WHAT AN OUTING:

On August 18th a small group of ringers from the South Gloucestershire area set out in cars for an afternoon tour. The first of the two rings was to be on the lightest six in the world, at Home Farm, Balscote.
Although no intention was expressed of claiming a record for the largest party to be carried in the heaviest vehicle for the longest trip, to ting on the lightest bells, etc., two of the party, whose exploits on a motor scooter aroused some comment in a recent 'Belfry Gossip' column, had accepted the loan of a very large car for the afternoon.
After exhausting the stocks of several local filling stations in order to obtain sufficient fuel for the trip, the expedition commenced in fine style. The tribulations of the outward journey defy description. Passengers who endeavoured to drink tea while passing over hump-backed bridges, total strangers who accused us of causing their cars to break down, and poltergeists which hurled thermos flasks on to the highway, created some of the relatively minor incidents. Suffice it to say that we arrived at our destination about an hour late, with only four of our six cylinders fully operational.
The welcome we received and the ringing we enjoyed made the next hour or so into the one bright spot of an otherwise gloomy day, and all too soon the three cars were on their way to the next tower.
The two serviceable vehicles soon left us behind, and we made a stop at a large service station for a check on the engine. We left half-an-hour later with clean sparking plugs, a slightly more feeble engine performance, and doubt in our hearts about the reconnection of the sparking plug leads.

When we arrived at the next tower, only to find it deserted, one of our number decided to change the plug leads over to see if it makes any difference.' In the ensuing chaos we began to realise, as all good ringers should, that there are 720 different ways of connecting six wires into six sparking plugs. In pitch darkness and driving rain we started to try them all.

Just after the halfway single a fairly effective combination was arrived at, and we headed for home, cold and wet, to complete what must be one of the most dismal outings on record.

MR. A. PATRICK CANNON'S 500 PEALS

Mr. A. Patrick Cannon, who rang his 500 th peal at St. Olave's, Hart Street, London, on July 28th, has conducted 267 of them, and 1,027 ringers have taken part. All have been rung on tower bells. They have been rung in 421 different towers, in 39 counties, for 38 Societies, and include 331 different tenors 'turned-in.' The list is appended:-
Maximus.- Cambridge Surprise 1, Kent Treble Bob 2 (conducted 1).
Cinques.-Stedman 2 (1), Grandsire 1.
Royal. Cambridge Surprise 7 (1), Yorkshire Surprise 1, Kent Treble Bob 10 (5), Plain Bob 10 (3).
Caters.-Stedman 4, Grandsire 2.
Major.-London Surprise 4, Yorkshire Surprise 34 (9), Superlative Surprise 16 (3), Cambridge Surprise 34 (12), New Cambridge Surprise 2 (1), Southwell Surprise 1 (1), Lincolnshire Surprise 3 (1), Braunstone 1 (1), Double Norwich Court Bob 72 (52), Kent Treble Bab 49 (28), Oxford Treble Bob 7 (4), Double Oxford 4 (2), Winchester Bob 1, Little Bob 2, Bishopdale Bob 1, Plain Bob 49 (28).
Triples.-Stedman 5, Grandsire 21 (10), Plain Bob 1.
Minor.-One to 13 methods 134 (93), Cambridge Surprise 4 (1).
Doubles.-One to 24 methods 15 (10).

A LEICESTERSHIRE WEDDING

On Saturday, August 18th, St. Luke's Church. Thurnby, was the scene of great activity when the wedding took place between Mr. John Julian Pawley, one of the local ringers and younger son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Pawley, of Bushby, and Miss Margaret Anne Starbuck, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Starbuck, of Leicester.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a full-length brocade dress and carried a bouquet of pink roses. She was attended by two bridesmaids, and the bridegroom's brother. Mr. Peter F. Pawley, was best man.

The ceremony was performed by the Vicar. the Rev. J. C. Meers, and was attended by a large gathering of friends and relatives.

As the bride and bridegroom left the church the bells were fired, and then from the tower issued forth the enchanting music of 'Shepherd's Hey,' rung with a certain lack of confidence by the Leicester 'Hey' band who, apart from the tenor man's failure to set his bell in the middle, are making good progress with this difficult 'method.' To conclude the after-service ringing an excellent course of Cambridge Minor was rung.

The reception was held in the Village Hall and the honeymoon was spent in the Lake District.

Later in the evening a peal of Plain Bob Minor was attempted, but unfortunately came to grief after an hour's good ringing.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford District

The Ashford District met at Burmarsh on August 25 th, and despite the squally weather there was a very good attendance, 12 towers besides the local one being represented.

This was the first meeting that the Association has held at Burmarsh, and it was arranged to meet the wishes of the local ringers. Mrs. R. Wratten had been in charge of the necessary preparations, and she was assisted by Mrs. Watts, Miss Rayner, Miss Rye, Christine Key and Mrs. Mercer and Gillian, in providing a sumptuous tea in the Village Hall, at which we were the guests.

The meeting followed the usual lines. Bells were available from 3 o'clock and were rung in methods which catered for those in all stages of experience until 4.30 , when the Rector (the Rev. J. H. Edinger) conducted the service. He gave us a warm welcome to his church. Mr. C. T. Hillis read the lesson.

Then came the tea and a short business meeting, at which one new member from Cheriton was elected, and seven members from Burmarsh, bringing that tower in union with the Association.

The secretary called attention to the arrangements for the annual dinner at Rochester on October 27th, and Mr. J. Cooper said he was arranging transport from Ashford. Mr. S. Cullingworth then thanked all concerned for their hospitality, and a return was made to the tower.

Altogether this was a most satisfactory meeting, made very pleasant by what we felt to be the genuine friendliness of our hosts and hostesses.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Otley, an old market town nestling beneath the great hill ridge known as the Chevin, was the place chosen for the Society's meeting on August 25 th. Unfortunately the (summer) weather did not add to the charm of the setting! However, a good attendance representing 16 towers, together with visitors from as far afield as Stockton and Ripon, helped to make this a good meeting.

Ringing commenced just before half-past three and continued until about half-past eight. Methods ranging from Plain Bob to Cambridge and Superlative were rung during this time, catering for the widely differing abilities of those present.

At 5 o'clock the meeting adjourned to the schools nearby, where tea had been provided by the local company. This was very much enjoyed by some 30 members and friends. The business meeting was held immediately afterwards in an adjoining room, the president taking the chair.

During the course of the meeting two new members were elected, both from the local company, also the customary but nevertheless sincere vote of thanks to all concerned with the local arrangements was carried.

The next meeting will be held at Idle on September 29 th.

LONG ASHTON, SOMERSET.-On Aug. 24th, 1,344 London Surprise Major: G. Fernehough 1, C. H. Kippin (cond.) 2, R. C. Kippin 3. Jessie M. Kippin 4, Joan Gray 5, I. H. Trueman 6, P. M. J. Gray 7, J. H. Gilbert 8. First in the method for 1,6 and 8 .

Mr. George A. Fleming, of Witnesham, Suffolk, rang his 500 th peal at Debenham by calling Carter's 12 -part. He could, had he wished, got a band for London Major or Cambridge Maximus, but he preferred his old love, Grandsire Triples, in which, he says, there is not one single change of bad music.
Mr. Frank J. Cook, who rang his first peal at Totternhoe, from the treble, taught the conductor, Mr . Dennis Knox, the rudiments of change ringing. It is unusual, if not unique, for a pupil to call his insfructor's first peal.

Among the many congratulatory telegrams received by Mr. A. J. Salisbury on the occasion of his recent marriage was one from Dr. C. E. Wright, now on National Service in Hong Kong. His many friends will be interested to know that the Doctor is in good health and looking forward to his return in February.
In memory of Dr. Harvey Spencer (18971956), former carillonneur of Wellesley College, Massachusetts, and a past president of the Guild of Carillonneurs in North America, a carillon recital was played at the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel by James R. Lawson, chapel carillonneur, and Ralph C. Ehlert, university carillonneur, University of Wisconsin.
Worsley, Lancs, ringers bade farewell to Miss Barbara Smedley on August 26th, as she has accepted a new teaching appointment at Gorles-ton-on-Sea. Taught by the Worsley veteran, Mr. P. H. Derbyshire, Barbara has been ringing since the end of the war, and she will be much missed. Owing to the holidays and sickness, a farewell quarter on August 26th had to be confined to Grandsire Doubles. This was rung by Gillian Bridgeford (first quarter) $1, \mathbf{R}$. Allred 2, A. Pendlebury (cond.) 3. M. Barbara Smedley 4. I. Bentley (first 'inside ') 5, P. H. Derbyshire 6.

GOSSIP

Miss Sylvia Sherwood, of Ash, Surrey, whose name appears in our peal columns this week, has left Ash to begin training at St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington. A farewell presentation was made to her with the best wishes of her many friends in the Farnham district.
Those taking part in the congratulatory quarter peal to Messrs. F. Buckle and A. H. Doel at the Norman tower, Bury St. Edmunds, on August 19th, would like to associate the name of Mr. A. E. Moore, who has been ringing at the tower for 55 years, and with a practised ear listened to the ringing.
The well-known Watford ringer, Mr. Geoffrey W. Seaman, was married last Saturday ort. Mary's Church, Watford, to Miss Shirley K. Ambler. A peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was afterwards rung on the bells in honour of the happy occasion.
Readers of the 'Manchester Guardian ' will have noticed that the issue of Wednesday, August 29 th , contained a half-page advertisement by Fisons in thefr attractive "Town Mouse' series, which included a drawing of part of the belfry. The drawing is from photo graphs taken in the belfry of West Wickbam, Kent, Parish Church. This advertisement will appear shortly in other of our national newspapers.

Mr. Raymond Overy, of Haywards Heath, and Mr. William Rogers, of Rotherfield, have planned for the last six months to ring their 200th peal together. It began to look doubtful if they would manage this as Mr. Rogers was going on a peal ringing tour in Derbyshire on September 1st, but everything turned out as planned by ringing Cambridge Royal at St Peter's, Brighton, on August 25th, which was also W. Rogers' 50 th peal as conductor.

THE WHITECHAPEL BELL FOUNDRY

ESTABLISHED

FUTURE OF CAMBRIDGE CITY CHURCHES

Dear Sir, - I read with great interest the article above the initials 'J. D. P.' on page 518 of 'The Ringing World' of August 17th, and I am able to sympathise fully with the desire of the church authorities and of the Cambridge University Guild to have the bells of St. Andrew-the-Great, Cambridge, recast and rehung. I was myself ringing in that church one day about ten years ago, when one of the bells jumped out of its bearings. Fortunately for the ringers below it got stuck in the frame and did not come down through the ceiling.

The purpose of this letter is to utter one word of warning. Some months before the Bishop of Ely died, he appointed a committee, who were to report to himself, and whose terms of reference were 'to inquire into the provision for public worship in the city of Cambridge, with reference to the question of whether any of the parish churches should be closed or parish boundaries altered or parishes amalgamated, with particular regard to the need for the provision of further churches to serve areas insufficiently supplied, and to report thereon to the Bishop of Ely with recommendations.

The Bishop died last week, but it is known that the committee sent their report to him a few weeks before he died. The report has not been published, and I have no knowledge of what it contains or recommends. But the Church of St. Andrew-the-Great may well be one of the churches whose future has been considered by the committee. The Cambridge University Guild and those who subscribe to the appeal for funds for the recasting and rehanging of the bells ought certainly to know that the future of this church, and of all the other churches in the city of Cambridge, has been the subject of this report to the Bishop. It would be a tragedy if, after the work had been completed and paid for by the gifts of ringers and others all over the country, it were found that the church was no longer needed for public worship.

I sincerely hope that this will not be the case, but at least the possibility ought to be faced and potential donors to the fund should know of it-Yours faithfully,

JOHN P. PELLOE, Archdeacon of Wisbech.

Where Do Ships' Bells Go?

I should like to add to Ernest Morris's article on the above subject. In the tower of St. Paul's Church, Langleybury, Herts, is an old brass bell presented by General Lord Rokeby, given to him by Admiral Seymour, who took it from a convent in the White Sea when his own ship's bell was broken. The bell is now sadly cracked, but is used occasionally for calling parishioners to worship for Holy Com-munion.'-Kenneth R. Dunstan.

Wedding at All Saints', Edmonton

The wedding took place on August 25th of Mr. Jimmy Weeks and Miss Beryl Williamson. The usual summer weather did not dampen their spirits and a very attractive couple they made. The bridegroom managed to assist with the ringing before the ceremony.

The bride and bridegroom are leaving the district to live at Cheshunt. Jimmy will be a great loss, but all wish him well in his new tower.

A quarter peal of Bob Major was rung in the evening. One member of the band, Mr. A. J. Wallman, was ringing his first quarter for eight years.

THOMAS PURDUE'S TOMB AT CLOSWORTH

For more than 250 years Thomas Purdue's tombstone has stood in the churchyard of Closworth, Somerset. The story of a visit to this church by the Rev. J. G. M. Scott is the theme of this week's front page article in 'The Ringing World.'

The inscription on the tomb is as follows:-- Here lieth the body of Thomas Purdue, who died the 1 st day of September since the year of our Lord 1711, aged 90 years.
Here lies the bellfounder; honest and true Till the Resurrection, named Purdue.'

On the left hand end is carved a bell.

BANK HOLIDAY MEETING AT ROTHERHAM

A joint meeting of the Southern District of the Yorkshire Association and the Sheffield District Society at Rotherham Parish Church on August Bank Holiday Monday was a great success. Members attended from Bawtry, Doncaster, Eastrington, Felkirk, Handsworth, Harthill, Liversedge, Sandal, Sheffield Cathedral, Thorne, Thrybergh, Todmorden, Wakefield Cathedral, Whiston and the local company. Outside visitors came from as far afield as Walsall, Bristol, Rochdale and Repton.
The local company had the meeting off to a good start by having the bells going to Grandsire Caters and Bob Royal as the visitors started to arrive. During the afternoon and evening this fine ring of ten (tenor $34 \frac{3}{\mathrm{c}} \mathrm{cwt}$.) were put to good use and a good standard of striking was maintained in methods from Bob Minor to Cambridge Royal, not forgetting rounds for those not yet ringing changes. The latter category included a party from Harthill where, it is pleasing to know, a great effort is being made to ring the bells properly instead of by chiming apparatus.
Before the company sat down to a grand tea provided by the local company and their ladies in the Church Hall, a welcome on behalf of Bishop Gerard, Vicar of Rotherham, and his assistants, who were unable to be present, was extended by a churchwarden, Mr. Mitchell, who also mentioned the good work put in by Mr. Ryder, Mr. Chaddock and the rest of the local company in keeping the Parish Church bells going so regularly.
A meeting at Rotherham would not be the same without a performance by Mr. N. Chaddock and his team of handbell ringers, and before the business meeting commenced a delightful exhibition of tune ringing was enjoyed by all and warmly applauded, those taking part being Messrs. N. Chaddock, P. Coote, Misses M. Mills, S. Chaddock, E. Wardill. C. Rogers and M. Atkinson.

To allow for more ringing time later, the Sheffield District Society decided to forgo their business meeting, and at the meeting of the Southern District of the Yorkshire Association Mr. T. C. Ryder was unanimously voted to the chair. Six new members were elected: Mr. and Mrs. D. Baines, L. Leach (St. Marie's R.C., Sheffield), B. HeppenstaH (Wath-on-Dearne) and Misses E. B. Marchant and J. Oakley (Thrybergh). Just over $£ 1$ was contributed when a collection for the Bell Repair Fund was made.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Wath-on-Dearne on Saturday, November 17th.

Frustrated By Muffles

In the evening, after the funeral service of the Lord Bishop of Ely, officers of the Diocesan Association met at Ely to ring a fully-mufficd peal. Not many changes had been rung when one muffle came adrift resulting in a stop, and some adjusting had to be done. This happened twice more and the peal attempt had to be forgotten owing to time. After more tying up, etc., a quarter peal was commenced. After about a quarter-of-an-hour again the muffles give trouble. Stopping once more. it was decided to try again half-muffled. This resulted in success, a good 1,260 changes of Stedman Triples being rung, it being the first quarter of Stedman Triples for four members of the band. The members ringing would like to state that the muffles were not of a bell founder's patent!

SECTION II.

COURSE ORGANISATION

(The matter is included at this stage as part of the syllabus for the examination for the diploma of "Tutor I.')
12. The Course.-A course in Part I. will normally occupy about ten sessions of about one and a half hours each. The selection and arrangement of material in this Part I.. and the method of its exposition are, as already indicated, identified as the Cathedral system of ringing tuitnon. The principles noted in the preceding Section I. will be found embodied. since circumstances will vary considerably as between one course and another, and since the subject matter is herein divided off into "Lessons ": tutors may exercise discretion for careful apportionment of the work as between the sessions, preserving continuity, as stressed in paragraph 9 above. The practical steps are numbered serially as exercises-e.g., 'Ex. 7': but tutors are expected to work from the book, anticle by article, as they teach the subject matter.
(Q T)
Note.-Since in the remaining Sections there is matter on which both student-ringers and student-tutors may be tested, those questions for student-tutors only are distinguished as ' (Q T).'
13. Class arrangements.-In practice a tutor may (depending upon the circumstances) satisfactorily instruct up to five pupils simultaneously. Indeed, it has been found practicable to deal with classes of up to 20 students, providing reliable assistants (good basic ringers) can be employed as student-tutors, at the rate of not less than one for (up to) every five, over and above the first five for which the tutor-incharge is directly responsible. The groups will retain their identity throughout the course, and the competitive team spirit should be introduced.
14. Recruiting.-Much can be done in this direction, but this is not considered the place to discuss the various ways and means of filling up classes. It is assumed that this problem has been studied and solved, for example by talks in schools to senior classes, by co-operation with clergy in inviting members of young people's guilds and similar organisations to come into the belfry and see ringing in progress. (Such should be accompanied by a word from someone who can briefly explain interestingly what is happening.) Point out that classes can only be joined at their initiation and that only those who intend to "stick are welcomed.
15. Register. - For every course the College issues a Register (Form 3), and this is compiled by the Registrar and issued to the appointed tutor for the course. The compilation is effected from the application forms (Form 2) which have been completed (by the applicants who have positively decided to join the course) and sent in to the Registrar, either direct or through a local member of the College. (Q T)
16. Tutor in charge.-For 'local' courses a qualified tutor resident in the locality is appointed by the College. For coursegs in districts where no qualified tutor resides a capable ringer, willing and able to follow the requirements of the Manual, Part I., is appointed by the College as Hon. Ringer I. (unless he is already 'R. C. of C.. 1.- see 22 below) and registers as a "Student-Tutor' in charge of the course. A College examiner or tutor then visits the initial meeting of the course and shows how the Manual is to be followed and how the work should be 'handled.' About halfway through the course a second visit is, paid, to check progress and give a 'dummy' test. Finally the appointed examiner for the course attends and conducts the examination. (Q T)
17. Examination I. - Only student-ringers considered by the tutor-in-charge as fit to take the oral and practical tests prescribed by the College may take the examination for the diploma of 'Ringer I.' Each candidate is asked ten questions selected by the examiner from those indicated in Part I. of the Manual, two points being awarded for each satisfactory answer, and one point for a partly satisfactory answer. A minimum of 75 per cent., i.e., 15 points, is required for a pass in this oral section. For the practical each candidate is put through ringing tests in the three elements of method ringing (see articles 93, 98 and 99) and must satisfy the examiner that he can perform all three properly to pass this test. Also the candidate must ring not less than six whole pulls, in which he must not make more than three out of the 30 listed faults (see Appendix II.) in order to pass this test. (As seen, the tests are fairly rigorous, but the College is determined to maintain high standards.) (Forms 2 are used for certification.)
(Q T)
18. The Grades and Parts.-Examinations are conducted in the work of each of the seven 'Parts' of the Manual of Training as follows: Part I.-The Cathedral System-Some Principles of Teaching-Course Organisation-Bell Handling and Control - The Elements of Method Ringing. Part II.-Method Structure and Theory. Part III.-Practical Method Ringing - Simple to Advanced. Part IV.Handhell Ringing. Part V.-Composition and Proof. Part VI.-Calling and Conducting. Part VII.-Historical, Towers and Bells. (Q T)
The Grades include 'Student,'. 'Ringer, - Tutor,' 'Examiner' and 'Fellow'; and all these except 'Fellow are identified with a ' Part' number also. Appropriate diplomas are awarded, as, for example, 'Ringer J.' - 'Tutor III.' Candidates must be registered with the College, in the appropriate Grade and Part next below that entered for. For example, a candidate for 'Ringer I.' must be registered as a - Student'; a candidate for 'Tutor I.' must be registered as 'Ringer ': a candidate for ' Ringer III.' must be registered as 'Ringer I.'-being the next appropriate grade below.
(Q T)
19. Honorary Grades.-The Governors of the College may elect ringers (and others) of standing and repute to honorary grades, and in some cases such elections would qualify for admission to course and examination of the next higher grade.
(Q T)
20. Examination for Higher Grades.-The scope of the examination for the grade of Ringer I.' has been detailed (Article 17) and that for 'Tutor I.' is given below, as the two grades are closely linked in the objectives of Part I. of the Manual of Training. The conditions of examination for the remaining higher grades are detailed elsewhere in College publications, obtainable from the Registrar. (Q T)
21. Diploma of 'Tutor I.'-This is open to candidates registered as 'Ringer,' and the examination is both practical and oral. For the practical tests the candidate must demonstrate to the examiner his ability to demonstrate, to check faults, and to maintain control and interest in the work of teaching the elements of practical method ringing. Alternatively, the candidate must have acted as a student-tutor in charge of a group of student-ringers, and have been certified by the visiting tutor-incharge as fit to take the examination, i.e., to have shown his capabilities throughout the course, or he must be a trained professional teacher. For the oral test the questions are selected as for 'Ringer I.,' also from Section 1., but the pass standard required is 90 per cent.
(Q T)
22. Diplomas and Designations. - A small fee is payable by the successful candidate for the registration and issue of the diploma: the recipient of which is entitled, in connection with any ringing matter, to use the relevant designation after his name (and to be known) as in the following examples:-

Ringer of the College of Campanology, Part I-R.C. of C. (I.).

Tutor of the College of Campanology, Part III.-T.C. of C. (III.).

Examiner of the College of Campanology, Part VI.-Ex. C. of C. (VI.).
Fellow of the College of Campanology F.C. of C.
23. Fellowship.-Candidates for election to Fellowship must have obtained diplomas, examination or honorary, in all seven PARTS of the work of the Manual.

Honorary Fellowships are awarded by the Governors of the College to ringers who have given meritorious service to the Exercise in one or more specific ways allied to the aims and objects of the College.

Walberton Ringers' Outing

The annual outing of Walberton (West Sussex) band on August 18th came up to the usual high standard of organisation associated with Mr. Ernie Treagus, and a most enjoyable day was spent, in spite of drizzle, in the Sevenoaks region of Kent. Good bells, good friends and good ringing (with one or two exceptions in the later stages) was the tempo of the day.

A special word of thanks to Miss Colgate for devoting a whole afternoon as guide and also for all her help in selecting towers and places for refreshments.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ANSWER TO A POSER

Dear Sir,-The two 720's given by Mr. William Butler (page 540) are of course (1) Oxford Bob, with standard calling ( 5 th observation), and (2) Spliced Double Oxford and Thelwall, with 5 th observation.

Perhaps Mr. Butler would like to have a bit more fun in (1) by substituting Original for Reverse College and Court, and calling bobs in the appropriate places!

I think that it is tacitly agreed among arrangers (composers) that where two methods (like London Bob and Double Oxford) have a bob that is common to both, then the lead immediately preceding the bob takes the name of the method of which there is a plain lead in the extent. If both the methods included have a plain lead then it matters not which of the two names are used for this particular lead.

Care must be taken, however, if a single is used instead of a bob, for obvious reasons.

Concerning his last point (c) that the ringer of the fifth rings only Double Oxford, it frequently happens in spliced ringing that certain bells perform the same work in different methods, indeed this fact is often the basis of the 'splice.'

It seems trite to observe that if each bell was called upon to do all the work in each method the maximum methods possible in Minor would be 12 for plain and six for treble bob methods!

Consequently in learning to ring multi-method peals (both Minor and Major) ringers often learn that part of the method with which they are individually concerned.

In fact, multi-method ringing, difficult though it is, is not quite so difficult as it appears to the uninitiated.-Yours sincerely, H. CHANT.

IS RINGING A DYING ART?

Dear Sir--' Is Bellringing a Dying Art '? (Sce - The Ringing World ' dated August 31st, 1956.) There is no doubt to me that it is.

Take, for instance the Leeds-Bradford area dealing with some 24 towers:-

Unringable : Bradford St. John's, Bothon, Low Moor, Shipley, Saltaire.
Unrung: Armley, Bramley, Burley, Holbeck (St. Mathew's), Holbeck (R.C.), Hunslet, Lightcliffe, Tong, Silsden, Idle.

Rung regularty: Leeds, Bradford Cathedral, Calverley, Drighlington, Guiseley, Headingley (St. Chad's), Headingley' (St. Michael's), Pudsey, Chapel Allerton.

The summary of this is: 24 towers; 15 unrung: 9 rung.
This state of affairs is repeated many times throughout the count:y.

It will persist, and the decline continue until the belfry ceases to be regarded as a place apart from the church.

The 'pleasure-seeking ringer' soon tires of regular Sunday attendance at one tower; it is the ringer-cum-churchwarden-sidesman, etc., who can always be relied upon.-Yours faithfully.

PETER M. DAWSON.
Calverley, Yorks.
FIRST PEAL OF CAMBRIDGE ROYAL
Dear Sir,-I thank Mr. Cubitt for his letter If I had added Major to my statement it would have been correct. As to the second part, it was more or less conjecture on my part, and I did not know about Cambridge Royal at Wakefield. I remember the correspondence many years ago about Superlative Royal and a peal being rung in the $1820^{\circ} \mathrm{s}$. It is remarkable that the Rev. C. D. P. Davies does not mention these peals in his 'Surprise Methods.' If ever the book is reprinted this should be rectified.-Yours, etc., R. MARTIN.

' OVERHEAD OR OVERBOARD '

Dear Sir,-Your Leader of August 17th. - Overhead or Overboard,' is a bold and imaginative idea to restore the fortunes of "The Ringing World.' But though the plan is theoretically good it is quite impracticable, and were it persisted in could sound the death-knell of the Central Council.

The plan would fail because of human frailty. Association officials know from first-hand experience the intense opposition to the increase of annual subscriptions by only sixpence, and yet it is suggested that Associations be asked to subsidise "The Ringing World 'by 3s. per head. To attempt to increase Association subscriptions by this amount would result in failure. The proposition would be voted out in no uncertain manner. Were the Central Council to accept the plan and pass the necessary measure, the result would be that harassed Associations would not be able to meet the levy and would cease to be affiliated.

If the proposal to subsidise 'The Ringing World 'through Association funds were in fact yoted upon and passed how would further increases in the cost of production be absorbed -by an increase in the levy?

Economies could be effected by 'The Ringing World 'itself. Peal reports may be news, but need they be set out in the needlessly extravagant tombstone manner? Could not all the peals in one issue be sorted under the various Guilds and printed in a similar manner to quarter peals? As it is, the name of one Association may be repeated a dozen times in one issue. The present mode of presentation has little in common with the harsh economic conditions of today, and 'The Ringing World ' should not hesitate to make changes which would result in a saving, however small.
The only answer to the present financial trouble would seem to be an increase in the cost of the paper. Experience of the past few years has shown that any increase in the number of new subscribers or in the change over from newsagent to postal subscriptions is remote.Yours faithfully,
J. W. RAITHBY.

Newark, Notis.
Note.-The opinion expressed by D. N. L. is personal. The best way of meeting the problem is increased circulation, and there is still plenty of scope. No ringer should ring his first peal or quarter without being presented with a copy of the journal. The cost of setting a page of peals in the traditional style is less than a page of letterpress.-Ed.

FIRST PEAL OF ASHTEAD SURPRISE

Dear Sir,-Kindly allow me to correct a slip in Brian G. Warwick's letter published in your issue of August 24th. The first peal of Ashtead Surprise Major was conducted by Albert Harman and not by-Yours truly,

AN INVITATION TO NEW ZEALAND
Dear Sir,-On October 31st the Christchurch (N.Z.) Cathedral Society of Bellringers will celebrate the 75th anniversary of the opening of the bells. To mark the occasion the bells will be rung at periods during the day and evening. On November Ist a reunion social will be held.

Could I, through your columns, extend an invitation to any English ringer who would attend?

The bells were blessed on All Saints' Eve, October 31st, 1881. It was a day of Church pomp and pride. The Society has not had a smooth passage, and at times has been in danger of fading out because of lack of interest, but it has been fortunate in having ringers of the calibre of the late T. W. Biddle, who conducted the first three peals for the Society, Mr. G. H. Claydon who, throughout his 45 years ${ }^{\circ}$ membership, has maintained interest in change-ringing and taught many of the ringers who will attend the celebrations.
The late Mr. J. S. Wilde, who lived at Dunedin, visited the tower when in Christchurch. and the benefit of his experience was greatly appreciated.

Since the war years the Society has had the assistance of several English ringers. Mr. A. J. Lancefield conducted the first peal for many years, since which several have been rung, and led the Society at the opening of the bells at Hamilton Cathedral. Mr. F. Savage organised the ringing at the time of the Royal Visit and Mr. V. J. C. Wood conducted the first handbell peal to be rung for the Society. Mr. R. H. Idle, of Oamaru, has for the past six years spent his annual holidays in Christchurch, and his assistance has been most valuable.-Yours sincerely.

SINGLE HUNT TRIPLES METHODS

Dear Sir,-In the list of single hunt Triples methods, in 'The Ringing World' of August 17th, Grandsire Double III should read 3, 1, 7, $1,7,5 ; 7 ; 1$, where I have inserted the numeral III to distinguish the 'three lead pure triples from the twin hunt 'five lead ' methods.
Thus we have College Single III and its reverse. College Single Reverse III or Reading III, and also College Single as rung at Appleton. which is of course the same as Darlaston Bob and its reverse, College Triples.
I have heard Mr. Butler's rather weak red herring in conversation, but did not expect it in print. Most ringers nowadays agree that a bob lead of a method does not constitute a new method (exoept in the case of Doubles. and then only if the two are of entirely different classes), thus Reverse College is a bobbed lead of Court or Single Oxford. Other Minor and Doubles ringers nearly all agree to the standard that an extent must contain at least one plain lead of each method in the extent. (I personally think this is a standard that should be adopted by ringers on higher numbers as well. especially spliced Surprise Major.)

Thus his extent No. 1 is obviously only in one method, Single Oxford, and No. 2 is in two methpds. It does not matter what each individual bell does, so long as leads are rung in each method. It is, of course, possible in spliced Minor for the sixth to ring plain courses only of seven different irregular methods and for the peal actually to contain about 25 different regular methods.-Yours sincerely.

A SUCCESSFUL PEAL TOUR IN KENT

OUTINGS

MEREWORTH, KENT

N Saturday, July 28th, 13 ringers from Somerset, Hampshire, Wiltshire and Sussex met at Holy Trinity, Guildford, en route to a week's peal ringing in Kert. The bells were raised in peal, which it is understood is a rare event, and which was followed by courses of Yorkshire and Bristol, the band settling down to a fairly good beat. After lunch the party called in at Cudham, and over a sea of heads managed to assist in half a course of Cambridge Royal.

A late start was made at Rochester Cathedral in the evening, owing to a U.S.A.A.F. band which was taking part in celebrations in the Castle Grounds, in close proximity to the church. These bells, however, were well worth waiting for, and methods ranging to Cambridge Royal were soon being rung on these stately ten. At about 9.30 that evening the party arrived at the Abbots Barton Hotel, Canterbury, which was to be the headquarters for the first part of the weok.

On Sunday morning the party rang for and attended Mattins at Faversham. In the afterдoon eight of the party started for a peal of Cambridge on the good eight at Sittingbourne, but after five courses the conductor, who thought that he was having his Sunday afternoon siesta, missed a bob. The rest of the party, being joined by George Naylor and George Kenward, visited the heavy six at Milton Regis, and the interesting five at Stockbury, where Stockbury Little Bob and spliced Doubles were rung. In the evening the party joined the local band for Evensong at Borden.

FINDING QUEX TOWER

A problem was presented to the band on Monday morning in finding the tower in Quex Park. The cars went round in circles and fallen branches had to be moved. Eventually the tower was located and the band soon settled down to a fairly good beat, and a peal of Cambridge Royal was brought round in 3 hours 35 minutes, six of the band ringing their first peal in the method. The three good rings at Margate, St. Laurence Thanet and Wingham were visited in the afternoon and evening.

On Tuesday the weather was really hot, which was rather trying to the peal band at Walmer where there is virtually no air in the belfry. However, a good peal of Cambridge Major was rung in 2 hours 54 minutes, being the fastest peal on the bells. In the evening we joined the Cathedral band at Canterbury for practice, and methods including Cambridge Royal and Stedman Cinques were rung. At this point we would like to extend our very grateful thanks to Mr. B. J. Luck for the assistance that he gave us on this tour.

The party made their way to Wye on Wednesday morning where, on these glorious bells, spliced Yorkshire and Cambridge was rung in 3 hours 17 minutes. The ringing in this peal probably reached the highest standard of the week. In the afternoon two peal attempts were scheduled: at Cnilham four Kent ringers kindly augmented the band for Bristol, which unfortunately came to grief after $2 \frac{1}{2}$ hours' good ringing. At Ashford the band was more successful, a peal of Double Norwich being rung in 3 hours 9 minutes.

A PLASTIC MUG

During the free evenings of the tour some of the party had hunted out a very pleasant local hostelry, complete with landlord's attrractive daughter. On the first two evenings at this establishment Mr. Ronald, in telling his usual tales, accompanied by much gesticulating, managed to remove two pints from the counter breaking the glasses and losing the contents. It was therefore not surprising that on the next evening, when Ron presented himself blatant as ever, he was given his pint in a plastic mug.
Thursday morning's programme included visits to the two good eights at Hythe and New Romney. After lunch came the unusual tower of Brookland where, when one of the party stood in the doorway, complete darkness descended upon the interior. In the afternoon two peals were again planned On the light eight at Appledore, New Cambridge was rung in 2 hours 57 minutes, and at Tenterden, Yorkshire in 3 hours 27 minutes. At the latter tower it was noticed that the tenor ringer, although he had looked upon this as a major job, had not got a blister on his hands. Following this successful afternoon's ringing the party made for their new headquarters at Tunbridge Wells, and after going round in circles in this town for a while found the Castle Hotel.
On Friday the day started well with a fast, well-struck peal of Stedman at Hawkhurst, in 2 hours 44 minutes. The striking in this peal was thought by outside critics to be on a par with the peal earlier in the week at Wye. A handbell peal attempt came to grief after a short while, on this morning being rung under rather cramped conditions in one of the cars. In the afternoon Headcorn and Lenham were visited, and in the evening the handy eight at West Malling.

TWO FAILURES

The good eight at Tonbridge and the fine ring at Wrotham were visited on Saturday morning, and methods ranged to Bristol and London. In the afternoon two peals broke down : Southwell at Gillingham, after a few courses, and Rutland at Rainham, after $2 \frac{1}{2}$ hours. At the latter tower we had the great pleasure of ringing with Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas. At the hotel in the evening David Hoare was presented with a small gift from the party as a token of thanks and appreciation for the organising of the tour.

On Sunday the local ringers were joined at Tunbridge Wells for Mattins and at Sevenoaks for Evensong, During a pleasant afternoon taken rather lazily, the band rang at Penshurst.

On Monday, the last day of the tour, a peal of Southwell was rung at Edenbridge in 2 hours 50 minutes.

The emphasis of the week's tour had been on the quality of the ringing and good striking rather than the quantity of peals rung, and this the band agreed had been very largely achieved.

In conclusion, the party would once again like to thank David Hoare very sincerely for all the work that he put into the organisation of this very enjoyable and highly successful tour, and we all look forward to next year's tour, which it is hoped will be in Derbyshire. W. L. W.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern District at Pirton

A successful meeting was held on August 25th at Pirton. In spite of violent storms early in the afternoon there was a good attendance and ringing was enjoyed on this anti-clockwise five in many methods, including Winchendon Place Bob, the special method.
In his sermon, the Rev. G. B. Ince welcomed the ringers, especially because there will be little ringing after this meeting as extensive repairs must be made both inside and outside the tower. Mrs. Brewster played the organ for the service.
An excellent ringers' tea was given by the ladies of the village, so that the money should be added to the Restoration Fund
Mr. F. Chalkley, of Hitchin, was re-elected during the business meeting. The next meeting will be at Barkway on September 22nd, the special method being Yorkshire Surprise.

On August 18th Mereworth bellringers and friends went on their annual outing, this year to Romney Marshes. It was a dull, windy day, with scattered showers, but nevertheless everyone had an enjoyable time.
The first tower was Pluckley, a ring of six bells in a church lost in country lanes. Because of a hold-up at the beginning of the journey, we were half an hour late, but had begun to catch up with time when we arrived at Willesborough, another ring of six. Easy bells in one of the most pleasant belfries made this a favourite tower. Both at Pluckley and Willesborough the bells are hung anti-clockwise, which caused some confusion at first.
At Aldington we had the best ring of the day, a really well-struck touch of Plain Bob Minor, in which a local ringer took part. Having had our lunch of sandwiches at Aldington, we made our way to Burmarsh, the last six-bell tower we were to visit. After a difficult journey through a narrow, winding lane for several miles we eventually found the church. By this time the wind had risen to a howling gale, which threatened to overturn the coach at every bend in the road.
We stopped at Dymchurch for tea, where a few of us ventured on to the sea wall to watch the sand drifting along the beach. The sea looked like a ploughed field and we had to cling to each other or be blown away.

We arrived at New Romney on time. Here the ring of eight bells nearly deafened us; it was almost impossible to hear the calls made, for the sonorous roar of those bells, in the ringing chamber. The next tower was Appledore, another eight.
Nothing more adventurous than Kent Treble Bob was attempted, but everyone had a ring of either Grandsire or Plain Bob. Others methods rung were Double Court and Oxford Bob.
P. J. B.

PINCHBECK, LINCS

This year the Pinchbeck ringers, together with a few friends, chose the Midlands for their annual outing, ringing taking place in four counties, viz., Leicestersbire, Warwickshire, Oxfordshire and Northamptonshire.

Leaving Pinchbeck at 7 a.m., the first call was made at Market Harborough, where we made good use of the eight bells; the tea shop opposite also came in for some good custom. Our next call was at Rugby, and although there are two rings of bells at this church, we only rang on the eight in the north-east tower. Our pourney to Stratford-on-Avon took rather longer than the timetable allowed, as traffic was rather heavy, but on arrival we soon had the ten bells going to Caters and Royal.
Lunch came next, some picnicking and some hunting the town for cafes, and with all but one member fully refreshed we set off to find Balscott, where, by kind permission of Mr. C. Jarvis, we were allowed to ring on his unique ring of six in the 'wash-house.' We managed them quite well after a little practice. Another short journey found us at Banbury, where, after ringing on the delightful ten, we set off for a fill of Banbury cakes. We also found the Cross, but alas, no lady or white horse!

The church at Brackley was not easy to find, being in a hollow, but we enjoyed the six bells, although ropesight is awkward, there being four falling along one wall and two on the opposite one. The last tower of the day was St. Giles', Northampton, the ten beils being made good use of till 9 p.m.
The homeward journey was broken for refreshments at Kettering, and home reached at 11.30 p.m., everyone agreeing it was a good day out.

THE BEAUTY OF THE BELLS

(CHURCH BELLS - THEIR USES AND ABUSES)
By The Rev. C. C. J. BUTLIN

We are informed by etymologists that the English word 'bell' is derived from the AngloSaxon word 'bellan;' to bellow. 'The Oxford English Dictionary states that "bell' is Old English from 'bellan,' to bellow or roar; kindred words being the Icelandic "belja' and the German 'bellan,' to bark.

In ancient days bells were by no means confined to religious purposes. They were used by the Romans, for example, to signify the times of bathing. The Greeks, too, were early users of bells for secular purposes.

It is true to say that church bells were not in use in the first years of the Christian era. The custom then was to call together for worship by means of a messenger. Later, when Christians had gained some measure of official recognition, use was made of a sounding plank hanging by a chain and struck with a hammer. It is said that Paulinus, Bishop of Nola, in Campania, notified remote believers of the times of prayer by hitting repeatedly a large hanging brass vessel. Some people thus explain the origin of the word Campanology (or the art of bell-ringing).

The generally accepted view is that bellscertainly large ones-were not in general use in Western Europe until the 7th century. It was not until three centuries later, however, that the art of bell-founding made rapid progress. This popularity of church bells was possibly encouraged by the fact that a Saxon churl could obtain the status of a Thane by erecting on an estate of 500 acres or more a church and a belltower.

DEFENCE AGAINST TEMPEST

Possibly, too, superstition played some part in the increasing use of church bells. In A.D. 900 Pope Pius IX, for example, ordered church bclls to be rung as a defence against thunder and lightning. It is recorded that Old St. Paul's had a special endowment "for ringing the hallowed belle in great tempestes and lighteninges.' In this connection the churchwarden's accounts for 1519 at Spalding, Lincs, include the following: 'Item: Paid for ryaging when the Tempest was - 3d.' One man thus explains the practice: "For this reason, the Church, when a tempest is seen to arise, rings the bells that the fiends, hearing the trumpets of the Eternal King, may flec away, and cease from raising the storm.'

Apparently the superstition of ringing church bells to disperse storms has lasted in England until this century. The Torquay Directory for 1915 stated: "It transpires that in conformity with an old usage, the bells of Dawlish Parish Church were rung during the recent thunderstorms, in the belief that the spirit of the bells would overcome the spirit of the lightning.' Unfortunately for those who might be prepared to grasp at this seeming remedy, it is said that during a violent storm in Brittany in 1718, when the bells of 24 churches were rung, all the 24 churches were struck by lightning. It must have been especially bitter for those who suffered injury or lass to learn that all the non-ringing churches were unscathed.

Bells have been rung also for other superstitious reasons. In 1456 all the bells of Europe were ordered by Pope Calixtus III to be rung, to scare away Halley's comet, thought then to be linked with Mohammed II, Conqueror of Constantinople. It must have been discouraging to find that. although the comet went, Mohammed stayed!

Some have imagined the ringing of bells to be of assistance in times of plague and pestilence. In 1625, for example, a doctor caused directions to be published as follows: 'Let the bells in cities and townes be rung often, and the great ordnance [cannon] discharged; thereby the air is purified.' In addition, the inscription on a bell at Guilsborough, Northants, reads: "Pestem Fugo' ( $=$ 'I drive away pestilence ').

Other harmful things, also. were thought to be banished by the aid of bell-ringing. Horace Walpole is said to have obtained and prized - the silver bell with which the Pope used to curse the caterpillars.

IN DISREPUTE

It would seem that other reasons also heiped to increase the popularity of church bells. Some of these incentives were no more creditable than those that have been mentioned. Gilbert White, in his book, The History of Selborne, relates how in 1725, when a new 'ring' of bells was hung in the parish church, the treble bell was filled with strong liquor to celebrate the occasion. Some men, at Walsgrave, Warwicks, went so far as to commemorate their thirst on one of the bells, as follows: 'Hearken! Do ye hear? Our Clapers [tongues] want beere.' It is evident that bell-ringing at one time developed into the pastime of persons of low repute-Teddy-boys of a bygone age.

Ellacombe, writing of the ringers at a cathedral. stated: "A more drunken set of fellows could not be found' (Practical Remarks on Belfries and Ringers). At one time in order to keep the peace it became necessary to use disciplinary measures, including the placing of rules and lists of fines in belfries. One church in Leicestershire had the following placard:

If you get drunk and hither reel

Or with your brawl disturb the peal;
Or with munlungeous horrid smoak
You cloud the room, and ringer choak
Or if you dare profane this place
By oath or curse, or language base
For each offence shall two pence pay.
We learn that it became something of a proverb to say: "Singers and ringers are little home bringers ' (i.e., improvident men).

The inscription on the ringers' large beer jug at Beccles, Suffolk, recalls perhaps later and more decorous bell-ringing. It begins:
*When I am filled with liquor strong
Each man drink once and then ding-dong. It is interesting to note, though no doubt entirely without significance, that that jug is now safely kept under lock and keyl

The Canons of 1604 (of the Church of England) supply additional evidence of needed disciplinary measures. Canon III, for example, directs that churchwardens shall present to the Bishop the names of those who have behaved rudely and disorderly in the church. and those who by untimely ringing of bells, by walking, talking or other noise shall binder the Minister or Preacher. Another Canon (LXXXVIII) mentions the ringing of bells in a similar kind of context ; feastings, banquets, church-ales-drinkings and profane usages being mentioned in the same sentence as the ringing of bells.

Ringing, however, apparently found no lack of devotees, for it was often a lucrative hobby. Even as far back as 1254 the members of a Westminster Guild of Ringers received one hundred shillings per annum, together with other benefits. Parish registers and account books supply, of course, many records of payments for ringing, some for other than ecclesiastical purposes. An item in the accounts of St. Edmund's, Salisbury, for 1646 is as follows :

Ringing the Race day, that the Earl of Pembroke's horse won the cup ... $5 /-$ ?

PRIZE MONEY

In some parts contests for money prizes are still held for ringers. It is possibly true to say that more harm than good has been done by these financial inducements. Not only is there what some regard as a sordid incentive, but there is the danger, through excessive ringing, of ringers making themselves a public nuisance. In this latter connection we recall the lines ascribed to the Parish Clerk of St. Peter's, Norwich. After being repeatedly disturbed in his early morning sleep, he thus gave vent to his feelings:

- Ye rascally ringers, inveterate foes,

Disturbers of those who are fond of repose,
I wish for the peace and quiet of these [lands,
That ye had round your necks what ye pull
[with your hands!?
Present-day bell-ringing contests were described in a Church newspaper a few years ago. The writer stated: 'Competition matches take place between neighbouring village towers, when buses of ringers will arrive anxious to earn the money prizes; for money brightens any competition, or sa bell-ringers think.'

The article explained, incidentally, the late starting of some church services. It said: 'Bellringing is more easily begun than concluded. Sometimes a service is held up, when through error bell-ringing is prolonged. One must not enter a belfry during the team's ringing, as such may cause discord in the peal through the disturbance of rhythm.' The writer then remarked on the uneasiness of ringers in church. 'Some belfries [he said] are entered by the church, others from the outside, and these are preferred by the ringers. Ringers are rarely churchminded. Should any attend a service, it will be from the back row, packed close together as if for warmth or safety. (This is emphatically denied.-Ed.)

Whether this report be generally true is debatable. Many ringers are regular, conscientious church-goers, and often hold high office in the Church. There is no doubt, however, about the physical endurance needed to excel at ringing. This is required because of the weight of some bells and also because of the length of time taken in ringing various peals. Some bells are so large that many persons are needed to ring them. It is said that five early bells given to Canterbury Cathedral were rung then only by the united efforts of 63 men. Sometimes attempts to ring bells for long periods of time test almost to breaking-point powers of human endurance.

The story was told in The Times for December 6th, 1954, of an attempt by eight men at Loughborough to ring for 20 hours; to make all the combinations and permutations possible on eight bells. The report stated: 'All morning [from 4.15 a.m.] they rang through thousands of permutations, enough indeed to stagger the most ardent football pools fan . . . . Gradually they crept towards the present record of 21,600 changes, and then, only a few hundreds short. they stumbled. It was the case of the missing bob. Distracted by the growing whiteness of one of the team ... the conductor ... forgot to order "bob," and the rigid progression was broken.' (For the correct report of this attempt see 'Ringing World,' December 10th, 1954.Ed.) The need of physical endurance would seem to be emphasised by the following epitaph:

- Near to this place John Webster fell

Beloved by all who knew him well;
He closed the peal, struck well his bell!
Ceasing the same, down dead he fell !'

DISTINCTIVE ENVIRONMENTS

0URS is no ordinary belfry. What, you say, is an 'ordinary' belfry? I must confess I do not know. Of the ones I have seen, few have conformed to any particular shape or size.

There are those black holes of Calcutta, which almost concertina to accommodate eight ringers, where the slit windows afford no light and little air. There are church junk-rooms, which the incumbent uses to preserve chipped statuettes, bent candlesticks, cracked vases, fragments of stained glass, a tattered flag and shabby dog-eared hymn books; and it is here, he explains, that the bell-ropes are pulled. Sometimes in an open gallery, an alarmingly low balcony shields you from descending on the heads of the congregation many feet below. Circumstances, in this situation, can be especially nerve-racking if there is an excessive distance between floor and ceiling and new springy ropes! Some seemingly blissful belfries are marred, one finds, by a complicated network of chiming wires in the ceiling, which interrupt the passage of the ropes and result in a vulgar, clattering accompaniment to the music of the bells. Another menace is the clock cabinet which protrudes between the seventh and tenor ropes, and forces both ringers to perform strange antics to avoid calamity.

There are ground-floor ringing rooms, separated from the nave of the church by a curtain, where the ropes are threaded through a wobbly guide-frame. Remote in a lofty tower, you may come upon a spacious chamber arrayed with boxes in progressive heights for the heavier bells.

There is also the belfry where access is gained head first, through a trapdoor in the floor! It is always in these districts that ringers seem to assemble in dribs and drabs: between touches the timid novice gingerly ascends a creaking ladder and taps apologetically on the hatch; half the floor is heaved up laboriously, and an assortment of curious faces gazes from above into the abyss.

In case you think I am picking on your belfry, I must assure you that ours has its drawbacks, too.

It used to be approached by way of a narrow spiral stairway, whose varying sizes of steps resembled the silhouette of a dromedary: that is, there was a deep hollow in the centre of each step in which you placed your foot. After a non-ringing visitor had proved practically that the tower was a potential helter-skelter, a considerable sum of money was spent in having the holes filled up; so now, the steps are merely narrow and of unpredictable size-which caters for all sizes of feet!

A labyrinth of lanes confronts you when you reach the summit and, having chosen the right one, you eventually discover the entrance to the ringing chamber. At this point, everyqne's first reaction is the same: as the newcomer beholds the green distempered walls and linocovered floor, he gasps a surprised 'Oh!' at the comparative comfort.

Eight slender archways have been hewn in the four walls by our forebears. These rise from the floor of the passages, which mount to the bell chamber. Besides precipitating a somewhat undignified entry into the ringing room if you fail to select the correct archway, these apertures make splendid draught channels.

Consequently, we pay for antiquity and novelty. Every week or so when we are winding up the practice night 'post mortem,' one of our gentleman ringers runs his finger ostentatiously over the table, examines the blackened result and suggests that it's-about-time-someone-did-some-cleaning. This is the cue for all other gentlemen to look at their watches, recall some fearfully important appointment, and whisk hurriedly down the staircase.

To a fleeting visitor, the appearance of the ringing chamber is a sure clue to the character of the ringers. Some belfries are festooned with newspaper cuttings and cartoons, some display a score of lordly peal boards, some are sadly bare with maybe a faded card declaring the bells' weights; some boast heavy tables with a model bell or some such work of art in the centre, some have splintering benches, and some sturdy polished chairs; some are hung with rows of yellowed photographs of portly gentlemen in bowler hats, some flaunt permutations of Double Norwich, some have neatly printed admonitions concerning the perils of the chiming apparatus; most have bell fund boxes!

Variety is the spice of life, and touring other towers convinces one that although the same methods can be produced in each, the conditions under which they are rung may be vastly different. This is another characteristic of the Exercise. Unlike the modern row of prototype houses, there is no risk of duplicating someone else's belfry. Initiative and individuality combine with perseverance and fellowship to achieve a lasting service.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS OF THE EXERCISE

Annual Summer Tour

DEON is a glorious county, isn't it? Not only are there many fine towers with equally fine rings' of bells, but also the connections with cream and cider immediately spring to mind.
The S.F.E. were off to Devon again in 1956 and had hoped to be staying in central or westerly parts of the third largest English county. However, circumstances did not permit this and, as usual, the tolerant village of East Budleigh had to put up with us yet again. In consequence of being so far away from the towers which our organiser was anxious for us to visit, the week developed into a minor Monte Carlo. Never before had the narrow country lanes radiating from East Budleigh seen such a rush of vehicles bursting forth at about 8.30 each morning. Other traffic was forced into the hedge (for the lanes weren't designed for anything wider than a dog-cart). We hasten to add that our transport consisted of two cars and a motor-cycle.
The company, 'from all parts of England and Wales, began to assemble on Saturday, August 18 th. On their journey down some members paused awhile for the practice at Exeter Cathedral, where, it is said, 64 ringers were present. During the course of the evening everybody, gravitated to the Kings Arms to sample the local brew and to renew old friendships.

On Sunday morning six braver souls made their way to ring at All Saints', East Budleigh, for the 8.45 Holy Communion service. The six light bells have becn quoted by someone a little misguidedly as the finest six in Devon. We again helped out the local ringers later in the morning.

THE TOUR PROPER

After lunch, things really began to move and we noticed that our tower lists were headed importantly 'All 8 -Bell Tour.' We proceeded to Torquay, where we visited St. Mary's, Upton, and All Saints', Babbacombe. For the evening service we rang at the Parish Church, Paignton, and saw three new choirboys being ceremoniously introduced to the church by taking vows.
North Tawton, with its unusual spire bearing on one side a small bell hung outside, was the first tower on Monday morning. Here we were impressed by the number of ringing certificates on the walls and a large, coloured peal card recording a long peal, rung in more than four hours, of over 2,000 call changes. One of the local men present, Mr. Alfred Lias, took part in this, and he is the only survivor of the band. Next came Hatherleigh, with a good eight. At Great Torrington, we were allowed 'two smart peals only,' and we did not do these grand Taylor bells justice, especially with the ringing shield hanging on a pillar not far away. Bideford is a busy port and has a fine church with another deep-toned Taylor ring. After tea in an hotel lounge we moved on to Northam, where a good course of Oxford was tapped round. In spite of warnings, the Warner bells at Appledore turned out to be quite good. We had a quick look at Westward Ho! and then made the long trek back to base.

TEA AT THE VICARAGE

Tuesday was the day when we to be pleasantly surprised and also disillusioned. We made a good start at Witheridge, where John Taylor and Co. have just done an excellent job of rehanging the bells. The tenors are by Bilbie (1754) and have extremely good tone. We met another good eight at South Molton, and at Chittlehampton the rich tower dominates the church. We reached High Bickington by way of a narrow and steeply rising lane and were pleased with the light eight here. In spite of an 87 feet draught of rope the bells handle well and the locals considered that we rang much too fast!

Beaford came next, and here was the dis-illusionment-only six bells. However, we did our best, and rang at a pace that we thought much too fast. The locals, of course, decided that our ringing was poor because the bells were too high! Our pleasant surprise came here, too, because we had not booked tea anywhere, and we were some distance from any place where we were likely to get any refreshment. The Vicar, who is a keen ringer and learned to ring in Bristol under Mr. A. Bennett not many years ago, very kindly offered to entertain us at his new Vicarage. This offer was promptly accepted and we had a sumptuous feast for which we were extremely grateful.
After tea we were shown the rainfall gauge, had our photographs taken and then went off to Winkleigh. The bells here need pushing along, and some people had trouble with blistered hands, the thin, single-ended ropes not helping matters a great deal. Here the loca! ringers gave us a breather when they showed us how they rang call changes. Almost on the doorstep of the church is an attractive pub, the Ring of Bells, displaying a sign with seven bells scattered over it. This is the inn made famous in a recent national newspaper competition titled 'Win a Pub.' Naturally this free house was visited by all.

NORTH DEVON

It was not very early by the time we had reached Barnstaple on Widnesday morning, and one of the cars was discovered to have a couple of nails in a tyre, and was thus banished to a garage for a while. The spire at the Parish Church was reminiscent of North Tawton, but went two better. Here three small bells were hanging outside the lead-covered twisted spire. Apparently the frame inside the tower is also twisting, and the bells, especially the liftle ones, are somewhat temperamental in their 'go.'
A local reporter made rapid notes on our visit before we hastened off in relays to nearby Pilton. There are some excellent bells here but we had some disgracefully poor ringing on them. We noted in the church a carved font cover, the pulpit hour-glass and memorials to members of the Chichester family. At Braunton we had an excellent lunch and found a good ring at St. Brannock's. We climbed over the hill towards Georgeham, enjoying the panoramic view on our way. When we arrived the village fete was in full swing under the shadow of the tower, and here again we limited our ringing to two short 'peals.' Onwards to Ilfracombe, thus enabling one section of the party to have a quick dip in the briny at Woolacombe en route. Now we were back in change ringing territory, and at Holy Trinity we noted a Gloucester and Bristol peal board bearing such names as F. E. Robinson and W. Cave. At SS. Philip and James' we were delayed in finding the key to the tower, which a man in the churchyard had in his pockct. This is a call change tower, and we wondered about possible rivalry with the other Ilfracombe tower. Our longest run then followed back to the opposite corner of Devon.

OVER THE BORDER

On Thursday the large car, so lately punctured, decided to give more trouble just as it rolled up to the first tower, belching forth oily fumes. We enjoyed the musical bells of Okehampton and returned to the car to find our organiser had mended the water pump and was refilling the radiator with bucketfuls of cold green water from a pond. Next came Holsworthy, which again provided an excellent eight. Here the bells and chiming apparatus were installed in 1949, and we were very pleased to see and hear the Holsworthy chime being played especially for us. Bridgerule was the next tower with a light ring quickly raised and off in changes. As we were setting our bells in rushed someone to say that there was no stay on the third-and just in time. During the next touch, however, the rope was missed, and over she went!

Before we knew it we had rushed over the border into that foreign land, Cornwall. Kilkhampton has a fine church and it was full of visitors when we arrived. Some of them looked on interestedly as we rang at the back of the church under the tower. The final ring of the day we had at Stratton, and these fine Taylor bells were thought to be the best of the tour.

Friday was not a very successful day. We had some rain, some poor striking, and we were behind schedule for much of the time. We arrived at Ashburton at the appointed hour and had to wait some 15 minutes for the weekly bread service to be completed. The bells, high in a fine tower, were good. Ugborough is a prosperous village with a huge church and massive tower. The booming bells, by Bilbie, Pannell, and one by Taylor, go well and musically and are the front eight of a ring of twelve. We had an admirable lunch prepared at very short notice in a local hostelry. This was followed by some really devious routes to Revelstoke, where the leading car cleverly located the ruined Church of St. Peter the Fisherman. However, we found the church we wanted at Noss Mayo and had a quick ring. This tower enabled Cyril to complete his list of eights in his home county, a noble effort.

Then off to Kingsbridge in great haste. It is a very unusual approach to the ringing chamber here, which we located after a lengthy search. This handy little ring in our only central tower of the tour had to be left soon, and we went on to Totnes. Of course the church here is a beautiful one with a particularly fine tower. The bells, having a 28 cwt. Warner tenor, are of good tone and go well. Here the local man crossed the belfry during a touch of Major, in which admittedly the striking was 'patchy,' and anxiously looked out of the window. On being asked if he did not like the tenor being turned in, it appeared that was not the trouble at all. As he put it, "I don't know what the people outside will think with three bells striking together.' Some of us had our cream tea here, and made short work of the splits appropriately covered. We were at Berry Pomeroy once more on time. The bells were oiled for us, and although they are a good ring, we did not manage to attain accurate striking on them.

GIANTS OF CORNWALL

The final day, to begin with, was very wet. The approach to Buckland-in-the-Moor is pretty, with the village tucked into wooded hillsides. Here we met an excellent light eight in an attractively small church. Now we climbed up to Dartmoor, to be clearly seen after the rain had dispersed, looking its best with distant purple heather and the overfriendly ponies. We found a Gillett and Johnston restoration at Buckland-Monachorum, and these bells encouraged us to good striking.

Over the English border, the other side of the River Tamar, we were soon in Launceston and to the old church at St. Stephen's by Launceston. The excellent ancient bells. go, well.

Society of Friends of the Exercise - Continued

Briefly, bacik to Devon we came to Werrington. The Vicar, although surprised, because we appeared to be an hour carly, was happy to welcome us, and his very good Taylor octave, soon rang out. Back in Launceston we rang at St. Mary's, with a tower which was once a watch tower and a slaughterhouse. The final tower of the tour was at Lifton, Devon. The bells here are by W. & J. Taylor, of Oxford, cast in 1827, and they are quite good. We retired to the local inn and whilst quenching our thirsts began to think about the next tour, due in October, and then the Whitsun affair for next year.
It was a memorable week, full of fun, with lots of fine bells and magnificent scenery. We rang at 37 towers during the week and we believe that the identities of the folk taking part, and the few methods rung, are better left to the imagination.
Our thanks are due to all the incumbents for their kind permission to ring, and to the many tower captains and local ringers who turned out to give us a friendly greeting. Last, but not least, we need to remember the kind people of East Budleigh with whom we stayed, and our slave, the organiser. Thank you, Cyril.

TUNING FORK.
Oldest member of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association is Mr. J. E. R Kean, who has completed 64 years' membership. His 79th birthday was honoured by a quarter on Newcastle Cathedral bells. Mr. Kean still occasionally joins in the service ringing and conducts his favourite method (Stedman) in his extremely loud voice.

FORTY-FOUR YEARS AFTER

Additional memories of the longest peal on handbells, 19,738 of Stedman Caters, rung at Guildford 44 years ago and featured in our issue of August 31 st , are provided by the conductor, Mr. A. H. Pulling. He writes:

- The five chairs are still somewhere in Holy Trinity Cathedral Church, with a piece cut of the back legs to allow the ringers to lie back. Mr. Alfred Winch, after the peal, walked back to Leatherhead ( 12 miles) and returned to Guildford next morning to ring for service, and for a photograph of the ringers and umpires to be taken.
' Arthur Shepherd rang for five and a half hours without a misblow. Frank Blondelf maintained a wonderful beat on 9-10 throughout the peal.
'The only trip in the peal occurred 12 courses from home, and after a word or two the band soon settled down.
- The next morning the late Mr. Goldsmith asked Mirs. Pulling if the conductor could sleep after the peal. She replied that it would take more than a peal to upset his sleep. He was snoring as soon as he got into bed. With such a lovely set of bells one could listen all day and never get tired.
© Of the ringers and umpires only five are living to-day.'

CASTLE CARY, SOMERSET.-On August 29th, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: H. Creed 1, G. Creed 2, D. A. Osborne 3, F. Andrews 4, H. C. Lintern 5, D. Tiley 6, H. J. Sanger (cond.) 7, A. Rapson 8 . Rung in honour of the 84th birthday of Henry Milborne, a member of the local company.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Great Cheverell on September 1st, some 34 ringers attending, including visitors frơm Frome and Chippenham. The Guild service was taken by Canon Sexby, of West Lavington, who welcomed the ringers to Cheverill. The lesson was read by Sir C. C. Chitham.
Tea was served in the Parish Room and votes of thanks were passed to the Rector for the use of the bells, and to Canon Sexby for taking the service, to the lady organist and the young lady who worked the bellows.
Sir C. C. Chitham, in reply, said he hoped everyone had enjoyed themselves, including the tea, and he would be glad to see any ringers at Great Cheverell.
In the evening Erlestoke bells were available. Methods rung during the afternoon and evening ranged from rounds to Cambridge Surprise.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD

Dyffryn Church was the venue of the quarterly meeting of the Swansea and Brecon Guild on September 1st, and in spite of the small attendance it was a very good meeting-thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens and those responsible for the excellent tea provided.
The church is high up on the side of the hill and the ring of six is always well worth a visit, and those who attended made good use of them before and after the meeting.
At the business meeting three new members and one honorary member were elected. It was proposed to hold the joint meeting at Aberavon, and this matter is to be discussed at the next Llandaff meeting, the date, etc., to be left for both secretaries to decide.

Behind the peal at Kirkby Lonsdale, Westmorland, reported this week, there is the story of a great achievement.It was rung by the Sunday service band after much hard practice. Ten different 720's had been rung individually for services in preceding weeks, and in the end they achieved what for Mr. Proctor and Mr . Shaw has been almost a lifelong ambition.

Fifteen-year-old Terence L. Pendred, of Weston Favell, Northants, who recently rang his first quarter peal, has been bereaved by the sudden death of his father while on holiday. On the day of the funeral, August 31st, a quarter peal was rung ut Weston Favell as an expression of sympathy of the ringers and many friends.

The 350th anniversary of the founding of the Paston School-Nelson's School- occurs on October 1st. It is proposed to attempt a peal in celebration of the event, and Old Pastonians who wish to be included should get in touch with Mr. N. Golden, 26, Brabazon Road, Norwich.

There was one slip-up in the marriage of Mr. Kenneth Arthur and Miss M. Gibson-the 'Just Married notice was deposited on the wrong car! Some people say that all modern cars look alike, but mistaking a blue Standard for a black Morris Minor seems hardly excusable!
In sending 10 s. as a personal donation in respect of wedding fees, a Tonbridge ringer, who recently rang his first peal, writes: 'I cannot help feeling that the solution to the problem of finance can only be found on the lines of the article published in your issue of August 17th. We must face it, but most of us are not paying nearly enough for the privileges we enjoy.'

GOSSIP

We regret to learn that Mr. Harry Wardle, a ringer and chorister of Markfield Church, Leicestershire, was fatally injured on a choir outing. To his memory a quarter peal of Treble Bob Minor was rung on the halfmuffled bells on September 4th

On the 66th anniversary of his first peal at Erith, on August 30th, 1890, Mr. Isaac Emery, now 85, conducted a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples at Eltham.

Our reference to 14 -year-old Roland H . Cook, in this column on August 13th, was not correct. Of his 16 peals 12 have been rung 'inside.' The peal in question was his first in three methods of Minor 'inside.'
Mr. W. T. Cook, of 3, College Road, West Ealing, W.13, has been elected 'Ringing World' representative for the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild.
Mr. Alan J. Butler, S.S.M., of Bournemouth, who was one of the founder members of the Society of Roving Ringers, will be ordained a deacon by the Lard Bishop of Southwell, at St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Newark, on September 23 rd . He is a member of the House of the Sacred Mission, Kelham, and is to work in South Africa.

Fifty years after the belfry of All Saints' Church, Stanton, tumbled down in a night storm it is being rebuilt. The original stones and fints, which have been piled in the Rectory garden since 1906, are being used. Unfortunately insufficient money is forthcoming to rehang the four bells. For years parishioners have been summoned to church by the chiming of a bell hung in the cleft of a tree, and more recently from a steel tripod in the churchyard.

Enjoyable Meeting at Ealing

A very enjoyable meeting was held on August 18th at St. Mary's, Ealing, some 30 members and friends attending. Ringing under the direction of the Ringing Master (Mr. F. C. Price), assisted by the Deputy Master (Mr. R. F. B. Speed), ranged from rounds to London Surprise Major, a notable feature being the excellent example of striking by Mr. A. Richardson, a blind ringer from Finchley, and many were the ringers who offered him congratulations.
The service was conducted by the Vicar, who gave a most interesting address which was much enjoyed.
At the business meeting a helpful discussion took place on 'The Ringing World.' The importance of every district having its own representative was stressed, and the meeting was unanimous that a representative should be elected for them, the South and West District, without delay. The District was most fortunate in having once again as a resident that enthusiastic young ringer and organiser, Mr. W. T. Cook, who most willingly accepted this important post, to the great satisfaction of all concerned, including the convener of 'The Ringing World 'Committee, to whom the meeting accorded a very hearty welcome.
Among the visitors were Mr. M. J. Barker, of Derby, and Mr. Chandler, of Cheriton, Folkestone. Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar and that Middlesex veteran, Mr. A. Harding, for their efforts towards a very successful meeting

FOUR GUILDS' FESTIVAL

The ninth annual gathering of members of the neighbouring districts of the Guildford, Winchester and Portsmouth and Oxford Diocesan Guilds. together with the Southern Dis'trict of the Ladies' Guild, was held on September 1st at Wokingham.

It was pleasing to see a rather greater number of Basingstoke District ringers than usual, while, as is now usual, the Guildford Guild provided the largest contingent. Visitors were present from Oxford, Ealing, Hughendon, Shiplake, etc.. etc., making a grand total of 135 .

Ringing commenced at Sandhurst and Finchamostead at 2.30 , and the Wokingham towers at 3.30

The, service was conducted in St. Paul's Church by the Rector, the Ven. Thorndike Shaw, chairman of the Sonning Deanery Branch, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. F. Britnell, of St. Sebastian's, Wokingham, himself a ringer. Tea followed at the Waterloo Restaurant in the market place, and before the company dispersed, the chairman passed the usual votes of thanks, and welcomed everyone once again to the Sonning Deanery. Mr. Chesterman and Mr. Denyer replied.

In the evening the towers of Arborfield, Binfield. Hurst, Sandhurst and Wokingham were open, and good use was made of all these bells until nearly 9 p.m.

Three coachloads of Guildford Guild memhers then departed, while others travelled by car and cycle. And so ended, despite unsettled weather, another meeting of old friends and many new ones.

It was nice that Michael Thomas was home from Southampton to take part in a peal which had been arranged at his home tower, St. Gluvias. Cornwall. He was an able substirute for Douglas Burnett, who was busy harvesting, and shows he has learned much ringing since he has been away. Yet another Cornish native returned to ring his first peal of Grandsire.

MR. KENNETH ARTHUR - MISS MARGARET GIBSON

The wedding of two well-known members of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, Mr. Kenneth Arthur and Miss Margaret Gibson, was solemnised at the Church of SS. James and Basil, Fenham, Newcastle-uponTyne, by the Vicar, the Rev. J. R. H. Prophet, on August 29th. The service was choral.
The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of stiff white brocade with short veil and a headdress of lace and orange blossom. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white stephanotis. She was attended by Miss Olwyn Smith and Miss Mary Charters as bridesmaids, who wore off-the-shoulder dresses of mauve nylon organza. The best man was Mr. J. C. Hampton, and Mr. G. S. Deas was groomsman.

The large congregation included many ringers, especially those of the Fenham and South Shields belfries, to which the bride and bridegroom belonged. The bells rang out as the happy couple left the church, while other ringers formed a guard of honour.
The reception was held at the Gordon Hotel, and while the cake, surmounted by Cupid and bells, was cut, four of the ringers rang a course of Stedman Triples on handbells.
The honeymoon was spent motoring. The bride travelled in a grey suit with a green and white straw hat.

Unfortunately no peal could be attempted on Fenham or South Shields bells on this occasion but a peal of Double Norwich was rung at St. John's, Newcastle, on the following evening.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Lewisham District

The quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District, which attracted an attendance of 40, was held at Cudham, by permission of the Vicar, the Rev. Dr. E. Burgess, despite very short notice and his own enforced absence from Cudham on the selected day.
Ringing during the afternoon, directed by Miss M. Andrews (Bexley), preceded the service in church, conducted by the Rev. E. W. E. Fraser, Vicar of the neighbouring village of Downe. The lesson was read by Mr. E. Barnett (Crayford), and Mr. G. Hurrell, a ringer at St. John's, Eltham, was the organist.

After tea the business meeting was held, with Mr. E. A. Barnett as a very able chairman. Two ringers were elected members of the Association, and the election of one practising member was ratified Bromley was chosen as the place of the annual District meeting to be held on Saturday, November 3rd. It was decided to hold a practice meeting at Beckenham on September 8th.
Mr. J. Dafters, Lewisham, informed the meeting of the passing of Mr. H. Brasher, of Lee, a member of 40 years' standing, and paid a sincere tribute to his memory, recalling his many years' faithful service at St. Margaret's Church.

The chairman and Mr. I. Emery referred to the passing of Mr. E. Alexander Young. The members remembered both these gentlemen in the traditional manner.

Mention was then mads of the Bow Bells Fund Appeal and it was resolved to invite all towers in the District to contribute before the date of the annual District mecting.

Cordial votes of thanks to the Vicar of Cudham, the Vicar of Downe and Mr. Hurrell concluded the business session. Further ringing followed to end an enjoyable occasion.

TIME HEALS ALL WOUNDS

Every king has his fool, and that is, no doubt, why I was invited to go on a week's ringing tour in the Midlands. Certainly only a fool would have cycled 260 miles in a week of this rain-drenched August. Like the mediæval fool, I contributed greatly to the morale of the party for, whenever anyone made some faux pas, a glance at my appalling mishaps would be enough to remind him (for no woman would make a faux pas) how much worse a mistake he could have made. But it is possibly true that my bicycle was yet more important. Most cycles have two wheels, both circular and neither wobbling. My cycle has two wheels, the rear one only wobbles half an inch and is almost circular; the front wheel moves (I think it was run over by a bus) about two inches from side to side and I need a large basket in front to prevent me seeing it, lest I fall off in fright.

Actually I only fell off twice; once when I cycled into the kerb amid riotous applause, the other time when we were taking a short cut' which saved 800 yards and added ten minutes. (Apart from delays when we got lost and lifted our cycles over enormous gates only to find we had to lift them back again.) There was a ford, I remember, and a stony track which I alone took in my stride (I'm used to bumpy pro-gress)-or did I? I fell off!
But John cycled into a ditch. How seldom is this cliche accurate. But it was on our trip. He was cycling on an overgrown verge when the ground gave way before him and he found his cycle in the ditch.

STAY BREAKER

Our ringing, too, was well down to the worst standards. Our Stedman Triples had the tenor usually between $7 \frac{1}{2}$ th place and $8+$ th place and never below sixth place. And at one six, misspelt as Sleepy, there was the despairing cry in Grandsire Doubles, 'Cut at hand under the tenor and lead.' And our best ringer (who conducted about 20 peals last year) broke a stay. ' All your own work,' we graciously said ; but a modest man, he insisted on crediting us with giving a lot of help. But apart from these efforts to emulate leading ringers. there was that poor six where we had been adjured to remember that we were 'Guild members and to behave with suitable decorum.' As we rang down the conductor called: 'Get this right or we'll ring them up again; catch in Tittums.' The treble sounded; the fourth sounded: I was on the second and gave a mighty heave and ended flat on my face while everyone else roared with laughter. It was fortunate that the vicar was not present to comment on our decorum. And by the time we'd spliced the rope together there wasn't time to repeat the raise and fall-or wasn't there sufficient faith in the splice?
We usually have a tower-grabber (see 'R.W.', 10th August, 1956) but he was unable to come. So we felt a glow of pride when after a fruitless search for entry to an abominable five, one of us picked the lock. It was a great disappointment when he admitted that he had merely found the key.

On the strength of an erroneous article in the local press, which suggested that we had an octogenarian cycling round with us, we were invited to several cups of tea. Alas, he went by bus. and had to miss half the towers and all the ones that gave us tea.

But if we didn't deserve the kindness shown ta us, we are still profoundly grateful. I dare not mention names as I do not suppose that many of those we met would care to be coupled with us in print. Still, time heals all wounds.

PART I. - 'CATHEDRAL' SYSTEM (Continued from page 570)  SECTION III (First Session)  INTRODUCTION TO THE BELFRY

24. Preparation. - The tutor-in-charge will have the ringing chamber tidied up, and if it is spacious, will have chairs or other seating adequate for the number of pupils expected. A blackboard and chalk and duster are necessary, also an octave of handbells, or some means of sounding notes, such as even a toy 'dulcimer,' with a 'tapper.' For use of handbells a broom handle across two chairbacks forms a support on which to hang them in order of the notes of the scale. Up to four pieces of old bell-rope are required, each about 18 inches in length, colloquially known as 'rattails,' and used as dummy ropes' ends. Bells will be silenced for the second and some subsequent sessions up to the number of groups of five pupils (or part of five). E.g., for 12 pupils three bells would be silenced, and they would work in three teamstor groups of four each. A competent ringer is required as assistant. even for a single working group, though a capable tutor can manage without such help. Where the class is larger than five a studenttutor (or other tutor) is essential, to prevent the work becoming too arduous. A model bell, mounted for 'ringing,' is invaluable, though not essential.
(Q T)
25. Papers.-The tutor-in-charge will require copies of Forms 1 and 2 (information and enrolment) to the number of students joining. and a copy of Form 3, also one of the Manual of Training, Part I. The Form 3-Course Register -will have been headed up and partly completed with names and sent out by the Registrar when the Course was arranged; but the tutor will complete the names of any not entered, at the close of the first session, when students make their final decision to join. The course register will be marked at the close of each session.
(Q T)
26. Opening.-(S) In welcoming those present to the opening of this College course, explain that as the belfry is part of the church it demands the same principles of conduct and conversation as anywhere within a church; and that meetings in the belfry for the purpose of performing what is part of the service of the church are aptly preceded by the Belfry Office -a short prayer offered by one of the clergy, if present, otherwise by the leader or senior ringer present.
27. The two 'Chambers.'-(S) Explain that the belfry proper comprises two chambersthe one in which the course is met, known as 'the ringing chamber,' and one above, in which the bells are installed, known as 'the bell chamber. Direct attention to the number of ropes seen hanging through the ceiling, indicating the number of bells installed, and refer to ting the number of bells installed, and refer to varying numbers of rings of bells, and typical weights.
28. The Art of Change Ringing.-(S) Refer to the previous 'viewing.' by the class, of change ringing in progress. (It is assumed that in most cases there will have been such a preview; but if not. state that the action is about to be demonstrated.) State that change ringing, or the sounding of the bells in different orders, according to various methods,' by swinging them over and over, is a peculiarly British art, dating from the early part of the 17 th century (Q). It is enjoyed by persons of both sexes, of all ages, from all walks of life, and provides stimulating mental and physical recreation. (Q)
29. Time to learn.-(S) Onc of the joys of ringing is that there is always something more to be learnt about it. But with reasonable attion to good instruction. bell control and the elements of change ringing can be acquired in about eight to ten sessions.
30. Three ways of sounding bells.-(S) Write on blackboard: 1 -Clocking. 2-Chiming. 3-Ringing. Proceed to distinguish between them. In clocking a hammer is pulled by a rope or cable to hit against the 'lip. of the bell; for example, as in the clock-chimes. (D) Point out the cable on the wall and the stud over which the end loop is pulled when the chimes are put out of action. The carillon is similar in action ; so is the 'chiming apparatus.' (If one is installed, show it.) (N.B.- Now pull off the clock hammers.) (Q) (D) In chiming, the bell is pulled gently so as to swing through a narrow arc, with its clapper bouncing against the inside of the lip. Demonstrate with a tower bell (not silenced) for two or three blows: also with model bell, if one available. (Q) (If not, swing handbell slightly to show.)
31. The action of ringing--(S) (D) Do not explain more at this stage than the action as being one of continuously exaggerating the motion of chiming, until the bell is eventually swinging through the maximum arc of 360 degrees, and vibrating with a fiercer blow at each stroke, producing greater resonance and volume of sound. Raise (open bell, if permissible), ring a few strokes, then sct.
32. Bells 'raised' or 'up.'-(S) State that bell is now resting mouth upwards in the in verted position, against a 'stay' provided for the purpose. That it could now be 'rung' continuously by a nicely-judged pull, which brings it off its balance and sends it up to balance the other 'way.' If a model bell is at hand, use it to demonstrate this. (D) If not. use a handbell to show the general idea, and state that the real thing will be seen soon, in the bell chamber above. Point out the danger of pulling on a rope if unaware that the bell is 'up' or 'raised' in this way.
33. Rope motion in 'ringing.' - (S and $D$ ) Refer to the peculiar rope motion and explain that a large wheel attached to the bell to provide leverage for 'ringing," winds the rope round it, thus drawing the rope right up. Illustrate on the model bell if present. Slate that the peculiar dancing motion will be explained later.
34. Visit to the bell chamber. - (S) Interest can now be further stimulated, in towers where the bell chamber can be visited. by announcing that the bells are now to be seen in their setting, with one in action. Ware students to move and stand only precisely as directed, to hold on securely to hand-rails or hand-ropes in going up and down the stepways; not to attempt or touch the bells or ropes, or put hands through the framework, and to 'mind the head' as they go. (Q T) Arrange for the assistant to ring the one bell that is now 'up ' by the following signs on the rope of an adjacent bell: (A) Rope raised and lowered a few feet two or three times-assistant to ease bell on to point of balance and hold it for a few seconds, then pull off and hold it on point of balance for a few seconds the other way; then repeat both strokes as before for about three whole pulls, then stand. (B) Adjacent rope raised and lowered in short, quick jerks-assistant to lower the bell. (No other bells to be up.) Now lead the way up to the bell chamber, students following. (Q T)
35. Observation positions. - (S) Some bell chambers, having an observation platform, render the visit easy and safe. But in those without a platform, the tutor must exercise his judgment as to the wisdom of a visit at all. This should only be held, of course, if it is reasonably easy to reach standing positions at frame level without risk of injury by slipping or falling. Unless the way is well lighted throughout, a torch or torches must be carried. Ensure that all students are in position for observing and settled before starting the demonstration. The raised bell should be'remote.'
36. Bell hanging.-(D) Direct attention tor the way the bells are "hung from "stocks," fitted with 'gudgeons" at the ends, in "pits" in the frame. Note the large wheel, supplying the leverage for the pulling. Observe the fillethole through which passes the rope tied to the spokes. Note the pulley below the sheave of the wheel, round phich the rope passes whers the large wheen turns and brings the fillet-hole past the pulley. Try to elicit by questions that this is the cause of the 'dancing' of the rope, as recently observed in the ringing chamber below. Point out the 'stay' and explain its engagement under the bell-position, when the bell is inverted, with 'slider' or 'stop,' enabling the bell to be "set.'
37. Raised bell at the 'set'-(D) Now direct attention to the bell that is actually set, and explain its position by reference to top-deadcentre position showing that it is "just over" the balance. Elicit bv questions that the comparatively slender stay could hardly withstand: the force of the bell's momentum as it came up to that position unless the momentum had already been 'killed' by braking action on the rope.
38. Danger of Breaking Stay.-(S) In other words explain that just sufficient pull is required as will bring the bell up to, or almost up to, the point of balance only, so that the degree of energy expended on the braking action is a minimum. (Q) Otherwise, either the stay will be broken off (with dire results unless the rope is at once released !) or else the ringer will tire out with with needless strong effort in braking.
39. Clapper 'Wrong.' - (D) Take opportunity at this juncture to observe position of clapper lying (if right!) on the 'over' or 'leading ' side of the lip of the bell at rest. Explain that if the bell has been properly 'raised' the clapper 'runs ahead of ' the motion of the bell as it comes up to the point of balance, and strikes it on the leading side, coming to rest as seen. If improperly raised the clapper rests on the 'trailing' or 'after ' side of the bell in this position; and not only makes the bell 'strike false.' i.e., out of correct time, but may render it difficult to set in some cases. (Remedy against this to be demonstrated later.)

40. Observing a bell rung.-(S) Explain that signals are now to be given to assistant in ringing chamber to ring several strokes and then set the bell again. Give the prearranged signal - A. (D) Direct attention to the slow movement as the bell comes off the stay on to the point of balance before swinging off and round up to the balance point on the other side. Notice how the ringer is holding it on the point of balance. now, and not setting it on the stay.
41. Arrangement of bells. - ( S ) When bell comes to rest, explain that on the given signal the assistant will 'lower' it. (D) But first point out the arrangement of all the bells in the frame. Some hung to swing in one direction and others in a direction at right-angles to it. Explain that this is to aim at cancelling out the thrust forces, to some extent, on the tower walls, which forces are considerable. Recall the weights given when in the ringing chamber; and point out the tenor or heaviest bell, and give its weight, also the treble or lightest bell, with its weight. Hence deduce why, when a stay breaks, a ringer can be hurtled upwards unless he releases the rope. (Give signal- ' B.')
42. Observing bell lowered. - Direct attention to the gradually reduced arc of swing. (D) Note the way in which the direction of rope movement is reversed as the fillet hole in the wheel passes the pulley below it, thus making the rope 'dance' to an observer in the ringing chamber. Note how the volume of sound falls off as the bell comes to the chiming only action, and finally stops, hanging in its normal ' mouth downward ' position.
43. Silencing a bell.-(S) Finally explain that for their early tuition the students will have their bells 'silenced'; in other words the clappers will be tied or stayed so that they cannot strike the bells. thus avoiding disturbance., Recall that chiming hammers were 'pulled off, before the ringing and elicit the reason for that other kind of 'silencing'; i.e., to prevent danger to the hammer and the bell that would otherwise ensue.
44. Return to the Ringing Chamber. - (S) Instruct the party to observe the same care in returning to the ringing chamber that was taken in coming up to the bells. Depute a responsible member of the party to lead the way down and remain until last to replace traps, put out lights. etc.
(Q T)
45. Alternatives.-(D) In towers where it is not possible to take a party to view the bells, make use of the model bell for the detail of Articles 36 to 43 inclusive. But if no model bell is available, the best use possible must be made of pictures of how a bell is hung (e.g., as in Snowdon's 'Ropesight.' chapter I), and of sketches on the blackboard, and of a handbel! held in various positions of the ringing motion.
(Q T)
46. Bell ropes and arrangement.-(S) Having now some idea of how a bell is mounted and functions. and of what 'ringing' means. the student must examine arrangements at the rope of the bell. (D) Observe the ropes coming through the fillet holes in the ceiling, and, if the ceiling be a high one with rope-guides present. note the purpose of such guides. i.c.. to steady the rising and falling of the ropes. Note the arrangement of ropes in a "circle." so that normally the ringers may stand facing inwards and see all ropes uninterruptedly. (Precise way of standing to be detailed later.) Note that if each rope be regarded as over a spot on the floor, those spots, from the rope of the highest notebell (Treble) to the lowest note-bell (Tenor) run round clockwise. In some towers the arrangement is anti-clockwise, though this is rare. (Q)
47. Sally and Rope's end. -(S) Note that the end of the rope is either hooked up (on wall or on central pulley block), or else it is tied up on the rope itself. (D) From this, point out that the rope's end should never be allowed to drop on to the floor. where dust will soil the rope and the hands, and make ringing less pleasant thereby. (Urge students not to follow examples of ringers who drop ropes, either when untying or when finishing 'lowering,' as this is, strictly bad practice.) Ropes' ends can be 'untwisted, without dropping! Note the coloured, tufted length at head height and above, called the sally.' Remark that in some few districts a similar, shorter tufting may be found at the rope's end; though generally this is not considered practicable owing to the varying heights of ringers and their reaches.
48. Rope-tie. - ( S ) Draw attention to the tuck-back' at the rope's end, and show that by altering the tuck the length of the rope can be varied to suit the reach of the ringer. (D) Then demonstrate the rope-tie, slowly and deliberately, two or three times. (Ex. 1.) Now create fresh interest by having pupils out, four at a time, one to each rope, standing as to ring, and trying to make the rope-tie. Check each in turn.
49. Feel of the bell. - (S) When the first group of four have finished attempts at ropetying, explain that each student will now have the opportunity to 'feel ' the bell, by chiming it. (The clock hammers are still 'off.') (D) Demonstrate the grip on the sally and the slight swing and check. Strike the bell not more than three times and instruct the students to follow suit. (Ex. 2.) If more than four in the class, the next group of four (or less) follow on. Those wait ing, watch.
50. Striking and Listening.-(S) Direct attention to the sounding or 'striking' of the bells, as heard in Ex. 2, when no care was being taken to sound them in any order. Stress that from the start the would-be ringer must concentrate on listening carefully to the sound of his bell and then manipulate it so that it sounds precisely in its allotted place among the other bells. That this applies in chiming, of course, but more especially in ringing proper; where the time interval between the sound of one bell and the bell next-but-one away from it may be so short that the ringer must strike his own to within one-quarter of a second's precision! Only the co-ordination of ear and muscle can achieve this. So that one of the early essentials is tone recognition-or recognising the sound of one's own bell amongst the others. Exercises in this will follow.
(Note--Clock chimes should now be put on again.)
51. Questions. - (S) In closing this section dealing with the Introduction to the Belfry, it should be noted that this is virtually the first session or lesson of the Course. The matter and arrangement in this, as in the succeeding sections, of this Course in Part I of the Manual is to be followed as entered, for experience has shown that such is productive of better results in the long run. The assumption here is that the class comprises from. say, 8 to 20 students. and the time the included matter will occupy is about 70 to 90 minutes for such numbers. The item of questions is routine for the closing of cach session. If questions are slow in coming from the students, ask them questions to stimulate thought on what has been happening

LETTERS

HANDBELL RINGING AT SIX Years of AGE
Dear Sir,-Whilst attending a meeting of the South Eastern Division of the Esscx Association at Tollesbury, Essex, I couldn't help but think it a meeting more full of surprises than usual. First a peal board was dedicated, the treble ringer, R. Leavett, being the first Tollesbury ringer to ring a peal in his own tower. His son, aged six years, handles the second bell at tail stroke by standing on a pew. and, after the business meeting, he rang 1-2 "in hand ' and his father $3-4-5-6$ to three plain leads of Plain Bob Minor.
Neither I nor anyone else present at the meeting has seen a lad of six years old ringing handbells before, and when he had finished he looked round as if it was just a normal occurrence.
Also, this was the Association's first meeting at Tollesbury, with its ring of six bells (tenor 8 cwt .). As if this wasn't enough, it appears that funds being insufficient to purchase more handbells, R. Leavett has collected varioustuned shop doorbells and made some very nicetoned handbells from them.-Yours faithfully,

Kelvedon. Essex.

EXETER CATHEDRAL PRACTICE

Dear Sir,-I am unable to answer the Exeter Cathedral ringer's query ('Belfry Gossip,' August 31 st ) regarding the number present at a practice, but merely wish to endorse the fact he states.
I, as a visitor, was present at the practice he refers to, and I made the number present 65. I have never seen so many people at an ordinary local practice-indeed it was an encouraging and heart-warming sight for any ringer to see so many of his friends gathered from far and wide, quite by accident. I knew about 35 of those present.
Who said bellringing was a dying art? Yours sincerely,

RONALD K. RUSS.
Sonning Common, Berks.

THE BRIGHTON BROADCAST

Readers who were tele-viewing the B.B.C. transmission of the Trades Union Congress service at Brighton on September 2nd may have wondered why they heard only rounds during the six or seven minutes the bells were on the air. Fifty-six minutes were allowed for the quarter peal in the hope that listeners would hear the bells coming home. However, the bells came round in 52 minutes, and as the B.B.C. were running about three minutes behind schedule, listeners were robbed of this opportunity. Mr. A. W. Bond, hon. secretary of St. Peter's Beliringers, Brighton, assures us that it was a well-struck quarter peal.
52. Exhortation.-(S) At the end of this first session, the decision must be reacned by each student as to whether he wishes to go through with the course. (Refer to Article 11.) If any wish to withdraw, and their names are already on the Register (Form 3) issued by the Registrar, such names should be strack off. Any students not already entered should have their names put in, and the register marked for the session. Remind students of the time of the next session, and state briefly what the subject matter will be:
(Q T) [Note: ' $Q$.' 'S.' and ' $D$ ' were explained in Introduction.]

THE BEAUTY OF THE BELLS

(CHURCH BELLS - THEIR USES AND ABUSES)

Campanologists sometimes measure achievements by the amount of metal swung during bell-ringing contests. In other words, weight of metal counts as well as length of time and number of changes. Thus it has been estimated that in the case of one peal of 21,363 changes 65,000 tons of metal were displaced. The previous record-holders, however. with 18,027 changes, displaced no less than 135,000 tons of metal, swice the weight of the other peal.

It may be realised, therefore, that a bell-tower is subject to strain, owing to the variant forces brought into play by the swinging mass of metal. A mathematician has calculated that a bell weighing $1,378 \mathrm{lb}$. and having a total revolving weight of $1,652 \mathrm{lb}$. acquires a maximum horizontal power of $2,875 \mathrm{lb}$. and a maximum vertical power of $5,424 \mathrm{lb}$.
It has been computed that bell-frames should be so constructed so as to support four times the weight of the bells. Architects have been advised that they should make certain that church towers can withstand twice the weight of all the bells taken as an horizontal thrust, and that unless these directions are carefully observed the resulting forces ' might prove destructive of any but the most massive tower.' This fact may have influenced some people to build detached bell-towers.

Sometimes disaster comes with terrible suddenness. Of such an occasion The Manchester Guardian reported as follows: 'On Sunday [February 11th, 1810] while the ringers were ringing for morning service [at St. Nicholas', Liverpooll a stone fell upon the fifth bell and stopped it in its course. The ringing chamber being on the ground floor, the ringers took heed of the warning and escaped. The next moment the whole of the spire and part of the tower fell with a crash, 22 persons being killed instantly.'

Sometimes it is the ringers or some standing near them who suffer injury. A bell may be pulled too vigorously and then possibly a broken stay is the result, together with the hauling up of the ringer to the ceiling. In Doncaster, for example, a man was killed in that way. Another fatality occurred when a boy was entwined and caught up by the moving bell-rope. There are several other recorded accidents of a similar nature, proving the truth of the old adage:

All you that do intend to ring
You undertake a dangerous thing.

CHIMES

It seems feasible that it was to save manpower that church bells were first chimed by machinery. It is not possible to state when chimes first came into use. It seems clear, however, that some form of chiming apparatus, perhaps used for marking the hours, has been used for hundreds of years. The records of Norwich Cathedral reveal that in 1432 Richard Roper was paid 20 pence for mending its 'chymes.
We find in the parish registers of the 15th and 16 th centuries a number of references to chimes. In 1600 , for instance, a part of the Feofee money was expended on the chimes at Wellingborough Parish Church, Northants. The official entry reads as follows:

- Also we apoynte for the newe chymes in the church (and other charges about the church) so that the same be sett in notes after the best manner of a tune, discreetly to be considered upon and amended upon from the foolish tune now in use $\quad . \quad \therefore$ £ 00 .
Wells Cathedral is but onc of those which have figures for striking the hours. Two of these use their battleaxes to announce the quarters on two bells.

The most familiar chimes to-day are probably those once known as the 'Cambridge Quarters.' These were composed by the noted musician, Crotch, and installed at St. Mary's, Cambridge. In 1860 they were first used at the Houses of Parliament, becoming known in time as the ' Westminster Chimes."
Electrical mechanism for ringing church bells is common in Europe and America. A number of cathedrals (including Sens and Notre Dame) and hundreds of churches in France are fitted with a contrivance called the 'Autosonneur,' a French invention for ringing mechanically.

CARILLONS

The carillon has been popular for five centuries in the Low Countries. It is now increasing in favour in many other places and particulariy in America. The carillon may consist of any number of bells (although it should be no less than 25) which are hung 'dead 'and struck by hammers or clappers, either mechanically or from a keyboard. To Park Avenue Baptist Church. New York, belongs the honour of possessing one of the largest and heaviest carillons in the world. This consists of 53 bells, cast in 1924 at Croydon, the largest bell weighing $20,720 \mathrm{lb}$. and having a diameter of 98 inches.
Our founders think an alloy of copper and tin, in the proportion $13: 4$, to be best suited to their purposes. Not always have these materials been used. Occasionally other and 'freak' materials have been used. Bells have been made of glass, silver, gold, steel, wrought-iron, castiron and tin, and even of wood.

Sometimes bells have been badly made. possibly through badly mixed alloy, through illshaped moulds, or by an oversight, or through ignorance. Some makers of bells followed another and more stable livelihood. One man (Danyell) who made bells was also a vintner; another. Richard de Wymbish, was a potter; while yet a third, Henry Jordan, was also a fishmonger. It was not unusual, centuries ago, for founders to be itinerant, picking up work as they travelled the country. We read of the notorious Darbie, for example, whose badlymade bells are scattered over a fair area of the country. The late Dr. Raven describes him as 'a rolling stone that gathered no moss.' It may be that having heard and groaned under some of these badly-made bells that Shakespeare wrote of ' Bells jangled, out of tune and harsh' -Hamlet. Act III. Scene 1, and more insistently in Othello:
'Silence that dreadful bell!'
Not the least of the art of the good bellfounder lies in the tuning of bells. A certain Laurence Huddleston is said to have spent a lot of time going to churches in and around Wiltshire, tuning the bells which he found inharmonious in tone. When a well-tuned bell is hit there is sounded in addition to the principal note (the 'strike-note') a serjes of natural harmonics. These latter, together with the strikenote, form a chord. It was recorded by The Times that when the late Dr. Stainer, the then organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, tested 'Great Paul' he found its note to be E flat, with the upper partials (or overtones) B flat, E flat and $G$ being just audible, with the sonorous ground tone.
It may be said that there are two systems of tuning in vogue the old standard system and the Simpson Principle. The first-named method is to tune to the natural harmonics of the strikenote with what is called the 'hum-note' a seventh below. The Simpson method tunes to above the strike-note, with the hum-note an octave below. Experts still differ as to the relative merits of these two systems.

No method of tuning, however, will remedy the damage sometimes caused to bells. Irreparable harm, leading to eventual uselessness of the bells, comes about in various ways. It may be caused by neglect. by lack of protection from the elements, by defects in mechanism, py fire, by accidents to towers and so forth. Sometimes the cause is that known as 'clocking' or clappering of the bells.

EVILS OF ${ }^{4}$ CLOCKING

The practice of 'clocking' the bells, which consists of causing the clapper to strike the bell hung 'dead,' cannot be too strongly condemned. The clapper, being momentarily held against the reverberating side of the bell, prevents the natural vibrations and frequently results in a badly cracked bell. An article in The Encyclopadia Britannica on 'Bells' states: 'The practice of "clocking" a bell, in which the clapper, by means of a cord attached to it and pulled from below, is allowed to swing against the bell at rest, is often employed to save trouble; but the jar is very likely to crack the bell. In ringing, or in true chiming, the bell is in motion when struck.' (p. 374.) The harmful effects of 'clocking' were remarked on as far back as the 16 th century, as shown by the accounts of St. Laurence's, Reading
" Whereas there was through the slothfulness of the Sexton in times past a kind of toling ye bell by ye clapper rope: yt was now forbidden and taken away: and that the bell should bo toled as in times past and not in anni such idle sort."
Similar detrimental effects of this practice have often been noticed. In his book, Church Bells of Rutland, Mr. North has a lamentable story to tell of a certain one-time peal: "These bells are in a sad condition; the treble is struck by a rope being attached to the clapper; the second lies mouth upwards ... its crown off. and a gaping crack up its side; the third is cracked and the canons broken . . ' and so on through the melancholy list.
This practice of clappering or 'clocking ' bells is not only reprehensible, but contrary to the usual custom of chiming or ringing them. In his admirable book, Bells Through the Ages, Mr. J. R. Nichols states: 'It is usual in most parts to sound a single bell for about five minutes after the ringing; sometimes the treble is used for this purpose, but more generally the tenor.' (p. 231.) Another passage reads: 'The object of the priest's bell is described in the inventory of 1552 of Ware. Herts, there being at that time "one lyttle belf to call for ye priest, clarke, or sexton, whell they are absent ": Mr. Nichols comments: 'The present custom of tolling the tenor or treble after ringing for service may be a survival of the former practice.' (Added emphases.)

CHURCH CANONS

We have some evidence from the Canons of 1604 that the Church of England assumes that church bells will be rung or pealed (and not clappered). Canon 67, after referring to the death of a sick person, states : 'There shall be rung no more than one short peal. and one other before the burial, and one other after the burial.' (Added emphases.)

It is uncertain how far the Canons of 1604 are obligatory on the clergy, but it seems generally understood that they are binding on them, provided that they do not conflict with the prerogatives of the Crown or the Common or Statute Laws. Lord Hardwicke's judgment (in Middleton v. Crofts) that the said Canons do not proprio vigore bind the laity, might seem (Continued next page) to imply, by inference, that they are in some degree binding on the clergy.

Whether obligatory to ring or not, at any rate most people will agree that it were better to ring than to clapper. The reason for this being that in clappering the note is checked and jarred, whereas in ringing one hears not only the principal clear note of the bell, but its undertones or particals blending with it, and following in a natural sequence. There is also, present another note-termed the 'hum-note.' All this beauty and ecstasy of sound is sacrificed when the bells are hung 'dead ' and clappered. There is truly no similarity between the unmusical, sullen sounds caused by striking a dead bell or bells, and the full, sonorous and harmonious tones evoked by swinging the bells. As one writer has put it: 'Ringing always implies that bells are swung: and it is only by that swinging that the grand full tone of a bell can be brought out.' (Rev. E. H. Ellacombe.) With this view The Dictionary of Music and Musicians (Groves) is in agreement. It tells of 'the method of obtaining the sound by swinging the bell till the clapper hits it (by which method alone the full sound can be elicited Beyond question one of the most beautiful effects obtained by ringers is when church bells are 'raised in peal.' This is done by first the treble being slightly swung and sounded; then the treble and No. 2: next the treble, Nos. 2 and 3 ; and so on right through to the tenor, chiming softly to begin but increasing in volume until the bells are swinging fully and the rich resonant notes pealing forth. Similarly pleasant harmonious sounds are produced when, at the end of ringing. the process is reversed. The full tones are gradually diminished in volume till the return of the gentle chiming sounds. There is something exquisitely pleasant and moving in the beauty of the bells, not least when heard from a distance over the meadows.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

On August 11th the monthly meeting of the Beverley and District Ringing Society was held at the Priory Church. Bridlington, at the invitation of Canon J. W. Lamb and the local ringers.
Some 26 members attended from Beverley Minster, Bridlington. Cottingham, Eastringion. Goole, Hessle, Hutton Cranswick, Patrington, Scarborough. Thorne. Uleeby and York. The fine ring of eight was raised and rung to methods from rounds to Stedman and Treble Bob.
The service $i_{\text {n }}$ church at $4.15 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. was conducted by the Rector, Canon Lamb, who welcomed the Society in his address.
Tea was taken in the Church Room, followed by the business meeting with the president, Mr. A. E. Sellers, in the chair. An apology for absence was received from the Rev George absence was received from the Rev. George Storer, chaplain to the Society, who, unfortunately, had been taken ill.
After the meeting members returned to the tower for further ringing until $8.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$., bringing another successful meeting to a close.

Will the ringer who took the wrong raincoat and left his own in the coach of the East Grinstead and District Guild 's outing last Saturday either return it to Mr. E. W. Giles. New Inn Cottage, Witherender Hill. Burwash, or to Mr. C. Bassett?

In connection with the peal ringing tour of Kent, Mr. David Hoare would like to thank Miss D. Colgate and Mr. Mark Lancefield for their great assistance in the arrangements.

OUTING

SILSOE, BEDFORDSHIRE

This year the district chosen for the Silsoe ringers' and friends' ouking on August 25 th was the area around Maidstone. Leaving Silsoe at $7.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. we arrived a little behind time at the first tower, Farningham. This is a beautifully decorated church, with a pleasant ring of six 'tenor about 10 cwt ). After a technical "hitch, (literally) with a rope which hangs through to the ground floor for chiming, we put the bells to good use for the half-hour we had left. With some coffee to fortify us, we proceeded to Wrotham ( 8 , tenor 21 cwt .). Ringing here included a course of Cambridge Major.

Very appropriately, we had an excellent lunch at the Pilgrim's Rest, Wrotham. Here our luck with the weather broke and we battled through a downpour to Boxley, a handy six (tenor $12 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt)}$. . The ladies were well catered for at this tower, with Miss Steel in charge of the ringing.

After ringing at Bcarstead ( $6,12 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.) we returned to Maidstone for tea. Fortunately we had nearly all finished an excellent salad when the appearance of a fire engine at the window precipitated us hurriedly into the street. But it was only a minor fire of some overdone kippers.

A fascinating church with an unusual entrance to the upstairs ringing chamber awaited us at St. Lawrence's, Mereworth. Here we were met oy the local captain, and we rang the usual selection of Minor and Doubles. The fine eight at Tonbridge were nevt on the list-they were so pleasant outside that some of us were slow to ascend the tower to do our share of the work! At Sidcup we found a very attractive modern church with a light ring of six, where we rang College Exercise and Woodbine before setting out on the long journey home. Customary refreshment had been arranged at a pub the other side of London (Peter's forethought again! and, apart from a man who had been knocked off his bicycle, but who was far from 'fatally injured' (he was energetically engaged in taking our names as witnesses !) we then concluded our uneventful journey home.

We should like to express our thanks to all incumbents and local ringers who contributed so readily to the success of the outing, and end on a congratulatory note, not without ad miration, to the superb arrangements Peter Lawton had made in finding such pleasant bells and satisfying meals. Thank you, Silsoe!

THE LADIES' GULLD

West Midland District
For their September meeting members visited the ancient Parish Church of St. Matthew, Walsall, on the lst inst. The attendance was fairly good and ringing included rounds, Grandsire, Sțedman, Bristol, etc.

The Vicar and Rural Dean of Walsall, the Rev. Vernon $S$. Nicholls, welcomed the ringers to his church at a short service which was held in the choir stalls. The Vicar also expressed the wish that the Guild would pay another visit to Walsall in the near future.
Tea, which had been prepared by some of the local ringers, was served in the Church House. Following tea the business meeting was held. One new member, Elizabeth Yardley, of Handsworth, was elected. It is hoped that the next meeting will be held at Edgbaston on December 1 st.

The warmest thanks of the District are due to the Vicar, Mr. E. Morgan (the organist) and the local ringers who prepared tea.

A SUMMER SIX-BELL MEETING

AFTER a morning of wind and rain, some blue sky reappeared and brighter conditions prevailed when the writer set out to attend a meeting at a Surrey six-bell village not far from the Hampshire border. We all know meetings are capable of a wide range of variation, not only in the number of bells and methods available but also the number who attend the gathering, so it was speculation as to the attendance when ringing was limited to one tower with a light ring of six.

Arriving at the nearest railway station by train, the sound of bells could be heard over a mile away, and when the bus landed me near the village green, where a cricket match was in progress, one became aware of many beautiful gardens where lovely flowers bloomed in abundance, truly a wonderful sight to behold. In the churchyard there is a singular grave of granite where a famous explorer was buried in 1904. On entering the small church we found it tastefully decorated with flowers, especially the nave, and ringers, old and young, appreciated the beautiful effect it gave to a well cared for building which was rebuilt in the latter part of the 18 th century.

The bells are all by T. Mears in 1822, and the tenor ( 11 cwt . 2 qr. 19 lb .) tells us they were a gift that same year. In 1552 the number of bells recorded was four, yet the number in 1822 was three! Ringing is done from the ground floor at the west end and the writer heard several good touches in various methods in spite of a short delay caused by a broken rope.

The service was bright and enjoyable, due chiefly to a friendly approach by the clergyman and the hearty singing of ringers aided by the organ. We had a cordial, thoughtful address, free from any suggestion that our duties end by walking away when service time arrives! On the way to tea many greetings took place, and one introduction made was to a lady doctor who has taken up ringing in a sixbell tower in my own district. This is very encouraging, for the medical profession have never come to us in great numbers since the days of Dr. A. B. Carpenter, of Croydon. Ringers like a good tea, but in some places catering is difficult, and how the ladies produced endless supplies of tempting food at such a low price passes my comprehension; even the young lad at my table was beaten by the variety and quantity of food produced by smiling ladies who more than satisfied any appetite.

The short business meeting which followed did not produce any argument or discussion, but it was pleasing to note the quiet, efficient way the duties of secretary were carried out by one of the younger generation. A special feature in the combined vote of thanks was a request that the ladies, who carried out the tea portion of the programme so well, should be present to hear our appreciation, and the prolonged applause was certainly deserving. The local captain is a well-known figure throughout the Diocesan Guild, and he was quite his usual self in seeing everything worked smoothly in order to ensure a happy and successful gathering.

The writer has often wondered why some ringers attached to towers with more than six bells do not support six-bell meetings more, especially in these days when transport is much easier, and it is possible to put forth a number of reasons for inability to attend which are understood, but district officers like to feel they are being supported. In the district I visited for this meeting there was a good attendance with a wide range of ages. The fair sex were very much in evidence too, and it was gratifying to feel that such a large number of towers were recorded in the attendance book.

Six-bell meetings take place in hundreds of villages throughout the land, and the reader will notice that in this account the actual village is not mentioned, no date is given, neither are names and numbers present commented upon, but this is done in order to give readers who are unable to attend Saturday meetings some idea of the work which is being carried out in towers not possessing the octave.

NAILSEA

Nailsea ringers with " supporters' (Backwell, Bridgwater, Clevedon, R.A.F. Locking and Clutton) had their annual outing on August 26th-the venue this year being Oxfordshire. The party set off (15-seater coach and an A 30) rather later than the time scheduled, just after a thunderstorm. This was, fortunately, not an ill omen for the rest of the trip, for no more rain of a serious nature was encountered before reaching Bristol on the homeward journey.

We travelled non-stop to the first towerBibury (6)-to ensure arriving on time, as we had been asked to ring for half an hour only, as the bells are apparently in great demand by visiting ringers. This village is 'in all the guide books of Gloucestershire' because of the famous Arlington Row-one gentleman in the party extolled on the more materialistic aspect of these residences! Hostclries are, unfortunately, in short supply in the district, and the coach driver went to some trouble to find somewhere suitable for us to "eat our sandwiches' before going on to ring at Hatherop. We were met here by a local ringer and also two gentlemen from Kenya, who were temporarily residing near the church, and came to watch. We attempted a course of Oswaldtwistie rather unsuccessfully and it was apparently blacklisted after this.

Our next call, and highlight of the outing, was to have been a ring on the six bells at Balscott Farm, and we were very disappointed that we couldn't go there because of the risk of foot and mouth infection. Mr. Jarvis, however, very kindly arranged for us to go to Wroxton ( $5,13 \mathrm{cwt}$.) at short notice, and we rang a variety of Doubles methods including a very good 120 of Rugby Slow Course. Tea had previously been arranged at Wroxton, where afterwards an enthusiastic photographer in the party took a group photograph.

We arrived early at Swalcliffe ( $6,13 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$ ), a very fine ring which was rung to various methods including a good course of Cambridge. Two local ringers stood in for the fall. Churchill (6) was the last tower-they are trying to raise money for recasting one bell, rebanging and adding two trebles. Our unofficial guide (perhaps he should have been the courier! ) informed us that the tower is a Victorian replica of Merton College, Oxford.

The homeward journey will be remembered for the cider barrel, the amount of vocal talent exhibited and a flashlight photograph taken in the coach. Incumbents and local captains will have been thanked already, but we should also like to thank Michael for his efficient (as ever) organisation.
M. E. F.

BALDOCK AND NORTON

An enjoyable half-day's outing was spent on September 1st by Baldock and Norton ringers and their friends. First ringing was at the cruciform Norman church at Ickleton (8) with a sanctus bell outside the stecple. Leaving these springy ropes we drove to Saffron Walden. Time, already too short for this magnificent 12 , was wasted while waiting for the key to arrive.

After tea we went to Finchingfield, where Evensong was said after a short touch. Ringing continued later on the light-set eight. Finally Great Bardfield was visited and some good ringing was enjoyed on this octave after a pleasant reunion with a former Rector of Baldock, the Rev. C. W. Alington.
Even though the weather was grey and it rained much of the time, everyone enjoyed the outing, and our thanks are due to the organiser, Mr. E. Buck, and to the incumbents and local people who made it possible.

WYCHBOLD, WORCESTERSHIRE

On September 8th, in glorious sunshine, about 30 ringers and friends set out in high spirits, Painswick, of churchyard fame, being the first call. A brief ring on the grand 12 was necessary to keep to the timetable, and after a hilly journey we were soon enjoying the pleasant six at Cam (no relation to Charlie!). Before tea at Dursley the fine octave there were set going to various methods-what a pity the bells can only just be heard in the ringing chamber!

With easier timing after tea, Tetbury's eight, that encourage good ringing, were enjoyed by all. Somewhat harder work was required on the six at Avening, but these could be heard in no uncertain way. Ringing at Minchinhampton (6) ended another happy outing, thanks being due to the capable organisers and the kind folk welcoming us in such a friendly way at all the towers. Wychbold was reached at midnight.
A. D. C.

PRESTBURY, GLOUCESTERSHIRE

A very enjoyable half-day was spent visiting towers in the Stroud Branch on September 8th. Ringing at Bisley, Minchinhampton, Avening, Stonchouse and Eastington included rounds, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Canterbury, St. Bartholomew and Stedman Doubles and Plain Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor. The non-ringers had a good look round the lovely churches. Tea was taken at Minchinhampton in the Market Hall.

EAST GRINSTEAD & DISTRICT GUILD

The annual outing took place on September 8th with a trip into East Kent. Wye was reached half-an-hour late and proved to be the best bells of the day. At Wickhambreaux one had to go into the pub to get a post card of the church, and how dry the company were!

Caters and Major were rung at St. Laurence, Thanet, and hopes of a quick getaway were spoiled by one nautical enthusiast. After a pleasant trip by the Viking ship and round St. Margaret's Bay, Ash was reached on time, only to find that we had been forgotten, and by the time that the key was found another half hour was lost. Some good ringing was had at Wingham, but most of the party were thinking of tea which followed-an excellent meal at the Dog Inn. Willesborough, the last tower of the day. provided a good raise and fall in peal. in between which some Cambridge and other Minor methods were rung, and after a struggle Double Court was brought round. Before the dash for home the local had to be visited, and at zero hour all the party were chased back to the coach. Tonbridge was reached at 9.45 p.m... and the question is: 'Did the four people catch their train? Many thanks to tower captains and incumbents for a most enjoyable day. C. A.B.

An Exeter Golden Wedding

The bells of Heavitree, Exeter, Parish Church rang merrily on the evening of September 13 th to mark the golden wedding anniversary of the Ringing Master, Mr. Charles George Glass. At 83. Mr. Glass is a regular attendant at practice and Sunday service ringing, and has held office for 25 years. He is one of the oldest members of the Guild, having joined nearly 70 years ago, during which time he was Ringing Master at the Cathedral for 13 years.

To mark the occasion a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by his fellow ringers in 3 hours. 17 minutes.

COMPOSITIONS

720 SPLICED (17 METHODS) IN PLAIN. LITLLE, VERY LITTLE (BASTOW L.C.), ALLIANCE AND SPECIAL ALLIANCE

The quarter peal at Durleigh on August 29 th was rung as a farewell to the conductor, $\mathbf{M r}$. G. Marchant, who is leaving to take up an ap. pointment in Cardiff. The other members wish Him every success in his new venture.

Plans for two peal attempts in a day at Olney and Stewkley were disturbed when Mr. Walter Avery, of Lane End, had to withdraw at very short notice. Two lady members of the Wendover band-Miss M. Barrett and Miss M. Hobbs-however, successfully filled the gap byringing at Olney and Stewkley respectively.

Mr. Wilfred Williams celebrated his birthday in a pleasing fashion. By a peal at Crosthwaite, Cumberland, he became the first to ring a peal of Surprise in each county in England and Wales.
Owing to a crack in Tuxford Church spire there will be no further ringing until repairs have been carried out.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. John Bass, of Wollaston, is in Ward C 15, Blakebrook Hospital, Kidderminster.
Mr. John Thomas in 1906 called Holt's Original. Fifty years after, he called the same peal at Bridgend, the visit being kindly arranged by Mr. T. M. Roderick.
Three generations of the Butler family took part in a peal at Shareshill, Shropshire, on September 8th. It was the first peal for the 12 -year-old granddaughter, Lilian Butler.

In the 16 peals that have been rung on the new bells at Eardisland, Herefordshire, Mr. Leslie Evans has completed the circle ' twice to peals.
Before the wedding of Miss Hazel M. Corbett at Elmley Castle, Wores, on Sept. 1st, the bells were rung by three aunts and three uncles of the bride. A peal of Minor in seven methods followed the ceremony.

In the Hobbies Exhibition, which is being staged at Cheltenham Town Hall from September 24th to September 27th, the Prestbury Bellringers are giving a talk on ringing on the Tuesday evening.

Mr. Dennis Knox, the well-known Bedfordshire ringer, was married at Luton Parish Church on September 8th. A peal attempt at his own tower, Totternhoe, on the same day, failed after two and a half hours' good ringing. Amends were made by a peal of Rutland at Maulden on September 10th.

GOSSIP

Mr. W. T. Elson, of Putney, now in his 90th year, is putting up a very brave fight for recovery in St. Pancras Hospital. A recent yisitor found him still cheerful and alert and full of interest in ringing matters. He was looking forward to going to the College Youths' dinner, if only the doctors would release him, but as he has undergone a very serious major operation recently it is doubtful if he will realise his ambition. He is most grateful for all the kind letters of sympathy he has received and would reply to them but for his disability. He sends greetings to all inquiring friends.
Mr. Daniel J. Little, of Seascale, Cumberland, is now living at King's Lynn, Norfolk.
Miss Stella Davis, a vice-president of the Ox ford Diocesan Guild, is again back in our peal columns with a peal of New Cambridge Surprise at Bucklebury, her home tower. Afterwards she kindly entertained the band to tea.
With a peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's. Birmingham, on September 4th, Mr. Paul K. Williamson 'completed the circle' of the tower, having rung a peal on each of the 12 bells. His charming wife also, took part in the ringing, and a good pcal it was, too, comments the veteran conductor, Mr. Albert Walker.
Congratulations to Geoffrey Steed, of the Halstead St. Andrew's band, who rang his first peal at the age of 13 years at Great Tey on September 6th. Halstead St. Andrew's bells have now been removed by Messis. Taylor to Loughborough, for recasting. Upon their return they will be hung in a new frame. The St. Andrew's band, with their Master, Miss Hilda G. Snowden, are kceping their practice up by travelling to Gestingthorpe, where the bells have been silent for a long time. Efforts are being made to teach a new band there.

A PEAL TOUR OF CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORLAND

tis mine to rove
Through bare grey dell, high wood, and pastoral [cove,
Where Derwent rests, and listens to the roar That stuns the tremulous cliffs of high Lodore. (Wordsworth)

THESE two counties share between them the major portion of the Lake District, which without hesitation may be claimed as the most beautiful corner of England.

Into these beautiful surroundings, often called Wordsworth's Country, journcyed the 'disciples ' of St. David for their fifth annual tour, a tour which proved successful in every waygood ringing (nine peals out of eleven attempts), good company and excellent scenery.

On August 18th, following the pattern of previous years, cars set out from London and the West Country to rendezvous at Burton-uponTrent, where we were to make our first attempt en route to the North. Your chronicler made a lone dash from the South Pembroke coast, while this year Derek brought his car, a vintage Morris, some 25 years young, which was promptly christened by Peter as 'The Rolls Canhardly.' It was also noted that Derek was minus the most important piece of uniform of the vintage car driver, namely, the deer-stalking hat, but in spite of this and many other jibes the old Cowley was never too far behind.

Arriving in Burton, we were met and welcomed to St. Paul's by 'Barney' Key, who had expressed a wish to ring a College Youth peal, his desire being duly gratified by a good peal of Yorkshire Royal on this grand ten.

Sunday morning saw us at the Cathedral Church of All Saints, Derby, where we were welcomed by Mr. H. W. Taylor, and enjoyed some excellent ringing on this fine ten.

YORKSHIRE TAIL-ENDS

After a search for Derek, a practice which developed as the week passed, a start was made for Skipton, where we were to pick up Geoff Bryant, also to ring for evening service. The bells at Holy Trinity Church proved to be a fine Taylor eight and the ropes provided some of the touring party with their first experience of Yorkshire. Tail-ends. During a touch of London one member could almost swear to seeing eleven hand strokes which, as another member remarked, is as good an excuse as any for making trips in London. Taking leave of the Skipton ringers, to whom we tender thanks for giving up their Sunday service ringing, we proceeded to the Woolpack Hotel at Kendal, which was to be our headquarters for the first part of our tour.

Monday morning gave us a taste of how it can rain in this part of the world as we made a 15 -mile run to Orton for our first pcal attempt in Westmorland. Arriving at the church we were much interested in three bells, each bearing the date 1637 , which hang in a frame in the church, and appear in a remarkable state of preservation.
The nice Taylor eight are seldom rung and required much attention to make them pealable. There was, however, no dearth of helpers, and new ropes were soon fitted while our bellhanging friend was busy with his spanners. In spite of his expert attention two members, who shall remain nameless, received quite a caning, and never was 'That's all' more welcome.
Before starting for this peal we were under the impression that no previous peal had been rung on the bells; Cambridge was, therefore, selected, and a good peal was rung. We have since learned that the late J. C. E. Simpson called Cambridge during a tour in 1933, so we are naturally disappointed at not choosing another method.

During the peal, and with only a few courses to ring, we were suddenly surprised to see a lady enter the ringing chamber and who called out inquiring if she could watch the ringing. Only the prompt reaction of the two Wilfs saved a dicy situation, and a much chastened lady left $u_{S}$ as suddenly as she had entered.

ABAINDONED THREE COURSES FROM HOME

The afternoon attempt was at St. Stephen's, Kirkby Stephen, a church of cathedral-like proportions, the bells being rung from the ground floor with a 70 ft . rope draught, which render them difficult to hear. The method selected was Bristol, and with Peter at the helm the bells soon settled down, some excellent ringing being heard by those outside. It was extremely, unfortunate that after more than two hours' ringing the seventh rope was seen to be fraying badly underneath the sally. This, coupled with some incessant banging on a door at the back of one of the ringers, caused the attempt to be abandoned when only three courses from home.

A Hoax on 'The Ringing World ${ }^{\prime}$

Within a few hours of the publication of our issue of September 7th our attention was drawn to the fact that the peal of Cambridge Surprise Major supposed to have been rung on the famous bells at Ross-on-W ye, on Saturday, August 25th, was probably a hoax

Inquiries have revealed that this is so. Mr. J. J. Webb, captain of Ross bellringers, confirms this. He writes: - Neither the Rector nor any member of the local band have any knowledge of Ross Parish Church bells having been rung that day. As the surnames which appear in the peal report are names of past and present local tradespeople, and definitely not members of the Hereford Guild, we have come to the conclusion that the whole thing is a hoax.'

We ask those concerned to expunge this report from records, and regrot that we fell a victim to a perverted sense of humour aimed at bringing discredit to the Exercise and its journal.

After tea there was a welcome change in the weather and for the first time we werc able to enjoy the wonderful scenery encountered during the 46 -mile journey to Ambleside, where we had been granted permission for an hour's ringing. The local band, headed by Mr. Sewell, were waiting for us, and we certainly enjoyed ringing on this fine, heavy eight.

Tuesday proved a glorious day, our first attempt being at Kendal's historic Parish Church, where an excellent peal was rung, this being the first of Royal for the Association. We were particularly pleased with the remarks of the local ringers -who told us if we always rang like that we could come for peals whenever we wished.

APPROPRIATE BIRTHDAY

After lunch we bade farewell to Kendal, as for the remainder of the week our headquarters were to be at Whitehaven. Our route took us via Keswick, where at the Church of St. Kentigern, Crosthwaite, another start was made for Bristol, this time with complete success, Alan ringing two peals in one day for the first time.
The opening courses of this peal were rung at a breath-taking pace which enabled certain members to show off their belfrymanship, though it is felt that the expression 'Spike Fifths ' had some of them foxed. This was the first peal of Bristol for the Association, and with it the guv'nor completed peals in each county in England and Wales, a fitting way to celebrate one's birthday.

The Golden Lion, Whitehaven, was reached in time for dinner, and waiting for us was Graham Mackay, who had been responsible for all our arrangements in Curiberland. Our hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Berwick, not forgetting Simon, the giant mastiff, soon made us feel at home, and we shall not easily forget the late nights in Mum's Bar, and the harmony of the Comb Band as rendered by the Four Musketeers.
On Wednesday morning we made our way to the Priory Church of St. Bees, which stands opposite the famous school. After a preliminary touch for those standing out. a start was made for London, which soon settled down into a good beat. Unfortunately, after two and a half hours of excellent ringing, a shift course put an end to the proceedings and brought us our second failure.

After a quick lunch, and joined by Graham, who had been invited to take part in this attempt, we made a short journey to Hensingham, where Stanley Richardson had everything in readiness. The bells, a nice eight, though somewhat noisy in the ringing chamber, were soon going to Lincolnshire, somewhat too soon after lunch for some of us, and it required all the patience and ability for Wilf II. to pilot us through the early stages. However. some excellent ringing resulted, and all credit is due to Roger for his handling of this late-struck tenor.
After dinner we indulged in a pleasant session on the handbells, during which the experts soon knocked off a respectable course of London, and Peter showed how the tenors should be rung to Cagmac.

FIRST PEAL FOR 25 YEARS

Our programme for Thursday included peal attempts at Aspatria and Carlisle Cathedral. We had been instructed, however, that ringing at the Cathedral must cease by $4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. It was, therefore, decided to forgo our attempt at Aspatria and limit ringing there to a few touches. At this tower we received such a warm welcome from the Rev. V. D. Clarke that we were disappointed at not having sufficient time to attempt a peal on this oleasant eight. However, after a few touches to satisfy all, we wended our way to Carlisle.
Presenting ourselves at the Cathedral at one p.m.. we made the long ascent via the clerestory to the ringing chamber, and, following quick adjustments to ropes, etc., the bells went into changes just after 1.15, there following some of the best ringing of the week. The bells are a mixed lot, and the seventh has to be rung with the clapper on the wrong side. However, Wilf II. made his customary expert ioh. and all of us enjoyed every moment of this peal, only the third on the bells, the others being Stedman in 1925, and Bristol by the late William Pye's hand in 1931, so that our peal was the first for 25 years.
It should be mentioned that owing to the time factor in connection with this neal there was the ever-present possibility of our not being able to finish at the specified time. We should, therefore, like to tender our thanks to Mr. Bowstead for the trouble he took to warn the various authorities while the ringing was in progress. For our part we became conscious of the need to speed un when three courses from home. This was done without unsetting the beat, and we had finished and rung the bells down just as the clock struck 4.30 .
Following tea, we drive to Penrith. where on the fine Taylor eight we enjoyed on hour's ringing, the highlight of which was a fine touch of five spliced, conducter by Wilf II.. this being his swan song. at least for this week, as he was (Continued next page) leaving to join the U.A. tour in Suffolk. Was it coincidence that later that evening we should hear a pathetic rendering of I hear those gentle voices calling 'Poor old Joe '?

Afterwards, a number of us joined Graham for dinner in the famous Royal Oak Hotel, Keswick, a very pleasant experience.

MANY PRELIMINARIES

Friday morning saw us out in another tropical downpout en route to Arlecdon. Entering the ringing chamber we were amazed at the number of broken stays lying around, and, as one wag remarked, beheld a complete state of Cannonisation. After fitting new ropes and removing the stay from the third, it being too long and lifted the bell out of its bearings, a start was made for London. Peter showing us a glimpse of his genius by ably calling the first in the method in Cumberland. The ringers of seven and eight earned this peal, as these two bell ropes are hung the wrong way round, the ropes crossing like scissors. It would be interesting to know the reason for hanging these two bells in this manner, in such a well-built tower.
The afternoon attempt was at Cleator Moor, where Mr. Tenby welcomed us to a spacious and well-kept ringing chamber. These bells were undoubtedly the best of the week, and after a false start (unknown to those of us who, after hearing the opening courses, departed for other entertainment) provided us with a good peal of Bristol. so we were able to finish our peal programme in Cumberland with the distinction of peals of London and Bristol on the same day.

Following dinner we were able to join the local band at Egremont and spend a pleasant half-hour on a good-going ring. Afterwards we duly celebrated our last evening in Cumberland, the Guvinor taking the opportunity on our behalf of presenting Graham with a small token of our appreciation for all the hard work put in to ensure our success in Cumberland.
Saturday brought us no respite in the weather as we faced the long run via Eskdale and Ulpha to Dalton-in-Furness for our last peal attempt of the tour. Some of the gradients and hairpin bends on this journey will remain written indelibly on our memories. No wonder Derek wouldn't risk it in the Morris !

THE FINAL PEAL

Reaching Dalton, we were welcomed by Mr. T. Metcalf and other local ringers and were soon ringing Cambridge Royal on this fine en, a good peal heing rung, though all that one member could hear throughout was the nonotonous boom of eight and ten, a most exasperating experience.

Following this peal we enjoyed a real Lancashire tea most kindly arranged by Mr. Metcalf, then once more into the rain on the first leg of our journey home to Bolton, where we spent the night at the Swan Hotel. During a pleasant hour, opportunity was taken to present the guv'nor with a fountain pen as a token of our appreciation for all the work put in in organising these annual tours.

On Sunday morning we rang for service on the fine eight at All Souls', Bolton, after which we said our goodbyes, most of us voting this our best tour yet, and now eagerly awaiting our visit to the Emerald Isle.

WEDDING

MR. D. MARSHALL-MISS S. KILBOURN
All Saints' Church, Sawley, Derbyshire, with its beautiful avenue of lime trees, was the setting on September 1st for the wedding of David Marshall, B.Sc., only son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Marshall, of Reedman Road, Sawley, and Miss Sheila Kilbourn, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Kilbourn, of Hawthorne Avenue, Sawley. Both bride and bridegroom have been valuable members of the church choir and the local band of ringers.
The best man was Mr. Peter Parry, B.Sc., who with the bridegroom assisted in the ringing of Stedman and Grandsire Triples prior to the marriage service.
The service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. J. W. Price. The choir met the bride, attired in white lace and carrying a bouquet of roses, at the north door, and processed to the chancel with the singing of the hymn 'Praise, My Soul, the King of Heaven.' Psalm 67 and the hymn 'Now thank we all our God' were later sung.
The bridesmaid was Miss Susan Kilbourn, the bride's sister, who is a new recruit to the ringing chamber. A former ringer at the church, Mr. W. Dawson, was the organist.
As the bride and bridegroom left the church the bells were 'fired,' and a short touch of Grandsire Triples was rung.

The reception was held at the Oxford Cafe at Long Eaton. The master of ceremonies was Mr . T. Watson, of Quorndon, Derbyshire. Toasts were proposed by the bride's father and the best man, and appreciation of all the service the couple have given to their church was voiced by the Rector, Mr. G. A. Moore (organist) and Mr. W. E. Simpson.

After the reception the couple were given a fine send-off from Sawley Railway Station. The honeymoon was spent at Torquay, and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall have taken up residence in Cheltenham.
A peal attempt of Grandsire Triples later in the day unfortunately came into rounds after one hour and ten minutes ringing.
The many friends David made while at Bristol University, where he was the Ringing Master, and also in the Gloucester area, will join the Sawley ringers in wishing the couple many years of health and happiness.

THE LADIES' GUILD Presentation to Mrs. Knight

The quarterly meeting of the Western District. held at Melksham on September 8th, was something of a special occasion for the District. Before the commencement of the meeting, while the gentlemen were still present, a silver and marcasite brooch was presented to Mrs. H. Knight. Until her retirement last March, Mrs. Knight had been vice-president and chairman of the Western District for many years, and the gift was in appreciation of all she had done for the Guild in the West of England. Mrs. Knight was also presented with a bouquet of chrysanthemums and scabious by Jane Parfrey, the three-ycar-old daughter of Mrs. H. L. Parfrey, the new District vice-president.

At the business meeting it was decided that the next quarterly meeting should be held at Nailsea. Three new members were elected, and also two honorary members.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

Summer Festival at Oundle

A warm welcome on a chilly day. Such was the reception awaiting the 150 or so who made their way to Oundle on September 1st. The local Branch, and particularly the Oundle band. rose to the occasion and their enthusiasm was manifest to everyone. Led by their untiring secretary they opened six of the Branch towers. and these with three others en route provided a variety of ringing. Some of the Oundle members make it their responsibility to "service ' any of the bells in their territory which are temporarily unattended, thus demonstrating their determination to keep the Branch 'on the map.'

The Vicar of Oundle, Canon G. S. J. Downes, conducted the Guild service, assisted by the Rev. A. J. T. Littlewood, and a very interesting address was given by the Vicar of Nassington, Rev. W. L. Crutchley. The Branch organist, Mrs. Essam, played.
A substantial tea was provided by members of the local Women's Institute in the Drill Hall, at which the Guild Master presided. Mr. Morris, in a short speech, introduced the only item of business, which was an amendment to the rule governing the date of the annual general meeting. The amendment, having been approved with no opposition, now fixes the Saturday after Ascension Day as the meeting day. In 1957 the meeting is to be held at Rushden.
A comprehensive vote of thanks to all those who deserved gratitude was moved by Mr. W. Ross and carried with acclamation.

THE IRISH ASSOCIATION

A most enjoyable meeting of the Eastern District was held in Arklow on September 1st. It was attended by members from Drogheda, Kilkenny and Dublin as well as the local tower.
Advantage was taken to give a number of ringers their fitst insight to method ringing, and some went back to their towers able to hunt. Ringing included touches of Plain Bob and Grandsire. Tea was kindly provided by the Arklow ringers in the Marlborough Hall.

Mr. Adrian Bakker, District Ringing Master, had charge of the ringing arrangements and is to be congratulated on a good afternoon's work in helping 'somebody else to ring method.'

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ANOTHER PURDCE BELL IN AMERICA

Dear Sir,-After reading about the interest some of our American friends take in bellringing, the bellfounders. Purdue, and uses and abuses of bells, subscribers to 'The Ringing World ' may be interested in the following account which, in a way, combines all these items.

In the State of Indiana, U.S.A., there exists a large University known as Purdue University because it was founded by one. John Purdue, who established it by the gift of one hundred acres and $$ 150,000$ in 1869 .
A treasured possession of the students is a bell, the so-called Victory Bell, which is maintained by an honorary fraternity who style themselves Gimlets and who wear little yellow round hats.
This bell originally rang from an open tower above a powerhouse to wake students up-in the morning-and to announce the commencements of chapel services and classes. That is to say, it did ring, except when the clapper was muffled or the bell had been turned upside down and filled with water on a dark, near-zero night. From 1877 to 1903 the bell faithfully pertormed these duties but was then taken down and stored in a wagon shed on the campus. But Purduc victory celebrations needed noise as well as numbers, and so the morning after usually found it mounted on a University wagon resting disconsolately in the courthouse square of the neighbouring town, Lafayette.

After a particularly long string of conquests, Lafayette's chief of police recognised the fact that a certain powerhouse custodian could have told him long before-the bell was a nuisance. It was, therefore, secretly buried in a gravel pit by University authorities. From this unmarked grave. however, the bell was resurrected by the class of 1907. who mounted it on a carriage, as it still exists to-day. The carriage consists only of two axles, each with two wheels, which are connccted together by two steel beams. These heams are each in the form of a semicircle, the plane of which is vertical, and the bell, complete with steel wheel and headstock, is slung hetween at the top. The bell, as 1 remember, is about 20 inches across at the mouth and of quite good shape.

Normally. carriage and bell reside in a specially-huilt shed on the campus and may be viewed through windows set in the doors. This allows one to ascertain whether it is still there or whether it has been raided by students from the rival Indiana University.

When, however, the University football team, known as Boilermakers, score a victory, the carrlage is brought out and dragged round the campus with the bell ringing wildly. During my stay there it was rung only once-when Purdue heat Notre Dame. As it was a rather exciting occasion, since Notre Dame had not lost a game in the previous four years, 1 neglected to pay critical heed to the tone.-Yours faithfully,
T. W. SHEPPARD.

AN IDEAL SECRETARY

Dear Sir.-We of the Bicester Branch were sorry to hear of the passing of Mr. Ernest Pearson, hon. secretary of the Banbury band.

The Exercise has lost an ideal secretary and one who was always willing to do his utmost for the Branch and the Oxford Guild.

Whenever it was possible he came to our meetings and we shall all miss him in the future.-Yours sincerely.

CYRIL H. KINCH,Hon. Secretary, Bicester Deanery Branch.

BOW BELLS

Dear Sir,-Unfortunately all the recentlypublished references to Bow Bells in The Ringing World contain omissions or inaccuracies, and the Rector's article in the issue of April 6th is no exception in this respect.
Regarding the early history, the late J. Armiger Trollope stated in the issue of April 2nd, 1940, that William Copland, who was churchwarden in 1515, gave the Great Bell, making the fifth of the ring. At the timie of Edward VI. there were still only five bells, but by the 17th century there were ten bells in the ring, plus two chiming bells. From 'The History and Art of Change Ringing,' by Ernest Morris, we read that Peter Munday, in an article describing ringing, written around 1652, regarding the 12 bells of Bow, stated that if the ten bells be rung and the two bells chimed, it would take over 911 years to ring all the changes. These bells perished in the Great Fire of 1666.
On September 7h. 1677, John and Christopher Hodson received orders to cast a new ring of eight bells. The tenor of this ring was recast in 1738 by Richard Phelps and Thomas Lester and weighed $53 \mathrm{f} \mathbf{\mathrm { cwt }}$. In 1762 the front seven were recast by Lester and Pack and, two trebles were added to make a ring of 10 bells. In 1881 Messrs. Mears and Stainbank added two trebles to make a ring of 12 . Thus the well-known recording used by the B.B.C. is of the 1738 tenor together with the front nine cast in 1762.

In 1901 Messrs. Gillett and Johnston fitted new bearings, and in 1933 they recast eight of the twelve bells. Those not recast were the fourth, fifth, ninth and eleventh, but the cannons were cut off in order to fit iron headstocks. The inscriptions on these four bells contained their casting date, 1762
The weights of the 1933 ring were as fol-lows:-
Treble.-6 cwt. 9 lb . F sharp.
Second.-6 cwt. 1 qr .10 lb . E.
Third. -7 cwt . E flat.
*Fourth. -8 cwt .2 qr. $4 \mathrm{lb} . \mathrm{C}$ sharp.
*Fifth. -9 cwt .2 qr. 8 lb . B flat.
Sixth. -10 cwt .2 qr .20 lb . B flat.
Seventh. -13 cwt .2 qr .21 lb . A flat.
Eighth. -16 cwt .2 qr. 14 lb . F sharp.
*Ninth. 19 cwt .7 lb . E.
Tenth. -25 cwt .3 gr .17 lb . E flat.
*Eleventh. -31 cwt .2 qr. C sharp.
$\begin{aligned} \text { Tenor. }-54 \mathrm{cwt} . & 12 \mathrm{lb} . \\ & 1762 \text { bells not recast. }\end{aligned}$
The inscription on the 1933 tenor reads:-
Bow Bell + Cast 1669 + Samucl Lisle, D.D., Rector. + Recast 1738 by Richard Phelps and Thomas Lester. Again recast in 1933 by Gillett and Johnston, Lid., of Croydon. The cost of this entire restoration of the bells in 1933 is the gift of H. Gordon Selfridge.'
The College Youths made a recording of Stedman Cinques on the 1933 ring.
Thus the inscription on the 1956 tenor is incorrect. This bell also repeats the date 1669, also given on the 1933 tenor. which is in conflict with the date given by Mr. Trollope.

Because the ring was never recast as a complete whole after the Hodson original casting. for 264 years its pitch must have been in the key of B. It is perhaps too much to hope that the new tenor, with its reduced weight, will also be in the same key, although St. Michael's, Cornhill, tenor at 41 cwt . is lower, being between the B of the 1738 Bow tenor and the B flat of those of St. Paul's and Southwark Cathedrals.-Yours faithfully,
C. M. MEYER.

BOW BELLS RE-OPENING CEREMONY
Dear Sir,-As no one has supplied the information Mr. Disney requires about Bow Bells. I can at least give the date when they were rehung. This was in 1933, the bells having been silent for a long time before this, many Loridon ringers never having heard them.

The re-opening day was on Saturday, July 8th, 1933. On this day I cycled from Chigwell, in Essex, to St. Mary-le-Bow, secured a ring for two ringers from my home tower (Handsworth, Sheffield), following which I rang the third bell to Grandsire Cinques.

As Bow Bells were the heritage of all London ringers, there was gathered together on that day all the most notable ringers thereabouts at that time.

I rang on these bells several times after this. and no description of them would be too extravagant.

Someone questioned recently in "The Ringing World' whether it was practical to have them the same weight again. Well if it is practical to have Bow Bells at all I see no reason to make a compromise. Our men are as good at handling bells to-day as any that have gonc before.

Shefficld.

CAMBRIDGE BELLS

Dear Sir,-We are all grateful to the Archdeacon of Wisbech for enlightening us on the possibilities of Cambridge churches, but this only gives further proof that complete unification of all branches of the Church's activities is still only a hope for the future. St. Andrew's bells have been under discussion for a very long time and a faculty for their removal for repair must have been granted since this committee was formed.
If you wish to find the right type of tool for the job ask the person who is to use it, is a policy I have successfully adopted..

We read of bells being sold, removed or installed without any advice being sought from ringers, and yet they are the largest organised body in the Church. What ringer would consent to the installation of a heavily Simpsontuned ring to be installed in a shost tower in a built-up area, when their experience has told them that the terrific hum will eventually result in the tower being closed, but yet I have discovered quite a number of rings where this is happening. We find organs installed in the wrong positions. Certain fumes are seriously damaging masonry, but yet this type of heater is still being installed.

The Church of England has all the experts necessary for its success amongst its members: all that is needed is for them to be welded together.

In the same issue of your paper Mr. George Fleming states that there is no bad music in Grandsire Triples, but yct they rang an extent once again. We live and learn. Yours sincerely, Bures, Suffolk.

Gloucester and Bristol Association

Purton was visited by the Swindon Branch for the quarterly meeting on September 8 th and good use was made of the ring of six in methods up to London Minor. The Branch chairman, Dr. H. Craig, was absent owing to illness, and Mr. W. H. Trueman presided at the business meeting. It was suggested that meetings be held at Highworth, Wanborough and Christ Church, Swindon, during the quarter ensuing, and the Branch secretary reported that over $£ 5$ had been collected in the Branch for Bow Bells. Visitors were present from Cheltenham. Long Ashton and Shipton-underWychwood.

PART 1.-'CATHEDRAL' SYSTEM
SECTION IV. (Lesson 2)

- RINGING ACTION - ANALYSIS AND DRILL,

53. Learning to play the instrument. - (S) Open the session with a short talk, having prepared as for first session, but with one bell silenced, raised, and set at back. Stress that silenced, raised, and set at back. Stress that not enough consideration is usually given to the fact that ringing is the playing of a musical instrument, in concert with other players, requiring both physical and mental skill, with very precise limits of sounding or 'striking.' So that precise position, attitude, holding and movement all must be combined to attain this 'playment all must be combined to attain this 'playinstrument can disturb only the people in the next room, whereas practice on bells can disturb people for very considerable distances around the towers. Therefore the greatest care must be taken from the start to acquire (while the bell is silenced) every possible help towards the skill is silenced) every possible help towards the skill minor points in combination. So that when the 'player' is allowed to ring 'open' (i.e., sound the bell) the result may be at least 'acceptable. in conjunction with the others. Every attention must be paid, therefore, to what may seem at first to be mere trivialities being stressed by the Tutor, for these are vital to good style and performance.
54. Taking Position. - (S) (D) Preliminary work is best taken in the form of routine "drills.' to develop instant reaction, especially of ear, eye and hand. So the first essential is to take up the correct position at the rope before handling it. That is to say, the position must be assumed with the rope hanging freely through the eyelet hole in the ceiling, for reasons to be explained shortly. So if the rope is not hanging freely, i.e., is hooked up at the end. instead of being tied back on itself and hanging clear of the floor, this must first be done. (Refer to Article 48. where this was taught in the preFrous lesson.) When told to "Take position!" then, the student will go to the given rope, hanging frcely, and observe two things: 'Orienhanging frcely, and observe two things: 'Orientation' and 'Proximity.' (Ex, 3.) tation ' and 'Proximity.' (Ex. 3.) (Q)
55. Orientation.-(S) (D) This is the correct facing of the ringer's body with respect to the circle of ropes in the ringing chamber, and it is to the centre of that circle and not towards the rope of the preceding bell. With this orientation the ringer can see, in change ringing, all the ropes by swinging the cyes without undue head movement: and his glance can also be head movement: and his glance can also be observed by the ringer of the bell with which observed by the ringer of the bell with which his own bell is at that moment exchanging position. Even in 'rounds only' the heginner must assume this orientation from the first. In preassume this orientation from the first. In precise terms the frecly-hanging rope should be in a position between the ringer's nose and the centre of the rope-circle. And from the first the beginner must accustom himself to "looking through' the rope, and not 'round' it. He will soon find he can ignore its interposition.
(Q)
56. Proximity--(S) (D) Many ringers stand far away from the rope. The correct distoo far away from the rope. The correct distance is with the nose about two hands" breadths away from the rope.
(Q)
57. Free rope-run. - (S) (D) With correct orientation and proximity taken with respect to a freely-hanging rope, and with the correct pulling and checking actions now about to be shown. two common drawbacks or faults are avoided: The first is 'rope-sawing' or wearing of the rope against the edge of the eyelet hole in the ceiling or rope-guide; and the second derives from the first, namely, waste of ringer's energy by friction of the rope against the sides of the hole. (These are the reasons referred to in Article 54.)
58. Stance.-(S) (D) This next point is often neglected entirely. It is vital for maximum control and minimum fatiguc. Assume position has been taken correctly, then, without alteration of this, the feet must be properly placed. They must not be, as sometimes advised, 'close together,' neither must they be 'wide apart.' The whole point is to provide a 'base' broad enough to avoid waste of energy in unnecessary balancing of the body during ringing, especially of the heavier bells, and/or in the ringing of peals. The muscles of the legs and trunk are all the time working to maintain body balance, and the smaller the 'base' the greater the effort to maintain that balance. The feet should therefore be placed to ease the balancing both sideways and fore-and-aft. (Q) Start by setting them about nine inches apart, that is with about nine inches between the inside edges of the soles of the shoes. A tall ringer may feel a little more, and a short ringer a little less, to be more comfortable. This aids the lateral balance. (Ex. 4.) Now advance one foot about three inches and retard the other a similar amount-it doesn't matter which-this aids the fore-and-aft balance. The ringer should accustom himself to ring with either foot advanced, so that a change-over may be made in ringing long lengths. The body should remain upright though not stiffened, and when extra weight is to be thrown on the rope this is best achieved by dropping at the knecs. For this Ex. 4 then, the order is 'Correct the stance' and it must be done without altering the already-taken position.
59. Rope-grip. - (S) (D) So far there has been no rope contact except to unhook it, and / or tie up the rope-end, to allow it to hang freely to 'take position and stance.' But now the grips are to be learnt. There are two-" sally, and 'rope-end.' and in each grip both hands are employed ; but in one grip the sally grip the rope-end is held as well, though only in one hand, which hand also grasps the sally. The arrangement of the hands is optional, but once decided upon remains fixed with most ringers. The two hands in this arrangement are to be clearly distinguished as the "Lower" hand and the 'Upper' hand. ( $Q$ ) The lower hand retains the rope-end grip throughout. while the upper hand takes alternately the sally grip and the rope-end grip. The Tutor now demonstrates this on a 'lowered' rope; but without going into further details at this stage, merely to illustrate the general idea of the grips and hand movement. (Q T)
60. Lower hand grip at rope-end. - (S) (D) (For purpose of explanation on paper we assume here that the lower hand is the left, and the upper hand the right. though in demonstration the reverse may apply in some cases. e.g.. with 'left-handed ' students.) The first point to make is called the 'clutch' test (Ex. 5.) Taking the rope-end in the left hand as the "lower." then, the palm should be held facing the chest with fingers straight and lying together and the thumb inclined slightly downwards across the palm. The rope-end being pushed tightly into the 'clutch' of the thumb which then grips the rope against the open palm of the hand. Tbe Tutor now jerks the rope-end. by holding it above the student's hand and trying to release it from his grip: the grip heing with the thumb only while the fingers are kent extended. Meanonly while the fingers are kent extended. Meanwhile the student's upper ( R ) hand is kept behind his back, to emphasise the independence of the lower hand grips. The second point is now made. that the fingers of the lower hand do made. that the fingers of the lower hand do grip the rope-end most of the time but that they open out, as just practised, when about to grip the sally as well; which will be shown next. (Q)
61. Lower hand grip at sally. - (D) The student now closes his fingers on the rope-end grip, and keeping his upper hand still behind his back, raises his lower hand to the sally and, just before touching it, opens the fingers only and grasps the sally with the rope-end tightly against it, his fingers and thumb now closing completely round the sally. (Ex. 6.) On the word 'Release!' from the Tutor, the student releases the fingers and thumb from the sally, but, retaining the rope-end in the 'clutch,' now closes fingers and thumb round the rope-end and returns the lower hand to the starting position. (Repeat several times.)
62. Upper hand grip added.-(D) The upper hand grip is now added to the rope, and is just the normal grip of fingers and thumb completely round the rope-end, the grip being, as its name implies, on the rope just above the lower hand grip. The vital point is that the two hands must be in contact as explained in Article 63 following On the words 'Rope-end Grip!' from the Tutor, the student grips with both hands, at once, as now learnt and assumes the starting position (which is with hands fully lowered and elbows straight) for this next exercise. (Ex. 7.) On the words 'Sally Grip!' both hands raise the rope-end as in Ex. 6, and as they approach the sally the upper hand leaves the rope-end, while the lower operates as in Ex. 6, and both hands clasp the sally, with all fingers and both thumbs fully round it: but hands must be in contact. as at the rope-end grip. On the words 'Rope-end Grip!' the student returns to the starting position, as above. Repeat several times.
63. Grip Contact. - (S) (D) In that useful booklet. 'Hints for Instructors and Beginners,' is a photograph (the last) showing two common faults, with a caption beginning- 'Hands too far apart . . . Theory indicates and experience proves that the hands must not be 'apart' at all, for optimum control. Not only has ' weight , to be applied to the rope in a truly vertical direction, which calls for its application at one spot on the rope and not two (in case the two are not 'plumb'); but also when the two hands are in contact a grip less liable to slip is obtained. Now since the two hands cannot be in the same place, their independent thrusts become nearly one when the little finger of the upper hand is always in contact with the first finger of the lower (Q) hand, that is, when the two hands are on the rope at once. (Ex. 7a.)
64. Upper hand transfer. - (S) (D) So far no consideration has been given to the actual strokes comprised in the ringing action; the a nalysis of which will indicate what is to be called the "upper hand transfer." So that logically this analysis should now follow. But. in fact. it is found helpful 10 introduce this ' transfer' and practise it, before getting down to stroke analysis. because thereby fewer faults in the transfer tend to arisc. Reference to Ex. 7 shows the student what is meant. by this 'transfer,' and this should be demonstrated again by the Tutor. on a 'lowered' rope. On the order 'Rope-end grip!', as the two hands leave the sally grip (the lower hand carrying the rope-end with it), the upper hand must immediately grip the rope-end, in its proper place, of course. i.c., just above and in contact with. the lower hand. The great majority of ringers allow an appreciable time interval to elapse before bringing that upper hand to the rope-end ; and, as will be shown. considerable measure of control can thereby be lost. (Ex, 8.) Before the students take the exercise for this point (on 'lowered ' ropes, of course), it is useful to show Yhem the 'leaf' test.

65. The 'leaf' test*.-(D) For this a slip of paper, about the size of an average tree leaf, is placed along the thumb of the lower hand, held as though about to grip the rope, and the upper hand is then brought into position above it, with the side of its palm resting on the paper slip. The Tutor now shows his hands, with the fingers opening and closing freely while the slip is held fast between the hands. With hands together thus, he reaches up to the rope-cnd of the bell that has been raised and set at back the bell that has been raised and set at back (See opening Article 53 of this session.) Taking the correct rope-end grip the Tutor explains that he is going to ring the bell, and demonstrate particularly the point of Article 64, i.e., the Upper hand Transfer; in fact, he says, the transfer will be so close that the paper will not escape. He then pulls off at back-stroke, and escape. He then pulls off at back-stroke, and transfers the upper hand to sally without parting the hands. Again, from handstroke he transfers the upper hand to rope-end without allowfers the upper hand to rope-end without allowing the paper slip to escape, as can be seen by the students. ( S ) He now explains that if that is possible, then although the hands may separate slightly in practice, it is obvious that the fault of delayed transfer can be prevented. The point of all this becomes more obvious when the strokes are analysed and the correct pulls are taught.
(Ex. 8. as explained above, now follows.)
66. Stroke analysis.-(D) On the blackboard (see Article 24) Tutor now draws a circle about $12^{\prime \prime}$ in diameter and as on a clock face marks in, at ' 12 ' the figure 1 , at ' ' 3 ' the figure 2 , at ' 6 ' the figure 3, and at ' 9 ' the figure 4. Alongside this circle he now writes, as in a column, these four stroke-names: 1. Backstroke pull. 2 Handstroke check. 3. Handstroke pull. 4, Backstroke check. Now on the circle he marks in arrow heads between the numbers, in a clockwise direction. and below the whole lot: "The 4-stroke Cycle.' (Q) Reverting to the silenced bell resting in the set position at backstroke (at back for safety, since other bells are used for their 'lowered' rope practice), he now explains that he is going to ring the bell and show the cycle of strokes, which are four in number-two pairs, in fact: two pulls and two reverse pulls or checks, and the checks or reverse pulls are strokes equally important with the direct pulls, though they are frequently neglected in ringing instruction. (S) The cycle illustrated on the blackboard is maintained in all ringing, though the start is usually made at ' 3 ,' the handstroke pull, of course. (D) The Tutor now rings the bell, calling out the strokes as he does so, and holding the bell on the balance between each two pairs of strokes. He points out that each pull is linked to its successive check, when the bell comes to the balance point; and that these pulls and checks will be taken one at a time and their actions thoroughly analysed. But first. a few other points.
67. Theory of Stroke Control.-(S) A given force applied over a given time results in a given amount of acceleration. In the case of a swinging bell this is tending to increase with a pull stroke and tending to decrease or braking with a check stroke. If for 'time ' we read ' length of stroke,' then it becomes obvious that to get the same degree of acceleration with a long stroke we need less force applied; and conversely, with a short stroke more force is needed to get the same effect. (Q) Clearly it is easier to derive the given effect by a gentler, thrust applied for longer, than by a 'hefty' thrust applied for only a brief interval; in other words. control is easier with longer strokes whether pulling or checking. So pull strokes must start " high.' i.e., by reaching well up, and finish 'low.' by carrying through the pull to the fullest extent downwards. (Q) Similarly, check strokes must start 'low' with hands well down, but with the grip gauged to clasp the rope at such a point as will carry the hands well up to a 'high reach' position as the bell comes on to the point of balance. (Q) Normally the ' catch' position for the hands is at waist level or below, but on very light bells with consequential smaller whecls, the catch position is necessarily higher otherwise the 'reach' will be 'low' as the bell comes to its balance point.
(Q) (D) The Tutor will explain this carefully and demonstrate by actually varying the grip point in strokes on the silenced bell. (Leave set at back.)
68. The 'Reach-up.'-(D) In taking the first rope-grip for pull-off then, the ringer must reach well up, lower hand especially, with arms fully extended upwards, even to rising slightly on the toes with a bell that sets 'deep.' (S) To a beginner this may seem a bit uncomfortable, but it must be explained that in the course of the ringing the bell scarcely rises on to the actual point of balance, still less goes over the balance to the set position; so that the full 'stretch will not be experienced in ringing. On the other hand. the higher the stretch or 'reach up' the less likely is the bell to be bumped (by the beginner) against the stay-stop. The point of grip on the rope must be noted before the pulloff and the catch-point kept to this.
(Ex. 9.) Students now practise the reach-up on 'lowered' ropes, gripping the sally correctly with the rope-end held also, in the lower hand, repeating several times.
69. Rope-end Adjustment. - ( S ) It is clear that with the good length of sally the adjustment of the sally grip is merely a matter of shifting the catch-point; also that this can be gauged exactly before the pull-off. But with the rope-end this is another matter. If a bell has been left set at back. then the point of grip is found as for the sally. If the rope-end is too short or too long, it can be varied in length by altering the amount of 'tuck back' in the ropeeno. (D) This the Tutor will demonstrate, introducing the use of the marlin-spike for 'opening' the rope-weave. But in the more usual case of the ringer coming to the bell set at hand, the adjustment of rope-end grip is attained by cautiously pulling off at hand with an initial rope-end grip in the usual place, but restraining the stretch or reazh-up as the bell rises to the check, and noting to what degree the elbows are bent as the bell comes to the point of balance. For the next back stroke the rope-end grip may be varied either way if it be a matter of an inch or so; but if it be considerable then the bell must be set at hand and the end-tuck altered. (Q) The grip, within an inch or so of the end of the rope by the lower hand, should give the full reach-up when the bell is set at back. (Q) 70. Safety Release Drill. - (S) Finally, before beginning the drill for the strokes, the safety drill is introduced, since this can best be practised on 'lowered, ropes when drill, on them, is in course of action. The object of the drill is to give the Tutor control in an emergency ( $Q T$ ), to avoid dangerous developments, and to give the student confidence. (D) In an emergency the Tutor will call abruptly 'Let go!', when the student will instantly release the rope entirely, step back (sideways, if against a wall) a full pace and hold the arms limply, slightly outwards and forwards, so that any rope-coils can whip away. (Ex. 10.) During the drills on 'lowered' ropes. the Tutor will suddenly interject the release order in the middle of some statement he is making while the student is making a drill movement; the practice must be repeated until the student's action is entirely reflexive.
70. A note on the apportionment of work. The importance of continuity was stressed in Article 9, and the nature of the subject matter sometimes poses a problem for the Tutor as to apportionment of work for the successive lessons. Much depends on the number of students in the course and the number of assistants or student-tutors; also the time available for each session or lesson. It is assumed that the average

LETTERS-Continued  SHIPS' BELLS

Dear Sir,-Mr. Ernest Morris and others interested in the subject of ships' bells may care to note the following extract from 'ResurgamThe Story of St. Mary's, Southampton * (page 6):-

Here also is the bell from the ship "Hantonia," whose long and honourable record ended as recently as 1954 . In future the "Hantonia" bell will be rung ceremonially on any occasion requiring the summoning of the people to prayer for any cause concerning life at sea-danger, victory or thanksgiving for safety.

The bell was first rung in the Seamen's Chapel at St. Mary's on the occasion of the dedication of that Chapel by the Assistant Bishop of Winchester last June. The Order of Service read: "At the conclusion of the anthem the Bosun's pipe shall be sounded and the order given:-

Day men to Prayers."

"As the " muster of the crew" proceeds, the bell of the ship 'Hantonia' will be tolled, and will continue until the Bishop's procession has reached the Chapel,'
The "Hantonia' was in the regular South. ampton-Le Havre service and was, I belicve, used to evacuate troops from France in 1940 Her successor is the 'Normannia.' - Yours faith. fully,

CHURCH AND BELFRY SEPARATE

Dear Sir,-How very surprising it is to find your correspondent, Mr. P. M. Dawson, asserting that there is a decline in bellringing because the belfry and the church are regarded as separate places. I was under the impression that change ringing first became firmly established and began to flourish at a time when it was regarded almost solely as a sport, and when there was a great deal more distinction between belfry and church than ever exists to-day.

However, assuming Mr. Dawson is correct is he justified in insinuating that the single-minded bellringers are to blame? Presumably the 15 out of 24 churches he mentions where the bells are not rung have congregations. I should have thought it would have been easy to find seven or eight people from each, prepared to learn the art, if a real wish existed for the bells to be rung. Indeed, with the churchwardens and the sidesmen and the choir and the clergy, they could each have a Maximus band composed of truly reliable ringers. But perhaps it is these people who regard church and belfry as separate places?-Yours faithfully, time is $1 \frac{1}{2}$ hours and that no Tutor or assistant has more than five students. On this reckoning the present Lesson 2 will have absorbed (with the routine conclusion as helow) the allotted time; so that the deferred 'Stroke Practice' (see Article 66 at end and Article 70 at beginning) is now entered under the ensuing Lesson 3. If, however, a Tutor finds that he has time in hand, he must use his discretion as to proceeding with part of the matter of the ensuing lesson. bearing in mind the continuity factor (and vice-versa).

72. Questions. - Questions both ' of " Q and from 'the students on Articles 53 to 70 inclusive are now taken.
Registration and a note of next work conclude the session.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Rochester District at Hoo

At the by-meeting held at Hoo on September 8th, approximately 32 members and friends were present. For a change the weather was very kind. The bells were going soon after 3 oclock, under the guidance of Mr. Frank Cheal, who was deputising for the Ringing Master, Mr. W. A. J. Knight.
The service was conducted by the Vicar, and the organist was a visitor, Mr. R. Heels. A very good tea had been prepared by Mrs. Vidgeon and her helpers, and this was given by Mr. and Mrs. Vidgeon, of Hoo.
A 'get well' card was sent to Mr. 'Gus' Howitt, who is now recuperating in Keycol Hill Hospital, from all members present. Also a letter was sent to Mr. Knight, wishing him a speedy recovery.

After touches on handbells, a return was made to the belfry where ringing carried on until 8 $0^{\circ}$ clock.

[^36]The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

THE VETERANS FORGATHER

LONGEVITY is a characteristic of ringers. When Mr. Albert W. Coles conceived the idea of assembly of veterans of the Exercise meeting together to ring and talk over bygone days there was a splendid rally and a unanimous wish that such a gathering should form a regular feature of the ringing calendar. The second gathering took place in the Fan Makers' Hall, Bishopsgate, on September 15 th, and the portrait of Queen Anne above the top table seemed very appropriate as giving a sense of regal antiquity. Forty-two veterans assembled, with an aggregate age of 2,994 years and an average age of $71 \frac{1}{4}$ years.

Place of honour next to the chairman (Mr. Coles) was occupied by Mr. F. V. Simkins, who will be 92 next January. The phrase, ' Once a ringer, always a ringer,' certainly applies to Mr. Simkins, who, who are a lifetime at Slough, is now attached to St. Leonard's, Streatham. In age he is the oldest College Youth living, but not in membership. By his side was another old College Youth, Mr. Isaac Emery, of Bromley, who, despite his $85 \frac{1}{4}$ years, still rings regularly in quarter peals. He was entrusted with the calling of the last touch at St. Olave's, Hart Street, in the afternoon, and although a bob was missed at the end there was a real joy among those who participated in ringing together. It had been hoped that Alfred Pulling, of Guildford, would have been present to 'square up' the ringing, but London is a strange city and this veteran, although he carries in his pocket-book the cutting of the memorable peal at St. Olave's rung by a band of a thousand pealers, had to admit around the tea table that he had lost his way.
Veterans naturally live on past achievements, and famous peals were recalled: Reuben Sanders, looking a very youthful 82 , was reminded of the day when he rang the eleventh at Exeter Cathedral to a peal of Cambridge Maximus, and how after the peal Albert Walker took him to a chemist's shop to have his bleeding hands bound up. Mr. Albert Hughes had also something to tell: a recollection of a visit to Haslemere and the rasping voice of the conductor when he missed a bob in Treble Ten that, in his own words, ' nearly caused him to jump out of his skin.'
Recently on this page was recalled the record length of Stedman Caters rung 44 years ago. Two of the ringers and one of the umpires were present. Alas, for William Shepherd the climbing of belfry stairs is out of the question for the time being. He has a rare complaint of the knee -only two cases in England-that not only makes walking difficult but is the cause of much pain in the early hours of the morning. He is, however, hopeful that a new drug prescribed by a Canadian specialist will prove to be an effective remedy. When the handbells were produced after tea, William had left for home and was thus unable to take part in a touch with the conductor of that record peal. The umpire (Mr. A. H. Winch), now 76, was able to give his version. A great walker and a great whistler was Mr. Winch in his younger days, and Mr. Shepherd told of Mr. Winch walking regularly for Sunday morning ringing at Weybridge from Leatherhead. 'And he would whistle all the way-Grandsire, Stedman or Bob Major.'

As might be expected, there was an act of remembrance of those who had passed over during the year. The Chairman mentioned that two who were present last yearReuben Charge and Cecil Mayne-were no longer with them, and they also regretted the deaths of E. A. Young, Bill Nudds and Clement Glenn. To their memory the company stood in silence. A formidable list of absentees was read. Among them was Bill Elson, who was present last year and is now in hospital. It was with sincere regret that the veterans heard that Mr. Elson had had his second amputation the previous day.

After tea there was only one speech, that of thanks to all who had made the reunion possible. First and foremost Mr. Smallwood mentioned the work of Mr. Coles in organising the gathering. 'I am sure it is a good thing for the old veterans to get together and talk about things they have done in the past,' he said. He was sure none of them would qualify for degrees that would be going spare from the College of Campanology! Be that as it might, they had all enjoyed their experiences and knew of the joy of a bit of good ringing. They all hoped that the youngsters who were coming along would get the same fun as they had. From the point of view of striking they had a lot to learn.
The vote of thanks was truly omnibus. To the Rev. H. H. Treacher, Rector of Bishopsgate, there was a special word of thanks for the use of the hall. Happily Mr. Treacher was able to look in for a few minutes and give a welcome to the assembly. 'It is always a pleasure to welcome veterans,' he said, ' and especially on this occasion those who have done so much in the art of bell ringing. In the name of the Church I give you a cordial welcome. Others thanked were the Rectors of St. Olave's and St. Bartholomew the Great, where ringing took place during the afternoon, Mrs. Davies and her band of ladies, who provided an excellent tea, and lastly Messrs. Mason, Goodfellow, Tubb, Euston and Oliver, who provided the transport. Before they parted there was a little 'something' for the homeward journey. Mrs. Davis and her ladies were able to provide paper bags with a little refreshment for the journey. Diary entries have already been made for next year's reunion.

RINGERS' OUTINGS

R.A.F. WEEK-END IN NORTH SOMERSET

The week-end of September 8th-9th saw five ringers from R.A.F., Locking, and some civvy" friends touring several churches in North Somerset. Transport comprised three cars, and the area chosen provided both good scenery and plenty of variety in types of towers and bells.

The start was made after tea on the Friday, and the party set off for the first tower, Woolavington (6). The next call was at Puriton, where the fourth is rather flat, giving an unusual tone to these bells. Continuing, we rejoined the main Bristol-Bridgwater road and rfter passing Pawlett Church twice, we found the local band waiting to meet us. We enjoyed this $14 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. five so much that we stayed longer than originally intended, and consequently arrived late at the final tower for the evening, Huntspill, but had time for a variety of methods, including London Minor and Huntspill Doubles.
A parade at the camp prevented us going anywhere in the morning. However, we were away shortly after mid-day and just had time for a short ring on the merry little six at Locking, permission being kindly granted at very short notice. After Westbury-sub-Mendip, the grand 18 cwt . six at Pilton provided probably the best ringing of the week-end. These bells and those at Pylle (6) had both been recently rehung by Mears and Stainbank, and it was agreed that both jobs were good. Baltonsbor ough bells are not often rung, and the Vicar was pleased to hear our ringing.

Having to stop for petrol delayed our arrival at West Lydford, where the church is situated at the side of a small river, and some difficulty was experienced in getting the back bells up right. Next we had the only fives of the day-Barton St. David, and Kineweston. The first tower is octagonal and the second has a spire. The bell-frame at Butleigh could well do with attention, the bells going very badly. At Street, too, we had a lot of trouble with this $23 \frac{3}{4}$ cwt. eight-mainly due to the lack of rope guides-but we did manage a course of Double Norwich. Some of the band preferred listening to the church organist at St. Benedict's, Glastonbury, but we all set off together to ring at Meare, though here the 'go' of some bells-notably the fifth-suggested the bells hadn't been oiled for over a year. Nevertheless we had plenty of time to 'oil' ourselves at the Ring o' Bells.

Sunday morning found us at the pleasant resort of Clevedon, where we joined the local hand at St . Andrew's for morning service ringing on a good 14 cwt . Taylor eight. Permission had been very kindly given for a short ring after Sung Mass on the All Saints' five, which Taylor's have rehung within recent months. After lanch we visited the area known as Gordano, calling in at Clapton, Weston. Portbury (where the 'go' of the bells is really appalling) and Easton. A short tea, and then we joined the ringers at St. James', Bristol, for Evensong ringing.

The band would like to extend their thanks to all ringers and incumbents who met us and made $\mathrm{u}_{s}$ welcome, and particularly to Mr . and Mrs. George Prescott for all their help.
I. H. O

RYE, SUSSEX

As far as any of the present ringers are concerned the outing by coach on July 7th was the first made from the tower.

Away to a prompt start at 1.30 p.m., the first stop was at Ticehurst (6), where we were met by Mr. S. Ponting, who rang with us. Despite the draught, the striking of rounds and Grandsire Doubles was reasonably good.

In brilliant sunshine, which lasted for the rest of the day, we skirted Tunbridge Wells to visit Speldhurst. Here we were joined by the tower captain. One of the party remarked that the bells just ring themselves. The bells certainly are a very good eight.

At St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells, we found a very similar ring and enjoyed our best ringing of the day. This included rounds by an allladies' band and a good lower on the back six. An excellent high tea was enjoyed at "John's Place, after which there was a little time to spare for syght-seeing.

Finally, at Frant (6), long ropes proved a handicap to some, and at the end of the day there were more trips than at previous towers.

We are grateful to all who met us and to incumbents for use of the bells. On the whole we were fortunate in our choice of towers. The party included 17 ringers ( 12 of whom were under 21) and, lacking the services of some of our members at college and university, we attempted rounds, Queens, plain hunting and Grandsire Doubles. The striking in these was generally very satisfactory, which we consider was important. We are grateful to the Church Council for defraying all expenses, J. S.

FARINGDON, BERKS

Accompanied by their Vicar and friends from Shrivenham. Stanford-in-the-Vale and Marcham, Faringdon ringers had an enjoyable outing on September 8th.
It was planned to ring at Great Tew, but owing to a funeral this had to be cancelled. Sandford St. Martin, the next village, however, proved to be an excellent substitute. Bicester bells. in the next tower, pleased everyone, and tea was taken at St. Mary's Cafe.
At Long Crendon, Bucks, we were given a great reception by the Rev. Mr. Playfoot. Thanks are expressed to all who contributed towards such a delightful outing, on one of the few fine Saturdays in recent weeks.

Hutton, Essex, Ringers' Activities

Four events this year were enjoyed by our Guild and its friends.
The coach party, March 2nd, to the Empire Pool, Wembley, to see the ice show, the pantomime " Babes in the Wood.' How easy and convenient to go by coach from door to door!

The coach tour. May 26th, to Dovercourt for lunch and Brightlingsea for tea, with ringing on the bells at the ancient churches of St . Leonard, Colchester. Langham, Mistley, Great Holland and Ardleigh. How refreshing the morning coffee at Dedham and the delightful evening tea at Ardleigh proved!

The quarterly meeting, July 7th, of the Essex Association (S.W.), when Hutton had the honour of entertaining members from various parts of the county. The stirring anthem rendered by the choir, and the dainty tea provided by Margaret B. and her helpers, served as pleasing precursories to that which followed-the business meeting, with our Rector in the chair.

The cycling outing, August 25 th, round Colchester way, after our train ride, with more ringing in the grand old towers of Great Bromey. Tendring, Great Bentley, Thorington and Wivenhoe. The Norman village common at Great Bentley proved the ideal spot for the picnic lunch, and we well enjoyed our tea in the riverside café at Wivenhoe.

A sincere 'thank you' to all who helped cater for our comfort-and to the incumbents and ringers who weicomed us to their towers.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD  Canon A. W. Markby Retires

The Dorchester Branch held their quarterly meeting at St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, on September 15 th.

Ringing on the eight bells commenced at 2.30 p.m. and continued until 4 o'clock, when the Guild service was conducted by the Rector, Canon A. Wilkinson Markby, chairman of the Branch.

Canon Markby, who is retiring from his active ministry at the end of September, said in his address that he was grateful for the meeting, as it gave him the opportunity to bid an 'official goodbye' to the Branch, and to leave a farewell message. 'Carry on,' he said, 'and keep the bells ringing, so that the boys and girls now learning can follow in your footsteps and ring the bells to the glory of God.'

The Rector said he would always treasure the help and comradeship he had received from the Branch, ard would always be interested in their activities.

Tea was served at the Wessex Restaurant, and the business meeting which followed was conducted by the chairman. who extended a very warm welcome to the Rev. E. B. Brooks (recently inducted to the living of Fordington).

Mr. Brooks said in reply that he was sure he would be very happy at Fordington, and would welcome the Branch members to his belfry.
New members accepted were Messrs. W. J. Cowley (Charminster), C. Goodfellow and R. Pope (Buckland Newton).
Subject to confirmation, the annual meeting will be held at St. Peter's on the third Saturday in January. Fortnightly practices were arranged for October 6th, Abbotsbury; October 20th. Priston; November 3rd, Cattistock; November 17th, Piddlehinton ; December 1st, Wyke Regis; December 15 th, Buckland Newton.

Mr. Riggs, of Piddletrenthide, said their bells were now in the hands of the founders, and it was hoped they would be available by Easter.

Mr. R. H. Duke, captain of St. Peter's ringers, paid a sincere tribute to Canon Markby's help and inspiration during his ringing period at St. Peter's, and the hon. secretary, Mr. J. Hayne. endorsed his remarks, and said he hoped that the chairman's goodbye from his work at the church did not necessarily mean goodbye to the Branch.

The chairman said that to say goodbye was always difficult, but he would still be in the same county and diocese (he will be living at Swanage). so that he could keep an eye on the ringers. It is hoped to attempt a peal on St. Peter's bells as a tribute to Canon Markby later in the month.

A vote of thanks to all who had helped towards the success of the meeting, especially the organist. Mr. W. Sansom, who came at short notice, was carricd unanimously.

Ringing continued at St. Peter's and at Fordington, under the direction of Mr. F. Precey and his deputies. Messrs. H. Ford and J. Rose. A touch of Stedman Triples was rung in which the combined ages of the ringers of the first three bells totalled well over 200 years. They were Mr. F. Precey, over 70. Mr. F. Stedman and the Rev. R. P. Farrow, both over 80 years. Methods up to Cambridge Surprise Major were rung, as well as plenty of practice touches for the learners.
Towers represented were Preston. Wyke Regis, Piddletrenthide, Bovington, St. Peter's, Dorchester, Fordington. Yetminster, Charminster, Abbotsbury, Buckland Newton and East Lulworth, with visitors from Leatherhead, Lydbury, Shepton Mallet. Wells, Radstock, Wareham, Yeovil. Queen Camel and Stalbridge.

Canon Markby has been 56 years in the Ministry, 27 years at St. Peter's, and was elected Branch chairman on January 11th, 1936.

The peal at Olveston, Glos, recorded in this issue, was arranged for Mr. Tom Goodyer, who is on a three weeks' visit to England from Australia. Although Tom had only once before rung Cambridge Major, and that about three years ago, he rang his bell with only two or three very slight trips. Tom is probably the first Australian born and taught ringer to score a peal of Surprise.

Who was the inquisitive ringer who during a recent peal tour put his head through the window of a bus?

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards had the pleasure on September 13 th of celebrating his 83 rd birthday with a touch of Stedman Triples at Lyme Regis.

The Rev. C. C. J. Butlin made a slip of the pen in his article ' The Beauty of the Bells.' On page 373 it should read Pope John XII, instead of Pope Pius IX.

Mr. W. H. Coles would like to thank all the kind ringing friends who have written to him in hospital, and those who have also visited him. He is now released from hospital but still confined to bed at his home, 61, Hayes End Drive, Hayes, Middlesex.

The quarter peal of Plain Bob Major at King's Norton, Leics, is of special interest as it is said that this tower has one of the finest-toned rings of eight in Leicestershire and yet supposedly unringable. True, they are far from being perfect as far as the "go' is concerned, but with the help of the oil can and plenty of "elbow grease' it is hoped to get them in a pealable condition for the expected visit of the great A. P. C. early in the New Year. If successful, this will be the first peal on the bells for many years.

Now 88 ycars old, Mr. H. Rowley, who has been a ringer at Horbury, Yorks, for 67 years, called a quarter peal of Kent Treble Bob Major for his birthday, although he did not ring. He is still the tower's most regular and punctual attender at both service and practice ringing. He always rings, except on the occasions when there is a full team, as was the case in the birthday quarter.

Mr. John Worth, Macclesfield, writes: Re footnote to peal rung at Arlecdon, Cumberland, claiming it as first peal of London Surprise Major in the county, Dr. J. C. E. Simpson called a 5,024 , composed by $G$. Lindoff, at Crosthwaite, Curaberland, on July 8th, 1950.

The ringers in the peal of Bob Minor at Claycross. Derbyshire, on September 15th would like to convey their thanks through . The Ringing World ' to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Barker for the grand tea and welcome given to them at their party, and wish them both good luck in the future.

The peal of Minor at Stamford, Lincs, on September 8th, given elsewhere, was rung in honour of the wedding of Mr. Hedley Baxter and Miss Audrey Towns, which took place at St. Martin's Church, Ancaster, a few days previously. The bride was a chorister and ringer at this church.

The retirement from the Ministry after 56 years of Canon $\Lambda$. Wilkinson Markby has been received with great regret by members of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Guild. For 27 years he has been Rector of St. Peter's, Dorchester, and has been Branch chairman since January, 1936. Canon Markby is to live in retirement at Swanage.

Society of Rambling Ringers in the West Country

THE Society met for its sixth annual tour outside St. David's Church, Exeter, on Saturday, August 4th.

St. David's bells ( $8,15 \mathrm{cwt}$.) proved very good but are not in the same class as the excellent eight (tenor 25 cwt .) at St. Michael's, Heavitree. A course of Bristol did full justice to these bells. St. Thomas ( $8,14 \mathrm{cwt}$.) preceded the heavy 12 (tenor 72 cwt .) at the Cathedral. The bells go exceptionally well but a touch of Cambridge Royal failed.

Officially we had only two towers on the programme for Sunday-Pinhoe ( $6,11 \mathrm{cwt}$.) for Matins, and Ottery St. Mary (8, 18 cwt .) for Evensong-but our tower-grabbing enthusiast obtained permission for us to ring at Whimple ( $6,12 \mathrm{cwt}$.), Talaton ( $6,12 \mathrm{cwt}$.) and Alphington ( $8,16 \mathrm{cwt}$.). Six members and two locals attempted a quarter peal of Stedman Triples at Newton St. Cyres ( $8,15 \mathrm{cwt}$.) but unfortunately this came to grief.

Monday brought a foretaste of what was to be our lot for the remainder of the tourhill climbing. We started the day at Chudleigh ( $8,12 \mathrm{cwt}$.), followed by Bickington ( $6,7 \mathrm{cwt}$.). What was probably the ' most looked forward to' tower of the tour followed-Buckfast Abbev ( $12,41 \mathrm{cwt}$.). The ringing chamber was beautifully kept as was the belfry above it, and spoke well of the love and labour of our guide. The ringing here was very good although Cambridge Maximus would not 'go.' We then forced our way past a point-to-point meeting at Dean Prior ( $6,11 \mathrm{cwt}$.), followed by the five at Rattery (tenor 13 cwt .). The night was spent at Lownard Youth Hostel.

Owing to a mistake about a service, the first tower on Tuesday, Totnes, had to be put back until evening, but this gave us a chance to 'grab ' Berry Pomeroy (8, 17 cwt .), where the clock mechanism could be made less complicated! At Paignton ( $8,22 \mathrm{cwt}$.) our only course of Superlative on the tour was rung and our Cheshire friend also became entangled with the intricacies of Spliced Plain and Little Bob Maior. Ringing at Marldon ( $5,17 \mathrm{cwt}$.) was curtailed due to a broken rope, and at Ipplepen ( $8,18 \mathrm{cwt}$.) a certain member would not ring because the floor almost did not exist, but the local said that it was quite safe. Broadhempston ( $6,13 \mathrm{cwt}$.), Staverton ( $6,21 \mathrm{cwt}$ ) and Little Hempston ( 5,13 cwt.) brought us back once again to Totnes ( $8,28 \mathrm{cwt}$.), and these were a grand finale to an excellent day.

SIX-FOOT SALLIES

The sun stayed with us for all of Wednesday and the first stop was at Harberton $(6,16 \mathrm{cwt}$.) with its six-foot long sallies. It was here that the section of the Society that was to become known as 'the rough riders' set off to take the minor roads, which in many cases turned out to be mere cart tracks. A gentleman on horseback must have thought that the whole party was insane after a certain utterance by that Cheshire gentleman! Eventually Halwell was reached, where the six bells (tenor 14 cwt .) went quite well. East Allington ( $6,12 \mathrm{cwt}$ ) were 'grabbed during the lunch break, and then followed Cornworthy ( $6,10 \mathrm{cwt}$.) and Dittisham ( $6,12 \mathrm{cwt}$.). Maypool Youth Hostel was the night headquarters.

Thursday found us at Dartmouth ( 8,18 cwif), where some good ringing was enjoyed after we had been mistaken for a similar touring body! We were met here by the curate of the mother parish of Townstal and he invited us to try his six bells (tenor 8 cwt.). We stopped at Stokenham ( $6,16 \mathrm{cwt}$ ) and Kingsbridge (8, 11 cwt.) before we reached West Alvington ( 6,16 cwt.), where the ringing chamber contains more certificates for call change ringing than any other in Devon. The locals, however, said that our ringing was good, including the raise and fall. The final tower of the day was Malborough ( $6,11 \mathrm{cwt}$.). In the evening the tower grabbers, with the aid of cars, snatched Galmpton (6, 6 cwt .).

We started ringing on Friday at Modbury (6, 17 cwt .) followed after lunch by Yealmpton ( 6 , 10 cwt .) and Brixton ( $6,13 \mathrm{cwt}$.) and the eight at Plympton (tenor 25 cwt .) before-we entered the naval town of Plymouth. While ringing at St. Andrew's ( $10,35 \mathrm{cwt}$.) the tenor clapper parted company with the bell. After the evening meal at the Youth Hostel the excellent eight (tenor 21 cwt .) at Emmanuel Church were tried.

INTO CORNWALL

A long run on Saturday morning brought us to Liskeard ( $8,17 \mathrm{cwt}$.) and then into the hills to St. Cleer ( $6,10 \mathrm{cwt}$.). On the way to Bodmin we stopped and had a ring at Cardynham (8, 14 cwt.), where a peal was due to commence. The good eight (tenor 15 cwt .) at Bodmin were followed by Lanlivery ( $8,16 \mathrm{cwt}$.). After tea at the Youth Hostel the bells at Lostwithiel (6, 9 cwt.) were sampled, after which the annual meeting was held in a nearby hostelry.

On Sunday we rang for Matins at Tywardreath ( $6,6 \mathrm{cwt}$.). In the afternoon we visited Ladock (8, 12 cwt .) and Probus ( $8,20 \mathrm{cwt}$.) before ringing at Truro Cathedral for Evensong. In the evening we were invited to ring at Kenwyn (8, 15 cwt .).

The first stop on Monday morning was at Perran-ar-Worthal ( $6,12 \mathrm{cwt}$.), where we were welcomed by the Vicar, who invited us to go to Stithians ( $6,8 \mathrm{cwt}$.). St. Gluvias ( $8,11 \mathrm{cwt}$.) gave us an appetite for lunch, and afterwards the rough riders went to Stithians while the remainder went straight to St. Hilary ( 6,5 cwt.). The party from Stithians reached St . Hilary Church via the Vicarage garden (the drive being mistaken for a road!). The English Channel was seen again as we travelled to Gulval ( $8,12 \mathrm{cwt}$.). The evening found us ringing at Penzance ( $8,23 \mathrm{cwt}$.).

AT LAND'S END

The first tower on Tucsday was the magnificent six (tenor 14 cwt.) cast by Taylor's, at Paul. The first and last church in England was next on the programme-Sennen ( $6,5 \mathrm{cwt}$.). After moistening our lips at the first and last inn and a quick visit to Land's End the long run followed to Zennor ( $6,12 \mathrm{cwt}$ ). Once again the rough riders nearly missed ringing at Towednack ( $8,7 \mathrm{cwt}$.). Some members went to have a quick ring at Carbis Bay (8, 9 cwt .) while the rest went to Lelant ( 6.8 cwt.). The day ended with a long run to Phillack Youth Hostel.

Wednesday found us at Camborne (8, 17 cwt.), Tuckingmill ( $8,10 \mathrm{cwt}$.) and Redruth ( 8 , 13 cwt .) before lunch. Perranzabuloe ( $6,9 \mathrm{cwt}$.) was first after lunch and then we visited Crantock ( $6,9 \mathrm{cwt}$.) for a snatch, and here the Rev. W. H. Trewella joined us for a ring. The eight at St. Columb Minor proved tricky to handle, due to a long draught of rope and the front bells being very fincly set. The only church in England situated in an airfield, St. Eval (6, 9 cwt .) was the last tower of the day.
Thursday was the only really wet day of the tour and at St. Teath ( 6.7 cwt.) only the fourth and tenor had stays on but this did not stop us having a good ring. The lightest five (tenor $3 \frac{\mathrm{cwt}}{} \mathrm{c}$ ) in Cornwall, at Advent, was next visited. The church is almost derelict but there is a local band who keep the bells ringing. After lunch we journeyed via Davidstow ( 6,9 cwt.) to Stratton ( $8,21 \mathrm{cwt}$.). These bells are excellent and we cannot be ashamed of our performance here. It was a very wet party that reached Kilkhampton ( $8,11 \mathrm{cwt}$.), the last tower of the day, and after a good ring the party split up to go and find rest and shelter for the night.

BARNSTAPLE BELLS A HANDFUL

Friday saw us all together again at Abbotsham ( 6,12 cwt.) and we were welcomed by the Vicar. The next two towers proved to be the best and worst of the tour. Firstly Bideford, with its excellent ring of eight (tenor 17 cwt .), and then Barnstaple ( $8,22 \mathrm{cwt}$.). Here the bells are hung in a frame which must resemble the boughs of an aged oak tree, and they proved to be a real handful, and they caused more than one wet brow and aching back. Good luck to the locals : Loxhore (6, 5 cwt .) and Arlington ( $6,11 \mathrm{cwt}$.) finished a tiring day. The road we took to Parracombe Youth Hostel under the guidance of our Nottingham friend is badly in need of repair, to say the least.
Saturday, the final day, brought the steepest hills of the tour-Lynton, Countisbury and Porlock all to be crossed before lunch. The first tower was Lynton ( $6,10 \mathrm{cwt}$.) and after some quick refreshment we set out for Porlock ( 6 , 12 cwt .). Two 'engineers' missed a ring at Luccombe (6. $10 \mathrm{cwt}$. ) because they were assisting the Sussex lady with the gears on her cycle. Minehead ( $10,20 \mathrm{cwt}$.) was the last tower of the tour, and a very good course of Cambridge Royal on these excellent beils concluded a very good tour.
Altogether 86 churches were visited. Methods rung included: Kent and Cambridge Maximus; Stedman and Grandsire Cinques; Cambridge, Kent and Plain Bob Royal; Grandsire and Stedman Caters. Major-Bristol, Cambridge, Superlative, Yorkshire, Rutland, Pudsey, Ashtead, Kent, Plain Bob, St. Clement's and Original. Triples-Stedman and Cambridge. Minor Cambridge, Prinırose, Norwich, London, York, Beverley, Surfleet, Walksworth, Plain Bob, Original, Kent and Oxford, etc.

At the annual meeting it was decided to hold next year's tour in the Yorkshire and Lancashire area. John $\mathbf{E}$. Cook was unanimously elected Ringing Master and Alan E. Hartley as the new hon. secretary.
The Society would like to thank all incumbents and local ringers, especially Mr. A. Bennett, of Buckfastleigh, for their kindness in allowing us the use of the bells and making the tour a great success.

WEDDING BELLS AT BUCKFAST ABBEY

In connection with the wedding of the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Parnell. of Dartington, Totnes, which took place at Buckfast Abbey on Saturday, September 15th, a number of members of the Devon Guild of Ringers, with visitors, rang the bells prior to the ceremony. The bride's father is a member of the Mid-Devon Branch.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harvey. Rev. J. G. M. Scott, Messrs. E. M. Atkins, A. L. Bennett, W. Simmonds, W. G. Lavers, $F$. Skidmore (Bristol). Hilton (High Wycombe,) Cotterell (Reading), Mrs. E. S. Powel! (Wellington. Somerset), Miss E. Yardley (Birmingham) and the Rev. Father Oswald Mowan, of the Abbey ringers.

LADIES ?

What happens to the ladies when there is a Ladies Guild meeting?
Four ladies attended the Yorkshire District meeting at Chapcl Allerton, Leeds, on September 8 th.
With the help of the gentemen, ringing included Stedman Doubles and Spliced Doubles.
It was a great pity that. due to lack of support, the delightful little six could not be appreciated fully.
The next mecting will be held on November 10 th in the Sheffield area.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Branch Meeting at Coffinswell
The Mid-Devon Branch held a by-mecting at Coffinswell, near Newton Abbot, on September 8th when, despite unfavourable weather conditions, there was a good attendance. The bells were well utilised to suit all tastes during the afternoon, this being followed by a service in church, which was conducted by the Rev. R. W. Dunn, Archpriest, who, in the course of an excellent address, thanked the Branch most heartily for the help it had given in the parish.

A splendid tea was served in the Parish Hall, after which Mr. J. E. Lilley voiced the thanks of the Branch to Mr. Dunn for the use of the bells, for conducting the service, and for his admirable address. A hearty vote of thanks was also accorded to Master Roger Hansford, of Plympton St. Maurice, a lad of 13 years of age, for acting as organist.
There was no regular business to be transacted, but it was announced that the next quarterly meeting would be held at Buckfast Abbey on October 27th instead of October 6th as originally fixed. During the tea interval the Rev. R. W. Dunn gave a brief history of the parish of Haccombe-with-Coffinswell. He mentioned that in 1337 Bishop Grandisson established a college consisting of the Rector of Haccombe and five other priests. The ordinance establishing this college directed that all future rectors should be instituted to this Benefice by the title of Archpriest.

An Order of Council in 'The London Gazette' of April 1st, 1913, when Coffinswell was annexed to the parish of Haccombe, uses the words ' saving always to the Rector of Haccombe the ancient title of Archpriest.' It is, therefore, absolutely certain that the title of Archpriest is lawfully used today, and has been recognised since the time of 'John the Archpresbyter' (John Dreynat) mentioned in Feet of Fines (Devon and Cornwall), 684, 1338-1339.

As far as 'privileges' are concerned, it has been the custom from time immemorial for the Archpriest of Haccombe to decline to answer the Citation at either the visitation of the Bishop or of the Archdeacon.

East Devon Branch

A quarterly meeting of the East Devon Branch was held at Luppitt on September 15th, when the attendance was small on account of the harvest.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. J. Robjohns, with Mrs. Thorn as organist. The tea was kindly provided by the local ringers' wives at the Village Hall.

At the business meeting Mr. G. L. Woodley took the chair, and Prebendary E. V. Cox was also present. Certificates were awarded to $G$. Price and Christine Kemp, and four new members from Northleigh were elected.

After the meeting visitors from Wellington, Bridgwater. Exeter, Honiton, West Buckland and Buckerell rang Grandsire, Stedman and Minor on the bells.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD  Macclesfield Branch

St. Mary's, Astbury, claimed by many to be the finest church in Cheshire, was the venue for the quarterly meeting of the Macclesfield Branch, held on September 8th.

This tower has recently been transferred froms the Crewe Branch. and this was the first meeting after the changcover. Surprisingly, in this year of rain, it was a very fine day, and although this is a very awkward tower to reach by public transport, there was a goodly gathering; some 37 sat down for tea, and several more arrived afterwards.

Ringing started at 3 p.m., and the service at 4.30 was conducted by the curate, the Rev. W. Tyson, as the rector, Canon S. Tyler Whittle, was on holiday. At the tea which followed. at the Egerton Arms, a very agreeable surprise was in store. Mr. Tyson announced that the Church Council had offered to add 50 per cent. to the price paid for the tea, making a light tea into a tongue salad.

The busincss meeting was mainly routine, the only outstanding items being the return of Prestbury to the Branch, with new members, after an absence of scveral years, due to lack of ringers, and the welcome given to Astbury by the Branch. One other new member was elected, Mrs. B. Corbishley, of Sutton.
After tea, the bells were kept going until 9 o'clock, the ringing ranging from Rounds to Surprise Minor and varieties of Spliced Treble Bob Minor (and not all by the same band). Including the spliced, some 20 different methods were rung.

LETTERS  LADIES' PEALS FOR OXFORD diocesan guild

Dear Sir.-The peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Hughendon on September 1st was not the first by a band of ladies for the Oxford Diocesan Guild.
On April 6th, 1953, a peal of Bob Minor was rung at Radley by a band of ladies for the Guild. This band, with the exception of the conductor, who had taught them, were still at chool or college : all were regular members of the local Sunday service band and of the church choir.
We did not then claim the peal as 'a first' as we were not sure that it was so. Even now I'm not quite sure.
I felt very pleased on September 16th-for Sunday School we rang Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor with members of the Sunday School, and we had five 'sitting out.' The same girls play recorders for the psalms and hymns at Sunday School as there is no organist! Sunday School was taken by one of the band. The same band forms the nucleus of the church choir. I am the only one who doesn't go to Sunday School!-Yours sincerely.

MARIE R. CROSS.

SURPRISES AT TOLLESBURY

Dear Sir,-In reply to the letter from Alan R. Elliott (page 587), I wish to state that the Essex Association held a meeting at Tollesbury on October 23rd, 1920. The tower at that time was attached to the Eastern Division of the Association, and the late Mr. W. J. Nevard was the District Ringing Master, and I was then District secretary. The Rev. Mr. Carter, the then vicar, conducted the service, and in an address stated that an entry in the Church Register mentioned : 'Bells were hung and that oak beams placed in the tower, November 26th, 1633." It is interesting to note that two are Miles Graye bells dated 1604 and 1661 . Ringers from 11 towers attended the meeting and the vicar also took a rope.-Yours sincerely,

HERBERT T. PYE.

By CHESTER D. CLARK

IN Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, stands a cracked and battered bell that is the most revered emblem of a people's liberty. Around its crown it bears the motto 'Proclaim Liberty Throughout the Land unto All the Inhabitants Thereof., It was cast into the bell many years before liberty from their mother country was even thought of by the American colonists.

The bell was to be hung in the State House in commemoration of the 50 th anniversary of the Charter of Liberties granted to the colony by William Penn. Members of the committee delegated to obtain the bell recalled a passage from the Book of Leviticus- And ye shall hallow the 50th year, and proclaim liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof '-which seemed the perfect quolation for the occasion. It was edited to the words now found on the bell.

Practically every American schoolboy knows that this bell was cast in England in 1752 and was cracked when set up in the State House yard for a test ringing. The metal was broken up and recast by Pass and Stow, a Philadelphia firm of founders, who failed in their first attempt. They melted it down again, added a small amount of copper, and formed it again.
When it was rung on July 8th, 1776, to summon Philadelphians to the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence, the bell received no more notice than it had when calling attention to other meetings and announcements. The function of the 'State House Bell,' as it was then called, was to open and close the meetings of the provincial legislature and courts. It also summoned the citizens to the State House yard for mass meetings, and announced celebrations and calamities. It was muffled and tolled when the British tax stamps arrived in 1765 and taken ashore and burned; and again in 1773 when the ship 'Polly,' with its odious cargo of tea, was turned back. It announced the closing of the port of Boston in 1774, and rang out lustily, in 1775, with the news of Lexington and Concord.

The bell rang so much and so loudly, in fact, that nearby residents started a move to get rid of it. In a petition to the Assembly they declared the bell a 'lethal' object, and 'from its uncommon size and unusual sound it is extremely dangerous and may prove fatal to those affected with sickness.'

Most Americans are familiar with the fact that the bell was removed from Philadelphia in 1777 to prevent it from falling into the hands of the British, but not for the reason that it was a revered symbol of liberty. The facts are far more prosaic.
When Philadelphia was threatened by the British, the colonists naturally removed as many of the city's valuable items and stores as possible. Bells were especially valuable because they could be recast into artillery and ammunition. The authorities, therefore, ordered all the large bells in the city removed and hidden in stables. In addition to the State House bell there were the chimes of Christ Church and the bells of St. Peter's, 11 in all. Stables were later considered not very safe hiding places, so the bells were loaded on empty farm wagons returning to the country, the State House bell being taken to Allentown and hidden in the basement of Zion Reformed Church during the winter of Valley Forge.
After the British evacuated Philadelphia the bell was returned to the city, where until 1828 it continued to be rung on special occasions; it was tolled for the deaths of Washington, Jefferson. John Adams. Charles Carrol, the last living signer of the Declaration of Independence, and John Marshall, the first Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. There were possibly some who considered it a national relic, but they were so few in number that it was twice almost lost to the nation.
The first occasion was in 1818. The State of Pennsylvania, having built a new capitol in Harrisburg, offered the whole of State House Square to be divided into lots and sold at public auction. Fortunately the city of Philadelphia bought the old State House-by that time known as Independence Hall-together with its venerable bell, to prevent it being lost to the people.
The second time was ten years later, when the city built a new tower on the old building intending to install a new bell in Independence Hall. When ordering the new bell, the City Council stipulated that a credit of 400 dollars should be allowed for the old bell, which was to be removed by John Wilbank, a Germantown bellfounder. He, however, refused to cart it away. According to one legend, he is supposed to have said, 'Your children and my children will some day value it, so I let it stand.' According to another and more probable story, he said, 'It ain't worth the drayage.' Whichever the case the Council had Wilbank hailed before a magistrate for failing to remove the bell, but he remained firm in his refusal, although he had to pay the costs of the suit and forfeit of the 400 dollar allowance. And so the bell remained, although the city accepted it with reluctance.

On July 8th, 1835, the anniversary of its tolling for the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence, the bell was cracked while tolling a knell for the death of Chief Justice John Marshall. Later use enlarged the crack and it became totally voiceless about 1846, although efforts had been made to restore it.

In the meantime, a booklet on the bell applied the name 'Liberty Bell' to it for the first time, a poem was written about it, and in the 1840 's the Anti-Slavery Society made a picture of the Bell their symbol of freedom. Finally it was placed on exhibition in the Declaration Chamber of Independence Halı.

Since then the Liberty Bell has travelled to world's fairs and expositions in Chicago, Atlanta, Charleston, Boston. St. Louis and San Francisco. It has not left Independence Hall since 1917, when it was a part of a local Liberty Bond parade. At that time a new crack developed out of the top of the old one and it was feared that any further moving might cause it to split into two pieces.

About the year 1900 the Bell was removed from the Declaration Chamber to a special platform at the foot of the tower of Independence Hall, where it is now viewed by a million visitors a year. They range from the Cub Scout with his cap in his hand to the representatives, ambassaciors and rulers of the free nations of the earth. There is a meaning in this battered bell which inspires a sacred reverence, not only from Americans, but from freedom-loving peoples the world over.

SECTION V. (Lesson 3)

 STROKE PRACTICE73. Stroke drill preliminaries.-(S) For this session one bell per five students will be silenced, and one other bell raised and set at back. One and one other bell raised and set at back. One Tutor (or assistant) is required at each silenced bell. (Not yet raised.) The Tutor-in-charge begins by a recapitulation of the release drill.
(Article 70 .) He then explains that for demon(Article 70.) He then explains that for demonstrating the drill on the "lowered' ropes
('dummy ' drill), the first movement- On to ("dummy " drill), the first movement- - On to raised bell, and he then does so on that bell, first setting it at hand.
74. 'On to the Balance.-(D) This order, given in all stroke practice, both drill and 'real,' precedes both pull-strokes, i.e., hand and back. The bell is eased off the set position very slowly on to the point of balance, where it is held for a few moments, then allowed to ease back to the set position. ('Back to set!') The Tutor demonstrates this first at the hand-set position and then at the back-set position, giving himself the appropriate orders as he does so. He then leaves this bell set at back again. (Safety.) He then explains $(Q)$ that this will first be practised on 'lowered' ropes; and he calls out the first students to each such silenced bell.
(Q T)
75. 'Balance and Set' drill (Ex. 11.) All the preliminary orders are first given, thus:-
-Take Position!', 'Check the Stance!', 'Untie 'Take Position!', 'Check the Stance!', 'Untie the Rope!', 'Reach Up!', 'Grip the Sally!'. It cannot be over-emphasised that these orders must be given strictly for every preliminary practice and very careful watch kept for faults. which must be checked immediately. (A list of faults for both students and student-tutors is given in Appendices II and III to this Part I.) Insistence on correct drill of this kind promotes faultess and casy style of ringing. When all is checked to this point the order is given: 'On to the balance!'. The student pulls gently on the ('lowered') rope, feeling the weight of the bell as it gives slightly. Then, on 'Back to set!' he eases off his pull and the bell returns to the normal 'hang.' (Again make clear that the bell is not raised and that this is merely a 'safe" preliminary drill for the real thing to come shortly.) Repeat several times then give the shortly.) Repeat several times then give the order 'Tie up the rope!'. The student now stands, without shifting position, ready for the same at back stroke. For this the Tutor gets a chair, and setting it in front of the student, stands on it and takes the rope-end, raising it so that the last two feet or so hang in the normal back-set position above the student's head., (Ex. 12.) The orders now are: 'Reach Up!' and 'Rope-end Grip!', and again check for any faults. (Five are possible!) Next, 'On to the Balajce!' then, 'Back to Set!'; when the Tutor Balance!', then, 'Back to Set!'; when the Tutor will first resist the student's pull, giving only about two inches, then lift the rope again as the student's pull relaxes. Repeat several times, then 'Release!' and call out the next student. (Repeat Exs. 11 and 12 for each.) (Q T)
76. The Hand-ring. - (D) For the first stroke-drill-the 'Handstroke Pull '-the Tutor first shows a position of the hands used to gain the vertical pull motion on a 'still' rope. called the "Hand-ring.' The students will follow the action as he demonstrates. First place the hands in front at chest level, in 'upper' and "lower' positions, in contact. as though on a rope, with fingers closed. (Ex. 13.) On the word 'Open.' the hands are opened until the thumb tips and finger tips are in contact. forming a sort of ring. With the hands in this position they are lowered from the "Sally Grip. position, encircling the sally and rope as they descend. but without disturbing the 'plumb' hang of the rope itself. The whole object of this action is to learn how to avoid the common fault known as 'rope-throw,' due to nonbending of the elbows on the down-stroke. (Rope untied for this.)
77. ' Handstroke Pull.'-Tutor demonstrates on a 'lowered ' bell, the full drill action for this, first going through all the preliminaries as at opening , of Article 75, up to 'On to the Balance. Then having held the (lowered) rope in this position for a second or two, he gives in this position for a second or two, he gives the order 'Handstroke Pull!' and the hands release the sally and form the ring, as the bell swings slightly into its normal hanging position; then they continue on down the rope. (Ex. 14.) Now as this occurs the student must not "back away ' or shift body position at all, nor must the bell rope be deviated from its vertical hanging position. To secure this, the elbows must be bent as the downward pull starts, and the hands will therefore pass within two palm breadths of the nose as explained in Article 56 breadths of the nose, as explained in Article 56 -Proximity. At this point the Tutor calls 'Pause!' and the whole attitude of the student is checked. If all is right the Tutor now gives tinues with the hand-ring on the rope until the elbows are straightened right out at the bottom of the stroke. Here the hands come away from the rope but quickly come together in the fingers-closed position, in front of the body, but elbows still straight. From here they return on the order 'Sally grip!', and the exercise is repeated.
78. 'Backstroke Check,- Tutor now refers
o the ' 4 -stroke cycle' (sec Article 56 ), and reto the '4-stroke cycle' (see Article 56), and reminds students that this is the next stroke in the cycle. So, starting with the hands in the position at the finish of the stroke in Ex. 14, the student holds the rope-end, while the Tutor mounts a chair, again, in front of him. On the word 'Ready,' the student finds the rope-end rising (lifted by the Tutor), and raising his (student's) hands in front of him. Tutor must watch closely that student's hands pass within the correct distance of his waist, chest and face, i.e., rise vertically and not in an arc, as with straightened elbows. (Q) The elbows must bend. of course, as the hands rise. (S) (Ex. 15.) As the student's hands approach the 'stretch up 'position he will apply some resistance to the Tutor's upward pull, which will cease at the proper height, when the Tutor will call 'Set at back.' From here the next Ex. follows right on.
( Q T)
79. 'Backstroke Pull.' (Ex. 16.) Tutor now gives order. 'On to the Balance,' and allows student's pull should ease off slightly. Then: 'Backstroke Pull!': when the student increases his pull again, and Tutor allows rope to descend with resistance decreasing until he finally lets go of it. (S) The student must follow through in a vertical pull, to finish in the position in which he started Ex. 15. The two exercises are then repeated in sequence. (Remove chair at finish.)
(Q T)
80. 'Handstroke Check.- (S) Tutor points out that this is the next stroke in the cycle, and that it begins from the position in which Ex. 15 starts and/or Ex. 16 ends, i.c., with both hands on rope-end at bottom of stroke. But here the hands prepare to catch the sally as it rises from the bottom of its down-stroke, and must hold the rope-end and sally together as they rise.
Now as this is only possible on a 'live rope, Now as this is only possible on a 'live rope, i.e., on a ringing bell (and the student's hell is i.e., on a ringing bell (and the student's hell is

- lowered '), the drill-practice for this stroke will give facility for the hand-movements and arms action only; but experience shows the value of the exercise. (Ex. 17.) On the word 'Ready the student assumes the starting position as given above, then, on 'Handstroke Check!' he raises his hands a few inches from the fully down position, and when approaching chest level he removes upper hand from rope-end and immediately closes its fingers and brings it on top of the lower hand which is still holding the (rising) rope-end. With hands together thus they rise alongside the (stationary) sally to the full 'reach-up' position, where they pause. The exercise is repeated several times, by giving the order 'Ready' again, followed by 'Handstroke Check!'. Emphasise that on a live rope the hands must be lifted by it, i.e., they restrain it slightly until the proper check at the top of the stroke, so as to 'keep a tight rope.' But the main point of the exercise is the practice of grip transfer motion. of the upper hand, and the vertical rise action.

81. The Drill Cycle-Tutor now takes chair again, in front of student who has taken position, etc., again, and stands on it, holding the rope about two feet above the point of rope-end grip. Student takes the correct rope-end grip in his lower hand and then takes sally grip with both hands. (Ex. 18.) Tutor checks for faults. Then gives orders to take student through the whole cycle, as in Exs. 14, 15, 16 and 17, just taught. This is repeated, as are all exercises, at least ten times (some need more repetition), and by this time the student will be found to have a fair idea of the grips and motions required for ringing. And he will have this at his command, before he even touches a 'live ' rope, i.e., one of a raised bell.
82. The 'Tail-end.' - The student is now ready to learn the four strokes on a 'live 'rope taken singly in sequence: and he will have acquired confidence in his Tutor and in himself, which, together with his knowledge that in emergency he will get the drill ' Release.' will enable him to acquire control of his bell quickly and surely. Experience has proved this to be so. (D) But there is yet another aid to safe and rapid progress. It is the employment of the "Tail-end.' a short length of rope (colloquially the "rat-tail "-see Article 8) about 18" in length, folded in half and held. loop uppermost, instead of the real rope-end. Referring to the ' 4 stroke cycle' as put on the blackboard as in Article 66, the Tutor will recall that there are two strokes. Nos. 3 and 2 (taken in cyclic order), in which the two parts of a rope are held at once. i.e., Handstroke Pull and Handstroke Check (the strokes 4 and 1-Backstroke Check and Backstroke Pull, intervening). He explains that these two strokes 'at hand ' will be taught first, with the tail-end held instead of the ropeend, which he himself will take. He will also 'overcatch' the student's strokes at hand. so that the whole action is under his control. Student therefore takes the tail-end and gets into the ready position as at the end of Ex. 16 (Article 79), i.c., as holding the rope-end with arms straight and hands right down at bottom of stroke. (But, first, a demonstration.) (Q T)
83. Handstroke Pull (Live). (D) The requisite number of bells (silenced) having been raised by the tutors and set at hand, two Tutors first demonstrate the exercise on one bell, one acting as pupil. (Ex. 19.) All preliminary orders are given, from 'Take position' up to 'Grip the sally. Then comes 'On to the balance,' when the pupil gently eases the bell off the set position on to the balance, then 'Back to set.' Repeat three times. If bell comes off balance, 'pupil carries on through with grip on sally exactly as in Ex. 14 (Article 77), separating hands at bottom of stroke and at once gripping tail-end with upper hand as well. Tutor takes the backstroke-check stroke, also the backstroke pull, and the handstroke check, setting the bell at hand. The "pupil" now retires and each raised bell takes a Tutor and a student for this exercise.

84. Handstroke Check (Live). (D) (Ex. 20.) As for Ex. 19 so again here the Tutor and an assistant demonstrate the stroke; but if no assistant be available, then the Tutor-in-charge will demonstrate on a bell set at back. Before he pulls off at the backstroke pull, he explains that the student stands ready as at the end of Ex. 19 , with tail-end in both hands held right down with arms straight. (S) (D) As the Tutor pulls off the student looks straight ahead and as soon as the sally passes down before his face, his hands separate on the tailend and grasp the sally as it starts on its way up again, holding it in both hand with fingers and thumbs right round it as in Ex. 17, and with the tail-end clasped against the sally. Emphasis is laid on catching sally at a sufficiently high-up point to give the ringer the 'stretch ' which gives control and safeguards the stay. N.B.-Stop any tendency to "sally-slip."
85. Handstrokes-Pull and Check-combined (Live). (D) (Ex. 21.) First demonstrate this combination of Exs. 19 and 20. The student still uses the tail-end. The Tutor takes the intervening strokes of Backstroke Check and Backstroke Pull, also overcatches the student on the Handstroke Check, up to the point of balance. where he allows the student to hold the bell for a moment, before he (the student) pulls it off, on his own, again. (Q T) Repeat till proficient or to 20 strokes. (Start with Balance.)
86. Backstrokes-Pull and Check-combined (Live). (Ex. 22.) The student now abandons the tail-end and takes the rope-end for this combined exercise, the Tutor having first set the bell up at back. Student goes through all preliminary orders as for the previous exercises up to the 'Reach-up,' which is most important here, so as to attain control as at end of Article 84 above. (D) To advance the work in confidence, the Tutor takes both sally strokes, leaving the rope-end strokes to the student, who will find these strokes comparatively easy after the sally strokes just learnt, and will thus have more confidence in the next exercise, where all four strokes are combined for the first time. So student pulls off from the back-set. Tutor watching for faults and catching at sally and pulling off again, with student checking at back and pulling of again. Tutor must watch for faults, including ' hand-raising,' which pupils often do instead of allowing the rope-end to pull the hands up. right from the bottom position. (Q)
87. The 4-Stroke Cycle complete. (Ex. 23.) The student is now ready to take all four strokes. These will be taken in the order of the first analysis of strike action (Article 66) which began with Backstroke Pull. In other words, as in all previous exercises, there is continuity with the last. Besides, there is additional safety in the reach-up to get the correct grip-point at the rope-end. All preliminary drill orders should be given, including 'On to the Balance'; the importance of which is soon seen in the way the studeat will begin, quite early, to balance his bell. The position and attitude of alertness of the Tutor in this exercise is of highest importance. He stands with his back to the centre of the rope-circle, i.e., immediately facing his student. who now has the rope entirely. But the Tutor, at first, overcatches every check-stroke. So that if the student is 'right-handed,' i.e., his right hand is used as the 'upper' hand and his left as the 'lower,' then since the Tutor's right hand will be opposite the student's left, it will therefore be used to overcatch the rope-end at the Backstroke check. Similarly the Tutor's left hand will be used to overcatch the sally at Handstroke check. Of course, if the student is ringing ' left-handedly,' i.e., on the alternate hand, then the Tutor's hands will be oppositely employed in the overcatching. As soon as the Tutor feels the student to be getting the right (Continued foot of next column.)

OBITUARY

WILFRED LAURENCE GOODACRE

We regret to record the death of Mr. Wilfred L. Goodacre, of Great Dalby, Leicestershire, which occurred at Melton Mowbray Hospital on September 13th. Born at Tilton-on-the-Hill, Leicestershire, in July, 1900, he went to Great Dalby in 1921 and learned to ring at St. Swithin's Church about 1925. He was a good churchman and a regular service ringer. He was elected a member of the Goscote Society of Change Ringers in 1927, Midland Counties Association in 1944, and the Leicester Diocesan Guild in 1946. He had rung in seven peals for the Leicester Diocesan Guild.

Mr . Goodacre was laid to rest on September 24th at a spot near the belfry door. The captain of the ringers, Mr. H. T. Bonshor, and two of his fellow ringers and Mr. J. H. Cook (representing the Melton District of the Leicester Guild) were present. During the evening the bells were rung half-muffled as a tribute to his memory by the ringers of the District. A wreath in the form of a bell with a broken clapper was sent by the ringers.

MANUAL-Continued

amount of pull-off to take the bell just up to balance point each time, he can reduce his overcatching to a mere token movement, keeping alert, nevertheless, for any overpulling (If there be more than, say, two students per Tutor, then the next student should be called in after about 20 pulls.)
(Q T)
88. Faults and Questions.-During all exercises the students not actually exercising will have been directed to watch carefully and to interject 'Fault !' if and when they spot any, even though the Tutor be correcting such fault. In this way much valuable learning is attained, as experience shows. In succeeding lessons, while students are gaining experience in bellcontrol, by repetitive and rather monotonous pulling action, those not actually on a rope will be occupied in useful practice in such exercises as tone recognition and 'blow-placing,' to be explained later by the Tutor. As usual, the last few minutes of the session are to be occupied in questioning of and by the students. (Q T)
Finally-registration and announcement of the work for next session.
(Lower raised bellis, remove silencers and clock ON.)

EDWIN HOPKINSON

On September 3rd, while following his employment with the North East Derbyshire Water Board, Mr. Edwin Hopkinson, of Ashover, was killed instantly when a large water tank on which he was carrying out repairs collapsed.
'Eddie' started to ring at All Saints', Ashover, in 1925 at the age of 16, and rang a number of prals for the old Midland Counties Association. After service with the Armed Forces in the Far East, 1940-45, he returned to find (as in many other belfries) the old band broken up and very little interest in the village to get the bells rung for Sunday services. He was elected to take charge of ringing and care of bells, and with the help of several other experienced ringers in the district a fresh start was made.
During more recent years an all-local band was formed consisting of new entrants to the art and several of the older band.
Deceased took part in a few peals for the Derbyshire Association and rang his last peal in 1948. He was laid to rest at Ashover. Ringers paying their last respects were present from Chesterfield, Burbage, Darley Dale & Ashover.
During the early evening muffled ringing took place on the bells of the Parish Church of All Saints: a special half-muffled 720 was rung to mark this sad occasion.

SIDNEY MACEY

By the death of Mr. Sidney Macey on Saturday, September 15 th, Salisbury has lost not only one of the finest ringers but one of the oldest ringers in this district. Some years ago I had the pleasure of collecting some of his peals which he had rung for the Salisbury Diocesan Guild. I notice his first peal was rung in 1894. Sidney, as you know, was a great friend of W. W. Gifford, whom a great many of the College Youths will remember. Among the peals, of which I have 60 in all, I cannot help noticing some of the outstanding conductors with whom Sidney had the pleasure of ringing some of his peals, such as A. W. Barkas, W. Wise, J. W. Washbrook, and many others. These, to my mind, have been a credit to him.
Sidney's illness was short, somewhere about seven weeks. The funeral took place on September 19th at Devizes Road Cemetery. The list of his peals is as follows: Grandsire Triples 28. Stedman Triples 18, Bob Major 11. Double. Norwich 2, Superlative 1.

CHANGE AND DECAY

THESE words were in our minds as we approached the church, standing in the middle of what had once been an upper middle class square; one could imagine the families that once lived here, each with carriage and pair and all making their way to a crowded church, with the servants sitting in the galleries above, and the bells sounding a welcome to all.

Alas, reality was a shock: portions of the fabric were crashed from roof to ground level and an aura of decay pervaded the square, the rain teemed down, damping even the enthusiasm of the pigeons, who had for years held undisputed sway in the tower.

The bells, a ring of eight (tenor 19 cwt .), have been mute for many years; even the inevitable chiming rope hanging in the porch did not provoke an answering ring. Plaster and dust descended in a cloud. The way up into the ringing room was of the wooden stair variety that one finds in classical churches. An empty room, on the left, had a copy of 'The Humorist,' 1934, on the floor, the only sign that someone had come this way before.

We entered the ringing room. What a scene of desolation! Dust lay inches thick everywhere. One of two sallies lay on the floor. An Ellacombe clavier, with three immovable ropes, stood pathetically in the corner. Several peal boards graced the walls, too high to read; one, lower down, stated that the Society of College Youths rang a peal of Double Norwich here in 1848. Several names, such as Cooter, Haley and Mash, were evident.

The windows came down to the floors of the ringing room. The one on the church side had not an unbroken pane of glass in its entire length. Looking through, one saw the church interior, the wet. stained ceiling, laths showing where the plaster had fallen, the dust covered galleries and the silent organ. The main body of the church was unused and a small chapel under one of the galleries was adapted as the only usable part of the building.

We climbed up to the clock chamber. After our eyes became used to the gloom we could see the clock. How many years since it ran? We had no means of finding out. but there it stood, pathetic and abandoned. The sound of the wind and the dripping of the rain, which was teeming outside, intensified the sense of gloom, and one felt a feeling of extreme sorrow that such things could be. I reflected that some must have loved this place once and now they are dust. I offered a silent prayer that such things should never happen in my own well-appointed belfry. The feeling persisted that once this must have been somebody's pride many years ago.

Climbing higher, we discovered the bells were in two tiers, the wheels were decayed and broken and the bearings quite rusted. A fragment of rope was fastened to the spokes of some of the wheels. What hands had been the last to fasten these ropes, I wondered.
Ropes were attached to the clappers which led by tortuous routes to the clavier below, and most of the pulleys were rusted solid. A board in the church informed us that the chiming apparatus was installed in 1936 in someone's memory; how short are our memories! The topmost tier of bells lay just below the louvres, several pigeon's nests lay on the frame and one actually on the stock of a bell. The rain dripped remorselessly down. Climbing down, I struck the tenor - it sounded a muffled boom. The startled pigeons wheeled about above us.

We made our way to the street, leaving the tower to the birds and maybe the ghosts of the stalwarts of old, who had once performed there the art which we are proud to carry on to-day. The tower I have described shall be nameless as it is typical of many in London which I have visited, and when we hear of electronic bells, records and ringing machines, perhaps we should bear this in mind.

The rain teemed down. . . .
E. J. R.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Thirty members attended the monthly meeting of the Beverley and District Ringing Society held at All Saints' Church, Pocklington, on September 8 th.

The bells were raised and rung to methods from Rounds to Stedman and Kent Treble Bob until time for the service at 4.30 p.m. The Curate (Rev. A. J. Millward) conducted the service, and welcomed the Society to Pocklington. An apology for absence was read from the Vicar, Canon Richardson, who unfortunately was on an out-of-town engagement

Tea was taken in the Church Hall and was provided and served by the wives and mothers of the local ringers, maintaining all the traditions of good teas at Pocklington. The business meeting followed. with the president, Mr. A. E. Sellers, in the chair, and afterwards ringers returned to the tower for further ringing until time to cease the bells, bringing to a close another successful meeting.

HALIFAX ASSOCIATION

Ringing Competition Marred

The quarterly meeting and six-bell contest of the Halifax Association was held at Ripponden on September 22nd. Five teams entered, and some very good ringing gave the judge, Mr. Harry Nutt, a stiff task.

Two unfortunate occurrences cropped up that were not catered for in the competition rules, namely, a rope slipped the wheel during team No. 4's attempt and they had to stand.

A hastily-summoned committee of one representative from the four other teams competing and the referce in the tower, decided that the team must not recommence the test piece, but have one-seventh of the faults found by the judge added to their total.

The second incident happened whilst the last team was ringing, when a total stranger climbed the stairs to the ringing chamber and so upset the team that they broke down and could not be persuaded to start their test piece again.

The judge gave his decision as follows:Friezland 37 faults. Sandal 44, Liversedge 33, Meltham 37. Shelley 20. Liversedge were therefore the winners.

During the business meeting suggestions were put forward to try and eliminate the unfortunate things that had happened, one being that an executive committee be formed at the time of the draw and the other that a doorkeeper be appointed.
Votes of thanks to the Vicar and churchwarden for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Frank Rhodes for all the work undertaken by him in arranging the teas and for the comfort of all present, were passed with the full approval of the meeting.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH

Monmouth Branch at Caldicot

The Monmouth Branch meeting, held at Caldicot on September 22nd, was most enjoyable. Although the attendance was not as high as formerly, the majority were young people, and the Master, Mr. J. Alsop, saw that there was plenty of ringing for all.
The Rev. Rhys Morris, Vicar of Caldicot, and a member of the Association, welcomed everyone to the church and later conducted the service. An excellent tea was prepared in the church hall by Mrs. Hooper and her helpers.

The Rev. Rhys Morris kindly took the chair at the business meeting, and this proved to be agreeably short. Mr. J. Sims reported that half the sum necessary had been received for the restoration of Chepstow bells. Masters Colin Dodd and Roger Gale were elected new members from Caldicot, and Ronald Trigg and Michael McLoughlin from All Saints', Newport.

Magor was suggested as the place of the next meeting, with Shirenewton and Machen as alternatives.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

A meeting of the Northern District was held at Backway on September 22nd. Ringing commenced at 3.30 , after a wedding. Tea was provided by Mrs. Gulham at the Three Horseshoes, which was followed by the business meeting in church, with Mr. J. Dean in the chair. The next meeting will be held at Codicote on October 27th, Beverley being the special method chosen.

The day was fine and the ringing above meeting standard, which included some good courses of Yorkshire Surprise. | John Taylor & Co. |

Ringers in Bournemouth and district lose a very good friend by the consecration of Canon A. L. E. Williams. M.A., as Bishop of Bermuda. A lover of bells, Bishop Williams, while vicar of Kirby Whiske, Yorks, gave two bells to augment the ring there. At Banbury, although the Vicarage was close to the church and the bells somewhat noisy, he freely gave permission to ring.

During his ten years' incumbency at Bournemouth visitors knew well of his cordial welcome and charming speeches at the Bournemouth dinner. There was only one condition he imposed on peal attempts at St. Peter's the provision of 'Davis' silencers. Local ringers could not allow the soft pedal to be applied on September 22 nd when ringing a peal in honour of the new Bishop.
The many friends of Mr. D. Smith, secretary of the Barnsley and District Society, and vicepresident of the Southern District of the Yorkshire Association, will be sorry to hear that he is at present a patient in Pinderfields Hospital, Wakefield.
In an accident at work he sustained serious leg injuries, which are likely to keep him out of action for a considerable time. We all wish him the quickest possible return to normal health and activity.
Miss Powell (for whom a quarter peal was rung at Bedwellty on September 14th) has now left Bedwellty to take up an appointment in Southampton. Before she left, she was presented with a copy of Mr. Ernest Morris's book 'Towers and Bells of Britain,' which was signed by the local ringers, and a leather-bound Bible, which was presented to her by the Rector and churchwardens of Bedwellty. The ringers will miss her very much at Bedwellty, but hope she will be very happy at Southampton.

BELFRY GOSSIP

has obtained permission to in spect, and if necessary over towers alleged ring of bells in one of the位s of the Church of Sancisco e Grande. Madrid. His present information is that there are nine bells, some at least hung for ringing, and are all from the foundry of John Warner and Sons. Birmingham. A report on these bells from Mr. Clouston will be be read with interest.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow dedicated Carlton Colville bells on September 19th.

Mr. Ralph G. Edwards is now in Birmingham. We expect to see his name among St. fradrtin's Guild peals during the coming winter.
Photographs of the veterans' gathering may be obtained from Mr. A. Deal, 118, Sarsfield Road, S.W.12. Prices: 'All in' 2s. 6d., separate tables 1s. 6d.

Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis reminds the Cumberland and Westmorland tourists that a peal of London Surprise Major was rung at Crosthwaite, Keswick, on July 8th, 1950, conducted by the late Dr. J. C. E. Simpson. This peal was rung for the Lancashire Association.
A stalwart of the St. Michael's with St. Paul's band, Bath, M5. Leslic W. Moses is leaving Bath to take up a new appointment as a district superintendent with an insurance company at Launceston. He has the good wishes of the band. who rang a farewell quarter on September 23 rd.

The bells of All Saints', North Ferriby, Yorks, whic! have been silent since the war except for Ellacombe chimes, will shortly be heard again. Through the initiative of the organist, Mr. Gambie, a band of recruits and others has been collected, and they are being taught by the K.irkella ringers.

THE WHITECHAPEL BELL FOUNDRY

A DERBYSHIRE

IN a county containing ancient and historic churches, mansions and buildings; agricultural, grazing, heath, forest and park land; hills and lovely dales; countless streams, waterfalls, also lakes and reservoirs; stone quarries, pit head of deep coal mines and open-cast coal mining; industry of various kinds; few straight and level roads; and above all, homely and most friendly people, the ${ }^{\circ}$ annual tour, organised by Mr. T. J. Lock, took place during the first week in Scptember. The members of the party spent an energetic and altogether pleasant and successful time, 18 peals bcing scored out of 25 attempts. One sad story must however be related in the fact that the day following our first visit to Ashover Church for service ringing and meeting. Eddie Hopkinson, the local captain, our newly-formed friend, was involved in a fatal accident at his work.
After some old friends had been collected in London, the main party left Hertfordshire in the usual coach, and as the route took us through Bedford our first halt wâs in the Broadway, where we were able to exchange greetings with Eddie and Kath Jeffries, who unfortunately were not able to join us this time. The Derby district was our first objective as regards ringing, and the programme opened with attempts for peals of Yorkshire-Royal at Derby Cathedral and Major at West Hallam. At the former tower the attempt was lost after 2 hours 20 minutes, but at the latter tower number one success was achieved, which proved to be a favourable 'turning course 'for the conductor, Roland Park, who had just arrived from Darlington with his brother Nofman.
The journey to headquarters could not have been a happy one for our driver. Albert Lawrence, for it became known that of the approaches to Ashover, one was not so good as the others, and tricky to negotiate after dark. We were well received at the Ashover Country Hotel, and enjoyed an excellent evening meal and a comfortable bed. Ashover is situated in the peaceful countryside four miles north of Matlock, and we learned that the parish is the second largest in England, being 10,000 acres in extent, with a boundary of 22 miles, and the Vicar has no curate. The present church was built in the 14th century, but contains a lead font, date 1151 , a 13 th century wooden door. and a 400 -years-old chancel screen.

The first day of residence. Sunday, was the wettest, but after a dutiful morning we set sail (almost) for a hurriedly convened meeting at Macclesfield. Through the good offices of John Worth and the other local captains we were welcomed to assist or join in service ringing at the three towers in the town-SI. Michael's (12). Christ Church (10) and St. Peter's (8). The journcy involved crossing the Pennine Range, which for the most part was shrouded in mist, but we did see, without close inspection, the - Cat and Fiddle, 'inn, 1.690 feet above sea level, being situated higher than any other in the country.

RINGING BETWEEN CHOIR STALLS
On Monday we left for Duffield. where a peal of Cambridge Royal was rung, and Derby. St. Peter's, where an extent of Rulland was brought round for the first time on these bells. In the afternoon an attempt for Melbourne Surprise at Melbourne was stopped prematurely after 40 minutes owing to the temporary indisposition of one of the band. Here the ringing takes place between the choir stalls, the front two of which were removed for our convenience. One of the strange meetings of life occurred in this church. for as we were pulling up the bells a reverend gentleman approached us with an air of interest. After a few words in exchange we knew him to be the Rev. W. H. Bishon. of West Didsbury, near Manchester. who 14 vears ago officiated at the marriage of a brother of one of our party.

RINGING WEEK
The fourth peal attempt of the day was made at Derby, St. Luke's, where success was gained by what must be one of the best heavy-bell bands in the country-at any rate the ringing was such that George was proud of the tenor ringer who, we understand. may have moved to Birmingham for his own betterment and experience at turning in the big bells. Ralph made it quite clear that after this performance George should, and probably would, invite him in a few peal attempts in Brum during the coming winter.
Owing to the geographical nature of the county, and a refusal, three attempts were scheduled for Tuesday, but Ron Bullen made a fourth attempt possible by taking a band to Darley Dale, his home tower. Yorkshire was, however, lost after $1 \frac{1}{7}$ hours. A second band went to Crich, situated on very high ground and 'miles from anywhere,' but Spliced Surprise Major in six methods was brought round. Of interest at Crich is the fact that the Vicar, Rev J. W. E. Brown, is an acquaintance of Rev. A. S. Roberts, of Carbis Bay: the church organ, installed by a well-known trust, is valued at $£ 12.000$ : and nearby is a memorial, in the form of a beacon, to past members of the Sherwood Foresters, to which present members pay an annual pilgrimage.
The remainder of the party crossed the county boundary to enjoy a short ring at Sutton-inAshfield (8) and then back again to ring at All Saints'. Ripley (8). The two remaining peal attempts for the day were both of London, at Heanor and Ilkeston. We had the pleasure of including some friends in these efforts. but two from Derby, Denis Carlisle and Gordon Halls, were unfortunate in that the attempt in which they took part was lost through no fault of theirs after 2 hours 10 minutes. It was also hard luck for Dennis Knox. who would have liked success on this occasion, his last attempt before he left the party to return home to take the plunge. Better fortunes. Dennis! Success was registered at llkeston. and the report clsewhere will identify the three from Leicestershire who met us for this occasion. In the meantime, Long Eaton (8) bells were made available for an hour's ring Should anyone be interested to see some simple mechanism which. operated from the ringing chamber, can turn the clapper of a bell pulled up wrong, they are advised to visit llkeston

MEMORIES OF CRESWELL

The following day we changed our way out from Ashover and proceeded in an easterly direction to Bolsover and Creswell At the former tower Bristol had to be abandoned after 2 hours' ringing. and at the latter tower less than two courses of Hallam were completce, and it was decided to substitute with Superlative. The spare ringers were afforded a ring at Clowne (6). where the welcome included lunch in the Mission Room, served by bell-ringing members of the G.F.S. At Creswell Church is a memorial window to those who lost their lives in the 1950 mining disaster. The design incorporates miners at work. overshadowed by the Elmton elm tree. which was struck by lightning shortly before the colliery disaster and was at the time said to be a bad omen. Elmton is a nearhy village and comes under the care of the parish of Creswell. Cambridge was the method for the afternoonRoyal at Chesterficld and Major at North Wing-field-and both were successful. We were pleased that the Rev. G. Gordon Graham was able to take a rope in the North Wingfield peal. On our return to headquarters we found that Andrew Sinfield and Ron Sharp had arrived according to schedule.
Thursday was a day of travel as well as ringing. a day when we were at the heart of the Peak District and. but for the weather, could have climbed to the summit of Kinder Scout. We did. however, visit • fields '-Fairfield and Hayfield-where extents of Rutland and Superlative respectively were accomplished. Whilst our lunch was digesting. Albert guided us through some lovely countryside, past Castleton Caves to Hope, where two quartets alighted full of it; and why not, for they brought into rounds a peal of Spliced Surprise without a hitch. The coach journey on through Snake Pass, 1,680 feet above sea level at its highest point, and down into Old Glossop, where unfortunately a defective rope caused a halt to the attempt for a peal of Yorkshire after 1 hour 5 minutes. For anyone with initiative plus, we record that there are two motor cars lying deep down in the valley by the side of the Pass waiting to be recovered and probably refuelled. The 'Band of Hope' was collected and taken to Glossop, where they enjoyed participating with the local band for the carly part of their practice. We were 50 miles from home, at which we eventually arrived very late (by arrangement), but an excellent cold spread was waiting. We were so rejuvenated that some of the men as well as the ladies assisted the hotel staff to wash up.
The programme for the next day was Derby Surprise at Darley Dale and New Cambridge at Bakewell, Bristol at Matlock and Spliced at Wirksworth. For the third time on this tour a local named method proved elusive, and as the records show a peal of Yorkshire was substituted. New Cambridge was not attempted at the second named tower as the conductor also was switched. so we scored with another peal of Yorkshire. In the afternoon Bristol was rung at Matlock, this being the 50th in the method for William Beeson; but four methods spliced was abandoned at Wirksworth after two attempts lasting about an hour.

THREE PEALS ON LAST DAY

We drove northwards on the last day, and once again into a neighbouring county. from where, it is said, good ringers as well as good cricketers come. Fate, however. denied us a peal attempt in Yorkshire as owing to a broken clapper at St. Maric's, Sheffield, we could make no other arrangement. Three peals were recorded for the day-Lincolnshire at Dronfield, Surprise Minor at Killamarsh-with which the local ringers as well as the tourists were most pleased-and Superlative at Dore. Two of these peals were chosen to record our regards for Dennis Knox, and we collectively wished him and his bride what other people wished us when we were, in a similar plight. Three fresh personalities otherwise came into the tour, for during the morning when we were able, through the kindness of Mr. Parr. of Killamarsh. to ring on the octave at Eckington, a non-ringing gentleman was met who was a workmate of the late Arthur Craven. the well-known composer. Then at Dore we were glad to accommodate Cyril Wright, of Bolsover, in the peal band, whilst in the ringing chamber there was clear evidence that J. E. L. Cockey, now emigrated to Canada. was a churchwarden and an active member of the local band

This was our peal ringing programme completed during which time the usual high standard of striking was maintained. and one wellknown ringer had recorded another century of peals, though too modest to set his claim. Handbells were available, hut owing to the full programme, were little used, and the augmented choir seemed non-existent this year. being incomplete without the usual contralto.
On Sunday we look leave of headquarters and the hotel staff, with the main intention of arriving at our permanent homes in good time. We were. however. favoured with collecting another tower, as after we had stopped for lunch at Market Harborough, the hells of the parish church started ringing for a wedding, and the members of the local band kindly allowed us to extend the ringing with some short touches.
So we rang in a total of 34 towers during a thoroughly enjoyable week. and would like to record here our thanks to incumbents, captains, and other ringers and friends who so kindly contributed their share in our interests.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Meeting at Ripon

THE September general mecting of the Association took place at Ripon Cathedral on September 15 th, favoured by excellent weather and a satisfactory attendance of members and friends representative of each of the four districts. The fine ring of ten bells was put to good use shortly after 2 p.m., and further use was made of the ring of eight at the neighbouring tower at Sharow.
Due to the fact that the racing authorities had allotted an extra day's racing, difficulty was experienced in arranging a tea, but a switch in the time overcame this.

The business meeting took place at 5.45 p.m. at the Y.M.C.A. Mr. E. Hudson was voted to the chair for the first part of the proceedings in the unavoidable absence of the president, who was officially taking part in the Cathedral ceremony for the reopening of the Chapter House after restoration. Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. S. F. Palmer, F. W. Dale, H. S. Morlcy. J. J. L. Gilbert, N. Chaddock, W. Barton. J. Pearson, P. Birkett and D. Smith

It was unanimously agreed to hold the next meeting at Wakefield on January 19th. 1957, if the necessary arrangements could be made, with Pontefract as an alternative, on the proposition of Mr. W. F. Moreton, seconded by Mr. W. E. Critchley.

At this point the president, Archdeacon C. O. Ellison. returned, and took over the chair, thanking Mr. Hudson for deputising for him. He (the president) moved a hearly vote of thanks to the Dean and Chapter for the use of the bells and for his kind welcome to Ripon. This was seconded by Mr. P. J. Johnson and carried with applause. The Dean of Ripon, the Very Rev. F. Ll. Hughes, in reply said how pleased he was to have this opportunity of meeting the ringers. The ringing of bells was traditionally British, and the various uses of the bells was the gateway to the souls of people. When the bells rang out again after the war they truly reflected English thought and emotion

A similar vote of thanks to the local company for their excellent arrangements was moved by the general secretary, who said he was gratified to see so many present, as the problem of distance was always a potent factor with general meetings in the Northern District. To many, Ripon was off the beaten track in this respect. and he congratulated the local company, and in particular Mr. E. Hudson, upon the excellent arrangements made. Mrs. L. K. Marshall seconded, and this was carried with acclamation The president reminded members that the Snowdon Dinner was to take place at the Windmill Hotel. York, on October 20th, and that the Archbishop of York, Dr. A. M. Ramsey, had kindly accepted an invitation to attend. Ac commodation was limited to 100 , and early application for tickets was advised.

Miss V. Gillian Schofield, of Bradford, was elected a member, and Mr. A. Capstick a nonresident member.

The president referred to the passing of Mr. Walter Bailey, of Skipton, who joined the Association in 1894 and had taken part in eight peals. As a tribute of respect, the meeting stood in silence

A vote of thanks to the Y.M.C.A. authorities for the use of the room was moved by Mr. H. Lofthouse, seconded by Mr. G. Benfield, and carried unanimously. Mr. E. Hudson humorously acknowledged the vote of thanks by announcing he was vice-president, and would convey their thanks to the committee, who did not as yet know they had given permission! This concluded the business and members were then able to enjoy further ringing until 9 p.m.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Some good ringing was enjoyed at a quarterly meeting of the Southern District held at Limpsfield Chart and Limpsfield on September 15th The weather could not be regarded as brilliant. but did not account for a rather poor attendance, especially from the district. However the rather isolated nature of 'The Chart' may have deterred some members.

Ringing was from 3.30 to $4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. at Limpsfield Chart, followed by tea at the Carpenters Arms. A brief business meeting followed, which seemed more subdued than on previous occasions. Was this because a certain gentleman (who shall remain anonymous) was not with us?
When the meeting adjourned to the church for the service, the ringers on arriving at the belfry were personally greeted by the Rev. S. Linton. priest-in-charge. who conducted the service. He afterwards showed the company some features of the church. which although only 62 years old has many points of interest.

Ringing afterwards took place at Limpsfield Parish Church. It is hoped that the district will be well represented tomorrow (Saturday) at Crawley, when a joint mecting with the Northern Disrict of the Sussex Association will be held.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

Bellringing - Aid to Longevity

The monthly meeting of the Crewe Branch was held at Christ Church. Alsager (always a happy rendezvous for Cheshire and Staffordshire ringers), and attracted more than 30 ringers, representing 11 towers, including a visitor from Perth.
Longevity is very prevalent amongst ringers, due, no doubt, to its healthy exercise and good happy company. Two veterans were present on September 22nd-Mr. George Whalley, Alsager and Mr. John Wheadon, Wilmslow, both over 84 years of age, having given between them over 100 years of service to Sunday service ringing Another interested and welcome visitor was Mr. G. Parkes, bell-hanger representative of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who had been looking over Liverpool Cathedral bells. Also present, though not yet ringing again, after his wonderful recovery from a broken neck, was Mr. Arthur Yorke, tower captain at Alsager--The Thrce "Minor" Musketeers" from the Bowdon Branch also received a cordial welcome.

The bells were raised at 3 o'clock and kept going till 4.30, when the Guild Office was said by the Vicar, the Rev. W. Gwynne John, former vicar of Christ Church, Crewe, who welcomed the ringers; after which, tea was served in the schools.

At the short business meeting. Mr. Derek Smith. Wistaston, in the absence of Mr. Wilfred Kerr (hon. secretary), on holiday, proposed an omnibus vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of his bells, his address and welcome; Mr. Holloway, one of the ringers, for deputising at the organ; those responsible for the tea; and the Vicar's wife, Mrs. John, and her helpers who served tea.
Mr. W. Frank Stenson, in seconding the vote of thanks, congratulated the Vicar on Alsager's enterprise. The station staff had won first prize in the Stoke section for the best kept station, and the Vicar had been elected chairman of the newly-formed gramophone club. Mr. Stenson mentioned he had a 'ringing ' record, dedicated and presented to him by a famous band of ringers who had visited Alsager and Church Lawton some time ago. He, however, 'put his foot in it' when he said it was 'only Minor, meaning the method; the "Three "Minor" Musketeers,' who are not only Minor 'fans,' but experts, soon wanted to know why 'only' Minor. However, notwithstanding, some good touches of Minor were rung and enjoyed, also Doubles. Triples and Major.

THE OLD BRIGADE assembled at the Fan Makers' Hall, Bishopsgate, on Sept. 15th for their second annual reunion. The average age of the company was 711 years. For story of the reunion see last week's issue of © The Ringing World.'

LUNDY ISLAND BELLS

Dear Sir,--An extract from a recent local news feature may be of interest to readers:

The bells of St. Helena's Church, Lundy Island, were heard this week probably for the last time. On the occasion of the harvest thanksgiving a local inhabitant chimed seven of the octave, which is in a very bad state of repair. To mark the occasion, decorations included local mushrooms and fleece from sheep grazed on the Island. For maximum attendance the Island's public house was closed as the total population numbers only a few!
The bells have not been rung for many years and are no longer safe to hang in the tower, salt air having almost rusted through the iron work. The vicar (resident at Appledore on the mainland) informs us that no date has yet been fixed for their removal.-Yours faithfully,
H. MALLETT.

Exeter.

COMPOSITIONS OF STEDMAN CATERS AND CINQUES WANTED

Dear Sir.-Now that the Central Council has agreed to publish a collection of peals of Stedman Caters and Cinques, it is desirable that the committee responsible should see as many compositions as possible with a view to inclusion. It is intended that the collection shall be as comprehensive as possible, and include peals by many composers and on all possible plans.

May I therefore appeal to all those who have compositions in their possession-particularly those of composers who are no longer livingto forward them to Mr. C. W. Roberts, 5, Monkswood Avenue, Waltham Abbey, Essex, who will return all composers' books, etc., after inspection as required. If the response to this appeal is as good as I hope, it will clearly not be possible to publish all compositions sent; but the more material we have to select from, the better.-Yours, etc.,

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

Meeting at Tenby

A quarterly meeting of the St. David's Guild was held at Tenby on September 8th. The bells were available to the ringers from 2 p.m., and although the weather was not too kind, it did not prevent ringers from all parts of the diocese attending the meeting. It was also very pleasing to see so many visiting ringers present, and a very special welcome was accorded to Miss Wyman. from Sussex.

A service was held at 3.30 p.m.. at which the Vicar, the Rev. Canon J. B. Hallam, officiated. The lesson was read by the Vicar of Steynton, the Rev. W. R. Nicholas. After the service, the members were entertained to a very nice tea at the Church House, where 60 members sat down.

The usual business meeting was held, with the Vicar in the chair. A tribute of respect was paid to the late president, the Lord Bishop of St. David's. who had passed on since the last meeting.
After disposing of the agenda very quickly, it was agreed that the Master of the Guild should read the lesson at future meetings. A very hearty vote of thanks was extended to the Vicar for having the Guild at Tenby, for providing the tea, and to the ladies who waited at tables. not forgetting the organist, Mr. Gwyn Thomas of Tenby, who also is a ringer
The Vicar responded and members then returned to the tower to finish of the meeting. which must have been, as far as ringing was concerned. one of the most' successful meetings for some time.

RINGERS' OUTINGS

CHRIST CHURCH, CREWE

Christ Church, Crewe, ringers in the past have always been favoured with good weather on the occasion of their annual outing. This year was an exception, as on August 11th the ringers, together with friends, visited North Wales in the face of a heavy rainstorm. The route taken was via Marbury, where two more ringers joined us, and thence to Gresford. Despite the dampening effects of the weather, Mr. T. R. Griffiths and Mrs. B. D. Threlfall were waiting to accord us a very cordial welcome, and a most enjoyable hour on the beautiful eight bells of All Saints' Church passed all too quickly.

After having disposed of light refreshments at the Border Cafe we took to the road again, passing through Wrexham, where the rain ceased and the sun favoured us for the attractive run through Llangollen and Bala to Portmadoc. An excellent lunch awaited us at the Royal Sportsman Hotel, and afterwards we adjourned to St. John's Church for an hour's ringing en this very fine eight. We were welcomed by Mr. $P$. Roberts. and during the ringing the Vicar came to the ringing chamber to express his appreciation of our efforts.

The journey was continued along the coast road through Harlech to Barmouth. By this time we werc half-an-hour behind schedule, and our stay at Barmouth was drastically curtailed. Ample compensation was provided, however, by the beauty of the scenery through which we passed as we travelled, by way of Dolgelly, to Welshpool. Dinner had been arranged at the Royal Oak Hotel, and after justice had been done to this ample repast, the homeward journey was commenced. A somewhat lengthy stop was made at Shrewsbury, but everybody eventually found the back back to the coach for the last stage of the journey, during which "The Dean ' regaled us with his annual recitation of 'The 11.69.'
Storm clouds were again threatening when a tired but happy party arrived home at 12.45 a.m. Ringing throughout the day was confined to the standard methods, but a high degree of striking was set.
We are most grateful to the incumbents for their co-operation, the local ringers who welcomed us, and to our ringer-coach-driver, Mr. George Porter, of Wistaston.

GLOUCESTER GUILD OF UNITED CHURCH BELLRINGERS

Members, wives and friends made up the happy party which set out from Gloucester on September 15 th on what was to be an enjoyable and most exciting outing. Gordon Corby's arrangements were excellent.
Touches of Bob Maior, Grandsire Triples and a doubtful touch of Oxford Bob were rung on St. Mary's musical ring at Chipping Norton. A bright young ringer, known affectionately as Tom. found the fair, held in the centre of the town. compared very favourably with ringing, as did his feminine counterparts.
Evervone enjoyed a lovely tea at the Fox Hotel. Chipping Norton. but apologies to the Local Water Undertaking for what must have been a great increase in water consumptiondue to our teatotaller!
On then to St. Andrew's Church, Kingham, for a lighter ring of eight. Ringing followed the same pattern as at Chipping Norton, with a good touch of Bob Major.
At our last tower, Burford, the first surprisingly good touch of Bob Major revealed the Cathedral-like tone of the Parish Church bells. We must record the aptitude of the younger ringers: their ringing at these three towers did great credit to their tutors.
On the wav home a stop was made at Frogmill Inn. Andoversford. Everyone arrived safely in Gloucester.

SOMERTON, SOMERSET
For their outing on Sept. 15, Somerton ringers and friends chose two towers in Somerset and four in East Devon, namely, Buckland St. Mary (6), Kilmington (6), Sidmouth (8), Ottery St. Mary (8). Broadhembury (6) and Pitminster (6), the general favourites being Kilmington and Ottery.
There were plenty of rounds for the learners and several methods were also rung, including Cambridge Surprise Minor and Plain Bob Major.

Things that will be remembered are the beautiful church and bells at Ottery St. Mary, the pretty Devon village of Broadhembury with its wide street and thatched cottages, and its anticlockwise ring of bells, and last, the approach to the ringing chamber at Pitminster-no spiral staircase. just straight steps followed by a rightangled iurn and a slope up. It was at Pitminster, too, as a fitting close to the day's ringing, that the Rector came up into the ringing chamber and led prayers.

Lunch was caten at Sidmouth and tea at Honiton: both were good, and contributed to the day's enjoyment, as also did the weather.
Thanks are due to the incumbents and tower captains for meeting the party and for allowing the use of the bells.

WEDDING OF MISS PAMELA STEERE

The marriage of Miss Pamela M. Steere, only daughter of Mrs. W. M. Steere and the late Mr. G. W. Stecre, and Mr. Peter G. W. Humphries, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Humphries, took place at the Parish Church of St. John-theBaptist, Croydon, on September 22nd.
The bride was given away by her brother, Norman G. Stcere, and was attended by Miss Heather Talbot, both ringers at Croydon. The bride wore a dress of ivory figured brocade, carried red carnations, and was met at the west door by the choir. The bridesmaid was wearing a dress of floral nylon and carried white carnations.
As the bridal couple left the church a touch of Grandsire Caters was rung, and later in the afternoon a peal attempt, in honour of the occasion, took place at St. Mary's, Beddington. Unfortunately, this was unsuccessful.
The reception was held at the King's Arms Hotel, Croydon, where handbells were rung. As the couple left for their honeymoon at Shanklin, Isle of Wight, handbells were rung at the door of the hotel.

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The monthly meeting was held at Royston on September 15th. Owing to the date being one week later than usual because of an unavoidable postponement, the meeting coincided with other meetings that would have supplied it with many members.
Nevertheless, a small but representative gathering enjoyed ringing in a variety of methods. Tea was taken and the business meeting held in the adjoining Church School.
The absence of the secretary through illness necessitated certain important business being deferred. The next meeting will be held at Ecclesfield.

MANUAL OF RINGING TRAINING OF THE COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY

(Copyright by the Governors) PART 1.- 'CATHEDRAL' SYSTEM (Continued from page 621)  SECTION VI. (Lesson 4)  BELL BALANCING  (And introducing Rhythmic Hunting.) (Bells silenced up to four, according to number of students.)

89. Applied Ringing.-The student has now reached a stage when his learning how to gain bell control, through ' bell balancing,' can usefully be supplemented by first steps in 'applied ringing action ; that is to say, by some acquaintance with the main element of method ringing, which is, of course. 'hunting.' Apart from the fact that these supplementary steps will help to maintain interest and promote a more intelligent appreciation of what is being aimed at, they become virtually a necessity of class organisation where the number of students is in excess of, say, 4 or 5 . The reason becomes obvious when it is realised that in the practice of the 4 -stroke cycle to gain bell control the time devoted to each student is necessarily more than for the previous exercises; and while waiting students can be directed to watch participating students for faults, and can learn much thereby at first, yet this can become dull and monotonous for them, and their attention must then be more interestingly occupied. This can be done by the introduction of an exercise known as rhythmic hunting practice, and such introduction must be given to the whole class, and at the opening of the session, in order that those students standing out for bell-practice may know exactly what to do when they return to the rhythmic hunting
(Q T)
90. Basic Change Production. - First state that bells are rung round in the order of the scale of notes, as 'rounds,' until the call ' Go!' into 'changes.' The basis of change production is an element of bell-movement that may be conveniently 'known as a 'transit.' This is the interchange of position of two adjacent bells. Normally all the hells go off into changes by transits on $1 / 2,3 / 4,5 / 6$, etc... thus producing the first change-row. On the blackboard the Tutor now writes, say, four rows of rounds on foun bells, marking the rows as ' H. B, H. B,' to denote the handstroke and backstroke rows. Between the second and third rows he enters 'Go!', explaining that a 'whole-pull' warning of the go-off is always given. (All these markings can be at the side, with arrows or other such indicators.) Then follows the first changerow, 2143. Suitable X's in the row-interval will indicate the two transits that produce this row Now indicate that if this transit procedure be repeated exacily similarly for the next row, we derive the original (rounds) row again. But if the leading unit ' 2 ' is allowed to remain undisturbed and a transit is this time effected in columns $2 / 3$ (also in $4 / 5$, etc.. where there are more bells), we get a new order or row, 2413 . Again. this second arrangement cannot be repeated. so we revert to the first arrangement of transits. yielding 4231 : and so on alternately (S) (D) (writing the rows on the blackboard), until the starting row (rounds) turns up again. (Q) (Note that this occurs in twice the number of units, for 'plain hunting ' only.) But now explain that while ringing it is not necessary to remember how the transits are to be made from row to row (though in a sense the expert ringer and conductor can usefully do so) since the transit action is made to be continuous: so that. step by step, a bell makes its transition from side to side of the group of change rows (or from 'front to back' or from 'lead to lie'), changing position only one column at a time, with no 'jumping over,' and then travelling back again, having struck two blows at the leading and lying positions. Illustrate this by joining up the positions, in successive rows, of any one unit, say, ' 2, ' and noting that the track or path of the bell in movement runs steadily from side to side, one place at a time.
91. Plain Hunting. (S) This is called 'plain hunting,' and in actual practice both ear and eye, especially the former in correct practice, are employed in performing it, as will be explained later, in detail, when opportunity for such practice with other ringers will arise. For the pressatt, it will be taken in the form of a rhythmvariation beat exercise; and it may be noted that a similar mental process is involved in all good method-ringing. But first we learn the meaning of such terms as 'hunting up,' 'hunting down,' 'leading whole pull,' 'lying whole pull,' 'That's all ' and 'Stand.' (Q) (Reference to the blackboard diagram in Article 90 is useful for this.)
92. Hunting by Rhythm.--In rhythmic hunting the rhythm or beat of bell-sound is counted or tapped out (stick on floor gr baton on table or chair, etc.) by the Tutor while the student(s) represent the blow-position of a bell-stroke by a hand-clap at the appropriate count or tap. (The ' Biow-placing ' of Article 88.) At first, all the students will act as though on one 'bell,' i.e., they should (except for any error) clap simultaneously; later they may divide into groups, each group as on a different bell, though this becomes more difficult for the Tutor to check and control. All the normal ringing calls can be used and thus the students get familiar with them in readiness for bell-handling: 'Treble's going,' 'Go, Plain Hunting!', 'That's All,' and 'Stand !'. Reference can be made to the blackboard diagram as in Article 90, where the path of the second in four was marked in and of the second in four was marked in, and students take that bell as theirs to be marked by hand-claps. Tutor will first count aloud the rhythm, moderately slowly, of rounds on four bells (i.e.. at about 24 to the minute, with the open-handstroke pause), and will take breath on each pause after the backstroke count. For 'rounds.' of course, the hand-claps will come on every count of ' 2 nd , since they are on the 2nd bell), so the effect will be thus: 'First, Second, Third, Fourth, First, Second, Third, Fourth' (breath), First., Second, Third, Fourth, First. Second, Third, Fourth' (breath), and so on. (Ex. 24.) The italics represent the positions of the hand-claps, and the breath is taken in the handstroke opening. Ordinal numbers are counted so as to distinguish positions from actual bells. On the order. 'Go, plain hunting!' the effect becomes thus: :First. Second. Third, Fourth, First, Second. Third, Fourth ' (breath). - First, Sccond, Third. Fourth. First, Second, Third, Fourth' (breath), 'First. Second, Third, Fourth, First, Second. Third. Fourth ' (breath), 'First, Second, Third, Fourth, First, Second, Third, Fourth' ' (breath). 'First, Second, Third, Fourth,' (That's all). 'First, Second, Third, Fourth ' (breath and Stand). 'First, Second, Third, Fourth, First, Second. Third, Fourth.; (Ex. 25.) The exercise can be repeated for each of the remaining bells in turn, when counting the beats aloud, by students themselves, may be introduced.

92a. Individual "rhythmic' hunting.-Practice in hunting. individually, may be had at this stage by introducing the use of handbells, one per student, in groups of four. (Ex. 25a.) Apart from the preparation (in handling of the bells) for handbell ringing that may be learnt later. the faculty of rhythmic hunting is further developed. Rounds. in the open handstroke beat, are first practised : then Exercise 25 is taken up, but in modified form. Instead of thehand-clap the bell is swung up and down, in the standard fashion. to represent the handstroke and backstroke respectively; and instead of the whole group marking the bell position from change to change, only one student marks any one bell position: and instead of only one bell's position being marked, all four bell positions are marked simultaneously. Once the students have grasped the idea of what is required, they will be found to pick up the rhythmic hunting fairly quickly. This is uscful practice, too. for the forthcoming exercise-41a.

(Note to Tutor.) It is more helpful if the students can be introduced to this exercise one at a time, more experienced ringers taking the other three handbells. However, if this be not possible, the exercise, as set out, will be found to be quite practicable, in due time.
93. Class routine. - In a sizable class, at this stage, enough has been explained to all for the first students to take their places at the ropes for bell practice. while the rest of the class continue with the rhythmic hunting exercises; but in a class of, say, three or less, such exercises may continue until all bell-positions have been mastered. Later on place-making and its consequential dodging will be explained, and this, too, can then be practised in a similar way. Experience shows that students enjoy these exercises and soon become adept. (Q T) They thus have a fair knowledge of what is to be done when they (having acquired bell-control) begin to operate a bell to the three elements of method ringing.
94. Bell Balancing. (D). (Ex. 26). Meanwhile this all-important practice can proceed from the point reached in Ex. 23-The 4-Stroke Cycle-(Article 87). The silenced bell(s) being raised and set at back, the Tutor will carefully demonstrate the complete stroke-cycle, faultless, and with bell balanced after each check-stroke. and with bell balanced after each check-stroke. He will emphasise, as he rings, the points in turn as taught in all the previous exercises, and will remind the students that each of the indicated faults will be looked for and checked, with a warning that persistent fault-making will set the student back to the appropriate previous exercise. (See close of this Part for the Appendix on "Faults - for both Student and Student-Tutor.) Each student is given the full range of orders from the initial 'Take Position!' -observing Orientation. Proximity and Stance, as taught-to the 'Reach Up!': Grip Ropeend!' (not sally. so as to get the correct ropeend grip). and then 'On to the Balance!" before the final "With balance after check-strokes, Pull!'. The Tutor will take his own position before the student, as in Ex. 23 (Article 87), and be on the alert to overcatch: but will encourage the student to get his bell on to the balance after each check-stroke. It should be held there for about four seconds before it is pulled off again, so as to ensure that it really is under such control: but the stay should not be allowed to make any ' rest contact.'
95. Bell Sefting, - When bell balancing is consistently achieved. then follows the exercise of 'bell setting.' (Ex. 27.) As previously, all preliminary orders are gone through and any faults checked. The bell is pulled off and allowed 10 rise on to the balance, where it is held for a moment. then gently eased over the balance point. on to the stay, and set. When actually set, the grip is released momentarily. then resumed, on order, and the next pull-off is taken. with the same procedure now on the other checkstroke. (So when the exercise is properly performed the bell is duly set after every checkstroke.) As soon as this proficiency has been attained (and not before). the student is told to continue ringing steadily for a few pulls until he gets the order 'Stand!' (given just after the handstroke check and just as the handstroke pull is about to start), when the student will complete the whole pull and set the bell after the next handstroke check. Repeat until certain. (Q T) (Continued next page)

HARRY GRIEVE WAYNE

The Leicester Cathedral band suffered a further grievous loss by the sudden and untimely death of Harry G. Wayne, at the age of 55. He rang for evening service on Sunday, September 23 rd , and took part in a faultess course of Yorkshire Maximus, and when he left he seemed to be his normal cheery self. He died suddenly during the same night, a post-mortem examination showing death to be due to coronary thrombosis. He had always appeared to be in excellent health. The previous weekend he had accompanied the Leicester contingent to Manchester for the annual meeting of the National Police Guild, and afterwards said how much he had enjoyed the day.

He joined the Cathedral band in 1937, shortly after the 12 bells had been installed, and his only previous experience was the ringing of the curfew bell at the church of his native village of Blaby. He started his ringing career somewhat later than is usual, but he was enthusiastic and under the expert tuition at that time available he made such rapid progress that he was able to ring his first peal, which was of Stedman Cinques, in February, 1938. He had rung in nearly 200 peals, over 60 of them being Surprise Maximus. He took part in the first peal of Bristol Maximus and rang several peals of Spliced Surprise Maximus, including one in 12 methods rung for the Coronation in 1953. He had taken part in most of the outstanding achievements of the band under the late Harold Poole. He had been secretary and treasurer of the Cathedral Society for a number of years and was in charge of the finances up to the end. He was a genial and convivial individual and it was always a pleasure to be in his company. He was a vocalist of no mean repute, and with Mrs. Wayne often contributed to the enjoyment of social functions. He was a partner in a hosiery manufacturing business and a prominent Freemason. He was held in the highest esteem by a , wide circle of friends.
The funeral service, prior to cremation, was held at the Cathedral on September 26th, and there was a large attendance, including his ringing colleagues and friends, Freemasons, $\mathrm{cm}-$ ployees and others. There were numerous floral tributes. On September 27th a muffled peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at the Cathedral in tribute to his memory.

He has left a widow, two sons and a daughter to mourn their great loss. and the deepest sympathy of his ringing comrades and a host of friends is extended to them in this rude disturbance of happy family life.

96. Pulling to a beat. (S) This exercise is to condition the student to the beat of ringing on a non-hunting bell: that is, a preparation for ringing in rounds and/or on a "covering' bell. (Explain.) Tutor first demonstrates by ringing a bell and calling the 'beat' as he does so, thus: 'Pull-and-Check-and-Pull-and-Check-andPause.' repeating this phrase of nine words in steady rhythm to nine beats-one for each word of the phrase. (Ex. 28.) The strokes coincide with the timing thus: On the first two words ' Pull-and 'comes the handstroke pull, on the third and fourth words 'Check-and "comes the backstroke check, on the fifth and sixth words 'Pull-and' comes the backstroke pull, and on the seventh and eight words 'Check-and comes the handstroke check. Then, on the ninth word 'Pause' the bell is held momentarily on the handstroke balance. (This represents the open handstroke pause.) The exercise is then repeated. Continue until the student has the bell well under control in ringing to this 'beat.'

The Cathedral Society has lost a beloved and faithful servant, who will be very much missed.

WILLIAM T. ELSON

We regret to announce the passing of Mr. William T. Elsgn, on September 25th in hospital, following an operation. The funeral service was held at St. Mary's Church, Putney, last Monday.

REDEDICATION

ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL, DUBLIN

After a silence of nearly five months, the bells of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, were rededicated on September 23rd by the Dean, the Very Rev. W. C. de Pauley. The bells have been rehung and extensively overhauled by John Taylor and Co.

The address was given by Cañon J. W. Armstrong, rector of Christ Church, Leeson Park, Dublin, who recalled that the cathedral tower was destroyed by fire in 1362 . He said that the first mention of the bells was in the following year, when an appeal was made for funds to replace both them and the tower. In 1443, the Dean and Chapter added another bell, and then, in 1670, there was the first mention of a ring of eight bells. These were recast in 1863, and seven of them were sent as gifts to various churches around the country. The eighth bell was retained, and it still remains in the cathedral.

Shortly before the close of the last century a ring of 11 bells was placed in the cathedral and, said Canon Armstrong, the tenor bell weighed $2 \frac{1}{4}$ tons. The ring was raised to its present level of 14 by an addition of a further two in 1909 and a final bell in 1923.

Canon Armstrong said that people were inclined to take too much for granted in the physical adornment of the cathedrals and churches in the country. 'We must offer God the best of our gifts,' he said. 'These bells are an outward sign that we, in this cathedral, are prepared to have only the best for calling the people to worship.'

The enthusiasm and service which have been, and are being, given to the cathedral by the St. Patrick's Society of Change Ringers was praised by Canon Armstrong. On behalf of the Dean and Chapter and the congregation of the cathedral, he thanked them.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD West Dorset Branch
The quarterly meeting of the West Dorset Branch was held at Broadwindsor on September 15 th, when towers represented were Beaminster, Broadwindsor, Evershot, Hawkchurch, Loders, Lyme Regis, Netherbury and Whitechurch Canonicorum. Visitors were present from Westminster, Yeovil, Crewkerne and South Petherton.

A touch of Stedman Doubles preceded the Guild service, conducted by the lay reader of Broadwindsor (Mr. Cape). Canon C. C. Cox read the lesson and the address was given by the Vicar, Rev. R. W. Rodda.

In his address the Vicar told of the way in which the parishioners had worked to get the money so quickly for the rehanging of their pre-Reformation bells. He welcomed the Branch on this their first visit to the church since the work had been completed.

A company of 34 sat down to tea, served by the Broadwindsor ringers' wives in the Reading Room.

A by-meeting was fixed for Whitechurch Canonicorum on Wednesday, October 17th, starting at 6.30 p.m., and the annual meeting on December 1st at Beaminster.

The attention of the members was drawn to Rule 5 (in the 1954-55 reports), which stated that 6 d . per person should be paid to the Guild before a peal would be recorded. Discussion on this matter was left for the annual meeting.

Canon Cox, in thanking the Vicar for the use of the church and tower, the lay reader, and the ladies for their ample tea, congratulated Broadwindsor on the splendid work done in having the bells rehung and the alterations to the ringing chamber.

The Lyme Regis band then entertained with a touch of Grandsire Caters on Canon Cox's handbells. followed by a touch on Mr. Pannell's maiden bells. These were much appreciated.

Further ringing then took place on the tower bells. Methods during the afternoon and evening included Grandsire and Stedman Doubles. Plain Bob, Kent and Cambridge Treble Bob and London Surprise Minor.
E. G. P.

The footnote to the peal rung at Barsham, Suffolk. in our last issue, should have read: ' First peal on the bells since 1912,' and not as submitted.

A TALE OF A TOWER

THE visitor whose hobby was old brasses looked into the village church one Saturday afternoon. Gathered in the tower were a dozen or so ringers watching with critical interest the solo practice of a youngster standing on a box. One old chap moved along a bench, beckoning to the visitor to sit, one or two others nodded and grunted a word of greeting. Nobody knew him, but at these district gatherings it was usual enough for a ringer on holiday in the neighbourhood to come along for a ring, and very welcome such visitors were, whether they were Surprise method enthusiasts or came from towers content with call changes.

The boy rang confidently. A pull on the sally and up went the rope, a rewarding note sounding from above. A pull on the end of the rope and the bell gave tongue again, the rope falling straight and rising again in a smooth rhythm. Easy enough, it seemed.

A few more pulls, then the leader stopped the lad, saying: 'He's all right. Fill in for rounds.' Five men, after solemnly removing coats, and in two cases collars and ties, each took a rope, waiting for the lad to start them off with ' Treble's going, she's gone!' Next moment six ropes were rising and falling and six bells were heard running merrily down the scale. 'Get your back-stroke in!', said tenor to treble. 'Hold up on your hand-stroke.' This didn't mean a thing to the visitor, who merely thought the ringing both looked and sounded jolly, and required nothing more to produce it than a little muscle.

Stand!' said the leader. The ropes ceased moving; the bells were silent. 'Do you ring Stedman?' the newcomer was asked. ' 'Fraid not,' was the answer, 'but I enjoy listening.' No need to tell everyone he hadn't a clue what Stedman was. It sounded pretty enough. Not a tune exactly, but more of a tune than what they rang with the boy. 'Rounds,' he remembered they called that. Obviously this wasn't as easy. Each ringer was looking from one to the other; several seemed to be muttering to themselves in rather an imbecile manner. Somebody barked: ' Four, you're going in slow,' though four didn't really look slower than the others.

Suddenly the sound was ugly; there was a jangle as two bells sounded together and several bells followed each other at irregular intervals. Odd-sounding instructions were shouted; several ringers looked unhappy, and the leader, after letting the horrid din continue for a few moments, cried: 'Stand!' Although the bells were immediately silent, quite a heated argument ensued among the ringers. Number Two, apparently, was at fault. Two looked somewhat abashed at having mucked things up, but was promised another chance.

Where are you from?' someone asked the visitor, and on hearing the name of a small town in a distant county, one said: 'Very pretty eight you have at St. Mary's. Two sixteenth century, aren't they? Rang there myself thirty years ago.' Agreement was safe enough; no need to mention that he knew nothing of the bells of St. Mary's, save as a song title. It was decent of them to be so friendly, and he'd rather like to have a go at this ringing himself. Nothing fancy, only what that youngster had been doing. He was about to ask if they would let him try his hand when the old chap touched his knee and whispered 'Grandsire?'

A bit baffled he replied: 'Er, no, not yet, but soon, I hope,' then realised the old fellow maybe didn't mean that at all. 'I'd better be getting along,' he added to the company in general, feeling that the conversation was getting beyond him. 'Oh, have some rounds with us before you go! Mustn't come to a meeting and not have a ring. Take the third, she's a grand bell. The boy can ring treble again.'

Well, there was no sense in missing the chance, everyone around being so encouraging, so in a moment his coat was off, a rope was in his hand, and he grasped the sally, waiting innocently for the signal to pull.

If the next ten seconds were a considerable surprise to all in the tower, to Number Three it was the wildest nightmare. First the sally rushed up unexpectedly fast, nearly throwing him off his feet before he had the sense to let go. Next moment the rope tautened, jerking his left arm violently above his head so that the rope's end flew out of his grasp. A fleeting glimpse of astonished faces, shouts mingled with the noise of the bells, and now coils of rope dropping on his head, the end lashing about like the tail of an angry alligator. A hasty step backwards in selfpreservation - into the very unresilient tower wall. A frantic grab at the reappearing sally, but he missed and half caught the rope below, which immediately shot through his fingers removing portions of skin. The confounded rope was everywhere; Number Three helpless.

Just as suddenly the nightmare ended. The other ropes were still; he heard a voice: 'Leave her to me!' and saw an expert hand catch the flying rope firmly, make it taut, and with a few strong pulls bring it to rest.

There was a moment of acute silence with looks of marked disapproval, then gently the old man said: ' Maybe it's a long time since you handled a bell?'

From the shaken visitor, aware of smarting hand, sore shoulder and deep shame came the confession: 'I-I haven't before. I thought you invited me to try. I only came in to look at the church brasses.'

Astonished gasps were quickly followed by explanations and apologies as the ringers realised their mistake in assuming the visitor was a ringer himself. Soon the tower was full of laughter, the unfortunate Number Three joining in heartily and vowing that he'd learn to do it properly one day. Before all went down the hill for tea the tower record book was presented to him for signature and date, the captain laughingly adding the significant word, 'ROUNDS.'

REDEDICATION OF KNEBWORTH BELLS

It was in May, 1955, that a report on the condition of the bells of Knebworth showed an expenditure of approximately $£ 300$ was necessary if they were to be made safe for ringing to continue. Coming very soon after other heavy expenditure on the tower, the raising of such a sum seemed a formidable task, but nevertheless, owing to the urgency of the work, the Whitechapel Bell Foundry were instructed to procsed with the restoration, and the bells were dismantled in April of this year.

A service of thanksgiving, which will surely remain a memorable occasion to the large congregation present, was held on Sunday evening. July 22nd. at which officials of the Hertford County Association and representatives of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank participated.
The procession of Rector, churchwardens and representatives to the ringing chamber was the prelude to the offering of thanks, by prayer, for the restoration, after which the bells were rung in rounds by members of the local band.
Ringing after the service. in which visitors from other towers took part, continued for an hour, and the first touch of change-ringing on the rehung bells (Grandsire Triples) was rung by officials of the County Association and of the local band, and two representatives of the Bell Foundry, and was called by the Association's president in office for the current year.

The bells have been rehung on modern bearings and are now in excellent condition.

The gencrosity of many who have made donations, and participation in the proceeds of the annual bazaar and summer fete, has contributed considerably towards the cost of the work. and an expression of thanks is due to all.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

A rather smaller number of members than usual attended the Society's September meeting, held at Idle on the 29th. Ringing commenced shortly after 3 o'clock and continued until tea time, when an adjournment was made to the local school, where a very enjoyable tea had been prepared by the ladies.
At the short business meeting which followed, the chair was taken by Mr. I. Slack, in the absence of the president, who was ill. The vote of thanks to the local company and ladies, to the Vicar and churchwardens, was ably proposed by Mr. F. Rayment. In his reply, Mr. T. Hill welcomed the Society to Idle and said, with some regret, that the bells were not now regularly rung.
It is hoped to hold the next meeting at Livcrsedge on October 27th.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The autumn meeting of the Eastern District was held at Sherburn-in-Elmet on September 30 th, when the attendance was rather lower than usual owing to several ringers being engaged in harvest operations. About 24 ringers were present and the service was conducted by the Vicar.
The business meeting followed tea in the Church Hall, presided over by the vice-president, Mr. A. E. Sellers. Mr. T. H. Barham, of Beverley Minster, was elected a member. Howden was selected for the next meeting. The usual votes of thanks were passed and the Vicar responded. welcoming the Association to Sherburn. Mr. E. M. Bradley, of Sherburn, was congratulated on completing his 100 peals. Good use was made of the recently rehung ring of eight. the "go' now being very good.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

For their autumn meeting the Eastern Branch visited Halvergate, a village at the marsh edge and somewhat isolated sa far as rail or 'bus is concerned. This may have accounted for the small attendance, although the weather was excellent.

The six bells were rung to suit all tastes and talents. The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. T. Byrom); the organist was Mr. S. Gall, a local ringer for many years.
The Vicar in his address said it was his first living where there was a ring of bells; hitherto his churches had only possessed one or two bells and he was very happy to hear change-ringing close at hand.
In the unavoidable absence of the Branch chairman (Mr. E. R. Goate) the Association president (Rev. H. G. Lillingston) took the chair at the business meeting, and made the passing of votes of thanks the first item on the agenda.

Subject to the usual permission being obtained, the members voted Acle as the venue for their next meeting on December 1st.

Mr. H. Tooke announced that next year would be the 850 th anniversary of Wymondham Abbey Church, and that a programme of peal attempts was being drawn up. He issued an invitation to the Eastern Branch to make its attempt on Easter Monday, April 22nd. The meeting decided that those wishing to take part should contact the Branch secretary, and the project be thoroughly discussed at the Acle meeting. The Branch committee was given the task of picking the band if necessary.

 reported in these columns is 'home' on holiday, having rung a peal of Superlative at Kettering in 1908 has, after a period of 48 years, 'broken the ice ' with a peal of Bob Minor at Brampford Speke. Devon.The death of Mr. Harry G. Wayne, reported in our last issue, is the third sudden death Leicester Cathedral band has sustained in the short space of 14 months.
In connection with the peal at Bridgend, Glam, Mr. T. M. Roderick writes that although well over 100 peals have been rung on these bells since 1906. Mrs. John Thomas is the first lady to ring a peal on them.
Candle-light peal ringing is comparatively rare in these days. This was experienced at Staunton-in-the-Vale, on September 7th, and it seemed to the ringers, as the rope danced up and down in the flickering light, that they had stepped back into the last century.
Three members of Cambridge University Guild, F. B. Cookson, A. J. Howard and J. D. Painter, rang a quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor 'in hand' to celebrate the victory of County Wexford in the All-Ireland hurling final on September 23rd. We hope hurling enthusiasts in Eire wera duly impressed with the compliment!
The peal of Bob Minor at March, Cambs, reported in this issue, which was a birthday compliment to Mr. H. Giddings, was a notable achievement for the local team, it being the first peal on the bells by March ringers for 137 years. Without doubt, the original peal, rung on November 5th, 1819, would be accompanied with the banging of fireworks and the crackling of bonfires! Four of the team, Messrs. R. Taylor, W. Moore, A. W. Palmer and W. Leeden (66), were ringing their first peal.

GOSSIP

 , Che the and the country go with Dr. Jean M. Weddell, who recently left for a spell of duty in Korea, where she will take charge of the children's wing at the National Sanatorium in Masan. She took with her a set of 15 handbells, a few tunes, and a copy of standard methods, and these, plus a copy of 'The Ringing World,' which she will receive every week, will be her only contact with ringing for some time. We hope she will be able to raise sufficient enthusiasm amongst her colleagues to ring the first handbell peal in Korea, and look forward to seeing publication of the first quarter peal rung in that country.The ringers of the quarter peal at Whitnash would like to congratulate 91 -years-old Mr ; Hanley for the way he rang the treble to a ' 120 ,' and extend their thanks to him and his family for the refreshments following the quarter peal.
U.S.A. jet aircraft prevented ringers hearing their own bells at the Suffolk Guild meeting at Tunstall on September 22nd. Was this an American protest against English changeringing? asks our correspondent.
We are informed by the Rev. C. G. Challenger, of Neen Savage Vicarage, Cleobury Mortimer, Worcs, that the bells of Kinlet Church, Shropshire, have been overhauled. No. 4 bell, he writes, has been put in order by the local blacksmith.
Mr. J. W. Harrison, who has been a member of the band at St. Mary and All Saints' Church, Beaconsfield, for 30 years, celebrated his golden wedding on September 22nd by conducting a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples. He and Mrs. Harrison were married at All Saints' Church, Fulham, on September 22nd, 1906. He began his ringing career at Dunsfold, Surrey, in 1901, and was taught to ring by the late A. J. Bartlett.

ESTABLISHED

CORONATION PEAL TABLET

Gloucester & Bristol Association Dedication

Coinciding with the 270th anniversary of the Society of Painswick Youths, a tablet commemorating a peal of Grandsire Cinques rung by a representative band of the Association and conducted by the then Master, Mr. A. L. Barry, in honour of the Coronation of H.M. Queen Elizabeth II, was dedicated in Painswick tower on September 22nd. The tablet, the work of Messrs. A. W. Ursell, Ltd., of Ross-on-Wye, is of superb craftsmanship.

The dedication by the Archdeacon of Gloucester took place during a service conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. H. F. Heal). A bobbed course of Grandsire Cinques followed the dedication. It had been hoped that the actual band who rang the peal would have rung this course, but Mr. F. G. Leaker and Mr. J. M. Stallard, of the Bristol City Branch, were not present and their places were taken by Mr. C. W. Martin and Mr. Eric Sutton.
The Archdeacon in his address congratulated the Association on having rung this memorable peal and for having placed in the belfry at Painswick such an exquisite tablet, which would be a permanent record for generations to come. He thanked the Association for its work and the ringers for their untiring efforts Sunday by Sunday. The bells, he said, were a definite challenge to remind people what the Church was endeavouring to do

At the tea, a warm welcome to the visitors was given by the Vicar, who remarked how very pleased he was to have the tablet placed in Painswick Church tower, and added that if the Association contemplated ringing any more peals which they wished to commemorate they had better hurry up, as the space available was very limited. He thanked Mr. F. Skidmore, who bad completed all the details and arrangements in connection with the tablet, and Messrs. Ursell, on their fine craftsmanship.
The Master of the Association (Mr. C. B. Harding) said the tablet would remind ringers of the future what ringers of this generation had done. He thanked the Archdeacon for dedicating the tablet, and also the Vicar and Mr. Skidmore for their services.

The tablet is laid out as follows:-

CORONATION OF HER MAJESTY QUEEN ELIZABETH II 2nd June, 1953.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD'S 50th 'WEEK'

yes, Broadway, England's loveliest village,' so thought the writer as he sped towards it. Arriving, he found he'd been thinking of Bibury, though Broadway is a lovely place, too -what you can sce from behind the motor coaches. A dull Victorian church with no bells. But the real church with its lovely six gave itself away by its distant sound, and soon we found ourselves amongst the old familiar group, with a most welcome admixture of new faces. After a touch or so on the six here, we gathered that the week had started pleasantly for the carlier comers, at Hinton-on-the-Green for Sunday Evensong, and the three pleasant sixes at Little Comberton, Great Comberton and Elmley Castle on the Monday morning, August 27th. Meanwhile, Double Norwich was being rung at Hinton-on-the-Green, an excellent 'peal' if it hadn't been false! However, achievement would be pointless if it were always a foregone conclusion. Tea in a grand hotel at Broadway, surrounded by arms and armour. Then to our headquarters, 'The Old House,' Cropthorne, the Diocesan Retreat House, near Evesham, where the warden was quite charming and tireless in her efforts towards our comfort. That evening to Hampton, close to Evesham, to ring Cambridge, etc., with old friends and new. (A very fine skittle alley in the nearby publ)
Tuesday, 28th: a splendid morning of achievement; Ealing was brought round at Badsey in 2 hours 50 minutes, and Bob Major at Salford Priors in 2 hours 50 minutes also imagine this happening during Guild weeks 20, 30 or 49 years ago-but foundations are an essential preliminary to superstructure. A well-earned lunch at Wickhamford. Then to Bretforton, whose incumbent is a ringer and who kindly piloted us round for a bit; Little Bob, etc., on a nice eight. Then Cambridge, etc., on a nice six at Cleeve Prior, a charming village near the Avon; tea at the Mill House there. Double Norwich at Norton on the way home, and after dinner a glorious time on the now magnificent 12 (tenor 36 cwt .) at Evesham-Stedman Cinques, Treble twelve, Little Bob Royal, etc. The bell tower was built by Clement Lichfield, the last but one -for all practical purposes the last-of the priors of the great Abbey founded 800 years before. He seems to have built the tower, to lock up as much as possible of the Abbey's wealth in the locality, before a rapacious king should steal it. Sad to say, the presence of two parish churches near by made the preservation of the great Abbey church (as at Tewkesbury) unnecessary, so little remains of the Abbey except the tower.

WORCESTER MEMORIES

On the 29th, the day began with Holy Communion, celebrated by the president, the Rev. A. C. Blyth, at Cropthorne Church at 7.30, preceded by a 720 Cambridge on the pleasant six. Then for the second time in his life the writer rang the tenor to Stedman Caters at Claines (this time in 3 hours 8 minutes, last time 3 hours 17 minutes; jet propulsion next time, no doubt!). 'Others more mild' sampled the eights at St. John's in Bredwardine and Hallow. Lunch at Worcester. Then the glorious 12 at Worcester Cathedral, about which much might be written (and no doubt has). What bells! What a tower!! What a frame!!! What feats there in the past! We did our best, much of it well up to standard. Then to tea nearby. Afterwards one member paid for (as he thought) his guest's lunch, whilst the cashier and three of us thought he'd paid for our tea. All ended well eventually. Then to the eight at All Saints', Worcester-one of the eights which remind us of the nature of the feats men were performing when such 'go', was more frequently met with than today. Finally to Pershore Abbey. Here the bells were said to be immersed in cog wheels, wire, clock weights, pendula, and the other intricacies which come to light when one is rash enough to take a clock to pieces. So instead of imprisoning ourselves in the meat safe strung high up terrifyingly on a beam in the lantern, we adjourned to Pershore St. Andrew, where is a nice light six. After this the writer left, and now has to rely like many historians on the evidence of others-in particular the Master, Desmond Painter.
It seems that on the 30th, London Surprise went well for two hours at Mickleton, before a pile-up occurred. Others, attempting less, worked harder at Moreton-in-the-Marsh, where the wheels of treble and second rub against each other, and the frame floats on naught. After various ups and (rapid) downs, Grandsire was rung until the second slipped wheel and stuck. Then to Blockley, where despite recent work things aren't perfect (they never are on earth). At Chipping Campden a glorious church houses an eight with a variously estimated tenor (2228 cwt.); here Bristol and Spliced occurred. After lunch at the Antique Cafe and tea at the Treasure House, folk were prepared for the glories of Stratford-on-Avon. 'And those boils (sic "bells," take your choice) did run! Say so-did not the General run then-Dog-thou

Don't Let Your Subscription Lapse

We welcomed last week 34 new postal subscribers to "The Ringing World.' We do not want to nullify this good work by tardy renewal of postal subscriptions. These should be paid at once to Mr. J. E. bitch-wolf's son, canst thou not hear? Feel then.' (Strikes him.)-Troilus and Cressida, Act II, Scene 1. Splendid bells in a grand central tower; a memorable place, quite apart from Shakespeare. Then to Bidford-on-Avon where choir practice scemed to fit in well with ringing. At the annual meeting that evening it was decided if possible to have the 1957 week in Essex -based on Pleshey, near where the writer first saw the light-and many other things. Date: August 25 th to 31 st.
Friday started at Upton-on-Severn, where is a good eight ( 16 cwt .) ; then to Bishop's Cleeve, where Ealing, etc., came round on the eight ( $19 \frac{3}{3}$ cwt.). Little Bob Royal at Tewkesbury Abbey didn't go too well and was stopped half way ; the other tower that afternoon was a mere Ripple, with a nice six (was it nice or not?I've got so used to that ambiguous adjective); then to Twyning (6). But things brightened up for the last tower with anything like a full company, for Pershore Abbey got freed of its coils at last, and imprisoning themselves in the fearsome eyrie where one rings, they had an exciting time with magnificent bells.
On Saturday morning, despite fearfully complicated transport arrangements for dispersing the company, Grandsire Triples was got at Norton in 2 hours 59 minutes. Thence all dispersed from what had proved a memorable week, both in being our 50th, in the amount and quality of the ringing, and in the number present, 20 men and four 'women' (which term covers all girls, ladies, females-everything not malewhich goes up to Cambridge).

Very deep gratitude to all who helped with the arrangements, to clergy for use of the bells, to tower keepers and others who met us or helped in any other way, and to Geoffrey Benson who shouldered the vast task of 'running' the week.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON SUMMER TOUR

AIIS year, during the ten days July 28th to Aust 6ih, the University of London Soclety of Change-ringers held its annual summer tour in Shropshire and East Staffordshire, in some places following closely in the wake of the Manchester University Guild's tour. Wolverhampton was chosen as a base for the daily sorties, partly because of its central position and partly beceuse of the difficulty of finding accommodation for so large a party (29) outside a large town. However, as we were staying in what $E$. H. Brooks would describe as the 'gentleman's end of Wolverhampton.' and as the local medicinal waters were both good and readily accessible, little complaint was heard.
In its early days (the middle $1940^{\circ}$ s). when the Society's membership was almost entircly undergraduate, the annual tour demanded a high standard of physical stamina from all those who ventured upon it. Our old stagers who remember those days never tire of recalling, for example, the time when they had to walk 14 miles across the Yorkshire moors from one tower to the next; and our admiration for our founder members grows (as indeed grow the figures for the distances walked) with each succeeding reminiscence. With the passage of years, however. growing numbers have enabled adequate mechanical transport to be provided. This year's convoy was particularly long and impressive, and its arrival at a quiet village church was a stirring sight.

The first tower of the tour was that of St. Michael and All Angels, Tettenhall, which we visited on the first Saturday afternoon. Although the bells were a handy eight and pleasant to ring, it was the church itself that captured everyone's chief interest. The church is brand new, having only recently been rebuilt after the previous building had been destroyed by fire; it is a beautiful example of 20th century design and craftsmanship at its very best.

On Sunday, assistance in service ringing was given to the local bands at St. Peter's, Wolverhampton. Coseley. Claverley and Lichfield Cathedral. It also rained.

After these preliminary skirmishes, the main frontal attack began on Monday, when our general direction lay towards Stafford and Newport. The finest ring of bells was almost certainly the cight at Brewood, and it was a very unkind fate that. in the form of a broken rope, stepped in to curtail our ringing here. From Brewood we advanced via Penkridge (8) to the light ten at Stafford, where a grim but determined course of Cambridge Royal lasted well into the lunch hour and made us wish that someone would invent a kind of Cambridge Royal that only lasts five minutes! After a hurried - fall " we hastened away from Stafford in search of a pub that allowed sandwiches. A strenuous pace was maintained throughout the afternoon. and when we reached Newport discipline was so undermined that everyone was still idling brazenly in the local teashops half-an-hour after the time scheduled for arrival in the belfry.

PRESIDENTIAL PUNCTURES

On Tuesday we journeyed eastwards via Walsall to Tamworth and Lichfield. Ringing on the eight (St. Mary's) and the six (St. Michael's) at Lichfield was rather unsatisfactory owing to a lack of co-operation between the ringers and the bells, but we were able to continue the sight-seecing that the rain had so rudely interrupted on Sunday. On the return journey, after playing hide-and-seck with St. Michael and All Angels, Rushall, which seems to be nowhere near Rushall. the party was turned loose on the 12 at Walsall. Very few of us were regular 12bell ringers, but nevertheless some quite passable touches of Grandsire and Stedman Cinques were rung. Tuesday also saw the first of a long line of presidential punctures, and during the course of the week many students of the 'Useful Arts were able to add another to their repertoire.

A peal attempt had been proposed for Wednesday morning, spliced Cambridge and Yorkshire. The better part of Tuesday evening, spent knee-deep in false courses, proved too much for our composers, however. and so with barely ten minutes to go before closing time the Yorkshire was replaced by Superlative. Of course, we all knew a calling for spliced Cambridge and Superlative. The following morning we attempted Cambridge and Superlative with a fair degree of success for about 40 minutes and then, at the instigation of the ringers of the third and fifth, adjourned for coffee. We joined the others for lunch at Claverley-rather a late lunch for some of us-due to a further display of temperament by the presidential tyre.

Thursday was our longest day: we covered over 90 miles. in addition to ringing at six towers. The local press caught up with us at Rugeley, and we were photographed in the most unlikely attitudes ringing bells which were down.' I cannot recall any recent summer tour during which we have not fallen victim at least once to the local press. The annual touch of Original Minor was brought round at Rugeley. A healthy opposition was put up by the band but this year the conductor won fairly casily. Original is an excellent game for a band, that thinks it can plain hunt, to play with its conductor.

AN ELUSIVE MANOR HOUSE

That evening a small party set out, by private invitation, to pay a visit to Benthall Hall, which is a fine old Elizabethan manor house near Bridgnorth and about 20 miles from Wolverhampton. The journey, simple though it appeared on the map, was long and tortugus. Our hotel passed us by twice-once upon our right hand and once upon our left before we were able even to shake ourselves free from Wolverhampton; and as our route also included a social call on the coal-yard of the Bridgnorth Town Gasworks, we did not arrive at the manor till well past 10 o'clock. Nevertheless the visit was more than worth the journey, and we were made most welcome by our hostess, who showed us over her beautiful home and endured until a very late hour the sound of the handbells that we chanced to have with us.

Thursday's late night had the usual effect on Friday morning, and the best compliment that we could pay to the excellent ten at Coalbrookdale was a most un-regal Cambridge Royal and an almost somnambulant Caters. Matters improved later, however, and the striking on the cight at Much Wenlock was probably the best of the tour: even Bristol went well for six leads until two keen young ringers thought they heard a 'Bob.

For many years now, no U.L.S.C.R. annual tour has been without its traditional course of London Scholars' Pleasure. After some hard missionary work over Saturday's lunch the ritual was duly observed at Hoar Cross, where the magnificent six was rung to a course which was truly a pleasure to those who took part. Saturday's ringing concluded at Burton-on-Trent with some excellent Stedman Caters and an erudite course of Rutland.
On Sunday evening we rang for Evensong at Kinver, where we had darkened the doors once before in 1953 on the Worcester tour. When the service was over (again following the precedent of 1953) we set out on safari to explore the beautiful Kinver Edge. We were iust able to scuttle back to the cars before the rain came, and the evening ended in the shelter of a cafe. to the accompaniment of a juke-box, egg and chips. Four very urban towers on Monday concluded the week's ringing, and the tour closed untidily in the pouring rain at Old Hill.
The tour was certainly the best attended in the Society's history, and many old friendships were renewed. We were privileged to have with us

A CORNISH RINGING CONTEST
For some weeks, bands of six bellringers from towers in south-east Cornwall have been making journeys to get some practice on the delightful ring of Lostwithiel Parish Church, to be in top form for the ringing contest of September 22 nd. More than 100 ringers attended the contest, mainly middle-aged and old men. First arrivals were at the church at $9.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. in time to get a practice pull before lunch. At 2 p.m. all ringers assembled in the church for the usual service, which was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. Sykes : this was where the congregation showed us that as well as ring bells. they could fill the church with their singing of hymns.
The next item was to draw lots for the order of ringing in the test. which was to raise the bells, ring rouunds at 32 to the minute for eight minutes and fall ; and at $3.30 \mathrm{D} . \mathrm{m}$. the contest was on. Little groups of men were seen standing in various positions around the church and narrow streets of Lostwithiel, all cyes focused on the tower. and ears alert for the slightest error or hesitation. Sixteen sets of ringers rang, following each other at close intervals. and four peals an hour were rung. The only young band of ringers present came from St. Veep, and they put up a very good show: their rounds were good and also the fall.

As the hands of the clock moved on, so the ringing went on and more and more people stood in the street below, listening to the beautiful music of this Gillett and Johnston six. Passing visitors stopped their cars to enquire what was the attraction, which often brought forth the remark: 'Well, how can you tell if one band of ringers are better than another?' Away in a little room the judges jotted down the faults, which were very few in some peals, and as 8 o.clock drew near, we all knew that the winners of the contest would soon be known : when, alas, two sets had to ring off again before the final placings were made
The result announced by Mr. G. Stephens, the local tower captain, was as follows: 1 St . Merryn, 2 Lansallos, 3 Lansallos B, 4 St. Minver, 5 St. Veep, 6 St. Minver B, 7 Roche, 8 Egloshayle.
A special vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar, churchwardens and the fine band of ladies who made us feel at home by providing such good refreshments.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

At the quarterly mecting of the Aylesbeare Deanery Branch at Withycombe Raleigh on September 22 nd, about 40 members and friends were present, including the president of the Guild, Preb. E. V. Cox.
The service was conducted by the Vicar of Withycombe Raleigh (the Rev. J. S. Hawkins), who gave a short address of welcome before commencing the service.

At the meeting which followed. two certificates were presented by the president. Topsham was chosen for the annual meeting to be held on December Ist.
The bells were rung for the service and again during the evening.
a very strong contingent from Australia (almost enough to ring Aboriginal?), and we were especially pleased to welcome back Philio and Joan Gray who, together with Valerie Willard. had until recently been doing a great deal of campanological evangelism 'down under.' The success of the week was due chiefly to the efforts of our organiser. Rex Agg. who always seemed prepared for his wayward flock to indulge in truantly coffees and to linger pleasanily over its tea, but still succeaded in marshalling the towers to coincide with our movements with an uncanny competence. Our thanks are also due to all the incumbents who kindly allowed us the use of their bells during the week.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A DEATH WARNING

Dear Sir,-From time to time I visit the church on tho hill to attend service there: the tower contains six Rudhall bells, and there is a band of call-change ringers.

I usually go in good time so that I can help the ringers if they are short-handed, and they always give me a welcome.

On a recent occasion they had two lads in, and as these were not yet proficient at falling in peal the bells were lowered singly.

The tenor was lowered first by the captain, and when it was about frame height, one of the ringers suddenly exclaimed: 'Hello! hear that?
"Hear what? ' I asked. 'A death,' he answered.
'Why?', I enquired.
'Can't you hear it?', he said, "it always makes that dull sound when there's a death.'
'Perhaps it's the clapper coming out,' I remarked somewhat facetiously, as the clapper fell out of the second bell not very long ago.
'No it isn't, it's a death,' he replied. 'It always sounds like that when there's a death doesn't it. Tom.' 'Yes,' replied the captain with solemn face.

Later on as we walked out of church together they brought up the subject again. "I wonder who it can be? ' they said. I felt convinced they firmly believed the bell had sounded a death warning.

It seemed like something from the old days, when people believed in omens such as the tapping of the death watch beetle, and other morbid things, and not of these enlightened days of rock ' $n$ ' roll. - Yours sincerely.

TOLR PEALS - A PROTEST

Dear Sir.-At the half-yearly meeting of the Furness and Lake District Branch of the Lancashire Association, held at Dalton-in-Furness on September 291 h , the members present asked me to protest through " The Ringing World 'against two peals rung during the Cumberland and Westmorland tour.

These are the two peais rung at Kendal and Dalton-in-Furness. Both these towers are in our Branch of the Lancashire Association and the members feel that these should have been credited to the Lancashire Association and not the Cumberland and North Westmorland Associa-tion.-Yours sincerely,

NICHOLAS M. NEWBY,
Secretary, Furness and Lake District Branch, Lancashire Association.

STRIKING - A DEFENCE OF YOUTH

 Dear Sir,-I notice in the Editorial about the veterans' reunion that Mr. J. F. Smallwood had to mention that from the point of view of striking the youngsters had a lot to learn. This is one of those generalisations which has always been levelled at youth, and which has never been true of any generation.I am quite certain that the youth of today are equal to the youth of Mr. Smallwood's day, and in many respects much in advance. Each decade seems to produce young ringers who are able to do things which their elders have thought impossible. It is only by their ability and enthusiasm that ringing has progressed to its present high standard.
There appears to be no dearth of young men able to handle heavy bells with considerable skill. When it comes to ringing a vast collection of intricate methods, the youth of today are far ahead of their predecessors. There are youngsters today who can put a band together to equal the striking of any band of the older, generations. There have always been "rabbits" since change-ringing started, but we don't judge standards by them. Let's give our youth the credit they deserve.-Yours, etc.,
Dorking. A. PATRICK

ST. NICHOLAS', GREAT YARMOUTH, NORFOLK

Dear Sir,-This, 'the biggest parish church in England,' "was destroyed by fire (incendiary bombs) during the war. It still remains a shell. The bells and spire fell but the tower shell remains.

The well-known ringer, Rev. A. G. G. (Gilbert) Thurlow, is the vicar, carrying on in another church pro tempore. He wants to see a ring of 13 put into St. Nicholas' in due course.

Recently I was looking at a book written by John Preston in 1819. It is entitled 'Picture of Yarmouth.' Preston was comptroller of His Majesty's Customs at Great Yarmouth then. On page 40 we read the following concerning St. Nicholas': -
' In the year 1807 a new clock was furnished, fixed and completed by Mr. W. Stanford of this town, clock and watch maker, for the sum of $£ 17015 \mathrm{~s}$., and it is to be somewhat regretted that the original chimes were discontinued at the time this clock was erected.

On March 25th, 1808, the trustees entered into a contract with Messrs. Thomas Mears and Co., of London, bell-founders, for casting the present new and musical sing of ten bells. An extract of the particulars of the said contract is as follows:

Estimate to cast a new musical ring of ten church bells: the tenor to weigh about 28 cwt. (the actual weight is 30 cwt .1 qr. 24 lb .) -

125 cwt . at 17 d . per 1 lb ., $£ 99113 \mathrm{~s} .4 \mathrm{~d}$.
Ten new clappers, £14.
Ten new stocks, ten new wheels, ten new pairs of brasses and gudgeons, ten new sets of ironwork, with nuts, screws etc., also a new oak frame made in such a manner as to case the tower: putting up ditto and hanging the bells complete, $£ 15910 \mathrm{~s}$. Total $£ 1,1613 \mathrm{~s}$. 4 d .

Allowance for old bells, computed to weigh 93 cwt. at 13 d . per lb ., £558 2s. 8 d . Net cost $£ 603$ 0s. 8d.

These bells are justly esteemed as exceedingly harmonious; and the first ring was opened the second day of May, 1808 , by the Yarmouth Company of Change-ringers, and on March 13th, 1809, was rung a complete peal of five thousand and forty changes of Bob Major Royal' [I quote as printed!] 'in three hours and fifty-eight minutes by the following persons: No. 1 bell Mr. John Jones, 2 Mr . John Goodman, 3 Mr. Walter Jones, 4 Mr . Samuel Brooks, 5 Mr . Charles Brown, 6 Mr . T. Stolworthy, sen., 7 Mr . P. Aldis. 8 Mr . J. Lamh (conductor), 9 Mr . William Brown, 10 Mr . T. Stolworthy, jun.'

We long to hear at least ten ringing out from this tower again. Sixteen years silence is a long time-and obviously it will be another few years at any rate before we have that pleasure.-Yours, ctc..

CLAUDE RUSH.

LONDON SURPRISE IN CUMBERLAND

Dear Sir- Re the claim of first peal of London Surprise Major in Cumberland, the late William Pye called a 5,088 composed by $G$. Lindoff on Friday, September 25th, 1931, at St. Stephen's. Carlisle, which was at the time claimed as the first in the county. - Yours sincerely, LEWIS W. WIFFEN. Braintree.

ROCK 'N' ROLL

Dear Sir,-Claiming no particular credit for the achievement, two Northamptonshire characters are curious as to whether they are the first to ring at both Rock (Worcs) and Roll (Rothwell, Northants) in one week.-Yours faithfully, Kettering.

COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY

Dear Sir,-It is surely discourteous to the Central Council that the columns of its official journal should have been used so extensively to launch a private project that is evidently intended to usurp the functions of the Council.
The Council has many weaknesses and failings but it does at least enjoy the official support of practically all the Guilds and Associations, and is therefore reasonably representative of all ringers, both at home and overseas, except those who have no wish to be represented.

It is an interesting feature of ringing activity that the majority of ringers look to the Council to establish and maintain the principles and standards that shall be accepted in our art. What then is to be our attitude to the activities of an individual, or group of individuals who, without reference to the Council, seek to set up a series of arbitrary standards for the conduct of ringing activity which may, or may not, be acceptable to the Council, and to impose them upon the Exercise whether we like it or not?

If this piece of nonsense is allowed to go forward I shall certainly make a point, if re-elected next year, of putting forward a suitable resolution on the subject for consideration by the Council at its next meeting.-Yours faithfully,
P. A. CORBY.

Melton Mowbray, Leics.

Wedding at Apsley End

The wedding took place at St. Mary's Church, Apsley End, Herts, on September 22nd of two members of Apsley belfry-Keith Brian Good, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Good, and Joyce Ann Philps, only daughter of Mrs. C Washer, and stepdaughter of Mr. C. Washer.

Various methods were rung before the service, in which the bridegroom took part. The service was choral and the Vicar (Rev. J. H. Domincy) officiated. The bride was given away by her stepfather and attended by two bridesmaids. Mr. C. Hawks was the best man. Another Apsley ringer, Mr. R. Goldsney, was the organist.

The bells rang out merrily as the happy couple left the church. The reception was held in Nash Mills Village Hall, and later Mr. and Mrs. K. Good left for a honeymoon at Torquay. The couple were the recipients of many presents, including a coffec set from the ringers.

Two days later, a peal in seven Surprise methods was attempted, but unfortunately was not successful. W. C. H.

PART I. - 'CATHEDRAL' SYSTEM
SECTION VII. (Lesson 5)
RINGING IN CONCERT
(Silenced).
97. Following. (S) With bells prepared as previously, the Tutor explains that the stage is now reached for practising ringing the bell in concert with others, and that this may be achieved in steps, the first of which is 'Following, or ringing closely after another bell at a -open' inging) the ear plays the more important part in gauging this interval consistently, with the eye used as a check in keeping the rope-movements just behind those of the bell being followed. But in this silent practice, the eye has it all, and he demonstrates with an assistant just how close the 'following ' movement is kept. Maintaining the beat attained in Ex. 28 (Article 96), they show the students how this is done; but the Tutor points out that if the ' leader' varies his beat slightly the 'follower' (student) should, for the purpose of this exercise, follow suit. (Q) Before the students take this exercise, however, he now explains that, as in previous lessons, there being unavoidable waiting time for the turn of the later ones, an assistant Tutor (if available) will continue with rhythm practice in the elements of method ringing. So this is first explained to the whole
98. Dodging by Rhythm.--Rhythmic hunting practice was carried out as in Exs. 24, 25 and 25a, after noting how the units or bells move as shown in the writing out of the change-rows. There it was seen that plain hunting alone brings a repeat row. after rows to twice the number of bells engaged. To obtain further rows (since twice the number of bells is not the 'extent' of them, except on three units giving six rows), a variation in the plain hunting known as "placemaking ' is introduced, and this involves what is known as 'dodging.' (These two other clements of change-production were mentioned in Article 93 as due for explanation later.) So the first of these to be practised (although it is consequential upon place-making) is dodging. At this stage all that is needed is to show just the variation in the plain-hunt path that constitutes the 'dodge,' and this is usefully illustrated on the blackboard by a few change-rows on four units, thus : Here the treble is scen hunting, without interruption, down to lead and up behind again. The second is seen to behind again. The second is seen to come off the lead, and then, instead of hunting straight up, to stop in one place (second's) for another blow, and then to return to lead. This is 'placemaking.' The effect of this is to interrupt the plain hunting of the other two units, 3 and 4 . Three is seen two units, 3 and 4. Three is seen hunting up to back and then, instead of lying there for two blows before hunting down again, it 'dodges' back into third's place first. (S) Since this dodge occurs on the way UP to the lying behind (i.e., before it), it is called dodging UP. Now as to the other bell, 4 , it is seen to lie behind for a whole pull in the normal way and then to start hunting down; but having got as far as third's place, it is now forced (by that same place-making of No. 2 bell) to work with 3 and to dodge back into fourth's place, before hunting on down to lead. Since this dodge occurs on the way DOWN from lying behind (i.e., after it), it is called dodging DOWN. (Q) In passing. it may be noted that the whole structure of method design is based on these three main elements of change-production-hunting, place-with more fully in Part Two of the Manual. Our present concern with these elements is merely to learn something of how they are carried out in practice; the actual ringing of the methods which they build up being learnt in courses on Part Three. (Q) The Tutor now refers the class to the blackboard again and to bell 3 in particular, calling upon them to give the hand-clap (as in Exs. 24 and 25) to correspond with three's hunting and dodging movement, as he counts 'First, Second, Third, Fourth, etc.' (Ex. 29.). They will clap, of course, on 'First,' until he calls 'Go!', because 3 starts by hunting up from first's place; then they will move up into second's place and so on, following the changing positions as written up on the blackboard for each successive row. This, then, is the exercise for dodging up, rhythmically, (Q T) Next, the exercise for dodging down (Ex. 30 ) is taken by marking the movement of bell 4 , which, starting from third's place as on the blackboard rows, calls for the starting claps on the count of 'Third,' and on 'Go!' evokes the clap on 'Fourth,' etc. These two exercises must be practised until all students can mark the dodging up and dodging down without claperror.
(Q T)
99. Place-making.-Continuing the 'rhythm' exercises, next comes place-making. (Ex. 31.) IIt may be queried as to why it was not taken before the dodging exercise, and the reason is that when these elements are practised on the bells themselves, students seem able the more easily to acquire the knack of changing position for one blow only (at first), then dodging back into the original position.] So, for this exercise, the Tutor refers the class to bell ' 2 ' on the blackboard, which, starting in the top row in second's place, requires the initial clap on the call of 'Second;' Then, on 'Go!', the clap comes on 'First,' etc. The bell, and therefore the clapping, makes second's place and returns to lead again before continuing its hunting up that was interrupted by the place-making. (Q)
100. Bell practice continued.-Meanwhile, all students having had the explanation for these rhythmic exercises, bell practice is resumed, as described in Article 97. with the exercise on 'Following." (Ex. 32.) It should be continued, as far as time permits, until all students are quite proficient in it.
(Q T)
101. Leading off last bell down.-This most important preliminary exercise follows easily upon the previous one. Tutor and assistant first demonstrate, by exchanging bell-ropes. That is, the assistant (representing the pupil) takes the rope which the Tutor had for 'leading.' while the Tutor takes the rope the assistant had for 'following.', (Ex. 33.) The exercise begins by the 'pupil' pulling of and ringing with the beat acquired in Ex. 28 (Article 96), i.e., the pulling to the beat, while the Tutor merely follows the 'pupil.' When the pulling has settled down (after, say, three whole pulls or so) the Tutor calls 'Lead from backstroke!'. Whereupon the student turns his attention to the Tutor's rope, following the precise pulling 'beat' of the Tutor's, but making the "pause' (which represents the 'open handstroke' with which he is already familiar from the rhythm clapping exercises) BEFORE HE PULLS HIS OWN HANDSTROKE. which will be, of course, after the Tutor's BACKSTROKE. This procedure, the Tutor will explain, is what happens when a bell comes to the leading position, and applies whether following a 'covering ' bell, as with tenor behind, or the last bell down, as in methods with the tenor 'turned in.' (Explain and show carefully.)
101a. Covering.-This is the act of ringing a bell so that it strikes always behind or after all other bells have sounded in the order of a change.' These changes vary at each new stroke, thus presenting a different bell in the penultimate position at every new stroke; or at every other new stroke, according to what method it is. So that the ultimate bell, or the bell 'behind,' or the 'covering' bell, as it is generally called (the tenor bell, as a rule), although striking over different bells as the changes are produced, remains always in the same position-behind all the others. (Ex. 33a.) For this exercise the student takes the fourth bell and the Tutor No. 3, with assistants on 1 and 2 . After a few rounds, to get the rhythm of the fixed-bell beat, 'Go, Singles!' is called, and the first three bells go through the six plainhunt changes. (Reference can already have been made to Article 90 and to the word 'transit' introduced there, to remind the student what the name 'Singles' 'means-i.e., changerows produced by single transits only.) Meanwhile the student keeps his bell in the fourth place throughout. He will be familiar with the rhythmic process of keeping in a given place from the hand-clap exercises already taken; but be is required, now, to SEE his place among the ropes by looking round for the last of the three ropes down before his. He must, of coursc, keep reasonably close to the others, throughout bells being silenced.
102. Dodging. (Bell). - Although familiar from the rhythm exercises which correspond Exs. 29 and 30 -with this one, yet the Tutor explains that in order to acquire facility in dodging, the practice movement will go on continuously, and three bells will be used. (Ex. 34.) The assistant takes No. 1, the Tutor No. 2 and the student No. 3. They start as in Ex. 28 (Article 96) while ringing 'rounds, on three, and when settled down the Tutor calls 'Dodging at hand. Go!'. Completing the usual whole pull as in rounds, the student next checks his bell more than usual as it comes up to the next handstroke check, and thus pulls off again in front of the Tutor's bell. i.e., he follows No. 1. thus dodging with No. 2 at handstroke. Then as his bell rises to the backstroke check position he allows it to come on to the balance (with which he is familiar from such action in most previous exercises) and thus 'holds up' a little while the Tutor 'cuts, under him to strike in 2nds place again, leaving the student back in 3rds place as at the start. This continues until the Tutor calls "Rounds!". (O T) the Tutor calls 'Rounds !'
(Ex. 35.) The exercise is repeated with the dodging on the backstroke. which involves, of course, the student's making his first variation in the striking on the backstroke check, checking it more than usual and thus 'cutting under' the second bell ' at back' to strike after its predecessor. Similarly, he 'Holds up' at hand, reverting to the starting place of ' 3 ? reverting to the starting place of "3.' (Q T.)
103. Place-making (Bell). (Ex. 36.) In this exercise the student (still on No. 3) works as in Ex. 34 by 'cutting under at hand' on the call 'Place-making in 2-3 Go!', but completes the whole pull there, over No. 1, while the Tutor on No. 2 makes 3rds over him. Then, as the bell rises on the handstroke check, the student allows it to go on to the balance and thus holds up a little while the Tutor cuts under him to make 2nds place, as the student makes 3 rds over him. The whole is repeated until Tutor gives the sall 'Rounds!'
(Q T)
104. Place-making Wrong.-The Tutor now explains that just as in dodging, the first variation blow can be either at hand or at back, so, while normally places may be considered as made 'hand then back,' still they can be made ' back then hand.' sometimes called 'placemaking wrong.' (Ex. 37.) So in this exercise the student; on the call 'Place-making, wrong, in 2-3 Go!', cuts under at back and makes his first blow in 2nds with the backstroke pull, the second blow there being the handstroke pull, while the Tutor makes 3rds, wrong, over him. Then the student holds up at the following back(Continued next page)

OBITUARY

MR. WALTER H. CHALK
Langford, Essex, has lost a highly respected inhabitant by the death of Mr. Walter Harry Chalk, in his 80th year, on September 18th at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. H. L. Bird, of Deans Hall, Little Maplestead, Halstead. He was the last surviving son of the late William Chalk, who was for many years an active member of All Saints', Maldon, band, and one of the founders of the Essex Association in 1879.
He was a life member of the Maldon band, but for the last few years his ringing activities were curtailed by defective vision. He was not able to devote as much time to ringing as his brothers William, Fred and Philip, but he was always welcomed at district meetings. He took part in the 'Chalk' peal of Minor at St Nicholas', Witham, in December, 1913, and after the installation of the 'Chalk' and ' Wadley bells in September, 1932, he stood in the first peal of Major (Kent Treble B $\oplus$ b) in the following month. On this occasion three old friends completed the band, viz.: E. Bright (Witham), H. J. Mansfield (Maldon) and W. Keeble (Feering), conductor.

He loved music in its best forms, vocal and instrumental, and had a pleasant tenor voice, being a chorister at St. Giles' Church, Langford, for over 70 years. It was in the musical evenings in the family home in his early life that he was seen at his best, for the Sunday evening services were often followed by unaccompanied quartets from the well-known oratorios, and touches and tunes on handbells. He was well versed in the scriptures, and could quote freely from poems dealing with country life, with a strong love of the writings of Thomas Gray and William Cowper. Maldon ringers can recall that when visiting Stoke Poges tower, Walter lined them up near the famous yew trees and quoted several verses from Gray's 'Elegy.'
Mr. Chalk was estate bailiff for the late Lord Byron for more than 40 years, and for the last 20 years, with his sons, had farmed Stock Hall, Ulting, Essex. He served as an overseer, school manager, rate collector and clerk to the parish meetings.

He was laid to rest at Langford on September 22 nd, the service being conducted by the Rev. C. E. Bolsin, Vicar of Heybridge and Langford, wit! Mrs. N. Wakelin as organist. The church was filled to capacity. Ringers present were Mr. P. A. F. Chalk (nephew) and Mr. J. Chalk (Woodford), Messrs. H. J. Mansfield, A. Hubble, S. Easter, S. Linnett (All Saints', Maldon) W. Mellin and Miss W. Mellin (Witham), P. G. Sayer (Great Totham) and E. Johnson (Goldhanger). After the interment the four members of the All Saints', Maldon, band rang a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells.

stroke into 3rds place over the Tutor now in 2 nds , and completes the whole pull with the handstroke in 3rds. The whole is then repeated until the call 'Rounds!'. (No. 1 leads throughout, but explain that place-making is not always over one bell only.)
105. Questions. - Although a questions item was not specifically mentioned at the close of Lesson 4 (on account of time), yet a short interval should always be reserved for these if possible; and particularly after the work of the current lesson, which has seen the first ringing in concert, although, of course, it is still silenced ringing. The Tutor should evoke further interest by reminding students that progress will be made, in the next session, to the first bit of method ringing on a bell, i.e., plain hunting, though this will require some further preliminary explanation.

MR. WILLIAM T. ELSON
As briefly reported in 'The Ringing World, dated October 5th, Mr. William T. Elson, of Putney, died in hospital on September 25th. The funeral service, prior to cremation at Mortlake, was held in St. Mary's Church, Putney, on October 1st, conducted by the Vicar, Rev. J. D. Pearce-Higgins.

Although in his 90th year, Mr. Elson was widely known for his youthful outlook and activity. He was not a prolific peal ringer, having about 50 peals to his credit, but was extremely keen on maintaining Sunday service ringing, and he took considerable pains to encourage and establish a regular band at Putney. He had composed a number of peals, mainly of Stedman and Grandsire Caters and Double Norwich Major. His ready sense of humour never deserted him, even at a time when he must have been suffering extreme pain. The annual outing which he organised from Putney was a model, and many London ringers will not hesitate to agree that his was the best they had ever attended.

It is not only in London that Mr. Elson will be "missed; he had of latter years been a regular visitor to Birmingham on the occasion of the Henry Johnson commemoration dinner, and was always warmly welcomed in that city.

In spite of the fact that Mr. Elson's death reached 'The Ringing World ' too late to publicise the arrangements, there were present at the service, in addition to relatives and other friends, a large number of ringers. The bells were rung unmuffled both before and after the service, and in the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung.

Among those present at the service were Miss F. C. Brown, Messrs. J. W. Chapman, F. E. Corfield, H. Cox, R. F. Deal, J. Euston, F. W. Goodfellow (representing Mr. E. C. S. Turner and the Middlesex County Association), J. S. Hawkins. N. G. Hollingworth, W. S. Langdon, H. W. Rogers, M. H. Sinden, J. F. Smallwood, J. Tomsett. F. W. Wicks and W. G. Wilson. Among the floral tributes was a wreath from the local bands of Wimbledon and Putney.

The quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by Miss F. C. Brown 1, J. W. Chapman 2, B. D. Dibben 3, N. G. Hollingworth 4, P. J. Hutchings 5, W. G. Wilson (conductor) 6, F. E. Corfield 7, F. W. Wicks 8.

MR. A. MASON

We regret to announce the passing of Mr. A. Mason, aged 77, a member of the Ludlow Parish Church band and of the Hereford Guild since 1901. He rang in 69 peals for the Hereford Guild.

MR. ALVA G. HARDING

A faithful member of the Rugeley band for some 20 years, Mr. Alva G. Harding passed away on August 22nd, after a long and painful illness, at the early age of 46 years. He was a most regular Sunday service ringer until his health compelled him to take an outdoor job which involved a great deal of Sunday work, but even then he never missed an opportunity of ringing when his duties permitted.

He was not a great peal ringer, but ho was always proud of the fact that he took part in the first peal ever rung on the Rugeley bells.

The funeral took place on August 27th, and the Rugeley ringers were represented by Messrs. J. H. Joyner and E. H. Norman. Among the floral tributes was a wreath from his fellow ringers, in the shape of a figure 4 , the fourth bell having always been his special favourite in the Rugeley ring. As the coffin left the church, this was the bell that was tolled.

A quarter peal was rung with the bells halfmuffled on the evening of the funeral, but owing to holidays it was not possible to arrange a band for a full peal to his memory until September 12th. Details of these appear elsewhere in this issue.

May he rest in peace.

MAIDSTONE GRAMMAR SCHOOL SOCIETY

The Society held its annual meeting at Wateringbury on September 15 th, when members enjoyed ringing on the light six-a change from Maidstone's heavy ten.

Canon Soar conducted the service and welcomed the Society to Wateringbury. Mr. Baker presided at the business meeting, when the following officers were elected : President. Mr. G. I. F. Thomson; co-president, Miss Parkinson (subject to her consent); treasurer, M. E. Downs; secretary, P. Y. Butcher; Ringing Master, C. Dring; committee-B. Brooks, E. King, S. Scott and A. Gammon. It was agreed that the committee should be responsible for arranging tea for the K.C.A. annual meeting and that they co-opt helpers from available members. Upon the proposition of B. Brooks, seconded by Y. Spice, it was decided that the Society should have honorary members (i.e., ringers who have never attended Maidstone Grammar School). The subscription will be 2 s . It is hoped to hold the next meeting at Boxley on January 5th.

With the help of Mr. Baker, Mr, H. Usborne and Wateringbury ringers, ringing was continued until 8 p.m. Methods rung included Plain Bob, Grandsire and Oxford Bob. The Society extends its thanks to these non-members and also to Canon Soar and the organist.

OUTING

OSWESTRY

There scem to have been a number of unusual outings this summer, and the Oswestry ringers' effort on September 1st was no exception, when nine ringers squeezed themselves hopefully into Roger Morris' notorious conveyance, 'Ichabod,' which is a 1932 London taxi painted yellow and, of course, Cambridge blue, for those not already acquainted with it. The appearance of 'Ichabod' outside the parish church excited much speculative comment, especially when the press arrived and took a photo or two and copious notes on the back of an envelope! We were duly rewarded by the publication of the photo and a full but slightly inaccurate report which, amongst other things, described Grandsire Triples as a complicated peal.'

The delay cost us 15 minutes, and this, with our sudden arrival in a muddy expanse dotted with ducks somewhere between Ellesmere and Wem-the result of an error of judgment in navigation-contrived to make us 25 minutes late at our first tower, Wem ( $8,13 \mathrm{cwt}$.).

We hurried on to Clive, where the local captain ant 'Benny,' with his also notorious 'Ariel,' met us. A long ring was thoroughly enjoyed on this glorious six ( 25 cwt .) before the most hazardous part of the trip was tackled. Clive and Hodnet appear to be linked on the map, at least, but before the latter was reached - lchabod ' surmounted boulders, beds of nettles and various other hazards on a byway which must have disappeared with the coaching days. Some good ringing was enjoyed on the lovely octave at Hodnet ( 14 cwt.), where the Vicar, having been on holiday, readily agreed to our ringing at very short notice.

The last tower of the day, High Ercall (8, 11 cwt .), was again reached late, and difficulty was found in striking this anti-clockwise ring, because of the long draught and the loud swishing of the ropes. which certainly held its own with the noise of the bells.

Benny" guided us to Shrewsbury and we eventually reached home at 9.45 after a thoroughly enjoyable day.
Methods rung included Grandsire Doubles and Triples, Stedman Doubles and Triples, P.B. Minor and Major, Kent T.B. Minor and Cambridge Minor.
Thanks are due to the incumbents and local ringers who allowed us to ring so willingly; ' Benny' and, of course, Roger and 'Ichabod,' a combination which 'made' the outing.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

The Saxmundham District had one of the best days of the summer for its meeting on September 22nd. Ringing commenced at Tunstall in the afternoon with Blaxhall bells available in the evening. Among the many methods rung were Plain Bob, Kent, Oxford, Double Court, Cambridge and London.
Some competition was experienced during the afternoon in the form of jet aircraft (U.S.A.) from a nearby air station, during which the roar of the engines drowned the sound of the bells to the ringers.
A very good tea for the 15 members present was provided at the Ship Inn. Blaxhall. At the business meeting Miss Molly Mayhew. of Blaxhall. was elected a member of the Guild. A tribute was also paid to the memory of Mr. George Berry, who rarely missed attending district meetings. A vote of thanks was passed for the use of the bells and tea, and the next meeting fixed for November 24th at Kelsale.

The bells of St. Margaret's, Hemingford Abhots, will be heard on the air prior to morning service on Sunday, October 21st, at 9.30.

PAST AND PRESENT

wHEN Hilaire Belloc wrote, 'And the men that were boys when I was a boy shall sit and drink with me,' he had in mind not only the return to his native soil but also those gatherings of old friends so well beloved of English people, and indeed of people all over the world (for did not old Omar write of the meeting of cronies and the turning down of an empty glass for the absent one?).

Ringers are not for the most part demonstrative folk, nor are they given to sentimentality, but they like social gatherings and a chance to talk together on ringing matters of past time and the incidents, adventures and accidents attendant on ringing occasions. At no social gathering of ringers has this harmless trait been so pleasingly revealed as at the recent reunion (the second of its kind) of the veterans of the Exercise. Nothing perhaps shows so clearly the essential vitality of change ringing and the virility of so large a body of its devotees as this concourse of men who link the past with the present.
There are in the world to-day those who affect to despise the past, and for whom the contemptuous pronouncement, 'He lives in the past,' suffices to sum up anyone reaching advanced years. Such an attitude is not only completely mistaken but is also selfish. Every sensible man knows that his knowledge, his powers, his opportunities for advancement, even his very existence itself, depends on the past, and that to scorn those of past time is to refuse to acknowledge the debt to those who have worked for him and made sacrifices for him.

Our lusty veterans, who met at the Hall of the Worshipful Company of Fan Makers, assuredly spent much of that precious time living in the past, and for this they will certainly make no apology, nor need they do so. Recollection in tranquillity is one of the great gifts of God, a pleasure enjoyed by young and old, and none has more right to a full enjoyment of it than these men with their long and varied (and in many cases illustrious) ringing careers.

But a study of the names of the company present.on this occasion reveals that, far from being content to live in the past, there are among the veterans men who are leading the Exercise at the present time and can still successfully challenge our brilliant young men in certain essential particulars. Here are first-rate handbell ringers whose double-handed skill has not been lost over the years; here is an active composer, here a regular and virile contributor to 'The Ringing World.' This man leads in the deliberations of the Central Council, that man assumes responsibilities that many shrink from. And among these old friends are men who, a year or two ago, handled those mighty bells at Liverpool Cathedral with a calm assurance and technical skill that called forth the admiration of younger ringers who had the privilege of watching.
It has been pointed out by many speakers and writers that the privileges of the present are part of a heritage from the past, and nowhere is this so true as in the world of change ringing. Generations arise and pass away, and the young men of to-day are the old men of to-morrow. Therefore we hail our veterans. They may perhaps echo the words of Tennyson's Ulysses:
'Tho' we are not now that strength which in old days Moved earth and heaven . . .,' yet we, who have been privileged to know them, may still look upon many of them as our natural leaders. Long may they continue to meet, and (if they wish) to live in the past.
E. C. S.

BUSHEY HEATH OUTING

A really successful outing was enjoyed by the Bushey Heath band and their friends on September 22 nd . All the towers visited had rings of eight, and four out of the six were rung from the floor. The band included some beginners, but these were never forgotten, but were encouraged to ring rounds and so increase their experience by ringing bells to which they were unaccustomed. The rest of the band contented themselves with Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples and Bob Major. In the last tower of all a most satisfying course of Kent was successfully accomplished by several of the band for the first time.

The first tower visited was Knebworth. To reach the church we walked past the ornamental house of Lord Bulwer Lytton. From there we went to Bennington, which has a most interesting bell-ringing history within the memory of some of our ringers. The squire, himself an enthusiastic ringer, insisted that the people who worked for him became the same. It was one of his conditions of employment!

We had a first-class lunch at Royston and then went to the church where a wedding service was beginning. Afterwards the band rang the bride and bridegroom out with a touch of Bob Major. This report would not be complete without a special word of commendation for the bells. They went better than any rung during the day.

The last three towers were Much Hadham, Hunsdon and Hoddesdon. The homeward journey was enlivened by some tune playing on handbells. It was such an enjoyable day that there is not one who is not already looking forward to next year's outing.

THE LADIES' GUILD North-Western District

In a recent issue of 'The Ringing World ' the question was asked: 'What happens to the ladies when there is a Ladies' Guild meeting?'. At Bowdon, Cheshire, on September 29th, the questioner would have seen, during the afternoon and evening, an attendance of 26 members of the Ladies' Guild, when a meeting of the North-Western District was held jointly with the Stockport and Bowdon Branch of the Chester Guild. This was considered to be quite a satisfactory number, but even larger attendances in the future are hoped for.
At the business meeting, held in the Church Vestry by kind invitation of the Vicar, nine new members were elected. Afterwards, the ladies joined in the ringers' service, and then partook of a sumptuous tea in the Church Hall. Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar, the organist, the head ringer, and the ladies who prepared such an enjoyable and satisfying tea.
The annual meeting of the district will be held at Manchester Town Hall on January 19th,

- Sussex Division

A meeting of the Sussex Division was held at Bexhill-on-Sea on September 29th. Owing to two weddings during the afternoon, ringing did not commence until 3.30. At 4.45 p.m. a break was made for tea, followed by a short business meeting for the ladies, while the gentlemen rang for Evensong at 6 p.m.
At the business meeting six new members were elected, and thanks were extended to Miss C. Matthews for making arrangements for tea, and the Vicar for the use of the bells.
It is hoped to hold the next meeting (A.G.M.) on January 12th at St. Nicholas', Brighton.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH

A quarterly meeting of the Llandaft Branch was held at Pentre on September 29th. The music of this grand ring of eight was heard very early in the afternoon. The Branch Master, Mr. Tim Yeomans, saw to it that all had a chance to ring.
Following a delightful service, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. Spencer Jones, visitors were invited to tea at the nearby Church Hall. A vote of thanks for the excellent refreshments, provided by the ladies of the church, was given by the Rev. V. G. Rees.
The Rev. R. Spencer Jones took the chair for the business meeting. Thirteen new members were elected, and the place of the next meeting, to be held jointly with the Southern District of the Swansea and Brecon Guild, was fixed for Aberavon, probably on December 1 st.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GULLD

The quarterly meeting of the Devizes Branch at North Bradley on October 6th was one of the best held for a long time. Some 55 ringers attended. including visitors from Bath, Frome, Weston-super-Mare, Nailsea, Chippenham, Radstock and Swindon. The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar.
Tea was provided by the ringers and friends of North Bradley, for which special thanks were given. The business meeting was presided over by the chairman, Mr. Weeks, who extended a welcome to the Vicar. In his reply, the Vicar said he would be pleased to sec the Guild at North Bradley at any time.
Fifteen new members were elected, 14 of them being from Hilperton. The members stood in silence to the memory of Mr. Derham, an old ringer from Holt, who had passed away.

Meetings were fixed for Holt and Warminster.

RELFRY

 Brian Cookson (secretary) of Cambridge University Guild called into Radio Eireann and were interviewed for the weekly feature 'Who's News?'. The interview was relayed for seven minutes on September 22 nd, during which a perfect course of Bob Minor was rung on handbells.In connection with the Guildford Diocesan Guild dinner at Stoke Hotel, Guildford, tomorrow, at $6.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$., there will be ringing at Stoke Parish Church from 3.30 to 5.30 p.m.
Now with the R.A.F. at Habbaniya, Iraq, A.C. Martin, J., of Horsell, Surrey, writes expressing his thanks to all Wellington, Somerset. ringers for their kindness to him during his stay with the R.A.F. at Locking.

Mr. W. H. Male, of Warwick, on October 1st tapped Holt's Original in 3 hours 2 minutes. This is the 13th peal he has tapped on his bells without figures or any mental aid. These performances were witnessed by Mr. T. Male.

Extensive repairs are being carried out to Worksop church and tower, and ringing will be discontinued for about nine months. The Monday practice at Cuckney is being attended by Worksop ringers.
The peal of Doubles at Kirdford (Sussex) on September 15 th was Sylvia Streater's (not Streeter) first peal of Doubles, and not her first peal, as erroneously stated. She has previously rung peals of Minor and Major methods.

The entire band at Marple, Stockport, have been taught from scratch by Mr. M. J. Pryer in $2 \frac{1}{2}$ years. There are now 14 ringers, of whom nine have rung quarter peals. All but two of the ringers are between the ages of 12 and 18 years. Unfortunately a recent peal attempt was lost after two hours' ringing, owing to a miscall.

GOSSIP

 Corby Northants, how of completed his 200 peals. Practically all of these have been rung in the 'hinterlands' on the borders of Leics, Lines, Northants and Rutland, and at towers where in the normal way little or no change-ringing is done. This total was only achieved after much hard work, long journeys and many disappointing setbacks. It speaks much for his enthusiasm and continued keenness. His total was only achieved with the help of many friends from Leicester, Billesdon, Stamford and Northants. Here are the totals:Doubles 67, Minor 95 , Triples 22, Major 16.In connection with the rededication of the bells of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, as reported on October 5th, Radio Eireann recorded the entire proceedings, and relayed extracts of the dedication, sermon and ringing in 'City Feature' on Monday, September 24 th .

Over 30 members have been enrolled in the College of Campanology, ten of whom are members of the Central Council. The idea of a college or an institution of campanology was by a coincidence ventilated by Mr. F. E. Dukes in the spring issue of the 'Irish Bell News.' Mr. Dukes is an hon. examiner I for the College.
The peal rung at Ibstock, Leicestershire, on September 22 nd, was arranged for the 30 th anniversary of Mr. Ronald H. Dove's first peal, which was rung on these bells. Two of the original band, Messrs. Ernest Morris, of Leicester, and Joseph W. Cotton, of Overseale, took part.

Arising out of the appeal in "The Manchester Guardian ' by the Dean of Lichfield for $£ 200,000$ for the famous 'Three Spire Cathedral,' the Dean received a donation of $£ 1$ from 'Just a ringer' for the supreme pleasure he had had of ringing the bells. Any other ringers had that very great pleasure? There must be hundreds.

CUMBERLANDS OUT OF THE DOLDRUMS

ENCOURAGING REPORT AT ANNUAL DINNER

Mr. Herbert E. Audsley, the Master, was a genial chairman at the annual dinner of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, at 'The Old Bell,' Holborn, on October 6th. He was in the happy position of being able to report a successful year and that the Society was out of the doldrums. Mr. Audsley is the first Master of the Society who has rung in 1,000 peals, and he was the recipient of many congratulations.

After the toast of "The Queen,' Mr. W. R. Winterton proposed the toast of "The Church. In a witty speech he said they would like to express their gratitude to the Church authorities for making ringing possible. After all, bells were not absolutely necessary for the Church, and it was almost impossible to pass any of the old churches without hearing the tick-tack of the death-watch beetle. Since the last dinner the Rev. Charles Edwardes, their Vicar of St. Martin's. had been appointed Bishop of Worcester. He wrote and congratulated him on his appointment.

The Rev. Gordon Blacktop, Vicar of Thames Ditton, replied, and said that throughout the centuries the Church had mothered the arts, such as music, painting and sculpture, and he supposed that campanology was one of the youngest of the arts the Church had mothered. He thought a mother had her greatest affection for her youngest, and that probably accounted for the affectionate feeling that existed towards bell-ringers. He would not say that bell-ringers had been tied to the Mother-Church's bell-ropes, but they had been very close friends.

THE EXAMPLE OF THE PAST

The toast of 'The Society' was proposced by Mr. F. E. Hawthorne, who recalled some of the achievements of the past. On March 27th, 1784, at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, the Society rang 12,000 Oxford Treble Bob Royal, which if the records he had were true was the first peal rung by only ten men. That was a great feat because ringing was very different in those days and such a performance was something for our young ringers to strive for.

There were many other notable performances. In 1801 they rang the only peal of Court Bob Royal, which until the end of 1932 was the only peal recorded in the method. In 1807 the Society must have been in a very good position as far as money was concerned. because they presented two new trebles to Shoreditch to make it a ring of 12 . There were two other peals of merit rung during that period-7,104 Treble Bob Maximus, rung by 12 men, and 5,200 Treble Bob Royal, at St. Mary-le-Bow.

The Society also did valuable work in writing on the art, and he would mention the publication of George Gross and his two sons, Shipway, Jones, Reeves and Blackmore. In the field of composition they should also mention Joseph Riley, John Cox and Henry Dains. The modern age was well represented by George Cross, J. D. Matthews and their present Master, and it was an honour to think that the present Master was one of the few who had rung more than 1.000 peals during their lives. Of Mr. Audsley's achievement, quer 300 peals were rung in three adjacent towers.

The Master, in acknowledging the toast, said he did not claim to have rung 1,000 peals, but to have rung in 1,000 peals with the assistance of ringers up and down the country. He thanked those ringers who took part for their assistance, and also the clergy who granted their permission.

A SUCCESSFUL YEAR
So far the Society had had a very successful year. They had a good meeting at Westerham in conjunction with the Tonbridge District, and also at Great Waltham and Chelmsford. The meeting at Harrow-on-the-Hill was also very successful. Peals rung so far this year were Stedman Caters at St. Martin's, Double Norwich at Portsmouth, seven Minor methods at Bosham, Minor at Preston Candover, two peals of Doubles at Stoke D'Abernon, Stedman Cinques at Birmingham Cathedral and Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's.

Mempers stood in remembrance of Messrs. W. H. Theobald, S. Shellock, W. J. Nudds, F. May (who died in Cape Town) and W. T. Elson (who although not a member of the Society frequently attended their dinners). New members made during the year more than compensated for their losses by death.

The Master said there was a question as to whether they had had a successful year. Personally he thought they had. Although ringing at St. Martin's and Shoreditch was not as prominent as in the old days, members were fulfilling their commitments in the suburban towers. They must thank Mr. Tom Francis for making a great effort in maintaining ringing in St. Martin's.

A FINE ACHIEVEMENT

Congratulations to Exford ringers on their peal! This new band has only been ringing two years. Mr. F.W. T, Phillimore, who could himself handle a bell and was the only one who could, was asked by a former captain if he would try and get a company together.

They got 'The Ringer's Handbook' and taught themselves change-ringing with, Salisbury Guild officers believe, no outside help.

Last February they asked if they could join the Guild, and the eight members of the team were elected at the next meeting when their standard of ringing was very good. Now comes the news of their triumph-their first peal.

He was afraid ringing in the Metropolis so far as the Society was concerned was on the down grade, but as long as they had country members ringing and maintaining their service ringing and standard of striking, he was sure the Cumberlands would still do good work.

That day they had pleasure in ringing at St. Martin's and St. John's, Waterloo Road, and he would like to express the Society's thanks to the incumbents.

Mr. F. J. Cullum proposed the toast of "The Visitors: He accorded a special welcome to the Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and hoped they were having a successful year. They welcomed members from Newark and also experts from Bournemouth, Portsmouth and Birmingham. They were also pleased to have with them the secretary of the Central Council, Mr. E. A. Barnett, who was a Cumberland, Squadron Leader J. S. Mason and Mr. T. W. White replied to the toast.

An enjoyable entertainment was provided by Betty Chapman (songs), Dorothy Brown (piano), Peter Brown (monologues), Stan Brown (compere) and Bunny Chapman (comedian).

THE COMPANY

Supporting the Master and Mrs. Audsley were Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hawthorne. Sqdn, Leader J. S. Mason (Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mr. E. A. Barnett (hon. secretary of the Central Council), Mr. W. R. Winterton and Mr. P. N. Bond hon. secretary of the Royal Society of Cumberland Youths), the Rev. G. Blacktop, the Rev. G. Greig (Vicar of Walton) ; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Exton. Mr. and Mrs. G. Verrill, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Raithby, Mr. and Mrs. Halsey, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Cullum, Mr. and Mrs. N. North, Mr. and Mrs. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lathbury, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Deal, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Francis, Mr. and Mrs. B. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kirkby, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Humphries, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bevan, Mrs. E. Matthews; Messrs. G. Paul, D. Bartholomew, F. W. Burnett, A. House, T. Clark, C. J. Matthews. F. W. Midwinter, D. T. Matkin, C. Copp, A. G. Mason, C. E. Slade, J. Cone, N. Steere, J. Leeming, G. Carter, A. Butler; the Misses J. W. Garner, E. W. Keys, M. Reay, E. Fletcher, N. Shorter, B. Mason, P. Miller, Nolan, S. H. Dovey, Wooller, J. Peacock, E. Arthur, Green, B. Thompson, M. Prockson.

Apologies were received from the Rev. Meredith Davis, Messrs. A. Harding, A. R. Ling and Ian Oram. The Essex Association, who were holding their dinner that evening, sent their fraternal greetings.

THE MAN FROM PHILADELPHIA

A Devon Welcome

When a lady approached me recently and said she had a cousin coming from America to stay in Sidmouth for a few days, could I kindly arrange some ringing, as he was interested in bellringing, I agreed to do so with a certain amount of diffidence.

A fen days later Mr. Morris A. Turner, of Philadelphia, was introduced to me, and on spotting the badge of the Peterborough Guild in his coat lapel, any qualms regarding the ringing quickly disappeared.

Get cracking' seemed to be the next move, so the following evening (Wednesday) we were ringing at East Budleigh ( 6 , tenor 9 cwt .) and Otterton ( $6,12 \mathrm{cwt}$ ). Friday evening a quarter peal in three methods was attempted at Harpford ( $6,7 \mathrm{cwt}$.), and after ringing 360 of Plain Bob Minor and 720 Grandsire Doubles a trip in the last 180 of Stedman Doubles brought the well-struck effort to an end. As Mr. Turner remarked in a "slight drawl': 'Gee. that was good striking, and I sure guess we were going places.' Those taking part were G. C. Woodley 1, Betty Smith 2, M. A. Turner 3, P. Davis 4, E. W. Rowe (conductor) 5, K. Clarke 6 .

On Saturday Exeter Cathedral was visited, where Mr. Turner had a touch of Grandsire Caters, strapped the $72 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. tenor to a 12 -bell touch and lowered the treble, 11th and 10th (all singly). Sunday morning, Sidmouth ( $8,12 \mathrm{cwt}$.) and Sidbury ( $8,16 \mathrm{cwt}$.) were visited, and in the evening St. Mark's, Exeter (8. 121 cwt .) and Alphington (8. 16 cwt ), where call-changes were rung.

Monday evening found us at Ottery St. Mary ( $8,18 \mathrm{cwt}$.), where we also met the president of the Devon Guild (Preb. E. V. Cox). Tuesday evening a quarter peal, 1,260 Grandsire Triples, was rung at Honiton Clyst (8, 19 cwt.), those taking part being E. R. Retter 1, J. Salway 2, Mrs. G. E. Retter 3, M. A. Turner 4. A. Holway 5, E. W. Rowe 6, G. F. Retter (conductor) 7, E. Morgan 8. The first quarter peal for Mr. Turner since 1908. Then on to Sowton (8, ${ }^{9 \frac{3}{2}}$ cwt.) for touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples and Plain Bob Major. Wednesday we visited St. Paul's, Honiton (8. $12 \frac{1}{3} \mathrm{cwt}$.) and Offwell ( $6,9 \mathrm{cwt}$ ). Thursday was the last evening for Mr. Turner in Devonshire and it proved a grand climax as we rang a peal of 5,040 Plain Bob Minor at Brampford Speke ( $6.5 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.), this being Mr. Turner's first peal since 1908.
On behalf of Mr. Turner and myself I would like to thank the incumbents for granting permission to ring at short notice, also the ringers of East Devon for their kind and ready cooperation.

UNIVERSITIES' ASSOCIATION SUFFOLK TOUR

The Story of Lost Peals

THERE are memorable features about each U.A. tour. Members who were present often recall the wonderful accommodation at Wortley Hall, Nottingham, or the number of handbell peals rung at Oxford in 1953. This year's tour was something of an anti-climax, the most outstanding features being the number of peals lost and the fact that no one had more than one sheet on his or her bed.

The tour was held from Saturday. August 25th, to Saturday. September 1st. based on Leiston Abbcy. Suffolk, a restored abbey owned by the local diocesan authorities. Members assembled during the day in Ipswich, where arrangements had been made for ringing in four churches, including St. Mary-le-Tower, then at 6 p.m. set off by car and motor-cycle on the 20 -mile trip to Leiston.

A HANDBELL RACE

On Sunday morning the Rev. Malcolm Melville officiated at Communion in the abbey's Lady Chapel, allowing people to lie abed a little later than would have been possible if they had had to go to Leiston. It had been arranged that we should help local companies with their ringing for morning service, and this gave tower snatchers an opportunity to ring at some churches which would not be visited at any other time during the week. During the rest of the day some swam, a few visited Dunwich where a church recently fell over the cliff edge and where, some say, the bells can still be heard beneath the waves: a peal of Minor was rung at Blythburgh and another was lost through bad conducting at Aldeburgh. The evening's handbell ringing was enlivened by a race in which two teams in the same room with equal-sized bells each rang a course of Bob Major: the result was a dead heat.
The tour proper began well. We arrived at Halesworth, the first of Monday's churches, ten minutes early, in fact before the Rector and the member of the local company who came to welcome us. Our next stop was Beccles, a place well known to several of the members: Jumbo Seager had lived there for several years, and Malcolm Melville had rung there in a rather fast U.A. peal to celebrate V.J. Day (which peal was later discussed at length in the correspondence column of "The Ringing World'). After lunch the mob went off to Lowestoft and Pakefield while a select band visited Stradbroke and lost a peal of Little Bob Royal. When we revisited Stradbroke later in the week we found that there were trapdoors by which sound entering the helfry could be adjusted-if only we had realised. Losing the peal did, however, enable us to have some tea and ioin the main party at Southwold, where we arrived in time to witness a course of Yorkshire Major for a 'beginner' in which every other member of the band made a mistake. while the learner went serenely on without a trip.

In the evening we held what was probably our quickest ever general meeting. The most important decision was that next year's tour should he held in Yorkshire, probably based on Bingley but with Sheffield as a second possibility.

Tuesday was a day to which some of us had been looking forward for quite a long time, the day for an attempt to ring a peal of York"s new method, Hybrid No. 6. We had arranged to attempt this method last January, but had to cancel our try at the last minute, so immediately upon our arrival at Leiston we decided that it should be our Debenham effort. At Debenham we were very pleased to meet Mr. Peter Laflin of Cheshire - well known to most of us- who was on holiday in Suffolk and had rung in a peal in this tower the previous Saturday. After adjusting the ropes to suit us, we set off and rang for about half-an-hour: reasons given for the failure are various: some hold the view that a stat was omitted, while others aver that someone forgot to make a place-probably we shall never know the truth. We realised that we could not join the rest of the party who had gone to visit Laxfield. Fressingfield and Wingfield before lunch, so we headed for the local coffee house which, we discovered, was open every day except Tuesday.
In the afternoon a few of those who had unhappy memories of Stradbroke went on a private visit to Oakley, and later another party set out for an evening ring at Lavenham. Most of us spent the evening at Leiston practice where, helped by members of the local company, we rang methods up to Spliced Surprise.

That Subscription Business

Perhaps this might catch the eye of one of those who have neglected to renew their postal subscription! This is a last reminder. Please send at once to Mr. J. E. Jeater, Greystones, Cusgarne, Truro, Cornwall. Rates: One quarter 7s. 6d, six months 14 s .6 d ., 12 months $\mathrm{f} 1 \mathrm{8s}$ New subscribers should also note the above rates. They are welcome.

Wednesday began with Corporate Communion, again celebrated by Malcolm Melville in the Lady Chapel. The morning then saw a continuation of our peal losing activities, when Double Norwich came to grief rafter two hours of good ringing at Leiston. The remainder of the party visited Dennington and Framlingham before lunch, which was eaten at a tavern about a mile from Framlingham on the road toward Debenham. For the second successive day the handbells were produced and a course of Stedman Cinques brought round. This was done in the open air to give the performers more room and the photographers a sporting chance of taking a decent picture. Ringing in the afternoon was at Dehenham, Stonham Aspal and Henley officially, and unofficially at Coddenham

A WATERSPOUT

Only two-thirds of the party went back for supper; the others had been bribed by Paul Taylor into making the hundred and odd mile trip to Coggeshall in Essex to inspect his firm's most recent handiwork. Those who did return to Leiston were amazed by the accuracy of YorkBramble's weather forecasting service. His predicted storm came with such violence as to flood the roads in many places and fill the drains in Saxmundham so that a manhole cover was blown off and a waterspout appeared in the middle of the main street. The evening was a quiet one for most, but four who hadn't had enough went upstairs to ring a handbell peal of St. Clement's and, having forgotten to open the windows, fell asleep.

By Thursday, the speed of the tour was beginning to tell, and there was considerable difficulty in finding ten people who wanted to ring in the peal attempt at Stonham Aspal. Eveniually ten willing ringers were found, and after a false start Roger Savory brought the peal of Grandsire Caters safely home in 3 hours and 5 minutes. Gus Edge, on the tenor, had the misfortunc to find himself with an untucked ropeend after three-quarters of an hour, but though he collected a handful of blisters he kept the bell in its place to the end of the peal. Meanwhile, the main party had visited Tunstall, where five and six were rung kneeling down; then Hollesley and Woodbridge.

Thursday was easily the best day of the tour as far as weather was concerned, so good, in fact, that in the afternoon there were people sitting out in the churchyard when they could have been ringing on a ten as good as Grundisburgh.

Our last full day began with a visit to Eye where, after enjoying the good bells, we saw the site of Mr. Day's old bell foundry and drank coffee. While we were in the tower someone had been busy labelling the cars: most of the names reflected the character of the occupants, one the character of the car.

A WORD FOR THE TENOR MAN
After an hour on the light eight at Palgrave we had lunch, then went on to the fine ring at Diss, where we would have liked to stay longer. Next came Pulham St. Mary. Mrs. McGuiness, though not ringing, had not been wasting her time, and announced that tea had been arranged at Harleston. On then to Redenhall, where immediately opposite the tenor box is the notice: 'Use no bad words, this is a sacred place.' We finished the tour's ringing with a listener's special request, a touch of four spliced which required no bad words to be used

After supper we had our usual social evening. We missed the professional services of Geoffrey Carter, but York and Charlie McGuiness had laid in a fair supply and Jumbo obviously knew how to serve it out. Entertainment included a demonstration of telepathy (or was it clairvoyance?) by that eminent mind reader Profes sor A. Y-B. Presentations of a dolls' tea service to Mrs. McGuiness (champion tea organiser) and a dog collar and lead to Brian Threlfall (for his wife's use) were made; Stedman Cinques and Bristol Major were lapped on handbells, and Wilf Moreton demonstrated his expertness in the bathing of babies. The evening ended with an hilarious game of musical arms with $\mathbf{A}$. Y-B. at the piano.
On Saturday morning there was no hurry to rise; goodbyes were said, and a band of eight stalwarts set off for Woodbridge to try to ring Superlative. They failed, but learned that Andrew Fosdike went up and down this steeple seven times in 27 minutes in the 67 th year of his age. March 15th, 1753.
So ended a successful tour, successful even if there were no sheets.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY

Dear Sir,-Reasonable people welcome criticism; but on behalf of the several members of the Central Council who are Governors of the College, may we protest against the utterly untrue and malicious attack of Mr. Philip Corby?
The first article (see page 492. middle column) actually made clear an objective of the College as being work for, and aimed at receiving the commendation of (based on achicvement), the Central Council. If Mr. Corby had really looked into the matter he would have found no basis for his accusations, but that-
(1) This is not a 'private project launched in these columns,' but one born of years of endeavour and sponsored by many leading ringers who have the future of ringing, dependent upon training, at heart. And we all support the paper because its columns are open for such objectives.
(2) It is not (as he says) 'intended to usurp the functions of the Council.' On the contrary, it exists to implement them, particularly by fostering efforts to approach more nearly to the Council's standards and dicta.
(3) It is not 'imposing arbitrary standards on the Exercise whether we like it or not.' But its members (all voluntary!) work to certain standards essential for the maintenance of a reasonable level of attainment and efficiency, embodied in a manual of reference. Its content is being openly offered for the information and help of those interested in maintaining our art in the future, that is, in the field of training.
(4) The content of the first Part of the Manual (now being serialised) is the collated evidence of good teaching and good performance of ringing as observed and noted down over nearly 50 years; and has been proved in the practice of instruction. It is in no sense regarded as 'the last word,' but rather as a provisional working basis of the College in 'Part I.' It invites comment and constructive criticism, so that the Governors may review, in the light of the further experience thus gained, the complete serialisation.
It is. of course, of no benefit to anyone that such ill-founded statements as Mr. Corby's should be made ; but the College is not deterred. Publication, in due course, of the measure of widespread support by responsible and wellknown ringers may surprise him. But then, progress is hardly attained by looking no further than the end of one's nose-where almost anything may appear as 'nonsense.'-Yours very truly.
A. YORK-BRAMBLE.

UTILISING AN IDEA

Dear Sir.-A peal composition of Plain Bob published recently in 'The Ringing World,' utilising sixths and fourths place bobs, brought to mind a composition that I produced some years ago and which might be of interest to readers. It contains the extent with 7-8 unaffected, if used to clean proof Surprise Major methods (which, of course, is unobtainable with one type of bob).
I give here the original composition of 13.440 Bristol Surprise Major and example of using the same idea with the other types of method.

Repeat each one four times.
N.B.-6ths place bobs in 8ths place methods. 4 th place bobs in 2 nds place methods. 4 means 4 place bob; 6 means 6 place bob-Yours faithfully.

DERBYSHIRE PEAL TOUR

Dear Sir,-On behalf of the committee and members of the Derbyshire Association 1 wish publicly to acknowledge the generosity of the members of the party which recently visited Derbyshire and who so readily agreed to honour the gentleman's agreement for the payment of 6d. per rope as a peal fee towards Association funds.

The success of the tour ensured a very welcome addition to Association funds, and the handsome payment came at a time when the committee had considered it necessary to warn members that in the very near future attention would have to be paid to the financial position of the Association.
It was with much pleasure that 22 of the party were unanimously elected to non-resident life membership of the Association, and the sincere hope is expressed that the facilities offered for peal ringing in Derbyshire fulfilled all the expectations of the visitors.
The report of the tour in a recent issue of - The Ringing World ' was certainly very impressive, and proved of great interest to ringers in the district. Perhaps local peal ringers may now be spurred to greater efforts in future.Yours, etc.,

> A. B. COOPER.

WE OWE AN APOLOGY

Dear Sir,-The gently ironical 'dead pan' humour of George Fearn has claimed another victim-yourself.
Based, no doubt, on the hostelry badinage of a Derbyshire ringing week, Belfry Gossip announces that Ralph Edwards is now in Birmingham and his name expected to be seen among St. Martin's Guild peals during the coming winter. All over the country wild-cyed wives and frustrated fiancées are flourishing 'The Ringing World ' at their cowering menfolk: 'So much for that tale about a weekend ringing in Birmingham at Ralph's last winter. Well, where did you go?'
During his $3 \frac{1}{2}$ years in Birmingham, Ralph Edwards may occasionally have shown minimum enthusiasm towards first peals of Surprise Major, from Alaska to Zanzibar, or 'a good peal of Cambridge' amid the ice-strewn wastes of Bishop Ryder's church. His annual contribution to the St. Martin's Guild peal total has been a mere two-score or so. Just a guest artiste, George Fearn would consider. But at least, sir, a local guest artiste.-Yours in consternation.

HIGHEST INN IN ENGLAND

Dear Sir,-With the report of the activities of the Derbyshire tourists, the need for a Bellringers' Guide to the Inns of Britain becomes increasingly apparent. Next year, they must journey to Yorkshire and climb the extra 42 ft . from which the 'Tan Hill' looks down upon the 'Cat and Fiddle.' Sorry, Tom, but this is one record you cannot have this year--Yours sincerely.

A Quiz For Handbells

The Witney Ringing Society is running a competition of a not-too-serious supply-the-missingword quiz to raise funds for their handbells. which have just arrived from the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, where they have been augmented and retuned. If anyone would like to test his skill, competition forms may be obtained, price one shilling, from the secretary, Mr. David J. Smith, Merryfield House, Witney. Three prizes of book tokens, amounting in all to 30 s ., are offered.

RAVEN HAS BEEN DEAD 50 YEARS

A peal board in Eye Church ringing chamber reads:-
' On September 24th, 1906, was rung here a true peal of Bob Major, 5,056 changes in 3 hours 17 minutes, a funeral peal for the Rev. J. J. Raven, D.D., bell historian. Frederick Brunning treble, Hubert J. Day 2nd, Elijah Broom 3rd. George E. Day 4th, William Stannard 5th, Frederick Day 6th, Ernest F. Poppy (conductor) 7th, David Whiting tenor

The peal by C. H. Martin, of London, have only 5-6 in 5-6. at course-ends. Rev. J. F. Stephen Pritchitt, M.A., Vicar. Charles Tacon, Esq., Frederick Whaite, Esq., churchwardens.
Note the name of the treble ringer-Fred Brunning. He was then 22 and it was his first peal. Note George Day, the bell-hanger, and his son Fred, and Fred's son Hubert, also in the business.
On the evening of September 24th- 50 years after the peal-eight ringers rang touches of Bob Major on the same bells. Fred Brunning, now tower captain, was on the treble as before, the others being Charles Catchpole (Dickleburgh), John Girt (Eye). Arthur Cook (Rickinghal! Superior), Ernest Chilvers (Brocikdish), Harry Moss (Scole) (conductor), Tom Ford (Palgrave) and Ted Etheridge (Fressingfield) (tenor)
It was appropriate that a Fressingfield ringer should take part because Dr. Raven was vicar of Fressingfield at one time. 'Church Bells of Suffolk,' 'Bells of England,' etc., are Raven's works, and only a week ago his daughter, Miss Raven, who had been living at Fressingfield, moved to Southwold, and some of her household items she left for sale for Fressingfield Church funds. They realised $£ 103$.
The only two ringers, still living, of those in the 1906 peal are Fred Brunning and William Stannard, the latter now residing in the Bury St. Edmunds district.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Youth Support Ashtead Meeting

The feature of the Northern District's quarterly meeting at Ashtead on September 29th was the large proportion of young people present. Ashtead's pretty setting in the park was enhanced by a fine autumn afternoon, and the interior of the church was beautifully decorated for Harvest Festival.
Mr. F. E. Collins, the District Master, was in charge of the ringing. This was in the more elementary methods, but a good level of striking was maintained. The service was followed by an excellent tea, provided by Mr. J. T. Symonds. and his band of local ringers.
The routine business was quickly dealt with, and two new members were elected. The date of the nomination meeting was advised as being November 10 th, and not as originally planned. After the votes of thanks, which were stressed with more than usual enthusiasm, the company adjourned to the belfry for more ringing.

The Rev. Eric Perkins

Ringers of All Saints', Boyne Hill, will very much miss their very good friend the Rev. Eric Perkins, who on October 6th was inducted to the benefice of Slough Parish Church. It was mainly due to his interest in the bells that Boyne Hill bells were rehung in 1954. Ringers of St. Mary's, Slough, will find in him a very sincere and understanding friend. An attempt to ring a peal of Grandsire Caters to welcome him to Slough unfortunately came to grief after $1 \frac{1}{4}$ hours' good ringing.

MANUAL OF RINGING TRAINING OF THE COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY

(Copyright by the Governors)

PART I. - 'CATHEDRAL' SYSTEM  (Continued from page 653)  SECTION VIII. (Lesson 6)  PLAIN HUNTING (Silenced) AND TONE RECOGNITION

106. Taking Stock. - For ringers perusing these notes with genuine interest in ringing training, this would seem to be an appropriate moment to invite them to 'take stock' of their own position as members of a tower band, especially where instruction is contemplated or being attempted. In any case, no matter how good the ringing in any tower may be at any given time, unless the band has trainees the future of the ringing in that tower is threatened. This is a categoric statement, the truth of which may be argued convincingly with factual examples of the general law. In short, it is every ringer's responsibility (and privilege) to devote some time to assisting in training beginners. Properly discharged, this duty never fails to pay dividends. When ringing instruction has reached the stage now being described, such assistance is indispensable to the Tutor; and if the desired minimum of three ringer assistants cannot attend the next two tutorial sessions, then these sessions must now be transferred to the tower's regular practice night, and at least the first half-hour of it must be devoted to the advancement of this work with the student-ringers. For the current lesson, four bells need to be silenced, raised and set at back, ready to begin. But, as previously, since only one student at a time can participate in the ringing, others can be usefully occupied meanwhile in other work-this time it is 'Tone Recognition.' And this is first introduced to the whole class.
107. Tone Recognition. (S) It is important, from the outset, for the student to realise the value of using the ear, and that this is essential for good striking. Obviously a ringer must be able to recognise the sound of his own bell amongst the others before he can begin to aim at precision of its timing of sounding, since time intervals of $\frac{1}{4}$-second or less are of the normal order in change-ringing. Bells are tuned to give their dominant tones. each according to the notes of the diatonic scale ; and they are numbered from those of the higher notes downwards, the treble being No. 1. So what must now be acquired is the ability to distinguish the belltone intervals.
108. Use of Handbells. (D) For this handbells may be used. (If not available the small, cheap dulcimer toy may be employed to good effect.) Suspend an octave of handbells on a broom-handle resting on the backs of two chairs, and use a wooden tapper if a padded one be not available. For the purnose of the exercise two well-known changes in conjunction with rounds will be used. If bells numbered $1,3,5$. 7 (all the 'odds') be followed by 2, 4, 6,8 (all the 'evens '), the well recognised change called 'Queens' is produced. If the two rows are written out in 'column form' they can be com12345678 R of the numbers. Obviously the 13572468 Q second row is obtained by trans15263748 T posing the numbers of the first 12345678 R row to this order: 1 st , 3rd. 5th. 7 th, 2 nd, 4 th, 6 th, 8 th. If we now repeat this transposition we get the row 15263748 . This is the well recooniced change of 15263748 . This is the well recognised change of

- Tittums. If we again repeat the transposition pe obtain rounds once more. Apart from this interesting fact of transposition the 'tune' of each of these two changes is one easily recogmised and is useful for our present purpose because of that fact. (The change-rows as given should be written on the blackboard for ready reference.)
(Q)

109. The Common Chord, - Having tapped out Rounds, Qucens and Tittums, the Tutor next taps the four notes of the common chord, from the top downwards, that is upper doh, soh, me and doh (in the tonic sol-fa notation), repeated three or four times. (Ex. 38.) Then by questioning he clicits the numbers of the bells whose sounds correspond to these notes, i.c., treble, 4th, 6th and tenor. These tones can thus be 'fixed ' in mind, and from this 'framework,' so to speak, the sounds or tones of other bells can be gauged. Reverting now to 'Queens,' the intervals can be gauged in turn, tapping two bells at a time; that is, first $1 / 3$, then $3 / 5$, then $5 / 7$, and so on, comparing the tone intervals with those of the common chord. For example, the first interval of Queens, $1 / 3$, can be heard to be one tone short of the first interval of the common chord, $1 / 4$. (Bells 3 and 4 can then be tapped in turn to illustrate this fact.) The same process is repeated with Tittums. Eventually students will come to realise that the intervals in Queens are all thirds except the middle one which is a sixth; and that in Tittums they are fifths and fourths alternately. But by this time most students will be able to tell the number of any bell which is being tapped, i.e., in relation to the keynote of its scale, or, to the note of the tenor. This is synonymous with picking out the sound of your bell in the scale when you know which bell number it is; in other words, this is bell recognition in practice.
110. Mental tone-telling.-Most students will find it useful practice to try fixing notes "in the head,' or quietly hummed or whistled, according to the keynote of the scale, or treble. (Ex. 39.) This can be done at odd moments when, for example, out walking, dressing, etc. The whole idea is to become 'automatic' in identifying any one note of the scale in relation to that scale, so that striking becomes precise.
(Q)
111. Plain Hunting (Silenced). - Reverting now to the bell practice, the Tutor has his three assistants on bells 1,2 and 3, and a student on the 4th. (The ringer on the 3rd will take charge when the Tutor returns to the rest of the class for tone recognition exercises.) Tutor first explains that the student will take his bell through the plain hunt path that he has already practised with hand-claps; that is. at 'Go!' he will hunt down to lead, make the whole pull there, and then hunt up again to finish with a whole pull behind. These movements, however, will be taken in stages, as three separate exercises. Before beginning these exercises, however, it is essential that the student realises, and puts into practice, the beat variation arising from the differences in rhythm between the steady beat of rounds (refer, to Ex. 28, Article 96), and those of hunting down (quicker) and hunting up (slower).
(Q T)
112. Quicker and Slower Beats. (S) Clearly, then, in the 'cutting under ' of hunting down, the arc of bell-swing, and therefore the time interval between bell strokes, is less, so the beat is quicker. Similarly in the 'holding up' over the bell following, whilst hunting up, the arc of bell-swing, and therefore the time interval between strokes, is greater, so the beat is slower. In hunting then, the bell is manipulated at three different rates of beat. The first is at the normal beat-as when leading. place-making, lying. (And as in rounds.) The second is the quicker, as when hunting down. And the third is the slower, as when hunting up. This beat variation was not indicated-and probably not realisedduring the hand-clapping exercises for hunting, etc. ; but its observance in correct manipulation of what is, after all, a relatively heavy bell-mass, now becomes essential for good striking.
113. Hunting down (Silenced). (Ex. 40.) The exercise opens with a few rounds and after settling down to a steady beat, 'Go. Plain Hunting!' is given by No. 3 ringer. The student, having his bell to look after (for the first time) in conjunction with hunting, may find it helpful to recall the dodging and place-making exercises ( 34 and 36) he has recently takea on the third bell, when he had, at the start, to 'cut under' the bell he was following. Here he will be starting in the same way, and will then continue, at each stroke, cutting under the bell he finds himself following (there are only three, of course), until he finds himself at the lead. From what was established in Article 112 the beat will be quicker than the normal rounds beat he was pulling to, before 'Go!', until he actually strikes the lead, when his second blow there will be at the original (normal) beat. Here, No. 3 calls 'That's all' and 'Stand!'. The pupil has merely attempted hunting down, and the bells have come to rest after the change '4321.' The exercise is now repeated from the beginning. (Q)
114. Rules (And Reasons!). - So far the student may have been hunting by rhythm, and if he has done so without fault, he is making good progress. But now he may be given rules for hunting down: (S)
(1) 'Cut under the bell you are following, but INSTANTLY look round for the bell you are fo!lowing on the cut stroke.' (Emphasise the utmost importance of this instantaneous look-round as the cut-under stroke begins, so that the next-to-follow rope is spotted before it gets under way. This is a secret of good rope-sight.')
(2) 'On higher numbers of bells (than four as now) you may keep in view the rope of the bell that you 'turned from behind ' (explain fully), using it as your 'course ' bell on the way down.
Now repeat Ex. 40, but tacitly vary the order of 1 and 2 when in $1 / 2$, so as to hinder student from 'ringing by numbers " only.
(Q T)
Attention is drawn particularly to this order of tack!ing the hunting process, i.e.. hunting down first, and to be mastered before hunting up is tried. (Hence the "Stand " when student has led.) The reason is that most pupils are first put on the treble for hunting practice, starting with hunting UP. of course, and which they seem to find so much easier than hunting down that they tend to neglect to persevere with the latter. In this Cathedral system, hunting down ability is assured first.
115. Hunting Up.-For this exercise the student takes No. 1 bell, and the ringer-in-charge No. 2. Ringers on 3 and 4 are tacitly told to vary their order of pulling in $3 / 4$. so that (as in previous exercise) the student may not tend to 'ring by numbers.' (Ex. 41.) Opening with rounds until the beat settles down, the student is now gaining practice in 'leading off the last down' (as in Ex. 33, Article 101). On 'Go!' he makes his first move as in Ex. 35 (Article 102), where the dodging was performed by 'holding up at hand' over the bell following him. Here, he continues to 'hold up' at each stroke. over the bell following him, until he is lying behind and the row '4321' turns up again when "That's All' and 'Stand!' are called. All through these strokes after leaving the lead his beat has been the slower one of hunting up, of course. The exercise is then repeated until he is proficient.
116. Hunting (silenced) both ways. (Ex. 41a.) Student now returns to bell 4 with ringer-incharge on bell 3. Exercises 40 and 41 are now combined and repeated without break between them. so that all four bells do plain hunting and rounds repeats after the eight change-rows. (Questions. Registration. Next week-last silent practice- Bell raising and lowering. Lower bells and "open.' Clock ON.)

JOINT MEETING AT HLLLINGDON

The annual gathering of the local districts of the Middlesex County Association and the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held on October 6th. A fair day brought visitors from a wide area, of all ages from 2 to 82 !
It was nice to see Reuben Sanders and his wife ringing together, with Reuben turning in the ninth to Cambridge Royal witt his customary ease. Other veterans we were pleased to see included Walter Wolstencroft, Frank Smallwood, Jim Chapman and Tom Collins. Among the very younger generation were Bronwen Coles and Moira Turley, and very well behaved, too. Somewhere between these extremes was our old friend Bill Coles, complete with wooden leg! Well, anyway, it wouldn't bend, but perhaps we ought to say that he swings a fine leg in plaster. It was good to see him about again and to note the splendid recovery he is making after his recent accident When he casts off his his recent accident. When he casts off his crutches, no doubt he will soon be climbing belfry stairs again.
With such a good sprinkling of the old hands, ringing was of a very good standard, and the half-course of Cambridge Royal after tea was excellent. The old 'uns said it was too fastcan't hear the beauty of the bells. The ten are Gillett and Johnston's. Simpson-tuned (1911), and to the listener a slower beat is, we think. preferable. The younger generation were said to be averse to having a bell on their arms and the cry goes up-push 'em along! At the Uxbridge tower earlier in the day, quick ringing seemed to suit the recently recast bells. They are much better than the old lot, which contained, we are told, a leather bell at number 7 ! tained, we are told, a leather bell at number 7! tion. The ringing during the day ranged from Rounds to London Surprise.
The usual Hillingdon service, attended by choir and organ, with Ringing Master-cumdeputy organist Frank Price in charge. The Vicar being on holiday, our spiritual praise and Vicar being on holiday, our spiritual praise and thanksgiving was led by the curate. Mr. Cooper, in a few well-chosen words. also gave a warning about the demon of bellringing who can enter our lives until ringing becomes a complete end in itself. We turned this over in our minds and we had to admit that many of us allow ringing to rule our lives in that way. Remember the old saying-ringers and singers are no home bringers! The singing was as good as the ringing, and many visitors remarked how much they enioyed the whole service.
The rest of the story is of the social side. A good tea, with unlimited cups of hot tea, was very welcome and much enjoyed. During this break, the curate took the opportunity to welcome the two Guilds to Hillingdon, while Fred Goodfe!low conveyed to the meeting a message of greeting from Ernest Turner, the Middlesex Association's general secretary, whom he had visited a day or two before and found him looking well and of good spirit. (Some readers may possibly care to drop him a line to help break the monotony and undoubted weariness that a long spell in hospital entails. He is in D. 2 Ward. Edgware Hospital. Middlesex:)

The evening social went with the usual swing, thanks to the untiring energy of Branch secretary Bill Butler. Our thanks to the Hillingdon and Uxbridge parsons and their ringers. particularly Tom Bannister and Bert Impey. for their hospitality, and last. but very definitely not least. to Mrs. Goodfellow, who has been catering for these meetings longer than she cares to remember, and her hard-worked friends.

Stoke-by-Nayland. Suffolk. ringers hope to have the bells back by Christmas with two additional trebles and a new frame. Towards the cost of $£ 1,600$, only $£ 100$ is outstanding, a grant of $£ 600$ having been promised by the Barron Bell Trust to be paid on completion of work.

SOUTHAMPTON UNIVERSITY GUILD

Probably the youngest among the many ringing societies in the universities, the Southampton University Guild has just completed its second successful session. Formed in November, 1954, with four ringers and five novices, at the end of the 1955-56 session the Guild consisted of 14 members, all proficient ringers. Because of the increased number, two weekly handbell meetings have been held, in addition to the tower practice, the former being of great help in the teaching of change-ringing.
The Guild has been officially recognised now and is affiliated to the Students' Union of the University, possessing its own distinctive tiegold and navy bells on a maroon ground. At the second annual general meeting held in March, the officers elected for $1956-57$ were: Master, Mr. R. E. Finch; Deputy Master, Miss
R. A. Carey, secretary and treasurer, Miss I. Inman; and committee member, Mr. M. V. White.
For Sunday ringing, the most important duty of all ringers, the Guild has attached itself to St. Mary's, Southampton, and members ring there at least once every Sunday. In addition, a different tower has been visited every month and the Guild has rung for services at ten towers. mosly within ten miles of Southampton.
Continuing the poiicy established in the first session, joint meetings have been held with other university societies: with London and Oxford in London in November, with Reading at Whitchurch and Overton in March and again at Salisbury in May. The Guild is also grateful for a most enjoyable day's ringing in Bristol, organised by Bristol Society on the last day of its Easter tour.
During the Christmas vacation a party visited the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, where a few were pleased to be able to strike a few changes on the newly-cast St. Clement Danes' bells, which were awaiting hanging. It is hoped to visit Loughborough Foundry also in the coming session.
Several other ringing outings have been heldin the New Forest, the Test Valley and the Winchester and Bournemouth areas, visiting five, seven, seven and six towers respectively. Several members joined the North Stoneham band on their annual outing to Berkshire and Bucks. The Guild attended the annual general meeting of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild at Ryde in July, ringing at six towers on the Island. Altogether, over 90 towers have been visited in the session, 36 of thesc during the ringing week at Easter in North Somerset.
All members have made considerable progress in change-ringing. Many methods, simple and intricate, have been rung, and to a certain extent everyone is conversant with the two main methods, Plain Bob and Grandsire. Five quarter peals have been rung-two of Grandsire Doubles, two Bob Minor and one of Grandsire Triples, on the eve of the University Commemoration Day in May.
Seven members, conducted by a member of Birmingham University Society, rang a peal in November, 1955; it is hoped to score an allSouthampton University peal in the near future.
Handbells have been put to a lighter use when townsfolk and travellers have been regaled with carols at Christmas time and popular tunes at rag time, as well as changes on six or eight bells and the favourite of the Guild (almost its signature tune), "The Bells of St. Mary's."
The Guild extends a warm weicome to any Freshers entering the University in October, whether experienced ringers or novices interested in the art. Those who would like information are invited to contact the secretary, c/o the University.

Members are once more extremely grateful for all the help given them and friendly welcomes extended to them by tower captains and ringing friends in the area.

Ashford District

The annual meeting of the Ashford District was held at Ashford on October 6th. By 3 o'clock the ringing chamber was well filled, and the bells were kept going until 4.30, when the Vicar (Canon N. G. Sharpe) conducted the service. Music was provided by the parish church organist (Mr. Griffiths). The Vicar gave a short address, in which he expressed not only his own thanks, but those on behalf of all the incumbents of the district, for the work of those who rang the bells. He was glad, he said, to see so many young members present. A collection was taken for the Association's Belfry Repair Fund.
A good tea had been arranged by the members of the Mothers' Union at the Parish Hall, and was served by these ladies.
The business meeting followed tea, with Mr . F. Willis in the chair. Five new members were elected and also the complete band of the newlybuilt church at Little Chart.

The secretary presented the report and balance sheet, which were adopted without discussion. There were 152 adult members and 17 juniors on the books, but of this number about ten per cent. were uncertainties as they had neither paid their subscriptions nor given any explanation for not doing so. (N.B.-These numbers do not, of course, include the newly-elected members.)

The election of officers followed. Mr. W. P. Garner, the secretary, said he did not wish to stand for re-election as he thought three years was a reasonable period for an office-holder and that a change of secretary would probably bring new vigour and new ideas into the district. Mr, C. T. Hillis was therefore elected as the new secretary. Mr. J. Cooper and Mr. S. G. Waters were re-elected as District representatives. Mr. T. Cullingworth did not wish to stand for reelection as District Ringing Master, as his work and the distance he lived from the centre of the district made it difficult for him to attend the meetings as punctually as he would wish. Mr. J. Cooper was elected the new Ringing Master.

Mr. Waters gave a brief summary of last season's winter practices. It was agreed to continue these practices this year, except for the Lydd area, and the same members promised to organise them. The programme for the western part of the district has already been promulgated.

The meeting closed with votes of thanks to the Vicar, the organist and the ladies, who arranged the tea.
About 65 members and friends were present from 17 towers. Ringing continued until 8.30 in methods up to Cambridge Surprise Major.
W. P. G.

OBITUARY  MR. W. T. ELSON an apprectation

Mr. Elson was elected a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths in 1892, and rang his first peal in that year. Recorded in his peal book are 46 peals (of which two are, marked as false), the last one being a ' William, peal of Stedman Caters at It Iseworth on February 23rd. 1935. He had previously taken part, on April 19th, 1902 , in the first peal of Royal by a band of the same Christian name, at All Saints', Fulham.
In his youth, Mr. Elson was a member of a band who visited White Lodge, Richmond Park, and rang handbells in the presence of the lady wha was to become Queen Mary. In 1949, on the occasion of her birthday, he wrote to Queen Mary and recalled this occasion to her: he received a very gracious reply from Marlborough House. Mr. Elson was very proud of several letters he had received from Buckingham Palace, acknowledging copies of 'The Ringing World, which he had sent, containing details of the ringing in honour of Queen. Elizabeth's Coronation and other royal occasions.
Ringing was not Mr. Flson's only interest. He had been a chorister at Putney for a very long time (believed to be about 40 years). and was a keen member of Twickenham Philharmonic Society. and at the age of 87 took part in their last choral concert.

NOTES ON RECENT PEALS

By The Rev. K. W. H. FELSTEAD

ITHOUGHT some readers would be interested in a few facts concerning some of the peals rung in the past two or three months, i.e., facts concerning first in the method on the bells, rarely heard of towers, nearly 'conquered ' towers, etc. Perhaps such details could form the basis for a short article every now and again. If so, here is the first of them.

To mention towers which appear frequently first, one finds that there have already been more peals rung at Willesden this year than in the whole of last. This church has heard 147 peals since the last war, and very few towers can beat that number. Oxford, St. Ebbe's (the most popular of that city's towers), has had over 80 in the same period. I notice that Hughenden is nearing the 300 mark of peals - 298 is its total, I believe, whilst Warsop has just reached its half century. Although St. John's, Waterloo Road, has a grand total of 186 , I confirm that the peal in July was the first for 34 years, the previous one being on July 19th, 1922. That is a very long silence even allowing for the war damage.

To go on to towers which have appeared for the first time for a long time, we find Fulbeck had its first since 1937; Frensham, the first since 1939; Little Missenden's only previous peal was also in that year. Bromham (Wilts) scored its first peal for 25 years, whilst Newton Abbot (I confirm) had its first since 1909. It was the fourth peal on the bells.

Another even longer silence was at South Harting. Again, I confirm the claim that the recent peal was the first since May 24th, 1903, when Minor in seven methods was rung as the first peal on the bells. We find a 43 years' silence at Saddington (Leics), where the only previous peal (Grandsire Doubles) was rung in February, 1913, South Harting 53 years, Saddington 43 years and then St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield, 33 years silent, the last peal here (also Grandsire Doubles) being on March 21st, 1923. Barsham is also in the long silence category. There had only been one peal rung here before-on October 17th, 1912. Huntington (Yorks) had not appeared in the peal columns since 1926, but there had been two previous peals.

The touring bands found some little rung bells for their peals. In Cumberland and Westmorland, Orton had its first peal since 1933 (both the last peals were Cambridge), Carlisle Cathedral its first since 1931 (by the way, in connection with the recent letters about the first peal of London in the county, a peal of this method was rung at St. Stephen's, Carlisle, in 1931), whilst Cleaton Moor had its first since 1936, the peal being the first of Surprise on the bells.

The Derbyshire tour found the various bands managing to make history in most of the towers visited. Ilkeston, West Hallam, Hayfield, Darley Dale, Matlock, Derby (St. Peter's), Fairfield all had the first peals in the particular method rung at them. Derby, St. Luke's, had its first peal of Surprise, whilst Dore had its first peal of Superlative since 1909. Shirland's last peal was in 1931 (three in all), whilst Killamarsh had likewise been silent for 25 years even though it has had 66 peals in all (a very good number for a six-bell tower). The outstanding band at this tower some $40-50$ years ago was noted in the article on Peal Ringing in Derbyshire. Hope has only had four peals in 25 years.

Towers rarely seen in the peal columns noted recently are Kegworth, Hawarden, Oxford (St. Mary Magdalene's), Rochdale (St. Chad's), St. Gluvias (Cornwall) and Cwmcarvan.

Other points of interest concern Croft and Marston. The former is only the second six-bell tower to reach the century mark for peals, so deserves special mention. I actually made the claimed 100 th peal the 99 th, and the one appearing in 'The Ringing World' of August 24th, the 100th. I should be grateful to compare notes with those concerned if they will write to me. Marston (5) has had nine peals in the last two years and now has 18 in all. This means that it is now third on the list for most peals in the five-bell towers, only Warkton and Pytchley having more than that. I confirm that the peal at Whixley was the first on the bells, but I fear the claim for the first twomethod peal at Kingstone cannot be established - one was rung there on November 21st, 1931.

BARKING, SUFFOLK

On September 22nd, a band of ringers from Barking had an outing into the Sudbury district. Ringing friends, who joined the party at various places along the route, came from Sudbury, Clare, Ixworth and Hartest. The towers visited were Foxearth, Pentlow, Cavendish, Kedington, Stoke-by-Clare and Clare. Methods ranged from Bob Doubles to London Minor and Cambridge Major. The party tender sincere thanks to the incumbents, Messrs. Sam Twitchett, Archie Fitch and Miss Rosemary Scabrook, for their help; also Mrs. Seabrook for providing the tea.

FAREHAM

Fareham ringers spent September 15 th very happily on the Isle of Wight, crossing on the 8 a.m. ferry and having a 41 -seater coach at their disposal on the other side, although the party only numbered 22.

The Vicar of Arreton had to be disturbed over his breakfast, to get the key of the church, and at Carisbrooke some of the party found the castle a counter-attraction to ringing. Lunch was had at Brighstone and ten minutes were lost through four of the party ordering a cooked meal.

Two local ringers joined in the ringing at Cheale, and at Niton Bill Upton and Frank Taylor rang with the party. There was some good ringing at Whitwell and also at Godshill, where Les Bailey welcomed the party.

Despite a more than ample tea, the best ringing of the day was at Brading. Methods rung ruring the day were Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent T.B. and Cambridge Surprise Minor, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Little Bob and Double Norwich Court Bob Major.

OUTINGS

ST. JAMES', RUSHOLME

Blackpool was the venue for the annual outing of the ringers of St. James' Church, Birch-in-Rusholme, on September 22nd, and at Blackpool they were joined by three other ringing friends.

An hour's good ringing at Bispham ( $10 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.) finished with a well-struck touch of Cambridge Major. Lunch was attacked with enthusiasm at the Savoy Hotel, and with the temperature attaining a humid zenith of 75 degrees, perspiration ran freely for the first time this summer.

Good use was made of the six at Holy Trinity for three-quarters of an hour, and the visitors were joined by an Ashton-under-Lyne ringer and his girl friend, from Swinton. The only flaw in the day was that on the return to St. John's no one seemed to expect the party, but permission was granted and the eight were heard to their best advantage in a course of Yorkshire.

After tea at the Savoy, the pleasure beach was visited, and later the magnificent illuminations were viewed in their exotic splendour.

EAST DEVON RINGERS

On the afternoon of October 4th, a party of East Devon ringers had a trip in the Witheridge area. Ringing commenced at Cruwys Morchard ( 6 , tenor 14 cwt .), where the fifth and tenor certainly took some' "pulling off.' The recently rehung ring at Witheridge was next visited (8, 25 cwt.$)$, and the ringing was thoroughly enjoyed by all, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, followed by a call-change 'peal of Queens' for one of the local ringers.

West Worlington ( 6,9 cwt.) and Thelbridge ( $6,8 \mathrm{cwt}$.) were next on the list, and the visitors were rather amused by the fireplace in the belfry of the latter tower. Poughill ( $6,11 \mathrm{cwt}$.) gave us great pleasure. The last tower was Cheriton Fitzpaine ( $6,15 \mathrm{cwt}$.).

SYSTON, LEICESTER

Thirty-four members of the Syston District of the Leicester Diocesan Guild held their annual half-day ringing tour on October 6th. As eight towers were represented, a circular tour of the district first took place; and so to Rutland and the pleasant-toned light five at Preston, where we were welcomed by 86 -years-old Mr. Stevens.
After another light five at Wing, we were met at Edith Weston by the Vicar, and the recently augmented six here were put to good use.

The country lanes between here and Empingham were successfully negotiated and the need for tea satisfied before ringing on the heaviest six of the day.
Cottesmore proved to be the best ring and the last, as on arrival at Greetham there was no one to greet us. After many enquiries we were told that a rope was broken.

In high spirits the party returned after a day of Rounds, Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, St. Simon's, Kent, Cambridge, Norwich-and, of course, "Shepherd's Hey'! A day of Norman arches and the all-too-frequent remark, "They're not rung very often.

Our thanks are due to incumbents and local ringers for their help, and, of course, to Jack, who is getting most adept at finding the best way to churches tucked away in country villages!

 by the family of Mr. Wm. T ringer of St. Dunstan's, and Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths in 1880, who died in 1925. The present ringers of this church are very pleased to accept this gift as an historic link with a past ringer of this church.Mr. Eric N. Harrison is now back in civilian life after his National Service with the Royal Marines.
Previous to a quarter peal at Stoney Stanton, Leics, on October 14th, a silver rose bowl was presented to Mr. C. Roger Hayward and his bride-to-be, Miss Nancy M. Toone, as a wedding present from the local ringers.
Miss Margaret Alderman, who is this term an undergraduate at Durham University, should be an acquisition to ringing in the University. She is a member of the Ashbrittle tower and rang her first peal at the age of 14 .

On hearing that St. Michael, the fourth bell at Cromhall, which has called the people to worship for over 500 years, was cracked, the late Rector not only sent a very generous donation to start a fund for its replacement, but has also sent some very lovely water colours which he painted himself to be sold towards the fund.
Messrs. John Taylor and Co. are to provide a new steel frame and to tune the six bells ( 14 cwt.) of Chiseldon, Wilts. The five old bells were rehung in the ancient oak frame by Llewelyn and James (Bristol) in 1914 and a treble being added by Mears and Co. in 1937. It is interesting to note that Mr. S. C. Archer, who became leader in 1914 and introduced change-ringing, is still in that position. Seldom have these bells not been heard for Matins and Evensong throughout these years.

 festival service on October 11th, the three clergy, Rev. W. A. Peel (Rector). Rev. W. F. Burlton (Cromhall) and Rev. A. D. H. Allan (late of Cromhall), who all shared in the conducting of the service, also rang together in touches of Grandsire before robing.Owing to an accident on practice night, the tenor in the peal at Beddington on October 13th was rung without a slider.
At the invitation of Canon O. N. Gwilliam, Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association rang a peal for Houghton-le-Spring Feast. A feature was 5,000 people hymn-singing outside St. Michael's floodlit church. This feast is 800 years old.
Many visitors to Spalding Parish Church will be sorry to learn that the captain, Mr. John G. Ames, had an accident while teaching a pupil to handle a bell. As the result of this he has lost a part of the second finger of his left hand. We wish him a speedy recovery.
Supt. Claude Rush, of Sunnyside, Castle Street, Eye, Suffolk, is raising funds for Eye Church Bells Restoration Fund by the sale of an attractive Christmas card with a photograph of Eye Parish Church. The charge, with envelopes. is 9s. 6d. per dozen. post frec.
The peal at Kibworth on October 13th commemorated 50 years' connection with this tower by Fred Staniforth, and 55 years since he and Ernest Morris were together taught to ring by the latter's father, Mr. Josiah Morris, at St. Mark's, Leicester. It also celebrated the 46 th anniversary, of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Staniforth, which rook place at this church on October 8th, 1910, at which ceremony Ernest Morris was 'best man "!

FABIAN STEDMAN'S MEMORY HONOURED

THERE are still some lacunæ in the social life of our foremost University town. One of these has been troubling the admirable secretary of the Ely Diocesan Guild for some time; namely, that our ringers have been carrying out their proper duties of ringing for service, and attending practices and meetings, but making no attempt to gather for a purely social occasion, as so many other guilds and associations already do.

At last, however, our secretary has succeeded in finding an excuse for them to do so: the 325th anniversary of the birth of Fabian Stedman, sometimes called the 'Father of English Ringing,' and whose home was Cambridge, and home tower that of St. Bene't's Church. Birthdays are, of course, often celebrated every year, and already we have in mind that in 1957 we will have the 326th anniversary-not such a good round number as 325 , but an equally good excuse for a dinner.
To give the series a fair start, it was assumed for convenience that Stedman's birthday fell upon September 29th, a Saturday, and a convenient time for most of us. In the afternoon of that day the bells of St. Mary-the-Great, of St. Bene't's and of the Roman Catholic Church were available; and touches of Stedman's method, in all sizes from Doubles to Cinques, were ruing by a very representative selection of local, University and visiting ringers. But we also remembered that Stedman was a practical ringer, interested in all the methods of ringing of his time, and we did our best to make the selection of methods rung on September 29th representative of those of our time.

For the main business of the day, some 75 ringers, wives and friends came to the Brunswick School Hall for dinner. Beside the chairman. Rev. J. M. E. Bagley, we were glad to 1 see Sqdn. Leader J. S. Mason. Master of the College Youths, who. in proposing a toast to Siedman's memory, gave us a brief life-story of the great man Mr. Frank Haines proposed a toast to the Ely Association in general, and to the secretary, Mr. W. Ridgman. in particular. In his reply, Mr. Ridgman mentioned the hope that the bells of St. Andrew-the-Great would be quickly restored and returned to Cambridge by Taylors, and that the rate of income of contributions to the fund showed no shortage of confidence in the future of these bells.

FABIAN STEDMAN, 1631-1713

The facts of Stedman's life-story-even the dates of his birth and death quoted aboveappear to be rather uncertain. But leaving out the qualifications, this is the life-story which Mr. Mason gave.

Stedman was born in Cambridge in 1631, and served his apprenticeship as a printer, probably also in Cambridge. In 1662 we hear of him in London, as treasurer of the Scholars of Cheapside, a ringing society which was dissolved in the same year. He joined the Society of College Youths in 1664, and we hear of him again soon afterwards, back in Cambridge, as a printer, and as the Parish Clerk of St. Bene 't's.
'Tintinnalogia,' by Richard Duckworth, was produced about this time, and Stedman may have taken some part in its preparation. His own book, the 'Campanalogia,' was first published in 1677, and was printed in London. By this time Stedman was Steward of the Society of College Youths, and they probably financed the printing of his book.

He moved to London shortly after the publication of 'Campanalogia.' and probably stayed there for the rest of his life. We hear of him as Master of the College Youths in 1682 and, finally, as heing employed by the Audit of Excise. He was buried in the Church of St. Andrew Undershaft, in 1713.

Fabian Stedman was clearly a practical ringer of ability, although he may not have advanced the theory of ringing as much as is nowadays supposed. The 'Campanalogia' may in fact have been little more than a reporting of what was already established ringing practice. The ringing principle which bears his name was given no more emphasis than others in his book. He may indeed have invented it, but it was rung at St. Bene't's Church by visiting members of the Society of College Youths in 1671, six years before the publication of 'Campanalogia.
Although these facts may be true, they only show that Stedman. in common with many other great inventors, did not fully realise the value of his product at the time.
That we still value his method highly was nicely demonstrated at the close of this memorial dinner, when after some well-struck touches of Cinques, Caters and Triples, three of our ablest ringers took six handbells, and three times failed to bring Stedman's original 120 of Doubles into rounds.
The company refused to disperse, however, until this little thing had been done, and done well.

SOLIHULL'S 50th ANNIVERSARY
Saturday, October 6th, was the 50th anniversary of the first peal to be rung on Solihull bells by an entirely local band. From 1894 the revived Solihull Society had been making progress, first under the tuition of Mr. William Kent, and strengthened later by the incursion of some of the (then) younger Braggs. The Society, under the leadership of Geoffrey Martineau, had adventured into peal ringing, and one Solihull man, Walter Wall, had already called a peal of Grandsire Triples. But the peal of 1906, Taylor's Six-part, was rung entirely by the Sunday men, and was conducted by Roland Bragg on his 21st birthday. Four of that band, the conductor, William Mecks, Ernest Davis and John Bragg, are still alive. Only the latter is still ' on active service,' and the tower and bells are in his care.
It was unfortunate that it was not possible to arrange a peal to celcbrate the anniversary, but on October 7th the Sunday band rang a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples: W. Leeson 1, C. Dale 2, V. W. Rigg 3, R. Cann 4, E. C. Shepherd (conductor) 5, J. Bragg 6, C. W. Bragg 7, T. R. Hayward (first quarter peal) 8. The ringer of the sixth was in the band of 1906.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD ANNUAL DINNER

ACOMPANY of 112 , representing all branches of the Guild, sat down to dinner at Bollands, Chester, on October 6th, when the guest of honour was Rev. Canon A. J. Humphreys, Vicar of Shotwick. After dinner, the loyal toast was honoured on the call of the Master, and after a short interval, the proceedings opencd with a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells.
Canon Humphreys, in proposing the toast of 'The Guild,' commented on the fact that last year the Lord Bishop had been entrusted with this toast, and he asked: 'Why choose me?'. He realised that another engagement prevented the Bishop from being present, but why should he be chosen? Of course. he had been a friend of ringers ever since he came into the Chester Diocesc. For 26 years he was Vicar of Norbury and he was interested to see that Norbury appeared 15 times in the annual report for 1955. Although he had a ring of bells in his present church, he had not, at present, a permanent band, and he missed the welcome sound of the bells. He was interested to see that a peal had been rung for the installation of Canon E. D. Reeman, and he claimed to have had some influence over him in regard to bells when he was one of his curates at Norbury. He was also pleased at the wedding compliment paid to himself and his wife, and thanked publicly all the band, all of whom were present.
The bells of churches, he said, were not only associated-with the church but also with the life of the district. In this connection it was worth recalling that when the bells at Norbury were rehung and augmented in 1925 it was indeed a village and not a church affair. He applauded the sentiments in the report which called upon ringers to be punctual and attentive to their duties, and commented that people still loved to be called to church by the sound of the bells. He was pleased to note that the Guild was flourishing, and hoped that it would long continue to do so. He was indeed glad to be present and proud to propose the toast of 'The Guild.'
Mr. J. W. Clarke. Master of the Guild, replied to the toast and said that they could not have found a more fitting person to propose the toast. During all the 26 years Canon Humphreys was at Norbury he was known as the friend of the ringers, and they had had evidence of his kindness since he had been at Shotwick. He had received a communication from someone who knew him well and who said that Canon Humphreys would deal with complaints about bell-ringing in his own inimitable way. But he was not only known for his interest in bellTingers: he had carried out much work for the church. Whilst at Norbury he had had a new chancel made as well as completely restoring and augmenting the ring of bells to eight. a very fine eight, too.
He assured him that the Guild was in a flourishing condition; young people were in evidence at Branch meetings, and there was an encouraging number of first pealers. As regards the Canon's present church. he was able to tell him that Shotwick was famous for smuggling in the past, and no doubt the Vicarage cellars had in time past held other things than coal. He himself had had a fight to get a ring of bells installed in the tower because the architect had tried to insist on a chime only. Shotwick was famous for its harvest festival, and last year the Lord Bishop preached the sermon from the famous three-decker pulpit. Although the village was fast becoming modernised, it was not so long ago that the nearest telephone was three or four miles away. It was a delightful spot and well worth visiting, and ringers were always sure of a warm welcome from Canon Humphreys.

The rest of the evening was devoted to tunes on the handbells by the Donmayal Handbell Ringers of Macclesfield, and humorous songs and sketches by Messrs. Nield and Mitchell. These two gentlemen will, however, have to look to their laurels if the rendering of one verse by a gentleman member of the Guild, who shall be nameless, and another verse by a lady who is well known to many ringers, of the celebrated lyric 'Cock Robin' is any indication of hidden talent. The evening's proceedings concluded with the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne' and the National Anthem at about 10.30. and the members dispersed to make plans for next year. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Fidler. of Loughborough, formerly of Norbury.

GUILD OF POLICE RINGERS AT MANCHESTER

The characteristic hospitality of the Northern members was very much in evidence when the National Guild of Police Ringers met in Manchester on Sepiember 15 th for their annual meeting.

The president (P.C. R. Benson) and other members of Manchester City Police Ringers were there to greet the early arrivals from places as far distant as London, Bristol, Northampton, Leicester, Yorkshire, Kendal, Blackburn and Liverpool. Contrary to popular belief, the weather was fine and added greatly to the joy of the occasion.

Ringing had been arranged at St. John's, Miles Platting, and St. Mark's. Worsley, for the morning. where just before mid-day ringing was interrupted for the benefit of the visitors to hear the clock strike the unusual 'thirteen' at the mid-day hour. The bells of the Cathedral and the Church of the Sacred Trinity were available during the afternoon.

The business meeting was held at the Town Hall. The president, in opening the meeting, welcomed the members to Manchester and thanked them for their loyal support.

The secretary reported that during the year under review much of the activities, particularly in the form of practice meetings which had been going on more recently in the Midlands, had boen curtailed, mainly by the death of the late president. Mr. Poolc. This, also, was largely responsible for the absence of any peals during the year. Five new members had joined the Guild, and the deaths of Ex. Sgt. W. Dowding (Birmingham). Ex. Insp. Wiffen (Southend), Ex. Sgt. Fielding Crossley (Bradford) and Ex. P.C. Heath (Cardiff) had been reported. Membership remained about the same.

The funds of the Guild were satisfactory ; expenses had been light and the year ended with a balance of $£ 2619 \mathrm{~s} .4 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{~d}$.

The Central Council delegate, Insp. Butler, of Liverpool, expressed his regrets that owing to the exigencies of duty he had been unable to attend the Council meeting in Leicester. Ex. Sgt. C. Turner gave a brief account of the proceedings.

Ex. Supt. R. Williams then proposed the alteration to rules be taken next, as the result of that might materially alter the period of office of the elected president. This was unanimously agreed. The president. P.C. R. Benson, proposed alteration of Rule 5 be amended to read The president and hon. secretary-treasurer shall be elected for the year at each annual meeting., This was seconded by Ex. P.C. J. Crawshaw (Manchester). and after much discussion it was unanimously agreed to amend the rule.

THE NEW PRESIDENT

Ex. P.S. F. Hansford (Bristol) proposed and Ex. Sgt. C. Wilmington seconded that the next annual meeting be held in Leicester. This was agreed to. Ex. P.S. F. Hansford then proposed that in view of the next meeting being in Leicester Ex. Sgt. H. G. Jenney be elected president. Mr. Jenney felt reluctant to hold office due to his advancing years, but after much encouragement he agreed and was unanimously elected president of the Guild for the year 1957.

The president congratulated Mr. Jenney upon his appointment and Ex. Supt. Williams said in view of the long association of the Guild with Leicester and the long association of Mr . Jenney with the Guild, he being one of the original founder members, he thought the choice of president was unique and the honour was long overdue. Mr. Jenney thanked members for the honour they had bestowed upon him and the kind things said of him; his heart was still with the Guild and he would endeavour to carry out the duties of president to the best of his ability.
P.C. C Knight was re-elected hon. secretary. He had expressed a wish to relinquish the duties of secretary, but in view of the next meeting being in Leicester he was prepared to carry on another year..

Ex. Sgt. E. C. Birkett, of Liverpool, was unanimously elected to represent the Guild on the Central Council. Det. Sgt. Sharples, P.C. John Smith, and Special Sgt. Burgess and Special Sgt. John Halsall were elected members of the Guild.

Ex. Sgt. F. Hansford suggested that the time had arrived when the address list of members of the Guild should be reprinted and brought up to date. After discussion, this was agreed.

The president reminded the meeting that during the year four members of the Guild had passed away. The meeting stood in silence as a tribute to their memory.

This concluded the business meeting, and members made their way to the Town Hall, where a successful day's ringing was brought to a close.

Dinner had been arranged at the Waldorf Hotel, where over 90 members and friends partook of a first-class meal. The guests included the Dean of Manchester (the Very Rev. H. A. Jones) and Mrs. Jones. The Dean spoke of his long and happy association with ringers at Leicester and latterly at Manchester.

The dinner was followed by an excellent social evening, arranged by the president, with members of Manchester City Police. Handbell ringing was provided by Ex. P.C. W. Pye and P.C. S. Livesey and their party of youngsters. Change-ringing was provided by members of the company present, and the evening's entertainment was brought to a close with recordings collected and presented by Ex. Sgt. Hansford of Bristol.

The president thanked members for their cooperation and everyone who had contributed towards the success of the day. This concluded an excellent day in real Lancashire fashion, and members bade farewell and wended their several ways homeward.

St. Benedict's Church, Norwich, was destroyed by tho Luftwaffe. War damage payments have enabled a St. Benedict's Church to be built at Gunton housing estate, North Lowestoft. The 11 cwt. bell, cast in 1573 , which hung in the Norwich St. Benedict's, is being hung in the tower of the new Lowestoft church.

HELSTON BELLS RING OUT AGAIN

On St. Michael's Day, September 29th, the bells of St. Michael's Parish Church. Helston, were rededicated by the Rural Dean, Rev. H. H. Dixon. The former ring of eight bells (tenor $12 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.) was hung in 1904 in an iron cage, but the action of the salt air with strong winds caused gradual deterioration and ringing ceased in 1954.
The work of restoration was undertaken by Messrs. Taylor and Co. At the same time it was decided to install a new tenor at a total cost, with a new teak bell cage, of $£ 1,500$. After two years of waiting the work has now been completed. The new tenor is inscribed with the names of the Vicar and churchwardens, Rev. A. D. Moon and Messrs. J. S. Hendy and I. B. Truscott, and the dates 8th May, 1756-8th May, 1956. May 8th is significant as being 'Flora Day,' for which Helston is world-famous, and upon that day in the year 1756 the foundation stone of the church was laid.

The dedication service was held at 3 p.m.s and after an opening hymn the clergy proceeded to the ringing chamber. The Vicar named the new tenor 'Francis,' in memory of the Earl of Godolphin of that name, who built the church. The Rural Dean then read the Collects of Dedication, after which a short peal was rung by the Helston team,
The large congregation present included the Mayor of Helston and bellringers from the churches of St. Isscy, Kenwyn, St. Keverne, Landewednack. Illogan, Gwennap, Phillack, Mawgan, Cury, Ludgvan. Carbis Bay and Lostwithicl. In his sermon, the Vicar likened bellringing to a sport, and emphasised the importance of team work.

After the service tea was served in the Church Room for the visitors. A large iced cake, surmounted by an icing sugar bell, was given by Mrs. W. Liddicoat, and every ringer present received a portion.

The bells rang out to the delight of the listening townsfolk; and the visitors, too, were full of praise for the tone of the new ring. Regular ringing has now recommenced, and the Helston ringers, under their captain, Mr. W. C. Willey, are full of enthusiasm and very happy to be able to ring once again.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY UNDER FIRE

Dear Sir,-I was interested in Mr. Corby's letter in 'The Ringing World 'and, like him, I have been rather surprised that the columns of your paper should have been used so extensively to publicise principles and standards which have not been approved or even discussed by the Central Council. Admittedly, publication in your paper does not in any way imply Central Council recognition of the views set out in these articles, but I feel that there is always the danger that publication may lead some ringers, particularly newcomers to our art, to believe that the views set forth by the College have been tacitly accepted by the Council.
Is there not at the present time a committee of the Central Council at work on the publication of rotes for Instructors and Beginners?

I have a feeling that this nonsense (as Mr. Corby so aptly puts it) may have started as a result of an editorial article in 'The Irish Bell News,' and I had hoped that this article, which does not reflect any views of the Irish Association (whose official journal the paper is), had been forgotten, as I believe it was intended as a ' lark.'

If Mr. Corby goes ahead with his resolution for next year's Council, I certainly am prepared to support him.-Yours faithfully,

JOHN T. DUNWOODY
Holywood, Co. Down.
Dear $\mathrm{Sir},-\mathrm{Mr}$. Corby does not appear to realise that Mr. York-Bramble, founder of the College of Campanology, is a pioneer, although his pioneering work has been rudely described in this district as "another of Y-B's stunts.'

I was invited, 'as an eminent ringer,' to become 'Tutor $\mathbf{I}$ (Hon.) and Ringer VI (Hon.)' of the College, with a place on the board of governors, subject to payment of the requisite fee (2s. 6 d.$)$. The signature of consent of my parent or guardian was not required because I was over $21!$

After giving my reasons for refusing such an office I received a reply, of which the following is an extract:-

The advancement of mankind is, of course, marked by controversy and criticism, and pioncers have to be prepared for it; but human progress would be slight indeed if such pioncers all feared "controversy and even derision," as you put it. The latter, it may be recognised, invariably stems from those whose real knowledge of the thing they deride is little or nothing, and may be ignored: hut sometimes, also, alas, it comes from those whose "deeds "are limited to exclusive performances of a specialised kind, purely for their own enjoyment and/or advertisement. and who think little or nothing of the sturdy efforts of their humbler brethren.
I can only assume that Mr. Corby, in describing the scheme as 'a picce of nonsense, and intimating his intention of putting down a resolution for the next meeting of the Central Council, is one of those misguided people against whom pioneers have to be prepared.

CORRECTION TO A PEAL

Dear Sir.-1 have discovered an error in the report of a peal in 45 methods at Gosport on September 16th that you published recently. In writung out the report I omitted Crayford Little Court and Little Bob in extents 4 and 5 respectively. Will you please draw attention to this error before the truth of the peal is doubted. -Yours faithfully. ROGER BALDWIN.

TO PRODUCE GOOD INSTRUCTORS

Dear Sir,-Are we to gather from Mr. Corby's letter that new ideas in the Exercise should only come from the Central Council? Is this inference due to the fact that the formation and launching of the College of Campanology has come from one who is not a member of the Central Council?
In my opinion this idea should have the support of the Exercise, as the main object is not to produce good ringers but rather good instructors. All of us too often see the results of poor initial instruction and have been tempted to formulate an idea to avoid them. Strangely enough, no college or manual will make us all good tutors; teaching is a gift and cannot be manufactured. Surely this 'college' is only a broader idea of the weekend course held by the Essex Association, and that event has not been frowned upon.

Mr. Corby's main grievance would appear to be that he finds the reading of the manual a little tedious; but then, is there a manual that is not? Personally, I am anmazed at the detat it contains, and whether we like it or not it has provided something to talk about.-Yours sincercly,
L. BAILEY

CUMBERLAND TOUR AND FURNESS DISTRICT PEALS

Dear Sir,-I am sorry the Furness and Lake District members feel aggrieved because the Kendal and Dalton peals of Surprise Royal were recorded for the Cumberland and North Westmorland Association. Frankly, I fail to see the reason, as the Lancashire Association must have dozens, if not hundreds, of similar peals to their credit. It seems rather uncharitable to begrudge a neighjouring association their first peals of Royal, when they do not possess a 10 -bell tower of their own.
We always try to record all peals for the Association or Guild to which the tower belongs. but felt that these two peals could be an exception. The reason was not one of wishing to avoid paying another subscription, as some people may imaginc. A nucleus of the band are members of the Lancashire Association, and the rest would willingly have joined.

During a recent tour, it was necessary for some of the party to pay three different life membership subscriptions in one week; so I hope the Furness Branch will not brand us as one of those bands who travel into other counties and then record the peal for their own association_-Yours sincerely.

GOLDEN WEDDING OF  MR. & MRS. A. TOUT

Dear Sir.-In last week's 'Ringing World I was pleased to see that a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples, conducted by our old friend Claud Tarr, was rung to celebrate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. A. Tout. Mr. Tout came to Milverton about 1911 as stationmaster at Milverton. Previous to this he had never done any method ringing. He rang his first peal at Bishops Lydeard. conducted by Mr. R. Scott. and the following Saturday at Wiveliscombe. conducted by the Rev. E. V. Cox. His only peal of Stedman Triples was rung in 1914, and he is the only ringer of the band living. Mr. Tout has done a lot of spade-work during his ringing carcer. He rang many peals of Grandsire Doubles, and conducted most of them. I had the pleasure to be in the peal of Grandsire Triples which he conducted at Milverton. Mr. Tout's peals number about 47.-Yours faithfully.

St. Paul's, Melbourne, Reunion

There are quite a number of people living in Britain, either permanently or temporarily, who have rung at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, and are members of that Society. It has long been hoped that enough of them could be brought together to renew acquaintances, swap yarns and, if possible, ring a peal 10 gether.

At last this was brought about on October 13 th , and as well as spending all too short a time chatting about ringers and ringing 'down under,' a peal of Grandsire Caters was rung for the Society at St. Stephen's, Bristol. In the band there were only two real Australian ringers-Phil Cooper, from Adelaide, and Allan Bennett, from Melbourne-but half the band have been regular Sunday service ringers at the Cathedral for some years.
Unfortunately, Florence Brown, who learmt to ring in Melbourne and is at present in London, was unable to stand in at the last minute because of illness, but fortunately Fred Savage was able 10 deputise.
After the peal, the band heard a recem recording of St. Paul's bells, whilst they had some well-earned refreshments. This is not the first time a peal for the Society has been rung in England; some of those who visited Australia in 1934 rang a peal of Kent Royal at St. Clement Danes' in

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

A quarterly mecting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held at Shirley on October 6th. An encouraging feature of the ringing was the presence of a large number of young ringers, who took advantage of the opportunities given them for practice on the light cight (tenor of cwt.).
Mr. W. J. Roper, of Harborne, was made a full ringing member, and the tower elections of the following were duly ratified: Messrs. J. D. Painter (Cambridge), C. W. Woolley (Bushey Heath), F. B. Cookson (Stourbridge), P. W. Webb (Stourbridge). G. R. Parker (Lincoln), J. P. Hunt (Shirley), K. R. Foot (Shirley)

It was formally proposed and agreed that the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner be held at the Imperial Hotel on March 2nd. 1957. The next meeting. being the annual, will be held in the city on January 5th.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD

The autumn meeting of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford was held at Tutbury, near Burton-on-Trent, on October 13th. The ancient and beautiful Church of St. Mary, which adjoins the Castle, is situated on a hill overlooking the town and the pleasant countryside around. The squat tower of the church contains a good ring of six bells. The meeting, which was favoured with lovely weather, attracted an attendance of 62 . this figure including a large proportion of young ringers.

Rev. H. C. Tunnadine (Vicar) conducted the service and gave the address.

A nice tea was served in the Church Hall by Mrs. Tunnadine and a willing band of lady helpers. Following tea, thanks were duly expressed to all concerned in making the meeting so enjoyable, Ringing during the afternoon and evening was under the direction of Mr. George Hughes, Ringing Master.
The next meeting of the Socicty will be at Sedgley on January 5th.

SECTION IX. (Lesson 7)

RAISING AND LOWERING

 (Silenced)117. Organisation.-This is the last session of 'silent ' Work in the Course, there being three others of 'open' ringing. The object of this exercise is not only to give the student fuller control of his bell (for example, to enable him to raise it again if it drops for any reason), but also to fromote greater confidence in his ringing action, especially when he encounters strange bells. For this session very heavy bells should not be used, obviously; but since all students reaching this stage can handle a bell reliably, as many bells may be silenced as can be handled efficiently by the students, and for each of which a capable ringer (apart from the Tutor in charge) can be in attendance. By this means as many as, perhaps, six can be practising the work simultaneously, and by concentrating on the procedure as laid down, students should learn the work of raising and lowering (solo) in this one session. Raising and lowering 'in peal' must be practised 'one at a time' with an experienced band, preferably on the practice night.
(Q T)
118.-Analysis of the Process. (S) A bell, normally hanging mouth downwards, is too heavy to be swung through an angle of more than a few degrees at one pull. by even a moderately heavy adult, for the simple reason that the bell is the heavier. But, due to the build-up effect of the repeated pulls as the bell continues to swing, the arc of travel is increased until the angle of swing reaches $360^{\circ}$ either way. Since the ringer has to retain control solely by means of a rope passing round a wheel, and this wheel must be of large enough size to give a good leverage in the pulls and checks, a longish length of rope is unavoidable. But at the start of the raising, when the swings are small, this full length of rope is not called into use. To prevent the unrequired length getting in the way, or being flicked about, it is coiled up and held in the lower hand in such a way that, as more of it is required with the increase of the swings, it can be paid out a little at a time. As each coil in turn grows less with the paying-out, and is finally slipped from the hand, the next coil is drawn upon; and so on until the last coil is slipped off. The Tutor now demonstrates the preliminary coil-up, and the raising of the bell, with the paying out of the coils until the bell is fully raised. Emphasis is laid on the following points: (a) The 'chiming check' at the start; (b) Truly vertical pulling; (c) Absence of check (except for control) as checkstrokes develop; (d) Fullest possible length of pull, both ways, as the pullstrokes develop; (e) No undue haste to get the bell up; ( f ) Sally to be steadied with the upper hand the moment it passes ' full dip ' position; (g) Caution in the pulling force exerted as the bell nears the raised condition.
Tutor now sets the bell and explains and shows that lowering is the reverse action; the bell being pulled off and checked at each checkstroke, with no pulling on the pullstrokes except to keep a tight rope and to maintain the beat when lowering ' in peal.' As the swings decrease and the excess rope develops, it has to be taken up by coils, formed a little at a time. This is effected by a 'pick-up' action of finger and thumb of the lower hand until the coil has become too large for the up-and-down motion (flipping about). This largish coil is then ' outer ' of these two smaller coils is then developed by the finger and thumb action again, until it, in turn, is large enough to be 'doubled.' The doubling action is performed by the upper, and, which is otherwise occupied in 'steadying' the sally. (D) Tutor is now demonstrating this as he lowers the bell, with the coiling-up action continuing until the bell is down to the chiming condition, and the rope from end to sally remains coiled in the lower hand, NOT dropped on the floor, while chiming continues. (See Article 47.)
(Q)
118. Dummy Raising Practice. (Motions only.) (Ex. 42.) Tutor and students now 'take position ' at the ropes and, Tutor demonstrating, on the order 'Untie ropes and coil up!' they take the rope-end in the lower hand and coil it three or four times according to length of rope. The last coil will include a bit of the sally, all coils being in the lower hand and held to the sally, with the upper hand just above the lower, gripping the sally. On the word 'One,' the sally is released and the hands, keeping together, slide down the rope until the lower hand has allowed the last-gathered coil to tighten round it. On the word "Two,' the hands are raised again to sally height. On 'Three' the upper hand grips the rope while the lower hand slips off the tightened coil. This sequence of three movements is now repeated, but with this slight difference: As the lower hand descends on One," the upper hand holds up the rope until the coil has tightened round the lower, then joins the lower for movement 'Two,' and so on. The appropriate motions are repcated, until all coils are released and the hands rise with only the rope-end held in them, when they grip the the rope-end held in them, when they grip the sally and stop there. This represents the bell raised and set.
119. Dummy Lowering Practice. (Motions only.) (Ex. 43.) Position is taken and ropes untied, as in Ex. 42, the rope-end being taken in the lower hand and the sally gripped by both as when ready to pull off a raiscd bell at hand. On the word 'One!' the hands separate from the sally and as they descend the rope-end is eased through the lower hand grip by its finger-and-thumb movement ( gathered "). The upper hand now grips rope above lower hand in the latter's new position. On 'Two!' the hands rise to, sally height. (In actual 'live' lowering this is the stroke with the 'extra check' which works to control the rate of 'fall.') These two orders and movements are repeated (say, four times in all) until the 'gathered' rope-end is dangling some 12 in . below the lower hand. As the hands rise on this (4th) 'Two!' the upper hand retains a tight grip, while the lower hand slips down the gathered part to the end of it. Now, on the next 'One!' as the hands descend, the lower one loops the end of the rope up to a grip-point just below the upper hand. Both hands are now ready for a check again, as they rise on 'Two!'. This description secms lengthy, but it is necessarily so for the detail, but is followed quite well after the Tutor's original demonstration. So, to take stock at this point-the student has paused with hands raised. holding the first loop, which has been gathered in about five pairs of 'One!-Two!'.
120. Lowering Motions-continued. (Ex. 43 continued.) The sequence is now repeated and continued until all the rope is gathered into loops (about four), i.e., as far as the lower part of the sally. When Tutor sees all bells to have reached this stage, he gives the order. 'All bells -Chiming!', and cach student initiates chiming action (silent, of course) with his rope in due sequence with the others. (This is quite practicable. since all bells were stationary when the order was given.)
121. Chiming Finish to Lowering. (Ex, 44.) When the ropes are seen to be chiming in order (more or less), the Tutor will make comment on faults in checking and attend to each individually, showing that the checkstroke is just as important as the pullstroke, as in full ringing practice, though, of course, in a different sense. The aim is to make the bell sound with the minimum of swing, and though this is not practicable with bells silenced, of course, yet it should be pointed out at this stage, and kept in mind to be practised after 'live' lowerings. (Q) When ready to stop the Tutor calls 'Last three pulls-One, Two, Three-Miss!-Catch!' This order is fairly self-explanatory: after the third pull the rope is allowed one 'free' swing. i.e., to rise and fall without pull or check on the rope, and is then fully checked on the next rise. to make the last sound (when 'open ') as the bell stops. If the bell is properly checked down in the final chiming, there will be little or no rope movement (bell-swing) after the final 'Catch!'. But if there is any appreciable movement this must be gently checked, so as not to cause any further sound (when the bell is 'open '). The reason for stopping all movement is that there shall be no cause of damage to the clock hammers as they are put ' on ' again, after the ringing. (Q)
122. Bell Raising (Silent). (Ex. 45.) Actual ' live ' raising is now practised, there being an assistant or experienced ringer with each student independently, while the Tutor-in-charge keeps overall watch and check. The actions, as in the dummy practice of Ex. 42, in the main fit in with the movements of the rope as the bell swings higher; and the points, demonstrated by the Tutor and described in Article 118, are to be carefully observed and checked; especially that as to caution against overpulling when the bell is almost 'up.' When raised the hell is sct at hand and the rope tied up. The Tutor makes his criticisms before the next exercise is taken, the students remaining at the ropes.
123. Bell Lowering (Silent.) (Ex. 46.) The same students now untie the ropes, take ropeend grip and reach up for sally grip, all as for a normal pull-off. After a few steady pulls (preferably in the rhythm of round-ringing), the assistant gives the order 'Lower Away!', and the student follows with the actions as rehearsed in the dummy practice of Ex. 43, which will be found to fit in with the movements of the rope. both hands otherwise acting as in normal ringing for the first few strokes of the lowering. As soon as the bell has begun to 'lose height,' however, the upper hand only takes the 'steadying of the sally. while the lower continues the takeup finger-and-thumb action and the looping up. Emphasis is to be laid on the checking action 'at bac's' (as the loops are formed) since, when lowering 'in peal.' the closeness control essential for a good lower in peal is effected by these checks. When the bell is down to the chiming condition, each student carries on the chiming independently, since the actual lowering has not been 'in peal.' The assistant gives the order for stopping as in Ex. 44.
124. Questions and Conclusion of 'Silent' Work.-At the close of this session special attention should be given to "questions both ' of, and 'by' the students: since the silent part of the training is now completed. Each student should be able confidently to raise. ring and lower a bell. to show in practice the distinction between the three rates of beat: (a) as in rounds, or place-making: (b) hunting up. and (c) hunting down: as well as to hunt. placemake and dodge when ringing with a small number, say four, of bells. Students are now informed that three or more lessons complete the course. but that these are on 'open ' bells, and therefore will be on the local 'practice night.' for the first half-hour or so. (Unless, of course, a separate occasion is permissible.)

TWO BISHOPS AT ESSEX ASSOCIATION DINNER

'IHE third annual dinner of the Essex Association was held in the Picture Room, Shire Hall, Chelmsford, on October 6th. The Master of the Essex Association, Mr. R. C. Heazel, acted as chairman, and the guests included the Lord Bishops of Chelmsford and Barking, the Provost of Chelmsford, Mr. and Mrs. F: Nolan Golden, and Dr. Armstrong Gibbs.

The toast 'The Church ' was proposed by the Master of the Association, who said that when he thought of the Church, and in particular the Anglican Branch, throughout the world, he was filled with a sense of wonderment. The Diocese of Chelmsford, which the Essex Association covers, was a subject dear to the hearts of all present at the dinner. It wasn't an old diocese, having been founded in 1914, and there were probably people present who remembered the first Bishop. The Diocese has been faced with problems from the day it came into existence and never were the problems so grave as those facing it at the present time.

The first Bishop, who was a man of great charm, faced the problems of weaving together a new diocese. The second Bistiop, a great scholar, who did not remain at Chemsford very long, continued the process of cementing together the Church in Essex. The third Bishop, Dr. Henry Wilson, who is remembered with great affection in Essex, met and conquered many problems during his long term. His scheme, 'London-over-the-border,' found a solution for the new housing areas which came about in Essex before the second world war The fourth and present Bishop. Dr. Faulkner Allison, who came to Chelmsford from Ridley Hall, Cambridge, has vast and intricate problems to face with the creation of the New Towns and large L.C.C. housing areas in Essex.

The Master continued that probably the ringers knew more about what was happening in the Diocesc than most people. The Association holds 30 meetings a year in all parts of Essex, where all sorts of people from all walks of life meet together. It was fast becoming apparent that more interest was being found in the Church in Essex today than ever before More clergy were coming into the Diocese; more ordinands were coming forward. The plurality of livings left a lot to be desired, but half a vicar was better than no, vicar at all. The new vicarages being built in various parts of the Diocese were helping to attract men of the right calibre into the parishes.

The Master concluded by paying tribute to the great work done by the incumbents, and said that he hoped that the day was not too far distant when the income of every parish priest was at least $£ 1,200$ a year.

The Lord Bishop of Chelmsford, who responded to the toast, said that it was a great pleasure for him to be present at the dinner, and thanked the Association for the invitation

A DISTURBANCE WITH A REMINDER

The ringers, by their work, said Dr. Allison performed a major service for the Church. The ringers invited the people to come to church and knocked their consciences. The ringers might be accused of disturbing the human race but the disturbance was for a good cause if the people who were disturbed were reminded that there was a church and that they should be at tending the church service, for which the bells were ringing

The Bishop of Barking, proposing the toast ' The Essex Association of Change-Ringers,' informed the company that it gave him great joy to make the proposition.

The Bishop observed that since the war there had beed an inumense revival in change-ringing throughout the length and breadth of the British Isles. Before the war, he could remember change-ringing was gradually dying out in some parts of the country. He was sure that the revival was due to so many young people taking an interest in the Exercise and that the prospect for the future was very bright.

The Bishop continued, that in his opinion fellowship was a good thing, and belonging to organisations like the Essex Association gave one an interest in life. A ringer could walk into any tower in the country and get a warm wel come. He knew, when in Germany as a Chaplain General, an Air Vice-Marshal's wife who was a keen ringer, and spent most of her husband's leaves in England "tower snatching.'

The Bishop continued with a recollection of a wartime Christmas he had spent in Palestine while on sick leave from the Eighth Army. He could remember bells of Bethlehem commencing to ring after the carol service which ended at 12 midnight, and continuing until 8 o'clock next morning.

Mr. H. Turner, the Deputy Master of the Association, responded to the toast, and observed that the Essex Association was formed by churchpeople for churchpeople for church purposes. Mr. Turner continued that it was noteworthy that the Association had only had four Masters during the whole of its existence of 76 years. The Association, continued Mr. Turner, had one premier aim of seeing that every ring able ring of bells was rung at least once on Sundays for divine service.

THE EXERCISE IS FLOURISHING
The toast, 'The Exercise and Kindred Associations,' was proposed by Mr. F. V. Gant, the honorary secretary and treasurer. Mr. Gant said it was just as well to enquire into the health of the Exercise as thermometers and other applances could not be applied. In his opinion the Exercise was in a very flourishing state and it was up to everyone to see that it continued at such a high level of activity.

The vice-president of the Norwich Diocesan Association, Mr. F. Nolan Golden, replied on behalf of the kindred associations. Mr. Golden prefaced his remarks by thanking the Association for inviting his wife and him to the dinner. Mr. Golden continued that he was a keen student of annual reports, and one thing was most noticeable to his mind regarding the Essex Association. There were so many young people ringing in peals and quarter peals, Mr. Golden continued; you have a splendid Association, you have wonderful leaders, the rank and file is extraordinary. You mustn't become despondent because one tower falls out. This must be ex pected. The Exercise has been full of ups-anddowns.

THE GUESTS
The Provost of Chelmsford proposed the toast. "The Guests and Artistes, and Dr. Armstrong Gibbs replied.

During the evening the company were entertained by Mrs. Horsnell (soprano), Mr. David Smith (raconteur), and songs by the Danbury Ringers, with Dr. Armstrong Gibbs at the piano.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Close on 30 members were present at the North Norfolk Branch meeting at Mattishall on October 6th. Mr. G. Sayer, Branch Ringing Master, saw that the bells were kept going, and ringing ranged from Rounds to Cambridge Minor.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. T. G. Geddes), assisted by the president (the Rev. H. G. Lillingston); the Vicar also played the organ.
Tea was very kindly given by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Moore of Mattishall, after which the business meeting followed. Mr. A. Bason Branch chairman, presided, supported by the president.

Four non-resident life members elected prior to a peal at St. Peter Mancroft on May 21st, were ratified, viz. : Messrs. F. R. Scott (Siough), W. H. Coles (Hayes), A. E. Hartley (Thorner Yorks) and J. W. Haw (Peterborough). Miss J Moore (Aylsham) was elected a ringing member; Mrs A. E. Dixon, Herbert J. Larwood and Peter J. Woodcock, all of Shipdham, were re-elected ringing members.

The chairman expressed thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and conducting the service, the Rev. D. F. J. Rutt for the use of Yaxham bells, and to Mr and Mrs. Moore for supplying a lovely tea, and the lady helpers.

The annual branch meeting will be at Wy mondham on January 12th. Mr. H. Tooke said a number of peal attempts had been arranged during 1957, at the Abbey Church, and issued an invitation to the Northern Branch to make its attempt on Saturday, October 5th. Members wishing to take part should send names to the Branch secretary. If necessary, the Branch committee would pick the band.

OBITUARY

MR. JOHN NETLEY
The death occurred on October 9th at Arundel, Sussex, of Mr. John (' Jack') Netley, aged 88.

Mr. Netley joined the Sussex County Association on March 30th, 1895, and his first peal for the Association was rung at Horsham on May 14th, 1895 . He rang several non-association peals, and his total was approximately 80.
He engendered much respect in the Western Division of the County Association and introduced many ringers to membership. He rendered much assistance to building up a new band at Arundel when the bells were rehung in 1950, despite his advanced age and the climb to the belfry. In latter years, however, his greater interest was directed towards the church and ringing at Lyminster, which he served well, and where his funeral took place on October 12 th , the anniversary of his wedding day at the same church.

Mr. Netley served the community in other voluntary organisations, especially in the St. John Ambulance Brigade and Fire Service.

Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. Netley, who did so much to encourage the enthusiasm in the art of her late husband.

MR. GEORGE LUFF
We regret to record the death of Mr. George Luff, of Chiddingfold, Surrey, which occurred on Óctober 13 th at St. Luke's Hospital, Guildford, at the age of 80 . He was a ringer and chorister for a great number of years and took part in peals in the days of the Winchester Diocesan Guild.
The funeral took place at Chiddingfold Parish Church on October 17th, the Rector (the Rev. M. Bruce) officiating. Handbells were rung at the graveside by Mrs. P. Fuller and Mr. R. Cooper (Chiddingfold) and Mr. and Mrs. F. Bowden (Haslemere). In the evening halfmuffled touches were rung on the tower bells, ringers from Haslemere assisting the local band. So passes almost the last of the old company of Chiddingfold ringers, all of whom are sadly missed.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

The Truro Branch held their auturnn meeting at Perran-ar-Worthal on October 6th. Ringing was started at $2.30 \mathrm{p}, \mathrm{m}$. by Perran-ar-Worthal ringers, and before tea several methods had been rung. A very good attendance of 88 members was there, including visitors from the Penzance Branch. Among them were very many young ringers. the youngest being Graham Dunstan, aged 10. of St. Kea.

The church was nicely decorated for the harvest thanksgiving, and the service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. Jose, the address being given by the Rev. Mr. Dodds, of Veryan. Tea was provided by the ladies and churchworkers.

In the absence of the chairman (Mr. Docking) the president of the Guild (Mr. A. Carveth) took the chair for the business meeting. Mr. B. Parkin was elected chairman for the coming year, and Mr. C. W. Jose was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

In the evening the ringers parted into their respective bands to ring at nearby towers. Handbell ringing took place in the schoolroom, methods as well as many hymns being rung. To finish off the day a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung, with one of the oldest ringers there, Mr. W. Teague, taking the tenor.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

The autumn meeting of the Banbury and District Branch was held at Cropredy on October 13th. The attendance was affected, apparently, by the fine, sunny weather which must have kept a number of members in their gardens, but between 30 and 40 were present.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. H. A. T. Bennett, who subsequently took the chair at the business meeting in the unavoidable absence of the Branch chairman, the Rev. C. O. Moreton.

It was agreed to restart the monthly practice meetings, and the first was fixed for Bloxham on November 17 th, and the second for Deddington on December 15 th, starting at $5 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. It is hoped that these practices will Lring together those members who are anxious to learn higher methods. It was also agreed to held the next meeting on January 12th at Bloxham.

Members stood in silence for a few moments in memory of Mr. E. C. Pearson, late hon. secretary of the Branch, who had passed away since the last meeting.

An excellent tea was prepared and served by the ladies from Cropredy, and this was much appreciated.

The bells were kept going before the service and after the business meeting, under the direction of the new Branch Ringing Master, Mr. E. E. Pearson, in various methods from Rounds to Surprise, to suit all tastes.

THE LADIES' GUILD

The meeting of the South Wales District, held at Usk on October 13 th, proved most successful and some 45 ringers attended to enjoy this fine ring of bells. The service was conducted by the Vicar, who warmly welcomed the Guild and gave an interesting address.
A delightful tea was prepared in a nearby hall by Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Luff, Mrs. Kear and Miss Hobbs. These ladies were thanked by Mr. R. E. Coles.

The vice-president, Mrs. C. Coles, thanked the Vicar for his kind welcome and Mr. Lionel Jones for contributing so much to the success of the meeting.
After the gentlemen had returned to the tower the secretary read a letter of good wishes received from the president (Mrs. T. Lock). One new member was elected - Miss Jennifer Stephens, of Ebbw Vale. Penarth was chosen as the place of the next meeting in January.

THE YORKSHIRE DINNER

ATYPICAL Yorkshire welcome awaited those who made the journey to York, the ancient and most beautiful northern city, and only those who have received such a welcome can appreciate what these words mean. The honest, forthright sincerity of our Yorkshire ringing folk is a never-to-be-forgotten experience.

Added importance to this year's proceedings was the presence of the Archbishop of York, who has permanently endeared himself to all ringers by his downright denunciation of synthetic bells, which he described as "one of the most bogus frauds in Christendom' and, he added, 'these devices could not be introduced into churches without the faculty of a diocesan chancellor.' He said he was always glad to hear of them taking a very poor view of proposals to make these installations. Dr. Ramsey continued, ' I wish to extend and safeguard the great art of ringing in the Church.'

The Archbishop's words were very widely reported in the Northern Press, and 'The Bradford Telegraph,' in a leading article commenting on the speech, said: 'Many churchgoers who have misgivings at the modern trend to make religious observance easier on the body and soul will agree with the Archbishop. Bell-ringing is more than a mere alarm call giving warning that the service is about to begin. It is in itself an act of worship - the raising of a hymn of praise. If it is to be replaced by gramophone records because sufficient ringers cannot be enlisted, then it might as well be dispensed with altogether. A hooter or siren would fulfil the same purpose.' The article concluded: 'The bells must ring out again. But their song must come from the hands and hearts of men, not from the mechanical lungs of an ecclesiastical juke-box.'

Ringers everywhere will, we feel sure, appreciate what both the Archbishop and Press have said on this matter, but the situation is one which calls for continuous vigilance, and every possible obstacle must be put in the way to prevent synthetic installations. Many of our presentday evils have come about because of apathy, and the stronger our ringing organisations can be made the greater the vigilance that can be exercised. Synthetic bells can lead to synthetic music in the church, synthetic prayers, synthetic sermons and finally to synthetic congregations!

Another speaker, Canon Tardrew, referred to the power of ringers to 'make the dumb speak.' He was referring to the many silent rings there are up and down the country, and said that if these dumb bells could be made to speak it might also be possible 'to make the deaf hear.' Here is a still further challenge to us as ringers to go all out for greater recruitment, and in this connection York is leading the way with its School of Ringing at the Institute of Architectural Study. The writer was able to see very young ringers using the six bells there with an efficiency that was most impressive. One very small boy (Colin) was ringing Bob Minor like a veteran, and also giving a slightly bigger boy (Michael) some practical help in getting successfully through a touch. These boys are in the hands of capable instructors and the whole scheme is a most inspiring one, and deserves every possible help and encouragement that can be given.

Truly the Yorkshire Association is facing up to its task, and under the guidance of their most able president, the Ven. C. O. Ellison, will enhance the great traditions of this Association, built on foundations laid by his great predecessors, Jasper and William Snowdon and Canon Marshall.

NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION

Warm sunny weather has favoured the last two meetings of the North Staffordshire Association at Uttoxeter and Eccleshall on September 22nd and October 13th.

As usual the meeting at Uttoxeter was arranged for the Patronal Festival coinciding, incidentally, with the local fair and races. The meeting was well attended and the ringing was particularly rewarding. A high standard of striking has always been expected and obtained on these fine bells; this was no exception, and ringing in many Surprise Major methods was heard. A course of Leek Major was eventually brought round-after it was found that half the band, in writing out the principle, had begun the course at the wrong whole pull!
The meeting at Eccleshall, re-affiliated in 1955, was the first official visit of the Association for very many years and was also a most enjoyable occasion. Eccleshall itself is a delightfully unspoiled country town, attractive under any circumstances, with a fine, spacious church, well-proportioned tower and a ring of six, rehung in 1954, and soon to be augmented to eight. The sound of the bells is particularly welcomed by the parishioners and townspeople, whose interest has helped so much to maintain this ring. The service was raken by the Vicar (the Rev. S. Tetley), who presided at an excellent tea provided in the Memorial Hall by the wives and friends of the local ringers.

During the short business session after tea the congratulations of the Association were extended to the Sunday service band of Norton-le-Moors. who successfully brought round a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major-the first peal of Surprise Major on the bells-on the previous Saturday.

JOINT MEETING AT BOWDON

A joint meeting of the Stockport, Bowdon and Mottram Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild and the North-Western District of the Ladies' Guild was held at Bowdon on Sept. 29th. The bells were in good use from carly in the afternoon until the service in church, conducted by the Vicar (Canon D. P. Low), who also gave the address. In order to avoid clashing with the Guild business meeting the ladies held their business meeting in the vestry before the service.

After the service some 80 members and friends enjoyed an excellent meal as the guests of an anonymous friend and the local ringers. The business meeting, under the chairmanship of the Vicar, was of a routine nature. Visitors from the Chester, Crewe and other Branches of the Guild and from neighbouring Associations were present and the presence of the Guild general secretary, the Rev. John Kingdon, was greatly appreciated. Ringing was enjoyed until a very late hour and ranged from rounds and call shanges to Spliced Surprise Major.

BEGINNER'S PLAIN BOB

Mr Alex Waddington has produced aurother of his handy little books, Beginner's Plain Bob,' setting out in simple language Bob Minimus. Plain Bob Doubles, Bob Minor, Bob Triples and Bob Major. Like all Mr. Waddington's work it is a one-man venture, the setting, printing and binding work being undertaken by him in a very creditable manner. 'Beginner's Plain Bob' is obtainable from the Peregrine Press, Egerton, Kent (price 1s. 9d. post free).

CONSECRATION AT LITTLE CHART

On St. Michael's Day the newly-built church of St. Mary-the-Virgin, Little Chart, was consecrated by the Archbishop of Canterbury. This was a great day for the parish, and the bells played their gay part in the rejoicing as once more the village has its House of God after the destruction of its 15 th century church by one of Hitler's flying bombs.

The new church, of pleasant brick with Bath stone mullions and cornices, blends in a friendly way with the walls and tall trees of the corner of the old Surrenden Park in which it is situated.
The nucleus of the pre-war band of ringers, under the energetic leadership of Mr. J. Batchelor, has been strengthened by a new batch of young ringers. For months they have practised assiduously at Egerton, Charing and Harrietsham, and lately on their own lashed, silent bells.

The dedicatory rounds during the service were rung by some of the local band not otherwise taking a major role in it, and then afterwards all the local ringers took turns on the open bells. Then followed a 120 of Grandsire Doubles by an Egerton band, and many touches in which everyone present could take part. Stedman, Single Oxford. Bob Minor, Double Court and Cambridge Surprise were included in the methods rung.

It was not until 9.30 that the bells were lowered in peal and the visitors departed with pleasant thoughts of this bright new church, its beautiful light ring of Taylor bells, and the happy enthusiasm of the ringers planning to ring their bells for three services on the following day.

Miss Patricia M. Bourn, Master of the Bristol University Society, has just celebrated her 21st birthday. Her Bristol ringing friends and members of the Bristol University Society congratulate her on becoming of age and wish her every success in her ringing and academic careers.
The local band at Willesborough, Kent, have completed so far this year 100,000 changes for service ringing.
Correction.-It was Enford and not Exford ringers who rang their first peal together. (See page 665.)

With deep regret we announce the death of Mr. Ernest James Taylor, of Tiverton, hon. secretary of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers. The funeral was at Tiverton last Monday.
Sixteen members of the Sunday service band at St. Ann's, Stamford Hill, London, have this year rung quarter peals in their tower in more than 35 methods.
Four mistresses and eight girls at Queen Margaret's School, Escrick Park, have been trained to handle a bell by one of the ringers from York Minster. On Sunday evening of October 21st the bells of Escrick Parish Church were rung by them for evening service, for the first time in six years. We await the first quarter from Qucen Margaret's School.
In the peal at Warwick on October 13th it was obviously impossible to include all past officers of the Coventry Diocesan Guild, so the band who rang the peal would like to associate the following past officers: Adolphus Roberts, W. A. Stote, A. Hinde, W. Collett, T. Adams, J. A. Fenton, T. Sheppard and the Rev. Carew Cox. Before the start of the peal it was decided to light the gas as well as the electric light. It was discovered that the band were all nonsmokers and did not possess a match between them. Is this a record?

GOSSIP

In appreciation of the kindnesses be received and also as choirboy in 1937, Mr. Louis A. Wilson, of Wootton Bassett, Wilts, sends us 10s. for the Bow Bells Restoration Fund. On that occasion, Mr. Wilson (now 81) rang the fifth to Cambridge Surprise with Mr. J. T. Dyke on the tenor. The choirboy has never forgotten the rounds he rang at Bow.
Rugby is having a spate of press correspondence concerning the eight at St. Andrew's Church which were rehung last year, and being in the main street cause annoyance to those who do not like bells, especially when rung on a Saturday afternoon.

The Dean of Liverpool informs us that the open ringing day at Liverpool Cathedral this autumn has been fixed for November 17th. Ringing will be from 11 to 12.30 and from 1.30 to 3 p.m.

Apropos two ringers ringing at Rock, Worcs, and Roll, Northants, the same week, 'Peter Simple,' in 'The Daily Telegraph,' writes:-

If Treble Bob is just the job

When tolled in syncopation,
Do Grandsire Triples rung in ripples
'Send' the congregation?
Inadvertently, the report of the National Police Guild last week mentioned that Mr. Arthur B. Wiffen, ex-Inspector, Southend-onSea Constabulary, had passed away. His police comrades will be pleased to learn that Mr. Wiffen is very much alive and is living at 23 , Burdenshott Avenue, Richmond, Surrey. Last July Mr. Wiffen was seriously ill and his right leg was amputated, but an artificial leg was fitted and he is able to walk short distances, although he is afraid his ringing days are over. Now 70 years of age, Mr. Wiffen rang his first peal at Braintree in 1902 and his last at Prittle-well-irr 1952.

ARCHBISHOP HONOURS SNOWDON COMMEMORATION DINNER

THE 24th annual commemoration dinner to the memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and past officers of the Yorkshire Association was held at York on October 20th. During the afternoon the bells of the Minster, Acomb Parish Church and the Institute of Architectural Study were rung to various methods. Before ringing started at the Minster the Belfry Office was recited by the Rev. A. J. McMullen, chaplain to the Minster Ringers.
Undoubtedly the focal point of interest was the ancient ring of six bells at the Architectural Institute (formerly the Church of St. John), which had recently been restored in full accordance with Central Council principles.
In the evening a fompany of over 90 assembled at the Windmill Hotel. The guests included the Lord Archbishop of York (Dr. A. M. Ramsey), Canon T. H. Tardrew (Precentor of York Minster), the Rev. D. Oxby Parker (Vicar of Acomb) and the Rev. A. J. McMullen.

A GREAT HONOUR

The chair was taken by the Ven. C. O. Ellison, president of the Association, and in his opening remarks he said it was a great honour to the Association that the Archbishop in the midst of a very busy life had found it possible to accept an invitation to be present. The toast 'Church and State' was proposed by Mr. E. Hurdson (vice-president). He said there were some people who would welcome the dissolution of the bond between Church and State. Many people realised that there were great problems and difficulties and at times the tension was considerable, but if the bond was dissolved the Church might lose materially but the State would be the loser in far more important and deeper ways. Could not we as Christian people pray that Church and State in this realm should become one in purpose and intention? ' He continued and proposed the loast in verse
? 'My friends, it may cause you a Minor Surprise
To hear in light verse a request to arise
And drink to the health of the Church and the State,
Together with that of our gracious Primate. May they, like our bells, speak in tuneful accord
And ever abound in the work of the Lord.
Good ringers are glad when they hear the last call,
So pick up your glasses, my friends, this is all.'
Mr. President, Reverend Sirs, Ladies and Gentlemen,
The Church and the State, His Grace our Archbishop.

'BOGUS FRAUD OF CHRISTENDOM

When he rose in reply to the toast, the Archbishop was received with acclamation. Dr. Ramsey said he was concerned to safeguard and extend the great art of bellringing in the Church. Bellringers had one or two enemies. One enemy was the use of gramophone records and similar devices which tried to produce the sound of bells without ringing at all. 'I regard this as one of the most bogus frauds of Christendom,' he said. He did his utmost to clear the Diocese of Durham of such installations and thought it reassuring to know that they could not be introduced without a faculty from the Diocesan Chancellor. He was always glad to hear of a Diocesan Chancellor taking a poor view of proposals to make these installations.

Dr. Ramsey said his regard for ringers was coloured by his own experiences. Those who were now ringers were but a small fraction of those who once made the attempt but fell out of the race for want of encouragement. He came into that category. When he was a theological student he thought he would have a try at ringing the bells at the Parish Church. And I will not try to describe what happened. I concluded that as regards efficiency and the safety of my person, my vocation lay in what are called other channels.'

During his parish work he had been fortunate in serving in three churches with great traditions of bells-St. Nicholas', Liverpool, Boston Stump, and St. Bene"t"s, Cambridge. Again and again he had been conscious of the estrangement of a large part of the population from the Church and the Christian religion. Yet he believed that there was a deep latent religious sense in the bulk of the population. Because of that he was glad that the connection between Church and State still continued and was able every now and then to evoke that religious sease in the whole community.

THE BAN ON BELLS

The Ringing World ' editorial of June, 1940, is quoted by Peter Fleming in his article in 'The Sunday Times' on 'The Night the Bells Rang.' He wrote:$A$ ban on the ringing of church bells was announced on June 13th, 1940. Henceforth they would be rung only by the military or the police to give warning that an airborne attack was in progress. This arrangement had, in addition to the story-book quality so characteristic of the period, an agreeably traditional flavour; but it was viewed with concern by "The Ringing World," an organ devoted to the interests of campanology. The ban was seen as " a stunning blow to ringing, from which, even when the war is over, it will take a long time to recover":

BELLS-THE BOND OF CHURCH AND STATE
He was sure that the work of the bellringers in a special way symbolised the bond between Church and State. After all, the bells of a Cathedral and a great Parish Church were heard by the whole community as well as the churchgoers. They told the whole community they ought to be churchgocrs, a heartily right and good thing to tell them.
The Archbishop said he would never forget the bells of York on the day of his consecration in the Minster as Bishop of Durham, nor the bells on the day he was enthroned Primate. - I am grateful, too, and proud of the bells and the ringers of York Minster, and I realise that what the ringers of York Minster mean to York, the ringers in so many parishes throughout Yorkshire mean to those parishes.

Mr. G. Benfield. hon. treasurer, proposed - Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and Past Officers of the Association.' He reviewed the life and work of Snowdon and wondered how it was possible he was able to accomplish so muck: in such a short rifging life. Jasper was followed by his brother. William, as president. Later the beloved Canon C. C. Marshall presided over the affairs of the Association, and since the Association was formed in 1875 there had only been four presidents-a remarkable record. Other past officers he called to mind were William Horner Howard, first vice-president: Charles Henry Hattersley and his brother, Tom, Clement Glynn, Jim Cotterell and George Bolland.

The company stood in silence for a few moments before drinking the toast.

Mr. H. Walker proposed 'The Guests and Kindred Ringing Societies' and said this was the first time the gathering had been headed by the head of the Northern Province, and he took the presence of His Grace as being a compliment to the work of the bellringers. He welcomed Canon Tardrew, Precentor of York Minster, who many would remember as Vicar of St. Mary's, Beverley, with its glorious ring of ten.

Another guest was the Rev. D. Oxby Parker, Vicar of Acomb and Rural Dcan of York, who had been responsible for transferring a derelict ring of six bells from a disused city church to his church at Acomb. He was pleased to say the bells were now rang twice each Sunday.

The Rev. G. McMullen was not only chaplain to the Minster Ringers but was secretary to the Advisory Committee for the Care of Churches in the York Diocese, and he was glad to say that this committee always advised against the installation of synthetic bells.

Representatives were present that evening from the Ancient Society of College Youths, the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, the Lancashire Association, the Chester Diocesan Guild, the Leicester Diocesan Guild, the London County Association, the Universities Association and last but by no means least the Ladies' Guild.

He said that it was interesting to note that 45 years "ago there were only two lady members of the Yorkshire Association, now the number of resident lady members had risen to 112 .

NO MORE DUMB TOWERS

Canon Tardrew replied on behalf of the guests in his usual happy style, but on a more serious note said that far too often we heard of empty belfries, empty choir stalls, empty pews and empty pulpits. He suggested the ringers should make a resolution that there should be no more 'dumb' towers. 'If we can make the dumb to speak, we might make the deaf to hear,' he declared.

Mr. Frank Smallwood, replying for the Kindred Societies, said he brought with him from London the fraternal grectings of the Ancient Society of College Youths. Referring to the school of bellringing which the Minster Society had sponsored, he said the solution to silent towers lay in York. At the York Institute of Architectural Study provision was made for the teaching of bellringing. 'There is nothing more useful you can do than to give help and support to this Institute in York for the training of youngsters. I only wish we had a similar Institute in London, where many of the rings of bells, are unsuitable for the teaching of learners.'

Mr. C. McGuiness proposed 'Continued Prosperity of the Yorkshire Association' and said that 'continued, implied present prosperity. The Association had not only produced officers capable of managing its own affairs, but also men who could play their part in national affairs. He thought that the ringing of multi-method peals by a few ringers was not of general benefit to the Exercise but only to the few. But such ringers saw an objective in their ringing and it was important that instructors also had an objective-the prosperity of the Exercise.

The Chairman, was proposed by Mr. V. Bottomley, and in reply Archdeacon Ellison said thanks were due to the local organisers of the function and to the artistes who had enlivened the proceedings with harmony.
The principal toast was followed by a wellstruck course of Grandsire Caters on handbells. Musical items were contributed by Mesdames V. Holland and $E$. Wikinson and Messrs. $F$ Horner and S. H. Stcel. H. W

POPULARITY OF GUILDFORD GUULD DINNER

Service of Ladies to Ringing
THHE Guildford Diocesan Guild dinner on October 20th at the Stoke Hotel, Guildford, fully maintained its popularity-a company of 178 enjoying the excellent arrangements. As a mark of appreciation of his interest in ringing the Rev. F. A. Woodard, Vicar of Horsell, who is retiring from the living at Christmas, was invited to preside. He is a vice-president of the Guild, and the hope was expressed that Mr. Woodard, after his retirement, would still be able to maintain his interest in the Guild.

The toast of 'The Memory of John S. Goldsmith and the Continued Prosperity of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, was proposed by Mr. W. G. Challen, tower master of Chichester Cathedral. 'Jack Goldsmith,' he said, 'had always the voice of encouragement. He understood people; he had the ability of putting some enthusiasm into you that made you get on with the job. He was a man who was always bubbling over with enthusiasm. They had heard many times that he had helped to found their Guild and of the hard work he put into it, and also how he was the proprietor of "The Ringing World ' and made certain that the whole country knew of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. He mixed with the highest but he never disdained to help the lowest.

A 'HAPPY MAN

What always lived in his memory concerning Jack Goldsmith was that he was a happy man -a joyous man. He always enjoyed going to a wedding. Mr, Challen said he remembered eight of them in Jack's car with handbells, following the bridal pair to the station. There was a quotation: 'You cannot pour happiness on others without getting a few drops yourself.' He thought Mr. Goldsmith got a few drons.

He (the speaker) was not a stranger. He went to school in the Guild's area at Aldershot. It was then always encouraging to go out and get higher education at the District meetings. He was then 'whipped very soundly' by his tutors with a loud voice: 'You will never make a ringer if you don't keep those 'ands together.

He thought the Guild was very fortunate in its officers. He noticed that they had a particularly young vice-president. He hoped they would not let him rust. They were always oleased to see visitors from the Guildford Guild-because they were always able to ring what they said, whether it was Stedman or rounds.

He did not want to enter into the controversial side. but he felt there must be closer working between the lay and the clerical. With the falling off of numbers there was a possibility of things taking place-and they heard much about attomation in these days. It could come into a belfry with synthetic bells, and it sounded ridiculous to hear Major coming from a small tower that could only take five bells,

His own Archdeacon had expressed to him the desirability of theological students of Chichester having some knowledge of handling bells. They had done a little in that respect, but he would go further and say that the qualification of anv candidate for Holy Orders should be that he was able to handle a bell. -The strength of any organisation is in the present and future and not in the past. We can draw inspiration from the past and you have a big reputation to live up to. I hope you will continue to make the name of the Guildford Diocesan Guild sound clear and true throughout the land.

RINGING 'CELESTIAL BOB

Miss W. Oliver, assistant hon. secretary, and treasurer of the Guild, replied. She said she had never had the privilege of knowing Mr. Goldsmith, but whatever she had heard of him had a happy tinge. She hoped if Mr. Goldsmith was now with a band of immortals ringing a touch of Celestial Bob their thoughts would reach him and he would smile down on them.

Mr Challen had wished the Guild continued prosperity, continued Miss Oliver. The size of that gathering that evening and the continued infusion of young blood as they had in the last few vears, made her feel that as long as they had the services of such officers as Charlie Denver and George Grover the Guild would never have to put out the notice she had to put on her old Austin, 'Please pass, wearing out.'

Mr. R. Morant proposed the toast of "The Church and the Ringing Exercise.' He regretted that the clergy rarely came into their towers on practice night. There were about 60 towers in the diocese and if they could name half a dozen where they saw the clergy fairly regularly on practice night he would be surprised. He could, however. name one church near that hall where the Rector came up once a fortnight and had a word with the ringers. If they were short he would ring rounds witk them or cover on the tenor.

As to their ringing activities they tended to look on them rather subjectively. If they took their work for the Church as ringers seriously thev should look at other branches of the Church and, if possible, help them.

The Rev. O. R. Acworth, Vicar of Chobham, said the first peal rung in his tower for about 40 years was rung about Christmas time. He did not go up and wish the ringers a happy Christmas-he was too busy laying paving in the aisle. He did not go up to see the ringers on practice nights bccause Monday was his day off and also because one could not get into the belfry because of ringers.

THE CHURCH'S ADVERTISEMENT
Ringing was the Church's method of broadcasting and it was the obvious advertiscment of the Church, but unless it rang eight bells when it was an cight-bell tower there was something wrong with the clergy. There was no difficulty in getting ringers. He had 21 in his tower. It was essential to have discipline in the church and worship, and if the ringers were not regularly in the church they were out of the sower. Bellringing should be a religious act. The advertisement for the church they ultimately made was not in the bells but by their lives. - If your life does ring true and you are really a part of the Church, then the advertiscment you make for the Church is very great indeed,' he concluded.

Mr. Roy Collins, captain of the Chobham band, in proposing the toast of "The Ladies and Visitors,' said they were now rather dependent on lady ringers. He had ten in-his tower and he could only think of one tower in the Chertsey District which had not a lady ringer. He had recently been in the West Country and he felt that of they recruited more ladies in Devon and Cornwall there would be fewer silent towers.

Dr. Isabel C. Mitchell, of Woking, who replied, said she would like to see the good comradeship that existed in the belfries extend not only in England but into international affairs.

The Rev. T. H. Dart, Vicar of Aldershot, also responded, and said he found that his ringers were the best of his parish workers. If ever the grass wanted cutting or a social arranged, the ringers were always to the fore

The hall was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums provided by the Master (Mr. A. Harman), who was thanked by the chairman. Mr. Woodard also gave the company the apologies of the Bishop and Mrs. Watkins. At his suggestion the gathering decided to send a message from the Guild to the Bishop, wishing him every blessing and prosperity in his work for the diocese.

The arrangements for the dinner were made by a committce consisting of Messrs. C. Denyer, W. Viggers and R. H. Mills. As usual, there was an excellent entertainment and the topical verse, a feature always keenly anticipated, by Messrs. J. Bragg, W. Viggers and C. Denyer. There was also handbell ringing by members from Holy Trinity tower.

Apologies for absence were received from Mr. C. J. Beadle, Miss Cass, the Shalford ringers, Mr. and Mrs. Joyce and Mr. W. J. Shepherd.

CRAWFORD CUP CONTEST

Saturday, October 13 th, was a bright and sunny day and ideal for the contest which took place at Rampton, Notts. It was regretted that only three teams entered, these being Warsop, Ordsall and the local band (the first time they had compcted). Owing to a misunderstanding Mr. F. Hooper, of Newark, who was to have judged, did not turn up and substitutes had to be found. However, after 40 minutes' delay a start was made and each team rang their 360 changes.

This being done a move was made to the Roval Oak, where Mrs. D. Beecroft had a very nice tea ready, 40 sitting down. Before the short meeting began, with Mr. H. T. Rooke in the chair, all stood in silence as a mark of respect to the late Mrs. A. Rowsell. of Laneham, an honorary life member. Harworth was selected for the November meeting, and the sum of $£ 12 \mathrm{~s}$. was collected for the Bell Repair Fund.

Ordsall were declared winners with 69 faults, Warsop being close with 72 , and Rampton 153. Mrs. R. V. Larmour presented the cup to Mr. J. Hurst, captain of Ordsall, whose reply was hrief. Mr. D. A. Piercy proposed votes of thanks to the Rev. R. V. Larmour for the use of the bells, Mrs. R. V. Larmour for presenting the cup, and Mrs. D. Beecroft for providing tea. Further ringing again took place until 9 p.m.

THOUGHTS ON 'THE COLLEGE,
Dear Sir,-Mr. Corby's letter about the College of Campanology was both apt and commendable, as it expresses what is felt to a greater or lesser degree by many ringers. The idea of the College must not be rejected out of hand, but it must be treated strictly as an experiment, which may or may not prove beneficial to the Exercise. Personally I think that those who see in a written system the answer to all our troubles are going to be in for a big disappointment.

Mr. York-Bramble, in his abstruse and longwinded letter published in 'The Ringing World ' on October 19 th . seems at great pains to assure us that criticism of the scheme is to be welcomed, inferring that this is all right as long as it doesn't clash with his own ideas.

We must watch the whole experiment carefully. We may in due course find the academic purists clashing with the Central Council on questions affecting ringing and the College may be tempted to think itself the supreme arbiter on what standards are to be accepted. This would prove disastrous, because no Association can flourish if it has two masters.
We must also remember that our art is voluntary. Will prospective ringers be so enthusiastic if they find a College tutor organising lessons by blackboard and easel, of wading through the ponderous theory of the College manual with all the motions of a pocket schoolmaster? This sort of thing is more calculated to drive away than to encourage prospective ringers. Teaching has not hitherto depended on an exhaustive 'system ' as envisaged by the College, and yet we seem to have advanced quite well despite our lack of 'cathedral' schooling. The requirements to produce a good ringer remain the same as ever, namely, a good tower captain, a friendly and helpful band, goodwill and patience. These qualities, coupled with enthusiasm and a natural desire to learn, should do away with the need of a written system of teaching.

I shudder to think of the day when an unsuspecting ringer steps into a strange tower to be greeted with the words : Where is your certificate of competence to ring?' or 'Can I see your IIst of exam successes first. please? ' when he goes to take a rope. This vision may sound a little horrific, but it cannot be entirely overlooked.
Let us be careful not to be carried away by Mr. York-Bramble's brand of eloquence and dersuasiveness. Whilst his picture envisages the College welcoming potential school-master-type ringers with open arms, let us be certain (a) that the arms are never attached to a straitjacket, and (b) that the College does not take a leaf out of the Frankenstein book and become both the master and the monster of the Exercise - Yours faithfully, Backwell, Somerset.

MR. CORBY REPLIES TO MR. YORK-BRAMBLE

Dear Sir,-I would assure Mr. York-Bramble that he has by no means the monopoly of 'allvoluntary' work on behalf of ringing, and that $m y$ nose, albeit a large one, is not the limit of my vision. I would also record that he and those to whom he refers are not alone in their aspirations for the future. I would further. with all due modesty, plead that I have not been entirely unassociated with progress in the art of ringing.

Mr. York-Bramble's project has never, to mv knowledge, been discussed by the Central Council, and this is the cause of the complaint which I expressed in my previous letter with. I hope, greater moderation than Mr. YorkBramble has considered necessary or desirable

Another Spurious Peal

Dear Sir,-With reference to the peal of Grandsire Triples which appeared in the issue of 'The Ringing World,' stated to have been rung at St. Mary-de-Crypt, Gloucester, on August 25th, 1956, I have been informed by the Master of the Crypt tower that no such peal has taken place.
Enquiries show that the persons named are not members of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and the Master and Rector of the Crypt tower have no knowledge of the bells being rung on that date.
It would therefore appear that the Gloucester and Bristol Association is the second victim of a perverted sense of humour. Words could not express what I personally think of such a person.
I would be obliged if you would, through the columns of 'The Ringing World, make it known to the Exercise that this peal is another HOAX, so that those responsible for 'records' can delete same.-Yours, sincerely,

WILLIAM F. SCUDAMORE, Association Secretary, Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association.
in his reply. Further, the project has not been placed before either of the two ringing societies in which I have held office over many years. Since, therefore, the promoters of the project have not sought, as far as I can see, public approval of their activities, I still contend I was not wrong in suggesting that they were engaged upon a private project.

I still regard the Central Council as the proper vehicle for important decisions on ringing matters and I still regard it as discourteous to the Council that this scheme should have been launched before discussion at a Council meeting. If several members of the Council have, in company with Mr. York-Bramble, been considering the launching of such a project for years, it merely means that they have failed to bring this subject before the Council, and their discourtesy is thus the less excusable.

I note that Mr. York-Bramble refers in his letter to 'the content of the first part of the Manual (now being serialised).' He, no doubt, can understand what it all means, but I, with my reactionary outlook, have the feeling that everything he has placed before us so far has already been expressed by Snowdon in 'Ropesight ' with greater clarity, as comprehensively. and, above all, with greater brevity--Yours faithfully,
P. A. CORBY.

A THIRD PEAL FOR ST. PAUL'S, MELBOURNE

Dear Sir.-I wonder whether the peal of Grandsire Caters at Bristol is not the third peal which has been rung by members of the St . Paul's Society, Melbourne, in England.

I have a distinct recollection of the late Mr. J. S. Goldsmith conducting one at Melbourne. Derbyshire, in which all the band had rung a peal or peals in Australia. Seven were the 1934 tourists and the eighth man the Jate W R. Madgwick, who had taken part in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Melbourne. Australia, some years before.-Yours, etc., E. BARNETI

CHANGE RINGING AND THE CHURCH
Dear Sir,-The report in 'The Ringing World' for August 31st of Mr. George Chappell's recent interview with 'The Portsmouth Evening News,' has raised some interesting correspondence on the very vital question of whether or not bell ringing is a dying art.
It seems that there are two quite distinct aspects to this problem. Firstly, the art of change-ringing itself, and secondly, the application of that art to the service of the Church. Confusion may easily arise unless these two aspects are treated separately.
This surely explains why Mr. Sheppard ('R.W.', September 21st) finds it surprising that Mr. Dawson ('R.W.', September 7th) should assert that there is a decline in bell ringing because the belfry and church are regarded as separate places. Mr Sheppard is manifestly referring to the first aspect which undoubtedly first began to flourish mainly on a secular background, as recorded in the history of the College Youths. Mr. Dawson, on the other hand, is manifestly referring to the second aspect mentioned above. Whereas the art of bell ringing itself has reached an advanced state, its application to the purpose for which it has been dedicated has lagged sadly behind, and continues to do so, as Mr. Dawson has observed.
If we can agree that the question of decadence is limited to the second aspect of the problem-the 'raison d'etre' of the art-let us glance briefly at its history in order to see what is really happening. Canons of the English Church from Saxon times right down to the canons of 1603 have laid down certain rules concerning the ringing of bells, but it was not until about 40 years after this date that the first 120 of Bob Doubles was successfully brought round by members of the College Youths. So it would therefore appear that the official requirements of the Church regarding the use of bells were, and presumably still can be, adequately met without recourse to the art of change-ringing at all.

Of the eight churches of England built in the writer's home town since its development from a small village, not one has been equipped with a ring of bells. It is difficult to believe that this could have occurred if the Church officially recognised the necessity of change-ringing as part of its worship.
This strongly suggests that change-ringing in the service of the Church far from being a dying art is as yet one that has never really lived.Yours faithfully.
C. E. VERDON.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, LEICESTER

Dear Sir,-With reference to the University of Southampton Society, just less than a year ago a Society of Change Ringers was formed at the University College of Leicester - the youngest University Sociey?
Through being a small College we have consequently only a small membership. We are, however, lucky in that we are situated in one of the centres of change ringing. As honorary officers we are fortunate in having Ernest Morris (honorary president) and Alan Cattell and John E. Cooke (honorary vice-presidents).
Because of our small numbers we are not able to have practices on our own but join All Saints' ringers (through the kindness of Canon Matthews. the Vicar, and Alan Cattell, the Ringing Master) at their practice. Learners are also catered for on another evening.

So to any sixth-former wondering which University to enter next year, may I suggest they consider this small compact College, which by this time next year will have full University status.-Yours faithfully,

JOHN P. PARTINGTON,
Secretary, Society of Change Ringers.

MANUAL OF RINGING TRAINING OF THE COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY

(Copyright by the Governors)  PART I. - 'CATHEDRAL' SYSTEM (Continued from page 684) SECTION X. (Lesson 8) FIXED-PLACE RINGING (Open)

126. First Open Ringing. - It is now seen that this 'Cathedral' system of elementary ringing training aims at giving the beginner the fullest opportunities of handling a bell with considerable confidence, even in ringing with others, BEFORE he rings OPEN, in concert. The scheme not only demands less interference with the local band's regular practice night (i.e., is workable up to a relatively advanced point before requiring open-bell practice), but it also carries the tuition to a more advanced stage before the learners' efforts are rendered audible, and their ringing is then more pleasant to be heard. If the scheme as set out has been followed so far, and if the reception (of these three concluding sessions arranged to occupy the first part of regular practice occasions) by the more experienced ringers in the tower is sympathetic and encouraging, then there should be no reason why the whole class should not gain their diplomas as Ringer I. Also from now on they should make steady advance in studying Parts II and III of the Manual. Moreover, if the training so far has been carefully checked, the standard of attainment should be such that more than one student at a time can stand in with more experienced ringers, for their first open ringing. The students have now learnt how to control and ring a bell to a beat, and to follow others, so that a start can be made in fixed-place ringing, right away.
( $\mathrm{Q} T$ )
127. Placing the Students at the Ropes.-The recommended procedure is to put experienced ringers on the odd-numbered bells, and 'sandwich 'the students between them on the even-numbered bells, even up to the tenor, providing it is not a very heavy or badly going bell. (The students can have assisted, of course, in the raising of the bells under supervision of the experienced ringers.) The older ringers are then told to keep a steady beat together, allowing for the 'gaps' to accommodate the students. (Q T)
128. Ringing in Rounds. (Ex. 47.) By 'fixed-place , ringing is meant, of course, ringing in rounds and covering; though the latter is not taken in the current session. When bells are all raised and set ready, the tower leader can arrange his ringers to best advantage on the 'odd ' bells, while the Tutor will arrange his students on the 'even' bells. The Tutor will watch his pupils carefully to see that all the training routine is automatically followed by them-Taking Position, Stance, Reach-up, Grips, etc.-and that when the customary cautionary call is given from the treble, all get their bells on to the balance, or, at least, quite ready to be pulled off. As the bells go off into rounds the Tutor will remind them to LISTEN carefully, as well as to look, and that each must check the striking of his own bell. Faults must be watched for, since occasionally the concentration on the listening and the striking may cause omission of some of the points of ringing action that have been taught (e.g., the beat).
(Q)
129. Leading off Last Bell. Down. (Ex, 48.) When all students have practised rounds, each will take a turn on the treble, recalling his practice in Ex. 33 (Article 101). when this was done 'silent.' Emphasis is laid on the need for maintaining the open handstroke leading, and on the regulari. of the beat, so as to aim at precision in the striking.
(Q) (This will be all that there is time for, unless the ringers are prepared to give up more of their practice time, when the excrcises may be repeated. Registration and Closure.)

BRISTOL RINGERS' VISIT TO LOUGHBOROUGH

On October 6th members of the Bristol City and Bristol Rural Branches of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association took part in a coach outing to Loughborough. Each of the two coaches used made a very early start, in order to tour its respective Branch territory and pick up its share of the 79 passengers.

After meeting at Gloucester, both vehicles proceeded to Evesham, where a half-hour halt was called for refreshment. The excellent weather and pleasant scenery made the rest of the journey seem surprisingly short, and Loughborough was reached in ample time for the organised lunch at 12.30 .

As soon as lunch was over, members made their way to the Bell Foundry, where Mr. Paul Taylor was waiting to welcome them and divide them into two groups for a tour of the premises.

The two parties started at opposite ends of the works to avoid congestion, but before they made their way to the ringing chamber, all members had the opportunity of hearing a most detailed and interesting account of the bell founder's art.

The belfry and its approaches were very crowded, but most people present seemed to get at least one ring, and in spite of the difficulties experienced by those ringers who were unused to such light bells, touches of Little Bob Royal, Stedman Caters and Cambridge Minor (on the front six) were brought round.

After bidding a reluctant farewell to the foundry, the party reassembled in the Parish Church. At times, due largely to the preponderance of members from 6-bell towers, the striking here left something to be desired, but before the tower was surrendered to another visiting hand, several successful touches were rung, including Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Dosble Norwich Major.

The return journey after tea was fairly uneventful, except for the inevitable stops for refreshment, the usual rearrangement of the seating accommodation in the rear of the coaches and the wide diversity of taste evidenced in the choice of community songs.
The thanks of all members are due to Mr. W. F. Scudamore, who assisted with the Rural Branch arrangements. Mr. Albert Tyler, the Ringing Master, all those who helped to welcome the party to the foundry and parish church, and to Mr. A. Bennett, the mainstay and leading light in the organisation of this very enjoyable outing.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUHD

South-East Branch

The autumn meeting of the South-East Branch was held on Michaelmas Day at Landulph, when about 50 members attended. The service was conducted by the Rector of Landulph, Canon J. H. Adams, assisted by the Rector of Lezant (the Rev. C. H. York).
Tea followed at the Rectory and then the usual business meeting was held, at which Mr. H. J. Clark, the Assistant Ringing Master of the Guild, was re-elected as Branch secretary. Thanks were expressed to the Rector, and to the ladies for arranging the tea.
Ringing followed at Landulph, Botus Fleming and St. Dominic.

Stratton Branch

The third annual ringing festival of the Stratton Branch took place at St. Marwenne s , Marhamchurch, on October 13th.
About 50 ringers attended from the following towers: Stratton, Poughill, Launcells, Morwenstowe, Week St. Mary, Poundstock, Marhamchurch and Jacobstowe. The Branch service was conducted by the Rev. A. T. M. Jasper (Marhamchurch) and the address was given by the Branch chairman, the Rev. S. W Drewer (Poughill). The collection for Guild funds amounted to $£ 110 \mathrm{~s}$.
A grand tea was served by ringers' wives and friends. The annual meeting followed and the treasurer, Mr. A. Bissatt. reported a credit balance of $£ 513 \mathrm{~s} .4 \mathrm{~d}$. The Rev. W. Brooks (Vicar of Launcelis) was elected chairman for the coming year, and Mr. R. J. Hicks and Mr. A. Bissatt were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.
Next year's ringing festival will be held at Poughill on the last Saturday in October.

Mid-Cornwall Branch

The Mid-Cornwall Branch autumn festival was held at Lanlivery Parish Church on October 13th. About 90 ringers attended, representing St. Stephen, St. Mewan. St. Gorran, St. Ewe, St. Erme, Bodmin and St. Austell. Other ringers came from Kenwyn, Lostwithiel, Lanlivery, Tywardreath and two ringers from Leicester.

The service was conducted by the Rev. T. T. Perry, assisted by Canon R. O. Oatey and the Rev. Mr. Fisher. The sermon was given by Canon F. F. Gilbert. An excellent tea was served by the ladies of Lanlivery.
Twenty-one sets of ringers took part in the test ringing, the judges being Messis. W. H. Southeard. C. E. Lanxon and A. Locke.
The local arrangements were carried out by the Lanlivery ringers and the festival was one of the most successful in recent years. D. B.

AUNT MAUD'S BIRTHDAY

October 14th to 20th was the week in which occurred Mrs. M. Mussett's 80th birthday and the completion of 70 years as a chorister at Bures Church, Suffolk. Her father, Mr. Clarke, was captain of the old call change band, and her late husband was verger up to the time of his death. Early in the week the choir members visited her house and made her a presentation.
On Saturday the ringers took her to relatives at Woodbridge and then went on to the neighbouring village of Ufford, where they rang a good peal of Yorkshire in her honour. On the return iourney she continually remarked about how kind cveryone had been and hoped she could occupy her choir stall for another ten years. She is affectionately known in the village as Auntie Maud.

REDEDICATION BLOXHAM, OXON

The bells of St. Mary's, Bloxham, were rededicated on October 6th by the Bishop of Dorchester (Dr. Kenneth Riches). The Bishop's visit coincided with the harvest thanksgiving, for which the church was profusely decorated with fruits and flowers. In his address the Bishop said that the duty of public, worship and praise was not an 'optional extra' but a vital and integral part of the life of every Christian, and neglect of this imperilled our growth into the whole man. Referring to tbe work in progress and the rehanging of the bells, the Bishop said that the heritage of our wonderful churches involved a great responsibility. He praised the generosity of this generation of churchmen who, throughout the Diocese of Oxford alone, had spent hundreds of thousands of pounds so that these glorious churches might be passed on intact to the next generation.

As part of the dedication service and at the end of the service as the congregation were leaving, the bells were rung in rounds by the Bloxing, the bells were rung in rounds by the Bloxham ringers, and afterwards visitors were privileged to ring.

The bells were rehung in 1903 and a peal of Stedman Triples was rung on them in 1908, but soon afterwards ringing was prohibited by the church architect on account of the oscillation of the famous tower and spire ( 198 ft . high) and danger of the spreading of vertical vibration cracks in the masonry. Before the recent restoration all the bells, except the third and fourth, swung north and south and were roped opposed; the bells were hung on a single set of rolled steel joists which in fact, was a frame without a foundation. Now they have been rehung in a cast-iron composite two-tier frame placed in the former ringing chamber and with the heaviest bells swinging east and west and roped unopposed.

The work has been admirably carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank to the specifications drawn up by Mr. F. Sharpe. The 'go' of the bells leaves nothing to be desired and the oscillation of the tower is now negligible.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION  Joint Meeting at Preston

It has long been felt that with the large area covered by the Lancashire Association, it is difficult for the president and general secretary to attend sufficient Branch meetings to meet as many individual members as they would like.

In an attempt to help in this respect, a joint meeting of the Blackburn, Fylde and Preston Branches was arranged for October 13th at Preston Parish Church. This proved to be a most enjoyable and helpful meeting, with all three branches well represented and with plenty of ringing to suit all tastes.

Included in the company were Mr. Charles Sharples, of Blackpool, with over 60 years' membership, and Mr. Charles Blakey, the genial Blackburn Branch secretary, who has made a good recovery from his recent illness. Unfortunately Mr. E. A Martin, of the Preston tower, and until recently vice-president of the Association. was prevented by illness from attending, but he was visited during the evening by the president and general secretary.

The Preston Parish Church ringers and their ladies kindly entertained all those present to an excellent tea. The president, the Rev. R. D. St. John Smith, and general secretary, Mr. F. Dunkerley, whilst thanking those responsible for the catering and for other arrangements, expressed the hope that so successful had this meeting been other similar ones might be arranged in the near future.

WORCESTERSHIRE & DISTRICTS

Southern Branch at Evesham
Abbot Lichfield's magnificent bell tower at Evesham was the scene of varied activity on the occasion of the Southern Branch quarterly meeting on October 20th. Soon after 3 o'clock the ringing chamber was well filled and, while ringing was in progress, remained so. There was something for everyone-from the learner struggling with rounds to the pundits ringing changes on the 12 . During the afternoon and evening there were touches and plain courses rung on six, eight, ten and twelve bells; naturally, the quality varied, but not the least delight was to hear rounds well struck on the 12 bells by a band which included four youngsters all under 14 years of age.
At $4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. the meeting adjourned to the adjacent Church of All Saints for a service conducted by the Vicar of Evesham (Canon T. Charles-Jones), at which the curate (the Rev. J. M. Ouless) preached on the worthiness of the ringers' vocation. Mr. Ouless gave an account of some of the more curious customs associated with ringing in his home church in the Channel Islands, but could not commend them in this age. The music was arranged by the Parish Church organist, and the lesson was read by one of the ringers.

An excellent meal was arranged by the secretary at a nearby cafe (with the usual efficiency which has come to be expected of Mr. Newman). which was followed by a business meeting presided over by the Vicar. The retiring officers were re-elected, seven new members were elected and the officers were thanked for their services during the preceding year, particularly the secretary. The meeting closed with a comdendious vote of thanks to the Vicar and all who had helped with their services, and a message of goodwill to Mr. Ouless upon his impending departure to Liverpool to take up the living of Halewood (Liverpool Diocese). Arrangements for the quarterly peal were to be made by the bell tower Ringing Master (Mr. G. Hemming).

Ringing was resumed as before and finally the bells were rung down at 8 p.m. During the afternoon opportunity was given for visitors to look down on the bells in action from the staircase in the bell chamber-an impressive if somewhat deafening business. Some 40 members and friends from 13 towers attended. A.W.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Society was held at St. Olave's. Hart Street, E.C, on October 20th. A record number of members were present. and earlier in the afternoon a special band was able to ring at the same church for the wedding of Meriel Hawkesley to Alan Thirst. a member of the Society.
The business meeting was preceded by an address by the Rector, in the course of which he gave a brief history of St. Olave's bells, the oldest ring in the City of London until they were destroved in 1941.
The president of the Society, Dr. D. N. Layton, was in the chair for the business mecting, which was held in the choir vestry, and officers elected for 1956-57 were: President. Dr. D. N. Layton; vice-presidents, Messrs. P. M. J. Gray and G. F. Carter; Master, Mr. J. Armstrong; secretary and treasurer, Mr. D. Priestley; auditor, Mr. P. R. Layton.
Among items discussed were the possibility of a water-borne tour in Norfolk next year, and also the provision of further amenities in the belfry of St. Olive's, the Society's headquarters. The annual dinner for 1957 is to be held on February 23 rd, and a suggestion was put forward that in future the Society should hold more Saturday afternoon meetings.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Canterbury District

The annual meeting of the Canterbury District was held in Canterbury on Saturday, October 13 th. The usual large crowd arrived, all enjoying the very fine afternoon. They numbered 90 and represented 20 towers in the district. Also present were Mr. J. Willis, Mr. B. W. May (general treasurer) and Mr. C. T. Hillis, the new secretary of the Ashford District, who were welcomed by the chairman.
Ringisg took place during the afternoon at St. Dunstan's, and the service followed in this church, being conducted by the Vicar, Rev. A. L. Lawler, who also gave an address. A robed choir was made up from among the ringers, Mr. B. C. Milner being at the organ.

Tea was held in St. Dunstan's Hall. Mr. J. A. Russell took the chair for the ensuing business mecting. The secretary reported that the membership of the district showed a drop on last year, due to removals and non-payment of subscriptions. Meetings, of which six had been held during the year, had been well attended. On nomination, Mr. J. A. Russell was reelected as chairman, Messrs. D. Chatfield and S. Walter were also re-elected as District representatives. Mr. W. S. Palin as Ringing Master, and Mr. B. J. Luck as District secretary.
The latter said that as he would complete 21 years in office next year, he would like the members to appoint a successor at the next annual meeting. One new member was elected, and Faversham voted as the place of the next quarterly meeting.

Thanks were expressed to the various clergy for the use of the bells at St. Dunstan's, St. Stephen's and the Cathedral. Local city ringers' wives and friends had prepared and served the tea, and for the excellent meal they put on they received the thanks of all. Further ringing was held during the evening.

Maidstone District

One attraction of the annual District meeting of the Maidstone District on October 13th was that the bells of St. Michael's were availablethe first time for about 20 years. Prominent in the belfry was a notice by Mr. Town, 'The Ringing World ' representative, inviting members to buy the journal.
The service was held at All Saints', conducted by the Vicar, Canon F. Bennett. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells during the service.

Members of the Maidstone Grammar Schools' Society prepared a served tea in the college room. In the absence of the Vicar, Mr. Macey was elected chairman. In his report the secretary stated that the total membership was 201 adults and 38 juniors. New members this year: 20 adults, 16 juniors.

All the officers were re-elected, as follows: District secretary, Mr. R. L. Sills; District representatives, Mr. W. R. Manser and Mr. A. Waddington; 'The Ringing World' representative, Mr. P. Town.
After some discussion, Sussex was chosen for next year's coach tour.
In order to help with the cost of printing the annual report, the notice of motion from the Canterbury District, asking for a peal fee of 6 d . per ringer, was accepted.
The Vicar was thanked for the use of the bells, and a special vote of thanks given to the Grammar Schools' Society for an excellent tea.
R. L. S.

Swanmore, Hants, bells are being rehung in modern fittings at a cost of $£ 332$ by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. The Vicar (the Rev. A. E. P. McCaig), Swanmore Vicarage, appeals to ringers for donations towards the cost to augment the sum of over $£ 100$ raised by parishioners in the last few months.

MR. J. W. HARTLEY

The death took place on October 17th, in hospital, of Mr. J. W. Hartley, aged 79, who was a member of the Norbury Parish Church bellringers and a life member of the Stockport and Bowdon Branch of the Chester Guild.
He will always be remembered for his devotion and faithful service to Norbury tower. A good and most capable method ringer, his ringing of Norbury tenor was most accomplished. He rang about 70 peals, amongst which was the first 35 -method peal rung at Norbury in 1923. He held the proud record of having struck 12 on the tenor at Norbury Parish Church on New Year's Eve for 50 years.

The funeral service was held in Norbury Parish Church on October 20th, when a number of ringers of the Stockport and Bowdon Branch, including the chairman (Mr. A. J. Brown) and Mr. Tom Wilde, from Hyde, attended. A course of Grandsire was rung over the grave.

MR. F. DAY

A link extending for over 56 years at St. John-the-Baptist Church, Keynsham, Somerset, has been broken by the death of Mr. Fred Day at the age of 85 . Born at Hemmingway, he went to Keynsham at the age of 30 , and for 56 years had been a most faithful member of the tower and for many years its captain.
A most consistent Sunday service ringer, he would not tolerate bad striking, and he did his utmost to instil this into any learner who came under his instruction. He rang about four peals, Muffled ringing took place on the Sunday and Thursday following his death. After a service in the Parish Church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. C. M. Wedgwood, and attended by most of the ringers, cremation took place at Arno's Vale Crematorium. A widower, he leaves two sons and two daughters.

MR. F. W. MUNNINGS

Mr. Frederick William Munnings, of Mendham. Suffolk. who died on October 20th, aged 75, was a keen ringer and was well known in East Anglian ringing circles. He had rung two peals for the Suffolk Guild and others for the Norwich Diocesan Association.

Before his retirement he was a miller at Mendham, and also farmed at Fressingfield. His brother is Sir Alfred Munnings, R.A.

Mr. Munnings has bequeathed his body to the College of Anatomy, London.

SHARDLOW AND DISTRICT RINGERS' OUTING

Ringers of Shardlow, Aston, Lockington, Castle Donington, Chellaston, Breedon and Alvaston, with friends from Derby and Duffield, held their outing on September 8 th.

The Bell Foundry, Loughborough, was the first stop. The party went round the main building first, and then ringers went to the tower whilst the rest visited the foundry. Leaving Loughborough 15 minutes late, ringing at Castle Ashby was short. These bells are a fine-toned, heavy-going five (tenor $19 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.).

At Olney the party were surprised to find a peal in progress, so after a short wait the bus left for Northampton, St. Giles'.

Daventry ( $8,18 \frac{1}{t}$ cwt.), the next ring, caused some amusement because they are hung anticlockwise, being first pulled off 1, 8, 7. They are nevertheless a very good ring.

On the way to Rugby the fan of the engine of the bus snapped, and we arrived at the church ( $8,24 \frac{\mathrm{cwt}}{\mathrm{c} .)}$ ) late. These bells ' go ' remarkably well for their weight and are fine toned. The last stop was Clifton-on-Dunsmore ( $5,91 \mathrm{cwt}$.), which has a pleasant little ring.

Thanks are acconded to all ringers who met the party and had the bells ready, and also to the clergy for allowing us to ring. D. W.

A VISIT TO OLD FRIENDS

IT has been a pleasure and a privilege to pay a visit to two good friends of the Exercise during recent months. Firstly, the-lady whose name has appeared on the back page of 'The Ringing World ' for very many years - Miss Margaret Snowdon, of Cartmel, Lancs. Three of us paid a call on a Saturday morning and were well received and made to feel at home.

Faithfully Miss Snowdon has carried out her father's wish, that the sale and distribution of the Snowdon books should go on. The Central Council has recognised this by making Miss Snowdon an honorary member, but unfortunately she has no practical experience of ringing. At 72 she is very much alive physically and mentally, and takes a keen interest in the affairs of the Exercise. She still talks affectionately of Uncle Jasper and her father, the late William Snowdon. Two other men are also in her mind, viz., Messrs. Wilfrid Wilson and Ernest Turner, of Ealing. She was very concerned at the continued ill-health of Mr. Turner. Regretfully she told us that 'Stedman' was sold out and that she was quite unable to finance the cost of another edition. It is undoubtedly a good book, but the high cost of printing makes it impossible to reproduce it.

We took our leave and continued our journey after enjoying a pull on the six bells of the Priory Church. There is plenty to interest the antiquarian at Cartmel. Miss Snowdon will show you the fine gate house at the end of the street. The square within a square tower of the Priory, architecturally wrong, but it has stood for over 1,000 years. The fine wood carving of the choir stalls and, in fact, there is no lack of visitors during the summer months.

The next visit was to Mr. G. F. Woodhouse, of Sedbergh, 30 miles north-east of Cartmel and just in Yorkshire. This time I was alone and entered G.F.W.'s workshop unnoticed. He was working away turning up some brass-work, and this is where he puts in most of his time. At 82 he is pretty good, but very deaf, so you have some writing down to do. You cannot go in 'the den ' without admiring the skill of the man who has erected everything himself. It is an engineering shop in miniature with every conceivable kind of machine and even a line shaft.

Mr. Woodhouse said that he had finished working on his ringing machine because, he said, 'I have got it to do all I want.' It will ring any method and change from one method to another without stopping. Only three men have produced these machines and they are all different in their construction; each man is a genius in putting them together. In his younger days Mr. Woodhouse was a skilled ringer and conductor on handbells and tower bells. He still rings on Sundays and has a band of learners. After his teaching career at Sedbergh School he chose to stay in the town on his retirement, or we should have seen his name in the peal columns. The late Canon Elsee and Mr. Edwin Lewis were great friends (also in his younger days), but not many of his university chums are left. So this modest man who loves ringing is still keeping the flag flying in Sedbergh and always glad to receive any visitors who may come along.

In conclusion, if you have the leisure and the transport you will enjoy a visit to these good friends. There is now public transport to both places.
R. M.

OUTINGS

WALTHAM ABBEY, ESSEX

On October 13th the Waltham Abbey ringers held their first outing within living memory. Being in the nature of a trial run it was decided to visit towers within a short distance of home.

The company started out at $1.15 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. in three cars, and made for Epping. After a stay of 50 minutes they were quite ready to lower the hardgoing eight. At Fyfield they enjoyed ringing on the easy-going six. Then on to Moreton, Bobbingworth and finally North Weald, where the captain, Mr. H. King, joined in ringing on the very pleasant six. Methods rung during the afternoon were Grandsire, Plain Bob and Stedman.

A late tea was appreciated by all after a very enjoyable afternoon. Grateful thanks are exrended to the incumbents for allowing ringing on their bells. A larger scale outing is to be planned for next year.

BRENCHLEY AND HORSMONDEN

A start was made at $7.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. for the annual outing of Brenchley and Horsmonden ringers and friends on October 13th.

An hour's ringing was enjoyed at both Pulborough and Chichester before lunch at the Gaumont Cinema. Chichester. The afternoon's programme was a visit to the six at Midhurst and to Petworth, where a course of Cambridge Surprise and a touch of Stedman were thought to be the best ringing of the day, and also on the best bells. After a good tea, ringing took place on the eights at Billingshurst and Bolney. To incumbents and local bands the visitors extend their best thanks. The programme of ringing was comprehensive and included Double Norwich, Cambridge Minor and Major, Supcrlative, Yorkshire and Bristol.

THE MAJOR HESSE WEEK-END

On the third Saturday in October the usual gathering was held at Wrington to honour the memory of the late Major John H. B. Hesse, who did so much for Wrington and its bells.

On the Friday evening ringing was enjoyed at Yatton, and on Saturday afternoon the peal attempt at Wrington (Little Bob Royal) was unfortunately unsuccessful after some two hours' ringing.

Mrs. Hesse then entertained the ringers to tea, after which Mr. H. Sanger, of Evercreech, addressed a few words of thanks on behalf of those present to Mrs. Hesse for her hospitality. Mrs. Hesse suitably replied and also said how pleased she was that her grandson had now taken up ringing. After tea the handbells were rung.

Those present were the Rev. B. Lee (Rector of Wrington), Mr. and Mrs. W. Kingcott, Mr. and Mrs. H. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas and Messrs. L. Derick, J. Dyke, R. Fry, W. Gigg, M. Horseman, A. Reed and H. Sanger.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

A record attendance of 46 sat down to tea at the Guildford District meeting at Shere on October 13th, which followed the service in the ancient parish church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. R. Hougham), who gave an excellent address.

Ringing ranged from Rounds to Bristol Surprise Major and was supervised by the District Ringing Master (Mr. F. A. Munday). Later the full-toned bells of Albury were rung, and the mellowness of the bells was heard when rung to a touch of London Surprise Minor. The District's next meeting (for nominations) will be held on November 26th.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE  Southern District

The lively eight of St. John's, Darlington, attracted ringers from a wide area, and included a strong contingent from the Eastern District, when the Southern District met on Oct. 27th. In the absence of the Vicar, the service was conducted by the Rural Dean, Rev. Peter Wansey.

Over 40 members and friends sat down to an excellent tea, provided by the ladies. A combined vote of thanks to the Vicar, wardens, etc., was proposed by Mr. R. Park, and thanks to the ladies were expressed by Mrs. Sharp.

The postponed A.G.M. was held after tea, when the following officers were re-elected : Mr. T. Cooke, vice-chairman ; Mr. P. Rock, hon. secretary, and Mr. F. W. Cooke the 'R.W.' representative. It was decided at future meetings a collection would be made in support of "The Ringing World.' Mr. F. Hodgson, of Liversedge, was elected a life member.
The next meeting was fixed for November 24th and is to be held at Heighington, where the bells have recently been repaired.

The ringing was of high standard, and in the following methods: Yorkshire and Cambridge Surprise, Bob Major, Kent T.B., Double Norwich, Grandsire and Stedman Triples.
' WE DID OUR BEST'
Dear Sir, - It was charitable of your correspondent to describe the handbell ringing we broadcast on Radio Eireann as 'perfect,' but I fear this is an overstatement. We did our best, but perfection is a long way off yet. Yours sincerely, DESMOND PAINTER, Master, Cambridge University Guild of Change Ringers.

The many friends of Mr. Richard Rainford, head ringer at St. Peter's R.C. Cathedral, Lancaster, will be pleased to hear that he has been the recipient of the medal 'Benemerenti ' in recognition of 50 years' service as bellringer at the Cathedral. His fellow ringers in the district hope to attempt a peal in the near future to celebrate the occasion.
Captain of the North Mymms band for several years, before the ban, Mr. Charles Nash died on October 29th, aged 77.
The handbell peal rung at Radley, on October 14th, was of Plain Bob Major, and not of Plain Bob Royal as printed in 'The Ringing World ' (page 693).
Eleven-years-old Gillian Schofield rang the treble of Bradford Cathedral to her first quarter on October 28th. She is the youngest person to ring a quarter peal in this tower.
Bells will be heard before the evening service for Remembrance Day, to be broadcast from St. Georse's Church, Greenock, in the Scottish Home Service only, on Sunday, November 11 th, at 7.45 p.m.
Mr. Donald G. Clift has been in Hungary during the fighting. Sending an apology for his absence to the College Youths' dinner, he wrote: 'The carnage I have seen in the last 24 hours, to say the least of it, is horrible.
There was a very large gathering of ringers at Buckfast Abbey meeting on Saturday week. The visitors were welcomed by the Rev. Father Oswald Mowan, O.S.B., the captain of the Abbey ringers; and not only did he remain in the belfry throughout the afternoon, but he also joined the visitors at tea and remained until the conclusion of the proceedings. not forgetting to take part in the discussion at the end of the meeting.

During the proceedings at the 319th anniversary dinner of the Ancient Society of Col-
GOSSIP lege Youths on Saturday, a cheque was handed to the Rev. H. Evan Hopkins, Rector of Bow, for $£ 50$ towards the Bow Bells Appeal. In making the presentation, the Master (Mr. J. S. Mason) said it was the first instalment from the Society. The fund was still open.

The peal of Stedman at Crosthwaite, Keswick, was accomplished at the seventh attempt.

Mr. Arthur Charles Philpott, of Canterbury, who died on October 29th, aged 62, had a long association with St. Dunstan's Church.
Mr. Kenneth Arthur has been elected the new president of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Guild in succession to Mr. R. A. Gofton, A report of the Guild 'annual' will appear next week.
Mr. $S^{\text {. }}$ Prestidge is in the Royal Hospital, Wolverhampton, with appendicitis. He deputised as conductor in a peal at Netherton for Mr. W Davies, who was suffering from torn shoulder muscles.
Five members from the Harwell, Berks, tower and one from the adjoining tower of Chilton have married in the past month. The rejoicings of the local ringers are expressed in quarter peals that appear in this issue. One of the brides was Miss Corderoy, daughter of Mr. W. Corderoy, foreman of Harwell, and one of the bridegrooms Mr. P. Davies, conductor of the Chilton band.
The Bures company and Mr. H. J. Millatt would like to express their thanks to Mr. Chas. E. Fisher for inviting them to Ufford and declining two offers of outings so that he could welcome them and listen to their peal of Yorkshire Surprise. His conglatulations afterwards were much appreciated.

Coventry Guild's Presentation to Mrs. D. E. Beamish

Two Peals of London Recalled

$\mathrm{O}^{\mathrm{N}}$
N October 20th the Coventry Diocesan Guild held their third annual dinner at the Wine Lodge in Coventry. During the evening a presentation was made to the retiring secretary, Mrs. D. E. Beamish, who retired in April after 24 years in office. Some 125 ringers and their wives attended.
The president. Mr. F. W. Perrens, in inviting the guest of honour, the Assistant Bishop of Coventry (the Rt. Rev. N. W. Newnham Davis), to make the presentation, spoke of the Guild's indebtedness to the person who had so successfully piloted the Guild through many years. He recalled his long association with Mrs. Beamish, including their many peals together. In particular, he recalled a peal in 1928 which had been Mrs. Beamish's first peal of London Surprise Major. Also standing in that peal was her future husband, and it was also his first peal of London.

He then recalled another peal of London some 19 or so years later which contained three Beamish's. Mr. and Mrs. Beamish's daughter Margaret was in this one while still under 12 years of age. Altogether a remarkable achievement! He was very proud to ask the guest of honour to make the presentation to Mrs. Beamish of a portable typewriter on behalf of the Guild.

WORN OUT ON RINGING BUSINESS

Thanking Mr. Newnham Davis and the Guild for the present, Mrs. Beamish wondered how it had all been kept so quiet. She said that the present was well chosen and would replace her old one, worn out on years of ringing business -the present secretary had better methods of getting his typing done! She protested that Mr. Perrens was in error in saying that she had done 25 years in office. The total time had covered over 25 years but there was a break of a year or two in the early thirties, and she had only done 24 years. Ladies were sensitive in these matters.

She had always been well supported by the other officers of the Guild-particularly Mr. Perrens-and she believed that the Guild was now well officered. During her term of office she had seen the name of the Guild changed from * The Warwickshire Guild 'to 'The Coventry Diocesan Guild.' She started her term of office in 1929 and. on calling upon all those present who had been members of the Guild at that time, 15 responded.

BISHOP'S RINGING MEMORIES

Before the presentation the Bishop proposed the toast to "The Church.' He said that he felt he should be standing in a white sheet. Firstly, because even though he had been a vice-president of the Guild for several years he had never previously attended a dinner. Secondly, because though, as an Oxford undergraduate, he had learned to ring and had even managed to struggle through Grandsire and Stedman, he had then been overseas for 20 or so years and now he could only ring rounds and cover. He might be tempted to try again but he found he was unable to get from ringing chamber to vestry in time. Nowadays he listened avidly for the bells of Ladbroke and wished he could always hear them rung.

He reassured the ringers of the value of their work in giving a service to the Church and spreading the invitation. He wished to thank all ringers on behalf of the Church. Bishop Newnham Davis said that during the evening he had been examining the Guild peal book and had found it a wonderful record of achievement. There was one thing, however, which he had failed to find in that book. St. Andrew's. Rugby, he noted, now had two ringable rings-a five hear all 13 rung simultaneously to Maximus with the tenor behind!

The Master, Mr. R. J. Edden, proposed the toast to the Guild. He welcomed all to the dinner, especially the old ones, including particularly Messrs. W. Collet and A. Roberts. He also thanked Mrs. Beamish for her kind words about the present officers. History had been made the previous weekend by an officers' peal at St. Mary's, Warwick. He would have been pleased to have seen some of the older ones in that peal but in many cases that was obviously not practicable. He would particularly like to mention Messrs. W. Collet, E. Adams, A. Roberts. A. Hinds, F. E. Pervin, T. Sheppard and W. A. Stote amongst those standing out.

Mr. A. H. Beamish proposed an omnibus voze of thanks to the chairman, Mr. W. Osborne, the guest of honour, the artistes and the secretary for organising the dinner and a most pleasant evening's entertainment.

Songs were provided by Miss Kathleen Fairbairn and Mr. Peter MacAdam, and tunes and change-ringing on handbells were provided by Mr. and Mrs. Beamish and Messrs. F. W. Perrens, J. W. T. Taylor G. Gardner, P. Stone, P. K. Williamson and H. E. Ashley. D. A. C.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Rochester District

Approximately 55 members attended the annual District meeting held on October 20th at Sittingbourne. Ringing commenced at 3.30 p.m. and was under the guidance of Mr . G . Naylor, in the absence, through illness, of the District Ringing Master, Mr. W. A. J. Knight. The service at $4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. was conducted by the Vicar of Sittingbourne, who gave a very good address on Bells.
The Vicar presided at the business meeting, when the report of the secretary was adopted and two new members elected.
Mr. C. S. Jarrett was re-elected secretary, and as representatives Mr. G. Kenward again accepted office and Mr. E. C. Barton has taken over from Mr. G. Naylor. The new Ringing Master is Mr. Terence Barton. of Tunstall.
After general discussion on two notices of motion, the District secretary thanked the Vicar, organist and all persons connected with the day's arrangements, to which the Vicar briefly responded.

Among the visitors was Mr. T. E. Sone, and with his help a course of Grandsire Caters 'in hand 'was rung before returning to the tower.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Although getting off to rather a slow start, the monthly meeting of the Society, held at Liversedge on October 27 th, was none the less enjoyed by those present. The local company had gone out of their way to make the Society welcome, and as was evident at tea time, had been more than generous in their hospitality.

In proposing the vote of thanks at the business meeting afterwards, Mr. J. Gibson spoke warmly of the arrangements that had been made for this meeting and of his constant delight in ringing on these belis. Replying, Mr. F. Hodgson spoke of himself as more of a visitor than a 'local,' and noted with pleasure the faces of many old friends as well as many new ones.

From this meeting it was agreed to send a letter conveying the good wishes of the Society for a complete and speedy recovery, to Mr. H. Lofthouse, the president, who some weeks earlier had had a heart attack.

Returning to the tower, ringing continued in a variety of methods until about 8.15 p.m.

The next meeting will be held at St. Chad's, Far Headingley, on November 24th.

A Memorable Australian Peal

Among the conspicuous peals of 1956 will be a peal of Doubles in three methods Norfolk, Plain Bob and Oldrung at St. Paul's, Martland. New South Wales, during the weekend of September 23 rd , to mark the centenary of the laying of the foundation stone of this church.

This was the first peal on these bells, which are of cast steel. Hitherto, they have been so hard going that it was an extreme physical effort to ring a quarter peal. Five of the ringers were local and were ringing their first peal, and it was necessary to have two men on the 14 cwt. tenor.

The captain of the tower, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Lipscomb, writes: ' Our church was badly flooded and was almost closed down after the 1955 flood. Our centenary celebrations have been very joyful and thankful that the parish is on its way to independence again. Our tower, which is separate from the church. was lit with coloured lights at night during the weekend, and when we rang we knew that the people of Martland could both see and hear our joy.'
Three Sydney ringers were in the peal. 'It was a great joy to me, a very junior conductor, to have three of my pupils on still tough bells, ring a peal with congratulations from the conductor, Mr.W. M. Rowe,' concludes Mrs. Lipscomb.

BICENTENARY OF

WOTTON-UNDER-EDGE BELLS

A special meeting of the Wotton-under-Edge Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association was held at Wotton-under-Edge on October 20th, to commemorate the bicentenary of the Wotton bells, which had been cast by Rudhall, of Gloucester, in 1756.

Approximately 90 ringers and friends from a wide area attended and were joined by many parishioners for the service. This was conducted by the Rev. K. G. Grant (Curate). The Rev. W. A. Pcel, Rector of Tortworth and chairman of the Wotton Branch, read the lesson, and the address was given by Canon J. D. Buckley, Vicar of Wotton. During the service a collection was taken for the Belfry Repair Fund.
After the service ringers and friends adjourned to the Parish Room, where an excellent tea had been prepared by the local ladies. Adorning the top table was a magnificent cake in the shape of a bell, suitably inscribed, which was greatly admired.

The Master of the Association, Mr. C. R. Harding, was in the chair for the business meeting. Spcaking about the bicentenary commemoration, he paid high tribute to the long services of Mr. F. Oakill, of Wotton, and Mr. H. V. Robinson, of Wickwar, and thanked them for all they had done for the art of bellringing.

The thanks of all who attended this meeting were accorded to Mr. O. Mills, the captain of Wotton tower, for the arrangements he had made to make this meeting so memorable.
Afterwards the ringers returned to the floodlit tower, which had been so illuminated for ten evenings

DEVON GUILD DISCUSS THE MANUAL

Large Gathering at Buckfast Abbey UNDER ideal weather conditions, Buckfast Abbey again proved a very popular venue for ringers on October 27th, the occasion being the quarterly meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch when, in addition to members coming from all parts of the county, there were also visitors from as far afield as Launceston, Bridgwater and Langport, in Somerset, and Croydon, Surrey. There was, however, a feeling of sadness among the gathering as it was learnt a day or so earlier that the general secretary, Mr: E. J. Taylor, of Tiverton, had passed away, and the evening ringing was consequently cancelled.

The spacious Abbey belfry was crammed with visitors throughout the afternoon, the bells being kept going to Grandsire Triples, Caters and Cinques, and Kent Treble Bob Major, as well as rounds on the 12 for the less experienced ringers.

A short service was later held at the Violet Evelyn Institute, conducted by the Rev. J. W. Timms, Vicar of Buckfastleigh, who gave an admirable address. The Rev. N. F. D. Coleridge, of Dartmouth, was the organist.

After tea in the St. Mary's Parish Hall, at which 72 attended, the business meeting followed, with Mr. J. E. Lilley in the chair. At the commencement the chairman referred to the great loss the Guild had sustained by the death of the general secretary. It was pointed out that he was formerly a member of the MidDevon Branch, and he had taken part in the first resident peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major which was rung at Buckfastleigh, as well as the first resident peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major, which was rung at Highweek. The meeting stood in silence as a token of respect.

Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Abbey authorities for the use of the bells, to the Vicar of Buckfastlejgh and to the Rev. N. F. D. Coleridge. Apologies for absence were received from Rev. Preb. E. V. Cox (president), Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harvey, and Mr. B. E. Bartlett, of Torquay.

Six new members from Coffinswell and one from Townstal. Dartmouth, were unanimously elected.

It was resolved to hold another meeting at Wolborough, Newton Abbot, on November 24th, and the following programme for 1957 was ado.pted: January 19th, annual meeting at Babbacombe; April 27 th, quarterly meeting at Moretorthampstead; May 18th, by meeting at Townstal: June 22nd, joint meeting with the South-West Branch at Upton, Torquay ; July 20th, quarterly meeting at Brixham: October 12th, quarterly meeting provisionally at Buckfast Abbey: November 16th, by-mecting at Coffinswell with Kingskerswell-all subject to the necessary permission.

TRAINING AND INSTRUCTORS

A keen discussion took place on coaching, and emphasis was laid on the instructor being above average, as a bad instructor passed all his mistakes on to his pupils.

An article in "The Ringing World ' was discussed in which it was stated that before anyone tried to ring changes they must have learned to ring Rounds.

Mr. A. S. Watt (Dartmouth) said that if a band was going to ring well they must have a thorough grounding in the art of ringing, and they would get this from reading the Manual, but the standard of the band depended entirely on the instructor. He also said that he had been to Portsmouth, and in that band three instructors gave thrce evenings a weck to teaching. He said that unless an instructor was willing to give up a number of evenings to help on his, or her, band, they should not become instructors.
The chairman asked if many members read 'The Ringing World.' He suggested that everyone should try to read the articles as they were very helpful. He spoke of the Central Council and said this was a good thing, but if bands were to progress they must have local councils with good instructors so that young people would get interested in ringing, in order that bands could build themselves up.

Miss B. M. Boyle (Ilfracombe) said that the Manual was very good but too advanced for pupils, and suggested that there should be a simplified edition. She thought a simplified edition would also help instructors as it would give them a better idea of how to help pupils.

The chairman said ho had heard many bands ring very well, but he was of the opinion that if new members joined a band they should be asked to ring. He said that everyone has to learn, and it was very discouraging when learning not to be asked. He also pointed out that at Branch meetings it was the duty of the Ringing Master to see that everyone should have a chance to ring.

Miss Boyle suggested that there should be a weckend school for instructors.

Mr. Watt said he agreed with all that had been said, but thought that even if a simplified Manual was introduced the instructors would still use their own way of teaching. He further said that at a ringing meeting people rarely said anything about striking. Meetings were held to encourage young people, and also to help them improve their own standard.

Mr. T. G. Myers (Plymouth) said that when visitors came to his tower he always asked them if they could ring. He went on to say that the Guild was formed to advance 'the Art and Science of Bellringing,' and Branch meetings were held to encourage those of a progressive mind and to provide opportunities to ring something they might not be able to ring with their local band of ringers. This was a point that must not be lost sight of. The individual who was prepared to advance should always be encouraged to attend Branch meetings.

Miss Boyle pointed out that the chairman had said a lot about giving young people a chance to ring with a band. It was the practice of her band to have a band of good ringers at the beginning and end of a meeting and a practice in the middle.

The Rev. Father Oswald Mowan, of Buckfast. Abbey, said that after visiting ringers came to the Abbey he was asked by people living in the district what they were ringing, and saying that the changes that were rung by the Abbey ringers sounded much better than scientific ringing. He thought that the reason for this was that visiting bands generally bit off a little more than they could chew. He suggested that when pupils were ringing it would be better to let them ring chnnges of 6 or 8 rather than 12 .

The chairman agreed with this but again emphasised that everyone must learn, also pointing out that if the Guild was to flourish the young people must be encouraged to join.

This concluded the business. and a very memorable meeting ended with handbell ringing.

CHESTER GUILD TOWER CAPTAINS MARRY

St. Hilary's Church, Wallasey, was beautifully decorated on October 20th for the marriage of Miss Joan Mary Webster, St. Hilary's tower captain, to Mr. Charles Bancroft Pemberton. Bidston tower captain and Branch assistant Ringing Master.

The ceremony was choral and was conducted by Eanon J. R. Spencer, Rector of St. Hilary's, assisted by Rev. E. O. A. Thomas, Vicar of Bidston.

The bride, who was given away by her father, Mr. E. A. Webster, wore a gown of white satin brocade. She was attended by her sister, Miss Marjorie E. Webster, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Ethel M. Pemberton, both of whom wore turquoise moire silk full-length dresses. Mr. James M. Pemberton was the best man.

As the bridegroom's mother is a florist, needless to say the bride's handspray and the bridesmaids' bouquets were exquisite.

The bells were rung before and after the service and later a quarter peal was successfully brought round.

The reception was at the Coach and Horses Inn, Moreton, and later the happy couple left by cart to spend their honeymoon touring Scotland.

The festivities continued till late in the evening as Mr. and Mrs. Webster kindly invited the company back home to view the wedding presents.

A peal arranged at Bidston on the following Tuesday was suocessfully brought round.

It was a very pleasant surprise at the Branch mecting the following Saturday at Wallasey St. Nicholas' to find the tea table graced by the top tier of a wedding cake, with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Pemberton's compliments, and accompanied by a joint apology for unavoidable absence as the honeymoon had not expired. The chairman conveyed members' thanks to Miss M. E. Webster to pass on to Mr. and Mrs. Pemberton for this delightful gesture.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IN DEFENCE OF THE COLLEGE
Dear Sir,-Seeing that the 'Irish Bell News' and I have been brought into the controversy over the 'College of Campanology,' I am compelled to enter into the fray on the defensive side.

First of all, I am sorry that my friend, Mr. Corby, is so strongly opposed to a venture Which can do nothing but good for the Exercise in general, in helping the 'back-of-beyond' ringers as well as those 'in the light.' Mr. Bailey 'hits the nail on the head 'in the second paragraph of his letter, that the main object is to produce good instructors.
As one who has travelled much in Ireland, and in England too, I could not help feeling that there is a desperate need for proper instructors. In both the north and south of Ireland there is this need. We find towers with one or two very keen ringers who are doing their best to build up teams and hold them together, in order to keep their church bells ringing. The striking leaves much to be desired and the way the bells are handled is often terrible, not due to any fault on the part of these keen ringers, but due to their lack of knowledge. If the College can get at such ringers and help them to improve their knowledge and methods. then the effort will be worth while.
The 'Irish Bell News' has been mentioned on two occasions - once in Belfry Gossip and secondly by Mr. Dunwoody. There are a few ringers in Ireland who fancy themselves as experts and cannot see their own faults, just as there are throughout the Exercise. (I am only too conscious of my own faults.) These ringers would do well to humble themselves and study the 'literature' of the College. Ringers have to use their eyes, ears and physical effort when ringing bells. Those ringers to whom I refer mostly use physical effort, sometimes their eyes and seldom their ears. The physical effort varies in intensity from plodding through a peal on a bell and expecting the other ringers to ring around them, to trying to get out of a trip with a lot of shouting and clashing.
The Central Council lays down certain standards and it is hoping to produce a new publication on 'Instructions to Beginners.' I have too often come across ringers and instructors who could not make head or tail of the present publication, 'Hints to Beginners.' There is a need for an improved book, and I do not envy Miss M. Cross and her committee in their efforts. Nothing in between the 'Hints, etc..' and 'Peals, ctc..' for experts is published by the Central Council.

The Ringing World ' latterly has been trying to fill the gap. It was this lack of general information for the 'humble ' ringers that caused the 'Irish Bell News' to appear. It caters for beginners. call-change ringers and method ringers. and tries to cater for the 'back-ofbeyond ' ringers as well as the more experienced ringers, and judging by its circulation the effort appears to be appreciated and of benefit. Something further was considered necessary in order to give instructors a standing in the Exercise, so the article, after years of thought, which Mr. Dunwoody refers to as being 'intended as a lark,' appeared in the spring issue. (I may say that all editorial articles are of a serious or helpful nature, as all editorials should be. I; personally, have not the time to waste on 'larks' or 'nonsense.')
I do not claim any part in the formation of the College, but I am proud to be associated with it. It is said 'Great minds think alike.' and it is a coincidence that although the "Irish Bell News ' suggested a College or Institution on the lines of the professional institutions, one was being thought of on university lines. Not claiming to be great. I was very pleased to see that one much greater in stature has brought the College into being. Mr. Dunwoody's remarks are an attack on the editorial committee of the ' Irish Bell News,' just as Mr. Corby's are an attack in the editorial committee of 'The Ringing World.'

The 'Irish Bell News' ' article gives credit to the Central Council for all it does for the Exercise, and it does not in any way suggest that the Council should become subordinate to the College or be extinct. To quote from the final paragraph of the article :-

How is such a college or institution to begin? It would probably have to start as a result of a body of ringers getting together or it might be fostered by the Central Council as the obvious authority, or it might have to devolve on a Nation or Association. If the general opinion is in favour, a start could be made with a resolution to the Central Council.'
The relationship between the Council and the College would probably be the same as that between the Ministry of Education and the various educational institutions. The Central Council could be the supreme authority which would authorise the constitution of the College and let it do the work of research and tutoring, to help the Council in its work.

There is a great deal to be gained with this effort and I, personally, hope that it will thrive and survive.-Yours sincerely.

RECENT PEALS

Dear Sir,-In the article by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead (October 26th) Newton Abbot was mentioned as having had a recent peal.
This peal should have been credited to St. Mary's, Wolborough, Newton Abbot, and not at St. Leonard's tower, Newton Abbot. I make the number of peals at Wolborough about 20 and Newton Abbot three, the last in 1909. From a visit this year I understand that the octave at St. Leonard's tower is now unringable.
As regards the article on 'Recent Peals,' I thought it very interesting and I hope to see more in the future.-Yours sincerely,

MELBOURNE SOCIETY REUNION

Dear Sir,-The ringer of the fifth in the peal at St. Stephen's, Bristol, by the Melbourne Cathedral Society on October 13th was just plain James and not as published.

I must say that after the peal the whole band was most hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Gray at their home, Orana. Half the company had to leave early to catch trains to London and elsewhere, but three of us were much more fortunate and stayed until a late hour, during which time we certainly did 'swap yarns ' (page 683). Also it was very interesting to listen to a recording on Mr. Gray's radiogram of ringing carried out at Melbourne Cathedral last January, in which it was my great pleasure to be allowed to take part, the names of the ringers being given at the end of the record.
The peal at St. Stephen's was of additional interest to myself, as in a way it replaced one of Stedman Caters rung there (in which I took part) on April 18th, 1929, and 21 years later was found to be false. (See 'R.W.', July 14th, 1950.)

I feel sure all the band must be very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Gray in every way. To arrange and collect a band for a peal of this nature is certainly no small task. I. for one, shall always remember this peal with great pleasure.-Yours truly.

RAILWAYMEN'S GUILD

Dear Sir,-Quite a number of people have recently asked what has become of the Railwaymen's Guild. Has it got lost in transit, or has it run off the rails? Neither. Forming any Guild or Association these days is a colossal job; Rome was not built in a day, or burned in a night. The Guild embraces five of the six Regions, all except the Scottish, and we hope soon to embrace them. The drafting of the constitution and rules, to suit and please every-one-officials, honorary and ringing-is a big job, and we also hope to come within the ambit of the Railway Staff Association, who cater for almost every social, educational and sporting activity of railwaymen.
A meeting of the provisional sub-committee is to be held this month, probably in London, to iron out the creases and to make plans and arrangements for commissioning the Guild next year, probably on June 15 th or 22 nd.

W. FRANK STENSON.

NEW LIFE FOR OLD BELLS

Dear Sir,-In these miserable days it is a pleasant change to find pessimistic predictions occasionally not borne out by events. This is the case with St. Benedict's, Norwich. bells.
The church was destroyed by a bomb in 1942, and little but the tower was left standing-one of the East Anglian round towers, delightfully called 'Saxo-Norman' because their precise date seems a mystery. Such towers seem likely to have sometimes been built as protection against the Danes, and the Normans may well have carried the simple style on, hence mixture of Saxon and Norman work in them.
'Church Bells and Ringers of Norwich ' (A. G. G. Thurlow, 2nd edn., no increase in price) sadly states: 'St. Benedict's is to be used no longer, and the bells bid fair to be forgotten altogether.' The author had unsuccessfully, pleaded in 1942 that when the war damage was being done the bells might be removed at the same time, at no cost to the church, and stored.
At last the bells are remembered. The treble, inscribed IOHN BREND MADE ME 1636, is to go to the new church of St. Francis of Assisi, now being built on the Heartsease Estate in Norwich. The second, inscribed elias brend made me 1659 E.T. E.S., is going to the recent (but not new) church of St. Cuthbert, Sprowston, Norwich. A new church is being built at Gunton, Norfolk ; to this the tenor (and oldest) is to go. It is inscribed filif dei vivi miserere nobis anno domini 1573, and is by John Brend, sen. This church is being called, presumably in honour of the bell. St. Benedict's.

In these days of shifting populations, when ancient churches tend to become redundant and their retention causes a headache, and their demolition or removal causes an explosion, it is exceedingly comforting to see how easily ancient bells can be dealt with, so that both their life and useful work continue, and they are able to give a sense of ancient tradition to a modern church.-Yours, etc.

MANUAL OF RINGING TRAINING OF THE COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY (Copyright by the Governors)

COVERING: PLACE-MAKING: DODGING
130. Covering. (Ex. 49.) For this session, if the bells be a iightish eight, the exercises can be taken in two 4 -bell groups, simultaneously. Otherwise only four bells are required at a time, and the descriptions given will so apply. For this exercise the student will take the 4th bell and three experienced ringers on 1,2 and 3 , wilt ring the singles plain-set of six changes. (If eight bells are used the second student will be on the tenor and 5, 6 and 7 will ring the singles, keeping behind the 4 th all the time.) Students will recall their silent practice for this in Ex. 33a (Article 101a) and will proceed similarly; except that full attention must now be given to listening, for good striking.
(Q)
131. Place-making. (Ex. 50.) For this, practice is taken as in Ex. 36 (Article 103), which was similar, though silent. The student is on the 4 th, and rounds are rung until the order comes: ' With dodging in 1-2, Place-making in 3-4, Go!', when the student makes thirds and fourths alternately, with the 3rd making fourths and thirds alternately to accommodate. The student must be reminded that here he is ringing at all three of the beat rates-normal, quick and slow, although only one-blow variation may be made.
132. Dodging. (Ex. 51.) Again procecd as in Ex. 34 and 35 (Article 102), the student being on the 4th bell and dodging with the 3rd: while the bells in 1-2 make places in 2 nds (and 1sts) alternately, to give a different bell to dodge over. (Ex. 52.) After the dodging down into 3 rds on the handstroke and up into 4ths again on the backstroke, the exercise is repeated reversely, i.e., at the start, striking again in 4ths at hand. then cutting down into 3 rds at back.
(Q)
133. Places of the exercises are only exemplary. (S) This is a suitable juncture to explain that places may be made and the consequential dodging occasioned in positions other than those of the exercises ; and to give a couple of examples of methods with varying places and dodgings. For instance, in the method of Plain Bob: where seconds place is made as the treble leads, occasioning dodging in odd-even ( $3 / 4,5 / 6$, etc.) positions above. Or again, Stedman, where places are made continuously in 3rds, occasioning dodging in even-odd positions above. ( $4 / 5,6 / 7$, etc.) (Use blackboard to illustrate.)

THE WORCESTERS IN BOURNEMOUTH

On Friday evening, October 19th, Worcester ringers left for their annual visit to that excellent place of hospitality in Hampshire - Bourncmouth.

We had not been going very long when either the weight of the Ringing Master of a wellknown Birmingham Guild or the hilarity caused by the wisecracks of the Black Country comics caused all the air to leave one of the back tyres of the borrowed car. They were discovered by the more luxurious half of the party some time later, trying to find the required tools in a boot which contained nothing more than two starting handles! However, difficulties are made to be overcome, and eventually we arrived at the home-from-home in Fishermans Avenue.
Next morning a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung at Wimborne St. Giles', which was listened to outside by the two Masters, who voted it an excellent effort.
In the afternoon an attempt for Stedman Triples went astray after three-quarters-of-anhour's perfect ringing. The two " listeners,' who were aslecp in the car outside, came up into the tower and had no difficulty in stating the cause of the stoppage, viz.: the time-honoured cause of who ran away from the slow!

Sunday was spent with ringing at St. Peter's and St. John's and a call at St. Michael's, Melksham, on the way home.

As usual, a very pleasant weekend was spent. due chiefly to the cfforts of Arthur Davis in making the arrangements, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Price for acting as 'mine hosts,' to whom we say 'Thank you,' not forgetting the local band at Melksham.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

The Salisbury Branch held their quarterly meeting at Amesbury on October 20th. The newly-instituted Vicar, the Rev. E. G. Hazelton, made the visitors very welcome, and conducted the Guild service, giving an address.

At the business meeting after tea, the company kept silence in remembrance of Sidney Macey, an honorary life member, for many years a highly-valued member first of St. Martin's then of St. Paul's, Salisbury, who died on September 15th.

A greetings telegram had been sent to two members of the band at Martin-Mr. E. Elliott and Miss Heather Mundy, who were married that afternoon. The chairman also congratulated the band at Enford who had scored their first peal recently. Owing to the encouragement of their new Vicar, the Rev. H. T. Tovey, the band at Woodford rejoined the Guild, seven members being elected : Messrs. M. Hazzard, R. Edwards, R. Kyte. M. Phillips, R. Portnall, F. Scarrott and Miss F. Portnall.
There was ringing at Amesbury before the service and afterwards until 7 p.m., up to Double Norwich. In the evening Woodford was visited, where some of the local ringers joined in until 9 o'clock, when the proceedings came to a sudden end by the parting of the second rope! Twenty-five signed the attendance book at tea, but another 15 or so from Swindon, Melksham, Steeple Ashton and elsewhere looked in for a ring either afternoon or evening.

The Late Mr. E. J. Taylor's Work For Devon Guild

The Guild of Devonshire Ringers and the Exercise at large have lost an outstanding personality by the death of Mr. Ernest James Taylor, of Westhayes, Post Hill, Tiverton, who died at the Princess Elizabeth Orthopædic Hospital, Exeter, on October 24th, aged 51 years.

Mr. Taylor's death was the outcome of a fall from his loft on February 4th, and at the inquest Dr R. H. C. Robins, senior registrar at the hospital, stated that on admission he was found to have a dislocation of the spine and both arms and legs. The dislocation of the spine was found to be irremediable by ordinary means, and an operation was performed. This was entirely successful for its purpose of reducing the dislocation, but there was other damage to the spine which was irremediable. The immediate cause of death was pncumonia due to the fracture of the respiratory system, this in turn being due to the spinal injury. verdict of 'Accidental death' was returned.

Mr. Taylor was born on February 4th, 1905, at Bishop's Tawton, Devon, where he learned to ring call-changes. (His father and maternal grandfather were members of the local band and his paternal grandfather had been a ringer at the neighbouring tower of Landkey, where he had been parish clerk for over 30 years.)

He entered the service of the National Provincial Bank in 1923, and after three years at South Molton, Devon, was transferred to Northampton, where he was introduced to method ringing. It was not, however, until October, 1933, after being moved to Bath that he rang his first peal, of Double Norwich C.B. Major, at Wraxall, this, according to his peal book, being his tenth attempt. He was later moved to Newbury, Torquay, and Bradford, Yorks, and finally after the war, in 1947 arrived at Tiverton.

A former chairman of the North-East Branch, he became secretary of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers in 1950 . He was an ideal secretary in &very way. No matter what part of the Diocese he visited, whether the tower rang call-changes or was a member of the Guild, he was sure of a welcome and a rope. 'He did much to foster good fellowship and bring the Devon Association and ourselves closer together,' writes Mr. W. H. Ware, secretary of the N.E. Branch of the Guild.

Mr. Taylor was a member of many ringing Societies, including the Ancient Society of College Youths. With St. Peter's Society of Change Ringers. Tiverton, he was a beloved friend of all ringers. To those who visited him in hospital he was always cheerful-the perfect patient, appreciative of all that was done for him and never giving up hope that he would come back and join his friends again. He was also a sidesman and a member of the Parochial Church Council. The sympathy of many friends is extended to his widow and two sons.

To his memory half-muffled quarter peals were rung at St. Peter's. Tiverton, and also at Exeter Cathedral.

THE FUNERAL

The funeral service was held at St. Peter's, Tiverton, on October 29th. The Rector (Canon R. C. Worsley) officiated, and the lesson was read by Freb. E. V. Cox (president of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers). Robed clergy present included the Revs. F. W. Pennington and C.F. Miles (curates at St. Peter's), the Revs. J. A. Jones (chairman of the N.E. Branch) and W. I. Eliot. As the coffin was carried from the church it was followed by a procession of sidesmen.
The family mourners were the widow, Mrs. M. Taylor (mother). Mr. L. R. Taylor (brother), Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ford (brother-in-law and sister), Miss K. Taylor (sister), Miss Becr (aunt), Mr. and Mrs. W. Beer (uncle and aunt), Miss M. Beer (cousin), Mr. and Mrs. J. Beer (cousins), and Mr. and Mrs. J. de Jong (nephew and niece).

Representatives of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers present were the Rev. J. H. B. Andrews (chairman), Mr. E. M. Atkins (treasurer), the Rev. C. J. Poulton (chairman, Exeter Branch), Mr. J. Upton (captain), Mr. R. J. Kelland, Mr. P. J. Cork, also representing Mrs. Cork, Mr. A. Payne (St. Peter's Church), and Mr. F. C. Smale (chairman of the N.W. Branch and former secretary of the Guild).

Mr. A. T. Truman (also representing Mr. R. E. Truman) and Mr. G. Skinner (Exeter Cathedral), Mr. J. L. Glanville (Aylesbeare), Mr. J. F. Lilley (Newton Abbot), Mr. N. Mallett, also representing Mrs. Mallett (Exeter Branch), Mr. K. Walters, Mr. D. H. Yeo and Miss B. M. Boyle (Combe Martin), Mr. F. Wreford (secretary, Exeter Branch), Mr. W. H. Ware (secretary, North-East Devon Branch, also representing the St. Peter's Society), Mr. E. W. Biffen (Ringing Master, Exeter Branch), Mr. G. E. Retter (Honiton Clyst), Mr. D. Bellamy (Bampton), Mr. C. G. Dymond (Silverton), Mr. G. C. Woodley (chairman, East Devon Branch, Sidmouth), Mr. B. Pidgeon and Mr. J. R. Bray (Ottery St. Mary), and Mr. G. Vearncombe (Bick leigh).

Also present were Mr. R. O. Fry (secretary, Bath and Wells Diocesan Association of ChangeRingers) and Mr. R. J. Bowden (Bristol).

There were also present very many of Mr . Taylor's friends in other walks of life. Floral tributes were sent from the Guild, branches and towers.

AN APPRECIATION

It was with regret that the St. Peter's Society of Change-Ringers, Tiverton, heard the news of the passing of a beloved friend and fellow member on October 24th.

Admitted to the Princess Elizabeth Orthopædic Hospital aften a fall during last winter's freeze-up, Ernest James Taylor was, as all who visited him knew, always cheerful-the perfect patient-appreciative of all that was done for him and never giving up hope that one day he would come back and join his friends again.

We of the St. Peter's Society of ChangeRingers, the Devon Guild, and many other of his friends, had been hoping that a miracle would happen and that one day we would see him taking his place with us again, as we always knew him.

Mr. Taylor to us was the ideal ringer and general secretary of the Devon Guild, a sincere churchman, a fine leader and always good company.

He had done much for the Guild in fostering good fellowship and bringing the Devon Association and ourselves closer together

I am sure that the sympathy of all ringers will go to his wife, two sons, mother, brother and sisters.

We will always remember him as we last saw him in the ringing chamber

May he rest in peace
W. H. WARE, Hon. Secretary,
N.E. Branch, Guild of Devonshire Ringers.

MR. HARRY MORGAN

The death took place on October 26th, at the early age of 52 years, of Mr. Harry Morgan, of Bilton, Rugby, and formerly of Gainsborough, Lincolnshire. Mr. Morgan was taken ill towards the end of September and went into Rugby Hospital. He returned home on October 20th, but had again to go into hospital on the 24th, and died in his sleep in the early hours of the 26 th.
The funeral took place at Bilton Parish Church on October 30 th, and apart from the family mourners the service was attended by many friends and colleagues of Mr. Morgan from the English Electric Company, where he had followed his trade as a pattern maker. Among many floral tributes were wreaths from the Bilton Parish Church ringers, from the ringers of All Saints', Gainsborough, from the management of the English Electric Company, and his colleagues. The bells of Bilton were rung half-muffled to his memory on October 29th. He leaves a widow and daughter to mourn his loss, and the sympathy of a wide circle of friends is extended to them.
Harry Morgan was a native of Gainsborough, where he learnt to ring, and in his early days, in company with several young Gainsborough ringers, cycled many miles each week attending practices. This enthusiasm inspired the late Herbert Haigh, at that time secretary of the North Notts Association, to arrange a special practice at Worksop as a joint practice for the locals, the Gainsborough contingent and a similar party of young ringers from South Yorkshire

For a time, in 1926 and 1927, Mr. Morgan lived in Leicester, and rang a number of peals on both tower- and handbells with many of the Leicester stalwarts of those days. He returned to Gainsborough in 1927, rejoined the All Saints' company, and continued with them until he removed to Lea, a suburb of Gainsborough. He joined the Lea band, and did much to foster the art of ringing in that tower. From 1931-37 he was secretary of the Gainsborough District. He removed to Rugby nearly four years ago and joined the Bilton band.

Harry kept no record of any of his ringing activities, but he had probably rung somewhere in the region of 100 to 150 peals on all numbers from Doubles to Maximus. He was a safe ringer on both tower- and handbells, and although he was a reliable conductor and had conducted a number of peals, he generally preferred to leave that to others. Among his performances was the first tower-bell peal in Lincolnshire on 12 bells, Cambridge Maximus at Lincoln Cathedral, rung by a band resident in the county the first peal of Maximus on the old bells at Wakefield Cathedral, and one of the rare peals at the then private church of Earl Ferrers at Staunton Harold, in Leicestershire. His peal total included a large number of Surprise peals in a variety of methods up to London and Bristol, and among one of his last few peais was one of Cambridge Royal at Chesterfield on October 29th. 1949. From that time, for health reasons, he ceased to take part in peal attempts, although it is possible he took part in an isolated peal or two afterwards. Although his health restricted his ringing activities. he continued as a service ringer up to the time he went into hospital.

Of a quiet, unassuming nature, Harry Morgan gave much to ringing in his lifetime, and his many friends have a host of pleasant memories of time spent in his company.

BACK TO PHILADELPHIA

Memories of a Six Months' Trip
The visit to this country of Mr. Morris Alfred Turner (70), of Philadelphia, U.S.A., came to an end on October 26 th.
During the six months he had been here Mr. Turner had rung in over 50 towers and had scored one quarter peal and two peals. The quarter was of Grandsire Triples at Honiton Clyst, and the peals were Bob Minor at Brampton Speke and Bob Major at St. Edmund's, Northampton. Two other peal attemptsStedman Triples at Rothwell and Grandsire Triples at his 'home' tower-were unsuccessful.
What remarkable performances these were is only realised when one knows that Mr. Turner had not rung since leaving for the U.S.A. in March, 1909. His last peal was Superlative in 1908 with the Kettering band. One of the best remembered of his 30 or 40 peals was one of Stedman Triples at Finedon in 1906, conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson. who afterwards congratulated Mr. Turner and his brother, Robert, in their performance in what was their first of Stedman.
During his stav Mr. Turner became an inveterate 'tower-grabber.' This is mainly due to the enthusiasm with which he was received by Mr. Ernest Rowe and his band at Sidmouth, during a short stay with a cousin in that place. Mr. Rowe very kindly arranged ringing expeditions on most evenings. These included a visit to Exeter Cathedral, where the opportunity to 'strap' the famous 'Grandison' was taken. As a result of this particular visit the Exeter Press published a column about Mr. Turner.

On October 14th the ringers of Kettering and adiacent towers were entertained to a most enioyable supper by Mr. Turner, who afterwards thanked everyone present for their kindness to him during his stay, and -said that he hoped to return next year for much more ringing. He would also like, through these columns, to express his grateful thanks to the ringers in Devon and other places, who made him so welcome in their towers.
As a result of the article in "The Ringing World ' at the beginning of his stay, an invitation to visit and ring at Kent School, Connecticut, has been received by Mr. Turner, who is very much looking forward to going there before Christmas.
It has been a most enjoyable experience to meet and ring with someone who will no longer be merely a name among the 'Greats' of the past on the pcal boards in Kettering belfry.

BREDON HILL AREA TOUR

It all tegan when someone said that she'd never been on "a real tower-grab." Amid reminiscences of past 'grabs' ('Now, when I was living in Kent, . . .') from more experienced souls, maps were produced, Dove's Guide consulted and plans laid.

Finally, prompt on 9 o'clock on the morning of Octoher 20 th , eight ringers from the Cheltenham area met at St. Margaret's, Alderton, for a quiet trip to 136 -bell towers in the vicinity of Bredon Hill. As an added refinement. two 'old hands' had produced a special method for each tower, and a thick sheaf of Minor diagrams was much in evidence throughout the day. Before our new-found expert on the inns of Britain (see 'R.W.', page 667) had been introduced to the Crown at Eckington-for coffee!-Overbury, Kemerton. Bredon's Norton and Eckingion had been visited, and London Bob, Hereward Bob, London, York and Wells rung, while Bastow Little Court had been found the ideal method for 'a quick touch and down 'em.'

The afternoon was enlivened by frantic keyhunts, weak stays, and another five towers-the Combertons. Elmley Castle, Ashton-under-Hill and Dumbleton, with Edinburgh Delight. Durham and Beverley ticked off the list. A somewhat prolonged tea-hour at Broadway was greatly welcome, before going on to the last three towers-Broadway, Buckland and Toddington. At the last two it was felt that Central Council standards in method construction might be safely ignored, and Boatrace Delight and Superlative Minor. not to mention a "Beard Special ' of Snliced Doubles and Minor in six plain. Treble Boh and Little methods (successfully brought round in spite of the band!), helped to restore flagging spirits.

Sincere thanks are accorded to all incumbents who so readily gave us permission to ring, and also to the two drivers who managed to find their way in spite of much argument as to where the next tower was. Incidentally, dons anyone know of any professional bell puller-unners and/or puller-downers in need of a Saturday's employment? My hands

IS CHANGE RINGING ONLY

300 YEARS OLD?

WHEN I was a boy and anxious to follow in the footsteps of the 'Shepherd ' family I used to listen with rapt attention to conversation between ringers when they were not engaged in the belfry, and one of the assertions which impressed me greatly was that change ringing as an art went back many hundreds of years. This assertion was heard by me a few years prior to Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, but what a surprise to learn in later years that change ringing is not, as is often supposed, of great antiquity, in fact we can hardly claim 300 years of history for it.

In mediæval times bells were very important; and the care and use of them was the responsibility of the clerks who rang them before service, and often during a service, but when it came to ringing at the processions they could not be in church and tower at the same time on account of various duties in connection with the service. To overcome the difficulty some strong young lads were chosen to go up into the belfry and carry out this portion of the work which entailed swinging the bells as high as the fittings would allow. Before long they found it rather enjoyable and quite good exercise, with the result that it became a fascinating hobby. The Inventories of Edward VI.'s reign give us details of the number of bells in various towers, usually three or four in most cases, and five for the wealthier and more important parishes.

As time went on and ringing became rather popular many complaints were made about bell-ringing at night time, which resulted in various rules, regulations and resolutions being drawn up to regulate ringing ' without any evident necessity.' In those days ringing could not be done like it is to-day, and it is recorded at Exeter Cathedral in 1678 that $£ 60$ was paid to a bell-hanger for hanging the bells ' to be rung upon the sally,' which gives us an insight into conditions existing before that date.
Change ringing or method ringing is credited as being introduced by Fabian Stedman, a Cambridge printer, but the actual date seems to be unknown. Some writers have stated the year as 1657, probably because this date appeared in Shipway, but it was not until 1667 that the Tintinnalogia' was published, a work generally attributed to Stedman, and afterwards found to be the work of Richard Duckworth, although Stedman had a big hand in its production. From that time change ringing was taken up in many parts of the country not only as a healthy exercise but intellectually, and yet it was not until 1715 that the first true peal of Bob Triples was rung, followed by Grandsire Triples three years later.

In the years that followed change ringing experienced many ups and downs, due to quite a number of causes, and when new methods were introduced many ringers began to regard their healthy exercise as a pastime becoming too complicated and involved, which led to a shrinkage in numbers.

Two great drawbacks were the absence of Diocesan and County Guilds, and a paper really devoted to ringers and ringing. In 1874 the Devon Guild was formed, and soon afterwards many others sprang into being in order to give proper recognition to the art of ringing, but when it came to a ringers' paper very little news could be obtained. Bits and pieces sometimes came out through ' Bell's Life,' but it mostly depended on how much space was left over after dealing with various sporting events, and if the activities of boxing, racing, wrestling, cock-fighting, etc., were numerous the ringing material was omitted. 'Church Bells ' devoted a small portion of its columns to ringing performances, but it was the 'Bell News,' starting as a monthly journal, that supplied ringing news to those interested in ringing. This paper soon became a weekly publication and the writer first became acquainted with it in 1888 when on commencing school he was allocated the duty of going to the newsagent every Saturday morning to bring home father's favourite weekly. In that year (1888) the total number of peals amounted to 759 , of which only 26 were Surprise Major, quite different to 1953 with a total of 2,566, of which Cambridge Surprise Major claimed 115. Much of the increase is due to five- and six-bell ringing. which applies not only to peals but other uses as well.

It has been said that the big increase in the number of methods framed and named in recent years is the cause of our numbers becoming fewer in the towers throughout the land, but this is purely hypothetical, for many reasons can be advanced why the bells cannot be rung in accordance with their numbers, various reasons for different localities. Change ringing when first introduced became very popular and in many places the bells were ringing for long periods five or six evenings a week with the result that curtailment rules were made and ringers given a bad name. Today all is different, many lessons have been learnt, and though half-pull ringing is not so old as many people imagine, we realise that parishioners like to hear bells well rung, whether rounds, call-changes or by half-pull, the most modern of the three systems. WILLIAM SHEPHERD.

THE last Saturday in October is reserved by members of the Leicester Diocesan Guild for the annual dinner and social. This annual event, initiated by the Guild's founder and first president, the late Harold J. Poole, has achieved great success, attracting visitors from all over the country.

This year the event was held at the Bull's Head Hotel, Shelthorpe, near Loughborough. Loughborough was chosen as the venue this year as a compliment to the Guild's new president, Mr. Paul L. Taylor, head of the famous firm of bell-founders which bears his name. Doubt had been expressed whether members would find Loughborough convenient to reach, but all fears were removed when a company of 115 sat down to dinner.

Both the Loughborough rings-the Parish Church of All Saints, with ten bells (tenor $30 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.), and the Bell Foundry ten (tenor $6 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.) -were open for ringing during the afternoon.

Supporting the president and Mrs. Taylor at the dinner were the Ven. R. B. Cole, Vicar of St. Philip's, Leicester, and Archdeacon of Loughborough, and the Ven. W. J. Lyon, Rector of All Saints', Loughborough, Mr. E. C. Turner and Mr. P. A. Corby (vice-presidents), Mr. B. G. Warwick (hon. general secretary), Mr. A. E. Rowley, (hon. treasurer), Mr. S. Burton (hon. peal secretary), Mrs. E. C. Turner, Mrs. P. A. Corby, Mrs. B. G. Warwick, Mrs. S. Burton, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wood.

After the loyal toast had been honoured on the call of the president, the Archdeacon of Loughborough proposed the toast of 'The Leicester Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers.' 'Bell ringers,' he said, 'played an important part in the life of a church, and it was necessary to regard ingers as church bell ringers and not just simply as ringers.'

The president in reply stated that the Leicester Diocesan Guild was still of a high standard in all its activities, including the peal attempts and meetings and social activities. Outstanding events during the year were the visit of the Central Council to Leicester at Whitsuntide and the visit of A. P. Cannon's touring party for a whole week in August, when 13 peal attempts and visits to 70 towers were organised for the tourists by the general secretary. Publicity to the tourists and to the Guild was given when the B.B.C. caught up with the party at Loughborough. A recording of the Foundry bells, together with a commentary by Mr. A. P. Cannon, was broadcast after the news the same evening.

Mr. E. C. Turner (vice-president) submitted the toast of 'The Guests and Visitors.' The Guild, he said, had often had visitors attending meetings and dinners, and it was necessary to give them a good impression to take back to their own Guilds or Associations. The following visitors were present: Mr. J. W. Cotton (secretary of the Midland Counties Guild), Mr. G. A. Halls (Derby), Miss V. M. Horton (Duffield), Mr. T. J. Lock (Hatfield), Mr. G. S. Morris (Lyme Regis), Mr. W. H. Poole (Yeovil) and Mr. H. J. Gaylard (Yeovil). The guests were the Archdeacon of Loughborough and the Rector of Loughborough. He noticed that one of the Guild members was wearing the new bellringer's tie, and he wondered whether they could be obtained in bows!

Mr. T. J. Lock, in acknowledging the toast on behalf of the visitors, said they were grateful for all the efforts made for their entertainment. During the day he had had three surprises: (i) a peal of London Surprise Major at Prestwold, (ii) the surprise of the local catering arrangements, (iii) the surprise and pleasure of being asked to reply to that toast. On behalf of all the visitors he said that they had always enjoyed coming to the Leicester Diocesan Guild dinners.

Before members adjourned for the social evening, the president mentioned that a letter had been received from Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher, of the Kent County Association, who were holding their annual dinner on the same evening, wishing the Guild every success. A telegram was sent to Dr. Hatcher on behalf of the Leicester Guild' by the secretary.

The highly successful social evening which followed was organised by the secretary of the Hinckley District (Mr. F. K. Measures). The Leicester Guild socials are well known throughout the country and therefore need no further description. Suffice it to say that this one came up to the usual high standard.

St. Nicholas', Islip, Oxon, hells have been augmented by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank to a ring of eight. The dedication will take place next Sunday at 6 p.m. by the Bishop of Oxford, and the bells will be available for visitors after the service.
Stepney Parish Church is becoming the nurses' tower in London, and several from London Hospital ring there when their duties permit. Among them ringing in a quarter on November 5th was Miss Betty Tester.

Mr. S. Wade, a member of the Southgate band for over 50 years, who recently moved to Essex, is at present in Rochford Hospital, near Southend. He would be pleased to hear from some of his older friends.
Ringing in a quarter peal at St. Leonard's, Streatham, on November 4th was Mr. F. V. Sinkins, who is now in his 92 nd year. It will hearten his many friends in the Slough district to learn of this virility.
A septic hand has kept Mr. Tom Myers, of Plymouth, 'out of action.' After three weeks in hospital he is attending daily for physiotherapy. He is hoping to be his old self by 1957.

The quarter peal at Selly Oak on November 4th was rung as a birthday compliment to Miss Dorothy Battersby, of Bournemouth, who, together with Mr. Arthur Davis and Miss M. Davis, were on a visit to the Midlands on the occasion of the Worcester dinner.
The Socicty of Friends of the Exercise had to cancel their October weekend because of pressure of business on the organiser, who was arranging the East Budleigh carnival week. Mr. C. Savage informs us that 'the Friends' will move in the New Year and preliminary plans ar: being made for a Whitsun tour of the Isle of Wight.

GOSSIP

From Dar-es-Salaam we received this week an order for the Manual of Ringing Training of the College of Campanology. We have passed the order on to the author, who will doubtless be as surprised as we were to receive this letter from Tanganyika.
Sixteen-years-old Miss J. Ball, of Basingstoke, rang her first quarter peal on November 3rd at St. Michael's Church on a bell minus a stay.
Mr. W. M. Mann, of Caston, has begun his studies at Nottingham University. His friends in Norfolk wish him a happy and successful stay at Nottingham.
There are about a dozen ringers employed by the Fuller's Earth Union Company, Ltd., Redhill. and they ring at Redhill, Nutfield and Bletchingley.
Bozeat, Northants, ringers have lost a member of their tower for 30 years by the death of Mr. Joshua J. Partridge. To his memory a quarter peal was rung on November 5th.
The band who rang the peal at Nutfield on October 29th desire to express their gratitude to Mrs. Kempsell and her daughter Nancy for their kind hospitality after the peal, and also after a previous attempt had failed because of a broken rope.

It was the local band, with the exception of the conductor, who rang the first peal on the recast and rehung bells of Clyst St. George. Devon, on November 3rd. This was one of the first churches to be completely destroyed by enemy action in 1940. The bells were cracked by the fire but did not fall to the ground. The church is now fully restored. Ringers associate Clyst St. George with the Rev. G. Ellacombe, one-time rector, author of a book on Devonshire bells and the inventor of the Ellacombe chiming apparatus.

RECTOR OF BOW THANKS RINGERS THE WORLD OVER

Ihe 319th anniversary dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths at Bridge House Restaurant on November 3rd attracted a large attendance of ringers from all parts of the country- 178 sitting down. The reunion was one of the happiest of gatherings. During the evening the Society's first contribution to the Bow Bells Appeal Fund-a cheque for $£ 50$ was handed by the Master to the Rev. H. Evan Hopkins, Rector of Bow.

In time-honoured fashion the Master, Sqdn. Leader J. S. Mason, entercd, escorted by the stewards, Mr. S. H. Dearden and Mr. P. A. F. Chalk, carrying their regalia of office.

After the loyal toast the Master proposed the toast of 'The Church.' He said he often wished they had more detailed information of the way in which these dinners were conducted in the 18 th century. The cost of the dinner was the same then as it was that day, although, of course, the cost of living was not 2 s , a pint. They could see from the copy of their rule book that the invitation card was an elaborate affair, and he had no doubt that the dinner was elaborate too. The guests were invited to the appointed place and, in the words of the card, 'there to dine, it being the annual feast.'

The character of the Society had changed since those early days and so had the relationship of ringing, as they knew it, to the Church. The primary use of church bells today was that of ringing for Sunday service, a thing unknown in the early days of their Society: today the ringing exercise was a real part of church activity.

This, and the interest taken by the community at large, had resulted in the considerable amount of bell restoration which had taken place in the last 30 years: in fact there were areas in the country where it was unusual to find a ring of bells in poor order.

In the city of London, where losses due to enemy action were considerable, several restorations were on hand and the immediate prospect was very promising. In fact it seamed that the most serious problem facing them was the everpresent one of more bells than ringers, which was a challenge to them all.
'But what of the future? There is no evidence that ringing is becoming a dying art, but a Society such as ours, which is almost as old as the Exercise, should look farther ahead than the immediate prospect. If your church has a suitable tower, experience has shown that money can be raised to install a ring of bells, and ringers can be trained, but if you are faced with the prospect of building a tower it is a very different story. Hence the popularity of electronic devices.

- Ringing is part of the English scene, but it requires the co-operation of the Church authorities and it must be accepted, if only passively, by the community at large. Today more and more people are moving out from their old centres of population with their established customs to new estates. churches are being built to cater for their needs and new social habits are being formed. At the summer exhibition of the Royal Academy this year. not one of the designs for new churches included in the architectural section had provision for a tower holding a ring of bells. It seems, therefore, that the English scene will change more than ever in these areas.

There is no easy solution to this problem. but a traditional institution can be maintained in a healthy state if its supporters keep in step with contemporary conditions, and it seems to me that today more than ever it is necessary that we should realise our responsibilities as churchmen and act accordingly.

THE PRESENTATION

At the conclusion of his speech the Master said he would like to call attention to the Bow Bells Appeal Fund. The Society had voted a subscription from their funds, and an appeal had been made to members all over the country and that appeal was still open. As a first instalment be asked the Rev. H. Evan Hopkins to accept a cheque for $£ 50$.
Thanking the Master and those who had contributed towards the cheque, the Rev. Evan Hopkins said he would also like to thank the very large number of ringers who had contributed through their Guilds and Branches. He had had about $£ 150$ to $£ 200$ from ringers all over the country and also some from overseas. On behalf of the Lord Mayor and the Appeal Committee he would like to thank them all most sincercly. It made one feel that these famous bells belonged not only to the Church and London but all who rang and loved the art of ringing.

He would like to report progress about the restored ring. As they knew, the bells had been recast with due ceremony and each named by a churchwarden. He had nine parishes combined with his own parish. With a very impressive ceremony they cast the tenor bell and at the same time the second, which was called Fabian by their Master.

The bells were cast and tuned and were to be mechanically chimed for the Lord Mayor's Procession. Their steeple would have to be demolished and rebuilt, and he was afraid it would be two or three years before the bells could be rung. While they were waiting for that they were trying to raise money for the rebuilding of the church. As the foundations had given way it was going to be a very expensive businiess. Towards that cost they had got about half way.
Round the sound bow of each of the recast bells there was a horder of London Pride, and he thought that those who had the responsibility for restoring the bells of Bow could take pride that London had recovered from the devastating blitz of 1941 and that the bells would ring once more to the glory of God.

BLYTHE COLLEGE YOUTHS

Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward proposed the toast of 'The Ancient Society of College Youths ' and said he regarded the occasion as a great hanour as he was not yet a member of 50 years' standing, although he was fast travelling that way. It was difficult to say something new to a toast that had been proposed for 319 years. He found in Ernest Morris' book. 'The Church Bells of England.' this verse:-

The blythe College Youths.
Rather old stagers.
Accustomed for years
To pull bells for wagers.

He would add to that:-

Now ring Stedman Cinques

Much better than Caters.
He congratulated the small band of ringers resident in London for kecping alive the traditions of the Ancient Society for the benefit of the large provincial membership and. of course. themselves. Their job today was to encourage the many young ringers. both male and female. to take on some responsibility and to help them with their ringing, and above all remember that they would have to carry on after 'we old stagers have passed on.'

Mr. Garner-Hayward concluded by suggesting that the dinner for 1957 should be for members and their wives. It would have to be done some time. like the friendly undertaker who closed his correspondence with 'yours eventually. He coupled the name of Mr. A. B. Peck with the toast.

The Master made an appropriate interpolation by saying that the average age of the ringers on a recent Sunday morning at St. Paul's was only 36. Ladies were present at their centenary dinner in 1937.

Mr. Peck, bn rising to reply, received a great ovation. When it had subsided he said: I have in front of me the finest set of ringers I have seen. I think nearly all of them can ring as well as I can. The young ringers of today are as good as I am.'

Mr. Pcek announced that apologies had been received from the Provost of Southwark. Brian Threlfall, John Crampion. G. Massey, George Elphick, Richard Stannard (who wrote that he was afraid his ringing career. which started in 1884, was finished). George Symonds. R. Lathbury, Roland and Caleb Fenn. Tom Myers and Donald G. Clift.

NEW MEMBERS

During the year the following new members had been elected: A. J. Sanger (Evercreech), J. R. Badman, R, J. Crago, D, M. C. Hill, G Francis (Itchingfield), A. L. Weller, C. A. Wratten (Hounslow), H. Newman (Gloucester), G. Uglow (Falmouth), B. Bladen (Tottenham), P J. Westwood (Dover), D. F. Wheeler (Devonport), W. J. Ridgman (Cambridge), A. E. Austin (Newmarket), P. Border (Cambridge), W. ## LOSSES BY DEATH

The company stood as the names of the following, who had died since the last dinner. were remembared: W. H. L. Buckingham. Alec Rusby. A. W. Heath, B. Knights. C. Mayne, J C. Mitchell, G. Hawksworth, J. W. Jones, G Preston, F. Dexter, W. C. Dowding, Dick White F. G. May, Dr. I. G. Iles, Reuben Charge Sidncy Macey, W. T. Elson, E. J. Taylor, F. Tillett. F. Borrett. W. Nudds, L. C. Wightman G. F. Williams, W. Spice, W. H. Chalk, W Massey. E. A. Young.
Mr. Peck gave details of the 17 peals rung by the Society during the year. They had held 46 meetings. practice and husiness, including mestings at Birmingham. Cranford and Heston.
The speach was followed by a touch of Stedman Cinques. perfectly rung by W. Williams 1-2, F. W. Periens 3-4. A. H. Walker 5-6. F. J. Smallwood 7-8. John Freeman 9-10. John R. Chilcott 11-12.

A CERTIFICATE FOR MR. WALKER

The Master recalled the visit of the Society to Birmingham, which almost coincided with the 80th birthday of Mr. Albert Walker. They found that Mr. Walker did not possess one of the origınal certificates. He had pleasure in presenting an original certificate to Mr. Walker with the date of his membership. December 1st, 1896. This certificate was No. 3.993.

Thanking the Socicty for the gift，Mr．Wal－ ker said he hoped he would be spared to attend many more dinners．
The toast of＇The Visitors and Kindred So－ cieties＇was proposed by Mr．J．Waugh，in which he coupled with the toast the name of Mr．H．E．Audsley，Master of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths．Speaking on the subject of service ringing，Mr．Waugh said the bulk of the ringing must take place in the heart of the City．There was no resident population and the ringers had to make a journcy of an hour or more from the suburbs．In consequence they suffered from a double wastage－those who could not last the course and those who could not face making the journey seven days a week． The same difficulty arose in other provincial centres．
There was also another ringing society，＇The College of Campanology，＇of which they saw a great deal in＇The Ringing World＇just lately He did not pretend to have read through all the articles－it was too much of a headache． He did wish．however．that the series had been publicised under the Central Council．

GOOD FRIENDS WITH CUMBERLANDS
Mr．Herbert E．Audsley，in reply，said in his early days as a Cumberland he was led to believe that tho Cumberlands and College Youths were two camps very far apart，but he now took a very different view．He thought it started，as far as he was concerned，with the last peal on the old Bow Bells rung by the Cumberlands． After the peal they adjourned to the＇Gog and Magog，＇and as they walked into the bar there weret a dozen College Youths assembled．They thought they were for it，but instead they were complimented on ringing a very good peal． From then on his opinion of the College Youths changed considerably and today some of his best friends were among them．
His own county of Kent had provided three Masters of the College Youths．There was Mr． Thomas Groombridge，a man of blunt speech but a good College Youth，Mr．Frederick Mit－ chell，whom they were hoping to honour at the Kent dinner at Rochester the previous Saturday， but he was prevented from attending through illness，and Mr．E．H．Lewis，who was present with them that night and was in the chair on that memorable occasion，the tercentenary din－ ner at the Cannon Street Hotel．All the time they had Masters from the provincial societies the kindred societies would have faith in the College Youths．

The toast of＇The Ringing World＇was pro－ posed by Mr．Albert Walker，and he appealed to the company to do their utmost to increase the present circulation of 5,400 ．There were at least 30,000 change－ringers in the country，and an increased circulation was the only method to meet the rising costs．There were also district representatives，and he asked them to do what they could in the matter of circulation．He thanked the Editorial Committee，who silently worked harder than many people thought．

Mr．T．W．White，the editor，replied．He ex－ pressed gratitude to all who by donations had helped＇The Ringing World，＇and had a special word of thanks to the generosity of those who rang quarter peals．The success and interest of the paper depended upon the contributors－
those who sent reports，articles and news items． All readers could help．

The toast of＂The Fragrant Memory of the Masters of 300,200 and 100 years ago was pro－ posed by the Master．He said of T．Cook，who was Master in 1656，they knew nothing．There was no record of the name of the Master in 1756 and he was afraid that state of affairs would continue for some years as no record appears to have been kept．The Master 100 years ago was Matthew Wood，who was the leader of the Bethnal Green band which made history in that period．There was one in that room who remembered Wood saying to him： ＇Boy，do that．＇Mat．Wood＇s peals were still in existence and they hoped to be ringing at Beth－ nal Green in two wecks＇time．The house where he lived was just by the church．
Mr．A．A．Hughes added that he learnt his ringing with Mat．Wood and he had the honour of calling his last peal－Holt＇s Ten－part．Mr． Hughes said he was ringing the third and Mat． Wood，who was in his 85th year，was ringing the fifth．At the end Mat．said：＇I taught you to ring and now you have called my last peal．＂ Mr．Hughes replied：＇No，we shall ring another together，＇but they never did．

MR．CHARLES NASH

An endearing character in the village in which he was a life－long resident，Mr．Charles Nash was affectionately known as＇Skipper．＇For several years before the ban on ringing he was captain of the St．Mary＇s，North Mymms，band， and for a long period was a member of the Hertford County Association．
Mr．Nash died at his home on October 29th， having been confined to his bed for some time as the result of a stroke．He was aged 77.
In his time he was part of the backbone of the Exercise－always regular and punctual in his service ringing and attendance，and was very much missed when，a few years ago，he was forced to give up actual ringing．

T．J．L．

MR．A．C．PHILPOTT

We regret to record the death in hospital of Mr．Alfred Charles Philpott，of Canterbury．In failing health for some time，it was only recently that he had been unable to get about．He was taken to hospital，and passed away there on October 29th．
Mr．Philpott，who was 62，and known to all as＇Charlie，＇first learnt to handle a bell at St． Alphege＇s，Canterbury，previous to the 1914－18 war，being taught by the late George Jenkins． A territorial，he was called up at the outbreak of hostilities，and sailed with his battalion， $1 / 4$ Buffs，to India．He did not resume ringing on his return，but when his daughter commenced to ring at St．Dunstan＇s he felt the urge to ring again，and since then he had become one of the most regular members of that tower．He was a member of the Kent County Association and a regular attendant at meetings in the district．He had three peals to his credit．
The funeral service，conducted by the Vicar， Rev．A．L．Lawler，took place in St．Dunstan＇s Church．Among ringers present were members of the Cathedral，Sturry and Wickhambreaux bands，together with fellow ringers from his own tower．Also present was his old battalion commander，and members of the Old Comrades Association of the $1 / 4$ Buffs，of which he was a member．Much sympathy has been expressed to his widow and two daughters

Memorial Service for F．W．Munnings

A memorial service for the late Mr．F．W． Munnings was conducted on Sunday afternoon， October 28th，at Mendham，where he had lived most of his life，by the Rev．A．G．G．Thurlow， a fellow ringer and freemason．
Mr．Thurlow said that Mr．Munnings was thought to have taken part in the last peal rung at Mendham about 30 years ago．before the bells became unringable，and that the rehanging of the bells could be a most fitting memorial to him．

LEITERS TO THE EDITOR

GRAND PRIX TRIPLES

Dear Sir,-Considerable time has elapsed since 1 had the pleasure of corresponding in your columns when the Cranbournc and Hawkley p :al controversy was unhappily at its height. There is still no resident band in the village, but occasionally visiting bands have use of the bells for peal attempts.
After many wanderings overseas I'm once more staying in this district, and was delighted to hear the bells being rung up, and thought now to hear some good ringing on this quiet Sunday afternoon. Much to my dismay the changes were set off at a fantastic rate so that one couldn't tell if it was Stedman or Grandsire being rung. I understand that two previous peals have been brought round in 2 hours 35 minutes, and there have since been attempts to get peals in quicker time, all, so far, resulting in failure. To the ringers concerned I would ask this question: Are the bells hung in the tower to be rung to the glory of God or for man's glory of a peal in record time?
After the peal had failed the bells were rung even faster for the service at 6.30 , and so fast were they rung that three or four of the ringers failed to set their bells at the 'Stand.' To the best of my knowledge there are at least six old Hawkley ringers at rest in the churchyard and they must have turned in their graves at such a disgusting exhibition. They never aspired to great heights of campanology, but I always remember them in my youth ringing each Sunday in quiet solemnity, and thèir striking left nothing to be desired.
I understand that Mr. A. York-Bramble was in previous attempts. If he was in this one I would ask him and his brother and sister ringers to study the Manual of Campanology more diligently: it is not sufficient to be able to write it in technical terms and thrust it into the columns of 'The Ringing World' unless it's brought to perfection on the bells by the authors. At times I wondered if I was within the vicinity of God's house or listening to the Grand Prix on the radio. Finally, the next time you treat us to a peal let us have a real good struck peal in about 2 hours 50 minutes-it's been done before by the Guildford Diocesan Ringersand no more of the Grand Prix, or was it Le Mans, Triples.-Yours sincerely,
T. E. C. SWINTON.

Hawkley, Hants.

KING ALFRED'S COLLEGE, WINCHESTER

Dear Sir,-As a matter of history on the subject of university and college ringing, might 1 mention that at my old training College of King Alfred. Winchester, there was, in 1929, a set of handbells bequeathed to the College by one Canon Braithewaite. some 35 in number
These were regularly rung, in the science room. after chapel on Sunday mornings, and the six who attended scored at least one 120 Grandsire Doubles.

We also used to give the late Mr. Wilfred Andrews a headache at the Cathedral on Sunday afternoons. (We were willing enough). On one occasion we obtained the bells of St. Maurice's on a Saturday afternoon.

I don't think Mr. Nolan Golden would mind confirming that there was ringing in that college before my time, and doubtless has been since. -Faithfully yours, F. A. CLUETT, K.C.A..
also year secretary. 1929-31,
King Alfred's College, Winchester.
Gravesend.
We regret to record the death of Mr. Charles Edward Borrett, aged 81 years. A memoir will appear in our next issue.

MANUAL TOO HIGHLY ORGANISED

Dear Sir,-Everyone agrees that there is room for a text-book of ringing compiled by responsible members of the Exercise. The latest attempt is written by Mr. York-Bramble and assistants.
Some of the material in his Manual is good, but it is surrounded by a welter of nonsense, more suitable for ' Andy-Pandy,' or 'Listen with Mother,' and certainly reminiscent of 'Corn. R. Stone.' whose 'corn' is well remembered.
How much of this is proved practice? Has anyone been taught successfully to ring changes using fully the methods set out in the Manual? The Manual is being used as a vehicle for the introduction of his own system of phraseology. How can a text-book be accepted as standard containing so much highly controversial matter?
The style of the Manual is uninteresting. No text-book really succeeds unless it is easy to read and assimilate. It is inflexible, making no provision for variation in aptitude of student or instructor, and allows no introduction of personal ideas or variations in teaching. The Manual is too highly organised, and this is immediately its own undoing.
This organisation in the broader concept of the College of Campanology seeks to remove the informality which is one of the most delightful attractions of ringing. Remove this attraction and there will be fewer learners. Imagine having obtained a Diploma, then paying 2 s . 6 d : to the treasurer and then receiving a Diploma, tied with pink ribbon, then the handshake and congratulations of the president of the College. Ugh!

The aim of the College is that everyone who teaches ringing shall possess a Diploma. I can only see two ways in which this could occur: (1) Nationwide popular acclaim, which seems most unlikely; (2) The College asks clergy to promise that only College-qualified individuals be allowed to instruct in their churches. This would be a restrictive practice of a most vicious nature.-Yours faithfully,

RICHARD E. PRICE.

Sunbury-on-Thames.

SILENT TOWERS IN CORNWALL

Dear Sir,-I feel that a remark made by Mr. R. Collins at the Guildford Diocesan Guild dinner cannot be allowed to pass unchallenged. He said that if more ladies were recruited there would be fewer silent towers in Devon and Cornwall. I can, of course, only speak for my own county, and it is on the question of silent towers "that I should like to comment. In the county of Cornwall, there are 146 rings of bells, of which only four are unringable and, to my knowledge, ten others at which no regular ringing takes place. Thus 90 per cent. of our rings sound regularly for Sunday services and practices, as high a proportion, I venture to suggest, as is to be found anywhere in the country.
Although not all the towers in Cornwall are members of the Truro Diocesan Guild, and only a few are change-ringers, all Cornish ringers are proud of the continuity of regular ringing at their various towers, and it would be interesting to know the proportion of 'silent' towers in Mr. Collins' own county.

Mr. Douglas Burnett, the Ringing Master of the Truro Diocesan Guild, would like to be associated with the above remarks.-Yours faithfully,

ALAN CARVETH,

f President, Truro Diocesan Guild of Ringers.

LONDON'S UNRINGABLE TOWERS

Dear Sir,-I have had many enquiries of lateregarding the unringable towers in London; especially since the new publication of 'Dove.' I herewith enclose an up-to-date $1 l$ lst of all towers which are regarded as 'U.R.' in London.
I am hoping at a later date to send you a complete report on all the silent towers in: England.

Tottenham. ERNEST J. ROWE.
St. Sepulchre, Holborn (10). Definite.
St. Barnabas, Pimlico (10). Definite.
St. James, Bermondsey (10). Tower and bells unsafe.
Holy Trinity, Southwark (8). Derelict.
St. Peter, Walworth (8). Could be rung after attention.
St. Michael, Paddington (8). Tower unsafe. Definite
All Hallows, Tottenham (8). Tower unsafe. Definite.
Christ Church, Spitalfields (8). Two broken wheels. Could be rung.
St. Dunstan in the West (8). Derelict.
St. Nicholas, Deptford (8). Church bombed. Bells will not be rehung.
St. Paul. Shadwell (8). Definite.
St. Mary, Islington (8). Depending on architect after church rebuilt.
St. Martin, Gospel Oak (6). Third wheel broken: also parson's gag.
St. Paul, Homerton (6). Parson's gag.
St. Luke, Nutfield Place (6). Hung dead.
Holy Trinity, West Ham (6). Church derelict. Bells dispersed.
St. Andrew Undershaft (6). Hung dead.
St. Catherinc Cree (6). Derelict.
St. James, Islington (6). Rather hastily condemned as unsafe. A few hours with a spanner would have righted this as the bells were on ball bearings and were quite ringable. Recording apparatus installed. Will not ring again.
St. Thomas, Bethnal Green (5). Church does not exist.

ST. MAURICE'S, WINCHESTER

Dear Sir,-Mr. King's notice stating the six bells have been sold and taken away must come as a surprise to many ringers, especially as a peal was performed on them as recently as last month.

The four back bells are historic and two of them came from the old Wokingham foundry, one about the 1380 period and the other about 40 years later. A John Wallis (Salisbury) bell of 1603 was also included in the ring, and the tenor was cast in 1610 by a travelling founder, R. Becconsall. These four bells were tuned in 1919.

In order to have records brought up to date, could Mr. King tell us what became of this ring of six and why it became necessary to sell them. I sincerely trust they have found another tower and have been saved from the melting pot.-Yours. etc., WILLIAM SHEPHERD.

Addlestone, Surrey.
MELBOURNE CATHEDRAL PEALS
Dear Sir,-Referring to a third peal rung for Melbourne Cathedral, Australia, Mr. Barnett is right in saying that a party of English ringers rang one at Melbourne, Derbyshire, on October 24 th, 1936 Kent Treble Bob Major, 5,088 changes. The ringers were William Linter, jun., 1. Mrs. R. Richardson 2, Joseph Hardcastle 3, Charles Sharples 4, W. H. Fussell 5. John S. Goldsmith 6, George Martin (cond.) 7, Rupert Richardson 8.

On looking up my records I find we rang a peal of Kent T.B. Royal for St. Paul's. Melbourne, Australia, on the bells of St. Clement Danes', Strand. on September 14th, 1935. It wasin this peal that Mr. Madgwick kindly helped us to make up the band.-Yours, etc.. Lytham St. Anne's. C. SHARPLES.

134. Thinking before Ringing.-Students will be referred to the silent exercises they took in plain hunting (Exs. 40, 41 and 41a) and to the beat variation which, when consciously followed until the ringing settles down, makes for better striking. (Ex. 13.) With good ringers on 2, 3 $4,6,7$ and 8 , and students on the treble and 5th (for a start), two can be given practice simultaneously in what they have already done silently, i.e., plain hunting on four bells, the front four working independently of the back four, but the cight bells ringing change after change, until the eight rows of plain minimus have been produced. So the treble hunts from lead to 4 ths and returns, while the 5th hunts from his starting position to 8ths and returns. Students must be led to think, before the pulloff, exactly what it is they are about to do ; and reminded of previously given advice that, normally, odd bells move up behind and even bells move down to the front, on the word 'Go!'.
135. Extending the Hunting. (Ex. 54.) Following the 'repeat ' 4 -bell hunting (they had done it previously, silent), exercises are taken (but only one student at a time) in extending the range of hunting. First on six bells, then on eight bells, and varying from odd-bell starts (up) to even-bell starts (down). Students may not all get a turn in the part-time allotted from the regular practice-night period, especially in a large class: but tower-bands will find it advantageous to give up the whole of a practice night to helping the students in this last stage. If this is not practicable, the lesson must be repeated the following week(s) until all are proficient. Then they will be ready to go ahead with method ringing, e.g., Plain Bob Minimus and Stedman Doubles: though this is really the beginning of the next practical course of the Manual-Part III.
136. Course Conclusion. - Normally, this 10th lesson concludes the practical work of the Course. The students now join their 'allotted' tower(s), and will continuc their progress under the leader or instructor there. It is preferable, of course. that they should continue with the College Syllabus of Training, if arrangements for this can be made. This means a simultaneous study of Parts II and III of the Manual. Meanwhile, however, there is the Examination to be considered and this is discussed in the following Section. The Tutor advises the students on this matter either following this session or at an ensuing one by arrangement.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION

Mr. K. Arthur New President

October 13 th was a fine day, and the annual general meeting of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association began on a cheerful note in the newly-painted belfry of All Saints', Gosforth. These bells were available in the morning, and quite a few ringers were present to work up an appetite for lunch. How attractive is the new light colour scheme in the ringing chamber!
In the afternoon the eights of SS. James and Basil's, St. Stephen's and St. John's were open for ringing before the special service in Newcastle Cathedral, conducted by the Provost, the Very Rev. N. M. Kennaby. The Rev. J. R. H. Prophet gave an address which would certainly not send the ringers away with any exaggerated ideas about the part to be played by bells and ringers in the service of the Church. It is probably a good thing that one should be aware of one's limitations! A collection for the Bow Bells Restoration Fund realised $£ 3$ 11s. 5d.

A company of 60 sat down to tea in the Cathedral Library. Nearly 20 towers were represented and there were visitors from Richmond, Ripon and Middlesbrough. The business mecting followed the tea

The president, Mr. Richard A. Gofton, took the chair and welcomed those present. He had completed his term of three years and had enjoyed it. He thanked all for their support at meetings and felt sure that the Association was a vigorous body, if not a large one, and he stressed that the real strength lay with the Sunday service ringers rather than in the number of peals rung.

ANNUAL REPORT

The seneral secretary, Mr. D. A. Bayles, presented his report for 1955-56. The Association had completed 79 years and he hoped that some celebration might be arranged for the 80th anniversary of its foundation in 1957. The handbook had at last become a reality, and members now had practically all that information that was contained in the old style report available with the handbook and the shorter annual report. New members (resident) would receive a copy free, and other persons could purchase a copy for 1 s . 6 d . or 2 s .. by post on application to the secretary. The plan drawn up last Octoher for avoiding clashing in the district meetings appeared to have worked very well. Discussions had taken place on the instruction scheme and some ideas had been formulated, 'but nothing really concrete could be reported.

The hon. treasurer, Mr. F. Ainsley, presented the eash statement. This showed that the overall balance had declined from $£ 1175 \mathrm{~s}$. to $£ 7717 \mathrm{~s}$. 2d., with the figure for the general fund falling from $£ 968 \mathrm{~s}$. 9 d . to $£ 5610 \mathrm{~s}$. 5 d . The decline was largely expzeted and was accounted for by the production of the handbook costing £37 10s., but a reprint should not be necessary for about five years. Other expenditure remained much the same but income from subscriptions and arrears was rather lower than in the previous year.
The editorial secretary. Mr. J. Brewster, presented the peal report. A very detailed analysis showed that 40 peals had been rung during the year in 25 towers. These included the first peals for the Association in 21 Surprise Minor methods, four Spliced Surprise Major with all the work for each bell, and Cornwall Surprise Major. The highest individual total was $F$. $G$. Bloomfield 19. followed by K. Lawson and R. G. Leale 18, and J. A. Ainsworth and D. A. Bayles 17. The principal conductors were D. A. Bayles 13. R. Park 7, J. A. Ainsworth 5 and K. Arthur 4.

Mr. K. Arthur was unanimously elected president to succeed Mr. R. A. Gofton, who was deharred by rule from secking re-election. The other officers were re-elected en bloc and the complete list for 1956-57 therefore reads as follows: President, K. Arthur, general secretary, D. A. Bayles; treasurer, F. Ainsley; editorial secretary. J. Brewster; hon. auditor, J. F. Bird: Central Council representatives, F. Ainsley and W. N. Park; peal referees, W. J. Davidson. J. E. R. Keen, R. Park and W. N. Park.

The District officers show changes in vicepresidents with the list now reading: Northern vice-president, J. A. Ainsworth; secretary, G. S. Deas; Southern, T. Cooke and E. P. Rock: Eastern, C. N. Lea and W. F. Sheraton; West ern, S. Thompson and C. T. Lamb.

Votes of thanks were passed to all who had assisted with the meeting and the service-the Provost and Chapter of Newcastle Cathedral, the Rev. J. R. H. Prophet, and other incumbents for the use of their bells, and Mr. J. L Keen, who had acted as organist.

The committee had arranged the meetings for the coming year as follows: J. W. Parker commemoration. Sunderland, March 16th; halfyearly meeting, Gosforth. May 18th: annual meeting. West Hartlepool, September 28th. The possibilities of a social gathering about Christmas time and a special meeting for the 80th anniversary were to be left for the secretary to investigate.
Two clerical and nine ringing members were elected-the Rev. C. Smith, N. Errington and K. Graham (Consett), R. Haigh (Chester-le-Street), the Rev. R. Race, Misses J. Ramsey and P. Brabbon, and S. Walker and T. Welsh (Tanfield), J. Scott, jun. (North Shields) and Miss M. S. Capey (Whitley Bay), formerly a non-resident life member.

In other business Mr. C. McGuiness moved that the collection for Bow Bells be made up to $£ 4$ from the Bell Restoration Fund, and that was carried. He also spoke of the serious illness of Mr. J. Anderson, a past president, and it was agreed that the good wishes of the meet-ing should be sent, wishing him a speedy recovery.
After the meeting the bells of Newcastle Cathedral. St. John's and St. Mary's, Gateshead, were available for further ringing.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Thirty ringers, including visitors from Frome. Chippenham and Salisbury, attended the Devizes Branch meeting at Warminster on November 3rd. It was good to see Mr. E. Marlow taking an active part in the ringing despite his 80 years. The new Vicar conducted the service and gave the Branch a warm welcome. Several new members were elected at the business meeting, and the ringing ranged from rounds to Yorkshire Surprise.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

There was a large attendance at the quarterty meeting of the Wellingborough Branch. held at Wilby on October 20th. For the Guild service the choir was supported by several male visitors. The Rector (the Rev. H. D. Pitchford) conducted the service and gave the address. The collection for the Guild Bell Restoration Fund amounted to $£ 3$ Is. 10 d .

Tea was served by Mrs. Pitchford and other workers to a company of 85 . At the business meeting the Branch chairman (the Rev. W. C Knight) presided. and three new ringing members were elected-Dianne Croxon and Janet Drage, of Wilby, and Timothy Wooding, of Yardley Hastings. The annual Branch meeting will be held at Finedon on the third Saturday in January.

BISHOP CHARLES-EDWARDS' MESSAGE TO WORCESTER DIOCESE

WORCESTERSHIRE'S historic Guildhall is one of the finest Queen Anne buildings in the country. It was planned by a Worcester man, Thomas White (a pupil of Wren), and restored by Sir Gilbert Scott. Its noble assembly room was the scene of the annual dinner of the Worcestershire and Districts Association on November 3rd. Under the magnificent ceiling illuminated by huge chandeliers, and gazed upon by the worthies of Worcester, whose portraits cover the walls, a company of 171 had assembed.
The Association's president (the Dean of Worcester) was prevented from taking the chair by ill health. and the Master (Mr. W. B. Cartwright) deputised for him. He was supported by the Rev. L. J. Birch (chaplain) and Mrs. Birch, the Rev. A. Webb (clerical vice-president), the Rev. H. L. Davies, Mr. J. R. Newman (lay vice-president) and Mrs. Newman, Mr. J. D. Johnson (general secretary) and Mrs. Johnson, and Mrs. Cartwright.
The Master welcomed the patron, the Lord Bishop of Worcester, and Mrs. Charles-Edwards on their first occasion of dining with the Association, and Bishop and Mrs. Stuart, and other guests.

An excellent dinner was followed by the loyal toast, after which the traditional toast, "Church and State,' was proposed by Mr. D. J. Marshall (Gloucester and Bristol Association). He said that it was often remarked that ringing was a dying art, but pointed out that the Exercise had improved steadily over the last 200 years and had an illustrious history. Ringing was an important part of the Church's worship, and we could be grateful that successive governments had been pleased to permit its continuance.

THE LITTLE CHURCH ON LUDGATE HILL

The Lord Bishop replied, saying that he had no doubt over both the Church's and the State's debt to ringers. He personally wished to thank them for their work in the towers of his diocese and the adjoining districts. He added that he was a non-ringing member of the Cumberland Youths, who had their headquarters in his last parish. They were the rivals of another company of Youths who had their headquarters in a little church at the top of Ludgate Hill. As membership of the one excluded him from the other, he appreciated the remark of the young lady who observed that the Ludgate Hill men did not attract women!
He continued by saying that many of our poets had commented on bells. Tennyson describing them as ' wild bells,' but this was on a wild night. Housman on Bredon was first charmed by them, but when his life was marred by an unhappy love affair said: ' Noisy bells, be dumb.' His Lordship preferred Thomas Hood's - Dear bells! how sweet the sound of village bells.
In their use of them as signals, the State was especially indebted to bells and ringers. The Bishop recalled that in the 1914 war he and some friends had gone to ring the angelus for the vicar of a Surrey parish. Between them they made something of a clatter. which (unknown to them) was an invasion signal, and the local defence force turned out ready for action!
When the government imposed the ban in 1940 the Bishop and his North Shropshire ringers thought they ought rather to be rung in defiance. They told a member of the government of their hope, and liked to think that part of the credit for the restaration of ringing was due to them. In some places church bells were the fire alarm, and if there were not so many church bells and clocks the State would be obliged to provide public clocks; our towers provided the time free for the State.

The Church's debt to ringers was immense, even though there were those who admired the sound of the bells with their call to worshipwhile walking in the opposite direction. Bells were a reminder of the one, true and living God by their repeated invitation to serve Him, and by their marking of every occasion of joy or sorrow. When the bell rings for Holy Communion it is a reminder to the silk and suffering of the Church's prayers for them and of Christ's offering for them.
In so many and varied ways the bells were a link between community and parish church, and it was a source of gratitude to the Bishop that he had had bells and ringers in his four parishes. In the Trent valley, which is noted for fogs, the sound of Newark bells on a practice night had caused a traveller to change direction and saved him from possible drowning in the Trent. In gratitude he left a sum of money to have the bells rung in the fog months of October and November. Modern street lighting had made a similar danger unlikely, but the bells still rang, now as a reminder of the Christian's journey through life to God.

INEXPERT JANGLING A DISTRESS

The Bishop hoped that parish priests and church councils supported their ringers; they were an important element in parish life, and non-worshipping ringers might be encouraged if the P.C.C. itself obeyed the summons to worship. He wished young ringers to be encouraged and experts to help learners to achieve high standards. Good ringing was lovely, but inexpert jangling was distressing to the listener He thought that experienced members of the Association might foster ringing in the 'silent towers, too. In the new churches the Bishop hoped that no recorded bells would boom across the countryside, saying that one good bell was infinitely preferable to 'canned' music.

Amid great applause the Bishop sat down, after thanking the Association for inviting him and Mrs. Charles-Edwards to dine with them.
'The Worcestershire Association' toast was proposed by Mr. A. V. Davis (Winchester and Portsmouth) who, in posing the question, What is the use of an Association?, said that changeringing in Britain still demanded 'a good tower captain, a friendly and helpful band, goodwill and "patience.' (Quoted from a recent issue of 'The Ringing World.') But it was not an Association's function to teach; cap and gown and a degree in Campanology belonged elsewhere. The Associations ought to foster the mecting of one another in different towers, to encourage ringers to get away from their own locality occasionally, to meet experts and discover their own inabilities.
Mr. Davis agreed with the 'exile' who said there was no other county in the world like Worcestershire-except one, his own. He had to admit that the county had much to offer ringers, cricketers and others. He favoured Associations and was glad that a proposal for a National Ringing Guild had come to nothing. It would be a pity if the Association had descended to the mere status of a district of a national guild. He ended with: ' Long may our Associations, with their friendly rivalry and individuality, survive and prosper.
Miss Bryan replied briefly and humorously for the Association.
Mr. R. W. Cole proposed the health of 'Kindred Associations and Visitors,' remarking on the friendliness and welcoming attitude in other towers and Associations. This was due to their common calling of change-ringing, and probably assisted by the variety of occupations which were to be found among ringers. In any tower a good cross-section of the community would we found working in harmony with one purpose. This was so everywhere, and the presence of visitors from such widespread parts as Bournemouth, Reading, Bristol, Weston-super-Mare, Gloucester, Claverley and Leicester was a demonstrable expression of the friendship which developed from this calling and harmony. He bade them welcome and hoped they might honour the Association with repeated visits.
Mr. Eric Lee (lately of the Sussex Association) replied to the toast on behalf of the visitors, speaking of the great welcome he had reccived since coming to reside in Worcestershire, which confirmed him in his high opinion of the values fostered within bands of the devotees of the art.
During the afternoon the Cathedral ring of 12 and All Saints' ring of ten were available, and various touches were rung by members and visitors. After the dinner there was an excellent musical programme, ably compered by Mr. D. Beacham. The Leigh and Stourbridge bands played tunes on 24 handbells; Miss Pat Lewis sang beautifully, as did the Beoley Male Voice Quartet. Mr. Percy Sanger entertained the company and members of the Association rang a course of Stedman Cinques 'in hand': Valerie Willard 1-2, J. D. Johnson 3-4, Mrs. J. Thomas 5-6, J. Thomas 7-8, D. J. Marshall 9-10, Vivien Barnes 11-12
The secretary announced that the Guildhall had been booked for Saturday, October 5th, 1957.

> Organist and Ringer for 50 Years
> A record of which he may justly feel proud is held by Mr. Walter J. Copp. of Timberscombe, Somerset. For over 50 years he has combined the duties of or ganist, choirmaster and ringer at the church of the neighbouring village of Wootton Courtenay, which has entailed a journey of two miles on his bicycle.

> A plaque was recently fixed over the organ keyboard to record this fine achievement, subscribed for by the parishioners and, as recorded elsewhere in these columns, a peal of Plain Bob Minor (Walt's first) was rung in his honour by local members of the Association.

> May he long continue his useful service is the sincere wish of his many friends.

HARLINGTON'S LEG OF PORK SUPPER

The traditional leg of pork supper for Harlington ringers was held at the Red Leaf Restaurant. Hayes, on November 5th, the ringers having fulfilled their obligations by ringing at 6.45 a.m. and 7 p.m

The Rector (the Rev. A. T. Morgan) presided at the supper over a company of 22 visitors, including Mr . Wm. Coles, now recovering from his accident, Mr. Finch and Mr. Frank Price. The visitors provided the entertainment: West country songs from Mr. Coles, and piano playing in which he tapped Cinques from Mr. Price.
Mr. L. Grice, captain, in his annual report said he was quite pleased with the progress during the year, and they had not missed a Sunday's service ringing. Their ability was not what was rung but how it was rung. While the band were mostly young ringers. they had one who had completed 50 years in the tower-Mr. C. Portsmouth, the churchwarden.

OBITUARY

MR. F. J. DODSON
The Guildford Diocesan Guild have suffered a grievous loss by the untimely death at the age of 47 of Mr. Fisher James Dodson, Ringing Master of the Chertsey District. He spent all his life in Hersham, and learnt to ring at St. Peter's Church at the end of 1923 . For many years be served his church quietly, and it was not until after the war that his real worth became known.

In 1952 Mr. Dodson was elected District Ringing Master, an office he held until his death. He rang in nearly 50 peals, ranging from Doubles to Yorkshire Surprise Major, nearly all of them in the last five years. His ambition to ring a peal of Stedman Triples was never realised, though he stood in about 20 attempts.

He graced his office with a personal charm, unfailing good humour and patience, and a very conscious sense of vocation. He was always ready to argue very strongly that ringing is essentially a church matter, and that all ringing, whether peals, meetings or practices, all serve to improve service ringing. Jim was particularly popular among the many young members of his district, and his visits to the various towers in the neighbourhood always drew the best from learners

His last appearance at a district meeting was at East Molesey on September 15th, after a long spell in hospital.
He leaves a widow and one daughter (Judy), to whom his many friends extend sincere sympathy.

MR. E. J. TAYLOR AN APPRECIATION

I would like to add my small voice to the many who will pay tribute to the memory of Mr. E. J. Taylor, late beloved general secretary of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers.

Over the past six years I had worked with him as Branch secretary to his general secretary, and he was always ready with advice and helpful suggestions. An excellent ringer and striker in all methods, he was very good company with his tales and anecdotes of his previous travels in ringing circles before settling at Tiverton. He was a tireless worker for the cause of changeringing in a county where 'call-changes' predominate. Altogether a truly grand chap!

I visited him often at the hospital at Exeter, and was made to feel very humble at his amazing patience and cheerfulness in the face of what must have been to him extreme frustration, to say the least.
If it can be said at all of any man, that he is irreplaseable, that man is 'E.J.' May he rest in peace. He will be remembered as long as the Devon Guild lasts.

FREDERICK WREFORD,
Hon. Secretary, Exeter Branch.
Members of Bath Abbey company stood in silence when they met on November 4th in memory of Mr. Ernest James Taylor, of Tiverion, who was a former member of the band. During Mr. Taylor's residence in Bath he was of great help to the ringers, and was greatly missed when he left.
A touch of 593 Grandsire Caters was rung by Mrs. D. Evans 1. Miss N. G. Williams 2, W. J. Prescott 3, G. Hawkins (cond.) 4, H. D. Taylor 5, W. Hurford 6, R. Stubbs 7, T. Jones 8. M. Helps 9. E. Naylor and H. Merrett 10. Miss S. M. Silcox took part in other ringing.

MR. FREDERICK S. PRICE

We 1 egret to announce the death of Mr . Frederick Stanlcy Price, aged 83, at Beeston, Notts.

MR. HARRY PALMER

The death took place on October 30th at Skirbeck, Boston, Lincolnshire, of Mr. Harry Palmer, aged 93. He started ringing at St. Nicholas', Skirbeck, at the age of 15 and continued to ring until the bells were stated to be unsafe. Then he took over the heating of the church and tolling the service bell until the age of 90 . He also introduced change-ringing in the tower.
An engineer by trade, he went to Rustons, of Lincoln, to finish his training, and there rang at St. Peter at Gowts. His last peal was rung in 1925. Both his sons were ringers. He is survived by one son and three daughters. The funeral was on November 2nd, interment being near the church he so faithfully served.

MR. WILLLAM L. WHISTON

Although not known to a very wide circle of ringers outside the Midlands, the comparatively sudden death of Mr. William Leslie Whiston (at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital, Birmingham), at the early age of 46 , came as a shock to many of his friends.
Mr. Whiston was a member of Aston Parochial Church Council in 1935, and joined the few 'old hands' in response to a pulpit appeal by the then Vicar, Rev. H. McGowan, for recruits to ring the new ring of 12 . He proved a very apt pupil and rang his first peal on May 12th, 1937 -Grandsire Cinques, in honour of the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. His last peal was Stedman Cinques by the Sunday band in June, 1939. Following two operations, Mr. Whiston was advised to give up ringing, but he continued as honorary secretary and treasurer for some years. He leaves a widow, one son and one daughter, for whom much sympathy is felt.

CHURCHMANSHIP AND BELLRINGING

THE two things should go together, and generally in the villages and small market towns in the West Country they do. It is unusual to find that a ringer has no other office in his church, be it only a place on the Electoral Roll. Among the ranks of ringers are Churchwardens, Servers, Members of the Choir and Sidesmen. It is not uncommon to find that ringers spend at least four hours in church on Sundays in doing service and taking part in worship. That is probably because the Church forms a real part of village life, that there were schools where children were taught to know and love the Prayer Book, and Church and School were connected in the happiest way, so that recruitment to the band of ringers is not haphazard and only practising Church men and women find their way into the belfry, and rarely does a little girl have to enquire of her mother, as one once did, "Mummy, who are those men who come out of the little hole in the wall on Sundays?"

There is evidence, too, that the seasons of the Church are more closely observed by ringers. Footnotes to accounts of peals rarely are of the type, "Rung on the occasion of the 21st birthday of the 14th daughter of the ringer of the 11th." More often do we find that bells are rung on the Patronal Festivals of the Church. In Somerset, it is an unwritten rule that no peals shall be attempted in Lent. The bells are rung on the Sundays as they should be and for necessary practice. Peals are rung generally for pleasure or to gratify some personal ambition, so that to abstain from peal attempts in Lent is a very good thing to mark one's Churchmanship in this way, so that the joyous bells of Eastertide are the more heeded. In Holy Week, the bells are in the main silent, although there are differences of opinion regarding this. Some maintain that the last day of Lent is Holy Saturday, and that the bells should go to sleep during Holy Week, and only wake up on Easter Sunday morning. Others claim that the day is Easter Eve, after a long period of preparation, and are inclined to anticipate the Festival. Ringers and clergy have their own minds to make up about this. If they do this, and really think about the matter, there is no doubt that they will arrive at the right conclusion.

There is another side to the picture. Many ringers, usually first-class ones, ring at two and perhaps three different churches on Sundays. They feel that they have done their duty, especially if, as usual, their ringing is practically faultess. To get perfection, or to aim at it in service, is a laudable aim, but unless this service is coupled with worship, all the rhythm and beauty of the ringing is worthless in the true sense. To ring bells with a lordly air of condescension on Sundays and then to go away in search of other attractions is the very antithesis of Churchmanship.

When ropes need renewal, and bells require skilled attention, there is ready and willing co-operation from the Parochial Church Council in the effort to raise money where the ringers are Churchmen first and ringers second. There would be fewer unrung bells in derelict frames if the ringers of them had been more closely connected with the spiritual life of their parishes. Since the XVIIIth century the standard of ringing has advanced far. Would that the standard of Churchmanship had advanced commensurately among ringers. With the approach of Advent, is it not a suitable time to give these things our thoughts?
J. T. D.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Kent Branch

At their meeting at Sittingbourne on November 3rd, the Kent Branch of the Ladies' Guild were honoured by the presence of the new president of the Ladies' Guild, Mrs. Lock. There was a good attendance and the ladies received abundant support from the gentlemen. It was refreshing and pleasing to see so many young people taking part in ringing enthusiastically.
The gentlemen served tea and did the washing up afterwards while the business was taking place. Three ringing members and one honorary member were elected, and Mrs. Lack spoke of the meeting at Worcester. The vote of thanks was to the Vicar, the organist, and all responsible for the tea, which everyone enjoyed. It was decided that the next meeting should be held at Sevenoaks.
P. J. B.

SUDBURY DISTRICT SUPPER

The Sudbury District of the Suffolk Guild held a supper and social at Lavenham on Oct. 27th. Ringing took place previously at Lavenham Church, and a quarter peal was rung at Cavendish during the afternoon. There was also an unsuccessful peal attempt at Preston.
Speeches were restricted to one from the Master, Mr. S. J. Twitchett, who welcomed everyone, especially the many visitors from towers outside the district ; and later, a vote of thanks from the secretary, Miss R. J. Seabrook, to the ladies (mainly the wives of the Lavenham ringers) who had prepared and served the excellent supper, to the Rector and other helpers, and to the Lavenham ringers.
Entertainment included songs and violin solos by local artistes, four-in-hand tune ringing by Mr. Stedman Symonds and his band, games, dancing and community singing.

Fifty Years Ago at Lichfield Cathedral

The first peal of Royal on the bells of Lichfield Cathedral was rung on November 24th, 1906, in 3 hours and 20 minutes for the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham and the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford. It was a peal of 5,000 Kent T.B. Royal to a composition by John Carter, conducted by Albert Walker.

The ringers were: Thomas H. Reeves (first of Royal) treble, Albert Walker 2, Charles Dicken 3, John Neal 4, Horace F. Street 5, A. Paddon Smith 6, Samuel Grove 7. Frederick J. Cope (first of Royal) 8, James E. Groves 9, Arthur E. Pegler, tenor.

A LINK WITH THE U.S.A.

The quarter peal at St. Mary's, Harrow, Middlesex, on November 10th, was rung to honour the wedding of Miss Joan Swetnam to Mr. Moody, which took place at Washington, D.C., U.S.A., the ringing being time to synchronise with the ceremony taking place across the Atlantic.
Although a non-ringer, Miss Swetnam, who took up a nursing post in Washington about two years ago, is an old friend of the local ringers, who wish her every happiness in her future life. They also wish to extend their cordial thanks to Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hart, of All Saints,' Harrow Weald, and to Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, of St. John the Baptist, Hillingdon, who made up the band at short notice and without whom the ringing could not have taken place. C.E.S.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

At Great Amwell

Into the tiny belfry at Great Amwell Church some 30 Eastern District members and others squeezed for ringing on November 10th.

The pleasant ring of six bells was enjoyed by all and full use was made of it by visitors and the steadily progressing resident band.
After a service and tea, the business meeting was held, at which the Rector presided. A number of new ringing members were elected and the District secretary read a letter from Mr. G. Blake regarding a future joint meeting with his N.W. Essex District. It was agreed to accept this invitation to a joint meeting at Bishop's Stortford on December 8th.
After the meeting ringing recommenced, and methods rung included Cambridge Surprise and Spliced Oxford and Kent Treble Bob.
Thanks are due to Mr. F. Cooke, Ringing Master, and all others at Great Amwell who made this meeting possible, and, more important, successful.
C. E. H.

At Codicote

The Northern District met at Codicote on October 27th. A successful meeting was held in spite of poor weather, and the ringing was good. Members were reminded of the annual District meeting at Hitchin in January, when the president is to be elected; the next ordinary meeting was fixed for Stevenage on November 24th.

Four one-armed ringers rang in a quarter peal of Plain Bob Royal at Newbury, Berks, on November 4th. Messrs. J. W. Faithfull 1, H Balaam 2, G. Pullinger 3, each lost an arm in the 1914-18 war and R. W. Rex 4 in a recent accident. Others in the band were Miss $P$. Gaunt 5, E. Murphy 6, G. Wiggins 7, H. Lawrenceson 8, P. A. Reed 9, H. P. Reed (cond.) 10. Probably this is the first time there has been such a quarter peal.
Dr. W. J. Neal Smith, of 93, Cole Park Road, Twickenham, Middlesex, would be grateful if any ringer has a copy of "The Ringing World" for July 2nd, 1948 (No. 1,943) to spare.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Aston Parish Church on November 10th was Dr. R. E. Price's 100th tower for a peal. These have been rung in 24 counties.
The ringer of the third in the peal at Farnworth on October 13th (see page 722) was Alan Sharples and not Philip Hudson. Our correspondent sends his' apologies.
We are pleased to learn that the Hitchin, Herts, band have been re-formed and are getting on quite well. They would welcome visitors on practice nights and Sundays.
Correction.-The peal rung at St. Ebbe's, Oxford, on October 25 th (see page 722) was Double Oxford Bob Major and not Double Norwich Court Bob Major as printed.

Mr. B. W. Willgress, of Acle, Norfolk, now with the R.A.F. at Henlow, Beds, wishes to thank and send kind regards to all North Somerset ringers for their kindness to him during his nine months' stay at Locking.
Mr. A. W. Searle, a vice-president and the oldest member of the Guild of Devonshire ringers, was prevented by chronic arthritis from attending the funeral of Mr. E. J. Taylor at Tiverton.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. Ernest Morris has returned from his first visit to Wales where he lectured to the Creuddyn Society at Llandudno on 'Bells of All Nations.' His talk was featured in 'The North Wales Weekly News.' In Holy Trinity belfry. Llandudno, he had the pleasure of meeting on October 24th many North Wales ringers. 'They did me grand,' writes Ernest.
Ringing has been stopped for the time being at Pirton, Herts, where the tower is being repaired.
The August issue of 'The Musical Times, contained an article entitled 'Bells,' written by Mr. Trevor Holloway, dealing with the origin of bells, a brief history, the method of casting and a brief explanation of change-ringing.

Peals for the enthronement of the Rt. Rev. Kenneth Riches, formerly Bishop of Dorchester, as Bishop of Lincoln. were rung at Dorchester Abbey (Lincolnshire Surprise) and at Lincoln Cathedral (Stedman Cinques).
Waddesdon, Bucks, where the first peal has been rung since 1902, has a ring of six steel bells. The bells were rehung about 1951 by R White and Son, of Appleton. The 'go' is reported as excellent, and the tone compares not unfavourably with orthodox bells.
For veterans among Sunday service ringers Streatham is particularly fortunate with $F$. Sinkins (92), R. Sanders (82), J. Hawkins (77) and J. Chapman (72). F. Sinkins and J. Hawkins have been 'good companions' in quarter peals since their first together 58 years ago.

David Vincent (Dee 'Cee' Vec), of 6, Stanway Drive. Hale. Cheshire, is being installed Master of his Lodge at the Masonic Hall, Sale. near Manchester, on Saturday, December 8th. in the afternoon. A welcome is extended to ringing brethren. An early reply will be helpful and appreciated. Tel. Altrincham 2333.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY DINES WITH KENT RINGERS

THE FELLOWSHIP OF THE BELFRY

$\mathrm{A}^{\mathrm{T}}$ last the great day, October 27th, arrived, and in full October splendour the ringers of Kent converged on the ancient city of Rochester, During the afternoon the bells of St. Mary's, Chatham, rang out merrily, to be followed after tea by the stately music of the Cathedral bells. By 6.30 p.m. a large company, including the Dean, had forgathered in the Cathedral. Came the message: The Archbishop's car is here,' and in a moment their president. His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, was being welcomed. Introductions over-and how friendly they were-all crossed from the precincts to the Corn Exchange, where everyone was introduced to the Archbishop before taking their place at table.

It was a large company of over 160 . Seating was according to district, and several ' family ${ }^{\text {' }}$ parties included a coachload from the Ashford district and three large groups from the Lewisham district. The Archbishop presided, supported at the high table by vice-presidents John Willis and G. H. Spice (on either side), the Bishop of Rochester and Mrs. Chavasse, the Dean of Rochester and Mrs. Crick, Mrs. F. M. Mitchell, our special guest, and her son Mr. F. A. Mitchell, Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher. Mr. and Mrs. B. W. May, Mr. M. S. Lancefield, Miss D. E. Colgate, Mr. and Mrs. E. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett and Miss Jean Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Luck, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Waters and Mr. D. Chatfield
Before saying grace, the Archbishop was presented with an Association badge to wear as a sign of office. After a splendid meal, His Grace proposed the health of Her Majesty the Queen. So began a full and varied and quickly-passing three hours, with greetings by telegram from the Leicester Diocesan Guild, who were also at dinner.
A beautifully-struck course of Grandsire Caters on handbells preceded the speeches and delighted everybody, especially the distinguished president and guests. The ringers were Mr. and Mrs. W. Dobbic, E. J. Ladd, T. E. Sone and A. Waddington.
The toast of 'The Church ' was proposed by Mr. Geoffrey Waters (Ashford District), who said thai while their churches faced many difficulties today there was a spiritual awakening small groups working together for the extension of Christ's Kingdom. One focus was Lee Abbey, in Devon, where thousands of Christian folk had experienced not only a wonderful holiday but wonderful fellowship 100. a fellowship which could be found in the great bond between ringers.

THE ANGELS OF THE BELLS

In response, the Lord Bishop of Rochester (Dr. Christopher Chavasse) recalled his chairmanship of the Archbishops' Commission on Evangelism which had produced the report 'Towards the Conversion of England,' in which was secommended the need for modern advertising methods. By its bells the Church had always advertised the Gospel of Christ, and it was difficult to dissociate church and bells, bells making a deeper impression on people's minds and souls than is often realised.

The Bishop continued: 'I think not so much of the bells but of the angels of the bells; and for such angel voices you must have persons; syathetic bells will not do. Likewise the Gospel can never be a synthetic thing either, but has to be proclaimed by human messengers. So church and bells together speak to many hearts, and the Church was never more on tiptoe than at the present time.'

This enthusiasm.' said the Bishop. 'was reflected too in the activities of you ringers, in the highly organised life of your Association, as evidenced in your printed report and in your craftsmanship, which is also expressed in the beauti-fully-printed menu card-not the product of a commercial house but the work of one of your members, Mr. Waddington, of Egerton, who is a teacher by profession and a printer at home. Will you ring on,' concluded Dr. Chavasse, 'encouraging us all, sounding the alarm and the summons to go forward.

Mr. F. M. MITCHELL'S SERVICES

There was a touch of sadness when Mr. G. H. Spice (Rochester District) rose to introduce the intended special guests in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Mitchell, for Mr. Mitchell was not well enough to be present. The previous week Mr. Mitchell had reached his 78 th birthday and only a few months back was compelled to hand over the teins of the office of treasurer. Mr. Spice recalled the opening words of one of Mr . Mitchell's reports: 'Time marches on,' familiar but very true. Fred, as he was known to rather older ringers, became a district representative soon after joining the Association, and later took over the duties as secretary for the Rochester District. Time marched on with Fred's zeal and interest becoming still keener, so much so that when Canon Helmore gave up the office of general secretary the man unanimously elected to take over was Mr. Mitchell. These dutics he discharged with distinction for 17 years, duties which since the war have been shared out by the creation of the offices of treasurer and peal secretary. Mr. Mitchell had also held the coveted office of Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths.
Mrs. Mitchell, too, had also been an acquisition to the Association, not only by the tremendous amount of work in the back room assisting Mr. Mitchell, but also helping others in the ringing chamber, particularly the ladies and younger ringers. She was now a most active vice-president of the Ladies' Guild.
Milton-next-Gravesend had been their church and tower for very many years, and Mr. Spice asked the Archbishop to present to Mrs. Mitchell a framed and inscribed photograph of their parish church. the words of the inscription being:

Presented to Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Mitchell by the members of the Kent County Association of Change Ringers in token of their affection, 27th October, 1956.'
Mrs. Mitchell. deeply touched, spoke quiet words of appreciation for both Mr. Mitchell and herself.

The Archbishop, in proposing the toast of The Kent County Association,' prefaced his remarks with a reference to the 'unruly ' Bishop of Rochester, who had said almost all there was to say about bells and ringers. He had come, His Grace went on, not only because he was president but, as the dinner was in Rochester, to keep the flag of Canterbury flying. The last badge he had been presented with was in September at the Trades Unions ${ }^{\circ}$ Congress.

PEACEFUL CONCENTRATION OF RINGING

His Grace continued: 'I count ringers and ringing as among those things which have so often excited my imagination and stirred my heart. My earliest longing was to be an engine driver, but now it is too late, not because I am too old but because diesels are ousting the steam locomotives-and who wants to drive a diesel! My next longing was to be a bank clerk, because in my youth 1 remember one shovelling golden sovereigns. Alas, there are no more sovereigns and so I am now too late for that. With ringing, I watch and admire without a notion of how you do it. I read your report until page 53 , when a lot of hieroglyphics reminded me of the football pools (which come delivered to Mr. Fisher at the Old Palace, Canterbury). This I do know, that for entirely peaceful concentration and gift of anticipation watch a belìringer.'

The Archbishop voiced a prayer for bell-ringers-that they have a vicar who is interested and sees to it that his ringers do their job well. 'I like bellringers myself,' he said, '-though not everybody does-and have always lived near bells, in village, at Repton, and now at Lambeth. I $\varepsilon$ lways want to get up into the belfry and do so if not snatched off by a thoughtless vicar. The fellowship of the belfry means a lot to me; a sense of tremendous keenness, and a lovely thing, with some there very old, some very young, and a few intermediate as well!

In Australia and New Zealand, where folk travel many hundreds of miles to see a live Archbishop, two impressions strike one forcibly one, the absence of choirboys-who are a confounded nuisance but who justify themselves in spite of it all-and the absence of towers and rings of bells. Home is with our singing and our ringing, lovely things of England. For ringing is a peculiarly English art, with all the glories of England about it: honest, straight. rather assertive, with all the quiet skill which goes with everything English; a part of the great tradition of the parish church, with the choir at one end and the bells at the other, each making its own noise.'
The whole company warmed to these words of their president, and Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher (Maidstone District), general secretary of the K.C.A., answered for them in his response to the toast, saying that he would like to forget his own speech and talk about a few of the things the Archbishop had said. One thing he must do was to pay tribute to the efforts of ringers 'down under, to keep what bells they had ringing. In 'The Ringing World' that very week werc published details of a peal rung at St. Stephen's, Bristol, for the St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne. Society by ringers who at one time or other had rung in Melbourne. Australia. 'The Ringing Towers' was the Australian monthly ringers paper, which was read and contributed to by a number of English ringers who appreciate the noble work of their fellows in Australia and New Zealand.

LOOKING FORWARD

Dr. Hatcher recalled that this was only the second time ever that the Association had enjoyed the privilege of sharing the same table with their Archbishop president, the other being in 1930 when the golden jubilee of the Association was celebrated. It was not only a great day for the K.C.A. but for ringers everywhere. Last year they celebrated their 75th birthday and had looked back: this year they were looking forward. There seemed to be two main tasks facing them-the provision of ringers, and the provision of bells for them to ring.

In providing ringers there was first of all recruitment. The attraction of the ringing chamber was a strong as ever, but today they had to compete with many other attractions, with the consequent danger of dissipated interest, a risk which could be best countered by the proper balance between ringing as a joyful pleasure and ringing as a responsibility, duty and service. Then with the decline in church attendance in the present century, and the contracting potential of church-going families, the present position was a challenge to bring young people back into the life of the church, using the ringing chamber as one effective means of doing this.
Recruits had to be trained, and here continued the pre-eminent task of the Association accomplished in a variety of ways. Since the war (Contimued next page)

there had been a rapid development of ringing in the universities, with individual universities linked through the Universities' Association. This movement among the younger generation had now spread to the schools, and they were watching with interest and pleasure the development of school socicties in Kent.

- STANDARDS OF RINGING

For training there must be instructors; and recognising the difficuities of teaching a band from the outside. it was encouraging to see the interchange of help between towers in combined practices. Good instruction there had always been, and bad, but in the past there had been no ready means of comparison, no recognised standards of achievement. The discerning eye was now witnessing the beginnings of a movement which within a few years would establish standards of training and enable the influence of good instruction to spread on a scale not hitherto possible.

The second issue, the provision of bells for ringers to ring. was more than the preservation from decay of existing bells, continued Dr. Hatcher, though this was not unimportant. There was, for instance, the parish church of Maidstonc, the county town, a glorious church with excellent traditions of worship and singing, but a ring of bells quite unworthy, cast when the bellfounders' art was at a low ebb. It was the dear hope of Kent ringers that soon this would be remedied, and when this moment came it was hoped that the Archbishop would bring his influence to bear.

BELLS AND NEW CHURCHES

- But what reveals most forcibly our real attitude to bells is the challenge of the new churches. Are these to have bells? The Diacese of Rochester has an enormous task, and the Bishop is to be commended for the tremendous programme of new church building. Yet there are few signs that towers and bells will eventually come. If all that has been said tonight is true, bells are not a luxury, and in the 20th century we should build to the glory of God. The cost of bells is not particularly low, neither is it particularly high compared with the whole cost.
"So," concluded Dr. Hatcher, " the Association must continue not only to recruit and train ringers but do all in its power to ensure that the bells will always be there for them to ring, in the older parish churches and in the new.

YOUTH'S TRIBUTE

Miss Barbara Brooks (Tonbridge District), speaking for her own generation (as well as the ladics. and the Maidstone Grammar Schools; Socicty). proposed the health of the 50 -year members. which she did most charmingly, saying that younger ringers did not fully realise the difficulties the older members had to face in their early ringing years, and acknowledging the great help they gave to the young ringers of today. The spray of roses presented to Barbara was well deserved.

In response. Mr. E. Barnett (Lewisham District) recalled the debt owed to the founders of the Association, and the great foresight of Sir Arthur Heywood in founding the Central Council and binding all associations and guilds together into one cohesive body. Mr. Barnett also commented on the much happier relations which now existed between clergy and their ringers.

The final toast, "The Fellowship of the Belfry, was proposed by Mr. B. J. Luck (Canterbury District), linking together several distinct thoughts about the fellowship of the belfry. The speaker introduced the Exercise at large and also the kindred societies, especially Kent's neighbours, the Essex Association, the London County, the Middlesex, the Surrey, the Sussex. the East Grinstead Guild, the Hawkhurst and District, and recalling the once active and delightful Romney Marsh Guild. Running through all was the Ladies' Guild-God bless the ladies! Thirdly, "The Ringing World.' spelling Friday, the one day of the week when he let his dinner get cold to see how much the Editor had slashed-truly the main artery of the Exercise. Finally were remembered absent friends, those who were ill, those on National Service, and those who had passed to higher service.
On this note the company rose and sang "Auld Lang Syne,' so bringing to a close a truly wonderful evening. The one regret is that Mr . Mitchell could not be there.

During the evening songs were sung by Cyril Jarrett (accompanied by John Cooper) and there was also tune ringing on handbells by Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Luck and Mr. and Mrs. R. French.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

Monmouth Branch

The Monmouth Branch quarterly meeting was held at Marshfield on November 10th. Although only 40 ringers attended, the gathering proved most enjoyable, and was certainly an encouragement to the young band recently formed at Marshfield by Mr. Donald Clarke. The Master, Mr. J. Alsop, arranged the ringing, and the Vicar, the Rev. R. E. L. Jones, joined in touches of Grandsire.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, who extended a very warm welcome to the Branch. The Rev. Ivor J. Richards, Vicar of Llanarth, read the lesson.

A bountiful tea awaited the members in the Church Hall, prepared by Mrs. R. E. L. Jones and her helpers. The Rev. Ivor J. Richards sincerely thanked these ladies for what he described as 'an old-fashioned ringers' tea.'
The Rev. R. E. L. Jones took the chair for the business meeting, and six new members were clected from Marshfield and one from Peterstone. Caerleon was chosen as the place of the next meeting, with Monmouth as an alternative.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

INSIGNIA OF PROFICIENCY

Dear Sir,-I write to enquire whether any of your readers have evolved any system of marking proficiency in the various stages of learning to ring? I had in mind a small metal bell badge or brooch of good design

One bronze bell might mark the stage of ringing any bell in Rounds: all this will imply that the learner can raise a bell, manage it, good striking, time and lowering.
Two bronze bells might mark the ringing of Bob Doubles and Minimus, Grandsire and Stedman.

Three bronze bells, some further achievement. The gaining of three would qualify a learner for a silver bell.

One gold bell, only for the Masters in the Exercise.

The gaining of the first bronze bell seems to take about six months, and it will act as an encouragement to learners, particularly young people.

If the granting of each award is in the hands of the Ringing Masters of Districts, the possession of such badge could act as a passport to all the towers in the country.

It is with some satisfaction that I can now report that three adults and eight youngsters have reached Rounds and simple changes after seven months, and we have a further five adults starting their initial instruction at Stoke D'Abernon.
No celluloid button, please!-Yours faithfully, NORMAN CHAMPNESS.

St. Mary"s. Stoke D'Abernon, Surrey.

200th ANNIVERSARY OF CASTON BELLS

Dear Sir,-On August 21st we rang a peal at Caston to commemorate what we thought was the 200th anniversary of the hanging of the bells in our tower. Unfortunately, in the absence of churchwardens' accounts, we relied on the date of the treble, 1756 , which was added to the five tack bells that came from West Harling -the tower there was unable to support the weight - and on references in L'Estrange's 'Church Bells of Norfolk.'

However, we are indebted to Mr. Golden, of Norwich, for finding in 'The Norwich Mercury' for March 5th, 1757. a notice from the landlord of the Red Lion at 'Easton, near Walton,' but without doubt 'Caston, near Watton,' to the effect that: "Thursday he 10th inst. is the day appointed to open the peal of six bells.' Further. that ' a dinner will be provided at the Red Lion, where all gentlemen, ringers, and others. that will oblige us with their company, shall met with a hearty welcome.'

Thus although the treble was cast in 1756 and the ring of five removed from West Harling in that year, as the ring at Caston was not opened until March 10th, 1757. it is very probable that the hanging took place in 1757 . I think it is unlikely that there would be a gap of three months between the dates of hanging and opening. Our peal. then was nearly seven months carly.-Yours sincerely,

JOHN S. BARNES.
Caston. Norfolk

FIRST PEAL OF OXFORD TREBLE BOB FOR SALISBURY GUILD

Dear Sir,-A peal of Oxford Treble Bob Minor was rung at Seend. Wilts, on April 9th, 1949, conducted by F. S. Slatford.
Therefore the footnote of the peal of Oxford T.B. Major rung at Devizes on October 27th. 1956. and published on page 708 of "The Ringing World,' should read: 'First peal of Major in the method for the Guild.'-Yours sincerely, W. C. WEST.

Mon. Secretary, Salisbury Diocesan Guild. Melksham, Wilts.

SPLICED ERIN AND STEDMAN TRIPLES

Dear Sir,-Please allow me to congratulate Mr . F. L. Harries and his band on ringing the spliced peal of Frin and Stedman Triples, as this is the first time this composition has been rung.

At the eame time I have a further composition which should appeal to composers and conductors interested in the two methods.

It is in eight equal parts with all 67's at backstroke, and is arranged 126 Erin and 84 Stedman alternately throughout. There are only 208 calls, comparing favourably with Stedman or Erin compositions.

Following are the figures.-Yours faithfully, A. J. PITMAN.

' DESCENDING OCTAVES' AT THE

Dear Sir,- The Times' of November 8th reports that on the occasion of the unveiling of the Smuts statue in Parliament Square the bells of Westminster Abbey were rung in 'descending octaves.'
This possibly explains why the Abbey is closed to all ringers but the chosen few. There is some magical unpatented sounding apparatus installed which enables the bells to be rung in different keys, unless, of course, there are several rings hanging in the tower.

Perhaps one of the trusted keepers of the secret would care to reveal all? - Yours truly,
C. A. BARRON.

Dear Sir,-Referring to a certain well-drawn advertisement which has lately appeared in the papers, has anybody ever seen a bat in a belfry? -Faithfully yours,

HARD FACTS ABOUT THE COLLEGE
Dear Sir,-Although the guiding principles of our work have been stressed, from the outset. as provisional and subject to review with further experience, the invited criticism so far expressed has ignored this and has been neither helpful nor constructive, but has concerned itself with its own imagined objectives of our purpose and with what might be, instead of what is. Against such destructive criticism-stated or impliedmay be viewed some hard facts.

Central Council

Statement or Implication. (a) College in opposition to Council. (b) Acting without prior discussion in Council. (c) Seeking to impose arbitrary standards on the Exercise. (d) Master and monster, etc.

Facts. (a) Article II of the provisional draft constitution of the College reads: "The College will adhere to the accepted Rules and Decisions of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers and loyally support the Council in the guidance of ringing activity. In electing its officers it will give preference, other qualifications being equal, to those who are Council members. The Council's official journal. "The Ringing World," wili be recommended for subscription by all College members, and will be posted with College information and records.' (b) The Council has not hitherto laid it down that no teaching activity may procced without its permission or prior discussion. (c) The College has already declared its opposition to any 'imposition' of the kind suggested, and stressed its function as helping those who wish for help, but that its helpers should attain reasonable qualification. (d) The suggestion of 'monster' is just-monstrous!

Origin of College

$S$. or $I$. Due to an editorial in "Irish Bell News ' written for a 'lark.'

Facts. (a) College first aware of article when sent by its author, the founder and editor of that paper and general secretary of the Irish Association. (b) Text of article and covering: letter confirm author's sincerity. (c) He is now College Representative for Ireland.

Seriousness of Purpose
S. or I. (a) Regarded in one district as a, 'stunt.' (b) 'Nonsense.'
Facts. (a) In the Guild ' covering ' that district both the Master and the Immediate Past Master (now a V-P) have commended the work, the former in an open meeting of the Guild. (b). Those dirccting future activities include 11 members of the Central Council. with five of these as general secretaries of affiliated Associations. (Scarcely ' nonsense'?)

Attempted Ridicule
$S$. or 1 . Governors at 2s. 6d. (For example.)
Fact. NO fec is 'requisite" for governorship. A nominal fce is payable by College members only on registration as members, and is allocated towards defrayment of stationery, etc., costs. (This is typical of a number of untruc statements or implications.)
C.C. Committee for Revision of "Hints "
S. or I. That the College is duplicating this Committee's work.

Facts. (a) The objectives of the College are different and wider. (b) Members of that Committee arc. in fact. among the Governors of the College.

Meeting the Need

That there is real need for this work in ringing training is the more obvious when studied. It is being met by ringers of standing, working together for this end, and is open to all interested. Their hands and minds will finalise the Manual and draft constitution of the College and shape its policy. The practical results of the work of instruction, already promising should be the final criterion of value.

Destructive critics might well turn to the bools of The Acts of the Apostles, v.. 38. 39. Southsea. A. YORK-BRAMBLE.

SECTION XIII. (Lesson 10)

THE EXAMINATIONS ON PART 1.

137. Revision Session. - It will be found helpful to students (and most will wish for this) to arrange for a revision session (or two) before the examination takes place. This is preferably held in the tower where the Course has been conducted, and with a couple of the bells silenced in readiness for use in checks and demonstrations. The Tutor should run through the exercises of Part I (see Appendix I at close of this Part) and indicate the points that will be looked for by the Examiner, i.e., those noted in the text, Article by Article. Questions will be selected by the Examiner from any Article followed by the symbol ' $(Q)$ ', but those followed by ' $(Q T$ )' are for selection for Student-Tutors only. Demonstrations, especially after check for faults, should be given on the bell(s), a student or Student-Tutor assisting where necessary, and students should be encouraged to take tests on a bell, as far as time permits. Typical oral questions should be given, and students may afterwards revise Part I with advantage
(Q T)
138. Tutor's Procedure.-The Tutor will advise the Registrar of the completion of the Course, and of suggested date(s) for fixing the examination, and will return the Course Register (Form 3), duly entered and signed by the Tutor. The Registrar, having arranged for the attendance of the Examiner(s), extracts the enrolment forms (Form 2) originally submitted by the students, and enters on them the particulars from the register as to attendances. He then advises by post each student of the date and place of the examination, at the same time confirming this to the Tutor and forwarding to him the entrance forms. These the Tutor now certifies as to the students' fitness for examination. He hands them to the Examiner on his arrival, having completed arrangements at the tower for the examination. (Alternatively a deputy, or the tower captain, perhaps, does this if the Tutor is unable to attend at the time of the examination.) At the same time two bells will have been silenced in readiness.
139. 'Ringer I'-Practical.-Students are admitted to the ringing chamber one at a time and take this test in three parts: (a) Solo; (b) Duet; (c) Quartet; and must pass in all three. For the solo test each demonstrates the approach and preliminaries as taught, and raises a silenced bell and sets it at back, to get the correct length of rope-end grip. This is to give a fair chance of control at the outset. The bell is then pulled off and set at hand.
To order, the candidate then demonstrates not less than six whole pulls, in the form of the nine-beat rhythm (as in Article 96 - Ex. 28), setting on the call 'Stand!' from the Examiner. Not more than three faults in all (as listed in Appendix II) may be allowed, or the candidate is failed for the whole examination. The next candidate then enters and takes the same test.
For the duet portion, two candidates now take a rope each, and demonstrate not less than three whole pulls of mutual dodging and mutual place-making (Articles 131 and 132) to order from the Examiner of 'Go!' and 'Stand!'. In these tests the candidates must give the Examiner general satisfaction : and while no specific points are awarded, yet without satisfaction, the candidate(s) fail. Candidates lower the bells.

After the duet tests, candidates stand aside and await the entry and testing of two more candidates, when all four join in the quartet test, which is plain hunting. This is taken on four ' open' bells, or if not convenient, on four handbells (singly). If candidates are less than four, the Examiner and other ringers complete. The actual test is the 8 -row plain-set of Minimus (as in Ex. 53, Article 134). The Examiner allows some latitude in the duet and quartet tests, but he must be satisfied that the candidates can, in fact, perform the exercises; although faults, as looked for in the solo tests, would risk a candidate's success. Candidates now leave the ringing chamber, and those who have passed the tests so far are recalled, in turn, for the Oral examination
140. 'Ringer I'-Oral.-For this the candidates enter two at a time and are questioned in turn, as a pair, until each has had ten shortanswer questions, selected as already indicated in Article 137, above. If one candidate cannot satisfactorily answer a question, the other may attempt it. Two points are given for a satisfactory answer but one only for a partly satisfactory answer. A minimum of $70 \%$ marks is required for a pass in the Oral test. Tested candidates stand aside until all others have been called in.
141. Assessment - 'Ringer I.' - Candidates must pass in all parts of the tests as indicated in Articles 139 and 140, and the aggregate attainment determines the 'Class' of the Diploma as follows :-

Practical: (Solo), 3 faults, $70 \%$; 2, $80 \%$; 1. $90 \% ; 0,100 \%$.

Oral: 14 points, $70 \%$; up to 20 points, $100 \%$.
Example: Candidate has 3 faults or $70 \%$, and 18 points or $90 \%$, so aggregate is $80 \%$.

Class: $70 \%$, Third; $80 \%$, Second; $90 \%$ to $100 \%$, First.
So, in this case,* the candidate would get a Diploma, 'Ringing (I) 2nd Class.
142. 'Tutor I'-Practical.-Two 'questions' or tests are given in this part. For each the Examiner selects a solo type of exercise, from the list in Appendix $I$, and acting as pupil, calls upon the Student-Tutor to introduce and explain the exercise in detail. For this, two points are given for a satisfactory result and one for a partly satisfactory result. The 'pupil' is then put through the exercise, and in this he makes three (deliberate) faults, which the candidate must spot and correct. For each of these another point is awarded. So far, five points are given, and the second exercise is gone through in the same way, to yield another five possible points, i.e., ten in all, for the practical part.
143. 'Tutor I'-Oral.-For this the Examiner selects in all ten questions from paragraphs in the Manual, Part I. marked ' $(Q)$ ' or '(Q T),' of which at least five must be from those marked ' (Q T).' Two points are awarded for each satisfactory answer and one point for each partly satisfactory answer, i.e., a possible 20 for the oral part.
144. Assessment- 'Tutor I.'-Preferably, all candidates for this Diploma should have acted as Student-Tutors in a course for Ringers I. ${ }^{\circ}$ and should have been certified by the Tutor of such Course as fit to take the examination; specifically as having the ability to demonstrate, check faults, and maintain control and interest in the work. Alternatively, the Examiner may question the candidate on these points and give any such tests as he may think fit, to satisfy himself in this respect. (Professionally qualified teachers are excused this assessment.) For the rest, the candidate must have secured not less than seven points for the practical and not less than 17 points for the oral part; with the overriding proviso that his aggregate must not be less than 27 points ( $90 \%$ ) to gain the Diploma. A total of 29 or 30 points gains the Diploma' Tutor (I) First Class.'
145. Issue of Diplomas. - Results as to failure or pass can be announced by the Examiner at the conclusion of his tests; but the degree of satisfaction is subject to confirmation by other College authorities; and successful candidates receive their Diplomas thereafter, upon payment of the Registration Fee ( $2 / 6 \mathrm{at}$ present), if not already paid to the Bursar. The Examiner accordingly receives Forms 2 (enrolment and certification) for the class, from the Tutor or representative at the Examination, and certifies these and returns them to the Registrar, in whose office they are filed for reference. From them the Diplomas are inscribed, signed by the President of the College and the Principal, and then issued.

TWO QUARTER PEALS FOR A BAPTISM

The baptism of David Charles, the youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. Neal Smith, of Twickenham, which took place at St. Matthias' Church, Richmond, on November 4th, during Matins, was celebrated by the ringing of two quarter peals at two different churches on the same afternoon.

There are no bells at St. Matthias' (although the church now possesses an enthusiastic band of learners), and by kind permission of the Vicar (Rev. M. M. Barlow. M.A.), the rare privilege of a quarter peal at the Parish Church was granted. There have been only two quarter peals recorded in the last 20 years. This quarter was noteworthy in that it was rung largely by the band of All Hallows'. Twickenham, with the addition of Dr. R. E. Price (Master, the Guild of Medical Ringers), and included the baby's eldest sister and his father (who conducted), and it was at the Parish Church that the baby's paternal grandparents were married and his father was baptised. The quarter peal also gave Miss Elizabeth Brown her first quarter, and was particularly creditable in the way she rang the treble of this difficult ring. It is probably unusual for any ringer to score a first quarter outside his or her own tower, but when the tower is an anti-clockwise one, as is Richmond, of which she had no previous experience. then it is even more worthy of commendation
Immediately afterwards the band went to All Hallows' Church, Twickenham, and with Dr A. J. Muir taking the' place of Mr. D. Hill Brown (captain of All Hallows' ringers), and Miss Jill Barron that of Miss Brown, a second quarter peal (again of Grandsire Triples), again conducted by Dr. Neal Smith. was brought round.
To complete the ringing, the baby's health was. when proposed, received with a course of Plain Bob on handbells.

A Spalding Wedding

Saturday, November 10th, was a very happy occasion for members of the Spalding belfry when two of their members were married by the Vicar, Canon M. H. R. Synge. They were Mr. Maurice Bennett, only son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Bennett, and Miss Marjory Joyce Cooling. only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cooling. Ringing took place before and after the service. A reception was held in the Moose Hall, where 100 guests toasted the happy couple and wished them all success for their future happiness. A short honeymoon was spent in London. A peal of Grandsire Triples was rung to honour the occasion the same evening.

OBITUARY

MR. CHARLES EDWARD BORRETT
One of the leaders of the Norwich Diocesan Association during the first 20 years of the century, working with such men as the Revs. A. G. Blyth, C. L. Kennaway and R. W. Pitt, J. Sancroft Holmes, W. L. Catchpole, C. Mee and J. Motts, Charles Edward Borrett contributed in no small way in the building up and maintenance of the Association. He was a cousin of Frederick Borrett, the most prolific peal-ringer of his day in the diocese.
C. E. Borrett first appears as a member in 1890. His first peal, one on handbells, was in 1892, and the next year he conducted a peal of Bob Major, also on handbells-a composition of his lifelong friend, the late J. Armiger Trollope, who also rang $1-2$. A few months later, on April 26th, 1894, he conducted an 11,200 of Bob Major, which was then the greatest length on handbells and still remains the record for the Association. Mr. Borrett's peal total of 155, 13 of which were on handbells, contains many fine performances from Triples to Maximus, and included a number on the bells of St. Peter's, Mancroft, where he was a service ringer for a quarter of a century. His last was to treble a peal of Cambridge on the back eight at Mancroft on March 15th, 1927. When he retired from business and removed to Sheringham ten years later. he took no further part in practical ringing, but his interest never declined.

It was as an organiser rather than a peal ringer that Mr. Borrett excelled and as a student of history that his great interest lay. In 1898 he succeeded J. A. Trollope as hon. secretary of the Norwich District and five years later was elected secretary of the Association, a position in which he served with distinction until his retirement in 1919. In recognition of his work he iwas elected a vice-president. During these 16 years the work of the secretary had been steadily growing, and the diocese then covering almost the whole of Suffolk, the compilation of the annual report became a formidable task. In 1912 the secretary was able to record 265 peals, to be followed the next year by 291, a total never exceeded in one year by any association. These reports make fascinating reading, and the care which Mr. Borrett took in editing them reflect his very great abilities. From 1902-1919 and from 1923-38 Charles Borrett was a member of the Central Council. During his first long tenure he was a regular attender at its meetings and often made worthwhile contributions to its debates.

Mr. Borrett was greatly interested in the history of ringing and was an authority on the giants of the Norwich Scholars and their exploits. He possessed many details of performances and kept a voluminous scrapbook of ringing matters. One of his interesting compilations was a collection of autographs of the famous ringers of his day. During the war years when his schoolboy friend, J. Armiger Trollope, was editor of this paper and hard pressed to fill its columns, Charles Borrett contributed a number of interesting articles and letters. He was able on many occasions to answer queries of historical interest and it was always a refreshing experience to be in his company.

Charles Edward Borrett died on October 24th, 1956 , in his 82 nd year. A peal was rung to his memory on Mancroft bells on October 30th. We, the present members of the Norwich Diocesan Association, owe a great debt to him and his contemporaries for their great interest and work orer the years to make the Association a virile body and a power for good among the ringers of the diocese. May he rest in peace.

NOLAN GOLDEN.

MR. JOSHUA J. PARTRIDGE

It is with deep regret we report the death of Mr. J. J. Partridge, of Bozcat, Northants, which took place at Northampton General Hospital on November 1st. He was taken ill with a seizure at Podington Aerodrome, where he was employed, and taken to hospital where he passed away without regaining consciousness. He was 58 years of age.

Mr. Partridge was leader of the band of ringers at St. Mary's, Bozeat, which band he formed many years ago. He had rung a number of pcals, ranging from Doubles to Major, and was a member of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, Midland Counties Guild and Bedfordshire Association.

The funcral service, attended by a number of his ringing friends, took place at St. Mary's, Bozeat, on November 5th, followed by cremation at Kettering. So passes another old and esteemed friend, and one who will be greatly missed.
H. W. G.

MR. FREDERICK S. PRICE

Memories of the old Beeston (Notts) band are acutely stirred by the death at the age of 83 of Frederick Stanley Price, who passed peacefully to rest on November 3 rd . Mr. Price was born at Hampton-in-Arden, Warwickshire, but at a very early age moved to Beeston. His mother was a member of the Bragg family, of Solihull, and she founded in Beeston a clan that has grown to a great size. Frederick, together with his brothers and sisters, was from the first closely associated with the Church, in which he served in minor offices, sang in the choir as boy and man, and made his offering of Sunday ringing from the beginning of this century, and earlier.
Under the leadership, first of Reuben Clifford, James Hutchby, and then the gifted Albert Coppock, the Beeston band gradually advanced its skill until, in 1914, it reached the Surprise stage. The war held up progress, but by 1919 a fresh attack was being made, and after considerable disappointment the first peal of Cambridge by the local band was brought round. The assault on London then began, but three years of patient toil and frequent frustration had to pass before success came. Those were the days of the Cliffords, father and son, the good-natured Alfred Moss, the whimsical Arthur Lowe with his store of quaint philosophy, the courtly Charles Dicken, the powerful, loose-built Percy Price, one of the best heavy-bell men in the Midlands, and Fred himself, with his indomitable courage and his infectious cheerfulness.

He was indeed a remarkable man, of versatile powers and flexible outlook. He was a notable footballer, a clever cricketer behind the stumps, an excellent exponent of all card games (having a prodigious memory) and a formidable opponent at bowls. There were few social activities that he did not touch, and as an active member and trustee of his Friendly Society he helped to found the Beeston Manchester Unity Club.

With all this there was running through his life a deeply religious thread that bound together all his being, and in his convictions he was outspoken and disarmingly sincere. His thoroughly unselfish outlook set him tar apart from any self-seeking, and his whole life seemed to be devoted to acts of kindness and to thought for other people.

Bell ringing was his chief love, and in this art he showed considerable skill. He was an exceedingly safe change-ringer and a first-rate striker, and he had an aptitude for learning methods. He rang just over 100 peals in all the standard methods up to London Surprise, and the writer had the privilege of ringing in his last peal, Stedman Triples, at Radcliffe-on-Trent in April, 1953, conducted by the late Clement Glenn
The funeral service at Beeston Church on November 6th was attended by a large congregation, and handbells were rung by the Beeston ringers.

So passes one who has been to all who knew him an example of godly life, a cheerful liver and a lusty Christian, one whose constant prayer must have been: 'Teach us, good Lord, to serve Thee as Thou deservest, to give and not to count the cost. . . to labour and to ask for no reward save that of knowing that we do Thy will.'

AFTERNOON OF COMPETITION RINGING

ASHBURTON was once a place of great consequence: a borough sending two members to Parliament, a stannary town for the tin industry, and a great place for the making of cloth. From the days of its greatness it inherits some pleasant houses, a complete mediaval Corporation led by a portreeve, and consisting of people with the weighty titles of pig-drovers, bread-weighers, ale-tasters (they still do, too) and viewers of the watercourses, and a fine parish church with one of the best towers in Devon, an excellent eight by Taylor, and some shocking death-watch beetle in the roof. So Ashburton was an excellent place for the Eightbell Competition of the South Devon Ringers' Association for 1956.

It was a pity that more ringers didn't seem to agree, for only four bands came to compete -one fewer than last year's turnout at Kingsteignton. It was a beautiful day, too, for once, and the stay-at-homes missed a treat.

Ashburton tenor is 21 cwt ., and that is more than that of any of the four bands entered. For that reason the rises were not up to the standard which one might expect, and the first two teams to ring, Upton and Kingsbridge, both lost the tenor in the rise-and lost a good many marks with her. Kingsbridge's top ringing was excellent though, and their lower very good; from the end of the rise theirs was a very musical peal. but they lost four more marks-and I think Upton lost five-at the end of the lower because the lighter bells weren't checked enough and spoke in a jangle as they swung. This again is a result of the band being unaccustomed to bells of this weight, Kingsbridge bells in particular being very light and easy to handle, though not so easy to strike.

After Kingsbridge came the tea interval, and a very good tea, too: during the meal the idea came into the head of Mr. Miners, the secretary of the Devon Association, that with a few teamless ringers who had come to listen, and a few others from teams which were ringing, he might raise a band to swell the number of competing teams to five. This he did, with the condition that ringers who were going to ring or had rung with their own band should not ring the same bell with the mixed team. The eight were mustered and arranged to Mr. Miners' satisfaction, and after we had said goodbye to Kingsbridge ringers, who were going on to another competition at Newton St. Cyres, Mr. Miners and his team of the teamless took the tower. Some time ago Mr. Miners' doctor told him that he'd never ring again, but nobody who knew him would dream of making any prophecy so rash. Mr. Miners led the bells up beautifully - it wasn't his fault that the tenor and seventh got under for a few pulls-and called the Qucen's Peal as well as ever. The top ringing settled down very nicely, though marks were lost when a ringer misheard a call, and the lower was good. The band, which someone called 'Doctor Miners' Mixture,' came down feeling that they might not have come last and, considering that they came from seven different parishes and had never rung together before, quite pleased with themselves. Anyway, they were sure of getting a certificate-there were six certificates for the five teams competing!

Dartmouth came next, and didn't have a very happy peal, though their own bells are nearer Ashburton's weight than anyone else's. I don't think they had all their regular band with them, so perhaps that accounts for it. Last of ali came Kingsteignton, to give us the best peal of the day. Any idea that this young band may have owed their second place last year to being in their home tower is now indefensible; King steignton have become, in a very short time, a hand to be reckoned with in Devon eight-bell tringing, and they took away the Shield with 83 faults-three fewer than Kingsbridge, last year's winners. Upton came next, and 'Doctor Miners' Mixture ' beat Dartmouth by five faults to come fourth.

Kingsbridge reached Newton St. Cyres just in time to ring the last peal of the day there, and they were the winners with $77 \frac{1}{3}$ faults, by all accounts a beautiful peal, as you'd expect from this band on bells of just about their own weight. Second and third came High Bickington, with $86 \frac{1}{2}$ and $90 \frac{3}{3}$; Witheridge. Tavistock, Kenn and Dawlish came in that order with over a hundred faults each. Barnstaple were very fortunate to be disqualified when one of their ringers gat his arm hitched up in the next man's rope (the circle is small at Newton St. Cyres) and the peal broke up in confusion just after the rise.

Newton St. Cyres had a busy day, for it was their Michaelmas Fair, and they had an oxroasting as well as the ringing competitionsplural because they also had a Junior Six-bell Competition for under-20's, in which five teams took part, the winners being Christow, with Dunsford second and Rewe third. By all accounts it was a splendid day; certainly with 13 teams ringing, and a fair, and an ox-roasting, there was plenty going on.

Between Ashburton and Newton St. Cyres there were six men who were seen hardly at all and did no ringing, but were the real enthusiasts of the day-the judges. At Ashburton they were the two Brewers, from Alphington, J. J. and H. J., and Mr. Tom Dawe, of Ipplepen; at Newton St. Cyres they were Jack Down, Tom Darch and Ralph Wright. To sit all afternoon with a pencil and notebook, listening to every stroke of every bell in every round-this needs a man of most unusual gifts and an exceptional love for bells and their music; yet l've never heard of anyone's having any difficulty in getting judges for a competition in Devon: it's a good sign for Devon ringing in the Devon manner.

THE BELLS OF A HAMPSHIRE VILLAGE

THE Parish Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Cheriton, Hants, stands on a little hill in the churchyard. The elevation is unusual as the surrounding ground is rather flat, but from this position the church stands above the neighbouring houses and overlooks the village green.
There has been a church here since the 12th century, and parts of that building are still to be seen in the present church, which was rebuilt after the fire of 1744 . The present chancel remains from the old church and the nave and tower were rebuilt after the fire. The tower is a square, brick-built structure not much higher than the nave roof. At present it houses a ring of six bells and a clock.
The bells were recast in 1888 by John Warner and Son, of Cripplegate, from an old ring of five bells, to commemorate the Golden Jubilee of Queen Victoria. The tenor bell has an inscription on it which was reproduced from the old tenor bell. The inscription reads: ' To the church I will call and to the grave will summonce all. I. S. B. F. 1746 .'

This inseription tells us that the old five bells dated from the rebuilding of the tower, or at least that particular bell did. The inscription is to be found on many tenors; there are other inscriptions which, whilst not exactly worded the same, convey the same thought. The initials I.S. are the initials of the bellfounder John Stares, who followed the Cors of Albourne, Wilts, from 1744 to 1746, and he was followed by Edward Read, and later the famous Wells family, who sent many bells to Hampshire. The initials B.F. are probably those of the donor of the bell.
When the bells were recast the old oak bell frame was retained, and in order to accommodate the extra bell the pit in which the tenor bell hung was divided in two and the two treble bells hung therein. The other bells were each moved round one place and thus they hang to-day.
On the rafters at the top of the tower is nailed a small board with the following details written on it:-
'Ringing Grandsire on the Church Bells, 1888.
Robt. Crockford, sen. Treble Robt. Crockford, jun. 4th John McKenny 2nd William Harfield 5th Emest Shearman 3rd James Harfield Tenor

The above details are written in pencil and have become very faint after nearly seventy years.
These old ringers were very keen, and to-day you can see the rules of the 'Cheriton Bellringers Association' in the vestry. Details are given as to the number of services each ringer must ring for each month, times of practice, winter and summer, fines for various offences such as being absent without giving notice, the fee for ringing at weddings ( $£ 11 \mathrm{~s}$.), etc. All moneys to be held by the captain and shared out at Christmas!
The old ringers were very particular about their striking and many of the older residents in the parish will tell you that the ringing was like clockwork. Within living memory a 'Bonfire Night Carnival' was held in Cheriton and the church bells were rung on that occasion as well as on all the Church Festivals. Early morning ringing was the order of the day for Christmas Day and Easter Day, ringing commencing at 6 a.m. New Year's Eve had its share of ringing, and the royal birthdays were observed by 'firing' the bells 21 times. This latter custom has died out at Cheriton, although to hear the bells 'fired,' that is all the bells striking at the same time, certainly attracts the attention of the listening public.
Although the bells were rung regularly for Sunday services and local and national occasions there has only been, one full-length peal of 5,040 changes rung on the bells. On July 27th, 1938, a band of ringers, mostly from New Alresford, rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles, 5,040 changes, in 2 hours and 48 minutes, the ringers being:
Harold H. Shaw Treble Alan Tremeer 4th Harry Newnham 2nd Rev. G. A. Ellison 5th Leslie A. Tremeer 3rd W. Wearring Tenor (conductor)
This peal nearly came to grief as towards the end the rope of the treble bell came into contact with something as it passed through its guides and started disintegrating, Luckily the treble man managed to carry on and finished the peal with only one strand of rope remaining. The Rev. G. A. Ellison was at that time chaplain to the Bishop of Winchester and is now the Bishop of Chester.
During the last 16 years the bells have been silent three times. The first time was during the war when all bells were silent. The second time was about five years ago when the fabric of the tower was being repaired, and now as the bells are being overhauled. The bell frame has to be strengthened, the wheels trued up, the clappers and clock hammers repaired, and the plain bearings replaced with ball-bearing fittings.

The work is to cost approximately $£ 300$. Of this amount about $£ 50$ has been collected so far. If these notes about the bells and ringers have interested you, would you please help us to get our bells ringing and our clock striking again? The Rector, the Rev. A. P. Skene, will be pleased to receive and acknowledge any gifts, however large or small.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Over 50 ringers attended a meeting of the Chertsey District at Horsell on November 17th to pay tribute at the service to the late District Ringing Master, Mr. F. J. Dodson. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. A. Woodard), who based his address on the word 'Ringers,' which he said could stand for Reverence, Inspiration, Neighbourliness, Grace, Endurance, Righteousness of Life and Saints, with whom they were in commumion.
Following tea, the Vicar, who is a vice-president of the Guild, presided at the meeting. Before the usual business the secretary (Mr. R. Collins) informed the meeting of the death during the previous week of two more members of the District-Mr. Percy Underwood, a loyal member of the Ottershaw band, and Mr. H. J. Collis, for 50 years a ringer at Chobham. The meeting stood in silent tribute.
Nomination for District officers for 1957 were: Ringing Master, Mr. R. Collins and Mr. J. King; hon. secretary, Mr. R. Collins and Miss H. Hancock; auditor, Mr. W. Shepherd; executive committee, Mr. G. Talbot and Mr. T. Luxford. The election takes place at the annual meeting at Hersham on February 2nd, 1957.
A tribute to the late Ringing Master was made by Mr. W. Shepherd who said that Mr. Dodson was an example to all. a sentiment shared by those present.
Good wishes were extended to the Rev. F. A. Woodard who is leaving Horsell for Cheriton Fitzpaine, Devon, on January 1st, and thanks for his great help and encouragement. Mr. Woodard, in acknowledgment, said he had always been bappy to meet ringers both in and out of the belfry, and his family had insisted that if he ever left Horsell his new church must have a ring of bells.

Elloe Deanery at Bicker

The Elloe Deaneries Branch visited Bicker on November 17th for the last meeting of the year. A smaller attendance than usual arrived for a service at 4.15 p.m., conducted by the Vicar, Rev. S. S. Horsley, who also acted as organist.
Tea was served in the Village Hall, about 30 members and friends being present. A short business meeting followed, with the Vicar as chairman. He was also elected an honorary member of the Guild, and one ringing member, Miss Brenda Dawson, was elected. Tea was rather expensive and it was agreed to pay part of the expense from Branch funds. A collection for the Bell Restoration Fund amounted to £1 Os. 6d. A comprehensive vote of thanks was expressed to all by Mr. J. G. Ames. The bells were kept going to a variety of methods during the afternoon and evening.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Clawton is $2 \frac{1}{2}$ miles from Holsworthy and has a tuneful six (tepor 9 cwt .). Here the N.W. Branch of the Guild held their annual meeting on November 10th. About 40 members and friends were present. Preb, E. V. Cox president of the Guild, came from Axminster, and we were pleased also to welcome Mr. R.H. Moon. Ringers from Plymouth, Combe-Martin and Stratton, in addition to the members of the Branch, were also in attendance. The service was conducted by the Vicar, Rev. N. McGee, who gave a special welcome to all.

A sumptuous tea was provided in the Church Hall by the wives of the local band, led by Mrs. Pennington and Mrs. McGee. At the following business meeting the company stood in silence to the memory of Mr. E. J. Taylor, the late general secretary of the Guild. An apology for non-attendance was received from Messis. Myers, and we all were sorry that Mrs. G. H. Myers had broken her arm.
The secretary, Mr. J. W. Sangwin, in his report stated that a number of quarter peals had been rung by members. The balance in hand was $£ 6$ 16s. 4d., with some subscriptions outstanding. Mr. W. H. Slee was nominated as a life member of the Guild. Two non-resident and five rew members from Stratton were elected. It was decided that the summer meeting should be held at Holsworthy on August 10th.
All the officers were re-elected, viz.: Chairman, Mr. F. C. Smale; secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. W. Sangwin ; Ringing Master, Mr. C. Sangwin; representatives to the general committee, Nessrs. R. G. Collacott, R. E. Pearce and W. H. R. Smale. Preb. Cox presented eight Guild certificates to young members of the Branch. Appropriate votes of thanks were passed to all who had contributed to such a successful meeting.

BELFRY

 Fairfield, Buxton, whose 90th birthday was marked by a peal on November 10th. He is still a keen spectator of the local band and usually arrives first for evening ringing.Members of the Ashford District of the K.C.A. heard with regret at their meeting on November 17th that Mr. Mark Lancefield, peal secretary of the association, was in bed with pleurisy. The latest report is that he is feeling better.
A Gloucestershire correspondent enquires of an infallible method for keeping awake when (mis)calling the final 720 of Cambridge in an attempt for seven Surprise Minor methods.
Mr. D. T. H. Robertson informs us that the peal of Grandsire Doubles rung at Marston Bigott on May 29th and printed as being for the Bath and Wells Association was in actual fact a non-Association peal.
Some 14 pupils of the initial course of the College of Campanology, after an average each of about $3 \frac{1}{\frac{1}{2}}$ hours' bell handling, made their ringing debut before Evensong at Portsmouth Cathedral on Remembrance Sunday. Next week tests are being held locally of candidates for the grades of Ringer I and Tutor I, trained in accordance with Part I of the Manual.
Illness has prevented two peal attempts at Thame, Oxon, recently. It was intended to honour the 75 th anniversary of the foundation of the Oxford Diocesan Guild and on November 10 th to ring for the enthronement of the Rt. Rev. Kenneth Riches, a frequent visitor to Thame, as Bishop of Lincoln. The Ringing Master of the South Oxon Branch, Mr. F. Absalom, met with an accident the previous week, and Mr. H. Badger, the Branch secretary, has had an attack of lumbar pneumonia.

GOSSIP

A sign of popularity and the re-lection of Andrews, of Bexley, as District Ringing Master of the Lewisham District, K.C.A. This is the first time since the office was instituted in 1945 that the holder of the office has been re-elected.

The band who rang the peal of London at Hinckley on October 22nd were afterwards entertained to supper by Mr. and Mrs. Toone, to whom they extend their thanks. The Leicestershire members trust this will explain why R: G. E. was rather late getting home.

Helmdon lads enjoyed a day's rest from work on November 16th and indulged in two peal attempts. They were successful in a peal of Doubles in seven methods at Croughton, Northants, but failed in seven Surprise Minor methods after five 720's at Lois Weedon.
Mr. R. J. Stannard, of Barking, has unfortunately had to give up his ringing activities owing to rather indifferent health. He is to enter Moorfields Hospital, London, for an eye operation. His many friends in the Essex, Suffolk and London areas join in wishing him a speedy recovery.
Another Essex veteran in Mr. H. J. Macdougal, of Hornchurch, has made an excellent recovery from a severe abdominal operation, and is once again ringing for Sunday service. Well done, Mac!

Mr. Alfred Cusick, of Chester, who is chief electrician on the M.V. 'Surrey,' has been visiting Sydney towers. Writes 'Ringing Towers ' : His ability as a conductor was most welcome in most towers where there is a shortage of good conductors. He introduced us to some fancy spliced doubles ringing, and it was a pleasure to ring with him.'

Archdeaconry of Stafford's Successful Dinner

THE fifth annual dinner of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford took place at the Stork Hotel, Walsall, on November 10th, when there was a record attendance of 108 . This figure could have been exceeded had accommodation been available as numerous late applicants for tickets had to be refused.

The Archdeacon of Stafford (Ven. W. A. Parker) occupied the chair. The guest of the evening was the Bishop of Lichfield (Rt. Rev. A. S. Reeve) who was accompanied by Mrs. Reeve Other guests were Rt. Rev. N. Tubbs (former Bishop of Rangoon) and Mrs. Tubbs, Mrs. Parker, Rev. V. F. Nicholls (Vicar of Walsall) and Mrs. Nicholls, and Councillor E. R. Magness (Willenhall Urban District Council) and Mrs. Magness. Visitors present included Rev. W. W. Price (Vicar of St. Paul's, Burton-onTrent), Dr. A. B. Lavelle (Vicar of Wednesbury) and Mrs. Lavelle, Rev. T. O. Boulton (Vicar of Penn) and Mrs. Boulton, Rev, G. Rainbow (Vicar of Claverley) and Mrs. Rainbow, Miss E. Fletcher (Birmingham), Mr. D. Matkin (Bournemouth), Mr. H. Henshaw, Miss F. Seaman, together with ringers and their wives from Worcestershire and Shropshire.
After a very nice meal, the chairman proposed the loyal toast. When this had been duly honoured, the Ven. W. A. Parker proceeded to welcome the Bishop of Lichfield and Mrs. Reeve, and said that their presence was a red-letter occasion for the members of the Society.

Proposing the toast of 'The Society, the Bishop of Lichfield first paid tribute to the 40 years of loyal service rendered to the Society by the clerical secretary, Rev. C. H. Barker. After expressing his great appreciation of the work of ringers throughout the Diocese, Dr. Reeve appealed to those members who were lax in their duties to make every effort to fulfil their obligations in the belfry. Nothing was more likely to kill enthusiasm amongst a band of ringers than the apathy of one or more of its members.
Replying to the toast, Mr. Bert Horton said it was indeed an honour to have the Bishop and Mrs. Reeve present that evening. It was also very gratifying to see Bishop Tubbs and the other clerical visitors. Mr. Horton recalled the aims and hopes expressed for the welfare of the Society at a dinner he had attended in Wolverhampton 23 years previously, and said that he was of opinion that such hopes had been fully realised with a result that today the Society was in a very strong position.

Councillor E. R. Magness proposed the toast of 'Church and State' in a witty speech. He said that Mr. Chris. Wallater had endeavoured to make him a ringer but after a few lessons he (Councillor Magness) decided it was much easier to become a councillor. It was a matter of satisfaction to him that during the recent crisis in the affairs of this country in the Middle East, leaders of the Church had not been afraid to express their views fearlessly.
In reply, the Rev. W. Willis Price said that it was just as important for the spiritual welfare of the community to be catered for by the Church as the material welfare as administered by the State. People today were inclined to overlook the need of spiritual matters.

Proposing the toast of 'The Visitors,' Mr. Clive Smith said that the good fellowship which existed amongst ringers was something to be proud of, and be it a social function like this dinner, a ringing meeting or a visit to a strange tower, the visitor was always made welcome.

Mr. Harold Henshaw, a non-ringer, in reply said that he had been impressed with the friendliness which existed arrongst ringers. He wished all ringers present that evening good hunting in the future. At the conclusion of the speeches the Rev. C. Holroyd Barker thanked the Archdeacon of Stafford for so ably taking the chair.

Entertainment was provided by Rev. G. H. Rainbow, Mr J. Courtman and Mr. N. Holden, who were thanked by Mr. F. Bennett. Courses of Grandsire Triples were rung on handbells by Messrs. H. Howell, E. E. Speake, B. G. Key D. Matkin, J. Eastwood, A. Collins, A. Richards and K. W. Knowles.
During the afternoon the bells of Walsall Parish Church were available for those attending the annual dinner.

STAFFORD HONOURS MR. WARRILOW

The spacious ringing room of St. Mary's, Stafford, was well filled on the evening of November 7th, when a testimonial taking the form of treasury notes was presented to Mr. John Warrilow. It was early in 1911 that Mr. Warrilow joined St. Mary's band, later becoming head ringer, a position he held for a number of years. The esteem in which he is held was marked by the generous contributions made to his testimonial. These were from the Rector, the churchwardens, the Parochial Church Council and past and present ringers.
The Rector, the Rev. D. A. Hodges, in making the presentation remarked that he spoke on behalf of the Church, and thanked Mr. Warrilow for all he had done during his years of service in not only ringing but in keeping the bells and ropes in good order, and the many other things he had done in connection with the bells and belfry.

The hon. secretary, A. E. Garbett, on behalf of all who had been associated with Mr. Warrilow in the belfry, expressed thanks and appreciation for his help, kindness and tolerance. There were times, said Mr. Garbett, that Mr. Warrilow could have been forgiven had he 'gone off the deep end,' but never had they heard him speak unkindly to a ringer; his placid temperament had done much to cement the very friendly feeling and the unity that had existed in that belfry for so many years. He also thanked Mr. Warrilow for the wonderful example ho had given them to follow, for despite the fact that to fulfil his service he had to cycle nearly four miles from his home, often in inclement weather, yet he was invariably first at the belfry Concluding his remarks, Mr. Garbett said that age had now conquered the spirit. Yet he (Mr. Warrilow) would have much satisfaction in knowing that his service had been well and faithfully rendered, that the Warrilow tradition was being ably carried on by his son Richard. head ringer, who is well known in Midland circles, and by his grandson Robert, who recently joined the peal-ringing fraternity. 'We trust,' said Mr. Garbett, 'that as you check the "part ends" in your long peal of life, you will have very happy recollections of the times spent in ringing and of the friends you have made in St. Mary's belfry.
Mr. R. M. Webb, churchwarden, also paid tribute to the work Mr. Warrilow had done. In conclusion, Mr. Warrilow shook hands with all present.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS MASTERSHIP

Mr. J. S. Mason for a Second Year

November 17th was election day, and in accordance with the usual custom the Master, Mr. J. S. Mason, vacated the chair after routine business had been transacted. Past Master J. Chilcott was then voted to the chair to conduct the election of officers.

Owing to the senior steward, Mr. S. H. Dearden, having been transferred to the north in connection with his business duties, he was unable to stand for election as Master. It is hoped that when he returns to London he will be able to take his place as Master.
The meeting decided to re-elect Mr. J. S. Mason for a further year, and opportunity was taken to express deep appreciation of his services to the Society. The past year has been a most successful one under his wise and able leadership, and an equally successful and enjoyable year is looked forward to under him.
Mr. A. B. Peck was re-elected as secretary with much enthusiasm, and the hope was expressed by his proposer, Mr. E. G. Fenn, that he would be spared for many more years to carry out his important duties.
Mr. A. A. Hughes, who has been treasurer since 1919 , intimated that owing to pressure of business he felt unable to continue in this office, and he proposed that Mr. Cyril Watts should be appointed. Mr. Watts was duly elected, and he paid a high tribute to Mr. Hughes for his long and faithful service to the Society, a tribute which was endorsed by all present
Mr. P. A. F. Chalk was elevated from the junior stewardship to be senior steward. There were two nominations for the office of junior steward-Mr. B. K. Lunn and Mr. Wilfrid Williams, and on a ballot Mr. Williams was elected.
The two trustees, Mr. E. G. Fenn and Mr. J. F. Smallwood, were re-elected.

The large attendance at this meeting was evidence of the virility of this ancient Society, and it was most gratifying to see a large number of the younger members present taking their part in the activities of the Society. With such enthusiastic young members the future looks bright and promising.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Northern District at Wandsworth

The sound of the bells from Holy Trinity (West Hill). Wandsworth, heralded the start of the Northern District nomination meeting on November 10th, under the guidance of the Ringing Master, Mr. F. E. Collins. A short service followed the ringing, where some of the ringers robed and formed a choir. An address was given by the Vicar.
In the Church Hall the ladies provided the tea, which 34 members and eight visitors enjoyed. At the business meeting all stood in silence in remembrance of Mr. James Dodson, of Hersham.
The following were nominated: Master, G. P. T. Peters ; hon. secretary. W. Parrott; hon. treasurer. H. N. Pitstow. M.B.E.: hon. auditor, R. T. Layton : committee-N. Bagworth, A. S. Harris, J. Hill and H. V. Young. Further nominations can be sent to the District secretary up to December 29th.
A collection for the Bow Bells Appeal amounted to 26s. Owing to repairs at Mitcham, the annual District meeting will now be at Wimbledon on January 26th.
The ringing of All Saints' bells concluded the meeting.

THE SOCIETY

YORKSHIRE was the hunting ground of the Roving Ringers on their 1956 tour, and Selby Abbey the meeting place on July 28 th. This beautiful Norman building with its fine ten ( $25 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.) made an excellent start. On into York and the Youth Hostel, not reached without a soaking, which became a regular feature of the tour.

Sunday morning dawned and we arrived at the Minster (12, 594 cwt.) to be greeted by Mr. Harold Walker and the local band. The Bedfordshire Young Ringers were finishing their week here and we joined forces in a touch of Stedman Cinques. Grandsire and more Stedman followed, but we did not do justice to this. Outside, we were greeted by a reporter, and numerous photographs were taken.

On to Wetherby ( $8,12 \mathrm{cwt}$.), where an attempt at Spliced Surprise came to grief, and then to Birstwith ( $8,11 \mathrm{cwt}$.), reached by some on a very muddy track. Here we enjoyed one of the handiest eights in the district. Dacre Banks, at the foot of Nidderdale, was the Hostel this time.

Most of us had time for a brisk walk round Fountains Abbey before going on to Ripon Cathedral. This fine ten ( 23 cwt .) went well to Yorkshire Royal, Stedman and Grandsire Caters. We had lunch in Ripon and then a mile, all down hill, to Sharrow (8, 12 cwt ). The Spliced was more successful here. We then pushed on to Wath ( $6,7 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.) amid showers and rang London and Cambridge on these bells. Thirsk brought back many happy (?) memories for at least one ex-Catterick member, and here we rang on the eight ( 14 cwt .) of the Parish Church. Spliced Plain and Little Bob and various Surprise methods were rendered.

The programme said 'Ampleforth-no meals provided (bread and milk ordered); so many of the pessimistic stayed for a large meal before cycling on. However, our secretaries, with helpers, had done an excellent job by the time we arrived, and what was voted the best meal of the tour was greatly enjoyed. Birthdays were much in evidence during the week and this evening celebrations were well up to standard.

Tuesday's programme included Helmsley (8, 12 cwt.), Kirkby Moorside, a fine six of $8 \frac{3}{2}$ cwt., and Pickering, where the wall paintings had to be seen to be believed! Here the ground floor eight of 14 cwt . were rung to various methods up to Rutland and Spliced before an interested audience. On to Malton ( $8,12 \frac{1}{4}$ cwt.), where we had the first setback of the tour owing to illness near the church. However, borrowed handbells were rung in the vestry to Grandsire and Stedman Caters. We enjoyed the hospitality of the Youth Hostel with its first-rate staff. Piano playing by Uncle Mac and others ended an excellent day.

A DAMP JOURNEY

Wednesday began fine, but after ringing at Norton (8, 143 cwt.), a steady drizzle commenced and frightened some on to British Railways. Others had their enthusiasm considerably dampened on the way to Scarborough (8, 20 cwt.), where we were greeted by Mr. Sutton who joined us in the ringing. It was now raining very heavily and only the strong willed did not succumb to the railway to Bridlington. We began to realise just how the colour was washed out of the Yorkshire rose!

OF ROVING RINGERS' TOUR, 1956

At Bridlington Priory we enjoyed a rather heavy going eight ( $26 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.), but the work was well worth while. Down at the hostel in the town some male members were interested in the warden's greeting of 'full up with females tonight.' Hopes died when it was discovered that most were still at school!

Thursday's first tower was Great Driffield (6, 12 cwt .). We were early for once and our officials went off to the Police Station to get the key, and we began to wonder if disaster had occurred, when they returned with Sgt. Huddleston. Spliced Stedman Doubles and Kent Treble Bob Minor was another trick out of our Master's hat.

BEVERLEY'S APPEAL

It seems rather unfair that one town should have two such fine pieces of architecture with such fine bells as Beverley. The painted chancel ceiling of St. Mary's depicts on panels many of our mediaval English kings. The ceiling was restored in post-war years and the portrait of the late King George V1 was added. In the belfry Yorkshire and Cambridge Royal, and Stedman Caters were rung. We then moved across the town to the Minster and rang on this wonderful ten ( $41 \frac{1}{4} \mathrm{cwt}$.).
We had been warned by the secretaries that the Sutton band were expecting good ringing, and we hope we obliged. Certainly if our ringing was as good as the tea they provided we have never done better! After a vote of thanks to them for what must have been a considerable amount of work, we divided to our various bed and breakfast appointments in Hull. A while later we met at Holy Trinity ( $10,25 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.), where Mr. Reed allowed us the pleasure of ringing.

Friday began with a long, long ride: half the band was tired out before we had any ringing at all! This was unfortunate as Howden's were thought by most to be the finest eight ( $22 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.) this year. An unusual feature here is that from the churchyard one can see the bells swinging behind glass windows, and the sound rises at least 30 ft . before leaving the tower. Those who remained here for lunch were rewarded by a thunderstorm ; those who went on to Goole missed it! We had a not too successful ring on the eight ( $15 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.) and then proceeded to Thorne ( $8,14 \mathrm{cwt}$ ). The ring here was greatly appreciated, Rutland and Spliced being successfully brought home. Bawtry Youth Hostel was paddled into, and after supper we joined the local band at their practice night ( 6 , 14 cwt .).
We commenced Saturday at East Retford and the much-threatened London Royal was at last attempted. Three leads were enough to prove that most of us did not really know enough about the method. Mr. John Segar entertained with his tapping on handbells. He apologised for being out of practice, but it sounded pretty good to us. The next tower had originally been East Markham but the tenor was giving trouble so we went to Tuxford. Unfortunately the spire had been condemned that morning so we called in at East Drayton where permission was readily given to ring. This six ( 12 cwt .) was a good one, and we were glad to add it to our list. We could almost see Lincoln Minster now, and after a quick halt at Saxilby ( $6,12 \frac{1}{t} \mathrm{cwt}$.) we chased down the Lincolnshire Handicap course to jump from our saddles outside our hotels, the Great Northern and Oxford, the headquarters for the remainder of the tour. Most of the week-enders had now joined us. AT LINCOLN
At the Minster we were met by one of our honorary members, Mr. John A. Freeman, and the Minster band. We had been here in 1950, but it is always a pleasure to revisit this 12 . Stedman Cinques and Cambridge Maximus were the methods. That evening the Society celebrated its tenth birthday with dinner and a cake which had travelled from Somerset. Had it been kept since February? We were glad to have Mr. Freeman and his wife with us and to be able to congratulate young John on the recent addition to his family. The highlight of the proceedings after dinner was a course of London Major on handbells.

Sunday's programme said 'St. Giles', 8.40 a.m. (if energetic).' How many were, the writer does not know. Others rang at the Cathedral. St. Peter de Groot. In the afternoon we went to Washingborough, and many of the tired cyclists were glad to take advantage of one of the car-borne member's spare seats. St. Giles' bells ( $8,18 \mathrm{cwt}$.) were rung for evening service, including Spliced and an excellent course of London.

On Monday it was raining again. We rang at Harmston ( $8,10 \mathrm{cwt}$.) where, of course, Spliced had to be rung, but we could not quite manage 22 ! On to Grantham ( $10,32 \mathrm{f} \mathrm{cwt}$.), a fitting end to a most enjoyable tour.

We must record our thanks to our secretaries for organisation, to the incumbents and tower keepers for allowing us to visit their various towers, and to our Master for keeping us in order. We decided at the meeting to visit London for the reunion, and we look forward to this.
R. H./J. H.

JOINT MEETING AT SHEFFIELD

A joint meeting of the Yorkshire District of the Ladies' Guild and the Sheffield and District Society was held in Sheffield on November 3rd. The fact that it was Shefficld University Rag Day accounted for some strange sights in the city.

Two towers were open during the afternoon: St. Marie's R.C. Church, with its widely famed ring of eight, and the Cathedral, with a 40 cwt . ring of 12. Although the numbers were divided, methods up to Surprise Major were rung in both towers.

It was pleasant to see so many young ringers present; their ability varied from rounds and plain hunt to London Surprise Major and Siedman Caters.

At some time during the afternoon and evening there were 17 ladies present. representing eight towers.

At the ladies' business meeting a letter was read from the new president. Mrs. K. Lock, who sent her greetings to all members of the District. Three new members were proposed. and votes of thanks were given to all who had helped to make the meeting a success. not forgetting the ladies who prepared the tea.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE DEVIL'S PEAL
Dear Sir,-l once read a novel called 'Devil's Peal,' interesting because it was a murder yarn very obviously staged at Rochester before the bells were augmented to ten. The scenery closely resembles that in 'Edwin Drood,' and actually in the same places.
But what interested me was the author's assertion that before change-ringing was invented mediæval ringers were in the habit of ringing various compositions, expressing all sorts of ideas, until the authorities banned them.
The actual 'Devil's Peal' consisted of a representation of the slaughter of the Innocents, the heavy bells representing Herod's soldiers, and the light ones the cries of the babes.
Needless to say, in the novel, every time this was rung there was a murder, though the author did not explain how such a composition could be rung on modern tower bells.
1 would like to know just how much truth there is in this queer story, or if it was merely the author's imagination running riot-Faithfully, yours,
F. A. CLUETT. Gravesend.

INVALID BUT A HELPFUL CRITIC

Dear Sir, -We read so much about the annoyance of church bells that it must be a tonic to us all to learn that we have given pleasure to some.
Mr. Jesse H. Newman, of Bures, who has just passed to higher service, was wounded in 1916 and for 40 years was a semi-invalid. An accomplished musician, his house contained a large number of musical instruments, and he mastered them all. Included was an octave of heel irons and one of files and rasps, but his pride and joy was a set of ten tubes made from old curtain rods, the strikers being leather-bound wood. The writer has spent many evenings helping him tap changes on these.
When the Bures company started from scratch in 1949 he became our most helpful listening critic. His candid criticism made the whole company practise and strive to get perfect striking. He preferred Triples to Major because to use his own words, "The music is nice when it does come, but keep the tenor last and it comes more often.' For half-muffled ringing he liked Bob Triples or any Triples method which had four blows in 7 ths place, as you got the little bells dancing on the handstroke whilst the others produced a kind of double note and echoes.
Following complaints, the louvres were blocked up, and he was very annoyed to think that anybody existed who required the sound to be deadened. In 1950, when the decision to complete the octave was made, he was one of the first to give a donation and was also an honorary member when the St. Mary's Society was formed.
As the cortege left his house the tenor was tolled by the Master of the Society, and it was very pleasant to think that I had been one of those who had helped to provide an ill man with some pleasure.-Yours, etc.,
L. D. MILLS.

HAWKLEY DISCLAIMER

Dear Sir,-I have no knowledge of, still less participation in, Mr. T. E. C. Swinton's queerlydescribed ringing attempts at Hawkley. Hants, with which he seeks to couple my name, or those connected with the Manual of Ringing Training.

Our views and deportment regarding striking and over-fast ringing are too well known in the belfry to admit of any such possibility.- Yours very truly, Southsea.

ST. MAURICE'S, WINCHESTER

Dear Sir,-I should like to assure Mr. Shepherd that the six bells which until recently hung in the above church have not been confined to the scrap heap, but are to form part of, I believe, a ring of eight at Bitterne Park, Southampton. I have been told that the tenor bell is to be recast but that the other five will remain as they were.
St. Maurice's Church has been closed down now for about two years and, although there are still one or two legal formalities to go through. I think it probable that the church will be demolished, leaving only the tower remaining. We have continued to ring the bells, however, over the last two years, using the tower mainly for teaching recruits bell handling and the simpler methods.-Yours sincerely, Winchester.
J. A. C. KING.

WEST COUNTRY RINGING

Dear $\mathrm{Sir},-\mathrm{I}$ regret that a chance remark of mine at the Guildford dinner should have annoyed Mr. Carveth (page 731). Unfortunately, this sentence taken from its context seems to have implied criticism of West Country ringers, which was just the opposite to what I had just said (not reported). I had just reminded those present that a very high standard of striking is demanded in Devon and Cornwall, and jokingly asked if this was the reason one meets so few ladies in call-change towers. (Trouble from the ladies now!

I am delighted to hear that 90 per cent. of the towers in Cornwall ring regularly for services (a higher proportion than Surrey), though it is my experience that they do not ring for 90 per cent. of the servises, unless I have visited too many of the other 10 per cent.
I can assure Mr. Caryeth that we in Surrey would have very many silent towers but for our lady ringers.-Yours faithfully, Chobham.

R.S. COLLINS. on our Hawkley peal, Mr. Swinton (page 731). I agree, 2 hours 50 minutes is right for these bells.

GUILDS AND 'THE RINGING WORLD'

Dear $\mathrm{Sir},-A f t e r$ the article 'Overhead or Overboard' I was hoping to see some correspondence on the subject, for it seems that the ringing associations will have to help "The Ringing World ' sooner or later, whilst they in their turn complain about the cost of printing annual reports.
I have wondered if they could not co-operate and follow the example of the Central Council by publishing their reports in the 'R.W.', the main points of which are usually printed free in the meeting reports and peal columns (and the lists of towers are contained in Dove's book). The Guilds would pay for the extra space taken, and for the extra copies of the journal containing their own report for distribution to the usual recipients of reports, who were not regular readers of "The Ringing World.'

If these reports could be spread over the year. say one large or two smaller ones per week, more revenue and a larger circulation would result, which is wanted. I know a few would complain about not receiving a nicelybound report to put on the bookshelf, but I think they would be a very small minority.Yours, etc.,
A. H. SMITH.

ST. MARY CRAY, KENT.-On Oct, 25th, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor: R. Beard 1, F. Gorringe (conducted 540) 2, F. G. Wheeler 3, S. Zobel 4, B. Aldridge 5, G. Braund (conducted 720) 6. In memoriam the Rev. R. S. Galer, Vicar 1935-1950, and Cecil Mayatt. member of the choir for 66 years.

WEEK-END PEAL TOUR  AROUND SWINDON

After previous successful peal ringing ' Weekends Wheatsheaf -after the hostelry that provides homely accommodation for the party in Swindon - arranged by Brian Bladon in his home county of the wide-open spaces, it was felt that something out of the ordinary in the way of Minor ringing should be attempted. Previously counsels of caution had been heeded: - You have come a long way: you want to get the peals, so play safe-stick to the "Steady Seven," to "Pitstow's Doxology " and Middleton's Cambridge.' This time, caution was thrown to the winds and some of the most intricate work in the 'Minor Collection' was chosen, namely, that based upon the method named after the Scottish abbey at Kelso.
Kelso Surprise was selected for the first attempt of the weekend, and an easy ring of bells was obtained in order that attention could be concentrated on the method ringing. This was at the Cotswold stone village of Kemble, at the source of the Thames, the ring there having been recently rehung and augmented by Messrs. Mears.
A false start of nearly an extent, followed by an almost undetectable shift-course, taught a healthy respect for the method, but the ringing that followed was almost immaculate, and a first-rate 'first in method' was scored.
A well-known Morris Cowley tourer was the transport for the weekend, but as usual, it showed little sign of a quarter of a century of active life, when it carried all six on the 30 -mile stage to the next tower, St. Mary's, Marlborough, including the climb to nearly 900 feet over Hackpen Hill. The afternoon peal on this fine heavy six, rehung by Gillett's. was a comparative rest except for the tenor man, as it included the 'long sleep,' 16 dodges behind in one section! This method, Bamborough Surprise, also includes 'Kelso ' work, and another good 'first in the method ' was scored, against the clock.
The following Sunday morning service ringing was at Purton, a grand six ( 20 cwt . in C sharp!), scene of a success by the party earlier this year. Cambridge, London, and Caernarvon Delight, the new method for the afternoon, were rung, but Stedman found out some weak spots!

The fine central tower of Kempsford Church, near Fairford, was the venue for the afternoon peal of Caernarvon Delight, a very musical method for some fine-toned heavy bells; but what a handful to ring! When the tenor was pulled-and it needed some pulling!- there was no knowing what the front bells would do next. But the hard work of well over three hours was rewarded by the satisfaction of not oniy another 'first in method 'and a 100 per cent. record for the tour, but also the first peal of Minor on the bells and first on them for 34 years, and a good peal at that, in view of the difficulties. It is hoped the peal improved the bells, thanks to the efforts of our bell-hanger from Croydon, who made the fifth ringable before the attempt.
In conclusion, it is fitting to remark upon the great hospitality and co-operation beyond the average experienced in dealing with the incumbents in the Swindon district. This was supremely exemplified by the Rev. Mr. Lang, of Kempsford, who was prepared to arrange his services to accommodate the ringing, and has since written: 'We were overjoyed at your success. We shall be pleased to see you at any time at Kempsford tower."

A LEICESTERSHIRE SQUIRE WHO LOVED BELLS

Peals at King's Norton, Leicestershire, are few and far between, and every one has to be 'earned.' The recent ringing of the first peal of Surprise on these bells recalls the long and serene history of them.

Nichols, the historian of Leicestershire, tells us that Wm. Fortrey gave a ring of ten bells to his church when he rebuilt it but, finding the weight dangerous, he reduced it to eight tradition has it that the two extra bells went to St. Margaret's, Leicester! Anyhow, Squire Fortrey gave the trebles there to make them ten.

This Mr. Fortrey was an enthusiastic admirer of church bells and did much to encourage improvements in the rings of different churches in Leicestershire. He rebuilt the church of Galby and placed therein. in 1741, a ring of six bells. He did the same at King's Norton, hanging a ring of ten (as above stated). In 1738 he gave the two to St. Margaret's, Leicester, and in 1771 a treble to Houghton-on-the-Hill, and his name is mentioned in connection with other bells.

In 1753, when John Holt published his -broadsheet ' of pcals-which included the treble leads of his six- and ten-part peals of Grandsire Triples, his six-part of Union Triples and his three-part of Plain Bob Triples without a single-Mr. Wm. Fortrey, of Galby, Leics, is there shown as a subscriber for four copies. The first peal on King's Norton bells was by The Society of Sherwood Youths on May 28th, 1776, when they rang Holl's peal of Grandsire Triples in 3 hours 32 minutes, conducted by W. Doubleday Crofts. It is recorded the band came from Nottingham to Lcicester by stage-coach and walked to King's Norton, and so likewise back again!
After a lapse of 40 years we read in the 'Leicester Journal' of June 8th, 1816: 'Tuesday last, being His Majesty's birthday, the Leicester Scholars met at Norton in this county by particular desire of the Norton and Gaulby Scholars to strike off the musical peal of eight bells of that place. They rang a true and compleat peal of 5,040 Grandsire Triples, which was brought round in a masterly style in 3 hours 20 minutes by the following persons, viz.: Jonathan Haywood treble, John Clarke 2, Thomas Clarke 3, James Gill 4. George Harris 5, Lawrence Staines 6, William Reeves 7, William Wood tenor. The peal was call'd by Wm. Reeves. After it had been rung, the Leicester, Norton and Gaulby Scholars partook of an excellent dinner.'
The bells are still in their original two-storey frame-the three trebles hang about ten feet above the other five-but about 1920 Mr . F. G. Rimington, of Manchester, spent a lot of time and money on them, adding stays and sliders and a new beam under the floor, etc. On the present writer's first visit here the bells were without stays and sliders and so we had to ring them up, have a short touch and fall them. Then the next team did likewise! We went to Norton on that occasion (in 1907) by pantechni-con!-or furniture van. In February and in March. 1921. attempts were made by teams from Leicester and Manchester to get a peai. but after one and two hours respectively had to be abandoned owing to the heavy 'go' of the bells. Then to commemorate the 150 th anniversary of the first peal on the bells a band of Sherwood Youths (of which the writer was one) rang an excellent peal of Stedman Triples on December 4th, 1926, conducted by the late Albert Coppock.

In 1929 and in 1931 the writer called peals of Grandsire Triples, and in 1939 W. P. Whitehead called peals of Plain Bob and Kent T.B. Major. Apart from a local peal of Grandsire Doubles these are the only peals on these bells until the one of Braunstone Surprise Major now recorded.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago, on November 24th, 1906, a peal of 5,021 Grandsire Caters was rung with the bells half-muffled at All Saints' Church, Loughborough, as a last tribute of respect to Mr. John Taylor, bell founder. It was rung immediately after the funeral.

The ringers were: Walter C. Hunt treble, Frank G. Burlwigh 2, Thomas H. Colburn 3, William C. Wakley 4, Josiah Morris 5, James L. Wells 6, John Hickman 7, Horace W. Abbot 8 , William Willson (composer and conductor) 9 , Horace F. Stubbs tenor.
This information was sent to us by Mr. W. C. Wakley, of Rosemary Cottage, Exbourne, Oakhampton.

OBITUARY

MR. PERCY UNDERWOOD
The Chertsey District of the Guildford Guild Whas suffered another untimely loss by the death of Mr. P. Underwood, aged 50, of Ottershaw. A loyal member of the local band for many years, Percy could always be relied on for service ringing and the odd quarter peal. He only rang one peal, as he always jokingly called it a mug's game. Nevertheless, he was usually around to hear any attempt made at Ottershaw, with a pithy comment on the striking. His tall, dean figure and dry humour will be sadly missed.

MR. H. J. COLLIS

Mr. H. J. Collis, for 50 years a regular ringer at Chobham, died on November 16th, aged 76. Though not a method ringer, he was always willing to assist the Guild in a difficult tower, and even rang the treble to one quarter peal. He retired from ringing a year ago on the formasion of the new band, in whom he took a keen interest.

MR. FREDERICK S. PRICE

AN APPRECIATION

I trust I may be allowed to add a few personal words about my dear friend Frederick Price. I have known him intimately for more than 50 years, and in the years 1923 to 1926, when I lived at Beeston, I was privileged to ring regularly with the notable Beeston band.

Fred was a great walker, and he knew every byway and footpath for many miles around and on both sides of the Trent. Together we have walked what must have amounted to hundreds of miles, and we studied our method ringing as we walked. In those days there was no easy path to the Surprise methods, and we had no leader of outstanding ability to keep us right. Trial, error, disappointment, and a renewed determination, these were our weekly lot; and what good training it was! And what good fun!

Memories of those strenuous days now crowd in upon me. Together we visited pleasant villages like Cotgrave, drank our ale at The Flying Horse at Kegworth, The Cuckoo Bush at Gotham, and the old Admiral Rodney at Wollaton. We have stood together in the churchyard at Stanton-by-Dale on dark nights gazing downwards into the Gehenna of the Stanton blast furnaces, and we have walked at midnight to ring the New Year in at Lenton, returning across Lenton flats at 2 o'clock in the morning filed with Teddy Blagdon's bread and cheese and pickles, with a drop of something warming on the top. These were the days of simple joys.

Fred Price never knew any material prosperity, but his wealth of spiritual prosperity and unselfish happiness exceeded all earthly riches; and he has left us a wonderful legacy in the model his life offers to all who know him. He passed from us happily and in tranquillity, almost as if he had on his lips the very words of Mr. Valiant-for-Truth: II am going to my Father's; and though with great difficulty I have got me hither, yet now I do not repent me of all the troubles I have been at to arrive where I am. My sword I give to him that shall succeed me in my pilgrimage. . . My marks and scars I carry with me, to be a witness for me that I have fought His battles who will now be my rewarder.'

And no doubt, as with Mr. Valiant-for-Truth, the trumpets sounded for him on the other side.

JOINT MEETING AT DEPTFORD

The eleventh of the annual series between the Lewisham District, K.C.A., and the Surrey Association (Northern District) attracted an attendance of 48 ringers to St. John's, Deptford, where ringing during the afternoon and evening was supervised by Miss M. Andrews (Lewisham District Ringing Master).

The Rev. W. Lee (Vicar) conducted the service and gave an interesting address. Miss M. Andrews and her Bexley colleagues were responsible for the tasty and satisfying tea, and they were thanked by Mr. J. Dafters, who also extended a warm welcome to the visitors from Surrey. Mr. F. E. Collins, on behalf of the Surrey Association, seconded the vote of thanks and hoped for an equally happy meeting in Surrey next year.

PROGRESS:

THROUGHOUT the first half of its span this twentieth century has been an age of progress. Travel by land, sea and air has improved and science seems bent on providing even more speedy means of going from one place to another. Records have not however been confined to machines, for athletes of all countries have improved the achievements of their predecessors.

Neither have advances been confined to the field of speed. Medical science has produced much for the general benefit of mankind, whilst research and experiment have in many directions lightened human labour and improved living amenities. All in all one can say that man to-day has much for which to be thankful.

In ringing also time has not stood still, and much earnest work by some who have interested themselves in our complicated art and science is evident in the increased range of methods and compositions now available to ringers themselves.
Despite all the improvements and developments which many have followed from their commencement and as many accept without thought as part of our daily life, one thing at least remains without change-the method of ringing a bell.

Frames and their constructions have been developed, cannons have disappeared to be replaced by headstocks and bearings have been improved, but the actual method of ringing is as it has been for centuries. The sally still ' bobs' as of old, and even the most competent of ringers break stays.

Time was when every belfry in town and countryside had its full complement of ringers and some to spare, but now it is sad to have to say in this 'Ringing Isle' many bells are silent and the Church's call to worship is unhearu.

Many reasons are put forward for this decline in the number of recruits. Blame is placed on alternative attractions in the form of the cinema, radio, television and the better organisation of activities for young people. Again one hears of the general drift from the Church, and this is a matter which has for some time been exercising the minds of our ecclesiastical dignitaries.

Two aspects of the problem of obtaining recruits undoubtedly are here to stay and it would be interesting to learn how these have been faced throughout the country.

The first of these problems is National Service. At the age of eighteen a promising ringer is becoming a useful member of a band. In many cases the enforced interruption of instruction and the companionship of his fellow ringers, coupled with the training schedule and what has long been known as the 'exigencies of the Service,' are often more than enough to result in his losing contact with ringing.

Wherever the young National Serviceman is posted a church is never far away, and all units have their padre. One wonders how many tower masters take the trouble to write either to the local incumbent or to the padre telling them about the boy and his interest in ringing and asking for their help in putting him into touch with nearby ringers. Much could be achieved and all for the cost of a stamp and a few minutes writing a letter. How does one find the nearest church? All churches and incumbents are contained in Crockford's Clerical Directory, to be found at all public libraries, and if this source is not available the padre is sure to know.

The second problem to the dearth of recruits is one for which it is more difficult to find a solution. To-day a boy's education extends beyond normal school years, and in many cases young men are studying for years the better to fit themselves for their particular job. Homework when a boy is at school and evening classes when day school life is ended seriously affect a boy's leisure and are matters to which no thoughtful person must place any obstacle. It is usual to find several members of a band attending different courses on varying evenings, thus making extremely difficult the fixing of a practice night suitable to all. Scientific improvements are compelling young men to seek more and more knowledge of their particular profession or craft, and the position is one for which one cannot see any easement.

Thus then appears the picture of present-day ringing so far as concerns new learners and what must be our ultimate aim-the ringing of every church bell in our land morning and evening every Sunday. There are, of course, towers with excellent bands, but these must be exceptions to the general position, for we have recently read of ringers in London who ring at several churches each Sunday.

These few thoughts were engendered by the series of articles setting out the first part of the manual of the proposed College of Campanology. What place in our Exercise does the proposed college hope to fill? Has it any answer to the problems outlined and, if so, what is its solution?

It was intended to deal with these questions in a general review, but the pen has wandered far afield and the rest must await next week.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

The nomination meeting was held at Stoke-next-Guildford on November 24th. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and mainly Grandsire and Plain Bob were rung until the service. Mr. Roland W. Morant officiated and gave an unusual address.
The tea and meeting followed, and out of the 31 ringers present only a few were from the District, four towers being represented. The meeting, with the Guild secretary (Mr. G. L. Grover) in the chair, was short, the retiring officers being renominated.
Ringing in the evening was at Stoke and Holy Trinity, and apart from a course of London and Bristol the methods were mainly Grandsire, Plain Bob and Stedman to suit the large number of young ringers. Ringing ended with a good lower on the back six at Holy Trinity.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The North Herts District met at St. Nicholas', Stevenage, on November 24th, and the eight bells rang from 3.30 p.m. until the service, taken by the Rector, the Rev. E. Cordingley. Mr. M. Eldridge accompanied on the organ. An ample tea was provided in Dr. Gullick's home, and the business meeting was held there after some handbell ringing.
Two non-resident life members-Mr. and Mrs. E. Munday, of Flitton, Beds-and a ringing member, Rev. G. Heath, of St. Andrew's Stevenage, were elected. The next District meeting will be in February at either Royston or Baldock, the special method being Hitchin Surprise.

Ringing began again, and the methods ranged from rounds to Hereward Bob, the special method, and Superlative Surprise. J. S.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

A quarterly meeting of the Sussex County Association (Eastern Division) was held at Hailsham on November 24th. At the business meeting Mrs. B. Pefcy (wife of the general secretary, who was unable to be present) was elected to the chair. The most lively discussion of the afternoon centred on the published agenda of the forthcoming special general meeting re finance.
The meeting also elected several new members and approved the list of meetings for 1957 prepared by the divisional secretary. Following the usual practice, this list included one unaffiliated tower.
The chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, Mr. E. Breed, the local captain, for making the excellent tea arrangements, and Mr. F. Beeney (a ringing member of the Association) for accompanying at the organ the somewhat lusty singing.
Ringing during the day catered for all present, including a good percentage of young ringers. It varied from rounds to Double Norwich C.B. Major, with a short break during the evening for the traditional daily curfew bell.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

The annual dinner of the Gloucester Branch was held on November 24th at the Saracen's Head Hotel. Gloucester. Sixty-one members and friends attended this function and had a pleasant evening's entertainment. Thanks are due to Mr. Harry Newman, who made all the arrangements, and also to the various speakers, most of whom spoke at very short notice.

Meeting at Earls Colne

In typical November weather, 43 members of the Northern Division met at St. Andrew's Church, Earls Colne, on the 17 th . This church stands close to the main road from Colchester to Halstead, and has a large west tower which contains a good ring of eight with a 15 cwt . tenor in F .
The Vicar (Rev. B. A. Whitford), who conducted the service, welcomed the members to Earls Colne, and his address was based on Devotion, Discipline and Dedication.
Tea was prepared in the school dining hall, and Miss H. G. Snowden, the District Master, presided over the meeting. One new member from Stisted was elected, and the next meeting, which will be the annual District, will be held at Coggeshall on January 26th. Members were reminded that nominations for the District officers must be sent to the secretary one month before the meeting.
The collection at the service for the Bell $\mathrm{Re}-$ storation Fund amounted to $£ 113 \mathrm{~s}$. 4d.

Mr. L. Mills was congratulated on his teaching at Bures where he started from scratch in 1950, and now they can ring London Surprise Major.
Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar, Mr. W. Arnold and Mr. B. Smith (organist). The various methods rung during the afternoon and evening on the tower- and handbells were by members from Bures, Braintree, Halstead, Pebmarsh, Kelvedon, Witham, Black Notley, Earls Colne, Stebbing, Harwich, Bocking, Colne Engaine, Stisted, Coggeshall, Goldhanger, Colchester and Newmarket.

A peal of some interest is the 5,000 Little Bob Maximus by Mr. G. W. Debenham, rung at St. Albans. According to the sources at our disposal this is the first ever 5,000 of Maximus rung. Ten peals of Little Bob Maximus have been rung-all 5,016 except one $(5,104)$. There have been one peal of Spliced Plain Bob and Little Bob $(5,040)$, three of Duffield Maximus (all 5,040 ) and four of Forward Maximus (three 5,040 and one 5,088 ).

On November 25th the local band at St. Ann's, Stamford Hill, London, rang their 30th quarter peal on the bells this year-a good example of Sunday ringing.
Members of the Reading University Society rang a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples at Wargrave on November 24th as a compliment to their Master on her engagement.

With the peal of Stedman Doubles at Dunkerton on November 1st, Mr. Richard J. Bowden, of Bristol, has rung peals in the method from Doubles to Cinques.
Now 75, Mr. J. Wells, who since the age of 12 has been closely connected with Kimpton, Herts, church as a choirboy and ringer, has rung his first quarter peal. He has several 720's to his credit, but hitherto has been unsuccessful when attempting a quarter peal.

Ringers in North-East Essex learnt with regret of the forthcoming departure from Colchester of Mr. J. H. (Jim) Edwards, who is going to live at Bedford. He learnt to ring on the five at Little Horkesley (destroyed in the Blitz), and shortly after the last war joined the St. Peter's, Colchester, company, where he made rapid progress in Surprise Major ringing. His many friends wish him well in his new appointment, and hope that he will continue his ringing activities in the Bedford district-he will be a big asset to any tower he joins.

BELFRY GOSSIP

It has just come to light that the Rev. J. G. M. Scott participated in the call-change festival at Ashburton on Michaelmas, and rang the seventh in 'Doctor Miner's Mixture.' Afterwards he was presented with a certificate which 'the Mixture ${ }^{\text {? }}$ achieved. Gratified with the honour bestowed on him Mr. Scott remarked that the certificate will probably be the only one to hang on the wall of a private house as distinct from finding a place on the wall of a ringing chamber
For general guidance.-Peals and quarter peals cannot be rung half-muffled in memoriam to an individual and at the same time as a birthday compliment to a ringer.

A Claines (Worcester) householder recently succeeded in his application for a reduction in rates. His chief complaint was the bells on Sundays and peals which lasted six hours!
We regret to hear of the passing of Mr. C. E. Gregory, for many years captain of Blewbury, Berks, lower. To his memory a quarter peal was rung on November 19th.

At Bures, Suffolk, a quarter peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung on November 20 th for a special service to commemorate the 1,100 th anniversary of the coronation in Bures of Edmind, $K$. and $M$.

Twelve peals have now been rung at Frome, as far as is known. Five of the seven peals of Triples while the bells were on plain bearings needed two men for the tenor ( 31 cwt .). Since then she has been turned in four times-by A. P. Cannon in 1938, E. J. Chivers in 1953, David Hoare in 1955 and now by Roger O. Fry. general secretary of the Bath and Wells Association. The peals are these: Stedman Triples, 1890, 1907, 1926 ; Grandsire Triples, 1902, 1913. 1919. 1930, 1954; Bob Major. 1955; Cambridge Major, 1953; Double Norwich, 1938 and 1956.

NEWARK HONOURS DELIGHTFUL MYTH

The Gopher Dinner

THE fourth annual Gopher Dinner of the Newark Parish Church Ringers' Society was held at the Clinton Arms Hotel, Newark, on November 16th.

The Dinner this year marked the 60th anniversary of the formation of the present local Society. The Society was, however, an original subscriber to The Clavis, and as long ago as 1816 a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in the tower by the local company, and there is strong evidence to support the view that the Society dated back to the 18 th century, and that after a somewhat chequered existence towards the end of the last century was given a new constitution in 1896. That year was a landmark in the history of the Society, which throughout this long period rendered much voluntary service to the church and borough.

The toast of 'The Society' was proposed by Mr. J. H. Jennison, an old member, who recalled the happy days he had spent in the belfry and the comradeship he had enjoyed, and he wished the Society continued sucrese.

Mr. W. L. Exton, the deputy Master, in reply, recounted the past year's activities, and stated that five quarter peals had been sung for service since the last Dinner. He spoke of the 'Down Your Way, programme a few years ago when the Gopher legend was featured and the present Master, Mr. J. W. Raithby, mentioned that Gopher was lost in a fog on the Great North Road in the approaches to Newark and was guided to safety by the sound of the bells.

That version of the story, said Mr. Exton, did not find favour amongst a section of the public, and letters poured in averring that Gopher was lost at Langford, Muskham, Kelham and Farndon Fields. Further, that he lost his way in the forest, or in a fog, and was saved from robbers, from falling into the River Trent and from the marshes. There was even controversy about the epelling of his name, and no one knew what year or century he was lost. Of course, the story was a myth, but a very delightful one, and the Society still rang in his memory for a period of six weeks, commencing the twelfth Sunday before Christmas.

THE THREE P's OF RINGING
Mr. Exton commended the three P's of ring-ing-patience, practice and perseverance-and stated that ringers were judged by what they put into ringing and not what they took out.

The toast of 'The President ' was given by Mr. D. N. Sellars, who mentioned that last year the president, the Rev. J. H. D. Grinter, had stated that at his induction scrvice he had purposely chimed himself in 21 times so that people would know he had come to stay. Mr. Sellars remarked he now had only another 20 years left !
The president. in reply, spoke in very appreciative terms of the services performed by the Society.

Past Members' was proposed by Mr. J. W. Raithby, the Master, who stated that a Society was what its members made it. In the course of time traditions and customs wero developed, and if the development had been on the right lines esprit de corps automatically followed.

Members came and went. Some stayed over a long period-others flitted across the soene. Succeeding members stood on the shoulders of former members and the wealth of experience

A happy picture at the Kent County Association dinner of the Archbishop of Canterbury presenting Mrs. F. M. Mitchell with a framed picture of SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Milton-next-Gravesend, their church for many years. Behind stands her son, Mr. F. A Mitchell. To the regret of the company, Mr. F. M. Mitchell, who is now 78, was not well enough to attend the dinner. His services to the Kent County Association have been conspicuous. When Mr. Mitchell had completed 25 vears in senior office- 17 years as secretary and treasurer and eight as treasurer-his great service was recognised by a presentation of a cheque for $\mathbf{5 5 0}$.
Last Easter, because of age and indifferent health, Mr. Mitchell finally relinquished active office (he is now a vice-president). The Association dinner was regarded as an appropriate moment for the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell.

The picture was specially taken by a 'Kent Messenger' photographer, and we are indebted to this newspaper for the above illustration.
culable. A member-and still an active onefor 60 years, and Master for 40 . A man of strong character; a keen disciplinarian; an accomplished ringer and conductor. He pursued his path resolutely and turned neither to the right nor the left. His motto could have been 'Service' if he ever thought of a motto. By sheer personality and doggedness he kept the band together and the bells ringing for services week in and week out, year in and year out, week (Continued foot of next column.)

FOUR PEALS IN A DAY

$\mathrm{A}^{\mathrm{L}}$LTHOUGH four peals in a day have been rung at least five times before, it is still sufficiently uncommon to be worth attempting again. It was for this reason that Mr. G. K. Dodd, of Highclere, Hants, decided to get together a band from his own county, with additions from Berkshire and Surrey, to make an attempt on November 17th. All four peals were successful, and this was the first time that this has been achieved in Hampshire. Four of the company rang in all four peals, and three of them rang in three peals.

Three of the party arrived on Friday evening, November 16th, to stay the weekend with Geoff. Dodd and his wife Sylvia, and two others appeared early on Saturday morning.

A 6 a.in. rise was necessary to enable an early start for Cambridge Minor at East Woodhay at $7.13 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$., and the first peal of Minor on these quiet bells came round at 9.52 a.m. While ringing the last 720 , a lady appeared through the curtains, asking who was in charge. Fears of a stoppage were soon dispelled when the lady turned out to be the Vicar's wife, inviting us to coffec after the peal! The Rev. E. W. Ormerod welcomed us at the Vicarage, and the refreshment was much appreciated. At the next tower, Woolton Hill, Malcolm Cloke was waiting for us, having spent some time adjusting the ropes. Six methods were duly rung on a noisy ring, beginning at 10.43 a.m. and finishing at 1.22 p.m. The Rev. and Mrs. S. Culverweli kindly provided a sandwich lunch, which was quite sufficient to keep us going.
Mr. Reg. W. Rex was waiting for us at Highclere to enable us to ring a good and fast peal of Cambridge Major, starting at 2.43 p.m. and finishing at $5.23 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$
A very nice tea, provided by Mrs. Dodd, senior, was much appreciated and put us in good trim for the last attempt. This was at Burghclere, and the Vicar, the Rev. C. Legard. welcomed us in the church. He had asked that the bells be fully-muffled to avoid any complaints. Five methods were well ring, starting at 6.37 p.m. and finishing at 9.16 p.m., the first Minor on the bells.

At the finish of the peal the band were rather sorry that a fifth attempt could not be fitted in, as all felt very fit! The band are very grateful to the various incumbents for granting permission for the use of their bells, and to those who kindly provided refreshment.

To prove they had plenty of energy left, Geoff. Dodd and the writer rang another peal on Sunday at St. Mary Bourne, and believe themselves to be the first ringers to score five peals in two days in five different towers.
Altogether a very successful and enjoyable weekend. and the party thank Gcoff. Dodd for his excellent arrangements, and his wife, Sylvia, for her kind hospitality.
A. P. C.
decade after decade. He literally kept the Society in being despite two world wars. That was a stupendous achievement.
In reply, Mr. Thrale related several anecdotes connected with the past 60 years, and wished the Society continued prosperity.
'The Visitors,' who included many friends from the Notlingham District and from Southwell and North Muskham. was praposed in delightful yein by Mr. F . $\dot{\mathrm{W}}$. Midwinter and relightful yein by Mr. F. W. Midwinter and replied to by Mr. C. W. Towers. J. W. R.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Lewisham District

Lewiskam District held their annual District meeting at SS. Peter and Paul, Bromley, when just over 50 ringers, representing 14 towers, attended. The service in church was preceded by ringing, superintended by Miss M. Andrews. District Ringing Master.

The bright and enjoyable service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. W. Murray-Walton, who warmly welcomed his congregation to his church, in process of being so magnificently rebuilt. Mr. E. Barnett, of Crayford, read the lesson. The well-chosen hymns were sung lustily. thanks largely to the inspiration of the organist's accompaniments.
The local ringers and friends arranged an attractive, substantial tea in the Church Institute, at which the Vicar presided. Before leaving to attend to other duties, the Vicar reiterated his welcome; and hoped the members would again visit Bromley at not too distant a date.

Mr. A. S. Richards (West Wickham) presided at the business mecting at which nine ringers were elected members of the Association, and the election of one member was ratified. The chairman read a letter from Mr. I. Emery, of the local band and connected with the belfry there for 69 years, apologising for his absence.
A report of the past year's activities, read by the District secretary, was adopted. Arising from this report, Mr. J. Dafters (Lewisham) informed the meeting of the disturbing state of the tower at St. Margaret's, Lee, and of efforts being made to ensure the continuance of a ring of bells there. Mr. Dafters was warmly thanked for his work in connection with this matter.
Officers for the ensuing year were all reelected, viz.: Mr. A. G. Hill, hon. District secretary; Messrs. A. S. Richards and J. Dafters, District representatives, and Miss M. Andrews. of Bexley, District Ringing Master.
St. Nicholas', Chislehurst. was chosen for the next mecting on January 26th.
A cordial vote of thanks to the Vicar. the local ringers and their friends, the organist and the chairman, ended the business meeting.

Ashford District

A good attendance encourged the new officers of the Ashford District at Bethersden on November 17th. Approximately 37 ringers and friends sat down to a good tea which had been arranged by Mr. Harry Jarvis and was served by the local lady ringers.

Canon McMichael, who welcomed the ringers in the absence through illness of the Vicar, conducted the service. Mr. Garner was at the organ and the lesson was read by the new Ringing Master, Mr. John Cooper.
After a short business mecting members adjourned to the pleasant ringing chamber, where ringing from rounds to London Surprise Minor was continued until $90^{\circ}$ clock.
C. T. H.

The new bells of North Stoneham will be dedicated by the Bishop of Southampton on Saturday, December 8th, at 3 p.m.
An attempt for a peal of Grandsire Cinques at Newcastle Cathedral was lost after 3 hours and 10 minutes. Some of the band, however, had a compensation with a peal of London Surprise Major.

Plain' is Deleted

11 has been decided to discontinue the addition of the word 'Plain' 10 the title of peals and quarter peals of Plain Bob on all numbers of bells, thus reverting to the traditional usage.

This is in accordance with a resolution reaffirmed by the Central Council in 1955. part of which states that the Council is of the opinion that no alteration should be made in the names of old and historical methods, except where urgently necessary:
Will all concerned please nore.

PEAL RINGING UNDER DIFFICULTIES

The peal at Ecclesfield reported this week was not uneventful. The tower door had been locked and the key left on the inside, but during the second 720 the ringing chamber door opened and a man walked into the belfry, removed a key from a hook and disappeared as strangely as he had come.
Some half-an-hour later he reappeared, walked across the ringing chamber, round the rope circle, eventually sat down on a bench behind the tenor and took out a packet of cigarettes! The conductor politely asked him to leave the belfry. It turned out that ne was a frustrated clock winder who had another key to a door from the church. He was in an aggressive mood and promptly entered into a lengthy argument with the conductor, only leaving when he learned that ringing was expected to continue for another two hours and that the band had every intention of ensuring that it would continue for that time.
Despite the fact that half the band had very little experience in peal ringing, the peal was successfully brought round with only a temporary disturbance of the ringing. E. H. E.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN

Shortly after 7 a.m. on Sunday, October 28th, the six bells at Kingston Seymour were ringing for Holy Communion service, on the occasion of the Chew Deanery Branch's visit for their bi-annual Corporate Communion. Twenty ringers were present at Communion, when the celebrant was the Rector (Rev. P. W. R. Rowlands). After the service breakfast was provided by Mrs. Norton in the Village Hall. Towers represented were Wrington, Long Ashton, Nailsea. Yatton. Kingston Seymour and Clutton, with visitors from the Axbridge Branch (Bleadon and Uphill). Votes of thanks to the Rector and Mrs. Norton concluded the sociable brcakfast-table conversation.

A very well attended practice meeting of the Chew Branch was held on the six at Tickenham on Nov. 17th. The bells were kept ringing in methods to suit all from 5 o'clock until 8, and ringing included Cambridge and London Surprise Minor and about half a lead (!) of Oswald Delight. Ringing was under the direction of Mr. H. W. Knight, the Branch Ringing Master.

YATTON RINGERS IN DEVONSHIRE

On October 10th the mail train with its reserved coach was specially stopped at Yatton for the main party. who found that eight who were to have joined the train at Bristol were missing. Further ringers were picked up en route to Devon, and on leaving the train at Totnes the stationmaster caused further concern with a message that two more had been left behind at Taunton (one of these was supposed to be our organiser, who was still with us!). A check showed none missing. so we set out to ring on Devon's heaviest eight.

At the advice of the local captain, two extras were put on the back end for rising, but this was not found really necessary at our speed as compared with the quick, energetic rises of the call-changers.'
After refreshments we journeyed by coach through the Dart valley to ring at Ashburton, where :he lights went out and stayed out during a heavy storm. A couple of miles brought us to Buckfast Abbey, where a slight delay gave an opportunity to look round this interesting building. Here our youngest ringer 'chimed ' the Bourdon.
After tea came Bovey Tracey with its somewhat lighter eight. The church was much admired and of special interest was a beautiful modern copy of Hunt's 'Light of the World.'
As often happens on outings, the heaviest ring came last; this time with no doubt-Exeter Cathedral. With plenty of help on the back end a creditable rise was made on the back ten, this being the first attempt to the knowledge of Mr. Wreford, who met us here.
A return to British Railways and almost all activity stopped at St. David's station, while handbells were rung on the platform. Further handbell ringing with happy company made the journey home seem very short.

Ringing on the tower bells ranged from rounds on 12 to Grandsire Cinques. Thanks are extended to all connected with the towers we visited and to Mr. Bert Price for so highly organising the outing (even the tickets were specially printed).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY

Dear Sir,-I must congratulate Dr. Richard Price on his letter concerning the self-styled College of Campanology. I feel sure that he has expressed most clearly the opinions of many ringers who have successfully trained muchneeded recruits for the belfry without all the much-padded and verbose instructions for the 'belfry schoolroom' which the Manual proposes. I also would be most interested to meet -it would have to be in about five years' time I would think-a beginner whose keenness and interest in ringing has managed to survive this appallingly stiff and formal course.

Concerning the whole affair, I find myself in full agreement with Mr. P. A. Corby. There can be only one body which is competent to sponsor a scheme of this type if it is to be recognised nationally-the Central Council; and if Mr . Corby makes his proposition at next year's meeting 1 , if still a member of the Council, shall certainly give it full support. There have been, and still are, many informal schools of ringing-the St. John's School of Ringing at Bristol is an example-but none of these has seen fit to set itself up as the one great authority in the teaching of ringing. If the pos session of a College 'Diploma' is now considered as essential before one can be considered a reasonable ringer and fit to teach others, then one can only assume that all the great ringers and instructors of this country are to be reckoned unqualified!

Incidentally, I wonder whether any of our Portsmouth friends would care to give us their opinions as to the organisation which is rising in their midst. One assumes that the belfries of the Cathedral or St. Mary's, Portsea, are being used for the instruction of trainees, and it would be most interesting to hear something from the leaders of these towers - including some statistics as to the number of broken stays, etc.-or is this an indelicate question
Yours sincercly.
Hildenborough.

PETER N. BOND

QUOTING SCRIPTURE

Dear Sir,-I see Y.-B. is quoting the scriptures: perhaps Habakkuk i, 5 (quoted in Acts xiii, 41) would be a little more typical, and no doubt an opponent will cite 1 Cor. $v$ with emphasis on 'Put away the wicked man,' or, perhaps more to the point. suggest that if ringing is ordained of God it needs no Y.-B. to help. Bible quoting is too easy to be really worthwhile except in a really fundamentalist world.Yours sincerely, Christ Church. Oxford.

Note.-Habakkuk i, 5: Behold ye among the heathen, and regard, and wonder marvellously: for I will work a work in your days, which ye will not believe though it be told you. -Ed.

Dear Sir, - Apropos Mr. York-Bramble's letter, it is unfortunate that the chapter of his Biblical refence is omitted. Is it possible that the Book referred to is not the 'Acts' but that he intended to use Deuteronomy 28, vv. 38 and 39?

If so, may we hope that-although the nibbling is taking place-the sequel will not be the same?-Yours faithfully,
W. P. GARNER.

DIPLOMAS AND BADGES?

Dear Sir,-I have read with much interest, and sometimes amusement, the recent letters published in 'The Ringing World ' with respect to the College of Campanology and the arguments for and against its survival, and have realised that too much attention is being paid to the opinions of prominent ringers and not enough to the back-of-beyond ringers and the not-so-well-known ringers.

In his last letter ('R.W.', Nov. 23rd) Mr. A. York-Bramble states that amongst the people directing future activities of the College there are 11 members of the Central Council. Does he mean by this that we have got to resign ourselves to the fact that the College is established as having the backing of the majority of ringers? The fact that the Central Council representative of a Guild or Association is interested in the work of the College is entirely irrelevant as to whether its work will further the development of good ringing, or not. Incidentally, I wonder how many of these 11 people have made it known to the Guilds which they represent on the Central Council that they are backing the College and how many still keep it a dark secret unti they see which way the wind is! going to blow?

May I also express an opinion on the suggestion of Mr. N. Champness ( ${ }^{\text {R.W.W.' Nov. } 23 \mathrm{rd} \text { ). }}$ Is it necessary for a ringer to wear a badge to tell everyone how proficient he is?--that, to my mind, is just egotism. When a ringer visits a tower for the first time he is invariably asked what he is able to ring-that's belfry etiquette; surely, unless he is dumb, he is able to say what he can ring without having a badge to prove it. I agree that it would encourage the youngsters to attain a higher level of proficiency, but wouldn't it have the same effect that the diplomas, etc.. of the College of Campanology are likely to have in the future, namely, "Only holders of a Diploma or "silver bell" are permitted to ring here '?

In closing, may I point out to Mr . YorkBramble that if he thinks that this letter is longwinded, etc., will he please remember that it's not everyone who has regular practice at submitting letters to 'The Ringing World.'-Yours faithfully.

BATS IN THE BELFRY

Dear Sir, -In answer to your correspondent, Mr. F. A. Cluett. of Gravesend, we should like to point out that the bat which appeared in the advertisement to which he refers is not a local resident. When the artist requested permission to sketch our bell chamber he did enquire whether we could also provide the bat, but al though we suspect their existence we were unable to induce one to appear whilst he was at work.-Yours faithfully.
D. COLGATE.

Sevenoaks

Dear Sir.-In reply to Mr. F. A. Cluett, a bat did appear in the belfry at Worplesdon. I was, at the time, just learning to ring a bell down when the other ringers present drew my attention to a bat which had descended the chute of the bell I was attempting to lower, and was circling round my head. Being rather tied up in knots I did not look up until my bell was safely downwards, but then, alas, the bat had disappeared, so I still haven't seen a bat in a belfry. Yours. etc.

Guildford. Surrey.

ANN M. COX.

CHURCHMANSHIP AND. BELLRINGING.
Dear Sir,-Many thanks to J. T. D. for hisleading article, and with him I agree the time has come when some thought might be given tothis question.

I do, however, wonder whether, as a body, we are quite clear of criticism on one point. Whilst we deprecate the "lordly air of condescension on Sundays, etc.,' do we not somewhat condone this by accepting ringers as "unattached '? I may be sticking my neck out here as there may be good and sufficient reasons why some ringers register as such, although I must admit I can see none.

Is it wrong to suggest that ringers who enjoy the art should at least realise some degree of loyalty and take a little of the responsibility by attaching themselves to their own or other suitable tower? Surely this is not expecting too much. After all, someone has to keep the towers, bells and ropes fit for their use. If this form of membership was abolished it would, I think, be one step toward the realisation of the sentiments expressed by the final paragraph of J. T. D.'s admirable article.

I'm afraid I do not quite see eye to cye with him regarding footnotes, as I do not think quite as many peals are footnoted for Patronal Festivals as it would lead us to suppose. To my mind, far too many mundanc events are made the subject of a peal. Perhaps, one day, who knows, we may see a conductor take his courage in both hands and footnote a peal "To the glory of God.' After all, that's one of the main reasons why the bells are where they are.Yours sincerely,
W. J. GAIT.

PRIVETTS SILENT BELLS

Dear Sir,-May I through your columns let those interested know that the bells of Privett Church, near Petersfield, are now silent owing to the state of the stonework of the tower. As many will remember, this church stands on the top of a high hill, and although less than a hundred years old, weathering in such an exposed position is extensive. Most of the damage is around the louvres at bell chamber level.

The cost of repairs is $£ 400$ and the local ringers are appealing for help to get the work done. Privctt is little more than a hamlet, and the money cannot be completely raised in the parish in time to prevent further decay.
If anyone has rung there or has any association with the parish and they feel they can contribute to the fund, their donation, however small, will be gratefully acknowledged by Mr. D. Pearce, churchwarden and secretary of ringers, 35. Church Cottages, Privett, Alton. Hampshire. -Yours sincerely,

CHARLES E. BASSETT (Hon. Sec.), Alton and Petersfield District. Winchester and Portsmouth Guild.
Southampton.

SPLICED ERIN AND STEDMAN TRIPLES
Dear Sir,-The first peal of Triples in these two methods was rung at Bushey, Herts, on August 26th, 1939, by the Hertford County Association, and was conducted by Mr. H. G. Cashmore. The composition was J. W. Parker's No. 1 and contained 3,960 Stedman and 1,080 Erin with 300 changes of method. Mr. Harris, please note.-Yours faithfully.

149. Some Faults in Instruction.

Again, this is not an exhaustive list, but is fairly typical of what is, unfortunately, too general in ringing training. The appendix has been compiled as an aid to those who, while conscientious, yet find their training scheme to fall short of expected results. (All these points are covered in the Manual.)

1. Neglect to give a clear and interesting introduction to the whole subject.
2. Failure to appreciate pupil's type and treat accordingly. (Treatment not flexible.)
3. Neglect to follow a planned course of instruction, with modification for pupil types, as necessary.
4. Illogical arrangement of subject matter.
. Poor presentation and lack of illustration.
Failure to stimulate and maintain interest.
5. Omission of salient steps (often thought to be rather too "pernickety'), e.g., rope approach, orientation, proximity, stance, etc., which steps actually often make or mar a ringer.
6. Failure to check every fault and instantly. (Over 30 common.)
7. Neglect to ask and invite questions of the pupil.
8. Failure to train pupil's ear from the beginning.
9. Allowing 'bell to ring pupil' as soon as he can be left solo, instead of bell balancing.
10. Allowing pupil to attempt 'open' ringing in concert (in rounds, for example) before he has acquired real bell control. (At least $80 \%$ pulls 'balanced.')
11. Failure to stress PRECISION of striking from first ringing in concert, and to use the ear principally.
12. Failure to teach the elements of method ringing before beginning a set method.
13. Attempting to teach without the co-operation of the more experienced ringers in the later stages, no matter whether teacher or ringers are to blame. (Refers, of course, to towers where there are ringers.)
14. (A general criticism of the tower band.) Waiting until the band is one short, before starting recruitment and training of beginners.
[End of Part I of the Manual. Contents of remaining six Parts were indicated in Article 18 of Section II.]

OBITUARY  CANON J. HUGHES

The Chester Diocesan Guild has lost a good friend in Canon J. Hughes, for 22 years Vicar of Rostherne. A faithful parish priest who went about doing his job in this country village, he was always ready to welcome ringers, and on the occasion of the last visit of the Stockport Branch to his church he conducted the service although he had been instructed by the doctor to take things easy.
He was laid to rest in Rostherne churchyard on November 14th, when the service was conducted by the Rt. Rev. D. H. Saunders-Davies, Bishop of Stockport. The bells were rung halfmuffled and the evening before an "in memoriam' extent of Bob Minor was rung by R. Smith 1, Miss A. P. Brown 2, Mrs. C. K. Lewis 3, A. R. Elkins 4, A. J. Brbwn 5; C. K. Lewis 6.

AN AUGUST HOLIDAY IN DEVONSHIRE

$\mathrm{O}^{\mathrm{N}}$N August 18th a grey coach left Windsor, and as it passed through the towns of Slough, Beaconsfield, High Wycombe, Marlow and Reading it acquired, as a tramp steamer does, a very mixed cargo!-the freight being ringers of both sexes between 17 and 70 years young.

Heavy traffic and tank transporters combined, and we arrived at Sherborne Abbey about a quarter of an hour before the time we should have been leaving for Exeter. Thanks to the local ringers who met us, and the authorities at the Abbey, we were allowed to ring after a service ended. We did not do justice to this grand ring of bells, however. Probably the hurried nature of our visit had something to do with this.
We reached Exeter, our headquarters for the week, in time for tea before making our way to the Cathedral for the monthly practice.

SUNDAY AT TEIGNMOUTH

On Sunday the party assembled at St. David's to ring for service at 10 o'clock. Some went to St. Mark's Church, others to St. Thomas', and rang for services at 11 o'clock. After this ringing a good percentage stayed to the services. In the afternoon the coach conveyed the party to Teignmouth. Here the afternoon passed very quickly as swimming, walking, eating, boating or just lazing in the sun was indulged in. Ringing in the evening took place at St. James Church. Cambridge Major is quite interesting to ring with the congregation passing through the rope circle as they enter the church. Later on St. Michael's bells were rung for the holidaymakers' service at 9 p.m.
Monday's programme started with a visit to Broad Clyst, a lovely eight. Some fairly good rinying, rot a good fall, and a teeny-weeny bit of belfrymanship! At Silverton a lady came to the church for peace and quiet. She didn't mind the bells but she objected to some people walking very quietly round the church! Tiverton bells were much admired.
In the afternoon Cullompton, Bradninch and Ottery St. Mary were visited. Our 10 -bell ringing was poor, but at Ottery St. Mary we made amends for this with some really good stuff, followed by a lovely tea. In the evening we broke a rope at Clyst-Honiton and caused its successor to moult badly. After straying into a farmyard we found Sowton Church.
Tuesday's start from Queen's Hotel was delayed by a brewer's dray which blocked our way. Eventually, we made haste to South Molton. The rise here was led by a local ringer. His advice not to hang about too long had such an effect that a rocket-like rise resulted. Fairly good, too. as was the ringing and the lower. Pilton bellis were rung as we made our way to Bideford and lunch.

At Bideford we had a long wait for a local ringer who hadn't turned up, before the verger would allow anyone to enter the belfry. A good lower in peal here. At Northam a stay was bent by a young gentjeman, whose enthusiasm for pulling up waned after this event. More key hunting at Great Torrington, but a good rise, tinging and fall when it was eventually found. Crediton, our last call, has a nice heavy ring of eight, and also a fish and chip shop. judging by the number of people eating this delicacy on the homeward run!
The very pleasant bells of Moreton Hampstead Church were rung on Wednesday morning as we journeyed towards Tavistock. The tenor clapper at Tavistock had broken a few days before so we did not experience the pleasure of the full octave. Minor and Triples on the front seven had to suffice. Buckland Monachorum was the next tower on the list. Between here and Compton Gifford we wandered off the beaten track. This resulted in our coach taking us up a very narrow road with hairpin bends and high stone banks on each side. Rise, fall and ringing were all quite good at Compton Gifford; then on to St. Maurice, Plympton. The course of London here must surely have been the slowest on the bells. An irate lady living close to the tower expressed, in very plain, lucid language her opinion of bells and ringers! Ashburton bells were available after tea.

A THUNDERSTORM

Early rising must have upset some of our folk on Thursday, because although the rise and fall were fairly good, most of the ringing was poor. The fault was not in Chudlcigh bells but at the end of the ropes. At Kingsteignton form was regained and striking improved. An early arrival at Wolborough came as a mild shock to all the occupants of the coach. At Totnes we received a watery welcome from the clerk of the weather. The welcome in the tower, the bells and ringing more than compensated for the thunderstorm. When we left Totnes the coach showed that it resented being left out in the rain and poured a few gallons on to the folk under its sunshine roof. Practice with the local ringers at Heavitree, preceded by Paignton bells and Upton, Torquay, made a very satisfying finish to the day.

Friday seemed to have arrived very quickly. We had a fairly long run to Hatherleigh. From here we went to Holsworthy, where the bells were ringing as we arrived. The bells here are quite famous, and an organ voluntary has been composed on the airs played on them by a carillon. Ringing not very good here. Then Stratton bells were enjoyed before going to St. Stephen's, Launceston. Two people rang in the first touch here, burried to view some carved pew-ends in another church the other side of the town, rushed back to the coach, having walked between one-and-a-half and two miles. Imagine their surprise when they found that the place selected for providing tea was about 20 yart's from the church they visited! After tea we had the real pleasure of ringing Lifton bells. A lovely mellow ring this. Our coach then wandered by way of a very narrow road again to Okehampton. This road joined the major road close to the church, but just before the two met a sharp bend and a drop of five or six fcet made things difficult for the driver. It looked impossible to get so large a vehicle round the corner, but our driver rose to the occasion and manceuvred out on to the road amidst applause.
After ringing at Okehampton we returned to Exeter for the last night of the tour. Mr. Barker, on behalf of the company, expressed our thanks to Mr. Cox for organising such a happy week in a county so rich in really good rings of bells. Mrs. Barker then presented him with a set of door chimes and a biscuit barrel. Tony replied, and then the company were entertained by some tune- and change-ringing before dispersing to quench their thirst.
On the homeward journey ringing took place at Chard, Queen Camel and Bramley. To incumbents and local ringers we express our sincere thanks.

During the week between 1,200 and 1.300 steps were climbed. Our skill at embarking and disembarking increased, but for sheer speed we can never hope to equal some of the non-ringers on the way to their meals!

RINGERS' OUTINGS

BARSHAM, SUFFOLK

On November 3rd a party of teenage ringers from Beccles, Barsham, Norwich and Mulbarton spent an enjoyable afternoon ringing in Norwich.

Owing to the fact that the eight bells of St. John-de-Sepulchre were found to be unobtainable at the last moment, the party proceeded somewhat ahead of schedule to the Church of St. George-in-Colegate ( $6,93 \mathrm{cwt}$ ).

These bells were very much admired for "go and tone. Ringing here consisted of 'Queens ' and call-changes, and some well-struck courses of Plain Bob Doubles were brought round on the back five. A course of Grandsire came to an abrupt end two changes before the bells should have come round. A method of rather doubtful composition, invented at Barsham's last practice night and named 'Barsham Bob,' was rung. Before we left we rang a course of Doubles on the front five to satisfy the treble ringer's passion for Minor fives.

The short journey to the church ot St . Michael-at-Coslany proved comparatively silent as the organiser produced some extraordinarily bulky home-made toffees (?), guaranteed to silence the most voluble member of the party for at least ten minutes. The glue-content of this type of sweet is obviously very high.

On arrival at St. Michael's we deemed it expedient to leave the front two of the eight (14 cwt.) unraised, as these bells have a 'reputation.' The tenor bell proved a source of amusement to a certain individual who rarely rings a bell weighing more than $6 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. (Barsham tenor). Call-changes and Bob Doubles were successfully rung on these fine-toned, if somewhat roughgoing, bells. Having descended to the body of the church, an agonised wail was heard from the ringing chamber. It was discovered that the most diminutive ringer had been inadvertently locked in. After this incident the party went their several ways.

The thanks of the party are accorded to the clergy and to our organiser T. N. J. B.

BOLSOVER

On November 3rd Bolsover Parish Church ringers, with friends from Chesterfield, Warsop and Worksop, enjoyed a half-day outing.

Mr. J. W. Cotton very kindly arranged for ringing at Ashby-de-la-Zouch, Netherseal and Overseal. The coach was delayed in Nottingham by the University Rag procession, but Mr . Beardsmore patiently waited to welcome the visitors at Ashby, and the bells were soon raised in peal. Methods rung included Bob Major, Double Norwich, Little Bob Major, Cambridge, Superlative and Yorkshire Surprise Major.

At Netherseal a meeting of the Midland Counties Guild was in progress, and the two parties were provided with tea in the local Village Hall. Mr. W. H. Curzon welcomed the visitors and made friendly reference to former stalwarts from the Chesterfield District, including the Knights family and John Flint. Mr. Cooper suitably replied and thanked the ladies for the splendid arrangements made for tea.

By urrangement with the members of the Midland Counties Guild the visitors were able to make good use of the bells at Netherseal whilst a business meeting was in progress. Miss Joan and Mr. Peter Beresford, of Lichfield. were inviled to ring with the party at Netherseal and later at Overseal, where ringing continued until nearly $8 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. The two light rings were pushed along at a merry pace to methods which included Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major, Forward Major, Double Norwich, Cambridge, Superlative and Yorkshire Surprise Major.

On the way home an excellent dinner was enjoyed at the Highfields Hotel, Ashby-de-laZouch, and the coach eventually reached Bolsover in the early hours of Sunday morning. The members wish to express thanks for the kindness of all who so readily assisted with the arrangements for this outing and a previous one in Lancashire in June.

EWELL, SURREY

The Ewell outing this year took place on the day commemorated as the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary. It was therefore fitting that the ringers of St. Mary's should visit on this day five churches in Oxfordshire, each one also dedicated to St. Mary.

Our arrival at Henley-on-Thames 20 minutes early gave us time to explore the church with the Vicar, who had been inducted only a few days before. He made the 60 of us very welcome. By 9 o'clock we were ringing this fine eight (tenor $21 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.), while from the top of the tower others were admiring the excellent view.
Another very pleasant 20 miles brought us to Thame, where we found the large church with its big square tower abounding in interest. In the centre of the chancel stands a huge white marble tomb with effigies of Lord Williams, of Thame, and his wife. There are eight bells (tenor 13 cwt .), and being easily accessible we look the opportunity of having a look at them. Coming to Banbury, 30 miles on, we had a very satisfying lunch before visiting our only 10 -bell church of the day, the quaint red-sandstone edifice with its huge round tower, dominating the town and appearing at first sight more like a town hall or museum.
The piecc-de-résistance was our next callHome Farm, at the small village of Balscott. Here we found the lightest ring of six in the world, cast in 1952 (tenor 1 cwt . $21 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{lb}$.). The bells are hung in a small outhouse adjoining the kitchen and are partly visible from outside. Peals of laughter filled the farmyard when we first caught sight of them and the diminutive rope-ends hanging in the confined space below. Having left the spacious tower at Banbury only 15 minutes earlier, the contrast did seem comical. More laughter was caused when first attempts at ringing were made; we couldn't even ring them upl

Mr. Jarvis, our host, who had been looking on at the futile efforts of the experts, showed us how to do it. Calmly taking a rope in each hand, he rang up treble and second; similarly with $3 / 4$, followed by $5 / 6$. After a time, when they had recovered from their amazement, some of the party began to make a fair show; but even then, just as you thought you had mastered the technique, you found your bell involuntarily lowered!

We had left the Chilterns at Thame: this part of the county, bordering on the Cotswold Hills, we found most beautiful as we travelled on to Witney, where tea was waiting. Ringing at the church followed and was greatly enjoyed. A truly magnificent 156 ft . spire surmounts the cruciform church. which occupies a commanding situation, overlooking the green and the town to the north and spacious meadows to the south.

Bampton, 600 years famous for its horse fair on August 26th and Morris dancing on Whit Monday, is justly proud of its beautiful church. Like that at Witney, it is cruciform and has a spire 170 ft . high, with wonderful flying buttresses supporting large figures of saints, most impressive in the gathering dusk. The once coloured and gilded stone reredos is 600 years old; the three-storied Easter Sepulchre is 15 th century. We rang these splendid bells for a long time, finally groping our way out in the dark.

The 70 miles return journey gave us time to ponder on the things we had seen and heard and enjoyed, until one coach became wedged against the parapet of a narrow bridge across a stream. With this adventure and subsequent nocturnal meanderings we arrived at Ewell at midnight, a 17-hour day.

BELLS OF SAN FRANCISCO EL GRANDE, MADRID

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and edisor until his death in 1942.

THE COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY AND ITS PLACE IN RINGING

APROPHET is ever without honour in his own country, and how many valuable innovations and inventions have been lost to the country of their origin only to rebound against that country in future years. So may be the fate of the proposed College of Campanology except that there is not at present any other country to which its work can be offered.

At this stage one is not concerned so much with the contents of the 'Manual' except to say that a lot of work has gone into its compilation, and for those with the time and the inclination the publication of the second part is no doubt eagerly awaited.

A point however to which some are asking for information is after what cathedral the system has been named. No one at present appears to be able to identify any particular cathedral as having similar training methods. This is only a minor point, and our purpose is more to examine and analyse broadly the purposes and policies of the proposed college.

Recent debates and decisions of the Central Council recognise the desirability of some general work on the teaching of learners, and to this extent it can no doubt be said that the new body conflicts with what has already been set in motion by the Council. But the Council has never considered it has any prerogative in ringing publications. On the other hand it has supported outside enterprise. The Jasper Snowden Series and the Ringers' Handbook are only two such efforts which receive Council support.

The proposed college, however, apparently intends to go further than merely publishing a treatise and to confer diplomas of efficiency on the satisfactory completion of examinations. Tutorial establishments, whilst providing suitable test papers on what they assume will be points raised by examiners, do not usually also compile the final examination questions. Reading the suggested constitution of the proposed college, it is in itself to be both teacher and examiner. Surely the proper function of such a college is to prepare candidates for examination by a central authority, which in the case we now review would be the Central Council of Church Bellringers.

If this assumption is correct, then it presupposes recognition of the college by the Central Council and the setting up by the Council of an examining body, to prepare and mark theoretical papers by candidates submitted by the college and to arrange for such candidates to be examined in practice. Whether or not the Council will take such a step is not yet known, for so far as we are aware no application along these lines has yet been made, and one would assume that before compiling a Manual of Instruction it would be advisable to obtain some guidance from the examining body.

The letter headed 'Hard Facts about the College ' raises some interesting points. It must be encouraging to the Central Council to know it has the support of the proposed college, and Council members will indeed be honoured to feel that they will have preference as officers of the college. Perhaps we shall see the day when Council members will be required to produce their diplomas before being eligible to vote at meetings or even be considered as candidates for election as representatives.

Truly the Council has not prohibited teaching activity without its prior permission, nor, it must be emphasised, does it confer diplomas of efficiency. Again, neither has the Council indicated it will recognise the qualifications granted by a college which, as has already been said, sets its own papers after itself giving tuition.

Mr.. Price. in his letter on page 731 (November 16th), succinctly summarises the matter when he refers to informality as one of the most delightful attractions of bellringing, which by its removal will discourage rather than encourage recruits to the Exercise.

YOUNG RINGERS' KEENNESS IN EAST DEVON

In a rural part of East Devon there are three small parishes, Farway ( 3 bells), Northleigh ( 4 bells) and Southleigh ( 4 bells), with a total population of about 600 , yet they can muster 27 young ringers who regularly ring at these three towers. The ringing was started by Mr. F. W. Foot in 1952, and it was thought to be ${ }_{2}$ ' $f$ flash in the pan,' but as can be seen by the present number this is not so.

Recently a competition was arranged amongst the ringers and was held at Northleigh. Four teams of four ringers competed, the captains being Michael Berry, Michael Denning, Philip Tucker and Leslie Glanville. The Rector of these three parishes, the Rev. W. Wright, conducted a short service which was well attended, and then the ringing commenced. This consisted of rising in peal, rounds and Stand. Then five minutes of changes, a form of Bob Minimus changing on each sally only, and lowering in peal. Quite a good standard was attained.

Afterwards the ringers, together with the two judges-Mr. William Webb, of Honiton, and Mr. Ernest Rowe, of Sidmouth-were invited to the Rectory for a cup of tea and sandwiches.

The keenness amongst these ringers in view of their small number of bells should be a real lesson to other areas where the bells are nor regularly rung.

Two quarter peals with five 'firsts" from Burwell, Cambs, denote the progress of the local Sunday service band, which was formed when the bells were reopened last December. Mr. R. J. Housden, their conductor. has hopes of a first peal by this new band before the end of 1956.

Christmas Bells on the Air

On Christmas Day bells will ring out greetings to the nation, from 9.20 to 9.30 a.m. in the Home Service, from the belfries of Chester Cathedral; All Saints' Parish Church. Long Ashoon, Somerset: St. Thomas's Church, Belfast: St. Mary's Parish Church, Lambeth, London; St. George's Parish Church, Greenock, Renfrewshire: St. Woolos' Cathedral, Newport, Monmouthshire; the Abbey Church of St. Mary and St. Thomas of Canterbury, Wymondham, Norfolk, and (recorded) the. Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem.

All these bells, with the exception of Bethlehem, will be heard 'live.' It will be appreciated that such a broadcast entails, overall. a tremendous amount of work on the part of the Outside Broadcast Department, B.B.C. engineers and the Post Office.

NORWICH DIOCESAN

An Interesting Anniversary
Fifty years ago, on November 5th, 1906, Mr. E. Barker, a Shouldham ringer, journeyed to St. Faith's Church, Gaywood, to take part in the ringing of the six new bells while King Edward passed through the village on his way to open the King's Lynn Grammar School.

On Saturday, November 24th, Mr. Barker was again among the ringers at the church, the occasion this time being the third quarterly meeting of the Western Branch.

Some 40 ringers representing 14 towers attended, and the Master, Mr. C. V. Ebberson, arranged the ringing. The Rector of Gaywood, Rev. D. N. E. Bringloe, conducted the service and the president of the Association, Rev. HI G. Lillingstone (Rector of Marsham), read the lesson. The organist was a local ringer, Mr. D. Little. Relatives and friends of the local band arranged tea, and the profit of $£ 15 \mathrm{~s}$. 9 d . was paid to the Gaywood Bell Fund, which now amounts to $£ 124$.

At the business meeting, at which Rev. R. G. Dodson (Rector of Gressenhall) presided, ten new members were admitted.

The chairman expressed sincere thanks to the ladies who prepared tea, also to the Rector for the use of the bells, and to the organist. Replying, the Rector invited a band from the Western Branch to ring an afternoon peaf at Gaywood.
Methods rung during the afternoon and evening were Plain Bob, Stedman. Grandsire. St. Clement's. Double Court, Double Oxford, Kent, Oxford. and Cambridge Surprise; also rounds and call-changes for the learners.
The next meeting, which is the annual, will be at Fakenham on February 23rd, and the dates for the quarterly meetings are May 25th, August 31 st and November 30th, 1957.

A former member of the Chilvers Coton band, Mr. Harry Wright, who has lived in Umtali, Southern Rhodesia, for the last eight years, in a letter to Mr. A. H. Beamish, writes of his excitement to find a sally in his hand again after a trip of 1,340 miles in 34 days to Durban. Call-changes and Grandsire Doubles with covering bells were rung at both St. Mary's (8) and St. Paul's (10). He mentions meeting a ringer from Rugby and one from Kidderminster.

Owing to the shortage of ringers the peal attempt at Newbury on December 1st was reduced from Grandsire Caters to Bob Major.
Fourteen-years-old Roland Cook rang two peals on December 1st - Yorkshire Surprise Royal at St. Andrew's, Derby, and Bob Minor at Asfordby.
As an act of appreciation for the use of the bells for a peal one reader sends a copy of the performance to the incumbent. A happy idea that could well be followed for outings.

John and Peter Kindred rang their 25th peal together at Loddon on November 19th. So far John has not stood in a peal without his brother Peter.
A happy relationship with ringers has the Rev. Wm. Garner, for the last 21 years Vicar of All Saints'. Madeley, Staffs. The anniversary was marked by a peal in six methods on Madeley bells, and afterwards the Vicar entertained the ringers to tea.
The departure of Mr. Michael Thomas into the Services is regretted by a large circle of friends at Oxford. It was celebrated by a course of Grandsire Doubles rung silent on thumbs ar Oxford Station. Other travellers called in the duly authorised officer, and the latest report from the county asylum is that the ringers are shortly to be allowed out on probation!

GOSSIP

Mr. Frederick Oakhill, who rang the third in the peal at Wotton-under-Edge to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the installation of the bells, has been a ringer at this church for 63 years and a member of the Gloucester and Bristol Association for over 57 years. After the peal the ringers were entertained to tea by Mr. and Mrs. O. Mills.
Seventeen-years-old Donald L. Mills has conducted 17 of his 25 peals. He has now conducted a different composition from every position in the octave.
Mr. John H. Wilson, who rang his first peal at Higham-on-the-Hill. Leicestershire, on Nov 24th. has only one effective arm. He is to be congratulated on the way he handled his bell in his first peal.
Centuries were very much in evidence in the peal of Cambridge Surprise at Hugglescote. It was the 100th together of Roland Beniston and Joseph W. Cotton, and also Arthur E. Rowley and Joseph Cotton.

Mr. T. Merritt, of Bishop's Cannings, Wilts, whose 40th wedding anniversary was commemorated by a quarter peal at Bishop's Cannings on November 28th, has completed 60 years as a ringer in this tower.
A belfry clock is being dedicated at Weston Favell. Northants, at Evensong on Sunday, December 16th, to Joseph W. Linnitt, a Weston Favell ringer, who died seven years ago, aged 26 years. His ringing friends are invited to be present. Ringing is from 5.30 p.m.

The band who rang in the Masonic peal at Southport on November 24th wish to thank the Vicar (the Rev. B. F. F. Cranc) for his permission and interest. Mr. Ronald Kenrick (local captain) for his ready co-operation, and Mrs. Heaps and family for their splendid hospitality after the peal.

THE WHITECHAPEL BELL FOUNDRY

ROYAL CHURCH OF

By RANALD W.

$\mathrm{M}^{\mathrm{R}}$R. DOVE's celebrated Guide has started quite a number of things, and there can be no doubt that it was the originator of this expedition; unfortunately, Mr. Dove was unable to add any further information about the bells in this church than he had already published and he could not quote any references from which further information might be gleaned. Numerous books were scoured through without oven foling a flecting reference to the bells.

Having worked on the Continent for some while and having seen bells there of all shapes and sizes, I had never come across a stay or a slider, even though hall bearings are far from being unknown. I was therefore extremely sceptical of there even being a faint possibility of a set of ringable bells on the Continent.

However, a ycar ago I heard that a Spanishspeaking friend of mine was going to spend a holiday in Madrid. where at one time he used to work. As he does not ring I did my best to arm him with all the available information about the bells and with illustrations of bells hung for ringing, and asked him to visit the above church.

The result was unexpected. Even though he was not allowed to see any of the bells. he did find in the sacristry of this Franciscan monastery a card stating that the bells were cast by John Warner and Sons, of the Cripplegate Foundry, London. He also learnt (erroneously) that there-were nine bells in one tower, of which four were said to be hung similarly to the sketch I had sent of a beil hung for ringing in changes.
This raised fresh doubts in my mind as the nine bells would infer the presence of a semitone bell and the possibility that only a few of the actual octave were hung for swinging, the others being used for tune-playing only. Though my friend spzaks fluent Spanish, cven for him permission to inspect the bells was out of the question.' It was obviously not worth my while going all the way to Madrid without having prior permission to sce the bells, especially as my knowledge of Spanish is slight.

Some while ago I acquired the foundry papers of the late Robert Warner, the last owner of the bell-foundry. The latest catalogue was dated 1877 and made no mention of these bells; the other records also contain no reference to them. This placed the bells in the period 1877 to 1920, and it seemed reasonable to assume that given favourable conditions they might be ringable if they eve: were in this state.

The first step was to confirm that the church did belong to the Franciscan Order of Friars Minor, and this 1 did by contacting the headquarters of the Order in England: this done. I enlisted the aid of the British Council in Madrid. The staff of the Council were of very considerable assistance to me and the necessary permissions were all obtained through them.

On contacting the church authorities it was discovered that the fabric comes within the jurisdiction of the Spanish Ministry of Foreign Affairs and that application would have to be made to the section of the Ministry dealing with it. So approaches were made via the British Council, the Cultural Attaché in the Spanish Embassy in London, and wia the church authorities, with the successful result that I was granted permission to sec, and if necessary (or possible), to overhaul the bells in the church.

This stage having been reached. I arrived in Madrid on Sunday. September 30th. last. equipped with a bell rope. bearing oil, a hydraulic jack, a boiler suit and various tools.

The Monday was a public holiday so it was Tuesday before I could make arrangements to see the bells. A visit was first paid to the British Council to meet the staff who had so kindly assisted in the project, and then to the Spanish Foreign Ministry, now housed in the magnificent Palacio de Santa Cruz, once the headquarters of the dreaded Holy Inquisition.

There I met Sr. Ernesto La Orden, who is responsible for the maintenance of this church. He spoke good English, and with the aid of a model bell in a frame brought from England and with various illustrations the process of swinging a bell in a full circle was explained. An explanation of change-ringing was not so readily understood. and as at that stage it was uncertain whether he even had a ring under his care, the matter was not pursued. Sr. La Orden very kindly arranged a meeting with his resident curator at the church for later that afternoon, and I undertook to report 10 him on the state of the bells.

THE CHURCH

Though the church is not the Cathedral of Madrid it is the Royal Church, and in the time of the monarchy coronations were held here. Under the present circumstances all State services involving the attendance of the diplomatia corps are held in the church, and it is not inappropriate to note that General Franco's patron saint and the patron saint of the church are one and the same.
The church is situated some half a mile south of the Royal Palace. The riagnificent building mainly dates from the 18th century, though it does incorporate part of a 15 th century fabric.

The arrangerent is somewhat reminiscent of St. Paul's Cathedral in London : there is a large central dome with twin flanking towers on, in this case, the east front. Due to the peculiar site conditions the altar is at the west end and the cast front faces on to a square surrounded by fairly tall blocks of flats in one of the older parts of Madrid. The twin towers are set back in the east front and are about 130 fect high. The church contains some very fine medizval walnut choir stalls and some paintings by Goya and others.
During the Civil War the church was at one time in the front-line and extensive monastic buildings on the south side were completely destroyed. At the moment the authorities have a three-part plan of restoration; the first part, being the restoration of the remaining monastic pertion, is already complete. The second one, restoring the frescoes and painting, is well in hand, and the remaining one of restoring the two eastern towers is yet to be undertaken.

THE BELLS

I found a ring of eight bells (tenor 8 cwt .) in the southern of the two towers and a chime of 11 in the other (tenor 15 cwt .). All were cast by John Warner and Sons, of the Cripplegate Foundry, London, in 1882, and a number of bells in the ring have the same notes as others in the chime.

The ring of bells is now unringable and has been so since about 1910, and for the reasons given below would have only just been termed "ringable" when brand new.
The bell-founders were faced with a tricky problem. The two towers are identical and have their two lower foors taken up with rooms and spaces in the church proper, each floor being on a stone vault. On the second floor rises a 50 ft . spiral staircase which occupies the complete inside area of the tower, except for a hole some 3 feet in diameter down the centre. The towers are square externally, circular internally in the staircase zone and octagonal in the bell chamber.

At the head of the staircase there is a floor between the octagonal tower walls and the circular aperture of the stairway. This hole is protected by a 3 ft . high balustrade of iron. As the staircase is so large there is only some 19 inches between the balustrade and the tower walls. Some 3 feet above this floor is the bottom of the four window openings. one in each wall, these being some 14 ft . high by 4 ft . wide.
The problem the bell hangers had to face was where to put the bells. If they put them on the floor at the head of the staircase then there would be nowhere for the ringers to stand other than at the bottom of the 50 ft . staircase, and that would mean piercing the staircase treads to feed the ropes through and making the stair virtually unusable.

The compromise decided on was to locate the bell frame high up in the window openings so that the bells when set inverted would just clear the top of them and the stone vault in the bell chamber roof. This left the bearing level some 13 feet above the floor at the head of the staircase and a clearance of some 8 feet from this floor to the lowest frame beam.

The area available inside the tower was insufficient to hang all the bells in one level without allowing some of them to hang actually in the window openings, which are in a wall thickness of some 4 feet. Having the bells in two tiers would have been impossible due to the very restricted head room. So the second, fourth, sixth and tenor bells are hung in the window openings with the remainder inside the tower. No louvres have been fitted but iron grillages have been clamped to the outside tower walls to stop bells, ringers, etc., falling to the ground.

The ringers stand on the floor inside the tower at the head of the circular staircase, in a position somewhat akin to that at Merton College, Oxford, and Southwell Minster. But the poor ringers of the treble, third, fifth and seventh have to ring their bells in a gap of 19 inches between tower wall and balustrade, and the fourth bell rope descends only $1 \frac{1}{2}$ inches from this 3 ft . high iron railing. On the other hand, the rope circle is excellent!
There is nothing between you and the bells, and the risk to life and limb if a clapper dropped out would be considerable. The din must be quite appalling, and in inclement (Continued next page) weather it could be more than a little d aughty, wet and cold in the completely open ringing chamber. The bell ringing season would appear to be somewhat limited-early spring and late autumn only!

It would not be hard to visualise a band of ringers kitted-up to meet all eventualities, equipped with tin hats and chain mail (against the clappers), walkie-talkie sets (to hear the conductor), special acoustic headgear (to stop the noise), protective clothing (for sncw, rain, cold winds, etc.). If the temperature is over $100^{\circ} \mathrm{F}$. it would be best not to go for the peal! A 'silent' peal would not require walkietalkie sets.
Early this century Warners appear to have returned and fitted an electrical chiming system to the chime of 11 bells in the other tower and also to the treble, third, fifth, seventh and enor in the ring. This necessitated the remnval of the wheels from these bells and also the sliders. In the process of time this electrical system became useless and it has now been completely removed.
The bearings are ordinary blocks let into the frame beams and covered by woojen boards, and most of the gudgeon pins are eit! er rusty

The Devil's Knell

A Middle Age custom was 'Ringing the Devil's Knell - tolling the tenor bell $4 \times 4$ strokes on Christmas Eve, it being believed that the Devil died each year at the birth of Christ. On Christmas Eve the 'Devil's Knell' will be rung on the Mitchell Tower Chime at Chicago University, U.S.A. A carillon concert of Christmas carols will follow.
Is the 'Devil's Knell', observed anywhere in England today?
or scored. The clappers from the third and fifth bells are now in the seventh and tenor, leaving the former pair without any. The bells and framework are in quite good order but a number of the fittings are missing, e.g., five wheels, seven sliders. ctc.

Later I saw the chime of 11 bells in the other tower. These just hang dead with no means of sounding them at all, though the tenor did have what appeared to be a pierced 4-inch-diameter canon ball hung by a hemp rope from the crown staple and hitting the soundbow just by the lip, some 3 inches too low.

So all together, out of 19 bells 13 have no means of sounding them at all and only the tenor of the ring is used. This latter bell is clocked in a most Heath Robinson way which involves a chain on the clapper, levers, a weight and a wire passing down outside the tower through the lead roof of the church to the ringer.
As arranged with Sr. La Orden, I have written a report on the state of the bells and I have set out proposals for restoring them and making improvements so that they can be rung far more easily and comfortably. It is perhaps opportune to make such a report in view of the proposed restoration of the towers themselves and in the not-too-far-distant future the bells may be made ringable again.

Two Issues In One Week  Because of Christmas holidays, two issues of 'The Ringing World' will have to be produced in one week. The last date for receiving Notices for the issue of December 28th is Friday, December 21st. Will District secretaries please co-operate or be disappointed.

BELLS HUNG IN THE WINDOW AT MADRID

Peal Board Dedicated at Wolborough

The Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild of Ringers held a by-meeting at Wolborough, Newton Abbot, on November 24th, when an enjoyable time was spent by those who attended. Ringing throughout the afternoon consisted of touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, and Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major, this being followed by a short service in church, conducted by the Rev. J. G. M. Scott (assistant priest), assisted by Preb. E. V. Cox, president of the Guild. During the service a handsome peal board was unveiled by Mr. J. E. Lilley, chairman of the Branch, and dedicated by Preb. Cox This records a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major rung on the bells earlier in the year, the first peal in this method rung by an entirely resident band in the county of Devon.
The visitors subsequently adjourned to a local cafe for tea, and although there was no official business to transact, two new members, Mr. and Mrs. Long, of Coffinswell. werc elected, and the president congratulated those who rang in the above-named peal for which the peal board had been ericted.

WOODCHESTER BELLS RESTORED

Bellringers from all over Gloucestershire were among a congregation of several hundred people at the service of rededication of the recently restored ring of six bells at St. Mary's Church, Woodchester, on November 29th.
The dedication was performed by the Rural Dean, Canon S. H. A. Bennett, rector of Amberley, the service being conducted by the rector (Rev. W. N. R. J. Back) and prayers said by a former rector (Rev. H. D. Woolcott) who, together with his wife, had travelled from West-cliffe-on-Sea to attend the service.
Midway through the service the clergy, led by the churchwardens, Mr. L. J. Birt and Col. E. A. Airy, processed to the ringing chamber high in the steeple where the dedication took place.
As they made their way back into the church the local ringers 'rang up' the bells ready for the change-ringing which followed the service The first ring was performed by Messrs. A. Howell, R. L. Brunt. R. Bowley, G. Latham, F. W. Garland and L. Cordwell.

HANDBELL RINGERS CARRIED ON

Hymns during the service were accompanied on handbells rung by the younger ringers who, week by week, have rung their bells while the tower was undergoing repairs. The ringers comprised Michael Brunt. Anthony Burford, Terry Randall, Philip Raymond and Brian Vanstone.

During his address. Canon Bennett referred to the bandbell ringers, saying he thought they had done a 'wonderful job' while the tower was silent. He also praised the efforts of the villagers in raising money to pay for the renovation.

Canon Bennett said change-ringing was an English art. "It is always a joy for us on the top of the hill to hear the bells of Woodchester. They have been a source of inspiration to many pcople,' he added.
Church bells. the speaker said, were often the means of cheering up sick people and giving courage to those who had been laid aside through illness.
The lesson was read by the tower secretary (Mr. W. J. S. Brunt) and the collection for the church bell fund was taken by three ringers.

Most disappointed ringer that evening was the Woodchester tower captain, Mr. Raymond Thain. Only a few hours before the commencement of the service he was sent to bed suffering from influenza. However, he will be able to hear a complete record of the service thanks to the efforts of a local recording enthusiast, Mr. Reg Watkins, of Paganhill.
Visitors included Mr. W. A. Hughes, of Mears and Stainbank of London, who carried out the renovation, Mr. W. F. Scudamore, of Winterbournc. the general secretary of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, and Mr. S. T. Price, the Stroud Branch secretary.

After the service the visiting ringers enjoyed short touches on the bells. Almost every tower in the Stroud district was represented at the service.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

GETTING MOST OF THE GAME
Dear Sir,-_'The onlooker sees most of the game,' so may I, as a non-ringing associate member of the local County Association, venture to comment upon some aspects of bellringing and ringers as they occur to me?
I usually see 'The Ringing World ' each week as one member of our household is an active ringer-always in the belfry twice on Sundays and visiting other towers during the week. My perusal of the paper leads me to the opinion that the ringer of peals is considered to be the leading man in the Exercise, the 'tower-grabber' coming in as a very poor second.
Now let us consider what each of these two members gets out of his hobby. The ringer of peals usually associates himself with ten or a dozen like-minded ringers. They fix up peal attempts together in towers mainly in their own neighbourhood, and very often the same tower is chosen over and over again for the attempt, as it is thought to be of importance to ring so many peals together or to "circle' the tower And whilst the peal is being rung the people out-side-some of whom object-have to listen to two or three hours' solid ringing without a break.

The 'tower-grabber. however, on receiving his 'Ringing World ' turns not to the first opening but the last. 'Ha! a meeting at Toad-in-the-Hole! I haven't rung there! How do you get to it?" Out come maps and time-tables: what does it matter if it is across a couple of counties and a three-mile walk at the end? Off early on the Saturday by bus or coach or train, secing the beautics of the countryside and striking up acquaintance with fellow travellers en route.
Then, when the venue of the meeting is reached, ringing a little. talking a lot, attending a service in the church, enjoying a good tea, and taking part in a meeting; making new friends and renewing acquaintance with old ones-all with similar tastes and hobbies. Then back home again after another enjoyable day and a new tower or two to credit.

Yes! As an onlooker, it seems to me that the 'tower-grabber' gets much more sheer pleasure and enjoyment from his ringing because he is obliged to travel the country to get his new towers. The peal ringer misses all this-he has only satisfaction in performing a difficult task. Pleasant, no doubt, but not sufficiently so that derision should be the lot of the 'tower-grab-ber.'-Yours faithfully,

THOS. W. ČLARK.

RINGING IN CORNWALL

Dear Sir,-Mr. R. Collins appears to be not a little hard on Alan Caryeth in the matter of ringing in Cornwall, Darticularly when one considers the natural obstacles such as appalling isolation of towers. poor communications, etc., which have to be overcome by those endeavouring to keep change-ringing alive in this county. Hardly a week passes by without a record of some sort of activity by Mr. Carveth and his stalwart followers in the band at Kenwyn Church appearing in "The Ringing World.' both in their own tower and elsewhere, and this is "some going ' for that part of the world, not to mention their unpublicised labours in the matter of assisting at practices in less fortunately placed towers, tuition of learners, etc.

Althoush I hold no brief whatever for Cornwall in the matter of scenery, climate or the amenities of a civilised life, its ringers, particularly ir the Truro district, are a grand and gallant crowd. deserving of credit rather than criticism, direct or implied.-Yours sincerely.
W. E. BOX.

Harborne, Birmingham.

THE DEVIL'S PEAL
Dear Sir,- If I may venture to offer a correction to Mr. Cluett's letter, I believe that the title of the book mentioned' by him is 'Herod's Peal,' written by Russell Thorndike, author of the famous 'Dr. Syn' books.
I, too, was very much interested when I read it, by the author's conception of the fatal significance of certain peal compositions. Perhaps legend will in time attach itself to modern compositions, and the daring band who go out with grim faces to ring a certain famous composition of Double Norwich will come down from the belfry to be greeted by the news that one of the villagers has fallen dead in the churchyard.
There is also reference in Thorndike's book to the thoroughly sinister appearance of a band of travelling peai-ringers, which bears good witness to the author's observant eyc and memory for detail.-Yours sincerely,

DAPHNE R. CASTELL.

Christmas Greetings

Our seasonal feature, ' Christmas Greetings,' whereby members of the Exercise send their good wishes to ringing friends. will appear in our issue of Friday, Dec. $21 s t$. The charge is $4 s$ s. per insertion of 36 words, afterwards $1 \frac{1}{2} d$. a word.

CAPE TOWN'S INVITATION

Dear Sir,-Next year we hope for some renewed activity at Cape Town with the arrival of a Cheshire ringer who will settle in Cape Town. The return of two very useful members after longish absence is promised, and early in February we shall be honoured with a visit from the president of the Coventry Diocesan Guild: Mr. Frank W. Perrens. Bob Stickley returns from Nigeria towards the middle of 1957, and Mr. J. Bennett, of Grundisburgh, is coming for a few weeks in October. To an these we look forward with keen anticipation.

Despite the great increase in shipping calling here, Merchant Navy visitors are rare birds. We would bring to the notice of all Australian and New Zealand travellers the advantage of this route to snatch a tower.
With every good wish,
V. SHEPPARD.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION

St. Michael's. Heighington, whose bells have recently been rehung on ball bearings, attracted an attendance of 18 at the meeting of the Southern District held on November 24th. The visitors included Mr. W. Oliver, who is 81 years old, and Mr. H. Simpson, two old Heighington ringers, and the president of the Association, Mr. Kenneth Arthur.
The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. J. Meck, with Mr. Thompson at the organ.
The business meeting was held in a local inn, and thanks to the Vicar and warden were expressed by Mr. W. N. Park. Miss Goodship, of Stocktoa-on-Tees, was elected as a new member. and the next mecting in January was fixed for the Parish Church, Stockton-on-Tees. The ringing commenced with Bob Minor, and later various touches of Doubles, Treble Bob and Surprise Minor were rang.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

At St. Mary's, Taunton, Again

It is almost ten years since the Bath and Wells Association held a meeting at St. Mary's, Taunton-the only ring of 12 in the Association's area. For several years the tower has been regarded as unsafe for ringing, but it has now been passed by the architect as safe for ringing for short periods only.
The meeting, held there on December 1st, was the annual of the Taunton Branch. At the business meeting, held at the nearby Corfield Hall, in the absence of the Branch chairman (Rev. Edwin Hirst) through illness, the Branch vice-chairman welcomed the Vicar of St. Mary's (the Rev. H. L. Bothamley) to the meeting, thanked him for his granting permission for the band to meet at St. Mary's, and also welcomed his interest in the ringers and especially his own young band of learners, who were being very ably trained by Mr. W. Tarr. All the Branch officers were re-elected for 1957 and the secretary's name was added to the list of nominees for the diocesan representatives on the Central Council.
It was agreed to hold the 1957 annual meeting at Wilton, with quarterly meetings at Ruishton, Bishops Lydeard and West Buckland, subject ta the respective incumbents' permission.
A resolution was passed expressing the Branch's strong disapproval of the recent articles published in 'The Ringing World 'regarding the College of Campanology Manual. This is to be forwarded to the Diocesan General Committee for their consideration of further action. The secretary of the N.E. Branch of the Devon Guild, who was present, stated that it was hoped to hold a joint meeting with the Taunton Branch at Sampford Peverell during 1957.
Ringing after the meeting ranged from Triples to rounds on the 12 for the learners present, and included a good course of Bob Royal in which two ringers were ringing their first touch on ten bells.
During the course of the meeting ringers were present from towers as far away as Dulverton, Tiverton and Cannington, as well as representatives from ten local towers.

THE LADIES' GUILD

West Midland District

Members and friends of the West Midland District visited the church of St . Bartholomew, Edgbaston, Birmingham, on December . 1 st , where the eight bells are ideal for ladies to handle. Ringing during the afternoon was under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Barron. A band of ladies rang a course of Cambridge Major, only to have their efforts surpassed by a touch of Spliced Surprise Major when the gentlemen were given a chance to perform.
The Rev. Canon Ronald Allen conducted the service, which was held in the choir stalls, and gave an address. The organist was Mr. Russell Green, who also played the new organ following the Blessing.
A splendid tea was prepared in the Parish Hall by Miss Evelyn Fletcher, Miss Ruth Russell and other local ringers. Again the gentlemen were outnumbered at tea. A vote of thanks to all the people who had helped make the meeting so enjoyable was proposed by Stella Hughes.

At the business meeting which followed. the chair was taken by Mrs. C. A. Barron. Twelve members representing seven towers were present. Two new members, Jill Morgan, of Lichfield. and Margaret Hampton, of Erdington, were elected.
The next meeting will be held at a Worcestershire tower early in March.

THE LADIES' GUILD CAME TO ACLE

PRESENTATIONS TO MRS. FLETCHER

THE Eastern Branch held its winter meeting at its usual venue, Acle, the village on the edge of the marshes, where the ring of six bells is hung in a 'false ' steel tower within the actual round tower of the church, which would not be able to support a ring.

The service was conducted by the Vicar of Great Yarmouth. Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, a vicc-president of the Association. the lesson being read by Mr. Nolan Golden, and a visitor from Spalding, Mr. R. C. Noon, played the organ.

After a splendid tea the medting started its deliberations, and because of the very welcome presence throughout the afternoon of several ladies, including such personalities as the Ladies' Guild president, Mrs. K. Lock and Mrs. A. Richardson, it was evident ' something was afoot.

In the unfortunate absenzc, occasioned by last-minute family ill-health. of Mr. E. R. Goate, the Branch chairman, the chair was taken by the president of the Assosiation. Rev. H. G. Lillingston, supporied by the Association Ringing Master, Mr. H. W. Barrett, and other Branch officers.

The enairman commented how happy they all were to see so many Ladies Guild members, and noting the first item on the agenda was 'Ladics First' straightway called on Mrs. K. Lock.

Mrs. Lock thereupon explained the reason for their presence. She said 44 years was a long time in anyone's life to serve any one organisation. and Mrs. G. W. Fletcher had served the Ladies' Guild ever since its foundation in 1912for 36 years as general secretary and treasurer, then for eight years as president. retiring from the latter office this year. The Guild felt such a record could not be allowed to go unrecognised. To their great regret Mrs. Fleteher was unable to attend their annual meeting at Worcester in July, so they resolved then to try and carry out their intention at a meeting of the Norwich Diocesan Association whenever one was held near Caister.

The Ladies' Guild, Mrs. Lock continued, were very grateful to the Eastern Branch of the Norwich Association for allowing them the time and opportunity to express their appreciation of Mrs. Fletcher's work. Mrs. Lock then thanked the Branch secretary. Mr. P. G. W. Newstead, for his efforts on their behalf.

Bccause of the petrol restrictions several of their members were prevented from attending, Mrs. Lock said, but nevertheless she was sure they were with them in thought at that moment.
Mrs. Lock then asked Mrs. Fletcher to accept their gifts, which were a cheque and a full dressing table set with a beautiful floral design exescuted in petit-point.

Mrs. Fletcher was much moved at this welcome surprise, and in her reoly of thanks said that whatever hard work she had put into the Ladies' Guild from its foundation, her efforts were amply rewarded in the healihy state to which it had grown. She had always been able 10 rely on the keen and loyal support of such stalwarts as their new president. Kaihleen Lock. and Mrs. Ann Richardson. both of whom she was happy to see at Acle.

The meeting then passed to its own business and subject to the usual permission voted Loddon as the venue for the 1957 Branch annual meeting on February 16th.

Belfry elections of Messrs. S. J. Merry, of Caister-on-Sea, and J. Saunders, of Great Yarmouth, ware ratificd.
The question of the Branch peal attempt at Wymondham Abbey Church scheduled for Easter Monday next year was discussed. The Branch secretary reported that only four names of ringers desirous of taking part had been handed to him. Two other names were then added and it was suggested a Saturday might suit members better: Mr. H. Tooke, of Wymondham, thereupon undertook to try and arrange for a Saturday in March to be made available. He was thanked and the meeting deferred further action until the Branch annual meeting.

Closing the mecting, the chairman congratulated the G.O.M. of the Branch, Mr. H. W. Lidbetter, on ringing a peal recently on his 84 th birthday. The Rev. H. G. Lillingston proposed votes of thanks to the Vicar of Great Yarmouth for conducting the service, Nolan Golden for reading the lesson. Mr. Noon, the volunteer organist. and the local ringers with their lady helpers for the excellent tea arrangements. Last. but certainly not least, they must welcome and thank Mr. Watkin Jones, the Rector's warden, who because of the present vacancy in the living had readily smoothed the way for the mesting.

Some ringers also visited Ranworth and South Walsham in the evening.

A RING OF EIGHT FOR SOUTHAMPTON

The Church of the Ascension, Bitterne Park, Southampton, is to lave a full ring of bells in the near future.
Six of the bells will come from St. Maurice's Church, Winchester. This gift of six bells was made available to Bitterne Park if a donation of $£ 300$ was given to the people of St. Maurice's towards the restoration of their other church, St. Laurence's.

The ring at St. Maurice's is of interest. Two bells are late 14th century from the Wokingham foundry: the tenor was cast in 1610 by an unknown bell-founder : the fourth by John Wallis, of Salisbury, in 1603 . The second, dated 1639, was by an unknown bell-founder, and was recast by Gillett and Johnston, makers of the treble.
Metal for the two new bells comes from two old bells. Bitterne has obtained-one from St. Laurence's Church in High Strect. Southampton, and the other from Holy Trinity Church. These bells are to be recast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.
A bell frame, proper belfry floor and the overhaul of the oid bells are necessary. The total cost of the work is over $£ 1,600$. Part of this is being met by a legacy, but the sum of 1,000 guineas remains to be raised and an appeal for this was launched on Advent Sunday.

ST. NICHOLAS', ISLIP, HAS NOW A RING OF EIGHT

FOUR new presents to St Nicholas Church, Islip, were dedicated at Evensong on Nov. 18th by the Bishop of Oxford. One was two new trebles given as a memorial to Mr. E. W. F. Gilman, a churchwarden at St. Nicholas' for 13 years, by 'members of his family.
Other gifts dedicated were a lectern Bible, given by the widow and members of the family of Mr. W $\mathbf{H}$. J. Perry; a processional cross, from the family of Mrs. Florence Young; and a ciborium, which perpetuates the love Mr. and Mrs. Forbes had for the church.
The Bishop dedicated the bells first, and as he walked back to the altar with the Rector, the Rev. A. W. Blanchett, the local ringers, augmented by visiting ringers, rang rounds which, in the words of the Rector, 'was most effective and added dignity to the service.
The dedication of the other gifts followed, and the Bishop, in his sermon, expressed his pleasure at his first visit, as head of the Diocese, to Islip, and his good wishes for the life and work of the parish

The theme suggested by the bells, he pointed out, was the joyousness of Christian worship and the rappiness to be found in it. He stressed the need for churchpeople to show ihose virtues outside the church: young people in particular should show that the Christian religion was not one of restriction and dullness, but one of gladness and hope.
After the service the bells were rung by the visitors and the local ringers from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Major. It was agreed that Messrs. Mears and Stainbank had made an excellent splice, but the trebles are tricky to handic due to new ropes, light bells and a long draught without guides.
The history of these bells is interesting. Originally there were five bells and these were recast into a ring of six (tenor 9 cwt 1 qr .12 lb .) in 1859 by G. Mears. The old bells were taken down and the new ones rehung by Alfred White, of Appleton.
The inscriptions on the old five and their weights were as follows:
Treble: This bell was made 1611 : $5 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.
Second: James Keene made mee $1652 ; 6 \mathrm{cwt}$.

Third: Omnia Parata Venite, Anno Domini 1623; $7 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cw}$.
Fourth: Michael Darbic made mee 1655; 10 cwt .
Tenor: James Brady Relph Harwell, C. W. 1652; 14 cwt .
Mr. E. Morris makes the following reference to Islip bells in ' The History and Art of Change Ringing.
'On Tuesday, March 14th, 1871, six members of the University of Oxford paid a visit to the neighbouring viliage of Islip, and succeeded in ringing, on the pretty ring of six, several peals of six-score Grandsire Doubles. Rev. E. P. Barrow (Oriel), treble; J. S. Leadam, Esq(Univ.), second; R. Troyte, Esq. (Trinity), third; H. C. Sturges, Esq. (Univ.), fourth : J. E. Troyte, Esq. (Christ Church), fifth: W. B. Ingham, Esq(Univ.), tenor. Conducted by John E. Troyte, Esq., College Youth.

- Probably these are the first peals on record rung entircly by " gentlemen of education." The bells were fairly struck, without any breakdown: thiree of the ringers had only been learning since last November. What an encouragement to others to follow their example! Besides being able to sing. we think every young clergyman should be able to ring, and then he will be able to take his proper place in the belfry.'

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

Saxmundham District held their last meeting of the year at Kelsale, when the eight bells were put to good use during the afternoon and evening, many methods being rung, with ringers coming from as far as Newmarket and Beceles. Canon Eddows, Rector of Kelsale, took the service, and gave an interesting address. Tea was taken at the inn named very appropriately - Eight Bells ’: a good tea was enjoyed by 14 members. At the business meeting Canon Eddows took the chair. Mr. G. N. Churchard, of Sotherton, was elected a probationer member, and Miss O. Turney, of Barney, an honorary member. Place of next meeting, Aldeburgh, after Easter, 1957.

WITH THE R.A.F. AT YATESBURY

It was a cold autumn afternoon, and the wind blew noisily over the Wiltshire downs, shaking the few remaining leaves from the trees, sending them scurrying down the lanes. Two cars stopped outside Yatesbury village church; soon the bells were raised and another meeting of R.A.F. Yatesbury Campanology Club was in full swing.

Following a chance meeting in the church centre of the camp, two keen bellringers had approached the padre with the intention of forming a ringers' club. It was realised that few ringers continue ringing while in the Services; the majority do not bother or fear they will be unwelcome in a new district and, as a result, much badly-needed talent lies dormant. To foster interest among ringers in camp, a club was formed and, permission having been obtained from the rector and tower captain of the parish church, activities commenced early in November.

Since then a hand, numbers varying from six to ten, has rung every Wednesday afternoon at Yatesbury ( $5,12 \mathrm{cwt}$ ). Two learners are making steady progress and rounds, Plain Bob, Stedman and Grandsire Doubles are rung regularly. Evening discussion meetings are held in camp, followed by ringing at nearby Calne ( $8,24 \mathrm{cwt}$.). Members of the club are also able to visit many of the other local towers for practice nights, meetings and Sunday service ringing.

Youth is ambitious, and the club had not long been in existence before whispers of quarter peals and peals were heard. It was not possible for a peal to be rung by airmen from Yatesbury alone, and to ring the peal an alliance was made with Compton Bassett camp (R.A.F. camps seem to be more frequent than villages in this part of Wiltshire). A convenient time and date were arranged and the 'neutral' tower of Broad Hinton ( $6,8 \mathrm{cwt}$ ) ) was chosen as the venue. On Wednesday, November 21 st, a peal of Grandsire and Bob Doubles was rung. Of the six ringers three recorded their first peal.

There are snags, as always. Since we rely on the goodwill of the local parish for our tower, we are always visitors. Before the petrol shortage we had hopad to travel to other towers in the area, but lack of transport makes this rather difficult at present. Many ringers spend only a few weeks at the camp, and hence there is a 'floating population.' A welcome awaits any ringers who may be stationed at Compton Bassett or Yatesbury.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The Society's last meeting in 1956 was held at St. Chad's, Headingley, on November 24th. In all, more than 40 members and friends were present during the afternoon and evening, and a company of 25 , including the Vicar and the president and his wife. sat down to the very enjoyable tea piovided by the local ringers.

At the business meeting which followed, and at which two new members were elected, the president took the chair. In proposing the vote of thanks he took the opportunity of expressing his own personal gratitude for the many kindnesses shown to him during his illness. The Vicar, in reply, said how sleased everyone was that Mr. H. Lofthouse had felt well enough to attend the tea and business meeting.

Before tea, and again afterwards, a variety of methods were rung on the fine ring of eight bells.

The next mesting of the Society will be held at Bradford Cathedral on January 26th.

There appears to be no record of the longest fength in Minar. Can any member supply the Exercise with the answer?

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

Bowdon, Stockport and Mottram Branch
The last mecting of the year was held at Bredbury on November 23rd, when some 50 members and friends were present. The usual form of service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. G. N. Esther), who gave the Branch a very warm welcome. In an address which avoided the usual approaches to ringers, he left no doubt in the minds of his hearers of the value he attached to the service of ringers and their part in the worship of the church.

Tea was served in the schools, and after tea the Vicar presided over the business meeting. Reference was made to the passing of Mr. J. W. Hartley, of Norbury, a member of the Branch for 52 years and who did much to lay the foundations of the present standard of ringing in the District, particularly in the field of Spliced Minor ringing. The death of Canon E. P. Tyson, of Mottram, was referred to as a loss not only to the Branch but to the life of the church and the village of Mottram, and in the same way the village of Rostherne had been distressed to learn of the passing of its beloved Vicar, one week after his retirement on account of ill-health after serving them faithfully for 22 years. The meeting stood for a moment in silent tribute to the memory of these friends. Reference was made to the illness of Mr. G. Bason. of Rostherne, and the meeting sent its good wishes for his carly restoration to health.
The main business of the meeting was to compile a provisional list of mectings for 1957. As a result of the change of date of the Guild Annual Festival to May 12th. it was decided to break with tradition and hold a Branch meeting in Lent. The provisional list was decided as follows: January 26th. Stockport St. Mary ; March soth. Norbury: June 29th, Chapel-en-leFrith: September 28th. Dunham Massey ; November 23rd, Stalcy.

The mesting concluded with a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and wardens, the organist, the local ringers and the ladies who had prepared and served tea. Further ringing was enjoyed until late in the evening, touches in various methods being rung to accommodate all comers.

CUMBERLANDS & MIDDLESEX

Joint Meeting

Another very successful joint meeting between the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and the Middlesex Association was held on December lst . Ringing during the afternoon took place at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, and was followed by a magnificent tea in true Bishopsgate style, which was enjoyed by a company of 50 .

After tea. the Master of the Cumberlands, Mr. H. E. Audsley, expressed his great pleasure at seeing so many present at the meeting, and spoke of the good feelings that existed between the Cumberlands and the Middlesex Association. Mr. F. A. Finch, hon. secretary, S. and W. District of the M.C.A.. thanked Mr. Audsley for his remarks. and said that he hoped these joint mectings would long continue. So many Societies and Associations were represented that he almost wondered whether the occasion was a general ringers' reunion, and it gave him great pleasure to see so many old friends present.

As is customary, no business was transacted at this mesting, and the majority of those present adjourned to the belfry of St. Leonard's, Shoreditch where ringing on the fine 12 took place in methods up to Kent Maximus.

So cpded another of what it is hoped to be one of a very long series of happy and enioyable joint meetings between the two Societies.

OBITUARY

MR. GEORGE H. DAYNES
It is with sincere regret that we announce the death of Mr. George Henry Daynes. He passed peacefully away in St. Alphege's Hospital, Greenwich, on December 4th, in his 87 th year.

MR. JOHN T. GRANT

Mr. Jack Grant, as he was familiarly known. was found dead in bed on December 1 st . He had been a member of the Leicester Cathedral band for more than 30 years, and was 76 . He had not been in good health recently, but had been ringing up to a wesk before his death.

OL a quict, unassuming character, Mr. Grant had never aspired to ringing beyond the tenor behind, and occasionally the treble. He had been a loyal and conscientious member of the band and had rung numerous peals on the tenor with a precision that always assured a good bcat.

The funeral service was held at Leicester Cathedral on December 5th, conducted by the Provost, and most of his ringing colleagues attended. An atteinpt to ring a muffled peal as tribute to him unfortunately came to grief, owing to a shift, but a quarter peal of Stedman Cinques was rung on December 6th. His son Richard is a member of the Cathedral band and a most efficient steeple-keeper. H. G. J.

MR. THOMAS HENRY HALL

It is with deep regret we report the death of Mr. Thomas Henry (Tas) Hall, of Grantham, Lincs, which took place at Hill View Hospital, Grantham, on November 26th in his 73rd year. after a bricf illness.

Mr. Hall was a member of Lincoln Diocesan Guild and was the oldest member of St. Wulfram's band. Grantham, having joined the local band some 56 years ago. He was a regular Sunday service ringer, and mostly rang the ninth bell, his favoutite one. Mr. Hall had taken part in about 60 peals, and at one time excelled in ringing the tenor to odd-bell peals.

The funeral service, attended by a number of his ringing friends, look place at St. Wulfram's Church on November 30th, followed by cremation at Leicester. In the evening members of the local band rang the bells open (by his requesi) to his memory.
H. R. W.

MR. JOHN HOLME

We regret to report the death of Mr. Johr Holme, of Silverdale, Lancs, on December 4th, at the age of 92. Four of his ringing colleagues. acted as bearers at the funeral service at St. John's Church. Silverdale, on December 8th, which was aitended by many ringing friends. A report of his rimzing activities will be published: shortly.

SOME THOUGHTS ON A NEW RING OF BELLS

THE well-known Church of St. Nicholas, North Stoneham, made famous by the late George Williams after he 'migrated 'there from Brighton, had its new bells dedicated by the Bishop of Southampton on December 8th. The back seven, which were previously a very " mixed bag, and of a quality to produce varying comments from connoisseurs, have now been recast and tuned to match the front three, which were cast by Taylors in 1931, so that the whole ring at last belongs to one family. The tenor is now 10 cwt .1 qr .16 lb . as against 9 cwt .26 lb . before they want away, and the others have been adjusted accordingly.

I have recently spent a few pleasant hours reviewing the past 12 months or so since the project was put in hand. The local band had for some considerable time past been urging the P.C.C. to call in the bell founders, but other mundane things such as worn out floors, hot water systems and leaky roofs had to be given first consideration (although for the life of me I can't, as a ringer, understand why; after all, even an efficient hot water system makes a ghastly noise most of the time, and there's no music in a roof which doesn't leak!). So it was not until just before Christmas last year that the Rector came to discuss the offer of the ringers to raise the money by their own efforts. He asked how much they reckoned they could raise by the end of 1956 , and was confidently told that by then they should be able to reach $£ 250$. This was abviously satisfactory, for before long the bell founders had been written to and estimates obtained. In March the estimate of John Taylor and Co. was accepted by the Church Council, for the back seven bells to be recast, metal added where necessary, and all rehung on ball bearings, at a cost of $£ 618$. The front thres and the sixth were already on ball bearings.

And 50 an appeal was launched for $£ 650$, and the bells were taken away in June. Since then the ringers have been busy in a variety of ways: sending out leaflets, knocking on doors, seeking publicity in any way whatever, cleaning the belfry of 60 years' accumulation of matter-out-of-place. painting and creosoting, and learning to ring handballs into the bargain. As a result (or in spite of?) this activity. the bell fund is now at about $£ 335$ - a creditable effort. I think. It is interesting to see just how this has been accumulated. and a summary of the several sources is given below.

1. Ringers and Ringing Associations about $£ 160$. This includes grants from the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, collections at meetings, $£ 7$-odd from the Southampton University Association (which was virtually born at North Stoneham under the leadership of our friend Derek Jackson, whom we miss very much, and we wish him well!), and a very fine contribution of some $£ 150$ as the result of two excellent jumble sales, under the expart guidance and organised entirely by Alan Smith and Leslie Stead, to whom graat credit and thanks are due.
2. Non-ringers- $£ 115$, mainly in comparatively small amounts, from local residents for the most part, but one donation of 5 guineas from as far away as Westmorland! Amongst these it is so heartening to see the small amounts from people who love to hear the bells but have missed them and will be glad to hay= them back again.
3. Anonymous- $£ 21$.
4. Casual visitors- $£ 15$, collected in a box affixed to a villar in the church, with a 'thermometer above it to show how the fund is growing.
5. Sundry sources- $£ 20$-odd, from parish groups such as the Mothers' Union, the Over-- 60's Club, Girl Guides, etc.

To my mind this is a very encouraging achievement, although there is still another $£ 300$ or so to find, but we are confident that this will be done in good time. However, I feel sure that there are ringers who would like to help the fund along, and I appeal to those who know North Stoneham, and particularly ringers who have participated in any of the 249 peals which have been rung in the tower. (How many ringers are there, I wonder, who have had peals specially arranged for them there, and how many were guided tirough their first in a new method there by 'Old George '?) Many such have already responded, and uur thanks go out to them all.

This is a ringers' effort, and we seek support from all other ringers. Please send your donation to the Rector, Rev. W. F. Shail, The Rectory, Glen Eyre Road, Bassett, Southampton, or to Mr. R. A. Reed, 135, Chamberlayne Road, Eastleigh. Hants. All donations will be gratefully acknowledged. Thank you. R. A. R.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

Cirencester Branch

Fairford proved a popular choice for the Branch annual meeting on December lst. Well over 40 ringers visited this well-known church during the day, from as far afield as London, Nottingham and Penzance. After tea at the Bull Hotel, the business meeting was held, with Mr. W. A. Godwin presiding. The minutes, secretary's report and balance sheet were all read and approved.

The retiring officers were all re-elected as follows: Chairman, Mr. W. A. Godwin ; secretary, Mr. R. E. W. Wenban ; and representative on the management committec, Mr. E. H. Jefferies.

It was decided to retain the rota of meetings for another year, those, for the ensuing quarter to be held at Ampney Crucis, Lechlade and Rendcomb with North Cerney.
The Branch chairman thanked all those who had made the meeting a success, and Mr. H. Falkner thanked the officers for their work during the year. Canon Ianvrin conducted the service which followed, with Mr. Falkner at the organ. Ringing afterwards continued in a variety of methods up to Double Norwich until 8.30 p.m., when the bells were lowered in peal to end a very enjoyable day.

BY LAND ROVER TO N.E. STAFFORDSHIRE

UNDER the pilotage of Eric Edginton, of Kings Bromley, ringers drawn from Cannock, Yoxall, Stafford and Walsall visited several towers in North-East Staffordshira on Saturday. September 29th.

The first call was at St. Peter's, Alton, a fine old church somewhat eclipsed by the palatial Alton Towers, which has brought fame to this small village. It is pleasing to hear that this unmusical five (tenor 12 cwt .) are shortly going to be recast and augmented to eight.

At St . Peter's. Ellastone, we were met by the Vicar, the Rev. J. L. S. Smylie, and here we found a large notice, "Welcome,' facing us as we entered the ringing room. The bells are a heavy six (tenor 18 cwt.) which have long, multicoloured sallies on the ropes. Unfortunately. we had only rung 60 Grandsire Doubles here before the fifth rope broke.

At St. John-the-Baptist, Mayfield, we found an excellent six (tenor 12 cwt .) which scem to ring themselves. It is a great pity that the clock case, which is in the ringing room, means that the ringers of five and six never see each other.

A sandwich lunch in the Pennine foothills was followed by the long run to Kingsley, which tested the skill of our driver and everyone else's nerves. On arrival at St. Werburgh's, Kingsley. the third church we had visited which was decorated for harvest festival, we were met by Mr. W. Carnwell. Everyone agreed that this six (tenor 12 cwt .) must be one of the best in the county.

At Cheadle arrangements for ringing were not so straightforward, and we soon discovered the disadvantage of having two churches in one town which possessed bells. let alone both being dedicated to St. Giles! After searching the town for various people, ranging from vicars to men in green trousers and blue coats, we were led to the belfry of the 6-bell tower by the Rev. J. P. B. Ashton.

The next tower was All Saints', Dilhorne whose partly Norman octagonal tower is unique in Staffordshire. Here we had our second breakage, this time the clock hammer wire.
After leaving Dilhorne our road lay through Draycott-le-Moors and (on the advicc of the back-seat drivers) to what looked vaguely like a disused airfield.

Checkley was our only disappointment. The Rector, who was on holiday, had not received our letter and consequently no one was expecting us. After tea at Uttoxeter we made our wav through the gathering dusk. down a lane which seemed to go on 'ad infinitum' to Leigh. All Saints' Church is really massive, and the magnificent medizval tower is equalty large. The tenor, according to 'Dowe,' weighs 14 cwt.. but, Mr. Whittingham and Mr. Darty, the "locals who met us, told us that it was a ton, and it certainly felt more like that. At first we found these bells difficult to handle, but discovered after a while that they "weren't all that bad.
We thank Eric Edginton very much for driving us through North-East Staffordshire for 12 very happy hours.
S. H.

EMERGENCY OPERATION ON MR. W. DENYER

After ringing for last Sunday evening service at Aldershot, Mr. W. Denyer (74) was found at home seriously ill by a member of his family. Medical aid was immediately soumht, and he was removed to Farnham Hospital, where an emergency operation for strangulated hernia was performed in the early hours of Monday morning. He is in the Pilgrims' Way Ward.
We are also sorry to learn that Mr: Charlie Denyer's little son is ill with scarlet fever.

- THEREFORE WITH ANGELS . . .,

By The Rev. J. G. M. SCOTT

0N the first Christmas night, two worlds became united, the world of earth and the world of heaven, the world of material things, of work and wages and human activity, and the world of worship, which is love expressed in action. The Baby in the stable belonged to both worlds, and for the first time since the Fall the two universes came into step, so that the shepherds to their astonishment and consternation were suddenly able to see and share the life of heaven, and witness the worship - the love in action that goes on there. They were like passengers in a train at night, looking out of the window while another train is accelerating past them: for a long time there is nothing to see but a blur of moving light, and then all at once the two are going together, side by side, and you can see into another little world six feet away, the people in it doing the things they do, all quite clear so that you can see even what papers they're reading, yet they might be in another plane of existence.

Yet in the shepherds' case it wasn't altogether a different plane. The message came from that other world for them to go to Bethlehem, and there they found the Baby, an ordinary-looking Jewish baby in a cold and smelly stable, but a Person who belongs not only to their world, the world of the hillside and the inn and the stable and the workshop and the office, but also to the world of worship which they had seen just now. Did they know, when they saw the Baby, that the world would never be the same place again? They were simple men, so perhaps they only sensed it; the Wise Men knew it, though: they knew that something had happened that made every other event in human history a triviality, and they were going to be witnesses of it however long the journey or great the cost.

Since that day the two worlds remain linked, by that one Person, the Person in the Manger, on the Cross, rising from the Tomb, and now living again in the world of worship from which He came, but yet always giving Himself to the other world - our world in which we live. When we go to the Communion at midnight or on Christmas morning we shall sing or say the song that the shepherds heard when they had their glimpse of Heaven - ' Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth peace, goodwill towards men' - and the song that Isaiah and St. John heard when they had their glimpses of that same world, 'Holy, Holy, Holy.' It isn't merely as a gesture that we repeat those words at the Holy Communion; it is because in this act that Jesus gave us to do we are for the time being carried into the world of Heaven, and belong there, and join in what is happening there. We aren't making an act of worship which has been thought up, or even evolved, by men or even by the Church; we are using the Sacrament as a means by which we join in an act of worship which is going on in Heaven - you might almost say an act of worship which is Heaven. In it we become part of Jesus and He part of us; so for the time being we are where He is, and do what he does, and the multitude of the heavenly host is all round us. All our worship - real worship, love expressed in activity - is made part of the worship of Heaven, caught up and perfected in it -our ringing and our singing and the simple movements of our bodies in standing and kneeling and joining our hands in prayer. This may seem a hard idea to understand, but nothing is more simple; a child can understand it, and most children do. We know that in His Sacrament we are with Jesus; we know that Jesus is in Heaven with the angels and archangels that the shepherds saw. That's all.

You might think that the worship that Heaven can offer is so great and perfect and holy that the not-very-special Christmas service touch, the rather inharmonious carols, the not-too-well-attended service in a small church would make no noticeable difference by its presence or absence. You'd be wrong. Heaven's worship isn't nearly complete without the earth's; the angel was sent specially to tell the shepherds to go and see the Baby in the stable, and angels aren't sent about the world on trivial errands. God needed those simple men in the stable, even though the whole company of Heaven was there already. Nobody is so unimportant that his part in the worship of Heaven can be given without being noticed - or withheld without being missed.

Worship is love expressed in activity; hands on a rope, a bent knee, speaking lips, a singing throat - if love is there, it is worship, and if Christ is there, it is the worship of Heaven, perfect, limitless and eternal. We have no call to envy the Shepherds their glimpse of the heavenly host, or their chance of worshipping God's Son with Mary and Joseph and the angels and archangels in the stable. They were there before us, but we can be as close: He promised it.

A NOVEMBER OUTING

Saturday, November 24th (was it one of the coldest days so far this winter?), was the date chosen for a trip around the Radstock-Frome neighbourhood, and it was a small party which met at Kilmersdon in the carly afternoon.

Kilmersdon has a 'good-looking' church with a tall tower containing a very fine ring of six (tenor 21 cwt .), recently rehung by Taylors. We were impressed by the furnishings in the ringing chamber-provided by the resourcefulness of the local ringers. The next church, Leigh-onMendip, was not hard to find as its tall, decorated tower shows up for some distance; in fact, we thought the church was taller than it was long! Our attention was drawn to the condition of thd tops of the pews here, and we were told that this was done by Cromwell's horses when he spent a night in the village. The bells ( 6 , $12 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.) were rung to various methods, and we found them easy to handle and strike well.

At Wanstrow ( $6,10 \mathrm{cwt}$.) we had a little furniture shifting to do before ringing (in the porch) could start! It seems that at present the walls are primarily used for the storage of hoxes, ladders, etc. However, the bells go well and ringing included a good course of London. This was followed by a picnic tea-grateful thanks to the lady who officiated at the teapot!

We travelled on then to Nunney (it was_now dark and noticeably colder!), where the church is being restored on a large scale. The body of the church is shrouded in corrugated iron. all seats have been removed and services are held in the Lady Chapel. The tower is safe (apparently), and we rang various methods. including a touch of Bob Minor for one of the local ringers who had not rung any Minor for eight years.

The last organised tower was Whatley ( 6,11 cwt. 3 qr .25 lb .). We found the bells rather difficult to strike properly and were told that 5 and 6 have counter-balanced clappers. However, with the assistance of Roger, who met us, we managed a course of London and Cambridge (almost1). At the invitation of Miss Overend, we then joined the Frome ringers at their practice. One more stop was made en route home, and although the cider was not perhaps up to standard, there was a blazing fire! Very many thanks on behalf of the party to all incumbents, local ringers, and our organiser and car drivers.

JOINT MEETING AT ABERAVON

The joint meeting of the Llandaff Branch of the Llaadaff and Monmouth Association and the Southern District of the Swansea and Brecon Guild this year was held at Aberavon on December 1st. The attendance was not up to standard, but those who attended represented many towers in the district, including Llanelly, Carms.

A good afternoon's ringing was enjoyed by everyone, under the direction of the Ringing Master, Mr. Tim Yeomans.
In the unavoidable absence of the Archdeacon of Margam, the curate conducted the service, and afterwards an excellent tea was provided in the Church Hall.

Mr. Fred Hannington was elected to the chair, and he presided at both the Swansea and Brecon and Llandaff business meetings. Au officers of the 'S. and B.' Guild were reelected. The meeting then stood in silence for the late Mr. Weaver, of Penarth, who had been a faithful member of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association.

Several new members were elected to both organisations. It was agreed to hold the next Llandaff meeting at Porthcawl, and the next ' S . and B.' Guild meeting at Neath. Votes of thanks were proposed by Mr. R. E. Coles.

The customary return to the tower for more ringing concluded the meeting.

WENDOVER, BUCKS.-On Dec. 2nd, 1,320 Grandsire Doubles: S. Harding 1, H. C. Jones 2, Monica Barrett 3, F. Kirlland 4, W. Lee (cond.) 5, A. Hammond 6. Rung for Evensong for the viste of the Bishop.

Miss Audrey M. Bailey, now living at 5,007 , Rue Jean Brillant, Montreal, writes on reaching Canada eight months ago it was a great disappointment to find no ringing activity in the four towers of the Eastern Provincesand therefore as big a thrill as visiting New York or Niagara to help St. Matthew's, Quebec, ring for Sunday service on Advent Sunday. It has inspired her to try and promote some interest in Montreal.

A peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at Newport, Mon, last Saturday, conducted by David W. Beard.

We regret to hear of the deaths of Mr. Edgar Humfrey (86), who had a long association with ringing in Reading, and Mr. E. E. Pratchett (81), of Hendon. Obituary notices will appear in our next issue.

Wenhaston, Suffolk, bells have been recast and retuned by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. So far, just over $£ 300$ has been raised towards an estimated cost of $£ 1,300$. Any donations would be more than welcome by the Vicar (the Rev. L. R. Manthorp), The Vicarage, Wenhaston, Halesworth, Suffolk.

After an anxious week, we are pleased to learn that Mr. W. Denyer, of Aldershot, who is in Farnham Hospital, took a change for the better on Saturday. He is now able to read and take solid food.

Mr. D. Vincent, of Hale, Cheshire (' Old Dec Cee Vee '). has been deeply touched by the large number of expressions of goodwill from dear and valued ringing friends on the occasion of his installation as Master of the De Sala Lodge. These have included letters from friends who are not members of the Masonic fraternity, and they are equally treasured. He finds it impossible to reply to all letters immediately.

GOSSIP

The Rev. J. V. Pixell, Vicar of Radley, who was ordained 50 years ago on St. Thomas's Day, was taught to ring when he was well over 60 years of age, and rang his first peal when over 70. At the present time he rings regularly twice every Sunday. He is vice-chairman of the North Berks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.
Mr. Tom Ingram, the author of 'Bells in England,' has written a full-page article on 'The Praise of the Bells, for the Christmas issue of 'The Radio Times.'
The Rev. M. B. Hurst-Bannister is resigning the Mastership of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association at the end of the year, due to his moving out of the Diocese.

The peal at Wilmslow in 33 methods on December 1st marked the 33rd anniversary of the first peal in 35 methods at Norbury. Strange to relate, it occupied the same time ( 2 hours 42 minutes).
An attack of lumbago prevented Mr. Herbert Knight from participating at the last moment in the peal of Grandsire Cinques at Wolverhampton for his 84th birthday. The band are looking forward to Mr. Knight joining them for his 85 th birthday next year.
We regret to hear of the passing of Mr. Joseph Wren, who was a ringer at East Grinstead Parish Church for 70 years and captain for 50 years. To his memory a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on December 11th.
Congratulations are extended by the conductor to Miss Dorothy Robinson, of Huntingdon. on her peal in three methods, at Great Staughton on December 1st. Apart from one plain course of Kent T.B. the previous evening. she had not rung a blow in the method. She rang like a veteran peal-ringer, although she had only rung a peal (at first attempt) on November 24th.

IN DEFENCE OF PLAIN BOB

Dear Sir,-It seems to me that the deletion of the word 'Plain' from the title of peals and quarter peals of Plain Bob reported in 'The Ringing World ' is completely illogical.
In the case of a method named '- Bob Major, the word 'Major' indicates that the method is rung on eight bells, the word 'Bob" shows that the method belongs to the class of hunt-controlled methods whose Treble Path is the Plain Hunt, and the - a purely arbitrary name, indicates which method in this particular class is under consideration.
Thus the Plain Hunt-controlled Major methods have such names as St. Clement's Bob Major Longney Bob Major and Plain Bob Major. 'Bob Major' by itself does not specify any particular method.-Yours sincerely, ## Belfast.

Dear Sir,-Despite the fact that the Editorial Committee of 'The Ringing World ' is, in its decision to discontinue the use of the word plain' as applied to Plain Bob, complying to the letter with the Central Council's 1955 resolution, I feel that this can lead to nothing but confusion, particularly in the reporting of peals.

Firstly, the word 'bob' is a definitive term in the field of plain methods, being just as indicative of a certain type of plain method, i.e., one having a seconds-place lead-end, as is the word 'Surprise' indicative of a certain type of treble bob hunt method. Thus, a peal described as one of ' 5040 Bob Minor' should be construed, without further explanation, as one containing any number of seconds-place plain minor methods, just as a peal of 5040 Surprise Minor ' is normally understood to contain a plurality of Surprise minor methods.
Further confusion is likely to arise in the reporting of multi-method minor peals, wherein the word 'minor' is invariably dispensed with when listing the methods rung. Thus, if we are to be consistent, an extent will now read:
(1) St. Clement's Bob, Double Oxford Bob, Bob. . . . etc.'
This looks decidedly odd to me, but would appear to be unavoidable under the new ruling
Lastly, we have the case where Plain Bob has been rung for the first time in a certain tower: take the case of a 10 -bell tower where the first peal of Plain Bob is one of Major on the back eight. Is the footnote to read: 'First peal of Bob Major on the bells,' thus implying that Minor and/or Royal has previously been rung? The only alternative consistent with the new ruling, i.e., 'first peal of Bob on the bells,' is surely inadmissible.
It has been shown only too often in the past that too rigid an adherence to loosely-drawn rules leads only to controversy and confusion This is a case in which 'elasticity' should be our watchword, and a dead and discarded custom should be allowed to rest in peace.-Yours faithfully,

ROBIN G. LEALE.

ADVENT SUNDAY

At Quebec and Coventry

To anyone who has sailed down the St. Lawrence River, the first sight of the city of Quebec and the green copper turrets of the Château Frontenac, mounting the hill towards the Heights of Abraham, is unforgettable. Close to the Chatteau is the Anglican Cathedral and further up St. John Street St. Matthew's Church, both noted in the guide book as having bells hung for ringing. However, very little has been heard recently of change-ringing bands at either tower. There has been some activity at the Cathedral but the eight of St. Matthew's have merely been chimed.
The first Sunday in Advent may therefore be considered as a great occasion, when the back six of St. Matthew's rang out in rounds through the already snow-covered streets of the city (Probably the first time for 25 years.) This is largely due to the enthusiasm of Mrs. Leslie Pickles (better known as Gladys Jarrett to her friends in Kent county), who came to live at Levis, Quebec, last year. The Archdeacon of Quebec has always been most anxious that the bells should be rung, and was delighted to discover a keen ringer. Before Gladys' trip home to England this summer, the bells were inspected and found to be in fairly good order, with only two stays missing. Mr. Duggan, who faithfully chimes every Sunday, was the only one able to handle a bell.
Gladys and Mr. Duggan started to teach a few weeks ago, with three learners (including Mr Leslic Pickles!), and such was the standard reached after the few lessons that, with the help of a visitor from Montreal, the bells were raised and rung in rounds before a Sunday morning service. The Archdeacon himself is keen to learn and there are prospects of more recruits.

It will not be an easy task as Gladys is the only one with a knowledge of change-ringing, but it will be a wonderful achievement to have set the towers of eastern Canada ringing once again. The Cathedral band have also had a revival of enthusiasm and are starting a fortnightly practice, although apparently the bells are not in good condition and need a thorough overhaul. However, continuez à sonner, et bonne chance, Quebec!
A. B.

Advent Sunday was a red-letter day for the ringers of St. Michael's. Stoke, Coventry, for it was then that the Bishop of Coventry, Dr Cuthbert Bardsley, was paying his first visit to the church to preach at Evensong.

Eight of the Sunday service band assembled at 5.15 and rang a quarter peal, 1.260 Stedman Triples: A. Roberts 1, R. D. Hayne 2, F Brassington 3. D. Sibley (first in the method) 4 . H. Folwell 5. D. Ellender 6, H. E. Sibley (conductor) 7, F. Rouse 8.

At the conclusion of the quarter peal, four other members of the band, Miss J. Brassing ton, N. Haile, B. Bingham and E. Simpson stood in to ring founds and a short touch of Stedman until the Bishop himself came to the ringing chamber to express his appreciation of the ringing, and was introduced to the ringers. He had a special word of praise for Mr. A. Roberts for his long and regular service, and was indeed surprised to learn that he was 86 years of age.
This is the first occasion on which any Bishop has visited the ringers in the ringing chamber at St. Michael's.

LATE NEWS

We regret to announce the sudden death at Ottery St. Mary on Monday of Mr. Isaac Emery, aged 85.

SPLICED 720's IN 23 AND 24 METHODS

Dear Sir,-Spliced Minor ringers may be interested in the three following 720's.
Column No. 2 shows the places where the second 720 differs from the first, and column No. 3 the places where the third 720 differs from the second.

The method I have 'christened' Wakefield Alliance (as I have no name for it otherwise) is Mendlesham, with 6 ths instead of 2 nds at the lead-end.

The first two 720 's contain, of course, the greatest number of methods yet spliced into a 720, and the third 720 makes it possible, I believe, to increase the present Minor record by one method.

There are several variations of each 720.-Yours sincerely,
Ryhill, Wakefield.

Christchurch District Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Christchurch District, held at Christchurch on December 1st, was well attended, 60 members and some friends settling down to tea in the Priory Restaurant, where the business meeting was subsequently held.
Previously the 12 bells had been rung and the Guild office sung in the Quire of the Priory. The service was conducted by the Vicar of Christchurch (Canon R. P. Price) and the preacher was the Rev. Marling Roberts, Vicar of Milford-on-Sea.
At the business meeting the Vicar of Christchurch welcomed the Guild to Cbristchurch once again, and referred to the great loss the District had sustained in the passing of Mr. George Preston and Mrs. A. V. Davis. The company stood in silent tribute to their memory.
The hon. secretary reported a steady year's work with fair attendance at the meetings and a small talance in hand after all dues had been met. The officers were re-elected for another year, with the exception of the chairman (Mr. J. E. Daniells), who would shortly be leaving Bournemouth to take up an appointment in Cardiff.
Admiral D. H. Everett, the correspondent of the Milford-on-Sea tower (and who has done much enthusiastic spadework to revive Milford ringing), was unanimously elected chairman of the Branch for 1957.

Quarterly meetings were arranged to be held on the first Saturdays in March, June, September and December, and it was decided to hold the George Williams Commemoration Dinner early in May, the date of which will be published shortly in 'The Ringing World.'

The Guild's annual general meeting will be held in Bournemouth this year, and Mr. J. A. C. King promised details in the early New Ycar.

GEORGE E. DAY

Dear Sir ,-In your issue of October 19th your correspondent 'C. R.' gave details of a peal of Bob Major rung half-muffed at SS. Peter and Paul, Eye, on September 24th, 1906 -a token of respect to the Rev. John J. Raven, D.D.
'C. R.' mentions George Day, the bell-hanger, his son Fred and his grandson Hubert, as taking part in this peal. This is not so: the George E. Day who rang in the peal was the elder son of Fred Day.

George E. Day served as a sergeant in the 5 th Suffolks, and was reported missing at Suvla Bay in 1915 when one or two companies of the battalion were reported missing, and so far as I am aware, nothing further was ever heard as to what happened to these troops.
The peals rung for the 'N.D.A.' by members of the Day family were: George 4, Fred 95, George E. 10, Hubert J. 18.
I believe that old George Day died just previous to 1906; the firm was carried on by Fred and later by Hubert.-Yours faithfully,

GEORGE H. CROSS.
Chardstock. Devon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

GUILD ANNUAL REPORTS IN 'RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,-I write to congratulate A. H. Smith on one the most constructive suggestions that has appeared in 'The Ringing World " this year. It is interesting to note that no comment on it appeared and that no comment has appeared on the other suggestion earlier this year of a national striking competition based on District Associations. Ringers seem strangely reluctant to see in new ideas scope for development.

With respect to the publishing of Reports in 'The Ringing World,' I wonder if the Editorial Committee has considered selling space, and at what price it could be made available. At 6 s . 6 d . per column inch (the rate quoted above the weekly notices), a double page, the bare minimum for most Associations, would cost $£ 1711 \mathrm{~s}$. I have just had an estimate of $£ 2515 \mathrm{~s}$. for 350 Reports of eight pages and cover. If the rate for Reports could be fixed at $£ 5$ per page 1 am sure that most Associations would be glad of the opportunity to help themselves and the 'R.W.'-Yours, elc..

WILLIAM PARROTT.

Epsom, Surrey.

NOTE.-Very careful consideration would be given by the Editorial Committee to any Guild or Association who submitted a definite proposition. The National Press is used for Company Reports. A page of 'The Ringing World' is about the equivalent of 2,000 words.-Ed.

KEEP OUT PREJUDICE

Dear Sir,-I read "The Ringing World ' with much pleasure and interest, but this pleasure is somewhat modified when I' see so many of your somewhat modified when thee sens in the ink of prejudice. People who do not like the idea of a College of Campanology might at least be willing to give the venture a chance. It's so easy to reject an idea when it's first mentioned or to damn it in the carly stages, but new ventures are at least a sign of life and intelligence and there's always room for improvement, given time. I can quite see that experienced ringers who have learnt their ringing the hard waypractice, practice, and more practice-may not like the idea of turning the basic practice into a scientific drill. But there is plenty of room for variety in educational methods. Pupils vary, and so do the methods that suit them best.
As an elderly novice myself, and one who is trying at the same time to teach young ones to ring. to keep the church bells ringing. I have a feeling that some of the exercises from the Manual, judiciously used, might be a great 'help to me and to my young people. They will give us a standard of ringing practice that we might not otherwise have. seeing we have no expert ringer regularly in the tower.

I for one hope that the College Manual will be available in book form: the young will find much they can learn from it. whilst the older and more experienced will, of their goodwill. be ready with suggestions for improvement. In the meantime. let us keep mere prejudice out of the discussion. It doesn't help, and it militates against the traditional friendliness of our fraternity.

As for quoting Scripture for our own purposes, that is a thing that should not be done. it is bad theology. and it hasn't got good preoedents. has it?

What I say is, God bless all who are working to improve the standards and ideals of bellringing. It is, surely, a sacred art, practised in the House of God and dedicated to His glory. -Yours sincercly,

HENRY THACKRAY.

BATS IN THE BELFRY

Dear Sir,-Dear Mr. Cluett, please pay us a visit. The belfry with bats in it? - Woodchurch is 1t. Incidentally, added to that, we also have a ringer named Batt!-Yours faithfully.

DAPHNE J. RUSSELL

Ashford, Kent.

Dear Sir,-I have seen bats in both North Weald and Fyfield belfries. In North Weald we found one sleeping behind a picture one practice night. I used to wind the Fyfield church clock every Monday evening about 9 o'clock; this was situated in the belfry. For some time a bat would be sitting on the top step of the staircase. I disturbed it in passing, and it was flying around the belfry whilst I was doing my job.-Yours, etc.,

HARRY KING.

North Weald, Essex.

Dear Sir ,-With reference to the correspondence on the subject of 'Bats in the Belfry, 1 have been more fortunate (or unfortunate) than the two ladies whose letters appeared in the December 7th issue of 'The Ringing World,' in that I have seen one of these small creatures in a ringing chamber-once.

One evening about 18 months ago, when 1 was visiting Ashford, Kent. for practice, a bat descended the chute of the treble in the middle of a touch. It fiew round and round the room, distracting us from our ringing, for we were afraid of it getting in our hair. So we stood our bells, and one of the gentlemen present caught it when it alighted on a coat, and put it out through a window into the body of the church. Much relieved, we resumed our ringing.

Also, previously to this, I had heard of the existence of one in my home tower, Rye, Sussex. Surely I am not the only person in the country who has seen a bat in a belfry?-Yours faithfully,

J. M. SOUTHERDEN.

Let 1957 Be Your Red Letter Year

No young ringer can feel he is part of the great ringing fraternity until he is a, resular reader of The Rinsing World: We are now enrolling subscribers for 1957. We ask District representatives to make a special effort so that 1957 will be a red letter year. The drop in circulation reporred at the Central Council annual meeting has been made good, but we want to do much better.

Remittances should be sent to Mr. J. E. Jeater, Greystones, Cusgarne, Truro. Rates: 12 months, f1 8s.; 6 months, 14 s . 6 d .; 3 months, 7 s . 6 d .

SNOWDON AND RINGING TERMS

Dear Sir,-Mr. York-Bramble's 'full realisa-

 tion of "Ropesight." called "The Manual of Ringing", certainly shows that he has studied one of Snowdon's publications very thoroughly.However. in another of Mr. Snowdon's excellent books we find him saying and quoting as follows:

Although of the opinion that other words might be found better adapted to express the meaning than are those actually employed, yet (to quote from Shipway) "as the use of these terms has long been sanctioned by the custom of the Exercise. it is not my design to make any alteration".'-Yours sincerely,
F. W. GROCOTT

CHURCHMANSHIP AND BELLRINGING

Dear Sir,-In his article of Churchmanship and Beliringing, 'J. T. D.' states that it is an unwritten rule that no peals shall be rung during Lent in Somerset. While it is true that members of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association are requested by the Association committee to refrain from peal-ringing during this period, there is not, and cannot be, a rulc, unwritten or otherwise, on this matter. since all ringers are directed finally by their incumbents, and it is just possible that the incumbent of a church might ask his ringers to attempt a peal during Lent.

Some years ago, a ringer who was a founder member of the Association, and who had given a lifetime of service to his church and to ringing, passed away in Lent. If ever a man was worthy of muffled peal as a tribute by his brother-ringers, this man was; yet no peal was rung at his home tower, although the Vicar was prepared to grant permission, simply because the tower Master was under the impression that he would get into troublo with the Association if a peal was rung.
Finally, if we are to cut out ' unnecessary' peals and ringing during Lent, let it be for the reason that the bells will be noticed all the more during the Easter Festival, and not for reasons of self-denial. After all. only 15 per cent. of us ring peals anyway, and there are many things which it is harder to do without: the money saved by these abstinences might well go to the many needs of the Church.-Yours faithfully, Bath.
R. O. FRY.

UNATTACHED RINGERS

Dear Sir,-A correspondent in the issue of December 7th says that while there may be good reasons why ringers are sometimes 'unattached,' he cannot think of any. May I give him two from personal experience?

Ringer ' $A$ ' was an attached member of his association for 30 years. but there came a day when his vicar had a difference of opinion with the local branch of the guild, and at a belfry meeting (the incumbent being in the chair) it was decided to resign from the association. What was this ringer to do-lleave the church where he had worshipped, with his family, all his life, and join ringers in a neighbouring village? No, he continues to ring twice a Sunday with his home band, and his name now appears in his diocesan handbook as 'unattached.'

Ringer ' $\mathbf{B}$ ' worships at a church possessing five bells and no ringers. For many years he lived in a parish where he was able to ring regularly. It may be said that he should now raise a band for his present church. hut it so happens that the vicar prefers that the bells be chimed as the church is in a closely built-up area: not that he has prejudices against ringers -the association is welcomed whenever it visits the tower-but there is no affiliation (changeringing being a condition of membership). So this ringer. too, is 'unattached,' but he goes along to his branch meetings when he can and even fills a minor office in the organisation.
These two valuo their membership and make some small contribution to the guild; I am sure there are many others.

As my name would immediately identify these deople and they might not wish it. with your leave, I will sign myself

GLOCKLEIN.
Clevedon. Somerset.
TOTTERNHOE SURPRISE MAJOR
Dear Sir,-I am indebted to Mr. S. Ivin for pointing out that the claims for the peal of Totternhoe Surprise Major ('R.W.'. Sept. 21 st, 1956) are somewhat extravagant. The composition is unsuitable for Jersey Surprise Major, which although it has the same F.C.E. has the falseness occurring as different leads.-Yours. faithfully.

Neasden. N.W.10. D. KNOX.

THE RINGERS

One Sunday evening seated in my room In solitude engrossed in my affairs, I heard a glorious, mellow sound of bells That sent a thrill throughout my saddened self, And turned my thoughts to others called to church
Who join the bells in joyous worship. Then While ever-changing sequences of notes
Were flowing o'er the evening countryside, Inducing harmonics upon the ear,
I thought of those huge, lifeless lumps of bronze
Which, hanging side by side in lofty tower, Are dumb, until the hand of man gives life To make each bell give forth its lusty shout.
So wonderful the cadences seemed now
That with uplifted spirit I resolved
To see what sort of men could handle bells,
Performing church-work of a unique kind.
A week has passed without another throught
For bells or churches, then on Sunday morn
That wondrous sound excites me once again
And off to church I go, the merry tune
Becoming louder with each stride I take.
My ears are throbbing as I prowl around
The churchyard, puzzling how the ringers reach
Their point of vantage in the sturdy tower.
I find a little ivy-hidden door
Reveals a spiral staircase dark and steep,
And hear a shout of 'Bob!' twist down the stair.
Encouraged by this exclamation, up
And round and round I climb, until I come supon the sombre-coloured ringing room.
The bells have ceased their iangling cries of glee,
The rimgers hitch their ropes, and one of them Inquires if I'm a ringer. 'No,' I say,
'But may I watch you?' 'Please sit down, and see
If Plain Bob Major int'rests you at all.
The brightly-coloured partly woollen ropes
Are hanging in a ring, with each a mat
Below it; so they take one each and wait
For cry of : 'Look to! Treble's going-gone !' They pull their ropes in order round the ring. The bells above them singing down the scale, The "sallies" whisking ten feet up and down Cast shadows on the walls, which make it seem That nothing can keep still in this small room.
I watch the aged ringer nearest me,
His silvery hair all glist'ning bright with sweat;
He stands bolt upright on the tenor's hox,
And rings this mighty deep-toned bell without A single ounce more pull than is required. His rosy, healthy face seems all alert
With concentration in his quick, sharp eyes. I hear the young conductor snap out 'Bob!'This must be some direction to the restI see he's tall and dark with serious face; He puts the others right with absolute Authority. A boy of ten or twelve Is learning on the treble how to 'Hunt.,
A well-dressed business-man heaves at the sixth, A grimy engine-driver has the fifth-
He's just off shift, and still wears overalls.
A pair of schoolgirls ring the third and fourth, An ancient spinster neatly wields her rope. The seventh's handled by a genial youth
Who, clothed in chequered shirt and tartan socks,
Applies his thick-set body to the task
With zest unwarranted for such a bell.
They ring, I realise, as a perfect team;
For slightest error made by anyone
Means all is spoilt, and discord's the result.
Each changc 1 hear is different from the Jast
For repetition never must occur,
Each bell weaves in and out among the rest Until conductor snaps out: 'This is all!' The bells return to singing down the scale And then a cry of 'Stand!' brings them to rest.

MANUAL OF RINGING TRAINING OF THE FARM OF TINTINNABULATION

[Copied (right) by OXON]

THE following are a few extracts from the forthcoming Manual of The Farm of Tintinnabulation (henceforth referred to as the MOF). It is based on a serious work which Oxon welcomes, and he offers this with no intention of giving offence to the author. Oxon accepts the reasons why the serious work is (to quote its introduction) : detailed and explanatory to an unusual degree, and does not consider the degree excessive, though that charge might be raised against the MOF. The Farm sends fraternal greetings to the College.

INTRODUCTION.

K. Wol and P. Bear (those two stalwart conductors mentioned on p. 299 of the 'R.W.' of May 11th, 1956) are principal and vice-principal. Almost anyone mentioned in the 'Beauty and the Beast' articles of April 6th and August 10th, 1956, is eligible to act as tutor (though not student).
Paragraphs are numbered so that when those omitted are published the whole series may be cut out and stuck together to give a complete Manual. (Buy an extra 'R.W.' for the purpose.) The letter ( A ) is to inform the tutor that he should attempt to demonstrate the paragraph referred to. After an hour of fruitless endeavour (but not less- this is important) the tutor should move on. (Q) means that unanswerable questions may be asked by pupils, so move straight on and avoid them.

PART I

THE 'COWSHED' SYSTEM OF TUITION SECTION I

Chapter I

1. Aim.-The objective of the teacher is to teach the pupil. The teacher knows:-
(a) Imprecisely what is to be taught.
(b) Nothing much else.
2. Manual.-As a guide the MOF is better for 1 (b) than for 1 (a) above.
3. Teaching systems.-Our teachers under training devoted several minutes to the study and practice of ringing itself. Mr. Bear follows the Pooh system and Mr. Wol no system at all. (The Pooh system consists in answering all questions 'Pooh pooh!' or 'Moo, moo!'. This forces pupils to think for themselves. Mr. Bear states that no pupils have done so yet, but he is hoping that one will soon-or better still give him some honey in exchange for the answer. (Q)
4. Selection and Arrangement.-Fill this in, Wol, when you have time. Ten lines should suffice, P.B. Do it yourself, K. W.
5. Method employed.-In the Cowshed system . . . the less desirable results . . . are always attainable. (A)
6. Presentation. ... Above all, never assume the pupil knows anything you have checked. (Occasionally even the most inexperienced teacher finds a pupil who has learnt something, however.)
7. Interest.-Without it real progress cannot be made. This is why the 'Cowshed' system inevitably fails. (Q) (A)

We hurried down the stairs and into churchI've been a ringer ever since myself.

Bedford.
8. Aids.-A bell is always a great help.
9. Continuity.-The tutor should not miss too many classes or he will forget where they are being held.
10. Questions.-Let nothing 'fluffy'. get passed over. Kiss her!

SECTION XII

COURSE ORGANISATION
2912. The Course.-A course will normally occupy one session of five minutes.
2913. Class arrangements-In practice a tutor may (independent of the circumstances) instruct up to 500 pupils simultaneously. (None will learn anything, anyway.)
2914. Recruiting.-Nature will produce pupils.
2915. Register.-For every course the Farm issues a Register (Form 2675/1B/392(a)) and this should be returned to the Principal with the milk. Tutors are requested to fill the form in before returning it. (A)
3018. The Grades and Parts.-Examinations are not conducted in any of the seven parts of the MOF. Mr. Bear, having very little brain, has mislaid the names of the parts so we will go on to the Grades. Thesc include Ringer, Ringer, Ringer, Ringer, Ringer and many other grades (also known, to avoid confusion, as Ringer).
3019. Honorary Grade.- Oxon may elecif ringers to the honorary grade of Ringer.
3020. Examinations.-The Farm being Comprehensive, the $11+$ examination has been abolished. So have all other exams, and one may not, therefore (until further notice), advance from the grade of Ringer to that of Ringer. The pass-standard has been lost anyway.

SECTION LIII (thirteenth session)

INTRODUCTION TO ACTUAL RINGING 4824 Preparation.-Dress: Gumboots and old clothes should be worn.
4525. Papers: Form 2675, etc., has still not been filled in-why not? (A) (A) (two hours);
4526 Opening.-The tutor should be careful not to annoy the pupils.
4527. The two 'Chambers.'-R. Z. Chambers and P. Q. Chambers are honorary fellows of the Farm. (Address as "Old Chap.') N.B.Ladies are not 'Chaps.'
4528. The Art of Ringing.- Refer to the previous viewing by the class of ringing in progress. (It is assumed that in most cases there will have been such a preview, but if not, state that the action is about to be demonstrated.) State that ringing, or the sounding of cow-bells with different movements of the head, is a peculiarly Swiss art dating back to some time in the past. It is enjoyed by mountain cattle of both sexes from all walks of the Alps and provides an easy way for the farmer to find his cattle.

SECTION XCIV  ACTUAL RINGING

5129. Ta Start Ringing.-Fix the cow-bell firmly round the pupil's neck and drive the pupil out of the cowshed.

By special request further instalments will not follow.

OBITUARY

MR. CHARLES E. BORRETT AN APPRECIATION

It was with extreme regret that I read of the passing of my old friend Charles E. Borrett. He had a charming manner and was well respected by all members of the old Norwich Diocesan Association.

Charlie was the finest light bell ringer that I have ever had the pleasure of ringing with, a perfect striker and a very neat handler.

Sometimes I rang with him at Mancroft, before the first world war, at their practice nights, when the ringing was somewhat indifferent, and have seen him almost gnash his teeth because one of the band could not strike. Sometimes at the end of the touch, he read the riot act to me, because I smiled at his annoyance when these bad blows were made

I don't think that Nolan Golden is correct in saying that J. A. Trollope and C. E. B. were school fellows. Charlie commenced ringing some time before J. A. T., in fact I have always been given to understand that he (C. E. B.) attended many practices of the old company at Mancroft before he was asked why he attended the practices. Then some members of the old company, including Fred Howchin, commenced teaching him.

His first peal was rung on handbells on Feb. 23rd, 1892. The band was: Alfred W. Brighton (1), Charles E. Borrett (2), Fred Knights (3-4), Fred H. Knights (5-6); conducted by Fred Knights. His first peal on tower-bells was Bob Minor at Hethersett, in which Alfred W. Brighton also took part. These were also Alfred's first peals on tower- and handbells.

Charles' first peal on eight was Oxford Treble Bob on January 19th, 1893, at Mancroft on the middle eight (ninth as tenor). On the same day J. A. Trollope, John E. Burton and George P. Burton rang 5,040 Bob Minor 'in hand' (their fi!:st peal).
About 1896 Charlie became the conductor of the old company practising at Mancroft, and called many peals with them. This position he retained until about 1905 , just before the old company were, shall I say, turned out of the tower.

A new company was formed at Mancroft, with a Sunday service band. He rang several peals with them and called some. He was never a regular selvice ringer, as he was a member of the choir at St. Martin-at-Palace. He remained a member of this choir until about 1920 , when they had a change of parson, with whom he could not see eye-to-eye, so he left.

In the meantime the old company continued to meet at their club room to ring handbells and talk. Charlie was a regular attendant, and it was a kind of ritual for old Fred Knights to offer him a cigar as soon as he sat down. As a youngster I often attended these meetings, and I did much handbell ringing with them. It was usual to ring a course of Grandsire Cinques and sometimes a touch of Double Norwich. Although we often rang three courses of Double Norwich almost perfectly. there was never any mention of attempting a peal. This was during the years 1911 to 1914

I think Charlie's 100th peal was Stedman Cinques, with his friends Jimmy Motts and compan $\gamma$ at Ipswich on April 27th, 1909. It was also his first peal of Stedman Cinques as conductor.
I find I rang 38 peals and called 33 with Charles. These peals were as follows:

Bob Major 2. Bob Major (handbells) 2 (conducted 2). Bob Royal 1 (1). Kent Treble Bob Major 3 (3). Kent Treble Bob Maior (handbells) 1 (1), Oxford Treble Bob Major 3 (2), Kent T.B. Maximus 2 (2). Double Norwich Major $8(7$, includes 7,136). Double Oxford Major 1 (1). Superlative Major 2 (1), Cambridge Major 4 (4). New Cambridge Major 1 (1), Stedman Triples 4 (4), Stedman Caters 2 (2), Stedman Cinques 2 (2).

My first peal was called by Charles on Sept. 30th, 1909, and the other four which I did not call were conducted by Frederick J. Cross, Albert G. Warnes (rung for the N.D.A. by members of the Norwich Scholars), John E. Burton and Frederick R. Borrett.
He rang four peals on the back eight at Mancroft, the first of Double Norwich, Stedman Triples and Cambridge Major on the bells. He called the Stedman Triples from the treble. I think this composition was one of John Carter's with the treble observation. The fourth peal was also Stedman Triples in 1922.

Farewell. Charlie.

GEORGE H. CROSS.

MR. GEORGE H. DAYNES

The funeral service for Mr. George Henry Daynes, whose death was reported in our last issue, took place at Greenwich Parish Church on December 10th. Among friends attending were Mr. T. A. Easterby and Mr. F. W. Richardson.
In the evening at Eltham Parish Church a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples from the first and last parts of Holt's Original was rung with the bells half-muffled. It was at this church that George rang his last peal and also his last quarter.
The representative band paying this last tribute was B. W. Aldridge (Woolwich) 1, J. Dafters (Lewisham) 2, P. J. Spice (Bromley) 3, T. A. Easterby (Deptford) 4, F. W. Richardson (conductor, Deptford) 5, E. B. Crowder (Deptford) 6, J. Hurrell (Eltham) 7, F. J. Hurrell (Eltham) 8.

MR. JOHN POWELL

With very deep regret we record the sudden death of Mr. John Powell, of 56a, Newmarch Street, Llanfaes. Brecon. early on December 3rd. By trade Mr. Powell was a grocer, having worked at Brecon Co-op. Stores for over 30 years. In the first world war he served with the Royal Lancashire Fusiliers.

A member of St. David's P.C.C., Brecon, and people's $v$ arden for 16 years, he was elected a member of the Swansea and Brecon Guild in 1925. Though not a peal ringer, he was always present at meetings when able to attend. Mr. Powell held the rank of major in the Church Lads' Brigade, and had been a member of the Llanfaes Company for 32 years. The members of the Northern Branch of the Guild rang a quarter peal half-muffled on December 7th as a tribute of respect. He leaves a widow and stepson to mourn their loss.

MR. ERNEST PALMER

Members of the Bristol Rural Area will learts with regret of the death at Mangotsfield onDecember 2nd of Mr. Ernest Palmer, at the age of 71. He had been in indifferent health for some time, but his death was sudden and unexpected.
A native of Mangotsfield, the service that ' E. P.' had given to his local church was an example to all with whom he came in contact. At the time of his death he was tower secretary and verger.

He learnt to ring over 45 years ago, and was always faithful in his Sunday service ringing. He was not a prolific peal ringer and kept no record of his peals, but it is understood that he had taken part in about 20, the first being a peal of Grandsire Triples at Mangotsfield in February, 1922, shortly after the bells were augmented to eight.
The funeral service took place at Mangotsfield on December 6th, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. W. P. Beard, and was attended by a large congregation, including many ringing friends from the local band and towers in the Bristol area. The Gloucester and Bristol Association was represented by Mr. C. R. Harding (Master), Mr. W. F. Scudamore (general secretary), Mr. S. G. Riches (general treasurer), Mr. T. T. Walters (chairman. Bristol Rural), Mr. J. G. Jefferies and Mr. F. Skidmore (vice-presidents).

Immediately following the committal in the churchyard the bells were rung half-muffied to 'whole pull and stand' and Grandsire Triples by Association officials and members of the local band.

During the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples, with bells half-muffled, was rung in his memory by past and present members of the Mangotsfield tower. The band was: C. Beakes 1, Mrs. N. Dart 2, C. R. Harding 3, M. Jefferies 4, T. Jefferies 5, W. Richings 6, J. G. Jefferies (conductor) 7, E. Cooksley $8 . \quad$ W. F. S.

MR. ERNEST G. WALKER

Faringdon, Berks, has lost one of its oldest ringers by the passing of Mr. Ernest George Walker, who died at the age of 68 on December 4th at his home, 17, Marlborough Close, Faringdon.

Mr. Walker, who had been a ringer at All Saints' Church, Faringdon, for over 50 years, was a regular Sunday service ringer up to about three months ago, when his health would not allow him to carry on with ringing.

Before his retirement in 1953, he was employed for 43 years by the Swindon United Gas Co., and later by the South-Western Gas Board. He leaves a widow and a son, aged 14, who is also a ringer.

Four of his fellow ringers, Messrs. F. H. Whipp, D. Vincent, J. Strawford and R. Miles, acted as bearers at the funeral -service at All Saints' Church. The Rev. C. H. G. Davey officiated. Cremation followed at Oxford. Other ringers present were Messrs. J. Pearce (foreman), F. Wheeler, J. Belcher, P. Moore.
A half-muffied peal was rung on December 8th by the following: J. Strawford 1, F. Wheeler 2, C. S. J. Pearce (conductor) 3, D. Vincent 4, E. Cade 5, R. Miles 6, F. L. Whipp 7, J. Belcher 8 .

WOLVERCOTE, OXON.-On Nov. 25th. 1,260 Bob Minor: W. Godwin. jun. (first of Minor) 1. N. Chamberlain 2, W. Godwin, sen, (first of Minor) 3. Miss D. R. Casteil 4. M. J. Thomas 5. M. J. Hallett (cond.) 6. Rung half-muffled in memory of Mr. E. Loveridge. sidesman at this church; for Wolvercote fifth Ringers' Sunday; a farewell to M. J. Thomas about to enter H.M. Forces.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

Swindon Branch

Among the visitors to the Swindon Branch annual meeting on December 8 th were Mr . Roger Fry, of Bath, Mr. Frank Skidmore, of Bristol, and Miss Marion Skinner, a former member of Christ Church, now resident in Middlesex.

Owing to a mishap, ringing was somewhat restricted during the afternoon, but things were put right eventually. The usual service was conducted by the Vicar (Canon F. W. Thomas), who delivered one of his customary out-of-therut addresses.

The company was entertained to tea in the Church Hall by Christ Church ringers. and the Branch chairman (Dr. H. Craig) presided at the business meeting. All the Branch officers were re-elected and Mr. R. Luton was appointed assistant secretary to assist Mr. Kynaston, who is away from Swindon a good deal. The secretary reported an increase in peal ringing and an average attendance of 33 per meeting during the past year. He also announced that the sum of $£ 40$ had been subscribed by the Association for Bow Bells.

It was proposed that the first three mectings in 1957 be held at St. Mark's, Swindon, Rodbourne Cheney and Stratton St. Margaret. Ringing was resumed in the evening, and methods uo to Cambridge Royal were rung. although some difficulty was experienced in the Major methods '

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

West Dorset Annual at Beaminster

At the annual meeting of the West Dorset Branch, held in Beaminster on December 1st, towers represented were: Beaminster, Bridport, Broadwindsor, Evershot, Netherbury, Loders Lyme Regis, and Whitechurch Canonicorum Visitors were from Corfe Mullen, Yeovil, Cat tistock and Hawkchurch.
Ringing ranged from rounds and call-changes to Cambridge Minor and Major, while a service touch was Stedman Triples.
The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar of Beaminster (the Rev. J. S. Arthur), assisted by Canon C. Cox, the lesson being read by the Rev. O. L. Willmott, and the Vicar of Beaminster gave a very fitting address. The collection amounted to $£ 16 \mathrm{~s}$. The Lyme Regis band rang a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells during the service.
Tea, enjoyed by 34 members, was given by the Beaminster ringers, and a charge of 6 d . per head was made to cover the cost of hiring the hall.
Apologies for absence were received from Dr Taylor, the Hawkchurch band and Melbury Osmond ringers-the latter due to difficulty in obtaining petrol!
The secretary's report was read and adopted and the accounts, which showed a balance of $£ 53$ 12s. 4d., passed. It was decided to invest $£ 30$ of the balance in Defence Bonds.

The election of officers followed. Canon Carew Cox was unanimously re-elected chairman, and Rev. O. L. Willmott vice-chairman. Mrs. E. Pannell was re-elected secretary and treasurer. The Ringing Masters were re-elected en bloc.
Quarterly meetings were fixed as follows February-Bradpole, April-Symondsbury, July -Loders. September-South Perrott, and the annual meeting in December at Bridport.

The following were made members of the Guild: Mrs. Davis, E. Hodder and P. Wright (Lyme Regis), R. Rawlins and P. G. Bowditch (Hawkchurch), Nancy Wakely (Burton Bradstock), and W. Maddieson (Loders). The Rev. ff. Powell, of Evershot, was transferred from an honorary member to a ringing member, and Roger Keeley made a non-resident life ringing member.
Canon Cox thanked the Vicar of Beaminster for the use of his church and bells. and for his address, and Mr. Brooks for playing the organ. He asked for a vote of thanks to the Beaminster ringers for the ample tea. and to the Mothers' Union who prepared and served it.
Members then returned to the tower for further tower- and handbell ringing. E. G. P.

THE THREE RINGERS: A CAUTIONARY TALE

IT was a fine, frosty New Year's Eve, and Santa Claus, who had been a little delayed on his rounds by the number of ringers asking for handbells to be put in their stockings, was making his weary way home to the North Pole.

An inn-sign at the side of the road caught his attention, and he hesitated. Then he halted the reindeer, and after a quick look round, to make sure that he was not shattering the life-long illusions of some tiny tot, pulled up his collar, and scuttled into the 'Eight Bells.'

It was a small, shabby place, and only three men were drinking under the faded wreaths of holly. Santa Claus ordered himself a large whisky; he took stock of his companions, and decided, from their conversation and from their poor but honest garments, studded with guild badges, that they were ringers.

One of them was a Teacher, one a Student, and one a Worker-all virtuous men, though of humble origin; and, as he listened to them, Santa Claus, impressed with the recital of their good deeds during the past year, decided that the next year should bring each of them a gift of inestimable value-fifty peals!
' I,' said the Worker modestly to his friends, ' have done very little of note this year, except perhaps to call less peals of Stedman than any man in the country.' Santa Claus nodded approvingly to himself.
' I cannot claim any great deed, either,' admitted the Student, ' but I have made it my solemn rule to attempt a handbell peal every Friday night.' 'Did you get them all?,' asked the others enviously. 'We didn't get any of them,' said the Student, 'but it's the principle that counts.' Santa Claus lifted his glass in a silent toast to the determined young man. The Teacher spoke last, a fine figure of a man, though not in his first youth, and told them, not without emotion, that only the month before, he had called 'stand 'in a peal of Triples because the tenor was down to fourth's place.

Santa Claus choked over his whisky, and a tear trickled down his cheek, as he murmured: 'Noble fellow! He shall have not fifty peals next year, but a hundred!' He muttered a few magic words, and passed into the night like a shadow, without paying for his whisky.
A year later, on the anniversary of the date, he was passing the 'Eight Bells' again, and dropped in, for sentiment's sake. There were the same three ringers, covered with the glory of many peals-but how altered from their former happy selves! The Worker was saying peevishly that it was a well-known fact that only spite prevented him from being universally acclaimed as the best doubles ringer in the world. The Student was affirming that half the handbell peals called that year had been false - the other half had been called by him. The Teacher was saying very little; but all his sentences began: ' Well, of course, when you chaps have rung a hundred in a year like me

Horrified at the results which his gifts had produced, Santa determined to punish the ringers with the most awful fate he knew. A wave of his hand, and it was done; and as he stood back to behold his work, he felt a hand on his shoulder, and heard the landlord's voice saying: ' You're the chap as skipped out o' here without paying last year. Now I want a word wi' you

But you want to hear what happened to the ringers. The Worker was spirited away by the fairies into the Services; he was drafted abroad, and now spends his days impotently listening to carillons. The Student took a psychology degree, and was sent to experiment with the morale of lighthouse keepers. They say that he is attempting to call Holt's Original on the lighthouse bells of Britain, but is troubled by interference from those possessing hooters. The Teacher was dragged off by goblins and shut up under the box of Sherborne tenor; and to this day tenor ringers there who are slow with their backstroke leads sometimes imagine that they hear a faint voice crying in agony: 'Let me out, and I'll show you how to do it!'
Footnote.-The writer's friends assure her that there is a moral to this story, but she has so far been unable to discover it for herself.

NORWICH DIOCESAN

Members and friends gathered at Mulbarton on December 8th to pay tribute to the memory of the late Rev. Alexander St. John Heard, president of the Association from 1942 to 1955 . Mrs. Heard, who was unable to attend through ill health, was represented by Mrs. Derry Cooke. of Bergh Apton Manor.
The occasion was the dedication of a bronze memorial tablet by the president, the Rev. H. G. Lillingston. The service was conducted by the Rector, Dr. J. Mosley, who also gave the address. The lesson was read by Mr. Arthur G. Bason, chairman of the Northern Branch.
The tablet has been placed in the ringing chamber, and the inscription reads:-

In grateful memory of Alexander St. John Heard, M.A., president of the Norwich Diocesan Association of Ringers, 1942-1955;
Rector of thís parish, 1943-1955.
The cost has been defrayed by individual donations from members and also a donation from Mrs. Heard.

BALDOCK DINNER

Canon Brenchley was welcomed and re-introduced to the Baldock Guild at the Rose and Crown on December 15 th, when the annual dinner was held.
After an excellent meal and the loyal toast, Mr . T. Southam proposed the health of the Baldock Guild, saying that the Guild was fighting the defeatist attitude found in many towers.
The captain, Mr. E. Buck, replied. He said that the Guild had taught 25 learners, but only 12 remained as ringers. Progress could only be maintained if new people were taught. Six quarters had been rung this year, and two peals, including the one that afternoon.
Mr. B. Scoot proposed the toast to 'The Ladies," and Miss J. Sanderson replied. Afterwards Mr. Harris showed his lantern slides of old Baldock. They were most interesting, and were followed by more handbell ringing and some conjuring by Mr. P. Mehew. J. S.

Memorial Belfry Clock

A fairly large congregation representative of many church organisations was present at Evensong at Weston Favell, Northants, on Sunday, December 16th. to witness the dedication of a new belfry wall clock (by Smith and Son, of Derby). The clock is to the memory of Joseph W. L. Linnett, a keen ringer, who died in 1949 at the age of 26 years from a rare, incurable disease. He was a College Youth and a member of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, and had several peals-mainly Doubles and Minor -to his credit. He was also a chorister and loved his church and all it stood for. The dedication was performed by the Rector (the Rev. Douglass Hopkins), and all the local ringers with their leader, Mr. P. Amos, were present.

Ilchester Deanery Branch Dinner

The second annual dinner of the Ilchester Branch was held at Somerton, Somerset, on December 15th.
The evening began with short touches on the church bells prior to $7.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. Evensong, after which 36 guests sat down to dinner at the White Hart Hotel.
In the absence of the Branch chairman, the Rev. L. E. Walsh, grace was said by the Vicar of Somerton. the Rev. T. H. O. Hayter, who also proposed a vote of thanks to the organisers of the gathering, Mr. W. E. Turner, the Branch Ringing Master, and Mr. W. G. Turk, of Martock.
After dinner the programme was varied. Mr. Ricketts of Yeovil, entertained the compagy with songs; Mr. B. Watts, of Hardington, played the piano and organised some amusing games, including a paper hat making competition; handbells were brought out for a few changes, and particular delight was given by Mr. P. Sparks and his team from Templecombe. who rang a selection of songs and carols on 16 handbells. Mr. Turner warmly thanked all who had contributed to the evening's entertainment, and the party concluded with the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne' and the National Anthem. Tower represented were: Martock, Yeovil, Templecombe, Hardington Mandeville, Shepton Beauchamp, Ash and Somerton.

The Bedfordshire Young Ringers published last week their Christmas greetings. Their Yorkshire tour was in July and not August. Will their new friends please accept this correction to their greeting.

Our congratulations to the ringers of Burwell, Cambs. Five of the band rang their first peal on December 15th. Among them was Mr. A. G. Orbell, who is now 66 and rang his first quarter last November, although he learnt to handie a bell in 1908.
The ringer of the second in the peal of Stedman Cinques at Lincoln on December 1st (p 786) was John Waters, and not as submitted for publication.
The quarter peal from Woburn, recorded this week, is the first long touch by a local band for 45 years, and was rung by a band recently starting from scratch. A peal of Bob Major in December, 1911, conducted by Mr. H. D. Harris, was the previous local performance.
Hudson's 'New Light ' Variation of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major, of which a handbell peal was rung at Norbury (Hazel Grove), Cheshire, was first rung at Sheffield in 1843 The peal consists of leads of the two methods with various peculiarities for bobs.

Recordings of the bells of Bucklebury and East Hagbourne, Berks, were relayed by a Swindon radio firm as part of their Christmas appeal. Swinging bells on headstocks (two bells to one headstock) are part of the firm's window display. The records include rounds Qucens, Tittums, Grandsire, Stedman and Kent T.B. Major.

Geoffrey Miles, who took part in his first quarter at Streatham, is a son of the late E. L. Miles and a nephew of the late H. G. Miles (for many ycars a ringer at Kensington and St. Paul's Cathedral. who was also the composer of the 21,000 -odd Stedman Caters, rung at Appleton). The veteran F. Sinkins, who also took part, wishes it to be a birthday compliment to Walter Wolstencroft. 82 on December 17th, both old ringing friends at Slough for many years.

GOSSIP

The peal of Stedman Cinques at Newport was rung as a compliment to Mr . C . Greedy, who can be justly proud of his record of being a ringer for 40 years, the last 27 years of which he has held the position of tower captain at St. Woolos': The excellent 'go' of the bells and the cleanliness of the ringing chamber are themselves a fine tribute to his keen work.

Carlton Colville bells have recently been retuned and rehung in a new steel frame with provision made for an additional treble by John Taylor and Co. Summer visitors to Pakefield will be pleased to note that 'Uncle George,' as he is affectionately known by many, rang his first peal on these bells.

Four members of the local band took part in a quarter peal of Bob Minor on December 13th at Husborne Crawley, Beds. This is the first time for many years that as many as four local ringers have realised such an achievement and it is hoped that a quarter peal may soon be accomplished entirely by the local band. Most of the members have been ringing only for a short time, and their effort speaks well for the instruction of Mr. R. Churchill and the enthusiastic support of Brigadier Springhall.

The quarter peal at Hornchurch for the Patronal Festival was also a farewell to Mr. T. D. Belben. A native of Lytchett Matravers, Tim Belben has been employed as an accountant at Ford's Motor Works. Practically all his method-ringing has been done with the local band and at Havering-atte-Bower. His keenness, enthusiasm and good humour have mađe him a welcome visitor to all practices at these towers. He leaves the district to enter the Friary of the Society of St. Francis at Cerne Abbas. Dorset, with the best wishes of both bands. May his work be blessed.

ESTABLISHED

OLYMPIC YEAR OF MELBOURNE CATHEDRAL SOCIETY

Annual General Meeting
THE annual meeting was held on August 15th in the Cathedral belfry. The chairman was the Dean of Melbourne (the Very Rev. S. Barton Babbage), assisted by Rev. H. H. Girvan (the Precentor). Seventeen members were present.
The chairman opened the meeting with prayers, and after being welcomed by the captain (Mr. John Roper) thanked the Society for its excellent service to the Cathedral over the past 12 months. Apologies for absence were received and the minutes of the previous A.G.M. read and adopted. The balance sheet, which was heatithy, was then read by the Precentor in the absence of the treasurer, and was adopted.
The captain in his report thanked the officers for their good work over the year. He welcomed four English ringers to the lowerMessrs. Arthur H. Fisher (Hampshire), Cecil H. Pearson (Oxon), Ernest H. Hughes (Cheshire) and George W. Pipe (Suffolk), stating that the influx of experienced ringers would help the team to higher achievements. Mr. Roper also paid tribute to the work of Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. J. Gray, now back in England, and gave a farewell to Miss Elizabeth Smith, who was to leave in November, thanking her for the help and service she had given. The captain stressed that visitors, both interstate and overseas, were always very welcome, and he was glad to say that many had honoured St. Paul's by their presence during the year.
Four new members were welcomed as learners -the Misses K. Phillipson and B. Sayce. and Messrs. Cox and Simpson. The captain closed his report by stating that the following year's ringing looked very promising with many able ringers in the band. He hoped that many quarter peals and peals would result due to this factor.

In the steeple-keeper's absence the tower captain read his report, stating that the bells were in very good order.

The election of officers. These were as follows: Tower captain. John J. F. Roper: vicecaptain, Brenda L. Sheppard : secretary, Kenneth J. Minchinton: assistant secretary, Tom Barnett: Ireasurer. Francis Sheppard: auditor. Rev. H. H. Girvan: librarian, John Willis: steeple-kecper. Alan Bennett: assistant steeplekeepers, Dennis Cornish and Tom Bennett.

The captain then asked the Dean to dedicate three peal boards recording peals of Grandsire Triples, 15/6/52. Stedman Triples 28/11/54, and Bob Major, $17 / 4 / 55$. The Dean, dedicating, mentioned the importance of a record of this nature as a reminder of past achievements and to the memory of service by others. There was still ample room on the belfry walls for more boards, and he expressed a wish that the Society would uphold this tradition. He then thanked the members for their service rendered to God. the Cathedral and to the city of Melbourne.

The secretary. Mr. K. Minchinton, then opened the discussion on ringing for the Olympic Games, reporting that a letter was sent to -The Ringing World inviting overscas ringers who might be coming to the Games to join St. Paul's. An effort was made by Mr. J. L. Gar-ner-Hayward to organise a party: this had to be abandoned due to lack of members willing to make the journey to Australia. A letter was sent to Mr. Garner-Hayward, thanking him for his enthusiasm and work. by the secretary, who expressed a wish that a party might be seen there in the near future, and assuring them of a good welcome. It was unanimously decided that the captain make Olympic ringing arrangements with extra practice nights it necessary. There were two important occasions for ringing during the festival: one being at the service to be attended by H.R.H. the Duke of Edinhurgh. the other for the special Olympic service at the Main Stadium.

Arising out of 'Any other business,' a discussion opened concerning a badge. Mr. Cyril Williams asked whether the Society could purchase a badge, adding that he felt sure every member would be proud to wear one and would advertise his or her calling. This would help the Society in many ways, with a possibility of drawing recruits.
Before speaking on the subject. Mr. George Pipe took the opportunity of thanking all members of the band for the very warm welcome he had received on his arrival from England in July'. He went on to say that due to the very small number of badges required, members would

The Devil's Knell

Mr. C. Woodcock, of Ipswich, sends us a newspaper cutting which indicates that the Devil's Knell was rung at Dewsbury Parish Church as recently as 1953. The tenor is tolled once for every year since the birth of Christ. In 1953 the since the birth of Christ, In 1953 the ringing at Dewsbury was shared by several ringers. According to legend the custom was started in the 13 th century.
possibly find the cost prohibitive. Mr. T. Bennett offered to make enquiries about this, a proposal which was unanimously agreed upon. The Rev. H. H. Girvan was asked to draft a design, along with one for a cerlificate of membership proposed by Mr. J. Roper.
It was suggested by the secretary that the Society should explore the possibilities of having the bells and the actual ringing of them televised. People took bells so much for granted that a pictorial programme about them would be both educational and a means of finding recruits. The mecting moved that the secretary be appointed to make enquiries into this matter.

There being no further business, the meeting was closed with prayer. Supper was then served.

Ringing in 1956

When a prominent member of a band leaves a tower his place is generally very hard to fill, but whin four or five leave within the space of about three months one can imagine the rif. they make. Such was St. Paul's misfortune ai the beginning of this year, and it wasn't lone, before even Grandsire Triples was a struggle.
This is typical of towers outside the British lsles: migrants come and go, and just when perseverance is being crowned with success the band is broken. Somehow it is always replenished though. No less than six members have joined the Society in 1956, three being. Englishmen. Apart from the Australian ringers the following counties are represented: Cheshire, Derbyshire. Oxon. Gloucestershire. London. Hampshire. Wiltshire and Sufolk. It has been good to sec so many visitors, too, hoth from Australian and British towers. About four more members are expected in the New Year. Now, once more, under the captaincy of John Roper, an enthusiastic band is being built up on the foundations laid by Philip and Joan Gray, and others. Plain Bob Minor. Triples and Major. Stedman and occasionally Little Bob. relieve the monotony of Grandsire. If all goes well, Caters and Bob Royal will be our aim in 1957.
At the end of September several of the Society attended a joint meeting at Ballaarat. the garden city of Victoria. We were the guests. together with the Bendigo ringers. of the Ballaarat company, and spent a most enjoyable day. The fine octave ( 22 cwt in E flat) of the City Hall and the six $(12 \mathrm{cwt}$.) of St. Peter's were put to very good use. These two rings. logether with the cight at Bendizo and the 13

English ringers will appreciate that the chances of extending one's scope and tower-grabbing are very limited, but that need not deter the Roving Ringers or other aspirants from visiting our shores. There are some very good rings in Sydney and in Adelaide, whilst we in Mclbourne hope to have the octave at St. Patrick's R.C. Cathedral in ringing order soon.
On December 15 th a similar excursion will see us in Bendigo, 100 miles from Melbourne. Scoring all the ringable towers in Victoria is hardly worth mentioning, so 'prime number' or not, we shall decline! (R. F. B. S. ref. A. P. C.!)

Ringing for the Olympic Games

The greatest disappointment to Australian ringers in the Games was that. due to lack of support, a band from England was unable to visit us. Nothing before or since the great adventure of 1934 has materialised, but we hope that 1957 or 1958 will see the fruition of a 'second attempt' to visit us 'down-under.
For the past eight weeks or so everything in Melbourne has been 'Olympic.' Avenues and festivals, cornflakes and sealing-wax all bear the insignia. The five-circle emblem has been found in the most original places. Even alcoholics have achieved their 5,000 litres in record time. To crown it all, the Press, with its usual impeccable accuracy, has proclaimed that marathon chimes have been played on the great bells of St. Paul's!
The St. Paul's Cathedral Society rang two peals in two attempts. celebrating the XVIth Olympiad. One of Plain Bob Major commemorated the opening of the Games, and one of Triples on December 2nd honoured the visit of H.R.I. the Duke of Edinburgh. Nine members took part in these peals, which enabled four to score their first peal outside England.
This was certainly the most memorable occasion in Melbourne's history: we can only hope that good citizenship and comradeship. modelled and fostered by the Olympic Games, will spread abroad to all nations and bring forth more in hundredfold.

RAILWAYMEN'S GUILD

A further meeting of railwaymen church hell ringers was held on December 15th, at 17, Euston Square. London, for the purpose of hammering out the final constitution and rules governing the Guild.
The meeting, though not quite as large as the inaugural meeting at Crewe in Junc, was thoroughly representative and lively, but very friendly discussion took place on the two outstanding items-officers and membership.
It was eventually decided to print and circulate copies of the amended constitution and rules, two clear months before the annual general meeting, which will be held at Crewe between Easter and Whitsuntide. Due notice of the mecting will appear in 'The Ringing World: Any further amendments to rules and constitution should be sent to the hon. general secretary a clear month before the A.G.M.
Despite some of the arrangements going awry, ringing after tea was enjoyed at St. Giles-in-theFiclds. thanks to the Vicar, the local ringers and Mr Sid Foskett (joint prime mover, who arranged the meeting).

The peal of Stedman Cinques at Newport was rung as a compliment to Mr. C. Greedy, who can be justly proud of his record of heing a ringer for 40 years, the last 27 years of which he has held the position of tower captain at St. Woolos'. The excellent 'go' of the bells and the cleanliness of the ringing chamber are themselves a fine tribute to his keen work.

THE FAMILY SPIRIT AT ALDERSHOT

Influence of Mr. W. Denyer

Bell ringing has almost become a family concern at St. Michael's Church, Aldershot, states a recent special article in 'The Aldershot News.' Forty-five years ago Mr. W. Denyer, 120, Ash Road, Aldershot, now the captain of the tower, became a church bell-ringer, and since then his sons and daughters, and now his grandsons and grand-daughters, have followed in his footsteps. Five of his sons and daughters are, or have been, ringers, and now he has five grand-children perfecting the art of campanology.

Mr. Denyer, at 74, is the oldest member of the bellringers, and the youngest member is 10 -years-old Mary Bragg-yes, you have gucssed it, a grand-daughter. Mary has only recently joined and she looks very, very small at the end of one of the long eight ropes in the tower.

Mr. Denyer is very proud of his eldest son, Mr. C. W. Denyer, who is not only captain of the Farnham Parish Church tower, where they have a $20 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. bell, as compared to St. Michacl's biggest weighing 8 f cwt., but is also a vice-president of the Guildford Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers.
Another member of the family, grand-daughter Josie Whitford (15), 96, Ash Road, Aldershot, one of the more recent members, has just rung her first quarter peal. Bellringing has not only been spread among the Denyer family either; they believe in spreading the gospel to their friends as well, for also having recently rung their first quarter peal are three other girlstwo of them recruited by Josie.

They are Stella Tate-Mitchell (17), 121, Roberis Road, Aldershot, and Diana Lathan (17), 113, Roberts Road, Aldershot. The third girl' is Valeric Clist (14), 35, Brighton Road, Aldershof. She was recruited by her brother, who is a member. It appears that bellringers are not happy until they have all their friends and relations gathered around them in the tower. Mr. Denyer adds, too: 'It is a regular little marriage bureau here, you know; two of my daughters met their husbands here.'

It has taken the four girls over a year to learn to ring a quarter peal. Their next step is to ring a full peal. A peal lasts three hours and must contain 5,000 or more changes, while a quarter real only occupies about three-quarter hours and contains 1,250 changes. Either way it sounds a great deal of standing still, but another member, Mr. W. H. Viggers, says: - When you are concentrating on the ringing you don't notice how long you are standingand you have to concentrate. It is fatal to let your thoughts wander.'

Normally ringers don't ring peals and quarter peals, however. There are about 24 ringers at St. Michael's and there are only eight ropes, so ringers take it in turns to ring shorter lengths called touches. There is no lying-in on Sunday mornings for bellringers, as they have 10 start ringing the bells at 9.30 for the 10 o'clock service. For evensong they start ringing 40 minutes before the service. Easter is a busy time, too, especially when there are a number of weddings.

Ringing their first quarter peal on the bells of St. Michael's, Aldershot Valerie Clist (14), Josie Whitford (15), Stella Tate-Mitchell (17), Diana Lathan (17).

In spite of having to get up early both summer and winter to ring for the $100^{\circ}$ clock service, St. Michael's ringers can claim that since the lifting of the ban on ringing at the end of the war, the bells have rung out every Sunday morning and evening.

JOINT MEETING AT BISHOP'S STORTFORD

Despite the petrol situation and the uncertain weather, the N.W. District of the Essex Association and the Eastern District of the Hertford County Association had a very successful joint meeting at Bishop's Stortford on December 8th. The Master of the Essex Association, Mr. R. C. Heazel, and Mr. T. Southam, secretary of the Herts Eastern District, welcomed about 50 ringers from many parts of Essex, Herts and Middlesex.

The Rev. Mr. Minall conducted the service and gave a short address. Miss D. Mansfield, a Nazeing ringer, was at the organ. The service was followed by tea in the Church Hall, prepared and served by lady members of the Bishop's Stortford Guild. Mr. Heazel thanked all those who had helped to make the meeting a success.

After tea. ringing continued with touches of Grandsire Caters. Stedman Triples, Plain Bob Royal, Bob Major and Superlative Surprise Major.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'AN OBSERVATION'
Dear Sir,-After a recent peal of London Major to mark the anniversary of the first peal in this method, I think the time may now be ripe to put forward one or two ideas which I have been considering for quite a while.
Firstly, it is possible to obtain a method which is. almost a true reverse of London Surprise Major, and this method I have called Green-wich:-

Next, comparing the two methods together with London Minor leads to the conclusion that the true extension of the latter to eight bells is not London Major (as rung) nor Greenwich, but Greenwich 'up' and London 'in.'
Thirdly, the true extension of Greenwich to twelve bells is an acceptable method:-
$3 \mathrm{~T}, \mathrm{X}, 3 \mathrm{~T} ; 14,5 \mathrm{~T}, \mathrm{X}, 5 \mathrm{~T} ; 16.7 \mathrm{~T}, 12, \mathrm{TT}$; 58 ( 16 and 9 T ), $\mathbf{X}(16$ and 9 T$) ; 70,18, \mathbf{X}, 18$; $9 \mathrm{~T}, 10, \mathrm{X}, 10$; with 3 T at the half-lead. Lead head:

14628305 T7E9

142638507 T 9 E
Finally, let us review the problems which arise from the foregoing considerations:-
(a) There is, I believe, only one peal of Greenwich Major obtainable-a 5,184 by Mr. S . Burton (bearing in mind, of course, the desirability of keeping the tenors together). Greenwich Maximus has a clean proof scale, however.
(b) The true extension of Greenwich to ten bells is not an acceptable method, although it can be made so by 'fiddling' some of the work below the treble. (For clarity, this could perhaps be referred to as Woolwch. by virtue of its similaritics and dissimilarities to Greenwich.)
To sum up then, it is apparent that the result of any attempt to extend London Surprise will depend very much on the starting-point (i.e., - parent ' method). If London Minor is taken as the basis, then Greenwich 'up' and London (as rung) ' in ' is the method obtained on eight bells. This. however. is not an acceptable method. nor are the further extensions to ten and twelve bells.

If London Major be the point of commencement. the corresponding Royal method can be 'fiddled' below the treble to give various 'Versions,' e.g., No. 3. The extension to Maximus along this line of reasoning must also be adjusted in a similar manner.

Taking Greenwich Major as fundamental, the method obtained on ten bells requires 'fiddling (again below the treble) to be acceptable. The resulting Maximus method. however, is acceptable as it stands. To understand clearly the following conclusion, it is very helpful to write out Greenwich Maximus from the place-notation already given. Then it will be seen that the route followed in extending Greenwich is the same as that for Cambridge, etc. In fact. with one exeption. this same route is taken in the case of all popular methods. The exception is referred to in the last paragraph, i.e., it must be concluded that the route generally chosen for extending London Major, albeit musical, is anomalous even before any ' fiddling ' takes place. This fundamental anomaly occurs in the work above the treble, the most apparent result being that the slow work behind is not in the correct position relative to the treble's lying full (c.f. paragraph three, immediately after the figures for Greenwich Major).
In concluding, I should like to mention my indebtedness to Mr. C. J. Sedgley for investigating the occurrence of falseness in Greenwich Major, and in two slight variations thereof.Yours faithfully,
D. MOTTERSHEAD.

Wilmslow, Cheshire.

Let 1957 Be Your Red Letter Year

No young ringer can feel he is part of the great ringing fraternity until he is a regular reader of 'The Ringing World.' We are now enrolling subscribers for 1957. We ask District representatives to make a special effort so that 1957 will be a red letter year. The drop in circulation reported at the Central Council annual meeting has been made good, but we want to do much better.
Remittances should be sent to Mr. J. E. Jeater, Greystones. Cusgarne, Truro. Rates: 12 months, 118 s .; 6 months, 14 s . $6 \mathrm{~d} . ; 3$ months, 7 s . 6 d .

THE TOWER-GRABBER

Dear Sir,-The 'tower-grabber,' of the type mentioned by Mr. T. W. Clark in his letterand a member of the Crayford band is one of the keenest of them-always seems to me to be like a cricketer who does not take part in matches because that would be "associating himself with ten or a dozen like-minded' people at fixtures 'mainly in their own neighbourhood ' and half of them on the same ground. Instead, he indalges in net-practice at Toads-in-the-Hole all over the country because he has never had a ball bowled at him there before!-Yours sincerely,
E. A. BARNETT.

Crayford, Kent.

NO CRITICISM OF CORNISH RINGERS

Dear Sir,-How Mr. Box can read criticism of Mr. Carveth into my letter (p.763)' I don't know, but just to make my position absolutely clear, may I make these final remarks?
I did not, either at the Guildford dinner or in my letter, express, intend or imply any criticism of Mr. Carverh in particular or Cornish ringers in general. On the contrary, I have the greatest respect for them, particularly men like Charles Sangwin and Rev. A. S. Roberts.

I would still like to say to Mr. Carveth, as 1 did in a sentence deleted from my last letter. that he should not take umbrage at reports of speeches as they appear in the 'R.W.', as they are so condensed (through no fault of the editor) that they often take on a quite different meaning in print to the words as spoken.

As regards Mr. Box's own unkind remarks about Cornish scenery, climate, etc.. I entirely disagree with him. I know of no finer setting for any church than that of St. Morwenna, Morwenstowe. The bus service may not be quite up to Birmingham standards. but I know which I prefer. (No criticism of St. Martin's intended or implied. Mr. Box.)-Yours sincerely

ROY COLLINS.

Exeter Branch Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Exeter Branch was held at St. Thomas', Exeter, on December 8th. The atte'idance was rather disappointing, about 30 members and visitors being present, the price and scarcity of petrol and the cup-tie football match being possible causes
The Vicar (the Rev. J. P. Henton) gave the Branch a warm welcome and procceded with the Guild 'form of service.' In the sermon he gave an inspiring Advent message and referred to the part the ringers could play in the seasons of the Church.

At the business meeting, which followed a sumptuous sit-down tea. the chair was taken by the Rev. C. J. Poulton. supported by the president (Preb. E. V. Cox).

The business opened with those present standing in silence in respect of those members who had passed on during the year, viz.: Bishop W. F. Surtees, Chancellor D. McLaren, the late general secretary (Mr. E. J. Taylor) and Mr. Harry Spicer. Apologies were received from Mr. H. W. Butt and the Thorverton band.
Arising from the minutes, Mr. E. J. Ryall asked about the progress of a previous resolution about invitations to the University and St. Luke's. The meeting asked Mr. Ryall to contact the authorities concerned with a view to getting a University Guild of Ringers started.
The annual report was presented and adopted. The main points were the serious position of the steady decline in membership over the past five years; the failure of getting a band going at St. David's, Exeter ; the success of meetings held during 1956, and the proposal that a regular practice for learners be started soon. Messrs E. J. Ryall, E. W. Biffin and W. H. Howe spoke at some length about the decline in membership,
The financial report, with balances of $£ 183 \mathrm{~s}$. 9 d . in the general account and over $£ 40$ in the instruction fund, was adopted.
All the officers were re-elected for 1957: Chairman. Rev. C. J. Poulton; hon. secretary and treasjrer, Mr. F. Wreford ; assistant secretary, Mr. F. Wills; Ringing Master, Mr. E. W. Biffin ; deputy Ringing Master, Mr. N. Mallett ; representatives to the General Committee, Mr H. W. Butt, Mr. E. W. Biffin and Mr. H. J. Corry.
Meetings arranged for 1957 were: February 9th. St. Mark's ; July 13th. Ide: September 14th, Brampford: December 14th. St. David's; subject to permission being obtained.
Guild proficiency certificates were presented by the president to Miss S. Fry, Miss P. Randalt and Mr. H. Baker, all of St. Mark's, ExeterNew members elected were Miss P. Randall, Mr. J. Pearce. Mr. F. Radbourn, Mr. C. T. Williams and Miss M. Clowes.
The meeting closed with the usual thanks extended to those contributing to the success of the meeting.

A SOLIHULL GOLDEN WEDDING

On December 16th. Mr. and Mrs. William Leeson, of Solihull, celebrated their golden wedding. Since he was a small boy Mr. Leeson has been closely associated with St. Alphege's Church. Solihull, first as choirboy and then as bellringer. In the latter office he has served for well over 50 years, and has been noted for his sincere devotion to the Sunday service ringing. In this latter duty his regularity and punctuality may well be models for all ringers.
The band at St. Alphege's tower conveyed to Mr . and Mrs. Leeson their congratulations and good wishes, and on the Sunday evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in celebration by: T. Hayward 1, C. Dale 2, V. W. Rigg 3, R. Cann 4. T. Warner 5. C. Bragg 6. The quarter peal was followed by 50 wellstruck rounds.

OBITUARY

MR. ISAAC EMERY

Mr. Isaac Emery, whose sudden death at Ottery St. Mary on December 17th was briefly recorded in our last issue, will for many years be remembered with the Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Bromley. He was 84 years of age.
As a boy at St. Mary Cray, he rang his first 120 there in 1887, but in 1911 he moved to Bromley, and thus had a record of 45 continuous years of faithful and enthusiastic service to that church. He was promptly elected secretary of the band, and became its leader in 1927, a position he held until the autumn of last year.
Even during the hazards of recent winters and in spite of living some distance from the church. Mr. Emery set his band an example in attendance and punctuality. However, he had found this a strain, and last year at the annual general meeting of SS. Peter and Paul's ringers expressed a wish to retire from the leadership, which then passed to Mr. Percy Spice, who has been a member of the band since 1915 and secretary since 1921 . The secretary and deputy leader is now Mr. David Martin.
The church with its bells was destroyed in the blitz during the carly days of the last war, and on those bells Mr. Emery rang 64 peals, many of them as conductor. He had, of course, been a member of the Kent County Association for many years, and Lewisham District meetings will be the poorer for his absence. A staunch College Youth, he was the oldest member to be present at the last annual dinner in London in November.
In 1951. when the new ring was installed in the restored tower of Bromley, he took his part in training a band with the vigour and patience of a man many years younger.
A. S. R.

MR. EDGAR HUMFREY

Ringers in Reading were sorry to hear of the death of Edgar Humfrey in his 87th year.
He first commenced ringing at Abingdon in 1887, where he was foreman for two periods of four years. His first peal was in 1887, conducted by Rev. F. E. Robinson. In all he rang 43 peals with F. E. R.

Mr. Humfrey first conducted a peal in 1888, calling Holt's Ten-part, and in 1925 he called Holt's Original at Caversham. He rang his first peal of Surprise at the age of 78 , and rang in a peal of Stedman Cinques at Reading on his 80th birthday.
In one of his diaries Mr. Humfrey records that in 1886 he rode a pennyfarthing from Abingdon to Crystal Palace, to Brighton and back to Abingdon, in four days-a distance of 230 miles. In more recent years he used to cycle from Reading to Abingdon at the time of the Oxford Festivals.
Mr. Humfrey served in the Yeomanry in the Boer. War and was a volunteer in the 1914-18 war. He was on the staff of the National Pig war. He was on the staff of the National Pig Breeders' Association, from which he retired 20 years ago. Whilst a ringer at St. Laurence's, years ago. Whilst a ringer at Reading. he was for many years churchwarden, at Woodley Church and also its treasurer for 19 years.
He was very active for his age, and only two days before his death he had lopped all the trees in Woodley churchyard.

MR. GEORGE E. PANNELL

With regret we record the death on November 30 th of Mr. George E. Pannell, of Twinstead, Essex, aged 75 years. A native of Gestingthorpe, he learned to ring there after the rehanging of the bells in 1910, and was a member of the then well-known Gestingthorpe band.
He was also a cricketer, being a member of the local club at a time when it included Captain Oates, of Antarctic fame. George was good with the ball, once capturing all ten wickets in an innings. During the first world war he was wounded, which resulted in a permanent disablement.
About 1925 he moved to Wickham St. Paul, and it was here he was largely responsible for the rehanging of the five bells and the teaching of a change-ringing band. Being a wheelwright and carpenter he was a handyman about the belfry.
Never a great peal ringer, he was a regular Sunday service ringer, good striking being his aim. Despite his disability, he frequently walked to Gestingthorpe for a practice to help a struggling band.
On retirement ten years ago, he moved to Twinstead, but poor health prevented him doing but little ringing. Nevertheless, be retained an interest in ringing and was a regular reader of 'The Ringing World ' until his death. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.
He was buried at Gestingthorpe on December 5 th. On December 7th his fellow ringers at Wickham St. Paul, as a last token of respect, rang with clappers half-muffled a well-struck quarter peal of 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: C. Corder 1, C. Weavers 2, T. Bird (conductor) 3, A. Bird 4. R. Rippingale 5 . T. B.

MR. E. E. PRATCHETT

It is with sincere regret that we announce the death, on December 14 th, of Mr. E. E. Pratchett, of 10, Florence Street. Hendon. N.W.4, in his 82 nd year. Known to his old ringing friends as 'Old Mac,' and to all members of St. Mary's, Hendon, Guild affectionately as 'Pop,' he will be greatly missed, having been a ringer at St. Mary's for over 66 years. While owing to ill health he had not been able to attend for some while, his interest never lagged. and he always looked forward to friends calling on him so that he could keep in touch with everything going on in the belfry. He was a wonderful inspiration to all.
The funcral service took place in his old church of St. Mary on December 20th. May he rest in peace.

MR. WILLIAM E. LEIGH

The death occurred on September 28th of Mr. William Edward Leigh, aged 80 . the oldest member of the Edenbridge band of ringers. He was a ringer for 60 years, but retired a few years ago through illness. However, living close by the church he was able to enjoy hearing the bells.
The funeral was held on October 2 nd . and in the evening the local band rang a half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Triples in his memory.

MR. HEDLEY GREGORY

With regret we record the death on November 2nd of Mr. Hedley Gregory, only son of Mr. H. Gregory, of 39, Royal Park, Bristol, tower Master of Emmanuel, Bristol. From an early age Hedley had suffered from infantile paralysis, which he endured with great courage, and in spite of his affliction he was able to take his place regularly with the ringers. His last visit to the tower to do duty was Sunday, September 16 th . He leaves a widow and two children. The funeral service at Christ Church. Clifton, on November 7 h . was largely attended.

MR. JOHN HOLME

Mr. John Holme, of Silverdale, Lancashire, whose recent death at the age of 92 was reported in 'The Ringing World,' was one of the bestknown ringers in the north-west. Until two years ago he was to be seen regularly in the belfry, and his ringing carcer extended over 75 years.

Mr. Holme was born at Ambleside in 1864, and first learnt to handle a bell at Ambleside when he was 15 years old.
Change-ringing bands were not so easy to come by in those days in this district, and it was not until 1904 that he rang his first peal, one of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor. This was rung at Brathay, where John was then ringing regularly, and in that year five peals were scored by this same band of ringers on the bells of Brathay and Langđale, the methods including Plain Bob, Duke of York, Violet, College Single, Woodbine. Cambridge and New London Pleasure.
In 1908 he was appointed sexton at Bratbay Church and in that year and the following year he took part in two peals, both of 10,080 changes each. These peals were regarded as a feat of some magnitude by people in the northwest, and were mentioned extensively in the local newspapers. So far as the writer knows, they still remain record lengths for this part of the country.
The years 1905 to 1909 were the most active of John's ringing life. In these five years he took part in no less than 597720 's of Minor, mostly for Sunday service. He kept records of all these "peals' with considerable care.

In 1921 he moved to Silverdale for health reasons and there joined the local ringers. His presence probably encouraged the many peals rung there from 1925 to 1929 and laid the foundations for the change-ringing bands that followed in the $1930^{\circ}$ s, who subsequently formed the Lancaster Branch of the Lancashire Association.

His peal total is not high. 29 in number, but considering where and when they were rung, bis last in 1929, they must have been achieved only after much perseverance.

MR. FRED ROBSON

All ringers in the north-cast and many throughout the country will note the passing of Mr . Fred Robson, for 50 years a ringer at St Oswald's. West Hartlepool, except for his 1914 1918 war service.

He was of a kindly disposition, a patient teacher with beginners; always a smile and a cheery word. His last ring was at an Association meeting at his own church some five weeks ago and, although a sick man, he climbed the tower steps and had a short touch. He will be very much missed.
E. C.

MR. ARTHUR J. FARR

It is with deep regret that we record the passing of Mr. Arthur Joseph Farr, of 16 Halmer Gate, Spalding, who died at Woodlands Court, Kirton, on December 8th. He was 71.

A member of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild for 56 years. he moved to Spalding as cemetery superintendent after the $1914-18$ war, and was for many years captain of the belfry, retiring from this position in 1950. He was also a Guild committee representative and Branch auditor for many years.

Although his health has not permitted him to do any ringing for the past three or four years, he was always pleased to see ringers and hear of local activities. He had rung and conducted quite a number of peals. but unfortunately did not keed a full record of all his performances.
The funeral service took place at Spalding on December 12 th. followed by cremation at Nottingham. Many ringers and friends attended and half-muffled ringing took place both before and after the service.

COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY

Administration.-The College is now represented in 'areas' of some 14 counties and in South Wales and Ireland, and the (acting) Administrative Committee is functioning with books of record and account.

Development Policy. - It has always been seen that the College should be organised by the many and not by a few, but that general support could not be expected without general knowledge of its proposals and possibilities. Also that, when these had been proved, the blessing of Central Council might be forthcoming. To this end the draft of the working basis (Part I of the Manual) was first made public, and 'trial' courses and tests in accordance with it have been carried out, before approval for general adoption. Members of the College, therefore (potential as well as enrolled), are now in a position to form views towards finalising Part I, and shaping the Constitution of the College, before its work is launched, generally, in the New Year. Circular letters on these matters are shortly going to members, but ALL who are interested in the planned teaching of ringing still have the opportunity to take part in establishing and running the College. (They should write in before December 31st.)

Training Manual.-Attention focused on the recent serial of Part I has tended to obscure the importance of the ringing aspects and the work of the College covered by the remaining six Parts; but it has evoked anticipated helpful comments, for which the Administrative Committee is grateful. Part I is now undergoing entire revision, as intended, and the main amendments include: (a) A reversion to a former order of teaching strokes in ringing action. (b) The concept of a 'rise' stroke instead of a - check 'stroke, and of a 'balanced rise' stroke. (c) Further breakdown of drill action for bell lowering. (d) Generally, simpler exposition where possible without impairing full meaning. By courtesy of the Editorial Committee of "The Ringing World ' and by arrangement with them and with the Woodbridge Press, Ltd., it is hoped shortly to issue the (revised) reprints of Part 1 of the Manual, in booklet form at approximately cost price.

Servicb Ringing.-A first practical result, in a main objective of the work of the College, is the trainung (Hampshire area) of a band ot beginners, enabling the bells of St. Thomas ${ }^{\circ}$ Cathedral Church, Portsmouth, to be rung for Evensong regularly for the first time since before the war. (Commenced Remembrance Sunday.)

Training Trials.-Courses for Tutors I and Ringers 1. running concurrently, have recently concluded with examinations, with these results:

Tutor 1.-S. Kathleen Mary Knight (1st Class), Roger Baldwin.

Ringer I.-(1st Class) Marjorie Anne Baker, Christabel Hussey, Jennifer Peate, Angela Jane Sandiford. Anthony Keeble Shaw, Una P. Woodward; (2nd Class) Judith Baker, Judith Anne Bowles, Christopher Whitaker, Christopher Woodward; (Pass) Roger Geoffrey Bishop.

Two candidates deferred test; two left district; one failed. Further courses locally are under consideration.

Schools of Ringing.-Arrangements are formulated for autonomous working (in College courses) of schools affiliated to the College, in accordance with Article XII of the draft constitution. Details will be sent gladly on application to the Registrar's Office, 24, Doyle Avenue. Portsmouth.

A MEMORABLE DAY FOR MASONIC RINGERS

Saturday, December 8th, will be a day to be remembered by a number of Masonic ringers, for it was on this day that Dee 'Cee' Vee, otherwise known as David Vincent, was installed as Master of his Lodge in Sale in the Province of Cheshire.

Right from the word 'go,' everything went off perfectly, both in the 'upper room ' and at the festive board. Nothing had been spared to make this a red letter day.
The entertainment was of a high order. One ringing visitor. after an amusing 'solo,' joined other artistes present and finished with 'Running them in, a request item. Handbells were included, the Master evoking comment from his predecessor by claiming the two smallest bells to a well-struck course of Grandsire Caters. Finally, in response to a 'demand 'for more, a perfect course of Stedman Triples was briskly 'tapped' off by four well-known ringing brethren.

An innovation was the heralding in of the new Master, not by trumpets and shawms, but by a touch of Grandsire Triples-not only surprising, but judging by the applause delighting the entire assembly and obviously filling the Master with pride. The good gathering of ringing members present were sufficient to man a tower for Maximus, another for Minor the same time, leaving some to criticise, and had arrived punctual it was noted, and in spite of petrol shortages were not short in spirit after having travelled from Beckenham. Slough, Coventry, Wallasey, Twinpool, Southport, Bolton and Manchester area. One members states he arrived home after travelling all night and after rockin' ' $n$ ' rollin' for 23 hours and 55 minutes-almost twice around the clock.

Although it was such a splendid ceremony, etc., there was one character missing-Bess, David's red setter dog; she generally goes wherever D. V. goes in his car, and it is said that whenever that passes a church with a tower she expects to get out. Having snatched many towers she has yet to score a peal, although she has listened in to several when the car has been parked in close vicinity. We understand Bess is no stranger in De Sala and is well known in the kitchens.

Chew Deanery Annual Meeting

The Chew Deanery Branch visited Wraxall for the annual meeting on December 1st, and ringing on the fine octave there commenced promptly at 3 o'clock and continued until the service, which was conducted by the Rector (Preb. W. N. Kempe), who gave a short address.
A very fine tea, arranged by the wives of the local ringers, was enjoyed in the Library adjoining the church, and after the minutes of the previous annual meeting were read and confirmed, all the existing officers of the Branch were re-elected for 1957, with the exception of Mr. L. Pullin, who said that due to his business he felt he was unable to fulfil the duties of deputy Ringing Master. Mr. C. Bishop was elected in his place. Officers for 1957, therefore, wil! be : Chairman and Ringing Master, Mr. H. W. Knight ; deputy Ringing Masters, Messrs. L. Derrick and C. Bishop; secretary and representative on the Association general committee. Mr. P. G. Yeo; and reporter, Mr. M. Horseman.

If permission is forthcoming it was agreed to hold meetings as follows: St. John's, Clevedon (January), Portishead (February), Clutton (March), and Chew Magna (April) for the quarterly meeting, with Winford as an alternative. Although no specific invitations have been received, it was suggested that it might bo possible to visit Winford or Portishead for the Corporate Communion on the fourth Sunday in April.

One new member from Wraxall and four from Kingston Seymour were elected, and the secretary then brought forward several matters which had been sent to him by the general secretary. The Master of the Association, Rev. M. B. Hurst-Bannister, will be resigning at the end of the year due to his moving out of the county, and suggestions for a new Master were requested. The meeting decided that the names of the Rev. H. Warren, of Exford, and Rev. W. H. Young, of Failand. should go forward to the general committee. It was agreed to recommend to the general committee that the present Central Council representatives should be re-elected.

Votes of thanks. proposed by Mr. D. Yeo, to all those who had contributed to a happy meeting, concluded the business. Ringing was then resumed in a variety of methods up to Cambridge Major.

Financial Amendments

A special general meeting of the Sussex County Association was held in the Union Church Hall, Brighton, on December 8th, to approve the final design for the new certificates, and to discuss the financial position of the Association. Fifty-eight members attended. Apologies were received from Messrs. F. Dallaway, K. Knight and L. Stilwell.

Two designs obtained by Mr. Blackburn and Mr. Cracknell were passed round, and the design by the friend of the latter was accepted. This was proposed by Mrs. Percy, seconded by Mr. G. Beeney, and carried. The meeting passed a unanimous vote of thanks to Mr . Cracknell for all the assistance he had given, and the chairman was asked to write and thank the two gentlemen who had supplied the designs.

FINANCE

The chairman drew the attention of the meeting to the agenda, regarding finance, which had been circulated to all the affiliated towers.

ITEM 1 .-To amend rule 3 paragraph 3 as follows: "That the annual subscription for membership be 3s. and that towers be affiliated to the Association on payment of this subscription per registered member of the band, with a minimum of $£ 1$ 1s.' This was proposed by Mr. Overy and seconded by Mr. Elphick. After much debating it was found that this amendment would not benefit the Association, and was withdrawn.

Mr. Stalham then proposed that the affiliation fee be raised from 21s. to 25 s : This was seconded by Mr. Laker and carried, 25 voting for, 13 against.

ITEM 2.- 'That any gifts to divisional funds this year shall not be taken into account by the hon. treasurer when declaring his levy.' This was proposed by Mr. Butcher, seconded by Mr. Johnson, and carried by 20 for and 3 against.

Mrs. Percy gave the normal 14 days' notice for alteration to rules 7 and 13, to enable the accounts to be held in one central fund, the divisional secretaries holding sufficient moneys for their own needs. This was seconded by Mr. Overy.

Mr. Weller gave the normal 14 days' notice regarding War Stock held by the Association. He proposed to sell the existing investments, carning little interest, and re-invest in new stock at a greater interest. This was seconded by Mr. Francis.

Item 3.-(a) That efforts be made to increase the number of honorary members of the Association. This was proposed by Mr. Butcher, seconded by Mr. Overy, and carried.
(b) That the price of the Annual Reports sold to individual members shall be the full cost of producing same. This was proposed by Mr. Stalham, seconded by Mr. Francis, and carried.
(c) That a fee of 6 d . per rope be charged for all peals rung for the Association, this fee to be paid to the treasurer of the Association. This was proposed by Mr. Weller. seconded by Mr. Francis, and carried by 27 for, 3 against.
(d) Mr. Francis proposed that the fee for non-resident members be raised from 5 s . to 7s. 6d. Mr. Weller seconded, and this was carried.
(e) The secretary asked the meeting to fix a price for the new certificates, the money obtained to be put aside for future reprinting of same. Mr. Overy proposed 2s. 6d. each, seconded by Mr. Weller, and this was carried.
Mr. Cracknell suggested a collection to cover the expense of the special meeting. The amount collected was in excess of the cost of the meeting.

Fifty-seven members attended the meeting.

'DEDICATION'

There's a new ring just been hunggreat rejoicings;
The dedication, full-robed choir, and much ringing;
The band, all local men, jealously guarding their rights for first trying
The bells that have just been hung.
Many ringers are present, from near and afar,
To try these new bells, and to sample the teaPrepared by the ladies, of this well-known
To meet old colleagues of days long ago,
And to ring with the young ones,
with faces aglow-
On these bells that have just been hung.
At times such as this, I pause and wonder
If those that are present
On this wonderful day,
Give thought for the man who spends his life
[in the tower.
He may not be known-but he's the bellhanger.
I see him now at the back of the church,
During the service, he sat there alone,
An onlooker was he, with no real part to play
In this service today
Of the bells that have just been hung.

His work is done,

And so, forgotten, he sits there alone
With his thoughts-and memories of other
Like some well-fitted equation, [occasions
And of these bells that have just been hung.
His thoughts are not centred on what is around [him,
He has other things at the back of his mindOf his wife and his children.
who love him so dearly,
And his train that leaves on time
And soon he will leave this church and its
And the bells he has recently hung, [ringers
To make his way homewards-
His lonely way homewards
To his home and his own fireside.
For many years now, he has travelled aroundIn belfry and tower.
In village and town,
And cities with celestial spires.
He knows them all,
He's worked them all,
And he's heard some heavenly choirs-
When at work of an eventide.
A shrewd judge of men,
For has he not seen
The rougher seam
Of human frailties.
And he knows well
The two-faced hell
Of landladies ${ }^{\prime}$ hypocrisies!
Of lodges-good and bad-has he,
Whilst working 'out of town.'
And all he asks, he ever asks,
Is a feeling to be free-
From worries that do abound
Within the family tree.
Strong is the word,
For this man's constitution.
Through all these years, he's had to be, Enabling him,

Through thick and thin-
To make his contribution
For his family's security.

When working aloft of a fine summer's morning, The school bell rings at nine,
He hears the young children, happily calling,
And with a feeling described as fine-
Thinks of his boyhood days, those good old [days,
And the air that he breathes is like winel
What of his life?
And the question crosses his mind-
Has it been well spent?
From family ties that for a married man do
Would he again (not by choice) be rent!
A hard life, a good life,
A sweet life, a bitter life-
Such has been his life.
And he's weathered the storms
Of human strife,
In his travels around
God's holy ground,
In tower and spire-
His hands for hire.
With his own philosophy!
Judge not this man, my friends,
For know you well
His 'daily bread.
Has wrought for you-a well-hung bell,
And pride goes not to his head.
Nor looks he for gratitude
From the average multitude Of ringers.
Now the service is over
And the priests and choir are gone.
But the organist staying-
Begins and starts playing.
The tune of his favourite psalm.
His favourite psalm,
The (23rd) twenty-third,
How often he has sung.
When the bells in their maiden speech
Out from the tower are heard,
When they first time are rung.
It's time for him to leave;
And with a last look round
O'er this familiar ground,
Steps quietly from the scene.
By 'TRAVELLER.'

THE LADIES' GUILD

A quarterly meeting of the Western District was held at Nailsea on December 8th when, in spite of the appalling weather, petrol shortage and the counter-attractions of the local 'bring and buy 'sale, there was a good attendance.

A very enjoyable service. conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Russell Davey), was preceded by an all-ladies touch of Stedman Doubles.
A good example of co-operation between church and ringers was shown over the question of tea for this meeting. An excellent ' $k$ nife and fork' repast was provided by the organisers of the 'bring and buy' sale, which was in aid of church funds. and the entire proceeds of the meal were given to the fund, resulting in a sum of $£ 5$ being raised.
At the short business meeting which followed, two new members were elected-Miss J. Parsons and Miss B. Jewell, both from Corston. Owing to petrol rationing, it was decided that the next meeting should be held in Bath. M. de J.

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The Dccember meeting was held at Earlsheaton, where the ring of eight was found greatly to the liking of the members. Tea was served by lady members of the church. and a good meal was enjoyed, thanks to the efforts of Mr. H. Dransfield and the local company.

Mr. J. W. Moxon presided over the meeting which followed, with Mr. N. F. Moxon as acting secretary in the absence of Mr. D. Smith. It was learnt that Mr. Smith is out of hospital and recovering from his leg injury; he is in good spirits and looking forward to resuming his ringing activities.

The chairman in his remarks recalled that the Earlsheaton ringers of 60 years ago were supreme in contest ringing. He also paid tribute to the ladies for the excellent tea. and his remarks were endorsed by Mr. J. W. Buxton.

Towers represented were Batley, Cawthorne. Crofton, Horbury, Liversedge, Kirkheaton. Ossett, Sandal. Shelley and Wakefield.

[^12]:    - Whenever and wherever I hear that old familiar "We can't get young people to take up ringing these days," my first reaction is to have a look at the tower-master and the way he carries out his duties, and all too often the reason for the empty tower and the bells hanging silent becomes immediately evident. Those of us who have been appointed by our incumbents to the position of tower-master must always remember that honours and privileges always bring with them added responsibilities, and that it is our duty to see that there is ever a steady flow of beginners into our belfries, and that the bells upon which they searn to ring are kept in good going order.
    This accent on youth is also referred to by the Master (the Rev, M. B. St. L. Hurst-Bannister). Imploring patience with beginners, he writes: ' Older ringers must be prepared to sacrifice their own ringing to help the learners, that is to say ready and willing to ring "Rounds" and "Queen's" when perhaps really wanting to ring something more advanced. Do not make the learners feel that they are unwanted, a nuisance or put up with on sufferance as a possible source of usefulness at some future date.'

    Youth of any age is always seeking for adventure, and our art provides abundant opportunities to satisfy this craving. Good luck to Bath and Wells and its youth.
