Helthan were, therefore, declared winners, and the cup was pre sented to the Mrelthem conductor (Mr. E. Whiteley) by the Rev. Murray Smith.

Further ringing on the bells brought another enjoyable dny to an nd.

HOLIDAY GAPS

To the Editor.
Sir,-The question of low to gel sutheient ringers to man the ropes on the occasions of the greaf testivals of the Church must be one wlich exercises the minds of most tower foremen. It is natural that ringers, in comman with the rest of the phblic, should wish to make mse of the holidays at Christuns, Easter aud Whitsun, but the iamentable consit is that, just at the sasons when it is most important for our ringing to be at its best, it is usually at its very worst It is most probable that in all large towns aud villages, for every inger who goes away from the pince for his holiday, rome other ringer comes there for his holiday, and surely it would not be too much to expect that all ringers when going on holiday should reciprocate by moing to one of the local charches and offering to help with the riaging. If such a procedure was carried into effect, there would be but few silent or partly maned towers on thege festjon]s. I wonld Eaggest thet much might be done by the various assaciafons to foster this apirit of reciprocity, and a few words from tower foremen shottly before a festival might also serve as a timely reminder to the forgetfil. There are few ringers who wolld not he willing to follow a lead in the direction which I lave sketched, if it was pointed out to them.

Goring-on-Themes.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMA. FOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

NAMING SURPRISE METHODS.

The new Council, which meets at Westminster on Tuesday, will be confronted with a long agenda of, mostly, routine business, but it is not unlikely that out of one or more of the reports of committees may come a subject leading to debate. In the past reports have often provided unexpected discussions, and there will probably be some such debates arising from them this year. Indeed, after what transpired at Leeds last Whitsun, it will be rather surprising if the report of the Methods Committee-often a good fighting ground-does not lead to discussion, particularly on the question of whether or not names shall be given to the methods still unrung, which are to find a place in the new Surprise Major book. A decision will have to be taken as to whether the book shall be printed and issued this year; but that is a matter which rests directly upon the Council and not upon the committee.

It will be remembered that, in view of the cost which is involved, the Council approached the various affiliated associations, asking if they would be prepared to guarantee, in proportion to their representation on the Council, one-half of the cost of publication in return for an equivalent number of copies of the book. As far as we are aware, every association that has replied, except Bedfordshire, has expressed its willingness to undertake this responsibility, although, in view of the ultimate price and the likely demand, the actual liability upon the associations will be very light, if indeed there is any at all. There is little dqubt, therefore, that the Council will go forward with the publication of the book, which, in its completeness, will be the mosi ambitious that the Council has yet undertaken.

But there is likely to be at issue the question of the method names, for, while the committee have given a name to all the methods in the book which up to now have not been rung, there are some people who still cling to the old idea that the band that rings the first peal in a method should have the right to name it. That view is all very well for methods that are rung before they are published, but there is no reason why it should prevail where methods have been printed, particularly in an official publication. Apart from any question of the right which those who produce the figures may have to name their own handiwork, there is one very serious and practical reason against leaving methods nameless in the book. After publication, an unnamed method may be rung and named by the ringers. In course of time, especialiy in view of the fact that a band so often ring a method once and discard it, the association of the name (Continued on page 330.)

with particular fgures may be forgottern and someone else may ring the same method and give it yet another title. Thus the confusion which arose over the Minor methods would be repeated, and a great deal of the value of the book would be lost because, without the names as they are added it would be out of date almost as soon as published. There would still be opportunity for those who wish to name a method to do so, for the methods in the book are only a selection, and there are hundreds still outside it. Indeed, we believe, many of the methods recently rung in Hertfordshire are not included. There can, thercfore, be no rround for complaint on this score, and none has ever been made about the naming of the methods in the Plain Major collection. Utility and common sense seem to dictate that the names in this new book should also be settled before publication.

PEAL NOTES.

LADY'S PLUCKY EFFORT

The peal of Kent Treble Bob an Sonthwoid, Suffolk, was the liret peal in that tower for the Suffolk Guild since 1924. For its suscess great credit must \}e given to Miss D, I . Constance for the way elie kept her bell going. About half of the pesl bsd been rung when her bell, the 3rd, becane "a man's job' owing to defect in the lubricaiops. Then after two and a half fours the bell was going so budly that Miss Canstance chauged ropes with Mr. E. R. Goate. The elrange was made perfecty and the peal completed. The peal was rung ou May 16th.
The first peal of Bub Royal on the bells at Chester Cathedral was rung on May $13 t^{\circ}$ and was splendidly struck without a siagle trip from beginning to end. Mr. James Swiudley, who took part, was also in the first peal of Bob Major on the bells, which incitentally wes the first peal of Major in the city of Chester, in 1896. The peal of Eoya! was the 50th peal by both Fred Hartmen and J. W. Grifths. was the soth peal by both Ered Fartmas and J. W. Grim ins. the first altempt on May 17 th , when seren 720 's of Bob Minor were brought round. One of them, Peter Davy, is only 16 years of age. Three others of the band rang their first peal of Bob Minor, wif. J. S. Goldsmith after 46 years of peal ringing. It was his 450 th peal.
A new keenness has grown up in the Bramley band since a recent reorganisation. The hon. secretary; Mr. C. M. Marlin, sat in the tower throughout the peal to watch the ringing, and there would have been a third local man in the penl but for the unfortamate fact that he had to go inko lespital.
The peal of Yorkghire 太urprise at Fexley on May 15th was the first in the methed on the helle, which were augmented 13 monthe ago. Mr. H. A. Holden, who is teaching a band of yourg ringers at Bexley, was unable to stand in the peal owing to jndisposition, out one of his pupils, Alan Eall, deputised for him and rang the treble to lis second peal in a most capable manner

A peal of Superlative Surprise Maximus, rung by a band of Sunduy service ringers at St. Mary-le-Tower, fpswich, an Saturaay, was called by Miss Sylvia Bowyer, who is the first lady to call a peal of Maximus in this method

TWENTY SIX SURPRISE METHODS.
There were two new Surplise methods rung on Saturday, ane by the Oxford Guild at Warftel, Berks, and the other by the Hartford Assciation at Aldenhem. The former aamed their method after the place where they rang it ; the latter called theirs Wallasey. In each case the peal was rung without previous practice
Tho Fertford County Association also scored another 'first' on Saturday, when a peal of St. Clement's Bob Major, the first by the assaciation, was rung at Baldock as a compliment to the new president, Mr. Arthur Day, It. was also the first peal in the juethod by all the ringers except the conductor, Mr. G. W. Debenluam.
Mr Leonard Stilwoll, of Windsor, rang his W0th peal when lae conducted the first peal of Warfield Surprise Major, and he has now rang a pea! in a different Surprise method on each bell in the tower. It was the 26 th Surprise Major method which Mr. Stilwell has rang, and, curiously enough, Me. W. Welling, who also took part, las rugg peals in the sanae 26 methode. Mr. Stuwell's peals include 63 of Minor in one to twelve methods, 53 of Triples in four methods, 111 of Major in 32 methods, Grandsire and Stedınan Caters and Cinques, Plain Bob and Cambridge Royal and Kent Maximas
They also inelude non-conducted peals of Stedman Triples, and Cambridge, Superlatire and Yorkshire Surpriso Major, as well as the first peals aver ruag in 14 of the Surprise 基ajor methods. The peals have been rung in 74 towers for 10 associatioas and with 313 ringers.
To celebrate the recent addition of the trehle at Willingdon, Sussex a village adjoining Fasthourne, which was the home of Lord Willing don, whe has been both Govemnor General of Canada and Ficeroy of India, a peal of Doubles was rung on May 10th. Mr. Jesse Willoughby, the local captain, bravely stood in at short notice to riss the tenor. He had never previously rung for longer tham half an hour or covered mure than a few courses of Grandsire. Despite his state ment afterwards that he "kept hehind more by luck than anything else, he put up a lighly creditable performance. It whs the firs peal ever rung at Willingdon.
After meeting short for Gendsire Triples at Mayidid, Sussex, on May 10th, a peal of Grandsire Donbleg was rung.
The Cambridge University Guild's peal of Bob Major on May 14th was the first peal rung on the Guild's handbells since their recent renovation, which was carried out with the surplus of the noney subscribed by members for the erection of & memorial tablet to the Rev. A. H. F. Bougher, late president of the Gaild.

FORTY FEARS OF PEAL RINGING
The peal at Crayford to celebrate the 40 th anniversary of Mr. E Barnett's 'first ' would have bem rung on the actal date (May 18th) but for the fact that this was Ascension Day. Mr. Barnett is by no means a "veteran:" but only Mr. TY. Groombridge, sen., of the re mainder of Friday's band, was alive when the original peal was rung Messrs. L. H. Lock and W. A. Lock rang their first peal of Super lative at the first attempt on Sunctay, May 14th, at Diss, Norfolk On the previous day they rang their first peal of Cambridge Major at the first attempt.
Messrs Williami Symonds and Ernest Salmons rang their 25th peal together on May 13th, when they took part in a peal of Bob Minor at Abberdore, Herefordshire.

A great searching of the archives has revealed that the peal of Superiative at, Berkenhan on April 27th whs the 250th peal of Mr. Harry Hosking, the verantile Greenwich 'youngater."
A peal of Stedman Oinques at Southwark on Saturdny was arratged for 4 band of Calloge Fouths. One of them, however, failed to put in an appearance, and Mrs. R. F. Deal kiadly agreed to stand in, and the peal, therefore, was rung for the Kent Connty Association.

Mr. George H. Cross, Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths, celebrated the zeh anniversary of his first peal as conductor by calling e peal of Superlative for the society at Erth on May 20th.

The peal was also rung as a birthday compliment to Miss Rita Callum, and in honour of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bailey, and a grandson to Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Symonds. Alan Ball, who rang his first peal, is only 13 years of age.

Mr. Raiph Bird has twice "circlea' ' the sir bells at Stisted, Essex, and has called a peal from each bell. He fivished this on May 14th when he called is peal of Netherseale Sutprise Minor, the first in the method by all and by the Essez Association. It was rung without previous practice.

FOUETEFN-YEAE-OLD GITL'S ACHIEVEMENT
Miss Dorathy Rattie, of Bebington, Cheshire, who is only 14 years of ege, got lier first peal on May $13 t h$, when she rang an 'inside' bell to seven finor methods, including four Surprise. Sha had never previously rung a 700 of Oxiord Bob, Kept Treble Bob, York or Beverley Surprise. It is a performance of which she may well be proud. Derek Parry rang his first peal at the samo time, and it was the first attempt by them both. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Battle kindly entertained the ringers to tea after the peal.

As far as we can recall, it must be many years since a landbell peal Was reworded by the Sussex Association, but on May $14 t h$ e peal of Bob Minor was rung 'in hand' at West Grinstead, and jt was no mean perinomance that Mr. Edgar Repley rang his first peal as conductor when be called it from the middle pair.

A peal in two methods of Doubles, arranged to enable Messrs. A. A. Priday and A. J. Owen, of the local band, io ring their first peal, was Bcored at Aymestrey, Herefordshire, on Sundey, May 14th. Afterwards the ringers were entertained to tea by the Rev, G. R. M. and Mrs. Eiltwood.

Mr. W. R. Melville, formerly of Guildford, but who now lives at King's Worthy, Hants, rang his 250th peal on May I5th at Barton Ftacey, When he took part in geven 780 's of Boh Minor. Before going into retirement, Mr. Melville put in many years of valuable work for ringing in the Guildford area, first under the ofd Winchester Diocesan Guild, and, after the division of the diocese, for the gew Guildford Dioceran Guild.

The peal of Ashtead Siurprise rung at Wrmondham on April Z2nd was 5,184 changes in length (not 5,088 as priated), and the ringer of the Gth wes Thomas H. Frincis, of Chibwick, formerty of Paston, Norfalk.
The peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Leytonstone, Essex, on May 15 h . was rung as a birthday compliment to the conductor (Mr. Alfred Prior) and to Messrs. Prior anc Dewson on their retirement after completion of 50 years in the service of the L.N.E.R.
On May 13th, a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Christ Church, Tunstall, Stafis, in hocour of the centenary of the Parochial Selhoots. The old schools were opened in King Street on May 2nd, 1839, and a very important educational work has been carrien on iz the parish through the schools since that date. The centenary bas been obserped as fully as the occastion demanded and the special peal fittingly rang out the messege which the schools have been commissioned to teach for the past century. The church authorities are most grateful to the ringers ancerned, and the band thank Mr. W. Thompson for preparme the bells for them
The peal was Mr. G. H. Page's 100th for the North Stafiordshire Association and was also a bribtay compliment to the conductor, Mr. D. F. Whalley.

A PEAR ON DOOR BELLS.

After calling a peal of spliced London, Bristot, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major on handbells on May 12th, Mr. Harold Cashmofe rang his fisst peal of Grandsite Triples two days later 1 And he rang it on door bells.
Not that the ringers went round the streets pulling knobs and running away like mischievous boys. The door bells bad been tuned and fitted by Mr. Thomas Male, of Warwick. The band sat down in the Masonic Junior School at Bushey and rang the peal.
Until last. Saturday week no peal of Oxford Treble Bob Foyal had been rung in Slropshire since that at St. Mary's, Shrewsbury, on Febriary 17th, 1813. One has now been rung at Coalbrookdale for the Shropshire Association.
Three old and well-seasoned ringers of Eolloway (Messrs. T. Bevan, G. Charge and A. Turner) rang their frst peal of Minor on May 13th, When, in honour of the wedding of Miss Doris Barker, danghter of Mr. Ir. A. Barker, at Finchley on May 6th, they rang in a peal of Eoh Minor at Wood Greetl, Middlesex. Althaugh he lives not far away, it is 30 years gince Mr. Albert Turrer rang in Wood Grean tower
Mr. Jocelyn Gardner rang his first peal in nine Minor methods on May 13 th at Buxton, Derbyshire. Prior to starbing for the pea! he had not struck a hlow in seven of thom.

Convenient trains leave Liverpoot Street at 9.30 a.m. and 5 p.m. The church is close to Leytonstone Station
Mr. E. Alex. Young, of Bromley, and formerly bou. secretary of the Central Cotncil, who is now making his way back from Sauth Africa by easy stages, bad an alarming experience recently. With Mrs. Foung and others from the ship on which he was travelling from Beira, be was returning from a visit ashore at Durban when the gangway between landing stage and ahip collapsed and Mr. Young was thrown into the water. In addition to his unexpected immersion, he suffered a sprajnod foot, and it is fortunate the results were no Worse. Mra Young had bappily reached tafety before the accident happened.
There are not many ringers who would go without bed just to ring for a Sunday morning service, but apparently Mr. Trank Hopgood, of St, Mary's, Wimbledon, doesn't mind. On Sunday he cycled 58 miles for morning ringing, and after Stedman and Bob Minor at Winslow, Bucks, cycled home the other 58 to ring at St. Mary's, Wimbledon, in a nice avening service touch. Mr. Hopgood had a disappointment tho other week, when he cycled 726 miles and found no ringing.

TECHNLCAL TERMS IN TEACHING.

To the Editor
Sir, -In reply to a letter published in last weck's issue, in which a correspondent suggesis cutting out or moderating the use of techanal terms and teaching beginners with "ordinary English," I would like to say it seems to me that these terms were evalved for simplicity, and when one tries to dispense with them, then one becomes lost in a maze of oxplanations.
Turthermore, nost of the terms used in toaching beginners are, to my mind, essential and almost explain themselves; in any case, the sooner their meanings are understood the better, for the learnar cannot hope to progress without them. Moreover, the local instructor should be able to provide answers to any questions that may be asked about them.
If an instructor is not available there bave been, from time to time, many books published and written in oxcellent English that put things very clearly and can be understood by all.

Your correspondent asks also for a ringing centre, somewhere in the country, with a hrll and bells to enable learners to pick up the finer points of the art and to discuss some of his or her difficulties with other more learned ringers. Surely such a centre as this is mneces aary, as practicea and meatjugs are arranged, both in the country and the towns, for the express purpose of helping boginners and farthering the fellowship of ringing.

CAMBRIDCE UNIVERSITY GUILD.

THE MEMOREAL TO THE REV. A. H. F. BODGHEX.
As prescribed by the rules, the annual general meeting of Cambridge Cuiversity Guild was beld towards the begimning of the present term, and the following officers for the year $1938-40$ were elected : President, the Rev. A. C. Blyth (Selwyn), re-elected; Master, T. P. Hearn (Selwyn); secretary and treasurer, R. H. Richens (Selwyn). The members appointed to serve on the Central Council are J. M. Atdins (re-elected) and the Rev. B. F. Sheppard

Durine the Christmas vacation a memorial to the jate president of the Guild was placed in the ringing chamber of St. Mary the Great, in the form of a tablet of bell-metal with the following wording: 'In memory of Anchitel Harry Fletcher Koughey, born 14th August, 1849 , died 22nd Sept., 1836, Fellow of Trinity Callege, sometime Vicar of this church, President of the Cambridge University Guild of Changs Ringers from 1879 to 1936, this tablet is arected by members of the Guild to record his long and devoted service and their personal affection and gratitude.' All who have seen it are very pleased with the way in which it has been carried out.
It had been suggested, when the memorial was proposed, that if the emount subscribed by members for its erection were mare than sufficient for the purpose, no mare fitting use corld be fornd for the surplus than that it should be spent on a much-needed renovation of the Guild's handballs, which the late president had rung to many peals. It has, accordingly, beer fomnd possible to have the set of 13 (tenor size 17 in A) thoraugily overhauled and retaned, with mont satisfactary results. The first peal on the bells since this has been done was rung on May 14 th, the compesition being that old friend "Tapetapa."
arrangements for the anmal Guild Week, which starts on the first Monday in September, are well in hand, and, as is the five-yearly custom, it is to be held this year in Cambridge.

LEADING CONDUCTORS-72

EDWIN A. BARNETT

One of the most remarkitula ringing records is that set up by Edwin A. Burnett, of Cruytord, Kent. Ringing is a natural instinct with lim, which he bas ialierited from his father and grandfather, but, even so, to have rung 340 peals in some 57 methods and extensions at the are of 20 and to have conducted 54 of them in 37 methods and extensions is an cxtraordinary performance.
Teddy $\mathrm{MI}^{\prime}$ for he is the third generation to bear the usme of Edwir, was jorn at Bexleyheath, Kent, ou October $15 t h$, 1918, but his ringine las been associated with Crayford, where he rang his first para when only eleren years old, on December 20th, 1929. He was only twelve when he conducted a peal of Kont Treble Bob Kajor, and he rang peals of Gauluridge, Superlative, London and Bristol Surprise Mrjor at the age of 13. While gtill only 13 lie called a peal of Cambridge Mujor froma working bell. This was the last peal in which liss grandfather took part and the one of wheld. out of the mang, he was most proud.
When Edwin A. was only 14 he cullerl peals of Superlative and Landon and rang in peals in four Spliced Surprise Major methorls and Cambridge Royal. At 15 ise conducten peals of Yorkshire end Pudsey, and he conducted Bristol at 17 . In all these he rans "tworking bell, while the Bristol was a composition of his own produced at tine gore of 14. Fe had alread? composed peals of Superlative at 13 and ut 17 composed and conducted one containing sever pairs of bells reversed in 5-6 at course ends, the most ob taizable and probably the first of its kind. Fis knowledge of composition he has gained thruugly the kindiness of Mr. A. G. Driver.
Among the preals which conducted been the first peals of Painswick College and Pulford Bobs, the first of Erill: Little Bob Ropal on tower bells and what was possibly the only peal of Canierbury Plessure Triples in the present century. He has caller the first peal he has rung in 20 different methods, aud of the fiftefour peals whicla he has conducted, a!! lave been different compositions ercept a parl of Doubles, in which repetition of calling was, of course, unnwoidable, and Middleton's peal of Cambridge, whigh he callod a second time on the spur of the moment when the appointed conductor did not turn up.

He took part in a peal of Hoh Major with a band of the average age of 15 , in peals of Kent Treble Rob with bands averaging 21 and 20 vears, and in a peal in four Spliced Surprise Major methods with a band whose avarage age was but 22 .
Ort of his 340 peals, 21 have been on latadbells and 318 on tower belis. 304 of the latter hasing been sight-bell peals and 137 of them et Crayfort. They have included 140 peals of Surprise in 17 3ajor methods.
During his wonderful career Edwin A. has always recelved every assistance and chconragement from his riuging friends, and warmly acknowledges fis indebtedness to them, but we would add thst nuch a career as he has cot out in ringing has bery largely due to his own intitiative and ability.

PEAL BOARD DEDICATED AT BRENTWOOD,

GONGREGATIGN SEE BELLS RUNG

On Sundey, May 14 th, at the evening service, a peaf board commemorating a peal of Kent. Treble Bob Major, rung to the memory of King George ${ }^{\text {F }}$ and also a peal of Oxford Treble Pob in honour of the Coronation of their present Majesties, was unveiled by the Vicar of Brentwood, the Rev. F. G. Balfance, B.A., in the presence of a large congregation.
The bourd, which is of polished mahogany writen in gold leaf, is hung in the porch.
In order that the congregation should see how the bells are rung, the ropes were lengthened and ringing took plece in the porch, and in spite of the length of the rope, wheh varied from 22 to 24 yards, some excellent towches in the standard methods were brought round.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

CHESTERFIELD DISTRICT RE-FORMED.

New Officers Elected.

A fery scecessful meeting of the Midland Counties Association was held on Safurday at Staveley, Derbyshire. This was a by-meeting specially arranged with the object of re-forming the Chesterfeld District, which for some time has beco in a very apathetic condition, and at the last annual meeting, failed to elect local officers. The bells of the Perish Church were at the disposal of the visitors and friends, and some very good striking was heard, methods being rung to accommodate all comers. I'ea was served in the $\mathrm{I}^{\text {rarish }} \mathrm{Hall}$ and a. company of between 30 and 40 sat down.

In the absence of the presideut (Lhe Rev. Canon H. E. Fitzherbert), who later gent a telegram apologising for unavoidalale absence, Mr. Colin Farrison (vice-president) toot the chair for the subsequent meeting. He was Eupported by Mr. W. E. White (trensurer) and Mr. Frnest Morris (gereral hon, teeretary) and menbers from Bolsover, Burton, Chesterfeld. Derby, Dore, Fokington, Handsworth, Beath, Nottingham, Old Whittington, Ripley, Spondon, Sutton-in-Ashfield, Warsop and the local company.

The Chairman first apologised for the absence of the Rector of Stavaley and welcomed the presence of both churchwardens, Mr. W. J. Kittridge (an hon, member of the assaciation for many years) aud Mr. J. W. Hudson. He explained the special object of the meeting, commenting on the fact that Staveley was one of the strongholds of the district. It was appropriate, too, that the first time he was called on to tako the chair since his appointment as vice-president it should be at Stareley, as he retained lappy memories of the three years he was secretary of Sheffeld and District Saciety, whose activities often brouglat him to that place. It was (he continued) a source of deep regeet to the oflicers of the association that the district-which, in the past, had done so much for the advancement of the art-should have lapsed in the way ft had. He recalled the many notable performances at Chesterfield under the leadership of the late Mr. A. Knights, those at Bolsover under the conductorship of 3fr. F. Flint, and the enthusiasm displeyed in the past in othre towers around. The main object of that meeting wis to try and resurrect sowe of that enthusiasm, and he reminded those present that the more ther put into the art the more they got out of il. It was a pleasant hooby that brought with it a social intercourse lar above the avrrage, and, further, it wes a work connected with the Church that they should value and uphold. He trusted the members of the district would at that meeting elect new local officors and thenceforth proceed with enthusiasm to restore the old spirit of onargy and eaterprise in the art. Eggland was how boing divided into amaller dioceses and new diocesant organisations were being formed. That district came in the Diocege of Derby and at present in tho area of ihe Midland Counties Association. Therefore, it was the duky of all members to support it.
Mr. White (hon. treasisrer) added his support to all Mr. Hartison had satd, and promised to answer any questions on administration that might arise.
Mr. Ernest Morris (general hon. secretary) said it was one of his deepest regrets that in preparing the last anmual report he had to state under Chesterfield 'no officers elected,' aud he trusted that that wotld be remedied at. that meeting, and that ther would atart anew on a phage of energetic activity. He stated that in the tlyee Leicesler districts they had most luppy meetings anra the social side reached a high standard, simply because they were fortunate enougla to have local secretaries who were keun and enterprising, and members who appreciated their work and that of the association as a whole. He saw no reason why Chesterfield should not do the same and emulate not only Leicester, but other districts who were worling mmicably and energetically.
Mr. W. J. Kittridge (churchwarden) here added a word of welcome to Staveley and saic that in ringing es well as in any other phase of bife and actirity, no progress could be made without the enthusiasm and eapport of all members concerned. He gave the nssociation good wishes for a prosperous future, especially in that district.
At this stage the Rector of Staveley (the Rev. H. ت. Dibben) arrived and was received with acclamation. He welcomed the members in a happy apeech, trusting they were having a good and prosperous meeting, and lie gave permission to all present to visit the fine gardens and grounds around the historic Hall and Rectory-
After Eurther discussion on various points, $3 f r$. F. A. Adams proposed and Mr. A. E. Parsons secondea that the Chesterfila District e revived and the election of afticers proceeded with This having been agreed to, Mr. W. T. Palmer was elected chairman, and, in taling office once more, said he din so on the understanding he received more support from the members than in the past.
Mr. S. Scattergood was elected lonal secretary and promised to do his best in that office. He arged locel mombers to rally round and have some well-attended meetings. Mr. Gordon Grahem and Mr. P. Jervis were elected commiteemey, and it is now hoped Chesterfield District will once more become a strong and forceful centre of the art. Mr. White thanked the Rector and churchwardens for their support and stated it had been a bighly succersiul and enjoyable meeting. He also thanked the ringers" wives for providing such a nice tea.

DEATH OF OLD WINCHESTER GUILD RINGER

RANG HDS ONLY PEAL AT: 76

The death of Mr. James Narris took place at hig home in Binckmoor, Hants, on May 12th. He was 84 years of age and liad anly heen land up for in few weeks. He had belonged to the Wincluester Guild for 56 years and was line second oldest member. $\mathrm{Hp}_{\mathrm{p}}$ was the tenor ringer at Blackmoor, where he had lived practically all has life. He was also the organ blower for a great number of years, He rang only one peal, and this was on May 12th, 1931, exactly eipht years before the day of his death. This peal was Grandsire Doubles, rung at his own tower in 2 hours and 45 minutes. He rang the cover bell faulelessly. Fie was then 76 years of age.
The funeral wook place at Blackmoor ot Tuesday, May 16th, the Guild boing represented by Mr. George Williams, Ringing Master. Amengst the fioral tributes were wreaths from the Alton gnd Petersfield Distrikl, Bleckmoor ringers, the choir, and the Church Council. The service was choral and the churchwardeas were present. The Vicar (the hev. F. G. Eyres) oficiated. The bells were rumg after the service by members of the local hand. By request they were balfmuffled with the tenor fully muffled.

BARNSLEY SOCIETY

WELCOMED AT HOYLANDSWATNE

The meeting of the Barnsley and District Society at Hoylandswaine on May 6th attracted members from Cawthorne, Earlsheatan, Felkirk, Penistone, Rotherham, Sadial, Silkstome, $helley and Wath. Ringing in the afternonn and tea in the Parish Room was followed by the business meeting, at which the Vicar (the Rep. H. L. Pratt) presided The Vicar expressed pleasure bhat the society had again visited Hoylandswaine and assured them of a bearty welcome at any time. He said lie was sorry that they had not now got a band of change ringers at Hoylandswaine tower, but he hoped they soon would have, as he liad been in the tower all the aftermoon and had enjoyed it rery mach.
Mr. Moxon (rice-presiderf) moved a wote of thanks to the Ficbr for the use of the bells, for presiding and for the welcome be had given, and also to the ladies for the splendid tea they land provided.
Mrs, Prstt, in reply, sadd the ladies had enjoyed alif they had domo and only loped that next time the ringers came they would bring their lady partners with them.

\section*{MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCYATION

BELLS AND PLANES

BELLS AND PLANES

A very succesgful meetivg of the South and West District of the Middlasex County Associetion was held at Feitham on Saturday, May 20th. A pleasant charge in the weather added to the enjoymert, and those present derived additienal entertainment in watching lihe antics of a מumber of planes from aearby aerodromes, who were apparently cngaged in a compatition to see how near they could get to the churcu spire without actually bringing it down-it being Empire Air Dag. About 30 ringers, including a mumber of ladies, and the promising young learners at Feltham, ware present, and some very enjoyable ringing was accomplished. Towers or districts represented were Feddington, Croydon, Ealing (Christ Church, St. Mary's and St. Stephen's). Feltham, Heston, Hillingdon (St. John's), Kjugston-onThames, Prittewell, Ruislip, Sunbury-on-Thames, Steines and Cwickenham. Thz methods rung, under the sapervision of Messrs. W. H. Coles and G. H. Kilby, were Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plan Bob and Doubla Norwich Major, and Cambridge, Superlative and Lovdon Surprise Major, with plenty of rounds for the learners, the bella being kept going from 3 to $8.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. with an interval for tea.
During the avening, owing to the kinduess of Mr. Tony Price, who placed' his car at visitors' dispessal, a visit whs paid to Bedfout, where about an hour's ringing was indulged in ou the musical but very nolsy peal of six; Graudsire Doubles, Plain Bob, Double Court and Canrbridge being rang, with again rounds for the learners. This benutiful little shurch, with its Sxxon and Norman work, its wooden bell-cote and very noisy but musical bells, set on the edge of a pretty village sreen, at the side of the busy Staines Fond, seened an ideal place for a little eveniag ringiag, and the vigit was greatly eajojed.
Fea and a short bugmess meeting wera beld at tlie lreltham Hotel and were onliveaed by a series of shattering rours froma number of Westland Lysanders doing a bit ol' hedge-hopping near'by.
The next meeting was fixed for sumbiry-on-Thames on dune 24 th
A bearty vote of thanks to the local authorities, and especially to Mr. Tony Price for bis kindress, was carried with acclamation, ft beime noted with pleasure that he itas succeeded in getting Felthan bells going again after a long silence, and that among the promising band he is getting together are Mrs. Price and other members of his family.

MDD-WTEK MEFTING HO BE HELD.

A meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was beld at Earrow Weald on Sakurday, and although the attandance was much below the average, those present mede goad use of the bells and the ringing varied from touchea of Triples to the usual Spliced Surprise Major, the band in the latter being composed of equal aumbers of ladies and gentlemen.

The eerrice was conducted by the Rev. C. S. Durham Vicar wion in a short address, dealt with the meaning of the Ascension.

At the business meeting, which followed an excellent tea, the provisionnl election of three members previous to peal attompts was ratified and three new members were elected. It was anmounned that the association had recently lost two members by death, Mr. R. P. Pike, Kingsbury, and Mr. T. Humphyey, Pinner, both regular Sunday gervice ringers, and tbe meeting stood for a few moments in silent tribute.

A mid-week meeting will be held at St. Mary Magdalene's Chureh Enfield, on Wednesday, June 7th, the bells being available from 5 p.m St. Ann's Church, Stamfort Hill, was chosen ss the venue for the next district meeting, if possibie on Jume 24 th Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar, who, in reply, welcomed the association to Harrow Weald, to the organist, and to Miss E. K. Fulton and lady helpers for the adecuate catering arrangements.

CLERICAL RINGERS' HOLIDAY

SUCCTESES AND FALLURES OF 1 DEVON TOUR

The elerical ringing week took place this Fear in Devonghire, from Monday, April 17th, to Friday, the 2lst, headquarters being at a lotel mear Bovey Tracey. The party was larger than ever wefore, the weather perfect, the country astonishingly beantiful, and the the weather perfect, the country astonishingly beantiful, and the whole week thorongbly enjayable. That the call-cliange ringers of Devonshirs were always impressed by the ringing they heard is more than we can claim, but some at least of them became interested in change ringing, and there was, during the week, some excellent ringing. We greatis missed the Fews, E. V. Cox and A. G. G. Thurlowand not only in the belfry. It was a particular disappointment to and not only in the belfry. It was a particular disappointment to pilotiog us rouna his own territory and himself enjoyiug the tour for which be had made such admirahle arrangements.

Thorverton was the first tower visitre, ringing being impossible at Brampford Speke owing to illness mear the tower. Here the first seven of the party gathered, and witl the help of Mr. Rider, of the sire Triples atd Bob Minor. This was the only change ringing tower of the whole tour. Mrs, Cox then wery kindly entertained the company to tea at Brampford Speke, where we cound more of the party gathered. Passing through Tzeter, we stopped next at Claudleigh, the ancient screen survives, with paintings of saints on the panels. We rang Grandsire Triples badly, but Stedman und Kent Treble Bob to wish us a successfui week.
Major went well. Mr. C. R. Lilley kindly came up into the beliry Major went well. Mr. C. R
From Chudleigh we moved on to Bovey Tracey, the Devonshire conntryside looking in the evening light even more like Paradise than ever, and so to our headquarters. At dinner we all drank water, the botel management having a higher opinion of us than subsequent experience justified. Afterwards hamabells were get going to Grandirire And so to bed. The thin walls dividing our rooms were powerless to mufie the snores of some of the parlg. In the moraing we were roused by die glorious sang of innumerable birds liaunting the woods yearby. They were remarkably early risers.

A NOTICE THAT PROVED UNTRUE.
Tuesday morning's progranme included a pal attempt at Bovey Tracey (tenor 14 cwt.), and ringing at Ilsington. Tradition associates the building of Bovey Church with the Sir William de Tracey, one of Thomas a Becket's murdcrers, who was urade to build three churches as Part of his penance, and the churely bears a friple dedication to church is considerably later, owing muet to the great Lady Margaret Braufort, mother of King Heary VII., who omned the manor from 1487-1509. A boautiful painted screen dates from ber time. In the poreh we found a notice to say that the Clerical Guild would ring a penl at 9.30 . It proved to be untrue. A peal of Kent hegan at 10.20, but came to grief after 40 minutes, and the band consoled themselves with a well-struck guarter-peal of Stedman Triples. Meanwhile the rest of the party wore making their way to Ilsington, a place approached only by hilly, tortuous lanes. The parish is said to be the second largest in Devonshire. The church, a fine eruciform building with north and sauth aisles, has an uamusical ring of six (tenor 14 cwi.). The four standard methods were rung, but except for Kent the local company would not bave been favourably improssed. We short, steep pull brought us up to Haytor Rocks (1,491ft.), the most popular picnic place on Darimeor, for lunch, The luge rocks kept off the wind, and the sun seensed as hot as June.

Tin-mining at one time made tho little viliage of Widecombe prosperons, the enormous church tower being built, so it is said, by the miners as an expression of gratitude. Nowadays the mythical vocle Tom Cobleigh brings wealth more easily got, for most visitors (and there ars many of flam) take awny some memento of him, often one of those musical jugs which seem incessantly to play the familiar tune. The Church of St. Pancras has lost the loft of its ancient ecreen, but retains the lower pictured panels. In the guide books it is rhiefy notable for the great thanderstorm of 1638 , when one of the massive pinacles crnshed through the roof, killing four men, and a great fiery ball passed through the church, burnisg many, a visitation ascribed, of rourse, to Satan himself. No such fate befel us, and the aewly-hung six responded well to Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Boh and Cambridge, but seemed unaccustomed to Londan. A pleasznt drive brought us to Chagford, where there is a ring of eight hung by a former local belihanger. Visitors aeed to learn the wageries of each bell before they can atrike them, and although we mado progress me tea with the famous cream whinh we lhad come to expect at crery mea! AT BUCKFAST ABBEF.
Wedmesday morning sterted with a peal attempt at Wolhorough (Buckfastleigll being unpealable owing to great new ropes with sallies of prodgious sige). The ancient screen bas the most remarkable series mediwval three bells cast by Bird in 1390. A peal of Bob Major wha successfully brought round in three hours and ten minutes. The peal was rather a curate's egg-" paris excellent, my Lard '-but the worst came firse and the greater part would have satisfied mast critics. A of the party were singing the six belis at Dean Prior, a church of which the poet Herrick weas once vicar. They claim to bave rung un unconducted touch of Bob Minor. A picgic lunch was eaten, without asking permission, in the grounds of a deserted cafe at Dartbridge, after which we moved on to Buckfast Abbey, where we wers very glad to find Mr. A. L. Bennett, who had been largely responsible for geting the use of the bells, waiting for us, The front eight of tha twelve (tenor 41 cwt.) were rung up in neal, and tlas back four very nearly so. A touol of Grambire Caters oamo round very nicely, but Stednann Caters came to prief, and we prudently refrained from Cinques. Kent on the beck eight filled in the allotted time. We muci. appreciatea our visit to this woncerful tower and the charming welcome of the monks. What fascinated some of us most was to watch the great houcdon bell, Osanna, being swung and to see tha clapper coming slowly up to strike the hell. There is a strict rule that lades are not admitued to the belfry, but Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Powell were oncouraged by an old friend among the monks to honour the rule in the breach rather than in the observance, and are no doubt the first ladies to hava rung on the present twelve, After tea handbells were rung to a small hut delighted audience. On the way home we stopped at Ashbuthon, where there is a newly-lung ring of eiglt (tenor 21. cwt.) in the massive but graceful tower. The intended rise in peal conaded like an attempt to ring up in Queen's, and the local ringers保 luly astonished. Etedman, Grandsire, Double Norwich and Cambridge were rung on these fine-toned hells.

TWO PAILURES IN ONE MORNING.

On Thursday morning the party divided into three bands. One at Higliweek (trenor $11 \frac{1}{4}$ cwt.) attempted a peal of Stedman Triples. Highweek Church faces Wolborough across an intervening valley, and we had hoped that, having heard a peal from its rival on the previous day, jt would refuse to be untdone. But it was not to be, After getting beyoud half-way in very quick time, and when ringing seemed perfect, it suddenly went the way of so many promising Stedman attempts. Mr. C. R. Lilley came in to condole, and joined us in a touch of Double Norwich and a course of Cambridge, another band had atiempted a peal of Bob Minar nr the splendid six at Claristaw (tenor 14 ewt.). They modestly attributed their failure to inability to ring the method and mored on to Bickington, where the rest of the party lad proceded them. Here Mrs. Palmer for the first time rang the trebla to Gramdsire, and two of the local band were initiated into the art of change fruging.
We all met at Highweek and went hungrify along the Totnes road lookirg for a shady place for lanch, forgetting that since the leaves were not jet out no shade sas to be liad. Finally we stopped at Shadrack, where the sun provided a yery fair substitute for a buruing fery furnace, in a field in which butl had just been turned loose. Two of the party prejerred to eat and drink by the roadside, to the admiration of passers by Totnes laes a megnificent stone screen built in 1459, and in its fine rod sandstone tower a ring of eiglit (tenor 28 owt.), casi by Rudhall in 1732, tla earliest eight in Devonshire outcide the Qathedral. Curfew has been rung continuously since the Norman Conquest, and the fire alarm is still given hy japgling the two trables. After short touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob, we moved on to two six-bell towers, Starerton and Broadhempston. Both have laad the upper parts of their antient screens recently restored. At both we were reminded low much the bellhenger's art has progressed, for the "go" left much to be desjred. It was at Staverion (tenor $21 \mathrm{cwt)}$. that a tocal ringer told us how spiendid the bells sound "when thes are properlv rung. Here, after tea at the Vicarage, by kind insitatinn of the Rev. and Mrs. E. D. Drake-Rrockman, a course of Crandsira Caters was rung on the lawn, the local ringer being much impressed and observing that "that was how the tower bells ought to bave been rung." At Staverton we rang spliced Grandsire Doubleg aud Bob Minor, at Broadliempston more orthodox methods hampstead (tenor 15 cwt.). As we started just after 10.15 on a peal timed for 9.15 , we reflected that our programme lad been drawn on before summer time began and that we were therefore tolerably punctual. After 40 minutes of Kent wa stopped, much to the surprise af those listening below, fearing that two bells had shifted, only to discover that all was well. With one change in the band we started again, but things never went quite as well, and after 45 minutes the second attempt came to grief. The rest of the party had gone on frat to Drewsteigntan, where the Rev, A. R. W. Peek kindly provided them with refresliment, hoth liquid and solid, and then to Tirowleigh an out of the way little chureh notable for a remarkably fine priesb's door and now possessing a delightinl ring of gix (tenor 星 cwt.).

Lunch wes eaten shortly after 2 o'rlock on the laton at Okehampton, by the Vicar's kind permission, and none of the party showed nuy disposition to hurry over it, Okelampton has a tunelul eight (tenor 16 cwt . 1 , with one of the most strangely clappered tenors ever hung. After repeated experiments, we succeded in ringing Bob Major tolerably well. And so on to Bridestowe, the Inst tewer of the tour. Here our efforta hrought in some of the loenl band to see what was wrong, but one of them, a former shange ringer from up-country. joined us in Grandsire Doubles. Here was rung the only completed courge of London of the tour. After a final short touch of Boh Minor we edjourned to the Rectory, where the Rev, C. S. and Mrs. Fairhurst had very kindly provided tea. To them and to all who entertained us and welcomed us to their towers we owe a big debt of gratitude. J. ㅍ. B. A.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

SUCCESSPCL MEETING AT BLABLETHORPE
A meeting of the Grimsby District of the Northern Brawh of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Mablethorpe on Saturday, May 13tin. It was a lovely day to be by the seaside, and some members spent the day there. It was a record mecting for Mablethorpe, members and friends attending from far and near, Alford, Bighy, Barton-on-Eumber, Burton-on-Stather, Ulceby, Grimsby (St. James aud St. Andrew'si, Old Clee, Killinghalme, Waltham and the local tower being. represented, whike ringing frimds were present from Gainsborough (including Mr. Ieslie Lunn, secretary of the Gaiusborough Digtrict, Bilfingborough, Lincoln and Surfeet (including the Guid Master, Mr, R. Richarason, and Mrs. Richardson), and, if our information is correct, a honeymoon couple from the same district.

The very handy peal of six, although a bit noisy is the ringing room, were made good use of during the alternoon and evening. Service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. J. W. Subton), who gave an interesting aidress. Councilor Drury kindly presided at the argan in the absence of the official organist. At the Cafe Regent, 47 sat down to tea. In the absence of the president, the Rector presifed over the business meeting which followed.
Mr. J. Parker, of St. Andrew's, Grimsby, was olected a performing mamber.
The collection for the district boll fund amonnted to 11 s . $1 \frac{1}{2} d$
Mr. J. Bray referred to the sad death of Mr. Bernard Gillatt, of Burtion Stather, at a very carly age. Well known in Nortli Lancolinshire, he was a very able ringer...Members stood in silence to show their deepest respect

Mr. Barber referied to the first ladies' peal of Minor in the conntry rung at Isham 17 years age that day, as a result of which the Guild Master excelled as a paet. Mr. Barber gaid be was wery glad to see the Guild Master and Mrs. Richardson, nad also their daughter, Enid, who was making good progress in ringing
Mr. C. McGuinens proposed & learty vote of thenks to the Rector for the use of the belfs, for condmeting the service and for his nddress Itr the organist for ably filling the gap at shor notise, also to Mr. F. Fisrber fo" all he had done in making the meeting such a success. This was replied to by Councillor Drury, the Reetor and Mr P. Barher.

Nice touches on the handbells br some of the "eream' of Lincolushare'g handbell ringers brought this part of the proceadings to a clase, and the members them adjourned to the tower again for further ringing.

RAMPTON BELLS.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,-Through the generosity of the sons of a late Rector of Resmpton, we ere able to entertain the provision of the filth bell of our little peal, but I do not think that the offer made will cover the whola cost of the 5th hell. Furthermore I should like to see the possibilify of the sixth.

May I take this opportunity once more to thank all ringers who heve so far snsworcd my appeal by belf books, There must, howewer, be still 1,660 books out, and they are coming in slowly. Niow is the titue to give us a leg up and support this geaerous offer

THONAS L. HAFERS.

NORFOLK AND SUFFOLK PEALS.

To the Editor.

llear Sir, It must be due to my defective intelfect, lut I am invariably puzaled by the Rev. Herbert Drake when he 'iakes the flome. In your last issue he is reported as having spoken about peal tolals in Suffolk and Norfolk, but there seems to be something wrong witl: his arithmetic.
The old Norwich Association in the years 1909 to 1913 inclusive scored 136, 151, 181, 265 and 291 penls. The 291 in 1913 is, of course, will the record 'bag' for any ringing organisation. Even in fateful 1914 the tofal was 156 . These figures do not sgrea at all with the conclusions drawn on this particular matter by Mr. Drake in his speecla at Ipswich

RINGING MASTERS

We regret that for want of space we are compelled to Iold over a etter on this subject from Mr. P. Amos.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

Mr. J. IF. Swinfield said ho trusted that the Peak Society would now be re-formed as an active branch of the association as it was when Mr. J. E. L. Coeley was secretary.

The General Han. Secretnry explained that this branch was metnally arranging the Hext quarterlv M.C.A. noeeting; to be beld at Bakewell

This concluder the business, after which a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by J. Pagett 1-2, C. Harrison 3-4, E. Mortis 5-6, W. Allwood 7-8. Forther handhell and tower-bell ringitug ferminafed a very happy and successful meeting.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple wayTo many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, tho-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyose - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

A DERBYSHIRE TASK.

Ringers living in the northern part of Derbyshire must wekome the effort which the Midland Counties Association has just made to revive its work in the Chesterfield district. Without the backing of an active organisation, ringirg has a tendency to wilt, and ringers seem to lose interest. This has happened in the area where a new start was made on Saturday week, and it is to be hoped that there will be a rallying of forces to the assistance of the newly-appointed officers in what will probably be an uphill struggle. It is not easy to pull a district out of lethargy when it has been allowed to drift, and how sadly this had happened in the Chesterfield District may be judged from the fact that at the last annual meeting there were not even any officers appointed. When the local organisation cones so near to extinction as this, it will not be an easy task to bring it back to full life, and it should be the concern of every ringer in the area to give support to the men who have undertaken the work.
What the real cause of the final decline in interest was, we do not know, but it is not difficult to realise that it began with the closing down of the bells of Chesterfield church, itself a centre of great activity in ringing throughout a long period of years. With the silencing of the bells there was bound to be a slackening of interest, with all the doleful results which it inevitably brings about, and it is impossible to sustain animation in an organisation from without, if there is no life within. The nerve centre of the Midland Counties Associntion is now, at any rate, situated in Leicester, and is somewhat distant from North Derbyshire. This in itself must have made it all the harder to keep things going, and it rather indicates the desirability of further consideration of the whole position. The association spreads into a number of counties and more or less covers four dioceses, and there seems to be something to be said for those who contend that the time has arrived when there should be a decentralisation into separate diocesan organisations. When Sir Arthur Heywood founded the association, some sixty years ago, there was good reason for one large embracing organisation instead of setting up a number of small ones, but the growth of the number of bells in the area, the increase in membership, the spread of change ringing and, above all, the tendency in these days to link up the activities of ringing on diocesan lines, does suggest, not that the Midland Counties Association has in any sense outlived its usefuiness, but that some further step towards diocesan management and interest might be well worth consideration. Only a few months ago a Derby (Continued on page 346 .)

Diocesan Association was suggested; it may be that such an organisation under the wgis of the Midland Counties Association might help to stimulate interest both among ringers and clergy.

PEAL NOTES.

Tha Royal Cumberiand Youths celebratea Empire Day by rioging a peal of Stedman Ginques nt High Wycombe, conducted by the Master, Mr. George Cross. It was not the first peal the somiety had rung in this Buckinglamshire tower, where, gearly 200 years ggo, John Holt called a peal of "Bob Trebles" The Cumberlands rang a muffled peal of Stedman Cingues at High Wycombe ic $1916^{*}$ in faithful memory of Buckinghamahire men who bad fallen in the Great War.' Three of that band, Messers. T. Hayes, Coles and E. R. Coles, were in the penl on Wednesday week.
Incidentally the Empire Day peal rounded off what, we think, must be a rather unasual achievement. Without having in any way planued to do it, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith has rung peals in methods all the way up from Minor to Maximus since the beginning of this year. He is now accused of having joined the P.G.U.
In honour of Ascansion Day, a peal of Minor was rung at Felkirk, Yorks, on May 18th. The poal also celehrated the birth, on May 10th, of Mr. Oliver Greathend's first grandson.
A peni of Grandsire Triples at Silvertale, Stafordshire, on May $20{ }^{2} \mathrm{E}$, was a wedding compliment to Mr. W. Edwards and Miss M. Hill. Mr. W. Caraweli gcored his 50th peal, which was, incidentally, his first peal of Grandsire.
Mr. James Bennett, of Londou, rang the treble to a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Belmingham, Suffolk, on May 20th, nad thus completed the circle of the tower. Mr. F.- Sterry, of Farl geothham, achieved a distinction thrt few can clam. To ring in inside bell to a Surprise method as one's first peal of Major, having previously rung only one peal, and that Doubles, was a highly creditable performance upon which te is to be congratulated.
Mr, R. E. Lembert, of ت̈orsmonden, rang his sookb peal on May 20tli when be took part in a peal of Minor at his home tower.
The peal of Doubies rung at Tharlby, Liacs, on May 20th, to welcome the new Vicar (the Rev. W. G. Summers), also walconed into the world the baby son of Mr. Rr. Daff, one of the Thurlby ringers.

MR. W. J. NUDDS' RECORD

The peal of Doulble Nrwich Major at Zt, Giles'-in-the-Fjelds, London, on Snturday, was the first on the bells since Lhey were zehung last autumn by Messrs. Taylor aud Co. It was very vearly a birtbday celebration for wr. W. J. Nudda. He was 71 last Mondiay.
It is just 50 years apo that ive rang his first peal. This was at Diss, Norfolk, and his father took part in it-the last peal that he ramg.
Since that time Mr. Nudds hag taken part in some remarkable per formances, among them the 18,027 Stedman Caters at Loughborough in 1909, the first time that one set of men ever ragg the clock round, the 10,440 of Cambridge Surprise Royal at Walthamstow in 1923, end the 7,392 of Cambridge Maximus at Bow in 1925.

On Monday a peal of Stedman Cinques at Cripplegate was earmarked as a birthday compliment to ham.
The peal in four Spliced Surprise Major methods at Bramitree, Ersex, on May $22 n d$, was rung as a birthdey compliment to Mr. Harry Feltov. Mr. Albert Wiffin has now twice "completed the circle' at St. Michael's, Braintree.
Mr. James Hyett, of Hay, rang his 250th peal for the Hereford Diocegan Guild on Saturday, when he took part in a peal of Granesire Triples at Clifford. Wilfred Moreton, who is only 14 years of age, rang the fourth and rang it perfectly.
A five-bell peal in seven methods was rung at Intwood, Norfolk, on May 25th. It was the first in seven Doubles methods by all except the conductor (Mr. N. Goldenl, and the first in more than four methods on the bellis.
A poal of Bob Minor rung at Croft, Leicestershire, on Say 17th, for the eleventh anniversary of the dedication of the bells, also marked the glst anniversary of the wedding of Mr. W. A. Wood, who has now 'circled' the fower. There were four local men in the peal nnd one ex-local. It is the custom at Croft to ring an annjversary peal each year, with, as far es possible, a local hand, and art untualified measure of success has attended it. This was the eleventh guccessive peal.

' IF AT FIRST YOU DON'I SUCCEED."

The haadbell peal of Grandsire 7'riples at Penge on May 2Lst was rung at the cighteenth attempt. Spread over a period of 18 months, the attempts for Parker'g Twelve-Part have been lost in the 8th, 9th and 10th parts several times, and once the band rang into the last part and lost it with only another 252 changes left to ring. But the band sfuck to it and met each time as heen as ever, and, much to the satisfaction of everybody, they have now been successful.
Most of the attempts have been made at Penge, and Mr. and Mrs. Fogden, parents of the tenor ringer, have been unfailing in their generosity and hospitality after each attempt. Whether this has had anything to do with the failures as an excuse to meet again is not known, ort the riggers wish to thank them very much for their repeated kindness.
Empire Day was celobrated on May 24th at Sherfeld English, Hants, with a peal of Double Norwich, in which two young ladies took part and Mr. Reg. Reed, one of the most promising of the yonnger generation of ringers in the Winchester nod Portamoath Guild, called a peal of Double Norwich for the first time.

Two seventeen-year-old members of the band at Aston, Birmingham, Ronald Shepherd and, Alfred Allen, took part in a peal of Grandsire Cinques at St. Mertin's on May 2 rrd and thus ragg their first peas on twelve bells. It is interesting to note, too, the name of Mr. Sidney Jessop in a peal once more. Some years ago Mr. Jessop was a very active member of St, Martin's Gaild, but business kept him out of peal ringing for a long period.

Mr E. F. Poppy's band at Stoke Ash, who only learned to ring two years ago when the bells were augmented to five, rang a peal in five methods of Docibles on May 17 th to commemorate the second anniversary of the bells and the completion of 50 years in the ministry by the Rector, the Rev. F. R. H. Parkins.

The peal of Cambridge Minor at Llanfrechfa on May 17th was rung after meeting short for Stedman Triplies. Mr. S. Burton, who belongs to Leicester, was elected a member of the Llandaff and Manmouth Association before starting and has now rung peals of Cambridge from Minor to Maximus. This peal was the first of Cambridge Minor rung in the county of Monmouth.

A placs where enthusiasm is growing in ringing is Sidhury, Devon. Four members of the local band rang their first peal -Grandsire Doubles-on May 16th. It was thg first peal on the bells and it is hoped that this is but an encouraging step to further methods. In this case, too, one of the other local ringers sat in the belfry to watch the progress of the peal.

As a birthany compliment to Mr. F. Brisby, a chorister ab Willesborougl, Eent, for 54 years, a peal of Minor, the first in eight methods by alt the bazd, was rung ou May 20 th.

Another youngster to score his first peal is fifteen-year-old Raymond Law, who on May 20th took part in a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Thranston, Northants.

With Mr James D. Taylor taking part in a peal of winor at Hitcham, Bucks, on Empire Day, every member of the St. Peter's Society, Burnham, has now rung a peal in seven Minor methods.

Mr. Albert Prestidge, who for many years was leader of the Nether ton, Worcestershire, band, had a compliment paid him by local ringers on May 25th when a peal was rang in honour of the anniversary of his wedding. The day also coincided with the birthday of he and his wife. After the perl Mr. and Mrs. Prestidge entertbined the ringers. The peal of the Royal Cumberland Youths on Whit Monday at St. Giles', Cripplegate, was the 300 th rung by Mr. F. T. Cullum. The eccasion was also in honour of the birth of a grandson to MF. end Mri. F. G. Symonds.

Twelve members of the Central Council accepted an invitation for a peal of Stedmrn Cinques at Groydon on Saturday. The band was made up entirely of visitors. None of them had rung a peal there before, an l the kindness of the Croydon ringers, shown in this friendly gesture, was much appreciated.

The Freemasons added to the list of Craft peals on Saturday by ringing a peal of Grandsire Cixques on Bow bells. It was a good performance for a mixed band on this heavy ring:
On Monday two twelve-bell peals were rang in London. St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, who have scored peals in many parts of England, rang a peal of Stedman Cinques at. Snoreditch, but their band was in no sense a Birminghan one. It could alzost be described as internetional.
The ladies on Saturday showed their loyalty and their broadmindedness when, in honour of the birthday of H.M. Queen Mary, they rang a peal of Bob Major at St. George's, Southwark, for the Royal Cunberland Foutins.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD.  CADOXTON WIN COMPETITION.

The annual competition of the Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild took place at St. David's, Brecon, on May sotb, when seven bands competed for the shield. Mr. A. J. Pitman of Aberavon, was the adjudicator and stated afterwards that there had been a very high standard of ringing
The result was Cadorton 1, Llanelly 2, and Cefin Coed 3.
Luncli and tea were provided for the ringers by Canon J. Simon, B.A., and the parishioners of St. David's.

After tea Miss Simon presented the shield to the winnors and certificates to the runners-up.
The Lord Bishop of the Diocese made a presentation of a Westminster chime clock to Mr. C. Powell as a token for his faithful service to the Guild es treasurar since the commencement of the Guild and aiso to mark his retirement. Mr. Powell leaves the district earty next month for North Wales. The best wishes of all the members of Glie Guild for a loag and happy retired life were expressed on their behalt by the Rishop.

SUSSEX ASSOCJATION AT MAYFIELD.

A successful meeting of the Eastern Division of the Sussex Association was held at Mryfield on May 20th, when members attended from Hastings (All Srints and Blacklands), Heilsham, Waldron, Northam, Heathfield, Rotherfield, Easthourae (St. Saviour's, St. Mary's and Christ Clumely) and members of the local band. The Ficar conducted the service and presided at the tea.
Mr. A. R. Miles presided at the business meeting in the tawer. Two new members-Mr. A. W. Kitchenside, son of the lacal semretary, and Mr. W. White, of All Saints', تiastinga-were elacted. The secretary (Mr. A. C. Pankhurst) proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to Mr. Kitchenside for making arrangoments for the meeting. The next meeting will be at Salehurst on July lat. The bellis were kept going until after $80^{\prime}$ clock.

A preliminary to the Central Council meeting in Landon was a number of peal attempts on Saturday in atd around the Motropolis, Among these members of the Council rang a peal of Stedman Cinques at Croydon; a company of Freemasons scored a peal of Grandeire Cingues at Bow, Cheapside; a band entirely of ladies credted ilie Royai Cumberland Youths with a peal of Bob Major at SL. George's, Southwark; and peal of Double Norwich was rung at St. Giles'in-the-Fields, but a peal of spliced Surprise Major at Bishopsgute was lost abost half way
The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, of Cambridge Universits Guild, and curate of All Saints', Wokingliam, Berks, has been appointed Minor Camen and Precentor at Norwich Cnthedral.
The marriage is to take place on July Ist of the Rev. A. S. Roberis who is now ot Palmers Green, London, and Miss Jessic Angwyn, of Truro Before he weut into Foly Orders Mr. Roberts was a member of the band at Truro Cathedral, where Miss Angwya still rings.

Another London ringer whe will shortly be married is Mr. James Prior, hon. secretary of the Northers Division of the Eondon County Association, and a member of the Metropolitan Police Guild.
It las been found necessary to change the place of the annuel festival of the Nortly Bucks Branch of the Oxford Guild to-morrow. It will lee held at Newport Pagnell, instead af Shenley.

The Rev. E. V. Cox, president of the Devon Guild, has left Bramoford Speke and taken up the living of Tedburn St, Mary, near Expter. A well-known Newcastle gentleman, who came to London for the Contral Council meeting, wrote to a lotel not far from Euston for accommodation. His application was politely refused because there were "a lot of heliringers coming to stay there'!
Will any ringer who may be on holdary iu Cornmall during the period August 13tli to August 26th, and who might vere to stand in one or two perl nttempts, kindly communicate with Mr. A. I. Pink, of Tregoney, 23 The Avenue, Kennington, Oxford.

Mr. Herbert E. Audsley, of Crayford, entered St. Bartholonew's Hospital on Sundey for an cperaliots, fortunately not a serious one.

RINGING[N EAST ANGLIA

To the Editor.
Dear Sir, ... While thanking "Old Ringer " for his correction, I must apologise for my memory liaving ao far misled me. Evidently we bave a long way to go before both the Suffolk Guild and the Norwich Diocesan Association hoth equal the record set up of 291 peals in 1913. It would have hean better to have said that last year the two societies for the first time eacla entered the small circle of those sonieties which reach tho figure of 100 peals a year. This is a result we can each be proud of and each congratulate the other.

GUILDFORD DIDCESAN GUILD

DAVLS SILENCERS TO BE [SED IN NOISY TOWERS
Good weather attracted quite a crowd to Newdigate on 太aturday, May 20th, for a meeting of the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. The merry little ring of six bells was raised in peal soon after 3 o'clock, and kept going until 5 o'clock. The Guild service was then conducted lyy the Rector (the Rep. A. Stone), supported by choir and organist, and his address on "God loveth a cheerful giver of service, as well as moner, was well worth hearing.
Tea was served in the Six Bells, 35 sitting down, presided over by the Rector, who, while regretting he was unnlote to stav for the business meeting, gave the district a harty welcome to Newdigate and repeated his hope that the ringers would go th doing their job with cheerfulness.
Mr. A. Harman (Ringing Masteri took the chair far the business meeting, the members first standing in silence to mart their sympathy on the death of Mr . A. Rice, who had belonged to the Newdigate hand. Thres aew members were elected, Mrs. A. H. Winch, of Lentherhead, an honorary member, Mr. R. Brett an anatached ringing member, and Mr. W. Claydon, of Reigate, compoanding memher,
The secretary then asked for permission to proceed with the purchase of a get of Davis gilencers for use ly the district in towers where complaints about the noise were persistent. He said he knew that suiteble shuttering of the lourres made the best job, but some church councils took a lot of convincing, for, as a rule, it was only the parson who received the complaints, and be thought it behoved the Guilds to minimise the cause for complaints ard ab promote good fellowship with the people concerned. He thought the Davis silenters were the most suitable appliance in the circumatances, and he nad already obtained the recessary sanction from the annual meeting of the Guild to spend the money on them.

Mr. G. Marriner proposed the purclase and Mr. A. H. Wincti seconded it and it was carried unanimously.

Mr. Harman reminded the members of the summes festival, to be held et Haslemere, saying that he hoped to get up a cosch load as in former years.
The meeting closed with hearty wotes of thanks to the Rector; the organist and choir, and to Mr. E. Vine, but hefore returning to the tower the meeting was entertained by haudbell selections by the Coblam band Finging was kept up until nearly 9 a'clock, when a grand "lower " finished off good day for the tower bells, althorgh someore wondered how long after came the final 'that's all' for the handbells.

LEADING CONDUCTORS-73.

WILLIAM FISHER

Among Staffordshire conductors who bave done a good deal of aluable spade worts over a number of years is Mr. Willian Fisher, of Coseley. where he has been a ringer for over 40 years. Bors at Short Heath, $\$ 1$ affs, on Decentber 164h, 1878, hie has lived all his life except for the first few montlus in Coseley, ahd he began his rimging career in 1897, when the Parislh Church had a band of call-change ringers. Aiter a time there came an alteration in tho state of affaits and method ringing was introduced. Mr. Fislier rang his first peal (Grandsire Triples) at St. Mar. tin's, Tipton, on March $30+\mathrm{h}$ 1001, and his first ies conductor in the following Tear, on Jume 2nd. This latter was to celebrate the conclusion of the South African War, and the peal was rung by the Surday service band Mr. Fisher calling Holt's ren-Part fram tho sevently.
Since that time he hes conducled peals of Graudsire Triples, Oxford Bob Triples, Darlaston Boh Triples, Stedman Tripies, Caters and Cinques, Boh Triples, Major and Maximus, Canterbury Plensure Major, Double Norwich Major, Staftordshire and Cambridge Surprise Major. He lane conducted 92 out of the 366 peals which be has rung. He look part at Wednesbury in 1909 in the first peal of Double Oxtord Bob Royal ever rung, and he rang in the first peal of Stedinun Cinques on the old bells at Worcester

MR. WILLIAM FISHER

 Cathedral. At St, Luke*'s,Gof the hand in a peal in which the cons took part in a peal of Stedman Mriples which Mr. Herbert Knight callod bindfolded. Altogether Mr. Fisher bas rung peals in 53 towers in six countios, for eiglt associntions.

He was Ringing Master of the Soniety for the Archdemeonry of Stafford from 1914 to 1921, and a reprenenfative of the society on the Central Council from 1915 to 1923 , in addition to serving on the commiltee for a uumber of years.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

After an ahsence from the peal columns for a period of 28 years, Mr. J. O. Lancashire lias made a welcome and long overdue retart. He rang the treble to Forkshire Surprise Major at Leicester Cathedral on May 25th. Hjg last perl bofore his long reat was Stedmany Catera on the old ten in the same tower ou Coronation Day, 1911. It is Loped that so long a preriod will not elapse before he scares lis next peal.
Mr. Lancashire will be remembered by the older geacration of ringers as one of the famous band who. early in the ceatury, made bistory by ringing "silent" penls of Stedman Tripies, Caters and Cinques "in hand.'

as to the remarks of Clergymen Nos. 1,2 and 3 , they would bear more weight if Mr. Amos bad given us their mames, But may we ask Clergyman No. 1 if, when he goes to a clurch to conduct a service, he would be content to be directed in his conduct of the service by the local verger? An association wisich has asked and been given permission to frold a meeting at, a tower is in a different position to the casuml visitor, or even ringer invited (like Clergyman No. 1) to cive his aid on some specific occasion. The association seeks permission in order to carcy out its own business in its own way. If the jncumbent does not mogree to this it is open to him to refuse the applicathon. Then, may we ask Clargyman No. 2 what Churcli law has got $t$ a do with the matter at all? It is not a question of law, but of courtesy. And may we say witll all due deference to Clergyman No. 3 that we don't thiuk , we knows very much about the facts behind the subject under disonssion

To Mr. Amos we, give the assurance that we are always ready to print views with which we do not agree, if they are reasonably ex. pressed, but may we, after many years' oxperience of Mr. Amos correspandence, suggest, in the friendliest prosible spirit, that lie will best serve the interestes of ringing (assuming he wishes to serve it) if he will get rid of some of the bees that infest his bonnet.-Emrror, Ringing World."

RINGING MASTERS.

Sir, - notice in 'The Ringing World' of May 19th you speak of my letter as "a misleading twist." But rather is the boot on the other foot, for, lisving read your footnote, I find this contains nothing elea but misjeading and contradictory twists. What you speak of as 'an essential part' of the sentence quoted, panuely, "if ringers will give him salficient authority to command in the tower,' is merely an gddition to the nucleus of the senteace upon which Jour viewpoint is framed. Four contention about ringlag meetings is based on those words, 'but it can only be done by a Ringing Master, yet underneath that you any, 'that doer not mean that only a Ringing Master can mak more practical use o[ meetings, and so on.
This reminds me of an expression I Geard in a municipal clamber a. Eew days ayo. Spealing of a certain thing one of the members rose to sey, I would harnly like to go so far as to say it is useless, but in my opinion it serves no useful purpose.' Such plorases a lawyer would love to play with, but whather lie would make sense out of them is another matter.

Another misleading statement in your footnote reads, "We know, to Mr. Amos, the place of the associntions is outside and not inside the towers. 'This is certainly a twist, for Mr. Amos never suid enything of the kind. Many would take ihis, as you priut it, to mean inat I don'i, lold with ringing guilds having meatings at all, which is a very diferent thing to saying that as far as jurisdiction is concerined they are simply ontside bodies. They liave no legal veto in the control of any tower or bolls. Words quoted in my former letter are sulficient to bear that out.
What you slate about an association, after being given permission ta use whe bells of a church, being responsible throught its officers for the ringing which takes place, and the loeal captain not being entilled to command in the tower, is another misleading twist as I an later going to point out by the wordis uitered to me by a certain clergyman This. we lonow, is exnctly how yourself and the dictators in ringing (which few associations have a complete absence of would like it to he-and for what purpose? Not for advancing the art, as they would have everyone believe, but at rock bottom it is purely and simply for their owr aggrandisement! Thay are, as a rule, the oues who at a meeting like to claim the monopoly of speech und ringing. They are so used to walling in and cut of every belfy just as thay please that they begin to regard the bells as their own property. However, whether they think their position at meetings is as you state it to be or not, the fact remains that it is not so!
Since that letter and your appended note have been published, I have made it my business to show it to three clergymen with whom I ano acquainted, and the following replies may interest yous Clergymen No. I, asked what be thought of the sentence, And it restg with the associations as to who sliall direct the ringing, commented, - Oh, yes, I know, give some people an inch and they'fl take a mile, mud lie edded: According to the theory of this Editor, then, if I ara asked to take the service at another churcl) (which I often am), I may as well say it rests with me to decide who shall take the plates round, who shall act as the churchwardens and so on; and according to bim it watd be perfectly legal for me ta denounce the recognised wardens and sidesmen, and to substitute friends from outside in their places. The meanest intellect knows I couldn't do that. When I am authorised to taks the service in another church, I go simply as a visiting olergyman ; aud when ringers go ta a charch other bhan their own to ring (whether it be under the fuspices of an assoriation, or as it private band) they go simply as wisiting rimgers-they dontt go with any authority as far as the intarna workitg of the bower is concerned and the Editor of that paper onglit to linve known better than to liave made such an absurd statement, least of all to put it into prist.
Clergyman No. 2 snid: Ask this Editor to quote sou where in the Church law it says what he fates here

Clergyman No. 3: I have given nssociations perwission to hold meetings mayy a time, but I don't know that coupled with that has ever been permission to override my own captain in the tower and place sameone from outside in authority. In fact. I should think twice ahout letting nnyone from another church come bere again if I krew that find of thing took place. I am glad you have hrought it to my notice. Ceriainly it is not right, and, like yourself. I fail to see any need for those brancli ringing masters. I tlink you will find that most clergy when they say, "Yes, you cra have the use of the bells," conclude with that Now I can quite imagine, Mr. Fdion, that you will give full publicity to any who writs agreeing with your own views. But what of those who disagree? Witl they be treated with the same fairness?
Northampton. WORD TO MR AMOS P. AMOS.
A WORD TO MR. AMOS.
Mr. Amos can put what construction he chooses upon what we have maid, but it does not cliange the intention of the sentencr. Mr. Amos is just beating the air in reiterating the fact that ringing associations have no legal ycto in the control of any tower or bells. Everyone knows that and no association has ever claimed it.
It is traz that Mr. Amos did not say in his letter that in his opinion the placs of associations is outside and not inside the towers. But we know his opirtion sbout it all the same. Have we not had dozens of tetters from him in the past-not all of which have gat into print?

The mew "Minor and Doubles Methode' book was in great demand and accounted for ges of the receipts.
The stal sales were 828 Js $_{*}$ and the brlance on this account, after payment of advertising and postage, was 214 129. 4d.
The Council referred to the Standing Committee consjderation of the question of reprinting the "Glossary of Tochnical Terms."

MODEL RULES.

The committee the Rev. F. L1. Edwards and Messrs. S. H. Wood and W. H. J. Honton), appainted to revise the model rules for a company, reported that they had made a thorough revision largely with a view to simplicity and brevity. Two complete sets of rules had been compiled, one recommended as the ideal, where lacal conditions permitted of its adoption, the other suitable for more general use, especially in county parishes.
There was a long diseussion on the draft of the rules, which were amended in some details and ordered to be printed.

THE CARTER RINGING MACHINE

The report of Mr. A. A. Hughes, Trustee of the Carter Ringing Machine, stated that it had not been possible to demonstrate the machine this year, as Mr. Slarman, the demonstrator, was now engaged in making a new dial and studs

A KEW COLIECTION OF PEALS.
The Peal Collection Committee presented the collention of compositione in various methods which they have made, and the Council approved of giving powers to the officers to print the collection if the cost was not excessive.
The commitfee was reappeinted with the following members: Mr . G. Lindoff (convener), the Rev. E. S. Powell, Mestrs. G. R. Newtor, G. R. Pye and T. B. Worslep.

THE SORPRISE MAJOR BOOF.
The report of the Methods Committee, सigned by Mesprs. J. A. Trollope and E. C. S. Turner, was chiefly devated to the forthcoming Surprise Major book. In order to bring the book up to the minute of publication, conductors and secretaries of associations were asked to forward the figures and prarticulars of any wew Surprise method rung immediately after performance. They blso asked any persons who have methods which they kope to ring and name in the future to send in the figures. If the methods are included in the book, the names selected by those people will be used, unless they are obviously unsuitable, and the committee undertake to treat as confldential and to destroy all papers sent in relating to methods not included in the book. The repart set out the reasons for giving names to the methods neluded in the book before is publication. They were: The wish to avoid confusion that arose over printing unnamed Minor methods, the fact that the maning of the Plain 整ajor methods was a complete success and brought no adverse criticism; an unnamed collection would cease, after a short time, to lave any value; it would be bad business and unfair to purchasers to publigh it in a form that wauld speedily arke it out of date: there wers many thousanas of methads and any band which wisbed to ring and name new methods would stili have practically unlimited opportunities to indulge their fancy.

Generally speaking. concluded the report, the success of the book and the interests of the Exercise demend thet the methods shaul be named, and our considered opinion fs that unless the methods are named it will be useless to proceed further with the book. ${ }^{3}$
In a 'minority' report, Mr. S. H. Wood expressed agreement with the desirability of attaching names to the methods in order that the hook should be complete and a stendard work of reference for many years to come. He did not, however, wish to associate himself with certain other arguments and statements in the majority report, as 10 was not in agreement with their substance nor with the implicarous which they contair.
The repart of the cammittee was adopted, and the hon, secretary stated that the result of the seheme for financing publication of the hook had been very satisfactory. An issue of 750 was provided for and the associations had underiaken to guarantee to take up 462 copies.
It was decided that claims to names for methods should be made withis one month.
The committee, consisting of Messrs, J. A. Trollope (convener), E. C. S. Turtier and S. H. Wood, were reappointed. OTHER COMMITTEES.
The report of the Peals Analysis and Records Committee (which has already appeared in our columas) was aqopted and the committee reappointed as follows: Mrs. E. K. Fietcher (convener), Messrs. C. Dean, G. L. Grover, G. R. Pye and W. Ayre.

The Towers and Belfies Commitiee reported that they had given advice in 14 cases during the year.
The president gave an interesting review of some of the eases dealt with by the committee during the year and the report was adopted. Tha re-election of the committee was agreed to as follows: Messrs 2. H Lewis (coavener), Major J. H. B. Hesse, Messrs, E. A. Young and J. Hunt,
The report of the Literature, Press and Bradicasting Committee reviewel some of the chief events which had brought bellg into prominence in the newspapers and also to the broadcast of bells, some of which, said the report, had been entirely good, a few definitely bad, others at best, indiferent. It also referred to the protests made to the B.B.C, about the curtailment of the periad of rimging before services, which, gaid the report, had produced one or two amazing statements in reply, but the result had been a considerable abatement of the ruisance.
The report was adopted and the committee reappointed: Rev. F. Ll Edwards (convener), Messrs. J. S. Goldsmith, A. Paddon Gmith and A. Walleer,

OLD PEAL BOARDS

The committee which is collecting partieulars of old peal boards, recording performances ap to 1825 , reported that thay estimated the total was unlikely to exceed 500 . Ther had recelved details of 177 boards recording 208 performances in 83 towers. There were still 15 counties from which no details had been received. Tle committee sugested they bhould be ahowed to appoint representatives (nat mecessarily members of the Council) to be associated with their work 50 Iar as particular areas are concermed.
It was stated that since the report was drafted further information had been received, bringizg the total op to 294 performances in 114 towers.
The committee's sugyestion for seeking assistance wes adopted, and the committee, consjoting of Mr. W. G. Wilson (convener), the Rev. C. E. Wigg and Mr. W. Agre, were re-elected.

The Biographies Committee reported that their work was proceeding, but, owing to the fact that details of many past members were nob obtainable through the form sent out, it was necessary to search the files of the ringing papers for information. They recommended the appointment of Mr. A. C. Hazelden (librarian of the Guildford Guild) to this committee to assist in this work.
The report was adopted and the other members of committee reelected, viz., Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (conveaer), Mrs. E. K. Fletcher and Mr. W. A. Cave.

The twelve elective memhers of the Standing Committee were appointed mg follows: Ten. Archdeacon Parry, Ald. J. S. Pritchett, Major J. H. B. Hesse, Messrs. W. A. Cave, J. T. Dyke, C. F. Jolinston, R. Richardson, A. Paddon Smith. A. Walker and S. H. Wood, with E. ©. S. Turner and G. E. Debenham to fill vacancies, and authority was given to them to act.

A report was received from the officers upon the circulation of "The Ringing world.'

A final report by the officers on the muffling of bells was presented to the Council for information, and it will now be forwarded to the Church zuthorities in accordance with the previous decision of the Council.
The Council is to hold the rext meeting at Cerdiff. It will be the first meeting of the Council beld in Wales.

SUBSTITUTES FOR BELLS.

The Standing Committee reported that they bad considered the question of mechanical ringing and they had come to the following conclusions :-
(1) While there may be exceptional cases in which the use of gramophone records of church bells is justified, any genera] adoption of such a practice is omphatically to be deprecated, not ouly on the grounds that a substitute for the real thing is unworthy of tine Church of God, but also because ft eliminates the living service of hand, and heart, and mind which is of the very assance of bellringing and is of true spiritual value as contributory to an act of worship.
(2) Tho installation of such a mechanical device should be severely prohibited in any tower containing or capable of containing a peal of bells, except as a temporary expedient, as, for example, when tower or bells are under repair.
(3) In the case of building new churches it is obvious that the ercetion of a tower and bells must often be left to a future generation, or even omitted altogether, but it is a vital point of prineiple that no sanction should ever be given to the building or designing of a tower inadequate to 5 ts legitinate purpose, witin a view to the installation of a gramophone record instead of real bells. The one prectical object served by a church fower is to make provision tor bells and to erect a tower to hold a gramophone recard cannot be regarded otherwise than an architectural fraud, entirely wnworthy of building desigued for sacred purposes.
This was approved by the Council and ordered to be sent to all Diccesan Advisory Committees.

CHESTERFIELD BELLS.

A report, was made on the silence of Chesterfeld bells, and it was resolved to write to the Archdescon of Chesterfield expressing the hope that the proposal that he should meet representatives of Chesterfeld ringers would result in the resumption of ringing.
Mr. A. D. Barker raised the question of the validity of peals rung on bells fitfed with silencers which caused the clapper to strilse only on one side of the bell

The matter was refered to the Stending Committee.
The secretary reported that 117 members were present at the meeting, which was a record. There were 104 members representiag, 43 associations and 13 honorary members present. Only six associations were entirely umrepresented.
The customary votes of thanks concluded the business.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON AT BRASTED

On Sunday aftermon several of the members of the Central Council enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Lowis at their home at Brasted. Although it is an hour's journey from London by slow traia, it lies in one of the most beautiful parts of the country, now at its very best. The visitorg enjoyed themselves very much, though, so far as is known, they did not solve the great mystery which belongs to that part of Kent.
You never knew there was a mystery? Surely you don't say that. Well, I must tell you about it. In the year eleven hundred and something, there or thereabouts, Saint Thomas of Canterbury was having a bit of a row with the King, Henry II., and nne of the King's men, Randolph de Broc, or some such name, just for fun and to show his views of the matter, cust oft the tail of the saint's sumpter mule. [ You don't know what a sumpter mule wes, and I am not sure that I can tell you, but that is neither bere nor there.) This thing annoyed the saint, who was rather sloort tempered, so he up and cursed ce Broc and all the men round about ras far as he could reach, since when all the men of that part of Kent have been borm with tails. That mach is cartain, but what no one bas heen able to discover (this is the mystery) is what they do with their tails when they have grown up, because to hush up the matter they all wear trousers. That is the reason.
During the afternoon et Brasted there was some lianduell rigging: Bob Major on an ordinary set of bells, and Grandsire Triples on a set of cup bells, the sort that the ringers of the 18 th cenrury used. Such a set Benjamin Annsble and his party tonk with them to France, 200 vears ago, when they rang Grandsire Cinques on the sands at Calas.
In tha evening before service there was ringing at Brasted, during which the Yicar came into the beliry and welcomed the visitors. Some of the ringing was spliced, but that was done for the most part by the local band, the visitors not being able to do anything more advanced than Cambridge. Afterwards some went on to the neighbouring tower of Sundridga and ther back to town.

TECHNICAL TERMS IN RINGING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Both sides in this correspondence are riglat. Mary people use too many technical terms, and by puzzling beginners, defeat their own purpose. On the other hand, some technical terms are necessary and helpful. I hope later on to write more fully on thig,
HERBERT DRAKE.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

COUNCIL TOPICS.

Despite a somewhat routine-looking and unpromising agenda, the Central Council last week found a fairly full day's work when the members, in record numbers, met in London for the first meeting of the seventeenth Council. There were many representatives new to the Council, and correspondingly a number of familiar faces were missing, some that had been associated with the Council for a long period. Apart, lowever, from the changes in representation which are compelled by the ellux of time, the introduction of new and young blood is a gain to the Council, both, we hope, in energy and ideas. While the Council will probably always keep a substantiai leavening of age and experience, the future of ringing lies with youth, and anything that will encourage the enthusiasm and widen the outlook of the younger nembers of the Exercise is to be welcomed.

Out of the variety of subjects brought before the Council, mostly arising from the reports of committees, the one which occupied most attention was the draft sets of rules for a company of ringers. The Council some years ago published a "model' set of rules, of which incumbents and otlers forming or reorganising their local bands availed themselves. A committee of the Council has now revised this pamphlet and presented alternative sets, one which could be considered the ideal and the other a less strict code. Many differences of opinion on certain points were expressed in the Council, but the criticism offered was all of a friendly nature and, after spending a lot of time in a careful revision of the draft, two sets of rules were adopted which should form a satisfactory basis for the guidance of any company. What must not be lost sight of, although even th the discussion some members seemed to overlook the point, is the fact that these are only a recommendation upon which a company can frame its own rules to suit its own requirensents. There neither is, nor can be, anything binding in thern as far as the Council is concerned.

The surprise of the day was, perhaps, the way in which the meeting accepted, almost without challenge, the recommendation that when the new Surprise methods book is printed the names shall be added. Alter the discussion on this point last year, it was expected there might be considerable opposition, but little was said about it. It was a wise decision to make, and there is now nothing to prevent the work proceeding to publication. The Methods Committee are open to adopt any suitable names which ringers, contemplating ringing azy of the methods, have selected, even though a peal has not yet been rung, but the putting of a limit to the time when these names can (Confinued on jage 352.1

[^29]be submitted was essential, and a month from the date of the meeting was fixed. Any band practising a new Surprise method to which they wish to give a name, should submit it at once to the committee, and, if the method is included in the book, the name will be adopted. It would be unfair to delay this privilege any longer because it is not merely a question of altering a name over a column of figures; it affects references and indexing as well, and there should be nothing done now to delay its issue, especially in view of the extremely gratifying response of the associations in guaranteeing to take up more than half of the edition.

DEVON BELLS

ANOTHER PEAD RESTORED.

The bells of Alphingtor, Devon, have been restored by Messrs, John Taylor and Co., who have rohung the octave in a metal frame, and greatly improved the tome of the bellg by retuning. The ring aates from 1749, When they were cast, from the original five, with additional metal, by Thomas Bilby, of Callompton.

The work wis dedicated on Whit Seturday by the Bishop of Exeter amid parochial rejoiciags. Whan the appeal for funds for the restoration was made thera was a magnificent respense. On one day during November the Recter (Prebendary B. C. Bendett) eat in church the whole digy to receive contributions, and altogether on that occasion he receivad 9264 in amounts ranging from 2 d , to 525.

In the course of his address, efter the formal dedication of the bells, the Bishop of Exeter said he was always glad when the opportumity occurred-and it occurred very frequently in Devon-to be preseat at the dedication of bellig.
'I have discovered haw deeply Devon folk lave their bells,' he went on. and I believe it is no exaggeration to say that we have more bells-and, I shoulf like to think, more beautiful bells-than any other diocese in this country. We lave well over 3,000 bells, or, at any rate, 3,000 ringere- a wonderful army of churchworkers.

I have discovered with what wonderful generosity the whole of the county, even the most remote of rural villages, will give to preserve their bells I congratulate you upon the effort that you bave made in this parish.'

Afterwards the bells were rung to call changes by members of the Alphington band, comprising Messrs. H. J. Brower, W. J. Dayment, A. G. Moxey, F. G. Lake, A. J. Pike, F. G. Coles, N. G. Osborme and J. Rogers. Mr. J. J. Brewer (captain) was responsible for tha ringing arrangements. Among the Fisitors were members of bands in Exeter and the immediate district, as well as from farther afield.

Messrg. John Taylor, of Loughborough, were entrusted with the work, and the result, according to the verdict of those who handied the belks during Saturday afternoon and evening, was that a much-needed improvement had been effected.

Following the service a fete, arranged by the Friends of Alphimgton Association, was held to raise the halance of about 940 on the restoration fund. and so successful was it that the aross takings ameunted to 952.

PEAL NOTES.

A SEYIGNTY METHOD PEAL.
The North Lincolnshire Minor "splicers" are still adding to their laurels, and are not now far benind the record, which stands at 84 methods. They rane a peal in 70 methods at Dunholme, Lincs, on May 26th and included one ertent, by A. G. Driver, which had not been rugg before in a peal:-

Mr. James Quinney, hon. seeretary of Cambridge Foutls, is teaching eight heginners at Great St. Mary's and St. Bene't's Churches. All are choirboys and have reached the 日tage when they can ring Bob Minor. Two of them, both aged 13, have just rung their first peal, ona on the treble at Stapleford and the other an the treble at Histon

A composition of Grandsire Caters, which we are juformed is on a new plan, was rung for the firgt time at Leicester on Whitsun Tuesday. Tha composition is by ledgar Shepherd, but we heve not yet seen it, Not that that makes any difference, but ringers will be interested to know what it is like.
A day Gefore Jer 14th birtladay, May Moody rang lier first peal on May 27th at Carisbrooke, Isle of Wight. She began ringive about a year ago and is believed to be the youngest member of the winchester and Portsmouth Diocesin Guidd to ring a peal. She rang the third and it wns her first attempt for a peal.

The peal of Bob Major at Swanscombe an May 27th was rung, with the best wishes of all the band, as a birthday compliment to Mr. T. Groombridge, jun., of Grayiford, who was responsitile for calling the Girst peal of at least two of Saturday's company. The peal was made possifle by the kindtress of Mr. C. W. Hammond, of Northfleet, who abandoned his garien at a woment's notice to come along and ring the treble.

A DISAPPOINTING DAY

Whit Monday was a disappointing day to a party of ringers who went down to Sussex in the hope of riuging peals in two new plain Major methods. The first was attempted at Salehurst, and the bells, in spite of much coaxing, evinced their determination not to ring the mothod, which was ultimatrelyr abandoned in favour of the inevitable Middieton's, and thus Salehurst became the 50th tower in which Mr. P. A. Oorby had ring in peal.

After a belated luzch, the party adjourned to Brightling, only to find that illiess near the church precluded the possibility of ringing. Much disappointed, the ringers made their way to Battle, where permission was obtained for a short spell of ringing on the heary-going eight and touches in both the new methods were bruught round in fine strie. The diseppointment of M.r. J. C. E. Simpson in having learned wwo raethods and two compositions in vain wust have been intense. Indeed, there were several long faces, sore hanis and heavy hearts as the train bearing the London contingent feared its destination.
To honour Her Majesty Queen Mary's 72ad birthdey, the Leicester Thursdayites, or at least a fev of the 'smaller fry, joumeyed to Notwingham on May 25th for Stedman Triples on the fine heavy ring at St, Mary-the-Virgin. Full compliments are due to Mr. Walter Nichole, wino kept a perfect beat mith the tenor. 近. William Bothrill, by the way, seems to be uncovering his light from that 'bushel' in these clajs.

Mr. F. E. Collins, of Croydon, who called bis wife's first peal, has now had Ene pleasure of conducting her first peal on an 'inside ' bell. They rang together in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Ewell, Surrey, on May 3 st.
The composition of the peal of Double Norwich rung at BusEey, Herts, on June 1st, is unasual. Composed by Mr. E. Morris, it contains 178 calls, with 768 and 678 at altermate course-ends throughout the peal. There are, however, tho 87 's at back stroke. The previous peal of Double Norwich at Busher, rung on April 20 th, contained ell the $468^{\prime} \mathrm{s}$ and $678^{\prime}$.

THE OLDEST PEAL RTNGER?

Who is tine oldest man to ring a pealp Ex-P.S. Joseph Williams, of Newent, Glos., was borm in $1855^{2}$ and ha rang last Saturday a peal of Bob Major at Barnwood with is band, the youngest of whom was 70, and tine average age over 74 yeara.
The conductor was no chicken either. John Austin was born in 1863 and he called a peal composed by George Williams, bora in 1857. The peal was rung in honour of the wedding of Mr. J. Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Newmen, of Barnwood, where Mr. 玒. Nemman is towerkeeper and sidesman.
Seven years ago Mr. Thomas Th. Fhint rang lis last peal, the occasion being the 14 th birthday of his daughter. Her coming-atege was honoured by a peal at St. Lawrences Church, Hatfiald, near Doncaster, on May 27th, when father yang the second to a peal of Kent Treble Bob. Bracketed with the honour was the birthday of Queen Mary.

The peal of Bot Royal at Worsley, Lancs, on Satarday, eazabled Mr. Frank Reynolds to complete peais of Plain Bob from Minor to Maximus.

BIRMTNGGAM MEN AT LINCOLN
The peal at Lincotr Cathedral rung on Saturday for St. Martir's Guild was rung, not by an 'jaternational' band as at Shoreditch, but hy a complete Birmingham band, who mede the journey to Zincoln by road. They were welcomed at the Catliedral by Mr. John A. Freeman, who had very kindly made all the preliminary arrangements for the peal and also had the belis up in readiness, and also by Mr. Rupert Richardson, Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, and Mrs. Richardson.

Peala at Lincoln are usually attempted in the eveniag, nfter evensong, but on this occasion permission had been given to start at midday, witl the proviso that ringing should cease before the commencement of the 4 p.m. service. With the bells going jnto changes at five past wwelve, mn anziety was felt on that score, tut, to the suriprise of most of the band, the end of an excelient peal did not arrive until only a very few minutes remained!
Several new (?) names are to be observed in the report! In case our readers do not recognise them, may we say that the band were Tom Reeres, Frank Haynes, Ernest Allawey, sidney O'C. Hollowey, Bill Dowding, Hawry Fearn, Fred Price (our correspondent couldn't very well "monkey with that), Albert Walker, Johw Mason, Albert Norman, Paddon Smith and George Fearn.
The peal at Cummor, Berks, on May 26th, was rung as a welcome to the Rev. Graham Buston, who was recently inducted to the living. The ringers reccived a very cordial welcome from the new Vicar, who was formerly at st. Mary's Brttersea. Fe is learning to ring, and after the peal loc and the churchwardens kindly provided the ringers with refreshments.

Congratulations to the band who rang their first peal in nine methods at Lamberhurst, Kent, on Saturday, May 27th. The oceasion was a birthday peal for Mrs. Jarvis and Mr. A. Fitchenside.
There was only one extent, and not three $720{ }^{\circ}$, of Plain Bob in the peal of Minor at Willeshorough, Kent, on May 20th. And the weight of the tenor at this tower is 12 cwt .
Mr. J. M. Bailey, the well-known Suftolk ringer, has rung well over 80 peals "in hand," but ontil thjs Whitsuntide had never zung one outside Leiston, Sufolk, and had never rung one whiek had not been called by Inis brother, Mr. C. T. Bailey. A visit to Dartford on May 28th, when he zang one conducted by Mr. D. M. Sluarp, broke the sequence.

DEATH OF MR. J. C. TRUSS.

We regret to record the death of Mr. John C. Truss, of Marlowz who passed away on Thursday of lat week.
He came of a ringing family, and untii illness overtook hima few Fears ago he was prominently identified with ringing, mot only in the Oxford Guild area, bat also in London, where he took part in many pealb, including the "John" peals of London Surprise in 1904 and the Stedmen Cinques in 1912.

BELFRY GOSSIP

There were three ringers present at the Central Council meeting last week who atteuded the lirst mecting in 1891. Canor Coleridge has been a member without a break since that time and is the only one who bas attended every meeting of the Councit.
Mr. George Williams has also been member from the outset, luving represented the old Winchester Guild and the Winchester and Portamouth Guild from 1891 to 1896 and from 1919 to 1839 ; the Susser Association from 1897 to 1905 . From 1906 to 1918 he was ig honorary member.
The other orjginal nmber, whom everyone was delighted to see, was Mr. Joseph Grifis, of Burton-on-Treat, who represented the Midland Countios Association from 1891 until 1923, was elected an hon. member the following year and served until 1836 . He came to London last weef specially to meet his old iriends. Like Canon Coleridge and Mr. Williams, he is well into the "eighties.
The ring of six bells of Oyer Stowey Church, mear I3ridgwater, Somerset, is to be tuned and rehung in n new [rane and a new treble added th make six. The work is being emtrubted to Messrs. John Taylor and Co.
$A$ correspondeut informs us that there is a suggestion afoot for a peal attempt by a band of bald heads. 'A rapid survey of the Ringers' Directory, he says, 'prompts ine to suggest the following for a peal of Turned-Lu $ob Maximus: W. Ayre 1 , W. H. Barber (conductor) 2, A. Cutnore 3, F. I. Fairs 4, A, J. Hindes 5, A. E. Lock 6, C. C. Mayne 7, T. C. Parton 8, J. E. Rootes 9, स I. Trim 10, Rev. C. E Wigg 11, C. W. Woolley 12.
Mr Edwin Shepherd, of Ezeher, on Juae 6th, completed 60 years as an member of the Devonshire Guild of Ringers, having heen elceted on June Gtin, 1879. He has theen a nrember of the Anmient Society of College Yoalhs for 59 years and a member of the St. Sidwell's Society, Fxeter, for gl years. He was a sidebram at sis. Sidwelt's Church from 1890 to 1904 , and churchwarden from 1904 to 1911 , from 1918 to 1922, and again from 1935 to 1939. A inwly great remord of work for the Cluturch.

Owing to an error in our last issue, the date of the Kcut County Association meeting at Fartlip was orlitted. The meetigg will be held to-morrow (Saturdar) and the bells will be available fron 3 p.m.
A cycl rade of 130 miles and three more towers "im the butg " was Mr. F. Hopgoad's Whitsun Giversion. His expedition took him from Wimbledon to Hastings and back.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

BOWDON AND STOCEPORT BHANGH.
On a zecent Saturday a mecting of the above branch was leld at New Mills and 32 members and friends were present. The bells were set going early in the afternoon and touches in vaxious methods rang. The usual Guitd form of service was conducted by the Wicar, who also gave an inspiring address. Ten was served in the дoarby Parish Hall by the local ringers' wiyes and a rery enjoyable meal was npeedily disposed oi. The business meeting followed under the chairmanslip of a very old friend, Mr. J. H. Jackson, of Disley, who has reached the age of 88. The way in which he denlt with the business would have done credit to much younger man and shows he still retains his old vigour for presiding at meetiugs.
The busimess was all of a routine yature. One new member was clected, Jolan Anthony Beaumont, of Disley, and menbers were reminded of the annual festival of the Guild at Runcorn.
The meeting concluded with hearty rates of thanks to the Vicar for lis assistance, to the chairman, the local ringers and the ladies who prepared tea, and to the organist.
The mecting learned with regret that the Ficar was very sliortly leaving the parish for another post in Scotland on account of his health, and cxpressed a wish that in that 'foreiga? clime he would regain it.
Further ringing was enjoyed on the bells untill a late hour, particular attention being given to the learners.

RINGING IN BOURNEMOUTH.  A WORD TO INTENDING FISITORS  To the Rditor.

Dear Sir,-On Whit Monday last a party of ringers sought and, after mucla persistency, olytamed last-minute permission to ring our bells. Two other outing parties had already used the peal, having obtained permission in the proper way some weeks ago

The Ficar said to me lator in the week, "I geve way againgt my better judgment, rather than spoil their day's outing, but it mutr not occur again. So in futare will organisers of outirgs who would like to use our bells kindly address their application to me, at least a fortnight before the date, so thet I can place same before the Vicar at a convenient noment? Written permasion will be sent and this should be produced at the tower on the day of the pisit.
As before explained, our bels are situated badly and we do get some complaints if they are rung too frequently. Permission can and will be granted at reasomable intervals, and the Exercise enjops tho support and interest of the present Vicar, 80 I hope ringers will not spoit this liappy state of affairs by thoughtless getion.

JOHN PHILLIPS.

One of the deading conductors in South Wales in recent years has been Mr. Johm Phillips, of Cardiff, who has rendered valuable service to the Liandaf and Monmouth Diocesan Assaciation. He couses of Devoushire ringing stock und learnt to rimg ins the Barustaple district, where, alliough it was only call changes the ability to strike well, as Devontilre cail clange cingers can strike, was early acquired, and has proved a yaluable asset a! through his subsequeat ringug carees.
Mr. Plitlips was born at West Down, Nortlı Devon, 014 April 22nd, 1904, but was taken at the age of five to tive at Tawstock, where he began learning to ring wheu ouly ewelve years old on the six bells at the Parish Church. Ha removed to Cardiff in 1921, but up to then had done nothing but call changes: indeed, it wis not until 1926. Winen lie joined the hand at St. Jolin's, Сат Nifl, and the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesm Associalion, that be became interested in the art.
From linat time, however, his enthusiasm grew, atid he rang his first peal at Marslifield ou May 7til. 1927, aud called a peal of Gizandsire Triples at Poterstrame on October 13tle, 1928. Mr. Phinlips is one of thase with a natural gift for conducting, and ang band, with lima as pilot, can start a peal with the atmost confidence. The scope for conducting peals in sonth wolmas is to ponto

MR. JOHN PHILEIPS. mate Gextent limited, but Mr. Plillips laas called and of Minor and Major, and Caters, Stedman Triples and Caters, and of Minor and Major, and can call a penl of either at a moment's notice. Jast year he conducted the only Past Masters' pea! rang tor his association. It. was a peal of Stedman Triples at Cardif. He has enoducted 45 out of the 118 peals he lins rung.
Mr. Plallips was Master of the Llandaff and Monmouth Aesociation for the year 193I, und represented the association on the Central Gouncil from 1930 to 1932.

This series will now be suspended for a short time. We hope to resume it in the near fature with short sketches of the careers and photographs of some of the men who were leading conductors in the past, but who now, while still, happily, with us, are not so active in this department, and leave most of the conducting to younger aspirants.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A NORTHERY DIVESION DESPPOINTMENT

A verf poor attendance marred the success of a meetiag of the Northern Divibion of the Fssex Assoriation, held at. Belchamp St. Paul's on Saturday, Iume 3rd. Only 17 ringers attended, probalbly the lowest ever recorded in this division. It was, however, wery elscouraging to note that the 17 ringers represented eleven towers as follous: Wickhan St. Paul's, Bocking, Stisted. Sibje Hedingham, Sudbury, Clare, Grentead Greeu, Earls Colne, Haistead, Great Tey and the local corapauy
A short service whs conducted hy the Vicar (the Rev. F. F. Flynm), who gave the ringers a cordial welcone. This was followed by tea, the Rev. and $\mathbf{N}$ Re. Flynn being present.
Af the business meeting which followed, with the District Master (Mr. F. Ridgwell) in the chair, Great Yeldham was selected for the nex mineting, the date lyeing fired for Septemher 2nd. It was also decided that the secrefary try and get the use of Sible and Castle Hedinglam hells also on inis date.
The District Master moved a very hearty vote of thanks to tine Vicar, to the organist and to $\mathbf{M r}$. W. Cubmore for so ably areauging surh a splendid tea. It was a pity, he said, that so few had turmed up to partyke of such ma, excellent repast. The Master wedt on to say that the members certainly could not blame the weather for their absence: a ride in the country wes just the thing on such a glarious fiternoon.
The Ficar briefly replied, and gave an interesting talk on the bistory of Belchamp.
The memhers then returned to the tower. The methods rung during the afternoon ranged from Boh Minor to London Surprise. Several other visiting ringers turned up after tea to riug on this delightfu! peal of siz.

DEVONSHIRE GUIED

BAR ON COMPETITIYF RINGLNG REMOYED.
The 65tly aunual general meeting of the Devonslyire fuild was helf at Plymouth on Whit Mobday The usual Cuild service in St. Andrew's Charch, conducted by the Yicar (the Rew. C. A. Martin), ircluded an address of welcome and relerence to the smmilitude of the bells and ponegranates on Aaron's robe to the fruit experted from the work of the riggers.

Dinner was served for 170 in Goodbody"s Restaurant, followed by the business meoting, with the Rev, E. W. Cox, president, in the elhair. The antual report, as cirmbitied, was adopled, and a voto of lhanks was carried to the Vicar of St. Andrew's and Mr. H. Toope, the organist, for their kind assistance.
Tho president, general treasures, genezal scorelery and auditor were all re-elected, and the Bislop of Plymoatla and tive Rev. W. H. Smale elected additional wiee-presidents.
A question as to the validity of a peal rung last fear was referfed to the committee to deal with.
The president's uotion for deletion of Ruie 12, forbiddigg certain competitive ringing was carried after much discussion by a majority of 71 ,
The President, in proposing his mution, said the existing rule cast a stigua ou memberg of the sister urganisation, the Devanshire A eso ciation. When the rule was made it was most essentisl that no memher fif the Guild shoutd enter competitions, as they wero associnted with things the Church could not suanction or approve. Everything, however, liad cilanged nowedays.
Tlie Rev. E, J. Pizey, Vicar of Walkhampton, opposed the resolution. He said in liss cxperience, and in the experience of many other clergymen in the country, compatitive ritging had a tondency to cut down the interest of hellringing in the parish itself.
$A$ bard of ringers is formed,' le said, 'and in some parislies they are apt to discourage anyone else fron taking part in ringing. Some tines six or eight ringers form themselves into an exclusive band, and if only five turt up for ringing they won's ring ju respeot for those who have not turued up.

When I first went to my parish, he continued, "I was told by the ringers I had no jurisdiction over the bella at all, and if I did it would frobably only be over the tevor bell. My prodecessor had the same trouble, and had to lave tive ropes eut of the halls, and they had no bells for ten years.

A motion by Mr. T. G. Myers (Plymouth), semouded Mr Mr. F. J. Ryall, of Exeter, : That one of the abjects of the Guild is not to encourage mapetitive ringing, was de[cated ly 28 yotes to 17 .
The President thought the fituest thing for the atriking of the Gujld would bo to have some sort of comperitive ringing. and Mr. C. R. Lilley supported the wiew that compentive ringing would be a good thing for the inprovement of striking. "Why slouid we be ashamed of having competitive ringing ?" he asked.

Antomatically the alteration of a brancli rule was approved, Holsworthr was selected for the amnual zaeelingt to be beld on whit Monday in 1940.

WISTASTON RINGER'S DEATH.

He war one of uature's gentlomen; he had mot hn enemy in the world.' This is the tribute paid to the memory of Mr. Ifesse Bayly, a ringer at Wistaston, Clueshire, who died suddealy on May zurd, aged 46. When a locaj band wha formed at Wiathston $14 \frac{1}{2}$ jears ago he came forward. A regular attendanl aud reliable ringer, Mr. Bayly had nine peals bo his credit. For 38 years he liarl Leen a member of the local choir.

At the funeral the bells were rullg half-muflex by ramous ringers from Crewe, Wybunbury, Nantwich, Wenhury, Marbury, Davenham and the local band, Messrs. $R$. B. Largford, $H$. Overton, $H$. $F$. Holding and G. Packer, of Grewo, rang a course of Grandsire Triples over the grave. A peal to jhis memory was also rung on Saturdey, May 27th.

A STAFFORDSHIRE RESTORATION.

REOPENING OF CHFADLE (R.C.) CHURCE BELLE.
The bals of Claeadle Roman Catholic Church were rung again on Suaday. May 28 th, after beigg silent for a long time. Tlie six bella had not gone yery well for some time, and it was decided to have thenz relung and to add two new trebles, thus making them into a peal of eipht with a tenor of 15 cwt. The work was entrusted to Messrs. Jonn Taylor and Co., of Loughhorongh, and the workmanship as well as tone and go of the bells is an credit to the firm, who have anade them one of the best peals in North Stafordshitr.
The visitors who attended and rang for the eveling service were Messrs. J. F. Wheeldon (Norton), E. Stoele (Longton). C. H. Page (Stoke), W. Perkins (Dravcotti, R. Waryilow aad F. Healey (Stafford) B. Keys (Tettenhall), and C. Tahbinor (Wombauraek. The towers of Kinsley and Cheadle were aisn well zepresented. The methods rung Were Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Grandsire und Stedman Triples.
After the ringing the visitors were entertained to tea by the leader of St. Giles ringers, Mr. A. W. Hall, and Mre. Hall, and their kindnesf whs very much appreciated. A rote of thanks was yroposed to them for their generosity, and, in reply, Mr. and Mrs. Fall thanked the ringers for lielping to natie the opening of the bells auch a succest.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

A WELCOME TO WESTMINSTER

Assaciation Representation

When the meeting of the Central Council opened on Wlikun Tuesday, at the Middleser Guridball, Westrniaster, with a record attendance, the chair was taken by the president, Mr. E. H. Lewis, who announced that they had with them the Rev. Canon Jocelyn Perkios announced that they had win them the kev. Canou Jocelyn Perkios Canon Perkins said he ought to begin with a kind of apology, for the right person to welcame the Council was not a humble jndividual like himself, but that great potentate of the Church, the Fery Rev. the Dean of Westminster. He was a greater potentate than any mera Bishop (laughter), and he (Canoa Perkins) was sorry the Dean was busy with other people, otherwise he would have liked very much indeed to welcome the Council, but he had to be at St. Mergaret's to preach to the Awericans it their annual service in Londos. Canon Perkins, proceeding, Eaid ho could not claim to be a ringer. He had often intended to put timgelf in the hands of ore of kis ringing friends for instruction, but in the end he had come to the conclusion not to add one more to the accomplishmenta at which fie wes not profcieat (laughter). He spoke of lis earliest recollections of church bells and went on to 的y that when, in the 1880's, be Fis an enthusiastic choirboy at St, Paul's, Bedford, there was a carillon in the tower which had the barbarons custom of playing sunes every three hours, and the lives of the inhabitants of Bediord were made wretched day and night by learing the bells pleying such tunes as Barbara Alion' and "There's no luok about the nouse" (laughter). Then the carillon got out of order and about the year 1892 bis young brother knd the impudence to write to the local paper about it. He said it was a disgrace to the town, and that letter, from a small boy, led to the bells at, St. Paul's being recast and brought up to date (applausel. Canon Parkins went on to pay his tribute to his friends the rragers at the Abbey. When in 1919 the Abbev bells were rehme and improved and the octave completed-it ought to have been done yeara beloretheir beloved Dean Ryle, he said, was good enough to make him superintendent, of the belfry. That meant that he was responsible for the morals of Mr. Hughes, Mr. Oxborrow. Mr. Macdonald and others (laughter). What success he had had in that direction remained to be seen (laughter), but he had had a great deal of pleasure out of his association with the ringers. Thay asd come to be some of his dearest frienis (applause), and for absointe efficiencs he was perfectly convincet there was no set of ringers in the country to oxcel them (appleusa). They nover broke stays or anything of that sort (laughter). Canon Perkins concluded by wishing the members a successful and enjoyable meeting, and said whea 1942 came round and they again met in London the hoped the members of the Council would be found in the belfry of Wesminster discoursing their sweet masie. Fe prayed God's blessing on their detiberations, for no one was more convinced than he was of the tremendous value of church bells and ringing to the canse which they as churchmen had at heartthe spreading of Christ's gospel througlout the world (applause).
The President, in thanking Canon Perkins for his welcome, said he Would jike to mako an apology to him and anyone else concerned at the Abhey, because he understood that on the previous day the tenor etay was broken. If they got permission to ring there again in threo Years' time they would make it quite clear that the ringing was only Cor members of the Centrai Conncil and that they did not wish to have ary "gate craghers," because jt was a 'gate crasher" who caused the calamity to the tenor stay

TEF CONSTITTTION OF THE NEW COUNCLL,

After the depurture of Canon Perkjos, the President said that was a Hew Council and there were many gem faces among the mombers. He assured them the Council were very pleased to see them, and be hoped thep would be able to do the Hons, Secretery, in his report as to membership and representation, ,aid it was with regrelt he had to report the failure of certain associations to farwaid the names and addresses of their representatives as provided for in the rules. The rules provided that these reprearentatives should be elected at least four weeks before the cammancement of each triennial session, and the rattes and addresses of those elected shoald forthwith be forwarded to the secretary. He had mado two applications for the information, but so far bad not raceived any roplies in the following eases: Chester Diocesan Guild hed forwarded 81 sulscription, but no information as to membership and representatives, although through the kindness of a past member be Lat the rames and addreses of two of the representatives. Fram the Hereford Diocegan Guild be had received sl subseription, but no information as to representatives. No subscription and no information had been received from Nortls Notts Association and North Wales Association, go thess had been deleted firm the list of associations antiliated. The Scottish Assaciation had forwarded 5 . subscription, but no information as to representative. With regard to the Barnsley and District Assacistion and Dudley and District Guild, these two associations kat supplied figures showing that they were ontitied to elect a further representative. The collection of the balance of subscriptions would be dealt with. Suffolk Gaild had elected four representatives and tad paid for them, but from the paritenlars of membership it would seem that they were only entibled to three representatives Tha particulars showed the startling reduction in annual subscribing members of nearly 200, and he thought there must be some mistake. So far as was known, the Council was now made up of 49 societies entitled to 139 representatives; nomber of representatives elected 132 . The honorary members numbered 16 . Many familiar names did not appear on the new Council's roll. Among these were Mr. C. F. Winney, College Youths; Mr. H. W. Browa, Bath and Wells; Miss K. Willers, Ely ; Mr. J. H. Cheesman and Mr. T. Groambridge, Kent; Mr. F. E. Dewe, London County; Mr. E. Denison Taylar Midtand Coumbies: Mr G. E, Borrett, Norwich and Mr R G Black, Peverborough.

The list of members present was giveu in our last issac. A number of apologies for absence were received, among them one from Mr. James Parker, who was ill.
Mr G. W. Stere said Mr. Parker liad been a member for a grest muny years, having been first elected in 1894 [or the Sussex Associe tion. In 1897 he mas elecied as a representative of the Royal Cumberland Youths and again in 1906, sioce when he bed been continuously a member and lad made 30 attendances. Ha was only precluded by ilness from being present that day. He moved that the regret of the Council be sent to Mr. Parker with gaod wishes for his speedy recovery. This was at ouce agreed to.
Twenty-two new members were presented to the president.

ORFICEFS AND HON. MEMBERS

The election of officers for the next triennial periad then took place. Mr. A. Paddon Smitl pronosed the re-election of Mr. E. H. Lewis us presideat. He could not, le said, conceive any men better fitted to hold the position than Mr. Lewls. He had extensive engineermg experience, and hit wast knowledge of the strains and stresses on towers cansed by the swinging of bells had been of incalculable value to the Exercise and to Church muthorities who had called upou him to advise on these metters. The Council were evarlastingly indebted to him for his courtesy, urbanity and 如d, and for the ekilful manner in which in the conduct of the business of the Council lie brought them buck on to the lines-for somatimes they did get of the lines-without stifling discussion, and thus got them through their proceedings in a rersonable time (applause)
Canon Coleridge seconded the motion, which was carried with applanse.

The Presideat thanked the members for their renewed confidence. He said he felt soractimes that he did rot do all he ought to do for The Gouncil, particularly bebreen meetings, and that had been specially the case during the last twelve months, during which things had not been very easy in the business world, and be had not had vory much time for ringing matters, particularly outside his uwn tower. He would be pleased to to what he could for another term and hoped the Councl would bear with the shortcomings which he knew he had and the meny omissions of which he felt guilty during the intervals between meetings. Mr. Smith had put the matter so nicely and the Council had roted so unarimonaly in favour that he felt he could do nothing else than accept. He had had a warning to go rather more elowly, and it was only by the special digpensation of the doctor that he was there that day
The President then went on to propose the re-election of Mr. G. W. Fletcher as hon. secretaty and treasurer of the Council, a position lie had held so successiully for the lust three camplete sessions of the Council. Mr. Fletcher got through an enormous amaunt of workhow ho did it be (Mr. Lewis) could not conceive. There must be a grest shortage of candles in the house at Enfietd, for Mr. Fletcher was burning them at both ends (lsughter and applause)
The motion was carried by acclamation, and, in achnowledging his election, Mr. Fletcher said he hoped in the next three years then associations would render it unnecessary for him to start the meeting with a grumble, as he had started that one, and others in the past. His report was the first jtem on the agenda and it made a rather bad start. He hoped in the next three yenrs they would have a more happy nots to start on (hear, hear).
The President said there was one possible explanation of how Mr. Fhetcher got throagh so much work, and that was the fact that he had such an bxcellent assistant in his wife (applause)
On the motion of Mr. A. Walker, seconded by Mr. J. T. Dyke, the folfowing honorary members wers re-elected and Mr. W. H. J. Hootan added to the list: The Rt. Hon, the Earl of Shaftesbury, Alderman J. S. Prithett, Major J. F. B. Hesse, Messrs, C. Deano J. S. Geldsnaith, C. F. Johnston, J. A. Trollope and E. Alex. Foung.
Mr. A. A. Hughes proposed the addition of Mr. T. Groombridge, sen., who had, he easd, been a member of the Council for a great many years and hed done good work, not only for the Cauncil, but aleo in his own county of Kead.
Mr. T. B. Worsley proposed the name of Mr. J. Frank Smallwood, of Bath, and thle Rev. C. Elliot Wigg proposed Mr. F. Sharpe, of Oxfordshire. All these were duly elected and one racancy was left for emergencies.
The name of Mr. E. Denison Tavlor, of Loughborough, who had retired froms the representation of the Mrdland Counties Association, was also mentioned, but it was pointed out that Mr. Taylor, owing to advancing years, was retiring at his own request from participation in the Council.
Mr. W. H. J. Hooton was then re-elected hon. librarian, and, in accepting office again, said he woula like a little more assistance from secrefaries of ascociations and others who Etill had books on Eale or retrin, of which he had no account. He would like to see more people who would take the Council's books on theso terms, because be was conviaced the best wey to sell them was to take them to meetings and offer them.

The auditors, Messrs, C. T. Coles and A. A. Hughes, were re-elected on the motion of Mr. W. A. Cape, seconded by Mr. G. R. Newton. DEATH OF PAST MEMBERS.
The President asid, as far as they knew, three old members of the Council had been lost by death. Mr. W. T. Pates, of Cheltenbam, was an honorary member from 1891 to 1894 and aitended one meeting. Thera were not many present that day who would remember Mr. Pates as a member of the Council. The Rev. F.J. O. Helmore, of the Kent Country Association, was, up to ten years ego, a member of the Council from 1894. During that 35 years he attended 22 meetings and took a great interest in the work of the Council. As they knew, he was largely responsible for the present successful position of the Kent County Association, of which he was hon. secretary for a great rumber of Yenrs. Mr. A. B. Bennett represented the Sussex Association from 1903 to 1905 , and daring that thme attended all the meetinge.
The Council marked their sympethy by standing in silence for a few moments.

The minutes of the meeting beld last year at Leeds were adopted as printied.

THE COUNCIL'S LIBRARY.
The report of the bon. librarian was as follows: The thanks of the Council are due to Mr. W. H. Fussell for a gift of a large number of association reports of some 30 societies which cover a period from 1881 to the present dny. Though not romplete, these will form a valuable basis for n collection should the Council ever consider making one. In this event binding wonld be advisable. Two hooks, on 1885 one. In this event Ginding wonld be atvisable Two hooks, an 1885 and Ringing, by W. T. Mnupell. MA., 1861, formerly the property of Mr. foseph Wilishire, of Reading, have been given by Mr. C. E. Pearce, churchwarden of St. Andrew's, Rugby, A collection of letters between W. .F. Thompson and others, and Dr. Seacombe has been presented by Mr. J. Kenyon, of Great Yarmouth. Thanks should be presented by Mr. J. Kenyon, of Great Yarmouth. Thanks should be Given Egain to Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fletcl
One or two library books have been lent for research purposes. With the consent of the president and secretary, orders have been given for the repair of several of the carly books. Some of these are properly repaired. The book in worst. condition, a copy of 'Campanalogia Improved ' is heing re-wound liv Messrs, Gray, of Cambridge, who are expert in this kind of work. All parts of the book, including inseribed end papers and binding, where possible, will be preserved, bnt the cost of this particular work will be 7s. 6d. Messrs. Over, of Rugby, can cope with some of the simpler cases of re-backing and re-sewing.

Five hundred Cambridge Sheets have been printed; "Hints ta Instructors ${ }^{2}$ is beiag reprinted, and "Model Rules" and "Law Affecting Church Eells" should be available before long. The "Minor and ing Church Bells "should be available before long. The "Minor and Doubles Methods. Wook is in great demand, and accounts for 200 of the receipts.

The librarian's accounts showed the sale of 505 publications amounting to 5269 gr .2 d. and El 13 s . 10d, received from books sold by agents. The balance carried to the kencral aceount was $£ 1412 \mathrm{~s}, 4 \mathrm{~d}$. The stock in hand was valued at 215468 ld

Mr. Hooton seid some of the books had already been satisfactorily repaired. They were presentation copies for the most part, which had been much used by old ringers; they could not be called collectors* copies, but it was aduisable to have them repaired if they were to last at all.
The report was adopted and the librarian's action confirmed. It was also rgreed thet, as recommended ly the Standing Committee, the librarian be given general powers for the maintenance of the books in the library.

The Rev. H. Drake asked what was being done with regard to the "Glossary. They had got ride of all the copies of the old book and now there wes no 'Glossary' belonging to the Council. He thought there should be one, and he would like to know whiat was heing done. He propoged they shoulf discuss whether they should cotnplete a new 'Gossary' or not. Fie certainly thought it ought to he mach smad recently been discussions in "The Ringing World " ahout technical herms, and they ought to krow what were the recogrised technical terms which should he used. They ought to publish a small 'Glossary,' which should be suffecient to last for a certain number of years and be revised periodically
Mi. P. J. Johnson seconded. In the old 'Glossary, he said there Whs very much that was absolutely uminecessary, but there was very Council of that size. It did not necessarily follow that in a multitude of courcillors they got a multitude of intelligence (iaughter), bat the matter could he considered by the proper committee, with a wiew to issuing a smaller edition.

Mr. J. A. Trollope said, pas ote who had had some experience in thess things, his opinion was that, bowever good their intentions, no 'Glossary' fulfiled the object for which it whs drawn up. The genesis of the first 'Glessary' was a statement by Sir Arthur Heywood that, as a writer, he found extraordinary difficulty in making (Contënued in next columpi)

PRACTICAL QUESTIONS DISCUSSED.

DERBY DISTRICT RINGERS AND LEARNERS.

A very successiul meeting of the members of the Derby Districh of the Midand Counties Assaciation was held at Melbourne on Saturday, June 3 rd. Wisiting ringers found difficulty at first in handing the ropes owing to the long draught from the guides to the floor, but this die not provent towches of Grandsire, Piain Bob, Treble Bob, Litile Bob, Stedman and Double Norwich from being rung. Wisitors attended Irom Gainsborough, Coventry, Ibstock, Repton, Burton, Ticknalil, Ripley, Sawlew, West Hallam, Spondon and Derby (ine Cothedral, St. Luke's, St, Peter's and St. Andrew's). After tea the Ficar. the Fev. R. John Mortis, D.S.O., kindly placed the Church House at the disposal of the riggers for the business meeting.One den member, Mr. Ronald Foster, of St. Peter's, Derby, was elected, having rung his first peal on Whit Monday afternoon.

It was decided to lold the next monthly meeting at Ripley on July lst, special methods for practice being Treble Bob and Double Norwich.
An interesting discussion trak place on conductiag. It was pointed out that in many towers this was confined to one man only, but that this was decidealy a mistake, and the suggestion was made that the ideal to be aimed at mas that ach ringer should taite it in furn to call a touch of some sort, as the more ringers there were capable of conducting, the greater the interest and improvement in ringing.
There was also a discussion on teaching learners. According to raports at various times in "The Ringing World,' this is a vexed question in many districts, and the suggestion was made that wheo a ringer jntroduced a learner in a tower he ought to make bimself personally responsible far his tuition, and not leave it to anybody to tell the learner what he thiaks beat, as this only led to the confusion and bawilderment of the learncr. It was a well-known fact that anybody's job soon became nobody's
Further discussion followed as to the meritg or otherwise of practising a special method at a mecting. The opinion was expressed that it might have a tendency to scare away the learners, but one learner suggested, whe not $n$ method for tin learners and another for the more esperienced ringers? As the suggestion was well supported, it Tas decided at the next meeting to give leatmers a special practice at Treble Bob, as the place-making seemed to occasion no little, difficulty, and to ask the more experienced ringers to look up Doable Nonfich.
The result, will be eagerly awaited.
Votes of thanks to the Yicar for tha use of the bells and for his hearth welcome and the use of the Chumeh Fouse, and to MIr, Charlos Davies for making all arrangements brought the meeting to a close.
On returning to the tower more riggers wele met, who had been picnicking rould the famons Melbarne Pool, add further ringing was enjoyed nintil 8.30 , when the frells were lowered in peal.
Just previons to 'elosing dowa' the Vicar once more visited the ringers and expressed the hope that all had enjoyed their visit to yelbourne, and that it would not be long before they visited hin again.

A CORNISH TOUR.

Arrangements rre heimg made hy the branch secretaries of the Iraro Diacesan Guild for a tourang party to hold combined practices at a number of towers in Cornwall from June 9th to 18th. All ribgers will he welcomed and will be given an opportanity of ringing something different to what is usualf rung in their own tower. The ringing wil! consibt of cising and falling in peal, call clamges, Grandsiro and Stedman Triples and Plain Bob.

The towers to be visited are: 9 th, Gulval; 10th, Lezant ( 3 to 5 p.m.), Landulph: 12th. St. Stephen's: 131h, Probus; 14th, Lanivet; 15th, Kenwyn; 16th. Helstom; [7TH1 Wherrington (3 to 5), St. Stepheu's (6.30 to 8.30). Exeept where mentioned, the times are 7 to 9 p.m. On Sunday, the llth, there with be a quarter-peal after servine at Redruth, and on Sunday, the $18 t h$, special ringing at Truro Cathentral, 5.15 to 6.15 .

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

his miews known to his readers, because he could never be quite certain that the meaning he attached to a word was the meaning the reader attached to it. Sir Arthur Heswoad contended that it was the business of anybody who wrote to make stre he used his words in such a way that people understood. But people seemed to think, scid Mr. Trollope, that dictionary definition could be fiven to ringing terms. That was not, in practice, possible. Words had different shades of meaning and it was the business of anyone who wrote to convey the meaning he intended. If ther had a "Glossary' definition they would not necessarily have exacty the meaning a writer intended. A numher of technical terms in ringing were ordinary English words, which had been adopted and had grown up through their associations with ringing to mean what they wished them to mean. The ardinary word "hob," for instance, caused no confusion when used in the tower, but directly they sat dowr to put a glossary definition on it they found they could not do it so that e person would understand. He believed, therefore, that any "Glossary, lowever well intentioned, would he a failure in practice.

A auggestion that the mather be referred to the Standing Committee was adopted, if being ouderstood that they would report upon it next year.
Mr. J. Fiment: And that will be the ond of the " Glossary,' Mr, Dreke (laughter). TTo be corkinued.)

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

HEALTHY ACITVITY LY THE BLANCHES.

The anuual festival of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild took place at Calne, Wilts, on Saturday, May 13th, in parfect weather. The Guild service, held in the grand old church, was preceded and followed by touches of Stedman Friples. A fre volume of sound rose from 150 male voices in the psamond hymos. Thu Rev, F. Li. Edwards (hon. secrebary of the Gusid) and the Rev. H. Y. White offiated, and a cheracteristic sermon was preached by that statwart champion of riugers, the Ven. Archdeacons Coulter, who gave utterance to some very strajght speaking on the suluject of clergy neglecting their belfries. A company of 153 suisequemily sat down to an admirably served luncheon in the Towis Hull. The Res, R. H. Gundry, Master of the Guild, presided, and, after the loyal tosst had been honoured, expressed the gratification of the menubers at the presence of the Mayor of Calne. His Worship mide an eloquent and decply impressive reply.
At the ensuitg liusiness mueting lite Rev. IR. F. Gundry was reelected Mister the Rev. W. J. Edwards general secretary and treasurer, Hr. F. Greeu assistant mecretary, the Rev. R. E. G. Jewman atad Mr. W. Hinks auditors, Canon Gorriuge and Mr. E. Coward members of the commitiee, he Tier. F. LI, Edwards and Messrs. S. Hollier, G. H. Jetuings and $\mathrm{I}^{\prime}$. Wh. Romaine Central Council represeutativer.

The hon semrtary"s report made relerence to the passing, at bie age of 88 yaars, of the kev. A. Du Houlay Hill, who was lirgt Master or the Guild and hold office for 14 yeats. The reports [rom the various brancles, the secretary procceded, juticated a healthy slate of activity. The Marlhorough branch under the direction of its atw oflicers bad not only reowered fram a state of suspended ammation, but was now oue of the most active brathlies in the diocese. Ringers had found good supporters anoug the elergy in that district. In the Dorchester Branch Hr. C. H. Jeunings bad completed 25 yeurs of untring work as Beeretary. The resclution adopted hy that branch last year on the suljeet of " synthetie bell music ${ }^{\text {s }}$ in cluurch towers hed produced a sirchag and satisfactory stalement from the Diocesan Advisory Board. It wis greatly to be regrelted that the sum reguired to pur wyke Regis hells jurepair wat ant yet forthcoming. The great performance recorded at Exershot was proof af the progress made in West Dorset ${ }_{3}$ whero boh the chairman and the Tinging Master had been metive in conducting peals. The Calne Erancla was to be congratulated on a splendid supply of ringers, most of the towers having 14 or more. Oue less satisfactory feature of the braunh reports was the entry in several cases of 'No returths.' In some instances this meant, that the fower had failen to keep in touch with the Guild without any notiftealion of its withdrawal, and the Guild stilj continued lopeiully fo joclude the correspondent's ganme in the report. Iu other cosses it was due to the Iailure of the correspondent to make the returns at the proper time.
The peal record contrinet itiree or four reatures of outstanding interest. The peal of Kent Maximus it Trowhridge was the first of Tredile Twalve for the Guild and in the county of Wilte, it was conducted by the veteran Master of the Winchester Guild, whose honoured mame had for well over half a century beens frequently associnted with peals rung in the Diocese of Salishury. The first day of the year witmessed a similar record for the Guild gnd cothity in the eight Hinor methods rung at Semley, while the peal of Doubles in 21 methods conducted by Mr. Bishop at Evershot in honour of Mr. W. Ruttley's 50 years of service in that tover might clam to have set up $\quad$ world's record. The officers' peal at Salisoury a fortnight later whs of personal interest to the writer of these notes, while it was also the conductor's 10041 peal. The first peal on the massive bells of Gillingliam was atso a notable event. The report concluded with cordial thanks to the offecers of the Guidd for their splendid work and to the wice-presidents and honorery members for their valued and to support.

The Master, in his repart, said it was a surprise to many at the frexious annual meeting to learn how many of the momberg of the Guila had a record of 50 years' service. It would be interesting to compile a record of all members wha had completed 50 years and over of ringing, and lye asked those who had done so ta send lim a postcarl, giving their mame and the number of jears they had heen ringers, so that he might campile a correct list. He specially rongratulated the hon. secretary m having completed his 50th year of ringing, but he (the Master) had to confess that it was 59 years ago that he storted. He cungratulated the Rev. ©. C. Cox and Mr. W. C. West upon having attained their lundredth peal and the Evershot band on ringing a peal in 21 methods. Referring to the increased interest taken in clange ringing in the diocese, the Master said it was due a great deal to the excellent work of the instructors, whe had spared neither time nor distance in carrying out their joh.

The hon. secretary's balsnce sheet showed rencipts from the branches amounting to 840 16s.. from hom. members and associates fi6 $6 e$. , life
 E62 14s. 6d. The expenditare, which includes tlyee grants of two guineas eatil to bell funds, mmounted to $£ 6515 s, 10$., thus reducing

The bells of Calne and other churches for some males round were kept in active use during the day.

DON'T SGRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

Sold in 6d. and 1/- Tubes

THE FINANCES OF THE COUNCIL.

One of the things connected with the Central Council about which little is heard is its financial affairs. Every year a balance sheet is presented and adopted, but there is seldon any comment upon it in the Council. Outside, it is the matter in which ringers generally take the smallest, if any, interest. How the Council pays its way is, they imagine, no concern of theirs, and yet the interests of the Exercise have been promoted in no small measure by the manner in which the funds have been spent. Apart from the position which it occupies as a coordinating body, the exercise of a "watching brief ' over such exterior matters as might interfere with the practice and, perhaps, the existence of the art of ringing, and the useful services which it can render in connection with towers and belfries, the Council's greatest contribution to the cause of ringing and the one which, in the course of years, has had a vast influence on the progress of the art, has been the issue of the publications which it has sponsored. The Council has taken up the preparation of technical books from the point where private enterprise could not venture without risk of loss, and the work which has thus been done has not only led to a general expansion of knowledge but carried the practice of change ringing into fields which, a couple of generations ago, were undreamt of.

The Council has been able to draw upon some of the best byains in the Exercise to further this side of its work, and time and ability have been devoted to it ungrudgingly, gratuitously and almost without limit. But even so, the Council has had to back the publication of the various works financially. Practically every one of them has been issued at a loss; indeed, it was not until quite recently that even a small percentage was added to the net cost to help cover the various incidental expenses that must be met in the issue of any publication. It is in this cause that most of the funds of the Council are expended, and as time has progressed the books that have been issued have grown in their pretensions, and, consequently, in cost.

Where does the Council get the money from? Each year it receives about 635 in affiliation fees and subscriptions; its investments bring in $f 5$, and it gets the balance from the sale of publications, which in some years may be as much as f20; occasionally the Council has actually had to meet a Ioss. The publication of a new book which proves popular gives the receipts a temporary expansion, such, for instance, as the sale of two hundred copies of the new 'Doubles and Minor ' book last year. This, however, is exceptional, and, generally, the Council's total incone does not amount to more than about $f 50$ a year. But it carries on its work successfully at a rinimum of expense, and saves its balances for new publications. Those who give the matter a thought will realise that, apart from the value of the Council from other points of view, the Exercise owes it a great deal for what it is thus able to do, but ringers generally, perhaps, do not fully appreciate how much more they are indebted to those individuals who make this possible, the executive officials of the Council and those who do this technical work without fee or reward of any kind. It is they who pay the Council's way by their gratuitous labours, and it is the Exercise that benefits.

A NEW RECORD.

The ringing of a peal of Double Oxiord Bob Major at Crayford Just Friday wes the pecasion of a ner record. Mr. Edwin Rumett and hts son, Edwin A., raug their 100th peal together and the former thus becomes the first to score a century with both his father and bis son. Mr. Barnett rang 235 peals with his late father, who was known to all the ringing frateraity as Edwin Barneti, sen.
The quickest peal of Caters on the beils at St. Peter's, Nottingham was rung on Tharsday, June 8th, and it is with pleasure that in this we can record the first peal of Sikedman Caters rung by Mr. John E. Clarke. Mr. Clarke has always been the 'calt' of the Leicester Thursday band, and afthough so 'young' he daesn't care how far he travels providing he has the opportunity of taking part in some really good ringing. The peal at Nottingham was arranged by Mr. Fred Salter, who very kintly had the bells up in readiness for the attempt.
Celebrations are taking place in Eesex in connection with the silver jubilee of the Diocese of Chelrasford. The ringers are taking their part, too, and on June 6ti a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung at Romford, and on the following day a peal of Minor was recorded at Rettendon.
The first birthday of Michael Cross, son of the Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths, was colobrated with a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Bishopsgate on June 5th. Michnel has not yet liggun ringing, but with father and mother both entinsiasts, we may expect ur early start. The peal was called by Mr. G. H. Grose, whe would like to thank Mr. J, E. Davis for obtaining permission to ring else peal, and Miss Oakshetc and Mr. Belcher, who kimdly came along to see that the band did not meet short.
A golden jubilee peal was rung at Hugherien, Bucks, on June 3rd. It celebrated the 50th anniversary of the first peal of Stedman by Mr. Frederick Bifge, which whs rung at Hughenden on Mny 31st, I889, by J. O. Truss, J. W. Waslibrool (conductor), Joln Evans, S. Goodchild, F. T. Biggs,R. H. Biggs. H. Stratford and Joseph Evans. This was fle first peal of Stedmen by all the band except the conductor. The jubilee peal was Roland Biggs' $200 t h$ and Hatry C. Jones 25 th.
The peal of Cambridge Surpmbe Major, ratg at Trowbridge on June 7th, was, it is believed, tine frst peal of Surprise Major rung by an entirely resident band in the salisbury Guild. Four of the ringers rang their firat Surprise paal, and one of them, Mr. P. W. Harding, scored his first peal of Major and at the first attempt,
Two peals of Grandsire Doubles were rung by a Bath and Fells Diocesan Association band on Whit Monday, one at SampFord Arundel, Somerset, and the other at Burlescombe, Dovor. Plae former wes the first peal on the bells and a farewell to the Rev. D. Evans.

The peal of Double Norwich at Erdington, Birmingliam, on June 3rd, was arranged as a birthdny compliment ta Mrs. M. G. Power, wife of the Ficar of Erdington, who very kindly entertained the liand to tea after the peal. Mr. J. F. Harvey, of Bradford, Forks, who took part, was on a visit to Birmingharo.

MR. JAMES GEORGE'S RECOVERY
His mazw friends will be plan to learn that Mr Jameg George bas recoverail from his long and distressing illness and is now able to raturn to peal ringing. He made his come back, oz1 Wednesday Week, at the age of git, by [aultlesals rimging the 7 th at Measlasm to a peal of Stedman Triples. He showed no trace of his 1llness and finighed perfectly fit.
The peal whs specially arrnnged, by kina permission of the Ficar (the Res. J. R. King), as a thanksgiving for Mr. George's restoretion to health, and the Ficar offered prayors iu the belfry both before and after the peal.
The disaster to the submarine 'Thetis' is, of course, specially felt in Birkenhead, where she was huilt and many of whose men went to death in her. On Fune 7th, the day on which memorial sersices were held, a half-mutled peal of Surprise Minor was rumg at St. Mary's Church. Phis is the old Parish Church of Birkenliead and is within 100 y日rds of where the ill-fated submarine was buitt. Two of the ringers in the peal, Messrs. Joseph Leslie and Frank Perry the conductor', are emplayed at the shipyard, the former having actually warked on the 'Thetis' during construction.
Twenty-one rears ago Mr. Harr" Prout taught Owen Wrintmore to ring a bell It was nat until Whit Saturday that they rang a peal tapether. Them Mr. Wrintmore called a peal of Bob Minor at Bratom, Wilts, as a wedding compliment to Mizs Eilsie Lawrence, wlo for many years has been correspondent at this tower and a stameh supporter of the Salishury Dincesan Guild.
Mr. T. J. Lock, hon. secretary of tho North and East District of the Middlesex Association, rang his 100th peal on Saturday week at North Mimms, Herts, where, pf the same time, Mr. Jomes Bennett rang the trable and 'completed the circle.' Mr. Tom Lock's first century imeludes peals up to Spifed Surprise Major in aine methods.
Mr. Dohn Folman, of gheffield, trarelled smeciall to Ipswich last Saturday to take part in the peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximuts. The composition, hy Mr. C. T. Sxmands. las a boh at all the Home positions withrut the 2nd in 5-6.

Apparently his own enn had forgotten the fact that Mr. Bailer rang $7-8$ to a peal of Kent Treble Boh Raral at Binckheath, Friston, in 1920. But porliaps he waz too voung to renmemher itr

TRESH DODBLES METHODS.

A peal of Double Norwich Major was rung at Warnham, Susser, on Saturday week. The Guildford portion of the band appreciated the kindness of Mr. Harry Hutton in driving them to Warnham and then gtanding out of the peal to allow the extra man to ring. But Satarday was a glorious day, and Mr. Hutton was compenasted by enjoying the cricket reatch in the park and listening to the belks in the distance. A peal of Doubles st Little Missenden, Bucks, on June 2od, was rung 12345 in twelve methods, one of them, Chearsley Slow Course, rung, 27354 it in believed, for the first time. The extent of Chearsiey is 25145 produced by two plain leads, followed by a bob lead, three 30415 times repested, and here are the fgures of a lead.
23451 In addition, the peal included extents of St. Nicholas' Bob 23541 and Wiachendon Place Bob. St. Nicholas is St. Simon's rung 32514 with Canterbury places in 3-4, and Winchendon Place Bob 25154 is St. Nicholas' with place-making in 1-2 instead of the dodge. 21345 Actually the names were used to distinguish the guethods, but 19354 the hand would like to know what the original pames of the 12534 methods are, assuming they have been used before, for Bob obviously they ere of the same antiquity. No doubt the 13045 historians will be ready to help in this matter.
A local band at Rainham rane a peal of Oxford Bob Triples on Saturday week as a farewell to the Vicar (Rev. A. D. Hodgson), who is learing to take up the living of St. John's, Bromley. It was nlso a birthday compliment to Miss Joan Naylor.

Messra. William Clover and Heary Tooke have now rung peals together from Doubles up to Maximus. A peai of Doubles in four mothade at Forncett St. Peter, Norfolk, on May 27th, enabled them to complate this partnership. It was the first peal on the bells by the Norwich Diocesar Association.
There ware 69 bobs and 58 singles in the peal of seven different extents of Bob Minor rang at Eynesbiry, Hunts, on Whit Monday. Mr. Frank Warrington was the conductor.
Tlim first peal in the borough of Crosby, Lancs-and a very creditr able one took place on May $27 t h$. These beils were restored as a memorial to the late King George F . Only one previous peal has been rung on the belle, in about 1910. The pens was a cormpliment to Mr. Bee Hale on the completion of 51 Tearsi service ringing at the church. The ringers were very kindly entertained to tee by Mr. and Mrs, Hale. The Vicar and curate were also present
Mrs. J. E. Davis is to be congratulated upon singing lier first peal of Spliced Surprise Major, which Ehe did at Bushey on June 8th. Up to the present very few ladies seem to have taken up 'spliced ' ringing. After meeting ahort for Stedman Triples at St. Peter's. Derby, on May 29th, a peal of Minor in tbree methods was rung with a covering bell.

A REMARKABLE TRANSFORMATION

ST. MARY'S, ELY, BELLS RESTORED
For many jears the eight bells at St, Mary's Church, Ely, have had an unenviable reputation, but now there bus been a remarkable transformation The old bell frame was found to be in a very slaky condition necessitating its removal from the tower, and it has beed replaced by a new maseive oak frame. Whilst thiy wark was in hand the opportunity was taken of having the beils taned and the old plain bearings replaced with ball bearings. The work has been carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Lougbborough, and the work has meen done with characteristic efficiency.
On Saturday, June 3rd, the completed work wes dedicated by the Lord Bishop of Ely in the presence of a large congregation. A number of wisiting ringers were present.
Immediately after the fumersl dedication the hells were rung by the Ely ringers: H. Martin 1, ㅍ. Cole 2. A. C. Rick 3 , D. Norman 4 , E. G. Pipe 5, W. T. Gedfrey 6, G. Tait 7, A. Baruard B.

The Bielop, in his address, expressed his great pleasure at hearing from the Vicar bhat that very moraing the grand tokal to foot the bili had been reached. It was in great achiovement to have opened the bells free from debt.
Service over, the first touch (Bob Major) on the rededicated hells was rung by the Rev. H. M. Knowles with six ringers from St. Margaret's, King's Lyan (the church from which the Rey Knowles came to Ely), and Mr. N. T. Abrams, president of the Central Branch, Ely Diocesan Association. Tea was parkakell of in Mary's Pariali Room, 6l ringing friends, several mambers of the Beli Restoration Committee, the Vicar, his two curates and churchwardens baing present.

After ten the Vicar gave a warm welcome to all gathered and thanked those responsible for making the arrangements. In the unawoidabla absence of the districh secretary (Mr. F. Werrington), Miss K. Willers replied.

Mr. H 7 . Prudhome, warden, expressed his thanks to Mr. J. P. Fidler (representing, Messrs. Taylor and Ca.) for the way in which the work had been carried aut-Mr. Fidler replied.
Ringing from rounds to London Surprise was obtained in the evening, ringers being present from Cambridre, Coventry, Chatteris, Wilhurton, King's Evnn, Huntingdon, Willingham, Sawston, Ickleton, Trampiagton, Fordham, Ramsey, Dersiaghem, Eomersham and Exning.

Those who were conversant with the bells in former days were loud in their praise of the rastly improved "go" of the peal, which was cast by Tidward Arnald, of St. Neots, in 1781. The tepor turns the scele at 121 cmt

YOUNG PEAL RINGERS.

To the Rditor.

Dear $ir, While congzatulativg Miss May Moody on ber first peal and in no way wishing to detrat from the performance, may $I$ point out that Haroid $P$. Reed also rang the 3rd to Holt's Ten-Part on the day hefore his 14 th birthdsy. This was, however, his second peal-tho first beiby rubg nearly two months earlier. On the eve of his 15th birthday this game ringer ealled his first peal, and in this peal Roy Faithfull (aged 13) rang his first peal (wide "Ringing World," vol. 31, page 5601. Hence both these ringers were yaungar than Miss Mondy when they fang their first peal. Neither of the ringets mentioned clainned tiv be the youngest to ring a perl for the Wimehester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild. It would to interesting to know who was the youngest ringer to do so?
Perhaps it may be some consolation to Miss Moody if she is the youngest ladu to ring a peal for this Guild, and I rather fancr she is! R. O. H. CONNOLLT

' THANKS TO AN ESSEX MHORITY.'

To the Baitor

Dear Sir, -I would like, through "The Ringing World," to take an early opportunitoy of thanking all those who at district meetings and at the jubiles meeting at Chelmsford on Whit Monday supported the proposition That a #enevolent Fund of the Essex Association of Chango Eingers be ingugurated.' Although the proposition was logt, it is comforting to know, when digappointment is felt, that there is a considerable number of Fesex ringers who desire such a furd and who would unprudgingly support it. I don't think Whit Mondey's decision will stand the test of time, for 1 regard the ringing fraternity as a body which can find its 'soul' both inside and outside the ringing chamber.

Chriatianity, which we ringers uphold, puts charity to the forefront. It must, however, be practical. Whitson is a Church festival, which reminds us of the power of the Holy Spirit. That spirit must be found in true fellowship. This was folt by William Thackeray when he wrote, "I like to think that there is no man but has had kindiy feelings for some ather and be for his naighbour until we bind together the whale family of Adam.' It in this femily spirit which I claim should permeate the ringing fraternity. That spirit dominated the successiul social function arranged by the Central Conncil's Enter. tainment Committee, and held on Whit Tuesday at the London Tavern.
Peal achievaments, hawever outstanding, shauld not be the ead and be all " of ringing. The 'haman tonch' should be ever present, red that should operate not only in the local band, but in the whole Oounty Associetion. Long and fajthful serrice should not be forgotten when a ringer is stricken with sickness in old age, or perhaps min-life, or when bed times beve brought him low. We cannot expect the State to do everything. The attitude of the prisst and the Levite was deplored by Christ, it was the great-hearted yet despised Samaritan who readily stretched forth the helping hand and paid the bill. 'Write the as on# that loves his fellow-men ${ }^{1}$ (Leigh Hunt), I commend to your readers.

To my opponenta I bear no mafice. Freedom of thought is still a priceless heritage. Arguments should always be welcomed. I tried herd to follow those that were advanced against the formation of a Benevolent Fund and could not see that any were sound enorgh to defeat a project that would ritalige the fellowship that ringers desire. This defeat has its blesaings. I shall always freasure the kind assistance of Mr. Fred Mitchell, of the Kent Association. He revealed to me the grand work that the ringers of Kent had done in building up and operating a Benevolent Fund for their owis ribgers. The atarting facts and figures I presented as often as possibie. I cannet think that Fssex will be satisfed with a "stand-still" attitude.

I shall be ready to 'fight' again, lenowiag from past bistory that any worthy mowement had its early setbacks only to triumph in tha endi. I ask my fellow-ringers of Essex to think again!

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

MODEL RULES FOR A COMPANY

Discussion on 'Communicant' Qualification.

The committee in their report said they had made a thorouglt evision of the Model Rules, largely with a view to simpicity gan brevity. Tha primeiple previously adopted of issuing a twofold version had been carrict a stage further by compiling two complete sets of ules; one recommended as the ideal, where local conditions permit of its adoption, the other suitable for more genexal use, especially in country parishes. Care had been taken to provide in general terms for the regular use of church bells on proper occasions, while allowing mmple elasticity in points of detail. The committee trusted that the result of their lahours would prove to be of practical service.
The two sets of rules were apponded to the report, aud, in moving their adoption, the Rivy. F. Ll. Edwards said all the members of the committes had had practical experience in drawing up rules required for a fowtr, and there ware in existence the original rales drawn up by the Council. Personally, he made a careful digest of the rules he hate drawn up himself and those drawn up by Mr. Stephen Wood, and what they had now incorporated appeared to be the most valuable and the most practicable of them. The old rules drewm wp by the Comen were somewhat prolix and cumbrous, and something a little briefer and simpler geemed to be required. Anyone who wished for assistance from the Council in drawing up a sed of rales could receive a copy of eacls of the separate sets which had been prepared and make their choige betwecn the two, as to which would suit their own conditions the better
Mr S. H. Wool seconded the adoption of the report; and the Council then proceeded to discuss the rules in detail

In varjous places in the rules the word "Vicar' apperred, with a side note indicating that where applicable the word 'Rector" should he substituted
It was suggested that the word "Rector' should he inserted and - Ficar ' put juto the side note, and it wan also suggested that in eaclu case the word "incumbent" should be substituted.
The Rev. F. Ll, Fdwards said logically the word 'Rector ' should uppear, but he inserted "Vioas" because he thooght that in the mijority of parishes, where there were hells, the imcumbent was a Vicar. In opposing the use of the word 'incumbent,' he said he thought that, in country parishes, 90 per cent, of the people liad not the slightest jdea what san imgumbent was.
Mr. G. H. Kippin said he thouglat Mr. Edwards had a poor opinion of the intelligence of country ringers.

Mr. W. H. Shuker pointed out that in the case of Roman Catholir churches ther were rectors and at Unitarian churches-there were bells at some Unitarian churches in Lancashire-they were 'ministers. Eventrally it was decided to use the word "Rector" in the rules and "Vicar" in the marginal note.

SACRAWENTAL TEST?

Tule 4 in the 'model' set read as follows:-
No person shall be eligible for membership or probationary menhership of the society unless lie (or she) is a communteant member of the Church, or, in the case of younger members, intends shortly to be confimed.

Any person so qualifies may be admitted as a probationer, and may be elected a full member of the society at snch time as be (or she) shall have berome a competant change ringer.

Mr. J. A. Trollope moved the owission of this Tule. To impose a gacramentri tex of this sort was, he thought, defantely a bad thingIt was not a question whether ringers should be comnsunicants or not but whether that Council slould go to rectors and say that they should make a rule that bellringers must be communicante. It had been done several times, but lie was certain nobody could point to any case where the rule had bem eny good whaterer. It whs perfectly true that thes, as ringers, were connected with the Church and that they were churchworkers: that idea was increasing and should increase, but they would not improve it by making any such rule that ringers must he communicants. If the Rector took enough interest in the matter to have a bant of ringers who were communiesnts, it was his duty to see that tinere wete enough recruits brought fato the tower who were already commuricsnts, but if he was going to say to anyone who came to a tower to learn change ringing that lie could only come if he attended Mass so many times in a year, then he (Mr, Trollope) thaught it was definitely wrong from the point of riew of ringivg and from the point of winw of the Clurch.
Mr. Knnt seconded and Mr. (G. R. Newton supported Mr. Trollope's
The Rev. F. Lh. Edwards suggested that the words' duly qualified member of the Church might, be subatitnted, leaving it to the authorities of the mindidual churches to decide what "duly qualified was.
Mr. T. D. Johnson said in the Worcestershire Associstion they used the term 'practising ' member of the Church. It was put in to solve a similar difficulty and done entirely witls the knowledge and permission of the Rector.

Mr. G. L. Grover thought it would be much simpler to say that no person shall become a riuger unless approved by the rector, vicar, incumbent or priest-in-ctarge.

LOYAL MEMBERS OF THE CHURGH.

Mr. W. Ayre suggested the subgtitution of Rule 4, of the alternative rules (B), which read as follows: "Every rimer shall be a loyal menber of the Charch andi, as such, faithrul in lis clischarge of the duty of public worship, and shall at all times comport himself in the belfry with the reverence due to the House of God
MF. F. M. Mitchell said, at the church where he began ringing, one bell was given by Nonconformists; were they going to debar Nonconformists from helping to ring the bella? If they got one or two Nonconformists to take up ringing it was a matter for the incumbent to sea that they becarae members of the Ohurch of England. He was (anconformist when he took up ringing and was ringing for twelve months before he was confirmed into the Church of England. Had the proposed rule been in force in his tower be would not now have been a member of the Charch and would have been lost to tha Exepcise; and there ware four of them in the same case as lie was. IL was his Vicar's praudest moment when he baptised four mon into the Chureh blorough rimging.

Mr. Dyke said what they were trying to do was not to make ringers religious, but to make ringers of their religions men and women.
Mr. C. T, Coles said the inclusion of the rule proposed by the committee would, he fat encourage parsons of a carcain minci to adopt it. He formaliy proposed that Rule 4 in set $B$ bo used in both sets of rulen.-Mr. Cross seconden.
Mr. Trollope and Mr. Hunt accepted bhis propossl, which, on heing put to the meeting, was carried with owe tissentient.
The Rev. E. S. Powell said he did not think the Council had actually decided whether they wanted the rule at all. He thought the previous rule (3) met the whole case. This said, 'The Rector of the Parish shal! be ex-officio President, ant the election of members, use of the bells and all other nuaters concerning the Snoiety shall be subject to his spproval.' He himself lad two Nanconformist ringers who started ringing in his willage and who, he hoped, might eventually join the Chare Tha President said they could not go back on tile vote they hat ust trken.
Tule 6 provided (inter alia) for the appointroent of the steeplekoeper liy the Virar. Mr, Funt objected to this matter boing in the hands of the incumbent, because so many of thens knew nothing about the duties of a streplokerper or wlyether a man was quaifined to discharge the duties or not.
Major J. H. B. Hesse said the ringers should appoint the steeple-
The omission of the words "by the Fioar " was agreed to
Mr. Hunt also raised oljjection to Rule 7, which gave a Hist of the occasions on which bells should be rung, and added "on such occabions of publio rejoicing or Feligious observance as mar bo appointed.' Ho said this would impose a good deal upon ringers beyond their ordinary dukies, for oecasions for which they would not be entitled to any remuneration.

After further dircassion the Rev. H. Drake pointed out that these model rules were framed so that anyone wishing to form $\quad$ company could taka from them what they liked, and the reason for this ruie whs to remini people that ringing could be done upon these occagous, They were not compelled to in so if fher did not want to.
Eventually the rute was adopted, with the omission of the words 14th December," which was given as the date of the King"s birthday.

PATMENT FOR SPPCIAL RENGING.

Fule 13, as drafted, rena as follows: "No pryment shall be made for any ringing at. church except on special outtions, such as weddiags, funerals and civic celebrations. The normal charge for guch spocial ringing shall be . . out of whith ans member who sustaius a fingncial loss by attending shali be entitled to compensation, and the remainder shall be paid to the funds of the gociety.
Mr. P.J. Johnson said there would be a diafewity in puthing the latter part of this rule into force. Whatever ringers got for ringing he did not regard as & paynsent; it was simply an acknowledgment. of their attendance. What they should do in the rules was simply to put the suggestion to the euthorities that they should pay the men. He did not think they should discuss the question of a man's financial loss by ringing on such occasions. He proposed the omission of the ## lest clanse. Mr & Harts seconded.

Mr. S. F. Wood said he folt strongly that the money paid for ringing on these special occusions should go into the funds of the societs and not be divided so much por head among the ringers. He had known many accssions, and those present, nust have known many others, when there had heen ten or twelve bells and only eight ringers, so that the eight got, say, 7s. 63. each, when if there had been twelve, they would have got only 58. 7 $\frac{1}{2} \mathrm{~d}$. (taughter). That was a thing he had known happen and he was dend against it, and the rule was drawn up to meet that objection.
Mr. Hughes suggesteat they could meet Mr. Wood's objection by making the payment so much per rope.
Mr. Johnson said these matters rested with the companies concarned, and it would be most unfortunate if the Council involved themselves in lair-splittings in these codes of rules.
The Rev. F. LI. Edwards said the rules were intended for a belfry where the rimgerg undertook to ring purely volundarily for the glory (Bontinued on wext page.)

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

of God, the adrancement of the art and the service of the Church He thought the rule was epplicable under those circumstances. It was decided to delete the words at the end of the rule cut of which any member who sustains financial loss by atterding shall be entitled to compensation, and the remainder shall be paid into the funds of the society.

RINGING ON GOOD FRIDAY

In a note at the end of the rules it was stated, "It is an ancient and laudable custom to ring on Saturdays and the oves of feast days at any suitable horm after owelve noon. It is appropriate to rigg on Good Friday with the bells muffled; no open ringing should cake place From Mondey before Easter till after midday on Enster Eve. Church festivals and other special occasions may properly be marked by ring ing before $8 \mathrm{~A} . \mathrm{m}$. and at the close of divine bervice.
The Rey. H. Drake urged that they shonld delete the reference to muffled ringing on Good Friduy. This wes supported by Mr. A. C Hazelden.

The Rev. F. LI. Edwards said he regarded ringing muffled on Good Eriday as very valuable. It impressed the public with the sacred character of the day. There was never a time when Good Friday was so desecrated aud given over to amasement as in these days, but mulfled ringing helped to maintain the sacred atmosphere of the dis
Mr. Harris anked what was the practice at places like St. Paal's and Westminster $\Delta$ bbey.
Mr Fughes : There is no ringing at all.
Mr. W. E. White said at lis church it was the custom to ring muffled on Gaod Friday, und they thonght it was the right and proper thing to do
Mr. Grover said if tisey left it in, it might he taken as an expression of opigion that muffled ringing sliould take place.
Mr. E. M. Atkins asked if the Council was competent to express an opinion on this point? It was, he said, really a matter for the incumbent to determine. He thought it wauld bo dangerots for the Council ta send mat. a eccommendation of that sort AEter several members had stated what the practice was in their own towers: wote was taken and it was decided to omit the reference to Good Fridey.

The 'model" rules, as amended, were then adopted, as were the alternative rules, with ble corresponding alterations where applicable.

FARLIER PATMENT DESIRED

The general accounts of the Council, details of which were given an The Ringing World' on June 2nd, were adopted on the motion af the hon secretary, secoudex by Mr. A. A. Huches. The secretary thanked Mr. Mitchell for supplying the Council with dupliceting paper at a very much lower cost than it could be obtained otherwise. He also requested secretaries of associations to send in their subscriptions earlier in the vear. Some of them left it to the last minute, which marde it very difficult to get the accounts completed.

THE CARTER RINGENG MACHINE.

The report of the Carter Ringing Machine was made by Mr. A. A. Hughes (bis co-trustee, Mr. E. A. Young, beigg absent from the country). This stated: 'Uufortunately, we have been unable to ciemonstrate the machine this year, but we hope a trial will be possible in the course of the next few weeks. It will be remembered that last year the Conncil gave renction to hr. Sharman (the demonstraior) for the removal of tie stud dial and arm for repair or renewal. I urderstand he is mnkigg a completely new dial and studs. Mr. Sharman is engaged on Government work and has been at high pressure for montlis past, in consequence of which he has been unable to complete the new part in tiate for the Whit week-end demonstration. A fur ther report will be submitted through the columas of "The Ringing World after the triai bas been made.
Mr. Taffender asked whether, when the next demonstration of the machine was arranged, any riggers who wisbed could attend it? He thought it was desirable it should bo advertised in "The Ringing World.

Mr. Hughes said the reason there could be no Gemonstration daring the Fisit of the Council to Londion on this occasion was that the macluine was under repair and Mr. Sharman had been too busy on Government work to complete it. It was hoped that it would now be finished in a few weeks' time and that a demonstrabion would then be possible Mr. W. E. White asked why it had become necessary to repair a standing machime.
The Hon. Secretary said this was the first time he had ever kroma repairs to bewome necessary, and what was being doge now was the making of adjustments to keep it in going orider.
Mr. White: Why does it get out of acijustment if it is not touched?
Major Hespe : Howe many times a year is the machine used?
Mr Hughes sald the machine war tested every year, before the Council meeting, so that the trustees could report, and ho supposed it ran for about half an hoar on each occasion. The present repar was long overdue. The timing dial and the siuds had had a great, deal of work before the Corncil took over the machine and the studs wapted renewing. While that was being done the adjugtments would be made to imprope the timing

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

THE OYERLAPPING OF BOUNDARIES.

Escelient weather favoured those who attended the meeting of the North-Western District of the Surrey Association, held at East Molesey on Saturdap, June 3rd. Ringing commenced at 3.30 and, with a short break for tea and business meeting, the bells were kept going to a variety of methods till 6.30 p .1 m . '1'he doors of the ringing clamber at East Molegey open directly on to the churchyard, and those not actually engaged in the belfry could sit in the shade of the trees and listen to the ringing. In this way a very pleasant afternoon and evening were spent Thirty-two sat down to tea at the New Inn, including the Master (Mr. D. K. C. Birt), the District Master (Mr. D. Copper) and Centsal Council represeatative (Mr. C. H. Kippin), also Mr. G. Grover (general secretary of the Guitdford Dtocesay Guild), Mr. A. H. Smith (Leatherhead District Eecretary), Mr. F. Fawthorne (Chertsey District gecretary of the Guildford Diocesan Guild), and visitors from Weat Grinstead, Sussex, Hounslow and Islevortin, Middlesex.

The business meetiag was presided over by Mr. D. Cooper, Mossrs. F. Brown and G. Matravers (East Molesey) and Mr. W. Simmond (Hersham) were clected members, and the following belfry slections made prior to peak or peal aftempts waro confirmed: Messre. H. Scotcher, E. Stítch, W. H. Barber, H. Knight, A. Walker, W. Devidson, G. Lindoff, W: Ayre, S. E. Palmer and R. Richardson.
Under the heading of 'Any other business,' many topics af interest to the district were discussed. - Ovorlapping and the demarcation of boundaries; the cesirability of district offcers working only amongst tho fowers of their own district; and the duties to be anried out by the committeemen to be interchanged between the Surrey Association and the Guildford Diocesara Guild, were a few of the subjects debatod. INTERCHANGE OF AMBASSADORS.
With regard to this last point, Mr. Kippin, the instigator of this arrangement, eqio that in view of the overlapping that was always bound to exist in certain parts of the county, it seemed to him deairable t' have a kind of "ambassador" appointed by each organisation to the committe of the other, and so svoid some of the Evile which might arise through unilateral action.

Mr. W. H. Hewett suid that, in his view, the best and probably the only ultimate solution of the problem lay in the establishment of one county arganisation with twa branches, one for the Guildford Diocese and one for the Sonthwark Diocese
The arrangements made this year for the convenience and eatertainment of members of the Central Council were criticised by one member, who thought that London geve a poor showing in this respect when compared with the hospitality extended by some provincial lowns.
In reply, one of the aspociation's representatives oxplained that this deficiency on the part of Loudon was chiefly due to the fact that, this year, the Conccil had no proper advertised headguarters? which inembers could use as a rendezvous at any time throughout the weekend. No doubt this omission would be remedied when the Council naxt visited London.
The passing of the nsurl votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the Dells and to Mr. F. Brown for arranging the tea concluded the meeting.

The President said if the mambers made a request, the trustaes would bo witling to arrange a demonstration at some conveaient time. The report was adopted.
A formal report was presented by the Standing Committee and adopted. It was stated that their verious recommendations would come up onder the respective jtems of business as they were reacbed on the agentia.

COLLECTION OF COMPOSITIONS COMPLEIED

The President said tie Peals Collection Committee presented no ormal report, but lad hended in the collection of compositions whels they had been requested to compile. The Standing Committee recommended that powers be given to the officers to have this collection printed if the cost was not excessive.
Replying to a question, the President said the collection inciuded ompositions of Bob Major, Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Doubie Norwich, Treble Bob Major, Bristal Surprise, Superlative Surprise, Rutland Surprike, Yorkshive Surprisc, Cambridge Surprise, Now Camhidge Surprise and London Surprise Major and Spliced Surprise Major. The Standing Committee's recommendation was adopted.
$\mathrm{On}_{n}$ the question of the reappointment of the committee, Mr. Ayre proposed that Mr. H. G. Cashmore be added to it,
Mr. Trollope asked if it was fair at that point to add anyone to the committee, es te coald not assume any responsibility for the new book.

The President said that while the committee was asked to do thia perticular jobs and hed now made the collection of compositions, it did not mean that there was no more work to be done. The Tzeble Bob Collection had Dever been completed; there were still some hundreds of peals to prove.
The following members were reappointed to the committee: $\mathbf{N}_{\mathrm{N}} \mathrm{r}$ G Lindoff (convener), the Rev. E. S. Powell, Messrs, G. R. Newton, G. R. Pye and T. B. Worsley, and Mr. Ceshmore's name was added.

LADIES' GUILD AND LEEDS SOCIETY.

JOINT MEETING AT HEADLNGLEY
The Ladies' Guild (Northern District) and the Leeds and District Sociaty held a joint meeting at St. Chad's, Headingley, Leeds, on Saturday. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and continued until 4.30 p.m. when a short service was held. The lesson (from Philigpians iv.) was read by Miss L. K. Bowling (vice-president, Ladies Gaild), and the Rev. Canon C. O. Marshall (president, Yorkshire Association) geve the address, in which he welcomed the societies to his church and mentioned the Ladies' Guild's difficulty of meatings when their members were scattered over such a wide arca. To the Leeds Society he gave words of praise for work regularly done and thanks for their loyalty ts the Yorkshire Assaciation. Contioning, Canon Marshall spoke of St. Barnabas, the Saint of Consolation and Heln. He thought that St. Baraabas ought to be the patron saint of all ringers. A bone ringer was not often found, becauso it was only by the help given and taken from other ringers that progress was made.
Ter, graciously provided by Miss L. K. Bowling, was enjoyed oy about 60 ringers and friellis in the St. Chad's Schoalrooms
The business meetings were held in separate rooms. The Leeds Societp's meoting was presided over by the Rev, J. 甘. B. Andrews and members were present from Armley, Batley, Burley, Bradford, Bramley, Calverley, Drighlington, Elland, Headingley (St., Michael's), Idle, Leeds, Ossett, Pudser, Rothwell, Sherburn, Shipley, Heming brough and the lasal company.

A comprehensive vote of thanks was proposed by the Rev. J. H. B Androws and seconded by Mr. W. Barton, to the Vicar and church Wardens for the service and use of the bells, to the orgavist and choirboys for attending, and to the local company for other arrangements and especially to Miss Bowling for providing sach a splendid tea.
The Rev. Canon Marshall acknowledged the thanks.
The moxt meeting is due to be held at Drighlington on July 29 th. Further ringirg on hand and tower bells then continued until 9 p.m FFEECT OF DISTRICT REVISION ON NOBTHDRN MTMBERSHIP Sembers of the Ladies' Guid were present from Sherburn, Saltaire shefficld and Leeds.

At the annurl busiress meetigg of the Northern Distriet two new members were elected from Rotherham.
Reference was mede in the report to the improved quality of the ringing, and to continue this a suggertion was made by the gecretary如 arrange a method to be specinlly practiged at each meeting.
The vice president (Miss Bowling) and lzon. secretary (Mrs. E. D. Kelly) were re-elected. The other ofteers are as follows : Mrs. Cotterell and Mrs. Kelly, ont the General Committee: Mrs. Fernley, Mrs. Wolstencroft, Mrs, Bradley and Mrs. Cotterall, on Lhe District Com mittee.
The following meetings were arranged: September, Norton, near Pickering: November, Handsworth, Sheflield; Mareh, Shipley; and the annural meeting at Todmorden.

When the question was asked if all members were aupporters of The Ringing World,' to was found that only a very few were not and these are giving the matter their consideration.

A heavy decrease in mernbership has taken place owing to the readjugkment of the district, but there continues to be a stealy influx of new members which will soan make up for this. The present membership is 37 .
The skitement of accounts showed an income over expenditure for the year of el Os. 2d

The usual vate of thanks was passed to those responsible for the arrangements, and Miss Bowling, the vice-president, was specially thanked for providing such a splendid tea.
Rekurning to the belfrr. the ladies rang a good touch of Stedman and later took part in Grandsire, Doubla Nowich, London and rounds for the beginners.

COLLEGE YOUTHS AT ERASTED

On a glorious Tune afternoon, the Callege Yothths paid their anmal wisit to Brested as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Lewis, Some travelled down by car, others took advantage of the special coach provided by Mr. Lewis. The first cail was at Sundridge, where touches in several methods were rong, before going on to Moorcocks, where tea was enjove? under the treen bp about 50 visitors. After a rest and a chat. ringing took place at Brasted Church and then back to the lawns and gardens, where the rest of the evening went all too quickly. Refreshments and handbell ringing broweht a delightful day to a close, the Master (Mr. G. G. Fenn) thanking Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and their daughters for their great kindness.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

ROCHESTER DISTRICT MEMBERS IN SPORTING MOOD.
A very successful by-meeting of the Rochester District was held at Hartlip (d six-bell tower) on Saturday, Jume 10th. A really warm summer's day marked the oscasion and resulted in weli over 50 members and friends finding their way to this pretty littie Kent village to enjor the happy environment of the countryside and the sociablity of brother members of the association.
The bells went welt to varions mothods, ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Minor. Serrice in the church was atteuded by at Jeast fifty of the members. The Rev. Trench, who later in the day became an fonorary member of the association, conducted the service and gave an address fitiver to the occasion. As a result of the church coldection the sum of 10 s . 8d. will be added to the K.C.A. Benevalent Fud.
Tea was taker on the lawn at the Rose and Grown, and rumour has it that some of the sporting element of the Rochester District were rather more ellgrossed in picking sides for the crieket match at Tunstall on July 29th (the dnte fixed for the quarterly summer meeting) than they were in getting on with their tea Speaking of this cricket match, which seems to be regarded as part and parcel of meetings held at. Tmostall, it appears that there ia likely to be a vory keen match, as both sides are bent on, and in fact are quite sure of, winning. Well, we mast wait and see, but both sides must be warned that they will, jointly and severally, have to pay up if they knoct the splices oat of the bats or the cover off the bell!
Revertirg to the meeting at Hartlip: following tea an informal meeting was held for the purpese of electing new members, disposing of annual reports, etc. Another matter was to tix the date of the Tunstall meeting. Some of the members wanted the date to be $\sqrt{\text { muly }}$ $22 n d$, while others hoped it would be on July 29th. Dpon being put to the vote, July 29 th was decided upor.
Before dispersing, the Rector expressed his great pleasure at seeing such a fine gathering of bellringers and frienos at Hartlip. He said it was a real joy to have them there ringing Hartlip bells, and je sincerely lroped that, in audition to the three members of the Hartlip bacid who hed rejoined the association that affernoon, others of the younger riggers et Hartlip womli be joining in the very genr futare.
The bells werc kept going to suit all tastes until 9 o'clock, and without doubt everyone thorougluly enjoyed the Hartlip meeting, including the ringing-dartsmen, who showed decided skil! ic a very kecn contest at the Rose and Crown (the proprietor of which is a ringer) priox to baving their last ring on the chureh belle.

FTEENOON IN HOPS AND FRUIT COUNTRY.

The summer meeting of the Canterbury District of the Kent County Association was held at Selling on Saturday, June 10th, in glorlous summer weather. Thirty-eight members attended and made good use of the penl of eisht belis during the ffternoon and evening-
Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. H. G. Honseman), who gave the membors welcome, an invitation to use the Vicarage garaleng and a little admice.
Tea was heli in the open nir, 'shirt sleeves" in some casea being the order of the day.
The Ficme presided ofer the usual business meeting, when one new member was elected and Littlebourne selected as the venue of the next meeting, an invitation having been sent by the Ficar.
A vote of thanks was passed to the Ficar for granting the uge of the bells and for conducting the service.
Handbells were brought into use, Grandaire Triples being rung on a timy set, and lumes by" Dover boys' on a larger peal. The tunes, as usual. were appreciated by all, ineludiag a few of the willage foll nt nearby garden:
Some of the party then retarned to the tower, some walked round the Vicarage gardens and others sat mnd "jawed" in the churchyard. The methods runf during the day were Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Kent and Oxford, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise. The bells were lowered at 8.45, and a bappy afternoon mid hops and fruit ' came to an end.

THE LIGHT WENT OUT

Througls the jight being switched of at Brosdclyst Cburch, a peal was lost ou filune 7th. Afterwards a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung: L. Winson 1, J. H. Godfrey, jun. 2, B. Pidgeon (longest rength in the method) 3, C, R. Lilley (conductor) 4, A. Lovering 5, E. Marks 6, J. Aubury 7, C. Sandford 8. Tonches of Oxford Bob Tripler and Grandsire Triples were afferwards rung.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

PRESENTATION TO SWINDON BRANCH HON. SECRETARY
The hali-yearly meeting of the Swindon Bracch of the Gloucester and Eristol Diecesan Assaciation was held at Bishopstone on Saturday, June 10th, in ideal weather. There was a rather poor attendance from the branch, but a goodly number of visitors ixrought the attendauce up to tine average. The ringers were met by the Ficar of Bishopstone (the Rer. E. W. Smith), who later joined them at lea, whiell was served in a nearby garden.
A short business meeting followed, Mr. W. Trueman beise in the chair. During the meating the chairman spoke of the fogthoming marriage of the hon. secretary (Mr. W. B. Kynaston), and referred to the work Mr. Kynaston had done during the seven years he lasd been brancli secretary. He loped Mr. Kynaston wuth continue the good work.
Good wishes for the futura happiness of the happy couple were also expressed by the Rev. E. W. Smith, who, on behalf of the ringers of Brinkworth, Blunsion, Faringdon, Lvdiard Millicent, Purton, Rodbourne Cheuey. St. Mark's, Swindon, Strattou and Shrivenham, presented Mr. Kynaston with a set of carvers and other catlery.
Mr. Kyneston suitably replied, as did also his fiancee iMise M. Bratt), who is being tutored in the art of bellriaging by her future husband.
On returning to the tower good use was made of the frells antul 7.30, a good fall in peai ending the ringing. Methods ruts during the meeting ranged from Grandsire Triples to Double Norwich Major, with roundes for the learners.

'GATE CRASHERS-  To the Enditor.

Dear Sir, So the president of the Central Council would have "gate crashers ' excluded from the Abbey, and all because a visitor broke a stay, worth prabably a few shillings.

I cannot find the term 'gate crasher' in my 'Glossary, ${ }^{\text {n }}$ meither is there room for such a word nor the epirit which prompts its use in ringing.
If is the ro-called 'gate crasker,' whose votes put Mr. Lewis ant others in office and whose subscriptions pay for the entertaimment and lrospitality lavished on the Council every whitsuntide, and it is churlishl, to say the least, to retaliate by endeavouring to curtail the already strictly limited opportunities which any visitor bas of getting n'pull ' at the Abbey.
It is to be regretted that the president did not pay a little nuore heed to the conctuding remarks of Canon Perkins.
Headingley, Leeds.

DON'T SCRUB Your hands!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Mer, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. Xt acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

NO BENEVOLENT FUND FOR ESSEX.

After a long discussion, the Essex Association, at their annual meeting, rejected a proposal to establish a benevolent fund. It had been hoped by the advocates of the scheme that it would have been inaugurated to mark the diamond jubilee of the association, which has been celebrated this year, and certainly the occasion would have been an auspicious one, but the weight of opinion in a large and representative meeting was against the selting up of a fund of this kind. Unfortunately, the report of that meeting which has been supplied to us is a very scanty one upon this discussion, and it would have been interesting to have learned something more of the views expressed. One objection to the proposal seems to have been a doubt as to the practicability of administering such a scheme, but the experience of other associations which have tried the experiment has shown that a fund of limited scope can be worked smoothly and without difficulty. The essence of a scheme of this sort is the spirit of brotherly help and goodwill.

There is, of course, the larger issue whether, in these days, there is the need for voluntary effort of this kind in such a body as a bellringers' organisation. It is true that there are State Insurance and Friendly Society aids for those who make provision ayainst the "rainy day,' and, in the ordinary way, men can meet adversity from these sources. But there are cases-we have all met themwhere a friend may come upon bad times; it may be from the effects of a long illness or from a cause which would give him no claim upon funds to which he has been contributing, and he finds himself and those dear to him in a state of adversity which he has no means of meeting. In such circumstances a friendly fund from which a grant can be given, as a welcome temporary help, is of great value. No one, of course, imagines that a benevolent lund organised by a ringing association can make grants on a scale which could entirely rehabilitate a man, but it is that little bit of help at the moment of sorest need that is so valuable, and some ringing associations, notably Kent and Sussex, have been able to offer this in quite a number of cases with much surcess and with no drain upon either the individual members or the resources of the associations.

Ringers usually prove themselves to be generous givers when the need arises. The existence of a benevolent fund enables them to give their help much more quickly than can otherwise be the case. The grants are made only in really hard cases, so that there is no fear of being unable to finance the [und is it is maintained with wholehearted support. That a fund can function successfully, one has (Continued on page 394.)

[^30]only to turn to what has been done by the associations mentioned above. We cannot believe that the men of Essex are any less charitable in spitit than some of their neighbours; neither can we helieve that they prefer to give their money to the mending of decrepit bell frames rather than to helping to restore the broken fortuaes of their brothers. It may be that when the guestion is again under discussion other counsels witl prevail.

PARISH PROVIDES PEAL BOARD.

RECORD OF FIRST PEAL AT GRAYSHOTT.
The first peal on the bells at Gravshott, Hauts, has been commemorated by a peal board erected in the porch near the entrance to the atairs loading up to the belfry. The peal of Superlative was rung on April 5th by members of the Winchester and Portomouth Diocesnn Guild, and the honrd has been provided by local generosity It is of polighed oak with black lettering.

There was a considerable gathering of ringers for the dedication of the board on June 3 rd, the proceedugs beginning witk an attenpt for a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, with local men on the treble snd tenor. This, however, was lost after about 800 changes. There were abont 40 pregent at the service, including, in addition to most of the peal band, rimgers from Blackmoor, Liss, Petersfiela, Portsmoutli and eloowhere.

Tea was served by members of the Mothers' Dnion in the Fillage Hall, and a welcome was extended to the visitors by the Ficar and the loesl captain (Mr. Appleby). This was acknowledged by Mr. G. Witliams (Master of the Guild) and Mr. F. W. Rogers (hon. secretary) who in return, thanised those who had provided such a wosthy record of tite penl, and the ladies who had provided tea.
Ringing during tho evening ranged from Grandsire to Spliceal Surprise, find there was also ringing on the six belis at Milland.

PEAE NOTES.

A peal of Forkshire Surprise Major, composed by Mr, C. K. Lewis, was rubg for the first time on June 10th at Norbury, Cheshire. It bas the 4 th and 6th the extent in $5-6$ and is as follows:-

Mr. W. E. Bason rayd his 50 th peal of Doable Norwich on Saturdas veek at Elveden, Suffolk.
Great credit is due to the Aston company on ringing (at the econd attempt) their first peal of Stedman Cinques, on SaEurday, and the band regret that Mr. William Best, who was in the first attempt was unable to stand in the peal.

It is appronimatels four years ngo that the bells, after being silent for years. were recast and nugmented to twelve, sud in that time a now band. chiefly of young men, has been taught how to handle and ctrike \& hell. To-day they rimg Stedman Cimquex morning and evening for Sunday geryme. and great credit is due to Meagrs. P. Frice and w. Davies for their part for training this yourg band, zot only at Aston, not ouly on Sucdayp, but on Friagy nights, Fhen good ringine $\ddagger$ varions methods can be liad on tower and handbells.

In the report of the peal of Surprise Winor rung al St. Mary Birkenliead, on June 7th, the last method should reed Cambrige gnd not Chester as printed

In the peal of Cambricge Surprise at Waittle, on June 10th, ruag in celebration of tlie diocesan jubilee, the ringers came from Bocking. Halstead Springfeld and Writtle.

PEAL NOTES.

GOD BPEED' TG 'MAURETANIA
Tho tower of St. Nicholas' Church, Liverpool, overlooks the Hersey and has stond a silent sentivel at the departure of many a gallant ship Last Saturday, however, the bells gave a God speed to the new - Mauretanie as she get out on her maiden voyage from Liverpool Landing stage. A peal of Stedman Caters was specially arranged for the occasion and was concluted a few minutes after the great veasel's departure
The peat of Double Nowwich at Brentwood on June 15th was one of a series ertanged by Mr. F. B. Lufkin of Prittlewell, to commemorate the silver jubitee of the Diocese of Chelneford. Unfortanately Mr. Lufkin, who was to lave called the peal, was incisposed, and Mr H. T. Wilson took his place at short nokice, the peal being ealled by 3fr. Harry Turaer, of Brentweod.

Tho ringers who went to Leeds, Kent, on Saturday, wast short for a peal of Royal, which was to hnve been conducted by Mr. E. A Barnett. Mr. T. Groombridge, sen., kindly stood out añd the aflsers decided to ring Pitstow's Superlative as a relief from the inevitann.
Mr. J. C. E. Simpson who will shortly be leaving London to take up an appointment in Durham, called the first peal of Chettenham Bob Major on June 16th at Grayford. It is one of the previously unrung metheds in the Central Council's Collection.

The peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Stapleharst on Jume 7th Was especially arranged to euable Rabph Weybar (age $17 /$ to ving his first awey from the treble. After the peal he wes congratulated by all the band and many outside the tower. An attempt was made for this peal on May 27th at Staplelnurst, but after I hour 50 minutes excellent ringing the conductor called the bells round owing to a shif course. Mr. C. F. Sone tool part in this attempt.
The peal of Donhles at Tempsford, Beds, on Juwe 9th, was rumg in honour of the golden wedding of Mr. snd Mrs. E. Ladds. Mr. Ladds has been parish clerk and evinger at this church for over 55 years. The conductor of the peal, Mr. O. H. Harding, has now completed the circle' at Tempsford

A BAOHELORS' PEAL
The peal of Canturidge Surprise Major at S. St. Ebbe's, Oxford, last Triday, was rung oy a hand of bacliolors. It was the conductor's last chance to ring a peal in the single state, since his marriage took place on the following day. It is not a rery common accurrence for the bridegroom, the best man and the alficiating clergyman to smen a peal together on the eve of tho wedding, as was the case on this occasion.
In oar report of a peal of Minor at Horsmonden on Mry roth. $T 20$ of Orford Boh whs omithed from the methods rung-
At Loughborough Bell Foundry on June 15th a peal of Major was гung in which Oxford and Kent Treble Zob and Plain Bob were used. It was e composition by Mr. A. J. Pitgana.

The first peal of Erin Caters for the Midland Connties Association was achieved on Jume $10 t h$ at St. Mary's, Nottingham, where it was rung to celebrate the golden wedding of the Duke and Duchess of Portland. which occurred on the following day Ringing the geventh to Fert Treble Boh Major at Lowestoft on June 15th, Mr. W. E. Bason has now rung every bell in St. Margaret's tower to a peal.

Messrg. Gearge Ledsham and Frank Varty rang their 25th peal together on June 14th, when they took pari in seven Surpise extents時 Wallasey.
After many attempts a band of Hereford Guild ringers scored a peal at Old Fadnor on June 10th. A poal here Jiad, for many years, been an ambition of Mr. Trevor Jones and his friend, P.O. Chandler. The latter, however, was absent from the penl, as be is now on service in the East Indies.

Old Radnor Church is set on a hill and a beantiful view in obtained from it. The church is famors for its organ, the cose of which is the oldest in Wales. also for its magnificent screen. The bells also happen to be one of the finert toned rings of six in the Hereford Dionese and, perhaps, one of the worst going peals. They meed a bellhanger badiy and, unike some, would be worth daing. One man rushed down from Shrewsbury to ring in this peal, but owing to lis late arrival a deputy was fonnd. The conductor tenders apologies for this. Soma of the previous attempts were abandoned after ringing about Iualf a peal owisg to the bad go of the bells, at other times a rape bes broken and so forth to put an end to the atternpt
To celebrate the wedding of Mr. Harry Purchase and Misa Katheen Smith, both of Cbipstable, who were married of Ashbrittle. Somerset, on May $2 \pi n$, a peal of Grandsire Doubles was ruag at the fatter church ou June 10th.

The memory of Mr. Thomas Fumphreys, who died last month, after serving as a ringer for 50 yeara at St. John the Baptist's Church, Pinner, was honoured on Saturday week by a peal of Double Norwich Major at this Middlegex charch.

Amother student at Kelham.Theological College has scared bis first peal. On June 1Zth, Mr. John Lord rang $3-4$ to a peal of Boh Midor. Seme of the Snuday afternmon band at St. Neots, Hunts, who ring for the 3 p.m. Bervice, scored a peal of Bob Major on June 10th Messrs. G. D. Coleman and E. Clarke giving up their ropes to C. H. Harding and B. E. Sims. Mr. F. Warrington, who called the peal, Hard an arrangement, by himself, of §lipwav's composition. Mr. and Mre. H. Fields kindly entertained the hanat to teapafter the peai.

THE LATE MR. J. C. TRUSS
As brie日y reported in our issue of June 9th, Mr. John Glark Truss passed away peacefully at his home at Marlow on Friday, June 2nd, ‘Jack' 'Trass was not only a great rimger himself, but it was always his aim te try and make other great ringers.
At Marlow, where he liad been foremen since the retirement of the late Mr. Harry Collins in 1925, he alwaye gave every help and ancouragement to everyone.
In August, 1928, he had a "stroke," from which he never folly recovared, but notwithstanding the fact that he liad praotically lost the sight of one eye and had difficulty in walking, he was always present in the belfry twice on Sundays and 'on time, the latter point beiné a splendid example to the rounger ringers of to-day.
Moreover, "Jack' wes alwayg wiling to rimg with his pupils for their first courge or touch in a method, even when it was obvious that he was riaging under a gevcre hondicap, and be was in the belfry only a fortnight before he died.
It. was forbunate that Mr. Truss was able to see the restoration of the bells in June. 1934, and the first peal on the bells for aver 30 years, which was Fumg for the Coronation in May, 1937

He was laid to rest almost under the shadow of the balfy, where his presence will he so greatly missed.

BARNSLEY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

FIRST VISTT TO KIREBURTON.
The June meeting of the Barnaley and District Society was held at Kirkburtion on Saturday, June 10th, when nearly 30 members were present from Almondbury, Cawthorne, Enstwood, Felkirk, Meltham, New Mill, Penistore, Ripponden, Sandal, Shelley, Liversedge, Wath and the local company.
The bells were rung in the atternoon until 5 p.m-, when tea was served in the Church Schools.
At the business meeting which followed, the Vicar (the Rev. A. Gephton) presided. Mfr. Rhodes, of Rippendon, was elected a finging member and the chairman as an hodorary member.
The mecting stood in silence as a maris of respect apoo the death of two members, Mr. R. Whickett, of Horbury, and Mr. H. Bilteliffe, of New Mill
The Vicar offered a very hearty wolcome to the society upon their first visit to Kirkfarton, and hoped to heve further meatings there. Mr. Moxon moved the hest thanks of the meeting to the Vicar for all he had done and said, and for the onse of the bells.-Mr. Panther supmorted the vote, which was cartied with acclnmation.
The bells were then made further good uge of in a variety of Minor mathods, ranping from Plain Bob to Yorls Surprise. Stedmen Triples and Plain Boh, Treble Bob and Double Norwich Major.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL CUP COMPETITION.
The contest for the Crawford Silver Cup was held at Guckney on Saturday, Jume 10th. Four veams entered and this, apart from anything else was most gratifying.

The draw for order of ringing was uade by the committeo at 2.45 p.m.. and at the same time Sonthwell was ellected an affiliated tower. It was regretted that this band was prevented from entering at the last moment.
The bells having been raised by non-participants, the test ringing began at 3.15. The result wat as followe:-

|  |  | Faults |  |  | Penalties Totall |
| :--- | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| Shireoaks | $\ldots$ | $\ldots$ | 255 | 10 | 265 |
| Barlborough | $\ldots$ | 378 | 10 | 388 |  |
| Ordisall | $\ldots$ | $\ldots$ | 441 | 10 | 451 |
| Wirsop | $\ldots$ | $\ldots$ | 216 | 40 | 256 |

The ropes were rather springy, and this, togather with the fne set of the troble, did not help those who had not rocently rung on the peal. However, the test was it good one and showed the merits for demerits!) of the teams that entered.

Tea was served at 5.15, and afterwards the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, in the absence of the Vicar of Cuckney (the Rev, W. E. A. Lidud), took the chair at the meeting leld afterwards.
The secretary (Mr. R. Towler) announced that the next meetieg would he held at Tuxford an July 8 th.
The Chairman announced the resplt of the contegt as above, and presented the clp to Mr. H. T". Ranke, the captain of the winning team, renarking that it was plensing to see the cup go to a diferent tower, Warsop baving now won it for the first lime
One of tha judges, Mr. J. Mint. of Bobsovar. who had has the gesistance of Mr. J. Moss, of the same tower, said the ringing had bean fairly good. When he arrived the ropes were too long rna lad consequentiy to be shortened.

Totes of thanks were passed to the Vienr ior the use of the hellg and the ladies who prepared tea, and not least to the judgeg for their serfices. Mr. Fint had not been well recently and the association wes glad he had been able to come.
The menabers they retarned to the tower, not without four nf them trying two courses of Grandise Triples aud one of Bab Minthr on handbells. Back at the church the usinal methods were rang and the striking was quite gond in places.
The pesl of six, with a tenor of $10 \frac{1}{2}$ owt., are huns ciose trogether in a tower big eoough, as frr as rope space goes, for a peal of ten; the tone is quite rood, and whers once the correct handing of the tolls has been obtained, ringing is vers emjoyable, fs most will agree who tried the peal that afterncot

The North Lincolnshire Minor band (Mesgrs. G. E. Feirn, F. Lord, C. Mçuiness, J. L. Milhouse and Mr. and Mrs. J. Bray) lave broken all records in Spliced Minar ringing by scoring a peal in 100 mathods in sevem extenty. It was rang ef Bessingham on Friday.

Ths Parochial Church Councis of St. George's, Doncaster, heve now decided not to bave the bells reast, but to have them relung with now fittiogs. The work lias heen entrusted to Messrs. Taylor and Co.

迲 r . and Mrs. E. Alex. Young lave reached home again after their visit to South Africe, their absence from Eagland heviug extended over glout five months. Mr. Young's leg, imjured when a gangway, over which he was passing, collapsed, is wall on the way to recovery.
On the way home Mr. Young gave the ship's passengers an intorest ing talk on St. Paul's Cathodral, jllustrating it with blackboard sxetches.
The bells of St. Mary-within-the-Walls, Chester, on which so many peals have been ruttg, arc to the rehulng and the jenor rectst. The work is to lee carried out by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co.

My H. A. Heywood, cousin of the late Sir A. Heywood and brother of the Bishop of Ely, celebrated his goth birthday on Monday. Although nok a ringer, lie has always been keenly interested in the welfare of the Ohester Guild and luts regularly attended its meetings for half a century.
He was present at the inaugural meetiug in the Cabliedral in November, 1887 , and became a life honorary member. Until his reskguation three fears ago he lad beld the office of wiee-chairman of the Clisester Brancl for many years. Mr. Heywood stifl serves the Guild as one of jts tristees and n member of the committee. His host of ringing friends will be contions to congratolate lim and wish bim many heppy returis.

'GATE CRASHERS.'

To the sditor.
Dear Sir- T was most disnppointed the read of the action of the president of the Central Council in apologising for the presence of "gale crashers' at the $A$ bbey. Are we to assame from lle fext of the npology that members of the Council only are eapable of ringing the Abbey bells? One wonders what will be said if a member of the Council is so cargless as to break a stay there on a futuro occasion. It must be very galling for thuse London ringers who go out of their wat to give the Council a wcleome to be excluded from one of their own towers, paricularly one which is not often available.
I camsider that the president has set us a most unfortonate eample of the friendy spirit whim should exist smongs ririgers.

ALAN R. PINK.

UNWORTHY

Dear Bir, - I was surprised to read in last week's issue of "The Ringing World' the letter re ahovo from Mr. R. Dove. The letter, especially the tlatd paragrapli, is unworthy of the sriter. Birmioglaan.

ALBERT WALKER.

MEMBER OP AN OLD RINGING FAMILY.

DEATH OF MR. WALTER TUCKER
The deatl las oceurred at Bishop's Stortford, of Mr. Walter Willim Tucker, who, had he fived until August 25th. would have been 70 years of age. Botn at Bishop's Startford, Mr. Tucker came of an old ringing family as shown Uy a tablet in St. Michacl's Ghurch, dated 1827. His father was Mr. William Henry Tucker, and his brother is Mr. Heary J. Tucker, who now lives at Chichester and whose neme is well known from some popolar compositions of which be is the author. The late Mr. Walter Tucker hegan ringing at Pishop's Stortford about 1892. Removing to Londar, lie soined St. Luke's Sociaty, Chelsea. He retmrned to his native town in 1892 and in the following Year rang his first peal, Oxford Bob Triples, at St. Michael's, the first ped ever rumg by ringers who were also all members of the Ancient Drder of Foresters Friendly Society.
Mr. Tucker aever became a great peal ringer, but he was devated to his duty $n s$ a Sunday service Jiager. He conld always be relied upon on Sundays and practice nights. His peals onl\% numbered 15, piz., Grandsire Triptes 4, Grandsire Caters 4, Darleston Bob Triples 2, Orford Bob Triples 5. Fe was a member of the Ancient society of Gollege Youthe and the Ferford County Association. At St. Michnel'm Biglop"s Stortford, he wrs greatly missed during the three sears of his last illuess.
The funeral took place on June 10th, and is the evering a quarterpeal of Oxtord Bob Triples was rung with the bells half-multied Mre. T. TVard 1. W. Prior 2, H. J. Tucker 3, P. Bird (conductor) 4, TF. T Prior 5. E. J. White 6, E. Ansell 7, W. Wilkineon B.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

E NEW SUPPTTSE BOOT

The book on Surprise Major Methods led to two reportis beille presented to the Council. Tlize Methods Committee majority report (ejgned by Messrs. J. A. Trollope and E. C. S. Turner) was is follows:-
During the last year the third edtlion of Collection of Doubles and Minor BIEthods' has been issued. It should be pointed out that this is not merely a reprint of the second edition. It is a new hook with a considerable rmount of new matter in it, and so shond be purchased even by those who alruedy possess the eecond edition.
The questiou of the publication of the mew book on Surprise Major fethods will come before the Council. In conmection with that we ask that couductors and zecretaries of associations should forward to us the flgures end particulars of any new Surprise Major methoda as 500n afler performance as possible in order that the book may be corrected up to the minute before printing. As the book is fully indexed and cross-indezed this will mean tho exercise of some amount of care and trouble, and we hope ringers will assist us in the matter.

We also ask buy persons who have methods which they hope to cing and mame in the future to send in the figures. If the methods are anong those included in the book we wril see that they bave the nanes selected by those people, unless they are obviously unsuitable. If they are not in the hools we will gee that the selected nomes are not used for any methods in the book.
By obviously unsuitable names we mean those which are already epplied to some Surprise method, those which contravene tive general custom of the Exercise or some decision of the Council, names which are ridiculous, and the like.
There is, we believe, a reluctance among some ringers to part with Itheir figures in the fear thet if they do so they may be forestalled in the ringing. To meet this feeling we will promise that any intormation sent to us will be treated as confidential and tinnt ail papers sent will be destroyed as soon as they are compared with the manuacript of the new book, without being chown to eny autsiders or any copres made.

At the Council meating at Leedg in 1038 it was sugrested that those methods in the book in which peals heve not yet been rung should be numbered anly, and pristed without names. To this we are unalterably opposed and for the following reasons:-

1. We tried the plan of issuing an unnamed collection when we first nublished 'Minor Methods,' and it proved a complete failure. Older members of the Council will not need to be reminded of the confusion whieh resutted. Titimately the Council had to demde that the methods still unnaraed should receive names witbout waiting until they had been runs
2. We issued the 'Major Methods' named and the plan was a comphete success. No aingle word of adverse criticism of our action has prer reached us from anyone.
3. We have learnerf from experimone that an unnamed collegtion censes after a short time to have any ralue. If the Surprise Major mobloods ave publighed unnmbed, in it lew yenra" time the book will be out of date and of tiltle value. The book has been prepared to the the standard work on the subject for many years to come, and we do not wish that the verv large nmount of work and mare that has been expended on it should he thrown eway so soon. Besides we consider that it would he bad business and nnfair to purclasers to mublish it in a form that we hawe every reasou to beljeve will neke it speedily out of date.

Fhere is no force or point whaterer in the argunent that if the methods are named the exclusive righta of the bands 访ho ring tho flot peals will he infringed. For one thing. the Frercise bas never recognised any such exclusive rights, and such a thing would be contrary to the interests of ringers generally. For another thing. ihere are many thousands of methods not ineluced in this collertion. and ans band which wishes to ring and uanse new methods wifl still Tuse practically wnlimitnd nprortunities to indulge their fancy. practically fulimitad opnartunities to indulge their fancy
It should be recomised that names are only a convenient mepns of to identify a metlond before a peal of il is rung as afterwards, and in some cases mare so. It hes heen suggested that numbering the methochs will mpply the necessary mengs of imputification. liut all experience shows that it is not so. Numbers are only useful when, as in tha case of convicts, it is desirable to conceal the real identity.
Generally speakine the suceess of the book and the interests of the Expreise demand that the methods should be named, and our considered opinion is that unless the methods are mamed it witl be reseless to proceed further with the hook.

MR. S. H. WOOD'S MENORITY RFPORE

The third member of the committee, Mr. Stephen E. Wood, did not kiga the above, but presented the following minority report :If am in agremment witlo the majority of the thove report: in partienlar, after farther concidering the question of the naming of methods which was raised last year at the Leeds meeting, and discussing it with the ather members of the committee. I share their opinion that all the methods published in the Surprise Major Collection should $b=$ gamed. My main renson for reaching this conclusion is the desirabilite of mnkizig the book complete and a standard work of reforence for many venrs to come, as set, out in reason 3 of the majority report ; and I wentd further emphasige that in view of the initial most of printing the book it is imperative that sales should be maintaned aver a long period of years.

I do not, however, wish to associate mrselp with cettain of the ather arguments and statements ineluded in the majority report, as I am not in agreement with fhesr substance nor with the implicabions which they contain.
Mr. J. A. Troflope, in proposing the adoption of the zeport, prefaced his remarke by stating that that was the forioth anniversary of his appointment to the Methods Committee. There were only two other members of the present Counci] who were ziembers at that time but there was another gentleman present that day, Mr. Jaseply Griffin, who 40 years ago was already a 'veteram. When the committee was appointed it was given the job to decide what methods thould be rung and then to publish selections. He did not think anyhody then recogassed that, aiter 40 years, its work world still be incomplete, but lie did not think anyone cobld say that the time had ben wasted If they did nothing else they published the Six-bell book, and that book had revolutionised Minor ringing and had a great inffance on riuging in the six-bell towers. The last edition of that book luad just been published. Everything that was new in that book was the work of Mr. Eraest Trarner and he was entitled to the aredit for it. He (前r. Trollope) only rearranged the old mather in it.

Mr. S. H. Wood, who secouded the adoption of the report, said he had vary little to add to the remarks that appeared over his eiguature. He disagreed with some of the reasons given by his colfeagtes in their report and in the manner of presenting them to the Council, but he was entirely in agreement with them on the main conclusion thet, the methods to be printed in the Surprise Major book should lee named.

TEE QLESTION OF NAMES.

The President said he was naked specially to direet attention to the third paragraph of the report that ringers who hape methods whith they loped to ring and mame in the future abould send in the figures and the names.
Replying to questions, Mr. Trollope said it was up to auybody wha had any method that really had a name to it to submit that name, and if there whs an reason why the name should not be given to the method, if it appeared in the book, the neme would go in. Berr it wras necessary that that option should only lass for a limited period, say a month, because once the book was in the Press they could not go ou altering it. In the book were 150 methods given in full: of that 150 abous 60 hed been rung and had a name. Of other methoils that had been rung but not inclnded most ran ir certain groups and those groups were already well represented in the book. Other groups Which had not been runge were already there and under a marme. There would be no hardship as some people anticipnted.
Replying to Mr. Groombridge, wha raised the question of priority in claims to methods, Mr. Trollope said they had a complete chronological list of all the methods that had been ruag

The Rev. F. Drake said there seemed to be a port of idea that evory band that rang the first peal in o method had a rigit to name it, simply because they had rung it first. He would like to have bone avidence of that, It had been a rule only since the Minor metinds were brought up. He (Mr. Drake) was at the meatigg when Mr. Law James brought the mather up and was most emphatic aboat it being is new thing. Instead of the person who composed the method giving the name to it, they published the methods witlout mames in order, as a new departure, that whoever rang a methof fist should bave the chance to name it. But that only applied to the methods publiskied in the Minor Methods books; it did not apply anywhere else. That the persons who rang a new eight-bell method should neme it was a watter of convenience, and there was no reason why thay should not do so, but he did not think they ought to feel they ladi the right to do so under all circumbtances.
Replying to a question. Mr. Trollope said if a band had rume a quarter-peal of a method or were practising for a peal and laad at suitable name for the method, the committee were perfectly prepared to give it that name, if the method were in the book and fif the name Were received in time. It aid not matter about them ringing a peal of it before they geve it a name
The President gaid the name mast be receired within a monlt
Mr. Cullum contended that the band that rane the first peal in a methon should have the privilcge of naming it. He did not see why the Methods Committee should dictate to the ringers what wher should

Mr. Funt reminded the members of the position ther got inta over the six-bell methods. If ther had exercised their authority and patthe mames in that book, thoy rould have saved a great deal of trouhle. 'I hought one of those books," said Mr. Hund; "and where was I? A methon was rumg and ito was reported in "The Ringing World." The next weels samene else wrate in and said some other nane had already bean given to the method. My hook got mumaller up with pames gind I put it on the fire (laughter). Fou mat laugh, biat don"t ant so foolishly to-dary. Let the $lethods Committee name the methods and finish their work
Mr. S. F. Wood said for once, and perhaps for the flost time ha foumd himself in entire &greement with Mr. Hunt (laughter). It was ezactly the reason Mr . Fant lad civen that led bim (the spenkeri to the conclusiog that the methons should be named hy the committee. Where thep had not already heen given names. The committee fe thought he could speale for them all-had no partimalar degire to choose tha names themselves: their point was they thought it was in the interests of the Cuancil and the Exercise that, when the book was published, the methods must be given names

Mr. Hant: I have in my time given Mr. Wood some good advice and I congratulate nyself thet I Lave at last been able to teach him fomethisg (laughter).
Mr. Walter Ayre formally moved that the mames be printed in the book when published, and this, on being put, wis carried with only one dissentient.

ASCOCIATION'S RESPONSE.

The bon. secretary then reported upan the result of the invitation extended to the rarious affiliated societies to take up one half of the first issue af the boak. The cost per copy of the book would be approximatels, for 500 copies $3 \varepsilon$. 6 d ., 7502 s . 6 d ., $1,0002 \mathrm{E}$. Basing the cost on 750 copies and to arrive at a selling price, $6 d$. per copy was added, to be divided equally between the Council and the associations; thus the cost to the associations would be 2 s . gid. and they would gell at 3 . Twenty-eight associations had undertaken to purchase their quota, which was three copies per representative on the Council. That accounted for 237 copies. Nine societies had offered to take more than their quotes : Yorkshire (quota 12) had offered to take 36, Norwick (9) 30, Sussex (12) 30, Midland Counties (12) 24, Oxford (12) 24 , \& Martin's Guild (3) 5, Warwick (6) 12, Lincoln (12) 18, Mitdlesex (12) 14, accounting for another 194 ropies. Three aocieties would take less than their quota. accounting for 19. making a guarantee of 450 coptes in all. Two societies treve waiting for meetings before replyirg; Cambridge University Gnilid were in sympathy, but their resident mem bers were not sulficiently advanced enough to be able to use the books, while the non-regident members would probably ohtain their copies through other associations. Two societies, the East Grinstead and the Bedfordshire, lad decided not to co-operate.

The Rev. E. S. Powell said that at the meeting on the previous day Who Peterhorongh fiuld had decided to take their quota of twelve copies.
Thn hon. secretary yead a letter from Mr. J. W. Parker, apologising for his absence from the meening, nud, referring to the Collection af the Surprise methods, said same vears ngo he went into the question of extending the Surprise Minor methods and found that only two of them, apat from those already practised, would extend. Theso were Hexham and sisfleet, and he thought the collection would not be complete if these were not jncluded.
The reappointment of the conmittee, Messrs. J. A. Trollope (conwener), E. C. S. Turner and S. H. Wood, was agreed to amid npplause, on the motion of Mr. W. A. Cave, seconded hy Mr. J. Hunt, the inter referring to the vast amount of time which thes suust heve devoted to the preparation of this book.

ACCURACY IN PEAL REPORTS

In presenting the report of the Peals Analysis and Records Committee, printed in 'The Ringing World ' on April 7th. Mre. Fletcher said a peal of Grandsire Triples, inchuded under other societies, should have been credited to the East Grinstead Guild. When the tables wero prepnred the committee did not know that the East Grinstead Guild hrd become affiltated to the Council.
The Presidend. referring to the analysis generally, pointed out that the committee could not give correct information if the correct information was not dent in. The Editor of "The Ringing World' had complained of a great number of peal reports being sent to him, more than there used to be, with incomplete information. It was essential that conducters rhould see that the information they sent for publication was coraplete.
Mr. T. Groombridge proposed a vote of thanks to the committee for the work they did and that they he re-elected. This was secomded hy Mr. F. W. Perrens and carried. The comnittee consists of Mrs. and G. A. Pre.

TOWERS AND BELLS.

Tine Towers and Belfries Committee reported that the members of the committee had given advice in 14 cases during the year. These covered rehanging, addition of bells to existing rings, eafety of a tower: sommd modification and the hanging of an old bell for chiming with a special arrangement of the clapper. Advice was also given in monnection with a proposed reinforced cencrete tower. The Davis silencers have been loaned during the year with catisfactory resnlts.
In moving the adoption of the report, the President said Mr. Hont gave advice on a five-hell fower and a six-bell town and on g case of increasing the bells frona six to eight. Major Hesse had given antrice in sir cases, on questions of rehangirg and the addition of bells, He (Mr. Lewis) had dealt with five or sis cases, and had had correspondence on one or two more. Last year he meutioned ilie case of the sound control at Harrow Weald. That had been carried out and was said to he very satisfactory. It was proposed to have a demonstration there before lomg and he was hoping to pet is member of the Anti-Nrise Committee to go with kim to frear the demonstration. so that he mjght judge of the effects in different parts of the neighbourhood round the clurch. "If," gid Mr. Lewis, "We can get that sommittee over to orr aide it will be a great thing for the finture.'

The President said there was one interesting case which he would Like to mention, although it was not a case of ringing. It was a question of chiming, wlich was hrought to their notice by the Rev H. Drake. There was an ancient bell which was to be inug dead for chiming, not by the use of an Ellacombe hammer, but iyy puling the clapper againat the bell by a rope attached to a lever half-way down the clapper. Mr. Drake wanted advice as to whether jt would be a good thing. He (MIr. Lewis) went, into the whole question rather carefully, and the result, would probably interest the Council. First in the old form of elocking, he fourd that a pull ental to ore-ihird fi the weit of the clapper wonid bold the clapper defnitely nane the bell. In plain language it was wery easy to hold the clapper dead against the bell. In the Ellacombe arrangement it took a pull on the rope approximately equal to the weight of the clapper to hold the hammer against the bell, but if the hammer were so adjusted as to be close ts Eye bell, then only a wight pull mass needed to lold it againgt the bell Tnless, therefore the bammers ware adiusted with a fair pount of slack, they were iust the old form of clocking, theoreticaly. But in the case of the lever projecting from the slapper about half way down the shanar rope athached and carried down over the pulley wheel, prowided the lever attached to the clapper was of the rigit length, it was absolutey impossible to hold the clapper against the bell and the bell was quite As safe as if it were clumed on the string

CORROSION OF STEEL GIRDERS.

Mr, Lewis went on to say that aithough they had lost by death their old friend Mr. Powts, the secretary of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings, he was glad to say that he had been consuled in one case by the new secretary. Mr. Lewis also referred to a new type of silencer which is being developed in the Oxtord district, Mr. Wige, he believed, liad got ons which members conla inspect in the hall outside the Courcil chamber. Fe (Mr. Ierwis) bad not had tha opportunity of testiug it, but from what he had heard he belisyed these silencers were quite satisfactary. Procceding, Mr. Lewis recalled a case which be meationed last year of an unpainted tran frame on steel girders which had got jnto a very bari coudition. He banded round photngraphs of this, showing that after 30 vears the steel girders were largely eaten away with rust. Their condition, he said, went a long way to justify those architects who ingisted on the instaliation of wooden frames, which would do without peinting whereas steel frames required constant attention. An architent came to him ant long ago, said Mr Lewis, and asked him whether he approved of a suggection for a tower entirely corstrated of reinioreed concrete. His advice was that, providing it was designed by a lirm of renforced concrete engineers gnd they were ripent the forces whirh the tower had to resist, the thing chould be entirely antisfactory. It was a perfectly common practice to put moving machinery fairly high up in reinforced concrete huildinge and it was perfectly sound.
Mr. Hunt said a bell nught not to be zung dead for chiming. If at was hung so that it could move there would be no feam of aracking it
Major Hesse also supported the piew that a belf to be chimed should bo hung on gudgeons.
The Rev. H. Drake said that that wos the verg point arising in this matter. With the rope attached to a lever on the clapper it was argued on one side that it did not matter whether the bell hoog dead or rot: others said that it did.
Replying to a question, the President anid there were now one or two raore diocesan advisory committees on wheh ringers wera represented. They had not had definite reparts from some of the associations and they would be glad to get such raporde.
In the course of discussion on the Fusting of metal in bell rranies, ingtances were quoted where cast iron had stood for years and had shown no sirn of perishing.

The committee's report was adopted and the committeo reappainted, viz. : Mr. E. H. Leprig (conpener), Major J. H. B. Hesse, Mr. J. Hupt and Mr. E. Alex. Yonng

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

A meeting of the Elloe Deaneries Branch of the Lincoln Diocesam Guidd, held at Surfleet on Junc 17th, was attended by lsetween thirty and forty members representing belfies at Spalding, Pinchbeck, Long Sakton, Bourne: Lincaln, Doningkon, ete.
The service was conducted by the Rev. E. C. Gee, Vicar of Pinchbeck, who in the comrse of a thoughtul address stressed the connection between the use of bells in the service of the Church and the idea of holiness, especially AS exemplified in the bells on the bigh priestes robe in the Ancient Jewish Clurch and the sacting and sanctus bells used in some churches to-day in the service of Holy Comaraunian.
A most excellent meat tea was provided by Mrs. Rupert Richardson and served by her and other ladies, atter which $n$ short busidess meeting mas held, presided over by Mr. Gee, durige which Mr, J. Dobmey, the churchwarden of Sturteet, was elected an honorery nember
The light ring of twelve bells in the church steeple was in use throughout the afternoon and evening, it vacjety of methods being practised from Cambridge Minor to Treble Bob Maximur.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION'S DIAMOND JUBILEE

CELEBRATION AT CHELMSFORD.

Proposal for Benevolent Fund Defeated,

The sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Easax Association Tus celebrated on Whit Monday at Chelmsford, when nearly two hundred members nssemhlad for the annual meeting, and there were risitors from many parts of the country, including London, Liverpool Bristal and Portsmouth.
A service at the Cathearal was comducted by the Provost, the Very Rev. W. E. R. Morrow. The Master (Dr. P. T. Spencer-Phillips) read the lesson, and the preachor was the Vemerable E. N. Gowing, Areh deacon of Southend, and a vice-president of the ass prasers were offered for the * blessing of bellringing.
Archdeacon Gowing expressed his pleasure at takine part in that diamond jubiles. "It is a proud record that you have, he declared. *For 60 years you have been an association, and you have good reason to be proud. Athoggh your association is only 60 years old, ringing associations are reafly older than that. F belfeve that the first rea 1637 there was formed the Aucient Snciety of College Youtlis. Bit1 in Essex you go back further than 1637, for one of the oldest of the asscrinilions is that of Saffron Walden, born in 1623. One of the arliest peals in Essex was rung from that tower. Then, 60 vears ago, there were formed these local associations. This was indeed au epic.
The preacher continued that among the aspecto of winging wess that of recreation-less imporiant, perhans, than the other aspects. Accuslly, however, the old associations were formed as a kind of Fithonal Fitness Campaign-to keep youth fit and ocerupy their idle moments. To-day, they heard so much about National Fitness. Eurely then, ringing had a great and important message. If. was $\pi$ steady, robular exercise, and, therefore, nust be good for the fitness of man. To be a ringer, one must concentrate, and to do that wes to develop the physiral and the mentrl life. Again, it meant ' stickinf to it. It was physical, mental and, what was most important of all, spiritunl recrention. Ringing was an act of service. It was of $a$ twafold nature-sncial and spiritual. When the belle reng out they reminded people that there is a God-mindful, anxious, loving-and that without. His gaidance conditions would the absolute chans.
'I suggest." the Archdeacon continued, "that hellringers ring out message to world that in these days is inclined to forget and ignore God.' He urged the ringers in those places where beliringing was popular and flourighing to go out nad stir up entlusiasmin the less enthusinstic parishes. From the point of view of service to the Charch it fs esserfial that mo peal should be silent. Especielly eo is it in these days when people must more, porhaps, than ever before, the reminded of Gind. I congratulate your association, your Master, "our secretary and the officials. God be with you in your work, realising that you nre doing sometling which is of real palue to the life of our country and the world. You are carrying the torch in our lives. Spread the good work. Strive to Gring in the youth so that there may be others to carry on this splendid worl in the service of God and your fellow-man.

A OOMPATTSON

Luncheon was partaken of at the Corn Excluarge, the Veu. I. N Gowing presiding.
The Master, Dr. P. T. Spences Phillips, in the 60th armual report said: 'The first thing that strikes me is that our membership now stauds at 1,101, made up as follows: Honorary 75 , ringing 754 and non-resident, 275, whereas in the report for 1929 the membership was 1,140, so that we have lost 39 members in the hast ten years. This is rather serious, especially as there are now 103 towers affiliated. against 101 in 1929, and it probahy means that there are fewer bell being rate for church services. Lef us celebrate the cliamosd jubilee by a ereat effort to obtain more members this can be done if every memher does his best. Progress has, however. been mante in peil ringing. The total of 124 compares well with 89 in 1929, and the 110 hater first in the method with 67 , hut, again, the 28 who ramg their first peal is nots so good ag 31 in 1929 , but the number of conductors, 40 , is better than the 30 in 1929. This all points to thie lack of new members, but shows that the old ones are making rood progress,

The average attendance at distript motings was $$ 7$. Thie following restorations and ourmentatious lad been completed: Great Bentiey rehurg. Dagenliam 6 rehung and two added. Stanford-le-Hope 6 reeast and reharem and two added. It is haperi that Stisted mey be increased to eight in the vear futare

The Master regretted to record the deaths of two homorary members the Rov, F. A. Thurlow, of Widford, and the Rev. J. W. Eisdell of Hornchurch, and five ringing members, Messrs. G. Wyatt, of Bentley E. Hawkins of Hornchurch, G. Carter, of Loughtan, F. W. Haslam of Ravleigl, and W. Dudley, of Prittlewell. Mr. E. J. Eutler had retired from the nost of secrefary of the South-West District, Mr J. Challs laal hoen elected Master and Mr. J. H. Crampion necretary It the Nortin-West District Mr. W. Wheeler had kucceded Mr. H. A. Wacey retired. Whe accounts mere very satisfactory, thanks to the careful werk of the district secretaries, and also to the general secrefars, and hest thanks were offered to mll the officers who had worked so well during the peat

DEATH OF MR. WILLIE ROUGHTON

[Conthibuten.]

Finging friends will regret to learn of the death of Willia Eoughtort, who passed away on June 14th. Although not an ardent peal ringet, he wis a most excellent and sccomplislied striker, and what greater compliment can be paid to the memory of a ringer? This, coupled with his having been for some time associated with the St, Mary-leTuwer, Ipswich, company, was no doubt due to the fact that as well as being a ringer he had a musical training, aud was that rare comhination of a ringer who could cingl Fearg ago, when living in Wales, he ang all the bass solog in Abergavenny Church choiz for some two and a half years, and on coming to London he was received with open arms by the St. Panl's Cathedral band, where he geterf as a deputy in the Sunday service ringing until hīs health gave wa
During his ringing carcer loa rals prais of Stedman Triples and Caters on handbells on inside pairs of belis. But he will be chifely rememberent by his numy friends and by visitors to London for his eharm of manner and good fellowship, and his infections laugh, so beloved by Charles Dickens. As a chess blayer up to connt-y championship form he represented the county of Middesex on several occasions.

He will be femembered by the ringing Exercise throughout the country as speaking over the wireless on ringing matters, beng the first person to give talks on this subject.
Ee was badly gassed in the Great War, and this was the ultimato cause of his death, for he was retired from the Army permanently unfit after being peased in as A.I.
THE LATE MR. W. ROUGHTON.
And those of us who knew and loved bim, and who came to him with all our jovs and sorrows, are sed and sorrowtul at the loss of a dear friend, and call to mind the words of Omar Khayyam:-

Lo, some we loved, the loveliest and the best,
That time and tide of all their vintage prest,
Fare drunk their cup a round or two before, And one by one erept silently to rest.'
The cremation service took plece at Marylebone Crematorium on Enturday. June 17th, and was attended by relatives and friends, Messrs. A. A. Hughes and G. N. Price reptesenting the Ancient Society of College Youths. $\qquad$

WESTBURY-ON-TRYM PEAL BOARD

A tablet was unveilen in the tower at Westbury-on-Trym, after morning service an June 4th, Focording a peal rung there recently. The simple dedication was carried out by the Rev. A. J. Wyne, in tlise absence of the Vicar, and the tablet was anveiled by one of the alsoir ladies and sikter of ane of the ringers. The little ceremony ended with the ringing of a well-struck course of Grandsire Doublea.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by. the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

Founders

 of the heaviest bells cast in England.
greatest of all minor peals.

Something approaching the limit of possibility in a peal of spliced Minor must have been reached in North Lincolnshire on Saturday, when one hundred and two methods were included in seven extents. This has followed closely upon a peal in one hundred methods, the details of which appear in this issue. These are astonishing performances, upon which every ringer, and more particularly those who have had experience of spliced ringing, will congratulate the band most heartily. For the past three years or so there has been a friendly rivalry between the Lincoln and the Chester Guilds in this particular phase of ringing, and we are sure that none will be warmer in their praise of the achievement than the Cheshire ringers, who had held the lead since July last year. These peals must rank as the greatest of all peals of Minor.

It is sometimes argued that, as there are only slight constructional differences between the members of certain groups of Minor methods, splicing of this description is not as dificult as some people would have us believe. Within a limited scope there may be some truth in this, but it must be admitted that to memorise a hundred methods and be prepared and able to strike off into one or other of them at a second's notice requires a grasp of the subject and a training that is far beyond that demanded in the average spliced peal. Not only must all these methods, and their names, be at the finger ends of the ringers, but every one of the band must be keyed up to the highest pitch throughout the peal, while the conductor's share in the success is, of course, a gigantic one and his task stupendous. It is, apart from the actual ringing of so many methods, an extraordinary feat of memory and a terrific tax upon one's mental energy to call a peal of this sort. Mr. George Feirn has completed an achievement of outstanding merit, and he might now very well rest upon his laurels. In any case, there can be very little further mathematical scope in Minor splicing. There are constructional limitations to the number of methods that can be crowded into seven true extents, and these limits must have well nigh been reached.

These latest performances seem a far cry from 1911, when the late Rev. H. Law James first showed, in a practical manner, the possibility of splicing by ringing a peal in fourteen methods. At that time, even he could not bave foreseen the lengths to which his new ideas would be carried. It would not be an unfitting climax, therefore, if the ultimate record rested with the Guild for which he rang that first peal. As long as the limit, imposed by the laws of our science, remains unreached, however, there will probably be bands ready to strive for the laurels, but whatever achievements remain for the future, nothing can detract fromi the greatness of the performances of the company that, at Bassingham on June 16 th, were the first to ring one hundred methods in a peal, and have since even excelled this performance.

PEAL NOTES.  SIXTY YEARS ON.

Mr. William Story took part in a peal of Double Norwich Major at st. John the Bnptist's Church, Newcastle, on Friday, the eve of St. John the Baptist's Dsy, It is 60 years since he beraw his ringing career at this church. The peal was the 100 th which Measrs. W, H. Barber and J. Anderson have rung together.

Thr first peal of Fulbeck Bob Major by the Norwich Diocesan Association was rung at East Dareham on Satarday. If was also the first in the method by all the band and was srranged for Mr. Norman Harding. of Wrayshury, Middlesex, who was spending a holiday fin the district, It was Mr. W. E. Bason's 200th peal for the essociation
The composition, by Mr. Nolan Golden, the conductor. was in 50 courses, containing the courge-end extent with the 6 th at home and all the combinations of $4-5-6$ in 5-6. It is, presumably, rung for the first time.

At Nethersealo, Derbyshire, on Friday, a peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung to celebrate the wedding of Mr. A. Yistes, a locil ringer, to Miss B. Etatham, whose wedding took place at this churck on the previous Friday. It had been arranged as a peal by all local ringers, but owing to the illness of Mr. W. F. Woodward, the local captain, Mr. J. W. Cotton kindly assisted at the last moment and called the peal.

A peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's Oathedral, Leicester, on Saturduy, earbled Mr, C. H. Webb, of Rugby, to complate the seribs in the method from Doubles to Ginques.
The Spliced Surprise Major at Irthlingborough on June 17th wiss Mr O. W. Woolley's 300th peal, eud ou Wednesday of last week at Bushey lie conducted his first peal of Stedman Triples 'in Land,' and Messrs. H. G. Onshmore and J. E. Rootes rang their first peal of Stedman on asndbells.
We lad heard it maid, although we never beliaved there was any justification in such rumour. that when some of these Spliced Surprise experts tackled Stedman Triples "in hand' their kneen knocked tocother and their teoth chattered, so scared ware they of the method. But this latest peal gives the lie to it , or shows they have beater down thair nervousaess.
Major I. H. B. Hesse, who lives at Haslemere, Surcey, has now rung every bell at Wrington, Somerset, to a peal, and Haslemerd and Wragton are over a hundred miles apart! Dut Major Hesse has a personal interest in Wringtom, and Wrington bas aglorious ring of ten bells. The peal on Saiurdgy was a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Enipht, on the occasion of their silver wedding.
Reference is made elsewhero to the peal of Minor in one lundred methods rung at Bassingham, but another notable performance in Spliced Minor ringing is also recorded this week. The Clsester Guild rang a peal in 46 methods at Disjey on Saturday. In one of the F20's there were 13 methods.
Mr. Arthur Panther, who wis formerly hon. gecretery of the Barnsley and District Society, was welcomed back to ringing on Jupe 19th after a severe illuess, which had threatened to put an end to his peal ringing. Rappily these prognostications were not fulfilled, and Mr. Panther was able to share in the pesl of sevan Trable Bob Minor mothods at Eilkstone.
Edward and Alan Steel Fang their 2sth peal together at Longton, Staffs, on June 22nd, when they took part in a penl of Bob Major rung to celebrate the homecoming of their Majesties from the royat tour.
The lovely church of St. Edith, Monks Kirby, is set on a hill, the magaificent tower overlooking the few houses that form the vilage. A tomer of such e size nust be differty to find in such s smajl parigi elsewhere, That, at any rate, was the impression of the "Thursdayites,' When, on Juve Eind, they arrived in 'good fettle.' to attempt Double Norwich. The heavy ring of eight were up in readiness, thanks to Mr. Tom Pittam, one of the local band, and some good ringing was soon to be heard over the countryside.
Throughout the peal "Our Arthur' was in his elemant, turnige in好色 "big 'un." Mf. W. Bottrill was again responsible for the calling, and it is with profound repret thes within the next few weeks the 'Thursanyites, will be losing such a ringer, who is moving into Bedfardshire and is to reside at Luton.
The talented trio of brothers, George, Harry and Tesee Moss, who Gegan their ringing career at Thoraham Magaa, Sufolk, have suffereत bereavement by the death of their father, Mr. Isac Mass, an old inhabitant of the village. A peal of Minor rumg there on Saturday, which had been arranged to enable Mr. B. Aldridge, of Woolwich, to ring a peal in his native district, was therefore rung half-muffled.
By ringing a peal in which ten methods were included in eeven extents, Mr. Albert Relfe, of Lamberburst, han now scored peals of Minor in from one to fourteen methods. The peal at Frant on June 17th was the first in ten methods by all the band.

The band who rang the peal of Miner at Watton, Norfolk, dexire to thank Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Foughton for providiag rafreshments after the peal. They also thank Mr. C. Ranham for standing in at chort notice. The peal Was rung on June 17 th.

Mr. Pat Cannon has now rung a peal on the lightest as well as the heaviest eix in the country. The former is at Brockenharst, Hnnta, where the tenor is only 4 cwt. 1 qr. 12 fb . It is ten years since a peal was rang on them. Mr. Cannon has now ring 125 peals and they have been spresd over 119 towets. The Brockenhurst peal waE rung on June 14 th.

PEALS IN ONE HUNDRED METHODS.

A GREAT MINOR RECORD.

Lincolnshire Ringers' Achievement.

Geving, as we briefly recorded in our last issue, rung for the first time a peal in 100 Minor methods in seven extents at Bassingham on June 17ths, the talented North Lincolnshire six-bell band went on to ring a peal in 102 methods last Saturday at Leadenhani, and they have thus aet up a great record, the previous highest bumber of methods in a peal having beea 84. Comment on these performances is mado in out leading articie.

The peal at Bassingham, of which we give details elsewhere, included a new extent by Mr. A. G. Driver. It was rung at the first 720 and is made up of fifteen Alinnce and two Little methods. Three otler of the 720's were composed by Mr.
Driver and the rest were arranged by Mr. C. K. Lewis from Mr. Driver's tables.

It is interesting to note that at least one plain lead of every method was emploged in the course of the peal.

The peal is a signal irimmph For this talented Minor baud, which includes a lady, Mrs. J. Bray. They are the second Lincalnshire company to lalke a hand in the fiendly rivelry wilh the Clester Guild for Minor method honours, A Nouth Lincolnsbire band, practising at Alqarkirk, were the first to chsllenge the Chester Guild's records, and since these men became dispersed, the company in the north of the county hnvo taker up the challenge.
In these peals the hesviest task falls upon the conductor. Mr. George Feirn, who called the peel at Bassingham, is 25 years of age, began ringing cight years ago and rabg his first peal in December, 1832.
The following ligt shows how the number of methods tas grown in peals of Spliced Minor. Those in Lincolnshire have been rung for the lincoln Diocesan Guild, and those in Chealire and Derhyshire for the Chester Diocesan Guid.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTIS.

DISAPPOINTIKG ATTENDANCE AT COUNTRY MEETING.
The quarterly meeting of the Royal Gumberland Youths was beld at Great Baddow on Saturday, June 24th, but was very poorly mapported. No doubt other meetings in Essex were partjy responsible, but, even so, 18 was a very disappointing attendance. Of this number five came from the south side of the Thames, which meant upwards of 80 miles' travelling for each of them.
The rest of the company included Mr. George Green and his son, of the local band, and that be-year-old veteran, Mr. William Nevard, who is one of the society's oldest and staunchest supporters.
The Vicar (the Rev. &. H. Holmes) conducted the service, and Mr. Hussel, a lay reader and very accomplished speaker, gave a most interesting address.
At the business meeting the Ficar presided, and the election of seven new members in various towers was duly ratified.
Tho secretary slated that joint meetiogs with the Ancient Society of Coliege Youths and the Middleser and Essex Associations were being arranged. Dutes had not yet been finaliy settlea, but it was expected that with the College Youths would be held at Croydon or October 14 th and that with the other associations within in fortright either side of that date.
The Master (Mr. G. H. Cross) proposed that the annual dinner be held on March 18th next year.
A vote of thanks to the Vicar, Mr. Hussel, Mr. G. Green and the organist was proposed by Mr. A. Hardy and carried with ecclamation. Hazdiells were then brought into use, before it return was made to the towor, where ringing was again carried on.

DEATH OF A LANCASHIRE RINGER.

The last survivor of the first peal of Double Norwich Major yung fo Lancashire has passed away in the person of Mr. J. T. Baguley. The peal was rung 50 years ago on April 8th at Worsley, where Mr. Baguley was, at the time, one of the band. Later he lived in Fecles and rang at the Parish Church there, and when he retired and went to live at Dasyhulme, he joined the Fliston Parish Churcla company. His death occurred, after a brief illness, at the age of 76. The deceased leaves a widow and family in bereavement.
The funeral took place on Monday, June 19th, the first part of the service being held in Mixton Parish Church and the interment taking place at Urmston Cemetery. Before and after the service half-muffled touches of Grandsire Triples were rumg at Flixton, and in the evening an atterapt was made for a peal of Steduan Triples. This, however, came to grief after an hour and ten minutes. The band represented Worsley, Bowden, Manchester and the local company.

A WORCESTERSHIRE RESTORATION.

The culmination of a long worked for restoratiou scheme at Alderminster, Worcestershire, was reached on June 7th, when the former five bells were rededicated end a treble bell was dedicated by the Lard Bishop of Coventry at a special sarvice. Of the old peal, the treble and 4th were cast by Abrahem Rudhali im 1714 and 1719 respectiveis, the other three being ly Farry Bagley, of Ckacombe. The old timber bell frame was becoming rickety and the ringing of the bells was not an easy matter. This irame work has been preserved, and the results of the work of the bell hangers, Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, speak for themselves. As the frame was designed to carry six bells, a sew treble bell has been added to complete the ring of six. By paying special attention to the tuning of the old beils, Messcr. Taylor have effectea a very good splice.
The weight of the tenor is 121 cwt. and the case with which it was possibie to ring the bells astounded the local men, which is not surprising, considering the hard and diffecult task they had to face before the rebarging. Quite a number of weighbouring ringers took the oppastunity of trying the newly-hūg belis. Mr. J. P. Fidler, of Loughlorcugh, was amongak those present.

SUFFOLK GUILD.

HALESWORTH COMPANX'S AYCIENT FOUNDATION.
On Whit Monday, the Suffolk Guild held a meeting at Halesworth, when members and frionds from 26 towers rang touches at St. Mary'g throughout the day. One enthusiest, Mr. Trank Corney, cycled irom Wanstead, a distance of 95 miles each way.
At the meeting, the clair wis taken by tike Rev. T. H. Caren, who extended a hearty weicome to all presen and commended the evident goodwill and fellowship prevailing among the ringers. He said that what struck him ahout the riuging that day was the expert akill with which, though coming from various towers, they were able to produce harmonious results straight eway.
Twelve new members were elected, and an invitation from the Rov. B. T. Pitts to the Guild to meet at Fressingfeld was accepted.

Mr. C. E. Fisher, hon. treasurer, spoke on the financial position of the Guild, saying that this was better than at any time during ita 17 years' existence.
Mr. H. Q. Herbert, hon. secretary, expressed the thanke of all to the Rector, nad, in replying, Mr. Caren invited the ringers to walk round the Rectory grourids.
Mr. F. C. Lambert, the local captain, reminded the meeting that the Halesworth company was this vear celebrating its 400th anniversary, having heen established in 1539 . He had also a boot showing written changes of ringing bearing date of 162 I.

BELERY GOSSIP

Mr. C. D. Potter, of Barnsley, is stitl in Sheffeld Eoyal Hospital, where he has undergone two operations. We are pleased to state, however, that he is progressing favourably.
The naming of Surprise methods is not altogether an easy thing, when you do s lot of it. That, at any rate, seems to be the experience of the Hertfordshire band, who for the last year or two have had to fud new obmes almost every week.
They have almost exhausted the connty directory, have filled in the birthplaces of all the basd, and now are wiping off the rest of the ${ }^{\text {al }}$ [habet.
We imagined a place-name beginning with $X$ might be a difficulty, but we believe they have found one-but not in Hertfordshire
And writing of method names, we would direct the special attention of those ringers, who have a method to which they desire to give a מame of their own selection, to the letter of the Methods Committee, fixing the end of July as the latest date for claiming to name any of the methods which are to appear in the new Surprise book.
The 'auting' season is now reaching its peak, and many reports of these enjoygble excursions have reached us. Thay will be published as soon and es far as space permits.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION AND BENEVOLENT FUND.

To the Bditor

Dear Sir, -In answer to Mr. Chalk's letter in 'The Ringing World, ${ }^{3}$ June 16 th , and your leading article last week, with reference to a bemevolent fund for the Essex Association, 1 would like to point out that the subject has been before the association for nearly who yeara, and although the proposer has used every meang at his disposal to get it accepted, it bas been rejected, not because our members are more lacking in the spirit of brotherhood and friendiness than people Wha live elsewhere, but because they definitely believe that the scheme is impracticable, notwithstanding what has been said in its favour.
In Mr. Chalk's lebter be has a sly dig at peal ringing. I submit that peal ringing is probably the most imporfnat feature which stimulates our ringing journal, without which our Exercise would gink to a very low ebh.

The Ersex Association has a Bell Restoration Fund, from which comparatively small grants are made, is the Ereat majority of cases, Whero new frames have been installed and bells recast, etc.; certainly not for mending decrepit bell frames.

THE COLLECTION OF SURPRISE MAJOR METHODS.

Dear Sir, - In the report of the Methods Committee priated in "The Tinging World ' on June 23td, persons who hope to ring and name Surprise Major methods in the future were asked to Eerd in the figures with the proposed nameg. If any of these methods are in the Collection of Surprise Major Methods the committee will accept the names suggested, unless they are obviously unsuitable Any names suggested for methods not in the collection will not be used for any other methods in the haok.
It was agreed at the Central Council meetiog in London to keep this offer open for one month, as after the book has been sent to the printers no such alterations can be made. Methods should be sent to the nndersigned not later than July 3let, 1939, which is the latest date on which the committce can guarantee to alter any games in the beok. ERNEST. C. S. TTHRNER.

VISITOR'S ' FRICID' RECEPTION.

To the Editor.

Sir,-One of the general assumptions among belfingers is that they extend hospitality towards oubide ringers visiting their towers.
We would like, through the medium of your paper, to express our deep feeling of indignation when, on visiting Bridport tower on Sunday, the I8th inst. we were accorded a frigid reception and totaily ignored. Following this the ringers continued to ring Grandsire Doubles on the front sis, with 7, 6, 8 behind, for the next 20 minutes, by which time the bells had to be lowered for evensong. We were, therefore, not even offered the opportunity to ring.

Although it may be their practice to ring 120 s of Grandsire consecutively, surely on such an occasion it is usual to waive such custam.

HANDBELLS IN CHURCH.

On Sunday, June Ith, fre members of the Kelham handbell band went to St. George's Church, Nottingham. The occasion was the dedication festival of the church and the end of their jubilee year.
The handbells were rung outride the church before, sind inside the church after, evensazg.
Ringing consisted of conrses of Grandsire Caters, Bob Royal, Bob Major end Rounds and Queen's on twelve bells (four in hand).

The thme allowed was about 20 minutes at cither end of erensong. The congregation seemed to appreciate the students' efforts-at least there were no complaints about 'noise'[

LITERATURE, PRESS AND BROADCASTING COMMITTEE

The report of the Literature, Press and Brosdcastiag Committee was es follows : Those who were present at the meeting of the Council in 1938 will remember that on the presentation of this committee's report it was agrepd to send a message of congratulation with a gift to ar. Charles Slingsby, on the attainment of has 101st birthaag. The Press has since recorded bis death, and all concerned will be glad mamber of the Exercise in the last year of his life
One event reported in the Press duriag 1938 is of supreme interest: The royal wisit to St. Paul's Charch, Walden, when the King and Queen watched the ringers at wark in the belfry, and, conducted by a ringer, ascended to the bell chamber and saw the new bell being rung. It would be interesting to know whether this was actually the first time that such a thing had ever been done by a reigning Sopereigy. The former Queen Elizabeth, of blessed memory, is reputred to have been partial to the music of bells, but there is good reason to belfeve that the fashion in court dress favoured by that right royal lady would have proved a decisive impediment to the ascent of the tower steps.
Ballringing is apparently regarded as 'good copy' by jourualists and mews editors of the present day. References to the subject, often with illustrations, have frequently appeared in the popular Press, These are largely of personal interest: Notices of veteran and, more often, of young riagers, while lady ringers never fail to attract attention. Miss Bowyer's wonderful record in peal ringing made front page newi tuder the apt title of 'A Pealing Belle '-and we ara here reminded of the full accounts given in Yorkshire journals of the Central Council meeting et Leeda, when a muck respected lady member was "starred' for a performance having only ant indirect connettion wilh change ringing. Family combinations in ringing also find their way into the qews. Two instances of this character are of opecinl interest-one family named White and another Brown, each capable of raising a complete band, in one case a band of eight, to ring at the wedding of another member of the family. In a daily paper lant June the main pert of a page was devated to an admirably Written article on 'The Ancient Mystery of Bellyinging.
In most cases etatoments nade on the subject have been accurate and well informed. Naturally, errors nre found here and there. For example, one of the fair sez was recenty described as one of the ew women bellringers in the country - -n statement fairly eclipsed by a reference to a girl as "believed to be the only girl ringer!" "Bow Bells may have to close down ' was a recent scare headline to mn article on tha lack of support, accorded to Bow Charch. It was an easit comprehensible mistoke that led a Northern oewspaper to speak of the method 'Double Knowledge.
Sed to say, ane source of copy for the public Press is the substitution of gramophone records for real bells. One regrettable instance is at Thetford, where the clurch possesses eight bells. On this point we may quote with approval a paragraph from the 'Salisbury Diocesan do to church bells ani their riaging, if such a "switch on ", system hecame general, the committee recommended. .. that possibly some form of qualified faculty might be granteत in the Weymouth case without prejudice to any eubsequent case.... and that in future the committee ghould not sdvise a faculty, if a bell or peal were alroady available in the charch

BROADCASTING

Brondeats of hells liave been guite frequent. Some have been entirely good, f few definjtelv baa, others at best indiferent. The At the saime time there has been noticestle a strange silence of belis in several cases of servjces broadcast from chorches with good peals, sach as Leicester. Notingham, Aston and others. Change ringing of the first criter contipues to be heard from Croydon on Sunday mornings, while Liclifield Cathedral has shown welcome improvement, which we hope will be maintained and enhanced.
A renewed oulbrealt has occurred of interference with the short perind of rimging on Sunday evenings - this time in the form of have been two of the most perfect broadcasts of the year, from $S t$. Olave's sind Portsea, were cut down to the lest few changes. Strong letters of protest to the B.B.C. produced one or twn amazing statemeats in reply, but the result bas been a considerable abatement of the auisance. It may be added that the historical notes are in themselves admirable, but the obsious time to intraduce them is during that swlward panse hotween 7.50 p .m. and 7.55 , which is apt to get one speculating whether there is any defect one of those "technical hitches '- either in transmission or reception.
In one respect a commendable jmprovement may be recorded with satiefaction; on Easter Dey there were broadeasts of bells both in the morning and evening.
In proposing the adoption of the report, the Rev. F. El. Edwards called attention to the jucreasing notice which the Press was now giving to bellringing and the doings of bellingers, and said that for the most part the newspapers were getting quite respectably accurate on the subject. On the subject of broadcasting he said it was obvious the committee comill not go mutch into hetaif on the various broadcasts of bells that took place; that could only be done if there were one or more members of the committee in a position to listen to every broadcast throughout the year and take notes at the time. He had beard a few examples of beautiful ringing, but the two towers named in the report were mentioned because they bad a regular Sunday broadeast.
Mr. A. Paddon Smith seconded, and it was suggested that when the 'Model Rules' were printed a note might be anded recommending that wherever a broadcast of the bells was to take place the leader of the tower should be responsible for raising a competent band for the occasion.
The report was adopted, end the commitiee, consisting of the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards \{convener) and Messrs. A. Paddon Smitin, A. Walker and J. S Goldsmith, was reappointed.

OLD PEAL BOARDS

The Peal Boards Committee reported as follows: In our last annarl comprehersive report on our work. Unlike some of the other committees of the Council, our task is one which it should be possible to complete within a limited period. The leagth of the period, however depends upon the co-operation we receive from members of the Exerciso.

It is difficult to formany estimate of the number of peal boards which now exist recording performazees up to and including 1825, but we think that the total number is untikely to exceed 500 . We are advised that there are none in Ireland; it is improbable that there are any in Scotland and we have no knowledge of any in Wales.

So far we have received detals of 177 boards, recording 208 performances in 83 towers. Of these, details of 132 boards recording 141 performences in 62 towers have been indexed, and typed copies have been placed in alphabetical and date order files. The remaining details have been indexed and it is hoped to copy thent shorty. In addition we bave been fortanate in obdaining access to a defajled collection of peal boarda in the Londor area and we anticipate bergy able to add these to our collection during the coming year. Apart from this, however, we have received very few detalls in the past twelve roonths, and we have considered whether we shall modify our methods in the hope of expediting our work.
It is obviously impossible for us to visit erch towar in the country and we bave relied upon appeals to members of the Jxercise to forward us details from towers in thoir own legalities. Members of this Council, representing as they do the whole of the country, could have set a good example in this connection and, indeed, it might have been expected that a large proportion of the material could have been collected by now with their help. But we have in many cases only received debails from one or two towers in a county, white there are 15 counties from which we have received no details at all, though we would not be justified in assuming that there are no old Doards in those counties.

It would be desirable that in each county there slould be somebody with a direct interest in the work of the commitiee, who would obtain details from the towers in bis own area. We do not suggest that such persons should be ordivary members of the committee as that, wauld mean that they would have to be members of the Council. Neither do we suggest the appointment by the Council of co-opted members of the committee, as that would make the committee too large. We feel, however, that there are mayy members of the Finercise, not neces serily members of this Conncil, who would be glad to be associated with the work of the Council, and we submit $\pi$ recommendation that we shauld be authorised to appoint represeatatives to be associated with our work so far as particular areas are concerned. We shall be gled if any member of the Canmel or of the Ixercise who is willing to act as a district representghive for us will let us know without waiting to be asked. As the work would be confined to the repre-sontative's own locality it should not prove onerous. We will report sontative's own locality it should not prove on anmually the names of the people we appoint.
It has been euggested that many people do not send us details of particular hoards as thay thin责 we probably have them already. We shall be glad to inform anyondy whether we already have details or not, but we would point out that if details are received from two separate sources they form a very useful check as to accuracy and will be acknowledged gratefully.
We thenk all those who have helped us and we repeat our wish for assistance to enable us to complete ou work as soon as possible. Any member of the Council prepared to represent the committee in his locality ghould let as know ; if you know of any ald peal boards, please tell "us what is on them and their condition.
The committee made the followire recommendation: ${ }^{t}$ That the Peal Boards Committee be authorised to appoint distriet representatives to be associated with the committee in order to obtrin details of old peal boards it particular becalities.

Mr. W. G. Wilson, who proposed the adoption of the report, eaid since it was prepared details had been received concerning the old boards in 30 further towers and covering 80 performances. It would seem, therefore, that they were getting somewhere near half-way in the collection. Referring to the recommendatios of the committee to appoint assistants to erable them to complete tine work, Mr. Wilson said this did not moenn that the committee was not grateful to those who had alreany helped them so far; the committee haped fhey would contiaue to halp, but it seemed there was meed for further assistanca if the task was to be completed. They did not intend to limit their chaice of representatives to people who were well fnow:1 in the Exercise．Anyone who was willigg and able to help，they woutd be only too glad to apyoint as eagenta im a locality．Moreover，he thought suci appointments might well promote interest in the Council and its work among rounger ringers，who were posiblble future members of the Council．The appointment of these helpers would not make the work of the committee any lighter，because for the time being there would be extra work to do，in appointing representativea and car－ respording with them．The committee hoped the scheme would belp their work and euable them to present their final report a few years earlier thas wauld otherwise ba the case；but if it was not a euccess they would be no worse off．

The Rev．C．E．Wigy seconded and the report and recommendation were adcptad．The committee was then reappoinsed as follows：Mr． W．G．Wison（convener），the Rev．C．E．Wigg and Mr．W．Ayre．

BIOGRAPHIES

In their report the Biographies Committee said the work was pro－ ceeding．Considerable labour was involved in＇sał－editing＂and pre－ paring the material before the final draft could be typed，and this coule not hurriedly be completad．There were still a considerable number of forms outsfanding，and the committee would be gled to receire them as soon as possible．Especially they hoped to recaive photographs from those members and ex－members who had，not jet Gupplied them，for the photographs would be aot the least interesting part of the biographical collection．
It now seemed abvious that details concerning maty of the early mombers of the Council would not be recelved througls the forms issued and a search of back volumes of the ringing papers would be neces－ sary to help make the work of the committee complete．The com－ miftee were pleased to say that Mr．A．C．Hazelden，Guildford Diocesan Guild＇s librarian gnit a member of the Conncil，was prepared to undertake same of this research work，sund they suggested，therefore， that he be edded to the conmittee．

On the motion of Mr．J．S．Coldsmith，seconded by Mr．F．I．Haires tho report and recommeudation were adopted．The committee，con－ sisting of Mr．F．SS．Goldsmith（convener），Mrs，Fletcher and Mr．W．A． Cave，were reappointed with the sddition of Mr．A．C．Haselden．

THE STANDTNG COMMITLEE．
The appointment of the Standing Committee then took place．On the motion of Mr．T．Groombridge，seconded by Mr．J．Hunt，retiriag members were re－elected as follows：Ver．Archdeacon H．T．Parry， Alderman J．S．Pritchett，Major J．H．B．Hesse，Messrs．W．A．Cave， T．T．Dyke，C．F．Johnton，R．Richardsoa，A．Taddon Smith，A． Walker end S．B．Wood．
Vacancies were filled by the election of Mr．E．C．S．Turner and Mr．Gilbert Dehenliam
In addition to the shove the following are ex－officio members of the committes：The president，hon．librarian，hon．georetary，hon，auditors， conveners of committees rud past officers（if still menbers of the Council）
The President proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the membera of the commilites for the woriz they had done during the last three years．He did not know whether they had heard the defmition of祭估保de，that it was an anticipation of favours to come＇（laughter）． While they thanked the committees for the valuable work they liad done，tha Council hoped they would go on doing this good work （applause）
The motion was carried by acclamation

THE RINGING WORLD

On the guestion of the circalation of＂The Ringing World，＂which lad been before the Central Council in previous years，and in connec－ tion with which antion had been referred to the ofticers，the Hon．Secre－ tary sain they had already had lengthy discussions and they felt that all there was to be caid had already been said azd anything further coulif only be a repetition．The oflicors did not present a report this year，because they felt that everything that could we tiscussed had been discussed and generally tho views of all members were known． If，as they baliaved，the Councll were anxious to see the future af －The Ringing World＇ssfeguarded by an increase of circtlation，then thtion mast take the place of words and for that reason the omeers Asked that the matter be left in their hande witi fril powerg to act it being understood that the Stauding Committee would be consulted as necessary．
Mr．A．Walker seconded the proposal，which was carried．
MUETFING OF BELLS
On the question of the muffing of bells，which had also been re ferred to the officers，the President snid he had boped during the vear to receive some information about interesting old custome but lie had leard nothing from memhers，so le suggested they should wait no longer，lat go ahead with their final report，which would be sent to the proper anthorities．

This courge was agreed to
UARDIFF FOR THE NEXT MEETING．
It was anmonnced that the Standing Committee recommended that the next mecting should be held at Cardiff，the President poiyting ont that，in accordance with custom，it wes the tarn of west and east in the present triennial period．
Mr．Trallope proposed and Mr．Cave seconded Cardiff．

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION．

POSITION IN THE PEAK DISTRICT．  \section*{Present Arrangements Nof to be Disfurbed．}

A most successful meeting was held at Bakewell on Saturdey Juno $17 \mathrm{th}_{\text {，}}$ it conjumction with the Peal Society．The village was enlivened by a carnital，and batus ane processiong with the Bakewell Beauty Quedn＂turned out to welcome the visitors！
The bells of the Parish Church（8）were kept going ali the afternoon and evening to warious methods to suit all visitors．Owing to the carnivat，eatering was difficult，but a substantial taa was gerwed at the Wheatsheal Hotel，soma 40 or more members and friends sitting down．Tlye committee met in the afternoon and carried out their routine business．
The general meeting was held in the spacions belfy after tea，the chair being taken by the president（the Rev．Canon H．E．Fitaherbert）， aupported by the vice－president（Mr．Colin Harrison），the hon．secre－ tary（Mr．Er刀est Morris）and the Rev．W．P．Wright，of 堒彻．An apology for absence was received from the hon．treasarer，Mr．Wr．E． White．Members were prosent from each of the association＇s centres： Burton，Chesterfield，Derby，Fincklej；Leicester，Loughborough and Nottingham，as well as friends from Bolsover，Ashover，Dore，Darley Dale，Matlock，Staveley and other places．
The Presidents in opening the meeting，said how pleased he was to set such a good and representative gathering covering so wile an aren．Hu bronght forward the question of forming e branch of the Mren．A．in the Peal District and inwited membersi wiews on the subject． Mr．H．Warburton，of Dore，said that as secretary of the Peak Society for the last four years ar so，he conld see no real object in the proposal．They ware quite bappy in their present arrangements． Thej had well－attended meelings seven or eight times a year 10 various towers of the area．Those present has a good time bolls in ringing and social intercourse and collected among themselves to cover any incidentel expenses，thereby costing the M．C．A．mothing．So far as he knew，the majority of those baking part were loyal mentuers of the M．C．A．
Mr．A．H．Bowler，of Ashover，supparted this view and said members of the Peak Saciety were nol lax in their support of the M．C．A－4 and the sectetary（Mr．Ernest Morris）had written them to the effect that he wished other districts were so prompt in paying subscriptions and aupporting the assoctation generally．He，therefore，could see no object it upsetting present arrangements，which were working artunicably
The Rer．W．P．Wright said there would be no practical good beyond changing the mame．They had meetings overy sis weeks or go over a scaftered area，where transport wns difficult，and it was to the credie of those members who supported the meetings，for it meant not only giving op time，but involved cerkain expease in travelling．

Mr．Deane，of Norton，Stoke－on－Trent，said that as a member of the Peak District of the old digs and a regular atteadent at meeting of the present Peak Sociesy，there was nothing to be griaed by break． ing up present arrangements and the happs mestings they now enjojed．
IL was thereupon derided to leave mathers as they are and the towers as at present shown under Chesterfield District．
Mr．A．J．Harris and Mr．J．H．Swinfield gave brief reviews of the Central Council meatirg on Whit Tuesday

New members proposed kince Easter，wiz．， 15 rimging， 5 rejoining and 4 honorary，were caly elected．
The hon．secretary reported that the new badges were now in circula－ tion and could bo had either from him or from local secretaries，bronze 1s．6d．，silver 2s．each
On behali of nll present，the President woiced hearty thanks to the Fiosr of Bakeweil for the use of bellis，to Mr．Alexander and the local compang for arrangements made for much an enjowable menting．

Mr Bowler，on behalf of the Peak Society，said how plessed they were to welcome the association and trusted it would mot be so long before they came agein．
It was announced that the next meeting of the society would be at Ashover on July 15th，to which Chesterfield District and any other frionds would be weleomed．The nex M．C．A．quatterly meeting will be at Newark in September
Further tower－bel ringing pind zo convivial＇terminated a most successful and emjoyable meeting．

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION. PROPOSED BELLS REPAIR FUND. Unofficial ' Ringing Masters.

A successful general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Barasley, by kind invitation of the Rector, Canon W. E. Willinson and the local company. The eight bells at st. Mary's Ohurch were made pood use of during the aftertoon and eveciug. $A$ brief service took place prior to a sumptuous tea, which was served in the Bernsley Eritish Co-operative Cafe.
The business meeting followed, presided over by Canon C. O. Marshall, M.A., president of the association, and at the outset the president announced that since the last meating they had lost one of their oldest and most esteemed members in tha person of Mr. Arthu Euights, of Chesterfeid.

Mr. P. J. Johnson said that Mr. Knights bed been a member of the associntion since 1880, and, apart from the great services he had rendered to the Exerciso in the splere of composition, his kindly and uthassuming manner had endeared him to all with whom he came m contact. He wrs one of the most talented nuen tho Exercise had produced, and was always raady to assist. The number of younger composers who owed their beginning to him wes, indeed, difficult to tell. He moved that a letter of condolence be sent to his relutives, This was seconded ly Mr. G. Lewis, following which the meeting stood in sileace as a tribute of respect.
The President then proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector and churchasardens of Barnsley for kindly inviting them to hodd their meating there. He assured them that the association appreciated their invitation and also the warm welcome that had been accorded to the association. He coupled with this yote of thanks the name of their old and estecmed colleague, Mr. C. D. Potter, who had hoped to be with them at that meeting, but unfortunately had been taken ill and at that moment was in hospital. He moved that a letter bo sent to Mr Potter expressing their sympathy and conreying their gent to Mr Poiter expressing their sympathy and conseying their Johnson and carried.
The Rector, in reply, said how piessed they were to welcome the association to Barnsley, and hoped it would not be long before the association paid them another visit. Like their president, lie was sorry indeed that, Mr. Potter was prevented by illness from being with them that night, but be felt and knew that Mr. Potter would look forward to hearing a raport of their proceedings.
A vote of thanks to the local company for their kind arrangements was moved by Mr. A. Naslt, seconded by Mr. W. Mozon and carried The President annonnced that no invitations had been received for the next meeting, and the committee had discussed the matter. The nexti meeting was dite to be hald in tho Northern District, and they felt that Ripon would be suitable, if necessary arrangements could be made.
Ripon nad Midaleham were proposed, and, on a vote being taker, 10 were in favour of Midaleham and 15 in favour of Bipon
The President, in announcing the verdict, suggested that Middeham be approached in the event of it not being possible to make arrangements at Ripon.
The next business was a report in connection with the proposed hell repairs fond. The President stated that opinion from the districts was in favour of such a sckeme, but as yet the sub-committee had not met and tho matter had been referred back. He hoped to report further at the nest meeting.
A suggesfiou from the Eastern District that deputy ringing masters should be appointed hard been discussed by the committee, and the President reported that it was felt to be undegirable to alter the constitution of the association to accommadate the proposal. He printed out, however, that if a district wished to sppoint sucs an officer ia an unofflinl capacity, they could do so. It must be uriter stood that no official status aftached to any such appointment, as far as the association wes concerned.
An application was received from the Doncaster ringers ashing for arant to assist in the work of restoring the Doncaster Paxish Church bells. The President announced that the committee had also had this matter under discussion, and felt that as no fund existed specififally for this purpose, they could not accede to the request on the ground that a precedent woild thereby be created. He pointed out that they had had to give a similar reply to an application received some time had had to give a si ago in anvolier case.
The Gencral Secretary (Mr. L. Morris) said that in the latior case referred to by the president they decided to do what they could unoffcially to essist and a collection was taken. Ho wotid like to move thät a collection be taken in the presant case. This was agreed to and a sum of 22 . was realised.
The following new members were elected: Messrs. A. E. Harrison, South Kirkby: Donald Barrett, Pontefract; J. R. Stanger, J. S. Rohson and E. Kettell, of Rotherham.
Tha President then reminded the members that the Snowdor Dinner was due to be held at York in October, pointivg out that an endeavour would be made to arrazge it on October 14th.
After the meeting, further ringing thok place, bat most of those present arailed thersselves of the opportunity of spending a socin! (Continued in next column.)

WINCHESTER GUILD'S DIAMOND JUBILEE THE FOUNDER OF THE SOCIETY

To-morrow, when the annual uneeting is held at Ryde, Isle of Wight, the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild will celebrate the dismond jubifee of its foundation.

In the late 'seventies,' when 'Belfry reforim ' was being much discussed and guilds and associations were being formed in warioull parte of the country to promute change ringiug, a greater recognition of tho belfry as a part of the churgh and the services rendered hy the ringers as a contribution to church work, the Rev. Arthur Du Boulay Hill, then a master at Winchester College, kook up the cause in the diocese of Winchester and, with Conov Maçe, began to enlist interest in the novement. The diocese of Winchester was a vast one in those days. It covered Hampshire, the Isla of Wight and a considerable portion of Surrey, but

THE LATE REV. A. DU B, HILL. at Soberton, on January 17hb 1884, and was the firbe paal by the present Master. Mr. George Williams, who is, we believe, the oldest surviying member of the Guild. He was elected on Fohruary 25th, 1880.

The founder of the Guitd, the Rev. A. Du Boulay Hill, passerl away ouly last Octaber at the venerable age of 88 years, having lived in retirement at Dudswell. He was the cidest son af the Rov. G. Hill, who was for 25 years Tiear of St. Winnow, Cornwall. Educated at Winchester, and Magdalen College, Orford, the Rev. A. du B. Hitl was assjstant master at Winchester College, and afterwards Vicar of Domnton, Salisbury, from 1882 to 1898 , and Rector of Fast Bridgford, Notts, From 1898 to 1927.

He was a man of great schplarly atitamments end an historian. His keen interest in bells and ringing was maintained thronghout his long life wherever he ment he taught bands of young ringers, while his interest in antiquarian matters led him to investigate the bellg of Winchester and Hampshire, and he bas left an interesting notebook on the bells of the county, in which he has copied inscriptions and sketched the arcient sfamps and lettering utted by the old fouzders This book, it is zoted on the hy leaf, was begtun in 1877. This note-book and another on bells and bellringing generally have been handed by lis sister to the Wincluester and Portsmouth Gaild.

hour at the Royal Hotel, where Mr. C. D. Potter hed engaged a room, and, in the absence of his fether, who was stid in hospital, Mr. Potter, jun., was present to welcome them. A ielightifl eveniag was spent and handbels were brought into use, Mr. Potter, jut. in his welcome, said bow his father would have erjoyed being with them that night. He was glad to say that he was progressing as well as could be expected, and be would give him a full report of the proceedings at Barnaley.
Several members voiced their appreciation of the kindness extended to them by Mr. Potter orer a long period, and asked Mr. Potfer, jun., to convey to his father their thants for his rery kind thonght on this accasion.

SECRETARIAL CONTINUITY

FALDE OF THE PERSONAL TODCH

The sudden change of the tower for the aunual meeting of the North Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild did not appear to deprive the ringers of the delight which has now been seen in these gatberings for more than 20 years. Clearly someone was at fault, and the writer of this report regrets that no вогrow was expressed. The secretary, however, has actively held his position for 24 years; being in touch pernonally with the clergy and the leaders for so many years be carried the responsibility for the sudden change by himself and was sticeessful.
At the business meeting afler tea the Rep. J. P. Taylor, Vicar of Hanslope, took tho chair. He was reelecteci; knowing of the quick work of the secretary, Mr. W. Sear, in keepiug this annual meeting on the date appointed, June 3rd, and of the regular attention to detal wlich hes heen building up this bramch for 24 years under Mr. W. Sear, the Chairman urged everyone to appoint him for another year in spite of his reiteration that he would rebiga. 3ir. Sear at last gave wisy, and Mr. R. Howson, the leader of Newport Paguell belfry, wes appointed assistant secretary
For the lest few yeare it bas been known to several ringers that Mr. Sear, owing to pressure of responsible work, installing electric signals on the L.M.S. on a loag stretch of railway line, has wished that romeone would take his place as the secretary. But it was one of his own fellow-ringers at Bletclitey who asked tho ringery to remember that it was only one year more to complete the ' 25 ycars.
Perhaps it was only to save the time of the ringers from the beifry that no one spoke of the adivikability of a successar working as an assistant under a secretary of a ringers' guild or association before taking the full respossibility, especially efter a secretariat of 24 yoars. Without the parsonal contact, durizg a chenge of officings, the sucrest of whose work depends on the relations of a secretary with leaders of various sorts of belfries, there is something lost. A new seeretary has a different character, and his way of working must be different, however hard he may try to do the same as lis predecessar; if he can work under him for awhile, he can leara the way of approsching the leaders and how to inquire of their methods. And during the conversation aside at the meetings a secretary can inform his successor of the methods hy which he has been trying to revive the interest where it has been diminishing and to get a bellry opeaed for new young rirgers to learn with a company of old ringers who are used to one another and do not wish to be used to any more
The secretary reported that there were 213 ringing members, 15 honorary members and 27 towers in North Bueks in union with the fiuild. The finamcial position is good, the branch having a balance of £13 14s. Jd . in hand and $£ 10$ invested.
A grant of one guinea was voted for the Guild Restorgtion Funci.
The meetings in Newport Pagnell Deanery were considered satisfactory, and the branch agreed to continue to bear the cost of postage and notices.

Fifty ringers attended from the towers at Bletchlev, Bradweil Hanslope, Miiten Keynes, Newport Pagnelf, Olney, Sympson, Stoke Goldicgton. Stony Stratiord, Weston Dnderwood, amone whom an few wretevisiors from the North Berkslire Brancli of the Guild and from the Bedfordshire Association.

DON'T SCRUB Your hands!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

THE COST OF THE COUNCIL.

It would be interesting to know exactly what it costs to hold a meeting of the Central Council. We do not mean by that how much comes out of the coffers of the Council itself-that is a very modest sum-but what the associations and individuals pay in the aggregate by way of expenses, and pay cheerfuily, knowing that the Council is the central link which binds the Exercise together. As far as it is possible the Council meetings are spread about the country, but while, in turn, some each year have a meeting near at hand, a large proportion of associations must of necessity send their representatives a long distance. Not infrequently an absence from home of at least two and sometimes three days is involved. This year ith members attended the meeting and if the individual railway fares averaged only ten shillings, which we think is a low estimate, there is nearly $f 60$. Then there are hotel expenses, which, when the meeting is in London with a considerable number of members within the day's reach of their homes, cannot be much less a totat, while it may well be a good deat more when the meeting is held in one or other of the extreme provincial centres. Fortunate is the association whose representatives are able and good enough to pay their own expenses upon these distant visits, although in principle it would, perhaps, be well if all the representative members charged their expenses to their respective societies. The honorary members, most of whom hold their seats for the work they do for the Council, have the privilege of paying their own expenses-they have no one but themselves to whom to send the account-but, like the associations who collectively pay the outgoings of their representatives, they rheerfully foot the bill.

The Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild discussed the question of their representatives' expenses at the annual meeting last Saturday, and the attitude of the members was typical of that which from time to time shows itself in other associations. They were prepared to make reasonable provision for these expenses and not a word was said against this annual charge upon the funds, for the value of the work which is done by the Council in many directions is now well recognised by those who give the matter serious thought. The Council has brought about a co-ordination of ideas; has welded the associations together and encouraged progress in the art in a way which would otherwise have been impossible. Without some such body as the Council the associations would be just so many units, each working for its own ends; and there would have been no body of sufficient influence or standing to enlist the services of those

[^34]enthusiastic men who have been and still are working in the name of the Council to maintain the status to which ringers have been lifted，to keep a watchful eye for any attempt to interfere with the legitimate use of bells，and to foster the advance of the art by pooling their know－ ledge and making it available for all who are interested． Reckoned in pounds，shillings and pence the cost of a Council meeting may，in the aggregate，seem high，but the results spread over the years have justified it and this is being more and more realised by the people who，in the long run，have to pay the piper．

RINGERS OF THE RECORD PEAL

The detaila of the pes! of Minor in 102 methods rung by the North Lincolnshire band at Leadenlum on Saturday week are recorded elsowhere. Reference to this truly great performance was made in our leading article last weak.
It was only a week or so earlier that the same band luat rung a peal in 100 methods at Bassinginam, but the addition to the record was not marely a question of adding two methods to what had been rung beiore.
The and bad to learn twelve more methods to enablo them to puth up this performance and to drop one of the extents which had previously been rung, so that their task in carrying the total only two metheds further was no easy one. The new 720 included nitue Delight, one Treble Boh and two Surprise methods,

Lest week we said that the limits of possibilitey in this direction had zearly been reached. The greatest pumber of methods that has yet bean incorporated in seven true extents is 104, ant, need we say, everyoa will hope that this talented band will at no distant date complets their triumples by ringing this peal.

The growth of the number of methods spliced into seven extents of Minot wes shown in the list of peals published in our last jesare, and to this has now to be added the 102 methods at Leadenham with 190 changes of method.

To the Editor.

Dear $\mathrm{Sir}_{3}$-The report of the Lincolnshire band's great Minor peal certainly makes ore sit up and notice, and it is a pity that the oid stalwarts who struggled hard in the early days of splicing are not with us to see the result of their efforts

I krow that my former brother ringers at Norbury will be the first to give overy credit to this performance, aud, even though it appears that the record Spliced Minor peal nust remain in Lincolusloire, neither I nor they will liegrudge them the honour. I shall not be the only one to congratulate this band, and can only hope that many other Minor riggers will follow their example.

JOHN P. FIDLER,
Author of ${ }^{\mathrm{r}}$ Method Splicing.
The Bell Foundry, Laughborough.
 enjoged the broadcast from Victoria on the accasion of the visit ot our King and Queen, end more particularly to hear your peal of belis It reminded me of any old ringiag days in Grappeaball Cburel-1 belfeve you know that part of the country. Please eowrey my appreciation to the ringers for the part they took in the celebrations at Victoria $J$ do not know any of them, but hope to see thens next year when I hope to come that way for folidave."
Another correspandent from Ottawa wrote: 'Of course, the main outstanding particular thrill of the Victoria broadcast was the Cathe fral bells. Believe me that touch of the old world was completely and utterly Victorian and no other city thought of welcoming with the hells in the cld historic manner, and what bellringing! Mr. Izard should be moxt heartily congratulated for making possilile the illique Victoria contribution to the royal welcome of all Canada!
Mr. E. W. Izard, who was responsible for the erection of the hells and training most of the band at Victoria, was on his way back, with Mrs. Izard, from a visit to England, when the King and Queen were in the Far West, and was thus unsble to take a personal part in the ringing, but his daughter was among those who rang. While in this country Mr. Izard rang his first penl, at Guildford Cathedral.

When Mr. and Mrs. Izatd reached home on Jure 10th they, too, were welcomed by the ringing of Chrict Chareh Cathedral belle.
A record of the bells of Christ Chmecly Cathedral was heard in London recently at a mesting held in conmection with the British Columbia and Yukon Churcli Aid Societr, at which the retiring presjdent (the Bistop of London) received 2700 for the completion of the Winnington Ingram tower of the Cathedral.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY. THE ANNUAL MEETING.  Decision to Hold a Dinner.

The annual meetigg of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafiord was heid at Lichfield on Saturday, June 17th. The bells of St. Mary s and St. Michael's Churches were avaihable during the aifternoon and those of the Cebhedral from 3 till 3.15, previous to the annuel festival of Sunday School teachers, and again from 6 till 7 p.m. For some considerable period it has been the custom to have the use of the Cathedral bells in alternate years. This year it was not the "tarn," but through beving 'friends at court ' a concession was made which was greatily appreciated by all. Great hopes are entertained that the bon has at last been lifted.
Tea was served at St. Mary's Parochial Hall, in Wade Street, by Mrs. Cresswell and her lady lielpers, and 85 members and their friends enjoyed the meal.
At the general meeting which followed, the Ven. Archdeacon Hodson presided, supported by the Rev. - Cresswell, Vicar of St. Mary's, the Rev. O. H. Barker, L.Th., and Mr. H. Knight (lon. gecretaries), Mr. B. G. Key (Ringing Master), etc.

The report end accounts were passed, the latter showing a deficit of 11 on the year's working, and were ordered to be printed.
The committee, in their report, said the attendances at the meetings held during the year were fairly good, viz., Lichfield 84, Shenstone 35 , Bilaton 40 and Cannock 42 . At the latter place the members were kindly ertertained to tea by the Rer. J. F. Foster, A.K.C. (Viear). It was 51 years since the soclety held a meeting at Bilston, and bopes were entertained that good might come from the recent visit there, in the form of enrolling new members. During the year 24 new ringing mersbers and 16 life members have been added to the list-an encouraging number of new recruits.
The number of peals rung during the year was 35 (an increase of five over the previous year's total\}, conducting lraving been shared bF 14 members-the finging Minster (Mr. B. G. Key) leading the list with eleven.
The peals of Yorkshize Surprise Major and Cambridge Surprise Royal-the first for the society-and six other peals, were rung by a band of visitors from various parts of England and from Dublin.
The rommittee coneratulated Mr. Maurice G. Turner, of All Sainte' West Brcmwich, on his achievement of calling Holt's Origizal for his first peal on his 21st birthday. Another notable peal was one rung by grandfathers, one of the number being a great-grandfather.

The commattee recorded their appreciation of the services of the hon. auditor, Mr. W. H. Evans, and concluded with their expression of regret at the loss, through death, of the following members: Mr. W. H. Jomes, of Stafford; Mr. W. Russell, of Claverley; Mf. James H. Rowe, of Teitenball.
On a motion by Mr. R. P. Brindlay, the offeers were re-elocted and the places for the forthcoming meetings were aefected af follows: September, at Brewood; January, All Saints', West Bromwich; April, Rugeley; and Juue, the amual, 晾 Lichfield.
Messrs. B. Horton and H. Knight gave a brief summary of the business transacted at the Ceatral Council meeting in London.
Mr. B. Key moved that a dinner should be arranged to take place in the late autumn or early winter. He pointed out that other associations had an annual dimner, and he could not see why one should not be tried for that society.
Other speakers supported the project, and the president gave his approval and hinted that he would like to be present, provided he was given sufficient notice so that it should not interfere with his many duties. On the motion being put to the meeting, it was unanjmously agreed to.
A committee of four was formed to make the necessary arrangements, viz, Messrs. B. G. Key. A. Hingley, B. Horton and C Wallater Several new memhers were enrolled, including Miss Cressweli (daughter of the Viear of St. Matvis), she being the first lady ringer to join the Cathedral baxd.
A vots of thanks to Mrs. Cresswell Por arranging and eerviag tea, and to the chairmau for presiding, was moved by the Rev, C. H. Barker and carried with acclamation. This terminated an interesting and pleasant meeting.

A NEW TREBLE BELL.

On the evening of Wednesaxy, June 28th, a large congregation witnessed the dedication by the Bishop of Croydon of a treble bell recently installed by John Tavler and Co. to complete the ring of six bells ef the Charch of St. Jolm the Baptist, West Wicklain, Kent.
A splendid saidition to the 17 th century ring of five the new bell is a. gift of the Barroa Hell Trust, while the cost of structural alterations in the tower and decorations in the ringing room wes borne by the loval band.
Visiting risgers, who attended from Beckenham, Penge, Haves, Bromley and Bromicy Common, were rewarded with a verv fine address from the Bishop, and alter the service rang various methods with the local band on the new sir.
The West wickham hand are 'at home ' each Wednesdar at 8 p.m. to any ringer who wonld like to pay a visit.

BELERY GOSSIP

An interesting figure at the diamond jubilee festival of the Wiachester and Portsmoath Diocesan Guild at Ryde on Saturday was Mr. Gearge H. Caombs, who is still Jale aud bearty at 96.
He began riaging over 50 years ago and kept it up until last year, When he retired because the belfry steps became too much for him. It was not the going up that troubled lim, but the danger in coaning down.
Mr. Coombs still looks after his own garden, and it is one of the best kept in Ryde. He works in it many hours a day, tut, he confided to us, $u$ e bas now to sit down a good bit in between whiles. Except for slight deafness, Mr. Coombs has all his faculties aud is still at playing.
Writing to the Rev. D. Railton, Rector of St. Nicholas', Livexpool, Miss Monica Heywood, of Claremont, Salford, sister of the late Sir Arther Heyword, said: "The account of my brother's peal being rung at St. Nieholas" Chureh as a "God speed " to the "Mauretaria" was read to a birthday gathering of 35 of the Heywoad family on Monday (June 19th), and we shoaid like the ringers to be congratutated on their splendid achievement in ringing the 5,007 changes in 3 h. hours."
The practice niglit at St. Mary*s, Banbury, has been changed from Wednesdsy to Thursday
The marriage of the Rev. A. S. Roberts, now of Pelmers Green, London, and Miss Jessie Angwin, of Truro, took place on Saturday in the Cornish ciky. In honour of the event a peal of Spliced Surprise Major was rung ai Staines. Rather appropriate-if we may be permitted the flippancy. Another peal attempt at Edmonton was unfortumately lost.
The "whole pull and stand" was rung at Soutinwark Cathedral on Tuesday of last week to the memory of the late Mr. Willio Rouglitan nad the late Mr. Archibald F. Harris by the memisers of the Ancient Societg of College Youths. Touches of Stedman Cinques were afterwards rung.
Her ringing friends will be pleased to leara that Mrs, Paul Field, of Stoke Walce, Blandford, retarned home on Sanday, July znd, after exactly three months in hospital. Although ahe has made a miraculous recovery, it will he some time before she will be able to resume her normal routine.
The Ficar of Aldhourne, Wilts (the Rev. J. S. Flliott), thanks the anonymous sender of the photograph depicting one of Wells' old bells. After the meeting of the Winclester ned Portmouth Guild at Ryde on Saturday, a pair of gentlemna's kid gloves was found. The owner can bave them by writing to Mr. B. J. Snow, 23, Daniel Street, Ryde.

VISITORS* FRIGID RECEPTION

To the Editor.
Dear Sir,-The letter in the last issue of 'The Ringing Werld ' from Messrs. H. G. Blanchard and N. G. Knee is rather puzzling to me, as quite recently $I_{3}$ too, called ut Bridport on a Sunday eventag, and my experience was exactly opposite to that describad by your two cortespondents. I met the ringers at the foot of the tower and received a very cordial welcome. On entering the belfry I was ot once invited to riny, and even conduct, which I did. As I had nevar been into the tower on any prewious occasion, it cannat be suggegted that I received preferential treatment. After the ringing. Mr. Northover, whom I assume is the leader in the tower, made himself known to me and invzted tue to his fome for reireshmontr. He also offered me the bells for a peal attempt, and promised that if I took a band to Bridport for this be would entertain us afterwards. This is the kind of 'trigid' treatment that I would like to see mora of.
I. feel it is only fair to the Bridport men that I should write this letier, and I feel sure that the visitors were themselfes at fault in some way, or ther would hare had a similar experience to mine.

BRIDPORT SECRETATY'S EXPLANATION.

Dear Sir, -In reply to Messps. H. G. Blanchard and N. G. Knee ( ${ }^{\text {Ringers' Frigid Reception' } 1 \text {, I have been a member of St. Wary's }}$ band for 45 years. 32 of which as holt. secretary. This is ile first time in that period a charge of discontesy bas been levellesi againet ne. Tlie facts are as follows: The custom of the tower is to ring from 5.45 to 6 and from 6.3 to 6.23 for evensong.

Mesgrs. Blanchard and Kuee came into the tower after the bells were going about 6.8. Two visitors wha had come in bafore 6 were ringing. one of whom at his request was celling two extents of Morris* 240 . Had Messra. ## A DIAMOND JUBILEE.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD'S CELEBRATION.  Bishop Presides at Annual Meeting

Ihs Winchester and Fortsmouth Diocesan Guild celebrated it

 diamond jubilee an Saturday, when the annual festival was held at Fyde, Isle of Wigtat. There was a large attendance of members from al parts of the two dioceses, and although some of those who came from the mainland found crossing not a very comfortable process in the peak of labliday trafic, and some hed to stand by aud watch crowded boats go out before they were able to get aboard, thesuteres of the mueting more that made up for any jaconvenience suffered. The featiral was notable for the fact that not only was the Guild privileged to have the Bishop of Portsmouth as preacber at tha festival service, but his lordship also presided over the business nuecting, the first time, so far as can be remembered, that the Guild has lad a Biskop in the chair duriog the transaction of its business.
The service in All Saints' Church was condueted by the Rectar of Kyde and the singing whe led by a full choir.
The Bishop, in lis address, referrod to the ministry of the bells and to the important part which church bells played in the life of the nation and the parish. Fe said he could not conceive wlat England would be like if the bells were stopped and could not be heard over the coumtriside, or across the hills and valleys calling to evensong. There would be a great emptiness in our lives, he said, if that happened. It gavo those whose business it was to lead in Church affairs mach pleasure and uzuch happiness to think that zo many Christian men and women gave up their time and effort to this real bit of Cliristian work, bringing bappiness and joy and comfort into the hearts and minds of endess people up and down England. He hoped, when they stead in their towers, they would think not anly of the sciontific successiou of changes upon which they wore inteat, but sometimes also of the great and good God in whose bonour they were ringing, for the comfort and happiness of humble souls in darh and dreary streets, in the cottages in the countryside, in the mansions of the rich apd in the palaces of lings. Let that be their incentive and their inspiration, too.

IHANGED CONDITIONS.

The Bishop reminded the ringers of the changed conditions in the towers null said in these daya ringers ecogniged that in the belfies there should be reverence and devohion, and that their calling should he exemplified in their lires. He wes, he said, still reminded sometimes thut ringers who rant for a serpine walked away from the church when the ringing was firished. That was an unfortuaate thing. It was also an mifortunate thing that thera were clergy who never went into the riuging room. He hat nsually made a practice himself of going to the lower, and in tlat way had been brought into contact witli men whom he roult otherwise have known nothing about. He thought it was a good thing that as many clergy as possible should 111 calling people to church. The Bishop closed by exhorting his hearers to live up to their vocation so that the trames of the ringers should rank high ins the parish and their conduct be an example to thore who heard them ring
A party, numbering 130 , sat down to tea at the insitation of the
The Bishop of Porlsmouth presided at the sulsequent meeting, rind Was supported by the Archacacon of Newport, the vice-president and Master of the cuild Mr. G. Williams), the hon, secretary (Mr. F. W. Ringers), the Vicars of Xewport and Carisbrooke, etc. At the outset the Master welcomed the distinguished visitors. and specially mentioned the prescnee of Mr. Charman, of the Sussex Conntr Associawion, Mr. N. Goldsmith, of 'The Ringing World, and Air. G. Conmis, who, at the age of 96 , whs the oldest ringing member of the inild
The Bishop, in reply to the welcome expressed his pleasure st meetmg the members of the Gaild and said he and the other clergy present apprecinted the Guild's invitation to be present on the accasion of their diamond jubilea, Reforring to the presence of the "young rellow' of SG. he recalled the quotation, "Kind words can never die, end said he thought they ollght to read, ${ }^{\text {E }}$ Kind ringers can never die Ifughteri, When he looked round on those old gentlemen and ladies of 12 and 14 years who were present he thought some day in the future whe of his succesans might have to welmone sometoay well past the (applause)
The Bishop went on to say bow much he and his brother ciergy - ppreciated the friendly relationship which existed between them and the ringers. One of the astonishing things of modern churchmanship Was the whyt in which church men and women had fown out that st was not only the parson's duty to work on behalf of the church ond religion, but that it was the prixilege of the lnity to wort also. The Figeint of church bells was a very important mart of church work and he need not remind them of the rubric which sajd that a bell must be rung immediately before a service. Recently in connection with a new housing estate there had leen some little trouble shout, the use of a church bell, because some people did not like bells and thought they were a nuisance. There, ther had to come to a compromise, but it. was wery doubtful indeed whether anyone could object successfult to the ringing of bells before morning and evening service. It was a rubric and a rubric was a law of the laud. 'We are pargons and rimgers," said the Bishop: "they cannot do witimut us and we won't go (laughter). Fe concladed with good wishes to the Guild for the future and congratulafed the diocese upon laving such an active and efficient body of ringers.

THE MEETING.

Among the apologies received was one from the hon. treasurar (Mr. 포. Barion), one from the Southampton district secretary (Mr, G. Pullipger) on account of the illness of his wife, and another trom 3r. Jennings, who was ju hospitul. At the suggestion of the gharman, it was decided to send lettirs of syupathly and good misles, for speedy convelescence, to the sick.
A letter from the hons. secretary of the Sunsex Connty Association convejed the good wishes of that asseciation to the Guild upon its sixtietl anuiversary, and similar comgratulations came from Mr. T. Trallope, of Oxford, who mentioned that he was present at a meeting of the Winchester Guild held at inyde in 1889, when he was a member of the band at Twyiord, near Winchester.

The accounts, which had been pristed and circulated, were adopted, They showed that the balances in hand were 5244 , against $93625.8 d$. in the previous year. The receipts amounted to 512933 , 7d. including $\pm 4511 \mathrm{~s} .7 \mathrm{~d}$. From 175 hon, members aud 56816 s . paid by 699 ringing members. Amoag ihe ftemg of expenditure was E15 6s. Bd. in grants to bell restorations.

A joint report by the Guild's represeatatives on ihe Central Council Was presented, in which bley reviewed the busiaess transacted at the Whitanntide meeting, and reminded the memhers that the Counci? was always grateful for books and documents which could be added to its library. At the meetiog the Council acknowledged the gift of a large number of assoaiation reports of some 30 sociefies, corerimg a period from 1881, whech it was hoped wauld form a valuable basis for a collection, should the Council ever decide upass making one. The representaives of the Winchester Guild suggested the Guild might consider it a privilege, if it were possible, zo make $B$ gift to the Council of a couplete set of their owry reports towards this object. With recrard to the pablication of the Surprise Major book, the Guild, in fecordance with itw decision at the last annual meatiog, liad been affle to inform the Council that they would talte the fall quota of twolva copies, at a cost of 33 s . The report omplasisel what had heen said in the Council meeting that conductors of peals should take every eare that reports sent for publication in 'The Ringing World' should be accurate and complete. With regard to enilection of details concernimg old peal boards, the report, asked asembers of the Guild who brew of the existence of peal boards relaking to peals rung up to the yoar 1825, and who lasd not informed the socretary of the particulars, to lot him have the details at once. The report fiso set out the conclusions of the Standing Committee on the use of mechanical substitutes for hells, which are to he sent to every Dioreenn Advisory Commiltee in the country.
The Inom. Seeretary said with regard to the suggestion that the Gaild should present copies of its annual reports to the Conncil hibrary the diffurity was that they had not got a complete set. It mas, however, possible that between then they could gat one together If thes ceuld dn this the papies could be hound and given to the Cowncil. He prophsed that thas should he done.-Mr. Upton seconded The Bisliop emplasised that by carrying out this suggestion the members would be doing a valuable pulilio sarvice. He dud not like giving up oid things and he thought mang other members of the Councll were the same, but they would be doing a public rervice ty to give them now than to hang on ta thmm and let them be destroyed after they were gone by someone who did not value the reports. It they were prosented to the Council they would be kept for good.

The proposal to encienvour to make up n comaplete collection of the reports and prescot them, bound, to the Comncil was agreed to, mnd the representatives were thanked for their report.

All the officers were re-elected en thoc, wis.: Master, Mr. George Barton; recorder of peals, Mr. $\mathfrak{R}$. A. Rogers; hon, treastrer, Mr. H

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION.  A SATISFACTORY MEMBERSHIP. Altaration of Rules.

About 70 members and friends atfended the annual meeting of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Ascociation on Saturday at Yeovil. The proceedings started with ringing on the noble ten at the Parish Church, and thres excelleut courses of Stedman Caters were rung for service, at which the genior corate (the Rev. L. E. Walsh) ofrinted and gave an appropriate address.
Tea and the business meeting in the Church Hall followed, und at the latter the Master (tbe Rev. W. M. K. Warren) presided.
The ordinary business was preceded by a special meeting called to consider the committee's recommendations in regard to alterations to rules. Thise recommondations chiefy concerned the date of the anaal meetings in future, and the abolition of the necessity of calling a special mecting to alter ruies, as is mecessary at present.
There was some discussion, iaitiated by Mr. J. F. Smallwood, on the matter of going through the existing rules. It was felt, however, thet the towers had lad man months to consider the proposed alterntions, that the committee had carefully cousidered the business, and that no good purpose would be serfed by going through the sules once more.
On tho proposition of Mr. J. Eunt, seconded by Mr. Farrant, the alterations were approved.
The annual meeling in the association's jubilee year, 1940, will he held on Faster Monday et Tguntom.
The routine business followed. In his report the Master said: The association contiaues to grow. Nearly 1,400 members paid their faes tast year, and 170 towers belong to the association. Tinis can be regarded as satisfactory, especially at a time when maby associations inave to complain of falling membership. Tfforts must not be relaxed, and interest in the art of ringing must be kept up. Those branches which rua regular practice meatings have noted that these meetings have proved a stimulus to their mumbers, and that the introduction at these meetings of higher methods las done much to sustain and increase interest. there is nothing so likely to stifle progress as method rul in which it is easy to remain.
The excelleat work of the branches continues. The Axbridge and Frome branches have recovered under their present secretaries, and return to the head of the list in point of momhership. Axhridge and Cary branches show good lists of honorary members. This close co-aperation with the olergy and with the people of standing in the dionese is al! to the grod. The limppy reletions of the Dunster Branch with its clerey are well snown. One or two branches slow e complete return of nftiation fees. These nominal sums are intended to show the appreciation of the Church futhorities towards the work the associntion is doing One loeal searetary made a new record in tateness with his accounts, and that is the reason the report is so late. The President suggested that Mr, Rarker shonid bring up a resolution at the next meeting, when the matter could be discussed alter the members had, perhaps, had an opportmity of getting some experiegce of the eilencers.

A RECORD ATTEENDANCE.

Tho Secreiary, in a report upon the atiendance at the mecting, said they had had a record Council that dav. There had beeat 137 members present, 104 being representatives of affliated societjes and 13 honorary members. Twenty-four associations were fully xepresented with 80 members, 19 were partly representec with 44 members, and only sim associntions were murepresented.
The President then moved a vote of thanks to all who had loelped to make the arrangements for the meeting. He thanked the Hiddlesex Connty Council far the use of the Couscil Clamber of Westminster Guildhall, which, he thought, was the finest room, at any rate in regard to sound, in which they had met sirce he fat been iresident. Ee siso tharked those who lad mede it possible to use a room at the Coffer Pot on the previous evening for the sccommodation of the Standing Committee, and be expressed grateful thanks to the Church authorities, the zingers and the steeplekeepers at the various churches, including St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey, where they had becn allowed to ring. He thanked, too, the Offee of Works for permission to ring at the Imperial Institute. He also included in the vote of Ehanks an expression of gratibude to the London societiesthe College Youths, the Royal Cumberlands, the Essex, Kent, London Connty, Middleser and Surrey Associations-for their hospitatity and erpecially the committee who had carried ont the artangements on fheir bebalf. The President went on to express his gratitude to the lson. secretary for the work he had done. This year particularly he (the president) had rather left the hon. secretary in the lurch except for the last three weeks, and he very mack appreciated all that Mr. Fletcker and his sssistant (Mre. Fletcher) had dome.

The votes of thinns were carried with acclamation.
Canon Coleridge then proposed a wote of thanks to the president for the manner in which he had conducted the meeting, fod, the president lzaving replied, the meating ferminated.
ocal secretaries should send in their accounts by finuary 3 lit. If the towers are tardy in their paymente, the local secretaries must either break the rule or send in their accounts incomplete, and meither of these things is deairable. If, at the annual meeting at Yeoril, it is decided to hold future annual meatings on Easter Mondays, any delay in sending in accounts will make it impossible to issue the report befare the meeting.
Tho geceral secretary would like to thank those offcers of the association and age or two friends who helped in the distribution of the reporta
The financial position of the association is satisfactory; 215 has been transferred from the deposit account, where it gained little interest, to the Bell Repair F'und, where it will do gooé and emhance the prestiga of our organisation.
I have not mach to add to the secreiary's notes. It is very shtisfactory to know that so many members belong to our ascociation, and to this fact no one has contributed more than the secretary himself, both by bis constant wisiting of towers and his insistence on good striktng. But we must uot be satisfied with what has been dobe in holding our owr: we must be determined on further extension
This can be done in two wars. (1) By extending our vision berond our own towers. (2) By enlisting the interest of the clergy, it is not sufficient to welcome an occasiona? visit to the belfry, buk an attempt should be made to introduce him to the bells themselves and show him how they are rung and how they work and all about then. He is more likely to reppat lis visit, if his interest could be engaged. Many of the difficulifes of finding recruits trould consequentif be colved. A little mare co-operation between clargy and rinvers, as workers together for God is bound to result in better fellowship, more ringers and better ringing.
The officers of the association were retelected. the accounts afopted, and Mr. Hunt give his usual clear and entertaining account of the proceedings at the Central Courcil meeting.
Other routine business was transacted, and cotes of thanks were scoorded to the Rep. Preb. A. Chisholm, the Ficar of Yeovit, to the Rev. L. IE. Walsh, to Mr. T. Baker captain of the local ringers, and to the ladies who provided so bountifal a tea. Further ringing afterwards toot place.

should not be detirred from lack of means, but he thought thet, is they had setted the matter so far, it would be better if the proposer put down a resolution for the next anmual general meeting.
On the recommendation of the Executive Committee, it was decided to hold tha next amoual meeting at Bournemouth on the first Saturday in JuIy, 1940

Tha Hon. Secretary said last year a sub-committee was appointed to go into the question af the restoration of the Rayner tomb at Arreton, Isle of Wight. There was some difficulty about the matter, as the tomb cantained a long inscription, much of which did not relate to Henry Ravner, but to members of his family, and it was suggested that the matter be aljourned for another year, so that the officers of the Guild raight consult further with the sub-committee.This course was sgreed to.

The Executive Committee reported tliat an application had been received from St. Michael's, Basingstoke, for a grant from the Special Furposes Fund to wipe of the balance of the cost of the restoration of the bells at St. Wichael's, Basingstoge, and the committec recommended that whe balance of $£ 125$ s. be paid.

MECHANICAL RINGING

The Fresident said at the last meeting they had a motion by the Fer. H. Drake on the question of meclanical ringing. which was referred to the Standing Committee to consider. The committee had considered the position and lord come to some conclusions.

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards presentea the repork, which the Standing Gommittee guggeated should be adopted and sont to all the Diocesar Anvisory Committees of the United Kingdow. It was as follows
(1) While there uay be cxceptional cases in which the use of gramophone records of chureh bells is justified, any goneral adoption of such pructice is emphatioally to be deprecated, not only on the grounds that a substitute for the real thing is unwortly of the Church of God, but also becanse it eliminates the living service of hand, and lreart, and mind, which is of the very essence of bellringing and is of true spiritual value as contritutory to an act of warship.
(2) Thy installa*ion of such a mechanteal device shoufd be severely prohibited in any tower containing or capable of containing a peal of prolls except as a temporary experient, as, for example, when fower or bells are under repair.
(3) In the case of building new churches it is olvious that the erection of a tower and bells must oflea be left to a future generation, or even omitted altonether, but it is a wital point of prineiple that no sanction slould ever be given to the huilding or designing of a tower inadequate to its legitimate purpose, with 8 view to the installation of a granophone record instesd of real bells. The oue installation of a gramoptsonte eecord instead of real bells. The oue hells and to erect a tower to hold a gramophone record nannot be regarded otherwise tlian an urchitectural fraud, entirely unworthy a a puilding designed for sacred purposes.
The repport was approved, as also was the suggestion that it he sent

CHESTERFIELD BFLLS

The President sald the question of Chesterfeld bells came before the Council three or four yogrs ago. The tower was then said to be masafe for ringing and the famous peal of ten bells was silent. The Towers and Belfries Comsmittee was approaclsed and tlyey corresponded with the Vicar, but did not get very far, because it was dificult for them to bute in. In the socond place he (the president) did not succed in getting from the Yicar the name of the architect. He beliered he was a London architect and he had hoped to meet him and have a talk with lim. Now the committee understood the position was that the trells were still silent, although the tower was said to lave been repaired and quite all riglat for ringing the belis. The nether han rather come to a head because, metording to a report which sppeared in the "Sheffeld Telegraph : about two months ago, the Archdeacon had threakened, if ho could not get ringers, to think of installing some form of canned' bells and gramophone records. The President asked if there was any further information on the matter.

Mr. J. Harris said he was afraid no further information was available, but he did not think the Archdeacon was quite right when he said he could not get any ringere. There were ringers to be got, but when a tower had been closed for years ther could not expect to get things done in a day or two. Had the Archdeacon given any ringers the opportunity to go to the tower P He thought it was the duty of the Council to try and find out what was holding things up, Within recent days the Cluesterfield District of the Midland Counties Association had been revived and there was also the leak Society, so there tioz had bean revived and there was also the leak Society, so there wa no lack of ontlusiasm in that part of Derbyanire. Perlans one of the reasous why Chesterfield fell into neglect was that they had no member on the Dincesan Ativisory Roard. He would like to see a member appoitated to erery Board in the country. It was becanse of fisked the Council to do something in connection with Chesterfield.
Mr. W. E. Wlite (Midiand Counties) said he had had a letter from tha president of their association on this matter, and he thought they need have no fear about there being any substitute for Chesterfielid bells.

Mr. S F. Palmer said at the annual mecting of the Midand Connties Association he met one of the old Chesterfield ringers and went into the matter fully with lim. That ringer had keen in communication with the Archdeacon and had offered to provide ten ringers-he had got the promise of the services of ten ex-ringers-and he asked for an interview with the Archdeacon. The Archdeacon replied Dy Ietter Hat he would grant him an interview in a few weeks time, as he was then rery busy. That wes in the early part of the pear Up to the week before the Council meeting the ruger in question had heard nothing further. He was afraid the Archadeacon was very indifferent with regard to the heils, and had no interest in ringing.
Mr. T. Clarke (East Derbyshire and Notts) said, knowing the bells were now ringable, he wrote to the Archdeacon fuggesting that he might be allowed to take some ringers there for a combined practice, but the Arehdercon had rot even replied to his letter
The President thonght in view of whet had been said it did not seem that the Council could talke any useful action. It was a question of somene gething round or behind the Arehdeacon.
The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards thought the secretary might write to the Archdeacon and say that the Council was very glad to hear that the

Archdeacon had promised to intervicw one of the ex-ringers on the subject of restartitg Clesterdicld beilg, with a view to raisiug a band and trusting they would soon beer of the successful result of that interviow
Mr. W. G. Witson seconded the suggestion, which was adopted.

A BOOK ON HANDBELL RINGLNG

The President. said that last year it was proposed to get out a book lundbell ringieg, and they fasked Mr. Cluris. Woalley to see what he could do about it, Mr. Wooloy had prepared a draft and had sent it out to one or two people for criticism. He (the president) had only addition he would suggest was something on Stidnaau
The Hon. Secretary said lie thought porhaps the reason why they found so little about Stedman in the draff was that, when he liad seen Chria Woolley ringing Stedman on liandhells, ho sat on the edge of a chaiz and his knees knocked together (laughter). Mr. Woolley had prepared the book and had submitted it to a mamber of prominent bandbell ringers for their criticisn, and it seemed a pity if they were to have to wait anotber year and bring it again before the Council approval before they could print it. He suggested that it would 03 better if, bfter it fad been passed round for eriticism and adjustment. it should be put into the hands of the Standing Committee to denl with and print it as soon as possible.
This course was egreed to.

EJLENCERS.

Mr. A. D. Barkor said in the past the Council, he believed, lad oxpressed a definite opinion with regard to peals wlien the ruellg had not been struck. After a peal. in which Seago's apparatus had been used on the bells, he believed the Council declined to recognise it. There was now among the public a lot of antagonism with regard to noise, and bells were heing rulug with the use of various forms of sound reducing apparatus. There was one peal rang last Jear im which an apparatus was used, as a regalt of which the clapper struck only on ore side of the bell throurbout the pert. Me would like to know what was the attitude of the Council to a peal ruag like that? Mr. Pulling said he understood, when the silencer in question was useck, they got a double blow of the clapper when the bell turaed us one direction, and one blow when it turned the opposibe way. That, in fact, in a whole pull the clapper struck the bell tloree times instead Tho Re
Tha Rev. C. E. Wigg said, es one who took part in the peal which Tr. Barker had mentioned, he could say, with regard to the clapper striking a double note, that was not $\mathrm{so}_{\text {, }}$ unless it was due to the unekifful handling of the hell, resulting in it humpiag against the stay. That nitht slake the clapper so that ther got the appearance of two blows, hut if the hell wis rung properly there was not the skightest risk of the sound bow being struck more than once. The apparatus was a simple one. A loop of rope or leather or wize was pat round the flight of the clapper and the ball was pulled up to any desired distance from the somme how, according to the volume of sound required. The other end was then made fast to some convenient nut on the stock. The clapper struck the bell exactly at the same time as if the clapper had been swinging free.
Mr. Gilbert asked if they lashed the clapper to the side of the hell so that it did not strike the other side at all, could they call that a peal? They could hear the liells when strnding under them, but they could noth hear them 50 yards away.
Mr. Collett said the amonnt of sound depended entirely on the lengtly of the slrap that was used. It was a metter of adjustment. Mr. P. J. Johman: Do you mean that you liave a peal in which the clapper strikes only on one side of the bell?
Tho Rev. C. E. Wipg : Yos,
Mr. Joluson: I should gifongly oppose recogniging that,
Mr. A. E. Lock said he had liad experience of these silenvers, and they could be adjusted so that the bells were loud or quiet as rea double blow of the clapper, but this did aot occur if they had good ringers who knew how to kandle a bell.
The Pregident said he foond it difficult to accept the statement thot the clapper confrofled by this apparatus sounded at exactly the same moment as if it were free. He couth maderstand it might in roundg but he found it diffictit to helieve that it did so in clanges.
Mr. Tock: I assure you jt does.
The Presideut : J sliould like proof of it.
The Rev. C. E. Wigg suggested that the Council should defer any judgment nn the question of peals rang with this apparaius attached to the hells. undil they had had the opportunity of testing it, amd perhaps at the mext meeting at Cardiff le could bring a set of the silencers and arrange to lave them fitted to a peal of bells, so that members of the Council could lave the opportunity of festing the device for themselves. He could assure the president that the bell did strike at the identical moment as if the clapper were free.
The President said the onls real teat before they could form a judgment. would he for the same ringers to ring a Ebucin of reasonatile lencth with and without the silencers.
The Rev C. E. Wigg said that hac actually been done at Sherborme Abbey. He rang the tenor hoth times nad be found the bell a little exsier to strike with the silencers on.
Mr. Barker sata his point whe whether a peal, ring with thes apparatur on the hella, could be recognised bs the Coumet.

PEAL NOTES.

NORWITI PEALS.
The camposition of 5,000 of Bob Royal ly Mr. Nolan Golden, rung at St. Peter Mancroit, Norwich, on Juae 28tly, is a two-part peal containing 13 courses with 8-7 reversed, five of the 6-5's and all the 5-6's.
Six of the band that rang is this peal took part on Baturday in a peal in four spliced plain Major methods at St. Miclzal-st-Coslany. Norwich the first spliced peal on the bells. The peal contained 1,344 changes of Plain Bob, 384 of Fulbeck Boly, 528 of Double Boh and 2,752 of Doubla Norwich, with 84 rlanges of method. The composifion of 5.008 by Mr. Nolan Golden had 52 course ends, with 4,5 and 6 only in 6th's place, the 4th and 6th sheir extent there, and the 2nd nerer in 5 -6.

The first peat on the befls at Probus, Cornwall, was rung on Iune 28th. The excellent striking which was maintained throughout the peal so impressed the Ficar ithe Rev. - Hammons) that he went up into the belfry afterwards to congratulate the land. He ronsidered if a remarkble porformance and intends to have a record of it placed in the belfry.
A peal of Bob Major at St, Mary's, Wookich, was a triple birthduy celehration, having heen specially nrranged as a complimenti to Messrs. A. E. Barker, F. Hoverd and D. M. Sharp (tioe conductor), After the peal the ringers were kindly entertained to tea by Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Barker, nita, at the celobrations which followed, each bithday was 'drowned' in turn. The perl was rung on June 24th.
A peal of lloh Major rung at St. Feter's, Nothingliam, on June 2gth, in honour of the wedding of Ifr. Frants Browns, orte of the Sunday servine ringers at that church, was atso a consument to ifr. W. E. Bason, of Xorwich, upon his having rung 200 peale for the Norwich Diocesau Aksociation. The mompnsition wos one by Mr. Bawon with 178 siugles, with only the tih. Sth und 6tit in sixth's phlace and all the oombingtions of 4-5-6 in 5-6.
Mr. E. C. S. Tumer rang his 2MOth peal on tower bells when lie fook part in four spliced Starprise Major methods at St. Mary's, Staines, on Saturday, as a wedding compliment to the Rev, A. S. Roberis und Miss Tessie Angwin, whieh took place at Truro. It was aleu a birliday peal for Miss Eunu Bedford, who rang her first Spliced Surprise peal.
A peal of Grandsire Criples was rang at Brecon on June 25 th as a farewell tr Mr. Charles Powell, a ringer at St. Mary's, Brecou, und looth, trensurer of the Swanser and Brecon Diocesar Guild, who is leaving Brecan to reside at Rify in revizement. Tha peal was also in honour of the preferment of the Right Rev. the Bishop of Swausea and Precon to the See of L.landaff. The Bishop is president of the Smansea and Brecon Guild. After the meal the band with Mr Powell, enioyed tha hospitality of the Brecon riugers.
Tho pral of Boh Misjor at Borehann, Essex, on June 27th, was rung by the regular Sunday service band and is the first by such for a good many years at this tower. For a long time thiggs at Borelam were in a very had state, and it is due to dr. Stanley Edwards that the present band started. Though Mr. Edwards moved away from the parish jusf as the first of tlie bend started to handle a bell, it was not too mach trouble for him to cycle six miles ench way in all weather to give of his hetp to his pupils, and to him the condsetor and band extend their grateful thanks.

The oeal of Minor in three methods rung at Ibstock on Saturday. Thae 24th. was specially artatged as a compliment to Mr. A. W. Hoping (who was for 65 years a devoled nember of the local comphay) ont the occasion of his 86 th birthday. Unfortanately, Mr. Hurkins is not now able to $\pm$ nke all active part in the ringmg owing o heing, unable to climb the belfry steps.
The ringer of the treble (who is the only chith of the conductor, Mr. A F. Rowleyt will not be 14 years of age until July $6 t h$, and it is tweliered that, she is the raungest girl ever to ring a peal for the Minlant Connties Association.

Con June 24tl3, 1922 fwo davs atier his wedding, Mr. Emest Morris. of Leicester, hon. generni pecretary of the Midand Counties Assoniation rang. as his wedding peal, a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Danatanc, Stepney. On the 17 th anniversary of that occasion a peal of Yorlinhire Strprise whs runt at Gravesend, Kent, in which Mr. Moris, who was or holiday in London, rang the bth. In the same peal. Which was rung two daws after the hirthoray of the cotauctor (Mr. P. J. Corby). Mr. F. J. Cullum, of Erith, complefed the circlo" hy riaging the 3 rd.
Frederiek Nicholls, althongh only 14 vears of age, has mumg an "inside' hell to seten different. Minor methods for his first peal; and he rang it at the first attempt, too. This is an extraordinerily good performance, and he well deserved the congratuslations of the rest of The band on the way he rang throughout the peal at Weth-on-Dearme, Yorls, on June 24th.
The hells at Hanburf, near Bromsgrove, Worcesterslite, have recontly heon recast and rehung with all modern fitting br Messes. John Tavior and Co. The first neal was rung on them an Saturdar, Tune 24th, by members of the Western Brawch of the Worcestershire Assoctation.
The Church Ccuacil can he congratulated on their hold efforts in having a complete restoration done instead of a patclied up i.ffict, for although a country parish nad rather scatteced, Hanbury fas niroadr raised two-thirds of the cost.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, tno-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

Sold In Gd. and $1 /-$ Tubes

LADIES AND RINGING.

When the Ladies' Guiid was reorganised last year into defined districts, designed to cover the whole country, it was done as an experiment, but the plan has been found to work as successfully as could be expected, and at the annual meeting at Ipswich, last Saturday, it was resolved that it should be continued. The ringing membership of the Guild is now 350 , and it is felt that the scheme, as now in operation, is the best that can be devised for linking up the widely scattered members and maintaining interest in the organisation. The ladies, and particularly the officials, deserve the utmost praise for the determination with which they carry on the work, which, in its disappointments and discouragements, is at times sufficient to daunt the enthusiasm of the keenest spirits. The task which faces the ladies in and around London and in certain other smaller areas is not a difficult one; the problem is to organise their forces in such a way that the members who are widely dispersed in other regions can be given a sufficient interest to support the Guild. It is, of course, perfectly well recognised that, in holding meetings, the ladies have to rely for a considerable measure of their success upon the presence of gentiemen, which is always readily and gallantly forthcoming, but, even so, there are times when the ladies, for whose special benefit the gatherings are arranged, might be expected to show a greater interest, and be prepared to make a little more sacrifice. But when all is said and done, a total of three hundred and fifty members spread over the whole country does not give the Guild much opportunity to make a show of strength at any one point.
Nevertheless the Guild, despite its drawbacks, is doing a very useful work, which must not be measured by the attendances at meetings. Directly and indirectly it is bringing more ladies into the Exercise, and it cannot be denied that, in the belfry, their influence is for good. As in other things which require the exercise of physical strength, there are few ladies fitted for anything more than the lighter tasks in bellringing. Not all the ladies, either, can be classed as good ringers, but, then, neither can all the men. The ladies came into ringing at a critical time, and present conditions make their services equally valuabie. In the past they have filled gaps when men have been unobtainable, and now that a certain proportion of young ringers will be withdrawn for a time from the towers to serve in the Forces of the Crown, the ladies may once more prove themselves a real asset to the Exercise. It is an encouraging sign to read of eleven pupils at a Malvern school joining the Worcestershire Association the other day. They will not, of course, re(Continued on page 442.$)$ main there indefinitely as a band, but the interest which they are now displaying will be carried, when they leave, to various parts of the country there, we hope, to take root and llourish to the advantage of the art. There is a place for ladies in the belfries; there is a place for the Ladies' Guild in the Exercise. If the Guild does nothing else, it gives the ladies a standing which they might not otherwise have, and it gives the members a fuller sense of their responsibilities as ringers. Its handicaps and difficulties of organisation are met with determination, and all the while this spirit prevails the Ladies'. Guild will, we are convinced, hold its own.

Anotier youthful peal ringer lias scored a peal. At Hinxwortb. Hertfordshire, on July let, H. W. Sraith, who is ony 14 yearg of age, rang his first peal at the first attempt.
Two other youths of 14 yeurs have scored their first peal at the frst a itempt. At Elmore, Gloves.: on June 10th, Lionel Gordon rang the 12 cont. tenor to a peal of Donbles, and at St, Mary de Lede, Gloucester, George Sunth ring the third to a peal of Grandsire and St. Dunsten's Droubles. The latter peal, on July 4 th, was rugg in honour of a visit of the Duchess of Gloucester.

NEARING 1,500

Mr, George Willinms got a 'star' last Safurday. He rang his firat peal of Spliced Surprise Major, and rang it alnost faultlessly. There 1s no limit to the enthusiasm and ambition of some of these young men. Mr. Whitiams is only og.

Incidentally it was his I, 499 th peal. In some respects it was a pity this notathe performence did nat make the round 1,500 , for it was at the same church, Soberton, Hants, thet in 1883 he rang his first peal, Messre. James Bennett and C. E. J. Norris heva now rung every bell in the tower of St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Gillingham, Kent, to a peal. They completed this together on $J u y$ y 4 th. Mr. Beanett begar 'collecting' peals in this tower in the days when he was O.S.M., R.M. (Wa hope we liave got these jnitials right.)

A peal of Bob Major was rung on June 29th at Bostov 'Stump, that tall and famous pile that overlooks the Wash. The peal was a birthday compliment to Mr. B. Jacksots, one of the local ringers, and E. P. Clarke, son of Mr. W. E. Olarke, the conductor.

The tower of Sit. Botolph's is 272ft, high and now contains ten bells. Its "estoration was carried out in 1932 with the belp of the Bostonians of America, and it was then that the bells were increased from eight.

Mombers and ex-members of Manchester Cily Police Force rang a peal of Grandsire Cinques at Manchoster Town Hall on July lot, as a compliment to Supt. F. R. Williams, upon his retirement. Supt. Williams has long been connested with tha ringing at the Town Hatl and has been president of the National Guild of Police Ringers, of which he is now one of the vice-presidents.

Il. is desired to point out that although two men rang the tenor to the peal, this does not in any way refect on the 'go of the bell. It was so arranged to enable all the ringing members to tako part in "this tributa to the retiring Superintendent
The 81st birthday of Mr. Tom Miller, of Birmingham, was celebruted on July 5th with a peal of Grandsire Triples at Iye, on the fighlest ring of eight in the country. The two trebles are approximately 60 ench, each, ag those who have tried then realise, all the bells require skilisl lianding. The simall bells bave to be rung with the clappers on the wrong side and the slightest error of judgraent puts the clapper back, witla fatal results to the ringing.

Mr. James Shepherd, who took part, has now rung peals on the laeaviest and lightest rings in the country.

Messrs. Albert Nash, of Rotherham, and John Thorpc, of Sheffield, rang a handbell peal togother on July 6th at Rotherbam. Their previous handbell peal together was in June, 1909.

The peal of Canterbury Pleasure Triples at Kibworth on Saturdey was specially arranged as a wedding compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Eruest $P$. Staniforth, who were recently married at the nearby villago of Fleckver, which has no ring of belis. The bridegroom is a namesake of tie conductor, Mr. Ernest Morris, who 29 years ago acted ass ${ }^{\prime \prime}$ begt man" at his father's wedding. The latter, Mr. Fred Staniforth, was in the same class at St. Margaret's School, Leicester, with the conducter 40 years ago, and here they are, still ringing side by side f It was also a 72nd birthday compliment to Mr. Josiah Morris, father of the conductor, who comploted 250 peals for the Midand Counties Assaristion.
Wjth a peal of Stedman Triples at Ellesmere, on Saturday week, Mr. William Saunders, of Coalbrookdale, has now rung a peal upon every aviluable and ringable 'eight' in the county. The band, who travelled an awerage distance of 30 miles each, wish to thank the Vicar (the Rev. M.J. Ruslh) for his permission to ring the peal and Mr. A. Hnymes, the local captain, for having everything in readiness.

The first peal in seven Minor methods on the bells at staverton, Northants, was ragg on Jaly 6th. The Vicar and his wife (the Rev. E. S. and Mrs. Powell) took part, it was called by a Bedfordshire veteran, Mr. O. W. Charke, and was a birthday compliment to a reteran of the Peterborough Guild, Mr. Walter Perkins. Miss Evelyn Stoel and Mr. Walter Perkins rang their fftieth peal together, and afterwards the Rev. E. S. and Mrs. Powell kindy entortained the ringers to supper.
The half-muffled peal at St, Clement Danes, the report of which Was publighed last week, was rung on Thurstay, June 29th, not Friday, the 36th. The explanation of the error is that our correspondent gave the date Friday, June 29th. We imggined that be knew the day of the week when it was rung. but migtook the day of the month, as many of us easily do. But we guessed wrong.
The church at Hoar Cross, Staffr, is one of the most beautifal in the country, but peals on the heaty ring are few and far hetween. A peel of Minor was, however, rung there on July 8th, and a member of the local band was so impressed by clange ringing that he sat patiently in the belfry for four hours while the bells were pulled up and the peal rune

The length of the peal of Cheltenham Bob Major runc at Crayford nn June 16th was 5,024 and 0 者 5,056 changes as published. The Editor, and the conductor, Mr. J. C. E. Simpson, are both innocent of this crime. The rimger who sent in the report did not know fhe length of the composition, but thought he could remember the namber of "Bcfores." It is perlusps fortunate that he does not rely entirely on his memory for his living.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

EASTBOURNE RLNGLAS TRY DOUBLE COSLANY

In perfect weather, the Chritt Church, Eastbourne, ringers, with wives and lady friends, bad their annual outing on Wlit Monday and made a trip into Surrey, pith Guildord its farthest point. En route they rang af Tharaer's Hill, but owing to Bank Holiday traffie corditions, coupled with the fact that the coach Incked ' liorses ' is climbing the numerous hills, the party arrived at Guidford threecuarters of an hour late. This was regreted by all, as it meant that ringing at S. Nicolas' Church, where they were met by Mir. E. G. Heath, hat to be cut down to a bare half-hour.
After dinaer, places of inerest were visited and the journey. resumed to Horsham for gill lour's ringing at St, Marys. On the homeward journey Slatgham was visited. This little village is rather off tho map, but it las a lovely little penl of eight that go like tops. For an hour and a lade the visitors rang from rounds to Surprise, the strilking being mainly good.
During the afternoon some of the party had been sfudying some hastily drawn diagrams of Double Coslany Court Major, and at Slaughem decided to try for a course. At the third attempt, with the belp of a friend from Sontlgate, they mamaged to Wade through. The method proved to be more tricky than some had expected, but was voted 'a top hole' method by all. The journey to Easthourne was enlivened by the choral efforts af the occupazts of the back seat, lut this was not appreciated by the four members who were trying ta ring Plain Bob on liandbells at the same time.

SURPRISING TEE NATTVES

Lowestaft, known as the "land of the Rising Sun, belied its mame on June 2ind, when the members of the St. Margaret's Sowieby beld their anmual outing, Thursday being eariy closing day. It was fine, but the ' north easter' was still bobbing arouud. Nineteen members and friends staried off att 2 o'clock for a gond rum, Diss (Noriolk) being their first call. "They were met by two of the local ringers, and tovehos af Bob Majer and Kont Treble Bob were brought round. Slome of the natives were sulprised to hear their bells pealing out in the afternoon, and evideatly thought that it was a celebration of the return on that day of the King fthd queen. Eye (Suffolk) was the noxt call and apos arriving there the party enjoyed a swmptuotas high ten at the White Lian Hotel, which had been arranged for by theit octogenarian member. Visiting the Parish Ohurch, touchea of Fob Major and Kegt Treble Bobs wero rumg. Wilby (Suffolk) was their nast venue, but while pulling up the bells they were jaformed that owing to illuess near the church no riuging could take place, Nothing deunted, they doubled back to Fressangield, dug out the obliging eteeplekeaper and rang toucligs of Kent and Oxford Treble Bols and Bob Major. Home via Harleston, where, at the Magpie Hotel, they had an impromptur supper. They arrived back in the land of the missing ${ }^{2}$ cun at 11.20 p.nn, well satished that, notwithstandiag King Sol's absence, it had been a very evjoyable outing. The ringers wish to thank all the incumbents for the privilege granted for using their towers, and their thanks are also extended to the ladies and gentlemed of the perish of St. Murgrret's for their suppart.

A TWO-DAY AFFATR

The 4Ist annual outing of St. Joltn the Baptist Society, Leytonstone, was, as usual, spread over two days, June 17th arad 184h, a good time being epent in tho Romney Marsh district of Kent, with headquarters at Tenterden. The party left London on Friday night and were joined by Mr. W. J. Nevard, who was looking well despite his 83 years. All were very sorry, however, at the absence of Mr. W. H. Theobald, who was prevented from going through indisposition,
MIr. R: Edwards acted as pilot lor the two days spent in visiting the Kent towers, the travelling being done in a comfortable coach. At Staplahurst the party were met by Mr. Wenban, while at Frittenden they wers welcomed by Mr. F. White. In the afternoon Appledore was first wisited, after which the wisitors rang at the historic old tower of New Romney, where the Ficar congratulated thom oss the good striking of Stedman am Double Norwich. A splendid drive followed along the sea front to Lwdd, and then on to Rye for tea, which had been arranged by Mr. Bobson. Before reaching headquarters for the night a call was made at Stone-in-Oxmey, where the local men met the party and they rang short touches of Surprise Minor on the pesel of six.

A airoll in the country before breakfast is a thing that Leytonstone ringers seldom enjoy, but some of them were out before 7 a.m. BI Sunday. After breakfasi they visited Benenden to rigg for morning service. On Sinday afternonn $\begin{gathered}\text { a } \\ \text { visit was paid to Biddenden and }\end{gathered}$ Bethersden. At the former clurch is a hardy ring of elght, but at the latter is a ring of six which would be better with the help of a competent bell banger. The last pull of the tour was reserved for Tenterden's grand rinc of eiclit, with a tenor of 30 cot. Stedman Supertative and Cambridge were rung, and some of the "boys," in cluding Mr. Nevard, did well on the hegy peal.
The methods rung during the wwo days were Stedmen, Double Norwich, Cambridge, Superlative, Yorkshire and London Surprise. Whe time spent in Kent made a great impression on those who were fortunate to take part, and the members wish to thank the clergy who eo readily granted them permission, and Mr. Ballard, Mr. F. White and all the local ringers who met and welcomed them they are extremely erateful.

SURFEY RINGERS AMONG HRETFORDSETRE TOWFRS.

Buckland, Charlmond and Mergtham joined forces for their annaat outing on June 10th and made a tour of six Hertfordshire towers. The tous had been erranged by members of the Merstbam band, who this year decided on breaking new groumd, and the perfect Jurne weather which favoured the outing, combined with the interest of the churches visited, made the day one to be remembered.
The first contingent joined the coach at Charlwood as early as 6.30 a.m., the company being augmented at Brockham Green, Bucirland, Reigate, Redhil] and Merstham. With a full load they left the latter place at 7.40 and proceeded across Lrondon and theace via Barnet to Northaw, where the fine tower containing six bells marked their first call. The church is comparatively modern, having been restored about the middle of lasi century, when the earlier building had been destroyed by fire. It is a fine edifice in a setting so rural that it is diffecult to believe London is well under 20 miles away.
A fow miles further on the party came to Essendon, whose ancient church stands in an even lovejier setting. There is much that conld be recorded of St. Mary tbe Virgin's Church, whose chief points of interest were kindly pointed ont to the visitors by Mr. Giles, the parish elark. The buildiag wes considerably damaged by a bomb dropped from a Zeppelin in the early hours of a September morning in 1916, and, though restored, the building contains many evidences of that tragic event.
Tho fios Charch of St. Etheldreda at, Hatneld was the Hext call, and there whs enaugh of interest to detain the party far beyond their cehoduled stay. The history of the church for many years is closely associated with that of the Marquises of Salisbury, and many monaments and tablets testify to the greatness of that illustrions house. The church hes a fime tower contining ten belis, whose beanty of tone was heard to full advantage in Grandaire Triples and Bob Major. At the conclusion of the ringing here there was just time for a. peep at the exterior of the great pile of Fatield House and a tour of tog old Falsce. The latter dates back to the fifteanth century and its restoration some years ago has brought to light many of the striking features of its interjor. Fere Queen Elizabeth gained much of her early edacation and not long aftor in the same building she was imprisoned by Ther half-sister, Mary Tudor. The gardens outside are reputed to be in the same formation and lay-out ms when Elizaheth walked in them nigll on four centuries ago. The items of interest here wers kindl. shown to us by ex-sergt. A. Lawrence.

Tho company enjoyed an excellent lunch at the Fed Lion Rotel, Hatfield, where they were very pleased to welcome Mr. D. K. C. Birt, Meater of thu Surrey Assnciation, who accompanied them for the reat of the tour.

The willage of Sandridge, a few miles distant, was the mext place of call, where they made the nome-toa-easy ascent of the tower of st Leonard's, ondtaning six bells. The cburch is extremely ancient, having been founded by Herbert Losinga, founder of Norwion Cathedral, not later than 1119. There is hera a wonderful stome arch dividing tha chancel from the aave, which, though altered from its original desiga, has remained unchanged for 400 years. In common with many other churches, there are signs of rough usage in the starmy days of Cromwell
A church in the fields was next visited, that of SS. Peter and Pau!, Kimpton, whose tower, egain, contains six bells. The church has a very long mave and possesses many interestirg memorials. It is of great age and comprises a mixture of the Norman and Early Tinglish styles
Tea was taken at the Old Cock Inn at Harpenden, herd by the Church of S. Nicholas, the last tower oz the programme. This fine tower has eight bells, and here, after tea, the longest spell of ringing was indolged in. The church itself is a spamions buldung with much histary and fall of interest. The people of Harpenden were given an hour of melody and lacal ringers joined the company in some of the totaches
The sum was getting low by the time the last of these died away and it was necessary to thinls of the lowe trip southwards again. Altbough so much ground had been covered, the day had seemed all too alort. The thanks of all are due to those who made the arrangemonts.
At each of the towers visited rounds were rung for the beginnars and during the day the ringing at the siz-hell towers included Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain and Oxford Bota, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise. At tho other towers Grandire and Stedman Triples, Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major.

DAGENHAM RTNGERS' OUTING.

Dagenlarn zingers and frietds, mustering 20, had a clarabanc tour embracing Easex and Hertfordshire, nud wisited Hiarlow Common, Hunsdon, Little Eadham, Braughing end Broxhourse-four peals of eight and ane of fire. Various methods were rung throughout the day. Lanch was disposed of at the Turkey Cock at Hunsion, where the "go" of the bells made refresbment rather neceseary. Tea at Braughing was "a gight for the gods," and parties wisjting Braughing would be well adiged to Fisit the Golden Fleece. The Dagenham mon take this opportunity ton thank incumbents for their permission to ring. and the local ringers for hawing overything ready for them

'Mr. Green' seems to be up to his tricks again and going round to ringers in the South, endeavouring to impore upon their geuerosity. He visited e ringer at Hastings and asked for money to get to Fastbourae. He was given 2s. Two or three days later he called on Mr. A. C. Pankhurst, in Eastbourne, and asked for mouey to enable him to get to Hampslaire. He gave the aame of 'Mr. Green.' His quest was not succersful. Fijogers ghould be on their guard againgt this genlleman.

A party of members mani friends of the Ladies' Quild travelled together to Ipswich for the auruua] meeting. Owing to the fact that one or two of them belonged to the "Tower Snatehers" Union,' or some similar organisation, the return trait was only caught because it was runging late.

Thero is, however, no truth in the rumour that three well-known members of the Guild intepd to issue a challenge to the present holder of the "Mile Championship.
The death tonk plece on July 5th, at an advanced age, of Mr. J. W. Elkins, senior dean's verger at Winchester Cathedral. A long life in the service of the Ohurch has thas closed. Mr. Elkins was keenly interested in the Cathodral bells, and be kiew and loved every stone of the fabric, with which he had been so long and so intimately associated.

The first touch at 'home' after 17 years' absence was ruag at St. Mary'e. Slougl, on Thursday, July Gtb, when a good company met et the tower and welmoned the wanderer.
Mr. William Nevard, of Great Bentley, was present after spending the day at the Royal Agricultaral show at Windsor, recalling his first attendance at the show in 1875, beld at Taunton. The Wrington Society of Ringers also joined up for touches, a party of 35, who lad been to the Whitechapel Foundry to see the new bells for Liverpool Cathedral and the ringing tenor of four tons.

METAL FRAMES.  A STMPLE PROTECTION.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir, - Isea that there was a discussion on steel girderg at the Centra] Council meeting and that photographs handed to membera showed en instance of ateel girders largely esten away with rust.
We lispe such girders and frame here, which were put in by Taylors in 1913. Up to now they have never had acoat of paint, and I do not think anyone could find a spot of rust on either girders or frame.
When cleaning up the dubricant which escapea from the piain bearings I finished off with cotton waste, and I rubbed the girders and frame with this waste occasionatly. It was only just sufficient to give a thim coating to the work, and there always seemed enough lubricant coilected in the cotion waste to do this without adding any more to it. The work, besides being protected from rust, always looked fresh and clean. I did this for 25 years, while I was staeplekeeper, and When I gave up everything appeared to be in as good a condition as Whe? firgt put in.

BELLS FOR CHIMING.

To the Eaitor

Dear Sir,-I note in your issue of June 23 rd mader the Towers and Belfries Committee report that a bell hang for chiraing only should be on gudgeons so that it is free to move. I take it that this refera to a bell fitted with a chiming hammer, note rope attached to the clapper. Personally, I should think it would be more likely to damage the bell ander these conditions than if it could notimove, for geveral reasons, and I have had experience in one case of this happening.

Galhampton, Yeoril.

THE LADIES' GUILD.

MEMBERSHIP NEARLY 400.

TTie annual general meating of the Ladies' Guild was heli at Ipswich on Saturday and was attended by 28 mambers. Five peals of bells were available, naging from five to twelve, and all the towers were visited by some of the members.
A bhort service was held at St, Mary-le-Tower Church, conducted by the Rer. R. J. Brady, Rector of St Lawrence with St. Stephen, Who gave an address. In the absence of an organist, Miss Suowden played the piano for the bymens.
Tear was enjoyed by 57 members and frionds, after which the business mecting was held, with the president, Miss E. Steel, in the chair Tha accounts showed a fery gratifying state of affairs. Excess of income over expenditure for the year was 9628.3 3t, and the total cash balances were fis 35 . 11d., with a stock of Dedges valued at玉1 17s. The treasurer paid tribute to the work of the district secretaries for their untirieg efforts in collecting the clusive subscriptions, and looked forward to the time when she could report that all subscriptions were up to date. Matters wore undoubtedly improving.
biss Evelyn Steel was manimously eleated president and Mrs. G. W. Fieteher hon. secretary and treasurer.

The secretary reported that the membership hai now reached 350 yinginc mombers and about 40 honorary members, which brouglit the tetal nearly to the 400 mark. One peal of Minor lad been rung dinring the year hy members of inte newly-formed Enstern Distriot. Miss H"hursfield had bean reluctantly abliged to resiga from the serelaryship of the South Midland District, and hor place Jad been taken by Miss F. Hart.

Tho Fresident gpoke of the losg thraugh deatls of Mrs. Taylor. of Maidenhead, nnd Mrs, Atkins, of Esiam, and a silent tribute was paid to their memory.
At the meeting in 1958, when the Guik was divided into new fistricts, it was decided to trr the experiment for one year. Reports were receivod from secretaries who sould not be present at the meeting, end district secretaries present reported individually, On the Whale the new scheme had worked satisiactorily, and it was resolved to contiaue the present working. It was also decided to publish reports at an early date.
Mrs. Richardson reported briefr on the Gentral Council meeting held in London on Whitsun Tuesday.

Three places were proposed for the noxt annual general meeting viz., Winghenter, Brighton and Leiestes: Brighton received ternnder, and, on being put to the vote, Winchester was chosen.
The President congratalaked Mrs. I. Bray on taking part in the renord peal of Splited Minor, and ulso spoke of the pleasure it pave her to read of the many excellent performances of the members in partous parts of the country.

Votes of thanks were passed to Miss Sylvia Bowyer and all who had belped in the srrangements for the meeting. which was undoubteily one of the most sueressful ever held by the Guild.

LONDON DISTRICT ANNUAL MJETING

The annual mecting of the London District of the Ladies' Guild was hela at St. Gcotge-thic-Martyr's, Southwnric, als Saturdsy, July 1st. During the afternoon tlze beils were rung to Grandsire, Stedman, Boh Major, Double Norwicls, Cambridge and Loncon

The serrice was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. Cook). Who welcomed the Guild to St. George's.
Tea was at, the George Inn, Borough High Street, where 35 gat down, 20 being members of the Guild. The Vicar, who joined the campany at tea, mas amazed to find that many of the ladies (whoms he lad been secrotly thinking must lee still at sohooll were nonchalantly referring to their busbands '

The hosiness meeting was held at the chureln, where Mrs. R. F. Deal, the wice-president, was in the chair.
The elaction of officers resulted in the vice-president and the distrief secretary (Mrs. F. W. Housden) being re-elected. The committee now consists of the vine-president, Mra. C. F. Kippin, Mrs. F. Mitchell fnd Mrs. J. E. Dafis.
Three now memhers were elected: Mrs. F. I. Hairs, Miss Brends Richardison and Miss May Davics.

As the district has members as far down as Easthourne, it was thought that a tower sompthere hetween Loudon and the const for the next meeting might restilt in bringing in some of these outlying members, and Crawley, wilh its ideal ladies' peal, whs suggested as a good rendenvens

This met with the appravirl of the company, and Milton-nextGraresend was selected as al atternative, should Crawley tower not he available.
However, as has since been ascertained, Crawley tower is afailable for the required date. September 23rd, and Mr. Oliver Sippetts has hindly consented to the meeting being held.

Further ringing tosk place in the evening. Two "solo nieces ${ }^{2}$ by the Intuies were Stefman Triples ana Cambridge Major, conducted hy Mrs. f. W. Melelnet. Nevertheless. the fuitd would like to mention here that ther are niwayg extremely grateful to the menfolk who sppport the meetings and assist in the ringing, thereby contributiog in no sanall measure to their success.
Thanks are due te Mr. Norman Bagworth for haring the tower in readiness for the Guild.

DEATH OF MR. THOMAS J. ELTON.

CAPTAL OF ST. MATTHEW'S, WALSALE.
We deeply regret to announce the death of Mr. Thomas J. Eltom, of Walsall, who passed away on Saturday, July 1st, at the Wolverbampton Eye Infirmary after only a comparatively short illmess. The usual voke of thanks followed, to the Ticar for inviting the society is hold the contest at. Kirkthorpe, to the ladies for the splendid tea bther had provided, to the bocal company for the arrangements made and to the judges. Thus ended a good contest on a very wet day.

THE EBSTOCK PEAL

To the Editor

Dear Sir, May I congratulate Miss Rowley on lier performance of ringing a peal within twelve days of her 14th birthday? At the seme time, the claim to have been the joungest lady to do so in the 'M.C.A. fails by meariv a month. On Octobor 12t8, 1912. two oi my daughters rang in Holt's Original, the wounger then Miss Eilda Wilmon-being then 13 , and 26 days short of her $74 k$ birthday.
On the following Eoxine Dot both apain rang in a peal of Double Norwich. During August Bank Eolidav Hilda rang four penls-SuperFative, Camiridge, Stedmen Caters and Double Norvich, the lest two being rang in one day (see M.C.A. report. 1912-13).

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD.

mIRMNGHAM RINGERS' SUMMER MEDTING.

The summer quarterly meeting of St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held on Saturday, July 15t. It is customery to lold this gathering at one of the country parish churches within the diocese, and so on this occasion a return visit was paid to the ancient and royal borough of Sutton Coldfield, which is situated in lovely country about eight miles norta-east of the city. The Parish Church of the Holy Trinity was built at the end of the 13th century and the first incumbent appointed in 1305 . Extensive alterations and additions were made in the $16 \mathrm{th}, 18 \mathrm{th}$ aud 19 th centuries, and the whote of the faltrie was restored in 1926, tagether with extensipe interior decorations and improvements.
Cotil twe years ago the church was quite hidden by cottage property; since then much of it has been demolished and the space nind out is a memorial garden in memory of Bishop Vesey, who was Fector of Sutton Coldfield in 1535, and afterwards became Bishop of Exeter. He later returned to Sutton Coldfield and built the Moor Hall, where he spent the latter part of bis life in hospitality and splendour and died in his 103rd year. So great was his effection for his native place that he spared no pains to improve it and make it flourish. He was buried in the church and his tomb is in the Vesey Chapel in the aorth aisle. Some years ago this chapel was enclosed by a fine oak screen erected in memory of Canon C. W. Barnard, who was Rector from 1909 to 1925.
The maxgive tower contains a peal of eight belle, and these were madis $F$ ood une of during the afternoon and evening in various methods ranging Erom Grandsire to Cambridgo Surprise, also Spliced Granisire, Stedman and Exin Triples.
Tho usual Guild service was dispensed with, but the Roctor (the Rov. G. L. Harveri addressed the company prior to tea, giving them $\quad$, hasary welcome to Suthon Coldigld. An excellent trag had been by 30 members presant.

In the absence of the Master. Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., who ind sent an mpology skating he was too unwell to rttend, the weepresident, Conncillor A. Paddon Smith, presided at the business meeting. The secretary reported that he had on behalf of the Gaild undertaken to dispose of six copies of the new publication of Surprise Major Methodis, being double the quantity allotted by the Central Council. Tho action of the secretary was confrmed on the proposition of Mr. A. Walker, who stated there would he no difficulty of disposing of even more copies.
There were no new members to be proposed, but tho following tower eleations wero duly ratified: Messrs. James F. Harvey, of Bradford, C. H. Kippin, of Groydon, E. C. S. Turner, of West Faling, M. G. Turner, of west Bromwich, and John Walton, of Hagley, Stourbridge, all as life members.
The Clairman, the Guild's representative on the Central Council, Eave a very short report of the last Council meeting, stating that he took it all members of the Guild were regalar subscribers to "The Ringing World, and were, therefore, quite conversant with ail the proceedings as published in recent issues. In his opinion the Conncil meeting had been welt worth while and some excellent work accomplished.
This opinion was fully endorsed by Mr. Albert Walker, gn honorary member of the Council
On the proposition of the Ringing Master (Mr. T. E. Haynes), it as agreed to hold the next cuarterly meeting at King's Norton.
The Chairman said they were pleased to see Mr. James Gcorge amongst them rgain, looking quite his old self, and congratulated him on his recowery and his wonderful performance in ringing the 7th recently at Measham in a peal of Stedman Triples.
The Secretary also referred to the recent peal of Stedman Cinques rung at Aston Parish Church by a purely local band. Considering that the peal of twelve lad only been in about four years and that nost of the band were quite young ringers, thay were to be higkly vongratulated on their success and the spirit that animated them.
A hearty wote of thanks to the Rector for the une of the bells, to Whe British Legion for the use of their club room and the excellent tea so welt served, nad to Mr. W. G. Anker, the local towerkeeper, for making such excellent arrangements, proposed by the chaitruan, mited the meeting. This, however, by no mesns ended the proceedings. Several good totsches were rung on the bandbells, and, whilst some returncd to tho tower for further ringing, the attractions of the billiard tables engaged the attention of others, whilst some patroniged another part of the club, where they were joined by others, including a party of ripgers from Ruardean, Glos, And so terminated a very pleasant meeting.

FAREWELLS.

For evening service at St. Hary's Church, Peckleton, Leicestershire, on June 18th, two $720^{\prime}$ s of Plain Bob Minor were rung by $F$. Mears $1_{\text {, }}$ L. Ward 2, A. Pegg 3, W. A. Wood 4, F. Deacon 5, G. Nepton (confictor') 6, to mark the lest service conducted by the retiring Rector (the Rev. S. R. Pocock), after completing 53 years in Holy Orders. At the came time, the sexton (Mr. E. A. Hall), who had beld office at Peckleton for 24 yeara, retired from his duties.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

 A PEAL OF TWELVE FOR SOU'TH WALきS?A quarterly meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Asgocia tion wes held at Caldicot on Saturday, July 8th, and, considering whet a very wet day it was, was fairly well attended. Rnging tool place prior to servicc, which wes conducted by the Viear, the Rev R. O. Garrod, who also gave a very interesting address. Following tea in the Schoolroom, the Wicar presided aver the business mecting A proposal to rastore St, Bride's Major tower, which is in a had etate A proposal to restore st, brics Major wower, when is a had state and to restore the bells, was explained by the hon. secretary (Mr. J. W Jones), who read the Vicar's letter and the appeal. It sas wanalmeusly decided that a recommendation be made to the ammal meeting that 53 be roted from the funds. Mention was made that two bells are to be added shortly to the ten at St. Woolos', Nemport, so as to make ring of twelpe There was no ade present from St, Woolos to endorsa this Instructors' reports were received, and a report of the Centra Conmeil meeting was Eubmitted by Mr. E. Stiteb. A number of Hew members were elected, inciading the ringers from a now tower Penrlos, where it was gtated Mr. R. Smith, of Llenfrechfe, had given instruction.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting for Monmouthghire at Abergevenney.
The Chajrman mad shauld be tume
A bearty vote of thanks was ncocrded the Vicar, the ladies and and Wha contributed to make the mecting such a success and also for the hospitality in providing tea. Afterwards the bells were rung in various methods for the rest of the evening.

CLEVELAND AND NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

 PROGRESS ONLX SLOW.The 40 th annal meeting of the Cleveland sud North Yorkshire Association was held at Whitlyy on Saturday, Jume 24th, In spite of the winhry nature of the weather, quite a good pumber visited the old-world seasido town. Tea was held at Breckou's Cafe, Sandgate, and, being a ringer, tho proprietor very capebly supplied tho requirements of all appetites. The anmal business meeting, which was aftarwards held was presided oser by the president (Mr, J, C. Pallari) In tis annual report the secretary shated that the past year had not shown the improvement that he had hoped for, and, whilst nothing had declined, progress had only been slow. He wished to thatg all those who had assisted him in amy way during the year.

The financial position was found to be very satisfactory, a credit balance of 528 3s. 11d. being reported. As the association had a good balaseg in land it was decifod that daring the next year the ageocia tion should contribute 6d. towards the cost of eack member's tea whon athending meetings. All the officers were re-elected and a vote of thanks for their services during the year was gannimously carried.
Meetiogs were arranged to be held during the year as follow: September, at Middleham; January, 1940. Thirsk: Aprik, Richmoad; and the snnus meetire in June at Middlesbrough

The question of printing a report instead of duplicating it as had been dono for some time past, was discussed, and, after a long disnussion, t was decided to have the report printed,
Mr. FI Simpson, of Middegbrough. was elected mamber. A vote of thants was gecorded to the churchwardens for the use of the bells and to the local company for their part in arranging the mecting Tha secretary was ingtructed to send a letter of condolence to Mr. J Statit, onn of the rine-presidents of the association, in his bereave mant by the death of his wife.
A return wis made to the tower for further ringing wntil eight odock, but it was interesting to nate that only the older ripgers found suficient enargy to climb the 199 steps which lead to the charch for a second time. Once up the steps during the afternoon proved to be sufficient for the younger generation.

MTDDLESEX COUNTV ASSOCIATION

NORTH AND FAST DISTRICT REVISIT STAMEORD HILL

After a lapse of a few wears, a meeting of the North and Fast District of the Midrlesex Courty Association and Joniton Diacesan Guild was held at St. Ann's Church. Stemford Hill, on Snturday, Jote 24th, where the association received a friendly welcome.
Mr. W. J. Prost, the local captain, had evervthing ir readiness, and the bells were made pood use of throughout the afternoen and evening. Methods rung incloded Double Court Bab Minor and London Surprise Minor, speciallp selected for the meeting, and rounds were rung for those not up to change ringing standerd, some young people making a very welcode appearance.
A whort service was conducted by the Rev. A. T. Morgen. An excellent tea followed, after which the Ficar was thanked for the use of the bells and the hospitality extended to the association. In raply, he said he was very plessed to have the bells rung again every Sunday by a loca? team and thanked Mr. C. T. Coles (eccretang of the association). who is teaching the newly-formed band there. for his efforts in this respect.

At the business meeting the elention of five members was sgreed to.
A joint meeting with the Hertford County Association is being arranered to take place at Barnet and Monken Fadley on Saturday. July 22 md , and Fendon was chngen as the tower to vixit in Anguat.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A DEIPUTY RENGENG MASTER APPOENTED

The summer quarterly meeting of the Eastern District of the York shiro Association was leld at listringtau ou Suturday, and was attended by over 30 ringers from Goole, Hemingbrougl, Hessle, Howden, Hull, Eirk Eila, Market Weighton, Nunburnholme, Pontefract, (St. Giles eald All saints'), Selby Abbey, Slierburu-in-Elmet, Thorne and the local company.
The Vicar (the Rev. H. Firby), who since coming to Eastrington sonig two years ago has taken up ripging, conducted a short service in charch and gave a most interesting address and also presided at the business meeting.
lefter was receved from Mr. If: C. Wahers pxpecssing his wish o resign from the position of Ringing Waster, but it was decilided, fter a discussion, to ask him to remain in office, and Mr. E. Bradeg, after a discussion, to ask hime to remain in office, and Mr. E. Bradiey of Šherburn-in-Elmet, was elected as Deputy Ringing Master.
in invitation to lold the September meeting at Pocklington was reseived fron the Vicar of Pocklington, who is also Rector of Numburnholme, and both these rings of belis will be at the disposil of the association.-This was unanimously accopted.
3Ir. Cryer, the vice-president, thanked the meeting for the letter of congratulation sent to hin on lim Botls birthder, snd expressed the hope he would be with them for a long time to come. He was plensed to say he was once again in his usual gooed heaith,

Those present learned with regret of the deaths of Mr. A. Hatfield. Heminghrough, after a long illness, and of Mr. W. Midaleton, of Beverley, A former Ringing daster of the Easlern District, and : ringer int Boverleg Minster for a number of years. The membtlers stood in silence to their memory, and the secretary undertook to write to the relatives.
Fotes of thanis to the Yicar, organist, local company and the ladies who served ten were passed, and in his reply the Vicar welcomed the association to Fastrimgton, while Mr. W. Y. Haine, the local setretary, said how plensed they were at liaving such a good company present on such a wet day.
WESTERN DIVISION AND THE 'OVERCROWDING' PROBLTMM. The members of the Western Division of the Yorkshire Association ha di a very enfoynble cubing on Saturday, June 24h, when they beld their summer neeting at the Church of Holy Trinity, Skipton. UpWards of 50 members were present during the day and a pleassing were represented.
The bells, which are a fine peal of eight with a tovely tone, were raised ahous 2 o'clock, and, excepting for a brief interval for tize tea and meeting, were rung in a variety of methods until finally lowered a hout $8.40 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.
Tea was served in the Castle Cafe, opposite the churcl, so that no time was lust in attending to this most essential part of the proceedings, and the 36 who sat fown were amply repaill for their aiternoon's efforts in enteling those elusive 'Sallies.'
The business meeting was lield in the clurch vestry and was exceptionally well athended, Mr. P. J. Jolnson occupy ing the chair, supported by the association's president (Camon C. C. Marshali). One new member. Mr. Donald Fowler, of Silsden, wns elected.

As no invitations had been received for the September meethat it Bradford district, as it was a considerable time since the association had been there. Mr. Barton thercupon proposed and Mr. Lofthouse seconded that arrangements be made with a view to taking the meetfog to Shipley if at all possible. It was further lroped to make this a joint meeting with the Leeds and District Society, es September is $\pi$ month when almost every Saturday is taken up with meetings, and this would, to a cortain exteat, assist the overcorwding problem.

In moving a hearty rote of thanks to the Rector and wardens for so kindly granting the use of the bells, and to the locel company for making such splendid arrangements for the meeting, Canon Marshall spoke of their very great pleasure in heing allowed to bave the meeting there He whs sure evergone had thoroughly enjoyed themselves and they really apprecisted all that had been done for their comfort. He expressed his regret at the aissence of the Bector, who, he was sorry to hear, was about to enter the Leeds Infmary, abd was sure ereryone present would wish him a speedy recovery. He suggested that a message of good wishes he sent to him from the mesting.-Mr. §. F. Harver seconded this proposition, which was cordielly carried.
Mr. H. Stanforth replief for the Local company. nnd eaid how pleased they were to see so many present and hoped that everyone would thoroughly enjoy themselves. They would be only too pleased to do tha game again whenever the association could visit them.
The chairman was pleased to amnounce that another record bad been made in the division-instead of failing to sent in the names for tea. Which was s usual ringers' habit that day 37 had sent in Eqr tea and 36 had sat down. He could see that lis words at previous meetings liad borne fruit, and he hoped it would be maintained.
This concluded the bugisess and the hanabells appeared and were greatly enjosed.
The towers represerted during the day were as follows: Adidingham, Armley, Bradford Cathedral, Burley, Denholme Guiseley, Hoadinaley ISt. Chad's and St. Michael'sl. Huddersficld, Idle, Kildwictr Inkley. Keighlep. Leens Parth Church, Pudsey, Queenebury, Rothwell, Shipton, Silsden, Ripon and the loca! compans.

THE ROUNDABOUT

AN ORDER AND WHAT CAME OF IT.
A few days ago a ringer, or ringers, in Derbyshire, required a eopy of two method shects and the 'Colection of Minor Methods,' pubilished by the Ceutral Council. The crder was placed with the local Co-aperaHive Society, who passed jt ous to Messrs. W. H. Smitin and Son, who sent it to 'The Ringing World, who forwarted it to the Council's Fibrarian. The librarian sent the publications ta the Co-pperative Society. who hasded them to the customer. The librarian bad also to send an account to Messrs. Smita and Son, who seat an account to the Co-operative Society, who, in tarin, charged the customer. The customer paid the Co-qperative Society, the Co-operative Society sent a remittance to Messrs. Smith and Son, less distount M Messrs. Smith end Son sent a remittance ta the fibrarian, less a larger discount. The librarian sent at reeeipt to Messrs. Smith and Son, and Messrs. Smith and Son bent a receipt to the Co-operative Society. Happily 'The Ringing World 'kept itself out of all these subsequent transactions, but it might well have Leen included in the circumlocution. By the time postages and discomits lad been taken out of the cost of the purcliase, the transaction was not a very profitable one.
We raention all this in the hope that ringers, when they require any of the Council's publications, whll forward their order and remittance direct to the librarian, whose address is given in the advertisement in our columns, frow whichs the costomer in this case must bave taken particulare. Tt was perhaps, thoughtlesaness which led to this particular orcter being placed in this way, and the customer could laraly have realised the amount of clerical work involved, for, in addition to sending to and fro, there has been hook-keeping to do at every stage. Aht the gross amount of the order whas about 2s. 6d.! Verb sap.

RETIREMENT OF SUPERINTENDENT WILLIAMS

MANCHESTER PEAL AND PRESENTATION,

Following the ringing of the peal of Granesire Cinques at the Town Fall, Manchester, on July 1st, in homonr of the retirement of Supt. F. L. Witliams (who is a vice-president of the National Poife Guild), the band. with many of his ringing friends in the district, were entertained to tea by Mr. Willians. Aitogether 32 sat down, but it shonld he mentioned that cups and saucers were not used on this During the evening P.C. W. Pye called upon Mr. F. Page (a pnst menaber of the Forcel to make a presentation to Mr. Wialiams. This took the form of a solid silver inkstand, fo the shape of a bell, and a fountain pen.
ML. Wrillians thenked the police rimers for their present and said he was prepared during liis leisure time to give what assistance he could to the Police Guild and the Lancashire Association.
A very enjoyable social evening was spent and some excelient touches of various methods on handhells were much appreciated.
Mr. Waller Wolstencroft, in tharking Mr. Willinms on belalf of the visitors, said how delighted they were that the peal had been successful. Many of them had heard different partg of the ringing that affernoon and mll agreed that a good peal had been rung and they looked upos it as a defnite advancement ly the Town Hall band.
On Simdry, visits were made to Christ Church, Didsbury, and St. George's. Heaviley, Stockport, enabling Mr. Fred Page to again meet some of his old acquaintances prior to his return to Lanciug, Sussex.

WEDDING OF TWO CORNISH RINGERS

REV. A. S. ROBERTS AND MISS JESSIE ANGWIN

The weiding of two well-knowe Cornish riygers took place on Saturday. July 1st, when Miss E. Jensie C. Angwin was married to the Rev. A. S. Troberts, now curate at St. Aldhelm, Opper Edmonton. The marriage took place at Truro Cathedral, nad the ceremony was performed by the Vemerablo the Archideacon of Cornwall (Canon G. W. Hocklev1, assisted by the Rev. H. M. Boswell (Ficar of St, Aldhelm's, Eamonton). A Nuptial Mass followed, the celebrant heing the SubDean of the Catliedral (Cabon H. W. Sedgwick).
The bride was attended by two page boys, two bridesmaids, the Misses Srlvia Jemiu and Mry Grix, and ewo matrons of honour, Mrs. N. E. Pearose and Mrs. S. Rells, her sisters. Mr. F. M. Roberts, hrother of the bridegroom, acted as best man, and Messra. Cyril E. Lanson and B. Becherley were ushers. Mr. Guillaume Ormond, the Cathedral organist, was at the organ. After the ceremony the Cathedral bells were rucg by members of the Cathedral company. On the previous Tuesday evening, after the usual Cathedral practice, the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella presented the bride and bridegroom with a fireside chair on behalf of the company. The bride lase been a member of the company for many years, and the bridegroom, before leaving Cormwall, was for many years secretary and for a While Master of the company, as well as being district secretary of the Truro Branch of the Truro Diocesan Guila for ten jears. and during that time both were actively interested in belis and ringing throughout the county of Cornwall.
The honeymoon is being spent at Hereford, Liverpool, the Tsle of Min and Chester, and the future address of Mr. and Mrs. Roberta will he 40 . Haselhusy Road, Edmonton. London, N. 18 .

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

VLSIT TO MILTON ABBEY.
A meeting of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Dionesari Guild was held at Milton Abbey on Seturduy, June 17tit, and the large number who attended from far and wide was evidence of the continued popularity which this beatiful place holds; many companies making the meeting the occasion of their summer outing. The writer travelled down with the Weymouth party, and on the way a halt was mede to enable them to ring on the six bells at Puddetowu. Milton Abbey and the Abbey House are beantifully siturted in a valley, and the parks and woods of the estate extend to aver 5,000 acres The Abbey itself stands on tha site of an earlier abber. which wes founded in 938, bud was struck by lightning and burnt down in 1309. Close by stands the Abbey House, built about I771, where the Rev. John Maillard is now carrsing aut his wonderful work of spiritual healing.
The service in the Abbey was attended by over eighty ringers [riends and visitors, and was conducted by the Vicar, the Rer. C. J. Collis, who also gave the address. The Rev. A. W. Harkby, cluniman of the branch, assisted at the service and read the lesson.
In the course of his address, Mr . Collis spoke of the privilege which riagers liad in transmiditeg the joyfuliness of Christianity to the world through the joyful pealing of the bells fram the church towers of Tingland. He had heard many fino bells on the Continent, but the method of ringing them could not be compared with the benutiful and peculiarly English methad. He losed the sound of the bells himself and could never undergtand how it was that ap and down the nountry there wera bells which remain untuag because their ringers were difalory in turning up themselves to ring for Sunday services, There was a tower, he said, not 100 miles from Miltom, where the ringers practised every week, but could aniy riag onco a month fo Sunday service.

Thea was taken in the gardons of a mearly cafe and 76 gat down The towers represented included Bere Regis, Bradford Peperell, Dor whester (St. Petcr's), Milton Abbey, Sfratton. Mainen Newton, Syding (St. Nicholes'), Epwey and Wyke Regis from the Derchester Tranch Lartchett Matravers and Poole from the Wjmborne Branch: and Fillingham, Mere and Zeals from the North Dorset Branch. Fisitors i=1 tended from Portsmouth. Wincrnton, Devizes, Coventry and a parts of sbudents from the treiniag college at Execter.
Immediately after tra votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar of Milton Ablas for the use of the Albley gnd for conducling the service to the organist and to Mr. North, the captain of the locil hand. The Wiear suitably roplied and invited those who wished to view St Cratberine's Chapel, and mary nvailed themselves of this opportumity "He chapel, which stands by the woods at the top of a bill, was built by King Atholstan, who also founded the Abhey.

Tha Wermoutls party started on its homeward journey soou after wards, and returned to the bus laden with samples of wild flowers and wild strawherries. A stop was made at Hilton, where there is an exceilent ring of six. Four landloett enthusiasts made good use of a peal ther found there, and touches and courseg of Grandsice. Stedman and Plain Bob were rung. The hour spent at this beatiful willag whs all too short, but time was slipping by, and so the party once more raluctantly went on its way.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION

PROPOSAL TO APPOINT A RINGING MASTER
Only a small number came to Tuafori ou Jufy 8 th for the meeting of the North Notts Association and to ring the fine peal of sis at this tower. The bells are rather moigy outside. as the louvres are not shuttered, but from the ringing cltamber, which is on the rround floer, the peal has a mellow and much more subdued tone, while the "go" of the bells is very good. During the afternoon and evening the usual range of methods was rung, and, in addition, Londol Surprise, Oswald, spliced Oxford Bob, Single Court and Bob Minor Orjpinal, Hartington Alliance, Crayford Lsttle Court and a method twelieved to have been rung for the first time, cailed by its composer Double Little Bob.

At the business meeting it was proposed that the method of adver lising meotings be altered, and the becretary was instructed to rircularise all towem with detnils; jt was also proposed that a Ringiny Master should be elected. This office has never pxisied in the association, as an old rule that the committee representative of the tomer vjsited be in charge of ringing lias aot been reecinded. Phe propesat will ro before the mext atinual meeting.
Ringing continued after tea until 7.30 , when the lowermg of the hells brought an enjoyable day's ringing to an end.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, tno-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

OXFORD GUILD'S FESTIVAL.

The Oxford Diocesan Guild is one of the few ringing associations which now devotes a whole day to its annual festival. At one time a number of the larger associations used to make the occasion of their annual gathering a fuil day's holiday, but times have changed and with them the practice of the ringing organisations, which now mostly content themselves with a half day event, when they meet to transact their annual business. It is, therefore, all the more interesting to find the Oxford Guild maintaining its custom of devoting the day to its festival. The gathering last Saturday was by no means a record for the Guild and, indeed, out of a membership of over two thousand ringing and honorary members, could not be said to be a large one, but there is something about these festivals in Oxford which is seldom to be found elsewhere, and which the Oxford Guild itself would probably lose if it met at some other centre, more modern and industrial, in the widespread diocese. Every year an effort is made to induce the Guild to break its well-established custom, and to set a precedent by which each of the three counties included in the diocese might be visited in turn; but every time the motion is brought forward it is rejected by a substantial majority. In a big area such as this is-an area, too, in which the means of communication between one side and the other are not altogether good, there is a great deal to be said for the argument of those who claim that the festival should be moved. There is a feeling that a certain proportion of members are perpetually debarred by distance from taking part in the annual meeting and thus are unable to have any share in the ultimate government of the Guild, and, in this way, lose some of the interest in it which they might otherwise have. This handicap would be a substantial one under different circumstances, but in the Oxford Guild the real management of affairs is carried out through the Districts. That the Guild itself does not suffer seems to be borne out by the fact that it maintains its numerical strength at such a high level. At any rate, it has not suffered yet through meeting annually in its cathedral city, and if there were any really serious feeling on this point it would doubtless have shown itself in the District meetings or through the very representative General Committee of some sixty members which guides its affairs.

In the facilities which are offered to the members for their festival, the Guild is probably unique. Apart from the numerous peals of bells which are available for their use-and few cities have so many as Oxford in comparison with its size - the Guild's service is held in the Cathedral, and its luncheon in one of the finest and most fam(Continged on page 458.)

ous dining hails in the country. These are no mean privileges and the most surprising thing to us is that the members do not take advantage of the festival in larger numbers. With the easy means of road transport which is now so readily obtainable the wonder is that the ringers of the diocese do not organise a great pilgrimage to the mother city every year for this occasion. There are probably hundreds of members who have never been to Oxford and those who come into this category lave missed one of the expersences of a life time, an experience which thousands of visitors from other lands do not fail to include, whatever else they miss, when they come to this country. The fault, if fault there be, in keeping the Oxford Guild festival in Oxford is not that the Guild does not go to other centres, but that the members do not go to Oxford in larger numbers. It is they who are the losers.

THE FITTH GENERATION.

A peal of some local iuterest was ruug at Zonthover, Lewes, Sussex, on Iuly 12th. Tt celebrated the birth (on Shefleld) of the first grandson of Mr. J, S. Goldsaith, whose family las been conyected with the parish for mare ilian 200 years.
Some well-known ringers took part. in this peal of Biedman Catess, which was called by the baby's grundfather, and it is interesting to note that in the sane tower 70 years ago the chilu's great-grandiaiher and great-great-grabdiather raug together in a peal of Graudsire Triples.

After the peal last weck the ringers and a Iew friends were entertained by Mrr. J. S. Goldsmith at the Kigg's Head, scene of many happy ringers gatherings, and the baby's health was duly "toasted, Mr. Goldsmith also thanked his iriends for having helped in the celebration. Tlsey cane frow Birningham, Derby, Brighton, Guildford, Haslensere and Crawley.
The composilian of the peal, one hy Mr. J. W. Parker, is an unusual one. It has tho bells turued every four courses and no $\sqrt{\text { axed }}$ 2ud's place bell.
Mr. Frank Bennett scotod lis 1,499th peal on this oceasion-less than s week after his old friemd, Mr. George Willianas, had reached a similar total-and by a coincidence it was 20 years to the very day since Mr. W. J. Robition rang his first and ouly previous peal in the tower.
Tlie name of Pitstow has long leen a familiar and honoured one in the Fixercise, sud on July Ilth a mixed band, largely consisting of well-howu ringets, Tang a pal of Stedman Cinques at Safron Walden 25 years las bean the treasucer of the local society and was tormerly hon, secretary of the Essex Association. The ceremony took place st New Southrate on July Bth, and the bride was Miss Marjorie Parker. Mr. C. T. Coles, who called the peal, served with Mr. Pitstow at Sulonice duriag the Great War.

The members of the new band at St. Giles Clureh, Lincoln (whinh contains the ring which for so long lung in the tower of St. Peter-it-arehes in the city), rany at Scothorue, on Juiy 12th. 5,040 of Grand-
 M. E. Ward. It was the first peaj attempt by four of the band and the first peal of Gramisire Doubles by the other two, though finedentally one of tyem lad taken part in the spliced peal of 102 methods-whint probnbly was good practice for this peal. It was also hirthday compliment to Mr . S. A. Chambers, who rasg the fourth. One of the uew Militiamen, Mr. Gearge Habbins, took part in a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Burton-onStather, Lincolishite, on Jnly loth, before joining up et Birlzenhead. It was rang to celehrate his 21st birthday.
The first Surprise peal at Brighouse, Yorkshize. rung on Saturday, brought grent credit to Mr. Alired Smidh, wio ralig the second. His only ןrevous peal had been ane of Bob Major, to which he ragg the treble, and the Superlative was rung at the first attempt. The peal was arranged for Mr. Frank Farty, of Wallascy, Cheshive.
The pead of Eent Treble Bob Major at Whitde-le-Woods, Lancashire, on Jtily $9 t h$, was rung as a welcome to the new Vicar, the Rev. M. Garner, who had been indncted to the living four days previously. On the conclusion of the peal Mr. Garnex cane up into the belfry and compratulated the band.
Nime men turned up for the attempt, and the band appreciated the kindly achion of Mr. E. Ramshothom, one of the local company, who gtood down to enable Mr. Waimsley, of Dayland, to ring his first peal on eight bells. It was nlso a birthday compliment to 4 . F . W, Ctarkson, of Goesnargh.
The delight ful spot of Frazelbeech in Northamptonshire was visited by members from Leieester and Finakley districts of the Midlasa Counties Ascociation on Sunday, July 9th.

Athough no methed hed been decided upon, a really good heat was soon erident in the ettempt for Double Norwich and which finally proved to be the commencement of a reslip good peal. Congraterations to Mr. Willianas, who previously had not rung oven a short tions to Mr. Williams, wh tomel of Double Norwiohn.
The two tenor men in the peal, one of whiss sas our conductor, in apparentl overexerted themselves in turning in their bells, find it wras not $11 u t i l$ hotli had pertaken of 'cups of tea' that their emeray was restered. The peal was specially arranged to enabe Mr. Frank E. Mensures to score his soth peal and was also a birthday compliment to Mr. A. Ballard, sen.
Some of the Hertiferdbire enthusiasts had a good end-of-the-week last week. Thuraday, a peal of Bristol Surprise at Busher; Friday, a peal of Bristol Surprise oul handbells at Oxhev; Saturday, a peal of Tring. Surprise, a new method, at Tring. And they take it all in their stride.
The peal of Bristoi Surprise at Bushey on July 13 th was the 300 th peal hy Marice F. R. Hibbert. The peals liave been rung in 7 different methods or extensions of methods, which is believed to be a creater number, sung as separate peals, than by any other ringer.

The peals have heen rang in 66 towers, with 358 different ringers and an 215 dates of the year. No fewer than 125 of these peals heve heen ruag at, Fushey, and Mr. Hibhert has "completed the circle" there af least nine times, including at least three times in different Surprise Major methods. Thie pests at Bushey have included 38 different methods of Triples and slajor, and 65 peals have bem wh 7th or thenor, Thurtcen-vear-olds genen to be coming to the fore. Wore peals are recorded ths week in which youths of this age bave taken part. On Saturday, at Abhrighton, Salop. Norman Hadley rang his first peal at the firct attempt, and at Weekiey, Northants, Raymond Idle rang his first peal of Minor. He raug an inside" bell to a three-guthod peal.

Che young St. Peter's Society at Burnham, Bucks, are gradually maturing. Bryan O'Neill, who his only just passed his 18th birthday, is the secoud member of the cociety 1 o conduct a 1 teal of Majar this year, whem on Saturday lie raug in a peal at Burnham. Except For Messrs. Henley and Weiling, all the ringers are mentiers of St. Peter's Society

In connection with tho dedication festival of St. Stephens, Ealing, and the anmul garden fete, the first peal of Double Norwicla Major on the bells of St. Stephen's was rung on Saturday week.
What is believed to be the first Oddfellows' peal in the West of Fingland was rung on July 10 th at Ottery st. Mary by a band of the Gaile of Devonslire Ringers. The method was Grandsire Triplos and the conductor Past Grard Siaster Charles R. Lilley, who galled Holt's Tan-part, which was once the most rung of any romposition, but of late years lias heen largely superseded by J. J. Parker's Twelvepart.
Ronald Steward rang his 50 th peal on July 9th, when he took part in four Minor mebliods at Sprouglaton, suftolk. By a caincidence it was also his 2sth peal with the conducter, Mr. A. R. Andrews.

FAREWJEL TO FATE.

A hatabell pesi of Bob Major wes rung at Surfleet on July $9 \mathrm{tl}_{1}$ as farewell to "Kate,' who abuut seven yeara ago set many, a bachelor"s heart allutter, She had heell rusticatitg ut the Lincolnchire Ringers' Rest Home and was taking her departure ou the following day. Was it more than a coincidence that one of the ringers of that leap year peal of 1932 happened also to be skaying in the neighbourliond?
The first peal of Winot on the bels at New Radnor, Radnershire, was ruug on Tuly 8th. The bells were augmented to six by dinsers. Gillett 中nal Johnsion at Taster, 1938.
Edwin $A$. Baruett, at 20 vears of age, rang his $350 t h$ peal last Saturday. when he took partin a peal of St. Clament's Boly Major at Goulihurst, Kent.
At the same time Mr. Stafford F. Green, of Southbaraugh, rang his 200th pail, 94 of thent haviug bees with Mr. Fred White, of Cranbroole. They have heen rung in 93 towera in 20 counties, for 24 aeso-aintions, bad, of the total, dit. Green has conducted 38 . The 200 molide a great warietay af wiethods on mom six to twelve bels, including no fewer than five methods of Maximus, hut, curiously encugh, bot a single peal of Grandsire Triples. That is a pleasure st-th to come. A hirthday peal in five Doubles meihods was rung on Suaday, June 1Itll, for Misg Pegg, Marsh, Who wiss 14 years of age two days previously. None of the hand, except the conductor (Mr. Wै. C.
Shute), liad previously rung a peal in arore than one method. The peal was rung at. St. Mary's, Lyteliett Matravers, Dorset.
Derel Sharp, of Crsyford, called a penl of Graudsire Caters on the light ring of ten at Cudham, Kent, on Saturday, and thus completed peals of Grandsire from Donbles to Cingues on tower bells. The peal was alst hirthday complimeni, to Riclserd Wilson. who rang his first peal on ten bellg. "It. whe Misa Mary Rawlings' first peal of crandsire and Robert, Collius' first pea? in the methad 'inside:' ns well as the first peal of Caters by hoth of them.
Another peal as a birthday eompiment to Tom Miller was rulge at Edghation on Satitrday weel.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

SOUTH AND WEST DISTRICT REVISTT ACTON.

An enjoyable istrict meetirg was held at Acton on Saturday, at the invitation of the Rector, the Rep. Perceval Goush. $A$ short service was conducted by the Rector, who gave tho members a bearty welcome. Ho referred to the remark of a speaker at an earlies meeting rather surprised him. But, hes said, lye raalised that this should ho true of all work for the Church. There shauld be bappiness, joy and enthusiasm for religious work, es well as for the ordiaizy forims of sport, and it was wrong to repard religion only as gad and scrious Ringing for God shouid he a thing of 10y. He ended by expressing his gratitude to those who ring the bells of the Charch and hoped that their service to God would long continue.
Tho weather cemmining fine, ten was served in the Rectory gardan to a company of 37. The assistant eceretary (Mr. W. G. Wilson) apologised for the unavoidable absence of the vice-president. (Mr. J. A. Trollapo), the geveral secretary (Mr, Q. T. Coles) and the district secretary (Mr. J. E. L. Cockes).
Mr. W. F. Coles proposed a cordial vote of thapks to the Rector for his invitation to Acton, for conducting elle service, for providing ans excellent tea and for the nse of his lovely garden, to Mr. Fddowes who played the organ, to Mr. Fruin (werger) and to the ladies who served tea, The Rector replied assuring the members of $\Omega$ welcome to Actoul at any time.

Handbell inging on the fine bells brought by Mr. O. W. Taylor, of Watiord. clock goll and $\overrightarrow{\text { arts }}$ on the lawn proved such an attraction that mary members did not gat back to the tower for ringing, hut thoge whe did had goan practice on the handy ring of eight.

A SUCCESSFUL VILLAGE MEETING.

GULDPORD AND LADIES' GULDS AT SHERE.

Shore is reputed to be the prettiest village in England. No doubt this is a debatable point and will be disputed by many, but the sumn weather of a recent Saturday certainly gave the linishing touch to an ideal setting for the combined meeting of the Southeru Distrier of the Ladies' Guild and the Guildford District of the Guildforil Diocesan Gunli.
An attendance of 50 included the Guildiord Guild Master (Mnjor J. H. B. Hesse), the general secretary of the Guildford Guid (i《r. G. L. Grover) and the Farnham Districh secretary (Mr. C. W. Denyer). The Rev. Sir Payet Bowman, the Recter of Shere, was away or holiday, but had left messages of welcome, and regret that he was unabie to bo present.
The curate of Shere, the Rev. J. E. Penney, kindly condacted the fully choral service, and gave an: exceptionally interesting address. It was, hes shid, remarkable that the troubled times through which we were passing had in one respect revived one of the most ancient uses of bells. Caden Elliotit and the Rev. Pat MeCormick had formed a Leegue of Prayer, and wherever possible liad arranged for a sanotus bell to be rung at a cortain hour oí the day, calling people to spare a few moments to pray for peace.
The Rev. Penney presided at the Guildford District meeting. Messry. R. Badcock, E. Inwood, J. Lancaster, G. Morrey, J. Newman and M. Whitty, all of Shere, were, amid applnuse, elected ringing merstiers of the Guikd.
The district secretay (Mr. W. F. J. Cope) expressed thenks to the general secretary for the way in which he was assisting the local hand. Mr. C. M. Martin, of Bramley, had also been busy again, and as a result of bis efforts the Misses G. and M. Hunt, Mirs. C. M. Martin and W. Spreckiey were elected honorary members.
The meeting clospd with en expression of thanks from the Master.
A variety of methods were ruyg during the afternoon and evening, but the local hand were not neglected and toucles of Grundsire Triples gave them opportunity for advancement.
Mrs. Cape presided at the annual husipess meeting of the Ladies' Guifin, at which the vice-president (Mrs. Bruce) was re-elected, and the hont secretary (Miss E. F. Mills) agreed to carry on fer one more year. The committee was also re-elected.
Mrs. Oldroye was welcomed from the Northern District.
It whs proposed to hold the next meeting at Ewlurst on September 30th.
The members present were rery sorry to hear of the recent deatlo of Miss Fisher, of Dorking, one of the first members of the Southern Distriet

UNIQUE GATHERING AT SEMPRINGHAM ABBEY.

I.HNCOLNSHIRE RINGERS' MEETING.

A guatmerty meeting of the Southent Branulit of the Lincoln Diveotan Guitd was lieide at Seupringluam Abley. The church, which stands in the fields practically a nile from anywbere, dates back to 1128 A. D. when thers was thers in village of Sempringhan. It is interesting to note tluat the first person zo hold this living was 'Saint Gilbert' of Sempringham tia the year 1129. It was he who catablished the first order in this country and also build the flrst. Priory and school in an order in this country and also huit the first Priory und schoi in an is proceediag in this vicinity and the remains of the foundations can be clearly seen of the ancient priory. The old Abbey. Church of today is in wonderful preservetion, the chief characteristies of its architecture lieing pure Norman, with some parts of the Perpendicular period. The fine tower, some 60ft. high, now luas a musibal penl of pix beils. Origically there was a peal of three belle, the treble and 2nd beils being pre-Heformation. These have heen preserved, and yow form the 5th and benor in the new peal. In 1931 Messrs. Bewell, of Ipswich, were entrusted with the work of restoration, which consisted of recsating the tenor and making the peal inis four belle. These were rehung in a new iron frame and provision made for six bells at I future date. November of last year saw the crownidg point by the addition of two more trebles, the tenor being 8 twt. (approx.). This was mada possihle by the late Rector of Sempringham, who gave the 2nd bell. while the treble bell was provided by public subscriptions-
Despite inclement weather ors Saturday, July 8t1, quite a large ghthering nitended the meeting, and about 30 ringers were present from Lincoln, Peterborough, Southall, Itourne, Market Deeping, Glinton, Mortan, Biellinghorough, Folkingham, Hough, Edmonthorpe, Branston and Pointon. The Rector, ble Rev. G. L. Pilkington, kindly put tha bells at the ringers' disposal duriug the afternoom and evening, and these were kept going to a variety of touches.
A slorta service was leld, conducted hy the Rector, who gave a brief outline of the history of the Abliey.
Tea was hold at the achool at Pointon, the adjoining village, and 22 sat down. At the business meeting which followed the Rev. G. L. Pilkington was elected an hon. member of the Southern Branch. Mr. J. T. Ralt, the tower captain, was eleuted a ringing member, as was also Mr. S. R. Wisson, of Bitling borough.
It was decided to hold the mext quarterly meeting at Thurlby, and the business concluded with a henrty yote of thanks accoruied to the Hector for the uso of the bells and the service, nnd also for the excellent tea provided free. Thanks were also grassed to Mr. E Marriotf for presidiag at the organ and to Mr. J. T. Rolt.
The tower was then again wisited and further ringing continued mutil 9 p.m.

Will ringers piease zote thet the Jasper Whitfield Snowden aunual commemoration dinaer is fixed to take place at York ou Saturdey, October 14th. Fuli particulars in later issues of 'The Ringing World.
The Rev. G. T. Perry, curate at St. Giles', Millanhall, who welcumed Mr. Frank Beanet's party while on their peal ringing wour last year, is to be anducted to bhe living of New Mils, Derbyshire, next Friday. Both the Rev. G. T. Perry and Mrs. Perry have taiten up ringing since last August, but owing to nany activities have so far not progressed beyand rounds. At New Mils, however, they should have turther opportunities, as there are bells in this parish, with which the late Rev. A. T. Beeston was formerly associated.
One of the towers open at the Oxford meeting last Saturdey was Iffley where the church is famous for ith Norman architecture. In 1734 Benjamin Annable and his band of College Youths, after their unsuccessful attempt for a peal of Graudsire Caters at New College, dined "at Weer's bevond Frier Bacon's Study and some (if not all) of them stepping over to Iffley they rang the six beila there iviz., 700 changes upon them).' On Saturday a band after ringing, mora or less successfully, a course of Cambridye Royal at New College, went over to Ifley and rang upon the six bells there
Mr. William Saunders, leader of the Coalbrookdale (Salop) band, is collecting cigarette cards for the beaefit of the Hospital for sick Children, Great Ormonde Street, London. Cards from all brands of cigarettes are induded and we understand that the hospital exchanges them at the rate of 2s. 6d. per thousand. Already Mr. Saunders nas sent 21,000 cards to the hospital, which is asking for more, Ringere who rish to help the scheme should forward cards to Mr. Saundece at Institution House, Coalbrookdiale.
A recomonendation that evening selool pupils should be taught eampanology is to be brought before the London County Council.

THE ACTIVITIES OF 'MR. GREEN.'

To the Editor.

Sir. It will he of interest to your readers thet this gentleman still parsues bis profitable course through the country and has recently been operating in Brightou
There is now a slight variation in the story, for he has appeared as Thomas White, giving the address, 2, Church Road, Astlee, Hants. Evidently during the course of his travels he has colfected some striking sales talk and uses, quite without authoritr, of course, the ammes of Mr. George Williams and Mr. A. D. Stone.
Presumably Astlee is a corruption of Eagtleigh, to which place be is supposed to be going. Particulars as to appearance ate as followa: Age 60-65, height 5ft, $4 \mathrm{in}_{, 1}$ rohust build, weariug a black overcoat. Only risible teeth ere two prominent eye teeth. Fresh complexion.
I have obtained a specimen of White's writing, which he gave an receipt for a 'subscription' he abtained, and this would be avaslable if proceedings are ever taken.

"DOUBLE LTTTLE BOB.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir.- I read in the North Notts Association report of the Tuxford meeting of a new method, Double Little Bob, being rung.
Since there are at present ouly four Little and two Very Litile methods. it would be interesting to know more of this.
I wonder if the method can be spliced with an Alliance or Special Alliance method to produce an extent. If not, then can it claim to be one?

FERNON TAYLOR.
Melton Mowbray.
[Wlat is called Double Little Bob is, we believe, the same as Dart ford Little Eob, which mas rung some years ago in Kent. It is an unsymmetrical method and not a regular one according to the accepted standards. We doubt if it can be of any value for sqnicing.-Edmor, "Ringing World.]

'THE ROUNDABOUT.

To the editor.
Dear Sir,-One read with no littie diagust of the s dividend hunters" of Derbyshire, whito caused so much trouble by saring themselves the expense of the poundage on a postal order and a three-halfpenay stamp. ## A ROYAL VISIT.

In Honory of the visit of F.R.F. the Duchess of Gloucester to Beckenham to open the new hospital buildings on Tuesday, July 11th, the ringers of St. George's Parish Church rang touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Boly Major. Mr. Tom Groombridge (District Einging Master) and frieads assisted, and Mr. W. Martin, aged 80 Fears, subcessfults rang a 504 of Stedmans. In the erening a quarterpeal of Grandsire Triples was rung by John Collins (first quarter-peal) 1, D. Brown 2 Mary Raflings (first quarter-peal inside ${ }^{2}$ ) 3. B. J. Barrett 4, G. E. Rewlings 5, G. Fogden 6, W. J. Rawling (first quarter-peal as conductor) $7, \mathrm{C}$. Anstin 8. All are Eunday service ringers at Beckenbam.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL.

Fres Mambership for Infirm Ringars.

The festival of the Oxford Diocesan Guild drew ringers from the threa eounties of Oxford, Berks and Bucks to Oxford on Saturday, aud, despite showery weather, ad enjoyable day was spent, with a reunion of friends, a stirring service in the Cathedral, lunch in the glorious Dining Hall of Christ Church, end ringing in many of the towers for which Oxford is famous. Even the necessury business meeting was a pleasant incident in the day's proceedings, and the overwhelming defeat of the aunual attempt to move the festival away from Oxford once more sinowed that the members look upon the city as the home of their Guild, to which they delight to return year by year.

The Master (Canon G. F. Coleridge) conducted the service, and the preaciner was the Rev. J. J. E. OMalley, Rector of Sandiurst. There was evidence in the hearty singing that many of the ringers present are choristers at their own clrurches.

About a liandred members attended the business meeting, held is the Clapter House. The Master presided, supported by the Rev. J. J. E. O'Malley, the Deputy Master (the Rev. C. E. Wigg), the hon. ireasurer (Mr. A. D. Barker) and the general secretary (Mr. R. T. Hithbert). Letters of apology were received from Bislop Allen, Ganon ■. J. and Miss Norris, and M. J. W. Wilkins (High Wycombe). The last named wrote that he still shared the opinion that the other two counties (Berks and Bucks) slould alternately be chosen for the annual festival. It would make the reunion more real, and probably give many more members the opportanity to attend who could not visit Oxford.

SAMSTAOTORE POSITION OL THE GUILD.

In the coursa of his report tinc giaster said lie had good reason to believe tha Guild was holding its own in all ways. He could only wish that the services of qualified instructors were more generally sought, especialls in the case of those bands who, having learnt a little, made little or no further effort to advance in the art.

The Deputy Master reported that stendy and conscientious work was being maintained in most of the towers. One part of the Guild's activities which was usually overlooked in the officers' reports, he said, was the number of unsuecessful peal attemphs. These of len indicated more real propress than the peals which were completed and published. since they were conmonly in new or difficult methods. For example, peals of Spliced Surprise Major by a resident band had bern very few in the history of the Guild. but the fact that quite a mumber of attempts to Fing such a peal bad been made during the past jear wns an indication of the progress which was being made in advanced methods of ringing amongsi the members. In conclusion, he offered a word of congratulation to all the memhers of the Guild, and they made up quite a large number. who had rung their first peal or their first in a new method during the year 1938.
The general secratary, in hie report, reforred to the keenness and good feeing which prerailed in all the branches, and said in most branches progress was being matie. The membership of the Guild renained approximately the same. The number was 2,377 ringing members (including 454 non-resident) and 205 honorsiry members. There were 235 towers in union. Seventy-six peals were rung during the year, amongst them being several Surprise methods and two or three 'non-conducted.' Several woung members scored their fird peal, which, to lim, was always very pleasing. He had given advice at Cholsey asto work necessary and had examined and passed finished work a Aston Tirrold, Stoke Poges, Kirtlington, Stanton Farcourt, Witney, Fariham Royal, Wroxton, Hanwell and Wantage. He expressed the thenks of the Guild to the branch secretaries for the excellent work put in. These offeers had in many cases difficult districts to work, but kept on doing all that was possible for men to do to make a success of things
The treasurer's gtatement of nccombte showed that 59417 s . 3d. was received from the branches and new non-resident mencbers, and s1 10s. 8d. from the sale of onnual reports. The balanee of for 18 . 11d. increased during the year to 99812 s . IOd. In the reserve fund Was e75 3 s . 8 d . The balance in the restoration fund, after expending $£ 453 \mathrm{~s}$. in prants, was 590 11s. 5 d .
The Fion. Treasurer, in his report, said that if assistance from the restoration fund was to be continued on the same large scale as last Year some new form of income would have to be found. The nnnual report continued to be a heavy drain on the funds, and members shoald give their immediate consideration to this matter.
The reporte, which had been printed, were received.

CANON COLFRDDGE RE-FLECTED MASTER.

On the election oif offcers, Canon Coleridge said he thought they had better appoint someone else as Master. He was getfing old, infirm and decrepit. and his parachial work made it nearly always impossible to attend meetings on Saturdays.

The Deputy Master said the question tefore them was, who aid ther want for Haster of that Guild? Did they want Camon Coleridge? The meeting said 'Yes' in unanimous chnrus, and Mr. Wigg, amid applause, declared Canon Coleriage re-elected.

Canon Coleridge thanked the members for their renewed confidence. He had the work of the Guild at heart, he saju, although he could not get to the branch meetinge as he would like to. Another diffeulty was that although le could get up into a tower, he was always afraid that, in abtempting to come down, they might liave to pick up a dead body (laughter)
The other officers were unamimously re-elected,
A trustee had to be appointed to fill the place of the late Dr. Joyce. The Master snid he could not possibly express their feelinge not oaly at the loss they had sustained as a Guild, luat 咕 what the peoplo of Reading liad lost. In addition to his medical services, Dr. Joyce was churchwarden at St, Mary's; he wook the lead in the tower and paid for the whole of the restoration of the bells himself. His death brought a very great loss to the Guild.

The Rev. B. Girling, of Brightwell (chairman of the North Berkshire Branch) was appointed to tire vacancy, and to fill the vacancy on the committeg caused by the death of Mr. G. Holifeld, sen, Mr. R. A. Post was elected, the Secretary pointing out, in conaection with this appointment, that Mr. Post. ought to be on the commititee, as he was one of the Guid s representatives on the Central council. if he doesmt know what the committee would Tike to do or propose to do. If he is on the committee he will be able to go to the Council knowing how much we grumble ahout the Council " (laugliter).

All the retiring members of the committee were re-elected.
The Executive Committee recommended that the festival should be held next year at Oxford, and this was proposed by Mr. W. Hithert, jun., and seconded by Miss $\nabla$. Eobinson
Mr W. Birmingham (Slough) proposed and the hon. treasurer seconded that the meeting ahould be held at Reading. On being put to the vote, Oxford was chosen by 47 wotes to 16 .
The committee recommeried that, a grant of 855 s. be given to the Coleshill balls restoration. the Fale of White Horse Brancla liaving already roted 82 2s.-The Hon. Secretary said the belis were a Gne littlo peal of six that bad been restored. There was a foung band of ringers making some progress, and he thought the grant would be a great belp
Mr T. Trollope suggested that, as there were no other grants to be made this year, the sum should be increased to 86 6s,, aud this was agreed to.
An application from Clolsey, which bad just been received, Fas deferred, with the jatimation that the Guild would help as far as it could.

RFTAINTNG OLD MCEMBERS.

Mr. W. J. Paice moved a recommendation of the Gemeral Committee in the following terms: "Any member, who because of advancing age or infirmity, has to discontinue his or her active ringing shall (on the recommendation of the tower foreman, and confirmation at the brauch annual meeting) continue his or her memberslip of the Guild without being called upon to pay any further subscription.'
He said in the parish in which he rang they had two old members who lad boen counceted with the church for over 50 years. They could not ring now, because they were old and more aften ill then well. They had tauflat he did not know how many ringers to ring, and, wher they could, they, now sat in their gardens and listened to the bells and they told him how much they enjoyed it. In the Sonning Deanery Brazch, of which he was secretary, he knew there were many similar cases. He received a letter only that week from an old ringer, who lived in an almshouse, saying, 'I enclose P.O. for 15. 6d. to pay my annual subscriplion to the Guid, which wise due last January. I want to carry ont ns long as I can, as I have been in it so long. My membership dates from 1881, but I am out of ringing now for good; my sciacica prevents me from getting up and down stairs. ${ }^{-1}$ That, gaid Mr. Paice, was an instance in his hranch; there must be many cases in the Guild similar to that which were known to members. He only wished that many of the yourg ringers of to-day would show the same lopalty and devotion to their tower and bells that these old ringers hed done in the past. Tley bad kept the bells going for Sunday services and had taught large number's to ring, but themselves were now unable to ring because they were infirm and many of them lnsd a struggle to pay the subscriptions, whinch they could ill afford. Some of them ceased entirely to pay because they were uaabie to do so. The Guild would lose riothing by passing the resolution, which simply meant that instead of these old ringers ceasing to be members, they would keep them hy printing their names in the annual report. If an old member hac the means and preferred to confinue to pay his subscription, there was nothing to prevent him from doing so.

Mr. H. Farmer, who secanded, said a man had little left out of an old age pensior with whiel to pay such things as subscriptions. By passing the resolution the Guild would not only keep their games on the books, but would keep the ringers as members of their organisation, and he added, "ther will stitl be one of us.

Mr. T. J. Fowler thought the resolution was too restricted. He thought it should extend to oll members who were still able to do a litfle ringing as well as to those who were debarred by old age and infirmity.

Mr. R. A. Post proposed that any member who reached the age of 65 should become a fife member of the Guild. This was a course which they followed in the Oxford Society.

CHESTERFIELD PARISH CHURCH BELLS  ARCHDEACON EXPLAINS POSITION

To the Edicor

Sir,-I see that several speakers at the Central Council meeting ins reported in your issue of July 7th, which has just been sent to me) are misinformed as to the matter of the Chesterfeld bells.
It has been my desire to have the bells reinstated for the lasi four years, but costly improvements continuously uarried out in the interion restoration and furnishing of lhis great church have delayed matters, and it has been necessary, also, to break down the opposition to the idea of restoring the bells. The late architect, Mr. Leslie Temple Moore expressed the view, ailter several tests, ihat it was unsafe for the bells to be rung, though it is true that lie said that, when the work of the restoration of the spire lud been completed, this judgment nught be recousidered. It is natural that, anter the expenditure several thousund pounds on a wark that had so little so show for at sonte infuential people opposed the iden.
never threatened that, 'if I could not get ringers, I would instituke gramophoue records. What I did say to the Church Council and to the parochial meeting was that it was very wrong for there to he a peal of ten bells unused year after year at a destral church liko this (except for the feoble chiming apparatus), and that either the bells should be put in order, or, if the wower were proved to the unstitable for ringing, that they should be given away to churches which could use them. I added that a "gynthetic" peal would be cidered that.

There are no ropas to the bells: the frames are, after seven or eight years of conplete disuse, probably in need of repair, the hells themselves are out of tume, and need either turning or recasting, and a set of ringers reeds training. All these things I bope, if spared, to have attended to in the near future. We have very considerable aldigntions at the Parish Clureh, and I have been trying to work Ancurding to plan with regari to the continuous improvement of the intorior. My predecessor accomplished the very costly work of ex lemal renovation. I have got so far as to obtain the goodwill of the Church Council to obtain the best opinion as to the stabilivy of the lower, and lave been in touch with different autharities abouh this. Yon cmities muth lindly exercise a little patience, and realise that it is not a simple case of climbing the belfry stairs and ringing a peal of Bob Ropal.

A. lengthy discnssion followed, in which the scheme put forwaril by Mr". Paice met with general approval, and cventuaty, aiter various alterations to enlarge its stope had been put forward, it was carried it its original form
Messre. H. A. Edwards and © . I. Gardiner were added to the list of qualified instructors in the Guild, and, on the recommendation of the conmitiee, it was resolved that the travelling expenses of the Deputy Master and hon. treasurer, iu attending meetings, be pitd.

A DRATN ON THE FUNDS.

The hon. Ireasurer called attention to the lack of sales of the munat yeport. It cost e2s 8s. 9d. to print last year, he said, and they oniy got hack 81 10s. 8d. froms sales. It was thus a great frain on the funds Fe had no definite promosition to put before the Guild at present, but he had been considering whether thes sloutd charge a small booking fee for peals. He dicil not know, however, if that would work. He loped the members would try and help the (inild out of the difficulty

The meeting cotrfirmed the election last year of 149 new members.
Mr . T. Trollope asked what happened to all these members.
The Secretary replied that the new memhers got on with the job while the old ones wasted their time thinking about getting buried (langhter).
The Master proposed a vole of thanks to the authorities of Clirist Clurch for the use of the Cathedral, the Chapter Fonse and the Dining Hall, fad also to fhe preaclier for his most acceptahle sermon and to the organist.-This was secouded by the hen. treasurer and carrled with applanse.
At the surgestion of Mr. W. J. Paice, it was agreed to send the goot wishes of the Guild to the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, of Woking ham. on his appointment as Prenentor of Normich Cathectral.
The meeting having concluded, the members adjournen to the Diging Hall, where luneh was served. Alterwards a brief tonst list was gone thranglı. 'The King and Chureli' was proposed by the Master: Mr. I. - Goldsmith suhnitted 'Tle Oxford Diocesan Guit,' gud Mr. P. T. Hibhert pave " The Master abaf Deputy Master: , to which Canon Colcridge responded recalling that Rishop White, whose portrait orcupied a place of honour in the hall. was once one of his ringing pupils. Canon Coleridge added a plea for more young men to take upp finging.
After lunch the various towers in the city were vistred and a great deal of ringing was done until the early evening.

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

Bear Sir-It is not my usual practice to make use of the columas The Ringing World for correspoadence purposes, but on this occasion I ask your indulgente iu order thai certain mattery may be brought to tho notice of members of the Essex Association. On Saturday last I attended a meeting of the South-Western District of the asscciation nt Rayleigh and to ny astosishment, and disguat became the centre of what, to my mind, was a mean and most unfaix attack on tho management of the association.
It was stated that, after the last anuual meeting leld at Chelmsford an Whit Monday, complaints were voiced by a large number of those attending as to the manner in which the meeting wis conducted hy the chairman and that a considerable amount of time was wasted iu earming out the election of officers. It: was also said that the conduct of the meeting was disgosting.

Afother spoaker alleged that the Annual Report was a disgrace and the information contained therein quite out of date, although subsequently admiting thatt it ranked about fourth in order of merit out if tell differeat association reports which he liad in his possession. proposals emanuting from this district carried by tho annual meeting, certain members took advantage of my gresence to work of steans it a manner which was far from Friendly, although taking care to way thut no ciffence was intended.
association was most, disgraceful, partipularly in the presence of the Fivar of Rayleigh, who appeared to be astounded, mud, hat it been done in any other part of the county or at a general meeting. I have not the slightest doubt Hat considerable protest would have been made.
Hith regard to pomplaints being made after the ammal meeting. the only ane which I heard, apart irom the bad acoustios of the ball, was that. Mr. Chalk had taken up far too rauch time with lis Benevolent Fud proposal, and I would gesure hinn that in unduly labouring the sulufect with his verbose meanderings, not only on Wlit Monday, but it various district meetings at which he lad been allowed to speak tupon the sulaject, be lad reduced the great majurity of his hearers to a state of boredom and had done far more harm than good to his chuse. This is not nerely my personal opinion, but has been expressed in my hearing an numerous acmsions.
As to the election of the Master, il most ridiculous statement reached my ears, that things were not done fairly down this way (apparently menuing at Chelnsford), Any reanobably minded pervols present at Che neeting knows that such a statement is utter nonsense.
If our Anmual Report is not up to dste in its information, a point upon which $\mathbf{I}_{\text {, }}$ as general secretary, entirely disngree, it is the fault of those memhers wha appear to have far greater knowledge os to this than myself for not passing on information. However, it appears that nothing sliort of an 'Encyclopedia Britannica' devoded entircly to ringing watters in Fssex would be entirely satiefactory.
There aro many other matters I could mention, but lave no wish to take up more space that 1 car aroid, and in closing would point out, that if those who liase for the past iwo years talked so much of benevolent funds, and from whom we should expert benerotence to exude in profusion. would bear in mind that true benerolence is nor the mere giving of grants from a fund, but the desire to do good and to show is charitable feeling in wort and deed towards their fellows, which can do far more good than the giving of an accasional copper to a collection, in the carrying on of the work of our associaton and, indend, in whatever wall of life we mar be. $\mathbf{L}$. J. CHARE.

Chelmeford. Jyly I4th

COMRTTTEE TO BE ASKED TO DISCUSS VITAL POINTE The criticism of the management of the assaciation referrad to the leter from the hon. Eecretary was raised under the item of i atleer bueinesg.'

Mr. Lurkin apened by saying the wes frankly disappainted with the Association Report for 1939 . Fur too much space was wasted, when such thinga as nem compositions, list of peals rung for the association sivce its formation, and quarter-peals rang during the year, culald be inserted.
Mr. G. L. Joyce attacked the General Committee, saying that if the annund meeting at Chelnsford on Whit Mouday was a specinzen of the way ditugs were being conducted in general, he was very sorry for the future of their association, and it was up to all members to see that what was wrong was put right, and as quickly as possible. He further stated that what be had just said was auly what mearly averyone elso was thinking, and he moved that a letter be sent to tho General Committec esking for a committee mesting to he held as soon as persible to discuss vital points in connection with the association.

After further discussion this was carried.

PRESENTATION TO LATE DISTRICT SECRETARY.

BUTLER'S LONG SERTICE.
At a Mcoting of ihe Bouth-Westeru Division of the Essex Assoctation hold at Rayleigh on Saturday, July 8 th, and attended by 50 members, almosit every tower in the division being represented, al pre sentation was mado to Mr. E. J. Futler, who recently reliuquished office of disfrict secretary after a quarter of a century of servies. A shor service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. A. C. Sowter), Who gave a rery warm weicome to all. Tea, urratged by Mr, C.
Steward, was enoyed in the Church Hall, followed by the lyusiness meeting presided over by tho Fev. A. C. Sowter. Six yew members were elected, including five from Stanford-he-Hope and Langdon Hils, foth thesu towers joining the association.
Orect was gelected as place for the next meeting, to he held on Septeuber 21st.
The presentation took the form of a eilver tea sef suitably eagraved. Several menthers paid tribute to JIr. Butler's loyalty and service to the disfrict intring bis 25 years in office
Mr. Clalk, District Master, remarked that the keynote of Mr. Butler's work had always been efficiencs; and he spoke of the very valuabln advice he was ever ready to give to incumbents whenever their bells needed attention.
In making the presentation, Mfr. Priar said lhat he had known Mr. Futher since beforp the war, whell they were all trying to belp one another in the art of change ringing, and from that time he had seen the Soutli-Western Division grow from a few soaftered towers to the united 1rody it was to-day, die in no small measure to Mr. Rutler's enthmsiasm in lis work. Mr. Prios also paid a warm tribute to Mrs. Butier for the part she had playcd belind the scenes in the success of the distriet.
Mr. Butler, in reply, sxid that no wards could express his apprecia. tion for rhe kindiness shawn to Jirs. Butier and himself in presautipg them with sach a beautiful gift. Ali that he had done, he added, for the district had heen a. labour of love, and althougla he did not now hold anv official capacity. they could always rely oa his supporl. He spoke of tine help he had received from the tower secretaries in the district and filso paid tribute to the clergy of Essex for the kinniness they had always shown to hive wherever he went, He wished the tistriet montimued success and hoped they would all ratly round their new secretary and support him in every way
Thay Mastor referred to the fact that the Rev. Camon Brown, of Leytonstoms, hat just completed 50 wears its the ministry of the Church, and proposed that it letter of congratulation be selit to him rom the district. This was unanimously agreed to
The uspeting romoluded with a ficary rote of thanks to the Rector for allowing use of tower and hells, for conducting the service and taking tha shair, to Mrs. Sowter for so hindy deputising as arganist, and to $51 \%$. Steward for making all the arrangenients. This was carried with applause and respondea to by the Rector.
The tamer was flien rerisitea and touches in nothods ranging from Grandsire in London Surprise were brought round.

WESTERN BRANCH ELECTS ELEFEN SCHOOL PUPILS.
the summer meeting of the Western Branch of the Worcestershire Association was held at Shelsley Beauchamp on Saturday, July 1st, The church possesses a ring of six bells (tenor 11 cwt ), and the meeling was attended by 40 members, wives and friends, including visitors from the Northern Branch. A short service was condueted by the Rector (the Rev. W. H. Davies), who, in his address, sald he was much inmpressed by the good fellowship among ringers, and remarked that if there was more of this spirit in the world to-day it would cure most of the ills that existed.
An excellent tea was served in the Schoolroom by lady helpers, and was generously supplied by the Rector.
After tea a course of Grandsire Triples and several tunes were rung on the hanabelis.
At the business meetiug, the Rev. W. H. Deties, who presided, extended a hearty welcome to all present.
It was decided that the arrangements for the nexi quarterly peal should be left in the hands of Mr. A. Morgan, of Grimley.
The Rector was elected an hon, member, Mr. Tr. Farty, of Wallasey, Cheshize. was elected as a life member, and the following 11 pupils from the Abbey School, Malvern, were accepted as unattached members: The Misses M. Richardson. D. Mr. S. Holt reminded members that the association library containing books on bells and bellinging is opena to anyone. He also reported that the general secretary rarely had any application for association certificates.
Mr. W. Short suggested that the branch secretaries should carry one with them to show members, and Mr. R. Matthews said they should be givent to new members.
Mr. S. Holt replied that the latter suggestion would have to be introdured at the committee meeting in Janusry or at the nest anuual meeting
Hearity votes of thanks to the Rector, the organist and the ladies concluded the meeting.

PORTSHEAD LADY RINGER MARRIID

Tha marriage took place very quietly at 9.30 a.mu on Suyday. July I6th, in St. Peter's Church, Purtishead, of Miss Blanche L. Staddeu and Mr. Tolm Kelly, The cerenony vas performed by Prel). H. W. Juk̃es.
The bride, who is a member of the Ladies' Guild and the Batli at.d Wells Diocesan Association, has given valued help in Portishead belfry for the past 14 years. Despite every effort for secrecy, four ringers turned up very early for Sunday morning ringing, and with the help of Mrs. Simmions (sister), Miss Brown (aunt) andi two brothers, the bells were raised in peal, and a touch of Grandsire Triples voiced the good wishes of the band as the bride and bridegroom left the charch. For evening service a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung: R. G. Wiliams 1, Mrs. W. Edwards 2, Mrs. L. Simmons 3, Miss &. Hyman 4, A. Lame (first quarter-peal as conductor) 5, Romald Gale (first guarter-peal) 6, E. J. Goldstone 7, J. Thomas 8 .

VISIT TO ST. ALBANS

Tlue members of S. Nicolas' Society, Guildford, with wives and friends, bad their amnual outing on June 24 th and wisited St. Albans. Tlse coach ride, which took them through Wiudsor Great Park, was much enjoyed, but unavoidable delays caused them to arrive late at the Alibey, where they were welcomed by Mr. H. F. Goodenough and had the opportunity of ringing on the Abbey twelve. The visitors will not soon forget the long climb to the tower nor the views they obtained as the result of their labours. One or two of the party rang on $t w e l v e$ for the first time in rounds, but the other ringing was confined to Grandsire and Stedman Caters. Then ther went on to St. Peter's Church, and, in this commodious and well-equipped belfry, rang Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Treble Ten and Double Norwich. They were received here by Mr. G. E. Debenham, Mr. F. Kirke and others, and the welcome in both towers was mucli appreciated. After tea some of the places of interest in the ancient city were visited. Some found the oldest licensed premises in England and decided that it was well worth while to inspect the interior. Others, under the guidance of Mr. J. R. Mackman, paid a hasty visit to the Roman remains of Verulanium. Mr. E. G. Heath, the hou. secretary, was heartily thanked for the successful arrangements he had made, and thanks were also accorded for the facilities giver for ringing at the Abbey and St. Peter's.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

STOCKPORT BRANCH CONGRATULATIONS TO EINCOLNSHIRE RINGERS.
A meeting of Stockport Branch of the Cheater Diocesan Guild was held at Northendeu on Saturday, Juiy 1st, when some 28 members and friends journeyed to this old church, situsted about half an hour's bus ride from the centre of Marchester and yet still retaining a sense of the peace and quiet of the countryside. The bells, a peal of six by Inudiall, were set going early in the aftermon, and, il spite of the fact that they proved a litile difficult to handle, several good teuches were bronght round betore service in church at 4.30. The nsual Guild form of service was used and was, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Ronald Allen, who also gave a very inspiring address. He told the ringers that there had been a cluzch at Nortinenden from the 12th century onward and quite possibly even earller. In the early days it was served from the Abbey of Chester, and ihis would suggest the erigin of the yame, it being the northern church of the diocese. The family of the present leader of the belfry had been ringers at Northenden for about 200 years, and he thought that it was good to remember the past in these days whon they lived so much in the present with its crises from day to day. As Te looked on the tower of the church during the crisis last autumu he was led to think of all the changes that this old church has seen and the Wars through which it has passed, and weat on to say that just 95 that old tower has survived, so must the Charch as a whole survipe all the changes. Wars may come and go, but still the Church will go on, and, althougls at times its light may appear to burn very dimly and even though the hells be sifenced, he was certain that the will to serve and worship God would always be retained. He believed that in spite of all the criticisms and complaints, the Chrich was to-dar stronger than ever before. He had recently had a young Clinese staying wild hum, aud, on asking him what struck him most about this country, received the reply, The friendiness and freedom of the people, ${ }^{*}$ and these were the natural fruits of Chistianity. The preacher went on to point out how ringers could serve to ilhustrate the fundamentsl Christian truths and made special mention of the team spirit required in the helfrs. He satd that if men would anly learn that it was just as essential to have this toam spirit in national and international affairs, the individual striving for the good of the whole, then the troubles of the world would be greatly lessened. Be also pointed out that ringing migith be considered a very public job, as all the ruistakes were heard by all the surrounding neighhour)hod, and made the point that just as in ringing all their actions were hrodeast, so in their daily lives they must exercise care that thet actions were always in accordance with the teachings of Jesus Christ. The Rector conduded his address by reading the fme poem by Tennysen, 'Ring out, wild hells.'
After the service tea was partaken of in $n$ mearby cafe and ant enjoved an excellent repast. The usual business nueeting was held under the chairmanship of the branch chairmnn, the Rov. F. Bonner, who voiced the menbers" delight at being present at Northenden.

The husiness was of a routine nature
The secretary (Mr. C. K. Levpis) presented a report on the proceedings at the amual festival, for the henefit of those unable to attend arid it was resalved to send a letter of corgratulation to the Liucolnshire spliced Minor band on their yecent fine performance.
The meeting concluded with a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for his services, the wardens, the local ringers, the organist and to all who had contributed to the success of the raceting. Furthor ringing then took place until a late hour, the methods ranging from rounds to Cambridge Minor.

A LANCASHIRE FESTIVAL

A uumerous company of rimpers gathered at St. Wichael's, Flixton. Loncashire, on Sumday, July 9th, on the oconsion pof the church anniversars, and some very fine ringing took place. Before the service a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung, those taking part Being Lewis Taplor 1, Harry Shulker 2. Ethel Colifer 3 Samuel Rickard 4. Donald Brown 5, Ferbert Collier 6, Albert Ford (conductor) 7. Rohert Thomas 8.
After the service the company was joined by Messrs. Robert Davies, H. Edwards, David Vincent nud H. MoKinnel, and touches of Steriman and Grandsire were rung and some call changes for other members of the company.
Mr, Herhert Collier expressed his delight at the wonderful way the neighbouring ringers had responded to the occasion, and Mr. Harry Shuker sprang a surprise when he said that in the touch of Stedman rung, the counties represented were Suffolk. Surrey, Middlesex, Montgomeryshire, Staffordshire, Shrapslire sud Lancashire, and each representative had served his county well.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands realiy clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beatifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

GREAT ACHIEVEMENTS.

We record some great achievements this week. Two of them are in the field of Minor ringing; two are personal records. The Lincolnshire band, of which Mr. Gearge Feirn is conductor, have rung a peal in one hundred and four methods in seven extents. No one can say exactly what is the limit of splicing in this direction, but the peal rung at Bigby comprises the greatest number of methods that it has yet been found possible to put into seven true 720's, and is, therefore, at the moment an unbeatable record. Look at it how you will this is the finest achievement in Minor ringing of all time, and the congratulations which this band earned when recently they rang peals in 100 and 102 methods will be renewed to-day on this greater performance, got, not merely by adding two more to the methods they had already rung, but by substituting a new extent, containing thirteen other methods, for one they had previously included.

It was this Lincolnshire band that took the record out of the hands of the Chester Guild, and were it not for this great achievement, a peal by the Cheshire men last Saturday would have been all the more noteworthy. Nevertheless, the peal in fifty-seven methods of Plain and Treble Bob is an outstanding performance, and in the praise that will be bestowed upon their Lincolnshire rivals, their lesser success ought not to be overlooked. It does not equal some of their own records, but it is a performance which merits more than passing attention.

The individual records to which we refer are those of Messrs. George Williams and Frank Bennetit, who, by a stroke of good fortune, were able to take part in a peal which was the fifteen hundredth for both of them. They first rang a peal together fifty years ago, and now they have reached a memorable point in ringing history together. No two names are better known in the ringing Exercise than theirs; and no two men are held in higher respect. Moreover, great as have been their peal achievements, their services to ringing are not to be judged only by those high standards; through long years they have given their best wholeheartedly to advancing the art, and everyone will hope they will long continue to enjoy the pleasures of peal ringing and carry on their important but less conspicuous work in their own towers.

There are morals to be drawn from the achievements bere referred to. George Williams and Frank Bennett began their ringing when every peal was a hard earned triumph and they were few and far between. But their devotion, their zeal and their enthusiasm have brought them to a notable pinnacle, not sought in any desire for fame, but gained by a steady adherence to a pursuit into which they had put their whole heart purely for the love of it. And then there are those two Minor achievements. They, too, have only been possible by the steady and persistent efforts of those concerned, a devotion to an object which is an example to those many ringers who are all too easily disheartened by failures or who expect to find the way made easy for them, instead of trying to make it easy for themselves. It is only by perseverance and constant practice that the Lincolnshire and Cheshire men have reached their present pre-eminence; it is only by steady plodding and making the most of their opportunities that Messrs. Williams and Bennett have gained the distinction they have now achieved.

COLLEGE YOUTHS IN SCOTLAND

A baud of College Fouths risited Sconland last week and on Satur day rang a peal of Steduan Caters at Inveraray, Argyllshire. They Fers the guegts of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lewis, at Dun A'Bhuilg Achnamara, during the week-end. The beautiful acenery find the raried forms of enjoyment provided both on land and water were thoroughly appreciated by all, and have left an unforgetrable inapression.
In the old days, when the College Youths had an outing and近evelled on 'shanks' pony, they once made Northampton the object of their journey and raug at several places en route. At St. Peter's Church, Northampton, they acored a peal of Bob Major, which Anumble called. This was on June 15th, 1739, and to celebrate the bi-centenary another peal of Bob Major was rung in the same tower last Saturday (July 2nd).
The regular zervice ringers at Buchuall, staffs, rang it peal of Minor in seven methods on July 14 th in honowr of thair leader, Mr Willian Wheeldon, who has completed 50 years' service at this church The treble ringer left to begiu his military training the zext morning
Not for more than 25 years had a peal been rung on the bells of St James', Benwell, Newcastle-on-Tyne, until last Monday week, when peal in seven Mmor methods was brought round as a birthday com pliment to Mies Selby Jogepline Smith, grauddaughter of Mr. C. L Rontledre Finging Master of the Cathedral Guitd and to Mr. J. H Clifton. who rang the trehla to the peal.
Mr. Thumas Bialdwin, of Gloucester, reng his 300 th peal last Satur day, when he took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Upton St Leonard's, Gloncestershire. Mr. Baldwin has talen part in a number of long peals and atampts, and rang the treble at Painswick to the then record lesgth of Cinques $(13,001)$ in 1920.

Edward Mitchoill, of Heavitree, who is only 15 years of age, Farg his first peal at the first attempt on Snturany at Honiton Clyst, Devon.

The peal of Little Bob Major at Handsworth, Shefield, on July 18th wes runs to celebrate the firthdays of the conductor (who attained to 21 years on that date) and of Mr. Reginald Payne, whose anni versary fell on the previous day. It was also a birthday compliment to Mrs. B. Canm

The first peal on the bells of St. James' Church, Poolstack, Wigan, since the relowging by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, was rung on Iuly 15 th as a compliment to the Rev. L. J. F. Welton, tho ourate, on his ordication to the priesthood.

A HUNDRED PEALS AT LOUGHBOROUGH FOUNDRY

Mr. Tirnest Morris, of Leicester, is the firsit to ring a hundred peals on the bells at Loughborough Foundry. Ha completed the century on July 17 tb , with a peal of Double Norwich Major, the fastest ever rong on tower bells. It, was round in two hours and sight minutes. The composition luas the and its extent in 23 alternately, and is in alternate short, and long courses. It was rusg for the first time

Mr. Morris' 100 peals on the bells, of which he has conductod 38 , include Doubles, Minor, Triples, Major, Caters and Royal, and among them are the quickest and longest on the bells, both of which be conducted He also called on them the longest peal of Lidtle Bab yet rung ( 6,7201 and the record of Ilkeston Treble Boh $(9,120)$. In addition his peals in the campanile include the quickest tower-bel peal ever, 5,040 Cambridre Surprise Mivor in 1 hour 50 minutes, and the quickest of Major, 2 hours 8 minutes, The peals of Bob Major include callint $7,008,9,760$ ( 400 Singles) and the extent of tenors together, 13,440

Tha peal of Exin Caters rung at Aston on Tuly 18th is believed to ho only the second peal of Caters in the method in hand.' It was rung after about six attempts of varying lengths, the longest being on the previous Tuesday, when, with F. Fr, Haynes as referee, jt was lost through a change course 14 courses from home siter 2 hour 20 minutes' ringing. The band anuch appreciate Mrs. Shepherd's kindness in placing her lounge at their disposal. She is the mother of R. I. Shepherd of the Aston band, and is herself lemrning to ring. To celebrate the 700th annirersary of the church, a peal of Double was rung at Frensham, Surroy, on Sunday, Jaly 16th. The peal was celled by Sergt. Bragg, of the Grenadier Guards, and four of the bend were local ringers, two ringing their first peal at the first attempt and two their fisst peal in two methods.

The 100th peal $o^{2}$ Bois Maior low the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford was rang at Willenhall on July 13 th. It was a farewell to the Rev, and Mrs. Perry and was the first peal of Major on the bells since ther were recast.

Three more members of the new St. Giles" Society, Lincoln, have rong their first peal, making seven from this tower in a week. Ray Skallibrass, whe rane the troble to the neal of Doubles et Dunholme on Joly 17th, has only just twmed 15 years. It was Mr. Jack Mill house's $25 t h$ peal as conductor.

PEALS AT BRDDCEND.

The peal rumg at Bridgend on July 19th was the 102 nd peal on the bells This is helieved to be only the second tower in South Wales if not in the whole of Wales, where more than 100 peals have been ring. The other tower is st: John's, Cardiff. The hand which took part have rung quite a numlier of peals at Bridgead, viz. E. Stitch 66, M. W. Heath 18, C. H. Perry BI, J. W. Jones 63. E. T. Bailey 24. D. R. Tames 51, A. J. Pitman 86 . A. W. Fright 49. Mr. E. Stiteh hes 'completed the circle' in the tower, with the Iast peal.

Apart from the new record in Minor Splicing set up at Bigby, another really jine periormance in Minor riuging recorded this week is the 57 -method peal by members of the Chester Diocesay Guild at Poynton, Cheshire, on Saturday, conducted by Mr. C. K. Lewig. Thirteen of the methods were plain and the rest Treble Bob and Delight.
at Debenham, on Saturday, a peal of York Surprise Major, the first in the method by all the band and by the Suffolk liuild, was rung as a weddimg complinent to Mise almo Symonds, younger daughter of Mr, G. E. Symonds, tite popular secretary of St. Mary-la Tower Society, Jpswich.
A peal of Cambridge surprise Rowal at Manahestar Cathedral on Seturday week was Mr. C. K. Lewis 1501 h peal and was rung to celebrate then binth of a son and heir to Mr. G. W. Biddulph, untal recently Ringing Haster of the Creme Branch of the Chester Dincesan Guild.
Mr. Thomas Tudor rang a peal of Boh Major at Mariket Drayton, Shropshire, on July eOth. His last pretious peal was ruag no lesi than five years ago Tha peal of Cambridge Surprise 3 ajor at Harlow Common, Fssex, on July 13th, which was rung as a birtliday compliment, to Mr. E. J. Butler, was specially arranged for Mr. R. J. Warrilow, of Stafford.

Mr. William Short, who rang in a peal of Stedman Triples at Bedsey o' Saturday, has now rang a peal on mech of the existing rugs of eight in Worcestershire.

SOMETHING DIFITERENT IN GRANDSIRE DOUBLES.
It was only a peal of Grandsire Doubles, but it was wovth ringingat any rate, just once. That was the opinion of the five members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, who rang 42 six-scores at Dekbam, Surrey, on Saturday.
But it wasn't quite an ordimary peal of Grandsire Dowles. The treble was not always the treble. All the bells, in turn, wre used as the wbole linht-as the work of the treble in a plain method was described in the earliest days of change rimging.
Only one peal had ever previously been rung on these lines, we believe, but to add further varieby at. Ochlam two six-eccres wers included, in which one haif was rung with one bell as the whole hunt and the other half with a different bell. The turn over uas dowe with a special single, and siz-scares are not anly worth ringing on theso lines, but really add to the Eum. Here is an example of how this riagle is made, ansuming the treble to be the whole hunt at the start:

At the single the the becomes the whole hunt, and the two hells are tarned over again 00 changes later ty a similar manner. In between, bobs at alternate feads have to be calfed.
Four of the band at Ocklann rang their first peal on fire bells, and Mr. J. A. Trollope's only previous peal on this number was rung 46 years ago. Mr. J. 5. Goldsmith has now completed the series of pents on all numbere from Douhles to Maxinus since January.
The peal at Gulval, Cornwall, on Eaturday, was arranged to evable Mr. O. T. Coles (Middlegex AssociaEion hon, secretary) to ring a peal whilat on holiday in the county and so get one rearer lis 1.000 h peal, which is not very far distant. Miss Cornish, a member of the local band, received the hearty congratulations of the ringers after the peal on the excellent way she rang thraughout. Her previous ongest toncla lasted anly 20 mivutes.
It is about 100 years ago that the Rev. W. W. Wingfield was inducted as Vicar of Gulval. He wasg Vicar of the parish intil he died in 1912, and the two treble bells and the clocis were given by the pariahioners as at mentotial to him
Rug after meeting short for Major, a peal in seven Treble Bob Minor methods was rung at Watli-on-Dearne, Yoriz, for the birthdey of Mr. Edward Fradley on Saturday
His wife took part in the peal. She had not struck a blow before in three of the methods (London Scholars' Pleasure, Kingston and Sandal) and had cyeled 24 miles hefore the peal. She is to be congratulated, therefore, upon the successful way in wlich she rang, when called upon unexpectediy to ring three strange methods, Both she and her huskand scored their first peal in seven methods.
It was at Wath on Februnry 27 th, 1816 that a peal of twenty-ome 200's of Minor was rune, making 15, 120 changes.
The peal of Hinor at Stanton-on-Hine-Heath on July 8th was rang 2 hours 57 misutes and not 3 hours 57 minutes as printed.
The peal at Burton-ow-Stather oul July 10th was a 21 st birthday compliment to H . Judd, who has since bergin his military training in the yeighnourhood of Dipkenliead.

Harvey 1. G. S. Taylor 2, T. Stephenson 3. M. F. Harsison 4. H. B. Ditchburn 5, J. W. Parker 6, F. Angley (conductor) 7. R. L. Patterson 8.

NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION

A meeking af the North Stafiordshire Association was bele at Cheddleton on Saturday, wher a company of 25 attended from Burslem, Brown Eage, Cheddlefon, Draycott, Kingsley, Leelr, Longton, Norton, Newcastle, Cheadle and Stoke-on-Treat. A snort service was conducted by the Vicar of Checideton (the Rev. W. G. Burgis)

Tea was keld in the Cburngt Hall, where the Vicar ssid he was glad to welcome the ringers to Cheddletor, as his rivgers had found a beneft in joining the organisation. Mr. J. H. Martin supported the views of the Ficar, and Mr. A. W. Hall, in than Eing the Vicar and ringers, remarked that the Vicar of Gheddloton brad never refused the use of the bells fior a peal.

Mr. E. Steele, in seconding, invited the ringers of Cheddleton to come to the raetings more nften, as they offered the opportanity to pick up more change rimging.-Mr. J. E. Wheeldan thanked the ledies for serving tea 80 well.

The Vicar remarked that it was Mr. $\bar{J}$. E. Whesidon's 71st birthday, and he was wished 'many happy returas,' with musical honours.
One new member, Mr. F. Triner, of Norton, was plected.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

An enjoyable and successiul meetiag of the Canterbury Distriet of the Keat County Association was held at Littlebourfe on Saturday, July $22 n d$, when 41 members and friends were present, representing 14 towers of the district, together with two visiting ringers.

Goon use was made of the six bells. Tho association's service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. A. Manley), an honorary member of the sesoclation. He gave the members a sincere welcome ta Littlebourne, both in the belfry and in the charch.
Mr. Pitman was at the orgen and the lesson was read by Mr. J. W. Hover (Dover)

At the kind invitation of the Ficar, the members were entertained to a eplendid tea at the Viearage, at the conclusion of which he was, on the motion of Mr. H. Whitehead, heartily thanked for his hospitality.

After tes chairs were teken on to the lawn and two sets of handbells were brought into use. Courseg of Triples were rung, and the - Dover Twins' entertained the company with some excellent tuae ringing. In passing it might be mentioned that this tuns ringing is fast hucoming more than a poptar part of these gatherings, and it looked for at each meeting.
A return was later made to the tower, and further ringing was enjoyed until 8.30 . when the bells were lowered in peal. The methods rung during the day ranged from Grandsirg Doubleg to Cambridge Burprise.

SWANSEA AND BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD
The annual meeting of the Swansee and Brecon Diocesan Guild was held at Swanses on July 15th. At the service at St. Jamer Church prior to the meeting the Rev. W. Cynwrd Williams gave a very ingtruotive address to the members. Mr. Williams was a ringer at Morriston for a mumber of years before he was ordained and licenged to the parish of Clydach. He will be leaving the country eariy next year to take up duty amongst the Welsh colony at Cherbut South America.
Tea was provided by the kind generosity of the Vicar of Swansea.
The Lord Bishop took the chair at the meeting, when the iollowing oficers were reelected: President, the Lord Bishop; Ringing Master, Mr. A. J. Hoare; secretary, Mr. D. G. Williams; auditor, Mr. Rowlands. Mr. C. Morgan (Brecon) was elected treasurer in the place of Mr. C. Powell, who bas left the district. A telegram was received during the meeting from Mr. Powell corveying his lest wishes.
The preaident is learing the diocese in the near future, haviag been recently appointed to the See of Liandaff a few weeks ago, and Mr. E. Stitch referred to the work which the Biahop had doue for the Guild during his short stay in the diocese.
The members returned to the tower, and the bells were in constant use untril 9 o'dock.

WEDDING BELLS AT HEANOR

An interesting wedding took place at Heanor Parish Churel. Derbyshire, on Tuesday, July 4th, when Miss Brenda J. Smith, daughter of the Rev. D. G. Smith, R.D., Vicar of Heanor, and Mrs. Smith, was married to Mr. E. W. Frost, B.Com., youngest son of Mr. and Mre. J. A. Frost, of Langley Mill. The service, which was choral, was conducted by the Ven. the frchdeacon of Derby, assisted by Canon A. R. Lee, R.D., Vicar of Holy Trinity and Rural Dean of the Gity of York, and the Rev. Harry Price, Vicar of Cotmanhay, Mr. Eria Lacey officiated at the orgen.

After the ceremony a representative band of ringers from Feanor, Ripley, Nottingham and East Kirkby rang the usural Queen's and fired the bells, and touches of Grandmire and Stedman Triples followed.
In the evening a peal of Bobl Major was rung, conducted by thr bride's brother
In ths interval between the afternoon and evening ringing the ringers were entertained to tea at the Central Cafe as the guests of the Vicar
The bride's father is an hon. Member of the Midland Counties Association, and her brother, Mr. R. D. St. J. Smith, was until recently Master of the Oxford University Society.

BELERY GOSSIP.

The Ceniral Council's Librarian will be grateful if no orders are sent to him for publications between July 30 th and September 15th, as he will be awry from home.
Will the captain of the Happisburgh, Norfoll, ringers please get in touch with W. Ayre, Leverstock Green, Hemel Hempstead, Herte? Many of the visitors to the Henry Jolimson Conmemoration Dinner are familiar with the ring of eignt bells at St. Ched's Catholic Catliedral, Birmingham, and will no doubt be interested to know that the peal is to be recast and-rehung in a new framework by John Taylor and Co.
This will be the fourth moajor job carried out in Birminghau in recent years, the recasting of the twelve at the Parish Church of St. Martin, the new ter 㫙 St. Pbilip's Cathedral, and the new twelve at Aston Parish Church being the others.

JAMES GREEN.

To the Editar
Dear Sir--In view of a renewal of the activities of "James Green, and of Mr Arnstrong's hint of possible proceedings, Worcestershire rimgers feel it should be gencrally known that a person using this name has already baen through bhe hands of tho police for this ofence. In 1932 he imposed upon the good nature of riwgers in the country to such an extent that proceedings were taken at Evesham Police Court and he receved a sentence of twelve months hard labour. On that accasion be was in possession of the Worcestersbire Association's report containing the names and addresses of all tower repregentatives, and very few of them escaped his undetirable attentions. Thin man's correct name is Michael Mackay, but his aliases are innumerable, and in this district varied from 'Jimmo Green' to 'a relative of W. Short, and one, at which I do not feel flatiered, when be unguccessfully introduced himself at a tower as 'the brother of Amy Johnson.
If required, full particulars, photograph, ete., would, of course, be olitainalie from Evesham Police Station.

RIPON CATHEDRAL VETERANS.

SUNDAY SERVICE RTNGING AWARD.
Ripon Cathedral bellzingers have been awarded the First Certibate under the Sunday service riming glteme of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association of Ringers. The certificate has been held for two years by Thdeaster, and now comes into tle possession of Bipon. Tipon gained 641 poims, l'adecster 696, Middlesbrough 436, and Whitby 324.
The Dean of Ripon (Dr. C. M. Owen) entertained the ringers to supper at the Black Bull Hotel on Monday, aud visited them for a short time, and offered lis congratulationg. The Precentor of the Cathedral (the Rev. H. R. Williams) attended, and also Mr. A. Graham (the Dean's werger), and Mr, F. Tingle (president of the locai Association of Ringers).
Several touches were rung on the hanibells after supper.
There are some veterans amongst the Cathedral ringers, and in a group of ten who were present at the supper it was found their combincd service covered a total of 375 years, while four of them together made 202 years. Mr. J. Metcalfe has been a ringer for 52 years. He commenced to ring at tha age of 14.
Others with long service recurds present were Mr. J. Rumbold (50), Mr. T. Ingleby (50), Mr. G. Langshaw (50), Mr, C. Howroyd (40), Mr. F. Tingle (37), Mr. W. Dixon (35), Mr. R. Duffield (25), Mr. Pearson (14) end Mr. F.: Fudson (14).

A HALESWORTH CELEBRATION.

BRED AND DRYNKE' FOR THE RINGERS

Last week the Halesworth (Suffolk) Society celebrated its 400 ch anniversary. The first reference to ringers in the parish is to be found in the bequesti, on July 194l, 1539, of a certain sum of mouey, by one William Walpole, to the prient, clerk and ringers "to provide for their bred ana drynke.

On the eve of the 400 h snniversary members of the society and visitors rang various towehes under the direction of Mr. Fred Lambert (verger and steeplekeeper), the eight menbers at the ropes totalling 449 years in age (an average of 58 ), four of them being septuagenarians.
The company, nambering 20 members (performing and honorary), are the proud possessors of che first written changes known, these being contained in a manuscript book dated 1621, which is now in the custody of the Rector and churchwardens.
Some of the bells in the Halesworth tower are the origiaal ones cast and hung about 1440 , and others are dated 1511, 1604, 1627,1759 and 1770.

After the ringigg in the four stendariz methods by ringers from Blythburgh, Bungay, Chediston, Darslism, Huntingfield, fedenhall, Nottingham, Southwold and the local company, the parky proceeded to the British Legion Club and partook of the "bred and drynko" to the British Le

A GREAT DOUBLE EVENT．

GEORGE WILLIAMS AND FRANK BENNETT REACH 1，500 PEALS TOGETHER．

A unique double event marked the peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal， rang at St．Mary＇s Dhurch，Southampton，on Wednesday of last weeis． It was the $1,500 t+1$ peal by bolh Mr．George Williame，the Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild，and Mr，Frank Bewnett of Brigliton．It was not specially arranged for the purpose， but it coincided，hernuse on the preceding Seturday，after both had reached 1，499，Mr．Bennett lost a peal elsewhere．

Only two men，the late Mr．William Pye，and Mr．G．R．Pye，had ever previously reached this great total，and it was a remarkable coincidence that two such old friends as 部r．Willjoman ard Mr． Bennett should hinve been able to schieve this total in the same peal．IL is all the more interesting from the fact that Mr．WiHiams himself called Mr．Ben－ nett＇s first peal 50 vears Ego in Guildiford．Later． they were hoth associated with St．Peter＇s Society， Brighton，and rang a great mumber of pais to－ gether．Then came a parting of Elie wavs， with on ly oceasional meet－ ings，and sometimes n tour together．Naw after half a century they have made a new historicel lacdnark． In the courge of this 50 years thay liave curkg 338 penls together，nmong them having been the first， peal of Londou Surprise in the City of Loudion and the first peals if oxford． Norfolk．Westminstar and Bristol Surprise ever rung． Mr．Bennett，wh was born is 1889 ，learled to rime at Basingstoike．His rime at Basinggtaike．His MR．FRANK BENNETT， first perl was rung on Jarch 2 nd，1889，at S．Nicolas＇Clurch，Guild－ ford，while his first as conductor was a peal of Grandsire Triplea at Weybridge，Surrey，in the same year．

In 1895 Mr．Bennett went to live in Brighton，where St．Peter＂s Society was，et phat time，one of the leading companies in the conniry．During the twelve years that followed he rang over 400 peals，and then，in 1907，he removed to New Cross．In London he helped to build up a very excellent band，which put some notable performances to their credit．While in Loudon Mr．Bennelt was hon， secretary of the Royat Cumberland Youths for seven years．Theu Le returaed to Brighton，where he has continued his activities．
At 82 years of age Mr．George Williams is one of the marvels of the Exercise．He not only rings and conducts peals，but drives a motor－car，cycles，climbs the stairs wit North Stoneham to keep the belle and ropes in order，and generally does things which many men， twenty years his jutior，cannot do as eficiently．

Mr．Williams has been Finging for zearly sixty years，and rang his first peal at the little village of Soberton，which was the liest peal in Hampshire for the furuser Witchester Diocesm Guild．Ylue pareity of change ringers at that time may be judged from the faet that this was only the second peal for the Guild，which had been formed four years before，and ringers liad to be collected from Surrey as well as Hampshirs to make up a Grandsire band． IL was not until a yent later that Mr．Willams rang another peals and this he called．

Following his trade as a miller，lie moved to varlous places，always teaching and helping ringers wher－ over lie went，and then lee gettied in Brighton，It was to his geaius and leadership that st．Peter＇s Society largely owed its success，and when，after s gumber of years，Mr． Willituas returned to his Hative Emupshire，it was a sad blow for Sussex ring－ ing and the fortures of St．Peter＇s Society in particular，
While at Brighton Mr．Williams was，for mary years，hon．secretary of the Central Division of the Susser Associntion，mad after returuing to Fhamphire he became hon，secretary of the Wimehester Diocesan Guild，of which he is now a vice－president，as well as Master．He and Conoa Coleridge are the only two ringers who liave been members of the Central Council since its formation．A list of the peals rung by Messrs Benmeft aud Williams will be lound on page 485.

WARWICXSHIRE GUILD

QUARTERLY MEETENG AT SOLIHULL
The July dieeting was marred by heavy raiustorns，but those who oruted the elements to wiait Solimull were rewarded by ringing on tivis heartiful peal of bells，while the spacious and well－appointed ringing chamber evoked much admiration．although the ringing wes not up to tlee usunl standard，useful practice was obtrined by many who Eeldom have an opportunity to ring Caters or Royal，whilst geveral yourgsters had their first pull on teu bells．in welcome wisitor was Mr．Joseply W．Cotton（hon．secretary，Burton District，Mjelend Copnties Association！of Orerseal．
旦位er tea at a lozal cafe，the business menting was held in the tower．Irt tha unavoidnble absence of the Master（Mr．J．H．White）， Mr．G．F．Swana was voted to the chair．Apologies were recewed from Messrs．White，Perrens and Webb．

Ariting out of the minutes a letter was read from the Rev．M．O．C． Melwihe（formerly hon．secretary of the Guild），thanking the members for their good wishes，expressed at a previous meeting，on his ordipa－ tion into the ministry．

The meeting places roted for the rext three months were Monks Rirbr（Angust）nnd Berkswell（September），and for the next quarterly Ruply（October）．
Harold Williams，of Stoke，Coventry，was elected a ritaging mem－ ber，and the election of four life members ratified，Arthur Riddington （Blaby），Ronald Swann（Birstall），William Bottrill（Leicester）and Charles Marahall（Blaby）．
A vote of thanks was proposed by E．Stone to the Ficar for the use of the bella，also to the local ringers for their arrangements．
Further ringing terminated quite a good meeting，despite the

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION．

The summer festival of the Ely Diocesan Association was held at St．Neots on Saturday．Members and friends were present from Bromham，Burton Latimer，Cambridge，Chatteris，Eynesbury，God－ manchester，Grear Staughton，Hartiond，Henlow，Hitchin，Melbourn， Meppershall，Peterborough，Ramsey，Raunds，St．Neote，Southbill， Swavesey，Tempsford，Terrington St，Jahn，Hitchmarsh，Trumping－ ton，Turves and Wilburton．

It was decided to risit Ely for the 1940 summer festival．
The sum of $£ 2$ 2s．WBs voted towards the sixth bell at Rampton．
Mr．Goakes，of Peterborough，was elected a non－resideat life mem－ ber，and the mpeting closed with a henrty vote of thanks to the Rev．Knights，to the organish，alsa to the Rev．Canoa A．R．South Phillipg，Rector of Ernesbury，for allowing riagiag at bis ehurch．

MR，CORNELIUS CHARGE＇S RETURN．

Mr．Cornelius Charge，who was formerly a member of the Metro－ politan Police and a well－knowz ringer in London，has receutly re－ turned to this country from New Zealiand after an absence of 20 Fearm． At Portamouth on Sunday，July 23 ra ，For evensong，at St．Mary＇s， Portsea，he took part in a querter－peal of Stedman Triples，his first quarter－peal since he left England：J．D．Harria 1，C．Charge 2．F．W． Rogers 3，J．Topp 4，F．S．Bapley 5，T．R．Taylor 6，C．Guy（first quarter－peal as conductor）7，L．P．Cook 8.

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

ME. CHALK'S REPLY

Dear Sir, I feel that I must through 'The Ringing World' object to Mr. L. J. Clark's Lafriendly observations on my efforts to ineugurate a Benevolont Fund for Essex ringers and to some of his statements.
It is not always possible to gauge the reception of one's verbal eforts when advocating something new, but prior to the Whit Monday neeting the projected benevolent schense had been well received at places as wide apart as Walthanstow, Stanford-le-Hope, Harlow, North Weald and Great Tey. I spoke to many at these meetings on the Benevolent Fund for the first time. Some, like Mr. Clark, might have been present at more than one of these meetiggs and so sufferd boredom,' but to make a statement thrt the majority of my listeners rers bored is not a fair criticism.
At the Whit Monday meeting I may have tried the patience of some present, but surely the mover of a proposition, the only one down on the puenda that day, should be expected to put his cards on the table and befora the taking of the vote lave the right to reply. It was, indeed, an effort to put anything over in such a bad-sounding luall, but whatever I had said on that day, prepared or unprepared, and I aan claim to have given much thought or the matter beforehasd. the result of the voting would have been 'Against.' In some perts of the connty the opposition was adamant, and I doubt if anyone's effort, clear out to the late degree, weuld have braken it down. I hid the consolation, when it was all' over, that I had gpent time and money to try and benelit 'hard-hit' humanity, in this cage my unforfunate fellow-ringers.

Mr. Clark's last parsgraph is most uncalled for and offensive. The ringers in question from the Soutl-West District do think and practise benevolence, and they do desire to dwoll together in unity. Need I mention that two outstanding presentations to old servants have been made in the last two yearg-collectiva efforts flat reflect a benewaleat 5 pirit!

The reference to the Rector of Rayleigh, who presided at thie disfriat meetiog, as 'being astounded' ato tho ariticism is not true. He himself commented at the close of the meeting on the value of constructive criticism. I can assure Mr. Glark that had he been mbsent from the ditrict meeting the same matters would have been discusged, not because of the 'two defents' mentroned in bis letter, hut because there are matters bearing closely on the welfare of the Essex Association which must. receive urgent attentron. Mr. G. I. Jorce's requeat for a committeo meeting was very sound, for it would सo far to clear up the clouly atmosphere which prevails at present. My sincere wis? is that Mr; Clark will not make observations and statements in the Press which one is forced to challenge.

NO ATTACE ON CONMITTEE

Dear Sir, -I am the unfortumate victim of the circumstance that a very briel précis of what I said at Rayleigh should appear, side by side, with Mr. L. J. Clark's letter of protesi. It wonld appear. from these that I an the villain of the piece. Facts are these: Following Mr. Luflin's attack on the report. I actually supportent the committee (of which, incideatally, I am a member) by moving an awemdment to Mr. Luflin's resalution, stating that the committee already had utiler consifleration matters which covered the question of the report. I did not altack tlie committee or any officer, but I did (and do) stirongly eritbise the loose handing of the annual general meeting. I thoroughiy agree with Mr. Clark in that I was never so bored in my life, but I cannot allow any ouggestion of the Master's absence to hear rny weight whatsoever. Nor can I pess that which suggests that מo protest was made at a general meeting. To stifle criticism at a meeting of my own district until the Master was present would, to quote his own words at Chelmsford, stifle it perhaps for a long, Tong time-perhaps for ever. And if Mr. Clark cannot remember my gentle reminder, at Chelmsford, that I 'had a home to go to, and that I objected to the counsel-cross-examination of Mr. Ohalk, where all matiter should pass throuph the chair, there is no douht that it did not pass Dr. Spencer Phillips by, His gentla rebuke, after the meeting to me, that atl must be alloued their say, and my reply that "You were too hind: leave ao doubt in my mind that the Mgster is man-of-the-world enough to realise that most criticism when severe is impersonal.
I say again. As I said at Rayleigh, that I hold no feeling against ans. but that there are many things which require urgent attention. And it is the job of the commitee to do it. I knew rothing of the undercursents mentioned by Mr. Clark, wntil after the Rayleigh meeting, hut, I do know how dengerous it is for any district to meet with oppnsition which apyears to be organised, and in this respect I shall hone to bave my Eay in its proper place.
But I. can say here, for all Fssex to read, that the first thing in the report which requires attention is the rules. I find, therein, that I am committed to belfry reform ; that a member must ring a five-bell neal: that I cannot elect a member prior to a peal of finor, while I many for a peal of Triples; that a probationer must pey and not vote: that one rice-president (of two) appears to have been elected hy mistake; and other things. All of which were 'revised in 1935.'

LINCOLNSHIRE RINGERS REACH THE TOP.

PEAL IN 104 MINOR METHODS

It has not taken the North Lincolnshire ringers long, since thetr legt success, to reach the summit of achievement in Minor riaging. On Wednesday in last week at Bigby they Fang a peal in 104 methods, the Freateri number that the skill of composers bas yet been able to put into seven true extenta.

This peal had not quite the same extents as the 100 and 102 method peals. The additional methods cauld not just be introduced into one of athes of the 720 's previously used. To ring the 102 methods they had to discard one of the extents used in the peal of 100 methods and learn 23 new methods. To go on to 104 methods they had to drop yet another of the earlier 720's and introduce one with 13 further methods. It malses the early benting of their owen record all the more remarkable. The new extent introduced on this occasmon included sleven Delight and two Treble Bob methods.

Altogether there were in the peal three Little, 19 Plain, 28 Alliamce, 13 treble Bolb, 39 Deligit and two Surprige methods, and of tile extents as they were rume. Nos. $1,2,3$ and 5 were composed by Mr. $\mathbb{A}$. G. Driver, and Nos. 4, 6 and' 7 irronged by Mr. C. K. Lewis from Mr. Driver's tables.
It was fittimg that this peal should have been rung at Bighy, tor not only is it the parish where Archdeacon Parry, president of the Northern Bramela of the Lincoln Guild, fs Rector, but it was in this tower that the band's first step in their achevements rwas taken. Here it was that in February, 1935, that a peal in 14 methods was rung in which four of the present band took part, it being their first splicen peal.

The road to the record which this band has traversed since the beginning of last pear is as follows:-

| Date |  | No. of Methads | Changes  of Method |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| Feb, 12th, 1938 | Dinhoma, Lines. | 34 | 130 |

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION.  (Continued from previous column.)

I hope that members of the assaciatian, to whom Mr. Clark is appealiag, will realise one fact. We are an association os g whole and not a collection of districts one against another. And, yes, just one other thing. 'That it ir ketter to have the 'guts' openly to criticise than to whisper it in the belfry. Hornchurch, Esser.

THE ANNEAL REPORT

Dear Sir, With reference to Mr. L. J. Clark's letter, I slould like to make a correction. He writes that a speaker, which was $I_{\text {, }}$ arid that the Essex Association's Ambual Report was a disgrace, although subsequently admitting thet it ranked fourth in order of merit out of ten different annual reporte held by me.
I think Mr. Clark must have misumderstood wiat was bain at the meeting at Ravleigh. What 1 said was that I held 14 different anaual reports. that nine were far better, and that the other four were no worse than our Esfer Assoclation report. Tbis criticism of mine was going to be made whoever was present at the meetine ss I wra going to be made whoever was presenk at he, neetiog, as was unable to be present at the annual general meeting. Other criticsm from variaus members seemed to me to be fair, and from what I as suggested by Mr. Clark.

RINGER'S OUTINGS.

A ROLIND OF GLODCESTERSHIRE " TWELTES.

On Saturday, July 15th, Leicester Cathedral ringers had their annua busman's holiday. The party consisted of 32 ringers, "spares and encumbrances. A start was made at 8.30 a.m., the object in wiew being the twaive-hell towers of Gloucestershire. At the Cotswold rillage of Painswick, the party was met by a local ringer and Mr. J . Austin, of Gloucester, who for the next hour or wo wes to be guide philosopher and friend. Incidentally, in the two latter categories Jach is als right but his services as guide are certainly not to be recommended! The betutiful clsurch in a glorious getting was much ad mired end the fine old ring of bells were soon beard over the countryside. The slay at Painswick was ald too shors, end a mave was made to Cheltenhnm, where lanch was writing. The restaurant wes successfully located, in spite of Jack Auscin's endeavours to lose the party After lunch a visit was paid to the Parish Church, where the visitors were met by ${ }^{3} \mathrm{r}$. William Dyer and numexaus other ringers. Touches of Cinques were braught home, but a course of Cambridge Msximus came 'unstuck' in the last lead. After tea the party moved on to the beautiful Abhey at Tewkesbury, where Mr. H. Devereux was waiting. The massive tower wes ascended with many evidences of bellows to mend, and the bells were set going fo Stedman Cinques followed by Cambringe Maximus. The more energetic members of the party went to the top of the tower and found that the views to be abtained were something to marvel at. Afterwaras a pleasant hour was spent at a local hosteliz, where all too soon came the words Time, genlfomen, please. Final farewellg were said and a start made for home. Leicester was reached at the somewhat disgraceful hour of 1.30 an.m. The outing was voted the most suecessful and enjoyable that the society lias ever held, and the best thanks of all are due to the kind friends who made such admirable arrangementa at the qarious placeg of call

BEDFORDSHIRE FXCURSION

Ickleton ringers had a very enjoyable tour itto Bediordshire on June 17h. At Eaton Socon they were met by the captain of the local band, who made them velcome. After ringing they went on to Bromhan and again the local captain gave them a welcome. Another risiting team were busy on the church bells, aild the Ickleton men enjoyed bearing somes good ringing. Afler having a pull themselves a move was made to Bedford for lunch before going on to Husborne Cratioy. When they arrived there a wedding was taking place, so they were just in time to give the bridal couple a wedding peal. The Ficar (the Rev. A. Rust) canae inta the boliry and gave the visitore a hearty welcome, Going on to Wobur: hey Herbert, who lad arranged tea for them at the Magpie Hetel. Afterwards some of the lacal ringers made the pisitors welcome at the church and all bad a ring on the grand peal of bells. The ride throutz the pars on the Duke of Bedford's egtate on the wry Biggleswade was enjoyed. The party were accompanied by their Ticar (tine Rev. A. E. Pmmey) and a fave friends, who wish to thank all tho olergy for granting permission to ring and to ell friends for their lyearty welcome.

A HALF-DAY IN THE GOTSWOLDS

A parky of South Staffr ringers liad a ringing outing in the Cotswolds on June 24th, but it was an vnfortumato choice as it rainen intermittently almost the whold of the afternoon and evening. However, a start was made from Wolverhampton at 1.35 p-ma, arriving at Chipping Campden, situated in a hollow of tho Cotswolds, at 3.15. Here they rang Grandsire, Siedman and Plain Bob on the mellow ring of eight (teyor 24t cwt.). Fram Campden they went to Loughborough, whera the church and willage are tucked away in the bils sud after ringing, a zun of 2 miles brought them to the lite marke place of Stow-on-the-Wold, where there is a magnificent peal of eight (tenor 30 cwt.). Tlue heavy bells bothered most of the visitors, sund the best ringing there was a really good falt in peal.
Alter tea a short jonrney to Lower Slaugiter, a pretty willage situated on the benks of a stream which flowa into the River Windrush The six bells are in two tiers so that the trebles can scarcely ve beard, the ringing chamber, moreover, is illuminated by means of 3 rather inadequate cil lanip. In spite of this an ercellent 240 of Oxford Treble Pohs Minor was brouglat round, as well as Kent Treble Bob and Gracdsire Doubles. The final objective was Bourtou-on-theWater, where the Windrush flows through the centre of be village. At St. Lawrence's Church the ringing incladed Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob hajor and Kent Major.
The principal items of Interast during the day were the magnificent Perpendiculiar style tower of Campden Church, the peculiar ootes of the hells at Longlorough. which sound like a peal cast in minor key, the peal board in Lower Slaughter Church recording the peal of 5,040 Grandsize Donbles, 15 callings, in 1928, the fine peal of bells at Stow, and, instly, the almost incredible amount of pork pie and tomatoes corsumed by certain members of the party at the Fish Inn on the way home, which was reached at about 12 midnight to $12.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$.
Thuaks are due to the various incumbents for permission to ring, to the ringers who so tindly met them at some of the towers (in one case causiog some jnconvenience), to Mr. Fred Bennett, who made all arrangements for the tour, and to his two friends and himself for placing their carg at their disposal

A LONG RUN

All Saints', Maldou, TSsses, ringers had a trip into Suffolk and Norfolk for their annual outirg on June 24tt. They were accompanied by their wives and friends, including Mr. Shepneard-Walwyn, the bind ringer. At Debeaham they were met by Mr. W. Rumsey and soon dat the bells going in Bob Major, Double Nowwicl, Kent and Stedman, and all enjoyed the ring on that beautiful peal. At Diss, in Norfolk, they were received by one of the lecal band, and, aiter ringing, had lanch at the King's Head. In the afternoon they visited Midenhall, where the annual Sulfolk Choir Festival was being held. After a rehearsal the Vicar kindly gave the ringers permission to ring before the evening featival service. The last tower was Haverhill, and the journer home was made via Yeldbnm, Bocking and Witham. Home was zerched ab 11 oclock after a journey of about 150 miles. The ringers thank the inoumbeats for granting the use of the bells and also the fowerkeepers for mecting them and laclpiug to make the nuting an cujoyable one.

IPSWICE RINGERS IN LONDON

Iondon was the renderrous of St. Mary-le-Tower Society. Ipswich, on the occasion of their annual outing on June 24ih, the party of 23 leaving Ipswicly at $6 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$, and arriving back at 1 a.m. on Sunday. The ruging hegan at 10 a.m. at St. Dunstan's, Steprey, where Mr. F. E. Thompson met the party. Cambridge Royal and Stedman Caters were rung. Next at St. Leonard's, Shoredileh, some SuperlatIve and Cambridge Maximus, also two courses of Formard Maximus were brought round. At St. Michael's, Cornhill, Mr. Tom Longdon had averything ready for more Cazbridge Maximus. St. James, Clertenwell, provided Double Norwich and Superlative Major. Dinaer Talbot's. London Wall, was followed by visits to St. Lawrence Tewry far Lamion, Superlative. Cambridge and Plan Bob Major, fand St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside. for Cambridge Maximus and Siedman Cinques. As min extra turn St. Magnta', London Bridge, was risited ${ }_{4}$ and a rood course of York Strprise and Double Norwich foral, bejeved to be the first course of York Surprise to be ruag in London, were brouglit round. An hour's liandbelt ringing at the Coftee Pot with Ancient Society of College Youths friends end social intercourse followed. Through the kindmess of Mr. A. A. Hughes, the party were shown the bells already cast for the mew peal to be put into Liverpool Cafhedral. Thanks are due to jncumbents, steeplekeepers and others for their help in making the outing a huge success.

A SCOTTISH OUTING

The annual outing of the St. Mary's Cathedral Society, Glasgow, took place on Saturday, June 24th, in the form of a motor-conch tour of the Snott romatry. Travelling hy coach via Biggar and Peebles, they reached Melrose in time for lunch, and afterwards vieits were aid to Melrose Abbey and Dryburgh Abbey. As this was festival day in Melrose and Peebles, both towns were gaily beflagged, and the carnivel Trocessions, etc.. ndded interest, to the four
On the return journey a visit was paid to Edinburgh Castle, in which is situated the Shrine-the Scottish national war memorinal. At St. Mary's Cathedral half an hour's rigging, consisting of Stedman and Grandsire Caters, was enjoyed after tea, and Glasgow was reached nt $10 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. after an enjorable day. Thariks are due to Mr. Charles Raine. Who arranged the vitit and had the bells ready to "pull off." and to the Rinht Rev. Bishop Logie-Danson, Provost of the Cathedral, for the use of the bells. Also to Mr. Thomas Winderam, who brought nia accordion and kent the party in lively mood on the way, s.ssisted hy other memhers of the hamd, with a variety of tuneful (?) instranments.

DEATH OF MR. S. O. FERRY

ORTGTNATOR OF 'FIERY'S LIST

There has passed away recently one who, a geraeration ago, was a tower of etrength to the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association in the person of Mr. Samuel Detavius Ferry. He retired from bis position ens mager of the Steel Works at Elswick (Sir W. G. Armstrong. Whitworth and Co.), Newcastle-upon-Tyme, to live iu the New Forest, at Atholl Lodge, near Ringwood, shortly after the war and practically gave up his connection with ringing While af Elswick it was through his influence that Mr. W. H. Earber came to the works and bas remained there ever since, and his coming was a great incentive to ringing in the North.
Mr. Ferry rang in over 20 peals for the association. ranging from Triples to Royal in the standard methods, with a sprinkling of Surprise peals, and was very useful at the heavy end.
He was pertaps better known as the origiantor of 'Eerry's List," details of which appear in every anmual report of the association. Under this sclieme the value of Smanday ringing is tabulated for each tower, and at the end of the twelve months a first and second certificate is awarded to the towers having premier points in two divisions one for five and six-bell towers. and the other for eight, ten and twelve bells. This has promoted much healthy and framdiy rivalry amongst the competing towers and has encouraged regular Sunday ringing to a wonderful extent. The scheme, or a modified form of it, has been adopted by other associations.
Mr. Fersy was nearly 80 years of age and was an elder brother of Mr. E. E. Farty, a past secretayy and president of the association, and who also did veoman work in the North.
Mr. Ferry leaves a widow and one datughter to mourn their loss. He was interred at Ringwood Parish Churchyard.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

WYKE REGES SILENT BELLS

The quarterly aeeting of the Dorchester Hranch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held at Upwey on St. Swithin's Day. The drench ing rain in the morning gave over to britliant sumshine in the afternoon, und the bells of the Parish Church were pealing early in the ufternoon prior to ine service. In every way it was a bappy githering.
The Rector (the Rev. A. S. Brrant) officiated at the service, and the uddress was given by the Rev. T. R. Teague, Tiasar of Preston (Heymouth wh whoke from the prophecy of Isaiah vi. Whom siall I send: Who will go for us? Then eaid I, here am I, send me. Mr.
Tergue said he came with a message of goodwilt from Preston and siution Poynta, where they had tour bells, two of which were dated 1629. He revisualised his first experience in South Africa us a missionary and the impression creaced by the beanty of rlythm of the Zalus' lamguage and the click of a thousand tongues in motship which was so diferent from worship as they experienced it in this country, He went on to say how rich was this country in bells, in history and in tradition, wirich in themselves were an achnowledgment of the sovereiguty of God on Sunday, of duty, of adoration and of worship.
Following the service bhe members were invited to tea by the Upwer band in the Reading Room, and the luospitality aecorded was in the best tradition of the Grild. About. 50 members and friends were oresent.
Sulbequently the usual quarerly mecting mas held, and iu the absence on holiday of the chairman, Canon Slemeck (Rector of Majrien Newton) depulised st the unanimous request of the usembers prosent. He was supported by the Rector of Tipwey, the Rev. A. T. Iennines).
Reports were made of recent meeting at Calne, Maidcu Newton and Milton Abbey

The semetary stated that the next mepting would be held at Bere Regis-if suitable to the Vicar-early in September, and a ringing practice at Abbotshury and Miniden Newton.
Ganor Slemeck proposed a hearty vote of thans to the Rector and the preacher for his inspiring address and welcomed all risiting ringers, Ho also thanked the organist, and blower.
A specisal vote of thanks was accorded to the Upwey band for their invitation and hospitality, snd, on their belnalf, the Rector said how glad they were to welcome their friends

An urgent plea was made by the yecretary for the restoration of the silent peal of eight, at Wyike Regis, and suggestions were made for the further support of the funds in hand for this purpose.

The meeting farminated after a liestor vote of thanks ladi been passed to the chairman.
The following towers were represented: Bere Regis, Darchester, Maiden Newton, Preston. Stratton, Wpwew, Bowington arad Whke Regis, and there were visitors from North Cadbury. Many members visited the famous Wisling Well quite nemr the church.
An excellent practice was contimued for the learners until late in the eveming.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GULLD

MACCLESFIELD BRANCE.
The Macclesfield Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild jourmered almost to the limit of their area on Saturday week, when a ringing meeting was helit at Congleton, the first to be held at this place for i great many years. There was a minimum attendance, due no darbt to the poor weather conditions prevalifing. However, shortly nfter $3 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. ringing commenced on the melodious perl of the eight bells of St. Peters Church, and later the Guild service was conducted by the Fitar (the Rev. W. R. Johnson).
The Yicar. who extended a very warm welcome to the ringers, gave a very znteresting address and spoke of the duties of the ringers to the Church and the very necessary office the ringer holds in the life of the Clureh.

At a short basiness meoting, whicln followed tea, bhe Vicar was elected an honorary member of the Guild,
Further discussion on the proposed trip of the branch to Loughharough Bell Foundry took place, and the arrangements now appear to he taking shape.

A resolution was moved that the secretary should send. on behalf of the branch, a letter of congratulation to the Lincolnshire ringers Who recently rang the peal of 3 jinor in 102 methods: a trulv great periomance. The preyious best, in 84 mathods, hat heen rung by menters of the Chester Diocesan Guild. It was felt, howntrur, that thr Cheshire men would not let a mere 19 methods stand between them and the record, and no doubt an attempt witl be rande in the near future to emulate the Lincolnshire lana's excellent performance.
A hearby vote of thanks to the Ficar and wardens for atlowing the nse of the bells, to the Vicar for so vers kindly conductine the service and ncting as chairman at the meeting, also to Sr. Slater, of the loral compans. for having everything in readiness for the meetine. was praposed by Mr. J. Bradbury, secarded hy Mr. T. W. L. Slack. and receired with acclamation.

The Vicar suitably responded and bfterwarde further use was made of the bells. The methods rang durime the aftermoon comsisted of Frandsirs and Stedman Triples, Camhridge Surptise Minor, Plain Boh Maiar. Kent and Oxford Trehle Enh Major ana Double Forwich Court Boh Wajor on the tower bells, whilst courses of Grendsire Triples ann Plain Bob Major were rang on handhells.

UNOFFICIAL RINGING MASTERS

Sir, -So it appery you have failed to convince at least one large society on this question of branch ringing masters-which goes to prove that Mr. Amos is not alone in his mantention on this metter. Despite what you say about + it can anly be done by an association branclr master," I notice in "The Ringing World " of Jume 30th thet the Yorkshire Association lias taken the oppostte view, and hes very wisely and rightly decided that a lrancli may have such in person, but on the distinet understanding that no afficial stufas extached to such an appointment as far as the association is concerned, and I am told by two of its primcipals that this recomraendation was placed before its members and endorsed nem. con.

Though my views on this matter may be stronger than some people's, I consider the Forkshire Association has given a lead which others will do well to follow. It is a pity they did not go even further and include the general ringing master in the definition as welt, for commonsense policy is, I should think, saficient to tell anyous that we should not think it right to ever dream of calling a person the official warden 'or the afticial verger' who was not definitely attached to the church in question-neither can it be right to recognise ringing masters as such. After all, if the associations have no legal veto in tha contral of any tower or bells (which ever you, Mr. Editor, do not dispute they have), they must be unoficinl and therefore at outside body!
In this diocese there has recently been formed a Vergers' Guild, which periodically holds gatheriugs like ringers. Imagine this body appointing one of its members to act at, all its services as 'the offial rerger ${ }^{*}$ ! Or pictrre a persan beivg asked to accept a Vicar's wardeaserger ' Or picture a persan beivg asked to accept a ticar s wriaen Whea anything special was to be held he would he expected to renounce his authority in favour of someone from another church, and when all was over he could live bis wardenship back ragin. What person would take a position on that hop ?-this is what, in fact, you principle is too ridiculous for words.
You seem to place considerable importance on the position of a captain if the incumbent egrees to this policy. Nize nut of ten don't know that the associations expect such a thing, or they might take n very different attitude.
The Forkshire Association 1 ans totd, have alwnys agreed to the ocal captain offciating, und it seens that this body in alixious zot to disturb & practice which, I understand, they have proved, attor many Years of experience, has worked exceedingly well. They surely deserve ohe respect of all, despite, the cheap gibe they received from the Falt Ne Ringing Worla.
P. AMOS.

Nortiamptas
stated, "We are alwor gue of my former letters, wr. Editor, you to print views with which we do pot agree, Mr. Amos now awaits the publication of this letter for proof of good faith of that statemesit.

MR. AMOS 'IN THE SOUP

Poor Mr. Amos has gone lamentably "into the soup" again. If lie had read and understood the report of the Forkshire Association'g useeting he would have known that what the pleeting discussed was the sppoirtment of "Deputy Ringing Masters in the Districts, and he would have realised that the ube of the wurd 'unoflicial' was intended to mean that the appointmert; if made, wauld not, cerry official status in the constitution of the association, because there is no provision for it in the rules.
But that is a minor catastrophe for Mr. Amos, He apparently does not know or else he las wilfully ignored the fect that the Yarkshire Association has an officially appointed Ringing Master in each District, The regulations for the management of districts provide for the election of Ringing Masters, give the Ringing Master a seat (ex-officio) on the District Committee and puts him into office, on election, for three rears. The fows present District Ringing Masters are in office until 1940. Thus the Yorkshire Association do not take an opposite view to the Fditor of "The Ringing World,' but endorse it by their rules Of course, there are none so blind as those who won't ree and none so perverse as those who deliberately distort facts.
Mr. Amos challenges us in his postscript to puhlish his letter on the sirength of an assurance given in a previous footnote. But be deliherstely ornits the essential proviso thet was laid down bt the same time, and that was that views must be reasonably expressed. Unfortunately, Mr. Amos, in his anriety to score over those who do not agree with him, ofter allows his por to run away with his discretion,
We have allowed Mr. Amos to hrve his say and we must now ask him to carry on his further efforts at reform in this direction by other means than the morrespmidence colamas of "The Bingiag World.

PEAK SOCIETY

The Ashofer meeting of the Peak Society, held on Saturday, July 15th, was well attended, more than 20 members and friends being present from the following towers: Ashover, Bolsover, Chestertield, Darley Dale, Dore, Matlock, Ripley, Treeton, Stoke-ov-Trent, Staveley and Diffield. Some good practice was put in in the staviard methods, whilst a course each of Cambridge and Londion Surprise were brought round, a course of Superlative only fating in the last lead.

APPREClATION

To the Editor.

Sir,-May I, througb these columne, tender my thanks and deep eppreciation to Messrs. T. Taylor and Co. and their staff for so many kindnesses given to myself and fellow-ringers in allowing us to use the grand little ring of bells in their Foundry Campanile? As will be seen, I have completed 100 peals in this tower from 5,000 to 13,440 changes (pot to mention many failures), and on every occasion I have heen recoived very conateously, for whicl! I now tender sincere thanks.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands

OLD MEMBERS OF ASSOCIATIONS.

The gesture made by the Oxford Diocesan Guild, at their annual meeting, to old and infirm members, by resolving to retain them without subscriptions, is one which naturally met with sympathetic and very general approval, the principal division of opinion being on the point that the proposal did not go far enough. Men who have long served their association deserve well at the hands of the members, and when old age and disability overtakes them it should be deemed a privilege, if they are in straitened circumstances, to retain them on the roll without calling upon them for further contributions, These men cherish their attachment to the association which perhaps they have supported throughout a long ringing career, and it would be something of a slur on the association if they were lost because they were unable to meet their ansual subscription-and, unfortunately, there are cases where even pence count. The concern of many of the members of the Oxford Guild was whether the proposal should not extend to oid but necessitous members who are still able to ring, as well as to those who are debarred by infirmity. Someday, perhaps, these may be included.

Some associations extend free membership to all the ringers who have been subscribers for a certain number of years. This 'freedom' of an association after long years of loyal support is a thing which is valued by the recipients, not because they are relieved of the small annual subscription, but because of the recognition of their services which is implied. Some societies, of course, cannot afford, owing to their restricted financial position, to offer this honour of free life membership, but there are few who would not readily do it if they could.

There is an argument which we have heard put forward that it should be the duty of the church to which the old ringer has been attached, to continue to pay his contributions after infirmity has laid him aside, but that, we think, is rather an impracticable and uncertain kind of scheme. True, it would be a recognition of long service, ended by disability, but church authorities, often unable to make ends meet, are seliom ready to pay their ringers' affiliation fees, and are not more likely to find the subscriptions of those who have ceased, even through no fault of their own, to render service to the church. The happiest solution is for the associations to honour their old members, and, after all, financially, they will be no worse off than if they lose the subscriptions because the members are unable to pay. On the other hand, by making them 'freemen,' the associations can demonstrate that the 'brotherhood' of the Exercise, so often talked about, is no empty phrase.

WEDDING BELLS AT PUTNEY

On Saturdey, Jaly 29th, a marriagg was molemnised fot St, Mary's, Putney, between Mr. A. C. Williams and Miss L. Machin. Mr. "Alp ${ }^{1}$ Williams has been a member of the Putney local band for some 15 years and also of the London County Association. The wedding was a ample but prothy ceremony. The best man was a business colleague, whilst the bride, attired in white vith a sheaf of red roses, was attended by two bridesmaids in smoke blue. A reception was held at the home of the bride (who is a member of St. Mary's Fellowship Guilla), Where the ringers toasted the happy couple, after riuging 'Merrie Peales' at the Parish Churoh. The "nowlyweds" left for Southsea for the honeymoon, and will reside at Southfields. Wandaworth.

THE PEAL AT INVERARAY.  A HAPPY ADVENTURE.

Gellege Youths' Visit to Scotland.

It very rarely happens thas a peal is rung under such happy conditiona as that at Inveraray, Argyllshire, on July $22 n d$, by ten members of the Ancieat Society of College Yoatha-excilement and anticipation in the various departures from home, followed by realisation wonderful in zoore ways than one.
The members Were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lewis at their Scottish home 'Dun o'Bhuilg ' (prononncen 'Voolig '), Kilmory Knap, Argylshire. It jrs situated at the end of Loch Sween, opposite the Isle of Jurs. E. P. D. and wilí (on holiday tour in Scotland) were the first arrivals, followed on Friday by J. F. B. H. and the hon. treasurer's party, which included Mrs. E. (pilot), the Master and the conductor. Their route was via Great North Road to Ecotch Corner, Cartide, crossing the border at Gretna Green, Ergine Fierry, Loch Lomond, the head of Loch Long and up Rest and be Thankiul to Loch Fyne, over the Crinman Canal and thence down Loch Bween. The trati party (made up of the hon, secratary, W. F. P., G. L. D. and Mr. H.) left, Euston at 9.15 p.m. on Friday, one member being literally chicked in just as the guard's whistle was blowing to the groat relief of the other three. Following arrival at Glusgow ther travelled by steamer via Firth of Clyde and the Kyles of Bute to Ardishaig. Here they were met by their host, and a run of 27 miles along tlee shore of Loch Fyne brought there to Inveraray. The following is a brief itimerary of the activities
Fridny evaning : Oherla up on the lobster pots, and much atrenuons rowing by one of the crew, unaided by the bow oar,
Saturday: Departure for Inveraray ( 45 miles). Welcome by Mr. Anderson Campbell. Adjustment of ropes, raising bells and sounddeadening the traps and doors by means of snils and sacks fent by the bost. Picnic lunct at Eoot of tower and arrival of train party. The peal, followed by reatoralives and the journey back to Knap for scpper. Great satisfaction all roumd. Good bells, good 'go,' good ringing. And so to bed.
Sunday morning: Cheery breakfast party. Many lappy returne to Mrs. Lewis. At midday, sailing in the Sound of Jura. Good breese and choppy sea. Nohody actarly sea-aick. At 3.30 p.m. ead departure of train party to Lochgilphead and thence by hus to Glasgow. Othera walk to Loch Caolisport (Killesport), and, after supper, a visit to Castle Sween. Ruins of an uncient fortress on tive banks of the Loch. Many disngrecments happened here centuries ngo.
Monday morming: Permed labour corps for jobs of work in garden. Sailimg. Lunch. Sail to Eileen Mhor, an uninlabited island, containing the ruins of a twelfth contary chapel and St. Cormac's cell (eighil centary). A very impressive appt. After supper, fishing until 11. 30 . Glorious moonlight night, but, not dark, and a wonderiul scene. Great fialiermen ali, and a fair catch. Hosts daughters a great crew and fine stailors. dnti-exposure treatment, followed by bed.
Tuceday morning: Sad departares.
It must be rememibered that Kilmory is ten miles from the nearegt Post Office and Kirk, 151 miles from the nearest inn, and ahout 65 from the nearest rail station, so the expedition wes really quite an adiventare, with criforgetrable memories for ail, not least anong them the vonderful hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Eewis and the help of their daghters, and the awe-inspiring scenery-tio preat peaks (the Prps of Jura) straight accoss the sound from Dun a'Builg, the mists, the wonderful view of the mountains looking up Loch Sween and the Sound, and the gorgeous colouring, mele an everlasting impression on one's mind. It is a myatic country and one unconsciously becomes lost in the part.
The peal nttempt was the outcome of an invitation made by the Duke of Argyll to Mr. Lewis on the occasion of the society's tercentenary dinmer, and all are most grataful to Hig Grace and those concerned in the welcome extended to the wisitors.

DEATH OF MR. W. F. ELLINGHAN.  ACTIVE MTDDLESEX RINGER

We regret to have to record the death of Mr. W. F. Ellingham, of Heston, Middleaex, one of the ringers at St. Leonard's Churels.

The funeral took place on Thursiay, July 27 th, the service being conducted by tho Vicar (the Rev. H. Crages). The bells were rung mufled with teanor open one stroke before the service. The deceased was buried at Isleworth Cemetery, close by some other noted West. Middleser ringers, and in sight of Isleworth Charch, where they did moss of their ringing. In the evening a fully muffled quarter-pesl of Bob Major was rung to his memory by C. d. Tricker, G. W. Morrif, M. W. Norman, A. C. Langiord, H. H. Chandler, F. J. Cattermoul, O. S. Bird (oonductor) and J. Herbert

Mr. William Framefs Elliggham was born 51 years ago and had lived all his life is Heston and the surrounding neighbourhood. He had been a most regular member of tho lowal band for n mumber of yeara. Not a prolific peal ringer, lie had, neverthelas, rung a number of peels in plain methods, and was able to conduct. Always mont willing to participate in any rimging when called wpon, he will be sadly missed in his local tower and the district. He was a member of the College Fouths, the Iondon Connty Asseciation and tite Middleser Association monges others. He leaves a widow and son to mourn their loss.

AN EXBIBITION RTNG.

It is interesting to notice the name of Mr. Charles Painter appearing in a peal of Grandsire Triples, luag last Saturday at Bingmer, Sussex. Mr. Painter has been a ringer ab this church for something like 50 Fears, having learnt there at the time the late Rev. C. D. F. Davies Fas curate.
Mr. Painter did tho peal ringing for mauy years but he was in the first peal of Stednan Triples on the bells in 1894 and also rang the 7th in the samn year to the quickest, pent on the bells- 2 hours 32 minutes tenor $14 \frac{1}{2}$, cwt.-which everyone thought was pretty good going. Last Saturday's penl took 3 hours 14 minutes.
The bells at Ringmer are an "exhibition' peal. They were cast by Mears and Staimbank and were exhibited at the Great Exlibition in Fyde Park in, we believe, 1893. In those days they were reputed to be one of the finest rings at their weight in the kingdom.

Mr. W. H. Fussell, of Slough, bas returned to peal ringing, affer an absence of seven months, enforced by his serious operation last January. He took part in a peal of Superiative Surprise at Hughenden, Buchs, on Saturday, and, not only was he no worse for the experience, but declared next duy that le felt betfer and "as light as a fairy. He was given a cordial weleome by his tean maies.

Five Buckinghanshire towers were represented in the peal, and two of the baud. Harry Jones, of Ellesborough, and Walter Lee, of Wendover, rayg their first peal of Surprise Major Verger and clerk of St. Margaret's, Leicester. Mr. Ernost Morris, hon. secretary of the Midland Counties Association, celebrated his 50tli birthday by a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on Saturday or the light eight at his parigh church. It was called by his brother Meeting one short at Cwwerran, Mon, a locsl ringer (Mr. Ivor Williams) readily agreed to ring the tenor for a peal of Doubles and was made a member of the Llandaf and Monmouth Diocesan Associrtion before starting. Cwmearvan bas always been noted for the hospitality of its churchwarden, Mr. Ballinger, of the Bourne Farm, from the time of the late Mr. Edwin Barnetf's residence at Monmouth, He entertained everyone to tea at the Bourne aifter the peal an Satrirday. Mr. Ballinger is a ringer, and, although nearing four score years, can still ring a sis-score of Doubles.
Mr: W. J. Nevard, of Great Bentley, Essex, now well on in the efglitieg, fas just "eompleted the circle" at Girby-le-Soken. Last Saturday he ranf the fourth there to a peal of Double Norwich Major. FIRST FOR 50 YEARS.
Mr. Cornelius Charge has scored his first peal gince his return from New Zealand. He rang it at Soberton, Hants, on July 25th, with another ex-member of the Metropolitan Police Force, Mr. Ernest Brett. After 20 years absence it nust have been a happy experience for Mr. Charge.
The cansecration of the new Roman Catholic Bishop of Lancaster (the Rt. Rev. Thonuas Edward Flymm, P.L.D., M.A.) on July etth was celebrated at Chorley, Lancs, by en peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at the R.C. Church of St. Mary. Before going to Lancaster the Bishop was Rector of St. Mary"s.

After the peat the ingers were kindly entertained to refreshments by the clergy of St. Mary's.
The composition was the late Mr. Arthur Knights' No. 4, which was rung for the first time.

A peal in four Minor methoda wes ring at Aston Clinton, Bucke, on July 24th, tbe frat time that a peal in more than one method had been rung on the bells.

Mr. William Botirill left Leicester on July 27 th to reside at Luton Beds He is cane of the vice-presidente of the National Police Guilu and Has been e regular member of the Leicester Thorsday band of P.G.'s (these initials do not stand for "Police Guild,' the members of which grab only wrong-doars).

As an official "farewell,' the Thursdayites arranged a peal attempt at Claybrook and a really fire peal of Cambridge resulted.
Tho Thursiayites are, indeed, sorry to lose 'Bill', as he is familiarly known to his friends, and aithough this was a farewell peal, they sincerely hope he will often drop over to Leiccster and, of course, that it wil! be on a Thursdey.

FATHER AND SON"S 100th PEAL TOGETHER

Ar. James Swindley and his som, Mr. Percy Swinaley, of Chester rang their ove hundredth peal together when the latter called a peal of Cambridge Surprise at Farndon on Saturday. They are, it is believed, the first father and son in the Chestar Guild to have rung this number together.
A band of bachelors on Seturday rang a peal of Minor at Tolleshunt D'Arcy, Essex-tbe first peal on the bells since 1913.

There are not many peals rung nowadays at the Waterloo Tower, Quex Park, but on Sunday a band of Kent and Surrey ringers rang a peal of Keat Treble Bob Royal there to enable Mr. A. A, Boar to complete the secquence of peals of Kent Treble Bob from Minor to Maximus.
Five members of the Dobbie family took part, and it was Errest J.'s 175th pes?
Mr. E. Stitch "completed the circle" of Bridgend tower, not for the first, but for the sixth time, when he took part in the peal there on July 19tin

ANOTHER LINCOLNSHIRE RECORD.

ONE HUNDRED & TWENTY-FIVE METHODS.  Hine Spliced 720's in One Peal.

Before the report of their remarkable peal in 104 methods appeared in print last week, the North Lincolnshire band lad made pet another record. Having in their previbus success spliced as many methods es it is at present possible to inciude in saven trae extents, they went on, on Wednesday week, to ring mine extents ( 6,480 changes), which included 125 methods. The two additional extents were those dropped from the 102 and 104 method peals in order to extend the number.
Have they any more worlds ieft to canquer in this particular phase of ringing? Thas peal is a great end culminating triumpla, and once again Mrs. Jack Bray, Frank Lord, Charles Mótuiness. Jack Brey, Jack Millhouse and George Feirn will earn the whole-learted congratulations of the Exercise. There is nothing we can say to add to the admiration which will be felt for the Eingers upon this pertormance, but tha band's own appreciation of their conductor is well hut simply expressed in the words of ane of them, 'George is iruly great."
In the peal they rang last weel there were 243 changes of method, and of the nine extente. six were compased br Mr. A. G. Driver and three arranged by Mr. C. K. Lewis.

THE FIRST PEAL OF SFLICED SLTRPRKE MNOR.

Dear Sir, I feel that I shonld like a word or two in which to congratulate the Lincolnshire band, and not forgetting, the Cheshire baud, on their fine performances. We say 'Wetl cone. But 1 wonder if ringera to-day ever realise or give one thonght to that band, emong the pioneers of spliced Minor riaging, who in the village of Tibenham for tho Norwich Diocesan Assocjation rang tile first peal of spliced Surprige Minor. Sad to say there are only two of that company living to-day-Mr. John Snellivg, still of Tibenlaam, and the writer. The peal comprised 14 Surprise methods in seven extents and was rung on Thursday, January 23rd, 1913.

MIDLAND COUNTYES ASSOCIATION.

The Derby District of the Midiand Counbies Association held a very succersful mpeting at Duffield on Saturday week. Despite very incler ment weather, 30 zingers atteaded from Beestons. Stapleford, Heptom, Burton, Ripley, Bolsover, Heanor, Sandiecre, Nottinglam, Draycatt and Derby, with members of the local company. Tlie methods rung included Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Kent Treble Bob Royal, DuField, Forward and Little Bob Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Double Norwich, Cambridge, Bristol and Superlative, while a course of London was unfortunately lost in the last two leads.
At the business meeting held in the belfry it was decided to hold the next monthly meeting at Belper on Saturday, September 2nd,
The ringers verv much appreciated the welcome extended to them by the Rev. Dr. W. M. Irwin. A vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to the local ringers for having all in readinoss was proposed by Mr. James Pagett, of Derby Cathedral compary and carried unanimously, after which ringing was contimad until $8.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.

PEAL NOTES

(Continuef from previous column.)
By an error, in our issue of July 2lst, a'star' became aftarlsed to the name of Mr. W. Henry Young, in the Ewyas Harold peal of Doubles, indicating that it was his first peal, Actually Mr. Youug has been ringing peals for many years. Hu used to bo an instructor in the Hereford District.

Youth and age were associated in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Mitchem, Surrey, on Saturday week, when John Davison, aged 13, rang kis first peal, and Mr. David Wright celabrated his 79th birthdey. It was also a birthday compliment to Mr. J. S. Hawkins, hon. eecreiary of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Society,
The first peal on the six bells at Cadbury, Devon, was rang on Sunday week. All the band except Mr. C. R. Lilley, the conductar, rang their first peal of Stedman. The ringers wish to thank Mr. Churchwarden Lagrworthy for kindly providag reireshments after the peal, and Mr. M. L. Coles, the lacal captain, for making arrangements and getting the bells ready.
Three of the Sunday servire Fingers at Ranworth, Norfolk, took part in o peal of Mivor on July 22nd, Timothy Budgen and Miss Pearl Grapes ringing titeir frst peal at the first attempt and Bertie Grapea his first peal inside.
Plain and simple Bob Minor, but some useful work was accomplighed by ringing a peal in this mathod at Areley Kings, Worcestershire, on July 22nd. The treble man, who is a member of the local band, scored his first peal at first attempt; while H. Horgh, of the Claines band, rang his first peal of Minor. The leader of the Hartlebury ringers (A. W. Glazzard), the conductor, has now called his first peal other than Doubles, and revealed his capacity by utilising geven different callings. Incidentally this was the first peal on the bells since their tuning and rehanging by Tayiors orer a year ago.

RINGERS WEDDINGS.

St. Mary Magd. Rectory, Bridgnorth,

Shropshire.
July 25 th, 1939.
Messrs. John Taylor & Co.,
Loughborovgh.
Dear Sirs,
We are very pleased indeed with the work that you have done and consider it a fine piece of engineering. The tone of the six old bells is greatly improved and the two new ones harmonise well.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) J. STEWART JOBLING.
The ring of six bells, tenor $8 \frac{3}{3}$ owte, at St. Mary Magdalene, Bridgnorth, has been tuned, augmented to eight and hang in new framexork.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The balls of Euntsham, Devar, have been restored by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. and are to be rededicated this evening at 7 p.m. "יु the Archdeacon of Exeter.

Huntshem was the home of the Troytes, and in 1877 C. A. W. Troyte, a Triajty Hall, Cambridge, man, and author of Troyte's 'Change Ringing, completed a band, atherwise composed of Oxford University Scciety ringers, who rang at AppIeton 'the first peal ever rung by members of the two wniverbities without the essistance of any other persons.
Some of the others who took part were the Rev. F. E. Fobiusor (condector) Mr. (as he then was) O. D, P. Davies and Mr. G. H. Phillatt (who togethar founded the Gloucester and Bristal Diocesan Association), Mr. F. A. Milne, who became president of the Mfiddesex Association, and others who subsequantly abandoned ringiog. Before that time his brother, J. E. Troyte (ondergraduate of Christ Ohurch, Oxford), was an extremely active member of the Oxford Society.
There aro two attractive ringing gatherings on August Bank Holiday. In the South, there is to be a relly at Leetherheed, Surrey, and in the North, the North Notts Association and the Sheffield and District Society are holding a joint meeting at Retford, Notts.
Foundations for a new All Hallowa' Churah ate 'Twickeminm are now being formed and the shape of the tower is distingwishable. The church is to be built of stone brought from all Hallowe', Lombnrd Streat, London. But will the bells go, tao? Or will they find a home elsewhere?
The denth occarred on Saturday of Mr. Joinn Overton, of Bridg. north. The funeral took place on Wednesday.
The achevement of the Nortli Lincolnshire band in ringing a peal of nine extents of spliced Minor in 125 methods is a "brain twister." Many ringers would go crazy long before they could reach this stage of ringing and we are not sure that the Lincolnshire band may not have an oye on their future comfon if anything should bappen to them.
We hear that one of them has already obtained a job at a Lincolashire mental lospital repairing the pads in the padded cells.
at a meeting of ringers in the North the other day, a vote of thanks was accorded to the caterer for the fine tea supplied. 'I am pleased to hear that," esaid the hostess in reply, "it was come left o'er from last week.'

"WARFIELD' IS 'CASSIOBURY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir, I and informed that the method ruag at and named Warfield on May 20th had previously been rung at Watford in May, 1936, $88{ }^{\prime}$ Cassiobury.
I am not surprised, for I wondered why such a good method, published in 1924, should remain unrung for so long & timb buh I am sorry I failed to connect "Warfield 'with "Cassiobury " us " Berkshire without 7th.'s.'
The footnote should now read. 'First peal in the method (Cassiobury) by all the bend and for the Guid.'. With all due apologres.

ILKLEY BELLS TO BE RECAST.  MEMORIES OF JASPER SNOWDON.  1kley in Yorkshire has more than one clatm to fame. What gome

 one has called the Torkslireman's authem is sung about Ilkiey's moor, but to ringers its greatest interest hes in the fact that it was here, at the Vicarage, that Jasper Whitfeld Snowdon was borm, and it was at the Parish Churcis that he first ncquired the interest in change ringing which eventualiy had such far reaching results, through his influence as a writer of techmical books on the art. It is here, too, under the shadow of the tower, that he lies buried.And now Ilkley bells, whicla are as intimately assaciated with the name of Snowden ne the name of Snowdon is with change ringing, are to be recast by Massrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.
Jesper Snowdon was born shortly after his father had been appointed Fiesr of Ilkley, and one of the first things to which the Rev. Foln Snowdon tarned lis attention was the restoration of the bells. There were three at that time, dated respectively 1609,1636 aud 1676 . The two heaviest were cracked. The outcome of the Vicar's efforts was a new perl of six, cast by Trylor, in 1845 , and the fifth, spon which this is recorded, bears the name of the Rey. John Snowdon, as well ms those of the four cliurchwardens of the time. The bells were opened by being chimed for sorvice on Suaday, January 21 th, 1846.

ILKLEY PARISH CHURCH

After leaving Romsall and settling down to mechanical engineerme, Jasper Snowdon found his way to the belfry and became interested in rigging, but, heing unable to got on with the old ringers, he dropped it for a period until 1870, when, the old hands falliug out, he formed the Ilktey Amateur Society, which prospered so much under his leadershin that they soon wauted more bells. Vinder the advice of Sir Edmund Beckett Deuison (afterwards Lord Grimthorpe). whe was a friend of the fanily, a treble and tenor were added and the old fourth recast a semi-tone lower, the whole peal being rehung in an oak frame at ecost of about ezso, of which the Ilkley Amateur society themselves contributed 850 . The hells were firgt rung as an octave for divine gervice on November $23 \mathrm{rd}, 1873$, and they have gone on ever since.
Jasper Snowdon died unexpectedly after at short illness on November $16 \mathrm{th}, 1985$, at the age of 41 , and was buried in the family grave in Inkley Churohyard. In 1887 the change ringers of England placed a memorial Etained glass window in the north aisle iljustrative of the art of ringing and based upon the 250 h Panlm. So Ilkley Chareh is full of the memories of Jasper Whitfield Snowdou, whose jnfuence is still at worle more than 50 years after his death.

BELLRINGERS WITH GRIEVANCES.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,-I cannot understand why, among bellingers, there are great number who are continually grumbling, ialling out and backbiting. And I cannot understand why much of the brief epace in "The Ringing World" is used for the airing of trifling grievances. Isu't bellinging part of the infuential voice of the Christian Church? It is a great pity that mingling with its masic there always seem to be people who prefer to be out of tune. I refer to those Who cause much unpleasantness.
Surely bellringers, as Christians, should strive to bridg differences and brigg abont reconciliation. They seent to forget the Christian wer at service. In my opinion they ghould weconcile, overlook wroag deeds or forgive. Our Lord's earthly life was spent in a gething of much wurldy anrest-lurt He ssid, "Be of rood cheer."

DEATH OF MR. C. D. POTTER.  PRESIDENT OF BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The death occurred at his home ou Tuesday, July 25tla, of Mr. Charles Dalton Potter, president of the Bernsley and District Society, and Barnsley" 'Grand OId Man' of ringing. Had he lived until September 2ad he would bave been $$ 0$ years of age. Mr. Potzer had been ill for some time and was in a Slyeffeld nursing home for two montha, returning to Barasley on July 13th. He lezves a widow, three sons and three daughters in bereavebient. Three sons were ost in the Great War
Mr. Potter had been connected with ringing for over 60 yearg, having rang his first peal when he was 18 years of age. He took part in ringing for Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee and tlse Diamond Fubilee, the relief of Wafeking, the Coronations of King Edward VII. and King George V., and he also had a tonch at Monk Bretton previous to a peal being rung in honour of the Coronation of King George VI. and Queen Elizaboth.
He was not a great peal ringer, but was always pleased to be in a ringing chamber and was liappiest when he was lielping young ringers to ring either Grandsire Doubles or Plain Bob Minor.
Mr. Potter was one of the founders of the Barnsley and District Society, which was formed in 1909 chiefly to encourage Minor ringing, and this society had been close to his heart up to his denth. He had held various offees. He was secretary from 1912 until 1930, when he handed aver the duties through failing liealch. He was then made Life vice-president for his services and in 1932 elected as president, which office he held at the time of his death. He was the instigator of the annual shield contest, in which fe took keen interest. This was started in 1926, and he had pever missed bcing present at these contests until this year, wheu, through his illness, he anfortunately could not he present.
Mr. Potter Bad been a member of the Yorkshire Associntion since 1893. He was also a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and had represented the Barnsleg and District Soctoty on the Centrat Council since 1927.
He wns the founder and principsl of Mesers. C. D. Potter and Sons, builders and public works contrackors, of Barneley, and was a member of parious orgamisations connected with the building trade. He was loved by all who knew him.
The funeral took place on Fridar, Tuly 28th, tlite service, conducted by the Rector (Canon W. E. Wilkinson) and the Rev. A. E. Snow (Rectar of Cumberworth), being held in St. Mary's Church at noon, and the interment taking place in Barnsley Cemetery. The bells of Sit. Mary's Churcta were rung fally muiled previous to the service to touches of Kent Trehle Boh Major, and, ofter the burial, 720 of Oxford Treble Roh Minor was rung. Fingers were present from the following Lowers: Cawthorne, Felkirk, Horbury, Hoylnndswaine, Monk Bretton, Darfield. Sandal, Wath and three of the local band.

Mr. Potter was of a retiring disposition, lout liad a leart of gold. He was never happier than when extending hospitality to his Eellowmombers, and his death has caused a gap tliat cannot be filled. Those wha knew Charles Dalton Potter best will miss him most.

DEATH OF SUSSEX RINGER.

MR. FREDERICK W. CRTPPG.
Sussex has lost one of its oldest ringers by the deatis of Mr. Frederich W. Cripps, of Shorelauth, who passed away on Sunday, July $23 r d$, at the age of 69 years after a long illness. Eo har heen a ringer for over 50 years.
Born at Roffey, near Horghan, be lived for a consiuerable period on his father's farm at Lower Beeding, and then, on his marritge, went into farming on his own account. Later he liecame licensee of an inn at Kingsfold, near Warnham, whence lie took over the Marlipina Inn at Shoreham, which he held for 19 years until he retired about six years rgo. At Lower Beeding, and later at Shorelam, he became leader of the ringers and berved on the commitiee of the Susser County Association. He was also a member of the Ancient Society of Callege Youths. Mr. Cripps leaves a widow, two sons (one of whom, Mr. Jack M. Cripps, is a well-known ringer) and two diughters (one of whom lives in Sydirey, Australia) in bereavement.
Mr. Cripps was once an active penl ringer, but kept no record of his peals. He had, however, rung mary in the better known methods on six and eight bells and a few peals of Royal. He lad called Holt's Original and a few other peals in plain methods.

The funeral took place on Thursdey of last week and was conducted by the Viesr (the Rev. J. F. G. Glossop), the choirs of both St. Mary's and St. Nicholas' Churches attending to lead the singing of the 23rd Psalm and the hymns, "Abide with me " and 'Jesus lives.' In additiot to the family mourners many were present to pay their last tribute of respect, among them Mr. F. E. Pjerce (churchwarden of St, Mary's), Mr. E. C. Steward (churchwarden of St. Nicholas'), Mr. Nixey (postmaster) and the following ringers: Messrs. Keith Hart, F. Page, T. Burtenshaw and F. Knowles. After the service, St, Mary's bells were rung half-muffled by Messrs, $\mathbb{F}$. E. Armatrong (bon. secretary, Sussex Assaciation), K. Hart (St. Peter's. Brighton), J. T. Toms (Good Shegherd. Brighton), J. Farmer mnd a. W. Groves (Heene), and T. Howe, T. Burtenshaw, H. Gariner, J. Gardner, O. Giles, F. Halsted and F. Page (of the locnl band).

BREAD END DRINK FOR THE RINGERS.  THE ORIGIN OF THE CUSTOM.  To the Editor

Dear Sir,-The Halemworth ringers do well to remember their past, but the clain tlat they are one of the oldest ringing societies in England, with a 400 th anniversary, has no real foundation, apart from acy question of continuity.
No doubt it is true that on July $19 \mathrm{tb}^{2}, 1539$, William Walpole bequeathed a certain sum of money to provide bread and drink for the ringers, but that is no proof that there was any riuging socisty in the town, or even a regular band of ringers.
Walpole had no intention of benefting the ringers or encouraging the art of ringing. Like bundreds and, indeed, thousamds of other men of his time, what he wras thinking of was to provide for his own obiit, that is to say for a requiem mass to be sugg for the benefit of his soul on the anmiversary of his death. A requiem mass of this sort iuvolved an elaborete ritual, and the payment of many assistants ind to be provided for-priest, deacon and sub-deacon, clerks to sing and the rest.

Two important features of the ritual were the burning of tapers and the ringing of bells, and in wills of this sort there is always provision made for money to provide wax and for the men who rang.
The ringing was real ringing. The bells were swong as ligh as the fittings of the time allowed, not merely chinied or knolled Mufled rimging was, of course, unknown. Nothing like change ring ing, either method ringing or called changes, had ss yet been juvented, but probably the bellis were properly rung in rounds. It is unlikely that tinere were any special risgers and, probably, what happened was that the parish clerk picked out a few lusty young fellows from the parish and sent them up into the tower to pull the ropes. In some cases the ringing at an obilit seems to have lasted of and on all the day. It was the usual thing to gend them beer and bread, which they consuraed in the belfry.

In the sisteenth century there can hardly have been a single church af any importance which did not porsess endowments for these obits, but ali were confiscated by the Crown by the Act of 1547 on the plea that they were superstitious uses, which in the main probably they were.

SEVERN SALMON.

RINGERS' SUPPER AT RUARDEAN.

The social side of ringing is one of jts glories, and certainly more sociable gathering than that which sat down at the Angel Inn Ruardean, to the annual salmon supper of the South Forest of Dean Branch of the Gloucegter and Bristol Diucesan Association can scarcely be imagined. This was the first occasion on which the branch supper had been beld at Ruardern; previously it had been keld at Lydney.
The president of the brancl, ex-Supt. J. Sheliswell, M.B.E., was supported by the Rev. G. F. Hilder and the Rev. St. J. Bradford, of St. Johm the Baptist's Clurch, Ruardeag. Visitors included Mr. and Mrs. T. F. King and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Smallwood (Bath), Messrs. T. Austin and Tr. Baldwin (Gloucester), ex-Sergt. J. Williams (Newent), Messr3. W. Yeend (secretary of the Cheltenham Branch), C. W. Martin and W. Townsend (Cheltenham), and Messrs. J. Clarke and J. Webl (Ross)

After a delightful supper of Severn salmon, now patatoes and greon peas, trille and biscuits, the president proposed the toast of The King.
The Rev. G. F. Filder welcomed the visitore, solying how pleased he was to see ringers from so far afiela. He also remarked on the inconvenience of the present systers at the Parish Church whereby ringers, choir and clergy had to use the same room. He hoped as soon as possible to build a separate vestry and asked for the support of all ringers, as such an addition would leave the tower to the Fingers alone.-Mr. W. Yeend, Cheltenham, suitably replied.
Mr. Scott, of the local band, thanked the hostess, Mrs. T. Morgan, for the excellent supper she had prepared.

A first rate musicel evening followed, including songs from Messrs R. Powna[l, S. Scotit, J. Clarke and W, Scott, which Mr. E. Parsons accompanied, and pianoforte solos by the #ev. H. St. J. Bradford. Several touches and tunes were rung on handbells, bet undoubtedly the 'high spot' was the course of Grandsire Triples hy Messrs. J. Austin and J. Williams, so aptly described by the president as the two schoulboys," Their ages are 77 and 87 respectively
If this was the first anmual salmon supper to be Jeld at Ruardean, it is hoped it will not be the last, and it is hoped, too, that next year it will be bigger and better still.

OLD HAVANT RINGERS MEET

Old members of the band at Harant met again on Sunday, Jtay 23rd, at St. Faith's Church, and took part in a quarter-peal of Grandisire Triples (1,260 changes) for evening service: W. Monk (Hawant) 1, F. Brett (Holborn) 2, L. Best (Gardif) 3, R. Robinson (Portsea) 4, F. Penn (Westbury) 5, R. J. Hasted (Hayling Island) 6, R. Hasted (Farpham, conductor) 7, &, Parsons Havant) 8. The ringers of the 3 rd, 5 th, 6 th and 7 th were members of the Havant hand together 19 years ago.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD FESTIVAL.

GOOD RINGING AT SEVERAL TOWERS,
The annual ringing festival of the Trura Diacesan Guild was held at Helston on Saturday. Among those present were the Ringing Master (Mr. W. H. Eovtheard), the treasurer (Mr. F. Dunstan), the diocesan secretary (the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella), the Assistant Riag ing Master (Mr. W. J. Garland), Mr. C. E. Lanxon, Lc.,Col. C. F Jerram Miss E. Symons, the Rev. F. F. Gilbert and members from the following towers: Trura Cathedral, Altarnon, Cury Gulval, Helston, Landewednack, Manaccan, St. Stephen's in Brannel, Towednack, Wendron and the nowly-affiliated tower of St. Breock. Among the visitors were Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Coles, of the Middlesex Association.

Besides the delightifl light ring of sight it Helston, the sixes at Crowan, Cury, Mawgan and Wendron wers available. The ringing included Grandsire, Stedman, call changes and rounds, and although e certain mixed band seemed to be atteropting to fire Helston bels, the shiking was guite good-much better than is often heard at these festivals.
A gervice was held in Helston Church, condueted by the Vicar (the Rew. A. D. Moon) and the Rev. A. M. Dajntree (Vicar of Cury).
Tea followed in the Parish Hall, at which the diocesan secretary, in propasing a vote of thanks to the Viear and all who helped in organising the festival, said he had received a message from Mr . Symons, their veteran president, regrettigg his inebility to be present and wishing the festival all success.
The Ringing Master, seconding, welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Coles and spake of the advantages of bands mixtrg up sometimes with other bands, and also of ringers not always ringmg the same bel
Mr. Coles, replying, referred to the iact that in most Guilds memberghip was individual and not by tawers as was the case in the Truro diocese. He emphasibed the Ringivg Master's point of bands mixing together.
The gecretary, taking to liearb what had been said, deserted the Cathedral band for Landewedmack, and had some excellent practre with them in call changes at the six-bell tower of Mawgen

'HOME COUNTIES' MEETING

SURPRISES AN BARNET.

A most enjoyable joint meeting, Arranged by the Middesex County Association and Loudon Dincesan Guild (North and East Distriet) and the Fertiord County Absociation (St. Albans Pistriet), was hela at Barnet and Monken Hadley on Saturday weak. Over 50 members and visitors, had pleasure in participating in the ringimg, which resclued a high standard, and the non-residents of the two counties came from such a wide area that the event could be termed a Home Counties meeting. There were different kinds of Surprises. For instance, Mr. H. J. Eldred received one or two more postcards than usual, but, even so, the caterers were made unexpectedly busy by those who "brought their postcards with them!' Then there was the ringing at Barnet Church until 5.30 p.m., because there wha no service; tha meeting of old friends once again; end methods without practically any limit.
Mr. G. W. Fletcher (vice-president of the Middesex Counly Associatian) welcomed the members of the Fiertiord County Association, although actually on their own soil, huk he referred to the fact that in 1889 a parent body of the association be represented wris formed at Barnet. A word of appreciation was extended to Mr. A. Day, president of the Hertford County Association, for his attendance The death of Mr. J. Roberta (Northaw) was referred to: he had been a lopal and trustwortly minger ancalso a member of both associations, and the gathering stood for a moments in silent tributc.

Altogether the two district secretaries save so many happy faces that they were able to go home with contented minds in the knowledge that the fiving of their serfices for the benefit of fellow-members was so successful.

CAPTAIN AT TILEHURST FOR 45 YEARS

After being captain of the bellringers at Thlehurst, Berka, for 45 years, Mr. H. Goodger bas retired andi a presentation took place at Stow-on-the-Wold during the auting of the rivgers. It whs subscribed by past and present members of the belfry. Mr. Goodger recelved a silver bell inkstand suibably inscribed asc Lis. Goodger a siver-plated egg stend.
The presentation was macie by the Rector Goodger's long and successful record of service.

In replying, Mr. Goodger, who was taken ly surprise, thanked everyone for their kindiess and hoped his successor, Mr. R. N. Rumbem, would have as happy a time as he had had.
The outing took place on July 22nd, when a party of 25 ringers and friends, including the Rector, the Tew. F. G. Sherwood (who is Reading Branch chairman of the Oxford Guild), Mr. Wiggius and Mr E. G. Foster (branch secretary), had a half-day's conch tour, in the course of which they rang at Dorchester Abber and proceeded via Witney and Burford to Stow-on-the-Wold. Ringing here was confined to the front six owing to a mishap to the clock wire. After tea at the Unicorn Fotel. Great Tew and Eirbington were vibited for ringing, the methods including Gramdsire and Stedman Triples and Bah Major.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

CHERRIES AND CRICKET AT TUNSTALE

Ideal summer weather drew a large number of zizgers and friends to the summer quarterly meeting of the Rochester District, held at Tunstall on Saturday, July 29th. Ringing commenced shortly after 3 o'clock, but the cricket matcil erranged between Northfleet and Fainham teams of ringers, which should have started at 3 oclock, had to be held over until after tea, as a part of the Northfleet team ' unissed a whole turn! en route from Sittinghoume and found themselves very much behind time.

The ringers' service, attended by well over 70 members, was takent by the Rector of Tunstall.
A first class tea in the Memoriai Hall was very kindy provided by the Fhector and churchwardens, and the waiting at tea was undertaken by local ringers' wives, who did their part well. As usual Mr. Spice, son, one of the K.C.A. weterans atill going otrong at Tumstall, made all preparatious to secure the success of the meetirg and when there is a summer mecting at Tunstall Mr. Spice invariably nnsures a good supply of cherries from the local orchards, which are much appreciated.
Foutine matters were dealt witin at the businass meeting, inelnding the fixing of place for the angual distriet meeting. It was decided to hold this at Rocliester in the latter part of October.

Following the tea and meeting, ringing was resumed by those merhbers who were not in conffiot on the cricket pitch, and continued until after 9 o'elock.
Reearding the cricket match: the teams, composed mainly uf the younger ringers and including a good proportion of the fairer sex, were fairly well matched-(Note, it would be difllmilt to state hew many umpires there were in all!)-but on the showing of the score board Northofeet were slightly the better team. Howewer, both sides, as well as onlookers, Tad a jolly good time, and a return match will doubtless follow in due course.

Altogether the mectitg af Tunstall was a complete succeas in every way.

QUARTERLY PEALE IN TONBRIDGE DISTRICT.
The summer meeting of the Tonbridge District was held at Penshurst on Saturday July 15 th . About 50 membera and other ringers were present, amd enjoyed some good ringing, masing from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge Surprise Major, under the leadership of the Master, Mr. E. J. Ladd. District Lowers represented were Brabted. Chindingstone, Leigh, East Peckhan, Sevenoaks, Tunbridge Wells and Penshnsst, while ringing friends came from so far away as Kingston, Leptonstane. Bedaington, Grayford and Chislehurst.

Through the kindness of Lord De Isle nna Dudiey and the Rer. P. H. Turnbull, Rector of Penglurst, the heautiful gardeas of Penshurst Place and the Rectory wece open to the wisitors.
Service was conducted by the Rector, and after tea in the Fillage Hall the business meeting was presided over by the Rev. $P$. $H$, Turnbuil. Amollg those present were Mr. and Mrs. F . W. Honsdel, Mr. and Mrs. W. Masser, Mr. ana Mrs. C. Parks, Mr. T. Groombridge, fen., and Mr. T, Groombridac, jun. The chairnan was supported by the district representatives, Messrs. E. Everest and T. Sannders, Mr. E. J. Ladd (Master) and the secretary Mr. A. E. Pichardson)

Mesgrs. R. Austen and O. Butler, of Bawkhurat, were elected ns practiging memhers. Sr. F . Lamb (churchwarden of $\mathrm{St}_{\mathrm{L}}$. Peter's. Tunhridge wells) ind Mrs. H. Lamb were elected as honorary members.
Mr. E. T. Iradd, reporting on the last quarterly peal attempt, sain he was very disappointed at the lack of renuests from members wishr ing to stand in, and suggested that if the atempts were to go on, the members would have to show more interest.

The next attempt is to be Bob Major, and although some nemes were put forward, it was made clear that this did not meatu that members not at the mecting would not be considered if their names were sent to the Master. The attempt would probably be made at Speldhurst on August 26th.

Fotes of thanks were accorded to Lord de Isle and Dudley, the Rev, P. H. Turnbull, and Mr. G. Edwards, the local secretary, for all the had done to help make the meeting a success.
Hfo F. W. Honsden, on behalif of the ringers from outside the district, said he would like to thank the members of the Tonbridge District for the way in which they had put themselves out to welcome them-Mr. W. Massey supported Mr. Housden. He said that it was the first meeting of the Kent Association lie bad attended, and remarked that he had been treated with no warmer welcome enswhere.

GOOD RINGING AT MATDSTONE DISTRICT MEETING.
A meeting of Maidgtone District of the Kent County Association was held ett West Malling on July 8th. There was fome exceptionally good ringing, but it would not have been of such a bigh standard had it not been for the visitorg, who came from Little Chart, Rochester Cathedral, St. Lawrence Jewry (London), Beckenham, West, Wickliam and St. Mary's, Chatham. Local towers represented were only Ighthanr, Linton, Maidstone and West Malling. This was rather a disappointment, as West Malling is a tower which is nat very difficult to reach, and half-fares were pajd to members who attended the meeting.

QUARTER-PEALS IN CANADA  VICTORIA HINGERS' ACTVITIES

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Iriples was rung on Christ Church Cathedral bells, Victoria, B.C., on Empiro Day (May 2Atha) by Miss M. Izard 1, Arthur Izard 2, A.C. Melhuish 3, A. King 4, W. Sampson 5, T. Guest 6, A. B. Lomas 7, E. Lake 8.
Three days later a half-mufled quarter-poal was rung by the same band in memory of Mr. Hopkins, who died on the 25th, at the age of 86 years. Mr. Hopkins was e member of the Royal Cumberland Youths, and one of the first to come forward when the bells at the Cathedral were installed three years ago. Unfortanately, ill-heafth prevented him from taking any active part in the belfry, but in spite of that his keenness and interest was of considerable help to the arganisation. He always 'listered in' to the broadcast of the hells on Sunday evenings.
During the wisit of King Geargo and Queen Elizabeth on Mfay 29th and 30th the bells bardly stopped ringing. They were sung as the steamer "Princess Marguerite" came in sight of Victoria and continued until the royal party prrived at Gorernment Honse. Amplifiers Were pleced around the city, connected to the belfry microphone. On Tuesday morning the ringing stanted before their Majesties leftGovernment House and contimged at intervals all dap. At 2 p.m. they were brondcast bofore and aftar the King's speech over C.B.C. and American Network. The ringing continued antil 9 p.m., but in spite of so much ringing every bellringer saw the King and Queen at least once.
For the past fear threo of the band who formerly rang at the R.C. Cathedral of the Holy Rosary, Vancouver, have been living in Victoria, and the Fancouver hand keenly felt the loss. However, they have ben able to wuster a full company of pight, and even more at thmes, but on Sunday, June 16th, when two of the former membera $1 \mathbf{M r}$. A. B. Lomas find Mr. W. Sampson) revisited Vancouver and brought with them Mr.J. E. Hutchings, of Fictoria, a well-struck quarterpenl of Grandsire Triples (fram the 'Glavis ${ }^{\text {' }}$, was rung by A. G. Watte B. A. B. Jupmas (conductor) 7, J. E. Hutchings 8.

TEWKESBURY ABBEY.

In commection with the festival and thanksriving for the restaration of Tewkesbury Abbey on Thursday, July 10th, fow courses uf Giandsire Caters were rung before the service, the Rev. E. G. Bensan, a former curate at the Abbey, taking part. After the service six coursas of Grandsire Caters were rung. On Sunday, July $23 r d$, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters by Albert Humpliris 1 , Willim Townsend 2, Sydney E. Romans 3, John Austin (conductor) 4, Thomas Baldwyn 5, Charles Murtin 6, Thomas Newman 7, Thomas Borehani 8, Johr F. Ballinger 9, Henry Devercux 10.

The bells have recently been overhazled by Messrs. J. Taplor and Co., and everyihing is in perfect order again.

NOT OFTEN RUNG.

Riggers from Winglow and North Marston assisted with the ringing or byening service on Sunday week at Padbury, Bucks. Theae bells, peal of six. with tenor 14 cwt., are not often rung owing to the shortage of ringers. Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor were rung an this accasion, and Mr. Frank Hopgood, of Wimbledon, who cycled 120 miles on purpose to take part, wishes to thank Mr. Gough, Mr. Gibbard and their fellow-ringers for their very warm welcome

THREE GENERATIONS

Grandfather, father and daughter took part in a 720 of Bob Minor
 July $2 J^{2} d$. Tley, were Mr. J. Saddington Mr. B. J. Saddington and Miss M.J. Snddington (aged 13). G. E. Watson, aged 16, ealled his first 720. Miss Mf. J. Saddangton 1, B. J. Saddington 2, J. D. Bail 3, J. Saddington 4, C. G. Eendry 5, G. E. Watson 6.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening, the methods including Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwicln, Double Oxford Bob, Keut and Oxford Treble Bon, Cambridge, Bristol and London Surprise Major.
Owing to the illiress of the Vicar, no service could be held. Following tea at the Bear Hotel, at which 25 members were present. Mr. C. H. Sone presided over the business meeting.

The annual meeting of the district will be held at Maidstone on October 1 1 thth. After three places had been proposed for a by-meeting, East Farleigla was selected, and the meeting is to be held on August. 26th.
Mr. J. Main, of Aylesford, was elected a member, and thanks were accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and a message of srmpathy was sent to him, with good wishes for his speedy rerovery. Thanls were also given to Mr. Slowman for the arcangements made. When the ringers returned to the tower they were met by the unfortunates who had lost a peal at Wrotham in the afternoon.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

TOUR TN THE TEAMES VALTET

The Wenstead ringers and their friends had a very successful outing on Siumrday, July 15th, when they visited some of the interesting cburches in the Themes Valley. A short halt was made at Reaconsdield, where the charms of a country town were much in evidence. By 10 o'clock Marlow was reached, and the tuneful eight of All Saints' Church were rung to Kent Treble Bob and Suedman Triples from the attractive tower overlooking the Thames, near the saspension bridge. Although the church and bridge have only just passed the century i sge, Marlow cam trace its first incumbent to 1204 and claim to hav been as Saxon market town.
Shiplako was the next objective, reached via Henley. This stretelu was a real ferst for the eyes. The veteran ringer, Mr. Porter of the Plowden Arms, welcomed the ringers, and toucbes of Kent. Treble Bob and Bols Major were rullg on the plessing bells of SS. Peter and Paul's. One wondered if these bells rang out when Lord Tennyson was married there in 1850 . Ancient glass brought from St. Bertin'g Abber and St. Omer entich the windows, whilst in tha vestry is a portrait of the Rev. Jemes Graper, Vicar 1746-1776, a worthy historinn The original paintius of this celebrity, by John Cornish, was presentel to the National Gillery last year
Luncla was well eerved at the Plowden Arms, the home-grown pens being a speciality. The joutney was then continued to Reauing aud thence wia. Pangbourne to Wallingford. Mr. J. I. Norris, a longmervica ringer, greeted the party at St. Mary's, where eight rioh-tomed bells, tenor 81 cwit, grace the spacious tower, embatiled and pinnacled. Touches of Stedman Triples, Keat Treble Bob aud Mob Major were much erjoyed.
A short run brought the party to Sutton Courtenay, where tea wos taken without any delay, served by two ladies, who might in turn be classified as 'ancient and modern: At the conclusion Messrs. J. Chalk and $F$. Bryant, on behalf of the ringers and visitors resnectively, thanked Mr. J. Crampion for all that loe had done to make the outing such a great success.
Mr. J. Crampion suitably replied snd expressed his willingness to act again. Thon followed the final ringiag at All Eaists" a rery attractive edifice, in keeping with a fascinating willage. Mr. Allert greeted the party, and touches of Cambridge Surprise Minor and Kent Treble Boh were rung on a melodious sis.
The interior of the church has Early English work from the 12 t ti to tho 16th century. of particular interest are the 12 th century ornamented cylindical fons eud the 25 rolsmes, the zenains of a chaituel library. Hera are found 17th century copies of Foxe's "Martyrs ' and Raleigli's "Fistory of the World.' Two tombs in the churcheard are worthy of mention; one a l4th century altar-tomb and the other the high tomb of Cotswold stone to the memory of Lord Oxford and Asquith.

HOLBORN GTILLD'S EXCURSION

St. Andrew's, Holborn, Gnild had a very enjoyable day for their outing. They travelled to Slough by train and then had de deliglitful coach drise through Maidenhead, Marlow and High Wrombig to Haddenhare, where they rang, Bnd then went to Chippine Norton and hat funch at the White Hart Hotel, under the chairmanship of Mr. E. Brett, the Ringing Master of the Guild. After iunch tho toast of 'St. Andrew's Gvild' was proposed by Mr, W, C. Cook and acknowledged by the Master, and the heaitly of Mrs. E. O. Bedford was also drunk with musical honours. Mrs. Bedford (widow of the late Fector of St. Andrew's) had kindly sent cigars and cigarettes for the party. Ringing on the Parish Church bells was afterwaris enjoyed, the time passing all too quickly witl touches of Stedman, Pigfo Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge. Then some of the party tried the experience of going "down the clute" on a mat. How the experiment ended or how they landed is not recorded. The journer was continued to Buckiaginam. Where there was ringing on the delightful peal of belle, and then to Tring, where, after tea, there was further ringing. On the homeward journey through beaubiful country lanes rabbits alounded, which made Percy wild, because he had left his darts in the doubleone at Chipping Norton. Paddington was reaclied at the end of a very happy day end thanks were given to the secretary for lis euccessful efforts in arranging such an enjoyable trip. The Guild take this opportunity of thanking the parious incumbents for the ase of their bells and the ringers at the respective towers who made the visitors bo welcome.

CHESHIRE RINGERS VISIC WALES

On Saturday, July 22nd, the ringers of St. Reter's, Rock Ferry, Cheshire, accompanied by ummer of privileged friends, participated in tive first of what, it is sincerely trusted, will be a series of annual outiugs. Tho venue chosen was Llangolen, the charmingly situated fown in the Dee Valley and a favourite resort of pichic parties of all kinds Though the weather was not tow promising at life start, the party turned up in fulf force, aud a quich run through Queen's Ferry over the LIandegla Moars nind round the Forseshoe Pess enabled them to see some of the loweliest scenery of this part of Wales. The Horseshoe Pass, with its bairpin bonds, provided some of the ladies with a thritt, but all were umanimous in saying that the view from the pass was well wrorth the excitement of the rum
On arrival at the destittation, a move was made towards the Parish Church, where everyone was anxioug to try out the bells. Quickly they wers rajsed, and touches of Plain Bob, Kent Trable Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge Major and Grandsire Triples were lrought round The bells 'go" spleadidly, and it was with a great reluctance that the ringers eventually left them in order to shtisfy the inner man. After a sumptuous tea at the Glym Oafe, several of the parby returned to the tower, where they were pleased to meet some of the local hand, who stood in some of the touches with them. The rain baving cleared away, othcrs wandered round the town and spent the ereming in various ways, a couple of the more energetic even clambing the hill locally known ne ' Crow Custle'! A start for home was made about 9.30 and a delightinl afternoon's outing came to ma end all too quichly. By the why, tha rest of the compauy would dearly like to know if the Eeptheman with the caullower enjoyed lis Sundry dinaer I The band would like to thanl: all those who in any way contributed to the success of the outing, particularly the Wicar of Llargollen for permitting tise use of the belts, and MTr. Downlaw, of the local hand, for his kindness in having she tawer and bells ready. Special thanks must also be extonded to Mr. J. Leslie, of the Rock Ferry band. who not only made all the arcengements far the diayr but was the life and soul of the fourney home, keeping ererybody in a really happy mood, his "saud dance' in particular convalsing the party. On behrlf of the ringers not of St. Peter's band, the writer party like to say how much they onjoyed the whole trip and appreriated the hindly thought which prompted the invitation to join in the outing.

PUTNEY MEN ON POUR.

The members of the St. Marr's, Putney, hand held their annuat outing on Saturiay, July 8th. They lof Putney Church at 7.30 a.m. and gicked up the two "lads" and olhers en route for Rickmansworth, where breakfast was said to be waiting. It wasa't, but we got it and proceeded to the eliurch and gpent three-uumrters of an hour ringing. part time of the good ten. Mr. W. T. Eison had arranged an itinerery which allowed of no delay, as off we bad to coack to Watford, where touches were rung on this splendid eight. A crowd geemed to sense a veddiag, but were disappointed, as only Mr. and Mre. 'TwickenHamys marched ont togotiver After a dispute with a nasty motorist man, of we went for Tring. A grand ring of bells these, with Mr. Reeve to do the lonours. We were ratlier cat dowlt, as the roads seemed to our driver to lead everywhere but in our desired direction. Nevertheless, we had time for a "bit" of dinaer at tho Old Brewery louse. It was a goad bit too.
Here Alf caught us up in time to lave a snack after a strenuous dasli from Town. A longish drive brouglit us to Bicester, where a ight eight by Johnston ara lung, and where there is the pectaliar come and go of sound due to sallies sometimes being in the holes in the ceiling. Pleasing ringing thouph. It is a long way to Marlow from Bicester, 60 off we went to Oxford, whil someone "rucked.' This mada us a bit late for tea, amal again curtailed ringine on an awifuly made us a bit late for vea, san again curtailed riging on an awfully nice and handy ring; the praise of Which need not siog. we hast lave the bells down by 9.25 , we were only able to ring a course of Grandaf" and Stedman, aud zather reluctantly had to leave. This concluded the day's ringing and a elear course was set for home, stopping en route to cool the engine, what time the "lads' played a game of darts under the able tuition of the late outing secretary, who, incitentally, is not eo good at derts as at swimming. Home res reached at 10.20 after a splendid day. Methods were very plain, the conducting being shared by Messrs. Elson, Miles, Cassell and Herbert. The weather was very mixed, but ardour was not damped, only one clap taking a $刀$ ap. Thanks are due to the Vicars and Rectors for Lind parmission to ring, to the gentlemen who met us at the towers, and to Mr. Elson, who planned such a delightin! excursion. J. H.

RINGERS OUTINGS.

NORWICE RINGERS AT SURFLEET,
St. Peter Mancroft Guita visited three towers in South Lincolnshire on the occasion of its amual onting on July $15 t h$. They were accompanied by the Vicar and president of the Norwich Assaciation, and 65 rnembers and friends shared in the excursion. At spalding Mr. A. J. Farr welcamed the visitors, and the bells were set going-st can hardly be said 'rung '-to three short courses of Superlative. Touches of Grandsire Triples and Kelt Treble Bob gave everybody an opporof Grandsire Triples and Kent Treble Bob eave Havigg waited for the stragglers-and a mumber were completely apathetic to the carefully drawn up time table, much to the annoyance of a certain member who was extremely anxious to get a close-up of Eome of Rupert's tomatoes the bus set off merrily for Surfleet. Frerghody enjoyed himself here, ringer and non-ringer alike, for in their otwn inimitable way Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and Enid combined to make the all-tao-brief stay as pleasaut as possibie. Twenty-six enormous teas were consumed, Rupert's egtate exanined, and Bob Meximus, Stedman and Grandsire Caters and Cambridge Surprise Major rung at the fanous leaning tower. The risitors scrawled their migerable signatares in the Bonk of the Mighty-everyone of note has, of course, completed bis education here-nad remarked upon the splendid 'splice the founders had made in adding two trebles to the already light peal of ten. Having bid Surfeet adicu, & fine peal of bella was found at Holbeach, with a warm welcome from the local band and a long draught of elastic ropes. But the ringing was apparently not so disgraceful as some yisitors before them had done, and tonches of Cambridge Surprise, Stedman Triples and Bob Major gave alt the satisfaction of adding the rimging of these belis to their experience.

A ROUND OF NORFOLE TOWERS.

The ringers of St. Andrew's, Rushmere, Ipswici, lade a tour of Norfolle towers on Saturday, Jume 17th. In fpswich they picked up friends from St. Clemeat's and St. Matthew' $\mathrm{s}_{\text {, }}$ Ipswich, and two members from Holbrook, who had gycled the six milea to join the party. The first stop, after a run of 40 miles, wes at Attleborough, where a well-known brand of cider is made. Here the six bells were soon in ase afte: petting accustomed to the fact that the treble hangs balind the 2nd. The treble riager is a man to be looked up to here. The next run was to the round tower at Watton, with a very good ring of sir. After some good ringing a move was unade to Saliam Toney where is freserved one of the three old bell frames made about 500 yearz ago and of queer design. The bells were rehung in new teak frames is 1936 and the old one hoisted abowe the new one. The bells are a good ring of six with lenor 13 h cwt. Swaffham was the next stop for ringing on the eight hells, end dinner at the Greyhound Hotel. Kinging at Necton (B) and Holma Hale, another six-bell tower, followed The latiter are a very fair peal, rehung in new frames in 1911. Next on to Ashill, where whs found the only peal rung during the day jrom the ground foor. These are quite a pice peal to ringA run of 16 miles was needed before tea, which was serred at the home of one of the local band at Wilton. Afterwards there was ringing on the six bells, the tenor of whieh has just been recast after loguing been out of use many years. Leaving here, the last stop was over the Suffolk border at Brandon, another six and recently rebung. The return was mane wie Thetford, Ixworth and Stowmarket, home beimg renched at 10.30 , after havirg travelled 130 miles. Methods rung ware Bob Major, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge, Ipswich Surprise and Double Court.

EXCURSION INTO SURREY

A party numberieg 20, incfoding a fov friends, left Bournemarth early on Saturday morning, July Int, by motor-coach for Guildford. A stop was made at Alresford, where touches of Grandire and Stedman Triples, Plain Fob and Thouble Norwich were suceeasfully brought round on the much mproved musical peal of eight at St. John's Church.
Guildford was reached sharthy after noon, but some delay was experienced in finding parking ground, whicls eventually proved to be under the goses of the wisitors hard by the Churcly of S. Nicolas. Some Caters and Major were much enjoyed on this fine peal before the party adjourned for luncheon. An easy journey after lunch broaght the ringers to Haslomers for some more ten-bell ringing. Full use was made of the opportanity to ring this tuneful hittle peal, and great. disappointment was felt wher a particularly well-struck touch of Stedman Caters failed to come round. Peluctance to leave these heautiful bells and sarroundings led to an averstay of thme which the driver clererly made up and at the same time contrived to show the company some of the country go that the arrival at Bishop's Waltham was very litule fehind schedule. After tea touches in the stordard methods, including Double Norwich, were saccessfully brought round an the recently augmented peal at st. Peter's Church in the wilage hefore starting for home about $g$ p.ra. The party cannot adequatelv express jtw gratitude for the hind errangements made by the ringers at the various towers and the permissions to ring. Unfortomately, the two Guild meetings coinciding with the date prevented many friends being at the towers. This was just a little disappointing, gis the visttors had looked forward to geeing them as well as ringing their heautiful bells.

A NEW PEAL OF GRANDSIRE CATERS

Mr. Edrar Shepherd's 5,039 of Grandsire Caters, rung af Lejcester on May 30th, is a conposition with mome unasual features, alkhough the author daes not claim originality for the pian. The matn quaity aimed at is symmetry, which has certanily been achioved, in combination with an exploitation of the pusical arrangements of $6,8,9$.
Aifer the first tho courses, the peal is in six blecka of nine courses each. Tho first course in each block is a bluming course for the big bells The positions of the four front working bells are \{dentica! in all the blocks. It is interesting to note that the peal was composed from the end backwards.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem on getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their worl, will find the preparation* called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, tho-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

IMPORTANCE OF NEW CONDUCTORS

There are often complaints and regrets at the lack of ringers in many places and we hear a good deal of the difficulties of obtaining recruits. There is frequently good ground for the apprehension that, in some centres, there is a risk of the art of ringing suffering a severe set-back when the present generation of ringers is no longer able to carry on. It is one of the problems which have to be faced, although we do not believe it is any matter for despair. Bad times alternate with good in most things, and in ringing it is particularly so. Bands spring into prominence, flourish for a time, and then fade out, and their place in the forefront of the Exercise is taken by others. This has happened throughout the history of ringing, not only among the leaders in the art, but also among the lesser lights, who are not so conspicuous in what counts in peal ringing, but who zealously carry out their duties Sunday by Sunday in ringing for service. For a time they maintain their strength. Then come losses and gradually, as the band dwindles, interest decays and eventually the bells are only occasionally heard. Obviously the remedy is a constant acquisition of new blood. Too often a band is satisfied to go on without recruiting. They have men sufficient and competent for the time being, and do not bother to provide for ' the rainy day.' They are content to go on by themselves, never counting the time when inevitably their ranks will be reduced.

There is also another angle to this subject, and that is the encouragement of new conductors. There must be a leader in every band, but, unfortunately, some leaders have the idea that, while they are in command, the conducting in the tower is their monopoly. They cannot make a greater mistake. They may have all the confidence of their company, they may possess all the talents, but sooner or later the band with only one conductor is likely to strike the rocks and founder, or be saved only with the greatest difficulty. Every ringer with any aptitude should be encouraged to study and practise conducting. It makes the ringer himself more proficient, it increases the interest of the band and the leader need lose none of his prestige-he is still in the tower to command, and it rests with him to choose the conductor for any touch or occasion.

The strength of this policy can be seen in any tower where it is practised. We could mention several instances, but two will suffice. St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, is one. The results there are apparent for all to see. Another is at Rock Ferry, in Cheshire, where the older hands have built up a young band and, from the report of a peal which we publish this week, we learn that no fewer than five of them have called a peal, and the enthusiasm of this band is immense. That there is need for the encouragement of more conductors the figures of the Peals Analyses Committee are proof. True, peals are only one indication of what is happening in the Exercise generally, but they are symptomatic of other activities. The number of new conductors does not keep pace with the increase in the number of peals. Last year, for example, there was only one new conductor to every 30 peals rung, in 1937 there was one to every 26, and in 1935 one to every 23. The figures for 1936 were slightly worse than last year, but the improvement in 1937 was not maintained. A good deal of the future progress of ringing depends not merely upon the number of new ringers, it depends almost as much upon the new conductors. Leaders of bands should therefore feel it a duty to get as many of their ringers as possible to take up this important part of the art and encourage and help them to master it.

A WEEK-END AT SURFLEET.

NO REST AT THT REST-HOME.
some half-dozen rimpers of various vintages, weat last wbek-enu to the Lincolghime Hone of Ftest, for the purpose of recuperation, but, as events proved, they were given very little rest and no grenter amount of peace. Tlie prearragged progranme had included just a couple of peals spaced out for Saturday and Monday, but they reckoned without the weather and their host, Usually bhese rest cures carry with thers a certain molount of exercise by way of tenuis and bowls, but the wet weather prepented this form of recreation and there geemed more opporiunity of relaxation, But this they were not. allowed Various oddnents were colleched by the lost at Peterborough on Fridsy everiner and in the fircamland of Glyn Gartl, Surfeet they arpected to laze for the betier part of the next three days.

But on Saturdav morning these wews were brought up with a jerk. There was a newly wequired set of handbells to be tried out. These had bean picked up at a metal merchamt's, but, not haviug been traimed in Steuman Triples, they refused to ga the whole dietanceWhich was perhaps fortunate for the mext addition to the party, who motid otherwise have had to cary lis portmanteau the long mile from the railway station. As things turned out the charabone arrived just in time to mert him.
By dinuer time the dining room table had stretched in tell-tale fashion, and when the tea interval arrived there were more than a dozez round it in a happy reunion. Afterwards a peal of Little Bob Maximus, on the word's lightest ring of twelve, proved more than the joke that some of the oven lighter hearted expected it would beThey found than Maximus is not the easiest thing to ring at Surtleet, However, the peal doac, nothing remained but to eat, drink and be merry-and ihis proved a tot casier than ringing Maximus, even though if was only Little Bob.
Then, the Lincoln and Derby tontingents having departed, peace fell upon the Home of Rest, and Sunday was anticipated as a day of repose But not a bit of it. The vorning was dovoted to service riuging and church attendance, but before the clock hands pointed to 7.30 the haudbells that once visited Australia were knocking off Stedman Caters. The umpires liad tae best of the bargain. One heard the stazt and the finish, the other heard enough between times to put dows the course ends. For the rest, they were in the land of nod, or very near it.

Birt that was not tio worst of it. After an hour's ringing at the charch before evening service the host commandeered three of the rest to christen the new bells, and a peal of Bob Major was the Fesult. The only coasolation they had was that their friends realised that, if gnccessful, they would not finish while it was 'light, and made proviniom accordingly.

WEAT HAPPENED AT CAMBRIDGE

On Monday a journey had to be made to Cambridge, where, through the Eindness of the Ficar and local ringers, the bells of Great St. Mary's Church were arailable for a peal of stedmay Cinques. Great St. Mary's, which is the Universily Church, has many points of interest, and its bells, too, hare a bistary. Fabian Stedmax rang on the bells that were in the tower in his day, and during his time they were mugmented from six to aiglit. They wete increased to ten in 1722 and have been a peal of twelve since 1770 .
The Cambridge Youths whs a society founded over two hundred years afo, for 'pramofing gnd carrying out the art of change ringing in the tower of Great St. Mary's Church, where the books, handbells and club bos shall be kept." The peal boards, still in the rioging room, testify to the prowess of the ringers there in the latter part of the 18 hl century : 6,000 of Bols Maximus in $1788,6,000$ of OxFord Treble Bols Royal wing, and 7.002 of Grandsire Qunters in 1791.

More recent performances are still in the memory of some of those who were in the tower lest Monday, for they formed part of a band that rang two peals of Stedman Cinques on the hells on August Bank Holiday, 1912, in one of which, for the first time, a Viest and his curate (the late Rev. A. H. F. Boughey and the late Rev. H. S. T. Riclaraden) rang a twelve-bell peal together in their own tower; and a year later when some of the same band rang in a peal of Cambridge Maximus in the morning and of Stedman Cinques in the afternoonfour twelve-bell pals on the same bells in two visits.

The bells at Great St. Mary's run bsciwards, and this makes it not a little differlt to get the bang of things. It caused a bit of trouble at the stari of Monday's peal, which had to be begun a second time, but this was nothing to the trouble caused by an alleged 'brass bat ' just hefore the start. He tested the length of the rope and. as he thought, set the bell. He was contemplating the rope end. where there was a tuck in an inconvenient place, when it disappeared from his hard and ranished through the hole in the coiling. The bell had gome over. Fe las lost his "bress hat' and been degraded to the ranks ns a restit. Sonneone, of courae, had got to suffer for the cracking of the sfay. The conductor nfterwards chose to ring the bell without the contraption. but, then, in Stedmen's days they did not bother about stans or sliders, so why bother now? Had these been Stedman's dafs the exprit might liave bean mulcted in fone of fourpence, which seems to have lieen the usual forfeit; the price might have henn even more if they had nsed stays.

HR. WHLTER AYRE'S 500th PEAL.

Although there are now quite n number of ringers who liave ruls 500 peals, it is a noteworthy achevement in a ringer's career to ruach this total. Mr. Walter Ayre, a former president of the Hertford Comaty Association abd one of its district secretaries, has joined the ranks of this distimguished company, His 500th peal (whicla was also his 25th on the bells at Apsley End) was rung on July 31st, when he who has just completed 500 peals.

IWO NEW METHODS

Peals in two new methods were ring on Satardny. One, a surprise method, the product of Mr. George Liwis, of Sheffeld, was rung at Northowram, Halifax. It was zamed Airedale.
The first peal of Gonville Bab Major (No, 36 in the C.C. Cotlection) was rung at Fandbridge, Chester. It is one of the Plain methods, the value of which seems only just beginning to be generally recognised.
Leiston is not as prominent in the peal oews to-day as it was some years ago, when the Bailey family had more than enoligh rithgers to make up an eighthell band. But there are still some of the trothers left in the Suffolk town, and lest Saturday rour of them took part in a peal of Bristol Surprise yung on St. Margaret's bells.

It was Mr. J. G. Rumsey's 300th peal and it was grod to gee him on the tenor box again. Hig activities at the 'back end' have been seriously curtailed since he broke a wrist three yeare ago. Out of these 300 peals, MT. J. M. Bailey, the conductor on Satarday, has shared in 193
Saturday's peal was rung in honour of the birth of a dauglter to the Rev. A. H. and 3rs. Waller, of Leiston Rectary . The baby is the first child born to a Leiston Rector for 22 years.

Mr. Ernest Larmbert, of Cosprove, Northants, raug hils 200th peal on Monday, when he rang in a peal of Bob Royal at Sc, Paul's. Braford
Mr. Ralph W. Sayers, mach respected member of Claines tower, and Miss Winifred Smith were married on Saturday, and ns e compliment to them a peal of Grandsire Triples was rumg.
In honour of the 90th birthday on Jaty 28 th of the mather of Mr . W. T. Charke, a peal of Bob Major was rung on Snturdey at Broughton-in-Furness, Lanca.

Continuee from pravious column.

But eventually the peat was rung and the conductor returned to complete his holiday at Surfleet, having, as he said, rung one more towards bis two thousand.

In the peal at Cambridge nobody got a mark of distinetion, but in the Maximus at Surfeet everyone earned a "star." It wras their first peal of Littla Bob Maximus and ouly two or three had ring a peal in the method before, and that was on eight bells. The peal was also notable for the fact that $\bar{j}$ was Mr. Ermest Turner's one hundredth as coaductor. It seems expensive to call one's one hundredth peas.

Although the Birmingham contingent returned to Surfeet, the break op of the party came after the peal at Great St. Mery's. with warm expressions of thanks to the lioti and hostess Mr. nod Mrs. Rupert Richardson) for another enjoyable time and lavish hospitality showered upon their guests.

Mr. W. J. Nepari rang im os peal of Minor at Thorington, Essex, on Saturday, speciatly arranged to celebrate the wedding, which took place earlier in the day, of his grandson-also W.J. Nevard-and Miss M. Ainger, af Brightlingsea. After the peal he very kindly extanded hospitality to the bayd.

Messrs. F. W. Rogers (hou. secretary of the Winchester and Portsmoulh Diocesan Guild) bud C. E. Smith (Ringing Master of the Guilford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild) spent an interesting and successful week-end witls the Ipswich ringers, who gave them an excedingly cordial welcome.

There was a peal of York Surprise Maximus at Ipswich on Saturday (incidentally Mr. Snatia's first peat of Maximus), a peal of London Surprise Mejor on Sunday at Uford and a peal of Cambridge Sur pribe Maximus at Great Yarmouth on Monday. An excellent brg for three days. The peal at Great Yarmouth was the first of Surprise Meximus on the bells of St. Nicholas' Clurch, reputed to be the largest church im the country.
The peals were arranged for the visitors from the Sonth and they desire to express their thanks for the kindmess extended to them.
The peal of York Surprise Maximus at Ipswich was a remarkable performance in more waye than one. Messrs. Rogers, C. T. Smith and Wiffen had not previonsly struck a blow in the method, and it was also the first touch of York Maximus by Mr. Ward.

It makes the fifth method of Surpriss Maximus that Mr. L. W. Wiffen has rung without any previous practice before startiag for a peal, viz.. Superlative, Yorkslire, Putzey, Fochester and York.
York Surprise is one of the methods which should be taken up by all towers, speciaily those with 10 and 12 bells. It extends perfectify from Minor upwards and is very ensy; in fact, one member stated that it was only one degree in advance of Treble Bob. It far exceeds Cambridge in musical qualities.

The peal was cung in honour of the wedding of Miss Alma D Bymonds, daughter of the conductor, Mr. G. E, Symonds.

A FOUNG BAND'S PROGRESS.

At Roct Terry, Chechire, there is a company of eleven who ring the six bella regularly for Sunday services. On August 3rd six of them rang a peal of Minor in seven Surprise methods on the occasion of the marriege of the Rev. H. P. Williams (eurate at St. Peter's) and Miss F. M. Lythgoe, which had taken place earlier in the day.

The conductor was Joseph Leslie, who is the fifth niember of the band to call in peal, and two of the ringers scored their first peal at the first attempt. Most of the band are young people, the average age of the zingers of the treble, 2nd, 3rd and 5 th in the peal heing 16 years 3 months. Rock Ferry is to be congratulated on the enthusiasm of ita youngsters and the successinal way in which the leaders have bailt up this competent band. It is a lesson to macy other towers.

With the merry pealing of bells, the wedding of Mr. Audrew Thompson, hon. secretary of North Staflordshire Association, to Miss Ade Bourne was solemnised at St. Giles' Church, Newcastle, Siafts, on Sunday, July 30th. On the following day a peal of Grandsixe Triples was rung ju honoter of the event.
The dauglaters of the late Rev. F. S. T. Richardson, who was a prominent member of Cambrißge University Guild and did such valued work for the Central Comeil and the Hereford Diocesan Guild, sang in a handbell peal of Bob Major at the liome of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lewis, at Brasted on August 3rd. The peal was conducted by another member of the C.U.G., 近r. C. W. Wooley.
After 25 years as Bishop of Sheffleld, Dr. L. H. Burrows has retired, and on the day he left the Sec e peal of Bob Major was ruag as a farewell at Handsworth.
A peal of Surprise Minor at Shenfield, Essex, on August, 4tlo, was a triple celebration. It was rung to mark the silver jubilee of the Diocese of Chalmsford, the diamond jubilee of the Lesex Association and the 690Lh anniversary of the dedication of Slenfield Parish Church.
Mr. Albert Relfe, of Lamberhurst. Kent, las now rung all the belta at Rotherfield, Sussex, to a peal. He completed the circle with a pea! of Bob Major last Seturday.
Members of the local band at Cound, Shropshire, rang a peal of Granciaire Doubles on July 2nd.
A peal of Double Court Minor on July 30th at Holbrook. Sutfolk, enabled G. A. Fleming, of Ipswieh, to completo peals in Court methode on 6, 8. 10 and 12 bells. We believe be is the firgt to do this.
The firat peal on the bells at Avlesbeare, Devon, was rung on July 31st. One of the banu was Mr. A. E. Cheesman, of Banstead, Surrey. Mr. Francis Kirk, of St. Albans, rang his 150th peal for the Hertford County Association on July 27th, when a peal of Stedman Triples whs rung at Bushey.
LEYTON.-On the occasion of the annural battalion parade of the Boyg' Brigade at $t. Mary's Parish Ohureh, on Sunday, July 16th, a guarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung by G. Dawson 1, F. W. ## BELERY GOSSIP.

The first meeting of the recently re-formed Chesterfield District of the Midland Counties Association is to be held at Eekington on Saturday week.
There are already reminders of the ' dinner season.' The Worcestershire Association will kick-off on September 30th, the Yorkshire Assiciation hold their gathering at Yark on October 14th, while the Lancashire Association dimuer is fixed for October 2lst at Liverpool.
Auother dinner which is being arranged for this year will have special interest for Sussex ringers. It is to be held at Lewes on October 28th on the one hundredth annirevsary of the opaning of the bells at Soulilover, thea a newly-cast peal of eight.
Many happy returns of the day to Mr. William Willson, of Leicester, whose birthlay is to-morrom. Mr. Willson was born in 1868 .
Next Tusesday is the anniversary of the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus, which was rung at Ipswich on August $\overline{55 t h}, 1908$.
The peal ringing tours begin next week. On Saturdsy, the 19th, a party will invade Lancashire, making Liverpool their headquarters. At the beginning of September smother company of tourists go to Bedfordshire, while Yortshire is to be the hunting ground of anothes party, who will be numerous eaough to put on three peals in a day somotimes.
Many congratuiations have reached the hon. secretary of the Royal Curaberland Youths (Mr. G. W. Steere) upon the birth of a som and heir. There whs an error in Mr. Steere's address given in the notice in our last issue. It should bave been 46, Milton (not Mitson) Avenue, Sutton, Surrey.

CHESHIRE 'CENTURIES.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-Messrs. J. and P. Swindley were not the first father and son amnog Chesbire ringers to ring a luundred peals together. A hundredth peal together, by father and son, was rung at Frodsham on September 10th, 19e8. This was a peal of London Surprise Major by the local band, in which the father rang the 6th and the son rang the 4 th and conducted the peal.
Even this may got have been the first of its kind. Quite a few frthers and sous lave been active peal ringers in Cheshire, tha Gordons, Holdings, Langfords and Fearnleys, just to mention a tew.

THE BRISTOL GUILD TOURS.

No effort is being spared to make a suecess of next week's tours arrayged by Bristo United Guilds. Some forty or more towers will be visited, ane all those taking part have been provided with a most interesting 'Preview,' compile a Dy ' M . J. G.,' which not only gives the routes for each of the siz days, but particulars of the places and churches, so that the perticipants will know cactly what to look for. This Preview must have been prepared ai the experse of much labour and care, but it will add immensely to the interest of the various trips which will be made each day from Bristol.
The first day (Monday) will take in the country via Glounester, Tewlesbury, Pershore and Cirencester.
Tuesday's expedition goes to Wiltshire, iucluding Waxminster, Amesbury, Devizes and Bradford-on-Avon.
On Wednesday the rouste lies to Shepton Mallet, Taunton, Minehead and Bridgwater.
Wiltshire will be invaded again on Thursaay, Chippenhare, Swindon and Calne being included in the rum.
On Friday the places included are Wells and Wookey Eole.
Saturday's itinerary takes the party to Glastonbury, Yeovil, Crewkerne. Wermouth, Dorchester and Sharborne.

RAMPTON BELES.

RTNGERS' OPPORTUNYTY.
All Saints' Day, November ist, has heen fixed for the dedication of the new treble bell, or bells, at the little village of Rampton, Cambridgeshire. Whether it is une or two bells depends upon the result of eforts made before the end of this montll.
At present there are four bells: the fifth is assured, and, if $£ 50$ can be raised by the end of August, the ring of nix will be completed.
"There are," writes the Rector, "still many bell books on the manteishelves of the mistememberers-at least I am optimist enough to refuse to believe they are basheted or luznt; so perbaps another Ramptor reminder will have a remedial ring about it.'
There are already 14 ringers at Rampton, half of them Jadies, ready to come to grips witi siz bells, and jt is now up to ringers beyond the village to help cecure them.
The local ringers hope to utilise the four bells in a 'wedding peal' on the occasion of the marriage of the Recior's hrather on Auguat 12th.
Contributions to the fond should be sent to the Hev. T. L. Havere, Ramptor Rectory, Cambridge.

ANOTHER RING OF TWELVE

ST. WOOLOS' CATHEDRAL, NEWPORT

Another addition is to be made to the rings of twelve bells. Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are to augment the present ten at St. Woolos' Cathedral, Newport, Monmouthshire, with two trebles.
Wales has no pat of twelve, but this will be the next best thing, for Newport is ith the area of the Llandafi avd Monmouth Diocesan Association.
The present telts lave a tenor of 21 cwt. 2 qr. 28 1b. in E. Orieinalis they were a riug of six, by Bayley, of britewater. They

RINGERS' RALLY.

BANK FOLDAY AT LEATHEREEAD

A highly successful gathering, which oniy goes to show that those who conterd that ringers do not want meetings arranged for a Bank Holiday may not always be right.' Such was the comment mads to the writer at the conclusion of the rally at Leatherhead on Monday

The gatherimg was the outcome of a resolution adopted at a previous meeting of Surrey ringers, when the proposer drew attention to the fact that for years, over a very wide area in Southern England, there had been nowhere a man could go if be wanted to do kny ringing on August Bank Holiday, and suggested that the defect be remedied
The result certainly justified the making of the experiment, spite of the onsettled weather, between 60 and 70 ringers put in an appearance during the sfternoon and evening, and there is little doubt thalt, had the weather been fine during the morning, the attendance woud have been even greater, with catering capacity taxed to the utmost. Fifty-six sat down to tea, representing the following 30 towers: Banstead, Beddington, Bexley (Kent), Beckenham, Bishopsgate, Camberwell, Carshaltow, Olandon, Chelsea, Taling (both towera), Epsom, Ewell, Guildford (S. Nicolas'), Holborn, Hounslow, Kingaton-on-Thames, Leatherhead, Mitcham, Putney, St. Neots (Hunta), St. Lawrence Jewry, Steprey, Southgate, Tempsford (Beds), Fwickenhern Woodford, Wimbledon, Westerham (Kent), Yardley (Northants).
The Fiear (the Rev. G. R. B. Coleridge) condugted the service gave a short address, in the conrse of which he welcomed the meeting to Leatherhead Church. Basing his remarks on the subject of the Prayer Book Leston for Angust 7th, "The Name of Jesus,' he said that there was probably never a time when superstition was mare rife than it is to-day, eren in the Dark Ages. People put their faitb in all kinds of siliy and superstitious things, suell as Plans with the Flanets, permuiations with the number 13, etc., rather thay in the aacred mame of Jesus. He boped that some people would hear and understond, even on it Bank Haliday, the message of the bells, axd put their faith, not in sunerstitious heliefs. but in Christ's teaching, Ten, was scrved nt the Duke's Head, at which the Vicar presided. On behali of the ringers of Leatherhean le again extended a hearty welcome to the wisitors, and after reading out the nanes of a few of the places whence they had come, espressed the Inope that they would thoroughls enjoy their visit.
It was is matter of regret to some of the adder ringers that Mr. Arthur Dean, who was tways elosely identefed witit ringing at Lextherhend in former years. was now incapacitated by zlness from further ringing and quite unable to get either to the chuxch or to the Duke's Head to meet lis friends. In the circumstances, therefore only one thimg could be done. If he could not get to them, they must Do to him. So at intervals daring the afternaon and avening Mr. Dean held a veritable leve of old pals who called to pay their respects and talk over old times. All were pleased to find fim so checrful in spite of a painful malady,
The ringige throughout the day comprised all kinds of methods, from Grandsire to London Surprise, to suit everybody. At 9 oplock the bells were lowered and the mecting dispersed. Then to the station by way of the Duke's Head. All seemed happy. Judging by the harmonious and vomiferous sounds emitted from $x$ compartment of a train making its mey towards London abouk $11 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}_{\mathrm{o}}$., a certain section of the crowd was very happr inded.

MARRIAGE OF YORKSHIRE LADY RINGER

The marriage took place very quietly on Tuesday, August lst, at St. Michael'e Ghurch, Beadingley of Miss M. Fisher, oul! daughter of Mrs. and the late Mir. Alfred Fisher, and Mr. Harry Booth, $\operatorname{son}$ of Mr. J. R. and the late Mrs. Booth both of Leets. The ceremony was performed by the Ficar (the Bev, R. J. Wood).

The bride, who is n member of the Ladies' Guild and the Yorksinire Association, has given valued help to the St, Micheel's band, where she learned to ring about four years ago. The remainder of the band, torethe with two or three friends, woiced their good wishes on the hells $n s$ the bride and bridegroom left the church.
The bappy couple left later in the dey for Oxiord, where they are to take up residence, Mr. Roatlz being the Professional Reader for the National Institute for the Blind.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN OVERTON. DOYEN OF SHROPSHIRE RLNGERS.

For 64 years leader of St. Leonard's, Bridgnorth, Mr. John Overton passed peacefully away at bis home, 31, Wesk Castle Streot, cri July 29th, at the adranced ago of 88 years. Well known, honoured and greatly respected by many ringers and other friends, Mr. Overton, by his wonderful skill as a tencher af carrect. change ringing, proved himsalf to be one of the 客reat pillars of the Exercise. His kindiy manner had won for him a position in the county of Shropslive and also in the Fereford Diocese that no other ringer had ever held. He was an hanorary wice-president of the Herelord Diocesan Guild and had been Ringing Master of the Bridgnorlh District gince its formation in 1919. He introduced change ringing to Bridgnorth and rang upwards of 100 peals in various parts of the country.
About 30 years ago Mr, Overton and his Sunday service tean rang pine peals of Stedman Triples in one year, conducted by his son, Wilfred. Five of these peals were rung on five different peals of eight, St. Leonard's, Bridgnorth, Coalhrookdale, Shifnal, Ludlow rnd Pattinghem. They also rang peals of Kent Troble Bob Kajor at St. Leonard'g. Soon afterwards be trained his colleagues and took part in and ranc within a few changes of a peal of Double Norwich Major, which would have been the first for a local band in the county of Salop or the Hereford Dionese. However a few rears ago it was a great joy to him to listen to the first peal actually rung by St. Leonard's ringers, two of his sons, Horace and Wilfred, the latter conducting, talking park. Wherever they entered the competition for the Hereford Guild Shield the Bridgnorth ringers won it. It is now in St. Leonard's Cburch.
In 1925, to mark his 50 years as foremen of St. Leonard's, Mn. Overton was presented with an illuminated address, and in honour of the occasion a peal of Stedman Triples wes ruag at Bridgnorth. Mr Overton rang the treble, the peal was conducted by bis som Wilfred and his scns, Horace and Harry, also took part. A solid hronze peal tablet was placed in St. Leonard"s Church recording the peal
Mr. Overton was very musical. In his younger days he played in a loent drum and fife bund and also with the Town Brass Band. He trained a very clever haudbeli tune rizging beam, which used to be it great demend at vazious functions.
The last time Mr. Overton rang at St. Leomard's was in 1955, when he was 84 . Ahout that period lis legs began to fail him, the result, no doubt, of co much Etanding during lus employment at the local carpet works. He began work at 11 years of age and retired in 1928 , after working 66 years. He is survived by four gons, who are al ringers, and two daughters. His wrife died some years ago.
That funeral took place at St. Leonara's Church on Wednesẻay of 1ast week. Six of St. Lomard's ringers acted as bearerg, and wisiting rimgers preseut included Messrs. Willinm Saunders, Coalbrookdale (Ringing Master of the Hereford Diocesan Guild); James P. Hyett Har, Hereford (assistant secretary and peaf zecorder of the Hereford Guild) ; Joseplt Stanier, Madeley, Salop (representing the Sbropshire Aswociation) ; and George Oliver, Lichfield, Wreaths were sent from the Hereford Guid, "In faithful remerabrance of John Overton for his serfice to bellyinging ' from St. Leonard's tower, in gratelul memory '; one from the Bridgnorth district, and one from St. Mary's, Eridenorth.

After the interment at the cemetery a well-strack 720 of Boh 3inor was rong at St. Wary's on the back six bells with half-muffed clappers by W. Saunders I, G. Oliver 2, T. P. Hyett 3, H. O. Baker 4, W Hayward (conductor) 5, J. L. Stanier 6. St. . Leonard's bella mere rang half-mbifted during the ovenigg.

WEDDING OF NORTH STAFFS SECRETARY.

The wedding took place at St. Giles' Church, Newtastle, Stafis, on Tuly 30th of Mr. Andrew Thompson and Miss $A$ da Bourne.
Mr. Thompson is hon. secretary of the North Staffs Associstion and its representative on the Central Council. He is also Tower Master at St, Gilea' Churck, and the bells rang a merry wedding peal aftes the cermony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Tohn Bourne, wore a gown of white lace, trimmed with silver, and carried a bouatet of zed roses. She was attended by two bridesmaids Mjes Doris Bourne (sister) and Miss Nancy Thompson (sister of the bride(groom), with Master andrew Roy Revan (neplew of the bridegroom) as page. Mr. Bertram Darber was best man
The choral serrice was conducted by the Rector of Newcastle (the Rev. C. J. Watrins), ayd the hymns, led by the choir, were "The Voies that 'breathed o'er Eeen' and 'O periect love.

On the following eveaing a peal of Grandsire Triples in honour of the event was rung at St. Giles ${ }^{3}$ Chutcla by members of the North Staffis Assaciation.

ANTIENT SOCIETY OF ST．STEPHEN＇S

BRISTOL＇S OLD GUILD AND ITS RULES．

An Analysis and a Comparison．

In our issue of December 30th last，Mr，J．Armiger Trotlope wrote of Bristol＇s old Guid，and the myth of a Royal Charter． Hers he discusses further the ancient body and its rules．
The men who did the＂pleasure＇ringing in the seven－ teenth century belonged to all classes of society．Some were gentlemen at the universities and Inns of Court，and some were of the lowest of the people．In the towns they were often good－class townsmen－tradesmen and mem－ bers of the lesser professions－and such most tikely were the members of the Society of St．Stephen＇s Ringers．
The earlicst extant copy of the rules（or as they are sometimed anlled，the ordinumces，or the Charter）is dated 1693，but it purporta to have been transcribed at second hand from a manuscript dated 1620，aud substantially it is the sime code as was agreed to when the company was founded．
There is nothing unigue about these rules．They are similar to those of the other ringing societies which existed in early times．In the British Museum among the sloane MSS．is the original manuscript with the rules of the Sctollers of Cheapside，dated 1603 ．A copy of these rules（late 17th century）is in the sibrary of All Souls＇College at Oxford，at copy of the rules of the Society of St．Hugh，1612，id in the muniment room at Lincoln Cathedral．The original set of rules of the Esquire Youths， 1602 ，is at Bloomsbury．Apd there are one or two similar documents in the Bodleian Library．
All these codes were strongly influenced by the tradition of the guikds，but there is nothing in them which does not belong to the early 17 th century and nothing that necessarily carries their detes back to the 14th or 15 th centuries．
The government of each society was entrusted to a supreme offcer elected for one vear and ralled sometimes the General and sometimes tha Master．To assist him were two other officers，called Stewaregs or Wardens，also elected annually．Generally there was a permanent official called the Beadle and sometimes a Treasurer and a Warner．
The memhers were straded according to their status and standing in the company．Whers first elected they were apprentices；in due time thev becnme freemen；nnd when they had passed the ohair they were assigtants of the company．The organisation was that of the trades guilds，the City Companjes and the social cluls of the periad． trades guilds，the City Companies and the social clulbs of the period． In all there was an elaborate gystem of fines，graduated according to the nature of the offence．They relate to such things as yefinsel to take office，disobeying the Master＇s orders，misconduct in the belfry or club room，bad lenguage，neglect of duty，nou－httendance aud kuch like．Since the socinl life was as prominent as the ritaing，the rules relate as much to the club room as to the belfry．

THF：ANNUAL FEAST．

Tho chief event in the society＇s life was the annual ferst．It wha held on the anniversary day．and every member not being let by sickness was bound to attend on pain of being fined．The st． Stephen＇s rules make no mention of the annual dinner，but it is quite certain that it was held and on the 17th November．
Another mule，like the last inherited from the guilds，was the obliga－ tion to attend the obsequies of a flereased nember：and nfter the foneral at wis custnmary＇to ring one knell pail either at the cliurch whero the burial took place，or elge nt the next parish church at Which the company could conventently be got together．＇In pree Reformation times it was on ordinary thing to ring at a man＇s obiit， or the anniversary of his death．and money was often left．for that purpose．The St．Stephlen＇s vulics contain refarences to direct sur－ vivals of that custom．
Tha Bristol rules liave been transcribed several times and by men who did not maderatati them，and it in likely that some of them mave become corript．No． 9 subjects the Haster to a jne of one shitling if he neglect or forget to warti the company ouce wifhin every I4 days for to ring a Tissit sett peale．The scribe asidently did yot know what a Bissif．sett peale was ind so did got try to modernine the spelling no with the othor words．Probably he thought it was a technieal expression and Rissit perhaps the name of sume man．
But Bissit（whirh shnuld not have heen spelt with at capital 31 il only a variatt，of＇heret．＇which，in tuth，is an inflection of 舑he very common English word＂set．＂A Bissit sett peale oaly meant the properlv nrranged ringing which the company did once a fortuisht，
Rule No．16．as nsually printan，is nlso obviously corrupt．It remde： －If any of the snid Company slanll take a rope out of a fellow＇s hand whem the hells dn ring woll，asid no make a fault to fy off and come too near，lio हliall par for his offemce one penmy to the company； The reading given in＂The Bristol Mirror of December 7th，1822．in （except for the spelling probably much nenrer the arisimal of 1520 It is：If anje one thnche a rope in hisse felowes hande whenne the Belles do welle $17 \pi g$ soe asse to make theta fy offe or come toe neare he shalle forfeit a peanie．＂

This rale cannot meam what at firat sight it seame to gay．It canmot mean that wlien ringibg was going on no one was to walk 11p to ons of the ringers and grab the rope out of his hand．Conduct like that would not need a rule，and would have led ant to a fine but to hot words and，like as not，a blow．To understand we must realise how the bells were rung．
The generai principles of bell hanging wera the same as at present， but the fittings were much rougher and cruder，xequiring the outlay of much more muscular strength，and there were no stays and sliderg and but balf wheels．The bells could not be raised and set before ringing as at present．

RULE TO SET A HIGH STANDARD．

When the ringers began the bells were hanging mouth downwards and the object was＂to raise the bells as guick as may be，＂but heeping perfect time and concord．It is nob，I thinl，known low many bells there were at St．Stephen＇s in 1620，but probably there were five or perhaps sis．One man would bo put to the treble，three or four to the teaor．and two to each of the otleers．At the start all the band had to exert their ntmost strength，but as soon as the bells were raised high enotgh to clapper properly on both sides there tas mo need for more than ane man to cach rope．It，was the duty，bherafore，of the assistant riager to leave the hell to＂his fellow，＂for if＂he touched the rope in his hand＇now that the＂bells do well ring，＇he mignt upset the 日trikimg．

This rala was intended to set a high standard of techmical skill in the rimging and so was the one which reads as follows：＂If any of the Coropany ghall miss to strike his bell at the second sway．in the rifing of a peale he shall for his ofterce pay one pennys to the company．＂ We get a full explanation of this rule in Stedman＇s ${ }^{2}$ Campaualogia＂ －In raising a peal of bells all the notes ought to strike round at one pull，but mistake me mot；I to not mean at the frst pull，for at small bells＂tis usual to swav them all rouna at the first puil］without atriking，at the second pull to strike them at the fore stroke，and st the third pull at the hack stroke．In raising a peal of mure weighty bella＇tis ustal to strike them double at the fourth pull．＇．

To carry out this rale required a gead deal of skill and the outlay of a very great deal of plyssical strength．It would ba an almast impossible feat with modern hump ring of dight whete the hig hell are tucked up into the stocke and the clappers of the little hells swimg freely，urless the hells were very light．
For a hundred years or sos the St．Steplien＇s Society existed as a hody of men interested in hellinging and meeting at reanlar intervals for social intercourse．No actinal account of its doings during tine first 60 yeats anrwives，but the fact that it did exist tells us sufficiant．
Meanwhile ringing 1ade altogetlee altered in character．Tlie inven－ tion of the Sixes about 1610 had introduced the art of change ringing． which，aided by the publication of Richard Duckworth＇s＂Tir－ tinnalogia，in 1668，and Tabian Stedman＇s＂Companalogia＇in 1607. after the Restoration manophlised the attention of the nore advanced ringers．Instead of tho athletic farcination of raibine and ceasing angers．Instend of tho athletic fancination of rainine pand ceasing changes．
But this development took place slowly and onty in parts of the country．The mew art was horn amang the students at the two universities and the Tnms of Court and was developed by the ringern of London ant Oxford and Cambrivge，Nottingham amd Randing mnd the Eastern Countfes．In some disfricts ringers stifl cilune to the nid tule which oven yet lingers among the round ringers of Cornwall． SOCIAL LIFE AN IBPORNANX FFATURE．
For all the number of its bells，Bristal took no part in the early ilevelopment of change ringing，and that was prolybly the ultimate canse of the great alteration which at the ciose of the 17tly contury or the begining of the 18th took place in the character of the Si． Etephen＇s Company．It ceased to be a society of ringers and heoame an ordinary becial club．

We reust remember that in the old societies the social life was ea prominent and almost as important a feature as the ring ing．The ringers were naturally sacinble，convivial and clubable petsone，so milch co that，in the npinion of maty of the straiter sort of people． they were a dissolute，disorderly and drunlsen lot．The reign of Queen Anne wass o great time for clubs．All over the cambtry in every Queen Anoe was is 官reat time for clubs．All over the caumbre in every drawing up rules zand scales of fines．The ringers had their orgatiss－ bion ready made，and when the interest in rimging wamed among the memhers they could still catry on as a club and admit rgernita who cared nothing for bells．

And interest in tinging did in some casea wane．Round ringivg was ceasing to be a rport for gentlemen and the newer change ringing was far more diffenlt ard technfeal and appeated to a smaller and more stlect numbir of devotees．Had the St．Stephen＇s men taken to charge ringing the fascination of it might have hept the somiety in touch with the belfry ；but that did not happen，and after o while the company ceased to be ringers in everything but name．

The alteration，of comse，did not take place all at nnce．When the mociety etarter it consigted of men of mucla the eame secial status，but there are signs that，in time，it was found necersaty to introduce men of a lower class，so as to find enougls ringers to man the rapes In the lista of zamen in the minute books，which date from 1682 ，a few mamters ars ortitied＇esquire，the majority are entitied＇Mr．＂and the rest have no title at all．The division is not fos has heen exg gested into professional and nmateur ringers，for that distinctiou hat never，at any time，been recognised in the Excreise．In alden time class distinctions were very much more marked and insisted upon than they are now. A man was not called an esquire unless he actually was an esquire, nor entithed Mr, unless he was a man of some position and standing.
Whell the final link with the belfy was broken we cannot say, bun thronghout the greater part of the 18th century the Society of St. Stephen's Ringers was an ordinary club, whose main concern was the periodical dinnerg. But that it still continued to exist and, on the whole, to prosper is a tribute to its good fortune and tho character of its members.

The life of any one of these societies, whether a company of ringers or a sacial club, was usually not a very long one, and hung on a rather slader threai. It did not take much-a quarrel, the death of some of the mentrers, waning interest or failure to secure new mem bers any one could easily wreck the society.

There are signs that the Fociety of College Youths to some extent went through the same experience as the St. Stephen's Somety, only. with them, there never was a complete break with the belfry, and as the critical time the influx of a number of young and enthusiastic nem members saved the society for the Exercise.

SOCIETY BECOMES A DINING GLUB.

In the early years of the 19th century the St. Stephen's Corapany of Ringers was a dining club, whose amual feast was attended by number of the principal citizens of Bristol.
This was the time when what the newspapers call 'the quanm customs of its early days, were invented; when a few wague rumoura were crystallised into traditions, and the proceedings given a yenuer of sham'antiguity. The pageant, called "The Don ' and the singin\% of the song about the Golden Drys of Good Queen Bess date probathly from about this time. During the dinner oge of the members dressea up like a Spanish Grandee, with a big red nose, headed a procession enrying lighted candlos. Which escorted the newly-ulected Master to his seat and the old code of rules was solemmly read.

This ceremony is still, I believe, carried out muder the impression that it was part of the ancient and original ritual of the company But the whole thing is evidently a fake. It may be objected than these men would not have loen guilty of a deliberate fraud, but than is to look at the matter in an eutirely wrong light. They were not antiquarians and they were not engaged in any serious business They were a number of worthy gentlemen, met together to eat stimner and have a jolly time, and they played a game of tet-us pretend. For the whole thing, even where it was a genuine survival was a pretence. They pretended tiat they were $16 \mathrm{t} \mid \mathrm{c}$ century ringers that they were bound by a set of mules they did not in the least hir understand; that they derived in sone mysterious way from Quecm Flizaheth. It was nntural, almost inevitable, that they should seek to heighten the illusion ly fictitious details and the Don, with his bin rod nose, gave a touch of fun and burlegque which was appropriate to the occasion

DEEIBERATE FAKING.

That there was deliberate faking is slowa by the account of tho company, published in "The Bristol Mirtor" of December 7th, 1822, evidently by a leading member.

The writer gives the tradition about Queen Eilizabetly and hes pronise, states that a Charter was obtaimed from James I. and proceeds to quote a number of the rules. In doing so he does not copy the sprelling of one of the genuine manuscripts, but adopts an imita tion of $15 t^{\prime}$ century orthography to give the thing an extra antiquflatour. It is rather clever, but altogether overdone. If genuine, it would prove that the 'Charter' was not the crant of King James, but 200 vears older. But actually it does not take much study to see that the thing is not genuine, and the writer gives himself away by adding os cotrplet of his own:-

Maye theyo rinnge peales offe tripple bobbes grandsires
Tille the worlde ends is atle-consuming fiere.
Tripyla bobles grandsires ' is monsetuse, and by ije time that there were such thing as Treble Bob and Grandsire English spelling hau becone much the same thing it is mow. Also the ringers' traditional proaunciation of the word Grandsire has a silent 'a' and a very bloort ' $\hat{y}_{\text {. }}$ ' It rhymes with casacer, not with fire.
There was no meed and no room for such things as the Dou in the old St. Stephen's Company. Like other similar bodies they adoptea this ritnal and their rules because they wanted to fold their meeting* and transsct their business in proper form, not because they wantea to the "quaint." The rule about not striking a bell at the second sway once nueant something, but we may be sure that it was not read ont ht the anmul dinner. It was only when it lad long since mean nothing that it became 'quaint' and so of valte in a pageant.
It is instructive to compare the only two early 17 tit century ringing societies which stitl survive-the Society of College Youths and the Society of St. Stephen's Ringers. The first is what it always hes beeu, a compnny of rincers. It has kept its original objects, its originsi organisation, and its original routiae. It obeys, for the most part. its original rutes, but those rules adapted to the changing yesra. There is mothing "quaint" about the Society of College Youths, bus We may he quite sare that it is far nearer to what the Society of St. Stephen's Ringers was in 1600 than that society is now.

The St. Stephen's pageantry is interesting and worth while, but it has no remote connection witly a ringing society of the early 17th century.

RINGERS' OUTINGS

SUCOESS OF BEXLEY'S EIRST OUTING
'TIu ringers of St. Mary's, Bexley, went throagit their ows county of Kent for their first anmual outing. They first made for Mardeu, ras Wrotham, where three quarters of an hour was spent in ringing and looking over the church. The jaurney contimued through ideat Kentish scenery to Tenterden, where on arrival the company were delighted to have tho opportumity of hoaring the tune played on the bells by the clook apparatis after striking the hour of twelve, after which this glorious peal were made good use of in various methads and the ringers were delighted to meet guch old ringing friends, Mesers. C. Tribe and K. Fdwards, of the local band. Mr Frank Mitchell, of St. Mary's band, learned to ring at TenLerden under Mr. Tribe, so it wes a very happy reunion after 20 years. ffer lunch the party went on to Appledore, where they were welcomed by the Vicar. Both learacys and experts had a good time with this handy ring, while the non-ringing fricnds enjosed themselves looking over the very interesting church. The next stage was to New Romuey with its grand old church and splendid peal of bells. Here naturally the ringers were condent to remain in the tower and get $2 s$ much ripging as possible. Here they enjoyed the compury of Mr. H, S. Humphrey, of the local band. There was a littie guessing going on When the 'father of the company realised that he had met this gentleman comewhere before, but where? After a littie menta] struggle it proved to be at Woolwich, where they had seen a good deal of each other, for Mr. Hoskins, of course, lails from Greenwiel The non-rimging section of the party in search of orone proceeded to walk to Litulestore-on-Sea, but, alas, those Kentish niles were too much for some. Others bravely went on and enjoyed a ehart time by the sea. One gentleman came prepared for the possibiliky of a swim, when he bad and enjayed. One lady on her return journey somehow got the ronds mixed up and was late for ters. Howover, all ended mell. Getting such on wime to the fast tower the party arrived at Mersharn, where owing to the long draugis of rope not many were fery happy for time, but nearly all bad a pull Here everyone enjoyed tho company of the verger, whose itatimate mowledge of the chnrch made an inspection af the building extremels interesting, and the best thanks of the company gre extended to him. The homeward joumey was made wia Ashford and Maidstone. Thanks are extonded to the neumbents and ringers of the seperal churches for their help in making St. Mary's first ringers' outing an outstending success. The methods Ting during hhe day were Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Pob, K for the beginners.

MAJOR' OUT'NG IN ESSEX.

As might be imagined, Major methods were predominant during the day's outing on July 29tris of a party of Suffolk ringer from Leiston, Ufford and Woodoridge, although, strangely enough, Stedinan Caters at Saffron Walden was probably the best touch of the day.

The smooth rumning peal of eight at Hatield Brond Osk (tenor 20 cwi , ) went well to an assmrment of methods, including Cuntiradge and Bristol. Stansted was the next stop, and a swurm of bees along the church path meant procecling witit eaution, but witkout casualties. The well-furnished ringing chanber contains many records of past performances, The lelthanded ring (tenor 13 cwt .) were a libite dificult to get used to, but London, Bristol and Superlative were successiuly brought round.
After lunck the wonderful churcher nt Thaxted and Saffon Waiden were visited; both of these noble buildings are worth a visit apart from the ringing. At Thaxted the bells were very quiet inside, athough outside the reverse was the case. The tenor of about ton Fent very well, but oge or two of the others were a little tricky to ring. Rounds was all that could be menaged on the wwelve at Siffron Falden, but Treble Bob Roçal and Stedman Caters were enjoyed. A course of Bristal on tho grand back octave was not so successful and a postrmortem failed to reveal the cause of failure.
The last call was at St. Mary's, Redwinter, where a nice littie peal of eight, with a tenor of doubtful meight, were spoilt by rumblings from above, making it difficuli to hear the bells. a concluding course of London and three leads of Bristol brought the day's ringing to a close, abthongla one or two beariges. had to we oiled en route for home, which was reached about midnight.

LONG DAY

A serenteen-hour outing was enjored by the ringers of St. Tarnabas ${ }^{\circ}$ Great Tey Essex, on Joly 29th. i party of 35 startad at $7.30 \mathrm{~B}, \mathrm{~mm}$. and did not reach home again until 12.30 a.ms. They firs rang at St. Mary's. Farlow, and then went on to St. Michelts, St. Ahans. They had lunch at Luton and afterwards rang for a wedding it the Parish Church. It is reported that here two of thef own party mearly got married, but further details are lacking. From Latori the journer was continued to Bedford, where they rang at Si. Peter's and had tea before going on to ring at Bromliam, where the church is prettily situated in s park. The ringers desire to thank all whn helped towards the successfal day, mud especially the ringers who met helped townrds the succersful them at the various towers.

YOUTHS' HALF-DAT EXCURSION

Willesborough and District Youtls set forth on their nintil annual half-day rum on July 29th. At Wayborme the Recior welcomed thent and good use wha made of the bells for 50 minutes. Northiam twas reached a bit on the late side, but Mr. Kemp had everything ready and 50 minutes' good ringing was enjoyed before setting off for Brede, where Mr. Apps received the party. These bells are another fine lot athd were soon going to varinus methods spliced and unspliced. gt Sedlescombe everything wes ready for tea; so were the Youths. Then back up the lill to tho charch, the Rector giving a hearty welcome. With this handy littie six another eajoyablo hour was spent before going on to Hawlhurat, where the bells are quite all right but there was nothing ta telephone to father ahout with regard to the ringing. A hali-hour's spin bronght, the party to Woodchurch, with six decent balls in need of hanger and boll rope maker. However, a few short touches wera brought round. At 9.40 the party were back at the starting place, the Fox still ruming. Glorions weativer, a 70 miles run through delightful scenery, good tea, six towers, bells all in good going order with esception of the last lot, methods ranging from rounds to Camhrige, and al! im 9t hours, is mot too bad for Xauths from 16 to well nigh 80. They wish to thank the incumbents towerkeepera and all who helped to give thom such an elljoyable time.

SAFFRON WALDEA SOCIETY IN SUIFFOLK

The Saffron Walden Society's annual outing took place on Monday, Tuly 3rd, in fine weather. At Loing Melford the vistors were met by Mr. H. Richoid, a very old Iriend of time society. On the bells were rutig touches of London and Cambridge Surprise and Stedman Triples. Arter a look round this leanaiful church the party proceeded to Lavenham, where they were meb by Mr. Stedman Symonds. The bells were soon going to London Surprise, aifter which Cambridge, Supherlative and Sitedman Triples were rung. A hot lunch was served at the Swan Hotel, which poesesses a peal of handbells, on which plain caurses of Graudsire Triples and Caters were rung. After taking a look roand some of the old houses of Lapenham of much antiquarian interest, the party moved on to Sudbury, where Mr. H. Herbert was waiting for them. The firgh pull was at. St. Peter's, the methods being London Surprise and Stedman Triples. Then on to St. Gregory's, , here Londeu Surprise and Stedman Triples were rung. It had been insched also to ring at All Saine bis hefore they could riag, they decided to go on to Fadleigh. On this fine peal of eight Loadon, Combridge, Superlative and Stedman Triples were rung Ths last calling place was Ipswich, where several of the local band were waiting to meet them. Here was rung a course of Cambridge Roval, luaf a course of Cambridge Marimus and a touch of Stedman Ginques. Home wis reached et $11.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. The हociety would like to thank the incumbents for the use of the belfe aud the local ringers who met them and thus helped to make the day such a success.

WOODFORD AND WANSTEAD RTNGIRS COMBINE

The ringers of Woodford and Wanstead (Essex) had an excursion into Suffolk for their annual outing. It was anmisy trip and they were able to rins for morning service at Hadleigl sud for evenigg servies at Rañwinter. In butween they rang ot Hintlesham efter morning service, had dinner at Fadleigh and fisited Monks Fleimb.
The Fingers attended service after ringing at Radwinter, and the Vient (the Rev. C. Gore) gave an ingeiring address. The sermon dealt in the main with the use of the bells, ana the vital part played by tbe ringers in calling together the people for divine worship. Parisl Hall by the Vicar and his staft of helpers. When juctice had berr ${ }^{2} \mathrm{coll}$ and truly done to the full tea set before them, the captain, Mr. C. Morss, presented the driver of the coach with a silver cigaretta case, the gift of the United Guild of Wanstead and Woodford Ringers, for the care and consideration lue has always shown them.
Mr. J. Chalk, Master of the Sauth-West District of the Essex Association, thanled the Vicnr and his helpers, alsa Mr. Feank Cornes Who ably arranged the outing' Mr. S. Webl, Mr. C. Morss and Mr. T. Crampion were also mentioned. After fo few tuzes on the handletis the journey homewards wis made wia Thaxted. Dmemow, Ghelnasford and Brentwood, Woodford being reached at $11.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.

A LONG DAY IN HERTPORDSEIRE

Hertfordshire towers were the objective of the Felminghm (Suffolk) ringers on the occasion of their annual outing, and helieving in an early start, they were on the way beforo 6 a.m. Tlie first stop for ringing was at Bengeo and then they went on to Hatfield, where they wete welcomed lw Mr. A. Limrence. At North Nimms they were greeted by Mr. W. Nasli and rang before going on to Watford, where they were met wy Mr. S. H. Hoare, and then had lunch at the King's Head Hatel. Afterwards they rang at Bushey and Watford. nnd witb the help of Mr. Cashmore and other Buptey friends who had met them, four of the visitors had their first touch of Spliced Surprise. The homewara journey was made through Fppine Forest, and Helmingham was not reached untis niter midnight. The ringitg during the day included the four standard Surprise methods, Stedrano Triples and Caters and Treble Ten. The pertey wonld like to thante all the meumbents for the use of the hells, also all who met them sud had the Jells ready. and last, but not least, Mr. S. H. Honre.

A SURREY HIGH SPOT

SUCOEEGFUL METTING AT FANMORE.
A meeting at Ranmore Common, one of the high spots of Surrey, always seems a bit of a gamble for the organisers, the chief attractions a foe peal of eight in a lovely church, anvid betutiful sur-roundings-being offset by the long climb to get there from the railway or bus, with a steep climb to the badly jit end badly ventilated beffry, for those inclined to ringing, while this year was added a very threatening sky for those who prefer to enjoy the scenery and listen,

In spite of all this a good meeting was eujoged on Satarday week, when the Norin-West District of the Surrey Association and the Leatherlicad District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild held their usual joint meeting there. Among the wisitors was Mr. Walter Charman fram Sussex. one of the district masters, and Mr. J. Corbett, hon tressurer of the Gutdford Diocesan Guild, with others from Bagshot and, later in the day, Mr. C. Edwards from Cheshire, a past Master of the Hercford Association and remembered in Surrey by some of the 'old 'uns' for his pre-war activities around Farnham.

Finging commenced soon after 3.30 , and Mr. A. Harman, the Ringing Master of the Leatherhead District, being on holiday, the full duties fell to Mr. Dan Cwoper.
A breale was made af; 5 oclocis, when the Rector, the Rev. N. G Davies, after first weleoming the visitorg to Ranmore, and homing they would enjoy their wisit, conducted a short service with a short address.

Tea was providedl at the Post Office, to which 39 ringers and friends did full justice. As usurl on this occasion there was no business to transact, hut Mr. Cooper reminded members of fortheoming meetings and proposed heary votes of thanks to the Rector far the use of tae bells and for taking the service, also to Mr. A. F. Smith (district secretary of the Guildford Guild) for making the necessary arrangenemts
Ringing was then resumed until about 8.30, a variety of methods fram Teiples to Bristol Sarprise, with rounds, meeting everyone requiremente It is hoped that all enjoyed themselves and made a resolve to come again next sear

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

IN THE PTAF DESTRICT,

St Peter"e, Nottigeham, ringers paid a visit to the Peak District 07. Saturday, July lst, the party of ringers and friends numbering 25 The wenther was glorious and the routa lay through some of the loveliest countryside in lingland. The first, stop for ringing was at Dore, which was reached via Matleck, Dacley Dale, Ohatsworth Park and Baslow. At Datley Dale, where a slop was made for a snack, a course of Grandsire Caters was rung on landbels. A pony in an adjoining fiefri seened greatly impressed by the music, for it kept pushing its head over the fence as if interested. At Dore the handy ring of eight (tenor $11 \frac{1}{3}$ art.) was raised in peal, and several tonches of Grandsire. Stedman and a course of Cambridge rump. At Hatlersage, the burial place of Little Jolns, one of Robin Hoon's famous band, a sumptoous lunch was served at the George Hotel, Then the drive was resumed Cbrough Glossop, Hayfield, Chapel-en-leFrith, Buxtan, Newhaven and on to Ashbourne for tea. Handhells were again frought into use and a course of Grandsire Caters were rung in the courtward of the Gremm Man, much to the delight of visitore at the hatol. Later on, at Wirksporth. on another good peal of eight, the visitors znng touches of Grandsire, Stedman. Kent and course of Dobhle Norwich. Incidentally they rang for evensong and then after the service Nottingham was eventally reached at 10 p.m. The Ringing Waster (Mr. H. R. Cabbin) and all the ringers wish to express their sincere thanks to the ircumhents of Dore and Wirksworth for granting permission to ring, and also the captains of these towers for mecting the party and having everything in readiness.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands reall $Y$ clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, tro-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

RINGING TOURS.

With the arrival of the holiday season, ringing tours are now in active progress-not the ringing tours which form a day out for a tower company, but programmes which occupy a week or more, and which are carried out by ringers usually collected from a wide area. There are generally three or four notable peal-ringing tours in the course of the late summer, and one such begins to-day in Lancashire. Others of a similar kind are to follow in the next two months, but in these days not all tours are peal-ringing tours. A peal-ringing tour is a fairly serious undertaking, especially if the party is not overmanned, for it is usual to have at least two peal attempts a day, and, when the necessary travelling is taken into account, this form of holiday can provide a pretty strenuous time, although those who participate will tell you that, hard work though it may be, they thoroughly enjoy it.
But there are other ringing tours, not invoiving peals, which also make a pleasant holiday. One, organised by Bristol United Ringing Guilds, is in progress this week in the west. Those who are sharing in it are making daily coach tours and interspersing sightseeing with ringing at a number of churches. It is the kind of tour which can be taken at ease, and which would probably appeal to the majority of ringers if they could make an oportunity to join it. Another tour, with a deliberate avoidance of peals, concluded last week, when a party of youthful enthusiasts completed ten days awheel in Devon and adjoining counties. It was carried out by a section of the ringing community who have been humorously dubbed the National Union of Tower Snatchers, and to ring in 66 towers in the space of ten days certainly shows their keen interest in adding fresh rings of bells to their lists. They 'collect ' towers, in the same way that peal ringers do, but, as their call can be of the briefest character, they have the advantage of being able to add considerably to their daily " bag ' on such excursions. Then there is the holiday which strikes a happy medium, such as that in Somerset last week, which is not entirely devoted to peals and which satisfies the desires and ambitions of the one-peal-a-day ringer.
Whatever kind of tour is indulged in, however, there is much to be said in commendation. Touring in either manner helps to increase interest in the art of ringing and give a spur to enthusiasm. Whether it be a strenuous two-peals-a-day programme, a leisurely coach tour, or a combined ringing and cycling expedition, which means, probably, the output of equally as much physical energy as the peal ringers exert, it is good to know there are men and women sufficiently keen to engage in this

MR. ALEERT WALKEA

PEAL NOTES.

BIRMINGHAM RINGER REACHES 500 PEALS.
Mr. Albert Welker, of Birmingham, has discovered that he only needs fifteen bundred more peals to complete his two thoussnd. Since roturning home from bis restless 'rest cure' at Surfeet, he has found that the peal of stedman Cinques, which ho called at Great St. Mary's, Cambridge, was his five hundredth peal, of which no ferer than 326 have been on twelve bells.

This is a remarkable re cord. Over 100 of the gies ls an twelve have beet on handbells and the rest ruug is 37 towera. Mr. Walker also lolds anather anique distinction. He is the only ringer who has called a peal on fourteen bells. When the Birming: ham band after the war were at the height of their handbell ringing lame, they raug a peal of Stedman Sextuples and Mr Mather aglled it from 3-4 He luas also faken part in two non-condueted peals of Stedman Cinques on landbells and a non-conducted peal of Cambridge Maximus on tower belis.

Mr. Wablaer begau lais ringing career at Tauntom, where he rang his lirst peal in 1896. His first peal 85 conductor was at SSt. Martin's Birminghom in 1904, and be has now conducted 201 peals on eight to 14 bells. of inis 353 tower-bell peals, 159 have been rumg at St. Martin's Church, Birminglam, while bis handbell peals number 147.

Soveral correspondents heve pointed out that the peal of Canzridge at St. Nicholas', Great Yarmouth, on Bamk Holider, was not the first peal of Surprise Maximes on the bells. As a matter of fact, the statement (it was not the conductor who sent it) was willuirath before the report appeared, but just too late to prevent its being printed.
The late Mr. Wilism Pye called a peal of Superlative Mazimus on the bells on 4 ugust Bank Holiday, 1998 , so the peal Iast week was the first of Cambridge Maximus on the bells.

THREE TREBLE BOB MAJOR VARIATIONS IN A PEAL.
For the frst time a peal in three varietions of Treble Bob-Oxford, Kont and Granta-has been ring. This was at Christleton, Gueshire, last Saturday, and was conducted by Mr. Percy Swindley. The composition wres by Mr. James Morgan, of Pulford.
Granta Treble Bob gets rid of the tenors from the slow work. These bells da not dndge with the treble on the front. Instead, ther come from 3-4, lead a whole pull and go away to $3-4$ egain, the treble making 2nd's over each in turn, and feading w wole pult in between,
Not all of those who rang in the peal of Ioris Surprise Maximus at Tpswich agree that the mathod is "very eass " or "onty one degree in adyance of "treble Bob," These were not our opinions, we merely printed the comment of a correspondent. But then opinisns often do differ on questions of this sort. What ane man thinks simple, asother looks upon as difecule or catchy, We underatand York is tricky otider loots upon as aimcrit of catchy.
The fortieth mniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. Preston of Erdington, Birmingham, was celebrated on Saturday by a pea of Stedman Triples at St. Barabas' Church.

Mr. Freston is Rigging Master and secretary of Erdington lower, but he was unfortumately umable to take parti in the peal, owing to indisposition. Fo was, however, able to join the ringers afterwards, and all were entertained to tea at the Ficarage by the Rev. W. S. and Mrs. Power. Mr. B. H. Rohinson, who made up the band, belongs to Portsmouth, and was on holiday in Birmingham.
The peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at Beddington on Safurday was rung after two or three unsnccessfal starts for Double Norwich Caters. The trouble about the Caters was thet too mady men came with the intention of rimging the tenor.

Tho yourg rinears ehared in a peal of Grandsire Triplas at the Cathedral, Guidford, on Auguat 8th. Lawrence Haceldine, aged only 14, rang his first peal, and Peter Dary, of Bramley. aged 18, scored his frst peal on eight bells, his onlr provious peal having been one of Bob Minor.

A peal of Minot in eighe methods, which included a 720 of Spliced London and Wells Surptige and a 720 of Combined Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, was cung at Karket Deeping, Lincolnshire, on August 5tb. for the weitidig of Mr. Horace Stafford and Miss Adeline Yates, which took piace the same afternonn.

Mr. Harry Gibbard las now rung cecin bell at Market Deeping Church to a peal.
Five of the six ringers who took part in this pesl participated on Bank Holiday in a peal in 14 Surprige Minor methods four of the 720 s being spiticed) at Rippirgale.
"lae band who rang the peal of Bob Major at Bexley, Kent, on Saturday, wisls to associate witl: it Mr. Percy J. Spice, who stood in an unsuccessful attempt on the previous Monday, When, after ringing 1 heur and 80 minutes, two bells changed over. The age of the conductor of the peal. Alan Fall, is 16 years 5 mouths, sind he is one of the yourgsters of the neur band being taught by the leader, Mr. H. A. Holdean

Mr. Cecil Mogford, a member of the band at St. Stephen's, Bristol, was married on August 8th to Mis S. E. Drake, and his colleagus ratug a peal of Stelanan Caters in honour of the event.

A GOOD SNART.

Mr. Frank Bennett, of Brighton, made n good start on his second fifteen hundred during the holidayb-Cambridge Major on Saturday, Suporlative on Sanday and New Cambridge on Monday. Next week he witl be busy in Lancashire.
At Hadlow, where he calted tho first peal in a Surprise method, the bells cemnot be saje to be one of the beft rings of eight in Kent as the gentleman who was responsible for the tuaing of the two trebles seems to have ignored the fact that they ought to be in tume with the back six.

The golden wedding of Archdemcon and Mrs. Ward, of Filger. Norfolk, Was celebrnted on August 8 th with a peal of Superiative Surprise Major at the Parish Clurels. It was also a birthday compliment to Mrs. Bullen.

On August Bank Foliday a band met af Clurist Church Cathedral, Oxford, for a peal of Stedman Ginques, bat on arrival at 11 e.m. were informed that a memorial ervice had been arranged for 2 o'ciock, and this, trith otber services, prevented a peal attempt. The Master of the Onford Society and the Master of the London County Association interviewed the authorities in residence at Magdalen Coliege, sad after conferences permission was obkined and a peal of Stedman Caters was the result, Messrs. R. A. Post and H. Spencer standing out. The Rev. R. Rnuth, Rentor of Beaconsfield, Bucks, took part, Siace he has been a ringer it has been one of his great wishes to ring a peal at lis callege. After the peal he ontertained the band to tea, pnd this apportunity crme uneryectedly.

Messes. A. J. Wyatt and James Hunt, of Taunton, rang their one bundredth peal together on Bank Holidny, at Minehead, Somerset. They bave been ringing togetler for 20 years.
The cormpoition of the peal of Stedmen which was rung was an adeptation by Mr. Hunt of Deater's Variation of Thurstans' FourPart, making the second the observation bell. It is an excellent peal, which, among other adventages, brings 6-7 behind together in a fourbob set at the end of each quarter.

A peal in sever Minor methods was rung at Wetherden, $uffolk, on Bank Holiday, the first peal on the bells sizce 1912.
Mr. Stafford Green sought to establish a new personal record on Bank Holiday by ringing the freble to two peals in a day. All was well for the first one at Cbiluam, but the second-Oxford Treble Teu at Canterbury Cathedral - had to be abondoned after 2 hours 5 minutes good ringing, owing to the obstinacy of one of the bells.

The Chilhan peal was Mr. Green's 200 th on tower bells, and at the same time Mr. P. A. Corby, the conductor, reached his century. It Whs also the first peal on the bells since they were reltung.

A half-muffled peal was rung at Barnsley, Forks, on August 5th, to the memory of the late Mr. C. D. Potter, president of whe Barnsley and District Association. It was intended to ring Msjor, but the bana met a man shorts so g peal of Minor wes substituted, with the tenor covering, to enable all those pretant to take part. Nope of them had ruag a peal o! Minor with a covering bell before.
SUNDAY SERVIOE BAND OELEBRATE CHUROH GENTENARY.
The centenary of St. Nicholas' Chureh, at Halewood, Lancashire, was celebrated by a peal of Stedman Triples on Sunday, August 6th. Facept the couductor, Mr. Herbert Ludkin, all the band are Sunday gervice ringers at Halemood.

A Yorkshire band scored a couple of peals of Surprise Major on Bant Holiday. Aircdale Surprise had been rang for the first time two days before at Northowram; they quickly put another one on the book at Mytholmrovd and went afterwards to Heptonstall, where they rang a peal of Cambridge. The peal at Mytholmoyd was 1fr, George Fobinson's 100th peal

A hand of Roynl Cumberland Fouths, including two ladies, visited Christchurch Priozy Church on Saturday and rang a peal of Stedman Cinques. There were two first peals on twelve bells and three first peals of Stedman Cinques in the achievement.
The thanks of the company are extended to the local leader, Mr George Preston, for making the local arrangements, and they also acknowledge the kindmess of Mr. Drewitt, a College Youtl, who provided refreshment of a very welcome kind for some of the thirsty ones afterwards

A GREAT IEICESTER CITIZEN.

BEATH OF SIR FTEDERICK OLIFER
Leicester has lost one of its most distinguished publie men by the death, bt the age of 71 yeare, of Col. Sir Frederiel Oliver, High Sheriff of Leicestershire in 1934, who for more than 40 years lad played an active part in nearly overy phase of the city's public life. In adriition to political activitios. Sir Frederick had been chairman of the Leiceatershire County Cricket Club, president of the Leicester Rugby Glub for many years; he held the high office of Grand Master of the Leinestershire Province in Freomasonsy; he was a tormer Comminding Officer of the 4th Battalion, the Leicestershire Regiment; a. lay chnon of the Leicester Cathedral Chapter; and deputy chairman of Leicester Royal Infirmary.
If was through his efforts thit the tenor of tite new peal of belle at Leicester Cathedral wes given by the Freemasons of the city and named by royal permission. When the bells were opened on Coronation Day, Sir Frederick was the first to "ring " this Bell.
There was a great demonstration of sympathy and regret at the funcral on Friday last. The Cathodral was filied with mournera representing the civic life of the city, its commerce and industry, the defence forces and Freemasonry. Outside crowds numbering several thousands assembled to watch the cortege pass.
After the Bervice the Cathedral ringers rang a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters (1,261 changes), with the bells half-mutled, in 59 minutes ; F. E. Dexter 1, J. O. Lancashire 2, J. H. Spinfield 3, 甘. W. Perikins 4. H. G. Jenney 5, P. L, Harrison 6, C. F. Howitt 7. A. J. Farris 8, A Brunton 9, T. Taylor 10.

A GOLDEN WEDDING

At Cawtliorre, Yorks, on Monday, August 7th, t date touch of Minor was rung in honour of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lilse, who were married at All Saints', Cawthorne, on August Benk Holiday, 1889. The 1,939 changes, rung in 1 hour 6 minutes, comprised 720 Plain Bob, 600 of Oxford, 600 of Kent and 19 of Original Minor. The ringers were L. W. Carbutt 1, R. Hill 2. H. Rusby 3, E. Pirooked 4, C. Robinson 5, D. Smith (conductor) 6 .

A BROKEN ROPE

On Sunday, August 13th, members of Devon Guild paid a visit to Whitstone to abtempt a peal of Bob Minor, but in the third 720 it came to an abrupt end owing to the 5th rope breaking: J. Deem 1 , H. G. Lewis 2, O. F. Lilley (conductor) 3, A. Lovering 4, B. Pidgeon 5, A. Patrick Cennon B, The attempt was arranged for Mr. A. P. Canoon, who wanted to add another tenor to his fist

ANCIENT CUSTOMS.

BRED AND DRYNKE FOR THE PRJEST, CLERXE AND RLNGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sirs-In his interesting letter, Mr. Trollope gives play to his imagination, znd helps us to visualise what happeued in old days, but we must not take what he writes too literally. For instance, William Walpole, in 1539, leaves money or land for the payment of one clerke. Mr. Trollope speaks of several, and adds deacon and suif-deacon. Now it is most unlikely that it would be usual to have a High Mass of this chatacter at the death of an ordianry person, and certainly not every year afterwards on his anniversary. Nor because candles and ringers are both mentioned in wills, are we to suppose that fbey are comparable. It is true that 1 am a ringer, but $I$ should preier not to be chased with a candle, or even with a was taper, by permission of Mr. Trollope! Nor do I think that people in preReformation times would thank diferently, even if they were ringers. No parisls cierk would think nowadays of 'picking out a few lusty young fellows from the parish and sending them up iato the tower anuct more essily of old that it was possible to do so thea?
Ong Sunday afternoon, we wera sitting on a seat in Dinard, Brittany, and across the road we saw the parish clerk open 1 he west door of the church from the jnside. We tien watchen him pull the tenor bell nearly up, when he left it to fall slowly by itself, while lie went off to see to what had to be done. This was an casy and simple way of letting the bell sound, but it requires a considerable amount of practice to acquire sufficient skill to do this without injaring oneself ar other people. It is probable that this is the way bells have always been rung from earliest times; and when several bells were added they would be jangled together in a similar mancer, but one ringer for each bell.
Nr. Trollope says that "probably the bells were properly rung in rounds.' Tlis is so ualikely that we may even zay it wis impossible. To-day rounds and call changes are rung only by those who cannot ring correct changes; no doubt this was always so. That is to say they are a mere corraption of change ringing; therefore, that art mast have come first. No one rang rauds or call-changes till after change rieging wos attempted.

HALESWORTH BLND'g LONG FXISTENCE

When change ringivg was well established, and there were several rings of bells in a town, a company* or society of ringers would be formed, and they would be responsible for the ringing in a certain number of towers. The only such societios now existing are the College Youths and the Cumberlands. It is fairly certain that no guch society ever existed at Falesworth, for there was never more than the one ring of bells in the place. But there is now a baud of ringers there, and it is known that there has been one there every year for over 200 years; for they have each year partaken of the bred and drynke ${ }^{2}$ left by william Walpole in 1539 .

There is not absolute proof that they have done so every year since 1539. but it is most probable that they have, the still existing tradition being that if they did not the legacy would be lost. The land Ieit by William Walpole (or bought with his money) is zow merged with other charity lands. It was, however, recognised by the Charity Commissioners in their inquiry in the forties or the last century. Their actual words can be read in their report, by anyone who has access to a good library. If they were satisfed, I think we, too, may be satigied that the Falesworth band have made good their cham to have beer in existence when William Walpole made his will in 1539. I dio not sitppose that env band or society can attempt to make anything like such a claim os this.
There are two matters which do not secm quite so certain as Mr. Trollope supposes. He writes, It was the usual thing to send them beer and bread, which they consumed it the belfry." Now Mr. Trollope would not make such a statement unless be had what he thinks is clear proof. I should, however, much like to see it, as I cannot imagine either statement to be correct.
Agnin io writes, In some cases the ribging at an obit seems to have lasted off and on all the day.' Last June I was again in Brititany, and one day the church bell or bells seemed to be going, off and on, all morning. I was staving near the Church of St, Enogat and at lengtly, hearing both bells at two o'elock, I went to investigate. I was in time to see the coffin being borne up to the chancel, where Was in time to see tho coftin hoing borme up to the chancel, where simging the foneral masie, and there were quite a number of us outside who could not get in. A few days later came the sad news of many Breton sailors drowned in the loss of a cubmarine. Again the church bells were going of and on all morning. But this time there was no ringing in the afterncon.
Now all this ringing was either before Requiens or at the consecration in the service. Is there any reason fo suppose that the bells were rung for any otlier purposes, before change ringing was started? (Perhaps they would ring also for "placebo' in the late afternoon hafore, and for the Dirge that night.) But it was after the Reformation had reduced the number of services that people hegan to look about for other uses for the befls, and lit, on the practice of changes. Now as to the written changes at Halesworth. When these were trangriben by Mr. George gynonds, and appeared in your colvmas last year, they were no doubt recognised as being the same as are printed at the beginuing of Steduan's "Tintinnalogia," where they are called 'The Plain Cbanges on Four Bells.". In this, the treble is the only bell to hunt, which it does in the ordinary way through tue ather bells, which lie stilit ; except when the treble is twice behind or at lead, wheu the farthest pair change places. As these two bells are at the extremo end, away from the treble, the book says that this cliange must be calleil an "Extreme.

It will be noticed that I have just written 'This Book' and not Stedman," for I still cannot bring myself to believe that the same man wrote the first 42 pages (in the weprimt) and also the rest of the book ;the 'Seven score," etc, on page 83, is evidently misplaced: it woukd scem to follow on from page 40 ).
At any rate, for one who has mastered the latter part of the book, the firstu forty pages are not only superaeded and out of date, they are absolutely misleading and a bincrance.

EARLY SEVETTEFNTH CENTUEY CHANGES.
It, is, therefore, pretty certain that anyone who took 'the trouble to copy out fhese Plain Chamges cannot have hard of the elanges given in the latter part of Tintimalogia." Now the book is dnted 1668, and is a record of methods rung by the differeat companies mentioned, obviously covering a period of years. It would seem, then, that anyone who would carefully write down these Plain Clallges would do zo not earlier than the first quarter, shall we say, of the seventeenth century. This agrees, too, with the "sixty yeais" maentioned on the first page of the book.
How let us Ece what the writing itself tells, us. Wo find it on the fyleaf of a manuscript book, about a foot high with narrow pages, written by one Thomas Fella, who was elected churchwarden in 1611. This Thomas Fella was an artist, and lis handwriting is the most beautiful and the clearest that I lave ever seen. Evidently he was pions man (of sorta), for on the first page he transeribes a prayer; which ends with a violent denunciation of-tobacoo. On the gext page is drawn, and well drawn, a symbolical tree; then follow extracts from wills and other documents, the fourth page being filled with an orramental drawing of an typright wreath, which occupies the centre of the page, as a panel, all the rest being filled with basketwark orvamont, learing but a marrow outside marcin. He makes a good deal of having logun the book in 1611, and the last date seems to be 1627. O-er three-quarters of the book consists of blatk pages, mo one having dared to follow such beantiful hatudwiting. The only other writing is that, when you open the front cover, on the left-hand page is written in the midile near the top the date 1691. And on the rimht page (the fiy leaf) are written out these plain changes. The date is written in & fine, somewhat elaborate clerkly luad, not a bite like the body of tho bools, so that it was evidently not inserted by Thomas Fella. Again the ohanges are well written in th third hand The style is somewhat primitive, of a very simple kind, looking almost as thougla of a previous ceatury. Perhaps by one accustomed to carye or mould figures in an antique style
This hears out My. Lambert's suggestion, that they were written out by Jolm or William Brent, of Norwich, who were recastigg Halesworth hells in 1621. It will be noticed that the date is not written as if it belonged to the figures. One can only attribute it to them by saying that there seems no other yeason for its being there. The regular prosition of the figures of the cluanges are such as would be written by a man tho was used to careful piacing, as a bell founder would be. These figures are not written by a man accustomed to writing in books. Such a man would have begun ou the lefthand side of the page: but these fagures begin on the right and occupy most of the right hand part of the page.
We cannot be certain that the date 162 c vefers to the time when those fgures were written ; but we are certain that they were written within a few years of that date. Nor can we be certain that they were written by a Brent: although it is quite likely that they were. But we can be certain that thet are tho oldest changes pricked for ringing in existence. The scranti on the jamb of the door to the belfir stairs at Buxhall may be nearly as old, but there are only two and a half rows, not enough to ideatify the methad or for them to be used for teaching purposes.

HETEBERT DRAKE.

BISHOPSTOKE RINGER'S DEATH.

CNSTITUMENTAL IN INCREASING PEAL TO EIGHT

Ons of the most respected and esteemed residents of Bishopstoke, Hants, has paseed away in the person of Mr. Charles Aylifte, mho bad beeu a ringer at the Parish Churel for 29 years.
Mr. Arliffe commenced to ring when a ring of five bells was placed in the tower in 1910, and was the last member of the band that was formed at that time. He was chiefly instrumental in gettimg the hells increased to eight in 1900.
Mr. Ayliffe had taken pazt in several peals for the Dionesan Guild, of which he had been a memher for the whole of his ringing career. The funeral took place on Tuesday of last week. Mr. G. Wialiams (Master) represemted the Winchester and Portsmonth Diocesau Guild, and members were present from Pishopstoke and North Stoneham. A large number of people were present tespifring to the regard in Which Mr. Arlifie was held.

Immediately after the fumeral a touch of Grandsire TripIes wan rung ipon the church bells, which were fully muffled, with the exreption of the tenor, which was open at, hand.
Mr. Ayliffe leaves two daugiters and two sons, one of whom, Mr Ennest J. Ayliffe, is a ringer at Haslemere, Surrey.

CHURCH BELLS IN WAR TIME.  ARTILLERYMEN'S 'LOOT' FROM CAPTURED CITIES.

By J. Armigez Tholzope.

The Society, of Royat Cumberland Youths have taken as their platron caint William Duke of Cumberland, the younger son of Kirg George If, and round him and his supposed connection with the society a number of legends grew up in the course of years. He was said to bave been deliglited with the welcome the ringers gave limi on the bells of Shoreditul, when be returned to London in 1746 after tha batile of Culloden, and to have personally thanked thens. He was saici to have been himselt a ringer and to have given the two bells to St. Leonard's when the ring was increased to ten. His portrait, a presentation from himself to the societr, was said to have huag in the vestibule of the church and later to have been removed to St. Mertig's-in-the-Fiedds.
It is the fact that the society be-idey honouts his memory by putting his prortrait on its membership certificate, and the Master wears, as his official badge, a medallion struck in his lonour. But personally the Duke had no dealings with the society and probably was mot even aware of jts existence. The oulv convection between him and church When the Highland anny under Prince Charles Edward Stumet retreated to Scotland after its unguceesful invasion of Eugland in 1745 , a small garrison was leit in Carligie, which surrendernd. in Deember to the royal army under the command of the Duke of Cumberiand. Tlue ciky was treated as if it had been an enemy town, the mayor, town clerk and other prominent citizens were arrested, the Cathedral was used as a prison lor confining captured rebels and a denand was made by a Major Balfour, in the Dukes name for the demanal was nade by a Major Balfour, in the Duke"s name, for the nnturally "was a surprise upon the members of the Cluapter and wery ill-relished by them.
Some of the clergy waited on the DuFe to desire his protection. The pointed out that the bells were the property of the Dean end Clapler. who all along had been loyat to King George, aud that, even if the town liad offended, the citizens lat no righis in them.

The Duke received them coldy and refused to interfere. Fe told them, ins effect, that he thoughe the claim was a pood one, but, of course. the Chapter woud not agree to it. Prebendary Wilson wrote to Dr. Waugh, the Chancellor of the Diocese, who was in London, aEking for his advice and help. 'A moderato composition,' be wrote, would, I befieve, pacify the rlaimant, but I'mi firmly resolvod at prasent and so are my two brethren nat to ndmit to any, And he goes on to express his opinion that "if the major talses them down, whicln he still threatens, I doubt rot that the Lard Chief Juthtice would ollige him to replace thens.
The firm stand by the Catheral clergy had the desired effect, and in the end Major Balfour left the town without pressing the thing further
It seems a vory cartious incident and a preposterous demand which no law or custom could justify. Wilson was undonbtedly right when he gaid that, if the bells had heen taken down, the Law Conrts would have ordored them to be replaced. But it was not an ordinary case of looting enemy property in a captured fowa.
For centuries there was a strong tradition in the English army that, whenever any town was captured, the officer who commanded the arillery had a right to all the church bells in the place as his personal perquisite.

WHEN BRESTOL FELL TO THE ROYAL TROOPS.

An alnosf exactly parallel incident happened during the Civil War hetween Charles I. and the Parliament. In 1643 Bristol was anptured by the royal army under Prince Rupert, and, as at Carlisle, a demand was sent to the town anthorities for the charch bells. The only eccount we have of the incident is in the letter of protest, a copy of which was preserved by Tlsomas Hearne in fis Diary. It runs as followe :-

To the Rt Honbl our very rood Lord the Lord Percies these present at. Court

Rt Honbl

Tipon receipt of Four Lordship's Ietters, by which you make Clame to the Bells of this Cittie as Geaeral of his Majesties Artillery, We doe humbly conceive that $\begin{aligned} \\ \text { fi any guch Forfeitare were incur'd las }\end{aligned}$ is pretended), yet by Agreament on his Majesties Parte when his Forces entred it was in Effect condiscended into that, there slould noe Adrantage be thereof taken, but that all things should continue as formerlie without Prejudice to any Inbabitant. And the Bells of eacin Chureh being (as your Lordslip well knowes) the proper Goods of the Parianioners are not at our Disposal, neither lave we to doe with them. All wh we kumblie submit to your Lrps better Tudgement and taking our Leaves doe rest

Your Honors most lumbly at Comnadmt. Bristol this xxist of Nov 1643.'

Irr this case, as in the other. no actual confiscation seems to have taken place, but it is quite clear that the officers of the army quite honestly believed that the claim was justified by the rules of warfare.
In the Britisla Museunt there is an ancient manuscript which throws sonte light on the matter. It is in a folio containing a number of manuscripts in various handwritings and. of rarious dates from the time of Henty FIII, to Charles II. This paper is neither signed nor dated and I am not sufficiently skilled in old caligraphy to give it a precise date, but I should put it about 1600 . It is liended 'These be the Authorities and Powers that the Provoste Marshall and has Lieftenant lave in the Jurisdiction of the Artillerie.

Among the items which follow is the following: "As a towne is wonge (whether) it is by assalb, per force, subtile practice or by aric other manner given up, be it towne, castell, pyle, church, or bastile or fortresse, thie chief master of the artillerie or his liefteosnt shall ordayne that the master gunners and their companje slall heve the best bell within that place so wonne or the Churehwardens slaall appoynt or compound with the great master of the Artillerie and his counsell. And that to be reported by the Provoste of the Artillerie and given knowledge to the Lords and Rulers of that place soe wonne with the comons of the game what thet the Master of the Artillerie bis counsell and mr. qumpers and their companie lasve determined and ordensed by a convenable and reasonable eatimeion to see and knowe if the lordes and commons will hold the ordinance and appoyntment made.'
What authority there was behind this statement I do not know, but I find much the same thitu in a later listory of the Frenci Army: "Le grand inalte a encore ung privilege. C'est que quand une ville ou fortresse a laisse tirer le caron, Jes cloches des églises, ' etc.
In ad̃ition to the two instances I lave mentioned, there are several enges where this rather curious claim was made. At Tong, in Shrapshime, there 18 an entry in the parish acoounts for the year 1649 durirlg the Civil Far: Paid to the cananeere (cannower) for redeeming of the little bell, 6-0.

BELLS FROA CHERBOURG

Thurteen Tears after the affair at Carlisle an Eaglish army captured Cherbourg, and among the hooky brouglit home were six bells taken from the churches of the town, five of them serviceable and one broken. They were placed in the Tower of London, and Colonel Desagulier, who commanded the artiliery during the attack on Cherbourg. laring made frequent application to be paid their value as his personal right, William Pitt, then Secretary of State, directed that the Board of Ordnance should engrire into the maiter. The Board renorted that they liad nover lenrd that the right af the commanding officer to the bells taken from enemies lad ever been disputed, lrut whether the Colonel was ever paid is doubtful, for no record of sny such payment could afterwards be found.

The bells remained in the Tower and I was rather curious ag to what eveutaally became of them. I discovered quite by accident. Wher I mas mritiag my' Stedman, one of my tasks was to find out what had become of the board which recorded the first peal of Sted man Caters at St. Joht's, Forsleydown. So I made a pigriniage to that somewhat renote and inaccessible place. Ou my way I walked along 'Tower Wharf and my attention was attracted by two wery handsome bronze guns. Stopping to examine them, I read the notice. "This gun was made at Woolwicl from ordnance takea at Cherbourg, 1758." So that is what becrme of the laells. "Ordnance taken at. Cherbourg " reads better than 'Bells loated from Franch churclıes.
When Quebec was captured fram the French a Colonel Williamson took the bells down from the cathedral and sent them home to a ladr named Jane Williamson, probably lis wife. Slie offered them to some important pemon unammed, possibly William Piti, for her jetter is ansong the Chatlisw papers. What became of them is unknown, but one, I think, is now in the tower of the Clurel of All Hallows, Totberham.

A Colonel Paterson was said to have received 8300 in lieu of the bells of Guadelope, when the juland was captared from the Franch. hut when tho isfand was captured the second time and a Colonel Burtan made a similar claim it was refused.
But the tradition still surrived. In the great war with Napoteon Genoa was occupied by an English force and, after the army had returned to England, Colonel Lemoine was rentinded of this supposen ancient right. Fie went back to Genoa, and, making enguirjes, found that the town contained supwards of ninety churches, each with an average of five bells, which, according to the price given lrim by the man who had cast most of them, were worth two hundred and thirty thousand lire Genoese. It was a fortune worth trying for, and go, partly to uphold an established privilege, but majnly, as he admitted, on hif onn account, tie tried to see if there was any chance of geting that anount from the Treasury, Almost meediess to say lis attempt. was not succeskful.
Some bells seem to have been hrought back as loot from Geros, for on one of the hells at Lirersedge in Yorkshire is the inscription, - Thess eight jells were cast in 1814 and 1815 with lorss ordnance taken at Genos.' This was the last time on which this ciaim whs officially mede. but not the last time that an English army looted the church bella in an enemy country
At Windsor Castle there is a celehrated bell taken durimg the Crimean War from a church af, Sebastopol and presented by the army to Queen Victoria. It is tolled it the fuseral of a sovereign.
Qneen Elizaheth took 8 very different view of the proprietr of footing charch bells, for 'hearing that Sir John Skelton, for want of other prev, had brought a Bell from the sacking of Calles (Cadiz), sha was highly offended and sait "By God's death slie would make lim carry it Fack thither."

THE TOUR OF THE N.U.T.S.

crcling and renging in the west countey. Sixty-Six Towers Visitad.
For the third year in succession, a tour has been held for members of the N.U.T.S. (National Union of Tower Snatehers), who ebjoy combining the fine exercises of ringing and cycling. In spite of the difficulty of wouldoloe participants in getting their holidays rogether, teu eventually managed to do so, and a most enjoyable expedition, covering tea days, resulted. The absence of the past gecratary, the Gravd Mug, and others who lad previously blared in the excursions, was much regretted, but it was encouraging to have fresh young blood in the party, the average ade of which was $22, y$ years, and also to have the Ladieg' Guild section augmented to three.
Castle Cary, Somerset, was chosen as the meeting place, and by noon on Salmedey. July 29tin, the widely scattered members, representing ten towers in six counties, lund assembled and gew friendships had begun. During the day the towers of Cestle Cary (8), North Cadbury (6), Yeovi (10), Sherborme Abbey (8), Bradfora Abbas (6). Thorpiord (6) and Fetmingter (6) were visited, and ringing was so much enjoyed at the earlier of these that we were half an hour late leaving Sherborne, but this time was made up by the end of the day. A strang head wind and heay rain somewhat detracted from the beauty of the ten hilly miles hetween Yetminster and the night"s Axminster ( 8 ! and Ottery St. Mary (8), all of which were well worth a visit, partioularly, we thought, Whitchureh and Axminster. The bells at both these churches are in the key of $D$ and have e glorious tone, although both require handling to ring well. The visat to Ottery St. Mary was extendea long past scinedule to allow plenty of time to see the magnificent cathedral-like church, and the day ended at the hostel twa miles awny, where once again tea and biscuits formed our supper.

Tuendyy was to prove our worst day for weather, for whilst climbing the 1 in 4 lill out of Sidmoath aiter ringing there, a terrife storm set, in and continued for a comple of hours. However, we were onls about a quarter of an hour lete at Lititclnan, and soon the delightifu] litile peal of eight, tenor $7 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cw} \mathrm{L}_{\mathrm{a}}$, was responding to several methods. A real N.U.T.S. touch, consisting of two leads of Treble Bob, was tried here and found to work. It consists of alteraate leads of Oxford and Kent with bobs, and proved very useivl subseguently whon time was ghort. A fiae luncli followed the einging, arranged by Mrs. Gatiter, wife of the foreman rimger, and when we that the road again we felt fit for asything. Happilw the rain was now over, and after a ring os the good eight at Witlycombe Faleigh, Woodbury (B) was visited. Here, as in other towna in flie district, were found records of peals rung by the Guild of Exeter Cyclists about 40 years ago, but the go of the bells is now such that two shayt touches sufficed for the 1939 cyclists.

yuarters at Cerne Abbas Fouth Hostel, but it takes a lot to make the N.U.T.S. downbegrted. After & quiekly served supper. at which the teapot (sic) worked overtime, we corted the wet from the dry and toddled off to hed. Incidentally the lostel had once been a workhouse, so we probably did not look out of place.
Sunday morning was btill young when we all trooped off to an early Celebration at Cerne Abbas (where the bells unfortunatelr are unringable) hefore having breakfast and ruming down into Dorchester (St. Peter's, 81 to ring for Matins. An hour later, in glorious eumshime, we were having luncla at Upwey, were permission was readily granted to try the pleasant peal of six. The aftermoon was spent cyrling (and walling ) along the besutifu] coast road to Burvon Bradstack, where a spare four was occupied by a dip in a wery boisterous sea hefore ringing on the delightfol peal of six st tho Parish Clurch. After tea a ouarter-peal (Already recorded) was rumg for evensong at Bridport, whilg Symondsbury (6) was gnatched by the "overfow." Lition Cneney (6) was the !ast tower of the day. and after the boat had been launched by Edne to celebrate her 400 k , tower, wr forned in at the bostel mearby.
On Monday the weather continued to look promising, and the programme went of jite clochwork. Towers visited were Bradpole (8), Reaminster (8), Whitchurch Canonicornm (8), Lome Regis (8), Alphington, will a beatiful ring of eight recently restored, was the next port of tall, and Dunsford (6) concludee the dny's ringing. Here, at at several other towers, we taystified the local ringers with aur - Sefentific, for ho now we were in the arce where call-cinage ringing holds sway. We appeared to create a gaod impression, and we were not, on the whole, ashamed of our performance, especially considering that as a rule in thess towers the ropes heve a single tain end of ten up to a yard too long for the normal ringer,

The general opinion beld in these parks seems to be that "Scientife" beato call-charises when it is well done, kut they are roluctant to start jt for fear of breaking up the bands which are so proficient at their local art, particularly in rising and falling in pesl. Many clange ringers would do prell to liear the perfection of striking of these bands and to observe the keemmss with which they atrive tor a high plate in their competitious. Their Sunday ringing, on the whole, is also well looker after, as testifed by several of the clergy we met.

Wednesilay was to prove very eventful, for the peals visited throughout the day were exceptional. Aiter a climb to over Boft., there was a ram down to Moretonhampstead, where we fonmd a glorious peal of eight, wence 15 cwt. The usual three-quarters of an hour was alowed here before the next climb to 1,200 ft and the subsequent drop to the (Continued on next page.)

charming village of Widecombe-in-the-Moor, now unfortunately fast becoming a peepshow. However, the grand church tower holds alovely peal of six in excellent condition, and good use was made of them before adjourning for lunch. The feelings expressed by the local conEtabulary when we banded over a dog which had insistently followed us over the $8 \frac{1}{2}$ miles from Moretonhampstead are best left out. As if We could help it wlien the little chap took a particular liking to us!
Buckland-im-the-Moor, in what must be some of the most beautiful country in England, was the next tower visited, and the grand littie peal of eight, tenor 7 cwts, was one of the best we had struck for anything like the waght. Ashburton (8) was next wisited, then Buckfat Abbey, but unfortunataly permission to ring had not been forthcoming, so after being joined by Mr. Aubrey Bennett for tea, visits were made to Buckfastieigh (9), Dartington (6) and Totnes (8). The latter in particular are a. glorious peal, and we nearly got ourselves into trouble again by ringing severat bells up together, which was calculated to bring out the fire brigade. Only the fact that wo had started by ringiag the tenor and seventh singly eaved us, apparently.
Thursday, after a night at the Dartington Hostel, was to prove a busy day and visits were in many cases cut down to half an bour. Towers risited were South Brent (6), Ugborough (8), Lodidiswell (6), Aveton Gifford (8), Glurehstow (6), Kingsbridge (8), West Alvington (6), Malboraugh (6), Galmpton (6). Most of these we found in excellent condition, but the most outstanding was Ugborongh, our most westerly point which boasted a peal in E fat minor, with a tenor of 24 cwt. We found the most musical arrangement was to ring the front five and back thres as two separate peals, which, as such, were good, and they were lowered in this way. To finish the day we went for 8 spin to Hope Cove before adjourning to Salcombe Hostel. The weather bad bean grand, and bed was welcome, as were the Zam Buck and 'Buck-you-up-oh' tablets, to prepare the travellere for another digy of raising and falling in peal.
Next morming we commenced badly by being half-hour late in starting, and somehow the bead wind, hills and occasional showers seemed determined not to let us make it up. Towers visited were Easf Portlemonth (6), Stokenham (6), St. Saviour's, Dartmouth (8 very fine eight), Brixham (8), Churston Ferrers (6), Paigaton (8) and St. Mary's Chureh, Torquay (8). The route covered can be well recommended, being very beautiful though somewhat hilly.
After a night spent at Sheldon we found a blank in our progranme, due to a report that the tower of St, James', Teigamouth (8), was unsafe, so a wisit was paid to Bishopsteignton, where permission to ring on the good peal of six was rendily granted. After risits to St, Michal's, East Teignmouth (8), Kenton (6) and Exminster (6), the party was made very welcome in the Exeter area, St. Thomas (8), Clyst Honiton (8) with a fine tea arranged for us, St. Sinwell's (30) and Heavitree (8) being the places visited. Of these, special mention should be made of Hearitree, with ith truly magnificent peal in perfect going order, untouehed since they were installed 40 years ago.

Our second Sunday was to prova amother busy day, for after attendiing the $8 \mathrm{dLm}$. . Celebration at Countess Weir, we rang at Broadelyst ( 8 grand eight), Burlescombe (6), Wellington (8), Wilton (8), Drayton (8) and Butieigh (6) before adjourning to Street Hostel. Sixty-two and a lialf milles were covered and we arrived aliead of schedule overpwhere! The day coucluded with a celebration of Dennis' 500 L h tower over bottles of lemonade and 'pop' in the bostel common-room. Bank Holiday, the last day of the tour, was to prove one of the best, for the weather and bells were as rood as could be wished tor. Visits were paid to Glastonbury St. John's (8), West Pennard (6), Evercreech (8), Ditcheat (a magnificent 8) and Bruton (6). At tiae fist-named place at about $3.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. the party 8 plit up to find their rarious ways home. It wes felt that the programme had gone of very well, 66 towers in 10 days with 400 miles of hilly country is sot too bad, especially when it is remembered that we were expected to rase and lower in peal practically everywhers. As in previous jears, a different member of the party was put in sole charge each day, and the scheme worbed very well, giving all would-be conductors a chance.
We sheuld lite to take this opportwnity of heartily thanking associathion officials, towerkeepers and netmbents, whose co-operation made this memorable tour possible.
R. DARFILL.

BARNSLEY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

THE LATE PRESIDEST.

Tributes to the memory of the late president of the Barnsley end District Society (Mr. O. D. Potter) were paid at a meeting beld on Saturday at Darfield, and it was decided to hold a special memorial service at Barnsley on September 9th.

Aboat 20 members were present from Arksef, Doncaster, Cawthorne, Eastwood, Earlsheaton, Folkirk, Meltham, Sandal, Wath and the local company. Tea was served in tha Church Schools and was very mach enjoped by all.

The Vicar (the Rev. H. Drown) presided at the business meeting and at the outset referred to the great loss the society had auffered by the death of the president, Mr. C. D. Potter.
This was supported by Mr. G. Clark (Arksey) who said he had known the late ifr. Potter for over 30 years and knew that he spent his happiest moments among ringers. The loss to ringers in the Barnsley District, he said, was very great,

Those present then stood in silence as a token of respect.
It was decided to hold a special memorial service at Barnsley on Saturday, Septamber 9th, and all ringers are invited to attend.
Seven new members were elected, A. F. Carter, L. Manchester, E. Whitelev, O. Byram and F. Webster (Meltham), W. Walker and T. Duffin (Ossett) and G. W. Pickles (Horbury).

Mr. Clark moved and Mr. Gill seconded a rote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for presiding at the meeting, to the ladies for the splendidi tea provided, and to the local company for all they had done.

The Vicar suitably replied. He said he was pleased to welcome the society once more to Darfield, and he offered the ringers a hearty melcome.
The bells were rung in the afternoon and evening, the methods being Grandsire Doubles, amd Winor Erom Plain Bob to London Surprise

Winton Court Bob Royal was rung, it is believed, for the first time on Bank Holiday, when Mr. Nolan Golden called a peal at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich. His composition, in 34 courses, in two equal parts, contains the 24 course-ends with 6587, 5687 , 6.578 and 567890 s, and is probably the firsf peal of Plain Royal to be rung with these qualities.
Mr. Thomas Myers, of Plymotuth, rang his ome zundredith pea] on August Sth at Bridgerule, Devon, where ne called a peal of Grandsire Triples. He has rung peals on all numbers from six to twelve bells and the methods include Gravdsire, Plain Bob, Stedman, Double Norwich, Kent and Oxford Treble Rob and Cambridge Sarprise. Mr. Myers has conducted 40 out of his ceatury.
Rock, Worcestershire, is truly rural, being literally miles from anywhere, Its serenity aever appears to be dislurbed by motor-coch and only seldom by the motoriag tourist. Rock possesges a fine church and tower, aud, to crowa all, a beautiful peal of sight, eugroented in 1913 by Taylor 's by the addition of two trebles, while at that same time three of the old six were recast.

Members of the Worceatershire Association wsited the village on August 8th and rang a peal of Oxford Bob Triples, but they consider themselves lucky in accomplishing the peal, as the secoud rope broke while the bell was being lowered.
An amusing incident occursed just before half-way, when the ringer of the 4 th, in attempting to dislodge some chewing gum from his top denture, let gum and denture fall to the fleor. By a wonderfal piece of timing he retrieved the denture, puttiag it back to where it be longed, while be had his bell in place within a whole pull. The sitters of the band might have changed to something else, though, if they bad 'busted ' up, but doubtiess the sight of a grinaing denture on the floor would lave been most disturbing!

Misg Edna Bedford, of Uxbridge, Middlesex, and Mz. Sydney Flint, of Sefton, Lanes, took part in a five-bell peal in seven Doubles methof at Forncett St. Peter, Norfolk, on August loth. Norwich ringers made up the rest of the band and it was the first penl in more than four mothods on the bells.
We are extremely glad to see the return to peal ringiag of Mr. Harold J. Poole, who took part in a peal of Cambridge Surprige Major at Loughborough Bell Foundry, with his wife and some of hiz Leicester friends, on August 10th. Inspector Poole is sow on the road to complete resorery, after his rather long brealidows, and the news of his reform to his wonted activity will be received with great pleasure by a host of ringerv.

Incidentally the peal at Loughborough was Mr. C. Ferguson Howitt's fiftieth for the Midand Counties $A$ ssomation.
The band who reng a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Rusball, Staffe, on August, 10th, included five of the local Sunday $\begin{gathered}\text { errice ringers; }\end{gathered}$ the other was the conductor.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the rails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hanđs.

 heaviest bells cast in England.
A SIGN OF THE TIMES.

The fact that in the last three successive weeks we have been able to record that three ringers have reached an individual total of five hundred peals each is, we think, a sign of the times and one more indication of the growth of peal ringing. It is quite true that a considerable number of ringers have passed this total; perhaps nearly fifty in all, but that, within a few days, three more should top their fifth century is not a little sigaificant. Peal ringing which reaches to these limits is no mere flash in the pan. Such a total means years of persistent effort, and if it is, by comparison, a lesser landmark in a man's ringing career than the four fgure totals, it is, nevertheless, an achievement in which a ringer may justifably take pride.

There are very few of the men who have rung five hundred peals who have given less than forty years' service to ringirg, and in going over the names hat come to mind one reafises that they are among those who have not only filled their part as Sunday service ringers, but are among the most loyal and diligent in pertorming their duty to the Church. In this respect they are an example to many who, looking upon peal ringing as, often, a selfish bobly, are themselves lax and sometimes indifferent to the demands of service ringing. The enthusiasm which has prompted the tong and consistent devotion to peal ringing has led to an equally consistent devotion to the other object of chured bell ringing.

But these big peal totals represent something else besides the enthusiasm of the individuals. They mark the increasing facilities for the art, both in the rings of bells that can be used for the purpose and in means of access to them; they mark, too, the spread of method ringing and, we think, a greater general knowledge of the art in these days compared with a generation ago. And this is going rapidly on. There are young men to-day coming up hand over fist with their peal records and doing things in three or four years which took their grandfathers a lifetime. Some of these members of the new generation are racing towards their five hundredth peal. We hope, as they do so, they will remember that much of their success is due to those who have gone before, to the encouragement they have received and the facilities that have been made for them.

In a somewhat similar connection a few weeks ago we mentioned that a peal, in the early days of some of the older men amongst us, was a real triumph. A success was hard earned, and we rather doubt whether in the welter of peals rung to-day quite the same satisfaction is to be obtained as was the case in a peal rung forty or (Continued on page 538.$)$ fifty years ago. Numerical progress was much slower then for the individual. The prowess of the younger generation in peal ringing is, of course, a matter of congratulation ; it betokens well for the future, but it is not out of place to remember the struggles of the past. Compare, for instance, the sixty or more peals rung last year by more than one of the younger generation, or the three hundred rung by a young man barely twenty, with the lifelong work of some bygone ringers. James Barlam, probably the greatest peal ringer of his day, took forty-nine years to ring in peals; Henry Haley, one of London's leading ringers in the middle of last century, was forty-three years ringing $18 z$ peals, while the great Henry Johnson, of Birmingham, was fifty-four years in scoring about a hundred and fifty peais. Times have changed and vastly so, but we sometimes wonder whether we give all the credit that is due to the men who, in the past, laid the foundations upon which the successes of to-day are built.

PEAL NOTES.

MR. HERBERT KNIGHT REACHES FIVE HUNDRED PEALS.

Another well-hnown ringee has scored his five hundredth peal. By a coincidence, Mr. Herbert Knight, of Wolver hampton, hon. secretary for more than thirty years of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford reached this total on the same day as his old ringing iriend, Mr. Albert Walker, of Birmingham. Mr. Knight raug lis five humdredth peal at Sherborne Abbey on August Benk Holidas, when he took part in a peal of Stedman Triples rung curing a boliday ringing week in Somerset and Dorset.

MR. HER日ERT KNIGHT.

 first to io so in the was the On October 12th, 1907, with his eyes bandaged. lis conducted Thuratans' ane-part peal of Stedman Triples at St. Luke's Churek, Wolverhampton. 3ir. Knight has conducted peals of Stedmen from Doubles to Cinques, and Plain Bob from Minor to Maximus. He laas also rugg peals of Cambridge Surprise from kinor to Maximus.searing a double.
Another interesting 'double' may shortly materialise. Both Mr. C. T. Coles, hon. secretary of the Middleaex Association, and Mr. James Bennett are paring one thousnad peals. They are within the last two or three, with Mr. Coles about olle ahead. It is not a race, but a question of fitting in the peals so that they mav ring their 1,000th together. Their most recent successes are recorded in our pea! columns this week.
The peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at South Wigston, Leicestershire, on August 17th, was specially arranged for Mr. William Bottrill, who was paying a flying visit to his home town.
Mr. George E. Large rang his fiftieth peal as conductor for the Worcestershire Assaciation on Saturday at Hanbury, 1t was also hie fiftieth peal with Mr. R. Woodyatt. Oxford Bob Triples was rugg after an abortive attempt for Mr. John Carter's method, Darlaston Bob Triples, which just would not go.
The peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Cliffe-at-Hoo, Kent, on Saturday, the first in the method on the bells, was rung to a new Somposition be E. A. Barnett:-

The first peal of Double Norwioh on the bells at Hollesley, Suffolk, was rung on Satarday, It was the first attempt for a pers in the methad by Philp Bicknell.
Mr. William H. Joimer, after 32 years" cannection with Mitcham, Surrey, is leaving the district. Last Saturday a farewell peal of Stedman Triples was rung at SS . Peter and Paul's Church, in which Ir. Joiner took patt with some of his old friezds.

The bolls of Coalbrookdalo, Salop, were rung half-muffled to a peal of Grendsire Caters on Alagrast 10t5 as a tribute to the memory of both Mr. John Overton, the Bridgnarth reteran, and Mr. Edward Howell, who was for 50 years a sidesman af Coalbookdale Church. A peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, rung at Framlingham, Sufotk on August 14th, was arranged for the birthday of Mr. Urban Wildney of Kirby-le-Soken, Essex, and was also his one humdredth peal. His peals have been rung in 40 towers with 154 ringers.
Miss Sylvie Bowyer, the conductor of the peal, is the first lady to call a peal at Framlingham.

A THNQUE COBPOSITION.

Mr. Fred H. Dexter, of Leicester, rang lis 400th peal on Saturday and "dished up" something unique in the way of a compasition of Stedman Gitapes (called by Arnold Bruntoy) for the occasion.
Three Guildfordinns were in the peal, and Mr. Alfred Pulling had the great pleasure of again ringing a peal with Mrs. H. J. Poole, their last together having been rung 19 years ago

Mr. Fred Dexter's composition of 5,280 is as follows :-

Mr. Alfred T. Kitson, eptly described as one of Nature's gentlemen, who whs for 50 years $A$ ringer at Allensmore, Herefordshire, has recently passed away. A peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung halfmuffled on tho beils of lisg Parish Church on Aggast i2th as a last tribute of deep respect to his memory.

The 5,056 of Bob Major et OTd Windsor on August 15th was a peal by Mr. Comelius Charge, which le composed in the Queen's Street, Hockland, Branch of the Bank of New Zealand in 1930 . It had not been ruag before and it was fitting that the composer shorld take part in it on bis return to the mother country.
The composition is one of those four-part peals with two Befores and ons Middle in each part. Mr. Charge composed one on similir limes in 1901-a long sap.

Mr. W. H. Fussell, who has made a welcome return to peal ringing after his long enforced absence, scored bis 1,150th peal on this occasion. As a coming-of-age compliment to Miss Alice Chilton, sister of one of the ringers, e peal in seven Minoz methods was rung at Perlethorpe, Notts, on August 12tit.

THE 'SRICE" OF FALGRES.

A peal of Cambridge Major at Scunthorpe and three peals cn handbelif at Burton-on-Stather were part of Mr. Walter Ayres M holiday last week in Lincolnskire. In the course of them lie rang his 100th peal in hand as conductor and lis 175th peal for the Lincoln Diocerszn Guild.
A frayed rope put "paid' to Littile Bob Major at Barton on the 10th, a shift course occurred in the same method on Sundey, and an extra bob in 8 t. Clement's on Monday added "spice " to the week.
A peal of Spliced Surprite in four methods at Bushey on August 17th was Measrs, H. G. Cashmore and E. Jenninas' 50th peal together-
Three ringers scored their first peal, one of them, Miss Eva Scarr, st the first attempt, at Great Doddington, Northants, on August 17th, It was also Mr. W. G. Callis' first peal as conductor. Great Doddingtor Ohurch has five bells, and Grandsire Doubles, in six-scores ard Pitman's 240 's were rung.
The first peal of Major on the bells at Crediton, Devon, where the tenor is 23 ewt., was rung on August 12th. Change ringing at Crediton is no easy matter, the ropes are wide apart and four of them lang in a straight lige. The peal was arranged for Mr. A, P. Cannon, and the band were indebted to Mr. J. E. Lilley, who, having come to bear the peal, was pressed into service owing to one of the selected loand not arriving in time. Local ringers who heard the peal congratulated the band on the excellent stiriong.

A KENT ASSOCIATION JUBILEE

THE FLRST PEAL OF STEDMAN TRTPLES,
A peal of Stedman Triples was attempted at Crayford on August 17th on the 50th nnmiversary of the firgt in the method for the Kent Countr Associatios, at the same tower, but was unfortunately lost. The ringars were T. Groambridge, sea. 1, H. Gibbs 2. D. M. Slinp 3, A. S. Richarda 4, I. E. Audsley 5, G. V. Murphy 6, E, Bartett 7, H. A. Halden 8.

The ringer nf the second, Mr. Farry Gibbs, who now livel at Brede, Sussex. rang the tenor to the original peal, which wes his first. Mr. Challis Winney fs the only other survipnr of the band.
The Kent Association had been established nine years before this first peal of Stedmen Triples was rung for it. It. was oalled by the late Mr. F. G. Newmam.

HALESWORTH BEELS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir -Hsving been asked to correct my reference to the casting of some of these bells, may I amplify my former letter f
William Brend (not Breit) and John, hiss son, were casting bells at Norwich earls in the sevendi century. Raven's list dates from 1802 to 1649. In I61I they cast the Halesworth serenth. This was the yenr in which Thomas Fclla was elected churchwarden ardi shatted lis book. He must have had something to do with them, and one of them magy have writien these changes in the book lefore nyrthing else was tharein inscribed: this would account for the figures being on the first page. In 1624 they cast the tenor; the date is win the bell, so that Raven, who en page 114 gives anothar date, cannot bo correct. In 1627 they cast the neth.
In 162i, the date written iuside Fella's boak, they were at work at Bramfield vearby, casting the two trebles, epparenty in plage of a cracked tenor. They may have come over to Aalenworth and wriften out thess finges and staried the ringers, flime a well-gatahlighed band. in ringing then; this pionecr wark leading, as it so orten does, to the new orders being given to them, as I have already ralated.

ANCIENT CUSTOMS

MR. TROLLOPE QDOTES AUTHORITIES

To the Editar

Dear Sir, -I am ailraid I cammot accept Mr. Drake's corrections and perhaps you will allow me to say a word or two about some of the more interesting paituts he raises.
Mr. Drake donbts my statement that "in gome cares at an obijt the ringing secms to bave lasted aff and on all the alay " and that "it was the bsumf thing to send the ringers hread and beer, which tioey consumed in the belfry. 1 formed niy conclusiong from quite a numher of statements und hivts in contemporaty wrilings and churelz accounts. Here are one or two typical instavees:-
Bishop Grandisom, of Exeber, tried to etop long ringing on the grounds thet in did no good to the dead, it annoyed the living and jt Wore out the fittings of the bells:
Murtin Bucer, a leurned foraigner, who lived for same years nt Gembridge atsd died there in I551, in a book on the Chureh of Einglaud. refers to the custon still kept up by superstitions men and foolisit boys that thryy zhe ringers beer and me to drints' and says that "it is egaingt nll ceasoul to ring all the day wime and all the night too
Ia the clurclwardeng* accoutsts of SL. Mary-at-Hill, London, there is a record of paymont to a woman for carrying bear to the riagers. The number of ringers juge, bating from the seventeenth centurg, have relrexhment in the belfy, and I know of uothing to ranke me believe that the sustom iz the fifteenth and sixtenth centuries was byy difercus. or that religious and soher-minded men eifbes before the Reformation or after saur anything amiss in the practice.
Mr. Dralie nsts whether there is any reason to suppose tinat before than hefore requiems, at the Consecration, for Dirige and for Placeho.
The apswer nmplatically is 'Yes." There was plenty of ringing for seculay parposes, and even, I have good reason to believe, for "plensurw, le, as a spart. for addition the bells were rung hecauke souls it purgatory. Hence all the ringing at olfits and funerals and ringilag or tolling, bul ordinury winging. H Hence, too, tho bells were muge nil sight on All Eallows' Eve 'for all erystys solis."

Mr. Drake's shatetuent ham an one rhat rounds or call-clayget till after chnmge riming was atiempted is tontrary to fact and Eeason. Chenge ringing whas not introduced until the suventeenth centary, but long nefore that beds in Engand were zug in s regular oud orderiz manimer, and the promsruous clashing, which is still done on the Continent, would mol have been tolerafed herc. Shakespeare's wellknow'I comparisos of a disordered mind to 'sweet belle jangled. showe gutite clourly that the average thatre-going Iondoner knem the difference betweon good stribisy and bad.

Th abould not he necessary to remind Mr. Drake that what he saw in Brithan in the iwentieth centurr is no evidence of what went an in England in the fifteenlin and sixteenth centuries.
$\mathbf{I}$, is not listerically $\ddagger$ rue that "when change ringing was well established and there were several rimg of bells in a town, a company or sonietw of ringers would be formen and thet would be responsible for tile rimging in a remani oumber of towers."
It is probahly trie to sat that no socieky was ever resporsible for the ringing in any fower. It least I have never foumd one that was, nor ans indination of suel athing. The responsitaility, bach in preReformation times nad after, down to fairly recent times, rested with the parish clett, and he employed whom ho would. The ringerg were never at ant time part of the ordinary organisation of a parisht, nor do the parish authorities (ciergy and charchwardens) seem ever to bave had direct relations with them Most of the ringing societies Fang for their orm pleasure and amusement and did not exist for the purpose of deing any church or parachial ringing
Of course, there were a lot of supposed rigits and vested interests which grew up in the courge of years, and the purisll clerk was usualig in toucu with a particular baud, of whom ho hitasetf probably was one. It is futile of Mr. Drake to speculate as to whet a parish clexik would do mowadnys, because nowadays there are yo purish flephs and have not been for a good many gears.

I do not quite see what object Mr. Drake can have in trying to make out that the 'Tintimalogia' is something difierent from what it professes to he. The book was priuted and publighed in 1668 es the work of an anonymous writer who called himself a Lover of that Arl.' He set out to explain the whole of ringing as it was practised in bis day. and he brilliantly succerded. The writing is of a very high literary quality which is maintamed throughozt, and why Mr. Drake ghould lald that there were two writure because the first laglf deals with Plain Changes and tho second half with Cross Peals passes the wit of man to haderstand
Actually we koow from contemparary warces that the book was Writied by Richard Duekworth, and Oxtord Unversity man,

1 know no more about the Ealesworib ondowment than has beens mede public property, but I shonll be very mueh satprised indend if anyone benefts to-dny from the moner leit in 1539 by William Wallpale All such bequesto were seqnestrated ly Act, of Parliament in 1547, and there is 1 he rdditional question whether lue netually did leave aby monev for the beneft of future generations. Acrording to Executats to lestow at my burial day among the priests, clerks, noos poople, and the ringers, with their fired and drins to value 20/8.' To provide gifts to be distribusted on tha day of the fumeral and to endew Fingers permanemtly are two quite difierent llitags. It may be that some other and later bequest has been confused will this one.

NORWICH.

ITS BELLS AND RINGERS IN EARLY TIMES bY J. ARMGER TROLLOPE.

Although during the seventeenth century we have not a singie reference to any change ringing or to any ringing society in Norwich, we cannot doubs that the city was one of the earliest places where the art was proctised and where it was developed most rapidiy. For, when the curtain does rise on the scene, we find a company of ringers inferior to none in the country and superior to any outcide the Metropolitan area.
From early times Norwich had many bells. The city was larger than any other in England (Bristol had a larger population, but not, I believe, so great an urea) except London, aud when, at the close of the fifteenth century, Norfols became the manufacturing district of England and a wave of prosperity overtook Norwich, most of its 40 parish churches were rebuile in the then faskionable Perpendicular style. Naturzlly they vary constuerably in size and quality. Some are small; for the sites were restricted and the parishes comparatively poor. But many are large and splendid, and St. Peter Mancroft is one of the finest parish churches in the world. So far as we car judge not one of the London parish churches equalled it and it has few superiors in other towns.

There Was bell founding in the city from early times. The first known founder Fas I man Wilellmus de Norwheo, who cast the bell It Hellesdon towards the end of the fourteenth century, and be was followed by John Sutton, Thomes Potter, Richard Baxter and the Mraziers. It was becoming the fashion to increase the number of bells in parish churches and these men were kept busy. There are still about a score of pre-Reformation bells in the city.
At the end of the sixtenenth and the heginning of the seventeenth centuries the Norwich foundry was owned by the Brend faraily. Their hells are to be found all over Fast Anglia, proof of the popularity of ringing as a sport.
It was no doubt for the sake of ringing that so many of the bells in the Norwich steeples were cast or recast. At St. Mary, Cosiany, in the reign of Edward FI, there were four bells. In 1640 the tenor was takern down and recast into two trebles to make a ring of five. In 1682 the process wes repeated and the tenor of the fire was recast into two bell. to make a ring of six. I rang on thase bells several times 45 years ago, but about that time the church becane dilapidated and the bells were taken down from the tower. They are now. I believe, hagg dead in a modern cherch in the suburbe.

THE ADVENTURES OF ST. ANDREW'S TENOR

At St. Andrew's there was an early ring of five. When the neighbouring Dominicaa priory was dissolved and its great charch sold to the citizens to be a civic hall the parisbioners of Sit. Andrew's bought the larger of the two bells from the steeple (the other was used as the market bell in the cattle market) and hung it in their Parislı Church to be the tenor of the ring there, but probably it did not accord very well with the others. It weighed about 263 ewt, and when william Brend recast it he reduced the weight to 27 cwt., but it now proved as much too light as before is had proved too heavy. So on the 16th day of April, 1634, it wes дew cast agair by him and made bigger, and then weighed 25 cwt. "But then proving somembat too bigg to accord with the rest of the bells \& otherwise defective in the casting it was first skivied and then afterwards some part of the head, viz., the upper part of the mayne Connell brake of, by which skiving If breaking of thirty six pounds of the weiglt of mettal was taken away and then it wayed 24c. 2qr. 31 b . unto which was added, when it was cost the third tyme 7lb. of pewter being 18 Decemb. 1635 by John Brend \& now it wayes according ta our own waight, being waigh in Cluristmas Hollidajs 1635 here at our Church $23 c .1 \mathrm{gr} .101 \mathrm{~h}$. \& thers remeyne in Metal which was sold to Jom Brend lc. lar. for 54-12-0.'
The rix ath St. Andrew's were for long the heaviest ring in Norwich. In 1704 the big bell was again broken up, the old fifth, which weigh about 16 cwt., became the terior, and three smaller bells were added to make a ring of eight.
The octave was in 1825 further increased by two bells to make a ring of ten. They were the gift of Thomas Hurry, one of the Norwich ringers and a cerpenter and bell hanger by frade. The tale goes that he ordered the bells from Whitechapel hoping to be paid by the parish, but he was disapponied in his nopes and bad to make the best of a bad job.

A CURIOUS BELL FRAME,

An interesting thing about St. Andrew's tower is that all through these alterations the same frame has been retained. There is still the frame in which the original five bells hung, dating from the early sixteenth century. It is set diagonally in the bell clamoer and as the ring was augmented other frames were built on the top of it, Hurry's twa trables being at the top of a sort of pyramid. One result is that the ropes fell in a very irregular circle, the order being $5,4,6,9,8,1,3,2,7,10$; and another was thet the bells were very difficult to ring. I believe I was one of the basd that rang the last changes in the tower. That was over 40 years ago and nove there are neither ropes nor wheels on the bells.
The five at the Cathedral are tuned in the minor seale and the quarter and hour chimes on them are very effective. The bells hang in the central tower and, until the midde of the last century, could be rung. The ringing floor, however, was taken away to open out the lantern and the bells are chimed (if ever they are chined aow) from the triforium.
There never was a parish church in Norwich in the sense that St. Martin's is the parish church of Birmingham, and St. Nicholas' ib the parish churcil of Liperpool, but St, Peter, Mancroft, stands in the market place, its parish contains the Guiddall, and in a very great measure it was looked upon as the municpal church. St. Peter's bells were the ones that were rung on official occarions, they were regarded much as if they were the property of the city and the Mayor gave orders for the ringing and patd the ringers without consulting the church authorities.

As early as the middle of the fourteenth century there were fye bells in the steeple and night and morning the curfew was rung. In 1602 a treble was added and in 2672 the octave was completed. In the British Maseum is an 18th century manuscript A Account of the Parish Charch of St. Peler of Mancroft in the City of Norwich.' It gives a transcript of all the monumenes in the church and a copy of the inscriptions on the bells. Three of them, the fifth, sisth and serenth dated from before the Reformation. The tenor, which weighed $23 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt., was crst jo 1618.

Altogether the city contatned in 1700 one ring of eight, five of six, tweive of five, and 14 of three bells. St, Andisew's were made eight in I704, St. Michael's, Coslavy, in 1726, and St, Giles' in 1738 .
(To be contimued.)

BELLS OF A HAMPSHIRE VILLAGE  RESTORATION AT ABBOT'S ANK

In the little village of Abhot's Ann, 耳aupshire, the five bells langing in the church tower have been restured to use again. The three treble bells, oze dated 1729 and the other two 1807 , bave been recast, the remainder tuned and che peal rehung in now fittinge in a strengthened fratic. The work las been carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johmston in a very satisiactory manner, the three rerast bells making at genod splice with the old fourth and tenor, the latter, in F sharp, weighing की ewt, 3 qr. 6 lb .
The dil inscriptions have been reproduced ou tlee recast bells, with the addition of "Recast by Gillett and Johnston, Groydon, 1939.' It is probable that the foumder at the recasting of the whole ring in 1607 was Jolun Wallig, of Salisbury, who Had a considerable business between 1578 and 1624. The old ioscriptions are:-
1.-Fear God honovr the King. 1729. I
8.-Hope well I w. 1607.
3. -Lowe God I W. I607.
4. Fobert Wells, Aldbourne, Fecit. 1764
4. -Robert Wells, Aldbourne, Fee

THE REDEDICATION
The restored bells were rededicated by the Lord Bishop of Winchester at a special service on Priday week. There was a crowded congregation, among those present being Mr. C. F. Johnston and the following representing the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild: Mr. G. Willianos (Mnster), the Rev. F. S. H. Marle (hon. gecretary of the Andover District), Mr. O. Smart (Distrjet Ringing Mester), Mr J. Halloway (District Representative on the Committee), Mr. W. Andrews (Winchester), Mr. W. T. Tucker (Eastleigh), etc. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rew. H. E. W. Steedman). service was conducted by the Rector (the Rew. H. E. W. Steedman).
In lis address the Bishop satd Hampshire had a wonderful traditiou of bellringing and he hoped it would long continue. In no other country in the world would they find bells rang in the same kind of way and with the same native skill as in England. Many, when they went overseas, carried with them the memory of English belis.
Spenking of the Abbot's Ann bells in particular, he said they lhad behind them a wonderful history and it wes not the firs time they lad been rededicated. In 1607 they were recast and no one knew how old the motal in them was. Here important still, bellis expressed the thankspiving and prayers of the people of the parish for many years Bells had their influence on architecture, history and religion. Sometimes they actinally made history. Still more did they play their part in workhip. They were installed, to call people to the worship of part ins worship. They were installed, to call people to the worship of God. When they felt incliued to stay et home on Sunday, let them think of the call of the belle, 'Come to church, come to church.' Tha bells were God's roice calling to the people. Bells belped people Who were ill or infirm and could not go to church.
Bells could be a healthy force in a parish, and while he rejoiced with them tirnt, their bells were to ring out, he could not help remerabering that there were places in the diocese in which there were not only no bells but no churches to which people could be called, as in the districts round Sonthampton, where there were ponulationg From 10,000 to 20,000 without a chorch

After the service various methods were rugg on the bells

A VISIT TO WORCESTERSHIRE

Talgarth ringens had their ninth panual outing on Angust Bank Holiday end were accompanied by friends and reletives. Starting at g a.m., they picked up Mr. J. P. Hvett at Hay and then went on to Eardisland, one of the prettiest villages in the county of Hereford, where they were met by Mesgrg. L. Evass, W, Preece and B. Elismore, who joined the party. After ringing rounds for the learners and tauches of Grandsirs Doubles, Steaman Doubles and Bob Minor, the party made for the old-fashioned village of Cleobury Mordimer, with its leaning spire. The bells are a good ring of six wanting more use, but despite this they go well, with rather big and clumsy ropes. After the ringing the Vicar thanked the wisitors for coming and expressed the hope that the local band would take up change ringing. The next stop was Kidderminster, where the party partook of lunch before ringing at St. Mary's Church, where thes were met and welcomed by Mr. Woodberry, sen., and later joined by Messre. O. H. Woodberry, W. Ghort, J. Bass and B. Ashford. Some of the wisitors had the pleasure of ringing on twelve belis for the first time, while the nonringing members of the party had the pleasure of watehing two pretty weidings which toak place during ringing. The jouraey was then continned to Ombersley, where, after humting and dodigizg for ahook half an hour in search of the kety of the tower, it was foand with one of the ringers, who had mistaken the time of arrival and had gotze home. During the rimging the Ficar came ap the tower and gave the ringers a heazty welcome. Tho last tower of the tour and gave the ringers a heazty welcome. The last tower of the tour for tea and sight-seeing around the Spa tili 9.15 p.m. Honle was reached about midnight after a most pleasant day's trip. The methods rung included rounds for those who nad not passed their test, Grandsiro Doubles, Stedman Doubles, Bob Miner, Grandsire Triples and Caters. The ringers wish to express their most grateful thenks to all the Ficars for the use of the bells, and to the towerkeepers for meeting them and faving everything ready.

DON'T SGRUB YOUR HANDS! -  Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Mer, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

IF THE WORST BEFALL.

This article is written at a moment when the international crisis is such that no one can forecast what the next few hours may bring forth. The whole situation is filled with uncertainty for the future. While everyone is hoping against hope that peace may be saved, there are few who, at heart, can feel genuinely optimistic in the present ontlook. Would that it could be otherwisc. If war comes, with all its tragedy, everything will go into the melting pot and all private interests will have to be sunk in the common weal. One thing, however, is certain, the whole forces of a united country will lue harnessed to prosecute the struggle to a successful conclusion. Sacrifices will be demanded of everyone, and they will not be asked for in vain. Our cherished ideals, our individual mode of life, to say nothing of those lesser amenities which help to make the sum of human happiness and contentment, may all be swallowed up in the vortex, but the determination to go on to the bitier end, if need be, will remain.
Not unnaturally the thoughts of many of our readers will turn to what may happen in regard to ringing should war break out. Inevitably it must suffer badly and for a variety of reasons, but chiefly by the demand upon the man power of the country and the overriding claims upon the services of all. As in the last war, those ringers who are left will find great difficulty in carrying on, but, if the worst comes to the worst, they should make a supreme effort to keep the nucleus of a band in existence in every tower and to see that the bells are rung on every possible occasion for the Sunday services. More than ever, in times of stress, do people turn to the Church for spiritual help and consolation, and the church bells ringing for service will carry a message of greater significance than usual to all who hear them. Those who are left in the towers, therefore, should not altow the depletion of strength to discourage their ringing. They should try to bring in and train, as far as opportunity allows, new material. It is here that the services of wornen might well be encouraged. The ladies proved their worth in the belfry in the last war and would do so again, with the further encouragement that they already have a well established place in the Exercise.
One of the other handicaps that is almost certain to be imposed-it was necessary last time and is likely to be immensely more necessary if there is another conflict -is the complete silencing of church belis during hours of darkness. Like the lighting restrictions, the silencing of bells after dark was found a necessary, precaution; it may, we think, be safely anticipated again if the emergency arises. This, however, should not be a bar to training new personnel; it will make it more difficult, but practice with lashed bells can do quite a lot in the preliminary stages of training and every opportunity can be seized to make the best use of the bells at times when open ringing can be indulged in. Let everything passible be done, if the worst befall, to keep out art alive, and, although it may suffer severe shock like other of the minor pleasures of life, there will then be better prospect of revival when happier times conte again.

PEALS IN CORNWALL.

MN ENJOYABLE VISIT

Ringers visiting Cornwall last week joined in a daily peal attempt on four days. The atternts wers mide in the evenings, thus leaving the days for bathing, sight seeing, ote. This enjoyable form of uniting peal ringing with other lof idey pleasures is to be, cammerided. Some of the parity, led by the irrepressible 'gun,' also grabled 'a few now towers on one of the days.
Of the four peals attempted, the first two were successful-a peal in seven Minor methods att St. Mewn-the first by the Truro Diocesan Guild and the first in Cornwall-and the first pesl on the belle at St. Denys, where the ring was recently augmented to eight.
A "scientific ", peal has to be really good in Cornwall to impress the local ringers, who are, generally, not very favourable to change ringing and are keen critics.
The two peals rung tast week were very favourably commented on by those outside, some of whom listened from stard to finish.
An attempt for a peal of Minor at St. Winnow was abandosed about half-way through owipg to the poor 'go' of two of the bells. It would be hard to find a prettier situation for a ehurch then this. It is right on the bank of the Fowey River, which is tidal at this point, and hass thick woods coming down on either side. One of the land was heard to remark that he would like to end his deys there, The Vicar gave the ringers a warm welcome, and totd them to come again uost year and ring all day.
Double Norwich Major af Probus was lost after $2 \%$ hours through a shift course. Probus las a fine peal of bells in Cornwall's grandest tower.
Those who took part in the tour felt they had dono a little spado work, as well as having spent a good holiday-

5,040 SPLICED STEDMAN AND ERIN TRIPLES.
PARKER'S NO. 1
231456 3. 4 5. 6. 7. 12. 13. These sixes are rung

Stedman is always starled with a quick sir. The composition was rung at Bushey, Herts, on August 28th.

SWANSEA.-After a peal attempt, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung by J. A. Hoare 1, J. T. Williams 2, D. G. Brown 3, G. W. Morris 4, E. J. Morris 5, E. Stiteh 6, T. M. Roderick (firet of Stednan as conductor) 7, A. E. Bacon 8. It was the first quarder-peal of Stedman by ringers of $\dot{2}, \overline{3}$ and 8 . The peal had been arranged for Mr. D. G. Erown, of Penge.

PEAL NOTES.

SPLICED PEALS.

There are two spliced peals recorded this week of special intereat. At Bushey, Herts, Mr, Harold Cashmore called the first peal of Spliced Stedmen and Erin Triples: There were no less than 300 clhanges of method, and the peal contained 3,960 of Stedman and 1,080 Erin. The composition will be found elsewhere.

At Bollington, Cherhire, a peal of Spliced Kent and Oxford Treble Bob was rupg. The courses were called O.O.K.K.K.K.O., and the composition consisted of 2,880 changes of Oxford and 2,304 of Kent, with 36 changes of method. It was całled by Mr. C. K. Lewis.
Tho peals at Ufford and Woodbridge, Suftolk, last week were arranged for Mr. Lewis H. Bywatera, of Bedfordshire, and that at Woodbridge was his first peal of Double Norwich, which he conducted. A peal of Grandsire Triplas at Netlyerseale, Derbyshire on Augut 24th, was arranged for Messrs. Frank Sliarpe and G. W. Hair, of the local Sunday service campany. It was their first peal of Grandsirs Triples. Mr, R. W. Barber, of Norwich, who was in the district on holiday, kindly assisted at short notice. It was his first peal of Grandsirs Triples alsa, and completed luis sequence in the method from Doubles to Cinques.
Ois the following day both Mr. aud Mrs. Barber tooly part in a peal of Bob Minor at Patshull, Staffs.
A peal of Minor was rung at. Wistaston, Cheshire, on Sunday, in honour of the wedding of Miss $\mathbf{D}$. Holding and 基r. R. Roscoe, which took place on the preceding day at St. John's Church, Crewe. Miss Holding is the daughter of Mr. R. T. Holding, of Crewe, one of the Cheshire Guild's foremost ringers. Fo took part in his daughtor's wedding peal.
The first peal of Stedman Caters in the northeast of Yorkshire was rung on Sattrday last at the jet town of Whithy. It lappened to be also tho 4 thth anniversary of the first peal on 10 bolis rung by Mr. W. H. Barber, of Newcastle-on-Tyne.
Cauon H. D. Noel Paferson is retiring next month afier nineteon years as Rector of Harklebury, Worcestershire, and a farewell peal was rung at his church on Saturday. It was also made ibe quarterly peal of the Northern Branch of the association. TEREF SONS' FIRST PEAL.
Mr. Thomas White, of Bruton, Somerset, had the pleasure of taking parl in the first peal rung by his three sons, Wilfred, Ermest and Harold, on Saturdny in their home tower. It was n peal of Grandsire Doubles, conducted by Mr. E. G. Coward.. It zis scldom indeed that three brothers all ring their first peal logether, aud more rare still for their father to take part in it.
The Leicester Thursday P.G.'s wero happy to include that fine old stalwart' from Birmingham, Mr. Jemes Gcorge, in the band that rang a peai of Boh Mnjor at Enderby on August 24th. As will be recalled, the Thursdayites rang a thanksgiving peal upon lis recovery from illness, and as a birthday compliment when he attained the age of 86 . Indeed, on Thursday he rang lis bell beautifully throughoot the pen], fully descrving iho congratalations showered upon him at the conelusion. The remeinder of the bend are indebted to Mr. John E. Clarke and Mr. Len Whitehead for standing in the atterapt, at the last moment, and tender their siacere thanks to them. Thanks to a local ringer who steppedi into a breach and rang the tenor, the peal of Grandsiro Triples at Llangibby was made possible on Saturday. Owing to the crisis, Mr. W. Heath, of Cardiff, was unalbo to make the journey, heving been recalled from aniual leave by the Ghief of Police. The peal was arranged specially to honour the Rev. John P. Stephens, on lis uppointment to his first Rectorehip. A previous attempt fniled on the day of his induction to Llangibhy parish on April 11th. The tenor man scored his first penl at the firat attempt.
3r. A. F. Lewry ragg his 75th peal on Saturday when tis took part in seven Minor methods at Burwash on Saturdey.
A peal of Steaman Triples at Sunderland on August 24 th mas rung to colobrate the golden jubilee of the dedication of tine Church of St. Tgatius-the-Martyr. There were two "visitors" in the peal, Mr. David Vincont, of Hale, Cheshire. wloo was on holiday at whitley, ant took the opportumity of wisiting his olf friends at Sunderland, and Mr. T. H: Reeves, of St. Sartin's, Birminglam.
Sunday service ringers at St. Mary's, Nottingham, rang a peal of Bob Mivor on the front six at their own phurch on Aupust 21 st in honour of the 60th birtluday of their Vicar, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Neville S. Talbot

DEATH OF A BELL DONOR.

On Monday, Aurust 2lat, there was laid to rest in St. James' Churchyard, Devizes, Mr. Whalter Rose, who worshipped at this chorch when his health permitted. He, with his hrother, the late Mr. William Rose, were donors of the treble hell in St. James ${ }^{2}$ tower in Aptil, 1909, in memory of their father, Mr. John Giyde Rose.
In the crening, after the fumeral, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles ( 1,260 changes) was rung hali-muftled: R. W. Bridges 1, $G$. Winter 2, S. Hillier 3, A. T. Weeks 4, J. S. Weeks (condactor) 5, T. Weeks $B$.

Tho inscription on the bell given by Mr. W, and Mr. J. G. Fose is, A.D. III. D. Dec. A.D. 1900 . D.D. FiL, Wohn Glyde Rose, O.B., Rose, A.D. 1909 E.W. VII. Rege. J. Tuylor, Loughborough."

THE TOUR IN LANCASHIRE AND CHESHIRE．

RESULTS OF NINE DAYg＇PEAL RINGING．

The vine days＇peal－ringing tour in Lancashire and Cheshire，which ended last Saturday，produced eleven successe in sixteen attampts． An excellent start was made with fivo peals of the reel，then came the first of the failures，when on Tuesday morning a peal of Bristal Surprise Major had to be given up at Tarleton，owing to the bad ＂go＂of the temor，after fifty minutes．It proved a bad day．In tha afternoon a peal of London Surprise was lost at Woolton．

Thursday，too，ended in a＇blank．＇In tho morning，at Preacot，\＆ band sang Fight through a peal of Yorkshire Major，but had a bad trip in the lest lead and a half and decided not to record jt．In the afternoor $\mathrm{et} \mathrm{St}_{\mathrm{t}}$ ，Felens they were just settling down to Yorkshire Royal，when the Chief Constable and the postmaster came up in the tower and asked that the betls should be stopped．The Post Office is just sunder the fower，and the bells interfered with bearing on the telephones．
After a thisd consectitive loss，on Fridey marsing，when London Surprise at Ormakirk＂wont west＊after two and a quarter hours＇ beautiful ringing，the rest of the programme was carried out＂ac－ cerding to plan．？
The result of the tour was not quite so good，in point of tine mum－ ber of peals rung by the party，as in some of their previous years ${ }^{3}$ ex－ cursions，but on this occesion they were rather handicapped by asek of nambers．
Messrs．George Martin and Frank Varty took part in all the suc－ eesses，Mr．Frank Bennett，whe organised the tour，and Mr．Fred White in all but ons．Five perls wers conducted by Mr．Bonnett， three by Mr．J．C．E．Simpsan，two by Mr，G．R．Nowton，and one by Mr．G．Witliams．It is not unintereating to observe that the cam－ poser was different in erery peal．

Among the notable points in the tour were the first peal of Sur－ prige Royal at Chester Catheriral，the first peal of Double Norwicin Royal in Lancasbire，and by the Lancashire Association，rumg at Wigan，and five other＇first in the method on the bells．＂Geven of the band got a＂star＇for their first peal of Bob Maximus，rung at St．Nicholas＇，Liverpool，and six for their first peal of Double Nof－ wich Royal．Mr，Frank Varty rang his one lundredth peal at the end of the week，and lie and Mr．R．G．Edwards hath＇completed the circle＂at Liscard．

FOUR－PART PEALS OF BOB MAJOR

THE FAMILY LIKENESE．
Peals of 5,056 of Bob Major in four perts are mumerous，and bo－ tween some of them there is great similarity．Some are composed with only the necessary two Befores in each part，some bave the addition of a Middle．
The reference last week to Mr．Cornelius Charge＇s peai，composed in New Zealand in 1936 and rung for the firse fime at Old Windsor on August 15th last，lias brought a letter from M1．H．J．Tucker， reminding ringers of lis well－known four－part peal，with two Befores and a Middle in each part，which he composed in 1889 ，and which was frst rung at Bishop＇s Stortford in 1902，conducted by the late Mr．W． Watts．In Mr．Tucker＇s peal the Befores are in differont courses，in Mr．Charge＇s they came togetber．Here ase some of the peals with similar characteristies．First Pritcbard＇a popular peal，without Middles，and then some others which contain Middles：－

The annual dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths will be held this year (D.V.) at the Canon Street Hotel, on Nov. 4th
The peal-ringing tour in Bedfordshire and Northants, which was to have begun to-morrow, has been abandoned, most of those who wera to have taken part having had their holiday lenve cancelled.

We regret to say that last Saturday Mr. Tore Groombridge, sen. of Chislehurst, met with an accident. He was knocked down by a pedal cyclist and rather badly hurt. He was taken to Farmborough (Kent) Hospital snd detained. He had just left home for a peal attempt at Lewisham when the accident happened. His injuries were to the face and left eye and the jateat information is that his condition is satisfactory. Subject to the resulte ascertained by an X-ray examination, it is possible he may be returned home before the end of this week, as the hospital is being clearad as rapidly as passible owing to the crisis. If any of his friends wish to write to him, therefore, they should address their letters to 35 , Albany Road, Chislehurat. If, by ehance, he is still in hospital, the letters will be forwarded.
Mr. John J. L. Gilbert, the hon. secretary of the Southern District of the Yorkshire Association, hes shortly to undergo his six months military training as a member of the militia. Duriag his absence, Mr. 8. F. Palmer, of Sheffeld, will discherge the secretshisl duties.
By a typist's error, the time of the peal of Stedman Caters, at Yeovil on August loth, was geat in for publication as 3 hours 32 minutes-precisely the same as that of the Sherborme peal of Stedman Triples, The actual time at Yeovil wes 3 hours 18 minutes, which wis not had going for a ring of ten with a tenor of $40 \frac{\mathrm{~cm}}{\mathrm{ct}}$.
Yesterday was the anoiversary of three inferesting eventa. On August 3lat, 1912, the longest peal on landbells was rung. A band started at Guildford for 22,222 of Stedman Caters, but when the hour got towards midnight, and they had been ringing nearly nine hourg, the conductor decided to cut is bit off the end, and the bells were brought round at 19,738 . They had been ringing 9 hours 32 minutes. The ringers were Arthur Shepherd I-2, Alired Pulliag (conductor) 3-4, William Shepherd 5 6, James Hunt 7-8, Frank Blondell 9-13.
The first ten-bell peal in Scotland was rung on August 31st, 1880, condected by Mr. F. E. Dawe-that was 53 years ago, and he is atill with us. It was a peal of Grandsire Caters at Edinburgh Cathedral.
The other August 31 st event of note was in 1923, when members of the Royal Gumberland Yautis, on their way to the West of England for an outing, rang the first peal in e railway train.

A DISTINGUISHED COLLEGE YOUTH.

250th ANNIVERSAFY OF THE DEATH OF SIR HENRY TULSE,
Yesterday was the 250th anniversary of the denth of Sir Benry Tulse, the only member of the Ancient Society of College Youths who was Lord Mayor of London and Master of the societr it the same year, riz., 1684,
One of the ways in which the College Youtlis celebrated tieir tercentenary was by restoring the tombstane of this diatingrished Master, where it now rests in a jittle courtyard opening of Limg Street, a aarrow thoroughfare between Fenchurch and Leadenhall Streets in the heart of the city.
Sir Heary Tulse was a benefactor of the parish of St. Dionis, Backchurch. When the church was rebuilt after the fire of 1668 , he gave a marble font and marble steps leading to it, and when he died in 1889 , ke was buried inside the church in his own vault. When the building was puled down, the font was removed to St. Dionis', Parsons Greer, and the stone slab which had covered the grave was tramsferied to the courtyard which marks the site of the old churchyard.
The inscription on the tomb. which was re-cut in 1936, is:-
In a Favit under-neath
this Stone Lyes Buryed the Body of Ser Heviry Tvlse, who Departed this Life the 31at day of August, 1689
The College Youths, it their tercentenary, added a bronze plate berring the following:-

Sir Hear Tuise wis a Benefactor of the Charch of st Dionis, Backcharch, formerly adjoining. He was also Grocer, Alderman and Lord Mayor of this Clty.

In his memory this tombstone was restored November, 1937, by the Aacieat Boxiety of College Youths (during the 300 h year of the Societr's foundation). He was Master of the Society durinf his Mayoralty in 1684.

ASSOCIATION SECRETARIES.

There are two corrections to the lint we published last week. Tha secretary of Cambridge University Guild is Mr. R. H. Richens Selwyn College, Cambridge.

There was a 'transposition' in the address of Mr. Leeslie Morris, secretary of the Yorkshire Association. He lives at 65, Lilycrolt Road, Heaton, Bradford.

THE NORWICH SCHOLARS.

AN ANCIENT SOCIETY. BI J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE. (Continuad from page 546.)

As I have eaid, we have no account of any ringing eociety in Norwich during the seventeenth century and we do not know when the Society of Norwich Sciolars was founded. Ita origins probably go back to the sisteeuth century, but it does not seem to have been a formally organised society with master and stewards and a cade of rules, as were the Society of Cheapside Schollera, the Society of College Youtlas and the Society of Esquire Youths. There must, of course, have been some orgenisation, and there was bound to have been something like a souial club. The name Norwich Scholars was prodably never formally adopted, but was applied to the ringers by people in flie sanie way that riagers in all parts of the country were usually called 'scholars' ar 'youths.
in any of their public meetings, he shall for his first offeree gay sigpence, and for the second be struck out of the book.
If any person belonging to the purge fell ill and desired relief he bad to sead by a member of the saciety to tbe officers to acquaint. them with his condition, and reven days after notice they were to pay lim nins shillings, then soven shillings a week for two months and after that four shillings a week. On the death of mny member forty shillings were granted for his barini.
The stook of money was not to be reduced below ten pounds, and so long as six members remaired in the socieby the purse was not to be broken.
The usual fines and penalties Fere provided for the usual offencesrefusal to take office, quarreling, difobeying orders, cheating aud the like.
The whole company was under an obligation to attend the funeral of a deceased member, timely notice having been given, Thoge who were absent were fined sixpence and those who were present had each to spend threepence for hits own, drinking.

THE FINE OLD CHURCH OF ST. PETEA MANCROFT, NORWICH.

It. was not until the Year 1716 that the Norwich ringers organised themselves into a formal saciety, and then it was as a "purse club" or benefit society. Although tue title Norwich Scholars was already in ose, it was not applied to the new society.

On December 22nd, 1716 , articles were ' made and agreed wato by the Society of Ringers in the City of Norwich for the ordering of a stack or purse for the relief of such persons as shall be therein concerned and shall stand in need of the same.'

Evary candidate for admission had to be capable of ringing five courses of Grandsire Triples. He paid an entrance fee of two shillings and thenceforth two shilliggs a quarter until he had paid ten shilinge in all, and then he was entitled to he a full parser. After that his aubscription wes one shilling a quarter. No one over 30 years of age was admitted as a member.

The number of fail purgerg was not to exceed five and forty, bat as unlimited number of members could be admitted who were entritled to partial benefite.

The oficers were a Headman, a Purser (also called the Treasurer), two Supharisors and two Feast Makers. The Headnang had power to fix the time and place of the guarteriy mectings, and the Feast Maleers, with the consent of the Feadman, to mbke arrangements for the annual dinmer, which was to be held on every Whitsun Monday, and for which everyone had to pey one shilling and sixpence. And if any person beloagiag to this Society dath prirately and fraudulently तitipase of any beer which doth properly belong to the whole Company

CONTROL OF STEEPLES.

The eociety tried to contral the whole of the ringing at all the city churches. There were at the time many ringers in Norwich, and they appear to have been organised into differert "steeple compsnies." A rule was passed that 'when thers be a vacancy in any Steeple Company of Ringers in this Gity, either by death or otherwise, the said Steeple Company shall be obliged to choose a person to supply any such vacancy who is at that time a member of the Ringers' Purse in this City and the person chosen out of one company into another doth thereby discharge himself of his former Company by accepting the same, for no man shall hold two Steeple Companies. And another fule said that " if any member or members of this Society shall practice Fith, aid, or assist any person or persons to take away any Steeple ar Steeples from this purse to the dotriment of the eame lie or they shall be expelled the purse for so doing.

We must not, however, suppobe that the society was lite one of our modern territorial associations, a federation of bands belonging to and practisiag at separste charches. The explanation of the system will probably be found in a tradition which lasted down to my time betweer forty and ffty years sgo. The peid ringing and tlie benefits accruing at the various churches (mostly from Chnismas boses) were Eupposed to be shared abcording to a recognised scheme. The twelve sentor members raug at St. Peter's, Mancroft, the five junior members at 3t. Peter's, Permountergate. and other bands han other churches. The same band might ring at more than one church.

(Contimued from provious page.)

Except at Mancroft the 'benefit' band did not hald ayy gractice at a tower or ring there except during the month before Christmas. There were many more ringers and many more belfries available in 1720 than there were in 1893 , and probnbly there was a certain amount of sectional practice ringing, but there never was a band specially belonging to st. Gileg" or St. Miles', unless it were sn opposition band.

There was the same exclusive spirit in Norwich that we find in London and elsewhere aud the same quarrels and schisms. One of the rules reads: " If any person or persons belonging to this society shall at any time ar place aid or assist any particular company of ringers, or shall agree to make a separate company smong themselves in the City of Normich to the detriment or disdvantage of the gaid society or purso of riegers, he or they shall be expelled out of the said society for so doing

This purse cluh eupplied the organisation of the Norwich Scholars for many yearg, though, as I have said, it did not use that name. In the days when there was no geueral insurance and no great benefit societies hike tile Oddfellows and the Foresters it was an excellent thing and supplied a real want. It prospered during the eighteenth century and about 1750 a rule was made that the purse should not be reduced helow $£ 100$, any doficiency being made up by a levy of 1 s . 6 d . per quarter on the members for so long as it was gecessary.
But like most similar institutions, it lad its evil days as well as its good, and it would be diffeult to prove a continuous unbroken existance. More than once in the nineteentir century, when the member. ship got stiall, the members succumbed to the temptation to break the purse and slare out the funds.
Abaut the year 1870 members were admitted who were not ringers and the purse club was run as a separate organibation from the St. Peter's company. Finally in the early days of the present century the connection between the Mancroft belfry and the old campany of ringers was completely severed and not many years later the purse club came to a quiet and inglorious end.

PROPERTY DISPERSED.

During the course of the years a certain amount of property was acquired by the club. It consisted of a parchment roll with the rules set out in fult, a number of pawter flagons and mugs, a quantity of token money, sereral framed records of peals, a set of handbells in a leather trunk made by Wiliam Porter, the composer of Double Norwich Court Bob and the tenor ringer to the first peal of Stedman Triples, and copies of the Clavis and Shipway's and L'Estrange's books. There was also at one timo a peal book, but that was lost in the early part of the nineteenth century.

The parchmezt roll was alienated at about the same time, but was bought by Walter Rye, the Norfols antiguary, as far from the city as Exeter. Fe afterwards gave it to the chmrch and it is now in the sacristy there.

When the purse club was finally broten up the property was divided among the members and is now jrretrievably dispersed and lost

Another piece of property which may not have belomged to the purse elub, but to the St. Peter's, Mancroft, heliry, was the ringers' jug. It holds 17 guarts and was the gift of John Dersler in 1749 . Dersley was a poter and Sheriff of Norwich in 1759 and Mayor in 1764. The jug was always filled on Old Year's Night with ' hot-pot,' a concoction and leading parishioners in the beliry. The constomed by the ringers and leading parishioners in the beliry. The custom lasted until 1880 .
This jug, top, was at one rime lost, but was recovered in 1846 at a anle by Robert Fitel, a well-known chemist in the city, and given lack by birn to the ringers. For long it was kept inside the tenor box and now is in the church sacristy.
Thin reputation of Norwich bells and ringers stood very high at the begining of the eighteenth century. In 1723 a writer declared that the tower of St. Peter Mancroft contained 'eight bells as perhaps hnve not their fellows considering their musical notes and the persons by whom they are rung who may challenge (without vanity) any eight men in England, for ringing is proctised no where else for number of changes and truth of ringing.
The great interest taken by the citigens in the art, even when they were not themselves rinders. is shown by the frequent references to it in the pages of the 'Norwicl Gazette.' Norwich men liked to know what. was being done by ringers in other parts of Fngland as well as at home.

A CURIOUS EPISODE.

I have no space to tell now the story of the early Norwich peals, which are among the most interesting in the annals of change ringing. You will find some of the tale in my book on 'Stedman.'
In 1736 the ring at St. Peter's was increased to ter and shorky aftervards a record peal of 12,600 changes of Grandsire Caters was rung on them, but twelve years before that a rather curious episode occurred.
The Norwich ringers being so goon and so famous, to was natural that many people including no donbt the ringers themselves, would wish to have the old octave augmented to ten so that the performancea in London by the College Youths and the London Scholars could be equalled and surpassed. So in 1724 a scheme was set on foot to add two trebles, and on July 25 th in that year the bells were actually lung in the tower. But. the order was given by someone without sufficient authority and hefore the money to pay for them had been (Continued in next column.)

BIRMINGHAM RINGERS ENTERTAINED.

AN EVENING &HONG THE BIRDS AND TISHES.
A party of Birmingham ringers, their wives and friends, representative of St, Martin's, tho Cathedral, King's Norton acdi Selly Oak, with Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Pervin, of Coventry, spent a very pleasant evening on Saturday, August 19th, as the quests of Mr. and Mrs, F B. Fates, of The Clock House, Hopwood, situated on the Redditch road, approximately ten miles from the city. The Clock House, $x 8$ its name impliea, is a veritable storehouse inside and outside of ancient and modern clocks, whose bells and gongs remind those staying in the house of ' the writching hour of milnight '-and other kours as well.

Mr. Yates, a member of St, Martin's Guild and a service ringer at the Cathedral, conducted the party raund the beautiful gardens, with their endess wariety of flowers, with water fountains and cascades charmingly set, spacious lawn, and vegetabla garden, with fowlholses, and a large aviary containing canaries, budgarigars, parrobs, and, last but not least, some beautiful white tumbler pigeons who did their 'stuff ' for the benefi of the thirty guests, who roaned a will, witil it was time to attack a sumptous repast kindly provided in the gardens. The host end hostess were heartily tlaanked by Mr. Alhert Walker for their generous hospitality and their unfating in tereat in bells and bellringers. The "toast " was drunk with musical homours, and Mr. Yates replied in his own fuimitable and charming Apologies for absence were received and read by Mr. Fates from Messrs. A. Padion Smith, F. E. Haynes, E. T. Allaway and T. H. Reaves. Tho last-named sent telegraphic greetings from Neweastle-on-Tyne.
The lhost then conducted the party to a large sheet of water a mile away from Clock House. Here, in the Club Room, wore raany fine specimens of fish caught in theso waters, among them being a arge pike approxirottely 3elb. in weight, caught by Mr. Fules himself, who evidently is a mean fisherman. On returning to Clock House, more refreshments were provided, and landbells were enjoyed on the lawn in tumes and changes. At ten a'clock the party broke ap with many expreasions of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Yates for a very delightful evening.

VISTT TO WORCESTER.

On Sunday afternon, another excursion was snade by road, in which Mr. Yates joined, to Worcmeter Cathedral, pausing on the way to take tea at Windvridge, mear Worcester, the charming resideace of Mar. and Mrs. E. Percy Thomas. Fere, again, the beautiful gar dens and orchands wers admired. Baskets were provided, and nll were allowed to pick as much fruit as they wished. Needless to say, everyone took advantege of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas' kitd ofier.
Tea on the lawn and af 'chin wag,' in which the parrot took a conspiccous part, brought time for cinging.
Mr. Thomas, whose keen interest in bells and beflringers is so well known, accompanied the party to the Cathedrnl, whore they were met by Messrs. S. T. Foit, G. E. Large, G. Finton and G. Lewis, snd the grand twelve were kept going until the service began at $6.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.
On the relurm journey to Birmingham, the pariy were again invited to Windyridge for further refreshrnent and another "chn wag ${ }^{3}$ (in whick the parrot again joined).
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were heartily thanked for their kindness and hospitality, and home was reached at $10.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.

SHROPGHIRE ASSOCIATION.

FNJOTABJ, BEEETING AT MORETON CORBET

The Shropshire Association enjoyed a visit to Moreton Corbet on Saturday last. This has been a favourite venue for many years, and the reception accorded by the new incumbent suggested that the vory pleasant relations will be contimued. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. -. Still), and tea was prepared by his household staff.
Members were late in arriving, but twenty-four were present for tea, and further arrivals swelled the fotal afterwards. Some excellent ringing was heard, methods up to Surprise Minor being rung.
During the evesing a party went to Stanton and enjoyed ringing on the bells there.
A feature was a touch of London Minor rung at Moreton Corbet by a mixed band, the atriking being of competition staudard.

collected. Subscriptions did not come in as was hoped, the parish authoritiea repudiated any liability, and on September 14th the bells were taken down again. Norwicli had to wait twelve years longer before tit had a ring of ten bells.
It seems a rather curious tale, but it is not so iacredible es it appears. Something vers similar happened a century later nt St. Andrew's, as I have already mentioned. In the eighteenth ventury parish westries undertook to ikeep the bells in repair and to repiace cracked or broken ones, hut the provision of new bells was generally left to men wha were j口terested in the art of change ringing and wanted them for that purpare. The vestry sanctioned the scheme, but accepted no responsilvility for it, and as a rule took a lond to cover any damage that might he done or any charges that might fall on the parish.

RAISING AND FALLING IN PEAL

SOME HINTS ON HOW TO DO IT
Serera! requests have reached us recently for some hints on raising and falling bells in peal. The adrantage of this manner of starting and fiaishing ringing, particularly if it is done well, is, of course, fairly olvious. For one thing, the public apprecmate it better thans an indiscriminate jangling of bclls by ones and twos, while it is also excellents practice in striking. Indeed, in the West of England, where there are ruany bands who do no scientific,' as they term change ringing, the accurate striking of the beils in raising and falling is looked upoll as of as great importance as the round singing, and it forms part of their competitions
This practice of raising and falling in peal goes back to the days before change ringing was known. At that lime stays or sliders had not bees invented to hold the bells when they were up and not being rung. The consequence was that each time before ringing conld take place the bells had to be raised, and had to bo lowered again before the ringers could leave the ropes.
With the introduction of stays and sliders, the need for raising the bells in peal became less necessary, and the praclice is an unknown art in many places now. Sometimes, after some excellent ringing, bells are let down in a jabgle, thus spoiling the effect of the previous -efforts. Often Sunday service ringing is spoilt by the same mathod of lowering the bells. Raiging and falling in peal is by no means a general thing, and yet if well? done it car be really effective : indeed, the accurate lowering of bells in peal makes a heautiful finish to any rimging, and ringers should not neglect to efequire profeiency in it.
But raising and falling in peal needs practice; just as any other form of ringing requires practice. Tha secret of lowering bells accurately in peal is keeping control over the bells all the way down. This does not mean, of course, that a bell half-way down can be "held ' as can a bell' which is being rung full up; but it is possible to handle the bell in such an way that it can be 'felt ' all the way down, so that a very slight check on the rope will serve to pat it a little closer, or a slight pull will keep it a shade wider. There is no place for 'sloppy' ringing when tho bells are running down, any more than in change ringing.
The bells, of course, begin at the usual 'rounds' pace, and then gradually close in to a quicker compass as they fall. The trebleraan must keap his bell at the 'opposite stroke' to the tenor as long as his bell is "sallying' -that is, as long as a handstroke can be distinguished from a bnckstroke.
The heavier the balls the slower the fall must inevilably be, but one of the most imporiant things to remember is that the bells should keep ' coming down,' not get partly down and stay there, or start getting up agnin. The fall of the treble should be steady and continuous, nad accommodated to the apeed at which the tenor comes domm. A good deal, therefore, fepends upon the speed set by the renor ringer, and every man must ube his ears so that tha striking is smooth and the ever-lessening intervals between the hells nre as regular as, althougls fatter than, good round ringing with the bells going full circle.

FARS ARE MCEORTANT.

The reed for using one's ears is all important. A bell too fost or too slou for the others will soon turn a fall into a jangle. If a ringer finds he is breaking the compass by being too wide he must check his bell, bat at the next stroke he will probsbly find ho must give it a little 'pulls' otherwise in the following stroke he will be too low, and possibly hitling the bell in front. If he is too close he must, of course, pull his bell a trifle until he gets beck to the right interval; but pulling or checking should not be done to excess. The ideal is, naturally. to koep the bell in its right: place all the time.
In rajsing in peal the process required is a steady pull at every stroke. In the old days a rise was pot considered perfect, unless all the bells spoke fith the second stroke. One seldom hears that now. The treble and then the other bells are swung so as to strike at a short interval after each other, the henvier bells gradually joining in. The treble is then swung higher and higher, while the others strike at such intervals that the whale of them sound before the next blow of the treble. The intervals are gradually widened out, until eventually the bells are up and uader foll command.

It is equally as important to keep the helis going higher and bigher with each putl, in raisirg, as it is to keep them running down when falling: indeed, the ringers will find their task involves additional hard work if they do not keep the bells going up. If two bells are clashing. more, waight must he put on the heavier one, if it is his fault, to "lift" it away from the other, but it may then be zecessary to check a littlo, otherwise at the aext blow the gap may be too wife. On the other hand, if the clashine is due to a wide blow, then the bell beneath must be browght a little closer.
The trebleman must pay careful attention to his work. A great deal depends upon him, and he must endratour to keep the "rise" going at a regular rate of progression, otherwise he may throw the whole of the bells into a heap. Raising the trehle veeds practice, and the best way to pot it is to lash the clappers of the treble and fenor bells; then Jef the tenorman gradually pull his bell up, white the trehleman keeps his bell exactly at the opposite stroke.

CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL BELLS.  OLD RNG IN MASSIVE CAMPANTLE.

A mecting of the Western Dirision of the Sussex Association was held at Chichester on Saturday, August 19th, when fuenty members and visitors attended from Arundel, Brightart, Billiagshurst, Chiches ter, Coleman's Eatch, Feene, Hartifid, Portsea, Peterstield and Shoreliana.

At rhe busiuess meeting, which was fich in the belfry, s vote of thanks was proposed to the Dean of Chichester fol the use of the bells of the Cathedral. Methods rung duriug the aftermoon and eveaitg were Stodnan, Bob Major, Cambridge, Double Nomwich, Superjative and London

Ghichester Cathedral has a massive campanile, with a huge ringing cluamber, one of the largest in the country. Its bells are a mired lot of noor ional quality, but some of them hate an anliquarian interest. For instance, the fifth and sixilh aro believed to have bean cast hy William Purdue, who cast a number of bells in Suspex in 1665 and 1666 , and may have had a temporary foundry at Chichester. The fiftl is ingeribed Deus Dei Deo amtia anno domini 1665,' and Lhe sixth, "Dominve providebit anno dumini 1665 . W.P."
The two oldest belliz, however, aro the 3 rd "Gevo thankes to Gad, 1585. J. W, " and the 74 tr , Ba mecke and loly to herr the word of God. I.WV. 1587." I.M, was, presumably, Johл Wailis, a holl foumder of Salisbury ab tisat period.
The fourtil was cast at the Cherksey Foundry of William Eldridge, 'Grilielines Eldridge me fecit 1674.' Richard phelps, of Loodon, cas the tenor, inseribed 'Soli Deo Gloria, in 1706, and trom the same foundry camo tho two trebles which, in 1729, completed the octawe.

Not vet eleven years old, Cysil TuMler, of Muekleton, Glos, has rung rhe treble to a quarter-peal of Crandsire Doubles, conductea by his father. His performance whs a great achievemont, for he geruck his bell well throughout. The quarter-peal was rung on Sunday. Auguse 13 tha, firr the dediention festival at St. Lawrence's Church: $G$. Tumey (frst quarter-peal) $I_{1}$ G。Bubb (first quarler-peal "inside') 2. L. Kiachin 3, F. Tufley (covductor) 4, F. Kinchin 5, W. Brown 8.

It would be far better for the public if more ringers would raise and lomer lheir hells in peal. It would also give a far more effective begioning and end to the clange ringing. If details could he cathercl, we believe it would he found thnt rajsing and falling in pesl is done Tiy a grealer percentage of call change rimgers that by those who prectise bejentilic change ringing. Yet it ought not to be so. Raising and falling in peal takes very little, if any, zonger than pullag the bells up or letting them down singly, while the effect is infintely better. But it requires practice, and such practice sloould also improve the standard of striking in the change rixging of the bend whicls adopls it.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

AMONG GLOUCESTERSHIRE TOWERS.

The eighth annual outing of the ringers of St. Mary's, Fodboume Cheney, wo were accompanied by is few ringing friends, took place in delfghtul weather on Saturday, August 19th, whea s programme of visits to Gloucestershire towers was duly carried out. The excur sion, however was preceded by sending one of their colleagues on his matrimonia journey by the usual rounds, Queens, and fring, finisbing with $&$ touch of Grandsire. This over, a delayed start was made, owing to the non-asrival of one of the party. South Cerney was the first objective, and a wery nice toned peal of bells was met with. Rounds, Rob Minor and Kent Treble Bob were indulged in. after which Maisey Hampton was visited, and again some good striking was in evidence in touches of Stedman and Bob Minor. Bibury became the next point of interest, but, alas, for all the trouble the secretary had taken, no arrangements had been made locally for their visit. The key of the belfry could not be found. A search party was sent out to locate the Vicarage, only to find the Vicar out. Further search to find the sexton resulted in the discovery that he, too, was absent. The desired information as to where the elusive key could be found was, however, given by Mrs. 'Sexton.' This obviously shortened the allotted rimging time allowed, as provision for tea had beea made at this beauty spot. The spread, prepared by Hostess Osborne, was served on the lawn sloping to the river Coln. Afterwards some had a look round this chpriming village, others indulged in feeding the trout, while the remainder arne several touches of Grendsire, Stedman and Bob Minor on bandbells to an assembly of mystified visitors who had gathered round
Going on to Coln St. Aldwyn, a ligint peal of eight was met with, and here the advanced section fraternity were able to give of their best, with touches of Cambridge. Bob Major and Stedman. Here, also, a voluntary organist, was discovered, and an impromptu choir was formed which made time pass all too quickly for botll ringers and singers, A local ringer areceded the party to Hatherop as a guide. This proved very fortunate, as difficulty would certainly have been experienced in locating the church, which was discovered immediately behind the castle. The light ring of sir whs soon gaing to warious methods of Doubles br the smaller fry. The church itself is very interesting, and much more time than was allowed was necesary to view, with admiration, the many beautiful subjects displayed therein. The sinking sun was n reminder that another move bad to be made to the last objective-Fairford. This church is too far famed to need any description. Foreman Hope was in attendance to meet the visitors, and had everything in jeadiness. There was some excellent ringing on this lovely peal of eight, a. Well-struck touch of Stedman being especially noted, together with touclies of Double Norwich and Bob Major. Standing among the choir stalls to ring did not embarrass or deter the members from giving of their best. Possibly it may lave been the 'heauties' of this fair place that attracted the younger element. for it was discovered, after the bells bad been raised, that only the 'old 'uns,' together with a few of the ocal band, were left to man the ropes.
Home was reached shortly before 11 p.m., after a very enjoyable day. The party take the opportunity of thanking the incumbents of the various towers for the use of the bells and the towerkeepers and others for making arrangements which added to the success of the day.

ALFRESCO MEALS

The ringers of Wiveliscombe, Somerset; visited Devon for their anmual outing. They started at 7 a.m. and breakfasted on the roadside and then proceeded in stages to Chudleiglt, Bover Tracey, Kingrteignton and Highweek. at each of which places tilney rang. Lunch was also an alfreaco affair, and those who enjoyed the excursion cen testify to the efficiency of the commissariat department. Tlie successful arrangements were made by Mr. Clifford Parkman, who was sircerely thanked for his efforts.

HATFTELD COLLEGE TOUTHS

After a lapse of over ten yeurs, a retival of the Fatfield beliningery outing took place on Saturdar, July 29tls, when a dozen members embarked upon a tour, which proved a great suecess and fitl of pleasure. The clerk of the weatiler seemed to be fasourably disposed and changed the dismal atmosphere to a bright sunny afiernoon for the party's departure to Baldock, where the first stop was made for a 'pull' on a heavier peal than that of Hatfield's tower, and noisier tow, hat touches of Stedman und Grandsire were successfully accoms plished, while the probationers had their opportunity as well. The ride to Royston was most cheerfinI, for the sum was doing its best to makg up for its absence in the last. few weeks. Royston has a very light peal, the tenor being abtut $12 \mathrm{cwt}$. and after Baldock's 28 cwt. was a little strange, but some wery good ringing was enjores. The party then went on to Barkwar, the home town Df one of the band, At fea the ringers had the pleasure of the mompany of the Rector At fea the ringers had the pleasure of the company of the Rector
(the Rev. M. P. Gr. Leonard) and the Revs. Thonas and Smith, who had motored from Hatfield to join the party, and their presence was greatly appreciated. The Guild secrebary expressed the hope that the outing poald again become au annual function and that everyone wonld endeavour to assist in the accomplishment of the peal the Rector wanted in 1940, to commemorate the foundation of the Parisk Church.

Bartwav lias a very fine peal of bells and some good ringiog on them was oasily the best of the day, Stedman, Graudsire, Plain Bob all being rung with feal enjosment, Hertford was the next and last call, but the party did not arrive tilt the shades of evenigg and some rain had fallen, but the bells of St. Andrew's bad to get into their swing again, a peal having been attempted by snother band in the afternoon The ringing was not ton good at this ten-bell tower, but with the help of some local ringers the pull was enjoyable. The outing was thorouglny enjoyed and all expressed appreciation that the day had been so successfutly arranged and carried out.

LONDON RTNGERS' EXCURSION.

On Saturday, Awust 19th, through the mindness of the Rev. P. D. Ellis, acting Rector of St. Botolph's, Bithopsgate, the serviee ringers of that church had their annual. They made a coach trip with ideal weather prevajling. Great Bardfield, Essex, was reached at $10 \mathrm{am} . \mathrm{m}$, and touclues of Grandsire, Cambridge and Spliced Surprise were rung on the bells at the Churels of St. Mary-the-Tirgin. At Clare, Suffolk, Stedman and Double Norwich were brouglis round, after which they went on to Lavenham, reaching the Swan Fotel in time for a most enjofable lunch. Afterwards, on the famous bells, Stedman, Double Norwich and Spliced Surprise were successful, the latter, the Fisitors were informed, being the first spliced touch on them. Then eastwards to Hadleigh, where Stedman and Superlative were rung on the grand peal at St. Mary's Clurch. A hasty departure had, how aper, to be made, in order to reach Halstead, Essex, by 5 o'clock. In St. Andrew's Hall, the very niee tea was much appreciated. In the tower, Bob Major. Yorkshire and London were rung, but the attempted spliced would not came round-the only failure of the day. The ringers take this opportunity of tendering the Rev. P. D. Ellis thetr grateful and sincere thanks for providing for sueb a day, also the various incumbents for permission to ring Messrs, gtedman, Sy* monds and Claude Snowdor for their eo-operation, and, last but not least, the 'engineers,' Mr. ayd Mrs. I. E. Da,pis, for arranging an exceptionally syleudid day out.

ANOTHER DEVON TOUR

On Alkgast Bank Foliday, eighteen members of tie Devan Guild spent a very enjovable day iu visiting Plvmiree, Kentisbeare, Uffculme, Culmstock, Milverton and Ashbrittle, and at these churches rang touches of Boh Minor, Grandsire Doubles, Stedman Deubles, Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples and Boh Major. They were acconzpanied by a visitor from Slieffield (Mr. Dickens) and were pleasen to meet Mr. G. H. Myers and his son from Plynouth at Milverton, where an excellent touch of Stedman Triples was tapped off. It is 27 Fears since Mr. C. R. Lillep, who organnsed the outing, conducted the frost peal of Stedman Triples there. The partr spent al lovely day armid fine scenery and mucls enjoyed the ringing. They express their best thanks a Mr. C. Tarr for arrangements at Miverton and to the jncumbente of the other churches.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

SUCCESSITLL JOLNT MEETLNG AT SLX-BELL TOWER.
It was a real "joint" meeting at Coblam on Saturday, August 19th, when two districts of the Guildford Diocesan Guild met. The bells (a landy peal of six) were going early in the afternoon, the local band ringing them for a wedding, but visitors began to arrive soon after 3 o'cloek, although later it became a bit of a job to get them to forsake their grassy seats under the shade of the yews, just outside the beliry door.

The Guild's service was conducted by the curate, the Rer. G. N. Nicklin, with choir and organist, the Rector, the Rev. J. du W. Brunton, giving a short original address
Tea was rather late, owing to the caterers having beer busy with the wedding reception, and it was therefore all the more welcome to over 40 ringers and friends who sat down, presided over by the Rector, but they failed to clear the board.
Tluere was no business to be transacted, so, after a hearty vote of thayks to all who had helped make the meeting a success, a return whs made to the tower, where ringers from West Grinstead, Susex, on their outing, joined in the ringing and added Norwich Surprise to The list of methods rung, which ranged from Grandsira Doubles to London, by very mixed bands composed of ringers from Addlestone, Banstear, Chertsey, Cobham, South Groydon, Epsom (Christ Churelh), Ewell, Faslemere, Herslam, Kingston, Leatherhead, Morton, Newdgate, Putney, Steppey, Uxbridge, and Wiaysbary. Mr. E. M. Atkins gate, Putney, steprey, Exbridge, and wraysbary.

DON'T SGRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down inta the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, mo-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a fash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

RINGING IN TWELVE-BELL TOWERS.

The decision to make the bells at St. Woolos' Cathedral, Newport, into a ring of twelve came as a surprise to many people, but it must be a source of gratification to the members of the Ltandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association that they are to have a ring of this number in their area. Peals of twelve have increased very rapidly in recent years, more rapidly in fact than the twelve-bell batuds. Twelve-bell ringing has not increased at the same pace as the new rings of twelve, and, as a correspondent points out in a letter printed elsewhere, there are very few places at which all the twelve bells are rung regularly and rung well. There are, of course, a great many really good twelve-bell ringers in the country, but they are not all in the twelvebell companies. Always, of course, augmentations are followed with good intentions as to setting up a band, but there are comparatively few places where a twelve-bell company has materialised and been maintained. It is, of course, no easy matter to build up a band of this description, and in looking down the list of twelve-bell towers which we print in this issue, it will be realised that, in a large majority of them, the twelve are only rung on exceptional occasions, and that, in not a few, there is practically no ringing at all.

Without particularising in any way, it can quite honestly be said that there are a number of peals of twelve which have not justified their existence in so far as they have been a help to change ringing. An occasional peal, while providing an opportunity for a twelve-bell practice, is not the entire justification for the existence of a ring of twelve. The increase of a peal of bells to this number may be a matter of satisfaction to the ringers at the time, but unless the weight really warrants it, the extra number does not necessarily add dignity. When, in addition, they are neglected as a complete peal, then, it must be admitted, the expenditure is largely wasted.

Many churches have enthusiastically enlarged their peals to twelve only to find it a matter of extreme difficulty and sometimes an impossibility to increase their band accordingly. Twelve-bell ringing is not easy for everybody; there is a different technique in it to ringing on other numbers which some find hard to acquire and for that reason they do not readily take to it. That makes it all the harder to build up a twelve-bell company, but it is really a matter of regret that for the most part twelve-bell ringing is seldom heard regularly. It may be that some of the lack of interest in twelve-bell ringing is because ringers imagine there is little variety to be had in it. As a matter of fact, among the plain

PEALS OF TWELVE BELLS

NEWPORT WחL MAEE TEIE 59th.
The decision to increase the bells at St. Woolos' Cathedral, Newport, to a ring of twelve, is a reminder of tho rapid growth of peals of this number, particularly since the war.
Less than thirty yans ago there were only 34 rings of twelve (one of then in Australia), now there are 58.
Yorl Minster was the first tower in which a peal of twelve was installed, but York has not had this number continuously. A long period intervened when there was only a peal of ter.
St, Bride's Ghurch, Fleet Street, London, has had a ring of twelve for the longest consecutive period, two trebles having been added to the then existing ten by Ruditiall in 1719.

In the list of peals of hells given in Shipway'a "Art of Ringing' there were thirteen rings of twelve. These were in tha following Lowers: St. Bride's; Christ Churcl, Spitalfields; St. Giles', Cripplegate; St. Leonard's, Shorediteh; St. Martin's-in-the-Fiolds ; St. Michael's, Gornhill, and St, Saviour's, Southwark, Londod; Birmingham, Gambridge, Cirencester, Liverpool, Nowwich and Sizrewsbury.
Of these Spitaifulds sfterwards disappeared in a fire which destroyed the tower and bells. St. Peter', St. Albaus, is another tawer which once lad a peal of twelve. These were subsequently reduced to the original ten.

It is not uninteresting to note that in Shipway's list of churchos with peals of ten bells (IB16) eighteen aro now among the twelvebell towers. They were St. Mary-le-Bow, London; Ashton-ander-Lyne, Aston, Denterbury, Exefer, Halifax, Ipswich, Leeds, Leicester ( Bt , Margaret'年 Oxford, Painswick, Eeading, Sheffield, Shrewsbury, Wakefteld, Worcester, Yarmouth and York.

ARE RINGS OF 'IWELVE A MINTAKE? To the Reditor.

Sir, I see by your jssue of Augast 18th that anothar ring of bells is to be increased to twelve. No doubt it is a very mice thing to have a peal of twelve bells and I fully appluud the energy of the people wlio talke tha trouble to get these bels. Fut, when all is said and done, rings of bwelve belis are a mistake, bath from the point of unsic and also from the poant of the art of ringing. There are, I suppose, half a dozen twelve-bell towers where fhere are banda which ripg all the bellg regularly and ring them well. But it the majority of twelve-bell towers, when all hells are rung, the striking is far inferior to what the same men would do on cight or ten belis. How many twelve-boll rings are there whero bae can conat, all the twelve when they are being ruag in tha usual way? How many towars are there where the twelse bells sound better to an ordinary non-ringing listener than the teu or eren the oight? Even when the etriking is good the rapid rate at which the bells must be strucir and the long drewn aut rhythm are too much for the ordinary musical est. And, as I just now said, the striking is almost always inferior.
I havs heard twelve-bell rimging by a band supposed, and with renson, to be first class. They apperred quite satisfied with the striking, but I don't think that they would nave been satizfied with the sama quality of atriking on eight bells.
I think 1 remember someone saying iu your paper that the back gight at York Miaster are e bigger musical success than tho twelve. I have nover heard those bells, but I can well believe it,
Another thing, if the twelve belfg are to be rung something like as they should be, you must have a band which rirgs them regularly week by weelk and stieks to one method. It is usually Stedman Cincues, which no doubt is a very good methad, but I ean hardly imagine anyone whe wanls to go through life week after weck ringing Stedman Ginques and noithing else, I am told that the Ipswicly mem ring a fair number of methads and ring them well, but one swallow does not maike a sumnuer.

A LONDON CONTEST,

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS AND CUMBERLANDS IN 1784 .

By J. Armiger Trollope.

The Southwark Diocesan Gazette, for last May contains an interesting and well informed article on church bells. The writer, among many other things, refers to the silent bells of South London and mentions a ringing contest which took place at St. John's, Horsleydown, when that ring of ten was opened on January 19th, 1784.

The editor of the 'Gazette,' Canon T. P. Stevens, has most kindly and generously sent me the original newspaper cutting from which the account was taken. It had evidently been cut out of a contemporary newspaper and pasted in a scrap book, a not unusual custom at the time. There is no indication of the name of the paper, but the date is written in ink-January 23 rd, ${ }^{1} 784$. The account is most interesting as throwing light on the relations between the College Youths and the Cumberlands at the time, and also as giving an idea of what the opening of a new ring of bells was like in the eighteenth century.

In the year $17^{8} 4$ the art of change ringing was in a very flourishing condition in London. There were three leading companies, each of which was superior and more sicilful than any provincial company except the Norwich Scholars. The three companies were the Society of College Youths, the ancient Society of College Youths and the Society of Cumberland Youths.

The first and last of these companies were in the middle of the historical contest for the record lengths of Treble Bob on ten and twelve bells. The College Youths, by ringing $1 \mathrm{r}, 080$ changes at Shoreditch in 1777, held the ten-bell record. In the same year they had rung 6000 changes of Maximus at Southwark, but the twelve-bell record had passed to the Cumberlands through the peal of 6240 changes rung in 1778 by their Norwich nembers in that city.

Both companies were now preparing to attack the other's record, and two months after the Horsleydown bells were opened the College Youths secured the record for Maximus by ringing 7008 changes at Southwark and the Cumberlands secured the record for Royal, by ringing their famous peal of 12,000 changes at Shoreditch.

And meanwhile the keen rivalry between the two societies was shown by attempts to beat each other's performances on the heavy ring of ten at St. Giles ${ }^{3}$, Cripplegate.

The third company, the ancient Society of College Youths, were enjoying the last few years of activity and brilliancy before final extinction in 1788 . Their leaders were the three men whose names appear in the title page of the Clavis, William Jones, John Reeves and Thomas Blakemore; and they included several of the best ringers of the day, among then being Chistopher Wells, who was the first man to discover that peals of Treble Bob can have repetitions without the falseness showing at the lead ends.

This company had just rung the first peal of Surprise Major ever accomplished, and two months after the Horsleydown opening they were in a contest with the other and younger Society of College Youths to see who coulc ring the first peal of "real' Double Bob Maximus with two Bobs in a lead. The 'junior ' company rang 5160 changes at St. Bride's, and two days later the ancient Society beat their record by ringing 6048 changes at Southwark.

This brief account will show how keen the competition was among ringers at the time.

In $2_{7} 83$ a new ring of eight was rung at St. Botolpli's, Bishopsgate. The opening was on February 7 th, and on that day each of the three companies rang a peal. The College Youths star1ed with 5120 changes of Oxford Treble Bob. John Povey conducted and the society's best men stood in the band. The Cumberlands then followed with a peal of Grandsire Triples, which was conducted by George Gross and was said to have been composed by him, but evidently was a transposition of Holt's TenPart. Nine nen were needed for this peal, not because the tenor was going badly, but because the tenorman was not up to his job. The ancient Society of College Youths finished the day's ringing with 5216 changes of Treble Bob. No conductor is mentioned, but probably it was John Reeves.

We have no account of this opening, and all we know is from the peat books and the peal board which sixty years ago hung in the belfry, but has since been chopped up for fire wood. There may be some account buried in the files of contemporary newspapers, but none has yet come to light.

Whether there was any formal competition, or whether each of the three companies was invited to ring we cannot say. But we can be reasonably sure that there was no dedication service in the church, and that no money prizes were offered for competition, but the band judged to have rung the best probably were awarded gold laced hats, and the day ended with a dinner.

Just a year after this opening, the bells at Horsleydown were opened and the following is the contemporary account:

Mondry last being kept he the Anniversary of ber Majesty's uativity, a grand opening of tha nem Peal of ton bells erectad at the parish Church of St. Jobn, Eersleydown, took place when a Society of gentlemen, who are lovers of the art of ringing, in honour of the obcasion gave ten gold laced hats and a dinner to be roug for by different ringers. About ten o'clock a set of young pentlemen ascended the steeple, in order to gratafy a number of impatient hearera (who were by that time assembled) with a specimen of their whparalled abilities in that art, and so proved in the end: for before they had reached 4,000 changes, all those so lately described platoons, diwsions, sub-divisions, grand divisions, &c. were again repeated with large additions, and greater energy than ever, so thet they wera oblyged to quit the stepple througli private doors in order to avoid that loud reception which was preprred for thew by the auditors, and which they so justly deserved! After this the Sociefy of Cumberiand Youths ascended the steeple and amidst the acclamations of upwards of 10,600 spectators rang the first peal compleat consisting of 5,399 Grandeire Cators in 3 hours and 58 minutes; but notwithstanding they had won the bats by a great majority of changes azd fineness of striking the hefore mertioned young gentiemer, contuary to all order, were admitted to a second trial, with a view, as it is supposed, to retrieve their lost honour mad transmit to posterity a striking testimony of their supperior abilities and indefatigable perseweranee, but how great was ihe disappointment when this second attempt proved far inferior to the first and becsme the oljeect of contemptinand ridicule! And although they had been worsfed by a considerable odids, yet fortunately for them they had chose for their umpire a squinting opster man who, being so much infatuated with the glory of his pose as to lonse lise best sense, via., that of thinking and judging riglnt, and who it is believed was h-d for the occasion gave it in favour of the select performers, inecause they rang College Fornbook: and the gentlewen who gave the loats confiding in the superiosity of Jis judgment, the supposed victors were, contrary to equity and good conscience, crowned with the latrels they had so egregiously lost and admitted to partake of the amoers proriked for the occasion."

From the peal books we know that the Cumberlands rang the first peal on the bells, 5399 changes of Grandsire Caters, composed and conducted by George Gross; and that the College Youths rang on the same day 5040 changes of Oxford Treble Bob Royal, conducted by John Povey. Both bands consisted of the most skilful ringers the societies possessed.

If we can believe the writer of the newspaper report what happened was that the College Youths lad the first attempt and rang under 4000 changes, but failed so badly that they had to slink out of the steeple by a private door, in order to escape the jeers of the listening crowd. Then the Cumberlands rang their peal 'amidst the acclamations of upwards of 10,000 spectators, ' but instead of the prize being given to them, the College Youths were allowed a second attempt. This ringing was worse than their first attempt and ' became an object of contempt and ridicule '; nevertheless, owing to the fact that the umpire was incompetent and had been bribed the College Youths were awarded the victory and received the hats and the dinner.

It is a pretty little tale, but not convincing as it stands. The writer, whoever he was, was certainly not impartial. Either he had a strong personal bias in favour of the Cumberlands, or (as is perhaps more likely) simply wrote down what they told him. They evidently took their defeat very badly and the incident does not show that the relations between the two companies were those of 'friendly rivalry.'

It is noticeable that the details of the Cumberlands' peal (the number of changes and the time taken) are given correctly, but the reader is led to suppose that the College Youths did not ring a peal at ail.

The writer affects the ironical and sarcastic style which was largely used by newspapers of the time. The College Youths are referred to as young gentlemen (in italics) and the quotation about transmitting ' to posterity a striking testimony of their superior abilities "is a sarcastic reference to a College Youths' peal board, possibly the one then lately erected in Shoreditch tower.

It is an old dodge and not a very sportsmanlike one to blame the judge when the match is lost and to bint that the umpire was unfair and had been bribed. We notice that the charge is not definitely made; he is said to have been "b-d." It was a common way of making an accusation and, at the same time, trying to avoid any unpleasant consequences, which might take the form of legal proceedings or, more likely, of a horse whip.

If the College Youths were allowed a second trial after they had failed the first time, it certainly does not seem quite fair, especially as they were awarded the prize. But I think it is quite possible that the band which rang the first time and failed was the ancient Society of College Youths and not the same band as that which rang the peal of Treble Bob. The reporter certainly drew on his imagination for some of the details. We cannot believe that even in the eighteenth century 10,000 people assembled to hear church bells rung, and if 50 great a crowd, or even a much lesser crowd, had assembled round the church it is difficult to see how the first band could have 'quit the steeple through private doors.' Neither can we suppose that the College Youths of that time rang so badly that they were afraid to face hostile demonstrations from the assembled spectators. And, after all, the 'Society of gentlemen,' "the lovers of the art of ringing,' agreed with the umpire's verdict and gave the hats and the dinner to the College Youths.

We are sometimes told about preserving the old traditions of the great London societies, and we are told that the relationship between them was one of healthy and friendly rivalry. Incidents like the above throw some light on what the relationship really was.

BELERY GOSSIP.

With reference to the statement made in our Iast issue that the peal at Bollington was the first peal of Spliced Treble Boh Major for f.he Chester Diocesan Guili, we are informed that the first nctually was rung on May 8 Lh , 1923, at St. Elisaboth's, Reddish, conducted by the late James Fernley.
Mr Stafiord Green writes that all arrangements for Masouic puals are cancetled until happier times.
A ringing tour had been arranged to start to-morrow and a good belection of Yorkshire towers had vecu secured, including wa believe, Sheffiold Cathedral, Leeds Parish Church, Bradford Perish Church and Selby Abbey. Unfortunately it has bad to be cancelled.
On Eaturday last a meeting of the North and West Distriot of the Middlesex asoociation had becn arranged at Headon Parish Church. At the last minute the Vicar felt compelled to cancel it, but actually no more than three or four members turned up.
Sixteen years ago to-day the firs twelve-hell peal in Hampshire was rung on the belis of Winchester Cathedral, which had just before been augmented by the addition of two trebles as a war nuemorial.
On September 10th, 1741, John Forster, who had rung in the first peal of Stedman Triples ever achieved, called a peal of Gathrine's Triples on the bells which Theodore Eccleston had lately given to the Parislı Clurch at Coddenham in SuFolk. Gathine's Triples fs, of course, the peal of Grandsire Triples which John Garthon, of Norwich, had composed and which was rung in that city in 178.

September 12 th is tha $95 t 11$ anniversary af the birth of Charles Henry Hatterslay for so many years one of the best hnows ringers, Fliose name is still femiliar to even the jounger wembers of the Finercise as a composer. He died on October 15th, 1915.

IF THE WORST BEFALL

To the Editor.

Sir-Siuce jou wrote your leading articla war has starled, but we are nat yet going to think that the worst has actazliy befallen. We shall have to curtail our ringing without a dauht, and a good many ringers will bo eerving their country as they did in the last whr. But wo must do our best, each in our own way, to kecp the Exercise alive and to make sure that when peace and victory come again, as they will come, our art will again fourisl.
I would suggest that some of the meetings slonuld not be cancelled, but should be held as social gatherings even if the church bells cannot be rung. And handbell ringing is an art that will pay to cuitivate. Personaly I got guite a lot of comforts and satisfaction when I was in the trenches by working out pealg and methods and writing controversial letters to "The Ringing World," and I recommond the same thing to sny ringer who may find himselt somewhere in-wherever he may be.

KENT SCHOOL'S PLAN.

HOW A SUCORSSION OF RINGERS IS SECURED.

To the Editor.

Deim Sir, -I read with intercst your article of August 11th, entitlen 'Importance of New Conductors, in which you discuss the problem of passing ringing from one generation to tire next. I thought you might be interested in the unique siluation which we have here touching upon that subject.
The comparatively new belts of Kent School, an American college preparatory institution, were frst ring in 1932 by Kent boys, under Attwater returned to England in 1935, a guarter-peal of Grandsire Triples had been accomplished. Since 1955 s sixtt form studeal has yearly been appointed chairman and conductor of bellringing. His duty, with the aid of the other sixth form ringera, is not only to see thet there is good ringing during his year, but to see that the underFormers are sufficiently skilled to carry on the following sear, after ho las graduated. So, you see, we meet the problem of nev ringers and new conductors not every generation, but every year.

We lave been rowarded with reasonable, but modest, success in this mothod of carrying on ringing, and our prospects look brighter each year, although for five years fixth formers oave been our only mu structors, and no one has inherited tle ability to ring. At present. our schievements are confined to the extent of Grandsire Doubles and shart touches of Grandsire Tripies. Our practice periods are before 'chapel ${ }^{3}$ each evening from 6 to 6.15 p.m. We are tha only band in the Dnited States to ring fexcepting the summer, Christmas and Easter holidays) daily.

CHARLTE GRANGFR, Chairman for 1946.
Kent Scbool, Kent, Conn., U.S.A.

STUDENTS' FIRST QUARTER-PEAL.

At their first attempt students at the Theological College, Lichfield, rang a quarter-peal of Doubles in six methods on Sundey. The mathods were one 120 each of Wyachendon Place Bok, Reverse Canterbury Pleasura Bob, St. Simon's Bob, April Day. Plain Bob and 5 d 120 's of Grandsire, and the ringers were Richard A. C. Brodribb 1-2. Malcolm C. C. Melville (conductor) 34 , Michsel M. K. Warren 5.6. Wrncliendon is St. Simon's with place making in $1-2$ and 3.4. Bath Wrichendon and Canterbury heve a Grandsire Bob except that the bells in $4-5$ lie still instead of dodging.

SERVICE RINGING IN WAR TIME.

We have received several inquiries asking whether beils should now be rung for Sunday services.

Pending an official ruling by the civil or ecclesiastical authorities we suggest that bells should continue to be rung for church services, except in populous districts, where the ringing might make it difficult to hear any air rajd warning.

During the last wat all ringing, even the chiming of clock bells, was stopped by authority after sumset. Up to the time of writing, no similar regulation appears to have been issued and it is likely that the particulas reasons for that order do not now exist.

FOUR-PART PEALS OF BOB MAJOR

To the Editor

Doar Sir,-1 may perbaps point out that there is another plan on whick four-part peals of Bob Major can be produced. They are based on the ordinary two-part tencourse touch. In any two of these courses a bob lefore must be calied, provided that one will produce a $6-4$ or a $6-5$ nad thie other a $6-2$ or a $6-3$. Then call three Homes in each of the courses and after the thired Home $W$ and $M$ to bring tho bells back to the original touch.

You wil! then get a four-part peal, 5,056 changes, with thr sixtli the extent Wrong and wenty times Right. Reverse it end you will have a peal with tho sixth the extent Right and twenty Eimes Wrong.

Another rarietion is to use the alternative ten-course bloek, which is celled 2 W. R. 3 W. R. Most, if not all, of the peals produced on this plan have been puhlished nud rung at verious times and as the work of various composers. I am not, of course, making any claim myself to any of them.
J. A. TROLLOPE.

SPLICED STEDMAN AND ERIN TRIPLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir, I am not going to challenge the right of the Bushey hand to have rung a spliced peal, but, after all, mixed Erin and Stedman is only Stedman rung as tine late Rev. H. Law James used to tall us it ouglit to be rung; that is, with tha quick six acting an a bob. Only he wanted it to he ruog without anv ordinary bobs, in addition. Th would be jnteresting to hnow if a 5,040 is possible on that plan. Perhaps some of our leading composers wila enlighten us on the matter.

ANCIENT CUSTOMS.

THE REV. H. DRAEE'S REPLY TO MR. TROLLOPE

To the zditor.

Dear Sir,-Unlike Mr. Trollope, i am giad to be ablo to accept his orrections, and hope 1 may du so with a good grate.
For instance, he writes that nowadays there are ao parisis cierks, and lawe not been for a good many years. I mu quite suro lie means sombthing by these enigmatic statements, but I fear I cannot tell what it is. At the present time every parish with which I hove ever been connected las stifl its elerk, Furtharmore, he prescutly refers to Mr. F. C. Lambert, who, as lie must know, is the energetic and larned parish clerk of Halesworth,
So far from my "doulating his statement" of riuging lesting on and off all day, 1 mentioned having heard the same thing, in Brittany, twice this June. As Mr. Trollope Enys, this is no evidence of what went on in Engtand. It is, however, interestigg to know of what is done with bells, where there is no change ringing Wiat 1 do not merely doubt, but deny aljsolutely, is that there wes round ringing, or call changes, before bells were rung with complate wheels. It could mot be done, and no one wanted to do it. Nor would anyone want to have bells properly hung (as we should put it) merely to ring rounds or call changes. No one had guch unmasical ears in those days. If Mr. Trollope wants us to helieve that this kind of ringing is not a corruption of clange ringing, he must produce same very convincing proof.
Mr. Trollope persists in coupling together ringers and candles, becanse as he says both are mentianed tagether in some wilfs. He alag saye that this ringing was "for pleasure, i.e., as a sport." Were candles then a plensare or a sport?
What I refuse to believe js thet tho ringing mantioned in wille was either of these things. As we do not know what sort of ringing it was that Bishop Grandison or Martin Bucar were fulminnting against, we cannat use their words on one side or the other; it is most wnlikely that they were apeaking of the same thing. In any cose, very similar words are used to-day by thoze who dislike muan ringing for services or for peals.
It wauld have expressed my meaning better if $I$ had merely said tiat where thero were severu] towers a society would be formed and would ring at certain towerg. I bliould not beve used the word resporsible."
It js frue that. there have been, and ales still are, drunken ringers. Once ahout Glristmas I rang (or tried to rimg) with a band, of whem all the others seened more or less drunk. But this was at the end of the last conturt. Yet I have never seen beer brought inside the helfry; it is possible that on some occasions this may have been done; but I cannot believe that it was ever the custons. It is most unlikely thet food was ever taken there. The ringers' iugs, which Mr. Trollope mentions, are really evidence of this. Would lie ever have liked to carry up one of these, with only a small mmant of liquor in it, to the ringing chamber, at the top of a narrow winding staircase? Yet he calmly auggests that 'foolish boys' did this! Tlie folly euggesteri by Martin Bucer was liardly this. Moreover, he would hardly have Written of "supertitious men "if he lade been thinking of ringing as either fo" pleasure or as a sport.
When Mr. Trollope refers to 'sweet uells jnagledt' lie imagines Slakespoare wed 'jengled' in the same way that a modern change ringer would. This, of courne, is impossible. They knew then, as well as we do now, when a hell or other instrunsent was out of tune, and knew as little as most people know to-dey how they are tuned. This (bells being out of tune) we cannot doubt is what he mas referging to. The ather meaning, besides iseing impossible does not even answer its purpose. I have heard bad strikers called by many hard anmes by modern ringers, luut I de not think it would occur to anyone to call them mad!

THE HALESWORTH LEGACY

To the Rditor.

Denr Sir, The Rev, Herbert Dralte stated definitely that the Halesworth ringers lave enjoyed for many years an anuual dinner, provided by money left by William Walpole in 1539 and confirmed to them by the Cliarity Commissioners. According to Mr. Tyollope, the origiaal iegacy was only for money to he given on the actual funeral day. Those of us who are interested inf the firfory of the old ringing sorieties would be glad if Mr. Drake would give us further particulars, for, if he is correct, the Halesworth legacy is certainly the oldeath endowment of ringing in Englard.

WEDDING BELES AT ICKLETON.

At Ickleton Parish Church, Cambs, on Saturday, August 26th, a quarter-peal of Grandaire Triples wns Tung by A. J. Smonthy (first quarter-neal) 1, P Webh (conductor) 2, L. Iilley 3, A. Fleet 4, R. Clements 5, G. Lilley 6, W. Fitton 7. A. G. Lilley B. This was rung as a wredding compliment to Mriss A. M. Welch daughter of Mrso Weleh and the late Mr. T. Welch, of Ickleton Albey) and Mr. D. L. Nichols, of Fulboum. Tha late Mr. Welch held the office of churchwarden for several yeafs and aivays supported the ringers. He was the first to give ESO 0 for the restoration of the church bells a Yew years ago.

A NINE DAYS' TOUR

THE ACIIVITRES ROUND LIVERPOOL

As recorded in our last issue, the peal ringing tour in Lancnshire and Cheshire, which concluded at Liscard on Saburday week, resulted in 11 peals being rung in 16 attempts made in nine days, which was perlaps not quite up to the average of former years. Although they had some failures, however, the party had some good ringing and spent a most enjoyable week. They regretted that Mr. W. H. Fussell, bheir caphain of previous years, could not join them, but fiey were ull pleased to know ho was enjoying good health efter his serious operation a few months ago. Another setback was the absence of Mr. Harry Parkes, whose business would not allow him to mreak away. They not only missed hine for hig sbility tos a "back-ender,' but also for the services of his car, which was ao kelpful last year at Wolver hampton.
Headquarters for the week were the Victoria Hotel at Liverpool The majority of the party arrived on Priday evening, when the firat peal of the tour was rung et Garston, which is now part of Liverpool. Cambridge was the method rung. Naturally those who set out on a peal ringing tour always like to score the first peal, and this was looked on as an angury of success for the remainder of the week.

where the peal of thaximus was rung.
On Satuvelay morting they visited Bebington, where they were met by Mr. E. Breeze, who had everything reedy for the party. Here a peal of Superlative was tapped off, and then, after lunch, the rimgers made their way to Chester, a peal at the Cathedral being the olsjective They were met by several Chester ringers. Mr. J. Swindley pifoled them to the tower, wliere, after raising the bells, a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal was brought raund. this being the first peal of Sinftrize Royal on the bells.

On Sunday morning some of the party joined in the service ringing at Sit. Nicholas', Liverpool, and afterwards they paid a visit to the Landing Stage, where interest centred in the departure of the Welsh and Manx boats.
After an earls lunch they made their way to Newchurch, where they ware met by Mr. J. Leatherbarow (one of tha band who rang in the 17.824 Oxford Treble Boh Major) and his colleagues, who gave the party a cordial welcome. They also had the pleasure of meeting here Mr. T. B. Waraley, the composer of the 17,824, who was accompanied by his wife and daugbter. Quite a good peal of Yorishire Surprise was rung. Tea at the Harrow In was afterwards much enjoyed. On the return howe the ringers called at the R.C. towor of St, Francis Xavier's, where courses of several Swrprise methods wera rung, the method not rung being a new one aamed Liverpool, although a course was attempted.
On Monday the company sustained a very severe loss by the departure for home of their good friend and stalwart of many previous tours, Mr. George R. Pye. He was not at all himself in the Garston peal on l'riday night and did not feel equal to standing in either of the peals on Saturday or Sunday, and to the intense regret of all concerned he felt he must return home. Alt sincerely hope lie will make an early recosery and be able to resunce his work in the belfry with the same zeal and entlusiasm as in the past.

VISIT TO THE NEW CATHEDRAL.

The peal on Monday norning was at Halewood, a light ring of eight by Taylor, After scoriug Cambridge herc and lunch at headquarters, the aliternoon was devoted to a visit to the new Catledral tower
The Dean of Liverpool received the party in his restry and showed them on paper what wa wero later to see in iron and stone. They had the privilcge of escending to the tower in the lift, which is in the open and ascends aud descends alongside the Cathedral wall. The Dean sent the first half of the party up in charge of a not too efficiment ableudant, who was creatly relieved when tho correct landing place was foumd. Howover, all evontually reached the top, where the Dean explained everything that he could. One could not here give a rietailed account of the visit. Suffice it to say everyoue whs greatly interested ill and impressed with winat they saw, and the Dean (Dr. F. W. Dwelly) was warmly thenked for his kindness.
After tos a viait was paid to St. Nicholas' tower, where the only welve-bell peal of the week was rung. This was Plain Bob Maximus and there were stars for one or two of the notables in the lognd, chief among these being tho veterar Master of the Winchester Guild.
The party were on the road in good time on Tuesday morning, when a visit was paid to Tarleton. They were received by the Vicar, who expressed his wishes for their success. After a second start, for Bristol, and when the bells had been going about 35 minutes, the tenor-man appealed to the conductor to stop, awing to the heavy go of the bell. An inspection of the bell's hearings proved to us that they had not been lubricated. The Vicar liad forgotten to notify the toweriseeper of the visit. There was no tine for a further attempt, so the party returned to Liverpool for luseh, after which they went to Woolton, which is also now part of the city. Here there is a good peal of eight hy Taylor, with a tellor a ton in weight, but ratzer noisy in the cinging chamber, Loudon Siuprise was attempted, but after more than an hour's ringing a bad trip oceurred which could not he corrected. Tho Rector (tive Rev. F. B. Hadow) gave some of the party a cordial Welcome to the tower, as aiso did Mr. E. L. Humpluriss, the local leader

Wednesday wns $n$ very busy day. They had to get an carly start at Poolstock, as they were dite at Wigan in the early afternoon. The parly were cordially welcomed at Poolstock by the Rev. Dr. Welton and Mr. Sydney Forshaw. The former addressed a few words of welcome and drew attention to his inscribed handkerchief, on which every member of the band left his mutograph as well as a piece of silper. This ther learned was put into a fund for the upkepp of the bells. A peal of Superlative was completed on this grand ring. The veteran of 88 conducted the peal from the treble, and the tenor was rung with marked ability by a light-weiglnt, 60 years his junior. In the afterncon the tourists were met at Wigan tower by the local imder, Mr. J. Majors, and also by two of the local veterans, Messrs. Hall and Shaw, both of whorn linve unwards of 50 years' service as ringers at the Parish Churcin. At the chureh the visitors were successful in ringing the firet meal of Double Norwich Roysl in the county, gs well as the first of Royal ons the bells.

SOME BAD LUCK

Tharsday saw the departare of Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and their daughter Enid, and they were not only personally missed, but thoir anm also. Withoul its assistance in the early part of the week the darly cond not lave carried out the programme. The first tower of the dey was Prescot, where an early start was made. They werp met by Mr. A. E. Reeves, the local feader, and several of bis colleagues, hut the visitors had extremely hard luck, for after three hours finwless ringing they lost a peal of Yorkshise Surprise in the last lead. All went well until the boh 'Before' in the last course had been called; one or two then lost their heads and their places, the bells atruck round as stand was called by the coaductor. In ans other part of the peal the blemisk would not hare been so had, but oerurring at the end there was insalficient time to recover. Some regretted having to lose the peal, but on 8 pote being taken over lunch it, was decided bp five sotes to three not to count it as a peal. The iti-huch on Thuraday was mot ended. The party went on to St. Helens Parish Church, and were just seltling down to Yorkshire Surprise Royal whetl a jeremptory Frock at the tower door compelled them to stop ringing. They were confronted with the Chief of Police and the costmaster, who informed the ringers of the difficults. owing to the hells, they ware having in the Post Ofice with their telephone and telegraph massages, which werp exteptionally heav aming to the international crisis. Althongh the Ficar of Sit. Helens had given his (Costinued in nest columu.)

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

Abstract

KINTSWINFORD BAND FLECTED MEMBERS. The quarterly meeting of the Dudloy and District Guild was leeld ath St. Mary's Churels, Kiugswinford, on Saturday, August 26th, in beautiful summer weather. This church contains a peal of eight bells, which were placed at the disposal of the members from 3 o'elock and werg kept goidg in various rachods until the usual service was held, conducted by the Lev. J. H. 'Thompsou (Vicar'), who also gave a very interestitig uddrecs. At the close of the service an adjournment was made io the Church Hall, where a substantial teu was in readiness, and it was regretted that more members were not present to partake of the good thingz provided. The sulisequent business meeting was held, presided over by the Vicar, who gave the Guild a hearty welcome to Kjogswinford and his paribl. The following names were ratificd as memhers of this Guild, hnving been propozed previously in the belfry before commeveing for a peal : Messrs. d. W. Smith, Bernard Ashford and Frea Benvett. The Rev. J. H. Thompson, Viear of Kingswinford, was elected an honorary member. It was proposed by Mr. J. Gopdman and secouded by Mr. H. Hill that the members of the Kingswinforit band be elected as members of the Guild, zad this was cartied with acclamation. Ilye Yicar thanked the members for the howour they had conferred ous him and said it was a pleasure to become a member. It was propesed that the quarterly peal be altempted at Kingswinford, the necessary arrangements being left with the Rirging Master, It was also proposed that the next meeting of the Guild be held at Weduesbury, suloject to the utual permission being obtained. F'ailing that the secretary was asked to try Penenett. Mr. Harold Sbuck reported that he hoped to have all the peals enterod in tho peal book rendy for the annual meeting Mr. H. Sheppard (the hon, secretary) proposed and Mr. Farley seconded a vote of Lhaths to the Vicar of Kingswinford for kindly giving pemission to hold the meeting at his church, also for the use of the tower and belle, for conducting the service and for presiding at the meating. Tlunk's were also accorded to the ladies who so kilidly gave their time in preparing and serving the tea and tooking after the comfort of the members; to the organist for the musical part of the service, and to Mr . Leonard Lownes for making the uecessary arrangements.

A. NINE DAYS' TOUR.

permission for the peal, the band felt they could do no other than to refrain from further ringing.
On Friday morning a pasi of Loudon Surprise at Ormskirk was the first on the programme. Mr. Pilkingtan, ine lotal leader, mot the party and everything was in order for a prompt start. Some excellent, Loadon was rung for 2 hours 10 minutes when two people insisted on doing tha wrong work and "Stand" was called slartly after. Very soon after this disaster the party were in an adjacent hotel consoling themselves bs well ts was possible and also drinking the jolly good liealth of their old friend Mr. W. H. Fussell. They all regretied very muclz his ubsence, bul much appreciated his kind thought and generosity

The Friday evening tower was Clrist Church, Aughton. Tlle bells have quita recently been retuned and rehung and an excellent jola made of them. Messrs. W. Gibbons and J. Lunham gave the visitore a kindly weloome. The peal that was lost at Ormsicirk was stored here, which put the ringers on much better terns with themselves.

On Saturday morning at Runcorn, which is just inside the Cheshire boundary, they were met by Mr. Allman, scin., who saw everything was in readiness. Here a peal of Yorkskire, which was the first Surprise peal on the belis, was rung, and 'Goodbye' was said to Mr. George Willians, who has such amazing energy for his years.
Returning to Liverpool for luwh, the party afterwards crossed over the Mersey to Liscard, where they luad the satisfaction of ringing the first peal of Superlative in the tower where Mr. J. C. E. Simpsor received his early tuition. After the peal Mr. Sheplnerd left in guest of yet another tower; Mr. Lindof departed on the night train for Dublin. Mr. F. Benvett and Mr. F. White left for London ans Sunday moraing. Thus ended a sirenuous but very enjoyable week. Those who took part would like to thank all who contribuled in any way towards the success of the programme, particularly the clergy and church authorities, the towerkeepers and lacal ringers, whoge kindness and hel? was much appreciated.

DON'T SERUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, tro-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the rails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

 cast in England.The outbreak of war has had a startling effect on church bellringing. Ringers nearly everywhere have ceased their activities, at any rate temporarily. There had previously been an undercurrent of leeling that as soon as war came there were likely to be devastating air attacks upon this country, and the widespread precautions that were taken in recent months lent justification to the idea. It wats only natural, therefore, that among the safeguards against being taken unawares, there shoud be a cessation of church bellringing, for in populous places there may be areas where air-raid warning signals would not be heard if they were sounded when bells were ringing. Local considerations in such places thus demand that the bells shall, for the present, remain silent.

But the first days of war have not developed as was generally anticipated, whatever the future may hold. The public are taking a calmer view, and now it can be realised that the public safety will not be endangered everywhere by ringing. In what are officially regarded as "safe" areas there seems no reason why ringing for service should not take place, and there are some towers, even, where other ringing, during the hours of daylight, might take place. This view is supported by the fact that an Order in Council, suppressing the use of various noises, specially exempts church bells. Obviously the authorities do not consider that the ringing of church bells constitutes any danger, and now that the first shock of knowing that the country is at war is passing, it may be hoped that at churches beyond the "danger ' zones the bells may again be rung on Sundays, wherever there is a team to man them.

Local conditions may, perforce, change with the development of hostilities, but, outside the vulnerable points, the further one goes westward, with a greater eomparative safety from air attack, the less reason is there for the complete silence of betls. Most, if not all, ringers, will feel that the times are too serious to indulge in merely pleasure ringing, but ringing for Sunday service is on an entirely different plane. In this connection bells have their part to play; and they are much more likely to carry home their message in these times of trouble than in the happy-go-lucky days of peace. There is often evidence that bells, reminding the people of higher things, are a source of solace; if that be so in peace time, there can be no doubt that in the days of stress and strain before us, their message will touch a deeper chord, and they may at the same time serve to bring a message of cheer.

One of the essential points in a campaign is to keep the people cheerful; for that reason, the broadcast programmes contain a goodly proportion of light entertainment; for that reason, too, the authorities have authorised the opening of cituernas is all but the evacuated areas. The bells can add their quota to the general cheerfulness, and this side of the question should not be lost sight of by Church authorities when considering what should happen to the bells. The exemption accorded to church bells under the recent Orcler gives strength to this contention, and, therefore, not only should the bells be used, wherever there are no local obstacles, for service ringing, best also on other suitable occasions.

Ringing after dark, of course, presents a different problem. The dilliculty of complying with the lighting restrictions will make it impossible almost everywhere for any ringing to take place after sunset, but, as the churches themselves have to comply with the regulations, services will have to be heid at earlier hours, and service ringing will therefore still be possible.

There are thus two grounds upon which ringing in many towers can justifiably be continued. With no official ban upon the bells, their ringing before service, not only as a call to devotion, but as a reminder to the public, will give them a use and significance which the seriousness of the times demands. In addition, the cheery notes of the bellis will help to keep up the spirits of those who may feel depressed. The sound of bells ringing merrily often acts as a tonic upon a weary soul. So let it not be thought that everywhere and under all conditions the bells of our churches should remain silent throughout the war. .They must, of course, be used with discretion, and, obviously, there are certain areas where, for the present, it might constitute a danger to the public. No one would suggest for a moment that bells should be heard in such places, but there are scores of towns and hundreds of villages where ringing for service can with safety take place, and not only with safety, but also with justification.

A letter in another column intimates that in Loughborough, for instance, it has been decided that service ringing shall continue on the very grounds which we have here set out, and various associations have already provisionally decided, in view of the deliberate exemption of churçh bells from the Order suppressing noises, to continue to hold their meeting's wherever possible. It was not unnatural that, in the first stage of the war, meetings should be abandoned, but there seems to be no reason why, in a modified form perhaps, meetings should not take place. The tower bellringing would have to be curtailed, so that there shall be no infringement of the lighting restrictions, but there are other things in connection with meetings besides the church bellringing. Not least is the maintenance of social contacts between ringers. Under the present conditions, too, a great deal might be done in instilling instruction by giving talks on ringing, and by practice on handbells. Meetings, despite war conditions, can be made well worth while and, even with restricted tower bell practice, can be turned to good and useful account. There is no reason why, in the greater part of England, ringing should not be resumed in a modified way, and in those areas where conditions permit, we would say, 'Carry on!'

ANCIENT CUSTOMS.

EARLI RINGING PRAOTIGES.

To the Editor

Dear $ir,-I aum teupted not to write further on this subject, but to leave your readers to study Mr. Drake's letters and mine and to doew their owir conclusjons something-
Mr. Drake donies absolutely that ' there was round ringing or call changes before bells were rang with complete wheels. It could not we dons and nobody wanted to do it-
1t is riather a pity that he shoutd write so dogmatically about a matter witls whicl he is very little acquainted. There is a good dea of evidence on the subject and it is all clean against him. Not only round ringing mad Plain Changes, but also neethods like Bob Doubles, Grandsire Doubles, New Doubles, and the 780 of Plain Bob Minor reve practised before full wheels were fitted to bells.
Here are the dates. Up to aboub tife firgt quarter of the seventeentl century bells werc uswally lung with half-wheels. Round about 1610 the sixes were invented, und, after that, change ringing izegan to be practised. At the samo time thrce-quarter wheals began to be fitted, so that the bells could be rung higher or aty a greater compess, as the plirase was.

These alterations, of course, were spread over a number of yeass, huppening in some places long hefore they did in others. But here ure some typical examples from St. Edmund's, Salisbury 1680 . Pd to Nichalms Perrio for

6an. Pd to Nichalas Perric for making a wheele for ye five a clock lyell and to bring the rest of the bell wheels to more compas xaxuis. Gave Kingsonn of Cisherton in erneste to phorme the nolage a sethige of our bells in order for to be rung 1 1630 Pd will 1606 . Pd Willm Batten juyner for a thre $q$ 'ter bell wheel wa.
and for ather tlings ixs.
Bols Douhles was lirst rung about 1640 and Grandsire Doubles and the 720 of IPain Bob Minor oboul 1650 ; and, by the time the "Tinlin届logia' was pablislted in 1668 , cliange riuging was definitely established. The author of that book, Fichard Duckworth, whose practical experience of rimgiug was at Oxford and in country villages, gives sonte direotions for bell langing. The wheel lee refers to is the ©hree-quarter wheel. Ho does not actually say so, but what be says would be seaningless if it referted to a. whole wheel. When Fabian Stedman wrote the 'Camparialogia' in 1677 he was able to mention some important improvements in beli langing, and chief among them was the introduction of the whole wheel.

This, again, was an inprovement, which was spread over a number of years and naturally occurred in places like London before it did In lie country viliages. The earliest date I know of is the Church of St. Ohristopher, Stocks, in the City of Londan, where the bells were hung with full wheels mm 1647 the chief jesult of this improvement was that it enabled changes to the rung ita hulf pulls instead of in whole pults as was generally the case wit] the threequarter whee Change ringing zequires that the bella shauld be rung up 知 a "setpult, 'hut with round ringing the bells need not be swung much more than frame high and for that the old half wheel was quite efficient.

Round ringing was tused in England as early as the fifteenth centary (Mr. Drake has dragged in call changes. I said nothing alout call changes and I believe they, were never at any time rung by round ringers. In Cornwall, for instance, to-day if they ars rung at all they are a comparatively modern innovation.)
If we want a conclusive proof that English bells were rung in orderly rounds, we shall find it in the fact that they were cast and tuned in the musical scale, Bometimes in the major scale, but more often in the minor scale. Ualess the belle were intended to be rung wish to d, wond have been useless to tuue them thus. I do no wish to dogmatise upon a matter on which complete informetion is wo a musical scale unless they are used in carillons.
Mr. Drake notwithatanding, when Shakespeare makes Ophelia compare Hamlet's disordered mind to 'sweet bells jangled he was using the word in exactiy the same sense that any ove of us would arse it now, and the simile is nood pootry and good sense and would have been underslood by any of the hearers.
I do not 'persig in coupling together ringers and candes because both are memtioned in some wills." I said thet the burning of mandles and the ringing of hells were two eustoms olserved at funerals and ohitg and that the objeet of both was similar. It was the people of I did time who coupled them together as I showed by quotations. All Iaid not way done with the sidea of bencfiting the dead in some way or other. Mr. Drake is probably right when he says ' we do not know what sort of ringing Bishop Grandison and Martin Bucer were fulminating against," if by "we ${ }^{1}$ he means himself. But if he means that I and other peaple do not know he is wrong. And if he thinks that Bucer's objections to ringing were similar to those "used to-dey hy people who dislize much ringing for services or for peals it in pretty evident that be does not know mucle about Martin Bucer or the controvergisl theological writers of the sixteenth centary.
Bucer objected to the ringing because in was superstifious as did many other people of the time. There is no suggestion that he saw (Continued in next column.)

DORCHFSTER BRANCH AT BERE RDGIS

The quarterly meeting of the Dorchester Branch of the Salishury Piocesan Guild was licld at Here Regis on August 26th, and, despite the crisis, which made the outlook far from promising, over 50 members and friends aitended. The bells were utilised from 3 p.nn.
The Rentor (the Rev. R. C. Herring) offioiated at the gervice and gave an address. He offered up spacial prayers for pace and stressent the hope God would spare then from the horrors of wer. He called attention to the fact that the treble bell of their peal was given by a church benefactor as a thanksiving for peace only 20 years ego, at the end of the Great War. The Rector offered the Guild a very warm wecome.
Following the service tite memburs and friends adjourned to the W.I. Institute, where they were kindly invited to tea by the Bere Regis band. Sulsequently a short meeting was held, presided over by the clairmun, the Rev A. W, Markby supported by the Master (the Rev. It. H. Gundry), the Rov. R. P. Farrow (vice-chairman), the Rev. R. O. Herring and the hon, secretary (Mr. C. E. Jemings), Miss S . Osmond (Dpwey) was eleched a ringing member and Mr. E. G Burt (St. Leonard's) an gssociate momber.

It was resolyed to hold two practices at Abbotsbury in September and Mniden Newtou in Ortober, hut both of these have since been caucelled.
A learty welcome was given to the viaitors, and a specia! vote of hanks accorded to the Bere Regis hand for their invitation and the kospitality oxbended to the Guild during the afternoon. The Rector was almo thanked for his kindness in taking the service and giving sucta an execllent address.
Ju reply, the Rev. R. C. Herring again welcomed the Guild and sain besides their ringing they were going to be conducted round the gardeas and culfivated watercress beds, which were the largest in Fingland and where all the local ringers were employed.

The Chairman referred with pleasure to the fine gathering, especially as they had met with the war clouts hanging over them. the majority of the members then visiled the gardens, while others relarfed to the tower for furtler practine. In lovely weather the tour of the grounds was greatly enjoyed. One item is worth mentioning. Tlie visitors were shown speciully cultivated apples of every description in one plantation which consisted of 35,000 trees. The rimging gardeners in particular were delighted. Thanks were given to Messre. Bedford for their great kindness

Riuging was continued until 8.10 p.m., when the bells were lowered, as it was thought, owing to the crisis, this was late enough to rine It is hoped and prayed that it may not be long before these hells and all the peals in the conntry will again riag out that inspiren peace message of Tennysons:-

anflhing amiss in beer and ale being carried to the ringers or in thoir drinking it in the helfry. His complaint was that it encouragen them to keep on with this superstitious ringing.

The fact that Mr. Drake has never seen beer brought inside a belfry proves nothing at all as to what happened in the sixteenth. seventeenth and eighteentli centurjes, empecially as wa bave the precise statement thet such was the custom made by a man who had mo partacular reasan for telling is lie ehout the matter. And, if the ringers jugs were not used for carrying beer, what dons Mr. Drake suppose thez wero used for? Keeping fowers in? There was no reason why they ghould not be used for heer. I have known country towers remote from tha willage, where the ringers brought their beer in a gallan jar and I fail to see that there is anything morally wrone about the act. I have myself with my own hands talien into s belfry the madera equivatemb of "bred and ale, to wit, sandwiches and" bottled beer. and would do so fagein if the particular circumstances which thent existed were to recur.

HOW TO BUIID UP TOUCHES.
In these days, when nobody quite knows what is going to happen, and where next we may have to he, there is a very natural terdency to do nothing, to let things slide, to wait and see. That means that most of us are put out of our usual routine, and we feel that there is only one thing which really matters to all of us, and that is to win the war as quickly as possible. Then we can think of getting back to our old habits.

It is, of course, right and proper and, up to a point, essential that we should think like this, but we shall find in a few weeks' time that it is necessary to think of other things besides the war. Otherwise we shall ail go 'scatty,' as we used to say in 1914. For this reason we strongly advise ringers not to drop their ringing. So long as it is possible to keep the church bells going, we ought to ring, partly for our own sakes and partly (don't forget this) for the sake of many people to whom the church bells bring a message of hope and comfort.

But if, which must happen in many cases, the actual ringing is stopped, we can still get a lot of interest out of the many problems which the art presents, and we can study with pencil and paper a good many things which will be very useful when peace comes.

For instance, there are heaps of things which a man can learn about conducting, and perhaps it may help if we give a lead.

When the beginner first tries his hand at conducting, he usually picks a set touch, learns what his bell is doing when he should call the bobs, and calls accordingly. For instance, if his band rings Grandsire Triples, he usually, as his first attempt, sings the seventh and calls himself into the hunt and out again at the next lead. Then, for his second touch, he will call himself Before and a bob the next lead.

Each of these touches will go three times and give 168 changes. They are excellent touches and very useful, but our young conductor will want something not quite so commonplace. Of course, he can find many touches in the text books, and his older and more experienced companions will be able to tell him of others. But he can get a lot of pleasure and interest by making up his touches himself as he is ringing.

To do that he must know one or two wrinkles. Now is the time to take pencil and paper and see how they work.

The first thing to remember is that if you call any number of bobs in any positions and continue to repeat the calling, the bells are sure to come round. If no Singles are called, the bells will come round by repeating the calling once, twice, or four times. The same thing will happen if two or an even number of Singles are called in the first part of the touch. But it an odd number of Singles are called, the touch will come round with one, three or five repetitions.

Now put this to the test. Take your pencil and paper and write out a touch, imagining you are in the tower and using the bell you are ringing as the observation belf. When you have finished the calling of your first part, and your own bell has come into its home position, you will get your part-end.

On paper, you can, of course, easily see what your part-end is, and when you are ringing you will be able, with practice, to see it, too. If you have called no Singles, and all the other bells except yourself are out of their home positions, the full touch will be a five-part touch. If two bells besides yourself are in their home positions, the touch will be a three-part touch. Study your figures carefully and see why this must be.

There is another and more interesting way of making up touches. We said that the simplest are the two in which the seventh is called into the hunt and out again; and Before with a double, that is, with a bob at the following lead. Now, both these touches keep the sixth and seventh together, and when the part-end turns up they are in their home positions. In the first the fifth is also at home at the part-end. In the other, the fourth is at home.

A third touch which lieeps the sixth and seventh together and brings them home at the part-ends, is the touch in which the seventh is called Before with a Single, that is, the lead in which it will make long thirds. There are two variations of this touch, one in which no aher calls are made except the Singles, the other in which the seventh is called at Home, that is, in $6-7$ up, as well as Before. And there is the touch in which the seventl is called Home only.

It is quite easy when you are ringing to make up touches by using combinations of courses called as above. You can mix them up as you please and, if you have anything like luck, the beils will come round somewhere about when you want them to. Here, again, experiment with pencil and paper and see what happens. You will notice that calling the seventh Before with a Single and Home, repeated once or twice, will almost always bring the fifth home. Also, that calling the seventh Before (with a bob) and a Double once or twice, will bring the fifth Home from any position unless it is coursing in front of the sixth. When you have got the fifth at home you can easily get the bells round by calling the seventh In and Out, or Home. But you must notice whether the bells are in or out of course, for if they are out of course you will need a Single.

All this may seem very crude stuff, but if the beginner will take the trouble to experiment in this way with pencil and paper, he will learn more about the art of calling short touches than he could learn by calling dozens of set touches by rote in the towe?.

RESTORATION OF HUNTSHAM BELLS.

DEVON RINGFRS MEET AT TROYTE'S FOMF.

The ring of eight at Huntsham, Devon, has been restored by Mesars, John Trylor ana Co., who have tuned the bells and relnugg them ins a new iron frame witl the latest type of flttings. The work was rededicated by the Bishop of Crediton at a special service on Friday, August 4th.
A special meeting of the North-East Branch of the Devonshire Guild wits held on August 26th to celebrate the restoratian. About 40 memihers attended, while visitors from West Somerset were present, and everyone was greatly pleased with the improvement effected.

The ringers present attended service, conducted by the Rector (ihe Rev. C. E. Lane), wlo, in a short address, described what had been done to the clock and beils and promised that more would be done in time. The Rector went on to say that he thought the work of the bellringers was usually overlpoked in comparison with that of the organigt and choir. He added that he lad been told that a cam panologist was one who left the chureh after ringing, whereas a bellringer would stay to the service.
A tea was provided at Huntrham Gourt the Rev. F. Carter, chairman of the branch, the Rector, Col. G. Acland, and Mr. Troyte, and the remainder of the members heing present.
Subrequently those not fetively employed in the tower, hy kind permission, visited the extensive gardens attached to Huntsham Court The methods rung during the afternoon were Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Triples, two fady ringers taking part.
The musical efect of the improved bells, says a visitor, is particu. larly noticeable on the higher ground above the church,
"FATHER" OF MODERN TERRITORIAL ORGANISATIONA.
Huntsham Court was the home of Colonel C. A. W. Troyte, who did a great deal for change riuging in the last quarter of the nineteenth century. He bad been attracted by the round ringing customary in Devon for a long time and was introduced to clange ringirg by John Faylor, the lell founder, who east a new treble for lini to incrase the ring at Huntshan from flve to six bells. He got five of the old ringers to join him and be recorded afterwards wish great satisfaction that after six months' hard work they were able to ring thei" first 'peal' of Grandsire Doubles.
His diffeulty, and that of many more who were in like case with him was that he did not know how to set ahout learning change ringing, and the experience he evenkunlly gained induced him to write a handbook on the subject, which bas proved of immense value to many lumareds of beginners, and to-day is still sold, several editions laving been fscued.

Colonel Troyte never hac any opportuaty of becoming an exper ringer as we should now understand the term, and the records of the "peais" rang at Huntaham, which liang on the walls of the lyelfry, refer to sucla things as Grandsire Doubles and Plain and Treble Bob Minor. For instance, on December 16th, 1871, a 720 of Kent Troble Rob wes rung, which the editor of 'Church Bells ' especially commended as a marlt of great progress in the art in Deron. Colone Troyte rang the tenor and called the bobs, and his brother, J. E. Troyte, rang the fourtl.

Colonel Troyte diat tale part in one performance which is of more than ordinary hiatoricgl interest, This was a peal of Grandsire Triples (Holt's Six-Part), rung at Appleton on Saturday, March 10th, 1877 by a band all of whom were university men. F. A. Mine rang the secord, G. H. Plillott the fifth F. E. Tolbinson (who condacted) rang the sixth and Troyte the seventh.

Troyte was a Cambridge man, his college being Trinity Hall. All the rest were Oxford men Colonal Troyte did another service to the Exercige by being one of the founders of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, of whicls he was the first president. This was the earliest of those territorial associstions, the establishmeat of which has done so much for the Exercise and the art of change ringing. Thus Colonel Troyte may be regarded as the "father of the modern ringing organisations.

CHARLES MDDLETON.

COMPOSER'S ANNIVTERSARY
Charles Middleton, the composer of the familier peal of Cambridge Surprise Major, died on September 14th, 1886, and was buried at Norwich Cemetery on the 20th. The obituary notice in the contempory Bell News states that he was horn et Margham in the year 1815 and commenced ringing in April, 1834, and on December 146h, 1837, be Fang 越 Maskham Church in a geal of seven different methods containing 720 changes in each of the following: London Surprise, Cambridgo Surprise, Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, Court Rol, Double Court Bob, Sterlman's Slow Conrse; and on Janvary 9th, 1838. He took part in a 5,440 of Oxford Treble Bob at Aylsham. In 1839 he left Marsham and came to reside in Norwich, and in January, 1843. he was elected a member of the Norwich Scholars and took part in ringing the following peals: 5.040 Stedman Triples, 5,120 Kent Trehle Eob Major, 5,600 Oxford Treble Bob Major, 7,126 Stedman Cinquen, 5,120 Oxiord Treble Bob Major, 5,120 Oxford Treble Bob Major, 5,040 Stedmen Triples, 5,440 Oxford Treble Bob Major, and his last pent was 5,001 of Sterman Caters at St. Peter's."
The fact that lie was the composer of the peal of Cambridge, which has piven him a place nmong the fow men who will alway be remem. bered by future generations, is not mentioned.

CHURCH BELLS IN WARTIME.  THEIR USE NOT INTERFERED WITH

Among the many Orders in Council, issued since the war began is one controlling noise. It bans the sounding of sirens, hooters, whistles, rattles, bells, horns, gongs or similar instruments, unless used for the purpose of airraid or gas warnings.

The Order, however, specially exempts church bells, and, although they are not mentioned in the Order, lamous putbic bells, such as Big Ben, will, it is understood, come under the same category as church bells.

Neither does the Order apply to the use of the various instruments mentioned by railwaymen on duty, ships' crews, Crown servants, policemen, special constables or firemen. It also exempts the normal use of motor horns and bicycle bells.

There is no reason, therefore, why church bells should not be rung for Sunday services, except in special cases where ringing might interfere with the hearing of airraid warning signals, or the watch kept by listening posts.

In Guildford, Surrey, for instance, hoth peals of bells, the eight at Holy Trinity Cathedral and the ten at S. Nicolas', have been silenced at the request of the Chief Constable, who is under the impression they might interfere with the sound of the sirens, or possibly give a false impression to some people. The ecclesiastical authorities have acceded to the Chief Constable's request.

This is the first time that church bells in Guildford have been silenced. Throughout the Great War, they summoned people to church services, but were not rung after sunset.

RINGING CAN BE RESUMED.

The ringing of churcls bells in London has practically ceased. This, of course, is not surprising, in view of the capital's liability to air attack. Even St. Paul's Catheciral bells are silenced-the first time, we believe, since they were pist up just over sixty years ago. Even during the last war they were rung for service on Sundays.

The exemption of church bells from the Order suppressing various noises makes it clear, however, that they may be used for service ringing, and indeed, for any normal purpose. With this official sanction, there is no reason why, subject to the exigencies of local conditions, the ringing of bells, which seems to have ceased with surprising suddenness on the declaration of war, can be resumed within reasonable limits.

Service ringing, especially, can be reinstated, and wherever possible this should be done. It should also be possible to hold meetings in some places, for, although it may not be in the interest of public safety to ring bells in the vulnerable areas, there are many districts where ringing assemblies should be possible, for, even if the hours of tower bellringing are necessarily curtailed, there are other means of usefully employing the time.

The demands of war service will, of course, deplete nearly all the towers, and those who are left will be faced with the task of filling the gaps, if ringing is to be maintained. It will not be easy, but it is one of the things that ought not to be neglected.
'The Ringing World ' hopes to be able to provide interesting material to help in the teaching of recruits. In the meantime, it is possible that many towers will be losing their regular conductors, and others will be called upon to step into the leader's shoes. This week we give the first of a series of articles, entilled 'With pencil and paper,' which we hope will encourage home study among young ringers.
The present conditions tend to make the publication of all newspapers more dificult. May we ask our readers to send us all the news possible, and send it at the earliest moment?

LOUGHBOROUGH'S EXAMPLE. To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-Your leading articie in the issure of "The Ringing World ' datead September 1st is very timely, and it may be of interest to some of your reanders to know that we inteud to carry on the regular ringing of the peal at Luugtlluorough Parish Chureb, especially as the Home Office approve the ringing of churclit bells. As suggested by our Rector, it is provable that the sound of churdi bolls all over the country will it is provable that the sound of churoh bolks ail over the country will be of greater vaiue now than in timee of peanee in cheering and uyFifting our people.

THE HALESWORTH LEGACY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-In reply to Mr. Black, the present position in that Mr. F. C. Lamhert says that he has evinence that the Walpole feast for the ringers dates back for oyer two lundred yenrs. That, moreover, rectain evidence was given to the Charity Commissioners (I expert atihe inquiry a hurdred years agol, which they accepted, tlant the field (now merged with others) was Walpole's legacy. Fe, thevefore, believes that his body of ringers has an unbroken existence since before Walpole's day.
Mr. Trollope believes that the legacy was antirely spent in one year. That tho body of ringers lias had a broten existence. And that some other legacy has acguired Walpole's name. These three statements are more or less likely, but cannot at present be proved. On the other hand. all may vitimntely be disproved. I think we may, so far, say that Halesworth Churcla has $n$ body of rimgers which luas undoubtedty the oldest history of any, and that this history probably proves that khey were in existruee in 1539.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

ST. SEPULCHRE'S, SNOW HILL.

Included in the greater work on belis and bell ringing, which Mr. ل. Armiger Trollope has complated, is the history of many of the peals of bells in London. The article which follows is the first of a series which Mr. Trollope is contributing to our columns, and which we are sure will be read with great interest.
The Church of St. Sepulchre in the Bailey was built in the carly part of the twelfth century, probably on the site of an earlier Saxon church, and was rebuilt in the early Perpendicular period. It had some connection with the priory of St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield, which owned the patronage, and when the priory was dissolved in 1537 its ring of six bells 'in a tune' were sold to St. Sepulchre's.

The inventory and " accompt of -_ Churchwardens of the psyche churche of Saynt Sepulchre w'out Newgate London from the ffeast of Saynt Myhill Tharchangell in the fyrst yere of the rayne of our Sovraigne lorde kynge Edward the Sixt by grace of god Kyng of England, france and lreland Defe of the faythe & of the Church of England & also of I[reland] in yearthe the supreme head unto the feaste of saynte m[ichael] Tharchayngell in the third yere of the rayne Sovereyn Lord kyng Edward the Syxte," states that there were 'In the steple of the saide churche " Item one greate bell callyd Baynarde Castell that servythe the clocke and syxe other belles in one ryng and one santes bell."'

These six were a beavy ring, and it was on thern that we have the first recorded ringing with the names of the performers. On the 28 th of November, 1631 , a band consisting of men, all of whom had held the office of General in the Society of Cheapside Scholiers, rang the beils. The treble was rung single-handed, two men were put to each of the second and third, four to each of the fourth and fifth, and five to the tenor. What was rung is not stated, but almost certainly it was raising, round ringing and ceasing in peal.

St. Sepulchre's was badly dannaged by the Great Fire of 1666 , but was not destroyed, and the parish set about the work of restoration with commendable promptitude. Some of the bells, but not all, had been melted, and on October 30 th the vestry ordered ' that Edward Webster, founder, of Whitecross Street, clear and cleanse the belf thetal melted in the fire, and upon delivery of the same to Mr. Carter so cleared Mr. Carter to pay him after the rate of 14 s . for every cwt. of bell metal.' Neither Webster nor Carter is known as a bell founder. Carter may have been a relative of the William Carter, who some years previously owned the Whitechapel foundiry.

The order was not carried out, and in the following December it was ordered and agreed by the vestry that the churchwardens ${ }^{\text {r }}$ do forthwith cause all pieces of broken metal to be taken up and weighed with the metal cleaned out of the dust and that they deliver the same to John Hodson of Bishopsgate Street London, carpenter, he giving his Bond to cast the same into three sound and tunale bells of such weight as shall be agreed on and to carry away the bell metal and deliver the bells at his own charge before Easter day next, the bells to weigh the full weight when cast and delivered as the bell metal shall contain which is to be delivered to him. And that in consideration hereof the churchwardens pay Mr. Hodson after the rate of $20 s$. for every cwt. the bells shall weigh to be paid him when the bells shall be hanged up and approved of for sound turable bells.'

In the following February the vestry took steps for the re-roofing of the steeple and for naking of floors, providing of wheels, and other necessaries for the rehanging of the bells against they be brought in from the belt founders; and on March 22nd, 1667, the churchwardens were directed ' to be very careful as to the weighing of the bells and for bringing them into the church.?

At the time not only had the parish the task of rebuilding the church on its hands, but also a great number of the parishioners had been ruined by the fire. That in those circumstances the vestry should have found the money to restore the bells, or even the time to think about them, shows how much they were valued.

Hodson's bells apparently did not agree very well with those that had been saved from the fire, and on March 2 ist, 167I, it was ordered 'that the Deputy Common Council and Churchwardens or any five of them treat with Hodson the bellfounder concerning the bells that are faulty and make some agreement with him as they shall think fit.

What was done does not appear, but shortly afterwards a Mr. Darby, a beil founder, was called in by the Vicar and apparently the ring was increased to eight. Darby was paid $£ 676$ s., and a Mr. Allen, a bell hanger, $£_{\mathrm{I} 2}$ I3s. 6 d . About the same time a Mr. Wyse was given an order 10 make a clock and chymes, the new barrel to be for eight bells.

Mr. Darby, the bell founder, was evidently John Durbie, of Ipswich, who in the same year cast a ring of six for the neighbouring Church of St. Vedast, Foster Lane, and not, as is usually supposed, the rather notorious Michael Darbie.

In 1675 two trebles were added to make a ring of ten, and towards the cost the turret at the top of the tower, which apparently was in a dangerous condition, was ordered to be taken down and the materials with the lead and a bell to be sold.

This bell was the successor of the mediæval saunce bell, which, as it many other churclues, had been hung in a lurret, so that it could be heard all over the parish.

Darbie's beils were not satisfactory. On August 5th, 1678 , the vestry ordered that he be paid no more money til! he hath made good the first bell." He recast one bell, and then the churchwarden was told ' to pay him what is due to him on the former account for casting the two least bells and also what metal he hath added to the bell last cast, and as for his recompense for new casting the said bell, the Vestry do suspend the same till the same bell be better approved.' In other words, the vestry did not see why they should pay him for putting right his own faulty work, especially as they were still not quite satisfied.

The ten bells at St. Sepulchre's were almost certainly the first on which Cater changes were rung. There were ten at St. Michael's, Cornhill, before the fire, but at that time Triples and Major had scarcely been thought of, let alone Caters and Royal. There were twelve at York Minster, and ringing was popular there, but there is no reason to suppose that the art of change ringing had been much developed or practised there. Lichfield Cathedral bells were recast into a ring of ten in 1671 , and Christ Clurch bells at Oxford were made ten two years after St. Sepulchre's. The Loyal Youths at Lichfield, so far as we know, did not do very much in the way of change ringing, and though Grandsire Caters was much practised at Oxford, that was not until the next generation.

In i680, the steeple of St. Sepulchre's was repaired, and in i685 James Bartlett, of Whitechapel, recast one of the bells, which seems, however, not to have been satisfactory, and the churchwardens were instructed to make an agreement for a new bell.

In 1695 , the tenor was cracked, and it was ordered by the vestry that ' notice be given to the noted bell casters in the City to bring in their proposals for recasting the bell,' The order was given to Thomas Covey 'upon his sealing such articles and giving such security as should be approved by the churchwardens."

The tower was now the principal change ringing centre in London. The College Youths met there, and, no doubt, also, the London Scholars. In 1684 , the former company rang what are said to have been the first touches of Grandsire Triples, and on January 7 th, 1689 , they are said to have rung the first peal ever accomplished. The account of this performance is contained in a statement made in writing in one of the society's peal books. It runs as follows: 'On Jan. 7 th, $1689-90$, the whole peal of Plain Bob Triples was rung out at St. Sepulchre's without Newgate London in 3 hours and 45 minutes (and the first trial) being the first 5,040 that ever was rung.

In another account in one of the society's books the peal is given as having been composed with two singles and conducted by Benjamin Annable.

This latter statement is certainly inaccurate, and that, and the early date of the performance, have led most writers to reject the whole account as spurious. It was not until 17 is that the peal of Grandsire Bob Tripies, which is generally recognised as the first peal, was rung at Norwich. No record of the 1689 performance was preserved by the Coilege Youths and, when Annable and his band rang their peal of Bob Triples at Southwark, they claimed it as the first in the method. In addition, no true peal of Bob Triples had been composed at so early a date.

It is, therefore, certainly very doubtful if any such peal was rung in 1689 -go. Nevertheless, it is not so unlikely as some people have thought. We have good reason for believing that one or two peals of Grandsire Triples were rung before 1700 , althougls the composition was false, and, although there had as yet been no true peal of Bob Triples composed, there was a composition which quite well may have been the one rung.

It was calted Restoration Triples, and was preserved by Annable in his note book. It is on a plan which was already obsolete when he wrote it down somewhere about 1730. The work is the same as Plain Bob Triples, but instead of the courses being put together by bobs and singles they are joined by a number of Extremes made at the course-ends only, and on the plan of the old Plain Changes.

The man who wrote the account in the College Youths' book got his information at second or third hand from a manuscript long since lost, which was written at Oxford in 1738 . How far that manuscript was accurate, and how far what it said has been altered and distorted by the nen who afterwards reproduced it, we cannot say. But there is at least the possibility that a peal was rung. (To be continued.)

MR. TOM GROOMBRIDGE RECOVERING.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMA FOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

SUNDAY RINGING.

There is, as might have been expected, a divergence of views as to 'carrying on ' with ringing in the prosent conditions. In many places even service ringing has been entirely dropped, chiefly; it would seem, because there is a feeling that the sound of the bells would be out of place in days like these; although there are some cases where the silence is observed for fear of impeding air raid warnings if they happened to come. Where this latter is the reason, the abandonment of ringing is naturally the only course to take, but there is, we think, a good case to be made out for keeping the bells going on normal occasions. Peal ringing, as we pointed out last week, can hardly be permitted, except for some outstanding reason, but service ringing, at any rate in hours of daylight, ought not to be dropped wherever a band can be raised to continue it.

The Somerset County Police have definitely stated that, from the public point of view, there is no objection to the ringing of church bells, and this only follows higher authority which specially excepted bells from the operation of the Order in Council controlling noises. The lighting restrictions are going to curtail church services after nightfall, and that, in itself, will govern the use of the bells for evening services; otherwise there is every justification for using them for their normal Sunday purpose. There are, we imagine, many places where their notes would be a welcome relief in the stress of the times; their cheering sounds would come as a solace to the sadness which is clouding men's lives. We can respect the sentiment of those clergy who feel that these are no times for the ringing of church bells, but we cannot agree that because we are faced with a great upheaval, which threatens all that we hold dear, we should necessarily don a mental garb making life a drabs and dreary existence.

There is a difference between idle frivolity and an effort to maintain a spirit of cheerfulness in the face of a grave national emergency. Part of the defence on the home front is the maintenance of the morale of the people, and to rob them of every form of entertainment or relief from anxiety would be one of the surest ways of undermining their spirits. White some, therefore, may think the ringing of church bells out of place, large numbers, we are convinced, will welcome their sound and, where the bells have been stopped, will regret their silence. But there is also the other side of the ques(Continued on page 594.)

tion. The drift from Sunday observance has long been a source of complaint among the clergy; the stress of war conditions may lead to a return, on the part of many, to a recognition of the higher things in life, and, surely, one of the best reminders is the call of the bells to all who hear to come and join in public worship in our churches. It is in this spirit that the bells should be rung to-day and, wherever they are remaining idle for fear of offending the susceptibilities of the public, we feel that the ringers raight well approach the clergy with these arguments, to get the ban removed. Neither the authorities nor the public want the ringing of bells, especially on Sundays, to be stopped.

HANDBELLS.

Ringers who are debarred by war conditions from exercising their activities in the towers can still find an outlet for their energies. Handbell ringing is not only a useful substitute for maintaining interest, but is a lascinating hobby for those who take it up, and we suggest that, wherever possible, ringers should get together and begin practice.

Except for the few outstanding performances, like those of the Bushey ringers, and those in North Lincolnshire, handbell peal ringing bands seem to have declined in recent years. When war overtook us in 1914 there were quite a number of places where handbell ringers were active, and, in consequence, there was, even under the limited opportunities of the stress of war time, a certain output of peals. A glance round the Exercise to-day reveals few companies who have been supplementing their tower bell ringing with handbell peais. This, in peace time, was a matter for regret, but present day conditions might well be used, by those ringers who are left to carry on, to find pleasure and recreation in handbell ringing. It is, of course, a fact that double-handed ringing requires a somewhat different rechnique to change finging on tower bells, but a little study and persistent practice will enable the average ringer to overcome the initial diffeulties and enter a new field that can be of absorbing interest.

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER.  WHAT COURSING ORDER MEANS.  Its Importance in Ringing.

Coursing Order is one of the most important things in change ringing and yet very few ringers ever stop and try to understand it and to see what it realiy is. This has been so from the beginning. It forced itself on the attention of early ringers, but they took it much as a matter of course, and it is not surprising that the definition in the ' Glossary' has just enough truth in it to be misleading. Let us spend a minute or two trying to understand the thing.

First of all write out a lead of Plain Bob Major and at the end, instead of making second's place, let the bells run round. We have now got what is called the Hunting Course, and the chicf feature of it is that all the bells plain hunt and do nothing else except plain hunt. Trace the paths of the treble and the second. You will see that the one follows the other at a regular interval, turning it from the lead and from behind, so that if a line is drawn along each of the two paths those two lines will be strictly parallel.

Just as the second follows the treble so does the fourth follow the second, the sixth the fourth, the eighth the sixth, the seventh the eighth, the fifth the seventh, the third the fifth, and the treble the third.

The paths of all these bells are parallel to each other and the order in which they follow each other is $1,2,4$, $6,8,7,5,3,1$. The order, you with notice, is cyclical, that is we can start with any bell we please and we shall get all the others in their due order and come back to where we started from.

This order is Coursing Order. It is actually what it says; it is the order in which the bells follow each other when hunting. But now we must point out and insist on a fact which is generally overlooked or ignored, which is that you cannot have a Coursing Order unless all the bell are hunting. Whenever you make a Place and some bells dodge while the others hunt, your Coursing Order is broken; and when they all resume hunting, the Coursing Order will be a different one from that which you had at first.

You need not stop now to test this by pencil and paper. For the present we want to get this point clear, that Coursing Order is the order in which bells follow each other when all of them are lounting.

Now write out the full course of Bob Major. It is only 112 rows, and if it takes you a few minutes it is worth the trouble; for the more pricking you do the easier it becomes. With a little practice you will soon be able to write even the most complex methods like London Surprise as fast as you can set the figures down.

At the first lead end of Plain Bob Major the third makes second's place and the other bells dodge. Let us see what happens.

The third had been coursing in front of the treble during the previous lead. It now makes second's place, leads again, and follows the treble up belind. Trace the paths of these two bells and you will see that they have changed places in Coursing Order. Meanwhile, the other bells by making a dodge have marked time. And so when, in the second lead, the hunting is resumed the Coursing Order is the same as it was in the first lead, except that the treble has changed places with the third.

The Coursing Order now is $87513^{2} 468$. The treble is after the fifth, instead of being after the third.

At the end of the second lead the fifth makes second's place over the treble, with the result that, instead of coursing in front of the treble, it hunts up behind it, the Coursing Order of the third lead being 871532468.

Second's place at the third lead end will put the seventh behind the treble. Second's place at the fourth lead end will put the eighth behiad the treble. And the other three lead ends will put successively the sixth, fourth and second behind the treble, which brings us back to the order from which we started.

We will now write down the Coursing Orders of the successive leads, and we will do it in two different ways; the difference being merely that in one we will start each with the treble, while in the other we will keep the working bells under each other as much as possible; but don't forget that all the orders must be read cyclically and that both tables are really the same.

Now notice that, all through, the seven working bells have not altered their Coursing Order relatively to each other, but that the treble has made a cyclical path through them from between the thitd and second round to the same position again.

The fact that the treble moves in this way by a connected patla through the Coursing Order of the other bells has given it the name of the Hunt. The title comes down from the very beginnings of the art of change ringing and is applied to any bell which performs a similar function.

TOURING IN THE WEST.

THE B.U.R.G. EXCURSIONS. Events of an interesting Week.

Due, we are told, to a variety of causes, meluding the crisis and the outbreak of war, the folloving, account of the enjoyable week of excurrions in four or five counties in the West hats ouly just reached us. Nevertheless, it forms an interesting vecord of a very happy loolidey, in which' some thiity or noore Fingers took part.
The ringing week took placg in mid-August and was the third organised dy the Bristol United Ringing Guilds. It proved an even greater success than thiose of 1932 , and 1935, if luat is possible-at yny rete, some of the old stages, were heard referring to it as the "best ever.' It drew togethicr ringers from places as for distant as Whitley Bay in Northumberland and Crawley, Sussex, and from Port Taibot in Glamorganstive to Sible Hedinglami in Fssex, while the Midiands were well represented.
The tourists, who arrived iu Bristol on Saturday, August 18th, were able to meet at St. Mary Redclifte in the erening, and with the assistance of nemmbers of the Brisiol United Guilds, enjoyed ringing upon the grand twelve, with its tenor of 52 cwt . 'st. Luke's, Bedminster, with a riug of six, was also visited.
Th 2 visitors had a cloice of about twelve towers for service ringing on Sunday moruing. In the atternoon they were invited by the committee of the B.U.R.G. to take part in a mystery tour. They assembled at the customary gathering place-St. Stepben' 8 Church-at 3 p.mi, where Mr. E. Guise met and welcomed the party, aud where a happy reurion took place between those who had enjoyed the previous tours; here, too, they made new aequaintarites. The 'old 'uus' wers glad, too, to' welcome ' Freddy 'Hlito cheery driver on the previous tours-who was proud to disping thee giories of the latest new coach provided for the party's daily travels.
Climbing aboard, we soon found ourselves passing through the famous Avon Gorge, beneaih the Suspension Bridge at Clifton, and then, via the new low-level road known as Portway, to Avonmotuth, where we saw Bristol's docks. Severn Beach, Bristol's riverside resort, was next reached, and at Aust a halt was made for teas; after which we proceeded to olveston. Here the Vicar met us, and we rang for evensoug on the eight bells, with a tenor of 18 zl cwt. We aititended eyensong, and the Yicar in the course of his sermon referred to our visit and extended $i$ lieanty welcome to us, After the service an visit and extended ${ }^{\text {a }}$ hirartig welcome to interesting run brought us back to Bristol.

IN THE COTSWOLD COUNTRY

Monday's tour took us through some glorious Citswold country, and Gloucestershire was looking at its best. At ibe commencement of the journey each momber of the party was presented with a most useful nud interesting ' Preview ' br M. J. G., and this added much to the interest of the tourists. Travelling wia Wiaterbourne end North Nibley, the birtiphaco of William TYyadale, we arrive at Stonelouse where we rang touches on the gix belle at the Church of St. Cyy. The 17 cwt. tenor here was cast by Rudhall, and the bells date from 1636. Quedgeley was next visited, End yarious toucles of iriples and Major were rung on the hardy eight with a tenor of ring on the bells of Gloucester Cathedral had heen obtiained, and this privilege was reatiy appreciated. After a long dimb, we reached the spacious ringing chanber, and found that the boils, a good eight, tenor 21 cyt... liad been suplilied with e new set of ropes for our benefit! The lvells were soon set going in various methods, znd we appreciated the action of the Canon, who climbed the tower to not confined to one sex. A basty glance inside the Cathedral had to suffice, for we were already belind with our programme ani soon we were speeding on to Nortion, where some quick touches were suan on the peal of eight, tenor 12 cwt., at St. Mary Priors.
Tewkesbury, with its famous Norman Abbey and numerous historical associations, wras our next stopping, place, but not for ringing., Lunch had been arranged heree, and, having disposed of it, we left Tewkeshury and crossed the border into Worcestershire England's fruit garden apparently. Luscious fruit was frequently displayed for sele by the roadside, but Freddy hurried on with an unseeing eye!

PERSHORE'S DIZZY bFLL CAGE.

The Malvern Hills formed a grand pariorama as we journeyed on to Pershore, where we enjoyed the experience of ringing in the Eamous hell cage, situated at a great heifht in the tower, and more than one person seemed glad to climh down again. Also-whisper it-one inger didn't even get up there! Did he lose the way, I wonder P When all who wished to do so had rung, andi the camera fiends had done their bit, a move was made to the bell tower at Evesham, shere we enjoyed ringing on the fine ten-tencor 31 cowt. The River A.on attracted some of the party, while tee end ices claimed the attention of others, Then on to Charlton Kings, to try the peal of cight, dating from 1630 . The last call of the evening was at Ched morth, a charmingly situated Cotswold village, famous for its Roman villa. The Norman Church of St. Andrew contains a chsiined Genevan Bible, and lise a ring of six bells, tenor 11 cyt. The hameward route took us through the delightfiri old town of Cirencester, and, when Bristol was reached, the total distancee covered was approximately 140 miles.
Tuesday found us touring chiefty through witsthire. The first call was at Bitton, which posserses e perticularly Are perpendieular tower and a grand ring of eight, tenor 14 cwt . Some excellent touches were rung here, and we were loath to leave these fine bells, but time waits for no man, so we sped on through the great Roman city of Bath, with a glimpse of its beautiful Abbey, and reached our next objective -Beckington, an interesting church with equints in the sanctuary and south aisle, a fine Early English octagonal font, and a ring of eight bells, tenor 18 ewt. Warminster wes soon reached, and ringing hite fine peal of eight, fenor 28 cwt., was much enjoyed, atter which wa did full justice to dinner.
The journey was then continued to Amesbury, stopping en route to view Stonehenge, After ringing on the heavy six at SS. Wary and Melorus, Ameshury, which boasts a monestic foundation, we travelled via Tidworth, with its extersive barracks and rifle ranges baid lyy one tourist to be known as 'Very Nearly,' because it was 'all butts 'to St. Mary's, Collingbourne Kingston, which also possceses it ring of six. A rum of half au hour brought us to Pewsey, anailer six-bell tower, and then we cet out for the last tower of the day, At one point Freddy, not quite sure of his route, leaned out and asked y voungster the way to Urchfont, but judging from his look of bewildermeat, the lad had never heard of such a place. However, one of the touristg eame into the "lunt ' at that point, and asked the boy if he could tell us the way to 'Urshunt'; the yokel's face lighted up with cheery inteligence as he promptly directed us or our way At Urchfont we enjoyed several touches on the eirht bells, and, after a short sta, y at Derizes for refreshments, reached headouartere once more after an enjoyable run of about 115 miles

We were enrly on the road on Wednesday, with a long day before us, during which we enjoyed to the full the beauties of Smiling Somerset. Passing through Pensford and Wells, with a passing glimpse of the west front of its glorious Cathedral, and on to Glastntabury, with ith ruins, we orossed Sedgemoor and eventually reached Curry Rivel, where we found a very fine peal of eight, tenor 198 cwit. Some good touches were brought round on these bells, and the visitors found an interesting monament on which the large family of a decensed couple was carved, including 'quins' in bed, complete with homnets and frills.
Going on through Taunton, with its fine towers, we arrived at Milverton, situated atiractively at the westem ond of Vale of Taunton, with a charming background of hills. It possesses a fine church coll taining some beautiful bench ends and choir stalls of early 16th century work, and a Norman font. Ringing on the peal of eight was followed by dinner. A short run then brought us to Wiveliscombe and soon the excellent ring of eight were responding gaily to various methods. A backward glance as we climbed out of the valley revealer the attraction of the position of this little town, nestling, as it does, among the bills on the banks of the River Tone

ZUMMERZET TENORS AND ZIDER.

At Banpton, our next call, we found ourselves in Devon, and rang on the six bells, cast by Bilbic. It is said that, if yous come at flie right time, you can buy en Exmoor pony for lalf-a-crown. Dulverton on the River Barle, a short run from Bampton, is a typical moorland town, and the fine ring of eight at All Saints' Church was well used by the tourists. It was here that history was made for one lady ringer of the party, for she raug her first courge of Grandsire Triples. Back on the main road, we traversed part of the charming Exe Valley and climbed up to Whaddon Cross, with the Brendou Hills on our right, and Dunhery Beacon-1,707ft, the highest point of Exmoor-on our left. Passing through Dumster, with jts picturesque yam-market, wo reached Minehead, a charming little seaside resort, in time for tes. North Hill, 800 ft , hieh on which the old willage is situated, forms onte of Minehead's chief attractions, and commands fine views of the coast and moorland. Leaving Minehead, we trevelled on to Bridgwater, where we found an excellent ring of eight with a tenor of 273 cwt., and the ringing bere wis much enjoyed. The beautiful carved onk pulpit and the Jacobean screen are some of tile chief glorieg of this church. We saw the strong tide flowing un the fiver Parrett, which is noted for its bore twice daily. The general topics for discussion among the gentlemen during the day seemed to be the weights of the various tenors and the flavour of the ' Zant merzet Zider.' On returning to Bristol, we had travelled about 253 miles.
Thursday's journey took us into Wiltshire once more. Travelling through Mangotsfield and Pucklechurch, we found the elusive church at Dyrham, after a prolonged search, and various methods were rung on the six bells there. Passing on through Chippenham and Wootton Bassett, we came to St. Mary's Church, Purton, an interesting cruciform building, possessing a western tower and a central spire. Some good ringing was enjoyed on the liendy ring of six. Leaving Crichlade and Marston Meysey behind us, we reached Fairford, Saxon bown situated on the सiver Coln, and important onolugh to be mentioned in Donegday Book. Ringing took place on the fone rimb of eight in the beautiful Charch of St. Mary, famed for its magnificent ald stained glass windows. They are gaid to be the largest number and the finest spocimens of sixteenth century glasswotk now existing in Fingland. The "Doom Window" at the west ond is particulnyly interesting. The chancel contains some finely carved mikerere seats. After doing full justice to the excellent lunch provided at the White Hart Hotel, wo joismeved on through Lechlade to Highworth, where the Vicar gave us a kindly welcome, and where geveral touches were rung on the eight bells, tenor $17 \frac{1}{2}$ cwi. Ar interesting Norman tympanum is to be seen at this church. Orir route afterwards lay (Continued in next column.)

MEMORIAL SERVICE POSTPONED.

The special memorial service that it was proposed to hood at Barnsley on Saturday, September Sth, in memory of the Inte Mr C. D. Potter, president of the Barnsley and District Society, was postponed on account of the outbreak of war, but the decision was Laken too late for notice to be inserted in "The Ringing World.' The service was postponed on the advice of the Rector of Barmsley (Cavon W. E. Wikinson), as he thought it would oause umnesessary travel when it ought to be svoided.
It is hoped to arragege the memorial service as soon as possible. It is also hoped, if circumstances allow, to hold the next meoting at Monk Bretton on Saturday, October 7th, and to arrange tower-bell ringing until dark and afterwards to lold the tea and business meeting, following which laandbells will be availalle.

TAUNTON RINGERS VISIT BRISTOL.

The ringers at St. James", Taunton, and friends paid a visit to Bristal and adjoining district on August z6th for an outing. The towers visited were Long Ashton, Knowle, SS. Philip and Jacob's and St. James'. Bristol. Aiter first ringing at the two towers mentioned. the party gat down to an excellent meat tea. The riaging comprised ronnds, Grandsire und Stedman Triples, Grandsire and Stodmant Caterg, Plain Boh, Dnuble Norwich and Cambridge Surprise Major. The ringing was in some cases good, in others about the aversge for mixed hands. Thanks are due to Mr. W. G. Gigg for the excellent frrnigements made for the outing and to Mr. W. A. Gave for his assigimace at the Bristol end; also to all the incumbentas and those in charge at the various churchen for meeting the party and their kindly hefp. A start whs made for hame about 8.30, stopping at Huntsficld for a light supper.

TOURING IN THE WEST.

throagh 5 windon, Broad Hinton and Avehury, where we saw the site of the largest Druidical remains in England. The beatsiful chutch at Calne was next reached, and touches were enjoped on the ring of eight. Near Calne, the Gherhil] White Horse, perhaps the oldest in Fingland, is to ba seen. A sloort ran brought us to Melksham, where, after ringing on the good octave, we endeavoured to obtain ten, and onty succeeded in doing so after herculean efforts helind the scenes by Miss Thompron. Bathford was the last tower on the list for the day, and here we found a pice little ring of six after a steop climah. A pause for refresluments and ofriendly clant in the twilight, end then a quink run into Bristiol, with seven more towers, and 107 more miles in the 'hag.'

OPEN BELLS APTER FUNERAL.

GUILDFORD GUILD LOSES LIFE WFMBFR.
In eccordance with her wishes, the bells of St. Michael's Church, Yorktown, Surrey, were rung open after the funeral of Miss Rose Geraldine Middleton, who died at the age of 75 yemrs. Sle was the elder daughter of the lato Rev. F. M. Middleton, u former Vicar of Camberley, of which parish Forklown forms a part.
Fow Cemberley residents can have been more loved or respected than Miss Middleton. A groat churohworker, ghe had devoced the many yoars of ber long residence in the town in furthering the cause of the churcli, particularly is the parishes of St. Mifleee's and St. George's, and lier generosity fowards all good oausps was well known. She was held in high easteem by all sections of tite community.
Miss Middleton took grent interest in the beils and ringere, as in cvery pllier department of charch life in Camberley, where the gonerosity of her father had provided the tower aud epive of Yorktown Church, whila he also huilt and presented St. George"s Clurrh to the parish
Miss Middleton was a life member of the old Winchester Diocesan Guild, and when the Guildford Diocessifi Guild was formed at the end of 1927 she hecame one of tits fltst life mernbers.
The Guildford Guild mond the local ringers were represented at the funeral hy Mr. F.J. Ewens, and a wreatis was cent in the name of the Farnliem District.

PASTON'S NEW BELL DEDICATED.

On Salurday, September 2nd, the new troble bell and electric clock recently inslailed by Messrs. Gillett, and Johnston, of Croydan, at the Chureh of St. Margaret, Pastion, Norfolk, were dedicated by the Res. J. Fr. Williams, Tector of South Walelean.

The hell, which completes a ring of six, and the clock were a gift to the charch by the late Dr. Noel Dean Bardiswell.
Very few ringers attended the ceremony, as, owiag to the crisis in the fnternational situation, all ringing aitier the fedication was cencelled

Herr Hitler is a nuisance and has oansed a considerable amount of nconvenience to quite a lot of people. If it had not been for him before this hoth Mr. Tom Coles and Mr. Jim Beanett would have rung their thousandth peal, and, as they hoped, together. Now Mr. dint Bennett, altered into Sergeant-Major James Benneft, of the Royal Marines, is attending to other things.
Also with ordinary luck Mr. Ernest Turner would have completed a rather unusual feat by caling within the year a peal on all mumbers of beils from five to fwelve. He needed only a peal of Caters to complets the list and that shosld heve been rung on the Yorkshire tour. Earlier in the year Mr. J. S. Goidanaith had rung a peal on all numbers in less than sir months, In neitber case was there any deliberate attempt zaade to perform the feat.
The number of men who have called a peal on all numbers must be a amall one. Neither the late willidm Pye nor, if we recoliect. aright, James W. Woshbrook is included. Mr. C. T. Coles has com pleted the series and Mr. C. E. Borrett and a few others. The fact is, of course, that the men who have the opportunity of calling peals an ten and twelve bells seldom care to stare for peals on fove. Erneat Turner's list contains tiwo peala of Grandsire Doubles, one minhadbells and one in the tower. In one there was not a single six-score rung. In the other there were 42 all called differently.
Mr. Malcolm C. C. Melville, formerly han. secretary of the Warwickshire Guild, is to be ordaiced deacon by the Bishop of Bristol at Bristol Cathedral, on Sunday morning, to serve is the perish of SE, Paul, Swindon.
Mr. Melville thas been active in teaching ringing to the shuderth at: Liehfield College during his resitence there. His now andress will be Highcliffe, 81, Connty Road, Swrindon.
Last Sunday (SEeptember 17th) wns the tercentenery of the death of Joseph Hatch, of Uloombe, who cast many bells in Kent during the early years of the seventeenth centary. His best mnown hell is the Bell Harry, which langs on the top of the central tower of Canterfury Cathedral and is used as the serfice bell. It is dated 1635 and in the same year he restored the rigging peal gupplying tioree new bells. One of his earljest bells, the fifth to this ring of six, was cast in 1606 . The whole ring was recast in 1727 by Siamuel Knight. and augmented to the full octave.
Service ringing lan not been stopped at Kiagston-on-Tluames, and the local company will be glad to welcome any ringer at 10 a.b. on Sundays.

FALSE PEALS.

YORFSHIRE DISCOVERIES.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir,-I have recently been checking some of the old composifions rung by the Yorkshire Association and regret to say thai I have found a furtber two that are false. I ask all those who have copies of our reports to make a note of them.
The first, it very old one, is & four-part peal of Bob Major, 5,440 changes, composed by Thomas Weat. This was rung at Otley on Aug. $12 t h, 1882$ (No. 205 of the association's performances) and was conducted by the onnponer. Jasper Snowdon took part in this peal and, especially as lie compiled all the association's reports during his presidency, it is remarkable that he overlooked the composition, as it is hopetessly filse. This goes to prove, once more, how easily a false composition can pass serutiny no metter how capable the serutincer may be.
The other false peal is a 5,040 of Double Norwich by J. H. Blakiston and is in three parts, with an additional opening block of three courses This, also, was rung at Otley on April 14th, 1923 (No. 2,852 of the association's performances). Parts of the 2nd and 3rd courses repest in the 13 th and 1 名th courses of the peal. Two variations of the same composition by the same composer, one a 5,008 , the other a 5,040 , which have been rung by the association, are true
As far as I can sey at the moment, there have bsen 18 falge peris, including one of Minor, rung by the Yorkehire Assomation out, of a total of 4,252.
W. BAETON, Peal Secretary.

TWILVE-BELL RINGING.

To the Editor.
Sir,-I was very surprised to read in the September 8ih issue Mr. Rohert Deck's lefter questioning the advisability of twelve-tell rings and comparing their wusic unfarourably with that of the octave.
To me the roll of a heary or medium twelve-bell peal is inspiring and magnificent. When in Londnn over the Sundey I always go to hear Taylor's fine set at St. Paul's on Sunday morning. The striking is nearly always very goon and the music magnificent. I have heard nearly all the twelve-bell peals one time or another well and evenly struck, but perbaps I have been lucky.
Our own Parish Cherch of St. Martin, Birmingham, bas a long and distinguished record for twelve-bell ringing, and bad striking hes nover been tolerated Change ringing on twelve bells is, of course, more diffenlt than on eight, and admite of no slip shod work, while the fact that most ringers aspire to the accomplishment of a pesl on the larger number of bells is, I think, conclusive,

CHURCH BLLLS IN WAR TIME. RINGERS' DUTY.  To the Editor.

Sir,-The advice given in your columns on the question of ringing during the war is sound and well timed. The duty alike of ringers and church authorities is to carry on with concentrated energy and even increased regularity.

Whether in days of peace and plenty, or in time of war, pestilence or famine, Sunday is still the Lord's Day and maintains its claim to be honoured with the pealing of the bells. Amid the turmoil and upheaval of strife and tumult the eternal verities commemorated on the great Christian Festivals still stand unchanged, and call for due celebration with the Church's instruments of sacred music. Whatever trials our country may endure, the blessings bestowed upon our Throne and nation will give occasion for joy and thankfulness, and it is the time-honoured privilege of ringers to give public expression to those feelings with the 'voice of melody.
Nor should ringers' practices be entirely suspended, any more than those of organist and choir: only in the use of tower bells for this purpose there is obvious reason for exercising discretion with due regard to immediate circumstances.
One of the wisest sayings uttered during the last war was that "organised depression is not going to win the war." Amid the unknown trials and troubles of the days now upon us it is the high and sacred privilege of all those responsible for the use of our church bells boldly to proclaim the message of Purcell's famous Bell Anthem: ' Rejoice in the Lord alway.
F. LI, EDWARDS.

SOMERSET POLICE SANCTION RINGING.

Dear Sir ,-On behalf of the company of ringers to which I am attached, I visited the Somerset Police Headquarters, which are here in Taunton. I was informed that we could carry on as usual for Sunday service ringing. Seeing that it is dark now fairly early, they advised no practice, as some of the church bells in outlying districts had to be used as an air raid warning.

Great care has got to be taken that towers have no light showing from outside.

I have permission from an incumbent to attempt a peal, provided it is over before dark. The request for permission was made before war broke out.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

The Lancashire Association will hoid their annual meeting at Blackpool, as arranged, on Saturday, Sept. 3oth. The various towers will be open during the afternoon for ringing, which will cease at 4 p.m. Service and tea and meeting will follow. Four names are to be submitted for the vice-presidency, and a motion is to be proposed that, in future, each branch of the association be allowed to elect one member for the Central Counci] in rotation.

It has been decided to abandon the Jasper Whitfield Snowdon Commemoration Dinner this year. It was to have been held at York on October 14th.

So far, no restrictions have been placed on the Sunday service ringing at St. Martin's-in-the-Fielòs, Trafalgar Square, and the bells are being rung on Sunday mornings as usual.

We are informed that our surmise that the joint meeting of the College and Cumberland Youths at Croydon might have to be abandoned is correct. Perhaps, when the war is over, plans may again be laid for this event to take place.
At Aldershot Parish Church practices are being continued on Fridays from 7.30 to 9 p.m., and there is ringing for service on Sundays at $9.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. and $6 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. Any ringers on military service in the area will be welcomed.
While ringing has had to be suspended for the time being at Enfield (Middlesex) Parish Church, it is hoped to get the bells rung again soon, at least every Sunday morning.
The dedication of the bells at Marchington, Staffs, has been postponed.

CAKRYING ON AT BROMLEY.

Sir,-Our leader, Mr. Emery, suggests that II write you to say that we at the Parish Church, Bromley, are doing everything possible to keep the ringing fraternity together during these times, and we ask if you will say through the columns of the 'Ringing World' how glad we shall be to welcome any ringers on Sunday mornings. We ring from io until in, and shall make any visiting ringers to our district very welcome and see that they will 'have a puil.' P. SPICE (Secretary).

FAREWELL TO MR. L. STILWELL.  DEPARTURE FROM WINDSOR.

On Sunday evening, September 10ti, Berks and Buoks 'boys gathered in force at St. Mary's tower, Slough, and shared in the gervice ringing to give Mr. Leonard Stilwell, of Windeor, a send-off. After 33 耳ears residencs in a corner of the Diocese of Oxiord, Mr. Stalwell is retraraing to his ative sussex to wake up new business.
Some 18 ringers were present and joined in the tonches of Grandsire, Stedman and Double Norwich, conducted by Messrs, Bateman, Stilwell and Barker respectively. Amongst thoge who offered good wishes over the farewell handzhake were half a dozen of the old 1914 'war horses' and a team of coptagenarians. Beritrhire's logs is a Sugsex gein, as Mr. Stilwell is ceasing to pull the belle of the borough of Windsor, sad will turu his attention to those of Pulborough.
Mr. Stilwell will be much missed in the Windsor district, whers he hat been 8 tawer of strengtis to ringing. He was ore of the enterprising band that in the last few years rang quite a number of new Surprise methods in that cormer of the country where Berks, Bucks, Middleses and Surrey meet.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

By J. Armiger Trollope.

It 1699 the ninth bell at St. Sepulchre's was cracked. It is possible that the parish was slow to put the matter right, and so the College Youths, rather than go without their Grandsire Caters, decided to do it themselves. Anyhow, after consulting the churchwardens, Richard Castleman, Peter Bradshaw, and Elisha Mason appeared before the vestry and offered to take down the bell, recast it, and bring it home and set it up again in six weeks' time, all at their own charges.
Castleman and Mason were that year the stewards and Bradshaw one of the leading members of the society. The vestry accepted the offer and referred it to the churchwardens ' to see the bell taken down and delivered to the said persons weighing the same out and in ; they, the said churchwardens, then taking security from the said persons for the performance of the matter proposed, and that they be obliged to return the said bell of the same weight and goodness and metal as it now is or better. If any of its weight should be wanting they should pay to the churchwardens the value thereof and take care they do no damage to the other bells.'

To-day, if a man offered to restore the bells or other churcb property at his own expense, it would seem a rather offhanded and discourteous thing to ask bim to give security, but in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries it was the custom. The churcb and its fittings were the property of the parish; the churchwardens were the trustees, they could be held personally responsible for anything that might happen, and might find themseives involved in financial liability should anything go wrong. There was no pretence on the part of the College Youths that their act was to benefit the parish. They wanted the bell so that they could ring Grandsire Caters.

In 1701, Elisha Mason, again, we may suppose, acting for the College Youths, saw to the recasting of the second, but this time the parish paid 6533 . 6 d . for the job.

Ahout this time the steeple had got into a bad state of repair, and the vintner of the Castle Tavern hard by complained that stones were falling from it and had damaged his house. In 1705 a committee was formed to raise money and have the necessary repairs completed.

In 1712 the seventh was recast and the whole ring overhauled and rehung. Whether the great bell called Baynard Castle, 'that servyth the clocke,' had escaped the fire is not clear, but it seems probable, and it or its successor was still hanging ' by itself in the !oft next the ringing loft,' that is in the chamber between the belfry and the ring of ten. It was now taken down and sold, and the proceeds devoted to the repair of the bells and the church. Richard Helps cast the new seventh at a charge of $£_{22}$ 1os., and was also paid $£ 30$ for rehanging the ring.

Apart from the doubtful peal of 1689 , only one five thousand is known to have been rung on the old belis. This was Grandsire Caters by the College Youths in 1731. It was conducted by Annable, and the peal book claims it as the first that was rung in that steeple, which may mean the first peal of Grandsire Caters or the first peal of any sort. Probably the latter is meant.

On March roth, ${ }^{1739}$, the vestry passed a resolution that ' all the old bells (except the old treble) being nine bells in number should be taken down out of the steeple and new cast and also that a new bell be cast to make up the said nine bells to ten bells to he rung together in deal."

ST. SEPULCHRE'S CHURCH IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.
[By find permission of the Trastees of the British Maxemm.

The new ring was cast by Samuel Knight and, as the inscription on the ninth tells us, was bung by Robert Catlin. The treble was recast by Thomas Mears in 1807 , the sixth and seventh and tenor in 1830 . The rest of Knight's bells are still in the tower. They are a very fine ring, one of the best of the old style, and, in my opinion, able to hold their own with any of the moderns.

The first peal on Knight's bells was 5,200 changes of Oxford Treble Bob Royal by the Eastern Scholars, rung on April $7^{\text {th }}, 174$ r, the first ever accomplished in the method. Little more than a month later the College Youths rang 5,000 changes in the same method. Both societies erected boards to commemorate their performances, and on the College Youths' panel is the couptet:-

When merits justif due a little praisa thes serveth
A good peal needs no frame, a bad one none deserveth.
This led to a tradition that the other performance was faise, either in the composition or in the ringing, but there seems to be no real justification for such an opinion. It was no unusual thing to put a motto on a peal board, and the sentiment of this one is pretty trite and commonplace.

In this same year the College Youths rang the first touches of London Court Royal, but apparently they did not think enough of the method to ring a peal. That was left for James Barhan and his band at Leeds in Kent.
Another interesting performance on these bells was 5,040 changes of Eastern Bob Royal by the Eastern Scholars on Felruary 19th, 1750 , the only peal ever rung in the method. Except that it is not symmetrical, the method is a good one, and belongs to the same class as Double Norwich Court Bob Royal.
The only length on the bells of over six thousand thanges was 6,390 Grandsire Caters by the College Youths in ${ }^{1752}$. This was one of the two peals conducted by John Holt when he was with that society.
Fifty years ago the board recording the Eastern Scholars; peal of Treble Bob was still in the belfry, though in a dilapidated condition. To-day the College Youths' board is the only one remaining, but in the base of the tower there is a board recording 5,111 changes of (irandsife Caters rung in 1793 by the Junior Society of Cumberland Youths, and three ninetcenth-century boards hung so high on the walls that they cannot be read. Two record peals by the St. James's Society- 5,055 Stedman Caters on January 25 th, 1857 , the first in the method on the leells, atul 5,000 Kent Treble Bob Royal on Novemher 6th, :869-and one by the Cuniberland Youths, 5,001 Stedman Caters in $\mathbf{3 8 8 0}$. There is also a more recent tatilet for a peal in the same method by the Middlesex Association.

RINGERS TAKING HOLY ORDERS.

Fino the Editor.
Dear : sir, -Many riugers will be izterested in the artooucentent that IWo of their fellows are to be made deacons at Bristol Cathedrit on sunday next at 10.30 n.m. Thier are Kemelh Coesr Bavis, of St. Ronifiace College, Warriusiter, Wilts, and Maicolin Charies Crompton Melville, of Lielheld College, Staffs, and it is a lappy coincidence that they are to be admitted to Holy Orders tugether.
Malcoin Melvile is a popular and well known member of the Exercise, and wes for a wlile seeretary of the Warwick Guila. His inture centre is to be Swindon, Wilts, where be is to serve iu St . Panl's zarish.
Kennelh Davis, although perhups less well known, is very papular with all who know him, and lo has done a lot to stir up interest round his liome area at Blaydon, Somerset, as well as round Warminster. #is future work will be in Bristol, where he is to serve in the prishl of All Hallows, Easton.
Roth were participauts in the ten days' tour recently organised by Htre National Union of Tower Snatchers. and it is confidenty anticipatod that they will continue their interest in ringing, although probably in a somewina nore seftate maniner.
It is felt that many ringers will probahly like to remember them in their prayers, when, ait this lime, they ure setting nut on theer strat Lask.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

SUCCESSFUL MEETJNG UNDER WAR CONDITIONS

The manting of the Faraliam District of the Guildford Diovesan Guild, held at Frensham on Saturday, proved to be a very successial and happy one, in spite of many misgivings on the part of the organisers about the effects the international situation might have oll the function. The local ringers, who aro very keen and enthusiastic supporters of the Guild, luad made preparations to receive the visiting ringers, end the ringing conmeuced soon after 3 p.m., Bob Minar, Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge Surprise, Double Oxford aud Grundsire, Siedman and Bob Doubles being run.
The Vicar of Frensham (the Rev. L. G. Allens) couducted fhe Guild's special form of service and gave an address. Mr. John Clsuler, it the organ, deputised for Mr. T. A. Stroud and acconpanied the hymos, "In town and ix village our clurch bells to-day" and. The sacred bells of England.' The 150th Psalm and the Nune Dinsittis were chanted.
In his address the Vicar quoted a werge of one of Browning'e juems, the last line of which ries, 'God's in His Henven-all's right with the world.' How often, he said, we meet people bowed dowu with sorrow, boredom or passion and the somad of music and perlieps the: sound of the church bells lifts Ulem up. The bells are a counterpart of the make-up of our lives. Young people, playing in the fields or streats, hear the bells ringing, but are quite unconscious of their music, but many years afterwards some soutd stits their menory to recall those past days of their childhood when they heard the wells ringing.

VICAR'S ADVICE TO RINGERS.

Inook at the uses men were making of metal toduy, he proccedud, Guns, lorries, shells-all so rery unsatisfactory, and yet the use wh metal for the making of belis was so difterent! And the ringers themselves. Did their work become merely medthical-as St, houl said "chnging brass or a tinkling cymbal ? Rjagers should not let Wheir part of the church work become merely medhanical. Lek them try to find a frest thrill in ringing and in prayars. luet them endeavour to become a complote and juppy unit in Christ's Churth. Tbe had been prepared in the Marindin Institute by Mrs. Chander and helpers and a company of 30 ast down to an excellent meal.
The business meeting followed, the Vicar being in the chair, supportad by Mr. A. J. Clater (churchwardon and local ringing captain) and the district secretary (Mr. C. W. Denyer). Three ringing mentbers from Ash, the Misses L. Allden, B. Barnaly and M. Stovold, und Mr. Fi, Munday, of Besingstoke (compounding nizember) were elected.
The hon. secretary drew attention to the next meeting, which is to ba held ak Farnhorough on Wednesday, October 11th. It is lroped all who eas will support this meeting, beosuse if it were not well attended, Wednesdny gatheringe would have to chase next year.
Mr. Ohuter expressed appreviation for assistance given to Premslam by tho Adershot riagers, and, replying, Mr, C, W, Denyer sand it was a pleasure to help, as the ringers at, lrensham were so keen to progress. It was hoped to restart the practices again clootly, when black-out arrangemeats lad been made in the ringing chamber.
Thanks were extended to the Vicar for permitting the use of the balls and for conducting the service; to Mr. John Chuter for coming at short notice to play the organ; to the caterers and local ringers. The Fiear, in reply, said be was delighted to welcone the Guild to Frensbam
The tower hells and handbells wexe again rung in the evening, but an early finish had to bo made owing to lightilg restrictions, Nine towers were represented, viz., Alderghot, Ash, Seale, Farnham, Fremshan, Basingstoke, Pirbright, Cranleigh and Yorktown.

AN INTTERESTING OHUROH.

Frensham Church recently commenorated its 700th anuiversury, Aud durigg its long life it has passed through meny phases. Thas edifice of 1239 was a humble structure withoat a tower, ind probalily possessen but one bell, which was hung in a cot above the roof. The foundation of the present tower was laid in the early pact of the 14 th century and the clurch then cousisted of nave and chaucel. An aisle was added in 1827 and a thorougli restoration was made in 1869 , which left the building substantially as it is now.
At the time of Edward VI., when inventories were made of the goods and ornaments of all the churches in Frgland, there were three bells and s saunce bell. Ellis Knight, of Reading, recast them and made them into a ring of four or tive in the year 1e87. Three of the beils, the present thard, fourth and tenor, are still in the steenle. The preant fifth dates from 1658, the second was cast by Ronert Catiin in 1745 and the treble was added in 1897. Enlis Knight was the ancester of Samuel Knight, who moved his foundry to london, where he cast several famous peals of belis, including St. Saviour'g, Southwark, St. Sepulclire's, Holborn, end St. Margaret's, Westminster. Erobert Catlin was his foreman and successor.

A curio standing in the charch is an ancient copper candaron 8 ft. 8 m . in circumference. Little about it is known for certais, but probably it was used for warming beer at the 'church ales' which used to be held in the churchyard.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem on getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, tro-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics. Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands

ON THE HOME FRONT.

If the ringing Exercise is to survive these difficult days, all who are left in the belfries must pull their weight. They should, more than ever, show their loyalty to the Church and their love of the art by making some personal sacrifice, if need be, 10 carry on the work. There will be plenty of opportunities for making excuses for stopping away from the belfry when the bells ought to be rung, but if the spirit of service-which should now be uppermost in men's minds and which must prevail if the country is to come successfully out of this ordeal-is applied to ringing, then ringers will be found providing reasons for keeping the bells going rather than excuses for letting them remain silent. The days lefore us will be a testing time in almost everything ; let ringers see to it that, in keeping alive their own particular art, they do not fail in the test. To abandon ringing entirely would be to aclopi a defeatist attitude. We know that rational claims must be put first, but there is need, also, for carrying on, as far as is possible, the normal life of the nation. Therefore, we say again that, while official sanction for the ringing of ehurch bells remains, there is no reason why the belis should not be rung for the Sunday services.

There are, however, other ways in which those who remain on the home front slould strive to serve the art. The personnel in most towers will be sadly depleted by the withdrawal of men for the fighting forces; those who are left should make it their duty to train as many new hands as they can get. Ways and means can easily be devised for giving instruction without any breach of the lighting restrictions, and it is not unlikely that, in many places, there are those who, in the coming long evenings, will be glad of some new interest, now that other forms of entertainment are curtailed. Then, too, there will be room for interchange of visits between neighbouring towers. One of the obstacles to meetings at present is the difficulty of getting home afterwards, and another is that those who would otherwise attend at comparatively distant places, will be prevented by thre restrictions on petrol consumption. Meetings for large areas are, therefore, somewhat out of the question, al aly rate, during winter months, but neighbouring towers might well organise themselves on lines which would not only enable them to exchange visits, but give each other mutual help.

Then there is another and an equally important way in which the ringers, who are left behind can help to maintain the art, so that, when happier days come, it can rapidly recover and once more flourish. They can continue to support "The Ringing Vorld." More than ever, in days when the art is seriously tireatened as it is now, the preservation of a journal to serve its interests is a necessity. Without it the prospects of the art would be parlous indeed, and revival later on an almost impossible task. Through these days of uncertainty 'The Ringing World, is striving to "carry on,' as it has urged ringers to do. It is admittedly difficult, for never before, not cvest in $191 \frac{1}{2}$, has such a sudden slump in ringing news been experienced, as in the past month. " 'hle Ringing World,' however, has continued to fill its pages with matter both interesting and instructive and, with the valued aid of our friends, we hope to continue to do so. But, while we do our part, we feel we have a right to ask ringers to do theirs; to ask for their continued support and their help to increase the sale, in order to counteract the inevitable losses in circulation, which must occur among those who are taken from the bulfries to the sterner tasks of war. And there is another way in which they can help and at the same lime add to the interest of this journal. They can send us promptly any little itens of news concerning ringing and ringers that may conc their way. In this direction they can promote the prosperity of the Exercise at a period of great difficulty, and widen the interest among our readers throughout the country.

WAR TIME RINGING.

Ringers are beginning to find ways of resuming their activities, and doubtless, as we grow more accustomed to war-time conditions, there will be a limited revival of activity in many places. Even in what are termed vulnerable areas steps are being taken to get the bells ringing again. At Northfeet, for instance, satisfactory arrangements have been made for Sunday service ringing. To guard afainst air raid warning risks, a man is kept posted outside the tower so that, if an alarm is given, the bells can be immediately stopped. This is an excellent means of getting over the risk of the bults drowning the notes of the sirens and might be adopted at other places.

Another idea which should commend itself is that of holding practices on Saturday afternoons. Practices are the things which, in ringing, are likely to sulfer as badly as any, but where it is possible to neet for this purpuse on Saturday, before darkness sets in, grood use can be made of the bells. At Darley Dale in Derbyshire this plan has already been adopted.

There is no reason to imagine that the ringing of bells, in itself, is likely to cause alarm, as bas been suggested in one quarter, but such a risk could easily be pot over if it were fnade known that the bells were going to be rung on some specified day and at a certain hour. There seem to be a few country parishes where the janging of the bells is to be the air raid warning; but actual ringing could not be confused with this and, in any case, as long as arrangements are made to give immediate notification to the ringers, the ringing could be quickly turned into a jangle. Most of us know how quickly.

We shall be glad if bands will send us a postcard to say what arrangements they are making for Sunday seevice ringing. In these days when so many ringers are away from their own homes and belfries they will be glad to know where they can get the chance of a pull, (Continued in next column.)

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER.

SOMETHING MORE ABOUT COURSING ORDER Last week we were talking about Coursing Order. We pointed out that Coursing Order is the order in which bells follow one another when all are hunting and that there cannot be any Coursing Order urless all the bells are bunting, but we must understand what we mean by ' all.' Usually, of course, it means all the bells (treble and working) concerned in the method, but in cases it may mean all the working bells or atl the working bells concerned in a particular piece of work. In these cases, especially the last, the restriction slould be specified. But study the figures given alongside which are the hand and back rows of the lead ends of Bob Major. You will see that the seven bells perform a perfect hunting course and that therelore they keep (for the fourteen rows) the satme Coursing Order unbroken.
We can now clear up another point about whicl many ringers are very hazy. A Hunt is a bell which performs a cyclical path through the Coursing Order of the other bells in the same way that the treble does in Bob Major. A Hunt is not necessarily a bell which has a regular fixed and comparatively simple work like a plain funting or treble hunting treble, though generally beils which have unbroken plain or treble hunting are acting as Hunts.
Two bells which are next each other in Coursing Order can act together as if they were one hunt.

The commonest example of this is the plain course of Grandsire. Write out a full course of Grandsire Triples and study the effect on the Coursing Order as we did just now in the case of Bob Hajor. Here are the rows which form the lead heads and lead ends and again you will see that the working bells will perform a complete hunting course among themselves.
One fact must be noted. In the cyclical path of the Hunt through the Coursing Order of the other bells it can change position (in Coursing Order) only with the bell ${ }^{12} 34567$ ${ }^{2135476}$ 1234567 which is coursing next to it.

Before we go on to consider what Coursing Order means in the more complex methods it will be well to point out its value in practical ringing in the tower, first to the ordinary ringer and then to the conductor.
First of all, take the case of the learner who is just iseyrinning to hunt the treble in Bob Major or Minor. It while most bands will welcome the presence of any visiting riuger. By publishing a list of arrangements 'The Ringing World' may be able to do a lot towards keeping things going.

will be an immense help to him if he realises that throtagltout the platin course he will always meet the other bells in the definite order- $2,4,6,8,7,5,3$, and that whether he is hunting up or down this order is never varied, except that as he goes down to lead and as he groes up from the lead he strikes over the same bell.

We do not suggest that a beginner should be taught to ring by learning to strike over the other bells it this order, bui if, in addition to learning by the other rules, he knows that this order exists and why it exists he will have his difficulties much lessened.
When he gets away from the treble and begins to ring a working bell it will be better for him not at first to bother about the Coursing Order of all the bells, but to take particular notice of the one which is hunting just in front of him and the one which is hunting just belvind him. These iwo bells are called his Course Bell and his After Bell.
Turn to your full course of Bob Major and see how the second works throughout between the third and the fourth, always turning the former from the lead and from behind, and always being turned by the latter, except when the treble intervenes. Not only do two Coursing bells follow each other throughout a course, but they continue to follow each other throughout a touch until one of then makes Fourth's place at a bob.

As soon as the beginner becomes more proficient he will be able to pick up and use the Coursing Order of ail the bells. In Bob Major this is not very difficult. What you must remember is that throughout the ringing, from the time one boh is called untif the next, the Coursing Order is always the same, save for the varying position of the treble in each successive lead, and the order in which you meet the bells, whether you are going from front to back, or back to front, wilk give you the Coursing Order from the time a bob or single is called until the next bob or single is called.
Actually there are seven working bells, but the sevent/1 is almost invariably after the tenor and as you are ringing one bell yourself you really have no more than five bells to look after. Take your pencil and paper and by pricking and experimenting with bobs and singles see for yourself how these things work out.
Now don't go and say that it is only Bob Major and that you are not interested in Bob Major-you aim at higher things. What you learn in Bob Major will be of any amount of use to you when you come to more complex methorls. The reason why you should study Bols Major is that there you can see most easily why these things must and do happen.

CONCLLDDING DAYS  SOMERSLT AGAIN

Friday-and amother tour in Somersed. Some of the enthusiasta, fowever, rose ebrly to try the bells at St. Michael's 亜arish Church before selwing out un their travels. The lirst stop was Nailsea, where we rang on the six bells at Foly Trinity. Here cameras got busy to stcure for posterity a sublime performance by the ardent duetisha on the tio whisles. It is significant that at least one camora was foumd to be out of action! Winscombe was reached soon nfter midday, and the Chureh of St. James, oceupying a commanding position on rising gtound, boasts ia loity and richly decomed tower, whinel contains a fine peal of eight bells, with tenor 190 ewt. The ringers spent so long here that they nearly forgot thai such a mundane matter as dinzer was wajting wo lee discussed in the town below, and were duly reprimanded by the C. $m \mathrm{C}$. Later a run of four miles brought us to Weare, where we tuade good use of the wice ring of six, and appreciated the kind thoughtfulness of tha local ringer who hat left a good supply of apples and plums in the beliry with the cinalked inscription 'Hejp yourselves.' Another short run brouglit us to Wedmore, where ' Freddy, had an arguneut will a bus driver us to the amount of space meeded to enable the two veliches to pass ; the argument ended in our votels being "ditcued,' but so gently did it happen that very few were aware of the fact. We all escaped via the energency exit, und Freddy haviag successfully axianged that this little diversion should take place outside a garage, the good old conch was svon on terra firmu once more, note the worse for its adventure. But was Freddy angry ?
The Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Wedmore, stands high above the surrounding housts and domiaates the village. The present church beloggs to the $15 t h$ and $16 t h$ ceuturies, but there are parts of au earlier oburch. Above the pulpit, which for a fine example of early $J$ acolean work, an ancient mural painting of St. Christopher is to be scen, the lower part of the paintinc cousisting of ships, mermaids and fishes A brass tablet on the wall commernorates Tlie $1,000 \mathrm{th}_{\mathrm{l}}$ enmiversary of the deatli of Kiog Alfred the Great, who made the famous Treaty of Wedmore with the Danes in 878 A.D. The tower contains a fine peal of eight, teuor 30 owt., bud thee riuging heme was sujoyed ty ull. Leaving Wedmore behind, we soun renched Wookey Hole, and lound invet the chief interest int these caves was the sulaterranean River Axe, which here escapes from ils underground prison jnto an enchanting wooded valley through a sleft in the cliff walls, after fowing through liree great caverns. 'Ilhese caves were inhahited by a tribe from Brittany from 250 B.C. to 400 A.D., and relieg have been found by means of which their whole life story may be reconstructed. Relics have even been foud confirming the truth of some of the legends of the Witch of Wookey, evidentiy a real person who lived in the time of King Arthur. We contemplated with wonder the work of the river in carving out the numerous caverns, and noted with interest the grean vegetation growing where the artificial light Ehone upon the rocks, but the river is devoid of life in its underground thate. For a few moments we stond in utter darkness, and listened to the eerie dripping of water iuto tive river-then out into the warm sunshine once more, into the valley which is said to be one of the loveliest in England, with its densely growing trees, trails of jvy and its river banks draped with ferns.
After partaking of an enjoyable tea, we were soon on the road again, and a run through Wells and Clilcomptos hrought us in the cvening to Norton Sti. Philip, where the church, containing a peal of six belle, is situated in chariuing surroundiags. After ringing, some of the party went to inspeat the George Inn, for which the viliage is uoted; it is supposed to be England's oldest inu, as it was Jicensed as an ale-hause in 1397. Here tho Duke of Motrmouth stayed the night liefore the Battle of Sedgemoor, and here, too, Judge Jeffreys held sway. This proved to be our last call for the day, for Twerton-onAvon had to be abandoned, owing to the lateness of the bour, as the members of the B.U.R.G. Inad invited the tourists to a nocial evening. Incidentally we sincerely hope that the B.U.R.G. is not by those who waited in vain at Twerton for the party to arrive!

GIFF TO THE B.U.R.G

On arriving in Bristal, the coach deposited us ut the Montague Hotel, the temporary home of some of the purty, athd the festivities began in the presence of a crowdea house. Jokes and fun flew thick and fast, interspersed with songs, recitations and humorous anecdotes by various performers. During the proceedings Mr. &. Swinfield presented to the chairman a packet containing a kum of maney subscribed hy the taurists as a slight apprecistion of the work undertaken by the commithee of the B.U.R.G. in arranging the delightful tours. This was suitably acknowledged by the chairman, and it io hoped that the noney will lo used to purchase something for the use of the Guild. A duef by the 'whistlerg' was announced, but evidently the modest pair were overcome by shyness, for the performance did not materialise! The party dispersed about 11 p.m., as the longest journey of the week was to take place next day.

Somerset and Dorset were the happy lunting ground on Saturday. Passing again througla Wells and Glastonbury, we reached Street. whera a Roman causeway was once situated. Ringing took fulae on the eiglth bells at the Parish Chureh, after which some' 'family groups. were taken. Why, we woudered, did one distinguished menhmer of the party disappear head-first over the wall with such starlling rapidity durigg the preparation for the groups? Did he decide that bis feet presented a more pleasing aspect tham his facef' Mr. xud Mrs. I. Thomas met us here and spent most of the day with the party.
The journey to Yeovil was accomplished in comparative quietnes: the nember of the perty who had previously distiuguished lijurelf for his liveliness was so naticeably quet that one speculated whetling he was feeling the after effects of tlie social, but it soon transpired that lhe had, the previous dav, received a message conferring upon lima the honour of "grandiatherhood,' so we came to the conclusion thut the thought of his responsibilities hed somewhat sobered him!
Yeovil was reached soon after noon, and the party at once visiten St. John's Church, where the fine ring of ten, tenor 40 cmt , was enjoyed to the iull. This fine church is aaid to be one of the mort inpressive in Somersef, and has been given the title of 'The Lantem of the West.' Dinner was disposed of at the Cottage Cafe, and fin journey was resumed via Crewkerne and Mosterton to Beuminster, set atiractively amidsi the 'swelling downs.' The fine tower here is decorated with narvings representing the chief events tu the life of our Lord, and contains a fine peal of eight bells, tenor 26 owt. knewn as Bilbie's masterpiece. This is a maiden pesl, which wes cast in the field adjoining the churclyard, owing to the difficulty of transport in thosa days. Since this was a "maiden peal," the ladies decided to see whet they rould do about it, and eight of them rang a courgo of Grandsire Triples. A few miuutes' run brought us afterwards to Bradpale, where we faund a light eight tenor 13 owt., and alao experienced the first win of the week, combised with a thunderstorm. The church contains a memorial of the fighti of Chatles II. through this village.
Thes next stop was Bridport, nestling in the valley among the hills, Hearly two miles from the sea, yet boasting a small harbour of its own, known as West Bay. The Church of St. Mary is built in then Perpendicular style, and possesses a musical peal of eight, leyor $21 \frac{13}{}$ cwt., on which the visitors enjoyed numerous touches. Passing on through Upwey, noted for its Wishing Well, we reached Weymoulh in time for tea, and enjoyed a stroll along the front in brillianf sunshime, the clarming bay loaking at its best. On leating Wey. mouth, we traversed what must be one of the prettiest roads in England. Speeding past Dorchester with its Roman amplitheatre, and Clarminster, we passed on through Cerne Abhes, and noted the famous "Giant' carved in cutline upon the hillside, and probably dating from prehistoric times, and so reached our last tnwer of the tour-onn eagerly wwaited by some of us-that of Sherborme Abhey.

THE RECORD HOLDERS.

Slierborne, a picturesque little town, standing on the nortinern slope of the Vaifey of Yeo, probably owes its chief interest to jus glorious Ahhey Clurch. The wonderful reredos, the beautiful fan tracery of the roof and the magnificeat proportons of the nove were all deserving of note, and time was all too short to do full justice in them. The grani peal of eight, with its fine tenor of 46 cwt ., who soon claiming the attention of the ringers in the party, and it was amusing to note the queue bebind the tenor box, as the "Heavy enders aswited their turn to try their strength. At last all were satisfied, and as the mightey hells were lowered in peal it was interosting to climb aloft into the bell chamber and watch them swinging leisurely to and fro-noisy perheps, hut then they were almost us naisy in the ringing chamber. A pinal raid was made on the posticard shop, and then the return journey wes commenced in gathering darkness. A halt was called et Castle Cary for refresiments and here tlie party made the acquantance of the mysterious "Skjuns Lizzy, ${ }^{3}$ who had been mach talked of during the day. (Is slie a relative of Kate, I monder? Cheerful changes on the handuelk. thoughtfully provided by one of the Bristol members, entertainoif the party for awbile, and much amusement was caused vinct Freño solemnly and effectively silenced some talkative onlookers, who had been attracted by the sound of the bells. Once more we eliminn aboard. and after a good run reached Bristol shortly before midnight. having covered it aistance of approximately 160 miles durine the dar end ahout 880 milea during the week. Some 43 towers had been ramg in and numerous methods were included in the repertary during the tour, including London, Bristol and Cambridge. One or two recorts were also made, e.g.

Mr. Stitich held the remord for being the first in the belfry at each church.
2. Mr. Shaker held the rmord for haying the first postcard at carli stop.
3. We believe, though we are not quite sure, that Mr. Harcis hpir the record for buring the greatest number of ice-creams during the week-but not always for his own consumption.

And so the final good-byes were said, and we parted, loping to medt again on a similer occasion, and feeling very gratefol to the B.U.R.G. for giving us the opporiunity of spending such an enjoyabie week, for providing such excellent weather, and for their persoma interest in accompanying un on several of our journeys.

RINGING IN TWELVE-BELL TOWERS.

To the Editor

Sir,-Your recent article on ringing in twelwe-bell towers jus led me to look back over "The Ringing Wurhd " and examine the peal records for the lasi conplete year, 1938 . You anid that in the large majority of cases the twelve hells are rumg ouly on exceptional eccagions anl that in not e [ew there is practically no rimging at all. As iar as tho peal records can hear this out, fhis is most certainly true. In the Central Council's malysis of peals Cor 1938 , sixty-eight twelvebell peals on tower hells are tahulated. I find that these peale were rugg in 28 towers, exactly hatf of the twelve-hel! towers in England. But the more astonishing thing is that in only a very small proportion (Ipswich being the most outstunding example) liave local ringers comprised ane hall of the liands who have taken part in the peals. Nearly always the majority of the ringers liave been visitors. That, in itself, would be somethmg to be commended, as showiug a spirit of mnselfishness among the local ringers, if it were evidence that thare were local ringers suffiriently capaile und interested to takr parl in the peals, but. I ans driven to the eonclusion this is not the repsen why twetve-hell perl ringing, in the main, is left to wisiting enklusiaste.
It may be that the number of towers in which a twelve-belt penl was rung is 1938 was ns good a proportion as those with lesser numbers at belts in which peals were rung--I huve no means of checking that but what has struck me most in examining the recards is the very anall procentage of local men who have taken part in these peals. It goes to emplusise your statement that twolve-bell ringing has not increased at the same pace as the new riags of fwelve.
Wilh acm exceptions, it appears that twelve-heli peal ringing in left to the comparatively few enthusiasts who make a hobby of visiting twelve-bell towers wherever they can, and those others who are able to get the use of a twetve-hell tower for occasional peals, such, for example, as Southwark or Bow, in Landon, allhough the ringers are in ma gense members of the local band.
It is, of course. last desirsble that tivese rings of bells should twe kopt open for peal ringing, and if there are no local men to ring them, them the visits of outsiders are a belp to that end, but it is uertainly strange to use that even where there ure ringers at twalvehell towers so few of them are sufficiently interested in peal ringing. It points to the fact that not only have they no interest in twelve-heli peals, but also only a very small interest in their twelve bells at all. I hnow of one cathedral twelve where, just before the war broke out, 1hay lad difficulty in finding enough ringers to ring eight for service (Continued in next columes.)

THE B.B.C. INTERVAL SIGNAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-Without wishing to find fault with the efforts of the ringers who made the present record used, I should like to suggest that those same ringers or one of our ' youthful ' Jondon Societies should take in hand the making of a new record for the B.B.C. interval signal. I think I am right in saying that the record which is now used was not made specially for the purpose. And, therefore, good as it is, it might be improved on.

The new record, I wouls suggest, should aim at gelting rid of the monotony of always having the trebles at lead, and the 'finality' (which is never final) of having the tenor lechind all the time.
A well-struck plain conarse or short touch of Dovuble Norwich on the back cight at Bow would, to my mind, fill all the requirements, ant at the same time would be more appreciated the world over than the present call changes. In addition, one wouldn't hear so often from the uninitiated such remarks as 'Those - bells will drive me scatty one of these days!'

What does the rest of the Exercise feel about this? A. TROTMAN.

Longbredy, Dorset.
on Sundays, and I ans quite sure this las been the case in many places.
It is always a great pity when the bells at any cburch cannot all be rung for the services: it is a greater pity, when twelve bellg are installen, that they should lang neglected-as o ring of twelve-m the tower. Ib is very niee for associabions to have rings of twelve in their area on wlaich members cail practise, lout surely they lave a responsihility as well, snd that is to gee that the local band is encouraged to mainain itzelf is gufticient numbers to ring the twelve bells on Sundsys.

NATIONAL SERVICE AND AFTER

To the Editor

Dear Siry-It was with grcat pleasure that $T$ read the announcement in "The Riuging Wordd" of September 22nd that the Central Council were proposing to compile a record of all ringera serving their country in its hour of need. I well remember the lista that appeared it the columns of "The Ringing World" Euring 1914-1918 one of which ineluded the writer's name. It is to be eatnestly hoper that these loyal members of the Exereise will not be cast aside and frogotten sloyuld they need assistance.
Far too often it seems out of sigint out of mind. I would also lifer Lo express my warmest thanks and deep gratitude to the many friends who have written me some very delightiul letter and have niso so ably assisted me personally. I can assure one and all such essistaner is greatly appreciated. There are still some, however, who pass by on the other sife. To these passers-by I would commend the injunt tion, 'Do ye unto them ns ye would they should do unto you.'

PORTISHEAD LADY RINGER'S WEDDING

The marriage took place on September 2Ist at the Parish Churelh. Portishead, of Miss Violet Mi. Hyman and Gunner Rohert G. Welsh. The Rer. P. W. R. Rowlands (Rector) ofticiated and Mrs. Windilandi (organist) was at the organ.
The bride has heen a member of the Portishead band for the past Lwelve years and is a member of the Ladies' Guild and the Bath ant Wells Dioesan Association. She has been one of the most regular servico ringers, and fortunately for the band she will continue fivg in Portishead. The ringers who were at liberty attended the servier and rang as the bride and hridegxoom left the church.
The "Western Daily Press and Bristol Mirror' described the ringing as ' a special peal,' and it surely was. of the six who arrived in thr helfry, one, a heginner, was unalile to 'rise to the accasion,' go five hells were raised in peal and fired. "Jarge," who was picking applos in his Zummerzet orchard, quickly descended the ladder and asended the tower steps, enabling six bells to be rung. Thew one of tlim auxiliary firemen turned up, and eventually the eight bells were swinging.

Those present sud those on war service united in good wishes and a speedy return of the bridegroom.

BIRMINGHAM RINGER MARRIED.

The martiage of a well-known Birmingham tinger, Mr. George F. Fearn, of King's Norton, Ringing Master at Birmingham Cathedra' to Miss Doris May Bowell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. There was a goodly nssbmbly of friends in the church and afterWards at the reception, held at Messrs. Kunszler's Restaurant in the City, Tonches in honour of the event were rune on the ten bells at the Cathedral by members of St. Martin's Guild, who take this opportunity to extend very heardy good wighes to the bride and bridegroom for their future happiness and prosperity and to thank thom for therr kind hospitality aftar the ringing.

CHURCH BELLS IN WAR TIME.

IN A VULNERABLE AREA.
NORTHFLEET'S ARRANGEMENTS. To the Editor.
Dear Sir,-As captain of the local band at Northffeet, Kent, I visited the local police, who said that ringing could go on as usual. On consulting the Vicar, we came to an arrangement that we should ring on Sunday morning ro.30-1..0 and Sunday afternouns $3.30-4.0$. No touch was to be longer than five minutes. A ringer is always kept outside the tower, so that if the air raid warning should go the bells could be set up in about five seconds. I would suggest that ather bands could do the same, as, with the bells promptly set, they would not interfere with the warning. If the ringing chamber is high up it the tower a practical member of the band could, pertaps, fix up a bell or something of the like. I would point out that Northfleet is regarded as a vulnerable area. Any ringer passing by at the times menhoned would always be welcomed.

HANDBELLS.

DHFFICULTAES OF TEAGHING DOUBLE-HANDED RINGING.
To the Eaitor.
Sir,-Following the auggestion Lhat as ringing on tower hells is restricted, we should keep the art going by practice on handbells, i woutd like to suggest that an article or series of articles on doublebanded change ringing would be appreniated by a large number of ringera. I would suggest an article, suitable for men who can ring Treble Boh, Bob Major and Grandsire on Lower beils, upon how to ring thess miethods double-flasdel, would be very valuable. I have asked many ringers how they ring doublo-kanded end each lias is different complicated way, not suitable for teaching the average ringer.
I have visited many towns, and when asked to take part in a doublehanded touch I have had to declime; then I have seen these men hange a splendid touch double-handed, yet when ringing the same method on tower bells they have had to be practically carried right through the touch.
I have heen trying to teacin double-lmuded ringing to our band, bat I find my way of ringing double-handed does pot seem to be easily grasped by them, and also when ringing 5-6 in Grandsire Triples I find it is a big job to kecp mather pair straight, even in a plain course. Thus an article, ar series of articles like instruction for Beginners, which was so much apprecinted, would, I ieel surs, be very helpful to those who would like to take up doable-handed handbell ringing now that practice on tower bells is restricted.

SAM TONIR.

WAR TIME HANDBEEL COMPANIES SUGGESTED.
Sir,-At this time of durtailment in church bellinging, may I humbly suggest that all heliringers everpwhere seriously consider a duty to the art in an activity that at present has no curtailment.
Fiandbells could he the means not only of keeping a favourite duty and pastime alive, but also of conkinuing in the most interesting way possible where so many were forced to leave off.
As has already been strongly "leadered ' by you, church bellringing must be cartied on for divine mervices at least. But there must be many hours during the long "black-out" evenings when one can do litile else but sit and read, or just think. Wly not stat seriously in various centes a war-time company of bandbell ringers? Sratterad everywhere, some old and some, fortanately, young men have the necessary eapabilities to enthuse our more igrorant brothers and nisters in this most foscinating of hohbies.

Ons cannot say where such a seheme might lead us as an Exercise. Certainly I do not think it would do the Exercise harm to have such an orgavisation. I must plead a Eair emount of ignorance in this तirection, but at the same time I would wat, with pardonsble pride, fail my teacher if it became necessary to prove my worth with two handiells in a company of similar ringers.
There are probahly many obstacles to such a plan. The chief one seems to be the loss of youth, who are constantly heing called to the Colours. Bat surely this need not daunt aur older stalwatts who have the experience and the stemdy British mind of owercommg dificulties for something they love. Nothing good ard lasting can ever be done in a hurry, experience fiss taught all tbinking men that lesson, but let us not forget that delay only means a lass of enthusinsm which leads to neglect and disintercst. With atimutating foterest in "The Ringiup World, the art would regain, in a new sease, that which seems likelv to deteriorate should as long war prevail.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

ST. DIONIS' BACKCHURCH AND ALL HALLOWS, LOMBARD STREET.
By J. Armiger Trollope.
'The tower of All Hallows' Church, Lombard Street, which has just been pulled down, contained a ring of ten bells. What is to become of them seems at present undecided, for they are not to go to the new church ol All Hallows', Twickenham, which is being built to contain the fittings from the demolished building.

This is not the first time that these bells lave had to find a new home, for they hung at first in the steeple of St. Dionis' Backchurch, which was pulled cown in 18 - 8 .

St. Dionis' Backehurch stood in Fenchurch Street at the corner of Lime Strect and separated from the former by a row of houses whence it got its name. It was rebuilt in the reign of Henry VI. and in Stow's time (late sixteenth century) it was a "fair church.

The inventory taken in ' The yere of oure lorde gond ${ }^{1552^{\prime}}$ gives ' I owlde bell clapper. Item $V$ belles in ye stepvel and $j$ saunce bell and 1 payre of great orgens. Item, sowlde ij sanctus bells, ifijs. Item pd. for j great bell rope of 47 II to take ye beame downe."

Burnt in the fire of 1666 ; the church was re-erected from the designs of Sir Christopher Wren between $16_{7}^{2}$ and 1677 , the steeple being added ten years later. It would seem that, in the meanwhite, the old tower was still standing, for one of the first things done was to replace some of the bells. In r674 $£ 5055$. rod. was pairi to James Bartlet, the founder, and for to Mr. Alten, a bell hanger. Robert Williams gave $\notin 25$ for a treble bell.

In 1686 there was a ring of six bells cast by Bartlet and hung by Joseph Gadsden, the cost of which was defrayed by voluntary subscription from Sir Rovert Jeffrey, some time Lord Mayor, Captain Samuel Hankey and other parishioners, the parish property in Lime Street being also mortgaged by the rector and churchwardens by order of the Vestry.

Another benefactor to the church was Sir Henry Tulse, who gave a marble font and pavement and steps leading up to it. Tulse was alderman, Lord Mayor in 1683 , and Master of the College of Youths in 1684. He died in 1689 and on September 12 th was buried in his own vault in the north chancel, where also four years later his widow was laid.

When the church was pulled down the stone which covered the vault was removed to the courtyard, which marks the site of the old churchyard. The inscription was recut by the Ancient Society of College Youths in 1937.
ln 1726 the bells of St. Dionis' Church were found to be much out of order and at a vestry meeting, held on August 28 th, it was debated whether to restore them at an estimated cost of $\mathcal{C} \mathrm{rio}$, or to provide a new and tunable ring at a cost of not more than f.250. The question was formally put whether the present set of six bells, with the old frame and appurtenances, should be exchanged and eight new bells with complete new frame and appurtenances be put in their room, and answered in the affirmative.

As the honour and generosity of the parish had been fully expressed in the subscriptions for the organ that had lately lyeen erected it was thought proper to raise the required sum of $£_{250}$ by kind and voluntary contributions, and the churchwarden, with such gentlemen as should be so kind as to attend him, was to wait upon the several parishioners with a subscription paper for the purpose.

At a vestry, held only a week later, on September 5 th, the churchwarden reported success, and that several people thought proper to respond in a most handsome and generous manter. It wats, therefore, decided to accept the estimate of Mr. R. Phelps, of Whitechapel, and to have chimes on the new ring.

THE TOWER OF THE NOW DEMDEISHED CHURGH OF ST. DIONIS BACKEHURCH.

The subscriptions totalled 6479 18s. Articles of agreement were signed in the same month, between James Herbert and Chatles Bell, the churchwardens, and Robert Phelps, for a new set of bells in exchange for the oid; and so, in less than two months from the time the matter was brought before the vestry, the order was given for the new ring.

On November 3rd, 1727, Phelps received 6359115. 6 d. in full payment for eight bells and frame, two other bells and frame, a new foor for the clock, the chimes and all other accounts and demands whatever.

The parish records contain a certificate, signed by fifteen persons, stating that, laving rung the ten new (Contioued on next page.)

lyells, they were of the opinion that the same ten bells ate musieal and tunable and that the said bells, and the whole frame and all the other work belonging or relating thereto are cast, set up and completed in a worknanlike manner

I have several times thought of trying to get a sight of this document to see who the ringers were, but up to now have not had an opportunity. It might throw some light on the Society of London Scholars.

It1 1732 Phelps recast the troble, which lad been broken, and in 1750 the fourth and fith atso had been cracked. A vestry meeting heltl in january ordered that they should be recast, and this was done by lhomas l.cster.

Or. October roth, J729, the first peal on the bells was rung by the College Youths- 5184 changes of Crandsire Caters, conducted by Benjamin Annable from the treble.

The next peal was seven years later, whem, on November 26ths, $73^{6}$, the Eastern Scholars ring 62 ro changes of Grandsire Caters. It was conducted by Philemon Mainwaring and was the longest ever rung on the beils. In 1752 Jobn Holt, during the short time lie was with the College Youths, called a peal of Grandsire Caters $erc. The first recorded peal of Royal was 5040 Double Bob by the same society in 1760 , anc the first peal of Treble Bob Royal was rung by the ancient Society of College Youths on December 27ti, 1785 ,

A History of the Society

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

- This is ane of the very fow books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, lzape been considerably longer.'-The Dear of St. Paulds.
- Mr. Trollope has achicved more then his immediato purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youtlis. So closely has the grild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an acount of the ancient sport of ringing developed into als elaborate arb.

TThrocghout his book Mr. Trollope takes his readers into a strange and fascinating world whose traditions so peculiarly English deserve far more popular attention than they usually receive. -The Guardien.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple wayTo many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, to-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a Hash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

WAR TIME MEETINGS.

GILLETT  AND JOHNSTON

Founders of the heaviest bells

 cast in England.Ringing associations are gradually iaking stock of the conditions brought alout by the war and some of them have already decided upon a line of policy. They have got to adapt themselves to the changred circumstances, to the increasing difficulties of transport, the corning of shorter hours of daylight with the consequent earlier imposition of the 'black-out.' These things must necessarily limit the possibilities of meetings, but in most places the customary Sunday ringing can be carried on without risk. In most parishes the hour of evening service has been altered and the ringers can still discharge their customary task. There is no real reason, now that the first shock of the coming of war has passed why service ringing should not take place in all those areas where the police have no objection to the church bells being rung. We need not repeat the arguments which we have already put forward in support of keeping service ringing going wherever possible, and we believe that the lead which 'The Ringing World 'has given has encouraged ringers in many places, where ringing had been abruptly stopped, to resume again.

The question of continuing practices and meetings is on a somewhat different footing, but we believe the obstacles can be overcome. If ringing is to be maintained during a prolonged war those who are left in the belfries have serious work before them to train up recruits to take the place of those who are called away to sterner duties Much can, of course, be done in this training without recourse to open ringing, but there comes a time in the education of the ringer when, if the training is to be complete and the beginner fitted to take his or her place in the service ringing, some practice must be put in with unleashed clappers. How can this practice be obtained? Obviously, unless it is possible to darken the belfry windows-and there are a number of places where this should present little difficuity and involve but small cost-the ringing must be done during the hours of daylight. The winter months add a further handicap, but an enthusiastic leader and keen learners among a band anxious to keep up their numbers should easily find a way. After all, footbal! matches have to finish before darkness sets in, and if thousands of onlookers can find their way to the football grounds in time to watch an hour and a half's play before daylight disappears, there seems little excuse why ringers should not put in a similar period in the belfry to carry out a practice.

And then the meetings of associations. It should be possible in most districts to find towers where the black-out restrictions can be complied with without much (Continued on page 618.)

trouble or expense. The use of materials such as are now largely employed for the purpose of temporary shutters and costing only a few pence per square foot could be employed and the ringing chamber windows fitted to satisfy the regulations. In such towers, some of which there must be in nearly every district, meetings could quite well be held and ringing continued after dark, leaving the churches, where black-out reguirements cannot be satisfied, to the summer months.

Various associations are already tackling the problem, and today we print reports ol three which are laying plans for the future. The Lancashire Association, for instance, decided at the annual meeting last Saturday to carry on with the monthly meetings as long as the law permits; the Surrey Association's Committee has decided to hold a limited number of meetings; the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild propose to renew operations in the Southampton District with a series of Saturday and Wednesday combined practices. Here are examples which we hope many other societies will find it possible to follow. The meetings may have to be unore localised than formerly on account of the restricted travelling facilities, although, be it remembered, in past days, before the advent of motor-cars, our predecessors in the belfry would find their way by hook or crook to any meeting held within a very considerable radius. And country roads were as dark then as now, trains were no more freçuent, and motor-cars were not thought of. If we realise what was done in those receding years, why should we now just sit at home and say ringing meetings are out of the question because of the black-out? As long as towers selected for the purpose can be fitted to comply with the restrictions, the ringers themselves should be ready, even more ready than in normal times, to do their part to make association meetings a success.

It is not merely a matter of personal interest. The art has got to be kept alive, and, despite the dangerous days ahead, despite even disasters that may overtake us, let us do our share in preserving the life of the nation and those things which we cherish in our national inheritance. If we approach our ringing in the right way and enlighten the public on the objects of our ringing on all occasions, we need make no apologies for keeping our bells going. We believe that we have a service to render, let us see to it that neither lassitude not misplaced sentiment, prompted by the dismal pessimists, causes us to fail in our responsibilities. The bells still have an important roll to fill in calling to public worship on Sundays and reminding the heedless of higher things; and the maintenance of that service demands that new ringers should be trained and our organisations kept alive against the coming of those less troublous times which we hope are not too far distant.

ANOTHER RING OF EIGHT FOR CORNWALL.

GENEROUS GIFTS BY MR. J. C. ROBERTS AND BARRON BELL TRUST.
The I $5^{\text {th }}$ century tower of the Church of St. Crewena, Crowan, Cornwall, is to possess a ring of eight. Two trebles are to be added to the existing six bells. This has been made possible through the generosity of Mr . J. C. Roberts of that parish, who has given a donation of froo, while a grant of 6162 has been made by the Barron Bell Trust. The work is being put in hand. It is a good sign that this augmentation is to be carried out in such troubled days.

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER.

STILL MORE ABOUT COURSING ORDER.

To the conductor who aspires to be something more than a mere bob-caller a knowledge of Coursing Order is a necessity. The old way of calling peals (a way by no means obsolete to-day), was for the conductor to learn his peal and call his bobs accordingly. In addition he would learn the position of the bells at certain courseends, such as part-ends, and by checking those courseends when they came up satisfy himself that the ringing was correct. That is to say that he would have an opportunity of seeing whether the bells were correct five or six times during a peal. If he were a practised conductor he probably would know more course-ends. But the man who understands how to use Coursing Order can, if he takes a little trouble, by observing the order in which he meets the bells, during one journey from front to back or back to front, be quite sure at any point in the peal whether the bells are rigit or wrong.

We have seen that the order in which the bells are met throughout the plain course is $2,4,6,7,5,3$, with the treble in a different position among them in each lead. If we ignore i, 7 and 8 (as we do when we write out course-ends) and write out the others beginning with the bell next after the seventh we get $53^{24}$. That will stand for the Coursing Order of the whole of the plain course.

In a similar way we can put down the Coursing Order of any one of the other 119 possible courses with the tenors together. Thus, supposing, for instance, we have the courses whose course-ends are 65243 and 32546, we can get their Coursing Order in the same way that we got 53246 from ${ }^{2} 3456$ as the Coursing Order of the plain course.

\begin{array}{lllll}
\text { Course-ends } \ldots \ldots . . . & 23456 & 65243 & 32546 \\
\text { Coursing Order } \ldots . . & 53246 & 45^{2623} & 4^{2} 356
\end{array}

But one thing must be noted. In a touch or a peal the course-ends we must deal with are not necessarity the rows which come at the end of the course, but are the rows which come at the beginning. To put it more properly, they are the ' natural ' course-end, which are the rows which would come up if we ran on to the courseends without any calls.

The adjoining touch consists of four courses, but actually only once do we ring 112 changes without a call, and that is when we run from the Wrong in the third course to the Wrong in the last course. We do ring the

23456 \text { W. M. R. }
$$ whole of the plain course, but one lead of it comes at the beginning and six leads at the end. The rest of the touch consists of parts of courses and each part has its natural course-end. We will write down these natural course-ends as follows:-

| 33456 | 52436 | 42635 |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| 64235 | 64235 | 24536 |
| 52436 | 35426 | 35426 |
| 35426 | 23456 | 23456 |

The first column represents the first lead of each course; that is from the Home to the Wrong. The second column represents the second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth leads; that is from the Wrong to the Middle. The third column represents the seventh lead; that is from the Middle to the Home. If from any row, in any lead, you continued to prick changes without any bobs or singles, when you came to the course-end you would get the row shown in the table.
Next transpose all these rows by $53^{2} 46$ as we did just now. That will give you the different Coursing Orders throughout the touch.

\begin{array}{lll}
53246 & 32546 & 32465 \\
34625 & 34625 & 34556 \\
32546 & 25346 & 25346 \\
25346 & 53^{246} & 53246
\end{array}

The man who knows these figures can teil definitely at any minute whether the bells are right or wrong, and we believe that there is no other means by which he can do so. But, you may say, there are forty-five courses in an ordinary peal and to learn a table like this for forty-five courses is a big job. Too big to be worth while. That may be true, and presently we will tell you how you can avoid most of the trouble. Meanwhile, it is not much trouble to study the matter with pencil and paper as we have explained it so far. Afterwards we can come to the short cuts.

THE B. B C. INTERVAL SIGNAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir, I, for one, fully agree with Mr. Trotman. Rounds would have been tolerable, but monotonous, If the band that made the record were not able to strike a few changes of Grandsire or Stedman Caters decently they might have tried to produce some reasonable call changes, instead of fiddling about with $7^{-8-9}$ in that exasperating way. I suppose they thought anything was good enough for people who don't understand change ringing.

NEMO.

Sir,-Whilst agreeing with your correspondent, Mr. A. Trotman, that the record used by the B.B.C. could be improved upon, I do not agres with the alternative methad suggested by him. I venture the opinion that e well-struck course of Stedman or Erin Triples is much more musical to the ear. I always think that when the tenor is tornen in' the pleasing effect and sense of rhyihm is lost, and further the magnificent note of a truly poble tenor caunot be fully appreciated undess it io rung behind.
F. C. A. BENNETT.

Wambourne.

Sir-In answer to Mr. Trutman's letter regarding the interval signal, I must Aay , that I agree that il change would le very welcome to our earg, especially as we liear tins record sometimes for ag long as eight minutes. There is a new record of the twelve, and it is a very fina recording. St. Margaret's, Weatminster, has made a record very fina recording. St, Margaret's, Westminster, hats made a record of Grandsire and stedman Cinters, nod a little while back I wrote to the B.B.C. askine them if they could broadeast this record, to whicil I had no reply. May I add that a course of Duuble Norwich on Bow's hack eight would be fine, althnugh the ringing would have to be very slow. I don't know if Mr. Trotmen hes ever rutig Bow teyor-she is a lump to taria in.

FRANK HOPGOOD.
Wimbled̉on, S.W.
P.S.-I have the numbere of these records if any ringer would like them

BRISTOL RINGER MARRED.

The marriage took place quiativ on Saturday, September 30hl, at Llanhadoe Parish Church, Dsk, Mon, hetween Mr. Donald G. Cljft and Miss Marion Smith, of A bervilery, Mon.

The bride was a former nurse at the Cefn-Lla Convalescent Home of the Pontypool and District Hospital. The bridegroom, who is a member of the St. Stephen's Guild of Aingers in Bristol, is a telecommunications officer in the Head Post Ofice of that city. He took up ringing at Usk in 1927, and in 1932-33 was Master of the Liandaf and Monmouth Diocesan Association. Fe alsa represented that body on the Central Council from 1933 to 1935 .

ANCIENT CUSTOMS.

SEVENTEENTH CENTURY REGULATIONS ASHBY-DE-LA-ZOUCH   By Ernest Morris.

   By Ernest Morris.}The church of St. Helen, Ashby-de-la-Zouch, Leicestershire, now contains eight belis, with a tenor, cast in 1849 , weighing 16 cwt .3 qrs. 23 lbs. In 6 Edward VI. ( 553 ) there were ' fyve belies and a hande belle.' Very little is known of this early sing, but the ancient tenor bell, dated 157 I, weighed 14 cwt .3 qrs. 2 lbs .
On May 20th, 1628 , au "agreement, signed by nine inhabitants, concernirg the ringing of the bolls and keeping of the clock and cinives ' was made. This is preserved in a narrow folio volume (unbound) of 21 written prges containing the accounts of the clurechwardens of Ashly-de-la-Zouct, together with those of the Constable (Hastiags MSS. Vol 1, Historicel Manuseripts Commissiom)
Il reads: : None shall be allowed to ring for pleasure and reereation ahove twice in the week, and that nol, above the space of one hour at a time : unless it fall out that some strangers shail desire to ring a peal extraordinary, which they shaill lisve liberty to do provided that they frest obtain the Consent of two of the churchwardens for it. None shatl be allowed to ring at buriala above two short peals, viz., ane before the body is buried end muother alter. None shall be allower? to ring ak weddings ebove three short peals, viz, one before tile marriage and two after. There sinall be no peal at all rung on the Sabbath days, but the least luell at 7 o'clock in the morning, and at one in fhaf afternoon, and the second bell ats 8 o'clock in the morning and 2 in the afternoon (In the margin is written "this continued till Aug. $17^{1 "}$ ) and the sermon bell presently atter the chime hath ended after 9 mad between 2 and 3 in the afternoon. The clerk slagll meg the Curfew at due times throughout the year aud the four o'clock bell in winter, and be shall ring no less than by the space of one quarter of an bour at either of these times. The clerk shall look to the keeping of the clock and chime in due order from time to tine. If any of thesp orders be broken through the default of the clerk, lhe shatl forfeit to the town for every default 12d., which said defaults the churchwardens shall receive lrom the froffee that is to pay him his wages next rent day. The churchwariens shall allow the clerk yearly towards the finding of bell ropes and maintaining them in sufficient repair 6s 8d.'
In 1741 a treble was added mating six bells, and two trebles further added in 1814 completed the octave. in 1816 the Leicester change ringers raug 5,040 Grondsire Triples on April 26thi, conducted by Thomas Sibson. In this peal ${ }^{\text {IIlomas Stringer (sexton) and 3-awrence }}$ Stasnes (vestry clert) rang. These positions it St, Margaret's, Leicester, are now held by the present writer. The 7th bell was recast 1822 and the tenor in 1849, while in 1886 the whole were retwned and rehung in a new irom frame

There is a tradition relating to Ashby which says that a former inlanbitant of the place, juaving lost his way, was, after wandering ahout the whole nifint and become ulnost eximusted, enabled to find his way home fgain by learing the sounc of the clock of St. Helen's Church. To mark his gralitude for this deliverance, he conveyed to the trugtees of the Grammar School certain property, since called the 'Day-bell houses,' won trust, amang oflier things, that they showld cause one of the church bella to be rung for a quarter of an hour at fous o'clock every morning. This direction was carried out, and the 'fouz o'clock leeti ' was heard regularly every moming until the year 1807, when, upou the abtherity of a Derree of the Court of Claancery, Whis custom, "useless and ammoying" to the inhabitants, was disconfiruad. Ingtead of this early bell, one was rung at 9 a.m. and 2 p.mo, for the purpose of assenblivg the boys in the Grammar School, for which the authorities paid the churcin a certain sum annualy.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL HEXITING AT RLACKPOOL
The anoual meeting was held at Blackpool under very adverse circumstances, menluers atconding from Barrow, Hackburn, izlackpool, Boiton, Frodshem, Liverpool, Mngehester, Prestou, Southport and Whittle-le-Woods. Atthough five peals of kelis were available for the use of visitors, there were not ellough members present to ring until hali-past two, when the belfs at St. Johu's Churcla were set gong iz toucher of Grundsive and, Stedmarh Triples, Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Camlridge Surprise Major. Service at 4 p.m. was sad dy the Vicar (the Rer. W. Yates, M.A.J, and the address was given ty tho Rev. A. Scott, M.A. (prosident). His advice was to keop the bells going as much as possible beth for services, practices and meelings.
Tea was served in the Parisl\} Hall, ammanged and servad by Mrs. Sharples and Mrs. Eosher. The Vioar stayed for tea, but as le lad no curate he had to leave to get ready for the Sunday services. He was thanked for his assistance aud words of welcome in church, to which le responded. The ladies were also thanked for their share. The businas meeting was thea held, the chair being talion by the presidenth The committee's report slated that the total membership whis 1,515, 1,085 of whom lived in the association's arca; 78 yew members had lucen made and 36 crossed off for arrears, while denth claimed eight (four non-resibent and four ringing). Restorations lad been carried out at Aughton, Poolstock and Moretamine. The Carnon Elsee Memorial Window was dedicated on June 10th, and a peal bard was unveiled at Maorside, Oldham, on Octolyer 20th. The number of peals rung during the year was 90. This does not correspond with the C.C. list, as the year endet on Jtay 3let. Mention was made of Mr. G. R. Newton's 500th peal and also of several members wio had passed their firet, second and third 50th during the year, alsa of peals of Erin Oaters (the first far the association) aud Little Bab Mafor (the first for all the band) and a large number of first pealg and firsts in the method.
Regrets were expressed that the treasurer could not came or send a statement. It was proposed that the balance sheet should he sudited and passed and sent on ta the president in time for inelusion in the ann ual repart.
For the eleotion of officers, Mr. J. Ridygrd, of Southport, receiver the lighest vole for wiep-prosident for two years. The other oflicersMr. 'T. Wilson, ringing secretary; Mr. C. I. Davies, treasurer; Mescrs. Barnes and Wilkinson, atidors-were re-eleeted without opposition. The motion an to the election of Central Gouncil representatives Wats put back untif next year.
The meeting closed with lost thanks to the Vicars of the wazious churches fot the ase of their bells; to Dr. Wood, the organist: the choirboys; Mr. Sharples, tile branch secretary, and others who helped under ithe frying circumstances to make a success of the meeting.
Owing to the unsettled stante of things, next year's meeting was provisionally fixed for Folton as being a geod centre.

A FAMOUS NORTHAMPTON BELLFOUNDER  DESCENDANT KILI.ED IN CASTING CANNON

Next Monday if the three hundred and thirty-finst anniveramy of the baptism of Henry Bagley, the first of A famous fanily of bellforndera who cast many bellg which still exist in the Mhdand Connties. Henry Bugley was lorm at: Clacombe in Northamptonshire, where his father Matthew, who br trade was a blacksnith, was churctiwarden in the jear 1636. Heary began bellfounding about 1632 and he died about 1676.
The fourdry then appears to have boen carried on by his sons, Henry and Willian, the first of whom was elected a mentore of the Society of College Youtlis in 1686.
The witl of Mathew Bagley; Henty's uephew, contains the earliest reference to half-muffled rimging we have. Fie 'requested a dumb peal, the lells muffled on one side." This was in 1785 when he was a very old man.
Other members of the Bagley family cartied on bell founding at Fecton, and a later memiser of the family, Mathew Bagley, migrated o London, where he acquired the foundry of Philip Wigntman.
He lost his life in a tragic manner while casting a gur for the Government. The 'Flying Post' of May I2th, 1716, gives the following account of the accident: Last Thursday nighe ahout nine o'elonk a tragical aceident liappened at the Royal Foundry, near Upper Moorfields, where, when the workmen were casting a cannon, the metal that was rumning into the mould flew up on a sudden with great noise and violence and came down like drops of fire mot only upon all the workmen, but spectators (of whom there was a great bimber to see the performance). Several attended from the Tower, particularly Mr. Hall, Clerk of the Ordnance, who was so sorely wounded that he dyed next moming. The Minster Tounder and his son with above twenty others wero also very much hurt. "Tis generalty agreed that the said accident was owing to the dampness of the mould.
Thr ' Weekly Journal' wf May 12th, 176, further states that ' Bagley, the Master Founder, has lost his eyes, and his son and sixtepu others are desperately wounded."
Ragley died of his wounds, for the registers of St. Giles', Cripplegate, lare the inlowing entries:-
1716.-May 22, Mathew Burgley, founder, villed.

May 26, Mathew Bagley, jun., founder, killed.

RINGING AT CRAYFORD.

The band at Oraviord, as most of our readera know, is one of the most active in the country, but, like so many more, is feeling the effects of these strenumus times. Mr. Edwin Barnott tells us, however, that they are doing their hest to carry on, although tiney have logt some of their mombers. The Sunday ringing is much as usual, and an attempt will be made to hold practices on Saturdey afternoons. If all ringers face the difficulties of the times in this spirit wp do not fear that the Exercise will come through the crisis all right in the end.

POLICE SANCTION EVENING RINGING.

On Sunday, Septeurber 24th, when harvest featival services were heid at St. Michael's, Ashton-under-Lyne, the helis were rung for 6 p.m. service, and after consultation with the Chief Constable, were also ruag after the service until 7.45. On each occasion a loug touch of Grandsire Caters was brought round.
Ringing at Manchester Cathedral and Town Hall has been stopped, but at most of the other churches in the district where evening service is being held at 3 p.m. the bells are being rung.

A RINGER FOR SIXTY YEARS

DEATH OF MR. J. R. BUNCH, OF YATELEY.
The funeral took place at Yateley Parish Church, Eants, on Saturday, September 23rd, of the late Mr. James Robert Banch, who lad been a ringer at Yateley for 60 years. Mr. Bunch, who was 78 years of age, had all his life beon connected with the Parish Church. In the year 1888 he was one of the band who took up chavge ringing under the buition of the tate Mr. Henry White of Basimgstoke, and in 1892 rang in the first peal on the bells, which was conducted by Mr. Frank Betnett. He also reng in the firat peal at the neighbouring towe. of Yorklown, Surrey, conducted by the late Mr. Henry White.
Admitted to the Winchester Diocesan Guild on June 1 st, 1889, he attended the amual meeting at Ryde in July of that year, and was also present at the mecting tinere or July Ist of tilis year.

His certificate of admittance to the Guild is to be hung in the Yateloy belfry. He rang in several peals in the district and was also a member of the Oxford Diccesan Guikd of many years standing. The whole of the ringing band of Yateley attended the interment, and as the earth closed the open grave rang a half-mufled touch of Grandsire Triples on the bells Mr. Buweh had long and often eared for.

WEDDING AT KYNGSTON-UPON-THAMES.

The wedding took place at All Sainte' Church, Kingston-uponThames, nn Saturday, Eeptember 16th, between Mr. Eric Parker of 100, Park Roat, Kington, and Miss Beatrice Etheridge, of Elgin Cotrage, Fampton Court.

The bridegroom has been a memher of the Kingston band of ringern for several fears and was a regular attendant at both service and practice ringing. Fortunately the bells have not been silenced and immediately after the ceremony touches of Grandsire Caters were rung by the local bend. Thoze taking part were E. Howes 1, $G$. Missey 2, H. Andrews 3, W. Massey 4, W. Nash 5, G. Peck B, G. Goodran 7, H. Bariet 8, F, Hawthome 9, W. Maxwell 10.

BELERY GOSSIP

The resignation of Mr. F. E. Haynee as Ringing Master at St. Martin's, Birwingham, has been followed by the appointment of Mr. Albert Walker to the office. Mr. Walker bas occupied this positiou twice previously.
In counction with the noecting of St. Martin's Guild, which is to be held in Birmingham to-morrow, in addition to the ringing at St. Martin's from 5 to 6 p .tu, there will he special service ringing at the Cathedral from 2.30 to 3.30 p.m., when all who can attend will be welcome.
T'se valuable possessions of the Ancient Society of College Youths, including the peal and uane books, have been removed to safety lor the period of the war. They have been deposited in the vaulis at St. Prul's Cathedral.
Sunday is the oue hundred avd ninetieth anniversary of the first peal on the bells of St. Mary's, Rotherhithe, which lad !ate!'y uean cast by Thomas Leester, of Whitechapel. It was rung by the Sociaty of Eastern Scholars, the method was Boly Major and the ljabs were called by Thomas Besnett. There is, or was, a board in the beliry to record the performance.
Sunday is also the anniversary of the long peal of Bob Major, 15,360 changes, rung at Aston in 1793. It was a very notable periormance, beating (in number of changes) the 15,180 , also of Bob Major, rusg in 1737 at West Ham, and remaimed the record length in my method tuntit 1868 , when the College Youths rang 15,840 ohanges of Kcnt Treble Bols at Bethnal Green. A longer peal of Bob Major was not accomplished until thie 18,144 at Beaington in 1933.
On October 5thr 1839, Thumas Hattersley, for very nany years a noted ringer, was born at Sheffield, and ten years later on October 6 th his grasduither, Williann Booth, another and equally well-known ringer of an earlier generation, died.
On Ootoher 6th, 1788, the College Youths rang at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields the first peal of Stedman Cinques ever accomplished. The number of changes wws 6,206, and Japper Soowdon auggested that this leagth was chosen so as to make it more difficult for anotleer band to beat tha record. But the most likely explanation is that what was rang Was the composition of a peal of Caters (probably the one in the 'Clavis'). A 5,076 of Caters applied to eleren bells aives 6.206 .

Mr. Charles R. Lilley is one of the select number who have called peals on all numbers of bells. His list includes Grandsire and Sted. man from Doubles to Cincues, and Flain Bob and Treble Bob on ell man from froubles to Cingues, and

PRACTICAL ACTIVITIES.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir,-Your articles ou the home front and war-lime rimging are very timely and I should like to add to their importance by suggesting one or two points which I think, if followed, will greetly belp to keep our art alive.
At St. Mary's, Bexley, we are holding practioes on Saturday afternoons from 2.30 till 4.30 p.m., and any ringers, be thes learners or experts, are welcomed.
Now we lave in mind a scbense which I think will belp beginners a great deal. First and foremost we are carrying on with handbell practices two or three evenings per week with the additional practice on tower bells, und I can say from my own experience that this aroceduro is not only keeping the young ones interested, but that they are making goud progress. We have 17 here and I can assure you they are keener than ever.
We are also hoping to ingtitute a system of coulbined practices in this digtrict at the towers of Erith, Crayford, Dartford and Bexley baccessively, one tower per week, so, that there will be one practice per month per tower.
Probably the same thing conld be carried out in other places where Thero are, say, three or four towers within easy distance of each other. I thimk we all realise that the better the co-operation the better the results will be, and when the times become nornal again we shall be in a pogition to go forwerd.
One thing more, I should like to see the articles on 'With Pencit and Paper carried on and if possible extended. They are a great asset to the beginner. Finally, it is up to all of us to extend the sale of 'The Ringing world' to the utmost, for without it the Exercise would be dead. Tharking you for the good work you are doing.
H. A. HOLDEN.

IN THE BARNSLEY DISTRICT.

Dear Sir, -I mplensed to say we are not restricted at our tower. Felkirk, for ringing, as we ring every Sunday $10 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. to 11 日.m. and 2.30 to 3.30 p.m., When any ringer or ringers who would like to bave a pull of Minor will be welcome.
I upderstand that the majority of the towers in the Barnsley area, Where there is a band of ringers, are ringing for Suaday services.

We are also allowed to ring a peal if we wish at Felhirk, and I should be interested to know the feeling of the Exercise as to whether we should ring peals during the war period or got,

DANIEL SMTTH.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION MEETINGS TO BE CONTINUED.

At the annual meeting of the Lancashire Association, held at Blackpool on Saturday, a discussion took place on the question of future meetings, and the following resolution was passed: 'That we, the Lancashire Association, in annual meeting assembled, agree that our service ringing, practices and monthly meetings shall go on as usual, except when faw forbids.'

SURREY ASSOCIATION'S DECISION

RETIRED RINGERS TO BE APPROACHED

A meeting of the General Committee of the Surrey Association was held at Merstham on Saturday last to discuss the present situation.

It was unanimously decided that it be recommended that, as far as possibie, ringing in the churches affiliated to the Association should continue and that every effort should be made by members who were able to do so, to maintain the art throughout the district.

It was further suggested that steps might be taken to re-approach ringers, who previous to the outbreak of war had given up ringing, with a view to enlisting their services and thus strengthen bands depleted by the call of National Service.
It was further decided that, whilst it was not found possible to carry out the districts' pre-arranged programme, arrangements be put in hand in respect to three meetings, one to be held at Kingston, another at Redhill and the other at. Beddington. Appropriate notices relating to these meetings will appear in "The Ringing World.

It was learnt that at quite a number of churches in the Association's area ringing is taking place twice on Sundays and members and other ringers will be pleased to hear that ringing at the twelve-bell tower of St. John's, Croydon, recommenced as from last Sunday.

Practices are still being held at Leatherhead and Beddington, and no doubt enthusiastic ringers will make the necessary note.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

SECRETARY'S APPEAL

The General Secretary of the Oxford Diocesan Guild (Mr. R. T. Hibbert) writes as follows to all his fellowmembers :-May I, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' ask all of you in town or village towers to do your best to keep things going as best you can until these troublous times are over? Many bands will be depleted, but service ringing should be niaintained as far as possible, and practices, too, in village towers will be practicable. Some branch meetings may, and probably will be heid, and wherever possible I beg the ringers to back up branch secretaries to the very best of their endeavour.

In my own tower all practice night ringing is finished, but by ' blacking out ' the windows we meet some of our beginners and get a good handbell practice, which, I hope, will bear fruit in the future. I cannot hope to meet my friends all over the three counties as I have done during the last twenty years, and as far as things go, my job as General Secretary is a sinecure for a time, but anything I can do I am willing to do for one and all.

My sincere wish is 'Success to you all,' and don't let the O.D.G. ' slip back' any more than it is bound to until Hitlerism is finished. With sincere good wishes to all friends in Berks, Bucks and Oxon.

gOUTHEND INVITATION.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir,-In answer to your proposal that you would like information about Sunday ringing, we at the Parish Church, Prittlewell, Southend-on-Sea, are ringing on Sunday mornings from 10.20 till 11 o'clock, and on Sunday afternoons from 4.30 till 5.30 . The Sunday afternoon ringing is chiefly for our learners, who now, of course, have no other opportunity to practise. If there are any ringers who find their way towards Southend, whether privately or in H.M. forces, we should be very glad to weicome them.
A few of us are meeting at my house at 75, St. Mary's Road, on Monday evenings at $7.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. for handbell ringing, when we would be glad to see a visitor.
This handbell ringing we find difficult to teach, and agree with a letter from Sam Jones that a series of articles for the begimner would be appreciated by many ringers who have the duty of teaching.-Yours truly,
F. B. LUFKIN (Captain of local ringers).

ASSOCIATION MEETINGS.

To-morrow meetings are to be held as follows:-

Lancashire Association, Rochdale Branch meeting at Moorside.
Oxford Diocesan Guiid, Reading Branch meeting at Mortimer.
Bedfordshire Association, Biggleswade Diştrict at Sandy.
The Barnsley and District meeting at Monk Bretton arranged for to-morrow is postponed.

WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAT AFTERNOON PRACPICES. To the Fditor.

Dear Sir, Just a few lines to say how much we appreciate your leading articles as to the best ways of oarrying on in wro time and let you know what we are trying to do in tise winchester and Portsmoutil Diecesan Guild. Firat I may bay our Sunday service ringing at Nort' Stonelana is crafined to 11 a.m. and $3.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. services, ameeting at 10 a.m. the fourth Sunday in the month for an hour's ringing before the 11 a.m. service, the usual time for ringing being half an honr, unless by special arrangement; visitors reccive a hearty welcome and get a rope from rounds to Surprise Major or Royal.
Wra ar-s arranging for combined practices on Saturday afterzoons, and hope to meet an Saturday, October $14 t h$, say from about 3 p.m. till $5 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$ We hope those riggers interested will make a mote of this and we shall endeavour to give the enthusiast an opportunity to prantice Double Norwich, Cambridge and Torkshire Royal, in addition to the simpler standard methods for others.
We also hape with Mr. Linter's Wednesday band to arrange for meetings at Soberton, but fixtures will have to be made from one meeting to tive other, 8 the greatest diffculty is going to be the matter of transport, owing to the short ration of petrol. i shall be glad to hear from anyone who can help us, and aiso from anyone who crn lurn up at North Stoncham on October 14 hh.

GEORGE WHLLIAMS.

Siry-I an of the opinion that the curtailment of Sumday service ringing fas been carried too far. I suppose this area is at the present time ona of the most vulnemble places in the whole of the British Isles. Fet onr Rector has given permission for the bells to be rung on Sunday mornings from 10 till 11, and Sunday evenings from 4.45 till 5.30. Our bells have no bean rung on Sunday mornings since 1921. owing to most of the band having to augment the company at Rochester Cathedral, where the bells are now alent. Any ringer who is with the Chatham Division will be welcomed. C. E. NORRIS.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

ST. DIONIS' AND ALL HALLOWS'.

During the eighteenth century five peals are all that are known to have been rung at St. Dionis' and it is not until November 26th, 1850 , that we have any account of another. On that date the Cumberlands rang 5079 changes of Stedman Caters, and two years later, on November 22 nd , 1852 , the College Youths rang a similar length of the same method.

Towardis the end of the sineteenth century the character of the City of London had entirely changed. From being largely residential it had become almost entirely commercial. Outside, enormous suburbs were growing up with vast populations and scanty church accommodation, while the City, with its dozens of wealthy churches, was almost entirely deserted on Sundays.

The diocesan authorities were faced by the problem raised by so great an excess of material and moncy where it was not needed, and so great a deficiency where vas: numbers of people were living without the means of public worship. Of late years the problem has become cven more acute, but as early as about 1875 an attempt was made to adjust the balance. From the point of view of the spiritual needs of the Church and people it seemed that the only right thing to do was to sell the churches that were no longer needed, and, with the money, build others in the new districts; and an Act for the union of benefices was passed by Parliament.

There is, however, another side to the question. The City churches are the property of the parisnes, and there was and is a natural and right objection to desecrate ground that had been consecrated to the service of God for, perhaps, a thousand years and to pull down buildings, some of them of great artistic merit and which, as a whole, form one of the most striking architectural features of Iondon. The process of demolstion, therefore, was slow and only those of lesser value were at first threatened. St. Dionis' was one of the earliest, and a scheme to sell the church and unite the parish and benefice with the neighbouring parish of All Haliows, Grass. church, was finally approved by the vestry on April 28th, 18, 6.

Among the resolutions adopted was one that the parishioners, having received intimation that the bells of St. Dionis' Backchurch could be made available, recommended that it be a part of the scheme that such bells be presented to the church of the united parishes. This was included in the Order in Council, and, when St. Dionis' was pulled down, the bells were hung in the tower of Alt Hallows.

That parish, although it possessed a fine tower, had taken little interest in its bells and possessed only two. And now, after hanging in their new home for nearly sixty years, mostly silent, the bells are once more homeless. All Hallows, in its turn, has been pulled down, and the future of the bells is as yet uncertain.

Out of the sum received from the sale of St. Dionis?, after money had been allotted to the restoration of All Hallows and other objects, a new church of St. Dionis" was built at Parsons Green, Fulham. To it many of the fittings were removed, including the font given by Sir Henry Tulse.

ALL HALLOWS, LOMBARD STREET

'Then by the four corners, so called, of F'enchurch Street in the east, Bridge Street on the south, Grass Street on the north and Lombard Street on the west is one fair parish church called All Hallows, Grass Church in Lonbard Strcet; I do so read it in the evidences of record for that the grass market went down that way when that street was far broader than it now is, being straitened by encroachments."

So wrote John Stow in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The church had been rebuilt in the early part of the sixteently century, the steeple being finished in 544 . The fair stone porch' was brought from the lately dissolved priory of St. John of Jerusalem, near Smithfield, as well as the frame in which the priory bells had hung. One Warner, a draper of the parish, bought the priory bells, intending to give them to All Hallows, but he died before the transaction could be completed, and his son and heir refused to carry out his father's intention; ' and so," says Stow, " that fair steeple hath but one bell, as friars are wont to use. ' In the inventory made in the reign of Edward VI. the number is given as " $i j$ in the steple,' one of them probably being a saunce bell.

The church was much damaged in the Great Fire and was rebuilt by Wren in $1686-1694$ at a cost of $\mathcal{6} 8.058$ 55 s . 6d. Two bells, a large and a small one, were placed in the tower and no effort was made by the parish to obtain a ringing peal, until St. Dionis' was pulled down, when All Hallows received the bells from that tower as the parish church of the united parishes.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY

PROPOAED MEMORJAL TO THE LATE M㡽 T．J FLTON．
The autum meeting of the society for the Arcindeaconry of Shafiond was Ineld at Brewood on Sacurday iast．In typioal nutumin weather， members began la nssembie soon aiter 2 j．m．atd the trells were set going to Grandsire and Stedman Triples，Plain Boly and Kont Treble Bob Major，while roupds and ctet clanges wexe also rumg for begmmers， Despite the difficulties of transport，quite a good muster put in appearance One unfortunatz incidenl happened，and that was a stay gat，bent and，be it noted，not by ane of the aforesaid Jearners！ However，ringing coutinued until service time．

The Rev．©．Broughton Thompson（Vicar）delivered ay excellent Acdress，in tho course of which he said he hopes that Einging would never die out and be substituted by mechanical means，neo that fibgers slould keen up thieir practices and be ready to rinh for peace． He spoke of limeself as being eppeoially fould of hell musicic
Mrs．Mollio Winterton（dauphter of Mr． J ．Perry，the estemed captain of the local band）presided at the orean，ayd right ably did she manage it．
A very tijee tea was provided in the Jubilee Eall－through the gererosity of sonse kind friends．This was followed by the business meeting，presided over by the Vicar．Applogies for Alueste were received frown the Rev．C．H．Barker，clericial secretary and treasureer， Mr．B．ब．Key，Ringing Histert，who is on astive services；Messry J．Warrilow，C．Wallater，T．Benton，W．Peart ank w．A．Walker．

On accoum of lighting restrictions，it was resolved that the next meecing，which was to have been leeld at All Saints＇，West Bronnsich， in Januinary next，shoold not take place，Also，tor the same reason， the dinuer arrangemients for Novewber should be cancelled．
A letter was received from Mr．W．A．Walker，tomerkeeper at st． Matthew＇s，Walsail，stating that a sugestion was bering made for Mhe placing of a memorial tablet in st．Mat iticw，befiry to the tate Mr．Themas J．Elton，who for many years acted as cuptain in that tower，and who had done valuable work for the saciety in the cause of change riuping．Members and friends arc iurited to send subbecrip； be gratefuly akk now wledyed thy him．
A vote of Ulianks to the Vicar for lis adidress and use of the bells， to the organist for her essistance，to Mrss．Durbeil anad fier leelpers in prepring aud sersing tea，was received with applause． Handebels were thens brought into use to the tune of Grandsire Triples and Caters，Bab Majer，Stedman Doubles and Triples．Thys endied $a$ Thappy gatlesting in spite of the difipeulties which liad to be overcome．

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON  （Continued from previous page．）

The Order in Council provided that the two bells from All Hallows should go to the new ctiurcla of St．Dionis＇ which was being built at Parsons Green，Fulham，but the churchwardens disregarded the orler and disposed of them to St．Paul＇s，Southwark．The authorities of St． Dionis＇appealed to the Eicclesiastical Commissioners as the legal owners of the property of the demolished church of St．Dionis＇Backchurch，offering to give $£ 50$ as an act of grace if they could have the bells；but the Com－ missioners disclaimed all responsibility in the matter，as they had belonged to All Hallows．Eventually，they gave to St．Dionis＇，Parsons Green，a bell that had formerly been at St．Michael＇s，Bassetshaw，and the vicar and wardens of the former church renounced all claims．
All Hallows stood on a site where land is as valuable as almost anywhere in the world and several efforts were made to sell it and use the money for building churches elserwhere．These efforts had always been defeated until lately，when serious structural defects occurred in the building and the east wall had to be taken down for safety．It was then decided to pull the church down and to build another in a new neighbourhood at Twickenhan， 10 which the fittings，including the very fine carved woodiwork，will be transferred．
As I have said，the bells are for the present without a home．Although the churcll stood in the centre of the City，it was so hemmed in by high buildings that it was atmost entirely invisible．Nowhere from the street could more than one top corner of the tower be seen．It was impossible to get a photograph of it，and so I made a sketch which is shown in this article．

EINCKLEY DLSTRLCTS FIRAT WARTEME MEETLNG．
The first war－time meeting of the Hinckley District of the Midland Conuties Association was held at Kirkby Malbory，Leicestershire．on Saturday．Tho back five belis were raised in rounds aud Granosire Doubles rung before 3.30 ．Other wembers und friends laving arrived， steduan Doubles，Plain Beb，Dauble Court，Kent Treble Bois and Cambridge Surprise Major were rung until service time．The attend－ ance was only 14，many，no donbt，heing prevented by their duties front abtemding，particulanly blote employed in farmivg．Oue mem－ ber，engaged in dairy Inrming，on see nu prospects of service riaging durin苦 the winter montlas．

The Rectur（the Rew．E．Mills）conducted the usurl II．C．A．form of service，which began with the ringers＇hymn，Lifted high within the steeple．＂In the course of his adofess，the Rector said that owing to the difficultics of catering in a small village at these times and afso to the selool being in use for a large tumber of efecuated dhildren， in addition to then own，he was very reluctantly compelled to cancel the tea，but lee hoped，on tha return of liappier dave，to have the plensure of agein welcoming the didtrict ringers and to be able to resume the tsual teas．The Rector spole of the work ripgers could do at this time to lolp bring in the Kingdom of God．Belly，he said， ring out a mensage of invifation ta everyone within lesring．There was room for everybody to work for the Kiagdom，each in their own particular way．He was sure ringers would do their part by givage their services gladly．

After service it short meeting was held，Mr．A．Ballurd，district chairnan，fresiding．The Rector was thenked for his address and for the use of the bells．Thanks were also expressed to the lady organist．
The invitation of the Rector of Sharmford to hold e ringing meeting there on Onlober 2lat was accepted．T＇le next jtem－coll call of tawers represented－was nrranged so that the time of Sunduy service raming at etcin townt sens staled．These were．Burbage，10．20 a．m．Crof 10.20 a．m．and $2.3 \cup \mathrm{p}$ ．m．：Hinkeley， 10.30 日．m．and $2.45 \mathrm{p.m.:} \mathrm{Kirkby}$ Mallory， 10.30 a．m，and $2.40 \mathrm{p}, \mathrm{nm}$ ．＇Peckletan，no rimging ；Sliatnford， 10．30 a．m．：Narket Bosworth， 9.45 a．m．

In cases where no aftermnon ringing is montioned，静e present evening serwices are to be shortly altered，and consequently to times could be stated，as these times are given so they way be of use to visitirg ringers．

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE．

A discussion fallowed on how to maintuin meetings aud intereat in ringing．
Jt was learmed that one groug of four towers near Hugglescote propose ta lold a Saturday afternoon practice at each tower in turn on，perlaps，the flrst Saturday in cach month．
If was agreed that nieedings slould be held as frequently as possible， preferably in weels when use could he rad de of moonlight，and that， whenever poselble，tea should be arranged followed by a social．
It was pointed oat that as rimging in the towers would be severely restricted during the winter months，it was impartant that the social side should receive nore atfention．
Gromps could also be arraned to practice handbell riaging．Some litetatare would he most wheful for many hands．

It．was agreed that ebch tower should ascertain if their bells would be available for Saturday afterman ringing and that reports should the made af the Sharaford meeting．when the place and dete of the hext practice meeting could be derided．
The secrefary fskei all towers to take at least one copy of＂The Ringing World＇in order to inform thenaselves of the meeting arrange－ ments and so help hoth the paper and his mostages．

Furlier ringing whs indulged in until darkness rompelled menhers to proced liomessards．One party，who，it was alleged，har hrought jugs in their gas nask cases，tarried on the wav．Quantities of anpos and＇colos＇were requisitioned，together with sowe＇pre－Budget＇ refresliment．
When these ware prepering for the raad，nuch hilarity was cassed by the efforts of wo well－known members to reduce the lighting efficiener of their new rear lamos．purchased，it was claimed，especialy to attend the menting．and which gave much better iliumination than is permitted even for hesdanms．Thwo thicknesses of notepaper was faumd to reduce the＇searctilight，iffect．Even then，ane propased to cycla luackwards．Fie said lip could aee much better．

SLOUGH RINGER'S DEATH.

LONG FAMILY CONNECTION
Therg passed away at Slough on September 2nd Mr. Alïred W Lender, aged 64 vears, aiter a painful illness of five months' durahor. He was buried at St. Mary's Cluruh on the following Wednesday near the tower where he learnt to ring under his father, the late William Leader, who was foreman for 40 years.
alired Leader was a chorister before luking to the bell rope and for many years a member of the Ferschel Lodge of Oddieilows. Chauge of business, soon after the war of 1914, prevented his attendance for Sunday service ringing, after 20 years of regular duty.
He had rung ebout half a dozen pealz-all Grandsire Triples-for the Royal Cumberland Youtirs and the Oxford Diocesan Guild.
From the time when the original ring of six were installed in 1855 there has always been a Leader in the local band, and also an employe of the Great Westeru Railway

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

A GESTURE OF HONOUR.

If it should happen that this war is a long war, ringing organisations are likely to find a considerable drain on their financial resources, and those which are not too well blessed with funds may eventually be hard put to it to make ends meet. The reason, of course, is not far to seek. There is going to be a heavy call upon the man power of the belfries and as ringers are called away to service elsewhere, there are certain to be some who will neglect, or be unable, to keep their subscriptions going. Even in a normal year there is always a proportion who fail to pay their dues, and if every association were to strike off the roll all who allow themselves to lapse, there would be a serious decline in the real membership of many societies. Most, however, allow a considerable latitude to defaulters, a latitude which, often, is not justified. Association finances consequently suffer. Tlie circumstances in the days before us will accentuate this position. Among the men called away there are those who will not be able, even if they are willing, to kcep their subscriptions paid, but in their case it should be the concern of the societies to see that they retain their membership. Those who are called to serve in the fighting forces must not be allowed, either through lack of means, or lack of opportunity of paying, to lose their link with their associations.

On the other hand, those who are left at home should be all the more ready to support the associations; indeed, they should welcome the opportunity of showing their absent colleagues that they are determined to keep the lag flying, not only by an extra keenness and effort in the belfry, but by a little personal sacrifice which may touch their pocket. The maintenance of ringing organisations throughout the country is a vital necessity to recovery later on, and those who are left to carry the Exercise through these disturbing days might well make some special endeavour to ensure the financial stability of the associations.

Just a few of the societies, of course, could exist for a time, without the life blood of revenue, but the large majority may find it extremely difficult to sustain any real activity; if they are faced with a much reduced income. It is easy to say 'We will see that none of our members called away to serve their country shall lapse," but it ought to be possible for those who are left to do more than this. Cannot they undertake to pay the whole or part of the subscriptions of the absent members, if the latter are unable to pay for themselves, both for the good of the associations, and also as a gesture of honour to those who have gone out to serve their country?

After all, we get our ringing cheaply enough. We have our instruments and the appurtenances provided for us without cost. True, we make it a duty to ring for the Sunday services, but this is no hardship, because we love our art and desire to serve the Church, and the shilling or two which we pay annually to our association is but a small levy for all the pleasure which we get out of our ringing and the opportunities which are provided for us to meet and fraternise with our friends, Cannot those who are left at home make it their responsibility to pay the subscriptions of their fellows in the Services?

It may be said that these are early days to talk of doing this, but we do not think so. The experience of the last war was that the associations suffered rather seriously financially; now is the time to plan if similar difficulties are to be avoided in the future. In every belfry where a man has to leave on military service the remaining members should start a fund into which they could put their pence over a few weeks to ensure the payment of the absent ringer's contribution. And as others are drafted away those who remain might continue to provide these subscriptions. An additional penny a week would guarantee the contributions of at least two members, and there will be few towers, we imagine, where two-thirds of the ringers will be lost. As an alternative to a fund of this kind, individual ringers could undertake to pay the subscription of one colleague in addition to their own. It would be no real lardship to most, and it would be a safeguard to the associations, whose duty it will be to bend all their energies to reviving the art and setting it forth again on the path of progress, as soon as the opportunity is ripe.

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER.

COURSING ORDER AND THE CONDLCTOR.

If we bear in mind the varying position of the treble, we can say that the Coursing Order of Bof Major is never at any time altered except by a bob or a single. There are three places where we can call bobs without disturbing the tenors, the Wrong, the Middle, and the Right or Home. (Presently we shall have something to say about Bobs Before.)

Now let us see what effect these bobs have on the Coursing Order

If we call a bob at Wrong (the first lead end) the natural course end we produce is 52436 . A bob at the Midde (the sixth fead end) produces $4365^{2}$, and a bob at the Right. (the seventh lead end) produces 42356. Transpose each of these by $53^{2} 46$ to get the Coursing Orders that will be produced and set the results down as follows :-

\text { A bob at } W \text { produces }

\text { do. do. } \mathrm{A} \text { do. }

\begin{array}{cc}
\text { Natural Course- } & \text { Coursing } \\
\text { Ends. } & \text { Orders. } \\
23456 & 53^{2} 46 \\
5^{2} 436 & 3^{2} 546
\end{array}

\text { do. do. } \mathrm{R} \text { do. }

When we compare the Coursing ${ }^{42356} \quad \mathbf{5}^{2} 436$
wob at Wrone Coursing Order produced by a that three bells are altered; and these three are the threc which follow each other immediately after the seventh. What has happened is that the bell which before had been lollowing the seventh now lollows the other two, and the order of these three bells is altered from ABC to BCA.

When we examine the actual changes at the bob we find that the bell which previously had followed the seventh is the bell that makes the bob. So that we can say that the effect a bob at Wrong has on the Coursing Order is to put the bob making bell, which previously had been next after the seventh, two positions later in Coursing Order. The relative position of all the other beils are not altered. Instead of the bells coursing in the order 23456, they course in the order 34256.

Very little mental transposition is required to find the new Coursing Order provided that the ringer has accussomed himself to observing Coursing Order as a regular practice. For instance, if before he calls a bob Wrong the Coursing Order is 34625 , he can without difficulty know that after he has called it, the Coursing Order will be 46325 . Moreover, if he is observing the Coursing Order he can never be at a loss as to which of the bells should make the bob.

A bob at the Middle alters the position in Coursing Order of the three bells which are hunting, one after another, immediately in front of the tenor, and gives the order $235^{6} 4$ instead of $2345^{6}$. Again, it is the bob making bell which is put two positions further backward in Coursing Order, the relative positions of all the other beils being unaltered.

A bob at Home alters the position in Coursing Order of the three bells furthest in Coursing Order from the tenors, and gives the order 2453 西 instead of 23456 . Yet again it is the bob making bell which is put tro positions further backward in Coursing Order, the relative positions of the other bells being unaltered.

All this will give us a simple rule for transposing to obtain new Coursing Orders produced by bobs, at either Wrong, Middle, or Home. Retain the old Coursing Order except that the bob making bell must be put two positions later, and will come after the two bells which run In and Out at the bob instead of in front of them.

But besides the Wrong, the Middle, and the Home, there are other bobs which can be called without parting the tenors, or, if they do part them, are made in series, and if the first parts them the second brings them together again. As these bobs are very often used in peals we will next consider what effect they have on the Coursing Order.

The most important of them is the bob Before, in which the tenor runs out and the seventh runs in; and which in Bob Major lengthens the course by one lead.

The natural course-end proxiuced by a Before is 35264 . All the working bells are displaced and as sometimes two, or three, or even more, Befores can be used in the same course, this makes it very difficult to transpose course-end from course-end while you are ringing.

Here are three courses takerı from a peal composed and conducted by the Rev. J. H. Pilkington in 1897 on the bells of his own church, Framlinghan. The calling is very similar all through and would prusent a stiff task to those very clever condictors who, as they are ringing, transpose the course-end by the scales given in a table of course-ends.

These four courses contatin parts of no fewer than thirteen ' natural ' courses, each with its natural courscend.

If we work by Coursing Order instead of by courseends we slaall find that the task is very much simplified and welt within the limits of the average good cothductor's capacity.

There are nine changes of Coursing Order caused by bobs at Wrong, Middle, or Home, and we have already seen how to deal with them.

Now study the bob Before. If you write out a course of Bob Matior and make a bob when the tenor runs nut and the seventh in, you will find that one other bell only is itffected and that is the one which makes the bolj. Now look at the Coursing Order and you will see that whereas that bell was, previous to the bob, coursing in front of the tenor, it now courses immediately after the seventh, and the Coursing Order of the other working bells is not altered. Whereas in the plain course the Coursing Order was $53^{246}$, in the natural course produced by a bob Before the Coursing Order is $65324^{.}$ All we have to do is to take the last of the bells ill Coursing Order and put it first.

As a piece of practice set down by transposition the Coursing Orders of the four courses given above. To do so you must have the previous course-end to start from. It is 65234 .

\begin{array}{llll}
\text { R to W } & W \text { to } B & B \text { to } M & B \text { to } R \\
35624 & 5^{6} 3^{2}+ & 45632 & +5326 \\
43^{256} & 3^{2456} & 32456 & 3^{2} 456 \\
3+526 & 45326 & (64532) & \\
& & 26453 & 26534 \\
2536+ & 53264 & 53^{264} & 53264
\end{array}

The Coursing Order given in brackets lasts for one jead only.

COURSING ORDER.

In a similar way it is good practice to set down by pencil and paper the Coursing Orders which occur in some peal that you may be likely to call, whenever conditions permit. The familiar four-part composition by J. R. Pritchard is a good example.

Occasionally in Bob Major a peal has two bobs made in following leads, in the first of which the seventh makes the bob and in the second the tenor makes the bob. The first parts the tenors, the other brings them together again.

For our present purpose, and for many others too, it is well to treat these two bobs as one operation. The course-end they produce is 64523 and the Coursing Order (which in the plain course is $53^{24}$ ) is changed to 24653 . That means that when you are transposing your Coursing Order you must count as the last the two bells which previously you counted first. These two bells are those which will rus in and out at the bobs.

AN ANCIENT ABBEY BELL To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-Talley Abbey, near Llandilo, Carmarthenshire, one of the most romantic and fascinating ruins in Camarthenshire, county of ancient monuments, was founded in, or a short tinse before isg6. King John made a grant to the Abbey in 1208, another grant being made by King Edward I. in the thirteenth year of his reign, and still another by Edward III. in 1334. In 1772 it was agreed to build a new church, and in dismantling the Abbey, the great bell, weighing $7^{2}$ cwts., was carted to Carmarthen by one, Grifiths Parry, who was paid 85 . 6d. for his services, and then shipped to Exeter. Is it now in Exeter Cathedral? Is this bell in the present peal? As there is considerable doubt about these bells, I should be glad if any reader could enlighten me.

THE B.B.C. INTERVAL SIGNAL.

TRIPLUS BEST FOR BROADCASTENG.
To the Rditor
Dear Sir,-As Mr. Trotman, in your issue of September 29th, is asking, what does the rest of the Exercise feel about the B.B.C. interval signal, I will, as one of the rest, state what I think ahoot it. To begin with, I agree with Mr. Trotman when he states that ' it miglt be improved on." Alsi I Agree that the suggested new record should certajnly get rid of the nonotong of always having the trelsles at the lead '-in other words, the new record should not be call changes, but I part company entirely with Mr. Trotman when he objects to "the tenor behind all the time." (I refer, now, only to broadcastíng purposes.)
In my opusion, when ringing is being broadcast "ell it " ringing on any uumbers is a mistake. We are told "there is no beginning or end to it." If the broadcasf was to be confined to the ears of ringers -then certainly it should be of the highest campanological character, but it is broadeast to the whole public, very few of whom know anything of campanology, and I think the finality of the tenor behind is, for such an uninitiated audience, very much to be desired.
We have, of course, many bands quite apable of puttiog over the air a perfectly struck touch of, say, Double Norwich, as suggested by Mr. Trotman, but I submit, sir, thant however well it is struck, it is not nearly as appealing to tbe non-ringing public as is well-struck Triples, or ever Caters, if rung slowhy enough.
The type of broadcast, that has appaled to me more than any other, end I believe to many ather ringers as well, has come from the belfry of St. John's, Croydon, and from their old ring of eight, They then used to give us very slow aud very well struck Stedman Triples, and, to my mind, for broadcasting purposes, Triples, race slowly, is ideal. Fast ringing, far broadcesting, I think, is wrapg.
Craaleigh.

PRESENT REGORD PRAISED

Dear Sir, - It reply to Mr. Trotmar, 1 should like to say e few words if I may. I will etart et the end of his letter, but I won't sponk for the rest of the Excrcise, but one of the Jxercise. Since we firse lad this record of Bow bells, I have oever get beard anyone say, 'Those - bells, etc.' I say they are music itself and beautiful music too. We all like a course, or peal for that matter, of Double Norwich, but as we only get at the most two minukes of interval signal, where should we be if they start with rounds every time? We might hear a lead or lead and a lialf of the same chatuges. This would soon get monotonous, but a few changes of Caters with the trobles at lead and temor behind are final, and I am sure the public or, as Mr. Trotman puts it, the world over like to hear the tenar behind. Who knawg anything about Double Norwich except a few bellringers? The B.B.C. have pleaty of records of change ringing. hut they seem to prefer the one in question, and, after all, what. right lave we to jaterfere with the B.B.C.? If the time signal was anytling else but hells we should not. think of doing so.
I think, Mr. Editor, if my menary serves me right, we heard a course of Double Norwich an the bait eight ab Bow some years ago ruag for evening service. They are the same bells we liear on this record. It Fas good and well struck, but would not a course of Grandsire Gaters be better than eigint bells? Mr. Trotman says that good as this old record is, it might be jmproved ou. I should like to know in what way.

I venture to say that if Mr . Trotman chose the band himself he could not get better striking or find a sweeter peal of bells.
May I suggest that we get on with the jobs referred to by Sam Jones and Ruchard V. Tuller and the Editor's front page and leave the B.B.C to put their own house in order? C. F. WEBE.

The bridegroom is a well-known ringer in the South Yorkshire area and is Ringing Master of the Sheffeld and District Society. The bride, taking up clange ringing in the last 18 months, has made rapud progress in the art.

Touches in various methods were rung before ifle wedding, in which the bridegroom took part, and after the service a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bols Major was rung by John Holman 1, Q. Gordon Graliam (conductori) 2, Harry Stenton 3, Jack Brotiowell 4, John Brothwell 5, Jahn E. Turley 6, Tom Brothivell 7, Reginald Payne 8.

a Miniature ring.

A peal of Graudsire Doubles lias been ruag on a unique sot of bells at Middleton, Lancaslire. Thoy liave been made by Mr. Norman Berry and are hung on oak headstoves, with aluminium wheels, in an oak frame, aud are complete with ropes and stays. The tenor weighs only 42 ounces and unas the kote $F$.
A mall semb-elliptical spring, need in conjunction with the stay, enalbles the beils to be held up at hand or backstroke at will.
Mr. Rerry's ingenuity will be admired, as will his skill and thet of the ollier two ringers who scored the peal on these midget bells. A photograph of them which we Feve received shows them upon a stand round which the ringers can presumably sit, but, aven 80 , it Ruplears to us 4 great deal of denterity must be aeeded to coatrol these minialure bells. The peal was rung ot the fourth attempt.

BELERY GOBOIP

Largely t.lrough the instrumentality of Mr. G. E. Symonds and the St. Mery-le-Tower Sooiety, the manugcripts of the late Samuel Siater relating to the performances of the Norwich Scholary have been deprosited in the Borough Library of Ipswich. It is very satisfnctory to lnow that these rocurde, the fruit of many years labour by Mr . Slater, are now preserved for future gearations.
Last Wednesday was tho twenty-nithth anniversary of the first peal on ten bells entirely by parsons. It was 5,067 changes of Stedman Caters, rumg at St. Mary's, Warwich, ana conmosed and condncted by 1 . $\mathrm{D}, \mathrm{P}$. Davies. In addition to the conductor, the band contained H. S. T. Richardson, F. J. O. Helmore, H. L. James end C. W. Jenky, all of whom have passed away. as weh rs Canon Coleridge, Mr. Carew Cox and Mr. F.. F. Cox, who, Jappily, ate still with us.
On Octaber 17tls, 1726, the College Youtlis rang the first peal an the new bells which Rudiall had just supplied to St. Marin's-in-theFields. The method was Grandsire Caters and the bobs were called ly Benjamin Agmatule. Caters was rung, we notice, not Cinques, although the intention was iron the first to install twelve belle, and the order was duly given.
The natural conchusion is tint when the church was corncerated (which was a day or kwo after the College Youtlas' peal), the two trebles were not ready. The founder seems to have had some trouble with these bells, and when he did hang them they did not agree properly with tho others. Some years later they were taken dowu and replaced by new ones. They then got into the steeple of All Saints', Fullam, where one of them still 18.
One hundred and eiglty-four years ago yeaterday George Partrick called Holv's Ten-Pari pesl of 'Grandsire 'Triples at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, and the Cumberlands, who made up the band, claized if ns the first time this famons tumposition was rume. The claim has genervily been allowed, but four month previously on June gth, 1754 , the Fastern Scholars, with Wilfiem Underwood as conductor, rang "at. the Parish Chureli of Saint Gearge in the County of Minde. Rex, a Compleat. Peal of 5,040 Grandsire Treblea with two Singles, baing the first of the kind ever rang on them Bells.'
At the time only three penls of Grandsire with two singles liad been compored amd all by John Hold-tho Original, the Ten-Part and the Six-Part. We may be reasonably sure that Underwood did not oall the Original; be may have called the Six-Part, but it is much more likely that he called the Ten-Part, A month earlier he hed ealler? another peal of Gramdsire Triples at Romford, but no indicrtion is given as to the nature of the composition. However, it welt may lavz been the firg pertormance of the Ten-Part.
Thomas Tolladay, who more than anyone else made the St. Jonnes Society ons of the leading London companies, died on October 181 h , 1843. The mufled peal to his memory wes not raug until the following January 3rd.
As amnounced among the notise of meetings, the Lanenshire Assuciation have postyoned the meeting at Whittle-le-Moors to Ontober 21 th owing to the regrettable death of the hon. hranch gerretary, Mr. Alfred Blogg.

RAMPTON, BELLS.

To the Editor

Dear Sir, The fund for our sixtly bell is still open and stands at present at 26 128.
The advance in bell metal has increfsed the cost of fittings and bells to such an extent that wo are unalio to install both belle et thr same time, as was hoped. However, the 5th hell of our peal is safcly paid for and will (D.V.) be dedicated nt $3.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. on Wednesday. November 1st, the feagt of All Saints.
This bell is given by their sons in memory of the Rer. C. Fr. and Mrs. Eve'va. White, Rector and Lad\% of tie Rectory 1894-1928. THOMAS I. HAVERS, Recior.

The bridegroom has been a meruber of the Barrew Guild of Ringers for geveral yoars. Tmmediately after the cerrmony touches of Bob Minor and Grandsre wore rung hy the local band and some of the bridegroom's fellowringers from st. Peter"s, Barton-on-Humber. Tliose taking part, were F. Fowler, J. Chapmen. W. Goddard, T. Johnson, J. Barrick, I. Atkinson, E. Dannatt and F. Eastoe.

WAR TIME RINGING.

HIGH WYCOMBE AND THE BLACK-OUT
The north aisle of the Parish Church, High Wycombe, Bucks, has been re-conditioned to meet the Lighting Restrictions Regulations to enable 6.30 evensong on Sunday to be continued. A like arrangement in the beliry ensures ringing as usual. This scheme came into operation on Sunday, Oct. Ist. At 5.45 p.m. the Vicar, the Rev. W. L. P. Float, met his ringers as usual in the belfry, a full band having assembled. The President offered prayers, and, as he retired, the bells were sent off promptly at 5.55 p.m. to the tune of Stedman Cinģues. Four courses were successfully rung by 12 members of the local tower, so at least one ring of twelve does not hang derelict.

Ringing will continue as hitherto for Choral Celcbration, ist Sunday in the month at $9.20 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. , other Sundays at 10.20 a.m., Evensong at 5.55 p.m. sharp. A (|uarter-peal can be attempted on any Sunday evening by arrangement. P'ractice is on Mondays at $7 \cdot 30$ p.m

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

ST. MARGARET'S, WESTMLNSTER.  By J. Armiger Trollope

According to a tradition referred to in a fifteenth century manuscript now in the Abbey muniments, St. Margaret's was founded by King Edward the Confessor. Stow relates that there was formerly a parish church within the olf Abbey Church, and as this was somewhat to the annoyance of the monks, for their ease and commodity, the king caused it to be builded without.

Doubt is, however, thrown on this tradition by the fact that, so far as can be ascertained, the name and fame of St. Margaret of Antioch were unknown in England before the time of the Crusades, and it was not until the twelfth century that churches were dedicated in her honour.

In the reign of Edward $I$, the church was entirely rebuilt by the parishioners and the merchants of the staple, except the chancel, which was rebuilt by the Abbey as rector. This church, in its turn, became ruinous and at the end of the fifteenth and the beginning of the sixteenth centuries, when so many of the London churches were rebuilt in the Perpendicular style, the present building was erected.

The old tower contained three bells and evidently stood at the west end of the clurch, as was usual in medieval churches. In 1516 the first stone was laid of a new tower, which was also to be a porch; and at the ceremoney Master Verton, Walter Gardiner and other worshipful and well-disposed people of the parish of their charity and good mind gave 664 s. 7 d. towards the cost.

This was the time wher parishes all over England were, when they could afford it, increasing the number of their bells to five. One bell was given to St. Margaret's by Master Pomfrey, and, for the second, gifts of money and metal were collected in the parish.

The old metal collected was 'by the Commandment of the worshipful of the parish, delivered to William Smith, founder, in part payment of the new bell, two brasses, and a clapper.' Some years previous to this Willian Smith (or it may have been his father) was sued by the parish of St. Mary-at-Hill on account of a bell he had cast for them.

The old tower evidently was still standing and payments 'were laid out for the taking down of the bells and frame and for setting bp the old frame in the new steeple, and also for the making of the new frame for five bells and for new hanging of the bells.

In English parish churches the normal position of the porch was at the south side and of the tower at the west end. In the smaller churches of the fourteenth century it is unusual to find any door at all on the north side, and even in the large Perpendicular Churches, where there are both north and south porches, the latter is almost always the principal entrance.

Why St. Margaret's is an exception to this rule is easy to see; its position in front of the Abbey decided the matter. But it is not easy to see why the tower was built on the north side. There were other churches which had the same feature; St. Mary-le-Bow and St. Michael, Cornhill, for instance, in London, and St. Mary Redcliffe in Bristol; but in these cases the matter was decided by the restricted sites. At St. Margaret's there was plenty of room to build the tower at the west end. To-day people might object that such a tower would obstruct the view of the Abbey, but that would hardly be a consideration in the fifteenth century. It may be that the parishioners wished to use their bells without any break, and so kept the old tower standing until the new one was ready; but that does not strike one as a very likely reason.

Although I have no direct evidence on the point, I suggest that the most likely explanation may be found in the relationship of the Abbey and the parish church. St. Margaret's had originally been built by the monks as a humble dependent on the Abbey and the monks claimed and largely exercised the right of control. But, as was usual in the many similar churches throughout the country, the parishioners resented the assumption of inferiority and resisted the control. To own and to use bells was the sign of independence in a church, and there are many instances of disputes between monastic and parochial churches over the ringing of bells. Nearly always the abbey asserted that its services were being disturbed by the parish bells. If this were so at Westminster then we can see why the position of the tower was altered from the west end to the nortli-west corner, for that would put the whole body of the church between the bells and the Abbey choir.

The weights of the five new bells at St. Margaret's are given in the churchwardens' accounts for ${ }^{1527}$ as follows: - the treble, 500 lbs ; the second, 62 r lbs. ; the third, 856 lbs . the fourth, $\mathrm{r}, 010 \mathrm{lbs}$. ; and the tenor, $1,614 \mathrm{lbs}$. There was also a saunce bell which, after the changes in the ritual of the Mass, was hung in a turret at the top of the tower, probably, as at St. Bartholomew by the Exchange, so it could be heard further, and all the people in the parish might know the times of divine service. This turret was erected in 1565 , and for the making of it the parish paid John Barrowell $£_{3} 65.8 \mathrm{~d}$.

In 5 511 the church possessed a "sacring bell p'celle gilt,' which disappeared in the reign of Edward VI., when so much charch property was alienated. At that time the building itself narrowly escaped destruction. The Duke of Somerset, Lord Protector of the Realm, intended to build for himself a great mansion on the site of what is now Somerset House, and to provide the ground and materials he confiscated and pullied down more than one church. "Having cleared the place and projected the intended $\mathbf{F a b r i c}$, the Workmen found that more Material would be wanting to go through with it than the demolished Church and the Houses would afford unto them. He therefore resolves for raking down the Parish Church of Saint Margaret at Westminster and turning the Parishioners for the celebrating of all Divine offices into some part of the nave or main body of the Abbey Church, which should be marked out for that purpose. But the workmen had no sooner advanced their Scaffolds when the Parishioners gathered together with Bows and Arrows, Staves and Clubs and other such offensive weapons which so terrified the workmen that they ran away in great amazement and never could be brought again upon that employment."

In 1565 " Mr . ffysher bestowed of his benevolence being churche-warden ' the recasting of the second bell, and in 1592 Valentine Trevor was employed to recast the bells or some of them; but fe did the work' falsely and deceitfully," so that Robert Mot had to be called in to cast them again. The churchwardens 'received of dyvers worshipful parishioners and others towards the charge of the newe Bells iiij li xijd.' The weights of the beils before they went away to be recast and after they came back again were carefully noted and recorded in the parish accounts. Four years later the fourth was broken and ' Mr. Moat ' was paid £io for the recasting and for a new clapper.

At some time during the earlier part of the seventeenth century the ring was increased to six, and in 1670 the octave was completed. The founder was Mr. Darbic, who was paid 44 ros. for the two bells. It is usually assumed that this was the somewhat notorious Michael Darbie. Such a thing is not impossible, for Michael was at London man and was still alive, though nearing the end of his career (his will is dated $166_{i}^{2}$ ). The tikelihood, however, is that the bells were cast by John Darbie, of 1 pswich, a much better craftsman, who in the next year supplied a ring of six to St. Vedast's, Foster Lane, and (probably) some bells to St. Sepulchre's, Snow Hill. The ring of eight remained in St. Margaret's steeple until $\mathbf{1 7 3 9}$, when Samuel Knight, who had already cast the grand ring of twelve at St. Saviour's, Southwark, and was then casting the ring of ten for St. Sepulchre's, Newgate, was employed to recast them. Knight died in the same year and before the job was completed. He had cast the first four, but the fifth and it may be the three largest bells were cast by his heir and successor, Robert Catlin. Catlin was a carpenter and bell hanger and a first-class workman, as his frame at Southwark shows, but as a bell founder he was not the equal of his master.
In ${ }^{1761}$ the ring was increased to ten by Lester and Pack, who also recast the tenor. The present eight was cast by Thomas Janaway in 1773 and the present ninth by Thomas Mears in 1834 .

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

MEETING AT FAGBOURNE UNDER WAR-TLME CONDITIONS A practice meeting was held at East Hagbourne on Saturday, were availabie from 2.30 until 6 p.m. The convening of this meeting Was in the nature of an experiment, the usual tea and service being omitted in order to give tive maximum amount of time to ringing. Stout a dozen ringers were present from Oxford, Abingdon, Radley, Steventon and Fast Hagbourne. This was considerod fairly satis: factory, and various metiods were practised witi energy and success.
A general discussion followed on the best means of keeping riuying alive in North Berks, and in wiew of the fact that most towers have ceased to prastise, it was decided to try and arrange $a$ sinilar meeting once m month at different towers in the district. It is proposed to hold the nest at Drayton on Saturidy, October 88th, subjeect to tho onecessary permission being obtrined. It is hoped thet when these practices become mare widely known in the district they will be better tupported. All ringers. will be welcome no matter how bumbie their achievements, suld it is oerneuthy hoped that the district will hack up its secretary and those responsible for making this effort to keep up the standard of ringing in the difficult monthis ahead.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

MEETING AT ACTON

A nrost enjoyable meeting of the Crewe Branch of the Chester Dlocesan Guild was held at Acton on Oertober 7th, where there is a very nice ring of six bells. Wineteen members were present from the Iollowing towers: Crewe, Wistaston, Acton, Nantwich and Marbury. The ringing was uncin enjoyed from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., and atterwards the Vicar, the Rev. Cherles I'arry-Williams, conducted a short service in the chirche
The ringers were afterwards entertained to tea by the Parochial Churel Couscil at the Vicarage. A liearty yote of thanks for this welcome lospitality was proposed by Mr. Riebard T. Holding end secouded by Mr. Richard D. Lang ford.
The Vicar responded and said that he thought that the art of chavge rixping should be kept going even in these anxious times. He also said he hoped the meetings would be field wherever it was possible; even if it meant thai later on ringers would have to bring their own food rationa.

ARRANGING A WAR TIME MEETING.

keeping the enemy in the dark.

The other day I went down to - well, I had betief not say where, in case 1 should be giving awiy any secrat that miglat ba of value to the enemy, bui I went down just to see my old friend BillI ought not to say what his other name is, in case it should enabie the enemy to itlentify the place, because he could casily trace that by searching the files of "Tize Ringing World."
Anylhow I fonnd Bill in his gardea. His cobt was of and his sliart sleeves were rolled up-jast as I have often seen him in the belfryand he was solacing himself with a pipe and contemplating lis potato patchi the fact that I mention it was a potato patcli worit convey any really useful information to the enemy, because actaally it wasn't the potato petch that Bill was contemplating, and Bill hadn't got bis coath of or his sleeves rolled up; neicher was he in the garden.
He really was smoking his pipe-but then at lot of people smoke a pipre, so that doesn't give anything away. Ard lie really whs contermplating somethiug. Actually he was pondering whether, in vibu of the sudden increase in taxation of his favourite beverage, lie should have his empty tankard refilled.

He looked upon my coming almost as heaven-sent. He told me he had been torn between two loyalties. Loyalty to his cauntry, whinin demanded that he should pay his share of the cost of the war, by cheerfully contributing by indirect taxakion, and that other loyalty which imposed econony in personal consumption. Fe bad been asking himselr whether it would be better to drink another pint and thus provide another twopence towards the suppression of fitterism or to deny himself in the interests of econony and run the risk of Hitler getting away wilh it.
But my coming saved hin as headache. War or no war, the decencies of privete relationships required that I should show my hospitality. It saved Bill nu and of a mental struggle.

And so, over our tankards, we sat and tailked of this and that, mostly of that, rather than this, I think; and we whispered it afmost, because in these days walis have ears, and Hill and I are the last who would give away anything to the enemy.
I haven't explained that Bill is the captain of the belfry where he rings and I am the district secretuay - the man who gets all the kicks and none of the lua'pence; who does all the work, but gets blamed for everything that goest wrong; who stands to be shot at, and sits down to be criticised, but gets re-elected every year.
Well, as I said, Bill and i talled of this and that, until it was time far me to make enother indirect contribution to the cost of the war, and then our conversation veered a little more towards this rather than towards that,

What I wanted judiciously to find out was what Bill thought of holding a war-time ristrict meeting at his tawer. Bill is en A.R.P. fan' (I am not sure that 'fan' is quite the right word, but you know what I nean), and I wondered how he would take the sagagestion.
At first he gavo me a flat refusal. He wasn't going to give the Germang a clance of catching him unawares; while he was riagmg they might come over and drop a bomb, und lie wouldn't be on the spot to give the warning-not that he would be iu a fit state to give didn't occur to him.
Naturally I didn't let it go just at that. I suggested a look-ont post near the church so that Bill could bo called, in an emergency, without loss of time, or, alternatively, that Bill himself could be the look-out while the rest of us did the ringing.

Or course, you don't know Bill that is you don't know which Bill I mean, bocause, in cuse the information should get to the enemy, it is necessary, as $I$ said before, to keep his identity secret. But Bill is one of those who doesn't like being left out when there is हпу ringing going on in his tower.

After mnother contribution, paid lyy me, towards the extermination of Fitherism, Bill began to wonder if, perheps, a little ringing on a Saturday afternoon might be possible. Fe sull had vague doubts about jta practimaility; but he insisted that if it mame of all necessary A.R.P. precautions must be taken.
Bill snid, against emergencies, the stokehole, just outside the beliry door should be raade into a bomb-proof shalter: in accardanee with his A.R.P. inaructions, he will have to wear his "tin liafr" everyone must put on their gas masks while they are ringing, and the village Thall must be gas proofed if we are to have our tea and mecting in it. These things, Bill thought, would be simple to carry out. What was worrying him when I left him was lest any intimation of the meeting should come to the knowledge of the enemy, who, in consequence, would deliberately plan to bomib-no, I mustn't, for the sake of Bill's padce of mind, give away the secret of where this meeting is to talke place. And there's the suag. If I mustn't say where the meeting is to be held, low can we hold a meetirg? 'That's what's giving me a headacle at the mornemt. $0 . \mathbf{P}$.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple wayTo many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

CREATING NEW INTERESTS

Throughout these difficult days ' The Ringing World has urged ringers not to negleet their ant and to make the most of the restricted upportunities still open to them. There is now, in many quarters, a gradual awakening of activity and, although peal ringing is bound to be curtaited almost to vanishing poim, ringers are realising there are other ways in which they can maintan their interest. On our part we have endeavoured to create a new interest in subjects connected with bells and ringing which some ringers, in their enthusiasm for other phases of their pursuit, may have passed over with littie attention. Fresh features have been introduced into our columns which we have every reason to believe are appreciated by our readers. For instance, Mr. J. A. Trollope's contributions on the history of the bells of i.ondon churches throw new illumination and interest on some of the ancient bells of the Metropolis and their associations with civic life. These articles are the direct resuit of Mr. Trollope's personal research into ancient records, and he brinys to light many hitherto unpullished details, which have been collected orly at the expenditure of much time and patience. Mr. Trollope has established himself as the leading authority on the history of ringing, and this series of articles, which he is kindly writing for our columns, is a valuable contribution to our knowledge of the famous rings of bells in London.
Then our new series, 'With Paper and Pencil,' will, we hope, help to educate not only those who are just taking up the art, but many others who, now densed fult opportusity of indulging in the practical side of ringing, have some leisure to devote to the theoretical study of those things which, while they form the background of practice, have been given very little direct study. We hope, as this series develops, that ringers of all classes will find them of increasing interest and value. We had proof when a series of articles written primarily for the benefit of beginners appeared in our columns that others than mere beginners found them of real use; for here and there they shed a light on some point which despite considerable knowledge on the part of the reader had somewhat escaped attention. And so, perhaps, this 'Paper and Pencil ' series may in a similar way prove itself helpful even to ringers who have long since passed beyond the beginner's stage.

The circumstances which have enforced the silencing of many church bells, at any rate during normal hours of practice, have made it desirable that more attention (Continued on page 642.)

should be given to handbell ringing, which can become a very fascinating pastime. The "blackout " evenings provide the opportunity for ringers to take up this branch of ringing and, from the correspondence which we have received, many of them are anxious to do so, but as handbell ringing is, in a sense, a different kind of thing to tower bell ringing, they do not: know how to start about it. This week we are happy to be able to give them a first insight into handbell ringing, which we hope may be followed by other hints. This article has been contributed by one of the greatest experts in handbell ringing, Mr. C. H. Woolley, who, having learnt in what was probably the finest of all handbell schools, the Cambridge University Guild, has graduated in the famous Bushey band, with whom he has been the $3-4$ man in all the great performances, which have included peals in Spliced Surprise Major. There can thus be no better authority on handbell ringing than Mr. Woolley, and our readers are lortunate in getting instruction from such a tutor, who is not only highly skilled himself, but, unlike many other talented handbeli ringers, has been able to set down on paper some of the elementary directions for overcoming the initial difficulties. We hope Mr. Woolley will later expand this instruction for the benefit of new enthusiasts and later, perhaps, other exponents of double-hancled ringing may be induced to contribute from the store of their knowledge. At any rate, Mr. Woolley has laid a foundation, and it may be that many bands will be able to build upon it from an experience that will grow from practice. One thing, however, is vitally necessary to success in double-handed ringing, and that is constant practice. Practice, practice, and yet more practice is the key to achievement, and we hope those who attempt this form of ringing will find the urge to persevere and will not be discouraged if success does not corne all at once. They may rest assured that when the first difficulties are overcome, there is nothing more fascinating in the whole art than double-handed change ringing.

TO KEEP A BAND TOGETHER.  SOME HINTS.  To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-May I give a few words of advice to bands of ringers up and down the country as to the best way of keeping a band together and also promoting the art of change ringing? Keep the ordinary practice night going, if not by tower bells, then by handbells (but not (louble-handed ringing). Ring the handbells singlehanded, that is, ring one bell each, in the same way as on the tower bells. Youngsters can be taught to hunt the treble, others can be taught inside work of Grandsire Doubles and Triples, Bob Minor and Wajor, Treble Bob Minor and Major, Stedman Doubles, etc., and by sticking to it it is possible to learn any method. It is no good meeting one week then missing two-that is a vaste of time. If you wish to keep things going you must stick to it and help yourselves by helping others.

Double-handed ringing will not keep a band together. To me handbells are much the same as tower bells; only a certain percentage become efficient. No matter how you try or what anyone does, if a beginner cannot see it-well, that's that, and no one can tell anyone else why they cannot grasp it or see it.

CHANGE RINGING ON HANDBELLS.

BY. C. R. WOOLLEY.

How To Begin.

To explain how to ring a pair of handbelis in changes is, par haps, one of the most diffeult things a ringer can attempt to do. Few of those who are able to ring two bells 'in hand' can toli you oxaetly how to do it; and probably no two have quite the same rdea upon the best way to instruet othars.
But we have asked Mr. Chris. Woolley, ons of the selebrated company at Bushey who have made history by ringing handboll paals of Spliced Surprise Major, to tell ws how he approaches the subject. This he has kindly done, and wa hope the artiele may be followed by others on the subject, perhaps by other talented handbell ringers, so that our readers may have the benafit of their knawledge and experience.
Handluelf ringers are inclined to be evasive when asked low it is clone. This is not generaliy through any lack ol' system, but rather because of the difficulty of conveying to others the iders underlying the system. Howevel, there are perhaps many tower belf ringers who would te unable to convey their system clearly even to wher ringers, let alone explain it to a non-ringer. One knows the initial stages to counting, following course bells, or picking out the bells to follow in cyclic orderaccording to the way in which one was taught; but how many people can explain clearly what takes the place of these methods when practice and proficiency enable then to be dispensed with? Certainly some sors of instinct steps in at a certain stage, and the ringer finds he need no longer keep his eyes glued to his course bell, or his mind filled with a constant stream of figures.

The same applies in handbell ringing, and the same sort of initial stages of learning are necessary for complete success; so that when the already proficient towerbell ringer finds himself called upon to go back to the beginning he must try not to pass the whole thing off as being too laborious, but rather, remembering his early struggles in the tower and recognising that there is a definite difference between the two branches of the art, realise that the learning slage must be gone throuyh on handbells if he is really and truly to master them as well.
The average ringer will start handbell ringing witis certain advantages over the non-ringer; but his knowledge is only of advantage to him provided he does appreciate that there is a difference in the system. If he altempts to ring a pair of landbells in the sole light of Its experience in the lower it may eventually prove a definite handicap, and he will probably soon reach a limit of performance beyond which it is very difficulf to make any progress at all.

THE MOST IMPORTANT POINT.

The first and most important point about handbell ringing is that the pair must be made to help each other, and rung in each change by a single effort of thought: in other words, one must not attempt to split the mind into two and follow the course of each bell separately. To attempt this is precisely the mistake into which the average ringer, startint on his own, is liable to fall; and because certain pairs in some methods can be rung in this way without very great trouble, he may be led to believe that he has reached his own personal limit, whereas in reality he has lailed to appreciate and tackte the problem in the right way from the beginning.

Having got this fact quite clear, it remains to show its practical application. First, the question of the number of bells and the method arises. My own personal opinion is that six is quite the best number to commence on, since Minor methods contain most of the work without much of the practical difficulties of counting and sighting involved in bigher numbers. Major is also quite a good number to start on, if the band cas manage the intial stages, and the fact of having an extra pair not in course, and the remarks which follow apply io eigitt bells with very little addition. Of methods, Plain Bob is a very obvious first choice. Odd bell methods-e.g. Grandsire-are not quite so easy for a start, and have the obwious disadvantage of giving the temors no practice in the way of ringing both bells in the work.

Starting, then, with Bob Minor, we witl inagine the learner to be on $5-6$; the course should be written ont, and the pair lined in (different colours may be used, but are by no means necessary). It will be seen that, at the leginning, laving crossed over in $5-6$, the pair course down to lead, lhe tenor first, with onc bell in between eadn time, until they cone together and cross over on the front and course up, he fifth now striking first, with onc bell in between as before. Now to work them as a pair, the first bell in each change (i.e., the sixth coming down, alnd the fifth going up), which we will call the 'leading bell,' need be the only one to occupy the attention, since the other, or "following' bell, can be placed each time from the position of the leading bell by allowing one bell to strike in between; excepling, of course, when they are at front or jack togrether. Since ine fodges are done also in course witl one bell in between, these are also done by concentrating only on the leading bell.

WHEN THE PAR IS PARTED

In the third, or parted lead, the ireble comes in between the pair in the coursing order, as it does in turn between each coursing pair. This means that the normal coursing of this pair in this lead consists in striking with three bells in between, though as they separate from $2-3$ at the beginning of the lead they strike for one clange with two in between, as they also do lefore, and after coming together in $4-5$, and before coming together in $2-3$ at the end of the lead.

The whole of this lead must be rung by placing the leading bell correctly and counting the interval between it and the following bell. This may seem laborious; but on no account must the beginner try to ring the bells by separate parts, ner: should be attempt to mulde through, as this will obviously lead nowhere. In fact the whole lead should be carefully studied beforehand so that he shall have a very clear idea of what he is to do, and know the spacing between the bells change by change.

The lead may be summed up thus: Fifth make seconds, tenor dodge back into 3rd's place, striking together in $2-3$. Fifth lealls again, two bells in between; fifith leads, three in between; three in between, three in between (sixth behind); two in between, meet and cross $4-5$ under the treble; two in between, three in between, three in between (fifth now at lead); two in between; meet in $2-3$ over treble, sixth makes seconds, and the fifth dodges back into fourth's bringing the pair in course.
The same applies in the parted lead of the tenors in Bols Major: only there are two extra changes both up and down with three belis in between to cover the extra places.

It will be seen that the work of a coursing pair in Bob Minor consists of four leads in course and one parted lead; the whole is known as the $5-6$ position. During the parted lead the pair are said to be working round the treble.

The $3^{-4}$ position consists of three leads with three beils in between, like the parted lead of $5-6$, but with the pair working round the second, and consequently crossing in $2-3$ as well as in 4-5. The ciodges at the lead-ends should be studied; they are known as " scissors" and consist in dodging apart (to an interval of two bells) before or after crossing in 4-5. The other two leads in the $3-4$ position, those at the beginning and end of the course, are known as "opposites," since when one ol the pair leads the other is behind. These leads must ulso be worked out by spacing from the leading bell.

TWO BELLS SHOULD WORK AS ONE.

We now find that we have the whole of the work of inside pairs in Bob Minor, since at all times these pairs are ringing some part of one or other of the $3-4$ or $5-6$ positions. A pair cannot change its position without a call; and calls at certain places in the course have only the effect of changing the pair from one part of the course to another in the same position; while at other places the pair will be changed from one position to the other. Having mastered the positions in the plain course the work at the calls may be studied with diagrams; with a certain amount of practice this work becones evident.

It will be found in Major that there are three positions, those of $7-8$ (coursing) ; $3-4$, which contains leads simifar to the parted lead of $7-8$, and two others with five leils in between; and $5-6$, which contains leads similar to those of the $3-4$ position (with five bells in between) and leads at opposites.

The frebles start and finish in course, separating lead by lead to the position of opposites, thereafter coming together lead by lead. They thus have coursing in all positions, but not the internal work at the lead-ends.

If all the band are beginners on handbells the work may be easier by starting the course from ${ }^{1} 32456$ (or [2345678 for Major) when all the pairs will be in the coursing position. This will give all a chance of becoming familiar with the easiest posilion before embarking 013 the more difficult parted positions.

The leading bell may be hunted by means of its course bell going down, and by following the bell which followed it ' on the way up; when coursing, this will be the bell which struck in between the pair in the preceding change. Another method is by counting, laying emphasis on the places in which the leading bell is due to strike, thus: $I-2-3-4-5-6$,

\begin{aligned}
& \mathrm{I}-2-3-4-5-6, \\
& \mathrm{I}-2-3-4-5-6,
\end{aligned}

I-2-3-4-5-6, etc.

After some practice the ringing of the various positions should become entirely automatic and involve no more mental effort than is required in the tower for the ringing of one bell. The above recommendations, that each different type of lead should be studied in line and analysed, are made in the absolute conviction that the two bells should work together as one, and that the learner must have a very clear idea of what he has to do (Continued is next colman.)

CHANGE RINGING ON HANDBELLS. (Continued from previous column.)

before he attempts to do it. This system requires mucha modification later, because when a more advanced stage is reached the work involved in learning all the leads in the different positions in quite simple methods becomes far too big a job to be practicable-besides becoming unnecessary. The system by which more intricate

MR. G. F. AYMONDS ABVICF: ON RINGIN: IN TAND.

Sir--The letters publistied in your issue of Septemiser 29ibl wero very interesting to me as one who has called peals of lirandsire, Plain Rah and Treble Bols on 8, 10 and 12 handbells douhle-laated.
I should like to make known what is, in my opinion, the ensiest wity to overcome many diffeculties.
Do not try to ring two handbells by the same rule as lower bells, that in, by course method or by passing the treble, lut luunt lentls beils in a plain hunt until you see the treble lead.
In Gramalife dodge one step backwards when it goes into 2nd's after leading, the two landbells will then be in exactly the sane positions as thay were when it led at handatroke and then continue the plain hunting again. It is importent to have a religeble ringer on 1-2, also always to follows one's course bell alter hunting all the way up.
In Plain Boh the step backwards is one blow earlier, ard in Trehle Boh the dodge occurs when the bell on the slow makes its second blow in second's place.
By using the above I ring and aleo call the bobs with less mentni exertion than is required for ringing one tower bell, ns mentioned hy MT Jones. Ipswick. GEORGE F. SYMONDE.

TINTAGEL BELLS RESTORED.

NEW TEAK FRAME.

The strikingly situated Gharch of Tintagel, Corowall, built on the headlard overlouking the Ablantic, was the scene of monsidenable interest on suluriny afternoun, Eeptember $30 t h$, when tho peal of five belle, with tenar just over 7 cwi ., was rededicated by the Ficmr, the Rey. E. D. Aramdel.
For all practical purposes the bells have been unringable for many years, und, allfough l hé question ol restoratiot was considered from time in tirne, holling stame of ibowing to lach off tha bedessary funds. Somns mix mills ago, however, the prosent, Vimer romived an nefer which enuhhes him to rovive the scheme.

Messrs. (ill, It and Italnalals, of Croydon, were adled in fand found everything to la in a deplorables condition. Mriwir delailed proposals for a somplete restoration were submitted to the Biaceran authorities and fully approved by the Advigory Committee, and an arder was placed with the firm tor the worls to be put in hand. This has nows beens completed.
The restoration was made possible by the great generosity of Lady Baron and onco again Tintagel possobses a liandy and useful ring.
Tho work, which has heen most adnirably cerried out consists of completcly rehenging the hella with new fitilng: of modern deaign, including ball baarings, in a now frame.

Owing to the expered situation of the church near the sen and the consequent prewalence of salt spray, apocial precautions were taken to obwiate as Iur as possible the effects of corroston. The new framework is constructed entirely in Beazoned tcale wood and the headstecks also made of the same timber.
Tha balls have heen carefully thmed and it is agreed by everyane that they bave heen considerably enriched in their fonal quality. The ringers who attmaded also expressed the greatest pleasure in the "go" and timing of the peal.
Incidentally, on the suggestion of the Diocesan Advisory Commiteee. tho fromework lias heen desigand with accommodation for a Ireble ta make siz and the Vicar hopes if, may not be long bofore it will be possible to complete the gelieme by the addition of thif betl. No doulb lie would lve very pleased ta receive contributions! The eost of the additional part of the new framo is being defrayed by some members of the Parochial Churels Council.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The war-time derangement of the postal services and the necessity of getting the copies of The Ringing World ' into the hands of the publishers earlier on Thursday make it absolutely essential that all contributions to our columins, and particularly all notices, should be in our hands by Monday in each week. We cannot guarantee the insertion in the following issue of anything received later.

We hope that secretaries will send us prompt reports of their meetings, and we shall welcome any items of news relating to ringers and ringing, but they must reach us early.

BELERY GOSSIP

We have yes another grudge against Hitler. He is yesponsible for the dislocation of our postal gervice. Will correspondents kindiy note that, unless they forward communications to reach us by the first post on Tuesday, they may be too lata for the fallowing issue of 'The Ringing World.' Moreover, the arrival on Tuesday of long distance letters is very uncertain unless posted early on Monday.

Southover Guild, Lewes, Sushex, had arranged to celebrate the centanary of the openjug of the bells on Saturday, October 28th, It was feared at first that the war might prevent the arrangements being carried out, but it is now hoped tinat a suitable commemoration may take place. The bells will bo rung in the afternoon avd a dinner is to be held in the evening, all being well.
Tho celebration of a centenary is not quite like an ordinary ennual dinner. A centenary comes only once.

To-day is the 145 th anniversary of a peal of Oxford Treble Bola Major rung ab St. Giles', Camberwell, by the Cumberlands, and condueted by the elder George Gross. The composition was Jolm Reeves' five-part. contuining 6,720 changes, and Wilian Shipway, who was iu the band, says ihat this was the first time a peal of Troble Bob cantaining the 120 course ends was ever periormed.
Shipwsy probably was wrong in this statement, for on March 4 th, 1791, the Kensington band, with James Bartlett calling the bobs, had rugg the same length, aud, as William Jones, the chief author of the - Clavis, was in the baniz, almost certainly the arme composition,

Five inonths earlier on October $2 l$ st the same men (excepl that Edward Rumball was in William Jones' peal) rang Reeves' 8,448 of Treble Eob. This was for many years thought to be the full extent in the method without partige the tenors. The Junior Cumberlends liad already rung the composition to Kent, but this wes the first time it was rung to the Oxford variation.

To-day is also the anniversary of a peal of Grandsire Cinques, zung in 1751 at St. Bridget's, otherwise St. Bride's, Fleet Street, by the Society of Union Sctiolars. It was composed and conducted by Johu Holt.

Charles Henry Fattersley, one of the foremost and best known ringers of the generation that belonged to the later years of the nineteenth century, died on Octaber 21 st, 1915.
On Octoher 21st, 1876, the St. Martin's Society rang the only peal as yet accomplisined of Stedmen Royal. It was at Aston, and the number of changes was 5,184 . Hemry Johnson composed the peal and called it from the sirth, and the hand included men like amos Cresser, Henry Bastable and Johnson's son, Henry, who were wellknown ringers in the distriet at that time.

Stedman on even numbers is an obvious misfit, It was rung by making each bell lie for three blows in fourth's place both going out sud coming in, which giver back-stroke douile dodging in 5-6, 7-8 ant S-10, but the simes behind do not coizeide with the sixes in front.
The vice-president of the Western Division of the Yorkshire Associahion spoke of the great difficulties in travelling some 40 years ago when abtending meetings. We understend thet he had the utmost difficulty in geting home from Shipleq, what with black-out restricfions and disjointed bus services-and this in 1939.

Among the peals recorded in this week's issue is one rung to celebrat? the 民lst, birthday of Mr. Edwin A. Barnett, of Crayford, now serving with the Royal Air Force. Never, we believe, itt blie history of the Exercise has anyome reached his insjority witly a peal ringing record anything like his. Our readers will join us in congratulating lim, and wishing him trek for his own sake and for the sake of his grandfather and father, whose friezds among ringers are conatless.
Another handbell peal has also been rung for the 72nd birthisy of $\mathbf{M r}$. Thomas Groambridge. sen., These recovery from his serious accident on August 12th will give great ploasure to his many frients. We are gelad to he able to report that ho is now agaire ranging nor tower belts and as well as ever.

THE B.B.C. INTERVAL SIGNAL.

To the Editor

Dear Sir, When, in my original lether to you about the B.B.C. jnterval signal, said 'the record which is now used was not made specially for the purpose, 1 aremen th fmply that an interval signat as anpecia item whedz a special reeord was nemesary
If the iden of such a sigual is analysed it can be looked at from the point of riew of the B.B.C. or from the point of view of the man in the living room (the "1man in the street' does not apply for unce!). The B.B.C, regsrd it as something to laelpa listener to tune in when thene is no programane. Hence its indiseriminate use afiter ull programmes, iachuding news bullelius, with the result wat the outhreat of war, the Russian stab-in-the-back for Poland and the sinkiag of slips like F.M.S. Royal Oak are greeted with a peat of hells to accord with the shouls of joy in our own hearts! In the first instance I was reminded of Wulpole's remark on the outbreak of "the war of Jemkins" enr" in 1739-" They are singing the bells now, but they will soon be wringing their hands.'
The listener wants some sound to tane in to when no programme is available. The present signal is much pleasanter than those used by foreign stations, though, in my opimion, the ringing fraternity could produce something more sutitable. The listener is not interested in the ringers or the method used. He merely desires a smooth and undulating sound which does not jar on his nerves every so often.
No existing record of bells 'foots the bill.' The main thing to remember about it is that people liave to listen to it eeveral times a day. It does not eome into the category of a Sunday service touch, which has a definite beginning and a definite esd (usuallyl). In the signal there should be no beginning or end to it " (thank you, Mr. Whittington, for those words). Rounds should be avoided bath at the beginning and the end. As it is, one of the announcers starts the record in the middle to avoid them, and they all lave to take the record off befere it has finished.
On this assumption, therefore, Triples will not do. They are pleasant anough to ring and pleasant enough to listen to for a short while. Bul to hear them repentadly is very tedious, They negin to sound like a small child doing four finger exercises with an irate music mishress stamping her foot to keep time! If, on a consensns of opinion, the tenor behind is preferred, let us have Cingues, when its 'hlows' will be few and far between.

What is really wanted is at "fantasia' of bells. The whimsical character of Major with its eratchets aud quavers provides a much more suitable medium. Moreover, the record should be 'faded in' after the bells insve gone into changes, and 'faded out' before they come tank into rounds. The record should be made at some distance from thz tower, as a 'blare' could wever be pleasant. Given these conditions, Double Norwich on the back eiglat at Bow would provide alow heav ringing, with no jars or mountonous ropetitions, on the worle's most famous peal.

A. TROTMAN.

Langbredy, Dorsel

P.S.-The best ringers obtainable should be procured for the jobthose who arn faniliar witl Bow bells, including perhaps some of those who made the record now used. It would be bighly undesirable for C3 ringers like muself ever to turn Bow benor in excopt as a werning for an air raid, earthquake or some obther major catastroplie!

FARIETY OF RECORDS ADVOCATED.

Sir, Since the war hegan I have turned to the pages of 'The items of inlerest from rour many contributorg convincingly appeal Your journat has transformed itself into a magazise of internst to alt lovers of bells, peals and historic customs
The corzenpondence on the B.B.C. interval signal provokes one to express admiration for the ringers who produced and permanently recnrded for all time the real heauty of a magnifieent peal of bells. The work wrs done by expert ringers. When the R.B.C. operator adjusts the gramophone to the correct speed the "harmonics, and - hum 'tones distinctily tell on the air. Hence the ringing and the hells are admired lyy ringers, who "live" for skriking only, and hy the common folk. Seldom is a blow very faulty.
Still, we grow tired even of the very best in time, and it has oecurred to me that the Regional transmitters might have regional variations. Whet nbout a course of Stedman on the minor eight with the eleventh as tener from Fixeter Cathedral for the west? Or a course of Bristal on that fine peal at Slirewsbury for the Midhand Regional or come nther fine peel in the North wifh a really musical method well struck for the North Regional? Fwerybady loves bells: particularly in this trup in rural areas. where there is never much diffeultey in getting mortey for the bells if it be required.

If such records were made, and, if necessary, تe-made, and presented to the B.B.C. If feel convinced they would thank you for them and use them. Fven a word of approcintion, to my knowledge, has been montanusly replient to.

WHSTERN DIVISION AND THE LEEDS SOCIETY MEET

Visit to Shiploy

A wery enjoyable joint meeting of the Western Division of the Yorishire Assaciation with the Leeds and District Society was held on Saturalay at St. Paul's Church, Shipley. This was the first meeting of the two societies since the commencentent of the war, and the result proved beyond doubt that, where it is possible to arrange a ringing mecting, the members from the surrounding distriets give their fuliest suppori. Some members travelled a considerable distance using no less than four different hus routns, in order to kave a few briat touches. ['ractices in mast distrints ure eilher yesy mach rur failod, il nol, shopped aitugelaer, andi the few meetings whiols atr possiblo can las sure of a gond attendance.

Ringing commenced abeut 2 Dolock and continued andil almost "black-out," time. During the afternoan touclies of the following melhods were enjoyed: Man Hob, I'rehle Bob, Stedman Tripies, Juthe Norwich, Caubridge, Superlative and Airedale Surprise, and the standard of ringing and striking wis wory much above the average for meetings.
The business meeting was held in the Insitute, with the wicerresident, Mr. P. I. Inhasor, in tha chair, supported by the Rev. W. J. Perrett, Viowr of Slibley; the president, of the Leeds and District Society (the Rev. J. F. B. Andrews) having had to leave barly owing to arother appointment.
The Chairman in very characteristic style proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and wardens of Slipley for wery kindly granting the use of the bells, and alan to the tocal company for making such excellcut preparations for the members' comfort and the other arrangements He mentioned a lumorous incident when be attonded his first "country meeting' at Shiploy many years ago, when traveling facilities mere rather primitive and were nof leiped by a thick fog which incidentally preveuted him from reaching home at night. He was sure that wherever ringers went. they would not find a more genia! spirit than that which was found in the belfry at Shipley. There was always & hearty welcome for ringers, and the way in which the belfry was kept was a model which other places miglit try and emulate. CYader the guidance of Mr. Simpson and Mr. Kendall, the Shipley company were keeping up the grent traditions of those gone before, and the heped they wehld conbinue to make such good progress for it very long time to come.

The Rov. W. T. Terreth, in replying, spoke of his very great pleasure in welcoming the assoniations lo Shipley. He took the greatest interest in his ringers, and whenever ho wisited the belfry he wes always conscions of the spirit of mrobheriood amongst them. He was sure that there was a greak deal more unity in the heliry than in other parts of churelt work. Tnfortutuately, they, life nther towns, were laving difficulty is mainaining a fult band, but he hoped that when the efairs of the country were more sottled they would lave to trouble in obtaining a plentifal supply of young ringers to carry on this wonderful wark. He lad enjoyed listening to the beils all the afternoon, but he loped that next time he wauld bo able to fisten to them under more pleasing astional conditions.
Mr. Ernest Simpsom., in replying for the local company, spoke of their plensure in reneiving the gesociations and assured everyone thatthere would always he a ready welcome at Shipley.

The Chairman mentioned that the mext meeting was due to be held in December, tut owing to the many difficulties-of travelling and rationing. to asp nothing of the short time available for ringing owng to dorkuess which would no dcubt provail at that time-the committen were under the mprossion that it would be wise to cut out this and to lold the mext manting in March. He mentioned that the Leeds and District Society would ennenvour to continue with their monthly meetings whenever possible within the radius of that society, and he hoped that as many as passible werld take advantage of this and give their fuliext, support.
It was therefore, decided on the proposition of Mr. John Ambler, seconded by Mr. Armitage, fhat the next meeting be at Queenshury. and unless more हntfled condibions previlea in the meantime, tha? this be held rext March.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

INTERESTING FACTS FROM HISTORY OF ST. MARGARET'S, WESTMINSTER.

By J. Armiger Trollope.
St. Margaret's, Westminster, was not only a prominent church, with a large and important parish; it was the parish clurch of the royal palace and of the Houses of Parliament. There was, iberefore, at lul wh paid ringing in the steeple. A large part of it was on the days that the King or Queen arrived at or left Whitehall, or on royal birthdays or the Coronation Day. This last was a special ringing day and in 1626 the vestry agreed to pay the ringers $x i$, which was a large sum and probably means that the belts were rung on and of the whole of the day. The same amount was paid orn that day in every succeeding year right down to $16 \notin 8$, it few months before the exccution of King Charles I . It was resumed after the Restoration in 1660.

An early and interesting entry in the accounts records the receipt by the parish atte burying of William Caxton for iiij torches vjs. viijd Item for the belle atte same butrying vje.'

The fees for the bells in connection with deaths and burials formed a considerable item in the parish revenue at St. Margaret's as well as at most other places. They were for passing bells and for knells; and we seldom find an entry for a funeral peal rung by all the bells. Yet they were common enough. Probably the ringers were paid directly through the clerk. The parish paid for bell ringing at the funerals of King Henry VIIf. and Queen Elizabeth.

In $55^{86}$, when Bablington's plot was discovered, the bells were rung, and in the next year, when the new:s came that Mary, Queen of Scols, had been twhearled. In t6iz her body was removed from Peterborough to the Abbey, and again the bells were rung, but this time as a mark of respect.

There was ringing in ${ }^{1} 588$ when Queen Elizabeth went to the camp at Tilbury, where the English army was waiting for the expected landing of the Spaniards, but there is no mention in the accounts of any when, a week or two later, the news came that the Armada had been defeated at sea. No doubt the ringers did not wait for any official orders or promise of pay. A few years earlier, when the Spaniards beat the Turks at the battle of Tepanto, all I.ondon's bells, and St. Margaret's among them, were set ringing.

St. Margaret's was more than the church of the parish in which the Houses of Parliament were situated; it was alsn from 1614 ' as it were a National Charch for the use of the House of Commons,' and this was the cause of a certain amount of ringing. In 3 fos, as soon as Guy Fawkes' plot was discovered, the bells were rung; in 1628 when Charles 1. accepted the Petition of Right; in 1640 when the Triennial Act was passed; in 1651 when the Scots were beaten at Worcester; in 1653 when Oliver Cromwell was installed as Lord Protector; and always when a new Speaker was elected.

The tower was reconstructed, refaced, heightened, and given its present appearance in 1735 ; the cost being partly paid by a grant from Parliament.
The churchwardens did not deal directly with the ringers, but employed a steeplekeeper, probably the parish sexton, and he provided the ringers when they were needed. In the early seventeenth century the stecplekeeper was Michael Stockrlale and his wages for attending to the bells for a year were une shilling and eightpence. Later on Edward Rogers was steeplekeeper.

In 1674 a boy of fourteen was dragged up by one of the ropes and killed. An inquiry was held and it was proved that the steeplekeeper had been very negligent in thu slishtarge of his clutios and, insteral of heing ramstanly in the beffy when a knell was beong rong, le had

ST. MARGARET'S, WESTMINSTER.

Ieft a number of boys there and absented himself 'on no occasion of the parisli.' Other misdemeanours being proved against him, he was dismissed from his employment.

From ancient times the morning bell was rung at five o'clock and the curfew at eight. When the custom ceased is unknown.

Besides the paid ringing there was a lot of 'pleasure ringing by people like the College Youtlis and the Esquire Youths. When the octave was completed in 1670 , the vestry at the instance of the curate and some of the neighlsouring parishioners, ordered that there should be no ringing in peal before seven in the morning or after eight at night.

No record survives of any five thousand rung on the first octave. The earliest known peal on Knight's bells was 5040 changes of Double Bub Major on February 1211, 1742 , by the Eastern Sclolars. No claim is made in the peal book that it was the first on the bells and quite possibly one had already been scored by another company.

From that time until the present a steady succession of pcals has been rung in the steeple, some of them of more than ordinary interest. In 1751 Annable called a peal of Reverse Bob Major for the College Youths. It was ctaimed as the first that was done in that steeple, which suggests that one had already been rung elsewhere. If so, no account of it survives.

In the sanse year John Holt called his original peal of Grandsire Triples for the first time. The band were nembers of the Suciety of Union Scholars, and Holl, Thinking it beyond the powers'of any man to call the peat and ring at the same time, sat in the tower and called it from the manuscript. A board was erected to commemorate the performance, but there is now no entry of it in the peal book. Osborn thought that it was omitted because it was considered irregular for a man to call and not ring. Snowdon thought it was omitted because Annable ' clid not approve ' of the composition. Neither explanation is convincing.

The company which had rung the peal and erected the peal looard can hardly have had scruples about entering the record in the peal book, or would have been likely to pay much attention to the criticisms of a man belonging to another and rival society. Most likely the peal was entered in the usual way and the sheet afterwards taken oul by someone when the book became dilapidated. The peals were not numbered and so the loss of a Icaf ratnot be traced. So far as we can telf, Annable did not ubject to the composition, nor hold the opinion that a peal of firandsire Triples must be protuced by bobs only.

In 1752 the Eastern Scholars rang a peal of Double Eastern Bob Major, a very interesting method of which they said it was "unparali'l for music, though derided lyy Ben, who says it is lopsided.' Anmbie liad fearnt something about the symmetry of methods since the days when he had composed, antl prestmably rusig, lopsided six-tuell methools himself.

George Meakins called the first peat on the Len betls; 5040 changes of Grandsire Caters rung by the College Youths in 1761 .

The tongest peal on the lxells dering the eighteenth century was fooo clanges of Rols Major ly ithe Union Scholars is :747 composed and conducted by Jolm Holl. In 1805 the Westminster Youths rang 6ori changes of (irandsire Caters, which length was beaten in 1814 by the Junior Cumberlands, who rang 6 ros changes in the same method, and again in 1823 ly a peal of 7002 changes.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

Cleanse and preserve your skin this simple way

To many people, the problem or getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, tho-when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically-working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers - everyone - will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands

MORE MEETINGS.

There is plenty of evidence that widespread efforts are being made to bring Sunday service ringing back as nearly to normal as the changed conditions of war time will allow. Ringing before morning service has been resumed at the majority of towers where it appertained before the war began, and afternoon ringing, where evening service has been fixed for daylight hours, is taking place in many towers. Where service ringing is not taking place it is, apart from the tingers' own difficulty in raising a band, due principally to the Church authorities, and only in a small proportion of cases is it caused by any action of the police. There are still a few instances where A.R.P. demands make it necessary that the bells should not be rung, bat as time goes on, and defence preparations are worked out to meet the actual needs of the moment, the civic powers are ready nearly everywhere to remove their first embargo and, subject to local safeguards, to allow church bells to be rung for normal Sunday putposes. There are, however, still a number of clergy who, for one reason or another, desire their bells to remain silent. Every such instance must, of course, be judged upon its merits, but it does seem that, unless there is some special local reason, connected with the public safety, permission should be given for service ringing to be resumed everywhere where it can be done without infringing the black-out regulations.

The attitude of the police towards church bellringin during these weeks of war has been entirely sympathetic and, while the anti-noise Order specially exempts church bells rung for normal purposes and the police have no iegal authority to stop them, it is a thoroughly sensible action, especially in populous areas, to consult the police on any ringing that it is proposed to do on other occasions than Sundays. The wisdom of this has been revealed more than once in these past weeks. Not only does it give official authority for the use of the bells on such occasions as meetings, but it enables a co-operation to be established that, in a sudden emergency, would be of great value in the interests of public safety. The plan of having someone on duty outside the tower to be ready, in the event of an air-raid warning, to stop the bells has proved an acceptable arrangement to the authorities, and should be employed everywhere where ringing takes place for any period beyond a few minutes. To-morrow there is to be a joint meeting of three associations at Kingston-on-Thames. This Surrey town is within the Metropolitan Police area, and the church stands by the market square. The police have been approached and, subject to having a watcher on duty to communicate with the belfry (Continuied on page 654.1

if a warning is given, the authorities have not only consented to ringing during the afternoon, but also in the evening from seven to nine o'clock. If ringing can be permitted at a meeting under such conditions, conditions which, we imagine, are hardly likely to be more diflicult anywhere, there seems no reasonable ground why meetings should not be arranged at any towers in the country. The police at Kingston must obviously be satisfied that, with the precautions agreed to, there is no danger to the public, otherwise they would not have given their consent, and what can be done at Kingston can be done elsewhere. We do not know the exact circumstances prevailing at Chilvers Coton, but it is surprising to read, in the report of last Saturday's Warwickshire Guild meeting, that the police superiatendent forbade any ringing there after clark. If it was necessary, for the sake of any possible warning, to stop the bells in the evening, it must have been equally necessary to stop them in the afternoon. There are, in this war, no Zeppelins to hover over a town at night, yet this possibility seems still to be in the minds of some people in inlluencing their attitude towards ringing after dark. It would be interesting to know the exact reason for the police action in this case.

There is good reason why ringing meetings should be resumed more generally, but in view of transport difficulties attendances are bound to be smaller than in peace time. For that reason it should be the policy of associations to arrange a greater number of these gatherings covering a small area instead of large districts. Two meetings, each within reach of, say, half a dozen towers, will do more good than one intended for twelve towers spread over a wider radius, and, rather than curtailing meetings, it would be wise to consider doubling the number. The aim is not only to bring the members together, but to maintain interest and activity, so that in brighter days the art may quickly recover the ground it must inevitably lose during these strenuous times. Meetings beyond the range of the majority of members under present conditions will dampen, instead of encourage, the enthusiasm of those whom circumstances exclude, and it should be the endeavour of those who are responsible for mectings to develop them in a greater number of centres. The fact that attenfances may be small will not be the criterion of the success attained-success will be measured by future results when we return to peace and happier rlays.

A WARWICKSHIRE GUILD MEETING.

EVENING RLNGING FORBIDDEN BY POLICE.
Tha first quarterly meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held under waz-time conditions at Chilvers Cotom on Saturday. A big crowd was not to be expected, but nearly 20 enthusiasts arrived and esjoyed ringing on the handy eight. Permission liad been given by the Vicar (ile Jev. F. W. Moyle) for ringing during the efternoon ard cvening, and the belfy was biacked out specially in time for the meeting. Unfortunately a message was received from the Superintendent of Police forbiding any ringing after dark, thus upgetting carefully jaid plans for the comfort and convenience of the wisitors. Howevor, ringing continued antil 6 o'clock, a good course of London rounding of some good ringing
The bubiness meeting followed imnediakely in the vestry, presided over by the Master (Mr. J. H. W. White). The routine busiuess was quickly disposed of, but the changed conditions created some discussion gs to the future, resuluing in a determination to carry on until April with quarteriy mectings eud possibly monthly practices on Saturdny afternoons at convenient towers.
At the elose of the meeting Mr. A. F. Beamislı produced a portable Eramophone aud a record of the talented landbeli hand of the Ferks County Association ringing a toucls of Spliced Surprise Major, which was much appreciated by the members present.
Towers represented were Allesley, Bilton, Keresley, Noneaton and the "locals.' A welcome was matended to Mr. O. J. Hunt, of Manchester, a former aunitar of the Guild.
A move was ther rande to a local hotel, whero the reeds of the Inner man ${ }^{3}$ were fius gatisfied. Tunes and changes on handbella brought to a close a hapay and successful meeting.

Will ringers please take note of this date?

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER. COURSING ORDER-PLAIN, REVERSE AND DOUBLE BOB.

Turn back to 'The Ringing Worid' of September $22 n d$ and refresh your memory with what we said there. We saw that in Bob Major the bells keep the same Coursing Order throughout the plain course, except that, at the end of every lead, the treble alters its position among the other bells. The point at which this alteration takes place is the change in which second's place is made; and the result is that the bell, which in the previous lead had coursed in front of the treble, now courses behind the treble, the relative positions of the other bells being unaltered.

Any operation which alters the position of the treble in Coursing Order we will call a 'Shunt,' and, as in this case second's is made instead of eighths (which would have been made if all the bells continued plain hunting), we will call this an Extreme Shunt.

It is not a good thing, as a rule, to multiply technical terms, but sometimes it is necessary, and in this case we shall find it useful.

Next prick down Reverse Bob Major, a full course if you have time, but in any case, two or three leads. In this method all the bells plain hunt except when the treble lies its whole pull behind. Seventh's is then made by the bell coursing in front of the treble, the other bells dodging in pairs.

\begin{aligned}
& { }^{12345678} \quad \text { Coursing Order. } \\
& { }^{21436587} \\
& 8753{ }^{12468} \\
& 24163857 \\
& 42618375 \\
& 46281735 \\
& 64827153 \\
& 68472513 \\
& 86745231 \\
& { }^{68} 47^{25} 53^{\text { }} \quad 875{ }^{132468} \\

& 5173^{8264} \\
& { }^{15372846} \\
& 13527486
\end{aligned}

Now compare this carefully with your course of Bob Major, and you will see that all we said about the latter will apply to the former, except that the points where the treble alters its position in Coursing Order are different.

If we take a pair of scissors and cut our course of Bob Major into fourteen pieces, each piece consisting of half a lead, we can put the pieces together again in a different order and produce a course of Reverse Bob. The actual rows in both courses are the same. We have now got a second Shunt similar to the first in everything except position, and to distinguish them we will call the first an Extreme Shunt A and the second an Extreme Shunt B.

If we use both Shunts in every lead we get a plain course of Double Bob Major. Prick out a course, or at any rate two or three leads, and study the position of the treble in Coursing Oider.

The treble's path in Coursing Order through the other bells is a cyclical one, and it has to occupy each position in turn. There are seven working bells and consequently seven positions between them. Therefore, as soon as seven of these Shunts are made the bells are in the necessary Coursing Order for coming round, with the treble between the third and the second. See what has happened when the seventl Shunt has been made in Double Bob. The following are the actual changes:$876543{ }^{12}$ 78563421

If we carry on with plain hunting the bells would run round at the lead end. Actually in Double Bob we make second place and seven more Shunts are necessary before the course is completed.

We saw just now that we can cut the plain course of Bob Major into fourteen pieces and rearrange them as Reverse Bob Major. If we rearrange them in a different order we can get Double Bob.

But any combination of Shunts A and B, provided they are seven in number, will bring the bells round. For instance, prick out B.A.A.A.B.B.A. and see what happens. Or take any other combination you may think of. Or, to put it another way, take the haff leads into which we have cut the plain course of Bob Major and see in how many ways you can arrange them into a round block.

You will be sure to have some pieces left over because none of these round blocks (except the courses of Plain, Reverse and Double Bob) will consist of the full 112 changes. But the experiment is worth doing because you will not only get a good insight into the foundation of method construction, but you will understand a good deal about how the three methods Plain Bob, Reverse Bob and Double Bob can be spliced into one composition.

Method splicing is probably going to be the great development of the art in the future. Up till now it has been almost entirely in the hands of the more advanced bands, because only the most difficult methods have been spliced. But the idea can be applied to the simpler methods quite easily, and there is no reason why a band which can ring Plain Bob should not splice it with Reverse and Double when once the principle of the thing is understood. To make the alterations is not much harder than to make bobs and singles, and anyhow it is a thing excellently well adapted for handbell ringing, as the Cambridge University Guild found out several years ago.

LADIES' GUILD.

GOOD MEETING AT SHEFFIELD.

Over 20 ringers took the opportunity of having a good afterncon's ringing at the Ladies' Guild meeting held nt Handsworth (Shesfeld) on Saturday week. Early comers lina the pleasure of seeing a pretify wedding and, at the suggestion of Mr. Lewis, the belle were 'fired. es the bride and bridegroom left the church.
Following this good start, touches were rung in warious methods, including Stedman, Yorkshire, London, Pinin Bob and a tourlh of Camhridge, which was a delight to lear and a joy to take part in.
At the business meeting the secretary (Mrs. Kelly) regretted that the allendance of ladies was poor, and read letiars of apology from Miss Bowling, Mrs. Cotterell and Mrs. Haywood.
The following meetings will take place: Shipley (March), Todmorden (June), while lowal meetings may also be arranged between these periods.
On returning to the tower the serretary was thanked by Mr. G. Lewis and Mr. Palmer on behalf of the gentiemen for making possible guch a useful meeting under present conditions. Tbe bells, which are a war memorial, were rung down at 6.10 p .m.

AN OLD-TIME WEST COUNTRY BAND.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-There has recently been a good deal tn "The Ringing Word ' about rising and falling in peal, ringing a bell with a broken stay, some mention of the West Country term 'scientific' for change ringing proper, and, more important still, of change tinging in the great centres like London and Norwich a century ago.
It may interest some people to know, eapecially in the West, that at the village of Cheddar there were ringers who were adepts in all these mateary except 'scientific, but even in that they came pretty close, for they ramg half-pull changes over 100 years ago.
I should like to say first of all that to ring at all was pretty difficult. Until 1886 the bells were rung from the ground floor, the height to the vaulted ceiling is upwards of 35ft, and there were, of course, no guides for the ropes. It is amazing how elusive and skittish the sallies could be, and it was a rare thing to fipd a stranger able to handle a bell at all.

In spite of difficulties, Mr. Charles Cobley (son of the Vicer, who leit there in 1835) taught the ringers to riag the "Vowr an' twenties in half-pull changes. They learned no method, each man always rang the same bell, and he learnt the changes in a kind of sing-songe, - Up after the first, down after the third, In' after something eise eto. I do not know if up and down meant hunking up and down, or hand and backstrokes, or whether the 'In 'meant stepping back at a dodge, or leading, or what it might be. Some of the men who were farmers rang in smoeks, and two or three were noted for their physical strength.
I heve been told that their favourite feats, for which they enjoyed some local fame, was to remove the sliders, ring the belts up in peal, which was done very slowly and perfectly, then ring the 'Vowr an' twenties,' 'Stand ' by holding the bells on the balance, another ring and lower them. Some people claimed that they lave evell passed a nider cup from hand to band, and took a drink with the bells held on the balance, and it wes the meation of beer in Mr. Trollope's articles which brought the whole thing back to my mind. R. ALSOP.
P.S.-Most of the foreroing (not the cider incident) I learned from the late Mr. George Hill, postmaster, whose name may be seen on the trebles of the present octave. Mr. Hill's father, a former postmasater, sometimes rang the troble before the old band broke up. Cheddar bells were, until 1884, a ring of five, three of them remein untouclied, the treble (1618), tha pre-Raformation second, and the 1759 Bilbie tenor in $D$.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD. PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT.
A mecting of this district was held at St. Mary's, Portsmouth, on Saturday last, and was attended by members [rom Fareham, North Stoneham, Liss, Petersfield, Porlsmouth (Cathedral and St. Mery's) and Titehfield. Mr. C. E. Snith (Godalming) was also present.
Ringing took place from 2.30 p.m., and evensong was adtended in the ohurch at 5 p.m., at which the Guild form of sersice was used, concucted by the Rev. A. Van der Byl, who gave the address. Tea was served in the Parish Hall, after which the businesa meeting was held In the unavoidable absence of the secretary (Mr. A. T. Greenweod), his duties were carried out by the general secretary (Mr, F. W. Rogers), supported by the Master (Mr. G. Willians).

It was decided to Lold the next quarterly meeting at Fareham on April 20th. 1940.
A talk on the future arrangements of ringing in the district took place, and Mr. W. Linter (Farehnm) was thanked for his gerwicem in arranging mid-week practices for towers in the district, and it was egreed to rpcommen the mnnual district meeting to defray has expenses for postages, ete., incurred in arranging these meetings.

The Cathedral authorities would welcome their bells being used Eor practices on Saturdey afternonis, and it was egreed to hold meetings for this purpose on November 18th and December 10th pext, Future practices beng fixed from each quarter! $\bar{y}$ meating.

At the close of the meeting votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar for the use of the bells, and the ladies who had protided lea, Ringirg during the day consiated of Grandsire and Stedman Triplen, Double Norwich, Cambeidge, Briatol, London and Spliced Surprise Major.

WEDNESDAY BAND HING FOR ORGAN DEDICATHON

The rebullt organ at Bishop's Waltham Church, Hants, was opened at a special service on October th. The address was given by the fuev. Canob L, B. Etheridge, Rector of Droxford, the service heving bees conducted hy the Rev. N. H. Stubbs (Rector). The bells were rung for ma hour before the service, and toucles brought round in the four standerd methads ay members of the lacal band, assisted by members of the "Wednesday " band, including Mpssrs. F. S. Beyley, W. Linter. qen., W. Linter, jun., H. Becket, G. Wiliams, L. Knote and Mrs. Guy.
The newly-constructed organ was played for the first time at the Sunday service on the following Sunday, when Mr. Haydn Hull was the organist. A small lnalance is still wanted to wipe of the sum which has been expended, vis, between 8700 and s 5800 .

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The war-time derangement of the postal services and the necessity of getting the copies of The Ringing World ' into the hands of the publishers earlier on Thursday make it absolutely essential that all contributions to our columns, and particularly all notices, should be in our hands by Monday in each week. We nannot guarantee the insertion in the following issue of anything received later.

We hope that sacretaries will send us prompt reports of their meetings, and we shall welcome any items of news relating to ringers and ringing, but they must reach us early.

BELERY GOSSIP.

Ringers proposing to wisit Kingston-on-Tliames ta-morrow for the joint meeting of the Surrey, Middlesex and Guildford Associafions will be pleased to learn that, with the approtal of the police authorities, the bells at tine Tarisla Church will be available in the evening as well as in the afternoon.

One hundred pears ago to-Dtorrow a new ring of eight bells was apened at Southower Church, Lewes, Sussex. The centenary will be duly celebrated by ringing aud a dimuer. By request of the police, bowever, the singing will be limited to about three-quarters of an hour, and consequently devoted to an sttempt for a quarter-peal.
The practice at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, which Mr. Jius Davis is trying to hold on Saturday afternoons is proving, so far, a success. Last Saturday the four slandard Surprige Major methods were rung, botl scparately and spliced.
Ninely years ago to-morrow, Henry Dains, so long and so well known as a ringer, a composer, and a menber of the Central Council, was horn at Tibentiam, a village in Norfolk, where there is a ring of gix bells. Here, before the war, was one of the first bands to tako a part in the great development of Minor ringing in these last 30 years or so.
On October 26th, 1892, the Wakefield ringers, with Joseph Tebbs, of Leeds, rang the earliest geal of Cambridge Surprise Royal. After that the method was practically forgolten, and when it was rediscovered 40 years ago, the peal rung at Cheltenham was ciaimed as the first in the method.
On tha same date in 1837 Thomes Tolladay called a peal of 7.325 Grandsire Cinques fur the St. James Sociely at St. Martin-in-theFiel तs.

On Wednescas grening, Octoher 30th, 1813, was rung on a peal of cight bells at the house of Mr. William Baoth, Bailey Lane, Sheffield, a complete peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major, 5,088 changes, in 2 hours and 34 minutes, by the following artists, viz. : William Hudson 1-2, Wjlliam Boath $\mathbf{3}$ 4, Henry Grayton 5-6, George Hudsan 7-8. The conductor of the peal was Br. George Eudson.' This was probalily the first foulle-handed peal rung "in hand."
On October 15th, 1876, the bells of St. Albans Abbey, which had recentiy been rohulg after a silence of nore flan 40 years, were rung by Souire Practer and his band fron Benington. Tliey raskg a toucli of 2,500 chavges in seven methods, viz.; Double Norwich Coust Boh Majar, Superlative Surprise Major, London Surprise Major, Kent Treble Boh Major, Oxford Trable Bob Major, Stedman Triples and Grandsire Triples. It was, of course, not spliced ' ringing, for each metlod was started from rounds, but at the time it was a very fine performayce.
The report of the handbell peal at Crayford on October 35th, as 5ent to us, was ind ccurate. Mr. G. V, Murply rang $1-2$ and Mr. E. A. Barnett 3-4, not rice versa as prined.

SALEHURST RINGER'S DEATH

OTER FIFTY YEARS' SERVICE.

On Suturder, October 14th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples war rung at Salehurst, Sussex, with bells half-muffled, as a last token of reapect to the late Mr. James Goodsell, a respected member of the local band for 51 vears. The ringing took place immediately after the intermant at the Parish Church: E. Avery 1, F. Morgan 2, W. H. Hoad (conductor) 3 , A. E. Edwards 4, L. Jarvis 5, W. Gorringe 6, E, Mills 7, & Haxd 8.

THE B.B.C. INTERVAL SIGNAL.

THE MLNOR OCTAVE AT FXETER RECOMMENDED

Dear Sir,-In Mr. Smale's letter under the above tinle in this week's ssue of out paper lie asks, "What ahout a course of Stedman Triples on thie ninor eight, with the eleventh as telroc, from Facter Cnthedral?
I once had the pleasure of taking a rope in a course of Stedaan Triples an this oclave, and in over 40 years of ringing on practically cvery important peal in England I heve never heard anythug so beautiful.
Being in a winor key jo is particularly appeating, and to me was an inspiration to higher things. We all know that for services of prayer and mitercession, such as are held in Lent, many hymos and chants are written in minor key, and in my view a record sueh as Mr. Smale auggests would be particularly appropriate for the use of the B.E.C. before their studiv services and in times of national jutercession It would. I feel sure, create the same foeling in its hearers as it did with me.
I do wat suggeat that this should take the place of Bow Bells, but merely, ms Mr. Trotman describes, a Sunday service toucl, As is well knowr, the eleventh at Excter is one of ine best bells in the West of England, and to my ear Jias most of the tonal qualities of the beautiful tenor at Lavenham. It can be inngined what a wonderful effect a bell (and peal) twice the weigly of the latter would have

NO BETTER ALTERNATIVT:

Dear Six,-I huve been surprised to read the lelters from Mr lrohman and others on the above subject. In my opinion, Caters, with the tenor covering, of call chamges on similar lines, ure far superior, from a musical point of riow, to Major, or, indeed, even-hell ohanges on any number of bells, while plain courses or short touches of Grandsire or Stednan would be unsatisinctory because the intervel sigual is used for such short periads that they would almost invariably he faded out in the midde and so leave al impression of mcompletestess.
It is not dear what "Nema' means by 'fiddling about with 7-8.9.' Tlie clanates are made in a methodical manmer, one pair of liells at a time, until the 'Quens' position is reached, first on the back bells and finally on the whole ten. Witll 6-8-0 behind most of the time, not only is the musical effect good, bot some sort of finish is obtamed, no matter where the bells art faded out, and, taking everything into consideration, I cannot imagine ally allernative which would be an thiprovement on the present record. G. A. PECK.

TYPICALLI RNGLISH

Dent Bir, I have read with interest the letters that have appeared n the columns of "The Rirging World' wilh regrard to the B.B.C. sigual To ne the signal is almost perfect. The ringing is magnificent, a eample of what good striking soands like. That sigual is heard by millions of people all over the world; it is byaically Faglish, becauge the helle are Figlish, the ringing is English. It starts from rounds and fintshes sith rounds. whicle is the system our forefathers taught us. Why spoil a splendid record of ringing which no other nation cau produce for a mere 30,000 Fnglish ringers? Let it rest as typical and unique English signal which none enn copy. HUNT

NO CHANGE NEEDED.
Dear Sir,-How bella are the most famous bells in the warld, so Why change them? But, thet, some people are 'always never setisfied.

A FALSE PEAL OF TREBLE BOB.

In examining the compositions rung in the past by members of the Yorlishire Ascociation, Mr. W. Barton, the honorary peals secretary, has discovered that the peal of 5.152 Treble Boh Major by J. Thorpe, rung at Drighlington on Murch 23 rd, 1919, is false. The peal is No. 2.594 of the association's performances, and was conducled by Joseph E. Sykes. Tnternal falseneas occurs in the ffth and last courses of the peal.

MIDLAND COUNTIES' ASSOCIATION.

AN INTERRUPTED MEETING AT DERBY.  On Saturday, Octoter 2lst, the Derby District of the Midand

 Connties Association held a meeting at St. Alkmund's, Derby. Members attended frons Sawley, Ripley, Heanor and lacal ringers from St. Andrew's, St. Luke's and St. Peter's. Stedman Doubles was the first method rung, followed by Cambridge Minor. Deutle Norwich uníarianately came to grief, but a course of Cambridge Surprise Minor was successiully brought round. Then followed a touch of Stedman Doubleg, and when everything was going mplendidly the clapper of tho fiftlo bels came out. As the bell chamber was focked and the caretaker had gone into town, taking the key with him, the meeting lind to be abandoned so far as St. Alkinund's was concermed. Fortunalely ringing for a wedidug was taking place at St. Peter's, 0 a. cyclist was quickly dispatched to tell them to carry on fill the meeting was transferred, which was necomplisled in about 20 mirutes. Fere Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Stednam and Grandsire Triples were rung.Tho business meeting which followed afterwards whe held in 6he belfry, Mr. Jeck Bailey presiding. It was decided to enrry on with the montily meetings, but to confine them to the immediate vicinity of Derly an account of the bus services, and also to the limited period of daylight, especiblly when summer time is terminated. Spondon was propmsed ats the next towar to lse visited, and if the hells were not avaidsle, to try Alvasion as an alternative, the meeting to be held on November 18th. Votes of thanks to the Vicar of $\mathrm{St}^{\circ}$ Alkmund's and to the caretaker, and to those friendes at St. Peter's for so readily placing the hells at, the disposal of the wembers, were proposed by Mr. Jack Bailey sand carried wannimously.

HINCKLEY DISTRICT MEETING.

An atiendance of 20 was recorded at the Finckley Distriet meeting at Shamford on Saturday, Oetuber 21st, members and friends attending from a wide ares. An early start was the order of the day and soon Granlisire and Stedman Doubles for the yonagsters were fallowed by Kent and Oxford Treble Bols, Plan Bols, Cambridge Surprise Minor, and Double Court, including one touch of what was stated to be 'Spliced Doulsle Court,' which, however, came round, auch to the surprise of everyore, includirs, it must he whispored, the conductora ringer of some renown. Ringitg continued until about 5.45 , when the bells were lowered in peal. Sileneers had been fitted to the bells for the heneft of the local inliakitants and niso to enalsle the coaductors to 'conduct,' the bells loing somewhat noisy.
Sonse splendid tune ringing hy Mr. C. H. Wekls and his "Iads* premded the short meeting, presided over by Mr. A. Ballard, at which the following towers were repreaented: Broughtou Astley, Buthage. Croft, Ear! Shilton, Hinckley, Snpeoto and the local company. There werc also present Mr. C. F. Webb and paty from Kersley, Coventry and Mr. W. Tolnson, of Hugglescote. Mr. E. Morris was also present earlicr in the afternoon, but laad, unforfunstely, to leave early.
It was decided to hold a meeting at Groft on Novemther 18t5-the last day of summer time-nad also one at Hincliny an Decenber gilb, providing these daios were suitable to local conditions.

By fixing the dates of botly mectings it tus loped that local towers would be able to arrange their nwn Saturday practices in between.
It wrs poinied out flat the Croft date would fall on the regular meeting date of the Warzickshive Guild, lut it was felt that, while normally the Warwickshire date would be avoided, under preseat conditions, whes regard had to be given to the periods of moonlight available, the clashime of mectings was unavoidalie.
It was annommed that Burbace hoped to he glale to arrange fortmiglitly Saturday practices and that Earl Shilton were trying to black-out their tower in readiaess for regular mid-week prnctice nymit.

Thanks to the Rector coneluded the meeting.
The general opinion of all was that, the meeting had been the hest some time and that other mectings should the on the same lones. th is mid that a mevious inctument at Sharnford was keen on cock fighting. ## CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

ST. GILES-IN-THE-FIELDS.
By J. Armicer Trollope.
In olden times, London consisted of what is now the city. Round about it, outside, was open and sparsely populated country, dotted here and there with a few villages and small towns, and between them farmhouses and hamlets.

To meet the reeds of these latter, a few churches were built, and when men talked or wrote about them they spoke of them as "in the fields, ${ }^{\text {, }}$ to distinguish them from the other churches with the sanse dedication inside the walls. Thus the tiny church that 'standeth all alone as utterly forsaken, old, and weather beaten,' beyond the village of Islington, was called St. Pancras-in-the-Fields, to distinguish it from St. Pancras, Soper Lase; the humble church by Charing Cross was called St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, to distinguish it from the important and weaithy church of St. Martin-le-Grand; and, further north, where the country lane, which ran north from St. Martin's joined the main road from London to Oxford, was another small church, called St. Giles'-in-the-Fields, to distinguish it from St. Gile's-without-Cripplegate.
To-day you have to travel very many miles from the sites on which those churches stood before you come to anything remotely resembling a field, but the names still survive, at least in the last two instances; and St. Martin's-in-the-Fields and St. Giles'-in-the-Fields are two important churches, both of which have played a very distinguished part in the history of the ringing Exercise.

The story of St. Giles' goes back to the first year of the twelfth century. In 1101 Qtieen Matilda, wife of Henry I., built and endowed a hospital for lepers. This hospital was suppressed in the reign of Henry VIII., and the buildings and lands passed into lay hands; but the chapel still continued to serve the surrounding population and became a parish church in 1547. According to the inventory taken in 1552, it possessed 'a payre of organs, iij bells wytlie a saunce bell,' and, in their returns to the Royal Commissioners, the churchwardens included among their expenses for the year, 'Item for makying of a bell whele ijs viijd,' showing that the bells were hung for ringing.

In 1600 the district was still surrounded by open fields, but soon afterwards London began to push itself outwards in that direction, and preparations began to be made for building a new church. Four persons were appointed by the vestry in $1617^{\prime}$ ' to inspect the account of Mr. Bigg concerning the charge of building the steeple and casting the bells and also of buying some new bells, when $f 125 \quad 17 \mathrm{~s} .5 \mathrm{~d}$. ठue to him for money expended thereon was ordered to be paid.
The new church, a small building, was consecrated on June 26th, 1623, and in the steeple was hung a ring of six belts by Ellis Knight, of Reading. Two of Knight's bells, the present third and fourth, are still in the tower.

In 1685 the two largest were recast by William and Philip Wightman, the tenor at the expense of the Düchess of Dudley, into whose family the old hospital lands had passed, anc who had been a great benefactor to the church. These two bells also still survive.

By 1700 there were many houses in Drusy Lane, and by the middle of the eighteenth century the whole of St. Giles' was covered with buildings. They were for the most part a network of mean and sordid streets, the haunts of vice and poverty, and for long afterwards the district had almost the worst reputation of any in London. The once notorious Seven Dials is in the heart of the parish and [ittle more than a stone's throw from the church.

The church of 1630 was small and inconvenient, and a century later, after Parliament had voted money to provide new churches for London, it was decided to rebuild the structure. The design, which was by Henry Flitcroft, a pupil of James Gibbs, the architect of St. Martin's, is not without merit. The church was begun in 1730 and opened four years later, the total cost of building being $610,05915 \mathrm{~s}$. 9 d ., of which $£ 8,000$ was supplied by the Parliamentary grant.

Richard Phelps, of Whitechapel, was employed to overhaul the bells for the new church. He recast the old third and fourth and added two trebles, thus completing the octave which is still in the steeple.

Musically, the bells are rather a poor lof, but they have played an important part in the story of change ringing, and several very interesting peals have been rung on them.
(T'o be continued.)

CO-OPERATION BETWEEN NEIGHBOURING TOWERS.

To the EZitor.
Dear Sir-A practice is to be held at Ibstock on Saturday to meet any ringers who care to pey us a visit, more especially those from neighbouring towers, and wo aro prepared to consider visiting other local towers on difereat Saturday aftermoons in order to keop up the interest I personally feel that much improvement could be mede if other groups of towers would do the same.

May I take this onportunity of appealing to rivgers in the Loughhorough District, M.C.A., not to let the present shortage of officisl meetings interfere with the work of the district tunaecessarily?

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

日IRMENGHAM RINGERS' GINT TO MR. AND MRS. G. E. FEARN In spite of the "black-out' and the curtailment of travelling facilities, the quarterly meeting of St. Martin's fuild for the Diocese of Birminegham held on Saturday, October 7ih, proved quite a success and justified the initiative of the officers in holding it. No doubt the fact that it was held in the belfry of St. Martin's Clurch in the Bull Ring Birmingham, and that it was possible to have one hour's ringing helped towards its success, It was also a representatwo eathering, as members attended from the following towers: St. Martin's, the Gathedral, Aston, Erdington, King's Norton, Coventry, Shirley, Perry Barr and Selly Oak.
In the absence of the Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, the vicepresident (Mr. Albert Walker) occupied the chair at the business meeting.
A letter was read from the Ringing Master, Mr. F. E. Haynes, apologising for his absence, which whs unavoidable, on account of his having been evacuated with his school. as it whs ancertain how long he would be asay, une felt in the interests of the Guild he should place his resignation in the luands of the members.

After some discussion it was unenimously agreed that he should remain in office until tie anaual meeting, when it was homed the position would be clearer.
the Henry Johmson Comme to make preliminury arrangements for the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner, but in the present cir cumstances it was agreed to defer this until the anmual preeting
The tower election of Mr. R. H. Robinson, of Portsmouth, was duly satified.

It wes decided to hold the ennual meeting at lieadquarters on Saturday, January 6th.
Under the heading of 'Any other busincss,' the gecretary referred to the recert wedding of Mr G. E. Fearn the Finging Mrster at the Cathedral. His personal friends in the Guild hed decided to give Mr. and Mrs. Pearn a wedding present, and although this had not yet been procured, he thought that as Mr. and Mrs. Fearn were present it would be well to take the opportunity of presentiag it to them that evening. They had expressed a wish for a frameless mirror which would be obtained and given them shortly. JFe had moch pleasure in agking the chairman to make the preaentation.

Mr. Albert Walker, in making the presentation fwhich took the form of toucling the belfry mirror by Mr, and Mrs, Fearn), wighed them both long life and happiness. Mr. Feuru, he sajd, was a first-cinss Finger, and, he felt sure, would make a first-class husband. He had no doutht, either, that Mrs. Fearn would make an excellent wife. On behalf of all the arsembled company, he wished them every happiness with good fortune.
Mr, Fearn responded an behalf of his wife and himself. He thanked Mr. Walker for the good wighes he had so happily exparssed. and thanked his many friends in the Guild for their kind gift, which, needless to say, he and his wife very much appreciated.
Several geod touches on lianabells, including Stedman and Erin Cinques, conclutied the evening, and everyone present expressed the opinion that the meeting had been a succers.

CHANGE RINGING ON HANDBELLS.  MR. W. KEEBLES ADYICE.

Doar Sir, As one who lies lied some past experience in handhell ringing, I should like to make a few comunents on this interesting part of the r.rt. At the outset I must warmly thank your able contributor, Mr. C. W. Woolley, on his well thought out article ith last Week's issue, and I hope to see fuxther artirles from such an able pen I should like alsa to thank both my frieuds,Mr. J. Funt and Mr. G.
Syronds, for their lethers. I am in eutire agreement with Mr. Hunt Syronds, for their letters. I am in eutire agreement with Mr. Hunt whea he says do nof try to ring two handbells. I jresume he meaus do not atart with two-that will come later. Practice makes perfect. Mr. Symonds appears to favour two bells, hut in my experience it is more difficult with some ringing single-handed and others double. I should, therefore, prefer to start all single-handed. Witll a good haradhell band, thoraughly converant with ringing fouble-landed, it handbell band, thoraughy conversant with rigging double-lanarded, it views on this point. Which is easier for beginmers-all single-handed or some single and some double? Yont readers may life to know that I was recenlly usked for some advice on this interesting subject by a brother ringer, which $T$ gave to the lyest of my ability and it so happens that the advice I sent was the fiven ly Mr. J. Hunt. Now, sir, I come to the P's. Pencil, paper, punctuality, practice and berseverance will, in the end, all heln to produce success; but success will pow come linless all the athove P's are combined.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS' TERCENTENARY.

A会 INTERESTING MEMENTO.

The late Mr. W. Roughton wes for many years one of the most ardeat supporters of the Ancient Society of College Youths. Its recent tercentenary aroused his kevnest interest and be largely contributed to the success of the Festival connected with it,
About a year ago, Mr. Rougliton's proposal that a memorial book should be made for futaze reference was adopted by the society and he was authorised to earry out his idea. It wilh be remembercd that lue had artistic gifts as a printer, and his arrangement of both type and format waz atways admired. His production of the rociety's booklet in 1928, giving its history and rules, is an excellent example of the revival of the art of printing. The manbers present, therefore were conlident that the result would be one worthy of the festival aad all concerned.
The resulting memorial book was received by the society from Mr. Rougliton's son on Septamber 19th last and was wuch admired by the members present, for it exceuled all their expectations. It was Mr. Roughtom s last work, and just es the architect Brunetleschi was whecled to his window for one farewell look at lis masterpiece-tho Duomo, at Tlorence-so Mr. Rouglaton approsed the final detaila of tho work and saw its completion as he lay dying opon his siel bed. It is thue, also, his own memarial.
The volmme is large folio, bound in brown morocco leather. After n simple but striking tible page there come, mounted on and in the strong juory tinted leaves, the Orders of Service at St. Paul's Cathedral and at $S t$. Dionis Jackchurch; the dimer booklet and the invitation shcet (reproduced from the society's 1Bth century one); photographa depicting events of the chay, and, fimally, several pages of news cutting from 'The Ringing World," Times,' ete., yiving together a detalled account of all twat was dome on that eventful day. The titing and explanatory lettering are a fine accompaniment to this remarkable collection and the work is quite au acquisition. It is well wortly the place which it is sure to maintain amongst the society's oftar unique and valuable books.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

The effects of the siduation and black-out were evident at the quarterly meeting of the weilinglerough Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, which was lield at lozent on October 14th, wnen 20 ringers were present, compared with a pre-war average of 46. Howewer, the following belfies ware represented: Inliligghorough, Wollaston, Mears Aslaty, Wilby, Laston Maudit, Trafeld, Turvey, Farraln, Bromham aud Bozeat.
A bhort gervice was lield, conducted loy the Vicar (the Kev. J. H. Marlow who is also bratult president. He gave an interceting fiddress from the text taken from I. Chronicles, Ivi., 42: 'And with them Heman and Jeduthun with trumpets and cymbals for those that shculd makt a sound. and with musical instruments of God.'
This the preacher likened to the woris of the ringer. He urged tine members to do their lyest to carry on this wark, which he cousidered was mora than ever necessary now in these datk days, when people needed the message of hope which the church bellis were meant to prowide. He referred also ta the various messeges cast on their own provide. Fle
Tea was provided in the Church Hall by willing lady helpers. Marlow, strpported by the braoch gecretary, Mr. A. Bigley-
Tha gathering stood a moment in silent trihute to the memory of the late Rector of Isham, the Rev. E. J. Atking, who was for many years an honorary member of the Guild.
The secretary mentioned that the Fev. L. Crowther Green had cancelled the proposed special meetiag, which should have taken place earlier. The wext metting was fxed for Irthlingborough and will be held in January.
Tiventhe prachice meetings are still being held, and teke place as follow: Woilnston, Monday night, 7.30; Bozent, Priday niagut, 7.30 ; Turvey, Thesday night, 7 : Brafield, Thursday night. 7. 15.
Five first peal certificates were preserted to the following raombere: J. Stuart and W. Griges, of Wollastan. Miss E. Scam (Mearg Ashby), C. W. Partridee (Wiby), and G. Brafield (Wallingborough), who, with their conductors, were congraculated on their performance.
A lotter was read from the Fienr of Great Dodflington, asking for assistance to teach mew ringers at that wiliage, and it was decided to seok further particulars.
Good wishes were received from Mr. F. Barber, the former secretary.
The secretary asked that the names of all members joining the Forces should be sent to firm, so that they might be kept on the books.
A vote of thanks was given to the ladies for mroviding the tea, also to the Vicat and orgenist (Mr. E. Holbray, of Follaston) for their services.
After the meeting the Viear's linadbefts were breught out. and three courses of Boh Minor were rung by A. Bigley, A. Y. Tyler and D. Conkinge. nad the Rozead team amissed the company by lapping a course of Bob Roval. The church bells, f hesva peal of five, were rung during the afternoon and evering to various methods of Donbles.

OVERCOMING THE BLACK-OUT.

HOW A VILLAGF BAND HAS PROGRESSSD.
No metbod ringing has been done at tine bitile viltage of Wadhurst, Sussex, for over a yuarter of a century, and the band attached to the church when the war started uight well have bees sondent to excuse any attempt to rovive it at sucll a time ag this- Here, however, is the record of what has been tome. Mr. C. A. Bassett, assistant secretary of the Enst Grinsteud and Distuict Guild, writes:-
Since the outbreak of way the loca! band at Wadhurst have been practising on the lines descrihed lyy Mr. #. Funt in bis letter in the Iast issus of "The Ringing Warld 'and it has met with considerable sucaess.

When we started five weeks ago only three of us could ring by rope-sight, so we set to work with the other serea, who could just Fing one certain bell to call changes off a blackboard. In the blacked out vestry rope-siglat was tharoughly explained, and after twe prac tices, at least cour of the seven could take any bell and ring a plain course of Original Minor.
Last Monday night two more recruits were roped in, und they picked it up qo quickly that with ane on the treble and one inside we atterapted Boh Minor and got into the fourth lead before breaking down. Fe are now busy oll Sunday mornings teaching these two to landie a tower bell, and we are pleased to say the others are slowly getting rope-sight on the tower bells.

We have every reason to beliave that *mothod ' ringing will return to Wadmurst after a lapse of over 25 years. The local record is very pror. The tower has never been affliated to the county, a local band has never rung a peat, until last yeer only one local (flie lato Sam Wallis) bad ever joined an guild or rung a peal. Only one meeting has ever been held at Wadhurst, about 1901, and the Hawhinurst Guild, which hed arrsuged ode for next Saturday, Oetoler $28 t h$, lias cancelled it. So, whatever liappens, we shell not let anyone down, berause the tower has never been on the 'up.'

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

WARY WELCOME AT WIDFORD.

Memberg of the Snuth-Eastern Division of the Frsex Association were warmly weleomed to a meeting at Widford on Satirday by the Wicar (that Rev. H. Leslie Pike).

Between 3 and 5 a'clock in the afternoon various meihods wore rung and afterwards a serfice was held in the church, conducted by the Vicar, the lesson being read by the Master Dr. Spencer Phillips,

Tea was served in the British Legion Hall by Mrs. Jennings and her helpers, but unfortuately several ringers were ulable to stay owing to the 'black-out' making travelling difficult and some having to go on duty.

The business meeting was presided over by the Revtar, and Mr. Booly, of Ingutestone, was elected a ringing member.
It was proposed to hold the ammual meeting at Writtle on November 18tls if permission could be obtained.

It was considered that sinee practice nights at present are impussible, it would lue of great vaiue if Saturday afternoon practices were lield, so Great Baddow, Danlury and Borelsam wexe decided upon for the next three weeks, ringing to commenee at 2.30 p.m.

The towers represented were Great Baddow, Boreham, Chelmsford, Galleywood, Maldod, Springfield, Little Waltham, Widford, Bruintree, Bocking and Xewmarket.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN SHROPSHIRE RINGER

The death recertly occurred at Owvestry, after a somewhat pratracted illness, of Mr. Robert T. Tivans, a well-kiown Shropshire ringer. Deceased, wha was affectionately known to his friends as where lie resuded practically all his life. Although me rang only ahout 40 peals be was always a keer ringer and did a lot of "spadework ' in the Norih Shropshire districk, no didance being too far for him to travel for a practice, meeting or peal, ete, or to assist beginners

It ona period alout 15 years aro, le used to travel the eightmile journey to Filesmere quite regularly in order to make up band to practise Stedman Triples there, and he regularly attender the meetings of the Shropshire Aesuciation. His peals consisted of grand sire Dothles and Triples (some of which he conducted). Stedman Doubles and Triples, and Bob Major. He was aleo a keev bandsman and was for several yeare a member of the Oswestry Town Band.
At his futseral the bells were rung laslf-nuffled and six rimgers acted as bearers. His passing will be keenly regrethed by all win knew lim, and his loss sadly felt by all his ringing collengues in the distriet.

PREPARING FOR EVENTUALITIES.

One of the troubles with which associations may be confronted ir the present conditions is that of obtaining competent officers if any of the posts become vacant. There is always a dearth of men, particularly when it comes to filling secretarial jobs, and the present demands upon everyone are likely to make the task of filling vacancies even more difficult. At a meeting of the Surrey Association, on Saturday, when nominations for an important district secretaryship should have been received, not only were there no volunteers but no one could be pressed into office. After several years of valuable work, the present occupant of the post, after having given the members due notice at the last annual meeting of his intended retirement, definitely declined to continue, and the district is threatened with a position which will leave it without its chief executive officer. It is usually the idea that, when such a vacancy occurs by the resignation of a senior member, a younger man should step into the breach, but in the present uncertainty, of course, it is hardly safe to put young men into office, because of the risk that, in the emergency, they may be called away to other service. Indeed, that is a liability which all associations are now carrying, wherever men of likely military age are filling important offices, and it would be a wise plan if everywhere, where this probability exists, there should be some suitable, if older, member held in reserve to fill the gap should it occur.
Too often in the past a district and even an association has been badly let down by the hurried appointment of a secretary who has been unfitted for the post. It is not necessarily the most enthusiastic ringer who makes the most efficient secretary. Other qualifications are necessary if he is to make a success of his job, and it is a mistake to appoint anyone merely on the strength of his ringing capacity. There is no more important office in connection with ringing than that filled by a secretary, and, however well intentioned he may be, he can make or mar a district by his organising ability or the lack of it. If he has to have any standing with the people with whom he must come into contact, he must also have a certain amount of business ability, and we have seen more than one district badly let down by a secretary lacking tact and the necessary education to conduct correspondence. We emplasise this because members of associations are prone, when they are faced with a vacancy which is difficult to fitl, to pitchfork into the job the first man who is willing to take it. The interests of the organisation demand that such appointments should be made only after the most careful consideration of the nominee's fitness for the appointment, and personal feeling ought not to be allowed to enter into the election. It may be contended that when choice is limited an association must take what it can get; but it should be the duty of the other responsible officials to make a survey of the possible material and, especially when they have lengthy notice of a coming vacancy, to take time by the forelock and be ready with a suitable nomination. It is all very well to put the onus on the general body of members, but they often fail to make the best selection when suddenly confronted with the task of filling a vacancy. They have probably given the matter little or no thought, and yet the question of who is going to shoulder the work may be of vital importance to the future of the association. We have been tempted 10 express these views in the light of present prospects. Sudden removals in national service may, at any moment, cause vacancies in association offices, and it behoves all the organisations to look ahead so that they may not be caught unawares if it should happen that the occupant of some key office is called away. Even if appointments are made only temporarily, until a man has proved himself, it is better thus than to make a permanent but unsatisfactory choice, for it is seldom that a man once in office is relieved of his duties except at his own request.

A BELL OPENING CENTENARY. CELEBRATION AT SOUTHOVER, LEWES, What Happened One Hundred Years Ago.

The centemary of the epening of a ring of eight bells at St. Jolbn

 the Baptist's Cburclh, Southover, Lewes, was eelebrated last Saturday. Througlout the intervening one butadred years the bells of Southover lave held an houroured place in the appreciation of Susses ringers, and there nre few towers in the county where more poals havo been rung. The ciloxch itself is of Norman origin, as its big, circular pillars and zounded arches tesilify. Its tower of later date is a massive pile buit of rock clielk and faced with brick, supported by $\neq$ int and stone butitesses. Of the early history of the bells jittle is known, but the tower keid four bellis, probndly of consideralle size, at the end of the seventeenit century. In 1738 it was agreed at a yeatry meeting 'to send the four bells belonging to the said parish by Capt, William Headley to Loandon in order to be new cast.' THus they weru taken, probably by water, to the foundry of Sauuel Knight and Robert Catliny who recast them into six. Southover, we are told, gave ate 10s. Bd.; Lewes and the Cliffe, which were then separate parishes that arc now combined to form the horough of Lawes, in which Southover is also now included, gave f97 19s. 3 d. : Mr. Edward Trayton gave one bell, value e32 0s. 6d.: country gentlemen 557 145. Gd. That is how the money was rained.

Probably these bells were not altogether satisfactory. for a hundred years later they were again recast and, with new metal added, made into eight. Their inscriptions show how the maney was provided on that accosion:-

7.-Tlie gift of Wm Verrall, Esqre. 1839.

Tenor. The gift of Willinzu Verrall, Eegre, Lord of the Manor,
It wns a great occasion for Southoves when on Monday, October $28 \mathrm{th}, 1839$, the bolls were opened. Most of the day was devoted to the celobrstion, for the proceedipgs began with ringing in the morniog, which was continued in the aftemoon, and there was a public dimer in the erening, the jubilations being kept up until a late hour.

THE CENTENARY CELEBRATION
For some time past the ringers at Southover hare been contemplating the fitting celebration of the one hundredth anniversary, but the we: naturnlly caused a modification of the plans. However, the bells were rung and a dinner was held, so the event did not go unmarked, although the peal which it was originally hoped for ring uad to be abandozed.
The palice gave their consent to threc-quarters of an hour"s zinging in the late afterncon, subject to arrangements for an immediate stoppage if becessary. is a suitable touch for the occasion one lumured leads ( 1,400 changes) of Grandsire Triples wns ruug by $G$. Wrekias (Ringmar) 1, G. P. Elphick 2, W. J. Copparis 3, F. Bumett (Brıghton) 4, J. S. Goldsnitit (Waking) (conductor) 5, F. H. Dalaway Easibourie) 6, R. W. E. Dewe 7, A. A. Eughes (Loudon) 8.
The dinner was served at Holloway's Restararant and attendea uy about 45 ringers and Friends. The Rector (tho Ref. D. G. Mathews) who is president of the Southover Church Bellingers Guild, was in tho chair, and was gupported by Mre, Mattlzews, Mr. H. R. Butches (Master of the Susser Counly Associntion), Mr. E. H. Fullez and Mr. A. T. Corner (churchwardens and Fice-presidents) and Mrs. Conger, Mra. Dridge, Mr. H. ふ̇. White and Mr. G. W. Townerd (vicepresidents), Mr. A. A. Hughes, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, Mr, G. B. Ciphichc (hon secretary) and Jfr, R. W, E. Duwe (captain). In addition to ather members of the Guild, ringers were presant from Brighton (St. Nicholas'), Easthourme (Christ Church and St. Saviour's), Rot lierfield, Seaforả, Ringmer, Waldrou and Twineham, Apologies for absence were received from Mr. Prank Verrall (a grundsols of Willinm Verinil, one of the donms of the bells), Mr. J. Thornton Ricknau (Brighton), who at the beginning of this sentury gave the present trebles which increased the bells to ten, and Mr. S. E. Armstrong, hon, sectetary of the Sussex Association,
The Rector, having progosed the loyal toast, welcomed als the sisitors and commented ort the fact that they wero thble to hatd that commemoration on the actual dhy of the centenary, for the bells were opened on October 28th, 1889 . He gave a briof outline of the history of the bells and paid a tribute to the work of the present hon. secretary of the Guild (Mr. Elphick). It whs, he snid, largely dute to him that they werc able to keep the bells of Southover ringing, and they were also greatly indobted to bim for arranging that evening'a gathering (applaure)

THI WORK OF THE SUSSEX ASSOCIATIOX.
Mr. C. J. Rugg, who proposed the tonst of "The Sussex County Association,' said lie felt like the prodigal son, for, after laarieg been ussociated with the Guild for several years, but having since theen is the far combry for two years, he had returned when the fatted calf appeared in the ofling (iaughter). Proceeding, be recalled the these primeipal objects of the assopiation, the cullivation of cliange ringing, the due care and use of church bells nud belfies, and the recognition of true position of ringers as church officiats. The association, he said, had carried out its objects most successfully, and last ycar, despite the emormous counter-atometions, its membership of neurly 700 ringers inad declined by only thirteen. He wha very pleased to seo linat Ir Elphick was a member of the sssociation Committee and of the Com mittee of Advice. The asoocietion hod done wigely in selectity him for that post, and probably ong of the beat things lam (Mr. Rugg ever didi in eannection with ringing was to persunde Wr. Elphick to join the Guild (applause). In these times it was difficult to talk of the future of the association, but he loped sincarely that it would emerge from the present atate of nffairs stronger than ever and would continue to flourish along with the other arts and exercises which we in this country had taken a stand to preserve \{applatase).
Mr. H. R. Bulcher in responding thanked the hon. secretary for the kind invitation to be present on that unique occasion in the history of five tower. It was a great pleasure to the association to know that the ringers of Southover were keeping in such close tauch with the bells and tower. These were diffinlt days for ringiag, with the restrictions that were imposed, but, he thaught, as time went on, t might be possible to resume junctices in most places. The commithee and officials of the association Fould do all thoy coald to encourage bands to resume nnd to continue their work. In thinking of the centenary of Southover bells they could not help easting their mindis back over the bundred years and realling the memorable oceasions for which the bells had been rung. For a huadred gears they had called people to the services of the churcti, they bed rung for state occasions, for the accession of kings und the death of sovereigna; they had rung for great aational eveuts and for parochial celebrations, and those present that night must feel they had met to celobrate i. wonderful occesion. He extended to the Guild the comgratulations and good wishes of the nasociation (applasse)

THE STORY OF 1839.
Mr. I. S. Goldsmith proposed the tonst of 'Success to Southover Churels Bollmingers Guild. They bod met that diay, he said, to celebrate an listoric anniversary in tho annals of Southover Church. and they were to be congratulated that, Lespite the prevaling war conditions, they had deeided to carry ou, even in a modified way, with the commemoration of the openisg of the bella ane hundred years agu that day. Continuing, he referrod to the formation of tho Guild, in which be took a part some 45 years ago. and said he re gretted that one other of the foundation memhers, Mis. Alfred Turner, now the oldest ringer in Lewes, was absent from that gathering Mr. Goldsmith recalled that the formaion of the Guild, under the then Rector (the Rev, W. F. Riehardson) was the first oftial recognition which the ringers af Soathover had received from the churcti authorities, and he looked upon it as a very wise step in the right direction. Previons to that there had, of course, been ringers attached (Continued on next page.'

to the elnsch, but they had liad no authorised position in the charch organisation.
Mr. Galdsmith went on to dascribe what loppened in southover one hurdred wears ago that dey. He lad, he said, obtained lrom the British Museum of copg of the reports of tle proceedings which appeared in the local newspajers at the trime. The procecdings began at 11 o'clock in the raorning, when Southover ringers raised fine new bells. Rimgera from Rrightou then led of with a quactor-jpeal of Grandeire Friples, enndacted by Mr. Tester. Thereafter yarjous bands from Waldron, Uekfield and Chailey rant ama occopied themselves with the bells throwghout the afternoon. Mr. Goldsmith pointed out that at that time there whs no rail commumication with Lewes, so all these men must have walked many miles to take part in the proceedings, winch indimated their enthusiestn. Fe doubted if, to-day, there were many ampng
At five o'clook the ringers adjourned to the Swan Inn, where a compang of geventy or eighty, fmeluding parishioners, partook of dinner. Mr. Churchwarden Eagles was in trie chair and the vice-chas was taken lyy Mr. John Werrall, lis co-churchwaxden. Mr. William Terrall, Lord of the Manor, wha geve some of the bells, wes present, as was Mr. Thomas Mears, the fownder. Ihere was no indication that the Rector (the Rev. John Soobel'l) wne preseat, and there was no raligjous service held in connection with the openongr as there would have beer in similar circumstances to-day. Indeed, the proceedings were entirely secular, as was almost everything connected witlinging it handred years ago.
The surprise of the evenimg was furnished when a large bos was delivered from the London Coach Offon, and, on being opened, was found to contain a set of inandoells, presented by the Bell Founder. Chenge rivging on the handbells by the Brighton ringers boak place, and the newrpapar report cuncluded with the remark: "Many loyal and convivial toasts were given and mongs and good humour kept the company together till a late hour. A better feeling anomg all classes perhaps was newer witnessed than on this occasiou, and all parties retized plessed and delighted with, the resuld of the day.

RENTERS OF A CENTURY AGO.
Hr. Galdsmith added thet he had no doulb his owt grandiather was onc of those who took part in the events of the day, for he was Perish cherk, and almost certaming one of the ringers, and lie (tlie speaker) therefore felt that he lad a personal link with that great oocasion, when the new hells came to Soldhover. As to what manner of men the ringers werg in that day, Mr. Goldsmith quoted fram the reminiscemces of a contemporury writer, who described the ringers of another little Sussex town, Hailcham, and there was no reason to suppose that the ringers of Southover were thy different in bye. The writer in question wrote of the ringers:-

- Tha mester tradesmen thought it no degradation but rather an honcurable distinction to be one to minister fo the rites of the belfry To be a ringer was a privilege.

Each bell liad jts regular hand. There was the latter, glover, thilor. shoemaker and blachemith in succession and a few olhersodd mea to take a turn as oceasion required, aud one, the street driver, who was always needed to feloin the beer from the tavern. rhey were all profecsionully earnest, devoted men, anc to do them justice as a rule-atd what rale is mot more or less hroken?-they were sober men.
Mr. Goldsmith concluded ly remarking tlan the members of the Guild had, in the bells, a goodly heritage. He hoped they would take new life and energy from this notahle anmuersary; that they would soon be rimging for fintory and long contimue to ring through years of unbraken peace in the future (upplause)

Mr R W. F. Dawe responded wa the foast nind expreased great satisfaction that they had beon macecestul that day is ringing one hundred letds of Grandsire Triples for the ocession. If lisd given lifm and the rest of the band freal chjoyment.to take part in it, At present the Guild was continumg the Sunday ringing and practices, and wanld go on doing so urless someone else gtopped them.

dGLINtSS Ny the belfry

Mr G. P. Elphick gave the tanst of "The Founders." He stid he wondered what this country would inve been like without the founders of bells. The founders were a small group of men whose work was of the highest order. In Sussex they had 25 examples of bells cast by London founders which had been calling nien to higher things for over five hundred years. The founders of to-dny had deas which led along a different math to the founders of old. They tarned their attention to hetter tuming, hut he feared that, in so doing they had last something in beauty of form. Modern belfries wre full of upliaess. The cold steel Mame, covered with rust, was the product of the engineer and had renlaced hoarts of oals. They had steel cages, sted stocks, steel skays and steel sliders and he hnd even found steet wheels-lie hoped they wonld never come to using steel ropes (laughter). Steal bells were, happily, now obsolete. He would plead for beauty of form in hells as well as beauty in tone, to help to counteract the ugliness in the world in which we live. They were, he adued. pleased to welcome Mr. Hughes that evening. He represented the foundry from which Sontlover bells came a hundred years ago. (Continued in next column.)

For his services during the Great War he was created a Member of the Order of British Empire and Homorary Serving Brother of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. He was wade a J.F. For Gateshead in 1931, and represented the South Ward on the Town Council for siz years.Mr. Payne joined the Durlam and Newcastle Diocesen $A$ ssociation in 1911 as a member of the St. Paul's, Whitley Bay, brauch and enrat his ringirg with the celobrated Gofton family. He rang his first peal, one of Stedman Triples, iu that belfry on May $23 \mathrm{rcl}, 1913$. and took part in muny peals with the Whitley Bay company before leaving the const to live in Gateshead. He joined the Newcastle Cathedral Guild in 1921 and was a very active member, acting for some years as secretary.
For some tine he was assistant and editorial secretary of the assoniation and eventnally occupied the presidency from 1933 to 1936. Duriug his leadership the rules of the essociation were revised-a latorious task, but all to the good of the swoother and more efficint Forking of the Hssociation.
In aiी, Mr. Payne rang in 36 peals on tower and handluells, in His peala ware was useful and reliable on $1-2$ in Major and Royal. His peals ware rung in all the standard methods, sad included, in The fineral service was held fat Newcostle Cathedral, the Very Ret the Provost, Canon G. E. Brigstocke, ofticiating. A large concourse of fellow-ringers, works representalives and Freemasons attended, while the Gateshead Town Council were there, headed by the Mayor (Councillor Pickring), and many of the councillors and Town Fiell
The nembers of the Durlam and Neweaslle Diocesan Association were represented by the presideat, Mr. Murray Oubridge, the Cathedral Ringing Master and several members of the Guild, Ringers were also present frour Benwell, Fenbam, Whitley Bay, Gatethead and I'anfield towers. ## THE SOUTHOVER CENTENARY.

Mr. Bughes, who replied, expressed gratitude for the toast. He said it was a privilege to attend that gathering. It was a privilege, too, to be associated with the founder who supplied the bells of Southover Chureh of fundred years ago, 贵hd those foundry, mest year, would be 370 years old. Thare whs a great tradition belind and ane could nothelp thaking of what had been put joto it in the past, in whicls men had put their heart and soul into producing Mr. Elphich's plea for more beaty in the towers. A great deal of ugliness had been infroduced. There was no need far it. Fine things had been done in past days, such as was shown in the beatutiful old enstings. Fortunalely to-day there was a cheek upon the ugliness, a check whicl had come about by the formation of the diocesan committees to give advice on these points.
Promening, Mr. Hughes said that in the days when Thomas Mears cast the bells for Southover the firm did very little hanging, and all they supplied to Southover was the eight bells and eiglit clappers. He would liave liked to find ont something further alout the contract by the correspondence that led up to the transaction, but unfortindately sixty or seventy years ago the firm lost many of their records by fire and all he could tell them was that they supplied the belfs to the parish with the eight clappers.
Mr. Hughes fdided that it was very nice to be there that evenng among some ald friends, and he counted it a great privilege to hava been able to take part in the commemorative touch rung that evening. in conclusion he expresed regret that Mrs. Hughes had been mable to accept the invitation which had heen extended to her as well as to bimself.
During the evening the speches were interspersed with lumorous gongs by Mr. Thylor, courses of Bob Major and Grandsire Triples rung on handbells, and tuaes on his laudbell carillon cleverly tapped by Mr. G. P. Flplick

After 'Auld Lang Syne ' had been suag, 'all parties,' in the words of the writer of a hundred jears ago, retired pleased and delighted with the result of the day.'

BARNSLEY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

FTIURE ARRANGEMENTS

The Barnsley District Society held their October meeting at Penistona on Saturday weck, when 14 members were present from Cnwthorne, Felkirk and Wath, besides the local company. Ringing begans at 3 p.m., end the bells, a fine geal of eight, were made good use of until about 6.15 p.m. The ringing was mostly. in Minor methods. ranging from Plain Bab to Cambridge Surprise, with plenty of oppor tunities for the recruits. Touches of Treble Boh Major were also rung, giving some of the members their first chance of a torein on cight bella.
Tha business meeting was held in the tower before the tea, the Vicar, the Rev, E. D. C. Wright, presidirg.
It was decided not to hold any further metinge this year, the next to be the annual general meetiog in Jenuary at Barnsley. If was also decided to hold a commitiee meeting at Burnsley on Saturday, December 9th, to reccive notice of motions and yominations for afficials and any ether items of business which would come up at the ancual meetiag.
Tha Vicar wes thanked for the the of the bells and for preailing and the local company for making the arrangementa.

The Ficar, in reply, said be was marry that ringing had to be curtailed, but hoped conditions would soon change and the bells be ringing peale in celebration of peace.
The party tben adjourned to a nearby cafe for a good meal, which was thoroughly enjoyed, and, after koing led by tite loenls througli the black-out to the lunses for home, a good meebing under war condibions came to an end.

SATURDAY PRACTICES PLANNED FOR LINCOLN.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The war-time derangement of the postal services and the necessity of getting the copies of The Ringing World ' into the hands of the publishers earlier on Thursday make it absolutely essential that all contributions to our columns, and particularly all notices, should be in our hands by Monday in each week. We namnot guarantee the insertion in the following issue of anything received later.

We hope that secretaries will send us prompt reports of their meetings, and we shall welcome any items of news relating to ringers and ringing, but they must reach us early.

BELERY GOSSIP

We pucla regreh to record the death at Pudsey, Yorkshire, of Mr, Thomas Maude, who was 85 yeare of age. He passed away on October 23.d and was buried on Tharseny of last week. An account of hs unique connection with ringing mill appear in our next issue.

To-morrow nembers of the Ancient Society of College Youtls will aelebrate its thrae hundred and serond anniversary by a lunclueon at the London Pavern, and, Eespite the difficulties incident to wartime monditions, a numerous company is expected.

The Rev. Ivar J. Richards, hon treasurer of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Assomation, is serving with the Forces as Chaplain in Fradace.

Wedneaday was the anniversary of a peal of Bob Major rung in I 747 at St. Giles'-iu-the-Fields by the Union Seholars and conducted ly Jolun Holt.

On the sane date, in 1746 , what seems to have been the second peal of Double Norwich Court Boh Major ever rung was accomplished at St. Michacl's, Coslany, Norwich, and iu 1831 in the same tower a later generation of the Norwich Scholars $\quad$ ang 6,160 changes of the came metinod.
November 1st ${ }^{3}$ aliso the anniversary of the opening of the belis of St. Paul's Cathedral, which took place in 1878.

Five jears ago to-day the hand of ringers who were touring in Australis rang the first peal of Kent Treble Bob Major ever accomAlished outside the Bribish Isles. It was rung at Holy Trinity Church. Hohart, in Tasmanis, Mr. George Martin conducting and Mr. Ruperi Richardson at the tenor.
On November $56 \mathrm{~h}, 1787$, the Sheltield ringels rang at St. Peter's Church, now the Cathedral. 6,048 clvanges of Cambridge Surprase Major, and on the same clate in 1821 the Fuddersfeld ringers rang 5,152 changes of Superlative Surprise Major. The former peal was false, but the latter, which was composed and conducted by Benjamin Thackrah, end was the first in the method, was true.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir,-There was no question of fear or shame in the signafure of my lefter, the only mistake being I omitted the 's' from the end and I cea assure Mr. Mitchell it would take up far too much space to print alt the names. Anywny, no 'newspaper carrespondence ' is needed now. The Lewisham District have answered the query in a practical way (and most surprisingly that is the disirich where one would expect the most difficulty), so it does appear strange that the safer areas have not made any apparent effort, and the longer the delay the shorter are the hours available.
I promise the general secretary that if and when a mecting is held in this distrint I will be pleased to disclose my name, but at present I'm still

ENQUIRTER.'

THE ANCIENT BELL OF TALLEY ABEEY.

To the Editar.

Dear Sir,-I wish to thank Mr. T. Laver, Rzecer, for his great kindness in replying to my query. Mr. George Eyre Evang, the secreary of the Carmarthenshire Antiquarien Society, who has broadcast on numerous oceasions, and was for many years a member of chss an numerous ocessions, Comnission on Ancient Monuments for Wales, would never accept the riew expressed कy vsrious authorjkies that the great bell of Fialley Abbey went to Exeter.
Strange to sav, the inhabitants of Talley firmly believe that the hell is at Exeter. I showed the correspondence in "The Bringing World, to one of the leading residents, a member of the Iegal profession, and althourlh le admitted that Mr . Lever bad suppied convincing proof, still thaught it nusy be somewhere in that etty.

RINGING IN WAR TIME

SUCCDSSFUL MEETING AT KINGSTON-ON-THAMES,

A good gathering was held at Kingston on Seturday last, when ringers from the connties of London, Middlesex and Surrey nut for a conbined meeting of the Surrey, Middesex and Guildford Assocntions. The co-pperation of the police had been sought and obtained with the result that the bells were kept, going from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. The stipulation was made that a listener should be on duty to inform the ringers to stop the bells in the event of an air raid waruing being given.
About 60 ringers were present during the afternoon and evening includirg Mrjor J. H. B. Hesse (Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild), Mr. D. K. O. Birt (Master of the Surrey Association) and Mr. J. A. Trollope (vice-president of the Middleser Association). Vikitors were elso present from Twyford, Berks, and West Grinstead, Sussex. The Vicar of Kingston (the Rev. T. B. Scruttot) called at the Parish Hall duriag tea time and welcomed the gathering to Kingston, He aid he was sorry he could not remain for tea, as he had to get away to attend to parious other parochinl duties. He complimented the meeting on the quality of the ringing lie had heard during the afternoon, which + for novices' was very good indeed (laugliter) (most of lis listeners were experienced ritgers). Before he left the jiall a vote of thanks to him, for the use of the bells, was passed with gcelamation
After tea, Mr. Birt, on behelf of the North-Wesiern District of the Surrey Association, weleomen their friends of the Midalesex Association and of the Guildford Guild. 'That misguided person, Mr. Adolf Hitler,' he said, 'would very much like to stop all our normal activities and pretent us from carrying out our ordinary duties, Therefore, I fed that it is up to us to do all we can to keep our ringing going. When the changes which are taking pluce in the world are so fast and frightening as they are to-day, and when we are figliting a diotatorslip of the Fight in the form of Nazism on the one hand and menaced by a dictatorship of the Eeft such as Bolahevism on the other ft becomes increasimgly diflictif to keep our miads riear and steady. Opposed to such doctrines we have the feaching of Christ and His method ef carrying on: with love and gervice to mankind as a basis for the direation of our activitien, and I feel that mankind as a basis tor the direction of our activitien, and I ceel doat our ringing at the present timo.
Mr Ernest C. S. Turier, on behalf of the Middlesex Association, thanked Mr. Birt for his words of welcome, and conveyed to the mecting apologiea for absence from Mr. Lowis Cockey and Mr. Wilson A short business meeting of the North-West District of the Surrey Associetion followed, presided over by Mr. D. Cooper (District Master). Arising out of the minuter, Mr. E. A. Talbot asked whether anything Juad yet been done by the Guildiond Guild in the mather of the appointment of a representative to serve on the committee of the Surrer Association. He was informed that this subject was to be placed on the agenda for tho next anaual genersl meeting

With the exception of the secretary, all the distriet officers were nominated for re-election for the ensuing year. Appeals were made to Mr. Woodiss to induce him to earry on with the duties of secretary during the prosent national emergency. Itr reply, Wi. Woodiss pointed ouf that ho informed [lo association as loag ago as November 1938, of hig wish to retire (reported in "The Ringing World" dated December 2nd, 1938). Although there was nothing in the rules requiring an officer to give twelve months aotice of retirement, he did so in order to give nuemhers ample time in whicly to find a suitatio successor for election in 1940. He was disappointed to find that no nomination was forthcoming and hoped the position would be rectified by Jnuuary. Fe further expressed the opinion that it was but another instance, common to most associations unfortunately, of learing everything to the officers.
The connpany then returted to the tower, where the bells were kept going to various methods from Grandsire to Spliced Surprise Major and Cambridge foysl until 9 o'clock, no sir raid warning having been $^{\text {a }}$ sounded.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD.

SUGGESTED TAR-TIME ARHANGEMENT&
A meeting of the officials of the Guild was held at Truro ons Saturday, October 2ist, 1839, to discuss the working of the Guild in war time.

It was decided that this meeting take the place of the one which would have been held in February, 1940.
All the offcers were re-electet except Miss Angwin, now Mrs. Roherts, who bas left the diocese.
The following resolutions were oarried
(1) Report.-Not to issue a report till 1941, but this report to contain en account of the activities of the Guild during 1939 and 1940. In the place of the report the decisions of this meeting to be printed and three copies to he scis to eaci tower, one for the incumbent, one for the representafive and one to be posted in the lower.
(2) Affilialion fees.-These to be paidi as usual.
(3) Fertivals.-The diocesan Iestival to be held in some ptace easy of access, Lostwithiel suggested. One minor festival at least to be held in each branch every year. That picnic teas be brought by those attending these festivals.
(4) Branch secretaries should fincu bonseone who would be ready to take their place in case they are called asay on military or other national service.
(5) Finging.-Every effort slyould bo made to maintain Sunday ringing. To encure this youlg rivgers must be hrought on continualir to fill gaps, and in consequence practices musis be feefd. If it should loe inpossible to obtain woung ringers, and a tower finds iteelf Elorthanded, an appeal should be made to a neiglabouring Eower for lielp and ringug done in the two towers nlternately. It is up to members of toe Guild to see that none of its towers aro silent for the duration of the war
(6) Roll of lonobr- Secretaries or captaikn of towers to keep a list of these serving their country with tloeir service, rauks and honours, and this should eventualy be sent to the diocesun secretary, who will forward it to tho secretary of the Central Council to be preserved amone its records

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

ST. GILES'-IN-THE-FIEIDS. ITS PLACE IN THE HISTORY OF LONDON RINGING.

By J. Armiger Trollope.

Of the many London stecples, few have taken a part in the history of ringing equal to that of St. Giles', and annong the eight-bell towers it almost stands supreme.

In the old tower, the first six-bell peal of which we have any notice was rung shortly before 1730. It consisted of fourteen 360 's, but the particulars of what the methods were, who calied the bobs, and what the society was are lost. All we know is that Laughton says that he was one of the band and that James Newcombe, the steeplekeeper, at Westminster Abbey was another

The first peal in the present steeple was 5,040 changes of Bob Major in 1736 by the Union Scholars, conducted by John Denmead. In the following year Annable called 5,120 changes of Oxford Treble Bob for the College Youths, and four months later the Union Scholars rang a peal of Triples, the name of which, owing to the ornamental writing of the peal book, cannot be read. Osborn thought the word was Hack Trebles, and Jasper Snowdon suggested Ham Trebles, but thought it might be Hick Triples, which was the title the Union Scholars gave to John Garthon's peal of Grandsire Triples. The writing, however, can be anything you like to make it.

The Union Scholars aiso rang the first peals of Bob Triples and Grandsire Triples in the tower, this latter being their last peal before the society finally broke up. It was in 1757 , and was one of the carliest performances of Holt's Ten-part peal.

In 1759 the College Youths rang 5,280 changes of Morning Exercise Major, and a month later 5,040 of Double Boh. Morning Exercise Major was an extension of a six-bel! method, which was widely rung. The composition, however, was false. In 1778, John Reeves called $\overline{5}, 264$ changes of Real Double Bob Major, with two bobs in a lead, for the London Youths, and in 1780, for the same society, 5,088 changes of Cambridge Surprise Major, the first peal of any Surprise Major method ever achieved.

Up to the year 1768 it had never occurred to anyone that a peat of Treble Bob Major might be true at the lead ends, and yet have repetitions in the interior of the leads. Then Christopher Wells discovered the falseness of Oxford when the treble is in 1-2, but still the matter was not fully investigated or understood. So it was that Reeves, though one of the cleverest composers that the Exercise has produced, called a false peal.
About that time William Jones was writing the - Clavis,' and he enlisted the services of Reeves as chief composer. Reeves went thoroughly into the proof of Treble Bob and put the matter on a sound basis so far as peals with the tenors together were concerned. He now found out that the Cambridge he had called was false, and so the same hand (save for one man) who had joined the ancient Society of College Youths rang another peal in the method. Reeves had satisfied himself by what, so far as it went, was sound reasoning, that only fifteen courses were to be obtained in Cambridge with the tenors together. To make up the length required, he parted the tenors, but as he does not seem to have ever considered the effect on the truth of the method by so doing, his peal was again false.

In the same year that the Cambridge was rung, Reeves called a peal of Bob Major for the ancient Society of College Youths, which was the only peal in which all three authors of the 'Clavis' took part together.

The next interesting peal in the steeple was one of London Union Trebbles, in 1782, by the ancient Society of I.ondon Youths, "being the first that ever was rung in that method.' It was composed and conducted by John Frazier, but the figures are lost, and we have no hint as to what the method was like.
On Sunday, October 23rd, 1791, the men from St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington, who were nembers of the Society of College Youths, rang a peal of Grandsire Triples. James Barlet\% called Holt's Original from the seventh, and the claim was made, and for a century accepted as valid, that he was the first man to call that peal and ring at the same time. The feat, however, had been performed several years before at Norwich. Holt himself, it will be rensembered, called from manuscript while seated in the belfry.
In 1884, on the ninety-third anniversary of Bartlett's peal, the Original was rung at St. Giles' non-conducted for the first time.
Bartlett called the peal several times, at Battersea, Kensington, Bishopsgate, Hackney, Cambridge and Horsham, and from several bells.

On Wednesday, May 22nd, 1799 , the Society of Junior Cunnberlands rang at St. Giles' John Noonan's peal of Stedman Triples. It was the first seven-bell peal in the method since the two at Norwich in 1731, and is often considered as the first true peal in the method. That, however, is by no means certain, for the figures as given by Shipway are unintelligible, and some at least of the peals of Stednan composed by Noonan were false.
During the nineteenth century the peals rung at St . Giles' were of little interest, until we come to one of Cambridge Surprise by the Cumberiands in 1882 . This was the first true peal in the method in London.
Of late years a good many peals have been scored in the tower, the most notable being the first of Bristol Surprise Major in London ( 1904 ) and the first ever rung in cleven Spliced Surprise Major methods (1930). The same hand almost succeeded in ringing in the tower a peal in twelve Spliced Surprise Major methods, but lost it a very little way from home. A few days later, however, they were successful at St. Mary's, Ealing.

These peals and the Bristol Surprise were rung by the Middlesex County Association and were conducted by William Pye.

The bells have lately been rehung by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. at the expense of the Barron Belt Trust.

DEATH OF MRS. WILLIAMS, OF NEWENT, GLOS.

The many friends of Sergt. Joseph Williams will regret to hear of the pasming of his wife at. the age of 86 , after a married life of 67 years The veterans, including the Serceant, who ramg a peal Inst Juns had looked Forward to foyous ringing to commemornte the Sergeant.'s 87tin lioflhday on Saturday last, but it had to be cancelled. A heautiful choral eervice was held in the Parish Charch, condueted by the Vicar and assistant therey. The hells were rumg half-miffipd hefore the service and also whilp the cortege mroceeded to Newent Cemetery. Despite dise had traveling facilities, the rineers came from a Ione distance. They were F. Austin. F. T. Austin and S. E. Ramans, of Glourester: J. Clark, Ross. J. Davis and W. H. Harris, of Lydney: and J. W. Joner, Newport.

Mtrs. Williams was a nost lowahle lady who lived for others and a eal good charchworker. She will he ssadly missed, not only by her fusband and family, lut hy the people of Newent. The ringers, too, havo losk in goed friend, as slie always extended the utwost hospitality.

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER.

HOW COURT BOB IS CONSTRUCTED.
Last week we were discussing Plain Reverse anct Double Bob, and we saw that in those methods all the bells keep the same Coursing Order throughout the plain course, except that when either second's or seventh's place is made the treble takes one step in its cyclical path through the Coursing Order of the other beils. We called such a step a Shunt, and those particular steps we called Extreme Shunts.

These Shunts are used not only in Plain Bob, but also in thousands of other methods, and always they have exactly the same effect.

We now come to the next important Shunt, and since it produces Double Court Bob Minor we will call it the Court Shunt.

Alongside is the first lead of the plain $123456{ }^{2} 8$ course of a method, and to understand its construction it will be well to pick out the full course, or, at any rate, two or three leads.

It is not a method that you will ever want to ring, because it is not what is called symmetrical, but that is a point which does not for the moment concern us.

When we examine this lead we find that it consists entirely of plain hunting, in which all the bells, including the treble, keep the same coursing order, except that there are two places-third's and fourth's-which are made by the same bell.

Now observe what has happened to this bell. It was the bell which was coursing im21436587

13527486 mediately in front of the treble. It stops and makes fourth's, crosses the treble's path, makes third's, and then follows the treble up behind. Before the first place was made, the Coursing Order was 875312468. After the second place is made, the Coursing Order is 875132468 . The treble has changerl positions in Coursing Order with the bell next in front of it, and made one step in its cyclical path through the Coursing Order of the other bells.

Turn back and compare all this with what we found out about the Extremes, and you will see that, except for the position in which they are made, the Court Shunts are exactly similar to the Extremes, and have exactly the same effect. But the two places, one on cither side of the treble, and the attending dodging, must be considered as all part of one operation.

Set down in general terms, a Court Shunt consists of two places made by the bell coursing immediately in front of the treble, and made next the treble's path. In the example we have given, the piaces are fourth's and third's; but directly you begin to experiment with figures you will find that they are rot the only places that can be made.

Prick out a lead in which sixth's and 42618375
ffth's are made, and compare it with the 46281357 other lead. You will find that you get 64823175 exactly the same result, the only difference 46283715 being the position in which the shunt is made.

Not only so, but the shunts can be made round the treble as it is hunting down, just as well as when it is hunting up, and again with the same result. Prick out the leads and test it for yourself, first with fifth's and sixth's, and then with third's and fourth's.

All the places which we have made up to now are backstroke places, and Court Slunts so made we will call for convenience $R$. Court Slunts.

When we examine the lengtio of the treble's path on the different numbers of bells, we find that in Minor there is room for one R. Court Sluunt to be made as the treble passes from the front to the back. In Major there is room for two to be made, in Royal three, in Maximus four, and so, in a regularly increasing progression, on all even numbers.

As the treble passes from the back to the front the sanye number of positions are available.

We have now got the Extremes and the R. Court Shunts, each of which produces the same result, and consists of one step in the treble's path through the Coursing Order of the other bells. We can now experiment by using combinations of these. As soon as we have used seven of them, no matter in what order they come, the treble will have got back again between the third and the second, and the bells will run round by plain hunting ; and no combination will produce rounds uniess it consists of seven or a mulliple of seven.

The number of round blocks we can produce by these combinations is very large. Not every one will be the plain course of a method, and not all the methods produced will be what are considered regular methodis. But, since the Coursing Order of the working bells is not altered, we have got the material for making the most musical methods possible, and some of our round blocks, though not themselves the plain courses of regular methods, will turn out to be parts of two or more courses of regular methods spliced together.

ACTON RINGERS GIFT TO THE CHURCH.

In the coure of exensong last Sumany, at Acton Parisit Ghurchis the Bishop of Kensington dedicated a ligndsome procenslonal erobs which has been given to the clurcli by dr. J. N. Fruyt to mark the completion of 40 years' acrvice ins ferger and also of bis golden wedding.

Afterwards a pleasing little cerenony was held in the Parish Eitl, when the Bishop presented Mr. Fruit with gifts Irom the choir and congregetion, and rarious spealeers, representing the chair, congrestafion and the ringers, offered him their comgratalationg find thatis. The Vicar had already, in his sermon, expregsed lits opinicon of Mr. Fruin and bis services.

Mr. Frain was m member of the very actave lantid of ringers which the lale Rohert Holloway formed some Fears since at Actom, and lie took part in serestal peals of Trandsire, "Pinin Bob and stedman,

THE B.B.C. INTERVAL SIGNAL

REASONS FOR NOT USING CHANGE RINGING

Iro the kaitor.
Dear Sir,-Having a particular interest in the attitude of the B.B.C. towards the Exercise, 1 lsave paturally followed ibe correspondence kenaly during the last three weeks, and waited to see a comprehensive reply given ta Mr. Trotman, and beg to congratalate Mr. C. H. Webl onl being the nearest so far.
There are, howeyer, two pointe which he has not touched ofl which I would liko to bring to the notica of all.
Firshly, while the B.B.C. retains the present interval signal, we do still hear tho sound of the Buw Bells whinch made the name so famous, and even if it is 'stoney' it is the old Bow thaor.
Secondy, a point which Mr. Wobb started to make, but did not finish, is the matter of imterrupted change ringivg.
1 would like to put this question wo all those who are advocating the replacement of call-chauges by scienuhic chazge ringug : ' In vew of the egiration in the past agullt the one-hme practice of the 13.B.C. in lading out broadcast raging for annourcements, is there nuy consistency mow asking them to use recorded change ringtug purely for a stop gap ?' Personally, 1 lave do hesstation in answermg No, and I venture to prodint that wero a record of change riaging substituted, those who shoukd bo interested would soon be fed up, whale those autside the Lizercise would tail to appreciate eny mprovement, and mugit even vole it as interior, siate halt-pull ringing is undoultedly more contusing to the ear of the uninitiated.
As an outcome of what might be expected with a record of clange ringimg, itwould ask of any riuger lass ever heard the present record allowed to run home, as I personally have never hearu at come iuto rounds at the finisin, even when there has been plenty of time, and who would wish to hear a well-struels touch mutilated in the last whole pull or so? Finally, i think mauy will agree with me that this corcespondence has been greatly murred by the mud slinging epistle of tue anly nameless correspuadent-in your issue of Uctaver 6ih. One can only ussume that lic knows very little of ragging, eithor call-chunges or bulf-pull, or that he has a grudge against the band who made the recora, hance his shelter belund a nom-de-plume.

DEATH OF ZRESTON BRANCH HON. SECRETARY
By the death on October 7th of Mr. Alfred Blogg at the carly age of 44, the tower at whittle-le-Woods line lost anoher of its accomplished ringers, and the l'restoa branch its efficient and popular secretary.
Learnugg to rimg in 1921, his quick intelligence and eager mind rapidly brought ham inko the frout rank of ringing it the aranch, and athough of a small and slight plysulue, he coulo turn in a heavy bell as well as most ringers of more weighy stature; indoed, be was pover so happy as wheu conducting a peal of treble Bob Major from the 21 cwt . Lenor of lus home tower. He early showed an apkitude for teacaing recruits, and many youeg ringers, bolh male and feuale, owe their ability to his skill as tutor. A member of the College Youths, of which he was proud, je losed rung 78 pauls and conducted 16 for th 3 Lancashire Assountion.
The interment took place on October 11th at Whitile-le-Woods, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. H. H. Ganner, who spoke of the splendid work dous by the deceased for the church and Buble class. lizingers from Preston, Heawortham, Leylaud; Chorley, Brindle and the home tower rang half-muffled touches of Kent Treble Bob as the cortege approached the rlureh and after tino committal.

Alf" Blogg leaves the memory of an eager aud impulyive spirit, who has burued bimseli out premeturely bothin the service of ringug and church and wherever his interest was kindled. He was a pest officer in the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows, and took part in both Oddfellow peals rung at Whitle-le-Woods. He attended the apnual meeting al Blaekpool from a strong sense of duty, though obvioukly euffering from the illzess to whicls he succumbed. A balf-muffled peal was rung to his memory on Naturday, Octaber 14th, which has been already recorded.

DEATH OF MR. ERNEST F. POPPY

We regret to announce tive death of Mr. Ernest F. Poppy, of Stoke Ash, whu for many yoars has becn ove of the best knowit ringers in tho Eye district of Sultolls. Mr. Poppy, who was 64 years of age, woat to Eye some 40 years ago. For 17 years he farmed the Moor Hall Farm near that town, and afterwards tho Lime Tree Farn at Stoke Ash.

He mas a keen churchmon, filling the office of sidesman at Eye and churcinwarden at Stoke Ash, and at the latter place he was mainiy instrunental in getting the bells relung.
Mr. Poppy was for many years a keen ringer; his peals rung with the Norwied Diocesan Association numbering e57, and with the Suffolk Guild 89 His other activities iucluded cycling and membership of the local Rural District Council. He was twite martied, and leavea one son and two daughters in bereavement.

An Appreciation

(Dated)

October 2nd, 1939.

Tintagel Vicarage, Cornwall.

Dear Sirs,
Thank you for your letter and also for the attractive franed recovd, which reached me this morning.
$I$ note what yon say about the alignment of the ropes.

Everpthing went off well on Saturday, and I congratwlate you on the vesults.

The working of the mechanical parts is perfect and the tome of the bells is greatly improved and enviched.

The ringers were most enthusiastic.
Belisve me,
Yours faithfrully, (Signed) EDWARD ARUNDELL.

The five bells of Tintagel Church have been carefully tuned and rehung with modern fittings in a new teak wood frame, with special consideration for the exposed situation of the church.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS.

It is gratifying to find the Ancient Society of College Youths defying the present handicaps and carrying out, in time honoured fashion, the commemoration of their foundation. It is true that last Saturday's proceedings had to be adapted to circumstances, and were shoris of some of their customary formality, but the luncheon held in London to celebrate the 302nd anniversary of the society was, nevertheless, a great success when measured against the prevailing conditions. It was more than a commemoration; it demonstrated the vitality of the society and proved that there is an unquenchable spirit of enthusiasm among ringers which, if directed aright, will triumph over the greatest drawlacks. The gathering was not confined solely to members living in and around London. Many of them came long distances to be present, and the younger members who attended will, in days to come, recall with special interest this war-time experience which makes the gathering notable in the society's annals. This celebration, too, was commendabte, inasmuch as it las maintained the annual feast of the society which has been beld without a break, as far as one can say, from its very foundation. Even in the last war, when a general gathering of members was out of the question, London members upheld the tradition and kept the feast, so that its continuity should not be broken. No one knows what troublous times may lie ahead. The war has already followed an unexpected course; its conduct may change in such a way that a gathering like that of Saturday may be impossible again in London until peaceful times come once more; but it is a significant fact that a little band of provincial College Youths, unable to join the company in the city, arranged their own celebration. If the worst comes to the worst, and London cannot provide for such a celebration, the College Youths may well transfer their festival to some centre in the country where they can maintain the time-honoured custom.
Last Saturday's proceedings were marked by a refreshing informality, and there were some who hoped that it may become eventually a feature of the society's activities to bring together at some other time of the year than November those wio are able to meet. There was a period, of course, when the society's annual celebration was a summer event with a mid-day meal, and the more formal dinner, which for half a century or so has taken place in November, is a revival of an earlier practice. But it is a happy thought that through all the vicissitudes of three centuries the society has been able to maintain this side of its corporate life, although there have (Continued on page 678.)

been times when its ringing activilies have been far less conspicuous than they are to-day. The social side of ringing is an important link in the chain that binds the members of the Exercise together and, without doubt, the College Youths' annual commemoration has done much to maintain the strength of the society and to add to its prestige.

The annual dinner has been in the past the occasion for publicly recording its activities, and last Saturday the secretary was able to give an indication of "what might have been,' had not the war intervened to break up the programme. But for the interruption, it is probable that no fewer than one hundred ringing meetings would have been held in the twelve months, a really striking piece of evidence of the vigour of the oid society, and one which many a modern ringing organisation might envy. The College Youths who meet at the city churches in these davs are not just Londoners, in the sense that years ago they came from the city or the near vicinity. To-day they come from a widespread area, and within the past few years there have been several Masters who have resided at a considerable distance from the Metropolis, as was not unusual in the seventeenth century. In the same way, the members who take part in the meetings come from a much greater radius, and it is an indication not only that the society is extending the sphere of its active membership, but also, we hope, shedding some of that parochial " outlook that once characterised the more immediate London circles. When, once again, conditions permit, we hope the College Youths will not only quickly return to normal activity, but retain their traditional place in the Exercise by a new spirit of enterprise that will place them as leaders among the ringing organisations of this country in fact as well as in name.

DEATH OF WEST NORFOLK BRANCH CHAIRMAN PRESENTATTON INKSTAND HANDED TO WIDOW

 Five death occurred in Norwich Hospital on October 17th of Mr. F. R. Heyhoe, of Swaftham.The lat Mr. Heyhoe came of an old Swaftham family and had filled many publis offices in that town. For upwards of 40 years he hed baen a ringer at the Parish Church, many of them as captain of the hand. Although he bad rung no peale and had not appeased much in the ringing news, be had, nevertheless, done an great amount of worl in teaching and trying to gel and keep a band logether.
H: had heen elhairmen of the West Sorfolk Branch of the Norwich Assacintion for the past seren years, resigning earlier this yorr owing ill-health
At the funeral on Ootober Both the bramh was represented by Mestrs. J. Godfrey (ehairman), Cooke and Tuthith, who, together with the lacal ringers, acted as pall bearers.

On the following Sunday 406 Bob Triples and a tonch of Minor with $6-8$ covering, were fung with the hells helf-mufled, the following taking part: J. Godfrey, T. White, - Bamuer, - Jeffices, G. Hassock, J. Buckenham, F. Mattiews, J. Glarke, E. Barker, C. E. Banham, W, Cousins and I. Houghton. At the close Mr. Whjte, the oldest ringer in Swaffham, talled the deceased's age (68) on the tenor.
The Wext Norfolk Branch lind arranged to present Mr. Heyloe with an inscribed bell inkstand in appreciation of his services as their chairman. Unfortunatelr, lue difin not live to receive this, and, at a meeting held at Swaffam on Saturday week, the gift was banded to his wicow. At this mesting the bells were rung during the afternoon.

A 'SHUNT' IN RINGING PARLANCE.  REV. H. DRAKE TAKES EXGEPTION.

To the Reltor.
Dear Sir,-War work and illuess heve prevented sue from writing other letters, but the articles. With peacil and paper,' in which the word 'slunt' is used, have stirred me to gel out the typewriter ugain.
The word 'shunt ' is etymologically known as a factitive form of the word 'shutr.' Therefore, it means what makes one thing "shun' another. The noost cammon use, and that which rises to orie's mind first of alt is thut which applies to railway traing. When a train Is 'shumied,' it is 'made to stun' the monn line, aud until it hes entirely done $k 0_{\text {, }}$ that line cannot be used

Whether the word is used mbout trains, or in any other way, it aways conveys to the mind two things:
Frsb, something must, for the time be discarded. Until the train is off the maim line it is not shuated.
Sccondly, the train thal is shunted must be mationless. If it goes of somewhere else, the train has pot been slaunted at all. It has merely been 'switelied' on to amother tine.

Now, in the use made of the word in the article in question, neither of these requirements applies. As both are aecessary for the truth of what is written, it follows thet the word 'shunt ' is here both false aud mislending. False, because the so-called shant does not do what it professes to do, and misleading because it makes the reeder think of something else than what the writer of the article wante lime.
The fact that thil article, like the others in the series, is so good and clear, except for this word, only makes maiters worse. A begivger, whe had been hepped so fer, would be quile choked of by what ha would see to be an inexplicable error. The more axperienced ringer, while be would see what you are driving at, would bewondering waether he had got your whole meaning, whether there was not sonothing in gour mind of a discard, or of a ceasing of the movement somewherc

In conclusion, it may be pointed out that Fasper Snowdon, in his stendard series of handboaks, uses the word in its correct meaning. It is now too late to contradict him by using the term wrongly or to pretend to be a better ringer or writer than he was. HGRBERT DRAKE.

Ufford Rectory

Mr. Drake's objection is not a valid one. The Oxford Inglisis Dictionary contradictes him on aImost every point. It gives three or four disinot menniags of the ward 'shunt when used iss a noun.
 device for directing the current from one line to another.? The geath dietionary recognises the use of the word as a teslnical ferm in cliange ringing and describes it as the calling or onission of a hoh ill order to divert the track of a composition from one part to the corresponding point in another part.
Our tise of the word is strictIt in accordance with these definitions, except that we have exercised the right, which belongs to every writer on techaicel matfers, of giving to a techniegl term, by definition and explanation, the precise and limites meaning which is necessary for our immediate purpose. No attempt is made to contradict Jasper Snowdon, bebarse, as far us we cant trace, Janper Snowdon never used the term in connection with ringing,-Ensor, "Rirging World."

RINGER'S WEDDING AT SANDFURST.

At Sandburst Earigh Church on Saturday, November 4th, a marriage was solenurised between Mr. W. J. H. Parker and Miss Winifred Troster, botla of Samdluast. The bridegroom is one of the rimgers at, Sandlurst and is also a menber of the clumeh choir. The cercmony was performed by the Rev. J. J. T. O'Malley (Recter), one of the bridegroom's brothers acted as best man, and the organist and full choir were present. The popularity of both bride and bridegroom was shown by the presence of a large congregation.
Adrantage was taken of the occasion to hald a combined prackica the tower, and as the heppy couple left the churoh local ringers and others stood to the ropes to set the seal to ths ceremony. It must be quita a unique experience for a ringer to be able to lead his bride between the ropes as his brother rimgers rang a wedding touch. Ringers were present from Furst, Finchampstead, Bramley (Hants), Soming, Twyford, Wulthan St, Lawrence and the local belfry. The methods rung were Gravdsire and Stedman Donbles, Plain Bob. Kcat and Oxford Troble Bob and Cambridge Minor. Ringing continued till dusk and the end of a bappy and most profitable afternoon.

ANGIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS. ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED IN LONDON  Luncheon Takes Place of Usual Dinner

War-bime conditions necessitated the ahandonnemt of the usual

 dinner held by the Ancient Society of Collego Youths to colebrate the unniversary of the foundation in 1637. Instead, the expeciment was succeasifully tried of having a luncheon. Il was held at the London Teveru, Fenolareh Street, dte was nitemded by a company of bebween sixty and seventy, ausong whons were a number who, despite tho dificulties sonnected with Iravelliug, had come long distances. Unforturately, the Saster of the Bociety, Mr. E. G. Fenm, was unable through sickness to be present. 'Itie chair was, therefore, taken by the Rev, Canon G. F. Coleritra, who was supported by Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild), the Rev. W. Yennington Hick ford (Rector of St, Clement Danes), He Rev. F. Li. Ldwards (hon. secretary of the Salistury Diocesan Guild), Mr. E. A. Young, Mr. J. A. Trollope, Mr. J. 末. Goldsmith, Mr. S. H. Green, Mr. F. Fir Dawe ald Mr. J. L. L. Cockey. Those present also ineluded Messrs. A. A. Hugles (treasurer of the socidy), A. B. W. Budgen, J. R. Schilg, etcTWO CELEBRATIONS FOR CHATRMAN
Afte: lunch the Climirnan proposed the toast of "The King," and then gave "The Ancient Society of College Youths." Although, he said, lie had no notion, until he came into the room, that he was to take the chair, he was extremely glad to do so, despite the fact that he wes a junior College Youth (laughter). He was toid lhe was the oidest membey present, although he lad been a member only a little over 60 years (laughtcr). They all keplored the reason which caused the absence of the Master, who should have presided that day. Canon
Coleridge congratalated those who had eagiveered the luncli, upon the success that had attended it. It had been r most delightful meeting, as far as it had gone (applause)-and he had no doubt it would end equelly as well (laughter and applause). Although London liad, in the past, been the neeting place of the College Youths, present circumstances had prompled a certain number of members iving in Reading to have a little commemoration on their own in the evening, and thoy had insisted upon his being present. Fie had no doubt they would have a pleasant meeting. A society was certainly not altogether dead wien they found a little commanity in fhe country mesting to keep the festival with a dinner of their own (hear hear), Canon Coleridge concluded by wishing the society continued prosperity and haped that every memher would try to keep he frg flying-in other words, keep the bells ringing as far as they could The police wore quite amenable in this matter, as a rule, and he was sure the public were flad to henr the belle. There might be time of disaster aliead, but as far as possible be loped they would keep the bells going, and he hoped the suceese of that luncheon would hearten then to go out and do hejeir atmost (applsuse).
The How. Secretary Mr. AERY MESSAGE.
Coleridge for occupying the chair in thi E. G. Fean), from whom, he said, he had received both a telegram and a letter. The telegram wished theus all a successful and happy gathering. In a cheerful letter the Master apologised for his enforeed bisenpe and being prevented from sceepting the highest holrour that ang ringer could atlain to, namely, to preside at the annual gat hering as Master of the Ancient Suciety of College Youths. Owing to his illuess he was unable to do so. He had tried lard to get well enough to be able to attend, but three olistncles liad been placed in the way First, his wife would not lel him go, secondly the doctor had inrfidden him to go out, and, thirdly, to trown all, they tha hidden lis trousers (laughter). But althougli he wotild not be with them in liody, loe would be with them it spirit and would raise his glass and orink (noth in ale, worse luck!) to the good healith and prosperity of the Ancient Society. Mr. Fcon concluded that, alkhough be was feeling much better, he had a lonk way to go before he would be ahle to say he was fit rgain. He wauld be pleased to see any of his ringing friends if they cared to call.
The Hon. Becrefary said a telegram of good wislres for his speudy recovery had been sent to the Master. and he asked Canon Coleridge to colvey the best wishes of that, gathering to the memathers who were meeting in the evening nt Reading.
Proceeding. Mr. Peck ssid ather anologies had veen received from Mr. F. F. Lewis (president of the Central Council and past. Masier) and Mr. J. Waugh (senior stewardl. The former, writing to the Master from Glasgow, said lae trusted there would be a goodiy company to show that in bad times as well as good times fhe Ancient society continued its good mork. Several week-ends, added Mr hewis. J hare heen abblr to spend at Dut-a-Bhuilg aud each time hitve gone through Inveraray 1 have thought of the happy week-end when you hanoured us by your visit to Scolland.' Fe concluded by sending greeiings

THE YEARE'S ACITVITES.

Continuing, the Hont. Seretury said that during the yoar the society rang 14 peals, not a long list, perlajpas, but one that was partly curtailed by the war. Therv were four peals of Stedman Ciagues, thres of Steaman Caters, one of Oxford Tireble Bob Maximas, one of Stedman Triples, three of Grandsire Triples, ane of Chambridge Sutprise Royal and ane of Bols Minor. During the year they had held 80 meetings, 77 of which had boen for ringing, and lee thoughi that, lad there lieen no war, they would this fear have croated a record hy halding 100 ringing meetings. The meetings had heen well attended and they were now endeavouring to arrange a Saturday uftemoon riaging upetrag onee a fortnight. The Hon. Secretary said they had electef 23 uew members during the year. It was not a large number but perbaps that was due to the reaction after the large number kiney elected is the resuls of the tercentanaly celchrations ill 1937 H regretted that buere was a rather lang list of members who liad passed away

TILis last Mr. Peck read, while those present stood, and ho added Hat as the name book was in sufe keeping at St. Paul"s, he lad been unable to verify which of the deceased were nuembers of the qociety. He lad, therefore, included the names of all rimgerg of whose deatiss lee had any information. The hon. secretary coucluded by aumn thanking Canon Coleridge for his kindmess in presjding, aud said tor many years the society would have liked to elect bim as Mastor (aprlause), but perhaps the uecrest they would get to it wes laving him in the chair that day
Canon Coleridge thanked Mr. Peck and kaid it was a great pleasurb to him to be there.

MASTERS ON CFNTURIES AGO

Mi. E. Alex. Young said rhat was an unque occasion and it might very well be punctuated wilh something which they had not done hefore. They often thouglit of the past and he proposed to ask them to drink a toast whicls would chary tien down the years of centurjes hundred years ago bliey find a Master in the chair, as thbey had had a hundred years hefore that, and also liad hail even a hundred years earlier. Witls the permission of the chaiman, he was going to ask them to fonour the memory of those three men. Ife asked them to drink to the honoureal nuemary of Edward Fiower, Mastey of the society in 1639. He was one of the original members of the College Youths and stood beside Lord Brereton when the goctety was founded two years before. A hundred years later, in 1739, William Cox was Mastor. He (the speaker) did not know enything about Willian Cox, except that he must have been ingrained 13 good College Youth lecause for over twenty years he must have attended the meeting. Eventually he was rewarded by being asleed to become Master. He was clected a member in 1712 and Mastur iu 1739. Fe must have hed gn homoured memory. Lastly, in 1839 Richard Mills was Master. They knew wore about Richard Mills. He gave the society that beantiful work of art, the medallion which the Masters wore as their ladge of office for mearly one liundred years, and which was now worn by the immediate Past Master. 'That mednl was struck to commemorate the society's bi-centenary. Hiohard Mills was- elscted in the year of the bi-centenary, 1837, and elso in the years 1838 and 1839 ; 50 in a mysterious way he was a link with the previous centenary. These three struok a fundamettel note; there was harmony between them, and he trusted it might he thought suifable to carry on the idea in future years (applause)
Tho toast of the memory of these three Masters was lonourcd in The Fon. Secretary welcomed Mr. Thomas Groonbridge and said ther were all very pleased to see him so far recovered after his accident.
Mr. Groombridge, in thanking the members, said lie hoped soon to

Mr. J. W. Jones, on hehalf of the provincial members, expreased their pleasure at heing present. ## READING COLLEGE YOUTHS

KEFP TH3: FWSTIVAL IN THEIR HOME TOWN,
Those ntembers of the College Youths living in Reading who usually attend the ammal dimner in London, and were unable to be present a. the luacheen this year, determined to keep the festival by a diamer in their home howa, and last Saturday 20 sat down to a welf-conked and well-served mand at The Belgrave.
The company were fortunate in laving it the chair their old friend Canon Coltridge, who had just fulfilled a similar duty at the London Iusulheon. The chatirman proposed the hoalth of the King, nud ar. IR. T. Hibluert that af the College Youths and kindred socteties. Mr. 1. Diserens, of ife Sacjet-y of Royal Cumberlands, responded.

Mr. Hibhert proposed "Good health to every Sailor, Suldier and Airman serving the Empire, and the toasti was drunk with acclamation.

A fine course of Stednan Caters was rung liy the young College Youths irons Busingatoke: R. F. Kiugliam 1-2, D. W. Nash 3-4, W. Hihherl, 5-6, C. W, Munday 7-8, D. H. Anstey 9-10. Aiter a sang or two, Mr. A. Diserens took a pair of bells and a course of Stednyan Ginques wes runy as well as a course of Grandsire Cinques, in which Mr. A. Wiggins took part.

Sougs, yarns of funny expriences by some of the "old uns,' giecs and more handuell ringing. insluding a touch of Stedman Triples ant two courses of Stedman Caters, frought the end all too soon, and everyone got lome safely in the dark.
One thing should he mentioned. Mr. J. Munday, one of the Bnsing stoke bays and a tower of strengll in their haudnell band, was really the instigator of the gathering and was the only atsentee, as ho laxd joined I.M. Fool Guards g fortnight previously. The company present at the dinner wish him a happy life as a guardsman and a safe retirn

A NEW VICAR FOR OLD WINDSOR.

On Saturday week, the Rep. P. H. D. Ogle, formerly of Sandown, Isle of Wight, was inducted as Vicar of Old Windsor by the Rural Dean Canon Try, of Maidenhead. The service was choral and well attended. The call to arms haviag depleted the local band, an S.O.S. was respronded to ly Messrs. A. D. Barker, W. Henley, W. Birminglam. T. Smith anai G. Barkus, who helped to ring touches of Rob Major. Grandsire and Stedman Triples both before and aiter the service. Their valuable gervices were much appreciated in view of a prearranged hranch meeting which had to be attended and caused a hurried iransfer to Stoke Poges in very inclement weather.

EAST GRINSTEAD AND DISTRICT GUILD.

SETCCESSEUL MEETING AT WITHYHAM.

Last Saturday the East Grinstead and District Guild heid at Witlayham its first meeting under war-time conditions, and it proved a great suceess. Twenty-five riugers nutended from Beddimeham, West. Grinstad, Coleman's Hateli, Crovdon Perish Chureh Easihourne (Clorist Church), East Grinstead, Esartiold, Limafield, Father. field, Staplelmist, Tanlurige Welly, Uckfield and Wadhurst. The lovely toned octave was raised at 2.45 p.m. and was put to good use. and a good standard of stribing was maintainent in the following: methods: Grandsire, Stedman and Oxford Pob Triples, Plaia Boh, Kent, Douhle Norwich, Superlative, Cambridge and the nsual roundt and eall changes

It was decided to lold a meetiag at Coleman's Hateln on December 2ud, when the fower will he blecked out to enalife ringing to be continued after dark.
The tit-bit of the day came just before 6 o'clock, when the hells were perlectly lowered in peal, Queen's rorang out beautifully at the end, a fitiug finale to an excellent aflernoon's ringing. A general move was then made to the Dorset Arms, where all made thom own arrangements for tea. When all were refreslied and the tohnco well aliglrt, out came the bandbells, the mugie of which all withit hearing appreciated. Tlin methods rung were Grandsire Doubles, Tripies and Caters and Plain Bob Major, and a! too early a most enjogahle dny ended.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE RINGER WEDS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnised at St. Edmund"s Cluurch, Oheddeton, when Miss Grace Subton was married to Mr. John Wheeldon. The bridegroom is one of the hand at Bucknall, and his father and uncle are well-knowy ringern in North Staffordshire. The bride's brother is one of the luand at Cheddleton. At tho coneltasion of the ceremony the bells weve rung, and a reception was held at the Cheddeton Village Institute, which was attended by about fifty guesls. Owing to the war the honeymoon, which had been erranged to be spent at Blackpool, had unfortanately to be cancelled.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION  METPING AT WORSLET.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The war-time derangement of the postal services and the necessity of getting the copies of The Ringing World ' into the hands of the publishers earlier on Thursday make it absoIutely essential that all contributions to our columns, and particularly all notices, should be in our hands by Monday in each week. We cannot guarantee the insertion in the following issue of anything received later.

We hope that secretaries will send us prompt reports of their meetings, and we shall welcome any items of news relating to ringers and ringing, but they must reach us early.

BELFRT GOSSIP

Onr readers will join us in offering congratulations to Gabran G. F. Coleridge, who was born at Codbury Vicarage, Devonshire, 82 yemrs ago to-day. The Canon holds a place in the esteem and affection of riugers which is quite unique. In lis time be has taken part in several famous peals, including 8,800 clanges of Superlative Surprise Major, 12,096 changes of Double Norwich Coust Bob Major, and 13,054 and 15,041 changes of Stedman Caters. Fe also rang the famous old tenor at St, Mary-ie-Bow to a peal.
On November 7th, 1729 , the first, peal ever rung on the bells of St. Michael's, Cornhill, was, accomplished by the College Youths. The method was Grandsire Cinques, the number of changes was 5,126 , and whee men had to be put to the temar, including the conductor, Remjamin Aunable.
On November 8th, 1888, the band of St. Paul's, Burten-on-Trent, rang Wihiam Earrison's peal of Landon Surprise Major, 6,720 changes, the extent of the method with the tenors together. The conduchor was Mr. Joseph Grifin, who is atill alive, alld who attended the meeting of the Central Council at Westmingter last Whitsuntide. If we remember aright only two longer lengths have since been rung in the methad
To-morrow, Armistice Day, if the fifth anniversary of the first fwelve-bell peal achiaved outside the British Isles. It was 5,038 changes of Grandsire Ginques at St, Panl's Oathndral, Melbourne, and was rung partly by members of the visiting band who were then tocring Australia and partly by members of the local band.

The Nineteenth Century and Gfter ' for November contains a wellinformed snd well-written article on bells and ringing by Mr. John Shand. Mr. Shand, who is on the staff of 'The Manchester Gunrdien,' was present at the College Youths' luncheon on Saturday. This is the first time, we believe, that a magazine of the standing of 'The Ningteenth Century ${ }^{\text {* }}$ has printed an article on bells since the year 1854, when a famous article \&ppeared in "The Quarterly.
Members of the Midand Counties Association who intend to visit Hugglescote on Saturday week should note the revised time of meeting. Tha bells will be available from 2.15 p.m., but there will be a breat at $$$ p.m. to allow for a wedding.
Owing to a telephonic error, a meeting of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was anuounced in our last issue to be held at Stoke Goldington instead of at Great Linford.

A SOUTH WALES RESTORATION.

At St. Bride's Major, near Bridgend, Glamorganshire, a thorough restoration has taken place. The five old bells have been recast and a new bell adided to make a ring of six. The work has been done by Messrs. Taytor and Co.
Tho dedication is to take place on Saturday, November 18th, at 3 p.rn., by the Lord Bishop of the diocese.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

PRACTICE MEETLNG AT DRAYTON.

A highly successful practice was held at Dreyton, Berkshire, on Saturday week ly members of the North Berks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guid. The towers represented were Brightwell, Sunuingwell, Abingdon, Fast Haghourne, Endley, Wantage, Steventon and Blewbury, and tinere were visitors from Oxford. Swindon and Chenrsley, in all about, 30 rimgers.
Tho hells were nvailalle from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., and once they were pulled up little time was wrsted until Lhey were lowered again. Mush good work was done, and the opporthnily whas seized by everyone to ring something 'different.' Even the experts discovercd how quiekly it is possible to get rusty in familiar Surprise methods. The metlods rung included Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Superlative, Bristol and Lendon Surprise Major, although the latter just failed to come round. This was rather surprising, as the hells certainly lenow this parkicular method. It will be remembered that in the daya when the late Rev F. E. Robinson was Viear of Drayton, a peal of 11,328 changes of London Surprise, composed and randucted by the late J. W. Waahbrook, was rung in the tower. It was they the record length in the methoi.

Tho next practice will be held at Satarday, November 25th, from 3 p.m. tutil dusk, and it is loped ta arrange it at Wantrgen when all the mistakes made at Drayton can be put right, and fresh ones made, in nev metliode, of course.

SHREWSBURY RINGERS BUSY

The bells of St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, have been ringing throughout the war, the regular times being 10.30 a.m. and 2.30 p.m. Althougt the band have experienced some difficulty in raising the bella for inatins, owing to a military service et 10 a.m. a short touch has. always been rung. On Octolier 15 th they visited St. Mary's, by specia request, for the dediention festival, end rang both at 9.30 and 12.15 i.m. These bells, however, are not rung regularly. St, Chad's ringers were presented with sometling of a poser on October 22 nd , when a request for a touch on St. Mary's bells at the conclusion of matins was made by the Vicar and only reached then when the service was in progress.
As there was more than a doubt about the ability of some of those who were able to go to take pert in raising the bells in peal, one member of the band undertook to get covered with dust nud dirt in a successful attempt to lasl the clappers and to raise thern 'dumb.' A nice touch of Grandsire Triples was the rewaril and a fall in peal wes accomplished.

FOUR TOWERS COMBINE

A very pleasant afternoon and comhinod practice was held at Ewhurst, Surrey, on Oct. 21st. Ringers joined han as froin Guildtord Bramley and Cranleigh and the local band. The belis were rassed in peal at 3.50 . and ringing in all the standerd methods was carried on peal at 3.30 . and ringing until just aiter 5 o'clock.
The towers of Cranleigh. Ewhurat, Bramley and Wonersh are trying to arrange these Saturday afternoon practices at one or other of the four towers. The next practice is to be arranged by Mr. Martin, of Bramley.

RAMPTON RING AUGMENTED.

Patronal festrval and dedication of evelyn.whte MEMORIAL BELL
The day was mild and the weather kind on Weduesday, Navember 1st, when the Arclideacon of Wy, Bishop H. MacCartio E. Price, came to dedicate the second treble of the future ring of six. This bell, given by their sons in memary of the Rey. C. H. aud Mrs. EvelynWhite, followe the late Rector's own gift of a bell before he died. The same service was used as in February last, when the existing bells were restored (with the earception of one whose recasting was disallowed by the Chancellior) and a new one added.
Bishop Priee, in lyis address, congratulated the little parish, and dweit on his own and his sikter's memorics both of the friendship and keen charch arelitectural intersai of the late Rector and his wife.
It was a great pleusure to the parish to have with them the Rev. Fr. Kenneth V. Fivelyn-White to read the lesson aud to act as the Bishop's clapgain mad to hesr diss fatliex's bells with their memorial addition ringing in perfect barmony.
Fisitiug elergy present included the Rev. F. G. Weston, Rural Dean, and tle: Revs. Roland Hills, F. J. Bywalers, James A. Rees ant K, F , Evelyn-White.
After the four baek bells had been ohimed for service, owing to the early hour preventing the attendamee of the full band, the Ely Diacesan Association, represented by Mr. R. Lathbury and Miss Shorto- (Camliridge), Mr. D. Adams and Mr. L. Thorpe (Over) and Mr. D. Williams and Mr. F. Warrington (Swavesey), rang several 120 's on the five. The 'go' was all that could be desired.
greetings telegram fromb Messrs, Gillett and Johnston was received with evident delight by the grateful little parish. There was a fairly large congregation for so early an hour.
The Bisliop meationce the fact that ous more step was required inwards the final completion of the scheme by the addition of the treble bell to malke the ring of six, for which a fund is still open.
When this is installed, Rampton will heve one of the lightest rings of sis in the country.
The work hes been cartied ont by Mesars. Gillett and Johnston in Wheir usual satisfactory manner.

DEATH OF A FINE OLD YORKSHIREMAN.

MR. TOM YAUDE, OF PUDSEY.

With deep regret, we cecorded in our last isque the passing of Mr. Thomas Maude, who died nt his residence, Height House, Pudgey, Yorkshire, on Monday, October 23rd, aiter ik long illueas, ot the age of 85 years.
Born in the meighouring village of Tong, the deceased, as a boy, was a companion of the fanous six-hell ringer, the late Mr . G. B. Bolland, of that village, and the two were ififelong friends.

It wns the tabit of Mr. Maude, for a great number of yeara, to attend ringing meetings in alt parts of Eagland, and be was respongilbe for organising a band from the towers sarrounding Pudsey, who visited many places and carried the fame of Xorkshire ringing and striking far boyond the county borders. He was well known to a large number of ringers, and it may be recalled that be never appeared nnong them without a flower im his buttonkole. He was a great lover of lisis garden.
Proluably it is uninue to fiud one who was not a practical ringer tahing such a minute interest in everytbing conserted with the Fxercise as did Mr. Maude. His many friends will remember with gratitude tho generosity extended to all and sundry connected with ringitg by the deceased and the members of his family, who entertained their visitors in reyal fashion, Increasing years made Mr. Meude's appearance more rare at ringing gatherings. but one functions, the Central Council meebing at Leeds in 1938, was a crowning gratification to him. He appeared at everything in connection with that gathering, and was extremely pleased with the large zumber who visited Leeds on that occasion.
The funeral took place at Pudsey on Thursday, October 26thl, the Rer: Canon C. C. Marshall (president of the Forkshire Association) officiating. The first part of the servioe took place in Pudsey Parish Church. where, immediately after the first part of the service, a pian course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handhells in the nave by J. Hardcastle 1-2, P. J. Jonnsoul 3-4, F. W. Dixon $5-6$ and J. Ambler 7-8. The interment trick place at Pudscy Cemetery, where a large circle of ringing friends gathered, in addition to Mrs. Maude and family. to whom the sincerest sympritly of their wide circle of friends goes out, us probably few haviv done more to create good fellowslip amone ringers than Mr. Maude, and rarely can one expect to meet his equal as in gentlemsn and friend. The kindness shown to members of the Exercise will long remain a rleasant memory of one who died full of years and homour.
P. J. J.

DONCASTER BELLS TO BE RECAST.

Mr. W. E. Lloyd, of Doncaster, informs us that it has been decided to reast the ring at the Parish Church. The new hells will be similar in weight to the present peal, the tenor of which is 30 cwt . in C sharp.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

ST. LEONARD'S, SHOREDITCH.

By J. Armiger Trollope.

In the eighteenth century, most of the principal churches of London and its suburbs possessed, as they do now, very fine rings of bells, and on all of them, at one time or other, peals were rung.

But, whether it was because some were easier to ring than others; or that, at some, visitors were made more welcome than at others; or that there was less opposition 10 long ringing from the surrounding people; it so happened that a few of them were much more popular with peal ringers than the rest.

For instance, from the time they were rung in 1728 right down to 1838 , only four peals were rung at $S t$. Michael's, Cornhill; at St. Clement Danes, which had one of the oldest octaves in London, only three peals were rung in the eighteenth century; and at St. Lawrence Jewry, where the bells are still older, only three were Jung: So with others.

On the other hand, at St. Saviour's, Southwark, St. Giles'-in-the-Fields, St. Mary Matfelon, Whitechapel, St. Margaret's, Westminster, Fulham, and several more, there was a steady succession of peals, and for roughly a century, from 1741 until 1830 , no tower was more popular among peal ringers than St. Leonard's, Shoreditch.

The church in those years stood in very different surroundings to what it does to-day. Shoreditch had been a village on the high road to the north, and was now a suburb of London, beyond which lay open cornfields and meadows, with pleasant rural walks across to Hackney.

For centuries there had been a church in the place, and no record survives of the first building of St. Leonard's. According to Henry Ellis, who wrote a history of the parish in 1798 , it was in Saxon times. When the eighteenth century opened there was a small building 75 ft . long, with a steeple, the top of which was weather boarded and surmounted by a cupola containing a small bell, originally the saunce bell.

The inventories made in the reign of Edward VI, are missing, and we do not know how many bells there were then, but by the end of the sixteenth century there were five, For these were the bells which Queen Elizabeth is said to have admired so much.

This is a tale which has been told many times with variations, the impression generaliy given being that it was a quotation from a very old book. I set myself the task of trying to trace the origin of the story, and, after some search, I found it in 'A History of Music,' published in 1776 by Sir John Hawkins. He says:-
"It may not be improper to add a little anecdote which perliaps has never yet apponred in print and may serve to show either that she had, or affented to have it thought she had, a nice par. In her lime the bells of the Church of Shoreditch, s parish in the notthern suburb of Lend̈on, were trach adraired for their melody, and in her journeys from Hatheld to London, as soon as she approached the fown they constantly rang by way of congratulation. Tipor these cceasions she seldon failed to stop at some distance from the churcil, and, amid the prayfrs and acclamations of the penple, would listen attentively and commend the music of the lells."

Hawkins was writing two hundred years after the event; hut he evidently was repenting a tradition which had been preserved somehow or other, and we may accept it as substantially correct, because there is good evidence that Elizabeth did like to hear the sound of hells, and did encourage ringing among her people.

Later on, Shoreditch bells did not, it would seem, keep their reputation, for when Laughton and the Rambling Ringers visited the place in 1734 he found then ' not extraordinary,' the second and third being bad, though the others "pretty well told their tale."

The Ramblers met at the Black Spread Eagle near the church, and rang Grandsire, Old Doubles, St. Simon's and New Doubles on the bells.

THE SPIRE OF ST. LEONARD'S CHURCH, SHOREDITCH.
Laughton had a good deal to write about the church, which he says was * old and ruined very much, ${ }^{3}$ and, indeed, by that time it had got into a very dilapidated condition. In 1 '716, during divine service, one of the corners of the tower gave way and caused great alarm among the congregation, so that they rushed in panic to the doors and injured each other in their struggle to escape.

A year later part of the steeple was carried away in a greal storm, and the bells were exposed to view, after which the Bishop notified the parishioners that they must eilher repair the church or rebuild it.

In [735] an Act of Parliament was obtained appointing trustees and enpowering them to cause the said parish church and the steeple thereof to be pulled down and rebuilt after such model and of such dimensions, and such material, and in such a manner as by the said trustees should be agreed upon.

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER.

METHOD CONSTRUCTION

Alongside is a lead of method which you should compare carefully with the lead given, in our issue of November 3rd. Like the other, this lead consists entirely of plain hunting, in which all the bells keep the same Coursing Order, except that two places are made in the changes marked by *.
What has happened is that the bell, which previousty had been coursing immedialely in front of the treble, stops and makes third's place, crosses the treble's path, makes second's place, and hunts up behind immediately after the treble.
The result is that the Coursing Order, which hat been 87531246 , is now 87513246 ; and the treble has made one step in its cyclical path through the Coursing Order of the other bells.
We have now got another Shunt, whicli has exactly the same effect as the Extremes and the R. Court Shunts, and is identical with the latter, except that it is made at handstroke instcat of at backstroke. For convenience we will call it a P'. Court Shunt.
We saw that there are alternative positions in which R. Coirt Shunts can be made, the number increasing will the number of bells. Sinnilarly, there are alcernative positions for making $P$. Court Shunts. On six hells they are 3rds and 2 nds, and 5 ths and 4 this. On eight bells they are 3 rds and 2nds, 5 ths and 4 ths,

42613587
46231857
46283715 and 7 ths and 6 ths. On ten bells, there are four positions, on twelve five positions; and so on in a regular progression.

The corresponding places round the treble, when that bell is hunting down, can also be made. It is welf to writc out leads, each one with a P. Court Shunt made in one of the possible positions, and then compare them with the leads produced by the Extremes and the R. Court Shunts.
You will probably thinks to yoursell that these feads are no good, because, not only are they lopsided, but they also contain changes in which one bell leads or lies for four blows. That is so, but we will not bother about it for the moment. What we should realise is that in the Exiremes, the R. Court Stunts, and the P. Court Shunts we have three operations, each of which causes the treble to take one step in its cyclical path through the Coursing Order of the other bells, and that these are the only operations which can be used to produce a method in the plain course of which all the bells keep the same Coursing Order, extept for the varying position of the treble. We shall not need, therefore, to stress the importance of these Shunts in method construction.
But before we deal with the methods which are actually suitable for practising in the belfry you should experiment by working out round blocks produred by combinations of these three kinds of shunts. And at first do not attenipl to arrange them in any regular order, nor bother about how many leads the blocks will contain, nor make all the leads alike.
As with our earlier experiments, we shall find that on eight bells directly seven of these shunts are made, or any multiple of seven, the treble has got back to her original position in Coursing Order between the third and the second, and the bells will run round with plain hunting. alone. When you test this by examining some of the blocks you have written out, don't forget that in the same change there may be the finish of one Court Shunt and the beginning of another.

If on eight bells we make seven of these shunts in al lead, the bells will run round at the first lead-end; but if we make any other possible number we shall have the first lead of the plain course of a method. On ten bells neither three, nor six, nor nine will give a full course, but any other possible number will.

Some of these methods, however, are not now considered suitable for ringing, and the following conditions must be observed:-
(a) No bell must lie for more than two blows in any one position. (b) The lead must be symmetrical.

The other two conditions necessary for a 'regular method are that there should be as many leads as there are working bells, all of them exactly alike; and that the lead-ends shouid be the same as the lead-ends of Bol, Major, though not necessarily in the same order.

The number of the Shunts we use will settle the first of these conditions; the other settles itself antomatically, since no block produced by these Shunts can ever have any but Bob Major lead-ends.

How the other conditions can be complied with we will see presently.

The foundation stone of the new church was laid on November 13th, 1736, and the first service was held on August 23rd, 1740. The work cost nearly 67,500 , and to raise the sum the trustees horrowed money which was repaid by annuities secured on the rates. George Dance was the architect, and his design for the tower and spire is obviously based on Wren's masterpiece at St. Mary-leBow, but it is less elaborate and in many ways inferior to the older steeple. Wren's towers, in all cases, rise straight from the ground, and that gives them a unity of design which is lacking when the tower rises from above a portico.

In the estimate for the new church a ring of eight bells was allowed for. The old five were a fairly heavy lot, the tenor being 18 cwt , and these, when sold, brought int t219 Is. 3d. Fines paid by parishioners to escape services in parochiai offices contributed $£ 8145 \mathrm{~s} .8 \mathrm{~d}$, and 6449 8s. Id, was raised by voluntary subscription, making a total of 28005 s .

Thomas Lester, of Whitechapel, cast the new bells. It was the first ring made by him on his own account, and he was so pleased with the honour conferred on him that he gave fio to the poor of the parish.

In 1765, Lester and Pack added two trebles, and in 1807 Thomas Mears added two more to make a complete ring of twelve. These two bells were the gift of the Society of Cumberland Youths, and it is said that the money had to be collected twice, since the man appointerl as treasurer absconded with the first amount.
In 1823 the two trebles were replaced; the tenor was recast by Mears in 1826, and again by Blews in 1875; in 1913 the four smallest bells were recast by Warner, and the whole ring rehung in a steel frame at à cost of nearly $£_{500}$

NO BAN ON CHURCH BELLS.

Some confusion has arisen as to the interpretation to be placed upon a new Order, under Delence of the Realm Regulations, relating to noises. The use in public places of certain "noisy' instruments, such as bells, whistles, rattles, horns and the like, have been prohibited since immediately before the war, but among the exemptions were church bells rung 'in such manner as has been customary. "The new Order, which came into force on October 3Ist, and which can be taken to supersede the first one, does not specificatly mention church bells, and the situation was one which might well have caused alarm to all who are concerned with maintaining the use of church bells. What seemed extraordinary was that, when provision was being made against anticipated extreme enemy action, it was thought safe to leave bells to be rung for their customary purposes, and that, when circumstances have shown that the first grave fears have not materialised, it should be thought necessary to put a ban on ringing. Such a situation would have threatened the whole position of ringing, and neither service ringing nor any other customary practice could have taken place. Indeed, even chiming and the funeral knell would have been finally barred.

Already the police in some places have banned ringing. presumably on the strength of the new Order. Before this action had come to our notice, however, "The Ringing World 'had taken steps to raise the question with the Ministry of Home Security, under whose authority the Order was issued. In another column we print the replyreceived from the Air-Raid Precautions Department of the Home Office, which makes it absolutely clear that the intention is that the use of church bells shall be excepted from any restrictions of the Order. What further action can be taken to clarify the position remains to be seen, but we hope, now that attention has been called to it. the Minister of Public Security will take steps to indicate that church and chapel bells are specifically excluded from the operation of the Order.

Despite the clear ruling on the intention of the Order, given by the Minister, it should, of course, be the aim of Church authorities and ringers to comply with the reasonable requests of the police, especially if the safety of the public is concerned, but there is no reason why the ringing of church bells should be entirely stopped everywhere. That there is misunderstanding under the new Order is certain, and until the matter is further elucidated it needs handling with tact, but we have no doubt that eventually the position will be made clear to all authorities throughout the country. In the meantime, unless there(Continued on page 690. )

[^48]is a direct order from the police to desist from ringing, and they will not accept the assurance given by the letter of the Minister of Defence published in another column, ringers should carry on with their service ringing, and secretaries should go ahead with their arrangements for meetings. An interference with the customary ringing arrangements might well be taken up with the department. Anything that adds to the cheerfulness of the country and the keeping up of the morate of the people is welcomed by authority, and there is nothing, in our opinion, which helps towards this end more than the merry sound of church bells. We have the authority of the Minister that church bells do not conve under the ban on public noises, and ringers can pursue their labours, linowing that the intention of the Home Office is that leels are excepted from the prohibitions of the new Order as they were under the old.

ST. MARY'S CATHEDRAL, GLASGOW. HOW THE IRAND IS CARRXING ON  To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-We liave been interested in the various accounts in ${ }^{*}$ The Ringing World ' as to how some of the towers lave kept going. With the exception of Sunday, Seprember 3rd, twe have managed to keep our bells going as usual. We are fortunate in laving an A.R.P. post opposite the felfry, 30 can he warned from there without having to pose a man at the bottom of the stairs, which allows us to make use of every availalle ringer.
Ant interesting diversion one Sunday was a party of Jack Tars from H.M.S. (?), who had come to attend morning service. They flady sccepted our invitation io the tower, and took an intelligent interest in the ringing, although this was their first visit to a belfry. Perhaps it may not be their last.
When we held aur postponed, whist drive recently, pacte tban sixty persons defied the hlack-out, and spent an enjoyable eveningThe proceeds are to be devoted to sencing gifis to cur members who aro on service. We huve heen requested by the churth autharities to 'rum 'another whist drive uext month in aid of the Red Cross, so the sooner we get that tune-ringing band started the better.

By the way, since tunt-ringing has been suggested as one means of keeping a depleted hand going, what about starting a ceries of articles in "The Tiogius Wotld" giving a few hints on how to start مund teach a new band, hogether with a list of suitalle tuges and information as to where handbeli music could be obtained?

AMONG OXFORDSHIRE TOWERS.  SOME REFLECTIONS ON A SHORT GYCLE TOUR.

O1 Seturday, Noveruber 4th, some half-dozen enthusiaste from Oxford and district decided to visit some of the lesser known towers within casy reach of that city. Promptly et 2.30 the cyclista leftAll Saints' Church, the yendezvous, auc some 15 minutes later ware raising the five bells of St. Nicholas' Church of Marston. Here the parly was aligmented by the Deperty Master, the Rev. C. E, Wigg and three ringers from Dinton. Another walcome guest was Mr . G. H. Spise, eecretary of the Rochester Brancls of the Kent County Assuciation. The belle proved ta be a light and good going peal althongh judging by the thane it took to take the knots out of the treble rope, they are only chimed at presont. Half an hour's ringing, the allowance in each tower, sufficed to give everyone a pull, and Grandsire, Plain Eobl, St. Simon"s Doubles rod rounds were rung with varsing degrees of success. A Larty look round the church revealed a buildigg in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styjles and passeesing a Jacobean pulpit.

Leaving the car party to let down the bells, tie cyclists were quickly under way for the next iower, that of the Churoh of the Holy Cross, Woodeaton. We were now well out into the country, and it was interesting to see, just outside the church, the village well, quite ope 3 to tho elements, and the only source of water cupply in the Fillage It has hever been known to run dry, and the water is perfeotly pare. The half-hour on these bells proved to be more than sufficient for most, it being guite erident that no loving care had been lavished on them for quites a while. In the painy days of the villege, when the Manor House was occupied, the estate supplied the ringers, but alas, to day the Manor House is unoccupied, and, thercfore, there wre no ringers. The church is mainly of the Eatly Engtish and Decornted styles, aad contains of fine mural painting, some old bor pews, and some l4th century woodwork in the slispe of a screet.
Only an intervening hill separated us from our next hait, and on reaching tine sumbit of this a panorama of unforgettable loveliness bursit on us, The bright sunshine revealed the trees in all their autumn bearty, every conceirable shade of brown and yellow being disceraible, whist below us stretched away the broad expanse of Otnoor, the home of the Bicester Hunt. A quick sun dowo brougha us into Islip. where we mede for the Church of St. Niohalas with ita peal of six bells, tenor 9 cwt 1 gr . 12 lb in G, dast by Mears. Rounds. Plain Bob and Hercward were practised here. The church, largely reatored, bag no special features. It is interesting to recall, however, that Islip was the seene of prohably the first recorded ringing of the Oxford University Socjety (dascribed by ' Church Pells 'as 'Gentlemen of Fducation'). It took place in 1871 and consisted of a 'TRO of Grandsire Dcubles.
Having used up our allotted time, we now made for the lash church, that of St. Mary the Virgin, Charlton-on-Otmoor. This was, without doubt, the plum of the day, the only "wasp on the fruit ' being that the dusky imterior was made still 'duskier by clouds of thick smoke which belched from the stowe. The nave of this grand church is Early Eigligh, as are also the two botwom gtagen of the fine tower, the two top stages being 14th century work. There is a magnificently carved rood sereen, and the cross which surmounts it consists of a box tree cut to the required shaps. The bells proved to be a hesvy poal of Gve, tenor 17 cwt, and egain largely uncared for. On inspection the tenor rope appeared to be nearly frayed through, but that was tho least of the troubles of the unfortunake singer of this bell. Every movement of the rope brought down a steady straam of dirt on the head of the unlucky individual. Despite this handicap and the allpermenting smoke, St. Simon's and Plain Bob were rung, together with rounds, before the bells were lowered in peal.

Black-out " broucht activities to a close, and the company departed for home, the cyclists endenyaning, not tao Euccessfully, to stick together. We conclude by saying. ${ }^{\text {A }}$ A good time was had by all.'

CHANGE RINGING ON HANDBELLS.

BY C. R. WOOLLEY

In the article which we print below, Mr, Chris. Woolley goes furthar into the subject of double-handed change ringing on handbells. He explains the principles upon which other than simple methods may be mastered.
The last article dealt with the elementary positions in Bobs Minor, and the importance of spacing-that is, knowing the interval, or number of bells separating the pair. Before going further, we might put down a few rules which, when examined, will be seen to be very obvious truths.

To stare with, two bells cannot cross over until they have first met in consecutive places. Secondly, when two bells are hunting in opposite directions the number of bells in between must be increased or decreased by two every change. If, however, one of the pair should lie still, either through leading, lying, or making an internal place, the number of belts between will alter by one. Finally, if both make places simultaneously, the interval will rensain unchanged.

Belore proceeding, the reader is advised to study carefully the type of dodging known as 'scissors ' referred to last time. Examples occur in the $3-4$ position in Bob Minor at the second and third lead-ends. In the first of these the pair have crossed in $4-5$ before the dodge, consequently do not cross again after it; in the second, the dodge occurs before crossing.

| :--- | :--- |
| 561432 | 16432 |
| 516342 | 184523 |
| 155624 | 61542 |
| 156342 | 65432 |
| 513624 | 563124 |

This type of dodging is very common in all methods, and often occurs at wider intervals. It illustrates rule 2 above, that the number of bells in between must alter by two.

The work of 5-6 at a bob at the first lead-end shows the interval changing by one beil, when one of the pair make a place.

For further practice, Kent Treble Bob is very useful, for, while the bells still ring by position, the method provides plenty of practice both ist parallel and scissors dodging. The way in which coursing pairs come to lead and also the siight difference in work due to the 3-4 places should be studied on paper. The positions are the same, apart from the fact that every movement is doubled by the dodging, and the whole method resembles a continuous series of treble leads of Plain Bob.
Following Kent, there are plenty of simple Minor methods which should prove quite easy to ring; Single and Double Court and Single and Double Oxford are obvious selections. The simple place-making in these provides practice of the work encountered when internal places are made. The fourth's place, when the treble is crossing 2-3 in Single Court, is exactly the same work as the Bob in Bob Minor; and the ringer will learn to watch for the treble, which will te!! him when the place oncurs.
Ability to follow the treble as it moves up and down is essential, as the whole work of a method depends on the position of this bell. For a start it is, therefore, much better to choose methods in which special work occurs only when the treble is at the front (Bob Minor) or near the lront (Single Court and Oxford Bob) ; but with practice it will be found quite easy to follow it up and down all the way.

So far it will be seen the system recommended depends on knowledge of positions; this system works well for methods in which plain or treble bob hunting is fairly continuous and only varies at certain positions when the treble is near the front and can be easily observed. In methods which contain more internal places, the regular positional work gives way to the work produced by those places, and we have dodging and place-making instead of the regular plain or treble bob hunt. Different leads in the same method then lose their similarity, and it is so longer sufficient to learn one or two types of lead.
Two ways are now open. The first is to learis every lead carefully. This is rather laborious, particuiarly so as it is necessary to learn the whole of the work of all pairs before ringing inside pairs to touches. For example, an inside pair in Double Norwich may be called, in quite a short touch, into any part of the $3-4,5-6$ or $7-8$ positions, so that the complete work of as many as twentyone different leads would have to be learned before touches could be attempted.

The second way, which is very much better, is to ring by the construction of the method. That is to say, to know what internal places are made as the treble moves up and down. Further, in all regular methods the second half lead is the reverse of the first half. This means that if 6th's place is made, for example, as the treble crosses $4-5$ on the way up, another 6 th's must be made as it crosses $5-4$ on the way town. In this way the method can be rung without any special reference to what particular position the pair happen to be in; there is no need to know if they are in any particular part of the $3-4,5-6$ or 7-8 course, and the combined 'blue line' can be dispensed with. Clearly it will onty be possible to those who are thoroughly familiar with the elementary positions and have had a certain amount of practice in simple methods with internal places.

ERNEST FREDERICK POPPY  AN APPRECLATION

Ennest Frederick Poppy was a ringer well known in Fast Anglia and elsewhere and a man well beloved and held irt high regard by all who knew him. His life was a record of service to lis fellow-man.
His tall figure was to be seen at most ringing meatings, where lis genial disposition endeared jim to all with whom he came in contact. He was a veritable storehouse of East Anglian ringing lore, and this, coupled with a retentive memory, made him a very entertaining man to talk to.
He had met and rung with all the old East Anglian stalwarts, and his anesdotes of them-John Souter, Jimmy Mots and so onwere worth listening to.
As a ringer Mr. Poppy was above alt e faultless striker, aud while he had great patience with learners, would not tolerate slovenly ringing. He was a very aafe ringer on all nutabers, and his peal record of 346 shows an unusual variety of methods.
His first peal was rung at Redenhall on February 24th, 1894, for the Norwich Association, and he took jart in 257 peals credited to ithat society.
Mr. Poppy rang in the first peal for the Suffolk Guild at Thornlam Magna on April 3rd, 1923, and his last was rung at Debenhanion August 13th, 1938. He had served the Suffolk Guild on its conmittee since tits formation, and, in addition, he had been assisian aretary to the Eye Branch since 1936.
Ith his own parish of Stoke Ash he luad been a power for gont, and he gave willingly of his time and talents to public work. A very licen and devoted churchman, he held the office of churchwarden for upwards of 20 years, and it was chietty due to his energy that the Wells were rehung and a competent band of ringers trained. Mr. Poppy represented his parish on tha Hartismere Rural District Council, was a manager of the sohool and an honorary member of the local branch of the British Legion.
May he rest in peace.

GATERING DIFFIOULTIES OVERCOME.

By a happy coincidence the meeting of the Guildford Distriet of the Guildford Diocesan Guill, held ot Shalford on November 4th, took place on the third amniversary of the rededication of the hells, after having been recast from six into eight.

A lest minute breakdown in the catering arrangements upset the ofganiser's platls, but the very sporting gesture of the Vicar of Shialford (the Rev. M. Tobins) saved the siturtion. On learning tinat it was nat possible to obtain ten hacally, the Vicar and his wife volunteered to do the hest they could at the Vicarage. The Vicar journeyed to Guildford in his car and returned laden with supplies. Mrs. Tobias turned the Ficar's atudy inte an impromptit tea room, and pravided an enjoyable tea.
The Yirar took the chair at the short business meeting which Followed, and also invited the company lo bring the handbells into ase. Althaugh mothing more than plain courses of Grandsire came fome, every effort was given $a$ round of applause. The star tarn of the evening, however, was doutble-lianded tune ringing by the brotjore J. end A. Hunter. These loys literally brouglit the house down, aud we understand that they are already booked for the next Guild dinner.
The two poljce officers present saw to it that the Vicarage was blacked out, well before sclieduled time.
M... C. W. Denyer (Farmham district secretary) and Mr, R. Whittingtan (Cranleigh) expressed thanks to the Vicar and Mrs Tobias for all they had done and for the manmer in which they had como to the rescue.

THE B.B.C. INTERVAL SIGNAL.  SHOULD IT BE IMPROVED?

To the Editor.
Dear Sit, Although this correspondemce is Eetting vearer to it, no one fins yet faced up to the question whet her the itterval sigural aught to lise improved or zot.
The jaterval sigual has to be somehning whieh can be switched off at any moment. Therefore, anything whith contains a ploasant succession of somuds is not switable; for every time the pugnal is swithed of in the middle, everyone would be arying ont for the conclemion; or, at any rate, would not be in the hest humour for whal foilows Thus the inlerval signa! ougltt to ba in itself an annoying one, or, at muy rate. something which ons in inore or less glad to have awitehed off. At the same time, it ought not to be tery amoying, or people wotld he alwuys objecting to it, like they did to the former sigeal
There is, therefore, a good deal to be said for the ure of call changes. It is quite certaia that many (probably most) ringers have no fidea how distastcful pall changea ara to all othere, or they would never ring them The liorribly monotonous repetition is, however, jessened when the number of belle is larger than eight; or when the sound is varied to imitate its volume being altered by the wind.

Therefore, if ilhere are to be other records made (and probably we all agree that it would be better to have more variety than at presers., it would seem that they should ha call changes and on twelve bells:
A further point is, who wauld ving them? My experience is that it takes a band of ringers who can sirike changes well to strike call ehanges well. Natice that I do not say satisfactorily, for call changes can never be that; bub well enough to pass muster on a record. Can twelve men be found who would he willing and capable of doing this? I would not be one of them. If I could strike twelve bells in real elanges, nothing would induce me to make a displey of sham or call chazges!

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The war-time derangement of the postal services and the necessity of getting the copies of ' The Ringing World' into the hands of the publishers earlier on Thurstay make it absolutely essential that all contributions to our columns, and particularly all notices, should be in our hands by Monday in each week. We cannot guarantee the insertion in the following issue of anything received later.

We hope that secretaries will send us prompt reports of their meetings, and we shall welcome any items of news relating to ringers and ringing, but they must reach us early.

GELFRY GOSSIP.

Last Sunday tie bells of St. Mary-Ie-Tawer, Ipswich, which have been silent since the war began, were rung for morning service. The police had banned all riuging, but heve now withdrawn the prohibition so far as daylight only is concerned. There is still no practice on Tuezdajs.
The photograph of the spire of St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, in our last issue, was by Mr. F. E. Dawe.
To-day is the one hundred and fourth anniversary of the first peal of London Surprise Mejor, which was rung et St. Avirew'g Norwich. In our issue of August 25th last, we gave an account of the bells of this church.
On Nowember $15 t h, 1784$, the College Youths rang 5,040 changeg of Oxford Treble Bob Royal at Maidstone and claimed the peal as the first on the new belis. A fertnight earlier James Earham'z band from Leedis lad rung 5, 180 clanges in the same method. The Londom men had no great opinion of the others ${ }^{2}$ performanaes, and it looks as if fley did not beliepe thoy had rung a true peal.

Almost a century later, on November 15th, $1873,8,544$ changes of Kent Treble Mob Major were rung at Liversedge, beating John Reeves peal of 8,448 , which for long was considered the exteut with the tenors together. The 8,544 qwas rung as the composition of William SottanExall, but probably was varied by him from one of John Thorp's peala.
On Nowember 16th, 1885 , Jasper Snowdon died at the early age of 41, eftar a comparatively shart ringing career. By his writings, his work and his example lie had infuenced the Riaging Exerciee for good to ail almost greater extent than any other man.

ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLEEGE YOUTHS.

At the meeting held on November 7th for the purpose of electing offeers of the Ancient Sociaty of College Youthe, Mr. W. H. Sluker, general secretary of the Lancaghire Assoaiation, was chairman.

A good attondance augured well for the fortniglaty war-time meetings.
As previously reported, lust year's officers were re-elected en bloc.
The secratary read the tiat of attendences for the past year. Mr. L. Fox headed the list with 79 out of a possible 80 , and, in addition, he rang 150 times for Sunday services and about 120 times for practices at St. Durstan's and other towers.
Four other members of the Steprey band rang almost as many times as he did.

A. E BAMES' PEAL OF GRANDSIRE TRIPLES.  A LETTER FROM AUSTRALTA.

Ta the Editor
Dear Sir, In your issue of July 28 th lest this peal is reported to have been rung at Bridgend, Glamorganshire, which is the first occasion I have seen it rung for many years. It was the first peal rumg on the back eight of the beils at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, conducted by the comproser. It was highly thought of by the Rev. C. D. P. Detries, and on his recommendation the block of 350 ehangea was deferred until end of the peal. Thus ft runs to 4,690 changes by bobs only, when the first Holt sinyle is introduced. Then follow the five calls at 5 , the lest of which produces rounds (at the second Holt aingle). It is a beavtiful and gymmetrical peal, with fwe uniform parts- to 4.690 changes, and from this point of riew is unsurpassed. tt is not difficult to call, and without, I hope, detracting from the merit of such compositians as Holt's Ten-Part or J. J. Parker's TwelvePart, I consider it a superior composition to either. It needs no words of commendation from one in this far off land.

CHURCH BELLS AND NEW NOISE ORDER.

EXCEPTED FROM RESTRICTIONS.  Home Office Intention.

Under the Control of Noise (Delence) Order, which came into force on September ist, severe restrictions were placed upon the use of certain instruments in public places, but church and chapel bells used for their "customary purposes ' were included among the exceptions.

This exemption enabled church bells to be [reely rung, and on the strength of it Church authorities and ringers were urged, through our columns, to continue, as far as possible, the service and other ringing to which they were accustomed.

On October 3ist, however, another Order, entitled Control of Noise (Defence) (No. 2) Order, was issued, and from its drafting there appeared to be considerable doubt as to whether church bells were in future to be exempted. In view of the importance of the question, the following letter was addressed to the Secretary of the Ministry of Home Security (A.R.P. Department) by the Editor of 'The Ringing World '

> The Ringing World ' Office, Lower Pyrford Road, > Woking,
> November 7 th, 1939 .

CONTROL OF NOISE.

Sir,-In the Control of Noise (Defence) Order, No. 1169 , dated September ist, 1939, Clause $3(2)$ provided that nosthing in the Order shall be deemed to prevent the use of any church or chapel bell in such manner as has leen customary.

The Control of Noise (Defence) (No. 2) Order, dated October 315t, 1939, does not mention church and chapel bells among the exceptions.

May it be understood that church and chapel bells are still exempted by the original Order, and that they may continue to be used for their customary purposes?

As this is a matter of great importance to the churches of this country, I shall be very much obliged if you will let me have an early reply.-Yours faithfully,

J. S. GOLDSMITH, Editor.

The following reply has been received, and it is gratifying to know that church bells are still exempted from the operation of the Order:-

> Home Office

> Horsefery House, Thorney Street, London, S.W.1, November 10th, 1939.

CONTROL OF NOISE (DEFENCE) (No. 2) ORDER, 1939. Sir,

In reply to your letter of November 7th, I am directed by the Minister of Home Security to say that it is intended that the use of church and chapel bells should be excepted from any restrictions by virtue of clause 1(b) of the Control of Noise (Defence) (No. 2) Order, 1939

I am, Sir, Your obedient servant,

The Editor, (Signed) R, L. POLAND. The Ringing World.'

Confusion had already arisen from the wording of the second Order, and we have, since writing to the Minister of Home Security, received information that the police have banned the ringing of bells in certain places. We shall be glad to hear of any case where such action has been taken, as we hope that some further steps may be taken to have the position made clear.

WHAT THE NEW ORDIR SAYS.

Clause r of the Order of October 31st, so far as it is relevant, runs as follows :-

Subject to the provisions of the Order, no person shall, in any area in Great Britain, sound any instrument or cause or permit any instrument to be sotuded, except-
(a) for the purpose of making a signal, in accordance with directions given by the local authority or chief officer of police for the aren, to indicate that an air-raid by the enemy is expected or is in progress or has ceased, or that noxious gas is present, or that danger from sucli gas has ceased, or
(b) in such circumstances that the sound of the instrument is not liable to be mistaken for any such signal as aforesaid.
Clause 4 (c) of the Order lays down that the expression 'instrument' means any siren, hooter, whistle, rattle, bell, horn or other like instrument.

BELLS AND THE A RP.  CANCELLED MEETING AT UPHAM.  ro the Editar.

Dear Sir,-A district raeeting was arranged to be held at Upham on November 11 th, and was duly advertiged in "The Itinging World,' the ritging to be completed during the hours of daylight.
At the last, minute the mecting had to ho cancelled, es the A.R.P. authority informod the incumbent that the church bells must not be rung at any time other than for Sunday services.
I commanicsted wills as many as possitile and apologise to anyone who may have been overlooked and made tio jourmey to Upham in vaiv.
Uplam is a very quiet willage with few houses gear the church. It appears to mo that the local A.R.P. ahthority acted in a lijeh-handed manner, as the Control of Naisa (Defence) Order, 1939, epecially exempts the ringing of any churoh or chapel hell in such manner as has been eustomary, and it las long been the custom to ring the church bells in Hampshire in connaction with district meetinge.
church bels of your readers with experjence of A.R.P. adranisiration give advice on this point?

RINGING AFTER SUNSET.  To the Editor.

Dear Sir,-I would like to know if you could give me ray belp in the following. We are able to ring each Sunday morting at our tower from 10 to 11 o'clock. We are hiacking out our church windowa so that evening pertice can he held at the ordinary time. and we aro thinking of blacking out our belfry, which can easily be done. Before we da so, however. I would like to know if the law as far as church leells are concerned allows os to ring after sunset? 1 shall be greatly obliged if you can, through 'The Ringing World, give me a reply, so as to give us an idea of what is the hest tring to do.

Grent Tpy, Fissex. J. W. DYFR.
The Order controlling noise in war time specially exempts church bells rung for normal purposes, as will be seen from the article - Church Bells and New Noise Order ${ }^{\text {a }}$ ' in this issue. There is no law agninst the ringing of church bells after sunset, although it might he well to consult the local police suthorities on the mater. The chief obstacle to the ringing of bells arises if there is a "Histening" post nearby, but if there is no objeetion to daylight ringing there camot, we think, be any objection to ringing after nightfat, provided the hlack-ont regulations are observed.-Enmor, 'The Ringing World.'

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON

ST. LEONARD'S, SHOREDITCH.

By J. Armiger Trollope.

The first peal at Shorediteh of which we have any account was rung on March ist, 1741, by the Society of Eastern Scholars. The method was Double Bob Major, the bolss were called by Joln Sharp, and the band included several men who were prominent ringers at the time, The tenor man, Phitemon Mainwaring, earned a leading position among the feavy bellringers of all time. He was the first man to turn St. Saviour's, Southwark, tenor in to a peal; he rang the 28 cwt. tenor at West IFam lo a fifteer-thousand of Bob Major, and the f 4 cwt . tenor at Spitalfields to a five-thousand of Oxford Treble Bub Major. These bells were hung with the old style fittings, and peals rung on bells with modern fittings cannot be compared with these reats.

Thomas Bennett, who rang the seventh at St . Leonard's, had a long and active ringing career, during which he was a member of nearly every one of the leading London companies.

The peal of Double Bob was not claimed as the first in the tower, and, as it was not rung until the bells had been two years in the steeple, the likelihood is that others had already been scored which are now forgotten, especially as five years clapsed before we have any record of a second performance. This, too, was by the Eastern Sclatars, and was 5,040 changes of Bob Major, composed and conducted by loseph Prior.

It was an interesting composition, being the first that ever was rung with the sixth the extent (twelve times) at home. The earlier peals were on the plan of Annable's Three-part, in which the sixth is nine times in each one of the five available positions at the course-ends.

Later on in the same year Prior called 6,832 changes of Bob Major, and on December 27th, 1747, Thomas Bennett conducted 5,040 changes of 'that excellent new peal called Eastern Bob.

This method was the composition of Joseph Prior. He afterwards extended it to Royal and produced the double variation of Major, and peals of both were rung by the Eastern Scholars. A century later the method was rediscovered by Henry Hubbard and published by him under the name of Yorkshire Court. Thougln it does not now rank as a "regular" method, it has many good qualities.

Meanwhile, on January 12th, 2746 , the College Youths rang the first peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major on the bells, Annable calling the bobs.

The ringer of the second was Thomas Prior, who possibly was Joseph Prior's brother, and, like him, was a very active metropolitan ringer. The ' General Advertiser' of ${ }^{1746}$ contains an advertisement by 'Thomas Prior, Esq.,' in which he offers for sale a marvellous tar water which would cure almost any complaint, including asthmas, cancers, small-pox, lowness of spirit, etc." His address was Painter's Court, Bury Street, St. James'. There is nothing beside the mame to identify this man with the ringer, but quite likely they were tha same

In 1747 began the long connection between the belfry of Shoreditch and the Society of Cumberland Youths. Concerning the origin of this company, a number of legends grew up which have been repeated many times and are still believed in, but, unfortunately, like so many other ringing legends, when they are subjected to any real test, turn out to be baseless.

Osborn, writing a hundred years ago, tells us that in his time the tradition was that " when, in 1746 , the Duke of Cumberland returned to London after defeating the Scotch rebels at the battle of Culloden, he entered the Metropolis by the old North Road through Kingsland and Shoreditch. The L.ondon Scholars welcomed him witla merry peal on the bells of Shoreditch Church, and, to show their loyalty and joy at his safe return, they changed their name, and afterwards, to commemorate the event, an appropriate and ornamental medal, with the likeness of the Royal Duke on his clarger enamelled in gold, was presented to the society; which medal is ustally worn by the master at the society's general meetings."

I-ater writers allowed their fancy some freedom, and we are usually told that the Duke was so pleased with the ringing that he sent and congratulated the ringers, and himself presented the medal.

A History of Shoreditch Churcly,' published some years ago, is still more circumstantial, and relates that the Duke was so charmed with the music that he entered the tower and afterwards gave the two bells which then made the ten. He certainly was a ringer and the founder of the Cumberland Society, and the medal was presented to the Society by the Duke himself in 1746.

The Duke also presented a large oil painting of himscif to the society, and this hung in the centre porch until ihe bells could no longer be rung, when it was removed to St. Martin"s-in-the-Fjelds.'

All this is only fancy run riot, and would hardly deserve notice if it were not that it is sometimes repeated by responsible people as genuine history. The Duke had no personal connection with either Shoreditch Church or the Society of Cumberfand Youths. He was a German by birth, and a soldier by profession, and his action at Carlisle in 1747 , when his army tried to confiscate the cathedral bells, shows that he had no particular sentiment in favour of church bells.

Osborn's account, it will be noted, was very much more moderate. He does not say that the Duke himself had anything to do with the matter. The tradition had not then devefoped beyond the statement that the London Scholars rang Shoreditch bells to welcome him when he came home, and afterwards changed their name to show their loyalty and joy at his safe return. This is a much more credible statement, but it also fails completely when we apply any real tests to it.

The Society of London Scholars had been lounded some time before the end of the seventeenth century, and for half a century its members ranked with the College Youths as the leading ringers of the country, bath socially and in the belfry. Unfortunately the socicty's records are lost, and all we know about their performances is that they rang three peals, one of Grandsire Caters and two of Grandsire Cinques. The last we hear of their doings is that in 1730 they were proposing to try Rudhall's new bells at Fulham. After that they drop entirely out of history.

They were then at the helght of their prosperity, and we must not suppose that they went to pieces until some time after. Most probably they continued to meet in tower and tavern long after they had given up peal ringing. The mere gap of years is no proof that they did not become the Society of Cumberland Youths. But what is certainly lacking is any signs of continuity.

The London Scholars consisted of "gentlemen and others ' who met and rang in the City and West End; the Cumberlands were men of Shoreditch and district who practised in the northern and eastern suburbs, and, in those days, Shoreditch was a long way from St. Martin's-in-the-Felds. If the tradition were true, we should have to believe that the London Scholars not only changed their name, but they entirely cut themselves apart from their past, destroyed all their old records, and had an entirely fresh start. Moreover, though the battle of Culloden was fought on April i6th, 1746, the new society was not formed until September 6th, 1747 , and it is certain that neither the London Scholars nor any other company greeted the Duke on his return with a merry peal on Shoreditch bells, or any other bells.

The Duke's victory had made him a popular hero, and his return was eagerly awaited. The contemporary newspapers contain several statements that he was expected on such and such a date, and then that his coming had been postponed; and, finally, he arrived unannounced and unexpected by the general public. Six days after he had set out from the North, 'The General Advertiser ' stated that "there is no certain account when H.R.H. the Duke of Cumberland will set out from Fort Augustus, and it was not titl the third day after his arrival that it printed a message from Whitehall, dated July 26th, saying that "yesterday about one o'clock in the afternoon his Royal Highness, the Duke of Cumberland, arrived at the Palace of Kensington from the North and immediately waited on his Majesty.

THE EXEMPTION OF CHURCH BELLS.

The correspondence which we published last week concerning the new Control of Noise Order cleared up a position which had led to cloubt in the minds of many authorities. It is now abundantly plain, as it was even urder the first Order, that church bells may be rung for all customary purposes, including peal ringing. The new Order which, unlike the first, did not specifically mention the exception of church bells, gave rise to some serious qualms as to ringing in future, but the reply of the Ministry of Home Security to the inquiry made on behalf of "The Ringing World ' has settled any doubts on the matter. Confirmation also comes from the hon. secretary of the Central Council, who has been in touch with the Ministry of Home Security, and we publish elsewhere a statement agreed between the Ministry and the Central Council. As a matter of fact, there is nothing new in this statement bevond what has already lieen printed in our columns, but this fresh authoritative statement puts the position beyond doubt.

There is nothing in the new Order to prevent church bells being rung at any time, but this does not relieve ringers of the responsibility of acting at all times in the interests of public security. It goes without saying that, where the public interest demands it, bells wifl be immediately silenced, and for that reason the step which we have all along advocated, and of which the Binister has approved, of keeping a man posted to give instant notification of any air-raid warning, should be strictly observed. It should be the object of ringers so to act that there can be no cause for reasonable complaint about the ringing, as it concerns public safety, and it is in the interests of ringing that nothing should be done which may jeopardise the freedom from restriction which church bells now enjoy. In times like these there must be give and take, but it is vert satisfactory to know that the now Order in no way curtails the exemption directly laid down by the first Control Order.

When war was declared, there was a sudden cessation of all ringing, more because of the fear of immediate calamitous happenings than anything else, but now the first three months have passed without such anticipated disasters materialising, and life in this country is being adjusted to the abnormal conditions, it is realised that there are some things which can safely be continued without risk. The ringing of church bells is one of them, and not only should service ringing be continued or, where it has ceased, be resumed, but every opportunity should be made to continue practices and hold meetings. There is. indeed, no reason in law why even peals, should not bo (Continued or page 70e.)

rung, at any rate, for special occasions. There should, of course, be a certain amount of circumspection in doing this, and there may come times when such ringing would be altogether out of place, but, at any rate while conditions remain as they are, a certain amount of peal ringing could not be considered in any way to contravene public feeling. A correspondent this week puts forward reasoned grounds why peal ringing might be resumed, and where the church authorities offer no objection, and where proper precauions are taken, there is something to be said for continuing the ringing of peals.

But the greatest value of the exemption accorded to church bells is the fact that it enables service ringing to be maintained, and makes practices and the continued cultivation of the art of ringing possible. In many towers, of course, the 'black out 'renders practices after nightfall out of question, but in a number of districts ringers are surmounting the obstacle by combining their forces and ringing either before darkness sets in or at towers where the structural conditions make it possible to comply with the lighting restrictions. For the next two months or so the short days will, of course, limit the afternoon practices except at places where lights can be properly obscured, but the opportunities which ringers continue to enjoy should not be neglected, and should be utilised not only to maintain service ringing but the interest of all the ringers who are left at home to carry on and, in addition, to raise additional forces to fill the gaps that, alas, must inevitably occur as the war goes on.

THE B.B.C. INTERVAL SIGNAL

Dear Sir,-1 an rabter surprised at the contintued eorrespondence ancerning the interval signal used br the B.B.C. In the first place, t is most unlikely that any change n the way of a now record will be made at this time, and it may be that any steps we tako are an orgatisatian during war time will have just tho opposite effect we dusire, i.e., the disappeuranas of the bells record entirely.
We tugets have much greater protums. Service ringing anust be kept up and practines arranged wherever passible, Recruits must be brought along uader very adverse circumstances white the Exercise in gereral is affected when individuals subceed in using the presem: mational emergency to gain their own way to cuttail or stop the ringing of the hells in their locality.
Such attacks have been made, and with nuccess, by people who have rowed vengernce on the bells for years past, and whetr this happens it presents a pretty problem for the ljand concerned. They have to decide whether it is a legitimate aetion or a little bit of the Hitlerism we are pledged to destroy.

Eournemouth.

A 'SHUNT' IN RINGING PARLANCE.

To the Editor.

Dear Siy -I may be very denge, but I fail to understand why you ay than the Oxford English Dictionary contredicts, when actually if cars we out altogether.
What elinches the uather is the defintion you auote: The enlling or anission of a bob in order to divert the trach of a composition frous one part to the cokresponding point in another part. This so rxactly describes tine correct meaning which appeass from the Jesper Snowdon series thet he may lave written it himealf. I expect, howaver, it is more likely that his brolher wrole it. It is to support this defimition that I have writien both now, and ou previous occasions; and if anything 1 lieve written 'contradicts' it, I am only too glad here and now to withuraw any such words.
From his writings I should say thet Jasper Snowdon wes careful of his etymology. In conversation with his brother William I found that the latter was ar etymalogical authority. He was, however, the only such ringer that I liave met. Riugers es a rule have no ure for etymology whatever, aud i must sorrowfully adnuit that you are probably right in not giving much cousideration to my arguments कt that matter. I wiI, thercfore, now give soma matliematical reasons to which rangers may perlaps pay more atfeation.
Mathematicians have divided the scrence of medranics into Statime and Dywamics. In Statics a machine is treated as being in full action at a given moment, but only the monent is considered. That is to say the wort of the machine is alone discussed, apart from its movement: if Dynanies, movement is added.
These two divisions lend themselves well to change ringing. When figures are writtell or printed in a row, they are static: we may writc or print another wow : this also will be static, In [act, what is printed or print bo anjthing else.

Now let iliose two rows be rung. We can hear, or we can feel, each bell rir $i$ ing after another, or each row coming after another That is to say bhere is movement; the work is dynamie. We can further see that some words are static, some dymamic, and that we must keep them distinct.
Take rour sentence: 'An operation which alters the pasition of we will nal! a shuat." Tho words operation and " Alters" are" dymanic: 'pnsition' nud "slmat " are static. (The remainimg words are indiferent.) Fthe result is always static, The word by whinit it is brougin aloul is dymamic. Irs all the meanings you quote from the Oxford English Diohionary, the word 'slunt." is static; but you equate it with a dymanic word, ant use it in a dynamic sense. Yout are condemmed hy the aththority you have colled in.
Tou speali of a 'right." I am afraid I know of no such right: of "ourse gnyone can he ata puxzling as they wish. Bub why wislif the purzle yout set us is to lenow whelher the word as you employ it is to he static or dynamic. Is a row intended, or is it work row speak of ? You use two ther words iv your description, why not feep to one of these? You could tell ths tery well ahout "Operation, No. $1^{\text { }}$ No. 2, etc.-or 'Alteratian, No. 1,' No. 2 and so on. Or chere are plenty of etlieq worls, such us 'Movr, Xv. I.' I pssure you that the plenty of aticer words, such as Mowr, Nu, I asture you that inc ase of sucl words would matre very nuein greater the usefulemes of use of sucle words would mate sour excellent series of artioles.

HERBEET DRAKE.
tiford Rectory, Woodhridge, Suftolk.
The Oxford Euglisjo Dicionary does contradict Mr. Drake. It does not g gres that "shant ' is a 'factitive form" of "shun. "hat eays that the origin of the word is undrown. The various definitions it gives show that there is nothimg static implied in the menning. The general idea belind all the various mmanings is that of something bemp noved from one tracls to another, which is the idia which lies beinnd our use of the word.
Neither Jasper вor Willian Suowdon wace the word 'slumet in manuection with charace ringing. It was first so employed by C. D. P. Drvies as the nathe of the bohs in peals of Grandsire Triples similar to the extra bobs which Reeves addad to Foltrs Ten-Part to produce Rever' Variation. Theae bolos heve an exactly similar cffect, on the Coursing Order of the hells to the "shunts" referred to in our natirles.-Empor, "Ringing World.'

A NEW RING OF SIX IN SOUTH WALES.

On Saturday last the recast and augmented ring of bells at sit. Bridés Major, Glamorgan, was dealicated lyy the Lord Bieliop of Liandaff, who gave the address.
As the procession of clergy returned to the chaucel the bells were rung for a short while. Tea was provided Ey the Ficar and churchwardens, and in the evening Mr.J. W. Jones guve an address in the chureh on bells and bellriuging.
Rimgers were jresent from Newport, Llanliradach, Newton, Aheravon and Bridgard, as well as Mr. J. H. Shephard, of Swindon. A well-struck 720 of Poh Minor was rung hy I. W. Jones 1. H. Cassells 2. T. Roderick 3. C. W. Perry (conductor) 4. D. R. James 5. T. stiteh $B$.

The work of restoration induded a new lead roof and new Hoors, hesides the recasting of the old five belle, the adcition of a new treble, and hacging them with ur-to-date fittings. The work was carrice out hy Messus. John Taylor and Co. in ilien usual furst-chess style.

CHANGE RINGING ON HANDBELLS.

BY C. R. WOOLLEY.

If we examine a method with places we can quite easily see the effects which places have. It can only be possible 10 do so with straightforward methods, having places made ' right ' (that is, at hand- and back-stroke) ; places made wrong (back and hand) are more complicated, so the reader is left to do this himself. The following remarks apply only to places made 'right,' In3 straightforward methods the changes can be split up into pairs (at hand and back), and in each pair it will be scen that two places occur. In plain hunting these are at front and back. In making these places, bells turn round to hunt the opposite way. Now it will be easily seen that in any pair of changes an odd place (one in 3rd's, 5th's or 7th's) can take the place of the lead; and an even place (in 2nd's, 4 th's or (6th's) can take the place of the lie. These internal places are made by bells which are turning round to hunt the other way before reaching the front or back, consequently odd places are made from the back, even places from the front. Also it will be seen that an odd place causes dodging in front of it without affecting the beils hunting above it; while an even place causes dodging above it, without affecting the plain hunt helow it. Each pair of changes must contain one ocid and one even place (external or internal).
Taking Double Norwich for an example, we see that the construction depends on a series of compartments or boxes formed by places made around the treble as it moves up and down ; these are made as near to its path as possible without, of course, affecting its plain hunt.

Numbering the pairs of changes $£$ to 8 as shown we have:-

In ( $\pm$ ) the treble is crossing 2-3. Fourth's place is made, which, with the lead, forms the 'box' round the treble's path. This fourth's allows hunting in $1-2-3$ but causes dodging in 5-8-7-8.

In (2) the treble is crossing $4-5$. Thirds and sixth's places form the box, and these cause dodging in 1-2 and $7-8$, only allowing hunting between them in $4-5$.

In (3) the trebie is crossing 6-7. Fifth's and eighth's form the box. Dodging in 1-2-3-4.

In (4) a whole pull at lead goes with the treble's lie. This allows plain hunting all through.

Now consider the effect on a pair. Take $7-8$ for a simple example.
In (i) fourth's is made, so the pair dodge together in 7-8.

In (2) sixth's is made, so the pair do another dodge in 7-8.

In (3) fifth's is made; this allows the tenor to hunt down from behind, while the 7th lies the pull.

In (4) the pair hunt down parallel.
At the beginning of (5) the tenor has reached third's and the 7th fifth's. Consequently, the 7th must make the place, and this causes the tenor to dodge back into fourth's. Therefore the pair strike together in 4-5.
In (6) the pair have separated by two bells, and are in third's and sixth's. They thus make the places. Notice that all pairs of places in Double Norwich are made by pairs of coursing bells.

In (7) the pair strike together in $4-5$, and the tenor, being in fourth's, makes the place. This causes the 7th to dodge back into sixth's, and this brings the pair into course again, with one bell in between.
In (8) the tenor goes down to turn the treble, the 7th following in course.

Since in this type of method an even place can only be made while a bell is leading a whole pull and an odd place while it is lying, we need really only know the internal places. So that the half lead may be summed up as: Fourth's, Third's and Sixth's, Fifth's; and the second half, Fifth's, Third's and Sixth's, Fourth's.

Looking at the Surprise methods we find that an internal place is necessary whenever the treble dodges to prevent repetition; or, looked at in another way, to cause the dodge. Also, by definition of the class, an internal place is also needed when the treble moves from one set of dodging places to another (that is, at every crosssection!.

Taking Cambridge Minor as a simple example, we can set out the construction in the following way by the position of the treble; internal place, and its effect:Internal Position of treble. Place.

Dodging in 1-2. Third's.
Crossing 2-3. Fourth's.
Dodging in 3-4. Second's.
Crossing 4-5.
Dodging in 5-6. Fourth's.
Lying in sixth's. Fifth's.

Effect.
Dodging in 1-2. Plain hunt in $4-5-6$. Dodging in 5-6. Plain hunt in 1-2-3.
Dodging in $3-4$ and 5-6. Dodging in 1-2. Plain hunt in 4-5-6. Dodging in 5-6. Plain hunt in 1-2-3. Dodging in 1-2 and 3-4.

The second half-lead is, of course, a repetition of the above in reverse, so need not be given.

Surprise Major can be treated in exactly the same way. A decided resemblance will be noticed between Cambridge, Superlative and Double Norwich, the two Surprise methods having the same places as the plain method at the cross-sections. London and Bristol both have places made ' wrong ' coupled with backward hunting; such places do not conform to the same rules. For example, place-making bells do not necessarily reverse, nor have they the same effects on the other bells. However, all methods can be similarly treated by construction for double-handed ringing.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The war-time derangement of the postal services and the necessity of getting the copies of The Ringing World 'into the hands of the publishers earlier on Thursday make it absolutely essential that all contributions to our columns, and particularly all notices, should be in our hands by MONDAY in each week. We cannot guarantee the insertion in the following issue of anything received later.

We hope that secretaries will send us prompt reports of their meetings, and we shall welcome any items of news relating to ringers and ringing, but they must reach us early.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Next Monday, Mr. James George, of Birmingham, reaches has 861 h birthay, and his friends everywhere will join in offering then congratulations. He hns now recovered from lis loug illuess and is enjoying good health. Few men have accomplished as nuch as Mr. George in the world of cinging, and but for the wat we can imagine be would by this time live bect as busy as ever at the rope end.

Lest Tuesday was tire two hundred and second annjversary of the peal at West Ham (mentioned in Hast week's issue) in which Philemon Afainsaring turned the 28 cwt tenor in to 15,120 changes of Phain 13ob Major.

On November 23rd, 1732, the City Scholars rang 6,012 changes of Graudisu Caters at &st. Gides', Cripplegate, and on the same date in 1775 the Norwich Selolars sured the first peal on the grand ring of fwelwa at Bt. Peter Mancroft, which lad recendy been erected. The nuethod was Grandsire Cinques.

Noverber 25th is the anniveraty of two other 18 th century peals of Grandsire Cinques. In 1729 the London Scholars rang 6,204 changes at Et. Michael's, Cornhill, and iv 1798 the Union Society of Shrewshury rang 6,006 clanges at St. Chad's.
The hoard which recorded the Comhill peal was in existence 100 years ago, but soon afterwards whs takon down from the wall during some repairs, and ultimately was hroken up and destroyed.

The dedieation of the two new hells, cast by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, ts. asgment to twelve the present ring at St. Woolos' Cathedral, Newport, will take place on Sunday morning, November 26th On the following Saturday there will be an open meeting for ringers.
通r. Arthur Panther, of Wath-on-Dearne, Forks, is at present in the Montagu Hospital, Mexloorough, where be has undergone several operations for interna! trouble. We are pleased to state he is progressing favourably and have no daubt his many friends will wisl him of speedy yetovery.
Tlie peal of Grandsire Caters at Worsley on Saturday was rung to celobrath the coming of age of Mr. Robin Renslaw, son of the Vicar, the Rev. J. Rensham. The ingers were invited to the Vicarage to driuk the young man's hoalthind wish him many happy returns of the dav, all the land thank the vicar for his kindness. The peat was also a birthday compliment to Mr. Prank Reynolds. the nigeer of the fifth.

RUGBY RINGER'S DEATH

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY LOSES VALUED MEMßER
The passing of Mr. Alberk Bramall on November 7th robs the Rugloy St, Andrew's hand of its oldest member and tho Warwiclishire Gusld of one of its few romajning pioneers. A robust man, he helied his 77 years by his bandling of the heavier bells, and until a month before his death was ever eager to turn in the 25 cut. tenor to a toach of Surprise
Mr. Bramall began his ringing career in 1886 at St. James', Grimshy and rang in a peal of Gramdsire Triples there of March 4th, 1889. His first peal, lowever, for the Lincolashire Guild (also Grandsire Trinles) was scored on August lath in the previous yent at 81 . Andrew's Church, Grimsby, where he may still be remembered as 'Old Blossomy.
His livelihood on the railway took him to Rugby in May, 1899. to be followed a year later by another Lincoln Guild enthusiast, Mr. J. B. Featon, and the present standard of change ringing at Rughy owes much to their early encouragenent on handhells.

Although Mr. Bramall rang but one penl for the warwickshire Guild, he has bren one of the most conscientious service and practice ringers during lis 40 years at Rugby, and he will be much missed for a very long time to come.
On Eunday, November 12 th, his colleazues paid their last tribute to him with balf-mufled touches of Stedman Triples before morning service, one of these being called by his son, Mr. Leslie Bramall, wha is the deputy ringing moster.

WAR TIME RINGING.

CFAPRAL COUNCIL AND MINLSTRY OF HOME SECURITY AN AGREED SEATEMENT. Fo the tiditor.  Dear Sir, - Since the early days of the war I have been in toucli with the Ministry of Home Security as to ringing in general, and am row able to publish the following agrced notice,A copy has been or will be sent to all affiliated associations and all members of the Council, and I an arrunging for a supply to be available for any tower secretary who may desire a copy. In the latter case a stamped addressed envelope will be appreciated.

All ringecs are urged to observe the requirements of the motice and to advise me of auy difficulties they may have with the authorities in theis district. In this way we shall avaid troubles, thely the Ministry and help ourselves.

I hava indicated to the Ministry that we are all prepared to help. and in their last letter they write:-

- I should like to talie this opportunity of cepressing our apprecia. tion of the co-operation which you have so kindly offered."

THE RINGING OF CHURCH BELLS

CIVIL DEFENCE REGULATIONS

Under the provisions of the Control of Noise (Defence) (No. 2 Order, 1939 , the sonnding of any instrument which might be inistaken by the public for an air ratd or poison gas warning sigasal is, in general, prohibited. The use of church or chapel bells or clock clumes in a customary manner is not, however, considered to be likely to cause confusion, and is not prohibited.
It is, nevertheless, desirable that urangements should be made for ringing (whether the bells he in rounds or changes) to cease immediately an air raid warning is given
To ensure that the bells stop immediately, in ringer ar same other resp onsible person should be posted outside the tower with aleans to como unicate the warning
Kingers are reminded that all ringing chambers, bell clanıbers and slaircases are subject to the lighting vestrictions, aud all lights therein must be adequately screened or, where this is not possible, must not bo used after sunset or hefore sumise.

The foregoing notice las been approved by the Ministry of Home Security All ringerg are rerged to observe the above requirements in the interest of public security and so that further restrictions may wot become necessary.

GEORGE W, FLTTOHRR,
Fon. Secretary, Central Council.

PEAL RINGING IN WAR TIME

Dear Sir, The Central Council's resolution of 1915, recalled by Rev. F. Ll. Fdwards is 'The Ringiug World ' for Nov, 10 th, regarding alustention from peal ringing during the Great War is interesting, but I hope it will not be taken as a binding precedent to be followed during the present war.

Tie attituda of the authorities is quite definitely in favour of the contimuance of normal activitjes, so loag as they do not lessen the nation's war effort. Forms of entertainment and sport have been ericouraged as far as possible, and peal ringing, which, together with association meetings, forms the secular sido of our art, seems to me to come definitely into this category. It might be argued that would not be desiralile to start for a peal on the day of the announcement of a big loss to our defence forces-though even that does not stop such things ms footbail matehes-but the only other reasons I ean see for stopping peal ripging are those which have already in some places stopped or curtailed service ringing. One of the most necessary things at the mesent time is to keep up the morele of the ordinary population and this will not be done if one's ordinery means of reereation are out off.

Obviously we cannot expect the usual number of peals to be rungdificulties of travelling and of maintaining bends are often too preat, but in places where this can be overcome peal ringing can do no harm to the country.

WIEFRLD G. WILSON.

WAR-TIME MEETINGS IN LANCASHIRE.

At a meeting of the Bolton Branch of the Lancashire Associntion on Saturday last, the arrangement of war-time meetings was discussed. It was decided to select a tower where the windows could he blacked out and at a church in the town until the evenings were lighter. Boltor is fortunate in loving seven rings of eight and one of six in the town itcelf. Ta some towers, when and how bells could be rung was a little doubtful, but the meeting felt thankful to the Editor of - The Rirging World' for clearing tho matter up-

The mefting was fairly well adtended, eight locsl towers lieing represented, and the visitors included the president and the secpetary of the Preston Pranch and Mr. Fred F. Rigby, a former branch Facmber, who has come beck from Bourvemouih to reside in the district.

SUCCESSFUL COMBINED PRACTICES.

ACTIVITY IB VARIOLS CENTRES.

A very successful combined prectice of the Cranlejgh-Ewhurst-Bramley-Wonersh block of towers was held at Cranleigh on Saturday aftermoon. November 18th, when 16 ringers and learmers were present fram six different towers, together with members of the local band. The eight bells were waised in peal at 3 o'clock, and between that tims and 5 a'clock, when the bells were lowered (again in peal), no time whatever was wasted, and riaging, from rounds to Double Norwich was continuous and enjoyed by all present. The opinion wes genevelly expressed that az enjoyable and useful afternoon had been spent, and that such practices were well worth arranging, especially under present circumstancest.
Arrangements have been aface for further such combined practices from 3 to 5 in the afternoon, to be held at Bramley, November 25th ; Shere, December 2nd; Bramley, December 9th; Ewhurst, December 16tin; Wonersh, Decemher 23rd; and Thamley, December 30th. A11 ringers will be wcleome, Combined practiees have been held ath varions towers in South Buckinghanskire on most sinturday alternoons since the outbreak of war. Tingers will be welcomed at Hughenden to-morrow and at Chailonl; St. Peter's on Saturday, December 20 d , both at 3 p.tm.

Recent practices at Stoke Poges and Clower Hava been onjoyed by those enthusiasts who put in an appearance, despile the war and the blick-out. Farjous methods were rung, including Surprise, some touches being nearly good chougli fou fluo secrelary. A start has been made with some evacuees, who will be useful when they roturn to London. The next practice is at Cookham to-morrow, but as some of the meetirgs are put on at short notice, it is as well to keep in touch with one of the "rogulars," in case there is not time to edvertise in 'The Ringing World.
It has been decided to visit the following towars on the dates mentioned for combined mractices: Erith (Chrigt Church), November 25th: Crayiord, December 2nai, Erith (St. John's), December 9th; Bexley, Decemher 16th; Dartford, Decenviber 23rd. 'Practices will then be repeakecl in the bame orter. The idea is to keep the goodly number of young ringers at Lhese towera interented.

THE RECORD PEAL OF MINOR CONGRATULATIONS FROM TASMANLA

Dear Sir,-Readers of "The Ringing World "will probably be interested to know how widely interest has been created by the band which rang the 104 metiod peal at Bighy on July 19th last. Amorgst the numerovs letters of congralulation one laas been received by me from Mr. A. R. Wilson, bon. secretnry of the Holy Trinity Bellringers' Association, Hobart, Tasmania, The members of the association sent their congratulations to the band who rang the peal.
Since riaging the 104 method peal, which was thought, at thr time, to be the extent of metlods in seven 720's, Mr. C. K. Lewis has found it possible to include 105 methods in seven extents. So the extent of methode has yet to be rung when we are in bappler times. Grasby, Lincoln.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON

HOW THE ROYAL CUMBERLAND SOCIETY WAS FORMED.

By J. Armiger Trollope.

Nowadays it is so unusual for any ringer not to lis a nember of one of the large societies or associations that we naturally think it was always so. But such was not the case.

The leading societies formerly were small and exclusive bodies, the members of which were closely associated together and formed one band only. There were, inderd, members who lived in the provinces or the outlying villages of Middlesex and Sutrey, but they hardly counted in the general life of the society. The band at headquarters flected only just a sufficient rumber of recruits to filt vacancies caused by deaths or retirement.

Societies so constituled were very liable to vicissitudes of fortune, and there were many causes which might easily bring the whole thing to an end. A quarrel, the death of the leading members, waning interest, or the slackness which comes with increasing years-any one might cause the break-up of the company; and so the life of most of these societies was not a long one. And especially the fortunes of these bodies depended on the possession of good leaders. Where there was a mast of energy and ability, there the society prospered. When such was lacking, there was decay and, usually, final extinction.

These considerations give us all we really need to know about the fate of the Society of London Scholars. It is most likely that they failed to adapt themselves to the changing conditions of the time, and after Doleman, in the early days of the eighteenth century, they do not appear to have had any leader of outstanding ability such as the College Youths found in Benjamin Annable, and the Union Scholars in John Holt. In 1742 some of their members joined the College Youths, and that probably marks the final Sreak-up of the society.

The Society of Cumberland Youths was formed from quite a different class of people. Outside the leading companies there were many ringers, loosely organised into bands, who met at different towers, and did most of the not inconsiderable amount of paid ringing there was to be done.

Who they were, what they did, and what peals they rang, have mostly been forgotten, but in Laughton's book we get a brief glimpse of some of these people. In all there were forty-two men associated with the Ramblers' Club in 1733 . Ten of them were, at the time, members of the Snciety of College Youths, one or two were, then or afterwards, members of the Eastern Scholars or the London Youths; but for the most part they were not members of any society that we know of.

They were ringers before the club was formed, and (we cannot doubt) they continued to be ringers after it was broken up. The majority of them lived in the north or north-eastern suburbs of the town. They rang at Christ Church, Spitalfields, and when Shoreditch Church was built and the new bells put up, they were the people who usually rang them.

As these men dropped out of ringing others took their places, and though they hadi, so far as we know, no formal society, there were all the materials for making one. All they needed was a first-class leader to organise them, and him they found at last in George Partrick.

Partrick was the real founder of the Society of Cumberland Youths; but for him it probably would never have existed, and since he had appeared it would still have come into being had the battle of Culloden never been fought.

This accounts for the discrepancy of the dates. When the society was founded it reeded a name. It was the fashion at the time all over England to call things after the Duke of Cumberland, and, since be was nowhere more popular than in Spitalfields and Shoreditch, it was natural enongh that the nut eonspany should be the Society of Cumberland Youtls. That special permission was given to use the name, or that the Duke knew anything about it, is not in the least likely. The medal worn by the Master to this day, is an impress of one that had been struck to commemorate Culloden, and it was given to the society, not by the Duke, but by William Manley, a gentleman who lived at Woldham Hall, near Rochester, and who was Master of the society in 1774.

The new socicty was formed on September 6th, $17+\overline{7}$, nearly eighteen months after the battie of Culloden, and the society's book leaves no doubt that it was a new company and not merely a change in the title of an old one.

The list of early members shows the connection, with the Ramblers' Club. Jeremiah Gilbert, Laughton's close friend, was one of the foundation menbers, and so was Joln Harrington, another Rambler, while the names of several others suggest that they were the sons or relatives of men who had been associated with Laughton.

Of George Partrick nothing apart from 'his ringing carcer is known. We are tempted to think he was a nember of a family which supplied more than one eminent ringer. There was a John Patrick, a leading composer at the end of the seventeenth century, two of whose six-bell methods are still rung. A nother John Patrick was Master of the College Youths in ${ }^{5} 736$, and Robert Patrick, laalf a century later, was an excellent ringer and a bell founder, who cast the bells at Bishopsgate and Hackney and the tenor at Cripplegate. At least his name is on these bells as founder, but whether he cast them himself is perliaps doubtful.

George Partrick was a composer, but only one of his compositions has survived. It is the well-known onepart peat of Treble Bob Major in twenty-two courses which, curiously enough, is generally attributed to John Patrick.

At Spitalfields and Shoreditch, a large colony of French refugees had settled and carried on the trade of silk weaving. The names of many the members of the new society show that they were of French extraction, and notably arnong them were Samuel and Francis Wood, whose family name had originally been Dubois. Francis Wood was the grandfather of Matthew Wood, whom older people stili remember to-day as one of the leading London ringers of a past generation.

This, then, is the genesis of the Society of Cumberland Youths, which was for many years so closely associated with the bells and belfry of St. Leonard's, Shoreditch. I have mentioned that during the first six or seven years after the bells were put up only a couple of peals are known to have been rung on them, and those by a visiting company. It is a not unlikely explanation that other peals had been rung by these men before they became the Society of Cumberland Youths, for, soon after they had (Continued on next page.)

NOHTHERN DIVISION'S SUCCUSSFUL YEAR.
The anmual meetmg of the Noriheru Division of tho Easex Assocsatiou took place ou Saturday, November 1lth, at Docking, 33 ringerb attending irom 15 different parishes. In view of the carcunstances which now prevarh, riuging commenced shortly after 2 p.in. aud was continued until 4 p.lln, when a short service was condueted by the Dean the Very Eov. E. Rogers, O.B.E.), and a collection for the Diell Restoration liund amounted to 85 . 4d. After the service ruging was resuaned antal dark, when the company adjourned to the Church Hall for tea, which wes followed by the business meeting.
Tha District Master (Mr. F. IndgWell) presided, and as splendid report on the year's work in tive division was read by the secretery (Miss Hilda Suowden). Mectings had been held at Coggeshall, Stisted, Delchamp St. Paut's and Bockmg, with an average attendance of 31 . Thu Yeldium weeting had wo bostponed owing to the outbreats of war. Niuc new raming members bad been elected. Tweaty-six peals lad been rung. The number was not so higlt as in other years, uwing to the difficuliy whiels had ariser from september, but the siandard was a great deal higher than ever heiore. The analysis showed that the fieals included three of Spliced Minor in 30,32 and 34 mothods, one each of Netherseale and Hourne Surpriso Minor, obe of Analable's Londou Minor, and soven more in other Minor methods; two of Saliced Londont, Brisuk, Cumbridge and Superlatte Siupprse Major, four Loudan Surprise Mixjor, two of Bristol, one of Superlative, hwo of Chnleridge and two of Bob Major. The conduclors were R. Bird (9), L. W. Wifen (8), C. W. Woolley (3), J. Jennings and I. Suckling ( 2 cadr), J. Filhott nud J, H. Crampion (one each). It was gratifying to note that the Spliced Surprise Major was rung eatirely by members of this division, under the conducturshtip of Mr. L. W. Wiffen. It was also extouraging to note that several young ringers rang their firsb peal Ior the election of ofticers Mr. L. W. Wiffer took the chair. Mr. F. Ridgwell expressed a wish that sopeone else should be elected to the Masterslip. It was, he said, an office that should go ronnd, and lie proposed that Mr. H. W. Smith be elected Master for the ensumg year.-This was seconded by Mr. F. Cleydon amd carried.
Mr. L. W. Wiffen, on belialf of the members, thanked Mr. Ridgwell for his past services.
WTiss Bild Snowden was re-elected hon, secretury on the proposihimm of R. Suckling, seconded by C. Burton
Three new ringing members were elected.
A difcussion followed as to what shoule be done in the division during the war, and all werc in favour of the proposition that practies be held at available towers every second Saturday in the month, the secretary making the necessary inçuiries nad arrangements.
Thas possibility of future neetings was left to tho secretsry, wlen information was forthcouing regarding towers that were ayailable.
The Mester proposed a vole of thanks to the Dean, and Mrs. Rogers and fist willing liclpers for the tea. He also welcomed the Sulm-Dean's presence.-Tlise Dean briefly replied been organised and George P'artrick had assumed control, they became one of the most prolific peal-ringing bands in the metropolis.

But, though the Cumberlands looked on St. Leonard's as especially their tower, and practised there regularly, they never enjoyed a monopoly of the bells. The belfry was always open for peal ringing to any band who could get the right side of the steeplekeeper and, presumably, pay the recognised steeplage fee. It was not due to any generosity or tolerance on the part of the Cumberlands, for, as we had evidence in the account of the opening of Horsleydown bells, the relations between rival hands were normally anything but friendly. It seems that there were some towers where the local authorities did not mind how nuuch ringing there was, and raised no objection if the bells were rung on two or three nights in every week.

REVIVAL OF MEETINGS.

The revival of activity among ringers all over the country is very emphatically evidenced by the large number of meetings advertised in our lasi issue. Nearly forty such gatherings were announced. It is gratifying that the associations are getting back, as nearly as conditions permit, to a normal procedure, and now that they have had time to take stock of the position, we hope they will find it possible to carry on with the good work. One doubtful point, at any rate, has been settled, and the position of church bellringing luas been made absolutely clear by the Ministry of Home Security. There is no need for further hesitation among either clergy or association officials in providing opportunities for meetings. We can only repeat that for the maintenance of the art, and with it service to the Church, as well as providing a contribution to the upkeep of the public morate-for the cessation of all but war activities would quickly have a depressing effect-there is every justification for keeping the hells of the churches ringing for rormal purposes. And in this connection meetings and practices have their. part. The question of peal ringing may come in a slightly different category, but there are occasions when even peals may be ring without any affront to public sentiment.

The " black ous ' is the most serious handicap to ringing at the moment. The lighting restrictions must be complied with, and there are many belfries where the making of effective provision under the regulations is almost out of the question, on account of the size of the belfry windows. The towers with only small window openings, which in ordinary times are often looked upon with disfavour, have come into their own, as it were, for they can now be effectively blacked out, whereas the well-lighted towers are debarred from use after nightfall. Nevertheless ringers are overcoming the difficulties by holding their practices on Saturday aftemoons, as we suggested immediately after war began. There is, however, one point in connection with these Saturday afternoon practices that should he borne in mind. They should not be allowed to clash with association official meetings. Local practices ought always to give way for the larger gatherings of this kind, not only because they are more important, but also because the ringers owe a loyalty to the associations, which demands co-operation in making the meetings a success. In normal times, Saturday meetings do not clash with practices, which ordinarily take place on other evenings of the week, but now that the black-out has put an end to ringing after nightfall in so many places, Saturday afternoons are the (Continued on page 724.)

only alternative. There seems, however, to be some evidence that these Saturday practices are interfering with the attendance at the association meetings that are now being arranged, and at Kilburn, on Saturday, the question formed the subject of a resolution at a gathering of the Middlesex Association. After all, meetings are in themselves a practice and, indeed, usually provide a more advanced practice than can be got at the average tower by a local band. There is need in these days for every encouragement to be given to ringers to support the efforts of the associations, and it is hardly fair to those responsible for arranging the meetings that there should be rival claims, as it were, in the same locality. There should be a full measure of co-operation in this matter, and we feel sure that ringers have only to give the matter a moment's serious thought to see which way their duty lies.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

CANON COLERIDGE'S ADVICE.

The joy and wonflenco which bellringing gives to the public during war time was referred to at the anmual meeting of the Newbury Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, held ut St. Nicholas Parish Room, Newbury, on Saburday, November 18Lh. This was coupled with appeals to rixgers to carry on as usual duving the troublous fimes ahead.

- We lave got to put oun hauds to the rope aud keep goiny until every tower resounds o'er hill and dale the message of peace, said Canon G. F. Coleridge. 'We are up against plenty of difleulties, but nevertheless the Guild is still full of life.' Ee colagratulated the Newbury Bratrch on their pluck and determination in arranging the meeting and on having such a good attendance under the circumstarnees.
The Rev. W. Kingsley Kelford (chairnan) said there was nothiag like a peal of bells to give cheer and encouragement to the people. On every Sunday, and weekdays as well if poasible, they wanted to hear church bells ringing Írom every tower. If ringing ceased, Sunday services would be liko a garden without fowers.
Mr. R. T' Hiblert ('general gearetary) appealed to those present not to allow either the Guid, the Newbury Branch or the towers to slip buk "lhey should remember that Sunday seryice ringing should be the greatest pleasure of aringer's life.

DEATH OF MR. 'TED' HADLOW.

STEEPLEKEEPER AT GRAVESEND PARISE CHUREF.
Tlike death ocurred suddenly ou November 20th of Mr. Edward Hadlow, of St. Thomas Almslouses, Wrotham Road, Gravesend. He was 90 years of rge.
Mr. Hindlow was one of the best known men in the district. He was one of the oldest bellmgerg in Kent and lad been in church choirs nearly ail his life.
He had been streplelieeper at St. Gcorge's for many years. One of tha bolls thele is tascribed with lis name, for, when the bells were restored 17 years ago, Mr. Hadlow personally coliected ahout $£ 550$ for the restaration fund.
At in very early age he assisted his father, who was sexton at Harrielsham Church for 50 years.
Some years rgo he took part in a peal in which all the riggers were named Edward. On has bindhday each year special peals were rung in his honour at St. George's.
He lrad had a varied career. He was employed at sevoral windmills, including Lenlaam Feath, Lenham Town, Hendcorn black mid and Headcorn white mill.
He was in tho Canterbury Borougli Police Force and Kent County Cosscolulary; He had also been a 「oreman in a frait stores, engind cleaner, ship's stewrard, book-keeper and, prior to his retirement, a dock labourer.
He came to Gravenend ahout 46 yenrs ago. He lived in Spencer Street fol some 20 years and on his tetircment six years ago moved to St. Thomas A Amshouses.
He was a menther of St. George's Parochial Chureh Council, a member of the Kent County dssociation, abd a momber of the Gravesend Philharmonic Society.
Ta addition to the widow, five sons and a daughter are bereaved. One, Leslic, was recently promated inspectar in the Kent Constabulary and is at Asliford.
The funeral took place on Thursday. A service at St, Georges Parigh Church preceded the interment in Gravesend Cemetery. The Rector and Eural Dean (Canon F. T. Sonthgate) ofliciated. The choir were present.

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER.

MORE ABOUT METHOD CONSTRUCTION.

The best music, from the point of view of the listener, whether he be a ringer or one of the general public, is produced by those methods, in the plain course of which the natural Coursing Order of the bells is not altered, except by the varying position of the trebie.

The reason is that a regular beat of the bells is sustained which, with good striking, gives that impression of musical rhythm which forms the main charm of change ringing for the listener.

This is usually described as 'keeping the tenors together,' but a good deal of nonsense has been talked about keeping the tenors together. Peaple have argued that because in London Surprise Major the number of changes in which the seventh and the eighth are not parted by more than one or two bells greatly exceed those in which they are so parted, therefore the method preduces excellent music. We have heard that said at Central Council meetings, and by eminent people, but not, we believe, by anyone who had rung much of the method, or had any very keen ear for striking or the finer points of bell music.

Now, the only operations which do maintain the Coursing Order unbroken, except for the varying position of the treble, are those which we have described under the names of the Extreme and Court Shunts. Therefore, when we are studying method construction, the first thing we must do is to see what are the methods which these Shunts produce.

Perhaps, to avoid misunderstanding, we ought to say that there is one other Shunt which comes very near giving the same effect as these do, but that cannot be dealt with now.

If you have written out all the possible leads on eight belis, each with one of these Shunts in a different position, you will find that you have got two possible Extremes, A and B, and two possible R. Court Shunts with the treble going from front to back.

If we work out the combinations of these we shall have all the methods on the plan which are now considered regular.'
For it is a condition required of methods that they should be 'symmetrical,' which, for our present purposes, means that if an R. Court Shunt is made in $3-4$, when the treble is hunting up, another must also be made in 3-4, when the treble is hunting down, and if an R. Court Shunt is made in $5-6$, when the treble is lunting up, another must be made in $5-6$, when the treble is lunting down. So that we can work out our methods by pricking the first half-lead, and the rest follows automatically. .

Now take pencil and paper and work out the methods.
With Extremes alone, we have three-Plain Boh, Reverse Bob, and Double Bob.

With R. Court Shunts alone we have also threeplaces in $3-4$, places in $5-6$, and places in both $3-4$ and 5-6.
To each of the methods produced by the R. Court Shunts we can add one of the three combinations of Extremes, which will give us nine more methods, or fifteen in all.

From a musical point of view these fifteen are the very pick of Major methoós. Some of them (Double Norwich, for instance, which has the two R. Court Shunts), are well enough known, and are popular, but all of them deserve a greater amount of attention and practice than they have as yet received.

There remain the P. Court Shunts. These, as we said, keep the natural Coursing Order, but have the defect that, wher used by themsetves, they cause bells to lead or lie for four consecutive blows.

We can, however, remove this defect if we use the $P$. Court Shunt in $4^{-5}$ between two R. Court Shunts, as shown in the annexed half-lead.

That will give us a method which is quite distinct from the others and far more difficult to ring.

Every one of the Extremes and Court Shunts, by itseff, will produce the lead-end 3527486 , which is the first leadend of Bob Major. Two of them in a lead will produce a lead-end which is the second lead-end of Bob Major. Three will produce the third lead-end. And so on. You can always tell lead-ends of these methods from the number of Shunts they contain.

In the method just given (which is Double Coslany Cours) there are six Shunts. If we add an Extreme (either A or B), we shall have seven. That means that the treble will have completed its cyclical path through the Coursing Order of the working bells, and the bells will run round at the first lead-end. But if we add both Extremes, we shall have a method (Double Mancroft), in which the first lead-end is the same as the first lead-end of Plain Bob.

On ten and twelve bells, combinations of Extremes and Court Shunts will give a large range of most excellent methods. Some of them are very difficult indeed to ring, but all of them, from the point of view of the outside listener, are much superior to the Surprise methods which, up to now, have attracted the attention of ten and twelvebell ringers.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCEATION.

MEFTING AT Kllbuhn.

The North and East District meeting at st. Augusime's, Kilburn, on Saturday, November 25 th, was attenied by upwards of 25 rimgers, and the bells were rung in rounds and a variety of methods until 5 p.m. Frayers and a short address were followed by tea, after which the company sat around a nice coal fire to atitend to husiness. It was the general ppinion of those present that, while local towers showed enthusiagm by holding Saturday afternoon meetinge when the usual week-dap evening proctice was not possible, support, should be giver to the district meatings by cancelling, if necessary, fle local practice.
It was decided to lold the next meeting at St. Matthew's, Dpper Clapton, if available, on Saturday, January 6th, 1940, which would be followed by the annual district meeting at St. Giles'-in-the-Fields on Seturday, January 27th.
After the business liandbells were brought into gool wse and were the concluding item of an enjovable gathering.

NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION

On Oetoher 21st a general practice was held at Longtar (eight bells), at which the attendance was fairly mood and the following towerz were represented : Leek, Stoke, Burslem, Hanley, Draycott. Cheadle and Longton. The following methods were rung : Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob Major, Kent and Osford Treble Bob Majar, Stedman Triples and Double Norwich.
A welcome visitor was a ringer from Loncon, who at present is staying in the district and has been giving a helping hand at the Stoke tower on Sundays. The ringers in the district are doing their best to carry on with the art.
At ah the towers ringing is as usual on Sundays. Some of the members have joined the Forces, but those who are left are struggling on and pushing the young ringers forward.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

HHNCKLEY DISTRICT.

Members and frieuds of the Hinckley District mat at Croft on November 18th. They came from Broughton Astley, Burbage, Croft, Earl Shilkon, Hinckley, Peckleton, Sharniord, Thurlaston and Keresley (Coventry).
Good ves was made of the light six bells until dusk, by which time Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob Minor, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Dubble Court and Cambridge Surprise Miwor had been rung.

The service laving been concelled, the bells were lowered in peal, and tho company, 24 in number, partook of an excellent tea, arranged by the lacal ladies, in the nearby sehoolroam.

At the short business meeting, presided over by the district chairman, it was announced that the zext meeting would be at Hinckley on December 9th, and arrangemeats for tea and the use of a room for the evening were in hand. Although tower ringing would of necessity be of shori duration, there would be ample opportunity for handbell ringing and for the enjoyment of that 'get together' epirit for which the Hinclaley District is notied.
Mr. C. H. Webt asked the meoting to stend for a few moments in token of sympathy with Mrs, Bailess and family in their very recent beresvement. Mr. Webb gaid he had known the lato Mr. Bailess for nany years, and althougli he had not been a ringer, his sons were. One was the local captain. Mrs. Bailess had expressed the wish that the meeting and tea should be carried on as usual.
Ringers were invited to attend the Earl Shilton practice nighte on Wednesdrys from 7.30 to 8.30 , the tawer Feving been paccessfully blacked aut for the purpose.
Thanks to the local latios and to Mr. J. Bajless for their excellent tea arragements comeluded the meeting.
Continuous rain by this time had get in, so the company passed the time handbell ringing until a suitable room over the way had been specially blacked cut. The company then moved over and spent a mosk enjovable time. Handbells were in continual ose, several having their first attempt "inside." Others, more expert, showed how it should be done.

DUBLIN REMEMBRANCE SERVICE

A NOTTINGHAMSHIRE RESTORATION.

DPARH-WATOH BEETLE AT LANGAR, NOTTS

The Church of St. Aadrew, ut Langar, Notts, which has been called "the Cathedral of the Vate of Belvoir," suffered the revages of the death-watch beetle in the belfry about three years ago.

Originally there were four bells. The frat beil was dated 1671, the second 1636 , the third 1601 , ent the fourth 161I. These were recest in 1859 and, through the magnificent efiort of the late Rev. Thomas Butler, tho then Rector, father of the famous Samuel Butler, a fittl bell was added. The tenor weigha 12 cwt.

Tle mischief caused by the deatll-watch beetle has been repaired by Messrs. Joln Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, to the complete satiafaction of all, especially the ringers, who attended the dedication of the work on Sunday afternaon, November 19 th .

The service was conducted by the Rev. A. Chaplin, Rector of Cotgrave and Rural Dean of Bingham. Tho bella are ruag on the ground foar, the tewer being in the centrs of the church, and, daring the siaging of the hymo whieh followed the address, the crowded congregation saw the bells raised in peal by Ralph Hardy 1, Leplie Holinand 2, Ralph Narborough 3. Harald Parfrement 4, Walter Nichols 5 all members of St. Mary's, Nottingham. When the bymn finished the beils were ruag for a feg moments in rounds. After the service severa! 120's of Crandsire Doubles were brought round, conducted by Messts. Nichols and Parfrement, to the deliphe of the imhabitants who had not heard their bells for ra&ny years. Several other ringers then took phrt in tigging, amongal, those present being Mr. W. Whate, of Cotgrave, the hon. Treasurer of the Midiand Counties Association.
Afterwaris the Rector kindy entertained the ringers to lea st the Rectory and thanked Mr. Narharough for all hife efforts in helping to see their restoration saccessfully carried ous. He told the ringers that he wonld mow commence to raise funds to add a treble to meke a peal of six.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The war-time derangement of the postal services and the necessity of getting the copies of ' The Ringing World ' into the hands of the publishers earlier on Thursday make it absolutely essential that all contributions to our columns, and particularly all notices, should be in our hands by MONDAY in each week. We camnot guarantee the insertion in the following issue of anything received later.

We hope that secretaries will send us prompt reports of their meetings, and we shall welcome any items of news relating to ringers and ringing, but they must reach us early.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Severn! handbell pcals lave been rung this week, and congralulations will be extended to the band et Walton, Liverpool, all of whou scored their first 'in hand.'
THis peal of seven T20's of Kent Treble Bob Minor is tho result of eight weeks patjent practice. When they first met they tried all the methods they knew and mads no progress mitil they came to their senges, , gs our correspondent puts it, and rang nothing but Kent. Then they achiaved the success recorded elsewhere.
We congratulate Canon Morshall on his first handbell peal rung lagt Saburday, This was the Grst time, wo beliere, that a president of the Yorkshire Association lias rubg a peal in hand.
On November 28th, 1774, tho Society of Al! Saints' Youlhs, of Wormester, rang 7,326 elianges of Grandeire Caters. As the bells came round the tenor clapper feli cut. On the same date its 1829 the Gutaherlands rang the firgt peal on the bells at St. James'. Bermondsey, The wethod wes Oxford Treble Mob Zoyal, and the bobs were called by the younger George Groas.
Willium Douhledey Grofte, nf Nathingham, died on Novamber goth, 1809.

T To-day is the enmiversary of one of the earliest peals. At Greenwicl: 'the Sccietry of Kentish Youths Rung on Fryday ye lst of Decemr, 1732, A Peal of 5040 Grandsire Tripples in the Eiglith Month of their [rective." The record in the helfry, which for many years was hidden, has rocently been uncovered. On Decemher 461 h , 1603 , the Kensington hand, with Edward Bertell from Spitalfields, rang the first peal of Stedman Triples which we know to heve been true. On December $6 h_{\text {, }} 1731$, the Notwich men rang the second five thousand ever accomplished in the method. The conposition is lost, but, short of a miracle, cannot bave heen true.
By calling the peal of Doubles at Poulton-le-Fylde last Saturdey, Mr. Charles Sharples has now rung a peal of Grandsite on all numbers from Doubles to Cirques. The peal of Cinques was that rung in Melbourne, Australia, on November 11th, 1934.
The other liwe thousend of Grandsire Doubles reparted in uur peat column was rung to celebrate the election of the Rector. Whe Rev. E. H. F. Campbell, to a prebend in St. Patrick's Cathedral. It was also a hirthday compliment to Mr. Gabriel Lindoff. Miss Ada Dukes, who rang the third, is the first resident Irishwoman to ring a peal.
Next Tuesday is the birthday of Mr. J. W. Joncs, the popular eecretary of the Llardaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association. We offer bin our congratulations.
Next Wednesday is the seventjeth anniversary of a peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Sauthover, Lewes, Sussex, on December 6th, I869. The band was niade up of six Lewes and two Brighton ringers, and the father and grandfather of the Editor of "The Ringing World' took part. Had it not been for the war a commemorative peal would have beeu attemptect.

A BAGLEY RELL FRAME.

STTLI, SOUND AFTER 250 YEARS. To the Enitor.
Sir, -I natice in 'The Ringing World ' of a few weeks ago an moticle about Henry Begley.
A few monthe ago I put in many hours cleaning and creosoting the timhers of our bell chamber at Willesbourne, in Waruickshire. These timbers were put in by Herry Bagley when the ring of six was put in in 1681. Thera have been no alterations to the timbers of the ange, but the third and fourth bells had new wheels and stocks fitted about 30 years ago. The timbers are still perfectly sound and the ring still pealable, although some of the bearings need replacing nnd tightening.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD-

MEEPING AT JEATHERHEAD.

No [ewer than 17 towers were represented at the mecting of the Leatherbead Dist rict of the Guilfford Diocesan Guild at Leatherherd on Saturday, and iss spite of the very mixed bauds, the ringme on the whole was good and covered a wide range. includiug rounds and beveral Surprise Major and two Surprise Royal neethods. So it will be gathered that it was a meeting of enthusiasts in all stages.
Owing to the church not being lilacked out, there was no service, hut the Ficar (the Rev. G. H. B. Coleridge), with lis usual enthusiesm for ringers, cance and presided at tea and the business meeting, which took place in the club room of the Duke's Head.
The retiring district officers were all renominated, despite a plen by Mr. A. Harman that comeone should take his place as Finging Master. The Ficar gaid he was surry that circumatnmes nande a service impracticable, but he welcomed the ringers to Leatherhead, especially as he noticed niany who were strangers to him, and he loped it might be possible to hold a servfee at the next mecting in February.
Ringing was resumed until 9 o'clock.

ANCIENT CUSTOMS.  EARLI RLNGING PRACHICES.

To the Editor

Dear sir, Whr work and illness have combined to hinder a reply to Wr. Trollope's letter sooncl
In order to show that I aun ' very lititle acquainted ' with the mather of ringing in 1539 , he quotag doenmenls dated 1600 , 1630 and 1636 ; about a century too latel Even then the quotations do not mention changes 'llung in compass,' or "more coupass,' might to-dey imply change ricging, or zhey might not. At the dates mentioned the question is more doubtful stili. However, if Mr. Trollope wants to suggest that they were ringing changos at Halesworth in 1539 I do not wish to contradict hima.
I quite agree with him about call changes. In fact, I dragged thew in,' as loe puts it, for this purpose
As for foreign bells not heimg in tune, all those which I beve heard out of Frigland have been fin tune, which is more than I can say for those in Liggland. Once, for a year, I lived near a well-tuned octave (in a Roman Catholio Cathedral), but it was never rung in rounds, always "jangled.' Thits disposes complevely of Mr. Troflope's argument that bells must hare been rung in rounds, because they wore casti in exalc. Indeed, it is so untiknly that one cannot believe it. All other instrameats are tuned in scale, why ghould bells be any diJerent Rounds are not of ten played on other instrumests (and titen only as exercises), why should they he rang on bells? The answor, of course, is that rounds ara one row in changes. Until clanges were rung, no one would think of ringiag rounds. They whuld be too oljectionable!
If Mr. Trollope had remenilsered the whole of Ophelia's lamens when she believes Famlet to ba mad, le wauld harely have quoted just four words. Here is more of what she says on Hamlet's exit:O, what a noble mind is here o'erthrown!
Now see tint noble and most sovereign renson,
Like sweet hells jangled, tut of tune and harsh;
That aurantehed form and Centure of blown youth,
Blasted wilh ecstasy.
Mr. Trollope 5 ays that Shakespeare uses the word "jangled. in ased the word a few line hach. I think that anyone who has rend so far will have understood quite well what I mernt, and moreover would have used it himself, had he wanted to express the eame meaning. Yet I certainly did not use it in the sense that Sluakespeare nses it, nor would any of your readers. The bells I heard were nether ont of tume nor harsh; nor would anyone hearing them jangled, es I did, lave thought the sound the leask bit like madness. In case anyone may olject that these were modern hells, I may point out that we have in the five-bell tower of St. lawrence, Ipswich, a ring of loells whicil ring now exactly as they did in Shakespeare's time; nay evex in the year 1539, of whel we ure speating, and pertheps yearz hefore that. I Jave Jeard these well-tuhed mad sweet bells jangled by beginners, and I havo heard them well struck by ekilled ringers, but there wus, in either nase, notling that would make me think of one deranged; nor would any why of manipulating them have done so.
Now suyposing a number of vary fiae instruments were gathered logether, and they were piayed at once without any tuning, eibler of the insiruments themselves or with one another, would not that make one think of madiress? It mirit, however, be objected that a crowd of madmen would be conjured up. Suppose, ther, that one sounds a few bolls, taken at random, in tura neither with themselves nor with one anoliner, wauld not the result be liarsin and juat like the crude and disconnected musing of a madman? Is not this what was in Slimespeare's mind, when he wrote of sweet bella jangled? Instruments that might be so sweet, if only theis harsliness and lack of ture were put into proper order.

I have mow shown two things. First that the word "jangled 'took an a new meaning (which it could not heve had before) an the introduction of change ringing. All the ringer would now mean by the word, that bells are not "well struck. but clathing, and with illarranged intervals, and so ara. So much will meet with gemeral As a corollary to this, I would suggest that before change ringing was introduced, luells were always jangled, as we now put, it, and never rang in rounds or call changes. This is more disputable; and Mr. Trollope takes छlie other Fiew from mine.

Tlie sempd thing that I have shown is that Shakespeare used the word ' jangled " in its pre-change ringing meaning. This be must have done, as he was nat accustomed to listen to changes being well struek ar even strucls at all. If. however, Mr. Trollope can prove that Slinkespeare fid hear change ringing, zo one would be better pleased than I But I fear he cannat do so from the words he has quoted
It is a great comfort that Mry. Trollope, at any rate, knows exactiy what was in the mind of Kisiup Grandison and Martin Bucer. But when lo speaks of "particular circumstances' he is agrecing with me. All I olject to is anyone gayiug that drinking connected with ringing aluyys took place in the belfry. Usually there were fend often still are) places oustade the church where ringera mat. And at several places ahere I have seen rixgers' jugs they could not have heen taken up the stairs if foter were full.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.  FAMOUS RECORDS AT ST. LEONARD'S, SHOREDITCH,  By J. Armiger Trollope.

The first peat by the Society of Cumberland Youths was rung at Shoreditch on November 19th, 1749. The method was Bob Major, and the conductor was George Partrick. Three days later the same band (except for one man) rang a peal of Double Bob.

For about ten years Partrick continued to be the leader of the society and chief conductor; then he quarrelled with his friends and went over to the ancient Society of College Youths, with whom he rang a few peals. He was soon back again with the Cumberlands, however, and for the rest of his life was an honoured member of the company, but the conducting for the most part felt into the hands of younger men.
Whije Partrick was leader, the society rang at St. Leonard's one or two peals of special interest.
On March 28th, 1750, they scored a peal of New Bob Triples, the first and, I believe, the only one in the method ever rung.
New Bob Triples is the seven-bell extersion of New Bob Doubles, which, notwithstanding its name, is one of the oldest of methods. It was in existence before Richard Duckworth wrote the ' Tintinnalogia,' and both on five and seven bells is worthy of practice to-day.
On October 12th, 1754, Partrick calied 'Mr. John Holt's celebrated peal of Grandsire Tripples with a single at the half-way.' This is usually supposed to be the first performance of the ten-part, and the peal book seems to claim it as stach. But in the previous May and June, William Underwood had called peals of Grandsire Triples at Romford and St. George's-in-the-East for the Eastern Scholars. The second one was said to be with two singles, and it is difficult to suppose what other composition it can have been than the ten-part.
The peal had been composed before 1758 , perhaps a little earlier, for it is written out in the mutilated manuscript which once belonged to the College Youths and is now in the British Museum. We rather wonder why Holt did not call it himself, as he did the earlier Original. His last peal (which he conducted) was one of Grandsire Caters at St. Sepulchre's on the last dav of 1752.
The Cumberlands had a habit of calling by their own name any variation of the standard methods that they rang. Other people did not adopt the names, and so, to-day, we are often at a loss to know what actually was rung. Among the performances at St. Leonard's were Cumberland Bob in 1753, Cumberiand Grand New Double in 1755 , and Cumberland Fancy in 1761. They also rang Cumberland Pleasure at Whitechapel. Cumberland Fight-in at St. George's-in-the-East, and Cumberland Treble Bob Maximus at Southwark. The last two, it is pretty certain, were the first peals ever rung of Grandsire Maior, and Kent Trehle Twelve.
When the bells at St. Leonard's were made into a ring of ten, it was the College Youths who rang the first peal on them, not the Cumberlands. The latter were having a lean time, owing. no doubt, to one of the quarrels which were so frequent in these old companies. From April, 1764, until Oetober, 1766 , they did not score a single five thousand.
The College Youths' peal was 5.112 changes of Grandsire Caters, rung on September 29th, 1765, and conducted by William Underwood. A little more than a couple of months later the same society rang 5,202 changes of Double Grandsire Caters.

On October 49th, 1766, the College Youths, with George Meakins as conductor, rang the first peal of Royal in the steeple. It was 6,000 changes of Oxford Treble Bob, and began the series of long lengths on the bells which still forms, perhaps, the most interesting ringing contest in the history of the art.
In the previous year, James Barharn and his band at Leeds in Kent had rung 6,000 changes in the method, but the London men knew nothing of that, or, if they had heard of it, they thought little of the other men's ringing.

Three months after Meakins' peal it was beaten by the London Youths, who rang 6,200 changes. The peal was composed and conducted by Christopher Wells, who was the first man to discover that Treble Bob Major nay be true at the lead-ends and yet have repetition in the interior of the leads. Nevertheless, the peal of Royal that he called was a false one.
So, too, was one of 7,080 changes rung three months later by the Cumberlands with John Reeves as conductor, but whether it was false in the composition or the ringing we do not know. The band was a first-class one. It included Charles Purser, George Gross, John Povey, Francis and Samuel Wood, and Samuel Muggeridge al the tenor.
Muggeridge was, perhaps, the best tenor man of the day; Purser, Gross, Reeves, Povey and Samuel Wood were among the leading conductors of the century; and John Reeves was one of the cleverest composers the Exercise has ever produced.

What happened we do not know, but it looks as if there was a violent quarrel, and the performance was not entered in the peal hook. Reeves left the society and, though he came back again for a short time after a few years, it is clear that there was bad feeling between him and George Gross, which lasted for the rest of their lives. After this the contest died down for a while, but it broke out again in 1777 with redoubled force.

The Cumberlands started on January 20th with 6,240 changes, which they claimed as "the first true 6,000 and the most ever rung.' George Gross was now the society's conductor, and the tenor was again rung by Samuel Muggeridge.
On February 18th, the College Youths, perhaps with the idea of settling the contest once and for all, rang ten thousand changes in 7 hours and 28 minutes. Charles Purser who, in the meanwhile, had left the Cumberlands, called the bobs from the fourth; John Povey, who had also gone over, rang the fifth, and the tenor was rung by Muggeridge's son, who was also named Samutel.

This performance set the Cumberiands a hard nut to crack, but they did not intend to be beaten. Their doubt seems to have been concerning their tenor man. The elder Muggeridge probably did not consider himself young enough to attempt a ten thousand on a 30 cwt . bell, otherwise we should have had the interesting spectacle of the tenor men of the two competing societies being father and son.

The Cumberlands had, therefore, to find a new tenor man, and they solved the difficulty by putting Samuel Wood and Robert Mann, who had rung the eighth and minth to the 6,240 , on to the ninth and tenor.
But, before starting for the record length, as practice they rang 5,080 changes. on March 12th and 8,120 on April 5th.
On May 10th they rang 10,200 changes, and so gained the record, but they held it for nine days only, for the band of College Youths that had scored the ten thousand, ' insatiated with glory, as they described themselves, rang 11,080 changes, and so grasped the palm of victory, which remained in their hands for seven years. A month earlier, at Southwark, they had also gained the twelvebeil record.
The Cumberlands' long peals at Shoreditch were composed by George Gross, the College Youths' by Charles Purser. We know something, but not much, about Gross as a composer; we know nothing about Purser. All the peals of Treble Bob by both men are lost, and the best we can say is that Gross' may have been true, and that Purser's may not have been false.

The climax of the long peal contest came in 1784 . On March 10th, the College Youths, by ringing 7,008 changes at Southwark, regained the twelve-bell record which in 1778 had gone to Norwich; and on March 27th, by ringing 12,000 changes, at Shoreditch, the Cumberlands finally gatned the ten-bell record.

George Gross called the peal, as he did the other long lengths. The composition was by John Reeves, but on the board and in the peal book it was claimed as the production of Gross. Here we may see one of the causes of the ill-feeling between the two.

Only thrce of the hand who rang the 10,200 in 1777 took part in the 12,000 . The new tenor man was Allen Grant.

No long peal in the history of change ringing has captured the imagination of the Exercise quite as much as this one did. A century later, Jasper Snowdon could still refer to it as a performance which was not likely to be approached, let alone exceeded in his time.

When, late at night, on March 27th, the Cumberlands walked through a cheering lane of people from Shoreditch tower to the White Hart, the society stood at the supreme moment of its history, and its leader had staked out a claim to be the foremost ringer of his generation. Three months later a violent quarrel had split the company, Gross had broken with his friends, had left them and started a new society.

BEDFARD TOWER'S I.OSS.  DEATH OF TWO MEMBERS.

The Bedfordshire Association has lately had to mourn the loss of two of jts memhers, hoth from the St. Pral's, Bediord, company. Mr. Ferbert Sharp, botter known as "Iack' to ringers in Beds nnd Northents, passed away on September 24 th at the age of 68 . He har been in fajling health for soma time, burt in spite of acute deafness kopt on his ringimg till his last illness. He learnt to ring at Clapham and then went to live for some genrs in Northamptonshire, wheye he developed into a very fine heavy heli ringer. Later, returning to Bedford, he was one of the foremost ringers of the day. His meny peals included the first of Cambridge Surprise Major and of seven Surprise Minor methods for the Bedfordshire Association,

Mr. Edgar Tingey died on Novemher $12 t h$ after a paiuful iliness lasing ten weeks. He was 58 years of gge. He started to ring at an early afe and rang a mumber of peala up and down the mountry. He wss secretary to the St. Paul's company and his quiet influence in the tower will be much missed.

RAISE THE STANDARD OF STRIKING.

War's effects upon ringing are felt in many ways. Some of the restrictions compelled by the emergency are being slowly overcome, but the difficulties of man power are likely to increase rather than diminish. National service, in one form or another, is taking men from the belfry, and many bands are already sadly depieted. There is, however, every reason why those who are left should increase their efforts to fill the gaps by enlisting recruits, and it is possible that, when nearly everyone is anxious to do something to help, not only in the national cause, but also in social and other services, it may be easier now to get fresh people interested than it is in normal times, when counter pleasures of less useful character claim more attention. But however badly a band may be hit by the call for men in other and more important spheres, there is never reason for giving up the attempt to improve the standard of ringing by practising to raise the level of striking.

The loss of ringers from a belfry may hold up progress in method ringing, but there need be no slackening of effort to improve what is even more important than the ability to ring a method, and that is the skill to strike a bel! properly. There is some truth in the allegation that striking is often sacrificed to method ringing, and ringers are all too frequently encouraged to take up advanced method ringing before they are able to put a bell accurately in its place in rounds. The fallacious argument is used that if a man learns to ring a method, the striking will come with practice. But very frequently it doesn't. The ringer has to put into ringing the method what he ought to be putting into his striking, and the result is that many a good method ringer continues throughout his career to be an indifferent striker. Not enough attention is paid to the importance of good striking. Bad striking may be due to a variety of causes, but to none, we believe, more than to ton much impatience to push the young ringer into change ringing before he is adequately equipped. Incompetent instruction, inefficient handling, inability to use ears as well as eyes, are all causes of poor ringing, but the erroneous idea of pushing beginners as quickly as possible into change ringing is responsible for more bad striking than perhaps anything else.

The remedy is to devote more time to putting a polish on the beginner as a striker, and leaving method ringing to take care of itself for the time being, instead of pushing the scientific side to the detriment of the manual. In days gone by it was often complained that beginners were leff to sit on the helfry form, white their elders had their (Continued on page 726.)

change-ringing practice. It may be that in some such cases the beginners' enthusiasm waned, but where it was strong enough to survive a better ringer was almost certainly the result. What practice he got was all put into his striking and, in the long run, he was made a better ringer, as a striker, than many of the beginmers who to-day are either pushed on too last or who, cager to catch up with the rest, endeavour to run before they can walk.

These thoughts lead to the suggestion that, now that method ringing is necessarily limited in many towers, more attention should be paid to cultivating good striking. And if this is a step to be encouraged at local practices, it is certainly equaliy essential at meetings and combined practices. The desire to provide opportunities for method advancement should not be allowed to override the importance of grood striking for, after all, good striking is the essence of chutch beliringing. Bad striking can be an intolerable nuisance to the public, as well as an irritation to good ringers, but it takes only one indifferent hand in a company to spoil the efforts of all the rest. Ringers are often over-sensitive to the correction of faults in their striking, and it needs a good deal of tact, sometimes, to tell a man of his failing without giving offence. It is in this matter that the true leader proves himself, but the risk of offending a bad ringer's susceptibilities is no reason why in touch or peal his persistent faults should not be pointed out; and the practice that is provided at meetings ought always to have as its aim the general improvement of striking as well as the advance of method ringing. A touch of Grandsire well struck is better than a course of London badly rung and, we believe, far more enjoyable to the man who is a really sood ringer in any method. If nothing else can be donc during these restrictive days, there is no reason why, wherever ringing is possible, some definite effort should not be made to raise the standard of striking.

BRISTOL CITY MEETINGS.

FITTYRE ARRAKGEMENTS
Daspit-s the fan thal. the wenther conditions were anyluing but encouraging, menty forty rimgers attended the annual meeting of the Bristol City Brancls of the Gloucester and Bristal Diocesan Association at St. Peter's on November 18th. Soun after three a'clock the eight bells were in full swing, and although the methods were not outstending, there was varied practice from 'rounds and Qutera's' to an taruncesaful atiempt at Cambridge Major.

A short service wes vers hindy conducted by the Rer. S. Loveday, atul tea followad in the Parish Hall. Fisitors from Cirencester, Bath and other districte attended, in Epite of the curtailed lus services, but unfortuately several were compelled to leave early rather than face a long and dreary walk home.
Mr. P. C. Willinms (treasurer of the association) took the chair for The election of officere.
Mr. D. G. Clift surceened Mr. H. Burt at ehairman lor the antuing vear (the latter having completed fatr tears in cifice). It was decided Lo elect a vice-chairman, and Mr. T. Hartis was appointed.

After the secretary and the representative on the Management Committem had heen re-elected, froture meetinge were discussed
It was deciked to visit St. Mtichat's for the Decemther monthy meeting, followed by St. Steplsen's and St. Thamas' for the Jmauary and Feamary meetimgs respentively.
Under "any other business," it was agred to leave in abeyance the question of paying the subsctiptions of thase who had heen enllad upon for militart service untill the next quarterly meating.
To monclude the das. eneral rimgers remainat for a handhell practire, which paserd wway the rast of an onjoybhln afternoon.

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER. SYMMETRY IN METHODS.

We have seen that by means of Extremes and R. Court Shunts fifteen Major methods are produced. These are the first fifteen given in the Central Council Collection of Plain Major Methods, and the whole group is a valuable one, not only because it is one of the main bases on which hundreds of other methods are founded, but also because the methods themseives are eminently suitable for ringing in the belfry.
It is quite likely that some of our readers may think that all this talk about 'shunts' and how methods are constructed, although perhaps interesting enough to experts,' is of no use to practical ringers. If so, they make a mistake.
In his admirable articles on handbell ringing, Mr. Woolley showed us how you can simplify the ringing of two handbel!s to the more complex methods if you take note of the position of the places and the accompanying dodging. We shall not, we hope, be thought to be irespassing on lis ground if we point out that the task can be still more simplified if you know the effect the placemaking has on the Coursing Order of the bells, or, in other words, how the method is constructed. And in tower beliringing the knowledge is not less useful.
But before we go on to consider some points in praclical ringing we must notice two methods, both of them old ones, which are not included among the fifteen, alhough they are constructed by similar means.
The first is the one which Slipway gives in his book on Double Court Bob Major.

Double Court Minor is one of the very best of the sixhell methods. It was practised from early times, and it was natural enough that men should try and extend it to eight bells.
But when they did so, opinions differed as to what is the correct Major extension, and more than one method was practised and called Court Bob Major. Two of them becane popular and were rung to peals. The Norwich men rang 5,040 changes of Court Bob Major at St. Michaed's Coslany in 1742, and the College Youths rang 5,040 changes of Court Bob Major at St. Lawrence Jewry in 1735. The names were the same, but the methods were quite different, so in the course of time, to distinguish them, men called one Norwich Court and the other London Court.

When Shipway wrote his book, he, as he tells us, gave the matter the most careful examination and, rejecting both as correct extensions, introduced a third which he ralled Double Court Bob Major.
This is how he produced it. The bell which the treble turns from the lead, makes the Court Places in 3-4 up, and follows the treble up behind. At the half-lead end, the bells are in natural Coursing Order with the treble between the 3rd and 5th.
The bell which the treble turns from behind makes the Court Places in 5-6 down, and follows the treble down to the lead.
As in the lead there are two R. Court Shunts, one in each half, the lead-end is the same as that of the second lead of Boh Major, viz., 88745218 5738264.

By this means Shipway produced a true double method in which the bells work from the back in the same manner as they do from the front, one which he believed reproduced the characteristic work of Double Court Minor, and one which, since the Coursing Order of the bells is not broken, will give excellent music.

He thought that he had produced something entirely new, but, as it happened, a very similar method had asready been rung.

In the accounts of London Church Bells, which have recently appeared in our columns, reference was made to peals of Eastern Bob Major, Eastern Bob Royal, and Double Eastern Bob Major rung at Shoreditch, St. Sepulchre's, and Westminster in 1747, 1750 and 1752, by the Eastern Scholars.
In Eastern Bob Major and Royal the bell which is coursing in front of the treble makes the Court Places in $3-4 \mathrm{up}$. No places are made when the treble is hunting down, but at the lead-end the Extreme Shunt is made.
In Double Eastern Bob Major, the same places are made, and in addition the Extreme Shunt is made when the treble is behind, and the bell coursing in front of the treble makes the Court Places in 5-6 down.
A century later, Henry Hubbard rediscovered this method and printed it in lis 'Campanalogia ' under the anmes of Yorkshire Court Major and Double Yorkshisc Cisurt.
Here again you have a method which produces exceilent music. Nevertheless neither it nor Shipway's Double Conrt is to-day considered a 'regular ' method. Why?

The Eastern Scholars thought a lot of their method, when they had rung it, and declared that it was 'unparalleled for music,' but when they showed it to Benfamin Annable he laughed at it, and said it was 'lopsided.' To-day we say the same thing, only we use a Greek word instead of old Ben's Anglo-Saxon, and call it 'unsymmetrical.'

But why should an unsymmetrical method not be rung? This is a question which is hard to answer. Thirty years ago the matter was hotly debated, and one school of experts, led by C. D. P. Davies, poured scorn on the whole thing. What's wrong with a method like Union Triples? they asked, and nobody, so far as we know, could give a really satisfactory answer. Nevertheless, the Exercise has tacitly settled the question, and to-day only symmetrical methods are rung.

It is quite easy to see why symmetry is a necessary quality in some cases. Hubbard gave the six-bell variation of Yorkshire Court in his book, and it was widely rung and included in peals. But what people did not realise for many years was that, owing to the lack of symmetry in the method, no true 720 is possible; and so all the peals which included it, and they were many, were false. With the 'Standard' calling, for instance, you get the two lead-ends-23564 and 46532. Write out the two leads in full and see what happens.
In a similar way you will find that in very many, perhaps the maiority, of unsymmetrical methods, true peals are not possible.

But you can get true peals of Eastern Bob and of the method Shipway called Double Court, so this objection dhes not apply to them. Nevertheless, there is an obicction, as Annable saw two hundred years ago. Perhaps it lies in the fact that symmetry is one of those great qualities like truth and beauty on which all gnod things are basped. Rut we must not go into that now

DEATH OF WELLKNOWN LONDON RINGER

 FORMER DISTRIOT MASTER OF THF: L.C.A.Mr. Harry Mance, late Master of the Southern District of the London County Association and a wember of ilte Nurtey Association, passed away after two wecks illuoss at his residence at West Norwoul on Monday, November 27th.

LONDON COUNTY ASSDCIATION

NORTHERN DISTPICT MEETING AT WOODFORD
A meoting of the Northern District of the London County Associatjou was held at Woodford on November 18ih, and, despite the present conditions and inclement weather, the 20 ringers who turned up were rowarded with somo good ringing in methods from Grandsire to London Surprise Mejor. Tea wes served in the Parish Hall, followed by a short business meeting.
A very pleasant bour on the haudbells brought the day wo a close witl the thanks of the district to the Vicar of Woodford, the Rev. T. J. Ison, and Mr. C. R. Morss for making the necessary arrargewernte.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

MACCLESFTFLUD BRANCH OVERCOMES WAR-TIME HANDICAP.
The Macclesficld Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild THe been able to resume quarterly meetings. The September meeting had to be postponed owing to the oational emergency, but on Novermer 18th a meatang was held at St, James', Sublon, Although the attengance was not so good as would have been the case in normal times, the meeting did not lack anything in eythusiasm.

On the bandy and harmonious riug of six the early arrivals were induced to "experinent.' end courses of PIain Dob and St. Simon's Doubles were successinlly accomplished, much to the amusement of certain members, After this preliminary cffort the gathering was considerably augmented, and the bells were kept going ulmost coutinuously antil about 5.30 p.m. Tho methods rung were a goodly sssortment-variety being the spice of life, not to mention ringiug meetings-and catered for the expert and also the struggling apprentice. Grandsire and Stedman Doubles were followed by Plain Bob Minor, and eventually Cambridge and Loudon Surprise Minor wero rang, Mention should also be made of a "touch " of Spliced Trable Bob Minor, which uas indeed a joy to at least one momber of the company.
After tine bells bad been brought to rest the Guifd service followed, conducted by the Vicar of St. James' (the Rev, E. G. M. Evans), at the end of which arrangements were made to satispy the demands of the inuer man and fall justice was done to the repast waiting for the party.
at line business meeting which followed immediately afterwards, the Rov. E. C. M. Evans, who acted as chaiman, and ble Rev. S. J. Sharples were elected honorary members of the Guild
A resolution was passed unanimously that the secretary should forward a letter of gaod wishes to the Rev. N. A. Vesey, former president of tho Maccleafeld Branch, who lud left the town to take up an appointment in Bridlington.
The general meeting of the branch was urranged to take place the second Saturday in January, 1840.
A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for allowing the use of the bells, for conducting the service and ucting as chairman, also to the local company and especially to Mr. Taylor for huving everything in readiness, and to the ladies who had prepered tea, coucluded the business.
Further ase could not be niade of the tower bells, but the handhells were brought into gervice and courees of Boh Minjor and Grandsire Caters were rung by the fireside. Eventually the las remaining mentbers found that time will wait for no man and departed upon thair rarions weys, thus bringing to an end a very ajoyable day.

IMPORTANT NOTICE,

The war-time derangement of the postal services and the necessity of getting the copies of ' The Ringing World ' into the hands of the publishers earlier on Thursday make it absolutely essential that all contributions to our columns, and particularly all notices, should be in our hands by MONDAY in each week. We cannot guarantee the insertion in the following issue of anything received later.

We hope that secretaries will send us prompt reports of their meetings, and we shall welcome any items of news relating to ringers and ringing, but they must reach us early.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

SUCOESSFUL MEETING AT LOUGHBOROUGH FODNDRY.

Owing to the prevailing war conditiong, the second quarteriy mee ing of the Midmind Counties Assoctntion, fixed to take place at Newark in Septrmber, had to be cancelled. However, it was fett that a general meeting should take pluce, bul as no suilable tower in the Nottraghan district was available, Messis. J. Taylor and Co. very kindly granted permission for che use of the ten bells in their bell foundry cenapenile at Loughborough, atd the uneeting was held on Saturdry, Norember 251 h . Despite the diffculties of travel and the very inclement weather, quite a large number of members and friends turmed up, some 30 at moro representatives frona Derhy, Spoudon, Hinchles, Leicester, Syston, Cotgrave, Belgrave, Burton, Overseele, Notting liam, Sawley and other piaces being present and making good use of the bells dusing the rifterncort.
The committee med in the Foundry Housa at 4 p.ns. and carried througlt their routine busiress. The general meeting was helu in the beliry roow an hour later, and in the absence of the president (the Khew. Canou H. E. Fitzheriert), the vice-president (Mr. Colin Harrison) took the chuir. He was supported by the lyont. treasurcr (Mr. W. E. White) and hon. secretary (Mr. Lrneat Morris),
The Chairman spoke of the unusual circumstances under which they had assembled, hut stressed the fact that they nust mol let present conditions curtail thair activities in the art. Esjecially was it up to all of them to kecp the bells going for Sumiay services, That was most essential, and even though pual ringing (which. at the best, was hut it 'side issuo') wes curtailod, service ringing sloula take firsl place. Mr. Harrison velcomed such a good gathernge, and trusted all woulh cujoy their vigit, despite the Lact bibat local vatering could not be carried out this time as bitherto. Fvaryone, however, could get refreshments at cafes gaite comiortably if deaired.

Now members proposed singe the last quarterly mecting. viz., 10 riuging, five rejoined, two life and five honorary, were duly elected.
The hon. secretary mantioned that M.C.A. badpes were avalable and he trusted al! members would now purchase these from locat searetaries aud so belp to alear the initial cost of production.
The questiou of the subscriptions of members now serving in E.M. Forces (as distinct from local A.R.P. duties) was discused, and Mr. O. Hutchence proposed and Mr. Geolfrey Harisan steconded that miy such members should twe exempt from paying their subgeriptions whilo on active service away from home.
Mr. W. E. White proposed and Wr. P. H. Awinfield seconded that a list of these members be compiled and priated in the next annual report.
Will local sceretaries and members, therefore, please note this and send full details to the general hom. secretary, where possible giving name of unit and rank of the menbars now serving.

After a discussion on the Nottingham District management, it was announced that the next general meeting would be held at Earl Shitton on Saturday, January 274 h, 2940.

This concluded the business nis the remainder of the alternony was spent in further vowehes on the Bell Foundry bells.

H1 gTON DISTRICP OVERUOME THE BLACK OUI' CONDITIONS.
A good gathering was held izt St. John's, Newhell, on SaLurdny last, when members from the follawing towers met for the sistrict mecting : Burton (St. Paut's), Ashby, Replon, Measlaw, Netherscale, Oversemic, Tikknall, Derly, Melbourne aad the local company.

The co-operatiou of the police laving leeen sought and ohtained, full advantage was taken of the privilege, and the Sicar (t)e Rey. W. H. Gofina) kindly acted as listenor in ease of any uir raid warning being

It Was unfortunate owiog to the black-out making treveling dificult, that one ar two werc utuble to ktay for tes, which was gerver in the Charch Rootn, and it was noted that food rationing wus not in evidence, for the ladies had prepared ant excellegt tea for a rery Hudesk clarge
The Vicar was voted to the clasir for the short medting, and it was uropased that the anmal district meeting be held at Measham on Jabatry 6th, 1940, and as the tower wal pasily be fitted to comply with lighting restrietions, ringing may vontioue antil a late hour. gining the Forces should be sent to lim so that the: may loe placed ous recard in blie absoriation's yearly report.
The Fioar, in reply to a vole of thanka, sain dua! it was a pieasure Io weloume the members to Nowitall, und althourl his remarls wee rather belated, he assured the ringers they were very sincere, He would always be ready to place Fewhall bells at their disposal if comditions in times that lay aherd made it difficult to arrange meetings at, certain towers, adding that if food control was thea in force, suitathle provision would be ar'rarged for tea.
The bower was revisited and touches in the followizg methods were brouglt round: Plain Boh, Kent and Oxiord Treble Bobs, Cumbridge Surprise, Double Court, single Court and Double Oxford Bob Minor, with plenti of opportunities for the recruits in Plain Bab, Grandsire ต ad Sterimas Deubles.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

ST. LEONARD'S, SHOREDITCH.

By J. Armiger Trollope.

In addition to the long peals of Oxford Treble Bols Royal, one or two other lengths of over six thousand changes were rung at St. Leonard's by the Cumberland Youths during the eighteenth century. Of these, perhaps the most interestung was one of 7,001 of Grandisire Caters on November 3rd, 1773. Although it is not definitely so stated, the composition was probably the one by George Gross, which is given in the 'Clavis.' It contains the sixty course ends with the big bells in the tittums, and is an excellent production. Gross seems to have been the first man to use shorl courses in Grandsire Caters, all the other peals being produced by 7-8's and 8-9's.

To get the required length and also, probably, to arrange the changes so that the bells could be brought round at hand, Gross started with eight courses with the ligg bells in the ordinary backstroke position, and John Reeves no doubt thought he had produced a much superior peal when he composed one with the same qualities in the same number of changes and only one long going-oft course.

It was at St. Leonard's that Benjamin Annable rang his last peal, one of Bob Major in 1754 . Although it is incluced in the present pal book of the College Youths, it was not really rung by members of that society. Hall the band were then members of the Society of Eastern Scholars, and the performance was one link in a chain of circumstances which led to the ultimate break-up of both societies and the formation of that Society of College Youths which became the leading metropolitan company in the second haif of the eighteenth century, absorbing all that was best in the older two.

After George Gross had quarrelled with the Cumberlands in 1782, he formed a new company which called themselves the Society of Junior Cumberland Youths. These men rang several peals at different towers, inciuding Shoreditch, none of which are of particular interest. Then came the usual quarrel, and the best men among them drifted back to the old Society of Cumberlands. Among them was William Shipway.

Meanwhile the Ancient Society of College Youtlis had paid their famous visit to Norwich and brought back Stedman Caters and Cinques, which thenceforth became the most esteemed methods among London ringers.

In 1787, John Reeves calied the first peal of Stedman Caters, at Horsleydown, for a band of the ancient Society of College Youths, and shortly afterwards that company hroike up. Some of the hand went to the other Society of College Youths, and helped to make up the band whith rang the first peal of Stedman Cinques.

Reeves joined the Cumberlands, and on Auyust 23rd, 1788, he called for them at Shoreditch the second peal of Stedman Caters ever rung. The figures of the conposition are lost. The fourth was rung by William Shipway and the third by George Gross.

At the first sight we should imagine that this wass the elder George Gross, who had broken with the junior Cumberiands and who was anxious to regain his former position in his old company. Neither the peal book nor the peal board is clear about the matter, but it is not at all likely that Gross would have stood in a peal with his rival as conductor, and, while the name book records the election of the younger Gross as a new member, it says nothing about the return of his father.

It was not until about six years later, when Reeves had left the society, that Gross got his chance. He then returned, was at once elected to his old office of beadle, and remained the leader of the company for the rest of his life.

After the Stedman Caters, the only peal rung at St. Leonard's for some years was by the Coflege Youths, but with the return of Gross the Cumberlands once more scored peals there.
On December 13th, 1794, Gross calied ' 5,200 changes of Cumberland Royal Treble Bob, the most that can be rung in 9 courses.' There is no direct evidence as to what method was rung, but there is little doubt that it was Reeves' nine-course peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal. Peals of Kent Treble-ten had already been rung at Leeds in Kent, and the method was printed in the "Clavis ' of 1788, where it is called New Treble Bob, a not very good name, which fortunately did not stick to it. The Cumberlands went on and rang peals of Kent Major and Maximus, but the methad was not regularly practised in London until well on into the next century. The name Kent first appears in print in Shipway's book.

On November 12th, 1796, Shipway called a 'William " peal at Shoreditch. It was not the first name peal, for that had been rung a few years earlier when eight Georyes, with George Gross as conductor, scored a peal of Treble Bob Major at St. Olave's, Southwark. In 1804 George Gross called a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Royal, and the peal book claims it as the "first ever rung in that method.' The claim, however, is not a sound one, for the Norwich men had rung the first peal, and a mixed band, with John Noonan as conductor, rang the second peal at Spitalfields five weeks before the Shoreditch performance.

In 1802 Shipway called a peal of Imperial Place Caters, a method of which he was rather proud and which is produced without any dodging. As, however, the bells which turn and are turned by the treble lie still for three blows, its merits are not great.

The next interesting peal on the bells was in 1805, when the Cumberlands rang 6,129 changes of Stedman Caters at the time the longest length in the method. It was composed and conducted by the younger George Gross.

In 1807, on the opening day after the bells were increased to twelve, the Cumberlands rang 5,390 of Grandsire Cinques, and in 18096,000 of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus. Then, during the following twenty years, there were ten or a dozen peals of Grandsire and Treble Bob on ten and twelve beils. The last was 5,040 changes of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus in February, 1830, and after that, silence for half a century.

The cause may have been that the bells were getting into a bad condition or that the tenor had become broken and urringable.

The Cumberlands, who for so long had made the tower their principal practice place, now abandoned the belfry and moved first of all to St. Mary-le-Bow, and shortly afterwards, when the College Youths left St. Marlin-in-the-Fields for Soulhwark, to Trafalgar Square.

They took with them one or two of the boards from the belfry and re-erected them in their new home. One is that which records Reeves' peal of Stedman Caters. It has been restored and is now in excellent condition. The other I was unable to read. Here we probably have the origin of the legend about the Duke of Cumberland's picture and its removal to St. Martin's.

The tenor was recast in 1875 by, Blews, of Birmingham, and the bells put into some sort of repair, and in 1882 the College Youths ended the long break in peal ringing by scoring 5,000 changes of Stedman Citques. Two years later the Cumberiands, mainly through the intluenee of Henry Dains, celebrated the centenary of Gross' long peal of Treble Bob Royal by ringing a five thousand. But they rang Kent and not Oxford, which had become almost a forgotter method except in East Anglia. In the same year the society rang a peal of Treble Twelve and one of Stedman Caters, and then, save for one peal in 1886 , another silence fell on the bells until after they were restored in 1913.

The first peal after restoration was Stedman Cinques, conducted by Mr. Frank Bennett, and since then there has been a steady succession of performances in the belfry, most of them, naturally, by the Society of Cumberlind Youths.
We should have imagined that a belfry with a long ringing history like that of Shoreditch would have it large collection of interesting peal boards, but in that respect St. Leonard's is somewhat disappointing. As siated above, two boards were taken to St. Martin's, and it is certain that some were destroyed during the long period of neglect. Fifty years ago two boards, recording Kent Treble Bob Royal rung in 1801 and Gross' long peal of Stedman Caters, were still in existence, but now they have disappeared.
The only old board still actually in the belfry records the peal of New Bob Triples rung in 1750, but two very fine tablets, recording the long peals of Treble Bob Royal by the College Youths and the Cumberlands, have been removed to the base of the tower, which forms the vestibule of the church. Both have been restored and are in good condition. Photographs and descriptions of them are given in the London County Council official Survey of London. The College Youths' record is in gilt letters on a black ground and enclosed in a carved wood frame, whicl was carefully restored by the instructors and pupils of the Shoreditch Technical School. The other is in gilt writing on a copper plate, with an claborate carved and gilded frame. Hung where they now are, these most valuable and interesting records of the past are likely to lof preserved for very many years.

YatTENDON BELLS RESTORED

DOFT I IORNE BY FOLTJNTARY SUBSCRILTION

The ring of six bells at SS. Petier and Paul's Church, Yatendon. Wherk, has recently ween rehurg and the treble aut tenor recast by Messrs. Mears and Staintsank. Practically the whole cost of the restoration has beed borne by voluntary subscription.
The treble bell, which bears the inscription, "They owe their mirth to me," was made by Lester and Pacle and was the gitt of Richand Welbourne, Esq., in 1756.
The second is dated 1657, the third 1925 and the fourth 1660.
The fifth is of local interest. It bears the jegcription, 'sanct. Nicollai ora pro nobis, and probably is of tho 15 th century, for it hears the early lion's head stop of the Wokingham foundry and eross composed of four flewrs-de-lys.
The tenor bears the date 1617 and the inscription ' Fenry Knight made mee.'
The dedication service whs performed ly the Ree. H. C. Witder, chairman of the Bradield Deanery Branch of the Orford Diocesnin Guild, and the visiting fiagers were from the Bucklebury tower undrer their foreman, Mr. W. Mathews.

The service was confucticd by the Yicar. who gave a very luarty welcome to the ringers presont, saying that it was the seconil time during his incumbency that he had the pleasure of welcoming the association, and hoped he would be able to do so again under move pleasant conditions when he could extend some hospitality to these present. He complimented the members for getting together to ring the bells. It was a grand thing to fell the peopie that the bells were calling all to worship at their willage church.

A collection was made during the eervice for the Bell Restoration Fund, which amounted to 8s.

After the service and more riuging, the company sat down to tee at the Thore Hotel. At tho business meeting the Master (Mr. G. Waterman) apologised for the absence of the secretary, due to his heing engaged on work of national importance. It was explained why Lho annual district meeting had been arranged to take phace thal duy, for it was only after some considerable trouble that a tower could be obtained at all.
Mr. G. Waterman, of Hawwich, was re-elected Disirict Mastey for Whe next year, and Mr. W. Wright, of Mistley, was elecled temporar, serretary.

The next meeting was arranged to lake place at Tendring at the rond of April next.

A discussion followed regarding ringiug members of f. M. Irorces foril it was proposed by Mr. $\mathfrak{k}$. Ellis that all memters serving in H.M Furces should have their suberiptions paid for thom, and this was married.

LOOKING AHEAD.

The story of the destruction of the bells at Christ Church, Spitalfields, which is told in this week's article on London Bells, is a reminder of vicissitudes of various kinds which have befallen many famous rings in the city, the worst of all being the neglect which most of them in turn have suffered. Happily few peals of bells have met the fate of Spitalfields, except, of course, in the Great Fire, but Bethnal Green and St. Olave's, Southwark, lost their bells by fire after Spitalfields. The greatest despoiler of London's bells has been negligence, and there are still a large number whose tones have not been heard for years and of whose existence, in all probability, the vast majority of the inhabitants in each parish are unaware. Some of these belis have figured prominently in the past in London history ; they have now gone into decay for want of use. It is a sad story and one for which London ringing societies are not entirely free from blame.

It has to be remembered, of course, that conditions in London are vastly different to those in nearly every other place in England, and the silencing of the many church bells, which now are no longer heard, is not due solely to any one cause. The reasons which from time to time have led to the demolition of city churches, have resulted in others becoming more or less deserted, and the disappearance of the ringers is but a phase of the conditions which have led to the disappearance of the congregation. But there is another cause which must not he overlooked, and that is the policy of the ringers themselves in a past generation. In the South of England, at any rate, Sunday service ringing was not practised, except in isolated cases, until about the 'eighties of tast century. Such ringing as was done was almost entirely for the amusement or profit of the ringers. In London the bells were, prior to that time, and in some cases even later, merely the sport of the different bands that sprang up. The only times the belis at many churches were rung were paid occasions and for peals, and when the former failed and the latter became impossible through the condition of the bells or the inactivity or the loss of interest of the ringers, the bells were just allowed to lapse into permanent silence. For years many of them have hung mute, and it has been surprising to watch, through even this century, how little real effort London ringing societies have made to create any local interest in bell restoration which might lead to a general improvement. There have been one or two notable exceptions, but even so there are literally dozens of rings of bells within the metropolitan area that, up to the outbreak of war, have been absolutely neglected unless for one reason or other some enthusiast has organised a band to attempt a peal.

Ringers do not need to be reminded that the best way to preserve bells is to ring them, and nothing is more likely to keep them in reasonable ringing order than their regular use on Sundays. Until war broke out we believe that the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral had been rung every Sunday without a break since their opening in the year 1878, and their condition now is a tribute to the care bestowed upon them during that long period. It is doubtful if they would have been so well maintained had they not been regularly rung on Sundays. Regular ringing leads to regular attention being given to the bells and their fittings, and unless they are primarily used in the service of the Church, ringers can hardly expect to raise the authorities" interest in their upkeep.

It is doubly essential in these days, when conditions tend to reduce the ringing of church bells, that no effort should be spared to keep going those that may be rung. For the sake of the bells themselves, as well as for the place they fill in connection with the services, they should be regularly heard at least once on Sunday. Moreover, it will be found to be very difficult to restart those bells which are allowed to become silent. The interest of ringers may wane; the public themselves in some places may object to their revival, although we feel that amongr the majority of people the sound of the bells after the war is likely to be received with general joy. But be that as it may, what is bow required is a determination to keep the bells of this country going, and during this period of enforced partial inactivity in the towers the London ringing societies might well give thought to planning a great revival when happier times come again.

' MOURNFUL' BELLS.  A NOFTHAMPTON COMPLALNT. To the Bditor.

Sir,-A letter complaining about the sound of bells has appeared in a cewspaper in the tawn in which I live, the text of which I give below: "The local striking of ehurch clacks every quarter of an hour throughout the night with a mournful snatch of melody brings to ninal the followiag lines from the poet, Edgar Allan Poe: "Frough the balmy eir of night, how they ring out their delight! How they clang ana elash and roar, What a lorror they ouwpour. Is there balm in Gilead P-tell me, I implora! Quoth the raven novermore." t'he writer goes on: 'One wonders if the ecelesiastical aatborities beve really considered whetiner they are serving a good purpose in so disturbing the sleep of people wion happen to lire nearby, and, secondly, whether they are immune fram the law relating to nusances which states that every persun who crates an unusuap noine in the aifht time in the neighbourhood of a dwelling house so as to distarb the repose of the inmetes is guilty of a muisance." The writer ajgus linuself ' Ronald Frank.'
It will be seen thas lie considers the sotnd of bella 'mournful." Though the complaint chiefly deals with clock chimes, there is one thing I would like to say a word or two about: In Northampton (and I hove noticed it elsewhere) ringers seem to have fallen inta the lagy and distasterul habit, when meating shore, of picking on the front end bells for chiming and often for riagiag, irrespective of whether their notes present a pleasing or untuceful sound to the car. One church, in the centre of Northampton, in particular has the peculiar habit of chiming the first seven of its octave. Another the first six and sometimes zha firat three. And another church bas more than once begen heard to ring the first five of the eight.
Is this not opering up the fath for complainta about mouraful bells? If any of the peais in question were particularly heavy or went badly there might be a cortain amount of ercuse. But m Northamptor every church which has bells has had tacm rehung since 1927. Whether here or elsewhere, I would ask, do ringers think they ara being fair both to ble Txercize and to tie public by adopting such lazy habita and not sttudying the musical aide to their ort as well as the piysicalif any be needed on auch light-going bella?

Another thing I would like to draw attention to is, after a band has met short and raised tha back gix or flve, often sorneone witl walk in late and without any consideration for the ears of people ontside, up will go the other two or three trebles clanging on top of each other. Is not this also opering up the path for complainta? I krow the old cry-well, we haver't alwayg got time to puly them up singly or in pairs. Which is the best-to sacrifice 'a 120 ' or cause some strong complaint? And a word ahout the ringing of seven bolls: When ringers meet seven strong, is it not bettor and more tuneful to ring seven missing the second of the octave out than to ring the lage seven?
P. AMOS.

GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

SUCOESSFUL MEETING OF BRISTOL RURAL BRANCE.
The ammal meeting of the Bristol Rural Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diotesan Assocition was held on Satarday, December 2nd, at St. Ambrose'g Chureh, Bristol East, where there is a very nice ring of eight bells, with a tenor of 11$\rangle$ cwt. Thene were set going ghortiy after \& p.m. and standard methods were rung until falr-past four, some useful practiee being put in. About 45 members and visitorrs attended the service conducted by the Ticar (the Rev. F. S. Lee). The address was given by the Rev. C. K. Davis, limself a ringer.
Tca was served in the Church Roam, and afterwards the Vicar was thauked for taking the service nad for the use of the bells. Thanks were also giver̉ to the ozganist and choirboys for their attendance. The meating was presided over by the brapch chairman, Mr. C. Harding. The balance sheee having been adopted, the Chairman remarked that, owing to the war, the past year had not bees a pery good one for the branch. When the war started the activitiea of the association were brought practically to a standstill for a time, but they were gradually getting uged to the abnomal conditions, and meetiegs were now being held as often as possible. He aaid be hoped that practices and Sunday riggigg would now go on, and added thet they should keep the rit as much alive an possible duridg these dark days. Mr. C. Harding was re-alected chnirman of the branch and tharked the ruembers for their confidence, Mr. R. C. Giford was re-elected secretary, and the Rer. C. K. Davis was elected as repesentative of the branch on the Management Committee.
Meetings were arranged ns follows: January, St. Werburgh's; February, Westerjeigh; March, Bitton.
A resolation that imembers who liad joined H.an. Forces should remain meabers without payment until their return' was asked to be forwarded to the Monagement Committee for their coasideration.
The Chairman said he would like to thank all those who had mede the meeting so Euccessifl, especially the tower secretary, Mr. F. Skidmore, and the local câtain, Mr. Magge (who also apparently grows at good brand of celery). He also welcomed the risitors from the Bristol City Branch.
A few memhers then indolged in handbell ringing, and this brought a very succesful meeting to a close.

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER.

THE ART OF PRICKING CHANGES.
Before we study our group of fifteen methods in detail it is well to write out a full plain course of each of them. Perhaps some of our readers will think that it means an immense amount of trouble, and others may think that it means unnecessary and useless trouble.

But when you know how to do it the trouble is not so great after all. With a little practice you can prick changes about as fast as you can ring them; and though you can, if you are experienced, find out everything about the course from one lead of it, many hundreds of ringers have discovered from the Diagrams in Snowdon's 'Standard Methods,' the advantages of having a full course.

It may be objected that the goodness of those diagrams lies, not in the figures, but in the 'blue line ' which shows the work of one bell, and that you can draw the 'blue line' as a 'skeleton course,' a much more convenient form, which does away with any necessity for having figures.

It is quite true that many ringers, and those among the most experienced, never use figures at all but always learn their methods from skeleton courses. We should be the last to belittle the value of the skeleton course, but we must point out that, while it will give you the bare essentials which you must know before you can ring a method, it will not help you to understand the method nor tell you those things you must know when you study the conducting and composition. It may be that among our readers there are some beginners who do not know what a skeleton course is. For their benefit we will explann that it is a lined diagram showing the path of one bell only, and, as it can be very much foreshortened, it is possible to draw it on a page of a small note book, which of course makes it very convenient.

Hundreds of ringers, as we said, have realised from Snowdon's ' Standard Methods ' the advantages of having a full course to study; but they would get much more benefit from it if they were to prick it themselves, rather than use one which has already been written or printed by someone else, provided they prick it from a knowledge of the construction of the method, and do not just blindly copy what another has written.

It is worth while, therefore, to say a few things about the pricking of changes.

And first you must realise that a written course of a method is not merely a collection of figures put together in a certain way. The figures are symbols which are intended to represent as nearly as possible that movernent of the bells which is the essential thing in change ringing. Hence the most important thing is not the rows of figures themselves but the way in which one is produced from another.

For our illustration, we will confine ourselves to eight bells, and since plain hunting is the basis of all change ringing, we will start by seeing how we must prick changes to represent plain hunting. We start from the row 12345678 , which represents rounds.

In this row of eight figures there are four pairs, $I$ and 2,3 and 4,5 and 6 , and 7 and 8 . The first thing we do is to transpose each of these pairs and write down 21436587 under 12345678.

We have still got four pairs of bells, but if we trans-pose them again we shall merely come back to where we started from. We therefore, in the next row, write the first and last bells (in this case 2 and 7 ) in the same positions as they were in the previous row, and alter the positions of the six other bells only.

We have now got three pairs of bells to deal with, those in 2-3, 4-5 and 6-7 (in this case 1 and 4,3 and 6, and 5 and 8). We transpose each of these pairs and write down the result 24163857 as our third row.

What we have done is, first of all, to transpose all four pairs of bells, and then to transpose the three internal pairs of bells, and if we continue to do these alternately we shall produce the plain hunting course.

Now all change ringing consists of plain hunting (forwards or backwards) with certain variations, and in a similar way all pricking consists of the alternate transpositions just described, with certain variations.

The only way we can vary hunting is by the introduction of place making. The making of a place involves certain definite alterations in work of some of the other bells, and so, if we know when and where the places are made, we can also know the whole of the work of the method.

There are two kinds of methods. In one of them all the work (place making and dodging) is at backstroke, In the other, handstroke places and work are introduced.

The latter, both in construction and in actual practice, are much the more complex, and so we will confine our attention for the present to the others. In pricking these backstroke methods (that is, the methods in which the place is completed by the backstroke blow) we note two things. The first is that every alternate row is always produced by transposing all four pairs of bells, just as when we are pricking plain hunting. The second is that all the variations from plain hunting are done by keeping one of the inside bells in the same position as it was in the previous row instead of one of the first or last bells.

This is what we call moving an external place to the interior of the change, and, however we do it, we shall still get three pairs of bells to transpose.
The external place on the front can only be moved to 3rd's, 5th's or 7th's ; the external place at the back can only be moved to 6th's. 4 th's or 2nd's. It follows that place making in 3rd's, 5th's or 7th's affects the bells below those positions, but not the hells ahove. And place making in 6th's, 4 th's and 2nd's affects the bells above those positions, but not the bells below.

When we are pricking, and we know that 3rd's place has got to be made, we transpose the pair in 1-2, keep the bells in thirds in the same position, and transpose the other befls as we should do if we were pricking plain hunting. Simifarly, if we know that 4th's place has to be made we write the bell in fourths in the same position as it was in the previous row, and transpose the pairs in 5-6 and 7-8.

Now experiment by attempting to write out one of our fifteen methods from the position of the places.

Take Edmonton Bob, an excellent method which is produced by the R. Court Shunts in 5-6 and the Extreme at the lead-end.

For the first four changes we have plain hunting, so we prick by alternately transposing four pairs and three pairs. When the troble gets into fifths, 6th's place is made over it, so we transpose the pair in-7-8 instead of (Crotioued in next columin)

WITH PENCIL AND PAPER.

that in 6-7. Two changes later 5th's piace is made, so we transpose the pairs in 1-2, and $3-4$ instead of those in $2-3$ and $4-5$. Four changes further on we do the same thing, and two changes later still, when 6th's place is made, we transpose the pair in 7-8 instead of that in 6-7. At the lead-end 2ad's is made, so we transpose the pairs іл 3-4, 5-6 and 7-8 instead of those in 2-3, 3-4 and 5-6. Except for these variations we prick exactly as if we were pricking plain hunting. You see how simple it is, provided that we know exactly where the places are made.

From Mr. Woolley's article we learn that all this will be a great help in ringing two handbells.

Th the riitor

Derr Sir, -In connection with Mr. J. Armiger Trolfone's interestive article on the above in 'The Ringing World ' December 8 th , will Mr. Trollope kindly inform me when the Cumberlands rang their first peal of New Treble Bols Meximus (otherwise Kcnt Treble Bob Meximus)?
There is a peal tablet in St. Martin's ringing room, Birmingham, recording 7,200 New Treble Bob Maximus rung by tbe St. Martin's Youths on April 17th, 1820, in 5 hours and 8 minutes. The celebrated Thomas Thurstans rang the tenor and Henry Cooper conducted. This peal is also recorded in St. Martin's Guila peal boos as 7,200 Oxford Treble Bob Maximus (Kent Variation) and the first peal rung in this variation on twelve bells. ALBEET WALEFH.

He is looking forward with pleasure to the prospect of a happy time in tie district, and will certainly be an asset to the Archdeaconry of Stafford Society as well as to the Willentall band.

Last Tuesday was the 204th anniversary of the first peal at St Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, 'whien,' said the 'Ipswich Gazette,' 'waE rung by our town ringers, being the whole peal of Grandsire Triples on eight bells. It was done in three hours and eight minutes to the satisifuction of all the lovers of that science.

In the records of early peals of Grandsire Triples the expression whola peal' is frequently used and there is good reason to believe that this is a reference to the composition in the J.D. and C.M Campanalogia, which is false.
On Decenter $12 t h, 1848$, the Birmingham men rang 7,392 changes of Stedman Cinques, beating lyy 266 changes the peal rung in 1844 at St. Peter, Mancroft, by the Norwich Scholars. Birminglam held the record until ]851
To-day is the anniversary of the first pesl on the twelve at St. Saviour's, Southwark. It was rung by the College Youths in 1735, the method Fas Grandexire Cinques and the number of changee was 8.008. This length has never been exceeded in the tower, except in 1923. When the College Youths rang the long peal of Stedman Cinques, which, unfortunately, turned out to be false in the composition.
The first peal on the present ring at St. Saviours was Grandsire Caters rung by the Eastern Echolars, and Benjamin Annable called a peal of Bob Triples on the old ring of eight, the tenor of whigh weighed 49 cwt .

On December 16th. 1819, the St. Martin's Society of Birmingham rang tha fist 720 of Sledman Minor. Thomas Thurstans was the tenor man. It is guite possible that this is the only 720 ever rung in the method, which, of course, is only a freak.
Mr. F C. Tysoe informs us that it is hoped the tower belle will be rung after tea at the Bedfordahire Associetion meehing at Kempston to-morrow.

THE FIRST PEAL AT ST PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

To the Pditor.
Deer gir,-In the much appreciated 'Belfry Gossip' in your tast issue I notice there is an error-a very rare occurrence in your retrospective account of past achievements of noteworthy interest-with regard to the first neal at St. Paul'g Cathedral. It was 5.014 Stedman Cinaves, rung in 4 hours 17 minutes, on December 10th, 1881, composed by Henry W. Haley and conducted by James Petat, one of the beat, most reliable and respected members that ever joined the Ancient Society of College Fouths! I was very nearly taking part in the peal, Socicty of College Youths! I was very nearly taking part in the pea, as one member of the selected band turnd up very late-in fact, the preliminary 'rounds' had been runc! of the two 'spares' present, William Greenleaf was finallw considered to be the most sble of the two of us to tackle the 9th and he took part in the "preliminary.' I spent the whole time at, or near the Goose and Gridiron with mary others, including Fenry W. Hzley, the composer, who was too advanced in age to tale part in it. Mr. Haley frenceatly pointed out to me the progress of the peal, especially when a fresh bell was put "behind the 7th" and who were together behind, or who made the "bobe. The ringing was truly magnificent and accurate, and elicited roara of ampleuse at its conclusion, the arited opinjon beine that the quality of the striking couldn't be beaten' A lidtle while afterwards we had a dinner at the Goose and Gridiron in fonour of the event !

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

FARNEAM DJSTRIGT'S USEFUL MEETING.

Forktown Churcb, Surreg, is ane of the places where the black-out restrictions have been suficiently overcome to allow practices to be held in the dark evenings, and there, on Seturday, members of the Farnisam District of the Guildford Diocesam Guild hold a very preful naecting. Theve was not so large an attendance as was usual in bappier days than these, when aldarshot by itself could provade a good sized meeting, bat about 20 ringers put in an appearnace, anc some eood practice was put in in standard methods. Nothiug higher than Double Norwich pass attempted, but a good meny of those grescnt found the opportanity fo improve their acquaintance with the meflsods rung.
The customary Guild service was held, the Vicar, the Rev. F. W. T. Waithman, officiativg, the sioging bejug led by choirboys,
The Ficar gave an inspiring address, based on words from the Advent Collect, 'Almighty God, give es crace that we may east away the works of darkness and put apon us the armuur of light.' la these times, lhe said, these words seemed to have more reality about them than over, because if ever there was a time when the wors of dackness were very evident, that tinue was the present. We were waging a spiritual war ageinst the powers of darkuess. To do so successfully we must pui on the armour of Jight, and whatever we did. whether in work or recreation, sliould be dane to the glory of God as well as for our own interest. He was glad that the ringers were maintaining thair service to the Ghurch, that they were not only seeping up their own church-going, but were doing their best to bring others to church. It was difficult in these times to keep up the spirit of church-going and to keep up everything is connection with our churches as it should be kept. He found a diference behwaen this war and the last. In the last war their churches were thronged, uut they did not see that now. Although the fact remained that if ever there was a spiriturl cause for which thay fought they were Gighting for that canae row, yet perple did not take the trouble to go to worghip God as they should. He felt deeply grateful to those who not only came to chusch bat tried to bring others by ringing the church bells. It was a great thing to zemind people thet the dear alit church still goes on, that Gad is stili there, waiting to be worshipped. He asked each one of them to do thoir utmost to keep up their bervice to God in this and other ways.

After tea in the Church Room, the Viear, the choir, the orgenist and the local ringers were thanked by Mr. F. Gillians. business meeting which followed, the chair was taken by Mry the Goldsmith, a viec-president of the Guild. Apologies were received from the District Ringing Master (Mr. R. Hasted) on account of the indisposition of his wife, and Miss Betty Stewart, of Aldershot, who W日日 also indispaseá Miss Cottarill and Mr. Nasla, both of Basingstake, were alected compounding members.

Mr. R. Hested (Farmham) waв again nominated as District Ringitag Master, Mr. C. W. Denyer (Aldershot) hon. secretary atid Mr. P. Hadidge (Faraborough) auditor. Mr. T. Upshell (Farrlam), the retirigg representative on the Execalive Committee, who was unable to be present, had expressed a wish to retire, fid lie was thanked for his services, which tove cxtended from the formetion of the Guild. Mr. Gitlians was rominated to the vacant position,

The Chairman explained that it wes the fecling of those responsible that the annoal dinner should be abandoned bext January. In lis view, he thought it undesirable to hold the dinner, not becarse there was byy reason to make themselves miscrable over the war, but because of the effficulties of travelling in the black-out, whioh would in all probability severely limit the possibie attendance.

The Clairman also referred to the sclicme which it had been proposed to laumeh to provide a sanctus bell for the new Cathedral when the firgt portion of the building was operted in 1941. The coming of the war, he said, had caused the scheme to be delayed, but be hoped after chrisumas it would be possible to go ehead with it, alihough the changed circumstances might involve adopting a different plan to thet originally proposed.

The Chamman went on to remind the meeting that many familiar faces were nissing from that pasthering, called away to perve the country in the forces of the Crawn and elsewhere. The mesting woula, he was sure, send them greetinge and good wishes for a safe return. He suggested that the district seerelaries should keep a list of all the mpmbers who joined the services, with a record of their units, so that when the war was over this information mould be permanently preserved in some suitable form in the Guild fibrary.

The hon. gecratary reminded the nembers that the mext mpeting would be the annual distriot meeting and would be beld at Tarnham. He inoped every effort would be made to ensure a crood attendance.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

SOURH-WESTERR DIFISION'S EXCELLENT PROGRESS,
The annual meeting of the South-Western Division of the Essex Association was held at Leytonstone on Saturday, December 2nd, attended by 36 members, repregenting 11 towers. ## CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

CHRIST CHURCH, SPITALFIELDS.

By J. Armiger Trollope.

Spitalfields, originally part of the great parish of Stepney, got its name from a priory and hospital commonly called St. Mary Spital. After the revocation of the Edict of Nantes in 1685, by which the Protestants had enjoyed rights and toleration in France, large numbers of the Huguenots, as these French Protestants were called, came to England and settled in this district, where they followed the trade of silk weaving. By the time of Queen Anne, the population had increased so mucis that, when the Act of Parliament was passed in 1712 to provide new churches for certain parts of London, one of the churches was allotted to this district and a new parish was formed out of Stepney.
As Parliament was fincling the money, everything was done on a grand scale. The new building, designed by Nicholas Hawkesmoor, cost $614,418 \mathrm{3s}$. 6d., and the site $\{1,260$. These are large sums for the time.

The architecture of the church has been criticised as being too heavy, but it certainly does not lack a certain massive grandeur. The building was consecrated by the Bishop of London on July 5th, 1729.

A Mr. Wheatley, a wealthy parishioner, promised to give a ring of eight heavy belts, and on December 20th, 1729, the 'Universal Spectator and Weekly Journal ' announced that ' Mr. Phelps the famous Bell Founder of White-Chappel has orders to cast a Sett of Eight Bells for the new Church in Spittle Fields. The Timber Work and Frame are now making in the Belfry of the said Church. The Tenor is to be 36 hundred weight.'

The weight of the tenor has always been said to be 44 cwt . in C sharp, and, though it is impossible to be quite sure, since the foundry records were destroyed by fire, the information given me by Mr. Albert Hughes of the weights and sizes of the two trebles cast in 1801 seem to show that that weight was correct.

The first recorded peai on the bells was 5,120 changes of Oxford Treble Bob Major rung on February 23 rd, 1785, by the Eastern Scholars. Philemon Mainwaring called the bobs and rang the tenor single-handed. This was an outstanding heavy bell performance, for it was not until the present century that a heavier bell had been turned in to a peal of Major.

But Spitalfields tenor must have gone well for its weight. In the year following, John Trenell rang it to a 'fine ' peal of Treble Bob with a band of College Youths. Twenty years later, in 1760, a band belonging to the ancient Society of College Youths, with the eider Samuel Mug geridge on the box, rang 5,120 changes of Treble Bob, and a week later their rivals, the 'junior' Society of Coilege Youths, beat the performance with a peal of 6,080 changes, Joseph Monk ringing the tenor. This in its turn was beaten by the Cumberlands, who, on December 3rd, 1785, rang 6,400 changes. Robert Mann was the tenor ringer. It is worth noting that all these peals were rung in the winter time; and that when William Laughton and the Rambling Ringers visited the belfry in the summer of 1734 he complained of the bad going of the bells.

The ring was augmented to ten in 1789, and on June 25 th in that year the Cumberlands rang 5.201 changes of Grandsire Caters. Two men were needed for the tenor, and the peal was conducted by Thomas Blakemare, who, owing to the troubles and disputes which were wrecking the ancient Society of College Youths, had come for a few montlis to the Cumberlands. The same society rang the first peal of Royal in the steeple- 5,440 changes of Treble Bob in 1789 conducted by John Reeves.

Christ Church. Spitalfieldes, at the end of the 18 th eantury.
Like the neighbouring tower of St . Leonard's, Shoreditch, Christ Church belfry was the scene of several interesting contests between rival bands. In 1793 the College Youths rang 6.280 changes of Treble Bob Royal, and the Cumberlands immediately followed with 6,360 changes. In 1796, the junior Society of Cumberland Youths rang the first seven thousand on the bells, and in the following year 6,003 changes of Stedman Caters. This was the longest peal at the time in the method, but the composition by John Noonan was a false one. Noonan in 1804 called another notable peal, the first of Double Norwich Court Bob Royal rung away from Norwich.

In 1801 the bells were increased to twelve. The Cumberlands rang 5,170 changes of Grandsire Cinques on March 5 th, 1804 , and a month later 7,104 changes of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus, repeating their performance of two years previous at St. Saviour's, Southwark. James Marlton rang the tenors to both peals, and they were outstanding heavy bell feats.

In 1805, a match, with a purse of one hundred guineas, took place between the Norwich Scholars, and a band picked from the London ringers, which was won by the provincial men who scored a seven thousand of Royal. But the tenor proved too much for Charles Purser, who collapsed after ringing four thousand changes and so lost the match for the Londoners.

In 1806 the two societies of Cumberland Youths were contending for the honours of ringing the first peal of Stednan Cinques on the bells. The seniors started on December 13th for a six thousand and yot out after ringing upwards of 5,500 changes. Two days later the juniors rang a peal of 5,080 , and five days after that the first band was successful in their peal attempt.

Following this we have no record of any peal rung in the tower for over twenty years, with the exception of one of Treble Bob Maximus by the College Youths in 1808; but in 1829 the Cumberlands scored 5,015 changes of Grandsire Cinques, and that was the last peal on the twelve bells.

For many years Charles Purser had the charge of the bells and belfry. He was followed by Edward Bartell, another well-known ringer, who lived at 16, Union Street, in the parish, and had rung the tenor to the Court Bob Royal in 1804. He, in turn, was followed by a man named Dawson, who died at the end of the year 1835.

The appointment of his successor was in the hands of the vestry, and the churchwardens refrained from filling up the vacancy pending the meeting of that body at the ensuing Easter.

Meanwhile, the parish beadle had the charge of the belfry. He knew nothing about the bells, and cared less, and he employed or allowed a number of the young ringers of the district to do the service chiming. They were a somewhat undisciplined lot of young fellows, and though, for very good reasons, no names are mentioned, it is pretty certain that they included men who were afterwards known as the leading ringers of London. They turned the belfry into a sort of club room, where they met and spent their time talking, and smoking and, no doubt, handbell ringing, which was becoming very popular among the ringers of the district. It was a state of things which the Church authorities would not have tolerated for a moment had they known of it; but, apart from the disastrous sequel, it is impossible to say that there was anything particularly morally wrong about it. It was winter time, and to warm themselves they made a fire in a brazier.

On Wednesday, February 17 th, 1836, they spent some time in the belfry, and then, hearing someone come into the tower, and fearing to be caught where they had no business to be, they pushed the brazier behind the tenor box and decamped.

Later in the afternoon someone saw smoke coming from the belfry windows and raised an alarm. Fire engines were soon on the spot but, owing to the height from the ground, the water could not reach the fire, and the firemen confined their efforts towards saving the church, which they did mainly by cutting away part of the roof. A stiff wind was blowing and the fire burnt fiercely. As the floors, beams and frame perished, the bells crashed to the ground, and every one was broken or melted. By seven o'clock the fire was stopped, when the steeple was completely gutted.

The parochial surveyor reported that, besides the destruction of the bells, the roof of the church was partly burnt, the organ so damaged as to require reconstruction, the clock and chimes destroyed, the massive steeple entirely burnt out, and the stonework of the interior materially injured.

Churches in those days were not insured against fire, the damage had to be repaired by public subscription, and the restoration could not be done on the same lavish scale as the church was built. The twelve bells were not replaced, but sufficient metal was salvaged from the debris to make the present ring of eight, the tenor of which is 34 cwt .

The cause of the fire was never officially known. The beadle had good reason to keep his mouth shut, and fear of the consequences was enough to stop the culprits themselves from talking. Even Osborn who, as secretary of the Society of Cumberland Youths had as good an opportunity as anyone for learning the truth, only knew that the fire was caused by some boys who smoked in the belfry. But many years alterwards men like Mattlew Wood, Henry Haley, John Cox, and their friends used to tell what happened, and I think we may be sure that they gained their knowledge from something more than hearsay. At the time, Mathew Wood, who saw the fire, was only ten years old, and so could hardly have been in the belfry; but Cox was twenty-three and Haley seventeen, and though there is no proof that they were actually among the culprits, there is not much doubt that they belonged to the same party. Samuel Austin, who wrote an account which is now among the papers belonging to the College Youths, was of an earlier generation, and, like Osborn, was not privy to the secret.
The rew bells were cast in 1837, but evidently they did not go too well, and it was not until 1845 that the Cumberlands rang the first peal on them, one of Grandsire Triples with two men to the tenor.

Shortly afterwards eight College Youths rang another peal of Grandsire, and when they published the report in
The Era' they added, "It is only lair to remark that this is the first peal on the bells rung by eight men only, another society having failed to do so with the same number of men after several trials, and having only accomplished the same peal after much trouble with nine men."

But a year later the Cumberlands rang 5,280 changes of Kent Treble Bob Major single handed.

In 1850 both societies rang a peal of Stedman Triples on the bells, and in 1851 the College Youths rang the first non-conducted peal ever accomplished. The composition was Holt's Ten-part, and a Iocal builder had offered a prize of $f 5$ to the first band which should perform the feat.

A few peals have been achicved in the steeple since, the most notable being one of Bristol Surprise, rung just before the Great War on December 20th, 1913, by the Middlesex County Association. Emest Pye rang the tenor, William Pye called the peal from the seventh, and the band included such well-known ringers as Isaac G. Shade, Bertram Prewett and Alfred W. Grimes, besides C. T. Coles and Reuben Saunders, who are still among us. For several years now the bells have been unringable.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

YEAR'S WORK REVIEWED

The first meeting of the Norwich Diocesan Association since the war wes held at Normich on December 2nd and was very well supported. Mombers from Acle, Attleborougls, Bergh Apton, Buxtou, Forucett, Gressenhall, Halvergate, Mulbarton, Norwich, Reedlan, Saxlingham, Swaftham (st. Margaret's), Wymondham and Yarmouth overcame the lack of pool petrol and the terrors of the black-out and congregated at St. Michnel-at-Coslany Church, Norwich, and later in St. Miles' Mission Hall.
A zumber of touches in a variety of methods, including Cambridge and Suporlative Surprise, were rung on the historie bells before blackout hour arrived. Then a tea of goody proportions was ass!milated before the busigesg meeting, which wag presided over by the associntion's president, the Rev. Hugh Mchullan, Vicar of St. Peter Mancroft.
The ratification of the belfy elections of four ringers was confirmed, and Mr. Robert Gray, of Northrepps, was elected a ringrig member.

It was decided to publish a roport for the year as woul, and to keep the names of those who had joined the Forees on the books without payment.
A nomewhat leated discussion with regard to the holding of meetiags during the war and carryitg on the other normal activities of the associsition oceupied some time.
The general secsetary gave a resumé of the year's worl. He said, while 46 new members had been elected, 12 bad been lost through death, and, up to date, 42 subscriptions were outstanding, iv spite of charmingly wardec and bequtifully printed reminders which he had sent out There was a balance at present of 937 s . 11 ., and stocks of eertificates and badges were extratasted. Thirteen lwarik meetings had heen held, and all except one bad been very satisfactory. There were three restomtions to report - the recasting and hanging of Hethersett bella, the rchangigg of those at somerlestor and the eugmentation of the five at Paston to six. Fifty-one peals, including two on landihells, bad been rung, 124 ringers taking part, relying on the skill of 15 conductors.
Afler the meeting a number of touches were rung on handbells, and two of the party showed their adroitness at tuae ringing on bells larger than they normally grab at. Then the Rew. A. G. G. Thurlow made his first contribution to a ringing meeting in the diocese by lecturiug on his holiday in Norway, in the Arctic Ocean aud in Spitzbergen during June tlis year.
Mr. Thurlow proved himseif to be an expert cameraman, for he brought home with him a colour film of rare beauty, and this film was bighly appreciated by the meeting, as was tbe commantary thereon. Everybody envies Mr. Thurlow's hours in 'Paradise' with that charning young femalo tind his experiences in "Hell." N. G.

DEATH OF A VETERAN NORTHANTS RINGER

PHE PASSING OF MR. FRED JONES, OF EARLS BARTON.
We regret to announce the death, at the age of 80 years, of Mr . Fred Jones, of Earls Tatton, who passed away, after an illness of a little over a week, at the home of his brother, Mit. E. Jones, of Easton Maudit.
For more than sixty years he had been a ringer ad Earls Barton. He began his rigging at. Easton Msudit at the age of 18 and joined the Earls Barton band two yoars later. He was made a member of the old Central Northants Guild at a meeting at Earls Bertou on November 271h, 1909, and rang one peal of Minor.
For some years and up to hig deeth he was a member of the coulmittes of the Wellingborough Branch of the Peterborougli Diocesan Guild. So keen was lie on his art that during recent years he gave up two evenjags a week to the instruction of young men who wished to become ringers. He was very proud of Earls Barton's new peal of eight bells and never happier than when up among them seeing to their maintenance.

Although at sa ripe an ald age, he was a most enthosisstic adtendant at braneh meetings, and many times he has walked six or more miles to the place of gathering. The funerinl took place at Earls Barion Parish Church on Tuesday afternoon, December 5th, when tribute was paid to his worls by the Wicar (the Rev. L. A Ewart), Members of the choir were present, and ' abide with me' and 'Peace, periect peace" were surg.
The members of the district present included Messra. C. W. Partridge, G. Brafield and W. Perkins, and the latter brought with him a wreath as a last tribute of respect from the bratel.

In the evening touches of Grandsire Triples and a six-score of Stedman Doubles with $4-6-8$ covering were rung witl the bells halfmuttled Messrs. W. G. Callis (Mears Ashby and C. W. Partridge (Wilby) were present, and by the kindness of Mr. D. G. Deighton, of Rashden, Messrs. A. Bigley, H. Chambers and W. Perkins, of Irthingghorouspa, were enabled to help the local band with the ringing.

Mr. Morris rang in the peal of Stedman Ciaques hy 12 secretaries, the first 'Eraest' peal, and peals tyy four gets of brothers (Triples), four fathers and sons (Triples) and five fathers and sons (Royal).
As is well hzown, Mr. Morris is the euthor of "History and Art of Change Ringing,' Legeads $0^{\prime}$ the Bells," and other worke, and a Fellow of the Royal Higtorical Society-

MR. ERNEST MORRIS' 800 PEALS.

INTERESTHNG RECORDS IN A VARIED LIST.

As was recorded in our last issue, Mr. Ernest Morris, the hon. secretary of the Midland Countiea Association, rang his 800th peal on December 2nd at Loughborough Bell Foundry. His peals have been rung in a great variety of methods and iaclude a number of interesting records. There are among them 76 peals of Doubles, 91 peals of Minor, 155 peals of Triples, 301 peals of Major, 82 peals of Caters, 52 peals of Royal, 32 peals of Cinques and 11 peals of Maximus.

RINGING FOR CHRISTMAS.

A letter elsewhere in this issue from the Hon. Secretary of the Central Council further confirms the information which has already been published on the subject of church bell ringing in war time. There are still places in which eflorts are being made, under the Control of Noise Order, to restrict the ringing of church bells, but it is not the intention of the Ministry of Home Security that local authorities should do this. The Department, we learn, is, therefore, communicating with the Regional Commissioners on the subject. This step would appear to be necessary, for only this week we have received information that the Chief Constable of Cheshire has forbidden any ringing at a village in that county. There may, of course, be exceptional circumstances in this case, which make it desirable that the bells should not be rung, but, in view of the exception which the order provides, it will be interesting to know the exact grounds upon which the ban is based. It seems obvious, from the fact that the Minister is approaching the Regional Commissioners that there is a misunderstanding in some places, and no doubt the action of the Defence Authorities will put the matter right.
It is gratifying to learn that the Ministry is anxious that, as far as possible, normal ringing shall be continued, even to the extent of including in this category peals of ordinary length. In view of the desire of everyone that the morale of the people shall be maintained at a hiph level and of the attitude towards keeping up the usual activities of the public outside their working hours, including the encouragement of sport and entertainment, and everything that will lead to the quenching of pessimism or depression, it is of course a natural corollary that no attempt should be made to curtail the ringing of church bells which, taken by and large, is a thing which the great majority of English people like to hear, particularly on Sundays and on special occasions. Among the latter are the great festivals, and there is no occasion when the sound of church bells strikes the popular imagination more than on Christmas morning. Then, too, the ringing of bells at the passing of the old year, and their jovous pealing in the first minutes of the new year is not only a traditional practice in very many places, but is awaited with pleasant, and we may say, sentimental anticipation by vast numbers of people. It is a little surprising, therefore, to find doubts in the mind of the Ministry concerning ringing early on Christmas morning or at the passing of the old year. We wonder whether doubts would have arisen about these two occasions unless the sug(Coatinued on page 750.)

gestion had been made to the Ministry. The Hon. Secretary of the Council asks for a voluntary abstention from ringing on these two traditional occasions, principally, it appears, on the ground that it may disturb the rest of those who are engaged on work of national importance. We think this is taking a somewhat exaggerated view of the possible effect. This particular early morning and late night ringing is something which the public expect and, provided a reasonalle spirit is shown in the hour and duration of the ringing, we must say we feel bound to disagree, and we do it somewhat regretfully, with the suggestion of the Council's secretary. The early morning ringing on Christmas Day and late ringing on New Year's Eve will be impossible in many towers, because of the lighting restrictions, but wherever it is possible and has been customary we believe the public will clesire to have the traditional practice maintained and, indeed, will be disappointed if they fail to hear the belis. To ring on these occasions will only be to carry out, in one more direction, the aim which we all desire to achieve, namely, that of keeping up the public spirit and, after all, in as far as Christmas is concerned, what more appropriate action can be taken, in this distracted and warridden world, than to herald the festival with a reminder of the great message of 'Peace on Earth good will to men,' which perhaps summarises, better than any other phrase, what we and our Allies are fighting for-

OUR I,500th NUMBER.

This is the fifteen hundredth issue of 'The Ringing World." Established in 19II, this paper has endeavoured to foster the interest of ringers and raise the standard of ringing throughout these 28 years. With the exception of one week during the general strike of 1926, when publication was impossible, 'The Ringing. World ' has never failed to appear. Even in the vicissitudes of the last war the paper was published with the greatest regularity and, now that the country is once more in the throes of a similar struggle, we hope we may be able to continue similar service to the Exercise. We hope, also, that ringers will, in these difficult days, continue to give us their full support. It is not only during the present that this support is important to "The Ringing Worle, ' but it is important also for the future of ringing; for recovery from the present difficulties will be infinitely greater if there is no journal to help co-ordinate effort and keep ringers in touch with what is being done. This fifteen hundredth number is a suitable occasion, therefore, once more to direct attention to the imperative needs of this journal to the future fortunes of the Exercise.

THE IN AND OUT OF COURSE OF THE CHANGES.

Our tast week's talk on pricking changes will give us a good insight into another important matter connected with change ringing. That is the in and out of course of the changes or, as we more often say now, the nature of the rows.

This is a thing which at a very early time forced itself an the notice of ringers. As far back as the middle of the seventeently century Robert Roan set himself the task of composing a six-score on five bells produced by all double changes. He got as far as a three-score and then found that, in order to get the full extent he must mate two Singles. As he had produced our familiar 120 of Grandsire Doubles he had not laboured in vain.

Roan evidenty was a clever man, and perhaps he could see the reason for it all, and why he failed to get the extent of a five-bell method with all double changes. The men who followed him were just as sure from experience that the thing was not possible, but why it should be so seemed to then too deep to be understood, and the in-and-out-of-course of the changes came to be looked upon is a mathematical mystery which could be recognised, bat which could hardiy be explained.

Scveral of the ofder authors attempted to give an exAlanation, but their writing only showed the fog which was in their own minds, and it was left to Jasper Snowden, first in "Church Bells ' and then in his "Treatise uf 'Ircble Bob,' to yive the first satisfactory explanation wh the matter. Even his description rather defeats its own tods by being overweighted and attempting to explain too much.
fror the only difficulty about the question is its extreme simplicity. This is not a paradox, for simple things, just hecause they are simple and elementary, atre the hardest to explain.

We saw last week that each row is prodiced from the preceding row by transposing a certain number of pairs isf bells. Those rows which are produced directly or in-directly from rounds by transposing an even number of phirs are the even or in-course rows; and those which are produced directly, or indirectly, from rounds by transposing at odd number of pairs of bells are the odd or out-wl-course rows.

That is the full explanation of the matter, but one or two other things should be said.

When we get 21436587 from 12345678 we produce it directly from rounds by transposing four pairs of bells, and as four is an even number the row is an even row.

But very few rows are or can be got directly from rounds in this way. Between most of them and rounds many other rows intervene. In those cases we count all the pairs of bells which have been transposed in the intervening changes, and as the total number is odd or even so is the resultant row an odd or an even row.

For it is at mathematical fact that, though any row can he produced indirectly from tounds in a great number of Wrys, if one of those ways involves the transposition of ill odd number of pairs of bells so do all the ways. And il one involves the transposition of an even number of pairs of bells so do all the ways. You can never get a row Crom rounds in one way by transposing an odd number of pairs, and in amother way by transposing an even number of pairs, though you may be able to get it by ransposing any one of a great number of pairs, all ol which are even or all of which are odd.

Nowadays we usually talk about rows being odd of even. Some people prefer 'positive' and 'negative,' which are terms not nearly so suitable, although it is customary when marking the nature of rows to use the sign for the even rows and the - sign for the odd rows.
Older writers and, indeed, the whole Exercise, until the last forty or fifty years used the terms "in-course ' and out-of-course.'
Now most of the terms we use in change ringing did not appear because once upon a time someone invented them. Nearly all of them are ordinary English words Which cane into use naturally because they expressed the idea which was in the minds of the people at the timt: Only in the course of time did they harden into technical terms with precise and Iimited meanings.

When we remember this we can often recapture what was in the minds of the old ringers by studying the tems they used.

For instance, 'in-course ' and 'out-of-course' do not seen very good terms to distinguish between rows ol opposite nature, and in fact that was not what the early ringers meant when they use the terms. They knew from experience that if two bells, got shifted, no arrangement of bob calling would bring the belis round at backstroke. So they said the bells were out of course. They did not apply the term to individual rows. From the time a shilt had taken place, or a single had been made, until the: shift had been put right or another single had been made, all the changes were out of course, though the rows might1 be some odd and some even.

To this day the expression 'out of course" is often used with this meaning and quite legitimately. When ringing is groing on, it is a great help to the conductor if he can tell at any time whether the bells are in or out of course in this sense of the words, and there are more that one way of so doing. Ore way is to notice particular rows which come up and of which you know the nature. You know, for instance, that if the course end 42365 turned up, the bells are out of course. The better way is to judge liy the natural coursing order of the bells. Those conductors who have studied coursing order and made use of it when calling peals can tell in a surprisingly quick time whether the bells are in course or out of course.

THE FIRST PEAL OF MAXIMUS AT BOW.

AN ACCOUNT BY AN OUTBIDER
What is probably the best book ever written on the churches of London contains the following passage in its account of St. Mary-le Bow. Ringers will read with amusement, and it shows how badly astray even clever and well-intormed men gan go when they bry to writo about bolls fand bellringing.

The 1881 set of twelve bells were not rune with all the full honours of at "maximus" or twelve-bell method till January 19th, 1907. On that accasion a select party from the Ancient Society of College Youths-who were estahlished in 1637, and have always since that rate been the bow Church ringers-rang a touch on the method knows nmong cempanologists as Triple Bob Masimus, which, it I mistake not, is the ne plati ridta of twelve-bell ringing.

The completion of the same would linve taken nearly thirty-esgat to he if rertain stage in the procecdings, in four hours and one minate, working at thrific speed. This would give four hell strokes per sccond, and ench ringer wutld pull otte ia three seconds. To do this for the larger hells must require enormous skil?

There was a continnous roar of sound, bur one can hardly say monch eampanolagieal beauty, for the whole of the four hours. The noise in tho belfry must have bean pandemonis However, after this ceremony one nass suppose that the bella may lue considered beptiset and ready for any sort of service.

Also on this date, in 1810, the Sivilt, a not ringers rang 8,448 changes of Oxford Treble Bob Major
December dath was the annjversary of the first peal accomplished in the county of Devon. The method was Grandsire Triples and it was rung at St. Sidwell's, Exeter, by a band of ringers From Hurntshan, assifted by William Banister, of Devonport, who conducted. C. A. W Troyte rang the seventh. He did much for the art not only in 1 ine West, but, by means of his mell-known text book, throughout the country
Banister, who had been one of a very skilful band at, Woolwich, was also the author of a text book on ringing, which was largely modelled on Hubbard's 'Campenalogis.'
On December 19th, 1853, a band of the Curnlserland Youths, which included John Cox and Henry Haley, rafg 5,040 chenges of Stednan Triples in hand. William Conter, who heard the peal, seserted that Cox changed his bells and put them right agaia just before a part end came up. As his assertion seems to be a well-founded one, the honour of rifging the fisst double-handed peal in the method belongs to the College Youtis.

On the same date in 1730 Benjamin Annable called a peal of Boh Triples at St. Saviour's, Southwark, the only five thourand ever schieved on the old eight belle in that tower.
It was & very fine heary bell feat when, on December 19th, 1925 . William Pye turned the fimous old Bow tenor in to 7,392 changes of Cambridge Maximus.

Last Wednesday was the one hundred and thirty-third anniverstry of the long peal of Stedman Cinques at Christ Ghurch, Spitalifelds, mentioned in our last issue. Thirty years later on the same date the Junior Society of College Youths rang 5,001 changes of Staduan Caters at Southwark.

On Cluristmas Eve, 1934, the hast pesl connecled with the Austratian tour was rung. It was a pesl of Bob Major on the Red Sea, rung liy the remnant of the party making the bomeward trip via Sutz. Five of the rest were steaming eastward and two had been left behind in India.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN H. CHEESMAN.

A TALENTED RINGER.
We much regret to announce the death of Mr. Johm H. Cheesman, late of Greenhithe, Kent, who was well known to so many of our readers as a leading ringer and coniuctor. Two years ago Mr. Cheesman fell and broke his arm, and since then he had not been really well, but had spent much time in various hospitals, inclading a month in Guy's, ten weeks in Gravesend General Hospital, and about six weeks in the County Hospital at Dartford.
At the outbreak of the war he and Mrs. Cheesmen removed to Margate, whare at first he seemed to pick up a little, but lo had to enter the lecal hospital, where he underwent three operations, the last on Wednesday, December 13 j , from which le did not recover, but passed away early last Priday.
Mr. Cheerman was born on January 23rd, 1872, at Stontiug, mear Folkestone. He learnt, to ring on the five bells in his native village, and on his seventeenth birthdey, rang and conducted his first peal at Lyminge, turaing in the 18 ewb. tenor to seven 720's of Bob Minor. Soon afterwhte he moved to North Kent and joined the visy active band at Crafford. At the age of 19 lis rang the temar at St. John's, Erith, to 10,000 charsges of Canterhury Pleasure Major in 5 hours and 50 minutes.

THE LATE MR. J. H. CHEESMAN.
In the year 2894 the went bo Now Zealand, but he felt the absence of ringing there, and four wears later returned home. Erith in those days, was the scene of mach peal ringing, and the late Wijliam Pye and his brothers were often there. On April 3rd, 1899, 15,072 of Double Norwich was rung: on April 9th the first peal of London Surprise by Mr. Cheesman and the brothers Pye; on April 22nd a peal of Dotble Norwich; on May 6ith a peal of Stedman Triples; on Mar 17th a peal of Duffield Major; and on June 1st a peal of SuperIative Surprise. Also at Frith on Boxing Day, 1898. he took pert in 10,464 of Kent Treble Bob Major. Altogether at this tower lie rang about 150 peals, and very nearly as many at Crayford.
His other long lengths jscluded the 18,027 of Stedman Caters at Loughborough in 1909 , which took 12 hours and 18 minutes, and was at the time the record leugth in any method; the 15,264 of Bristol Surprise Major at Hormehurch in 1912 (in which he never made a trip); the 7.392 of Cambridge Maximus et St. Mary-le-Bow in 1925: ard 1I, 008 of Double Norrich at Esith in 1927.
As a conductor he liad few equals, and no composition was too difficult for him. He was particularly brillient in calling Stedman and conducted about 200 peals in that method on all numbers, in(Continued in nert column.)

THE RINGING OF CHURCH BELLS.  CIVIL DEFENCE REGULATIONS.

To the Editor

Sir, At the beginning of Norember 1 was able to jeswe a notice regarding the above wheh had the approval of the Ministry of Home Sectrity. This notice had been under discussion for some time prov to its issue, but publication was delayed so as not to anticipate tho Control of Noise No. 2 Order.
Since the issue of this circular many reports of objections by the police hese reached me, those being principally through misinterpretation of the No. 2 Order.
In sompe cases tingers and jucumbents are uncertair as to the positian. I am naw alble to state the followizg :-

1. The approved circular tas confirmed.
2. The words 'customary manner' mean service ringing, i, e., Sumdays, saints' days and other Festivals, ete., weekly praction, associatiou metings, and peals of normal length. The Ministry are anxious than. so far as is possible, all aormal ringing shail be continued. Tlo Ainistry are also aware that peals of sormal length take approximately three to four liours.
3. To overcome the difficulties which have arisen ab various placos the Ministry are communioating with all Regionaj Commissioners on Home Security encloeing a copy of the circular, togethor with the further particularg above.
The one question which is causing some anciety to the Minisiry concerns midnight and early morning ringing at Cluristmas and for the New Year. There is nothing in the Control of Noise Act to probibit this ringiag, so way $I$ ask for a voluntary abandonment of these ancient practices during the present troubles? Ringers are asked to remeraber that many engaged on work of national importanec may be enjoying a well-earned rest, and that it is important that this brief holiday should not be disturbed.
I an grateful to those who lave adviaed me of their difficulties and would ask that they would egain mpproach those who are reeponsible, with a request that the mather be roferred to the Regional Commissioner. If mo satisfaction is ohtaned and they will write to me again, the Ministry wi!! be advised.
In all cases please try to ayoid bad feeling with thoso who are trying to serve us all in the interests of public sceurity.
May I invite all those who commusicate with the Mjnistry to send me a copy of their lether, or write to me direct, as the Ministry arr now referring rimging mathers to me, and wilh full particulars in loand I may be af greater assistance to everyhody.

RINGING THE OLD YEAR OUT.

Dear Sir,-I suppose ringing in the New Tear will be out of the quebtion thig year. And yet ju seems to me there would be no danger. especially so far west as this, in ringing a short touch.

Martock, Somerset. P. FARRANT
There is nothing, in law, to prevent church bells being rang at the teprtture of the old year, provided, of course, the regulations relating to the liglting restrictions are obscrved. The Control of Naisc (Defence) (No. 2) Order provides that no instrument slall be sounded except for air raid signal purposed, or "in such circumstances that the sound of t.te instrameut is not liable to bo mistaken for any buth signal." Claurch bells, ringing in the customary way, could not, of course, be mistaken for an bir raif signal, aud, under the Order. there ts no restriction as to the hours durjeg winch church bells may be rung.-EDitor, 'Rioging Warld."

THE MUSIC OF CATERS.

EFFECTS OF THE TITTUM POSITION

By Edgar C. Shepherd.

The history of change ringing, like the history of other branches of music, is the story of the growth of Art Forms. Musically, the establishment of Form in change ringing was not possible until ringing was practised on higher numbers than six bells. On the lesser numbers there was mathematical Form and Truth, but beyond an innate desire to keep 5.6 the right way in Minor, nothing could be done on any musical plan.

From the moment, however, when that great genius, Ben Annable, "saw no reason for parting the tenors it a peal of five or six thousand,' a musical liorm may be said to have been established. What was the basis of ibis musical Form? It was undoubtedly the principle of making the heavy bells (perhaps two, or perkiaps more) play a tune of their own and to play it as they coursed to and fro amid the embroidery of sound from the lesser leells.

If you Jisten to one of those grand old chorales of 1. S. Bach you will notice how the simple strong tune is wrapped round and round with a beautiful decoration of other melodies. They weave over and under the tune, and yet the tune stands out from its framework, going on sturdily among the marvellous patterns of the added melodies. In a much lesser degree it is so with the use of the heavy bells on the higher numbers. In Major it may be only the beating of 7 and 8 as they course to and Iro among the pattern their lrethren are making, or it may be the more satisfying tune that 6,7 and 8 can make; but it is this persistence that provides rhythmic pleasure to what would otherwise be an unthythmical succession of sounds.

The ringing of Caters provided, of course, scope for a big advance in musical Form. To judge by the old peats given in 'Campanalogia' (about 1700 ) the early ringing if Caters was a very jumbled business. It was not as if the heavy bells were kept in their plain course positions las is suggested by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies). They were allowed to take their chance. The small bells were the half-hunts, while the big bells wanderecl about quite aimlessly. When, however, Annable threw them 'into the harmonious tittums ' he performed a service for change ringing as great as that performed for instruinental music by Haydn. The Symphony is, of course, far and away above the Tittum position in its sublimity, but both are the products of the love of Form so marked in the 18th century.

The Tittum position provided a satisfying tune, $7-8-9$, and the 'framework' of the bells was big enough for them to be heard a great deal on their journeys from front to back and back to front. The result was a delight that has never palled. In addition we were provided with the beautiful termination $97^{8}$ and the termination -89. The 8.9 termination is worth noting. The 8.9 alone was good, but how much better it was with 7 close at hand.

The position was so satisfying that it was guile a long time before the thought of adding to it became a conscious one. It is true that the peals of Annable, Reeves and Gross show the 6th behind the gth, but it is not until the time of stout old John Martin, of Leicester, that we find this position fully appreciated. For Martin the Tittum position was sublime, and he does not besitate to record his delight in it. To it he added the joy of using the 6th. We find in his peal book a reverence and admiration for the blocks of changes with the 6th behind the gth, and he loses no opportunity of drawing our attention to compositions in which he has incorporated what he calls. 'the long twelve-hundred course with ye 6th behind ye gth.' And there is no doubt that the 6tly was a royal addition. The tune $7-8-9$ was very pleasant, but 7-8-9-6 was a greater joy. The termination $7-89$ was very good, but 7689 was the quintessence.

The old classical plan of long-course calling, with bobs on 8.9 and 7.8 , did not lend itself to the retention of a bell in Gth's place, and it was not until the time of Tebbs, at the beginning of the igth century, that the short-course plan gave opportunities for the 6th to be fixed in front of the 7 th. Here was a new effect. One missed the 768 , termination, but in place of it there was a grandeur in the new tune $6-7-8-9$ rolling down to the front, and uplifi in the surge of $9-8-7-6$ towards the back.

It is one of those inexplicable mysteries that, while the plain course position 6789 is comparatively uninteresting, the inverted plain course position, usually called the Handstroke Position, is so very beautiful. But it is so. The termination 7698 , followed by 6789 , seems trite and commonplace, but $6-89$, followed at backstroke by 7698 , achieves a great measure of beauty and majesty.

Although the position was found in the middle of the isth century, it does not seem to have been appreciated and exploited unti! nearly a hundred years fater. It was certainly used for bringing the bells round at hand, and Henry Cooper, in his peal, dated 1816 , used two or three courses in the position; but until the middle of the igth century the musical aim seens to have been to keep the bells in the Tittums as long as possible. From the middle of the 19th century, however, the "Handstroke Home' position was exploited fully, and, while it has never equalled the Titturn position, it has been its closest rival.

The effect of 'open leads' is rowhere demonstrated so clearly as in the difference between the Tittums and the Inverted Titums. In the fatter the music is at handstroke, and while it cannot compare with the Tittum position, yet one feels that Mr. Trollope is hardly fair when he calls it very poor stuff. It is certainly the best form for muffled ringing, where the open handstrokes need the best music, and when employed in this way it can be very noble and awe-inspiring.

The earliest attempt to use the position systematically appears in a long touct given in Shipway's book of 1816 , but it was left to the end of the rgth century to adopt it for the specific purpose of muffled ringing. In this particular Form the use of the 6th should be noted. If you wish to get the 7689 termination you must have the 6 th at home, whereas it will be recollected, in the Tittums the 61 h must be fifth's-place bell to produce this termination.

From the middle of the rgth century onwards many experments were carried out in the use of the back bells in different positions, but, apart from the Tittums and the Inverted Tittums, none of these placings is very satisfactory without the constant attendance of the 6th. Lising the 6th in conjunction with variation of the position of 7,8 , and 9 , however, some fine musical effects can be secured. Thus, 7968 is good as a termination, and the 'tune' is $7-6-8-9$. The 7806 position is a handsome

THE DEKYNS OF COVENTRY.  MEDIAVAL BELL RINGERS.

By J. Armiger Trollope.

112 the year i834 a man who signed himself - T.S. sent to the ' British Magazine' a transcript of two ancient manuscripts, which were preserved in the vestry of Holy Trinity Church, Coventry. They are a copy of the 'constitutions of the office of the deacons' in that church, drawn up in the year 1462, and they have great historical value, not only as showing the duties of parochial officers at the time, but also (and for us ringers much more important) as throwing a good deal of light on the conditions of early ringing and the genesis of the Exercise. The dekyns were two in number, a senior and his fellow. As we read, we quickiy realise that they were uot deacons in the correct neeaning of the word, but the term is used as the equivalent of ' clerk,' which is freguently employed in the same sense in contemporary writings.
The diaconate was originally foumded, as we know from the Acts of the Apostles, as a body of men who should attend to the temporal and mundane aftairs of the Church and save the apostles from the necessity of 'serving tables'; and much of the original idea still clung (at least in theory) to the office through the succeeding ages. But long before the Middle Ages it had become, which it is Lo-day, litte more than as novitiate to the priesthood, though all along there were men who remained, for some reason or other, in deacon's orders throughout their lives, with no intention of taking the higher step. This was not uncommon in the post-Reformation Churcly of England, notably among the fellows of colleges at the two universities.

One of the duties of the deacuns in early times was to assist the priest at Mass, both by making the necessary preparations and at the actual celebration. At High Sass the three ministers were the priest, the deacon and the sub-deacon, the chief cluties of the two last being to read the gospel and epistle. This custom has been retained in the Churcls of England, whenever it is possible, although the titles aro not used in the Prayer Book.

What we have to notice is that the duties, and, to some extent, the title of the deacon were dissociated from the actual order of deacons. The deacon at High Mass might be, and usually was, in priestly orders, or he piece of work, for not only is , the 'tune ' $7-5-5-6-8$, but every so often we get the termination $\boldsymbol{i}-9-68$. It wifl be seen at once that while the termination 68 is grood, its iffect is immeasurably greater because 7 and 9 are close at hand.

The six placings of 689 all have interesting features ancl wisl provide good music. In taking advantage of them there is no need to lose the 7 th. $7689,7968,7896$, -869 and 7698 wili cach vield 24 courses, and it is not too difficult to turn the bellis from one position to another.

To get the best music then, we must aitn at two things:-
(1) Keeping 7,8 and 9 close together:
(2) Making good use of the 6th.

No. I alone will not satisfy us entirely, nor is No. 2 of any use if the th is allowed to get away; but a judicious use of both means will place a wealth of musical possibility at our disposal. might be a bishop, as is always the case in the Coronation service. Of course, the superior orders included the lesser.

On the other hand, much of the deacon's duties were performed by men who were not in major orders at all.

These Coventry constitutions give an interesting example of this confusion of titles and duties. The senior dekyn had to 'find a dekyn to read the gospel at hye masse every sonday ond woly (holy) day. He was not to read it hinnself-he was not qualified. It is rather a strange order, but it shows that tre was responsible for all the arrangements of the service and for seeing that the necessary ministers were available.

The dekyns of Coventry, ther, were not, strictly speaking, deacons at all, but belonged to that body of men who were usually referred to as 'clerks.' They were not laymen. They were clerics in minor orders and enjoyed the 'benefit of clergy,' which was one of the causes of the bitter disputes between Church and State in the Middle Ages. They claimed exemption from the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts and could not be punished by the king's officers, ever! for such crimes as murder, until they had been condemned by an ecclesiastical court, and degraded from their orders. - This benefit of clergy lingered long after the Reformation and was not finally abolished unti! the beginning of the last century, the last people to enjoy it being, oddly enough, the members of the House of Lords.

The clerks as a body took an important part in Church life. In secular conventual churches, in the many lospitals, in colleges connected with parish churches, and is the parish churches themselves they were indispensable. Socially and in importance they were at least the equals of the chantry priests, and, though they were inferior in status to the incumbents, they all came from much the same class of people, and there was no great social distinction between them.

In the Coventry manuscripts we have a detailed list of the duties of the two dekyns, which do not differ in escentials from those of the clerks throughout the country.

At half past six in the morning of every week day the second dekyn had to be at the church to unlock the doors for Matins. If it was a commemoration, that is, an ordinary saint's day (of which there were many), the first dekyn had to be there, too, to help to ring "all in." They got ready the books and vestments and assisted at Mass, and at High Mass sang in the choir.

After the service was done the first dekyn was responsibie for seeing that the chalice and books were safely locked up in the vestry. At three in the afternoon, if it was a saint's day, a. ' feast of nine lessons ' or a double feast, he had to be in church to help to ring "all in" and to sing in the choir as rector, or leater, on the south side, and afterwards to lock up the church.

His other duties included sweeping the floor of the choir when needed and cleaning away snow; and he and his fellow were specially charged to keep the leads of the church clean. He had to provide holy water for the priest and to bear holy water to every house in his ward, to hang a towel about the font at Easter and Whitsurtide, to vest the altars, to tend the lamps and find oil, to find palms for Palm Sunday, and to watch the sepulchre at Easter.

At Mass he had to see that the holy bread was cut up and distributed to every man according to his quality; (Continued on pext page.)

THE DEKYNS OF COVENTRY

and he had to attend the priest when he went to visit the sick, or else find a deputy. He had also to provide 'iij dysciplyn rods,' and presumably to use then on refraclory boys.

In Lent the two deykns helped the churchwardens tu veil the altar and rood 'and $y^{e}$ churche wardens schall gyffe them money to drynke.

To some extent the second dekyn was the assistant ot the first, but he had clearly defined duties of his own. He had his part of the cluurch and the leads to ciean and keep clear of snow. He liad to lead the singing on the north side of the choir; and, while his fellow had to provide a deacon to read the gospel, he had to provide a child to act as server. He had to take charge ol funerals, put on his surplice and escort the body to the church, and to provide candles. 'Also he schall helpe to sarve at ev'y drenkyng after ev'y derige done at $y^{\text { }}$ coste of $y^{*}$ churche.

Two things are especially noticeable in these constitutions. One is the importance of the bells in the services of the church; the other is that all the care and maintenance and use of them was entrusted to the clerks. They took charge in turn. During one quarter the first dekyn had to oil the bells and look to the baldricks and the ropes. If anything was amiss he had to report it to the churchwardens so that it might be put right in due season. The next quarter the second dekyn took charge, and so turn and turn about.

The first dekyn rang the day bell, that is the twelve o'clock bell. The second dekyn rang curfew at eight in the evening, and afterwards "he schall searche $y^{*}$ churche all aboute lest ther be any p'sons lyeing in any sete or corner and yen lokke, $y^{\text {e }}$ churche dur sure.

These were secular bells, rung for secular purposes. There is no mention of the ringing of an angelus or ave bell, though no doubt many pious persons would repeat the 'Hail Mary' when they heard the sound of a bell rung primarily for other reasons.

The fees for the use of the bells at buryings and obiits were given to the dekyns, and they were made responsible for the bells being rung whenever the bishop, king, queen, or prince came to Coventry. Royal visits to the city were rare, and this probably was the general rule and custom throughout the country.

There are many instances of parishes being fined for not ringing on such occasions, and at Holy Trinity it was ordered that if there was such negligence the dekyns should bear any fine that might be incurred.

Throughout the day the services-Matins, Mass and Evensong-were marked by bell ringing, the more important feasts being distinguished by two bells being rung instead of one. There were also special services; during Lent the first dekyn rang the great bell to compline on Saturdays, but on ferial days the second dekyn rang the first bell.

THE FIRST PEAL OF KENT MAXIMUS.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir, The tirst peal which we know without any doubt whatever was Kent Treble Twelve was, as Mr. Walker points out, the 7,200 rung at. St. Martin'e, Birminglum, in 1820

But the Cumberlands rang between December 131k, 1794, and May 26tlu, 1795, 5,200 Cumberland Royal Treble Bob at Shorediteli, "the noost that can be rung in 9 courses '; 5,232 Gumberland Treble Hon Maximus, at Southwitk, the fixst rang on 12 bells in this method 5,504 Cumberland 'J'reble Boly Major at Bishopsgate, and 5,180 of the same at Edmonton.

It is certain that the method was a close variation of Oxford Trelste Bob. Shipway rang in the Lidmonton peal, and we can be almost sure that he would give the trathod iu fis book. The Cumberlands rang th: first peal of 'real' Double Bob Major inl 1769 and called it Cumberland Real Double eight-in" the first peal of "real" Douhle Graudsire Ceters in 1770, and called it Cumberland Caters real double: and tle first peal of 'renl' Double Grandsire Cinques, and called it Cumberland's Cinques. We know from the Claris what methods actually were rung in these instances, though aeither the book idon the Exercise generally accepted the new titaes. The composition of the peal of Raya! rung is 1794 at Shoreditch was obviously Recyes' 9 -course peal of Treble llols, and, taking everything into consideration, it is diffealy to see what ipethod could have been rung except kent Treble Bob.
So I think we may fuirly ecunclude that the peal rung at Southwark on Mondas, Marth 9 th, 1795 , was the first of Kent Treble Bol Maximus.

a New bell at eastbourne  \section*{RLNGER'S GLFY'.}

A uew bell has been given to Holy Trinity Church, Eastbourue, hy Mr. Albert Piper, depury warden, in mennory of his wife. Mr. Piper is one of the original members of the Sussex Association, and was formerly attached to St: Peler's, Brighton, compaus. Another #ng ing colleague, Mr. Edward Bray, is sexton and werger, although Holy Trinity las but nne bell. The previous bell, which has been in uate for over a century, has been presented to the Bishop Hamnington Memorial Church, Hove.
The dedication of the new belt at Holy Trinity Church was juerformed by the Vicar, and a tablet hearing the following inscription was then unveiled by the Vicar: "The befl in this tower was given to the glory of God and in metnory of Sarals Ans Piper, who died 14th April, 1939, aged 71 years. Silie was for meny yemre a humble worker for the Charch. Her first thought war for others.'
During ihe dedication ceremony Mr. Yiper was attenced by a manber of his sidesmen colleagues, and afterwards he went into tho tower and tolled the hell several timbes.
Preaching on the fext ' Bells of pure gold.' the Viear expressed the hape that the hell might he instrumental in drawing many to Christ
The betl was cast at the ancient Church Bull Foandry in Whitechapel, and is a deen $C$ sharp. It is intsesting to note that the samic firm (Mears and Stainbank) cast the former bell, which was made for the opening of Trinity Church in 1838.

ANCIENT BELL FRAMES.

To the Editor

Sir,-I was very interested in the letter with refereace to ike Mapley frame at Welleshourne, Warwickshire, whict appeared in " The Ringing World, issue of Derember Ist, but there is one in the same locality which is, I think, even older.
At Alderminster Yarish Clarch near Stratford-on-Avon is an uak belf frame. still in use, which is said by the local ringers to be 600 yeard old-at any rate, it was there when the ofdest inell in the tower yeard old-8t any rate, it was thl was irstalled hy Haplev in 1653 .
 franue with new fittings this year by Messrs. Taylor and ${ }^{\circ} \mathrm{Co}$, and are datell ns follows: Treble, 1939 , Tayior; 21d. 1714, Ruthal1: 3rd, 1853 , Bagley: 4hh, 1668. Bagley ; 5th, 176. Rudhall: 'tenor, 1676, Begley ( 12 cwt . 2 ll . in F.)
They are descrihed in "Aneient Warwickshire Churches' be a 'most mucient and tuneful peul,' which is certainly irue. It would upplear that the frame dates af least from 1853-6lirty years earlier than the Wellesbourne example.

LOOKING BACKWARDS.

War came this year to cut off suddenly the activities of ringers, as it disrupted the even flow of almost every phase of normal life, and 1939 goes out amid an upheaval, the effects of which no one can foresee. In attempting a review of ringing in the past twelve months it is only possible to say that a year which opened brightly and showed great prospects of producing results as good as if not better than any of its immediate predecessors has ended in placing the art under a heavy cloud. Compared with the great issues at stake that is a matter of no importance, but one cannot help regretting the setback which ringing has received. That it will recover in the better days which lie ahead, when his conflict is over, and the world, we hope, will be allowed to live in peace, there can be no doubt. Ringing rose after the last war to greater heights than evesbefore, and it will do so again when this country and its Allies come, as assuredly they will, successfully out of the war. But unti! those happier days it is left to the ringers who remain in the belfries to carry on the task as best they can.
Reviewing, in these last days of the old year, the effect of the war on ringing, the most striking thing was the sudden cessation of everything connected with the activities of ringers when war was declared. Nothing could have been more complete than the way in which ringing was abandoned. It was, perhaps, not altogether surprising. Everyone had anticipated that, as soon 25 war broke out, the country would be subjected to devastating attacks from the air, and no one knew where the blows would fall. Until there had been time to measure the effects of the changed world about us, it was natural that ringing, among other things, should be entirely suspended. Slowly, however, after the first two or three weeks, when it was found that the threatened attacks from the air did not materialise, ringers began to retura to their towers. In the limited revival which has followed we think' The Ringing World' can claim some share for the lead it gave. That there was no official reason for the abandonment of belf ringing has been made plain in the Control of Noise Orders which have been issued by the Minister of Home Security. The authorities, except a few local police officials, have seen no objection to the normal use of bells, and. it is now becoming the general practice once again to ring for Sunday services, where blackout restrictions do not intervene. More and more, we hope, ringers will get the bells going in town and village and, with regard to the latter, we think the recent pronouncement of the (Continued on page 782.)

Minister of Hone Security, that it is not even intended that air raid warnings sha! be sounded in rural areas, gives still greater reason why any local bans which may still remair on the ringing of village church bells should be lifted.

But what of the year 1939 before the war began? The eight months to the enll of August were full of promise. No record lengths were rung, but records were made in other directions which rank equally jigh in merit. Foremost, probably, were the performances by bands in the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. A six-bell company, it will be remembered, made three succossive records in spliced method ringing by increasing the number of methods in a peal of Minor fron $8_{4}$ to 100 , then to 102 and afterwards to 104. These were outstanding achievements which only a few years ago were not even dreamed of, for the reason, if for nothing else, that it was not deemed possible to incorporate so many methods in seven true extents of Minor. Then, too, Lincolnshire must be credited witls one of the other notable performances of the year when a band rang a peal in ten Surprise Major methods. Worcestershire men also gathered laurels by ringing a spliced peal in eght Surprise Major methods, and the Hertfordshire handlbell band continued their remarkable achicvements by further peals in Spliced Surprise Major on handbells. Yes, the year certainly showed greal promise, for alongside these outstanding performances were many hangs whin indicated progress in many cuarters.

But the blow which fell at the end of August and seemed at firsi entireiy to paralyse ringing will prove to be merely one of the fortunes of war. True, with the calls made uporn the mind and energy of men, such things as ringing must take a very subsidiary place, yet there is, nevertheless, a place even for ringing in the distracted life which we are now living. The coming year may present new difliculties, and in anv event ringing inevitably must be carried on in a very subodued manner, but that is no reason why all concerned, both in towers and associations, should not bend all their available energies towards keeping the art going and strengthening their forces, ats far as possible, against the time wher peate on earth will once more permit the bells to come agyain into their own: when in Tennyson's immortal words, they may indeed:

Ring out the thousand wars of old, Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and frec,
The larger hearl, the kindlier iand,
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

SOME RULES OF METHOD CONSTRUCTION.

When, nearly fity years ago, the Central Council was started, it set itself the task of drawing up rujes, formulating definitions, and generally tidying up all matters conrected with the art and science.

In this it was largely influenced by Sir Arthur Heywood (or, as he was then, Mr. Percival Heywood) and naturally so, for he was fully qualified socially and intellectually to be a leader of nen.

Among the things he desired to have settled were the rules which should govern the construction of a method. He had, himself, given the matter a lot of consideration, had published several articles in 'The Bell News,' and in his excellent little book on Duffield had explained many of the qualities which he thought every method should possess.

Quite a number of people were publishing methods which offended his sense of what was reght, and he thought that the way out of the difficulty would be for the Council to draw up a number of definite rules to distinguish what was then called a 'legitimate' method from an 'illegitimate ' one.

He did not actually introduce the matter himself, for he was the President and would, of course, have to occupy the chair, but left it to Henry Earle Bulwer, with whom he had closely collaborated in several investigations into ringing problems, and who was very largely in sympathy with his views.

The result was not quite what was intended. Instead of a few simple rules being agreed to, a committee was appointed to go into the matter. This was the beginning of the Methods Committee and of a long and keenly fought out controversy.

For it speedily became clear that there was anything but agrement on the matter among those people who were called 'experts,' and it is equally clear now that this disagreement was mainly because all those people did not really know so much about the matter as they thought they did.

The question has been settled, not by one set of controversialists being proved to be right and the other wrong (for that can hardly be said), but by bringing to the test of actual experience what was for the most part in those days conjecture and theory.

Heywood's own jdeas were mainty based on the dictum that the only thing which matters is music. Everything must give way to that, and he had formed some definite opinions of what rnade for good music and what lid not.

Not all of then will stand any real test. He accepted the rule, as did everyone else, that the tenors should be kept together as nuch as possible and held, rightly, that double dodging is the finest movement in ringing. But he did not stop to consider what nathematical laws were involved in combining the two. In fact, neither he nor anyone else thought that mathematical laws had anything particular at all to do with the construction of a method. The bells were mixed up in a lead, pretty much as one liked within limits, and if a lead end was produced which would repeat the required number of times, a method, good or bad as the case might be, was the result.

One rule he rather strongly insisted on for the sake of the music. Places should not be made together side by side. He did not go so far as to say that it must never be done, but, in his opinion, it was a defect.

It is difficult to follow him here and to see why, for instance, the first four changes of Oxford Treble Bols, in which third's and fourth's are made together, are musically inferior to the first four changes of Superlative, where third's and sixth's are made.
C. D. P. Davies was a great authority on the composition of Grandsire Triples. In that he did pioneer work of real excelience. When he started, the problen was whether a peal in the nethod was possible with common bobs only, and this coloured and influenced his entire outlook on all ringing problems. A peal of Grandsire on seven bells should (if possible) consist of triple changes and triple changes only, and therefore an eight bell method must consist of alternate quadruple and triple changes without any deviation from the regular succession.

That meant that only those methots which we recently described as 'backstroke' metlools were legitimate. It meant that such methods of London and Bristol and, above all, Cambridge, were to be rejected as 'iilegitimate,' and that he was quite prepared to do. He had the courage of his opinions, and he published one or two pamphlets and his book on the Surprise Methods to spread these ideas.

Heywood rather inclined to the same opinion. He laid it down as an axiom that ' every bell must move that can move,' which, properly understood, is a perfectly sound and important truth. It must be remembered that in those days London was rung only by one or two very expert bands, and Cambridge was rather despised as an early and crude attempt at method building. These ideas, which to us seem rather absurd, could easily be reconciled with the methods then rung.

But Heywood had an advantage which Davies and Bulwer lacked. He was closely associated with the Burton-on-Trent band and had a good band in his own tower and so could bring his theories to the test of personal practical experience. He had rung peals of London and was not prepared to reject it altogether. His conclusion was rather a lame one. London might brcak the strict rule, but the question was how much illegitimacy might be allowed in a legitimate method.

After half a century's experience the conclusion the Exercise has reached is that the regular succession of the nature of the rows is of no importance, except so far as it is necessary for the production of true peals.

There are still, however, a large number of men who hold that a seven-bell merhod must be all triple changes and a nine-bell method all cater changes.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION

DERBY DISTRICT

The last meeting of the year was held at St. Michael's, Alvasten, on Satarday, December 16th, when members attended from Nottingham, Snwley, Breaston, Burton, Ticknall, Spondon and Derby, with the local ringers. The methods rung included Bob Minor, Granisire mad Stedman Doubles, Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge Surprise, Spliced Treble Bob, Double Cuurt, Oxford Bob and Kent Treble Bob
A short business meetjog was held in the belfry, at which the secretary read a lelter from the Ohief Constable gaymg he did not think it would be wise to ring the bells for any, lengthy period either on Clristmas Eve or any other day, as it might interfere with an asr raid waraing. The meeting interpreted this as referring to peal ringing The secretary stated that lie had left with the police a copy of 'The Ringiag World' containing the correspondance with the authorities on tire subject, and had been advised to carry on as usual unless he beard from them to the contrary.
The annual meeting and the election of officers will be leld at St. Andrew's, Derby, on Sgaturday, Jantuary 13th, 1840.
The seeretary gave a short summary of the meetimg held auring the year. Nize meetiags were held, end one, which was arranged Et Belper just prior to the outbreak of war, had to be postponed, the Vicar eafing that lie considered the bells ought not to be rung, as the public might put a wrong construction on the matter. The average attendance was 24 . Sevon new ringing members had been alected, bix had rejoined and three had beea tranferred from tho Burton district owing to removals, one of them being the Rev. LioydJones, who was now Rector of West Hallem. Two old members, Mr. Walter Wallace and Mr. Charles Davies, of Melbourne, had been added to the list of life members.
This was considered a very aatisfuctory statement in wiew of the war and the fect that meetings had been discontinued in the district. Fandbells were then brought into use and brought to a conclusion what all considered had been a very successful meeting.

FOUR-PART PEALS OF BOB MAJOR  WHAT THE BARKTNG MEN DID.

To the Editor.
Dear Sir,-Recently in "The Ringing World' you pablished the figures of two peals of Bob Major. The firgt one I kyow well.
When wa stacted to learn to ring at Barking in the terrible winter of I895 we were being laught change rimging wader Samuel Hayes and York Green. We went along rather fast and were soon tekea on to ring bandbells. We practised Bob Major at first and we soon mastered thal, those wha tools part being T. Faulsner, A. Herdy, E. Fene end C. Fenn. While we were making heedway York Green gave ps something te do. He wanted one of us to composed a peal so that when wa rang it wa could make it afl Barking
A. Hardy was first to get a compasition and gave his peal to York Green, who proved it. I got one out a fow weeks leter. It was a wariation of Hardy's and was the same as you published in 'The Ringing World ' last weak. Hardy's peal was ruyg on handbells on July 4th, 1896, condacted by T. Faulhmer. I kave enclosed the figures. The one you published was rang at Harwich, Essex, and A. Hardy whs the composer and it whs a variation to his,
Afterwarde Mr. Green asked us to get the sixth the other way. namely, 24 times $\boldsymbol{R}$. and 20 times W. I got the peal out snd geve it to Mr. Green, who asked us to ring it on tower bells, as he would lire to hear it. It was rung, without a clip, on April 18th, 1903, ead Whas the first neal by all axtives of Barking. Sevaral College Youths Were outaide to heas it. The peals ware published with figures in "The Bell News."

The war-time derangement of the postal services and the necessity of getting the copies of ' The Ringing World ' into the hands of the publishers earlier on Thursday make it absolutely essential that all contributions to our columns, and particularly all notices, should be in our hands by MONDAY in each week. We eannot guarantee the insertion in the following issue of anything received later.

We hope that secretaries will send us prompt reports of their mestings, and we shall welcome any items of news relating to ringers and ringing, but they must reach us early.

BLLERY GUSSEP.

Messrs Mears and Stumbuas Lave just completed the rehauging of the bells at Milborue Port, somerset, where the tenor is 28 ewt .
The Whitechapel Foundry bes also campletely relung with nitungs the six bells at Priors Marston, Warwickshire. The bell frame has also been strengthened.
Rogate, Sussex, has a timber tower, containing siz bells. Messra. Mears and Stainbank have strenghemed the tower and repaired tho bells
Si: Arthur Heywood, con of Sir Perceval Heywood, the third baronet, wus bora on Cliristmas Day, 1849. He died on April 18th, 1916, durirg the Great War. For many years tie wes the undisputed head of the finging Execcist.
We arc pleased to stute that Mr. A. Parther is now at lis home at 29, Avenue Road, Watlou-Dearne, where he is progressing favourably after bis recent operatious.
The rehanging of shotteswell bells, Warwickshire, las been entrusted to Mir. Thomas Bond, of Burford, Oxon. As lie is at present employed on work of national importance, these bells will be rehung as soon as circumstanges permit.
It may be interesting to add that the fourth belt was recast in 1887 by Mr. Bond.
Folt's Original was rung at Saffron Walden on Cluristmas Day, 1754. by the "Society of Young Ringers of the Town, "to the no small Mortification of their antagonisis (same of the ofd society).' The bobs were called dy Charles Bacos, who rang the second, but whether he had any visible aids to memory in so doing is perliaps rather doubtiul. John Holt, himself, a little more than three years earlier, had ealied from תanuscript without taking a rope.
More long peals lave been rung on December 26ih than on any other diate in the year. Anoug them are the following: 15, 168 Kent Treble Bob Major, at Lilland in 1831: 8,064 Double Norwich Court Treble Bob Major, at Llland in 1812 : 8 , obat ative Surprise Major, at Crawley in 1894: 11,111 Stedman Cingues, at Birminegham in 1901; 9,728 Superletive Surprise Major, at Clent in 1910 ; and 10,442 Cambridge Surprise Royal at Walthamstow in 1923.
On the same date in 1760 the College Foullis rang a peal of College Exercise Major at St. John'g, Huckney. Almost certainly the composition mas a false one.
On December Z7th 1718 , the Union Scholars raug at St. Dunstan's-in-the-Esst the first peal ever achieved of Oxford Treble Bob Major, and, indeed, of any Major method. The five-part composition, which probably was composed oy Robert Baldwin, was true, more we suspect by luck than by wit.
Thirty years fater, on the same date, the "Friendly Society of Ringers "rang at St. Anorew ${ }^{2}$ Folborn, 8,000 clanges of Bob Major. This is the only notice we have of this society and probably the name was taken for the occasion by a band nuade up from more ilian one company. The board, which was still in existence 60 yearg ago, luas long since disappeared.
The 27 th is also the anniversary of geseral lond lengtlis, including 6,000 Bob Major, at Twiekenham in 1749 ; 6,600 Stedman Cinques, af Birmingham in 1820: 16,608 Kent Treble Bob Major, at Earlsheaton in 1872 ; und 17, 104 Double Norwich Court Bob Major, at South Wigsion in 1904.

Doubts were expressed as to the iruth of the Earlabeaton prul, and is is noi now recognisad as a genuine record.
On the last day of the year $1888,15,041$ changet of Stedman Caters were rung at Appleton: aund in 1892, 12,096 elanger of Double Fowwich Court Bab Major at Maidenhead.

CHURCH BELLS OF LONDON.

ST. OLAVE'S, HART STREET.
By J. Armger Trollope.
St. Olave's is one of the smallest, but one of the must interesting of the City churches. It was built in the fifteenth century, and the inventory made in the reign of Edward VI. records that "there remayneth in the steple iiij greate belles and a saunce bell

ST. OLAVE'S, HART STREET, LONDON.
Queen Elizabeth is said to have returned thanks in the church on her release from the Tower, where she had been confined in her sister's reign. The tale goes that, to commemorate the event, she presented the church with a set of silken bellropes, and the parish erected a crown above the weathercock on the steeple.

The latter part of the story may be true (there is a crown above the weathercock at the present time), but the other is clearly a legend, though, since Elizabetly liked to hear church bells rung, it may have had some foundation in fact.

St. Olave's is closely associated with Samnel Pepys. It was his parish church, and in it he is buried. On January 3oth, 1666, he set down in his diary-' This is the first time I have been in the church since I left London for the plague and it frightened me incleed to wo through the church more than I thought it could have done to see so many graves lie so high upon the churchyard where people had been buried of the plague. I was much troubled at it and do not think to go through again a good while.
Anthony Bartlet, of the Whitechapel foundry, had just recently (i662) hung a ring of six bells in the tower, and they are all there still, except the tenor, which was recast by James Bartlet in 1694.

The church escaped the great fire of 1566 , but very narrowly. Burning embers fell into Scething Lanc, which runs by the east end of the building, and the dial of All Hallows' Church at the bottom of the lane was burnt. Tluat was the furthest point reached by the fire sowards the east.

Like all the rings at the other City churches, St. Olave's bells were runy regularly, cluring the following years, but they do not figure in the history of London ringing. The leading socicties, who had rings of eight, ter and twelve bells at their disposal, were inclined to despise six-bell ringing, and no record survives of any peal of Minor rung in une of the hall dozen City toweris which possessed six bells.

The Rambling Ringers paiel a visit to the belfry on December 6tio, 1733, alrd rang one 720 of Plain Bob and another of College Single. Jeremiah Ciilbert rang the treble (he rang the treble to the first peal scored by the Cumberlands), Laughton rang the third, and John Trenell rang the tenor. Trenell was a fine heavy bellringer, when afterwards took part in many peals with the College Youths.

In 1929 the bells of St. Olave's were rehung and two trebles were added by the Whitechapel foundry, making them a very handy octave. A good many peals have since been rung on them in all the Standard methods, the most notable being one in which every member of the band had already scored over a thousand peals.

PEALS OF DOUBLES．

THE PRESENT ILLOGICAL POSITION．

Now that the activities of ringers are so seriously curtailed，there nay be opportanity to discuss in these columns some of the subjects connected with ringing，which will not be any the worse for ventila－ tion，and may serve to keep interest alive in these clack days．
For instance，althouglt the Central Council，when it met at Center－ bury．settled to its own gatisfaction the question of what should be racognised as a peal of Doubles，it actually left the matter in a very unsatisfactory state．Tho menbers did not visurlisa all the conse－ quences of their decision．What the Council did was to concentrate adtention on Grandsire，mud it is doubtful if any thought at that time was given to Stedman．Aud Stedman Doubles offers an interest－ ing probleni in the light of the decision laid down．
The Council decided that a peal of Doubles shall consist of 5,040 or more changen，rung in：
（a）True and coniplete Six－Scores，without interval between any two Six－Scores，and without rounds or any otber row being struet more than once before the next change is made．
（b）Round blocks consistiag of two or more Six－Scores，provided that esch of the Siz－Scores which comprise the round blocks shell be itself a trite and complete round bloch．
（c）Twelve－Scores known as Morris＇and Pitman＇s．
（d）Combinations of（a），（b）सad（c）above，or any two of them．
Thus the Council saic thet if the following 240 be rung one or more times in a 5,040 ，it may be called a peal．
2345

| S 5423 |  | 3542 |  | 4352 | － 4532 | S 2543 | S 4253 |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| S 3254 |  | 4235 |  | 5243 | S 2345 | － 4385 | 5342 |
| 84532 | A | 5342 | S | 3452 | －4523 | S 5243 | S 2455 |
| 4253 |  | 5034 |  | 3245 | 4352 | 5324 | 2345 |

But if you want pour peal recornised，you mey not ring the first three blocks and repeat them，although that would produce exactly the bame clasges，with the last half in a different order．Neither may you ring the last three blocis and repeat them，although this arrangement would also produce exactly the same changes as in the original．And yet tirese are $240^{\prime} \mathrm{s}$ mede up by repatition of the two belves of Pitman＇s composition I
There are other types of 240 excluded by the resolution which are just as＇true，＇if such things can come within the category of what has hitherto been deemed＇true＇in ringing．
For example，is there any logical rasan for ruling out the following 240＇s，which ore as near iruth，in Łhe separate six－scores，as Pitman＇s and nearer truth than Morris＇？

Thus it will be geen that the Courci］＇s definition of a peal of Doubles，even it Grandsire，excludes compositiong of exacty like chargeter which is entirely absurd，whichever side you take in the arcument as to what should constitute a true peal of Doubler．
Then take Stedman．Peals of Stedman Doubles are not infrequently rung and deserve some coksideration．
It would probably be passible to compose a peal of Stedman Doubles in one part and conform to the Council＇s definition．Equally it would be possible to compoge a peal in one part which did not canform to the definition and jet include each chenge 42 timea and no more．
Festrictions of epace prevent printing examples of such peals here，but below are givem two＇touches＇of Steaman Doublea．One conforms to the Councl＇s ruling；the other doesn＇t．Yet they contain all the 120 changes the same number of times ench，and they are produced by the same number of calls．
How many risgers are 组ere，even among those who decided the future of＂peal of Doubles，who can say which of the two，incor－ porated in a peal，would be recognised under the definition and which would not and why one should be accepted if the other is rejected？ The rows are the six－ends，and the two 600＇s are divided into five columas representing 120 changes each．

All this，of course，appeary to favour the argument of those who would admit anything as a pesl of Doubles as long as each change appears 42 times in a recognised method，because once a break is made in the recoguised practice of requiring true extents there is no logical angument against any form of composition，good or bad．

To carry the Council＇m policy to its logical conclusion，both the above ＇touches of Stedmen must be admitted in a peal and so must the alternative 2 赖＂of Grandsire which are printed above．Also，wa ought to admit 240 ＇s made up of：－

Five times repeated with angle batt－way at end．And having gone that far we should accept the same calling repeated 83 times with a aingle balf－way and end；that is to say a peal of Grandsire Doubles with only two singles．Further，we should recognise 5，040＇e of Stedman Doubles with only two aingles and made up otierwine enlirely of plain courséa！

THE DEKYNS OF COVENTRY.

In addition to the ringing before the services there was ringing which was done during the services as part of the ritual. The two dekyns took turns monthly to ring the sacring bell at High Mass on Sundays and holy days. Evidently this was not a handbell, but a small bell hung on the screen or wall of the choir. No doubt they also rang the sanctus bell, but of that there is no mention.
There was also ringing during the procession before High Mass, for which the dekyns were responsible. This was not mercly knolling by a single bell, but all the tunable bells in the steeple were rung up as high as they could be.
How, we may ask, could the dekyns, busied with their other duties, attend to this ringing? Of course they could not.
In the early days of the Church, when the buildings were small and the services simple, the priest himself rang the bell that summoned the faithful. In some cases it was a handbell, in others a small bell hung on the roof with a cord coming down inside the building.
As time went on and towers were built and heavier bells were cast, and as the services became more elaborate, the ringing was (with other things) entrusted to assistants, who became the clerks in minor orders. So long as only one bell was used, and that could be rung from the fioor of the church, they could quite easily include the bell ringing among the other things they lad to do to assist the priest at the altar. But when the bellis were heavy, when the ringer had to climb a lofty staircase or ladder and especially when several bells had to be rung and not merely tolled, this was no longer possible.
Part of the difficulty was got over by providing the small saunce bells, which were light enough to be rung by a cord coming down to the floor of the church. It is not, I think, known when these bells were introduced, but they were in general use in the fourteenth century. Soon afterwards, and especially in the fifteenth century, the number of bells in the towers of the parish churches was increased. It was no longer possible for the clerks to ring them and attend to their other duties, and so another set of men had to be employed.
In earlier times that would have meant adding to the number of men in minor orders, and there would have been an order of ringers to take their places alongside the ostiarii or door keepers. But in the fourteenth century the time for that sort of thing had long since gone by. The customs and traditions of the Church had crystalised. In theory the clerks were still supposed to do all the ringing themselves, but in practice they had to get others to help them. It was the natural and obvious thing to pick a few strong, lusty young fellows and send them up into the tower to pull on the ropes. So was born the ringing Exercise.
At Holy Trinity, Coventry, it seems that the first dekyn controlled the ringing at procession time and gave the necessary signals to the ringers by knolling the saunce bell, but the second dekyn was responsible for providing half the number of ringers.
Now we must notice that the ringers, as such, did not receive any regular status in the parochial organisation. They were not the servants of the church, nor were they employed by the church. The parish dealt with the dekyn and the dekyn dealt with the ringers. It was so everywhere, and it continued to be so for five centuries. How much this fact affected and still affects the ringing Exercise is not easy to say.

Once a year, on All Hallows' Eve, the bells were rung throughout the night. It was a very old custom, the origin of which, I believe, is unknown. Perhaps it was a pagan survival and was connected with the belief in evil spirits, which was strong in the Middle Ages and especially in connection with death. The ringing was supposed in some way to beneft all Christian souls. And much in the same way, that in later years, the people of the parish gave to the ringers at Christmas time, so in these old days they collected for the ringers at All Hallows-tide. At evening on All Saints' Day the two dekyns went through the church, the first dekyn on the north side and the second dekyn on the south side and gathered the money.
Notwithstanding the many changes in doctrine and ritual during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, the Church of England is (or, at any rate, until lately was) the most conservative Church in Christendom. Her organisation, customs, and traditions went back to remote ages. And especially was this so in the parochial life. Throughout the Reformation period, and even throughout the time of the Commonwealth, the parochial organisation remained unchanged. The parish clerks and sextons of post-Reformation times were the successors of the clerks in the Middle Ages, holding the same office and discharging the same duties adapted to the changes in ritual and doctrine. The two dekyns of Coventry were the predecessors of the later clerks and sextons, and, indeed, in the regulations drawn up at St. Stephen's, Coleman Street, London, in 1467 , only five years after those at Coventry, they are so called by name. In smaller parishes the two offices were often held by the same man; and, as in early times, the bells and ringing were in the charge of the clerks, so they continued to be in the hands of their successors. For instance, in 1628 the following rule was passed at New-castle-under-Lyme-' June io. It is agreed that Thomas Harrison the Church Clarke shall not suffer any peal to be rung, upor pain of twelve pence, without the consent of Mr. Mayor or his deputy for the time being except to prayers and burials and that sparingly.'

Throughout the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries and well down into the nineteenth we never came across an instance where the ringers were appointed or paid by the churchwardens directly, And of any contact between the clergy and the ringers there is absolutely no trace whatever.
I have pointed out elsewhere that the very unsatisfactory state of the Exercise in the nineteenth century was largely due to the fault of the clergy, who grossly neglected their ringers and made no attempt to see that they were recruited from suitable classes. It is easy to attribute this to the sloth and apathy of the eighteenth century, but it would be wrong. The cause is far deeper seated.

It is held by competent authorities that the incumbent has the sole control of the bells, the ringers, and the ringing; and that he alone can say when they shall be rung and by whom. The church laws (canons they are called) instruct the churchwardens to prevent superstitious ringing, but give them no authority to order or allow any ringing themselves. No doubt this has always been the law, but when we study what we know of the history of the past we get a considerably different impression. The incumbent was the chief man in the parochial organisation, but he was not the only one who held authority. The churchwardens acted independently and on behalf of the laity, to whom very often the bells were important things. The clerk was subordinate to both, but he was not merely their servant. His office was a freehodd and he could not be dismissed at pleasure any more than the parson could. As we have seen, by custom and prescription the belis and ringing were within his province. The clergy did not consider that those matters were their concern, and it is likely that any attempt at interference by them would lave been resented.

The Coventry manuscripts, supplemented by the statutes of St. Stephen's, Coleman Street (1467), and other evidence, give us a good deal of information as to the ringing of bells in mediaval times and the beginnings of the Exercise. We can see that the tale which is sometimes told oi bellis being considered such sacred things that they might only be rung by priests vested in surplices, is a mere fable. We can see also that there was no room for guilds of ringers in the Middle Ages, though we are sometimes told that there were such. The Guild of Westminster was unique and had no compeer or successor. The societies of ringers which sprang up towards the end of the sisteenth century had their origin in the practice of ringing as a secular sport and were totally unconnected with any parochial organisation. Nor did they comprise more than a small and select part of the Exercise.
