors hat im power other them. He had even hearti it said they could burn the lot down as long as they did not burn the house opposite (laughter). Whetler that was true or uot, it was true that the property of the ehtureh was vested in the Vicar and ehurchwardens, and that the Chancollor had no control Vicar and ehurchwardens, and Ihat the Chancollor hat no control over the belle at all (Inughter), Mr. Coles added that a local haud was to be formed at St. James'. There was already a nucleus from those who remained of a company he had the pleasure of helping a few years ago. They hoped to get some more young nien localiy, and the associatiou would arrange for an instructor. The practice night would be Friday, and he hoped, after a few weeks, when they got going, that other members would come along and assiat ther (applause).

A SHOW JOB.'

Mr. Gyril Johnston seended thio vote of thanks to the Vicar and wardens for their hospitality, He suid a fem yerrs ato there was a popular song that told them, Every cloud lias a silver lining, and in the dedication service last Sunday he seemed to catcla from the Viear a fleeting glance which reflected that sentiment (applause). Proceeding, Mr. Johnston said: Although Lhis is essentially a "bell gathering," I know you all would wish to congratulate him, his wardens and the people of the parish on the successful issue of their magnificent efforts. It is not every Vicar, who, with his wardens, can celebrate at one and the same time the restoration of the organ, the spire, the bells, the ancient registers, the installation of electric light-all at a cost exceeding $£ 3,500$-and then proceed to indulge in the entertainment of a large hody of bellringers. Although we are told that nobody has any money nowadays, the Vicar has given a great lead to other churches, sonie of which have done nothing to their bells for three or four centuries. I ought not to say too much about this, perhaps, because we are contractors. The story of that part of the restoration of St. Iames' for which my firm has heen responsible-thal of the bells-might be summed up in the following short interviow that took place. To put it tergely, I said to the Vicar, "Look here, let's have a show job," Churchwarden How, at his elbow, ejaculated, "Sball us?" and the Viear said "Let's" (laughter). Not only were they anxious to have the last word in modern fittings and musical bells, bat I want to tell you how readily they adopted every, suggestion for improvement of the ringing room and for the ringers' comfort generally. The verdiet has been pronounced very generously by Mr. Coles to-day, and on behalf of myself and my staffi wish to say how much we appreciate what he has said. A bell founder's calling in these days would seem to require many and increasing qualifications. He must be versed in engineering, music, bellwinging, business methode, organisation, finding his way by road to a little village that is not on the map-and now, I am told, in occlesiastical law as well (latoghter). S'T' IAMES' UNUSUAL TRUST.
We work in places that are fuli of interest and historical associations, and not the least of these has been St. James' Church Clerkenwell. This church was velbuiti in 1784, and is, I believe, as Mr. Coles has tald you, one of ouly three churches in the country that have a peculiar constitution. By an Act of George 1II.'s reign, it was vested in the Vicar and wardens as trustees in perpetuity, and 'the property in the bells, pews, seats; books, and ail goods, chattels, and ornaments, in the said new church and churchyard shall also be vested in the said trustces for ever upon the same trust." Our own interest has been a special one, for Mr. Willinm Gillett set up his factory in Clerkenwell a hundred years ago, before we moved to our present site in 1844, and intimate personal associations with the neighbourhood have lasted right down to the present day through the British Horological Fnstitute and the local members of the clockmaking industry. There are, we know, some fingers who do not approve of the progress that has been achievert in this country in the art of tuning bells. I am surc, confinued Mr. Johnston, "that they atre considerably in the mimoritzt, It is have to believe lant anyone with the faintest preiension to possessing a musical enr can prefer a succession of false chords, with no legulat sequence of the falsities. They say they like the good hold tone of predecessors* pattern-well, in our opinion, and in that of the Vicar and wardens, the bells of St. James' were a bold, had lot They have now been given a new lease of life that will be measured probably in centuries, and I trust you will find that they have gainerl nobility of claracler. They were cast or vepast previously at varying dates from 1791 to 1904 , and harefory' no question of antiquity entered into the problem. That rather leads me to refer to the diference of opinion that occurs on occasion luetween some of the ecclesiastical authorities ol socielies with anticuarian interests and the bellfounders, in the mattor of the restoration of cluurcl bells. Is the old wood frame to be nased again?-it has heen here. If a new frame is necessary, should it be of wood or metal? Ought the hells to be recast, or ought they not? How old should a bell be before it either deserves retention in a peal to the musical detriment of the whole, or relegation to a museum? Every oasp ought to be treated on its merits, and I am confident that if Advisory Committees and those interested in the care of churches and church hells would get more in touch with the bellfounders, who have the practical knowledge, difficulties would be removed, olistruction of schemes avoided and satisfaction gained by all parties. In conelud ing, I wank to express onr appreciation of the spirit in which the Virat and wardens have entered into this whole scheme. It is difficult to realise that Mr. Parker has been here as curate or Vicar for 42 years. Surely he must hate taken Holy Orders at that period of his [ife when Mellins Food was his principal nourshment (laughter), I would like to refer to the enthusiasm of our staff nud employes, who have worked with a will in the foundry nuld in the tower to give you of their best, and, last but not least, I want to thank personally Mr. Coles, Messis. Pye and their bend of ringers, who not only rang the peal so successfulty at last Sunday's ceremony, but were good enough fr) give us a trial run on Friday before the great dity. If only we could lake them to every openirg job we have in every part of the world, I feel sure we should sell a wew peal of bells every day (laughter and applause).

The Vicar, in responding, referred with regret to the absence of Ni. How, whe for the last few months had given nime-tenths of his fime to the repairs which had been going on in the church, and it was a great joy to bim to see everything so quickly nearing completion. For himselt, The thanked God they had been enablerl to do this work. With those who let their churches go for century after century wilhoud doing anything, he sympathised very much, becalase he knew the difficulties wicn they had not got the money. In St. James' they had been able to raise the money, but there were so many parishes where they liad not got it. He respected those who declined to incur liabilities if they had no guarantee of being able to pay. In that parish they had a legacy left them just in the nick of time. The bells had not been rung for over two years, because the steeple was not fit. The organ was dropping to bits week by week, and the organist spent more time in the organ repairing it than be did at the keyboard. The money came just in time to justify them putting the work in hand. As far as the hells were cancerned, it was a great gratification to him that they approved of them, and that they lired them. For himself, without any technical knowledge, it had been a great pleasure to listen to the bells. They were of brilliant tone, sad, as far as he had ever heard bells, he knew of none that gave a belter result than these (applause). The Vicar, in conclusion, expressed his pleasure in seeing such a large gathering, and hoped they would have ploasant memories of their wisit. He added his thanks to the ladies who had assisted at the tea.
Following further ringitg, a social evening was spent at the Fictoria Hotel, Charterhouse Strect, and was attelded by Mr. C. F. Johnston, Mr. J. H. R. Freeborn, Mr. Jonea (works manager'), and several others of the foundty staft, besides a large number of association members and friends. Mr. Freeborn acted as M.C., and songs were given hy Miss Dawson (daughter of Mr. G. Dawson, of St. John's, Leytonstone), whose item, 'Ring, Bells, Rimg', was especially appreciated and was asised for a second time; also by Mat. Freeborn, Mr. Dave Wrighl (Croydond, and Mr. G. L. Joyce (Leytonstone) Miss Windsor and Miss Lamb were the accompanists. On handhells, courses of Stedman Caters and Oinques, Cambridge Major, and $\mathfrak{R}$

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. Abert Walker, Deputy Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, has been elected a vice-president of the Birninglam Association of Mechanical Engineers, of the Council of which he has lyeen a member for six years.
That inveterate veteran, James George, las heen at it again. He is $75 \frac{1}{2}$, but on Tuesday of lust week he rang the 11 th at St . Martin's, Birminghan, to a peal of Cinques, and on Saturday put the $49 \frac{1}{2}$ cwi. tenor at Worcester Cathedral through a peal. This kincks the proverlial spots off anything that anyone of his age has ever done before.
A peal it Worcester Cathedral is still a 'man's jobs, despite the magnificent rehanging of the new peal hy Messrs. Tuylor and Ciz. The tower still (metaphorically) wanders all round the cathedral while the bells are ringing (formerly it used to make a wider tour of the whole precincts), and the peal on Saturdny was, without cloubt, one of the greatest performances in Mr. George's wouderful career.
Incidentally the peal at Worcester wns the one hundredth wiich he and Mr. Albert Walker bave rung together.
The peal of Cambridge at Brading, Isle of Wight, on Saturday last, was tho second Surprise peal to be rung on the Island. It is nearly 33 years ago (August 3rd, 1896, that the last Surprise peal was rung lhere. This was Superlative at All Sainis', Ryde, and was conducted by Gearge williams.
The bells of Scorton, Lancs, were cpeach lifty years ago next montl (June 28th, 1879), but the first peal was not rung on them until last Saturday. Messrs. E. Jeunings and W. Robingon, who took part, rang their $25 t h$ peal together; and are the first Westmorland ringers to ring this number together.
A hundred and fifty years ago to-day a peal of 12,240 Bolj Mujor was rung at Branghing, Herts.
"lo-morrow is the anniversary of the record peal of London Surprise Major rung at King's Norton in 1903. The 14,112 changes occupied 8 lurs. $40^{\circ}$ mins., and this is still the longest peal of London jet rung.
A memorable Superlative Surprise periormance took place on May 15ih, 1894, al Loughthorough, when a penj of 8,800 was rung in 6 bre. 16 mims. Canon Coleridge and Diek Lanc are among the survivots.
The ringer of the 9 h in the peal at Black burn on April 27 h has T . T. Bimson and not Buinson, as patblithed last weck. With the peal of Maximus at Liverpool, Mr. Ben Knights has now callex at deal of Kent Treble Bob on six, eight, ten and twelve belis.
The bells of SI. Martin's, Birmingham, will be broadeast an Sunday evening from 7.50 to 8 p.m.
Mr. George Wells, of Deeping Si. James. Lincs, who with his wife has just celebraterl lis goldon wedding, has heen a ringer for 61 years, and is still learning fresh Surprise Minor mothods, and hopos shortly to scare a Surprise peal on a light ring. Enfortunstely, he did not feel equal to standing in the peal arranged in celchration of his wedding jubilee.
Writing with legard to the peal at Henstridge, Somerset, which was claimed to be the first on the bells, Mr. E. F. Creed writes that an peal was rung there on June 3rd, 1911, by Castle Cares nud Ditofeat members of the Batli and Wells Association.
The peal rung at Twickenham on April $27 t h$ was the first by Miss K. M. Bradfora and not by C. H. Brown. It was a twenty-first hirthday compliment to Reginald A. Wegner
Mr. Edwin H. Lewis, who has heen residing at Wishaw, Scotlnate, for a mumer of years, and has hecn general manager of the Ginsgow lron annl Stcel Co., Leri, has now taken up an important position in Lanton as a director of the T'monel Fortland Gement Co.. Lid., and of Messrs. F. L. Smidth and Co, Lutd.
Refore leaving Wishaw, Mr, and Mrs. Lowis were the recipians of numerous parcing gifts, including presenis from the employes of the Glasgow Tron and Steel Co., Ltte., the West of Scotland Irom and Steel Institute's Council, by whom they were entertained to dinner, and the congregatoon of St. Andrew's, Wislatw, of which Mr. Lewis was Rector's warden, lay representative and lay clector.
Later in the year Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will setite at Brasted, Kent, in what is now the Rectory. Mr. Lewis' husiness ties have kept him from any very active part in ringing for stme jears, but we lope he may now be able to find a little more time to join in the arl.
The demands on our space this week by the analyses tables and report luve necessitated holding over a number of reporis and letiers to the editor.

NARROW ESCAPES.

Dear Sir,-I was wery nutuch interested to raad, under 'Belfy Gossip,' of the narrow escape a party of ringers had of losing a pesi of London Surprise Major at Milford-on-Sea. We had axactly the same experience when ringing a peal of Doubles at Dinder. Somerset, on Easter Monday last (recorded in your issue of $A$ pril 12th), the rope of the tenor falling at my feet just as the conductor said 'That's all."-Yours truly, EDWARD J. ROWE.
Stourton, Zeals.
Several other correspondents have writen, telling of ropes breaking after the bells had come routd or when the bells were being lowered after the peal.

CHELMSFORD.

The interest of the Exercise will centre next week upon Chelmsford, where on Monday the Essex Association will celebrate its jubilee and on Tuesday the Central Council will assemble for its annual meeting. Each, in its own way, is an important gathering. The Essex County Association has for fifty years been among the most virile of the territorial organisations, guided by energetic and tactful leaders, with the result that it established and has continua'ly maintained a foremost place in the Exercise. The jubilee celebration will doubtless draw together a big gathering of members and friends, and it is largely as a compliment to the association that the Central Council fixed upon Chelmsford as the venue for this, year's meeting.

The Council seems likely to have quite a full day's sitting on Tuesday. In its agenda are jtems which may make the session a fairly long drawn out one, and one or two of the subjects will doubtless provide interesting debates. Not the least controversial is the Methods Committee's report round which we may expect to get the main arguments in regard to what shall in future be recognised as a peal of Doubles and Minor. If, however, that should fail in this purpose, then the motion in the name of Mr. Whittington should not fail to bring a clash of opposing views. The old standard of a peal on five and six bells has been challenged, and the Council will be asked in the report to recognise a new condition, and, in the motion, to reaffirm the existing standard. The Council, in brief, will be asked whether it will accept in a peal on five or six beils the single extent, or a mediey of extents as the unit of truth.

The whole Exercise is awaiting a decision on this point, and we have no hesitation in saying, despite the claim made by the Methods Committee that their proposal is ' in harmony with the traditions and usage of the Exercise,' and that 'tradition' wili be 'ample safeguard against any excess,' that no step that has ever been taken in regard to fixing the standard of a peal has been so retrogradein its principles as this proposal of the Methods Committee will be if carried. Instead of raising the standard, it will open the door to all sorts of jiggery-pokery by unprincipled conductors-and unprincipled conductors have been known in the Exercise. And for what is the Council asked to do this? To justify the inclusion in the Minor Collection of certain compositions of which, up to now, no one but the composers and the committee have had a good word to say? If in their construction these particular compositions have anything to recommend them, they have the vital disadvantage of introducing a (Continued on page 306.).

principle which can lead, despite all the commitree's assurances, to the introduction of 'fantastic arrangements,' and even the committee could not tell us where the line could be drawn. It is for the Council to draw the line, and we shall be surprised if they do not do it emphatically by ruling out such compositions as the Law James London and Morris arrangement of Doubles.

SHOULD NONCONFORMISTS RING AT CHURCHES ? A SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUT,D DISCUSSION.
In delightful spring weather, the quarterly meeting oi the Dorchester Branch was held at that heauty spot, West, Lulworth, which, as usual, proved a great attraction. The worid-famous Lulworth Cove is close by this old country village, encompassed by hills, and the Cove is one of the most remarkable features of the coast. It is a fairly-like inland sea, almost shut out from the ocean proper, and guarded by two projecting epurs of rock which form the Pillars of Hercules of this miniature Meditorranean.
Two motor coaches brought the majority of the ringers, one starting from Bournemouth and picking up en route a total of thirty. Another bbarting from Weymonth did likewise, and arrived wia Berc Regis with a party of 32 . Botb coaches passed through most of the "Hardy country, and enabled the visitors to sce Lulworth Castle, with its circular towers at enclu augle; the front of the mansion, which is ornamented with heraldic shields and allegorical statues of music; and also Bindon Abbey, a Cistercian monastery founded in 1172.

The bells, a light ring of six, were nvailable from 2.30 p.m., and Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Bob Minor and Kent Treble Bobs were rung. The service, which was fully choral, was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. G. D. Job), aud the Rev. H. L. Phillips (late chairman of the Wimborne Branch) gave a short and excalleat address. Golonel Robson (churchwarden) read the lesson.

Subsequently high tea was served in the Church Hall, where between 80 and 90 ringers and friends sat fiown as the guests of Col, Robson.
A shore business meeting followed. Tr the absence at the chairman (Mr. R. N. Dawes), the Vicar was voted to the chajr. Five new members, including two ladies, were elected.
The Secretary reported he had been in communication with the authorities at Milton Abbey for their summer meeting, and he was pleased to say they could hold it there in June. This anmouncement was reccived with applause, and carried unanimously, no meeting laring been held at Milton for a number of years. The Secretary also called attention to the anwual festival to be held at Bridport on May Ilth, and to further meetings which wroud be leld during the summer at Wyke Regis, Abboisbury and Frampton, with an occrsional practice.
The Rev. C. A. Phillips (hen secrelary, Wimborme Branch) proposed a comprelensive voto of thauks to the Vicar, to Col. Robson (who had provided such a sumptanous fcast), and to the organish and choir. He reminded them that the late Rev. W. P. Schaster, who was Vicar of West Lulworth, was formerly the general secrelary, and had done such good work for the whole Guild. He would have loved to see such a meeting as that.-Mr. Dance secontled, and Mr. Hewlett, endorsing what lad been said, paid a special compliment to Mrs. Ironmonger and her party of ladies who had done so well for such a large gathering.-Both the Vicar aud Col. Rohson replied.
The business being ended, the Vicar calied on Col. Robson to gi Lalk on the subject of Nonconformists taking part in ringing, under the heading of "Unity of the Churches and Ringing.' Col Robson made an eloquent speech, and was listened to with the deepast interest. He took at rery broad view of his subject. He is churchwarden at his ehurch, and a practical riager. Fe said we hat heard a lot of talk of our empty churches and the falling-off of our hellringers, and parishes not able to get ringers to ring the bells. Even at lis own chureh they could only ring three bells. It was - Ding, dong, bell, a shame on the village. Unforiunately, tho doctor had ordeved the Vicar not to ring again. Why should thero not be unity of the churches, and why not have Nonconformists come und ring the bells? The churches belonged to the people Lf clergy could preach in other cinurehes and chapels, why should not ringers fron other denominations ring the bells in the church? Whel recently in Scotland, where ihere was no Cburch of England, he found he could say his prayers in the other clutrcla as well as in his own. In conelusion, he asked, 'Why are we sliort of ringerg?' He knew one thing mas apathy, ant he wrs pleased ihat two of the number who had joined the Guild that day were going to be riggors it his own church.
The Vicar, who followed, said the quostion was a deep one. They must ring the people to church, and they nust make bellringers ont of their churchaen.
Mr. Burton, who agreed with Col. Robson's broatminded view, gaid tliey wanted more of it in the dlurch. He knew one church where Nonconformists lang for the service aud then went to their own chapel to worship. He was a mamber of the choir, as well as a ringer at his ehureh, and sometimes the choir went to the churches of other denominations to assist in the music. Why, therefore, should not ringers of other denominations ring the bells of the church? They rang for God, and not for the claurchpeople only.

Mus. Ironmonger (who was formerly a ringer) said a lacy who used to ring with them was a Nonconformisi, and she eventually got confirned and came to the church und proved an excellent member.

The Rey. H. L. Phillips, Mr. Dance and the secretary (Mr. C. B. Jenningsy took part in the debate, winich proved very interesting. Col. Robson was tiauked fer his talk, and the Vicar. for conducting the metting-

Bradsian (curate of St. Peter's, Woking). The Guildford Diocosau Guild sapecial form of sorvice was used, with the introduction of autable dedicatory prayers. It opened with the singing of Jenim 150, followed the a sholl lesson road by Arehiceacon Irwin, and the Magnifiunt. The congregration stond during the dedication of the bells whieh followed. The Woking Parish Churelt bellingers, followed by the Rev. P. Bralshaw, Adminal T. P. Walker and Mr. F. C. T". Alan (elurchwardeus), Archdencon Inwin, the Bishop of Guildford unt ibe Rev. J. G. Bruec, proceeded to the ringing chamber, where the ropes of the wo now bells were presented to the Bishop by the charchwardens, Aflem the words of rectication andi a pruye What the bells might conlimually eall together faithful people to praise and worship. the ropes were handed to the conductor, and while the Sishop and clergy were returning to the chancel, the bellingers rang " few romuds ou the bells. After the hym, Unchanging God Who livest, the Bishop gave an address, and during the closing bymu, We love the place, 0 God, an oltertory for the bell fund was taken, and amounted to elt 6 s. At the conclusion of the service a Diocesan Guild hand rang 504 Stedman Triples.

THE JUSIIFICATION FOR BELLS

 in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight a lighws for one God.' He suid a church building itself and ali its adjuncls, however great their beauty might be, were only means to ath enes. Thes were to help us to realise the glory of worghip, the benuty of the Divine presence, and the great compelling thought that our very best was all too parr for the worship of the majesty of God. To give less than our very best to His serviee was not only unshould reftere that greal truth. Fet how easy it was withont any morans of grace to forget thaf imd to miss our thances, ant how of ten we dial miss then. We were utways aissing out chances, and lo theught this was particularly buw of our elateh bells. They ought never to be sounded without prayer. He belicved he was speaking Lo many bellengers, ami he would say to them, Don't miss your clanete. Don't ring your bells without praying as yout riag. They may be is voice crying in lise wildemess to those who beat thenthat most wonderful ery, which could fall on human ears, so searchiug nan sa full of appeal: ' Prepare ye the way of the Lord: make straiglu a heghway for our God.' Otherwise, what justification was thwre the thells of the ehurel? It was not the mere music; they mennt something spirituai. Thue bells wier a cali to the hamanara and all who heard to prepare the way of the Lord, and as we liskenta we blould pray that the nessage might go home into life after life nnd soul ufler sont. Never was there a time when the Habit of nublig worship had decayed, sud flecayed very sadly indeed, We shoulal not have so unth to deprecate and deplore, or he anxions over if all of trs, when we heard the bells, prayed, to accompany thert. It was a solemm Lhing, the Rishop arlded. ty come to a service like that. It involved an issue of deeper spirituality and move real moligiun. and it comld not leave them nomfenten, mmored and unchathred.

BIG TEA PARTY

Sulasoquently, the Chureh Hall was filled for a hig tea party, which humberat atwot 220, and inoluded subscribers to the bell fand and The riugers. Admiral Walker presided, and be was supported hy the 13ishop of Cuildiford and Mrs. Greig, Arcldeacan Irwin, Mr. W. Harrisun 1 viru-presideat of the thildford Diocesan Guilit). Major I. H, 13. Husts (Master), Mr. F. C. 7. Manm (churchwarlen), Mr. G.

Milner Walker, J. ま., Mir. Walter C. Ryds, K.C., Mr. Price Willama (chairman of the Urban District Council), Mr. E. A. Young (secretary of the Centrai Council), Mri. A. I. Ryde, Mr. A. A. Hughes (of Messrs. Mears and Stainbanki, Mi. J. S. Goldsmith (secretary of the Guildford Gaild), etc.

After ten, Admiral Walker referred with pleasure to the fact thag the Vicar, Canon Askwith, had got on so splendidly following his illness that ho had actually been able to take part in the dedication service (ajpplause). The Chairman also expressed deep appreciation of the fact that the Bishop had come amongst them to dedicate the bells in the church. They thanked him also far his inspiring address. They now had, he said, a good ring of bells. It was not quite complete, but a ring of eiglit was inliniteiy better than a ring of sis. Referrivg to wisilors that day, Admiral Walker said they had one with them whose father was Bishop Titcomb, who was Vicar of Woking fifty years ago. They also had Mr. Ryde, K.C., who was captain of their old bellringere 30 or 40 years Bgo. Admiral Walker added that Sir Jolm Siman, who formerly resided in the parish, was prevented from attending owing to the general clection. This showed what old associations a parish with heils lad. Sir Joln Simon wae there for about six montlis, and remembered the place mainly on account of the bells.

A CHEERFUL CROWD

The Bishop of Guildfort said a company of bellringers seemed as cheerful a crowd as one could find oneselit with. He had had some vory interesting and chery meetings since he had been Bishop of Guildford, and one that stood out was the great meeting of bellringers at Croydon last year, when ringers from every part of Great Britain galhered in their thousands. More and move he felt that one of the revivals of church life which was mosi welcome and likely to he most powerful, was that among the bellingers. He felt they had a great source of strengtis and a great ministry as important as anty. Therefore, when lue was asked to come to a gathering of that kind he dirl not come with the idea that he was payiug them a compliment of doing them a favour; he came with the utmost possible pleasure and a sense of privilege to slare in the comradeship and fellowship with men who were working together for the sance purpose that he was working, to increase the Kingdom of God. The Bishop added thai he and his wife would go away with a feeling that they had spent a profitable and delightful afternoon and evening in their company (rpplause).

PRESENTATION ' ${ }^{\prime} 0$ ADMIRAL WALKER.
Mr. W. H. Edwards, the secretary of the Woking Parish Church ringers, paid a tribute to Amirgl Walker's work in connection with the new bells. He felt sure they would never have got the new bells without Admiral Walker, and the local band of ringers very much appreciated what he had done (applause)
At the request of Mr. Edwards, the Bishop presented Admiral Walker witls a gold badge in the sorm of a bell as a token of the local ringers' appreciation. The Bishop said the badge was given by the ringers in a spirit of real affection to one who had won respect and regard by the whole-hearted way in which be threw himself into the life of the parish and especially the bellringing (applause) Admiral Walker suitably acknowledged the ringers' kindncss, which, Je said, had taken him 'Hat aback
The Rev. P. Bradshaw woiced the thanks of the assembly to the churelwardens and their wives and the other ladies who had helped in the provision of the tea. He also thanked the local band of ringers for arranging the decorations, especially mentioniog tha miniatme beis langitg over the tables.
Mr. J. S. Goldsmith remiuded the company that the addition of the two treble beils was not the gnd of the schame to restore the Woking bells. It was desired to lape the ather six rehung, and it Admiral Walker was as enthusiastic in this as he had been already this would soon be aceormplished. Admiral Walker wanted more money for the rehauging of the old bells, and among the things he had done to augment the bell fund was to have replica models of the two new bells cast. The beils were suspended over the dables sud they were for sale.

Aflerwards touches were rung on handtalls, much to the interest of those who had seen nothing of the kind before.

The Woking Parish Church bund who rang aturing the dedication Edwards and D. Munday were spare ringers.
Touches on the bells were rung throughout the evening. There were 'rounds" for those who could do nothing more, and the methods ranged up to London Surprise Major.

THE LATE MISS NELLIE JOHNSON

The death of Mis3 Nellio Fohnson makes one think of Frenry Kirke White. Her short life was full of poetry. One rogrets that was not her priwilege aud delight to trave takell part in a peal Stedman in hama. What a happy home circle is broken? loved ber in life; let ng not forget her in death.

If worth, if gelius, to the world are dear
To Nelly's shade devote no common tear.
Her worth on no precarious temure hung;
From genuise piety her sirtues sprung.

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE ALLDER. OF BURNHAM.

A BEOKS PIONEER.
One of the oid South Bucks ringers, who began ringing on the original peal of tive bells in the 'seventies, passed away on Sunday, April 28th, in his 71st year, after a few weeks' confinement to bis house-George Allder, of Rurnham.

The ftoteral took place at St. Mary"s Church on May Day, his childen and friends in attendance, and the service being conducted by the Vicar. There was a iarge display of floral emblems, one in the shape of a bell, with carnations aud laurel leaves, sent by the Rurnham ringers inscribed: "In kindly and grateful remembrance from some of his old friends and fellow-ringers.'
George was ever an outspoken man, in busivess, sport or bellringing. On the foothall field for years his shril], clear voice earned fim the nickname of 'Piper', whin dung to him to the last. He was a clever builder, and never Lesitatied to take on any difficult job below ground or upon a roof, and he would climb about a high roaf without fear like a cat.
For nearly 50 years he has acted as steeplekeeper at St. Peter's fower, and he frequently took out a bad-going bell. He spent many hours ilocroring up the hearings and fittings, thus saving the churchwardens some expense.

He was a member of the College Yauths, the Middlesex Association, and the Oxford Guild, and hat rung peals in most of the standard and Surprise mathods on eight bells. He was also one of the earliest, members of the Berks and Bucks Association of ringers formed in 1878, and took a hand with the writer in the practices at Boysu Hill and Fernham Royal held from 1878 to 1882.

Of a geaterous, impalsive good nature, his death breaks the chain of helf a eentary-round ringing to method, the old school and the new-and his willing and obliging disposition regarding the tower and bells ('his' tower he always callea it) at all times wind bo sadly missed by those who cnjoyed the combined practices there for the past 20 years, when the Surprise metbods were tackled by so many ringers in the Burnlaurs district with suceess.
In the evoning, after the funeral, the local ringing oumpany, with Mr. W. H. Fussell's help, rang two touches with mufled clappers, comucted by the Rev. Percy Nott. Half-pull could not be attempted, but well-struck changes in the same old way that George began his ring with, 'Stoney,' marked his end. It is hoped later to ring a mufled peal for him as a farewell from hig fellow-churchтел.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Central Division was held at Burgess Eisl on Saturday, April 27 th, about forty being present. Einging commenced at 2.45, and continued until 4.30 .

At the service, the Vicar (the Rev. G. F. Beddard) first said that he hoped those present would kindly consider themselves as his guests Fe went on to deliver an eloquent adaress ou the history and ases of bells from the earliest times, tracing their developmenal from the rude wooden instrument which was used in their gtead at the beginaing, and mentioning particularly four principal uses to which the bells of the churcla bave been put for many ages-the stering and pessing bells, the Angelus and the curfew.
A collection on behalf of the Benevolent Fund amounted to 10 .
At the Parish Hall, a capital tea, kindly provided by the Vicar, was greatly appreciated and enjayed. This was followed by the business meeting, the Vicar presiding, aupported by tie Master, Mr. J. Thornton Riekman.

Mr. S. B. Vince, of Lower Becding, and Mr. A. E. Andrews, of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Brighton, were clected new menbers. All the officers of the division were re-elected, viz. : Hon. secretary, A. D. Stone; Committee of Advice, K. Hart, F. Bennett and C. Tyler.

A discussion then arose as to the adivability of arranging combined practices of the whole division. This, the meeting considered, would not be practicable, supporting the view that the grouping together among themselves of adjoining towers for practice would be found more successful.
The halding of divisional meetinga on Wednesdays instead of Saturdays was then discussen, it being decided that one meeting this year should be held on a Wedzesday, as a trial, Mr. Keith Hart kindly ofering to act for the hon. secretary at this meeting.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Rickman proposed a bearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for the serwice and most instruetive address, and for his generaus hospitality, coupling with this the name of the organist. This was entausiastically received, and the Ficar, in his reply, again referred to the great pleasure it had given him to welcame those present.

Ringing was again resumed and continacd until close on vine o'clock, the methods auring the afternoon and evening ranging from Grandsire and Stedman Triples to Superlative Cambridge and Londoa Surprise. The following towers were represonted: Brighton (St. Peter's, St. Nicholas' and the Good Shepherd), Bolney, Burgess Hill, Crawley, Cuckfield, East Grinstead, Koymer, Lindield, Lower Beeding, Seafard, Shoreham and Sauthover (Lewes).

The peal of Stedman Caters at Kings Norton on Saturday was rung on the 26th anmipersary of the record peal of London Surprise at the same church. Mr. Harry Withers, who on the former occasion took down the figures of the peal as rung, on Saturday again appeared from somewhere and presented the band with figures of the composition they bad just completed. On this ocassion he had taken down the sixes of the turning course!
Mr. George Willians asks us to Ehank. his many friends who have sent inim birthduy congratulations and goot wishes.
To-morrow is the anniversary of the 16,608 of Kent Treble Bob Major rung by the Ashton-under-Lyne Soeiety at Mothram-in-Longdandale, Cheshire, on May 18th, 1883. The peal occupied nine hours and forby-eight minutes, and was condueted by Mr. Sam Wood. It is interesting at this date to recall the names of the men who set up the recort of that day, for, in the words of the foatnote to the peal, This is the longest peal ever rung in any method by one set of men. ${ }^{2}$ The vingers were Thomas Moss, James Adams, James Wood, jus., Samuel Wood, Benjamin Broadbent, Joseph Mellor, Gearge Loggden and John Thorp.
Thurstans' famous four-part, still recognised is a 'masterpiece,' was rung for the first time on May 18 th, 1846.
On May 19 th, 1777 , a peal of 11,080 Trebie Bob Royal was rung at Shoreditch by the Colliege Youths.
The South-West tower of York Mingter and its ring of ten bells was destroyed by fire on May 20 th, 1840.
The celebrated 13,054 Stedman Caters at Cheltenham, was rung in 8 luss 16 mims. on May $218 t_{\text {, }}$ 1888. It was conducted by Mr. W. T' Pates, and among those who took part were Rev. C. D. P. Davies and Canon G. F. Caleridge. The late Mr. C. H. Hattersley was also in the peal, and used to say it was the fuest struck peal he ever took part ins.
Next Tuesday is also the anniversury of that wonderful achievement, the 12,675 Stedman Cinques at Southwark, runy by the College Youths in 1923.
Thity years ago next Wednesday was rang the 17,024 Double Norwich Major at Kidlinglon, and the stme day is he anniversary of a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Giles-in-the-Ficlds, London, exactly a hundred years earlier. This was the first peal of Stedman Triples outsido Norwich.
A corrcspondent who has been much interosted in the recent achievenents of Mr. Tames George, would like to ascertain something of the doinga of ringers at line other end of the scale. Who has been the youngest ringer to ring a peal of Grandsire Triplos, Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Treble Bob, or Surprise Major? To publish the names and ages of these youthful ringers might bo an incentive to the juveniles to conquer such tings at a still earlicr age.

JOHN MURRAY HAYES.

RECOLLECTIONS OF A GIANT OF THE EXERCISE
Mr. F. E. Dawe writes: I can quite appreciate and fully conroborate Mr. C. F. Winney's remarks about the peal of Treble Twelve In at St. Saviour's, Southwark, on April 29th, $1884-45$ yoars ago. Mr. Winncy and I botly took part in it, and it was as be describes, a very different proposition in those days, for when a bant was made up it was always agreed to moet at the church ' on the off-chance of the tenor going well'! This was usually expected in dirty weather, when cold, damp, fog and rain prevailed-especially tho two latter.
I have known bands meet there and then not go up, in articipation of a 'rough time.
During the progress of the neal in question (which was a good one), and which Hayes called, there were many anxious looks. All frequently serminised Hayes, and the same thonght must have pervaded the mind of oach of us, 'Can humen being last the time?' He did, and I well remember being the first to spenk to him immediately on aetting the fenor, and his reply was, 'Yes, Frank, I had to Kaep the furnace going at full blast, and very little water in the bailer!'
I think most of our older friende will agree with me in saying thut John Murray Hayes a stonemason by trade, was certainly one of the three or four strongest men in the ringing Exercise during the last 70 years.
I remember him being accosted by some men with a weight-lifting machine by 'Try your strengtin, sir,' and Hayes replied, 'Well, I've been doing that all day.' Whereupon he bad a pull, and the indjcatar went right round the clock face as far as it could go!
Amongst many ather notable performanceg, Muray Hayes rang the tenor to the famous $\mathbf{1 5 , 8 4 0}$ Treble Bob at Bethnal Green 61 yearg ago.

At an necasional convivial gathering it was a rare treat to get him to sing 'Tom Pearce's Old Mare', with a vollicking chorus concerning. "Uncle Tom Cobley and all," which coutd be relied upon to 'bring down the house.'
Yes, 'Jack' Hayes was a good, honest, open-hearted creature, always ready to do a good turn for all, and never cherisking evil thoughts of anyone. I wish more of his calibre existed now. I rang fully 50 peals with him.

SALTSBURY DIOCESAN GUKLD.

GORE MONEY WANTED FOR WAR MEMORIAL
The amual festival of the Salishury Diocesan Guild was held at Bridport (which was revisited after a lapse of 18 years) on Saturday, and was largely attended. A service was held at St. Mary's Parish Church, conducted by the Rev. S. H. Viggars (Rector). The Jessons were read by the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, Kington Magna, Gillingham, hon. sceretary and treasurer of the Guild, and a sermon approprinte to the occasion was preached by the Archdeacon of Sherborne (Bishop Joscelyne), one of the vicc-presidents. Chuvch bells, he said, were as sermons in wrought iron; they summoned the people to higher thoughts and issued a general call to useful siervioe.
A luncheon, attended hy about 160 members and frionds, was served at the Greyhound Hotel. The chair was taken by the Rev. R. Hugh Gumdry, of shroton Rectory, Blandford, Master of the Guild, who was supported by Bishop Joscelyne, the Rev. S. H. Viggars, the Rev. F: Ll. Edwards, Canon Hutehings (Beaminstier), the Rev. C. Carrw Cox, president, West Dorset Branch (Lyme Regis), Messrs. W. S. B. Northover (Bridport), Frank Bugler (Beaminsler), Martin Stewart (Ferndown), and Mr. T. Hervey Beams, hon secretary of the West Dorset Branch. Others present included the Rev. J. C. Phillips (Boumemeuth, the Rev. E. F. H. Lec (Whitechurch Canonicorum), and the Rev. A. B. Hution (Loders)
Luncheon over, the toast of 'The King' was duly honoured.
At the business meeting a statemert of accounts was submitted by the Rev. F. LI، Edwards. It was shown that the balance in hand amounted to ubout $£ 0$. This was reported to be the highest credit balance on record, but the Secretary reminded his hearers that he foresaw heary expenditure in the near fature, and that this money would be all required. Fifty pounds was on deposit, and so earning a small amount by way of interest.-The report was adopied on the praposition of the Rev. C. C. Cox, secouded by Mr. J. B. Benger (Dorehes ter).
On the proposition of Mr. Stewart, the officers were ro-slected en bloc, as under, and thanked for their past services: Master, Rev. R. H. Gundry; hon. secretary and treasurer, Rev. F. Ll. Edwards; hon. assistant secretary, Mr. T. H. Beams; hon. auditors, Rev. A. D H. Allan, Wimbornc, and Mr H. R. Hopkins, Kington Magna.

The Master, returning thanks for his re-election, said He was proud to hold the office he did. He lad been a ringer for ahout 50 years, and ringing was one of the keenest joys of his life. He would gladly continue to do all in his power for the good and welfare of the Guild and its members. He again repeated a previously made appeal to branch secretaries that they should adrise him of their meetings in order that, whenever possible, he might be present. He particularly asked that sueh notice should be given him of the proposed dedication of bells after rehanging or the addition of now hells.
The General Committee was elected as follows: The appointed officers of the Guild and of branches; the Rev. C. Wood, the Rev. A. E. P. Gorringe and Messrs. J. R. Jerram and E. B. Barter

Mr. T. Fervey Beams, presenting a statement of ancounts yelating to the War Memorial Fund, sarif the amount paid in to the hon. treasurer was $£ 120$. In addition they had $£ 3$ 178. in the bank and about $£ 2$ 14s. in hand (the amount laken up in a collection at that dey's service). The expenses incurred - mainly for printingamounterl to $£ 317 \mathrm{~s}$. They were still a long way short of the amount requived, and, although they had till their jubilee year, 1932, in which to raise the balance, it was his fervent hope that every member would do his best to linve the fund completed and done with at the earlics: possible moment. He would not be satisfed until the moncy was raised.
Mr. W. S. B. Northover also deprecated the slow way in which the money was cominy in. It was a debt they owed, not to the Guild, but to the memory of their fellow-members who went down in the war, and he thought it was incumbent upon them to see to it that the money was raised with the least delay. The amount due was about $£ 80$, and he proposed that $£ 30$ of the balance they had in hand as a Guild be voted to the Memorial Fund.

The Master agreed that the money should be raiged as soon as possible, but he queried whether their Guild funds, raised for an aliogether different purpose, could be put to that use. He did not Think it was right or fair to make the memorial a charge upon their funds; that memorial was originally intended to he a personal contritution from the members.
Messra. Edwards and Cox agreed, the latter expressing the hope that the susceptibilities of those members who had not contributed would be touched as a result of the comments made that day. The matter was then allowed to drop.
The proceedings concluded with a vote of thanks to Bishop Joscelyne for his attendance and words of encouragement, to the Rector of Bridport for taking the services for them that day and the use of his church and bells; to Mr. Beems and his local committee for the excellence of their arrangements; to the incumbents of surrounding churches for the use of their bells, and to Mr. Walter Tump, who had so suecessfully maintained his high veputation as a caterer.
Ringing took place during the day at Bridport, Beaminster, Bradpole, Whitechureh, Burton Bradstock, Litton Cheney, Loders, NetherWury, and Symondsbury, where the beils were rung.

trtiro branch hefiting at perranzabiloe
A well-attended meeting of the Truro Branch of tho Diocesan Guitd was held at Perranzabuloe on Saturday, May 11th, when there were about 50 present from Si. Mahe, St. Gluvias, Gwemap, St. Agues, Illogan, Truro Cathedral, and the local band. The hells, nice ring of six, tenor $9 \frac{1}{3} \mathrm{cwt}$, hung last June by Messis. Gillett and Joluston, were raised at 2.30 p.m. nnd kept going until uine o'clock, except during the interval for service and tea.
The service was conducted and the address given by the Rev. Father Boyd (Vicar), the lessons being read by tha Rer: Father shrine (enrate). The Viear took an unusual text, for lie hased his romarks on the words which one ofter sees on a brass plate outside the front door of a house, namely, 'Please do not rilig unless an answer is required.' He said that ringing was an outwnid ceremony for a form of worship, which reguired the combined efforts of a band who should not turn their ringing into a mere paztime.
After tee it was decided to hold the next mecting at St. Gluvias, an invitation having heen received from Mr. Nicholls, who saind his Vicar very mucly wished the next meeting to be held at that place. The last Saturdsy in September was decided upon as the date. It is, however, possible, that an earlier mecting will be arranged during July at $\mathrm{St}_{\mathrm{t}}$. Mabe, to create local interest in the rehaging and augmentation of the present ring of five, which are hung anti-clockwise. The Vicar is quite keen on this project, and the local rimgers are confident that the money would be forthcoming if a start were made. It is thought, therefore, that this would be a good way of supporting the local band in their hope and desire.

NEWBURY BELLS RESTORED  \section*{REDEDICATION SERVICE.}

The rededication of the bells of Newbury Parish Church was perFormed by the Righr Rev. Bishop Shaw on Sunday afternoon, April 28th, when about 700 people artended, including the Mayor and Cor poration of Newbury. The Church Lads' Brigade led the eivic proesession from the Municipal Buildings to the church. The seryice was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. L. R. Majendie). Bishop Shaw gave an interesting address on the use of the bells, remarking that Newbury bells weye recast 125 years ago at the local foundry, Aldbourne, Wilts. The hells have now been recuned aud lung on ball bearings in a steel frame by Messrs. Mears and Stainluank, af Loudon, to whom great credil was due.
About 95 ringers were present from all parts, and were aflerwards entertained to tea in the Parish Room.
The Bishop offered his congratulations to the parisis on aceomplishing its puypose so thoroughly-The Master of the Guild (tho Rer. ©. W. O. Jenkyn) expressed his great sntisfaction at what lad been donc. It was a special feature of this scheme that allhougla the bells had been retued and reliung, their character lat not been destroyed, and they were the same old Newhury bellis-Mr. R. T. Hibbert, secresary of the Guild, spoke of his boylhood ac quantance with Newhury bells, and it was a great delight to hear therm ringing again, and to kuow that they are now safe.
Mr. H. W. Curtis (capiain of the tower) thanked the Rector and the committee for their efforts in raising the fund for cestoration. The collection on belalf of the hells fund amounted to 512 10s. 9 d . The Rector said the collection would now clear the devi of restoration, and thanked Mr. A. A. Hughes for the splendid work his firm had doue.-Mr. Hughes suitahly responded. The bolls were kept going in the evening until nine o'clock.

WHAT SHALL CONSTITUTE A PEAL.

To the Editor

Di-al Sirs, I have read wilh much interest the Methods Commitr Lu's Repurt and your leadiniz antiele and the other cor'espondence whith hat followed it. With a great deal of the report and of Mr. Trrollope's letter in your jastue of May 3rd, I agree, but there are otne or two points on whinh my views differ very considerably from thoae of the Mefhods Commiltec, aud as I know that I am by no tiotirie alone in my opinions, $\bar{E}$ would like to try and express some of thom liere, in ordor that the Ekercise, and particularly those memJovs of the Central Council who have to clecide what is to be donc atront it on Whit Tueadny, muy have both sides of tho question hefare them.
Pringt of ell, let me say that I do not want to take up an extreme viow and refuce to listen to any arguments that do not agree with I readily admit that the whole husiness is a most compliested prowlem, had that many ronsornble argumenns can be, and bave beron, pat forward on both sides. But it must also be said that a lot of aureasomable arguments lave also appearad, and that there, has twen (as someone has ahready said) "nuch mudeled thinking' on the subject. It has been my sim and object in expressing my viows to fade the facts and to follow them out to thoir logical and reasomable conelusioni.
I have said in these columus that 1 value and respect the opinions of Mr. Law Tames, and I shy the seme of lis two colleagues on the Hrelhods Committee, bul I camnot remain blind to the fact that their collceted wiews (as expreesed in the, report and in their individund lottenss would bear much more weight with the Exercise aun the Central Conncil if they showed a little more sigu of conaund the Central Comeil if they showed a bittle more sigu of consistency. In the issuto of May Jod there nue laid out before us four definte examples of occasions on which niembers of the Methods Coramittee buve flatly contradicted each other, aud in some cases thurmelves as well. This is not by any means a complete list of their contradietory statements, and I would like to mention just one or two more. The Report silys: Thus elaith has been made that this arangement (i.e., Mr. Bankes James Canbridge Minor') does really consist of soven true and complete extents on the grounds that if We count rounds at the start there are 780 true rows, then another 720, etc. We cannot necept this as sound aldement. ${ }^{3}$ Nor can I! Hun who war it that made this claima? Was it not the Rev. H. Law Jrmes limself, who half a ooluma lown down signs the report that cuntains this statement? If anyone doubts this, I ask hims to look at the issue for January $18 t h$, pago 41 , and read the second para-of the seven is true and complete. Mo. Law James can hardly deny thal he has heen the chief advocate of counting rounds (in certain consesy ns tha first row of a tow or peal and not the last. When I wsked hims to reconcile this poliey with the Central Council's rule Hhal. 'a penl must start from and end with rounds,' he replied (at Ulu: second dime of askingi that it was a natural law which cannot bre altered, And mow the Roport sells us that it is contrary to the brealtered." And now the Roport eells us that "it is contrary to the Lrutition and usage of the Exercise, and contrary to the nature of change finging, to count founds at the start as a change.

I have said that I agrec with it great deal of the Report. I cerlainly ague with its producers in hoping that the Council will accopl the Bankes James arrangement of Cambridge as a true perfortanace. A lot has been writtesn about 'juggling with truth, and Ithe meaning of true and complete, ele. Surely, a great dent of 1his is invelevant to the main issua. The point the Exercise is trying to redide is not whether nuy indiwidual 720 (or sequence of 780 's) is Ine and complete or noti but what it is going bo acecpt as a true [miformanoe, so that then if can hriug its rules into line with this. I haink hat we must all agree with the Methods Committec in rigarding the Bankes Janes artangement as made up of two round blocks of 2,160 changes and one ardnary 720. If if is going to stand, It is in their next point that $j$ difer so entirely from the wiew exmrosed in the repot, which says the do not consider it of any parLicular importance that this block appears so nearly to consist of Lthem true and completo extents." That is where I, and I believe a greal many others with me, disagree entirely. The leadiug article on April 26th suggested that the committee wanted the Central Canncil to admit as a peal of Minor any composition in which each wi the 720 rows appears seven times, to matter in what ardm, and this desire was denied by Mr. Trollope in the next jssue. Now J do but wish to read into the Report anything that is not there, but I the honostly think that the writer of the leading article was to a certuin extent justitied. It certainly uppears that the committee advoeate allowing a certain amount of scope ith the arranging of the hlork of 2,160 changes, provided that each of the 720 rows appears thow timns. They partictlarly say thut they consiner the fact that in Mir. Hankes James arrangement the 2,160 is so mearly three successive true 720's of no importance. This is whore I think the nojority 1) the Exercise will [ind it so laral to agree with the commitfee. Now ] have advocated letting in this compositiou as an exception, whith cmbndies this. I am aware thet this is an original aud per finps hold, policy to put forward, lnat them is really a great deal to he shit for it, and $I$ do urgo the Exertise tor consider it. After all, it is an exceptional case. Time, practice, and experience have proved Lhis. The awangecnent is habitually rung to Cambridge Minor, but not (to my knowledge) to Kent or Plain Bob. Why? Surely be cause there is a nead for it in Cambridge, and not in the other cases. I ask those who think decply about this matter to consider very seriously this quetion, and I want to lay, great emphasis on it: Is it a reasonable thing to alter the whole basis of five and six beli peals for the sake of one (or, if you like to include Mr. Mortis ${ }^{1}$ Doubles, two) compositions? Some people may say that there are other compositions at stake as well, hat I would remind thern that practically evcryone who lias expressed his views ou this subject, not excluding the members of the Methods Committee, have, when it has come to arguing in detail, gone straight to Mr. Bankes James' peal of Cambridge Minor
In the policy which I put forward in my last letter I would, how ever, like to make a slight modification, and that is, substitute for suggested resolution (iv.), 'That in the case of Treble . Bob methods in which not more than one (or 4, or 7 ; I leave this important point for the consideration of others) essentially different 720's are obtainable, a round block of 2,160 changes may be substituted for any thee successive 720 's, provided that this blook consists of three hlocks of 719 true changes joined together by the three mombers of tho missing $Q$ set.'

I subruit that this is a reasonable and logical litic of action to take und that it satisfies the desive of tha majority of the rank and file of the Exercise, which is to admit the Bankes James arrangement of Cambridge Minor and exactly similar compositions without opening the door to all kinds of peals of Minor in whicln we may substitute for three 720 's a block of 2,160 contanining all sorls of repetitions, provided that each row only appears three times. Whether this latter is really what the Methods Commiltee want the Exercise to allow or not, I do not know, but in spite of Mr. Trollope's contradiction of this in his last letter, jt is certainly what they appear to advocate in the Report.
I nm aware that this letter contains a certain amount of adverso criticism of the members of the Methods Committee. May I repeat, in couclusion, that 1 respect all that they have written, and agree with a great deal of it, and thai what I have written has becn no unfriendly spirit, but becruse I feel very strongly that that part of the policy which they appenr to adrocate, which I have dealt with ahove, is not in the best interests of the Exercise. - Yours, ete.

ROUNDS " FIRST OR LAST?

Dear Sir,-Wilh refermee to Mr. Savern's letter in your issue April 26th, I am sorry to note that he seems deliberatoly to liave misquated me. I think that my letter of April 12th could nat have been plainer, on two points at least

First, that a peal .. shall COMMENCE and ent with rounds OF majorify ' in that rounds shall be the as hough I hawe jointed hi majority' in that rounds shall be the 'JAST ROW OR CHANGE
You will excuse the capitals; they would appear to be necessary.
Secondly that I did not wish to quofe a majory Secondly, that I did not wish to quote a 'majority." I have no right to speak for anybody bat myself in letters which appear over my name; the views of the Leytonstone company would be ex prossed over the siguature of its hon. secretary, and not through one of its members. And, unless the opinions of a very goodly number of ringers have personally been canvassed by Mr. Severn, ho, too has no right to talk of 'majorities.' My letter of April 12th sain this iu a gentler way
I wrote therein of 501 opinions. I will go further, and say that is doubtful if Mr. Severn could name five men who have given him a perfectly logical reason as to why the Bankes James fivo thousand of Cambridge Minor should be considored false. A num ber object to it because the extents do not run round; others becatise it does not conform to the existing rule that a peal shall com menco FROM ROUNDS. Mr. Severt says this 'from' is immaterial to him. Quite! It is the basis of his objection to the pesl.
We all have our different opinions, and none of us is more con rect than another in a case of this description. We (in the form the Central Council-bless ems have got to agree as to which shall be considered correct, and no talk of falsity on a split straw will help to decide the question. The peal has come, and, I hope, to stay, but if the Central Council decide otherwise, sensible men will abide by its decision. Personnljy, I hope it will decide for the Cam bridge and any others similarly constructed, and against the London allhough I must admit the truth of Mr. Drake's past arguments on the question of 'splicing' as applied to the latter. 1 am not going to endeavour to justify my inconsistency in supporting extents in spliced methods, while I am against peals in spliced extents. I can not!

I ani obliged by Mr. Severn's kindly advice on enducting Lon don, out of his experience of forty years. This I shall carefully note. He has, however, missed my point with regard to the settin out of his ligures; but, as I said, it was merely a pifling oxamplo of following tradition, and it is not worth further explanation.
Writing of Loudon, I wonder if Mr. Severn would object to my ringitg this method with 164235 as a plain lead-end, with second'splace boks-would the 730 be 'legitimate'? Or would his doughty champion (Mr. W. Willson) describe it as an abortion, a monstrosity, or a what not? In miy meagre exjuerience of [our-TEEN تinort rearb [ have rung the extent many times-legitimately!

I object to Mr. Drake's dofinite statement that a method must be varied hy two kinds of call only. The 22-Surprise-method peal rung at Chigwell (which, Mr. Severn may recall, I had the honour to couduct) contained calls that were neither bobs nor singles; but 1 do not think Mr. Drale means us to take him too literally in this respect. Yours faithfully, 81, Salisbury Avenue, Barking, Essex.

A DERINTHE IINE.

Dear Siv,-In their report, the committee seem to bave made out their case and put it clearly before us so that we can vote on it, yes or no, quite easily.
With regard to your article on it, when you say there should be no juggling with truth,' this does not seem a very happy use of words: whereas when you say iu the same sentence that wo have ta lecide whether to "insist upon line extent of a mathod as being the anit of trublh; you seem to have cxpressed the matter very happily. To me they seem to the an unpleasant way and a pleasant way of saying the same thing-not, as you put it, opposite things. At any rate, to ring move than a single six-scorc, or a single 720 , is to repeat lows, and if we call such lenetlis in peal, we are juggling with iruth-most entafnly-although it is not a nice way of putting it.
At the same time, I do not like the constant repefition of the appeal to the tradfion and usage of the Exercise. Our forefathera, it would seem, deliberately refused to have amything to do with splicing. lit two methods were to be rung together they made thern into a combination or 'Union,' and rang them as a new method from begiming to end. The practice of splicing has grown up in The last iwenty yedrs, and is a new thing, and we med not pretend that it las anything to do with the taditions and usage of the Eizercise. It is beiter to face the fact that it has not, and that heing a new thing it requires new regulations.
Theoretically I wauld support those who object to "juggling with Irutly and those who would "scrap the lot.' But in practice I am nfraid $I$ have not the courage of my opinions, and dare not lay such a proposition before the Council. I will challenge those who speak so boldy on this matter to table such a proposition, and I will stuport it. But it must be muderstoon that "no jaggling with ruth monas that no pers of Doubles must excced 120 changes, and nowe of Minor shall exeed 720. Also that serap the lot" makes all splicing illogal. For if we ate to favaur one kind only, the splicing of extents must come before the splicing of methods.
The conclusion of the whole matter is this. The Methods Conmittee bave drawn a defnite line and given their reasons for it we may not agree with that line, but at any rate their opponents have irawn no delinite line. They are not yet agreed where the fine should he drawn, and they lave given no rensons for their objections. All fhey say is that one does not like this, and another does not like that. This will not do. Either we must liave a definite line drawn somewhere, and reasons given that we call all work on, or we mast tate one of the two axtremes, of absolute truth, or absolute variety.

HERBERT DRAKE.

THE FINAL JUDGES.

Dear Sir,-t have ead with interest the report of the Methods Committee that is to be sulbmitted for debate at the coming meeting of the Gentral Council. In the meantime, however, I would like to and a few personal commenta in the shape of a brief summary have oedurred, as "the trend of opimion" has forced the leading eritice to repudiate thair original contentions and subordinate to the irreconcilable truths revealed in reasoned argument.
Most of your readers are aware that primarily an attack was made upon my arragenent of Grandare Doubles. This, the crition sought in discomatenance, but at the same time still continue to recognised the Rer. E. B. James arrangement of Cambridge S. Minor 1 replied in the issue of 'The Ringing World, oan Decemher 14 in last, pointing out the inrationality of such arginment, quoting the ruling of the Central Council which requires tiat on all nambera of balls a trite peal shall in all cases start from and ead with rounds.
The crities, then tealising the futility of their argument, continued by edmitting thet even Mr. James' Cambridge Minar was threatened' with expunction. I contend that, if the rule guoted thove he adlered to, not only Mr. Aames' Cambridge, but most decidedly all arrangements in this category must be dealt with alike. Incidentally, the uriticisn comes from exponents of the art whosp activities are not limited to the marrow margin of exploration open to the five-bell ringer, and under these eireumstances a large numbet of the Exercise (particularly the five-bell ringers), will echo Mr. J. T. Dyke'a sound query, 'If you mast destroy, what are you going to subetitute?
As the committee aptly remark in their report, it is the five and six hell ringers who must be finm judges in this matter, and, ix (Continued in next columin.)

BARNSLEY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION
A monthly meeting was held at Shelley on Saturday, May Ilth. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m., and the local men were prenent int force to welcome one and all. Members atiendert from Wath, Felkirk, Royston, Penislone, Huddersfield and Elland. Tea was enjoyed at the local inn. Mr. A. Nash (president) presided at the business meeting.
The coming Contral Council meeting failed to attract a delegate. A summer "rally: was voted out for this year, and the Hoylandswaine Cup contest, to he held on June $15 t h$, will do away with a monthly meeting and allow full and free endeavour at that annmal cvent.

The Secretary (Mr. C. D. Potter) sprang a surprise on the meeting by stating that Dr. Horne, Old Hall, Shelley, having been tala of the high position leed by shelley ringers in the association in winning the shield twice in succession, and oiluerwise standing hirh in the estimation of the association and charchpeople, he desired to entertain them to a dimer. This was accepted with delight, and the secretary was requested to write to Dr. Horne, thanking him for the honour.
A vote of thanks was umanimously passed to ilhe Vicar, churchwardens and local ringers for the splendid arrangements made for the meeting. Further ringing followed at Shelley and Kirkburton, and completed a bappy meeting.

Staserton is a pretty village on the banks of the River Dark, a few miles from Totnes. The tit-bit of the evelaing was a well-struck totach of Kent Trehie Bob Minor, which was favaurably commented upon, and which delighted the Vicar. Some of the visitors also wended their way to Dartington on their retura home, and rang Girandsire and Stedman Dubbles.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION'S JUBILEE.

Founded on Whit-Monday, 1879, the Essex County Association celebrated its jubilee this week, and the large and enthusiastic gathering which assembled at Chelmsford on Monday was a striking testimony to the continued vitality of the organisation after an existence of fifty years. The association was established at a time when belfry standards were at a low ebb-change ringing was practised at comparatively few churches, the conditions in many towers were little short of a disgrace and the status of ringers generally was about on a par with the neglected state of the belfries. It was in the seventies that the spirit of reform began to reveal itself-a spirit which, once it became manifest, spread rapidly in the course of a couple of decades. Led by a few earnest clergy and ringers who realised the responsibilities and the possibilities of their office, the movement quickly gripped the imagination of thinking men in the Exercise and the outcome was the modern county and diocesan associations which we have to-day.
It was uphill work, however, in those early years, and it was not all ringers, nor all clergy, who welcomed the reforming zeal of the new organisations. That such a movement was necessary is plain from a statement of the objects of the Essex Association set out in Church Bells, in referring to the first anniversary meeting. 'The object of the association,' it said, "is not only to cultivate and improve ringing and to rescue our belfries from the state of neglect into which they have very generally fallen, but to make ringers feel that we look upon them as heipers in Church work and, by associating with them in these friendly meetings, raise their tone of self respect and thus promote order, moral tone and reverence in belfries and in the service of the bells.' We have gone a very long way since those days and, speaking generally, we can say that the objects for which these associations set out fifty years ago have been very largely accomplished. The practice of change ringing has been put upon a vastly wider basis; neglect has been swept away from the majority of our towers-if unhappy examples can still be pointed to they are the more striking because of the vast improvement which has been generally effectedwhile most complete of all has been the uplift in the moral tone in the belfries, the reverent observance of the belfry as part of the Church and the recognition of the ringers' office as a department of church work.

The reforms which have been accomplished were not, however, the work of a day or a year. They have required steady and persistent effort, and some honoured (Continued on page 322.)

names stand out among those who have helped the Essex Association to achieve what has been done in that county. The Rev. J. B. Seaman, the actual founder and first secretary, is perhaps not so well recollected, although he was the pioneer, but the Rev. H. A. Cockey, who succeeded him, the Rev. T. L. Papilion, who followed Mr . Cockey, and the Rev. H. T. W. Eyre, who was fourth in the line of secretaries, are all remembered for their labours and their cntlusiasm. None of these have been spared to share in the celebration of the jubilee of the association, but there is still in office one who for twenty years has, with unselfish devotion, laboured in the interests of the organisation. Mr. Charles H. Howard sticceeded Canon Papilion as Master in 1909, and the energy and enthusiasm he has displayed in promoting the welfare of the association is immeasurable. He has won the admiration and esteem of its members, and smail wonder is it, therefore, that on Monday they marked their appreciation of his long and faithful service with a tangible expression of their thanks. The officers of the Essex Association to-day are carrying on with complete success the work begun by their predecessors, and while the association can command the services of such men the objects for which it exists are never likely to suffer.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

PROPOSAL TO PRIN'I A COMPREHENSIVE REPORT
The &naual meeting at Jincoln on "Fair Saturday" was the most succefsful one held since ringing at the Cathedral tower was stopped some yearz ago awing to the dangerous state of the fabric. Happily this slate of things exists no longer, and the full peal of twelve bells was opennd hy the Guild on December 15th last. With such an attraction, a larger attendance was assured, and visitors from as far afteld at Sheffeld and Birminglam were in evidence. By Kind permission of He Dean and Chapter the hells were ayailable earlier fihan in former years, and from 1.45 until 3.30 the ringing chamber was crowded. Many also took the opportunity of climbing the tower to inspect and admire the unigue intemal arrangements. Nothing has been omitled to render these as perfect as possible. The lower parts of the lourres have been blocked up, and the only exit for the sound of the bells is wear the top of tite tower. An ample opening in the roof itself has also been provided. The tower might well be an oulstanding example for arelitects, and, indeed, for any person or body of persons who have anything to do with the installation of a peal of hells. The sound of this heautiful peal can be heard at long distances in the cily and the surrounding country, and yet in the immediale vicinity is so pleasantly soft and melodious that residents who formerly suffered greatly from the clanging and vibration now say that they actually look forward with pleasure to the ringing of the bells.
Al the close of the afternoon's ringing a well-attended service was hell in the morning chapel, when the address was given by the Very Rev. the Dean of Lincoln. A large company sat down to tea at the Co-pperative Hall, and the business meeting immediately fol lowerl, the Dear of Lincoln taking the chair
The officers were all unanimously re-clected, namely: President, the Jean of Lincoln: Master, Rev. H. Law James; hon. gecretary, Mr F. W. Stokes; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. F. Linley.

In hanking the meeting for their re-election, the Rev. H. Law rames and Mr. Linley both referred to their long connection with the Guild, ever since its formation 30 years ago. They congratulated dite Gaih on the great progress that has been made during that time, and emphasised the fact that whereas in 1899 there wero only two or three cantres where change ringing was practised, now the art hind gpread practically to all parts of the diocese. The Master especially referred to the great achievement of the past pear, namely, the accomplishment of the peal of London Surprise Major at Washinghorougli in December last, the first for the Guild, and the first peal in the method lyy all the band.
The most imporiand matier before the meeting was the consideration of tho proposal to print a large report for next year, to include lists of menlwers' names under the respective towers, and other matber which whs deleted after the war on account of the great expense of printing. Aiter somo discussion a resolution was passed autiolising a committee (formed of representative members from cuch branch to meet and investigate the whole matter, with power to docide the form in which the next Report slall be issued.

Aftor the mepting, the towers of the Cathedral and the two six-bell towers (St: Fatolph's and St. Peter-at-Gowt's) were again visited. Naturally the Cathetial was again the centre of attraction, and a Farioby of mellanda were rung on the twelve, as well as a fine course of Cambridge Royal on the ten ane a well-struck touch of London Surprige on the maguificent back eigh

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.  NORTH BRADLEY CHURCF AND BEELS

The mouthly meeting of the Derizes Branch was held at St. Nicholas' Churct, North Bradley, on Saturday, May 4th. Ringing commenced about $2,30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$., and sarvico was afterpards hedd, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. D. F. O. Poulter). The lesson was read by the chairman of the branch (Mr. C. D. Heginbothana), and Mr. Wheeler was organist. Tea followed, after which a short business meeting was held, Mr. C. D. Heginbothom presiding. The Chairman extended a welcome to Mr. Coward, of Mere, Wilts, Mr. Woodroffe, of Stratton, and Mr. Knapp, of Swindon, and congratulated Mr. S. J. Hector on his first peal of Superlative. He also referred to the death of Mr. J. D. Roberts, the respected organist of Seend Parish Ghurch, who was a great friend of the ringers, and was alyays pleased to welcome the brancl to Seend.-Those present stood in silence as a token of respect.
In proposing a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and conducting the service, he referred to the Vicar's leaving, and on behalf of the branch wished him 'God-speed.' The Chairman also thanked the organist, and those who prepared the tea. -The Vicar suitably replied.
The annual Report of the Guild was handed to those present. Ringers, including those mentioned, were present from North Bradley, Bratton, Dewizes, St. Joln's and St. Mery's, Holt, Trowbridge and Rowde, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Plain Bob were rung during the afternoon and evening. Canbridge Minor was also attempted.
The church at North Bradley was formerly attached to the Monastic Church at Edington. It consiats of clerestoried nave and aisles and two chapels. In the filteenth century the church was lymodelled, the clerestory added to the nave, the north chapel erected, and the chancel aisles, porch and tower rebuilt. Both north and south chepels retain their ancient roofs. The octagonal font is a Fery fine one, of Perpendicular date, having the symbols of the four Evangelists, and the instruments of tho Passion carved upon it. The tower, too, is worthy of Somerset. One wonders if John Stafiord, Arclibishop of Canterbury, whose family lived at Southwick Court, and who was, before his translation, Bishop of Bath and Wells (temp. Heary Vi.) haring anything to do with the rebuilding. He certainly built the north chapel, because it contains the tomb of his mother, Emma (d. 1;46).
There are six bells. The tenor, approximately 14 owt. (cast by Tohn Wallis), has the inscripion, 'Praysed be Thy Name, o Lord. I. W. 1591.' The front five bells were cast by Thomas Bitbic, of Ohew Stoke, Somerget, in 1748 , the fifth having the fnscription, "Mr. Iames Werratt and Mr. Thomas Pepler, Clurchwardens, 1748. T. Bilhie Fecit.'
A brass plate in the ringing chamber records that they were reLondon, in 1895, it the cost of $£ 160$.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The spring meeting of the Tonbridge Distriat was held at Cranbrook on Salurday, May 11th, and was attended by uearly 50 members. The heavy gaing of the bells was not conducive to good striking, but good practice was obtained in methods ranging from Grandsire Triples to Cambridre Major. The young band that Mr. F. White has formed siso had good practice in rounds, and received valuable hints from nembers as to managing their bells.
The usual service was condacted by the Yicar (Rer. H. T. C. Swingler), who is an hon. member, assisted by the eutate (who is learning to ring'. Mr. W. E. Pibman, of Canterbury, presided at Lhe organ, and the Yiear gave an exccllent address. Capt. E. R. W. Lewis (one of the churchwardens) was also present at the service. Tea was partaken of in the Parisin Room, followed by the business meeting, the Vicar presiding, supported by Capt. Lewis, Mr. F. White, etc.-Over a dazen new practising nienbers were elected, including the newly-formed local band, and Gapt. Lew is was slected an hon. micmber.
The District Secretamy announced that the next meeting would be held towards the end of July at Westorham Totes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service, and presiding fit the meeting, toMr. Pitman for his services at the organ, fand to Mr. T. White for making the arrangements, and to Capt. Euwis for his attendadee. and replied to, and the menbers adjommed to the tower.

BISHOP WITNESSES RINGING

The Lord Bishop of Sherborne preached at evensong at Brattou, Wilts, on Sunday, May 5th, aud after the service visited the ringing chamber, where he shook hands with all the ringers, saying it was a grent pleasure to wisit the chuth at which his old school friend wat Vicar. His lordship lemained while the ringers rang 120 of Stedman Doubles, after which, at the request of the Ficar (the Rer. S. Collett), le gave his blessing.

A mecting of the Andover District was held at Amport on Saturday, May 4 th, when 18 members were present from Andover, Eighclere, King's Somborne, St. Mary Bourne, North Stoneham, Woolton Fill and Winchester, with a very welcome visitor from Swindon. During the aftemoon and evening good use was made of the ring of six bells, touches of Grandsire, Bob and Stedman Doubles, Bob athd Kont Treble Bob Minov being rung.
A splendid ter was enjoyed in the Church Hut, and the business meating followed. The Vicar of Amport, who was voted to the chair, metended a hearty welcome to the Guild. Ee said that lie was sorry that his own ringers were not present, but in the near future he hoped that they would take their place in the fellowship of the Guild.
It was recided to hold meetings at Laverstoke on June 29th and Andover on October 5 th , also a combined practite at Andover on Juce 12th.

During the evening a party went over to Thruxton and ramg various touches of Doubles on the old ring of five bells, which bady need the attention of a bell lianger.

A. JOINT MEETING IN SURREY

A joint meeting of the North-West Brancin of tho Surrey Association and the Leatheriead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Ewell on Saturday, but the attendance proved disappointing, only twenty-one ringers being present. The following towers were represented: Craydon (St. John's), Ewell, Woking, LeatherLead, Ealing (Chist Church), St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, St. Margaret's, Westminster, Guildford (Cailedual), Dorking, Banstead, Mitcham (Parish Church), 'Balham-in-l'beFields,' 'Beddington Cathedral,' 'House of Commons Cluwech," and "Chelsea Abbey.' The Leatherliead District secretary would be glad to know something regarding the situation of the four iast-mamed, ba he has only a hazy notion as to their whereabouts. The almost tatal absence of ringers from the locality was commented upon, no members being present from either of the Epsom towers. Riuging commenced on the nice peal of eight at St. Mary's Church at 4 p.ra., and was continued after the tea.

The service was ceuducted by the Vicar of Ewell, the Rev. E. C. Usherwood, who, after welcoming the members to his church, proceeded to give an interesting addrees on the uses of church bells, and reminded his hearers that they were primarily a call to prayer.
A bountiful tea was partaken of in the Charch Room, the Vica: presiding. The tea was so hountiful in fact, that in spite of the presence of cerlain members who have notorfously large appetites, plenty remsined after all hank been safisfich
This being a friendly meeting, in business was transacted, but the Leatherhead District Sccrotary (Mr. A. R. Pink) called for a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his interesting address and for his presence amongst them that evening, to the organist who kindly stepped into the breach at the last minute, to all those who had waited upon them at the table, and to Mr. C. E. Read, of Ewell, for making all the necessary arrangements. This was carrict with acciamation, and the Vicar said how pleased he was to be present, and hoped to listen afterwards to their firther efforts on the bells.
With regard to the ringing done during the day, although numbers were few, the standard was high. The neeting opened with a course of London Surprise, which augured well for that which was to come. Other methods rung were Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwieh, Superlative Cambridge and Bristol, Much attention was devoted to "splicing,' and touches of 'spliced" ineluded Grandsire und Stedman, London and Cambridge, Superlative and Cambridge, several members ringiug their first touches of 'spliced, methods. Ringing was kept up till 9 p.m., when the members departed to their other 'duties, linving voted the meating is success, despite the small attendance.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Oxford Diocesan Guild has now over two lunded towers affliated, and over two thousand members.
The opening of the belis at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Sydney, Australia, took place on May 27th, 1862.
It was on May 28th, 1787, that the first peal of Stedman Caters was rung. This was hy the College Youtts at Horsley Down, London, and last year the same camposition was rung by the society.
Next Tuesday is also the anniversary of the Bristol Surprise record $(15,264)$ rung in 9 hrs. 49 mins, at Hornchurch, Esecx, in 1912.
The same date is the annivergary of the first Surprise peal rung out of England-Superlative Surprise Major at Bray, Irelaud.
The first Surprise peal in Wales was ruas the next day (New Carsbridge at Bangor), after the ringing of the only peal ever rung on the sea (Stedman Caters), which was accomplished during tho orossing between Dublin and Holyhead. It is not ofien that three peals of such historic interest are rung in two days. Therc are four men ringing to-day who took part in all three of these peals, which were rung in the year 1901.
His many ringing friends will join in congratulating Br. Fred Chamberlain, of Cardiff, on conducting his first peal since his serious accident three years ago last February. As Mr. Chamberlain lad to stani throughout practically on one leg, his pluck will be greatly admired. It is a triumph over severe disability. Incidentaily it may be meationed that the peal was the first of Stecman Gaters by all the band and by resident ringers of the Llandadi and Monmouth Association.

SHOULD NONCONFORMISTS RING AT CHURCHES.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir, I havo read with unch interest that point in your eurrent number. Though I am the son of a colonel, who was a great churchman, I entirely agree with Colonel Robson in admititing Nonconformists to take a rope. This is a day of much trlk ahout reurtion of Christimus. Why not take this small step towards it? Some say that Nonconformists separated from the Church; if so, there are faults on both sides. Is it not our place to hold out a friendly hand? Lot any readers who love their Binles read, for instance, Paul's Gust epistle to the Corinthians. They meed go no further than the first chapter, especially the thind verse, to see the trooadness of Paul's mind. Let us take a hint from that.- Fours tively,
W. F. PITMAN.

GIFTS TO MARSDEN BELFRY,

To the Elitor.
Dear Sir, As captain of the Marsden Parish Churef belludugers I have just received four certificates of membership, two framed, one of which is an ergraving by Bartaloani (the College Youths' certificato) and several works on bellringing and numerous copies of peals. These were articles that our late friend, Mr. Joseph Edwin Sykes, of Ainsley House, Marsden, well Known fo many ringers, lad desired should be handed over to the custady of the belfry of St. Bartholonew's, Marsdeu. I was pleased to receive these useful gifts on behalf of tho lingers from Mr. J. E. Syke's brother, Majoz livederick Sykes, of Maradelr.-Yours faithfully,
F. SHATF.

FALSE COMPOSITIONS OF ROB MAJOR

Mr. H. W. Gayton wites iliat a peal of Bob Major ( 5,056 chnnges) in the Beds Association Report for 1927, and a peal of 5,120 Bob Major in the "Beds Association and the Peterborough Diocesan Reports respectively for 1928, are bolll false, the trouble in each case being identical, viz., a lead in ench half repeating at the ls leads. Mr. Gayton has brought this to the notice of the hon. secretaries concerned, so that the peals may be withdrawn from the wecords.
Mr. A. Craven's composition published in 'The Ringing World' of April 5th is also false as it stands.

IN CORNWALL.

Notice of a peal atteropt, which was suecessfu! and has aluady been recorded, was included in the usual Sunday notices by the Vicar of Perranarworthal, Cornwall. Unfortunately, however, he instructed his congregation that this would take place exactly a week earlier than the actual date.
Notices of this kind cerfainly give those who dislike prolonged ringing a chance to 'go out' for the evening, but on this occasion, if any left, they went prematurely

Mfr. A. R. Pink, of Dorking, who cordueted this peal had the misfortunc of standing in attempts that fajled for Grandsire Triples at St. Kea, Bob Minor at St. Erme, and Grandsire Triples at Phillack, on the previous Thursdey, Friday and Saturday respectively.

This 'minor' tour in humble methods concluded with a splendid peai at Truro, Tathedral on the 3rd jnst.

The Roll of Fonour had been completed by the addition of six mares, and Mr. Carter's ringing machine was having a meu motor put to it. It was hoped this machine would be availatle for demonstration by Noversber.
The Peal Collection Committee"s report was brief, Mrs. Fletcher stating that the Rev. F. G. T. Richardson was now prowing the peals of Treble Boh with the tenors parted.
The Rer. F'Ll. Hedwards presenfed the Literatare and Press Commitfee's report, which commenters upon the generally satisfactory nature of press references to bells and belloinging, and anded a word oif waming that eareful watel should to kept on any legislation promoted to deal with noises, in order that mothing shonld creep in which would be detrimental to the ringing of clureh holls. Tho report asked that the members of the legal profession on the Council be asked to keep an eye on legislative measures af this nature and be prepared to take such action in conjunction with the Standing Committee as emergency might demand.

On heing put as a suhstanlive motion, however, Mr. Willsen"s esolution was defeated, and a deadlock was thus arrived at. At the suggestion of Mr. Trollope it. was eventually decided tu print ihese compositions in an appendix with a note that their puthlication did not commit anyone to the opinion that they were suratable to be used in a peal.

This suggestion was adopted by 44 troteg to three.

The Peals Analyses Commitiee's roport, already publisbed, was adopted, on the motion of Mrs. Flecher, seconded by Mr. G. Williams.

Elyittington and seconded by Mr. A. H. Palling: "That this Coumeil will not recognise as a peal of Minor or Doubles any composition in which The bells do not strike in 720 or 120 different orders respectively

The Rev. E. C. Powel] suggested that the motion should read: - That the Conneil will not recognise as a peal of thor any compusitign in which each 720 is not true and complete, and wheh does nut start from and end with romds. -Mr . F. W. Pervens seconded.
Eventually the proposer and secouder withdrew then motion in favour of the amendment, but an amendment moved by the Rev. $\mathrm{r}^{\prime}$. Ll. Edwards, and seconded by Mr. C. I. George secollded.-The motion was negatived, tlie opinton of the mueting being that this was a matiter hest left in the hands of the asconiations themselves.

Next year's meeting falls to be held in London, and, amid applause, the Cauncil learned that tlie hon. secretary had been able to secure (subject to no unforeseen circumstances arising) the use of a room at Lambeth Palace for the meeting.
