The wording of the rules, so far as I could judge fronz memory, is exactly the same as in the Oxford MSS. except that there are 37 in this and only 30 in the other. For several years the book is carefully kept, the names of the Generall and the four Wardens being entered annually; afterwards the writing is by another hand and is mach more haphazard. There are numerous signatures by new members, and one or two make their mark, which does not mean that they were socially of a low class.
On five occasions a man was elected as Generall and fyned' Ior refusing to serve. On the 28 th November, 1631, a touch was rung on the six bells at St. Sepulchre's Church, by a band consisting entirely of men who had held the office of Generali. The treble was rung singlehanded, two men were put to each of the second and third, four to each of the fourth and fifth, and five to the tenor. Two more men 'stood by.' What they rang is not stated, but we may conclude from the advance that the art had then made that it was raising and falling with perhaps some plain changes between. This is, I believe, the only record extant of any ringing in the 17 th century in which the names of the ringers are given.

The suggestion that the Society of College Youths was a revival of this company is clearly inaccurate. One belonged to Westminster, the other to the City of London, and until the Cheapside Scholars finally broke up in 1662 none of them seems to have joined the other company.

A man named Thomas Bostock, who held oflice in 1656, went to the College Youths in 1668 , and was successively stewart (1681) and Master (1686). He is described as an esquire in the younger company's Iist, a very unusual title there.

In 1662 appear two very interesting names. One is John Jonkins, the composer of the Five Bell Consorte, who joined the College Youths in the same year. The other is Fabian Stednatn, who held the office of treasurer. This is the earliest contemporary notice we have of Stesman, and the qquestion arises, how could he have discharged the duties of treasurer to a London society i[ he were living at Cambridge? I begin to think that he (Continued in next column.)

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

TESTIVAL AT MARLBORODGE

Message to H.M. the King

For tho first lime For 14 years tho Salisbury Diocesnn Guikl visited Marlmorough for its aumal festival, which was held on May 2 ad. Although tho town is situated righte on the northeru boundary of the great diocese, which meludes most of the counties of Wilts and Dorset, over ono hundred ringers were present at luncheon in the Town Hall. Earlier the festival service had been held in St. Mary's Church, when the Rector of Marlboraugh (the Rev. J. Jones) officiated, assisted by the currte (the Rev. J. Gason), while the Master of the Guild (the Rev. I. II. Gundry) read tho lesson.
The Rector preached from the words, "Workers together with God, num apoke of the touching eflect upon him when, returning to England after an absence of 16 years, he arrived on an Easter Sunday and heard the church bells ringing. Hills in themselves, continued the preacher, wero impassive and unfeoling, but they vibraied to personal joys and sorrows and to national joys and sorrowe. Some people, when thay heard the bells ringing, had not got the imagination to visualise the men standing beneath the bells, but bellringing was a great piceo of church work aud it was a worls which they in that Guild Jad conlributed towards. The work of the ringers was without guastion lo druw the atcention of the people to the worship of God, and ringing, if it was to bo successfully carried out, had to be the result of great co-operation.

The Rector went on to refer to the rreat response which had heen matic to nu appen for 5600 to renovato the bells in a certain parish, showing, lie said, how close the bells were to the hearts of the people. Fo had' seen in a copy of "The Ringing World that a peal of bells was to be lang in the Cathedral at Fohart, Tasmania. As he had ofion spoketi in Lhat Cathedral le could imagize how beautiful those bells would solmad.

CALL FOR BELLS OF PEACE

What a Ereat call there was ioday for the bells of poace, suid the prencher. Bells had been used on the Continent when any great trauble had arisen, but now truly the message of bells must be a message of peace.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease,
Ring out the narvowing lust of gold,
Ring out the thousund wars of old,
Ring in the thonsand years of peace,
Ring in tho valiant man and free,
P'lke larger hoart; tho kindlier liand,
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in tho Christ that is to be.
That was, the task of the ringers to-ding, to "ring in the Glurist that The servico coneluted with tho singing of the National Anthem. The collection was divifed between the memerial funds of the late Bishop of Satisbury and of tho late William Pye

Tho quarderly meeting of the Dorchester Branch was held. at Puddletown on Saturday, April $25 \mathrm{H}_{3}$, when, considering the inelement weather, the meeting was well attended. It was preceded by practice on the fine peal of six by the various bands. The servico was conducted by the Ficar (the Rev. Canon Helps). Iustead of the usual address, the Canon recited from Longfellow's 'Golden 'Legeud,' the prassure relating to the bells, and campleted it by a guotation rom Emerson. With Mrs. Field le always entertained them on every visit. At the end of March they lost Mr. FI. ## CLERGY AND RINGING.

DIFTICULCIES OF BECOMING EFFLCIEN'Y RINGERS

To the Editor

Sir,-Your leading article in the issue of April 24tla abont the intuence of clerical vingers is naturally of great interest to those of here, who are traning for the mulustry of the Chureln, and at the same time trying to pain a knowledge of the rudiments of bellringing. We are as anxions as anybody that the great tradition of clerical bellringers, typified by the mamos you mention, Law James, Davies, Jenkyn and Eisee, should be maintained.
But I should like to suggest that the real function of the clergy with regand ta the Exeretse is not to produce first-class ringers in small quantities, but rather a large number of mer who are juterested in ringers amo ringing, and who will take the trouble to become friends with their ringers, and to offer them encouragement ad all times, and belp in maintaining the strength of their bands.
I have no wisl to be controversial, but it is, I think, an indisputable fact that the mumber of first-class clerical ringers alive taday can be munbered on the fingers of one hand: I also think it is true to say that this las always been the case. The possession of a uaiversity oducation does seem somelnow to be a definite hindrance to progress in the art of handling a bell. Why this should be so I am not pre pared to say; but from personal experience I can voucl for the fact that it is so
But the ability to add B.A. or M.A. to their mames is not the wnly, nor even the mosi serious, disadwatage from which our clergy and prospectiva clergy suffer in their pursuit of profiency in the art Many of them are mable to obtaje that most important of all requirements, continuity in their practice of ringing. First of all they go way to school; then for three or fonl years they spearl three terms of cight week each wear at the nuversity, and their life at a theological college is similarly broken up into periods. A large proportion of their work, too, both as students and as parsons, is done in the eventios, wher most ringing practices nre held. Saturday afternoou is a favourite time for weddings, jumble sales, Sunday School treats and other festivities of a like mature: these provent the parson from attending local ringing meetings and from ringing peals.

For these reasons I think it is true to say that the clergy de not have the same oppormity ts ather ringers for regular practice, with out which the attainment of proficieney is extremely difliesit, if wo impossible
At this coltege, for instance, onr practices monst be snatehed in odd half-hours here and fhere durine the week, and frequently they hate oo bo given up altogether when there is some special lecture or meeting to be attended. The bells of the village church are in an unringable condition, so we get no Sunday ringing.
Put we have about twenty men out of a fotal of forty who are interested in the Fxercise, and have begun to learn to hande a bell and to find out how methods are composed, and have made a beginning with putting this knowledge into practice on handbells. Of these twenty, some will inevitably find themsclves at churcles without any bells when they ro to a parish. Others will find their time too acrupied with other activitios to be able to keep up their ringing Of the remainder, some are naturally only lukewarm adherents, and will bend ta fall away altogether. Just a few will persevere, and will become useful ringers
But even those who have neither the time nor the inclination to beonme good ringers may gain an insight into the Exercise from the instrinction they recejve, and a consegnent interest in the art, which can be turned to good use by the lacal rimging essociations Such men will be the more willing to Iend their churehes for tinging montings and peal ringing, or to act as dishict chatmen, than they wond have heen had they never come in contact with ringing at all If the rudimentary instruction they receive bears no other fruit, it will have been well worth the labour expended on it. Especialiy nader present-day conditions, the whole Exercise is dependent on the goodwill of the clergy for $j$ ts very existence, and it is that goodwill which it is nur business to foster

More than lihat it does not seem possible to ask of the majorito of our clergy. A very emall number will continne as in the past to become first-class ringers, but'with very few exceptions the greatest exponents of the ants whether from the side of peal vinging ar of comnosing, lave been laymen, and there is no reason to expect that it, will be otherwise in the future.

Thers is ane fast thing I shonld like to say to ringers: how many of you realise what a frightenim experience it is for favine to onter a strange towor for the first time? Tt is not fair in all ogses to hame the parson for his apparent lack af interest in his ringers. If the riugets wish for his jnterest and friendship, they must take the first semp, and mast refrain from bewidering the poor man with a lot of technical jargon before lie las ever set lis foot in the belfry. Ringers have in the past been apt to forget that the roerfge nonrugee does bot kyow the difforence between ringiag and eniming, or betwen a peal, atouch and a plain course. JOHN P. PRIJOOF. ## LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

IMPORTANCE OT GOOD RTNGTNG JN BROADCASTS. Master's Appas

Fhe anvual meeting of the Lincoln Diocesan Guid was held at Lincoln on April 25th. Ringing started at the Catheiral (IB) nid ut St. Peter-at-Gowts (6) and St. Botolph's (6) at two o'clock. At 3.15 special ringers' service was held in the Morning Chapel of the Gathedral, when the address wats given by tho presidend of the Guild (the Very Rev. R. A. Mitchell, Dean of Limcoln). Tea wag gerved at the Co-operative Hall, about 85 members and friends being present. The business meeting followed, presided over by the Dean of Lincoln.
The Dean was manimously re-elected president, and Mr. Rupert Richardson Master. The meeting heard with regret that Mr. E. Dawher had been compelled, throngh earious eye tronble, to relinquish the office of hon. treasurer, and Mr. F. W. Stokes was elected to act as hom. seeretery and treasurer

Three of the representatives on the Central Council were re-elented, namely, the Veu. Arohdeacon F. IT. Parns, Mr. Rupert Richardson and Mr, G. Chester. Mr. Jack Bray wrs elected in place of Mr. Jolin Phillips, whou beine now non-resident and having been in very indiferebt health for some time past, did not seek re-election
In his report, the Master pointed out that the Guild had areated anather recoul as far as parls were cancerned, 108 having been mung, as comparest with the previous record of 96 in 1934. The Minor section lad been particnlarly gratifying, the peals ranging from Plain Bob to 28 Surprise methots. Seven peals were rung containing 20 or more Minor metlads. "Firgt pealers' mubered 15 , mgninst 22 in 1934, but 149 members rang a peal in a fresh method or a greater number of methods. For the 108 peals there werg 32 conductors.
The report closed with a refercnce to broadcast ringing. It said
'On one or two occasions lately broadeasts of hells lave been completely snoilt by ringers attempting to ling something that was heyond them. Please do not let this liappen in this dfocese. If you aro called umon to broddensl, be sure yon sure fully master of anythug rou attempt. If you cantrot ring changes perfectly, ring rounds. Then yon will not disornce roulstive. Remember when rou ar broadeasting you have an andionce of millions and vou shoula keep whatever you do up to the highest possibio standard."
The mecting considered a proposition put forward by tho forimsly District of the Norther" Branch, riz., "That tha compositions of Spliced Minor peals shall be printed in the amual report.' After some discussion all amendment, was adopted, moviding that such romppositions shall be submited to the hon. secretary in order that they may be consirlered by the Guild Committee, and such composithons inghaded in the report as may bo thousht of general or outstanding interest.
Rangine was continued at the whrious towers after the meeting until mine o'clock.

SPLICING' OF TREBLE BOB

Mear Sir, -I did not intend replying to Mr. C. T., Coles, but ns it is uncartain whether I shatl be at the Central Council meeting, please grant me small space to put the matter as I sce it.
Mr. Coles says all spliced peals of Oxford and Kent Tweble Bohn are not spliced but combined. He has also mixde the statement that they are irregniar. Eleven yents argo, sin, you probished a book on method splicing, and it is still on salo. That book contains '780's of Spliced Kent and Oxford Minar. These 720's have been y"ung scores of times, although they are not spliced actually at the lead end. In my opinion it is impossible to get a 720 spliced lhat way. This book and standart of splicing was accepted by the Facercise. and lonps of neals of Major have been rutur on the same lines, so also has Spliced Royal Thore are three parintions of Maior Worcester Ilkerton and Liversedge. All fove the same cud in wiow, viz., to keep the temors out of the slow, and there are some rally heantiful conpositions, producing glorious musie, which is is impassible to ohtain with the tenors in the slow
Mr. Coles condemns null these. He snys that the resolution was earefully thouglit out hy smart men. I don't cave who thought them out. Whoever did had not the courago to stand by them.
You, sir, knocked their rasolntion ta smithemens when yau published that composition which contained a full onurse of London. With all their care it didn't trile them long to alter their minds. At Shrewshury last yens' Tmontioned the word 'lamimated,' knowirg fult well MI: Coles would takn the bait. Fe did, and suppiled the answer. He wrote in "The Ringing Worki that laminated meant thin layers. Mr. Coles and his international band rang a spliced peal in several methods. Of one methorl they rang 1,440 changes, of finather 1,184, then anongst the othen methods was olle of 160 (five lends and all at the Wrong. Tho tenos噱 this sang one lead four times repeated. I contend that that method was not rung.
I witharew my ancodment a few weoks ngo. If I am at the mect ing in Tondon I am propared to move two more.
In conclusion, may I say, if wou break a bell rope, you splice it I have seen a rope with str splices. Whether it is one or six they are both spliced. I suggest to Mr. Coles he stunsi call his peals super spliced,' because he thinks his splicet peals so superior

PEALS IN 1935.

Peal tinging in 1935 recovered the ground, in numbers at any rate, that it lost in 1934, but it is still more than three hundred peals short of the 1932 total. The figures for the past four years have been: $1932,2,002 ; 1933$, 1,833 ; 1934, 1,$784 ; 1935,1,863$. But mere numbers are by no means all that nuatter. Probably the most gratifying thing that will be found in the report of the Analysis Committee, which is published clsewhere in this issue, is the fact that there has been a substantial increase in the number of ringers who scored their first peal. The year 1935 saw the resumption in a rising total, after a slight setback in the preceding year, and the present number is one of the highest, if not the highest, ever recorded. No fewer than 643 'first peals' were rung, against 503 in 1934, 523 in 1933 , and 480 in 1932 . It was probably helped by the Silver Jubilee celebrations when, in the desire suitably to honour the event, many ringers took part for the first time in a peal.

One of the most interesting points in the report is that emphasised by the committee, that, although there continues to be rung a number of new methods, mostly Sur-prise-true, they were fewer in 1985 than in 1934 -very few, comparatively, are in common use. The old methods still hold the field, and, among the Surprise variety Cambridge is claiming an increased popular ascendency over Superlative. Apart from Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples-the four standard' methods-Cambridge is the only method in which more than a hundred peals were rung. It goes to show that ringers still cling to tradition. The standard methods have come down to us through the centuriesthey still provide the major portion of the ringing done in our belfries.

The reasons, of course, are not obscure, but with all the variety which is now at the disposal of the Exercise, it shows the strong conservatism of ringers. There are many more interesting things to ring, for instance, than Plain Bob, and they are available, through the publications of the Central Council, to all who seek them, but year in, yenr out, Plain Bob more than holds its own. In higher spheres, Cambridge, Superlative and London continue to show the way. Bands in various parts of the country ring new methods, but they seldon ring more than one peal before going on to a fresh method; and yet among these newer things are methods well worth ringing. For instance, we believe that one of the reasons for the Inss of popularity of Superlative is the monotony of its work. It is just a quarter of a course turned in four different ways. Now, Painswick Surprise is a (Contiulued on page 334.)

method which produces all the music that Superlative is capable of，but by having a different arrangement of the work in front，the monotony is swept away．Painswick is a method which deserves the growing practice now being accorded to，say，Yorkshire，and ought to have an established place in the general repertoire of all Surprise ringers．And there are other methods which should have equal attention．The trouble apparently is that there are too many to choose from，and，perhaps，a not unnatural desire of capable bands to ring＂the first ever．＇

FOR BEGINNERS.

A CEANGE OF DIET
'I'he report of the Analysis Committee of the Central Council, which sabulates all the peals rung during the year, has a pertinent note on the fact that comparatively few methods are in common use, and an examination of the tables will show that what used to be known as tho 'standard' meliods Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Stedman and Grandaire-still hold all the attraction that they have done for geaeradiand. It is not becauss there is not plenty of material available. It is due, for one thing, to the fuct that ringers, begiming to learn methods, eeern to turn maturally to the old-established things, by which their fathers and graudiathers were taupht.
Another reason, probably, is that many vingers are averse to breaking away lrom the traditional groove, because they imagine there are in their way diflicult barricrs to overcome. In fact, they do not relish What chanre of diet, which, ill the lone rum, would be grod for them We hope, in the next few anticles, to try and show that these barriers turo largoly imaginaty and that the beginger who has got his foundabions well and truly laid can pass ont to other things by easy stages, which will greatly increase lis interest in the art.
[The Central Council last year published a little volume, priced at a shilling, which gives all the worthwhile methods on sever bells, at least, in our opinion, all save onc. If a man can ring Grundsire and understand what he is ringing, he can with a little study and practice soon go on to other methoris.
Among those with two hunts, that is to say with a bell in the hunt in adidition to the treble, like Grandsire, there is Oxford Bob. It has not got a very long history as far as peal ringing is concerned, for the first recorded peal was lung at Horsham, Sussex, only in 1882

Like Gracrisire, it starts with 3rd's place being made as the treble strikes in 2nd's place going up, but tho bells behind, instead of parting after a dodere, continue to dodge until the treble separates them; llat ib, until the bell dodging down strikes over tho treble, w马en tikat boll has reached 5th's. The yeason is that the same two bells dadge together behind (actually a three pull dodge) from the time tho bell in the hunt leaves them, until and the treble gets back aspain. This dodging is created by bwo bells in 4-5 each makieg Sth"s place, with a dodge between, this dodge, in turn, being caused by the 3rd's place.

A quito easy table can he made up for the five working bells, thus Pass treble in 5-6, 3-pull dodge in 7-6 (down)
Pass treble in 4-5, 3 -pull dodge in 6-7 (up).
Pass treble in 3-4, make 5th's, dodge 5-4 (down)
Pass treble in 2-3, dodge 4-5 (up), make 5th's.
Pres treble in 1-2, make 3rd's, and lead.
Freh bell that makes 5 th's, of courge, refurns to lead. The work does not occur in the order piven above, but the table shows how the prairs of bells work togetlier.

Betweer the $6-7$ (up) dodgium and the 7-6 (down), in ringing the method, the 3 rd's place is made and after the $7-6$ dodging the two 5th's places come in, first the one with the dodge in front of it and then the one with the dodge after, so that the two actual 5th's places are joined by unbroken plain bunting down and back again.
A bob is made exactly as in Grandsire. The bells dodging behind ure not aftected, neither is the 3id's place bell.
Only three bells, therefore, are jnterfered with, the bell that passes 1.foc treble in 2-3 makes 3rd's nud goes into the hunt. The bell coming ont of the hunt has a doable dorge in 5-4 (down), and, after leading: goes up belintd to dorlge in 6-7 (up). The romaining bell, which, but for tho bols, would have made 5ilas and dodged $5-4$ (down), bas a clouble dodge in 4-5 (up) and then nakes 5 th's, before hunting down. We wondor whether aby of our readers can write out the fogures of a lend of the ruethor? All the information pequired for its corstruction is included in this article. Just try it!

LEDBURY DTSTRICT ENTHUSLASM REVIVING
The quarterly meeting of the Ledbury Distriet was held at Cradey on Saturday, May 9th, whd proved to be a great success. For some time past entinusiasm in this distriat has been lacking, owing, no donbt, to one or two peals of bells being out of cuder aud the difficulty in greting togetier in a country district. DOEBTITUL PLEASURES AT HAWLEY.
While a cricket match was in progress on the village green, the bells of Hawley Charch, Hants, on the other side of the road, were ringing on Saturday. Whether they pleased the cricketers is doubtful; the pleasure of the ringers was equally doubtful, for some of the bells bady need attertion; the "circle" of ropes is by no means round, the tenor ringer has to stand in a window recess a couple of feet above the floor level, aud the acoustics are bad. Nevertheless, the meeting of the Faralam Bistrict of the Guildford Guild was a happy gathering. Seven of the district towers were representedAldershot, Ash, Bagshot, Farnborough, Hawley, Sale and Yorktowu, and there wero welcome visitors from Godalming (ropresented by the Guildford Disfoict Ringing Master), and Hilingdon and Uxbridge, Middeses. Aldershot contributad a ronnd dozen of the party, and they came by push bikes, tandem, motor hike and Rolls Royce.
The singing, accompanied by the organist, was a feature of the gervice, at which the Rev. Thomes, Rector of the neighbouring parish of Minley, officiated. The driver of the Rolls supplied the power for the organ.
There was a merry party of about thirty at tea at the George Inn, and the brief business meeting afterwands was quickly disposed of ' The 'platg' was passed round the tea table, and 8s. for the Guild's Benevolent Frind resulted.
The enthusiasts then kopt the church bells going until after eight o'clock, when the party dispersed in the quiet of a glorious May evening.

TASMANIAN GOVERNOR'S GIFT TO BELFRY

IN MEMORY OF EVENINGS SPENT WIPH RTNGERS.
Sir Ernest Clark, Governor of Tasmania, who recejved the English tourists at lis offial zesidence in November, 1934, and who has shnce been interested in the Ringers' Society at Holy Trinity Church, has presented them with a copy of Mr. Ernest Morris' newest book, 'Legends o' the Bells."
In forwarding his gift to MT. A. R. Wilson, the hou, gecretary, Sir Ernest Clark wrote: "I thought that the bellringers of Trinity might like this book. Will you hand it over to them at Easter in memory of the two evenings I spent in your belfry, I have iuseribed it an the front page.

In acknowledging the gift, Mr. Wilson sent Sir Ernest a copy of "A Great Adventure,' whinh, we learn, found a place on the draving room table at Government House. As readers of that book will remember, Sir Ernest was photographed with the visiting ringers and the picture finds a place in the volume.
Incidentally it may be mentioned that it is 90 years ago this year that Holy Trinity received its belle, which were cast at the whitechapel Fourdry.

BELERY GOSSIP

Excellent progress is being mede with the building of the tower at St. David's Gathedral, Hobart, Tasmania, which is to contain thirteen belis (eight of them hung for ringing), already cast by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. A newspaper illustration which has just reached us shows the building operations in progress $63 f t$. above the street level. The official opening, we learn, is to take place in December.
We understand that a well-known London ringer recently had to appear at the Old Bailey. No charge was brought against him, However, but the City and Lands Commission granted his request that the Central Counci] should be allowed to use the Council Chamber at the Guidhall for the Whitsun meeting
A celebrated ringer, with 600 or so peals to his credit, whose proud boust, it was that he lad never broken a stay, "bloted his coprbook' last week when he "busted' one in his own tower on practice night. Wild loorses will not drag his name from us.

The Radwinter meeting of the North-Westera Division of the Essex Associstion is postponed owing to a very serious case of illness near the ehureh.
Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are relanging the six bells in n new frame at Farpford Church, Nowton Poppleford, Devon.
Mr. J. E. Abheroft urites that in our issue of the $15 t h$ inst, a peal of Grendsire Triples, rung at Warburton, Cheshire, is clamed as the first peal on the bells, the Grappenhall band, he informs us, rang a peal of Grandsire Triples on these bells on September 12th, 1886. Two more Worcester rings of six are to be relung by Joln Taylor and Co., Lougliborough, wiz., Ombersley and Norton, near Evesham. Mr. Arthur Saxby extends a berrty welcome to ringing visitors to Margate for outings of othcrwise. A quarter-peal can always be arrarged.
The Iondon Gonnty Association's practime will be held at St. Mary's, Lambeth, on June Znd, nud not on May 26th as previausly annoumed.

In the report of the peal at Padworth, rccorded on page 321, the neme of the treble ringer should have been given as Eilward W. Richardson.

CLERGY AND RINGING.

To the EAtitor.

Sir, As an old clerical ringer, I realise the hapefulness of a letter sureh as that of Mr. J. P. Pelloe. If only the men in the theglogical colleges would master, at any rato the rudiments of ringing, it would be a good thing for the Church. The old saying is still true, "We know not with what we must serve the lord until we be como thither.'
My own experionce is that if a vicar is a ringer atd rings regularly and teaches his learmers himself, not only will thero be no trouble in his tower, but he will syather around lim a band of men who wil] bo invaluable to the Church in many ways. Handbell practices for boys learing the choir and others will bring lim into touch with those he wants to know and help, and the infuence spreads, because it leads to renl love and friendslip. Men are sometimes sly of the clerical collar, but seldom of the Ficar in his shirt sleeves.
With one thing in the letter I do not agree-we cannot aill be great composcis or ontstanding conductars, but nost of us can learn to ring a few methods, to call simple tonches and to strike accurately. I do not think we ought to aim at less, or that risits fram elergy who cannot do that are of much use in the tower. You can always make time if you want to. All good wishes for those who are Iearning to rimg at Cuddesdor.

I anclose my card, but prefer to sign myself,
'ONT WHO HAS TOUND MUCE HAPPINESS IN THE TOWER.'

ANOTHER NEW SPLICED MINOR RECORD

YOUNG BAND'S SUCCESS AT ALGARKIRK

The splicing of Minor methods goes alhead by leaps and bounds. There aro several enthusiastic bands of 'splicers' in the country, and their efforts aro nided and abetted by the genius of Mr. A. G. Driwer.
Last Saturday, at Algarkirk, Lincoluslire, a new vecord iu the number of methods included in seven true 720's was raised to 48. It is another great performance by the youthful company, of which Mr. Vernon Taylow has proved himself so capable a leader

Another thing which adds to the merit of the performance is that fout of the band are Sunday service ringers at the church where the peal was rang, and another comes from the neighbouring village of Irampton.

One of the 720's included no fewer than 13 methods, and another had 12 spliced into it. Altogether there were 168 changes of method. It was the fiftieth peal by two of the band, tlise rest cannot claim evin this number. Indeed, the conductor has runs only 26, while the ringer of the 2ud rang his first peal in seven methods "inside* only twelys monthe ago.
a correspondent. It ought hardly to be whispered-for fear of what might happen, but- they are all bachelors!
The bells at Aigarkirk were a ring of five until they were augmented tr, commemorate the Iate King's Silver Jubilee, and this great performance was the first peal upan them. Gus picture shows the church to be a handsoma huideling with a centiral tower. The bells are rung from the floor of the church, at the entrance to the chancel, and on Sundays, therefore, the ingers perform their duties in full view of the assensbling congregation.

ANALYSIS COMMITTEE'S REPORT

Cambridge Surprise Major on handhells by the Hertford County Association.
The following are the number of peals rung during each montly in 1935 and 1934 :-

|  | 1935. |  |  | 1934. |  | 1935. | 1934. |
| :--- | ---: | ---: | ---: | :--- | ---: | ---: | ---: |
| January | $\ldots$ | 124 | 144 | July | $\ldots$ | 86 | 71 |
| Fehruary | $\ldots$ | 160 | 153 | August | $\ldots$ | 125 | 136 |
| March | $\ldots$ | 152 | 120 | September | $\ldots$ | 158 | 161 |
| April | $\ldots$ | 99 | 171 | October | $\ldots$ | 149 | 150 |
| May | $\ldots$ | 257 | 142 | November | $\ldots$ | 192 | 199 |
| June | $\ldots$ | 174 | 122 | December | $\ldots$ | 187 | 215 |

There is a very substantial increase in the number of ringers who have scored their first peals. The total is 643, an increase of 140 . Of this total 200 accomplished their first peal on the treble, 107 on the tenor, and 336 on an 'inside' bell, The number who have rung their first peals in a new method, or methon on a different number of bells is 877, a decrease of 199. Of these 101 are claimed as first peal in a method for the treble ringer in either plain or treble bob bunts, and 776 on an 'inside" bell. Ringers of their first peal 'inside" number 70, auay from the tenor 18, Maximus 14, Cinques 7, Royal 25, Caters 25, Major 64, Triples 34, Minor 86, Doubles 41 . On twelve bells 18 , ten 62, eight 59, six 8 , five 13. Surprise (excluding those who rang the treble and claimed first of Surprise) 32, in hand 21 , in method in hand 42. New conductors number 82, and conductors in new methods 108

Other footmotes show that 47 were the first on the bells, 107 the first in the method on the bells, 43 the first since restoration or augmentation.
For the Royal Jubilee 202 peals were rung, Royal birthdays 25 , birthdays 240, weddings (including silvor, etc.) 126 , muffied and landf-muffled peals number 67, chureh fustivals and dedications 20, welcome and farewell 50, Empire Day 3.

It, would seem from the tables that very few methods are in common use, and with the latge amount of material now evailable in the books published by the Commil, we look forward to a greater variety of methods in the future. This would at least be some compensation to those members who have given so much time in preparing these books.
Included in the analysis is a peal of Minor rung at Wistaston for the Chester Guild on July 13th, publishad in "The Ringing World, page 471, and stated to contain three 480's of Jittle Bob. We are unable to find any intimation from the Guild that this peal is not recognised by them, and we should be glad of the Council's instructions.
We give below the number of pealg rung in each of the representative years since 1881, the total for the whole period being 66,984:-

DEDICATION CEREMONY AT WALMER.

On Wednesday evening, May 13th, an interesting ceremony took place in the belfry of the Parish Church. Walmer, Kent. A poad hand recording a half-muffled peai and portrait of the late Mr. A. I. Matthews, I.P., was dedicated by the Vicar (Canon Tonks)
The peal bonrd was the work of Mr. James Arthur, of Deal, who took part in the peal.
Mr. Matthews was a great admirer of church bells and met all expenses of the recent restoration. Thnolts to the generosity of the relatives, his name will always be linked with the Walmer belfry

THE SPLICED PEALS RESOLUTIONS.

To the Editor

Dasi Sir,-It seema quite futile to hope that Mr. James Hunt will ever uaclerstand that the object of the resblutions introduced by me at the last Council meeting whs to detine aspliced peal for the futire, atrl nut to condenn any that lond niready leen zume. He again states that I condenn the various peals of Spliced Kent and Oxford, and I thercfore, can only conclutie that ho does not know the meaning of the word he so frequently uses. There is nothing in the resolutious to prevent these peals benn rung; the question is whether they shal be ealled 'spliced' or be ghven some other definition, I would apain remind Mr: Hunt that if his so-called amendment had been corried, all tha variations of Major which he eulogised last week, the Ilkeston, Livergedge and Worcester variations: would have been ruled out, for none of these contrin full courses of either Kent ar Oxford. It is he who would condomn these pask, and not the supporters of my resolutione.
Anather matter on which Mr, Hunt is entirely misinformed he again rafers to this week. He quotes the case of a peal, in which I took part, in ten Surprise Majar methods, and states that there were only 160 changes of one method. This is quite correct, the method in question was Yorkshire, and the M to $W$ lead was rung five times. If one lead only was rung, then all the method wonld be rullg, but I will let that pass. Mr. Hunt's point is that as only fivo leads were rumg, then none of the bells could do all the work of the malhod. Again this is quite correct. But let us go further. The Lnw James peal in four methods, which was the first peal of Spliced Surprise Major ever rung, and which was the foremmuer of all such poals, contains, in its original form as rung at Warmham, 50 courses. In each of these courses there is a lead of Cambridge (or Suparlative), M to W, and as the 7tha and 8th are fixed bells, it follows that none of the five working bells can ever oceupy the plates of 7 and 8 . THorefore, none of the bels do all tho work of the method, and exnclly as much of the work of the mothod (Yorkshire) is rung jn the peal rofered to by Mr. Hunt as is rung of Cambridge or Superlative in the Rev. F. Lant James' pon. Ts Mr. Hunt going to rule out this peal 'r And, in not, why not? Is he prepared to zule out all the best performances of Minor, Jiduding tho 42-method pal tung at Disley fust. yeni ? In this peal each of tho 720 's contained at least one methorl of which ondy three leads were rung.
It is, as a matter of fact, impossible to obtain true multi-method penls on any other plum-the more mothods in a peal, the more limited is the work of a method-and it is utter foolisliness for N1. Hunt to wasto his time firming 'ameadments' which, if adopted, would only exclude such peals from thes spliced cliss. His sucers at superior poals, too, are decidedly in basi taste, for whatever he thinks about then, there have been peals of Spliced Minor, Major and, lately, of Royal lung, which will test the alilities of the best, and all these peals contain the same 'rlefect' that lnes causeri Mr. Fhate so mueh worry.

As far as the resolntions over my name are coneerned, they sebe to define a spliced peal, witily the object of keeping penls, with a ciange of method cevery fow leads, in a differeut class to those with only one or two clanges thronghout. Mr. Steplien Wood's ingenions iden may meet the case-I do mot know until it las been further consideredbut it is obvious that any more "umendmeats' of the nature proposen by Mr. Hunt at Shrewsbiry will only confuse the issue. In any owent, amendments should be amendments, and not fresin resolutions, and unything that introdnees nnother matter entirely should be ruled ont of arder, unless proper notice has heen given. C. T. GOLES.

Spliomd ringing
Doar Sir,-tt is pretty cloar what is in Mr. Funt's mind and believe that other people share more or less his opimions, but y thin that, if lio will look on little note closely into the matter, he will find that it is based wis a faliacy.
When wo rang our peal in twelve Spliced Surprise methods we rang some of the methods only heweens the Nidula and the wrong, thetefore it is obrious, ms Mr. FWint 5 ays, that oweryone in the band conld not have rung the whole of those methors. But we never clamed that everyone did; in fact, no one did. What we did elann whs that the band vs fl wltole lad rung the whole of the methods, and if we hnd only rung one lead the claim wand have been a good one. With the possiblo oxceptions of Dullield and Forward, hacre never was an peal of njor rung where every man in the hand ramg the whole of the mathod. 7he work of the treble in Toudon Surarise is just as muel a part of the nethod and just, as important as the work of the tonor, but the treble man tloes not do the tenor man's work nor the tenar anan the treble man's work.
The other day I went to Staines prepared to rlo noything I was nsked to do m the work of sever methods. At the finimi $i$ fonmd that $T$ had not riong the work of three leads an at least one of the methods. It just happened so acerdine to the composition. Simflarly T might ring the seventh to a peal of Bol, Major and never be called mpon to make sceond's or to dodge in 3-4: or the tenor to a peal of Double Norwiuh and never make near places from the front. Bub no one would say that a peal of Bob Major ar Double Norwich had not hean rump, It is the baud as a whole that rings the peal, not eight हeparate individual tingers. J. ATMTGER TROLIOPE.

CALLED BY TELEPHONE. NOVEL EXPERTIMENT.

Calls by the telephone are put throngh by the million every daywe are not sure if this statistic is quite rimbit, but it is near enougb. A different ' eall' went over the "phone to Twyford the other evening, following the prelimimary notifieation after "Number, pleaso?"
A peal of Louble Narwich had been tung at the Parish Cliurchthe first in the method on the bells, by the way-and the ringers afterwurds engaged in hindibell ringing at the home of Mr. Gross. A friend rang up to enquire how the peal hed progressed. He was informed, of course, that it had bear 'landed 'successifuly, and he was then asked to call a six-scoro of Grandsire Doubles, which he did.
The ringers stood elose raund the instrument, while someone listened at the recoiving exd to pass on the cails, as they were made by the distant conductor. The bells, it wis said, were heard at ilhe otber end of the wire perfectily clearly.

It whs an interesting experiment, but it might prove expenaive if extensively practised; if, for instance, William Barber in Newcastie called a peal of Stednan Triples rung in London!

SOCIETY FGR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

The last quarterly meeting of the society's year was held at S't Mathew's Church, Walsall, on Suturday, April 25th. Despite the wet afternoos, about sixty assembled. The bells were made good use of up to the time of the service, which was conducted by the Rev. H. J. Carpenter, M.A., Vicar, who also gave an admivable gddress. A move was then made to the Instibute, where an excellont ted was served and enjoyed to the full

A vote of thanks to tho Vicar for his address and his kindly wel come, to the arganist for his assistance, to the lady helpers in preparing tee, was moved by the Rev. O. H. Barker

Handbells were brought into use to the thre of Stedman and Grandsire Caters, after which a return whe made to the tower, when a variety of methods were indulged in, including a well-struck coutse of Cambridge Surptise Major.

The next mecting (the anmual) is provisionally arranged to take place at Liohfield on Saturday, Juna 20Lit.

BELLS BROADCAST

THE RECEPTION FROM ST. AMBROSE'S, BRISTOL.
The ringers of St. Ambrose's Church, Bristol, wish to acknowledge the correspoudence sent to Mr. F. Skidmore re their buondeast of Stedman Triples on Sunday, May 3rd. The noessuges came from a very wide field, Doncaster and Sheflield, Yorks; Harwich, Essex ; Reading, Berks; Yeovil, Somerset; Buckfastleigh, Devon; Cardilf, Glamorgan; and Stinchermbe, Glos.
The remarts were generally of a congratulatory uature, somo thouglit the 'time too Fast,' athers what a 'good tenor,' 'wonderful tapping,' 'ma knots in it,' and a 'real treat,' so altogether the results were very satisfactory. The reception was all that conld be desired, aud the ammonmeer did nat trke ipp toa much time
One p.c. received looked as if the sender had something out of the ordinary in the way of radio sets. We have come to the conclusion, say the ringers, that it was a 'Wolseley Hornet Two-Ear Set, fitied with a tele-type apparatus, for we received all the sixes" pricked out and dip bobs marked. We think the sel was somewhere the region of Sit. Moorge's Prack, Bristol, or * some draught Worthington.

THE COUNCIL.

The meeting of the Central Council next Tuesday, at London's historic Guildhall, promises to be of great interest, not only on account of the exceptional setting in which it will be held, but because it is a new Council, which will have new blood in it, and it is meeting at a time when the Exercise is more than ever realising the need and value of such a body. The Council has grown from a gathering of ringers. which, in its early days, was looked upon somewhat as the plaything of one man, but which, despite much disparagement in past years, has developed into an organisation of great importance and increasing usefulness.

We have said before, and we think it worth repeating on the eve of the meeting of a new Council, that the whole of the business to which it gives its attention cannot be expected to interest all the members all the time. Some discussions interest one section, and other discussions appeal to another section of different tastes. Indeed, the wider the diversity of topics which come under consideration the more useful the Council can be. If, for instance, scientific questions were eliminated there may be some members who would be delighted-because they are not personally interested in them-but the scientific discussions in the Council in the past bave had no small influence in leeping development of the art on proper lines and of very definitely helping it forward. On the other hand a Council which was purely a scientific debating society would soon lose its appeal to the general body of ringers. The scope of the Council's work is such that everyone can find an interest in it in one direction or another, and if there still be any members who find themselves bored by this or that discussion they should bear in mind that the subject, whatever it is, is of interest and probably of value to a considerable section of the Council and the Exercise outside it.

There is one other phase of the organisation of the Council to which we are tempted to refer. In certain quarters there is an undercurrent of opinion that the business of the Council is managed by a small section of its members. It is a view which we have quite frequently heard expressed, yet nothing could be wider of the mark. If ever there was a democratic institution it is the Central Council. The members are elected by their own associations, they come with a free hand, one man's voice is as good as another's-as long as he can express himself intelligently-and the unfettered vote of the majority carries the day. Officialdom, in the sense of 'bossing' the Council, does not exist, and one has only to come into touch with the actual working of the organisation to realise how much those occupying official positions are the servants and not the masters of the Council. This, (Continued on page 350. ) of course, is as it should be, but there are among ringers some who like to think that the Council is managed by a few 'dictators.' In any such body there are bound to be men who will stand out as leaders of thought and of action, but that does not rob any member of the opportunity of leading the Council in another direction-if he has cause good enough and capacity sufficient to do it. The Council has not outlived its usefulness by any means. It has a very important purpose still to serve, and it should be the object of every member to maintain the Council as a worthy head of the ringing Exercise.

FOR BEGINNERS.

ST. CLTMENT'S TRIPLES.

Another interesting Triples method is St. Clement's Bob. Like Oxford, which we described lust week, it comes from the Minor, wilh fat additional bell in the hunt.
It is nways as well to understand something about the construction of functhod you want to ring; it gives you a better insight into the ringing of it. In St. Clement's a pair of bells dodge on the front from tha time the treble and ather bunt bell leave watil they return; just as in Oxford you lave one pair dodging ats the back all the time the hunt bells are away.
TTo correspond wili this dodging-we hesitato to say whether it is cause or effect, and aomeone would be bound to disagres with us whichever way wo put it-hiree bells (all in natural coursing order, and that is a tip worth knowing by the conductor) make 3rd's and hunt straight back. Tlies whole of the work of the five bells not concerned in the dodging on the frodt is plain hunting.

The bells start exactly as in Grandsire, with 3rdis place and the bells above dodging. "ilien the Fell that made Jrd's place and the bell tlat dodged in 45 down came together on the front for the three pull dodge, and if the othey bells remember that as long as the treble is above them they have to make Jrd's and go back, there is nothing else mach to botion about
The bell that does the three-puil dodge dowa, on the front, makes 3 rit's place when next the treble leads and returns to the front to lave tho three-pull dodge up. Tho wark of the method can be summed יp thus:-

Treble tums you from behind, make 3̈rd's.

Pass treble $3-4$, dodge 6-7 (up), make $3{ }^{2} \mathrm{~d}^{\prime}$ 's.
T'ass treble $4-5$, dodge $7-6$ (down), make 3 rd's
Pass treble in 1-2, make 3rd's, and lead, three-pull dodige up on the frosi.
Pass treble $2-\frac{\pi}{3}$ dodge $4-5$ up, treble then turite you from behind. This is tho sctual order in which the work occurs in the plain course, in whial, of coursa, the 2nd is in the hunt with the treble.
The trobs are made as in Graydsire, by an extra 3rd's place to change the bell in the hant. The bell coming out of the hunt double dociges in 54 (down), and the other bells algo lave a double dodere instrad of a single one, one dodying place sooner, and taking up the rest of the work in a sliglitly different order, which it will be warth your while to figure out.
One thing should be noticed and that is that the bells instead of being threwn forward a lend, as in Graudgire and having part of the work cut out, the bel's ubove Ath's in St. Clement's are thrown back and do one lead over ngain. $A$ bob at the first lead end actually protuces 1342567 .
you ara looking for a touch for proctice pou can get ar 294, by nalling $\mathrm{T}_{\text {. (first lead, which brings you immediately to the course ent }}$ 342567 , WF. Whicl conses at the second lead in the sext course, and Beford, which follows two leads later when the 7th is going to make $3_{1}$ d's from the front This calling has to be twice repeated. You can gol, on touch twice the Jongth by calling R. twice, W.B. twice and repeating the whole twice.
As a mattor of history wo may conclude by lecalling that the first peal was rung at Chester in 1911, but very few have been rung since.

SPLICED MINOR

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-Having read your leading article of May 15th, I would point out that the merits of a peal of Spliced Minor canuot be judged by the number of times the mothods are changed. There aye pairs of Plain methods spliced on the same plan as pair's of Surprise methods; so, of course, in the Plain methods we get twice the number of changes of melhods; also, there are four methods (Surprise) spliced in a 720 with 24 changes of method. T'wo more methods can be added to these in the 720 , with half the number of changes of method. There are a few pairs that can be changed at every lead, but no one will gay that this is more difficult than to ring six methods in a 720.

SPLICED PEALS RESOLUTIONS.

Dear Sir, Whale is sympathy with Mr. Coles ${ }^{2}$ desire to separate types of so-called 'spliced peals, my opinion-which really is neither here nor there-inclines to a very broad division. I know that facing two pieces of wood, with glue, is not the same thing as aplicing a rope; and that four quarter-peals joined end to end is not the eame thing as intertwining the mothods. Beyond this I consider it dangerous to go, but am prepared to state that the inclusion of one lone lead would satisfy me that the method hed been 'spliced,' provided that the lead was plained.
My small son knows that milk is not beer; he may have heard of ale and stout. By experieace he will gain knowledge of the various grades in these divisions. With such knowledge he will not meed guidance, and until then he docs not particularly eare! Peals of such ontistanding merit as the 'Pye' 12 -method, the 'Caslamore' handbell, the 'Relfe' 32 -method, and others, requive no labels for those who can, and do, appreciate what las becn done.
I follow the argument, for and against, with interest, but $T$ do object to what may be described as 'fiddlings' Mr. 'Trollope gays that they claimed that the band as a whole lind rung the whole of the methods in the twolve Spliced Surprise peal. Thiss is untrue and cannot be claimed with justice, as I suspect Mr. Trollope knows full well.

I have a method (I won't trouble you with fugures!) called "Muddlesex, Surprise Major, of which I am the proud author. It causes a bell to lie four blows belind, and Mr. Trollope knows that he is entirely unable to prove that this method, with fourth-place bobs, was not included in that splendid performance

GEORQE I. JOYCE.

MR. HUNT REPLIES.

Deav Sir, -In the last issue of "The Ringing World " Mr. Coles says he has done nothing except what concerns his resohatiou. Roaders who have followed all his statements on this sutjeet will be able to judge who is right, he or yours truly? I note all that he aad Mr. Trollope say, and neithel of them can tell me anything fresh abotit the compositions that they lave rung. I say once more the most perfect spliced peal of Major ever rung is Mr. J. W. Parker's SuperIntive and Cambridge, 2,528 clanger of each metlod. The Rer. Law James ${ }^{2}$ peal I do not object to, but it could be and will be jmproved on. Its imperfection is the Bristol. It is well Lnown in London that, a ringer rang the tenor to the peal and could vot riag Bristol, so lie looked up the two leads he had to ring. And to this day I do not think he has rung a peal of it.

The Minor men about the country bave set an excellent example for any who wish to follow as to how peals slould be spliced. They do not ring 1,000 changes of one method and 120 changcs of auother in their peals. The staines peal is on the lines that should be followed, an equal mumber of changes in each method, or near about. And the method can be changed as often as you like. Both Mr. Trollope and Mr. Goles have sneered at me for suggesting that all the method should be rung in a peal. It has come to uy knowlodge that a four-method Surprige Major composition has been composed ia whicls all the bells do all the work in eacls method. It only shows what can be done. And whether two methods ar 40 , it is both spliced; nothing combined, please, but Super Spliced if you like. If Mr. Coles and his friends liad drawn up a resolution abolishing the rule that all methods should have Plain Bob lead ends and that leads of mothods need not yevorse true, it would have been somethong for the advancement of ringing and have been a credit to them.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

RECORD MEETHNG AT DISS.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Some misunderstanding seems to have occurred with regard to the use of the bells of St. Magnus', Loudon Bridge, ta-morrow, by vigitors to the Metropolis for the Central Councl meeting. A peal atternpt at 4.30 p.m. had previously been sanctioned, so that, if it is successful, it is unlikely to finish much before $80^{\circ}$ clock. If it is unsuccessful, of course, the belle will be available to other visitors, but we make twis announcement to save disappointment to any who may be thinking of going to this church on Saturday evening.
The heary ring of five at Leamington Hastings Ghurch, Warwickshire, is being rehong with new fitings in new framework by John Taylor and Co., Loughborough.

Messrs. Gillett and Jomston are strengthentng the frame aud repairing the fittings at St. Michacl's Church, Gloucester. This church wes the home of the $\mathbb{S}$. Michacl's Juniorg, made famous by the brothers James, and the bawd, inchuding Mr. John Austin, whioh they got around them in the now rather distant years towards the end of last century.

THE CHANDLER FOUNDRY.

To the Editor.
Dear. Sir,-The interesting account of the Chandler Toundry in a recent issue of "The Ringing World' reminds me that four of the five bolle in the tower of St. Paul's, Walden, Church, near Hitchiu, bear the inscription, 'Ohendler made me, $\mathbf{2} 655$. .'
The fourth bell was recast by Briant in 1812, and is a full gemi-tone too eharp, the local explanation being that a bell from the neighbouring tower of Knebworth was recast at the same time, and they were exchanged on repiacement.

THE CENTRAL COUNCLL.

Committes Reports.

The following are among the reports to be presented at the meeting of the Central Council next Tuesdny-:

PEAL COLLEGTION COMMITTEE.
Peals in the methods authorised, viz, Grandsiro and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Double Norqich, Treble Bob, Superlative, Cambridge, London, Yorkshire, Padsey, Futhand and Spliced Surprise, have been collected, typed and copies without the composers' mames attached have been sent to cach member of the committee for selection.
These selections are gredually coming in, and the book is beyinning to take shape.

Mr. J. A. Trollope's article on Fariationg has been rewritien by that gentleman, and is mow on sale.

METHODS COMMITTEE.

During the past year a new edition of the Collection of Minor and Doubles Methods hns been prepared and handed to the lon, secretary for publication in accordance witll the resolution of the Council.
By rearranging the methods and compositions and by omitting matter which has ceased to be of any great importance since the last edition was issued, it has been possiblo to reduce the size of the book and consequently the cost, and at the same time fo find room for a larger number of 720 's of Plain Bob, Kent. Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise, and a selection of 720 's in apliced methods.
A book on the Surprise Major nelhods lias also been prepared and lianded to the hon. secretary. ## MR. G. F WOODHOUSE'S RINGING MACHINES.

WILL NOW RING SPLIOED METHODS.
Mr. G. F. Woodthouse has effected modifications in some of his ringing machines. In Nos. 2 and 4 the screw-in-pegs have been replaced by thlurow over' pegs and the bob lieys altered in accordance with suggestions from Mr. A. G. Driver. In No. 5 (now wikh Mr. Driver at Belvedere), a sliding panel witll "drop $\mathrm{jan}^{\circ}$ pegs talzes the place of the barrel. In all machineg is is possible to splice methods, cither by using the bob keys or clanging tile pegs while the machine is running. I have rang all the spliced TCO's published by Mr. A. $\mathbf{G}$. Driver in 'The Ringing World' some time aga. The maclines will, therefore, riug, draw diagrams, splice and type out the changes. Nos. 1 and 3 liave been scrapped.

ANOTHER RECORD IN MINOR SPLICING.

 PEAL IN 52 METHODS.Yet another wanderful Minor performance has to be recorded this week. In our last issue we reported the setting up of a new record at Algarkirk, Lines, by the ringing of 48 methods in seven true 720's. Lasli Saturday, at Marple, members of the Chester Diocesan Guild yang a peal win which no fewer than 52 methods were incorporated. It is, of course, the greatest achievement in splicing that has yet been accomplished, and the ringers will be warmly congratulated upon the performance.
The methods used in the various extents will be found in the record of the peal. Five of the 780 's were the same as those used in the 46 -method peal rung at Buxton on January 18th, but we give below the two fresh extents (Nos. 2 and 3) which were introduced to add to the number of methads.
Extents Nos. $I_{2} 2$ and 3 in the peal were arranged by Mr . K. Lewis, from Mr. A. G. Driver's tables, and the remainder were from Mr. Driver's 42 -method peal, except that in No. 4 the thee-lead splice wat omitted.

Extent in eight wethods, viz. : Hexham, Surleet, Berwick, Beverley, Cambridge, Primrose surpriee, and Waltham, Burslem Delight.

Altogether, there were in the peal 112 changes of method
The hells at Marple are bung in the tower of the old church, which is not now userf for services. The serwices are held in the new church, which stands mext to it.
The bells themselves were cast in 1732 by A. Rudhall and originaly lung in lhe old Parisll Church, Stockport, When this church was rebuitt the bells were sold to Marple. Messrs. Taylor and Co. recently rehung the bells, which were reopened early this year
Incidentally, it may be mentioned that we also record this weels a beal of Spliced Surprise Minor in no fewer than 32 methods (arranged by Mr. A. G. Driver) at Folkingham, Lincs.

ANOTHER COUNCIL PUBLICATION

N1FW BOOK ON 'VARLATION AND TRANSPOSITION.'

Another addition to the Central Comeil publications is now on gifle. If is a book on 'Variations and Iransposition '-a revised collection of a series of articles, which were specially written for 'The Ringing Worla " by Mr. J. A. Jrollope a fow years ago.
Many readers will zemember that there have, from time to time, heon sugrestions made lor the setting up of a register of compositions, so LHal an futhor could, by including his work in such a register, definitoly ostablish his claim to it.
Tho successial building up of this proposed register was eventually shown to be such a formidable task as to be almost, if not quite, impossible, and by no means the least of tho diffeulties was that of deciding what was and what was not an original composition

As a mabter of lact, two sets of totally dissimilar figures may be two versions of the sume composition; and two sets of figures, exactly alike, apparenty, can be diferent compositions. That is the point to which Mr. Trollope's articles lead us; with this further diffeulty in deciding euthorship, that, given vertain mathematical conditions, there are types of composition which, as it were, produce themselves.
Wito then, is to decide what is original and what is not, and who could bo fanat to search a rogister so complicated to escertain an author's right to his produclions? . That was the great snag to attempling the tnsk sugacested.
Tho whole business of composition has got far beyand the generally accepted conditions of fifty years ago, and there are much subtler poinis to bo taker into account than whether, say, A's peal of Bob Major is tho same as B's, with calls at Wrong substituted for calls at Home.

All these mattars and a great many more of deep interest, not only to composers and would-be composers, bit to anyone who takes an intelligenk interest in the art, are discussed in 'Variations and Transposition, in which the subject is deal with lucidy and without any moro fecluicalities than are absolutaly necessary. It is written, indeed, in a way that makes the subject understood, with a minimum of mental excrion.
The book can be obtained, post free, for 1s, from the Central Council Librarian

GUILDFORD GUILD AT WITLEY.

Surrey in May has a peculiay fascination, and membors and visiters of the Chikdford Districts wha nssembled at Witiey on Saturdey enjoyed therngelwes thorotshly. They came from a wide area. A doctor who lenint to ring at Cranleigh added a Dorset tower to the list in 1.he wisilors' bonk. Portsinouth was well represented, and friends from the Croydon aren swelled the party. Iocal ringers, however, were pult to blame by a lady member of the Middlesex Association, who hiked from Guildford without even a companion to tell her fairy starica on tha way. starige on the way.
The afternoon and ound tile circlo at Witley was spent according to 'Cocker.' Many pendulna of the clock ocenpying the centre of the ringine chamber lutt Herg were enongh experts present to ring a rood service touch ai" Stednian and in the evening to jndulto their fancy in Superlative. There were other things, however, to make the wisit memarable. Tho sumptions tor in the new Village Hall, the cricket match on the Green. tha landbell ringing in the bar parlour of the white Hart mud the cardinlity of the welcome extonded by the Vicar (the Rev. P. (i. Holfen) cannot he liglatly passed over.

The Guike service in the beanifine church and the helpful words of the Viens were grently appreciated. He left one conundrum with his henvers. Who would you prefer in the belfry? $\boldsymbol{A}$ good ringer who was a bad man or a medinm ringer who was a good man?
By the way, Willey have samething to remember the district's visit. At flire ten table a presentation was made by Mr. George Grover to Fordou Wootion-a collecting box of the Guild Benevolent Fund. Arbaty tho box has sufficient inside to jingle.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.  RULES TO BE RECONSLDERED

A very pleasant general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Thirsk on Saturday, May 16th, by the kind invitation of the Ficar and the local company, when about 40 members attended and thorouglily enjoyed their visit to this old market town and its interesting church. The bells, which are a very pleasant and bandy ring of eight (tenor 15 cwt .), were kept going in a variety of methods during the afternoan and evening, but perbaps the most satisfactory point about the meeting was the large number of towers which were represented, as will be shown by the following list, and the long distances which many of those present had travelled. The towers represented were as follows: York Minster, Bradford Cathedral, Sheffield Cathedral, Selby Abhey, Ripon Cathedral, Holy Trinity, Hull ; St. Ohad's and St. Wichasl's, Headingley ; Aysgarth ; St. Marie's, Sheffeld ; Sherburn-in-Elmet ; Thirsk; All Saints' and St. Giles', Pontefract; Clurist Churcl, Armley; Birstwith: Thoraaby. Stillingtom and Pudsey. An excellent tea was provided at the Wlute Lion Fotel, where alsu were lield the committee and general meetings.
The president (Canon O. C. Marshall) was in the chair, and he was supporten by the treasurer, the pcal secretary, Mr. G. Lewis, Mr. P. J. Johnson, Mr. F. Cryer and other members of the committee.

Atter the Fiear and the local company had been very sincerely thanked for their invitation and kind welcome, Mr. Stott replied for the local company and apologised for the absence of the Yicar owing to illness in his family.
The President then reported that he had heard from the general secretary (Mr. J. E. Cawser) that lie was sorry that he could not be present, and saying that he thought that he ought to resign his office, as owing to pressure of work he was unable to attend to his duties as he felt that he ought. The committee had instructed him to write to Mr. Camser and ask him to continue in office until the term for which he was elected was completed, when the matter could be again considered.
It was decided to hold the next meeting, on the third Saturday in September, at Escrick, if permission could be obtained, and, failing that, at Heptonstall,
The Prcsident also reported that a sub-committee, consisting of the president, the gencral sectetary and treasurer, the peal secretary and Mr. P. J. Johnson, had been appointed to go into the matter of the revisian of the rules, and that members were invited to send in gny suggestions which they mirht lave.
At the mecting of the General Committee, a resolution of very sincere sympatily was passed in connection with the death of Canon Elsee, president of the Lamenshire Association, and the president was asked to convey to the Lascashire Association and to the relatives of Canon Elsee their sense of loss which the whole Exercise had sustamed by his death and their sincere sympatiy.
A most enjoyable day was concluded by more ringing at the Parish Church, and by a run to the last train (by some!) in the eveling.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

The beautiful weathor bronsht an excellent number of ringers and friends to Brinklow for a meeting of the Warwickshire Guild, held there on Saturday. May 16th.
Brinklow is an interesting village, for it is situated on the Roman Fossway, which passes close to the church. Behind the church is a hill which seweral of the more cnergetic members climbed, and from the top of which e good wiew may be obtained of the country around. An old British camp was situated at this spot and this hill, or tumulus, was used by the Romans for defensive purposes.
During the afternoon a waricty of methods were rung on the musical ring of six hells. Ten was taken in the Church Rooms, to which about thirty ringers sat down, representing Stoke, Numeaton, Allesley, Cailvers Coton, Bulkington, Lillington, Monk's Kirby, Bedwarth ane the local band.
After tea a return was made to the belfry and the bells were kept going until about 8 p.m. The methods rung during the lay included Louton and Cambridge Surprise. Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob Minor, St. Simon's, Stedman, April Day and Grandsire Doubles.

AN OXFORD RINGER.

OF THE EARLY EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.
By J. Armiger Trollope.
On Sunday morning last was found dead in his bed, Mr. Thomas Flaxon, of St. Peter's-in-the-East, Oxford. He was abroad on Sattrday last, and I think I met & spoke to him that day or the day before & he had that very day been ringing at Magd. College. He was a single man and turned of seventy years of age. He was a Taylour by Trade but very indifferent at that business, minding chiefly ringing at wh. he was most excellent being deservedly looked upon as one of the best Ringers in the World. He was a very honest, innocent, harmless man, and one that might be trusted on any account. He was very well beloved but very poor. Some years since he was bit in one of his Legs by a latge Dog wch. could never be cured. He was otherwise a very strong lusty man. He was buried last night in St. Peter's-in-the-East Church Yard, almost under Edmund Hall buttery, where his Brother (who died a few years since and had been also an excellent Ringer and was also a Taylor, tho' a Bungler & poor) had been buried before, at wh. time were rung two handsome Peals, one round ringing (as he was carrying to Church) the other Changes (after he was put in the Ground)."
What a perfect little picture this is! We can almost see the old man as he limped along the streets of Oxford two hundred years ago, tall and gaunt of body, shabby in dress, and not overclean in person. We can see his preoccupied air as he moves along till someone stops and speaks to him, and the grimy old face lightens up with the smile which shows that, be the outside what it may, the heart within was pure gold. He belonged to a class of man long since crushed out by modern social and economic conditions, who dared to live their lives according to an ideal and in defiance of economic laws, and were prepared to pay the price.

To a man who judges success in life by financial or social standards, he was an utter failure. To a man who holds with Dr. Samuel Smiles that a person's first duty is to be thrifty, industrious and capable, he was a moral wreck. The world has very little use for dreamers and bunglers, and if, in addition, they happen to be very poor they soon get broken. But there must have been many like Flaxon at Oxford in the 18th century, only in more fortunate circumstances.
If he had been born in a higher social class, or if he had had a patron in early life, so that he could have graduated at the University, and if he had had just sufficient learning to get a college fellowship, then he could have pursued his pet study or hobby for the rest of his life, not without the society of others likeminded with himself, or he could have retired to a college living to spend his days in a quiet and stagnant backwater. Fate ordained otherwise, and he had to live out his philosophy of life under conditions that most showed its weaknesses; but if someone had called him a failure, he would have been justified in pointing out that, while good tailors were many, there were very few men who could be classed among the best ringers in the world.

He was very poor, but he was innocent ; and that, we are assured, will bring a man peace at the last. He was (Continued in next column.)

'CHASE' DOUBLES AND SOME OTHERS.

 To the Editor.Sir,- 'Chase, or 'Chace' as it appears in the fifth odition of Monk's 'Campanalogia Improved,' is evidently a different method to tho one rung under thet name at the present time. 'Chase,' as we know it round bere, is defnively Stedman Slow Courge reverged.
Will the Editor publish the figures as they appear in 'Campanalogia Improved'?
P. AMOS.
'Chace' given in Monk's fifth edition of 'Campanalogia Improved,' is the following method of Eonbles:-

| 12345 |
| :--- |
| 21354 |
| 23145 |
| 32415 |
| 34251 |
| 43521 |
| 45312 |
| 54132 |
| 51423 |
| 15432 |
| 14532 |

CLEAR DERINITION NEEDTED.
Sir,-The letter by Mr. P. Awas was very interesting nond raises a point of some isportance to Doubles towers. He mentions "Chace, Is it not possible to call a plain lead of Chace a Eingle, and with Grandsire Bob and JPlain Lcads obtain 16 six-scores? What is the correct name of the methon? Sutely Grandsirc?
An atherative single is given in whe O.C. Collection for Graurlsirebut as part of the Grandsire method. If any of the other singles are used surely it is stili Grandsire?
In the IInor ColLection of Methods a very slight variatinn in work only seems to watialt a change of name, e.g., Double Oxford and Thelwall: Iondon and Eytham: Sti. Clement's and Childwall: Frodshan and Windermere. In these pairs of methods the only change of work appeare to be, ese. in Double Oxford:-

\begin{array}{ll}
242 \\

The same wariation can be made in Doubles in (9) New Bols, (12) Reading, (I6) St. Simon's, and (24) St. Rartholomew. Does the variation become another method? If so, what is the correct name? They probably cease to be true Doubles, but appear to produce trite six-scores. which seem capable of giving more interesting ringing than, say, 'Dream,' or any other of the variated Grandsire methods. Is not 'April Day' 'spliced' Plain Bob and Grasdsira?
A. clear definition of what renlly constitates a new method-as regards name, that is-from somo reliable autborits would be interesting.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. CENTRAL BRANCF.

Abont 25 members met at Haddenliam, Cambs, on Werlnesday, May 20th, for the mid-week practice. Standard methods from Plain Bob to London Surprise were rung. A welcome visitor was Mr. A. F. Austin, who did so mata for Surprise Minor ringing in the Ely Association in the years 1923 to 1929.

At Fordham a good muster gathered, nearly 40 atteudiug during the day. Mr. J. W. Pickett had everpthing ready. The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. B. Prior), and a welcome risitor was Mr. J. H. Shepherd, with his rule, as usual.

SUSSEX ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Enstem Divisiun of the Sussex County Assnciation was held at Mayfiald on Siaturday, when members attended from Eastbourme Heathfeld, Brightoh (the Good Shepherd), Hrilsham. Uekfield, Turbridge Wells, Rotherfield, and Mr. W. Pickworth, of Hastings, together with members of the local hand. The Vicar, the Rev. T. B. The memlvers then returned to the tower and the bells were kept going until' 8.30 .

an indifferent tailor, but he was well beloved; and even at this distance of time we feel glad that his fellowringers gave him two handsome peals before and after he was put in the ground. They could have done no more if he had been the Vice-Chancellor, or, for that matter, King George hinself.

CLERICAL RINGING WEEK

HAPPY DAYS IN HEREFORDSHIRE.

This yenr's elezical ringing week was held, with headquarter's at. Heruford, from April 20 th to 25 th, and, as last year, was under the eble manderement of the Rev. E. V. Cox, who, instead of having an accident before coming, as he did last year, suocecded, much to the vegret of everyoua, in getting tonsililis, which prevented his arriving befoze 'Hestay, und attacked him again on Friday. However, he is consoled by kuowity that he gave us, as last year, a really delightful time, whilo lis thaining in punctuality is betgizning to bear fruit.
Tho parly inchided the Rev. E. S. and Mrs. Powell (Staverton), the Ravs. E. C. Bengon (Burghill), ©, Carew Cox (Lyme Ragis), E. V. Cux (Brampford Speke), Fi Li. Lidwards (Kington Magaa), R. P. Farrow (East Lulworth), E. Bankes James (Fareaam), H. S. T. Thichardson (Hereford), B. F. Shepparl (Cambridge), A. G. G. Thurlow (Woking hino), W. M. K. Wirren (Bineger), G. Etiot Wigg (High Wycombe), R. F. Wilkinan (Ordsall), W. P. Wright (Eynm). The Rev. C. G. Littlchales (Allensmore) joined the party at times. Most of the visitore stayed at the Milve Hotel, Hereford, but Mrs. Benson kindly offereci somo of us hospitality at her pretty new home at Burghill.
Firht of us started the work tyy meeting at Holme Lacy on Monday afternoon, whore wo soon got going on the fine old Rudhall eight afi dating tram 170日, tenor $10^{\circ} \mathrm{cwt}$ ), Here we reng Stedman Triples and Toh Major and lowered in poal twe always attempted this as well as risimg in pual when practicable). Tho others arrived at warious times later. We had tea the the New Inn, twhere Mr. C. Edwards, Mastor of the Horcford Diocesau Guild, met us. Fe showed us a topy of 'Olavis Campanologia' by Willian Jamen, 1788, with a fine founder) to the Gelstemen Ringers of Ifwallope in Herefordshive, 1794 '-a most interesting look. After tea we proceeded to St. Mery's, Fownlone, where we rang Cambridge, Kent and lowered in peal. Tho bella are a fine six (tenor 12 cwt.), rehung by Gilhett and Johngton, 1833 , on lall bearings, in a melal frame. The old oak frame still exists, several fect above its successor, and the interesting Norman central tower js crowned loy a fige woadon spire. At 6.45 p.m. (prompti) we arrived ab St, George's, Woolhope, where 'a parson rajsed Cain on the organ, while six parsons unised the hells in confusion. ${ }^{\text {a }}$ Douhle Conlt and Rols Minor went hetter, encourageat by the presemce of the Vicar, the Rev. O. Stallard. The tenor here, about 18 cwt., is reputed lomilly to be "the finest bell in the West Countree" (I). After euch an energotic suart, on top of (for most) a loge journey dinner at the Mitre was maturally taken equally promptly. We had a niee Fithe lounge all to ourselves, where we could ring bandbells and talk; and even telephone. (What at telephone! You had to turn the handle firm ono wny, then the other; then give the thing a good bang, wait five minules, let someons else have $n$ try; then the hotel porter would come ancl say, 'Have you mamared to get through, sir?" We wish our local operator would sometimes appear in our own stody like this. as wo cannot throw eges at him while he remains in the safety of his own exchaugo.)

CONSTITUTIONAL PROCEDTPRF?

On Tuesday we want for a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Marya, Burghill (tenou 10 ewt.). Previansly there lad been discussion as to under whose anspices peals should he tung. There didn't seem to bo one nasociafion to which we all belonged. It seemed obvious that we ought to join the Feveford Guild, but only threc wero already menthers gon how eauld three elect the other five? The matber was anlven? $h_{\text {? }}$ lhe dinee electing one more, then the four members electad tha other four. Is this constitutional, or is it tha way they do elections in fumany? Anyhaw, it didn't matter for that day, as we didull get the peal. It went wall for 20 minutes, when the 3 wd rope broke. As this in E. G. B.'s own tower, we nearly decided to tie him and longe him there. Howevor, hinder counsels prepailed, and after nome Kinnt nof Double Norwich and lanch at the Mitre, we werst on to Wellington, and rang frondon and Bob Minor an a very fige six (tonar ahout 19 covt.), in a big tower, where there is an ola Sanctus bell in libs hell chamber nix bells), where we nomyly froze in a dranghty ringing chanmber, Forn we rang London and Cambridge Minor, and inspected the well in the shurch, whero St. Fthelbert was buried, before his translation to Foreford Colhedral. We also listened to a long and ancient legend about low lhe Devil lint one of the bells in a fleld rear the churchYuxl: a small linndhrlt found nenr this place yearg ago proves the tiruth of the story. This was told was by the Vicar (the Rew. Dy. E. Rowlands). Tf' you don't helievn it, go and see the bell in Hereford Mnseum. Thore is also a small hell on the church foor and as sanctus hell ahow the alameel arch. After ten at the Volunteer Inn, we went Io Sutiou Eto Nicholas (six bells), whero we xamg Kent mad Cam-
 London, Puh Minor, Grandsire Dontiles', This is H. S. T.'s church, So nudumily tho Viear of Durghill whe somerhat consoled at seeing a rope hreak" here, too. We noliced "Farlathrilling' ant "SuntinkingThat, ' flanked up heskd the chiming appratins. We tope they keep tho larals open hetifer thats this wlieli they eltime the turies.
On Wadnesdry, six members went, for a peal of Miner at Bredwardine (St. Andrew. tonor 7 f ewt.). Ther had mo more success than the others, who went for Cnmbridge Mijor at St. Mary's, Clifford (tenor ( 12 cwt.). This was lost after 50 minutes' good ringing owing to a bob being missed. After some Double Norwich and Superlative, we all rejoined, and had lumel at the Wye Hotel, Hay. Snow was all areund us in this distriot and on the mountains nearbr. After lunch Wo went to the famous church of Abbey Dore. The nave of this building has gene, the choir and transepte remain, owing to the generosity of John Scudamore, who restored them in 1633. He may have built the present tower, which cortains six bells, by Rudiall, tenor 9 cwt . Here we rally Cambridge, St. Clemeat's, Oxford, Kent, Bob Minor, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles. The next tower was Allensmore, where we fonm that E. G. B. had got left behind. However, wo rang Bob Minox (tenor 11 cwt ), and went to dimer at the Mitre, where he turned up safely. Afterwards we rang Grandsire and Stedman Caters, and Bob Major and Royal, an the grand ten at Hereford Gathedral (tenor 40 ewt.), and had a game of hide and seek round the beams in the ringing clamber.

On Thurghin, we lad another attempt for Cambridge Major at St. Peter's, Ligwardine. This went west after 50 minutes, and after some Little Bob and Stedman, the eiglat disappointed ones went on to Halmer (six, tenor 15 cwt .) to hear the last 720's of a peal of Bob Minor (the only peal rung on the tour). After lunch we weint to Peterchurch, fine church, mostly Norman, where we rang London and Plain Bob (six belle, tenor 10 ewt., all by Rudhall). At Madley (six bells) we rang stt. Clement's, Oxiord and Kent; then lad tea with the Vicar (the Rev, G. V. Sumner). This is a grand clurch, like a small cathedral, with some lovely old glass and a fine crypt. ENTERESTING VISITS.
At Giaton Bikhop we were met by the Rector' (the Right Rev. Bishop Ilif), who ghowed us round, alkd afterwards we rang Londoll, etc., on athother Rudhall six (tenor 12 ewt.). Following dinner at, the Mitre. We rang Bob Major, Kent, Cambridge and Stedman on the five eight [tenor 18 ewt.) at All Saints', Herelond, and finished a pleasant evening with Grandsire Caters on the handbells.
We went for Bob Major again at Burghill on Friday. This went west alter an hour, whilo at the same time an attempt for Minor at Allesmore produced nothing bul two $720^{\prime}$ s of Cnmbridge and same Oxford. One or two spent the rest of the morning inspecting the very fine chain library at Hereford Cathedral. After lumela at the Swart Hotel, Ross, we much eajoyed Grandsire, Kent, Double Narwich and Cambrigge on the very fire Rudhall eight (temor 25 cwt .) at St. Mary's, Ross. This is a grand tower, with a spire 209rt, bigh, rebuilt in 1721 by John Kyrle, the 'Man of Ross,' who also gave tho tenor. In the church are tombs to various members of the Rushall family, connections of the bellfounders; aleo the famous ' living hree."
Much Marcle (St. Mary) was the next tower visited; this is no interestiog arcle (sit. Mary) was the mext tower visited; this is an tower contains six bells (toveral 14 ave tombs. on wo rang Cambridge St. Clement's and Stedman. The next place tisited, Ledbury, has a very fue church; its almost calliedral-like west front is Norman, with larga additions of the decortated period; the nave lias traces of its original Norman pillars, but was heightened at the same time as the west front whs altered; the fino chancel still retains its Narman grches and cleve日tory windows. The finest featare of all is the lovely decorated clapel on the norin side of the chancel. This is richly decorated with the ' Ball Flower' so much in use at the fime it was butit, The very grand wower and heautifilly proportioned spire are quite detached from the church; the ringing eliamber is very large, tho ropes rather far apart, and there is a long dranght of rope. We rang Kent and Stedman hero (eight belle, tenor $24 \mathrm{cwt}$.
After tea nt Yincers Cafe, we went to the Iast tower of the weck, St Jumes', Colwall. On the eight here (teror 11 ewtu) we ravg Kent, Double Norwich and Stedman. There is an old Rudhall sanctus bell in the ringing chambor, inseribed 'God sond peace, Amen, 1709.'
Althourgh we have not succesded in deluging the colutans of "The Ringing Wordd with peal recotds, yot we did have a most enjoyable week. This whe, of course, to be expected, as last yeat proved to us What a delightful week the Rev. E. V. Cox conld arrange. We do wish to thank him very much, also all the incumbents who allowed us the use of their bells; those, and their wives, who invited us to tea; places; and the management of the Mitre Hotel, Hereford, who contributed to the nnccess of the week by putting us up in comfort.

OVER THE COTSWOLDS.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE RINGDRAS VISIT GLOUCESTERSHTRE
Despite the cold weather, a most enjoyable excursion was held by the Irthlingborough ringers on Easter Monday. Starting just before 7 a m. With wives and friends, Northamptonshire was soon left belind for Warwick. A most lovely wiew of Warwick Castle was obtained on crossing the River Aroll. Evesham, the first stop for ringing, was rached after passing througlz Stratford-on-Avor. After an inspectron of the two parish claurches of Evesham, the Bell Tower was ascended, where Mr. Femning, jun, had all in readiness for ringing. This fine peal of ten bells, with tenor 31 cwt., was very much enjoyed, and included in the ringing done was a plain course of Yorkshire Surprise Major. The bells in this tower serva both churches, which are only separated by the small churchyards and a footpath. Services are held in hoth at the same time, and it was pleasing to learm that each has very good congregations. Many pleasant hours could be spent in this lovely spot, but after an hour's ringing the visitors went on to Tewlcesbury. The lovely Vale of Evesham was just showing the first signs of forthcoming blossoms, and a visit Iater, when all the acres of fruit trees are in bloom, must be gloripus.

Tewkesbury 4 bbey proved another place where hours ate needed for the full appremation of its beauty. Here the party were met by Mr. Devereux, who led them to tha minssive tower, and after a good climb they foum themselves if the belfry. While some were rimging obhers climbed to tire top and enjoyed the view. Others, again, stajed below and enjoyed the wonders inside the Abbey. Rounds were rung on the peal of twelve, and the best change ringing that could be done was a good contse of Bristol Surprise Major. The soumd of the bells attracted a visitor from Clester, who lefl his friends and fonm others. ringing with them a course of Cambilige Surprise Major. After lunch the journey was contimuer to Cheltenham. At the Parish Church they found the weteran, Mr. W. T. Pates, waiting for them. Rounds were rung on the pery handy ting of twelve with tenor of 224 cut., but aftur one course of Stedman Caters the visitors contented themselves. with the back cight, finishing a good day with a courge of London Surprise Major. The homeward. journey was by way of Stow-ou-Wold and Banbury, a nost lovely ride with glimpses of tiny hamlets and winding streams.

Thanks are especially due to Mr. Hemming, of Eveslaam, Mr. Devereux, Tewkesbury, and Mr. W. T. Pates, of Cbeltenhaw, for their kindness, while the various church authorities' permission to ring was much appreciated.

MEMORIAL TO A GREAT RINGER.

At one of the most representative gatherings of ringers seen at a bell opening since the Stedman tercentenary celebrations at Cambridge in 1931, the memorial to the late Mr. William Pye was dedicated at St. John-theBaptist's Church, Leytonstone, on Saturday. Ringers gathered from many parts of the country to do honour to one who is acknowledged to have been the greatest exponent of the art in his own or any preceding generation. No other ringer achieved the great feats which he accomplished, and very few, even with his opportunities, could ever have done so. William Pye had ambition as well as skill, and he combined them in a way that leaves him, as far as it is possible to judge, in a position unchallenged as the most outstanding figure of all time in the Exercise.

The provision of a suitable memorial to him was not altogether an easy task, and the joint committee of the Middlesex and Essex Associations are to be congratulated upon the successful outcome of their efforts. The response to the appeal was, however, generous and widespread and a remarkable tribute to the universal honour in which William Pye was held. He was one of the most retiring of men; he never boasted of his achievements; and yet he impressed himself upon all those with whom he came into contact and upon the imagination of hundreds who never rang with him. Associations, towers and individuals throughout the British Isles subscribed, and when the memorial was dedicated the cost had been practically secured. The memorial is in the parish in which Mr. Pye lived for 30 years, and at the church where he constantly rendered assistance. It was a happy solution of the problem of site, inseparable from the fact that in his ringing career Mr. Pye's chief interest had been in the neighibouring county of Middlesex, where he had for more than a quarter of a century been Master of the Association, and taken a great part in building up the fortunes and prestige of the organisation, but where he had been associated with no individual tower.

There is something very fitting in perpetuating the memory of outstanding ringers, in the way that William Pye has now been honoured. Famous men in the past history of the Exercise have come upon the scene, taken their part in building up the art, and made their exits, and of many of them we do not even know their resting place. For their share in the development of ringing they, too, deserved a memorial, that succeeding generations might have been reminded of what they contributed to the art, but they often left behind them only a (Continued on page 366.)

Fortunately in these days there is a greater desire to honour the memory of those who have given their time and talents to raising the status of the art and the Exercise, and the appreciation shown of the life work of William Pye is a well deserved tribute to a man of outstanding skili, genius and achievement.

FOR BEGINNERS.

COURT BOB TREPLES.
Ancther Triples method with two hunt bells, which ringers who are following this series should bave little difficulty in ringing is Court Bob Tyiples. It is somewhat similar in coastruction to Oxford Bob, but, except when a bob is made, it contaius no 3rd's place or dodging in 4-5.
One bell makes 5th's place, leads and makes 5th's place again, as in Oxford, but with the dodging cut out. This breakg up the long dodge behind, and the ordinary work in $6-7$ is just single dodging. The bell that comes up belind after tho bell in the lhunt, dodges down. The bells that dodges with it, dodges both up and down, and the third bell dodges up with this lafter. It cannot dodge down because the treble comes up to prevent it. All the rest is plain hunting. We aught, perhaps, to point out that at the start all the bells begin to hunt, the 'odd' bells up and the 'even' bells down

This is the order in which the aycle of work occurs:-
Pass the treble in 1-2, make 5th's and lead
Pass the treble in 34, make 5 th's and lead
Pass the treble in 5-6, dodge 7-6 (down).
Pass the treble in 45 , dodge $6-7$ (up) $7-6$ (down),
Pass the treble in $2-3$, dodge $6-7$ (up).
The bob is a 'Grandsire' bob; that is to say, the bell in the hant with the treble is changed, by the making of a 3 rid's place by the bell passing the treble in 23 , cansing the lind bell to dodge (buth only a single dodge) in 54 (down). The dodge is made with the hell that would have done its second 5th's, but the dodge cuts out the place, and this bell, lavicg dodged with tho one coming out of the bunt, goes on to clodge in 6-7 (up).
For short touches you can call any bell In and Oit at 2 , theec times, or befor Before aud Wrong three tineg; and you can make up different lengths by putting them together in much the same way as we showed, in a former article, that touches of Grandsire Triples can be made up by the uso of courses with the observation bell called 'In and Out' and 'Jefore and Wrong.' But your courses will be of a different length. Grandsire courses the called are of four leads each. Court Bob are of five leads each.
Here is a quarter-paal (taken from tho Central Comeil's 'Collection Triples Methods, in which you will find not only a variety of methods, but also touches and peals of each) : Call the 7th Before and Home; Before and twiee Home; Wromg and thres times Home (twice repeated).
The first recorded peal of Court Bob Triples nits rung at Warnhan, Sussex, in 1886.

BARWELL RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING

On May 27th, 1886, at Peckleton, Leicestershire, the wedding of Mr and Mrs. Gbarles H. Belton took place. This year, therefore, sees their golden wedding anniversary. Migrating to the nearby village of Barweli in 1890 , Mr. Belton entered the serviee of the Rector, a position he has faithfully lield ever since. Fe joined the Midland Counties Association over 44 years ago, aud it was fitting that for this golden wedding amiversary the hon. seoretary shonld coriduct a special peal composed by a former president. After the peal the ringers were entertained by the ' bridegraom,' and both he aud Mrs. Belton received the hearty congratulations agd good wishes of erch and every one.

The spring ruectigg of the Tonbridge District was held at Shipbourne on saturday, May 9 ith, whon 50 members came to this lovely spot in answer to the secectialy's appeal, not to disappoint the Vicar (the Rev. They represented the following towers: Shipbourne, Tast Jeckham, Sevenoaks, Tunbridge Welle, Brasted, Hawk hurst, Leigli, Tonlmidge, Ghicidingetone, Bromley Common, Rotheyfiek, Gravesend, Egerton, Godstone and Sturry. RINCING ' NO MAN'S LAND.'
On Saturday, May $23 r d$, a very enjoyable meeting of ringerg athered from tine Peak District was held at the ancient Church of St. Felen, situated in the beautiful valley of Darley Dale, which in its spring garb is looking just now at itw very best. In the churchyard stands the famous Darley gew tree, which is said to be 1,000 years old and is 11ft. in diameter. Darley Dale is noted for its lead mine and Stanciffe stone, also its Druad remains, some dating from 1,000 B.O.

Tho local band are one of the few in the district wha regularly practise change zinging. The Peak District is a very differlt ane to organise owing to its scattered nature and the remoteness of some of its villages. It is a 'no man's land' to the ringing associations survounding it. A few ringing meetings are, therefore, arranged during thas year by ringers residing in the district to keep change ringing from dying out in this part of the country,
St. Helen's belis (8) were rung during the afternoon and evening to various standard methods, including Grandsire, Stedman, Double Norwich and Cambridge. London was also attempted. Some 20 ringers sat down to tea in the British Legion Club, which is close by the church. A short meeting was held after tea, to arrange place and date of next meeting. The Rector of Darley welcomed the ringers during lea time, and altogether the meeting was a very auccessful one.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. John TayIor and Co, have the order to rehang the ring of six bells at Goathurst, Somerget.

Spalding, Lincs, has the unique distinction of a centenarian churchwarden. Mr. George Jarwis, who is still in office, reached gis one huadredth birthday on Friday, and at peal in his honour was rung at Spalding Parish Chureh. By a coincidence it was the one huadredth peal by Mr. A. J. Farr.
Towards the cost of the new peal of bells at Drayton Parslow, Bucks, a garden party and sale of work is to be held in the Rectory Gardens on Saturday, June 13th. Ringers are invited to come and ring on the new peal of bells, which will be at their disposal in the afternoon end evening.

Few ringers have the pleasure of rin-ting a peal for their father's 99th birthday. This has happenod to Mr. Fiank Slingsby, who took part in tha Cheriton peal on May 26th. Everyons is loping for another Kent century.
Sandringham Surprise Major, the frat peal of which was rung at Warfield last week by the Oxford Diocean Guild, is the late Arthur Craven's Rughy Surprise, with 2ad's and 7th's added. The composition was one of a peal of Ipswich Surprise.
In connection with the recent Spliced Surprise peal, in which Painswick, Yorkohire, Slaperlative and Cambridgo were rung, it should be pointed out that this plan can only be used when the tenors are kept together, and the belis in 5-6 must not be reversed. 'Befores ' can be used and the short courses are then rung Painswick, Yorkshire, Yorkshire, Painswick.
The peal of six at Bonvilston, Glam., are being restored by Messrs. Gillets and Johaston.
A peal of Stedman Cinques was rung by members of the London County Association at, St. Mary-He-Bow, Cheapside, on Saturday. The tenor of 54 ewt. was rung by Jack $A$. Waugh and the 11 th by James 4. A. Prior.

Mr. Waugh at the age of 24 is beliered to be the youngest ringer to ring a bell of this weight to a peal. Mr. Prior is only 23 and grate credit is due to these young ringers for the fine way they rang these heary bells.

While the 'golden wedding peal' rung at Barwell on Saturday last was being rung, Mr. and Mrs. Belton read the announcement in the local Press that the peal had been rung in their honour! Aren't some reporters optimistic!
Owing to building alterations, all ringing at Portsmouth Gathedral is cancelled for approximately two months.
At the annual meating of the Essex Association on Monday, Mr.玉. P. Duffield retired from the Mastership, and Dr. Spencer Phillips was elected to the office.

SUGGESTED MEMORIAL TO CANON ELSEE.

A LANCASBITE ASSOCTATION PROPOSAL.
On Saturday last, the Bolton Brench of the Lancashire Aasociation hold a very successful meetiny at St. Paul's Church, Walklen. At 3 p.m. the bells were going, and, with the exception of a short break for tea and business, were kept going in various methods up to Cambridge Surprise until a late hour. The bells, a new peal, with a tenor just under a ton, are considered to be exceptionally good, and the ringing at the meeting was of a first-class order, especially in the higher methods. There was a crowded tower and some good work was done, some members getting their first touch and others their first in higher method.
At the business meeting six new members were elected, including the Rev. Arthur Scott, the lecturer at the Parish Ohurch, Bolton. He was also nominated for the presidency of the asseciation in place of the late Ganon Elsee.
Mr. Thomas B. Worsley was elected bell adviser for the brancli.
The question of a memorial to the late president was discussed, and it was suggested that if a peal of ten or twelwe werg put in Bolton Parish Chureh it would be a suitable one. Canon Elsee was Rural Dean of Bolton, and he had often gaid that the fine lofty tower ought to possess a larger peal. There is no doubt the public of Bolton would support such a project.
A pote of thanks was passed to the Vibar for the use of the bells and the tea, and the local ringels for preparing and supporting suclr a successful meeting.

JUBILEE PEAL BOARD AT WALTHAM ABBEY.

To commemorate the silver jubilee peal of Grandsire Caters rung by members of the Herts Caunty Association at Waltham Abbey, a suitable board las been unveiled in the beliry. The Vicar, the Rev. A. V. G. Cleall, M.A, performed the ceremony, and all the ringera who took paxt in the peal were present.

After the unveiling the Vicar thanked the ringers for their services and Mrs. Berry for the especial care of the belfry.
Mr. George Debenham (conductor of the peal), on behalf of the ringers, thanked the Vicar and churchwardens for allowing the peal to be rung. adding that they little thonght a year ago that their beloved King would be taken so soou.

It is interesting to note that the Abbey celebrated the 876 th anniversary of its consecration on May 3rd.

THE WILLIAM PYE MEMORIAL.

BELLS DEDICATED AT LEYTONSTONE.

National Tribute to a Great Ringer.

A fitting and permanent memarial to one who has been described as 'the greatest ringer of all time - the late Mr. William Pyo-was dedicated at SL. John the Baptibi's Chureh, Leytonstone, on Saturday. Mr. Pye died on March 8th, 1935, after a winging career that made lim famous throughout his generation, his great abilities and his prodigious performances placing him among the men whose names will live in the Exercise for all time. The memorial which has now been set up to him has been subscribed to by ringers in every part of the British Isles, and it is grabifying that the culmination of the scheme should have been reacled at a time whon those who came to honaur his memory could include representatives of ringing organisations in many parts of the counlry.

ST. JOHN-THE-BAPTIST'S CHURCH, LEYTONSTONE, Where the Memerial has been Installed.

As is already well knowa the memorial consists mainly of two treble bells to angment to eight the existing six at St. Joln's Church. In uddition a memorial tablat has been placed in the church entrance porch. The soheme thus to honour Mr. Pye's memory was inaty gurated by the Middleser County Associntion, of which he was so loue Master; rimd the Essex Association, in whose area he lived and for which he did so mnch. The appen for funds was widely responded to by ringers and associations throughont the country, and in the space of less than twelve montha the seheme was conedived and carried to a successful conchusion.
The origimal bells at Leytonstone were cast by Thomas Mears and put into the fower in 1833. The new trebles have been made a perfect splice, and the whole peal immensely improved by the tuning of two of the old bells, so that Leytonstone not only has a handy zing with a tenor of 13 cwt , but one which nffords the ringers great pleasure to ring. The work has been admirably carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, who, in co-operation with Mr. T. H. Lewis (president of the Contral Council), who advised the committec, overcame a somewhat difficult prohlem in putting all the bells on one level. To do this a clock rase had to be moved to a corner of the tower, one side of the old wood frame had to be replaced by metal and part of the new frame built into the former angle doorway. It has been a tight fit, but very successfully carried out. An excellent circle of ropes has ben provided in the ringing chamber, where the bells are perfectly lieard.

The memorial tablet, of white marble, with lead lelters, was executed by M1. C. Mee, of Sprougiton, Ipswich. The inscription is: WILLIAM PYE,
Church Bellringet
Born August 14th, 1870 . Died March 8th, 1955.
The two smallest bells in the tower of this church were given by the Ringing Exercise in memory of one of the greatest men ia the history of change ringing-

THE DEDICATION.

A large congregation of pavinhioners, in addrion to about two hundred ringers, were present at the dedication service. Annong those who attended were Mrs. Pye (widow of the late Mr. W. Pye), Mr. E. W. Pye ( $\mathrm{bol1}$ ), Miss s. Pye (sister), Mr. und Mrs. Alfred Pye (broller and sister-in-law), Mr. G. R. Pye (brother), Mr. and Mrs. albert Pyo (brother and sistel-in-law), Mr. and Mrs. William Eye (hephew and niece), Miss Newman (Sister-in-law). The Middesex and Essex $A$ ssaciations were represented by their officials and members from a large number of towers, the president and hon. secretary represented the Central CounciI, and Mr. C. F. Johustou represented the founders.
The service, which began with the lymm, "Ring fortl, holy bells," was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. T. Browi), aud the music was finely led by the choir. The lesson, from Ecclesiastes xliv. I-16, was read by Mr. J. A. Trollope (vice-presidente of the South and West District of the Middlesex Association), and duming the singing of the hymi, "Ring out, wilk bells" (from Tennyson's 'In Memoriam ), the Bislop of Barking, accompanied by the clergy, the churehwardens (Messrs. H. S. Watts and H. E. Newton) and the choir, with Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Council), Mr. C. T. Coles and Mr. E, J. Butler (who had acted as hon. secrotaries of the scheme), proceeded to the tower.
Fere mar. Lewis requested the Bishop to "bless these bells now presented to the glory of Gol, for use in the service of this church, in memory of our cleparted brother, Willimm Pye.' The formal dedication and prayers followed, and the bells were then heard as a ring of eight for the first time, as they were rung in rounds by the local ringers.

Descending to the porch, the procession halted at the tablet, and Mr. C. T. Coles performed the unveiling ceremony with the words, 'To the glory of God and in loving memory of Willian Pye, I moveil this tablet, in the Name of the Father, the Son aud the Holy Ghost.' The Bishop then dedicated the tublet aud the procession refurned to the church to the singing of the hymun, 'The sacred bells of Tngland.'
The Bishop based his eddress on Plilippians iv. 4, 'Rejoice in the Lord alway, and again I say rejoice.' He pointed ont thet hells were only mentioned twice in the Bible, and, therefore, it was yatier dificult to find a text exactly suitable to that occasion. The 13ishop traced the early history of beils in the Chzistian Church, and said that the church in which they were gathered that aftemonn had been orected for over one Lutured years, and thore had been six bells in the tower during the whole of that time. Tho parish had waited long and patiently for the peai to be made up to the full number, and now it lad been achieved ly the generosity of ringers in all parts of the country. It meant move than mary realised, said the Bishop, to secure nu adequate number ama quality of bells in onr churches in the present day, because it became more and more dificult to find money in thoir growing parishes to provide clurches. A church tower, evepl, was a luxury and a full peal of bells a greater luxury still. Some few centnries ago a peal of bells was considered part of the equipment of almost every chureh, and they wore the delight of the parishoners and the care of the members of the team of riugers.

AN EMINENT AND DISTINGUTSHTD RINGTRR.
Contiming, the Bishop paid testimony to the value of the work rendered week by week by lihe ringers in the chureh belfries-services Fhick he was afraicl were uot always apprecinted, but which werc missed when the bells were silent. The Bishop spolse of the messages of the bells, both of joy and sorrow. He could not close, he said, withont referring to the eminent and distingusherl ringer in whose honour and in whose memory they had met that day. Thoso belonging to that chnrch were proud to think le was camecticd with it and proud that his friends should bave given those twa new bells and erectea that simple and heautifully inacribed frblet to dhe memory of Willian Pre. It was not for Jim (tho Bishop) to recount the distinguislied feats in ringing which be accomplished. Fie land rumg peals in 500 or 600 tamers nind was the only man who, siagle-landef, had rung the heavy teuor bell at Exeter Cathedral to a peal. One wondered whellier his great exertions might possibly have shortened lis life, but whether they did or not, they did bear testimony to the love of a devoted ringer for his art. He set a wonderful example to the younger generation. He (the Bislop) sometimes thought their young men today did not take so kindly to the art of ruging as they might do, but they could find no better outlet for their energies. Bellringing called nlike for skil and perseverance, for streugth and patience. A cinger had to be ready to respond to the call of duty, and ringing was an art which called for considerable self-sacrifice on the part of those who practised it. It seemed to him that it offered a wonderful senge of satisfaction and happiness to those who were its votaries. There was a wonderifl spirit of freemasonry among ringers, and an occasion like that was just an expression of that gpirit which drew ringers together. He trusted that the example of this grent gned wonderful man, of whom it was said he would go down in histary as the greatest ringer of his own or any previous generation, might be turned to account and bear much frutb. They met in a spirit of thanksgiving and admiration, and they would reecho that spirili in the sound of the bells-" Rejoice in the Lond alway, and again I eay rejoice.'
Tho service concluded with the hymn, 'Har's on high the joyful music.'
As the congregation left the church, an opening tonel of Stedman Triples was rung by a representative baud, E. P. Duffield (Master of the Tesex Association and Ancient Socient of College Fouths) 1, A. W. Coles (Master of the Middlesex Association), conductor 2 , Gabriel Lindoff (Trish Aesociation) 3. J. Austin (Gloucester and Bristol Ascociation) 4, A. B. Barker (OxFord Diocesan Guild) 5, E. H. Lewis (presiclont, Central Council) 6, Rupert Fichardson (Master, Lincoln Diocesan Guild) 7, W. II. Shuker (Lancashire Association) 8.

THE MEMORIAL SOHEME.

Visiting ringers were entortained to taa by the Vicar and churchwardens, and aftorwards Mr. C. T. Coles reviewed the memorial scheme.
To-day, he said, sees the completion of the scheme, first brought to tho notice of the Exercise just a year ago, to erect a permanent and suitable raemorinl to that great ringer, William Pye. It is not necegsary, at this gathering, to go into details of Mr. Pre's ringing career; the many great things he did in ringing are well known to us all. But on outstanding man such as he was deserved a real memorial, somelhing that would always be with us to remind us of him, although it is certain that those of us who had the privilege of assaciating with him will need no reminder of his sterling qualities as a linger and as man. The first mention of a memorial was made public at the Central Council meeting at Shrewslury, and at the beginning of October last an appeal was made by a joint committee of the Middesex and Tissex Associations. In the short space of eight months the whole schome has been bronght tio a successful issue. Over f200 has been raised, subseribed by the ringers of EngIand, Walos, Scollame and Ireland, and from one or two places overseas. Samo 36 of the societies affinued to the Conncil have sent donations, including all the sodieties operating in and around London. About 50 ringing bands have sent collective donations, and some 200 individual sulugeriptions have also been received. It is, therefore, not too much to say that this is a tunly national memorial (applanse).
We ara greatly indehted, continued Mr. Cales, to Canon Brown and the chureliwardens of St. Toln's, Leytonstone, for the assistance they Inve so willingly given (npplause). Nothitg has been too much trouble for then, aurl I have no hesitation in saying that but for their co-operation the opening wonld not lave taken place on this most conveniont dny, if nt all. The fiea of erecting bells as a memorinl to r rimger is, of corrse, not a new one, but it is no doubt the most suitalile meworial, and the one that, had Mr. Pye at any timo heon nskerl, lie would have chosen. Ke was a resident in this parish for over 30 years, and a very frequent ringer at this church. We feel, therefore, that we have made the wisest choice. Our thanks are due to Messrs. Gillett nad Johnstons for the work they have put in, in a very short spree of time, to get the work cione by to-dny and for the antisfactory splice they have made (applause). Xoll all hava, on the service paper, particnlars of the memorial bells and of the tablet which las heen placed in the porch-which, by the way, was made by a ringer, Mr. Charles Mee, of Ipswich. I would like to add that, when we hava received ono or two moce definitely promised donations, we should be in a position to meet the whole cost of the hells the tablet and ati inciontal clarges. There lan been work done in the tower, necessary in this case, over and above providing the two new bells. A clock wejght case had to bo moved, extra strengthening provided to the existing frame, and two of the old bolls retumed, which aded to the usunl cost of such a scheme as this, but all of this will be met. This, I feel sure sou will all ngree, is a great credit to the vinging, Fxercise (applanse). Tn due conrse a balance sheet will ho pubishad in 'The Ringing World, In the meantime $J$ would like to thank most sincerely all the nssociations, guilds, rineing hands and indivitual ringers for their generous donations, whinh linve mate this scheme possible. We are very grateful.
Mr. Coles ennelurled by expressing thanks for the assistance the commithen had at the berinning of their work from Mry. Lewis, the president of tho Conncil, who made an exlanstive exnmination of the tower and frame, and gave them most valuable information and advice. His assurance at the beginning that it was possible to add the two bells enabled them to go forward with confidence that the seleme was possible, and they were grateful to him for his advies (appláuse).
Ringers, Mr. Coles added, had come that day from all parts of the conntry, north, south, east and west, even from as far away as Dublin, Newcastie and Mavohester. He apolagised for the absence of the president of the Middlesex Association (the Rev. W. P. Cole Shene), who was detained by pressure of duties, Mr. James George, who was still incapacitated as the result of an accident, and Mr. F. W. Perrens (Coventry).

VOTDS OF THANES.

The president of the Central Council proposed a vote of thanks to the Bishop of Barking for coming to dedicate the bells on a day, probably incomvenient to himself, but very convenient for ringers, enabling them to have a representative gathering in view of their Parliament,' which met on Tuestay.
Proceeding, Mr. Lewis said he felt very happy that Messrs. Gillett aud Johnstor had been able to carry ont the seheme in the woy lis suggested at the start. He knew it would be a very tight fit to keep all the bells on one level, but he thought the result was very satisfactory and a very nice splice had been made.
Ho agreed with all that liad been said ahout Mr. William Pye being the greatest ringer and having accomplighed the greatest achievements ever known. If there was one man who came near him he thought it would be a man of his (Mr. Lewis') adopted connty of Kent, James Barlaam, who, considering the circumstances of his time-the end of the 18 th century-did some very fine achievements. Barlam was the only man he could think of who approached William Pye in this respect.
The Bishop of Barking, in replying to the vote of thanks, said it thad been a great pleasure to take part in the ceremony. He felt lie must say how gratified they were locally at the wonderful way in which ringers had come from all parts of the country to share in the service. He fomd that there were two poung ringers who had "pushbiked' all the way from North Stoncham, in Hampshire. If he had lenown that before, he did not think few would have said what he did in his address about the slackness of the younger generation in responding th the call of the helfry. It gave one great enconragement to find some of their younger brothers so tremendonsly keen (applause).

LEYTONSTONE FONODRED.

Mr. E. P. Duffield voiced the gratitule of those present to Cimon Brown, the churchwardens, Miss Miller and those who had been assisting her, for having made that gathering possible and giping them such a pleasant afternoon. He also had to welcome, in tho name of the ringers of Essex, the large companf who had come there to honour Willinm Pye. Athourh they recocrised that this great man was primarily known as Masfer of the Middlesex Association and that his first interest in the realms of rimgine was to that association, they in Essex were mindfin of the fremendous nmount they, as a county, owed to him. Ther were prond of the fact that he was born in the county and lived the whole of his life in it. He did os tremendous lot for ringing in Essex, and he, possibly more than any oflher man, raiged the sfandard of ringing in Essex. Mr. Duffeld coneluded by giving a wnim welcome to the visitors and thanking Ganon Brown for his splendid help from the beginning of the memorial scheme and the churchwardeus for their ready assistance in enabling them to honour and perpetuate the memory of a great man.
Canon Brown acknowledged the wote and said it had been a work of great pleasure to them in Leytonstone to co-operate with the ringers in this scheme. From start to finsh everylfing had gono smoothly. They at St. Joha's felt honoured that of all the towers at their command, St. John's should have been chosen for the memorial to Mr. Pye (applanse).
For the rest of the evening, under the direction of Mr. A. W. Coles, the bells were kept going by a succession of bands, who enjoyed the Hleasure of ringing on this wery handy ring.
The new bells, which bear the name of the founders and the date 1936, alse are inscribed :-
Treble :
The two trebles of this peal were given by the Ringing
Secont; Ereroise in memory of a great ringer.
All these were honoured in their generations,
And were the glory of their times.
Tlie treble, in nota $G$, weighs 5 cwt 18 is., and the second, $T$ harp, 5 cwt. 2 qr. 11 Ib.
The other bells are inscribed, each with the mame of the founcler and the date 1833, as follows: 3rd "Agncs'; 4th 'Pheebe'; 5thr 'Sarall': Bth ' Eliza' ; 7th 'Dorothy Anne.
Tenor ( 12 cwt. 3 qr .23 ib. ): "This bell with five more to form a peal whs presented to the new chapel of Leytonstone by Willinm Davis, Fsquire, A.D. 1833.'
Mrs. William Pye desires to convey her most sincere thanks to all who recently did such great honour to her late hushand. She is deeply conscious of the feelings of the Exercise towards liis memory.

THE NEW COUNCIL BEGINS WORK.

There is always a special interest in the first meeting of a new Central Council, partly because of the fresh faces that appear. Last week there was a rather unusual number of new members, and they were drawn from the younger men. This is an excellent sign. An organisation like the Council needs a constant influx of new blood and, as long as this can be secured, there need be little fear of the central body sinking into a state of semi-atrophy. Another thing which gave a point of special interest to the gathering was the fact that it was the first Council to meet under the full operation of the revised rules drawn up three years ago, and it is an indication of the ready acceptance by the Exercise of the new constitution that forty-nine associations bave become affiliated and have subscribed to the undertaking loyally to abide by the rules and decisions of the Council. There is only one association of any size that has not yet agreed to the conditions of membership and that is the Sussex Association, which will consider the matter at its annual meeting next week. There is one imposing fact about the Council, which could only be guessed at before, but which has now been, under the new rules, accurately ascertained, and that is that it represents a body of approximately twenty thousand ringers, who are active and subscribing members of the various territorial societies. This gives an authority to the Council which must carry weight, not only among ringers themselves, but in other quarters where the views of ringers have a right to be heard. Moreover, it emphasises, if further emphasis be necessary, what a valuable body of workers the Church has in the belfries.

The business of the meeting itself produced debates on several subjects which are the special concern of 'the rank and file,' and occupied the Council, with only an hour for lunch, from eleven o'clock until five. The interest held throughout, and it did not need anything in the nature of verbal fireworks, such as have been produced on some occasions, to sustain it. Good, solid work was put in in the morning session, when routine affairs and committee work were disposed of. Most of the afternoon was devoted to the discussion of motions and for once there was nothing carried over to next year. The expeditious way in which the meeting was got through was due to the able chairmanship of Mr. E. H. Lewis (the President), the excellent organisation of the Honorary Secretary, and the careful preparation of the ground by the Standing Committee. The President disposed of the idea, which appears to exist in places, that the business of the Council is 'cut and dried' by the Standing Committee, There is no question that, without the preparation which this Committee gives to the (Continued on page 382.)

FOR BEGINNERS.

CALLING BOB MINOR.
In recent wecks we have endeavoured to show that fthere are in existence a number of Triples methods which bauds would do well to practise, both for the sake of variety and for the wider experience which they will obtain. We will, perhaps, return later to other of these methods, but in the meantime, if readers are wanting more, they should obtain a copy of the Central Council's. Callection of Triples Methods, which can be had posit free for a shilling from the Council's librarian, Mr. Wilfred Hooton, Lindley Lodge, near Numeaton, Warwickshije.

A reader has asted ha how he can ad Bob Minor withont actually ringing the observation bell. With a little study aud practice he should not find it difficult. Firsti of all, of course, lie must learis to 'read' the bells while they ave ringing, that is to say he must be able to follow their coursing order and to know when and where they are to dodge.

The coursing order in Boly Minor remains the same until a bob or single is called, except that in each lead the treble mover on one place, that is, goes awny from lead in front of the bell it followed down.

When a bob is called, the bells in front of and bchind the treble continue unchanged for anather lead, but the bell that makes the bob is diverted from being next but one in frout of the treble to mext but one after it.

In the case of a single the bell that malces 4 the's is afferfed as at a bob; the bell that makes endts is affected as at a plain lead, that is, it hunts down before the treble and hunts up after it. The other bell, which lunts down after the treble, makes 3'd's and lunts up in front of it.
The calling places in Bob Minor onn bo Right ( $6-5$ down), Wrong (5-6 up), 4th ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{s}_{1}$ In or Oint.
If you want to call whe observation bell In or Out, wateh for its hunting immediately behind or in front of the treble. If it is to make tac bob it will be the bell next but one in front of the treble. If you want to call the obscrvation bell Right you do jt when it is lunting next but one after the treble, the bell between it and the treble being the bell that will run 'In.' You yourself may, perlaps, be the belf lunting in front of the oluservation bell, or behind it, In that case your task of finding the right place to call the bob is simplifred, as you call yourself In or Wrong as the case may be,
There are only two other positions in which pou can be in relation to your abservation bell. In one yon will dedge in 3-4 up with it, when it is in $4-3$ (down). The Firht comes at the next lead, and that is when you pousself ruir out.
In the other position there is one bell lunting between the abserva tion bell and yous. That other bell will dodge with the observation bell in 5-6; therefore, you will make the hols.
If you have to call the observation bell Wrong, and you linve already had a Right, it is, of course, easy to remember that the Wrong comes at the next lead. If there has been no bob Right, then the quides which you can mse for calling Right can be adapted for the wrong. If you are coursing immediately in front of or behind the observation boll, your task is easy. If you hrve one bell between the observation bell and you, you are in front of the treble and you call yourself Out; if you are in front of the observation bell, with one bell between, you are coursing the treble and you call yourself In.
Another help is that if you have two consecutive Rights or Wrongs, and you are one of the three bells shmring the work of the bobs, you are called in part of a regular cycle: In, Out, 4th's. If yon are In at the first bob, you are Out at the second; if you are out at the first, you are 4 th's at the second; and if you are 4th's at the ficst yous are In at the second.
That cycle of $\mathrm{Tr}_{\mathrm{r}}$ Out, 4 th's is valurble in all even-bell methods where the bols is made in 4th's. It crops up whencver there is a whole course between the bobs, and applies as much to the Surprise methods as to Plain Bob.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

Tlie Shropshire Association visited Malinslee on Saturdey week, when, despite the weather, there was a good atbendance, the following towers being represented: Madeley, Coalbrookdale, Wellington, St. Chad's (Shrewsbury), Clive and the local company.
The bells were in use at the conclusion of a wedding ceremony, and until 5 p.m. were kept going to Bob Mimor, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor and Grandsire and Stedman Doubles.
Twenty-five erioyed the ten prepared in the Churd Room by Mrs A. Woorivine and friends, after which a business meeting was held, Mr. T. Mole heing in the clair. The Rev. Party, ato one time the incumbent, and now a veteran of 90 years of age, gave the gathering his recipe for longevity, and adwice oul ringing, church work and life in general.

Appreciation of the welcome mepared by Mr. and Mrs. Woodrime was expressed, nnd the association secretary was congratulated on his forthcoming marriage.
A return was made to the tower after nnurses of Crandsire Caters and Bob Major had been rung on liandbells.

This they accomplished on Friday wech, and everyone will heartily congratulate the ringers. It is a wonderful exhibition of skill and concentration, and the conductor's effort in ringing an inside pair as well as calling the peal is, in our wiew, the grentegt thing in handhell ringing that has ever been done. The General Secretary made a few outspoken remarts and asked members ta give more support to the branch officers, as it wrs the enthusiasm of the members that made a branch prosper.

The Chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar of Faringdon for conducting the service and for allowing the use of the bella, to the Rey. J. W. Cole for his excellent address, to the organist fnr giving his services, and to those who did the catering.
The ringers then returned to the tower and touches in varioun methods were rung.

SILENCERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir, I see that the Towers and Belfries Committee of the Central Council recommend the use of the Davis silencer in noisy towers. Would it not be a good thing if you could print a description of this remedy in your valuable paper and a roligh estimate of the cost for fixing it ${ }^{2}$

玉. BANEES JAMDS.
Seafield Parls, Fareham, Hants.
Mr. Dapis' inpention consists of a form of muffe, made of thin steel plates over leather. These are tied on to the ball of the clapper. The president of the Central Council gave the cost as about $£ 2$ for a set for eight bells. Further information about these silencers can be obtaiued from Mr. J. E. Davis, 70, Wooler Street, Walworth, Loudon, S.E.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

FIRST MEETING UNDER NEW RULES.

Statistics Prove it a Representative Boty.

There was, as we reported last week, a record attendance at the meetirg of the Central Council in London on Whitsun Tuesday. Of the 127 elected nembers, representing the 49 affiliated associations, 102 were present, together with 12 out of 15 honowary members, making a total attendance of 114. By permission of the Lord Mayor and the City Corporation, the meeting was held in the Council Chamber of the Guildhall. Mr. E. H. Lewis, president of the Central Council, occupied the chair and had with him on the deis at the outset the Dean of St. Fanl's (Dr. Matticms). The detailed list of the members present was given in our last issue.

DEAN MATTHEWG WELCOME.

The President accorded a very warm welcome to the Dean of St, Paul's.
Dr. Mathews, in reply, said he was afraid he was taking the place of a far more distinguished person than himself-the Lord Mayorbut, nevertheless, he was very glad to have the opportunity of giving a welcome to the Cauncil to London and that great and ancient build-ing- the Guildnell. He bad at least one qualifieation to speak to bellringers in that he had heen connected with two very famons pleces which were neted for their bells-Exeter Gathedral and St. Paul's Gathedra! He had aften been amazed when he hadseen people make tize Ereat bells in Exeter speak, but he confessed that he had not seen the bellringers in St. Paul's in action. The stairs one had to go up were somewhat dificult to a person of his labit and body.

Bellringing, continued the Dean, was in many ways a definite English occupation. He thought he was right in asping that change ringing was not known in any but Angla-Saxon countries. Those who had leard bells in foreign parts had been astonished at the jingling and inconsequent row in contrast to the orderly and intricate manner in which the bells of this country were rung. It was a very ancient occupation, and one the Chureh ought to do all they could to encourage. How many people in foreign parts, in exile front the homeland, when they thought of their home town thought first of the sound of the bells which they used to hear. He always remembered someone in the wildg of Australia and a native of Exeter who told him that he often recalled the sonnd of the Cathedral bells when they were ringing and that was his chief memory of lome.

Ringing was a rery interesting and very great occupation which they bad come there to discuss and represent.

May 1 ,' concluded the Dean, 'not only on my own belzalf, but on behalf of the Lord Mayor ancl all the citizens of London, give you a very hearty welcome to this city and hope that your conference and rour ringing will be very pleasant to you and you will go eway from this city with very happy memories of the time jou spent in it " (applause).
The Prosident, in thanking Dr. Matthews for his welcome, said they could hardly hope the Lord Mayar conld have been there, but le was not sure that it was not more appropriate that they sloould have the Dean of St. Prul's with them that day, for the ringing of bells had grown up in the use of services of the Church. There were some 4,000 or 5,000 peals of bells in the country, and he could only recall four in secular places-one of them being tha Tmperial Institute, where he had the pleasure of ringing the previous day. The others were at Manchestar Town Hall, Morpelir Watch Tower and Quex Park. It was an art which liad formed a definite part of the clurch, and for that reason it was appropriate that they should be welcomed by one of the leading ecclesiasti cal authorities in the city.

OVER 20,000 RINGERS REPRESENTED ON COUNCIL
After the Dean had left, the first business was to receive from the hon. secretary (Mr. G. W. Fletcher) a report as to the representation of sacieties. After calling attention to the conditions of membership laid down under the new rules, tho hon. secretary's report said:-
The operation of the rule governing affliation divides the associations intu two groups-(1) territorial associations, and (2) conterritorial associations. In Group I there are three sections: (a) Associations with annual subscribing members: (b) associations whose members pay one life sutuscription only; (c) associations muade up of affiliated towers wit] no individual subscriptions.
In this Conncil we have 43 associations in Group I, of which 41 are in section (a). The aggrafate membership of this section is returmed as 21,860, made up of 19,445 aunual subscribing ringing members, 1,674 annual subscribing honovary members, 438 resident life ringing members and 303 resident life honorary members.
Two associations previously associated with the Connoil are no longer included, the Sherwood Youths, who could no longer show a minimum membership of 75 , and the Sussex County Association, who are considering the matere at their meeting on June 2ath. The North Wales Absocialion has rejoined. The representation of this section is 116 , but only 111 members have been elected-vacancies being left in Bath qnd Wells, Lancashire, North Notts, North Wales, wwansea and Brecon, ant Worcestor and Districts Associations.
The London Connty Association falls into section (b). No particulars as to mumbers of its members are available, but efforts are being made to obtain them. The secretary has estimated that the numbers jistify threo representatives. The Truro Diocesan Guild have 6o towers affliated with ia fee of 58 . por tower. They have elected one representative only.

In Group 2 are the following associations: Ancient $aciety of College Youths, Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, Cambridge University Guild, Oxford Wniversity Society, Oxford Society aud the Ladies' Guild. The Oxford Society and the Ladies' Guild are ftee only two associations in this group to furnish actual figures of membership. Approximata figures have been supplied by the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths. The group is represented by 14 zepresentatives. An affilation fee of 5 s. has been received from the St. Clement Youths, but mo particulars of membership are svaitable and no member las been eiected. Excluding the St. Clement Youths the total membership of the Council is as follows: Associations affiliated 49, total members to which entitled 134 , total members elected 127.
All these associations have given an undertaking to loyally abide by the rules and decisions of the Council.
The total number of hon. members is 15 .
With the exception of two associations, the North Notts and the Swasea and Brecon, who, whilst enticled to cleet two representatives each, have only paid the fee for one member, all alliliation fees dae to the Council have been prid.
Last year there were 51 affiliated asscintions; this year the number is 49 .

WHY THE PRESLDENT "SPEAKS OUT

The Hon. Secretary stated that onty oue nomination for the office of president for the ensuing three pears had been received, namoly, Mr. E. I. Lewis, naminated by Mr. F. M. Mitchell and Mr. T. Groombridge, sea.

On being put to the mecting by Canon Coleridge, the elcetion was agreed to with loud applause.

Mr. Lewis thanked the members for the bonomr they had done to him by re-electing him. He felt semetimes that be could not do all that he chould do for the Coumeil. He liad a good mary calls upon Lis time, apart from ringing, but the fact that they hat nominated him for a further period of three years seemed to Elow that he had not lost their confdence. If they would bear with him the would do his best to carry on as he had done for the last six jears (applause). He was afraid he sometimes got into trouble with some people for talking rather bluntly, but he had a feeling that it was his duty to say things straight out, if he saw that certain things were not what they should be. He clid so, not because he wished to put his personal opinions over those of other people, but he felt, fy putting him in that position, the Council had given hin authority to splear out when tbings required saying (hear, luear). He got inta serions trouble at Bristol not long ago because one of the ecclesiastical authorities there seemed to think he (Mr. Lowis) iuferred that he was a fool. Ho had wo intention of saying that. (A Fojce "But ho was -langhter.) What he did intend bo hint, continuod Mr. Jewis, was that some architects wero fools and that some were, perhaps, clever enough to befool ecclesiastical anthorities. What he said was not meant for the particular authorits in question, but be (the ecclesiastic) had taken it so. He hoped some clay to meet him and cxplain. On tha previous day, continued Mr. Lewis, during the ringing at Westminstor Abbey, ho felt obliged to say that it was quite hopeless to ring chauges if the band who got hold of the zopes could nob ring rounds, ard he felt compelled to request ono of the ringerg to hand over his rope to somebody else. If the Council would endorse what he hat gaid in the past it would give him rourage to speak out again in the future when he thouglit it necassary to do so (hear, heal, and applause).
The President then said that only one nomination liad heen recefved for the office of hon. secrefary and treasurer. Only Mr. Fleteher had been nominated. Those who had had expericice of Mr. Fictolee's period of office would agree with him that they could not possibly have anyone else. Mr. Fietcher was absolutely priceless as a secretary, and he liad made his work as president very minch leas. It was a real pleasure to have such a secretary to work with (applause).
Mr. Fletcher's re-election was agreed to with applause, and, iu ackrowledging his election, the Hon. Secretary appealed far more assistance from some of the members and some secretaries of associations. It was very difficult, he said, when information was wanted, to be told that it conld not be given, when all the while iti could be obtained locally far easier than he candd get it. During the next threc yens there would be a lot of work to do, and they wanted to keep tho Conncil posted up lo date. When information was required re haped members would kindly give it to him as speadily as possible.

NEW LIBRARIAN.

The President reminded the Council of the loss loy deatir of the late librarian, athd exid that thoy had now to fill the iost. Tt was a post that was not very easy to fill, because it required not only a person with qualities that made a suitable librapian, but also somsone who haci at disposal a certain amonnt of joom to contain the library and literature, which altogether ran to something like 15 cwt. of material. No nomination lad been reccived, but the Standing Committee had considered the matiter and recommended the election of Mr. W. H. J. Hooton.
Mr. A. A. Hughes proposed the election of Mr. Eooton, who would, he believed, make an excellent librarian for the Council.-Mrs. E. K. Flother seconded, and, the motion laring been carried iuanimously, Mr. Hooton, as a new member (one of the representatives of the Midland Connties Association), was introduced to the president and took his seat on the dais.

The formal presentation to the president caused some mmasement, ns Mr. Hooton is Mr. Lewis' son-in-lew.

Mr. Iodou, who wag warmly received, baid he was very proud that he was \& friend of the last two librarians. He admired them both very much $\mathrm{H}_{\mathrm{l}}$ could not hape to be as efficient as Mr. TyrwhittDrake. He saw some of Mr. Drake's work, and it was very good. Ho wauld, however, do his best in any way he coukd (applanse).
tha auditors (Messrl. C. Fi. Coles and A. A. Hughes) were re-elected
There were nine reliring hon, members, including Mr. Joseph Grifin, who, the Prusident sadil, had teadered bis reaigantion from the Council. Tha Standing Committee vacommended the Conncil to accept the resiguntiun, its, wilh advancing years, Mr. Grimn had not been able to attiend the meetings for is considerable time.
Mr. A. J'uddon simith proposed the re-election of the following Aldermair J. S. Pritelete, Major J. H. B. Heese, Messrs. G. Dean J. S. GoldgniLh, C. F. Jahnston, O. W. Roberts, J. A. Trollope aud E, Alex. Yaug.-Mr. W. 'T' Caclserill geconded nud the motion wag carried.
In the place of Mr. X. Griflin, the Rev. F. El. Edwards proposed the election, subject to lis consent, of the Earl of Shafteshury, who, he said, took a keen, practical inlercst in ringing, and who, although he had reached an advanced stage of life, had learned elementary change ringing.-Mr, C. F. Jenninge, who seconded, suid the Earl of Shaftesbury was the first peer of the realn to do any change ringing.-The Rev. H. Drnko supported the motion, which was carried.

LOSSES BY DEATH

Thio President next referred to the losses sustained by death, which this year, ho said, had been very heary. On Good Fhiday, as they knew, they lost Canon Jisee, who represented the Lancashire Association from blo beginning of the Council up till 1935. During these 44 yens he lad attended 40 meetings. He was a member of the Standing Committec and had been president of the Lancashire Aasociation for something over 40 years. He was a most valuable nember of the Council, and allhough he did not often speals, when he did speak he always had something wery good in the way of advice to give them. Ha did nol think there was nuy member on whom they could rely for more counct advice than the late Ganon Elsec. They missed him rery much. Shortly before Caman Elsee died they heard of the tragic denth of their late librsilitn, the Rev. J. F. Tyrwhitt-Drake, who reprosented the Hertford County Association from 1919 to 1928 and thic Ely Diocosau Association from 1929 to 1935 . He attended 13 Conncil mentings and had boen honorary librarian since 1933, laving succedod Mr. Jenkyn. His work as librarian wis excellent, and as als offeial they would miss him very mach. They would also miss him, many of them, as a very good friond. He (the president) felt their loss very mucli indeed, because both wero members of the Cambrisge Jniversity fuild, and he liad known them from his earliest ringing days, and they were both modfathers to ove of his children. Confinuing, the President anid the CounciI had also lost the Rev, O. A. Clements, who represcaned the Lancashire Association in quite ts carly days, 1895 to 1902 . From 1927 to 1935 he represented Chester Diocesan Guilch. He had attended scven of their meetiogs, and some of thoso present know him in the early days as a very grod compranion as well as a keen ringer. T'he death had also occurred of the Rev. F. S. O. Lock, a representative of the Bath and Wells Diocessn Associnlion from 1927 to 1935 . Unfortunately, he was not in good health and had not been able to attend any meetings. Mr. R. A. Daniell represented the Royal Cumberland Youths from 1900 to 1911 and had been an lsonorary member from 1912 to 1923. He had attended 13 meding of tho Council and liad cone a great deal of work for the Exurcise in the way of listorical resemrch. As the Council knew, he lind somebhing to do with tho finding of the will of Fabian Stedman Ho was a man who was very keen on ringing, although perbaps one pould not class him as a very great ringer from the point of view of strilsing. He used to ring at St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington, where ho was also in the choir for many years. They had also lost 1891 to 1893 , Rands, whe then the Stesented the Keat Connby Association from 1891 to 1893, and then the St. Immes' Sociefy from 1894 to 1896 . He attouled four of the meetings in those eaviy days. Dend had also omoved 1111 old member in Mr. J. W. Rowbothan, who represented ho College Youths frem 1903 to 1905 and 1909 to 1911. He attended two medtings, presumably the twe lield in Lonton. In addition io these mentiers of the Council, continued the President, lo wand like to refer to ane ather very good friend whom they thad lost. Allhough he was not an aclive ringer, be was a very good friond tx ringers and lint Commeil: lie referred to Mr. A. R. Powys, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Ruildings, Soms of tho menbers of the Council would remember that, hefore the wir, they used to quarrel with Mr. Powys and lifs society, and the Towers and IRelfries Commitee really originated from the fant that a letter of Mr. Powys, or of his society, was brought to the notice of the Council, and they decided to join issue with the society. They got to grips in 1912, but did not get very far until, through the intervention of Major Hesse, they met Mr. Powys. They then realised he was a man they could get on with. He was a most charming man; absolutely lonest, particularly with hínself and his own opinions, and immediately he saw that any of his opinions were wrong he was ready to withdraw them and readjust his views. Through that quality of his, the Towers and Belfries Committee wero nble to do a lot of good work with Mr. Pcwys, and le used to be able to influence hif 'die-hards.' At Mr. Powys' invitation, 'die-hards' on bath sides used to meet at the lunchecr table sometimes. It worked yery well, much good resulted and they became very good friends. He (the presideat) felt they could not on that occasion omit to make mention of Mr. Powys and to say what a good friend they lad lost in him. He and Mr. Fletcher represented the Council at the memorial service, which was held ab the Churcli of St, Magnus-the-Marbyr.
The Council expressed their regret at the losses sustained and their sympathy with the bereaved by standing in silence.
A number of new nembers were formally presented to the president
BELLS IN NEW HOUSING AREAS.
When the minutes of the last meeting came up for confirmation, tho Rev. Llewellya Edwards reportad on the action taken in coDnection with the motion passed last year unging the provision of peals of bells in new lousing estates. In collaboration with the late Canou Elgee, he drew up a letter to bring the matter to the notice of Bishops and Archbishops. Twenty-four replies had been reccived and they had been classified as good, bad and indifferent. Indiftarent replies mumbered five, and there wore two unfavourable replies, and in wiew of tho qualities of the ringiag in their regpective dioceses they came from Bishops who ought to know better. One was the Bishop of Birmingham, who, in reply, shid le could only say that in his opinion necessities must come before luxuries. The other was from the Bisfiop of Oxford, who stated, 'I am afraid it is very difficult to press for peals of bells in such towers. When I lived in Oxford I used to think we could do with far fewer bells.
All the four Archbishops' replies were classified as good. The Archbishop of York expressed his gratitude to the Council. The Archbshop of Armagh eaid he had gent it to the Bishop of Dowy, who was the only Bishop in his province who had to deal with new lousing estates. The letter from the Bishop of Manchester was of melancholy interest, as it stated that it would be handed over to the Diocesan Advisory Commitbee, of which the late Canon Elsee was a member The Bishop of Gloncester indulged in guiet bumour by suggesting that bellingers should form funds for that purpose. The two best replies wero from the Bishop of Chester and the Bishop of Norwich. The Bishop of Chesfer wrote that any information you care to send me I will gladly bring before the Committee of Church Duildings, and the Bighop of Norwich said he would brigg it before the Committee of the Now Churches.

ADDITIONS TO THE OOUNOIL'S LDBRARY.

The report on the library and publications, printed in The Ring World ' of June 5th, was presented by the hon. secretary.
The President said tho booklet on "The Law Affecting Cliureh Bells had been referred in Alderman Pritehett for revision, and would bs put into the printer's hands almost immediately. A paragraply would be added on the question of insuraace, as well as the Rev. H. Drake's notes on faculties
Mr. J A. Trollope, in moving the adoption of the report, said when Mr. R. A. Daniell died he went through his Mss. and books, with a view to securing any of value for the Council's library He secured a copy of the 1 ' 33 J . D. and C. M. 'Campanologia and a photograph of Stedman's will, which he had handed over. The 'Gampanologia' was an edition which he thought they had not got in the library. It was in perfect condition, except that the leather bindiag had gone. During the past year, Mr. Trollope said, he had been able to seonre, through a nephew of the late Mr. Jerram, two other books, which Mr. TYrwhitt-Drake bought for the library. One of these books contained a copy of a book pubjslied in 1698 by J. White. It was e wert ware book There was on copy in the British Museum, the Rev. W. Pearson had a mutilated copy, but, thesc were all he knew of. It wns bound up with another edition of the J. D. and C. M. The other book was a second edition of Hubbard's work, which was also rare. It was particularly interesting because it contained an autograpled letter from Hubbard. The books were a considernble acquisition to the library, as they very seldom came on the market.
Mr. E. J. Butler seconded the adoption of the report, which was agreed to.

PENDING RESIGNATION OF MASTER AND GENERAL

 TREASURER.
A New District Secretary

A meeting of the North-Western District of the Survey Assaciation was held at Banstead ou Saturday, June 6th, when 29 members and friends attended from Benlyilton, Croydou (St, Joln's and St. Peter's), Ewell, Leatherhead, London, Merton and Uchfield. Ringing commenced at $3.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. aud continued until 5 o'clock, when slort evensong was conducted by the Yienr, the Rev. Canon F. N. Skene. Tea was served at the Victoris Hotel, followed by a business meeting, over which the Ringing Master, Mr. D. Cooper, presided.
In opening the meeting, Mr. Cooper reported that their secrebary, Mr. F. W. Housden, had been obliged to fender his resignation owing to removal from the district, and that it had become necessary to find a new secretary, $\Delta t$ o committee meeting held on April $20 t h$, Mr. F. G. Woodiss offered to carry oub duties of secretary until the and of the year, This offer was accepted and Mr. Woodiss was declared elected as hou. secretary pro tem.

The Chaimman also said that it was with extreme regret that le had to report the death of two former members of the association, who had just passed away-ikr. John Eowes, of Kingston-on-Thames, and Mr. F. N. Goddand, of IsFeworth. Athough they were not at the time of their death members of the association, they lad been very fotire in pust yenrs and had rung many peals for the association. Fe asked the meeting to stand in silence ton a few moments as a mark of respect to their memory.
Two new nrembers were clected-the Rev. G. Hant, of St. John's, Groydon, and Mr. Alfred Long, of Benhilton.
The Secretary said that it was his daty to report the receipt of the resignation of their Master, Mir. D. Kenueth ©. Birt, who lad so well and ably presided over the fortnmes of the nssociation for the past six years. It was most mifortunate that this resignation had been hrought about by ill-lieath, aud, whilst there was some consolation in the fact that Mr. Bint had agreed to carry on until the end of the year, the members had to realise that they would be losing the surfices of their Master, ant expressed a wish for his speedy recovery to perfect health and strength.
Mr. D. Wright informed the meeting that their general treasurer, Mr. Charles Dean had expressed a wish to pesigy at the eud of ble Fear, owing to pressure of business, and that it would also be necessary to find a now treasurer as well as a mew Master.
Mr. Wooliss said that he liad received a letter from the secretary of the Society of Ropal Cumberland Youthe making appleation for Bedrlingten fower for a meeting on Sacurday, July $25 t$. This lapp pened to be the date fixed for their joint meeting with tho Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild at Rammore, and it was felt that it would not be possible to make a success of both meetings. The subject was left in the lamds of the sceretary to do all he could to avoid ar elash of dates for these two meetings.

The Secretary amonnced that the anmial dimner would take place at, the Greybound Hotel, Croydan, an Saturday, October 3 rd, and requested tho members to keep that date free. A big improvement in the arrangements over those of last year had been made.
Some excellent handbel] ringing was heard, after whicly most of the members returned to the tower, where ringing from rounds to Spliced Surprise continued until 9 o'clock.

INOREASED MEMBERSHIP AND FUNDS*.
The annual report stafed that it was a record of satisfinctory achievement and steady progress. The number of towers in affliation was 114, an inciense of seven on the year. The memhership comprised how, members 86, rin intig members 778, and now-resident members 244, an increase of 24 . There was an average attendance of about 40 members at the divisional meetings. It was somewhat disturbing to again report a sharp decline in the number of peals rung umer the auspices of the association. I'lue total last year was 81, a reduction of 14 compaved with 1934 . It was meinly in handbell prals that the decline occurred. The enforced letirement from peal ringing of Mr. William Kecte, one of their most active peal conductors, following as it did the lameuted death of Mr. William Fye, had indoubtedly been the main reason for the reduced number of peals. Lest any should suppose that the standard of ringige had deteriorated, it could be said that never were the more adranced methods practised in 50 many of their towers as now. Thintysin ringers slared in conductiag peals. Twenty-five members rang their first peat, and sixty their first in a new methad. Two trebles yad been added at Tobbing, thus completing the octawe, while at Thorpe-le.Soken, where the bells wad for many years been uaringable, a new metal frame had been installed, and a treble added to the old peal of fre, which lad beere retuned. The bells at Havcring-atte-Bower and Wivenhoe had been rehang.
The statement of accounts was particularly safisfactory. aud for the first time the rescrve fund exceeded E250. Total income for the pear was slighty less at $£ 68$ 1s. 7 d , but expenditure had been only $£ 504 \mathrm{~s}$. 11d., a Teduction of 520 . One grant, of $£ 2$ 2s., to Little Waltham, had been mafe from the Bell Restoration Fund, the balance on which was now just over E60. In every division the officers had been reelected to serwe jn 1936. They had merited and received sintere thanks for their unstinted services.

At the election of offcers, the vote for the Master to surceed Mr. Dufield was between Dr. P. T. Spencet-Phillips (Great Baddow) and Mr. George Black (Woodford), ald the former mas elpoted hr 38 votes to 32 .

Other officens were reelected, including Mr. L. J. Clark tary and treasmer'), and Mr. L. W. Wiffen (peal secretary) sere Dr- Spencer-Philifg took over the chair from Mr. Dufield at this point, and thanked the members for electing him, observing that he would do his bett (applause)
A grant af E15 to the William Pye Memorial was canfirmed. The Chaiman anmounced that grants from the Restoration Furail of 82 s. to Fobbing, and of 855 s . each to Forth Weald and Tireat Wraltham had been made.

Luncheon followed at the Golden Fleece Hotel.
During the day the belis of the Cathedral and churches in surrounding parishes were runge the methods ranging from Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Maximus.

Once again the Romey Marsh and District Guild met at Aldington on May 30 th to celebrate the birthday of Mr. Charles Slingsby, who reached the treat age of 99 years on May 26 th . A company of about 80 assembled fram all parts of Kent to honour this fine old ringer who is remarkably well and active in spite of lis years. The county of Kent is encrmously praud of him. The company was especially honoured this year by the presence of the Bishop of Dover the Very Ref. O. W. Rose), who came especially to preach at the service, which was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. G. S. Long. The Bishop, in a most interesting, homely way, spoke of the spleadid example of Mr Slingsy over a great many years, and also pointed out the importance of the ringer's office.
After the service, the company were entextained to tea by the Rector and Mrs. Long, and waited on by lady helpers. The Bishop presided for a short time, but had to leave early to take a Confirmation in the Islo of Sheppey. However, before he left he was thanked for his visit, and, in reply, said he was more than pleased to have had an opportunity of, as it were, officially recognising the ringers.
The small amonnt of monthly business was quickly disposed of, and afterwards votes of thanks were accordea to all wha had helped with the meeting, especially the Rector and Mirs. Long.
The Rector expressed the hope that the Guild would meet there next year in honour of 'the centenary.

The company had the pleasure of bearing Mr. Slingsby speak for a few moments, during which he referred to his keen interest in "The Ringing World, the means by which he wras able to see "What you do and what you don't do!' This remark cansed a good deal of Iaughter.
It is hoped that he will reach his 'century,' and, if so, the invitation to the celebration of the occasion will extend far beyond the Romney Marsh Guild.

BELL BROADCASTS.

The subject of bell-broadcasts was discussed by the Ceatral Council on the report of the Press and Broadcasting Committee. There were two points on which there was no disagreement expressed-that when bells are broadcast, only the best ringing should be sent over the air, and that, in many cases, the ringing that is heard is definitely bad and, from the viewpoint of the Exercise, likely to do more harm than good. As to the best method of assuring the one and remedying the other there was a diversity of opinion-as was to be expected-and, while suggestions were made, it is left to the Committee to endeavour to devise a way out if they can.

It will be generally agreed, as the President remarked, that no such indifferent exhibitions as are sometimes put up by ringers would be tolerated in any other kind of B.B.C. performance, and yet the public get rank bad ringing thrust upon them. The causes are various. When a broadcast is to take place from a church, those concerned, looking at it from a parochial point of view, want their own people to share the glory -which perhaps is natural. But the trouble is, in the case of ringers, there are many local bands who are not capable of giving, in their ringing, anything like a proper performance and, what is more unfortunate, they do not themselves realise their own limitations and that they are incapable; neither does the incumbent. These broadcast services and the accompanying ringing are among the things of which there is no trial audition, so that the B.B.C., even supposing they knew what the ringing should be like, have no means of knowing what kind of performance to expect.

As to the remedy, the Committee are left with a difficult task if they are to find one which will provide fewer deplorable exhibitions and yet preserve anity in the belfries concerned. More than one speaker urged that interference, not merely from outside, but even from incumbent or captain, might break up a band. That is unquestionably so, and will be as long as ringers remain selfish and fail to accept the view that in the case of a broadcast the perfection of the ringing stands before their personal pride. Even interfersnce through the county or diocesan associations would in such cases be resented, but, while everyone desires to see bell broadcasts retained, and even increased in number, as providing a characteristic English atmosphere as a preliminary to these services, it is not too much to say that, where the bands are incapable of good ringing, it would be better to have no broadcast of the bells at all. But who is to decide? It is a delicate problem. One poor ringer may spoil the efforts of the whole band, It (Continued on page 398.)

looks as if improvement can only be effected in two ways, first by persuading the indifferent ringers that they should be prepared to stand down on such occasions in the interests of good ringing; and secondly by adopting the very sensible action of the ringers of Sheffield, and specially practising the touch to be rung. But what can be done with the band who do not know that their ringing is bad?

A STEP FORWARD FROM ROB MAJOR.

Many riagers who have reached the Bob Major stafe tura to Double Norwich as the next step in their adyancemont. it, is an excellent step to take, too; one of the reasons being that the place making of tho method forms at goot introduction to the piace meking in a very ]arge group of more advanced methods, such as Cambridge and Super lalivo Surprise
The places are made in front of and bohind the treble as it passes through $3-4$ and $5-6$ up and $6-5$ and $4-3$ down.
When going up, the 4ih's is mado before the 3 vd 's (that is you go up to tol's aud stray a whole pull, and then step back for a whole pull in 3rd's) and the Gh's before the Sth's; coming down the 5 th's is beforo the Gth's and the 3rd's before the 4th's-in each case you go to the farthest place first.
Ono effect of making the places when the troble is in each of these positions is that the pince making bells all have a single dodge uither before or after tho place, and another effect is that, axcept when the trehle interyenes, all the bells, both in front and belind, dauble douge.

This doubla dodging is by some ringerg known as 'first,' full' and 'last ' work (oither in front or behind). 'Sirst' work is after your wholo pall, when you take the treble of lead or turn it from behind; 'full' is when you have a double dodge both locfore and after leading or lying bohind, xand 'last' is when you dodgo only before leading or hefore the trehle tarns you from behind.
The place making is known as "near" and "far,' according to whother you axe nearer to or farther from the front or back, as the case may be. Places in $3-4$ groing up, and in $5-6$ coming down are, therefore, near' ylaces, and in 5-6 going up and in $3-4$ coming down are 'fir' places. The single dodge attrched to the place is always made witer the ' neat ' place and before the 'far' place. This dodge is with s bell liat mankes no places at all and is called the treble Bob bell, because, as it passes up, it simply dorges in 3-4 and 5-6, or, as it comes down, in 6-5 and 4-3. This is the bell that fakes the trehle off at lond (or furns it from behind, for, remember, all the work is donbled and is the samo from the back as from the front). At the eud of its Trelle Bols patin, which, of course, begins and linishes wibh a double dodge, it is timmed from behind (or takeu off at load) by the treble. It is also well to note that this bell algo parses across the treble in $4-5$ or $5-4$, according bo the direction in which it is travelling.
Anoblacr point ubout striking over the treble is worthemembering. Tho places are mude across the treble, so that when you are making places geing up your second blow in 4th's or 6th's is over the treble; when you iso making places coning down your first blow in 4th's (laving alroady made 3rd's) or 6th's (having already made 5th's) is over the treble.
In fact, the treble is of the greatest aid in ringing Double Norwich, und for that reason we fgree with those who say that the treble shomd bo rung hy tho safest yinger in the band. You can, of course, memorise tho order of the work, without the aid of the treble, thus: Alter" "firsb work," Treble Bohs.
Mitier 'last work,' make near places.
After 'full work, make 'far rlaces
You get tlicse pieces of work alternately in front and behind. First work in front is followed by lnst hehind; Inst behind by fall in frout; full in firont hy first beliuid; and so on. But with the treble for & guide, put it like this Fiss treble 1-2 (or 8-7, down), make near places.
Tuss treble $2-3$ (or 7-6), male far places.
If you do not pass the troble in either of these positions you are the Treble llob bell. This way of putting it supplements the first and is especinlly useful, when you are beginning, if, when you leave front or back, you are not silre, for some reason or other, whether you have fono "first," full ' or 'last ' work. Another helpfal point is that loth front and back the bells dodge in their proper coursing omer.
Wonthlo Nauwicl differs [rom Bob Major in its bob making. Whereas in tho Intter bhe bob is made on the three front bells, the bob in Double Norwich is made by the three back bells.
The Trebla Bob belt going tup makes 6th's after dodging in $5-6$ (up), then rlodges in 6-5 (down) and becomes the Treble Bob bell down. 'lhe two bells behinal conlinne to clodge intil the treble comes up and separatos them: the bell rodering down (passes troble 7-8) goes fo far plices (dodlro $4-3$, make 3rd's and 4 th's) and the bell dodging up, being turned by the treble, that is, neturlly passing it in $8-7$, goes to nonl' places (Sih's and 6th's, and dodging afterwards).

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

MR. GEORGE LADD'S JUBILEE.
One of the stalwarts of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, Mr. George Ladd, of Pinchlock, hor, secretary of the Elloe Deaneries Branch, has reacled his jubilee of membersbip, and the event was suitably celebrated when the branch met for a quarterly meeting at l'inchbeck on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs, Lade recelved gifts as a fitting memento of the auspicious occasion.
Despite the inclement weather, the mectiag was well attended, ringers being present from Long Sutitan, Holbeach, Whaplode, Fulney, Spalding, Deeping St. Nicholas, Surflees, Gosbertou, Donington, Bicker, Brajston, Lincoln, Blankney, Rotherham, Oaklim, Market Deeping and the local band.
Ringing commenced about 2,30 and service was attended by upwards of 60 ringers. An excellent address was given by the Ficar (who is also the president of the branch on the subject of 'Worship.' An excellent tea mas provided at the Bull Inn by Miss Orbell, 70 sitting down.

Afterwares the presideut of the branch (the Rev. E. C. Gee) made the presentations. That to the hon. secretary taok the form of a grandmother clock, while Mrs. Ladd received a beautiful thamb handlogg.
The inscription on the clock read as follows: "Presented to Mr. George Ladd by the mombers of the Elloe Deanerics Branoh of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild of Churoh Bellifingers on the 50th anuiversary of his election to the Guild, and in appreciation of his work as secretary during the last 26 years. June $13 \mathrm{th}, 1936$.

The president expressed great pleasure at makiag the presentation, as Mr. Ladd and himself were boys together, and because of the work Mx. Ladd had done for the chnich as a ringer and during the last 16 years as clurchwarden.

The secretary, in thanking the members for their beautiful present, said tiat during the time he lad been a member he lad ouly missed two mectings and wondered if that was a record.
The meeting concluded witl the usual votes of thanks to the Ficar and organist, and to Miss Orbell for providing such an excellent tea. Afterwards the belis were kept going in various metlods up to oclock.
The following telegram was received during the evening: 'Grimsby District ringers assembled at Bigby send hearticst congratulations to Mr. Ladd and wish him many more active years with os.

NEW BELLS AT TETSWORTH.

GENERODS GIFT TO OXFORDSHIRE PARTSH.
By the generosily of Mrs, A. E. Hutt, the ancient peral of six bells at Tetsworth, Oxon, have been recast and rehung. The present church, described by an arelitect as 'a sound Victorinu job,' was built in 1855. It replaces one, whicl, in part, was Norman and had a wooden belfry it the west encl. Thlis pudoubtedly contained three belfs in the reign of Edward VI, 1553, and there is at record of a bell which had the ingeription, 'In Honor Sanctii Egidii' 'In Honour of St. Giles), upon it. Such inscriptions ave very early and may go back to the 13 th century. Three of the old bells, How replaced, were dated 1695, one 1702 , one 1787 and the treble 1853 . The carliest were cast by R. Keene, of Woodstock; tho next by Richard Chandler, of Drayton Parslow, Bueks; the fifth lyy J. Rudhall, of Qloucester; nnd the treble by Charles Wanner, of the Grescent Fonndry, London,
The new bells and the old are about the same weight, 20 owt. 22 lb . the liflitestr ringing peal, so far ag could be traced, ever to have been cast in the whitechapel Foundry and amazingly swect in toue, All the ald inseriptions have been reproduced, and a new one added, 'Tlese bells were recast and rehung by Mrs. A. E. Hutt in memory of her husband, late churehwarden of Tetsworth.' This by request of the Parochial Church Council. The date medallions frow the old bells have been mounted on oak as a memento, and are now hanging in the church where people can see them
Messis. White, of Appleton, undertook the contrach and carried ito out exceedingly well. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank were the founders of the gew bells.
Tetsworth is indeed blessed in having such a wonderful and timely gift, for the old bells were greatly worn, one was cracked, and the timber of the frame crumbling, in pleces, to dust.
The dedication service took place on Saturday, May 30th, and was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Hendersou, Rural Dean, in place of Bishop Shaw, who was detained by illness. The Rev. S. J. Nightingale (Vicar) took the prayers, the lessons were read by the vicar of Thame mat the Rector of Ghimor, and a very helpful adrlicss was given by the Rev. C. E. Wigg, Deputy Mastar of tho Oxford Diocesan Guild. Many ather local clergy were present and also the donor of the bells, Mrs. A. E. Futb, and her son, Mr. J. Hutt, The large village church was crowded with ringers from all parts and local friends.
After the service Mrs. Hutt entertained nearly two humdred gthests to tea, prepared by Chureliwarden Feles, in the Old School, and Elrilled change ringers from many towers delighted listeners with touches which had not been heard for close on a century in this ateeple. However, the parish now has a hand of keen young ringers who promise well for the future.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

DORGHESTER BEANCH MID-WEEK MEETING.
A mid-weck meeting of the Dorchester Branch, which proved mose enjoyable, was held at Abbotsbury on Thursday of last week. The weather was all that could be destred, and 'faming June' lived up to its reputation.
The bells were raised about 3 o'clock and practice with a few learners in method ringing was encouraged. The Guild office was conducted by the Ven. Arcidencon W. S. Moule, and an excellent address was given by the Rev. G. H. Moule, who had just returned, after magy years, from Japan. He said it was appropriate that the gathering should be held on St. Barnabas' Day. The saint was a man of brightness and cheerfulness, and their bellringing, he said, brought brightness and cheerfulness.
Following the service the members adjourned to the Reading Room, where a bountiful tea, arrangsed and provided by lady members of the Church Council, was enjoyed. Forty-eight members and friends sat down including Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bira, welcome visitors from Heston, Middlesex

A short luminess meetirg was presided over by the chairman (the Rev. A. W. Markby), and the secretary reported that the gext meeting would be held in Angust at West Lulworth.

Four new members were elected, and Mr. C. S. Biivd wes elected n ife member.
The Chairman gave the visitors present a hearty welcome, ard proposed the usual vote of thanks, which was carried with acelama-tion.-Ths Ven. Archdeacon Moule replied.
The secretary gave a short resume of the meeting of the Central Council, which he attended, on Whit Tuesday.
The belfry was again visited, the bells being available until 9 p.nu. The Tropical Gardens-the rreat attraction which this noted village affords-were open to the wisitors. The following towers were represented at the mecting: Abbotsbury, Darchester, Fordington, Syding, Upwey, Wool and Wyke Regis.

HENRY JOHNSON'S SON

DEsTH OF MR. JOGEPH JOENSON.
Mr, Joseph Johnson (youngest and last Eurwiving son of the late Henry Tohnsen) died from bronchial pheumonia at Gelly Oak Hogpital, Birminghan, on Monday, June 8th, in his 60th year.
Mr. Joseph Johnson, who was a member of St. Martin's Guild for many jears, was not so well known as a ringer as was his famous father, or his brother Henry ("young Harry'), who was an excoptionally fine henvy bell ringer attached to St. Martin's. He, however, Was a service ringer for many years at Edgbaston l’arislz Chureh when the tower only contained sia bellis. He also rang the tenor belind to two eight-bell peals, and was a regular altendant at the warious meetings of the Guild. Until this year he regularly atteaded the anmual Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinaer, where he was a familar figure. Mr. Johnson marricd twice. His first wife died in March, 1920, and his second wifo about two years ngo.
The funeral service, conducted by the IRev. Canon Dunne, Ficar of King's Norton, took place an Friday at Brandwood End Cemetery, the chief mourners being his danghter and three somb. Gt, Martin's Guild sent a oreath and was represented at the cemetery by Messrs. W. Dowding, H. Withers and A. Walker.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A successful meeting of the Sonning Deanery Brauch of the Oxiord Diocesmin Guild was held at wargrave on Saturday, June 6th. Service was conducted by the Vicar (Canon S. M. Winter), who gave a most interesting address based on the openiag words of Psalm 122. He spoke of the number of people who visited our Parish Churches and found much to interest them, and dwelt especially on many points of interest in his own chureh, mentioning amongst other things the chalk font made from chalk talea from a pit in the parish. The Vicar concluded by saying that ringers wisited churches for another purpose, which was to ring the bells to romind people of their duts to God.
About 30 ringers partook of tea Lindy prowided by Canon Winter, who was heartily thanked by Ganon Coleridge, who also gave a brief and interesting account of the Central Council meeting in Landon.
It was encouraging to see many young ringers present, most of whom rang for the first time on eight bells. The methods on this fine ring during tha afternoon and cyening iucluded Eent and Oxford Trehle Bob, Plain Bob, Stedman and Gramdsire, Cambridge Bfoor mud rounde. The fowerg represented ware wokinglaw, Sandlurst, Hurst, Somning, TWyford, Wargrave, Waltham St. Lawrence, Finchanpstead, Sunbury, Middlesex; Wooburn, Bucks; Cavershann; St, Laurence, Reading and Nettebed. The visitars included Mr. A. Patick Cannos, from Kent.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Another peal in four Spliced Surprise methods on handbells by the Oxhoy band! On Wednesday of last week Messrs. Hodgetts, Woolley, Cashmore and Brinklow 'did it again.' Two streh performances in so ahort a time shows that they have mastered the job. What next, we wonder?

In connection with the Ladies Guild meeting at Handsworth, Sheffield, to which we referred last week, we are asked by the hon. secretary, Mrs. E. Dorice Kelly, ta say that every member of the district, including the vice-president, was informed of the chenged date a fortnight before the meeting toak place.
The peal at St. Peter Mancroft last week was arranged for the conductor (Mr. Pat. Crinon) by Messirs. B. Thompson and N. Golden, and those oin the two succeeding days at Redenhall and Pulham by Mr. E. Whiting. Mr. Gannon wishes to acknowledge the kindness of these gentlemen and the bands who rang with him.
Messrs. John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, are to make a new ring of six belis for Lansallos Church, near Looe, Cornvall. Lansallos tower is a particularly fine one, and it is gratifying to know that a good peal is now to superseds the one cracked bell which the fower hitherto has contained.
Sunday next is the 26th anniversary of the dedication of Truro Cathedral bells. At the dedication Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Bob Royal and Kent Treble Bob Royal were the mothods rung. To date peals in these methods have been rung on the bells with the exception of Bob Royal. It is to bo hoped the anniversary will be suitably remembered.

At this time one calls to mind the peal of Cambridge Royal of September, 1934, when the late Mr. William Pye rang the tenor. Although a sick man, it was dons faultlessly. It proved to be his last tan-bell peal.
A determined effort is being made to complete the octave by adding two bells to the present ring of six at Stoke Poges, Extra practices are being arranged, the first is on Jume 20th at $6 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. , in the hope of interesting the large number of visitors to this church during the summer months.
The ringer of the Tht in the peal of Bob Royal at Cudham, Kett, on May 30th, was Frank Corby. $\qquad$

ASSOCIATION EXCLUDES PEAL.

Mr. R. G. Black hon. secretary of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, asks us to call the attention of the Peal Anslysis Conmittea of the Central Council to the fact that the peal of Doubles rung at Whiston, Northants, on Aprii 11th, 1956, for the Peterborough Diocesta Guild, is not included in their recorde, one of the ringers not being a member

ACCIDENT TO GUILDFORD RINGER

Mr. William R. Melville, a member of the band at the Cathedral, Guildford, met with a sonsewhat serious accident at Winchester on Whitsun Tuesday. He was on the point of cateling a bus to return home to Guildford when he stopped off the pavement and was knocked down by a motor-car. His head was injured, his right arm so badly lacerated that numerous stiteles had to be inserted, and one leg wis damaged. He was conveyed to Winchester Hospital, where, we are pleased to say, he is making good progress towards recovery.

Mr. Melville has taken an active part in the affairs of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, and served for some years as Ringing Master of the Guildford District. Mis. Melville is also member of the Cathedral band, and their daughter (Mrs. O. H. Kippin) is among the most expert of lady ringers.

CHARLES CHURCH BELLS, PLYMOUTH.

The ring of ten bells, with a 24 cwt. tenor, at Charles Church, Plymouth, has not been in use for three years. Ringers of the district will, therefore, be interested to know that the bells aro to be relung and No. 8 bell recast by Gillett and Jolidston.

PRESENTATION TO LAMBERHURST LEADER

On Thursday evening of Iast week, after practice, the ringers of St. Mary's Church, Lamberhurst, made a presentation to Mr. A. Reffe in recognition of his services as leader of the band during the last ben years. In making tha presentation, the ringers expressed the hope that he would lead them for many years to come. Mr, Relfe thanked the ringers for their gift and said that they had already ropaid him for what littie he liad done by their regular attendance for Sunday service ringing. The bells are rung for matims and evensong every Sunday. The gift was a copy of 'Legends o' the Bells, by Mr. E. Morris, and is inscribed, 'Presented to A. Relfo by the ringers of St. Mary's, Lamberhurat, in recognition of your services as leader and conductor during the last ten years. June, 1936.'

THE BROADCASTING OF BELLS.

CRITICISMS AT THE CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING.

Batter Ringing Wanted.

Some outspoken criticisms of recent broadcasts of bells were made in the course of an interesting discussion at the Centrai Council meeting. It arose on the report of the Literature, Press and Broadcasting Committee.

On the subject of broadcasting the report said: Broadeasts of bells have been cammendably frequent, chiefly before evening services, with the welcome addition of well-struck Stedman Triples from Groydon Parish Church on few Sunday mornings. On some of these occasions the trangmission of the bells has been deplorably curtailed or inter-rupted-two particularly regrettable instances were the fading out of a fine tough of Steduan Caters at. Bristol, in which several members of the Council were taking part, and Croydon bells being heard one Sunday for only 35 seconds - but number of protests were seriously considersd by the B.B.C., and a great jmprovement has been effected.

A highly grabifying feature has appeared in a series of bradeasts entitled 'The Riuging Isle.' Bells of various churches in the North lave been broadenst on Sundaye at 5.15 p.m., and a record taken of the ringing and yeproduced on Monday evening. These broadcasts would serve their purpose better if they were arranged in consultation with responsible afficers of the county or diocesan association concerned, so that towers nuitht be celected not only for local or historical interest, but also with a view to a higb standard of cuange ringing. The performauces on these occasions have been, to say the least, unevelr, but it is satisfactory to record that the latest example, Grandsirg Caters well rung on the magnificent bells of Selby Abbey, was entirely admirable.
An intersely interesting broadcast was given from the Municipal Belfry at Berwick-or-Tweed on New Year's Eve, and the midnight ringing from London towers was most effective, In the broadeast of his late Majesty's funeral, the solemn tolling of Big Ber and the muffled peals from Westminster Abley 'with measured beat and slow' were profoundy impressive.
The bells of St. Peter Mancroft were included in a talk to schools on East Anglia, but the record was not satisfactory, and protests from the Norwich Associatian and the Church authorities evoked an apology from the B.'B.C

Amongst notable performances for the purpose of broadcasting may be mentioned a touch of Major ait Portsea, and touches of Caters at St. Mary Redeliffe, Bristol, and Cinques at St. Laurence's, Reading.

The Bells of Bethlehem were again heard in the memorable Empire hroadcast on Christnas Day- Another familiar feature has appeared in a new guise. A gew record of Baw Bells was transmifted one evening in the 'Saturday Magazine.' It remains to be seen whether it will prove such a favourite as that of the old ten bells.
The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, in mowing the adoption of the report and referring to the broadeasting section, said apart from the beantiful broadcasts of muffled bells at the late King's funeral, there were two matters of exceptional interest, one being the broedcast from the Misuicipal Belfry at Berwick-on-Tweed on Now Year's Eve, and the other the series of broadcasts on Sunday evenings under the heading of "The Ringing Isle." The quality of the ringing in the latter was referred to hil the report, although not so bluntly as the president Fond probably have put it (laughter). But the intention of the B.B.O. Was admirable.

SLMPLX AWFUL

Mr. A. P. Smith, in seconding, said he thonght it was time somehoidy like the president did speak binntly with regard to the quality of the ringing in some of the broadeasts. Much of the ringing put over was simply awful. They had heard ringing where the ringers could not even ring rounds. instead of doing any good to the ringing Exercise, it dafinitely did liarm. Whetleer that Council oould do anything, he did not know, but he suggested that if it could be done, rasociations, or churclk anthorities, or captains of bands, slound be prevailed upon to pick the best ringers availabie for the job, and not, if they were not competeat, men who ordinarily rang at the tuwer.
Mr. G. R. Newton. referring to a broadcast from a Lancashire tower, said ho offered to got a band so that they could have good change ringing, but the local ringers dlecided that their own company should riigg rounds and call clunges rather than let an ortside band cams in to broadcast. That was all right, if they got good rounds and call changes, but it was not what members of the Exercise get out in the early days to do. Their idea was to put across grod change ringing anc lot the public know what good change ringing really was. He was not decrying good rounds and cail elanges-one of tho best broadcasts he ever lieard was from Buekfrat Abbey about 1925, when rominds and call clanges were rung with meclanical precision. The point he wanted to malke, however, was that on every possible ocoasion they should have a good tonch of change ringirg, and not ellcourage the ringing of rounds or even call. clanges (hear, hear).

The Rev. H. Drake suggested that representations should bo made to the B.B.C. that they should have some pergou on their staft or have an honorary adviser competent to tell them something of what was necessary for ringing so that the B.B.C. should not make mistalses in the future.

Ganon Marshall said the secretary of the Yorkslire Association had received a letter from the B.IB.G. asking him to suggest towers where good ringing took place. He did not know whether other secretaries had recolved any such letter.

POOR BROADOASTS FROM LANGASHIRE.

The Pregident said it was a good thing to have the subject ventilated, particularly as to the quality of the ringing that was broat cast, He thought they could leave it to the committee to go on trying to get into touch with the B.B.G. He doubted whether such a course as suggesfed by Mr. Drake would be acceptable to the B.B.C. He thought it would be far better if the B.B.C. wrote to the associa tions in thrs way Canon Marshall lind mentioned. Fe dia not know whether that letter lud anything to do with the fact that the four Yorkshire broadcests had seemed to be so much bether than the Lancashire broadcasts. He heard two of tho latter, and he said to his family that he would be ashamed to make such a noiso on practice niglt with his beginners. The playing of any other instrument in such a manner would not be talerated for a single instant. When it was put out as clange ringing it did a trenendons lot of harm.
Mr. A. P. Smith : It is a disgrace to the Exercise.
Fhe President said the trouble was how to hring it home to ringers. Evidently there were parts of the country where ringers did not know what good striking was. They did not seem to havo lieard bells rung with thythm, or to make eny attempt to attain it. How to remedy this state of thing he did not know, except that they must go out trying to be missionaries to get better striking. It applied not only to Lancashire, but to many other parts of the country. It was one of the most serious things ihey, as a Council, had to fackle.
Mr. E. P. Duffeld asked if the committee had considered the advisability of gending a lotter to all the associations strgegting fhey shonla try to impress on their members the necessity of providing competent bands when bell broadcasts were to be given
The Rer. F. LI. Fdwards said one of the chief difficulties in that matter was the feeling of the local elergy and ringers. Many of the parochial clergy took the view that, when a broadcast was given, their own men should give it, and in the great majority of cases the local clevgy did not understand what good ringing was. There was also the fonling emong the local ringers.
Mr. A. P. Smith : That is oxactly the case, and I ang glat to hear Mr. Edwards, as a parson, admit it. All this trouble is due to the cussedness of the parsos. It only requires the Ficar to say, 'My own ritgera are not good enough. I hoar them every Sunday, nd I an not going to allow suck rubbish to be broadeasb. The incumbent should say to the captain, 'Choose a good band ; we will have the shoul ringing it is possible to get from this towed nest sunday might.' That is what you want fo tell jour brothor parsons.

SOME OF ?HE DIFFICULTMES.
Mr. J. Parker said that in many towers the ringers did not know that they did not ring as well as other peaple, and if the Vicar told them a special band wag to be brourht in for a broadeast, they woukd turn round and say, 'Get then to come every other Sunday," and finish.

Mr. A. E. Sharman said he belonged to a bund who rang for Sunday services a hundred times a year. Ho personnlly would not object to askicg a band to come and broadcast, but it scenced to him if they were to thrn lound and say to their' regular 1 ingers, 'We do not want you on Sunday when we broadcast," they would not get a band on the following Sunday. They had to bo very tactful when they had a voluntary band.

Mr. S. H. Wood said he had heard no suggestion that any competent band should seek outside assistance. The point was that ringers who were not competent to ring properly ghould, get outsido help. There were a lot of local tingers, not very good riugers, who would rather make a bit of a noise, even thougla it was being broadcast, han call in outside essistance. It would bo much better if they would thee the wicler view. It was very important to the whalo Exercise that only tho hest ridging should go over the air. method in the way thas B.B.C. had been choosing the pleces from which to broadeast. He thouglat e way out of the dificulty would be to suggest to the B.B.C. that they appronch the ceunty or diocesan asscciations and ask their adyice as to the balads in their districte which would be best for their purpose. Unforburatoly, there were some individnale in bands who would insist on ringing, although it was hnown they were the wery last persons who should be igcluded if they wanted decent ringing. Theso broadengts were arranged long before they took place, and it would be hettel if the responsible nsscoiations were consulted as to the cqualifications of the ringers to broadcast, The ouly other alternative seemed to him to be for the B.B.C. to hold auditions at Broadeasting House. They would be 'Ped up 'more than the publio (Iaughter)

Mr. G. Pullinger pointed out that, a church was not chosen for the boll brondicast, but becnuse it wes a popular chureh and had a popular parson. It did not follow that the latter had a good tenm of bellringers.
Major Hesse said on the oceasion of a broadeast to America from his own charch (Haslomere) he chose two outsiders because he felt he conld not ineldde two of his own band. The two who were omitted had had 'the hump' ovor since. That sort of thing broke up a band.
Mr. & F. Palmer said at his own tower (Sheffeld Gathedral), when thoy were asked to provide a broadeast, they immediately set themsolves to practise specially for it on every available occasion. The brondcast wits to consist of a course of Stedman Cinques, and be was pronal to say they put a perfect course over the air. In the same way uather charch in Sheffeld with eight bells a few weeks after follower this course and put some excellent change ringing over the air. In his opinion, if ringers at other churches would get in sone special praclice far the brondeast, tho results would be better.

SUGGESTED APPROACH TO THE B.B.C.

Mr. F. W. Rogers suggested that the secretary of the Council might get into touch with the B.B.C. and get the programme of the proposed boll broadcasts for the next twelve months. Ile believed this would bo availabla, because in the case of his church (Portsea) they lad glyendy been nsked to broadeast next Palm Sanday. If the eecretary got a list of these broadcasts and communicated with each guild or association, the secretarieg of the latter, where they knew there was 10 competenti change minging band, could arrange for such a band to bo formed
N1. A Walker thought it would strengthen the lands of the committee if the approach to the B.B.C. were made by the commitiee. He could not say that it was always best to put over change ringing. If a band could not ring clanges properly they could not put it over. th should he left to the ringers to decide; if they could ring rounds best, let them ring rounds. The ringing was put over not for the berefit of ringers, but for the general public, who were the people to be considered.

Mr. Duffield supported the suggestion of Mr. Rogers. He thought it would be possible to get adwance information from the B.B.C., if they represonted to the Corporation that their only desire was to taice ateps to sectice better broadeasts, and then to approach the incumbants and say they hoped, if there was mot a competent loeal land, that thoy would invite assistance from some ringing anthority in their vienity. It would, at any rate, diminish tle number of very indifferent broadcants.

The President said the whole thing regaired doing with a great deal of tact: there were all sorts of snags. He thonght ther conld leave il to tho commutue, who had heard the varions suggestions, inchuding the sugeection abont getting the list of brondeasts beforeliand and then trying ta influenco the local incumbents or the local bands to put something good across.
This course was accepted and the repord adopted.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

THE TREASURER'S OBSTINACY.

As hon, treasurer, Mr. Fleteher formally presented to the Central Council the audited accounts, details of which were given in our issue of June 5th.
Mr. A. A. Hughes (nuditory proposed the adoption of the accounts. He had only one criticism, and that wes that the hoa. treasurer had rot clarged the Council as much as he should have done an certain items of stationery and printing; he was far too penbrous to the Council. He (Mr. Fugines) thought the Council should lave paid, but Mr. Fletcher was very obstinute (laughter). Fe could do nothing with hini; he did not know if the Council could.
The President: Do you propose a resolution that the hon. treasurer be less obstinate? (laughter).
Mr. Hughes said the things which Mr. Fleteher had bought were of immense advantage to the Council. They remained the property of MIr. Fletcher for the use of the Cauncil. They anght to be very much indebted to him for the way in which he treated the Council (applause).
Mr. Coles (auditor) seconded the accounts, which were adopted.
NEW DEMONSTRATOR FOR RLNGING MACHINE.
In a report on the Carter Ringing Mackine in the South Kensington Science Museum, Mr. E. A. Yourg, one of the trusteas, said on May 22nd an official inspection was carried out. A defectio catch-up in the mechanism was discovered, but before it could be located, closing time arrived and they had to leave. Mr. Sharman (the demonstrator) would attend at an early date and rectify the defect, and the payment to him of the fee of one grinca was recommended. NCr: A. G Driver had atfended three times to lave the thachine explained to him. The trustees thonght Mr. Driper would make a good assistant denronstrator and recommended him for appointment.
Mr. Young said they had to fill the posti vacant by the death of Mr. Tardon, and, after seeing Mr. Driver, they thought he would be a suitable person to appoint. His knowledge of the science of ringing was far beyon 3 that of the average ringer, and he had in addition fiatr for machines. He had a number of inventions of his own, azd the developed ddeas some years ago far producing changes loy machinery In connection with these ideas he got inlo touch with Mr . Woodhouse. They thought Mr. Driver could safely be appointed to fill Mr. Fardon's place. Mr. Young expressed regret that through the defect which was discoverged, the machine could not be demonstrated on the previous dny.
int. Hughes (the other trustee) seconded, and the report and rccommendations were adopted.
The President said they rerretted that Mr. Woodhouse had not been able to bring his machine to show tha Council on that occasion as hy had loped. He did not feel equal to driving to London rith his wachine, and did not like to send it by train, as alveady one sent. by train had unfortunately been smashed up.
Mr. Hughes said Mr. Driver had had a lot to do with Mr. Wood. house'g machine, and understood it almost as much as Mr. Woodhouse limself.

TFE STANDING COMMITTEE.

The report of the standing Committce was a purely formal one stating that the agenda had been considered and recommendations lad been or would be made to the Councti in the course of the meeting The Prasident, in formally proposing the adoption of the report said ho wanted to take the opportunity of saying somothing about the Standing Committee. He believed there was a feeling among on or tro of the members that the business of the Conncil was largely 'cut and dried' by the Standing Committee the day before and that the avernge member came there and voted "yes" or "no." That wat not at all the intention or the fact. If they did not bave at Standintr Committes they mauld liave to have at least two days for their meet ing. The oljject of the standing Committee mas to go through tho business first, and when they made recommendations they made ther because they thouglit they would shorten the business. It was just to rive the Council a lead for discussion, but lie hoped no member would think that because the Standing Committee made a recorrmendation they were nat to get rp and make a suggestion if they Fnad somothing else which wrs better. He wanted to get rid of thi impression that the Standing Committee tried to rale the Council It did not try to do that at all; it tried to shorten the business hy going throngh it and getting it into order beforchand

EX-OFTICIO MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE
On the question of the election of the Standing Committee, the President pointed out that in 1933 the uumber of elected membert was fixed by resolution at 12 , with the officers mud conveners of committees ex-officio. This time under the mew rules they had twon more offeers, the anditors. Formerly the auditors were appointed by tho Stnnding Committee from the Standing Committee at their meeting, and they audited the nccomats then and there. Ther had changed that arrangement unfler the new rules, and the auditors were appointed officially by the Council for tlaree years. The question arose whether the auditors were to ho treated in the same class as the other officials and become ex-officio members of the Standing Committee. It was thought it would be a good thing if they were so treated.
Mr. A. P. Smith proposed that the auditors be regarded ass ex-oficin members. They were rery important officials and should be present at the meetings of the Standing Committee when matterg of finance were discussed. Mr. Smith added that he would like to make another suggestion and that was that such old servants of the Council as Canon Coleridge, ex-pvesident, and Mr. E. A. Young, ex-secretary, should also be regarded as ox-officio memberg of the Standing Committee. It did not seem riglit to lim, he sajd, that after so many years of excellent service they shond have to run the risk of re-election. He moved that, in addition to the ouditors, the ex-secretaries and ex-presidents of the Geuncil be regarded as ex-officio merabers of the Standing Committee.
Mr. E. Denison Taylor seeonded. He thought they would agree that it was absolutely necessary for the good conduct of the bisiness of the Council that the auditors should be on this committee.

Repiying to questions, the President said the actual rules of the Council merely provided for the mppointment of a Standing Committee. Tha iciea behind this resolution was that only ex-presidents and ex-secretarics who were still members of the Conncil should be ex-offcio members of the committee. They were now merely appeinting the Stimblug Committee for the next thee years, but it would form a good precedent for the future.

The proposal was agreed to, and, on the suggestion of the president, the election of the Sthanding Committee was left over until the rest of the conmiltees had been appointed in order that the Council might linow who tho conveners (also ex-officio menbers of the committee) were to be.

PEAL COLLEGTION COMMITTEE.
The adoption of the report of the Peal Collection Committee, which appeared in our issue of May $29 t h$, was moved by Mr. G. Lindoff, seconded by Mi. S. R. Newton, and agreed to.
Mrs. Fletcincr resigned her seat on the committee, and Mr. T. B. Worsley was elected to fill the vacancy. The remafnder of the commitiee, tiz, the Revs. E. S. Powell alld H. S. T. Richardson, Messrs. ( 7 . Lindof, G. $R$. Newton, G. $R$. Pye, C. W. Roberts and J. A. Trollope, were re-plected, with Mr, Liudof as couvener.

PRINTING OF SURPRISE METFODS DETTERED

The adoption of the report of the Methods Committee, also published in 'The Ringing World of Miay 29th, was moved by Mr. J. $A$. Trollope and seconded by Mr. S. H. Wood.

The President said the WS. of the book on Surprise Major methods hnd been handed to the hon. secretary. The Standing Committee had taken inte consideration the question of publication, with a view to formulating a policy. The cost of printing the book, to keep its price down to nbout 3s., would involve an expenditirre of between exo and ת100, which the Conncil could not stand at the moment without selling some of their secuvities, an action which the Standing Committee did not think wise. The committee came to the conclusion that it wonld be better to lola the book over for the present, so that it would be available for members to look throngla it, and then try to form some opinjon as to the Aemand there was likely to be for the book. If it were thought there would be such a reasonable demand as would justify printing, they could then get into touch with the Standing Connmitee and possibly get the book out before the next Comeil meeting, after getting final estimates. The committee recommended that the book be not immediately published, but that it be left to the officials to go further into the question, and, if recessary, get authorify from tho Standing Committee to print ol otherwise bring it up again next year.

This course was arreed to and the repoit adopted.
On the motion of Mr. E.J. Butler, seconded by Mr. W. Ayre, the committee, consisting of Messrs. J. A. Trollope, S. H. Wood and E. C. S. Turner, wers reappointed, with Mr. J. A. Trollope as converer.

'PEAL' DELETED IFROM 'ANALYSTS.

Mrs. Fleteher moped the adoption of the report of the Penls Analysis and Records Committee, which was printed in "The Ringing World," with the tables of analysis, on May 22nd. Since the report was prepared, Mrs. Metcher said, the figures of the record peal of Stedman hinques at Sonthwark had been fonnd to be false, and the peal had heen withdrawn. A note would be made of this in the Council's ecords.
Mr. G. R. Pye seconted the adoption of the report.
Mr. J. S. Goldsmith moved that the peal of Minor Tung at Wistaston for the Chester Guitd on July 23th, 1935 , be deleced from the Council's records. The peal, ha said, contained three 480's of Littie Bob and did not conform to any decision of the Council regarding a peal of Winor. Tt ditl mot contain seven true 720's.
Mr. O. T. Coles, in seconding, said the onus of looking after the acenracy of peals was on the associations themselves. They should watch and see that all peals conformed to the decisions of the Council. It was the only way the Peals Aqalysis Committee and the Editor of "The Ringing World ' could be protected.
The Analysis Committee ancepted the amendment to the report, which was then adopted.
Mr. Goldsmith then moved that it be an instruction to the committoe not to include in the statistical tables any penl which was contrary to the decisions of the Council, but to draw attention to it in their report for decision lyy the Cotncil.
Mr. G. L. Grover, who seconded, snid the peal at Wistaston was not included in the report without due consideration. Tlie committee pat it in and calfed attention to it so that the matter might be raised before the Council.

Mr. E. P. Duftiold asked whether, the Guild having already ngreed to accept the decisions of tho Council, such a motion was necessary? It seemed to him associations liad already agreed not to accept such peals.
Mrs. Fletcher said the Chester Guild had not had an opportunity of considering the matter, as theit annual metting was to be lield an the following Saturday. The Grild had not had a chance to discuss it before the cammittee published their report.
Mr. Pilling inguired wfiether this motion covered such things as Bob Triples aud other methods which the Council had said should not be wung.
The President said the Council recognised such a thing as Bob Triples, but did not lecommend it. It was only reasonable that all thipse societies who harl agreed to abide by the Council's decisions should seg that their peals werg in conformity with them. The Council was not legislating for the past but for the future.
Mr. Rogers : Does it mean that the Chester Guild must withdraw that peal?
The President: Yes, that is the normal course.
The motion was carried and the committree re-elected as follows: Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (convener), Messrg. C. Dean, G. L. Grover and G. R. Pye.

THE PRDSS AND RINGING.

The report of the Jiterature, Press and Broadeasting Committea reviewed at some length the notice given to ringing in the Press of the cominty, remarking that a xeview of the past twelve months revealed a marked advance in the attention paid to the subject of bella and bellinging, Quotations from warious artictes were given, includirg pertincut extracts from the views of Mr. Filson Young in the roport, enthusiastic tributo was paid in a subsequent issue of 'Radio Times' by no less an authority in the musical world than Sir Richard Tery. Asking 'What has laappened to Cliristmas?' Sir Richard deplored the passing of mary old customs, and proceeded to say, "Another old custon that seenis to have gone to the wall is the Cluristmas peal,' and there followed from his pon a powerful plea for the maistennuce of 'the art and craft of chango ringing.' "In these deys of stressed qationalism,' he wrote, "it ought surely to be no difficult matfer to keep alive a craft that is not only exclusivaly Englisln, but in itself a most fascinating study and a most healthy recreation.

Amongst mamerous references in the daily Press generally to bells min the art of ringing. it is of interest to aote a spell of correspondence in the "Times. initated by Sir Evelyn Wrench, on 'The Melody of Bells." Well-informed articles and Ietters have appeared in the "Norwich Diocesan Gazefte. on 'Bells and Bellringing.' Goncluding a discnssion on the "nuisance" of bells, the 'Birmingham Garette" summed up the situation in the terse sentence, 'One a trial, but many music.
The zeport further added that during the period under rewisw Mr, E. Morris' fascinating work, 'Legends $a^{2}$ the Bellg, with a wealh of deliglatifl illustrations, has been publisled by Sampson Low, Marston and Co. The story of the famous Fiaging tour in Anstralia nad New Zealade, with a history of ringing in Australin, was published in book form nuce the title of "A Great Adventure.' The rinsers' own journal, 'The Ringing World," has celehrated its silver jubilee, and the Editor has received innumerable messages of congratulation, in which his collengues on this committee leartily join.

After the discussion on Broadcasting, separately reportad, the repart. was adopted.
The committee were then re-elected, via.: The Rev. T. Ll. Tdwards (convener), Messrs. J. S. Goldsmith, A. Paddon Smith and $A$. Walker.

The Limeolnshire men on Whit Monday rang a 51 method peal, in which the first 720 was made up of four new Alliance methods, with Bastow Iititle Bolo to complete the extent.
Last Saturday they capped all previons records by ringing at Algatkirk, a peal with no fewer than 57 methods woven into seven true 720's by that wizard of figures, Mr. A. G. Driver. This peal contaned no fewer than 196 clanges of methad!
The 51 method peal, arranged by Mr. A. G. Driver, contaived 172 changes of method. The fonr Alliance methods thave not previously been published. It will be oloserved that they differ from those priated in the Gentral Council's Minor Collection in that the treble dodges int 3-4, as well as in 5-6, instead of in 5-6 only. These are all methorts with &ad's place af the treble's lead. The 57 method peal included the 6th's place companion methods, named respectively Lasegton, Tattershail, Alford and Candlesby.

A 'SPLICED' DECISION.

The Central Council settled the question of the definition of a 'spliced peal' with an unexpected amount of unanimity. It was one of those subjects which might easily have dragged on for years, like the Minor discussion, but, with the leading protagonists coming to agreement before-band-'splicing ' their ideas, so to speak-a good deal of controversial ground was cut away and a fairly plain issue left to the meeting; Any combination of methods will now be recognised as 'spliced,' as long as the splicing takes place at the lead ends, but peals of Treble Bob in which, say, Oxford and Kent places are both made within the same 'lead,' will not be recognised as spliced.'

As far as we can see there is only one Haw in the decision arrived at. A good deal of insistence was laid upon the joining togetber of the methods in complete, 'fundamental units,' which in treble dominated methods is the 'lead.' Unless this is done, a touch or peal, the Council has said, cannot be called 'spliced.' But if the methods are joined up when the treble is behind instead of in front-and someday, perhaps, some composer may come along with such a peal; indeed we believe a peal of Surprise Royal with the change of method sometimes made when the treble is behind is already in existence-we cannot see how it can be denied the titie of 'spliced.' The joining together of methods in this way may be abhorrent to some purists, but in our view it is none the less 'splicing,' and 'splicing ' in a more difficult form. Moreover if the treble goes from back to front and back again it produces all the work of the method equally as well as the ordinary lead does, so that there could be no ambiguity about what is rang, which is one of the things the proposers were anxious to ensure. Or again, if, as we were told, the changing of the method at the back produces a new, albwit "irregular' method, within the treble lead, what matters it? It will only add to the number of methods in the peal! And this opens up the question which we think the sponsors of the resolution carried by the Council were anxious to avoid. If it were admitted that methods, joined when the treble is at the back, are 'spliced,' how can, say, the Ilkeston arrangement of Treble Bob be ruled out, supposing, as could easily be the case, the change from Kent to Oxford or vice versa, is called when the treble is behind?

As a matter of fact, now that practically all peals in more than one method are to be recognised as 'spliced '; whether the change of method occurs once or a hundred times in the peal, the word 'spliced' has lost all or nearly all its value in this connection; indeed, it had almost lost it before it was discussed by the Council. It was introduced at a time (Contiused on page 414.)

when there was an idea afoot in one or two places that, in the interests of variety, more than one method might be rung in a 720 of Minor or a peal of Major irrespective of the truth of the whole, and when it was shown that peals could be got on the multi-method plan and still remain true the word 'spliced' was introduced to distinguish this class of composition. In these days, when no one in their senses would think of ringing a number of methods in a 720 or a five thousand unless they believed the peal to be true, the word 'spliced' could easily be dropped, for the names of the methods and the number of changes from one to the other would be quite sufficient to indicate the type and quality of the performance.

A very successful and enjoyable meeting was held at Chester-leStreet on Saturday week, Yingers bejing present from Sunderland, Gateshead, Darlington, Newcastle, Tanfield, Fenham, Blackhill, Benfieldside, Houghton-le-Spriug aud the local tower. The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening to Cambridge Surprise and Double Norwich Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Kent, Oxford and Plain Bob.
After tea Mr. Titt, of Darlington, proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector and churchwardens for the use of the bells, and stated that they were all very pleased to have the clergy amongst them at their meeting. He expressed regret that the Eastern District secretary was not, present owing to having another engagement.
Mr. Taylor, asseciation secretary, proposed a vate of thanks to the ladies for providing the splendad tea, aud Mrs. F. Sleraton suit. ably replied.
The meeting was presided over by MIr, R. L. Patterson, of Sunder land, the vice-president of the Eastern District.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

BURLEY BELLS.

The June meeting was held at Burley on Saturday: The bells wero available from 3 p.m., and good use was made of them until 8 o'clock. at which time ringing had to stop. The church at Burley has been encircled by houses which are built right up to the churchyard. The efforts of the local compauy are to be commended, for they have successfully reduced the noise emanating from the bell clnmber. The bells are very pleazing to the car, when one is approaching the church.
The business meeting was held in the tower, Mr. J. Hey (vicepresident) being in the chair. Members were present from Armley, Bramley, Brighouse, Calvenley, Driyluington, Guiseley, Holbeck Hramiey, Brighonse, Calverley, Dhirdingtor, Guiseley, Hobeck. Rothwell, Shipley, Sutton-on-Hull and the local company.
The usual vote of thanks to the Vicar, churelnwardens and tho local ringers was proposed by the chairman nnd seconded by Mr. F. Dixon.-Mr. Gearge W. Slack replied for the Vicar and ringers and drew the members' attention to some old doenments which were drew the members attentiont to some old doenments Whach were frameed and had been presented to the tower by Mr. W. Whittaker. The Vicar of Burley had had these reprinted in the Parish Magazins and had sent a uumber of copies to the tower for the visiting ringers.
The date of the meeting lad been brought forward, and the Western Division secretary of the Yorkshire Association wished to thank the members and the secretary for holding the gathering a weel carlier in order to avoid clasling with the Ringley meeting.
The date of the next meeting of the Leeds and District Society is Tuly 25 th, and the place is Drighlington.

SUSSEX RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

AN ORIGINAL MEMBER OF THE COUNTY ASSOCIATION.
On May 29th, Mr. T. Stringer, of Burgess Hill, Sussex, eelebrated his golden wedding. Although for the last year or two Mr. Stringer bas been unable to ring at the local tower owing to ill-health, his keen interest in the bellis has never slackened, and it was with the greatesi pleasure that some of his old ringing friends met him agnin on this pleasant occasion. As one of the original members of the Sussex County Association he will always be remembered for the grent tradition which he instituted in the earliest days of organised ringing in the county and the huge amount of thankless spade work put in at the surrounding towers.
In the evening the bells were rurg to a quarter-peal of Stedman, Mr. Stringer's favourite method: Arthur Gravett I, Frank I. Hairs 2, George Wiriams 3, William J. Weblo 4, Stanley E. Armstrong 5, Keith Hart B , John Dearlove (conductor) 7 , John T. Toms 8 .
After the ringing a very pleasant entertainment took place, the golden wedding cake sampled, and tales of the old days told over again.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

NINETEEN TOWERS IN ONE DAY

A most enjoyable and interesting day ${ }^{\text {a }}$ s outing was spent by a party of 'tower snatelers' in the Oxiord Diocese on Whit Monday. Pive of the hand, comprising W. Henley, Miss K. E. Fletcher, J. Hawison and T. Price, in a car, and R. G. Cross, on a motor-bike, left Beaconsfeld at 7.15 a.m. on the run to Stewkley, near Bletehiey, which was reached at 8.15. Here J, E. F. Tredenuick was added to the band, the Norman church visited, and a cuurse of Canbridge rung on the rather deafening six (tenor 13 cwt ), which went fairly well considering the ancient frame
The next tower was Great Brickhill, where a very fine peal of six (tenor 14t cwt.) was found, and Cambridge and Double Court rung. After visiting Milton Keynes, where 360 Double Court was rung on the recently augmented riag of six (tenor 9 cwt .), the litile company went on to Simpson. where Mr. C. W. Smith met the party. Touches were rung on the six bells (tenor 8 cwt .) and Mr. Smith decided to join the tour. A move was made to Woughton-on-the-Green, with Smithy " in the car and Tredennick on the back of Gordon's bike, which had developed chtch trouble, necessitating various forms of run and jump starts, ending with fearsome getaways, which became more startling as the day went on. At Waughton, where is a very light six (tenor 6 cwt.), several tonches were rung, then to Great Linford, where hangs another fine six (tenor $15 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.). At Noarth Orabley lunches were cansumed before ringing on the six bells (tenor 12 cwt ) that hang in this rather lofty tower and are rung from the ground floor. Chicheley (six, tenor 16 ewt.), Sherington (five bells, tenor 11 cmt ), and Emberton, famous for Surptiso Minor (six bells, tenor 10 cwt .), were in turn visited and touches rung at each tower.
The next call was Clifton Reynes, with a nice six aIso about 10 cwt. and touches here were much enjoyed. The Rector of clifton Reynes is also in charge of Newton Blossomville, where, according to "Belfy Gossip' (May 15th, 1936), 120 clanges were rung on fower bells in 3 mins. 5 secs. In case the party wished, the Tector bad kindly arranged for the visitors to have a ring on the peal of three bells at this last-mentiowed church. Always ready for a fresh tower, the band stopped and hurriedly 'snatched' this one, which was an extra' in the programme. The verger came along and was unable to credit that the hand had rung six different changes, explajning that the sceond could only come either after the treble or before the treble, making two changes, and the tenor liad to be last. He had been ringing there for 20 years. However, further information regarding the high speed 120 would be interesting.
The party then went on througl Turvey, Beds, to Lavendon, and the five bells (tenor 11 cwt ) were lumg to Grandsire and Stedman. The fourth was hung in such a way that it appeared to be sititer cracked or strangled, and was nearly a semitone shavp. anyway. Going on next to Weston Underwood, the baud found a really lovely six (tenor about 11 ewt.), and, after Double Const and Stedman Dowbles, sat down to an excelleut tea which the Rev. I. F. Anies hat findly arranged. The band were pleased to see him for a few minates' chat before Ieavigg. Stoke Goldington (five bells, tenor 14 ewt.) was visited on the way to Fanslope. The stately tower and spire at this latter place is the tallest in Bucks, the tower rising spme 110ft. and the spire a further ©fft. The bells are a fine six, tenor somewhat aver the ton. Three of the wisitors had had the pleasure of a peal here a year ago. The tour was finibhed by taline in the towers at Calwerton (six, temor 10 cwt ), Old Wolverton (six, fenor 12 ewt.) and Bradwell (six, tenor 6 cob.). By the time the party reached home there was not much change out of Whit Monday.
The main fatures of tho outing wore the general welcome med everywhere from both clergy and ringers, and the fards and pards of rope below the sally at some towers. In one instance the odd rasu out held it for the touch.
All the towers had been written for, all were speedily granted and there were many invitations for the future. Altogether a mast sue cessful venture, which covered 19 towers in the day!

YORKSHIREMEN'S JXTRA DAY

On Whit Monday the T.B.C. announcer said "The last day of the holiday is ower,' lint he evidently did not know that the North has another day's holiday. The Arniley ringers aud friend frous Eramley and Burley will all remember Whit Tuesday. 1936, when they had Eheir annual outing aud visited Helmsley, Pickering and Scarhorongh. Leaving Armley oft 7 a.m., they travelled by Weliherby and througl Tadcaster and York, and arrived at Helmsley to find the locai secretnry ill in bed, but rendy with a welcome. It is hoped by this time he is well on the way to complete recopery. After ringipge a service touch for 10 a.m. Holy Communion, the pairy set off to Pickering nnd found the local secretary and two ringers awaiting them. Ringing is done here on the ground foor of the chureh, and must be very irsefnl for the ringers who carry a little weight, or thoge who are nemrly always late. The visitors were joined ly Mr. T. Kendall, of Shipley, and Mr. Malootm Moorhouse, who was there with a ehoir trip on the way to Whitby. After an hour's ringing and a break for lunch, the journey to Scarborough was continned. Reading this popalar resort, the party divided 1 p , the ringers going to the tower and enjoying some ringing, while the ladies and children went to the beach. Although the samds of time were travelling fast, the Scarborough sands were still there when the fathers found their childrea by the water's edge.

After giving the kiddies some professional help, it was time for a donkey ride and the usual 'smap.' A splendid tea was enjoyed, ana a very fine journey bome brouglt 'That's all’ at 11 p.m.

A TRIP INTO THREE COUNTIES.

The Heston, Middlesex, ringers, togetiser with their wives and rizging frieuds, had their 'hardy annual' on Whit Monday. In a conrfortable motor-coach they started at 8.30 a.m. and travelled to Warnham, Sussex, which was reached two hours later. 'Grandpa's' touch of 'cock-eyed' Stedman opened the proceedings, ather methods including Oxford Bob Triples, but were the simgles orthodox for the member of the C.G. present? In in subsequent touch of Stedman a member of the Police Guild roaned off his ljeat, litought himself a speed cop and arrived in 45 too soou.
Warnham was left regretfuly at 12 o'clock, the next place of call being Turners Hill. After a basty lunch in the well-appointed village inn, a nice landy eight fit to ring for balf a day was found in the tower. E. G. S., however, did not take his parby over the hill into the widderness of spliced or laminated as Was expected. Just 'plain stuft ' was rung, Bob Hajor going very well. During the fall in peal a listener outside heard what he thought to be claps of thunder-or was it the echo of the fall?

Moving further enstwards, Coleman's Hatch was reached slightiy behind schedule time. Among oflier touches, a course of Kent Theble Bob was the treat. Going still cast, a good vuu brought the party to Speldhurst, Kent. Shortly after arrival, the Vicar of Heston put in an appearance in his ear; complete with chaufeur tenor-man. After an hour's rimging, a happy party of 38 (includiug the Reator of Speldhurst) sat down to tea in the Old Onk Roam of the George and Dragon. Afterwards, in the forecourt a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on the ' Flower Pots,' which brought forth, ava merited, applause.
It was somewhat difficult to round up the company from the very extensive Rectory garden, and the tonvists arrived at Blatehingley, Surrey, nearly an hour late. Here they found heavier belis than at the other towers, a tenor about 19 cwt ., n fairly long draught of rope and no guides. Among other touches, the best "brass hats' that could be mustercd rang a caurse of Double Norwich, wilin someone counting the faults. No prize was offered or won. One of the saic 'brass hats, could not manage a subsequent toncls of Oxford Bob Triples, and a study of the Beginners' column in "The Ringing World" could be made with advantage. The (ringing) day finished with a short touch of Grandsire, conducted by the gole representative of the Ladies' Guild present. No singles were called, as the majority of the band are married, and her name is not Kate. J-Feston was reached safely about 11 p.m., and the best thanks are due to Mǐ. H. C. Chandler, who did all the work in organising this outing.

FOR BEGINNERS.

CAELING BOB MAJOR FROM A WORKING BELL.

To apply the knowledge, gained in calling Bob Minor from a 'nonobservation ' bell, to Bob Major is not a very difficult task. In Major it is only in ' frealc ' touches that the tenor is not used as the observation befl, so that the actual ealls are made according to the position of the tomor, which, for the most part, are four only. There can, of course, be calls in the ofler three pogitions in the course, but either of them will "part the tenors '- ihat is, the sevently will cease to course after the tenor, and some other bell or bells will be inserted between them. There are musical arramgements of coursing order without the seventh behind the tenor, but generally ringers prefer to hear the 7 and 8 come up in their sequence together belind and to koep them as far as possible at their natural interwal as they past among the olther bells.
rilue conductor who first wants to try his hand at calling from a non-observatiou bell is, thorefore, well advised if he sticks at first to calling bobs when the temor is in one ar other of the fom positions which loave the 7th undisturbed in its relation to the tenor. These positions are Middle ( $6-5$, dowir), Home ( $8-7$, down) and Wrong ( $7-8$, 12p), ta put them in the order in which they aceur, and Before (when the tenor is called to rum out, after coming to lead in front of the trable).

Oue of the things which the budding oondnctor shonk master, whatever bell he rings, is the ability, first of all, to remember the coursing order of the bells and see to it that they keep to it; and then to be able to anticipate the change of coursing ovder which will oceur when he calls the next bols, so that, if any trip occurs in the making of it or immediately after, he can pick up the bells without hesitadion and with certainty,
He need not wait to reach this fimal stage before lie thinks of calling from n non-observation bell, bit can attempt ib as soon as he can see the collrsing order of the belis as they are ringing.
To call the tenor into any of the positions named should be quite an casy thing if the conductor is himself coursing immediately in front of the tenor (when he is 6th's place bell) or behind the seventh (when he is Sthrs place belf). If the is 6th's place bell he is one dodging place in front of the tenor; if he is 5th?'s place bell he is one dodging place hehind the 7th, which, in turn, is one place behind the tenor, so tliat a cell at Middle brings the 5th's place bell into $7-8$ up, a call it Home brings it into $5-612 \mathrm{p}$, a call at Wrong causes it to make the bob the 4 th's place, of course, being substituterl for the dodge 3-4 (up)
If he in the bw's place bell, then the bob Middie catises him to Yun ill, but a hoh Howe places him ab M. (or $6-5$ down and a bob Wrong at II. (or 8-7 down). It will be noticed that unless the bob moves the bell away from its previous coursing place, the sequence of M. F. W. is maintafued by the 5 th and $6 t h$ place bells as well as the tenors.

There remains the hob Before as it affeets these two bells. The 6th's placa bell makes the hoh and becomes sth's place bell-coursing alter the 7411 , with the previons 5 th's place bell immediately luelind it. Tho 5th's place bell is called into 6-5 (rlown). A further call or calls in successive leard pushes these two bells back a place each time in the sequence M. H. W.

Now what of the others, the 3 Ird's, $2 n d$ 's and 4th's place bells in conrsing arder It will not be long lofore you realise, if you have not alrondy worked it out for yourself, ithat if a M. is to be called, The 3rd's plane bell will dodre fn $5-6$ with the tenor at the hob; that the $2 n d$ 's place bell will haye dodged with the 7th in $5-6$ at the prewiors lead and the the 4th's place bell will have dodged with the tenor in 34 at the previons lead.
This wans you ns to when the bob M. is coming, and when it arrives, the 2nd's place bell will make the bob (and become the new 6 h 's place bell) ; the 4th's place bell will run Ont and the 6th's place boll will run $\mathrm{T}_{n}$
If hols occur at succeeding leads, the bells, ruming In and Out, ropent the operabina. If bobs occur exactly a course apert, that is if a call M. succeeds a M. ar a H. succeeds a $F$., on a w. suceeds a W, then, if Fou ale one of the bells on the front, you call to yout aid tha cycle we wrote of a Fortright ago in conmection with Bob Minot-Tn, Out, 4th's.

We have given you hints as to how to pick up your own position when calling the tenor into some of the recognised bob places. We will not elaborgte it, but we sargest that you work out for yourselves the many guides which you will find that earefnel invertigation gives you. There is often more ndwantage in working out these things Whan in trying to remember a lot of detnils other people may toll you. Here is the kind of thing to look for: Suppose you have bobs at W. and M. Wo have shown that the 5th's place hell maker the hoh at. W. The Eame hell will make the boh $M$., and become the 6 th's place bell. The hell that rums Out at the W. (having become 5th's place belly donges in $7-8$ with, the 7 th at the M., and the bell that rins In dodiges in $5-5$ with the tenor. We mention this part.icnlatly because the gap lotween W. and M. is often found the most difficult to bridgo.

BELL BROADCASTS.  MUSICAL QUAEITIES OF BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir, It is quite natural that, as ringers and change ringers, we should be primarily concermed about the striking of the performances pub on the air. But we should not overlook a mater of equal importance even to us, and certainly to the listeners-in, namely, the musical qualities of the rings of bells to be selected.

However rood or bad the striking, it is for the occasion only, whereas the tunefulness or the reverse of the bells concerned remains to enbance or impair the efforts of generations of ringers. To stress this is to emphasise the obvious, yet it does not seem to have occurred to anybody, during the Council's discassion, to paint out ils bearing upon the question.

May I, with due deference to the Council, suggest that a way out of the present impasse may be found by giving due weight to this and related factors, e.g., the 'going' of the bells concerned? So long as the question is sought to be decided only by the merits of the ringers in the local bauds, nuy judgment must be invidious in the highest degree, and as such will be keenly resented, however justified it may be. But if we bronden the basis of rejection, and more especially if we bring in such inpersonal factors as I have indicnted, we should stort-circuit all opposition at the start.
Nobody can reasonably object to a determination upon the part of the whole Exercise to give the B.B.C. the best of which we, as ringers, and our good friends the bellfounders ayde capable, and to give only of our and their best. By bracketing both the bells and fheir ringers together in this way, as we ought, we likewise escape the odium of seeking to set up a pillory in which the inefficient may be pelted.
The ultimate solution must be some sort of advisory, commiltee to the B.B.C. which would either select towers that might be called upon as required, or else pass an opinion upon proposed broadeasts week by week. This solttion will be agreed to more readily wher we allow purely personal considerations to sink hack futo the obsurity from whid they should never have been permitted to emerge in opei discussion, and when we have our committee get up it will, of contre, be armed with full powers to fade out on the spot any performanec not up to standard.
A. J. CORRIGAN.

North Stoneham, Hants.

B.B.C.'s APPROACH TO YORKSHERE ASSOCLATION

Dear Sir,-I have read with interest the various criticisms expressed in connection with the above subject, Perhaps my experience of the B.B.C. will be of interest to readers.

Some time during whe latier part of March or the beginning of April I had a letter from the B.B.G. In connection with the series of broadcasts entitled ' The Ringing Isle, stating that they had already brondeast from a number of Lancashire charehes and wished to include a few Yorkshire churches in their future broadcasts of the same series. Selby Abbey lad been sugrested to them as a suitable tower did I think the local ringers would do justice to the Yorkshire Asso ciation? If not, would I sugrest one or two alternative towers? replied that I thouglat Selby would co justice to the association, and named two towers as wortby of the opportmity of broadeasting it and when the opportunity occurred. Pudsey was one of the towers named (Pudsey ringing is a byword in Yorkshire and their Sunday service ringing in the slanderd Surprise methode is unexcelled any where), and I think their effort was an example of all that is best in clange ringing, apart from the slight trip half-way
In this series of bell broadcasts the B.B.C. has, as its chief censideration, the ability of the ringers taking part, and the thanks of the Yorkshiro $A$ ssociation is due, and has been conveyed, to the B.B.C. for their courtesy in approaching them on this subject
In this week's issue of "The Ringing World," Mr. Lewis is reported as having lyeard four broadeasts from Yorkshire in 'The Ringiug Isle series at the time of the Central Council meeting, but I was not aware there had been any such broadcast from the country apart from Selby
E. CAWSER, Fon. Gen. Sec., Yorkshire Association.

WIDE APPRECIATION OF PUDSEY BROADCAST.

Dear Sir,-On behalf of the Pudsey Str. Lawrence company, I thank all those who have sent congratulatory messages to the Vicar, "The Ringing World and to me, on our recent broadcast. It is indeed a pleasure to its to know that our effarts have been so widely appreciated We offer an unconditional apology to the Exercise for the slip at the 4th lead end: wo make no excuses, but if we are invited again to be 'on the air' we shall do one utmost to wipe out the blemish.

In view of the fact that so much is heard nowadays of the objection to hells by certain members of the public, it may interest on ringing brethren to know that several expressions of apmreciation have been made by non-lingers of diferent demominatins who heard our bells on the wireless. One chatichman, who lives in a parish where there are no belfs, made the comment that we did not ring long enough!

Pembroke Road, Pudsey
W. BARTON.

EXPLANATIONS WOULD HELP.
Sir,-Reading in your issuc of the 12 th inst. that a quarter-hour broadcast of the bells of Pudsey Parish Ohurch was to be given on the North Regional, I tuned in to that station
But it seemed to me a great opportunity lost. We were given a quarter of an hour to devote to bells, and what happened?
The bells started in rounds for abaut two minutes; then they were faded while the Vicar taked ahout the church, the only interesting thing he said being that Jasper Snowdon rang or called his last peal on these bells. Then the bells came on again, and tlay had gone of into same Major method, which came out into rounds just before the end of the time.
But we were not told what the method was. It was a pretty one but a non-ringer would have thought little of it, aud would have attributed the pauses at the haad-stroke leads to faults.
If only there had been some explanation beforeliand it might have helped to popularise the Exercise, und perbaps induced some young men to learn to ring.
W. H. R. TREWHELLA, Hon. Sec., Trulo Diocesan Guild.

THE BROADOASTS FROM LANOASHIRE.
Sir, With reference to the critieism of the president of fhe Central Council reatring the two broadeasts from Lancashire, surely he does not expect us at Worsley to take his opinion too serionsly? As to the comments of Mr. A. P. Snith, who considers the performance ' a disgrace to the Exercise,' I am afraid his memory must have somewhat failed lim, but we consider it rather fortunate that the Excrise possesses ringers whose opinion is a little more reliable than lis.

It is not very difficult to understand that the local band at Worsley do not possess the abilities of the band who rang the fine touch of Stedwan Caters at Bristol, but surely neither of the two performances that we lave broadcast from Worsley merits such an unwarrantable judgrant as the presideut and Mr. A. P. Smith would have the readera of 'The Ringing Warld ' believe.

JOSEPH H. RIDYARD.

POOR BROADCAST FROM CANTERBURY.
A correspondent from Bristol callg attention to the ringing at Camterbury Gathedral before the 'Aviation Service' on Saturday afternoon. For the most part, he says, it was terrible and a strong justification for the opinions expressed in 'The Riugiag World.' It is a great pity, lie adds, to have such a fine peal 'muldered' and put over the ether. It is a bad adwertisement for clange ringing.

Fes, theyve done 弘 again. Yet another Spliced Surprise Major peal in four methods on handbells by the Oxhey band, and the College Youths can add this one to their records. What would old Ben Anuable, or even Henry Haley, have said to such a periormance as this?
The Ancient Society also rang another in four methods on the following day. This was at St. Andrew's, Holborn, and was the first in four Spliced Suiprise methods by the society in the City of London.
Mr. Albert D. Stoae, who, for reasons of health, retired from the office of hon. secretary on Saturdey, has served the Sussex County Association in office for half its existence. He was electerl on the committee of the associntion in 1911, served as hon. secretary of the Central Division from 1912 to 1932 , and as general secretary from 1924 to 1936. This is an excellent record of service, wholeheartedly given over a space of 25 years.
He learaed to ring at St. Mary's, Portsea, and eventually reaclied St. Peter's, Brighton, in 1899, to which tower he has been attached ever since. His many friends will wish him improved health in the future. He has retired-but now he is not quite sure exactly what he will do without that which had become part of lis daily life.

Lincolnshire churchwardens have achioved distinction by tinging a peal-probably the first in history by churchwardens. It was for a memorable occasion; it celebrated the ove hundredth birthday of another Lincolnshire churchwarden-the oldest in the country.

KENT RING REHUNG

A large congregation attended the Parish Church of xs . Peter and Paul, Bonghton-under-Blean, neav Faversham, Kent, for the zededications service of the rehung peal of eight bells.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. A. Leach), assisted by Mr. E. H. Steele, B.A. (lay reader), aud an approprinte address was given hy the Bishop of Dover. During the singing of the lyym followins this, the clergy proceeded to the foot of the tower, where the dedicatory prayers were read by the Bishop and a few raunds were ruag on the hells.
After the service the visiting rivgers had an opportunity of trying out the bells, and the 'go' was much appreciated by all those present.
Messts. Meais and Stajnbank, who have been responsible for the rehanging, were represented by Mr, A. A. Hughes, and ringers were present from Canterbury, Sturyy, Ospringe, Wickhambreaus, Throwley and Faversham, 品gether with the local baud. Sir, The name of this old bellfounder, mentioned by yonr colrespondent, reminded me of the two bells at Okeley, near Buckiugliam, the inscriptions of which I copied some years ago. They are as follows :-

On Sunday afternoon, June 144 l 1 , a peal board was unveiled in St, Remigius' tower, Hethersett, Norfolk, recording a muffled peal rung to the memory of George Henry Moove, who was a member of the local company of ringers for 45 years and Master for 15 years.

Over sixty people attended the service. The ringers present included Messrb. A. L. Coleman (general secretary and treasurer of the Norwich Diocesan Guild). W. C. Duffeld (chairman of the South Norfolk Branch), N. Golden (hon. secretay of the North and Soutla Norfolk Branches and conductor of the memoral peal), and members from Bodham, Dergingham, Newmarket, Norwich, Rackheath, Saxlingham, Brattisham, Wroxham, Wymondhan and the local company

In his address, the Fector (the Rev. J. M. La F. McAnally) mentioned that three generations of Moores had held the office of Master of the local company of ringers. George Moore's heart always seemed to ke in whatever work he mas doing-in the garden, in the churches verger or in the tower as ringer.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

DECLSION FO AFMLIATE TO OENTRAL COUNCI.

resentation for Former District Secretary

The Sussex County Association decided on Saturday to become affiliated to the Cenvral Council. They were the only association of importance that had not come in under the new rules, the committee having decided to leave ation to the members at their nynurl meeting.

There was a representative attendance at the meeting, which was held at Brighton, and the weather was so hot that meny members sat tarough the meating in their shirt sleeves.
In tho afternoon there had been ringing on the two excellent peais of ten at St. Peter's and St. Nieholas" Charches, and the speginl service was held at the latter church. It was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. L. N. Phillips, M.C., who rave a practical address on 'Service.
Tea followed in st. Nicholes' Kall, where, afterwards, the meeting was held, presided over by the Master, Mr. R. R. Butcher. GULT BETWEEN OLD AND YOUNG.
In the annual report the association's jubilee was referred to as the outstanding feature of the past year. The retirement of MrT. J. Thornton Ricknan from the office of Master was received, with great regret, and the association's sppreciation of his valu*ble services during a number of years was vecorded. 'Year by year,' continued the report, ' deatir removes from our midst some of on members, and以b now have to mention, in partjcular, the passing of three with a very lons record of membership, viz., Mi'. E. C. Merritt, of St. Peter's, Briphton ; Mr. G. B. Bleach, of St. Nicholas', Brighton; and Mr'. H. Tomsettr, of Lindfield. From various causes there appears to be a wide gulf between those who are passing and those who are coming on, und we strongly appeal to all to give these younger members the fullest support and encouragement. It is to them that we must look to carry. on the work of the association and sugtain the Sunday service ringing, and we would specinily invite these younger members to make every posgible effort to attend the meetings, in any division, and carry on the work of the association, bearigg in mind that the association is one centralised whole, the divisions existing solely for more eflicient organisation,'
The report concluded by extending the best thanks of the asseciation to Mr . A. W. Groves, for 21 years' service as secretary of the Western Division, and expressed the hope that every Eupport would be given to his successor, Mr. Tr. H. Meetens.

The report and balance shech were adopted without dischssion. The Master referred to the absence through illness of Mr. G. W Stokes, the hon. treasurer, and the decretary was asked to convey to him the sympathy of the meeting and good wishes for a speedy recovery.
The Master also referred to the denths of old members mentioned in the report, and as an expression of sympathy with the relatives the members stood in silenc.
The peals secretary, Mr. F. T. Hairg, reported that 77 peals were rung during 1935, an increase of 33 over the preceding year and the highest trital for six years. The perls mere rung in 35 diferent towers, Southover aud Crawley topping the list with nine each. There were 36 eonductors, Mr. Frank Beninett having the bighest number to his cedit, viz-1 18, and Mr. Oliver Sippetts 16. Tweuty-two members rang their first peal and two called their first peal. The total number of pals rung by the association was now over 3,000 , the three thousandit lawing been a peal of Superlative rung at Rolherfield and conducted

Mr. A. Wingfield Durliam.
The Bishop of Chichester, president, was re-elected, as were also tho vice-presidents: The Bishop of Lewes, the Archdeacons of Chichester, Hastings and Lewes, Ganon J. C. H. How (Vicar of Brighton), the Rer. W. A. Armstrong, and Mr. F. B. Tonplius (Chichester) and Mr. J. Thomaton Rickman (Brighton), former Masters.

Fis resignathon was received with regret, and he proposed as his successar the assistant hon. secretary (Mr. S. E. Armstrong). This was seconded by 3 fr . K. Hart and carried umanimously.
Mr. F. T. Haivs was re-elected penls, secretary, and the auditors Messrs. W. Hatb and N. Elliott) nad the trustees (Messrs. F. D.

Tomplkins, F. R. Butcher and F. W. Stokes) were all re-elected. A vote of thanks was accorded to the oficers for their services.

CENTTAL COUNCIL AFHILIATION.
The new hon. secretnry read a letter from the bon. secretary of the Central Council, in tha form sent ont to all societies, invitiog the association to become affiliated to the Council and setting out the mew rules under which the Conncil is now constituted. Mr, Armstrong Eaid the matter had been hefore the committee, who did not feel competent to deal with it, and decided to refor it to the general meeting. Ho went on to refer in critical vein to the contents of the letter, and this brought up Mr. J. Parker, who said that the information asked for was to enable the Council, under the new rules, to knaw exactly how many members cetch association lad and how many representatives each was entitled to elect.
Mr, Fr. W. Rogers (who is hon, secrefary of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild) explained that as the Council had been reconstitated under new rules, all were asked to apply for affiliation, and a letter exactly similay to that read by the hon. secretary was sent to overy society. The information asked for was to bring the records of the Conncil up to date
Mr. Parker explained that the Sussex Association had always been entitled to four menbers.

The Hon. Secretary: But there is no meed to elect four.
Mr. Parker: No, but uader the aew rules you have got to pry for four (langhter)
The hous. secretary then pointed out that if they agreed to the Centra? Council's rules to elect members trienmiallu at least one month before the Council meeting, they would have to aiter their own rules. which said that all officers nust be elected annally, and the date of their annual meeting.
Mr. Fr. Bennett said they always had electer their Central Council reprentatives for three years
Mr. Rogers said when they had elected representatives thay served for three yoars, no matter what the association's rilles said.
Mr. J. S. Goldsmith said he thonght the criticisms of the hon. secretary were largely quibbles. What the association luad to decide was whether they wend affliate to the Central Council, under the Comacil's rules, or remain outside. There was nothing they were nsked to do which could not be done within the framework of their owr rules. The Council stood in its reladionship to tha associations exactly as the Sussex Association stood to its own affiliated towers. The association expecten fts members to abide by the rnles, and that was all the Central Cauncil asked jts affiliated members to do, mad it was a fair and proper request. The Council co-ordinated the work of ringers throughout the country and tried to direct progress into tho riglit channels. It did not interfere with the domestic affaits of the associations, but it carried weiglit in official quarters sach as no individual association conld exercise. The Sussex Association whe the only association of jmportance that had not yet alfiliated and accepted the new rules, and he urged them, for the sake of their own position, dignity nnd prestige, to come into line with the rest of the associations of the cotuntry.
Mr. F. I. Hairs proposed that the associntion should become affiliated With the Central Council, accept the conditious loyally to ahide by its inles and decisions, and elect four members.
Mr. A. W. Groves sccanded.
Mr: A. D. Stone raised thaestions on several points which were answered hy Mr. Goldsmith, and the motion, on being put, was carried withaut dissent.

It was quggested that the memhers elected sliould he chosen one from each divisin. This whs ackepted and the following wete elected:
Messrs. A. W. Groves (Westerı), F. R. Mutcher (Northern), S. E. Aumstrong (Southerm) and F. W. Stokes (Eastonn)

> NEXT YEAR'S MEETING.

Four places were proposed for the next amual meeting, viz. Chichenter, Hastings, Brighton and Horslam, and, on a vote, Chichester was chosen

Mr. A. Levelt suggested that the meeting slould be lield on cither Easter of Whitsun Bank Holidey, ha it was too much to expect members to thavel from one end of the connty to tha other on a balf-day. onh difficulties in the way of either an Easter or Whitsun meeting, and Mr. H. J. Theker said that, on account of a musical festival at the Cathedral, a meeting at Chichester on Whit Monday would wo practieally impossible.
On the motion of the Master, a vote of thanks was accorded to the Yicar of St. Nicholas" far the sorvice, to the organist, and to the incumberts of all the churches where the bells liad been placed at the disposal of the members.
Mr. Sippetts proposed that the thanks of the association to the retiring lion. secretary be recorten in the mantes for ars soryices to the association-Mr. Waltor Charman seconded, and the motion was that in recognition of their services Mr. A. D. Stone and Mr. A. W. Groves be elected life members of the nssociation

FORMER DISTRICT SECRETARY'S IONG SERVTCE.

At this point the Master made a presentation to Mr. Groves. He said they hat had an address that hay on 'Service.' That assaciation had been fortanate in laving in ils ranlis those who had and who were serving it well. There was ane who had logally worked for 21 (Continued on page 424 .

DEFINITION OF A SPLICED PEAL.

SINKING OF INDIVIDUAL FIEW& FOR A COMMON FORMULA

A long-standing eontroversial point - the definition of a spliced method-was setued at the Central Conncil meetiug lyy two of the keanest shadente of the problen joining forees and at the eleventh honr unbmittiog a joint resolution in place of two iudividual motions. Annoncing the changes in the ggenda, the President said he understood Mr. Hant desired to withdraw his anendment, which was discussed and adjaurned the previous year, and the proposers and seconders of Mations 14 and 15 (Mr. S. H, Wood and Mr. J. T. Dyke, and Mr. C. T'. Coles and Mi'. E. C. S. Turner) would like to withdraw their motions and substitute the following :-
"That compositions, which contain more than one method shall be called "Spliced," provided that the methods are so joined that the fundamental uaits of which they are constructed (ie., the "Leads" in the case of Treble-dominated methods, the "Sixes" in the case of Stedman, Duflield and similav methods, ete.) remain intact.

That reports of all Spliced Peals shall inctude a reference to the number of methods rumg and the number of changes from one methed to another during the peal."

A QUESTION OF NOMENCLATURE.

The President emplasised that it was purely a question of nomenclature. There was nolhing which blessed or blamed one methot against anothor. He wonld like an expression of opinion as to whether the Council wand allow them to substitute this motion. The Standing Committee would Ijke the Comell to agree to the changes.

This conrse was agreed to.
Proposing the resolution, Mr. S. F. Wood said, as they knew, on the original ngenda there was a tather long and technteal resolation. There was one resclution passed as an anendment last year; there was one other mmendment and a hint of one or two more coming up. Those responsible, therefore, tot together and remarleed, 'If we are not very careful this is going to becone an awful muddle, and we shall not very careful this is going to becone an awfin muddle, and we shail of being discussion and become a controversy, (laugliter). If they could get something simple which combined the main points and put them before Comeli in a simplified form, they would be saving the Council's time and he thought it would be appreciated.
As to the resolntian, pant was the amendment he proposed last year and a patt by the mover of the original resolution. There was a lefter in 'The Ringing World' in the previous week in which it was statex that alflough the mumer of changes of method might be given, that did not indicate how diflicult the peal was. Personally he thought the himber of changes of method geve sufficient information,

As to the famamental units, they would all see what they were gettingr ate. ILow much of is methok hari thoy to put on paper to specif Uhut meltod? Some people said ane must ring the whole course, and nuless they rnig the whole course they had pot rung the method. Re ritd nol agree with that. He sulmitted that what central Conmeil publication they would fand one complete lead any Central Conncil publication they wonld find one complete lead and half a lead?' The answer' was 'No,' and he hoped that they wonld ngreo that to satisif the method they must give one complete lead. They had covered blat, in the resolntion by saying the fundamental unts slould be tie 'learis' in the case of Treble-dominaled methods; and in the case of Stedman, etc.. it slould be the sires.
If they passed the rusolntion it would clear the matter up. As the President suid. it was only a matiter of nomenclature, and although under thes resolation certain portione of Kent and Oxford conld not be joined together and ealled 'splieel,' lie wnuld be the last person to Siny, "You shoulil not ring these peals.' In fact, he preferred to ring Kent and Oxford that way, but he thought when they were so rung it should he cnlled a varintion of Treble Bob.
Mr. C. T. Coles seconded the motion.

MENTAL STABILITY.

Mr. J. Finn congratinataci the people who moved that resolution for gaining "their mental slabiliby of mind.' He claracterised the resolution as ' most ridiculous.' He wanted to ash this question. He Mishlend soid ald Shrewshatry that he mentioned a peal rung ly the Midrand Connties Associrtion in six melhods, and thats was called a combined peal. He wok it that under the present resolution it would not be ealled apliced hecanso there was Kent and Oxford in it.
MI. P. J. Johnson thonght that the resolution would clearly defiae, mich move than in the past, the staths of those peals. They in Yorkshire were landed in a great dificulty by the fact of a misulderstanding. They had peaple who eombined leads of Oxford and Treble Toul and called it another mothod. The whole Exercise wonld feel that the people reennonsilsle for the resolation had displayed great sense and digraty in ryroming to this combined resolution.
Mr. Colos said the rosolition that was put up lasi year by Br. Tumer and limedf was drawn tup with the lrelp of many distinguished preople in the Exercise. It seemen to them that it was necessary to define what a spiliced peal was. When they tried to define a spliced peal there was a great deal of difference in the sort of things rung. This yenr they hid appronched ine matter from a different point of viow, realising that the resohtions were likely to be misconsturd.

MIr. Wood's amendment, at Sluwewshury seemed to meet one point-to find out how futricate the peal was, and he would like to say that the number of changes of method generally denoted the intricacies of the peal. There miglit be slight exceptions, but it was correct to say the nore changes of method the more intricate the peal became.
As to the basis of the resolution, they must confine themselves to the definition of a mothod in the Conncil's Rules and Decisions that ench lead slably reverso true to itseli.' There was mo intention in the resolution to bal anythine that had bean rung or conld be rung. As far as he was concerned he had every sympathy with people who ring Treble Bob and cat out the portions where the tenors were in the slow.
Mr. Coles referred to the peal in six methods by the Midland Counties Association, aud said if Kent and Oxford were introduced into that peal, and if the untits were broken, it would not come within this definition of a spliced peal.

Mr. A. H. Pulling asked, if it was possible to ring a peal of Spliced Major in whel the changes of method were made when the treble laid its whole pull behiud, whether that would be considered a spliced peal.

DESIRE FOR WHOLE METHOD.

Mr. J. A. Trollope replied that it was possible to change when the treble was behind, but pointed out that it such a course was adopted one did not get the whole of the work of the method. If only half the method was rung the baud conld mot say they liad rung that method. In theory they could change where they fiked, but in that. ease, if the melhod was not conspleted, they only got a new method Mr. J. S. Goldsmith asked, if a pual was rung with the whole of the changes of method made when the treble was behind, how would it be affected by the resolution? Would it be a 'spliced' peal?
Mr. G. Grover pointed autr that the merit was in the performane and not in the mame. He moved, as an amendment, that tile words 'provided ' to 'intact ' be deleted from the resolution.
Mr. E. M. Atkins, who secunded, thought there was a great dayger in passing the resolution because they were going to make it very difficult for what ingenjouts people night bring forward in the future. For a long time he had in mind the splicing of methods with the ireblo at the back. He could not see why they should not cariy on as at present, but by making it clear in the reports as to what had taken place.
Mr. Warrington: If you are going to allow this with the treble behind, you camot condemn methods of 1,700 with a single behmd Mr. Trollope: If you begim splicing in the middle of the lead, all you do is to create another method. If you splice them in any other way than when the treble leads, you break them up entirely ( ${ }^{N} \mathrm{No}$, no '). If you keep on splicing you get a circular action. In a 720, if you keep on spliciug, all you get in the end is a 720 of Original. Mr. Huat: You take Treble Bob Minor. You can ring a peal without any bobs. What lappens if you ring a peal without any bobs and it is spliced? The Worcester vatiation of Treble Bob is rung without any bobs.
Mr. Holf: Can you sapply us with a 720 Worcester Treble Bob Minor?
Mr. Hunt: The method is published.
Mr. Holt: Wlem Worcester was iavented the idea was to keep the cenors out of the hunt.
The President: I do not thisk auy good will be done by going into the finer points.
Mr. Holt: If Worcester keeps the tenors out of the Slow, how can you get a 720 of Minor?
Replying to the amendment, Mr. Coles said there was nothing new in the ringing of Fent and Oxford Treble Bob combined. Records showed liat in 1840 they called ib Hudson's New Light on Treble Bob, and it was first rung at Slieffield st. Peter's. Whatever members of tha Council thonght, these peals, as rung in those days, were variations of Treble Bob and not spliced. As to splicing with the treble bohind, the point those responsible for the resolntion desired to make was that the splicing sloutd take place at the lead-end. In doing it with the treble behind they were making an unsymmetrical method.

Mr, Wood, in mnplification of the point, said in a Iead of Cambridge Major if they left out the second's place they called in Primrose. If they rang the first half lead of Cambridge and spliced it with Primrose the work of some of the bells would not change. If the amendment was passed the resolution was cut down to the resolution which originally stood in his ramc. In view of the fact that two memhers of the Council lad each given way and sunk their own views in order to please as many people as possible, it would be a mistake to turn down laalf of it and po back to one of the original resolutions, although it liappened to be his

SWINDON, WILTS.-As a welcome to the new Vicar, the Rev. 5. THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.
EFFORT TO REOPEN CHESTERFIELD TOWER.
The President presented the report of the Towers and Belfries Committee (which was printed in "The Ringing World 'of June 5th). Mr. Lewis said that members of tho commatee had carried out inspections been deall with, in some cases by inspectiou, in some eases by correspondence, was 18 , excluding certain minor eases. Mr. Young had had one tower, Mr. Hunt three, Major Hesse had inspeeted five, and He (My. Lewis) had had nine cases to deal with. In the caso of the committee could do anything to get the tower reopened for ringing. It had heen condenraed by the architect in spite of the fact that 85,000 had receutly been spent upon it in restoration. He apologised to the members of tie M.C.A. for haviug been somewhat slow in taking the matter up, but the letter was sent to him at a time when le was making weekly journeys to Scotland, and he could not cleal with ringing matters at all. But eventually he wrote to canse they lad no details of the reasons why the architect had condemned the tower, nor did they know at, that time the name of the architect. It was, therefore, rather diflicult for them to 'bute in." In writing to the Vicar, he finished up his letter by saying that the committee recognised they liad no standing between the Church anthorities and the architect, but willingly offered their services if, thereby, the bells could once more be rung as they were in the past. He got a reply from the Viear saying he was grateful for the letter and adding that the trouble was rather accentuated by the fact duat they had ohaiked their archiect. He (the Vicar) wis hem find out what opinion the architect was acting upon, as his inpression was that most architects were not experts in the matter of bells The Vicar promised to bring the letter hefore the Clurch Conmeil. That, said Mr. Lewis, was on April 8th, but he had heard nothing since. As soon as they heard something more from the Vicar of Chesterfield they would try and get a littie further. He wanted to assure thm Midiand Counties Association that, they were trying to do their best and do it tactfully withont cansing trouble.

SILENOERS FOR NOISY BELLS.
Referring next to the request that the committee should give some imformation abont the Davis Silencers, which had been in use at Bishopsrate and Bromley Common, nnd which, he believed, were also in use at Kingsbury, Mr. Lewis said he went specially to Bromley Common to hear the effect of these silencers in operation. The church at Bromley Cammon was in a residential area and the belle were very loud outside. They were a faily powerful Simpson-tuned ring and were distinctly lond inside the tower also. It had become almost jmpossible for the ringers to practise becsuse of complaints. They had tried these silencers and were now able to practise weekly withont of an ordiuary muffle, except that the leather was not so thick and outside it was a plate of steel. The effect at Bromley Common was almost the same as if the bells were muffled. but there was a certain amonut of metalic tap against the bell. Griticism of the silencers had been raised that they would be expensive, as they did not last long. His inquiries showed that they cost about 82 for a set of 16 (for silencing eight bells), that at Bromley Common they had been in use for 12 months and were practically as good as new. Those at Bishopsgato had heen used for 44 peals and were still serviceable. He thoupht, therefore, the criticism was mot well founded. The Towers nand Belfries Committee agreed to recommend the use of such silencers as well worth trial in cases where the bells were a serious source of muisance on practice nights. They did not take the place of properly hlocking up the windows, where the windows should be blocked up to render the hells quieter at all times, but in cases where funds were not available for blocking the louvres, the silencers were very woll worth trying, withs this warning: The committee thought it desirable, before parchasing a complete set, that trials should be made with various samples of diferent thicknesses of leather and steel, becanse they felt that each tower requiresi to be treated on its own merits. They could not prescribe a general medicine for them all.

Mr. S. F. Palmer, referring to the case of Chesterfield, said he had ascertained that a reawakened interest was being taken in the bells ly prominent Chesterfeld charchpeople and townsfolk, and if the Council could follow the matter up now and contime to do so, there was great hope that the hells af Chesterficld would be heard again in the near future (hear, hear).

The renort and recommendation were adopted and the committee reappointer as follows: Mr. E. H. Lewis (convener), Major J. H. B. Hesse, Mr. E. A. Young and Mr. J. Hunt.

OLD PFAT BOARDS.
On behalf of the committec which is collecting details of peal hoards and other records relating to peais rung ap to the fear 1825, Mr. W. H. Hollier reported that the committee's appeal for iuformation had hronghi. to light interesting records Among those from the Newton, containing 25 records of ringing by the Liverpool College Youths and other societies. Mr. William willson sent two old books, dated 1776 and 1779 , recording peals rung by the Leicester Scloolars. One of the records was as follows :-

At Wakefield on Monday Wey the 12 th 1788 were rung a Peal of Tripple bob Tripples 5040 elianges celled Wakefield delight in 8 courses complete. The same set of Ringers without ehanging a man or setting a bell began another peal of Oxford Single Tripples in twelve courses consisting of 5040 changes and called Wakofields Surprise, botho these peals consisting of 10080 changes were performed inchuding the raising and setting the bells in 7 hours and I minute and were rang with exactness and nice distinction ann instance never before donne in the Kingdom. What adds to the singularity of the performance there were Two Fathers, Five Sons, Pive Brollers, Four Cousins, One Uncle, One Nephew, yet only eight perans and only two names.

Tho Sheffield and District Socieby sent records of peals rung at Sheflield Parish Church, which include the first peal of Canobridge Surprise, 6,040 changes, rung in 4 hours 18 minutes, the first in this method ever rung in the coumt.ry-
The Kent County Associatiou records included peals runce at Christ Church Cathedral (Canterbury), at the Wye and Ashford towers, and a book Findly lent by Mr. Harry Hoskins, in which ware records of 17 peals rung at Greenwich by the Kentish Youths and oue by the Eastern Scholars. The first was rung on December 1st, 1732.

Other records came from the Woalwich tower, Walthan Abbey, Rowsey Abbey, St, Mary's, Warwiok, St, Mary's, Ealing, St, Mary's, Twickenham, St. Margaret's, Westminster, All Saints', Fulham, the of Wight), Newark, Oldiam, Croston, Preston, Thazted, Eye nud Shrewsbury. Records by the Society of Bristol Youths had also been received, nud the Leeds and District Society sent the record of theo whole peals of Holt's Triples, rung at Otley, in 6 hours 22 minutes, the first in 3 hours 10 minutes, and the second in 3 hours 12 minntes, on Tuesday, 20th February, 1787, being the first set of ringers that ever completed the above in time and course in England.'
The committee tendereel their sincere thanks to all those who hati so kindly assisted them, and thanked in anticipation those who lave romised to assist.
The report- was adopted and the committee re-elected as follows:
Mr. W. H. Hollier (convener), the Rex. C. E. Wigg and Mr. W. Ayre,
Tise adoption of the report, of the Biographies Committee in :The Rincing World on June 5thin was proposed by Mr. T. S. foldsmith, who emphasised the request contained in the report that those who had receiver forms and lad not retnmed them would da so without delay, and also send with them photographs wherever possible.
Mr. W. A. Cave seconded and the report was adopted.
The committee was re-slected as follows: Mr. J. S. Coldsuitls (convener), Mrs. E. K. Fletcher and Mr. W. A. Cave.

BALLOT FOR STANDJNG COMMITTTEE.
The Council then came to the elcetion of the Standing Committec, and for this purpose ballot papers were issued, and nominations invited by the president.

Mr. E. J. Butler proposed and Mr. C. Mee seconded that the six eligible retiring members should be re-elected, with was agreen to. They were Alderman Pritchetb, Messis. W. T. Corkerill, W. A. Cave, Twelve mames A. Paddon Smitla and E. Denison Tavlor.
Twelve mames were proposed for the remaining six piaces, and whell the result of the hallot was later announced, the following were declared elected: Archdeacon Parry, Mr. Rupert Richardson, Major J.
H. B. Hesse, Messrs. J. T. Dyke. S. H. Wood nud A. Wralker. The E. Guise, F, Knight and G. Chester.

The President expressed the thanks of the Council to the committees who had served them for the last three years for the work they lad done, which, he said, was prefty considerable. A gyeat deal of the work of the Council was done by committees in between the mectings. The Council did not hear much about it, but it represented many hours of labour in most cases.

MUFFLED BELLS-INVESTIGATION TO BE MADF.
Mr. J. S. Goldsmith proposed the following motion: 'That, wilth a view to providing future guidance, the officers of this Council be requested to consider the question of the correcit method of muffling and, after consulting at discretion those who may he able to give information, draw up a reconmendation on the subject, which, if possible. shall be submitted to the Clurch authorities Gor approval and laid before the Council at the nest merting. Fe said be bronerlit, and laid before the Council at the nest mecting. Fe said he bronght, this motion forwara becanse of the uncertaints that seemed to prevail, on the death of King George, as to the proper way in whicls bella should be nutfled for the death of a soveraign and how and when they should be rung. As Editor of 'The Ringing World,' he received inquiries by post, telegraph and teleplone asking for anthentic information on the subject, but he was unable to give it. Corinformation on the subject, but he, was unable to give it, Correspondence fil The Ringing Worle afterwards sinowed that there was a desire for guidance, and he ilhought the officials of the Coumen were the best people to collect the information. If, then, they could issue it with anthority of the Church behind it, those in doubt in future would have something delinite to act upon. He empliasisnd there was no desire to do nuything to interfere with ancient local customs, which in many cases whe interesting survivals and wouth probably be a leep to the Conncil officials in drawing up thein recommendations.

The hon. secretary seconded the motion

 HISTORICAL REVIEW.Mr, J. A. Trollope said with one exception, what was correct in the services of the Churoh for the King was correct for anybody else. The King was entilited to be married or buried in exactly the same way as a rommoner. The aly exception was his coronation service Olearly, therefore, what was correct for an ordinary person was correet for the Kistg; the only difference was in the elaboratiou; the essentials were exactly the same. The muffing of belis was invented by ringers for ringers. The carliest reference to muning dicl not go back further than the eighteenth century, and that was to full muffling. The firt reforence to half-muffling was in 1785, and the first muffled peal was rugg abaut 1816. In ecclesiastical matters it took he dial not know how mang centiries to make a "custom.' r'lee cortect way to muffle bells was to do it in the way in which it sounded best to people outside.
Continuing, Mr. Trollope said if the question of the whole of the observance of the 'passing bell' could be investigated it would be of interest. There was a great deal of misunderskanding as to the use of bolls at deaths and funerals, and most of the old eustoms were rapialy dying out. Peopla talked of "the passing bell,' but "the passing bell' lad not been rams in England for a matter of over two hundred years. 'The passing bell' was rung, of course, before the person died. The ordinary 'death bell,' which was now practically extinct, was rung immediately the person died; a bell rung at a funeral was a different thing altogether. How far that went back he was not quite certaiu. When the King died, the very first thing the was done was to send a message to the Lord Mayor of London requesling him to order the big bell of St. Paul's to be tollecl. They would observe, said Mr. Trollope, that it was sent not to the ecclesiastical anthorities, but to the Lord Mayor, and he was requested to order it. That was not done for religions purpases at all, and it was not done out of respect for the dead King. It was simply done so that the citizens of London should have the earliest apportunity of knowing that the King was dead, because, in the case of disputed succession, it was to their interests to know immerliately. In the samo way tire 'death bell' that used to bo tolled was an mnouncement. If they wend through some 17th and 18th centrity diaries they wonld find that peopla in Oxford used to go about listening to thi bolle that were tolled, just as the ordinary man of today twrined to the first page of "The Times, in tho morming to see who was dead.
Mr. W. F. Hollier spoice of the impressiveness of the bells of Westmunster Abbey lung hali-mufled on the ocasion of the late Eing's funeral.

Tho Rev. F. Tal. Trlwarts salid he was glad to hear it stated that there was no intertion of suggesting interference with lacal eustoms. Thero were loeal customs in considerable variety, and it was most to he desired that where thesn local customs held sway there should be 130 attempts to introduce rigid nniformily. He thought, however, the resolution would be of great use in enablint guidance to be provided in towers where there was no regular proctive, and where advice was required. In investigating this question he thought the oftieials might collect raluable information as to the mest impressive way of using bells.

The Rev. T. Dralse expressed the wiew that the report of the offeials shonk not be submitted to the Chmel authoritios until it had been considered by the Council. If the Church authorftics approved of it first, the Council could luardly discuss it afterwards. They oould agree to it or mot agree to it, but they could not wery well, out of respect to the Church authorities, throw it out afterwards. He thonght the proper thing would be first of all to discuss it at the next meeting, and then, if the Gouncil agreed with it, to subnit it to the Church authorities afterwards.
An amendment on licse lines was proposed hy Mr. E. P. Duffeld, seconded by the Rev. H. Drake mud carried, and the mootion as amonded wns then adopled.
Tho President thanked Mr. Twollope for his historical survey, and said he had looked np the question of muffled ringing in the Oxford Dittionary to see if he could get any light upon it. The only refereuce los could find was in connection wilh the death of Beau Nash at Bath, of which Coldsmith-Oliver not Jack (langhter)-wrote of the death of Nash in 1762 that he was 'buried like a King 'and that the bells 'rats a muffled peal of Bob Majors.

\section*{SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD}  ENJOYABLE MEETING AT STOURTON

North Dorset Branch gatheyings at Stourton are always a big attrac tion, and on June 13th, in spite of continuous rain, about 60 turned up for the branch quarterly meeting. Twenty-seven parishes, in five counties, were represented. Some eathusiasts from Bristol alk Poale must have cycled about 80 miles ere they reached home again. The Guild office was conducted in St. Peter's Church by the Rector (tile Rev. E. C. Wigg), who gave an inspiring address, cxhorting the members, in the words of St. Paul to Timothy, to "stir up the gift that is in thee.
The ladies of the Churech Council prepared and served a sumptuous tan in the Memorial Hall, tastefully decorated for the occasion. The Rev. Tr. LI. Edwards presided at thie ensuing shorl busiuess meeting. Apologies were received from the Rev. R. H. Gundry (Master), the Rev. I. G. Cameron and Mr. W. G. West, and Mr. F. J. Rowe daptain of the local ringers) sent greetings from Shaftesbury Hospita], where he is recoveridg from a fractured leg. The members were yery pleased to hear that he is making good progress and hoping shorty to bo home again.
Qhe new member was elected, Mr. F. Fellham, of Bourton.

G Addison, Regtor of Zeals), were carried with acelamation, especially by a visitor from Stoke Wake, who enjoyed a free tea!
The Rector, in reply, said it was always a graat pleasure to receive a visit from the Guild, and he kisdly undertaok to conduce a party round the beautiful Stonrhead gardens.-Mrs. King also replied on behalf of the ladies.

The bells of Mere, Zeals and Silton were also arailable, and good practice was obtained in various methods.

AN EXCLUDED PEAL

In reference to a paragrapl which appeared in our last issue, Mr Percy Amos, of Northampion, writes in the course of a lengthy lettor "I notice in Your" issue for Jume 18th that the hou. searetary of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild galls the attention of the Peal Analysis Committee to the fact that the peal of Doubles, rung at whiston Northants, on April 1Ith, 1936, for the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, is not included in their records, one of the ringers not being a member, As I happen to be the ringer concermed, I slabll be obliged if you will permit me space to say that the peal is quite in order in being thus published. I was proposed and seconded a menber previous to starting by member frieuds whose wishes have the right to be respected.
'In the Peterborongh Diocesan Guild, as in all other associations, a rule exists that such membership shall be legitimate, subject to ratification at some subsequent meeting of the Guikl; and no mule exists to say that ar yinger whio has bcen a member and ceased for any one reason shall not be re-elected. The committee, taking jt upon themselves to ignore the wighes of these members, not only show mean ness, but prove that they were afraid of a show of hands in refugimg the right of ratification to be put,

Mr. Groves, who receivod the gift amid applause, thanked the mem bers for their kinduess and appreciation. He was pleased to he able to say that in the whole time he held office he had been able to attend every meeting (applause). He thanked the mempers for thein supporto and hoped they would extend it to his successor: equally as
Mr. Manley suggested that the association slowla adopt a Corm of service for use at meetings. He pointed out the advautages of this practice in other associations and guiles, and said he was aure the clergy would appreciate it. He caused some amusement by reforring to a recent cecession when the ringers, on going iuto service, were given hymu books, and the clergyman immediately gave out a psalm. He added that it was move dificult to remember the words of n psalm than for a conductor to remember the calling of a heal
My. Charman seconded, and, after some discussion, the proposal was agreed to.
Tho Master was thanked for presiding and also for the fact that he had been present at a mumber of divisional meetings during the yent Tt was annonuced that a collection for the Benevolent Fund, taken at. the tea tables, amounted to 16 s . Bd

NAINTAINING A RINGERS' JOURNAL.

At long last there appears to be a growing recognition of the fact that if ringers require a cheaper paper, it is they who must provide the means, through a larger circulation. There are over twenty thousand ringers, nearly all of them change-ringers, in the fifty societies affiliated to the Central Council. Not one in five is a subscriber to the one paper that is run solely in the interests of their art. A considerably larger proportion read the paper, but they do not all buy it. The Central Council discussed the subject at their meetigg in London and members and affiliated societies are to be asked for suggestions.

As far as 'The Ringing World ' itself is concerned, the only complaint voiced against it was on the question of price. Everyone knows that quantity regulates price and the larger the quantity produced the cheaper the article can be sold. If the ringers of this country will increase their support of 'The Ringing World ' sufficiently they can bave a cheaper paper. To increase the circulation to a sufficient extent to bring the price down to twopence ought not to be beyond the powers of the Exercise. The Central Council, through the hon. secretary, will be glad to receive suggestions, and those who now 'pay and grumble' together with those who grumble but don't pay, have the opportunity of putting forward any practicable proposals that they may have.

The thing that we want to emphasise most in this campaign now launched is its bearing on the future of ringing. It is oniy natural that ringers should look upon the subject from their personal viewpoint, but we would like them to see it from a wider angle. The importance of subscribing to "The Ringing World 'is not only concerned with reducing the price which they have to pay, but with the maintenance of the art itself. We do not suggest that ringing would come to an end without a ringing paper-of course it would not do so. But there would be a gradually increasing lack of interest which would react upon the general organisation and progress of the art, and in the long run seriously affect the fortunes of the assaciations. For the co-ordination of the Exercise, therefore, and for the maintenance of that faterest by which alone the art can be promoted in the best way, a ringing journal is a vital necessity. It will be interesting to watch the results which this new effort produces. There were suggestions made at the Central Council meeting, as seported on another page; other people may, perhaps, be able to supplement them. They will all be carefully considered and anything practicable that will lead, first of all to securing a journal for the Exercise for the future and secondly make it an economical proposition to reduce the price, will, we can assure our readers, be acted upon.

FOR BEGINNERS.

TO GET AWAY FROM GHANGES ' BY HEART
A new reader, who has nob long since taken up ringing, but who rather ubfartunately finds himself among a band who, from his account, have made no progress for years, but who think they are, "change ringers' because they are proficient in singing the 'old teu," asks us how he can get these ringers to move out of their rut. He has been to one or two ringing meetings, has seem how different is the real thing to that practised in his owa towel', bat hesitates to say mucl to his colleagues in easo he upsets them. That, in effect at ally rate, is what he writes to us.
We are aftaid he has got a dificult and not very thankful task before him, aud, as he is the junior, he will have to be very tactful about it if he wants to succeed. Apparently our correspondent does not know much about challge ringing himself, so he can scarcely do any teaching.
We think ha should begin by quietly thying to get the others interested in the association in his district, at any rate to a sufficent degree to get them to give fus invitation to enough members to come to the tower, so that a simple change ringing demonstration could be given, and the local pingers shown something of what ten be done on scientific principles. The important thing is to try and stir their interest and to show them that there really is something in our art worth practising. Without interest, of course, the whole thing is hopeless, but tactful conversation, the introduction into the belfry, almost casually at first, perlaps, of one of the simpler text books on ringing, the bringing along of a change ringing friend one practime night, references to some of the interesting things happening elsewhere in the country, as revealed week by week in "The Ringing Warld "all these little things should have a cumulative weight and eventually lead to a brealdown of the barriers.
Then, if they can ring the 'old ten' fairly successfully-and by the old ten ' we presume they mean what is in reality Original Doubles, that is all the five bells pursuing a plain luativg course-why not endeavour to get them to introduce a little variation.
Probnbly at present they ring the same bell every time and know the thing by brart. Persuade them first of all, say two at a time, to chanse to a different bell. Txplain to them that this is quite simple. They ring the thing they had memorised, exeept that they begin in i. different place. The 5th man, for instance, took the bells in this order : 3, $1,2,4$ (lead, lead), $3,1,2,4$. If he rings the 4 th instead, he will have 1, 2 (lead, lead), $5,3,1,2,5,3$. Ee would soon get used to seeing the circle of ropes fromi a different spot and to looking out for the hell he had previously been ringing instead of the ome he is now handling.
Let the ringers thoronfhly master this plain bunting from every bell. It may need a little patience, but it is the first step. One thing more they should attempt to do at this stage, and that is to cound the places as they pass through them. Thus: After leaving the lead, connt the consenuive hlows: 2nd's, 3 rd's, 4th's, 5 th's, $5 t h ' s$, 4th's, 3rd's, 2ud's, lead, lead.
When this has been accomplished, try to get them a step further. It is umorthodoy, but it might help to break the ice. When the gnan who is ringiner the treble comes to lead the first blow, let lim say 'Jeot,. At this signal the man who is striking over him will strike over him agrain and lead: he will then hunt through the other bells, as he would liave done if this 2nd's place, as it is called, hatd not been made, except that he begins at a different place in the cycle.

When the treble-man calls out, the man who has passed three bells going up, when, in fact, he is in 4 th's, steps lagels a place before going forward ngain (this is called a 'dodge'), while, to fit in with this, the one who had jist previously struck over the treble belind siteps back into 4th's after striking in 3rvi's, before going on again. The bell that is actually striking behind when the treble leads has two whole puils there instead of one. When the troble leads for the fourth time the bells will come round.

Soon the ringers witl notice that the ' work, follows in a cycle and that after making 2nd's, the interruptions in the plain lunting ocenr in regular succession: The dodge on the way down; the two whole palls behind; the dodge on the way up. When this becomes clear, the treblemar should no longer call out when he is leading, and the other ringers should make their dodges or their extra whole pull behind from their knowledge of the cycle of work and the counting of their places.

GARDEN FETE FOR BELLS FUND

In aid of the fund for the restoration of the tower and hells of St. Anclrew's Church, North Weald, Essex, a garden fete is to be held, by kind permission of the Rev. and Mrs. Goscer, at the Vicarage next Weduesday: The fete will be opened by Lady Llewellyn Smith th 3.30 and ringers are inviter to 'come along and help.' A set of twelve handbells will be available, and handbell ringers for the evening would be specially welcomed and admitted free. Admission to the fete is $4 d$.
The church bells are at present at the Whitechapel Bell Foundry. They are to be taned, lave all new fittings and he hung in a reconstrueted frame, which, at the suggestion of Mr. E. H. Lewis, will be erected on a reinforced concrete foundation. The cost will be 9450 ; already feld has been raised since the appeal last December.

DEATH OF MR. EDWIN HIMS.

A GREAT RINGER,

We regret very much to record the death of Mr. Edwin Hims, of Biecster, Oxon, a ringer of great talent, who has shared in more than one notable performance.
He died as the result of an accident while ab work, but the fuformation that has reached us is rather scanty. He was crushed, we belicve by a falling erane, although he slyusted a waraing to his fellows to jump clear.
Formerly Mr. Hims lived in Gxford and was an exeellent heapy bell ringer and was usually to be found at the 'back end ' in peals. He rang the 7th to the 17,024 Doulble Norwich Major at Kidlington in 1899 , when J. W. Washbrook, who composed the peal, called it from the tenor. It occupied 11 hours 12 minutes, mand although afterwards the truth of the peal was disputed, it still sfands as one of the greatest ringing performances on record, at any rate as a physical
Mr. Hims was also one of the band whe mang in the then record length of London Surprise Major, 11,328, at Draytom, Berts, in 1896, a record which stood until 1903.
Mr. Hims was one of the few men who conld ring lwo church bells to changes, and at Launton, Oxon, in 1926, he rang the 2nd and 3rd to a peal of Bob Minor, which ho called. Anether accomplishment was that lie was able to ring four haudbells in changes, and was the only man who had rung a peal thus. In 1926 hie rang 1-2-3-4 to 5,040 Sterman Doubles, with Mr. T. Neale ringing 5-6. On ane oceasion he attempted a peal of Stedman Triples on handbells, 'four-in-hand,' wibl the late Mr. J. W. Washbrook, and it was only the slipping of one of his bells that cansed a breakdown
In the realm of composition Mr. Fins had considerable knowledge, which he displayed with distinction by being the first to obtain the longest length of Cambridge Surprise Majar, a 12,896 ring at Stoney Stanton, Leicestershire, 111923 . We remember on one occasion in the early days of 'The Ringing word ' a well-known eomposer published a composition of Cambricige Major with the tenors parted. Within a day or so Mr. Hims wrote pointing out the repetition of just two clanges in the peal.

Edwin Hins was of a quiet, retirive disposition, but he was an accomplished riuger, and his death will be mourned by many old friends.

THE 'MOVING ' PEAL  BOB MINOR IN A MOTOR-COACE.

To the peals that have been rung on board slap, ic the train, in bed and other unusual places has now been added a peal on the road in a motor-coach This was a 'moving, peal in more senses than one. The idea orimated as a joke, and later taken seriously. The Apsley and Hempstead ringers were having their day out and picked up Mr. G. E. Debenham at St. Albans at 6.32 a.m. To avoid heing disturbed if the coach had to stop at all, the "pealers" moved to the worst possible place-1-2 and 5-6 on the badk geat (one each side of the gangway), while the conductor sat on the odge of the next geat -in reverse order, with his left leg propped arainst the opposite went along merrily until such places as Knebworth Corner, Tempsord Bridge, Sandy, etc. On these pecasione such remarls as these, "Hold tiglat! Double Comer! Bob!' would be heard-the couductor fortunately knowing the road (although facing rearwards).
So we proceeded, the edge of the geat geting a firmer Iold as tine went on. On one occasion Les rose to ease his position, but he chose the wrong moment-as he was materially assisted by the bis travelling over a 'culvert' bump. However, with the exception of two or thees small trips, quickly put right, the end was reached ( 8.16 a.m.) just before coming to Stilton. Loud applanse rewarded the 'heroes or '!!! ${ }^{\text {? }}$ 'and welcome refreshmont was epeedily fortheoming.
Thas the beginning of a glorieus day's onting. One person wes afterwards heard to say that lie did not know which wns the worgea peal in bed' or 'one on the back seat of a travelling conch."

Mr. S. F. Talmer (a ropresentalive on the Cenkral Council) spoke of the need for more subseribers to 'The Ringing World,' mentioniug whati ford transpiret an Lhis matter at the Gentral Council nuecting in Londan. The sfresked the fact that the Lxercise might find itself in danger of losing the paper through the apatly of ringers generally owing to lack of support. Fle hoped that all present would do their itmost lowards gelfing merobers in their own cowers to take it, and the gecretaries of tho warions associations do all they conld to get ưditional subscribers.
Mr. Pouter, of Barngley, in supporting this, suggested that the Central Coumal should take it over ant levy finaneial support from the associations and socicties which are afiliatied to the Courcil.

A digcussion Look ylace on this proposal, end Mr. Palmer pointed ont that any suggestion that any member had to nake would be forwarded to the secretary of the Central Council and receive every consideration.

A SPLICING CRITIC CRITICISED

COMMENTS AT A MIDDLESEX MEETING

An interesting meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex Connty Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at Stanmore on Saturday week, nnd, despite attractions elsewhere, some 35 members attended, After the usual ringing a short service was held at 5 p.m. This was followed by tea, at which the Rector (the Rev. W. A. Hewebti) presied. Sulbsequently the usual business meeting took place, with the district vice-presiclent (Mr. G. W. Fletcher') in the chair
Six new members were elected; Barnet was chosen for the next meeting, if possible, on July 18th or 25 th ; and an annotincement goade that a joint meeting with the Fertford Association would be hold at St. Albans on August 29th.
A vate of congratulation to the Oxley and Walford handivel! band, wha had recently zung peals of Spliced Surprise Major in four metiods, double-landed, was moved by Mr. C. T. Coles, who described these peals an the greatest handbell performances ever accomplished.

Mr. G. R. Pye, one of the two surviving meubers of the hand that rang the fret peals of Lonclou aitd the only peals of Bristol un handbells sone 30 years ago, seconded, and the motiant was carried with applause.
The hon. secretary reported on the recent meeting of the Central Council, which he described as a most succesfful and interestimg one. After going through the Council agenda and reporting on the most important stems discussed, hic. Cales said it was noticeable that many moro members of the Conncil bhan usual spoike at the meeting, and there appeared to be a greater desire to sift matters, with a great deal less prejudice than usual. This was all for the good of the Oonncil. On the question of the resolution relating to "The Ringing World," Mr. Coles seid he thonglat the only safoguard for the future was an increased circulation, and he urged members to do their best to further this.
Comment was made ly Mr. Coles on recent correspondente is * The Ringing World' in connection with splicing, and le amused the company by stating that the last leter published, which lie had not taken the tronble to reply to, conEsined some extraordinary fallacies. $A$ [ter stating that a certain peal of Spliced Surprise Major contamed 1,000 changes in one method, and only 120 in another, the writer added that Miner ringers did not do buis. 'Well,' snid the speaker, 'in two of the recent peals of Minor wing in a wery lmage mumbel of methods there was $x_{0} 720$ consisting of 13 methods, containing 12 lents, or 288 changes, in one method, and one lead only, or 24 clanges, of each of seven other methods. So the Minor ringers do do that! Not that it mattered,' contiuued Mr. Coles, 'but it was monsense to criticiso such clasees of peals when it was obvious that the greater the unmber of methods rung, the fewer the changes available for each mathod, whilst the truth of the peal aways had to be considered.'

Another fallacy of the writer of the letter was the idcus he had that only ringers of Major need only learm part of a method, and lie had quoterl the case of a ringel who had learned two leads of Bristol Surprise only before ringing a peal in four methods. 'Some few years ago,' said MT. Coles, ' J went to a meeting at a six-bell tower, and there met my good friend Mr. George L. Jayoe. George asked me to join in a toucl of Splined Lundon and Wells Minor, lut when I pointed out that I did not know the work of Wells, he said, "That will be atl Hght, catch loold of the second and ring London." Aud I rang London, whilst the others rang London and Wells! So it is not only Major ringers who do dnese things, and the fact still remains that this class of ringing is the highest yet achieved, and recent peals of Majot fud Minor laye deaclied the highest class.
Mr. Coles ended his report by saping that the amangements for fio Council meeting were excellent: a great deal of business lad heen got through in record time, thanles to the way evergthisg had been prepared by the hon. secretary, and to the tactful why in which tho president cantralled the meeting.-Flie report was adopted nmid applause
Mr. G. W. Fletcher urged members to sumport: The Ringing World and to send in their suggesticns for its improvement. If ringers wonld only slate what they wanted it wauld be considered and, if practicalle, adopted. Mr. Fleteher alsa gave particulars of ingurance of ringers, which may now he had at a very low premium.

The usual vates of thanks to the Rector, the towerkecper (Mr. © Fughes), ete., conchaded the meeting. Whilst ringing was enjoyed(!) grounds, and it would appenr that the victim of this arrangement was the Distriet Master, Me. Tom Look, whe hed to stay in the belfy all tlae time.

It was hoped that such meetings would be arranged for the coming jear, also that they would be better supported than those under yeviem.

The bridal pair left the church through the belfiry under the erossed ropes, held by their fellow-ringers, who immediately after set the bells going to Stedman and Grandsire.
A reception was held at Messrs. Darracotts, and a uumber of ringers were preseat. Their gift to the lappy pair was a rimless airror. There was a large number of other presents.
When Mr. and Mrs. Whit[ard le[t for their honeymoon at Litblelampton, they departed to the sound of handbelis violently jungled on the eailway piatform.

BELERY GOSSIP

The ring of five bells at Rushden, Herts, is to be relang in enew frame by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston.
Seven Lincolnghire ringets have been practising Spliced Surprise Minor together. Six of them rang a peal in 32 methods. The performance has now been repeated so that the 'odd' man and the trebleman in the first peal could ring the 32 methods on an "inside' bell. That is a wery brotherly action.

Mr. George Williams reached his 1,400 th peal last weel when he conducted a peal of Bob Major at East Tytherleigh, Hants. The Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild is 78 , but that he carries lis years well is not only obvious from his appearance, but from his powers of performance. Part of it, we think, must be due to ins consistently cheery outlook an life.
To take part in a peal at Marhan, Norfolk, the condactor, Mr. Nolan Golden, cycled 38 miles each way!
Mr. A. D. Stone, who has jugt relinguished the office of hon. gecretary of the Sussex Association, has been advised to refrain from ringirg at the moment, but he hopes to resume Sunday gervice ringing activities after a little while.
The death took place at Dunstable on June 18th at the early age of 36 years of Mr. George W. Harris, a member of the Priory Church band and formerly of Deptford.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.
VISIT TO ANOIFNT ROSTHERNE.
On Saturday lagt, a meeting of Stockport and Bowdon Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at the ancieut church of Rostherne amid the glories of the Cheshire countryside. The bells were made full use of till service in cliurch at 4.30 p.m., condncted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. Hughes, who in the course of a short talk drew attention to the antiquity of the bells of Rostherne. He also remarked upon the difference there would be if there were no cburches in this cauntry. He said it was the church buildings which were witnesses to the sight, and the bells were the witnesses to the hearing of the people, and he felt sure that no one could feel indifferent to God when confronted by an ancient clucch or hearing a peal of bells.
After the service some time was spent in inspecting the church and an old Bible dating back to the 16th century and printed in the old Faglish style of lettering.
Tea Was served in the Lgerton Hall, and 30 members and friends enjojed an excellent repast.
The busines mecting followed inder the chairmanship of the Vicar, who woleumed the Guild to Rogtherme.
It was decided to send a letter to the general secretary of the Guild regretting his resignation and expressing appreciation of his servies to the Guild. The mambers also passed a vote of condolence With the relatives of the late Mr. J. M. Simon, an honorary member of the Guild for many years.
A short account of the committee meeting was given, and it war decided to join with Macelesfield branch at an meeting in September.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar for his services and ready assistance, to the organist, to the ladies who had maintained Rostherne's high reputation in the provision of tea, and to the local ringers for having everything ready.
The bells were then made full use of till late in the evening, the methads ragg including Cambridge Surprise Minor, CInawood, Neasden, St. Albans, Wragby and Braintree Delight, Capel, Samdal, London Scholars' Pleasure, Kingston and Oxford Treble Bob, Kent Tucble Bob, Bob Minay and Doubles.

BELL BROADCASTS.

CENTRAL COUNCIL PRESIDENTS COMMENTS

To the Editor.

Sir, Will you permit me to make one or two comments on the correspondence on broadeasts?
The Central Council at their meeting were disoussing two quite separate forms of broadeasting, which were not always kept distiact by the sperkers.
When the B.B.C. broadcast a service from a church, which they have selected, they naturally broadcast the singing, the ringing, the praying and the preaching to which the congregation is accustomed and with which, presumably, it is satisfied. I see no reason, however, why wireless listeners sloould not oxpress their opinions of any part of the service. If the ringing is not up to accepted standards, there is a good chance for the jocel assomation to do some missionary work.
On the other hand, when the B.B.C. broadcast belle as a special item, as in the 'Ringing Isle ' series, it is only fair to the Exercise as a whole that the ringing should be as perfect as possible. To ensure that result the best possible band should be picked, from local ringerg if possible, and, even more importent, the band should not attempt to do more than they can do well.
In my remarks on Yorkshire and Lancoshire ringing I referred to only one of the latiter cases in each of the two counties. From the other towers I was referring to service ringing.

I hope that. Worsley wili take my opinion seriously. It has been confirmed by every ringer to whom I have spoken abont it, and no abjection to my remarke was raised at the Council meeting. May I commend to Mr. Ridyard the excellent restraint of the recent service broadcast from st. Mary's, Nottingham? The rounds on six, eight and ten bells were a joy to listen to. Has Mr. Ridyard considered why, fron St. Mary Redcliffe, a twelve-bell tower, Caters were broadcast Iast August? 'The very mixed band approached their task with much trepidation, and took the trouble to ring a quarter-peal for practice carlier in the evening. It would have been quite easy to have got two more ringers and to have murdered Cinques.

I should like to add my appreciation of the ringing from Pudsey. Bxcept for a slight mervousness at the staft and the two trips already mentioned, the ringing was first class.

Finally, may I plead that this conrespondence should not lead to personalities. At the Council meeting I fried to express, without fear or favour, what I believe to be the general opinion of the Exercise on some recent broadcasts.

EDWIN H. LEWIS.
Mobreocks, Brasted, Sevemoaks.

BROADCASTS FROM LANCASHIRE.

Sir, - I was very interosted to see Mr. Ridyard's letter in four last issue, and if I may be permitted to paraphrase Holy Writ, I would say with the Psalmist (Psalm 37, verse 25, with variations), 'I have been young, and am now of a certain age, and yet saw I never alipone quite so nnxious to demonstrate that the cap fits.'

I think I 2 mr right in saying that. Worsley was not specifically mentioned at tho Central Council meeting, but now he has raised the question, may I ask Mr. Ridyard whether he seriously maintains that the ringing brondcast from there was a credit to the tower, or the county, or the Jxercise?

We all know that there are many goon ringers in Lancashirc, men capable of accurate striking, and it seems a pity that, when a broadcast has been arranged, apparently no one is sufficiently interested to cast has been arranged, apparenty no one is sump fingt-class band for the occasion.
The Pudsey men deserve the congratnlations of the whole Exercise on the truly excellent ringing they put over recently. It was a pleasure to listen to and I hope we may have some more.
A. PADDON SMTTH.

Handsworth Wood, Birmingham.

ITEAE WFIL ALONE

Deat Sir, May I express the opinion (held, I feel sure, by many otherg) That the Central Conmeil would further the interests of the Exercise best as regards broadcasting by feaving well alove. All of us like to hear good ringing, but it would be better not to overstress its importance rather Chan risk the breakirg up of bands and doing an injustice to ringers who may be good churchmen and keen in the belfir, although perhaps not quite so proficient as their brethren; and ringers are not alwars pientiful
I fhink the B.B.C. prefer a local atmosphere in their broadeasts, and the proposals of members of the Council tend towards qurcality. Does not alf broadcasting contain items of music good, bad and indifferent? And do those who make these proposals really think that intelligent iisteuers will be 'gulled' into the belief that the ringing in our towers is always of such a high standard?
Certain remarks at the Council meeting will not promote co-operation between the elergy and ringerg (a cnuse we are supposed to havo had at heart for many years). A clergyman may be, and probably is, quite aware without being told of ithe imperfections of his ringers and other churchworkers, but he is bound to act charitably towards them all, and not simplaut them by outsiders.

FIRST MASONIC PEAL IN THE CITY.

PEAL BOARD UNVEILED AT ST. OLAVE'S.
On Sunday, June 21st, a pleasant little eeremony was performed ju the belfry of St. Dlave'g, Hart Street, City, the occasion being the unveiling and dedication of a bourd erected in the tower recording the first peal ever rung in the City of London by a band of Firecmasons, wiz., a peal of Stedman Friples on Oetober 28th, 1935.
At 9.30 a.m. the completo band assembled in the tower and raug upwards of a thousand cinanges in the same method, sfter which Bro. the Rev. St. Barbe Sladen, Rector of St. Margaret Pattens Churcl, City (who was deputising for the Rector of St. Olave's whilst on holiday), in spite of his 80 years, ascended the belfry stairs, and, after a few well-chosen words and prayers, unveiled man dedicated the board the glory of God.
The Rev. St. Barbe Sladea was thanked for his services by the conductor of the peal, who mentioned that a more appropriate tower could hardly have been closen for this peal, standing as ii did almost in the heart of the City of London and the hub of the litiverse. Before his departure from the tower for 11 a.m. matins, a bob course of Stedman Triples was rung with the band standing in the same order as in the peal, wiz: Bros. Arthur D. Barker 1, Grnest Brett 2, Arthur G. Mason 3 , Staford $H$. Green 4, George W. Steere 5 , Willian Bottrill 6, James Bennett (conductar) 7, Henry T. Willsou 8.
The work of painting and writing the board, which las a Back background, gold Iettering and a Masonic badge, has been most sntisfactorily carried out by Mr. A. W. Coles, Master of the Middlesex County Association.
A press photugrapher from "The Masonic Record" was pregent, nnd took a flashlight photograph of the board and band.

MASONIC PEAL TABLTP AI FDGBASION

On Fuiday, June 26th, an interesting ceremony took piace in the belfy of Edgbaston IParish Church, Bivningham, the occasion being the unveiling of a tablet recurding a peal of Stedman Triples tung lyy members of the Masonic craft in honoun of the goth birtluday of Warshipful Brother J. S. Pritchett. In requesting the Vicar, Canon Stuart Blofeld, to accept and dedicnite the gifit, Brother I'. F'. Reeves stated that it was erected in recognifion of Worshipfill Brother Pribchett's great services to Masonry and bellringing, he beling Depuly Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshite and Master of St. Martan's Guild of Church Bellringers for the Diocese of Birmingham.
Mr. Councillor A. Paddon Smith, a vice-president of St. Maytin's Guild, unveiled the tablet in the mavoidable absence of Worshipiul Brather Pritchett.
In accepting the gift, the Fiear said he appreciated tha honoun of having Mu'. Pritchett's mame perpetuated in lis belfry, for he was a man he greatly admired for las public services. In addition to his activities in his profession as a barkistar: he was also all alderman of the city and bailif of King Edward's Higla School, Biconingham. The tablet was-specially desigued by Warshipful Brother d. W. Pemberton and is carried out on strict Masonic principles.

THE BROADCAST PROM ST. HELENS.
Sir,-With reference to Mr. G. R. Nowton's remarks at, the Centra Coumet meeting regarding broadcasts, a report of whinch mppeared in 'The Ringing World ' on June 13th, there is no doubt the tower he offered to bring a band of ringers to carcy out the brodeast at St. Heleus. This was not exactly the case. Mr. Newton was asked in case the local lyand did not wish to broadcast themselves, wauld he bring a hand. Mr. Newton raised certain gutories about the diffigulty in collecting ringers on Sunday, as the majority preferred to ring in their own towers, which is quite natural. This was faken into consideration aud we decided to rel on our own ringers. Mr. Newton advised us to ring rounds and call changes and not try any fancy tomches. We took the advice of this experienced ringer and ranir rounds and call changes, and from the number of letters of congratulation we received, not only from experienced ringers, but from tho puhlic, our broadcast was a success and thoroughly enjoyed. It is rather strange that Mr. G. R. Newton in his speech should state, "Rounds and call changes should not be encouraged.' We, in St. Helens, would welcome ringerg of Mr. Newton's crlibre on practice niglits, when perhaps the next time we are on the air our bronteast would be appreciated by the president, and other members of the Central Gonncil.

CENTRAL COUNCIL AND 'THE RINGING WORLD.'

NELD FOR GRFMTER SUPPORT

The question of promoting the circulation of "The Ringing World among ringers was discussed at the mueting of the Central Council It was brought up on a motion placed on the ageuda in the name of Mr. F. J. Dawe in the following terms: "To call attention to the present very inarlequate support given to " The Ringing World," and to consider what steps (il any) can be takon to increase the circulation.
Mr. Dawe said this was in most important subject for the ringing Excruise. In 1878 Jie began taking a paper called ' Church Belle, mak he luad daken the ringing papers right up to the previous week, but no ringing papar had ever heen supported as it should have been. In tho early clays of 'Bell News' when he bsed to travel the country a great deal, ho did his hest to get support for that paper, and he fonnd then, as le fonsid now wibh regatd to 'The Ringing World,' that in muny towers "jiild Simith buys a paper and passes it romnd.' He larl recently heard of a casc where a sood change rimging company existed. One man bollght 'The Ringing World on Friday for 3ct. Fe kept it two days, then sold it to nuother member of the company for $2 d$. and this mentber in turn sold it to another for a penny tiwo days later. 'Nobody knows what becomes of tt after that,' added Mr. Dawe, anid langlnter. Since he sent in his vesolution he thoticed the words '(if any)' had been inserica. They were not his words, becanse he had the greatest hopes that something might be done, but in thoge two words there was just an element of a bucket of cold water thrown on the motion. Snmefling must be done. Tluey must have a ringing paper of some description and they shonld give 'The Ringing World , more support, nod ouly to enable it to be made a belter paper, but to make it wattl a competent man's while to give lis time and skill to the publishing of it. Tho cnthusiasua and energy of Mr. Goldsmith for over 25 years hed been wonderful, and it was marvellous that with the meagre support he had lept the paper going. He (Mr. Dawe) had done his locst to drive it into people's hends that if they would support the puper proper? ${ }^{\text {por }}$ it would he improved. At Warwick he made an offer, if in few others would do the same, to give 55 a year towards a fund for improwing the paper, st as to endearour to induce others to takfe it, but he had since discovered there would be a certain amount of diflonlty over that. Foy one thing, as subscribers died out it mirht be dificult lo replace them. Bub they wanted something done. He was going to suggest that all the associations should he requested to approsch each iudividund momber and use every persuasive power. In 1 hat assembly there were many skilled business men from some the most g a-a head towas in the world. Soume were hopeless when it unno to discussing the guestion of vetaining old find valuable and historte bells (langhter)--lhey would alestroy Anything for the good of trate but he felt sare on filis question of increasing the circulation of "The Ringing World," they would get the best adwice from the of The Ringing World they wauld get the best adrice from the would have to be done thear, lyeat

HOW HlSLP MTGHT BE GIVEN
Mr. E. A. Fanty, who seconded, said all associations relied on propagands, and one of the grentest pieces of machinery for this purpose was mudoubtodly the Press. The ringiog Exemeise was exceedmgly fortunate in laving a paper devoted to its interests. Mr. Filson Young made n special point of it in his article in "The Radio Times. What they had to do was to lools ahetrl. If they lost their paper they wouk lose thefr hostimenus of propaganda and the preservation of their jnteroste. When lime time camo that they Jost Mr. Goldsmitl they would lanven difleulty in inducing anyoue to succeed hime and who would loot after their many-sided interests unless he received a fan rettrul for his labours. Fow were they to do samething? It was difficult to linow: The Council had not the money. It supported the mpel by adrortising, and ho wondered whether Mr. Goldsmibh could be allowed to put under the heading of the paper the words, "The oftimal organ of the Gentiral Council of Chunch Bellyingers,' aud whether members of the Fxercise, who Had anything to advertise,' wonld use its columns. As an instance of unexpected results from advertising linng. FTe tried an adpertisement Mong said he ance wanted to sell happ. Fe tried au adwertigement in 'The Ringing World. It seemed rather a forlarn hape, but, within refortnight he had sold it.
Mr, P. If. Jomasar satd it was regrettable to come
As one Preq. Johmsand said it was regrettable to come across tavers, eight or ton ringers. He supported the surgestion that ving perlaps nse the adrortising columns more the the thon that ringers should in their ammunl reports might toll their memberg of the associations the the circulation Ohe proner aud the sons dimculty of maintaina duty anrl to take if conda nuly in menhers to support the paper as interests of the whole Jxercign. Wilh the circulation that it in the hae had often wandered how it. had been possible to carry it had got If for any reasen the paper ceased publication it wonld he at areat. hlow to the Exercise. They all knew that. Fe felt it was their duty to ant as propragndista (hear, hear), If they would do that and ty fo nush tha puner, he thought it would give new heart to their friend and prohably lengthen his life by another 50 years flaughter and applatise)
Mr. G. Fullinger mdvacated a seheme which he had put into practice Ringing Worlil yents. He sairl he had taken two copies of The was worlh il evory week. That cost him sixpence and he believed the distriet. He did not leave them with the same man every week. In a number of cases, he belíced, this had resulted in ringers becoming subscibers. He believed if eyery member of the Council from that time would take two copies a week and do as he had done, they would see good results. It was, perliaps, only a 'flea-bile,' luth it was gomething to wo on witl (npplause).
Mr. Tr. Warnington suggested that each association should make a grant of two guineas a year to the Editor of The Ringing Wordi to distributa copies to that value to those towers, known to the secretary, who did not trake the paper. It would not, of coun'se, be sent to the sam

THE QUESTION OF PRICE.

Mr. S. T. Palmer said he believed the great bugbear was the question price. They in that Conncil, of course, all knew it was worth threepence hut they could not make ringers wha did not take an interest believe it, although he belicwed they would tahe it if it were a penny. He thought the Conncil might approtch the varians associations with the idea of getting them to communioute with their towers and asking how much greater support thay woukd give to the paper if it were published for a penny. They would thus find olt what sort of a guarantee bley would get. He believed, if the price were reduced to a menny, nearly every ringer would take it.
Mr. A. H. Pulling said the paper was worth its price to the enthusinsts, but ta the ordinary man threepence was too muel. At present they paid $13 s_{\text {s. }}$ a year to newsagent-if they paid 8 s . or 9 s divect to Mr. Goldsmith and had the paper sent by post, they would get a better and a cheaper paper. He suggested that if three or four members of the Council discussed the subject they would find a way to do it.
Mr. J. A. Trollope satid while there was something in the point Mr Puilin官 had raised, and some people certainly did grumble ahout the price, he did not think that was the real trouble. People might pay threepence and grumble, but if the price were reduced to a peuny they would have to increase the circulation so much that there wer not sufficient viugers in Engrand to make up the amount. They might do it with twopence, but a pemy was out of the question. Wlant the must do was to go on witl their propaganda and persuade people that the paper was a neccssity for the Frercise and try and get them to support it for their own sake
Fr. G. R. Newton said after the matter was discussed at plymonth four years ago the Lancashire Association decided to pay double the amonnt they had been paying for the notices of the meetings. If all the assaciatious would do that, it would go a long way towards solving Whe financial difficulty. Continuing, Mr. Newton sait he did not see why ringers should gmonble at $3 d$. They lived in a world of thei own, and "Thu Ringing World' was the only thing that kept the Exercise fogether. He hoperl other associations would follow Lancashire's example.

SUGGESTONS INVITED

The Hou. Secretary (Mr. G. W. Fetcher') said they wero all agreed that they wanted to do the best they could to keep the paper going In his experience in the last four or five years he lad [ound that some members of the Council did not fake the paper, and be was not certain that all becretaries of affliated societies took it: at any rate, he lad come to the conchasion that some of his atvertisements had not been read by them. The Council would remember, continued Mr. Fletcher, that four years ago the officerg of the Council were re quested to consider the matter and put forward suggestions. It was raised again last year, and he thonght the time had come when they should ask members nnd associations to send their suggestions. There Were plenty of grimblers, but they did not get suggestions. He therefore, moved that 'this Council requests all members and gecre taries of affliated societies to send in suggestions with a view to increasing the circulation of "The Ringing World, that the sugres tions be considered by the officers of the Counctl and Mr. Goldsmith and that a report be circulated to all members
Mr. Dawe accepted this motion and seconded
Mr. J. W. Jones said with regard to propaganda he pushed the paper ats practically all the meetings held by his association. He advonater thaming the paper direct by post from the editorial office, instead at bongh a newsngent. It would make a tremendous difference, aud ha hoped all meetings.
Mr. J. Hunt supporte obtained through the pos be sold a peniy cheaper.
The motion propoed by the hon. secretary was then put ant carried
M1'. J. S. Goldsmitl said he had deliberately kept out of the dis chssion so that the memberg glould not be in any way fufluenced by what he might, say. He hoped the discussion would lead to somethin practical being done, beause his chief concern was for the future a the Exercise, which depended so largely upon lanving a ininging paper He thanked the memhers of the Conncil for tha very sympathetic way in which they lad discussed the matter.

PROPOSAL FOR FARLIER NEETLNGS DETEATRD.

For many ycurs past the meetings of the Central Coment on Whitsm Tuesday have beyun at 11 a.m., and there have been oecasions when the brsituess has becu so learthy that members have had to leave befoie it finisher. At the last meeting an effort was made to get the hour of meeting altered.
Mr. G. Pulinger (Winchester and Partsmouth Guild) moved that - In the opinion of this Council, the moraing session of Council meetings should, when possible, commence at 10 a.m.' He said it appeared to lim, at sereral of the mectings he had attended, that the time Iad been insulficient to deal with the Conncil business, although that clay it seemed to be otherwise. In recentr years there had been a great deal of work, aud the result had been that towards the end of Ho session the business had been rushed. Under such circumstances it could not be dealt wibl properly. What drew his attention to it was that at some of the moctings in the prowinces members who had to travel long distances had to leave before the meeting ended. He knew of one case where a mepresentalive lad been instrincted by his association to vote on a certain question in a certain way, but was unable to do so becuse he had to leave before the question was reached on tho agenda. The icleal way would be to spread theis meetings ovcr fwo cays, but there was a considerable amount of diffculty in that. It was impossible to start their meeting on Whitsun Monday, becanse many guilds and associations held their annunl meeting an that day, and the representatives would be mable to attend, or, if they clid, and the Central Coumeil meeting was lield at a distance, they wonld be unable to attend their own association's meeting. There were many representatives who had to be back at their work by Wedresday moraing, and if the meeting were extended to Wednesday they would be uablile to be present. The alteruative was to mect earlier on Whitsun Tuesday. The only objection he could see to this conrse was that the Standing Comnittee met before the Commel meeting. That was unt so serions as it used to be, becanse, owing to better travelling fecilities, it had been found possible to hold a mecting of the Standing Committee on the previous eveuing. The committee had met at eight o'clock the night before: if they had net at seren o'clock they conli have sot through most if not all the business that had been lefe witil that morring. The last thing he wanted to do was to add to the diffenties of the Standing Commitee, lut unless the Conncil could properly debate the matters that came before thom in the time available they should meet earlier. If they could not meet at ten o'clock they should meet as soon after as possible.

Mr. F. W. Rogers, who seconded, said that day, thanks to the wrork of the Stauding Committee, the busimess of the Council had been rot through in ia workmanlike mamuer carlier than it had been in the last hws or three years, when members had had to leave the Council meeting long before the busincss liad heen finished. There onglit to be ao difficulty about starting their meeting earlier, as seventy or cighty per cent of the mombers were in London on Monday evering. Mr. Rogers also threw out the suggestion that in fusture years the social at headquarters should be held on the evening before the Council mectiag, iustead of after the mecting.
Tho Rep. T. In. Fowards said that wherever the meeting was held there were a certain number of members who conld not arrive until the same morning: In view of the fact that their proceedings generally begau with a civic or episcopal cercmony, and sometimes boilr, they ranted of full atfendance at the time they did open. He would propose as an amendment that the time be 10.30 , altbough he was in avour of eleven o'clock himself.
The Rer. J. Drake said for those mable to get to the place of meating until the morning, ten o'clock was too early.
Mr. J. Purker spid they nust bear in mind those who had to ro the Council's worti. After the previous night's meeling of the Standng Commitiee, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher worked until two o'clock in the morning to gret papers leady for that day's meeting. If they lind to get up in time to be at that meeting at ten o'clock, he did not know what thay would say. Eleven o'clock was quite soon enough. Mr. E. A. Yonng said while he was secretary, laking one jear with the other, they got throngh their business by half-past fon or five 'clock. Tor aboutt three years now there lind lyeen a wave of motions discussed which had taken up a lot of time, but it did not always occur. They might now be in for a cycle of quieter years.
Mr. S. H. Wood stid he thouglit, if they met an hour carlier, there are peoplo in the Council who wonla still manage to make the necting last so that they would finish at just the same time (laughter). Fhat day's lad been a better meeting than the last two or inrea hat If hey could avoid the 'red herrings' nud stick to the points put fown on the agenda proper, there was no reason why they hould puth now the business done between 11 o'elock and 5 p.m.
The Hon. Secretary pointed out the dificulty of ealling the Standing ommittee together earlier, and the amendment for 10.30 was then ut, but no one roted for it.
The original motion l Mr. Pullinger was voted on and was deeated by a large majority.

ACCES TO RINGING BOOKS.

The President moved 'That all persons having collections of boaks on ringing matters be hnviked to supply particelars to the hon. librarian, and to indicnte whether they aro willing to give access to their collections.' He said the reasons for the motion were twofod; that all ringers who were interested in rescarch in historical ranters should know where they might be able to find blie editions or copies of rare editions of some of the earlier books, and it was very desitable that the Canneil should kiow where tiese books were, so that, in ease of death, they kuew where they were going to be in the future and could safegund them from being thrown away or getting into hands where they would not be appreciated. What they particularly wanted was to eneble those interested in research to know where to find them. This motion, added the President, arose out of some discussion on some books he was able ta pick up Iately and which he did not like to ask the Council to buy, becasse it would lizve absorbed their furds for a year or two.
Tho hon. secretary seconded the motion, whith was agreed to without discussion.

NEXT MEETING AT CANTERBURY.
The President said that from the disenssian in the Standing Cummittee as to the next place of meeting, one or two things emerged, which it was just as well the Council should know. One was that the Connci! had changed a good deal in the last 40 years and there wore pery few of the onigimal members leit. Hitherto they had not repented a visit to any place except London, hat the committee saw no reason why they shonld not stare to revisit places they land been to before. In wiew of that and in view of the fact that tilat was the beginuing of a new Comncil, under new mules, indead, tliat it was almost a uew start, the Stauding Comnitiee thew out the suggestion, bearing in mind that the next mebting will be very close to the Coronation, and that in the circumsfances they would not want to travel far, that the Council should ga to Canterbury next year, witl the idea perlaps of going to York the following year. There larl been invitations to Leeds, Lo Ripon and to Dublin, but he thonglt, in any case, Dublin would lo out of the question next time becanse of the Goronation

Mr. F. M. Mitchell proposed that the next meeting be held at, Canterbury. He was sure the Kent County Associadion would do ins best to offer the Comucil a welcome.-Mr. E. A. Young seconded nud tho proposition was carried.

NESSAGE OF GTEETING.
Mr. J. S. ©foldsmith called altention to the fact that in December the new tower and belis of St. David's Cathedral. Hohart, Tasmania, wouk be dedicated. In view of the happy relations set up with Habart ringers on the occasian of the risit of the English tourists in 1934, he tlought it would be a nice gesture if, on the occasion of the detiention, the Council, through the president, sent a mossigge of congratinlation and greeting to the church and Fingera of Hobact. Major J. H. T. Hesse seconded the proposal, which was carried.

THE PYF MEMORIAT-SCAFME.

The Chairman snid lne Look a very serions view of the matter, and proposod that a recommendation should go from tille socicty to the Cenimal Conncil sugpesting that, considering the importance of a weekly prper to the Exercise, the Gentral Coumeil should take the matter up so as to assure the finture of 'The Ringing World,' and further suggestang that the Oentral Council should ask for annual subseriptions from Lhe xinging societies, so as to emalale the price to be reduced to one panyy per weck, which should greatly inerease the circulation. In conclusion, To urged ringers to do their best to keep " Tle Ringing World ' going.

He could go brek to the time when the Standing Committee met some time in the morning, townids 12 o'slock, and the Council began its meeting at 2 a'clock nuid ended at five o'clock. Then it was found that the Conncil had to meet in the morning and the Standing Commitiee had to meet much earlice. Tt would hnve been quite lopeless to think ne twe commitete mecting the night before, hecanse people could not

'GRAMOPHONE' BELLS.

A new church at Iford, a growing parish on the borders of Bournemouth and Cluristchurch, is uearing completion and it would appear that its equipment is the first step towards a mechanised religion. From a description published in 'The Sunday Times,' we learn that there is a tower, with amplifiers instead of bells; the sound of the bells to summon the faithful to prayer and to remind other listeners of the service about to begin will be the noisy reproduction of gramophone records. Loud speakers in the church will give the illusion of a full pipe organ, although the notes come from a small reed instrument, which by the same apparatus can magnify the volume to a strength more than adequate for the needs of services.' The apparatus will also make it possible to receive a sermon from any distant preacher by means of a telephone line.

All this is very modern, and perhaps, very enterprising. It will be called by some the bringing of science to the aid of religion ; it may also be looked upon as an ingenious means of saving money. But to us this type of substitute for the real thing leaves a feeling that for the sake of effects of a sort, but certainly not spiritual effect, those who are responsible have made a sad and serious departure from the principles that have guided the pious builders of our churches in the past, when the very thought of subterfuge or sham was abhorrent and nothing but the best was considered good enough. It is a proud boast in many an old church, where the work of the skilled artisan is visible, that if you could inspect the hidden part of the work you would find it as carefully and as lovingly wrought as that portion which can be seen. There are no shams. It is a pity, we think, that in this new church there should be sham bells and a more or less sham orgau. And what guarantee is there that there may not, later on, be 'tinned' sermons, reproduced from gramophone records, a mechanical choir provided by the same means, the whole thing eventually becoming as we have suggested, a mechanised and soulless religion!

There is already a section of the public which dislikes the ringing of church bells; we can imagine nothing that will add to their number more effectively than the churning out of gramophone records. There are very few good records of bells in existence-if there are, we have not heard them-and there is not one, as far as we know, that is really complete. These records are, too often, a travesty of ringing and a church tower is the last place from which they should be broadcast. It would be better to be 'wired up" with some other church - say the grand old Priory Church only a few miles away-and radiate the bells from that tower when the services coincide. The public would at any rate get the sound of the real thing, instead of a mockery.

FOR BEGINNERS.

TRROLL DOUBLES TO MHNOR AND MAJOR.

Our article last week suggests that there may be some young riagers who, having mastered Doubles, find just a litite difficulty in going on to Minor and Major. Apart from the littite exter ropesight that is required to 'see' the additional bells, one of the problems is that at: 'leading. Doubles, except in a five-bell tower, are usually rung with a covering bell, and the begianer in change ringing, having, of course, already learned how to lead in rounds, has no trouble when he contes to lead in Doubles. We hope he always bears in mind that for good striking there should be the space of one bell between the arckstroke of the tenor and his own handstroke.
When he comes to vinging Minor or Major, of conrse, he has no fired bell, like the tenor in Doubles, to lead frow. Thie bells behind are contimuly changing, and if he wants to make a good load he must look for tite last bell and lead from that. We lave seen some atherwise good ringers who, when they come to lead, iust drop their eyer to the floor and trust to hack. The result is that they may put is a good lead, or they may not-more likely not.
You must pick out the bell your are gaing to lead off, just as you pick out the bell you are gning to strike over in hanting up or down. You can look fov it immerliately you have pulled of in sceond's place hefore leading, and with a little practice you will quickly fiod it. Lead from it, allowing for the seme interval as your would in leading from the tenor, and as you pull off watch for the bell which in that change will strilke orer him. Then put your backstroke in, snappy and clean, from that second bell. If you lead at backstroke whey vou heve found it nud not before yon have found it, you onght to have wour blow in the ripht place. There should be no inturval
In a simple mothod like Plain Bob, these bells that you want to be able to 'spot' are not really difienti to find. Remember you lead at band of one, aft back off another. These bells are comrsing one behind the other, and on wour way down wou will have "crossed 'them consecutively next above and in the middle, that is to say in Minor, in $5-4$ fons $4-3$ : and in Riajor in 6-5 and $5-4$. Flhere is a slifht dif ference after you trave made 2nd's place, but you get your cate by having to lead your first blow from the bell you led of lnst, before malkine 2nd's. Fon must look for the bell that is coming behind next, if you do not happen to know the coussing order.
In going from Bols Doubles to Bob Minor, the effect of the additional hell is to turn the four blows belind, when the treble leads, into a dod is to turn the four hows hanm, when whe treble leads, into a dodge in 5-6. What you re in 84 is not a the $5-5$ dodges come between the 34 dodges.
After dodging in 4-3 down, wou dodge the next lead in 6-5 down the following lead in 5-6 up, before coning ljack to $3-4 \mathrm{mp}$ followed by the 2nd's place. When you go on to Major the additional dodes re in 7-8, and are iuserted between the dodges in 5-6, first 8-7 (down), then 7-8 (rp).
In trying youv land at Major, after having been used to Minor, don's forget to lunt right np belind, instoad of turning round, when onn reach beh's. Temembar yaur canrse bell-t.he one wau took off at lead, and when hunfing un, don't attempt to turn round and come hack until you have turned sour course bell from behind.
Fon can try to build wh rour own talale for ringing the method. Recoliect that after every dodge, you pass the treble one place catlier, until, at lemreth, you prase it in 1-2 nud have to malke qud'e. This working of things oulf for yourgelf is a great lech; so try it. If yout lo it correctly you will find the jig-sim exnctip fits.

BELERY GOSSIP

The Rev. F. H. More, until recently Vicar of Burley, Leeds, and an hoonrary member of the Yorkshire Association, has been instituted to the living of Sible Hedingham, Essex. A farewell peal was rung at Burley on June 30th. During his stay in the Yorkshire town, in addition to other things, the six bells at St. Matthias' Ohurch wore recast into eight, and the ringing room was made as nearly ideal as possible
Messrs. Gillett and Jolinston have received the order to rehang witb new fittings in a new frame the ring of six at St. Breward, near Bodmin, Cornwall.
Twin performances by the twin sisters, the Misses $G$. and K. Burchoall, have reached an interesting stage. They have gever beon separated in their peal ringing and they have now scored their loath peal together. Cannot they now call a few peals by sharing the conducting?
Mr. A. Patrick Cannon has now scored 50 peals, and they have been rung in 50 different towers. This is a new record. Few people even get the opportunity to visit 50 different towers while in scarch of their first fifty peals. The peals, of which Mr. Cannon has conducted 32, consist of two of Doubles, 16 of Minor, six of Triples, 24 of Major and two of Royal.
It will be interesting to know, when the time arrives, how many ringers have been successful in ringing in peals on the defmite daps of the Coronations of Kings Edwaid VII., George V. and Edwand VIII, 'Gurious' says that, with several others, he is living is liopes.

An added atraction to the mectily of the Middlesex Association at Feltham on July 18th will be a visit to the works of the British Aircraft Manufacturing Co., Litd., at Eanworth Park, under the guidance of the District Master. Mr. W. H. Coles. The ten will probably be arranged there as well!

Friday must be their lucky day, and Sipliced Surpise peals 'in hand are becoming a habit with them. The Oxhey company have rung yet another peal of London, Cambridge, Superlative and Bristol on handbells.

Ringing at the Croydon Parisly Churel is to be discontinued until furtlaer notice.

TWIN SISTERS' RECORD

MISSES BURCHNALL'S ONE HUNDRED PEALS TOGETHER.
An interesting record has been made by the Misses Grace and Katherine Burchnall, of Sutton-on-Trent, Nots, who are twin sisters. They decently both rang their one hundredth peal, and it is remarkable that they have never rung a peal apart
The following is their list of peals: Doubles 3, Minor 47 (one in mine mathods, 13 in seven methods, two Surprise), Stedman Triples 5 , Grandsire Triples 1, Bob Major 10, Kent Treble Bob Major 10, Orford Treble Boh Major 7, Spliced Kent and Oxford Major 1, Double Norwich Major 5, St. Clement's Major 1, Forward Major 1, Little Bob Major 3, Cambridge Surprise Major 4, Superlative Surprise Major 1, Yorkshire Surprise Major 1.

CHESTER CATHEDRAL BELLS,  THE AUGMENTATION SGHEME.

To the Editor

Dear Sir, Some time ago, 'The Ringing World' made it known that, as part of its jubilee celebrations, the Chester Diocesan Guild proposes to sponsor a scleme for the addition of two trebles to the present ring of eight at the Cathedral.

May I appeal, through your columns, to all who have in the past been associated with this ancient city, and who still have some regard for its Cathedral and belle, for their support in the task of reising the necessary amount to make the angmentation possible?
Subscriptions addressed to me at Wayside, Circular Drive, will be most gratefully acknowledged.

RINGERS' WEDDING AT COVENTRY.

HANDBEIIS RUNG IN CHURCE
Two members of the Stoke (Coventry) band were married at St Paul's Church, Foleshill, on Saturday, Junc 6th. The bridegroom was Mr. Ernest Sibley (late of Northampton) and the bride Miss Vera M. Freeman, elder daughter of Mr. C. Freeman, also a service ringer at Stoke Church.

The service, which was choral, was conducted by the Vicar of St Paul's, and as there is only one bell at this chunch, a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells in the gallery at the conclusion of the service.
On leaving the church the coupte passed under an archway of handbolls held by their fellow-ringers.
Afterwards a reception was held in the adjoining Schoolroom, et which further handbell ringing took place. Later the happy pair left for Shavklin, where the honeymoon was spent, and the following ringers proceeded to Stoke Church and rang a guarter-peal of Grandsirs Triples, the 'go' of the bells not pormitting a peal attempt: Mre. F. Rouse 1, W. Smith 2, W. J. Cox 3, R. Haine (first quarter with 'inside' hell) 4, F. Pervin (conductory 5, D. Ellender 6, J. F. Whiter 7, F. Rouse 8.

WINCHESTER CATHEDRAL BELLS TO BE RECAST. NEW AND HEAVIER PEAL OF TWELVE.

The ring of twelve bells at Winchester Cathedral are to be recast and increased in weight. This announcement was made to a meeting of Friends of the Cathedral last week by the Deac.
The present poal is a 'patchworle' affair, and ringers who know them will be delighted to hear that at last there is the promise of a worthy peal to crown this grand old pile.
The project is the outcome of steps originally contemplated by the Friends of the Cathedral, who had decided to provide funds for the recasting and rehanging of two of the bells. When this came to the knowledge of Mr. F. Hopkins, managing trustice of the Barron Bell Trust, he offered, from the funds for the Trust, to provide the additional money to make a clean sweep of things, so that the CathedraI could have a new ting of twelve. The work will be carried ont by Messis. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and the weight of the tenor will be raised from 304 ewt. to 35 ewt.

OFFER AOCEPTED BY DEAN AND CHAPTER.

In making the annauncement, the Dean said the help the Friends offered in connection with the bells had worked like a snowhall. No sooner had they given the order to the well-known bell founders, Taylors, of Loughborough, to recast and rehang the two bells mhich liad become unsafe, than they received an offer from Mr. Fopkins and the Barron Bell Trust to pay the cost of making a really good job of the bells by recasting and rellangins the entire peal and adding a new tenor bell in time for the Coronation next year. That was a magnificent offer and lad been gratefully accepted by the Dean and Chapterr, and they realised that the action of the Friends had put therin in the pasition to do so. The bells would be removed early in Angust-hin beliewed the work would begin the day after Bank Holi-day-and although Taylors would not absolutely guarantee that they would be completed in time for the Coronation in May next yeas', they had every lope that it would be possible.

HOW THE PEAJ GREW

The present hels appear to have originated with a heary peal of six, cast by Richard Phelps of the Whitechapel Foundry in 1734. To these Thonas Lester, his successor, added two trebles in 1742, thus making a peal of eight.
The agreement for the ring of bells cast by Plielps is still in existence, It shows that the Dean and Chapter were to send to the foundry old motal of the weight of approximately five tons, which was about the same wcight as the new peal. It is assumed that tho old bell metal was that of an earliey ring of six bells, put in late in the 17 th nentary, as it was in the year 1634 that the tower was closed in. The agrement provided that Phelps was to allow only 24s. less per ewt, for the old metal than the cost of the new. The tenor bell, it, was stipulated, was to be agreeable to the note of the organ of St. Miclatel's, Cormhill, which was taken as the standari at that period.
Of the bells cast by Phelps in 1734, only one, the present 9th, remains. The present 11th was recast by him in 1737 . At different times the old treble, fin and 6th of the eight were recast by Robert and James Wells, of Aldbourne, the treble in 1772, and the others in 1804 and 1814 respectively. In 1891 the tenor became cracked and was recast at Whitechapel, and in the following year Mears and Stainbank rdded two trebles to make a ring of ten, the treble being given by the inhabitants of Winchester and the second by the Winchester Diocesan Guid. The 5th of the ten, cast by Phelps in 1734, cracked in 1903 and was recast at Whitechapel.
The two present trebles, making a poal of twelve, were added by the Winchester Dionesan Guith as a memorial to the members who fell in the Great War.
There is something of a mystery about the present, 6th. Its inscription is "Theodor'e Ecclestone, Fsq., 174它. T.L.' Theodore Ecelestone was a wealthy patron of bells and bellyinging, and a ringer himself. His horne was at Cromficld Hall, in the parish of Coddenham, Suffolk, He gave sereral of the bells to this chaurch, as well as being the donor of the peal of ten at Stonlian Aspal. Suffolk. That he ever had any connection with or interest in Winchester there is nothing to show. But in 1742 it would appear that the two trebles to make the ring of eiglit at Winchester Cathedral, the peal of oight for Coddenham and the ten for Stonham Aspal were afl in Thomas Lester's foundry at Whitechapel at the same time. Did Winclrester yef the wroug bell, or was the inscription a mistake on the part of the craftsman?

AMERICAN VISITOR'S QUARTER-PEAL

PERSONAL 'SACRIFICE' FOR ULTIMATE GOOD.  \section*{To the Editor.}

Dear Sirs-May I express an opinion regarding some points Mr. S. J. Peck raises? Referring to the 'local atmosphere,' let us remember that if the ringing was of the highest stadard only, the people living in the near vicinty of some 'local atmosphere' would have a standard upon which to judge their local band. I'His would certainly give thie intelligent listealer interest-a little disturbing for some local bands, perliaps.
With regard to the supplanting of a ringer by a better man, it is a poor thing if a ringer cannot stand down when be knows his sacrifice' is for the ultimato good. If he is a chureliman, he sliould be willing to. If a ringer would break up a band for the sake of his own personal pride, lie could not be a wortliy churchman,

This trouble and, indeed, many other troubles could be Fery casily overcome if ringers would work and live to Christian principles. The sad paint is that they, like many others, obviously find this a hittle too diffeuIt, or inconvenient, perhaps.

HREDERTCK E. OLDNALL.
Handsworth, Birmingham.

RENARK RESENTTED.

Dear Sir-Replying to Mr. A. P. Shith, the fact we are concemed about is the base remark nsed against the Jancashire towers in question, and that we strongly resent his attitude aud expression at the Council meeting.

As it is the annual meeting of the Lancashine Association in Sep tember, we trust this matter will be brought formard and receive its full attertion.
Finally, may I suggest to Mr. Smith that we mig!t leave the Order of the Holy Writ apart from this controversy?

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

SPILSBY'S DIFFICULT BELLS.

A party of ringers from Lea, Upton, Willingham and Lincoln spent an interesting, though wat, aftermoon on Saturday, May $30 t h$, in ring ing around Spilsby. Ilie first call was at Raithby, a charmin little village just of the busy skegness road. A pleasant six, tenor 11 cwt , by Carr, of Birningham, was found here, but they have rather a long dratglt of rope. An excellent 720 of Bob Minor was, however, rung wh them. The next stop was for tea at Spilsby, and then on to Afrord nine miles away. The bells here must be the finest six of their weight in Lincs. They had a special interest to some of the party, as they were seen assembled in their frame at the Lourhborough Bell Foundry 18 moutlig ago when the old five were reonst and a treble added. The tenor weighs $12 \downarrow$ cwt., and the bells were heard to good effect in another 720 of Plain Bob.
It had been hoped that Willonghby (six, tenor 8 cwt.) would be available, but Spilsby hat to be substifuted at the last minute. The 'rough 'state of these bells was known and the visitors did not expect an casy time. When, however, an attempt was made to pull them up in peal to was soon evident that this was out of the question, as there is itn enomous draught of unguided rope which scemed more like clastic than hemp, and chose to come down everywhere but where it was wanted. The visitort, however, manuged to wing a six-score of Grandsire Doublen and two courses of Bob Minor, and thea decided to lower the bells before disaster befell anyone. As far as the riumers are concorncd here the clappers niglit be "tied,' as it is inpossible to hear anything except a fanst runbling overhead. The ringers had a very enjoyable outing in leal old-ftshioned Lincomshire country.

MORE LINCOLNSEIR法 DITHICEZTIES

Twenty ringerg and friende from Howden, Homingbraugh, Selby, Shermurim-Eiluet, Sutton-on-Hull and a visitor from Woodford in Fssex set forth an iune lst by coach on a tour through North Lincolushire ind Nottinghamshire. At the outget they were obliged to atisfy the insistent cravings of a gentleman who had travelled from Sulton at an early hour without any breakfast, but they were soon whirling south, fad, having missed several turnings, arrived at the first destination over the devious twists of a winding by-road.
At Epworth they put in a good half an hour's havd labour on the had-going poal of six (totior 30 owt.), ringing Doubles and Cambridge Minor with such affect that the tenor rope protested by parting at a Biplice. At IIaxey the ringers had another spell of horse work ou a similar peal (tonor 25 cwt.). It seems a pity that two fine peals like these should waste through lack of reharigiog. Next the party pro ceeded to Gainsborough, where the grand peal of eight were a delight to ring and handle. There they lunched and recuperated from their marning's activities.
Going on to Sutton-on-Trent, they were met by the Misses Burchnall, and atthough some found the trebles rather tricky to handle after the previous peals, yet good use was made of the bells, and admiring comments were passed on the carpet and belfry. After a ghort ring at, Fast Markham, the tourists prid their last call at East Retford, where on the peal of ten (Eenor 24 cwt .) Grandsire Triples and Caters wul Kent Troble Bob Royal were ming, a course of Bob Royal coming to grief in the last half-learl througla the tenor rope bragring.
This concluded a very antisfactory day's riuging, for which they lave to thank Mr. Fred Tersy, to whon were due the origin and the manmement of the outing, nud tho numagements made by the ringers af the several towere that were visited.

MALDON IRINGTRES TOUR.

The vingers of All Saints', Maldon, Tssex, together with wives and ricnils, had their ammal outing on Saturday, Jume 13 th. Starting from Maldon at $7.45 \mathrm{n} . \mathrm{m}$., they journeyed wia Colchester and Tpgwieh to Woodbridge, their first stop. They soon lad the five bells yoing in $n$ touch of Stedman, which was much enjoyed. Other touches were rung to give all a chatnce, and then a move was made to Lawestoft, where a splendid lunch was in readiness at the Crown where, a wedting having just taken place, they were able to ring the wedding bells for the brikal couple. After tea m move was made for Stnwmarket, where some of the local ringers were met and some good ringing was very much enjoyed, Home was reached at 11.30 p.m. after a tour of 170 milos. Aithongh the weather was vot very kind, it did not dnmp the spirits of the party and the day's outing was a grent success. The ringers wish to thank the various iuchmonents for the use of the bells and the local ringers for having the bells ready and ror meeting them.

HEL MTNGHATI RINGTRS VISIT LINCOLNSHIRE.
On Saburday, June $27 t h$, the Belmingliam, Suffolk, band, with a few friends, nalkinc e party of twenty, held their annual outing. Leaving Helmingham Church a few minutes past aix jn the morning by motorconch, $n$ conrse was steered for Long Sutton, Limes, which was reached just before fen o'dnelz. Mr. "and Mirs. Rupert Rieliardson were there to give them a wam welcome. Ringiug started with a good tauch of Stedman Triples, with eqhet of the party who were over 50 years of Stedman Triples, with eight of the party who were over 50 years of age. The condtictor wag W, $f$. Crickmer, who is one of the three survivors of the famous 16,608 Oxford Treble Bob at Debeulana in 1892. The youngsters then took over for Superlative, but, were surprised to fud themselves all mixed up after a lead or two. However, a good wigging from their fathers and a change over to Cambridge resulted in a good course being brought round. After other courses of Bristol and London had been rung, the party left for Boston, where an excellent lunch was awaiting them at the Scala Cafe. They felt the full effects of doing 'ample justice' when afterwards they climbed the famous Stump. Most of the party. reached the ringing floor after much pulfing and blowing and incuirics as to "How mucls- further?' The ringing here was not all that could be desired, but Treble Ten and Stedman Caters and a course of London on the back eight were brought round. The neat call was Pinchbeck where some good courses of Surprise and Double Norwich were ruDg. Then came a visit to Surffeet with its light twelve. It was some time before three leads of Treble Twelve could be brought round, followed by a course of Stedinan Caters and a course of Stedman Doubles on the front five to oblige L. C. W. clyn Garth for tea was the next item, and it will be a long day before that tea, which Mrs. Richardson had prepared on the lawn, will be forgotten. Afterwards Rupert entertained the party for an hour or more with his "movies,' and it was great, fun to watch some of the doings of celebrated ringers who had previously visited Surfleet. A few mmutes before eight the party said 'Good-bye' to their kind host and hostess, to wiom they tendered their best thanks for guiding the Suffolkites and helping them on the bigher uumbers of bells, also for entertainimg them and making this the most enjoyable outing they had ever had. Home was reached about $12.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. But just after ten a'clack the same morning Bristol was rolling off, followed by Stedman, for moruing service at Felmingham. The party would like to thank, through "The Ringing World,' all incumbents for use of bells and the steepleleepers for having everything ready.

A WEEK-END.

The 37th anmul outing of the St. John the Baptist' Society, Leytonstone, touk place on June 20th and 21st-irdeed, it can be said to have begux on the 19th, for, late on that evening, most of the party travelled to Basingstoke, Fants, which was the centre from which excursions were to be made on the following days. $A$ strong muster of lacal ringers was on the railway platiorm to welcome the visitars on their arrival, headguarters being at the Railway Hovel. Here a chat with newly-made friends brought supper time and bed, in preparation for the following two days exeursions. The Mister joined the party next morning, and after brealfast they set out by charabanc for a round of wisits to towers, going first to Alton, where there is a fine ring of eight, and then to the little village of Upton Grey, with a handy ring of six, and on to Orlinam, which also lass a peal of six. After lunch at headquarters three of the local band joined the party, aud a trip of eleven miles brought them to Highclere, with its handy ring of eight. Going farther on, they rext called at Andover, where the eight bells run the wrong way romnd, and where, it was learned, the local men would welcome the services of a good bellhanger. Alas, there is a lack of money to ennble a destoration to be put in hand. Tea, kindly mrranged by Mr. New, was followed by a visit to Whitclurch (eirlht), Derue (six), where the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies was for same years Vicar, and Wootton St. Lawrence (six).
On Sunday arrangements had been made to ring from 7.15 to 8 a.m. at St. Michnel's, Basingstoke. After breakfast the party set off for Newbury. A pleasant run through the conntry brought them to the old Berkshire town, where they enjoyed ringing on the fine peal of ten. On the return journey they experienced a heavy storm-the only rain during the excursion. After lunch at headquarters visits were paid to Sherfied and Bramley, and the evemiog service ringing was at All Saints', Basingstoke (eight). Tlijs brourht a very attecessful outing to a clase, in the course of which 720 's of Cambridge, Ipswich and Norwich Surpuise and many shorter toaches of Minor, inchating 'Spliced,' were rung at the six-bell towers, and Gramisire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Superlative and Gambridge at ather places. At cvery tower visited the Leytanstane ringers were met by the local men, who did everythog they could to help make the outing an enjoyablo and memorable one. These local rimgers are thanked for their Jindmess, as are all the clergy who so reafily granted the use of their bells.

INOIDENTS ON TPSWICH OUTING

On Saturday, June 27th, the St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, held their amnal outing. Starting from Ipswich at 6 a.m., they had a good run to the Half-way House, Tast. Horndon, on the LondonSouthend by-pass, to breakfast at 8.15. They them crossed the 耳"ilburyGravesend Ferry, ringing at Gravesent, Chatham, Gillingham, Rochester Cathedral.

A course of Rochester Surprise Royal was rung at the Cathedral, and a good look round the Cathedral and the Crypt was very interesting. An excellent dinner was servel at the George, Leeds, whete the late Jrmes Barham was famous. liarham was an ancestor of the Tilletts, of Ipswich. Then lastly to Maitistone, where three of the company were locked in the tower for half an hour. The ringing of the treble brought Mr. Spiller to the rescue.

The methads rung were Guandsire on seven and wine bells, Superlative, "lreble Bob (eiglit), Double Norwich (eight aud ten), Cambridge (ejght and ten), and the novelty, of course, the Rochester Surprise Royal at Rochester Cathedral, perhaps the firsturg outside Ipswich.
A somewhat alaming incident accurred on the homemard journey. A hites in the ferry ticket caused the secretary to be delayed iu the affice while the ferry began to move off. Sprinting well for bis age, he found the ferry uow $8 f t$. away from the quay head, but her stern swung romd within about 2ft., and he clembered aboard, to the delight of all
The society wish, through the medium of "The Ringing World, to thank all incumbents and steeplekeepers for having things in readiness, and also Mr. Kobert Brumde's son and Mr. E. J. Beer, both of whom made admirable pilots, in making the outing a grand success. Ipswich was eafely reached by midnight.

NORTH SHIELDS RINGERS VISIT EDINBURGH

On Thurbday, June 25th, the ringers and choinmen of Curist Clurch, North Shiedis, joined forces for their anmual outing, and vieited Fdinbuigh by a railway uxcarsion. Tlue weather was ideal, and, having an hour to spare on arrival before luacheon, they split, into swnll parties and wisited the Shrine, the Castle and other places of interest. After luncheon the ringers, arganist and some of the clair went to $$ \mathbf{s t}$. Cuthbert's Church. Permission had been granted for the use of the hells, and a few short touches of Stedman Triples, Kent Majoz and Grandsire Triples were rung. The visitors were met by two of St. Cuthbert's ringers, who gave them a kind welcome. After looking round the church, which is very beantiful, especially the gmaIl Chapel Shrine, dedicated to the men of the parish who gave their lives in the Great War, the party visited the Zoo, where forces were united again. Here, we are told, the party 'had a glorious time, some seeking relations of other members and feeding them and other animals; the fini was great.' After tea they started out again in small parties to see the city, and meeting ngain at the station in good time for the return train. The journey back was a pleasant finislo off, being kept lively with songs and speeches, the party according thauks to all, including the Ficar, charchwardens, secretary and others who had helped in giving them such a good time. The Vicar replied for himself and joined in the thanles to the absent churchwaydens. Tlianks are also extended to the Vicar and ringers of St. Cutlabert's Church for their share in the anamgements.

FIVE TWELVE-BELL TOWERS IN A DAY.

On Whit Monday the ringers of St. Laurence-in-Reading carried out a most ambitious programme by ringing at three Staffordshire and two Warwickshire 12-bell towers. Though the kindness and fine nrganisation of their old friend, Mr. Albert Walker, everything was ready for the wisitors at each place. Leaving Reading at 6.18 a.m. by G. W.R., Birmingham was reached at 11 a.m., two traing having been struck off time tables owing to Bank Holiday arrangements. However, St. Martin's bells were going to Cinqueg at scheduled time and a pleasant hour spent there. Then dinner at the Crown Restaurant, Corporation Street, which was greatly enjoyed. Afterwards at Aston cveryone rang Stedman Cinques and paid their respectful homage at the last resting place of the immorbal Henry Johnson. Fralsall wes lite noxt objective. Here again everything was ready and the usual Stedman Cinques went rolling along. Illuee leads of Treble Twelve were also rumg. The benutiful Church of St. Peter, Wolverinampton, was freatly admired, both inside and out, before climbing the belfry stairs. These bells were liked bye all, and a good course of Double Norwich was sumg on the back eight to finish the ringing, the only time all day in which less thran 12 bells were pulled off. After tea a move wrs made to West Bromwich, where the pariy arrived ten minutes before time, but got on with the work, and left for snow Fill Station, where a suitable farewell was taken of Mr. F. Haynes (St. Martin's Guild Ringiug Master), who had given the whole day to the visitors. Will all the ringers who met the party and lad things ready at each tower accept the leartfelt thauks of ths St. Laurence's ringers, including, of course, the man whom they did not meet, Mr A. Walker?

PEALS IN OTHER ASSOCIATIONS' TOWERS

The annual report of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild calls attention to peals rung in the Guild's area for other territorial associations, and deprecates the action of those bands (their own members included) who, when visiting the 'preserves' of some other association, do not ring their peals for the society in whose territory the tower stands. The principle of this attitude is unquestionably right, altbough, it must also be admitted, there are occasionally extenuating circumstances.

If a band visits a tower in the area of a neighbouring association it ought, as a matter of courtesy, to credit its peal to the society whose hospitality it enjoys, and a ringer who takes part in such a performance ought to be prepared to pay the nominal subscription which would make him a 'non-resident' member for life. These subscriptions are only a moderate sum and are not a recurring liability; indeed they have been fixed for the very purpose of enabling outside ringers to become members on specially favourable terms. There is very little excuse, therefore, for peals being rung for other than the local territorial association on the ground of the cost, and unless there is a special reason for doing otherwise, there is practically no excuse for a band grabling a peal for some society other than that which officially covers the area in which the peal is rung. Instances of this kind are not of frequent occurrence-but they do happen. Where however, for any reason, the members of an association desire to ring a peal in another area for their own society, it would smooth away all cause of friction if, as a matter of courtesy, a formal intimation of the intention, if not an actual request for permission, were made to the territorial association concerned.

The difficulties arise in areas where ringing organisations overlap. Where two or more societies operate there can, of course, be no possible question of the peal being rung under the auspices of either; but it might not be easy to say which should be approached if an outside band wished to come in. This is a little difficulty, however, which need not interfere with a general practice that might lead to a happier understanding. In areas where towers available for peal ringing are not numerous and where the limitations are rigıd, it is rather galling to an association to find that a band of outsiders have walked in and annexed a peal which may result in keeping the local association out for months to come. That is one phase ; but the greater offence is the lack of courtesy by which, prompted perhaps by someone's reluctance to pay the small life subscription necessary, some other society should have the credit of a peal which normaily should go to the territorial organisation. It is bad form and the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild's protest is not out of piace.

FOR BEGINNERS.

STEDMAN.
Those who would like to ritug Stedman should not find the task of learning the methen a difficult one, aldhogh there are some ringers who seem frigitened of the very nane. They imagine it to be a method full of pitfalls, whereas a little concentrated study shouki smooth the troubles away.
Unlike most methods, Stedman has no bell ' in the hunt,' which can act as a guide to the athers. All the bells concerned do precisely the same work, which cangists of three lininds: The slow work, the quick work and the dodging. The 'principle, as it is termed, is hased upon the 'sixes ' (Lu use Fabian Stedman's term). That is to say, the three belis in front ving all the six possible clanges which they can produce. Then one goes away mad another comes in, and, this and the two remainiug, agnin ring all the six possible changes.
While these six changes ate in progress all the other bells double dodge in pails. If it be Doubles thint are being rung, then there is one pair double dodgitys; if it be Triples there ate two pairs, and so on. The dodging, of course, shoutd be fairly easily mastered. You stop in your forward progress, either up or down, sud stcp back one place; go forward again one place and step back a second time, before going forward to the next dodging pluce. After stepping back for the second time, you go forward three places before the next backward step. The actual dodges in Doubles are 4.5 (up) and 54 (down); that is, diviked only by the whole pull behind.
The 'sixes' are so arranged that in one the three bells lhunt in a forward cycle; in the next a backwurd eycle, and so on alternately. Between them they cause thie bells alternately to come in 'slow' and 'quick.' The work of a 'quick' bell is simplicity itself. It leaves the dodging in 5-4 (down), linnts straight in, leads a whole pull, hunts straight out und dodges in 4.5 (up). Then, having todged in 5-4 (down), the bell las to come in 'slow.' The slow work is the part of the method which perhaps needs the greatest amount of application. It is divided into 'whale turns, and "half turus.' For practical purposes the term refers to what the bells do at lead. A 'whole turn' consists of a whole pull it lead, one blow in secoud's and another whole pull at lead. A 'half turn' is just a half pull at lead, i.e., one blow.
When you begin the "flow work' you leave the 5.4 dodging, and make 3rd's place (a whole pull). Then you go to lend and do the 'first whole turn,' 'This begins with leading a whole pull wrong (backstroke first and then hnudsiroke). Then you strike one blow in 2nd's, and lead another whole pull-this time the right way (handstroke first aud then backstroke). After this you make another whole pull in 3rd's place.
The 'first half turn' follows. and in this you simply go in and lead one blow at handstroke, and thent, make 3 rds place again.
Next comes the 'last half tarn,' which is the reverse of the first; in other words, you go in aud lead one blow at backstroke, before once more making 3rd's place.
The slow work colseludes with the last whole turn-similar to the first whole turn, but reversed-a whole pull right first, and a whole pull wrong after the one blow fin zad's place. Then you make 3rd's place and go out into the dodging.
Tlie work occurs thus:-
3 rd's (right way). First whole turn.
3rd's (wrong way), First half tura.
3 rd's (right way), Last half turn.
3rd's (weong way), , ast whole turu.
3rd's (right way), Out to the dodging
Jusie note this: Retween each piece of the slow work 3rd's place is made. The first and last 3 rd's are made the right way (handstroke and backstroke), and so is the one leetween the half turns: but between thie whole tarns and half turns the 3rd's places are the wrong way (back and hand).

Your first and last whole pulls at lead are the wrong way.
The half turn is sometimes called a 'snap,' and the bell that snaps at your first whole turn, you suap with in your own first half turn.
Your last half turn is with the bell that will suap at lead in you last whole turn.
The slow work and quick work accur alternately, with dodging between.
Stedman does not begin at the beginning of a six. It starts like Grandsire. and in order that you may prick it out for yourself and examine the method thorouglily, here ere the first two sixes and thi odd piece:-

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

N IUNE WITH THE PAST.

A 150 Miles Search for Old Berkshire Bells.

Wherever hingers are gathered bormbliel, one invariably finds the conversation turning to "what we have done,' so it was nat inappro priate that the Crawley ringers, with some of their friends, this year chose on July 4 th a ton of the old bells in l3erkshire for their annual oufines. What an ideal day! The temperature was perfect and we started from Crawley on the Alplia coach (a good berginning) at 7.15 a.m. It is said, however, thanks to some ovemight training, a few were atont well before time.
Very soon a big policeman was doting on the glories of Surrey which we were seeing at its best and, unknown to aur driver, the buili-up areas were gallantly displaying the masses af roses which are so much in evidence this yeur. We sailed gaily along through Reizate, Guildford, Batshot, Wokingham and arrived at Cavergham as per schedule by 9.15 a.m. Just to Enock the rust off, a Cambridge start and three leads of Bristol were inchuded in the first touch of 'Spliced, which was safely brought home before some of the party liad finished their patter with Mr. Newman, the local captain, and Mr. Simmonds, who were receiving all the twenty, one by one, and ruminating on times gone by when the Caversham band were on the top rungs of the ladder-there are many towers which heve not siuce been visited by better bauds than the Gaversham tourists of those days. The old bells, recently put on ball bearings locally, gave one the inipression that sonething more, thongli not drastic, wonld be desirabite.

EAST JLSLEY CHUACH

Just a short In to Goring, where we were met by Mr. Bower, wifh the bells wo ready, end quickly this little 8 cwt. musieal box was going Ahound and aronnd - so miel so indeed that one nold gentleman' became confused between the 4uh and 6th although it was only just 10.30 a.m. This peal was recast by Mears in 1929, and one of the old bells, cast aloout 1285 by Richand de Wymbis, hangs on a bracket in the church. We next had the plensure of a rivg with the local man at Cholsey, Mr. Fletcher, who was the first to tell ws of the lack of Sunday service ringers. It was nice to ring ou six for a change and several showed special interest in the part Normen, Maltese Oross Cinurch and an enormous yew, which they measwred as loit in circumference. However, when Mr. Fletcher said he wished he had our 'side," a touic appeared to be callend for, although some were siready busy on the one ' $R$,' one ' $\mathcal{B}$ ' principle. On to Wallingfowd for Iunch (skip it), and St. Malthew's with its peal of eight by Lestren' and Pack, 1738, where we exerciser ourselves with Stedman, Bristol, etc., an "bells for men, therr $2 t$ cwt. After an 'very tidy' fall int peal, we bid adieu to Mr. Norris, who had 'kindly met us and had everything in readiness as the best reporters say.
Another little jannt and we reached Harwell. Some of these hells date back to Carter 1590, six were restored and the yeal angmented to eight by Taylor, 1932-a very fine job. We thoroughly enjoyed the ringing, Rutland was ineluded and in this quiet out-of-the-way spot the bells could be heard to adrantage outside as well as in. Cherries, straight from the orchard, were being eagerly bonght from a chaming 'youmg miss.' Tes! We had a complete bachelors' hand, married men's band and all sorts of other things. Mr. Hitchman was anxious to get back to his work, but maybe lee's responsible for the local yomgg ladies. for he stayed on, and, let's hope, has no lakd report ta make. Our next tower was East Ilsley, tenor 81 cwt., by Robert Atton, 1625 ; bells rehung and three trebles added by Mears. 1921. A splendid little peal these, and the matto is 'Catch the gally hith.' This was ontr past eight, so we finished with a nice towch of "Spliced."

Our tea never looked like being in doubt, with Mr. Hibbert to provide it. There it was, all laid out under lhe drooping ash, and, oll! boy, those lardy cakes! It was, as we sry in Sussex, some scnse. There was so thuch of intereat, the delightul garden, the relies of wild animals shot hy Mr. Hiblert in India, which his san, who is one of the local ringers, showed us, pacing stables and so on-perhaps Mr Curtis will forgive us for the late arrival at Newbury-our last call.

What a frue peal of ten awaiter us at Newbury-tenor $21 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. in $D$ and they go like tops. The back eight are by wells, of Albasre, 1803, and were done up by Mears, 1929, who added two trioles subsequently. As it was, we rang two courses of Cambridge Rayal, Stedman Caters and 'reble l'en, but would thave liked a lot more. It was a real pleasure.
After just a quick "Here's henlth' with Mr. Curtis and his colleasues, we had to make tracks for home via king's Cleary, Bngingstoke and Hook, where we pulled up at the Dorcliester. Arms to knock off a few har-billiards finals which had been outstanding since luneh time, and, hawing stayed there till 'time, there were mo further stops of interest, so we jouraeyed an wia Fambam and Fou's Duck to Guildford, Reigate, and so home. We must have done abont 150 miles all day. Joweryone voted it an exceedingly enjoyable outher, and, looking back over the bells, one feels a special regard to those old ones that keep their place in a peal because of their worth, regaydless of tiree moving on.
All the arrangements for the trip were under the personal dirction of Mr. Oliver Sippetts, lyrics by Kenneth Suelling, 'T. Pavey at the 'Compleat Anglex,' 'Dusty' "by limself, supported by various gentlemen-at-arms over a cerfain anusement park they failed to locate.

A 200 MILTES' TRIP.
The St. John the Baptist (Hillingdon) Guild held their tents annuat onting on the first Sinturday in July. Togeiber widn seweral friends, a motor-coach tour was made though the counties of Bucks, Berks, Oxon and GIoucestershire. Departing from headquaters at 7.30 a.m., various wives, swecthearts and friends were pieked up fat Uxbrigge and the party proceeded to Wantage wia Maidenhad and Jenley. Here Steeplekeeper Fred was called upon to deal witl the tenor rope before ringing commenced. The eight bells, tenor 22 cwt., weve rugg to Farions methods in good style considering the carly howr! Hot coffee aud cakes went down well here, too!
Fainford, on the exige of the Cotswold conntry, is a quict old town, with houses mostly built of stone and poscessing a fine chneln with n central tower. The church was the attraction, of course, nad the visitors divided theiv time between ringing and inspecting the worldfamed staned glass in the windows. The wonderful west window was descuibed in detail by the local guicle, who appeared to take a pearliar relish in pointing out the delights $\mathrm{p}^{\prime}$ ) of Hades as portrayed in the class! The aforesaid gnide, incidentally, was fonnd to be related to some af the visitors, one of whom at the age of 85 was revisiting the scenes of her childhood days. The bells, a very fine rint of eight, tenor 17 cw cw, were rung to short tonches. There is 70ft. of rope and he ringers stand at the foot of the chancel steps. The ringers received a well deserved rebuke here for not yising the bells in peal, whel they must take to heart and ring up as well as down!
Ciredcester was reached at midday and the first task was a liearty unch at Messrs. Viners. Later, Holy 'Prinity, Waternoor, was visited and the excellent ring of eifht, tenor 20 cwl. runs. Hitd not some of the visitors been so lotle to leave the festive ford, a wedding party would have had the muexpected pleasnere of having bells as weh as eloir. As it was they (ihe lingers) arrived in thme to see the choirboys scamper away
After Cireucester cane the lyst part of the tond. Minchinhampton Conmon (you could almost smell the sea up tharel); Stroud, in the Valley: Priuswick, complete with a Paradise and Adam and Eve (closerl) ; Birdip and Northlemeh are places long to lse remombered. Thu party had a glimpse of the Severit, saw the Vrle of Ewealam rolling away to the North Cotswolds, while Malwerm Fills looged up on the misty horizon to the west. 'The coach aseended to nearly a thonsand feet at one pont, and practically baked the driver in so

The twelve bells of Painswich, one of the best jings in the country ith a tenor of $26_{2}^{2}$ ewt., were rung anrl enjoyed by hoth ringers and listeners alike. Another good ring was found it Norlinleath, the tenor of the octave heing $18 \frac{1}{4} \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. Ringing lere was curtailed to keep up to the secretary-bloke's schedule, pat the ringers were ngain admonisheal before departtre abont not rising in jreal!
The Swan at Burforl is fawous for catering for hungry cycliats, Wiss Jonas minst now know that hnog'y ringers are evell m more difficult pronosition. The way that ment ter disappeared kept the attendants in a state of sileat apoe! The Charch of St. Jafin the Baptist was eventually visited, and here was foumd amotier good ring of eiglit, tenou 18 cwt. The glimpse of the beautiful Cotswolds through the belfry window whilst ringing will long be remenbered by the scribe.
By-passing Oxford, a final halt was made at Totswortly, to fry the Itew ring of six there. Of very sweet tonc, the whole peal harely weigh a ton, ther 4f ewt. The Rev. S. J. Nithtingale, Yicar. arrived in time for a chat and is further invitation to the village. After suit able refreshment, the last stage of a strenuous day was completed and St. Jolu's reached about $10.30 \mathrm{p} \cdot \mathrm{m}$. It whe at happy day, favoured by fair wenther. The ringing, never excellent, was good for the acca sion, methods rangilg trum Grandsirg Triples to Cambridge and Superlative Suppise Major, with a bonch of Stedman Cinques thiown in. Seven towers were' smatched' and new friends made, aed that is what makct ringers' ontinge so mjoynble.

SHETFIELD CATHEDRAL RINGERS VISIT MRRFIELD AND OSSETT.

This yern the Shefied Cathoiral company, accompanied by a few friends, wisiled Mirfield nud Osecte for their annual outing. Owing to a mumber of the company not being able to leave work in the morniug the journcy was inatic by coach at 1.30 p.m. from the Galhedrat wiat the lovely Onglitibridge valley, through Stocksbridge and over the Lhmgsett moars, and through some delightful scenery biefore ontering Hiddersfield. After passng through the town and making their why up the hill, the party soon saw the noble tower of Mirffed standing out in bold reliof. On arrival they were met by Mr. Ailen Fobinson and some of inis colleagtues, who kindly had the hells up ready and gave the visitors a hority welcome. Stedman Catere, Cirandsire Caters, Bots Roys! athd Forward Royal were ring for over an liour on this splendid peal oi hells, by Jolun Taylor and Co. (tenne 30 cwt.). "The "go' whs excellent, but, like most lieavy peals, the liells hute at stately swing of theif own and refused to be hurpied or even drawn oul of their noble grandentr. After tenderimg thanls and heing 'gpick and span ${ }^{3}$ nact carpied ond with all consideration for the Ossett through what appearct In be one endless town until at length the fine spine, which was the ringers' destination, came inta view,
The neach fiad not netually stopped iofore Mr. George Bemett ame nongside bidding them welcome. Then to the Filying Horse Inm, where an nxcallent tea was in readiness, provided by Host D. Hunt.
Afterwards, escorted hy Mr. Ronnetis, the ringers made theiy way to the tower, where they first ingpected the fine peal of tan bells (tenor 27 ewt.), recontly installed by Mesars. Taylor and Co. on hall bearings in an iron frame in their well-hnawn workmanlike manner, everything hoing 'spie and span' and earrion out with all consideration for the ingers. Tneitiontally it was noticed that room was still left for annlher pail: of trebles on the sime tevel, and it is hoped that these will be atder at some futate date. And then, what a peal!
Likewise thare is a luye and excellent ringing chamber, beautifully fitted up with evcrything for coufort. With just a bit of carpef to relieve the bare floor and prodnce hat homaly effect so essential nowaclays, it would be a reritable palace compared with a great many othere.
As everyone land been lonking forward to ring on this delightfur peal, the hells were som raised, and tauches of Stedman Caters, Grandeire Caters, Forward Royal und a course of Cambridge Surprise Royal hrought yound in excellent style, each ringer doing lis best, to the gatisfnution of the loal men. The umanimous impression gained was that if ome camot strike his bell at Ossett, he camnot ring at all.
Tath as all were ta leave the bells, the party perionce wonded their way back to the Fiving Horse for an hour's conviviality, some to reatil past memories and otherg to make their achanintance with the bowling green athacherl to fhe im, where they lind left the chief verger, not knowing until lhen that he was a very 'ace' at this game. What a anrprixe!
 way of Whteficha nul Bamsley, the old home pile was reaclied at 11 p.m. Thus eficled another of the traditional outings mueh enjoyed ly everyone.

The hest ilmaks of the party are herewilh conformed to all whe sa Kindly ansislod toward the armagements, esperially Mr. Beanett, who did everythins that could he desired, nud to the Wicars of Mirfield 3thd Ossett for their spontaneotis permission given for the zse of the thells.

After elimaner al Dumstahle, the tour whs contimued to Leirgton Fumsen. The Vicar welconed the party and said how pleased he was to have the bells rung. He had tanght some boys himeelf geveral Minor methods, but the usual village tale had to be told; the inevitablo had followed, a depleted band and progress stopped.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

NORTHERN BRANCH MEETING

The summer meeting of the Northern Branch of the Worcesterahire and Districts Association was held at Chaddeslev Corbett, a very pleatant spot in the contry near Kiddemmeter, where there is quite a nice peal of eiglit. Unforthmately the weather was anything but settled; in fact, there was a thuuderstorm in the afternoon which necessitaten tea boing taken indoors instead of out in the open.

The weather obviously had its effect on the attendance, as there were anly-about 35 members present. However, those who attended had a pleasant time.

Owing to the absence of the Vicar, it was not possible to have a service in church, so the afterizoon was taken up with ringing.

At the business meeting, which was held in the belfry, the association Ringing Master, Mr. William Short, took the clair, stupported by Mr. Thomas Hemming, Branch Master.
Several new members were elected. and it was decided to hold the next meeting in September at Brierley Hill.

The secretary reminded the members that it was at the nest meeting that the annual election of officers of the branch took place.
Sympathetic reference was made to the fact that Mr. Robert Matthews had lad to go to hospital on account of trouble with his foot, and withes were expressed for his speedy recovery.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

SUOCESSFUL GATHERING IN ANOIENT SURREY TOWN
Chertaey, where in 666 Erkenwald fouuded a monastery, from which cantre he ovangelised the north-west part of Surrey, was the venue of the Guidford Diocesan Guild'e summer festival on Saturday. The Parish Ohurch was probably built in the 13 th century, and the westera tawer is possibly the oldest surviving portion. The chancel may be of a little later date, with a fine 14th century roof, but the nave, rebuilt about o hundred yeare ago, is rather garishly decorated in a - byle that to some taster at any rate, strike a somewhat jarming note.

There is a ring of eight bells in the tower, a mixed lot but of considerable interest. The fift, cast about the year 1310, is called the Abbey ' bell. It is said to have been brouglit from the Abbey soon after the church was built, and, according to legend, was the original bell concerned in the incident, about which was written the poem, Curfew shall not ring to-night," In Chertsey the 7 th is knowo as the ' Armada Bell,' because it is dated 1588. It was cast by Robert Mot, of Whitechapel. It bears lis circular stamp with his initials as well as tho words, 'Robertus mot me fecit, 1588. .

William Eldridge, a Chertay bellfounder, cast the 6th in 1712 , and that fact makes Chertsey interesting from the bell antiquarian's standpoint. Bryan Eldredge was probably the first of the Chertsey foundera. He was a descendant of the Wokingham founders of the日amo name, who subsequently set up in business at Horsham. There are a number of belis in Surrey bearing his name, and dates from 1619 to 1638 , and it is surmised that he establighed his foumd'y in Ohertsey in the former year. At his death the business passed to his son Bryan, the younger, who spelt his name 'Eldridge.' William, who cast, the bell in Chertgey tower, was a brother of the younger Bryan. He died at the age of 82 in the year 1716, and with him the Chertsey foundry came to an end.
The Guildford Guild's gathering brought together a large party deapito a showery day. The ringing was carried out under the direction of the Master (Major J. H. B. Hesse), and varied from rounde to Surprise methods.
The customary service was held, and, in the absence of the Vicar (tite Rev. G. L. Wanstall) through indisposition, was conducted by the Rural Dean (Canon Tringham), who gave an address on "Worship.
Afterwards a company of over 60 gat down to tes, the Master prebiding. He thanked Canon Tringliam for his address, and the Vicar for having permitted the festival to be held in Chertaey, expressing the hope that Mr . Wanstall would quickly recover his health
M H . J. S. Goldsmith (hon. genersl secretary) welcomed the visitors, among them Mr. G. T. Coles (1on. secretary of the Middlesex County (Continued in next columb.)

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, July lith, a very successful meeting of the Southern Division was held at tho five-bell tower of Twinelana, an isolated Sussex misge of 280 inhabitants. Of the pleasant peaf of swe, two bells date back to Reformation times, while the tenor was recast and two trebles adced by Mears in 1912.
No meeting of the assaciation lat previously been held there, and, despite somewhat unpromising Feather and the diffculties of transport, 24 ringers were present. ## IMPORTANCE OF GERVIGE RINGING.

Some 70 members, remresenting 21 towers, as well as wisitors from Bristol and Newport, attended the ammal meeting of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association at Minelsead on suly 4 th. Tonches were rung on the bells of St. Michael's (Minehead), Dinster and Carlampton Churches, sud after the association form of serviee, conducted in St. Michael's Clurch by the Rev. W. Almitage (deputisinct for the Vicar, the Rev. G. E. Kuapp-Fisher', tea was Followed by the amand meating, at which the chall was occupied for the first items on the agenda by M.r. Th. Grant, of Bath. The report and balance sheets wore adopted.
After refering to the reeply-regretted death of the Master (the Rex, E. C. S. Lack, of West Pennard), Mr. J. T. Dyke, the hon. secretary, in his report, recorded biat the association continued to grow. The outstanding prrformances of the past year on tower bells were peals of London. Bristol, Supartative and Surprise Minor, on which bands of ringers at Thanton, Wilton and Chileompton were to be congratulated. Fe made partioular reference also to a peal of Grandsire Triples on handhells at Tasntion, and pointed out that though loandsel] ringing required a different technique fiom ringing on tower bells, there was no donbt handbell ringing ted to imploved striking on tower bells. The report mentioned that a Jabile peal at Timsbury was are to the determination of the conductor who, with a hroken leg, eat in the tower and called the peal.

Following in reference to progress made as a result of regular weelsiy practices organised by Mr. H. J. Sanger, of Evercreech, the report recorded progress in service ringing-the primury object of the association. Mr: Dyke observed that it was an axiom that keen ringers were the most regnar, of service ringers. Nolininy in the way of practice ringing should he done for service. It should be what a bmad could do best, even if it were only call changes. Occasionally there were reasons why hells conld not he rung twice on Sumdays, but he felt there was room for an increase in service ringing. Tn many towers the leells wero rung longer and oftener for practice than for service, and clergy somelimes had a legitimate grievance in this respect. Churchmanship shonla] come first, and then there would be no room for criticism.

TNFRFQUENT BROADCASTING.

commented on the very infrequent
Somerget bells, and expressed the hope broadeasting of Somersel bells, and expressed the hope that shonld any Somerset ringers be asked to broadenst, they would make careful preparation ju seleotion of the band and the method to be pung, and arrange tliat the bells came into rounds before the amomeer gave details of the service. Somerset ringers elid not want aspersions cast on their striking through lack of organisation.
Tho balance sheet showell a credit balatuce of 870 lls ., but the report poinfed ont that owing to a fall in branch returns and inereased expenses, the association was mable to transfer any money to tho Betl Fund, on whiel, liowever, there was a satisfactory halance.
Mr. J. Fint Thunton (representative to the Central Conncti) mentioned that a well-known London ringer, Mr. T. E. Davis, had patented a methon to avoid complaints of noisy bells. The system. said Mr. Funt, consialed of attachiug to either side of the ball of the elapper of ench bell : piece of lanther (thick or thin, as the case might be aecording la this size of the bolls) eovered with a thin steel plate. The president of the Central Gouncil had described the method as very effective. Mr. Hunt: mentioned that the cost of applying the sygtem to a peal of eight, bells woule be fil.
Referring to the importance of maintaining 'The Ringing World,' Mr. Hunt said the association would have to consider a suggestion of assoniations throughont the combtry sulberibing 30 s . or $\mathrm{F}_{2}$ to subsidise the journal

BELL BROADCASTS.

TUBLIC AND KINGERS WOULD APPRECIATE IMPROVEMENT Sir,-Mr. Ridyard does nat reply to the question asked in the second paragraph of noy previons letter, liut I an very pleased to note that the matter which was ventilated at the Central Council meeting, viz. the quality of the ringing in some recent hroadcasts, may be discussed at the fortheoming anmal meeting of the Lancoshire Association. I can well imagine that the oficials and members of that association will welcome the opportunity of offering lielpful suggestions and gnidance to ringers at towers from which bell broadeasts may be arraitged in the future, and auy improvement that could be effected would most surely be appreciated by the public generally and ringers in particular.

Handsworth Wood, Birminglam.

'THE MORE EXGELLENT WAY

Dear sir,-In reply to the letter re the St. Hetens broadenst, I wish to suy that if any of my statements at the Gentral Conncil meeting were inaccurate, I apolorise to the St. Hetens ringers.

With regard to ny statement remarding the discouraging of the ringing of rounds and call clanges for broadcaste, I have no desire to withluraw that. The St. Helens men most certainly did the right thing when they rang rounds and call changes for their broadcast, and that they received congrabilations seems to me the only bright snot in comnection with recent Lancaslive broadeasts.

For ny own part, I think that ten to fifteen minutes is far too long to be ringing ronnds and calt changes for a broadcast. Those who have the late Rev. F. E. Robinson's book can read for themselves what used to happen when hands of expert ringers went on tour in Devoushinw and Cornwall. When some of the band were engaged in peal ringing, those who stood out were endeavouring to persuade the local ringers to leaw "the much more excellent way' of change ringing as compared to stoney, stc.

In my opinion, the B.B.C. ought now to discontinue the interval broadeast of Bow Bella, and instead of the call changes which we at present get, substitute and have recorded for reproduction through the microphone a touch of change ringing. I feel sure the band who raig the call changes coald ring an equally weal-strick touch cluanges.

GEORGE R. NFWTON.
A SUCOTSSFUL BROADCAST.
Dear Sir, T listened to the broadenst of the bells from Wilmalow Parish Church on Sunday afternoon and thaught that the Doublea the rang were excellent, Non-ringing friends in the room also remarked how mice they sommen, and, of course, were not a bit concerned about the nethod. Sumely no other method could have sounded better on these bells, becarise the hells were well struck.
I venture to sumgest that the non-rimyer listener prefers to hear the tenor behind. however humble the method may be.
Although change rimpers probably like to lear the most advancod methods rant, we must not be too selfish and overlook the fact that riugers form a very smalk percentage of the listencrs \{robably not more than one per cent.), and it is onr object to please and win over the 99 per cent.

ARCHBISHOP DEDICATES JUBILEE BELL

NEW TREBLE ADDED AT WARFHORNE GFURCH, KENT

A new treble bell, dedicated by the Archbishap of Ganterbury hefore it was hung, has been added to the ring of five at Warehorne Church, Kent, whiola stands at the edge of Romney Marsh and the Weald of Kent. The church is in the patronage of H.M. the King, acting through the Lord Clancellor. The old towar contained fiwe hells in 1625, and in 1770 the tower was struck by lightining and the structure fell. The tower was rebuilt, and in 1776 minother stage added and the present bell frame put in, with the extra framing for a sixth bell.
In 1913 the 3 red and 4 th bells were recast and the old frame strengthened by Mr. A. Bowell, of Ipswich, Suffolk. At that time a mew hell was warted, but funds have not allowed it to be added until this year. It was inteuder, if funds were available, that the new treble bell to make six shonld be put in as a lasting memorial of the late King George's Silver Jubilee. However, this was not possible inst year, but through the efforts of the new Rector (the Rev. W. G. Ivens), the new hell vang out for fing time on Monday, July bth, after dedication by the Archbishop of Ganterbury on the preceding day, and belore the bell was hoisted into the tower.
The new bell bears the inscription, 'Silver Jubilee, 1935-36. Gast by Alfred Bowell, Tpswich.'
After the service the Archbishop visited the belfry, and the founder and ringers present wers introtuced to his lordship.

Criticism of Extra-Territorial Peals.

The ammal report of the Winchester and Portsmontli Diocesau Guild rafers to peals vung for one association in the area of another, and guggests that where rimgers ning peals liev should do so for the associntion in whose thea the tower is siluated.
The report was presented to the ammal general meeting, held at Southampion on Saturday, July 4th. The following towers were represented: Alresford, Bishopstohe, Christchurch, Curdridye, Eling, Farcbrim, Noztli Stoneham, Overton, Porlse, Ringwood, Solserton, Sasthampton (St. Mary's and Holy Rnod), Twyford, Upham, Wickham and Winchester, A welcone was extended to Mr. S. E. Armatrong (hon seeretary, Sussex County Association) and Mcssrs. Frank Bennett (Brighton) aud visitors from Christow, Poole and Walsall. Dutine the aftemioon the towers of St. Mary's and St. Mifhacl's Churches were open for yinging, after which the busimess meeting was held in the Chanliry Hall.
The Master (Mr. A. Wifliams) presided, supported by the general secretary (Mr. F. W. Rogers) and hon. treasmrer (the Rev. Etan Jones). The last named presented the accounts, which slowed that the balance on the treasurer's account hat increased to 8917 s .7 d . from $£ 7988$. 2d. in the previous year, the receipts from the districts having anomited to foll 6 s 8:t. Crrants from the General Purposes Fund amounting to $£ 775$. hat bean made. and the balance in this fund was 84812 s . 6 d . Tta additiun the districts lad in hand an aggregate of $£ 7316 \mathrm{~s}$. 7d.
The Master said le thought this showed the fatild was in a strong financial position.

The acconnts were Adopted and the treasurer and district secretaries thanked for their contribution to this satisfactory state of affairs.

The reprot, which was also adopted, said subscriptions from members shower a futher increase, and thero were now 756 ringing members and 179 honorary members, almost half of the latter being in the Winchester District. There was not wuch to report in the way of restoration work, although it was haped during the coming year to have the peals at Alresford and Soberton put jui fithti. Fortr-five peals were recerded in 1935, against 37 in 1934, in 29 different towers, with 14 conductors. It was irgretted that only six peals were rung in the Andover, Basingstoke, Christchurch and Winchester districts. Of these, three were rung by hatuds chiefly resident outside these listricte. It was hoped that a little more keenness wauld be displayed faring ths present year. Regret was expressed Lhat three peals had been rung for the Guild outside the two clioceses and also that adjoining guilds hat rung and clained peals within its territory. The report continued: 'Some ringers are notorionsly mean, but it is, to put it mildly, disconrteons to ring a peal for one society $\mathrm{i}_{\mathrm{n}}$ another's aren unless it be rung for a nou-territorial society. If ringers must go into rdjoining lands for peals, they might at least pay the small fee necessary to join the appropriate society

The offects were re-elected efi bloc. It was decided to send a letter of congratulation to one of the past presidents fromerly Bishop of Portsnouth) on his preferment to the See of Snlishary.

THE CEN'RAI COUNCIL'S WORK.

The representatives on the Gentinl Commil gave a varied report of the proneedings at the recent session in London. It was generally agreed by then that the most important conmittee at the presert semed to be the Literatare, Press and Broadcasting Committee, seeing that it affected the relationship belween the Fxereise and the public. It was manimonsly agreed that the joint effors of that commitiee and the B.B.C. should be directod towards eumaring that only the very best of ringiug should be broadcast. 11. was also very pleasing to note that in the report of this committee the rement broadcast from St. Mary's, Portsea, liad come in for special mention and commendation.
It was unamimonsly decitied to hold the moxt ammal meeting at Petersfichd, on the first Salurday in July, 1937.

Mr. G. I'ullinger thew ont the suggestion that the Guild should approach the Salisbury Diocesan Cuild with a riew to issuing a joint invitation to the Central coumeil lo hold its next meeting tiu the south, at Bourucmouth.-This was agreed to.

THE RINGING WORID.'

The guestion of promoting the cirenation of 'Tho Ringing World ? among ringers was introduced for tiscussion, rnd it tras agreed that the Excreise without a ringing journal wonld, in time, be nlowst at atalenate Several suggestions were put forward, among which it was suggested that associations might copy their example nud insert a free advertisement in their annal reports, urging members to purclase the paper. It was agreed to ask districts to fring to the notice of the moubers at each guarterly meeting the mecessity of maintaining a ringing paper

After a varipd disenssion it was moposed by M1. W. Andrews and seconded by $\mathrm{Mr}_{\mathrm{r}}$ G. Pulinger that the following suggestion be adonted with a view to invensing support for a larger and cheaper journal:-
'To reprine, with the Editor's permission, ile leading article, "Maintaining nt Ringers' Jonmal " in "The Ringing Worla" of Jily Jrd, and to eirculate to all towers in the Ginid, together with a circular inviting then to state how many of their ringers would modertake to become regular purchasers of that journal if redued to $2 d$. per copy.

This was unaninously agreed to, and the secretary hoped to the able to report the result of this effort at the Central Committee's nert meetimg
Before the meting clased, the members atood in siletce as an expression of sympathy with the relatives of old menbers who had died durring the year.

At the couclusion of the business votes of thataks were accorded the Rector of St. Mary's and tim Vicar of St. Michael's and Holy Rood for granting the use of the bells, and to Mr. J. W. Faithfull in making the necessary arrangements.

BELLS AMONG OTHER IUBLIC NOISES.

Aflerwards the members attended service in St. Mary's Clutheh, the Guild office being conducted by the Rev. Evan Jones (Vicar of Hedge End and hon. troasurer). The preacher was the Rector (the hev. Canon R. J3. Jolly, whose text was "In that day shall there be upon the helle of the horses, holiness unto the Lord' (Zaclariala xiv., 20). Referting to present-day noises, he spoke of the public worship of the noises of aeroplanes, wireless and, to them in Sonthampton, had come the latest, the deep boom of the "Queev Mary." He asked the gnestion, on whal ground havd we, as ringers, to add to all this, by the ringing of our churoh bells? The peaple in close proximity to the charch wanted to know, move so than flose who lived next door to the blatamt sounds emerging from a wireless shop. He resented the suggesfion of classing out dear old bells with all these modern upstarta. From the earliegt days they had becu associated with the message of oun Lord. First with the early Cluristians and then, when the ringing of chureli bells was prohibited, the Cursor went from house to honse announcing when and where the services would be held. By Whe geventl century hells were in commoal use. The great bellat sonl of the Abliess, Hilda. To-day our bells played their pat in timea of mational rejoicing or sorrow, uparle from their religious purpose. What conld hawe been more impressive than listening to the boom of Big Ben in the broadeast of the passing of our beloved George $V$. The messtge of the bells speaks from youth to age. It laad become part of the life of English folk, so dreadfuly missed when one was called to distant lands. "Why do we refer to some of ont bells as Big Ben, Great Paul, Big Tom of Lincola, Great Peter of Txeter, etc. P" asked tho speaker. "Why do we give them these nicknance? We ouly give people nicknames becanse they bave a personality and are affectionately regarded by us. It is for this reasor and this veason only that we give our bells these names. They are part and parcel of our very We, as ringerg, shotuld consider it a religious duty and a privilege to ring our bells:' It is a reltgious act, he continned, nssociated with the work of God in this land, and le urged them to do as the parson was oifen told. 'practice what you preach.' Referring again to his opening remarks, he said that the modern world worshipped sounds like the deep hoom of the 'Qteen Mary' ; it stood for sometlintis which represeated size and speed. He would be the last to belitlle the marvels of our national craft and workmanship, but one could not help notioing the mancessary publicity and hero worship of onr moderis day. What a difference there was in the tremendous send-aff given this lnuge ship to that given to one that left the shates of Sonthampton in 1600 with 102 sonls on hoard, with poor machinery and In latmemn to ateer them to a land they lad wever seen before. which iook four and a half months and not $4 \frac{1}{2}$ days to cross the Allantic. He referred to the "Mayflower,' with the Pilgum Fathers on board, who carried a carge of ideals with them. In conclusion, he bade fis heavers rejoice in the fact that they were called to high service in the Clurch, to malee their roice sound above all noises, and cmploy their fullest powers in the service of God for the good of His Ghinch here, and for the glory of His Name.
After service the members sat down to tean in the Chantry Hall, after whic! tho Thector expressed his delight at meeting the memhers and hoper they had lad a pleasant time
M. W. Andrews, in reply, thanked Canon Jolly for his wishes and also anmonneed to the gathering the face that Messrs. Trylor and Co.

This hed been made foossible by the generosity of the Friends of the Cathedral and a munficent grant from the Barion Bell Trust, fo whom they iendered their warment appreciation and thanks.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM.

A VJSIT TO KNOWLE

The quarterly meeting of St. Martiu's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held at the Parish Ghurch, Knowie, oul Saturday, July 4th. The village of Knowle is situated about 12 miles from Birmingham, on the mnin Birmingham and Warwick road, within the Forest of Arden. It contains mary fine half-timbered houses, a particularly good example being the White Swan, which bas recently been scherluled as an ancient monument.

The church dates back to the 15 th century, having been built on the remaius of ath old chapel, which is mentioned in 1217. The nave has nn oxceptionally fine timber roof, and there is also a very good chancel sereen with wonderful carwing. The tower contains eight bells, which were rehung by Taylor's about four years ago. These were kept going in variaus methods until 4.30 , when the Guild's form of service was conducter by the Vicar, wlo also save a very interesting address, Ho mentioned that, in looking through some old church accounts, he came across anl iten for a set of ropes, 95 .: and 12 months later another item for it set of lopes, costing 8s. 4d. There were three bells in those days, but ewidently tho value of money was much greater then than now.
Teal was served in the Guild House, adjoning the church, and this was rollowed by the busimess meating, at which the Ficar presided. Apologies for non-attendanca weve read from the Master, Alderman T. S. Prichetb, Vice-President Mr, James George and Vice-President Mr. Gouncillor A. Paddou Smith.
The secretary referred to the deatll of Mr. Joseph Jolmson, who wre the youngest sous of Heury Johnson, thso to the death of Mr. W. Cooper, of Perry Barr, another old member of the Cuild, the company standing for b few moments as a mark of respect. The $\begin{gathered}\text { eecretary also }\end{gathered}$ welcomed Mr. John Neal, who had not heen well for sone 15 montlis. They were pleased to see him at the meeting, lre said, although not very well, and wished him a speedy and complete festoration to good health.

THE NOISE OF CHURCH BELLS.

More and more attention is being focussed in these days upon church bells, partly by the wider notice which is being accorded to them in the Press and partly by the fact that, among some sections of the public, bells are classed indiscriminately with all the rest of the noisy things which are tending to make modern life intolerable. We weicome the action of the general Press, which puts the art of change ringing and the services rendered by ringers in proper perspective before the public. When this is done we have nothing to fear from the influences which are spread, but we need to beware of the activities of those who would condemn church bells, not only particularly, but generally with all other noises which are classed among the nuisances' which reformers declare are driving the population to distraction, are breaking down their mental stability, and should be suppressed.

It is refreshing to find, in this connection, a protest against classing the sounds of church bells with the din of ' modern upstarts,' made by a preacher of the standing and influence of Canon R. B. Jolly. Vicar of the important parish of St. Mary's, Southampton. Clergy, generally, would be rendering a great service to the Church if they more often took this line. If they would emphasise to their parishioners and to the public generally the proper place which the sound of the bells occupies in church and nationa! life, they would serve an end not less important than they have in view by constantly reminding ringers of their duty to attend the services for which they ring. The clergy often tell us how much they value the work of ringers. Their remarks are always appreciated, but we should value them still more if they were sometimes made in the presence of the parishioners and if occasionally the clergy would point out to the people the purpose of the bells and the aims of the ringers. It might help to allay the feeling, which certain sections of the public seek to spread, that church bells are among the public nuisances.

This, however, does not mean that ringers themselves should not do what common sense shows might be done to allay public opposition to their activities. There are admittedly many instances up and down the country where the church bells, especially if rung for any lengthy period, can become a source of annoyance to most who live close to the tower. Where the sound is overpowering, it is to the interests of everyone, ringers included, that steps should be taken to allay the trouble. The Towers and Belfries Committee of the Central Council have devoted considerable attention to this matter of late, and we would once more urge that ringers, not only where there are actual com-

TRURO RINGERS' TRIBUTE.

MEMORIAL TABLET TO THE LATE MR. WILLTAM PYE.

A service was held in St. Stephen's Church, at which a procession, consistivg of a crossbearer, servers, the Rev. W. H. In. Trewhella (holr. secrotary of the Guild), the Rev. T. J. Gilbert (Rector of St. Stephen and hon. secretary of the Mid-Cormwall Association), went down to the belfry during the singing of the hymn, "They whose course on earth is o'er.' In the belfry the Rector dedicated a tablet conmemorating the last penl conducted by the late Mr. William Pye. This tablet is an exceedingly fine one of bronze, and was made by Mr. W. G. Hiscolit, a member of the Guild, and who was preselt at the festival. As the procession returned to the chancel, abont twe dozen well-struck rounds were rung on the hells lyw the St. Stephen's ringers. The sermon was preached by the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella, wlo took for his text Joslun iv., 21, 'What mean these stones?' and said perhaps qume would be asking what means this tallet? He pointed out that Mr. Pye was the greatest ringer that lad ever lived, and not only did he set out to achieve great things himself, but also to lend others on to achieve great thinge.
Tea was served in the Cluroh Fall, at which Let.-Col, C. F. Jerramz (Ringing Master) thanked the people of St. Stephen for their work in connection with the [estival, and welcomed the visitors. ## FOR BEGINNERS.  STEPS IN ITREBLE BOB.

To get an to what are sometimes called the "higher mothods," from the Plain Bob stage, the young ringer lias got to master the principles of Treble Bab ringing. The Surprise methods are really Treble Boh with an elabornted worls for the working bells; and the basis of Treble Bob is a 'dodging' luutt by the treble.
In plain hunting, a bell moves to and fro, from front und lack and back to front, one place at a time, without interuption. The troble does this in Plain Bob and so do the ofher bells, except that when the treble leads, one of them raakes second's and the rest, stopped in their courses, step back one place before going ou again. This step back constibutes a dodge.

In a Treble Bob hunt, however, this dodge has to oceur in all the dodging places, that is, in $1-2,3-4,5-6$, ete., both up ant down. If you ring the treble, you strike your first blow in changes in 2nd's place, dodge, or step back olle place to strike a blow at lead (which will be at backstroke), and then hunt up until you come to 3-4. Actually, having led, you go forwavd three steps befove stepping back again; but it is best, to start with, if fou count your way up to 4 th's and then dodge back to 3rd's. Then count your way up to 6 lh's, before starting butck to 5th's.
If you are ringita Major, you go on to 8th's before steppiag back to 7 hh's, but if it is Minor, hawing renched Gula's, you complete a whole pull behind mad begin to donge down. Yon make a blow in 5 Lh's, step brek to Eth's, count your' way down to 3 rd's, step back to 4 th's, connt your way to lead, where you have one blow at handstroke, step back to Rud's and then lead your whole pull.
That is the Trehle Bob hunt for the treble in every lead. In the same way every other bell, beginning, of course, in its respective place, cat jing a lead by dodging in this why, and if you are a young band, a fow sucln leads, until you grasp this rdea of "dodening in every place, as it is sometimes called, is mot bad practice, but you must remember that if you do this, $y$ an will have a repetition of dhanges-which does not really matiter for this purpose.
If you find a difficulty in your 'ropegight,' it will help you to hunt from place to place if you rememher that the bell you strike over both before and aftor youl step bark is one nud the same. This enables you to look round a little more confidently for your mext belf.
In Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, on any number of bells, this dodging hunt is pursued by every bell after it has got above 4th's place, but all the bells do mot dodge in $3-4$ every time, and mone at all in 1-2 maless it is with the treble. It is these variations in the worl that make the method.
In Kent Treble Bob, whieh is constiered the easiest methorl of this kind to begin on, chicfly liceause it daes mot break the Plain Bobs coursing order of the bels, the bells in 34 make places instead of dodring when the treble itself is below then in 1-2. A bell coning down from hehind makes a whole pall in qu's, followed immediately by a whole pull in Jrd's, and correspondingly the bell comiug from the front makes 3 rd's, followed by 4th's. Two pairs of bells do this in each lead-all the rest dodge when they come to 3-4 (or 4-3, on the way down).
There is one other piece of work which needs explaining. It is known is the 'slow' work, because it keeps one bell fin $1-2$ from the time the treble leaves the lead until it gets back again.
This bell is the one which dodges with the treble, after, the latier lass led, aud when the freble goes awrey it alternately leads a whola pull and lies a whole pull in Znd's place (each tine over a difterent bell) until the trelile gets brek again to dodge with it. It is the making of this 2nd's place which canses all the dodgimg albove it. This bell is one of those which, going in, makes 4 th's and 3ral's, and, going out, makes 3nd's and 4 thr's. It is well to know that all these places in $3-4$ are made the 'wrong' way: that is at backstroke and handstroke. The series of whale pulls made in 2nd's place in the slow 'are, lowever, all made the right way:
To ring Treble Bob, it is not really necessary to oonstruct a table showing the work of every lead, because except in $1-2$, and in $3-4$ when the treble is in 1-2, every bell dodges in every dodging place. From $4-3$ every bell runs straight in to lead and stiaight out arann to 3-4, nomess if is going into or coming out of the "slow.'

The important thing is to know when these places in $3-4$ ate to be made and when the slow work is coming.
You make places in 4-3 (down) in two leads in succession. Before pou come to the first one, you will liave passed the treble (in Minor) in $4-5$; before you come to the second you will dodge with the treble in 5-6 (up), the treble belug the bell that dodges down with your. Fou lunt down behind the treble and dodge with il in 2-1. You then complete the Slow work, and make places in 34 on the way out (having dodged with the trehle in 1-2). You dodge your way round to 4-3 (down), hunt in and lead a whole puli, puss the treble in 2-3 and repeat the places.

You ave then free of place-making natil you again pass the treble in 45; if it is in Major, until you pass the treble in 6-7:
A Gob is simply made. All the bells above 4 th's. having met and begun to dedge in pairs, have an offifioner dowble dorfoc when a hob is called; that is, instead of stepping back once they step back three times. The bell that passed the treble in 2-3 and is making (Continued in yext column.)

BURITON RINGERS JOIN WINCHESTER GULLD.

PORTSMOUTH DISTRICI'S ENIOYABLE MJETING.

A quarterly meeting of the Portsmonth District of the Whachester and Portsmouth Diocessal Guild was held at thuiton on Saturday July 18th, when members attended from Blackmoon, Catherington, ELavant, Petersfield, Portsmouth (St. Mary's), Steep, Soberton, Titchfield and Wiekham. The local band welconed the wisitors, it being the first time the Guild had held a meeting ab Buriton. The ring of six were kept going during the afternoon in a variety of methods. The Guild service was conducted by the Rector (Canon O. S. Marley),
An excellent tea was served at the loeal inn, affer which the husiness meeting was held, the Ikector being voted to the chair. On the proposition of Mr. F. Dudnan, seconded by Mr. F. W. Rogers, Cant. E. P. Bickfond was elected an honorary member of the Guild. This was carried with acclamation, the secretary reminding the members that Capt. Bickford was taking a great izterest in getting Sobertou bells restored.
The following ringing members were then electer an the proposition of Mr. A. T. Greenwood, secanded by Mr. F. S. Bayley : R. V. Gockle (Bishop's Waltham), R. Robinson (Portsea), T. ## THE OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

SEVEN NEW TOWERS AFFILIATE.
Importance of Parliamentary Representation
The annual meeting of the Oxford Diocesan Guild took place at Oxford last Saturday, and was attended by a large number of members from all parts of the diocese. At the service in the cathedral the prayers were said by Canon Coleridge, the lesson was read by the Rev. C. C. Inge, Rural Dean of Oxford, and the sermon was preacbed by the Deputy Master of the Guild (Rev. C. Elliot Wigg).
Mr. Wigg gave a thonghtfal discourge, which lre piefaced with a reference to a seme from shakespeares 'As Yon Lake Iú in place of the usual text. He said that the most importaut timegs in England to-day were not the most olwions, like thaterial prosperity and scientific progress, but things less obvions and more findanental, the settled order of sociely, the healthy pleasames of sucial life, happy unted homes, and the depp things connented with religion, Retigion gives a point of contact hetween murselvag and what is rreater than ourselves ahd is permancut. If a nath says that teligion is nothing to him, whut he means is that he does not fnow what veligion is.

CANDN G. F. COLERIDGE,
Who has again been elected Master of the 0xford Diocesan Guild.
In the dark ages the Chureh stood for social order and security, and rodiay slae still stands [or order and all that is lest in life, The bells speak to us of the true ralne of human life aut of the deeper truthe. Let us listen to them.
The business meting followed inmantely in the Chapler Fouse, Ganou Caleridge, the Masier, wesided, sumported by the Deputy Master, the hou- secretary (Mr. R. T. Hiblecti) and the hou. treasurer (Mr'. A. J. Wright). The anmial reports of the officers were taken as printad. They were short and show stendy progress in the dife and work of the Guild. A slight flecrease had takens place in the numbers, both of the henornry and ringing menlbers, bat at the end of 1935 there were 219 of the former and 2,391 of the later, wits 251 towers in mion, which ensily places the Guild among the two or three largest in the country. During the year seven towers lad joined and 116 peals had been rumg. which incladed several in new Surprise methods, and many joung ringers took part in their frst peal.
Mr. Barker was elected treasurer in the place of Mr. Wrimbt, who ifter long service, wished to retire.

A long discussion ensued as to the place of next yenr's meeting. Oxfard was proposed and seconded, and Reading as un amendment. Then another proposal was put forward to hold ans antuman meetiog at Reading in addition to the summer one at Oxford. In the end both meetings at Reading were negatived and Oxford agreed to by a large majority.

REYTSTON OF GUILD SERVICE

A propobal had been made to tevise the Guild's serviee hook, and a sith-emmittee had been appomted, but had not met. They wore now inseructed to d.y so and to report to the next amaal general meeting. Grants tewards restoration funds were made to several fowerg, and a furtier grant was promised to Streathey it the six bells there were increased to eight. A grant of five guineas promised by the Gecteral Committee to ble William Pye Memorial Fubd was emufined.
In giving ant account of the meeting of the Central Council in Loudon, Cam Coleridge-urged the mecessity for greater supporl being given to 'The Ringing Wurld.' Ringers conld yol do withont the paper and yet ouly a haudfut of them bought il. If everyone in the Oxford Diocesan Guild hougtt a copy, they could have a bigger and better paper at less costr than at present. He also mentioned that Eord Slhaftesbury bad heen elected member of the Conncil, und said that ringers hat now a represendative in Parliament. who would look after their interests in case they were threatened by anything bike a noise abatement bill

CONSIDER 'HHE FBRRING

As the British Medical Association was holdirg a series of meetiags in Ox[ord, the great hall of Christ Church College was not available, but an excelleat luucheon was served at the Cariax Assembly Rooms. At the close the Master yove the loyal tonst and the National Anthem was shng. The Rural Dean proposed the bealth of the Guild, and Mu, R. T. Fibbert that of the Master. In thanking the company, the Chanoll salid he now felt as well as ever he did, and he hoped to serve the Guild as long as possible, luut last autimn he had a very bad sime. It siarted with his left shouldec, went slown his leg and so all over his hody until every bone in his hody save omly one knee cap ached. When lue told $: 1$ riend about it, the other peplicd that he had much to be thankiul for. The Almighty might have crented him a herring! Dr. Joyce gave the toost of "The Visitors," and Mr. J. A. Trollope replied.

During the day there was kingitg at many of the kowers of the colleges and parish churches. Oxford is one of the very besf. places in England in which to hobl a ringers' meating. It is frill of lovely and interesting buiklings and las pleaty of belts. It womld le an ideal place for a Tand to spend a week's lolitay in if you could only get rid of the fownsmen, fisitors and miversity people. The bells at the Cathedral, the 'bomy Christ Church bells,' are ane of the most famus rings in England. They are a mixed lot, but quite pleasing 10 listen to. The ten at New College are a lot of old pots, andi Magdalen bells, for all the kind things that have been said about then, wre not much better, We did not lear the eight at Merton.

BY COACH AND TRAIN TO DISTANT TOWERS.

CRAYFORD RONGERS IN NORTHANTS.

On Saturday, July 4th, the band of St. Panlinus', Crayford, minus those who could not tear themselves away from duty, plus a few friends, hed their 'amnual.' Setting out by coach from Crayford at 7.15 p.m., they had it few stops to plek up stagoters, and then non-stop-except for traffic lights-to Stony Sthatford, where the local pilot, Mr. Percy Anos, wats abserved scrutinising all coach index plates for signs of a course end. Taking his post 'on the bridge,' or rather beside the driver, be proceeded to pilat the company down lance and byways and over bridges, tecalling Blackpool seenic railway, round a buirpin bend where two lorries had just had a forcible argument, to the old-world village of Wicken, where Mr. A. J. Green and his son were in atiendazce. This handy, well-toned peal were put into antion to Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Fols and Bristol. As there were foul more towers on the list and a long ride home, the bells were lowered in peal and a quick adjoumment made to Wicker's rest house (to find the deiver) before dodging back into Bedfordshire again to Brombam. Unfortanately, the luells there were not heard at their best, as there was $\pi$ constant rush to "hear them outside,' aud it was only with the help of Mr. Tjsoe that the eight were kept going. The writer was one of the unlucky ones who was not artfil enough to get out, but, it must be recovied that the bells were a freat, to listen to inside, cwen if a bit on the noisy side. Here the visitors were epared the job of lowering, as there was meating later, and it is firmly beliewed that had it not been for the distance to wall home, some of tha party. world have deserted and spent the afternoon there, After another bried spell to enjoy the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Twsoe, the party tumed back again over the connty border to Oney, twhere Mr . Roswell was patiently waiting. It was evident that the visitors had had goorl advice in the choice of peale, for bere again a 25 cwt. ring were well worth the journey. The standard methods wero once more attarked, an tottch to suit everybody, a fall in peal and on to Norlhampton, where everyone fele they hat carned a good lunch (it was nuw 3 p.m.). Thamks to the pilot's arrangements, all were satisfied. A visit to St. Giles', Nortimmpton, where Mr. W. Rogers was wailing, lirourgh forth Stedman and trandsire Caters, few 'firsts ' nuron them. A quick lobk round the fanous Round Clurch followed heforo setting out for the finale- Finedon. This what reached at 6.15 , nud two of the company deciden to find Ton Hensher before going up into the tower. This was a load move, for he had gone to find the party, and lay the time they land got to the church Tom had retnmed to attend to business. However, they did evensthally meet with several more of the Finedon hand, and all sorts of antics wero indulged in up to and including Cambridge Major

Nong of the party had eviclently realised how happily Host Hensher was situater lo make a parby feel at home, or they would have doubtless "cat the nakle ${ }^{\text {and }}$ made a move earlier in the day, and so had longer to spend at Tinedon, but, alas, 'twas too late. The driver of the coach scemed to be fervibly, concerned ahout 'lis job to-morrow," and one liy one he enllected liss fares and eventually set ont on the return journey just after 8 p.in., reaching Crayford at 11.30 . The thanks of the company are here tendered to Messrs. Green, of Wicken, Tr. tysoe, of Bromham, Tr. Boswell, of Olney, W. Rogers, of St. Giles', Northamplon, and T. TR. Hensher and those of the local company at Finelon who all assisted to make the day an enjoyable one, and last, bul not least, to Mr. Percy Amos for actiog as pilot for the day, aud who assisted greatly in the arrangements which went off so smoothly.

J.OW ESTOFI RINGERS MAKE MERRY

As it is the usual practice among the bellinging fraternity to take a 'busman's holiday' at least once a year, the baud from St. Margaret's, Lowestoft, sallisd forth in search of adventure on an afternoon in July with the blessings of the Clerk of the Weather. Peter Simple's version of a bellringers' outing is worth quoting from "The Morming Post.' He says the ringers' idea of fun is to pile into e motor-coach with his peers, malie for some adjoining connty, and there, by kind permission of the local parsons and a sort of freemasomry that prevails among belringers, hie from village to village altematively ringing their bells and sampling their mut brown ale. The first call of the Lowestoft ringers was Woodbridge, with ita beantiful church. Some of the boys seemed somewhat nervous when they saw the dominaking tower will a ring of eight. The tenor, weighing 263 cwt., was in the safe keeping of Trancis Natuton, of Wrentham, and a most enjoyable time was spent there. Retiring to the Bull Fotel, a delightful tea was awaiting them, the special feature being the sixawberries and cream. Onwards to Helmingham, with a slight reduction in the weight of bell metal, the tenor weighing $19 \frac{3}{3}$ cwt. A very pretty spat this, and what a meccn for begimuers! No neighbours to annoy. The last port of call was Framlinghnm, another ling of eight. Here the boys had the unique experience of watching from ahove the actual working of the bells iu peal. After one or two tonches, it was snggested that it was time for refreshment, and ringing adetyities for the day were, therefore, teminated. Brothers Jenny and Baldry (the latter better known as 'Ginger ') caused endless fun among some of the local inhabitants of Tramingham by descending upon the Farriers Arms in joviat spirits, borrowing the landlady's honnet, cont and apron complete, and with pint mugs haring their photogriphs trken as Farmer and Mrs. Giles. The Iandady is to have a copv of the photoyrapl as a memento of the occasion. Fow these young fellows captivated the hearts of the old folks! The return route was made via Saxmundian, and the joumey's find was reached about midnight. The ringers, as a whole, would like to thank Albert E. Colemann and commithec for their effarts in making the day the sueress it was.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

QUARTERLY MEETING AT WYJYE.
A mecting of the Salisbury Branch was licld at Wylye, Wilts, on Salurday, July 18th, and in spite of the inclement wealher, there was a very fair attendanec, riugers beiug present from Salistury st. Martin, Wylye, Witon, Winterboume, Britford, Brenmore, Damer-引am, Kington Magna, Berwick St. John, etc.

The Guild office was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W. I. F. Groves, who atso gave the address, the lesson being read by the Master', the Rev. R. G. Gundry.
Tea followed in the willaye inti aud there was a hrief business meeting, the branch chaiman inviting the Master (who was at one time incumbent af Wylye) to preside, and this he consented to do, supported by whe branch secretary (Mr. F. W. Romainc), the general secretary (the Rev. F. Li. Edwards) and the Rev. H. W. Moule. Arising out of the minutes, the secretary reprorted that the onder of the meetings bad been aldered and Wylye visited this quather in order to afford the Master aul opportunity of attending, he having expressed a wish to be present at a mecting at wylye. At the close of the maecting Mr. Caple proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for the mectin for her services; he likewise welcomed the Master and the general Eecretary to the branch meeting.

The Rector, in replying, expressed the appreciation of the Wylye rangers at being able to entertain the branch so carly in their term of membership; has added that Dr. Tupholme had placed the bells at of membership; has ader that Dispord at the dipposal of the ringers. The Kev. Gumdry also replied, remarking how pleased he was at heing able to attend also rephed, gathering at Wylye. Ringing was then resumed.

THE WILMSLOW BELL BROADCAST.

To the Editor.

Bear Sir, TL is strange how people's idens differ. Mr. W. Cyril Smith thinks that the ringing was excelleut. To my mind, its characterless, deady monotony wes the very antithesis of good change minging. The absence of the open handstrake lead, wilh ine tweble an honourable exception, spoilt completely a clean and otherwise good performance. Por some reason or other, I gained the impression that the bells were not being mint at all, lat chimed by one man an an Ellacombe chiming apparatus.

Eulory in the Press of bell performances should be used with culog Not so long amo a letwer appeared in maisp of cortain zestraint. Not so long aro a e cer appeared privalely, pointing out that one of the hells had not made a clean blow at backstroke during the time the bells were on the air.' Mistaken praise is worse than unconstructive criticism.
Chilcompton, Bath.

THE LADIES' GUILD.

Next year the Ladies' Guild will celebrate its silver jubilee, in the meantime a committee has been appointed to consider the present division of districts with a view to covering the country more effectively. At present there are areas in which the Guild does not actively function, and this is one great drawback to its operations. While the number of lady ringers is considerable, they are a scattered body, and the principal difficulty has been in organisirg self-supporting districts. That the Guild has succeeded in functioning as well as it has done through nearly a quarter of a century is a testimony to the energy and loyalty of those who have held office, and particularly to Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, the general secretary, whose enthusiasm has never flagged.
The Guild was really the outcome of the first peal rung by a company of ladies in 1912, at Cubitt Town. The beginnings were small, but when in the days of the Great War women came into the belfries to replace the men, the number of lady ringers rapidly expanded, and the Guild's purpose and place in the Exercise was more than justified. But even so, there has seldom been a tower with a complete band of ladies, and in many cases where they are to be found in belfries they are only in ones and twos. This has made organisation difficult, and although the half dozen or so districts have held regular meetings, the scattered nature of the membership is bound to make itself felt on these occasions.

The Committee who have the reorganisation of the Guild to consider will not have an easy task. Smaller districts might give members more facilities for attending meetings, but the obstacle to smaller districts is finance. With a nominal subscription of only one shilling a year, a county area with a dozen or fifteen members could do very little. The difficuilies of a large district are that the members are out of touch with the organisation and each other, and only very occasionally can a meeting be held within reach of more than a very few. Moreover, the membership of the Guild seems more 'fluid' than with the ordinary ringers' association. This lack of close touch, coupled with the fact that members not infrequently give up ringing altogether on marriage, leads to lapses of membership which it is very hard to avert or replace. The ladies who carry the brunt of the work are, therefore, to be cordially congratulated upon the success which they have hitherto made of the Guild. There is a place in the Exercise for this organisation, and it is to be hoped that not only will the Guild find a way more effectively to knit together its forces, but that in its jubilee year it will gather energy and (Contimuod on page 494.)

SOME TREBLE BOB METHODS.

In explaining steps in Treble Bab last week we took the example of Kent, because it is probably the easiest of this class of method. There are others, however, very little more difficult, and it may be well if, while on this subject of Treble Bob, we refer to one or two of them, because there is no reason why you should not study something beyond Kent, even while you are perfecting yourself with that method.
The original mothod of Treble Bob was Oxford; Kent did not come on the scenc until much later, and is a simple variant of the former. We explained in the last article that when the treble is in $1-2$ in Kent, 3re's and 4th's places are made by the bells going up and 4th's and 3rd's hy the bells coming down, in substitution for the dodges that wauld otherwise be made.
The canstructional difterence between the two methods is that instead of the bells going out making 3rd's and 4th's and continuing their way up, they make 4th's only and go back to lead; while the bells coming down, instead of making 4th's and 3rd's, when the treble is below them, make 3rd's only, and go ont behind again. If you will compare these figures you will see the difference in the placemaking.

| Kent | Oxford |
| :---: | :---: |
| 231546 | 241536 |
| 213456 | 214356 |
| 123465 | 123465 |
| 21356 | 213456 |
| 124365 | 124365 |
| 142635 | 142835 |
| 412653 | 416253 |
| 146235 | 146235 |
| 416253 | 412653 |
| 461523 | 421563 |

This variation iv the place-making, wile producing different changes within the treble lead, produces the same lead-ends, and a true peal in one method is a trus peal in the oiher:

HOW OXFORD DIFFERS FROM KENT.

The bells doing 'slow work,' that is, lead and Zard's place alternately from the time the treble Ieaves the front until it returns, co it in the same order in Oxford as in Kent, but the conrsing order 'inside the lead is not guite the same, because the phace-making belis change direotion. Immediately before and after the treble's doolging behind, the Plain Boly cousing order is broken, but while that is happeniug the bells in the next dodging place below ( $3-4$ in Minor, $5-6$ in Major) are dodging in courging pairs; when dodging up you dodge with your course bell, and when dodging down, wikh your 'after' bell. As soon, however, as the treble gets away from 34 in Minor, or $5-6$ in Major, the coursing order above it is resumed.

I'he actral rules for ringing the nethod work out like this: If, in Minor, you pass the troble in $4-5$ or dodge 5-6 up with the treble. you make 3 rd's place, and go back up. (You do the sance in Major if you pass the treble in 6-7 or dodge in 7-8.)
If you come ont of the slow work (i.e., dodge on the front with the treble), you make 4th's and go down to lead; if you pass the treble in 2-3 you make 4th's, go back and dodge with the treble and then hegin the 'slow ' work
In all other instances your work is exactly the same as in Kent You dodgrs in all the fodging positions, $3-4,5-6$, etc., np and down and after the 4-3 (down) po straight to lead and up again to 3-4.
When a hoh is made, all the bells above 4 th's place have an extra double docige, that is they "step hacl:" three times instead of once The actual bob is made by the bell which dodged behind with the treble and came down to 3rd's place. Instead of going straight up again, he makes 4th's (which is the bob), and then another 3ri's place, before going back up.
The bells coming out of and going into the slow work are not affected. Each malies 4th's place and returns to the front.
For the young conductor who wants a 720 of Minor in either method, a 'standard' calling, which keeps the 5th and 6th from coming behind the 'wrong' way, is to call the 6th In (into the Slow) and Out with another bob the next lend, and, in the next course, call the 6th In only. Do this three times and you have the extent. Rememher the point mentioned above, that if you are going into the Slow in Kent yon dodge up in 5 -6 with the treble, and follow it down ${ }^{\text {in }}$ Oxford you dodge down in $6-5$ with the treble, and go down in front of it

FARTATION OF ATLLED MTTHODS.

There are other methods closely allied to Oxford-$amdal and Duke of Norfolk, for instance. In the former, Oxford is warted by a bell making 5th's place, when the trehle lies its whole pull hehind; an the latter 2nd's place is made at the treble's whole pull in front, as well us 5th's at the whole pull behind. The result is that in the three methods you get exacily the same changes in a plain course, but they coms no in a different order and consequently the actual work is different.
These three methods of Treble Bobstand in exactiv the same relationship as the plain mettocis, Bob, Reverse Bob and Double Bob.

The placemaking in 3 rd's and 4 th's remains the game in Sandal as in Oxford, but the 5 th's place half-way througla the lead causes a dodgo on the front which changes the bell in Ehe slow work, and a three-pull dodge-that is an additional double dodge, or three steps back instead of one-in 3-4. The hell that dodges in 6-5 down with the treble (after dodging 5-6 up with another bell) makes 5tli's, dodges $5-8$ up with the treble, and 65 down with another bell, before going on down to make 3 rd's place and returns.
The work when the treble is in front is exactly the same as in Oxford, and a bob is also made in the same way.
In Duke of Noriolk you do all that has been explained for Sandal when the treble is behind, but when the treble is in front, the bell which began Slow work wheu the treble was behind urkes 2nd's when the treble leads its whole pull and, dodging again with the treble, remains in the Slow work until the treble gels behind. The time to dodge and come out of the Slow work is after making 2ud's place the second time, and in both Sandal and Duke of Norfolk the dodge is actually in 2-1 (down) after the 2ud's place; therefore, it is necessary to lead another whole pull before going up to $3-\frac{4}{4}$.
This retention of the same bell in the Slow mork after the treble's lead in Duke of Norfolk causes the bells in 5-6 to luave a bliree-pull dodge, and the bells in 3-4 to do a double set of places, with a dodgc between. Thus the bell that comes down makes 3 rd's, dodges in 3 3 np, makes 4 th's and goes down to lead. The behl that comes up does the reverse thing, viz., makes 4th's, dodges in $4-3$ down, makes 3rd's and goes up.
Here is the difference between Oxford aud Sandal behind, and Oxford and Duke of Norfolk in front:-

| Oxford | Sandal | Oxford | D. of N |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 236154 | 236154 | 643125 | 236154 |
| 263514 | 263514 | E34215 | 263514 |
| 625341 | 625341 | 362451 | 625341 |
| 623514 | 623514 | 364215 | 623514 |
| 265341 | 265341 | 632451 | 265341 |
| 256431 | 623541 | 623541 | 623541 |
| 524613 | 265314 | 265314 | 265314 |
| 526431 | 263541 | 263541 | 263541 |
| 254613 | 625314 | 625314 | 625314 |
| 245163 | 652134 | 652134 | 652134 |

The work of Oxford and Sandal is the same when the treble is in front; the work of Sandal and Duke of York is the same when the treble is behind.

From the figures which we have here given, it should be possible for you to construct a lead of each of these three methods, and from the figures draw a diagram of a whola courge. Just try it It may lead your interest to that ligher plane of splicing together a number of such methods into one trie 7ed.
By the way, the calling of a 720 of Sandal is the eame as for an extent of Oxford, exceptr, of course, that the Out is not at the lead following the In.

Ins Duke of Norfolk, however, the cnlling of the tenor must be Wrong, Right and Wrong, the Wrong being the second lead of the course, and the Right at the course end.

Following ter, severnl of the visitors explored the town, whilat others, more onthusiastic, returned to the belfry to take part in touches of Stedman, Graudsire, Kent, Plain Bob and Superlative. Cambridge Major was not successful! At 8 p.m. the ringing ceased, and was iuspected and its many listorical points explainen by the Recton of St. Andrew's, Holborn, and touches of Graudsire, Bob Major aud Double Norvich were rung an the very musical peal of bells in the tower. Auother short run in bine coach through wiuding lanes brought the party to Weston l'atrick, where their Rector and Mrs. Bedford have thei country cottage. They found a meat tea awaitiog them and after enjoying all the good things provided, many availed themselves of the opportunity of looking round the gavdens, while a few cast longing eyes on the swimming pool. Handbell ruging was in dulged in on the lawi, and, before leaving, a hearty yote of thanks was accorded the Rector and Mrs. Bedford for their kind hospitality, also to Miss Wyatt and the helpers at the tea tables. After the rok call had been found to be correct, a move was made to Yateley, the route lying through Odilam and Hartley Row. On arrivai, the visitors were welcomed by the Wicar and Mr. S. J. Riddell, and the bells wers rung in various miethods. This conclutded the ringing activities, and, on arriving back at Reading, the day's pleasures were discussed over a little refreanment at rhe Grapes, all expressing themsolves well pleased with the arrangements made by the secretary Paddington was reached ngain at 11.15 刀. 2 , after a very happy day.

The Chertsey District of the Guildiond Dionesan Guild this year organised an unting, and the experiment proved a complete success. The 'stepping off' place was Fersham Church. ## THREE ASSOCIATIONS FRATERNISE.

CUMBERLAND YOUTHS, SURREY AND GULLDFORD DIOCTSAN RINGERS.
On Saturday, members of the Royal Society of Cumberland Youths, the Surrey Association and Guildfard Diocesan Guild met at Beddington, Surrey, for a combined social gatbering. In spite of ungettled weather, about 40 ingers attended from Banstead, Benhilton, Beddington, Croydon, Carshalton, Lentherhead and Loudon (St. Martin's-In-the-Fields, St. Margaret's, Westminster, St, Luke's, Chelsea, and Willesden), whilst visitors were present from 'Eunbridga Wells and Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock and proceeded until 4.50 p. $\quad$., when the Rector, the Rev. F. V. Bond, mounted the steps to the belfry for the purpose of unveiling a memorial peal board erected in honour of the late Mr. A. J. Trappitt. In the course of his remarks the Rector pointed out that M1. Trappitt had been a member of the Beddington bend for 40 years, and was secretary of the North-Western District of the Surrey Association for nine years. During that time he carried out all his duties conscientiously and well, and attended regularly the meetings of the Beddington band for practices and Sunday service ringing. By his death Beddington had lost a most faithful bellringer.
At the service which followed, the Rector welcomed the three associations to Beddington and invited them to come again. His address took the form of an exposition of the history of Beddington, and particularly of the church, in the course of which lie referred to the recent excavations which had been made in the vicinity, revealing good specimens of Romen and Saxan work. Amongst these relics is the shell of a colfin at least 1,590 years old, in a good state of preservation.
The chest in which it has been placed was unlocked for the oocasion, and many of those present took the opportunity of inspecting it. Tea followed at the Harvest Home, Beddington Lane, and after tea Mr. George H. Grons, Master of the Cumberland Youths, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, and to Mr. Clarles H. Kippin for making all the necessary arrangements for the comfort of the risitors. Tho motion was seconded by Mr. Albert Harman, on behalf of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, and carried with acclamation.

After some good hazdbcll ringigg (Grandsire Caters, Stedman Caters and Double Norwich Major), members retirmed to flae tower, where the bells were kept going till 9 o'clock. The methods rung ranged from Grandsiro Triples to Surprise Royal. A very pleasant afternoon and evening were spent.

BELERY GOSSIP.

The new Vicar of All Saints', Hertford, the Rev. V. TownshendDucker, is a change ringer. A peal of Grandsire Catera, in honour of his induction, was rumg on Saturday.

One often reads in peal reports rung after meeting short for so-and-so, but the peal of Caters at Loughborougl Foundry on Saturday (reported elsewhere) was rucg after mesting over for Major. A new tower has been erected at Surfleat, Lincs, in the demesno of Glyn Garth, but by what seems to bo an extraordinary oversight, no provision has been made for a peal of bells. All that can now be done is for four ringers to sit round the top and ring handbelis. They will be kept warm by the boiler furnece below.
Among the reports of the peals published to-day is one of 5,160 of Minor in seven methods. Included in it was 840 of Woodbine Treble Bob. There is no information as to where in the peal this additional 160 changes was rung or any explanation as to why $\begin{gathered}\text { was included, }\end{gathered}$ but the Central Council requirements for a lengthened peal of Minor are, we behere, that seven true 7g0's slyall be rumg first.
The annual 'bellringers' sermons' will be preached at Coalbrookdale, Salop, on Sunday. One day in the year at this charch is devoted to the interests of the ringerg, and the sermons ou this occasion will be preached in the moming by the Rev. W. G. Beale (Rector of Willey), and in the evening by the Rew. J. H. Hall (Vicar of Shifnal). The offertories at the services go to the ringers' fund.

'ROPE-SIGHT.

NEW EDITION OF A SNOWDON WORK.
Many books of instruction have been published for the benefit of ringers, young and old, from Stedman's 'Tintinnalogia' in 1668 to the Central Council Collections of Methods and 'Hints for Beginuers,' but no book in this category has been in such demand as Snowdon's Rope Sight,' the ninth edition of which has now come from the Press.
Jasper Snowdon lad a lucid pon, and matold thousends of ringers have gained by his paingtaking work, which he fist put into print over half a century aga. There was never a more able exposition of the gromdwork of change ringing than his ' Ropesight,' and that it stiln holds the field as a beginner's text book is proved by the continued demand which has led to the jgsue of so mazy editions.
In the preface to the second edition Jasper Snowdon himself wrote: "Undoubtedly the most picasing acknowledgment of the efforts of tho writer is the demand foy another edition." Jesper Snowdon lins been gone from us for more than 50 years, but lis work lives on and he is atill one of the best 'ingtructors.' The Exercise is indebted to the Snowdon family for continuing to make these works available to ringers.
' RopeSight ' deals in simple lanpuage with the art of ringing from the management of a bell to the proof of Boh Major, taking in its courso Plain Bob from four to eight bells, conductiag and calling round, and even a chapter on bell rope spljcing. It is published at 1s. 10d. post free, and is obtainable from Miss Margaret E. Snowdon, Cartmel, Lanç,

RINGING FROM CHURCH FLOOR.

INTERESTING NOTES BY MR. J. H. SHEPHERD

From time to time ringers visiting fresh churches find that ringing has to be carried out under strange conditions, and comment is often made upon it by correspondents of 'The Ringing World.'

Few. if any, ringers have visited as many towers as Mr. J. H. Shepherd, of Swindon, who makes a hobby of ringivg at 'new towers' and measuring the tenors.

Appended are some notes which he has kindly forwarded to us, as the result of an enquiry some time ago, relating to places where the bells are rung from the church floor.

There are, he writes, several churches in the country where the ringers stand in front of the cbancel as at the two churches mentioned in the county of Somerset (Kingstone and Winsham). Although the following do not make a complete list the information may be useful.

Eight-bell towers.-Aylesbury, Bucke.
Mellourne, Derbyshire.
Leelknamptan, Glos.
Fairford, Glos.
Iokleton, Cambs.
Wiusham, Somerset.
Ottery St. Mary, Devon.
Six-bell tawers. - Bramsknatt, Hayts.
Tous, Salop.
Alfriston, Sussex.
Staunton, Glos.
Kinstone, Somerset.
Thurleigh, Beds.
Wollaston, Northants.
Britford, Wilts.
Cliilmark, wilis.
Barfordi st. Martin, Wilts.
Algarkirk, Lincs.
Five-bell towers. - Agowington, Warwicks.
Bramshott is interesting in that the ringers have to ring in white coats provided by the church.
With regard to Ottery St. Mary, Devon, the tower, being at the end of the transept and low, makes ringing in the church necessary. The same appertains at St. German's Priory in Cornwall, where the tower is at the west end of the church and at the north corner.
Similar interesting instances occur as at St. Ives, Hunts, and Fen Stanton, Cambs, where the towers at the west end of the church have two supporting columns in the naves and the ringers are completely exposed to view.
There are instances where the porch of the church is under the tower as at Llanbadrn Faws, Radnorshire, and Steventon, Berks, and there being nowhere for the ringers they stand and ring in the porch.

At Penhow, Monmouthshire, after a parishioner has gone through the porch, he immediately finds himself under the tower, which spans the south aisle, having two of its pillars as central pillars between that and the nave. Here the ringers stand to ring, occupying a space in the middle of the aisle itself.

Of other oddities we have those most interesting little churches, particularly in Surrey, Sussex, Kent, Hants, Berks and Wilts, where there virtually is no tower, the bell frame being carried on vertical timbers erected at the west end of the nave and protruding through the roof, timber protection being arranged around the frame and a shingle broach capping the whole.
At Chicheley, Bucks, instead of ringing on the floor in froat of the chancel, a platform is suspended from the tower roof upon which the ringers stand.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

APPEAL FOR UNITY AMONG BANDS.
The annual meeting of the Banbury Erauch was held at Banhury on Saturday, July 25th, in rather blormy weather. Ringing commenced shortly before three o'clock, and contioued nintil the service at 4 p.mn, which was conducted by the Rev. A. L. E. Wiltians, Vicar of Banbury and president of the branch, the preacler being the curate, the Rev. N. E. Wilkinsar.

About 45 ringers, including a ummer of visitors, sat down to tea, after which followed the business meeting.
The secretary's report and balavee sheet were adopted, the latter showing a balance in hand of 524 , and the formor apponing for more unity among bauds.
In line withl the sentiments of the general secretary of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, that while the branch has good oficers they should never be allowed to go, all were re-elected for the coming year.
Lower Heyford was chosen as the place for the next meeting, the date being fired as October 24tll.
The Rev. C. E. Wigg and Mr. R. T. Hibbert both spoke words of encouragement, and the meeting closed with a compreliensive vote of thanks.
Banhury tower was again risited, while some riveers went on toWardington and Cropredy. Methods rung during the day included Grandsire, Stedman, Offord and Kent Troble Bob, Cambiage and London Surprise, Plain $\exists \mathrm{ob}$, and a very surprise' touch of Thelwall, as well as rounds for beginners.

UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS IN WITNEY AND WOODSTOCK BRANOH.

The annual meeting of the Witney and Woodstock Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held et Coombe on Saturday, July 11th, the meeting having been unavoidably postponed owing to the death of the branch secretary's father in April.
Service, held in the Parisia Church, was canducted by the Vicar, the Rev. F. E. Gmelin, and the lesson was read by the brancin secretary (Mr. W. Evetts). A most ingtructive and interesting address from tha Vicar brought the service to a close.
Owing to two brokell stays, not much ringing could be done until after tea. When these were repaired all was well, but as they were of plain deal wood, as were the previeus ones, great care had to be taken to avoid further disaster.
After tea, the business neeeting was held, at which the president (the Rev. C. H. Start Gmelin, R.D.) was supported by the Deputy Master (the Rev. C. E. Wigg). Tlie secretary s report slowed that three towers were defaulters in paying their subscriptions, which accounted for a fall of 24 ringing members. Ho also drew the attention of tower formen to the necessily for gettivg clurchwardens, as well as the incumbents, to join the Guild as honorary members.
This was heartily supported by the Deputy Master.
The balance sheet slowed a geod balance, but owing to the large number of unpaid subscriptions and the lass of scveral hom. nembers, it was not as good as it might have been.
The chairman, hon. secretary and treasurer were re-elected for the ensuing year, as also were the members on the Central Committee of the Guild.

After wotes of thanks to the Ficar, organist and local rimgers, the meeting closed with a record of sympathy with the secretary in his loss and Iato long illaess.
Thirty-two sat down to tea, and the brench was very ploased to have amongst them Mr. A. P. Cannon, of Brockley, and members of the Banbury Branch.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD OFFICERS.

MR. M. B. SEAW ELECTED SECRETARY

At the ammual business meeting of the Cambridge University Guild, held at the end of the Eascer Term, tho following officers were reelected for next year: President, the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey (Trinity) ; vice-president, the Rev. A. C. Blyth (Selwyn); Master, Mr'. R. D. St. J. Smith (Selwgr).
The secretary, Mr. A. N. P. Woodand (Tesus), linndea in his resignation, as he was ceasing to reside in the university, and Mr. M. B. Shaw (Peterhouse) was elected to succeed him.
Mr. E. M. Atkins (St. Cath.) and Mr. E. H. Lewis (Trinity) were again elected to represent the Guilit on the Central Council.
The ness secretary liad not done any ringing before lie joined the Gnild on beconving a member of the university in October, 1935, and he rang his first peal, Bob Major "in liand ' on 1-2, in Mar, 1936.

At Foots Cray, Kent, and Corley, Warwicks, there is no pretension of a tower at all and at these churches each of which has a ring of five bells, arrangements are made to carry the bell frame on the roof principals of the nave, the bells swinging above the ridge and being protected by boarding and a single cap. The ringers in these instances stand in the aisle of the nave and in the pews.

SQUIRE FORTREY OF KING'S NORTON, LEICESTERSHIRE.

 RESTORATION OF HIS TOMBMost ringers when they hear of Eing's Norton think of the famous tower of that name near Biriningham. There is another King's Norton, however, in Leicestershire, also called Morton-by-Gabby. In tho charchyard of the latier place is the tomb of Squire Fortrey, which natil recently was in a shoming state of neglect. It is pleasing news to know this has been remediod and the tomb and sarroundings repaired and put in good ovder at a cost of over f40.
Lt should be of the deepegt interest to ringers of Leicesterghire to know this, lor Squire Fortrey was an enthusiastic admirer of church bells, and fid much towards encouraging improvements in the rings of aliferent parishes. Ha rebuilt the church of Galby and placed in it, in the year 1741, a ring of six bells. He did the same at King's Notton, hanging a ring of ten belle, later reduced to eight owing to the girain on the tower. In 1738 lie gave two new treble bells to st. Margarev's, Leicester, making them ten. Later he promised a set af landlells to the society to ring 10,000 changes on fen bells, and He Leieester Chango Ringers, having rumg 6,012 Grandsire Gaters in 776, set shout the record We ere told that arter a teyel of several' they 'compleated their desires' nud rang 10,080 Caters 'in yo tidtums ' on Februery 25th, 1777, in 7 hours 12 minutes.
Squite Fortrey duly presented them with a set of cup handbells, which, after paseing thiough many vicissibudes, now reposes in the Leicoster Mascum. In 1771 he gave a treble belf to Hourghton-on-theHill, and his mame is mentioned in connection with other bells in the comby.
His memory was cherished for many gears by old Leicenter ringers, and Nichols, the bistovian, says of ham: 'William Fortrey, Esq., of Norton-by-Grlby, made it his husiness all his life to emquire into these mantions (i, e, belle aud ringing). To was possessed of all the anectotes that remain rolating to the old bells in that steeple-St. Margaret's, Lcicenter-and was himself the patron and director of Thomas Eayre, of Kettering.
In 1753 , when John Folt pullished his 'broadsheet' of peals, which contaninet the treble leads nf his six and ten-part peals of Grandsire Triples, his six-part penl of ITnion Triples, and his three-part Plain Bob Tribles wilhout a single, Mr. W. Tartrey, of Calby, is there shown as a subscriber of four copice.

BALEARAT RINGERS' CLUB LOSSES.

TRAGEDY ROAS THEM OF TWO MEMBERS.

The ringers at Ballarat, Australia, whose ringine is done on tite bells at the Town Hall, subtained a double loss duving the first week in June b the death of the oldest and youngest nembers of what is known as the Bellringers' Olub.
Mr. George Hutgon, the senior member of the company, who was 74 years of age, was run down by a molor-ear, and ded a few dags Iater in hespital
The death of Jack Douglas, the joungest member, was another tragedy. He was employed in the municipal offices at the Town Hinll. Iatterly ho became depressed and zhot himself with a revolver kept in the office. He died an the following day, despite the dochors' valiant efforts to save him. Three blood transfustons were administered without avail, one of them being given by his offce colleague and ringing companion, 通r. Harold Maddern, the hon. secretary of the Ringers Club.

THE BELL TOWER AT BALLAAAT TOWN HALL
The English ringers who visited Australia will deeply regret to read this news, for both Mr. Hutson and Mr. Douglas were among those who met the tourists in Ballarat and helped to entertain them.
The death of these two ringers has proved a severe blow to the Ringers' Club and will cause a setback to their progress. suce the visib of the English ringers, the Ballarat men have been strivigg to master change ringing. They are a liundred miles from Melbourne, the nearest centre of change ringing, so that they are entirely dependent upan their own resources, and it must obviously wake some time to repair this sudden double breach in their ranks.
The hells at Ballarat Town Fall, which have a tenor of 22 cw . 3 qr . 2 I lb., were cast at Whitechapel and were rung for the first time on Christmas Day, 1871. They are known as the 'Alfred' bells, after the former Duke of Ediuburgl. The Engilish ringers during their yisit rang a peal of Stedman 7 ripies on the bells, the first of Stedman Triples ever rung outside the British Isles
The Rallarat Ringers' Club ring regularly on Sunday momings, their bells serving as acall to worship for all the clutrches of the cily.
The onfy clurch in Ballarat with a ring of bells is St. Peter's. There are eight bells, but only six are lung for ringing, and on these, in 1897, the first and only peal in seven Minor methods in Australia was rung.

DARLEY DALE, DERBYSHTRE.-For evensong, on Suaday, July 19t1, 1,260 Stedman Triples: R. Allsop 1, B. Allsop 2, W. E. Blagshatw 3, H. W. Gregory 4, V. E. Taylor 5, G. F. Paulson 6, H. E. Taylor (conductor) $\mathbf{7}$, E. Pauleone 8.

THE HENHOUSE PEAL.

To the Editor

Sir, With refereuce to the handbell peal rung at Kirkella, Yorks, on July 12th, surely there is something extraordinary about the performance being headed by the Yorkshire Association. I have, like many olhers, looked upon that association as pioncers of change ringing, but for members to go on the Sabbatir Day into a henhouse among the bens and ring for two hours and seven minutes and look upon it as honour for their association needs no comment.
Ringers gencrally hald the view that associations of change ringers are na organisation of the Christian Church, and the action of the zingers concerned certainly points to the lowering of those ideals for Which associations were formed.

GRAMOPHONE BELL RECORDS.

To the Editor.
Denr Sir,-In your leading article of Friday, July 10th, on "Gramophono Bells,' you say, 'there is not one, as far as we know, that is complete' (ginmophone records). It may interest you to know thet I have in my possession a set of three gramophane records of bellringing, the property of the Lavenham Society of Ringers, which were presented to them by the Bribish Broadcasting Corporation some few months since.

The recordings are: (1) A course of Grandsire Triples; (2) a course of Stedman Triples; and (3) the three bobbed leads of Kent Treble Bob Major, These records begin and finish with younds, and were made by the Lavenlam ringers for the B.B.C., who also have a duplicate set.
May I suggest lhat ringers write to the B.B.C. asking them to 'pat an " one of more of these records as an altermative to the record we how so often hear?

A NEW USE FOR BELE ROPES.  \section*{To the Editor.}

Dear Sir,-Searching for information about old ringers, I came across the following story which you may think worth printing:-

A certain lewd fellow of the baser sort came from a long way of out of bhe shires and married a hopp-harlatt, who had been whpped ronnd our fown more than unce. The parish officers were her bridesmatids and her husband was not afraid of receiving curtain lectures, for their sole bed was of dirty suraw on the dirly ground never-theless, slte was so carsed of condition that he wearied soon of lis life and went to the parish clerk, scelring to be rid of his erooked rib. Soloman was sly, and, replying to lis eaquiry if the parson could mmarry them, said, "Why need ye trouble his reverence? Have not I, man and boy, been clerk fiftoy vears come All Hallows-tide? I can do it as welt ns e'er a parson of them all, and as sure as there is now a good tap of ale af. the Belh. Let us go there-you staud two pots and I will do all right for you. So after drinkits out his fee, Soloman took the fellow into the charch by the priest's doo:" "Now ${ }^{\text {s }}$ " said he, "you were married here, so put of your jaclet and kneel at confession, for "tis a solemn business." They then went into the belfry mad, bidding him stand on a stool, he gave min the longest bell rope. "Tie that tightly, wy lad, round yout throat," said Soloman, "and as soon as I am gone, hick away the stool. I will retura in about an hour, when you will be unmarried and out of your tronble.

THE NOISE OF CHURCH BELLS.

To the E'ditor.

Dear Sir-Whilst reading your leader of July 24th, it occurred to me bow much help one does actually get when a Vicar emplasises the use of church bells. We are very fortunate in having a Vicar who (although never prompted) is constantly romiuding not only his parishoners (by means of the "Parish Magazine'), but also the general public with an occtsional paragrapla in the local uews.
I enclose his description of one item in the current 'Parisly Magaziac,' which, I may add, filso appeaved in the local newspaper. These iftle itens cause innay local people to ask questions of the ringers themselves, and create suite an interest and sympathy between the layman and ringer. $\qquad$ G. $G$.

The paragrapll in the 'Parish Magazine' was a description of the ringing of the 'whole pull and stand, by the Burnhan ringers ons the occasion of the death of Mrs. Margaret Gordon Nott, wife of the Vicar.

Once having heard the bells mung thus,' flye Vicar added, 'one is never likely to forget it. Besides being extremely beautiful, it is a fent requiring considerable skill, as during the parse each bell has to he held on the batance and under absolute control if it is to be struck ith perfect time in the next pail. The ringing in Burnhan tower on that Sunday morniug by our young land of ringers was such as can be heard in few towers in England, and is worthy of the highest credit.'

HALIFAX AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING AND SIX-BELL CONTEST.

The annual meeting and sis-bell coutest was held at Saddleworth on Saturday, July 18th. Fivg sets entered tie contest to ring 800 changes, any method, with a prelimivary plain course for practice. All the teams rang Oxford, except Liversedge, who rang Cambridge Surprise. The draw for tho order of ringing vesulted as follows: 1 New Mill, 2 Treizeland, 3 Melthan, 4 Jiversedge, 5 Holmfirth.
Tea was served in the Church Inu and about 50 gat down.
After the teams lad finished vinging the ringers once more adjourned to the Church Imm for the meeting.
The president, Mr. E. Earnshaw, was in tho chair. The balance sheet, which showed a slight gain, was read and adopted, and a discussion on the revised rules took place. These latter, with slight alterations, were adopted.

All tho officers were re-elected cor the ensuing year.
After the usual rote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens, etc., lad been moved and replied to ly Miss Wood (Vicar's warden), the fudge, Mr. W. Idle, gave his decision as follows: New Mill, 153 faults; Triezeland, 122 faulis; Medtham, 72 fauls; Liversedge, 128 faults; Eolnaficth, 116 fanlts. Melthans were, therefore, declared winners.
Miss Wood, in presenting the cup to Mr. Whiteley, the Melthan conductor, congratulated the band on their success, Mr. Whiteley suitably replying.
Further visits to the belfry to thy this delightful peal of bells, and other visits to another place to 'try one' wibl old friends, brought an enjoyable day to an end.

The next contest will be the prize contest.

The success of the undertaking, after many years of hard work, was referred to by Mr. E. Searle (people's warden), who attributed it mainly to the enthusinsm of Mr. F. J. Ryall, hou. secretary of the Parochial Church Council.
The parishioners were bifanace for their support by Mr. Ryall, who said the cffort had meant a great deal to charch life in the parish.

AMONG THE AEROPLANES AT HANWORTH.

MIDDLESEX RINGERS' INTERESTING AFTERNOON.
The Middlegex County Association (South and West District) held a weeting ut Feltham on July 18th, Ringing at St, Catherine's Church was restricted to the afternoon. This was due to an important Masonic function being held near the tower that day. In order to avoid postponing either event(1), negotiations between the Masonic officials and the district secretary resulted in the amicable arrangement as stated.
Tho avoid disappointing members, anotler attraction filled in the gap, und a very interesting hour was spent inspecting the works of the Britisł Aircraft Manufacturing Ca, at Hawwortli Park. Tea, arranged at short notice, was held in the firm's canteen, after whicli the Ringing Master, Mr. W. B. Coles, led the way to the building iu which he spends so much of his time!
Machines were sect in every stage of coustruction, from the firs ribs to the twin engined machine that ganed third place in the King's Cup Air Race held recently. It was a nost interesting visit, and the chief surprise to everyone was the extreme lightness of construction. Tho only metal tubing used appeared to le in the angine seatings and ithe underorriages, but the woodwork was a joy to inspect. The finished article certainly looked a deal safer than the early skeleton! Several of the visitors sat in a plane for the first time, and one young couple flew away (on the wings of imagination), piloted by the seeratary-bloke!
Mr. Coles sulf the firm were warmly thauked, the former for his painstaking explanations, etc., and the latter for permission to wisit the works.
Later in tho evening $a$ visit to Bedfont was made in what are familinrly known as thundery showers. It is understood some of the visitors from London who walked to Bedfont expressed themselyes in ather terms when referring to the wetness!
The Vicar of Bedfont, the Rev. G. H. Bradley, was present to welcome the Guild, and stayed throughont the ringing to chat to memhers. Fiations Minor and Douthes methods were rung, the conductor pulling a fice or shouting himsolf honrse when a call came, according to his personality or lung power. The bells when rung create a terrible din in the ringing chamber.
${ }^{1}{ }^{\prime}$ le ringing at Feltham was very good indeed for a meeting, the mothods run ranging from Grandsire Triples ta Spliced Surprise Major. Welcome risitors were Mr. Malcolm Melville, of the Warwickshire Cuild, and the President and Chief Grabber of the Tower Grabbers' Unian, who had forsaken his Kentish laants to visit fis former colleagites and demonstrate his prowess! a car load of little Coles and Goodfellows with their respective mammas also enlivened the gathering-

MR. JAMES BENNETYTS ACHIEVEMENT.
As we recorded list week, Mr. Janes Bennett, of Lewisham, has now rung a peal on every one of the 366 dates iu the year. Only two or three other ringers lave done this, bui Mr. Bennett has achieved this distinction in $n$ less number of peals than any previous ringer. His total is still less than 900.
Mr. Bemelt, who was formerly in the Royal Marines, has another distinction. He rang more peals while with the Forces than anj other serving soldier, sailor or marine.

MR. JAMES BENNETT.

POPULAR KENT RINGER'S DEATH.

MR. J. P. COBBOLD, OF LITTLBTBOURNE.

The Littlehourue band of the Canterbury District (Kcat County Association) has suffered a severe loss by the death of Mr. James Peter Cobbold, which ocenrred on Tueschay, July 21st, at the age of 60 years.

Although Mr. Cobbold had not been in his usual good health of Ince, his death came as a great slock to all who knew him, as only on the previous Saturday he hed nttended the annual outing of the choir and ringers to Easthourne.

As headmaster of Littlebourne Sehools, he was very popalar with bath scholars and parishioners. He liad been a ringer at the Parish Chureh for a period of mearly 30 years, was scotrelary of the local band for a number of years, and he was also secretary of the Parochital Clurch Caumeil.
Mr. Cobbold lad only rung two peals, his main interest being ju regular attendance for Sunday service ringing and practice. He had also officiated it the organ for the fistrict meetings.
A large congregation met at the Parish Chusch to pay a last tribute of respect on the occasion of the funeral on July 25ill. Tifty of his scholars lined the pathway from the lych gate to the church.
The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. A. Manley) and was fully choral. Among the many floral tributes was one from the ringers and choir. The belis were rung lalf-muffed both beforo and after the service.
The presence of Mr. Cobbold will be greatly missed by his brother vingers, his quiet, yet pleasing, personality making him many fast friends.
Much sympatlyy has beell cxpressed with the widow and two daughters left in bereavement.

CAVERSHAM BELLS.  To the Editor

Sir, -On reading last week's issue of 'The Ringing World,' I noticed an olthag by the Crawley wingers, who visited Cavergham, where the old bells, receutly put on ball beariugs locally, gave the fimpression that something more would los desimble. I should have thanked any of them if they had told me the least thing they thought was wrong, instead of putbing in print a statement which seems to imply that the work was not properly dowe, which I maintain is not true. I lave been connected wiht the Gaversham tower and church since 1874 , and, being the oldest ringer in Caversham, I was asked by the church authorities and ringers to supervise the work, test the bells and report to them, which I did, and it was that all the work according to contract was properly done, and that the guarantee that the bells would be left in perfect ringing order had been fulfilted. All connected with the bells are perfectly satisfied with that report. It seems to me that the writer must have a preference for some particular firm, or else it is the case of a bad workman finding fault with his tools.
T. NEWMAN.

COMMENTS " NOT IN GOOD TASTE.
Sir,-The report contained in your issue of 17 th inst. of the outing by the Crawley men strikes me as not being quite in accordance with good faste. I read the baud visited Caversham, where the bells had fately been relunng locally.

For the information of your readers, I may say that they have been rehung in ball bearints by Richard White, of Appleton, who is carrying on a tradition of four generations. The present 'go' of the bells is such that any band who 'ring' can ring them. The band cventually arrived at Harwell, where the old six were 'restored and augmented to eirglat by Messrs. .... A very fine jok.' I will not comment on this, having rung at Harwell on several occasions since the rehanging

On goes the band to Newbury, a grand old eight which were 'done up ' by a certain firm. What an expression to apply to good craftsmanship and solid work! Those of us who kuew what it was to slog from treble to tenor in the old days when ringing a peal there can thoroughly appreciate what was done, and now trebles are added, perfect to the eight, one can ring and listen with real pleasure, as stated, to olve of whe nicest tens for their weight in the country.
The foregoing remaks are made in fairness to all concerned, but I mhink when bells are applied for, and permission granted to ring, conments, adverse or otherwise, should not be made in the Press; neither should any band constitute themselves advertising agents for any particular firm of bellhangers.

St. Peter's, Caversham.

DEATH OF MR. WILLIAM FLORY.

SUFEOLK LINK WITH DISTANT PAST
The death occurred on Tuesday week at Ipswich Hospital of Mr. William Flory, of Framlingban, Suffolk, whose long life had made him a link with ringers of a distant past.
Mr. Flory was 81 years of age and was taken ill ou July 4th. He was hurriedly removed to hospital, where an operation was performed. This, however afforded only temporary relief, and he passed peacefully away on July 21st.
Mr. Plory was horn at Tannington in 1855. As a boy of ten years of age, he began to ring Grandsire on the old peal of five (all cast by J. Darbie in 1661). After mastering Doubles, he used to walk across the fields to Worlingworth, where he ravg Minor with the old Worlingworth ringers, J. Clayton (grandfather to the late Fred Clayton), G. Warne, L. Greasy, F. Newson, J. Newson (who lived to be 100 years old, R . Coilins, sen., and David and Edgar Collins. His first peal was one of Bob Major at Framlingham in 1880, and his last in the same tower in 1925. Atogether he rang 82 peals, six of which were on handbells.
The fmoral took place on Saturday last, the following ringers attending: Messrs. W. E. Maldea, H. and J. Hall, A. Taylor, W. Norman and W. ©. Criekmer.

A PEAL WITHDRAWN.  To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-With reference to the report of a peal of Bob Major, published as having been rung at Ospringe, Kent, on June 1st, I wish to withdraw it. Owing to a mistake, entirely my own fault, the peal was false. With apologies to the band for my forgetfulness.

TAMPERING WITH COMPOSITIONS.

Another unpleasant revelation regarding the previously accepted truth of a composition has just been made. This time it is a peal of Treble Bob, which has been rung on a great many occasions and now turns out to be false in an abridged version. Some years ago Mr. F. Robinson, a Yorkshire ringer, composed a peal of Treble Bob in three parts which runs to 5,184 changes and, in that form, is perfectly true. But someone, wishing to shorten it, put anl alternative calling in one course of one part. It is fatal to the truth of the peal. In another column we publish a list of no fewer than eighteen 'peals' which have been rung with this curtailed variation and which are now withdrawn. This list, which comes from Mr. C. H. Kippin, the hon. secretary of the Surrey Association, which seems to be the chief sufferer in its records, does not exhaust the occasions on which the false composition has been rung.

Probably this is the most extensive instance of false peals rung from one composition and we hope the moral of it will not be lost. It should prove conclusively to everyone the danger of tampering with compositions, unless one has complete knowledge of the subject. Only a couple of years or so ago, a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal, composed by the late Mr. William Pye, was rung in which, in order to produce 'better music,' three 'bome' bobs were omitted from one place and put in at the end to bring 5-6 at home at three course ends. That alteration made the peal false. The man who thought he was clever enough to reduce the length of Mr. Robinson's peal of Treble Bob apparently did not know that a peal in this method, as in many others, can be false without a repetition of the lead ends.

When a ringer without sufficient knowledge of the subject looks at the figures of a peal by a reputable composer and thinks he can 'improve' them, he should remember that there is probably a reason-the vital reason of truth-why they are in the particular form in which they appear and that it is dangerous to interfere with them. How many false peails have been rung in the past through inexperienced people 'improving ' compositions no one can tell, but in the case of this peal of Treble Bob we see what unfortunate results can come of it. The man who suffers is not the one who alters the original composition, the sufferers are the men who ring it. There is wasted effort and time and money, to say nothing of disappointment, while records, both private and association, are affected. This instance should also be a warning to conductors. There are many who call peals who do not know anything about compositions, and take the figures of a peal on trust. When they are presented with a new peal by a new composer, or with (Continued on pago 510.)

FOR BEGINNERS.

RAISING AND FALLING IN PEAL

In the earliest days of bellringing there were no stays or sliders used for holding the bells when they were up and not baing ruug. The consequence was that each tine before ringing could take place the bells had to be raised, and had to be lowered again before the ringery could leave the ropes. Stedman in his treatise on change ringiug laid great emphasis on the proper raising and falling of the beils in peal, and in those days the ability to do so was very important.
With the introduction of stays and sliders, the need for raising the bells in peal became less necessary, and in this twentieth century there are many towers in the country where the bells are raised and lowered indiscriminately. Sometimes, after some excellent ringicg, bells are let down in a jangle, thus spoiligg the effect of the previous efforts. Often Sunday service ringing is spoilt by the same method of lowering the bells. Raising and falling in peal is by no means generally practised, and jet if well done it can be really effective; indeed, the accurate lowering of bells in peal makes a beatiful finish to any ringing, and young ringers should not aeglect to acquire proffiency in 1 t .
But raising and falling in peal meeds practice; just as any other form of ringing requires practice. File secref of lowering belis acourately in peal is lecping control over the bells all the way down. This does not mean, of course, that a bell half-way down can be "held as can a bell which is being rung full up; buta it is possible so to landle the bell that it can be 'felt' all the way down, so that a very slight cheek on the rope will serve to put it a little closer, or a slight pulh will keep it a shade wider. There is mo place for sioppy" ringing, when the belle are runuing down, any more than when cliange ringing is being practised.
The bells, of course, begin at the usual 'rounds' pace, and then gradually close in to a quicker compass as they fall. The trebleman must keep his bell at, the 'opposite stroke' to the tenor as long as his bell is sallying '-that is, as Iong as a handstroke can be distinguished from a backstroke Tho licavier the bells the slower the fall must inewitably be, but one of the most important things to remember is that the bells should keep 'coming dawn.' not get partly down and stay there, or start getting up gaain. The fall of the treble should be steady and continuous, and accommodated to the speed at which the tremor cames down. A good deal, therefore, depends upon the speed set by the tenor ringer, and every man must use his ears so that the striking is smooth and the ever-lessening intervals between the bells ate as regular as, although faster than, good round ringitg with the helle going full circle.

THE NEED FOR USING ONE'S EARS.
The need for using one's ears is all important. A bell too fast or too slow for the others will soon turn a fall into a jangle. If a ringer finds he is breaking the compass by being too wide he must check his bell, but at the next stroke he will probably find he must give it a Iittle 'pull,' otherwise in the following stroke he will be too low, and possibly hitting the bell in front. If he is too close he must, of contse, pull his bell a trille until he gets back to the right intervat; but prilling or checking should not be done to excess. The ideal is, maiurally, to kecp the bell in its right place all the time.
In raising in peal, the process required is a stoady pull at ewery stroke. In the old days a rise was not considered perfect, namless af. the bells spoke at the second stroke. One seldom hears that now. The treble and then the aflier bells are swung so as to strike at a short interval after each other, the heavier bells gradually joining in. The treble is then swung higher and higher, while the others strike at such intervals that the whole of them sand before the next blow of the treble. The intervals are gradually widened out, until eventually the bells are rep and under full command.
It is equally as important to keep the bells going higher and higher with each pull, in raising, as it is to keep them running down when falling; indeed, the ringers will find their task involves additional hard work if they do not keep the bells going up. If two bells are clashing, more weight must be put on the heavier one to 'lift' it away from the other, but it may then be necessary to check a little, otherwise at the next blow the gap may be too wift.
The trebleman must pay careful rittention to his work. A great deal depends upon him, and he must endenvour to keep the "rige" gaing at a regalar rate of progression, otherwise he may throw the whole of the bells into a heap. Raising the treble needs practica, and the best way to get it is to lash the clappers of the treble and tenor bells; then let the tenorman gradually pull his bell ap, while the trebieman keeps his bell exactly at the opposite stroke.
It would be far better for the public if more ringers wonld raise and lawer their bells in peal. It would also give a far more effective beginning and end to the change ringing. If details could be gathered, wo believe it would be found that rajsing and falling in peal is done by a greater percentage of call change ringers than by those who practise scientife change ringing. Yet it ought not to be so. Ruising and falliug in peal takes very little, if any, longer than pulling the bells up or lebting them down singly, while the effect is infinitely better. But it requires practice and we are not sure that such practice would not also improve the efandard of striking in change ringing of the band which took this course.

FALSE COURSE ENDS.

WHAT THEY ARE AND HOW THEY AFFECT COMPOSITION.

By J. Armiger Trollope.
Treble Bob Methods on six bells, provided they are symmetrical, and do not contain four places made in the same change, will always give the extent of the rows, but of the enormous number of Treble Bob methods on cight belis, only a very small proportion will given a true peal of even five thousand clanges.

In Minor, if the lead-heads and lead-ends are different, all the interior rows will be different also; but in Major it is possible to have all the lead-heads and ends true, and yet to have internal repetition. In Superlative, for instance, there are two courses-those beginning with 13246578 and 14326578 -which contain rows which are also included in the plain course, and it is obvious that if you ring the whole of the plain course and the whole of either of these two courses, your peal will be false; and not only so, but for every full course you ring there are two others that you must not ring.

The first thing, therefore, before you can compose a true peal in any Treble Bob or Surprise Major method, is to find out if it has any courses which contain rows which are also included in the plain course. Those courses are said to be false against the plain course, and their course ends are the False Course Ends of the Methot. When no other course (with the tenors togetier) includes any row also included in the plain course, the method is said to have a "clear proof scale," and peals can be composed with the same freedom as in plain methods. But such methods are rare, and even in them, when the tenors are parted, search must be made for internal falseness.

Now suppose in a method the course beginning with 12436578 contains some row which is also in the plain course, it will follow that the course 43265 will contain rows included in the course 42356 , and so, for every full course you use there is one which you must not use. The presence, then, of only one false course end automatically reduces the number of full courses you can use to one half. You might suppose that the presence of a second lalse course end would reduce the number still further to one quarter; and that does happen, but, fortunately, not always.

There are sixty possible full courses with the tenors together, and on the face of it there seems no reason why any one of the other fifty-nine should not be false against the plain course; but when I was preparing the new book oin Surprise I wrote out many thousands of methods. I worked out the false course ends of some eight hundred, and I found that of the methods most suitable for practical ringing, while very few of them had a clear proof scale, the great majority had one or more of seven false course ends. These false course ends are:-

| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| B | 24365 | B | 24365 |
| D | 46253 | F | 32465 |
| E | 65432 | G | 43265 |
| C | 53624 |  |  |

Of these, $B$ was the most common and the only one which appears alone. The others (for reasons which I will not now go into) always come in pairs. If you get A you get $D$; if you get $C$ you get $E$; and if you get $F$ you get G.

These seven false course ends belong to two groups, one of five, the other of three ( $B$ being common to both groups), and, fortunately, they have a certain quality which makes it possible to get a true peal in the methods which contain them.

The members of the group A B C D E are related to each other in the same way as the course ends of the five courses, produced by calling bobs Before:-

\begin{aligned}
& 23456 \\
& 35264 \\
& 56342 \\
& 64523 \\
& 42635
\end{aligned}

Suppose A B C D and E were all false against the plain course, then, if you work out the courses false against the other four, you will find that they are all the same. The same courses that are false against 23456 are false against 35264,56342 , and the other two. So that, instead of having five courses false against each true course, you have a group of five false against another group of five. This you can set the sixty possible course-ends down in twelve groups each of five; and half the groups will be false against the other half. This will give you thirty true courses to work with, or a possible number of 6,720 changes.

The second group contains three members, and if you set down 23456,42356 and 34256 you will find that they share each other's false course ends. You can write down the sixty course ends in twenty groups, ten of which are false against the other ten, and again you have thirty true courses, or 6,720 changes to work with.
When you have got your thirty true courses you can compose your peal by joining a sufficient number of them together, in the same way that you compose peals in plain methods, except that you have less material to work with, and, as it happens, enough of the thirty true courses (in both cases) can be joined together in a number of ways. It might not have been so. There is another group of false course ends which will give thirty true courses, but so far no way has been discovered of joining a sufficient number of them together to make a peal.

\begin{array}{rr}
\mathrm{B} & 24365 \\
\mathrm{H} & 56423 \\
\mathrm{I} & 32654 \\
\mathrm{~J} & 45236 \\
\mathrm{~K} & 63542
\end{array}

It will be noticed that they are related to each other in the same way as the five courses of the block of Double Bob or Cambridge produced by calling M.W. in every course, and so it is possible to get peals true for methods in which the incidence of the falseness does not fall between the Middle and the Wrong, but such methods are rare.

When the false course ends of a method are confined to either of the first two groups, composition is comparatively easy, but when a method has false course ends from both groups or any of the many others outside them, peais are almost an impossibility.
Cambridge has five false course ends, A B D F G, and, as is well known, it has only one true peal with tenors together. Its falseness, however, is not due to the number of the false course ends, but to the fact that two belong to one group and two to the other, the fifth being common to both groups. If the two missing members of the first group $C$ and $E$ had been present there would have been no greater liability to falseness.

We have been told many times that the falseness of the method is cue to its faulty construction, four places being made in the second section. But these four places are not necessarily the cause of the methods' falseness. They give the false course ends $A$ and $D$, which you get in Kent Treble Bob. It is the presence also of $F$ and $G$ which come from the fourth section which causes the trouble. There are methods in which these four places occur and give no false course ends at all.

In the early days, men did not realise that Treble Bob Major methods could be false internally although the lead ends were true. They had composed and rung many Minor methods, and as these always gave a true extent, if the lead ends were true, men took the same thing for granted in Major. Baldwir, who composed the first peal of Oxford ever rung, used, by grood luck, four of the five true groups, and his composition was all right; but later men were less fortunate.

There was a method called Morning Exercise, which is Oxford Treble Bob above the treble and Cambridge Surprise below, and had at the time a reputation as great as London Surprise has now. It has eight false course ends with the tenors together, and though Shipway afterwards claimed that he had composed a true peal of it, for ordinary purposes it is hopeless.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir, -It may iuterest the Exercise to know that the late William Pye was the first person to ring a peal on every one of the 366 dates in the year upon eight, ten or fwelve bells, one belng upan handbells.
The first person to do this upou eight, ten or twelve tower bella was myself. Tins I completed ols Janvary 3 rd, 1931, and it was my 1,104 th peal. I have great pleasure in congrabulating my iriend Mr. James Bennett upou his great success. We are now the only two ringars that live ever attained the nuique distinction of ringing a peal upou every one of the 366 dates in the year upon eigind, ten or twelve tower bells.

Although one course may contain rows which are also included in another, it does not follow that the whole of one is false against the other, and parts of false courses can often be used in a composition. Sometimes, too, by calling a bob Before in every course the leads liable to internal repetition are cut out and the available extent of the method much increased. When, too, there are few false course ends it is often possible to use a course from a group and another course from the group false against it. But these are details with which it is impossible to deal in a short article.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have received the order to rehang the ming of six bells in a new frame, nud add two trebles to complete a ring of eight, at Okehampton, Devonshire.

BURTON HASTINGS IS OFF THE MAP.

BUT IT WANTS CORONATION BELLS.
A little village in Warwickshire, four or five miles from Nuneaton, one mila from tha Watling Street which divides the counties of Leicester and Warrick, and about three miles from Hinckley and two from Wolvey, Burton Hastings has p population of about 200 souls, mostly engaged in extriculural work, small farmers and labourers. It is separated from the main roads and has no omnibus service or means of transport. Therefore, it is little known. In fact, it is 'off the map.' It has no amenities for recreation, no publje-house, no cinema or public hall. Its only public buildings are a minuto school and a beautiful little fifteenta century church.
In the tower of this church is the death-watch beetle. The pest has eater into the woodwork of the belfry so that it has become at sourco of danger, and for some years now the peal of bellis bas not been rung. Thus the village lase heen deprived of an interest, art and recreation which cauntrymen enjoy in many villages-bellringiag!
It is our desire and aim that these bells should be put into repair before tha Goronation of King Edwerd next year and that they should resound once more through the countryside on that great day. The cost will approximately be ${ }^{2} \times 300$.
The resources of this village are very slender indeed, and we are mbliged to appeal for help beyond the boundaries of the parisi if we are going to do this. Wa sloula like to do it in memory of King George and to crown King Edward, not in silence, but with the pealing of bells in every place even in Burton Hastings.
Time passes quickly and this work will frake some time to do. It mustrbe put in havd soon if it is to be completed by next May. In fact it is a case of he (or she) who gives quickly gives twice

Burton Hastings at present possesses three beils (one cracked), and the object in view is to rehang the three with frames for five or six in the hopa that some day the peal may be completed.
Subscriptions towards this appeal should be sent to any of the following:-

Tle Rev. Mostyn Robinson (Vicar of Burton Hastings), Wolvey Vicarage, Hinckley.
Mr. A. Atkins, The Ola Vicarage, Burton Hastings, HinckIey.
Mr. A. Geary, Burton Hastings, Nuneaton.

VICTORIA CATHEDRAL BELLS DEDICATED.

THOUSANDS THRILLED BY NEW PEAL. Great Rally of Former English Ringers.

The new peal of eight bells, a replica of those at Westminster Abbey, which were cast at Whitechapel and blessed by the Bishop of London at the unique ceremony held at the Bell Foundry three months ago, have been installed in Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, British Columbia, and dedicated with due ceremonial at an impressive service.
It will be recalled that the six larger bells, offered in the year of the silver jubilee of their Majesties, King George V. and Queen Mary, are the gift of Mrs. Mary city and the length aud breadth of the Islaud thousands of others listened to the radio broadcast of an incident which will pass down in ecclesiastical history as epochal.

Fine weather favoured the cecasion, and after the dedicatory service, when the congregation from inside the Catheriral joined those outside to listen to the half-hotry peal, the streets were filled with a multitude of unpreeedented dimemsions. Many, deeply moved by the associations, lisfened with tears coursing down their cheeks.
The form of service used was that with which ringors in this country are familiar, and in which prayers, hymans and address were ald specially appropriate to the occasion. The actual ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia, the service being conducted by the Dean, the Very Rev. C. &. Quainton. It opened with an exliortation to the congregation to "humbly pray that our heavenly Father will favourably spprove our present purpose of dedicating these bells to His service, sud to jmplore divine assistance in the undertaking.

The two treble bells, recording the life and work of two honoured residents of Victoria, John Samue! Henry Matson and John Robert Meredith Matson, are the gift of Ada Teresa Matson, in loving memory of her husband and son.

THE SERVICE.
The dedication took place on Sunday, July 12th. No event in church history in Victoria, said the Victoria 'Daily Colonist,' has attracted sucli a throng as listened ou Sunday afternoon to the first peal rung.
Every seat in the great edifice was filled; hundreds of othlers packed the adjacent streets and the old Quadra Park, and throughout the

Then followed the hymn, 'Come, thou Holy Spirit, come.' Bishop Sexton recited intercessional nrayers for worshippers ; for the ringers; for those whe shall be married; for tha sick; for the dying, and for the donors who had 'offered and provided these bells for Thy service in this Cathedral Clureh.'
During the singing of Palm 150, "O praise God in His holiness," the Bishop, the Dean, the Canous and churchmardens formed a procession and moved to the foot of the tower, where the Bighop offered the solemn dedicatory prayer :-
${ }^{5} 0$ Almighty Cod, who by the mouth of Thy serrant Moses dinst commend to wake silver trumpets for the calling of solemn assemblies; be pleased to accept the offering of these bells; bless, sanctify and hallow them to Thy glory and service, and grant that through this generation and those that are yet to come, they may continually tall together Thy faithful people to preise nat worship Thy holy name."
The bells then rang ont for the first time, aad thousands inside and outside thu Cathedral were thrilled at the grandeur of the tones which 5 welled from the tower: For fipe minutes tho bells rang out, those taking part in the ringing being Messtr. E. W. Izard (Ginsgow), R. Carrier (Bedford), A. C. Melhuish (Bath), T. Guest (Leigh, Lancs).
H. Lingham (Northflect, Kent), J. E. Lutchings (Ditisham, Devan), A. Troman (Long Bredy, Dorset) and E. Weatherby (Guildiord). When the bells had ceased the hymm, "All people that on earth do dwell,' was sung and an akidress was given by the Dean.
THE VOICE OF RECOLLECTION, JNVITATION AND ACTION.
He chose his text from Gorinthians xiv. 10: 'There are so many voices in the world, and none of them is withont signification.'
St. Paul had had in mind particular voices; but le went an from that lo speak of the univergal. Dean Quainton bronght the subject up to the immediate and presont by speaking of the "voices "which different craflsmen could produce with difierent media. One craftsmun with ivory keys and pipes could produce an organ; another, with motal, could produce bells. Such "woices" were very much more than more vibration of the atmosphere. They were sacramental things, vehicles of emolion and of idons.

What, wa are asking, what shall our bells, now being dedicated, say to us?' the Dean asked. 'Their message will be as varied as the people wirg are listening to them, To one man they will say one 1.hing to anothor, another thing. But in a general way they will be to each one of us at least three things: The voice of recollection; the voice of invilation; the voice of action.
Tho Dean traced the long association of bells with church history in England, wher ultimately they influenced ecclesiastical architecbure, and from the ancient church towers bells clanged out summonisg soldjers to arms, citizens to their counsels, and rejoicings and alarms of various kinds.
Bells, in fact, linked us with our past. In Canada they gave a stendying gense of continuity with a historic past. Made in London, these particular bells hung in Christ Church Cathedral were "a veritable calro of great old Westminster Abley, of whose bells they were a replica. T'ley also inevitably reminded all Old Country people of "green olkl England and the peaceful English countryside."

There may be some who think that the bells will be an asset to Fictoria; that they will add to its atmosphere; attract the California tourist. But let us not forget that the chief duty of the bells is to call us to charch, and through the church to Christ,' the Dean reminded his listeners. It was to be hoped that they would not only summon Che Anglican warshippers to their places of worship, but the Roman Catholic to his Mass, the United Churchman, the Baptist, the Salvation Army followers to their respective services. For these were city bells, in an Anglican home, under Anglican care, inteuded to call all people to worship.
$A s$ in the past, bells had sc often calfed people in the old lands to action, sometimes against an enemy, so could these bells call to action, to dispal the devils of hate and social injustice, to defend the people's liberties at all cost, to worship, and to prayer-a challenge to action, a symbol of the Church of Christ on the march, a great instrument for social salvation and international peace.
Tu this service of dedication there shonld specially bs remembered the donors of the bells; also the Bishop of London, who land shown such an interest in Christ Clineh Cathedral, and who had gone down to the anciont foundry of Messrs. Mears and Staimbank, in Jondon, to kake patt in fle dedication of the casting of the bells; Ven, Areindencon LE. ア. Laycock, who was also present at that service; and the bellingere
Very espocially on this occasion would everyone think of the late King George V., after whom the great tenor bell was named; the four Hishops of Celumbia; George Hills, William Willeox Perrin, Augustine Scrivan and Charles de Veber Schoficld; and those who wore commenorated in this gift of bells: Clarles Raymond Nutt, Toln Smmael Henry Matson and Folm Robert Meredith Matson.
A prayor in commemoration of the departed was offered, especially for the Iala Sovercign King George V., the four Bishops of Columbia, 'by whose devoted labours the fomndations of the Charch's work in his western land lave been well and truly laid and extended Aftar a briof service, the bells were rung mufiled, and their majestic tones heard thus for the first time were deeply impressive. The service conchided with the lymm, 'When moming gide the skies,' the Nrtional Antbom and "The Btessing.

RALLY OF RINGERS.

Procsedings in the Belfry.

Mr. Anthony TE. Trotman lans sent us the following interesting deseription of the crection of the bells and the ringers' $\begin{gathered}\text { great efforts to }\end{gathered}$ do juslice to the great occasion.
The bella, says Mr. Jrotman, nrrived on Saturday, Jume 27th, by tho S.S. 'Narenta,' huving come via the Panama Canal. They were immadiately unloaded and placed on the gronnd outside the northwest towar of the Cathedral, where they remained on wiew to the oublie until Sunday, July 5th. Between Thursday, the 2od, and Haturday, the 4th, the girders mere raised and cemented in position. On Monday, July Sth, the bells were hauled up-all in onc day. The slides, stays, pulleys and ropes were fitted and tested on the Tuesday und Wednesilay, and the belts were tried for the first time (silent) on Thursdny, July 9 h - $n$ menn fent for amatenrs! Mr. E. W. Irard wus in chnige of the installation and supervised everything down to the tightening of the last bolt.

A great effort had been made to get together all the 'old country ' ringers who could be 'ferreted out ' in Victoria and other Vamcouver Island gettlements. As most of them had not even seen a bell-1 Hope for 25 or 30 years, three practices were held on the bells with their clappers tied. The necessity of these practices was soon proved, eveu though it was mostly 'rounds' that were rung. In addition, Mr. A. C. Limpus brought his team of stalwarts from Vancouver, which saved the day as far as change ringing went. Also, Mr. Ennest Weatherby came all the way from Los Augeles, California, U.S.A., specially for the occasion- 2,000 miles. Can you beat that ${ }^{2}$

However, eight men were found among the 'islanders' competeut enough to manage their bells, so it was decided to let this 'local. band ring rounds during the dedication service, and to let the Yanconver band have their fill afterwards, aided by such islanders as could ring clanges.

HOISTING THE TENDR BELL UP THE CATHEDRAL TOWER.

Perlaps it would be as well at this point to describe the geograply of this locality. Victoria is the capilal city of the province of British Columbia. It is situated at the south end of Fancouver's Island-so called because Capt. Vanconver was the furst to circumnavigate it and prowe that it was an island. Tha island (believe it or nob) is equal to the lengil of England without Scotland. The city of Vancouver is not on the island, but is the westermmost terminal city of the Canadian mainland. To get from Victoria to Vancouver of vice versa one has to travel nearly 100 miles over water. The disposition of lhis locality is not unlike the Continent of Australia and the igland of Thasmanis.
Tlie morning of July 18th tramed out to bo very wet. It poured and poured with rain, but Providence was very kind (as indeed she always is). Just about midday the rain ceased, tho sun broke througla and by 3.30 p.m., when the dedication service began, it was a beautiful Jtily aftertroon.

IN THE BELTRY
At 2.30 p.m., after an excellent lunch at the Windermere Fotel ${ }_{f}$ at which the Vancouver ringors were entertained, a move was made to the tower. The beils were rung up (still tied) and then unlashed. As can be imagined, there was muds speculation as to how they would sound, since no ane liad yet heard them. At last, after mons(!) of waiting, the order came co 'stand to,' the signal to ring the peal wab given, and then-the most majestic sound you ever heard! After nbaut 23 minutes, 'stand, was ordered, and every bell was 'set'-a miracle, since it was the first guccessiul stand 'we had yet liad. The tenseness of the past hour was relieved by a burst of clapping all round, and 'wonderful,' 'beautiful,' "grand " and 'super' were the epithets used to describe the belle.
Messrs: Meare and Stanbank cannot be congratulated sufficiently on the musical and mechanical qualities of the bells. The speed with which we were able to set them in the tower is ample proof of the fatiter. The peal is in the key of D flat, the tenor weighing 30 cwt . The next thing we slatll hear is that Westminster Abvey wants to exchange them for her own.
A few minutes later and gnother lot of rounds was rung, this time half-muffled, to commemorate F.M. King George $\mathrm{F}_{\text {-, }}$ Bishop Schofield, Capt. Nutt, John Samuel Hemry Matson aud John Mereditu Matson.
Bishop Schofeld died only a fortnight ngo, a few hours after he fist saw the bells. He took a very leen interest in the peal, and all are sorry that he was not spared to hear them.
After the service several touches of Graadsire Triples and sets of raunds were rusg. The bells were also in use for aloout three-quartexs of an hour before and after evening service. Though a Stedman band could have been formed, it was decided to ring Grandsixe well rather than Stedman indifferently.

At 9.30 p.m. the bells were rimg down and a great day in the life of Victoria and its ringers came to anl end. Only those who lave heen separated from belts for years at a stretch can realise what these bells-the westernmost peal in the world-mean to the ringers (and, indeed, the pablic) af this neighbourhood. The writer heard of one old couple, amost in their mineties, who hadn't heard bells for half a centiry. They ' listewed in,' but after about half a minute they were compelled to tum ib off. The emotion was too great.

Our most hearty thanks are extended to Mrs. Mozley and Mrs. Matson for their truly wonderful gift.
The rimgers in the tower inoladed: Fanconver Ishand ringers: E. W. Izard (Glassow), R. Carrier (Bediord), Mrs. Carrier (formerly Miss Evelym May, of Cramleigh, Surrey), Lieut-Commatade C. H. Brown (St. Budeaux, Devon), A. G. Melluish (Bath), T. Guest (Leigh, Lanes), H. Lingham (Northfleet, Kent), J. E. Hutchings (Ditislan, Devon), S. G. Krielt (Loudon min Northamptou), C. A. Gill (Probus, Comswall), L. Kerridge (Ipgwich), W. P. Jenve (Swansea), H. E. Hawlsing (St. Ives, Cornwall), R. Ponsforil (Totnes, Devon), G. W. Corthwell (Beverles, Yorks), A. Trotman (Long Bredy, Dorset). Vanconver City fingers : A. C. Limpus (Twickenham), G. W. Foster (Borden. Kent), 5. Hird (Gniseley, Yorks), A. Lomas (Macclesfield, Cheshire), A. King (London), T. Greennway (Reading), W. Sampson (Exeter). Apart from these there were Mr. J. Weatherby, of Los Augeles, U.S.A. (Guildford) and a Mr. Bates, from Saskatchewan.
Finally, it may be as well to add that a band of a dozen scouts is being traned in clrange ringing in an attempt to get the "ualive sons of Cauada' to take up the art. They can already ring a plain course of Grandsire Triples on handbells, one or two donble-handed. They are now leaming rope-sight.

BISHOP SCHOTIELD'S DEATH.

The late Bishop schofield, thrangl whose instumentality the belle at Fictoria were installed, died with tragic suddemess. During one of thie days the bells were on exlibition at the foot of the tower he was showing them to some friends. Afterwards lie walked across the street, then collapsed aud died. He had seen the promise of his great scheme fulfilled, but lie did not live to hear the bells sound Erom the tower.

The bells were installed in the tower bs Farrows, Ltd., of Esquinalt, under the superintendence of Mr. E. W. Izard, full working drawisgs and instructions having, of course, been sent out by the founders, Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. Except for a few minor adjustments, the ringere found them in splendid slape for riuging.

Mr. $A$. Limpus, whe has charge of the bells at the Cathedral of the Holy Rosary, Vancouver, was the first ringer ta arrive from that city. He reached Fictoria on Thursday, July, Qth, and was joined by the ather Vancouver ringers on Sunday merning. Mr. Pitman was to have joined the party, but two days before met with a serious accident, when a car in which he was riding was demolished by a railway train at a level crossing.
In the fower the bells are very noisy, but this is to be rementied by the provision of an additional foor hetween the ringers and the hells and a layer of somd resisting material. The noise, which drowned the voice of the conductor, culsed the first touch attempted to be lost, hut, the first KSA was rumg on the bells by A. C. Limpus 1 , G. W. Foster (condnctor) 2, F. Weatlerby 3, F. Fird 4, A. King 5, W. Sampen 6, A. R. Lomas 7, T. Greenaway 8.

On the following Sunday evening at the Cathedral of the Foly Rosary, Vancouver, a well-struck tauch of 504 Grandsire Triples was vung by A. G. Limpus 1, A. King 2, F. M. Bressey 3, E. Weatherby 4, F. Hird 5, G. W. Foster 6, w. Sampon 7, T. Greenaway 8.

The Lord Mayar of Liondon is to visit Vancourer this antuma. When he arrives the ceremony is to be broadcast to Fngland. Mr. Jimpus informs us that the bells of the Cathedral of the Holy Rosary will be rung, and he hopes they will be henrd by ringers on this side of the

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

IN THE WOROESTER DISTRICT

On Saturday, July 25th, the Wieken and district ringers had their anual outiug, when they visited the Worcester district. T'line first call was at Tysoe, not far from Baubury, where Bob Minar and Cantbridge Surprise were rung. Truveling vis Stratford-ou-Avons Worcester was reached about 11.45.
Pormission had been given to ring on the peal of twelve at the Cathedral. a pleasure which had been engerly anticipated by all. Rounds on the twelve were first rung. Then came a course of Stedman Caters on the back ten, followed by Cambridge Majoy on the uiddle eight, the ringing concluding with more ronnds on the twelve. After lunch at the Co-operative Cafe, Malvern Link was visited and some good work put in with the leells before going on to Upton-on-Severn, where tonches of Grandsire and Cambridge were rimg before a good "Tun down.' Tea at Bredon was iullowed by a visit to Finton-on-the-Green, where Superlative, Graudsire and Double Norwich were brought round. Going on to Evesham, a course of Stedman Caters, a course of Bob Royal and a touch of Stedman Catere were runty on the ten at the bell tower, and to make a perfect ending to a good day's ringing, an excellent course of Cambridge Major was brought round. Wicken was reached at about 11.30 , after a most enjoyable outing. Thanks are due to the clergy who gave permission to rilgg, to all the ringers who met the party and all those who helped with the arratigements.

BEVERLEY RINGERS VISIT TO OSSETT.
The vingers of Beverley Minster, accompanied by friends from St, Mary's, Beverley, Sutton-on-Hull, Cottingham and $\Omega$ visitor from Cirencester, lield an outiug to Obsetf, in response to an invitation from the ringers of Ossett Pariel Church when they visited Beyerley two years ago. Leaving the Mingter at 10 o'clock by taxis, the patty's first stop was Eowden, with its beautiful ring of eight, on which an hour's ringing was enjoyed. Travelling thence to Pontefract, they were met by Mr. H. Walters, who had kindly arranged for them to ring at St. Giles' Church, with its light peal of ten. After innch the bells were zung to various methods, the ringers cansidering themselves fortunate, as ringing at this chunch is very seldom allowed on Saturdays on account of the maritet.
The party then went on to Ossett, talking Mr. Walters with them. They were warmly welcomed by Mr. G. Bennett, who escorted them to the tower, where the bells wore at once raised. Thits is an excellent peal of bells, and touches of Stedman Triples and Grandsire Caters were very mach enjoyed. Aiter tea at the Flying Horse, the ringers
 Stedman Caters and three leads of Kenc Tweble Bob Royal with regiet the party left Osseft abont, 8 oclack alid set ont for iolue. Travelling by the way of Pontefract, where Mr. H. Waltors faid 'Goodbye to the party, Bewerley was eventually reached at 11 o"clock. Goodbye ' to the party, Bewerley was eventualy reached at on o chock.
The ringers take this opportunity to tender their sincere thanks to the clergy and steeplekecpers at the various fowers for their kind petnission to ring and the arrangements made

A THREE-COUNTIES TRIP

The ringers of St. Mary's, Rodbourne Chency, held their anmual outing on Saturday, July 25th, when, with a few Swindon ringing friends, including the old stalwart, Mr. C. Gardner, nud Mr. W. Kynaston (Branch Ringing Master), they had the experience of rumg ing in three different counties (Berks, Oxon and Glos.). Starting at peal of eight (after a bad star't, a rope having slipped the whecl) were soon going merrily to rounds, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, A move was theu made to the Thames-side village of Standlake, where a light peal of six is hung in a somewhat anigute position. They are in three tiers of two, owing to the smalliness of the tower, but were in good going order and the ringers iclt quite " at home.
After some little difficulty in locating the route, Southleigh was eventurll; reached, and the visitors were met by the Vicar. This ring of eight was found to be in good going order, but, being of long drazught and minus guides, they were at first a littic difficult to some. When this had been overcome several methods were rung. The Vicar afterwards acted as mude and explained the singular paintings that adorn the interior of the church, after which he entertamed the party to tea, an action which was highly appreciated. A course of Triples and a few tmos on the handbells were rendered, and after a vote of thanles lad been accorded the Vicar for his hospitality and the use of the bells, the ringers continned their journey. At this point, however, the elements ware somewhat ominous, and an intended short stay at Witney was, ofter a hrief consultation, dispensed with and it was decided to go direct to Clanfeld, which was reached 15 minutes before schedule. They were well rapeid by having this extra time on this fovely light ring of eight belis. The placing of the ropes in a complete circle gave another opportnnity to indulge in some well-struck Thiples and Major. Heve again the yisitors were met by the Vicar, who ex tended a welcome and an invitation for a future visit. Lechlade was the last ring of the day. Here medium six were raised and for about an hour were kept going in several Doubles and Minor methods. The organisers wish to thank the various incumbents and towerleeppers for the use of the hells and arrallgements made for the alzccess of the outing, which, in spite of the varied weather, was a very enjoyable ane.

DISS RINGERS' LONG TRIP.
The St. Mary*s Society, Diss, with Mr, E. Whiting, of Pulham Market, held their annual onting on Saturday, July 18th. The party left Díss at 6.30 a.zi. by notor-comel and made their first call at Baldock, which was reached at 9.30 a.m. Ringing commenced with a coures of Superlative Surprise at the Parish Chureh and Stedman 'I'riples. Going on to Dunstable, where they were met by Mr. A. E. Sharman, touches were rung on the fine peal at the Priory Church. Luncheon was Eerved at the Commercial Hotel, and the party proceeded to Watford. Duriag the journey handbells were bronglit into use. On arrival at Watford sevorul of the local ringers were waiting for the wisitors. The ringing here included a course of Cambridge Surprise. A short rum brought the party to Bushey, where Mr. Maurice Mibbert gave them a hearty welcome. After ringing Doubie Norwich, "Maurice" obliged by caling one of his 'fancy" touches of Stedman, after which he joined the party at tea. Afterwards the excursionists made for Hertford, which was reached at 7.20 p .m. Here again some of the local ringers wero wailing, and with their help touches of Stedman Cnters and Kent Treble Bob Royal were brought round on the [ine peal of ten, and Double Narwich on the back eigat. Leaving Hertford shortly after $8.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. , 'Sam,' who had been mounting the tenor boxes all day, was craving for half a 'whale. Nat before renching Bury xt. Edmunds was his hunger relieved. A fried fish shop was spotted as the chimes struck out for $11.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. 'Sam, and several of the party cleared up the Saturday night surphu fish, ele. Diss was finally reached nt $1 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. on Sunday moruing after brevelling 225 miles in $18 \frac{1}{2}$ hours. The ringers wish to thank all who helped to make the day such a auccess, especially Mr. Hibbert for his assistance in the arrangements.

A FALSE COMPOSITION OF TREBLE BOB

EIGHTEEN PEALS WITHDRAWN

The tilscovery has just been made by Mr. C. W. Roberts that an abridgod version of a peal of Treble Bob, composed by Mr. F. RobinEon, is ralse. This variation has been rung a considerable number of times, and Mr. G. F. Kippin, hon, secretary of the Surpey Associatiou, baw writes to withdraw no fewer than 18 peale, 12 of them rung by his own association between 1923 and 1933, and six of then, of which he whs the conductor, rung for other associations and guides.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCLATION

MR. J. BENNETT'S DISTINCTION.

A very pleasant meeting was held by the North and East District of the Middlesex Gounty Association and London Diocesan Guild at Barnet on Saturday, July 25th, The fne peal of eight was kept going during tha afternovi, and a short setvice was held in the Lady Chapel, conducted by the Rev. Ivan Young in the absence of the Rector.
Tea was very tastefully and efficiently served in the Church House by Mrs. Eldred, assisted by Miss Chambers and lady helpers, and a short business meeting followed, presided over by the association Ringing Master, Mr. A. W. Colos. The chairmanl apologised for the unavoidsble absence of the vice-presideat, Mr. G. W. Fletcher, also for the hon. seçetery, Mr. C. T. Coles, who was on holiday iu Cornvall.
The Chairman, on behalf of the members, congratuated Mr. Jameg Benneti on adtaining his ambition of ringing a peal on every day in the year: He was sure that Mr. Bennett deserved their congratulations as, besides being a very fine ringer, be could always be depended on to assist in teaching a young band at any time, a fact to which the speaker could well testify. 'Jim,' he said, was rever happier than when doing worle of this uature-
Mr. Bennett suifably replied, and mentioned that amongst the small band he had now joined was the late William Pye (who had called a peal on every day in the yeary, and he (the speaker) was proud to have been privileged to umpire the last two rung "in land "by that gentleman.
Mr. F. A. Barker frew attention to the fact that Mr. J. Sumpter, of Bamet, a foundation member, had just passed his 84th birthday, and it was decided that a letter, conveying the meeting's congratulations and best wishes, bo sent to him.
The meeting concluded with a liearty vote of thanks to the Rector, the Rev. P. C. Deart for the use of the bells; to the Rev. I. Yonng for the service; to Miss $K, M$. Bradford for accompanying the singing; to the ladies for the tea; and to Mr. W. J. Eldred for making all the arrangements.
The bells were kept poing until 9 p.m. under the able direction of Mr. T. Lock, everyone having spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-Replying to Mr. Newman's letter in your last issue, my report of the Crawley outing does not imply we thought the rehanging of Caversham bells was not properly done according to contract or that. I have a preference for some particular firm.
The visiting ringers remain completely in agreement with what I achally wrote, and if the same vicws had been held by the local band, mention in the Press would have been bencicial. J. M. CRIPPS.

When a ringer goes to live in the area of another association, the local becretary should forward bis now address to his general secretary, who will pass it on to the secretary of the association to which the member has gone, and, through him, the ringers in the town to which the member has removed will be able to hunt up the newcomer-if he needs it-

BISHAMPTON TOWER AND BELLS.

WORCESTERSHIRE VILLAGE'G APPEAL.

An appeal is being made by the authorities of Bishampton Church, in the Diocese of Worcester, for funds for the restoration of the church tower and bells. It is another instance of a poor agricultural parish with a small population being fuecd with a large expenditure, and any help that cas be given will be greatiy apprecinted. Ups to the present 9430 has been raised, but $£ 800$ is needed.
The tower was built somewhere about the year 1400. The belis were an ariginal six by William Bagley, of Feton, Northants, cast in 1690, of which the fifth was recasts shorthy after by Sanders, of Bromsgrove, in 170.5. There is also a small bell hang in the sonth balfry window, cast in 1721, by Sanders. The coudition of the tower is such that the perl camot be rung. The architect, Mr. Maurice W. Jones, of Worcester, has reported on the condition of the belfy as follows: - The tower has been neglected. A large number of joints of stonework on all faces are open and some pointing on the jaterior of the tower is also necessary. The buttresses to the bower are weak, as there are not sufficient "bond" stones to tie them into tho tower walls. Grecks have appeared and in several cases the bondiug stones are broken throngh. The stones near the base of the north-west buttress liave decayed and are broken away. The parapet stones are loose and threm stones of one pimacle are missing. The lead rog of the tower has been roughly pratched in the past and there are several cracks in the lead. The apron to the gutter is coming nway from the parapet wall. The gutters do not filif properly to the ontiets. Two new beavers are required to the roof and also new boarding ynder the lead.' This work will cost over E500.

Messrs. Taylor, of Loughborough, have reported ns follows with regard to the bells: 'Nome of the belle have been turned since they vere first hung, consequently they are badly worn at those places on the sound bow where the elappers have been striking for over 200 years. The timbers of the leell frame lave been so bady cub awny in places, and decay is so extensive, that any attempt to restore the existing frame would be equally as expensive, if not more so, than the providing of an entirely new framework, and a new frame would of course, make a far more substantial and permalsently salisfactory job."
The Diocesan Advisory Conamitee have endorsed their renommendations, which include the rehanging of the bells, and the erection of a new frame and new fittings, and a new floer for the ringers. The total cost of the bell work is estimeted at about 8300 .

With a population of 261 people, mainly engaged in agriculture, it must be evident that the efforts of Bishampton people will not be sufficient of themselves to raiso the necessary funds, wivi air appeal is, therefore, made to all bell-lovers within the diocese and beyond jts borders.
Goutributions slaquld be sent to "Bishamptom Chureh Tower and Bells Restoration Fund,' Bishampton Ficarage, Persliore, near Wiorcester.

THE ADVANCE OF METHOD SPLICING

The advance in the ringing of spliced methods has been almost equal to the progress of the composers in their genius in producing true peals. Melhod splicing, as we know it to-day, while it was first advocated 25 years ago by the Rev. H. Law James, is largely the product of the post-war period. Recently attention has been particularly focused on Spliced Ninor ringing, and once more we record new advances in the number of methods rung in seven true 720 's. The young Lincolnshire band, who have shown such enthusiasm in this type of peal in the last year or so, have not only accomplished the peal in sixty methods, which they lost a week or two ago through the breaking of a rope, but within a week have gone further and scored a peal with an additional method included, so that the total now stands at sixty-one.

We desire to pay a tribute to this wonderful performance, which those who know most about ringing spliced methods will appreciate highest. It is no small feat of memory to be able to ring this number of methods when called upon with time to think about what is to be rung. In one of these two last peals the ringers had to change to one or other of these 60 methods at an instant's notice no fewer than 199 times, from whatever position they might be in at the moment. It is mental acrobatics with a vengeance! It has been said that, next to a complete knowledge of the methods, the most essential qualification for ringing spliced methods is quick thinking. Both these things must be possessed in superlative degree by the men who can ring such a large number of methods in one peal. Those who are inclined to disparage splicerl ringing-and there are still some few about, but only because they do not fully appreciate its merits- are wont to point to the very slight differences between some of the methods. In our view it is these small variations of the work that add to the difficulties. There can be no question when the methods are in sharp contrast what course has got to be followed, but when the methods vary only slightly that is the time when trips can occur and upset the ringing. However small the difference, the ringer has got to know the method and to remember the method he is ringing-which is not so simple as it sounds.

These tingers who, in various parts of the country, are leading the Exercise in these wonderful developments which make peals in one methorl seem almost as simple as call changes, are doing a great service in raising the standard of peal ringing and the heights to which ambition, among young ringers especially, should soar. To the men by whose genius in composition these peals have been made possible, and the ringers of them in Cheshirc, Yorkshire, Lincolnshire and elsewhere, we raise our hat.

MINOR METHODS.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir -The followilg figures will prove that statements mado in your last issue concersing winor methods are misleading and incorrect.
No. 1 of the following, according to arbitrary defnition, is a Treble Bob method, No. 2 is a Delight method, Nos. 3 and 4 are Surprise methods.

Nos. 1 and 2 are both symmetrical methods and nerer have more than two places in any pair of rows, but they will not produce extents.

On the other liand, Nos. 3 and 4 both have four places in a pair of rows four times in each lead, and jet both will produce the critent of the changes.
Further comment is meedless.

A DELIGHTFUL TOUR IN FRESH FIELDS.
Once again August Bank Foliday proved a red letter diny for the ringers of St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells, when they sallied forth on the occasion of their annual outing to conquer freshif fields. This year 'Kentisls bells for Kentish ringers' was woted the order of the day and a delightful tour was mapped out by the captain, Mr. A. E. Richardson.
After a short run through pleasant country, the fivst stop was made at Birling. an interesting old clurch set in the midst of a quiet Kentish village, and soon this light peal of eight were set going to Stedman. Grandsire and Plain Bob. After inspecting the various points of interest in the church and tearing the mushroom enthusiasts away from their discoveries in the churchyard, a move was made to Harrietsham. Here an 11 th ceatury church offered a variety of interest, the belle naturally having frst claim on everybody's attention. The usual standard methods were rung on this peal, the curious fading effect wheu the bells were at backstroke enusing some amusement. The Vicar gave a hearty, if somewhat brief, welcome, and left the ringers with instructions to "go on making a joyful noise." Naturally they meeded nowsecond bidding and the time was soon wip.
$]^{7}$ rogress was somewhat delayed on the next stage of the journey owing to the demainds of the 'inner mas,' but eventurally the beantiful tower of Ashford was reached, where they were warmly welcomed by the local seeretary, Mrs. C. W. Everitt, and Mr. Everitt, with members of the local band, whose kindness in having everytbing in readiness was much appreciated. No time was wasted in ringing this lovely peal, as opportunity was restricted because of loca] weddings. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Kent Treble Bob Major were rung to evarybody's satisfaction, and a move was made to a nearloy restaurant for lunch. The journey was then continued to Bethersiden, another old Kentish village, and liere they found a beautiful peal of six bells sadly in need of ringers. With skilful havdling the resonant tomes of the bells were heard in Gambridge Minor; Plain Bob and Grandsire, and they were eventually lowered in peal in true style.
Fin route for Tenterden the party pansed to look round the quaint old church of High Halden, whose bells they were unable to -ing owing to the instability of the tower. Tenterden was reached at last where a "Teal ringers' tea' awaited the visitors. Needless to say, fult justice was done to this, and, after landbell ringing and conjuring tricks to wind up the proceedings, a move was made to the church. The tiue old paal of bells was set going to Grandsire and Stedman, and, in spite of a broken rope, quickly replaced, the time passed all (Continued in next column.)

too quickly, and the excursionists reluetantly took their leave of this splendid cliurch aud itg beautifnl bells.
A course of Grandsire Triples on handbells in the famous cellars of Tenterden brought to a close a most enjoyable day, and expressions of appreciation were heard on all sides. Thanks are due to the incumbents for allowing their hells to be rugg, to the local ringers who met and welcomed the visitors on each occasion, aud lastly to Mr. Richardson, the captain, for his selection of towerg, a pleasant route and his able management of the ringing thraughout the day.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

At long last there is a proposal afoot to recast and reladeg in uew iron and steel framework the ring of ten at the Gathedral of St. Philip, Birmingham. The present very poor bells have beew in had ringing condition for many years.

The joint meeting of the Herts and Middesex Associations at ist. Albans on August $29 t l$ should prove a great attraction, as the peal of twelve at the Abbey will be open for ringing.
"From Yo A.O.R.G.' was the endorsement of an envelope which reached us ou Thesday contrining a batcir of peal reports. The Ancient Order of Peal Grabbers were undoubtedy ont in force at Bristol on Angust Bank Holiday, when no fewer than wenty of them rang in the peals 'grabbed " that day!

Other mombers of the A.O.P.G. were in Kent. One of thems, who took part in three peals of Royal, cycled, for the purpose, 75 milen each way by night.

With a peal of Bob Royal at Bedington, Surrey, ou Satniday, Mr: W. H. Hewett completed peals of Plan Bah and Treble Bob Mfajor, Royal and Maximus on tower bells and handbells. Mr. G. W. Steere has now rung Plain Boh Major, Royal and Maximus ou tower bells and handbells.
Mr. A. T. Richards, who stepped into the breach at the last moment at Codsall, Stafis, and rang the tenor to a peal of Grandsire Triples when the rest of the band had met shor't for Major, is the first Codsall ringer to ring a peal for approximately 20 yents.

Mr. Tdwin Jennings, who now lives at Rreston, Laucs, and former[y resided at Kendal, planed for several yeats to ring a peal of Caters on the bells at this latter toma, the last peal of Gaters rung there being Grandsire, in 1898.

On five occasions a peal had been arranged and every time the band mot short. On August lank Holiday, to make sure, he took the precaution of arranging for eleven ringers. Only nine turned up!
However, making the best of a bad jols, the first peal of Oxford Treble Bot in Westmorland was rung. It was Mi. Jeanings' 25th peal in the county; no one else has ruag this number in Westmoriand.
The composition was Arthur Kgights" Nio. 1, composed in 1883, and is said to be now rung to Oxford for the first time.
The members of the London County $\Delta$ ssociation who raug a peal of Bob Royal at Isleworth, Middlesex, on July 25 th last, are wrong in stating that that was the first penl in the method on the bells. Mr E. C. S. Turner informs us that a peal fn that method was rung there on March $3 \mathrm{rcd}, 1934$.
The ringer of the eleventh in the peal at Surflect on Augist lat was Frederick W. Stokes, not George as printed.

NORWICH RINGER MARRIED.

WEDDING OF MR. NOLAN GOLDEN.
On Wednesday, August 5 th, the marriage between Mr. Nolan Golden, of Nownich, zud Miss Iris Daly, of Cleckendon, took place at SS. Petea and Paul's Church, Checkendon, Oxon.
The bridegroom is a member of the Norwieh Diocesan Association being the secretary of both the Nobth and Sonth Norfolk Buanches and having just completed his third century of peals for the association.
The ceremony was conducted hy the Rev. R. D. St. George Edwards himself a ringing member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and a contpany of ringers, including Mr. Langley, of Peppard (formerly of Wokingham), and Mr. Sid Smith, of Nettlebed, rang touches upon the bels Later in the afterwoon the bridegroon took part in the ringing, and in the evening a company, under the leadership of Mr. Pat Camon, attempted a peal on the six bells. After returuing to the church to listen to the ringing, Mr. and Mrs. Goldeu left on a motoring toun of Devon and Comwall

The recipients of many presents and expressions of goodwill, Jir. and Mrs. Golden appreciate none more highly than the greetings of the members of the Norwich Diocesan Association and the two easy chairs for which the members have subscribed, together with an album containing the names of the subseribers.
In the evening a band rang a very well-sturek quarter-pent of Minar (1,260 ohanges), being 720 of Kent Treble Boh ard 540 Plain Boln Richard T. Hibbert 1, Miss Stella Davis 2, Miss Marie R. Cross 3 James F. Smith 4, Edgar Humprey 5, A. Patricl Cannor (ronductor) 6. This was believed to lye the first quater-peal of Minor on the bells which were cast by Lester and Pack
The band take this opportanity of wishing Mr. and Mrs. Goldea long life, health and happiness, and the writer would like to rhank the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg for kindly getting the hand together for the guarter-peal, and the Rector for kindly giving permissian to nilag.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

NEW SECRETARY ELECTED.

The $49 \mathrm{th}_{1}$ annual festival of the Chester Diocesan Guikd was held at St. Mary's, Liscard, on Monday, Augtust 3 rd . The proceedings began with a service, at which the Rev. W. S. Cond, Rural Dean of Wallasey, gave nn juspiring and delightful address.
At ihe business meeting, presided over by Mr. J. W. atiner, the Master, who was reelected, the Rev. H. H. Kidgway, Vicar of Tarvin, was elected hon. secretary and treasurer in place of the Rev. W. R. Ingliam, who has left the diocese for a parish in Gloucestershive.

Tha report and statement of accounts was accepted on the reconmendation of the committee.
MIr. F. Parker gave an account of the Central Comenil meeting lield in London at Whitsuntide, and this was confirmed by Mr. A. Crawley.

As the jubilee of the Guild falls mext year, it was decided to make a salastantial donation towards the cost of the almgmentation of the bells at Chester Cathedral, and also to hold a dimer and concert as near as possible to the fondation date, which falls in November. It was decided to hold the next annual festival at Chester on July 24th, 1937.
The ammal report first recorded with real grief and regret the death of the late Master, the Rev. C. A. Clements, and offered deep sympathy to Mrs. Clements and fomily
'He came among us, says the report, "in 1924, with a great ring ing recond and reputation, on his appointment to the Rectory of Grappenhall, and at once made his presence and influence as a ringer felt. On his election as Master, he did all he could to support and further the aims and activities of the Guidd. It was due to failing health that he felt compelled to resign the Mastership in the summer.

Turning to the activities of tle Guild, we ave greatls pleased to be able to report considerable improvement in the general situation-the standard of Suuday ringing has been well maintained, but a good deal more active interest has been developed among the younger ringers. We lope that this means that the depression of the past few years has ouly been temporary and is fast passing away. ARREARS OF SUBSGRIPTIONS.
We wish, however, to point out the consideralse unuber of menbers, in some cases all the menbers of a tower, who are in aryears witll their subscriptions. We mention that here becanse it geems to oceur most frequently where there is little interest taken in metlood rincing. The obvous remedy is for the branches to stimulate interest in change ringing in the fowers, but we know the difficuldies. Various efforts have been made to reconcile defaulting towers, and some have proved succesfinl. No fewer than 42 incumbents auth bands of ringers were approached by the Guild during the autumn with this same end in view. We should yever rest contert till all towers in the diocese are in full union.

There is a further decline of tonorary membership from 55 in 1933 to 40 in 1935, but the ringing memberghip shows an substantial increase from 608 in 1934 to 635 in 1935 . We ask all our members, new and old, to do all in their power to further the interests and aims of the Guild.

The finances of the Guild are in a sound and healthy condition, as can be seen from the balance sheet for the year. After some correspendence, the trustees decided not to iuvest the eloo as authorised, hut this should he done now ns soon as possible. The committee desine to recomment strongly that the Diocesan Board of Finance the asked to undertake the duties of trustees of the Guild This would obviate the trotble and expense caused by changes of trustees. and the Guild would still have full comtrol of its funds.

As hinted qbove, we have to record a large increase in 1935 in the tumber of peals zumg, 65 as against $47 \mathrm{fn} \mathrm{1934}$,an increase of 18 ; 160 ringels taking part as against 98 , while the increase from five to 22 in the munher of first pealers shows the interest taken by the vounger ringers. We wish to congratulate these 22 ringers and alsa the five ringers who conducted their first peal. Three of the peals were rung in honour of King George's Jnbilee. The mutti-nethod band liave been to the fare in ringing two peals in 40 and 42 methods respectively; the greatest mmalser of methorls rung up to then, in sever tine extents. We congratulate then heartily and are proul to know that since then they have done still greater things and wiped the eyes of their East. Country rivals! The following peals are also woitly of specinl mention : One of Minor at Birkenhead in 14 Spliced Surprise methods; one of Major in three Surprise methods at Norbury: one peal each of Cavishrooke Delight. Hereward Boh Major now Hereward Triples, and three peals of Simprise Minar in seren methods.
' November 12th, 1937,' concludes the renort. 'will be the fiftiet.l anniversary of the formation of the Guid. To mark the necasion, the Guild propose, with the consent and sumport of the Dean and Glapter, to angment the Cathedral ring of eight bells to ten. A committee lias been formed to promote the scheme nad collect funds, and it is hoped that with the keen support of all interested there will soon be in the diocese another fine ring of ten bells. We desire again to draw the attention of all peal ecryespondents to the fuportance of reporting acourately the pames ant initials of those taking part in peals Carelessness in this may mean a lot of unnecessary confusion, tronble nud correspondedce. Lastir, we wish to thank ail who have assisted in the well-being and smooth runring of the Guild.'

ANOTHER RING OF TWELVE.

NEW PEAL FOR MANCHESTER TOWN HALL Old Bells to be Recast.

Nanchester Town Hall is to have a ring of twelve bells, with a tenor of about 40 cwt., in place of the present peal of ten with a tenor of 52 cwt ., which have been in very indifferent condition for some years.
Last Prilay's issue of 'The Manchester City News' coutained the followiar paragrabla:-

A E1,260 tender of John Taylor aud Co., of Loughborough, has heen accepted for removing the existimg Town Fall bells aud providing and lixing a carillon of 23 bells and electro-preumatic apparatis on new steel framework.
This appears to he the only information that has been made public, and a certain fmount of secrecy seems to have been maintained about the ringing peal.

We understand, however, that 13 of the 23 bells are to be lang for ringing, the additional semi-tone providng for a lifht eight in addition to the ring of Ewelve. It ig lroped to lave the bells ready in time for the King's Coronation.
Manchester is the anly Town Hall in England that has a ringing peal of bells, tud the oficial ringers are members of the City Police

SPLICED MINOR RECORD TWICE RAISED.

LINCOLNSHIRE BAND RINGS 61 METHODS.

Fifteen Treble Bob  Methods in a 720.

Twice within a week the recorl number of methods in a peal of Minor has been raised by the band, five of whom on Sundays ring at the little Lincolnshire village of Algarkirk, and the other at the neighbouring Church at Frampton. At Whaplode, on August Bank Holiday, they rang seven 720 's in which no fewer than sixty methods were spliced, and in the course of the peal the method was changed no fewer than 199 times!
despite his modesty-knows every method in the Central Council's Collection of Minor methods!

Although so much depends upou the conductor in these complicated peals, and Mr. Taylor has, up to now, called all theil progressive combinations, the strength and probably the future of this band lies in the fact that there are otters in it who have called spliced peals. Indeed, on the same day that they rang the 60 methods they rang another peal in 28 methods, conducted by Cyril Burrell, while Harol Barsley has also conducted peals on this plan.

On Saturday they increased the number of methods by one, when they rang a peal in which they included in the first 720 a method rung for the first time-Wrangle Alliance. These are performances on which the band will be heartily congratulated.

Never before have sixty methods been rung in one peal, and while it is not the absolute maximum that could be put into scven true '720's, it is going a long way towards it.
The penle are specially interesting, not only on account of the record number of methods included, but heenuse, also, one of the 720's was made up of 15 methods with a Treble Bob hunt-the most that it is betieved possible to include in a six-bell extent. In previous peals this 720 had included, at most, 12 methods.
The arrangement of the peals is again due to the genius of Mr. A. ©. Driver, and this praticular 720 includes no method in which uny hell does nll the work of the mellod. Indeed, there is only one method of which five leads are tung. There are four methods of which there are three leads, three with two leads and seven with only one lend apioce.
Mr. Vemon Taylor was again the conductor, and his task was a prodigious one. The band are all young fand enthusiastic ringers and there is no 'secrot'. nhout the way in which they achieve these performances. There is no question of lcarning any special pieces for the purpose of the peal. Every method they ring they know from end fo end, and they can and do riny them in separate 720's (alwnys, of conrse, allowing for the necessary combination of Alliance and Little modhods). Vornon Taylor-perhaps lie will not mind us saying so,

The short time in which they have jumped away with spliced peal ringing, until they have made themsclwes unexcelled in this category, can be seea in the following record of their progress:-

Method splicing as we know it to-day is quite a modern innowation, althougli Tabian Stedman himself was the first to 'splice' methods when he gave the Exercise of his day what he called "The Great Experinemt." Modern splicing, however, was introduced by the late Rev. H. Law James. On February 15th, 1911, a peat, comstisting of 14 Surprise Minor methods in seven that and complete T20's was sung at fikenham by members of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. The fact that methods could be thus spliced was Mr. James' discovery, and sinco the diea was made known in 1911 it bas been shown that there is a very wide field for mixing the methods. It is now known that, with very rew exceptions, all the methods will splice with one or more others in groups. It has been left to the ingenuity of Mr. A. G. Driver to slow that over eighty can he included in seven true 720 's.
The thing that gave the greatest fillip to ringing peals in this form was the perfornance at Norburf, Cheslite, whera band rang a peal in 35 Treble Bob methods, and as the outcome the book, Methed Splicing,' was pablished br 'The Ringing World.' In this book Mr. J. W. Parker lucidy explains how the 'splicing' of methods cau be effected, and chapters by Mr. J. P. Fidier give the ringer practical hinis on the ringing of 720's in more than one method. It is published at 1 s . $\mathrm{Kd}_{\mathrm{c}}$, post free.

The 35 -method peal at Norbury was the outcome of a series of previous efforts leading up to what was undoubtedly a great performance, but thab band, as a band, went no funther. Some of the members of it, with others who have caught their euthusiasm, have, howevar; carried on the good wotk, and the progress made fittingly forms a part of this article.

TAMPERING WITH COMPOSITIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir, -I think it would be wise if it were pointed ont where the abridged peal of Treble Boh, mentianed in your last issue, is false, as a good many ringers would not take it as false and they may ask where the repetition actually ocenrs.
If we use alternative calling for the third course of the first part, it is false with the secoud course of the second part, and also with the fourth course in the third part.

First, rows whicli occur when the treble is in $5-6$ up in the third lead of the third courge, repeat when the treble is in 5-6 down in fifth lead of the second course of the secoud part. Second course end, Pari J. 2546378

MORE PEALS WITHDRAWN

In addition to the peals withdrawn last week on account of the discovery of the falseness of the abridged version of I '. Robinson's peal of 5,184 Treble Bob, the following are also withdrawn :

Juthe 22ad, 1932, at Egham, Surrey.
August 1, 1932, at St. Mary's, Ealing, Middesex, both conducted by F. Corke and rung for the Middlesex Association.

Mr. Kippin's experiellce in eallitg a false peal twice in one day must be unique. From the list published last week it will be scen that he called this composition to Kent at King's Lymy and to Oxford at Swafham on April 17th, 1933.

DEVONSHIRE GULLD.

NORTE-WEST BRANGH AT NORTH LEW.
There are many beantiful medimpal willages in our land, but none more quaintly pieturesque than North Lew, away by the Dartapoor Hills and over which Yes Tor seems to frown. Perhaps never before have the musical bells in the little Norman lower responded to touches of Kent, Bob Minor, Grandsire Doubles and Stedman Doubles, as they did on Saturday last, when the North-West Branclit of the Devonshire Gtild herd its summer meeting. The Rev. E. F. Cox president of the Guild, was supported by the Rev. W. H. Smale and Messrs. Sangwin (hon. secretary) and W. Shears (treasurer of the branch), as well as members from Bridgente, Holswortby, Plymouth, Brampford Speke and Petersmarland and the local band.

Canou R . Hervey (Rector) conducted the service, after which the 40 ringers and friends present assembled in the Parish Roon for tea.
In the business meting following, the Rev. E. V. Cox acted as chairman in the absence of the Rev. W. Ravenhill, and votes of thanks were accorded the Rector for the use of the bells and for the impressive service; the ladies who provided the 'solid comiort' of excellent refreshment; the organist, choir and the local band, who had helped in the arrangements.
Mr. F. Sangwin was elected as Ringing Master of the branch.

PEAL COMPOSITION CORRECTION,

To the Editor.

Dear Sir-The composition No. 1,794 Stedman Cinques by John Carter, page 57 in the Gloucester and Bristol annual report for the year ending December, 1935, requises correction. The 13th course end sloould read 314256 , sind the $25 t h$ (turning course) should read Single at 9 .

FOR BEGINNERS.

UNION TRIPLES
It lias been oue of tho oljects of these articles to make reader not only think for themselves, but also work for themselves. We have sometimes described methods and left the berimer to work them out for himself. When he hag done it he has a far surer knowledge than be wonld acquire merely by reading what could be said about it. Pencil and paper are the best aids to requiring a knowledge of clange ringing.
How far our advice is carried ont we do not know, but it is always encouraging to find that someone, at least, lias found the value of it and become interested. Mr. Emiest F. Behan, of Carltou, Melbontne, in a letter dated July lst, says:-

Your articles fol" beginners ins "The Ringing World" week by week concerning various methods are interesting and appreciated by at least one ringer in this far-off country-the land of the Southerm Cross. Eppecially did J appreciate those on Stedman, concluding with directions on calling Thurstans' great four-part.

My last issue to hand is dated May 22nd, and in that you advise n "chango of diet" and give a brief outline of "Oxford Bob." The concheding words seemed a sort of challenge to me, so I set to work and made out the first lead. This I followed up by getting the lemaining fout, und was interested to note the lead ends are identical with thoss of Ghudsire, thotrgh not in the same orler. I think my work is correct, as it appenrs to cary out the rules laid down.

I then set to work and evolved the " nysteries " of the "s botb", you describe, and followed thjs hy doing likewise with the "single" (which you do not describe). Of course, J had to "think it over" for 10 or 20 mimutes, and conchuded that, as in Grandsire, one pair of bells wonld be reversed, and, as this conld not occur in 2-3, it must, be in 4-5. By making on 3 Jd's, Ath's nud 5 th's place at the call, the "trick was done." Rather curious, the work of the seeond, viz. : (I) a 41 h's place at the call 'single'; (2) a single dotge in $4-5$; followed hy ( 3 ) a 51 h's place and down to lead. This is the only solution I can see if the methon is to be athered to. I fear this work of the bell coming "out of the hunt" would "mystify" some of us here. Amyhow, it is really sinple.

For my owis satisfaction I then worked out a few touches in the methot, nud, sumaning the whole thing up, I thought a couple of hoults had been jully well spent, and so got "under the blankets" aur slept well."
Now this inclicates real iuterest and it will gratify our cistant correspondent to frow that his elacidation of the Single was in strict accordande with the Central Council's 'reconmendations as to calls." The Plain lead, Boh lead and Single lead for Oxford Bob Tuples are given as maler:-

Further, in lis letter, Mr. Belian says: ' Perhaps you may have an articte on " Union Triples" later on? Arthur Bames (one of the finest ringers liat ever resided in Australia) used to talk of this method many years ago, but, thougli interested, I never remember it being rung here.
Union Triples is very little ung now anywhere. It never had a very extensive rogue, and the discouragement by the Comeil of methons that me not 'symmetrical' and which do not prodisce the orthodox lend ends led to its being alnost entively dropped. Despite these Enilings, however, Union Triples is interesting to rimg, and its toaches, with donhle dodging behind at every lead end, can be more musical, in our view, than Grandsire.

FIFTY YEARS AT LINSLADE TOWER.  MR. T. VICKERS' JUBILEE.

Mr. F. Fickers, of St. Barmabas Church, Linslate, Bucks, who jainet the hand in 1886, has just completed 50 vears as a member find has been foreman of the band since August 12th, 1895.
At the time he joined there were six bells in the tower and only cnlt whage ringing was done. After Mr. Fickers had been made orcmuth, the late Mr. George Falentine, of stony Stratford, paid a week-end risit to Linslade and interosted Mr. Fickers in half-pull ringing, writing out a course of Grandstre Doubles for hinn. The Jinglade men worked hard to learm the ruethod ath soon had the entisfaction of ringing most of the plan methods on six bells.
In 1904 two more bells were added to make a peal of eight, fud within a few weks they rang the first aunter-pend of Grandsire Trinles on the hells with, an entirely local band. Then they commenced to practise the highey methods and soon were able to ring melleed to praclise the higher methods
Superlative and Cambridge for practice.

VICE-CAPTAIN OF PYTCHLEY TOWER WEDS.

On Saturday, July 25th, Mr. Ronald Coleman, the popalar vicecaptain of the Pytchley tower, was married to Miss Dora Beasley, sister of "Son' Beasley, anotlier Pytchley ringer. The ceremony, which was fully chora! (the bridegroom being a chorister as well as a ringer), took place at the Church of All Saints, Pytchley. The Vicar (the Rev. J. N. Hill) officiaced. Prior to the ceremony the bells were rung to various netliods of Doubles by J. Jharuwell, S. Sargent, C . Brown, R. Wiliamson, G. S. F. Brown and S. Mutton (conduetor). Further ringing; in which H. Munton also took part, with the customary 'firing, took place as the bride and bridegroom left the church and matil the bappy couple departed for a boneymoon at Teignmouth, Devon.
It is interesting to note that Pytchley tower"s "G.O.M.," aged 81 (M1. R. Williamson), and their yonugest riuger, ased I2 (Cecil ']rown), took part in the ringing. Mr'. aud Mrs. Coleman will reside at Clifton Close, Kettering.

SIX FIVES.

HALT A DOZEN NORTHANTS TOWERS VISITED.

Five-bel towers do not seem to offer much attraction to the majority of ringers, but hali a dozen enthusiasts from Banbury and Coventiry, housed in a couple of cars, paid a risit to six such towers, siturated north-east of Bambury, in the county of Northants, on August B bh.
Heeting at Chipping Wardeu, they first inspected the olharch and the bells. Owing, howevel, to repairs to the roof, doey did not ruc here, but went on to Lydon, where the local captain gave them some advice before puling the bells up. "That tueble you must watch, he said, 'for the rope's at uiddin' on the wheel."

After a slort stay ut Mureton Pinkney, the ribgors went an tu Culworth, where tea was taken ab the local ima. Here ane of tha company, who shall remaiu umamed, demoustrated his estraordinary skill ou a dart board, which, by chance, lappened to be hanging oin the wall of the tea room. The bells at Culworth lave been recenty rehurg, and it was quite a pleasure to ring an Ehem. Marston St Lawrence was the next tower. Owing to the noise of the bells in the ringing chamber, the 'Camonian' method of calling lad to be employed, Hamely, 'Try' for a Bob, and ' wap-wap' for a Single
However, in spite of these dificnaties, atew 120 were managed before lowering the bells aud going on to Farthinglioe. Here was found an anti-clockwise ving, and, after altering the "furniture" in the beltyy round ia lit, the wisitors managed to find enough floor space on which to ring. Finally they wisited Thenford. Fere, they were told, the Eells had not been rung for ten years. The long rest did not seem to have done them any good. One bell had practically come adrift from its stock, as was soon discovered when an effort was made to ring her up; but a spamer, brute-force and the amatenr lhellhangers soon made the bell ringable. However, two shont touches were guite enough, and the ringers managed to get away without dong any apparent damage to the fittings;

The thanks of the 'tourists' are due to Mr. W. A. Stote for aranging the tour, and alsw to Mr. Pearson for acting as guide in a district he linows so well.
second) of the latter, lyut, unlike these two metlods, it does not produce tire same series of lead ends

There is, of conrse, a bell in the hnat. The start is exactly the same as Grandsire, whicli method it follows until the treble cones to its handstroke lead, when 5 th's place is made. The bell that makes 5 th's then dodges in $5-4$ (down), while the two hells belifind have a double dodge. The bells maling 3rd's and dodging in $4-5$ up work as in Grandsire.
The bob is a Guadsire boh, and the single is made by the thred widdle bells lying still, ns in Oxford Bob. Here is the essential offference in the first lead of Grandsire and Thaions:

Now try to write ont the method and learm its work. In any case it is an juteresting clange from Grancsire and not very far removed from it. The dodging hehind will be found exactly like a Grandsire bob, and it is done by the same pair of bells.
The Council's 'Cellection of Peals,' Section I, contains a big selec tion of peals, and they are by such celebrated men as the Revs. C. D. P. Daries and E. Bankes James, Dr: A. B. Garpenter, Joha Carter and Joseph J. Parleer. Tliese ning must have lad a high opinion of the method or they would nat lave devoted so much of their timo and talents to composing peals.

L.IVERPOOL RINGERS' EXCURSION.

A most enjoyable day was spent by the St. Nicholas", Jivernoel, ringers on Saturday last. They left Liverpool at-9 a.w., and. arriving at Todmorden at 10.45 , were met by Mr. Herbert Devonpont, the genial vice-president of the Lancashire Issociation. The first tower visited was Hytholmroyd, where a mice handy peal of eight (tenor I4 ewt.) was found. Several good touches were rung in rarions nethods, including one of Oxford Treble Bob Major, in which Mr. Carler, a memlier of the local company, took part. The party were joined by Mr. George Haigh, who escorted them to Hebden Bridge, where ain exceltent lumch awaited them at the White Lion Hotel. After andice liad becn done, the ringors starggled up the hill to Heptonslutl, where they foumd an admirable peal of eight (temor 18 cwt ), and were agreeably surprised to meet Mr. Leslie Miorris, of Iteeds. sovernl excellent tonclies were rung on these bells, made famous hy the ringing on them of the 17,824 Treble Bob Major record, The party then went on to Todmorden, where, after ten. they were met at tho Parish Church by Mr. and Mrs. Grabtree and Miss Rose Bell, who gave them a most cordial reception and assisted in ringing louches in wrious methods. The bells, by the way, are a very fine pen with a fenor 24 ewt. This conchuded the ringing, which througlt out the duy hati been enjoyed. Nine methods were ting from Grandsire up to and inchdirg London Surmise. A pleasant half-hour was afterwards enjovably spent in Todmorden prior to departure for howe. The thanks of the band are erteuded to the chnrch authorities and athers, in particalar to Mr. FI. Devonpert and Mr. George Faigh, who helped to make the day so successful.

LAVENHAM RINGERS' 120 MILES TRIP

The mombels of the Lavenlam Society held their 15th ammal outing on Gaturday, July e5th, Starting soon after 8 a.m. and traveling br motor-coachs, a rut of 23 miles bronglat them to widdenhall. The Rev. J. B. Sawbridge (Rector), the Rev. C. Walsh (crrate) sud Mr. P. Foldham welcomed the party. The proceedfngs commenced with a short service, conducted by the Rev. C. Walsh. Ifterwards courees of Stednan Jriples, Kent and Deuble Norwich were mang. The mext call was at St. Nary's Church, Ely, where the Rector met the ringers, After a few comges of Grandsire, Stedman and Oxford Trelyle Bob and a hurried inspection of the Cathentral, a move was made for Littieport, where the town was en fete for its ammal ngriculdwal show: which mrecedes a gala week. Bob Major; Kent Treble Boh and Superyative were the methods tung. Iuncl wat served ot the Crown Im, Welney. A fow conrses and tumes on the handhells, also the usual vote of thamks to the organiser, followed. The jonruey was then coutinued to wisbech, which was reached in a downponr of rain. Here the party were met by Mr. WY. Warmis, for merly a member of the Lavenlam band. En, with other nembers of the Wisbech and Elm bands, joined in touches of Stedman Triples, Moh Majar. Double Norwich Major, Kent Freble Boh Major and Grandsite Caters. Arving late at Downham Market, the party had to wait until after evensong, when a course each of Graudsire Triples and Kent were rumg. After an interesting 'clat' with the Rector (the Rev. W. ## UMPIRES FOR RECORD PEALS?

In 1902 the Central Council laid down as 'desirable" certain conditions which should be complied with 'in the case of a peal rung to surpass a previous peal.' One condition suggested is that not less than seven days' notice of the attempt shall be given in the Ringing Press, and that similar notice be sent to the conductor or, if he cannot be traced, to some other member of the band who rang in the peal which it is proposed to surpass, and also to the secretary of the Guild or Association under whose title the earlier peal was rung. Another condition relates to the lodging of a sealed copy of the composition with a responsible officer of the Guild or Association under whose title the band is to ring.

When these conditions were laid down the records in mind were those of increasing lengths in various methods, and they are quite wise provisions. There is, and can be, nothing compulsory about them, but a band that claimed to have rung a record length without, at least, having given notice of its intention would run the risk of having doubts thrown upon its record. But ringers have accepted the conditions of the Council as fair and reasonable when one band seeks to wrest laurels from another, and they have been generally acted upon. Their desirability and purpose is obvious.
Since these conditions were framed, however, a new form of 'record breakng' has developed. 'Spliced ' ringing has its own records, not of length, but of intricacy and, in Minor, as we have seen in the last year or so, there has been a rapid advance in the number of methods included in the normal peal lengths of 5,040 changes. Records in this direction are being rapidly broken, and it bas led Mr. C. T. H. Bradley, who has himself taken part in peals in many methods, to suggest the application of the Council's conditions for record peals, at any rate so far as it relates to prior notification, to these performances on six bells. The Council's conditions say nothing about 'length,' but refer, as we have pointed out, to 'a peal rung to surpass a previous peal.' So that without any amendment the provisions can be easily made to apply to any form of peal record.

The utility of their application to a multi-method peal, however, is dubious. We doubt if there is any ringer with a sufficiently acute ear to say, merely by listening, whether six or ten or twelve or fifteen methods have been rung in a 720, and unless the listener is able to do this his presen ce as a guarantee of the peal's accuracy is wasted. From this point of view, indeed, there is less need for a 'listener' than for the ordinary peal. You cannot juggle easily with the composition of those extents which include a large number (Contiuuted on page 542.)

of methods and expect to get the bells round at the end of the 720．You might ring it，say，in two methods，instead of in eight，but it is hardly likely，even if the conductor were dishonest enough to＇try it on，＇that all the rest of the band would acquiesce in what．after all，would be cheating，and from which they would get no possible satisfaction．

That opens up the question whether，if there is to be any check at all，it would not be better in peals of such com－ plicated construction to have an＂umpire＂in the tower，with the figures bofore him，as used always to be the case and is still sometimes done for handbell peals．This，we think，is the only practicable method of imposing a check on what is rung，but just as the Exercise has come to recognise that even in handbell ringing the honour of the band can be trusted，so in Spliced Minor peals the integrity of the ringers can be accepted．Unless the whole band deliberately sets itself out to hoodwink and cheat the Exercise there is not the slightest risk，we think，of peals in a large number of methods being＇cooked，＇while，we imagine，it would be almost impossible to ring a peal so complex as one in sixty methods which was full of trips or so badly struck as not to be worthy of record．

FOR BEGINNERS.
MORE VARLATIONS OF OXFORD TREBLE BOR.
Some wonderful performances in the way of method splicing have been cconbing attention lately. Method splining is beyoud the scope of these articles, but there must be ringers who are able to aing Kent or Oxford Treble Bab wha would Iike ta get on to this more udfanced stage of ringing, and, therefore, some cxplanation of other methods, which they must, of course, learm before they can splice them, may be helpful.

Methods which will aplice iuto tirue ron's are mainly hose which contain the same changes in a lead or iu a plain conrse, but cuntain then, of course, in a different order-otherwise they wonld not be different methods. Sometimes the differeuce in them is only between the lends, when, in one, gecand's place is made, and in the other sixth's place. Sometimes the difference is only when the treble lies its whole pull behind. In one method this may be accompanied by one trell leading a whole pull; in another method by a bell making fifth's place. All that happens in such cases th that the rows forming the method are shunted into a different lead.

This was well ilhustrated in our anticle of three weeks aug, when we endeavoured to describe the differences between Oxford Troble Bob, Sandal Treble Bob and Duke of Norfolk Treble Boh.

But in addition to thjs 'shunt,' producen by the introdinetion of 5th's place, or 2nd's place, or both, there are other methods which produce the same rows in a differeat order by, for instance, placemaking in $3-4$ instead of dodging and an accompanying change-over of the bells working lagether in 1-2.
Just examine this, for instance. Here are three methods allied to Oxford Treble Bob and producing the snme rows, but when the treble is in $5-6$ the following variations are made:-

| Oxford | Capel | Kingston | London  Scholars  Pleasure |
| :--- | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 263514 | 203514 | 263514 | 263514 |
| 625341 | 623541 | 623541 | 625341 |
| 623514 | 265314 | 265314 | 265314 |
| 265341 | 263541 | 625341 | 683541 |
| 256431 | 625341 | $\overline{263541}$ | $\overline{265341}$ |

In continuing the mellod, remember that below the line flaere wilh be places made correspouding to thuse above the line. We have not inserted them, becanse we want our reeders to prick them out for thenselves. When they have done so, they will find that the eiglit rows are alike in each of the last three methods, and, if they will gro a step further, they will find the four missing rows in Oxford in tho lead beginuing 164523 .
But we want those who are interested in this subject to go still further. Oxford Treble Bol has been explained (see "Ringing World for July 31st), and if its construction is understood, there should be no difficalty in writing out a lead of each of the other three methods given here and learning them all. Except in the work when the treble is behind, and which is shown above, there is no difference between fiem and Oxford.
Here, then, is the opportunity for adding to the repertoine, and these with Sandal and Duke of Norfolk, also dealt with in the EAme article as Oxfond, you have a group of methods which, when you get a little more advanced, yon can couple up in twos ar threes or in what number you like to make $a$ 720; that is, as far as the ringing of them is concerned. Your conductor, however, will have to be eareful what composition he uses, if he wants a true extent.

TRUE 720 'S OF $130 B$ MINOR.
And now to answer an-inquiry sent us by ' Learning Conductor." This is what he says: "I arlled a 720 of Plain Bob Minor with the 3 rd bell to run In twice and Make the Bob, five times repeated. I put the single half-way, when the 2nd was making 2nd's place, the 4th was 3 ri's place, and ont, and the 3rd made 4ths and In. Is this false? I liave been told 1 should have put the single when 2 and 5 were doclging at the back in 5-6."
With the calling adhered to in the way" "Learning Condnotor" explains, the belle would not come round at the end, hecanse the singles reverse different pairs of bells.
Has he got his facts quite rightp He does not ady where he called the second single, and we car only presume he put it at the erd. If - the firsf single comes half-way, there is 10 place for the second single, except at the end, withond getting a repetition.

Calling the 3rd twice In nnd to make the Bob in that order in the scond half prevents the single being put at a plain lead es it was in the first latif, and the hells could not come rownd, but if the calling had been reversed (Make the Bohn and fwice Int, then 4 and 3 ; which woro reversed at a plam lend by tho farst aingle. conld be tarmed back Hgain at the end with another single to bring the bells round.
Our correspondent could put the gingles in as was suggested to himo In that form it prodnces a true 720 without disturbing the 3 rid. Any troe 360 of Bob Ninor, prudued entirely by bobs, can be conserked into a 720 lyg galling two simgles, as long as the singles are at plain

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTHERN BRANCH.
A meeting of the Grimsoy District was held at Burton-on-Stather, and, althoush the weather was not too good, brought a very nice gathering together. The handy peal of six was made good use of by the members from Bigby, Grinuby, Scunthorpe, Waltham, Ulceby and the local band, Mr. and Mrs. Bramwell, of Goxlail, and ringing friends from Lincoln and Treeton. It was also something of a red letter day for the ringers, lor it was the first ringing meeting held in the new Parish Hall.
The service was couducted by the Ficar (the Rev. E. M. Hadloy), who gave a very bearty welcome to the members and an interesting address. Mr. H. Rushby presided at the organ.

Mr. Fred Wilford, late Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Ginitd, who has been seriously ill, is, we are glad to say, making slow but stieady progress tuwards recovery.
St. John the Baptist, Margate, bells wilt be broadcast at 7.55 p.m. on Sunday.
The first peal on the bells at Charthana, Kenl, was quag on Saturday. Clartiona bells are tlie oldest ring in the caunty. The back five were cast by Joseph Hatch in 1605 and the treble by Saminel Knight in 1728. They were retuned and rebung in 1925, the 'go' heing excellent. Owing to the excessive thoise in the ringing room, a peal on these bells had been previously deemed almost impossible.

Mr. John William T. Holgate, who rang in the peal of Oxford Major at Bramley, Yorks, on Saturday, is in lis 76th jeer, and has not done any regular ringing for about nine years.
Mr. G. W. Steere informs us that he has not yet completed Plain Bob from Major to Maximns un tower and handbells as mentioned in this column last week. He still has to ring a peal of Bob Maximus ou tower bells.
In the report of the peal of Grandsire Donbles at Hartield on August 5th, published in our last issue, the name of the ringen of the Jrd shonld read Davirl Cornfond instead of Winford as printed.

THE ABRIDGED PEAL OF TREBLE BOB FALSE IN ANOTHER FOR3.  To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-I regret I have to withdraw a peal of Kent Trehle Bob Major נung at Claines on Mag 91 h , 1936, for the Worcestershire and Districte Asseciation.

The composition, by $F$. Rohinson, was shortened to 5,056 , not hy insertiag a call in the middle courge, but by omitting Middle, Before and 1 Wrong in the last course of each of two parts.
Nevertheless, as either way is false, I tender my apalugies to the band for accepting the 「igures, given tu me in all good frith as corrcet.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

GHRIST CHURCH, JARROW, BELLS UNSAFE.
A meating of the Eastern District was held at Jarrow on Saturday, August ath, ringers being present from West Hartlepool, Sunderland, Gateshead, Newcastle, Femam and the local tower. It was regretted that Christ Chuweh lower is unsafe for ringing, but the peal of six at St. Peter's were kept going during the afternoon and evening.
A very lappy party sat down to tea, after which a slaort meeling was leeld, presided over by Mr. R. L. Patterson, vice-president.

After the loyal tonst, the Chairman welcomed Mr. C. L. Routledge to the district, and said it was a pleasure to see the uld stalwarts at district meetings. It was a great help to the oficials.
Mr. Routledge said it was indeed a great pleasure to him to be present and to see that all semed to be having a very good time. He thanked the local clergy for the use of the belle and sympathised with the Reetor of Cluist Church in not being able to have his bells rung.

Mr. G. S. Taylor said that as this was the last district maeting before the anmual meeting, he proposed that Mr. R. L. Pattersou be again nominated as vice-president, or, in case the new rules were passed, that he be chairman of the Eastern District and tlat Mr. F. Robson he again nomimated secretary.
Mr. Turnbull (Jarrow) secouded, and the proposition was carried with acclanation.
The tower was again visited after the meeting, the methods sung being Stedman Doubles, Bob and Kent Minor, Oxferd, Double Court and Canbridge Minor. Great enthusiasm was shown at the mecting and there is no doubt that the Eastern District will have to try to hold more meetings in the comirg ringing year-all bad spent such a happy time.

BLESSING OF UFFORD CHURCH BELLS

ANCIENT CEREMONY AT SUFFOLK CHURCR.
So often nowadays the blessing of new bells for churches cannot Le colveniently arranged. A modera foundry, with perhaps 50 rings of bells on liad at once, has to work strictly to a time table, and if the workmen an one job are held up for a few days while a ceremony is being arranged, it may mean that a nomber of other places have the work for them delayed also. However, at Ufford all diffeulties were overcome, and on Saturday, the Feast of Title of the churelt, a congregation had gathered from all parts of the county. High Moss whs first sung at 11 o'clock, the Rector (the Rev. Herbert Drake) being the celebrant, Canon Powell deacon, and Father E. W. Ponter, of Rnslimere, sabdeacon. F1. Robertson, of Capel, aind Mr. Bernard Barrell, of Ipswich, as cantors, sang the service, and Fr. HargraveThomas, of Needlam, did full justice to the beautiful organ of this fine Suffolk church. lnmediately the service was ended, procession was made to the outside of the west door, where the bells, which: had been well decornted by different members of the congregation, were arranged in a semi-circle. Three of the bells are of pre-Reformation date, and had been already blessed and named. One of these camnot be made to fit in with the others, and, like an "emeritus' official, who has finished his work, will find a resting place inside the church. This bell ("Margaret') was placed behind the others at the entrance to tha tower- It was the old fourth. The other old bells are the sixth ('Katherine') and the tenor ('John'). The three smallest bells were modern and have been reasst, and, with a new fourth, there are fon new bells. The fifth, east by John Darbie in 1686 , and the seventh, liy Thomas Osharne in 1799, had not been named, and were included in the ceremony.
The proper minister for the blessing of a church bell is A Bishop. But the Bisliop of St. Ednuandsbury and Ipswicl was on the point of starting for his holidar, aud his Suffragan, the Bishop of Dunwicl, was still a way. The Rev, Canon Clande Powell, Vicar of St. Bartholonuew's, Ipswich, therefore acted as deputy, and performed the ceremony. Duriag the procession to and from the altar, Psalms 145 and 150 were sung. including the invocation to the 'loud cymbals,' which ringers like to interpret as church bells.
The bells were first plentifully sprinkled (ulmost washed) with haly water, and then followed the first of three beantiful prayers taken fronn ancient sources. The bells were then anointed in twin with the right thumb and mamed. At the first bell (the treble) these words were said: "May this bell, $O$ thord, be sanctified and cousecrated, in the name etc., in hononr of Saint Charles. Peace be to thee.' The gecond bell was then named Edward with the sane words, the thind Goorge, the iourth Francis, the fifth Mary, the seventh Thomas. The samond prayel was then said, each hell was separately censed, and sfond prayel was then saik, each hell
Nowadays so many gervices consist of hymns and the sermon and little else In this there was no hymn from beginning to end, and there was no sermon, yet the service was fully choral

Ufford people are rejoicing to have their bells back in church again. It is nearly three years since they heard them, as it was Christruas, 1933, when the ringers felt that they could not ring them any longer. When tha beans were taken down it was found, as can stili be seen in photographs langing in the porch, that the ravages of the deathwalch beetle were so deep and so widespread that it was remarlable that they had humg there so long. The bells went away to Eunghborongh on Ash Wednesday, and returned on the Eve of the Assumption. in cach case more than a month earlier than the work liad becti promised.

A WORCESTERSHIRE WEDDING

UNION OF TWO WEIL-KNOWN RINGING FAMILIES.
The marriage took place on Saturday, August 15th, at St. Peter's Church, Hinton-on-the-Green, of Miss Maggie J. Johnson, sixth daughter of Mrs. and the Iate Mr . T. J. fohnson, of Hinton and Mr. Arlinir J. Martin, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Martin, of Bromsgrove, thins uniting two well-known ringing families belonging to the Worcestershire and Districts Association.
The Rector, the Rev. V. C. Blyth, who is a vice-president of the ascociation, officiated. The bride, who was given away by lier mother, was escorted to church by lier brother, Mr. J. D. Joinson, lay general secretary of the association, She wore an ivory dress and white veil, and carried a slower bouquet of red roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen M. Johnson, and the hridegroom's sister, Miss Gwepdolyn H. Martia, attired in pale blue dresses and picture hats to match, and carrying shower bouquets of pink carmations; and ber two nicces, Miss Daphue J. Johnson and Miss Jean A. Corbett, in lemon dresses with sprays of flowers as headdresses, and carrying haskets of sweet peas. Mr. Harold F. Martin was best man

As the bridal party left the chureh the hells rang out, and a peal of Tob Major was rung during the afternoon. Arter the reception, which was hold at Hinton School, the happy conple left for Newquay, where the hontrymoon is benas spenf. Theyr future home will be at Ventuor Cattages, Clunch Fields, Hromsgrove.

GRAMOPHONE' BELLS.

POPULAR WRITTR'S CONDIMNATION OF IFORD PROPOSA

The Ringing World ${ }^{4}$ of Jaly lalin last we called atteution to the proposal to use gramophone vecords nud amplifiers, instead of bells, in the tower of ai new church at Iford, near Bournemouth. We condemned this mockery of the time-honoured and liallowed call to worship associzted with bells, and suggested it was the first step towards a meclanised fom of religion.
The installation of this travesty of bells is being taken up in other quarters. The advice of the Central Council for the Care of Churches has now been asked with regard to the advisability, and if so under what conditions, of the Enstallation of what are described as 'Radio Bells, and this body has sought the wiews of the Central Council of Ohurel Bellringers.

We hope the result will be that the full intluance of the Centiral Council for the Care of Churches will be used against the introductiou of gramophone records as a substitute far bells at Iford or anywhere else.

A SCATHING CONDEMNATION.

We are not alone in aur protest. A striking article by that popular writer 'Philemon " under' the title of 'Still the Steeples EHm,' appoared in the London evening newspaper", "The Stap," on Monday. We hope it las been reak by everyone who lives in Iford and that its full meaning has sunk deen into their hearts and consciences. This is Philemon's' scathing comment :-
The new Church of St. Savionr, at Iford, Bonrnemonth, is to ilave gramophone records and amplifiers in the belfry irstead of bells. 0 temprara! O mores!

The bells will ring to call her,
In valleys far aroy."
Great peet as Housmau was, $i$ doubt if he would have been inspired to this superb little poem by tho thought of gramophone records in, the steeples of the coloured counties." "And still the stecples hum,' -with gramophone records!

And this in Eugland which, becruse of its bells, used to be knowy os 'the ringing island.
Repeat tie word 'bells, to yourself aloud; inink of bells, the bells of Worcester, of Leicester, of Bom; recall one of the thousaud lovely lines like 'sweet bells, jangled, out of furse and harsh' (alas, Ophelia $\dagger$ ) : and then gay ' gramophone records,' and realise from what heights, to what deptlis of batlos, we wre falling.

Gramophones in the belfry" is a fit companion phase for "bats in the belfry.' They mean nuch the same. It's irue that liells are expensive, aud gramophones very cheap; but in carlier days "pious queens and gentlewomen threw into the mass of metal that was to be cast into a bell their gold and silver ornaments; and a feeling of reverence for the intercedug voices was common to gentle and simple.' It's easy to think of bells as intercediug voicen; it's difficult with it gramophone recara of bells not to think of a B.B.C. interval.
One of the stained glass windows in Yotk Minster has praels showing the various processes in casting and tuning a bell.
Suggestion to the people of Iford, Bournemouth, that they should have a window in their churcis celebrating the maunfacture of gramophones and records and loud-speakers.
When Henry Ving. began a raid on bells, melting them down to be sold as metal, all sorts of queer things happened. Sthips, varrying the bells to foreign ports, foundered; at Yarmonth, for instance, You may still hear, if the wind is blowing haw, the 14 Lells [rom Jersey which were wrecked at St. Malo. The Bishop of Bungor sold tho Cathedral bells, and was struck blind as he watched them beligg slipped to sea.
And Sir Miles Partridge, who won the Jesus bells of St. Paul's from King Hemry at dice, was shortly langei an Tower Hill.
Contrariwise, if anyone has the courage to pinch the gramophono records from St. Saviour's, let him be canonised atd given a safu seat in paradise.
The Koran tells us that bells hang on the trees of Feaven, and, whenever the Blessed Ones wish for music, God sets thens ringing by the breath of His mouth, a "wind from the throne.' When the Koran is bronght thoroughly up-to-date, God, I suppose, will touch a switch and the gramopliones will play in the trees.
There was an ideat in bell. It was an interceding voice. The intercession was graven on it, 'Hail, Mayy, full of grace, pray for us.' It called upon people to pray for a passing soul.
It defended beljevers from devils. Schiller's bell at Munster rang out, 'I call the living; I wourn the dead; I shatter the lightning.
Superstitious idets, if you like; but upon my word I like them better than the mechanical nothingmess of gramophone records. the Bishop of Winchester, I wonder, consecrate the records?
Fou think J'm making a mountajn out of a molehill? I don't know Iford. I don't care tuppence about Iford or St. Saviour's. It's the tendency which is symbolised here.

Bells meant faith in God, joy in Gon, and were rung to flue glory of God; and now that the greater god, Mechanism, approaches, let the gramephone praise him!
Tlse Bishop of Winchester can now sit in lis palace and preach a sermon in St. Saviour's by teleplome line. Lord help and save us!

MULTI-METHOD MINOR.  NOT1FICATHON SUGGFSTEED BEFORE RECORD ATTEMPTS.

To the Editor.

Den Sirs-Having read with interest your leading atticle in "The Ikinging Worid' of Jast weck, entibled 'The adyance of method guslicing, ! think we, as an Exercise, agree that tremendous strides have heen male daring the last few years in Spliced Minor ringing, of which we ure justly proud.

Frwing taken part myself in some of the peals of Spliced Surprise Minor rang in this connty, f feel the tirne has come when it would be far more sntibfactery to the lixercise, and to those who take part in these record performances if the suggestion 1 am to make were adopted. For inslanee, when a luand contemplates attempting to set up $n$ how record length in Major ringing, motification is duly sent beforehand to "The Ringing World aud figures published.

Now that Minor ringing lang reached such a climax, I think it would be to good advantage that notification should be sent to "Plie Ringing World' whon a hani has devided to make an attempt to set up a now record in Minor or in Spliced Minor ringing. If this course wero followed it would then give those who are interested in this phase of ringing the chance to listen to these peals in progress. Furthermore, the firures of the attiempted peal should be in evidence, go that those who are expert enongla could eheck the validity of the peal. I know there are quite a number of ringers who are rather dubious as to whether seven true and complete extents are really rung it those performances. Therefore, I think the sugrestion made would be for the good of all.

SPLENDID STRIKING.

Doar kir, -As an old ringer at Freiston for neariy 50 years, I Eliould ike to add textimony to the splendid striking throughont the whole of the peal rume here in 61 methots. I was within 150 yards of the chareh and toak notice the whole of the time; scarcely a bell was struck wrong. firent credit is due to these boys, as, I believe, only threc years ago lardyr one of them could landle a bell.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO LINCOLN RINGER

MR. JOE MAYER KIJLED IN MOTOR-GYCLE COLLISION.
As the result of a terrible accident, the ringing company at Lincoln Cathedral have lost one of their youngest and most promising ringers. While on his way to work at Gainsborough on his motor-cycle in the misty morning hours of Monday, Angust Ioth, Cecil Josept Mayer, the gecond of three vinging sons of M.J. Mayer, of 50 , Goldstith? Walk, St. Giles, lincoln, came into collision with a motor-lorys, zeeciving such terrible injaries that lie died within three hours at the Lincoln County Hospital.

Joe Mayer was the type of ringer that we can ill afford to lose rom the belfries of our churches, and the news of his death came as a greal shock, not ouly to liss intimate friends, but also to the ringers in the cily and district where lie was well known.
He wouki have been 22 years of age this month, and he had rang 16 peals, including seven in Minor metlods, one of Grandsire Triples, twn of Stedman Triples, one of Bob Major, one of Grandsire Cingques and [our of Stedman Cimques.

The funcral took place on Thuisday, August 13th, the selvice, held at the new Church of St. Giles, being conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. N. Daniels. The Dean of Lincoln, the Yery Rer. R. A. Mitchell, read the lessan.
In addition to the fimily monners the congregation included Mr. R. S. Godfrey, surveyor and elerk of works at the Catiedial, several ringers and the wives of ringers representing their lnislands who, owing to work, were unable to attend.
In the eveaing upwawls of 20 ringers met at the Catliedral to take part in a muffled quarter-pen] as a fast token of affection and despect, each ringer having a pull at different times during the ringing.
The quarter-peal was canducted by the writer, who has hever betore taken part in any rimging under such tragic and saddened circumstances.

The sympathy of the Exercise will go out to Mr. Mayer and his family in what seems to be theiu ninfortunate year, as another son, Kemeth W. Mayer, also a Cathedral ringer, has been laid aside for five months with a broken and badly lacerated leg, sustained as the result of an accident while following his emplayment it one of the Lincoln engincering works.

BIRMINGHAM CATHEDRAL BELLS.

PROPOSED RECASTING AND REHANGING.

It is goof news that there is, at last, hope of something being done to the bells at St. Philip's Cathedral, Birmingham. For years the bells have been in a deplorable condition, and their state is such that ringers have had little desire to ring the bells. Some of them have the unenviable worthy peal which will not lack capable hands to make the best of a new peal.

The Church of St. Philit, which is close to the centre of the cily, was erected early in the 181 h century, but some time appeats to have elapsed before anytling was done in the way of providing bells for the steeple. The Vestry minutes of April 3 rd, 1727, record: 'By ans order of a generall meeting this day it was agreed tiat Joseph Sinith shall receive the mettle from Mr. Bradburn in order to cast a Bell for the parish chureh of St. Philip in Birmingham to be done with all expedition.
Later there is an entry: A At a meeting $13 \mathrm{th}_{1}$ day of June, 1727, ordered that a frame of good Thinber be erected \& fixed in the Steeple reputation of being 'chest crackers.' The bells, too, are, with the possible exception of the tenor, of very poor quality, so that it is much to be hoped that the proposal that they shall be recast as well as rehung may see fruition.

THE CATHEDRAL OF ST. PHILIP. BIRMINGHAM

For many years the Birmingham ringers urged the restoration of 1 Fie bells, and it was made a theme of speeches at mumerous Johnson slinners, but without any result, until eventualty it was giren up as an appareatly bad job. But the seed has now presumably taken root, and if the full scheme materialises the Cathedral will have a of the New Chureh for Hanging of Eight Bells \& that the Two Bells already made be hang there with all convonient Eped. ${ }^{\text {s }}$
Joseph smith had a foumdry at Jidgonston, and he aflerwards sapplied tha peal of eiglat, which were replaced isy Thomas laester, of the Whitechapel Fonindry, in 1750-51. Six of these bells still remais, the treble, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 7th and 9th. Pack and Chapman recast the fifth and tenor fil 1772 , ath Thonas Mears the sixtla and eigntil which are dated 1796 and 1823 respectivels:
In days gone by unay peals were rung on the bells of st. thatip's. which is now, of course, ille Cathedral for the Diocese of Birmingham. The last peal on the belts was a 5,017 Stedman Caters mang by St. Martin's Guild on August 22nd, 1903.

ROTHERHAM RINGERS VISIT LIVERPOOL

For their amual trip the ringers of St. Stephen's Churchi, Eastwood, Rotherham, visited Liverpool, where they arrived at 10.20 a.m. The first $1 \frac{1}{2}$ hours was spent looking round the new Cathedral, then, after a tour of the main streets, the party had lunch at the 'Orient.'

Aftel lumel the first ringing of the day was done at Oxton, where Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Kent Treble Bob, Plain Boh and Gambridge Major were rung. Bebington was the next visited, and here the light peal of eight were soon set going to Grandsire, Cambridge, Plain Bob and Stedman.
After fon excellent tea the party hurried back noross the ferry to St. Nicolas' Church, where Grandsire Caters and Stedman Triples were rung on the heavy ring of bells (tenor 40 cwl .), followed by a course of Bob Major and lialf a course of Cambridge on the back eight. This left the visitors less than 20 minutes to reach the station to eateh the return train.
The Eastwood ringers wonld like to take this opportunity of thanking those friends at Liverpool who made this outing such a happy one.

BELL RESTORATIONS IN NEEDY PARISHES

There has been ample evidence recently of increasing efforts on the part of churchpeople to get their bells put in order. All the founders are busy and everywhere, of course, where restorations have been put in hand there is a natural desire to have the bells ready in time for the Coronation of King Edwatd, next May. It is, indeed, often astonishing how readily money is found for church bell restoration; it is one of the things which the public rarely fail to respond to when an appeal is made. In the economic slump at the beginning of this decade, there was some falling off in the amount of work undertalken, which was only to be expected, but, just as it was-strange though it may seem-one of the last things to feel the monetary stringency, so bell restoration has been one of the first to recover. King George's jubilee was, of course, an important incentive in this connection, just as the forthcoming Coronation is leading to feverish activity in the principal bell foundries.

There are, however, many places where lack of funds still prevents needful work being carried out. In our columns there are frequently appeals for help. Unfortuately ringers as a body are unable to do much in this direction. The vast majority are men and women of very limited means, and assistance can generally only be given through the Association which covers the area in which the necessitous tower is situated. In many of these organisations ringers make frequent contributions to the Association's restoration fund, and even where such funds do not exist, no appeal made for help for a local restoration falls on deaf ears. There are, however, pumerous deserving cases which are beyond the means of the parishes concerned even with the help which the local association can organise. In quite a number of cases in the last ten years or so the Emma Barron Bell Trust bas been able to do valuable work, and quite a few churches, particularly in Essex and Hampshire, have benefited from the late Miss Barron's generous bequest.

The Trustees administer the fund at their discretion, and they have now committed themselves, as already announced in the 'Ringing World' to a big expenditure on the recasting and rehanging of the bells of Winchester Cathedral. This is a truly munificent undertaking and one which will give this famous shrine a peal worthy of its greatness. About that no one will cavil, but for our part we would rather see the accruing income from the Trust divided among a number of deserving cases-in struggling parishes where the churchfolk have strained every effort to raise the required money, but have fallen short of the amount needed -rather than to the carrying out of big, spectacular (Continued on page 558. ) schemes. We do not criticise for one moment what has been done in the past-it has been splendid work in the interests of bells-but we feel that to complete half a dozen village projects, by providing the balance that has failed to be raised locally, would not only be better than bearing the whole cost of a restoration for a community that had made no real effort to carry out their own scheme, but would prove a real incentive to a large number of parishes to repair or renew their bells where at present they hang neglected because it is realised the cost of restoration is beyond the means of the parishioners, especially when faced with urgent demands of the Church in other directions Appeals in our columns in the past few months alone have shown how tiny parishes are anxious to put their bells in order and having made a heroic struggle find themselves substantially short of the amount required and no prospect of raising the balance. What a happy position it would be if the Barron Bell Trust would come to the rescue in such cases.

VICTORIA CATHEDRAL BELLS,

MR. E. WEATHERBY'S RECORD.

Mr. Eraest Weatherlyy, of Los Angeles (late of Market Drayton and Guildford, Englandi), who travelled a thousand miles to be present at tho opening of the Yietoria Cathedral bells, recorded in our issua of August 7th, in an interesting letter tells us that he lefit Los Angeles on Wedneaday, July 8th, and arrived in Wietoria on the following Saturday. At the Cathedral he found the bells (which had been oreated by Mr. Izard, of Vietoria) ready for the opening next day. Most of the ringers not having rung for many years, short practices were necessary.

The oponing peal,' kays Mr. Weatherby, 'was rung by seven Victoria ringers and myself. Everyone was dolighted with the "go" and tane of the bella.

After giving some particulars of the dedication and ringing, Mr. Weatherby adds that on Wednesday the bells were rung for the enthronement of the Bishop, the Right Rev. H. E. Sexton, D.D., which brought to a clese a vory enjoyable time for all.

Ou Sumday, the 18th,' He adds, 'I rang at the Church of the Holy Rosary, Vancouver, on a musical peal of eight, which were augmented from a peal of five French bells, through the effarts of Mr. Limpus. The first peal was rung on them in 1911, conducted by Georce Fobler
'This brought to a close a pleasure I lad long anticipated-to ring at the dedication of the new peal in Victoria, and a record of ringing on nino penls of bells on this continent-two in Quebec, one in Montran, four around Boston, Victoria and Vancouver.

YET ANOTHER MINOR RECORD.

CHESHIRE MEN'S 56 METHODS IN A PEAL.
The Cheshire band have quickly replied to the Spliced Minor records made by the Lincolnshire company at Whaplode and Freiston on August 3rd and 8th, when peals of Spliced Minor in 60 and 61 methads respectively were rung.

At Marple, Cheshire, on Saturday, a peal in 65 Treble Bob methods was rung, a wonderful performance which puts up by five the total number of methods comprised in a peal of seven true extents. This is rather devastating for the young men of Algarkirk, Lincs, who will have to get busy if they are to regain the laurels.

The previous highegt number of methods rung in Cheshire was 52, in a peal, also at Marple, on May 23rẽ last. The peal on Saturday included a new extent in ten methods, arranged by Mr. A. G. Driver, and in the whole peal thers were 138 changes of method.
The new extent, rung first in the peal, is as follows:-

\begin{aligned}
& 23456 \text { Nelson T.B., No. } 9 . \\
& 35264 \text { Rostlierme D. No. } 29 . \\

sulbsituting Knutsford (No. 31) and Bogadone (No. 40) for Rostherne and Wilmslow and Skiptan (No. 30) and Fotheringay (No. 41) for Chepstow and Balmoral in 2nd and 3rd parts.
All the remaining extents were as in the 52-method peal, except the 2nd extent, which is as publisied in 'The Ringing World' of August 14th, 1936, but transposed to start from the 21st lead ond.

THE LINCOLNSHIRE RINGERS' ACHIEVEMENT. ' ORDINARY ' RINGERS' APPRECIATTON.  Ts the Editor.

Sir-Although there are many ringers of the ordinary 'man in the street 'type, whe, like myself, are, and always would be, quite incapable of even attempting anything in the nature of the exceedingly clever performance of the six young members of the Lincoln Guild, which is the subject of your deservedly appreciative leader in tho issue for August 14th, I imagine that many of those same or dinary ringers are equally appreciative as yourself as to the mental acrobatics with a vengesnce, and also as to the skill and capabilities of the composer who made such mental acrobatics a practical possibility. I think, also, that such ringers would like to be able to say 'Eear, hear,' to all your appreciative remarka in regard to that performance, and to thank you for giving them such a jolly good 'clap on the back.
You state, 'We' desire to pay a tribute, and, again, 'We' raise our bat. That ' We,' I presume, you use in ar editorial capacity only, but I feel quite sure that there are many ringors, of all types, up and doma the country who would be glad if you would allow them to be included in that ' We.'

SOMETHING NEW IN SPLICED MAJOR

A COMBINATMON OF PLATN AND TREBLE BOB．
Mr．A．J．Pitman，of Port Talbot，who has been responsible for many clever compositions，particularly of Spliced Surprise，now sends us the figures of a peni which should intereat bands who can ring Plain and Kent Treble Bob．
Mr．Pitman says：＇I send figures of 5,248 Spliced Bob Major end Kent Treble Bob Major，which will be found to be something new in splicing．
＂There are numerous ringers able to ring the two methods well， but I feel sure that this peal will be quite sufficient to keep any band amake while ringing same，and that the conductor will have plenty to think about，${ }^{\text {n }}$
Here are the figures：－

Ring Bob Major，but，when more than one bob Wrong or Middle is called in e course，ring leads of Kent Treble Bob．Thus the first course would be rung as follows：B．K．B．B．B．B．B．B，and the third would be B．K．K．B．B．B．B．B．K．K．B．，B represanting a lead of Plain Bob and $K$ a lead of Kent．The peal can be reduced by omitting three consecutive bobs Wrong or Middle．

PENTRE RINGER＇S DEATH．

With regret we record the death of Mr．Harry Page，after a long and painful illness．Mr．Page was one of the pioneers of change ringing rt Pentre，South Wales，and as a conductor ho was second to none in the diocese．He rang，in all，about 80 peals and conducted a geod number of them．

Ho was laid to rest on Satwrday，August 15th，when four of his brother ringers，with Mr．J．W．Jones，of Nerport，and Mr．A．W． Heath，of Cardiff，acted as bearers．
After the fumeral，a half－mufflexi peal was attempted，but，unfor－ tunately，camo to grief after an hour＇s ringing．Half－muffled touches wers also rung on Wednesday，August 19th，by the local band in mamory of the deceased．

LOUGHTON RINGERS＇EXCURSION

On Saturday the Lougliton，Esses，ringers had their annual outing， when they made the journey to Northampton．Starting at 7.30 a．m． from Loughton，they picked up the remaining four of the party at Woodford and had a very nice run to Stony Stralford，where a halt was called．A very handy ring of eight at the Yarish Church were soon set going to Triples and Major，cach ringer having a pull， except the determined grand old warriar，Mr．J．Rana，shom the steps beat．However，he stopped outside and listened．Leaving Stony Stratford at 11．30，a further run brought the party to St．Sepulchre＇s， Northampton，where an old Woodford ringer，Mr．John Mardell，meb the company．Rimging took place on the handy ring of eight，and after all had had a pull an adjournment was made to the Black Boy for dinner．Although the guide said it was only＇a little way down the road，＇the distance was a little too much for the G．O．W．，crippled as be is with rheumetism，so a taxi was bronght to the rescue．At dinner the two＂youngsters＂of between 70 and 80 years were unable to indulge in their usual occupation of＂chipping＇one another，as they were seated in different rooms－much to the regret of the com－ pany．After dinner farewell was said to Mr．Jolm Mardell，and the journey was continued to Harpenden，where tea was partaken of． Afterwards Mr．J．Rule，jun．，spoke a few words of thanks on behalf of non－ringers of the party，and thanked the organisers for again inviting them．
Mr．C．R．Morss spoke for the ringers，and congratulated the Grand old warrior upon his determination to be with the comprny especially after his recent terrifying experience of being thrown out of bis only mode of getting about by a lorry．
All voted the outing quite as good as any previous excursion，and wish to thank the tomer masters and incumbents for permission so readily given for ringing and for arranging for both dinner and tea C．M．

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The peal of Stedman Triples at St. Margayet's, Ipswich, on August $22 n d$, is believed to be the first to be rung by eight grandfathers all resident in the same borough. In addition, two of the band are greatgrandfathers, Messrs. R. H. Brundle and F. J. Tillett, the former being in his 85th gear, the latter in his 70th year, without a grey hair in his head.
The total ages of the band amount to 512, an average of 64 years. One grandfather, at the age of 76, rang his first peal of Sterlman. The conductor is quite a youth, in his 50th year

It must te very unusual for two great-grandfathers to be in the samo poal, if it has ever been done before. Has anyone compiled a list of great-grandfathers who have cung peals?

The Central Council publication, 'Collection of Doubles and Minor,' is now out of print, and the supply of booklets, 'On the Preservation of Bells,' in stiff covers, is exhausted.

Fifty years ago next Monday the first ten-bell peal in Scotiand was rung It was a peal of Grandsire Caters at St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgb, conducted by Mr. F. E. Dawe, then of London. The remainder of the band consisted of Mr. Joe Field, of Oxford, Mr. Alf Thomas, of Birminglam, and seven Wrexham ringers.
In view of the "naming' of the bells at Ufford, it is interesting to recall that the bells at St. Mary's, Edinburgh, are named as follows: 1, Humility; 2, Fatth; 3, Constancy; 4, Pationce; 5, Reverence; 6, Piety; 7, Eope; 8, Peace; 9, Joy; 10, Charity. The tenor is 42 curt.
Mondsy is also the anniversary of the record handbell peal, 19,738 Stedman Caters, at Guildford, on August 31st, 1912.

Penls have been zung in many strange places. The first (and only onel rung in a railway train was rung by Cumberland Youths between Paddington and Bristol on August 31st, 1923.

Bertram Prewett, of Bushey, ane of the finest ringers that ever stcpped into a belfry, was killed in action in France on August 3Ist, 1918. He lad rung 953 peals, and uas still a young man when he laid down his life in the Great War.
Tuo young ringers, one aged 13 and the other aged 15 , took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples at North Stoneham, Hants, on Monday. George Williams, aged 79, was also in the peal.

THE TOLR IN THE NORTH.

A SUCGESSFUL WEEK.

Fourteen peals were the successful outcome of the eight days', visit to the North of England by a band collected mostly from the South. With Neweastle as headquarters, peals were rung in Durham and Northumberland, including Durham and Newcastle Gathedrals and Hexham Abbey.
One feature of the tour was a non-conducted peal of Cambridec Surprise Major at Houghton-le-Spring. Tize conducting in the other thirtcen peals was shared by no fewer than eight conductors. This, in its way, must, we think, be a record for any tour.
The methads rung were just as varied, and included Stedman Cinques 1, Cambridge Surprise Royal 2, Cambridge Surprise Major 3, Superlative Surprise Major 2, Yorkshire Surprise Major I, London Surprise Major 2, Norfolk Surprise Major I, New Cambridge Surprise Major 1, and, by way of change, Double Norwich Major 1.

With the sceond peal of Canbridge Surprise Rayal, at Gosforth on Saturday, Mri. G. R. Pye completed one hundred peals of Surprise Royal.

Fivo of the party rang in eleven peals and three of them in ten. The veterans, Messrs. George Willimes and W. H. Fussell, rang in eight.

JAMES BARHAM.

PERFORMANCES OF A WONDERFUL KENT RINGER.

By J. Armiger Trollofe.
James Barlsam was born in 1725, the year in which the College Youths first began peal ringing. Apparently he lived for some time at Harrietsham, a village seven and a half miles from Maidstone on the road to Ashford. A new ring of eight bells, with a tenor of $13 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$., was supplied to the Parish Church by Thomas Lester in 1744, and in that year a peal of Bob Triples was rung, followed by another in 1745 . In 1746 the band scored a 10,080 of Double Bob Major, the first of many long lengths in the district. So far as our records go, it was the tenth length of over ten thousand that had as yet been rung and the seventh of Major. It was the first ten thousand in the method and remains the record. Four years later the band rang another ten thousand of Double Bob, and on Marci 23rd, 1751, 5,040 of Reverse Bob, two months after Annable had called the first peal in the method at Westminster.

LEEDS, KENT, CHURCH.
Samuel Kright hadi cast several peals for Kent, and in 1751 his successor, Robert Catlin, added two trelbes to the heavy six at the adjoining village of Lenharn. The bells were opened on May 17 th by a 5,040 of Bob Major, the peal being the first changes rung on them. At the same time Catlin supplied six new bells to Leeds to make a ring of ten. They were the gift of the Hon. Robert Fairfax, of Leeds Castle, who employed Barham as a gardener, no doubt with the idea of forming a band of ringers at the Parish Church. Barham's first peal at Leeds was one of 6,480 of Bob Caters, the first in the method of which any record remains, and still the longest length. From the number of changes it is pretty certain that what was rung was Annable's or a similar peal of Bob Major, with an extra bob in three courses to get the big bells in and out of the tittums.

Three weeks later the band rang 8,100 changes of Bob Royal, evidently the same composition applied to ten bells, and a fortnight later still they repeated the peal of Caters. In 1752 they rang forty courses of Plain Bob Royal, 7,200 changes, and on the last day but one of the year 14,500 of Bob Major. This apparently was an incomplete length, and a fortnight later they rang half the extent of the method, 20,160 changes, in 13 hours and 34 minutes.

They had thus in a little more than a twelve-month rung six peals, the shortest of which was 6,480 changes, a record which has not been surpassed by any subsequent band. Barham had great ambitions in the matter of long-peal ringing. He was himself capable of extraordinary feats of peal ringing, and, as his zeal outran the capacity of his companions, he adopted the plan of ringing peals by relays of ringers. Of course, if that is done, there is no particular reason why the bells should not be kept going for a week or more, or as long as the ropes remain unbroken, and the idea has rightly been discountenanced by the Exercise at large. The old ringers saw no reason why two or three men should not be put to a heavy or bad-going tenor, if it were beyond the capacity of one man to ring it single-handed; but that was quite a different thing. Barham's idea, no doubt, was to see how long he or any other individual member of his band could stand, and in that respect he did set up a record.

On March 31st, 1735, the band started for the full extent of Bob Major. They began at two o'clock in the afternoon, and at six o'clock the next morning, after 24,800 changes had been rung in 16 hours, the sixth clapper broke, and so the peal was lost. Barham rang the seventh for 14 hours and 44 minutes, which is a wonderful feat of endurance, and has not since been approached; but, of course, the circumstances were unique, and no other individual ringer is likely again to have a similar opportunity of seeing how long he can stand and ring.

The luand made no further attempt for the peal for some years, but in 1760 Barham induced them to start again. On Monday, March 23 rd , they rang 17,000 changes and then one of the bells was overturned. That is a most unusual thing to happen in peal ringing, and there is no reason to suppose that Leeds bells were not fitted with stays and slides. Possibly it happened when one ringer was relieving another.

A little later they made another attempt, and this time they succeeded. Fourteen men in all took part, and the time was 27 hours. Barham had called all the bobs in the failure of 1755 , but whether he did so in the complete peal, or whether he deputed part of the task to another, does not appear. It seems the ringing was by no means faultless. When the College Youths visited the village in the next year they talked with many of the ringers and heard a lot about the performance. The authors of the 'Clavis,' after saying that they do not intend to give peals with the full extent of the changes on eight bells other than two of Bob Major as examples, proceed:-
'We think it extremely useless as it is impracticable for any one set of men to perform. To be sure it is recorded on a frame at Leeds in Kent as being performed by 13 men in 27 hours and some minutes, one man having rung cleven hours, another nine, etc., but those of the performers who have been spoken to on the subject give such utsatisfactory eccounts that it is very little thought of, and it is generally belicosed that if they did keep the beils going the length of time, the truth or regularity of the changes were very little attended to.'
The account differs slightly from that in Barham's book (e.g. in the number of men that took part), and is probably derived from rather indirect information, but if it is correct that the man who stood the longest time (probably Barham) rang only 11 hours, as a feat of endurance the performance falls a long way short of the failure of 1755 , and has been beaten more than once since. But we must remember that it was always difficult for the members of the great leading societies like the College Youths or the Norwich Scholars to believe that the men of obscure country willages could ring as well or better than they.

LEEDS RINGERS' BOAST

The occasion of the peal was the election to Parliament of the Hon. Robert Fairfax and Sir W. Knatchbull. The ringers were very proud of themselves, and boasted that 'the peal was never rung or ever attempted to be rung by any set of ringers in the kingdom,' and they advertised that 'Whenever it is performed by any other set' they 'are determined to command their superiority to all others by ringing all the changes on 10 bells.' Perhaps it is as well they were not called upon to make good their boast.

Two other peals of over ten thousand changes were rung at Leeds-13,440 of Bob Major in 1773 and 10,080 of Treble Bob Major in 1796-and in adcition many five thousands at Leeds, Harrietsliam, Lefham, Maidstone and other towers in Kent. Tlie majority of these were Plain Bob and Oxford Treble Bob, but there were some others of very considerable interest. On February 7th, 1756, a day or two after Amable was buried, the band rang at Leeds 5,040 changes of 'that hard method called Court Bob, which was never rung in Kent before.' On Christmas Day they rang 6,720 changes, 'the most extraordinary thing of its kind ever clone,' and next year the same length at Harrietsham, 'notwithstanding its difficult and abstruse method.'

On January 20th, 1765 , they rang 6,720 changes of Court Bob ten-in at Leeds. Annable had extended Court Bob Major to Royal, and it had been rung by the College Youths at St. Sepulchre's, Snow Hill, in 1741, but the London men apparently found that it was not worth ringing and dropped it, for it is a poor method which widely parts the big bells, and is inferior in music and interest to Double Bob and Treble Bob. It has been suggested that there is a doubt as to what variation of Court Bob Barham's men rang, and that they might have forestalled the Norwich peal of 1767 . But the matter is as clear as any of these things can ever be. The Leeds men rang Lonclon Court Bob Major in 1756 and 1762, and London Court Royal is the obvious extension of that method. Moreover, the authors of the 'Clavis,' who were familiar with what had been done at Leeds, say distinctly that the first peal of Norwich Court Bob Royal was rung at St. Peter Mancroft.

A NEW CORNISH RING.

MULLION BELLS DEDICATED.
In the presence of a large congregation of parishioners, ringers and visitors, the rew ring of six bells at Mullion Church, Corawall, was dedicated on Saturday, August 8th, by the Arcledeacon of Cornwall (the Fen. G. W. Hockley). The church, one of the most beautiful in Cornwall, is thus further enriched by a beautiful peal of bells, the installation of whieh forms part of an ambitious restoration scheme embracing much of the general fabric of the building.
The dedication service opened with the singing of the hymn, "We love the place, $O$ God,' during which the Archdeacon, the Rural Dean (Canon G. H. Doble), and the Viear (Rev. F. C. Wintle), together with the choir and churchwardens, proceeded to fthe west end of the cluuxel. The hymu being concluded, the Archdeacon, at the requost of one of tho wardens, Mr. O. Hosustow, dedicated the bells to the service of God, and landed the ropes to the Vicar, committing the halls to his care as a sacred trust. As the procession refurned to the clancel, wounds vore rung by members of the Truro Dincesan Guild. The Arcindeacon preaclaed a hamely and inspiring sermon on the use of bells is the service of the Church, and commonded the efforts of the guilds and sonielies, which had, besides advancing the scienco of change ringing, brought ringers in closer touch with the life and work of the Church. Tile service concluded with the singing of the dedicatory hynn, 'Lifted high within the steeplo,' and the Blessing pronounced from the altar steps.

After the service, the wisiting ringors were kindly entertained to tea by the Vicar and wardens. Among those present were the president of the Truro Diocesan Guild, Dr. J. Symons, M.R.C.S., the Guild secretary, the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella, ringers from the towers of Truro Cathodral, Gulval, Manacean, Redruth, Toweanack, St. Michael Penkivel, Helston, Cury and Mullion, as well as Mr. S. R. Roper, representing the bell founders, Miss H. Mills, of Farnham, and Mr. J. W. Clarke, of Chester.
The bolls were made full use of during the evening. The Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella acted as master of coremonies, and rounds, call changes, raising and falling in peal, Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor were successfully accomplished.
The present bells replece as ring of four, cast at the Copper House Foundry at Hayle, Cornwall, in 1828, whioh had not been rung for many years. These four had superseded former bells, and an interesting item in the Parish Book records an expenditure of $£ 15175$. 10td. in 1829, this being the amount outstanding after allowance had been made for the old belis? Now, a clean sweep lias been made from roof to floor. The new bells, with a tenor of $10 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$, are all hung on one level in a gpecial steel frame resting on gizders. Althougk the tower is small, painting room hes been left all round the frame. The

BLESSING OF THE BELLS AT UFFORD.

FRAME FOR TEN OR TWELVE BELLS.

Suffolk Guild's Testimonial to Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer.
Last week we described the ancicut and impressive ceremony of the blessing of the bells which took place at Ufford on Saturday, Aug. 14th. The decorated bells were placed in a semi-cirele outside the west door, whora they were sprinkled with holy water and blessed by Canon Claude Iowell, Vicar of St. Bartholomew's, Ipswich, acting as deputy for the Bishoy of the diocese. The bells were named as follows: Treble, 'Gharles '; Znd, 'Edward'; 3rd, 'George'; 4th, 'Francis' Sth, 'Mary': 7th, "Thomas." The 6th," Kallerine," and the tenor,

The Rav. H. Drake among the restored bells.
'John,' are pre-Reformetion bells and had already been blessed and named. Another pre-Reformation bell, the old 4blh, 'Margaret,' could not be included in the reorganised peal, and now finds a resting place inside the church.
The Suffolk Guild is raising, as a testimonial to the serviens of their secretary (Rev. H. Drake, the Vicar) and lireasurer (Mr. C. E. Fisher), who have been Ufiord riugers during the 15 years of its existence, a fund to defray the cost of making the frame sucls that the parl may at some fisture time be increased to fen or thelve bells. All but about f3 hes been already gived.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A PERFTECT MEETING ON A PERFECT DAY

The South and West District of the Middlesex County Association held a meeting at Ruislip ou August I5th. It was a perfect day for meetiog, and very nearly a perfect meeting for the dayl The tinging was of a ligh standara, every touch suceessfully concluded and nearly with as much variety of methods as to suppose the tower was in Lincolnshire (very subtle 1). It was a joy to the novices to see the 'big noises' struggling in the throes of Oxford Bob Triples as woll as, later, to listelt to some perfect striking when these same ${ }^{\text {'heads }}$ ' recovered their equilibrium and rang some Spliced Surprise Major.
Rov. K. F. Jocelyn, curate, conducted a very enjoyable service at five o'clock. Mr. A. W. Qwen, the local organist, presided at the osgan.

After many years, the tee rendezvous was changed, and the Goorge provided a very welcome meal. Lator the handbelf ringers found a quiet and shady retreat in the gardeu, and altogether it would appear the suitable successor to Fabb's, who have closed down, has been found.
The quartarly business meeting was held after tea, with the carate in the chair, supported by the organist and many ringing notabilities, The total number present was 53. A greetings telegram was received from the Vicar, Rev. Cenon E. Cornwall-Jones, who was on tolidey in Norfolk.
The Hon. Secretary, Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, referred to the death of one of the founder members of the association, Mr. F. G. Goddard, who passed away on Juwe Ist. Freddie Goddard did a great deal of spade work in the early days of the South and Weat District, and the older members would readily recognise thig.
The members stoad in silence for a fek moments in respect to his tiremory.

A formal vote of thanks was accorded to the Ringing Master, Mr. W. H. Coles, for his labours in taking members over the uorks of the British Aircraft Manufacturing Coas Ltd., on July 18th. Mrs. T. Collins, wife of the hon. treasurer, was also thanked for presenting the district with a new minute book.
Messis. G. W. Blake (Denham), J. Pennells (Sunbury), and F. Braybrook and R. Kilby (both of Ruislip) were elected ringing mambers.

DISCUSSION ON "THE RINGENG WORLD.
Notioe was given of joint meetings with other Guilds on September Sth at Egham and Staines and October 10th at Hillingdon. It was deoided to hold the November meeting at Heston, probably on the 14th.
After formal vates of thanks to all who had contributed to the success of tho meeting, a discussion took place on the best meana to inercase the circulation of "The Ringing World." The Ringing Master, who introduced the subject, said that with the co-operation of the hon. secretary, a census of all the towers in the district was to be taken, by which it was hoped to discover the number who took the paper regulariy, why others did not, and obtain any grumbles, suggestions, etc., which would be put before the Editor for consideration.
Several speakers followed, amongst whom Messrs. Mayne and Roberts wera of the view that more direct subscribers would be an advantage.
Mr. Fowler dissented, and guggested an order form bo printed in the paper each week, and with the aid of this the present subscribers do some active canvassing.
Throughaut the discussion, it was recognised that 'The Ringing World' cannot be regarded as a one-man concern. It belonged to tho Exercise, and its circulation, contents, price, etc., was the concern of every ringer.

FOR BEGINNERS.

AN EASY PEAL OF GRANDSIRE TRIPLES.

Experienced conductors make many observations, of their awn for calling tonches or peals. Some can 'keep a tab' on a number of points, and by putting thera together, as it were, know where the bobs have to be put in. They have several checks, any one of which is a guide to the calling of the bob, while the use of beveral together makes assurance doubly sure. It is, however, only experience that gives the conductor knowledge, and until he has gained this experience the young conductor must be conteut with just one or two simple observations.
Knowing by heart the calling of a touch or peal, and ringing the observation bell is, of course, the lowest stige of bob calling-and it is at this stage that many bave to begin. But no one ought to be long content to stay there. Study and practice should soon take them to a wider knowledge of and greater competence in the task and ennuble them to become conductors-as distinct from purely bob callers who are able to call their peals from any bell.
In some recent articles we have given lints on the calling of Bob Major from a working bell. Let us now look at Grandsire Triples, which, by reason of a bob disturbing more bells than im the Plain Major method, is in our opinjon just a little more difficult to conduct.

If you are calling a peal of Grandsire Triples from any but the observation bell, a grood deal of reliance has to be placed on your knowledge of the bells 'Before,' that is, the bells making 3 rd's place it the bobs, and thase going into the Hunt.
The bell that is gaing to make Krd's place is the one, of course, that, having clodged in 45 up in the previous lead, will then hunt up hehind and down to lead immediately in front of the treble. Therefore when you want to call this bell Before you must Jook for it coursing beforo the treble and eall the bob when it leads. There should be no dificulty in picking it out, for you will pass both these bells, whatever your own position, once, and unless you are in the hint, twice batween the time they come into that coursing order and the time the bob is called.
If, having called one bob, the next call does not conse at the next lead, you can watch the bell you want geadually closing up to the trehle. After a bob you may find, for instance, that the next bell you want to come 'Before' has three bolls between it and the treble. With each lead one of these will disappear and fall in behind the bell in the hunt; so there will next be two bells between your wanted" bell and the trable; then one bell between, and then, of course, comes the lead, when it is coursing immediately in front of the treble, and the bob must be called Another thing, to remember is that the bell in front of the bell coming 'Hefore, will be the hell that will go into the Hunt at the bob. That is very useful knowledge, and if, by chance, you are using as part of your calling observations the fact that such and such a bell is to be called In and Out, then your antention must be directed to watching for the load when this bell hunts down with one bell (the bell coming Beforo) between it and the treble, and call the bob as the Refore bell leads.
If you have to call a bell out of the hunt at the end of a number of learis, and you do not know the next bell to come Before or into the Fint, it is not always oasy, particularly if a trip may lave intervened and had to bo put right, to remember exactly how many leads have run. Endcavour, therefore, immediately you have callea the loob, to 'flx' the next bell coming ' Before:' If your bell in the Hunt las to he called Out at 2 , note the bell that has only one other betreen it and the treble, the bell, in fact, that is "Two bells before tho treble,' That is the bell that will come Before when the Fumt bell is called 'Out at 2. If it is 'Out at 3 , it will be the bell 'three bolls before the treble,' or Out at 4 , 'four bells before tho treble:" If it is 'Out at 5 ,' it is the same bell that came Before at the last bob. When the cnil is 'Out at 3 , it is useful to remember that the same bell will go back into the Hunt at the 'Out ' that

ROLT'S GEN-PART

Goad practice can be got in calling by the bells Before by rimging that ramous ola peal, in whole or in parts-Ftolts Ten Part. At one time this peal held pride of place willi conductors, but it is not so extenaively called now as it used to be. Peals like Parker's 12-Part and other modern compositions have displaced it, but it is an listoric peal and not to he despised, although somo people imagine its Single to be a blemisi because it is not made as the ordiaary single is made. Jivt don't forget it is a' 'Single 'pure and simple, and that the usual single is not a 'Single' but a 'Double.'

THE ABRIDGED PEAL OF TREBLE BOB.

PEAL RUNG IN 1907 WITHDRAWN
Dent Sir, I ara informed the Editor Robinson cannot be reduced that the 5,184 Treble Bob Major by H . by celling the last courso of tha as i conducted this peal as a 5,120 Deconther 9th, 1907, I now wish pead and 2E, at Netherton on to all the band.

P, MATUHEWS.

The symmetry of Holt's peal renders memorising a fairly easy tasik. Perbaps it will enable beginners to understaud it better if we set out the parts of the peal, for the calling of each of the five parts of the second lialf are the reverge of the calling of the five parts of the first half.

In the first half it will be seen that, after starbing with a bob at the first lead (which brings an odd bell Before), one bell is called three times Before (in the first part it is the 4th), another bell is next called twice Before (in the first part it is the 6th), and then the previous bell is called four times Before, which brings up the part end. These part ends in the first half are the lead ends of the plain courge in reverse order, so that any number of parts carn be called at will and the bells allowed to run round to a frue touch in multiules of 518
The second half of the peal, starting from the Single, which re verses $4-5$ and 6-7, is actually the reverse of the first half, begianing with one bell called four times Before, its companion bell twice Before and then the original bell three times Before, leaving the part end to be brought up with a bob at 2, which brings the second into the hunt, and an odd bell Before. Again this calling will produce touches in multiples of 518 .
But now examine the bells Before and observe how symmetrical is their order. In the first half they work in the same order that they course in the Plain Course, and in the second half they are in the reverse order:-

First Half.

| Once.534667 | First Half. |  |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  | Tluree |  | Four |  |
|  | Times. | Twice. | Times. | , |
|  | 4 | 6 | 4 |  |
|  | 6 | 7 | 6 |  |
|  | 7 | 5 | 7 |  |
|  | 5 | 3 | 5 |  |
|  | 3 | 4 | 3 |  |
| Second Half. |  |  |  |  |
|  | Four |  | Three |  |
|  | $\underset{4}{\text { Times. }}$ | $\begin{gathered} \text { Twice. } \\ 6 \end{gathered}$ | $\frac{1 \text { rimes. }}{4}$ | $\begin{gathered} \text { Once. } \\ 5 \end{gathered}$ |
|  | 3 | 4 | 3 | 7 |
|  | 5 | 3 | 5 | 6 |
|  | 7 | 5 | 7 | 4 |
|  | 6 | 7 | 6 | 3 |

It is as well, when you lave a series of bobs in similar place, bave, if you can find it, some easy "landmark,' so that you will know when the last has been called. It does not always do to trust to memory. Fou may like to find your own checks, but here are sons that are farly easy to remember:-
In the first lialf, at the last of the block of three bobs, the 2nd, whicl is the 'fixed' bell in the peal, conces cut of the hunt; at the last of tha block of four, the 2nd goes into the Hunt (at the part end).
In the second balf the 2nd is not so conveniently placed to bo picked up quickly without some experience, and it is perhaps bette to use another means. Thus, the bell that is Before at the part ent goes into the Hunt at the last of the block of four bobs, and comes out of the Hunt at the last of the block of three. Incidentally, this is the bell that will be four times and three times Bofore in the nex part.
If you uant a cleck on the middle pair of Befores-and it may be useful in any case in the event of a trip-lithe bell that goes into and comes out of the Hunt at these two bobs, in bath halves of the peal is the bell which, in the plain course, is the bell naturally coursing after the one that is called Before. Thus it is the 7th when the 6ifi is twice Before; the Gith when the 4 th is twice Before, and so on.
Fou may not want to call the whole of Holt's Ten-Part, but if yo want practice at calling Grandsire Triples, it is a first-rate compos tion to begin on, because it is easy, and you can gef various lengety in true touches.

CREDIT FOR FALSE PEALS?

The revelation of false peals which has just been made, with all the accompanying disappointment and the adjustment of records, both personal and general, has prompted a letter from the Rev. J. Maurice Turner which will be read with interest. Briefly, his contention is contained in the last sentence of his communication, ' If a band have faithfully followed the calling of the conductor and have brought the bells into rounds according to the composition, they should have the credit of the peal, true or false.' It is a suggestion which at first sight may seem to have some justification, but which, we think, on closer examination will be at once discarded by all those who regard "truth ' as the essential standard of a peal. While everyone will appreciate the fact that the ringing of a composition, whose falseness is discovered after its performance, is no reflection upon the actual ringers, throughout its long history the Exercise has never recognised anything but that which is strictly true, both in construction and execution, if we make an exception of trips in ringing which are speedily righted. To depart from this standard would, we are sure, be a mistake.

However well finished the performance might have been on the part of the ringers, a stigma at once attaches to anything that is afterwards proved false, whether it has been the fault of the composer or of the conductor. If ans individual cares to delude himself by including false peals in his personal records, that is lis affair, although, we imagine, he would fall considerably in the estimation of his fellows if they discovered it. But when it comes to the recognition of these things by associations, whose credit must always be above suspicion, it is another matter. It may not be possible to expunge the printed record of bygone days, but it is possible, and should be the invariable practice, to call attention to and withdraw as far as practicable, a performance which, in its truth, falls short of the recognised standards of centuries, whenever the discovery may be made. An individual can get no personal satisfaction from the knowledge of having rung a peal which was not true, whatever the cause ; an association would not add to the honours gained for it in continuing to claim something which was known to be false.
There is also another and very strong reason, in our opinion, why all credit for the ringing of such peals should be given up. Their admission would be more than likely to lead to slovenliness in composition. The standards of to-day require the utmost punctiliousness on the part of the composer, a slackening of the demands would lead careless, not to say unscrupulous individuals to put out work which, (Continuead on page 574.)

as long as it could be rung before the discovery of its falseness was made，would receive credit which it did not merit．Moreover，one of the difficulties about false com－ positions is that of marking then down，to safeguard future ringers．Contemporaries may learn of the failings of a composition，but once it has been printed it seems impossible to take any step which will ensure that the peal will not be called again at some later date by another conductor．And if our correspondent＇s suggestion were to be adopted，why should not a repetition of the performance under such circumstances be admitted as a peal，just as it was originally，because the fault would be no more that of the ringers than it was in the first case？It may be unfortunate that，after men have expended their labours for three hours or more in ringing，perhaps a perfectly struck peal，they should have to sacrifice the record，but we feel sure that it is the only safe way of preserving to the Exercise the honourable status which is attached to a peal performance．And，as far as we are aware，while those who suffer may feel chagrined，they are ready to accept the position with the best grace they can command．

T. Coles (loon, secretary), of the Middiesex Association, and Mr. W. Nash (district secretary), ML, W. Ayre (district secretary), Mr. B. Jarman, Mr. H. ## LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

ENJOYABLE MEETING AT CALVERLEY.
The monthly meeting of the Leeds and District Society was held at St. Wilfred's Chureh, Calverley, on Saturday, when between 30 and 40 members availed themselves of the opporthnity of risiting this delightful little township. The weather was glorious, and those who found it too bot for ringing wero abla to enjoy themselves in the heautiful little park, where an exciting cricket match contributed to thair entertainment.
The bells wore raised in peal at 3 p.in, and ringing continuet until 9 o'clock except for a brief interwal for ten. Mcmbers were present from Armley, Burley, Feadingley (Sit. Chad's), Idle, Leeds l'nrish Church, Rotitwell, Sherburn, Shipley, Chesterfield amd bie lacal company.
The business meeting was held $\mathrm{in}_{1}$ the tower at 7.30 , and in the absence of the president the chair was taken by Mr. H. Davison, vicepresident.
Two new members were elected, viz. : Miss D. M. Roby, of Bramley, and Mr. A. Ashton, of Bradford Catledral.

FOR BEGINNERS.

PARKER'S TWELVE-PART.

The most popular peal of Graudsire Triples with conductors to-day is undeubsedly Mr. Joseph J. Parker's famous twelve-parti. It is a classic, und it has been counted as a virtue that it can be so ensily thanspored that any bell may be used as the 'observation bell' to unit tho plysical ringing ability of the conductor. If he wants gomething bigger than the Gth, which is the fixed bell, in Mr. Parker's published tigures, the conductor mazy call it of the 7 tha by beginning the peal ab it diferent place; if lie wants something lighter than the 6th, lie can adapt the composilion so that he can make one of the minaller bells the observation.
If $a$ 'ronductor" muat ring the observation bell, this facility, for transposition may be convenient, but in no case is the transposition any improvement. Even the transposition, which was at first known us 'Groves' Vnaiation,' which substituted the 7th for the 6th, and whel, incidentally, was the form in which Mr. Parker himself fiest produced the peal, and which he discarded for what he consiclered a better form, has nothing to commend it over the original.
Tho point we are coniur to, lowever, is, why bother about these transpositions when $\pi$ study of the calling of peals and touches by the bells going into the Hunt or called Before will enable you to call tho oriarinal lwelve-Pate from any bell wilh wery litate, if any, extra tranhle, ant will certainly give you a much more interesting job.

Ille Bth, the fixed or olsservation bell, which comes back to its atarting point at every part end, is called into ouly four positions, Bofore, In, Oit, Home; but in eleven out of the fifteen calls in every pald it is either Before, Ir or Ont.

Lnst week wo explained how to observe the bell caming Before ar going into the Ifunt. We need not, therefors, go into elaborate detaits again, but will remiud you, brielly, that when you call a bell Before you watch for it ta lunt down immediately in front of the treble and call the bob when it leads. The bell going into the Hunt is the boll with anolher (the one coming Before) between it and the treble, and tho bob is, of course, cathed when the Before bell leads The other calling places in larker's peal are easily marked while ringiag, and we will deal with them as we come to them.
Perhaps it will facililate explanation if we set out the calling of tha peal. Except where $$$ incicates calling a single iustead of a bob, all the lend euds given are leads where bobs have to be called, and the figuro at the right-lumd side shows the number of leads sinco the previous call.

One of the "beatios, of Parker"s twelye-paut from the comductor's point of view is the symmetry of the part-ands, which emables them to bo ansily mumorised. Tlle fixed bell, the 6th, of course, relaing its place, at eam pant-end, 7 and 5 turn over, the three front bells transpose themselves, so that we get the following if the substituted Singles necessaly to complete tho peal are inserted in the 6tis aud 121 h parts:

In nddition there is anolher ensy check upon the position of the helle in cach prit. At the boh Home, marked with an asterikh, it will bo coen that, the next part-end is produced, except that the 6th and the bell hehind with fit (eilher tire 5 th or 7 th ) are reversed in thoin dodging.

And now to thes calling. First the 6the is ealled by bolss In and Out at 2. For the Tn yon waleln for it to lunt down with one bell between it num the frelile. Just note that that bell is the 7 th in the Fous eat le sure of calling the 6 th Out at 2 , because this bob will bring tha $5 t_{1}$ Tn in Ilin ofid purts and the 7th $\mathrm{J}_{\mathrm{l}}$ in the even parts.

Tho next font calls nre at the next four consecutive leads, so that you netmally hnve five nalls in suceession. The four calls bring the 6th Honmo with at Single, In, Out, Home with a Single. In the add parta the 7 th, in the coen marts the 5th is concerned in these two singles, $n$ t the first making 3rd's place, at the secoud goiug into the IInlt.

The next eall for the fill is Phofore, and fofter that Fome. You can marls this Come becase it heinge into the frunt the hall that will be there at the cext part end-this lob, in fact, producing what we may tem in 'internal ${ }^{3}$ partend to which we have referred.
In and Out at 3 conres next. The In you will easily find (it is the next lead after the Howe) ; yon will know when the Ont at 3 has to be called because it briugs back into the Hunt the bell that was called Out when the 6th went in (it is again the bell that will be in the lunt at the part-oad).
a single at Fome connes at the next lead, and this is always mude by 5 and 7,7 going into the hunt in the odd parts and the 5 th in the ешед parts.
Before, It and Out, Before, the Jast portion of the calling, should present no diffenlty to alert conductors, but here are sone points which may help to keep the bells right ind this part of the peal. The bell in the hunt at the previous part-end goes anto the Funt at the first Before; the bell in the Hunt at the next part-end goes into the hunt at the second Before.
The first Before brings the 7th in the odd parts and the 5th in the even parts to courge the 6th, and this coursing order is hroken at the last Bafore by interposing the other of the pair, putting the 5 th after the 6th in the odd parts and the 7th after the 6th in the even parts.
The part-end comes up two plain learls after the last hob, and the Single, which has to be inserted in the 6th and Ieth parts, is enlled instead of a bob mb the place marked with the asterask.
As long as you lawe the capaefty to memorise the pant-ends, or to transpose thens as you go, there should be no diffenty in the young conductor calling Parker's masterpiece in its original form, without laving to bother about transpositious.
If you minst call a trenspusition and select, say Groves', what we lave said abont the original can equally well be adapted to your transposition by substituting the 7th for the 6th and beginning from the 'intermal' part-ert.

GAVE HIS LIFE FOR FRIEND

IUYNEAM RINGER DROWNPD IN ATTGMPTING RESCUE.
The Teynlam band of the Canterbury Districu of the Kent Connty Association has lost one of its most promising young members us the yesult of a tragic accident.

On August 16tis, Douglae Booman, with his brother and if frieud, was swimming when the friend, a fellow-chorister, got into diflenities had called for help. Douglas J3ooman weut to his aid, but, infortumately, lost his life in company widn lis friend.
Boorman's younger brother tried to help both, bui had to gre up as he was also 3 danger of being drowned.
At the inquest the Coroner praised Douglas Soorman's plick in going to the assistance of his friend, and in giving his life in and attempt to saye him. He said no blame could be attached to the brother in having to give up.
Douglas Boorman had only been a ringer for 18 months, but was showing great promise.
The faneral took place at the Parish Church on Thursday, August 20 h , and was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. W. B. Purser), and attended by the choir and ringers.
The bells were rung half-mufiled on the following Sunday evening, when, in the conrse of his adriress, the Vicar spoke of the work in the church of both the youths, who lad been members of the choir, while ane had also been a ringer.
Much sympathy has been expresserl to the parents of both boys, and in this, we are sure, our readers will join.

PASSING OF MR. A. J. ROSE

SUDDEN DEATH OF WYKE REGIS RINGER.
It is with deep regret we lave to record the passing of Mr. Alfred John Rose, eaptain of the Wyke Regis, Weymuoth, hand, whose end, at the age of 65 years, was tragically sudden. 'Alf,' as he was known to all his friends, rang both for matins and evensong on Surday, August 23 rd , when he was in his usual happy spirits. He did his usual day's work at his trade as a carpenter on the following day, Monday, at the end of which he walked home steadily, with his workmates. Arriving indoors, he was greeted by his wife, sat alown and passed away immediately.
Mr. Rose had been a ringer al Wyke Regis Churcin for 45 years. Whem the present peal of eight was dedieated in May, 189I, he was one of the ringrets who formed the new band, and had carried on faithfully ever since, only missing rinting twice every Sunday when illness prevented it. He was captain of the band for about 25 years and a member of the Salisbury Diocesan Guid for about 33 years. Ho rang in the first peal-Graddsire Triples-on the bells at Wyke in Geptember, 1905. Every Friday lie Iooled forward to his copy of "The Ringing World."
The large number who gathered at Wyke Regis Church on Tharsfay week at the fineral was evidence of the esteem in which Mr. Rose was held. The Rector (the Rev. F. de Bassett Thurston) conducted the service. Representatives of the Foresters, deceased's fellow-workmen, members of the choir and servers and his brother ringers were present. The Wyke Regis ringers were represented by practically the wholo band, the Salisbury Diocesan Guild by the Master (the Rev. H. R. Guadry), Messrs. G. T. White, J. T. Godwin, J. W. Smith and L. J. Noakes (St. Peter's, Dorchester) and the Darchester Braych secretary. There were no flowers by request. Fallowing the funeral service and ugain in the evening, half-muffled touches were mung on the bells he loved so well.

COLCHESTER RINGER'S DEATH.

The death occurred at Colchester on August 19th of Mir. Willian J. Schofield, who was 63 years of age and liad been for many years a member of St. Peter's company of ringers.
On Tuesday, Angust 25th, at the funeral service, his brother ringers rang with the bells fully mufled the 'whole pull and stand.' Those taking part were Messrs. H. T. Pye, R. Cadamy, G. M. Rashbrook, F. L. Bumpstead, W. Dent, R. W. Stannard, W. Chalk and T. P. Duffield. At the graveside a short tonch on handhells was rung by Messrs. Rachbrook, Dent, Chals and Duffeld. Mr. W. J. Nerard, of Great Bentley, was also present.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATED.

RINGERS' SOCIAL EVENLNG AT NETHERTON
On Saturday last, upwards of 20 members of the Dudley and biririeh Guild met at the Bitd in Hand for supper to celebrate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Green, of Old Hill, alsn the birthdy of Mr. John Goodman and the wedding of Miss Mildred slieppard and Mr. Don Secker. A bountifus repast was provided hy Mr. and Mrs Albert Prestidge (the host and hostess) fin then usual satisfachory manner. After the tables had been cleared, the rest of the evening was spent in conviviatity, Mr. Jobn Goodmant, jun., being undilmonsly chosen to act as chairman.
The only toast given was that of 'The health of Mr. nud Mre. Green, with good wishes for many more year's of henlth and happiness. Mr. Green suitably replied.
Mr. Prestidge announced apologies from Mr, Churchwarden Cole, wha regretied heing mmable to be present; also from Mr. Sammel Shaw, an ex-warden of Netherton Parish Cliurch, who was mambe to be present awing to continued illness.
Hope was expressed that be would soon be restored to his usual health and be amongst them again. Mr. Prestirlge was nsked to convey this message to Mr. Staw, with the sympathy aud respect of the company.
It is interesting to learn that Mr. Prestidqe has just completed 36 years as a member of Netherton hand of rillgere, for several af which he has been captain and towerkeeper
Several members of the party made good use of the liandbells during whe evening by ringing changes and playing tunes unon them. Thanks were accorded to Mr. Goodman for ably carizing out the duties of clairman, to Mr. and Mrs. Prestidge for the excellent way they had catered and to the ladies who assistod in making the evening a liappy and enjoyable one.

DARLASTON BOB TRIPLES IN HERTS.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,-With reference to the letter from 3tr. H. J. Tucker, pubbished in last week's issue of 'The Ringilg World,' regarding a peal of Darlaston Bob Triples jung at Ware on Allgust Bth last, I jegret that a false claim was made for it, but as this method, seldom ruthe, was then first rung for the Hertfond County $A$ ssociation, $T$ matarally assumed it was ille first in the county. The peale mentioned by Mr. Tucker, although rung in Ferls, mere under the anspices of the Jesex

BELFRY GOSSIP

I think you will find, writes Mr. W. A. Cave, that the handbell peal in the trann, to which you referred last week, was rung between Paddington and stroud (not Bristol) an the oceasion of a visit of the Royal Cumberland Youths to Painswick. I shond fike to add to yours my congratulations to the six-bell bands tiat are ualsing history in the ringing of spliceat peals.
The first peals in the county of Argyll were rung on haudbells at Mr. J. H. Lewis' Scottish residence last week, when Mr. and Mrs. R. Richardson paidl a short visit to the Western Highands. Other ringing visitors were the Centra] Council Liburjau aid one of the handbell wizards from Oxhey.
Between the arrival of the Master of the Lincoln Guild and his wife on Monday afternoon and their departure early on Wednesday, peals of Bob Major and Bob Royal were rung, and when they left 34 fish weat with the peals into the Surdeet bag.
Mr. Richard F. Woodley, of Lowestoft ('Young Woodley' we believe his friends still call him), celebrated his 77th birthday last Saturday. He has created a rccord by dinging in a peal on lais birthday for the last six successive wears, and, incidentally, on the same bell. Yes, ho is still 'Young' Woodley.
Mr. Nolan Golden, who conducted the birthday peal, las rung his $300 t h$ peal for the Norwich Association for the second timel Since he recorded it on the first ocension a peal at Salle has been withdrawn by the conductor, Mr. C. H. Kippin.
In the report of the peal of Cambridge Surprise Rosal mung at King's Norton on August $22 n d$, the name of the ringer of the 6th should have heen William A. Stote, not Stone as printed; and Mr. Stote's name shonld also have appeared, instead of Stone, in the report of the peal of Superlative Surprise Major rung at Chilvers Caton on July 27th.
The 'bachelors' party,' with two or three married men to keep them in order, are spending an enjoyable week in Somerset in quegt, primcipatly, of peals.

FALSE COMPOSITIONS.

To the Editor

Sir, -It seems to me most nujust that a band of rimgers, after working hard for three hours at a peal, tapping splendidly and delighting the ears of the listeners with yood runsic, should suddenly be robbed of the honour, perhaps years after', because some ' nosey parker' has discovered the peal is false.
It makes one doubs whether any record of a peal can be accepted as true, and one ferls like endorsing, that modern beatitude, 'Blessed are they who are never found out?
It is true the accepted definition of a peal is "the true performance on bells of a true nomposition in any method of change ringing of not less than 5,040 changes,' but if a band have faithfilly followed the calling of the conductor and have bronght the bells into rounds according to the composition, they shonld have the cerdit of the peal, twe or false, and claim the tablet.

VILLAGE BELL RESTORATIONS.

HOW BARRON BELL TRUST GOULD HELP.
A. Suffolk correspondent, who is also a ehurchwarden, writes ex pressing agreement with the leading article which appeared in the last issue of "The Ringing Work ' with regard to hell lestorations in treedy parishes. He mentions instances in his own area, at poor agrīcultural district, of bells badly requiring restoration, where help would have encouraged local effort and make the carrying out of proposed schemes possible. As it $i s$, the full burden of the cost is too great to be undertaken by the parishes concerned.
Our correspondent also complains of the conditions which are sometimes imposed upon Chumehnithorities in having to preserve an ancient bell in the churel: f failing which the restoration cannot be cartied out. Often, he says, these bellg are cracked and have nothing to recommend them as ormameuts, but beanuse parish cannot raiso sufficient additional money to purchase a new hell, instead of recasting the old, the peal of bells in the tower has to remain in a neglected state, or retain a bell which absolutely spoils the effect of the restr, and often makes the restoration almust valueless.
He quotes the case of his own church, where there are four bells, but the second (undated) is so badly cracked as to be musable. The fourth, a pre-Reformation bell, is mearly as bad. At present the parishoners hear, $1-3$, cracked 4. 'Can you imagine the effect?' he says.
Quite recently a former Rector died and left $£ 100$ to be spento on the bells. But the authorities decline to allow the fonfiln, about 8 cmt ., to be recast. If it is not left in situ, it must be preserved in the church, so a schena to make the thind the tevor, recast the second, recast the fourth into two trebles and make a ring of five is frustroted, as the provision of the additional sum roguirad to provide tho two new bells is too big a joh for this salall parish to embarle upon. In eases like these the Barron Bell Trust could be of imtuense help.

THE NORTH OF ENGLAND TOUR.

BUSINESS BEGINS IN CO. DUREAM.

BY W. H. FUSSELL

The peal columns of 'The Ringing World' last week reveai 14 successful attompts made in a programme of 15 towers that were visiled in Durham and Northumberland during the octave August 15th to 22nd. It was plactically 'Benmett's anual' ringing tour, with several oll ringing friends making upy the holiday party of 'twelve apostles " of the Exercise. Early ju the yeat inquiry was set afoot in the area covered by the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, when kind offers of welcome to the North were fully confmed by the happy experience of the whule parby on the tour.
Thanks to the assistance of Major F. A. Yorke and Mr. C . L. Routledge, respectively, the Cathedral authorities of Durham and Newcastle placed their towers at our disposal. Thanks also to Messrs.

DLRHAM CATHEDRAL TOWER.
Peals in this moble tower are ritre. The tourists rang the first peal of Candridge Surprise Major on the bells, after a narrow escape through the rope being jerked oub of the tenorman's lands.
W. H. Darber aud M. J. Davidsoa, a fine list of belfries to be wisited was plamed, and the later gentleman further contribnted to the sueces of the tour by kindly supplying each member of the party with a detailed prorramme that saved many anxieties and doubts as to 'where and when' and how to get there?
Day by day the rouline went hroagh withont any serious incident -no broken rope, no absent towcrkeeper and no interfuption for wed. cing or funeral
On several oceasions during the week a telephone call from Jesnond Road inquired, 'How did you fare to-day?' nud the usual reply was 100 per cent. up.' I began to think the whole team would return to their homes like the famous Cock $a^{\prime}$ the North Private cars from Wycombe and Shadwell Heath carried seven men and the railway the remainder, the whole assembling at heedquarters, the Qneen's Hotel, Neweastle, between 6 and 7 p.ni. on Friday, Angust 14tlz. After the long ride through half a dozen counties ( 276 miles from London), we sat down to supper at 8 o'clock. The local ア'ess had reported our coming in the "Tvening Nems," and Feferred to men of "1,000 peals" and the Australian taurists that werce witl the tenm. Mr. C. L. Routledge hoped we would enjoy our visit and provided refreshment. and whs supported by Messers. Keen, Barber, Davidson, Adan Deas and R, and J. Anderson. They kindy formed a' guormm; so that eifght of our wisitors conld be propased for life membership of the Durham aud Newcastle Associntion. The fees paid and copies of the anmual reports were cxclanged and the election sclinched, witla a pair of Newcastle tongs, as the hotel paker was too short to haudle. After this business was completed there was mutual collwersation ending only by threatening to send solap of the new menabers "home" "for braach of training regulations. However, beds were taken by elevell o'clock.

On Saturday, breakfast at 8, away at 9 , to Sunderland, which was reached at 10 a. [r. We were met by the clergy and Mr. J. W. Jarker, Messrs. Patterson, Taylor and the verger. The lirst peal attempt was successint, not without some risk of a failure, cansed by two interruptions; first a note for the ringers was brought to the belfy: Was it illness? Were we to stop? Next fwo pressalen cane anxious tu interview the ringers in the midst of ringing Simprise Major! Those not ringing went to Whithmin Buy for a couple of hours and saw a huge cargo vessel, the 'Birkcley,' stranded high and dry on the rocks, after a recent gale, and likely to become a total wreck.

A NARROW FSCAPE AT DURHAM.

Luncheon at Newcastie, and then to Durham Cathedral, reached about 4 o'clock (ten men in two cars). Mr. James shepherd had cycled from Newcastle and had already 'kissed. the tenor before we artived, but Mr. Simpson came late (delayed train service), and showed his affection for her in a more vigorons manter. I wonder how many 'fairy tales' these two men could telt us about some of the big bells thej have tackled? We received a welcome from the Bell Major, Wir. H. Oliver, the steeplekeeper, and Major F. A. Yorke. Aud what a climb to the belfry of this noble Nomman Lawer! And what a man's job ta ring the back bels-on ball bearings-fenor 30 cwt ., hung in a swaying mass of stone! Messrs. Patierson and Simpson, who have each turned her in to Major, do not seek to repeat the task. This was a good performanca for striking, marred by a few blows, some half-hour before the end, caused by the tenor rope foldtug over the sally guide and wrenching the rope out of the ritiger's hands. This he recovered in a marvellous mamer and goun had the bell righted. On leaving the tower we were invited to the County Fotel for refreslnment by ilajor Yorke, and were joined by Messrs. Barber. Kecn and Pickering and our 'unemployed' four men. They were all highly amused to frear of Mr. Bennett's emulation of the Coidstream Guardis afler two hours' ringing. When the braces gave way be looked esery bit a "braw ladite ${ }^{\text {b }}$ without the sporran. We sympathised with hir in lis efforis to hitch up the trews and carry out whe 'full work in front' in Cambridge-very mueh Surprise-Major. The County was left at 9 , the Queen's reacherl at 10 , beds by 11 p.m. and our first day's work was done.

Thy pews have seen an everchanging life,
Yet on them, still, the cheguered sumlight falls, May vandals tonch thee not, but keep thee whole
That men unborn here, too, may find their soul.
(Chester-le-Street Parish Magazinu.)
Service ringing 10 to 11 and Cathedral service 11 to 12 oceupied our Sunday morning. In the ringing room was a slrong muster of ringers, the local men courteously standing down for the twelve visitars to ring Steduma Ginques. Other touches followed in which alf took some part, conducted by W. H. Barber.
There is a bourdon bell of 5 tons 18 cwt. for the clock hours, erected in 1891, whem the bells were restored and the old eight lwells ruplaced by a bearier peak of ten. Tho frebleg added itu 1912 mafe an excellent. joly of the whole. An early perl record, printed on silk, is framed and dated December' 8th, 1848: 'Rung on the cight splendit bells of this magnificenf tower in 2 hours 55 minuies, beifg the quickest peal ever recorded, tenor 36 cwt." This was composed by Thmistans, of Birningham, and conducted by Stephenson, a poneer of change tinging in Newcastle. It was the first peal on the hells since the Jubilee of George 11. A similar peal was conducted hy John Cox, of Landon, in 1842. I wonder what took him to Newcastle?

In the afternoon a pleasant drive to St, Margavet's, Tanfichl, where the first peal of Yorkshire Surpuise Major in County Durhan was rung. During the jourbey the country scemery was " relieved, by poontainous piles of coal slag, the accumulation of years, resemhling in the distance Mount Vesuvius. We came to the conclubion thate it would not be wise to send coals to Newnatle. Three hundred years ago these fields supplied the Gity of London, carried by sea, and one of its citimens, when leaving a charity to the poor of St. Olave"e parish, specified the best "Fewcastle? coal. Who knows? Perhaps the Great Fire of London was started by a litute piece of Neweastle?

LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL TOWER

PROMABLY FIVE YEARS BFFORE IT IS COMPLETED

The skyline of Liverpool Cathedral, writes a correspondent in the last issue of tho 'Sunday Tiures,' lias undergone a great change. A 250 ft. temporary steel tower cuntaining a passenger lift for the use of workmen has been completed alongside the unfinished vestry tower. The large single crane, which for years lifted the luage red stones of the lowe.' into position, has disnppeared, and in its place are two smaller cranes perched on top of the belfry
The Vestey tower, zaned after the faunily who gave $£ 250,000$ towards its cost, has reached $\AA$ beight of 190 it , and the steel "bridge, which has to take the Cathedral's peal of ijells, has now disappeared behind its wising musony.

Whilo tho upper part of this tower piles skyward, workmen are engaged on the central spacs beneath. There is much worls to be done on the western parf. of the interior, and 18 months or two years may elapse before it is possible to pull down the temporary wall that divides the part of the Cathedral now in use, the choir, the northern and sonthern aisles, and the morth-eaki aud south-east transepts.
When the present portion of the Cnthedral is completed, it will be possibla for 2,000 to be sealed facing anst, and hundreds more worshippers will be able to find scats in the four transepts. It is 32 years since the roundation stone was laid by King Edward VII. It will probably be five years before the tower is completed.
In anijeipatime of the installation of a ring of twelve bells, of which it is expected the tenor will weigh 4 tons, a reiuforced concrete frame has lyect build into tibe structure.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

BELL RESTORATION IN DORCHESTER BRANCH.
In glorious weather a very successful meeting of Che Dorchester Branch of the Sulisbury Diocesan Guild was held at West lulworth on Saturday; August 22nd, aud attracted a yood mimber of ringers and friends. This place, with its noted cove on the Dorset coast, is looked upon as ane of the beeuty spots of Eugland.
The bells (6), also those of Wool, were available from 3 p.m., and good practice was carried out, although some of the ringers found the light peal of six at Wool, hung on ball bearings, rather diffeult to hanale. The service was conducted by the Vicar the Rev, C. C. Sharpe). The chairman of the district (the Rev. A. W. Markby) read the lesson, and the address was given by that andent clange ringer, the Rev. R. P. Farrow, Vicar of Enst Lulworth, who took for his text, Whatsoever ye do, do it in the Name of Christ Jesus.' The preacher spoke of change ringing as a hobby and as part of the service of the Church. Some ringers, he said, thought of it only as a hobby which could only be puisued in the church because the bells were there. Others thonght of it as only a party of the service and that it did not much matter what methods you rang or whetleer you wang auything but call-changes. Both these, he said, were wrong. The ideal ringer was tho one who tried to be as proficient as possible in the art of change ringing and never lost sight of the fact that he was helping in the service of God's Chrrch. Ho noted with pleasure that in the new district into which he had recently come there was a real spirit of devotion among the ringers and that the services at meetings were reverentily and well attended.
Tea was served in the Reading Room, where 54 yingers and friends gat down. A slort business meeting followed, presued over by the Rev. A. W. Marklby.
The secretary (Mr. C. H. Jenuings) reported that he hoped to arrange a ringing practice at Abbotsbury and probably at Wyke Regis. There would be $\Omega$ meeting at Wool for the unveling of the menorial tablet to the lato captain, Mr. F. A. Ruayerd.
The Chairman gave the visitors a very warm welcome and expressed Chenks to the Vicar, to the Rev. R. P. Farrow for his excellent address, to the lady helpers, to the local hand and to their secretary for making such excellent arrangements.-This was carried with aeclamation, and the Vicar and the Rev. R. P. Farrow replied.
The Ringing Master (Mr. P. Field) said he had been to Mappowder and had found the bells there were in a very dilapidated condition. They bore the date 1735, and he appealed to the Guild for support in putting them in good ringing condition. The Secretary said he sew no reason why this conld not be done, and quoted what lad been done in Dorset during the past 25 years.
Mr. Fiell went on to say he had suggested to the Fienr that he should apply to the Barron Bell Trust.
After an interesting discussion, in which the Rev. R. P. Farrow stated amidst loud Iaughter that lis bells also wanted to be augmented, it was resolved that the secretary write to the Viear of Mappowder on the subject.
The following towers were represented at the meeting: Bradiord Peverell, Buckland Newton, Dorchester, Puddletown, Sydling, Stratton, Upwey, East Lulworth, West Lulworth, WooI and Wyke Regis. There were welcome visitors from Kazelbury-Bryau, Poole R.T.C., North Cadbury and Greenwich.
Both towers were visited after tea, and further good practice was obtained, the methods rung being Plain Bob Minor, Stedman and Grandsire.

A MID-WEEK JOINT PRACTIGE.

On Thursday, August 20th, a foint practice of the Dorchester and West Dorset Branches was held at Whitchurch Cauonicomm, near Bridport. This mid-week practice provided an opportunity for those members who cannot get off on saturdays to aftend the ordinary meetings. An excellent practice was ohtained, about 20 members being present. The Dorchester and Lyme Regis bentid were well represented. Mr, G. R. Gross rode fron Twyford, Reading, to attend this practice, a distance of over 200 miles for the returu journey. Other wisitors present were Messrs. F. W. Stokes, hon. secratary of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild: H. G. Herrington, London; W. Marsh the Lincoln Diocesan Guild: H. G. Herrington, London; W. Marsin Woodicy, Sidmonth.
The eight bells were raised at 3 p.m. and ringing continued until 5.30, when an adjonrnment was made to the Five Bells. Practise whs afterwards resumed until 7 p.m., when Bridport was visited. There the practice concluded at 9 o'clock. Some members were overjoyed at ringing their first real tonch (504) of Stedmen Triples.
This was voted an enjoyable afternoon and evening practice on two very fino peals of eight. Whitchurch Canonicorum is situated in the heart of Marsliwood Vaie, and the bells are henrd to great advantage.

JAMES BARHAM.

By J. Armiger Trollope.

Most of what we know about Barham is derived from a book which he wrote and in which he records the peals he and his band had rung, and other of their doings, with some comments on rival companies. In his old age he gave it to William Holland, of Leeds, and shortly afterwards it was in the possession of W. Laver, of Fulham, but in the course of time it disappeared. A copy was made by John Naunton, of Ipswich, in 1866, and that, too, is lost, but a transcript of Naunton's copy by Samuel Slater in $\mathbf{4 8 6 7 \text { still remains. It seems that Naunton did a }}$ certain amomt of editing with the idea of making Barham's meaning clearer. During Barham's lifetime a broadsheet was published by Hall and Son, of Maidstone, giving a list of performances, and an imprint of it is in the British Museum. This prolesses to be 'a nearly correct copy,' but some emendations are said to have been necessary.
Once or twice the College Youths came in contact with the Leeds Youths. In 1775 the former lost a peal of Bob Major at Rye, after about an hour's ringing, and Barham's band followed them and broke down after ringing 4,768 changes of Kent Treble Bob. In 1770 the College Youths rang 5,056 Oxford Treble Bob at Sevenoaks, and the Leeds men followed it up with 5,184 in the same method. Barham says that the College Youths 'turned 5 bells out of course, which is not allowed.' Exactly what he meant is not clear. To say that the bells were 'out of course' was the same thing, in old phraseology, as saying that there had been a shift, and so it looks like an assertion that the London men got in a mudele and either called or forced the bells home. But that is hardly likely, for the College Youths' standlard of peal ringing was a high one, higher than that of the Kent men

Between Barham's band and the Wye ringers there was a great deal of rivalry, each claiming to be the leading company in Kent. On May 22nd, 1749, the Leeds men rang 5,040 Bob Major at Faversham, and 'the Wye ringers were here at the same time, but rang nothing to talk of at all.' In 1763 the others rang ' 5,184 Oxford Treble Bob on that celebrated peal of cight bells at Ashford. The truest and best ringing 1 ever heard for so long a time. Wye ringers at the same time was there and rang a short bit or two, but very badly indeed.' A match was arranged between the two bands to ring for half a guinea a man. In February, 1755, the Wye men visited Leeds. The local band rang 5,040 Bob Major in 3 hours and 10 minutes 'at the first trial,' and the others 'about 2,160 of the same peal though very badly.' Three months later the return match was held at Wye, when Barham's band rang a peal of Plain Bob, 'so we beat them both at home and at Wyc , to the great dishonour of that company.'
In 1757 6,720 of Morning Pleasure was rung at Leeds, and in 17635,184 of the same method. In 17655,400 of Morning Pleasure Royal was rung. The method is a poor one, being Oxford Treble Bob spoilt by making thirds when the treble is lying full behind, and these seem to be the only recorded peals by any band save one at Ashford by the local band in 1768 . In 17665,056 of Morning Exercise Major was rung at Leeds, anci in 1775 5,184 of New Morning Exercise. Morning Exercise is Oxford Treble Bob above the treble and Cambridge Surprise be-

Iow. New Morning Esercise is probably Kent instcad of Oxford. The method is very false, and it is certain that none of these peals was true, nor for that matter were any of the 'Treble Bob peals rung by Barham's band. Fulham Triples was another method ring, though it does not appear on the broadsheet.

A performance of more than usual interest was one of 5,088 changes of New Oxford Treble Bob at Leods on June 5th, 1775. A note in the peal book says, 'and never rung before '; and this seems to have been the first peal of Kent Treble Bob ever rung. In 1784 peals of Kent Royal were rung at. Leeds and Maidstone under the name of New Oxford. The Kient variation of Treble Bob was the one important contribution of Barham and his band to the development of ringing. It was taken to London, and, although the metropolitan ringers did not adopt it for many years, it was given in the "Clavis." Provincial bands in the Midlands and the North began to practise it, and in the early days of the 19 th century it almost entirely superseded Oxford, except in the Eastern Counties, where the older variation continued to be almost exclusively rung on eight bells down to the close of the century. In the 'Clavis' it is called New Treble Bob, and Shipway was the first who printed it with the name Kent, but probably it was a titie that the London ringers naturally and unthinkingly adopted from the place of its origin.

James Barlian lived to a great age and died on January 14 th, 1818 , in his ninety-third year. He was buried in Leeds Churchyard, and his tombstone records that from the year 1744 to the year 1804 he rang in Kent and elsewhere 112 peals, not less than 5,040 changes each peal, and called the bobs for most of the peals. He actually rang two peals after the record was made, and his last was in 1813, when he was 88 years old, which is probably a record age for any peal ringer. In his ninetysecond year he rang the treble to a touch of five hundred of Treble Bob Major.

AUGHTON RINGERS IN CHESTER

On Saturday, August 15th, the ringers of Christ Church, Aughton Logelher with Messra. Martin and Benaett, of Bootle, and Mr. Gil mour, of Jiverpaol, joumeyed to Chester in response to the kind invitation of Mr, l'ercy Swiudley, jun. The party were met at the station, and proceeded to the Cathedral, where Mr. Swindley's father, is well as Mr. G. Sperring, Mr. Sam Jones, juu., and olhers, were uriliag to assist with the ringing. Various methods were brought home 11 good style, and, after about an hour's ringing, 'Good-bye was sail to this peal of eight with the hope that at some future date there will be two more bells. The whole company then went on to Sceleston, where Mr. Jones was waiting with averything in readiness, and some good zinging was enjoyed on this tip-top ring.
Aflel tea, steps were pointed to St. Mary's-within-ihe-Walls, and this waty where the fun started. It is mecessary to negotiate an upright shep fadder about 40ft. ligh to get to the belfry here, and at least me of the party would noi try his hand as a humen spider, so only ahout three short touches were rung at this tower before going to the other St. Mary's. This one is at Handbridge. It was hore that the best ringing of the day was enjoyed, a touch of spliced Plan Bob, Double Norwich and Little Bob being rung in cxceltent stylc, and at 9 p.m. the bells were dropped in peal to bring to a conchision a grand tay spent round Chester with some fine bells and no less fire company. Messrs. Brown and company wish to thank all the fowerkeepers and the frients who accompauied them to the various towers for all the enjoyment they had, and Mr. Percy Swindley will ever bo thought of in connection with the day.

YOUTHS' HALF-DAY OUT.

Willesborough nud District Youths' anmual outing, a half-day rum provided them with an enjoyable excursion round about Maidstone Illey first called at Boxley, where ther were received by Mr. Gosling hind rang Treble Bob, ete., on the handy liftle six. At Snodland, the next call, the bells had been got up ready for the visitors by Mr Wansliall, and an hour's good ringing was put in. Going on to Mere worll, where Messirs. Saunders and Newman weve waiting on the sitlewalk, the bells were raised in peat, and further touches rung Alter the bells had been lowered, there was a hunt for a missing hat, which was eventually found in the hand of another Fouth, who is a "part-lime No-Fatter.' T'ga at the Torrington and then awny througis bj-ways and hedges to East Peckham, where the Rector and somo of the locals weleomed the visitors. Soon the fine old six were going in Oxford, ole., but whether it was the tea, the bomatoes or the auts, no one enn tell, but the ringing was not quile up to standard anll one Youth seened more intergstod in Fate (or was it Mar gnrol?) eleaning the brass, than in ringing. At Staplehurst whe bells were taher " 'Inmpy" lof for hoys. Grandsire and Stedman were not. so bad; but of the Major, 'mulf sed.' Fome was eventualy vached after an enjoyable round run of 70 miles, which inchaded five lowers wisited antl eight methods rung. 'Not so dusty,' seys our convospontlont, 'for' Youtlis ranging from 13 to 70 odrl. He adds that tho Youths wish, througls 'The Ringing World,' to thank the incumhents, towerkeepers and all who lielped to give them such an enjoyable lime.

THE OUTCOME OF GENIUS.

The record in the number of methods included in a peal of Minor of only seven extents is steadily mounting. It has been raised now to no fewer than sixty-eight, and the ringing of this total goes to the credit of the Cheshise band. We continue to marvel at the skill which ringers of these multi-method peals display, especially when they have to change from one method to another nearly every lead. The end has not yet been reached of the performances of this kind, and we look forward to even greater achievements in the near future. In expressing richly deserved admiration of the prowess of men who can successfully ring a peal of such intricacy as that last Saturday and those recently accomplished in Lincolnshire, and particularly of the conductors, whose task requires an immense mental concentration, we must remember the man who has made these peals possible.
In increasing the record from sixty-six to sixty-eight methods, the Cheshire band used an extent increased Erom in England. ten to twelve methods. The bare amouncement of it is 'Arranged by A. G. Driver,' and to Mr. Driver are due several other of these extents which contain a large number of methods. Many people may reasonably ask,' 'Who is Mr. A. G. Driver?' His name never appears in peal reports; in the past when he has entered into print on any question relating to methods he has done so under a nom de plume. Thus he has never sought the limelight, but the work which he has done has put six-belf ringing on an entirely different footing. Other composers have knitted together numbers of methods into extents, but most of them left the investigation when the maximum number that could be spliced into seven extents was thought to be about forty-five.

Mr. Driver's genius has, however, carried Minor splicing far beyond the bounds of anything that was conceived possible a few years ago, and it is by no means certain that he has reached the limit of the possibilities. The compositions which he has obtained, however, are still far ahead of what has yet been rung, so that ringers can go on in the knowledge that there are further fieids to conquer. In Mr. Driver we have a rare phenomenon: Almost a non-ringer who has carried a branch of composition far beyond anything that expert ringers have done. It is, we imagine, the fascination of figures and a mathematical mind which are responsible for all the work he has done in the interests of ringers. We only know of one other case in which a man who did not participate in the practical side of change ringing entered so fully into the scientific investigation of it, and that was the late Mr. W. H. Thompson, who half a century or so ago carried out explorations into the construction (Contizueà on page 590.)

of peals of Grandsire Triples, the results of which are to be found in Snowdon's publications. Mr. Driver's work deserves to rank with anything done by great composers of the past. What he has done indicates that there is scope for interesting investigation in unexpected directions, and should be an encouragement to others to seek new outlets for their enterprise.

FOR BEGINNERS.

FROM BOB MINOL TO GRANDSIRE TRIPLES.
I'here are some towers we know, which have had their bells augmented from six to eight, where the ringars, beying previously rung little else than Bob Minor, have found atiffeulty in turning to Graudsire Triples. Some, indeed, have failod to make anything of the task in their early trials, and have, therefore, contented themselves with ringing Plain Bob Triples. This method on odd numbers is, in these days, taboo in all the best ringing circles, although now and again a band who know better will ring a peal of it just to say they have 'rung one.'
There are, of course, quite goor objections to ringing an 'even-bell' method on odd numbers; it makes it a lopsided aftair, apart from breaking the now well-established canons of clange ringing. But we can understand the difficulties which beset beginners and some of the less experienced ringers when they want to pass from Bob Minor to Grandsire Triples, not only because of the extra bell to be reckoned with, but because the dodying that has to be done comes on a different pair of bells-4-5 instead of 3-4, end 6-7 instead of 5-6, aud appears to be donc in the reverse way.
Let us try to smooth out some of these stumbling-blocks. First of all, look at the difference in Plain Bob and Grandsire in their simplest form :-

In each ease the figures between the lines consists simply of plain hunting, but across the line, when there are four bells, second's place is made, leaving two to dodge behind, and when there are five bells the phace is pushed out to 3 ra's, so that there are still two bells left to dodge behind. If you exanine the relative places of the treble, however, you will notice that the changes bobil on four and on five bells fall at the same stroke, either "back' or "hand." When the treble is in 2ud's and 4th's molng up it is a handstroke change, in the other places, going up, it is a backstroke clange. Coming cown the position is reversed. In $4 t h$ 's and 2nd's it is backstroke, in the rest it is handstroke.
As you go from Minor to Triples the same rule spplies. If you are in the labit of remembering, for instance, that in dodging in 4-3 (down) and 6-5 (down) in Minor the blows in 4 th's and 6th's are at backstroke, then recollect also that in dodging in 5-4 and 7-6 in Grandsire the blows in 4th's and 6th's are still at backstroke. Correspondingly in dodging up in Minor your blows in 4 th's and 6th's are at handstroke, so in dodging up in Grandsirc your blows in 4th'a and 6th's will be at handstroke.

It is often because in dodging down in Minor the step backward is at backstroke that a ringer, going from Minor to Triples for the first time, finds it difficult to 'dodge the other way." The reason for this 'dodging the other way' is the fact that ho is dodging one place further back, and once this is realised, the technical diffculty of putting in the dodge should disappear.
As a matter of fact, it is a great advantage to know, in ringing any method, at which stroke the dodge is made; 拉 sayes many a bad blow and often a trip. Whether you are ringing on five or twelve bells in plain methods, at all events, the 'odd' places, 3 rd 's, 5 th's, 7th's, ete., ars backstrokes, the even places handstrokes, when you are hunting or dodging up; and the reverse when yon are on your way down. If you know this when yoi are ringing Grandsire Triples, for example, it should prevent your trging to dodge with a hell in 5-6, instead of $6-7$, because $J$ ou will rexlise that your blows are on the 'wrong stroke for a dodge. The greater the number of bells the more helpful this knowledge is, particularly if the ringing is mone too steady aud dodging bells are hard to find.

Another thing to remember in going from Bob Minor to Grandsire Triples is that thare are two bells in the haut; that in going up and down when you pass the treble there is another bell to pass, at the next stroke, which is not a dodging bell. And it is the same bell every time until a bob or single is called.
Third's place is made in Grandsile, insiead of the 2nd's of Boh Minor, and while in the Ialter you ouly cancern yourself with the treble, when going to, making and zeturning from this place, in Grandsire Triples you have the treble and the other bell in the hunt to take into account, and you strike over them alternately in going to, making and returning from the place
If, in ringing Bob Minor, you are in the habit of remembering the coursing order of the bells, and desire to do the same iu Grandsire Triples, recollect that, while in the farmer the last bell before the treble becomes the first after the treble when the treble has lad, in Grandsire treble and bell in the lunt work as one for this purpose, and the last before tho treble becomes first after the bell in the humb, when the treble has led
What reaIly happens as the result of this additional lunt bell is that the dodging is pushed ont one place, and $3-4$ becomes $4-5$, and $5-6$ becomes $6-7$. Take the orvinary taties by which some ringers learn their methods and you will see how similar they area:-
$\begin{array}{ll}\text { Pass trelule in } 5-6 & \text { dodge } 4-3 \text { (down) } \\ \text { Pass treble in } 4-5 & \text { dodge } 65 \text { (down) }\end{array}$ dodge $3-4$ (un) dodge 6-1 (up)
$\begin{array}{lll}\text { Pass treble in 2-3 } & \text { dodge } 3-4 \text { (up) } & \text { dodge } 4-5 \text { (up) } \\ \text { Pass treble in 1-2 } & \text { make 2nd's } & \text { make } 3 \text { rd's }\end{array}$
$\begin{array}{lll}\text { Pass treble in 2-3 } & \text { dodge } 3-4 \text { (up) } & \text { dodge } 4-5 \text { (up) } \\ \text { Pass treble in 1-2 } & \text { make 2nd's } & \text { make } 3 \text { rd's }\end{array}$

The bob making is, of course, entirely difterent in the two methods, but if the bob caller does his job accurately there should be little diffectly in making the bobs in Grandsire. The hob should be called when the bell which has hunted down in front of the treble leads. The four bells in $4-5$ and $6-7$ are then in the places where they have to dodge for the bob, and they each have a double dodge. (A double dodge is stepping back twice, instead of once, before hinting on.)
The bob puts the bells one place back in the dodging sequence, but that should not matter to the ringer, because he sliould be in his dodging place when the bob is called. What should be borne in mind, however, is that the bell that passes tremle in $2-3$ and. was going to dodge in $4-5 \mathrm{up}$, if there had heen to boh, makes 3rd's place, and, taking the treble off at lead, becomes the bell in the hunt.
Tho bell that was in the linnt is passing through 5-4 when the bohs is called; it, therefore, stops in 5-4 for a double dodge and tales its place in the cycle of 'working' bells.
While on the subject of Grandsire we must correct all error which, by a rather inexcusable oversight, was made in our article a fortuight ago, on calling Holt's Ten-Part, We said, erronemusly, that by the calling of any number of the parts, true tonches in multiplea of 518 conld be obtained. This, of course, is not so. The first part-end is 246375 ; the cecond 267453 , and so on, so that in suy part after the first (except the 5 th where a half-peal would be completed) there wonld be a repetition of leads of the plain course.
It is a testimony to the number of competent ringers who read these articles that so many of then have written to call our attention to this slip. Some of them also remind us that Reoves variation of the peal, which, by the insertion of an additional call, hringe the part-ends up in plain course order, will give a true touch, however many parta are called.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

GFNTRAL BRANGH PRESIDENT'S DEPARTURE,

In stormy weather, a mecting attended by about 30 members and friends was held at Haddenliam on Saturday. Ringing commenced about $3.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m} .$, and, except for the tea and mecting interval, were kept going until about 9.15 p.m:
A short meeting was held, as it was desired to extend the mombers' best wishes to the Vicar (the Rev. A. E. Kirkland), who is president of the branch, before his departure to a now church at Easting
The District Secretary, Mr. F. Warringlon, in voiding the feclings of the members, said the Vicar had litelped in many ways to form the Central Branch. The branch would greatly feel his absence, but hoped their lass would be others' gain.
At present there is only one bell in the now church to which Mr. Kirkland is going, but the secretary informed the meeting that it might not remain so-information which Sussex rinqers should note. Mr. H. Collins (local secretary) supported Mr. Warriugton in bis remarks, and added that the ringera might get as good a friend, but not better.
The Rev. A. E. Kirkland. who was much moved by the remarks made, thanked all for their services. Neatly every Sinday, he said, Faddenham bells were rung for morning and ovening services. Bells and bellringers did their duty in more than one respect. People who never attend church were moved hy the sound of bells, and the ingers by their labours were helping. The Ficar added he would not forget them. There was anch applause at the close of the Ficar's speech.

WHERE THREE COUNTIES MEET.

SUCOFSSFUL JOINT MEETING AT EGHAM, SURREY.
Tucked jato un extreme comer of the county of Surrey, where the Themes divides it from Middesex and Rulnymede (where King John swore at his barons and then signed Mayne Charta) suparates it frum Berkshire, lies tho little town of Eyham. Here on sirtarday turee associations held a jount ringiog meeting-the Guildiord Diocesan Guild, the Middlesex Comty Association and the Oxford Diocesan Guild. Over sixty ringers pub in an appearance and spent a thoraugliy enjoynile afteruoon. Wibl the two rings of bolls at Staines and tire peal ab Wraysbury available, in addition to Tgham, there was plenty of opportunity for ringing, of which full advantage was taken.
The gathering brougtrit together ringers from a large mumber of towers, and they attended service in Egham Church. In the abseace of tho Vichr (the Rev. A. C. Tranter), the Viear of Stanwell touk the gervice and gave an expellent address. He also presider over the tes, at which, smong others, there were present Mr. J. A. Trollope (vicepreaident) and Mr. F. W. Goodfellow (joint hon. sectetary) of the
 A. D. Barker (hon, treasurer) and Mr. T. Fowler (District Master, Fast Berks and South Bucks Branoh) of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, Mr, J. S. Goldsmith (hon, seeretary), Mr. H. J. Chaffey (Chertsey District Ringing Master), Mr. F. Hawthorne (Chertsey dibtret seereLarg) and Mr. ©. I. Grover (Guildford district secrefary) of Guildford Diocesan Guikl. Among the visitors were Miss $\nabla$. Rabinson (Wokingham), Mr. T. R. Worsley (Bolton, Lancs), Mr. R. G. King (Royston, Herts) and Mr. T. S. Mason (Oldbury, near Birminglamp) Ringers were present from titg following towore: Hillingdon, West Ealing, Willesden, St. Giles' and St, Lawrence Jewry, London, Cookham, Staines, Fersham, Leatherhea, Aldershot, Stoke Poges, Reading, Farnham Royal, Kintribury, Uxbridge, Egham, Islewanth, Kingeton, Chertsey, Chiswick, Twickenlinm, Streatley, Ruislip, Chalfont, Pulmer, Fleston, Sumbury, Jver, etc.
There was no formal business to be done, but the Vicar of Stanwel! was thanked by Mr. J. S. Goldismith, and Mr. F. E. Hawthorme welcomed tho visting ringerg. He emphasised the value of sneln meetings, which, he said, enabled ringers to realise that, although they were in different assnciations, they were all taking part in the same wark Fo hoped to see these joint meetings made an anmal event, and he looked forward, with the co-operation of the other secretaries, to holding a gimilar meeling next year in Staines.
Mr. J. A. Trollope replied for the Middlesex Association. The spirit of hratherlhood among ringels, he said, was the most important thing wo possessed. If a man was a ringer he was a member of one great fraternity and whas welcone wherever be went. He knew of nothing olse Iike it throughout the lend. If a man went into a tower in the uttarmost gart of England, the first thins the local rimgers said to him was, 'Are jrou at ringer' $p$ ' Tf lie said he was, they asked, "What chty you rimg ?' and they wonld adapt whemselves, if they could, to their visitor's standard and make him feel an honoured guest and Fyinnd. That gavit wan a thing they should prize more than they did. Some of the younger poople were inclined to take it as a mather of course, bib that should not be so. They should appreciato the wel como they received when they went to a church as wisitors. Ee expressed pleasure at the welame received that day at Cglam, and snicl mantings of that kind anabled them to meet people they did not come neross in the ordinary way. Mr. Trollope added that they were specially pleased to see rimeng them that day Miss Robinson, who hore an honoured mame. To mary of the younger people, the Rev F. E. Robinson was only a mame, but to the older generation it mennt an extramdimary personality. Miss Rohinson's fatlee was tlie first man to ring a thonsand peals, and that at a time when they were worth fwo thonsnad as they were counted today. He nsed to ys all round Foriand and there was something extraordinarily great alsut what he did. Mr. Trollope also specially welcomed Mr. Ton Minlert and Mr. T. B. Worsley, and made mention of the presence Mr. T. Towler ncknowledged the welcome on behalf of the members of the Oxford Dionosan Guid, and put in an earnest plea for more support for "The Ringing Worjd.' He urged that regular subscribers should hecome atents to push the kale. In this connection he surg gester that a sulserintion form should be printed in the paper every wemls, which those who were seeking new subscribers could use Ringing was restmed after the meeting with considerable zest, the fowers at Erlam and St. Mary's, Staines, being filled with eager ringers. The joint gnthering was $\pi$ great success.

A RINGERS' SERVICE IN LONDON.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,-I would esteem it a favour if you would allow me the use of your columns to make reference to the service, as advertised in your journal, arranged to take place at St. Michael's Church, Cornhill, as Sunday, September 20th, at 7 p.m.

This service is heing lield at the kind invitation of the Rector of Cornhill, and, whilst it was originally intended for the members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, a cordial invitation is extended to all ringers and to their wives or friends to be present, in the hope that the attendance may be such as to justify making the servec an annual event. I am desired to make this fact clear to members of al ringing societies, and partioularly those of London and the Fone Gountres. Faving seen the priated order of service, which has ljeen specinlly drawn up and which includes hymas and prayers specially applicable to ringers, in addition to 15 minutes of special music by the St. Michaet's choir, I can sey that all who attend will find an excellent servico awaiting them

Needless to say, I count upon receiving from the members of the Ancient Society their fullest support on this accasion.

EDWARD P. DUIFIELD
P.S.-It will be unted that the service does not commence until p.m.

PARKER'S TWELVE-PART

MOSF INTERESTING FEATURES LOST BY TRANSPOSITION

 To the Editor.Sir, May I beg for a little space to thank my unknown friend for his kindly interest taken in my twelve-part peal of Grandsire Triples, also the many bands who have rung my poor old twelve-part. The peal is now 43 years old and has had a good run.
I must say that I feel that all this iransposing simply robs the peal of its mosi iuteresting fentures, secing that the original contains the $2.6,3.6$ and 4.6 twentr-four times one way. It also Jass the twentyfour 5.6.7's one way; that is, bt brelstroke. I consider those con ductors who prefer the 7th for observation show a rery poor tasto ndeed.

DEATH OF TWO PETERBOROUGFI RINGERS.

LOSS TO ST. JOFN'S GOMPANY

Death has removed, within ten days of each other, two well-known Peterborough ringers, Mr. Francis Davis aud Mr. Frederick Cooke. Both had been in failing health for some time, and death in each case collowed an operation in the Memorial Hospital.
Mr. Davis was a native of the city, and for the last few years hai bean steeplekeeper at St. John's Clurch. He was a mamber of the old Peterborough and District Association and had taken part in a few peats.
Several local ringers and frieuds were present at the funeral, and the service was condueted by the Rev. C. M. Coupland in St. John's Church. In the evening thie 'shole pull and stand 'and various toncher were rung with the hells balf-mufflea.
Mr. Cooke was a native of Fakenham, Norfolk, and was a member of the well-known ringing family of that town. #e moved to Peter borough 30 years ago and had been a member of St. John'a company since that time. Daring receng years he had acted as conductor. He was oftep present at St. Mary's on practice night and proved himself quite a good Surprise Minor ringer. He was a member of the Norwich Diocessir Association and the Peterborough Diocesang Guild, and had rung eeveral peals. He liad a quiet, unassuming manuer and was greatly respeoted by all who knew him. His death is a great loss to local ringing generally and his place will be dificult to fill.
His funeral was attended by all the local yngers, and in the evening the "whole pull and stand 'and touches of Grandsire and Stedman werc rung with the hells hatf-muffled.
On Sunday, September 6th, at St. John' Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung for evensong with the bells half-minfled as a last token of respect for the two decensed member's of the band V. Butler 1. W. Rose 2, 5. Wright 3, T. Vaughan 4, T. Little 5, H Goakes 5, H. Beecly (conductor) 7, A. Joyce 8.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD'S PRESIDENT.

DEPARTURE OF THE REV. J. A. B. DAVIES

The Vicar of All Saints', Chilvers Coton, Warwicksliire (the Rev. J A. B. Davies, M.A.), who is president of the Warwickshire Guild preached his farewell serman on Sunday evening last. He is leaving the parish to take up the Jiving of St. James* Chuych, Fiateham, Lon don. The service was preceded hy a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes), rung by: C. F. Rayson 1, J. Draycott 2, A. H. Beamisl (conductor) 3, P. Stone 4, A. Haswell 5, J. Gibbons 6, F. Harris 7, J. E. Moretan 8.

At the conclusion of the service the Vicar entered the belfry, and Mr. J. E. Morcton, the head ringer, presented him with a silver bel] iukstand inscribed : 'Presented to the Rev. J. A. B. Davies, M. A., by the bellringers of All Saints' Church, Chilvers Coton, Septemher, 1936.

The Vicar, who was taken completely by surprise, thmaked the ringers for the gift and also voiced his appreciation of their efforts in the belfry and of the friendslip they had always ertended to him

TOURISTS' TRY OUT.'

A SUCOESSFUL VISIT TO LENCOLNSEIRE.
As a kind of preliminary to the more strenuous activities in Ireland next week, some of the tourists, who leave Tingland for the "distressiul Isle, to-morrow, spent last week-end in Lincolushire hardening their hands. These 'try outs' have been known in Lincolnshire in other years; this one was a complete success-for all but one man. But then he is not going to Ireland
As usual, tho arrangements, from peals and bands to board and lodgings, were in the hands, and much of it in the home, of the Master of the Lincoln Guild and Mrs. Richardson. There were three peals, Stedman Cinques at Lincoln Cathedral on Saturday, Cambridge at Swineshead and Superlative at Spaiding on Monday, and our peal colmmos testify to their satisfactory conclusion.
Thie one 'fly in the ointment' fell to Mr. Ernest Marris, of Leicester. He was to have taken part in the peal at Lincoln, but the Fates and the railways ordaned ofterwise. Grantham seems to play a sinister part in Lincolushire peal arrangements sometimes. Many readers of 'The Ringing World ' will recollect the commotion caused a year or so aro when two 'brass hats' wett to Grantham instead of Spalding. In any case the two people concerned have not forgotton it. Last Saturday Mr. Morris wanted to get to Grantham and couldn't, so it seems that ringers, who do not want to get there, arrive, and those who wanf to arrive don't. Mr. Morris was to have been "collected" at Grantham by the Surfleet bus, but he missed the connection at Nottingham. An extra man was 'dug up' at Lincoln, and at the fivish of the peal the disappointed bon. secretary of the M.C.A. was found ontside the tower. What he bad said to himself in the meantime doesn't matter to anyone else, except, perhaps, the railway companies.

The president of the Central Council bad the pleasure of ringing his first peal at Jincoln Cathedral-where the arrangement of the bells in the tower has a special interest for him $n s$ all expert on these matters-and the doubtful pleasure of arriving back in London at 3.15 a.m. on Sunday.

Monday's programme went off according to plan. In the anterval threats to start for a handbell peal or peals did not materialise, but the guests at Surfeet were interested in the new provision which has heen made to accommodate visitol's- 360 feet of glass houses heated Fith a meclanically stoked boiler. It is lopod by this means to 'force' sloort ringers into tall ones, and save the use of boses in belfies and the trouble of lengthening ropes. This is a new experiment on the part of Mr. Richardson and will be wateled with interest.
Once again the thanks of the visiting ringers are due to the host and hostess for their hospitality.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

SMALL ATTENDANOE AT WESTERN DIVISION MPFIING.
When the Western Division of the Yorksline Association held their quarterly meeting at Batley on Saturday, the atteudance was most disappointing. From such a hive of change rimging as Batley is the centre of, one would liave expectad the attandance to have overtared tho accommodation, instead of which a mere 20 nambers sat down for tea.

The bells were raised in peal sithotly after 3 o'clock, and ringing comtinued throughout the day in a variety of methods fion Plain Bob to Superlative Surprise.

A delightful tea was served in the Schools, followed by the business meeting, over which Mr. P. J. Jolnson presided, supported by the Rey. W. A. Taylor, M.A.

On the motion of Mr. T. W. Strangeway, seconded by Mr. W. H. Senior, Mr. H. Armitage, of Huddersield, was appointed to fill the vacancy on the committec caused by the removal of Mr. ©. E. Lewson to Newcastle.

The Chairman, in moving that the best, thanks of the essocintion bee accorded to the Vicer and wardens for kindly granting the use of the bells, pointed out how appropriate this was, seeing that Mr. Taylor was a very interested party, beiug a part donor of the bells. The Batley company were very fortunate in having a minister who took such an interest in their work. -This was seconded by Mr. F. W. Dixon.
The Rev. W. A. Taylor, M.A., in replying, shoke of his early days when he learned to ring bells at college, and how his interest hanl always been in change ringing. He welcomed the association to Batley, and hoped the spirit of helringing wonld continue to faurish.

A vate of thanks to the lecal company for their lind arrangements, and to the ladies for so efficiently preparing anti serving tho fea, was proposed by Mr. F. Lorthouse, seconded by Mr. Johr Edmondson.
Mr. W. H. Senior, in replying said how disappointed he was it the very poor attendance, but that he was alwayg pleased to welcome the association to Batley.

The Chairman ance ngain reproved the mambers for failing to cend in their notices for ter, and pointed out low discourtepus this was
The towers represented were Amiley, Branford Cathedral, Birstall Brighouse, Drighlington, Earisheaton, Guiseleg, Headingley, Fuddersfield, Idle, Kcighley, Leeds, Rothwell, Shipley, Sheffeld Cathedral, Tadeaster and the local comperis.
The next meeting was proposed to be hold at Rothwell in December, and it is hoped that members will rally round to make this meening a sticcess

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston bave received the order to restore the bells at Llanfihangel Rbydeithon Church, Radnorghire,
Mr. R. G. Cousins, of Woodford, Fssex, who took part in the London County Association's peal of Sterlman Cinques at Bow Church, Cheapside, carlier this year, has had a lather nasty motoring acoident. His many friends will be glad to learn that he is progressing favourably.
The 'rope croft" in Broad Street, Birmingham, which now provides not only bell ropes, as was originally intended by the testator, but many hundreds of pounds per annum for the purposes of St. Maxtin's Church, has a rival at Great Rissington, Gloucestershire. The Parish Church there has held a piece of ground from time immemorial, the rent of which is devoted to providing bell ropes for the six bellg hanging in the Nowman tower. The piece of ground is called the Bell rope' feld.
Mr. James George, we are sorry to say, is still far from well. He still has a distressing cough, the result, of his attack of bronchitis and whonping cough. As a result he is not yet able to resume his wonted activities.
The Parish Magmane of Bishop Ryder's Ohurch, Bitmintham, has a sympathetic reference to his illuess in the September issue. Mr. George is churehwarden and superintendent of the belfry at this church.
A party of well known ringers leave Engiand to-noorrow for a pealringing tour in Ireland.

To the Faitor

Dear Sir,-I was very mucl surprised to read the Rev. J. Maurice Turaer's letter in the last issue of "The Ringing World." Surely this gentleman cannot seriousiy know much about the matter. I heartily congratulate you upon every point from commeitement to firish of your leading asticle, and am certain that any other rirht-minded person will do: the same.
With regard to the lonk peal of Grandsire Cinques at Prinswick and the long peal of Stedman Cirques at Southwark, whel have now been proved false, I sm sure the College Fouths feel as I do that we should be sorry to recognise them amongst our reconds.

JAMES GEOKGE.

A PROTPST.

Sir - I am entirely in Agreement with your leador on 'False Peals, and also I strongly protest against the term 'nosey parker' being applied to those who, by their interest and research, discover the falseness in compreitions and variations. They dererve thanks and not abuse.
W. A. CAVE.

TREBLE BOB MINOR METHODS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir, On August 7ti, the following appeared in The Ringing World ' from one of our experts in figures:-
'Treble Bob methods on six bells, provided they are symmetrioal and do not contain four places made in the same change, will alweys give the extent of the rows.'
On the following Friday, August 14th, another of our experts with figures gives on lead each of four different six-bell methods with the following remarks after explaining their class, etc.:-

- Nos. I ana 2 are both symmetrical methods and never have more than two places in any pair of rows, but they will not produce extents.

On the other hand, Nos. 3 and 4 both have four places in a pair of rows four times in cach lead, and yet hoth will produce the extent of the changes.'
A reply to the above from enother of our wizarde in the figuring world would be very interesting to the ordinazy practical ringer, as well as being en education.

A LOST PEAL.

BROKEN ROPE FOILS TTYE "PIRSTS.
On Saturday last, at Burnham, Bucks, a peal of Bob Major was started, but after 3,200 changes the 7 th rope, apparently sound, broke below the sally: J. E. Taylor 1, T. Burton (hret attempt for Major) 2, C. A. Burgess (first attempt for Major) 3, E. Barrett (first attempt for Major) 4, G. W. Limmer 5, W. FI. J. Parker (first attempt for a peai) 6, G. H. Limmer (first attempt as conductor') 7, G. Gilbert 8. The ringing lad been good, whinh made it ald the more disappointing. ## THE NORTH OF ENGLAND TOUR.

(Contizued from pege 582.)

A NEWCASTLE HECEPTION,

BY W. H. FUSSELL.
We reached the County Hotel, Newcastle, from Whitley Bay, on Monday evening, in good time to respoud to the afficial but kind welcome to the North offered our party by the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Assaciation. A private room in this high building had been booked, and during the course of three hours' happy and brotherly association refreshments were handed round by the stewards.

The president of the Guild, Councillor Arthur Payre, O.B.E., J.P., wearing his Guild badge of office, took the chair and was supported by Mr. ©. L. Routiedge, who introduced the visitors to the president. In ofering them a wotcome, the president hoped they would enjoy their visit to the capital of the North, and ring all the peals successfully. 'We have looked forward, for several months, to this visit, and it is a great pleasure to have you come to see us and to meet you all personally, ' he said.
The Press lias reminded me of some of the distinguished rivgers from the South of England-Messre. Williams, Simpson, Pye, Benneti, Shepherd and 'Twissell.' The President referred to the scattered towers in the diocese-some of which the visitors were to call at in the wilds of Northumberland-in a total Guild affiliation of 41 parishes, and to the difficulty in getting a large gathering in depressed areas.
when a heap of builder's rubbish was about to be bunnerl. Seeiug a dirty panel with letlering on it, be lad it cleancd mad restured and found a record of a performance by the ringers of 150 years ago: 'Gateshead, May 10th, 1790. A peal of Grandsile Triples by tha Union Society of Gateshlead and Newcastle.'
There were three Stephensons in the band, it was conducted by John, and the members of fhe same family took part in another, rubs in 1829.
The Ficar, Canon Steplenson, kindly came up to the belfyy to welcome the tourists the has done duty in the district 25 yearb), and he mentioned that the old iells, except one that went to another clutch, were sold in 1788 to pay for chutch repaits. tylye Uniju Society lost no time by ringing a full peal within two years of the new bells arriving from whitechapel in 1788.
Around this church a considerable area has been cleared of old Gateshead property to make room for the new high level Tyne Bridge and its approaches, that served as a practical model and afforded dala for the design and erection of the famous Sydney Harbour liridge, N.S.W., on a much lorger scale.

Gaterhead possesses a strong company of Sunday service rimgers, who havg recently scored their first peal with Mr. Barber's help, and here, also, was accomplished the first peal condated by a ringer blindfoldet.
A restful afternoon preceded the Stedman Cinques at the Cathedral Church of St. Nicholas (Patron of Mariners), bit it was mearly

SOME OF THE TOURIS'IS 'UP NORTH.
Left to right; G. Lindoff, J. W. Parker, W. Henley, G. R. Newton, W. F. Fussell, G. Williams, R. L. Patterson (top), H. Wingrove, (bottom), G. Martin, G. R. Pye, the Rev. C. E. Whog, F. Bennett.

In supporting the president, Mr. Routledge announced that Mr. Blacklock (Tync Commissioner) had kindly oftered the visifors a laumel trip down the river for Tuesday afternoon to view the miles of engineering, shipping and coal works atong the banks, but reluctantly the invitation lad to be declined. It wes cheering gews to us Southerners to hear of the growing prosperity of the district.
Ilie evening was enlivened by handbells by tho Newcastle men, and a course of Stedman Caters by Messrs. Williams, Pye, Davidson, Barber and Anderson. Several songs were given: "John Peel' by Mr. Routledge, and 'Blaydon Races, 1864,' by Mr. Owbridge, Mr. Keen putting a "jerf" into the larmony by ably helping with the pianoforte.
3fr. Fussell, on behalf of the tourigts, thanked the Guild for their warm reception. They one and all, he said, appreciated the efforts of the president (a busy citizen, who fad taken part in 36 peals for the Guild) to spend an evenin安 with fellow-ringers.
Amongst the company present were Messrs. Pickering, Pattersou, Barber, Ditchbourne, Orley, Gofton, P. Payne, Holmes, Lawson, of Leeds, Keen, Adam Deas, Davidson, Scott, Murray, Owbridge and the ithree Andersons.
'Auld Lang Syne' was sung by the whole company standing in n circle round the room with 'ringing hands" together, and the gathering elosed, after singing "God Save the King,' at 10.30 P.m.
The "good nights, did not take so long as usual, for the members realised that two peals a day for a week requires conservation of energy whenever possible. The echs of 'The King' died away in slumber at the Queen's well before midnight, and, on going to bed, Mr. Martin and I well recalled our Melbourne and Sydney friends, who, like the Iarls of the North of England, wanted us to go everywhere and see everything.

ACROSS THE TYNE.
The moruing peal on Tuesday at St. Mary's Churoh, Gateshead, went well, and we were met by Mr. E. Wilson and Mr. J. Stuart (now in his 72 nd year), who for 55 years has been a ringer at this church and has scored 30 peals for the Guild. He vividly remembers the old tower, almost split into twe, and the restoration of the church six o'clock before Billy Barber called 'Go,' and it took the ringers half an hour to settle down to an odd-bell method after so much Major. The last hour's striking put a "Birminghan finisl" to the peal, and Mr. Bennett and I were much amused at the eager inquiries from the wien, dressing as they cane out, about the 'hour " and the mearest 'place'!
In the Square adjoining some 20 riagers, fron Chester and local towers, assembled to hear the peal finish, and it is possible the point policeman thought they were a political crowd, for they talked of nothing but working overtime, being looked in, or 'strifing.'

Like St. Dunstan's, London, or St. Giles', Edinburgh, the tower has a graceful lantern terminal and is quite wortlyy of the praises af generations of City ringers for its internal and external desigh. It is $193 f t$. high by about 36 ft, square at the base. The earliest cainpanile was butif 1091, destroyed by fire 1216, restoved 1359 and extended at later dates. In 1239 Henry III. first granted a Claster to the freemen of Neweastle to dig for coal.

The town is said to have been the site of a Roman station, but it was really founded by Richard, son of Willian the Conqueror, who, after a futile inroad into Scothad, built the New-Gastle in 1080. King Charles in his flight from Oxford reached here in May, 1645.

ALLANDALE.
And his banks open and his lawns extend,
Stops short the pleased traveller to view,
Fresiding o'er the scene, some rustic tower,
Founded by Norman or by Saxon hands.'
Mark Aikenside, on his native Tyne.
Breakfast 7.30 on Wednesday and away at 8.30 for a long ride vis Hexham to Allandale. We skirted the river amidst varied scesery, which beyond Hexhan became wild and mountainous and sparsely timbered for miles. A quaint old-fashioned village huilt of local stone that has felt the Ioss of summer weather, a small clurch dedicated to St. Cuthbert, a small square tower with a lioht ring of bells recently restored. Mr. (, B. Auderson presided at both tea and the husiness meeting and welcomed the company in the name of the Vicar.

During the evening, in much cooler eireumstances, the bells wero kept busy, and although the ringing was conlined to the gtathdard methods, it was of a high order. Tlis most enjoyable meeting closed by lowering the bells in peal at 7.30 . It has been suggested that the last traim for place best kept secret should leave ten minutes later Lhan its scheduled time!

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ACTIVITY IN AMPTHILL DISTRICT.

A party of ringers, all members of the Bedfordshire Association, made an aftoruoon tour by car and cycle round the Ampthill district on Saburdiay. This is an outlying part of the comuty very soldom visitad, aud Four towers were selected, Manden, Flitton, Westoning and Eversholt. Each contains a good peal of six bells, and some excellent tonches were brouglit jound in a great vapiety of methodk. At Flitton the teloor is abont 8 cwt., and 120 Bob Minol was rung in 21 mimates! How's that for a record 120 ? The last tower was reached in the drrk, but it is so simple, even in outtlying districts today, with electric liglt, that it is swall inconwenience, and Eversholt bells were kept going until 9 o'clock.

If every tower the company was met by the local ringers, and some good spade work put in. Aunther run is being planned and anybody may join in who can lnandie a bell, as all are catered for Good ringing, an excellent wea at Ampthill, during which the services of a street musician were engaged to play to the company, pleasant riding throngh delightful country-what more ean a ringer want? Best thanks are given to the inombents and certain others for all they did. F. C. T.

Our reserve man took off the part-ends in the dailg paper and paid a visit to the inn, where the landlady complained 'she couldn't liear his order for those noisy bells"! Another eustomer then exelaimed, "No more noisy than your loud wireless, and that you can slut of when you like!' She afterwards 'tumed in 'to the Southern Regional when eight men walked in and demanded attention at the beme moment

HEXHAM.

The Abbey Restaurant gave us lunch at two o'clock, but the atart for a peal of Superlative was delayed by a fashionable wedding rntil nearly 4 p.m. We found out missing links admining the bridegroom and the bride. We had a rood lonk round the ancient fentures af the Abbey dedicated to St. Wilfrid, and monnted the wide stone monks' staincase (room enough for a coach to pass) leading up to the ringing room. The whola btilding was teeming with visitors, none of whon guesserl that Boi Singles? were being rung as a joy peal for a newly-anarried couple. This was Shepherd's 'masterpiece; with the locals.

Fexlaan bells were one of the first actaves to be installed in the North. They were cast at the Whitechapel Bell Foundry in 1741, and were followed by Berwick-on-Tweed in 1754 .
The first appeliation of the Tyne appears in early accounts of a roligious bouse at Thnemouth. Under its present mame it oceurs in Bede's Chuwch History in e8s. The ancieat episcopal dirnity of Hextiam was derved from wilfrid, a monk of Jindisfarne, who fonnded the Cathedral in 673-4. The groat St. Cuthbert, of whom so mary legends are related, was the thind Bishop. I remember the parish of Wistanstow, Salop, claims one lesend about him.
Gabriel Lindof, George Martin and I trained back to Neweastle, leaving George Wialiams to bring home the peal and his band in the two cars. Als reaclied 'The Qneen's' by 9 o'cloch for supper, and were congratulated liy Mr. Routledge, anxions to hear about the 100 per cont. belfry dividend, and no discount for 'smash.'

Some members of the Sonning Demery Branch of the Oxford Diogesan Guild, with wives and friends, enjojed au afternoon outing on Saturday, August Z2nd. Leaving Wokinghan at 1.45 p .m., they first visited Midglana, Berks. The party was met hy the Yicar and one of the ringers, and good use was made of this light ring of six matil a broken ropa put an end ta the ringiog. This modern chureh is situated in a most delightfinl spot, and the risitors would fain have spent more timo there. Thatcham was the next call, and an hour's ringing enjoyed on this mallow octave. After an excellent tea, a beantiful run brought the panty to the old-world willage of Bampstead Norris. Here was found it nice six in good roing order, and, ringing on the ground floor in this ancient chureln, the bells sounded beautifully quiet but distinct, as though the sonnd came from miles away. The writer has never heard anything quite like tit in all his ringime expericnce. Bucklebury was the last call, and good ase was made of this handy cing of eight, although the lighter bells proved diffeult to handle for some of the visitors. Glorious weather prevailed, and evervihere the ringers were received with the greatest kinducss and cordiality. Thanks ate extended to all, both clerwy and ringers, among others. M. W. ## N.U.T.S. VISIT STRANGE TOWERS.

BELLS IN A STRAIGHT LINE.

The Warwickslire Branch of the N.U.T.S. vjsited a few towers in the South of Warwiclshire on August 29th, and were very lappy to lave with them Mr. A. P. Canmon, the president and 'Chief Nut' of the Tower Snalehers' Association.
By means of ear and motor-cycle, the party of six made their way to Studley, where they found quite a novel ring. Both the bells and the ropes by whin they are rung are hung in a dead straight line, with the tenor at one end and the treble at the otlier. The 'ringing cliamber' is merely a kind of foatbridge, about 4 ft . in width, which spans the tower. How does one ring 'raunds' with such a 'rope circle'? However, after initial difficulties bad been overcome, seraral good touches were brought 'straight.'

At Salford Priors, the next tower visited, the trebles were practically unvingable, but a course of Grandsire Triples was successfally accomplished with the help of two ringers from Mickleton. After that, the ringers contented themselves with Minor for the rest of their short stay. Close to Salford Priors is Bidford-on-Avon, and here they found a very pleasing zing of six bells. Among other things, a course of Cambridge was rung.
From Bidford a twelve-mile ride brought them to Ulienlapl, their last tower of the tour. There are eight bells in this tiny tower, closely packed togetiner in three tiers. The estimated weight of the tenor is 41 cwt. and mane of the bells lias a stay or slider. At first, when some of the lighter bells were rung up, difficulty was experienced in checking them, and they went right over, only to be pulled back by two ringers hauling on to the end of the rope. One ringer, with a few hundred towers to his credit, confessed he was really frightened of them. Very soon, however, the band got the 'feel' of the bells, and touches of Minor were successfully brought round, before a broken tenor rope put an abrupt end to any further ringing.

RESTORATION OF A DEVON PEAL

BELL FRAME STRENGTHENS TOWET AT HARPFORD
With the sun shining gloriously, the anciont little church of Harpiond, Devon, presented an aninaten scend on Satarday, August 29th, when the restored peal of bells was rededicated by the Right Re-. the Lord Bishop of Crediton.
Thero was an exceptionally largo attendance of parishioncrs and visitors, and many were unable to find room in tie church during the scrvice.
The bells, a ring of six widh tenor 7 cwt., have been cntirefy telnug with modern fittiogs, carefully tumed and fixed in a sciantifically designed steel and iron frame, The worl involved special consideration of the tower, and has been admirably carried out by Messus. Gillett and Johnston. The girders are so arranged with concealed fish platos that the tower palls are now bonded together in all directions. It was remarled that, whercas formerly the tower rocked considerably when the bells were rung, there is now no appreciable movement. The "go" is perfect, and the tone, althouglz the framo is in two tiers, is quito even
The gervice was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. G. H. Greensiade), assisted by the Rev. C. E. J. Gover, of Tipton St. John, and the Rev. F. Perry, of West Hill, an admirtule gerwon Jeing preached by the Bishop. A large numblor of elergy were in attendance.
The bells were chimed during the dedication, and immediately following the service at well-struels 120 of Grandsire Doulsles was rung. They were kept going during the whole aftermoon mad evening. Forty riugers were present from Fennilon, Collaton Raleigh, ottery St. Mary, East Budleigh, Sidmouth, Expter and Groydon, including If:T. Godfrey, district secrebary of the Deronshire Guild. It is inceresting to not , that Mr. Godfrey was present when the bells were first installed in 18 .
The visitorg and ringers were afterwards entertained to tea by Mr. Willoughby Smith, one of the most generous subscribers to the bell fund.

The success of the scheme is principally due to the elyergy of the Vicar, bellfounders were represented by Mr. T. C. Wr. Stevenson.

The bridegromm graduated to the belfry from the clroir as a boy, and las been a ringer for some ten years or more. He is still a member of the choir. Miss Smith has been a ringer for about five years, and rang her firgt peal for the late King George's Silvor Jubilee. Both bride and bridegroom aro popular members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, whose meetings lincy regularly, allend. They have also formed part of the 'mechauism' of a certain' ringing machine' which was demonstrated in London after the last Central Council meeting.
The wedding ceremony, at which the Vicar, Canon H. le Fleming offeinted, was fully choral and was attended by many friends, including the ringers. The bride was given in marriage by ber. Father and was attended ly three bridesmaids, the Misses Joan Stillman and Molly Goode (old schaol friends of the bride), and little Miss Pauline Smith (cousin). The bricle was attired in white saiin, with yreath and veil, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids were dressed in green silk crepe mad varifed fioral mults of Fellow roses. After the wedding ceremony the bridal pair left the chureh through the belfry and passed under the crossed ropes held by the ringera. Then the bells rang out to speed the happy couple.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and the guests saw the unique spectacle of bride and bridegroom taking part in handbell ringing as part of the celebcation of their marriage. Afterwards the happy pair left, amid the good wishes of their friends and the clanging of handbells on the railway platform, for a honeymoon at Eastbourne.
The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a gold signet ring, and the groom's gift to the brikie a handbag. The ringers of Alderghot tower presented them with a dinner service, and the choir gave a frameless mirror. ## 'GET A MOVE ON.'

Now is the time to 'get a move on.' With the return of longer evenings there are many towers where practices, suspended during the summer months, will be resumed. Much as keen ringers may regret the dropping of the weekly practice in the belfry, there are in many places circumstances which make this course almost inevitable. Outdoor recreations claim a lot of ringers; more important work of the garden and field make irrevocable demands upon others, so that those who would be prepared to keep up the practice in the tower find their ranks so depleted that it is just a waste of time to meet. We may lament it, but there it is, and the next best thing is to make an early start in the late summer, and endeavour to arouse a fresh enthusiasm. Indeed, we have heard it argued in favour of a summer break in the practices that the ringers do actually return with a new zest. Where that is the case there may not be, in the end, much lost ground to make up, but there is always the danger that some who are not so keen as the rest will continue to stay away from the practices, especially if attendance does not fall in with their own personal convenience.

But now that attention is being turned once more to serious and regular practice in a large number of towers, we would emplasise the desirability of every band setting before it a groal which will take them to something higher than they are at present cloing, or will lead thens to branch out into some fresk path. The men who rang Plain Bols or Grandsire last winter should not be content with only Plain Bob or Grandsire next winter. If the truth be known, the suspension of practice in the summer is chiefly in those towers where little progress in method ringing is made. If there is a contimual striving for something more advanced, there would never be lack of interest. The field of change ringing is so wide that there is something new for everyone, and one of the worst things that a ringer or a band can do is to stagnate.

If a band has devoted its attention to Grandsire alonc, there is Stedman as well as a number of other plain methods to be practised and rung, assuming they have yet no inclination to investugate the far larger scope of even-belt ringing. Compared with Doubles, Minor offers a far wider field; compared with Triples, Major provides infinite possibilities. The Snowdon and other pulblications, with instructions how to ring the more popular methods, open the way to the first stages of advancement; the Central Council volumes provide a vast field for the purpose in view. It is not to be expected, of course, that a band whose present limit is, say, Bob (Continned on page 606.)

Major, will reach all at once the higher flights of Surprise ringing, or of those whose attention has been confined toDoubles to step in one season to those flights of spliced ringing such as have excited admiration in recent months. But none of these things are beyond the reach of a band, however humble their status, who will seriously set about the task. In doing so they will help to raise the general level of the art and add greatly to their own interest in it.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Alton and Petergfield Distriet was held at Froyle. Among those present were Mr. G. Williams (Ringing Master), Sir C. J. Hubert Miller, Bart., the Rev. C. H. Snogster (Viear of Froyle) and members from Alton, Blackmoor, Froyle, Petersfield, Steep, Soberton and North Stonelum, There were also visitors from Ash, Eramley, Pirbright tud Saudhurst, 28 altogether. The bells were rung in the afternoon to the standard methods, and the Guild's office was conducted by the Vicar, who gave an interesting aidress, Tea was provided at the Slurubery FIonse by kind invitation of Sir Fubert Miller, and the usual busiress meeting followed.
In the absence of the district chairman (the Rev. F. G. Eyres), Sir Hubert was voted to the chair. Several apologies for non-athendance were received.
The next meeting was fixed for November 7th at Binsted.
Mr. A. Brownjohn applied, on belalf of the Froyle ringers, for an instructor to assist them in the winter nonths, aud Mr. A. Fardiman kindly consented to undertake to visit the tower when possible, Votes of thanks were accorded to the Rev. C. H. Sangster and the organist, also to Sir Hubert Miller for lis kind hospitality.
Sir Hubert afterwards personally eonducted the party jound his gavdeng and grounds, and the membery later returned to the tower for further ringing.

FOR BEGINNERS.

ATJEMPT SOMETHING FRESH

In the leading auticle on the front page of this issue it is nrged that every bond during the coming winter's practices should endeavour to advance in method ringing, by attemnting something fresh. There is always a linbility to get into a rit, sometimes through indifference, sometimes owing to the irregularity of some members which retards progress. There is notining inke practising something new to stir up and retain interest. The members of an orchestra or chorus would soon lose their intorest if they never practised anything but the game piece. Ringers, too, can grow tiren and stale in a similar way, but a change of method will keep them interested, and the more yariety they introduce inta their activities the more they will want to advance. We hope in the next week on twa to make some suggestions in this column which may help young bauds, and some older ones, perinaps, to break axay from their rut.
First of all a word or two for those five-bell ringers whose scope is the most linited of all, and those who, while they have the bells with which to expand their practice, are content to 'stick.
Most of the few methods on five bells are made up of plain humting, broken by the insertion of a "place' or places in third's. For the benefit of those who are only just starting into change ringing we may, parhaps, explain that plain lumting is moving the position of your bell a step at a time right through the other bells; that is, after you have led, you move up and strike once in second's, once in third's, once in fourth's, twice in fifth's (or a whole pull behinc); then move down, and strike once in fourth's, once in third's, once in second's and then lead a whole pull. If this operation is carried out by all the Give bells, thes will come round in ten charges. A 'place' is made when a bell in its hunding course stays in one position for two blows, or a whole pull, but the whole pall at lead and the whole pull behind are not called ' places
If any ather "place ' than 3 red's is made on five bells, you at once depart from true 'Doubles,' for 2nd's place or' 4th's, ineritably means that only one pair of bells instead of two pairs can change. All the while 3rd's place onty is made it is possible to produce a series of rows af true donble clanges.
The purs Donbles methoris that are rung, therefore, are prodneed merely by the variation or nultiplication of the 3rd's places nsed. Firther varicty in methods can be obtained by the fntroduction of End's place or 4th's when the treble is leating on lyiug its whole pall behind, but, as we have indicated, this at once takes them out of the category of pure Doubles.
Now the simplest of all methots is 'Original,' so called becasse it is the fonndation of all change zinging. It consists of plan hunting only. $A$ course consists of ten changes only, but the whole of the 120 cin be produced by the use of bohs and singles, aud we suggest to ringers who now confine tineir attention to Grandsire Donbles that ther should turn their attention to "Originat," for this reason: You can learn quite easily to ring all the Doubles methods by ringing Original. Grandsire Doubles is only Original with a bob inserted every time the treble has led, and another one on alternate occasious when it begins its lead.

Practise Original and call the bohs in other places and you will have a useful introduction to rest of the methods. When a bob is called the bell hamting nip throngh $2-3$ makes 3rd's and returns to the front. the two bells behind in $4-5$ make a dodge; that is, each steps back a place before huting on.
The bob-maling can bo reversed, and when the call is made, the bell huntiug through 4-3 down makes 3rd's and humis back ue, while the two bells in froat in 1-2 make the dodge.

All these are touches of Original, which can be extended to the complete 120 by the addition of a single in each half. The frst two contain hobs mande at the lanck; the last two, hobs in the front Examination, liowever, will show that they are also methods: 1 is Examination, liowever, will sliow that they are

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT NEFTON, PORTHCAWl
After a lapse of ten years, a meeting of the Llaudaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at Newton, Porthcawl, Glamorganshire, on Saturdsy last. The morning was one of the wetteat of the ycar, with almosb a continuous downpour, bui later the sum shone out and the aftermon proved a real late summer one. The eavlier weather no doubt kept many away from the mecting; pererileleas, there was very good muster, including the fonng band from Penarth. The Recto unexpectedly had to leave early, and the service had to be held hali an hour earlier than arratrged for. He gave a cordial welcone to ald to the old parish and hoped if wonld not be long before another wisil was paid. A bountiful tea was kindy provided by the Vicar and the friends of the church. Several lady ringers were prescat, chiefy from Llangyпut.
The business meeting which followed was presided over by the Rev. . Glyn Morgan (curate).
Many items were dealt with, ineluding restorations and augmentations. It was reported that the Bonvilston belle were agnin in riaging order, new headstocks, gudyeons, cte, levilug been filted to the old bells and replaced in the old Frame by Messrs, Gillett and Johnston. It was also reported that the order has been placed with Messrs. Taylor and Co, to erech a new peal of eight, with a tonor 18量 cwt., in Ebhw Vate Parish Church. The same firm are also adding two morc hells to the existing six at Llanfrechif.
Several new members were elected, including practically the whole of the Cowbridge band, whose bells were restored last year
After the usual votes of thanks the tower was again visited, the standard methods and Cambridge being rung. The meeting was a very pleasant and successful one. The next meething will be held at Caerleon.

SUFFOLK TOURS.  STRANGE TOWERS FISITFD

On Saturday, August 22nd, the memierg of Rushmere St. Andrew, Suffolk, gecompanied by ringing friends irom St. Mathew's, St. Clement's, St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, and Tuddenham St. Martin, held their outing to East Sufolk churches. Learing by coach at 1.30 and going ria Ipswich, the lirst call was at Monewdon, a light riag of six. Next they went on to Dennington, a ring of six with tenor 19 cwt . This was a great contrast from the previous stop. After ringing and visiting the old church a move was made to Worlingworth (a medium ring of eight). Here some creditable Boh Major was rung, considering that sonve had never rurg on eqght before. Tea being the nextitem of interest, a sloort rum was made to the Royal Osk Inn, Laxfield. A visit was then paid to the adjoining tower for a ring on this good six (tenor 15 cwt .). These hang in reverge positions and caused some confusion at first to those not haring much experience. On the way home a call was made at Benhall for ringing on the light peal of six. Ou the way through these narrow and winding lanes the guides" got mized and took the wrong ixarning so thas the party arrived rather behind time. Here a granp photograph for rexum maj taken. Althongh it was very dull aud the hour 8 giclact, it proved succesful. The last call was at yarlesford to ring on the hishs zing of five. Here 'a limb of the law' (himself a ringer' meithe texiser and saw them safelr on the road for home, which was reached at 15 after an enjoyable trip.
On Saturday afternoon, August 29th, seren members of St. CTement's. Ipswich, had a trip into West Suffolk. Thef trarelled by arain to Stowmarket, where fitey were met by car loy Mr. A. R. Woodard is friend of the band), who took then on the toar. Calling first at Bardwell, the six hells were found to bang 234156, aithough in a good circle. This caused some confusion, bat was soon got orer and ringiay was done by all. The next stop was at Cincat Livermere, a small churoh with thatched roof and wooden fower containing a light ring of five. After ringing, followed by tem at Formanm Martiz ond a rine on the six bells, they went on to Fornham ali Slints, where there is a Jight ring of five in a small tower. A call was then made at Great Barton (6) and Great Finharough (6). At the last place is a good ring of bells, hut the howling eftect and noise belifry do not add to the enjoyment. Stownarket was reached in time to catch the nine o'clock train for home after a pleasant outing.

Grandsire, 2 is New Gratisive, 3 is Reverse

 Reverse Grandsire. If it mere ming as Original Fan would hase fo call a boh at every place marked; if you ring it wa method you call bobs only at the alternate "Icads" of the treble.But with Origimal you need not keep the treble plain hunting all through. In these examples, treated as Original, the treble is the 'observation' bell, but any bell can he the observation bell, and, cherefore, you can get quite a wariety of extents. Keep your obserration bell plain hunting, put in a bols regularly at erery ten changes so that it is not affected by the call, and then, in filternate "tens, put in another bob (either immediately before or immediately after the regular bob, according to where this latter is calledl, azd you can make up your own extents. The singles are made by the two bells which dodge at a bob, lying a whole parll instead. Insert the single in one of the 'tens' (or courscs) instead of a plails change, and call the next one exactly 60 changes later

NORTH WEALD RESTORATION.

HOWER STTRENGTHENED AND BELLLS REHUNG.

The bells of St. Andrew's Church, North Weald, Essex, were rededicated on Satireday, September 5th, lay the Archdeacon of Sonthend after being retuncd and lelnung.

When the tower and bells were examined last year gerious defects were fond in the building, and an wadue anount of movement in the frame. 'lhe tower liad split, vertically, fin two-a large er'ack runing the whole heiglit of the west wall and another on the east wall from the tower arch itpwards. Indeed, when the bells were rung considerable movement was noticed at the eracks, and the bells joyously rocked on a concertina-like frame.
The tower is a fine piece of brickwork, built possibly towards the end of the 15th or beginning of the 16 th cenfury. Tlie bricks have weathered a lovely finrk red colour, and on the day of the rededication tho weathercock-regilded for the occasion-proudly raised its head aloft.

Thu fine brick tower of North Weald Church.

Tho tower las been strengtheued by the insertion of two reiaforced concreto girdles inside the structure, one of which forms a foundation for tho bell frome, and the cracks bonded and stitched. At the same time, the interesting fireplace in the priests roam was opened out.
Two new wooden frame sides were fonnd to be necessary and these were mada in Jnglish onk. All four frame sides have been bolted down to the rainforeurl concure girdle, and the bells arranged in a wny which gade it possible to rebuild the damaged arch of the newel slnitense whert it enters the bell elnamber.

The bells liave lreen rehung on ball hearings and go like "tops."
Holh tha building and bell work have been well done, and interest was shown by all dhosn who took part. Great credit is due to the boilder, Mr. Henry Potter, of Chelmslord, and to Messts. Mears and Staiubank, who both acted under instructions from the arelitect, Mr. Waltor' E. 'l'roke.
At tha eorviee, which was attended by many parishioners and memhers of the Essex Associatian, the proyers were said by the Vicar, the Rew. Oswad Gosuey, and the Venerable Archdeacon Blayne gave ul homely adrivess based on the text, "Do nll to the glory of God."

The quarterly nueeting of the Dudley and Diskict Guild was held at St. Peter's Church, Kinver, on September 5th, but, owing to the inclemency of the weather, a very poor muster turned up. ## (Continued from previous column.)

Some rounds were rung for the dedication, and afterumis 720 of Kent Treble Bob Minor formed the opening touch. Tlike changes were well struck and the excellence of the tome of the retuned leells heard to advantage. The bells ring ont across the fields, and even underneath the tower can be listened to with ense and pleasare.
The weather made it impossible to have tea on the Vicarage lawn as was intended, and it was laid in the Schoolroom. The ladies of the condregation not only served but provided all the catables-a splemdid effort.

The Vfear spoke about the work which had been carried ont and gave details of the amount so far collected. This small, scattered pariș has doac marraicicatily; but there is yet over $$ 100$ to collect to wipe aft the debt.

Mr. B. T. Butier, gecretary of the South-Western Division of the Thsex Ascoiation, spoke appreciatively of the work, and congratulated the ringers and parish and all who liad been connected with it.

After tea the bells were rung to various methods until nime o'clock, Plain Bob, Kent, Cambridge, Oxford and Grandsire being the methods indulged in.
Thirty-three ringers were present from 15 towers, and the opening touch was runlg by Messes. W. Watson (Ronford), G. Black (Woodford), E. Runter (Springfield, A. Pye (Romford), E. J. Butler (Romford) and Pavey (Leytonstone). Many were tho favourable remark made by the visitors.

TOUR INTO LEICESTERSHIRE.

On Saturday, September 5th, a panty of bellringers from Darley Dale, Ashover and Mablock, accompanied by ledy and non-ringing friends, went by motor-coach on a tour jnto Leicestershire. The first call for ringing was at Ashby de la Zouch, then on to Nuneaton for lunch and an hour's ringing on tise bells at Chilvers Coton Church. Earl Shilton was wisited during the afternoon and an haur's ringing was enjoyed or the bells.

Leicester was reached in time for tea and to spend the evening looking rond the city. Several of the ringers came in touch with a party of ringers from Luton and spent the evening ringing at St, John's Church. Leaving Leicester about 9 p.m.s Darley Dale was reached about 11.30 p.m., all agrecing that they had had a splendid day's outing. Methods rung diring the day were Grandsire, Stedman and Oxford Bob Triples, Bob, Little Bob, Kent Tyeble Bob aud Double Norwicl Major.

MEETING IN PEAK DISTRICT.

RINGERS' EFFORT SEGURES RECASTLNG OF THREE LARGEST.
For many years the 6th, 7th and tenor bells at St. Mary's Church, Anstey, Leicestershire, argently needed reasting, but it was left uldone owing to the difficulty of raising the necessary funds. Just over two and a tralf years ago the Anstey ringers andertook to taise the money required to recast these three bells. A few minor repars, includiug new ball bearings, pulleys to all eight bells, otc., have also been undertaken.
The happy censumation of the ringers' efforts was geen on Snturday, when the three bells, which have been recast by Messrs. Johu Taplor and Co., were rededicated by the Right Rev. J. J. Willis, Assistant Bishap of Leicester, in the presence of a large congregation, The service, which lasted justover an hour, was very bright and inspiring throughout Eight members of the local band rang al few opening rounds after the dedicatory prayers. The Bishop preached a short but very interesting sermon, in which he referred to bis many years' work in Sontl Africa. The service came to a fitting conclusion with the singing of the "Eailelujall Chorus.'

Jmmediately after the service an opening toach of 168 stedman Triples was rung by five members of the local baud, with Messra. O. Harrison, E. Morris and A. Ballard, and conducted by the loen Ringing Master, Mr. Redvers E. Elkington.

Tea was served in the Churel Rooras and tumes played on the handbeils by Messrs. E. Morris, J. Morris and S. H. Harrison were much appreciated.
The tower was kept open till 9 p.m. and the 50 or more ringers present made good use of the bells. Many of the ringers harl come from places many miles distant. The ringing ranged from rounds and Gravdsire Doubles to London and Bristol Surprise Major.
Everyone was loud in their praise of the musical qualities of the recast bells, and Anstey now possesses a perfectly balanced peal of eight which, for their weight, would be hard to beat. Messers. John Taylor and Co. are to be congeatulated upon carrying out a very satisfactory job.
In addition to the reproduced old inscription, the recast tenor fears the iuscription:-
*Recast in the yaar of the accession of King Edwat VIIT.
J. Sterart, Rector. J. T. Ilifie, J. A. Bramley, Churchwardens.'

The recast tenor weighs 10 cwt. 2 gr .4 lb . and is nearly 28 cwt. heavier than the old tenor. The 6th and 7th have been increased in weight in proportion. Thus r long meeded improvement has been brought to a happy and successfui conclusion.

BELERY GOSSIP.

The special service for ringers, to be lueld af St. Michael's Church, Cornhill, London, at 7 p.mr. on Sumday, will, it is hoped, attract i large attendance. It is a new departare in London, and the College Youths, for whom it was originally arranged, will, we aro sure, be well supported by members of other вocieties. There will be ringing from six o'clock.
Mr. W. J. Nevard, the Essex veteran, rang his 440th peal at Kirby-le-Soken Iast Saturday. He is in bis 81 st year.
Ladies peals are few and far between, but one was rung on Wednesday of last week at St, George's, Southwark-a yery good peal of Stedman Triples.
It will be noted in the report in our peal columis that the usual prefix applied to a lady of Mrs. or Miss is missing. No, that is not intended as a pun, but we woudered if some of the lusbands did not know that ther wives were away on a peal ringing expedition and this litele ruse is hoped to hoodwink them!

By the way, the first Ladies' Guild meeting in the Enstern Counties (if Lincolnshire is not an eastern county) is to be held at Norwich on November 2lst. East Anglian Indy ringers will specinlly welcome this visil.
Memberg of the Leeds and District Society are asked to note the change of time for the business meeting at the gathering at Rothwell on September 26th. See notice.
Although the Central Council 'Collection of Minor Methods' is officially out of print, some of the ascociation secretaries have copies available. Mr. A. D. Barker, hon. sccretary of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Ox[urd Gnild, has two for sale. A new edition is shortly to be printed.
The dedication of the bells at Skillington is to take place ou Saturday.
Prebendary Morgan's record at Stoke Lacy must be most unique. He has been 60 years at the church, 10 years as curate and 50 years as Rector. A peal in his bonour was rung on Sunday.

RINGER BUILDS CHURCH CLOCK.

CURIOUS TIMEKEEPER FOR ELDERSINELD PARISH CHURCH.
The Bishop of Worcester dedicated on Saturday a curious clock which has been installed in the Lower of Eldersfield Parish Charch, near Tewhesbury. The clock is the work of ML. John Carter, a blacksmith, of Tirley, who is also ewell-knowz ringer in the Severn Valley between Tewkesbury and Glouceter.
The clock has taken Mr. Garter some 15 years to build. The frame is made of pieces of English oak that were once a gato post; wheels have beers coustructed out of wincowing machines, bicycles and a lawn mower; and other parts of the clock from little pieces of harness, ironwork from the tail board of a cart, part of an old steel poker, spring from a gramophone, an old door-knocker from an ancient inn at the Haw, Tirley, Tho Fox and Goose, which ceased to exist as a pablic-house 113 years ago: skittle balls that came from a Worcester alley, scrap iron and an std and well-worn pentuy. The clock has a pendulum.
For come years there has been a strong desire and some hope that Eldersfield Ghurch shonld passess a clock; and the clock Mr. Carter has made has been acquired by the Pavochial Church Council to mark the accession to the throne of King Edward FIII.
Last March a meeting of parishioners unamimously endorsed a decision to this effect and pledged itself to support the raising of funds necessary for the clock's installation in the tower.
Mr. Carter. who made a similarly ingonious olgok for his Parish ©ftrofltatitrisy a few yeats aro, is now fi years of age.

THE LADIES' GUILD.

SUCGESSFUJ MEETING AT STOEE PORES AND SLOUGH.

 Stioko Poges, in Buedinghamslaire, not far from Windsor, famous for its assaciation with the poet Thomas Gray and its link with the Pean family, ana of whose sons was the founder of Pennsylvania, U.S.A., is the mecen of thousands wf visitors every year. On Saturday it was tho ecene of a gathering of members of the Jadics Guild, supplementer, of course, by a number of gentfemen, the occasion being a menting of the Central District.The ringing visitors were naturally interested in the historic associn. tians of the place, and parlicularly the beatiful little churela dating from 1330, when it was rebuitt; the Hastings Clapel erected in 1550: the giant yew tree nedr the goutl door, beneath which Gray is said to have writlon his "Eilegy in a country cturelyard,' 'periaps the best known poem in the English Ianguave'; the poet's burial place; und the ancient bowor, witich contains a ring of aix bells, an early 186h century peal recast and rehumg in 1912, and awaitiag augmentation to eight as soon as funds are available.

STOKE POGES CHURGH.
Originally the bells weye rung from the floor of the tower, which stands on the north side of the church. In 1800 the Lord of the Manoz, John Penn, mado this space into a Manor House pew and constructed a gallery fmmediately above it. Since 1924 the rimging elanmer has been in a storey higher up, where apparently the bells formerly ling, for there are still decaped timbers round the walls. Access to the ringing chamber is gained by an outside iron stairway carrjed up in Lbree tiers on tine most side of the tower to a landing leading to the door on the sontli side. It is an umsual ins well as a fairly steep ascent to a belfry.
There was once a spire shrmounting the tower. It was erected in 1702 , rebuit in 1831, and taken down in 1924 to prevent collapse.
Thu bells are a tuneful ring of handy weight, and the large company fully enjoyed ringing on them. The nethods were many and varied, and included a course of ' Ba Ba ' (or was it ' Ba La' "), which appears to bo stedman slow work cat up into small joints and made to go round the six bells by dishing it up back and front. It went very well, sceing that some of the ringers knew it and others didn't. One lady rang it from ' music, ', and it took two to get the temor througla the method-a gentleman to ring the bell and a lady to tell him what to do with it. No one ventured to call a bob Soon after bive oclock the whole party made their way by bus and car to Slough, where, at Williamson's Cafe, 44 sat dawn to tea. Afterwards tite ladies stole away to a place of secret meeting. The following official builetin was jssued later fu the evening:-

Mrs. R. F. Deal (vice-presidenty presided, and, in the absence of the district secretary (Mrs. M. R. Cross), Miss K. M. Bradforã, assistant secretary, undertoak the secretarial duties. Twenty members of the Guild were present.

One of the principas things discussed was the place of the next wecting. It was decided to hold it at Canterbury to revire the interest af the memhers in Kent. The meeting will be lyeld on the first Saturday in November.

Sewen new ringing members were elected, riz. : Miss S. Bowyer, Tpswich; Miss Maddison, Johamesburg (now visiting England); Miss Puttock, Fdmonton; Mrs. Shelton, Reigate; Miss M. Gutteridige and Miss G. Thetford, Iyer'; and Mrs. Douald Borehan, Higha Wycombe.
'Mrs. E. K. Fleteler' (Gener'al secretary) announced that Corporato Commmion for members of the Guild wonld be celebratent at St. Lawrence Jewry, London, on Shndar, October 25 kh , at $9.15 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$.

Arrangements would be made for breakfast after the service and ringing for Matios. It is haped there will be a large attendance of ladies, and the presence of gentlemen will be weleomed.

A hearty voto of thanks was accorded to Mrs. A. D. Barker for having made the arrangements for the meeting, and to the incumbents of Stoke Poges and St. Mary's, Blough, for the use of the bells at. these churches.

There was a great demand for Guild badges, the new supply of which was on sale for the first time.'
From seven o'clock onward for a couple of hours ringing of all sorts was enjoyed at St. Mary's Church. Eight ladies sef out to ring a couple of courses of Bob Major, and they rang very nicely, but untortunately for the success of the tauch-(whisper it softly)-the conductor, lost iu oblivion, forgot to call the last bob! 'Drenming' is the title of the song she proposes to sing wherl the ladies hold their silver jubilee dinner and coucert. The gendemen were aftorwards graciously invited to ring a courge of London unaided, and just managed to uphold their reputation. For the rest, the ringing was by mixed bands, and, as usual at mectings, with mixed success. Irs. Deal acted as Ringing Masfer (or should it be mistress?) and most efficieatly discliarged the duties, everybody, whatever their ability, having ample opportunity to riug. Despite a wet afterizoon, the meating was most eajoyable and the attendance enconraging

HAPPY GATHERING OF NORTHERN BRANCF

On Saturday, September 5th, a meeting of the Northern Branch of the Ladjes' Gufld was held at Morth Muskham, Notts.
The ancient church, dedicated to St. Wilfrid, has been perfectiy restoled and is most beantiful. It has a fine peal of six bells, five of which have recently been recast and tenor added by wessis. Taylor and Co., largely though the work and enthsiasm of the ringers themaelves.
The Vicar, Canon Williams, conducted the Guild office and spoke a few words of weleome and encouragement. This was followed by a splendid tea at the Jungalow Cafe, to which four kind friends gonsplendid tea at the Rungalow Cafe, to veyed some of the ladies in their cars.
After tea a very hearty vote of thanks was passed to Canon Willians, Miss Ballachey and the local ringers for all they had done in arranging for the comfort of the visitors. The members were sorry to hear that their vice-president, Miss Bowling, of Leeds, who intended to be present, was prevented from attending through illuess at hone, and sincerely hope this has now passed.
Reference was made to Mr. Joe Mayer, who was killed recently in a motor accident. He had attendeal meetings of the Guild an several occasions, ant as a token of remembrance aud sympatliy with his fanily and the Lincoln ringers in their sad loss the company stood for a few moments in silence.
The motor procession was then re-formed, and the party retrurned to the tower, where more ringers awaited them. Ringing fram Plain Bob to London Surprise contiaued for some time-the thome' position being reached all too soon.
It is pleasing to be able to report a very successful mecting. There were twelve lady ringers present and many more gentlemen, and all concerned are thatked for a very happy time.

THE NORTH OF ENGLAND TOUR.

BY W. H. FUSSELL

HSTORIC GHESTER-LESTMEET CHURCH
Tis wondrous strange that to this time,
No tinkling poet tells
How much men's lives (Heaven help the Chimes)
Asfociate with beils.
W. Jerdan.

The two towers for Thursday were near at hand, per car mileage. With good going bells and a share journey, an easy round was elloyed Chester-le-Shreet, a towil of 16,000 juhabitauts, has now become Chester-le-By-Puss, and the uld stragaling High Street to the North is relieved thereby. © Go, London, sounded from the belfry at 10 oclook, the towerkeper making biniself scarce, after locking the pailock of the staircase door and leaving the tean for 'bettor or for worse. At thiee leads lrom home we listeners thought the bells were "quarrollings' but it turned out to be n little 'argument ' between three Georges, and, safely settled, the bells came lome in 3 hours 161 minutes.

We ware recaivad at the church by Mr. Pattorson, Mr. Sheraton, of Houghton, Mr. Brown fud the Fen. S, J. Glem, and shown over the historic building. Jedicabed to SS. Mary and Cuthbert, it consists of chancel, have abd western tower in line, north and south aisles, and possesses a remartable coflection of Saxon and Norman stoneworla discovered and bualt into the walls and covered with plaster, when the huilding whs restored in 1862. The steeple is very artistic, square to the nave ruaf (about 1250), octagonal for the rext two flooss and surmounted by a lofty spire, the whole 169 ft . high, buitt in 1409. In the reoess north of the tower aud west of the aisle is an nucommon fature, a stone cell of two floors with a curious 'squint' to the chance! used by the first anchorite, Robert Blenkinsop, who petitioned the Bishop of Durlaus (A.D. 1400) to be allowed to take up residence here, There were four successors in aceupation of the cell in due course. It is suppused to be one of the Lest presorved in England. It had been the soureo of much trouble th 1626 when the churchwardons wished to end the occupation by noor widows. I spent a coupla of restful hours in it in front of the old stone fireplace (empty) seated in an armohain, with a trable, reading the book of reconds relating to these bells, the ringers and their ringing. Many of the entries would greutly intereste retders of ' The Riuging World.

A $500-\mathrm{Y}$ EAR-OLD BELL
Local history tells us that Symeon, of Durham, wrote in the $17 l_{1}$ century how blie wooden Saxon church of 883 was decayed when Bisliop Egelric ordered a new church of stone to be buile in 1043, occupying the site of a Roman comp. The church is hallowed by its association with Si. Gutiberb. The borly of the saint, with the head of the hrave youns marbyr hing Oswald, rested here eushrined for 113 years, during which period the church was the sent of the Bishops of the North. Here was written the earliest known Anglo-Saxon wersion of the Gospela by Adred-now preserved in the British Muselm. The bells were restorod by Taylor, of Longhborotgls, and dedicated in 1883 by the Bighop of Durliam, but one of the old bells dated 1409, was preserved, and is now carefully used every Sunday for services for a few blows.
It is appropriate that attiention to the bells should be given just 1,000 yents from the foumdation of the first Saxon church, erected in 883 by Enrwolf, who fonnder the Sco of Chester and became its first Bislop. It is on record that futlerd was a Danisli King of this part of England and al libeml benefactor to the chureh.

Tho passing of the conturies may be traced in the stome masonry of the oxterior, dengy honevcombed and pinholed in varying patterns by wind rand wealher that have loft the hard veins standing out to resist emsion.
After ihe peal we dined at the Lambton Arms Hotel and left an hour later lor the nest tower on our list. This inn takes its title from the family of that Mame, the Lords of Durham of Lambton Castle, of handsame seat on mile from the church, which we passed on This chuwh is dedicated to SS. Mary and All Saints, and here a ring of si : hells (tenor 12 cwt ) was iustalled by Mears and Stainbank in 1830. They were increased to eight by Gillett and Johnston in 1928. Soveral willing friends were waiting to uslles the teani into a spacions ringing room well fitted and kept, wilh nis 'abundance' of sonme from tile hells when rimentr. Starting for Bristol at 3.30 p.m., it lasted 25 minutes only, due to one of the back bells refusing to be struck by 'lightning.' a brief rest led to our mental trausposition from Bristol to Camhinidge in the next attempt, and this came home; call hours and 5 minutos. During the time we rang there was no cull or nign of a hols made; in the ondinary sense it was honcondacter, but decidedly not a "silents' performance.
The wsual adioumment followed with Mr. J. W. Parker, from Sinn Absumd, Mr. Sheraton and other lncel ringers, for a half-hour's conmoration fund rett at the Red Tion. Ont drive back to Newcastle ended joyously after $n$ day of lime weather, with a double suecess, onsy roing bells nim comiortable cars-ho wonker octogenarians can go ont pal 'grabhing' like twowenrolds! In nach parish the foreman of tho tower was parsonally requested to convey the thanks of the team to the Fican and churchwardens for kindly allowing them the nan of the tower. In this commection I jegrat to aid that I have never heard of a colleeting box being filled to orenflowing after such visits. Supper and bed at the Queen's was an hour later, and the friondly 'inquiry' answered in the affirmative, witis a little doubt if it related to the peals or the supper? And so to contented sleep still 100 per cent. up.
The most picturesque journey of the week was taken on Friday, the two towers having been selected, like the Allendale ride, on purpose. It meant a distance all round of over 100 miles. Early we tose and crossed ths Tyne Bridge at Newcastlo before vime o'clock, six men in two care and the rest by rail. George Martin and I, having travelled Al at sea, now proceeded by ca: Al on the North Road, via Morpeth, as far as Hebdon Bridge.
The party then followed the Rjver Coquet; at times our conveyances were hemmed in by woodland along its bank, and at other times we were looking down hurdreds of feet upon its turbulent passage over rock $J$ boulders sparkling in the sumshine. Bothbury is a quiet homely market town in the wilds of Northumberland, has an ail of peace and ouietness beloved by artists, poets and fishermen. The ring of eight bells (tenor 13 cwt 3 gre. 15 lb . in F3 was installed in the tower by Mears and Stainbank in 1893, and a tablet recodds, "In loving memory of William Ditwson, this peal of bells was given by his sister: Mary Dawson, to All Saints' Chumeh.'
A peal of Bob Triples was rung here at Whitsum, 1993, by the loca society that had already mastered peals of Bob Minor, conducted by T. Muray. The captain met us 'on duty' in the absence uf the Vicar, and the Newcastle Inn supplied our lunch ate 1.30 , whin-like that of the Lambton-no gonmet could quibble about.
Rothbury belfry is a large apartment with two small wiludows difi cult to open, usually lit by a gas bracket behind the tenor man, bu not used by us.
Our jouney onward was started at 3 p.m. with a splendid drive Alowick, over nearly ten miles of undulating moorland, coloured masses of purple heather. Fifteen miles to the left tho Cheviot Hills rose clear on the sky line. Ono very straight and long stretch concealed many deep depressions resembling the switclhback. You could searemang deep depressions resembling the swithback. Xou cond sudienly appear as if raised from the grave by a mighty magician. BAMBURG:H.
Here in the stilluess of thy memories
0 grey, sequestered House of God, I find
A peace of heart and shelber from mankind.
Thy very stones on which $I$ bend my knees
Link me with souls of vanished centuries.
Bamburgh was rearhed via Sealionses (we turned too soon off the: Berwiok Road) soon after 4 o'clock, when the faithful steeplekeope with the keys, and Mr. Routledge, on holiday here, received us.
Dedicated to St. Aidan, this church has a venerable weathur-benter apperrance. Its stout square tower, with battlements, seems to defy blie stomy elements of the morth-ast coast of Endraud. From the summit a grand mew of that famons stronghold, Bamburgh Castic, staming on a rugged rocky eminence, ean oe seen. Beyand are tho
Farne Islands and below the tower the graceful tomb erected to the momory of Grace Darling, the local ser heroine.
The bells, by Mears and Stainbauk, were installed in 1909, but u peal was rung upon them until 1980 -put it town to the war-wher the Newcastle men achieved a peal of Stedman Triples.
With plain bearings, slopt dranglt and goon gaing, the paulle Norwich went with a swing, and there was never nuch donbt of doubj peals being scored for five days in suceession. Our conductor was eqaiti in trouble-tronbles never come alone. This time it was the rope that came untucked. Mr. Rontledge, our friend in need, starter home with a farewell glass and a 50 -mile drive to Newcastle, and somewhere about 10.30 we 1eported "All's welt" at lieadruarters. We were 'at home' on Saturday, visiting the towers by tram and giving our own cars and the engines a rest and a "look over" the lons journey on Sunday. Gosforth, within the city, is in county of Northumberland, and All Saints", of very handsome mor design in stone, now nellowed, is surrounded by tall trees and e Grean. The land and the buiklings were given to the parish by wibi inis son. The trebles were added by Gillett and Johnston in 102 'Go' was called by the Doctor at 10 a.m., ane our peal here made np a Royal century for Mr. G. R. Pye. We received the usual courtes? from local men and the Ringing Master, Mr. Adam Deas, and leaving the tower, an intruduction to Churchwarden Lamour, clırchworker.
The motor-car not only saves time by door to don progress, also prevents straggling loy the team. After leaving Gosforth, yon please' men turned up to lunch in twos and threes, much to cook's annovance. This I actribute to the "half-way" doot apolagy is due to the fine team of young uingers at st. Stephen's Churoli. Elswick, for our late arrival. Here is a heavy peal of eight (tenor 30 ewt.), velhng by Gillett and Johnston in 1930. The bells in three tiers on ball bearings in a rocking steeple. The lower part the steeple forms a baptistry, and here is recorded on stone: "To Glory of Fod and in momory of their parents, George and Marg Gruddes, the peal of bells, was placed in this tower by their so George rand Charles, 1880.' And Another tablet records: "To t memory of Margaret Cruddas, who dien faged 1878, aged 88 vea This tower and spive was erected hy her hushand, George Cruddas (Continued on next prge.)

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

WELCOME AT FEMINGBROUGH

The quarterly meoting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshine Association was leck at Hemingbrough on Saturday, and was attended by 43 ringers from Beverley winster, Eastrington, Goole, Howden, Hutl Kirk Ella, Hessle, Market Weighton, Selby Abbey, Sherburn-in-Elmet, Shepton, Silsden and liarton-on-耳umber, Lincolushire. A welcome risitor was Mr. F. C. Bond, of Cirencester, Gloucestershire.
The district secretary and two ringing friends were held no one and a half hours at Selby throngh a keel on the River Onse collizing with the oid Toll Bridge at Selby, but 'all's well that ends well,' and they arrived after sonte inconvenience just in time for the service. The organist of Hemingbrough Chureh was held up through the same cause, but he, thinking it impossible to get across the river, went home and rang up the Vicar, telling him of the incident, and asking him to find a deputy. A very capable one was foum ia Mr. A. H. Fox, organist and captain of the ringers at Kirk Ella Church. Hed Dau Meadley, a popular ringer from the same church, acted as orgnnhower, and both were heartily thanked for stepping into the breach.
The Yicar (the Rev. J. Craig) conducted the service and gave an interesting but informal address, in the course of which he paid a glowing tribute to the enthusiasm of Mr. Fred Tery, the looal tower captain, and also to Mr. Jack Tune and all his ringers. He said it was the old families of the village lifo which he liked best, as they were heart and soul in their work for the clurch and had the love of the dear old clutrch in their bones. They were, he added, the salt of the eartll.
Two new nenubers were elected at the mecting, riz. : Messrs Leonard Tigg and Trank Koeeshaw, both of Market Weighton.

An invitation to hold the next quarterly meeting at Goole in December was accepted.
Mr. Cryer proposed and Mr. Vigor seconded a vate of thanks to the Vicar for his address and the use of the bells. In reply, the Vicar welcomed everyone present, and said lee hoped they would mot wait 13 years to be invited again. Fie asked them to come as often as they wisled and stay as late as possible, as the good people of Heungbrough loved to hear their bells rung. They were all pleased when they heard the meeting was to be held there.
Mr. F. S. Mortey proposed and Mr. Dan Meadley seconded a vote of thanks to Mr. Fred Terry for all the arrangements, and to the ladies who wery findly provided such an excelfent tea.-Mr. Terry responded, thanking the association for their visit, and invitiog them rgain in the near fiture.
Further ringing on the tower bells till niue o'clock and on the haud heells. till 9.45 p.m. concluded a very happy and surcessful meeting.
The methods ruisy included Plain Boì, Kent aud Oxford Treble Bob Donble Oxforcl and St. Clement's Spliced Minor, aud Grandsire nad Stedman Douhles on the tower bells, and Graudsire Caters and Triples and Bob Major on liandbells.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION

SERVICE TO BE HELD AT NEXT MEETTNG
Mayket Drayton again proved a popular choice when the Shropshire Association met there on September 5th. Early atrivals were greated by a narty from the Potteries, who were on an afterncon tour. After a conrse of London Minor they departed to find the 'Shapshine' sixhell tower of Hammer, actually in Mintshire.
Up to lea time sonie goof striking in standard eight-bell methods was lieari, and, unon adjourument, the 30 members present were entertained to tea by the Marke Drayton bond, a gesture for which яpareciation was expressed.
Mr. Clark respouded, and snid that a hearty welcome was extended. He had hoped for a short service to be held.

Canon Bell, who was iu the chair for the business meeting, accepted this as a proposition. Having received snpport from Mr. W. Saunders and others, the sethetary undertook to arrange a short service at Condover for the November meeting. The Rev. Haseler, who was present from Condover, said that he would be pleased to hold the service if required.

During the evening a few courseg of Cambridge Major completed wey successfil meeting.

Qur eftort for Stedman Triples lasted 40 minutes when someone calted 'Stand,' nud the ringing week was finishefl. No one was pay' ticularly disappointed, becanse thero were times when a bell dodging 4.5 down was found in the slow, and it depended on the buikling if your bell would respond to peur pull.
The final evering at the Quecn's was decidedly mixed until the final handshak, with Newcastle men. Squaring hotel nccounts, hanalbeli touches, talks of past tours and 'Come ngaiu' were seen and heayd till 11 p.m.
All the men were safely home again by Sunday might, and their little travelling enses filled with new toys, valued by hellringing rellectors. such as new towers, new methods, new counties, to which I rould atd-and new friends. The motor-cnrs were reported nearing lome ahout 5 p.m., that I travelled with registering 824 miles since the start of what proved to be a very remarkable tour.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

White, of Appleton, and a grood job has been made of them. There were in all about 25 members present, which was a good attrendance considering that Tingewick lays sonewhat wide of the activities of the branch.

This was suitably responded to and further ringing took place, both at Tiugewjok and Buckinglan, which concluded a very pleasant meeting.

A SIGNIFICANT EVENT.

A corporate act of worship on the part of ringers, such as that which took place in London on Sunday evening, is a significant event. Divine service is a regular feature of ringing meetings, but a special service with no other attraction than the service ringing is a rare, if not a unique occurrence. Originating in a desire on the part of the Ancient Society of College Youths to attend a service at St. Michael's, Cornhill, where they periodically ring, the invitation was extended to all ringers, and as a result there was quite a large gathering. The experiment was more than justified in every way. Not only was the attendance worthy of the accasion, but the service itself, the singing and not least the eloquent sermon, were all an inspiration. It was in every sense a ringers' service, and yet it broke away from what has become an almost stereotyped form.

The subject of the sermon was, in a sense, a reminder of the place of church bells in modern life. Despite the changes and the speeding up of the conditions under which we live, the distractions, the anxieties and the indifference of to-day, it is good to know that there are still some things that endure, and that among them church bells are still a reminder' of the 'eternal values of God and of the human soul.' To listen to a discourse such as that preached by the $\mathbb{R e v}$. James Wall, who drew an enchanting picture of his memories of Durham Cathedral, where he served in the ministry for eight years, is a stiring encouragement to ringers. It puts their work in its proper perspective, and those, if any there were, who look upon ringing only as a fascinating art and a pleasant pastime, must have realised the wider and more serious part of the duty they undertake.

The bells of our churches still have an appeal to the public. They strike a chord in the conscience which cannot readily be ignored, and whether the call to worship is answered or not by those who hear their sounds, the Church and all it stands for cannot be forgotten. The bells are the constant reminder of those ligher things which the Church would have all men remember, and although the voice of the clergy cannot reach out beyond the walls of the building, the bells carry the message far and wide in a manner that cannot easily be silenced. They speak no words, but their sounds are well understood, even in these 'pagan' days. 'The bells themselves are the best of preachers; their brazen lips are learned teachers.' Longfellow's words are still true, and we who ring the bells will get all the more enjoyment from our art if we realise the importance of our work, not merely as the practical expression of an interesting science, but in its relation to the public, as the means of (Continued on phge 622.)

ST. BENE'T'S. CAMBRIDGE.

RINGERS WANTED FOR STEDMAN'S BELLSE.
To the Editor.
Dear Sir.-May I appeal once again for help in keeping some sort of riuging going at St. Bene't's, Cambridge? For the past year or two a few of us have met to ring for morning service on alternate Sundays, but we find it increasingly difficult to get a band. I can assure all who do come that the Vear is very anxious for us to keep the ringing going, and lase promised to look out for any likely recruits for us who are directly connected with the parish.
On Sunday, Octrober 4 th, the harvest thankegiving services are being held, and ringers are ilsvited to turn up at $10.25 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. to ring the bells that Stedman rang.
C. W. COOK, District Secretary, Ely Diocesan Association

BARNSLEY RING OF EIGHT RESTORED．

STIRESSTS ON THE TOWER REMOVED

TThe eight belig at Barnsley Parish Churci have been restored，and a joint meeling of the Southerm Division of the Yorkshire Association with whe Barnsley and Shellield Societies was held on September 12th to synchronise with the rededicalion of the peat．
The bells had been silent for a year on the advice of the architect and the belifounders，for not only were the frame and fittings in a bad way，but there was excessive movemeat of the tower．The fabric has been attended to and the bells have been tuned skilfully and rehung entirely with modern fittings an a massive cast iron frame on a reinforced cencrete foundation．
Messrs．Gillett and Tohnston are to be congratulated ou the result， for the beils go like tops and the movement of the tower has becu reduced to a remarkable degree．
Tho back sis bells，the tenur of which weighs 14 cwl ．，were erected in 1769，and two trebles wero added in 1772 ．There was evidently a peal in exislence previously，for the tower，the most ancient part of the church，dates from about 1410.
Upwards of 50 members were present，at the meeting，and the towers representel wero Rotherham，Doncaster，Bolsover，Adwick－le－Street， Arksey，Wath，Bolstersione，Darfield，Felkirk，Holnfortli，Friezeland， Sheffield Cathedral and St．Marie＇s，Rammoor，Hoylandswaine，East－ wheod，Anston and the local comprany．
Thes service of rededieation，which was of simple character，was performed by the Bislrop of Wakefield，assisted by the Rector of Barnsley（Canon Hone）and other clergy from neighbouring parishes． CONGRALULATIONS TO MR．C．D．POTTER．
Tea in the Parish Room was very much appreciated，and the ladies who undertook the catering had a very busy time．The business meeting followed tea，and was presided over by the Rectar，who thanked the ringers for atterding in such large numbers，and said that he hoped they would all be satisficd witl the work which had been done to the bells．
A vote of coudolence mal sympathy with the relatives and dependants af thoso who hal passed away in the recent mining disaster at Wharn－ cliffe Moor Colliery was moved，and also to the relatives of Mr Willinm Thurton，of Ecclesfield，a member of the Yorkshire Association since 1884，who had been buricd that day．His passing will be wery mirch felt by his old Sheffeld associates．
＇I＇wo new members，Messrs．L．W．Garbutt，of Barnsley，and T．A． Lamb，of Sandal，were elected，and，no invitation being forthcoming for the next meeting in December，it was left to the secretary to arinnge．
The secretary made an appeal to all tower secretarics in the Southorn arco to let him have any change of address which members may have made，so that they could lee included in the next report mayl ho keep it up to ante．
The hearty congratulations of all present were extended to Mr． C．D．Potter，of Burnsley，who had just celebrated bis 78 th birthday， and who has done so much for the ringing art in the Barnsley area． He founded lie Barnsley and Dietrict Society many years ago and for several years was its secretary．The number of tingevs who have enjoyed his hospitality at various times must rum into hundreds． Salurday＇s cercmony sap the fulfilment of one of his dearest wishes， anti he said he was the happiest man in Barrasley that day．It is to he hoped he will have the privilege of enjoging the bells，for which he laps done so much，for many years to come．

A vote of thanks to the Reetor and churchwardens，and to the Indies for their services at ten，was moved by Mr．Joln R．Brearley， of Decpear，who raforred also to the excellence of Messrs．Gillett and Johnston＇s wark in the tower，and the satisfaction with the ringers experienced that day with Barnaley＇s relhing bells．
Mr．G．Lewis，of Feclesfield，seconded the motion，which includegl acknowledement of the locnl company＇s welcome．The Rector and Mrs．Hone，in reyly，both gave the association a cordial invitation to risit Barnsley again in the near futne

RINGFRS＇JUG REAPPEARS．

Altor ringing had censed all visitors were invited to he the guests of $$ 1$ r．Potfer，his son，Conncilor H．Potter，and Councilor J．Rideal， at the Ropal＇Hotel，when they were supported by the Rector and Mr．C．F．Johnston，of Croydon．To make them＇feel at home，＇bath rouncillors were elected honorary members of the association．A very plensant evening wns spent．Tandluell ringiug，piano solos by Mr．H． Chant and some very interesting stories of ringers and would－he ringers were very much approciated，as were also Mr．Toluston＇s nccount of adventures in foreigu lands，and some mathematical prob－ lens relating to belle and bellringing whicis le asked the company to consider．
$A$ very interesting piece of pottery（to ringers）was on view（and uscel）．This wns an old rineers＇jug，eapacity about one gallon，which has been missing for many yenrs．Now it luas reappeared there are pood groumds for lroping that it will find its way back to its proper homo，the Parisli Clumeln，and the Rector promised to take ever． care of it if its transfar could be arranged，and he thought it conld． The inscription ou the jur reads as follows：－

Dec 26th 1879.8 Memhers of the Barnsley nnd Sheffeld Societics rang at St．Mary＇s Barubley n Peal of 6，080 Kent Treble Bobl Major in 3 hours 50 minutes．The ringers were：－ （Cantinued in next column．）

FOUR CUDDINGTON RINGERS．

OVER 50 YEARS TOGETHER IN ONE TOWER

The Central Bucks Erancl of the Oxford Diocesau Guild held a quarterly meeting at Dinton on Saturday，September 12th，whicly was well attended．The service was conducted by the Vicar（the Rev． C．W．Drury），and an interesting address was given by the branch chairman（the Rev．G．Dixon）．Tea was served in the Gricket Pavilion， and during the business meeting which followed Messrs．$\Delta$ ．Webb，A． Frost，R．Ward and G．Orchard，all of Cuddington，and four ringers from Dinton tower，werg elected members of the Guild．
The Vicar，in replying to a vote of thanks，said it was interesting to note that the four ringers of Cuddington tower who had jrst been elected are all over 70 years of age nud havo been regular Sunday service ringers since the bells were restored 52 years ago．Mr．A． Webb and Mr．A．Frost have also served in the choir for over 50 yenrs． It must surely be almost if not quite unique for four ringers to serve at the same tower together for aver 50 years．

SUCCESSFUL GATHERING AT FARNBOROUGH．
Au enjogable meeting of the Farulam District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Farnborongh on Saturday，when between 30 and 40 members and frieads attended．Punctually nt 3 ocelock the light peal of six（tenor 7 cwt ．）was set going to Doubles aud Minor methotis，and，although at times the striking left macls to be desired， partly due to the wery fine＇set，of one or two of the front bells （which even caused several experts great ansiety）aud the excessive noise from the bells immediately overhead，good practice was had by all befora the service．The Rector of Farnborough（Canon $W$ ．$\Lambda$ ． Challacombe）conducted the service and gave an excecedingly interesting address on the comradeship of ringers and＇the pull of the unseen．？ The bells，although not scen，were，he said，heard ly many，remiuding them of something which perhaps they had fargatten or even wilfully neglected．He wished the Guild greater success in its objects and prayed God to bless the ringers in their work．
Mr．T．A．Strond（Tronsham）at the organ accompanied the singing． Tee was served in the Jubilee Hall，following which a slort businces meeting was held．The Rector presided，supporled by the Master （Major J．H．B．Hesse），the District Ringing Master（Mir．R．Hasted） and the Guild Treasurer（Mi．J．Corbett）．One new yinging member was electea，Mr．W．Roys（Farnborough）．
Attention was called to the Ieading article in＇The Ringing World，＇ asking for renewed efforts at towers where practice had ceased during summer mondis．Several towers in the district were affected by this， and members present were asked to bring the article to the notice of fellow－members．
The Master proposed a comprelensive yote of thanks to the Rector， organist，local tower captain（Mr．Gasson）nnd the caterers．A hearty welcome was extended to geveral ringers who lad cycled from Uxbridge to attend the meeting，and also congratulations and goor wishes offered to Mr．and Mrs．P．Fildridge on theil reent marriage．
The treasurer acknowledged a lonation of 10 s ．from the Rector towards the Bencwolent Fiund，and ar retiring colleation for the fund realised 7s． 6 d ．
Further ringing took place in the evening，the usual methods being rung．The bells were lowered in peal at 8 p．m
Howers represented were Aldershot，Aslh，Bugshat，Faruborongh， Farnhan，Frensham，Godalming．Fillingdon，Sandhurst，Seale，Sun－ bury－on－Thames，Uxbridge and Wokingham．

The three young daughters of the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, Rectar of St. Nicholas", Hereford, who is hon. secretary of the Herefori Diocesan Guild, and well known for his work on the Central Council, have achieved considerable proficiency in handed ingring.

VISIT TO BUCKFAST ABBEY.

EXETER RINGERS' EXCDRSION.
Ou Scturday, September 12th, the. St. Thomas', Exeter, beud of ringers aud ather ringing friends had their annual outing. The weather, after the heavy rain in the morning, turned out very pleasant. Leaving St. Thomes' Church at 1.35 p.m., the firgt stop was Highwick (Newtou Abbot), where the party were met by tho Viear of Highwick and some of the local ringers, also Messrs. Litley, sen. and jun., and Mr. Walker. Touches of Grandsire Triples, also rounds fot the beginners, were rung. A move was then made for Buckfastleigh, whers Mr. Bennett, of the Iacal ringers, and a wisitor from London met the company. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman aud Bols Major as well as rounds were $⿲$ rugg. Buckfast Abbey, which was of special inferest, was next visited. Here the party were awaited by some of the Abbey ringers and were escorted to the tower. On tho way to the ringing chamber they paised at the lofloong where the ringing hitherto had been done, and where some of the party had rung, possibly with some misgiving. Better a floor to look at thatu an open space of about 70ft. drop. Anyway, the spacious ringing chamber (where the bells bitherto lad luag) was ragched in safety, and the middle eight of the twelve bells was got up and tonelies of Grandsire and Stedman rung. The remaining four were then rased and rounds rung on this glorious twelve, it being, for some, their first pull on twelve bells. A well-struck touch of Stedman was then rung on the back eight, which all enjoyed. Next a greab effort was wade, in tura, by nearly all present to turn over the great 'Hosknan' bell woighing $7 \frac{1}{2}$ tons, but without success. Actually this bell is lung aucl can be rung up to about half-way. The clapper weighe one ton, the headstock two tons. The whole is a wonderful piece of work. A greate deal of 'see-sawing' was dane to and fro From the ringing chamber, for all waited to see (and hear) the bells in motion. Eventuallz all the bells were lowered (the midale eight ius peal), and with great reluctance the visitors departed and retraced their steps to the whito Hart Hotel, where an excellent tea wes provided. A vote of thanks was passed to those responsible for the outing, etc.
Tho party then went on to Brixhana, where Mr. Taylor was waiting for them. A stiff cling to the well-kept ringing chanber and more riugiug was indulged in before leaving for Paiguton, where a short stay was mude gud refreshments partaken of. Home was safely reached at 11.30 p.m. Special thanks are accorded to all those resporssible at the various chutches for such an anjoyable dar, also to Hr Benmett for his kinduess in 'fixing up' at Buckfastleigln and the Abbey.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Wa regret that we bave to hold over several reports of outinga and a letter on False Rows in Minor Method from Mr. George Baker. What was probably the last peal on the bells at Llanfreclifa, Monmouthshire, before they are augmented to eight, was rung on September 15 th. Two trebles are to be added to the existing ring of six. Mr. Wh. Powell, one of the local ringers, has been chielly instrumental in securing the augmentation, which is to be completed in time for the Coronation. The peal of Bob Minor last week, in which he took part, was a birthday compliment to lim.
Mr. W. J. Whiting one of the Leatherhead, Surrey, bancis about two and a half years ago acted as best man to a belfry colleague, Mr. A. H. Smith, hon. secretary of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. The chief bridesmaid at that ceremony was Miss M. I. Quinney, and best man and bridestaid met for the first time. Ou Saturday they were married at Isleworth, Middlesex.
A Guildford Guild ringer, invited to ring for the wedding, journeyed to Isleworth for tho purpose. There he asked the way and was directed to the clurch, where be duly arrived, a few minutes after the eppointed time, and found the wedding ceremony in progress, but no signs of the other ringers. He tried the door leading to the belfry, but found it locked. Then he discovered he had come to the wrong church and the wrong wedding!
Messrs: Taylor and Co. have completed the woth of recasting the ring of six bells at Shalford, near Guildford, into m ring of eight, with a tenor of about $14 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. The bells will be dedieated by the Bishop of Guildford on Wednesday evening, November 4th.

The work on the bells at Manchester Town Hall, which are to be recast into a peal of twelve, is now well in hand. The bells have been removed to Loughborough Foundry.
Messra. Taylor and Co. are also taking out the belle at Birch-inRusholme, which are to be rehumg and put on ball bearings. It is hoped to have both peals ready in good time for the Coronation.
An attempt for peal of Stedman Cinques unfortumately failen at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, on Saturday, after 3 hours and 30 minutes, by the cixes becoming reversed. The occasion was the 85 th birthday of Mr . Robert F. Brandle, who was ringing the 5th. Mr. Jolan Holmar, of Shefield, was also among the band.
Ufford bells are to be dedicated on October 7 th at 3 p.m. Since the noticg was printed last week, Mrs. Drake has arranged to give tes to all ringerg and their friends who ask for a free jnvitation before September $301 h$. She hopes, in this way, to hear from all interested
The bells of St. Michael's, Gloncester, restored by Messra. Gillett and Johaston, were reppened ou Sunday afternoon.
The 299th anniversary dinner of the Ancient Spoiety of College Youths has been fixed for November 14 th.
In the footnote to the report of the peal rung at Bobbing, Kent, on September 5th, it was stated that the rehanging of the bells was done by A. Bowcll, of Ipswich. The work was catried out by Mears and Stainbank, the founders of the bells.

DEATH OF THE REV. A. H. F. BOUGHEY.
We vory deeply regret to annoumce the death on Tuesday of the Fier. A. H. F. Boughey, of Cambridge, at the age of 87 years. He was president of the Cambridge Dnivarsity Guild from its fomatation over 50 years ago, and was a past pregiklent of the Certral Council.

STUDENTS FORM A RINGING SOCIETY,

OUTCOME OF LEOTURE AT SALISBURY THEOLOGICAL

 COLLEGE.This term at Sahisbury Theological College has seen the foundation of a ringing society. Interest in the subject of ringing was started as the result of an enlighteuing leclure by the Rev. F. LI. Tdwards. Rector of Kington Magna, Dorset, mad hon. secretary of Salesbury Diocesan Guild. He pointed out to his listeners how advisable it was for those who are poing to take Eoly Orders to know something of the nature of church bells, which play so important a part in Church worship. He made his lecture the more interesting by bringing with him a model bell hung in a frame, and also a set of eight haudbells.
The new society has been started by Mr. R. S. Jones, atadent oi the college, who was Master of the Oxford Universiby Gociety of Ohange Ringers during the year 1955-36. The Fice-Principal of the college has been elected president.

Thanks are due to Mr. Romain, captain of the ringers at St. Martin's Church, Salisbury, for the loan of handbells to the collego and for giving ample opportunity for learning ta fing in the tower. Practices have now begun both on handbells and in the tower, and already the membership totals from twelve to fifteen.

KING EDWARD VIII'S NAME ON BELLS.

To the Eaitor.

Dear Sir, - As stated in last Friday's 'Ringing World.' the recast tenor at Anstey, Leicestershire (where the bells were rededicated on September 12th), bears the inscriptian:-

TRecast in the year of the accession of King Edward VIII.
It would be interesting to know if thie is the first bell to be rung bearing King Edward VIII.'s name. Pertaps someone will entightep tis. ALBAN DISNEY.

RINGERS' SERVICE IN LONDON.

COLLEGE YOUTES' INNOVATION AT GORNHILL

A STRIKYNG SERMON.

An innovation by the Ancient Society of College Youths brought together a large gathering of ringers in London on Sundiny evening The society officially attended serviee at St. Michael's Church, Corahill, and College Youths and members of other ringing societies were present from ofer a wide area, despite an unfortunately wet evening.
Ringers began to assemble at six o'clock, and for an hour the twelve bells were kept going in touches of Stedman Cinques. When the service began at seven o'clock the church was well filled, many members of St. Michael's regular congregation being mingled with the visitore. The specially arranged service was an inspiring one, the stiring hymas and anthem and the benutiful singing of the choir ađ̃̃ing greatly to the impressiveness of the occasion.

THE STEEPLE OF ST. MICHAEL'S, CORNHILL
Designed by Wren and completer in 1721 , it was one of the earliest towers to contain a ring of twelve bells. Richard Phelps installed a peal of ten in 1728, and two trebles, by fester, were added in 1746. Our picture is from a photo by Mr. F. E. Dawe.
At the ontset the Master (Mr. E. P. Duffield), who wore the new badge of office, and the stewards (Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mr. L. Porter walked in procession with the choir and clergy to their seats, the mace, carried by the schior steward, beilg afterwards placed on a Emall table in front of the Master's pew.
The Rector, the Rev. Prebeadary J. H. Ellison, M.V.O. (who is a Chaplain in Ordinary to H.M. the King), conducted the service, which he opened by annouvcing the purpose of the assembly in the following terms: "Brethrem we are come together to thank God for the sound of church belle, to dedicate anew to Him the joyous work of the ringers, particnlarly of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and to pray that we and all others who hear their masic may live notr unworthily of the summons.'

Then was sumg the livmn, 'Immortal, Inwisible God.' The Mastor read the lesson frow Romans sii., which was followed by Paalm xy. and special prayers for those called by the sound of the bells to enter the House of Prayer, for those who are hindered from assembliag together for worghip, for those who, in their daily calling, hear the sound of the bells, and for those who ring
After the Lord's Prayer the cloir rendered patts of Eandel's Chandos Anthem, Mr. Harold E. Darke, directoy of musie, being at the organ.

CLOSELY ALLIED IMSES.

The address was given by the Rev. James Wall, assistant priest, whose first words were a warm welcome to those beliningers and theil frieads who wele present. "We owe you,' he said, 'a great debt, yet, in a way, it would be presumptuous for us to acknowledge that debt, beceuse in our several duties, yours and mine, we are fellowrorters in the same cause. If is not only that fou ring people into church for us of the clergy to preach to- Our tasks are more closely and more intimately allied than that. Rather is it that in our difforent ways we proclaim to the world the same message, the message of the eternal values of God and of the human soul.

Of all beautiful sounds," he continued, "the sound of church bells is the most swift in its effect, The symphony may, as it propresses, cary us in spirit to some concert labll in Germany or Austria, perhapa, where we once beard it ideally performed; the quartet may take us in meraory to the country house where we gat in the dull gleam of a peat fre and listened to a recording of it many yeara ago. But churcla bells are at once more awilt in their netion, more inordinately sare and much more potent, As soon as they strike the ear, we are uplifted; time and space melt into nothingness; we find ourselves in the presence of the eterual. As we hear their sound foating above the feverish crowds and traffic of our city streets, we are borne over hills and vales to those fields of youth where their soft, buoyant music used to speak to us or to our perente: for cyen in this city we are all countrymen by ancestry and at heart. Their musid used to speak to us of the place of God in an ordered life and of the peace that that bringe. Life then had a thythm; it had a true perspective; it had a proper stillncss. The week, ever lived mader God's guidance and in His service, was punctuated by worship. Even if we stayed nway from church on Sunday, hearing the bells, we were preveated from forgetting the privileges of cur kinship with the eternal. The same bells pealed or tolled at irrogular times reminded us how, in our stoady progress through time, we fud our greatest happiness in a life of sharing, which at the close is rounded with sleep. For the townsman life ever tends to become a disorderiy hustle jnlerspersed with suddea, inexplicable estastrophes. If tife then had the stateliness of a lovely minuet, it secms now to be set to the drunken stagger of jazz. There is the temptation to moder-estimate the existence and, therefore, the value of the historic past. To-dav in our sudden vast accession of knomledge, nmid the hectic production of our machines, we may be inclined to underrate the ralues of such things as leisure, of honest intelligent handwork, or clivalry and houour, of the dignity of all haman life and lowly gervice. Yet these things were ever present to the mediwval world, certainly in aspiration and in great measure in fulfilment.
The prencher recalled the words of Froude, who, writing of the gulf which las between his times and those of old England, snid only among the aisles of the cathedral, only as wo gazad upon the silent figures sleeping on their tombs, did some faint conception come hefore them of what those men were alive, and perhaps in the sound of the church bells, 'that peculiar creation of the medjeval age, which falls upon the ear like the echo of a vanished world."

GREATEST OF ALJ MEMORTES.

The preacher went on to refer to his own oxporience during the eight years In lived in a Cathedral Close, beneath the sladow of the great square tower which contaived, he was told, the highest peal of bolls in England. Many and valued, ho said, were the thoughts of thase days that crowded through the gates of memory: Heavenly music, long processians splendid with colour, aisles packed with Bank Koliday crowds, moonlight playing throngh the painted glass on the Norman columns, annidst the darkness of the nave, but perhaps the most memorable of all were those of the scene when at the last midnifht of the year, after, is it seemed, ages of wniting, the rushing waterfall of joyous clanging sound was loosed from the helfry over the city, sleeping bemeath tite erisp northern ail. Here and there in the College and Olose a beam of light would shine out as a doar was opened to welcome some dark stranger, the first friendly hand in the new year, while the worid went spinnjog on throngh space and time. Year after year the bells never failed to bring their message, a message of regret for the past, of hope and high resolve for the future; saying goodbye to the prejudices and disappointments, the pettiness and the wasted opportanities of yesterday, fo nake way for friendliness, for more persistence in well-doing, for wiser stewardship in the steadily decreasing number of years that remain.

The preacher concluded his eloquent address by reciting the fones from Tennyson's poen 'In Memoriam

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying claud, the frosty liglit;
The rear is dping in the night:
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

REDEDICATION OF BELLS AT CANTERBURY.

TMPHOVLMTNTS AT STT DUNSTUNTS CHBUR

The rededication of the bells of St. Dunstan's Church, Canterbury, took place ou Saturday, September 19th. A large congregation, which included many ringera, was present at the service, which was conductod by Bishop Bidwell, the other clergy present being tho Rector, the Rev. A. E. Miller, the Rev. C. A. Manley (Vicar of Littlebourne), with the Hural Dean, the Rev. S. R. Grigge. The sermon was preached by the Biohop, and during the singing of the next hymn the clergy proceeded to the baptistry, which is immediately under the lower, for the dedicatory prayers. $\Lambda$ t the conclusion of the ceremony the bells were set groing for a few minutes in rounds.

Aftor the service the many ringers precent had the opportunity to try the bells, and ringing was carried on until eight o'clock in the evening.
Tho work las been carried out by Messre. Mears and Stainbank, who were raphesented ali the service by Mr. A. A. Hughes. A clean swoep has been made of the old frame, and a new oak frame installed. rhe bells bave been guarter-tumed and tuned, and now hang in two liers. They luvo also been placod lower in the tower, thus making The bells sound moro pletsantly to the people in the houses in the vicinity. All tho ringers were pleased with the tone and go of the licils, the only complaint being that at present the bells are a bit cr the loud aide in tha ringing cliamber, a fault which is to be rectified shortly. Messrs. Menrs and stainlsank are to be congratulated on the completion of a successful rehanging.

A new band has bean formed and it is hoped that soon the bells will be heard ringing for Sunday service regularly, after a lapse of 20 years.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow;
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.
Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor;
Jhing in redress to all mankind.
Ring out old shapes of fonl disease;
Riug out the narrowing lust of gold,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.
Riag in the valinat man, and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darknese of the land,
Fing in the Christ that is to be,
A bymu specinlly written for the service by the Rev. James Wall who was Precentor of Durlam Cathedral, was chen sung. It comprised [our verses, set to an old and familial melody, and forms a striking addition to the collection of ringerg hymns. The first two verses are as follow :-

Fo who delight to ring the belle,

Praise Him Whose love their sound forth tells, Alteluya, Alleluya.
Crateful for health of arm and brain,
For keenness, lift the glad refrain, Alleluya.
Ye who in hours of toil or rest,
Hear their melodious behest,
Sing His praises, Alleluya
Ye who on sick bods hear their call,
Praise Him for hope, whate' er befall, Alleluya.
During the simping of the hymn a collection was taken for the King George Memorial Fund, four members of the College Youtla acting as sidegmen, Messrs. E. A. Young, C. Burden, J. E. I. Cockey and F. G. Shorter

The delightful servico concluded with the Blessing, prongunced by lie Iechor.

A SUGGESTION To the Editor.

Denu Sir,-This is not a complaint, but a suggestion
On Sunday I had the plessure of being present at the bellringers gervice, held at St. Michacl's, Cornhill. I saw a goodly gathering of the members of the Alrient Society of College Fouths, and many athers-areally fine attendance, in spite of the rain. Tha gervice was admitable, and the last hymn, conposed specially for the oceasion by He Rev. Thmes Wall, MA., was in itself a tribute to the Exercise Fut I think that if the service had been held on any other day than Sunday, or at a different time from that chosen, more ringers would Sinday, or at a difierent time firon that chosen, more ringers would have had the opportinity of being present. Perhaps the service would have been betaer in the Sumby afternoon, as that would not have interfered with our ordinary duties at our respective ehurches.

Agnin, T remind fou that this is a suggestion aud not a grouse. Deptiford Parle, SE JAMES FTRWOOD.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION

APPEAL TOR BEST RINGING IN BROADCASTS.

A glocious September afternoon favoured the Western Branch of tho Worcestershire and Districts Association for their meeting at Hanbury last Saturday. The meeking should have taken place earlier, but was unavoidably delayed.
Hanbury Church, situated in delightful country, is somewhat dificult of access, but there were quite a good mumer present, about 45 members with visitors, including the Misses Amy and Kathleen Johnson, who had cycled 18 miles from Finton-on-the-Green, Mr. Roger Daniels, of Leckhampton, and Mr. Edward Earge, of Birminghanr.
Tho peal of eight bells, temor 16 cwt . and of moderate tone, were made grood use of in a variety of methods.
A sliort, appropriate service was conducted by the Rector (the Ref. G. V. Blois), who later very hindy provided tea at the Rectory and presided over the business meeting which followed, supported by the secyetary (Mr. G. E. Large), Ringing Master (Mr. O. Camm), Central Council representative (Mr. S. T. Holt) and Ceutral Committee representative (Mr. W. Ranford).
Mr. S. T. Holt gave a brief resume of the Central Council meating held in London, in particular mentioning the Council's desire to gee better support of "The Riaging World, and improved ringing for broadcesting. Regarding the latter, Mr. Holt said that if any band in the branch was asked to broadeast, he hoped they would only attempt to do that which they were capable of doing best, and that good rounds and call changes would be preferyed to bad or indifferent clange ringing.
Mr. C. E. Lindo, 80 years of age and an expent signwriter and pavement artist, who was present from Worcester in the role of spectator, offered to write peal boands for any important peal rung by the biancl free of charge if they provided lim with the boards, an announcement which was warmly appreciated by all present.
After the vote of thanks to the Rector, members again visited the tower until about 8.30. IE was dark when the last came out of the belfry, and the red lights on the masts of the Droitwich trangmitter some two miles or so to the nortl-west indicated that another company was actively engaged.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

CREWE BRANGH MEETING AT BUNBURY.

A very Ruccessful meeting of ringers was held at Burbury on September 12 th, but owing presumably to the eatly downpour of rain, the numbe." attending was small.
Ringing commenced at 4 o'clock and tea was served at the Dyart Arms. A short business meeting followed, presided over hy Mr. $G$. Biddulph, Ringing Master (in the absence of branch officials).
Mr. Georgo Crawley, of Crewe, congratulated the Ringing Mister on his good example to other ringers by attending all the meetiuge and helping the less fortunate in the art of ringing.
Votes of thanks to the Ficar and to those responsible for the tea were accorded.
A tour of this beautiful church and a study of its ancient relics as quite an education, even to the man who tried to liftea 7 ft . $\underset{3}{ } 3 \mathrm{ft}$. 4 in , thick stone caffin and won a 'Woodbine.'

Further ringing in warious methods, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Kenl Treble Bob, were enjoyed by all, and those who stayed amay are iuformed that the weather was lovely, aud there was not a drop of rain.

Good striking was maintained througluout, which the Vicar and members of the congregation who remained thoroughly appreciated. It is to be hoped the local band will make good use of the extension, as bells are npmreciated in this locality.
The new treble las been added by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

PRESENTATION AT FENHAM.

On Sunday, September 13th, a presentation of a silver inscribed cigarebte case was made to Mr. A. Dordds, who is leaving SSI. Janes and Basil's belfry, Fenham, for Glasgow. Regrets at his departure wers expressed by nll, and the sinoere hestr, wishes of the Guild were given to him in his new sphere. Mr. Dodde suitably responded,
Following the ceremony a farewell quarter-penl of Stedman Triples (Brooks') was rung by D. Reay 1, A. Dodds 2, T. W. Crowe 3, A. S. Walker 4, N. Pairman 5, E. Arthur (conductor) G, P. Wishart 7, R. Grosby 8.

FOR BEGINNERS.

Fricir mbain To reverse and double bob
There musi be ummerous towers about the country where Plain Bob, even after many years, is still the order of the day. We constantly sec peals of Minor rume in whieh the method has been Plain Bob in ali the soven 720 's. There is legitimate excuse for the young baud whose tirst peal attempts cousist of nothing but Plain Bols, but there nre many lingers who ought to get out of this rut, and learn to ring something else. The returulug winter evenings are the time to sake the effort.
The firse stops can be casy ones, and fa order to get some idea of the work which you may find in other methods, we suggest that you should try the Bob method in other ways than the one you liave been in the lambit of ringing. Yes, there are ather ways. There is Reverse Bob and there is Double Bob.

When you ring Plain Bob you make 2nd's place or dodge when the troble is leading, and very possibly you have learnt where to dodge by tile position in which you pass the treble as you lunt up and the reble hants down.
Reverse Foh, as its nama implies, is the opposite of Plain Boh. lastean of Zad's place or dodging when the treble leadu, 5tly's place is made and the dodging takes place wheu the treble is behind, sund You learn where to dudge lyy the position in which yua pass the treble as you hunt, down and the treble hunts up.

Double Bob incorporates both Pluin ant Reverse Bob; that is you make both 2nd's when the treble leads and 5 thi's when it lies its whole pall behind. Consequontly there is dodging on both occasions,
Yon can learn where to dodge by the position in which you pass the treble hoth as you lant up aud as you humt down. Some people do not lake the trouble to do this, but wo think that for those hegiming tr lannch out into the boundless sen of methods it is just as well to start this way.
Let us first compare Reversa Bob with Plain Bob and see low little differoce there roally is in the actual work. Fou waut to try to cannt your way from the back, as you do from the front. For isstance, in Plain Bob, if you meet the treble frst from the froat yous make End's anvl lead again. T11 Reverse Bob if you meet the treble first from the back (hat is after you have had your whole pull belind), you make Sth's and lie a whole pull behind again.
In Plain Bab, if you meet the treble second from the front jou dodge in $3-4$ (up); in Reverse Bob, if you meet the treble second from the hack, you dodge in 4-3 (down), and so on. Put in anotlier way you can compare them thus :-

| $5-4$ | dodge 4-3 down |
| $6-5$ | male $5 t h ' s$ |

Dodging in 1-2 in Reverse takes the place of dodging in 5-6 in Plain -everything, in fact, is rerersed. If you want to see what it looks like on paper, wite ont a plajn course of Bob Minor, draw a continnous Jina through the figures representing one bell-then turn it upside down, and you liave Reverse Bob.
If jou want to rine Double Bob jou just put the two things together. There is nothing else to learn as far as ringing the method is concerned. If yon know exactly what to do when jan have passed the treble, either in hunting up or down, in fhe Plain snd Reverge; you will know what to do in the Donble method. Of course the dodging and ploce-making do not come in the same sequence, but, when you have passed the treble, raur next dodge will be in accordance with the tables given above, whichever way you are going.
There is nucther way of ringing it which may help you. May we put it in rather unorthodox style and say ' You do something and miss something alternately'? The 'sometling' may be a place or a dodge, and we put it in this form to save a confrision of terms.

Think of the method in terms of 1-2, 3-4, 5-6, 6-5, 4-3. 2-1. If you dadge in 3-4, yout do nothing in 5-5; then dodge in 6-5, do nothing in 4-3: dotge in 2-1, do nothing in 1-2: dodge in 3-4, do nothing in 5-6. Then you find you pass the treble; therefore, make 5 th's and lie a whole pult, which is equivalent to doing hothing in $6-5$, dodge in $4-3$, do mothing in 2-1, dodge in 1-2, do nothing in 3-4, dodge in $5-6$, do nothing in 6-5, dodge in 3-4, do nothing in 2-1. Then you will pass the treble in 1-2 nind have to make 2nd's and lead. Whether, after rloing nothing in 2-1 or in 5-6. you have to dodge or make a place (2nd's or 5th's) will be decided by whether or not you inmediately pass the treble.

We have not given the figures of the methods. You can work then out for yourselves.
The conductor can call his bobs jn the Reverse method, when the treble is lochind. That causes the bell passing the treble in 54 to make 3rd's and hunt up, the hell that would liave mate 5th's to luut straight down, and the hell that would heve dodged in 54 not to rum straigfit up and turn the treble from belind. If this is done the ordinary calling for 720 's can be applied.

In Donble Toh the lobs are called when the treble is in front, exactly as in Bof Minor. There are eertain differences in some of the

Mr. E. G. Hitgin, who met the band at the tower, extended a warm welcome. Back across these hillocks tia Great Hampder and Princes Risborourb, Watlington was reaclied at 4.15. Mr. W. Lock kindly met the visitors. Following tea at Messra. Palmer's Restaurent, the sociefy had their second anmual practice on ten bells at St. Helen's Church (tenor 20 cwt ), where a couple of courses of Grandsire Caters and one of (look out for brickbats!) Plain Bob Cater's were rungNettlebed was reached at 8.15 p .m., and at this tower Mr. J. (Gunboat) Smith was ready and waiting, so touches in varions Minor methods were rung, including 'laminated,' on this landy liftle six. This completed the ringing portion of the programme, and the younger mombers are to be congratulated an the way in which they handled the heary end. The only fly in the ointment was the weather, for the routc taken passes throngh some fne scenery, which was absolutely blotted out by incessant downtraars, but ever that could not disconrag $\Rightarrow$ these young bloods, as, with an expert accowlion player (one of the society) aboard, e continuous concert was carried onf from time of departirre till the hour of refurn. The coach, as on previous occasions, was lined with Ernit, erisps, bisctits, "pop' and 'grown-up pop, and a word of thanks shonld be given to the captain (Mr. (B. W. Jitminer) for the way he gees the wants (which ase many) of everyone supplied. Headquarters wis reached ahout, $10.15 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. everyone having been safely deposited at then own door. Phanks are extended to all streeplekeepers for meeting the society and to all incumbents for so readily granting the necescary permission to use the bells. G. G.

THE SOMERSET TOUR

LOST PEALS.

Mr. Wilfred Williams writes to correct a wiong impression given about the Somerset taur. There was no peal fixed up for the first Saturday, the Sunday attemptr was at Clevedon and stand had to band being unable to continue. There were two attempts on each of the following davs, except the last Saturdsy, when there was only one. Three of these efforts were nbandoned, after about au honr in each case, owing to sonie of the bells requiring a lot of luard work. Glastonbury was another tower at which ringing took place, and there was plenty of spare time to visit, in addition to the places already mentioned. Downside ibbey, Wells Cathedral, Cheddar Gorge and caves and Wookey Hole.

INCALCULABLE SERVICE.

The passing of the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, president of Cambridge University Guild, has taken from our midst one who bas done, in a quiet, unobtrusive manner, incalculable service to the Exercise. Except during the three years that he occupied the distinguished position of president of the Central Council, to which he succeeded after the death of Sir Arthur Heywood, Mr. Boughey tras seidom a conspicuous figure in the Exercise, but his influence has spread to almost every corner of it. His work was mostly done in the seclusion of his own rooms at Trinity College, Cambridge, where year after year he interested young undergraduates in the art of ringing, instructed and encouraged them in their practice. Afterwards these young men went out to become leaders in the Exercise and to hold responsible office in many of the principal ringing organisations.
Cambridge University Guild, of which he was the president from its first year, owed its very existence at times to his stedfast and persistent work, for the conditions of University life make the maintenance of the Guild no easy matter. There is, however, no organisation which has indirectly contributed so much to the advance and benefit of the Exercise and the promotion of the art. The extensive influence of the Guild is shown by the fact that it has provided three of the four presidents of the Central Council, all three librarians, and the presidents, masters or secretaries of a dozen or more associations. Many who subsequently have joined the ranks of the clergy graduated in ringing through the Guild, while others, going out from Cambridge to other spheres of life, have been among the keenest promoters of the art. All of these have come under the influence of the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, and many of them he taught, guided and inspired.
Of Mr. Boughey's scholarly attainments, his manysided interests in the life of the University it is not for us here to speak, but many ringers, apart from members of the University Guild who held him in affectionate regard, have enjoyed contact with his sunny personality and genial nature. He triumphed over physical infirmity. He could capture friendship with his smile. Age had laid him aside from recent participation in the pursuit he loved so well, but it failed to dim his interest. He has passed from us, fuil of years, but his great contribution to ringing will go down through the generations. His opportunities were, perhaps, unique, but in face of many disappointments, one less enthusiastic and determined than he might have been tempted at times to give up in despair. He has been the centre round which (Continued on page 638.)

MORE TRIPL3S

While tho Bob Minor ringers are manng up theis minds to dupart from the lut into mhich they have got, and are studying the other ways of ringing the same method, that is by reverging or doubling it, as we described last week, Iet us turn to something fresh tor the ringers of Grandsire 'Criples. Not that we have not already given in this colums sufficient material for those, who desire to lanuch out, to ring something fresh. In May and June, for instance, we explained Oxford Bob, St. Clement's and Court Bob Triples, and those articles are still available.
All these methods lave another bell in the bunt with the freble and, being pure triples metlods, have place-making only in 3rd's or 5th's.
For instance, Oxford Bob, in addition to the 3rd's place which makes the Grandsire method, has 5th's place nade twice in each lead, one immediately before the treble leads and the other inmediately after the bell in the hint has led. These two places are joined by a single dodge in 4-5.

Now this method can be rumg in a double from, and the name is Double Oxford Bob. In addition to the places made in tho single version when the troble is in front, sifnilar places, in relation to the back, are made when the treble is behind.
Thus, after the treble has laid its whole pull behind Eth's is made (3rd's place from the back corlespondiug with 3ri's [rom the front). Further, immediately before the treble lays its whole pull belind and immediately after the bell in the hunt has laid its whole pull behind, 3ed's place is made (5th's places from the back, eorresponding with the Sth's places frous the front)
A methor very similar in construction is Hereway Boh. It is the same as Double Oxford, but with the omission uf the 5tis place made after the treble lias laid its whole pull behind

You will probably find it easier to go from Oxfurd 13ob, if you have learnt jt, to Hereward, than to Donble Oxford, because in this latter tho place-making when the trelale is belincl compels dodging in 34 and I-2, as well as in $4-5$ and 6-7 wheu the treble is in front. We will, therefore, leave Double Oxford for the moment to those ringerg who woulth care to make a study of it fos themsulves, the roal purpose of introducing it here being for constructive ilhustration.
Let us lurn to Hereward. A table of the method constructed from passing the trehle may be set ont in the following odder

Pass treble

1-2 make 3 ra's and lear
 make 5 thr's, dorlge 5-4 (tiown), dodge 2-1 (down) and 1-2 (10p). (up), make 5 th's and 3 וd's.
$\begin{array}{ll}2-3 & \text { dodge } 4-5 \text { (uph, make 5th's and 3rd's. } \\ 5-6 & \text { three putl dodge in } 7-6 \text { (down), dodge } 2-1 \text { (down }) ~\end{array}$
You will probably see the method felder if you will write out the full course of five leals and make a diagram by drawing a line from top to botfous througls the jrath of ane of line working bells,
A bob in Hereward is unade as in Gratndsive, ly the boll in the hurat double dodging in 54 (down), while the hell that arasges the treble in 2.3 makes $3 u^{\prime} d^{\prime} s$ and goes into tho litut. The bell making 3 rd 's, after passing treble in $1-2$, and the two hells dodying behiad are unaffected. The lell that passes the troble in $3-4$ doublo dodges in $4-5$ up before making 5this and 3rd's and passing the trelile in 5-6 A toath of 168 caln bo got lyy calling Mindile, 隹cfore, Tight. (or at the 1st, 3rd and 4 th leads of the course) thee tinmes. A longer louch of 378 is prodnced by calling M. 3. R. R., three times.

BELLS OF ST. MICHAEL'S, GLOUCESTER

CURFEW RUNG FOR NEARLY A ITHOUSAND YEARS.
In the towor of a Gloucester chutch, from which for nearly 1,000 yeara the enrfow has beer souldod and many important historical nvents have been proclaimed, the bells rang oub joyously once more after a lolsg silonce on Suaday, September 20 th.
The harmonions sounds sigualised an event in the history of st. Wichat's Chureh-the rededication, following their restoration, of the line peal of tell bells in the embattled tower by the Arehdeacon of (iloucester (Ven. A. J. Hodson). Some of the bells are over 250 years old, und most of then bear inseriptions indicative of the loyal sentiments of the citizens and of loual patriotism.
For a long time it was realised that the bells deedel attention, and recently 1 ho advice of Messrs, Gillett and Johnston, of Cloydon, was obtained, following which it was decided to undertake their restoration. The ten bells, the benor of which weighs a ton, were 1 horoughy overlanaled and the upper tier of the framework was ontirely rebuilt, thus materially redineing the strain that was formerly imposed upon the ancient tower when the firll preal was being swuthg.
The bells are of varyiute atges. The two oldest, Nos. 5 and 6 , were rast in 1867. Next come Nos. 1,7 and 9 , cast by the famons Gloucester belfounder, Abel Rudhall, in 1703 and 1705 . No. 8 is another Rudhalt product, enst in 1770 . Then come the more modern bells-the tonar, 1872; Nos. 3 and 4, the Juthilee lyells of 1887: :tmd No. 2, the sift of Mayor Estcont of Gloumester in 1898 . On No. 1 is inscribed, ${ }^{?}$ Prosprity to the Cily of Glouccoter.' No. 7 says, 'God save Queen Aun.' No. 8 wishes "Irosperity to Gloncester: and all our benefactors."
Many parishioners and others interested attended the redediestion Eervice, which was conhucted ly the Rector (the Rev. E. O. Prichard); Fullowing the simging of the hymm, "Thy hand, O God, has guided, prayers ath the chanting af the psalur, 0 praise the Lord of Henven," the Arclideacon, ascumpanied by the Reclor, curate and choir, procecded to the belfry, where the first maned, laying his liands upar one of the bell ropes, rededicated the bells to the glory of hod. Prayers lor the ringers and others [ollowed, after which a short 'peal' was ring on tho hells.
An address was given lyy the Arelideacon, who observed that Qloucester and Glonestershire people ahove all others ought, in his fiew, to love hells and bollinging, because the eity at one thme supplied most of the loells which hurig in the steeples of the churches in Englant. Mosl of them were faniliar with thie natues of Purdte and Rudhall, whose hells were fimed throughout the courtry and whose tobll foundries were in the tity. He believed there ware someUaing like 4,000 and 5,000 Ratilanll hells langing in different stepples in Eughan, while it was tha stepples and bells dotted all over the counhryside of thati cunnty which sirrely gave rise to the old saying, Aa sure as forl's in Cloucestershire.

Belluinginte procedad the Areladencona
, was a great art as wetl as a greal mystery. hrieen, it is une of the lew hatural artis of the countryside whin still sumive woday, he observed, The atd mentalists and antiquarians, T know, try to revive them and call them folk dancing and folk hasic-whadever that may mean-but bellfinging is an att which has been handed on untonched and unspoilt by generations of bellyingers.
Change ringing ou hells was, of contrse, quite peculiar to the Jngligh poopie, for in loreign countries they were content to ring their bells ly mechunical means, earilions and the like. 'liney rejoiced to-day to think how the interest, in hellinging was reviving. At Sto. Michacl's they had tano of the lyest peals in floucestershire and the hells sent ont their message for all to hear from the vesy heart of the eity.
Te had learnl rron the Ructor that there were ariginally six bells in the peal whith cerlainly went back to the time of Edward the Confessor, huf, had situce lieen jecast. Thaee others wele added as mivate gifts, and the truth hell was formerly the fire bell at the old Folacy. Tho hells had been rumg to marle many important historical ovonts, and lhre thirch remords showed that they were soumded to mark the manringe of Plilip of Spais and Quecr Mary in 1554, the tofeat of the Arunda $\mathrm{i}_{\text {u }} 1588$, the vesteration of the Monarely at the time of Charles 11, in 1660. and, entiously enongh, they wero also risg at the Proclamalion, only seven years before, of Cramwell as Protector. Another intoresting pact was that the culfew had boen ung from the chatch tower for nenrly 1,000 years.

- We may lenur a lot of history from the hels tip and down the country, conelided the Arelkdencon, 'but it is their message 1 want you to think shont. They call you to worship; they ring out the rood news of the fospels at the grent festivals: they ring for thie wedded and ralry a messnge to the sick, while the passing lell bids us pray for the dying, at: the same time assuring us of the fife boyond the grave. Yos, above all the noise of the world-and it is woisy in these days-wo want la keep the music of onn bells.'
The gerviet conelhalen with the lyman, 'When morning gilds the skies, and the Blessing, pronomed by fi.he Rector.

BIRMINGHAM'S OLDEST RINGER DEAD

TAUGHT BY WILLIAM CHATTILL SLXTY YEARS AGO.
We regret to record the death of the oldeat ringer in Birmingham. After a long illness, Mr. Robert James Hunt passed away at his home in Lea Bank Road, Edgbaston, on September 18th, at the age oll 84 yeara.
Bob Hunt, as he was always familiarly called, wes taught to ring 60 years ago at St. Philip's Church, now the Gathedral, by the late William Chattell. After Chattell's death he succeeded to the beadership of the company. He was an excellent ringer and conductor and had rung many peals in the four standard methods both ou tower and handbells.
He rang a pail of bells to the then longest length of Stedman Caters in hand, 8,888, yung at Aston, conductee by Bernard Witchell. En was also in the frist performance on hamdluolls of Carter's odd-boh peal of Stedman Triples. livevionsly in 1850 he rang in a peal of 8,720 of Major double-handed.

A REMINISCENCE.

Mr. 'Tom Miller, mother of Birmigham's veterans, who kmew Bols Hunt all his ringing life, tells us an amosing incident of their early ringing days logether, In 1878 the then Chief Constalle of Birmingham married a dauthter of Canou Balby, of St. Philip's Church. The bells were rung for the occasion, and, of course, it was "a paid job.
'I was one of the ringers,' says Mr. Mitler, 'and we weut for Helt's ten-part peal. After over au hour's ringing there was a stop. The same thing lapppened again, but we started once more and rang the peal in 3 hours and 16 minntes.

Afterwards we went to the usiral meeting house, and in came John Bauster. Jin Finton, who was also in the riuging, asked Banister what le thonght of the liakl-eamed peal. The reply from Banister was that there lad heen no peal rung, to which Fintos made a rough reply.
mather dropped cor a guarter of an hour or so, and then Finton brought it up again, so Banister asked, "Who called the pealp" "Bob Funt answered, "I did." Then Banister told him that he called the bell in the sevcuth part of the peal only three instead of fonl times, before. So, after all, there was 110 peal got,"
The funcral service took place at thie Exgbastion old Church. Canon Blofeld conducted the service, and there was a representative gathering. inchding many pmployes, the deceased laving been inn business as an iranfounder (R. J. Hunt and Son, Ltd., jronfounders Lifford Foundry). Whe St, Martin's (Guild was represented by Wesses E. 'T. Allaway, G. E. Fearn, Tom Miller, H. Withers and A. Walker At the end of the serwice a course of Triples was rung in the church or handbells, and tile cortege then proceeded to Perry Barr Orematorium.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATON

A quarterly meeting of the Swindon Branch of the Gloncester aud Bristol Diocesan Association was held at Ettraton St. Margaret oll Satirday, September 26th, with a rather poor abtendance. The ringing uhaniber is, owing to the cirenmstances of the tows on the fround roor, and the rhaft of rope is exceedingly long. All those who were privileged to try the bells, however, were entirely satisfied with the "go' of the peal aud the results of Messers. Gillelt and Johnston's work.
When St. Michael's bells were atugmented to eight, the hrothers H. Law James and E. Bralees James, whose father was Rector, formed a band of young ringers, and St. Nichacl's Junime (Gloucestey) was founded on Soptember 6t 1,1887 . ## A DISTRICT SECRETARY'S THREAT

HOD IN PICKLE FOR GUILDFORD MEMBERS
The meeting of the Guildford District of the Guildford Dioceran Guild at Ockham afforded ample proof that a meeting at a five-bell tower can, when enterprise is the driving force, be made a very interesting and enjoyable event.
The Parisk Church at Ockham, where hangs a light peal of five recently restored and rehung on hall bearings, was awarded ita first district meeting on Saturday
Unfortunately, the district members chose the very curious method of stopping away an a means of marking their interest in thia "red letter day.' Only six were present and only one tower (Holy Trinity) was really represented, as the other district members consiated of the Master, an unattached life momber and the district secretery.
The situation was, however, saved aud the proceeding very much enlivened by the attendance of youth and beauty, ege and experience from Cobham, Fillingdon, Uxbrikge and Alderghot.
The Rector (the Rev. W. Lorimer W. Kitching) conducted the uaual service, and, after tea in the Parish Room, the Master preeided at the business meeting.
One nev member was eleuted, and it whs decided to rearrange the date of the next district meeting, as the one originaly fixed, namaly, November 14th, clashed with the annual dinner of the Ancient Bociety of College Youths.
In the tower the well-known stack methods of Grandsire and Stedman were placed on the Ehelf, and among other efforts the party explored the mysteries of St. Simon's and New Doubles, Stedman's Glow Courge, Bob Singles for the two local men present (who rang it from boards and did not recognise the method by name or tho path of their helle by the time-honoured expressions), Treble Bob Singles, in which avary courso end was as false as the plain courge iteelf; Stedman Singles, which has rather too meny blows behind ever to find ita way into even the most enlightened metiods committee's collection of mothods, and one very special arrangement believed to have been compored by Edne specially for the meetimg and rajoicing in the name of Bedford Treble Bob Surprise Doublea
The composer is confident that after careful research the foll extent of this musical Iragterpiece will be produced and the practical ringing should not prove difficult to a band sufficiently expert to ewitch them over if rounds look like coming up in the midale.
The district secretary promises that on the presentation of hia annual report he will give the district members the treat of listenimg to a further reference to this district meeting, and slthough by that time the run will have gone down upon his wrath several thos, thew nre not lirely to be many bouquets landed out to them in respect of it.

A liand met short " for Maximus at St. Seviour's Gathedral, Bouthwark, on Saturday, and liad to fall back on Stedman Catera.
One frequently lears of an exchange of hats after a viait to a belfry, but at a recent, Lincolnshire meeting there was an exchange of coats, which was not discovered by the "culprit, until he was in the train on his way to Grimsby, where he was staying. He mede the discovery when feeling in the pockets for his tobacco! Horror of horrors! His tobecco was rot there. Neither was his wallet and money!
Ho clared not tell his wife, whe was with him-strange that women' eyes did not detect the strange coat-but the cat was out of the bag when lie 'borrowed' a pipeful of tobaceo from lis bost and the lady wanted to know whecher he had smoked an aunce of tobacco since morning!
Three ringers missed the service ringing next dey. One bad no conti, one travelled from Grimaly to Bighy to restore the "stolen" article (whose owner had been jdentified); the owner travelled from Bigby to Grizasby to do likewise with the garment that had been left in exchange. What a LaddI

TWO WONDERFUL JOBS.

BELL FOUNDERS' SUCGESSFUL WORE.
A few months ago the Liehfield Oathedral ringers were invited by the Viear of St. Chad's, Lichfeld (the Rev. Cousmaker) to ring and report on the 'go' of the tun bells which ha recently been rehuny in the very old frame in that tower. The ringera, who previous to the rehanging had thought it almost impossible to rehang the bells in such zu ancient frame, hed to roport that the 'go' left nothing to be desired, and, after examining the rehanging, they declared the job little short of wonderful.
It had been found impossible to raise sufficient money to have a oew frame installed, and the balls had been nuringable for some time, until it was finally decided to entrusf the rehanging in the old Frame to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of the Whitechapel Foundry, and hope for the best as to suffient funds being raised.
The result was so satisfactory that the Rev. Bigott, Vicar of Longdon, a village some three miles from Lichfeld, where the peal of five bells was in a wotre condition than St. Chad's, and where the church suffered in a like manger from lack of funds, was perbueded by Mr. F. Cope, captain of the Cathedral ringers, to entrust the job of rehanging to the same firm, and also to hope for tike beat witl regard to the money being raised.

The result was an invitation on September 10th to Messrs. F. Gope, A. Bowler, sell, and jum, W. Cope and F. Sedgwick, of the Cathedra bend, to the reopening ceremouy at Longdon, which was performed by the Fen. Arolydeacon Hodgsou, of Licnfield.
After the ringing and inspection of the bells, the ringers declared that again a wonderful job had been made of the rehangirg, and the 'go' left nothing to be desired.
The Vicar invited the rimgers to partake of refrestmeate. and at the gathering in The Swan the ringers wexe thanked by the Vicar for their assistance. He stated he was pleased to announce that the money for the restoration had all been raised
