this year's summer meeting the Market Harborough District were the hosts. This District is the smallest of the Districts, with a total membership of abrout 40 . but they had organised a very successful meeting at Kibworth on July 14th.
During the afternoon, the bells at Great Glen were available. After a date start. due to a wedding, the six light bells were put to good use for about an hour, although the tenor was said by some to be having one of its 'off' days. The rarely rung six at Fixton were also available, but no-body seemed over anxious to ring the fifth in this tower.

Back at Kibworth the 8 bells. were rung prior to the service to a variety of methods. This heautiful ring is now rung from an upstairs floor, but conditions would he hetter if ventilacould he provided.
After the short service, conducted by the V心ar (Rev. D. A. J. Ireland), and at which the new president (Mr. F. K. Measures) read the lesson, the 53 members present sat down to tea which had been organised by Messrs.
$F$. Staniforth and A. Martin of the local band.

The chair for the business meeting which followed was taken by the president who thanked all who had heen responsible for arranging the meeting

NEW LIFE MEMBERS

A pleasan start to the meeting was the decision by the General Committee to appoint six ringers from the Market Harborough District to the list of honorary life members in resognition of the work they had done for ringing in the past. They were: Mr. A. Ashton (Lubenham). Mr. W. Walpole (Saddington). Mr. W. Hector (Market Harborough) and Messrs. A. Martin, W. Bolton, F. Staniforth (Kibworth).

The committee had also decided that memhers reaching the age of 65 and who desired to take advantage of the new rule. whereby they could be excused paying an annual subscription. should let their tower correspondent District secretary know. This rule was back-dated to January 1st, 1962.
The main item of husiness was the proposed memorial to the late Ernest Morris. St. Margaret's Church were thinking of installing a stained glass window to his memory, costing about $£ 400-£ 500$. The Greneral Committee had decided to support this appeal and the District secretaries were to collect subscriptions from their towers and forward them to the treasurer of the Guild by October 20th.

LIFE SUBSCRIPTION

The committee also appealed to members to take advantage of the new rule. whereby the payment of a single sum of $£ 5.5 \mathrm{~s}$. they could obtain life ringing membership. The advantage would be with members aged between 20 and 40 and the younger the member so the greater benefit they would seceive. A member aged 20 (for example) would have to pay 44 annual subscriptions, whereas if he paid i5 5 s . he would in effect only pay 21 . The advantage to the Guild would be that the Guild would still be receiving interest on the capital and. when such time as the member pised awiy, not only would the interest still he available. but he would have made a gift to the Guild of the original capital.

The annual dinner will be held at the Shakespeare Hotel. Braunstone, on Saturday, October 13th, at 6 for 6.30 p.m. (Tickets October 13th, at 6 for 6.30 p.m. (Tickets sub-committee to make the necessary arrangements for the 1963 dinner.
16 s . 6d.) The committee had appointed 2
The following members were elected: Mr. and Mrs. A. Cox (Bristol), Derek Francis, David Cornwall. Roland Biggs (High Wycombe). Jonathan Palmer (Thurcaston), Gearge Brunswick (Burbage), Malcolm Hildrew. Martin Turner (Cosby), Michael Brooks. Maureen Brooks, Christine Gerrard. Elaine Carpenter, Sally Buswell (Great Bowden), and Sheila Smith (Lubenham).

Mr. S. Burton announced that courses in beli ringing arranged by the L.E.A. would commence in September at Loughborough and Castle Donington.

Thanks are due to Messrs. A. Martin and F. Staniforth. of Kibworth. for arranging the rea. and to Mr. L. W. Allen (Market Harborough District secretary) and his committee fo: arranging the whole of the ringing.
The next quarterly meeting will be held on Octoher 20th in the Melton Mowbray District.

OBITUARY

MISS MARGARET SNOWDON

Last week's ' R.W.' announced briefly the passing of Miss Margaret Snowdon. It is probably true to say that among non-ringers n) one has done more for the Exercise than Miss Snowdon. The writing or publishing of books has a wide and lasting effect which, dike a stone thrown into a pond. long outlasts the initial act ; and the name of Snowdon, which has been before the Exercise for some 90 years will live in the minds of ringers for as long as copies of the Jasper Snowdon Series can the found. And thanks to Miss Snowdon their publication has been continued and indeed some of them continue and are among the most valuable text books relating to our art.
Jasper Snowdon died in 1885, at the early age of 41, but he had already published Treble Bob, Ropesight, Standard Methods and Double Norwich. His brother. William, carried on the work and Grandsire and Stedman followed. It was Miss Snowdon. however. who, on the death of her father, William, took the serious decision to undertake the financial responsibility and the hard work involved in continuing publication of the series. When it is realised that apart from her own work at a boarding school, she also looked after her mother for many years, it will be seen what a serious decision that was.

Miss Snowdon was from a Yorkshire family and the Yorkshire Association are rightly proud of this. as is seen each year at the Snowdon dinner. But for many years she made her home in Cartmel. in that part of Lancashire which is almost the Lake District. Here she made herself greatly loved in the viflage. by her work there for the Priory, her ready help wherever it was needed and her continued cheerfulness and courage. latterly while in poor health. It was this ability to make friends. who became as anxious to help her as she hersalf was to help them, which made it possible for her to find willing. helpers among the experts of the Exercise so that the text books could be reprinted and brought up to date-it is only, necessary to mention the Trollape 'Stedman' of 1938 and the "Grandsire ' of ten years later, completed by two of his pupils after Trollope's death. But the decision to print, the expenditure involved. amounting in the few years after the war to many hundreds of pounds. and all the work involved in selling the books fell on Miss Snowdon. She was proud to do it for the good of the Exercise and the carry. ing on of the name.

It was with all this in mind that in 1952 at the Central Council meeting at Lincoln I was proud to propose that Miss Snowdon be made a life member of the Council; and the Council honoured itself as much as it honoured her by agreeing the motion. This was a recognition which greatly pleased her-to know that the Exercise did really appreciate all her work for ringing.
She was like many of her age a born letter writer-always prompt, always cheerful and full of news of people and places far beyond her own neighbourhood. Always thoughtful of others, she would never ask if she could help-financially or in any other way. She just did it first, so that the recipient had no option but to appreciate her and to thank God for such a friend in need.
Miss Snowdon was 78 and she had spent most of her dife in helping others. One's sorfow at her passing is, therefore, tempered by gratitude for that life and for the privilege of having heen one of her friends.

W. G. WILSON

The funeral took place on Monday, July 23 rd, the bells theing rung half-muffled. The service was attended by the local. Branch secretary of the Lancashire Association, and ringers from Cartmel and other towers in the district. A quarter peal of Plain Boh Minor was rung on the Cartmel Priory bells in the evening.

MR. FREDERICK W. TILLETT

We regret to record the death of Mr Frederick W. Tillett, of lpswich. which took place in hospital on July 15th, at the age of 84 years

Billy' as he was affectionately known to distinguish his from his late cousin Frederick J. Tillett, noted tenor man, was by no means a peal grabber. His total was 73 , and of his last 50.43 were Maximus in several Sur prise methods
In his later years he rang the treble ; it was a delight to listen to his precision of striking, and making it sing out when behind.
Among the mourners at the Ipswich Crema torium were his departmental manager of Ransoms Lid.. also Charles J. Sedgley, and G. E. Symonds. representing St. Mary-de-Tower Society of Ipswich ringers.

MR. HORACE E. C. GOODENOUGH

With regret we record the death of Mr Horace E. C. Goodenough, of 31, Oster Street, St. Athans, on July $14 i \mathrm{~h}$, at the age of 75 . He had been a ringer at St. Albans Abbey for 52 years and conductor 32 years; he resigned from ringing nearly five years ago. but maintamed a very keen interest in all matters appertaining to the Exercise
During his time as a ringer he served under five Deans, and it was the late Dean Henderson who encouraged him to set about the task of getting the Abbey bells augmented from eight 10 12. He had the honour of conducting the first peal on the 12 bells. He was not a big peal ringer, his total being about 90 .
The funeral took place at the Abbey on July 18 th, after his body had rested in the Lady Chapel overnight. The service was conducted by the Dean (the Very Rev. A. K. Matthews). during which a course of Grand sire Triples was rung on handbells by $G$ Penney 1-2, G. Dodds 3-4. W. Ayre 5-6. W. J. Arnold 7-8. After cremation. his ashes were buried the next day in the garden of rest near the tower where he served so long.
On July 18 th as a last tribute to him 1,299 Stedman Caters was rung half-muffled by A Day 1; W. J. Arnold (cond.) 2, G. Dodds 3, H V. Frost 4. R. F. Ewer 5. T. J. Southam 6. W. Little 7. M. D. Frost 8. G. Penney 9, $\stackrel{\text { W. }}{\mathrm{W}}$. A. Nicholls 10 .

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE NON-RESIDENT MEMBER

Dear Sir,-l came away from the Central Council meeting at Cardiff feeling that Mr. A. D. Barker and his wife did not get ' A fair crack of the whip at all," with their proposition about non-resident members.
I was a visitor, J sat at the back, hearing was difficult, one only saw the back of the speakers and often they could not be heard. Time was short; there were only a few minutes left for the Barkers proposal; everyone present was impatient to finish and there was little discussion on the matter. The president made a remark, and also the librarian, but before the significance of what they said could 'sink in,' the motion was put to the Council. Every hand was held up 'against, there was no one 'for.' The proposal was thrown out I wondered if the whole thing was 'rigged.'
Welll that was over a month ago.
Since then I have looked each w
Since then I have looked each week for any tidings of what might ensue from the throwing out of the motion.
Nothing as yet-nothing until Last week, when there was answer in plenty. The front page article and the report on the Oxford Diocesan Guild festival, 'R.W.' 20-7-62. How wrong I was about the Barkers. I see that they were the unwilling sponsors of a proposal pushed at them from the young ringers. I say young ringers, but I do not really know, I am guided by the front page article. I expect, however, that it is they who have prompted the proposal. The young folks now that the motor-car is so common and so popular, go about all over the place on tours and peal ringing, and I suppose they do find as the front page article says: 'The multiplicity of subscriptions is irksome'.
Well, they have a point, it should be considered.
Likewise the 'Old Pals' have a point, on them rests the responsibility of keeping their associations solvent.
I wonder who we can look to, to sort it all out and to sort it out fairly in the light of the ever changing conditions of our Exercise.
I seems to me that the appropriate body is the Central Council, but since they have already thrown it out, then it is indeed ' difficult to see where these young ringers are to find a spokesman to champion their cause.,
Is it too much to ask the C.C. to again consider the proposal, perhaps next year it could be presented to them for consideration suitably re-framed, because without doubt the C.C. is the parliament of the Exercise, and they are the shapers of our destiny as ringers. Meantime, there is another avenue which can be explored, viz., the committee best qualified to consider such matters in the list of "who to write to.' I do not know who that would be, but perhaps the Editor could advise.
I hope next year again to attend the Council (D.V.). It is very enjoyable to be among such enthusiasts.-Yours truly,

JAMES E. BURLES.

'A SHILLING TO SPEND'

Dear Sir,-The Bishop's remarks at the service of rededication of Eye bells, Teminds me of a service of thanksgiving for restoraFion I attended some years ago, with the late F. R. Borrett. For this service we had rung a quarter peal. Sitting at the back of the church. with a large congregation present, we were somehow 'missed out' by the sidesman making the collection. Turning to me, and with money in his hand. F.R.B. said. 'Come on. Howlett, I have a shilling to spend,' which I may add was not spent on sweets.-Yours, etc

GOOD RELATIONS:

Dear Sir,-Many members of the Oxford Guild and others must be shocked by the attitude of one of its senior and honoured officials at the Council meeting and at Oxford. Any motion has a right to be judged on its merits and not be killed before it has a chance to be put forward.
First, let us get the facts right. Many ringers who live on the boundaries of their Guild wish to foster closer relations with their neighbours. It does not help when one Guild charges 3 s .6 d . and the other 10 s . to become a compounding or non-resident life member, and I would remind Mr. Barker that the increase to 10 s. was passed by a small majority and when the Guild funds were low, but I for one contend that it has not had the desired result.
There was no suggestion at the committee meeting that the fee in question should be abolished. All that happened was that a member pointed out that in the W.M. and other club rules a member paid an affiliation fee and, provided he kept his local club subs to date, he was considered to be an affiliated member.
How in heaven's name can we be doing the Guild a dis-service or can we put our Deputy Master in an awkward position by trying to foster good relations with our neighbours?
In your leading article of July 20th, you say the days of five guineas grants are gone but that sum was at least the equivalent of thirty guineas today, and when there is over $£ 1.400$ in the Restoration Fund, $£ 50$ to my way of thinking is a paltry sum to offer to help a hard pressed tower.
We are all pleased to know that $£ 25$ was given to help the 'R.W., but would it not be better if the paper paid its way and that all Guild subs were sufficient to cover all that that is wanted; its the only way to share the burden equally
So please, Mr. Barker, remember that first yous are a member of the Oxford Guild and then its honoured general treasurer. All best wishes to you , and also to you, Mr. Editor. -Yours sincerely.

Sandhurst, Camberley.
W. J. H. PARKER.

THE LENGTH OF A QUARTER

Dear Sir,-You will note that the quarter peal rung at St. Anne's, Highgate. consists of 1,260 changes, which I contend is the minimum length for a quarter of Triples, since a peal must contain the extent of 5,040 , and 1,259 is less than a quarter of this.
On the higher numbers a peal must be "of at least 5,000 ohanges,' and therefore it is permissible to ring, a quarter 'of not less than 1,250 changes.
Perhaps some member of the Central Council's Peal Committee might care to comment on this-or am I splitting hairs?-Yours faithfully,
A. W. J. BUTLER.

London, N.W.3.

CONCENTRATED TRAINING

Dear Sir, May I, through your columns, request information from readers who have experience of organising the training of ringers bv concentrated methods. I would especially ask for information on the training of complete novices; practical and theoretical courses. visual and other aids used. Availability of suitable tape recordings and records, together with names of publishers and serial numbers.

Any information relevant to the subject gratefully received and acknowledged.-Yours faithfully,

DONALD PRICE.

OLDEST CONDUCTOR OF ROYAL
At a quarterly meeting of St. Mary-le-Tower Society on July 15th, with Mr. Percy May Master, as chairman, Mr. Charles G. Sedgley proposed, and Mr. John F. Tillett corroborated, that a vote of congratulations be extended to Mr. George E. Symonds, the secretary, on his achievement of calling a peal of Bob Royal at Great Yarmouth, three days after his 87 th birthday. The question arose whether he is the oldest ringer to accomplish this.
The peal was rung by a band of the Norwich Diocesan Association, each with 50 or more years membership:
Commemorated by the peal was the conductor's 55th wedding anniversary, Norwich Diocesan Ascocistip of the year as a bell ringer. It was also to celebrate the birth of his great-grandson.

The composition selected was by George H. Cross, who also has 50 years' membership of the Association.

TOWER HUNTING IN CEYLON

Dear Sir,-While scanning the horizon from the harbour of Colombo, Ceylon, during a visii there recently on S.S. Khyber, I noted with interest a very impressive church spire, and came to the conclusion, upon consulting a map, that it must be St. Lucia's Cathedral.
To a person who has done no bellringing since leaving England, three months ago, the sight of this building was like a magnet, and I had hopes of finding another 'ring' to add to Mr . Dove's list of overseas towers.

Upon arriving by taxi I was shocked to find that the directions led me to a building resembling more of an Hindu temple than that I have seen from the harbour. A notice board outside stated that this was the Roman Catholic Cathedral of St. Lucia. The layout of the church was in the shape of the cross, with a huge silver painted dome at the crassing. and two western towers, surmounted by smaller domes.
As ascent of these towers was not possible, I cannot be certain of the size of the bells, but in the open base of the N.W. tower hung five rather knotted and worn ropes, in the form of a circle. The length of the rope ends from the ground made it obvious that the tressle bench standing to one side formed the means by which the ringers reached and chimed the bells. The S.W. tower boasted of one lone rope in a condition similar to that of the others. When I walked away from the N.W. tower and looked up at it, one of the bells was in full view through the opening, where they hung; it was obviously only hung for chiming and swinging not above frame height. The interior of this Cathedral contains some beautiful paintings on the walls inside the central dome.

Consulting the map, I came to the conclusion that the impressive spire I was looking for belonged to a church not marked, so directing the taxi driver in the direction, I eventually arrived there. It was a building standing next to the Jaw courts and the Prime Minister's residence. Such a tower as thiy in England would house a ring of eight, but from all external appearances this one was juis! a piece of impressive architecture, the base of the tower being open and no visible evidence of bells or ropes.-Yours faithfully,
H. FLEMING.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD
The annual meeting of the St . David's Diocesan Guild took place at Llanstephan on July 7th. The eight bells were rung during the afternoon, before service, which was followed by an excellent tea, given by the ladies of the parish.

The Master, Mr. Gwyn Thomas, opened the business meeting by proposing a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies for the splendid tea, and there followed the traditional touch of Triples on handbells. The Central Council representative, Mr. R. Warburton, then piesented his report of the meeting at, Cardiff.
The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in changes as not one of the retiring officers was re-elected. The new officers are as follows: Major $\mathbf{R}$. Pateman (Cardigan), Master; Mr. P. Rogers (Pembroke), Ringing Master Mr. R. Warburton (Goodwick), secretary; Mr. A. Walters (Cardigan), treasurer. The honorary auditor, Mr. B. Rees (Burry Port), and the Central Council representative, Mr. R. Warburton, were re-elected.
Tributes were paid to the retiring officers for their hard work for the Guild, and it was remembered that Mr. Sage (Burry Port) had given faithfully of his services as treasurer since 1948.
The committee were instructed to go ahead with arrangements for a second annual dinner, to follow the very successful venture last year. The place and date are to be decided later. The members then returned to the tower for further ringing.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION  Tewkesbury Branch

Thunderstorms and traffic jams did not provide ideal conditions for ringers travelling to the Tewkesbury Branch meeting at Twyning on July 14th. Those who had to admit defeat included Mr. A. V. Bennett (Master of the Association) and his wife, who were driving from Bristol. We were sorry not to have them with us, and hope that they will have better luck next time.
With only 13 members and a few visitors present the meeting was hardly overfull. After the service, at which the Vicar (Rev. W. J. Sharland) gave a thought-provoking address on 'Being a Christian,' we tried our best to do justice to an excellent and abundant tea. After that the meeting was definitely overfull!
At the business meeting the Ringing Master (Mr. E. W. Penn) announced that he had now made arrangements for the Branch outing on September 15th, when five towers in Somerset and Dorset (including Sherborne Abbey) would be visited. FuH details would be sent to tower secretaries later.
An invitation had been received from the North Forest Branch to hold a joint meeting at Newent on October 13th. The members decided to accept this invitation, and the chairman expressed a hope that as many as possible would attend the meoting.
The other item of business concarned a venue for the Branch annual meeting on October 27th. This is usually held at Tewkesbury Abbey, but the bells are at present being recast and may not be back by that date. Kemerton was in consequence selected.

Miss Kathleen Yeo Cuts the Cake

TENT and Sussex ringers will be interested I in this picture, although it is somewhat belated, of Miss Kathleen M. Yeo, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yeo, of Tenterden, cutting her wedding cake with the help of her smiling bridegroom, Mr. Maurice E. Downs, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Downs, of East Malling, Maidstone. Her marriage was at Tenterden.
The wedding cake, surmounted by a bell, was made by Kathleen's mother. Canon H. Willis conducted the service, and afterwards a quarter peal was rung on Tenterden bells.
The bride wore a dress of white lace, embossed with silver over white nylon. Her waist-length veil was held by a headdress of orange blossom and peals.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Northern District

With eight parsons present the Northern District meeting at Egham on July 14th could not fail to be a success. The standard of striking and ringing throughout the afternoon and evening was much above the average, ringing being under the direction of Mr. F. E. Collins. The service was followed by tea, provided by senior members of the Society of Roving Ringers, who showed that their skill is not confined to bell ringing. At the routine business meeting which followed two new resident members were elected and several belfry elections ratified. The meeting instructed the secretary to send congratulations and best wishes to the assistant secretary, Mr. Norman Steere, on the oocasion of his wedding.
After the business there was more good ringing to end a most successful day. What more could any ringer wish for? Good bells, good ringing. good company and a warm welcome. We are indeed grateful to David and the Egham ringers for such a day.

COMPETITION DAY AT CARDIGAN

The St. David's Diocesan Guild beld their annual competition at the recently restored tower of Cardigan. The president of the Central Council, Mr. Frederick Sharpe, had kindly agreed to judge the ringing. This was particularly fitting, since it was largely by the unciring efforts of Mr. Sharpe that the bells of Cardigan were restored after many years of silence last year. Through the great help and encouragement which he has given to the Guild, Mr. Sharpe has become a well known and popular visitor.
Ten bands had entered for the competition, a Guild record, and great was the excitement as the draw was made.
The first to sing was Pembroke, and these ringers from 'little England beyond Wales consisted of $\mathbf{M r}$. Phil Rogers and five ladies. Llandovey were second, and they had entered a band of schoolboys with their teacher; they had travelled over 60 miles to be with us.
Drawn third was the first of two teams from Llanelli. and these young people set a high standard of striking, despite the fact that many had not been ringing long. This, and their obvious enthusiasm, is a great credit to their instructor. They were followed by another band of young people from Burry Port, the only 'five' in the Diocese.
St. Daxid's Cathedral sent the next band, and they were followed by the holders of the shield. Tenby, a strong team, who many thought would retain the trophy.
Next we welcomed Llanbadarn Fawr. (Aberystwyth), a band from the far north of the Diocese, and very remote from our other towers.
The second of the Llanelli bands then had their turn, and then Major Pateman led the home team into the tower to ring.
The competition ended with a band organised on the spot by the Ringing Master, Mr . R. C. Warburton, from among those who had not yet rung.
Well over a hundred people sat down to a splendid tea, organised and given by the local parish, and afterwards a touch of Triples was rung on the handbells.
Mr. Shanpe then began his adjudication, and his constructive criticism was helpful to all. The final result showed that Cardigan were the winners, and great praise must go to Major Pateman, who has achieved such a splendid result in less than one year. Second were Tenby, and third was the ' A' band from Lanelli
Mr. Sharpe's famous handbell ringers then entertained the company, and delighted them with their music. The evening ended with general ringing in the tower. R.C.W.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

The weather was unkind for the Bingham District's meeting at St. Mary's, Orston, on July 14th, nevertheless, 28 members sat down to an excellent tea, and six towers were represented.
At the business meeting Mr. W. L. Exton proposed that the Rev. Pickworth Hutchinson be elected vice-president and chaplain to the District. This was seconded by Mr. Buswell, and carried. A new member, Mr. J. Heaps. of Holme Pierrepont, was elected. A short service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Levette. September meeting, possibly Williughby-on-

THE SMITHS

THE STORY OF A RINGING FAMILY
By I. N. QUICK

The journey home of the Guild outing, with some of their songs. In one of the two coaches is Joe Sinith, head ringer of Hexworth tower, Annie his wife, Phyllis his daughter, and the members of his band.

THE JOURNEY HOME

At 7.30 p.m. they left Boston with a threehour journey in front of them. It wasn't long before one of the Redbank young ringers produced a mouth organ and began to play a pop' tune. This was immediately seized upon by the younger end who added, what Joe presumed were the words, although he could make little sense of them. When he felt inclined to be critical he thought of some of the material that he thought was so wonderful in his younger days. I'm forever blowing bubbles,' 'Horsey keep, your tail up' and Yes! we have no bananas,' which he remembered was castigated by 'Mister' Harvey, the village schoolmaster, organist and choirmaster, because it sacriligeously employed for its first four or five notes of melody part of his beloved 'Hallelujah ' Chorus!
After a time the instrumentalist began to tire and the running was taken up by Brighton Glee Club. This consisted of three ringers. John Chappell. Don Russell and Tom Greenfield, and one non-ringer, a Mr. Worbey, who attended many Guild meetings and was always in attendance at contests. dinners and outings and gave a donation to the Guild funds every year. Joe, who found his relationship with ringers rather puzzling, once asked him why he had never learnt to ring.
' Oh, I don't really know: I have never had the desire to learn, but I enjoy listening to bells at any time and have always derived great pleasure from the companionship of ringers.'

Joe wondered if he was unique!
At any rate he formed the bass of this admirable quartet. They began with ' $O$, who will o'er the downs so free.' and followed this by a song, whose title Joe couldn't remember. but during the course of which the vocalists managed with great vigour and commendable determination to 'chase the beggars across the sea' with a "Ha. ha, ha, ha, he, he, he, sea, with a Ha. ha, ha, ha, he, he, he, 'There is a Lady sweet and kind.' which was rendered even more realistic by John Chappell. who went down on one knee and serenaded h's wife, whereupan she pretended to be annoyed and indifferent in turns, although she couldn't resist joining in the general amusement.

Hymns and songs both Ancient and Modern during whioh everyone lent a hand. or rather oflered a voice, helped to pass the time in a pleasant manner. It was at this point in the proceedings that Raymond took out of his pocket a small bundle of papers which he distributed. one to each passenger. On examination it was discovered that each sheet examination it was discovered that each sheet contained a duplicated copy of a single verse of poetry.

Raymond held up his hands for silence.

- Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls,' he began. 'That which you have before you is the chorus (or refrain if you like)-
'Refrain from spitting?', somebody asked.
'- the words of which,' continued Raymond when the laughter had subsided, 'I myself have written: (Cheers.) I propose, with your kind permission, to sing in my own inimitable manner the verses of this song (groans) and I would be obliged if you would join me in the chorus. The tune. which I am sure you all know, is "Bobbje Sbaftoe."

And he turned to the harmonica player
" Give me a "G," " he said, "and the tune if you know in!'
The musician nodded and quickly ran through the tune on his instrument. He looked up at Raymond.
O.K.?" he asked.
'O.K.!' replied Raymond.

A RINGING SONG

The song which he had written and which he now sung I have now the pleasure of placing before the Exercise. No doubt it will be attacked as doggerel, criticised as lacking in scansion, censured because of its doubtful rhymes, or scorned as embodying incidents that could not by any stretch of imagination ever have occurred in actual practice, but if the scowling sceptics or carping critics could have heard the heart-rending : con amore' of verse two' the dejected 'lacrimoso' of verse six (which was emphasised by the choristers with sepulchral groans), the triumphant con spirito' of verse eighteen and the magnificent fortissimos' of the refrain which was attacked con brio' by the assembled company after each verse, and the tumultuous applause that greeted the completion of the whole, little doubt would have remained in their minds that here, indeed, was a mageum opus destined to be inscribed in letters of gold ( 6 d . per tin from any ironmongers'), in the annals of posterity.
(Tune: 'Bobbie Shaftoe.)
Ringers are the queerest set
Of people that you've ever met,
I've never met a good un yet!
Jingle, Jangle, Jingle.
Refrain
We are ringers one and all,
To the church good people call.
Drive all others up the wall!

After travelling for about one and threequarter hours which brought them, by Joe's reckoning, about two-thirds of the way home, the two buses pulled up in a smallish village, outside the local hostelry, which was conveniently situated opposite a fish and chip saloon. Edward Lee said hopefully: 'Be back in the buses, please, by half past nine, a suggestion which seeing that it was already ten minutes past was received with the contempt it deserved. Someone said: "Whoever sends a report of this outing to "The Ringing World" had better not mention that we called at a "pub" or we shall be having a spate of letters on the subject!
Seeing that this was the last opportunity that many members. friends or acquaintances. who were itravelling on different buses would have to enjoy each other's company for, in some cases. periods up to six or even twelve months, the best use was made of the time available. Everybody agreed that the day had been a success and someone proposed a vote of thanks to Edward Lee for all the work he had done and this was carried with acclamation' by the whole company. despite the fact that this was ooupying the three rooms of which the hotel boasted. plus various passages and side-passages and was even overflowing into private cubby-holes. into private cubby-holes.

A pianoforte which proved to be more forte than piano was discovered in one of the rooms and on inspection was found to have several notes in the middle register that refused to function, and a timbre compared with which a barrel organ sounded like a concert grand. bui which. nevertheless. provided a background. abeit inharmonious. for Raymond's epic song. which he was persuaded to repeat for the benefit of those who had been. as he put it. 'On the wrong bus.'
Seeing that his audience this time was almost twice as big (perhaps more than that if the few bewildered 'locals' were counted). the volume of the choruses and that of the final reception were proportionately increased especially if the pounding of table-mats by a varied assortment of liquid containers was also taken into arcount. It must not be thought that whilst this activiy was taking place inside, the younger ones outside were forgotten. On the contrary, they were regaled by a liberal supply of fizzy lemonade, transported to them by a relay of people so that with the addition of fish and chips they happily demonstrated the amazing resiliance of young people's stomachs.

And when the time came to depart, Old George, who we seem rather to have ignored recently, but who is, at all times, quite capable of looking after himself, went quickly round the three rooms and emptied down his throat the remains of the contents of three glasses, for he had been having a drink with three groups of people at the same time, all in different places. Edward Lee had, meanwhile. been shepherding his flock into the buses with great persistance, amid a certain amount of chaffing and good-humoured leg-pulling and finally the buses got under way again at nine fifty-three and a half, which, although nearly a half hour after the stipulated time gave Edward sufficient reason for self-congratulation for he had never expected to be away again before 10.15 p.m. at the very earliest.

The buses daposited their passengers in the reverse order to that in which they had been collected and round about 11 o'olock the Hexworth party alighted and made final ' adieus.'

As the Smith family discussed the day's proceedings before retiring for the night. Mrs. Smith said. 'I've enjoyed today. I think it has been one of the best outings the Guild have had.'
'Yes.' said Phyllis, who was arranging tulips in vases, 'and the ringing has been fairly good throughout the day. I particularly like the course of Cambridge Major at Sleaford.'
' I, on the other hand.' John said. 'thought that the Littie Bob Royal went very well at Boston.'

Joe remembered the smiling faces of the twins full of joy and happiness at their achievement in ringing their first 'touch' of Bob Minor on (to them) such difficult bells.

He had no doubt which performance of the day he had found most satisfying-and he hadn't even rung in it!

THAMES-SIDE FESTIVAL

Luast year's joint meeting of the Middlesex and London County Association's has, with its return meeting last month become, it is hoped, an annual event. This year with the L.C.A. as hosts, it consisted of ringing in the Thames-side suburbs of Barnes. Mortlake, Twickenham (All Hallows'), Richmond and Isleworth, with tea and talk in the Church Hall at Isleworth.
Following this the party joined in Evensong at All Saints', Isleworth, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Fellowes-Brown, and it is noteworthy that there were even more ringers present at the service than at the tea.
Charge of the ringing at the various towers was shared by the Ringing Masters of the two Associations. The chairman at tea (Deputy Master of the I.C.A.) welcomed the visitors, remarked on the appropriateness of Isleworth as the venue and thanked all for their cooperation. In presenting apologies for absence of his Association's secretary, he read a message expressing Mr Roger's keenness on fostering co-aperation between the London Societies by such joint meetings and his hope that the respeotive officers could get together to obviate overlapping of meeting dates, etc.
Mr. John Mayne. Master of the M.C.A. replied for his Association and expressed the thanks of the gathering to the ladies for serving tea and to the incumbents and ringres of the towers mentioned. W. G. W.

Congratulations to the new bands at St. George's Cathedral, Perth, W.A., and at Salisbury Cathedral, Southern Rhodesia, on ringing their first quarter peals. With a peal of York Surprise Minor at Kingspury on July 14 th, Mr. John M. Jelley has rung peals of York Sunprise from Minor to Maximus.
Participating in the ringing at East Meon, where the Alton and Petersfield District held a meeting on July 14 th, was Mr. 'Bob' Fisher, who, according to our correspondent, is 96 years of age. He must be the country's oldest ringer.
Two well known London ringing personalities were honoured by the quarter peal at St. Anne's, Highgate, on July 22nd. It was a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bevan on their 46th wedding anniversary and to Mr. Joe Hawkins on his 85 th birthday.
The jubilee year president of the Ladies' Guild is Mrs. Olive Barnett, the assistant secretary of the Central Council. At the annual meeting at Darlington, honorary life membership was conferred on Mrs. A. Richardson (Surfleet), Mrs. Knight (Yatton) and Miss Nora Williams (Bath).
Mr. Fred E. Dukes, editor, has produced another attractive number of ' The Irish Bell News.' In an Editorial to Ernest Morris he concludes: ' A great and yet humble man, who has meant something to Irish ringers. too, as well as to those in Great Britain and beyond the seas.'
We apologise to Mr. C. Goodman for describing him as the Assistant Ringing Master of the Norwioh Diocesan Association. He is the Ringing Master. The meeting of the Ladies' Guild at Dereham should read September 29th, and not September 27th as stated in our jssue of July 20th.

GOSSIP
An example of the late Dr . W. M. Askwith's interest in the affairs of the Gloucester and Bristo! Association has recently come to light. The Bishop was sent copies of all circulars issued by the Association. When he received one of the instructional course at Hartpury, he sent a copy to the diocesan youth chaplain with a note saying: 'This is very important, please have copies made and sent to every youth organisation in the diocese.'
With a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Grundisburgh, Mr. Roger L. K. Whittell has rung peals of Yorkshire on 8,10 and 12 bells.
We are sorry to learn that. Mr. Reuban Sanders is suffering from bronchial pneumonia. He is in Ward 5 of St. James' Hospital, Balham. The last report received was that he was progressing.
Mr. Frank Lufkin and his long peal attempt band wish Bob Smith and his band the best of Juck in their attempt at the extent of Plain Bob Major on August 4th at Loughborough.
The organiser of Bristol University's summer tour in Devon told perspiring cyolists after an ascent of 400 feet inside a mile, that she did not know that the 'Hittle brown bits' on the map were hills. That is the trouble of over specialisation.
Mr. P. G. Turley, who has completed 50 years as a ringer at St. Nicholas', Sevenoaks. received a presentation clock from his fellow ringers. He has other landmarks this year: Sixty years a member of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and his golden wedding.
After ringing for the annual service for the Friend's of St. Paul's (London) on May 30th the whole band was invited to the reception afterwards at the Stationers' Hall, where they were privileged to be presented to the Queen Mother, who is Patron of the Friends of St. Paul's. The members were introduced by Mr. C. G. J. Watts. Her Majesty was very interested in the bells.

ST. MARGARET'S, KING'S LYNN

A LOCAL policeman appeared quite inSt. Margaret's. with others from Caston, Portsmouth and Sprowston, congregating outside the porch door just after $7.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. on a wet Whit Monday. some wonderfully disguised under rain hoods and coats while the hardier ones just braved the elements. After collecting St. Faith's ringers from Gaywood the day's trip ibegan with a good run, via Wisbach and Petenborough, out of the rain, to St. Mary the Virgin. Warmington, where the rather noisy but good six were soon up and going to rounds. Unfortunately Cambridge Surprise Minor did nat receive the rendering due to it and the trips were loudly proclaimed from the bells above and from those ringers below in the belfry who apparently knew what both they themselves were doing and everyone else too.

All aboard,' and off to Higham Ferrers, where our best method seemed to be Stedman and a musical well-struck touch pleased us all. Oui non-ringers were quite enthralled with this magnificent church - obviously much loved by the parishioners.
From Higham Ferrers a quieter ride, probably induced by the now heavy atmosphere and overcast sky, or by the fact that there had been no time for siestas after lunch. But the moment we stopped at Raunds the athletes were once again bounding up the elongated churchyard steps. Our ringing here pleased us all, especially the course of Double Norwich, It was at Raunds we were pleased to meet Mr. and Mrs. Rawson, of Leicester,

From Warmington to Tichmarsh. While these lovely bells were swinging gaily to rounds. Stedman. Grandsire and the inevitable Plain Bob, our non-ringing friends were shown round the beautiful Vicarage garden by the Vicar, and some emerged sporting scented button-holes, which during the day either flourished or faded causing amusement for our would-be crystal-gazers discerning the fools from the flirts.

The 30 minutes' journey between Tichmarsh and Burton Latimer. found three ringers trying ou! the handbells which the thoughtful Gaywood people had brought on board. We found Burton Latimer bells very enjoyable, but all $t 00$ soon we had to leave this dark belfry and go into the bright daylight. The lowering of the bells in peal had put us a few minutes behind in our already tight schedule. but our coach driver co-operated and we were not too late for the scrumptious lunch awaiting us at the George Hotel. Kettering. The shortening of our lunch hour didn't dismay the more eager ringers of the party, and they were seen to be mounting the steps at the west end of the churchyard. two at a time. at great speed. Their keenness was amply rewarded in this fine ring of ten. Here we were all pleased to meet again the Rev. Ivan Lilley and his wife. Sylvia. Ivan was at one time a memher of the St. Margaret's choir before entering the Church. Time seemed to have wings this Monday, but who were on holiday and we were glad to have Mr. Rawson join us in our ringing.

The 45 minules allowed for our journey to Houghton for tea was stretched to almost 100 minutes as we became rather involved in the traffic from Huntingdon race course, so the Brown Teapot,' Houghton, was an even more welcome sight and tea in the garden was an unexpected treat. Like giants refreshed we were soon hack in the bus, having gathered our straying members from the beuutiful Houghton Mill. and we were heading for St. Neots. the journey being 'coloured' for us by the ringing curate, whose parents' home is here.

We thought the bells of St. Neots were the loveliest of the day and they went excellently to Cambridge Major, Double Norwich. Stedman and Treble Bob. and. of course. not forgetting the rounds, call changes and Plain Bobo A biased member of the party declared (during the usual mardle of the day's ringing on the homeward journey) that this glorious ring at St Neots rivalled those of Lavenham, in Suffolk, where we had heen in our 1961 outing. Once again our sincere thanks were given to the organiser and tower secretary. Les Houghton. for a most enjoyable and extremely successful Whit Monday ringing tour. Through The Ringing World' we thank those ringers and incumbents who so kindly turned up at their towers on a Bank Holiday to greet us.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and their friends on the occasion of their quarterly meeting at St. Nicholas'. Sevenoaks. on July 14 th .
After ringing on this fine 21 owt. eight in the afternoon and a short service. about 80 people sat down to tea in the Church Hall. which was splendidly catered for by the ladies of the cburch.
The day was also an occasion for Mr. P. G. Turley, who this year has completed 60 years as a member of the Society and 50 years a ringer at St. Nicholas'. He also celebrates his golden wedding this year. After tea, the Rev. E. M. T. MoLellan. the Rector, presented Mr . Turley with a clock from the ringers. which bore the inscription: "...for the first 50 years.
During the business meeting which followed the Society 'captured' Mrs. P. A. Corby as a member: another 'split ' family.
The Master. Mr. Denis Beresford. proposed vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells and also to Mr. Philip Carby and Miss Doris Colgate for their arrangements which had made the meeting such a success.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

North and East District

A torrential downpour and the presence of thunderstorm in mid-afternoon could not damp the enthusiasm of some 25 members and friends who attended the meeting of the North and East District at North Mymms on July 14th.

Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and continued until 4.15 pm . A service followed. conducted by the Rev. L. F. Hamel-Smith. Vicar of St. Mary's, with Mrs. K. M. Lock aocompanying the organ.
The Memorial Hall at Welham Green was the setting for a splendid tea, prepared and most generously provided by Mesdames Lock Slade, Grisedale and Spencer.

At the business meeting which followed, under the chairmanship of Mr . H. G. Hart, the ratification of the provisional election of the following. prior to peals for the Association, was made: Colin D. Emery (Putney) Rodney A. Yeates (Newcastle). Geoffrey A. Lucas (Willingham), Harold S. Peacock (Huntingdon), Miss E. J. Langton (Warthing). together with J. Edward Cawser. Beryl E Cawser and Gordon H. Lane of the Midland Counties Guild as non-resident life members. and Mr. Andrew Stubbs (Kiburn) as a ringing member. Martin F. Look, of North Mymms, was also elected a non-resident life member.

Two members of the Harrow band (Messrs R. Gage and J. Small) were admitted to Association membership. as also were four members of the band at St. Augustine's. Kilburn. viz.. the Misses R. M. K. How, Christine Brad burn, Enid Town and Pamela Wakeling.

Ringing continued after the meeting and ranged from rounds to Spliced Sunprise.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD West Lindsey Branch

The West Lindsey Branch for their outing on July 14th visited the Oxford area. Two coaches of ringers and friends left the Gainsborough district a little after 8 a.m. and travelled to Oxford with only a brief stop at Rugby. The skies were grey and rain was met with but by the time Oxford was seached the sun shone.
"Two o'clock saw the commencement of ringing with All Saints' as the first tower, and this was followed by visits to St. Cross' and St. Giles'. The company was joined in Oxford by Mr. P. Walker, who had kindly made local arrangements. Tea was taken to the accompaniment of a thunder storm which soon cleared and allowed ringers to walk to the last Oxford tower, St. Mary Magdalen
The final call was at Bicester, where the delightful eight (tenor $15 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.) were very much appreciated. Here it should be noted that the visitors were due at Bicester at 7.30 and the clock hands showed 7.30 exactly, when the church door was reached. No one was more surprised than the Branch secretary who made the arrangement and who has something of a reputation for punctuality (?).
The bells of Bicester were lowed at 8.15 and the coaches filled up for the long return journey, which concluded a successful and happy outing.

IN OTTAWA'S PEACE TOWER

By J. Michael Simpson

IN 1916 the Canadian Parliament Buildings in Ottawa were more or less completely destroyed by fire. Rebuilding was commenced immediately. The main difference between the old and new buildings, was that the clock tower was increased in size to 291 feet and was to be known thereafter as the 'Peace Tower.' It commemorates the 66,651 Canadians who paid the Supreme Sacrifice during the great war of 1914-18 and contains a Memorial Chamber to that effect.

It also contains a magnificent carillon of $4 \frac{1}{2}$ octaves, installed by authority of the Federal Parliament to commemorate the peace of 1918 and to keep in remembrance the service and sacrifice of Canada during the Great War. This carillon was officially opened on Dominion Day, July 1st. 1927.
Almost exactly 35 years later my wife and I were privileged to be shown this grand 'ring of 53 , tenor 10 tons in $E^{\prime}$ by the Dominion Carillonneur himself, Mr. Robert Donnell. Our thanks are due to Mr. Paul Taylor, without whose introduction we should have had great difficulty in meeting this famed carillonneur. We arrived at the Parliament Buildings on July 12th at about 8 p.m., an hour before a performance was due to begin, and we were shown into Mr. Donnell's office half way up the tower, just under the bells. From this room a most glorious view is obtained in all directions, up and down the Ottawa Valley, over the very beautiful city of Ottawa or across the river to the French-speaking city of Hull, in Quebec, and the Gatineau Hills beyond.

Here we sat and talked about bells in general and carillons in particular. It was very refreshing to hear about the enthusiasm of the general public in Canada for the bells. Very different to many places in England. Carillon recitals are held practically every Thursday and Sunday evening throughou, the year, from 9 till $10 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. in the summer and earlier in the winter. On a fine summer's evening it is usual to see several thousand people gathered on Parliament Hill to listen to the bells. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police control all the traffic on the hill, and nobody is allowed to start their car engine or turn on a radio when the recital is in progress.
Soon it was time for our host to leave us to prepare for his performance, and he invited us to remain in the office to listen to the first half of the programme and to join him in the keyboard chamber to watch for the last part of the concert. When he had left us we were able to look around his office, and seeing the pictures of bells and bell towers on the wall, the familiar books, including 'Bells of All Nations,' by the late Ernest Morris, in the bookcase, made us realise that we were back with a bellringer for the first time since leaving England last March.

As soon as the clock had struck nine and the chimes. had been disconnected, the show began; the first work performed was 'Fantasia for Carillon,' by G. Nees, and this was followed by 'La Golondrina.' As we sat there listening and admiring the view, we very soon forgot that we were listening to bells at all, and we had the sensation that we were really listening to a piano or an organ. Next followed a suite from Phaeton in four movements, and then 'Hymn to the Sun' from Le Coq d'Or, by Rimsky Korsakoff. It seemed no time at all before the lift-man arrived and we were taken up to the carillon itself. Once there, we were able to sit just behind the keyboard and see what was going on. What a strenuous job it is playing carillon! Far more difficult and complex than either of us had imagined. The concert continued with some Welsh folk melodies, and Allegro for Carillon and the Barcarolle from 'The Tales of Hoffman,' and finally at 10 p.m. concluded with 'O Canada' and 'God Save the Queen' played on the 'back eight.'

Having had a quick look at the bells themselves, cast by Gillett and Johnston of Croydon in 1926, it was time for us to say farewell to Bob Donnell and to depart after what had proved a very enjoyable and instructive evening. I am afraid that neither of us had very much interest in carillons before, being true English-type bellringers, but now we know of two 'Limies' who will be joining thousands of Canadians on Parliament Hill, Ottawa, on Thursday and Sunday evenings as often as they possibly can.

THE LADIES' GUILD AT DARLINGTON

Mrs. E. A. Barnett New President  ALTHOUGH the actual venue for the Annual General Meeting is suggested by the Districts concerned, the area visited is determined by a rota system which ensures that each District's members can attend at least once every three years without too long a journey. This year it was the turn of one of the most northerly Districts. and in spite of the distance, the South of England was well represented. Five towers were open during the day, and were eagerly visited by those adding new names to their lists.Incidentally, if anyone wants to know how o spend a ringing week-end without touching a bell rone. he or she should ask the Treasurer of the Ladies' Guild. Even York Minster eluded her (how were we to know that 'ringing until the usual time' meant 10.30 on Sunday morning in the North, when it always means 11 a.m. in the South?).

The Guild's service took place at St. Cuthbert's Church, conducted by Canon P. N. Wansey, who welcomed the members to Darlington.
Mrs. R. Cooke and members of the North-Eastern District had catered so lavishly for tea that in spite of the numbers present there was still plenty of food to provide parcels of sandwiches and cakes for those who had a long journey home after the meeting.

THANKS

Before the men left the hall, the President, Mrs. P. J. Staniforth, passed a hearty vote of thanks to all those who had helped with the arrangements for the meeting, mentioning especially Mrs. N. Lea, the Secretary of the North-Eastern District, and Mrs. Cooke, who had made all the local arrangements. She also thanked Canon Wansey for taking the service and for his preseence at tea, Mr. Miller (the organist), and Mr. D. Bayles, the Secretary of the Durham and Newcastle Association

Mrs. Staniforth took the chair at the business meeting which followed tea. Apologies for absence were received from Miss S. Collins and Miss K. Rivett (Beds and Northants), Miss Y. Porter and Miss M. Shepherd (Devon). Miss and Mrs. Lester and Miss H. Snowden (Eastern) Miss M. Andrews and Miss J. Barnett (Kent), Mrs. A. Richardson (Lincolnshire), Miss Foulk. Mrs. Jacques and Miss Rhodes (Midland). Mrs. H. L. Horn (North-Western). Mrs. C. Harbott (Southern). Mrs. J. King (South Wales), Mrs. and Miss Percy (Sussex), Mrs. H. Kingcott and Mrs. R. Smith (Western) and Miss L. Hughes and Mrs. Beamish (West Midland).
Two new members were elected, Mrs. M. Kinchin. of Aylestone, Leicester, and Mrs K. Darvell, of St. Albans.

Before vacating the chair. Mrs. Staniforth thanked the officers of the Guild for their help during her term of office. and regretted that she had not been able to visit all the Districts. Not only did they cover a very wide area, but it had been impossible to find enough free Saturdays! As Mrs. Staniforth had held office as President for the maximum period of three consecutive years she was not eligible for re-election.

More than one nomination had been received. and members were asked to vote by ballot rather than by show of hands. After the votes had been counted, it was announced that Mrs. O. Barrett had been elected President, and she took the chair for the remainder of the meeting. The Secretary (Miss D. Colgate), Treasurer (Miss J Beresford) and Auditor (Mrs. Slade) were reelected, and were thanked for their services during the past year.

HONORARY LIFE MEMBERS

Although the Guild will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its founding later this year, some of those who did so much for lady ringers in the early days are still giving service to-day. One of these is Mrs. A. Richardson, the well-known Secretary of the Lincolnshire District. who has represented the Guild on the Central Council for the past thirty years. This year unfortunately, she was not well and had to miss the annual meeting, and, although she had been nominated, she asked that her name should not be included in the list of Central Council representatives. She was thanked for her work by Mrs. K. Lock. and when Mrs. Barnett suggested that the Guild might honour Mrs. Richardson by making her an Honorary Life Member the idea was received with enthusiasm.

Two other members of the Guild were honoured at this meeting for the service they have rendered, Mrs. Knight, of Yatton, Somerset, who became a member in 1916, and Miss Nora Wiliams, of Bath. Both have done much for the Western Disltrict. and were made Honorary Life Members.

The Treasurer's report was well received -after all, she could report an excess of income over expenditure of $£ 248 \mathrm{~s}$. $4 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{~d}$. Does any other Guild or Association count its halfpennies so carefully? The accounts for 1962 should also show a good balance if the Treasurer takes up the offers of halfpennies from members who prefer round figures.

When the sub-committee started making arrangements for the 50th Anniversary Dinner it was felt that a maximum of 80 might he aiming rather high in view of rising costs. but eight days after the notice first appeared in 'The Ringing World' demand already exceeded supply, and after some discussion it was agreed that Mrs. Barnett should be asked to investigate the possibility of further accommodation.

IPSWICH NEXT ANNUAL

Two places had been suggested for the Annual General Meeting in 1963, Great Yarmouth and Ipswich. In view of the fact that the Central Cuuncil will be visiting Great Yarmouth, it was agreed to hold the Annual Meeting at Ipswich, on July 6th, if possible

Mrs. Staniforth and Mrs. Lock reported on their visit to Buckfast for the formation of the Devon District, which had got off to a very good start. and the Eastern District was congratulated on a successful first year
In 'The Ringing World dated September 29th, 1911, a number of arguments were put for and against lady ringers, including (1) They will do men out of their hobby, and (2) They will be given all the privileges, while the gentlemen ringers will have to 'take a back seat,' and look on. The first has proved to he without foundation-and the second? May we take this opportunity of thanking the gentlemen who always come along and support our meetings and who do, at times. 'take a back seat' so that we can have a ladies' touch. Of course, they could have had an ulterior motive at St. Cuthbert's, but we did eventually master the tenor sufficiently to ring the service touch.

Now. after a successful year in 1961. we look forward to celebrating our 50th anniversary in Octoher.

AN APPEAL FROM AFRICA

One of the founder members of the Roving Ringers, the Rev. Alan Butler, formerly of Bournemouth, is Rector of Kuruman, Cape Province, in the Diocese of Kimberley and Kuruman. With an African priest he is in charge of 17 congregations.
In a letter to the Editor he said he was convinced that he must pull down the shabby shacks used for services in past years and replace them with decent places which can he kept clean and attractive.
-The people make bricks themselves and do all the labouring for nothing; Father Mogokonyane and I move to the site for a while and help with bricklaying. I do the painting anyway, and the roof is of corrugated iron. A building can be restored for $£ 40$. In a number of places we have to go in for new buildings as whole townships are being moved under the Group Areas Act.

In making an appeal for help Mr. Butler says rightly the S.P.G. grants go for the spectacular needs in the great locations and big mining camps: the people out in the hundu have to do for themselves... My own stipend is largely absorbed in the expense of driving 1,200 miles every month, so unless we get some help the Church is just going to he left behind, hamstrung and ineffectual.'

The address of the Rev. Alan Butler is: The Rectory, Kuruman, Cape Province. South Africa. We feel certain his friends and other ringers will not let him down.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Marlborough Branch

The monthly meeting of the Marlborough Branch was held at Shalbourne on July 21 st and proved to be most successful.

Over 20 ringers attended the Guild service and many more arrived during the evening
The meeling was honoured by the presence of Mr. W. B. Kynaston, of Rodhourne Cheney, who is a prominent member of the Railway men's Guild. The many young people present was a pointer to the reviving interest in the Exercise.

Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and the Guild Office was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. L. D Blathwayt), with Mrs. Tucker at the organ for the singing of the hymns.

Afterwards a really substantial high tea was provided in the Schoolroom. the whole company being the guests of the churchwardens (Miss Mason and Mr. Walters). On behalf of the members the chairman (Mr. G. Newman) thanked them for their kindness, and also the Vicar and organist. In appreciation of the hospitality shown a collection was taken and given to church funds. A selection was given on handbells by Mr. Palmer and his team' from Aldbourne, and a touch of Grandsire was rung by Mr. Kynaston, Mr. Palmer and a visitor from Somerset.
Tower ringing was then resumed under Mr Palmer's direction and continued until 8 pm W. A. E.

KNUSTON HALL WEEK-END COURSE

KNUSTON HALL. Irchester. Northamptonshire, which is the adult Education Centre of the Northampton County Council. was the scene of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild's second week-end course. held on July 6th, 7 th and 8 th. The Hall is a large and beautiful house in an attractive setting, which is at the same time very conveniently situated in the centre of the county and diocese.

There was an attendance of about 40 students, of whom only two were not resident in the Hall for the whole week-end Every available 100 m was filled, and the improvement on last year's attendance about 70 per cent. was due mainly to a large contingent from Derbyshire, with some from Middlesex. Birmingham and Bedford. Except for two people who had never before had close contact with bells and ringers, the group consisted mainly of young ringers of a fairly wide range of competence and experience.

The four lecturers, all of whom were present for the whole course, and experts in their subjects, were Philip Gray, Stephen Ivin. Wilfrid Moreton and Paul Taylor. The arrangements were made by the Education Committee of the Central Council in the person of Wilfrid Moreton, working closely with the Warden of Knuston, Miss Edna Smith. The course assembled on Friday evening, a meal being served about 7.30. by which time nearly everyone had arrived. After supper. the first talk was given by Paul Taylor, who described and demonstrated the evolution of the bellfounder's art. This was the only formal item for Friday evening, but a great deal of talk and handbell ringing went on after.

Saturday breakfast was at 8.30 , and was followed by two simultaneous talks, one by Wilfred Moreton on "Method Construction and one on 'Composition and Proof' by Stephen Ivin. As was perhaps to be expected, the larger group felt that composition was somewhat beyond them, and opted for the less formidable sounding title. though Mr. Ivin, in dealing with his subject from the beginning, succeeded in helping his group considerably. The second morning session was devoted to a non-technical subject, though some would say that it can be equally difficult in some respects--The Function and Organisation of the Local Tower." This was expounded by Philip Gray, whose wide experience enabled him to give many valuable tips to a group which one hopes contained some future tower captains.

PRACTICAL CONDUCTING

An excellent lunch preceded Stephen Ivin's second talk. this time on 'Conducting.' This subject was covered in detail from first principles to tips on such methods as Cambridge Royal. The effect of calls on the coursing order was followed through simple touches of Bob Major with a view to putting the conducting of one of them into practice at the next session after tea. For this session the course again divided; Bose who wanted to try their hand at conJucting went to Higham Ferrers with Stephen Ivin, where they had every possible assistance in learning to check the position of the bells, a commentary being given for part of the time. The rest of the students went to Rushden with Wilfrid Moreton who. whilst seeing that everyone 'had a ring," endeavoured to see that as far as possible it was progressive ringing. He had already spent an hour or so at tied practice with nne student who was new to bells, and also demonstrated to the Dutch girls who were working at Knuston.

Dinner back at the Hall was followed by the last talk of the day, when we were again privileged to listen to Paul Taylor. who illustrated a further discourse on bells by the use of an interesting selection of slides. The trouble with having late evening lectures is that one has to stay up much later than usual to get everything in (including the pub and handbells), and some were awake until almost 3 a.m. Nevertheless, some at least were un in time on Sunday morning to be at St. Mary's. Wellingborough, or Higham Ferrers for Holy Communion at 8 o'clock! It was to be a day of work at Knuston, but first, after breakfast, a short service was conducted by the warden, preceded of course by a service touch on the handbells.

Handbells were much in evidence for the next hour, which was taken up by a talk on handbell ringing by Wilfrid Moreton, who was able to show that this branch of the art is not quite so difficult to learn as some had imagined. Numerous pairs of bells were distributed to enable the beginners to follow through Plain Bob in each position, and after a change over, those who had already done some elementary work were taken through a course of Double Court, making use of the Place-making system.

IMPROVING GUILDS

Philip Gray's talk on "The Diocesan Guild,' which followed, gave a great deal of food for thought. He traced the history of the ringing associations from the birth of the art to the contemporary scene, pointing out the failings of the Guilds in their present form and suggesting various means whereby an improvement might be brought about. A useful discussion ensued, and one hopes that eventually this seed will bear fruit.

The first period after lunch has been set apart for further instruction in any of the subjects already covered or any other subject to be asked for. In the event. Paul Taylor answered questions put from the floor on the reasons and possible remedy for oddstruck bells. Philip Gray spoke on 'Striking ' and Stephen Ivin took a small group who wanted further 'gen' on composition.
The last period took the form of a general discussion on the course and the offering of thanks to the warden and lecturers. with particular thanks to Wilfrid Moreton for the work of organisation. The beautiful weather which had lasted the week-end enabled tea to be taken in the garden before everyone dispersed.

The impression that remains is that here was a fairly large group of keen, young ringers, bent on enjoying themselves and prepared to work to learn. Here, too, was a centre beyond criticism for comfort and facility, with food and accommodation comparable to that found in an expensive hotel

REDEDICATION

ST. PETROC'S, BODMIN

The bells of St. Petroc's, Bodmin, which have been recast and rehung at a cost of about £ 3,000 , were rehallowed by the Bishop of Truro (the Rt. Rev. J. M. Key) on July 2lst.
Fifty or more ringers from the Bodmin Deanery and also from East Cornwall were present. The special order of service was heralded by boy choristers ringing handbells as they led the choir from the robing room in the tower into the church.

A passage on the symbolism of the bells, taken from 'Thoughts in Solitude,' by Thomas Merton, was read part hy two solo voices, part by two sections of the choir, and the final part by the whole choir speaking in unison.

The choir sang the Bell Carol, arranged by Sir Stewart Wilson. Afterwards the churchwardens and ringers led the Bishop from his seat to the entrance to the tower, where he rehallowed the beils and blessed both them and the ringers. A bell was chimed in token of the rehallowing.

In an address the Bishop said the bells were not to he rung so much for the enjoyment or exercise of the ringers, hut to speak Christ, the Christian Faith. the Christian Church and the Christian Way of Life.

After the service Bodmin ringers rang first, and then ringing was organised so as not to clash with the band playing at a fete inn yards away.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS  Meeting at Widecombe-in-the-Moor

A well-attended quarterly meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch was held at Widecombe-in-the-Moor on July 29th. Visitors included those as far distant as Nottingham and Sweden. The fine ring of six bells was well utilised throughout the afternoon. under the supervision of Mr. W. Simmonds (Ringing Master), the ringing including touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Plain Bob Minor. A short service was later held in church, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. J. W. E. Brown).
After tea in the Parish Hall. the usual business meeting followed, with Mrs. D. E. Hood in the chair. The secretary produced correspondence which he had received since the last meeting. One honorary member, the Vicar of Chudleigh, was elected, and also one performing member, Mr. John Good. of St. James', Teignmouth. Certificates were presented to Misses Brenda Dodridge and Phyllis Kelland, also Messrs. R. Durnford and L. J. Burton.

Next meeting (subject to permission), Buckfast Abbey on September 22nd. Another joint meeting with the South Devon Association at Dartmouth on October 27th is suggested. Further ringing took place at Buckland-in-theMoor.

HOW MEAN CAN WE GET?
Dear Sir.-From time to time evidence appears in your correspondence columns of muddled thinking and even, occasionally, inability to think.
The present example concerns the price of The Ringing World' which, incidentally, is a fraction less than that of, four cigarettes per week.
For this small sum a hard-working Editor gives the Exercise an excellent journal, providing something for all, while sight should not be lost of the work of the Editorial Committee.
Now, annual subscriptions to Associations and Guilds are purely nominal as we all know. or should know, to cover essential and unavoidable expenses such as postages, etc. All the administrative work of these bodies is done by honorary officers. They do it, presumably, for the love of it, are often visibly out of pocket and always invisibly so. Furthermore, there is no entrance fee to be paid before one may join, while the implements of our art, the hells themselves, are invariably provided by gifts from the members and friends of the churches in whose towers they hang, and from public subscription.

How different is the picture when we come to consider other fields of recreational activity
Subscriptions to pigeon-flying clubs, angling, rambling. cycling. motor-cycling, tennis and chess clubs, musical societies and the like, to mention but a few, are considerably higher and in almost every case an entrance fee is required. While the implements of the said recreation have to be provided by the participants themselves. Premises also in most cases have to be provided from the subscriptions, entrance fees, etc., while ours are there, at no cost to ourselves.

These various bodies have their own journals even as we have, and these journals probably have much larger circulations and carry far more lucrative advertising than does ours, and yet, in spite of these manifest advantages which they enjoy, their prices are not a great deal different from that of "The Ringing World. Two popular racing-pigeon journals each cost sixpence per week, and two others, possibly a little more esoteric, one shilling and sixpence each. Two on angling are sixpence and one shilling respectively, one on cycling is ninepence, rambling clubs have one at sixpence while the motor-cycling fraternity is catered for by three. each at sixpence. These must all be sufficiently supported or they would not be able to carry on, and it is highly improbable that their editorial bodies have to go cap in hand with a 'Gratefully Acknowledged' list week by week.

It may he said that I am wrong to bracket our art with other pursuits, some of which I have referred to above, and if it can be demonstrated satisfactorily I shall be willing to agree, but I do not think so. The bells are there primarily for use in the service of Almighty God. Ringing for services, the weekly practices necessary, plus Association and Guild meetings satisfy this requirement. Almost any other ringing is surely a privilege although many may tend to lose sight of the fact, and over sixty per cent. of our journal must. of necessity he devoted to the secular side of our art, whether we care to recognise it or not.

The ohvious conclusion is that ringing is one of the least costly of recreations to its devotees. Surely therefore with almost everything else for free, we should not feel the cost of approximately four cigarettes per week too much to pay for our journal. one of the major cohesive forces of our art. and yet we have examples aplenty of one copy circulating among several ringers, and ringers openly admitting that they buy the paper from newsagents because they begrudge the postage, while any suggestion from an Association or Guild that a slight increase in subscriptions may become necessary is practically guaranteed to raise a storm of protest.
HOW MEAN CAN WE GET?-Yours faithfully, BERNARD C. ASHFORD. Stourbridge.

CROFSOSWALLT IMPERIAL BOB MAJOR

With reference to the peal rung at Oswestry on July 14 th , published on page 498 of "The Ringing World' of July 27th, the correct spelling is as shown above and not as printed.

My colleagues who live in the horder town of Oswestry informed me that this was the Welsh for Oswestry, and gave me careful instructions regarding the correct spelling. I am under the impression that I supplied you with the correct details, but if this was not the case I apologise.-Yours faithfully.

CLOISTER?

Dear Sir ,-While experimenting with methods particularly suitable for handbell ringing I discovered the following:-

etc.
It will be seen that it is Stedman with all quick sixes, starting at a six-end. The six-ends are the lead-ends of a plain course of Grandsire and 1 and 2 plain hunt on the front 3 It seems to me that this method would splice successfully with Erin, and thus the splitting of the tenors in Stedman Caters and Cinques for half of each course could be avoided, as they could all be called in the same way, either quick or slow. Splicing the two methods would break up the monotony of the front work using only one of them. To avoid the usual confusion of nomenclature for new methods I suggest that this method should be called Cloister. if it has not heen discovered already.-Yours faithfully, HADLEY HUNTER

OBITUARY

THE VERY REV. M. M. GIBBS
With deep regret we report the death of the Very Rev. M. M. Gibbs, Dean of Chester, which occurred on July 27 th, at the age of 61 years.

While not a ringer, the Dean took a keen interest in the Chester Diocesan Guild and the ringing at the Cathedral. He was a vice-president of the Guild and president of the Chester Branch of the Guild.

He came to Chester in 1954 after spending 28 years in South Africa, the last six as Dean of St. George's Cathedral.

The ringers in Chester will remember his presiding over the annual Branch meetings and for entertaining the Cathedral ringers to refreshments before the ringing on New Year's Eve. After the New Year's Eve ringing he always conducted prayers for the ringers in the Cathedral, who went away with a feeling of uplift and honour that the first service in the Cathedral in the New Year had been held for them.

He will be greatly missed in the life of the city and by the ringers in Chester. We should like to extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Gibbs and her family.

DR. WILFRED MARCUS ASKWITH

By the death of the Bishop of Gloucester on July 16 th, the Diocese of Gloucester and the Gloucester and Bristol Association have suffered a great loss. In a very quiet way, often unknown to all except those close to him, he did much to help ringing and ringers. He had looked forward to attending the last annual meeting, but was prevented by sickness.

Dr. Askwith came to Gloucester from Blackburn eight years ago, after twelve years of overwork, hoping to find that demands would be lighter. He was, however, busier than ever, throwing himself whole-heartedly into the life of his diocese.

There was half-mufled ringing at the Cathedral before and after the funeral service, at which the Association was represented by a number of vice-presidents and the general secretary. The sympathy of all members is extended to Mrs. Askwith in her loss.

MISS MARGARET SNOWDON AN ARPRECIATION

With the passing of Miss Margaret Snowdon the world will, indeed. be a poorer place. She w.1s a rare character and her life was devoted to the service of others.
It has been an honour and my privilege to have known such a fine and courageous woman, and I have always admired her absolute integrity and honesty.

For my part, I have lost a very dear and wonderful friend. and she has left with me a fragrant memory which I shall retain always. May she rest in peace.

Alton and Petersfield District

About 35 members and visitors attended the quarterly meeting of the Alton and Petersfield District. held at East Meon on July 14th.
Ringing began at 2.30 p.m. on the fine ring of eight, and ranged from rounds and callchanges to Stedman Triples and Plain Bob Major. During the afternoon a cordial welcome was extended to the newly-elected Master of the Guild, Canon K. W. H. Felstead, who paid a courtesy visit. The Vicar (the Rev. S. Lawry) conducted the Guild service, at which John Clark, the local captain, played the organ.

A very substantial tea was tackled at the Institute, provided by girls from the local junior school. The Rev. J. Long, District chairman, presided at the short business meeting, at which four new members were elected-two from East Meon. A welcome was extended to Mr. "Bob" Fisher, a local ringer aged 96, who took part in several touches during the day. Mr. Fisher replied. saying that he had spent many years both in the choir and ringing the bells, and had heen glad to be able to do so. Those whose efforts had made the meeting a success were warmly thanked by the company.

Ringing continued during the evening, much useful spadework being done for the large number of young ringers present.

MR. PERCY WILLIAMS

All the officers and members of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association were sonry to read of the passing of Mr. Percy Williams, who was a devoted member for over 50 years
He joined the Association as a member of St. Nicholas' tower in 1904, and rang his first peal in 1905, this being Stedman Caters. For some time he was secretary of the old Bristol Branch, ind in 1929 was elected honorary treasurer of the Association, an office he held until 1952. Recognition of his services came with his election as a vice-president in 1948, and on retiring from the office of honorary treasurer, his election as an honorary life member

Before the Last war he was very interested in the work of the (now defunct) Bristal United Ringing Guilds, and was well known to ringers in the West of England. On retirement Mr. Williams moved to Walton Bay, mear Clivedon, and was frequently seen in the Portishead tower. For some time he cantinued his interest in ringing matters in Bristol, and his example of service to our Association should encourage many younger people.

THE REV. G. H. JAMES

A warm friend of ringers and an honorary nember of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, the Rev. Geoffrey Hamlyn James. Rector of Hitcham. died on July 15th, aged 71 .
Immediately after the funeral on July 19th a quarter peal of 1,260 Plain Bob Minor was rung half-mufiled on the bells of the Parish Church by M. Sceeny 1, Miss J. Sceeny 2, Miss M. F. Carr 3, G. W. Limmer 4. G. J. Miss M. F. Oarr ${ }^{\text {Mery }}$. Oglesby (cond.) 6.
In the evening a half-muffled peal of Minor in seven methods (including Hitcham Delight) was lost in the 5 th extent.

PORTISHEAD AND WRAXALL  OUTING, 1962

Our outing, considered the best there has been, Took place on the birthday of our dear Queen So from the towers the flags were a-streaming And our ringing was given a special meaning.

Our first call was Mark, down on the moor,
What a lovely old church it is to be sure.
A nice touch of Stedman, called by lady from Mark,
Gave the day's ringing an excellent start.
Dunster's a village for its beauty well noted,
Second best in all England 'twas recently voted.
The church is magnificent; bells are good too
Thanks, Mr. Tudball, we enjoyed being with you!

The Rector of Exford was at his church gate, 'Twas a pleasure indeed his acquaintaince to make;
For he is Master of the 'Bath and Wells,'
A very keen ringer and proud of his bells,
(If it's not true. may we be forgiven-
'Tis said he tried bells before taking the living!)
A nice handy six, bells couldn't be finer,
So we took the chance of ringing some Minor. Best use of our time here, was what we strived, Just as well, too-next.band had arrived!
On to South Molton we then made haste, A little ringing in Devon to taste.
The eight bells here are some of the best-
Our ringing was not, it must be confessed.
We stopped at Crediton to have some 'grub,' Laid on for us at Conservative Club.
'Twas like Mansion House, sat down there [feeding
Twixt Winston Churchill and Anthony Eden!
Then on to Tiverton-in this old town
Bells share with Blundell's widespread renown. To ringers (or listeners) these bells are the [' peak,"
They cannot be bettered, wherever you seek
And so for home we made our way
At the end of a most enjoyable day.
For weather, scenery, bells-there's no doubting This was the ringers' perfect outing.

University of Bristol Society's Summer Tour

DEVON. the county of hills and bells. was the area selected for this year's summer tour by the resident society on June 23 rd. The main party left Bristol by train for Torquay, but three brave souls (or were they skint?) cycled there. Eventually, the whole party, with their mounts, twelve bicycles and a tandem, assembled at St . Saviour's, Torquay, shortly after 2.30 p.m. The ringing here smacked of hangovers from the night before, but improved a little on the pleasant eight at Upton. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob Major were followed by a very good lower. At Churston Ferrers we were given a brisk introduction to Devon-style call changes by one of the local ringers. That night we stayed at Maypool Youth Hostel, which was, unfortunately, so far from a public house that only two good men could be found to make the journey. During the evening we discovered that one hosteller had chosen a most unconventional place to go to sleep, and he stayed there until 3 a.m.!

Sunday was the day of the puncture. Cupid V. was not seen all morning, and after various interesting theories had been put forward, he finally turned up complaining of flat tyre trouble. The Master-elect also spent most of the afternoon sticking rubber patches on to inner tubes. Ringing was at the two six-bell towers in Dartmouth. both well worth visiting; at St. Clement's we found that the local band were learning Plain Bob from books without an instructor, and so, after ringing a good touch of St. Clement's College Bob, we were able to provide a band for them to practise with. This was all they needed, and some very good results were achieved.

Frivolities at lunch time were curtailed

 when a pint of cider was upended over the chief nuisances, and ringing continued at St. Petrox, a fine old church lying next to Dartmouth Castle. Although we acquitted ourselves quite well here, the subsequent climb up from Kingswear over the top to Brixham must have been too much for us, as our ringing on the fine eight was decidedly below standard. After Evensong, the strength of the local cider was investigated and fairly soon discovered.
DEAD BIRDS IN ROPE GUIDES

The picturesque village of Dittisham, just across the Greenway Ferry from Maypool. was our first stop en Monday morning, and good use was made of the six bells there. Coventry Delight being among the methods rung. Then followed an ascent of 400 feet inside a mile on the way to Cornworthy. and an examination of the map showed that several more steep climbs were in store that day. The organiser claimed that she did not know that the little brown bits on the map were hills, and mutiny ensued. Suggestions varied from missing out most of the towers to missing out all of them, but eventually we split into two parties, one having a difficult time ringing on the five at Rattery and the six at Harberton, where a dead bird was lodged in one of the ropeguides. and the other going to the rough six at Halwell, where the bells had not been rung since last Harvest Festival and another dead bird was found. However, the day's sorrows ware coon drowned in the 'Colt Inn ' at Dartington.

An early start was made next morning, and a brisk ride took us to Dean Prior, yet another 12 cwt . six, but better than most.

The eight at Buckfastleigh we found difficult at first, but we eventually settled down and rang two reasonable touches of Stedman. Throughout the week we were fascinated by the enthusiastic way in which each local band displayed all the certificates they had won in ringing festivals, and the band at Broadhempston. our next tower, had quite a reputation and several 'firsts' to their credit.

After ringing there for a time, we began to realise why: it takes a good band to handle these bells well. Ringing that day was concluded at Staverton. a 21 cwt. six. Like most of the bells we had visited, these also had very long rope-ends and low sallies, and this made the tenor particularly difficult to handle: kneeling to ring it was one solution adopted.

We got off to a good start the following morning on the pleasant ring of six at Dartington, where the first attempt of the tour at London Surprise was successful. The rest of the day's bells were a mixed bag. Ringing on the minor five at Littlehempston was indifferent as well as unmusical, but on the beautifully behaved eight at Berry Pomeroy some of the best ringing of the tour was achieved. Where is he that counted the towers?' asked the prophet Isaiah (xxxiii. 18); we had five of them in our party, and they left to ring a quarter peal on the five bells at Collaton St. Mary. The rest of us had a lazy afternoon in Totnes, an incredibly difficult town to get into, before rnging on the fine Gillett eight there in the evening. By a lucky chance we had discovered a set of handbells in the cottage opposite the Youth Hostel at Lownard, and by permission of the owners they were put to good use. Grandsire Triples and Plain Bob Major were rung, and were struck surprisingly well.

ON DARTMOOR

The Master and his successor were quite good at arriving on time. when they were to take charge at a particular tower, but less keen when it was the other's job; and this was demonstrated on Thursday morning. Hard riding to the eights at Ippleen. Highweek and Bovery Tracey made for tired ringing in our standard repertoire of Triples methods; a broken rope at the last tower, where a long draught had been a handicap. put an early stop to our efforts, and with low spirits and heavy bicycles we started the ascent of a limb of Dartmoor. Crampons might have been more use than wheels. but we eventually made the top. and Christow was reached after a glorious ride down the other side. The ringer who met us there claimed that they were the best six in Devon, but we weren't sure; they were very good. but the treble appeared to have a mind of its own. Well-struck courses of Double Bob and Fulbeck were brought round, and striking was generally of a high standard. After an evening watching TV in the local pub, there was a mad sprint to Dunsford Hostel to gain the precious possession of a top bunk, but we need not have bothered: we were the sole occupants. and there were enough top bunks for everyone. Hot water and electricity were unknown here, and each dormitory was granted one candle for lighting!
The last full day of the tour. Friday, turned out to be, one of the best. The weather was still fine, and some of the best bells of the week were on the programme. Aftr ringing at Dunsford, not the sort of six that one remembers as exceptional, we made our way into Exeter via Ide. On the easy-going six there was a touch of eight Spliced Minor methods rung. In Exeter itself we rang first at St. Mark's, a good light eight, where St. Clement's Triples was added to the list of methods rung. Call changes were our cautious start at St. Michael's. Heavitree, but they proved to be very rewarding; and a long touch of Grandsire produced quite encouraging results.

THE LAST NIGHT

After the magnificence of Heavitree, our next tower was bound to be an anti-climax. but we were not to be disappointed. The new bells at Clyst St. George, cast by Mears and Stainbank in 1953, constitute the perfect light ring of six, and we took the opportunity to ring several touches of Surprise, including London. Being the last night, it was speech night in the pub after supper, and although several jugs of cider did not make the speakers any more coherent, last year's committee were given a good send-off. After a brief ring at Topsham next morning, where our 'last fling,' an attempted touch of ten Spliced Minor, was a miserable failure, the party split up; eight of us then cycled slowly back to Bristol, taking four days over the journey and losing two peals. and gaining seven quarter peals on the way. It was a joy to return to the much more impressive architecture of the Somerset towers, and we remember especially the magnificent sixes at West Huntspill. where Brian Wylde joined us for the afternoon and Axbridge.

Most of the ringing during the week had been in the basic standard methods, and was none the worse for that. At first the sun and the sight of bare knees must have been too much, as the striking was poor; but we were pleased to note that the standard of ringing improved greatly as the week wént on (the reverse of what usually happens on our summer tours), and on the last two days and in the subsequent quarter peals was really quite good.
We are very grateful to all incumbents for permission to ring their bells, to all the tower captains and ringers who met us and rang with us, and to our Secretary for arranging such an excellent tour.
A. R. K.

THE GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Farnham District

Of the 1962 programme, three meetings and three evening practices have now been held Attendances at meetings has been between 4i) and 50 , and at practices approximately 20.

The first meeting of the season was fittingly held at Puttenham, the tower having recently iransferred from the Guildford to the Farnham District. The service was conducted by the Rector of Seale, the Rev. E. A. Gardiner, who gave a sermon on aspects of the use of bells. A nice touch at the tea tables was the use of bell-shaped labels for the many varieties of sandwiches. At the business meeting the Guild Master, Mr. D. A. R. May, raised the question of the appeal for Melbourne Cathedral bells. It was agreed that the District would contribute, the amount to be decided in conjunction with the other Districts of the Guild.
The other meetings were at Ash and Pir bright, and at all three ringing ranged from rounds to Surprise methods. The same was true of the practices at Worplesdon, Farnborough and Seale. In fact, at the first-named the attendance, though small, was of such a calibre that Surprise ringing was almost the order of the day

THE DISTRICT OUTING

The annual District outing this year was to Brighton, and was once again blessed with good weather, although the standard we have become accustomed to was not reached. Despite a little confusion over picking-up points, all 50 ringers and friends (aged from 10 months upwards) were duly accommodated on the coach and minibus, and we reached our first stop, Warnham, on time. The ringing here concluded with 3 course of Cambridge Surprise Major, which eventually proved to be the highlight of the day.

Traffic congestion in Horsham was very marked. and we progressed in a series of fits and starts. It was a great relieí when we left the main stream of traffic and proceeded to Cowfold, which we reached approximately half an hour behind schedule, to find one of the ringers still patiently waiting for us. Here the light bells and longish draught were a little troublesome to the real novices.

The afternoon in Brighton was free for all to do as they wished, and after the strictures from our drivers on the difficulties of coaches in picking-up their passengers along the promenade, everyone was at the meeting point in good time for the return journey.
Our first call on the way was at Lower Beeding, which we reached in time to hear the very fine chime on the nine bells. The peal boards here bore testimony to the ringing of long lengths of Kent Treble Bob Major. Our last tower was Rudgewick, with its anti-clockwise six. This created no difficulty as there is a similar ring in the Farnham district. There had been a wedding at the church earlier in the day, and it was really beautifully decorated.

The 'local' was conveniently close at hand; this eliminating the necessity for a further stop. Thus ended a very pleasant day. in which acquaintances with new bells (and dare 1 add. belles) was struck. Our thanks are due to the incumbents and to those ringers who so kindly met us at. each church.

SWINDON, WILTS.-On July 22nd, at St. Mark's Church, 1,260 Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles: Miss M. Cox (first quarter) 1, T. R. Collins (cond.) 2. R. Sweet (first "inside') 3, A. T. Collins 4, M. J. Stanley 5, W. R. Pearce 6. For Evensong.

TAUNTON SCHOOL COMMEMORATION

On July 25th, Taunton School departed from the practice of previous years and held its annual commemoration service at the Parish Church of St. Mary, Taunton. To mark the occasion the bells were rung by members of the School Ringers" Society. Rounds were rung on the front eight and a middle six were rung to plain courses of Grandsire Doubles. These bells, with their long draught, are difficult for beginners, and our thanks go to Mr. W. H. Tarr for his help and tolerance in recent weeks.
The Society was formed about 18 months ago as a result of a talk given by a member of the staff, Mr. N. J. Maggs, to the School Scientific Society. Since then, with assistance from Mr. A. H. Reed and members of the local band, the school has practised at Staplegrove Parish Church.

Whilst the range of methods possible in such a Society is likely to remain small, the interest created has already begun to benefit parishes and universities far from Taunton. In the town itself the sight of nearly a thousand people congregating to the ringing of bells caused more than one bystander to wonder who was the important visitor.

STOURBRIDGE GRAMMAR SCHOOL SOCIETY

Five towers in the Vale of Evesham were visited by the Stourbridge Grammar School Society for their second annual outing on July 10th. The highlight was the Evesham bell tower, where the Society was met by Geoff and Gerald Hemming. With assistance, rounds were rung on the magnificent Taylor 12, and also Grandsire Caters and a touch of Lincolnshire Surprise Major on the back eight.

After lunch at Evesham, London and Cambridge Minor and also Plain Bob were rung at Middle Littleton, and Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Cambridge Major and Plain Bob Major on the light eight at Bretforton. Tea was taken in Mickleton, and ringing on the recently-restored octave followed. The last tower was the restored eight at Feckenham. M. D. F.

Gosfield, Essex, have launched an appeal for $£ 1,750$ to provide a new bell frame, have three bells restored and retuned and three new bells cast to provide the village with a ring of six. One of the present bells is dated 1420 (by Thomas Potter, Norwich), and the others 1637 (by Miles Graye) and 1704 (by Henry Pleasant).

A Droitwich ringer's excuse for not learning her Bob Doubles: "The dog ate the skeleton course!'

Most people arrange their tours because of the attractiveness of the bells. We have received a report from a Midland tower in which the organiser states he chose the nine most unusual names in Herefordshire!

Miss Jean Barnett trapped her fingers in a window when the sash broke and has a badlybruised hand. Her friends hope that she will be able to ring in her 'farewell' quarter being arranged at Crayford before she leaves for her new appointment at Exeter on August 12th.

A regular tyro peal was rung at Peasemore, Berks on July 27th. For four of the band it was their first peal and for the other two their first on six bells. Behind the achievement there must have been some first-class spadework, and the acknowledgnent to Ian Munro might possibly be a clue.
At the Gloucester and Bristol ringing course on September 7th to 9th, Mr. A. York-Bramble will speak on 'Teaching of bell handling and control' and also on "Method structure in change production.' Mr. B. D. Price's subjects will be "Elementary applications of row relations' (elementary) and 'General principles of composition' (advanced course). Details are advertised in this issue.
A correspondent informs is that the four bells at Naburn, near York. could be rung again if new ropes were provided and one or two fittings to the stays or sliders carried out. Wadworth. near Doncaster, has a ring of four. according to the Sheffield Diocesan Year Book, but an inspection revealed only three old ropes, the second bell being ropeless.

BELERY GOSSIP

Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, Cathedral bells were dedicated last November. Mr. C. Stevenson informs us that a band has been built up with a nucleus of three experienced ringers. Bob Minor and Grandsire Triples have been rung in the lower, and Bob Major and Grandsire Caters 'in hand.' People visiting or emigrating to the Federation will be welcomed at practices on Wednesday evenings.
Mr. Robin G. Leale's peal tour started on August 4th. During the week peal attempts in seven Scottish towers and three in England were arranged.

As the result of a Ringers' Sunday and a corporate Communion for ringers, Weston Favell, Northampton, have secured ten recruits (seven girls, three boys).

An innovation at the annual dinner of the Worcestershire and Districts Association on October 13 th will be dancing to suit all tastes, in addition to the usual entertainment.

The conductor of the peal of Grandsire Triples at Worsley on July 2nd (see page 497) informs us that the name of the second ringer was J. Michael Lomax and not as submitted.

When the South Wales District of the Ladies' Guild held a meeting at Llangatock on July 14th, the Lord Lieutenant of Brecon, Sir William Parker, acted as organist.

A fete held in the gardens of Oakley House, Oakley, near Eye, Suffolk, yielded a profit of 1107. It enabled the outstanding debt on the restored bells of St. Nicholas' Church, Oakley, to be cleared.

Hoxne, Suffolk, Over-60 Club recently had an enjoyable outing, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Last. When the Mayor of Beccles welcomed the club at tea, the club's handbell ringers rang in honour of the visit.

A Ringers' Sunday was observed at Holy Trinity, Guildford, on July 28th, with special references to ringing at the 10 a.m. Family Communion and Evensong. At the morning service the tower secretary, Mr. S. G. Ponting, read the Epistle.

SOME OF THE OUTINGS

PUTNEY
The popularity of the week-end outing held last year led to a similar two-day tour in Derbyshire on June 30th and July 1st.

The parties of Putney ringers and friends set out on Friday, June 29th for Derbyshire, six by car and eleven by minibus, arriving within half an hour of each other at the hotel base in Derby itself.
Setting off early on Saturday morning the first call was at Duffield, where we were joined by friends from Nottingham. The ten were struck to Bob Royal, Kent Royal. Stedman Caters and touches of Stedman Triples and, of coruse, Duffield Major. Belper was next and here Plain Bab, Stedman, Cambridge and Double Norwich were successfully jung.
Some steep inclines were encountered on trking the back road into Matlock to ring at St. Giles' Church, where Yorkshire was added :n the methods already rung. It was a where a welcome dinner was awaiting us. The long draught and springy ropes at the parish church. however, did not aid the ringing, but some fair Cambridge and St. Clement's were rung on this fine eight.
Going on to Sudhury, the roughest ring of the week-end. and for once most were satisfied with one ring. A short run brought us to Hoar Cross. where, for a while, there was great despondency as the tower was locked The Vicar was eventually found, and the magnificent six were rung to Oxford, Cambridge and London
Burton was our next stop and, after having eaten again, we ascended to the ringing chamber of St. Paul's Church. where Grandsire Caters, Plain Bob Royal. Kent Royal and Plain Bob and Double Norwich Major were well struck.
A last ring at Derby St. Peter's finished off our day with more Yorkshire, Cambridge and Stedman before our ovening meal at the hotel.

On Sunday morning the more energetic attended early Communion ait the Cathedral and, as a result, added another tower. Having had an early breakfast and hearing ringing nearby. four of the early risers rushed out and grabbed' St. Andrew's tower.
Eventually, all were ready and we set off for Nottingham, where we rang at St. Mary's Church for Matins. The beautiful ten went well for Grandsire and Stedman Caters, and was thought by many to be the best ring of the week-end.
A well served lunch at the 'George, Oakham, was followed by ringing at Uppingham, where the eight sounded out to the standard methods again. At Market Harborough. Major was the order of the day. with Plain Bob, Yorkshire, Cambridge, Double Norwich and only Stedman broke the sequence of turning-in. The last ring of the day was at Kettering. where the ten went well to Stedman Caters and Kent Royal rung for Evensong.
We should like to thank all incumbents and local ringers for the good time we had C.F.M

MAULDEN, BEDS

A very satisfactory feature of the Maulden ringers annual outing on June 23 rd to South East Essex. was the high standard of ringing thus providing a truly memorable day.
An early start enabled us to reach the heautiful Church of St. Mary. Ardleigh, a little in advance of schedule. and the presence in the party of Mr. J. Edwards. who is familiar with this part of the country. resulted in the schedule being maintained all day.
Ardleigh's fine ring of eight were kept busy for 45 minutes, after which a short run church impressed everyone. as did the magnificent ring of six helis. Next came St. Michael's. Thorpe-le-Soken. where. after ringing. lunch was taken.
Amply refreshed, we enjoyed further ringing on the fine octaves at Kirby-le-Soken. Gt, Holland and Gt. Bentley. After tea. ringing took place at Thorington and St. Peter's, Cnichester, a very fine eight.
The thanks of all are accorded to the incumbents of churches where we rang, to the local. ringers who gave us suich a hearty welcome, and to our organiser. Ron Sharp. for his excellent arrangements.

ST. MARGARET'S. RAINHAM, KENT

It was a bright and beautiful day on July 7th for the annual outing of St. Margaret's, Rainham, ringers, when they were joined by local friends from Frindsbury, Sittingbourne Stockbury, Tunstall and Queenborough; and honoured by the presence of the Rochester Branch honorary secretary, Mr. T. Barton.
A well arranged coach tour was carried out passing through attractive scenery and picturesque towns and villages in Kent and Sussex, stops being made for ringing in five owers
The first call was made at that legendary tower of St. Mildred's. Tenterden, standing 422 feet above sea level. Miss Relf kindly welcomed the party, and merry touches were soon pealing out over the streets, where William Caxton (of printing fame) no doubt walked 500 years ago. The eight bells are reputed to be the best ring in Kent, Surrey and Sussex, with a tenor of good tone and weighing 30 Be
Before resuming the journey into Sussex a pause for refreshment was made and then the party proceded to Hastings for a call at All Saints', where Mr. S. F. Buckland made the ringers welcome. The church, situated on the hillside, is approached by steps and terraces. but was well worth the clintb to this very spacious tower. with its eight bells (tenor $12 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.). Ringing in standards methods took place and Kent T.B. Major was particularly well struck

After lunch the journey was continued through some low-lying country of the Pevensey Levels until Willingdon was reached. The Church of St. Mary in this village has a pleasing ring of six (tenor 10 cwt .) and is a favourite venue for ringing visitors from Eastbourne. Mr. R. W. R. Percy and family greeted the party and touches of Doubles and Minor were soon giving cheery sound for the visitors to the local fete
The next church was St. Leonard's, Seaford, with archaeological evidence of its existence in the 12th century. The bells (of later date) are eight in number. with a tenor of $13 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$., and went very well in some well struck touches of Stedman. Mr. Wood, the local tower keener, who greeted the party on arrival. is to be cungratulated on the condition of the tower. staircase and bells
A break for tea at Berwick. and then the last tower, St. Denys', Rotherficld. with its well-tuned octave (tenor $23!\mathrm{cwt)}$. . The ringing chamber is at ground floor level, with a lofty draught for the ropes. but provided with intermediate guide rings. Local residents were heard to comment on how well the sound of the bells impressed them. They certainly were of a very pleasing tone.
In the absence of Mr. Morris the welcoming honours were done by the captain, who had seen that the hells were raised for the benefit of the visitors.

The return journey was made very cheerful with community singing. 'Uncle Tom' Denis providing a song book and instrumental assistance. and the honorary secretary was in good voice. Thanks are due to all those who contributed to the success of the outing.

A DEVON OUTING

A number of members of the Devon Guild held an enjoyahle half-day outing in the Newton Abbot area on July 21st. when towers visited were Littlehempston. East Ogwell, Denbury and Lpplepen. The ringing at the last named tower was very much enjoyed and the methods rung thoughout the afternoon were Grandsire. Stedman and Plain Bob Doubles, and Plain Boh Minor.

LATE NEWS

The attempt to ring the extent of Plain Bob Major at Loughborough Bell Foundry on August 4th had to be shortened to 18.928 changes: which was accomplished in 9 hours 13 minutes. The band consisted of Brian J Woodruffe 1. John M Jelley 2. Neil Bennett 3, Patrick I. Chapman 4, Bernard F. L. Grove; 5. H. Peter Whitehead 6, Derek Ogden 7.

NEWS FROM AMERICA

MUSIC MINISTRY

This is published monthly by The Graded Press. 201, Eighth Avenue South, Nashville, Tennessee, and the July issue features the use of handbells in church music.
Some of the information already given in her book. 'The Art of Handbell Ringing,' by Nancy Poore Tufts, is reprinted. This is a practical, elementary article, and very lucidly written. Federal Lee Whittlesey' writes on 'Organizing your handbell choir.' Among the expected facts on the selection and preparation of bells, music and ringers, is the interesting statement: ' It is estimated that there are about 400 sets of handhells in use in this country [U.S.A.] by community, church or coilege organisations.

There are quite a few photographs: in all of them the ringers are rohed (similarly to singers in this country), and in the texts the ringers are referred to as choir members rather than as ringers. The 15 pieces of music reviewed are divided into two categories-for choirs. and handbells, and music for handbells alone., Eight of the nine items in the first group are for Christmastide.

A music folio is inserted. This includes an anthem for unison treble voices and 17 handbells: 'Hear the bells of Christmas." written by Mr, F. L. Whittlesey, and two carol arrangements, "Away in a manger," to the Lutheran tune arranged by Saxe Adams and Susan York, which requires an assortment of 12 handbells. and 'He is born the child divine' (ll est ne le divin Enfant) for 16 bells.

OVERTONES; MAY, 1962

There will be an electronic carillon of over 500 bell tones at the Seattle World Fair. It is the largest of its kind in the world and will be heard over the fair grounds and a good part of Seattle. Members of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers will be playing it, and on every Saturday evening there will be a handbell teaching and demonstration period in the Christian Pavilion.
Dorothy Youngman is featured in this issue : her biography and two of her arrangements of hymn tunes (Easter Hymn and Madrid) are There are announcements of ringing festivals and various news items, including one about the Groton half-peal. "The New York Times reporter wrote that hellringing fans say that ringing a half-peal gives the performers something of the satisfaction of running a mile in less than four minutes while simultaneously playing through a Bach fugue without a slip. Mrs. Tufts has recorded another T.V. programme about bells, which will be shown to 100,000 school-children in four States.
Dorothy Hartshorn will be visiting England in the summer. . . T The vibrations set up by the bells being rung at a festival held in the First Methodist Church in Tulsa peeled the acoustical insulation from the church ceiling. Fortunately a new ceiling had been planned. and the pastor was even grateful to the ringers for helping to remove the old one

THE LADIES' GUILD  Meeting at Bromley

A meeting of the Kent Branch and Central District was held at Bromley on June 30th. Ringing in the afternoon being at St. Luke's. Bromley Common, and after tea at the Parish Church. About 20 ladies attended the short joint meeting held after service and tea, when Mrs. Mitchell welcomed the Central District. Mrs. Lock replied on their hehalf and extended an invitation to the Kent Branch to visit the Central on the same Saturday next year, which was unanimously accepted
A well-struck touch of Grandsire Triples was rung by eight ladies who felt they qualified to be called veterans as they were all ringing hefore the war! They were: Mrs. Sanders 1. Mrs. Davis 2. Mrs. Mitchell 3. Miss Prockson 4, Mrs. Collins 5. Mrs. Bagworth 6. Mrs. Lock (conductor) 7. Mrs, Fardon 8.

The thanks of all were extended to the incumbents and towerkeepers of both churches. and the organist, and to Miss Maria Kirby and her helpers for arranging such an excellent tea

THE PROFESSOR DISCUSSES RINGING SPEEDS

0NCE more I visited the Professor. He welcomed me in his usual effusive manner; that is to say, he grumbled at being disturbed and indulged in one or two asides about the mental age of his visitor.
We discussed various ringing matters and eventually came round to the speed of ringing.
' Most ringing,' he said, ' is too fast nowadays. This is an age when speed has acquired an importance often at variance with its usefulness. Art should be free from this thirst for speed; requires ridding of this disease.'
' Imagine,' he continued, warming up to his subject, ' reading a report of a concert with a footnote: " Mozart's 'Jupiter' Symphony was the fastest ever played by the orchestra; or Arthur Mozzestien to a burst of tumultuous applause polished off Chopin's 'minute' waltz in half a minute!"
'What,' I enquired, ' determines the speed at which a peal of bells should be rung?'
'There are several factors, one of which is the weight of the bells. Other things being equal, it may be accepted that the heavier the bells are the slower the ringing will be.'
' Of course,' I said, rather contemptuously.
'Why " of course "?' asked the Professor. 'Why does a heavy bell ring more slowly than a light one? The weight of a pendulum makes no difference to the rate of the swing!'

' But,' I objected, 'a bell isn't a pendulum.'

'Besides,' I went on triumphantly, 'the heavier a bell is the longer it will be, and that will affect the time of the revolution.'
' So that in order to increase the rate of striking, artificially,' he continued, 'ringers cut down the length of the stroke; in other words the bell, either by checking it or reducing the force applied at the beginning of the stroke, or by a combination of both these methods, is not allowed to reach its point of balance.'
'There is often no question of "holding up" the bell since it has not seached its point of balance, and ringing becomes a matter of skilful assessment of weight application on one stroke so that the minimum amount of "checking" on the next will be necessary. At the same time the weight applied when checking must be nicely calculated with the next stroke in mind. ${ }^{\circ}$

If a bell is brought too low a point will be reached which I call the P.N.C. (the Point of No Control), below which it becomes impossible to ring the bell in changes, although it could still be kept on a regular beat when rising or falling.'
' It doesn't really matter then,' I said, remembering recent correspondence in the " R.W.," ' whether the tenor or the light bells make the speed?'

- I never said that! In order to settle this question, let us remember that, owing to the smaller revolution of the lighter bells, they will reach a higher point of balance than a heavy bell striking at the same rate: The greater the difference in weight the more noticeable will this be.'
' Doesn't the tucking up of a bell into the headstock,' I blurted out as an idea suddenly struck me, 'tend to reduce the curning circle and therefore increase the speed?'
' One might be excused for thinking so, but the situation is not materially affected, so this manœeuvre brings the centre of gravity of the bell and headstock nearer the point of balance and therefore reduces the turning moment. If you can visualise the centre of gravity in line with the centre of the bearings there would be no movement of the bell apart from that created by the purely physical force exerted by the ringer.'
Now, the Professor knows that when he starts talking about 'centres of gravity' and 'turning moments' I am out of my depth and in no position to argue with him. Hiding my chagrin, I said:

You didn't answer my query about who (or is it whom?) should set the speed of the bells, the tenor ringer or the light end ringers.'
' You never gave me the chance! However, when you come to think about it the question answers itself. It should be evident that as the speed of ringing increases, the P.N.C. is reached sooner with a heavy than a light bell. As the light end ringer is in no position to judge whether the critical phase has been reached by the tenor ringer (apart from observational guesswork or verbal information supplied by the tenor ringer himself), the speed at the rapid end of the scale must be left to the heavy bell man.'
'And at the other end of the scale?'
' Well, a tenor ringer who rings too slowly could make it uncomfortable (but not impossible) for the light end ringers, particularly as the number of bells increase. Provided he doesn't overdo it, however, I think the wisest plan is to leave the choice of speed to the tenor man.'
And with that I had to be satisfied.

RINGING IN HOLLAND

WHEN Martin Thorley returned to his native Yorkshire at the end of July he left an 'association which has rung together on Monday evenings for three successive winters. Their most noteworthy achievement was ringing through the alphabet to Surprise Major, thus adding a number of new methods to the records of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.
No doubt the names of the members of the band will be familiar to any diligent reader of 'The Ringing World, for the "eports of these peals rung in South Lincolnshire-geographically Holland, but ecclesiastically the East Elloe Deaneries-have been regularly published.

George Dawson, of Bicker. rings the treble, not bcause it is the limit of his capabilities by any means, but he enjoys and appreciates a wellstruck peal from this bell. When the season and weather conspire to keep him busy in his work of agricultural engineering, then a substitute has to be found. To his delight, his schoolgirl daughter is making good progress in the art of bellringing.
Stanley E. Bennett, the 'grandfather in the band, is one of the mainstays of Spalding tower, where his loyal services and unsung work as steeplekeeper are a fine example to all. By his long membership of the Lincoln Guild he has maintained a tradition of ringing in his family. Unfortunately work and domestic commitments forced his son Maurice to forego the pleasures of ringing in this fraternity.
J. E. Allen, of the Donnington band. prefers to ring around the light end. and his imperturbability during peals is a lesson to all. Jack is on the staff of the Secondary School at Donnington, the old pupils of which have provided a company to ring a peal, which is quite an accomplishment.
It was E. T. Chapman who chose and distributed the copies of the methods. obtaining many of the compositions from C. J Sedgeley, a fellow Suffolk man. Ted is also a teacher, and he moved to Spalding three years ago from Lowestoft, where he had achieved 'fame, or perhaps notoriety. in a Guild report as being 'go anywhere Ted.'
T. Martin Thorley is another school teacher, and whilst he was training in Birmingham rang a great deal with the peal ringers there. During his three-year stay in Lincolnshire he has been a member of Gosberton. and latterly Pinchbeck companies. He has also accomplished many peals of Minor during this time, enabling some youngsters to ring their first peals.
There is yet another teacher in the band, Alan Leggatt, who is on the same staff as Ted Chapman. He came originally from Cambridgeshire, though he moved to Spalding from Baldock three years ago. Whilst at Baldock he had the opportunity for a considerable amount of ringing with some well-known Hertfordshire ringers.

Ronald C. Noon and Cyril R. Burrell are generally to be found at the 'back end," where they will. no doubt. excel.
Prior to moving to Spalding on marriage ten years ago. Ron was the secretary of the Peterborough Guild. He is the very able and efficient conductor of this band. In the belfry (and out of it) he is a man of few words!

A Lancashire Tower

ST. MICHAEL'S AND ALL ANGELS', Ashton-under-Lyne.

50 Years Ago

' R.W.' August 16th, 1912.--
It is growing increasingly difficult, even in the realms of change ringing, to do anything new. The great performances of the past have been such that those who set out to beat them are confronted with formidable tasks, and if records are to be made nowadays they have to be more of a local or individual nature than of a general or collective character. We chronicle this week. however. an interesting 'first.' namely the first elerical peal on handbells. This had been placed to the credit of the Cambridge University Guild, and was a peal of Grandsire Caters. It was followed the next day by the first clerical peal of Major 'in hand,' this being a peal of Double Norwich, and the parsons who took part are to be congratulated-

Ringing these peals has provided Cyril Burrell with the chance of ringing Surprise Major, which had not come his way before. He had rung a great deal of multi-method Minor at his old home tower of Algakirk. and he was pleased to be able to extend' his repertoire. He has been 'standing-in' at Pinchbeck while the captain. Ray Withyman. has heen at Cambridge University.
Recently, the hand has been fortunate to number Squadron Leader George Massey, of R.A.F., Wittering, among the company. As many will know, he is a West Country ringer of considerable merit.

Everyone is grateful to the clergy for their permission to use their bells. to the car owners for the use of the vehicles on the many journeys involved, and to Frank Taylor, Jack Ames and Mrs. E. T. Chapman, who have filled gaps at short notice.

CAMPANELLA.

With a History

TTHE Church of St. Michael's and All Angels. Ashton-under-Lyne, is the successor to one of Saxon origin dedicated to St. Helen. The great west window is known as St. Helen's window, and is believed to contain much of the original glass of that period.
The churchwardens' accounts for 1512 show moneys paid to Robert Melliur, of Nottingham. son of Mellors. bellfounders of that town, for work done to ye greate bell.
A church inventory of 1552 states that there were four bells in the steeple, and in 1679 the number was increased to six. A report of a Vestry meeting in 1750 reveals a desire to recast the six bells. and in 1779 a new ring of eight were ordered from Rudhall. The new ring was augmented in 1790 by the addition of two further bells. These two trebles could not have been very satisfactory, as in 1818 they were recast by Mears. In 1888 two further trebles were added to make a ring of 12 .

Modern work of restoration includes that of 1927. when the ring was retuned and rehung in an entirely new frame with a sharp second added to make a light octave. Previously, in 1914, the tenor was rehung with new fittings and the frame strengthened prior to the 14,000 treble ten peal on April 13th, 1914. In 1927 Mears carried out a complete restoration.

TOWER REBUILDINGS

The tower itself has an interesting history. In his will dated July 20 th . 1514. Sir Thomas de Asheton left money to build a new steeple to replace the Middle Ages tower known as the Tudor Tower, which had partly fallen down. This was duly erected, but in 1817. just 27 years after the augmentation to ten, the tower had to be pulled down and a new one was built, which was dedicated on December Ilth. 1818.

In 1886 this tower was found to be too weak. and a further tower was built some 19 feet higher and two feet wider than the previous tower. This tower-the present one -was dedicated on November 1st. 1888. It is reputed that the frame put into this new tower was made locally and was not really strong enough, but the 12.240 treble 12 record was rung on the bells in this frame in 1911.

NOTABLE PEALS

The first recorded peal was Grandsire Triples, on August 17th, 1782, and was believed to be the first peal in Lancashire. The first 10 -bell peal was Grandsire Caters on Septemter 9th, 1811, and the first of Royal on March 2nd, 1823. All these peals were rung by the local hand. Kent Trehle Boh Royal was rung in Octoher. 1840, with assistance from the Oldham Ringers, the first local peal in the method being in 1846 . The first 12-bell peal-Grandsire Cinques-was rung by the local band in 1890. Kent Maximus in July, 1890, and Stedman Caters in September, 1891.

It was at Ashton on August 5th. 1929, that the 15.312 of Cambridge Maximus was rung. Other long rings include 12.240 Kent Maximus on April 17th. 1911, and 14.000 Kent Roy-1 on April 13th, 1914.

HUNTS DISTRICT SECRETARY MARRIED

I
I'Wo members of the All Saints', Huntingdon, band of ringers were married at St. Andrew's Church, Chesterton. Cambridge, on July 28th. They were Miss Mary Rabertson. ths only daughter of Mr. J. A. Robertson, of Cambridge, and of the late Mrs. S. G. Robertson. and Mr. Michael Dyer, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. E. Dyer, of Huntingdon, who is also the Hunts District secretary.
The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. B. R. Buchanan, and at the organ was Mr. H. Dew, of Huntingdon. The music for the service was Handel's Water Music. Trumpet Tune (Purcell) and Mendelssohn's Wedding March Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of ivory Dutch satin, with pill hox headdress trimmed with pearls and carried a bouquet of red roses and red carnations trimmed with green fern.
The two bridesmaids, Miss Jean Bushby and Miss Marie Hasleden, both friends of the bride, who wore full-length dresses of salmon pink brocade, carried bouquets of apricot chrysanthemums with green fern. Mr. S. Dyer, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Mr. I. W. Robertson, and Mr. J. IC. Robentson, the ibride's brothers, were the ushers.
The bells of Chesterton tower were rung by friends as the happy couple left the church. The reception was held at the Milton Arms Hotel, and the honeymoon at Bournemouth. the bride travelling in a navy blue Jersey suit with white and navy accessories.
Their future home is in Huntingdon, where the bridegroom is a clerk on the staff of the Rural Council.

CITY OF LONDON FESTIVAL

The City of London went unusually gay last month: flags appeared everywhere, Lime Street was turned into a fairground, an ox was roasted outside $\mathbb{S t}$. Paul's, while each evening there ware plays and concerts in the many churches and Livery Halls. This was the firsi City of London Festival, and it was felt that there should be special ringing to mark the occasion.
On the opening day, July 7th, the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral were rung before the opening service in the Cathedral, and after this service the new Bow Bells rang out over Cheapside. On each Thursday of the festival a special quarter peal was rung at S.. Michael's. Cornhill. On July 12th, 1,056 Cambridge Surprise Maximus was rung by R. Overington 1. James Phillips 2, W. T. Cook 3. A. N. Stubbs 4, J. Waugh 5 , B. J. Downes 6. R. B. Meadows 7, John Phillips 8. M. V. Chilcott 9. J. H. Crampion 10, M. P. Moreton 11. W. Williams (cond.) 12. On July 19th. 1.294 Stedman Caters was rung by J. Chilcott (cond.) 1. James Phillips 2, John Phillips 3, A. N. Stubbs 4. J. D. Rock' 5. W. T. Cook 6 , J. A. G. Prior 7. M. V. Chilcott 8. J. H. Crampion 9, J. Waugh 10

OUTINGS

ST. PETER-DE-WITTON

On July 7th, 13 ringers crowded into a decorator's van and set off at an early hour from Droitwich to begin the St. Peter-de-Witton summer outing.
The first stop was at Stretton Grandison, where Cambridge was rung on the fine Taylor six. Weston Beggard Church, with fine-toned Rudhall five, was discovered in a farmyard. These bells are hung in an old wooden frame which did not seem particularly solid.
Bats were encountered by one young lady at Little Dewchurch. Her estimate of hundreds was later reduced to two. which nobody actually saw! This pleasant five went well to Spliced Doubles, except when the tenor ringer trod on his rope after pulling off at handstroke.
On our way to Much Dewchurch, the inevitable happened-the van stopped, and all 13 ringers climbed out. The plugs were all removed and carefully cleaned before we discovered that the petrol pump was at fault. The pleasant Rudhall six at St. David's, Much Dewchurch, were enjoyed.
The main objective of the outing was realised at Abbey Dore, where time was well spent in exploring this ${ }^{12}$ th century Cistercian church. Cambridge was rung on the rough, anti-clockwise six, with its lovely Rudhall tenor.
Ewyas Harold bells are a good, light six, and were enjoyed before eating tea at Orcop. The timber tower of St. Mary's Church contains' a very mixed ring of five. The tenor is a halftone sharp, and makes the hells sound very melancholy. On inspecting the bells we found dry bearings and stays cut from the hedge.
The six in the large tower at St. Weonard's are very pleasant in spite of their odd tuning. Our last call was at the lovely church of St. Deinst, Llangarren. Here we encountered the best bells of the day, and rang a good course of Cambridge, followed by a lower in peal, when everyone heard the call 'Catch them in Queens' and did.
The organiser makes no apology for his choice of towers-he chose the nine most unusual names in Herefordshire. P.C.

HUNTS DISTRICT

On Saturday. July 7th, the annual tour of the Hunts District was held. the venue heing Warwickshire. A party of 34 (not all ringers) left in bright sunshine for the Midlands.
Travelling via Northampton and Daventry, we made our way along the A45 to Southam. Ringing commenced here at $10.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$., and for the next hour various Major methods and rounds were rung on the eight bells. Harbury. our second tower, was a 6 -bell tower,, and Surprise methods from Cambridge to London were rung, and also Plain Bob and rounds.
An excellent lunch at Warwick preceded a visit to St. Nicholas' Church (8). where a number of touches were successfully brought round on this the heaviest ring of the day.
Difficulty was experienced in finding Sherbourne. the church being on an estate and in very-well-kept surroundings. The clock pendulum occupied the centre of the ringing room. and during the hour's ringing a variety of Minor methods were rung.
At Leamington just sufficient parking space was found within the shadow of the parish church. After an excellent tea, ringing commenced at All Saints' with rounds, followed by Plain Bob, Cambridge and Stedman. At 7 oclock we left Leamington for our last tower. Whitnash (6), where the bells were raised in peal. Ringing for the day concluded here at 8.15 p.m.

We are indebted to Mr. Peacock and Mr. Oram for organising the tour. to the incumbents for allowing us to use the hells, to the Ringing Masters, and finally to the local people who welcomed us.

LETTERS  THE OXFORD GUILD MOTION

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE

ERNEST MORRIS

Dear Sir,-Now that readers of 'The Ringing World' have seen both the very scant report of the 'debate' (?) on the Oxford Guild's motion to consider the standardising of non-resident life members' fees, and the account of a report upon its fate to the Guild by one of its representatives, I am not surprised that it has ted one or two ringers to make some comments. Party politics are said to be dirty, but the way this motion was dealt with makes politics appear a clean profession.
Those of us in the Oxford Guild who sup. ported the motion-and that was the majority of a very large committee-believe sincerely that it is a rational and very desirable step, which would (among other things) have put an end to many offensive practices, and done away with an obvious injustice. Had the motion been properly presented at Cardiff, there seems little doubt that it would have gained considerable support. From 'The Ringing World 'account it appears that the proposer made out no case in support of his proposition. Mr. Perrens even remarked upon the way this is presented.' The motion was merely offered in a very negative and apologetic manner, the proposer even expressing his disapproval as a Guild treasurer! What sort of way is this to propose a motion? How is this representing an Association which has made its wishes quite clear?
A certain' gentleman' named Threlfall interposed. 'Hut you are representatives and not delegates.' Will he please explain exaotly what he meant by such an impertinent semark, and state what bearing it had on the question of whether or not consideration be given to a standard non-resident life members' fee? Did ho mean to imply that the Oxford Guild's clected representatives should decline or refuse to represent their Guild's views, clearly indicated by a majority vote taken after a proper discussion? If the representatives cannot represent the views of their Guild, then what, or whom, do they represent? They cannot represent themselves! If, as Mr. Threlfall seems to suggest, the considered decision of the rank and file of an organisation's members are to be refused a proper hearing, then where is the democracy in the Central Council's deliberations? The way this motion was handled was certainly a travesty of democracy It seems to have been decided outside the Council chamber!
I had hoped to have this shabby treatment of our Guild's motion discussed at its A.G.M when our representatives reported back. In making his report one of the representatives talked on and on at nauseating length to emphasise the ridicule and embarrassment heaped upon himself and his fellow representatives at Cardiff. through the fault of those in the Guild responsible for the motion. Nothing whatever of this appeared in the 'R.W.' report ; in fact, there seems to have been no discussion upon it at all: so what our sepresentatives had to the so terribly embarrassed about is difficult to see.
It may have heen distasteful to the proposer o sponsor a motion of which he personally disapproved, but he was only doing his duty and no-one should be ashamed of, or emharrassed by that. After the Guild's representative had delivered his long tirade at Oxford it was immediately obvious that there was both sympathy for the represencatives in their (apparenly) awkward situation, and a deep sense of dissatisfaction with the way the motion was dealk with. but the chairman. pressed for time. stifled all discussion and passed to the next husiness. despite the fact that several members stood up to express their intention of speaking. It is because of this most unsatisfactory conclusion to the matter that I have aired it in "The Ringing World, in the hope that the faots may come to light, and many dissatisfied members of the Oxford Guild, as well as 'R.W.' readers, know why the motion was rejected in the manner : was, j.e. with no-one speaking to it, and not one official opposing it either!
Is it not time something was done, when one hears of a band recently attempting a peal on Oxford Guild territory for the York shire Association (certainly not a neighbour Association) rather than pay the Guild's (comparatively) high membership fee? The Guild treasurer is losing money, which he night receive if there were not such great variations in fees. When the Oxford Guild few years ago elected a representative who would have faithfully and fearlessly spoken for is Guild. he had to resign as his firm would noi release him on Whit Tuesday, which makes sense of Mr. Scott's recent protest against holding Council meetings on that day There must be many very capable and most suitable candidates lost to the Council who would be able to attend on the Monday

Unless satisfactory explanations are forthcoming perhaps the Oxford Guild members at their autumn meeting might discuss the question of whether or not to take such a regrettable step as secession from the Central Council (which their Rules permit), although none of them would wish to subject their highly-respected Deputy Master to so great a humiliation.- Yours faithfully

UNIFIEI) LIFE SUBSCRIPTIONS

Dear Sir,-Of course Mr. James E. Burles is quite right in his assumption that the Oxford Guild motion for unified life subscriptions was rigged as I am sure many other motions are The fact that the proposal was left until last seems to confirm this. Everyone is anxious to conclude the meeting in order 10 get home, as is usual at C.C. meetings, and consequently unfavourable matter is rushed through without discussion and thrown out.
At the annual meeting of the Oxford Guild our so called representative informed us that he could not be dictated to, which, to me and many others, seems quite absurd. The proposal for unified life subscriptions was passed by the Oxford Guild Committee and it was therefore the responsibility of our representative, A. D. Barker, to put it before the C.C. no matter what he personally felt. The deplorable way jn which he carried this out would indicate to me, at least, that it is time we made a few changes. If our representatives are not prepared to carry out our instructions than they should be replaced or, akernatively, if this is not now possible because of the recent triannual elections, their expenses should be withdrawn. If anyone has done the Guild a dis-service then $i t$ is he.-Yours sincerely.

Note. -The motion's position in the proceedings was in accordance with the agenda published in the 'R.W.' of May 4th. Each item on the agenda, together with reports, is considered by the Standing Committee the evening before the Council meeting.-Ed

The Clevedon Mercury and Courier' of August 11 th carries a comprehensive article on the bells of AH Saints'. Wraxall, by B. J. Greenhill. This ring of eight contains three hells cast by Edward Bilhie in 1705.

Dear Sir,-Recently a letter was sent to all Guild and Association secretaries asking for support in raising $£ 400-£ 500$ for the Ernest Moris Memorial, which we hope will take the form of a stained glass window in St Margaret's Church, Leicester

I would like to acknowledge with thanks the following donations already received:

Derek M. Sawyer £1, Thurnby (Leics) Ringers $£ 2$, Leicester Students' Union Society of Change Ringers $£ 2$, John Jelley $10 \mathrm{~s} ., \mathrm{E} . \mathrm{M}$. Atkins 5s., Mr. and Mrs. H. Poyner £3 3s., F. S. Harrington 10s., Beverley and District Society $£ 1$ 10s. Archdeaconry of Halifax Society 8s.. Salisbury Branch (Salisbury Diocesan Guild) $£ 5$.

Personal as well as collective donations will be gratefully received and should be sent to me at the address below.

We believe this will be the only ringer's memorial window in the Midlands and possibly the only one south of Ilkley, and feel it should be worthy of the man who did so much for the Exercise.-Yours sincerely,

NO DOSSIER, PLEASE, MR. STENSON!

Dear Sir, -The only connection that I can see in Mr. W. F. Stenson's 8.007 d . comics and my view of 'The Ringing World ' is that $I$, like the youngsters, am not able, because of the cost, to purchase our journal by subscrip. tion.

For Mr. Stenson's information, I am the correspondent for the tower of St. James: Taunton, to which the Railwaymen's Guild wili he coming-and most welcome too-for their autumn meeting on September 29th.

But, please, Mr. Stenson, do not bring your dossier of bits and pieces, as I can produce if need be out of several hundred complete copies, proof, in my opinion, of uninteresting and not worth the price 'Ringing Worlds. -Yours truly,
R. BEALE.

Taunton, Somerset.

RE TOWER GRABBING

Dear Sir,-Whilst not supporting Mr. Brazier's rather excessive tower-grabhing activities, I should nevertheless be interested to know how you, sir, reconcile your adverse comment on tower-grabbing rivalry in general with your annual publication of a peal ringers' ' league table.' Both put all the emphasis on quantity and none on quality.-Yours faithfully,

ROBIN G. LEALE.
Surbiton, Surrey.
Note.-Because interest in peal ringing is not confined to the individual but is fallowed by very many of our readers who note the personal performances and progress made month by month.-Ed.

PEALS WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,-I wish to withdraw the two peals of Plain Boh Major rung on handbell on July 18 th and 25 th and conducted by myself. These were false
In both cases I had incorrectly shortened a peal consisting of twelve five course parts to nine parts. Changing the position of two singles makes the shortened calling true. I would like to apologise to the band and to yourself, and particularly to Anne Reynolds who had her first peal taken away from ber. -Yours sincerely,
J. HENRY FIELDEN

LETTERS-Continued

KILIFI BELL FUND REACHES £415

Dear Sir,-Since my letter in "The Ringing World' of May 25th the Kilifi Church Bell Fund has increased from $£ 290$ to $£ 415$. Responses have been received from the following Guilds and Associations: Southwell, Kent County, Central and Elloe Deanery Branches of the Lincoln Guild, Middlesex and London, Archdeaconry of Halifax, Peterborough, Essex County, Sussex County, Surrey, St. Paul's, Melbourne, Winchester and Portsmouth, the Ladies' Guild, N. Wales Association, and Durham University, bringing the total to 26 out of the 75 originally circulated. There have also been several gifts from private individuals and towers, and the Iancashire total is now over $\mathbf{\pm} 60$. I am preparing a list of contribu tors (so far 82) to frame and hang in the ringing chamber (which, a propos a recent articke, is well lit by two wall lights, plus two more from the gallery!).

Our bids for two secondhand rings of bells (six to tenor 13 cwt ., and five to tenor 9 cwt .) were unsuccessful; so after anxious deliberations we have ordered a new light-weight ring of six (tenor 3 cwt .), the same as the ring in Saxthorpe Church, Norfolk, to cost about $£ 750$, delivered at Mombasa. The frame will be designed to take two more trebles at $£ 100$ each. Even so, the total weight will be only about one ton, whereas the tower is strong enough for over two tons (six to tenor 14 cwt .).

We might have gone for three or four of the lighter bells of a heavy ring (tenor 9-11 cwt.) for the same sum, but as I am due to leave here early next year we considered that the remaining two or three would probably never be obtained. Our decision therefore guarantees a ring of six, with a fairly easy prospect of someday making an eight.
We have also been given $£ 150$ for a tower clock, and expect that both clock and bells will be installed in October.
We still need $£ 335$ and I would be most grateful if the remaining 49 Guilds and Associations, who have not so far responded, could help with a contribution to: The Kilifi Church Bell Fund, c/o The Manager, The Midland Band, Acocks Green, Birmingham 27.-Yours faithfully,
W. F. P. KELLY.

ESSEX 4-BELL TOWERS

Dear Sir-Below is some information about some Essex 4-bell rings which may be of interest to tower-grabbing enthusiasts:-

Berden, Essex.-Details of inscriptions, etc., as found in Deeds and Walter's (D. & W.) 'Church Bells of Essex.' Bell frame removed in 1960 , bells rehung 'dead' from beams higher in tower. Bells are now chimed.
Elsenham, Essex.-Inscriptions as in D. & W. Bells were 'lowered four or five years ago and they are on the nave floor: there seems little prospect of their being rehung' (letter from Vicar).

Lt. Canfield, Essex.-Inscriptions as found in D. & W. All bells hung 'dead.

IPSWICH BELL FOUNDRY

Dear Sir,-Since the first requests in 'R.W. I have seen the letters sent in and would like to correct some of the information given. I llm pleased to say that the old works were not blitzed, although it had some very near misses. The whole foundry and house came under a slum clearance scheme in 1938, when it was proposed to make a new road through the area and we were in the way Demolition of 214 houses was started, but we were left alone in the area. This fact saved the whole works as the blast went over, when 12 houses were wrecked and eight killed close to us.

As stated the last bell cast in Ipswich was for Doddington, Cambs, in January, 1939, and the bells were in the works when war started. Everything was packed ready to start rehanging, in the old frame, the week war broke out and all work had to stop, and the bells remailied here until near the end of the war and father was dead.
As I could not complete them, the Rector sent for them and another man was employed by him to finish the work of hanging. I was relieved of all responsibility when the bells left here and had no further connection with the job. The bellhanger turned out to be a bogus one as other parishes found to their misfortune. So if they do not 'go' as intended that is not our concern. Whether they have since been rehung again I do not know, but last I heard of them they were not satisfactory.
Maids Moreton, Bucks, were not cast by us, only treble added and rehung ring.
Fryerning, Essex, were only overhauled in 1884 and 1900 , but have since been rehung in new steel frame and treble added in 1922.
Braintree, Essex, were rehung by us in new steel frame in ball bearings in 1927.

Warminster. Wilts, were rehung by us in new steel frame on plain bearings in 1915 (delayed by World War I). I think these were at the time the heaviest ring of eight to be rung to a peal of Double Oxford Bob Major some years ago.
Marden, Kent, a whole ring cast by us in 1909.

Smarden, Kent (6), new ring cast by us with tenor 18 d cwt . in 1922, rehung in old frame same time.
Barking, Suffolk (6), all cast 1911. Stutton, Suffolk (6), all cast 1912. Both in new steel frames

Some records of work done have been lost when moving and closing down. Many of Alfred Bowell's records were only kept in his owr head, so nothing is available in detail.
I am asked to write an article about the whole foundry and history while I hope I can do later when records have been sorted. -Yours truly,

FREDERICK BOWELL.
91, Levington Road,
Ipswich.
P.S.-This is only some of the work, most of other reports are correct.-F.B.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

About 50 visitors were present for the service and tea at the joint meeting of the Ashford District and the Ladies' Guild at Lydd on Saturday, July 28 th.

The service, at which the handbells were rung, was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Gilbert A. Finch. Mr. J. R. Cooper was at the organ, and the lesson was read by Mr. J. Willis, Distriot and Association chairman,

Tea was kindly given by the Lydd ringers, and the speciality of fresh strawberries was greatly appreciated

Afterwards the Vicar said he wished it to be more widely known that Lydd Church was greatly indebted to the late Mr . Smithers for leaving a legacy of $£ 1,000$ for Lydd bells. Ho was glad that others, besides himself, appreciated the work of ringers.

Mr. Cooper pointed out that the District was again honoured by a large number of distinguished visitors, Officers (past and present) of various Guilds and Associations, $t 00$ numerous to list, were welcomed by Mr . Cooper. After this delicate point of protocol, he extended a cordial welcome to the Ladies' Guild. Mrs. Mitchell responded graciously.

Two new members joined the Association
Mr. Willis extended the thanks of the visitors to the Rev. G. A. Finch, to the organist, to the Lydd ringers for their kindness, and to Miss Lydia Terry and Miss Maisie Vantom for making all the arrangements.
Some good ringing was, enjoyed on this fine eight (tenor 15 cwt .) until $90^{\prime}$ clock.

At the Ladies' Guild meeting Mrs. Mitchell gave a talk on the recent A.G.M. of the Ladies' Guild at Darlington. It was noted that Kent did well for officers of the National body with Mrs. O. D. Barnett as president, Miss D. Colgate honorary secretary and Miss J. Beresford as treasurer. Mrs. Chapman was elected to the vacancy in representation, arising from Mrs. Barnelt being appointed president.
Two new members and one associate were elected.

A service was conducted in All Saints' Church by the Rector, and teal was given by local people.

The next meeting will be in the Lewisham District, particulars to be announced later.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

The summer meeting of the Cary Branch was held at Maperton on July 28th. The Rector (Rev. O. H. Skipwith), who is a ringer, conducted the service in the Parish Church, assisted by the Branch chairman, Rev. G. S. Robinson, with Mr. G. G. Ray at the organ. The Rector based his address on three ringing terms 'coming down to lead,' 'in the hunt ' and 'dodging,' and applied them to the duties and responsibilities of ringers. At the business meeting, that followed tea in the Village Hall, three new members from Castle Cary, one from Ditcheat and one from Evercreech were elected.
The Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. D. M. C. Hill, reported on the success of the recent Branch practice a! South Cadbury, and it was decided to continue these in August and September at Cucklington, Ringing continued until 9 p.m.

JOIIN BUNYAN, THE BELLBINGER

IT may be considered that the title is inappropriate. Certainly the immortal tinker never brought fame and distinction to campanology of yesteryear. John Bunyan's acute and versatile pen was seldom, if ever. employed pricking out Grandsire and Grandsire Bob together with the unorthodox changes of Blunderbus, Non-such. The Quirister and the like, quaintly yet permanently entwined in the far-away beginnings of change ringing. However, it ought not to be omitted in literature of interest to the campanological fraternity that that humble mender of pots and pans was, in fact, a bellringer.

Bunyan was a complex being and he lived a life of adventure within himself. From the age of 10 he was beset with unrest and trepidation, the manner of which nowadays is impossible to believe.

His father was a tinker, and he may have introduced the highly imaginative youth to the church and bellringers at Elstow. John and his father were honest men at their craft and were not exactly poor. They were elevated a little higher in social standing then normally associated with that rather despised race of men, for this family had a permanent dwelling-place in Bedfordshire.
Bunyan was born at Elstow in 1628-a pleasant village, changed but little in the past three centuries. The church is as equally impressive as the half-timbered Moot Hall, and would give John his first sense of incredulous wonder. He was baptised at this font. As a young man he would visualise the 15 th century campanile as to a tower of strength reaching to the heavens, and he wrote that he listened to many a good sermon from the oak pulpit.
He undoubtedly enjoyed bellringing the magnetic 'pull' of bells was of almost equal strength to that of the 'voice' which said to him: 'Wilt thou leave thy sins and go to heaven, or have thy sins and go to hell?'
The tinker took part in the ravages of the Civil War and returned to Elstow in 1647; presumably about that time-when in his twenties-and after his marriage, John learned to ring bells. At that period of English history the 'mists of ignorance' appertaining to campanology were in the process of dissipation, aided and abetted by Richard Duckworth, and later by Fabian Stedman.

AN ALPHABET BELL

At Elstow. John and his fellow-ringers rang the bells from the ground floor. The present ringing chamber is accessible by climbing a wooden stair. Indeed, one of the six bells is old enough to have been rung by Bunyan, and is called 'Bunyan's bell,'
This bell was originally the fourth, but is now the fifth of the ring. It was cast in Leicester, and was known as an 'alphabet' bell. Inscribed on it are ' ABCDEFG * ABCDE*RSTVW*: (Some of these letters are upside down.)

Bunyan tells us that all his wife brought him were two works which belonged to her father. These were 'The plane man's pathway to heaven, wherein every man may clearly see whether he shall be saved or damned.' by Alfred Dent. a Puritan Minister; and 'The practice of piety,' by Lewis Bayle, Bishop of Bangor.

These books John read to his wife, for he was a kindly, home-loving man. devoted to his wife and blind daughter. He was unmercifully shackled to superstition, and it was this, together with an extraordinary sense of imagination, that finally severed all his connections with the belfry.

Fears that the bells may fall upon him convinced the tinker that he must in no wise touch a rope again. Even so, he found the cordial atmosphere of the tower irresistible even though his friends ridiculed him. He would stand watching them ring, but doubt assailed him afresh. Still he was not safe! If the bells fell he would be trapped, therefore he sought shelter from beneath the arches of the tower doorway.

Horror of horrors! The tower might fall upon him, and this thought hastily removed him from the venerable pile altogether, but for a time he would sit in the churchyard listening to the efforts of his friends.
It was then that the rigorous strength of the Puritan mind took hold of him, and he fervently believed that to ring bells was an evil before God. Bunyan was no longer a bellringer. Like a true Puritan he regarded God as a stern, unbending Judge. This inexorable God was intensely real to him.

SATAN WALKED THE LAND

Poor John! How confused he must have been. The strong, imaginative youth playing games with gusto, dancing with joy, and happily ringing bells, found suddenly that it was sinful to do these things. Surely he must have wondered why his vengeful God had made lambs to skip, brooks to ripple. larks to trill. The waving of a field of corn on the Sabbath was inexplainable to him.
He might be excused for all this. John lived in times of strife, when the sword held sway... when children were sent to Tyburn gallows. Indeed, it was fervently believed that Satan walked the land.

Bunyan preached without licence, for which he was committed to prison for several years. It was during his imprisonment that the man with whom we are more familiar, emerged. Bunyan's lonely years gave to us all those beloved works of spiritual necessity. When finally he walked from prison in 1676, the one-lime bellringer carried with him the manuscript of the first part of 'Pilgrim's Progress.' At the same time Stedman had published his well-known book 'Campanologia.'
Bunyan wrote 55 books, and through many of these his sincere personality gleams and trembles alternately. Characters impart the author's feelings. and it is pleasing to note that in later years Bunyan's superstitious dread had been finally overwhelmed.
As his tremulous fea:- is broken down and the years of peace bring about a mellowing process upon him. Bunyan, in his 'Pilgrim's Progress,' inspired by the days of his youth, finds a good and purposeful use for the bell. 'Watchful rang the bell, at the sound of which came out of the house a grave and beautiful damsel named Discretion.

John Bunyan had seen the light! At the end of his wonderful book his characters are actually dancing and enjoying music. With his new awakening. dare we believe that once again he heard the bells calling. and now and then visited the ancient church at Elstow to talk of old times. to grasp the ropes and rang the bells which had spelt meaningless fear to him in years gone by?
Why, even a soul of less devotion could not fail to be touched with a philosophical emotion on listening to the plaintive and alternately thundering voice of sacred bronze. singing of victories and soliciting prayers in a manner which only bells can do.
Footnote: The Church of St. Mary and St. Helena. Elstow. has six bells, the tenur of which weighs 8 cwts. Originally a ring of five, the bells were rehung in 1909 and a new treble added.

UPON A RING OFF BELLS (Published by John Bunyan in 1686. The original manuscript is in the British Museum, sent by the late Ernest Morris.) Morris.)

Bells have wide mouths and tongues. but are too weak.
Have they not help, to ring or talk or speak.
But if you move them they will mak't appear By speaking they'll make all the town to hear.
When ringers handle them with art and skill
They then the ears of their observers fill With such brave notes, they ring and tang so well,
As to outstrip all with their ding, dong, bell.

COMPARISON

These bells are like the powers of my soul. Their clappers to the passions of my mind, The ropes by which my bells are made to toll Are promises (I by experience find).
My body is the steeple where they hang,
My graces they which do ring every bell.
Nor is there anything gives such a tang
When by these ropes these fingers ring them well.
Let not my bells these ringers want nor ropes.
Yea, let them have room for to swing and sway.
To toss themselves deny them not their scopes.
Lord! in my steeple give them room to play.
If they do tole, ring out, or chime all in,
They drown the tempting, trickling voice of vice.
Lord! when my bells have gone, my Soul has bin
As 'twere a tumbling in this paradise.
Or if these ringers do the changes ring
Upon my bells they do such musick make,
My soul then (Lord) cannot but bounce and sing.
So greatly her they with their musick take.
But boys (my lusts) into my belfry go
And pull these ropes, but do no musick make.
They rather turn my bells by what they do Or by disorder make my steeple shake.

Then Lord! I pray thee keep my belfry key, Let none but graces meddle with these ropes.
And when these naughty boys come, say them nay.
From such ringers of musick ther's no hopes.
O Lord, if thy poor child might have his will,
And might his meaning freely to thee tell,
He never of this musick has his fill,
There's nothing to him like thy ding, dong, Bell.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Salisbury Branch

The summer quarterly meeting was held on July 28 th at Hindon, when members from the North Dorset Branch joined the Salisbury Branch, and we were honoured by the presence of the Master of the Guild, the Rev. R. H. Longridge. The Vicar (the Rev. B. G. Beale. C.B.E.) also joined us for tea and the meeting.
It was unanimously agreed to send a donation of $£ 5$ from the Branch for the Ernest Morris Memorial Window, remembering the great help Ernest Morris had given to this Guild. The whole of the collection at the service (by the kindness of the Vicar) was given to the Kilifi Bell Fund, the total amount, including a previous donation, being $£ 22 \mathrm{~s}$. 3 d .
The Master presented certificates of proficiency to Adrian Lucas and Neil Skelton, both of Sarum St. Thomas'. Mr. J. E. Snook. the captain. was congratulated on the good work he and his team had done recently by painting and creosoting in the belfry.
Advance notice was given of the formal rededication of the ring of five at Chitterne, on Salisbury Plain, on September 22 nd.

FIRST QUARTER ON A HERTS FIVE

For many years there have only been four bells at Brent Pelham, Hertfordshire. The first and second are dated 1634 (Milo Gray), the third is 1792 (J. Briant, Hartford), whilst the tenor is dated 1637 (iMiles Graie). In 1961, Messis. Taylors retuned the old four, added a new treble, which was given by the Barron Bell Trust, and rehung all the bells. They are now an excellent five and they sound and go very well.
Prior to the restoration, the bells had only been rung to call changes, but in June, 1961, Mr. and Mrs. G.C. Goodman moved into the village from Kingston-upon-Thames. The existing ringers were anxious to Jearn change ringing and a year of steady work has produced a band that can ring Grandsire and Bob Doubles.
A milestone was passed over August weekend when two quarter peal attempts were made. The first (with John Trigg ringing the second) had to stop after six 120 's, due to lack of time. The second, recorded in the quarter peal columns, was successful. This was the first quarter on the bells and the first for Peter Chappell, ringing the third. Thanks are due to the three ladies (Misses Lewis, Wyman and Beresford), who assisted the local ringers to score this first success.
Practising continues and it is hoped that Brent Pelham will soon figure in the peal columns. An innovation, which has proved very successful. is the introduction of joint Saturday practices between Great Hormead and Brent Pelham. The Clavering ringers are now interested and it is hoped to rotate the practices round the three towers.

The bells are rung at Brent Pelham for all senvices and the ringers have now arranged to go to Clavering to assist the ringers there in service ringing once a month.

A clock pendulum swings in the centre of Warsop ring. ing room right across the line of vision when ropes are up at backstroke Jafus had suggested to the company that the pendulum should be placed nearer the wall o: alternatively. (a humorous idea) a funny face on the 10 -inch diameter of the pendulum. Last time he visited the belfry the pendulum had a face-one of Jafus grinning!

Following the sudden death of Mr. Tony Moreing, Mr. Stanley Kibble has been elected captain of Langford (Oxon) ringers, and Mr. Harry Temple, vice-captain.
Due to lightning striking the church previous to the peal attempt at Burghclere, Hants, the peal had to be concluded in almost total darkness. Nevertheless, the standard of striking was maintained right to the end.
A striking competition is being arranged in Norfolk, in the Western Branch area about September 15th. This will be the second contest and our correspondent suggests that Norfolk ringers are getting striking conscious.
A peal was lost on the fine bells at Newport Pagnell on August 4th after $2 \frac{1}{4}$ hours of excellent striking. It was to have been a 2 lst birthday compliment to Rosalind Hicks and David Rowlands, who took part. Particularly worthy of note was John Camp's handling of the 21 cwt . tenor.

After almost three years of silence, Bledlow, Bucks, bells have been aung regularly for service since Rogation Sunday. The Vicar and all members of the choir are taking a keen interest in ringing, and all have joined the new Chiltern Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.
The summer issue of 'Hertfordshire Countryside ' has an article by E. A. Humphrey Fern on the bells of Hertfordshire and their founders. Ringers, who have read the article, were surprised to learn that in St. Albans Abbey tower there are eight bells '- the Cathedral bells were augmented to 12 as long ago as 1935.

From Stamford, Lincs, we hear of the excellent progress of Wendy Hollowell, who had her first lesson in ringing on January 4th this year. She has now rung her first peal, having rung two quarters-in Minor and Major. Wendy has also been places and has already rung in 110 different towers.
Mr. K. Wallis rang in a quarter peai at West Malling, Kent, on June 30th, as a welcome home from Cyprus on his demabilisation.

There are prospects of another attempt on the extent of Plain Bob Major in the late autumn. The name of Mr. Frank Lufkin has been mentioned.

In our issue of July 21 st we mention that a quarter peal was rung at St. Asaph's Cathedral. There are no ringable bells at St Asaph; the quarter was actually rung at Hope Will readers kindly write out quarter peals in the form in which they are published.
Taking part in the seven Minor methods peal at Horncastle, Lincs, on July 14th was Mr. Horace Bennett, the local captain, who is the first Horncastle ringer to ring a peal, on the bells. Also in the band was Mr. Harry Barnes, who was 75 a few days previous to the peal.

Mr. Edward G. Davey has overcome his bogey tower-the fine six at Great Finborough, Suffolk. His first attempt for a peal here was in 1922 and since then he has been in several unsuccessful attempts. Success came his way on August 4th with a peal of Minor in seven methods.
Congratulations to Mr . F. Acott, a ringer at Seal Chart, Kent, and Mrs. Acott on their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Acott learnt to ring at Brenchley and for a number of years rang at Wrotham before moving to Seal, where he was a member of the tower for 22 years. For the last 16 years he has been at Seal Chart. A quarter peal in honour of the event was rung at Seal Chart on August 4th after an attempt for a peal had failed.

On July 21st some 30 members and friends of the Rochester District attended a quarterly meeting. held at the pretty village of Rodmersham. Soon after 3 p.m. the six bells of St Nicholas' Church were pealing their joyful sound over the Kentish countryside, under the careful guidance of the District Ringing Master, now the Rev. P. Bond.
The ringers' service was conducted by the Rev. E. L. W. Bell (Vicar), and the lesson was read by Rev. P. Bond, the collection was given to Association funds. Tea. kindly given by local ringers, was partaken of at Rodmersham Green Village Hall.
The Vicar presided at the short business meeting, supported by the District Ringing Master and the District secretary and his wife (Mr. and Mrs. T. Barton). The secretary stated that Mr. L. Mitchell and Miss H Dadson, both of the Newington company were to be married on August 18th at Newing tor Parish Church at 2 o'clock, and would welcome all members to the service. The good wishes of the District were extended to them. Mr. A. Dunk offered his congratulations to the young band at Rodmersham on their good progress, thanks to the help given them by Mr. and Mrs. T. Barton, Mr. G Kenward and Mr. G. Spice. The vote o thanks was proposed by the District R.M Further tower ringing foldowed, before returning home after a very happy meeting

A PORTSMOUTH GOLDEN WEDDING

Golden wedding congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. William Tate of 20, Francis Avenue, Southsea.
Mr. Tate started ringing at the age of 14 in 1901 at Sunderland Parish Church and rang there until he moved to Portsmouth in 1914 and joined the Cathedral. Except for break in two world wars and another short interval his service to the tower has been continuous Prior to the last war he took part in many Surprise peals in the area. He rang in a quarter peal in honour of the occasion, and has no intention of retiring from the belfry. He was employed as a mechanic at the Dockyard and retired in 1953. Mrs. Tate also rang hells for a short time.

OUTINGS

EMMANUEL, PLYMOUTH

Emmanuel. Plymouth, despite a 7.30 a.m start for their outing on July 14th, experienced the spate of incoming West Country traffic as the'y reached their first tower, Honiton Clyst It was a solid mass of cars two abreast. Never theless, they were on time at Beaminster, their second tower, which was much admired

After lunch at Bridport there was first a visit to the eight at Bradpole before returning to Bridport to ring at the parish church. At Whitchurch Canonicorum. Canon C. C. Cox joined in a touch of Stedman, which he conducted and thoroughly enjoyed
We rarely have an outing but that someone has relatives or friends who join us, and on this occasion two aunts of the Misses Drake from Crewkerne, joined the party for tea. At Lyme Regis we met Mr. and Mrs. Jago, former members of Emmanuel congregation; they were delighted to see us all. Mr. Jago was a fellow sidesman of our captain, Mr. J. P. Sims and the hon. secretary, Mr. H. H. Thomas.

For the great majority of the party this trip took them to new pastures and six new towers We had six grand rings of bells, and ringing comprised rounds, Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples and Plain Bob Major.

Our sincere thanks are due to the vicars of the churches visited and to the ringers who gave us such a hearty welcome.

We arrived back in Plymouth at 10.30 p.m

ST. MARY'S, EASTBOURNE

One of the disadvantages of living by the seaside is that one has only three directions available for ringers' outings. This year. on July 14th, we chose to go west again, and in cluded several repeats in our itinerary. The first of these was Chichester Cathedral, and after some delay we were admitted to its 15 th century campanile and tried once more to over come the tendency to ring slowly on its large circle.
An hour or so later we were at Portsmouth. and the Cathedral bells, augmented to ten sirce our last visit, were being put to good use. After an excellent lunch, there was no time to see Nelson's 'Victory,' but we caught a glimpse of her masts and those of an aircraft carrier from the magnificent tower of St. Mary's, Portsea. The ringing on this equally-fine octave was amongst the best of the day.

According to an old Sussex song. the father of 'Buttercup Joe' came from Fareham, and this was where we made our next call. The ten bells in its red brick tower were still ringing while one of our number played the organ for Evensong.

At Petworth we blotted our copy-book by breaking a stay, after which blush-making ex perience the coach was uncommonly silent for some time. Eventually the old choruses were started, however, and the day was brought to its usual riotous end

AMERICAN RINGING. TOUR

THE official at London Airport looked twice at the group of 11 standing in front of him who were claiming they had come to England for the purpose of changeringing; but after a minute or so he decided they were just the same as the rest of the tourists, only perhaps a bit more daft. This 11, the total active complement of the Groton School Guild of Change Ringers, does not blame the official for his thoughts, for in the whole of the United States there are but two active towers. These two are at Kent School in Connecticut and at Groton. There are six other towers in the U.S., but only two of these are really fit for ringing, namely the Perkins Institute for the Blind. whose bells are not rung for reasons implied by its name. and Mitchell Tower in Chicago, which is being repaired. A cathedral in Washington, D.C.. is still under construcAion for which a ring of ten was cast this spring at Mears and Stainbank.
Due to this lack of bells in the U.S., the 11, minus Russell Young, who came to England on a ringing tour in 1960, were a bit surprised to find themselves ringing in two different towers by nightfall. The first was St. John the Baptist at Hillingdon, where both lack of sleep on the plane and lack of having any bells for the past three months showed up in the ringing considerably. Frank Price soon pointed out the basic handling mistakes. however, and by evening the ringing at St. Dunstan's. Cranford, was tolerable despite the unaccustomed lightness of the bells.
Travelling does not come without its mishaps, though, and after the afternoon ringing at Hillingdon one of the 11 calculated that it would take less energy and mental strain to jump over an iron gate with spikes on the top than it would to walk up to the gate and open it. The unfortunate genius then proceeded to catch his foot on one of the spikes, producing a gash which required 25 stitches and several days to heal.
Nevertheless undaunted, the group went on to ring at nine more towers in the London area, one of which was the famous R.A.F. Church of St. Clement Danes. A visit to St. Paul's was also an important part of the sightseeing in London, as was the privilege of going to the Whitechapel Foundry, where Groton's ring of eight was recently recast into ten.
Another of the nine towers was St. Giles', at Stoke Poges, where Mr. Arthur Barker, in tones befitting his name, inspired much better ringing and ironed out some more rough spots. For five days the 11 hunted for the ghost of Charles I at the Manor House in between rings at St. Giles'. Deepest gratitude is extended to both Mr. and Mrs. Barker for improving our ringing.

A day or two after Stoke Poges, the group moved on to Cambridge, ostensibly to see the colleges and to let the new understanding of ringing sink into the adapting American minds. By some means or other, however, three towers were rung at. and a visit was made to St. Benet's, where the Stedman method originated. It was also at Cambridge where the first breaking of a stay occurred, although it was debated how serious a $\sin$ this was on account of the inferior quality of the wood, which was not the usual ash. Moving on to Oxford, the remaining nine of the 11 visited a good many of the colleges and also had a day's excursion to the Henley Royal Regatta.

The week was completed by the annual meeting of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, when the ten novices officially became members. Lunch at the Christ Church College dining hall followed. along with a visit to Great Tom in the gate tower. The afternoon was consumed by a tower 'grab' in the Oxford area, and some ten more towers were added to the notebooks of the group.

The next and last week of the trip consisted of a ringing tour in Hampshire, where the group was guided by Frank Price, Tom Chapman and Bill Coles. Invaluable roles in the tour were also played by George Pullinger and Bert Gogle. This week was perhaps the most important from the ringing standpoint, for the remaining eight of the ten were able to get a lot of practice in ringing in the fashion they now thought to be correct, and yet they had excellent advice if anything was still wrong. Stedman began to go fairly well, and all the ringing made a deep imp.ession which will be carried back to Groton, and which will be passed on to the next band until they have a chance to learn first-hand.

The climax of the week came when two quarter peals of Stedman were attempted on the back six at North Stoneham. The first four of the group, accompanied by Frank Price and Tom Chapman, came through on the second attempt. Two of the Groton boys managed to break their stays in the process, however, thus bringing the total to three, as one had been broken at the start. This, plus waiting outside for an hour while the first group was ringing, must have disturbed the second four, for they were unsuccessful. Shortly afterwards the eight went to the Continent with Russell Young: but not satisfied with going home without ringing at least a quarter peal, two of the unsuccessful four returned to England after three weeks to ring some more. and at Upham they rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles.

40 YEARS ON AND ALL PRESENT

As reported in your issue of August 5th. 1960. a quarter peal of Bob Minor was rung at All Saints Church. Melbourn. Cambs. to commemorate a 5.040 rung on the same date, July 20th. 40 years previously, by the same band.

Although now in the $60-70$ age group, these ringers, still all hale and hearty, decided they would attempt a repeat quarter this year. The band. again ringing the same bells with the same conductor, were: S. Reed 1. A. E. Austen (cond.) 2. C. Gouldthorpe 3, J. W Ward 4. E. G. Hibbens 5, F. Harper 6
The date. July 30th. not being convenient this year, a week later was chosen. this being the birthdays of Messrs. Austen and Gouldthorpe, both of whom received congratulations from the rest of the band, and also from fellow ringers who listened to the quarter peal.
The writer is well aware that some younger ingers get rather impatient at reminiscencing hut 1 am sure that the record of these six ringers, chiefly Sunday service ringers, over what is quite a long period. deserves this litlle appreciation. Their own reaction is thankfulness in being able to do so. C.W.C.

RINGING TOWERS

With the prospect of a Great Adventure II to Australia in 1964 . 'Ringing Towers,' the quarterly journal of the Australian and New Zealand Association of Bellringers should have many more readers in this country. The new Editor. Mr. W. B. Pitcher. 13. Ashbourne Avenue, Mitcham. South Australia, informs us that the annual subscription (sent to him) is 4 s. 6d. sterling per year. He suggests sending an International Postal Order.
The No. 1 issue has a cover picture drawn by Mr. G. W. Pipe, of St. Puall's, Burwood Church. The main news relates to the birth of A.N.Z.A.B. (Australian and New Zealand Association of Bellringers), which George Pipe descrited as "another page of Australian ringing history has been turned.
The president (Mr. Jack Roper) in his message writes: 'Let us go forward in the coming year with a feeling of satisfaction that we are doing something worthwhile: firstly for the Church: secondly for the towns and cities in which we live: and lastly for ourselves, because by belonging to an Association such as ours we receive the henefits of fellowship with decent cifizens, plenty of good physical and mental exercise of the joy of doing something that is both unusual and delightful.
Mr. Philip Gray contributes a remarkably good summary of the proceedings at the Central Council: there is news of local towers, a good page of gossip, a conductor's comer. records of peals and quarter peals and an article on John Betjeman-the bellringers' poet.

When John Betjeman was in Adelaide last November he was invited to visit St. Peter's Cathedral, but his crowded itinerary prevented this. However. one of the ringers met him and he autographed a copy of his poems for the belfry Jibrary in the following charming manner

Thus the trip was a great success. and even though there may be a good number of Americans who think the group are crazy to - waste so much time making so much noise. dittle do they know how much can be. and indeed has been obtained from change-ringing. The group is very grateful to all of the English ringers who helped to make the trip what it was. and also hopes that in the future there will be enough towers in the United States so that a return visit can be made by sume ringers from England

Inspired by 'Grandsire Doubles'

BARBARA BATT, better known to ringers as the wife of architect Charles Ashton Waller, has just held an exhibition of stained glass at the Reading Museum Art Gallery, Pride of place in the exhibition was the above panel 'Grandsire Doubles.' Her idea is that methods of change ringing could be assembled in a bell window in the form of coloured pieces of glass indicating the path of each bell. By this means of display generations of ringers could learn the duties of their bells by a first hand and colourful observation.

There are, of course, some interesting saints connected with the Exercise. St. Barbara, with her tower for bell ringers, and St. Catherine, and her wheel for bell hangers, to say nothing of St. Anthony, with his bell, book and candle.

Mrs. Waller takes great pride in her stained glass work, but her greatest joy is to ring with her family and loyal friends at Shiplatie, Oxfordshire, where she rang her first quarter recently. It was in this old church that some of the bells rang for the wedding of Alfred Lord Tennyson in 1850 . Perhaps they were tie inspiration for his 'ring out the old, ring in the new' of 'In Memoriam.'

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL, MELBOURNE

St. Paul's Cathedral. Melbourne, band has raised about $£ 330$ towards the Cathedral Restoration Appeal of $£ 150,000$. This total has come from three sources: an appeal to English towers, whioh hrought a generous response and realised $£ 140$; an appeal to Australian towers. $£ 12$ : and the remainder from raffles, regular direct giving. and a number of organised activities. which included short lectures in the tower. a slide evening and a stall in Swanston Street one Saturday morning.

During April, May ande Jupe the Cathedral bells were rung every Friday lunch-time to advertise the appeal. with often eight to ten

> At last,' writes the Rector, "I'm beginning to understand about the sevthes. There are not enough ropes to go round-five ropes to 12 or more ringers (and the grass is getting rather high in the churchyard) so, in between bouts of ringing. good use is made of the scythes by the "odd men-out." Initiative, I call it; perhaps other towers will copy.'

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD Marlborough Branch

Despite the cold. rough and most unseason able August weather, the monthly meeting of the Marjborough Branch, held at West Overtol, near Marlbarough, on August 11th, attracted a good attendance. Visitors were present from Bristol, Bradford-on-A von. Norton St. Philip. Stratton St. Margaret. Calne. Urchfont and Bishop's Cannings.

The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. F. Smedley), with Miss Clarke as organist. A splendid tea. to which full justice was done, was provided in the Kennett Hall, under the direction of Mrs. J. D. MansfieldRobinson and her band of helpers.
Mr. Gearge Newman (chairman) moved a comprehensive vote of thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the meeting and extended a hearty welcome to the visitors. This was enthusiastically endorsed by all.
Capt. J. D. Mansfield-Robinson. who is the Branch representative on the Guild committee and who has done much to further ringing in the area and in Overton in particular, gave a short resume of the efforts made by young people in restoring the five bells at East Kennett. He also outlined plans for the furure which he hoped would be carried out by young ringers. with an occasional guiding hand from the vetenans.
R'nging was then resumed hoth at Overton and East Kennett under the direction of Mr. T A. Palmer (honorary seoretary and Ringing Master).

Dorchester Branch

In fine. hot weather the Dorchester Branch held their summer meeting at Cattistock on July 7th. The service was conducted by the Branch chairman, the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth, and the lesson was read by the Rev. K. W. Meikiziohn. Tea was served to a company of 31 members by the ladies of the church in the Saville Hall.
The Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth presided at the business meeting, when four new members were elected. viz.: $\mathbf{R}$. Goringe (Cattistock). T. Brown. M. Cosby (St. Peter's, Dorchester) and W. P. Grimble (Hilton).
It was decided that the next meeting should be held at Abbotsbury, the date to be fixed by the secretary. Forthcoming Branch prac tices: St. Peter's, Dorchester. August 25th Piddlehinton. September 8 th.
It was decided to donate $£ 2$ 2s. to the Kilifi Bell Fund from the Branch funds...

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT

The Bank Holiday meeting of the Sheffeld and Distriot Sooiety was held in Rotherham where the beautiful ten at All Saints'. Parish Church were available all the afternoon and evening. Eastwood. Thrybergh and Whiston were also available.
Despite the weather, a good number of ringers and friends came and after a vely nice tea in the Church Hall. the chair was taken at the business meeting. by Mr, Frank Brunt. As Mr. J. Seager was away on a cinging tour. Lis pilace as secretary was taken by Mr. D. Armstrong
The varisty of methods rung included Lon don Royal and Bristol.

NORTH BUCKS

ON Thursday, July 12th, eleven ringers from North Bucks and South Northants journeyed 120 miles to Glastonbury in Somerser for the annual trip arranged by Mr. W. A. Yates.
We arrived at Wedmore on Friday morning midst glorious sunshine, prompt at 9.30 , and raised the 30 cwt . eight in fine style. Our opening Stedman did credit to the bells, which were rehung in 1936 in the old two-level wooden frame. Despite the tenor being late striking at backstroke, and the 5th sharp at hand. a reasonable course of Yorkshire was rung. Afiter miore Stedman and some patchy Double Norwich we travelled past Cheddar Gorge to Axebridge. It was at Axebridge we were photographed. The magnificent six here. with tenor weighing nearly a ton, tapped out well to Cambridge and London.

WRINGTON'S 9th

The first ten was at Wrington ( 37 w cwt) where we were welcomed by Mr. W. H. Knight. who informed us that the 9th had never gone up the right way. It didn't for us either! Our opening touch of Sledman Caters was reasonably good, and 270 Grandsire Caters was enjoyed, Cambridge Royal ending our ring here. Mr. Knight had lunch with us at the Golden Lion, where the sumptuous meals are not unknown to visiting ringers, and he led us through twisting country lanes to Yatton. Mr. H. A. Price met us and demonstrated the emergency lighting system featured recently in the R.W. The clapper of the 7th had to he turned and after Stedman on this easy 21 cwt. eight, a tip-top course of London was rung. A musical false 170 of Stedman caused some surprise by coming round at the end of a six: four Spliced Surprise was lost after some patchy ringing.

THE GRET-UN

An •underworld tip about police radar traps and congested traffic caused us to be ten minutes tate at Long Ashton. where the bells were already up. Fred, having drummed to the opening Stedman at the other towers. proclaimed that he would ring the "gret-un" and climbed onto the tenor box. This was a remark, which. as the day drew on, became famous. The 31 cwt. tenor here. recast by Taylors in 1903, has a commanding note, Superlative was the wrong method for these bells, as our singing of it didn't do them justice, so a louch of Grandsire Triples was rung. and this proved better bath for rhythm and striking.
Chew Magna bells were rung up with two men on the tenors. These are a lazy ring and cannot be hurried. Stedman and a slow cousse of Yorkshire were rung on the 27 cwt . octave.

MAJESTY AT CHEWTON MENDIP

On the way to the farm of Mr. H. Baber, George's exhzust pipe parted in the middle. Even Bill was defeated by the magnificent meal provided. and we were in fine form for the wonderful 24 cwt . octave at Chewton Mendip. M. Baber rang with us in the Stedman, and then a spanking course of Bristol was rung. followed by a good course of London. four Spliced Surprise and Cambridge. Unfortunately it was raining as we made our way to Croscombe in the usual three-car formation. The 17 cwt. six were very loud, but some excellent Stedman was rung as it was easy to get a beat gaing. Cambridge. Double Court and four Spliced Surprise rounded off our first day's ringing. At a local inn, a college tie was nearly jost to a female tie collector bebind the bar, but the price of his tie for her hair proved too great! After our day of gret-uns our hands were sore: we returned to Glastonbury a little tired, but happy.

HAVE A TASTE OF SOMERSET

YO-YO CONTROL

The weather was overcast at 9.30 on Saturday morning, when we rang on the 25 cwt . eight at Bridgwater after a delayed start due to shortage of parking space. The bells did not go easily, particularly the trebles, since the long pull necessitated a skill in both elastic rope management and yo-yo contral! However, the bells sounded well to some good Cambridge. Yorkshire and Bob Major, and we received a pleasant welcome from Mr. Burge.

A glorious hour was enjoyed at Minehead, where Mr. Middleton met us with the bells already up. A most encouraging touch of Stedman Caters was rung, also Grandsire Caters and a full course of Cambridge Royal (where we almost got a beat!). but how could we go wrong on these inspiring bells. After lunch. Dunster, a 22 cwt . octave, were well tapped 10 Stedman and London, but the Double Norwich was rather rough in places.
The 12 cwt . eight at Timberscombe were a welcome change after the heavier rings, but here Stedman broke down. to be replaced by a course of Bristol, which wasn't up to our previous standard.
Tea at Taunton followed after a lovely journey through the hills. We had a three-mile climb up. which was quickly diminished by a 1 in 6 hill. Eventually Taunton St. Mary's was found. and the back eight of this 30 cWt . twelve were rung up in peal. Our Stedman Caters standard increased, but we were unfortunately one short for Cinques. Rounds on the twelve. Grandsire Caters and three leads of Kent Royal were rung before proceeding to St. James' Church, where Stedman and Cambridge preceded an excellent course of Bristol, in which Mr. A. Reed rang. There was a reluctance for the last course of Yorkshire as we were all feeling the strain a little. and after this we adjourned for liquid refreshment.

At 8.15 on Sunday morning the 26 cwt eight at St. John's. Glastonbury, boomed out. Utter confusion developed for a grab before breakfast on this rough-going ring. It was gratifying to see the youngsters here handle the bells quite well, considering the awful 'go.' A scheduled ring at St. Cuthbert's, Wells, for morning service was enjoyed on the 27 cwt. octave, when the local ringers joined us in ringing Siedman, Bristol. Grandsire and Yorkshire.
So our trip ended, and we left homeward, leaving Somerset, a county of rare beauty and typical churches; a county of wonderful bells and an even more wonderful people. What a welcome we received! Thanks are due to our very efficient organiser and Ringing Master, Bill Yates, and to those who so willingly gave us permission to ring.

SURREY & GUILDFORD HOLD JOINT MEETING

Despite the steady rain (or was it because of it?) the annual joint meeting of the Surrey Association (Northern District) and the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was another outstanding success. This meeting. on August Bank Holiday, is one of the most consistently successful in the ringing calendar.
During the afternoon Mr. Frank Oakshott, Master of the Leatherhead District, was in charge of the ringing, which catered for all the varied tastes and talents present. The service in Leatherhead Church was to the Guildford form, taken by the Vicar. and was followed by tea in the Church Hall.
This has been prepared by Mr. George Marriner's lady friends, whose skill and experience were appreciated by the 60 present (not forgetting the dog). After tea the ladies were thanked for their efforts by the usual hearty applause, in which the dog joined. A retiring collection for Guildford Cathedral bells totalled $£ 15 \mathrm{~s}$. 4 d Rinzing afterwards until 8.30 p.m. was under the direction of Mr. Frank Darby, Master of the Surrey Association, the District Master, Mr. F. E. Collins. being absent on ah inspection for the Central Council.

Letters to the Editor

WHY NOT CATHEDRAL BELLS, TOO?

Dear Sir,-On Sunday mornings in the Home Service of the B.B.C. there is a vary interesting series on 'Cathedrals of England.' On August 12th the subject was Lincoln and among the people interviewed were the Dean, verger, architect, organist, etc., with a most delightful and inspiring two minutes from a lady cleaner, but sio mention of bells or ringing. I know the argument that everything cannot be included in a programme lasting 35 minutes, but I could not help feeling that the programme was incomplete and that an opportunity was lost.

I do not think we want to advertise the prowess of the ringers; that must speak for itself, but I do feel that it is our duty to make people bell-conscious; to encourage them to listen for and to the bells. I believe Lincoln to be a hot-bed of good ringing and to introduce the programme with. say, ane minute of Stedman or, alternatively, to fade out would have been acceptable and welcomed by the lay public. Instead, a very fine organ did both.

The purists might say that bells should only be used. especially on the radio, as part of a churah service, but in this year's repart o the Broadcasting and Television Committee fearure programmes were particularly mentioned.

Now I am stare the committee is doing its job. Not wishing to make 100 much negative criticism, the fact remains that what it has achieved is not too encouraging. appears to me that a closer liaison is called for. May I respectfully suggest that at its meeting this committee invites representatives meeting this committee invites represe

Perhaps we could also have advanced knowledge in 'The Ringing World' of any ringing on the radio.-Yours faithfully,
R. F. BAKER.

Brampton, Huntingdon.
Note.-A help towards meeting reader Baker's wishes would be if canductors, when their bells are recorded, would notify the Editor.-Ed.

LLANFAIR P.G., ETC

Dear Sir,-Now that a start has been made to the use of Welsh place names for methods by the peal band at Loughborough Bell Froundry recently, it would be very helpful if one of our colleagues from the Principality could provide us with a glossary of Welsh words. This would enable Welsh method names to be given as translations of such things as 'Church of St. Mary in the market square by the ancient inn, or even more suitably 'Brick Campanile at the Bell Foundry in a Midland Town-steeple of the ten hells of many peals. '-Yours faithfully,

OFFER OF ROPES

Dear Sir,-In 'Belfry Gossip' you mention the need of Naburn. near Yorks, and Wadworth, near Doncaster, for bell ropes.

If someone will provide us with suitable discarded ropes we shall be glad to remake them to meet the need. They may not be quite up to the standard of new "Pollard" bell ropes, but they will serve.-Yours faithfully,

'IN DOMINO' FOUNDRY SHIELD

Dear Sir,-I have always assumed that the famous 'In Domino' foundry shield helonged to bells cast by William Culverden. This is stated very elaborately on page 37 of Raven's 'Church Bells of Suffolk' (1890), and is assumed on page 90 of Stahlschmidts', 'Surrey Bells and London Bel! Founders, (1884). However, I have come across a different interpretation in a book by E. A. Downran, published in 1898 . Dowman's argument is briefly as follows: William Culverden (1510-22) is far too late. A bell founder called William Dawe Horked in London (1385-1418). The bird in the shield may be meant for a daw. William Dawe probably learnt his trade with Stephen Norton ( $1363-81$ ), from whom be would have obtained the cross of four fluer-de-lis obtained the cross of four fluer-de-lis found on these bells, but used without the crown, but using the crown, slightly altered, for some of his capitals. Like Slephen Norton he also used a coin. The fluer-de-lis cross was also used by Kebyll (c. 1420), Richard Hille ( $1420-40$ ), and by I. S., probably Johanna Sturdy (c. 1450). None of these are as late as Culverden period of activity.

What is the modern opinion about the 'In Domino' shield? Perhaps a reader can explain.-Yours faithfully.

CRICKET MATCH RECALLED

Dear Sir,-It was with great concern that I read in your issue of July 13th, the mosi apologetic letter from my constabulary friend in Mablethorpe, with regard to the above function.
Being virtually jointly responsible with him for the report of this match. I feel it is incumbent upon me to add my abject apologies as well, to the Spalding and Grantham ringers.
As can be seen we have both hidden our heads in shame because of this omission, A. L. L. Butts having sought sanctuary in Mablethorpe, and the writer almost as far off the beaten track, in Canada.
With all good wishes to my late team-mates. whose pictures I look at periodically on the cine film of the event.- Yours truly,

THREE QUESTIONS TO ## CANON FELSTEAD

Dear Sir-Unlike Mr. P. Amos, I find Canon Felstead's articles most interesting and I appreciate the amount of work put in by him to keep a record of all peals that have been rung and are being rung at the present time.
I don't know whether it has been an ovar sight on his part or on mine, but on three oceasions I have rung in peals claimed as firsts on the bells and have not seen them mentioned in his list.
These have been Hurstbourne Priors, Hants. Sydmonton, Hants, and Edington Priory, the latter on July 30th of last year; it may have latter on hisy last one, hut I do not rememher seeing it.
In any case may he carry on the good work. He can be sure the Exercise is behind him in his records.-Yours, etc.,
G. K. DODD.

Woolton Hill, near Newhury.

THE NON-RESIDENT MEMBER

Dear Sir.-Should the feelings of young ringers towards the rule regarding Non-resident Peal Ringers result in any proposed change I would like to repeat the suggestion I made at the Central Council meeting at Folkestone in 1960.
'That Non-resident Peal Ringers be affiliated to the Central Council of Bellringers and a subscription would entitle them to ring a peal for any Association or Guild affiliated to the Central Council.

I would suggest 2 s . 6 d ., annually or to save paper work 10 s. for five years.

The young ringers of today travel far and wide and in a few days could ring peals for three Associations, resulting in the following for each peal: N.R.M. 10s.. per rope Is., booking fee 6d., and a collection for The Ringing World.' This plus travelling expenses may in time mean we shall see touring peal bands ringing them for one Association or Guild.-Yours, etc.,
E. H. MASTIN.

Downham Market.

P.S.-If any such rule was adopted the peal booking fee would still be payable to the Association for whom it was rung.-E. H. M PS.S.-FINAI, THOUGHT : Does anyone think the Guilds are taking advantage of the churches who provide the bells.-E.H.M.

MR. J. PREECE-MEMORIAL FUND
Dear Sir, As you know the parish and district of Staunton-on-Arrow, Herefordshire, recently lost a very loyal and good friend. Among other duties and services, Mr. Preece was a very keen bellringer and did great work for bellingers and bells alike.
To commemorate his achievements in this field his friends have decided to donate money to a fund to restore and put in order the bells of Staunton Church.
If you would care to contribute towards this fund it would he greatly appreciated. Cheques or postal orders can be made out to Staunton-on-Arrow P.C.C. (Memarial Fund). Contributions however smaill. may be sent to me at the address below.-Yours sincerely.

NOT ORIGINAL

Dear Sir.-May I point out that the composition of Cambridge Surprise Royal on paga 535 of 'The Ringing World,' was first composed by T. B. Worsley ahout the turn of the century. Furthermore, in view of the fact that ten courses out of the possible fourteen come straight from Middleton's peal of Cambridge Major, the peal can hardly he called an original composition.
Readers may be interested in the following variation of this composition, arranged by the Rev. H. Law James. which keeps the ten courses of Middleton's intact.

TIME, GENTLEMEN, PLEASE

Dear Sir,-I feel we might appreciate more about the inter-relationship between rhythm and time in our ringing if we gave precedence to musical principles before mechanical ones.
My dictionary defines rhythm as 'the measure of time by regularly recurring sounds,' which I would suggest is associated primarily with music. If, for example, anyone with a good musical ear listened first to a pianist playing perfect scales, and a little later he chanced to hear part of a perfectly struck peal of Major, he wouldn't concern himself about the skill or the physical effort involved in either performance. What he would appreciate by ear and brain would be the perfect measure of time between each note and in addition, as far as the ringing was concerned, the pause after each 16 beats. In short, the rhythm.
It is when we come to relate this reasoning to ringing that opinions begin to differ. One theory has been put, forward, that the small bells 'set the pace, whilst one writer is even bolder and cites the 2nd as the arbiter of speed.
If we allow this argument, then the gan between 1-2 must be maintained up to and by 7-8, and therefore the 1-2 gap fixes at once the measure of time of our 'har' which We will call 16 beats on a ring of eight What is most important is that it also fixes the time interval between which each bell must strike at hand and back stroke. If therefore, the 2 nd varies the gap. each bell will have to alter its speed by 8 fractions of a second. if the correct time interval and the rhythm is to be maintained throughout.
If all the bells weighed the same there would be no prohlem. beciluse the gap set by $1-2$, or $1-2-3-4$ if you like. could be maintained by $7-8$ (and up to $11-12$ if necessary) If we relate this to fact and use a light eight with a tenor of 10 or $11 \mathrm{cw} t$., it is not difficult to do this, but once we start thinking in terms of heavy eights it is no good dismissing the weight involved. when taking into account its effect on our 16 beat 'bar. Obviously the heaviest bell in the peal must decide at what speed to ring, and. the other seven must ring at equal intervals between $h_{1}$ s hand and back strokes to maintain rhythm

It must be remembered that rhythm first and foremost depends on regularity of beat, not $0 \cdot$ the speed of ringing. Whether that speed is increased must depend on the calibre of the tenor man, but a good heavy bell man will set a speed which the front bells will find acceptable. I think he has a duty to dictate the pace, otherwise he ought not to be on the box.-Yours sincerely

JOHN BRAIN.
Backwell. Somerset.

Dear Sir-Will readers please note the following carrection to the extent of 12 Minor methods on page 524 .

EXPLORING EAST ANGLIA

1 T Putney, a party consisting of ringers from London. Stourbridge and Peterborough met on July 14 th for a week's ringing, organised by the writer. After ploughing through dense traffic we were joined at our first tower. Woodbridge, Suffolk, by the Ripon contingent.
Beccles was to be our headquarters for the week and we made our way there, ringing at Marlesford, where we ate wet cakes in the rain at the village fere; Blythhurgh and Halesworth.

KESSINGLAND CHURCH.

After a Corporate Communion at Beccles ant the Sunday morning we rang for morning prayer at Bungay. Here there are two churches and we rang in one while the con gregation gathered in the other one! Later we joined the enthusiastic band at round-towered Norton Subcaurse. Arriving at Reedham Ferry we faced a notice reading 'To cal ferry ring ane short peal." We complied on handbells, but only a touch! We then enjoyed handbells, but only a touch! Weasint five at the Parish Church, before passing on to Acle. with its tower-within-alower, and Great Yarmouth. where Canon Thurlow joined us on the tenor and some of us heard him preach later iMonday's towers were all in Suffolk and included some of the finest Perpendicular Church in the country. Framlingham we found add-struck. Stonham Aspal a ten we tried to ring too quickly, Hadleigh go badly. but contain some magnificently-toned Miles Graye bells, and at Stoke-by-Nayland the 7th seems to be cracked. Long Melford provided a magnificent church. as did Lavenham; the hells of the latter fully lived up to their reputation and some of us thought them ane of the best ald style rings we had ever heard. The day concluded at Stowmarket.

A PEAL SCORED

Tuesday was spent mostly by the sea. Carkton Colville was the first tower, followed by the excellent eight at Lowestoft and Pakefield perched on the edge of the coast. At Kessingland, while some retired to the beach five members of the party, aided by Richard Brown (of the looal band), rang themselves into the Norwich Diocesan Association with a peal of Cambridge. Covehithe and Wrentham were then visited.
Wednesday was spent in Norfolk. Ranworth, with its fine screens, etc., provided a complete 1937 Bowell six; South Walsham, two churches (one ruined) in one churchyard; Ludham, a very heavy five, and Happisburgh a good six in a magnificent church, looking out over the Nonth Sea, followed. Aylsham, a ten with horribly predominant trebles, and Horsham St. Faith concluded the day, save for evening practice at Becales. where the local ringers gave us a wonderful welcome.

Thursday was spent in and around Norwich. We found good rings at Loddon and Hethersett, bad going rings at St. John-de-Sepulchre and St. Miles-at-Coslany, odd-struck rings at St. Giles' and St. George's, Calegate. Later in the day we rang at Tasburgh, Tharston, Saxlingham Nethergate, and Shotesham All Saints', finishing with drimks supplied by the Vicar of Ditconingham, in whose chunch we found perhaps the best six of the tour.

Friday's ringing started on the excellent modern three at Ringsfield, followed by Readenhall, Dickleburgh and Winfarthing. The five at Shelfanger are out of tune and the gudgeons can be heard bumping outside. The ropes do not form a circle either

Diss proved a magnificently toned Dobson ring, where the tenor is shortly to be rehung. Controversial Eye followed and though the bells go well. we did not find the tone exceptionally good. Further ringing was at Wingfield, Firessingfield, Chediston and Rumburgh. The last named church stands within a Roman fosse. and has an oblong tower with the five hung to one side.

Saturday arrived all too soon and we returned by way of three excellent Taydor ringsat Leiston, hahitat of the famous Bailey brothers: Aldeburgh and Ardleigh-with a brief look at the East Bergholt bell-cage. The last tower was Witham.

Ringing ranged from rounds to Surprise. Union Triples was much enjoyed on three occasions. Particular thanks go to Bill Barrett who met us on frequent occasions. to Dick Brown and to the host of clergy and ringers who personally met us and made what was for many their first ringing week, a great success.

AN AUSTRALIAN CENTENARY

St. Mark's Church. Darling Point, Sydney. celebrated the centenary of the bells on June 3rd. There was ringing for an hour before the service, one band being composed of men who ance rang at St. Mark's, but were now an the inactive list.
At the conclusion of the service of thanksgiving, a course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by W. Watson, J. Fryer, T. Goodyer, Enid Roberts and Ralph Clarke,

The ringers then adjourned to the Church Hali where 'a great feast' was spread, including a magnificent cake surmounted by silver bells. Mr. Ralph Joyner cut the cake, which was then divided into sections for distribution to the ten towers represented.

Shalford Have a Week's Tour in Devon

A event, which had been talked about in Shalford (Surrey) belfry for years. took place on June 16th when the ringers, with the addition of friends from Godalming, Merrow and Wonersh. set out for a week's ringing tour in South Devon. The journey was by car, and the headquarters, the moorland village of Chagford, was reached in the early evening.

As most of the towers to be visited were call changes, we felt that we would be very much on trial. However, we received a great welcome from Mr. Percy Rice and the local band when we arrived for service ringing on Sunday morning. In the evening we joined in with them in ringing call changes. Mr. John Read. a former Shalford ringer now living in Devon, and his wife joined us on Sunday afternoon.
We were fortunate to have with us on Monday, Mr. Aubrey Bennett and Miss Yvonne Porter and we made an excellent start on the recently restored bells at Tedburn St. Mary. Some difficulties were later experienced with the long draughts, but having got accustomed we found the six at Shobrooke pleasant, and good touches of Plain Bob Major and Stedman Triples were rung at Thorverton. After ringing at Cheriton Fitzpaine (6), we had tea with the Rev. and Mrs. Woodward. who were married some years ago at Shalford Church.
On Tuesday we were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Read at their charming cottage at Galmpton, Kingstridge. On the journey down we rang at the beautiful Church of St. Saviour, Dartmouth. The excellent lunch Mrs. Read had provided, was followed by a few hours by the sea and ringing at Mr. Read's own tower, the good-going six at Galmpton. Some of the local band came to hear and we had the pleasure of seeing them ring their competition piece' (call changes).

FRIENDSHIP SEALED

Wednesday was a free day. except for the evening when we rang at Chagford. Some of us joined in with the local ringers for a few call changes: and one of our ringers was invited to sing the treble with the local band and lead down. A great honour! We all retired to one of the village pubs, where we made firm friends with the ringers aver numerous glasses of beer and cider. We considered a great victory for scientific ringing had been won when we persuaded Mr. Rice's daughter to come with us on our last two days ringing.
Thursday's towers were all in the Teign Valley, the first being the local church at Moreton Hampstead. Apart from a difficult treble, the bells went well. particularly a touch of Grandsire Triples. The tiny villages of Christow and Bridford were next. bath with good sixes and superb scenery. After a picnic lunch we went to Dunsford for high tea, We were met by Mr. Percy Pester, an old friend of the Hunters. who had sung here many times before. After ringing the six we spent pleasant evening handbell ringing.
Friday, our last day, was in many ways the highlight of the tour. At Widecombe-in-the-Moor a good course of Cambridge Minor was rung on this beautiful six. We picnicked at Buckland, and then drove on to Buckfast Abbey. It was a great thrill to ring these bells, the privilege being entirely due to Mr. Bennett. who frequently rings with the monks. Father Paulinius met us and proved most helpful. We also rang a minor eight with the giant Bourdon bell-7t tonsringing at the same time. This was a visit well worth making.
The last ringing of the week was at Dean Priar. Mr. Bennett's own tower-a filting end to the tour. These hells were delightful. Kent and Plain Bob Minor, Stedman and Grandsire Doubles were all rung well and a good ring down finished our first but not we hope our lasi ringing tour in the West Country.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

A well attended quasterly meeting of the Chew Deanery was held at St. Andrew's. Clevedon (8), on July 21st.
The Association service was conducted by the Vicar (Preb. Nicholls), with an address by the curate, the Rev. J. Crawford. An excellent tea, served by the local company. followed.
The Vicar presided at the meeting. when eight new members were elected from Stanton Drew, whose five bells have recently been rededicated, logether with one non-resident life member from Henlow.
Practice meetings were fixed subject to permission at Stanton Drew (August) and Tickenham (September), with the quarterly meeting at Portishead. The Branch Corporate Communion will be at Nailsea in October. Owing to rehanging of the bells, the visit to Wraxall 10 ring for their Patronal Festival has had to be postponed, and instead, at the invitation of the Vicar. the Branch will now visit St. Andrew's, Clevedon, on November 30th, to ring for Evensong at $7.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.
It was reported that nine quarter peals and one peal had been rung in the Deanery since the last meeting.

Mr. Horseman outlined details of the proposed striking competition. which is to be held early in the new year. The competition has been introduced in an effort to improve the general standard of striking in the Deanery and to emphasise its importance in general ringing. At present six-bell teams only will take part and ring a test piece of 120 or 240 changes, which will be adjudicated by an Association judge (yet to be chosen). The meeting favoured the proposals. and Chew Stoke was fixed as a provisional venue.
This conctuded the business, and members returned to the tower for further ringing under the direotion of the local Ringing Master, Mr. H. W. Knight.

Reminiscences of E. V. IR.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern Division

Ideal weather and an ideal country setting were the first ingredients for the meeting of the Narthern Division at Withyham on August 4th. Ringing commenoed at 3 p.m. under the guidance of the Divisional Ringing Master (Mr. Frank Hicks). At 4.30 the Rector (the Rev. Peter Scott) conducted the service, and arranged for the choir and organist to be in attendance, which was greatly appreciated by the 50 or more ringers present. The choir was led by Miss R. Heighes. who is also a most enthusiastic ringer. The Rector welcomed the ringers and gave an interesting address on 'Team Work.' both in and out of the tower. The Rev. Peter Bond read the Jesson. The organist played as a voluntary 'The Bell. Allegro at the close of the service
At the Village Hall full justice was done to a splendid tea, provided by the capable honorary Divisional secretary and her helpers. A short business meeting followed, at which the Rector presided. Returning to the tower ringing continued until 8 p.m., when goodbyes and thanks to the Rector brought to a close a most enjoyable day. In all 70 ringers attended.

FARINGDON RINGERS' OUTING

On July 28th the ringers of All Saints: Faringdon. together with friends from Buckland. Hinton Waldrist. Stanford-in-the-Vale, Longcot, Shrivenham. Highworth, Wanhorough and Clanfield had an enjoyable outing.
Towers visited were East Ilskey. Shaw-cumDonnington, Newbury, Thatcham and Buckle-bury. Tea was taken at the Tudor Cafe. bury. Tea was taken at the Tudor Cafe, Newbury, and refreshments later at the Swan Newbury, and refreshments Compton. Thanks are expressed to all who made the day so enjoyable and to the incumbents of the towers visited.

ALFRED EDWIN FULLICK

A RINGER whom I knew for many years, A and with whom I rang my first peal in 1913 on the old . left-handed, six at Moreton Con the old 'left-handed 'six at Moreton Alfred (long since recast and rehung) was Alfred Fullick, of Shrewsbury.
He formerly worked as a painter on the Sundorne Estate where he lived, and later moved into the town to work for a Shrewsbury firm of painters and decorators. He started his ringing with George Byolin's band at St. Alkmund's, towards the end of the last century, and when the ringing there was stopped in 1913 he went with the rest of the band to St. Chad's
His first peal was Grandsire Triples on the front eight at St. Chad's on September 10th. 1898, conducted by George Byolin. Fullick rang the 6th. His first on ten hells was Grandsire Caters at St. Chad's in 1906, composed and conducted by James E. Groves, the well known Brimingham ringer. &I remember him telling me he had rung the 11 th at St. Martin's to 50 peals of Stedman Cinques!) The tenor was rung by Joseph Wynn, the tower keeper at St. Mary's: he told me he was the only Shropshire main to ring this bell to a peal single handed and this statement was quite correct.
The old St. Chad's tenor of 1798 ( 34 cwt .) turned in to Royal and Maximus by Lawrence and others was not considered fine enough. so it was taken back to Whitechapel about 1825 and exchanged for a heavier bell which was supposed to have been 43 cwt . It was a fine fell, but was never turned in to a peal There was some movement in the frame and it never went well: this portion of the frame was taken away and replaced by cast frame was taken away and replaced by cast iron when the belts were recast by Taylor's in 1914.
In 1908 a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the back eight with two men on the tenor. Fullick rang the 7th. It was half-muffled for the Vicar, the Rev. Mr. Ark wright, who. I remember, died in tragic circumstances.
This peal was called by George Burrows and was Cox's six-part. I have not seen it rung for many years, and for those who may be interested in Grandsire compositions it is a variation of Taylor's, with the 5 th as the -three-lead bell' instead of the 6th, the singles being at the 8th and 10th calls in the first and fourth divisions, and the 7th and 10th calls in the second and third divisions. Incidentally. this is the only peal of Triples rung on the back eight of either the old bells or the present ones

- Alf. Fullick was a tahl man and an excellent heavy bell ringer: he. rang the 11 th at St Chad's for many years. and rang it to peals of Major, Royal and Maximus. His pea! total was about forty. Sund,ay service ringing being his chief interest, but he cycled many miles for peals in former years, and rang in the four standard methods, and from Doubles to Maximus.
He was always to be found at the back end. usually favouring the 7th in peals of Major. In 1911 he travelled to Machynllesh (Montgomeryshire) with the St. Alkmund's ringers for a peal of Grandsire on the bells recently augmented to eight in commemoration of the Coronation of King George V. He was in the first peal of Stedman Triples in Shrewsbury at St. Alkmund's, which I have referred to before. I think Siedman was his favourite method; it was nice to see the effortless way he rang the 11th at St. Chad's to a touch of Stedman Triples or Caters with the local hand.
About the mid-1940's his health was failing and he found difficulty in climbing the tower stairs, so his visits were infrequent. He passed away on Sunday. July 16 th, 1950. at the age of 80 , and a memorial peal of Bob Major was rung at Hodne: the following Saturday conducted by Maurice $G$, Turner.

MR. G. W. BARNES

Although the had been seriously ill for the past six months, it came as a great shock to his friends in the district to learn of the sudden passing on August 3rd of Mr. G. W. garnes. of Colchester, at the early age of 53 years.

George learnt to ring about 40 years ago at Ardleigh. where this father was also a ringer, and was a member of the maging team there for about 30 years. Not a great peal ringer, his chief interest day in Sunday service and practice ringing; he had, however, rung 21 peals of Minor and Major in various stardard methods.
A carpenter by trade, he used to cycle hundreds of miles yearly in the course of his work yet he was always ready to tackle a round wip of perhaps 20 miles or more at the week-end so as to enjoy an hour's ring at another tower. His other hobbies were fishing and painting pictures, in both of which be took a keen interest, and he was also a member of the Essex Special Constabulary.

For the kast seven years he had been a member of the St. Leonard's. Colchester. band, together with his ondy son, Peter, also a ringer, and daughter-in-law, Rosemary, the latter having learnt to ring at this tower.

OBITUARY

MR. GEORGE COLE

The news of the death of Mr. George Cole at Lyme Regis on July 20th came as a great shock to his many friends at Braintree and Bocking. Essex.

George Cale, who was 74, was a very respected and popular figure in the town, being a Rotarian and a staunch supporter of the Deanery Church of St. Mary, Bocking, where he was churchwarden for many years.

He also had a special place in his heart for church bellringers, and was a life member of the Essex Association.
The funeral was at Lyme Regis on the following Wednesday, when many organisations and friends fram Braintree and Bocking were present or represented. At Bocking Church a quarter peal of Plain Bob Major was rung half-muffled to his memory by members of the Essex Association.
Thus passes on truly one of nature's gentleman.

Although Mr. C. William Critchley likes to keep his friends guessing as to the number of peals he has rung in a year, was an exceptional coincidence when he and Mr. John R. Mayne were ringing peals a: Kirtlington and Deddington on August lith. It was revealed that both had rung the same number of peals-the 648th at Deddingtion. We are now awaiting Claudia's total.
The members of the staff of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry rang a peal at St. Anne's, Stamford Hill.
By ringing his first peal on the bells of Whitby Abbey, R. Rowell, completed his tests for the Boy Scouts' Senior Bellringer's badge.
Randwick Council, N.S.W., has opened an appeal for $£ 2,000$ to restore the bells and tower of St. Jude's Church.

Mr. G. B. Collins, a former ringer at Salisbury Cathedral, Southern Rhodesia, and now living in Oxford, rang his first quarter in Britain since his return from Africa on August 4th at St. Aldate's Church, Oxford.

On reading the first published ringers' hymn, by Mr. P. Amos, Mr. Michael F. Amos, a relative who is commissioned with the Church Army and stationed at Lancaster, preached a sermon on the hymn.
Because of the condition of the bells of Shipston-on-Stour, Warwickshire, the Rector is restricting their use to his own ringers. A new frame is necessary. These bells, in consequence, are not, available for outings or itinerant ' grabbers.'
Welcomed to the ranks of peal conductors is Mrs. Jeanne E. Bottomley, who called her first peal at Birstwith on August 11th. To the Editor's delight she know not only how to call a peal bur how to write it out for The Ringing World ' afterwards!
As the outcome of a talk on ringing recently by Mrs. Willmott-Dobbie, a bevy of high school girls joined Edgbaston tower. Mr. Russell, the Master at Old Edgbaston, has made an excellent job of training the girls, most of whom are now service ringers.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr . and Mrs. Wilfred L. Robinson, of Cheshire, received a most cordial welcome when they abtended a meeting at St. Peter's Cathedral, Adedaide, on August 7 th Their presence in Adelaide, for at least two years, is a great stimulus to the local band.
Mr. Norman Chaddock has now rung over 300 peals for the Yorkshire Association (conducted 152). Only three other ringers have achieved this.

While the peal of Apsley was rung at Steyning, the youngest daughter of the conductor, Mr. W. Rogers, gave binth to a baby daughter, his ninth grandchild.
Conspicuous among this week's quarters is that rung at Preston Plucknett, Somerset, on August 8 th , when five of the band rang their first quarter peal. Congratulations to adl, and especially to the conductor, Mr. J. C. Taylor.
The Rev. G. E. Hubbard, Rector of Milton Malson. Northampton, states that the bells in his church will not be dedicated until every. thing is paid for. The bell fund stands about $\pm 896$ (against a target of $£ 1,122$ ), and the tower fund about $£ 70$ (target $£ 280$ ).
With his seventh attempt for a quarter peal David Pritchett was successful at Balderton on August 5th, when the local band made their seventh attempt for a quarter of Stedman Doubles. Also in the band was one more first quarter, two firsts in the method and two firsts of Stedman Doubles.
Mr. Peter Sanders, recently returned home from Jamaica, conducted the first quarter of Triples by his father and mother, Canon and Mrs. F. A. Sanders, at Overton, Hants. It was also the first of Triples for Mr. W. J. Harlow, and the first of Triples on the bells by an all-local band.
In Colin Stevenson's home tawer, Harlington, Middlesex, a quarter peal was rung as a birthday compliment, and also to congratulate the band of Salisbury Cathedral on ringing their first quarter peal, which Colin conduoted. A peal for a similar commemoration was rung 0.1 August 6th.

OUTINGS

ST. KEA, CORNWALL

St. Kea ringers for their annual outing on August Bank Holiday, visited the South Devon area. It was raining when the coach left Truro, and it rained for the rest of the day The Ringing Master of the Guild, Mr. D Burnett, accompanied the party. Bodmin was the first tower, where the bells have recently been recast, and everyone was therefore keen to try them. A brief stop was made at Liskeard for coffee. 'Over the border' our first stop was at Salcombe for lunch.
In the afternoon a tight schedule had been arranged. First came St. Edmund's. Kingsbridge, and a short distance beyond Modbury (tenor 17 cwit .). These lovely six are a pleasure to ring and a pleasure to listen to After following a herd of cows for some distance, we arrived (a little late) at Yealmpton.

It was stild raining, and only the bravest of the party intended looking for tea-houses at Newton Ferrers. We all wished we could have stayed longer at Newton Ferrers. but we were due at the delightful eight at St . Maurice's, Plympton (tenor 16 owt.).
Our thanks are due to incumbents and all who met us.
D. R. D.

OLD EDGBASTION AND HARBORNE

On the beautiful morning of July 7th happy party of ritgers and friends, spanning from high school girls and boys to pensioners. set off at 8 a.m. on a day's tour of Staffordshire and Derbyshire
Our first call was at Netherseal. a church steeped in antiquity with an excellent ring of eigh, where our ringing attracted the attention of Mr. Derek Jones, who broke his journey to join us and kindly invited us to visit his church at Church Gresley. We were visle to visit this extra tower after our next call at Overseal, another nice eight. At Gresley we found a ring which has fairly recently been increased to five. We then passed to Ticknall. where a pleasant six awaited us. Here we took a pienic Junch and learned that our ringing had been acclaimed by all at the local hostelry!
Our journey to Matlock. with its Penines scenery. Was enjoyed by all as was the very nice ring of eight which awaited us. After having, we hope. done justice to these grand bells, we started the few miles to Darley Dale, but this short distance proved rather an obstacle race, owing to extensive road reconstructions. We arrived on time, and a tuneful eight amply repaid us for the trouble in getting to and from the church.
The last church of our tour was the beautiful Parish Church of Wirksworth. Our band returned to the coach truly happy for having rung on such a lovely eight, even though the 'finger-light' setting of the tenor demanded much attention.
In the opinion of our leader (Mr. R. Russell, Old Edgbaston) the standard of ringing was respectable. He was much complimented on his 'young entry " and their handling of the bells. With a feeling of sincere gratitude we remember the incumbents and masters and ringers for their kind co-operation and help so willingly given.
E. A. B.

SOUTH NORFOLK

The annual outing of South Norfolk ringers took place on July 21 st. The party of 40 ringers and friends left Diss at 7.30 a.m. fo: Hertfordshire. The first call was Barkwav. and after an hour's ringing to various methods on the eight bells. a move was made to the light six at Stotfold. An excedlent lunch awaited the party at Norton.

The afternoon's programme was Hitchin (8) and All Saints' Hertford. with its nice ring of ten. After tea in Epping. ringing took place at the Parish Church and the last call was at Potter Street, where a good course of Supenlative was rung. Ringing finished at 9 p.m.. but Diss was not reached until well after midnight.
Mr. William Flatt. of Harleston, organised and carried out the arrangements and was thanked by Mr. H. Fuller. Ringing Master for South Norfolk, for prexiding such an enjoyable day. Thanks were also accorded to piloted us until we left Hitchin. A.G.H.

MR. AMOS AND CANON FELSTEAD

iMr. Amos has written us a Jong letter replying to Canon Felstead's reference to him in the artiole P Points on Peals.'
(Mr. Amos states: It is his (Canon Felstead's) continued bold statements about unconquered towers (?), first peal in tower (?) and virgin territory (?) on the flimsy grounds that he can find no record of peals in these prior to 1881, which I take exception to and challenge him to substantiate or withdraw:"

Charles Wesley, in one of his hymns (259 E.H.)., wrote: "Preserve me from my calling's snare." If we regard bell ringing as a calling (as many of us do) we must be wide awake to the all too often snare of regarding peal ringing as a sport-which I would say from his writings is how Canon Folstead rather regards it.'
of his own peal ringing, Mr. Amos writes: Of recent years (and especially the last few weeks) I myself have taken part in quite a few peals, but always with the thought in mind of linking them with some festivat of the Church, as well as to strengthen their ties with the Church of a few youthful members as we have in the Peterborough Diacesan

THE LADIES GULLD  South Wales District

Sir William Parker, Lord Lieutenant of Brecon. was the organist when the South Wales District held a meeting at Llangattock on July 14 th. Some 50 ringers; friends, children and one baby attended from places as far apart as Lydney and Swansea. The bells of Llanelly (6) and Llambedr (5) were available, Rector lter being the main attraction. The Rector, the Rev. A. W. Reed. conducted the service and gave a warm welcome to the Guild.

Ah enjoyable tea was prepared by Mrs. King, wife of the captain of Llangattock ringers, and she and her helpers were sincerely thanked by Mr. Don Clift. iMiss Hazel Way (vice-president) thanked the Rector. Miss Dilys Halbert. and Sir William Parker, who had left official business at Brecon to play at the service. Mr. King (the tower captain) was also thanked for having the bells in order for the meeting.
After the gentlemen had retired to Llangattock and Llanbedr towers. the Jadies dealt quickly with the business. Four new memhers were elected, viz.: the Misses Edwina Parry (Ebbw Vale), Christine Stote and Linda Bevan (Swansea) and Elizabeth Brown (Cardiff).

Next meeting: Cowbridge, October 6th.

A CENTURY OF SERVICE

THE passing of Miss Margaret Snowdon on July 20th last brings to an end a century of personal service to the Exercise by the Snowdon family. Their lives have been an example to us all and their contribution to the Church and the good of the art is immeasurable.
Margaret's Uncle Jasper died in 1885, after founding the Yorkshire Association in 1875 and holding office as president for ten years. Her father William succeeded him and continued as president for 25 years. during which membership steadily rose from 525 to 1,452 members, 1.300 of them resident ringers.

It has been the writer's privilege to visit Miss Snowdon at least once a year and enjoy her reminiscences of bygone times. During her life at Cartmel she was greatly loved and respected, as a domestic science teacher at Cartmel School and as a great friend and worker at the ancient Priory Church.

When quite a small boy, her father William was put on a train at Ilkley, labelled like a parcel, and sent to Horsham Preparatory School. Lord Grimethorpe had observed and taken a liking to him. and undertook the expense of his education. As a frequent guest of Lady Grimethorpe he had the opportunity to develop the perfect manners and thoughtfulness for which he was noted. He was an earnest churchman, always regular and punctual for service ringing, and loved and esteemed by all.

His daughter Margaret inherited his fine characteristics and. though not herself a ringer. her contribution to the Exercise has been one of which her father William would be justly proud.

She was very fond of her parents, and after her father's death cared for her mother, Laura, for many years. until she passed away in 1941. On one occasion, Margaret recalled, with reference to her mother helping William Snowdon to complete Jasper Snowdon's written work, "How she worked, and sometimes in the late evening. when reading and correcting proofs with him she would turn so sleepy that she used to run upstairs to the top of the house and back so as to become thoroughly awake."
On another occasion Margaret described the usual Sunday evening rush to be punctual for service ringing. She said: "With dear folk in the house for tea and 5.30 p.m. having struck, my dear father scurrying out of the room and sitting on the bottom step but one of the flight of 12 steps, plunging his feet into his boots to be off. Luckily it was all downhill for at least a third of the way to the parish church."
Though distance and local ties prevented her attending the Jasper Whitfield Snowdon Commemoration Dinner, it was her custom to send a message for the president to read to the gathering. One of her most recent messages read: "Best wishes to all, from the president to the newest member, with the sincere hope that the Yorkshire Association may continue to prosper. What ensures this is: HARD WORK for the cause with a mixture of LOVE OF THE ART, that each member may become aware he has-A SPECIAL JOB.

That he studies PUNCTUALITY and is conscious of the RELIGIOUS BACKING to be upheld."
With her advancing years she was concerned for the future continuity of "Snowdon Series of Ringing Textbooks." Of latter years, the late J. A. Trollope and E. C. S. Turner had rendered great service in advising her and helping her to bring them up to date, and rewrite some of them prior to republication. It gave her great satisfaction and confidence that she was able to pass on responsibility for the future of the books to someone on whom she knew she could rely, and we are fortunate that Mrs. Turner is doing this, so that although the Snowdon's century of personal service has drawn to a close, their good works, inspiration and fine example of unselfish service will live on.
N. CHADDOCK.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN - THE VISITORS

TTARMER days bring to many towers a varied cross-section of the ringing fraternity in the form of holidaying visitors. To those living in a popular resort the influx of visitors may mean less ringing for the "locals" or perhaps better ringing, depending upon the number and standard of visitors.
The reception given to these visitors is invariably cordial, but there have been a few occasions known to the writer when the reception has been, to say the least, cool, and once where the visitor has been taken to the edge of insultory opposition.

When told of the "welcome" given to one of his most promising pupils whilst she was on holiday, the writer drafted an incensed letter condemning the band for its inexcusable behaviour, but on consideration decided that perhaps it would be a waste of time as these ringers could not possibly have heard of "The Ringing World" or what it stands for! It was felt more desirable, therefore, to appeal to all readers to consider the feelings of young ringers and to realise the importance of "your" effect upon them. Put yourselves in their shoes and give what you might expect elsewhere.
Put yourselves in the shoes of the young ringer who received the "cold shoulder" even when the "locals" met short for a Sunday service ring. Was it because she was a " scientific" amid call-changers? Or because she was a woman among men? Because she was a "foreigner "-or what? With no explanation she was simply not invited to ring.

As a young learner, my tutor once told me: ". . . . the ringing fraternity is just like one large band-go out and meet them like you'd walk into your own tower. They are-not so different and they have much in common-they are the Ringing World." This message has always stuck, and I hope it will be remembered by the young readers and endorsed by fellow captains and ringers wherever they are situated and however many people wish to ring with them at practice or service.

May I, in conclusion, give a tip to the visitors. If the tower you are visiting is crowded, remember the captain has a difficult task in giving everyone enough ringing, so don't overstay your welcomeleave some for the locals and for others that may follow you, and you will be welcome again.

PERSONALITIES OF

MTHEN well past 60 , most ringers who hold the office of secretary or treasurer. usually prefer to hand over their ardnous duties to someone younger. Mr. E. Maurice Atkins, of Teignmouth. Devon. general secretary of the Devon Guild, however. did not take office until he was 66. and is to be congratulated on continuing the job with considerable enthusiasm. Most of his time in ringing has been devoted to helping others, and he is stial strivng to maintain innterest in a difficult tbut rewarding area.

Maurjce Atkins was born on July 7th. 1890. in Leicester. In later years his father became Rector of Isham. Northants, and while still a schoolboy lat Wellingborough School, he Wis one of the band trained to ring the restored ring of six in 1906 by Mr. Edward Chapman, of Kettering. So good was this instruction, they were able to ring a local peal of Bob Minor on Boxing Day, 1907, the first for all the band, except the conductor. Mr. Chapman. Two years later, the local hand rang a seven method peal, entirely unaided. Another notable peall rung at this time, which Maurice conducted, was the then - youngest band " peal at Oranford. Northants, in February, $1909-B o b$ Minor-the average age being 16 years and 8 months.

AT CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY

In 1909 Maurice went to Cambridge as an exhibtioner of St. Catherine's College. and found the University ringing at a very low ebb. He became Master of the C.U.G. from 1910-12, and during this period a great revival took place. The president was the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, and, with his help. two handbell pealk were eventually rung in 1911 . These were followed by a spate of handbelin peals in 1912, including Kent T.B.. Oxford T.B. and Double Norwich, and the first ever of Little Bob Royal, all conducted by Maurice, who has always been a handbell enthusiast. Tower bell peals were rung with the help of nonresident members. and three notable anes were scared during a tour of Devenshire in Septermber, 1912. Superlative was rung at Maurice's present tower-St. Michael's, Teignmouth. and two peals on bells which have since been lost in the blitz of the last war-Cambridge Major at Charles Church, Plymouth, and Little Bob Royal at St. Sidwell's, Exeter. These last two were the first peals in the respective methods, in Devon, the first of Royal in Exeter. and the first of Little Boh Royal on tower bells.

During the First Great War, Maurice served as a Lieutenant in the Royal Engineers in Belgium until 1916. when he was wounded in the leg (it still gives him a bit of trouble), and this put him out of action from ringing until 1919. In that year he conducted two interesting peals rung by a band of ex-service officers. The first was on March 15th at Si. Mary's, Putney. Surrey, when Kent Major was rung, and the second was Grandsire Caters at St. Peter's, South Croydon, on July 9th. After a shont spell as a belfry inspector with Messis. Gillett and Johnston. Maurice thecame a civil servant as patent office examiner in 1920. and settled down in N.W. London, within the sound of the light bells of St. Augustine's, Kitburn. These bells were carillon bells, cast by Von Aerschott, of Louvain, Belgium, and were hung in rather a primitive fashion. However, they were soon rehung by IMessrs. J. Taylor, and Maurice thad the pleasure of training a band 10 ring them. He did very tittle peal ringing during the next 30 years, but looks back with great pleasure to one or two peals of Bob Major and Grandsire Triples rung with the Kilburn hand. Since 1924 Maurice has not kept any records of his peals, but had scored 300 up to that year, of which he had conducted about half.

In 1950 Maurice retired, and came to live at Teignmouth. Devon. Before leaving London, he was duly honoured by the Middlesex Association by being made an honorary life member, a gesture which gave him much gratification. He soon set to work to train a band at St. Michael's Church, and with the help of some orther ringers, the bells are kept going Sunday by Sunday. When the general secretary of the Devon Guild. Mr. Ernest J. Taylor. died in 1956, after an accident, Maurice stepped into the breach, though hoping that someone younger would come forward. After six years in office. Maurice, now aged 72 , is still carrying on the good work, and is probably the aldest general secretary in the country. Two peals, about which Maurice is very pleased, were rung fairly recently The first Surprise Major by a Devon bandCambridge at Wolbarough, and a peal of Bob Major rung at his own tower of St. Michael's, Teignmouth, to celobrate the silver jubilee in the priesthood of the Vicar.
In the field of composition. Maurice has been interested mainly in putting together peals which would be of help to inexperienced ringers or conductors. His well known 12 part peal of Bob Major, devised for handthell ringers, has 5-6 coming home every four courses. after coursing for two of them. and he has other simple arrangements in which the sixth is kept home for a long time at the start to the rhythm, so essential for good striking.
Maurice has always been a strang churchman, and when in London was Vicar's warden for a time at St. Augustine's. Kilburn, and a member of the London Diocesan Conference.

GUILDFORD DICCESAN GUILD

The Farnham District's second annual strik ing campetition was held at Frensham on July 28 th. Six teams entered, fout representing towers. The. judges were Mr. W. Parker (Sandhurst) and Mr. I. Scott (Easthampstead), both of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

The result was announced after tea, which had been prepared by the Jadies of Aldershot tower and Iransported to Frensham. In their remarks, the judges wondered whether there was anything amiss with the second and third bells. as many of the faults made by all the teams could be blamed on these two bells The total number of faults per team was also considerably higher than had been the case at Bentley, the previous year. The winning team was Aldershot ' $A$ ' with 44 faults. Last year's winners, Farnborough. were second with 67 faults and Farnham third with 93 faults.

After tea the lower was open for general ringing.

AMERICAN GUILD OF ENGLISH HANDBELL RINGERS

Mrs. Nancy Poore Tufts, of Washington, D.C., sends us a correction to Canon Thurlow's remarks at the Central Council meeting regarding Mr. Frederick Sharpe's visit to address the Festival of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers to be held in Detroit next June.
Although the 300 teams mentioned may be represented, it is doubtful that that number will attend. While over 600 persons attended the 1961 festival, held in St. Louis, only 43 teams appeared on programmes.
The American Guild of E.H.R. does not sponsor competitions. Since the majority of American teams are "Bell Choirs.' churchaffiliated groups, competitions would not be considered fitting.

FIRST PEAL AT COLYTON

One of the six peals rung by the Friends of the Exercise during their tour from August 13-18th was at Colyton, the heaviest 6 in Devon and so far as can be ascertained, this was the first attempt there
The weighs of the individual bells are impressive: Treble 8 cwt . 2 qr. 12 lb . (T.B., 1772): 2nd $9 \mathrm{cwt} .11 \mathrm{gr} . \mathrm{i}$ th. (G. \& J., 1934): 3 rd 10 cwt 2 qr .7 f. (1611): 4 th 12 cwt $1 \mathrm{qr} .27 \mathrm{lb} .11667 . I P.): 5$ th 19 cwt. 0 qr. 20 lb. (T.B. 1775) ; Tenor 24 cwt. 3 qr. 16 lh. (Mears. 1837).

The bells wore rehung on ball bearings in 1934 by Gillett and Johnston, but on the old frame. in which the back two bells swing the same way in adjacent pits. The circle is far from ideal. During the course of the peal the tenor sahy gradually disintegrated, leaving only about half the original tufting.
The other noteworthy peal of the week was that of Bob Triples at East Budleigh. The band consider this to be one of the best peals of Bob Triples to have been rung anywhere. The tenor man (68), of East Budleigh, Jang splendidly for his second peal. (The first was tenor to Doubles.)

He is at present a member of the Exeter Diocesan Conference. On the Central Council, he represented the Peterborough Diocesan Guild for three years. and the Cambridge University Guild for 27 years. During his ringing career, his chief interest has been training youngsters, and it is his greatest pleasure when they succeed, and come Sunday by Sunday, even at great difficulty to themselves, to ring as a Christian obligation. Maurice Atkins whole ringing life could well be described as a service to others. He is still continuing to give his services in his years of retirement. thereby setting a splendid example to the younger genoration.

BY 8.15 a.m. on Saturday. August 4th. the last of the bicycles had been loaded on to a large furniture van at Willoughby, near Hull. and, together with 15 ringers. a start was made on the long journey down 10 Somerset. A suite of easy chairs was provided and we were able to travel in 'armohair comfort.' At 6.45 p.m. we arrived in Merriott : the church bells were ringing and we were given a tremendous welcome by the Vicar and ringers from the surrounding area. Here we were joined by other members of our party before enjoying the excellent tea, provided by the wives of local ringers. At the conclusion of the tea we enjoyed a flagon of cider provided by the sexton, to whom we are most grateful! Following tea came ringing on the pleasant six at Merriott. The night was spent at a local guest house, which had once been the vicarage.
On Sunday morning the party split up to assist the local bands with service ringing at Crewkerne. Hinton St. George. Merriott and Shepton Beauchamp. Following an excellent lunch at the guest house. We moved on Beaminster, where the heavy eight seemed a little too much for the younger members of the party after the steep climb over the hills to this. one of the most magnificent towers in Dorset. Pleasant winding lanes brought us to Netherbury, the last tower of brought us to Netherbury, the Last tower of the day. where we enjoyed the heavy six. We arrived at Bridport just in time to hear the local band lowering the hells before Evensong. Two enjoyable nights were spent at Bridport Youth Hostel. and we can thoroughly recommend the warden's home-made ice cream! The evenings finished off with handbell ringing. followed by a rousing sing-song.

TORRENTIAL RAIN

August Bank Holiday was a day of continuous rain and fortunately we were visiting lowers in and around Bridport with the option of an afternoon by the sea! We had some good ringing at Bridport before going on to Symondsbury. Here we were very grateful to the Vicar's wife for providing us with tea and biscuits after our wet side. Following ringing on the pleasant six we had lunch in the village inn before going over the hilly road to Whitchurch Canonicorum. These bells proved to be a handy octave, and an altempt at Yorkshire mearly came round! The party gradually moved back lowards Bridport in torrential tain; the hardier members stopping to have a ring on the five at Chideock
On Tuenday the weather was fine onve more and the party split up and went by various routes to Cattistock. After some excellent ringing on this fine new octave by Mears, we stopped for lunch in the pretty village of Cerne Abbas before climbing up over the hills to Buckland Newton, the next tower. After much difficully we located the fine church at Haselbury Bryan, where we enjoyed the excellent six. A short ride brought us to Sturminster Newton (6), where the Jong draught seemed to suit us and we had some of the best ringing of the day. There was to have been ninging at Marnhull after supper, but this was not possible due to repairs to the tower. Instead we entertained the local Ringing Master in the nearby inn.

HEAVIEST EIGHT AND HEAVIEST SIX

The first tower on Wednesday was Sher horne Abbey, the heaviest eight in the world. Although some of us got lost on the way we all arrived in time to have a ring on this fine octave. On our way to Queen Camel we stopped at the pleasant village of Sandford Orcas for lunch. Just outside this village. much to the fright of the lady members of the party, a large grass snake crossed the road in front of us. We had some good ringing on the world's heaviest six before going along the pleasant lanes to Kingsdon. Here we found the short wide tenor of this heavy six particularly interesting. The last tower of the day was Somerton, once the county town of Somerset. With its fine church and Georgian houses. Following supper at Street Youth Hostel, the more thirsty members of the party descended the long hill into the village.
On Thursday morning we were awakened in the men's dormitory by the ringing of Grandsire Triples on handbells by four men. who were still in bed. Following breakfast we were soon at Street. A pleasant ride along the by-roads brought us to Ditcheat where we had lunch before ringing on this delightful octave. Evercreech's fine ten. hung in a beautiful tower, were enjoyed. although our ringing was not up to the high standard heard on the B.B.C.'s recording of these bells! The heaviest ring of the day was at Shepton Mallet, where we sampled the octave before going on to Croscombe for the night. After supper at the youth hostel we had a short ring on the fine six at the local church.
The warden ensured that the lady members of our party were up bright and early-by $6.30 \mathrm{am}-0 n$ the Friday following the noise they had made in their dormitory the previous night. A short ride brought us to Dinder, where the lightest six of the tour was enjoyed by all the party. Following morning coffee at a nearby cafe, we ascended the steps to the vast ringing chamber of St. Cuthbert's, Wells. perhaps the finest and certainly one of the largest of the Somerset towers. After ringing on these fine-toned bells the party sphit up for the afternoon; some explored Wells: others went to Wooky Hole and the more hardy members cycled over the Mendips to try the famous balls at Chewton Mendip.

THE LANDLORD'S COMMENTS
Here we first enjoyed our sandwiches in the Waldegrave Arms after our energetic ride. The landlord inquired whether we had come from Wells and asked if we had seen the Cathedral. We mentioned that St. Cuthbert's is also a very fine church, whereupon he told us that he had passed St. Cuthbert's that morning and heard what he thought must thave been a peal attempt which soon broke down Although he didn't know that we were ringers the told us about the fine ring of bells in the local church and the many excellent visiting bands which come to sing there. Later we much enjoyed what proved to be one of the best octaves of the tour. After a pleasant ride over the Mendips and through the gorge we met the rest of the party at Cheddar, where our ringing was rather poor. Friday and Saturday nights were spent at Cheddar Youth Hostel.
On Saturday morning some of the younger members of the party stayed in Cheddar, whikt the others set off for Wrington. Here We enjoyed the heavy ten and had some of the best ringing of the tour. We arrived at Yatton just too late to ring for a wedding, but can thoroughly recommend this very fine old ring. The seventh bell dates back to 1451 , and the fifth to 1622 . Here we had some good ringing including Cambridge and Yorkshire Surprise Major. At nearby Congresbury we didn't find the second heaviest eight in the world easy to handle, nor did we do justice to the fine eight at Banwell. However, the glorious six at Axbridge made a fitting condusion to the tour.

Soon after 9 a.m. on Sunday most of the party were travelling back northwards in the furniture van. We should especially like to thank the following for making the tour such ${ }^{3}$ success: Mr. H. Turner. of Merriott. the Vicar and local ningers for making us so welcome: the incumbents and tower captains who gave us permission to ring at the many towers we vistied; John Rank for arranging the towers; Richard Gibson for arranging accommodation at the youth hostels, and Ian Booth for arranging transport. I.N.G.

LIFE SUBSCRIPTIONS

Dear Sir;-Disregarding the internal politics of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. which are surely a Guild matter and not one for discussion in your columns, I feel that the Guild's suggestion for the standardisation of nonresident life members' subscriptions is certainly worthy of serious consideration by the Exercise.
It seems to me that the increases recently made in these subscriptions by some Associations is another example of the tendency of non-peal ringing members to regard peal ringers as easy meat who, as a result of their enthusiasm, may be bled white to bolster an Association's shaky finances, by means of peal booking fees and/ar subscriptions of the kind in question.

These non-peal ringers should bear in mind that when peah ringers from other Associations come to ring peals on 'their' bells, they ring them for the local Association as a matter of courtesy and/or to avoid the unfounded and illogical fuss which would be made by local members of the 'Grannjes' Guild' if they didn't. They should also remember that, being in a voting majority, they should exercise the power thus given to them fairly and with due consideration for the interests of the peal ringing minority, who, from this point of view, are at their mercy.

Surely the high-mindedness of the main reason why such peals are sung for the local Association, i.e. that of courtesy, merits a reciprocative gesture in the setting of the consequent subscription at a purely nominal amount-5s. for example?-Yours faithfully, Surbiton.

ROBIN G. LEALE.

HENRY PLEASANT, BELLFOUNDER,

 1691-1707Dear Sir.-The rather short duration of the Pleasant Foundry, in Sudbury, rather indicates that Henry Pleasant did not start casting bells until late in life or that he died at a very early age.
Deeds and Walters, in their 'Church Bells of Essex, speaks of L'Estrange as quoting 'a writer in the "Norwich and Bury Post" as stating that he succeeded Miles Graye in Colchester in 1686 , and that he "removed his foundry not long afterwards to Sudbury, where he carried on a considerable business between the years 1695 and 1707."

But from where did Pleasant originate? It is more than an coincidence that the Quarter Sessions Records for Essex (Essex Record Office: $\mathbf{Q} / \mathbf{S R} 435 / 50$ ) reveal the name of a Henry Pleasant. who was brought hefore Q.S. Court in Chelmsford at Easter, 1677, where he was described as a 'hushandman, but was tried for carrying on 'the trade of smith there (at Chelmsford) without having been apprenticed thereto. Also in 1680 a Pleasant was paid 5 s . at Danhury, five miles east of Chelms ford and only five miles west of Maldon. where Henry Pleasant cast four bells in 1707, for 'mending the clock.

The trades of smith and clockmaker are somewhat allied to bell founding and by a comparison of dates (i.e. his first appearance in Chelmsford in 1677 and the founder's death in 1707) it might be possible to identify the Chemsford Henry Pleasant with that of the Colchester and Sudbury founder.-Yours sincerely,

Danbury, Essex.
PETER J. CAME.

CLOISTER

Dear Sir,--Re Mr. Hunter, page 524. The above method has been discovered and is being rung on practice nights.
In a country district like ours it is very difficult to get enough ringers and someone to stand behind beginners, so to bridge the gap botween ringing a bell and becoming a ringer (this being the time when most young ringers give up in despair).
We have been ringing the following methods in such a way that the bells are coursing in the order $2,3,4,5,6,7$, each of the following being rung with the tenor behind.

Instruction to Treble Ringer.-Count your places out and back to lead starting with the last bell each time.

Our strength on practice night is five ringers and a tenor ringer, plus the youngsters, and in this way we manage to keep as many bells as possitble going.-Yours, etc..

Downham Market. E. H. MASTIN

B.B.C. INTERVAL SIGNAL

Dear Sir ,-I am surprised that no one has commented upon the B.B.C. interval signal in the Home Service. Shortly hefore Bow Bells were rehung, the B.B.C. played around with the recording of these famous bells, which had been kept the same for a number of years, so that they jumped from one change to another-a thing which in reality is impossible.
If I remember correctly, the Central Council Broadcasting Committee wrote to the B.B.C. complaining about this. Now the B.B.C. have substituted a horrible norise which cannot ever be called music. If the committee have not done so. may I suggest that they write to the B.B.C. and appeal to them to provide new interval music in the re-recording of these famous bells.-Yours sincerely. ALAN A. J. BUSWELL.

SPLICED MINOR-C.C.  RULING ASKED FOR

Dear Sir,-In reply to Mr. Woodruffe's letter ( $R$.W.' page 492) I enclose the extents of Spliced Minor rung in recent peals for the Essex Association and containing single change methods. These have all been published before in their original form but to avoid confusion are now given as the arrangement rung.
It will be seen that in two instances methods have been sung without plain leads. Tollesbury in the 15 methods extent which has no 6th place variation is rung with a bobbed lead end and therefore has a different lead to any other method in the extent. Buxton in the 21 method extent is rung with a singled lead end and is the 2 nd place companion to Rodbourne. Had the lead end been bobbed it would have been the same as a bobbed lead of Rodbourne, but as a singled lead of Rodbourne is not the same as a singled lead of Buxton, I feel they are justified in having different names.
I would, however, be grateful of a C.C. ruling on this and jf necessary will withdraw the names of these methods. If so, what do I call the lead of Buxton, it isn't St. Clement's, Rodbourne or Callege, but it must be some-hing.-Yours faithfully,
Danbury, Essex.

DEFINITION OF REPRESENTATIVE

Dear Sir,-I see I am attacked, in rather strong terms, by a Mr. Birmingham for a semark made at the Cardiff Central Council meeting.
What I was attempting to state by this remark was what I believe to be the position of members of the Central Counoil, and I shall be most interested to know whether my interpretation is that of the majority-and therefore the correct view?-or whether I am perhaps too hopeful for my fellow members.
The terms 'representative' and 'delegate, which I used to convey my meaning, do not, it seems, adequately define the differences between two classes of people which I was srying to make clear, and I am sorry for any misunderstanding. Let me give the words the meaning I wished them to convey:
Representative: one who is elected to represent a body of people; a typical member of such a body; one who may be expected to react in a similar way to all of them (but not necessarily in exactly the same way as any one of them, or even a majority); one who can be trusted to act on his own initiative in any situation which may concern the body he represents and to take such action as he considers correct for the good of that body.
Delegate: one who is deputed or sent by a body of people to carry out the wishes of the majority of such a body; one who is instructed to lake specific action in specific circumstances but who may not, without the authority of those who delegate him, alter such a course of action. nor take any decision on which he has not been instructed.
I submit that, if the words 'representative and "delegate" may be taken to bear the meanings 1 have given them, then members of the Contral Council are, as I suggested at Cardiff, representatives and not delegates. If it were otherwise, the members should submit the Central Council agenda to their Association's committee and receive instruction on their course of action before the meetingand how many do or would be willing to do this? Imagine the confusion were it necessary for a Member of Parliament to take a vote of his constituents before voting on any motion in the House. or the unfairness which might result should he have to take orders from his constituency party committee.

It is the Associations as a whole, at their annual general meetings, who elect their members of the Central Council in the hope that such members will represent them fairly for the next three years. If they do not feel satisfied, their correct course of action is not to re-elect that member at the end of his triennial period-but I feel it is not in the least in accordance with the traditions of the Central Council or the good of the Exercise in general that representatives-as I believe we areshould be told to propose motions which they cannot personally support.-Yours faithfully,

BRIAN D. THRELFALL
Harston, Cambridge.

A WEEK DF MAXIMUS RINGING

$B^{B}$
BORN in the mind of one who is often accused of having peculiar ideas, and organised by one whose youthful promise is certainly being fulfilled, the Maximus Week proved to be a severe test for anyone whose ambitions run in that direction.
Early in February John Worth's illness was a severe blow and his absence from the scene of activities rabbed it of a wise councillor and a safe conductor. In all, eight towers were required and for this number 19 were applied for; 12 full time ringers were wanted; 34 were asked, and the mileage covered totalled 1,100
A. G. M. acquired far us a Dormobile, with seats for 13 and a driver to steer it through the maze of ways which we covered.
In the penultimate week, prior to the start of "Operation Maximus," we were still one tower short, but the clan of Hemming generously gave us Evesham for Friday, August 17th, and then on the eve of the beginning of the tour Leslie Clark obtained permission for us to ring at Chelmsford.
Evesham (being nearer home for most of us) was postponed for a later date. Southwark Cathedral was our first tower and the Provost created a precedent by allowing the ringing to start at $3 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. and continue through the evening service. This heavy ring gave some of the band a difficult time to get the beat, but at last a reasonable rhythm resulted and a fairly good peal was brought round in 4 hours 5 minutes, Bob turning in his heaviest tenor without any worries.

HEADQUARTERS AT WYCOMBE

A brief rest was enjoyed with some of London's famous ringers and we joined our velricle, which our driver, Leslie, had guarded during the ringing. High Wycombe was reached in good time and our home for the week, the Falcon Hotel. was soon located, and rooms allotted. After a wash and brush and rooms alloted. After a wash and brush making acquaintance with one another over that which cheers,' bed claimed us all.
Sunday dawned rather gloomy for our early start on the long journey to Birchington and Quex Park, picking up en route Herbert Audesley. Good progress was made through Rochester, that nightmare of week-end motorists. Topsie's lunch basket would have done justice to royalty.

After some wandering, the tower was found and the key having been fetched, the bells were got ready, but after 30 minutes' ringing the 11 th rope gave concenn and "Stand' was called. Repairs were carried out and a second start was made, but it was not to be; the 11 th rope parted just five leads from the end of the peal. This was very disappointing for our single-handed tenor man, who was almost there with two Maximus peals on the tenor Unfortunately that was not the end of our misfortunes. With only a few miles of our return journey accomplished, the "Dorm's' fan belt gave up and that meant a long delay in affecting repairs. However, most of the party found a place in which they were quite happy, and at length we were on our way again arriving at High Wycombe at the early hour of $2 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$.

The venue for Monday was Oxford Christ Church, where we found Chnistopher Johnson waiting to receive and conduct us to the tower and make up our band, fitting in with us as to the manner born and finding time to spend a brief spell with us afterwards, which we all appreciated.

TENOR KING II

Tuesday brought us the long journey to Chnistchurch Priory, which enabled many of the party to enjoy the magnificent Norman work in this building. Here we were joined by Ralph Edwards, an old friend, who, a few years ago, was a regular member of the annual tour. He duly obliged by pushing ' Ye Greate Bell, around with effortless ease, thus justifying the title of 'Tenor King II' or do we argue about that? New Cambridge resulted in a creditable manner and a pleasant interval was enjoyed by all.

Wednesday's tower was our nearest. being opposite the hotel, and being early closing day we were able to start soon after I p.m., and with John Anderson giving a steady beat we came round on 3 hours 52 minutes. This was our easiest day in the week.

For Thursday, Reading was our venue and here we found the easiest ringing of the week; our single-handed man rang the 11th with ease

Friday saw us on our way to Chelmsford, by a somewhat devious but pleasant route, and we arrived in time for a quiet cup and a cooked meal, which made a good going off ccurse (though one member had two going off caurses). We would like to know how many coming round courses he would want! For most of the band this was a new tower, housing one of the few Warner 12 's. The going was good and the bells certainly voice their weight. Don Kenneth shunted the back bells about in the going off and brought our changes down to 5,040 , which helped us to finish circa 9.30 p.m.

Our last tower was St. Peter's. Wolverhampton, where, on the pleasant Gillett and Johnston 12, we comfortably brought round Yorkshire in $3 \frac{3}{3}$ hours, leaving the northern members comfortable time to catch their train.

The arranging of a Maximus week gave our organiser a few headaches. Except in a few instances, 12 -bell towers are impossible to get in the morning, which means that the early closing day must be used or a 5.30 p.m. start, which is 6 p.m. into changes. However, a first Maximus week has now been achieved and others will certainly follow.

Our methods did nat touch the 'dizzy heights,' but, by the middle of the week, we had welded tagether a good band, with a beat that was maintained and by having one attempt a day, we kept our band fresh and vigorous. Our gratitude to one, who shall be nameless, meant the whole possibility of the enterprise, but all were determined that thes should be a unity of minds as well as matter. The thanks of all the band are extended to clergy and tower captains who gave permission for the attempts to take place.
E. J.

ERIN CATERS

By EDGAR C. SHEPHERD

${ }^{1}$ THE principle known as Erin consists of a succession of Stedman slow sixes. Its origin is not easy to trace, but the name was in use before the first peal was rung in 1909. At the Central Council Meeting of that year H. Law James was busily engaged in trying to persuade the Exercise that Erin was the true form of Stedman, a belief that he contended vigorously all his life. At the same time, on June 15 th, 1909 . William Barber conducted the first peal in the method, 5.040 of Triples at Gateshead. A month later, on July 12 th , the same conductor called the first peal of Caters. a 5,076 , at North Shields. The first peals of Cinques were accomplished by St. Martin's Guild. Birmingham. On September 23rd. 1911, J. E. Groves conducted 5,063 at Wolverhampton, and on March 20th. 1921, he called the same peal on handbells in Birmingham.

The production of a six-score of Erin Doubles by a normal use of the Stedman single has not been achieved, but clever extents have been provided by C. K. Lewis and T. B. Worsley by the use of a special bob. In addition, Mr. James Topp produced some ingenious extents in which ceitain sixes contained three singles.

With a shortened slow work and no quick sixes the course of Erin is half the length of a Stedman course, and in Caters the course end comes up every 54 changes. Musically this is very desirable, but in peal ringing the absence of the variety provided by quick and slow sixes gives rise to a certain monotony, so that the method may perhaps be said to offer the best entertainment when. rung on handbells.

Be this as it may (and opinions will always vary according to taste) there can be no doubt that for the provision of musical touches for Sunday service ringing Erin is in the front rank. The bells can be placed in a musical position very quickly, the course ends come up very smartly, and the bells can be brought home with comparative ease. The result is that a large variety of touches of various lengths is at the conductor's disposal.

It is the main object of this short essay to introduce some suitable touches and to indicate the general principles on which many others may be built.

Refore proceeding to the provision of touches we propose tor investigate briefly the means whereby the heavy bells are moved into the usual musical positions, the callings that will maintain the heavy bells in these positions, and the plans by which the bells may be turned or brought home. These three important considerations come under the following headings:-

1. Opening Courses.

2. The Transposition Table.
3. Turning or Homing Courses.

1. Opening Courses, Of these there is a vast variety, but virtually all of them may be comprehended in the three fundamentals given here and labelled Examples 1, 2 and 3. Ex. 1 is the simplest. It consists of bobs at 1 and 5 . Indeed the bob at 1 is enough to send the bells into the Tittums, but for practical purposes another call (or calls) will be needed in the course. These calls may be either bobs or singles, and they may (as will readily be seen) be called at 4, 5, 6 or 7 .
Example 2 is based on Ex. 1, and is a curious specimen of two courses sandwiched into one. The bob at 1 is followed by calls at 8,9 and 10 , and these calls have the effect of turning back the heavy bells and preventing them from going behind. The single and the succeeding bobs keep the 6th in eighths place until the heavy bells return from their short visit to the front and we are able to product a course end with the 6th in its best position. This fundamental calling may be taken as a standard pattern for the opening of innumerable touches for, as will be seen, calls may be added at 4,5,6,12,13 and 14, and these calls may be bobs or singles. As a specimen it may be noted that by adding bobs at 12, 13, 14 to the course shown the course end 123465978 may be secured immediately. By the use of added bobs and the exploitation of singles the composer will find a great array of opening courses, enough indeed to satisfy any plans he has in mind.
Example 3 is a quaint piece of work. It produces a Tittum course end in 8 sixes, 48 changes. It is useful for constructing short touches. but if it is used the composer must take care in bringing the bells round at handstroke or falseness may occur.
We may turn now to our second consideration.
2. Transposition Table. The following Table gives 14 callings that leave the three back bells undisturbed.

| 123456 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| 325416 |  |  |  |  |
| 532416 | - | - |  |  |
| 452316 | $=$ | $=$ | - |  |
| 462513 | $=$ | - | - | - |
| 435216 | $=$ |  | - | - |
| 465312 | - |  | - | - |
| 365214 |  |  |  | - |
| 312456 |  | - |  |  |
| 432156 |  | - |  |  |
| 462351 |  | - | - | - |
| 362154 |  |  | - | - |
| 413256 |  |  |  |  |
| 163254 |  |  | - |  |

The other point is important. It will be noted that the Table gives the isolated calls at $4,5,6$ and 7 . Owing to the peculiar nature of Erin it is necessary to have at least two bobs within the space of a course ; this matter will be explained in due time. Meanwhile the conductor should note that the isolated bobs will not be of much practical use on the construction of touches. They have been inserted here. nevertheless, to complete the survey of the effect of bobs, and with a view to their possible use in pricking by natural course ends.
We come now to getting the bells turned or brought home.
3. Turning or Homing Courses. Example 4 shows how the bells can be brought into rounds in 48 changes, and in quite a musical way. It is very limited in its application, and can bring the bells into rounds only from the rows 315264978,125364978 and 235164978 . In the first case rounds will come at backstroke at the end of a full six: in the second case at the second row of a six: and in the third case it will come round at the fourth row of a six. Despite the rigidity of this course it will be found that a great variety of touches can be constructed with this homing course. Some of these will be demonstrated later.

Example 5 (as with opening course 2) may be said to comprise a basic plan, to which bobs and singles may be added to suit a particular purpose. It consists really of two courses, the first ending in.
ws the bells at once into the mediate single throws the bells at once into the
of the device is shown here as running from 123465978 to 123465879. but obviously it may be employed to turn the bells from any Tittum row (or, indeed) to turn the bells back from Handstroke to Tittums. With calls added it will be found among the touches we shall give.

These opening and turning courses have been set out at some length because it is believed that a short study of their construction will tend to reduce the apparent complexity of the opening and turning courses necessary for the making of musical touches, and so will simplify the work of the conductor both in calling and in the fascinating task of composing.

TOUCHES OF ERIN CATERS
The series begins with seven touches coming round at backstroke. In the first five the opening course is 34567 s . In Nos. 6 and 7 the opening course is as given.

All these seven touches come round by 1 3s 4567.

MR. FREDERICK G. LEAKER

Many ringers and firiends of the Exercise will be sorry to learn of the passing of Mr . F G. Leaker on August 76h, aged 82. Fred, as he was known to so many, had lived a very varied and full life, serving the Church not only as a ringer but in other capacities as well. He was a vice-president of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association. and his connections with the Association were highlighted by his efforts with the School of Ringing held at St . John's Church in Bristol, and many younger ringers of today appreciate to the full the guidance which the had given them through his teaching.
Learning to ring at the age of 15 , his earlier associations were mainly devoted to the Church of St. Thomas, Bristol, where he not only had been tower captain and steeple keeper but for a number of years was churchwarden and closely associated with the activities within the church
In 1950, when it was suggested that a Guild should be formed at St. Mary Redcliffe, he volunteered his services in this connection, the St. Thomas' Guild now having become extinct. For the past twelve years he had been in most regular attendance at all the Guild activities and has held the offices of Ringing Master and steeple keeper.
Fred was a College Youth and always took a very keen interest in the Society's activities and nothing gave him greater pleasure than when he was able to greet other members in his tower.

The number of peals he rang is unknown, but there were many notable performances. His peals had been rung on $6,8,10$ and 12 bells and included ringing at the death of Queen Victoria and for the coronations of King George V, King George VI and our present Queen Elizabeth.
The funeral took place on August 10, the service being held at St. Mary Redcliffe

DBITUARY

Church, when a large gathering of singers and friends paid tribute to one so dear to them. The service was conducted by the Rev. Canon R F. Cartwright, Vicar of St. Mary Redcliffe. In the cvening a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Cinques was rung to his memory.
In paying a personal tribute, II found Fred was a character in whom one found admirable qualities when closely associated with his activities. His quiet dispositon and gentlemanly manner has meant much to me since taking up the office of Ringing Master, which he vacated four years ago. The familiar figure found at headquarters with the famous "Arry, 'Arry' greeting will be missed but not forgotten.

We thank God for his life and example, and pray that he has found peace.
E. F. H.

AN APPRECIATION

I would like to add my tribute to the memory of my old friend, Fred Leaker, of Bristol. He was a very old friend of the family and I must have known thim for something over half a century.

Although his name, latterly, has been associated more with the ringing at St. Mary Redcliffe. when I first knew him and up to the time when I left Bristol in 1924, it was St. Thomas' (city) which he attended regularly and at which the rang. He eventually became a churchwarden of this church.
During that period and, I think, well into the 30 's, Fred lived within a stone's throw of St. Thomas' Church at the Brighton Restaurant, well known to ringers of the period as was his wife, Nell, who ran it.

I regard Fred Leaker as the last of the ald Bristol ringers whom I knew so well when I lived in Bristol.

Fred was not a prolific peal ringer and I rang only two peals with him, and these almost in the same week. The first was quite a memorable ane for those who took partHolt's Ten-Part Grandsire Triples, mon-conducted, at St. Mary-le-Port. Bristol, on Friday. January 28th.' 1921. The other, the following Saturday week was at Wrington and was conducted by that old stalwart Joe Dyke.

Fred Leaker was what I would describe as a very sociable ringer; he had little time for the petty squabbles which, alas, were all too prevalent, and he expressed his contempt in a charateristic manner, which all who knew him will remember.

Bristol will never be quite the same without him.
P. W. CAVE.

DR. CEDRIC N. VAISEY

We regret to announce the death, as a result oî a motor car accident, ' of Dr. Cedríc N. Vaisey, of Freshford, near Bath, on August 18 th.

For over 30 years Dr. Vaisey had been the local doctor, a regular ringer at the Parish Church and a member of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association.

When he first came to Fireshford there were only four bells in the tower. Immediately he set to work to raise the maney to complete a peal. A new light treble was added to commemorate the silver jubilee of King George V.

As soon as the fifth bell was in place he set to work, to get a peal rung. The first peal was rung in 1936 ; and a second in 1938 , in which he unang the new treble.

On Sunday, August 19th. the bells were rung half-muffied in his memory, and a quarter peal will be rung after the funeral.

The enthronement of the new Bishoy of Sheffield on September 15 th is to be marked by the ringing of bells from every belfry in the diocese, where possible. Their message will be: "Prosperity to the Church. common love of good to all her members, and eternal glory to God's Holy Name."
Enquiries are afoot to provide a ring of ten bells at the Cathedral in Kimberly, Cape Prosince, Republic of South Africa.
Mr. Robin G. Leale's tour of Scotland was highly successful, with ten peals from ten attempts.
There are certain things that should not be done in ringing. One that came to our notice this week was a quarter peal rung for a wedding and also for the passing of an old ringer. It doesn't make sense.
In a quarter peal at Cardigan on August 19th, three generations of the Jenkins' family, well-known Tenby ringers, were represented. Mr. H. Jenkins, the senior member, called, and on the treble was C. Jenkins, aged 12.
The Boys' Brigade Council will meet in Dublin from August 29th to September 2nd Any change ringers in the party are asked to contact Mr. Fired E. Dukes, Meadow Cottage, Julianstown, Co. Meath.
We hear that Dorothy and Arthur Beamish, of Nuneaton, and Percy Stone made a big hit with their handbell tune ringing at Butlin's Ocean Hotel, Saltdean, Brighton. We have received a very jolly picture of the trio.

Sympathy is expressed to A. Durfee, who lost his second attempt for his first peal before returning to America at the end of the month. He has, however, a consolation in a quarter of Kent T.B. Minor rung at Caxton, Cambs, on August 15th.

St. Laurence Doubles makes its appearance. According to Mr. P. A. Amos it was discovered by the use of an Antelope single, as was St. David's Doubles a short time ago. Others of the same family are SS. Mary, Jude, Crispin, Barnabas, Policarp, James and Perperua.

BEI.FRY GOSSIP

 $t 0$ Siellenbosch, near Cape Town, for about four months. En route now is Mr. R. H. Strickley, of Sea Point, Cape Province. The advent of these two should im prove ringing at St. Mary's, Woodstock.In a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Pucklechurch, Glos, the conducting was shared by the ringers of the working bells.
The first peal of Glasgow Surprse Major in Suffolk was rung at Grundisburgh on August 15 th, and a well-struck peal it was, too.

The name of the conductor's sister, for whom the peal of Bob Major was'rung at Ashford on August 6th. was Miss Rowena M. Davies, and not as printed.

Through indisposition, both Messrs. Frank Hansford and Emlyn F. Hancock could not take part in the half-muffled peal of Grandsire Cinques at St. Mary Redcliffe, to the memory of their close friend, Frederick G. Leaker.
A young North London policeman returning to his means of transport after visiting a South London tower's ringing practice was stopped by two detectives and asked where and what he had been doing. What a surprise on their faces after showing them his own warrant card!

Having A. P. C. nicely out of the way on the tenor, the peal of Stedman Triples at Ashtead on August 18th looked as safe as any peal in this method can, writes the conductor. But after it was over the conductor got a shockit was the first of Stedman for Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, and the first attempt for a peal by No. 6. They all rang well.

For about 30 years the bells of Halling, Kent, have been silent: hut on Sunday, July 22nd, the newly-formed band of local ringers rang their first quarter peal to welcome the visit of the Assistant Bishop of Rochester (Bishop Mann) at Evensong. The ringers are mostly young and very keen, and are looking forward to their next attempt which will probably ke at the harvest festival.

50 Years Ago

August 23rd, 1912.
Certain ringers who visited Cambridge on August Bank Holiday and the previous day were licky to escape alive. for we hear that some of the inhabitants would like to have the scalps of those who disturbed their Sunday afternoon siesta, and gave them something like eight hours music on the Monday
The Sunday afternoon peal at St. Andrew's was lost after an hour, and three-quarters ringing. What would have been said had the peal been successful? During the second pead of Stedman Cinques at Great St. Mary's on Monday the Provost of King's College thirsted for the blood of the ringers. The bells disturbed the College Evensong. and a porter of ponderous proportions was dispatched with peremptory onders to stop the ringing immediately. The ringers. perhaps luckily for them. were secure behind locked doors, and the emissary of King's knocked in vain. Happily there is, as Vicar of Great St. Mary

(1)UTMCIS

STRATTON, CORNWALL

The Stratton ringers with friends from neighbouring towers and wisitors from Orpington and Cardiff left in a oonvoy of cars at 8.30 a.m. for a Bank Holiday tour of towers in North Devon
The first stop was at Westleigh, where we enjoyed some good ringing on the recently rehung ring of six. The Vicar of the parish rang with us and we were all amazed at his skill despite his blindness. Tom Myers and his friends from Plymouth joined us at this tower and remained with the party for the rest of the day.
The tone of Fremington bells leaves much to be desired: out stay here was curtailed and we travelled on to Tawstock to enjoy our first eight of the day. This church was not seen at its best as the Bank Holiday rain had set in in real earnest. 'Haversack rations, with some local cider, were devoured at the Golden Lion, Bickington. A dash in the rain to the local tower followed and soon the very pleasant light eight were pealing forth
During the afternoon we rang at Athering toll and Yarnscombe. It appeared that our organiser had not made any arrangements for tea, but at the next tower, St. Gites-in-theWood, we found the annual fete in progress and news arrived that tea was available in the Viltage Hall.
Final ringing was at Roborough and Beaford both rings of six, which were not easy to handle, but we enjoyed our ringing at both towers before saying our farewells.
Our sincere thanks are due to Henry for planning the outing and to the local incumbents and their ringers who met us.

DUNHOLME AND SAXILBY

Thirty-seven humans-long ones. short ones, thin ones. plump ones, babies in arms and gay old grand-dads, dark ones, fair ones, bald ones. curly ones-all enjoying a picnic in Bradley Woods, near Grimsby, at 1 p.m. on July 28 th. Someone pointed out that a notice forbade the use of the swings by anyone over 14, but a logically minded boy of 40 odd summers declared that this must obviously refer to 14 stones, not 14 years.
A buffet tea was later taken in the private residence of the proprietor of 'The Singing Kettle ' at Barton-on-Humber, and to end the day we had a three-course dinner at the Queensway Hotel. Scunthorpe, where we sang -Happy Birthday to Joyce Burton, mnch to the delight of Joyce's young children.

In between eating we did some ringing. At Claxby (5) the striking was as odd as the bells: Caistor ( $6,14 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.) the bells were less difficult than we had been told; Watham ( $6,9 \frac{3}{3} \mathrm{cwt}$ ). nice bells and a well-maintained ringing chamber. At Uuceby (6.9 cwt.) lan all-ladies team rang a touch on the bells, which were a delight to handle.
Goxhill, another good light six in a lovely church. and finally Scunthorpe ( $8,17 \mathrm{cwt}$.) proved a good tower in which to end the day, Methods ranged up to Cambridge and Norwich Surprise, Stedman Triples and Kent Major, and the man in charge of ringing (John Blaikie) expressed himself as well satisfied with the standard of striking throughout the day (apart. that is. from Claxby). Our thanks are due to organiser. Stan Smith. for the best outing yet, and those who provided transport.

COTTON AND MENDLESHAM
The Cotton and Mendlesham ringers toured parts of Norfolk for their day's outing, visitihg Hengham, Gressenhall, North Elmham. Fakenham and Salle.
After tea in Aylsham a demonstration of handbell ringing, using the lapping or over lapping method, was given by Mr. L. E. Last and his friends from Hoxne. Mr. Last pointed out that this method of handbell ringing can be achieved without any knowledge of the blue line principle. Two methods were rung namely, Plain Bob Major and Grandsire Triples. To complete the day, ringing took place at Aylsham and Marsham
Our thanks to all incumbents for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Bert Chilvers for making the day possible.
E. H.

A METHODIST'S TRIBUTE TO CHURCH BELLS

There are no rings of bells in Methodist churches in this country, although a number of Methodists are to be found in the ranks of church bell-ringers. Bell music is. however. familiar in many Merhodist churches in America, where handbell "choirs" play hymns and voluntaries., With the permission of the editor of the Methodist Recorder," we presem to our readers "On Hearing Church Bells Ring" that appeared in a recent issue of "The Recorder

IN the still air of a summer Sunday morning, in a little country town in the West, I heard the chiming of the bells of the local parish church, and sweet they were to the ear and cleansing to the soul. My mind was caught up in a reverie because it was many days since I had heard the beckoning sounds of church bells. There is something pure and penetrating, though soft and gentle, in the sound of church bells, writes B. E. W.

They are like the voices of angels reminding us of the other realm--the realm of the spirit which we have too readily forgotten in the clamour and clangour of the material realm of our every-day existence.

Charles Wesley reminds us in one of his great hymns that we must hush our noise in the world if we would hear the angels sing. The same is true of the church bells. The roar of modern traffic, the scream of speed, the rumble of turbulence and the rattle of revolution have drowned the noise of the church bells.

I remember, in the days of my youth, listening to the bells of a church a mile or two away because the sounds of nature did not clash with them and it was easy to hear them across the meadows. But, today, I doubt that even if the church bells were, rung in our towns and cities, that we would be able to hear them. It is a sad commentary on our present day that we cannot now hear the church bells ring because of the tumult all around us.

Yet thic is not all. One of the sad facts is that the church bells are no longer being rung in many places. It is true that occasionally we hear of an enterprising vicar who broadcasts a record of chimes through a loudspeaker in his belfry, which synthetic substitute has no life in it and no message either. Many bells are silent in the belfries today because there are not enough bell-ringers. People cannot be bothered to learn the art of bell-ringing in these days. Labour is a commodity to be sold to the highest bidder and not a service to be rendered to God.

There is a ministry in the ringing of church bells, but today it suffers because there are not sufficient who will make the necessary sacrifice or see the sacred significance of ringing the church bells. Perhaps it is the same malaise in man today that has caused a shortage in all realms where work as service is needed. Would to God there were enough people to ring the bells and enough quietness in the community of men's hearts to hear them again.

MR. EDGAR C. SHEPHERD LEAVES SOLIHULL

SOME months ago the ringers of Solihull Parish Church learnt with much personal regret that Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd would be leaving them in August to take up residence in Wiltshire following his retirement as headmaster of a local school.

Mr. Shepherd came to Solihull in his early childhood, and became a boy chorister at the Parish Church of St. Alphege about 1907. In 1914. after his voice had broken. his older beloved brother Hubert, now deceased, persuaded him to become a bell-ringer. The First World War, however, interfered with his early ringing career, and it was whilst on active service that he was awarded the Military Medal for gallantry in the field whilst he himself was badly wounded.

At the end of hostilities, Edgar Shepherd returned to bell-ringing and to master the intricacies of conducting, composing and ringing Surprise methods. His abilities in these respects are today well known throughout the ringing Exercise. He is meticulous in his time-keeping, and his attention to the finer points of ringing, in striking and handling a bell, are well known to those who have had the pleasure to ring with him. For him, the best is still not quite good enough! He is always ready to help the learner and especially in giving guidance in the calling of service touches.
Mr. Shepherd has endeared himself to the Solihull ringers, where he has been Ringing Master; to the St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, of which he has served as Ringing Master and Master of the Guild (he is also an Honorary Member of the Central Council), and to the choir of the Solihull Parish Church, in which he has been a valuable bass singer. He was a regular communicant at the Parish Church, and in his service to the Church and in his everyday life he set a pattern worthy of following.

On Sunday, August 26th, for Evensong, a quarter peal of Grandsire Caters was rung at the Parish Church as a farewell tribute by the following: G. E. Fearn 1, Miss Muriel Reay 2, C. Dale 3, V. W. Rigg 4, T. J. Warner 5, E. C. Shepherd (composer and conductor) 6, P. Warren 7. E. T. Lloyd 8, C. W. Bragg 9, T. R. Hayward 10. And during the ringing of this quarter peal, with the majestic music of the Tittums and Handstroke Home courses, the sadness of the occasion was lifted and one had in its place a feeling of thankfulness to Almighty God that we in Solihull had had the benefit and pleasure of the guidance and company of Mr. Shepherd for so many years, where he had been the mainstay of the ringing chamber. and we wished him to leave the tower, which he loved, in a spirit

ELECTRONIC BELLS FOR A LONDON PARISH

PIPE'S PILGRIMS IN DEVON

In a reserved judgment, Mr. W. S. Wigglesworth, Chancellor of the Diocese of London, has granted a faculty, subject to conditions, to allow the existing bells at Christ Church, Roxeth. Harrow, to be replaced by an amplified electronic bell system.

A petition for the granting of a faculty was considered by a consistory court. There Mr. Ivor Bulmer-Thomas, chairman of the London Diocesan Advisory Committee, stated that the solution was to replace the present bells with a single bell in the existing turret or to huild a new belfry.

Stating that he was unable to accept Mr. Bulmer-Thomas suggestion, the Chancellor said: 'The parish has for some 70 years been accustomed to a system of bells, which are not true bells. They need a new system, and I do not consider that in opposition to their wishes it is reasonable to confine them to one true bell. or practicable to compel them to provide a belfry with a full peal of bells.
The conditions the Chancellor imposed were that the apparatus would be under the control of the vicar and must not be operated except by a person authorised by him, and it must not be so operated as to cause any nuisance to the occupiers of neighbouring premises.

50 Years Ago

August 30th, 1912.
Peals are sometimes recorded in odd fashions, but we think a record on a jug must be unique. At Brooker's Hotel (formerly the Millstone Inn). Barnsley, there is a large jug. manufactured by the noted firm of Doulton and Co.. which bears, on one side, the announcement that a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, 6,080 changes, was rung at St. Mary's Church. Barnsley, on December 26th, 1879, in 3 hrs . 50 mins. On the other is given the names of the performers as follows: Treble, C. H. Hattersley: 2nd W. Richardson: 3rd, G. S. Tyas: 4th. W. Whittaker: 5th, R. Sharks; 6ih. A. Brearley : 7th, T. Hattersley; tenor, R. H. Pease.
Our correspondent (Mr. T. R. Hensher), who sends us this information. says he is informed that the name of the ringer of the 5th was Sparks. The capacity of the jug is nearly two gallons, and he asks can this be the "little brown jug' of the immortal ballad?

Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd  leaves Solihull

On Monday evening. August 27th. at The Barley Mow Hotel. the Rector, churchwardens. choir and bell-ringers met jointly and informally to make a presentation 10 Mr . Shepherd. Tributes were paid by Mr. Charles Bragg for the bell-ringers, supported by. Mr. Charles Dale, Ringing Master, and by Mr. Colin Mann, organist and master of the choristers, supported by Mr. Stokes, chorister. The Rector (the Rev. Harry Hartley), after speaking highly of the qualities of the life and character of Mr. Shepherd, presented him with a bathroom cabinet and a Swedish condiment set from the choir and bell-ringers, and to Mrs. Shepherd he presented a charming bouquet of flowers, with very best wishes for their future happiness, and also for their daughter Mary whom we were very pleased to see accompanying her parents that evening.
Mr. Shepherd, in his delightful manner. thanked the Rector and company for the gifts and good wishes. And in his speech one felt that although we were losing so much by his departure, the Church, and especially the ringing chamber. had in the past half-century gained so much by his very presence, and for that we shall be forever grateful.

Long may he continue to serve.

Old England's counties by the sea, from East to West all seven.
But the gem of that, fair galaxy, be Devon, glorious Devon.'
THE usual early departure from Grundis-burgh. on Sunday. August 5 th, started the burgh. on Sunday. August 5th, started the journey to Somerset and Devon in good weather. After picking up contingents from London, Sussex, Cambridge and York at St. Paul's Cathedral, and Gladys and Arthur Barker at Slough, we made for Marlborough for lunch. where we were joined by more Yorkshire friends and Bert and Mrs. Kynaston.

Our first tower, Midsomer Norton. came after lunch. It was a good old style eight (tenor 21 cwt.), where all methods went well. After tea. at Mells, we rang for evening service on this fine, heavy eight ( 26 cwt .) : they are odd struck, but we did full justice to them with a variety of methods. At the H.G.. Bystock Hotel, Exeter, we were joined by the remainder of the party, mostly from Yorkshire.

LONG TAIL ENDS

On Monday we travelled north-westward to Winkleigh ( $8,20 \mathrm{cwt}$.), where long draught, long tail ends and heavy "go" combined to produce poor striking in all but Triples methods. Striking improved greatly on the good light eight ( 15 cwt .) at Torrington, but we began to realise that vee should be plagued with long tail ends in all towers with callchange bands: even the "titches" had to get used to ringing with coils of rope. Tawstock ( $8,16 \mathrm{cwt}$.) proved difficult to find, and the steep, narrow staircase was an embarrassment to the more portly gentlemen.

Chulmleigh's heavy eight ( 23 cwt .) in a lofty tower gave considerable satisfaction, as did a good tea at the Red Lion Hotel, after which we thoroughly enjoyed the heavy mixed Bilby and Taylor eight ( 25 cwt .) at Witheridge. At Silverton, the modern Taylor eight ( 16 cwt .) trotted along at a merry pace in methods from Double Norwich to London, to give a good ending to our first day.
Tuesday saw us at Ottery St. Mary, a miniature of Exeter Cathedral with a fine Taylor eight ( 18 cwt.). to which we did justice. A touch by an "all-Grundisburgh band " was rung. Later we moved to the lighter eights at Sidbury ( 16 cwt .) and Sidmouth ( 13 cwt .) During the afternoon there was some improvement in the weather, and with it our spirits rose to produce some good ringing on the Warner eight ( 15 cwt .) at Withycombe Raleigh, including a very fast tortch of Stedman and a ladies touch of Grandsire with Sylvia conducting.
Woodbury's mixed heavy eight ( 25 cwt.) were slow-moving but went well, and striking was good in a variety of methods. During the evening we made full use of the opportunity to ring at Exeter Cathedral (12, 72 cwt .)-a great privilege. Members of the Cathedral band helped to raise the bells to save precious time -a generous thought-and a surprisingly good standard of ringing followed; Grandsire Caters and Cinques. Treble and Plain Boh Maximus went well.

AT BUCKFAST ABBEY

Wednesday was sunny and warm, and we had free hour to enjoy Dawlish sea front before trying the eight ( 22 cwt.) at East Teignmouth. After lunch. a pleasant run to Buckfast Abbey (12, 41 cwt.) brought us our second highlight of the tour. We were welcomed by Fathers Oswald Mowan and Paulinus Angold, and conducted to the tower with Aubrey Bennett, who had assisted in making the visit possible. Unfortunately, we did not really do justice to this fine 12. but to redeem ourselves we finished with a well-struck touch of Grandsire Caters. After lowering the back ten in peal, we were allowed to ring the $7 \frac{1}{2}$ ton Bourdon, which proved to be surprisingly easy, and to stand beside it as it rang was awe-inspiring Leaving Buckfast, we enioyed the wonderful scenery as we made for Yeiverton on the western edge of Dartmoor for tea, and to ring on the mixed Gillett and very old eight at the picturesque village of Buckland Monachorum. These sounded better outside the tower than inside, the tenor being a particularly fine bell for $15 \frac{3}{3} \mathrm{cwt}$. Our next tower should have been Buckland-in-the-Moor (8, 7 cwt .), but it was impossible for the coach to cross the narrow bridges. However, while Iris Lemare went in her car to make our apologies to the Vicar, we made our way across Dartmoor to Bovey Tracey, where the good-going fast eight ( 14 cwt.) were much enjoyed, especially to a course of Rutland.

First call on Thursday was at Dulverton (8, 17 cwt .), where the bells were very odd struck At Timberscombe ( 8.12 cwt .) a course of Cambridge was rung by the eight Pilgrims of longest standing, among them Gladys and Arthur Barker, who first met 40 years ago at Edmonton, when Gladys rang her first course of Cambridge. The oddly-tuned eight ( 17 cwt .) at the Priory Church of Dunster provided our third ring before lunch, after which we made for Wiveliscombe, where the good old eight ( 20 cwt.) went well to all methods, including Yorkshire and Rutland. Effective use had been made here of sound tubes to make the bells audible in the ringing room.
At Milverton ( $8,18 \mathrm{cwt}$.), the only touch of the week in eight Spliced Surprise was conducted by Roddy Pipe and went well. Wellington's fine post-war Taylor eight ( 19 cwt .) were a joy to hear and sounded good to one of Ron Edwards' musical touches of Little Bob. Bradninch was the last eight ( 20 cwt .) of the daya pleasing old ring.

BABBACOMBE'S ENTHUSIASM

Our first tower on Friday should have been Highweek, but the funeral of a local dignitary made this impossible. However, Bill Simmonds came to our rescue and arranged for us to ring at Babbacombe ( $8,14 \mathrm{cwt}$.). Here the young enthusiastic band has undertaken to raise $£ 250$ of the $£ 2.500$ needed for the restoration of the bells, which is shortly to be put in hand. In addition, Bill has undertaken to carry out structural work himself, including the installation of steel joists. We commend this deserving cause.
After enjoying the coastal scenery for an hour and having lunch, the light eight ( 14 cwt .) of Upton. Torquay, was rung at a good pace. and striking was good in methods up to London. Berry Pomeroy proved to be a goodgoing eight ( 17 cwt .). which were well handled. but it was regrettable that the same could not be said of our efforts on the magnificent Taylor eight ( 18 cwt .) at Dartmouth, where most of the striking was mediocre. At Ipplepen (8, 20 cwt.) we were told that there was a very good local call-change band, so that we were glad that our striking was good, as doubtless. critics were listening. Exminster ( $8,18 \mathrm{cwt}$.) proved difficult to handle because of the long length of rope to the ground floor, but we had some good London, Stedman and Erin. An attempt for a course of Yorkshire by an all-Yorkshire band, however, came to grief
Later in the evening at H.Q.. appreciation was expresed to Jim and Sylvia for another highly sucessful tour, coupled, with the presentation of a "Baby Belling" cooker, whilst I.en, the coach driver, was not forgotten.

The return journey on Saturday was broken at Street $(8,23 \mathrm{cwt}$.) for a last pull, after which numbers hecame depleted at each staging point. leaving only a few in the coach for the last hop 10 Grundisburgh.

A PILGRIM.

'AN AFFLUENT SOCIETY' ON TOUR

HOR a University Society to centre itself for a week in a rival seat of learning, even in the long-vac. term, might seem a rash and piovocative thing to do, yet this is what the University of London Society of Change Ringers did in August, establishing headquarters for its annual ringing tour in Selwyn College, Cam. bridge. The venture, in fact, proved peaceful and very successful, and the score or so members who took part are grateful to Derek Sibson for organising it, and to the ringing Guilds whose territories we invaded for their welcome.
Following the tendency of our recent tours, the party was not large, and mainly comprised graduate members of some years' standing. This posed a iransport problem of an unusual sort: we had too many cars, and so to encourage sociability and minimise traffic congestion agreement had to be reached each day on the cars to be left behind. The situation convinced us that ours had indeed become an "Affluent Society, and evoked comparisons with early tours which relied on pedal-propulsion
H.C.F., CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE

Unprecedented also was the complete lack of beginners in the 'rounds and Grandsire' stage, the Highest Common Factor of those present being Cambridge Surprise, and the maximum achievement during the week being 12 -Spliced. This is not to say that plain methods were not rung; on the contrary, an effort was made to ring at least one touch of something simple in every tower, with a selected band, and some extremely good ringing resulted.

The smallness of our number, especially at the beginning and end of the week. introduced a potential hazard to the success of the ringing. On the first day, Philip Gray gave us a presidential warning against the two ideas most detrimental to ringing; these are
(a) "They'll have enough up there without me and
(b) 'I'm going down to listen to them outside.
In point of fact, it turned out that there was a very high proportion of ground-floor rings. This feature was greatly appreciated: it also eased the task of the appointed Ringing Master for the day by simplifying the rounding-up of wanderers.

POINTS OF BEAUTY

The sensible schedule enabled morning coffee to be snatched on most days, and there was also time to appreciate points of beauty and interest in the churches. Among these should be mentioned the intriguing maze at Bourn, leading from the west door to the font. In reality, this is a isled pattern on the floor, and is thought to signify the perplexities and intricacies of the Christian's path. At Soham we saw a particularly fine example of an angel roof and an unusual arrangement of a lady chapel over the porch. At Long Melford, too, we found the church more interesting than the bells, though we did ring 10 -spliced here. In many cases our interest extended outside the church, and we felt that what the Cambridge area and surrounding counties may lack in natural landscapes is compensated by the qualities of its villages and towns.
The. usual 'uncampanological activities' associated with our ringing tours were indulged in during the week, also some new ones. One group lost no time in making their first acquaintance with the art of punting, and were very soon pursuing a spiral course downstream. The nearest approach to calamity came when Mikaela Erik, who was driving at the time, got her punt pole entangled in the mathematical bridge, from whence it was promptly appropriated by a lurking mob of landlubbing members. We realised later that they had the interests of the crew at heart. for Mika's first action on regaining the pole was to deliver a resounding whack on the head to Gay Williams.

A WINDSOR WEDDING

The village of Histon, though not on our ringing programme. was visited especially to see and hear a fascinating penny-in-the-slot musical contraption known as the 'Polyphon.' located in the bar of a public house there. This is the Victorian equivalent of the present-day juke box, and must be one of the few examples still in constant use. Another unscheduled trip. a midnight excursion to Grantchester in the president's car to see if the clock still stood at ten to three, seemed perfectly reasonable at the time.

Ringing tours tend to be remembered by different people by different incidents: Nicholas Davies. for example, will remember being locked in St. Andrew's Church and having to chime a bell to draw attention to his plight: while others will no doubt never forget their first ride in Jumbo Seager's car, particularly the car-load privileged to experience the thrill of cornering on two wheels in reverse.

But every tour also acquires some general attribute or character which distinguishes it in the Society's memory. The Cambridge tour of 1962 will surely be marked by the high standard of ringing which prevailed throughout the week: this itself was the most fitting appreciation possible of a well-organised and enjoyable tour.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Lewisham District

The pleasantly-situated Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Shoreham, was the venue for the summer quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District on July 28 th.

An hour-and-a-half's ringing in a variety of methods preceded the service, which was conducted by the Rev. D. E. Benbow. The organ was played by Mr. M. J. Pound, one of the ringers from Downe.
A short open-air business meeting was held in the churchyard, under the chairmanship of the Rev. P. N. Bond, Further ringing concluded the afternoon's programme.

TWWO popular members of the Society of Raving Ringers were married at Windsor Parish Church on August 11th, a week after the Society's summer tour of North Wales. The bride. Miss Olga L. Critchlow, formerly of Liss, Hants, and now residing in Windsor, was rung iato church by Windsor ringers led by Jim Glass, and augmented by a number of Ravers, guests at the wedding.
The bridegroom. Mr. Michael D. Ling, comes from Gloucester. and is well known round Gloucester and Cheltenham. The service was conducted by the curate. Rev. Mr. Jenkins. The bride wore a full-length dress of white brocade, with short veil held in place hy a crystal coronet. and was attended by her two sisters, one of whom is learning to ring at Windsor. Their small brother acted as pageboy. The best man was Mr. Roger Price, of Gloucester, formerly a ringer at St. Mary-deLode.
After the happy couple had been rung out of church, the reception was held at the White Hart Hotel in Windsor. There was something fishy about the honeymoon spent in Scotland, the bride travelling in pale blue with white accessories. One cannot be sure, though, whether it was the leaping salmon or the kipper wired round fhe exhaust pipe of their car!
Later in the day a peal of seven Minor methods was rung at Hitcham to mark the occasion, being also the first peal rung by members of the Society of Raving Ringers. The peal was credited to the Oxford Guild. Mr. and Mrs. Ling are now in residence at 9a. Selkirk Street. Cheltenham. and ringing at Presthury.

Bedfordshire Association

Twenty-five ringers attended the evening meeting at Tempsford (6) on August 11th. when the special method was London Scholars' T.B. No business meeting was held, but Northill was chosen as the place of the next meeting.

MISS WYMAN'S TOUR OF IRELAND, 1962

FOR years we had been saying: "We must go to Ireland." Finally, on July 16th, 17 of us assembled at London Airport with numerous maps. brochures and two sets of handbells. and at midnight we took off in a Viscount and anded at Dublin an hour-and-a-half later. We groped uncertainly in the dark for two A40's and a Thames van, but eventually reached our hotel.

After a short sleep we were under way and tackling our first Irish tower. Christ Church Cathedral. Grandsire and Stedman Caters were rung, but we found it difficult to get the best out of the bells, perhaps because we had not finished sleeping. Nearby was the Augustinian Church of St. John, the fame or infamy of whose spiral staircase had gone before. We climbed bigher and higher upon an open iron staircase suspended inside the church, and eventually reached the belfry, oblong in shape, with the circle situated at one end. We were warmly received by the local ringers and the Prior, and after recovering our nerve and our breath rang call-changes and Gtandsire Caters.

After lunch we tried lreland's heaviest ring. St. Patrick's Cathedral with its 45 cwt . tenor. Here we first met the irrepressible Mr. Dukes, who did so much for our tour, and were taken round the beautiful cathedral hy Mr. Wilson and the local hand. The bells were set going to the standard methods and were much to our liking.

Our last tower of the day was St. George's. where we learnt from a notice on the wall that in order that there should be no ringing "irksome to nervous persons" special occasions should be observed by ringing only from two until three. We trust our Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob did not offend!

THE BREWERY AND IRISH COFFEE

Monday morning was spent inspecting what must surely be the home of Ireland's staple industry-Guinness' Brewery. After sampling the produce we moved on via Tara and the burial-mounds of the old Irish kings to Drogheda. Here we added Double Norwich and Cambridge to our list. The bells were beautiful, and from Mrs. Dukes and her helpers we received the first of many examples of Irish hospitality. After we had tried to do justice, to the feast, Mr. Rapley expressed our thanks. We returned to Dublin via the Hill of Howth, catching lovely glimpses of the Bay. A further visit to St. Patrick's Cathedral and a course of Double Norwich were particularly enjoyed, and then to the Gresham Hotel to fulfill another ambition and sample Irish coffee

Next morning we moved on to Bray, and after lunch tried these fine bells. They went like tops and we accomplished half a course of Superlative. We also rang a touch on the lovely handbells. After visiting the beautiful Glendalough and dabbling our toes in its waters we travelled down the Vale of Avoca to Arklow. Here the church is perched high in a commanding position overlooking the valley on one side and the sea on the other. We were met by Mr. J. T. Dunwoody who was on holiday there and formally welcomed us to Ireland, and we soon had yet another excellent peal ringing out. This time the Sussex contingent demonstrated their party piece-Oxford Boh Triples.

RELENTLESS DOWNPOUR

After spending the night at the Portsmouth Arms. Enniscorthy. we awoke to a relentless downpour. We found our way through the rain to Waterford and there rang at the Cathedral. This time three leads of Bristol were accomplished on another good-going ring. It was a wet outing to Dungarvan, where a picnic lunch was eaten and repairs to the van effected. We then turned inland and crossed the Knockmealdown Mountains. This part of our journey we imagined rather than saw. We called briefly at Mount Melleray Monastery, and we think there was a marvellous view (we had climbed so high), hut we shill have to go back in sunshine to make sure!

At Doneraile we found a little old church. somewhat neglected, hut we soon had the six bells tapping along. A large variety of methods rung included a ladies' course of Stedman

MISS F. WYMAN

Doubles At Cork, we were again met by Mr. Dukes, this time in league with Radio Eireann, whose interviewer wished to question Miss Wyman about our trip. The bells at St. Finbarre's were very noisy at first, but when we got used to them we liked them. The roof above the sixth leaked, causing the ringer to stand in a puddle, and this provided some amusement. Here we again rang Bristol in addition to the plain methods. Mr. Dukes reminded us that Erin was the method appropriate to our surroundings, and after a hurried consultation over $2 / 1$ and $1 / 2$ we rang a couple of courses. While we were ringing the Dean of Cork arrived and made us welcome. We were afterwards entertained to supper by Mr. Fred Bogan, the president of the Irish Association. The handbells were soon brought out, and in addition to Plain Bob a riotous course of Cag-Mag ensued.

KISSED THE BLARNEY STONE

Next day we became typical tourists and went. to kiss the Blarney Stone. We are all now endowed (or should be) with the gift of eloquence. We then explored Cork, heard Shandon's famous bells, and spent the afternoon wandering in the neighbouring countryside. The beauty of some of it, especially the Old Head of Kinsale, took away our breath. but a visit to Ringabella Bay failed to elicit the reason for this odd name.
In the evening we went to Bandon and discovered why mention of the belfry had always produced knowing looks and laughter. Entering it by a pair of unsecured ladders was a major operation, and coming down was worse. However, we rang a number of methods on the noisy bells and managed to include Norwich Surprise. We had heard of the fame of the Bandon ringers who had won the cup in the striking competition, and when they demonstrated for us we were suitably impressed. Again were were entertained to supper at a table groaning with all manner of good things. We expressed our thanks with some courses on the handbells and a few words from Miss Wyman.
Friday dawned bright and clear, and we had a marvellous run to Limerick, via the famous Ring of Kerry. The scenery exhausted all our adjectives of praise. Our longest journey ended, we rang on the superb bells of Mount St. Alphonsus. The ten went admirably to caters and Royal, and we were reluctant to leave, particularly as a set of 52 handbells remained untried At St. Mary's Cathedral we found another Irish church redolent of history. Upstairs was a good-going eight, and we rang Double Norwich and half a course of Cambridge. Once more we were entertained by the local ringers, this time in the "Blue Room" of the Cathedral, where we were welcomed on behalf of the Dean of Limerick who was on holiday.

THE LAST DAY

On our last day we set off for Tipperary and Kilkenny. At the latter was a cathedral of grand proportions and alongside it a tall, circular tower, once used as a look-out against the invading Danes. First we were given coffee by the Dean of Ossory in his beautiful home. Then we climbed the belfry stairs to discover that the massive squat tower did not contain the bells at all-they were in a bell-cote on the roof. The bells were difficult to strike but we managed Cambridge and Double Norwich as well as Stedman.

After lunch at the Club House, gifts of Irish linen were presented to our organiser and the four drivers. We had been awaiting Blessington with some interest, as we had been told that the tenor could not be turned in. On our arrival we found that Mr. Dukes had raised the fifth with disastrous results, and a not-verymerry peal of 12346 was ringing out. In our ignorance we had supposed that as the bells had been previously listed as "unringable" they must now have been rehung, but this was not so-the Irish ringers had merely resumed ringing!. Our tenor man, doubtless fortified with Guinness, took up the challenge, but after seven minutes had to give in. Finally, Mr. Dukes took the tenor and showed us how it should be rung, although we feared for his safety because of the large gaps in the floorboards.

After tea in the Rector's kitchen, we returned to Dublin, where eight of us and two local men rang a quarter of Grandsire Caters at St. Patrick's. A last Irish coffee was taken before leaving for the airport. Here, as the accounts wero being settled. Mr. Dukes turned up again. this time bringing back two of our party who had rung a handbell peal with him at Julianstown.
It would have taken a whole issue of "The Ringing World "to relate all the things we did and another to describe all we saw. We were tremendously impressed by everything, and not least by the warmth of the welcome we received everywhere and the quality of the bells. To all incumbents and our Irish friends who welcomed us, and especially to Mr. Dukes and his family. we say a sincere thank-you for a wonderful ringing week.
M. L.

We were sorry that old touring friends were not all able to join us.-F.E.W.

NATIONAL STRIKING COMPETITION?

Dear Sir,-Why not a nation-wide striking contest? This could be open to any band that wishes to enter, not a band from a given tower but a collection of ringers from a Guild or Society. There could be more than one team. an A, B, C. etc. The country could be divided into areas and the whole brought down 10 a last twelve that would compete in the finals.
What a feast of ringing it would he, and what a gathering of ringers!
Many problems would, of course, have to be ironed out before such a competition could take place. I write this letter in the hope that it may bring in more correspondence on the subject
I only hope that this is not to be confused with prize ringing. The only satisfaction the winners get is the fact that they have won!Yours, etc..

JOHN E. COOK.
Branston, near Lincoln.
P.S.-Probably a suitable certificate for the winners and runners-up would not be considered a prize?-J. E. C.

MORE YORKSHIRE 4-BELL TOWERS

Dear Sir,-Investigations have been carried out at four more of Dove's Yorkshire 4-bell towers.
BADSWORTH, near Hemsworth.-Access to the bells and upstairs ringing chamber was not gained. but photographs of the bells, all very old, at a foundry, revealed that they are hung for ringing. It seems likely that the bells are ringable, with a tenor of about 10 cwt . There is also a chiming apparatus operated from the base of the tower
BURTON AGNES, near Bridlington.-Not ringable, as the wheels and wooden frame are not secure. 'Cart-horse' type ropes are attached to the bells and hang in the upstairs ringing chamber. The tenor appears to he about 9 cwt .
WOOLLEY, near Barnsley.-Once rung from the ground floor, as the old rope guides are still fixed. Now only two old ropes hang. The bells appear to be unringable and are now only chimed from the apparatus in the ringing chamber. Tenor probably about 9 cwt

FLAMBOROUGH.-According to a notice in the ringing chamber, the tenor weighs 7 cwt . 2 qr .12 lb . and is in note A .

Yours sincerely,
M. KING

A THANK-YOU TO DEVON

Dear Sir.-I would like through the columns of 'The Ringing World' to thank all those ringers in Devon with whom I rang on a recent holiday, both call-change ringers and scientific. For many years now, I have enjoyed their friendship. 1 would especially mention St . Michael's, Teignmouth, ringers, who always receive me with great kindness.-Yours faithfully,

ALPHABET BELLS

Dear Sir - On page 542 there is a reference to an "Alphabet" bell. Could any reader through 'The Ringing World.' give an approximate date of these bells. Our treble bell has only the alphabet around the crown and no other inscription at all. This is in groups of three or four letters in the old English characters. The tenor here of five about 18 cwt., was cast in 1639 , but the treble appears much older.-Yours sincerely.
G. GRENTER.

'IN DOMINO, FOUNDRY SHIELD

Dear Sir,-The arguments which Mr. Clayton quotes from a book by E. A. Dowman in 1898 are interesting as a theory, but I still think Wm. Culverden's shield unique and original. It has an interesting puzzle for many years until Mr. A. D. Tyssen solved it. Culverden was a keen churchman, and in Psalm XI the Latin Vulgate is "In Domino confido." which was probably his favourite text and psalm.

Bells by Culverden are very rare, but two examples are found in Surrey (Chobham and Wimbledon). and in Middlesex there is one at St. Lawrence. Brentford. Culver is an old English word for pigeon, and this is represented on the shield.--Yours sincerely

SCARBOROUGH'S BELLS

Dear Sir,-In view of the advertised meeting of the Y.A.C.R., to be held at Scarborough on September 15 th, might I reassure possible intending visiters, who have already been to Scarborough once this summer, regarding the 'go of our No. 6 bell?

For three to four months there was something, the matter with this bell, and we tried all the usual suspects first to try and improve it, but to no avail. Finally, however, a broken gudgeon was discovered, which has now been replaced, and the bell rehung, and she now goes like one of the trebles.

So all's well at Scarborough for the autumn meeting, and we hope that those members who had to work on the sixth when they visited us this summer will come again on September 15th.

On behalf of the Scarborough company.Yours sincerely.

AN OLD WELSH CHURCH

Dear Sir,-Some years ago I was in the beautiful country of Wales, and came upon an in teresting church lying at the foot of the Black Mountains, dedicated to St. Elli, and reputed to have been built around the 1lth century The font, north and south aisles and tower added in 1626.
The bells, a pleasant light six, are dated 1908 Two 1715. two 1606. the oldest being cast in 1440 and is one of the oldest bells in Wales. The inscription on the waist reads: S'ce elline thesu campana(m) SEMPER TIBI PROTIGE SANA(M) (Ellimers St. of Jesus ever keep thy bell safe and sound), and was cast by Josselyn in Bristol. I had the pleasure of chiming them for Sunday service.-Yours, etc.

COLOMBO BELLS

Dear Sir,-With reference to Mr. H. Fleming's letter concerning Ceylon and Colombo bells. I can give the inscription taken from the biggest bell:-
On shoulder: "Georges & Fransisque Packard Fondeours. A. Annecy-le-Vieux Hte (France) 1903."

On waist: Anthony Nicholas de SilvaDonor. Leo XIII Sovereign Pontiff. Thomas Andrew Melizan. O.M.I.. Archbishop of COlumbo. A. COUdert, O.M.I.. COadjutor of Columbo. J. B. Meary, O.M.I., Parish Priest.

With happy memories recalled when I "bagged" St. Lucia"s in 1955.-Yours sincerely, Swindon.

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE ROYAL

Dear Sir, -In addition to the figures quoted by Mr. R. C. Kippin, as a round 5.000 Cam bridge Surprise Royal by the Rev. H. Law James, I append the following figures of a 5,040 by the same composer which also keeps the last ten courses of Middleton's intact. It will readily be seen that the composition is the same as that claimed by Mr. D. R. Carlisle, starting at the sixth course.

| 23456 | M | W | H |
| 52436 |  | - |  |
| 34625 | - | - |  |

| 64523 |  | - | - |
| 23456 | 2 | 2 | 3 |

Reference to the Kent County report for 1931 (page 103) shows the composition in this form, and recorded as peal No. 3,581, rung at Leeds, Kent, on June 6th. 1930, conducted by W. H. Hewett. I think the most apt description of the composition would be to call it a variation of Middleton's, but. whether or not to attribute it to Rev. H. Law James or T. B. Worsley 1 could not say, not knowing who was first in the field, but obviously both before Mr. Carlisle. Yours truly,

Bradford.
L. W. G. MORRIS.

Dear Sir. - May I thank Mr. Kippin for pointing out the lack of originality in the Cambridge Royal composition under my name, without the usual expressions of outraged indignation. The fact is that Surprise Royal is so simple to compose that most compositions barely merit the claim of originality.

In this particular case I had no intention of making more claim than "arranged by," and chose to produce this composition because I am too lazy to keep a record of Royal compositions. No doubt my colleague the conductor chose publication in "The Ringing World " as the laziest way of determining the truth and originality of the composition.
I cannot, however, agree with Mr. Kippin's rather curious view that because the composition contained ten courses straight out of Middleton's it could hardly be called original. On the contrary, l would claim that a composition containing, say, 13 courses of Middleton's and one course different from Middleton's might have great original merit.

The subject of originality in composition has become rather ludicrous, particularly when one sees in the Central Council's publication "A Collection of Compositions in the popular Major methods" many compositions for the Yorkshire. New Cambridge, etc., type of method based on the round block M B W which are all simple $Q$-set variations of one another.
It is my serious view that more originality would be shown by a composer who explained 10 the Exercise his method of composition rather than by the publication of the end result. I would. for instance. dearly like to know the process hy which Mr. Middleton derived his classical Cambridge composition.Yours sincerely.

NON-RESIDENT LIFE MEMBERS

Dear Sir,-Although, due to a very heavy agenda and a rather early civic invitation from the Lord Mayor, the Oxford Guild motion may appear to have been rather superficially dealt with, it was not "rigged " as suggested by Mr. Burles and supported by Mr. Birmingham and others, and there was never any reason why such a half-baked effort should have received such V.I.P. treatment. even assuming the Central Council ever resorted to such devices, which it does not.

This most outrageous assertion is a gratuitous insult and a gross affront to our much-respected president and to the Council. An apology is very definitely indicated.

It should be known that in addition to the motion's consideration by the Standing Committee on the Whit Monday: evening, a considerable amount of discussion and canvassing of views took place among members outside the Council Chamber, and probably at a numher of district meetings before that. It is' certainly not the practice of the rank and file members to lag behind the Standing Committee concerning such controversial subjects as this. even if items dealing with the adoption of sub-committee reports may sometimes appear to become routine (in actual practice they do not), and I can assure anyone interested that it received consideration from the Worcestershire Association Northern Branch and from the Dudley and District Guild weeks earlier, and in every case this consideration was one hundred per cent. against the motion, while the following were among a few of the points made :-
(a) Part (1) of the motion was an unwarranted interference in the internal affairs of other Guilds and Associations.
(b) Part (2) would have every treasurer up against it, since almost all Guilds and Associations are working on a financial shoe-string.
(c) The very wording of the motion suggested ,the work of interfering "busybodies."
(d) If, by some unlikely chance, it had got as far as gaining a majority of one or two in the Council Chamber, it would be very far from representing the great bulk of opinion, if only having regard to those members who had not had prior discussion in their districts, and to those Guilds and Associations which were not represented, or only partially represented.
(e) In any case there existed no means of compulsion by which such a measure could be forced through to its logical conclusion, even if accepted by the Central Council, since so many of those who had to do the work would have none of it .
In the Worcestershire Association (which is very far from being alone in this) the revenue from these subscriptions goes towards substantial bell repair and renovation grants.
It is strange that so many ringers should display such a rooted objection to paying a little for what they have out of ringing, but the fact remains, they do. Nevertheless, this idea of as much as possible for as little as may be is altogether wrong and reflects badly upon us.

If this thing had eventually gone through and been accepted in the districts the loss in revenue to Guilds and Associations would have to be made up somehow. and if that involved another two or three shillings per annum on resident members' subscriptions, then there would be another outcry and very probably a heavy loss of membership, particularly among non-peal ringers and those who are not regular peal ringers, who would certainly object to paying for other people's pleasure.
I am not "sold" on maintaining any status quo. A change can often be good for us, but there does not appear to be any good which could accrue from this motion UNLESS IT BE ACCOMPANIED BY A CHANGE OF OUR PARSIMONIOUS HEART, and the people who concocted it did not think of including or embodying anything of that kind in it at all. Did they, now? -Yours faithfully, BERNARD C. ASHFORD.

Alfred Bowell's Bells in Kent

Dear Sir,-I have followed with great interest the series of letters concerning the Ipswich bell-foundry, especially those of Mr. F. Bowell himself. In Kent, Alfred Bowell's work must have been both highly appreciated and contagious, since he is very well represented throughout the whole county; before the war his bells in these parts must have been almost as numerous as those of his contemporaries.

The following is a brief description of his work in Kent known to me as such:-
1909. (i) Six broken and cracked bells at Marden recast into a lighter ring of eight, and rehung in new frame and fittings:
(ii) Two trebles at Northbourne recast. and the five bells rehung in a new 6-bell frame.
1911. (i) A new treble added at Northbourne (above) to make six:
(ii) Seventh and ninth bells recast at Leeds, and the whole ring rehung in new fittings in the old frame.
1912. Two trebles and seventh bell recast at Gillingham.
1913. (i) Tenor recast, new treble added and the six bells rehung at High Halden :
(ii) New treble added to make six at Higham;
(iii) Third and fourth bells recast, and the five bells rehung in a new metal 6-bell frame at Warehorn.
1917. Treble, second and seventh bells recast, and the whole ring rehung at Biddenden.
1919. Five bells recast, a new treble added to make six, and in new metal frame and fittings at Halling.
1920. (i) Three trebles added to make eight at Frindsbury, the fifth and sixth being recast at the same time. New frame and fittings throughout;
(ii) Two trebles added to make eight at Linton in the cages provided when he rehung the bells a few years previously;
(iii) Fourth bell at Tenterden recast and rehung, and the tezor rehung in new bearings.
1922. (i) Two trebles and fourth bell recast, and the whole ring rehung at Head-corn (the two trebles were again recast when the bells were restored by Mears & Stainbank in 1947) ;
(ii) Third bell recast, a new treble added to make six, and the bells rehung at St. Nicholas-at-Wade ;
(iii) Old five bells recast into six, and rehung with new fittings in the old frame at Smarden ;
(iv) Three old bells at Chalk recast, and rehung in a new 6-bell frame.
1923. (i) Sixth bell recast at Biddenden:
(ii) Two tenors recast at Frindsbury.
1926. (i) Treble at Egerton recast ;
(ii) Treble recast, and the four bells rehung in the old frame at Stowting :
1927. Tenor recast. new. treble added to make six, and the bells rehung in the old frame at Hothfield.
1928. Tenor at East Farleigh recast.
1932. (i) Second and tenor recast, a new treble added to make six, and the bells rehung in the old frame at Little Chart. (The church was destroyed during the war; the bells were recast by Taylors in 1956. )
1934. Tenor recast, new treble added to make six, and bells rehung at Milton Regis.
1935. Two new trebles to maka six added at Stowting.
1936. New treble added to make six at Warehorn in the cage provided (see above).
The following rings of beils also received attention from Alfred Bowell, mainly in the form of rehanging :-

Aylesford, Bobbing, Boxley, Canterbury (St. Alphege), Charing. Eastry, Hoo, East Langdon (4). Sandhurst, Shorne (rehung in an 8-bell frame). Stockbury, Willesborough, Yalding.
Snodiand hells were augmented to six, and Northfleet bells to eight, both c. 1920 ; perhaps someone can say whether Alfred Bowell was responsible here also?
I would be interested to know of any other work by the Ipswich Foundry in this district.Yours faithfully,

NICHOLAS J. DAVIES.
Ashford, Kent.

SOCIETY OF BIDDENDEN YOUTHS

Quex Park and Margate were the ultimate objectives of the Society of Biddenden Youths for their annual outing on July 28th. The first tower visited was Chilham, a somewhat noisy eight. The driver unfortunately invaded the "hallowed precincts" of the square and had to beat a hasty retreat. There was, however, in the church a warm welcome from Canon Lawson.
We had to travel through teeming Canterbury to reach St. Stephen's, on the outskirts, where we were made welcome by Mr. Unwin. A brand new set of ropes, and a temperamental tenor were not a good combination for a semi-experienced band, nevertheless we did not disgrace ourselves.

After a sandwich lunch at Minnis Bay, the coach brought us to the entrance to Quex Park and we wandered in the sunshine along about half a mile of private road to the Waterloo Tower. We spent an enjoyable hour ringing sometimes 12 , sometimes eight. with the birds and bees as our only audience.

At Margate we were free until 8.30 p.m., but a few stalwarts arranged to meet at St. John's and were in time to join in Evensong before sampling the very good ring of eight. We enjoyed the company and assistance of Mr. Dadds, the local Ringing Master.
Young and ald sampled the varied delights of Dreamland, and later one of the older members was heard to remark, 'Can't see how they reckon you get much chance to dream in there!'

A RINGER'S HYMN

By PERCY AMOS
Words based upon Psalm 48. To be sung to the tune set for Hymn No. 11 English Hymnal: 'The Advent of our God.' Suitable for an 'office hymn' at Evensong on a ringers' festival Sunday. Or for use at a ringers Guild service ; or dedication of a bell or bells.

Proclaim the Church of God, To men of every land;
The bells we ring, the Gospel bring, With melody and hand.

Set on His holy hills,
The towers thereof we tell; Within their walls a message calls, From every hallowed bell.

Ye Sons of Sion arise, As the Pilgrims did of old; Up to Jerusalem they trod. With Psalms their praise foretold Give ear good Christian men. Low and high, both rich and poor: God's presence and His very self Convey from shore to shore.

The tune can be played upon a set of ten handbells as follows-the numbers joined together representing notes half the value of those not joined

9, 6, 6, 4. 5-6-5,
$4-3-2,3-4-3,4,5$,
2. 4. 6. 5, 9, 6, 4-3-2,

SYLVIA'S STEDMAN CINQOPATORS

We had never noticed before that it was day light at 6.45 on a summer Saturday morning. We found out on August llth in Brentwood, when our semi-dormant party of bellingers climbed into their elderly Rolls-Royce and set off on a tour to take us way out beyond the Gireen Bell. Twelve miles and one gallon away we were joined by ringers from Southend and district in a little ford van

For many miles (and gallons) Albert, whose singing will never reach the top 120 , exercised his sonorous tenor voice to an extent of Ilkley Moor Bah T'At.' This caused the Rolls to be driven at the greatest possible speed, and the party reached colchester just half-in-hour too early. The spare time was well spent by Janet, who was knitting her ' woolly what-not' among many admirers.

Ihe tirst ringing was at St. Peter's, where the poor first two courses of Grandsire Triples were an insult to these wonderful bells. The following Stedman was fast and rough, but when our host joined in for some Oxford Bob there was a striking improvement. Just down the High Sireet and two whole turns to the left stands the Church of St. Leonard-at-the-Hythe where we caught hold for some All Saints and Grandsire Doubles and Plain Bob Minor.

Next siop was Wivenhoe, where we were joined by three ringers from Woodford, all looking well after oversleeping. Quite 17 changes of Stedman Doubles were achieved after four or tive bad starts. To try to improve matters, a 'touch' of Double Court was started which resulted in at least nine changes The following inquest was broken short by a lovely 120 of Girandsire Doubles by the second team

Our first Kent T.B. Minor was rung at St Osyth, after which we went to the beach to eat sandwiches. Some brave members (other adjectives were used at the time) decided to have a swim, after which various attempled methods of changing looked most comical in the strong wind. Costumes were wrung on the beach and the party departed.
At Great Holland, the front six went up in perfect rhythm, so nicely that we then let them down again. We tried to raise the octave in peal, but lack of potential caused havoc and local folk must please accept our apologies for the ensuing cacophony

The lovely ring of Bowell's at Thorpe-leSoken tapped away to Kent T.B. and to a good touch of Double Court. Anne had at last realised her blue line wasnt' straight!
Our striking was very poor at Harwich. Stedman and Oxford Bab Triples sounded more like 'Trad-Fad.' After the ringing, our topographer sent the ancient Rolls along the right road in the wrong direction, and we soon found ourselves face to face with a large Dutch liner. Eight bells was not 10 be heard. This delay made us the back six. and some Rub Minor had been iwelve-scored before we rolled up at Mistley. There Mr. Honeywood helped us out. and we rang some Cambridge

The last church visited was Ardleigh, where some of the ringing was 'curate's egg." but the Bob Major and Grandsire Triples were all right.
We returned to Brentwood just as the 24th man went to mow, and the trip was brought round at "The Artichoke.' ringers eagerly joining in rounds!

A Kent Romance

Pictured cutting their three-tiered wedding cake, which was made and decorated with bells by Miss Violet Reif, of Tenterden, are Miss Elizabeth Marshall. eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Marshall, of Bethersden, and Mr. Gordon Stewart, of Westwell, Kent. They were married on August Ilth at St. Margaret's Church. Bethersden, where both are members of the local band. The Rev. P. H. Starnes, of Westwell, officiated
The bride, given away by her father, wore a white embroidered nylon dress and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The bridesmaids were the Misses Jennifer Young, Julie Marshall (niece) and Maureen Bingham.

Two quarter peals were rung at Bethersden on the wedding day, and a third at nearby Smarden in the evening to enable the bride's father to take part.

The honeymoon was spent touring, service ringing being eajoyed at such far-away places as Stow-on-the-Wold, Glos, and Scarborough and Scalby, Yorks

Our grateful thanks must be given to all the rectors and vicars for allowing us to ring their lovely bells; to all who met us and helped us; and espesially to Sylvia for so efficien:ly making all the ringing arrangements. She even substituted the traditional cold salad with fish and chips.

MIDDLESEX ANONYMOUS DAY OUT

Eleven towers in Surrey and Hants were visited by a dozen ringers from various towers in Middlesex on August llth. There were three cars-a vintage Rolls-Royce and a Mini being wo of them.
Of the many adventures, perhaps the journev from Aldershot to Farnham was conspicuous when the three cars parted company. The third car, bewildered, asked the first passers-by for directions. Unfortunately they hapoened to be Spanish girls who didn't " speekee dee Ingeesh Spanish girls who didn't "speekee dee Ingleesh veree good," and after completing several frustrated circuits and passing them about fous times the Mini friends were spotted, apparently doint the same. Farnham was reached hopeessly late
The last tower was Send. A final meal at Woking was followed by a "liquid supper." Great glee was expressed when one of the party However, several furtive glances ringers' songs, However, several furtive glances at the other occupants confirmed that "She'll he ringing Grandsire Doubles when she comes," etc., was definitely out, especially as some of the good folk were already edging their way towards the door following the party's arrival

NEWBURY RINGERS' OUTING

Miss Cherry White, of Dunsfold, arranged a full programme of ringing for friends in the Newbury area on August 11th, who left Thatcham at $6.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. First came a wellstruck peal at Dunsfold, the bells being raised at $9.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. a after which the band was really gratefal to Mrs, White, sen. for the was really grateful to Mrs, White, sen- for the dinner she had generously provided.
In the afternoon there was ringing on two worth, and Double Normich and and Fittleworth, and Double Norwich and Cambridge at Pulborough, After tea a visit was paid to Thakeham, reputed to be the best six in Sussex, and Kirdford. Touches of London, Beverley and Surfleet were also rung. To Mrs. Whire and Miss Cherry White our sincere thanks.

LYNEHAM, WILTS

Lyneham ringers, accompanied by ringing friends from Calne, Lechlade, Melksham and Swindon, made Somerset and Dorset towers their objectives on July Ith.

On leaving Lyncham, a touch of Grandsire Doubles on handbells was brought round. A Doulting we were rewarded with some w struck rounds and Bob Minor on this slow. going six. ## Robin Leale's Band Goes Over The Border

ON Friday, August 3rd, two of the three cars destined for Scotland arrived at Har-row-on-the-Hill Station at 6 oclock to pick up those who had travelled up from South London, and after adjusting luggage and seating arrangements, set off for the MI. With the exception of torrential rain, the journey to the Newport Pagnell Service Station was dreary and uneventful. We soon cheered up when Jack Munday arrived, accompanied by the three lady members on the tour. After a meal we drove in convoy, to the Clarendon Hotel, Derby where we arrived at about 10 o'clock and settled down for an early night.
On Saturday the sun was shining cheerfully and, after breakfast, we set off through the Derbyshire Peaks towards the Lake District and eventually arrived at Settle for lunch. In the early afternoon we drove through very pic turesque scenery to our first tower of the tour Kirkby Lonsdale. This fine ring of six was enjoyed in a touch of Double Oxford and a course of London. Everyone agreed that Shap had the lowest ringing ceiling in their experi ence, but after an attempted 'up in peal and a few rounds, touches of Bob Minor and Stedman Doubles were accomplished with little effort. The ring of five at Bampton, the third and last tower of the day, was more difficult The ropes were Yorkshire tail-ended and the bells had not been rung for a long time: the third required a good deal of persuasion to stay up; attempts at change-ringing were not too successful.

The rest of Saturday was spent travelling to Glasgow, and a pleasant drive through the Lowlands via Carlisle and Gretna Green was particularly enjoyable. We found the Dorchester, after a circular tour of Glasgow, and were hustled into an annexe adjoining the hotel To our delight we found that this "wee hoose was to belong entirely to us for the next two nights.

THE FIRST PEAL
The bells were up when we arrived at the Episcopal Cathedral of Glasgow on Sunday morning, and after the Belfry Office had been said by the local captain. Mr. Boumphrey, two half courses of Cambridge Royal and a touch of Stedman Caters were rung before Matins The bells went very well and put us in fine form for the afternoon peal. We took the A80 road out of Glasgow and soon arrived at Alloa for the attempt. A quick check for faulty ropes proved the rule of the day, and after cutting and re-splicing the tenor rope, the peal got away to a good start.

After a successful peal, the party reassembled at about 7.30 in Glasgow for a Chinese meal (as is the custom on these occasions). and it was at this time that one of the party was unfortunate enough to have his camera and radio stolen from his car. A quick sightseeing tour of the Gorbals soon cheered him up, and the rest of the evening was spent looking at slides of previous tours and listening to the baritone voice of Mr. A. P. Cannon (a tenor ringer of Dorking, Surrey), who received an apple-pie bed for his efforts.
An early rise was necessary on Monday to start the peal at Paisley by 10 o clock. After a strenuous effort by the tenor and treble ringers (who claimed they had the worst benders in the tower) a fine peal of Cambridge was brought round just after 1 o'clock. The bells had just been pulled down when a voice came up the stairs enquiring as to why the bells had been ringing for the last three hours: were we testing the bells? It was then hat we had our first encounter with the Scotish Police. Fortunately, it had been his own curiosity and not complaints that had occasioned this enquiry.

AT INVERARAY
With the three non-peal ringers of the day three hours ahead of us, we set off for Inveraray via the Erskine Ferry. An hear's wait at the Ferry put paid to the quarter peal we had planned. Feelings of frustration were soon diverted by the magnificence of Loch Lomond and the splendour of Glen Kinglas and, as we rounded the Cobbler and dropped down to Loch Fyne, we drove past Inveraray Castle still one hour behind schedule. With the ropes of St, Giles', Cripplegate, kindly lent by Mr Jack Phillips, we rang the fine Taylor ten to courses of Cambridge Royal. Grandsire and Kent. We were all very pleased to meet Hilda Snowden and her brothr and Eric Speake, who enjoyed a ring with us. Everyone was extremely relieved to take their weight off the very rickety belfry floor, and to set off to "conquer' the next $50^{\circ}$ miles through the Stupendous scenery of Glencoc to the Croit Anna Motel at Fort William.

The motel was situated by the side of Loch Leven, just outside Fort William, and Tuesday morning dawned bright and fresh, but no one was encouraged to try the loch, despite idle boasts the night before. We took the A80 up the side of Loch Lochy, past Ben Nevis and on to Fort Augustus at the base of Loch Ness. Here we stopped for some refreshment in anicipation of a 'monsterous' view. But it was not our lucky day; even the haggis eaten earlier did not help: Loch Ness presented a completely unbroken surface surrounded by geometrically-placed Scots fir.

By 2 o'clock we had booked into our hotel at Inverness. snatched a hurried fish and chip lunch. and climbed the belfry stairs of the Episcopal Cathedral. There to meet us were the curate and an artistically-dressed Scot who announced himself as Mr. MacTavish from the Scottish B.B.C. T.V., and could he have a few details? We oiled the bells, greased the upper reaches of the ropes and pulled them up. Rounds were rung whilst cameras were rolling, recorders spinning and the Press, who by this time had made full use of the Scottish-type grape-vine, had inveigled their way into the ringing chamber and were letting off their flashes.

An excellent peal on an excellent ring of bells was accomplished in three hours twenty minutes and, according to Press reports, enchanted the inhabitants of Inverness, many of whon sat on the castle lawn in the sunshine for the sole purpose of listening to the bells! It was the first peal on the bells since 1877. After some reviving refreshment at the church house, an interesting discussion ensued with the curate. who told us that there were good prospects of a change-ringing revival in Inverness.

MOUNTAINEERING

Despite opposition from those who either wanted a trip to John $0^{\circ}$ Groats or a lie in bed we set off on Wednesday morning to climb Cairn Gorm (4.084ft.). The three cars wound their way out of Aviemore up the narrow. twisting road to the chair-lift 2.000 ft . below the summit. We parked the cars and found that the chair-lift cost $4 /$ - single, $7 / 6$ return, so, in sandals. light-weight winkle-pickers bright yellow cardigans and carrying our lunch and umbrellas. we ascended the last 2.000 ft . on foot. An hour and a half later. when we had all assembled at the summit, blue with cold and practically wet through. we decided to descend hand have our packed lunch at a lower altitude
On the way to Dundee we had a look at Crathie Church and Balmoral Castle, but time was short and we had to push on to a larger town in order to see ourselves on the T.V. 6 o'clock news. At ten to six, two of the cars pulled into a hotel at Ballater with minutes to spare. The other car had to stop at a crofter's cottage as they had made slower progress, and after explaining the situation, persuaded the occupant to put away his shotgun and switch on his T.V.

A cracking peal of Pudsey Surprise Major started at 9.15 on Thursday morning at St . Paul's. Dundee, and lasted 3 hours 18 minutes. It was only the second peal on the bells. the first being Stedman Triples iri 1927.

PRESS INTERVAL DURING PEAL

After a quick lunch. the five of the party who were ringing in the afternoon joined the others at the Old Stecple Church at 3 oclock for a peal of Double Norwich. Mr. Bertie, who let us in. settled down in a corner to listen to the peal. Just after the first part he responded to a knock at the door and let in two characters. one of whom turned out to be a member of the Press. After a few gesticulations, the latter locared Pat Cannon, who was calling the peal from the tenor. A most unusual press conference then took place. during the final section of the second part, with Mr. Cannon filling him in with details and breaking off occasionally with polite 'excuse me to put in the bobs. The remainder of the peal went by without further interruptions and came round in the record ime of 3 hours 2 minutes. The two previous peals on the bells were Cambridge in 1927 and Bristol in 1958. We were very pleased to meet Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Lea, from South Shields, who were on holiday and who enjoyed a ring prior to the peal.

After the usual Chinky, Thursday ended with brisk walk up to the Tay Bridge and back to the hotel
On Friday morning we found two reports in the 'Courier and Advertiser' about our exploits of the day before. One was a reader's letter which complained of 'the continuous head-splitting cacophony caused by itinerant campanologists, and who signed himself off Yours in ear-plugs. Decy Bell
The other was a report headed 'Bellringers isit Dundee,' and gave the mathematical and chronological details that Pat Cannon had supplied to their reporter

We covered the fifty-odd miles to Dunblane before 12 noon and were in plenty of time for lunch at the Stirling Arms.

By 2 o'clock the bells, ropes and clock-chimes had been attended to, and we set off into Belgrave Surprise at a cracking pace. Apart from an unusual amount of trips, a steady beat was maintained, and on the whole the peal was enjoyed by those that took part and by those who listened outside.

IN EDINBURGH

By 8 o'clock we had driven along the banks of the Firth through Grangemouth and Queensferry to Edinburgh, and were assembled in the tower of St. Cuthbert's, where we rang three leads of Bristol and a touch of Spliced Surprise. This very good ring of eight (tenor 21 cwt .) go like clockwork, and put everyone in good spirits after the long journey.

The hotel was just off Princes Street, but after an excellent meal, for which the rest of the band would like to thank Jack Munday and Pat Cannon, we were all too tired for very much sightseeing.
Saturday saw an early start down the road to Leith, where the tenor kings gave their best performance of the tour with courses of Cambridge and London. Twenty minutes later we were climbing the stairs to the belfry of Edinburgh Cathedral. We all stood on our boxes around the huge ringing circle, amid a fantastic collection of handbells, and rang Cambridge and Stedman for about half an hour. After these fine ring of ten, a short drive through Edinburgh brought us to the light ring at Fettes College. A peal of Doubles got under way by 2 o'clock. It was to be the fastest peal of the tour, and with Jill Neal Smith on the tenor, it came round after 2 hours 10 minutes.
The remaining six ringers carried on over the border to the Watch Tower of Morpeth, where they were met by Alan Ainsworth and Eric Harrison, and an excellent peal of Rutland was rung in 2 hours 35 minutes. By this time the five Doubles ringers had arrived and, after having a pull to score the lower, we accompanied Alan to Newcastle, where his wife Marion had prepared an excellent meal. We would all like to extend our gratitude to Marion for her hospitality and cookery. How she managed to cope with 15 is still a mystery to us all!

AT DURHAM

Ten o'clock Sunday morning found us struggling up to the very high ringing chamber of Durham Cathedral, where we rang Stedman and Superlative for Matins. On ground level once more we said goodbye to Anne Garnett and Alan Bagworth, who had to be back at work on the Monday morning. The rest took the AI south towards Penistone for a peal of Fordcombe Surprise. For most of us it was the first peal on Yorkshire tail-ends but. although no additional blisters resulted, the large circumference of the two sallies made a few hands ache. The peal finished about $20 \mathrm{~min}-$ utes before Evensong, so, with the local captain. Arthur Champion, we rang Bob Major' up to 5.30 .

The sense of anti-climax that prevailed on Monday morning, after a night at Chesterfield. brought about a rather mediocre peal of Bristol at Crich. We had completed a round trip of 1,500 miles, rung on all the ringable bells in Scotland, scored ten peals, and by the end of this peal we were both sorry and glad that the tour had almost ended. Over a drink in the local Crich hostelry everyone in the party extended their thanks to Robin for his organisation and congratulated him on the 100 per cent. success of the tour.
The Chinese food enthusiasts then bid a final farewell to the non-Chinese food enthusiasts, and each went their own ways leaving Robin with the question- "Where shall we go next year?
A final word must be said in thanks to all those tower captains and incumbents who did so much to make the tour run so smoothly.

OUR ALBERT

(with apologies to Stanley Holloway)
You'll have 'eard of the tale of our Albert And the arrible things that befellNot the one with the 'orse's 'ead 'andle, But the one that were ringing the bell.

Now Albert were keen on 'is ringing The sally were bliss to 'is feel,
And one night while ringing at practice He thought, ' Blessed if I don't call a peal.
They were leaving the inn a bit later When he mentioned it-casuad likeWhat! you call a peal for us, Albert?' 'Why you'll have the whole village on strike!'

Then he said he could do it, he'd show 'em, He'd call 'em In Quick and Before ;
He would stick in some Bobs and some 'Singles, But 'twas Worthington speaking, I'm sure.

He ad picked a good man for the trebleA necessity everyone knows-
For if treble leads too close at 'andstroke He puts the rest out with their blows.
He would like to have Rector for tenor, A good, steady man he could trust, He didn't get 'ot under collar And he knew that the clergy don't cuss!
Down went the rames for the rest of the ropes, On paper the peal were a cert, [before, They were all fairly good and had done it In fact, only bad ringer were Albert.

One or two rules for conducting he knew And he'd managed a quarter, what's moreAt least, almost...cos he forget, d'you see, The odd sixty that goes on before!
Now he knew that conductors were very keen Who, by cunning devices, could tell [types Not only where they ought to be in the pead, But where everyone else were as well.
The day of the ringing arrived in due course And the singers all stood by their ropes, Our Albert looked round as if saying his prayers, There were less talent than there were hopes.

It started off well and the striking were fair, The bells went $1-2-3$ and 4,
Which is nicer to listen to when you're outside Than $1-2-3-4$ and a bit more.
Our Albert call 'Bob' and away they all went, Running in, running out making fourths,
All thinking like mad what they'd got to do next And all counting their places, of course.
A few singles more-they were going quite All ringing as steady as rocks, [strong When Albert called 'Single-no, Bob-no, that's And promptly fell off of 'is box. [wrong;'
They never said much when the tried to explain 'Cos they all knew just how he must feel.
They hadn't had very much faich from the start 'Tware the last time he ever called peal.
Now a warning to ringers who want to be goodThere are aids that can 'elp you to ring,
Like coursing, and watching when treble goes by And striking well's quite a good thing.
But whatever you do in your ringing career There's a job that you really can't shirkYou've got to get down with a book in your 'and, And for goodness sake, learn all the work.

outings

BEAMINSTER, DORSET
An 8 a.m. start was made by the Beaminster St. Mary Honorary Ringing Guild for their annual outing on August 18 th to Bourton-on-the-Water. Special interest was attached to the first tower, St. Mary's, Swainswick, an anticlockwise six. The tower is only 7ft. square and the bells are hung in three tiers.

The route was through beautiful scenery to Painswick, and after an excellent lunch at the Pollyanna Cafe, the well-known church of St. Mary-the-Virgin was visited. The Master of the Painswick Youths (Mr, Goulding) met us and showed us the Society's peal records dating from 1811. Rounds on 10 and 12 and Grandsire Triples on the back eight were much enjoyed. Five miles on was Brocknorth, and the six bells were soon up and ringing to Grandsire and Bob Doubles.

At Bourton-on-the-Water the model village was visited hefore tea at the New Inn and ringing at St. Lawrence's Church (8, tenor 12 cwt.). The time to start for home came all too quickly, and travelling via Cirencester and Frome, Beaminster was reached at 11 p.m.all agreeing that the trip of 200 miles had been most memorable. The thanks of the Guild are extended to incumbents and those who met us.

STOWMARKET

For the Stowmarket outing this year Mr. O. G. Barnard decided to take the District ringers to Hertfordshire and Buckinghamshire. Unfortunately he was indisposed on the day, and we were very grateful to Mr. R. E. Lester who kindly deputised.

During the morning we visited the towers of Oxhey, Bushey and Bushey Heath. An excellent lunch was provided in the Gaumont Cinema, Watford, which can be recommended to parties visiting this area.

After lunch, at Rickmansworth we were followed by the Loughborough ringers. The appearance of Mr. Paul Taylor thrilled one of our lady ringers, who was overcome with joy at being able to speak to "the great man himself."
We left to the echo of the bells, and made for Chenies and then Chesham. After tea we visited Northchurch and Berkhamsted.
Our thanks to all incumbents for the use of the bells and to Mr. Barnard and Mr. Lester for making the day possible.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

North and East District

St. Mary's, Harrow-on-the-Hill, the church with a commanding view of the surrounding countryside, proved a popular venue for the District's August meeting, some 35 members and friends attending.
The service, in the absence of the Vicar of St. Mary s, was conducted by the Rev. R. J. Vaughan, Rural Dean of Harrow, whilst Mr. David Arnold accompanied at the organ.

Tea was served in the adjacent Church Hall, and credit is due to Mrs. Gage and other members of the local band for their arrangements.
At the short business meeting that followed the chairman extended a welcome to Mr. Douglas A. R. May, the Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, and Mrs. May. The ratification of the provisional election of Robert $J$, Chapman (Waltham Abbey), John Eisel (Kingswinford) and Paul Cattermole (Droitwich) pror to a peal at St. Andrew's, Holborn, as nonresident life members was made.
A vote of thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the meeting was made by Mr. H. G. Hart, following which further ringing took place in a variety of methods until $8 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.
A cordial invitation to return to the Church Hall for a social half-hour and a further cup of tea to assist is disposing of the surplus remaining from tea was gratefully accepted by the majority of those present. E.H.K.

THE SMITHS

 THE STORY OF A RINGING FAMILY By I. N. QUICKContinued from page 511
Will Hexworti win the Shield? The contest is also to include a rise and fall.' Joe Smith, the head ringer, introduces to readers again some of his possible ream-such as William, the milkman, Henry, and naturally the observations of Mr. Challen are recounted.

PLANNING THE CONTEST

AT the Annual Meeting the question of 'to rise and fall' or 'not to rise and fall.' came up for discussion as arranged. Henry Hammenton was there, but James Hargreaves sent an apology. It may be remembered by those readers who have followed this chronicle since the beginning (!) that these two had been asked, in the words of the minutes, for a reappraisal of the question of "rise and fall" in the shicld contest.'

In the letter which contained his apology. James Hargreaves discussed the problem and Edward Lee read out to the meeting such extracts as he thought might be relevant to the discussion. It would be nice to report that these extracts clarified the situation, but it soon became evident that James Hargreaves himself was, as Joe heard Raymond Smithson mutter beneath his breath, ' Perched politely on the palisade!' High-sounding phrases about 'the undoubted recessity for the increase in present standards of " rise and fall ", and "the benefits to be derived from the aforementioned alterations to contest procedure, were offset by others which described the difficulty of assessing the true standards' and about the whole subject being 'of doubtful value in contest ringing.

When Edward had finished this enlightening epistle he sat down heavily in his chair (for he was a heavy man) and scratched his head, while the company looked puzzled, as well it might.

Someone behind Joe said distinctly, "Well, that was a big help!' and there was a general outburst of laughter

John Chappell, who was not without his sense of humour, said. 'One thing is certain, whatever we decide to do at this meeting, James Hargreaves will always be able to say, "' Well, I told you so!'
Apparently a great deal now depended upon what Henry Hammerton had to say, and as he stood up to speak all eyes were turned towards him. He was a medium-sized man. rather portly, with a red face and a pair of piercing blue eyes. He was well known throughout the county, and indeed throughout the country, as a composer of some repute. Now getting too old for peal ringing, he had many good ones to his credit, quite a few of which were his own compositions. He was a handbell ringer 'par excellence." and was altogether quite a lively chanacter with an agile brain, an active tongue and a ready wit.

He soon made it quite clear that if the Guild wanted to introduce 'rise and fall' into the contests he was quite prepared to evolve some system of assessing them. There was (he said) Jittle difference between oollecting the faults in rising and falling and collecting them faults in rising and falling and collecting them The only danger, so far as he could see. was that a team might rush the bells up or down in order to reduce the number of rows that could be faulted: which, he understood. had been the cause of the suspicion with which a previous similar contest had since been regarded.
In order to counteract this he had prepared a scheme which he would submit to the Guild if necessary. which severely penalised those who raised or lowered too quickly, and in any case he suggested that five minutes be ailowed not use the time allowed, faults could be incurred which would vary according to the time difference.

In a brief and succinct speean, be dealt with these and various other items whilst the ringers listened with acute interest, and by the time he had reached the end and dealt with one or iwo questions to clear away certain obscurities, there was little doubt that the Guild would adopt the new venture.
On being put to the vote it was carried by a large majority that: "The next contest shatl have a "rise and falt" included as part of the competition, in addition to the test piece. A special committee was elected to make final arrangements and redraft the rules where necessary, and the contest was fixed for its usual date of the third Saturday in July.

The interim period was put to good use by teams intending to take part in the contest. and the tower was open to visitors up to a fortnight before it was due to ibe hehd. The Hexworth company visited Netherton on two occasions, and Joe was quite satisfied with the standard of ringing on both of them. The striking was good enough to win a contest, he thaught, and the 'rise and fall' couhd hardly be bettered. 'Still,' he reflected, 'anything can happen at a contest:' They would do their best, and that was that.

THE DAY ARRIVES

Can you visualise a day that is bright and fair, with a pleasant breeze laden with the refieshing odour of summer flawers; binds that are pouring a poean of joy from treetops and hedgerows with fresh tender leaves glistening in the morning sunlight; the milkmaid tripping across the farmyard humming a country ditty to herself, bedecked in a gailly coloured pinafore rendered even brighter (we are assured) by modern detergents; the milkman, full of joie de vivre (or its English equivalent), whistling a snatch of 'Don Giovanni' as he rattles the milk churns in the float?

Can you visualise such a day? So can I!
But alas, these things are not such stuff as contest days are made on!

It pains me to be truthful, but on this occasion the marning was dark, wet and dismal. with a howling wind battering the flowers to destruction; the birds were clinging for dear life to the swaying branches of the trees, or perched. miserable and disconsolate, in the hedgerows, dejectedly preening their dank and dripping feathers: the milkmaid, half buried in oilskins, squekched knee-deep in mire across the morass that had once been a farmyard. while the milkman, looking, and no doubt feeling. like an undertaker's assistant (or its French equivalent), clanked down the milk churns in the bottom of the float with a doleful din reminiscent of the passing bell.

And who was the milkmaid? I haven't the least idea!

It could have been William's daughter if it wasn't for the faot that William hadn't got a daughter. The milkman, however, was William. and William. I might add, had never sung a note of 'Don Giovanni' in his life. He would, in fact, have been somewhat surprised if anyone had suggested such a thing: fei William was not very musical.
Joe. who on the other hand was quite musical. though, by his own admission. 'rather old fashioned. once declaimed

When I switch on the wirleess to disten to a concert I like to know whether the orchestra is tuning up for a Mozart Symphony or is in the middle of one by Shostakovitch: William. I vow, woukdn't know the difference between the middle of a symphony by Mozart and the orchestra tuning up for Shostakovitch!'

Be that as it may. William always enjoyed joining in the hymns at the church service. He was aware of his own limitations and realised that he couldn't be depended upon to end up in the same key as that in which he had begun. His voice was penetrating like the screech of a guinea-fowl, and he had a range of about four or five notes extending from middle $C$ downwards.

Joe never ceased to wonder that William and his ilk, some of whom had, a note of music in them fone or two he knew that were, in fact, tone deaf), should make such excellent ringers.

Mr . Chahlen's explanations on this subject may be enlightening.
'Bellringing,' he said, 'is mique in the whole field of music in that its performers command a larger direct audience than any other combination of instrumentalists, and yet not one of these performers need have a note of music in his soul. In fact, all that is required is a strong sense of rhythm. This asset alone does not, unfortunately, automatically place a campanologist very high on the intellectual scale, as this vital quality may be in evidence in uneducated savages beating tomevidence in uneducated savages beating tomgood ringer is able to demonstrate his intellectual superiority in other directions, by, for instance, mastering the intricacies of complicated diagrams and committing to memary whole chunks of otherwise useless figures. Of course a musicad ear enhances our appreciation of the sounds we are propagating hence expressions such as "the roll-ups," "6-8s." "tittums," etc., and arguments for and against $6 / 5 \mathrm{~s}$ at backstrake, albeit it doesn't necessarily follow that all the people who use these expressions or enter jnto these arguments understtand what they are talking about!'
From which it may be gathered that Mr. Challen had a somewhat cynical outlook on life. To Joe it strill remained one of the marvels of ringing that a person who couldn't distinguish between a semi-tone, a semi-colon or a semi-quaver should still be able to participate successfully in producing a symphony of sound.
In the course of his rounds William made his usual call at the Smiths to deliver two pints of milk and (being Saturday) one dozen eggs. He placed these on the table just inside the back door and shouted, "A dovely morning, Annie lass!', and without waiting for an answer splashed his way across to the workshop where Joe and Henry, knee-deep in oak shavings, were working away at the bench.

- Morning, Joe ; morning, Henry. Nice day for a contest!
' Good morning, Williams,' said Henry, -Seven o'clock weather forecast says it will clear up in the early afternoon. I have known it to be correct!'

Aye, I've just seen Granfer Green down at "Rase Cottage.' He says his skyatica's, bin pickin' up a bit this last two days an' he wouldn't be surprised at a fine affornoon. I wonder how many teams there will be in today?'

Joe put a 'face" mark on the substantial piece of oak that he was 'truing up.'

Five or six, I should think. he replied. bending and glancing down the piece of aak with one eye shut. 'Edwand Lee said at the last meeting that he had received four en tries and had been promised another two Whetherton, he thought, were "borrowing" two from Barnswood; that'll be Lewis Pagett and Jim Crawford, I suppose.'

- I shall be going down to Netherton on the quarter to three.' said William, "so I should be there about five minutes past. That means that if we are drawn first and they start on time we shan't be able to ring untid the end.

Don"t worry. It makes no difference whether we ring first or last. Is young WilJiam coming?'

- Yes. I want him to hear some good striking to-day. There should be plenty considering the teams that have entered.
'Next year,' said Joe, 'I should like him to take part in a contest; his striking has inproved considerably, and he always listens to what I have to stay-which is more than some people do!
Pertaps it was coincidence that Annie came in at that moment! She was carrying a tray on which was a jug of tea. milk and sugar, a few biscuits and three cups.
"It's not everybody that can have elevenses" at half-pezt nine, remarked William dryly. "I ought to a'bin a joiner instead of a milkman!'
- There's a cup for you.' retorted Annie - Uniess, of course, it goes against your conscience to indulge in such luxuries at fais unwonted hour!'

THE SMITHS-Continued

I'll battle wi' the pangs $0^{\circ}$ conscience in order not to throw your kindness in your face! said William. pouring out a cupful of tea for himself. And he sat on the end of the bench sipping it, holding the cup in the palms of both hands in order to warm them.

Are you coming to the contest this afternoon?' he asked Mrs. Smith.

Not to-day, William. I intended doing so bui I received word yesterday that my sister and family are coming from Suttings Bottom. Let me have a look at the shield when you bring it home. won't you?'

Well, it's about time we won again,' said William. 'Let me see, it's six, mo seven years since we brought it home last time. Your first contest wasn't it. Henry?'
"Indeed it was,' replied Henry. 'I shall never forget the moment when we were announced winners. Eight teams there were in the contest, and we were the last to ring.'

I remember.' he continued. 'that I insisted on carrying the shield in its box all the way home, and how it made my arms ache as I carried it the last half-m le from the crossroads, where we had got off the bus.

Wouldn't let anyone touch the blessed box: said Joe. "Welsh Harry asked him as we came through ohe village: " And what haf you goi there, indeed? Haf you the shield won? Very good! Very good!" You told everyone you met. "We've won the shield! We ve won the shield!",

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD Bingham District

The third meeting of the Bingham District at Colstan Bassett on August 11th was so well attended that it was described in the local newspaper "like a tin of sardines." Over 60 were present in the evening, including the Guild chairman, Canon R. F. Wilkinson. who was well enough to listen to the ringing, which varied from rounds to Spliced Surprise, under the direction of the Ringing Master (Mr. Bennet:).

At the short business meeting, Mr. W. Exton proposed that the chairman (the Rev. M. F. Hunt) be elected a vice-president, and this was agreed to.
Next meeting : Willoughby-on-ihe-Wolds, on September 8th; October, Granby. R.B.

ASHFORD RINGERS AT WHITECHAPEL

A party of ringers from Ashford and district spent a campanological day in London on August 18th. Proceedings started at the Whitechapel Foundry, where Mr. Hughes showed how bells were cast and we watched handbells being made.

First ringing was at St. Vedast's. Foster Lane. a pleasant six to handle although the belfry was rather noisy. Bells at another Wren church, St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, were different: it was quite hard work ringing Plain Bob Major. Then came St. Andrew's, Holborn, tucked away among the towering office blocks of Fleet Street,

In spite of the fact that there were 13 in the party. and although several ringers were convinced they would be entangled in the escalators on the Underground, no disasters befell us. In fact. Nicholas Davies deserves our thanks for organising and conducting such an enjoyable outing.

A SOUTH YORKSHIRE COMBINED MEETING

No fewer than 28 towers were represented at the very successful joint gatherings of two South Yorkshire Societies (Y.A. and Barnsley District Society) at Wragby on August 11 th. Hemsworth and Crofton bells were also available, and despite the inclement weather. and with the helpful co-operation of the people with transport, most ringers also managed a pull at these two towers. Wragby Church stands in the grounds of Nostel Priory, an historic house famous for its collection of original Chippendale furniture. It has now been taken over by the National Trust, and as there is an entrance fee to ordinary visitors the gate-keeper had rather a trying time deciding who were ringers and shouldn't pay.

After tea, which was taken in the Priory, the Southern District meeting was held in the church, and the chair was taken by vice-president Mr. Norman Chaddock. Apologies for absence were received from the Vicar of Wragby and from Messrs. W. F. Moreton and J. Seager, Mr. John Oxer, of Wath-on-Dearne, was elected to membership, and the election of two non-resident members, Messrs. R. D. Bailey and K. R. Davey, of Holbeach, was ratified. Next district meeting. Barnsley, Nov. 13th. Other towers also available.
The usual vote of thanks to the respective incumbents and local companies was proposed by a member from the Western District, Mr. Irving Slack, who also said he'd been browsing through old Yorkshire reports, and noted that at one Association meeting there was such a big attendance it was necessary to have three sittings for tea. Mention was made of the number of old stalwarts present that day, and it was a particular pleasure to see Mr. Andrew Hoyle. now in his eighties, who fascinated so many ringers between the wars by his inimitable style of steering his team to victory in many a 6-bell cup contest.

The peal at Beddington, Surrey, on August 25th, was rung by an equal number of Cumberlands and College Youths. After being delayed for an hour by weddings, the peal was commenced to speed the last happy couple on their way. Shortly after, the light failed temporarily, giving rise to speculation about the time of sunset, and finally a young lady entered the ringing room, listened to the ringing for an hour, and left again. Fortunately none of these events upset the band's concentration on Cambridge Surprise Royal.
Oatlands Park, Surrey, bells are out of action for the time being owing to clapper trouble.
Bradstone, where a peal was rung on August 24 th . was Mr. T. G. Myers', of Plymouth, 100th sower for a peal.
Two Treble Bob methods-Capel and Ockley -have been rung to peals for the first time in the villages which gave the methods their names. Mr. Christopher F. Mew was the conductor on both occasions.
We have received a report of 'Sylvia's Stedman Cinqopators,' and canno: refrain from asking: 'Who is Sylvia. . . ?'. We note that the outing concluded at 'The Artichoke,' where ringers eagerly joined in rounds. More on page 591.
The band who rang the peal at Holy Trinity, Bradford-on-Avon, would like to associate with it the names of Arthur and Maurice Butler, who were to have taken part but were prevented from so doing by the sudden death of their mother. The sympathy of the band is extended to them in their great loss.
Mr. Hugh Falkner, who has been in this country on leave, has now returned to Jamaica, where he is principal of the College of Technology at Kingston. During his vacation he has rung in 24 new towers, including Vancouver, British Columbia, on his way to England. He expresses his indebtedness to the many ringers in and around Salisbury with whom he has rung. After a silence of about two years, the bells of South Marston, Wilts, are again ringing. A band of young ringers, mostly choir members, are being trained and are progressing well. The bells were augmented from three to six by the Whitechapel Foundry in 1926, and the tenor weighs 12 cwt . Practice night is on a Tuesday, and visitors will be most welcome.
Mr. Wilfrid Williams' party had a very successful week in Eire, scoring ten peals out of 14 attempts.
Miss Shelagh Collins, of Kettering, has lost eight peal attempts in succession. It makes the second hundred peals extremely elusive!
Mr. J. Frank Smallwood celebrated his 78th birthday last Saturday. The following day Mr. Herbert Langdon was 81.

A tape-recording was made of the ringing of the Warsop band which won the Halifax Cup One well-known critic informs us that it was the best Minor ringing he had ever heard.
Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Pipe, of Melbourne, on the birth of a son on August 24 th at Ainslie Private Hospital, Glenhuntly, Victoria.
Fourteen-year-old Alan Barber has made an auspicious start with his Major peals by a peal of New Cambridge Surprise Major at Longstanton, Cambs, on August 25th. Ian Smith was also a "first of Major" in the peal.
The resident Peterborough Diocesan Guild band that recently rang a peal of 4 -Spliced lost a peal attempt at Daventry for 6 -Spliced. After the failure a quarter of 6 -Spliced was rung of a very high standard, a happy augury for success at the next peal attempt.

Mr. J. Keith Ward informs us that the footnote to the peal of Minsmere Surprise Major, rung at Deddington on August 11th, is incorrect. The first peal in the method for the Oxford Diocesan Guild was rung at Wooburn on December 9th, 1961, conducted by Robin G. Leale.

A note on the proof of Erin Caters, together with one or two general observations, may serve to bring, our short survey to a close. The proof of Erin by the sixes is carried out as in Stedman by a scrutiny of the dodging bells at the six end, both in the order in which they appear and also as they are with their pairs reversed, remembering that only in-course blocks need be compared with in-course blocks and only out-of-course blocks need be compared with out-of-course blocks.

An example will suffice to show what must be done. If, for instance, 784936152 occurs in a block of in-course changes then no incourso portion of the touch may contain a six end with the back bells in the position 936152 or 391625 . Similarly, if 456293817 occurs in an out-of-course block then no out-of-course block may show a six end with the back bells in the position 293817 or 928371.

Experiments in the pricking of touches will speedily prove one important fact about Erin Caters. In the short extract shown here it will be seen that the bells that are behind at the bob (462) were on the front together at A and will (provided no other bob is called) inevitably be on the front together again at B. And so at A and B we have the same dodging bells: 718395 , and the touch is false. The only way to avoid the falseness is to call another bob before 462 get down to the front once more
In an earlier paragraph it has been remarked that the bells may come home at backstroke at the second, fourth or sixth row of the six. It will be clear, also, that the bells may come home at handstroke at three different parts of the six:-

1 row after 214365879.
It should be noted that if the hells are to come round one row after 214365879 the touch must go off from rounds with a bob at 1 , for if it does not, then the first and last sixes of the touch will have 365879 and will be false. This has unfortunately happened to the 301 shown among the interesting touches Mr. Shackleton has provided on page 253.

Repeat calling the first course 1.7.9.15s. 17

OBITUARY

MR. BERNARD R. J. BOVER

Springfield Parish Church has lost a faithful and hard-working servant by the untimely death. on August 3rd, of Mr. Bernard Bover, at the age of 33 .
Bernard started ringing at Galleywood in 1945, when George Cornell and William Barrett were rebuilding the local band, and he was elected a member of the Essex Association that same year.

With his strong physique and characteristic long pull, so necessary on Galleywood bells, he soon developed into a stylish back-ender, and he rang his first peal on the tenor there, prior to embarking on a tour of the Far East with the Royal Navy in 1946.
On his return he joined the band at Great Baddow, and later married and moved to Springfield in 1957. There he did valuable work in the church as server and tower warden, assisting Mr. Bertram Brinkley in the training of recruits.
He was not a prolific peal ringer-in all, he rang seven peals for the Essex Associationbut he would always turn out to make up a band at short notice. to assist at practices, or for ringing on special occasions and. except in his last few years when failing heallh prevented. he regularly supported the District meetings, sometimes cycling miles to attend at some remote tower. His last visit to Springfield belfry was in February of this year, but he maintained an interest in ringing to the end.
The Rve. J. B. Britten officiated at the funeral service on August 9th at All Saints' Church, where representatives and friends from many organisations gathered to pay their last respects. The Essex Association was represented by Mr. E. W. Roast. District Master, and Mr. P. W. Saltmarsh, District secretary, and fellow-ringers including Messrs. W. Barrett, B. Brinkley, P. Brown, A. Doy, J. Crawley, R. Groves, H. Shadrack, K. Renault andMrs. E. Sollars, representing Mr. G. Sollars in Kenya.
All his ringing friends extend their deepest sympathy to his wife and family.

MR. OLAVE E. BROYD

By the death of Mr. Olave E. Broyd, of Sible Hedingham, on June 28th, at the age of 72. the Exercise has lost a very talented ringer. His ringing career commenced at Gestingthorpe, Essex, in 1909, and he rang his first peal on June 14th, 1910, at Lavenham, the method being Bob Major. It was, however, his flair for Minor ringing that definitely showed his genius. On January 21st, 1913, he tapped the first peat of Minor in seven methods ever to be accomplished in this way. The methods were 720 each of Cambridge, Woodhine, Oxford, Kent, Double Court, Double Oxford and Plain Boh
Double-handed handhell ringing in Minor methods was as easy to him as ringing one bell. He could always ring two handbells to any named Minor method. He rang in two outstanding handbell peals, and conducted both: the first 10,080 in 14 methods on May 8th, 1920. at Sible Hedingham. and on May 24th. 1947. he called Rev. Bankes-James' arrangement of Cambridge Surprise Minor.
Olave Broyd was a very modest man. most unassuming, always willing to help the beginner. He was deputy Master at Sible Hedingham tower for several years, and a life member of the Essex Association of Change Ringers. Ill health forced him to give up ringing about eight years ago. His peals total was about 300 , of which several were on handbells.

AN APPRECIATION

Miss Hilda G. Snowden. in a tribute to Mr. Olave E. Broyd, writes:-
" He called my first peal on May 7th. 1932. one of Boh Minor. I rang several peals of Minor with him, but as I progressed I practised on higher numbers and did not see much of him. The remarkable thing about him was that he did not appear to travel very fir outside his own tower, and his handbell peals were achieved with locals, so his ability to teach as well as to ring himself must have been remarkable
May his soul rest in peace.

MR W, A. RICHARDSON

St. John's Church, Brigg, has lost a painstaking captain and a valued friend by the sudden death in Scunthorpe War Memorial Hospital, on August 21st, of Mr. William Allen Richardson. He was in his 49th year.
Mr. Richardson came from a well-known South Lincolnshire ringing family and was a nephew of the late Mr. Rupert Richardson. Although it was only five years ago that he joined the St. John's. Brigg, company, his enthusiasm and urge produced a higher standard. and he had unlimited patience with beginners.

In Suuth Lincolnshire he did yeoman service for the Diocesan Guild. being secretary of the Elioe Deaneries Branch from 1941 until 1947, when he was appointed chairman, a post he held for ten years. He was also captain of the Pinchbeck band

Immediately after the service at St. John's Church on August 27th. the local ringers rang 720 Plain Bob Minor. The commital service followed at Grimsby Crematorium.

Mr. Richardson leaves a widow and two daughters. Elaine and Vivian, who are both ringers.
M.E. A., W. R. B.

MR. J. R. BREARLEY

By the sudden death, on August 25 th, of Mr. John R. Brearley, the Yorkshire Association loses one of its oldest members.

Elected a member in 1899 at the age of 13, he had been a regular service ringer at Bolsterstone St. Mary's until a serious illness last November, and in all had rung 155 peals for the Association, of which he had conducted 21.

His favourite method was Double Norwich. and he conducted the longest length in the method for the Association on December 31st, 1924.

A safe ringer and a splendid striker, he was a member of the late John Flint's Surprise band, logether with his son.

Mr . Brearley was a past officer of the Yorkshire Association, and also a past president of the Barnsley and District Society.

AN APPRECIATION

The funeral of Mr. John Redfern Brearley took place at Bolsterstone on August 29th. when he was laid to rest beneath the shadow of the church and almost within a stone's-throw of the bells he loved so much. A touch of Kent T.B. Minor was rung on the half-muffled bells before a service.

A moving tribute was paid to his memory by the Vicar, who reminded us that 'the name of Brearley has always been associated with Bolsterstone bells,' although anyone who has been in the ringing chamber and seen the numerous peal hoards scarcely needs such a reminder.

Handbells were rung round the open grave, by four members of the Barnsley and District Society-Harold Chant 1-2. Noel F. Moxon 3-4. Herman Rusby 5-6 and Trevor Tarbatt 7-8 -who afterwards joined four members of the local band-Leonard Shaw, J. Helliwell. V. Copley and R. H. Woodall - 10 ring four courses of Bob Major on the tower bells. The ringing was good, and we felt that John R. ringing was good, and would have approved.

For John R. was always a stickler for good ringing, and was forthright and critical when it was not. It was no accident that he was chosen to be the judge of the first contest held chosen to be the judge of the first contest held by the Barnsley and District in 1926 -an office he filled on many subsequent occasions. His "judge's remarks" were always candid and instructive.
He first joined the Yorkshire Association in 1899. hut it is his association with the Barnsley and District Society which we so greatly treasure. He was a founder memher and has always taken a keen interest in its welfare. He was president from 1945 to 1948 inclusive, and has been a vice-president ever since. We shall miss him.

Border Counties' Joint Meeting

On August 25 th some 80 ringers made the journey to Chepstow, Monmouthshire. to attend a joint meeting, held by the Monmouth Branch of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association and the South Forest Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association.
The ten bells were put to good use before the choral service at 4 p.m.. conducted by Canon Ernest Evans. Mr. Ron Blight, a chorister. read the lesson. Canon Evans. in his short address, said that the ringing of church hells was a great encouragement to the clergy. He asked all ringers present to continue wholeheartedly in this work for which he had the highest regard and appreciation.

Tea followed, provided in the newly-rebuilt church hall. The ladies who had prepared this were thanked by Mr. W. Scudamore, of Lydney. Mr. Ted Coles, of Cowbridge, thanked the young arganist (Miss June Owen).
The business was quickly dealt with under the guiding hand of Canon Evans. It was decided to accept the invitation of the South Forest Branch to hold a joint meeting at Lydney on October 13th. Llanfrechfa was chosen for the annual meeting in January.
Mr. T. Roderick thanked Canon Evans for his warm welcome to Chepstow and for making such an enjoyable meeting possible, also for taking the service and conducting the business. Ringing continued until late in the evening. with rounds and varied methods and a further influx of visitors.

HEARING THE BELLS OF ARNHEM

WE selected Arnhem, instead of a day at the seaside on a bright sunny morning. With memories of the severe fighting in and around Arnhem in World War II, we feared that we should find a drab, war-scarred district; but our fears were soon allayed when we arrived in this beautiful, well-laid-out town on the banks of the Rhine, with trees and shrubs, lawns and flowers on every hand, flags flying and fountains playing. The public buildings, shops. restaurants and homes, most of which appeared modern, were bright, clean and attractive. In the well-cared-for War Cemetery we saw graves of those brave young men from all parts of the British Isles and from Poland. many from towns and villages near our homes.

As we approached the Rhine bridge leading to Nijmegen and the German border, we spent some time admiring the very fine modern architecture of the Provincial Government House. Arnhem is the capital of the Province of Gelderland. The main item of interest to us was the chime of bells, hanging in the open air, on the wall of Government House, facing the huge market square, and we were soon to hear them telling out the hours.

How we wished our greatly respected and departed friend J. E. P. could have-been with us. He always enjoyed taking part in and listening to Bob Royal, Grandsire and Stedman Caters on our Gillett and Johnson ten. Sunday by Sunday they would be sending out their message over field and farm, cottage and factory; he also enjoyed tapping out a hymn tune on the bells after evening service. rounding off with that old favourite "Now the day is over." From time to time we learned how these tunes were appreciated by the church folk wending their way home along Fox Lane and Towngate, by the sick people of Balcarres Road and Crawford Avenue, and the courting couples down Cow Lane and Worden Lane.

It was not until we arrived at Arnhem that we learned that Nato Taptoe (North Atlantic Treaty Organisation Tattoo) was to be held there that night. Evidence of this was the extensive temporary grandstand erected in the market square. Already officials were setting their stalls out, opening their ticket offices and bringing up extra chairs, and the police were organising their traffic marshalling.

With more than an hour to go before starting time, we joined the crowd in the grandstand facing the Provincial Government House, and were treated to tunes on the bells again. There was never a dull moment. The Netherland Air Force men, who were to operate the floodlights, made a good job of climbing the various scaffoldings, but we couldn't say the same about the photographers.

A long line of cars arrived in the arena to unload those less fortunate than ourselves, spastic young people, for whom front seats had been reserved. The stewards were packing in the crowds as best they could, coachloads following one another in quick succession--the Young Farmers' Club, the Vicar with his, Church Council, scholars with their teachers, farmers and their wives from afar. Friendly laughter everywhere, but though we did not understand one bit of the language we couldn't help laughing too. All the time the bells were sounding out over the great square and across the town, perhaps even to the opposite side of the river.

It was not our first sight of Dutch bells. We had seen a heavy bell being swung through about 250 degrees in one of the Amsterdam towers. There were no louvres or other covering to block the view. In the famous bulbgrowing district around Hillegorn and Haarlem, we had caught sight of a delightful modern village church, which reminded us of the picture of Kilifi Church in Kenya. The upper part of the tower of this village church had three sides and only a roof-the fourth side was wide open for everyone to see the bells.

Our bell concert came to a close; everyone was by then in their seats and the floodlights were on. A fanfare of trumpets sounded from the balcony of Government House, and then the massed bands, including the Regimental Band and the Corps of Drums of the 2nd East Anglian Regiment, treated us to some fine music and marching. Later came selections from each individual band and more massed band music.

Our time was up. Another good look around the vast arena with its thousands of floodlit faces and the bandsmen in their bright uniforms. Another moment was spent in admiration for the architecture and bells of Provincial Government House, and we took leave of our friends and interpreters.

Very soon we were in Amsterdam, in time to board the 23.50 streetcar No. 16. and as the unmistakable landmark, the multi-storey Amsterdam Hilton Hotel, which we had seen Prince Bernhard declare open the previous day, came into view, and the car conductor announce over the microphone our approach to Emmastraat, we turned over in our minds once more how glad we should have been had some of our English ringing friends been able to share in the happy day just closing.

The Bells of  St. Paul's Cathedral, London

By C. G. J. WATTS

$\mathrm{A}^{\mathrm{T}}$T St. Paul's Cathedral, as indeed in our Cathedrals throughout the country, there is a great deal of activity both unseen and unheard to ensure that our standard of worship and everything connected with it are of the highest possible character. There is, however, one activity which although unseen cannot claim to be unheard, and that is the ringing of the bells, Every cleric and layman associated with St. Paul's is familiar with the great summoning call of the Cathedral bells, but comprehension of their music is denied to all but a few. However, this is not surprising, as the ringers perform their duties at a considerable height in the North West tower. The purpose of this article is, therefore, to introduce the hells and ringers of St. Paul's Cathedral and to explain a little of the ringers' ancient art. Few things are more typically English than the sound of church bells ringing, and there are few people who do not subconsciously associate this sound with some moment in their lives.
Since the earliest days of the Church of England bells have formed part of church furnishings, but it was not until 1878 that the authorities found it possible to equip St. Paul's with a ring of twelve bells hung for ringing in the traditional English manner. The installation was made possible largely by the generosity of the Corporation of the City of London, City Livery Companies and Baroness Burdett Coutts, as will be seen from the photograph of the record board on the wall of the ringing chamber. This generosity was fully matched by the bellfounders. John Taylor and Sons of Loughborough, who skilfully produced a peal of magnificent quality. So, on All Saints' Day, 1878, following the dedication service, the then leading band of the Ancient Society of College Youths rang the opening three courses of Stedman Cinques, which remains recorded on a wall of the ringing chamber. (Pioture page 611.)

The bells, which at that time had a total weight greater than any other twelve, were immediately and universally recognised as an outstanding peal. Today, in lotal weight, the bells are second only to the recently installed twelve of Liverpool Cathedral, where the largest bell is 80 cwt . in A flat, compared with St. Paul's 62 cwt . tenor in B flat. It is worthy of note that there has been a ring of twelve bells at Exeter Cathedral for many years with a tenor of 72 cwt . in B flat, but with a total weight slightly less than those at St. Paul's. It should also be noticed that the smallest bell in each peal is called the treble and the largest, the tenor, the remainder being recognised only by their number in the circle.

FOUR CONDUCTORS

Following the dedication of the bells, which was regarded by the ringing exercise as a very great event, the Dean, on the advice of the organist, Sir John Stainer, appointed a Sunday service band drawn from the Ancient Society of College Youths. This band. which included ten Past Masters of the Society, were the founder members of the present St. Paul's Cathedral Guild of Bellringers. The first conductor was Mr. James Pettitt. a wondertul ringing personality, who was a silk hat manufacturer by trade. Mr . Pettitt led the Guild during their first 30 years and was succeeded by Mr. W. T. Cockerill, a London schoolmaster, who was the Guild's conductor for the next 27 years. In addition Mr. Cockerill was the respected Secretary of the College Youths for 45 years. His bust, sculptured by Miss Muriel Hiley and exhibited in the 1929 Royal Academy, is now located in the ringing chamber adjacent to the rope of the eleventh bell which he rang Sunday by Sunday for so many years. Following Mr. Cockerill's death the ringers unanimously elected Mr. Herbert Langdon as their new leader. Mr. Langdon had already served the Guild as a regular Sunday ringer for over 35 years and, when he retired from active ringing in 1958 , having led the Guild splendidly throughout the difficult post-war period, had completed nearly 60 years" service as a St. Paul's Cathedral ringer. History now repeats itself as the present conductor, Mr. John Chilcott. is also the College Youths Secretary, and it is to be hoped that his period of office wilt enable the Guild to attain its centenary with four conductors only.

Records show that at all times the members have been drawn from widely different walks of life, and it is true to say that there is hardly al trade or profession which has not been represented in the ringing chamber some time during the last 85 years, although due to the long service of many individuals, the number of members elected during that period is surprisingly small. Recently four members retired to Honorary Membership, each of whom had been a Cathedral ringer for over fifty years. When the writer first came to St. Paul's some 11 years ago the average age of the band was about 60. whereas today it is about 40, and thus further long service records can reasonably be expected. An obituary tablet in the ringing chamber records the age and year of death of former Guild members. and this provides ample evidence of their longevity.

ASSOCIATION WITH COLLEGE YOUTHS

As members of the Guild have always been drawn from the Ancient Society of College Youths it is appropriate to include here some details of the history of that Society. Founded on November Sth, 1637. it is the oldest ringing society, the name being derived from "The College of the Holy Ghost and Hospital of God's House." founded by the famous Dick Whittington in 1424. The College was close to the churches of St. Michael, Paternoster Royal and St. Mary Vintry. It was here that the group of young aristocrats who formed the Society practised their ringing which at that time was still regarded as a fashionable sporting activity. The Society may indeed have been the offspring of a still earlier Society of either priests or laymen who rang at these churches, but there are no historical records to support this theory. Whatever any earlier origin may have been, there are firm historical grounds for ascribing the genesis of the Society to the efforts of Lord Brereton, of Brereton in Cheshire, and an Irish Peer, Sir Cliffe Clifton, Knt., who were both members of the group who met to practise ringing at St. Michael, Paternoster Royal and St. Mary Vintry. Lord Brereton was the first Master in 1637 and Sir Cliffe Clifton, Knt.. followed him in the Mastership in 1638. Since that time the Mastership had been held by many eminent men, including Sir Henry Tulse, Knt., Lord Mayor of London in 1684. It has always been considered a very great honour to be elected to the Mastership of the Ancient Society, and since the installation of the bells at St. 'Paul's many Masters and Past Masters have been closely connected with the ringing there. The present Master is a member of the St. Paul's Guild and six other members are Past Masters, thus maintaining the traditionally close sonnection.
Due to the Civil and other wars intervening it was not until the last quarter of the 17th century that much progress was made with the art of change-ringing as we know it today, but from the records stilf available, despite the loss of some of the earlier records during the Second World War, it is clear that throughout the 18th century the Society enjoyed a long period of success and prosperity, during which period the celebrated engraver, F. Bartolozzi, was commissioned to produce the Society's very beautiful Certificate of Membership. During the first half of the 19 th century there was diminished activity, but the second half of that century saw a great revival in all things connected with the Church, and ringing and the affairs of the Society were no exception. It is. therefore. from this period that the present strong position of the Society may be deemed to commence. Taday the Society has an all-male membership of about 1,250 ringers throughout the world. and acts as a corporate ringing hody principally in the City of London. In addition to providing ringers for St. Paul's Cathedral and other churches within the City boundaries metsbers ring as required at Westminster Abbey and the Commonwealth Institute, South Kensington, where there is a peal of ten bells presented to Queen Alexandra to be rung only on Royai birthdays and important national occasions.

St. Patul's Cathedral Rells

To appreciate something of the bellringers' art it is necessary to know that the traditional English system of ringing requires that the bells revolve almost completely, to be struck at the apex of each revolution by inside clappers, thus releasing their full beauty of tone. This is quite different to chiming, where the bells hang mouth downward and are struck by independent hammers operated from a keyboard or other manual apparatus.

CHIMING FOR WEEK-DAYS

At St. Paul's the middle six bells are chimed for the weekday services, the independent hammers being controlled by a series of ropes from the ringing chamber. For Sunday morning and afternoon services the full peal of 12 are rung in the traditional English mannet. Thus, prior to 10 a.m. the middle six bells are gradually swung up from their chiming position to the ringing position, so that rounds on the twelve can commence immediately the clock finishes striking ten. "Rounds" is the name given to the ringing of bells in their natural seyuence from the treble to the tenor, the sound produced being that of a descending tonic scale. When bells are rung in any order other than rounds, they are said to ring changes. After sufficient rounds have been rung and the rhythm established the conductor will call the bells into changes. these being produced on various mathematically based plans called methods. each of which bears a distinctive name. The path of each bell in a method is represented by a graph-like diagram known to ringers as the "blue line," and it is this that has to be memorised.
Stedman Cinques is the method favoured at St. Paul's. Legend has it that when the bells were originally installed Dr. Stainer listened to various methods being rung and subsequently ordained that Stedman Cinques should be rung for the Cathedral services. This tradition is still maintained, and it is the unrivalled music of this method which radiates from the North West Tower Sunday after Sunday. The legend of Dr. Stainer's interest in ringing is substantiated to some degree by his having been elected a memter of the Ancient Society. The method "Stedman " is named after the compose, Fabian Stedman, a Cambridge printer, who joined the College Youths in 1664 . He was Master of the Society in 1682 and died in 1713 , being buried in the church of St. Andrew Undershaft. His name is perpetuated in the method he devised, and in having the second bell of the recently installed twelve at St. Mary-le-Bow named "Fabian" in his honour.
One well-known Cathedral figure when first associated with St. Paul's believed for some time that the bells were rung by a mechanical contrivance rather than by human agency. Unfortunately such contrivances do exist, but with major restoration work on the Cathedral bells completed recently and with the Ancient Society of College Youths flourishing vigorously in this its 325th year. there is every reason to expect that for many years to come the sound of Stedman Cinques will greet those who come to worship Sunday by Sunday at the top of Ludgate Hill.

VISITING OTHER TOWERS

A DAY IN LINCOLNSHIRF

Lincolnshire was selected as the venue for this year's A.B.H. outing by the Ely Association. and the excellent arrangements made by Mr. D. E. R. Knights contributed to a very enjoyable day among the Lincolnshire Fens. The towers visited were Spald ing, Fulney, Whaplode, Holbeach, Gedney, Long-Sutton and Lutton-all ground floor rings except one. which was much appreciated by the older members of the pariy.
Starting from Cambridge soon after 7.30 a.m., with pick-ups at Willingham. Over and Somersham. Spalding was reached dead on time, and this tuneful ring echoed to the strains of Boh Major. Stedman, Cambridge and Yorkshire. At Fulney. Superlative. Bob Major. Stedman and Kent concluded the morning's programme.
Fortified by an excellent lunch at the White Hart Hotel, Spalding, tracks were made for Whaplode. Bob Minor Norwich. Londorp and Ipswich supplied the ringing on this melodious six. At Holbeach. Yorkshire. Double Norwich. Bob Major and Grandsire Triples were rung, whilst our organist exploited a powerful instrument. Gedney also possessed a fine organ. and after locating an elusive switch, Mr. Adams let foth. causing a local to enquire if Reginald Dixon was out for the day. Camhridge, London. Netherseale and Bob Minor graced these bells till tea-time, which uas partaken at a nearby guest house.

Long Sutton. with its excellent Taylor ring, provided the set-piece for the day. and Boh Major, Superlative, Stedman. St. Cle ment's and Kent were successfully negotiated. Lutton, with its miniature organ and bells. rounded off a pleasant day's ringing to the tune of Double Court, Norwich and London Surprise. The homeward trek started soon after 8 pm . in a steady drizzle, which developed into a downpour. Undaunted, the company dismounted at a hostelry for convivialities at Guyhime.

Once again, all join in expressing thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Don for another pleasurable outing, and also to those residents who met us at the various churches. T.R.D

BALDOCK'S HALF-DAY

Fearing to push our luck too far with the weather in November, the Baldock ringers brought the half-day outing back to September 1st this year. Again we were lucky and had a beautiful day. First tower was St. Mary's, Bletchley, unexpectedly far out of the town. An unusual stained glass window in the porch commemorates the service of the Sear family of ringers. Returning to the coach we found a policeman in earnest con-versation-what ve we done now? A ringer himself, he was just paying a social call.
The graceful spire of Buckingham is a landmark for miles around, and beneath it hang eight pleasant, heavy bells. Among the ringing was a good course of Superlative. It had not been possible to arrange ea for the party, so it was 'fend for yourself." with varied fortunes.
Chicheley is an unusual church. From the first glimpse of the crooked weather vane to a close examination of the styles in which it was built. this promised to be worth exploring. The position of the tower is most odd, being central, between nave and chancel: and there is a north aisle from which the chancel is almost invisible In 1905. Bowell of lpswich quarter-turned and rehung these bells. a 17 cwt . six: and although the clappers are loose now, and the bells had not been rung for two years, there was some quite passable ringing.
The last tower was Olney. of Pancake Race fame. The 25 cwl . tenor sounds marvellous inside, hut rather disappointing outside in comparison. Devotions were sung at 8 p.m. and were attended by some of the party, and after some mone ringing we returned home, well contented. Our thanks to Mr. E. G. Buck. who organised the

Dear Sir,-Mr. J. E. G. Roast, in his letter (page 572), gives figures of three extents in which the number of methods have been increased by sticking in several methods that have single changes as an integral part of the method. He mentions that the three 720's have been previously published, and I think it would, at least, be courteous to mention the original arrangers, which were, in fact, No. 1 A. G. Driver, No. 2 H. Chant. No. 3 C. K. Lewis.
Incidentally, a week (or two) after the publication of 720 No. 2, I made an arrangement, without Bobs, in 23 methods, which was published in the 'R.W.' This can be extended to 27 methods by adding single change methods as Mr. Roast has done. I may add that I am not particularly proud of either 720 !

I think that the correct answer to his query to the C.C. is that supplied by A. G. Driver and C. K. Lewis: If you can't get a plain lead of a method into a 720 , then either leave it out altogether or rearrange (or recompose) the 720 until you can.

Of course the latter may entail much thought and hard work, and sometimes there is, apparently, no solution. This does not necessarily mean that a solution is impossible. For instance, Mr. Roast points out that in the first 720 only a bobbed lead of Tollesbury is included. What does this mean? It means that Mr. Roast has been unable to insert a plain lead of Tollesbury into A. G. Driver's 720! I suggest that if, by rearrangement, he is unable to include a plain lead he should omit Tollesbury altogether

May I also point out that by including Middlesex he has removed the only plain lead of Leasowe.

I can quite imagine that A. G. Driver must have spent a great deal of time and effort producing this unique 720 in order to include, as the footnote proudly states, 'at least one plain lead of each method.' (It would be a comparatively simple matter otherwise.) With two inferior methods stuffed in, in order that someone can have an easy way of intreasing their method total, and still only 13 plain lead methods, the poor 'Mad Hatter' must have turned in his grave!

May I suggest to Mr. Roast that if he substitutes Leasowe (Beeston, etc.) for Mendip he can then stick in, if he wants, Plain leads of Middlesex and Tollesbury and so get plain leads in 14 methods.

The arguments used by Mr. Roast are not new; I have used them myself during the past. I am by now, however, quite convinced that it is wrong to lower standards by using a method that has not a plain lead included. There is, after all, still plenty of scopa for Mr. Roast and his band in ringing 720 's already extant, some of them. I notice, more difficult. than any Mr. Roast has yet included in his peals.

Concerning the single change methods, I feel that these will die a natural death when methodgrabbers have had their fill. I think, however, that in the meanwhile the ruling applied to irregular methods should also be applied to them, namely, ring them if you want but exclude for record purposes.-Yours sincerely,
H. CHANT

CONGRESBURY NOT SECOND HEAVIEST

Dear Sir,-I would like to point out to the party of ringers from the East Riding of Yorkshire who toured Somerset ( $\mathrm{R} . \mathrm{W}$. : Aug. 31st, page 571) that they, or the person who wrote the article, are wrong in stating that Congresbury, Somerset, is the second heaviest ring of eight in the world.

As a matter of interest I have set down a short list of the heavy eights, from the heaviest to about 28 cwt.

MR. MAURICE ATKINS AND BUCKFAST ABBEY

Dear Sir,-In my copy of 'The Ringing World ' of August 31 st I was delighted to discover that 'Personality of the Exercise' No. 60 was Mr. Maurice Atkins.
May I be permitted to add a tribute on behalf of the ringers of Buckfast Abbey? For the last six years Mr. Atkins has been unstinting in the advice and practical help he has given us. Nearly every week he has driven in all weathers from Teignmouth to Buckfast, and then climbed the one-hundred-odd steps to our ringing chamber-no mean feat for a man of 72 with a lame leg.

As your readers may well imagine, it is by no means an easy task to introduce half-pull ringing into a tower where nothing but callchanges had previously been rung. That we have been successful is due very largely to Mr . Atkins. Several other local ringers have helped and still are helping us, but I am sure they would be the first to acknowledge the magnitude of the debt which we at Buckfast owe to Maurice Atkins.
May he continue to serve God and the Exercise for many years to come - Yours faithfully, (Rev.) OSWALD MOWAN.
Buckfast Abhey.

TWO BUTTERWICKS

Dear Sir.-May I draw attention to a confusion which arises in R. H. Dove's Guide 10 Church Bells in the reference to a ring of six at "East Butterwick." This has led a number of ringers to write to me, as Vizar of Messingham with East Butterwick. for permission to ring on the bells. In fact, St. Andrew's, East Butterwick. in the parish of Messingham, has one bell which is hung just above the church door.
St. Andrew's, Butterwick, about five miles to the east of Boston, has the ring of six.-Yours faithfully,
P. M. FREEMAN.

DO YOU DREAM?

Dear Sir,-I have just seen the following in a book on fortune-telling published nearly 30 years ago:-

To hear a bell ringing in a dream is a good sign. If the dreamer is a man under thirty, it means promotion: over 30, a change for the better : if an unmarried girl, a happy marriage : if married, family happiness.

Dreams of high towers seen from the ground foretell difficulties and obstacles in the way of the dreamer. If the dreamer is a man under thirty and is climbing to the top of the tower, his dream means unhoped-for success in life: over thirty, an ambition unrealised; a girl under thirty, failing in some cherished design ; over thirty, an imprudent plan which will come to nothing.

All dreams of abbots, nuns, monks, Bishops Deans, Popes, the clergy, church-going, cathe drals, etc., have a good meaning, and foretell some happiness long-wished-for and at las attained

Yours faithfully CLAUDE RUSH.

ALPHABET BELLS

Dear Sir,-With reference to Mr. G. Grenter's enquiry, although he writes from Street and gives the impression that he is asking about. the treble bell there, I take it that he is really alluding to Walton, Somerset, as I do not think there is an alphabet bell at Street
Ellacombe, in his Church Bells of Somerset, has this to say on the subject:-

I now wish to say something about A.B.C or alphabet bells. They are a puzzle to all companists. They are found in all parts of England, in France too, and in Scandinavia; Four instances occur in Somerset, one on the second at Stoke S. Mary near Taunton, from A to N. set backwards-not uncommon on bells, in Roger Semson's queer types . . . one at Closworth A to X. The other, on the fourth at Creech S. Michael, in a larger type than was used by Semson with the date 1590 . One at Walton all in confusion.'
The only observation that I can trace by $H$. B. Walters (a more reliable authority than Ellacombe) is in his Church bells of Wiltshire, where he says, touching on alphabet bells - This use of a ron-committal type of inscription may indicate that it belongs ta the middle of the 16 th century. - Yours faithfully.

September 6th, 1912.-
The Winchester Guild band who, about three months ago, set up a handbell record of 14,031 , have easily eclipsed that performance by ringing last Saturday a peal of 19,738 Stedman Caters in 9 hrs. 32 mins. This stupendous achievement was accomplished on Saturday in Holy Trinity belfry Guildford, and the formal record of it will be found in our peal columns.
The performance was doubly noteworthy for Mr. Pulling, as it was his 300th peal, no fewer than 127 of which have been rung on handbells, the greatest number. we believe, which anyone has yet rung "in hand

Sussex Divisional Secretary Weds

THE charming Sussex village of Alfriston stands on the River Cuckmere, where it pushes through the South Downs. Its 14th century church was the selting, on August 11 th, for the wedding of two well-known ringing personalities of the county. Miss Judy Funnell, ringer and choir member at Alfriston, was married to Mr. Frank Beeney, organist and choirmaster, and divisional secretary of the Sussex County Association.
The couple met when both were members of the Hellingly band, at that time under the captaincy of Mr. George Beeney, the bridegrocm's father. Miss Laura Beeney, one of the bridesmaids, was also a member, and numbers of past members were present.

Judy wore a full-length dress of white satin brocade, and carried a yellow and white bouquet. She was attended by Miss Beeney and Miss Patricia Harris, both in white, with blue and white flowers. The large congregation included many ringing friends, who were able to watch the service ringing as the bell ropes hang in the centre of the nave.

After the service, conducted by the Rev. Graham Jack (Vicar of Alfriston), the happy pair passed through the traditional arch of handbells, held aloft by young members of the Association, to the reception at the Old Schoolroom. Here, best man Phillip Pope, of the Warbleton band, dealt with the telegrams before a course of Grandsire Triples in hand.

As the newly-weds left for a honeymoon at a top-secret address in Devonshire, the first changes of a peal of Minor rang out from the low central tower. A quarter peal of Doubles was also brought round at Warbleton on the following day. Judy and Frank will make their home at Horsebridge, Sussex. H. R.

A FORMER SECRETARY OF THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD MARRIED

The wedding took place on August 25th, at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, New Milton, Hants, of Michael Douglas' Standish Hood who, when in residence at Cambridge, was secretary of the University Guild.

He is the only son of the Rev. D. E. Hood, who officiated at the ceremony, and of Mrs. Heather Hood, who is herself a ringer. His bride was Miss Bridget Machellan, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Machellan, of the Gate House, Furzie Close, Barton-onSea, and the best man was Mr. Peter Langton, also a ringer.
Michael and his mother are members of the St. Michael's, Teignmouth, band of ringers, and his fellow-ringers rang the St. Michael's bells at the time of the wedding, and sent a telegram worded "Congratulations with a merry peal"

At the practice at St. Michael's on the previous Tuesday night a set of silver spoons was presented to Michael in the belfry, and on Sunday, the day after the wedding, a quarter peal was rung in honour of the event before Evensong. Mr. Hood taking part.

THE STORY OF A RINGING FAMILY  By I. N. QUICK

Henry reddened and gave a sheepish grin. -I was the proudest ringer in all the country,' he said. 'My mother placed the rose bowl that I had received as a prize in the middle of the kitchen table and loaded it with flowers. Then she went and fetched all the neighbours in to have a look at it. "Cut glass, isn't it?", said Mrs. Bailey; "I guess that cost a pretty penny." I knew jt wasn't cut glass, of course, and had an idea that Edward Lee had been allowed thirty shillings from the funds to buy six first prizes! So I kept quiet, like, especially seeing that her Ernest was always talking about the set of fruit spoons that he had won as a member of the darts team.
William went to the door and looked up at the sky. Brightening a bit, I think. See you this afternoon. And away he went into the rain.
The Netherton Church school. which was just across the road from the church, formed ringers gathered about 2.45 pm . There was David Walker. of Whetherton, and the remainder of the band, which included. Joe noticed, the two Barnswood ringers, Lewis Pagett and Jim Cawfield. Alan Slater, of Brigton, was discussing tactics with Don Russell and Tom Greenfield. of the same tower. Jack Byers. of Rentharpe. was in the middle of an excited discussion with Henry Hammertoas and James Hargreaves, the two judges. and with amimated expression and sweeping gestures appeared to be propounding theories on the art of raising and lowering the bells. and was no doubt at the same time emphasising the mistakes that could be made by judges in assessing the same. or explaining once more in assessing the same. or explaining once more how Renthor years before.

Edward Lee was busy checking to ensure that all competitors had paid their subscriptions.

ORDER OF RINGING

There were, it appeared, six teams entered for the contest, and as soon as Walter Hardaker had escorted the judges to the vicarage the names of these were placed in a hat and the draw was made by Edward Lee, with John Chappell in close attendance. The teams came out in the order: Redbank. Renthorpe. Brigton. Layton-on-the-Wold. Hexworth and Whetherton. It was arranged that David Walker. of Whetherton. should go up the tower with the Redbank company in order to see that, as the rules put it. 'the test piece was rung true." and then, as each succeeding team finished ringing, the conductor of that team was to remain in the tower with the following one.
Once Raymond Smithson knew that Redbank were to ring first he grinned at Joe, no doubt remembering how he had clamoured for he contest to include rise and fall, and said:
Poetic justice! Now we put our theories nto practice.
He looked round to see if his ringers were a!! present and correct and asked David Walker, 'All set to go?'

When you are.
Right.' said Raymond. 'let's go up.' and they went across the road and disappeared into the church.
There are always more ringers present at a contest than are participating, and the contest at Netherton was no exception. Some of the older ones (and sometimes the younger ones too) often do a little judging on their own. disappearing into some nook or cranny if the weather is wet or into the open country if it is fine, securing some quiet spot where they can listen to the bells (they hope) undisurbed. When walking round whilst waiting to ring or after having performed, one sometimes comes across them in dark corners in the Lady Chapel or in the back stalls of the choir, or if outside, propped up against a hayrick in the sunshine. or sheftering in a barn. jotting down the faults with pencil on paper.

All the recognition that one receives on such an occasion is a cursory and somewhat vacant nod as one passes by with silent step and bated breath. These unofficial judges carry out their self-appointed task in no spirit of antagonism or opposition to the actual judges but in order to see how closely their respective valuations are in alliance. Joe had never heard a judge seriously criticised by these outside adjudicators. and if they disagreed they always qualified their disagreement.

Aye, I got 'em all in t' same order,' he remembered an old ringer declaiming, 'ceptin' tother way round, but I didn't hear all of number fower as I wor havin' me tea at © time
And it was generally accepted that in order to have fair comparisons one must stay in the same place and give each team undivided attention, both of which were easier for the judges. who were incarcerated for that purpose, than for anyone else. Some even maintained that different standards of marking were not incompatable with different positions
'Yes. I have them all in the same order as - judges." said another ringer on another occasion. although my marks are a bit steeper. Still. I wor not in $t^{\prime}$ same place as they wor, so you could hardly expect t' marks to be t' same!'

Very few ringers,' thought Joe, "are really vindictive: some may be fools, but not many are rogues!
The rain had ceased and the ringers were therefore free to wander about as they pleased to enjoy the sunshine, somewhat thin and watery hut welcome nevertheless, or sit in the school or the church and listen to the bells. As this rise and fall stunt.' as someone described It. was to most of the ringers their first experience of such a contest. the efforts of Redbank were awaited with great interest. A few minutes after the team had disappeared, the first bell of the contest sounded as the rise began. Joe glanced at his watch; it was exactly one minute after three. In the early stages the third was a bit wide. and he could almost hear Raymond instructing the offender to close the gap. A little later. after about 34 minutes ringing, as the bells were approaching nearer and nearer the balance. the second came down rather sharply on the treble for several blows, and Joe heard a quick intake of breath from Alan Slater. who was leaning over the churchyard wall. absentmindedly pulling bits of moss and lichen from between the crevices in the stone and flicking them with his fingers at a nearby gravestone, neglected and covered with weeds. which had been erected to the memory of one Obediah Binns. who was. as the inscription ironically informed the world. 'Gone jut not forgotten!
Gradually the bells develled out, rung some good rounds for quarter of a minute. and then stood. Joe looked at his watch again: five minutes dead

Not a bad rise.' he thought, 'but I think there will be better ones before the day is over.'
The Test piece which followed was, Joe thought, not up to Redbank's usual high standard : it was good. but not good enough to win a contest. When it was over. Alan Slater turned to Joe and said

I think that Henry Hammenton and James Hargreaves will have marked a few down for that!

Yes.' replied Joe

He had been a judge's 'marker' on several occasions in his younger days and a judge on a few others. and could quite well picture the soene in the judge's room. With two judes each would mark for the other, and each judge half the test piece. To-day. he understood. in order to equalise the remainder of the marking. one had agreed to judge the rise and the other the fall.

JUDGES AT WORK

There would be a large watch on the table at which they would be sat, on opposite sides, for he knew that most judges preferred not to see the faults that they called out ibeing marked down on the paper lest they be distracted or began making mental comparisons.

There would be a window open for ventilation purposes. and to ensure that the bells could be clearly heard. After a team had began ringing there would seldom be a word spoken until it had finished, a nod or a gesture sufficing for most of the ordinary messages. Whoever was judging would be sitting for long periods like a graven image, concentration personified. although perhaps thene would be some movement of toe or finger, or a nodding of the head of which the judge was wholly or partially unaware as he listened to or kept a check on the rhythm of the bells.

Perhaps he would be collecting fractional faults on the paper in front or him or jotting an occasional note, and he would be calling out as the occasion demanded: 'One-one,' or in a jumble, 'Two-two

His partner would be marking down the faults as they were called out and at the same time keeping his eye on the watch. When a pre-arranged time had been reached he would silently push the watch and the marking sheet across the table to his companion, who would nod, pick up his pencil and continue marking.

Tea was always a problem.
Ii was generally brought in by one of the lady helpers, who had boen informed by the local head ringer that the judges were, in spite of opinions freely expressed to the contrary. merely humans after all, and therefore required food. She was generally instructed to bring in the food during one of the intervals between one team ending and another beginning its stint,' and that is what usually took place.
Occasionally, however, this arrangement misfired, and the good lady, full of bonhomie. motherly instincts and good intentions, preceded by three or four of the vicar's young brood, who would be leading the way and opening the doors (for the judges room was often in the vicarage). would, in the middle of the test piece explode through the doar filling the room with the joyous music of childish trebles intermingled with the clatter of cups and saucers.
There would be a curt demand for 'silence!: and the children would stop chattering and gaze in awe and wonder at these two middle-aged recluses who were sitting on opposite sides of a table. doing nothing. apparently, except glare down at the tahle or at each other or at the intruders.
The lady, afier one or two abortive attempts at conversation, which would be received in stony silence, would dump the tray on the table, sweeping away half the vital papers in the process, and retire in umbrage, taking her retinue with her, and return to the tea-room. where she would confide to the vicar's wife who was directing operations, that she had never met two more ill-mannered people in all her life!
Disposing of the tea often proved to be almost as big a problem as obtaining it. If it came during one of the intervals, as much of it as was gobbled down as passible before the next team began, but however quickly one ate there would still be quite an appreciable amount to consume after the ringing had restarted.

Consequently, this was finished off in odd mouthfuls as the judging continued. What with tistening to the bells. calling the faults. watching the clock, marking the faults, eating the buns and cakes, drinking the tea, pouring out another cupful with one hand whilst marking with the other. tapping out the rhythm and jotting down one or two odd notes in the spare moments, it is hardly surprising that trifling errars, such as absent-mindedly drinking the ink out of the ink-well, or marking down the faults with a jam tart, or even using an Eccles cake as a blotter. were not unknown.
If. on the other hand. dea came after the interval, it usually arrived just as the team had started to ring, when the attention of both judges would be in continuous demand for the next half-hour, by which time the rea, which was only lukewarm when it arrived. would be stone cald

OVERTONES

The August issue of Overtones contains part one of "The Handbell Choir." by Nancy Poore Tufts. on publlcising the handbell choir. This delves into the problems of the initial setting up of a choir and its public relations while it gets started with humour and brevity. The next article, answering the question 'Once interest is aroused, how do I hold on to it?'. may well be of almost equal interest to ringers of larger bells.
This month's biography is of Mary Goldman. and two arrangements of hers are given. "The Keeper. ant English tune for 15 bells, and - Mari Lwyd' for 14.

Where there are more than three bells per ringer it is usually difficult to manage without tables. Richard Litterst has designed and used some special ones and gives a good description of them, together with photographs. The covers of this issue are enlivened by some caricatures on the foibles of handbell ringing.

WOODHOUSE RINGING MACHINE

At a committee meeting of the Lancashire Association held at Scorton on September Ist, members were intrigued and thrilled with a demonstration of the Woodhouse Ringing Machine which was given after tea.

This machine was bequeathed to the Association on the death of its inventor. Mr, G, F Woodhouse, of Sedbergh, some five years ago, but it was not in satisfactory mechanical order at that time and could not be successfully demonstrated. The Association was fortunate, however, in having amongst its members a skilled engineer-Mr. Gordon Thwaites-who offered to put it in working order

This task proved to be far greater than it had first appeared, for Gordon Thwaites, besides being a skilled engineer is also a perfectionist. and he was determined not merely to put the machine back into working order but to make it mechanically perfect.

During the past four years he has stripped down the old machine, remade all the separate components, and introduced many improvements. The results of these four years work were clearly in evidence at this first trial demonstration which included courses of Grandsire. Stedman and Erin Triples, and also Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Bristol, Watford and Spliced Surprise Major.

Certain modifications still remain to be done. but it is hoped that these can be completed during the next few months, after which the machine will be available for demonstration.

The quarter peal at Meldreth followed another disappointment for the American, Mr. Alan Durfee. After the peal failure at Caxton, another attempt was arranged at short notice. Alas, after ten minutes ringing the treble rope broke. When it had been spliced it was turned 6.30 p.m., and consequently too late to start again.Eleven-year-old David J. Slade has rung a quarter peal of Doubles in 11 methods on a working bell at Little Wittenham. Berks.

Two first performances are reported from Sussex this week-Chichester Surprise Major and Warnham Imperial Court Bob Major (C.C.C. 123).

Newcastle Guild of Change Ringers are this year celebrating the 50th anniversary of their formation. The first commemoration peal uas rung at Gateshead on September 5th.

The organiser of the recent peal of Double Court Bob Major at Petersfield was gratified to receive a letter from the Vicar saying how much he enjoyed the excellent ringing, which was some of the best he had heard.

At Willington, Co. Durham, there are four steel bells hung for ringing, plus a fifth hung 'dead'. With a little attention, and some ropes, this four could apparently be made ringable. The four at Newbiggin, Northumberland, are hung 'dead'

Quedgeley Surprise Royal has been introduced to the Exercise by the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild at Southampton; conductor, the Guild secretary, Mr. R. Roger Savory. The Willesden new peal this week is Twyford Surprise Major (G. Lindoff, No. 9).

The peal at Curry Rivel sees a return by George Prescott to the columns after 18 months absence due to illness. We wish him 'all the best,' and may he carry on the good work. It was also James F. Hatchley's first peal since 1947.

Mr. Frank Atkinson, the veteran member of the York Minster Society, celebrated by ringing 720 Bob Minor on his 80 th birthd Arank is a walking encyclopædia of tenor weights, and although he has only rung ten peals has a record of all his quarter peals and 720's done in beautiful copperplate writing.Mr. Alan Ainsworth arranged a successful week of peal ringing in the north-east for school-age ringers.

There was some good work at Darlington on August 25 th, when a peal of 5,056 Cambridge Surprise Major (Middleton's) was rung silent and non-conducted

The peal of Plain Bob Minor at St. Matthew's Church, Stretton, Cheshire, on August 30th, was the first peal rung entirely by Daresbury ringers since 1881 .

Congratulations to Alan Barber, of Fordham. on ringing a peal of seven Minor methods. Alan, who is 14, has rung four peals, ranging from Plain Bob Minor to Surprise Major, an auspicious start to his ringing career.

In honour of the wedding between Dr. Derek Sibson and Miss Jane Langton on September 1st, a peal was attempted the following afternoon at St. Alphege's, Canterbury, but had to be abandoned before the start owing to the tenor wheel slipping headstock. In the circumstances it was thought hardly appropriate to ring a peal on the minor front five, so a peal at a later date is planned.

Before Matins on Sunday morning, September 2nd, at Diss Parish Church, eight members of St. Mary's band rang a birthday 'touch' of 504 Grandsire Triples for the 76th birthday of Mr. Harry Moss, the Ringing Master. Mr. Moss rang the treble and conducted; other ringers were A. G. Harrison 2, G. Maynard 3, H. Fuller 4, C. Catchpole 5, F. C. Roper 6, L. E. Last 7, A. Cook 8.

MR. ARTHUR MACKEARS

On the hill that overlooks the Witham and Trent valleys, the bells of All Saints' Church Hough-on-the-Hill. rang out their muffled notes on the evening of August 27th to record the passing of Arthur Mackears.

Off ' and "Makkers' was how we all knew the village and its blacksmith. "Makkers " had been a resident for 70 years, though heing born in nearby Caythorpe; it was at Hough that he rang his first peal (1902) and at Caythorpe his last (1951). In between he rang over 100 peals hoth in tower and on handbells. conducting lots of them. We know from his fellow ringers how well he loved his ringing and his insistence on good striking.
But alas. Hough hells are now rarely rung. and with the passing of 'Mak' we shall be all the more sadder at their stillness and of his passing from our midst.

Mak' was 82 . and on the evening of his interment the hells were quarter-pealed : and in the belfry also were his old friends Harry Squires and Harry Barnes.

We extend our deepest sympathy to his wife in her and our loss.
F.W.P.

MR. FRED WHITE

We regret to record the death of Mr. Fred White, of Appleton, on August 30th. A peal and quarter peal to his memory appear on the appropriate pages.

MR. J. E. HOBBS

Numerous friends, church members, old scholars and sportsmen throughout the district will regret to learn of the death of Mr. J. E Hobbs, which occurred at his home in Newdigate Road. Nuthall, on Monday, August 20th. One of the chief hobbies of the deceased was that of campanology, a knowledge he passed on to many young members: he had conducted teams of bell-ringers in many churches, including those of Greasley and Nuthall. In his 76th year, Mr. Hobbs may be the last to carry on the family tradition which has reached a total of 210 years.

Prior to cremation at Wilford Hill, the funeral service was held at St. Patrick's Church, Nuthall, conducted by the Rector. the Rev. L. R. Barker, and the favourite hymns of the deceased. We 'love the place, O God' and 'Abide with me,' were sung.

In the evening a half-muffled quarter peal of Cambridge Minor was rung in his memory.
S. A.

PETERBOROUGH GUILD SUMMER FESTIVAL  - Who rings d bell let him look well To hands and head and heart; The hands for strength, The head for wit,

 The heart for worship's part.'THIS inscription from an Oxfordshire peal board was used by Canon Elliot Wigg, Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, as a text for his sermon at the Peterborough Diocesan Guild Festival Service at St. Mary's Church, Easton Neston, on September 1st. The little church, standing in a wooded setting by the side of Nicholas Hawks-Moon's magnificent Easton Neston House, was filled for the occasion by members from most parts of the diocese and beyond, the visitors including such notables as Mr. and Mrs. Peter Border, Mr. A. W. Coles, Mr. Pat Cannon, Mr. Robin Leale and his fiancée, and Mrs. Fermor-Hesketh, widow of the Hon. John FermorHesketh, who was instrumental in bringing about the complete restoration of Easton Neston Church recently. The service was conducted by the Rev. G. F. Hales and Canon Turner (Guild president), and the lesson was read by Mr. Patrick Chapman, Master of the Guild.

Before the service, many of the members were privileged to meet the Lord Lieutenant of Northamptonshire, Earl Spencer, and the Countess, who had come to see the restoration work with which Lord Spencer had been concerned as a member of the Diocesan Advisory Board.
A short but very beautiful ride through the estate was necessary to reach the somewhat unusual venue for teathe Pavilion of Towcester Racecourse. The racecourse is in Easton Neston Park, by the side of the ancient Watling Street, and must surely be among the most beautifullysituated in the country. A very nice tea had been arranged by the local ringers and their wives, and was most enjoyable.
In recent years it had become customary to transact any urgent business at the Summer Festival, but at the request of the Guild Committee this practice has been dropped. Consequently there was no more than a hearty welcome to our visitors and members from Canon Turner and the usual and very sincere vote of thanks to all concerned proposed by Mr. Stanley Earl. Unfortunately, the beautiful weather meant that many members of the more rural branches were unable to attend because of their work in connection with the harvest, and one particularly missed was the genial Towcester Branch secretary, Mr. W. A.

Yates, who had done so much towards the arranging of the Festival.
Ten towers were available for ringing during the day, and there was ringing to suit every taste, from rounds to Spliced Surprise.

THE RINGING WEEK

ARINGING week is decidedly other. There are 52 weeks in the year, and 51 of them belong to another world: up with the alarm, off to the office, lunch at a table with knife and fork, lights out at 11, a bit of Grandsire on Sundays with the treble mostly hovering around thirds place, and a monthly Saturday afternoon meeting.
When it is otherwise it is up with a hangover half way through breakfast, an hour late for the peal attempt, search for anything at all to eat at 3 p.m. on early closing day. bed at $2 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$., prancing conductors changing the method whenever the treble leads. and a ringing meeting seven days - and nights-long. Presumably the rest of the world does still pursue the even tenor of its ways during this fifty-second week; one is just conscious of the baker's van on its rounds as one hurtles down the country lanes in search of villages with unlikely names; newspapers are still to be found somewhere; the Lone Ranger still rides across the screen; England still plod on to 300 for two wickets; the Proms still reverberate around the Albert Hall.
Presumably. This 51 -week world has shrunk to a microcosm, swallowed in the timeless ecstasy of the angel roof of Little Greatly, swallowed in a pint of beer, swallowed in the total absorption of the business man, two teachers and a housewife stretched on the floor at midnight at an eternal game of Monopoly, swallowed in the changeless, but ever-changing beauty of the English landscape, swallowed in the pure joy of random living. Only when it is so other could a charming young lady of 14 months take her breakfast in the solemn C. P. Snow (is the adjective Snovian?) atmosphere of the dining hall of an Oxford college, or could an eminent cleric be found crammed in a cupboard in the pitch dark playing 'sardines,' or could the sense of time become so blurred that ten ringers can be found in the saloon of a pub at midday drinking coffee? There are two ringing worlds: one is 51 weeks long, the other is seven days.
As the car slips from the scene on the seventh, and the speedometer needle subsides from its frantic schedule chasing 65 to a more habitual 50 , the world of the 51 gathers all round again with a sense of utter physical exhaustion. 'Three weeks.' somebody said last night, 'three weeks they have for their ringing tour each year.' No. I don't believe it; 49 weeks are not long enough for recuperation.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD IN LANCASHIRE

HALF of what the Guild does is not inter-esting-the other half is not printable. and "Every sentence must end with "and then we adjourned to the local hostelry ": These were the last-minute instructions given to me just before we left our 'home for the week at Alston Hall, the Preston Adult Education Centre, which we had shared with a group of potters.
I am writing on the assumption that a brief outline of our activities will be of interest to some readers, and the fact that 'we adjourned to the local hostelry" at regular intervals may be taken as read.
The non-ringing activities included Corporate Communion and the annual meeting, at which a new set of rules for the Guild was adopted after minor alterations.

Notable amongst the towers visited was Liverpool Cathedral-a unique ring of bells and a unique experience ringing them, our only other 12 -bell ringing being at St . Nicholas'. Liverpool. Ten-bell towers included Wigan. St. Andrew's, Leyland, and Preston: eights: Whalley, St. Peter's, Burnley, Clitheroe. Ormskirk, Higher Walton. Bamber Bridge, Kirkham. Accrington, Todmorden Unitarian, Bacup. Newchutch-inRossendale, Hornby and Giggleswick; sixes: Ribchester, Aughton, St. James'. Leyland, Kirkby Lonsdale and Bentham ; fives (by courtesy of B. D. Threlfall): Downham and Leck. At St. Peter's, Burnley, we found the tower locked and the key could not be found, but entry was effected by the more agile and determined members scaling two builders' ladders (much to the consternation of the builders), entering the tower by the window and removing the lock from the door to let in the rest of us. At Bamber Bridge one bell proved unringable owing to the addition of a piece of birdwire to its mechanism.

BACK-SLANG

Methods rung ranged from standard methods to Spliced Surprise, London Royal and a course of egdirbmaC Surprise Minor and Major (anyone wishing for further details of this method should contact nedleiF .H .J).

In number we were not as strong as in most recent years, and in peal-ringing we certainly did not excel, not one peal standing to our credit. A peal of London Royal at Ashton-under-Lyne was lost after an hour's rather ragged ringing on Saturday, on Monday a peal of Spliced was lost at Oswaldtwistle, on Wednesday a peal of Yorkshire at Walton-le-Dale was brought to a somewhat controversial halt. and on Thursday evening, despite the reluctance of some of the band to embark on peal-ringing so late in the day, we were all, sorry to lose the peal of Grandsire Caters at Blackburn after over two hours' quite good ringing. Attempts to ring Stedman 'in hand' met with no more success, although a quarter of Stedman Caters was safely brought round.

However, lost peals did not seem to dampen anyone's spirits and, to use a standard phrase. 'a good time was had by all.' For this we owe our sincere thanks to Roger Leigh for arranging our excellent accommodation and ringing pragramme, and to the Principal of Alston Hall and the local ringers and incumbents, many of whom were able to meet us in person, for their hospitality.

For a true picture of the Guild Week add to the activities recounted above excellent company and conversation (the latter falling often into the 'unprintable half of the activities). We trust that we shall see all those present and *absent friends too next year, when we plan to visil Cornwall.

WEDDING OF MISS CYNTHIA BIBBY

The wedding took place at Frodsham Parish Church, Cheshire, on July 23rd, of Miss Cynthia Bibby, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bibby. of Frodsham, and Mr. Robert James Warrilow, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Warrilow, of Stafford. The bride is a member of the well-known Frodsham ringing family, and was a member of the church choir and a Sunday school teacher until her job as a needlework teacher brought her to the Stafford neighbourhood. The bridegroom is on the staff of Barclays Bank in Stafford. and is a well-known Stafiord ringer.

The Vicar of Frodsham. Rev. G. H. L. Green, officiated at the ceremony, assisted by Rev. J. G. White. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a full-length gown of white figured satin. She was attended by her friend Miss Kay Standring as chief bridesmaid, her nieces, the Misses Barbara and Deborah Daniels, and the bridegroom's cousin, Miss Linda Jones. Mr. David W. Friend was best man.

Afterwards. a reception for 86 guests was held at the Mersey View Pavilion. The destination of the honeymoon was not disclosed. Later in the afternoon a peal of Cambridge Major was rung at Frodsham by a band of ringing friends.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

The September quarterly meeting of the St. David's Diocesan Guild was held at St. Teilo's Church. Llandilo. on September 8th. The six belts were rung during the afternoon by members of the Guild and visitors from Somerset, Gloucester and Essex. as well as friends from the neighbouring diocese of Swansea and Brecon.

Canon T. Hughes, the Vicar of Llandilo, conducted the service, and afterwards the ringers were entertained to an excellent tea, provided by local people.

The business meeting was followed by further ringing. A feature of the ringing chamber is the enormous clock pendulum which swings to and fro in the centre of the room in a case of wire mesh. Many ringers were seen trying to 'dodge' with this large portion of clockwork in an effort to see the ringer opposite them!

Ringing to suit all tastes, ranging from rounds to London. continued until the bells were rung down at 8.30 . R.C.W.

MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY GUILD IN NORTH WALES

$\mathrm{A}^{\mathrm{s}}$

$S$ the four-day tour in Yorkshire last year was such a success. Manchester University Guild decided to make a tour on similar lines this year, and the area chosen was North Wales. Nine of us left the University Union on the morning of Friday, June 15th, and travelled ta Buckley, where we were joined by our president Derek Ogden, and his wife Joyce.

The tour made a good start on this excellent eight. the best ringing being a touch of Stedman. After a fish-and-chip lunch (nothing is too good for us) in Flint. we rang on the light eight (tenor 7 cwt.) at St. Mary's, Flint. Being unused to such light bells, we did not acquit ourselves perhaps as well as we ought to have done, and our attempt to ring a course of Yorkshire was not helped by Jim, who insisted on ringing Cambridge. St. Thomas'. Rhyl (8. tenor 17 cwt.), was a complete contrast, and we proved our adaptability by ringing various methods competently. We enjoyed the pleasant six at Abergele, and ringing ranged from Plain Bob to Killamarsh and London. The night was spent at Colwyn Bay. where we were met hy three more members, who had been taking exams during the day.

Next morning we got off to a rather bad start at Llandudno, but even so managed to bring round one or two good touches. As the weather was fine we had a pienic lunch at Great Orme Head, where we were soon mobbed by hordes of hungry gulls and jackdaws who having posed for photographs, proceeded to take a good part of our food. Lunch over. we went to Llandudno Bay, where the annual cricket match-North v. South-was played. After a rousing victory for the South. we proceeded to Llandegai, a nice-toned but noisy six. The third here twice slipped wheel, but we nevertheless did good ringing in six methods. On the eight at Glenadda (tenor 13 cwt .) we undoubtedly did some of the best 8 -bell ringing of the tour and the tower captain, Dr. Donald Marshall, joined us in a course of 3Spliced Surprise Major, which made a fitting end to the day's ringing. We stayed the night at Bettws-y-Coed, in beautiful Snowdonia
On Sunday we were not due at our first tower until 3 p.m.. and en route we found time to visit Swallow Falls and to take a leisurely lunch on a hillside overlooking the road. At Ruabon we marked Trinity Sunday in the best possible way by ringing an excellent course of Trinity Sunday Treble Bob Minor. For evening service we rang at Wrexham, a superb ten, on which our best ringing was a course of Cambridge Major. Our lack of practice on ten bells was shown by our barely competent efforts at Stedman and Grandsire Caters, but the local band proved very understanding and co-operative.
Monday, our last day, proved hectic, and also produced very good and very bad ringing. We started at Chirk (6) with some reasonable Beverley and Surfleet. Some good 3- and 4Spliced Surprise Minor was rung at St. Martin's, a six recently cast by Taylors. At Ellesmere and. Whitchurch we probably did the worst ringing of the tour: the fault lay certainly with us-both were comparatively heavy eights, but by this time we were beginning to feel the strain of rushing round the countryside. The tour finished on the light eight at Tarporley. At the local hostelry afterwards we discussed the tour. and came to the conclusion that it had been more of a success than last year's tour of Yorkshire.
We should like to thank John Soanes and Nancy Robins for arranging the tour and generally looking after us, and to express our sincere thanks to incumbents and tower captains who welcomed us. D. B., E.B.

SWANSEA & BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD

Thirty-five ringers journeyed to St. Matthew's Church. Duffryn, Neath, on September 1st, for the quarterly meeting of the Southern District. The fine, warm day added to the pleasures of ringing.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. D. Grenffill Rees). who in his address spoke about the history of the church, which was known as Howell Gwynn's Church and had a strong link with Brecon Cathedral. Tea was provided in the school room, a little distance from the church, but the walk created an appetite for the good things provided by the ladies.

With the Vicar in the chair, the business was expeditiously dealt with. After apologies. an invitation from Miss Way to visit Sketty for the December meeting was accepted. Four new members were elected, and a reminder was given by the hon. secretary of the meeting at: New Radnor on November 3rd.

The visitors were welcomed by Mr. Trevor Roderick, and a comprehensive vote of thanks - 10 the ladies for the splendid tea, the Vicar for the use of the bells and conducting the service, and the organist-was proposed by Mr. D. J. Lewis.

Ringing continued until 8.30 p.m., and varied from rounds to Surprise methods

SURREY ASSOCIATION

The quarterly meeting of the Northern District was held at Walton-on-Thames on September Ist. Ringing was under the direction of the District Master and the service was conducted by the Vicar, himself a ringer. The two churchwardens of Walton-on-Thames and their wives were entertained to tea. and their presence and their interest in the Association was very much appreciated.
After a brief business mecting the company adjourned to the towers of Walton-on-Thames and Hersham, where ringing continued at an 'above average' standard of striking in methods up to Spliced Surprise. N.G.T.S.

JOINT MEETING AT GREASLEY
Forty ringers and friends attended a joint meeting of the Mansfield District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild and the Society of Sherwood Youths at Greasley on August 4th. the towers represented including Nottingham, Warsop, Hathern (Leics), Kingston. Blackwell. Sheffield. Mansfield. Shepshed (Leics), Worksop. Chesterfield, Bolsover. London University, Thrybergh and the local company.

A wide variety of methods was included in the ringing before the service, which was conducted by the Vicar. Rev. C. W. A. Pegler. This was followed by an excellent tea, served by local ladies.
The Vicar presided at the short business meeting, and in a few words of welcome said how glad he was to have the opportunity of meeting everyone again. Mrs. F. C. Burke, of Hucknall, was elected a ringing member, and the next meeting of the Mansfield District will be held at Edwinstowe on September 22nd.

An appeal on behalf of the memorial window to the late Mr. Ernest Morris from St. Margaret's, Leicester, was received, and it was decided to devote the next Bell Fund collection to the appeal. Members are also invited to make personal donations, and these should be received by the hon. secretary before the end of September. The customary votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar, and the ladies for tea. Evening ringing reached Yorkshire Surprise Major.

THE LADIES' GUILD

The newly-formed Devon Branch held an enjoyable quarterly meeting at Torre. Tonquay which overlooks Torbay. on September 8 th. Twenty-six ringers and friends attended in bright sunshine. and the ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge.
The service was conducted by the Rev P. R. Rose (curate), who also kindly acted as organist, and some of the ringers formed the choir. A good tea was provided in the Church Hall. While the business meeting was being held the gentlemen adjourned to ring on the lovely eight at Upton, where we shontly joined them.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

When the members and friends of the Sheffield and District Society met at Bolsterstone on September 1st, the eight bells were rung half-muffled as a token of respect for Mr. J. R. Brearley, who died an August 25th, and who had been a regular ringer at Bolsterstone for many years. After tea, the company stood in silence to his memory.

At the business meeting, plans were discussed for ringing at the time of the enthronement of the new Bishop of Sheffield. but unfortunately the Bishop has fallen ill, and arrangements have been postponed until further notice.

Ringing preceded Evensong, which was attended by the company, and afterwards a louch of Double Norwich C.B. Major (Mr. Brearley's favourite method) was specially included, and a good course of Yorkshire rung. A.M.T.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Ringers from Ilfracombe, Combe Martin, Stration, and visitors from Exeter, Paignton and Oxford took part in a meeting of the North Devon Branch at Westleigh on September 8th. Methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob.
A service was conducted by the Vicar of Westleigh (the Rev. J. Shepheard-Walwyn), and tea was served by members of the Parochial Church Council. Over $£ 4$ was given to the Bell Restoration Fund.
NATIONAL STRIKING COMPETITION
Dear Sir,-I am afraid Mr. Cook is wasting his time in trying to organise a national striking competition, because there are so very few people interested
I tried to organise a similar contest, hut on a smaller scale tast year ( R.W: 24-11-61, page 785 ), and only had one reply.
I hate dampening anyone's spirits, but facts must be faced, and I think I am correct in saying that I am not the first person to meet with failure. - Yours. etc..

Letters to the Editor

ALPHABET BELLS

Dear Sir.-I was interested to read Mr. Grenter's letter in 'The Ringing World,' concerning an 'Alphabet bell' at Street, Somerset. Whilst not being able to give an approximate date of this bell, I should like to state that during the early sixteen hundreds there were many bells of this type cast, at least in Northamptonshire. Many were by the founder Hugh Watts, who was born about 1582.

The following list is of some Northants bells bearing the alphabet or parts of it in Gothic or Roman capitals

| Little Addington and Braybrooke, | 1610. |
| :--- | :--- |
| Whiston, | 1611. |
| Ecton and Marston Trussel. | 1612. |
| Woodford Halse ( 4 alph. bells), | 1613. |
| Grendon, | 1618. |
| Norton, | 1640. |

Many other 'Alphabet bells, in the county are undated.

These details are taken from Thomas North's book "The Church Bells of Northamptonshire,' 1878.

Mr. Grenter states that the only inscription is the alphabet. He does not say whether any crest appears or ornamental marks between the letters. These marks, if any, could be the clue. North gives many illustrations of crests, marks, etc., with details of founders, which would help date the bell. Of course. one difficulty still remains owing to the fact that many early founders used detters. etc., handed down from generation to genenation.

Perhaps Mr. Grenter would be interested in the following paragraph taken from North's Northamptonshire' on 'Alphabet Bells.
Upon several of the ancient and many of the more modern bells in this county, are portions of the Alphabet. It has been suggested that the founders being desirous not to offend by placing ancient precatory or devotional, and therefore often unwelcome, inscriptions upon their bells, and yet bsing too illiterate to sugges: new ones, adopted this plan to escape the difficulty. By it they ornamented their bells with a goodly show of Gothic capitals which could give offence to no one.

This may have been the case with the Jater bells, but the use of the alphabet surely had another origin on the more ancient ones. We find the alphabet, or pontions of it. on encaustic tiles on the floors of churches. It appeared on the top of a Norman Font discovered at Severn Stoke, in Warwickshire. Iis the Pontifcale Romanum the Bishop is directed in the dedication of a church to write, in the form of a cross, two alphabets, one in Greek and the other in Latin, first from the East to West, then from North to South. There was clearly some symbolic meaning in the alphabet. Some writers on the subject say the letters represented the beginning and rudiments of sound doctrine and the simple and pure truths of the Gospel." Yours sincerely,

COMPOSITION FALSE

Dear Sir.-My attention has been drawn to the fact that the peal of Quedgley Surprise Major rung at Lower Beeding, in Sussex, on January 15th, was false. This composition of Harry Poyner's is in fact false to Quedgley. I extend my sincere apologies to the members of the hand.-Yours faithfully,
W. LESLIE WELLER

'IN DOMINO' FOUNDRY SHIRLD

Dear Sir,-Mr. A. Clayton in his letter (page 556) asks for the moders opinion on which founder used the above shield. So far as I have been able to determine no other later writer has supported E. A. Dowman's suggestion that the shield was used by William Dawe. Modern opinion is still that Tyssen was right in attributing bells bearing this shield to William Culverden. The Jatter's will is printed in Raven's 'The Church Bells of Cambridgeshire,' Second Edition, page 44ff. Ii is dated September 29th, 1522, and was proved June 2nd, 1523.

Mr. W. Shepherd in his letter (page 589) says Culverden's bells are very rare; I cannot fully support this as I have a note of 29 which I think still exist and 3 others I know to have been recast or in one case scraped

For the record the list is:
Essex: Aveley, Margaretting, Tillingham, Wicken Bonant, Takeley, Elsenham: Oxon: Kencoto (2): Aberdeenshire: Tough: Co. Durham: Newburn: Suffolk: Stratford St. Mary. Ubbeston, Giffords Hall (by Stoke-byNaytand); Cambs: Landbeach: Dorset: Steeple; Hents: Furneaux Pelham ; Kent: Graveney: Middlesex: Brentford, Hampton Court Palace (2 quarter bells). Greenford: Staffs: Kingstone (2); Hunts: King's Ripton (2): Beds: Campton (2): Gunrey: Chobham, Wimbledon. Recast: Matching, Essex (2). Scrapped: Boughton Aluph. Kent

Of these only the Giffords Hall bell does not bear the foundry shield but this may be due to the bell being so small ( 14 inches diameter). However, the distinctive Culverden capitals do appear on the bells. These are exceptionally large, broad and flat and were not used by earlier founders. The capitals were used in two sizes.
The crosses on the above bells appear to be of anly two types; one with four fleur-de-lis arms radiating from a central diamond with a hollow centre, and the other of four fleur-de-lis arranged in a cross. Church Bells of Essex, Plate VII, figs. 5 and 4 . They were used by earlier founders, John Sturdy 14401458. Kebyll c.1460-1480, and the former by Robent Burford 1392-1418. There is no evidence that the former cross was used by Stephen Norton or William Dawe and, in fact. Rohert Burford, though working at the same time as Dawe in London, ran an entirely different and rival business. It is difficult to be precise about the latter cross as the design with four 'fleur-de-lis was common to a number of different founders.

Dowman is right in saying that Culverden used impressions of coins in his inscriptions. but quite wrong in saying that Stephen Norton dud so too. Unfortunately only four of Norton's bells remain: Snave (Kent). Canterbury Holy Cross. (Kent), Chiselbarough (Somerset), and Didington (Norfolk) from Worcester Cathedral. None of these are noted to bear impressions of coins.
The Tough bell. 19 inches diameter, in Aberdeenshire, was one of the five smajl bells and two bells for daily use hung with five great bells in the tower of King's College. Aberdeen. This college was founded by Bishop Elphinstone in 1494 and he gave some of the bells in his lifetime though three of the great bells were dated 1519, some five years after his death. This clearly fixes the date of the founder using this shield to c .1500 . which was in with William Culverden but is 100 years too late for William Dawe.

The Kencote. Oxon, treble bears the name of Robert Weston. mercer, of London. His date would seem to be c. 1510 . but the evidence is indefinite. Culverden cast three bells for this tower apparently, but the middle one disappeared in the period 1837 to 1868 . See F. Sharpe "The Churoh Bells of Oxfordshire, page 182
If we accept Dowman's suggestion that this shield was used by William Dawe then Stahlschmidt in his 'Church Bells of Kent.' page 25, is wrong in connecting Dawe with the circular medallion bearing "William ffoundor me fecit, and two birds on a tree. I correct.-Yours sincerely, RANALD W. M. CLOUSTON.

SINGLE METHOD MINOR PEALS

Dear Sir.-There seems to me to have been during the last few years a campaign of research into ringing records to find what has been overlooked in one-method Minor peals with subsequent action to remedy the oversights.
I am among those who believe that the existence of those gaps reflected much more credit on those who could have filled them but did not. choosing rather to ring seven or more of these methods in one peal. Perhaps this belief is wrong and, perhaps, there is solid achievement in ringing seven 720 's in one method and thus steadfastly facing up to and resisting the temptation for familiarity with the method to breed contempt rather than taking the easy way out and changing the method after a 720 !

Mr. C. K. Lewis has remarked on more than one occasion that good taste cannot be produced by legislation, and there seemed little likelihood of this remorseless process being halted. I had, therefore, resigned myself to its continuing until all the Minor methods had been disposed of and the need for such performances had disappeared.
However, Sir, when I thought of full peals of 'all' the Minor methods, I never for one moment envisaged that this would include Little and Alliance methods, since neither type by itself is capable of producing a true 720 on six bells. Alas, I have underestimated the thoroughness of the campaign, for a start appears now to have been made on even this section ('R.W. ', page 601).-Yours sincerely,

DENIS A. BAYLES.

MR. WILLIAM FERNLEY

The death of Mr. William Fernley, of Norbury, Cheshire, came as a bit of a surprise to many, even though ill-health had caused him to give up ringing several years ago. A member of the well-known ringing family of Norbury, Cheshire. he commenced his ringing carear about 1910, a few years before he and his brother Arthur introduced me to the art

Like the rest of the Norbury company, he was a keen 6 -bell ringer and, encouraged by his father, James Fernley, strove to accomplish multi-method peals, and before the 1914 war rang one in 18 methods.

He served during the First. World War as a driver in the R.A.S.C. being in France from 1914 to 1918 . Soon after demobilisation, ringing practice started in earnest, and after several failures the first peal after the war at Norbury was one in seven methods, rung on October 23 rd, 1920 , which incidentally was my first peal. Within five months one in 18 methods was rung. The goal being aimed at was a peal in 35 methods, and this was accomplished on December 4th, 1923. Now I am the only survivor of that band.

When the Norbury octave was installed in 1925 , he took to 8 -bell ringing with the same keenness that he had tackled the 6 -bell, and rang many worthwhile peals with the Cheshire men. I do not know whether he kept a complete record of his peals, but he rang 180 for the Chester Diocesan Guild.

On retiring from ringing he was glad to know that the tradition of Norbury tower was being maintained. and that his niece, Carol, was one of the good youngsters coming along. His passing almost brings to an end the era of the old 6 -bell establishment that had been going since the $1890^{\circ}$ s, an era that saw many advances made in 6 -bell ringing, culminating with spliced peals which, in the early days, were with spliced peals which looked upon as stunts.

Before I moved from Hazel Grove, Bill and I travelled many miles for practice; at times we had some funny experiences, and although our pockets were almost empty had plenty to laugh at. His passing brings sorrow to his relatives and friends, but anyone who knew him can honestly say: 'I am glad I knew Bill Fernley.'

MR. T. MOULDEN

With the death on September 3rd of Mr. Thomas Moulden, at the age of 84 , a life of faithful service to the church at Stratton St. Margaret has ended. He was people's warden for about 30 years and Ringing Master for 50 . relinquishing both posts about three years ago due to failing health and eyesight.
He was instrumental in adding two trebles to the old six in 1931, and his main efforts were to maintain a band to ring them. After the war, at the age of 77, he had to train a completely fresh band-a wonderful achievement at this advanced age.

At the funeral service and interment on September 6th, the local band was represented by Messrs. A. Hatherall and V. Griffin. The Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association was represented by Dr. H. Craig, and many representatives of the Parochial Church Councif came to pay their last respects.
Remembering his record of service ringing, a quarter peal of Bourne Surprise Minor was rung before morning service on September 9th. - Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'

MR. FRED WHITE

By the death of Mr. Fred White, at the age of 80, the Appleton Society of Change Ringers has lost one of its oldest and best loved members.
Son of Frederick White, the well known beli hanger, he learned to ring at an early age, and his first peal was rung at Appleton with the bell half-muffled for the death of with the bell Victoria.
Fred White rang some 140 peals, 104 of them at Appleton. Although he rang an 'inside' bell he was happier ringing the tenor to Caters. which he always did in faultless style. He rang the tenor bell at Appleton to over one hundred peals while his brother, the late Richard White, rang the ninth. These included the two record peals of Caters, 21,363 Stedman, rung in 12 hours 35 minutes on April $22 \mathrm{nd}, 1922$, and 16,271 Grandsire, rung in 9 hours 20 minutes on December 27 th, 1932. He also took part in the 10,043 Grandsire Caters in 1921, which figures in one of the traditional 'Fourth-of-March' songs. At this gathering we shall miss him greatly. It was a delight to hear him sing his customary songs. and join with other members of the White family in the superb tune-playing on the handbells cast by his father.

Except for a period of service in the R.A.S.C. in the First World War, Fred White lived the whole of his life in Appleton, where his modest, unassuming and sincere manner made him greatly loved by all. This was evidenced at his funeral on September 3rd, when Appleton Church was filled to its utmost capacity. All the members of the Appleton Society were there, together with a very large number of the Oxford Diocesan Guild members, including its Deputy Master and general secretary. The North Berkshire Branch secretary was represented by Mr. Michael Rishop. Members of the Oxford. Society of Change Ringers, and the Ahcient Society of College Youths came to pay a last tribute. and in addition to ringers from local Berkshire towers were many others from Gloucestershire, Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire. The Central Council was represented by its president.
Typical of many was the card on a wreath from Sir Basil Blackwell, inscribed "To Uncle Fred " in appreciation of much beautiful music from the tower of Appleton Church.'

The bells of the parish church were rung fully muffled before and after the funeral. and. as previously reported. a peal of 5.039 Grandsire Caters was rung half-muffled later in the day.
All his numerous friends extend their sincere sympathy to his widow, four sons and three daughters. May his soul rest in peace.

MR. ALBERT E. SELLERS
By the death on September 6th of Mr. Albert E. Sellers, of Beverley, the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association has lost its vice-president and the Beverley and District Society its founder and president.
Albent was very proud of the positions he held; his friendly nature gained him many friends and he will be much missed at our meetings. It was noted that he was failing during the last few months, but he was very active for his 84 years. The loss of his wife a fow years ago was a great blow to him. Of late he had been looked afiter by his daughter. To her and his family the greatest sympathy is extended. May he rest in peace.

AN APPRECIATION

Mr. Albert Sellers was one of the prime movers in the formation of the Beverley and District Society in 1946, and was its first secretary for five years, until being elected president in 1951. Despite recent failing health, he attended the monthly meetings whenever possible, and on these occasions his pleasure at being amongst his ringing friends was obvious. He was present as recently as the July meeting at Hutton Cranswick to take the chair at the business meeting, and his death occurred two days before the September meeting at Middleton-on-the-Wolds, when several members paid tribute to his work for the Society and mentioned his particular concern for the welfare of the younger members.

The funeral service was held at Beverley Minster, his hame tower, on September 10th, when members were present from as far afield as Filey, Bridlington, Patrington, Goole, York and Market Weighton, in additional to representatives from the local towers. The Society's chaplain, Rev. G. Storer, of Hutton Cranswick, gave an address and spoke of his own personal loss of a great friend, and praised Mr. Sellers' devotion as an example for all to follow. The Minster bells were rung halfmuftled in the evening.

One of Albert's of repated sayings was God has been very good to me.' No one can more fully have deserved His Goodness.

MR. A. R. GLASSCOCK

Mr. A. R. Glasscock who died on September 6 th, at the age of 82 , had been a member of the Christ Church Society, Southgate, since 1898. He was one of the band who, before and after the First World War helped to make Southgate well known for its high standard of ringing.
For many years he acted as collector to the Society and when no longer able to ring continued to chime regularly for the 8 a.m. service on Sundays. He was a life member of the Middlesex County Association and Cumberland Youths.
After a service in Christ Church on September 13 th, he was cremated at Enfield. Owing to the bells being overhauled no ringing was possible at Southgate, but, by kind permission, the bells of All Hallows', Tottenham. were rung to his memory on the evening of the funeral.

NOTES FOR BEGINNERS  By WILFRID G. WILSON  IN AND OUT OF COURSE - THE NATURE  OF THE ROWS

1. INTRODUCTION.

This long-promised article was ready in outline when Mr. A. W. T. Cleaver's helpful and informative series on The Theory of Change Ringing started to appear in ' R.W.' last March. So I have waited until now to complete the article and was careful not to read what Mr. Cleaver wrote about In and Out of Course changes until after it was finished. The fact. therefore, that there are considerable similarities shows the mathematical nature of the problem we have each tried to explain.
There are surprisingly some who consider that this kind of article in the 'R.W.' is a waste of time, but I believe that our journal should reflect all aspects of the Exercise, that technical articles can be of use to beginners and that any repetition which may appear now of what Mir. Cleaver wrote earlier and of what doubtless J. A. Trollope wrote many years ago -may well be useful. But here I would stress to the beginner that the only way to get real benefit out of a technical article is to get pen and paper and work out examples for yourself. Just as at school you had to work out examples of mathematical problems to help you to understand the theory behind them

To most of us who teach beginners there comes the timo when they ask questions. And if you have a really promising pupil, one of the things he wilt ask will take some such form as Why do we have Singles as well as Bobs? Why are there no Singles in Treble Bob? Why can you get 120 changes of Plain Bob Doubles with Bobs only and yet the same changes or rows can only be obtained in the Grandsire method by using two Singles? And so on. The answer given by C. A. W. Troyte nearly a century ago was that 'on all numbers of bells exactly half the changes are of one nature and half of another. What this nature is it is out of my power to explain, but as will be seen by and by it is a fact which must be understood before it is possible to go into the science of composing and proving peals.'
To many of us that very honest answer is still the only one we can give, in the same way that we used to be told that no one knew what electricity was-it could only be explained by learning what it could do. It is a pity to have to mystify a beginner by this sort of answerhence these notes which will try to explain in simple non-technical language why there are what we call In and Out of Course changes and what their effect is on ringing.

II. THE NATURE OF THE ROWS.

You do not need to be a mathematician, or a ringer, to know that there are odd numbers and even numbers, and you don't need to be told that one big difference between them is that all the even numbers are divisible by 2 and the odd ones are not. A little experiment will show you some of the facts which spring from these two kinds of numbers. If you add two odd numbers together. the answer will always be an even number. If you add two even numbers together the answer will also be even. But if you add odd to even (or even to odd) the answer will be an odd number.

The various rows or changes produced by change-ringing are likewise odd or even. To the purist there is a difference between the terms 'row' and "change, but for ordinary purposes and certainly for our purpose now the terms are interchangeable. Change-ringing is a continuous process of transposing the positions of each one of a pair of bells-sometimes dealing with only one pair at a time, sometimes with several pairs at once. And the rows produced by these changes of pairs of bells are odd or even according to whether they have been produced from Rounds by an odd number or an even number of changes of pairs. We regard Rounds as an even row, but it would not matter theoretically if we called it an odd row. If instead of calling these rows even and odd' we had used the terms 'plus and minus' or 'positive and negative,' a good deal of the confusion and lack of understanding would have been avoided. But. composers and conductors use the terms 'In Course and 'Out of Course. Apart from the fact that the mean ing of these terms is not immediately obvious. the word 'course' is used in other ways-e.g., as a noun when talking of the course, meaning path, of the bells or the plain course of a method, etc., or as a verb meaning just simply to follow the path of, as in the expression to course after or before, another bell, from which we get the name course-bell. There is still another confusing aspect of this, which I will explain later.
The simplest example of the production of odd and even rows (out of course and in course rows) is given by the plain hunt on three bells, 123 Rounds-Even or In Course.

213 Produced by changing I pair. Add 1 to an even row and it becomes odd. 231 Produced by changing 1 pair. Add 1 to an odd row and it becomes even.
321 pair again. Add 1 to even $=$ odd.
3121 pair again. Add 1 to odd = even.
1231 pair again. Back to even, where we started.
Just as in a series of numbers from 1 to 6 half of them are odd and half are even, so in the six possible changes on 3 bells half are odd and half are even. And as in any consecutive series of numbers, however long, half of them are of each nature, so on any number of bells half the possible total number of changes are odd and half are even. For our future examples we shall just use the signs + for even and - for odd, but if you prefer to regard these signs as meaning in course and out of course instead of plus and minus, please do.

III. PLAIN BOB.

Now for a better understanding of the effect of this odd and even nature of the rows let us consider some examples, starting with our old friend Plain Bob

|  |  |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  |  | Produced from | Col. B  Produced from |
| Plain Bob  Minimus | Nature of Row | preceding row | rounds by |
| 1234 | of Row | by changing | changing |
| 2143 | + | 2 pairs | 2 pairs |
| 2413 | - | 1 pair | 3 pairs |
| 4231 |  | 2 pairs | 5 pairs |
| 4321 | + | 1 pair | 6 pairs |
| 3412 | + | 2 pairs | 8 pairs |
| 3142 | - | 1 pair | 9 pairs |
| 1324 | - | 2 pairs | 11 pairs |
| 1342 | + | 1 pair | 12 pairs |

The other two leads of Minimus to produce the possible total of 24 changes are divided into odd and even rows in the same manner So we have 12 odd and 12 even rows without either bobs or singles. I have shown two columns of explanation. You can use Col. A which only involves dealing with the way in which each row is produced from its predecessor to find out its nature, or Col. B, which entails adding up the number of changes of pairs from the beginning, but which has the advantage that if your total number of pairs changed is odd or even so likewise is the nature of the row produced.

PLAIN BOB DOLBLES

All the rows throughout the lead are produced by changing 2 pairs of the preceding row (hence the term Doubles). So all the rows are even or in course. But when wo get to the lead-end, when seconds place is made, only one pair of bells is changed. So our new lead-end becomes an odd row. This means that all the dcuble changes produced in the next lead are odd or out of course, until the one-pair change at the following lead-end makes the succeeding lead even again Bobs have the same effect, on the nature of the rows as do plain leads:-

| Plain lead | Bob lead |
| :---: | :---: |
| 13524 | 12354 |

Instead of firsts, seconds and fifths at the plain lead we have firsts. fourths and fifths, leaving only one pair to change. The 120 changes possible on 5 bells fall into 12 leads, which consist alternately of even rows and odd rows. So we get the 60 in course rows and the 60 out of course rows with Bobs only. That is the answer to part of one of the questions we posed when we started these notes.
In practice. of course, the bells at a Single in Plain Bob lie still in second, third and fourth positions, which means that in Doubles you would merely repeat a row. so it is a good thing that we can get all the rows by Bobs only.

PLAIN BOB MINOR

1 have again shown here both Col. A and Col. B, to try to make clear how we find the nature of each row, but you will see that as our number of bells increases Col . B becomes less easy to use as the numbers get bigger.
The rows in Plain Bob Minor are produced by changing alternately 3 pairs and 2 pairs. Bobs have the same effect so half the changes we produce are even and half are odd. And this is one of the matters which can cause confusion. If half our changes are of each nature it sounds as though we should be able to get all the 720 possible changes with Bobs alone. But a closer look at our example, and a comparison with succeeding leads. will show that our odd and even rows always come in the corresponding positions in the lead. The two rows when the treble is leading are both even So with Bobs only we shall never get an odd row with the treble leading. The two rows with treble in second place (one on its way up and one on its way down) are both odd, so with bobs only we shall never get an even row with the treble in second place. And so on. So we must find a way of changing the order of the odds and evens to get the other 360 rows of the possible total. The call of Single will do just that lain and bob leads for you will see that as only one pair of bells changes over at the Single this alters the nature of the lead-end to an out of course row. So long as we continue with plain leads and bob leads only. all our succeeding rows with the treble leading will be odd. Similarly the nature of all the other rows will be the opposite from what they were before the Single. So we can get our missing 360 rows, but to get back to rounds. which is an even row, we shall need to call another Single to produce the necessary change in the nature of the rows. To produce the full 720 changes of he method we shall. therefore, need at least two Singles. We may have more, provided we have an even number of them at the correct intervals.

Bob lead132546123564

the plain

Sept. 13th, 1912.-
A copy of the Gloucester and Bristol annual report has come into our hands, and while the subject may be, perhaps, somewhat ancient history to some of the members, we cannot refrain from reference to one point to which the Rev. C. D. P. Davies draws attention in his official capacity of Master. He remarks, inter alia, in his report upon the good work being done by the ruri-decanal branches, and adds: - One special task we would most earnestly commend to them, viz., to stir up the members each and all to give up one good day each year to attend the general meeting of the Association. Nothing could be more miserable. wretched and discouraging than the general meeting has been for many years. The misery of these meetings is a grievous loss to the Association in every possible way. The few are left, in matters of business. to settle for the many. The Association presents a sorry picture compared with others even smaller than itself; an opportunity for united worship is lost, and the members thembelves lose the pleasure and profit of meeting with each other, entailing a further and most detrimental loss of the feeling of fellowship and brotherhoodone of the main purposes of the Association.

A Delve Into Doubles

Dear Sir,-I read the reference to SS. Laurence, Mary. Jude, Crispin. Barnabas, Policarp, James and Perpetua Doubles, which appeared in Belfry Gossip of August 31st, with interest. Unfortunately, neither that paragraph nor the report of the peal of St. Laurence rung at Courteenhall (' R.W.', September 7(h) gives any indication of what methods are rung with an Antelope single to produce these six-scores. Perhaps Mr. Paul, who conducted the peal, or Mr. Amos could enlighten us?-Yours sincerely.

Cheltenham.

THE CRAWFORD CUP CONTEST

The final of the Crawford Cup Contest was held at St. Patrick's Church, Nuthall, on Saturday, Sept. 1st. The judges were Mr. D. Marshall and Mr. D. Carlisle, from the Derby District. The result was as follows: First, Warsop, 24 faults; 2nd, Wollaton, $46 \frac{1}{\text {; }} 3$ rd, Whatton-in-the-Vale, $85 \frac{1}{2}$; and 4th, East Retford, 154. Before the cup was presented by Mr. W. Midwinter, the vice-chairman of the District, the judges passed their comments on the standard of ringing, also how much pleasure they had had in judging a contest for the first time
Mr. H. Rooke received the cup on behalf of the Warsop ringers, and thanked the Nottingham District for choosing a tower where the bells are a little difficult to strike properly. A vote of thanks to all concerned was proposed by Mr. R. Benfield.

BARNSLEY DISTRICT SOCIETY
There were only three competitors for the cup contest held at Hoylandswaine, near Sheffield, on September 8th. Mr. Harold Chant was the judge, and his marking was: Cawthorne 143 faults; Wath 15 penalties, 98 faults. rung out; Shelley 155 fauts.

Cawthorne were deelared the winners and the cup was received by the youngest member of the team, Miss Christine Saville, who had only been ringing for 18 months. Miss Saville acknowledged the great help she had received from the other members of the band.
Mr. Squire Fielding made the presentation, and said the cup once belonged to Hoylandswainc ringers, and he was one of the ringers who helped to get it and now was the only member of that band left. He recalled a number of previous contests.
Mr. Michael King, of Wentworth, proposed the vote of thanks.
Mr. Noel F. Moxon was in the chair at the meeting, when ten towers were represented. Two new members-Messrs. F. Jackson and A. Tewitt (Bawtry)-were elected.
The meeting stood in silence in remembrance of Mr. John R. Brearley, of Bolsterstone, who was a founder member of the Society in 1909. president for several years, and at the time of his death a vice-president.

September 8 th was observed as an open day at Rotherham Parish Church. In the afternoon about 350 people visited the belfry, wer the basic principles of change-ringing were explained by charts and models. Those who came in the evening were given an exhibition of change-ringing by the local band, when methods from Plain Bob to Bristol and Stedman Caters were rung. The sum of $£ 14$ was donated by visitors to Church Funds. Such enterprise could well be repeated in other towers with suitable belfries.
'Grandsire Caters' (price $1 /-$ ) is added to the Central Council's list of publications.
Applications for tickets for the Guildford Guild dinner will close on Monday, September 24 th .

The peal week in Yorkshire, arnanged by Mr. Wilfrid F. Moreton, was very successful with 13 peals from 16 attempts.

We are pleased to welcome as a postal subscriber to 'The Ringing World' Mrs. Eva Garner, carillonneur to St. Mary's R.C. Churah, Lowe House, St. Helens, Lancs. Although not a change ringer, she takes a keen interest in our work and all connected with bells.
The Rev. T. C. B. Wilkes, of Street, was instituted and inducted to the living of Yatton on September 10th, by the Bishop of Bath and Wells (Dr. E. B. Henderson) and the Archdeacon of Bath (the Ven. Arthur Hopley). On the following evening a peal of welcome was lost after $1 \frac{1}{2}$ hours' good ringing.
Ringing friends all over the country, of $\mathbf{M r}$. Lester L. Gray, of Wallasey, Cheshire, will join in wishing him all the best on the occasion of his 80 th birthday. A quarter peal of Grandsire Cinques was rung at St. Nicholas', Liverpool, on the day of his birthday, to honour the event, and the following day a peal of Stedman Triples was rung at Halewood. Lester took part on both occasions and rung extremely well, and his friends look forward to ringing with him for many years yet.

To mark Mr. E. Stitch's 78th birthday there was a peal attempt at Penn on August 4th. Had it been successful it would have been his 200th peal for the Archdeaconry of Stafford Society. Alas, a bob was called too soan, and the attempt came to grief Success, however, attended the attempt on September 1 st by an all-local band, when Miss Annette Frost was the first lady ringer of Penn to ring a peal there. It was also a farewell peal to the conductor.
Mr. W. A. J. Knight writes: By the Central Council rules, each extent of Minor in a peal must contain 720 changes. The extent of Little Bob Minor is 480 changes, which falls short by 240 changes.
At the annual meeting of the Leeds University Campanological Socjety the following officers were elected for the session 1962-3: President, W. John Couperthwaite; secretary, John A. Hervey; treasurer, Frances Fairbank.
A reader has noted with pleasure that in 'The Radio Times ' of September 6th, in announcing the morning service from the Parish Church of St. Bartholomew and All Saints', Wootton Bassett, the name of the tower captain, Ernest Brooks, is published.
As regards peal ringing, Cambridge University Guild's week in Lancashire was not conspicuous. No fewer than six attempts, including one 'in hand,' were lost. Biggest disappointment was Grandsire Caters at Blackburn, lost after two hours' ringing.
More propaganda for our Exercise! An invitation has been received by Albert YorkBramble, principal of the College of Campanology, to lecture on 'Campanology ' before a lunch-time club at the Portsmouth Naval Dockyard.

There were rejoicings at St. Mary's Church, Watford, on Saturday, September 8th, when the tower Master, Mr. Raymond G. Smith, was married to Miss Lucy M. Davis. Afterwards a peal of Plain Bob Royal, conducted by G. W. Seaman, was rung in 3 hours 18 minutes.

A FILM ON RINGING

THOSE who attended the Central Council meeting at Cardiff were very impressed with the film 'Ringers Required,' which had been prepared by Mr. A. J. M. Collins, of Vancouver, British Columbia, who was present and able to answer the many questions addressed to him.
This film has received a most encouraging and favourite reception. A five-minute extract from the film has been shown on television in the four countries that constitute the British Isles, and the film is now being screened in its ninth country, counting Great Britain as one.

Mr. Collins has now succeded in making arrangements for 'Ringers Required' to be included in the film library of the Grasshopper Group-Britain's leading amateur film group-to hold the print permanently for distribution. The film is a 16 mm . optical sound-on-film production in black and white and runs for 28 minutes. It is an entirely amateur production and is the only film made covering a comprehensive explanation of our art.
The conditions of distribution are a rent of 30 s. per day (one day being the normal requirement) plus the postal charges both ways. Since the value of the print alone is $£ 35$, there is a stipulation that only an experienced projectionist must handle the film on a sound projector in good condition. The borrower will be held responsible for damage, as this mainly results from carelessness or bad equipment. Applications for rental should be addressed to Mr. Peter Levy, Film Librarian, The Grasshopper Group, 35, Endell Street, London, W.C.2.

BELLS IN HOLLAND

YOUR leader of September 14th brought pleasant memories of travels in Holland during the last 15 years or so, and particularly of Amsterdam - that magic city of silent waterways and carillons. It is doubtful whether there is another city of like size in the world so richly endowed with beautiful bells, the majority of which, after three centuries, still sing the praise of that great founder Francis Hemony, known to his contemporaries of the 17th century as the 'Emperor of bell founding.' and his brother Peter, who had mastered the tuning of the five tones of a bell so long ago.

The gem of the Amsterdam collection is undoubtedly the 28 -bell carillon (Bourdon. 15 cwt .) in the Mint Tower, cast in 1651 by Francis and Peter jointly. Standing alone. overlooking the Amstel River and busy Mint Square, the delicacy and beauty of the bells in this tower cannot. tonally, be matched anywhere. Within a few yards are the 37 bells (Bourdon, 60 cwt .) of the Royal Palace, cast by Francis in 1664; the Old Church with its 38 bells Bourdon, 70 cwt.) of 1658 by Francis; the South Church, containing 35 bells (Bourdon, 45 cwt .). all 1656 , again by Francis; and only a short tram-ride off, if you do not like walking too much, the lofty tower of the West Church, in which Rembrandt Van Rijn lies, likewise containing 35 bells, covered by a 45 cwt . Bourdon, again by the industrious Francis in 1658. All these bells can be clearly seen from outside, there being no louvres, and the effect, as each quarter hour rolls round and the bells sing to one another all over the city, is delightful, not to mention the fine recitals which the various carillonneurs give at each tower in turn. Incidentally, the bell which your contributor saw swung would be that of the Stock Exchange which is rung for five minutes each day.

Travelling away from Amsterdam, and outstanding among others too numerous to mention, is the splendid cathedral tower (Domtoren) of Utrecht, soaring to 338 ft ., and containing in its upper lantern storey, the stonework of which is as delicate as lace. 44 bells. with a Bourdon of 90 cwt., cast jointly in 1663 by Francis and Peter. I well recall hanging about the cloisters listening to the quarter chimes and thinking that the half hour was rather long when it dawned on me that the recital had begun, the carillonneur having skilfully 'spliced' his opening piece on to the clock chimes. Below the carillon hang the eight 'tolling bells,' as they are termed, cast in $1506 / 7$ by Gerard Van Wou, the largest weighing 8 tons. Sixty-one years was this wonderful tower in building, and so vast is it that the lowest stage is used as a meeting chamber for the City Council.
One could go on almost indefinitely: Delft, rising 360 feet to the top of the curious spire. burial place of William the Silent and his successors of the Royal House of Orange, with 38 bells (Bourdon, 50 cwt .), all by Francis Hemony, 1661; 'Long John,' the landmark of Amersfoort, all that survives of a once large church, 315 feet high. with its 33 bells, of 1658 (Bourdon, 40 cwt .), all by Francis. Incidentally, the correct title for 'Long John' is 'Our Dear Lady's Tower.' Passing north to Enkhuizen. once a flourishing port, now one of the 'Dead Cities of the Zuider Zee,' with its curious old 'Dromedary 'tower, once part of the harbour fortifications and so called because of its two 'humps,' we find 24 bells by Michiels of Tournai, the Bourdon only 5 cwt.; and travelling on there is Groningen, with its great St. Martin's Tower: Alkmaar. where the carillonneur always gives a recital when the cheese market is in session; Zutphen and its Wine House Tower; the Gillett and Johnston carillon in the splendid Cathedral of S'Hertogenbosch. Middleburg. with another 'Long John ': Breda - the list is almost endless: and so efficient the railway system that all these towers are easy of access from Amsterdam.

Mr. Wilfred Williams' Peal Tour of Southern Ireland

QUITE apart from any history to be made. the 14 gentlemen who found their way across to Dublin on August 18th had little idea how eventful a week lay ahead. For some it was a flying start, thanks to B.E.A. The flight was smooth, and far less exciting than catching suitcases off a conveyor belt at Dublin Airport. Those who preferred to face the cold winds on the deck of the B. & 1. steamer Leinster appear to have got what they asked for.

Having announced our arrival at the Grosvenor, we made our way to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where we were faced with our first disappointment, and really the major disappointment of the week, for it was discovered (just in time) that the crown-staple of the tenor clapper was broken. This tower has some semi-tone bells. giving a minor 12 and a light ten. We tried the minor 12, and agreed that Stedman Cinques on that for any length of time would send us round the bend. So we rang Cambridge Royal on the light ten and established the first of a series of records. Out of ten peals, nine were firsts in the method on the bells, and this was the first peal of Royal on the light ten. That night a welcome awaited us at the Stag's Head by St. Patrick's ringers.

Those who dislike any suggestion that good ringing goes with good drinking will be dismayed to learn that opening time in Ireland seems to depend on how soon you want it. Closing time is 11.30 p.m. On the Sunday at Kilkenny the pubs were open at 4 p.m. instead of 5 so that a football match could be seen on T.V. By the end of Sunday we totalled three towers and 14 of the other places!

To get back to bells. We rang a touch of Stedman Caters at Christ Church Cathedral. Dublin, on Sunday morning, and a peal of Yorkshire at Kilkenny Cathedral in the after-noon-not without incident. We had a false start and a frayed rope. These were rectified and all was well. Other incidents of note were the ghastly lunch that one or two members had in a place that had better remain nameless! Also the large numbers attending Mass in Ireland at the Roman Catholic churches. Also the carefree driving of the Irish!

At Limerick we were met by George Bingham. We spent two nights here. If you ever visit Limerick Cathedral, don"t miss the beautifully carved misericords. and don't miss the two grand rings. Rutland was well rung at the Cathedral in the morning. and we enjoyed ourselves ringing a good peal of Cambridge Royal at the R.C. Church of Mount St. Alphonsus in the afternoon. The steps here are hazardous! This peal was a landmark for one member, so it was drinks all round that night! More fool the Zombey, who preferred to spend two hours outside a cinema waiting for Noreen!

BEAUTY OF KILLARNEY

On Tuesday we had a day of sightseeing. We all went to Killarney. Some rode donkeys in the Gap of Dunloe. What a sight! Others visited the glorious Tore Waterfall, and had a grand view of Killarney Lake, in spite of the rain. Having our own cars-three Classics. hired for the week in Dublin, and feeling more or less safe in the hands of Eric. Philip and Wilfred-we were not tempted to have a ride in an lrish jaunting car, of which we saw plenty.
On the way to Cork we became involved in a funeral procession. In Ireland this is almost as bad as irying to drive back to London from Southend on a Sunday night. The cars stretched on and on and on. When we finally ended up at Cork. we were met by Mr. Bogan, president of the Irish Association. We were very pleased to take up the invitation to join in the practice at St. Fin Barre's Cathedral that night. This must surely be one of the grandest eights in existence, thanks to the Rudhall Foundry. And the ringers of Cork were some of the most friendly. It was also a very important birthday. Drinks all round again!

Mention must here be made of Fred Dukes, the illustrious secretary of the Irish Association. Not only did he meet us in Dublin, but he managed to fix his business engagements so that he came to Cork with us as well. provided transport. and rang in a peal, apart from doing good trade with subs. and badges!
On the Wednesday morning two peals of Minor were attempted. The first peal of Seven Surprise Minor in Ireland was successfully achieved at Doneraile. but of those who went to Bandon the less said the better! Bandon does not mean 'Abandon "! However, we are content to blame the excessive noise in the ringing chamber here.

A NEAR THING

In the afternoon we tackled one of the highlights of the week-a peal at St. Fin Barre's Cathedral. Cork. After an attempt to reduce sound in the ringing chamber, we proceeded to ring a peal of Bristol. But it was a near thing. The seventh slipped wheel not once but several times, and we only kept going through the fact that Derek was well prepared for this! For the last half-hour or so his rope was fluffing badly, till by the end of the peal his hair was literally grey? With the building and bells so magnificent. it was perhaps tempting providence to imagine that a peal of Bristol here would be handed to us on a plate!
That night, by way of relaxation some of us enjoyed a gargantuan dinner at the Metropole. where we were pleased to have Fred Dukes as our guest. To wind up another eventful day back at the Windsor Hotel we were entertained to a demonsiration by Mr. Mehew. He has perfected a new and ingenious system for 'firing them out." Any reader who has seen his backstroke pulsator, type C.S.' should not be surprised at anything that issues from Philip. Next morning a peal of Minor at Doneraile was lost in the sixth 720 . Meanwhile the others ang New Cambridge at Waterford Cathedral It was here that the College Youths rang the first peal in Ireland in 1872. Another peal was scored at Kilkenny Cathedral in the afternoon. It was not our intention to ring more than one peal in any one tower, but circumstances forced it upon us. One of the disappointments of the cour was that we were unable to ring on the ten at Wexford, which we could easily have fitted in here
That night we stayed in New Ross at the Royal. Here a presentation was made by all of us to Wilfred in recognition of all he has done in organising a whole succession of most enjoyabe peal tours.

NOT OUR DAY

Friday brought us to the grand church at Arklow. where the view from the church grounds is magnificent and the grounds themselves are kept most beautifully. Pudsey was successfully rung. Alas, when we went on from there to Bray we were not so successful. London was the method chosen for these grand bells, with a vintage 1880 Taylor tenor of $28 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. We stood up after half-an-hour. It was not our day! To add insult to injury two of the cars sustained flat tyres!
So, after a brief stop on the sea-front in Bray, we came back to Dublin. The Stag's Head was still there! So were the actresses. So were the bells. We were prevented from ringing at Drogheda in the morning by a funeral, so eight of us rang, or rather slogged away, at Lincolnshire for $2 \frac{1}{2}$ hours on the middle eight at Christ Church Cathedral. A rope broke, so that was it. Bill Critchley and his wife made up the other band who successfully brought Bristol round at St. George's, Dublin
We scored ten peals. We rang some lovely bells. We enjoyed ourselves. We wish to record our grateful thanks to Fred Dukes, George Bingham, Mr. Bogan and the ringers of St. Patrick's Cathedral for their warm hospitality and co-operation, and to all the clergy and ringers who welcomed us and allowed us to ring their bells.

PEAL TOURS AND SCOTTISH RINGING
Dear Sir,-I was interested to read that the ringing tour of Mr. Robin Leale and party in Scotland lurned out to be so enjoyable for those lucky enough to be included.
There is, however, already one unpleasant after-effect. Local objectors have complained so strongly to the Charch authorities at Dunblane about the length of ringing on August 10th that the ringing meeting of the Scottish Association which was 10 have taken place there on Saturday. September 8th, had to be cancelled.

However much we may criticise the decision of the Church authorities at Dunblane, we have no redress, nor have we any ready means of getting them to reconsider the position immediately. For our part it is to be hoped that time will modify their outlook.

As we in Scotland have only five towns accessible for meetings, the loss of one tower for a meeting or an occasional visit is a far greater hardship than it would be in the southern counties. The dangers of this were pointed out to Mr. Wilfred. Williams before he began to organise his 1958 peal tour, and although he did not accept my view, his visit to Leith. for example, did cause a great deal of harm. As Mr. Leale was one of Mr. Williams' tourists I dare say he knew what a poor opinion Mr. Williams had (and has) of me, and why.

1 must add that we are not against peal ringing nor peal ringers. We only feel that facilities for practices and peal ringing should be increased for local ringers first-not to have the existing neagre facilities curtailed because of the activities of those who enjoy far better ringing facilities at home than we do.-Yours sincerely.
R. S. WILSON,

Secretary, Scottish Association.

ST. PAUL'S MEMORIES

Dear Sir,-The article on the Bells of St . Paul's Cathedral, London, by Mr. C. G. J.
Watts. in your issue of September 14th, brings Watts. in your issue of September 14 th , brings back to me memories of the 90 s , when 1 lived in London.
1 met and knew nearly all those named on the four tablets, e.g., the brothers Langdon (I conducted Herberi's first peal). the brothers Pasmore (with whom I rang several handbell peals), John Murray Hayes from N.E. Essex. Ted Gibbs and Ted Horrex from Eye. Suffolk. Ezra Carter, for whom I deputised when work kept him from St. Paul's service ringing with James Pettitt conducting, to mention just a few.
ames Pettitt conducting, to mention just junch under the tenor before it was raised to the tower.

I was born three years before the bells were hung. joining the A.S.C.Y. in 1898 . The entry in the rule book states: Master, Walter Prime, a native of Norfolk. who expired in the

ST. MARTIN VINTRY

Dear Sir, - With reference to Mr. Watts very interesting article on the hells of St . Paul's Cathedral. London (Sept. 14th. 1962). I am wondering whether his menfion of Si . Mary Vintry as being one of the churches where the early College Youths practised ringing should read St. Martin Vintry

As Mr. Watts correctly states. Whittington"s College was dedicated to the Holy Spirit and St. Mary, but the Church of St. Martin Vintry was close to St. Michael's, Paternoster Royal, and after destruction in the Great Fire its parish was united to SI. Michael's. The churchyard remained at the corner of Queen Street and Upper Thames Street, and I believe still does so. does so, been unable to, find any reference to
I have been St. Mary Vintry either in Stow's Survey or Ki.nt's Encyclopædia of London.-Yours sincerely.
Tonbridge, Kent

Dear Sir.-As expected, my publication of 720 s containing single change methods with bohbed leads has brought the inevitable storm of protest from Mr. Chant, and to make matters worse 1 omitted to append his name to the extent in 25 methods. My apologies. Mr. Chant, and also Mr. Lewis.
I have been aware for some time that many prominent Minor ringers frown upon the comparatively recent introduction of these methods, especially when spliced into multi-Minor peals, and as Mr. Chant boldly points out there is plenty of scope left (in more complex extents) without using these methods at all. In saying this he overlooks the most important factor of all. and that is the ability and opportunity of the band to ring them.

It may be easy enough in Yorkshire, with the cream of Spliced Minor ringers on your doorstep, to tap off extents with Bastow L.C. and umpteen Special Alliance in, bul he must realise that not all Minor ringers have reached this standard. Furthermore, who wants to ring Bastow or Kent L.C.? Mr. Chant himself made it quite clear on one occasion that he regarded them as "a load of rubbish.'

I still believe that the only real Minor methods are those capable of producing a full extent. whether "irregular or "single change, and not the miniature monstrosities and fiddles on College Exercise that seem to have been produced solely for what Mr. Chant terms method grabbing.-Yours faithfully,

Essex.

J. S. G. ROAST

SINGLE CHANGE METHODS

Dear Sir.-I would be most interested if Mr. Chant could explain why he considers the use of single change methods "method grabbing. when the making up of numbers by the use of Alliances and Littles is presumably all right. At least one can obtain an extent from these methods.

I would also like to know why irregular methods should not be rung in record attempts when they take as much ringing as the ones with 'magic' lead-ends.-Yours sincerely.

LOST HIS EARS THROUGH BELL

Dear Sir,-With reference to Mr. G. Grenter's inquiry on page 589

The custom of placing the whole or part of the alphabet, or sometimes a meaningless combination of letters hegan at the time of the Reformation, and continued well into the 17 th century. It may be that some of the craftsmen of those days were illiterate. or that our bellfounders were not'sure which of the contending parties would ultimately triumph. They may have been unwilling to use inscriptions of a religious nature. or to run risk of punishment by favouring any party.

Some, - like John Saunders, the Reading bellfounder, were not afraid to express their views, and adhered to the pre-Reformation type of inscription: but he suffered by having his ears cut off.-Yours sincerely,

FREDERICK SHARPE.

NO FOURS IN CO. DURHAM

Dear Sir,-Referring to the comments in Belfry Gossip (September 14th) re Willington, Co. Durham, bells, these bells were up to the pre-1939 war period a ring of five, and I cannot see why one should now be hung "dead as you state.

I rang at Willington on one occasion in the 1930 s , and all the bells were hung to ring at that time. The music they produced was very indifferent, but the "go" was quite reasonable. As far as 1 am aware there are no ringing peals of less than five bells in the diocese of Durham.- Yours faithfully.

JOHN A. BROWN.

RINGING IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Dear Sir.-I am again visiting British Columbia. and after crossing Canada by train I was invited on August 24ih to Victoria by Mr. E. W. Izard. The city of Victoria was celebrating its centenary and the ringers had their part to play on the Cathedral belis.

To participate in this ringing I travelled 400 miles each way. Here I met Mr. and Mrs. Alan Sharples, of Swinton, near Manchester, who had motored from Pasadena, California, U.S.A.. a distance of 1,700 miles each way, expressly for the purpose of ringing.

We rang touches on Saturday, August 25th. and quarters of Grandsire Triples on Sunday 26 th , and Monday, 27th. The band in the latter consisted of father Izard, son Arthur and three grand-children. A daughter had returned to Vancouver for business purposes. Touches were also rung of Stedman. Plain Bob and Kent T.B. The Cathedral has a beautiful ring of eight with a tenor of 29 cwt .
On Tuesday. August 28th, the Sharples and I crossed to the mainland and rang at the Cathedral of the Holy Rosary. Here we met a lower full of youth, all very enthusiastic, especially the females. With the assistance of Miss Margaret Izard, we rang touches of Grandsire Triples, Stedman Doubles. Plain Bob Minor and Kent T.B. Minor. The personnel at this Cathedral had suffered through members having to leave the district, but the youth are doing good work. We missed Edwin Lee ; he was away on holiday in England
After ringing we all adjourned to one of the ringers" homes for a repast and a happy time until the 'wee sma" hours of the morning. I slept at another ringer's home and then leaving Vancouver by bus for my long journey back ta Kelowna. The Sharples were trying to get a ring at the Abbey in Mission City
Hospitality among the ringers in B.C. must be spelled with a capital $\cdot \mathrm{H}$-they cannot do $t 00$ much for you. Ihey also deserve every praise for the manner they ring the methods: self-taught, they cannot pop round to a meeting or two to obtain experience. You can also get Grandsire Triples double-handed on handbells. Carry on, B.C.-ers
1 get my "Ringing World: regularly every week. Late news. nevertheless still most interesting. Mr, and Mrs. Sharples and I reside only five miles apart in Lancashire. and met nearly 7,000 miles away. Yes, a small world. -Yours, etc., PETER CROOK

CHRIST CHURCH, BOSTON, US.A.

Dear Sir.-While travelling in the United States recently I had the opportunity to visit. the tower of Christ Church in Boston. Dove points out that the bells are unringable, although they are, in fact, hung for ringing

The church is dated at 1723 , and the nicelysounding octave. cast by Rudhall's. of Gloucester, was installed at least before 1781, since in that year the bells rang out with news of the surrender of Marquis Cornwallis at Yorktown. the final battle of the War of Independence. This may be the only time that British bells have pealed out joyfully at the news of British defeal.

The bells have probably not been rung this century, as an automatic sprinkler, installed in 1920. prevents.the full swing of the bells. However. a chiming apparatus gave me a good opportunity to hear the sound of these delightfully historic bells.- Yours faithfully,

BRIAN SHINGLER

BELLS IN HOLLAND-Continued.

One final point, your contributor mentions the "intercom in the 23.50 tram on route 16 from Amsterdam Ceniral Station. I've caught it many times and missed it many more times, from which I gather that the new articulated tramcars which I saw on test are spreading over the city. As a lover of tramcars. I can only say the more the merrier. Amsterdam's trams are a pleasure in themselves. but I had better stop in case my ramblings delay publication of some of my old friend George Fearn's peal reports, or worse: otherwise I may be tempted to discourse on such topics as restaurants, breweries, gin distilleries and bars, like the trams, a pleasure in themselves.

HEAVY EIGHTS IN SOMERSET

Dear Sir,-Mr. Mason's list of heavy eights is a useful piece of information, except that Milborne Port is in Somerset, and with the addition of a further Somerset eight at Frome (tenor 31 cwt. in D).

The visiting band at Congresbury evidently took their tenor weight of 38 cwt. from the 1909 peal board, which records the first peal (of Grandsire Doubles) by the local band.

When Llewellyn and James added the trebles in 1910 I believe the canons were removed from the tenor, and this no doubt gives rise to the present weight. Whilst it is about right, I don't think it has ever been accurately established.

As a matter of interest I should think that in 1909 the sixes at Congresbury and Wrington. each weighing 38 cwt ., must have been the two heaviest sixes in the country. - Yours sincerely,

JOHN BRAIN.

Somerset.

P.S.-Now we have a list of heavy eights, perhaps someone might give us a shorter list of. say, the first dozen heaviest fives and sixes at present in existence.-J. B.

TENTERDEN TENOR

Dear Sir,-Mr. R. Kingsley Mason is wrong in giving the tenor of Tenterden, Kent, as 30 cwt . since the bell is not and never has been this weight. In pre-war issues of 'R.W. peal reports usually quoted a precise weight for the tenor: however, in more recent years the description ' 30 cwt.. approx.' was used, as it was in the second edition of Dove's 'Guide.'
Reference to 'R.W: November 24th. 1961. page 786, will show that the weight of the resuned tenor is 27-3-23: this seems to have escaped the notice of both the corrigendum in Dove (June 3rd, 1962, edition) and R. Kingsley Mason.
As a matter of interest perhaps someone could tell me why the bell was tuned from a questionable 30 cwt . in D flat to 27-3-23 in C. The note seems very low for that weight, and also it seems strange that a couple of cwt. of metal can be removed and the note lowered a semitone.-Yours, etc..

Chorlton-cum-Hardy,  Manchester, 21.

HEAVY EIGHTS OMITTED

Dear Sir,-Mr. R. K. Mason has recently tried to list the heavy eights. Surely he has made two serious omissions. namely, St. George s, Doncaster ( 30 cwt .17 lb . in C sharp), and Westminster Abbey ( 28 cwt. 2 qr. in D flat). Still, one must commend him for trying to put the Northern ringers in their place. Unfortunately, not quite. I'm afraid.-Yours sincerely,

> M. KING.

A LIGHT SIX FOR YORK

Dear Sir,-After being 'rough' for many years, the bells of All Saints" Church. Huntington, Yorks (Warner, 1881 and 1884), have been declared unsafe. This bad news came just at the time when we were getting a band together. but everyone seems keen that we should raise the necessary $£ 600$ to have the bells rehung and retuned.

It seems. therefore, that there will soon be a good light ring of six (tenor 71 cwt .) in the York area. Outside York Minster there is very little regular change-ringing in York, and it is difficult to train learners on the Minster's heavy bells, so we are hoping to start people at Huntingion when the bells are rehung. - Yours faithfully,
C. J. GROOME.

DUDLEY & DISTRICT GUILD
The Dudley and District Guild held its annual meeting at Dudley on September 1st. A sign of renewed interest in the Guild was the number of visitors who took advantage of the availability of the following towers: Dudley, Netherton, Old Hill, Halesowen. Rowley Regis, Brierley Hill, Pensnett, Coseley and Kingswinford. Besides the 'locals,' ringers present came from places as far apart as Nottingham, Norwich, Lichfield and Warwick.
The Guild service was conducted by the president (Canon T. W. U. Keith-Murray) in St. Thomas' Church, Dudley. Nearly 60 members and visitors sat down to a very welcome spread immediately afterwards.
The president took the chair at the business meeting, at which the future of the Guild was reviewed. It was unanimously decided that in view of a greater interest being taken in it, the Guild should continue to function.

All the officers were re-elected, and 12 new members were admitted. Sub-committees were formed to draft a new constitution for the Guild and to consider the revision of the form of service.

Methods rung during the day included Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters. Plain Bob Minor, Major and Royal. Double Norwich C.B. Major, Cambridge S. Major and Royal. Yorkshire S. Major and London S. Major, and rounds for the learners.
Next meeting: St. Mary's, Kingswinford, December 1st.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD Dorset Branch

Twenty-eight ringers from eight towers attended the quarterly meeting of the North Dorset Branch at Okeford Fitzpaine on September 15 th . At the Guild Office a course of Grandsire Doubles was rung on handbells and an address of welcome was given by the Rector (the Rev. P. du Heaume).
At the meeting a special collection was made for the Kilifi Bell Fund and the St. Paul's, Melbourne, Restoration Fund. The total, including $£ 5$ from Branch funds, amounted to $£ 85 \mathrm{~s}$.. which is being equally divided between the two appeals. It was also agreed to send a donation of one guinea to the Ernest Morris Memorial Fund.

Eight new members were elected, including seven junior members, as follows: Mr. R. Davenport (Thornford): E. Baker, P. Cracknell, D. Corben, A. Frampton, R. Trowbridge, A. Wallace (Okeford Fitzpaine) ; and C. Longridge (Bourton).

After the meeting ringing continued at Okeford Fitzpaine and also at Shillingstone, standard methods being rung.

DELIGHT MINOR METHODS

Dear Sir,-Of the methods named in the peal of Delight Minor rung at Cawthorne and published in the issue of September 7th, only one (Wragby) appears in the C.C. Collection. Looking through 'R.W.s' from January, 1960 , to the present day, only High Hoyland T.B. has been published.
Regarding the other methods (Queen Bess. City Delight, Duke of Leeds, Tanner's Pleasure and Duke of York) may I appeal to the conductor to-
(a) tell us under what names these methods appear in the C.C. Collection. or
(b) publish the figures for these methods if they have not been rung before. or
(c) tell us the C.C. Collection is incompiete for Delight methods, and publish the figures of those methods which do not appear to have had wide enough currency to have been published before.

Yours sincerely.
Sudbury-on-Thames. P. A. BRAND.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL RINGING COURSE

THE programme prepared for the Association's third ringing course, held in Bristol from September 7 th to 9 th, was a most comprehensive one, with talks and demonstrations on the fundamentals of the art for the less experienced ringers and three of sterner stuff for a smaller group of so-called 'advanced' ringers.
The Rev. Roger Fry led off with a neatlyconstructed talk which explained just why we ring, why we have Associations and what they are supposed to be doing. His further remarks on what they ought to be doing were valuable. coming from one who was formerly general secretary of the Bath and Wells Associations and is now a member of the clergy of that diocese.

Ranald Clouston spoke from his seemingly inexhaustible fund of knowledge about the history and casting of bells with his usual wit and eloquence. He has the happy knack of conveying his enthusiasm, a knack which is bound to make any ringing course he attends an enjoyable occasion. His exhibits of rubbings and plaster casts of bell inscriptions and a Dutch 'drinking bell' were equally appreciated. His later lecture, delivered from the headstock of the Cathedral tenor, on bell maintenance, gained from its unconventional surroundings. Those who on the following afternoon had the privilege of watching him methodically dissect the mysteries of the four bells in the Cathedral tower greatly admired his technique and equipment. Nevertheless, some of those mysteries are stiil unveiled York-Bramble gave four talks covering bell handling and method construction, as well as a short demonstration on the former in the Cathedral belfry (the one with the ringable bells). He had many useful tips to impart, and one admires his keenly analytical mind. However, the quantity of material he introduced into his talks and his wholesale revision of ringers' jargon did at times produce some perplexity where it was meant to bring enlightenment. Roger Fry covered similar ground in his talk on the elements of conducting in a way that should enable those who heard it to make a start on practising this particular craft back in their own towers
For the advanced students Albert Tyler expounded with masteriy clarity the principles of constructing touches and peals of Grandsire Caters. In two talks Brian Price entranced his audience with his studies of peal composition. His was a completely new approach to all who heard it, and it is a measure of Brian's skilk as a lecturer that, at the time, we all thought we followed every step. It is also a measure of the force of his methods that he ended up by composing a true peal of Bob Major without the 2nd or 3rd in sixth's before our eyes in ten minutes
No matter how much or little one knows before coming on a course like this, one is the richer at the end, and we were all most grateful to the organiser. Pat Bird, and his wife, for all the very hard work they had put into $1 t$.

A DEMONSTRATION OF BELL-RINGING

In conjunction with March, Cambs. Festival Week, held recently, the bell-ringers of St. Wendreda's Church held an 'open evening, when the steeple was made available to visitors.
About 60 people availed themselves of the opportunity of ascending the tower, to observe the bells and ringers in action and have the rudiments of the 350 -year-old art explained to them. Many of the visitors were keen to learn how it was that several thousand men and women in this country felt a desire to ring bells. and the occasion provided a unique opportunity to dispel those " mists of ignorance ' appertaining to the public and the bells.

AN ABINGDON WEDDING

Tower, captain at St. Helen's and St. Nicholas' Churches, Abingdon, Dr. Willian A. Smith. was married at St. Matthew's Church. Weeke, Winohester. on September 8th to Miss M. Angela Carter, who also ably assists him at these towers. The Vicar of Abingdon, the Rev. J. H. S. Dixan, officiated at the service.
At the church where they were married there is only an ancient sanclus bell, so a quanter peal of Bob Minor was rung at St. Nicholas during the cime of the wedding.

The service was attended by Mr. Fiddler, of Loughborough, an uncle of the bridegroom Dr, and Mrs. Smith will be living fairly near to Abingdon churches and will be able to continue wheir tawer duties.

MISS ISOBEL INMAN MARRIED

The wedding took place at the Church of the Annunciation. Chislehurst, Kent, on September 1st of Miss Isobel Inman and Mr David L. Rider.
A quarter peal of Camhridge Major by a band from nearby towers preceded the ceremony. which was followed by Nuptial Mass at which the celebrant was Fr. H. A. Potts, of St. Lukeंs, Gillingham, where the bridegroom is deputy organist. The congregation was rung out by some of the eartier ringers, and the local band. They were thanked for their services at the reception in St. Mary's Hall afterwards.
Isobel learnt to ring whilst at Southampton University, and after obtaining her degree returned to Chislehurst, joining the local band, of which she soon became secretary and treasurer. Her regular attendance at practice nights and on Sundays has been of inestimable help in strengthening the band, who were able to show their appreciation in the present given to Isobel at the practice on the Monday previous to the wedding.
Isobel and David will be living in Gillingham, and we at Chislehurst wish them all happiness in their future life together.

Over fifty per cent of the towers in the Association were represented at the ceremony.
Stuart, a founder member of the Association, was its first treasurer. He also served a three year period as chairman and was Ringing Master at Castle Donnington. His bride is not only a ringer but a member of the choir and a Sunday school teacher at Aston. She had in her retinue of five bridesmaids another ringer.

MISS PAT WALKER MARRIED

For several years a member of Rotherham Parish Church band and also at one time leader of a handbell team at Rotherham High School for Girls, Miss Patricia A. Walker. was married at All Saints' Church. Rotherham, to Mr. George Nix on August 18th. Whilst the bride was reading languages at Manchester University, she was for a year secretary of the University Guild of Ringers. The bridegroom's home tower was All Saints'. Babbacombe.

The bride wore a full-length gown of white brocade, an elbow length veil held in place by a coronet of diamante and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids were the Misses D. Shaw and Sheila Master, and Mr. J. N. Perkins was best man. The honeymoon was at Windsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Nix's home will be at Flixton, Manchester.

RINGERS' HYMN AT KENT WEDDING

The marriage took place at St. Mary's Church, Newington-next-Sittinghourne, Kent, of Mr. Laurence Mitchell and Miss Hazel Valorie Dadson, on August 18th. Mr. Mitcheld is the assistant District secretary of the Rochester District of the Kent County Association. and Miss Dadson the secretary and treasurer of the Newington band.

She carried a bouquet of red roses and trailing fern, and was attended by four bridesmaids. one of whom is also a ringer at Newington.

The service, which was fully choral and included the first nuptial mass, was conducted by the Vicar of Newington. the Rev: G. R. Aylen and included the bellingers: hymn 'Unchanging God who livest.'

The bells were rung before and after the ceremony by the local band and friends from other towers.

The couple were greeted at the church door by an archway of handbells. While waiting for their train to Bournemouth the couple heard preparations being made for a successful peal attempt of seven Minor methods as a wedding compliment to them. $\mathrm{Mi}_{\mathrm{i}}$. and Mrs. Mitchell are now livng at 28, Crown Road, Milion Regis, Sittingbourne.

Cleveland & N. Yorkshire Association

Ine August meeting of the Association had been postponed until the first Saturday in September, and was held at the old Yorkshire fishing town of Whitby. We were very fortunate to be favoured with a pleasantly warm and sunny day, and to meet several ringers from other Associations who were holidaying in the vicinity.
Our combined efforts served to keep the fine Taylor ten in the old church perched above the harbour going to a variety of methods. of which Stedman appeared to be the day's favourite.

At the very short business meeting it was decided to hold the September meeting on the 29th, at Saltburn.

TOOGOOD'S TOURS, LIMITED

'THE recent tour of the Shropshire Association in North Somerset was the first Assotory. Thirty-two Somerset towers-four in Gloucestershire and two in Worcestershirewere visited within a space of five days, the party consisting of 12 Shropshire ringers and three others from Staffordshire and Cheshire. Transport was by car and minibus, the latter being driven for most of the time by Dick Morris, of Hodnet.

Three towers in Gloucestershire had been hooked to break the journey down, on Monday. August 27th. Dymock, the first, is an 18 cwl . six, according to Dove, but a 21 cwt . six according to the Gloucester and Bristol report. They sound well but go awkwardly, and our first attempt at a rise on a heavy six was not as success. Redmarley D'Abitot is a notable ring.
The tenor there must surely be the worst bell The tenor there must surely be the worst bell ever cast by Rudhall. These bells were almosi the last that Gillett and Johnston rehung, and go very well. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson's hospitality here was excellent, especially the iced cider.

When we reached Alveston, on the outskirts of Bristol, we found our organiser, guide and interpreter, Horace Toogood, waiting. After some confusion with clock chime hammers, the six were raised, and sounded much too low in pitch for the 15 cwt . given by Dove. The $G$ and B report gives 18 cwt ., and although the bells have recently been rehung they do not "go as if they had been. The Dresden Guest House, Churchill, was reached in time for the evening meal. This was our headquarters for the week. By this time E. V. Rodenhurst was getting into his stride, and at Congresbury practice night ( 8,35 cwt.) he turned the tenor in with young Beech 'strapping 'for him.

PLAIN BOB MINOR LOST

The tour proper began on Tuesday morning with a short service at Churchill. The tombs in the porch at this church had a special interest as they were effigies of Sir Gregory and Lady FitzPayne. It was thought that B. Stedman FitzPayne would sound rather fine. The bells were more of the weight we are used to in Shropshire, and Cambridge Minor went well on them, a $14 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. six. The climb to Uphill Old Church, near to Weston, was judged well worth the view, and the bells a fine six in F sharp by Warner's. Unfortunately the peal band who were left here while six others went to ring a quarter at Kewstoke omitted to lock the outer gate to the church, and the attempt was disturbed by visitors trying to get in. As E . V. R. pointed out, if the Ringing Master had stuck to wrong, right. wrong, instead of his 65 's at backstroke, all would yet have been well. The quarter at Kewstoke, however, succeededit being Peter Morris' first as conductor.
The rainy two hours in Weston were rather unedifying. except for those who found the Museum. Those who tried to see the sea found it was out that week: the Ringing Master's steak-and-kidney pie wis uneatable: two members of the party went to the swimming pool and made the bus late, and Frank Beech discovered that he'd left his camera behind

We then went to Locking, a light Taylor six, and made the first attempt of the tour to ring a touch of Candlesby Slow Course. Bleadon, the next six visited, were unusual, though they did not go too badly. The top sill of the frame is loosely wedged into the tower: when the bells ring the frame moves and there is a battering-ram effect which is doing no good at all. The locals were urged to seek professional advice without delay.

A very welcome cup of tea followed at the Toogood 'castle up on the hill. and a 'phone call to the police raised all our spirits because the missing camera had been found. Banwell, Burrington and Bleadon kept us busy for the rest of the day. The local who let us in at Banwell, a 23 cwt. Bilbie eight, remarked as we left that our Bob Major sounded better than the ringing of most of the peal attempts that were made at that church! It was here that we rang St. Clement's Triples for the first time on the tour. Burrington are a six which do not go particularly well. Blagdon are a very good

Mears and Stainbank eight, with the tenor in E, though there is a lot of rope noise.

CLOSE THEM UP A BIT?

The second day started well with the excellent six at Axbridge, followed by Cheddar (a rough eight with a good tenor) and the Caves, the guide there being most anxious that the colours should be appreciated as they were all natural. On then to Chewton Mendip, a fine eight, where we were joined by Harold White, of Market Drayton, on holiday, and our ringing included Cambridge Major. The light six at Binegar are rather curious because 2, 4 and 6 do not chime easily, and this produced a strange effect when we were raising them in peal. By the gate was an old local ringer, said to be about 90 . After we had rung some quite good Minor and started the fall. he made a comment which could have been 'close "em up a bit' or 'shows 'em up a bit.' Either interpretation was quite justified.
Shepton Mallett followed, a good-sounding but lumpy eight. Then Croscombe; we were told this is the loudest six in the country, and we believe it. Wells was reached in time ta have a short browse in the Cathedral, to see the clock go round and to take photographs before it was time to join the practice night on St. Cuthbert's lovely eight.

Three 6-bell towers started Thursday-Ubley, Marksbury and Newton St. Loe-as we made our way towards Bath. After certain members of the party had worked their way down a Knickerbocker Glory, the Roman Baths were viewed and all rheumatism cured in the Pump Room. Bathwick bells were then tried-a good eight, but do not go well. Chew Magna bells, by contrast. go very well. When we baulked at a rise in peal, and started to raise them singly, the sexton was horrified, but we redeemed ourselves by some quite fair Stedman in which he took part. On to the six at Winford, and then Wrington practice night, where we were made very welcome.

HE'S A BIG BOY NOW

Friday dawned bright and clear as we set out through the moors of Somerset, carefully keeping away from those wicked-looking ditches. After ringing at Mark, a good but rough eight. we went on to ring for the Harvest Home at Wedmore. Here the seventh is a poor bell. Unfortunately a broken rope put an end to the ringing but we were able to watch the procession. Instead of going to the next tower we were guided rather surprisingly into a farmyard. The tower' proved to be a cider-tasting session -there wasn't time to do much more than taste it-and we were lucky enough to see some of the glorious brew being made. Having gained strength we went on to Meare, where Horace Toogood learned to ring. We soon found out why he broke a stay at Edgmond the first time he pulled a bell in Shropshire. He achieved an ambition by ringing the tenor, a thing the village blacksmith told him he could only do when he was 'a big boy.'
West Pennard next, a loud but even heavier six, and then Ditcheat, where the excellent eight gave us much enjoyment. Evercreech followed. where several people rang "inside to Grandsire Caters and Bob Royal for the first time and did very well, especially as the treble is very difficult to hear. They are a better ten than Wrington. we thought. for all that they are lighter. Before going home we tried the six at Wookey. where there is a 'pre-Ellacombe' chiming apparatus. Two light sixes were visited in the evening-Shipham and Rowberrow, both in B flat.

When Saturday morning came it was with much regret that the bus was headed towards home. Our hostess was very kind to us and said she would recommend us anywhere. The feeling, we might add, was mutual.

Twyning, Gloucestershire, was reached in good time: here E.V. R. discovered that he'd been in a peal with the local captain. Mr Hawkes, in 1931. After Junch in Worcester. we went on to Ombersley and Wolverley. The six at Ombersley sounded very good when halfway up but disappointing when rung in changes.

At Wolverley we rang the only call-change touch of the tour for the benefit of one of the local youths who met us.
The whole organisation of the tour was undertaken by H. R. Toogood, at present resident at Edgmond but a native of Somerset. The party are all very grateful for the excellent arrangements. Thanks, 100, went 10 our driver. R. E. Morris, of Hodnet. who seemed thoroughly at home round the Somerset lanes. Lastly we thank all the incumbents who allowed us to use their bells, and the many people who met us.

We should just like to add that all opinions on the excellence or otherwise of the bells are our own personal ones, and in many cases bear no resemblance to local opinions at all.
H. P. and M. C. P.

OBITUARY

MR. JOHN E, HOBBS

The quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles at St. Mary's. Eastwood, Notts, was rung in memory of Mr. John E. Hobbs, who for years had been a well-known and highly-respected ringer in the district. Between the two wars he had taught and encouraged learners at Greasley, Eastwood and Heanor, being the Ringing Master at Greasley for the greater part of this time. Latterly he rang at St. Patrick's. Nuthall.

Congratulations are due to the young resident ringers of Heanor Parish Church. Derbys. who, with the exception of the conductor. constituted the quarter peal band. Their striking and general keenness are to be admired.

MR. ALFRED R. GLASSCOCK  AN APPRECIATION

To many people who knew Alfred R. Glasscock, non-ringers and ringers alike, the news of his passing must have been received with sorrow;
"Alf," as he was called, was a most likeable. even-tempered and obliging man. He was never heard to utter harsh words to anyone. It gave him no trouble to give what assisiance he could either in his daily routine of life or in the ringing room.
He lived his life in Southgate, Middx, and the writer well remembers Alf receiving a first verhal lesson on bells and ringing 60 years ago. Alf was a brother of the Ancient Order of Foresters, wearing the Ranger's uniform of Robin Hood in church parade processions long before the first war, 1914-18
He was a gardener, and as S. G. P. points out a member of the Southgate band during the latter years of the last century, and for many years at the beginning of the present one. That band really put Southgate on the map: it contained amongst its members the Millar brothers. Tomlinson brothers, Sid Wade. William Pickworth, John Armstrong, G. Bester and Harry Balaam, now of Basingstoke. Of these. it is thought Harry Balaam and Norman Tomlinson are the only survivors.
Owing to spine affection, Alf has not been able to ring for some years, but he did until recently chime for early Sunday services. Alf's passing has created a gap which will be very difficult to fill.

CORSTON, BATH

The ringers of All Saints', Corston. Bath, accompanied by their Rector, churchwarden and friends, spent a very enjoyable day visiting a number of delightfully-situated churches in the Cotswolds on September 1st. The first tower at which they rang was Chedworth (6), followed by-Coln St. Denys (5), where the ringing was so timed as to coincide with the time of the wedding in London of the Vicar (the Rev. J. Sell). Bibury (6), Coln St. Aldwyn (8) and Hatherop (6).

After tea. which was taken at Fairford, the party had the pleasure of joining the Vicar at Evensong and then ringing on that church's pleasant eight. The last tower of the day was Meysey Hampton (6).

Thanks must be extended to all incumbents who by their kindness in allowing ringing ensured that the outing was a success. The party also appreciated being met and assisted by the various tower officials.

LEIGHTON BUZZARD

Sixteen young ringers from Leighton Buzzard and Linslade had a one-day cycle outing on September 8th, when six churches were visited Ringing started on the five bells at Stanbridge, followed by the light eight at Totternhoe, where everything went well until the rope of the third broke and descended on Alan Jeffs-much to his surprise. It was a crosscountry journey to Edlesborough, where even the beginners found the bells easy to handle. Rough cycling with ruts like a ploughed field were experienced on the bridle path 10 Iving. hoe, where alas, the treble had no rope.

A picnic lunch was eaten by the reservoirs at Marsworth. Some of the girls took the opportunity to have a swim. alihough the water felt ice-cold to everyone else! Good ringing followed at Wingrave, where the Vicar welcomed the party, and the programme ended at Cheddington. The 16 returned to Alan Jeff's house at Linslade. where an excellent tea was much enjoyed. Peter Williams, of Linslade, made the arrangements.

OUTINGS

AN OUTING IN HERTFORDSHIRE

Hertfordshire was the venue for an outing on August 25th. when the participants came from Kent. Surrey, Staffs, along with a few residents.
The popular peal tower of Langleybury was the first call, and it would seem that conductors need loud voices here. Dr. Poole met us at Abbot's Langley. where the bells are rung from a gallery. Apsley End, our third six-bell lower, is another familiar name among Minor ringers, and we were pleased for two of the local band to jom us in a course of Norwich. The octave at Hemel Hempstead was next on the programme, and here we found some fine Norman work. worthy of a visit at any time.

Following an intenval for lunch, we visited the much-restored church of St. Peter's, Berkhampstead, and then Northchurch. both towers being built over the chancel crossing. The 24 cwt octave at Tring run easily for their weight, and a course of Bristol went quite well. An enjoyable ride over Aldbury well. An enjoyable ride over Aldoury where an average six may be found.

Instead of a 'cuppa' someone suggested a pull at Studham (4. tenor $10-0-22$ )-bells of very pleasant tone. Redbourn's Taylor six provided the best music of the day and. had we known, we could have stayed longer here. as no-one met us at Harpenden. Somewhat disgruntled. we continued on our route to Sandridge, where we rang a course of Rossendale: and finally across St. Albans to St. Stephen's Church to ring on the pleasant Mears ring.
We especially thank Trevor Hawkins for arranging for us to visit the last two towers. and naturally are grateful to all who allowed us to ring.

RINGING AROUND THE ISLE

Saturday. September 8 oh. proved to be a day of significant importance for the ringing fraternity of the Isle of Axholme, as an enjoyable time was spent along with friends from over the Yorkshire barder ringing at the four Isle towers.

Over the years change ringing at the respective towers has been at a very low ebb, but largely due to the patience and skill of Mr. James Thorley, of Thorne, a number of young local ringers are making great strides in the art of change ringing. However, much is still to be desired in the way of completing numbers for Sunday service bands.
It was planned a few weeks ago that on the Saturday in queation help should be incorporated to increase our repertoire of methods. Help was found in the way of Mr. Thorley's sons, Mantin and John, Mrs. Martin Thorley, Mr. Leslie Woodhead and Mr. Russel Stephenson. Towers visited were Belton. Haxey, Owston Ferry and Epwonth; three sixes and one eight-the number of towers in the Isle. Methods rung during the day included Plain Bob, Little Bob, St. Clement's. Grandsire. Kent and Oxford Treble Bob. Cambridge Surprise and Stedman.
The cup of tea at Mrs. Underwood's after ringing the Haxey bells was greatly appreciated.

We are pleased to note that Mr. P. Crook and Mr. and Mrs. A. Sharples, of Lancashire, participated in quarte shire, participated in quarter peals at the Cathedral, Victoria. B.C. to honour the centenary of the City of Victoria, B.C. In one tenary of the City of Victoria, B.C. In one of the quarters Mr. E. W. Izard had his son, A. Izard, and three grandsons ringing.

Mr. Ernest George Orland is to be ordained a deacon at Peterborough Cathedral next Sunday and is to serve his title in the parish of St. Michael and All Angels, Northampton. His address is 27, Adams Avenue, Northampton.

The Baverstocks, of Damerham, Hants, rang a quarter of Grandsire Doubles at St. George's Church, Damerham. In reserve for a future occasion are Mrs. A. J. Baverstock and her daughter Veronica. The eight are all related.
A shirt was left behind by one of those who attended the Gloucester and Bristol ringing course at Redland College. If the owner would like to write to Mr. Patrick J. Bird, 17, Counterpool Road, Kingswood. Bristol, the shirt will be returned.

To commemorate the 80th anniversary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, a number of peals and quarter peals have been rung. At Heddington. Wilts, five members of the family of Mr. W. Hacker participated-his two sisters and two sons. At Devizes there was an officers" peal.

Miss A. Hewson, of West Bridgford, Notts, and her friend, had an amusing experience when riding on the canals at Bruges. Going under a very low briage, the man in charge called 'Bob.' 'Imagine our laughter,' Angela writes, as he still proceeded in the same course. Pity the others could not have shared bur humour.
Before Evensong on Sunday, September 16th. at All Hallows', South Cerney, Glos, two courses of Cambridge Minor were rung. This was the first time the method has been rung for a service on the bells, and was accomplished by a local band. The ringers were: Miss M. Fenton, R. W. Fenton. M. J. Cook. R. Wakefield, P. Wakefield. B. Wakefield.

A telegram from the Queen was received by Mrs. Ada Louise Tysoe, of Wymondham. on her 100th birthday. She is the widow of Mr. James Tysoe, a member of the famous team of ringers at Wymondham at the beginning of the century. Her birthday was also honoured by a quarter peal.

In the peal at Tenterden on September 8 th , Arthur G. Mason and Herbert C. Audsley rang their 175ih peal together.

Following the rectifying of clapper trouble. practices have been resumed at Whitstable. Kent, on Monday nights at 7.15 .

Barrie Dove, of Leeds Parish Church, recently rung in his thousandth tower. At the age of 18 , he is probably the youngest ringer to have 1,000 towers to his credit.

Following his visit to Ireland with Wilfred Williams' peal party, the Rev. Giles Galley has been in bed for over a week with glandular fever. A speedy recovery!

Wallingford Grammar Sohool band have two peal published this week rung at Berrick Salome and Brightwell Baldwin. Peals by School Societies are an encouragement as to the future of the Exercise.

Mr, and Mrs. F. Bowden, of St. Quentin's, Tanners Lane, Haslemere, could help to form a quarter peal Wednesday band. Haslemere bells would be available almost any Wednesday. They suggest the first quarter should be Edgar C. Shepherd's beautiful 1,259 Grandsire Caters.

An example of longevity among peal ringers stil! performing are Mr. Gearge Scott, who, at the age of 84, rang a peal of Minor in seven methods at Leadepham. Lincs, and Mr. Lester L. Gray, who, at Halewood, rang a peal of Stedman Triples for his 80th birthday.
The band who rang a quarter peal at Warmley, Glos, on September 17 th, to the memory of Mr . Reginald Brook, would like also to associate it with Mrs. Jefferies, wife of Mr. J. G. Jefferies, an ex-Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, who died the previous week.

THE IDLE THOUGHTS OF A NOT-SO-IDLE

RINGER

By Hugh Falkner, Jamaica
years' ringing in three months! How is it done? The answer is simple. I was out of the country for three years, but home on long leave for three months. And during that time I had to make up for lost time!

Coming back from no ringing to as much as I could get gave me experiences which routine doesn't give. And I would like to pass them on by way of these observations. Whilst much may be obvious to many, it is often worth stating the obvious from time to time.

I am still astonished at the friendliness of the reception given to ringers when visiting strange towers. This is, indeed, a most wonderful feature of the ringing fraternity, and long may it be so. If for no other reason at all, I would recommend youngsters (and older ones) to stick to their ringing (despite all its frustrations!) for, where there is a ringing tower, there they will find friends wherever they go.

The assumed honesty of the visiting ringer also surprises me. The patter is usually: 'Are you a ringer?'. The answer is 'Yes.' 'What do you ring?' 'Very well then, catch hold somewhere.' And off we go. I don't imagine the home band often gets let down, but it's a risk to them. It is also a challenge to the visitor not to exaggerate his ability! How do they even know that the visitor can handle a bell properly? Only once, in a cathedral tower, was I asked to pull off a bell whilst someone stood by me. A wise precaution, eh?

One thing I have realised in visiting a strange church is that whereas one can always find an obvious notice board and read all about the services and the various meetings, including that of the Mothers' Union, only once have I found a notice that told me when ringing took place, either on Sunday or practice night week-day. This really is hard on a visitor-to know there will be a welcome for him when he finds them, but not to be told when he can find them! And one point more. It is not always easy to know 'where' to find them even if one knows when! Entrances to towers can be in the most unexpected places, and churches can be a long way round to keep walking. I walked around one church three times, and hesitated at a door which led downwards into a labyrinth of underground passages. lest I was wrong, and subsequently was to find myself locked in for the night. But it was the door! In another tower, although its shape from the outside gave a clue where the stairway was. this was a blind. Access was in an entirely different place through a door remote from the tower and up an entirely different stairway! How easy it would all be to know both when and where. What about it, tower captains?

Living with things, one gets used to them and takes them for granted. But having been away, and now seeing things afresh, I wonder why many of them came into being. I am apparently not the only one to query 5,000 changes for a peal, as someone recently queried in 'The Ringing World ' whether a quarter peal should be 1,250 or 1,260 . I can see neither rhyme nor reason in 5,000 . It's a nice round number. But it might as well have been 5,001 or 4,999 for all that these numbers have to do with permutations. Why not make sense of it and choose 5,040?

And that leads me on to something else. When a peal is on six or less bells, surely something should be done to prevent a repetition of any one extent. I know that it is often that 'the extents were all called differently.' My inclination is that it should be compulsorily so.

Another issue on peals. There is something wrong (or am I wrong?) about crediting a treble ringer with a method by name, e.g., Cambridge Surprise. A treble ringer can only really be credited with treble methods; for example, hunting as in Grandsire, or doing treble-bob as in Surprise. It is virtually the same to a treble ringer whether the peal is Bristol or London, or Plain Bob or Grandsire. This issue is only one stage removed from admitting that ringing the tenor behind is ringing the method! There are clearly three stages here-the ringing of the tenor behind. the ringing of the treble, and ringing 'inside '-and each should be credited separately.

Finally, on peals, and at the risk of being accused of being a heretic, the only 'peal' of any practical mathematical consequence is the 5,040 on seven bells; otherwise, quarter peals are much more sensible than peals. I think this is as true as true can be for the layman, as well as for a number of ringers. I recall that within the last ten years this matter was discussed at some length in "The Ringing World.' Should more notice have been taken of it?

I guess I have been so provocative that someone will say that it's a good job I've gone off again for the next three years! Notwithstanding, I would like to add a word or two about 'the old pals' club.' Make no mistake about it, they are a fine lot. Last Whitsun was the first time I have attended a Central Council meeting, and I hope it will not be the last. I didn't actually attend the 'meeting,' and of course I am not a representative. But I did attend at Cardiff. and take part in the ringing at the many and varied towers made available. Some might think it impudence for a rabbit to mix with the giants, or that the giants wouldn't want the rabbit. Not a bit of either! The fellowship of bell-ringers was as much at Cardiff as can be found anywhere else. And a good time was had by all. Believe me, the best ringers are as human as the middling and the worst-maybe more so!

CAMPANOLOGISTS IN CHESHIRE

IN the early hours of August 18 th a little grey van set out from Bridgwater, Somerser, on the long journey to Cheshire: after picking up Pat Bird at Bristol, and Barbara Stephens at Stourbridge, it sped on to Prestbury, the first tower of the tour of Cheshire. The weather was fine. and we were soon into changes after the customary -grab by the non-pealers. A good peal of Yorkshire was achieved on these peculiarly mellow bells. We enjoyed a quick sce-cream in the beautiful village before we set off for Macclesfield, where the party was completed by the arrival of Bob and Cynthia Warrilow. Hunger and other needs having been satisfied, Benny grabbed the tenor rope at St. Michael's ('I don't understand this method ') and a peal of Grandsire Cinques was ably conducted by Pat.

The first day was completed as we wended our ways to Frodsham, where our hosts for the week were Mr. and Mrs. Bibby. The tent had been pitched the previous night by Dave and Dick and they had done such a good job that we had tried to sleep for five or six hours before we found the housebricks, which had been cunningly planted in the straw under the groundsheet. Fortunately, the ient was about 400 yards from the farmhouse, and this enabled Mr. and Mrs. Bibby to sleep blissfully whilst we tossed and turned. curling round bricks and trying not to notice the snoring.

LIVERPOOL VISITED

Sunday dawned bright, and dreadfully early we set out for Daresbury, where the local band kindly allowed us to ring for morning service. The afternoon was commenced by trying to find Renfrew Street, Liverpool, whidh, apparently, does not exist; we settled on Renshaw Street as a suitable alternative and ate the first of the traditional Chinese meals.

At Liverpool Cathedral we were met by Mr Ridyard; the magnificence of the building and the enormity of the bells made this very memorable. It is unfortunate that the bells are virtually indistinguishable after the first row of rounds. We rang for evening service at St. Nicholas", a. most enjoyable iwelve, where our Erin Cinques was particularly good. Four stalwarts then hurried back to Frodsham to attempt a handbell peal; the last two courses were witnessed by everyone through the windows of the shed and the final rounds were heralded by a tremendous banging and cheering, whioh will be very difficult to forget

BLACK MONDAY

St. Mary-without-the-Walls: Handbridge, was the first tower on Monday. and very soon Lincolnshire was, streaming from the louvres the striking was sufficiently good to allow Geoff to write down the course-ends outside the tower, and a timing of the individual courses confirmed the regularity of the strik. ing After two hours the listeners noticed that it was opening time, and sallied forth, confident that the peal was virtually rung. The ringing stopped in the seventeenth course. After the usual inquest the listeners were surprised to discover to their discomfort that the bells are by no means easy to ring, and that some of them go rather badly.
Lunch was taken at Chester, and then a dash to Over; when Benny had found the tower we were able to start for Bristol on the fine bells which sounded to 21.600 Bristol in 1950. We had no excuse for losing the peal here, but nevertheless we did, after nine courses o? Stephen Ivin's Double Bob composition which had appeared in the previous Friday's R.W: It must have heen the gremlins' best day for years, and that night the two conductors of the day were hanished to the barn, where they had a hlissful night's sleep.

DEADLINE AT OXTON

The Monday gremlins were still evident at Frodsham on Tuesday, where London was stopped and Lincolnshire substituted. The composition attempted at Handbridge was sung and struck well. A hasty buffet lunch was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Bibby and then to Oxton, with its fine tower and bells. where a very good peal of Double Norwich was rung; we were told here that we must be finished by 6.05 p.m.-we had three minutes in spare! An early bull in the ensuing dart match made us feel that the gremlins were

A VARIATION OF JOHNSON'S?

Pulford, our first tower on Wednesday, has trebles which cannot be heard inside the tower and some odd-struck bells. All was well as we came up to the fourth part-end of Johnson's Variation of Middleton's peal of Cambridge Major; a fracas brought up the wrong course end and the peal was lost Everyone on the tour now knows the partend of Johnson's Variation!
Lunch in Chester refreshed us for the after noon peal of Stedman Triples at Christleton: the striking was excellent, and for some it was not only their first Stedman Triples, but also their best peal. Pat conducted like a veteran. We were pleased to get this peal on heautiful bells, which are famous for the earlier peals of Stedman.

DINNER DAY

Thursday was dinner day. In the morning we rang three-laminated Surprise Major at Tarporley, the method having been changed at the last minute from Grandsire. A good pea! resulted, and afterwards John and Beryl Baldwin joined us for some spliced. Back at Frodsham we played inter-university darts at the Golden Lion and put on our best clothes, and then went to Eccleston, where the bells, in the writer's experience, are second only to Tiverton for tone and : go.' We rang Bristol and London here, and enjoyed every minute of our visit. At Malpas. the best spliced of the week was rung on a fine eight with rather springy ropes and this gave us a wonderful appetite for the social evening and dinner at the Bars Hotel, Chester. A sumptuous meal, beautifully served, was followed by handbell ringing in many methods up to Cinques. We were pleased to have our hosts from Frodsham in the company on this memorable occasion.

THREE PEALS IN A DAY?

We started on Friday at Bromborough. where Charles made a good job of turning in the 24 cwt . tenor to a peal of Plain Boh Major, conducted by John, whose car wheels had been knocked qut of alignment in an accident on the previous day. The listeners later played miniature golf at Arrowe Park, but were in time to hear the end of the peal. Our next tower, Walton-on-the-Hill. Liverpool. was further away than we had antiopated and we were late in starting. The long draught and the hum from these very musical bells make it advisable to ring slowly: the majesity of these tiny bells at 27 changes per minute must be heard to be believed, and a.l entranced local ringer stayed through the whale of the peal. We were, of course, late at the third cower, where Cynthia had been waiting for an hour, and our last attempt for three-in-a-day had therefore to be scrubbed without a boh having been called in the Bristol we had chosen to ring. Despite our tiredness. we still played estimation whist together in the tent before we literally 'hit the hay:

THE LAST DAY

The last day came very soon. Benny, Cieoff and Charles, who were leaving ahead of the rest of the party, packed their belongings and travelled to Witton, where we had decided to have' another go at Johnson's Variation. We were more than bewildered when the seventh rope broke after only three minutes ringing, no bobs having been called. We were too disappointed to arrange an impromptu visit to a local tower, so we dined, shopped and generally passed the time until we were due to ring at Christ Church, Macclesfield, where we were met by Mr. John Worth. Yorkshire Royat here was a fitting end to an enjoyable weck: I think we shall all remember ringing together in Cheshire.

Our thanks are due to Brian for his painstaking organisation, and all ringers and in cumbents who made us welcome. With next year's tour virtually fixed, all we have to do is say, 'Here's to the next time!'

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD  Bingham District

The Vicar (the Rev. A. P. Hayward) joined in the ringing when the Bingham District held its meeting at Willoughhy-on-the-Wolds. It was very much a learners' afternoon. and the help of the Ringing Master instructor was much appreciated.
The service was conducted by the Vicar and tea served at Wysall Rectory. Three new members were elected-the Rev. A. P. Hayward, Mr. J. Bollard and Mr. E. Hookham (Langar). Ringing continued until 8.30, the attendance being 45 , with visitors from four counties Next meeting: October 13th. Granby; Nov ember meeting. Lowdham with Gonalston

MR. W. H. B. WILKINS

A ringer of outstanding merit. Mr. W. H. B. Wilkins, passed peacefully away on September 9 th, at the ripe age of 91 .

Born at Chatham in 1870, he spent the early part of his life in Sittingbourne, where he is doubtless still remembered as an outstanding conductor on six bells, and no mean perfornier on the higher numbers.

He came to Oxford in 1916, and soon became captain of St. Ebbe's tower, a post which he held till the end of his life. The older ringers of Oxford still remember the skill with which he would sort out a tangle in some Surprise method. He rang many thousands of Minor 720s, and conducted most of them.

He rang in every tower in Kent, scoring 186 peals there. and a further 112 after he came to Oxford, his last peal being in Noveriber. 1958.
W. H. B. ${ }^{\text {, }}$ as he was affectionately named. was a shining example of loyalty as a churchman and as a ringer. He was a sidesman at St. Aldate's for 46 years. He was proud 10 be a vicc-president of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and he seldom missed a Sunday service. He was equally loyal to the Oxford Society, setting a noble example to younger men

His was a friendly, unassuming nature: he was usually to be found in his greenhouse or his heloved garden, and visitors were always welcome.

The funeral on September 13th was very well attended. and a peal at St. Ebbe's was rung half-muffled later in the day.
The sympathy of many ringers goes out to his daughter and three sons.

MR. F. H. HOPGOOD

Mr. Frank Herbert Hopgood died after a long illness, on September 23rd, at his son's home at Teddington. He was 76.
Born at Lee in 1886, he became a chorister at St. Margaret's Church in 1896, under the choirmaster, Mr. G. Leske. When his voice finally broke he learnt to handle a bell, and rang at St. Margaret's and various towers in the vicinity until the war.
During the war he was gassed badly in France. and on returning home was unable. through bad health, to continue ringing until 1923. Although not a peal ringer he rang regularly for Sunday services, and was only too pleased to help, even with Churchyard Bob, as he called it.
He was also very fond of good singing, and was solo baritone at All Saints' Church. Wandsworth, for 15 years. His last singing days were spent in the choir at St. Mark's Church, Teddington. where he laid on Thursday night previous to cremation at Feltham on Friday. He leaves two sons and a daughter.

MR. WILLIAM MARTIN

With the death of Mr. William Martin, of Higham-on-the-Hill, Leicestershire, at the age of 78, a life of faithful service to the Church of St. Peter has ended. Besides being a ringer for over 50 years and tower Master the latter part, he had also served the church as churchwarden. He rang only a few peals but was always present for Sunday service ringing, until he had to give up about two years ago owing to ill health.

The funeral took place in the churchyard on September 20th; the bells were rung halfmuffled in the evening by the local ringers, most of whom he had taught to ring
H. HILL

IT has been 18 years since the bells at Cottered Parish Church. near Buntingford, Hertfordshire, have been rung, as they have not been safe and have only been chimed. until last January when work was started on the restoration of the ring of five, by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co

The bells have recently been retuned, and were rehung at the beginning of last month. September 22nd was a joyous occasion as the Bishop of Bedford (the Rt. Rev. Basil T. Guy) came to dedicate the bells. The Rector, the Rev.-G. S. R. Dale, who conducted the service, handed the bell ropes to Mr. E. G. service, handed the hell ropes to Mr. E. G.
Buck, secretary of the Northern District of the Hertford County Association of Change Ringers, and while the Bishop and visiting clergy returned to their places the bells were rung by Messrs. A. R. Agg (general secretary of ihe Hertford County Association), E. G. Buck, L. B. Scoot, A. C. Harris and T. Hatchett, members of the Hertford County Association.

After the service several touches were rung by visiting ringers from near and far. The bells were cast between 1650 and 1841 and weigh from $5 t \mathrm{cwt}$. to 11 cwt. Founders: Miles Graye (two bells), Lester \& Pack of London, J. Briant. Hertford, and Thomas Mears. [Photo: N. G. Chuck.

MR. PERCY WILSON

The South Oxon Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild has lost a valued member by the death of Mr. Percy Wilson, of Wanhorough. who was organist and ringer for many of his 82 years.

He was one of the first members of the Branch, and although he did not ring many peals he was always willing to assist at any local ringing occasion. He could always be relied upon to play the organ in his inimitable manner at meetings. For many years he was headmaster of Wanborough School. and previous to that he taught at Trinity School, Henley-on-Thames.

At his funeral service on September 14th his fellow-ringers rang Wanborough bells halfmuffled.

MRS. JOAN BULL

The news of the death on September 26th. 1962, of Mrs. Joan Bull, Morton, Gainsborough, at the early age of 37 years. came as a great shock to her many friends. not least her fellow ringers of All Saints*. Her cheerful disposition will long be remembered. One of her last requests to her doctor was how soon could she be ringing again.

God rest her soul.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

North and East District

An enjoyable meeting was held by the North and East District at the Church of St. John the Baptist, Barnet. on Saturday. September 8th, where the bells of this 24 cwt . ring were put to good use by some 30 members and friends during the afternoon and evening. The Rev. C. W. Earle. Rector. conducted the service. Mr. David Patrick accompanying at the organ.
A short business meeting followed an excellent tea in the Church House, prepared by Mrs. Paternoster and her lady helpers. The meeting stood in silence in memory of Mr. A. R. Glasscock. of Southgate, who had passed away earlier in that week at the age of 82 . Mrs. P. Tomlinson, in a few appropriate words, paid a tribute to this stalwart of the Association, and recalled that he had been a member for some 60 years and had heen a valued and respected member of the Southgate band all his life.

The ratification of the provisional election as non-resident life members prior to a peal at All Hallows'. Tottenham, of Michael J. Hallett, of Rayleigh, and Dennis A. Hewitt. of Leyton, was made. Mr. Trevor Hawkins (St. Albans) and Mr. Frederick Ellis (Wheathamp. stead) were elected as non-resident life memhers. whilst Mr. Robert J. Moore, of Stanmore, was elected as a ringing member.
The proceedings closed with a vote of thanks by the chairman to the Rector, the organist, the ladies who helped with the tea, and 10 Mr . C. W. Ward for having everything in readiness.

'IN DOMINO' FOUNDRY SHIELD

Dear Sir,-In the light of Mr. Ranald Clouston's letter, summing up the case of Culverden versus Dawe (or Downham versus the test) in the "In Domina' foundry shield conflict, it is with great regret that I have to bring to his notice the loss of one of the bells he mentions. This bell, the treble of the ring of three at Graveney, was one of the two remaining Culverden bells in Kent. Stahlschmidt notes in 1887 that the bells and frame were in singularly bad order, but it was not until 1925 that the bells were all recast and rehung in a new 6-bell frame by the Whitechapel Foundry at the expense of George Henry and Alice Smith, of Graveney.

However, the founders, with their usual laudable regard for antiquity, reproduced the old inscriptions on the new bells in exact facsimile, from which we learn that the inscription on Culverden's bells was-

'Sancte I U P'

The inscription is interspersed with a cross, coins, the 'In Domino' shield, and a curious impression after the (crowned) ' $P$ ' which resembled on a rubbing a three-pronged fork; it might have been a crude ' $W$ ' or an inverted - M This inscription appears to have confounded the worthy Stahlschmidt.

The other Culverden bell that Mr. Clouston mentions, the third at Boughton Aluph, was mercilessly sold with its four companions as scrap to raise money for a very paradoxical cause-the rebuilding and strengthening of the now bell-less tower!

Whilst writing, I would like to confirm Mr . Kingsley Mason's belief as to the weight of Tenterden tenor. Warners recast the bell in 1884, at which time its weight was given as 30-1-24 in D flat. When taken down last year, Warners' suspected 'inflated' weight was verified when the bell was found to turn the scales at about $29 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. Now, after retuning and refitting, she weighs 27-3-22 in C.

With reference to my previous letter about Alfred Bowell's bells, may I thank correspondents who have brought to my notice the following rehangings of his: Cliffe-at-Hoo, East Sutton, Upchurch. Swanscombe, Depiford (St. John) and Chathąm. - Yours faithfully,

Ashford, Kent.  NICHOLAS J. DAVIES.

Dear $\mathrm{Si},-\mathrm{Mr}$. Clouston says be cannot fully support my statement that Culverden bells are very rare, and then gives a list of 29 which, he thinks, are still to be found in a dozen counties in this country. If this list is up to date it should reveal the fact that the two Surrey towers (Chobham and Wimbledon) are the only octaves which contain a Culverden bell.

During 1903-14 researchers found that their 'bell hunting' revealed information which differed from the county series and inaccuracies were noted, also fresh information tabulated, but it was generally agreed that bells with mare than 300 years of life are now rare, i.e. not often met with, so I still subscribe to the concerted opinion reached nearly 50 years ago.-Yours sincerely,

WILLIAM SHEPHERD.
Addlestone, Surrey.

DOUBLES METHODS WANTED

Dear Sir.-Can any Doubles ringer please enlighten me on the following methods/variations: Dedworth. Wychbold. Norfolk, Broadwas, Wollaston, Oldswinford. Northrepps and London?-Yours faithfully, MICHAEL W. BROWN.

ONE-METHOD PEALS OF MINOR

Dear Sir,-From time to time sneers are levelled at those who choose to ring peals of Minor in single methods, such as that by Mr. D. A. Bayles on page 628 . No doubt the band which performed 5,280 Little Bob Minor were trying to establish a test case, but this is not so with 5.040 g of 'regular' methods which will produce an extent.
Prejudice against a single method peal dates from the early days of Minor ringing, and much water has passed under the bridge since then and much fresh air has blown through the courts of change-ringing. I, for one. do not care to see old 'better-than-thou' opinions revived, particularly by those who do most of their peals on higher numbers, when they are unreasonable and ought to have died long ago.
As an example of changing opinions, old writers despised London Surprise Major because of its 'back-handers,' but this is just what gives the method a bit more spice and interest than Cambridge. Archaic allegations that you cannot ring a 'peal' of Minor at all. because each change appears seven times, are also occasionally heard, but who worries about such a contention in our day of tolerance and enlightenment? Times change, and prejudices with them.

Objection I have faced when trying to arrange a 'first in the method' of Minor have not been on the grounds that it would be retrograde, compared with ringing the 'Steady Seven.' but that the bother of learning a new method would have to be undertaken. Some of the methods are quite tricky and sustain interest throughout more effectively than the 'Steady Seven,' or a peal of Cambridge Major, for example. The Plain methods require a lot of concentration on the conductor's part, and it is a much bigger achievement for him to memorise and call seven unfamiliar extents or the equivalent in $2,160 \mathrm{~s}$, than to call the mere Standard Calling for the 'Steady Seven.

From my own experience of quite a number of peals of Minor, I would place the types of peal in this order from the point of view of the ringer's interest:-
(1) A multi-method peal.
(2) A peal in a new single method
(3) The 'Steady Seven.'
(4) A peal in a familiar single method, or two or three.
The jast-named is usually undertaken to assist beginners.
For the conductor, in my opinion, it is a bigger achievement to call seven different extents of Bob Minor than to ring the standard calling of the 'Steady Seven.'-Yours faithfully,

DEREK P. JONES.
P.S.-By 'Steady Seven' I infer an extent each of Cambridge. Kent, Oxford T.B., St. Clement's, Single Oxford, Plain Bob, and one of these four: Double Bob, Double Court, Double Oxford. Single Court; an arrangement very frequently rung.-D. P. J.

TRY ANOTHER SOURCE

Dear Sir,-Thank you, Mr. Wratten, for your nice looking 'pill' ('R.W.' September 21st). .

Anything further, Mr. Wratten wants to know to satisfy his curiosity,' I suggest he waits until the next report of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild is published. Knowing Mr. Wratten's rather peevish views upon Doubles I have nothing further to add.-Yours sincerely, Weston Favell, Northants.

NATIONAL STRIKING COMPETITION
Dear Sir,-I think Mr. Huson is wrong in saying that there is a general lack of interest in a national striking competition, as striking contests are increasing in number and papularity.
If these local competitors are looked upon as heats for a country-wide final, surely it can only add to the interest.
Wirksworth have not accepted invitations to enter a team in the local Derby District competition. Perhaps Mr. Huson could help in this direction.-Yours sincerely, Littleover, Derbys.
G. A. HALLS.

Dear Sir,-A national striking contest, in my opinion, would be a fine thing and not particularly difficult to organise. Any such contest is useful, because it creates a special interest in striking.

In the Derby area the standard of method ringing has been good, but the standard of striking not too good. We have now held two striking contests which have been very enthusiastically supported. These have had two effects:-
(1) The widening of the friendly spirit which has been gradually built up in the area since the Derbyshire Association was formed. In other words, the contest is another successful social gathering with publicity value.
(2) An increased consciousness of the importance of good striking, and as a result some mprovement can be noticed.

Peal ringing, of course, is an excellent way of developing good striking, but there is not a large proportion of ringers who, for various reasons, participate. Striking contests help to meet this deficit.-Yours faithfully,

Derby. DENIS R. CARLISLE

SINGLE CHANGE MINOR METHOD

Dear Sir,-In view of what has been said recently by Mr. Chant on the subject of Single Change Minor methods, I feel that his points should not remain unanswered.
He suggests that these methods should be classed as irregular, and presumes that they will die a natural death. This seems to me highly unlikely, as they have already been rung considerably more than Mr. Chant's favoured Little and Alliance methods, which are far hetter suited to the needs of 'method grabbers,' and in which I can see very little virtue.

As to why the Central Council has seen fit to include these methods in the Collection and to exclude those with Single changes I would not presume to hazard a guess! What possible good is there in a method which cannot even produce the extent? We have recently seen a performance of Little Bob Minor: I suppose the next thing will be a 'peal' of 21 extents of Bastow Little Court!

I consider that if peals containing these Alliance methods are to be recognised as records, then any peal containing Single Change methods surpassing any such record should certainly be recognised as a record peal.-Yours faithfully,

Great Baddow, Essex

WILILAM SOTTANSTALL

Dear Sir,-I note with interest a peal rung at Sowerby, conducted by Mr. Fred Hodgson. to the memory of William Sottanstall, who was the author of the 'Elements of Campanalogia," published 1866. However. I have yet to hear a kind word said about this man, although the book is a most intricate work and the author must have been a scholar.

Unfortunately he published some peals which were later proved to be false: it would be interesting to hear how he erred.

Perhaps some Yorkshire ringer would write an article on the life and work of William Sottanstall, with his successes and his failings. -Yours faithfully, Cawthorne.

University of Bristol Society Tour Lincolnshire

F
WOR the first time all the members of the party travelled by car. This is a new policy to encourage older members to join us. Un Sunday. August 26 th , fifteen of us met at St. Giles', Lincoln, to help ring for evening service, which we attended. To celebrate the commencement of our week's tour Lincolnshire was rung, along with Bristol, Plain Bob and Stedman. The Lincolnshire Report (L:R.) very thoughtfully includes a key to the state of the bells of nearly all the towers. While agreeing with most descriptions, there were a few exceptions and St. Giles' was one of them. 'Excellent,' seems to be a generous assessment. After the service the party booked in at 'The Reindeer,' Lincoln, which was our headquarters for the rest of the tour. This hotel proved ideal.

Our first tower on Monday was the fine, easy going six of Saxilby. After a selection of Minor methods we moved an to the eight at Gainsborough. They are certainly a very good ring, but some bells are odd struck. I' accommodate all our members two courses of Gainsborough Surprise were rung. Also in keeping with the tower a course of Gainsborough Little Bob was rung.

After a picnic lunch we visited the six at Haxey, where the grand tenor weighs 19 cwt . The tendency here was to ring too fast for the leisurely-paced bells. In the church there is an interesting tapestry, depicting the important events in the history of the village.

On our way to Epworth two car drivers filled with enthusiasm, took the wrong turning and made the journey to the church up a very sough lane. After bringing sound Cambridge, Erin and three leads of Bristol, we pressed on to the ground floor ring of six at Owston Ferry. From there we moved on to the not so easy ring at Willingham, where we were told that visiting bands rarely ring them well!

Tuesday was a day of sixes, when no method was rung twice. We began at Nettleham, where a delightful stream runs by the church. Grandsire with Extremes was called for. Two false stants showed that the explanation of an Extreme had not been clear to all the band. During the third attempt two members intentionally and surreptitiously swopped over but this did not escape the eagle eye of the conductor, who caled it round in masterly fashion. Although the L.R. rates this ring as fair. I would consider it good, and our next tower at Welton fair. The excellent ring at Dunholme has also been underestimated There, as at Wragby, the ring could be much improved with attention.

HOSPITALITY

In the interval between these towers Jane Cook's parents gave us a marvellous lunch at their house. They coped with our large numbers and large appetites in a wonderful manner. After Wragby our next stop was Horncastle, with its fine bells, and from there 0:1 to Bardney, where the bells are noisy, but go quite well if rung slowly. After tea in Lincoln, we joined in the local practice at St. Peter's, where we felt obliged to have a couple of courses of Lincoln Surprise Minor. Also ladies' band. 10 in number, rang a commendable course of Cambridge.
Our first fine day was Wednesday, which was very fortunate as only three towers had been arranged. After a ring on the excellen six at Alford, John Ketteringham tempted us by suggesting another tower at Wildoughby After a quick ring there we pressed on to our main objective-Mablethorpe and the sea! A very pleasant and, for the most part, A very pleasant and, for the afternoon was spent on the beach. Reluctantly, we left the beach to ring on Mablethorpe's six bells and from there on to Louth.

Having struggled up nearly 200 steps it seemed an awtul waste of energy to have to climb down into the ringing chamber. After a moment's rest we raised the bells in peal and commenced the ringing with Stedman Triples. This was rather ragged and the band took some while to find a good beat. A few of the bells, particularly the second, are difficult to strike. The later ringing of Cambridge and Double Norwich showed considerable improvement. After a lower in peal and a look from the balcony of the tower we made our way back to Lincoln.

Waddington was our first tower on Thursday; a good ring of bells spoilt by a 'tinny' treble. At Harmston the ladies' band was again oalled into action, this time Grandsire Triples, with the hip-swinging Mary Bird doing hei stuff on the tenor. After ringing four Spliced Surprise and Erin Triples we moved 0.1 to Fulbeck, where we were met by George Scott. He rang in the peal when Fulbeck was named. After lunch at the local, combined named. After lunch a with a game of darts and skittles, we headed fo: Grantham.

FISHY

Passengers in our car became increasingly aware of a peculiar smell and a temporary stop had to be made. The cause was a kipper which had mysteriously found its way under the bonnet and was quietly frying there. At Grantham. Tony Kench joined us. A half course of Yorkshire Royal, as well as Bob Royal, Grandsire and Erin Caters, was rung. The untidy striking did not do justice to the glorious ten. Our stay seemed all too short and soon we were hurrying on to Barkston, and then to Caythorpe. At this eight, after a touch of Spliced Plain and Little Bob, the ladies became more adventurous and rang Stedman Triples-the Tenor Queen still swaying behind! A ring at Navenby completed the day.

On Friday, Judy Atkinson, Tudor Edwards and Derek Sawyer joined us for the week-end. An early start was called for to reach Boston by ten. After struggling up the highest tower in the country into the ringing chamber we had a glance through the trap-door to the dizzy depths below. This quick route down did not-appeal to us. Methods rung on this very good ten were Cambridge and Kent T.B. Royal and Grandsire and Stedman Caters. It may have been the tining climb, but more likely it was the wide circle that ruffled the rhythm of our striking.

We managed quite well on the tricky bells at Kirton, where we sang our first course of Superlative. At Sutterton the bells are excellent. To reach the belfry, situated in the central tower, one has to go up through a side turret and across part of the roof. Cambridge, Bristol and Double Norwich were rung, but the quality was below standard. Next on our list was Surfleet, with its leaning tower housing the highest ring of twelve Although the front bells were not as difficult to handle as we had expected it would still require a very good band to ring them well. Grandsire and Stedman Cinques and Little Hab Maximus were rung in a (certainly not Bristol) fashion. On the very good eight at Bicker the first course of London was rung and our last tower of the day was Swineshead. In the evening a dinner had been arranged at the Grand Hotel, and there we thoroughly enjoyed our five courses.
Saturday's towers, though satisfactory, were not of the same quality as previous days. Having visited Washingborough and Branston we found ourselves in time to ring for a wedding at Metheringham. We concluded our stay with a touch of six Spliced Surprise Then, after fefreshment, we moved on to Timberland and Martin before heading back to Lincoln, to be in plenty of time for the peal at the Cathedral. We were very short of time judging by the Grandsire Cinques scored on the splendid twelve.

AT SOUTHWELL

Nine o'clock ringing at Newark meant an early start on the Sunday. A good straight raad and a disregard of Mr. Marples' 50 m.p.h. (by some) helped to bring us there on time. We rang a few touches of Caters on the clear sounding ten for service, before the long convoy of cars headed for Southwell Minster. Mr. Raithby, who had met us at Newark and had kindly made arrangements for this tower, accompanied us. An early arrival gave us chance to walk amongst the bells. This new anti-clockwise twelve are hung in a sturdy wooden frame. For quickness we decided to raise the twelve in peal. The young lady on the second, finding her bell a little low, decided that a few strong pulls were needed. Finding that she had set her bell she walked away, sat down and condescendingly joined in the rounds when the rest of the band had reached balance point. Having rung Grandsire and Stedman Cinques our time was soon up and our tour at an end.
Our many thanks go to Patrick Bird, for his efforts and efficient organisation. We also thank those who so kindly welcomed us and gave us permission to ring.
R.B.

50 Years Ago

R.W.' September 27th, 1912.--

The Minutes of the Council -Our comments last week upon the publication of the official minutes of the Central Council nearly four months after the meeting have drawn from the president, Sir Arthur Heywood, a reply, to which we readily give publicity. He points out some of the advantages accruing from the publication of this summary of the proceedings, advantages which, so far as the members of the Council may be cancerned, we do not deny. The point of view which we took up, however, was that of the general body of ringers who thave already been provided with an ample report of the business transacted, and from that standpoint we are still of opinion that the publication of the minutes is a work of superfluity. We doubt Eery much whether the members of the Exercise have any desire to sead over again that which they have previously had the opportunity of studying in detail, and it was in this light that we considered the question

OUR BUSINESS HAS BEEN RECENTLY RECONSTRUCTED AND OUR RESOURCES STRENGTHENED

Universities Association in Shropshire

'IME Universities Association 'Week, this doference to current fashion by visiting it four-bell tower, namely Buschurch, with its 15 cwt . Ienor. This was on the afternoon of Firiday. August 3rd. where after further ringing at Royton-XI-Towns and Great Ness we arrived at Adcote School, where we were extremely well fed and generally looked after during all our stay.
On Sunday, various members made their way to nearby towers to assist or institute Sunday service ringing-this more or less according to a plan pinned on the cupboard in the common room. The main body started Monday at Shifnal, where we were right royally received by the local clergy with suitable refreshment on the Rectory Lawn, where able refreshment on the Rectory lawn, because the Rector was living in a caravan, because
At Tong, where we did not toll the great bell because it is used only for special occasions specified an a notice in the church porch (which we have every confidence was not put there for our very special benefili), we were rejoined by the remainder of our gathering who had been seeking D.N.C.B. Major, but who were defeated by a broken rope. The traditional style sandwich luncheon was taken t convenient licensed premises after which we admired the mediaval wall painting in Claverley Church before ringing.

THE FLAGS OUT

The very fine 'ten' at Coalbrookdale were our next call. All the flags were out at Much Wenlock, where there is very pleasint restored eight." It was perhaps a bit depressing to learn later that the flags were not out for us; still, no more depressing than for the Much Wenlock people, whose local fete was severcly curtailed by heavy rain that afternoon. In the evening handbell men scored 5,056 Ptain Bob Major at Adcote.
On Tuesday morning it was observed that one of the Adcote School large sandwich boxes was missing. First ringing this day took place at Wellington, which for some at teast almost prevented their ringing at the second tower, Newport, due largely to poor navigation, even worse signposting, one way streets and local housing estates. Before ringing at Edgmond, we ate; and one family in our company were ejected from the 'local due to the warped understanding of the licensee of the licensing laws. Cheswardine we found to be a pleasant and rewarding we found to be a pleasant and rewaraing and Stoke-on-Tern. That night many attended the St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, practice.
After the Corporate Communion on Wednesday (which was well attended) it. was observed at breakfast time that there was one too many of the Adcote School sandwich boxes. A band went to Condover to attempt spliced. but this dissolved lamentably whilst the rest of our people were at The Clive. So it was that most of our company were logether again at Wem. where for a penance, the peal band rang 60 Stedman Triples with 6 and 7 continually 6-7. At Prees we dabbed in Spliced Plain Minor with good effect and at Whitchurch we fed before we rang.

Hodnet, where Bishop Heber lies buried.

 was quite delightful. This tower is octagonal and has a trap door entrance to a ringing chamber - without natural light. The usual excursions to tea shops were thwarted by the absence of these latter and the thirsty had to be content with ioed lollies. The last tower of the day was High Ercall, with good bells and a jelly-like rope guide.On Thursday morning it was observed at breakfas: time that one of the Adcote School sandwich boxes was missing. A seven melhod pea! of Minor was soundly accomplished at Cound, whilst all except this band were at Church Stretton and Ludlow. One of the peal band cars was successfully aimed at Stanton Lacy, but the other did not rejoin the main body until Wistanstow, due to an enforced study of the modern methods of laying drains in roads.

It had been announced that teal was obtainable at Stokesay Castie - to the consternation so it seemed. of its custodian who didn't immediately realise that bellringers in addition to being thirsty fellows were able to pay the admission fee and appreciate the histonic pile. However, heavy rain did not prevent us from slaking our thirst, visiting the castle and ringing at the Church of St. John Baptist alongside. Bicton, quite near home, was the Slast tower this day.
In the evening we held our business meeting under the chairmanship of the president. Our business meetings contain much the same items as other people's, but the mannes of our disposing of the agenda has to be experienced to be appreciated. The minutes, I'm sure, will contain our approval of the annual dinner taking place at Oxford (Exeter College) on Saturday, January 5th, 1963, and the arrangements are well under way for the 1963 Week in Hampshire from July 26th till August 3rd, but we did exercise some thought 01 the prohdems of where our headquarters should be. Looking forward, Lancashire was most favoured for 1964.
On Friday morning it was observed at breakfast time that there was a sandwich box for sale. Oswestry was the first call this day-a fine eight competently handled. Hereafter things went wrong one way or another for the rest of the day

EISTEDDFOD HANGOVER

The day's eating place had theen announced as the 'Red George' bar, at Llangollen: or was it the Blue Percy, or the 'Yellow Lizard'? Anyway, the Bell Founder was spotted waving out of what appeared to be a local hathroom window which in the event turned out to be the 'Royal Ouk.' Now Llangollen is noted for its music, etc., and though we had thought that this year's Eisteddfod had been completed we did experience what. I suppose, must have been a hangover therefrom in the form of three gentlemen dressed in tight trousers, black shirts and silver necklaces equipped also with ale and a guitar. Our clergymen enjoyed these and their 'country style' renderings, though one is thought to have expressed surprise that anyone should force innocent bystanders to listen to the row they were making.-An interesting comment from a bellringer, we thought
The food arrangements successfully estahlished, ten others were catering at SL. Mary's, Shrewsbury, where a peal of Grandsire was scored. Concurrently the rest of us were viewed suspiciously from hehind lace curtains by some of the citizens of Ruabon, hut we did enjoy ringing with local people. The fine old style octave at Gresford come next and we noted sadly the peal board commemorating the terrible pit disaster. We did not do justice to these splendid hells but again, as at Stokesay or even Ironbridge, we had a chance to see a structure much reproduced in architecture books.
Saturday-and wime to go, but not before we had expressed our thanks to the Adcote people for their kindnesses. It was observed too at breakfast time that all the Adcote School sandwich boxes wére now under lock and key. Those going home that way called at the two Bridgnorth towers. but there the 1962 Week finished, except to record our deep thanks to all the organisers, incumbents, wardens, etc., who so kindly made the Week wardens, etc

Stedman. Grandsire and Bob Minor were among methods rung at a quarterly meeting of the East Devon Branch held at Shute. near Axminster, on September 22nd and attended by about 40 members.Mr. J. Sage, chairman. presided for the firs: time. and thanked members for electing him. Mr. G. Woodley, vice-president, also attended. The service was conducted by the Rev. ## COLLEGE OF CAMPANOLOGY

The newly-elected president, following the late Ernest Morris, is Mr. Harry Miles, M A The College of Campunology has elected two more members to its Fellowship-A. J. Pitman, for his services to ringing in the field of composition; and Albert YorkBramble, for his services to ringing in its didactic field
In the recent singing course at Bristol, under the auspices of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, seven of the Jectures were given by two senior officers of the College.
As a result of inquiries, about further publications by the College, over $£ 100$ has been offered by members, as donations or interestfree loans to help finance the issue of more Parts of the Ringers' Manual of Reference.
The retiring founder-principal. Mr. A. YorkBramble, has been persuaded to accept nomination again, and is elected as principal for the ensuing triennial period.
As the result of communications between the Duke of Edinhurgh's Award organisation and the College. the latter is now informed throughout that the award syllabus on campanology the word 'should' is to replace the word 'must.' By this it is hoped to dispe! any possible confusion with the principles Sir John Hunt has made in paragraph 4 of Explanatory Notes, relating to the Award Scheme.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

 West Dorset BranchAt the autumn quarterly meeting of the West Dorset Branch, held at Lyme Regis on September 22 nd . the members decided to donate $\pm 2$ 2s. 10 the Ernest Morris Memorial Window Fund. Canon C. C. Cox hoped that either bells or a ringer at his rope would he incorporated in the design.
The Rev, J. S. Arthur, who presided with Mrs. Pannell acting as secretary, gave notice that he would not he offering himself for reelection as Branch chairman as he was retiring at the end of October and travelling to Bris hane, Australia, to visit his daughter and son-in-law. As there were no bells at Brisbane, he was taking a set of handbells, to start 'the thin edge of the wedge, in the hope of furthering the art in that city.
Canon Cox said that Mr. Arthur had been a lively chairman and they were sorry he was leaving. They trusted that he would carry his interest in ringing for the rest of his life.
Two new members were elected-the Misses B. and I. Atkey, of Beaminster, and the Rev. David Bailey, Vicar of Bothenhampton. who had returned to the diocese from Winchester. was re-elected.
The chairman. in the vote of thanks, thanked the Vicar (the Rev. J. H. A. Charles) for taking the service and his address; Mr. Elsworth. the organist, and the Lyme Regis ringers ar,d wives for the teas. Ringing previous to the service was Grandsire and Stedman, and afterwards in various other methods
Next meeting (amual): November 24th, at Beaminster.

THE LADIES' GUILD Western District

Although this was the first Ladies' Guild meeting to be held near Gloucester, it was disappointing that no ladies were there to greet us at St. James', Quedgeley. on September 8th: but the gentlemen seemed to make up for this. being genuinely interested in the Guild, and offering to be 'scouts' by distributng programmes to likely members.
The service was conducted by the Rev. $\mathbf{P}$ Dack, and the organist was Mr. Green, a local ringer : both were thanked by Mrs. Kingcott for their services. A warm welcome was extended to the visitors from Kent and St. Albans.
Three new members were elected from the Bridgwater area. and another quarter peal reported, Cambridge Minor being rung for the 50th anniversary of the Guild after an unsuccessful peal attempt Further meetings; practices: Chipping Sodbury, October 16th; St. Werburgh's, November 12th; Quarterly meeting, Ditcheat, December 8 th .

ROTHERHAM PARISH CHURCH

Leaving Rotherham at 8 a.m., the Parish Church ringers were in their first tower, Leicester Cathedral. by $10 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. on September 15 th . the occasion being their annual outing. Standard methods on ten and 12 bells were rung, including a half course of Cambridge Royal.
There was a disappointment at Coventry After lunch at the Wine Lodge Hotel, all had hopes of seeing the inside of the Cathedral. This was not possible, but the views of the outside were impressive. Ringing followed on the new ten at Tamworth (Plain Bob to Bristol) and a good tea at the Monica Cafe.

At Lichfield Cathedral ringing included Stedman Caters and Yorkshire Surprise, but the standard was lower than normal. Ringers were fortunate to hear choral Evensong from the Triforium of the Cathedral.

Thanks are due to Mr. Garner-Hayward. and incumbents and ringers of the three towers visited.

ROUGHAM, SUFFOLK

Five beautiful churches in Essex were visited by Rougham and District ringers during their outing on September 22nd, which started at mid-day. First came the anti-clockwise eight hit Foxearth, followed by the good-toned six at Belchamp St. Paul, and the pleasant six in a: very quiet belfry at Great Yeldham.
At tea at Castle Hedingham. the Rev. G. E. Jarrold spoke of the pleasure it gave him to be with the ringers that day. The bells at Castle Hedington (6) are also rung anti-clockwise. The bells at the concluding tower, Halstead, were greatly enjoyed.

Methods rung during the day were Plain Bob. Grandsire. Double Court, St. Clement's, Kent. Oxford, Cambridge, Ipswich. London and Norwich. also Stedman. The conductors were Messrs. R. Rose, M. Rose, J. Paul and H. Fuller.

The party returned to Bury St. Edmurds, and at 10 p.m. dispersed after thanking Mr. L. Wright for arranging this pleasant tour.

OUTINGS

TEWKESBURY BRANCH

September 15 th dawned rathed damply, and the ringers waiting, somewhat sleepily, for the coach in Tewkesbury and the outlying villages wondered whether it was to be a wet day for the annual outing. They need not have warried, however, for as the coach, with its load of 40 Branch members and their friends, trayelled southwards through Bath the sky cleared, and we arnived at Shepton Mallet in bright sunshine.
Here was the first of the five beautiful churches that we were to visit during the day, with a painted barrel roof, decorated with angels, and in the tower a fine ring of eight hells, which were soon going to rounds and methods. The next stop was at Evercreechits tall graceful tower visible from afar. Another 'angel' roof, and a famous ring of ten. delightful to ring and to listen to.
A pleasant ride (though langer than in(ended) brought us to Sherbarne, the chief objective of the expedition, where we tried our strength on the heaviest eight in the world. After an excellent lunch at The Three Wishes , there was time for more ringing for those who felt strong enough, whilst the rest explored the Abbey Church. with its beautiful fan tracery, and wandered round the town. Altogether we found Sherborne a most attractive place. The fourth tower was Yeovil, another ten and almost as heavy as Sherborne, where we managed a nice touch of Stedman Caters, among other things. Tea followed at 'The Cottage Cafe, and then the final tower. Crewkerne, with eight bells which were well up to the high standard set by the earlier towers.
In all it was a most enjoyable day, and our thanks are due to the incumbents, the local ringers who met us, and to the Ringing Master. Mr, E. W. Penn, for making the arrangements.
N. N. A. P.

WESTON FAVELL

A coach party of 35 participated in the outing of Weston Favell ringers into Rutland on September 22nd. The first tower was Caldecott, with a ring of 5 (1696), which was rehung a few years ago. The old monastery at Lyddington proved an attraction as did the unique Communion rails of 1635 , where communicants kneel all round the altar. The five bells are in a sad state and need rehanging in a new frame.

At Uppingham the Weston Favell learners had their first pull on eight bells, while the seniors rang Triples and Major. Everyone was jmpressed by the superb tone of the six at Langham, and at Ketton a welcome tea had been provided by the Rev. D. Hopkins (a former rector of Weston Favell) and Mrs. Hopkins.
The last church visited was Burrowden, where Compline was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Norman Smith). Ringing on this lovelytoned five before making for home concluded the outing.
P. A.

WESTHAM, SUSSEX

The first outing of the newly re-formed band at St. Mary's, Westham, was held on a beautiful sunny afternoon in mid-Seplember, After picking up friends from neighbouring towers, we made our way through leafy roads to the charming village of Newick. The ropes in the belfry were of local origin, requiring almost two hands to encircle. Consequently, some of the party were in difficulty in managing this light six. Daneshill bells were easier to the less experienced, and several touches of Doubles and Minor were rung.

Cuckfield, where Mr. J. Jeffreys met us, provided for our tyros their first experience of Triples. After a substantial tea at the White Harte, there was more Triples at Burgess Hill with Mrs. Stella Knight. Peter Romney joined us in a touch of Cambridge Minor at Keymer. our last tower. During the stop for refreshments our handhells provided entertainment for another party of travellers.

The Vicar of Adlington, Lanes, the Rev. Alfred Hodgson, joined in the peal of Major on September 23 on the eve of the launching of the Christian Stewardship Campaign. As he is also Rural Dean, he does not get much time to practise his ringing, but he, nevertheless, rang very well in this his second peal.
Congratulations to Mrs. Strong, of the Nailsea band, on ringing a quarter peal again after losing the use of her right hand.
The peal of Spliced Royal in four methods rung at Worsley, Lancs, on September 23rd was the greatest number of Royal methods yet rung to an 'all the work' peal. The conductor was Mr. Derek Ogden.
An afternoon on the beach at Mablethorpe was spent by Bristol University Saciety during their Lincolnshire tour. Here the game 'Burying Barbara Stephens alive' brought amusement to onlookers as well as to the party.

The teenage band who rang the peal of Bob Royal at Isleworth wonder if they are the youngest band to ring a 10 -bell peal, having an average age of 17 years 7 months. Could someone please enlighten them?
Mr. W. H. B. Wilkins, of Oxford, whose death at the age of 91 we record this week, was a local reader of "The Ringing World ' and of "The Bell News" before that. He always read 'The Ringing World' before the daily papers.

The band at St. Mary's, Westham, Sussex, was re-formed last July after a long period, during which ringing was very spasmodic. They hope soon to have a method ringing band; the last time one functioned at Westham was over 30 years ago.
The first lady to ring a peal, Mrs. R. A. Sullivan. (Miss Alice White), of Galt, Ontario, Canada, writes Mr. W. Shepherd, was 82 on October 6th. She is still a reader of "The Ringing World ' although partly blind, but is remarkably cheerful.

GOSSIP
Tom Lock's party had a most enjoyable although a sometimes wet tour in Herefordshire and Shropshire. Fourteen peals were scored and five lost, which included a handbell attempt at Shrewsbury, by invitation of Mr. Harry Poyner. One peal was rung on a coach.
Another quarter for the jubilee of the Ladies Guild has been rung by six members at Farm borough, Somerset.
The last day for applications for tickets for the Worcestershire and Districts Association annual dinner is October 9th.
Bristol University Society merit special mention for their peal of Grandsire Cinques at Lincoln Cathedral, rung during their tour of Lincolnshire.

For many years a member of the band of St. Paul's Cathedral, Mr. Robent W. Green, died recently at Brighton, aged 78

Visitors to Glasgow Cathedral should note that Sunday service ringing is $5.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. and the weekly practice Thursdays, 7.30 p.m. There have been recent disappointments.
The ringer of the fourth in the peal of Stedman Triples at Halewood (see page 650) was Alexander J. Martin, and not Alexander J. Birkett as submitted.

The peal of Grandsire Triples at Chester-le-Street on September 22nd by the Sunday service band contained three first pealersIan Wintrip is a nephew of Miss Bertie, and Peter D. Walker the son of Mr. S. C. Waiker.
Fourteen new members were proposed at the annual meeting of National Guild of Police Ringers held at Manchester on September 22nd. The next annual meeting and dinner will be held at Birmingham on September 28th, 1963.
A record attendance of 216 was present at the annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild held at Newlands Corner Hotel last Saturday. The Bishop of Guildford (Dr. G. E. Reindorp) in view of the Eye episode addressed the ringers as "slinkers" to the delight of the assembly. A report will appear in our next issue.

MISSING LINKS

IN the preface to his investigations into Stedman Triples Arthur Percival Heywood made the following significant pronouncement: ' Some forty years have now elapsed since the close of the labours of the eminent Birmingham band, to whom the method is so largely indebted for its development, and the hard-won knowledge of years of enquiry has died out a forgotten art. Not a vestige of a hint remains to us beyond what is afforded by their compositions, of the principles upon which the successful results of these early masters were founded.' Writing more than twenty years previously, Jasper Snowdon deplored the extensive wastage of so much of the weary labour of those who had wrestled with gigantic problems of composition.
It is indeed true, as Mr. Denis Carlisle recently reminded us in his reference to Charles Middleton, that while we enjoy a vast library of compositions, we are, for the most part, completely without knowledge of the lines of thought that directed the early composers into profitable paths. The plans of the first bob and single peals of Grandsire Triples may, perhaps, be deduced from a consideration of the possibilities of the blocks of 2 Io, but by what calculation, inspiration, or empiric groping these blocks were so precisely and symmetrically united by Annable and Vicars we cannot say. And so it is with Holt and his two great masterpieces. Here, again, we may present tenable theories on the build-up of the ro-part, but the assembly of the 357 In-course leads of the Original is difficult to explain. The labours of Noonan, who confesses to have used a prodigious quantity of paper in fruitless quests for the extent of Stedman Triples, must have been for the most part purely experimental, but when we come to consider the infinitely more precise and scientific products of the twin-bob composers, we are compelled to assume that something more than mere hit-or-miss tactics guided the inquiring minds.

The miracle of Hudson's course-ends remains. How (as Heywood wonderingly and admiringly pondered) did this man light upon the only set of course-ends that would make twin-bob composition possible, and would, moreover, provide a table with members so exquisitely interrelated and so perfectly adapted for their purpose? And did Lates, Thurstans (and Hudson himself) fully comprehend the nature and possibilities of these course-ends? Was the work of these men a simple groping in the dark and their final magnificent achievements but the lucky stumbling on a firm path through this Slough of Despond? The very nature of the delicate relationships of what are now known as $Q$-sets forbids the conclusion that chance ruled the investigations or that Thurstans and his fellows had no plan for their attacks on the almost insuperable problems of Stedman Triples. As J. A. Trollope wrote, they were very clever men and they brought to their task much special knowledge; but the fact remains that no trace exists of the light they followed or of the signposts that marked their laboured progress.

It is so, too, with Middleton, who by some wit or inspiration (or by some unrevealed process of his own) presented the Exercise with the only peal of Cambridge Major with the tenors undisturbed. It is so with some of our more recent composers and, despite all that has been written and inscribed during the last seventy years, we may still find ourselves filled with wonder and admiration at J. J. Parker's 12-part, Carter's Odd bob, Dr. Slack's Two-part peal of Stedman Triples, and possibly confess ourselves without knowledge of the composer's line of approach to the problem set and the track that led him to his goal.

There is little reason to suppose that composers have wilfully withheld this interesting and valuable information. The pursuit of knowledge was hard and unrelenting, and when the object was attained there seemed no reason to preserve the experimental papers or to set down for posterity any guiding principles or signposts to mark the way. In many cases papers were destroyed by relatives and descendants, who, having no knowledge of change ringing, quite naturally regarded such scribblings as unintelligible and valueless. A further reason for many of the missing clues is, the difficulty of dealing with such abstruse matters in language that everyone can understand. The genius of John Carter was not matched by the gift of explanation, for Carter was virtually inarticulate; the brilliance of George Baker gave him but inadequate powers of expatiation, for Baker talked in symbols of his own creating.

Fortunately, of recent years, much valuable knowledge has been stored. Yet, as Mr. Carlisle implied, the interest in Middleton's process is not purely academic, and any insight into the working minds of the old masters cannot but be illuminating and of practical value.

A BISHOP'  CHALLENGE TO HIS RINGERS

To Provide Bells For Guildford Cathedral

THERE was a record attendance of 216 at the annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. held at the Newlands Corner Hotel, Guildford, on September 29th. It was the introduction of the ringers of the diocese to their president, Bishop George Reindorp. who was accompanied by his wife, Dr. Alix Reindorp. The president was received by the Master, Mr. Douglas May, and his wife.

The Guild has taken a great interest in providing bells for the Cathedral. Two memorial bells have been provided-those for Mr. J. S. Goldsmith and Mr. A. H. Pulling-and each district of the Guild is now endeavouring to provide a bell. The gathering never expected, in view of this programme, to receive a challenge from the Bishop to provide the ten bells required for the Cathedral. If each ringing family in the Guild gave 5s, a week for 20 months the money could be found, said Dr. Reindorp.

At the conclusion of the dinner, the Immediate Past Master (Mr. C. W. Denyer) assured the Bishop that his suggestion would be considered by the executive of the Guild at their next meeting. Miss Iredale had appealed to the Guild, when she was organiser for the Cathedral Fund, to provide the ring of bells required, but she was informed that it was beyond the compass of members of the Guild.

The Bishop, as president. was in the chair, and he proposed the loyal toast.

The Master, in proposing the toast of "The memory of John S. Goldsmith and other officers and members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild,' said as long as 'The Ringing World remained the memory of Jack Goldsmith would be perpetuated. not only because the journal was his brainchild and the result of his enthusiasm and handiwork, encouraged by the late Charles Willshire, who emigrated to Canada before the Guild was founded in 1927, but because his name was on the front page of every issue. His capability as a ringer was undeniable, especially in the fields of conducting and Surprise method ringing. The sacring bell in the Cathedial was provided to his memory

Anothet bell which the Guild was proud to have purchased, and which was also in the Cathedral, was the Alf Pulling Memorial Bell. Alf was perhaps the most outstanding ringer and conductor the Guild had known. He brought national fame to the bells of Holy Trinity, Guildford. Since he ceased peal ringing they had not had the constant flow of high-class performances, even though the occasional flash of genius showed itself among their ranks

TWO EXAMPLES
Of those who had died since the short time that he had been introduced to ringing, the ringers he remembered best as wonderful men were William Denyer, of Aldershot, and Ted Coward, of Dorking. Both were quiet men, whose example of good ringing, leadership. churchmanship and friendly personality had done more for the Guild than most of them realised. When a captam died the hand quite often disintegrated, but not so at Aldershot or Dorking.

He would also like to associate with the toast the names of Bishop Ivor Watkins (immediate past president), Major Hesse (first Master), Bob Whittington (Cranleigh. a vice-president), Admiral Walker (Old Woking), Fred Bennett (Clandon), Bill Melville (Guildford), John Corbett (Bagshot), Reg. Lathbury (Walton), Dick Halsted (Farnham). Recently the Chertsey District had lost a valuable member in Mr. B. Goldstone. He was not in the top class, but the work he did in getting people interested in ringing was tremendous.
The toast was drunk in silence. It was followed by a touch of Grandsire Caters, rung by E. J. Bragg 1-2, K. Williamson 3-4, J. Wells 5-6, T. Page 7-8, W. Viggers 9-10.
The loast of 'The Church and the Ringing Exercise followed. This was proposed by Mr. F. E. Collins, who acted as toastmaster. He said the Church relied on the Exercise for part of its service, and the Exercise depended on the

The Bishop of Guildford (the Rt. Rev. Gev. R. Reindorp) seems quite at home with a pair of handbells, talking to Mrs. Jackie Morgan. Her iwin sister. Church for its very existence. He was sure they would all agree that the ringing of the bells was part of the Church service, and if the ringing Exercise had to depend on bells other than those in churches it would rot have gone very far.
On very rare occasions did they hear of a slight disagreement between a vicar and his ringers. Unfortunately the good relations pass by unnoticed, whereas those often not so good become front page news.

THE UNKINDEST CUT

Mr. Collins said he thought that the unkindest cut that they as church workers had received was bestowed upon them in East Anglia a few months ago. A certain bishop was invited to take the service of rededication of the restored bells at Eye, and during the course of his address he stated that bellringers enter the tower to ring the bells, calling people to wor ship and warring them that the service was about to begin. They themselves did not stay but slinked off to the nearest pub to refresh themselves after their energetic action Obviously there were many members of the Exercise and many of the clergy who were shaken by this sort of talk.

It so happened a couple of weeks later that my vicar and I had an opportunity of speaking to this bishop, and naturally broached the subject. We endeavoured to explain that in order to chastise a few isolated cases that he may have heard of, he had brought discredit on the whole Exercise. But he just wouldn't listen. Matter of fact, we had just ten minutes to talk in before he had to leave, and he talked unceasingly for nine minutes 59 seconds of that time. That was his method of defence. Don't let the other fellow speak. He said that he was determined to get the belfries out of the wrong hands and back to the Church where they belonged. That proved to me that he was very much out of date in his views and ideas. About 300 years behind the times, to be precise.
Those who had studied the history of the ringing Exercise over the last 300 years knew full well that the Exercise, which started about the year 1600, was practised first as a competitive sport and later for payment. Through the years, however, it had become more and more a part of the Church and its services. He was happy to say that the belfries today belonged more to the Church than they ever did before, and this was due to the influence of organisations such as this Diocesan Guild. He had known the Guildford Diocesan Guild since its formation, and he could assure the Bishop that the bellringers of the diocese were a true, honest-lo-goodness body of Church workers.

With experience, I can tell the bellringers of the Guildford diocese that in your Bishop you have a very good friend of the ringing Exercise. I know very well of the consideration he had for his ringers at Southwark Cathedral and also the respect the ringers of London had for him. I can say with sincerity that our loss has been your gain.
BELLS IN THE HANDS OF CHURCHMEN
The Bishop, in his reply, delighted the ringers present by addressing them as "slinkers." He referred to the barbecue that he attended. and said that through the publicity he would be known as the bishop who did the Twist. The Bishop said it surprised him to hear that they were churchmen to a man. At Aldershot they were teaching the vicar to ring: they had a special song, 'Rounds with the Vicar.' [Laughter.] The bells of the Church and their functions should be in the hands of churchmen. and he wanted to congratulate their Master on the membership of his Guild.

When he was Vicar of St. Stephen's, Rocheso ter Row, every time the bells rang he received a lot of complaints. I always wrote back: "We have been here for 108 years: how long have you?"

Continuing, the Bishop said that he had received letters about the ringing of bells. Was he going to receive letters about the absence of bells? The answer rested with them. At no time in the history of the Church had the opportunity been given to the Exercise to see that their Cathedral-the first to be built in this country since the Reformation-had a ring of bells. You are giving us four bells. What is that when we want ten? What does it mean. you going for the ten?. It will probably cost $£ 7,000$, apart from hanging, if we get that lot. Cannot we say: "We bellringers, from each family, will give 5 s . a week for 20 weeks "? I know that sounds a lot. But is there a family who could not save 5 s . a week? It would be awful if when the tower was ready there were no hells.

That is the challenge I put to you, said the Bishop. "It will need much organising, but it is the challenge to the Guildford Dio cesan Guild to provide the bells calling people to worship.

The toast of "The Ladies and Visitors ' was proposed by Major E. J. Bragg, who said he thought the Exercise would today be in difficulties without the ladies. He knew that in Aldershot they would not be able to ring all their bells so often without them.
Miss E. Stevinson (Godalming) and the Rev. M. Hocking (Holy Trinity, Guildford) replied. Mr. Hocking said he learned to ring when he was a curate at Hackney. It was a man's job to ring those bells. He learned to ring No. S and joined the Ancient Society of College Youths.
The Master, in announcing the apologies said that Mr. Jack Carter, of Seale, had me with a nasty accident and had fallen through the roof of a shed. He was now in hospital At his suggestion the gathering decided to send him their best wishes for a speedy recovery Among the apologies were those from Mrs Chapman (assistant secretary), Mr. Tony May and Mr. W. Shepherd. Appropriately, a peal of Minor in seven methods had been rung at Farnborough that day to the memory of John S. Goldsmith

The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers supplied by Mr. and Mrs. A. Harman who were warmly thanked by the Master. From these flowers, bunches were handed to the wife of the Bishop (Dr. Alix Reindorp), the Bishop's secretary (Miss Bawtree), Mrs Hocking and the ladies of the organising committee and those who entertained. The presentations were made by Miss Janet Denyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Denyer.

As usual, the Guild was fortunate in its entertainment. The singers were Cledwyn Evans, who was accompanied by Geraldine Rugman and Jackie and Jill (the wife of the Master and her twin sister). The Cobham Handbel Ringers provided a popular turn, and Major E. J. Bragg recited in dialect.

NATIONAL POLICE GUILD

The annual reunion of the National Guild of Police Ringers was held this year in Manches ter on September 22nd. At the meeting, held in the Town Hall, 21 members were present representing the following constabularies Metropolitan, Leicester. Lancashire County Cheshire County, Liverpool, Manchester and Hereford.
The president, ex-Inspector T. R. Butler, was re-elected, as was the hon. secretary and treasurer. P.C. A. Pearce, 197. Wythenshawe Road Manchester, 23. The auditor is now Mr. E Francis, Manchester City Police. Fourteen new members were elected. Appreciation of the services to the Guild of the Chief Constable of Manchester. Mr. John McLay, was expressed by his unanimous election as an hon orary non-ringing life member.

There was a company of 60 members and guests at the annual dinner held at the Waldorf Hotel, Manchester. The principal guests were the Chief Constable of Manchester and Mrs. McLay, and the Church was well represented by the Rev. Basil Higginson and Mrs. Higginson. An excellent meal was followed by a social evening

REDEDICATION AT CHITTERNE

CHITTERNE, All Saints' with St. Mary, lies on Salisbury Plain, three miles from the nearest main road. From the 14 th century until the early 19 th century there were two parishes and two churches to serve the 800 or so people in the village, but in the middle of the last century the benefices were united, and a faculty was granted to pull down the two old churches and build one large church.

This new church was consecrated by the Bishop of Salisbury on November 4th, 1862 and this year the parish (which now numbers less than 300 people owing to the drift of population) has held a series of celebrations in connection with the centenary. One enterprise has been the overhaul and rehanging of the bells. which were formally rededicated on September 22nd by the Master of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, the Rev. R. H. Longridge.

The bells are a ring of five, with tenor 6 cwt in $B$. The treble and second came from the old All Saints' Church, but were found to be cracked and were recast in 1862; one of these was a.mediaval casting. Nos. 3. 4 and 5 came from St. Mary's and were cast by James Burrough, of Devizes, in 1754. The present work has been carried aut by the Whitechapel Foundry, and the tone and 'go' are now excellent.

The Vicar (the Rev. J. Biddlecombe, R.D.) conducted Evensong at 3.30, in the course of which he and the Master, with the choir, proceeded to the foot of the tower for the Act of Dedication, after which rounds were rung by R. Feltham (captain).
The Master then preached using as a text an inscription found on an old bell: Ring out the bells: In God rejoice." This was, he said, a happy occasion, because these bells now had a chance to ring out again. He recalled how many generations had heard them in the past, for a victory or a Coronation, and far more often with the Church's message of the sure hope of Resurrection, or to wish God-speed to the newly-married couple founding a home, or at the Angelus, reminding people of their dependence upon God and their immortal des tiny: or the regular bell for Matins and Even song carrying the message of a life organised for God.

Now these bells will carry on their missionary task, and that really means the men and women and boys and girls who are going to get to church much earlier than the rest of the congregation, will ring. The way ringers faithfully turn up to do what is expected of them is splendid, and the Master hoped that these bells would be rung regularly and that there would be no lack of volunteers.

The Mothers' Union provided a wonderful tea after the service, and a short business meeting was keld for the election of the captain of this newly-affiliated band. Mr. Raymond Feltham. The attendance was somewhat disappointing, perhaps due to the lack of public transport, but there were 18 ringers present. including representatives of two of the most distant towers in the Branch, each some 20 miles away, in order to welcome this new member-tower.

CHELLASTON, DERBY, AUGMENTATION

The keen band of ringers at St. Peter's, Chellaston, four miles south of Derby, are looking forward to the augmentation of their three bells doldest, the treble, cast by Hedderly, of Nottingham, in the $1790^{\circ} \mathrm{s}$ ). Some time ago an order was placed with the bell-founders for the rehanging and augmentation, and it is expected the work will begin early next year. A hazaar is being held in the Village Institute in the afternoon of October 20th to help pay for this project, and the support of all ringers and friend; is asked for

THE LADIES' GUHGD Central District

The quarterly meeting was held at St. Albans on September 29th. In the afternoon the performance at the Cathedral was curtailed owing to some difficulty in releasing the chiming apparatus and then a broken rope on the fifth Therefore, in the limited time available, the ringing on the 12 was restricted to rounds and a course of Grandsire Cinques. The Central District hopes to accept the invitation for a future visit as soon as possible.
Over 60 sat down to the excellent tea provided by the local ringers, after which the washing-up was done by gentlemen of the Hertfordshire Association. At the business meeting, attended by 25 ladies, Mrs. Lock said that although the 1963 A.G.M. in Ipswich would be in the Eastern District territory, the assistance of the Central District would be wel come. It was also mentioned that there was a reserve list for tickets for the jubilee dinner to be held in London on October 27th.

The following new members were elected Hilary Muirhead (Cambridge), Nina Thomas Ann Smallbone (Harpenden). Jennifer Bunyan (Watford), Ann Robinson (Elstree). Frances Studley, Lorna Simpson (Harrow), Anne Agg (Hitchin), Diana Kench, Susan Williams (Hemel Hempstead).
Highlights of the evening's ringing were an all-ladies' course of Cambridge Minor at St Stephen's and a touch of Stedman Triples at St. Michael's. The presence of the many gentlemen enabled the ringing to range from rounds to 5 -Spliced.
Next meeting: Harrow-on-the Hill, Decemher 29th

Eastern District

There was a good attendance from both Norfolk and Suffolk at the meeting at Dereham of the Eastern District on September $29 t h$, where ringing on the fine eight ranged from Plain Bob to Cambridge Surprise.
At the business meeting three new members were elected. A vote of thanks was passed to the incumbents, the reader and the organist for the service. Evening ringing was at Gressenhall.
Next meeting, December 8th. Holbrook and Stulton (Suffolk)

LICHFIELD DIOCESAN FESTIVAL

The third festival in the present series was held in Shropshire on September 15th. Seventeen towers were open for ringing at various times during the day, and it is estimated that 150 ringers took part. A service was held in St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, at which the Bishop of Shrewsbury spoke, and afterwards 100 people sat down to tea in St. Chad's Parish Hall. The preparation of the tea was a joint effort by ladies from all parts of the county.
A new venture was the striking competition held on the Rudhall six at Cound during the afternoon. Of the original ten entries, five had to withdraw for various reasons. The 'test piece " was 120 Doubles or Minor or at leas 30 call-changes to be rung within five minutes. The judges were B. Stedman Payne, J. Hill and J. Griffiths. Considering that this was the first competition in which anyone present had ever taken part, things went very smoothly The final placing was E. Speak's team first followed by Little Aston, R. Powell's team, Edgmond and Hinstock

Everyone looks forward to next year's festi val, which will be organised by the North Staffordshire Association.

With T. J. Lock's Party in Herefordshire and Shropshire

$\mathrm{O}^{\mathrm{N}}$ Saturday, September 1st, ringers from many parts-from places as far apart as Newcastle, Bristol, Dartford and Worthingwere steering their cars in the direction of Church Stretton, for here the Sandford Hotel was to be the headquarters for the week of Tom Lock's tourists, 1962.
The first arrivals were soon in action, ringing for a wedding at Church Stretton, after which a mere 14 miles over the picturesque Wenlock Edge took them to Much Wenlock. Here others were waiting, and after a shor touch for the 'non-pealers', the remaining eight went into changes of 4 -Spliced for the first peal attempt called to a halt by two bells shifting after jittle more than an hour's ringing. Meanwhile Rutland Surprise was well under way at Broseley, four miles away, and was successfully accomplished, it being Gerald Penney's first peal in the method and Martin Lock's first on eight. The band were pleased to associate this peal with the wedding of Derek E. Sibson and Miss E. Jane Langton, which had taken place at St. John-the-Baptist's, Findon, Sussex
Sunday morning saw five early-risers from the party attending 8 a.m. Holy Communion, and after breakfast the company rang at Church Stretton and St. Leonard's, Bridgnorth. An arrangement with Harry Poyner for three ringers to visit him at Shrewsbury for a handbell peal resulted in Joan Berestford. Eddie Rapley and Gerald Penney joining in an attempt for Plain Bob. Major, lost through a miscall. Evening ringing was arranged at St. Mary's and St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, where Richard Price met us. Here we were all impressed by the circular church-one of only three in the countryalso by the splendid display of flowers, particularly fuchsias. in the gardens nearby. Later. chauffeur Ralph went to Shrewsbury Station to meet Mr, and Mrs. Ron Bullen.
On Monday morning we met a new friend in Danny williams, who arrived well before 9 am. with the coach which was to take us 629 miles through Sbropshire, Herefordshire and Radnorshire during the course of the week. One peal band was left at Church Stretton, where Yorkshire was scored but the '2nd Eleven' met with ill-luck at Shifnal, where Bristol was lost through a miscall. Shifnal was the home tower of Samuel Lawrence ( $1763-1825$ ). reputed to have weighed 32 stone (how did he manage have weighed) 32 stone (how did those stairs!)-a tenor king indeed!
Coach driver Danny was kept busy while the peals were in progress. for there were sufficient 'left-overs' to man the six at Tong and the five at Ryton. At the former church the ringing takes place on the sround floor, the bell ropes hanging in a good circle between the front pews and the chancel screen. On either front pews and the chanclal screen.
side are the tombs of Lady Elizabeth Pembrugge., who founded the church in 1410, and Sir Richard Vernon and his wife Benedicta, who was Lady Elizabeth's daughter. A massive pillar conceals the staircase leading up to the hells. So brave we were to ascend these very, well worn steps to see the 'Great Bell of Tong' weighing 50 cwt .and rung only on the special occasions listed in the church porch. Also in Tong Church we were impressed by the fine oak in the chancei, especially the cathedral-like choir stalls.

really vertical

Was there ever so vertical a ladder as the one which clung to the wall at Ryton? -and which it was necessary to mount hefore the bells could be manned! Supported and encouraged by 'Driver Danny? Joan and Kath managed it-Alick, Dennis. Eddie and Martin were nimble and managed on their own! Grandsire and Stedman Doubles here. then lunch in Shifnal, afler which we all met up in Shrewsbury and made for Prees, the peal attempt fixed for Wem being impossible owing to the recent appearance of a crack in the tower. A variety of Minor methods was rung on the musical six at Prees. Many rhymes have been written about ringers and ringing, and many of them have become very familiar. It was invigorating to read from a card on the It was invigorating belfy table:-

Pull hard you lusty lads who toil
Six days each week in sun and soil:
Send forth your glad and wholesome sounds In sequences that grief confounds.'
Then on 10 Oswestry, where an enjoyable hour was spent in the spacious ringing room with goor striking on a splendid ring. The south porch of the church was laden with wonderful flowers in readiness for a wedding next day, and many glorious varieties of begonias were admired.

Who was it who went off this morning with hotel bedroom key in pocket? Well, someone did, and his bedroom was invaded from a balcony window to enable the chambermaid to carry out her duties!

CORONATION TRIBUTE

Tuesday's trip was one of the most scenic of the week, for we turned westwards and crossed the border into Wales. First, however, a call at Clun, where a peal of Rutland was successful, and from there to Presteigne - oh, the beauty of those Welsh mountains and forests en route. One mountainside forest had been so skilfully planted that the letters ER stood out in green a shade darker than that of the surrounding trees, no doubt a local loyal tribute in Coronation year.

Beautiful also are the bells of Presteigne, and unusual is the stone tablet floor of the ringing chamber. Here Martin scored his first peal of Surprise on an 'inside' bell, and received the congratulations of all the band. Len, who called it, rang in many of Martin's Mum's 'firsts' many years ago! Presteigne church houses the arms of the Radnorshire Militia with its history, and on the north wall hangs a very fine tapestry. This was made in the early 16 th century by Flemish weavers who settled in this country, and depicts the Triumphal Entry of Christ into Jerusalem. Another interesting ilem is a flute and clarinet played in the church by a parishioner in 1841 and recently presented to the church authorities by the owner's grandson.
Back into England again-to Eardisland, where George and Doris Fearn were waiting. A good peal of Lincolnshire was rung here, fine bells in a very pretty village. It rivals Weobley, three or four miles away, for beauty, so Danny drove us through Weobley so that we could judge for ourselves. Another peal was in progress at Burghill, rung for the 150 th anniversary of the rebuilding of the tower. which collapsed, damaging the Norman lead font ; it was also Richard's 200th tower for a peal. Refreshments were afterwards provided by one of the local ringers, whose father-in-law, a keen follower of ringing and looking hale and hearty at 84 years of age. joined the ladies in the coach for a brief trip to Hereford for a 'cuppa,' pointing out local landmarks on the way. including the birthplace of the late Gilbert Harding. now the General Hospital, where his parents lived and worked for a number of years.

WET SHIRTS

On the homeward journey, down came the rain : and a few miles out of Leominster what is this our driver sees?-is it?-no. it can't be-yes!-George and Doris-iheir car has hroken down-and coming towards us in the downpour is Arthur V. P. who had accompanied them, returning from an effort to telephone for help. No use all hands to the plough. hoys-the car must he pushed to a lay-by and remain there till help can be found. So after some delay and a few wet shirts we are ail ahoard and return safely to the Sand ford.

Only one peal attempt could be arranged for

 Wednesday morning, and that a 6 -bell one at Bodenham, so there were enough to spare for a good pull at Lugwardine and Hereford Cathedral. On the journey between Craven Arms and Lugwardine a handbell peal was rung on the coach! At Hereford Cathedral it was interesting to note that $S$. $S$. Wesley, composer of much well-loved church music, was once organist.Afternoon peal attempts were at Ledbury, a detached tower. where Bristol was successful. and Leominster-no luck with Yorkshire Royal
-why did that eighth have to run dry? and such good ringing, too. We admired the spacious interior of the Priory Church and its famous ducking stool, last used in 1809.

By this time, almost half-way through the week, many were busy with pen and picture post-card. One wrote a card to his daughter and addressed it to his wife! But the 'twins, having their first real afternoon off, addressed a card to ringing friends in Hillingdon in rhyme:-

Belles and Misters,

Bells and blisters

Rutland gained but Spliced peal missed as
Two swopped over, naughty bangers,
Went and dropped some hefty clangers;
Yorkshire up, the band stone-walled,
Bristol down. Pearson miscalled.
On Tuesday two peals scored
Came afternoon two more on the board,
Wednesday today-Minor this morning,
Seven methods rung, with blisters adorning;
Then ham and eggs-a " luverly", meal,
Sit down to rest-others can peal.

THURSDAY-DELUGE DAY

Raining in torrents when we woke up, and Alick, Keith and Fred $S$. under the weather, too. The first tower was Condover, and it was still pouring when we arrived. Ralph produced a huge red and blue striped umbtella, under which he ferried , us to and from the church door (chorus of 'Here comes the bride' when he brought Joan down the path!). From Condover to Berrington, where Cambridge came to grief through the unstranding of the tenor rope. The roads were narrow and we even had to go through a ford-and it was still raining! Danny. how did you manage it? But we all arrived safely. Not only did we all have a ring but we were able to admire the fine 40 -foot span hammer beam roof. some fine carving in the Cholmondeley tombs and some unusual threc-cornered chairs.
Here we said 'Goodbye' to George and Doris, who could only spend a brief time with us. Their car had been safely repaired in time for the journey home. At Cound a near-perfect peal of seven Surprise Minor methods was brought round. Here there are some unusual mural paintings on the stones of the wall above the chancel arch. Harry Poyner was with us and took the 'spares' to Atcham, a beauty spot on the banks of the Severn, where we enjoyed several touches but were surprised to read on the wall of the ringing chamber that the bells were rehung by the parishioners! A misleading statement-they had, of course, raised the necessary funds for the work to be carried out.
After lunch in Shrewsbury the venue was High Ercall, an anti-clockwise ground floor ring. London, however, was not scored, and the band soon caught up with the rest of the party who were on a tower-grabbing expedition. First call was at Wellington, a grey stone building with well-kept churchyard in the town centre. Here the bells were kept going for three-quarters of an hour. Inside the church in the Lady Chapel, was a well-carved figure of a young lady whose untimely death was at the age of 26 .
This was a lovely sunny afternoon, but did not last, and rain threatened when we reached Coalbrookdale and climbed the steep path to the hillside church. Here we had real music from the fine ring of hells in Stedman and Grandsire Caters and Cambridge Royal ; but after the ringing, what a downpour greeted us outside. with our coach looking like a toy way down on the road below. Back to Wellington for a good supper and home for an early (?) night!

OUTSIDE STAIRCASE

Friday-had our last full day really come? An early start was made on the six at Stokesay. adjoining an ancient castle. Only one peal attempt was fixed for this morning, and met with success. This was 4 -Spliced at Leintwardine, where we said 'Goodbye' to Ralph, who was homeward bound. duty calling that afternoon to both wife and office. A visit to Stanton Lacy, a Saxon foundation, for the rest. where the ringing chamber is reached by means of an outside stone staircase and is very large for a ring of six. An unusual verse fixed to the door of the south porch caught the eye of some of us, and is worth quoting for its simplicity and spiritual meaning :-

Somewhere, somehow, some time each day.
I'll turn aside and stop and pray
That God will make His church this way
A blessing unto men
Friday afternoon was a highlight, with splen-didly-struck Lincolnshire coming home at Kinver. a fine red brick church high above the village-the first in the method on the bells and by Richard as conductor: and equal success on the glorious eight at Claverley, where Bristol delighted the ears of the 'Supporters Club.' rung to celebrate the silver wedding anniversary of Mr, and Mrs. Fred Bennett. By this time even Driver Danny was well attuned to the difference between the good and not-so-good striking of church bells!
A farmhouse supper, a repeat of the ham and eggs which some of us had enjoyed the first night, was fixed by Arthur V. P. through Danny. What a spread and how we enjoyed it! Then we gave a couple of courses on the handbells for the benefit of Mr . Hughes, invalid husband of our hostess. Back at Church Stretton we all said 'Au revoir' to Danny, who had been such a wonderful and co-operative driver throughout the week: and Danny hopes to have the pleasure of driving us again some day. Sybil Knox had now arrived, and joined in our last night jollifications and settling up. during which we listened to one member's impressions of the company, told in rhyme.

To the peal attempts on Saturday morning in our cars, for we would all be homeward bound later; but not before our number was depleted yet again by the departure of Ron and Nellie Bullen and the trio from NewcastleKenneth, Alan and Fred R. Market Drayton's fine ring sounded out London from $11.20 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. -a joyous greeting for Sybil and Dennis Knox on their sixth wedding anniversary, and round in time to greet a local bride as she arrived for her wedding. In a café neur the church the ladies heard a gentleman remark when he came in for his lunch: "What are the bells ringing for-because the sun is shining?' Sounds as though they had had more rain than shire recently! Cheswardine was visited, but no peal was possible owing to a wedding: so those concerned took a trip to Ecclechall. Then after lunch it really was goodbye' all round. after another happy and successful week. K. M. L

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

For the autumn meeting the Eastern Branch visited Acle. where the handy ring of six, which is hung in a 'tower within a tower,' was soon ringing to suit all tastes and talents. The service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. E. W. Alexander), who also acted as organist.
The Branch chairman (Mr. E. R. Goate) presided at the business meeting, and amongst ihose present was the Association president (Mr. F. Nolan Golden). Mr. P. Seuneke and Miss S. Courtney were elected to ringing membership of the Association.
The members stood in silence as a tribute to the memory of Mr, R. C. Boggis, of Beccles. who had died since the previous meeting.

After considerable discussion it was agreed to hold a striking competition at Acle on November 3 rd. Subject to satisfactory arrangements being made. the next meeting will be held at Pakefield on December 1st.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Rector, churchwardens, Mr. Lidbetter and the Misses M. and D. Lidbetter for the excellent tea arrangements.

Autumn Outings

BROMHAM, BEDS

On September 8th the ringers of Bromham, Beds. staged their second outing of the year (half a day, this time!), when a visit was made to the Essex area.

The first cower was Benington, Herts, where several touches were enjoyed : then on to Great Dunmow, whose noble tower contains a very fine ring of eight: after which, tea was taken at Braintree
The excellent eight at Coggeshall next claimed our attention: this tower was almost completely demolished by enemy action during the war. and one felt that archisect, builders, bellhangers and, not least, the local residents who footed the bill, were to be congratulated on an excellent job. Further ringing was enjoyed at Sible Hedingham, asother fine octave. and lastly at Great Yeldham.
On this lovely September afternoon the beauties of the English countryside, with the gentle undulations of this area, and the attractive gardens ablaze with flowers, were much admired by all. Our thanks are due to Frank W. Rivett for his excellent arrangements, to the incumbents by whose permission we rang on some very fine bells, and to the local ringers who so heartily welcomed us. A.E.R

FLOOKBURGH, LANCS

The annual outing, which has been arranged for the last three years by Mr. Thomas F. Metcalfe, of Floakburgh. North Lancashire, was held on September 29 th, the venue being the Preston and Blackburn Branches of the Lancashire Association. The coach left Flookburgh Parish Church at $7.55 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. and picked up members at various points, including Mr and Mrs. Ted Procter, at Kirkby Lonsdale.

From Kirkby we proceeded to Lancaster by way of Harnby, with its octagonal rower and prominent castle, and Claughton, with the little furret containing two bells (one of which is the oldest dated bell in the country. I296).
Wilf Bolton. from Silverdale, and David. from Morecambe, joined the party at Lancaster and we arrived at our first tower, Goosnargh. at $10.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. The bells are a very nice six. The next tower was Whalley (a lovely eight). and then came a pienic lunch.
We were not too happy at Padiham (8), where three of us tried to control the 71 h . but found it beyond us. We had to be content with the front six. Then on to Rishton, another grand eight. Here we had a little mishap. The $4 t h$ going over with Ted. giving him a nasty wrench. On going aloft, it was discovered that the stay had fallen out. being held in by wedges only. We replaced it and carried on again.
At Blackburn Cathedral we were met by that young seventy-odd-year-old, Arthur Tomlinson. and the head ringer at the Cathedral, John Halliwell. With their assistance we rang Plain and Kent Major, Grandsire Triples and rounds and Queens on the ten. An enjoyable hour. Tea was then hunted for at various cafes until 5.30 p.m., when we left for our last tower. Walton-le-Dale. arriving dead on time, at 6 p.m.
During the long run home, via Lancaster. Kirkby Lonsdale and Cartmel. there was singing for much of the journey to harmonica accompaniment, and Flookburgh was reached at $9.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. We had glorious sunshine all day, until within 30 miles of home when it started to rain. in torrents. The last straw came when the Branch secretary tried to start came when the Branch secretary tried to start o:1 all day! Again Tommy had to come to the rescue and give it a low to get it going. The members of the party are most grateful to the organiser, and also to the incumbents

BECKENHAM, KENT

Saturday, September 22nd, turned out to be a bright day in spite of a depressing forecast, and the standard of ringing was in keeping with the weather

At Christ Church. Epsom (8, 113 cwt .), all methods went well at a brisk pace on this good eight up to Cambridge, and at Charlwood (6, $12 \frac{3}{3} \mathrm{cwt}$.) a wide range of methods up to London was successful. After lunch at 'the local' we went to Crawley ( $8,13 \frac{3}{3} \mathrm{cwt}$ ), where an early arrival allowed us to see something of the new lown and to hear some good striking by the local hand for a wedding, after which they joined us in methods from Grandsire to Yorkshire.

Next came the very fine ten at Reigate ( $19 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.), where we were disappointed that we had not allowed more time to enjoy this ring, for Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Plain Boh and Treble Boh Royal all went like clockwork. The eight ( 18 cwt .) at Bletchingley proved difficult to handle, but in spite of this we were able to maintain a good standard in most methods.

Dinner at the King's Arms, Westerham, was the next item: and this. 100 , was in keeping with the spirit of the day, a royal feast to match the appetites which had developed. In fact, the first touch on Westerham's heavy eight ( 233 cwt .) did not go 100 well, but served to work off the effects of the meal : and thereafter all went well, including Duffield as a grand finale.

A final 'well done!' to Percy Cave for his efficient organisation: we are looking forward to next year
D. G.B.

MARLBOROUGH BRANCH

Favoured with beautiful weather, until the early hours of the evening, the annual outing of the Marlhorough Branch took place on September 29 th and was, once again, a most successful affair
Two coaches were needed to accommodate the party of around 70 . consisting of memhers, their wives, husbands, families and friends. After picking up throughout this widely scattered area, which includes the Rural Deaneries of Pewsey and Marlborough. the coaches met at Marlborough at $8 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. The chosen destination was Weston-super-Mare and its neighbourhood, with Burrington as the first tower on the list. After a halt at Chippenham, for tea and coffee. a lovely ride through the smiling apple orchards of Somerset, laden with fruit, ensued and Burrington was reached a little behind schedule. The good six here, of moderate weight. were soon going to various Plain methods. To the next slopping place, Churchill, we were accompanied by the Burrington tower captain.
Here again some good ringing was enjoyed and, as the time was now 11.30, half the panty adjourned to a local hotel for lunch, leaving the other half ringing. This procedure was reversed at $12.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. The meal was thoroughly enjoyed, as was the ringing, and a move was made for Banwell at 2 p.m. This is a noble tower. 100 feet high, and contains a lovely ring of eight, with a tenor of 23 cwt . Most of the party being from six-bell towers it was gratifying to be able to record some good touches of Grandsire Triples. Tea was taken in Weston at 4 p.m.. and at 6 a visit was paid to St. Martin's. Worle. the last tower of the day. The light six were put to good use during a stay of just under an hour.
The weather now took a turn for the worse and the journey home was accompanied by pouring rain and high winds. The outing was organised by the Branch honorary secretary (Mr. T. A. Palmer), who was ably seconded on the day by the chairman (Mr. G. Newman). Grateful thanks are due to both.

SCOTTISH RINGING TOLR

Dear Sir,-l hope Mr. Wilson will believe me when I say that I was extremely sorry to hear of the unreasonable attitude adopted by the authorities at Dunblane as a result of our peal there in August. In case he thinks otherwise, 1 would mention that we did not outstay our allotted time of ringing: in fact the peal began three minutes late and finished one minute early.

I should not like anyone to think that the reaction at Dunblane is at all typical of those at the towers where we rang. At every other tower we received a warm and friendly welcome and, so far as I know, the only other adverse comment was in the form of a single letter to the local paper at Dundee, and that appeared to be the work of a humorist rather than a genuinely irate citizen. Our ringing at Inverness indeed so pleased the local residents that very many of them spent some time during the peal listening to the bells, from a nearby vantage point which had been recommended for this purpose in the local press! I wonder if any other touring party can boast of such an experience?-Yours faithfully.

MINOR METHODS THAT DO NOT CONFORM

Dear Sir.-I am pleased to read of Mr. Brand's interes! iil the Minor methods we ring around Barnsley, and the reason the six $h 3$ mentions are not in the C.C. Collection is that they have not Plain Bob lead ends. However, all the methods have been rung consistently for many years, i.e. City Delight and Duke of York at Wath-on-Dearne 1815, Duke of Leeds at Cawthorne 11883, Tanners Pleasure at Bramley 1905, Queen Bess at Wath 1905. These are a few instances culled from Yorkshire Association reports and peal boards, etc. In Jasper Snowdon's first peal. in seven methods, 1872, he included Duke of York, a method we often ring at Cawthorne for Sunday service.
As the notation shows. Duke of Leeds is (Duke of) Clarence with a 4 th place LJ. and a 6 th place boh. We do not ring this method for sheer perverseness, but because we find it easier. The methods nearly conform to C.C. standards; they are symmetrical, no 5 th place made unless the treble is in 6th, but, of course, all the bells are not in the same coursing order at the lead end and they have not the 'magic' lead end (quote Mr. Peake).

Regarding the origin and history of these and other Minor methods there may be some notes in the early editions of Jasper Snowdon's - Standard Methods' and perhaps some fortunate person who possesses a copy may be able to throw some light on these old and loved methods.-Yours faithfully,
M. F. MOXON

TWO GREAT LOSSES

Dear Sir.-It is impossible for me to express in writing how much our art will miss the enthusiasm which for years has been shown by Mr. A. E. Sellers (Beverley. E. Yorks) and Mr. W. A. Richardson (Brigg, Lincs). The death of both comes as a great shock, not only to me but to the hundreds of people who knew them.

Our sympathy goes to all relatives, who can be justly proud of the high esteem in which they were both held.-Yours, etc.

HEAVY SIXES AND FIVES

Dear Sir,-Following the suggestion in the postscript of Mr. Brain's letter (' R.W. $\therefore$ Sept. 28th), I have set down a list of the heaviest rings of six and five. All weights are taken from the third edition of Dove's Guide.

Rings of six of 24 cwt . and over:-
Queen Camel, Somerset: 36-3-7.
Brailes, Warwicks: 29-0-19.
Hoar Cross, Staffs: 28-1-7.
Bedwyn Magna. Wilts: 28 cwt
Wing, Bucks: 28 cwt.
Oxford (St. Mary-the-Virgin) : 27 cwt .
Great Missenden. Bucks: 26-3-0.
Semley, Wilts: 26-1-0
Bruton. Somerset: 25-3-1
Clive. Salop: 25-0-9
Colyton. Devon: 24-3-16.
Stogursey, Somerset : 24-0-5
Doulting. Somerset: 24 cwt
Montacute, Somerset: 24 cwt
Rings of five of 20 cwt . and over:-
Peterborough Cathedral: 30 cwt .
East Pennard, Somerset: 28 cwt .
East Bergholt, Suffolk: 25 cwt .
Thorncombe, Dorset: 21-0-24.
Leighton Bromswold. Hunts: 21 cwt
Little Walsingham. Norfolk: 21 cwt
Mancetter. Warwicks: $20 \pm$ cwt.
Cheselbourne, Dorset: High Ham, Somerset ; Hickling, Norfolk: Isleham. Cambs; Ludham, Norfolk: Market Weston, Suffolk: Shillington, Beds: all 20 cwt .

Of these, Peterborough. East Pennard. Cheselbourne and Market Weston are given as unringable, and East Bergholt bells are hung for ringing (and are rung) by actually swinging the bells through the full circle with the hands in a wooden cage in the churchyard.

I shall be pleased to learn of any omissions or inaccuracies.-Yours sincerely.
C. K. ROGERS.

Isleworth.

Dear Sir.-I was very pleased to note that my somewhat inaccurate list of heavy eights proved interesting to some readers. I would like to point out that Frome, Somerset. was omitted from my list because it is under 28 cwt. (27-2-22 in fact).

I did, however, miss the following: Westminster Abbey, Doncaster St. George's (as pointed out by one reader). Durham Cathedral 30 cwit., Lancaster Priory 31-0-14, and Lymm. Cheshire, 29-3-8. With the list previously published and these additions, I believe this to be a correct and complete list of eights, of 28 cwt. and over.-Yours sincerely,

R. KINGSLEY MASON

Leicester

Note. - Mr. R. Kingsley Mason also submits a list which contains, in addition to those mentioned above: Portbury. Somerset (6), 24 cwt.: West Pennard, Somerset (6), 24 cwt.: Isleham, Cambs (5), 25 ewt.: Hemington, Somerset, Minster-in-Thanet, Kent. Mumby, Lincs, Piddletrenthide and Powerstoak. Dorset. Su:ton Bonington. Notts, which are all approximately one ton. As Peterborough and East Pennard cannot be rung Isleham is the heaviest ringing five.

Dear Sir--Altogether there are 59 rings of six listed in 'Dove' with tenors over a ton. Of these, 21 are in Somerset. Next come its two neighbouring counties of Wiltshire. with eight. and Gloucestershire (including Bristol). with five. These counties, together with Dorset and Devon. account for 40 of the 59 heaviest sixes. The other 19 may be roughly divided as follows: South and South-east England 6. Hereford. Worcs and Salop 3, Eastern England 4. Midlands 5, Northern England 1.

Does this put the Northerners in their place? The heaviest six in the North appears to be Wylam-on-Tyne (Northumberland), at 22-0-23.
I have omitted Hemington. Somerset. from my list of fives which. though claimed as 20 cwt. in 'Dove,' is given as 16 cwt . in the current Bath and Wells report. Although the heavy fives are distributed more evenly than the sixes, Somerset again comes out on top. The Northerners have an answer yet, however, there being a five at Smalley, Derbyshire, with a tenor of 40 cwt .1 qr .2 lb . in B. unfortunately hung for chiming only.Yours sincerely,

DAVID E. HOUSE.
Southampton
Note.-Mr. House also submits a list of five- and six-bell towers, which have been mentioned above.

SPLICED MINOR

Dear Sir,-I thank Mr. Roast for the kind words in the opening paragraph of his lettereven though they came only at the very end of it!

Let me assure both Mr. Roast and Mr. Peake that I have nothing but admiration for both them and their respective bands and wish them every success. I find myself in agreement with much that is in both their letters.

With regard to irregular methods, I am still as fond of them as ever I was and, like Mr. Peake, see no reason why they should not be included in record attempts. The C.C., however, seems to have placed some veto on them and I merely pointed out that as long as this remains it is only fair that the same embargo should apply to single-change methods, to which they are far superior. (Except in 'magic' lead ends!)

There is. of course, nothing to prevent both Mr. Roast and Mr. Peake from ringing the latter methods if they wish, but I dislike them (the methods; not Mr. R. and Mr. P.!) and will have none of them. It annoys me, I confess, to see them pushed into arrangements upon which has been spent more time and thought than dozens of so-called compositions (taken collectively!) , on higher numbers that appear in the 'R.W.'

Contrary to Mr. Roast's suggestion, they are not really of ' comparatively recent introduction' as, in fact. many early methods consisted of single changes. I have one (with 'non-magic' lead ends) on the T.B. principle. that was published in the middle of the last century.

I have no greater love for Bastow and Kent L.C. than has, apparently, Mr. Roast. although. placed as they are in odd snatches in some of the 'more complex extents' they are not exactly ohild's play to ring. Their advantages. in that they allow methods which, even if some are 'fiddles on Callege Exercise:' are more interesting to ring than others with 40 blows in 5-6. outweigh, I think. their disadvantages.
With 'bobbed, and 'singled' leads I hold no brief. May I simply say that the 125 on tower and 130 'in hand' could both have been increased by adding at least one of these. It is a matter of principle.

I was amused to read (p. 644) the letter by Mr. P. A. Brand describing certain methods which "do not appear to have had a wide enough currency to have been published before."
No doubt Mr. Brand will be receiving a reply from Mr. Moxon; I will content myself with giving the ancestry of the methods mentioned.
City Delight. 'Campanologia,' 1702.
Duke of York, Thackrah. 1852. 'Art of Change Ringing.'

Tanners' Pleasure and Duke of Leeds (also called Evening Exercise), were among a collection of methods published in "The Bell News' in 1882-3 by one W. Walker, of Leeds.
Queen Bess (also called Prince Imperial) of somewhat similar age and certainly in Wm. Woodcock's notebook about the turn of the century.
Thackrah's note on Duke of York may be of interest. "This peal was composed by the Author of the present work, in the year 1794 and was first rung at Dewsbury, by the Society of Change Ringers of that place. on the twenty-second day of September, in the same year. being the Coronation of his Majesty King George III.'-Yours sincerely.
H. CHANT.

HANDBELL ARRANGEMENTS

In response to various enquiries, we aré printing a few simple arrangements for carols on twelve bells which, it is hoped. may be helpful. A little study of the method of arrangement will enable anyone to score out any tunes they may wish for any occasion.

It will be observed that the bells are numbered from treble to tenor in fours and not from 1 to 12 (or T.), and if learned in this manner there is no difficulty in switching any four to any performer.

The unbracketed figures are the melody itself, and those in brackets are a suggested simple harmony. It may be that a team would not wish to render harmonised versions, in which case the bracketed figures would be omitted. On the other hand, a team may wish to make their harmonies a little more ornate than the ones offered. The brackets would of course be omitted in the actual scoring of tunes with harmonies.

In scoring out, the figures should be from a third to half an inch, on cards for preference, and in different coloured ink. For example, the top four could be in green, the middle four in red, and the bottom four in black.
Musical knowledge is not essential for this method provided the performer has a musical ear (i.e., is not 'tone-deaf'), but is of course an advantage. The only musical signs necessary are a dot after a note to indicate a slight pause, half a note length in value, between it and the next note, a dash to indicate no note at all, and a ' *' between two or more notes to indicate that they are each struck within the space of half a normal note.
Care must be taken that all the bells are struck cleanly, and those used in harmony are all struck together, as otherwise the effect will be ragged instead of crisp, and every attention must, be paid to rhythm.
If, instead of each performer having four bells, the team have one bell only in each hand, two performers would share one line. but tune-ringing is much more interesting and satisfying if each performer has four bells.
Where tunes requiring more than the usual twelve bells are wanted, it is merely a matter of extending the above method by ene or more lines, still keeping to the 1.2.3.4 notation.
N.B.- 'See, amid the Winter Snow' and Good King Wenceslas' have not been harmonised but are examples of melody only. It will be found quite easy to insert harmonies, using the previous examples.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

The Newark District has recently been very fortunate with the weather for its meetings, and September 22nd was a fine, sunny day. The bells open for the afternoon and evening were the six hung in the red brick church of Winthorpe, and over 30 ringers had assembled by service time at 4.30 . This was conducted by the new Rector, the Rev. Dillwyn Davies, wha afterwards helped us dispose of a really delicious ize, prenared by local ringers and helpers.

At the business meeting the secretary said that Southwell bells were not available for the meeting on November 17th. The Provost had offered them for November 24th, but it was decided, after a vote, not to change the date. and to hold the meeting at North Muskham instead.

Ringing catered mainly for the younger members. of whom there were several present, including some of the recently re-formed local band.

THE SMITHS THE STORY OF A RINGING FAMILY By I. N. QUICK

The contest is in progress at Netherton Church, with six teams competing. Problems of judging, which were included in our last instalment, are continued this week.

TRIBULATIONS

These wibulations were accepted cheerfully by judges as part of the natural order of things; but others sometimes occurred which were more serious, so that, if you have tears, prepare to shed them now, whilst we mention but a few! The chief source of these troubles stemmed from lack of thought or knowledge in choosing a room or position from which the judges could comfortably hear the bells.

W:th an established tower or head ringer this was no problem at all: he knew from experience where to put the judges. Sometimes, however, a new tower was chosen or the head ringer changed, or the old room for some reason or other was unavailable.

That was when the fun started.

Except that it wasn't always funny!
Judges?', the (new) head ringer would say, scratching his head as though the necessity for them was a thought that had just arrived inside it (as it probably was), oh yes, judges! Well, I don't rightly know, Couldn't they sit in church under the tower?
And it would be gently explained to him that these important people must be undisturbed; furthermore, they musn't be in a position to observe who were ascending the tower or, almost as important, who were not.
The vicar was sure to be on holiday and the vicarage locked up. and, as the nearby school was heing used for tea. a frantic search would begin in a disused wooden garage with a tin roof in somehody's hackyard, fuli of monstrous spiders which descended from monstrous when driven from their lairs by the clouds of tobacco smoke (and who can blame them?), seeking refuge in the hair of the judges or down the back of their collars.
Intermittently the roof would rattle and the sound of the bells fade in the gusty high wind, and whoever was judging at this juncture would be comperled to stick his head out of the broken window in order to hear properly and pull it back again to call out a fault, which operation would render bim in great peril of decapitation by the jagged broken glass round the edges of the frame
Or perhaps the church would be isolated. the nearest available building being so far away that it would make continuous hearing of the bells almosit impossible. So the judges would be installed in a private car down a bylane near the church, where the 4th bell near the louvres just above them would howl down its companions. nearly driving the poor judges demented into the bargain.
Then there was the parson who would have everything thoughtfully arranged with deckchairs on the lawn and a big umbrella sunshade, a card table, demonade and a case of bottled ale
Unfortunately he would persist in mowing the lawn with a motor-mower possessing a staccato engine that sounded like a Lewis gun and which backfired every few seconds, ejecting a cloud of smoke. with a noise like that of an H-bomb (and an appearance not disof an H-bomb (and an appearance not dissimilar). Every time tho parson and his machine went past he would wave and give them a cheerful grin and say. 'I hope you don't mind!" or he would stop and have a chat about his petunias or his herbaceous border shouting at the top of his voice in order to make himself heand above the noise of the engine.
Or maybe the children would be using the lawn as a playground, with strict instructions that they ' mustn't disturb the two gentlemen. but they would run screeching up and down and every now and then the ball with which they were playing would bounce in the middle of the table scattering its contents; or a breeze (force 8) would spring up which performed a similar function to the ball-only more efficiently; or it would start to rain heavily, necessitating a quick netreat to the vicarage.

It is hardly surprising. thought Joe, that most judges preferred a quiet room where they would be reasonably free from interruption. to the apparent (but entirely deceptive) attractions of the lawn.

Renthorpe, who followed Redbank up the tower, made a reasonable showing, thought Joe. A pity they never seemed to overcome the tendency to ring in pairs until the test piece had been going a few minutes! it must have lost them many contests.
Brigton's rise was very shaky, but the best singing of the day so far came from Layton-on-the-Wold. With perfect rhythm and immaculate striking they were producing unbeatable stuff when tragedy struck! There was a sudden stop; a brief and ghastly silence, and then a violent avalanche of sound. Whoever had lost had made a good job of it and, it seemed apparent from the outside, had managed to drive others from their proper paths. It seemed as if the struggle was going to be too much for the ringers as they jumbled on change after change, but gradually from the welter of sounds a pattern began to emerge; an odd bell or two hammered out a rhythm and forced it on their companions unlil there was anly one (it sounded like the 3rd), which sounded as though it was being bounced about like a ping-pong ball in a roulette wheel. A few more hesitant blows and he was back in place, but of course the damage had been done, as was obvious to all ringers outside the tower, as it must have heen to those inside.

As Layton lowered the bells, Joe led the Hexworth team round to the belfry door where Walter Hardaker was waiting with the key to unlock it to let out the Layton team and lock it again after the Hexworth team had gone up. He gave Joe a duplicated copy of a summary of the procedure prepared by John Chappell. which each team received as it went up the tower in order to ensure that there would be no misunderstanding.

CONTEST PROCEDURE

Joe read it through carefully, repeating it aloud for the benefit of the rest of the team. (1) Raise and set the bells in peal.
(2) Each ringer three whole pulls.
(3) Test piece 360 changes any Minor method.
(4) Lower bells in peal.

It was well known that penalties ranging from 5 to 10 faults could be imposed for not ringing the full five minutes in raising and lowering, failing to set the bell after three whole pulls, exceeding two minutes round ringing before starting test piece, or failing to set the bells after a whole pull rounds at the end of it.

The conductor from another team who was there, ostensibly, to see that the Test piece was rung true fa task that would hive been beyond the capacity of a few if any but 'standard calling had been used), would also, if required. give warning of time limits be ng reaohed. or exceeded. although many conductors preferred to rely upon their own watches.

Joe, in particular, could well remember the first time that Hexworth had entered a contest some 35 years ago, when he was a young and comparatively inexperienced ringer. For some (now forgotten) reason he supervising conductor disappeared at the critical moment and Walter Hardaker was sent up in his place. Seeing that Walter's knowledge of changes was limited to the first twelve of Bob Minor, it is difficult to imagine how he could have checked the truth of the 720 of Oxford Treble Bob that the Hexworth team were hoping to sing. Still, there he was, and big ' Zac' Smart. who was conducting from the tencr, asked him if he, would warn them after one and a half minutes of round ringing had taken place as an additional precaution against the danger of overrunning the fatal two minutes.

Walter sat down immediately behind "Zac," peering at a large tumnip watch which he held about two inches from the end of his nose. After the one and a half minutes had elapsed he shouted in a firm clear voice

Go next time!'
Now it is all very well to say that the ringers should have been able to distinguish between the voices of Walter and Zac, and eherefore ignored Walter's instruction, but in one's first contest, when one is all strung up. like an upright grand piano, one is hardly in a position to make a detailed study of the contrasting timbre of people's voices on the spur of the moment. If some of the foolish were deceived, an least some of the wise were not. with the result that at the next handstroke Zac observed to his horror that about half the team were stanting to ring changes, whilst the remainder were continuing with rounds.

He bawled out something in a stentorian voice, but nobody ever discovered what it was for at that precise moment everything seemed to happen at once. Those that had started to ring changes. realising with a flash of inspiration what was happening, quickly pulled their bells back into rounds. Alas! the others with a similar illuminating flash. started to ring changes. Moreover those that were now ring ing changes told the others that they were ringing changes and those that were ringing rounds told the others that they were ringing rounds. This exchange of information, in teresting in itself, didn't help matters forward very much. Meanwhile the bells above rejoiced and the rooks fled to the rookery in terror.

Outside, the older ringers sighed and shook their heads.
But all good things must come to an end. and after a few minutes of this heavenly music. Zac decided that it was time to stand and he set his beH accordingly. As there wasn it much point in continuing without him the others did likewise.
There was a moment of bitter silence, which was broken by Walter:

You made a mess of that, didn't you? Never mind, we've all got to learn!'
And he arose, carefuldy pocketed his watch, and disappeared through the doorway.
The only consalation they derived from their efforts was that they were later congratulated by one of the judges on collecting more faults in a shorter time than any team he had had the pleasure of judging!

The Lay:on team came down the steps and filed silently away

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION Eastern District

The autumn meeting of the Eastern District was held at Hull on September 29th and was atiended by about 30 ringers. The fine ring of 12 was kept going, afternoon and evening. in various methods. The Precentor, Rev. and tea was served in the Manor Cafe.
Mr. H. Walker presided at the business meetjing, held in the Choir School Hall, and mentioned the sad recent passing of the vicepresident, Mr. A. E. Sellers, who was vicepresident for eight years and had been a member for 55 years. The meeting stood in memory and respect of him.

Mr. Walker was unanimously elected to complete the remaining period of office as vice-president.
The following new members were elected: Brian R. Sheppard (Sherburn-in-Elmet), John Bentley and John Askham (Hull), Miss Rhona Sparrow and Miss Jennifer Thackray (Acomb) and Andrew R. Carter (York). The usual votes of thanks were passed. special mention heing made of the choirboys. organist and Precentor, and of Mr. Stipetic for the arrangements.

Next meeting: Hessle (if possible). January 5th; committee meeting, Selby, Friday, October 26th.

RINGING THE CHANGES - AT EASTBOURNE

By T. A. BEVIS

The Eastbournes-old and new-recline beneath generous, rolling slopes of those breezy heights, the South Downs, contours of which dominate the Sussex skvline for many miles.

Old Eastbourne, gracefully aged, has already bequeathed her former responsibilities to her handsome and vigorous seaside offspring, but still treasures the mediæval church in which God has been worshipped for nearly 800 years.
There has been a church on this spot since Saxon times. The present edifice, skirted on its southern flank by a narrow yet busy main road, is thought to have been built by William Neville, treasurer of Chichester Cathedral from 1170 to 1185.
The handiwork within speaks in glowing terms of the severe ingenuity and thoroughness so characteristic of the Norman craftsmen of long ago. Particularly is this style admirably displayed in the double 'dog-tooth' decoration of the chancel arch, while carved capitals and variations of stone in the nave arches has brought forth that expression '... a very fine example of the transitional style from Romanesque to Gothic.'
As with a great many of our fine church buildings. St. Mary's was considerably enlarged in the 14 th century in order to keep pace with the expansion and prosperity of the town at that time. To the Norman nave were added aisles of greater width, together with the last bay of the nave, and the whole satisfactorily balanced by the addition of a massive tower.

Viewing this sentinel from the outside, especially from the west or north, lends the impression to the onlooker that in reality it is indeed the 'Tower of Strength.'

In 1868 the tower was thoroughly overhauled owing to its 'dangerous state through dilapidation.' Its face was scaled of its flaking stones and the battlements rebuilt in 1952-53. The interior work is of local green sandstone, and there is a rare barrel-vaulted ceiling, which unfortunately has been obscured by organ pipes. Above is a spacious ringing chamber reached by a spiral stairway, and over that the belfry, containing a ring of eight bells.

The octave is secured in an excellently-constructed oak frame with provision for a future increase to ten bells. Of pleasing tone, the bells handle well and are regularly rung by a keen band, including several young people.

In 1651 six bells echoed from the tower over a neighbouring inn, The Bull, which has kept the church company for 700 years. These bells were augmented to eight by Mears, of Whitechapel, in 1818.

The treble weighs 5 cwt . and is in the key of $F$; 2nd, $5 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. (E) ; 3rd, 6 cwt. (D) ; 4th, 7 cwt. (C) ; 5th, $8 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. (B) ; 6th, $9 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. (A) ; $7 \mathrm{th}, 11 \mathrm{cwt}$. (G) ; tenor, $15 \frac{3}{3} \mathrm{cwt}$. (F).
On the tenor is inscribed: 'The Revd. A. Brodie, D.D.. 1818, Vicar: T. Baker J. Noakes, Churchwardens: Thomas Mears, London. Founder.

Other bells are inscribed: 'Thomas Mears, London, Fecit, 1818.

On entering the ringing chamber one is impressed by the number of peals artistically recorded on wooden and slate tablets. The earliest is dated 1818 and shows that local ringers took part, but there is little evidence that the Sunday service team rang scientific changes after 1897 until 1946, when several members return from H.M. Forces. Since that time progress has been good, despite the fact that many promising recruits have been obliged to depart to other spheres of employment.

About 26 peals have been successfully brought round-mostly of Grandsire Triples. Several peal boards bear intriguing inscriptions, viz.: Perseverance Conquers all things': "Pleasanter from the Difficulties '; 'Unity is Strength ' ; and 'Virtue Lives beyond the grave.
St. Mary's team actively support the Sussex County Association of Change Ringers, and it is worthy of note that the church has provided four divisional secretaries during the past 25 years.
It is a fact that visitors to Eastbourne have been misled by hearing ten bells ringing from a substantial church tower perched on a hill half-a-mile from St. Mary's. The tower itself is worthy of a ring of bells, but those heard are of St. Peter's Church. Croydon (tenor 30 cwt .)!
Eastbourne has three other octaves: Christ Church ( $8 \frac{1}{t}$ cwt.), All Saints' ( 18 cwt.) and St. Saviour's ( $24 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$, in D). At the last-named church-a fine 19 th century red brick building in the imperishable Gothic tradition-the bells are known as 'Warner's Mistake.' Although a little heavy on the handling side, these resonant instruments are a real pleasure to hear. The sixth has, or had, a liking for discarding its rope to the amusement of onlookers and to the alarm and discomfort of victims - the writer was one!

Youth are well to the fore at Eastbourne; their efforts are creditable and they are to be encouraged.
Campanologists on holiday will be interested to know that St. Mary's ringers' practice night is on Tuesdays, and St. Saviour's team meet on Fridays. A warm welcome is assured.

NOTES FOR BEGINNERS By WILFRID G. WILSON   IN AND OUT OF COURSE - THE NATURE   IN AND OUT OF COURSE - THE NATURE OF THE ROWS

Plain Bob Major.-If you write out a lead of Plain Bob on eight bells you will see that the rows are produced by the alternate changing of four pairs and three pairs of bells. This means that you get two plus rows and two minus rows alternately. Bobs do not upset this. So, as in Plain Bob Minor, although half the rows are even and half are odd, you can only get half the total possible changes by Bobs only. It also means that you can always double any true length produced by Bobs by calling two Singles at corresponding places without fear of repetition, because the rows with the treble in any particular position will be of opposite nature between the Singles.
Perhaps I have now reached the stage in my explanations and examples when I can refer to the other confusing aspect of the use of the terms In Course and Out of Course. We have seen that we can only get half our rows without Singles. Some of these rows are odd and some are even, but all of the lead-ends are even and of course all of the course ends are even. So notwithstanding that we have some odd rows inside the leads we call all these leads In Course leads and the courses In Course courses. And we say that the bells are in course when they are ringing changes which produce these in course lead-ends. When we have called one Single we produce lead-ends and course ends which are odd (though half the changes inside the leads are even), so these leads and courses are Out of Course ones and we say that the bells are out of course. As rounds is an in course row we cannot get the bells round if they are out of course, without calling another Single.

IV. GRANDSIRE

We have seen in previous articles that the Grandsire method, though very different in ringing, is simply Plain Bob with an additional bell in the hunt. This turns the seconds place into thirds place, the $3-4$ dodges into $4-5$ ones, $5-6$ dodges into $6-7$ ones, etc. But this addition makes a considerable difference when we consider the nature of the rows. rows are prodoubles.-All our ceding produced from the prepairs row by changing two Double changes. Therefore all the rows are of like nature. And Bobs do not upset this. Therefore as rounds is even all the changes produced by plain and bob leads are even also. We are therefore limited to 60 of the possible 120 changes, and to obtain the other 60 we must use Singles. At a Single only one pair of bells change. so all our rows become odd ones until another Single is called. So at least two Singles are necessary to obtain the 120 changes

Grandsire Triples.-If you write out a lead of this you will find that each row is produced by changing three pairs of bells (i.e., triple changes) and the rows produced are therefore alternately odd and even. As this means that the two rows when the treble leads are an odd one and an even one, it looks as though it one and an even one, it looks as though it would be possible to get all 5,040 changes would be possible to get all 5,040 changes without Singles. And for many years many clever ringers tried to do this, and it was left to a mathematician (W. H. Thompson) to produce a treatise to prove that it was not possible to get a peal of Grandsire Triples with common Bobs only. It is in fact possible to get nearly 5,000 changes with Bobs only-Holt's 'Origiaal' composition has in fact 4.998 changes up to the first Single. It is not practicable to give Thompson's proof' here, even were I competent to, but a simple way of showing that it is most unlikely is sufficient for me. The normal way to produce extra courses after the plain course, and with as few Bobs as possible, is to call a set of three Bobs on the same thre bells. This adds two courses to the original one. If you call three more Bobs on three other bells you add two more courses. Therefore you have one course, plus two, plus two plus two, etc.-always an odd number of courses. But 5,040 changes equals 360 courses which is an even number.
Another useful point to note in conducting is that if you want to call a touch which comes round at handstroke you must call at least one Single, because otherwise the handstrokes of the treble's lead are always odd, while rounds is even.

Grandsire Caters.-This method consists of continuous quadruple changes (four pairs of hells change each time), so all the rows produced from rounds by plain or bob leads are even. Two things follow from this. You can not get the extent of the changes withoun Singles and you can double any touch produced by Bobs, if you use two or any even number of Singles, without repetition. But you must put the Singles in the right places. of course, and care is needed for this. Because the changes (without Singles) are all of the same changes (without singles) are anl of the same some fixed bells to help, you could have repetition of changes between the first half of one lead and the second half of another when the treble is in the same position. Whereas in Triples the corresponding parts of the first and second halves of the leads are of opposite nature and could not be duplicates.

V. STEDMAN

Doubles.-All the changes are double changes, so all the rows in the plain course are even ones. The plain course, having 60 changes, has all those even rows. Bobs affect the order of three bells and Singles affect the order of two. In Stedman we do not allow the calls to affect the front three bells. In Doubles there are only two other bells-so we can only use Singles. The effect of the Single is for the bells concerned to lie still, so only one pair (out of the three bells in front) is able to change, and this alters the nature of the rows to odd ones At least iwo Singles are therefore necessary to obtain the extent of 120 changes.

 changes are triple changesthree pairs of bells concerned. so the rows are al ternately plus and minus. The same arguments apply as we used for Grandsire Triples (see this page) and, although we can get nearly 5,000 changes with Bobs only, we need at least two Singles for the extent of 5,040 . Similarly, if we want to bring the bells home at handstroke we need at least one Single. as all the handstrokes in a plain course or Bob touch are odd.VI. TREBLE BOB

Kent T.B. Minor.-In plain and bob leads the odd and even rows are mixed in a fairly regular pattern, as you can see. But if you look at the four rows when the treble is leading you will note that two are plus and two are minus. And one of the two plus rows is at handstroke and one at backstroke. And one of the two minus rows is at handstroke and one at backstroke. The same thing applies at the four rows when the treble is in seconds place and so on. It will be seen. therefore, that all the even rows and all the odd rows are obtainable by Bobs only, which is why in Treble Bob we do not use Singles. They are unnecessary, except to get freak results.

Treble Bob Major.-Space precludes us from writing out leads of either Kent or Oxford Treble Bob Major, but you will find it well worth while to do so. As in the Minor you will find that the odd and even rows are mixed and you may be surprised to find that the mix ing is more regular in Oxford than in Kent. But Singles are not necessary for the same reason as in Minor  Surprise methods are methods on the treble bob principle, and if you write out leads of any of them you will find that the same remarks

 apply to them and that Singles are not needed.
VII. CONCLUSION

A knowledge of the operation of this business of in and out of course changes, and the ability to recognise certain well-known rows as odd or even, will help you to call touches round more easily or to check whether the bells are right or not. You do not, of course, have to try to keep track of all the changes of pairs since the beginning of the touch. The nature of a row depends upon its differcnce from rounds, not in the number of rows you rang to get to it. It is easy to see that the row 124356 is one pair of bells removed from rounds. So even if rounds was a long way away, you would know that this was an out of course row.
Certain simple rows are always appearing in our touches, and if we can recognise them and their nature we shall find conducting and calling round much easier. The simplest touch of Plain Bob (on any number of bells, but for brevity we will use Minor) consists of three courses joined together by Bobs at the course ends.

\begin{array}{ll}
\text { First course end } & 42356 \\
\text { Second course end } & 34256 \\
\text { Third course end } & 23455
\end{array}

These rows are all backstroke rows of the treble's lead and are therefore even rows. But we know that in Plain Bob Minor the handstroke row when the treble leads is also even (it is only different by two pairs of bells from he backstroke row). So we can write down our three course ends, with the preceding handstrokes inserted, and know that they are all even or plus rows:-

NOTES FOR BEGINNERS

If you compare these two groups you will see that the first group of three, the even ones (except, of course, for 234) has all the bells out of their normal thome position and two changes of pairs would be needed to get rounds.

And in the second group. each of the three odd rows has one bell 'at home' and you need only change one pair of bells to get rounds, So if you meet a course end with the bells striking 423 or 342 and the other bells at home, you will know that you can call your touch round with Bobs only. But if you meet a course end with the bells striking 432, 324 or 243, and the other bells at home, you will need a Single to get them round.
Now to conclude-but 1 hop: not to confuse more- I must mention another use of the expression out of course. If there has been a mistake in the ringing and two bells (or more) are out of order, they are said to be out of course, meaning simply out of the path or course which they should have been taking. That would apply whatever the nature of the rows and has nothing directly to do with the subject of our anticle.
May I just repeat to our beginners-the secret of learning about figures is to use them with pen and paper.

OBITUARY

MR. R. W. GREEN
The death occurred at Brighton recently of Mr. Robert W. Green, aged 78. He was for many years a member of the bands at St . Paul's Cathedral, London, where he rang in a peal in 1928, and at Westminster Abbey; buti unfortunately, soon after the war, he became blind, which put an end to his ringing career. However, he still retained a keen interest in ringing and the College Youths, to whom he would always send greetings at Christmas. He was remembered by those who knew him as an immaculate striker, especially on the fifth at St. Paul's, when that bell was going really badly, and as a fine character.
As a final tribute to Mr. Green, members of the Ancient Society of College Youths carried out half-muffled ringing at St. Paul's Cathedral on September 27th.

MR. WILLIAM 1. ROBINSON

The names of some ringers are household words. Their doings and writings appear regularly in "The Ringing World,' and ringing would be the poorer without them. Others are unheard of outside their immediate locality, yet perform just as important service to ringing by their devoted Sunday service and unfailing regularity over the years. Such a one was Bill Robinson, who served Christ Church. Epsom, for over 55 years. He supported the tower through good times and bad, and although he found the steps too much for him in the last two years he had the satisfaction of knowing that a band of enthusiastic youngsters were keeping the bells ringing. May they prove as loyal as he was.

Bill rang his first peal 50 years ago and had been a member of the Surrey Association ever since. He also joined the Guildford Guild soon after its formation. At the funeral service at Epsom Cemetery Chapel on October Sth these bodies were represented by Mr. Frank Oakshott, District Master and Christ Church captain, and Mr. W. Parrott, District secretary and Christ Church secretary. Among the wreaths was one from the Guild and one from the local ringers.

His kindly ways and sympathetic encouragement to learners will be sadly missed. W. P.

MR. AIBERT E. JARMAN

The death occurred on September 20th of Mr. Albert E. Jarman, at the age of 74, who for many years had been captain of St . Laurence-in-Thanet ringers.

Mr. Jarman commenced his ringing career some $$ 5$ years ago at St . Laurence's and took part in several peals in this and neighbouring towers. Ringing was his main hobby-he was most regular in his attendarces for Sunday and practice ringing-and he took a keen interest in coaching beginners. He was well known in the Canterbury District of the K.C.A. 1ll-health forced him to give up active ringing in 1956, although he continued for a while to visit the tower on practice nights.

Prior to cremation at Basham, a service was held at St. Laurence's on September 24h h, for which the bells were rung half-mufiled.

50 Years Ago

October 4th, 1912 :-
In his letter, which we briefly mentioned last week, relating to the first peal of Stedman at Willenhall on August 14 th, 1880 , Mr. William Rock Small recalls two amusing incidents in connection with the performance. He writes: While ringing the peal the band was much annoyed by the choir boys, who had come to a practice, and continually shouted bob' after the conductor made a call. When they at length desisted, a policeman came into the tower, walked round and look stock of the ringers. The conductor (Mr. Hallsworth) asked him to go down, and eventually he did so. Despite these disurbing incidents a good peal was rung.

After a long lay off from ringing, due to illness, we are pleased to see the name of Herrick B. Bowley, the Ringing Master of Leicester Cathedral, back in the peal columns again. The first peal, that of London Surprise Major, was due to a challenge from the nonringing manager of the Anstey band that Leicester Cathedral band could not ring a peal in the method with their own team.

The new address of Mr. R. H. Duke, hon. secretary, Dorchester Branch, S.D.G., is 1, Came View Road, Dorchester, Dorset. Tel. 158.
A quarter peal of Grandsire Cinques was rung at Painswick on September 23rd, following the 'clipping of the yews' service.

With a peal of Falmouth Surprise Major at Burghill on September 4th, Miss Joan Beresford completed the alphabet in Surprise Major peals.

The first peal on the recast and augmented ring of 12 at Southwell Minster was rung on September 21 st , conducted by Mr. Jack L . Millhouse.
Mr. F. I. Hairs sends a correction to the report on the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral, London (issue August 14th). He points out that the Ancient Society of College Youths has still one female member and aboat 1,250 males. The lady in question is Mrs. Hairs.

An attempt by ringers from Chelsea, Cheshire and Putney to ring a quarter at St. Vedast's, London, for the Festival of St. Michael. came to grief when two bells crossed within the last few minutes. The conductor was, appropriately enough, Michael M. Uphill.
A young ringer, being driven in the family car, was improving the shining hour by figuring out a method he was learning. A younger friend sitting beside him eyed this for some time and at last asked what it was. When James had tried to explain, there was a pause. then: 'Oh well! I suppose if you ask a siliy question you must expect a silly answer!

So far the Ernest Morris Memorial Window Fund stands at $£ 130$, of which $£ 85$ has been contributed by ringers. The appeal was launctied during the holiday period and it is fekt, now engagements are normal and meetings are being held, that ringers both collectively and individually who have not contributed will support the project to commemorate the life of one who did so much to advance our art. Donations should be sent to Mr. Gordon A. Olliffe, 43, Fernhurst Road. Braunstone, Leicester.

The Rev. J. W. Kearns, former Vicar of Almeley, Herefordshire, celebrated his 100 h birthday on September 24 th . A peal of Doubles was rung on Almeley bells in honour of the event.

In the article on the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral the author, Mr. Cysil G. J. Watts, regrets the error regarding the Church of St . Martin Vintry. He thanks Mr. C. W. Hancock, of Tonbridge, for pointing out the error in the title of this church.

It is hoped that the performance of Harry Byrom, in ringing the fifth bell to a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Arlecdon, Cumberland, will be noted by his contemporaries of the Rochdale Branch. to whom he sends his best wishes.
Congratulations to 17 -year-old Miss B Gillian Schofield. of Bradford Cathedral band. who, with a peal of Yorkshire Major, has completed her first 100 peals. Her list includes four of Cambridge Surprise Maximus and two of Spliced Surprise Royal in four and seven methods.

The first quarter by the very happy family of ringers at Welford-on-Avan, Warwicks, was rung on September 29th to mark the silver wedding anniversary of the Rector and Mrs. K. A. Gray. The ringers and friends were afterwards entertained to supper by the Rector, which was very much appreciated.

WEST MALLING RINGERS' DAY OUT

Without mare ado the secretary. Miss Wendy Sweeney, should be thanked for all her hard work in making the arrangements for the West Malling ringers' day out on September 15 th. especially as she did not enjoy the fruits of her efforts.
The experience of earlier tours was certainly not disregarded; such as the value of a map reader (and while we missed Trevor Spooner, his successor, Alec Fry, put up a good performance); a taste of the sea; not too many towers to visit; and a good tea!

East Kent was our 'hunting " ground. and the 41 -seater coach (vice a 36 -seater, so we travelled in extreme comfort) was timed to depart at 8 a.m.. and did so when the tower captain and family arrived-at 8.15! The ten hours which subsequently elapsed before we returned to West Malling were packed with incidents.

Chronological presentation seems appropriate. with continuity provided by The Times ' crossword (No. 10,095), on which the various brains were engaged spasmodically throughout the day. A call at Maidstone to pick up eight more of the party, then away to tower number one, with glimpses of much new roadwork: the Dething By-pass, the Stockbury Valley viaduct under construction, and a detailed, if not intended, examination of intricate lay-outs southeast of Ospringe. But we arrived on time ( $9.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$.) and a fuil hour's ringing on the eight bells (tenor 17 cwt .) was much enjoyed Crossword clue: Pam and Dora show us the way $(4,3)$.

Solution: Road map.
Our second tower was All Saints', Whitstable. with a 7 owt. tenor bell which belied a rather difficult and, for their weight, heavyish six. Arriving a little late. more time was lost in mancuvring chiming hammers (the local tower keeper and expert was away), so ringing was continued only until all had - had a go. A touch of Cambridge Surprise conducted by Mr. Tom Sone was the feature here.

Crossword clue: Given brief hopes of a drink? (6, 2, 3, 3)

Solution: Called to the bar
The next stop was for pienic lunch on Thanet Way, by a convenient hostelry. It was more than entertaining; from a demonstration of the 'hokey-cokey' by some exuberant passengers of another coach. to admiration of a superb Rolls Royce coune hanpy to join the party! So to the sea at Broadstairs-no better spot. The beach was crowded. the water enticing. though with swimsuits at home we were not obliged to put it to the test. It was a tribute to the discipline of the ringers of the party that they were aboard the coach at 3 p.m. for the short trip to St. Peter's-in-Thanet. The Vicar. the Rev. Tom Prichard, was formerly at Boxley, and we were not surprised to see evidence of his energetic enthusiasm: the very large company of singers here is matched by a choir of 36. half of them boys, and the organ is in process of being rebuitt. The bells, tenor 14 cwt., are a pleasant octave, and all tastes were indulged from rounds upwards. Punctually at 4.30 the complete party presented themselves at the Clarendon Hotel and during the next 45 minutes were regaled with ham and egg salad and other delicacies. Thence the coach took a homeward direction
Crossword clue: Laughing for the brave (5). Solution: Water
The coach park at Canterbury is outside the city wall. and walking through the rebuilt streets we voted full marks for the attractive blending of ald and new. The majesty of the great Cathedrad had lost none of its breath-taking power. A Festal Evensong for breath-taking power. A Festal Evensong for Sunday school teachers had just ended and there was an infectious air of life and purpose. A bishop. to judge by his purple attife. spotted a ringing badge on a coat lapel and inquired about it. How delighted he was that the music of voice and organ was to be followed by the music of the bells. We were mst by Mr. B. J. Luck. and after climbing over 70 steps and traversing the nave roof we entered the ringing chamber in the south-west tower. Twelve bells, and twelve ropes, new ropes with crimson sallies awaited our attention. The stretchiness of these ropes was an added complication, but we persevered. and Grandsire Caters on the back ten was creditable.
Crossword clue: Pleased to have slipped by ( 1 ).

Solution: Elapsed

So to Chilham. It was really dark when we arrived ( $8.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. ); the coach evicting its passengers on the main road, leaving us to walk up to this picture postcard village. The eight bells (tenor $19 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.) were a joy to ring, the steady beat of a touch of Grandsir: Triples being adjudged the highlight of the whole day. As we left the church a cheery Vicar wished us goodnight. But the day was not quite over: Chilham's 'Black Horse was the perfect final rendezvous. Soon we were speeding homewards. the crossword addicts still at their puzzle.

Weatherwise. and in every other way it had been a glorious excursion. The West Malling band were delighted to have shared their outing with Alec Fry and three of his new pupils from Leeds, District secretary, Monty Gilbert. and some of his family, Tom Sone, and also with Reg Sills and pupils from Wrotham in their own car. and with Bill Manser, of Barming, who joined us at Canterbury and Chilham. May we pay tribute to the five host towers, their incumbents and ringers, whose gracious hospitality made the day possible, and a final 'Thank you' to our co-operative coach driver.
P.S.-The crossword clue we did not solve: Seeking admittance when doing the rounds (7).

Solution: Ringing!

A BELL INSPECTION OR AN EVENT IN THE LIFE OF A PARISH

THE inquiry asked for a thorough inspection of the bells and expert advice. An appointment was made and in due course the great day (for that parish) came round. I duly arrived at the church, to be received by a reception committee, consisting of the young Vicar, who was recently instituted to the living, the two wardens - one a farmer, of the argumentative type, the other a retired schoolmaster and the captain of the ringers, of whom the farmer said, 'He has looked after these bells for years and what he does not know about bells is not worth knowing.' I soon discovered that he never had rung in any other church tower and knew very little about bells-even before I went up to the bell chamber he had told me what was wrong and how to cure the trouble.
After donning overalls, I climbed the spiral stairs, with its steps badly worn and becoming dangerous. The ringing room was more like a barn and ill-cared for, so I guessed the bell chamber would be no better. My guess was right, the bells were covered in bird droppings and the filth lay on the top members of the old timber bell frame and mixed with sticks brought in by birds that lay on the floor. Even from a casual glance I could see that the frame and fittings of the bells were in an exceptionally poor condition. The timber headstocks were damp and decayed, the iron straps securing the bells almost corroded through, the wheels full of worm and had been patched, with pieces of orange boxes the captain of the ringers informed me, and he was proud of his handiwork. The gudgeons and bearings were smothered in dirty black oil. I asked the captain of the ringers what lubricant he used; he said, "I use good stuff and it does not cost the church a penny.' Then he informed me he went down to the local garage and collected as much old oil, drained from cars, as he needed. When I told him such old oil was useless, the farmer warden asked me what I knew about it, so I shut up.

A close examination of the gudgeons and bearings revealed excessive wear, the gudgeons being quite oval and loose in the headstocks. When I mentioned they were unfit for further use and before I could tell him the headstocks and wheels were in in similar state, the farmer warden said this was impossible, they were all right when grandfather was a ringer. I know I had a right one here. The further I probed the more defects I found -the wonder was that the whole set up did not collapse, for under the layer of bird droppings was decayed timber.
When I told them the sooner they had the bells taken down, the old frame and beams cleared out, the bells re-equipped and hung in a new frame the better, $I$ was told in no uncertain manner that I was talking bunkum. How could timber get in such a state after all these years? They could not see that the accumulation of bird droppings over many years had assisted in the decay and thought it was in the natural order of things for the bird droppings to accumulate. The idea of keeping the place clean never had occurred to them. I fairly upset the ringers' captain when I suggested fitting wire guards to the bell chamber windows; he wanted to know what would happen to his pigeons if guards were fixed.

All in all I seemed to be having a rough time. I had had worse. The 'know-alls' were determined not be convinced and I was just as determined they should be convinced. In a way I felt sorry for the Vicar; this was the first time be had come up against this sort of thing: he could not get a word in edgeways and seemed upset the way things were going; he was new to the parish and did not wish to offend his warden and ringers. When they had departed he invited me in for a cup of tea. He apologised for the attitude of his garrulous warden; I told him not to worry as I had met his sort before. They were 'a pain in the neck' to all incumbents and frequently the reason why some churches got into a pitiful state.

After a quiet chat, free from interruption, he was satisfied the condition of the bells was quite unsatisfactory and wondered how he could overcome the opposition. I told him that in due course he would receive our report and estimate which, no doubt, would cause a bit of consternation when presented to the Church Council, then after the farmer warden had had his say, they would not know whether they were standing on their heads or their feet. I presumed there were some level headed people on the P.C.C. who after further study of our report, and possibly a visit to the church tower, would see our report was true.

About a year later the Vicar asked if I would be prepared to meet the P.C.C. and in due course I appeared before them. Prior to the mecting I had been warned I was to be shot down in flames, and that my passage would be a rough one. After the preliminaries of the meeting had been completed i was called in. It was evident there was an air of hostility about; my introduction was greeted by an ominous silence.

Soon questions were fired at me on various items in the report, but before I could answer, the farmer warden had replied for me, consequently we were getting nowhere fast. Finally, he went on to say, 'It's a waste of time bringing this chap down here when I know better than anyone the true state of the bells, I have been in this parish longer than anyone and do know.' When he sat down, I rose. Everyone was silent and I could see the Vicar was most uncomfortable. I said I was afraid the warden was wrong when he said he had been in the parish longer than anyone and before I could continue he jumped up and asked if I was inferring he was a liar. I said no I did not imply he was a liar only that he was mistaken, for there were many lying in the churchyard who had been in the parish longer than he and they had less to say. With that he got proper blazing; he had not come to the meeting to be insulted and stormed out of the room. Then a quiet voice was heard to say 'Now we can get somewhere.' After further discussion in quite a different atmosphere the P.C.C. knew where they stood.

Needless to say the restoration of the bells was undertaken and when the public saw the sld bell frame beams as they lay in the churchyard they wondered how on earth they had remained in place. Even the 'Do it yourself' set could not find enough sound timber to make a few stools and candlesticks and, what was more amusing, the farmer warden because he could not salvage enough to make a couple of gateposts accused the bell hanger of pinching the good timber that was up in the tower.

The day of the bell opening was a milestone in the history of the parish. As usual, a goodly number of visiting ringers were present and the church was packed for the service. The Lord Bishop of the Diocese preached and congratulated the Vicar and wardens on their enterprise. After the parish tea. there were the usual complimentary speeches. The farmer warden and the captain of the ringers had their share of praise; was it not they who had drawn attention to the condition of the bells and thanks to them they were now in first class order.

THE CHESHIRE MINI-TOUR

THE first annual tour of the St. John's Society, Hanley, was held in Cheshire from August 26 th 10 August 31st, with headquarters in a caravan of one of the membets, which was situated on the banks of the River Dane, near Congleton. The band assembled on Sunday, after the advance party hat pitched tent one at 11 p.m. on the previous night.

The first a.tempt, on Monday, was at ActonbydNantwich, where a peal of seven Minor was scored; after this the tenorman vowed never to ring another tenor to a peal. Lunch was talen in Nantwich, and was followed by a visit to the octagonal tower of St. Mary's Church, where we were joined by Roy Worrall. A good peal of Plain Bob Major was rung, ably conducted by our director of transport who was calling his first peal of Major. Back at the caravan, the two cooks set about preparing dinner; although we had to wait two hours we were not disappointed, and enjoyed a delicious meal.
On Tuesday, we converged on Holmes Chapel, where Mr. Copnall met us, and rang a peal of nine Minor; lunch took the form of sandwiches in a local hostelry, where we saw a Victorian juke-box and jnadvertently left a tip. In the afternoon we were joined by Norman and Walter Shenratt, and whilst some went to have a Turkish bath at nearby Newcastle. the rest tang a fast peal of seven Surprise Minor at Astbury, the last extent lakifig only 17 minutes.
We set off early for Buxton on Wednesday, our morning tower being Burbage, where Cambridge Minor was rung. Âfter lunch we were joined by Chnistine Macnair and John Robinson, from Marple, and rang a good peal of Yorkshire at Fairfield, where John made a fine job of ringing the terior. The famous spa water, which later played havoc with our digestion, was sampled before we set off for 'home' and another 'long-length' meal.

Due to rising late. the statt of our morning peal on Thursday at Bosley was delayed. Keith called Plain Bob for his first peal as conductor on these odd-struck, but not unmusical, bells. We hurried to Macclesfield for food and then returned to Gawsworth, where a peal of Oxford Major was sung, somewhat slowly. We reached the caravan (via the local fish and chip shop and . The Waggon') to find Peter Janes waiting for us; a couple of games of 'estimation whist' ended an enjoyable day.
By Friday one of our number had caught the strange disease, "pealitis," symptoms of which are extreme tiredness. preferring to stand out of peal attempts in order 10 get some sleep, and standing outside whilst the others go to quench their thitsts: a good night's sleep soon put him right. Howevar, ready for the events of our last day.

We tidied up the caravan before we set out on Friday. and packed our belongings into the ever-ready orange Mini-van. A quarter peal of Stedman Triples was then conducted by Benny at Congletori, where we had been refused more than $1 \frac{1}{2}$ hours' ringing. there being five 'firsts' in the band. The last tower of the week was at Biddulph, where we rang seven Minor. The reunion dinner was held as the Han Fair Chinese Restaurant, Hanloy, in the tradition of the larger touns, before it was time to start making suggestions 'for next year.
Our thanks are due to the local incumbents and ringers who made us so wetcome. to Geoff for the otganisation, Benny for the transfort, Danny for the caravan and, of cqurse, Keith for the laughs.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD Devizes Branch

Over 40 members and visitors availed themselves of the opportunity of ringing on the very fine eight ( 35 cwt.) at Westbury on October 6th on the occasion of the quarterly meeting of the Devizes Branch.
The seryice was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Galloway, who is shortly leaving to take up the living at Beaminster. (We look forward to seeing him there next spring.)

After tea the business meeting was conducted by the chairman, Mr. N. Knee. He thanked the members of the Branch for their special ringing to mark the 80 th anniversary of the Guild. Many churches observed September 16 th as a ringers' Sunday; so far 11 quarters have been rung and four peals. The peals included an officers' peal and one of Grandsire Triples, the first by all the band and one in three methods by the band at Holt. whose average age is 14 years.
The members applauded these efforts and the chairman remarked that it made the future look very bright. Three new members were elected, including Mr. Edgar Shepherd, who had already formed a large circle of singing friends in the Warminster area. He was wished a long and happy retirement with them. He had already scored his first quarter of Stedman Doubles.

The meeting concluded by passing a vote of thanks to all who contributed to the success of the meeting, particularly the ladies who served an excellent tea

The quality of the ringing was good throughout and ranged from rounds to Double Norwich, but Stedman was easily the favourite method on these wonderful bells. A.K.

Junior Ratings Repair East Kennett Bells

THE five bells of East Kennett Church, Wiltshire, had been silent for a very long time. and being in an advanced stage of decay had been pronounced unringable unless completely rehung at a cost far beyond the resources of the small village

Now, however, they are ringing again, and young ringers are doing the ringing. They were reparred - most effectively - by young naval ratings from H.M.S. Ariel as part of their naval training, and the manner in which this was done makes an interesting story, and points a valuabte moral to all who are inlerested in church bells and young people.
To understand the connection between the bells of East Kennett and the Royal Navy (the link is. Young People). and the justification of sailors undertaking the repairs to the bells it is necessary first to explain that the whole project. including the future ringing of these bells: was a co-ordinated effort, based on the following aspects of the national character training effort for young people:
(a) The theme of character training by adventure, initially developed by the Outward Bound Trust of Great Britain. largely due to the pioneering effort of Mr. Kurs Hahn, headmaster of Gordonstoun School, when the Duke of Edinburgh was a pupil there.
(b) The application of the outward Bound theme to young people in ordinary walks of life by the - Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme.
(c) The application of the 'Outward Bound theme to the character training of young naval ratings. This is now fully integrated with other aspects of training ('Training the Whole Man') and the "Advemure" aspect of this &raining is known as 'Expedition Training.'
In considering co-ordination of the above, under the heading of Campanology, and, in particular, the repair of the East Kennett bells to enable them to be rung by young people, the following particular points must be appreciated
(a) Campanology is listed as one of the activities which may be taken by candidates for all medals of the Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme. It is an excellent character developing activity, with a marked element of risk and adventure, as well as being a first class public service.
(b) The development of a strong sense of - public service --service to God and mankind without direct and immediate thought of reward-is inherent both in the Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme and in Naval Expedition Training.
The following special circumstances are also relevant
(a) The responsibility for ringing the bells of East Kennett for divine service and special occasions wilh rest solely on the - Overton and East Kennett' junior ringers-a band of some ten village children, ages 12 to 17 . who have been under training for this very purpose for nearly three years
(b) The Ringing Master of Overton and East Kennett. responsible for the training and guidance of the junior ringers, is a retired naval captain who, before he retired three years ago. was the staff officer mainly responsible for the introduction of the Outward Bound theme of character training by adventure into the Royal Navy and for the integration of this with naval life and training. Immediately before his retirement he was Commanding Officer of H.M.S. Ariel. the Naval Air Electrical School. then at Worthy Down and now at Lee-on-Solent, in which appoinmment he was responsible for the development of activities suitable for - Expedition Training.' He is now on the Executive Commitiee of the Wiltshire Association of Youch Clubs and a member of the Duke of Edinburgh's Award sub-committee thereof.

In view of the above it will scarcely occasion surprise that little difficulty was en-countered-very much the reverse in fact-in persuading the present Commanding Officer of H.M.S. Ariel to make the repair of the East Kennett bells by young naval craftsmen under training, an 'Expedition Training' activity which could advantageously be combiped with other suitable activities in the district, such as exploration of Stonehenge and Avebury.

Thanks mainly to the enthusiastic and conscientious way the instructor of the class of ratings concerned (Shipwright First Class Allan Edwin Parrott) set about this task, including scouring the countryside to find really old seasoned wood suitable in very way for the task. repairs to the beils-including the manufacture of three new wheels and two new headstocks-has been carried out in a manner which has drawn admiration from many visiting ringers, and is clearly an excellent example of old world craftsmanship. This will be heartening news in these materialictic days and it is clearly a great tribute both to young people and to the Royal Navy, its spirit and its training efficiency.

Needless to say, the village, panticularly the younger element, gave a real welcome to the visiting class of young naval ratings, truly in accord with the Outward Bound 'tradition! In conclusion it might not be inappropriate to take this opportunity of suggesting that the fact that campanology is one of the activities officially listed for the Duke of Edinburgh's Award. and that the syllabus for this activity was compiled by the Central Council of Bell Ringers, does not appear to be as widely appreciated among bell ringers as it might be. All ringers who read this article may appreciate the dividends to be expected from the encouragement of campanology for young people, not only as a most worth while service to God not only as a most worthwhile service to and man but also as a means and incentive towards their gaining the coveted bronze, silver and gald medals of the Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme.

On September 16th a quarter peal was rung on the newly-repaired hells of East Kenneut Church to celebrate the occasion and prove the work. and a special service was held in the church to mark the achievement.

NEW LOCAL BAND IN MONMOUTHSHIRE

For the first time for a number of years, the bells of St. Mary's Church, Marshfield, Monmouthshire, were rung by a local band The first service for which they rang was held last September. During this service a dozen of these enthusiastic young singers were admitted to the Parish Guild, and their instructor was thanked and presented with a gift.
Although the ringing was not perfect, many of the congregation commented on how pleasant it was to hear the bells being rung for a Sunday service again.
Interest was created by the meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouthshire Diocesan Association. held at Marshffeld earlier this year, at which the chairman and local Vicar. the Rev. R. E. L. Jones. inquired if anyone would be kind enough to come out to train a band.
The request was answered by Mr. Geoff Marchant who, unfortunately, has now left the district. By a coincidence, both the back six of the eight bells in the tower and the instructor came from Bridgwater, Somerest.

A TIP ABOUT DLNDEE RINGING

Dear Sir,-Mr. Wilson's letter does not fully cover the subject of the recent peal tour of Scotland. In Dundee, Mr. Leale's band sang a peal at St. Paul's in the morning, followed in the afternoon by a peal at the Auld Steeple. Since the towers are not more than 300 yards apart, and both in the city centre, the two peals were rung within earshot of the majority of the city's office and shop workers. The two peals were, in effect, the equivalent of 10.000 changes rung in one tower, and rightly caused considerable indignation. So much so, in fact, that the next visiting band, a party from Reading and Southampton Universities, were favoured with a visit from the police when ringing at the Auld Steeple. What a welcome! However, this latter band only rang touches for about an hour at each tower, with a long lunch break between towers, and this seemed to satisfy the intruders.

Mr. Leale may well plead ignorance of local conditions ( Mr . Williams similarly inflicted himself upon the local populace), but one wonders why the second peal was not rung in the evening when the position was seen on arrival, or perhaps called off-one peal more or less is surely not that important? No doubt Belfry Gossip would still have hailed the tour as an 'achievement,' although as more of the facts become known one wonders whether this was quite the correct desoription!

As Mr. Wilson has stated, we are not against peals, but only ask that some consideration be given to local conditions. There seems to be no reason why peals should not be rung in Dundee provided that they are rung outside of normal business hours.
To prospective tourers, I would suggest that the advice of those who have gone before can be sought, but their 'feats' not emulated. Mr . Wilson's advice may be, after all, the wisest.
Lastly, the scenery will be more memorable than the ringing, so why not plan accord-ingly?-Yours faithfully. J. MOSS. 8. Harestane Crescent, Dundee,

MADE WELCOME IN LONDON

Dear Sir,-How wonderful it is to belong to the bell ringing fraternity-not only can one enjoy the pleasure of that fine art, but also the friendship of all campanalogists.
This was borne out a few weeks ago when I first arrived in London-someone seeing my 'Guild of, Devonshire Ringers' badge stopped me in the street and invited me to Southwark Cathedral. Several invitations have been extended to visit various churches, for all these I am very grateful. One special gentleman should be mentioned; he is from Wimbledon, and on his holiday paid a fleeting visit to St. Michael's, Teignmouth. Having heard of my coming to London he contacted me through the Ringing Master at that belfry and his since tried to help me to find somewhere local to ring. This is true kindness and friendship in bell ringing.

To all these people, thank you, and especially to the ringers at St. Paul's Cathedral who allowed me to watch them ringing Stedman Cinques-there I met a gentleman who had visited my home town one week before. A small world!-Yours in bell ringing,

TAKING BACK MEMORIES OF 40 TOWERS

Dear Sir,-On the eve of my return to Sydney. Australia, I just wish to send a message of thanks and farewell to you and to all my ringing friends in England.

1 have had a wonderful holiday. I have helped to ring in more than 40 towers and have been almost overwhelmed with kindness and hospitality.
1 take back a store of happy memories.
My very best wishes to you all.-Yours sincerely,

ULLESTHORPE S.M.

Dear Sir,-It is with interest that we read 0.1 page 667 of the 'R.W.' of two peals of - Ullesthorpe S.M.' rung on the same day and both for the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association.
Both have simidar footnotes, stating first in method by all and first for the Association.
From the point of view of our peal recorder which of them takes precedence?-Yours sincerely,

PETER AND JEAN MINCHIN.

Swindon.

Note. The same question has been asked by Mr. R. Roger Savory and other ringers.

Note.-Mr. Geoffrey R. Drew informs us that the peal he conducted on September 15th was rung in the afternoon. The Bristol ringers therefore can claim 'first in the method for the Association,' as their peal was rung in the morning.-Ed.

MINOR METHODS AND EXTENTS

Dear Sir,-It seems that, by asking for spliced extents to be published, I have triggered off a conrespondence of diverging views on the merits and faults of single change methods and Little and Alliance methods. Some of the recen: letters were thoughtful and constructive the remainder were little more than conceited personal views and unnecessary personal at tacks. I often wonder why such unhealthy letters are written, and can only request that such people think before putting pen to paper so that this type of letter be banished from The Ringing World '?
Returning to the Minor methods correspondence, does it matter in the least if one band choose to ring a peal of Little and Alliance methods, or another band choose to use single change methods? After all, how far does it help to improve ringing. especially Sunday service ringing, which is and always must be the sole object? The answers to these questions lie in the negative and therefore I ask that this unnecessary correspondence cease, and appeal to the recent correspondents to accept the fact that ringers will ring what they want to ring, inrespective of what a certain insignificant individual from the back of beyond thinks they ought to ring. The Central Council, by the way, does not aim to dictate, only to advise and help, an operation it carries out well, and therefore it is best left out of the discussions.
I would, however, like to add a personal comment on Mr. A. S. Hudson's letter ('R.W.' page 660 ). This is that I think he will find that the Little and Alliance methods are by no means suited to 'method grabbers,' but are exactly the oppostie in that they are far harder to ring than the Treble Bob methods They also demand a greater effort on the part of the conductor, and the treble ringer must be fully aware of all the changes of method. My personal opinion on the single change methods is that they are quite simple and much more likelly to attract the method grabber than the Spliced Minor expert.
As arranger and conductor of the peal of Little Bob Minor mighi, I quietly remind the 'extent perfectionists' that it is quite impossible in any circumstances to abtain 720 changes in the method. Do we have to be continually told that Little Bob Minor cannot produce an 'extent"? The extent of Little Bob Minor is 480 changes, hence 11. maybe $10 \frac{1}{2}$, extents are required for one peal. The recent peal was not rung in pure defiance of Central Council rules or to see what view the Council would take, but for the following reasons:
(i) It had not been rung to a peal before. (ii) If Little Bob had not been rung, the band was limited to Plain Bob, peals of which the ringers had rung before and no advance would have been made.
(iii) With such a band, Litole Bob is the ideal method to use as a stepping stone from Plain to Treble Bab.
(iv) We wanted to ring it.

As for the word 'extent' being used to limit these Little and Alliance methods, please note that no Surprise Major method can produce an extent.
I would like to tharik Messrs. Roast and Peake for complying with my requests and publishing their arrangements, but I notice also that there are still several extents outstanding catled by Mr. Egglestone in the early part of 1962 , namely:
50 methods. Stisted. Essex, 26-1-62. Extents 1, 2. 3. 4 and 5
60 methods. Stisted. Essex, 16-2-62. Extents 1. 2, $(3+4)$ and 6

I note that a claim is made for the greatest number of Surprise methods rung in a peal for the 60 -method peal. and feel that as such these extents should be published. These extents contain single change methods!

- Yours faithfully,

London, S.W. BRIAN J. WOODRUFFE.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD West Lindsey Branch

It was regrettable that on such a beautiful autumn day more members did not atiend the West Lindsey Branch meeting at Haxey on September 29th. Nevertheless, some 30 ringers were present. Haxey, Belton, Epworth, Gainsborough, Messingham and Upton were represenied, and visitors from Hatfield, Scunthorpe and Doncaster were welcomed. as were two friends from the Leeds/Huddersfield area.
Various methods were rung with varying degrees of skill, but it was obvious that most people had looked up the two special methods, London Scholars' Pleasure and Single Oxford, several touches of each being rung.
As the church was decorated for the Harvest Festival the service, conducled by the Vicar of Haxey, was most memorable, and this was followed by a splendid tea in the School Room, served by a band of Ladies, to whom many thanks were due.
At the business meeting which followed silent tribute was paid to the memories of two late ringers in the Branch, Alan Richardson, of Brigg, and Joan Bull, of Gainsborough.
The business meeting was cancluded by a vote of thanks to the Vicar and to the Ladies who provided the tea.
Next meeting: Blyion, November 17th. Special methods: St. Martin's and Stedman.

WALTHAM ABBEY'S TENTH RECAST

After being silent for the last eight months, the twelve bells of Waltham Abbey sang out for the first time again on September 29th.
It was away back in January that when the work commenced of rehanging the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth bells on ball bearings, the tenth was found to be cracked.
By the middle of September the work was completed and at Matins on September 29th the Vicar, Rev. H. R. Darby, dedicated the recast bell. Immediately after the prayers of dedication rounds were rung on the twelve bells for three or four minutes.
At the conclusion of the service a course of Grandsire Cinques was rung by the local band, with exception of the tenor ringer. An attempt to ring a quarter peal of Grandsire Caters later in the day was lost in the last course, but the band was rewarded with success on the following Sunday.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION  Tonbridge District

The Tonbridge District hold its annual meeting at Tonbridge on October 6th. Unfortunately ringing began late with only a dozen fingers, owing to various bands ringing for weddings in the district. A service was conducted by Canon Bewes, which was followed by tea at the Vicarage, which has now been our privilege for three years. As usual a wonderful spread was provided by Canon Bewes and his wife, ably assisted by members of the Tonbridge band.
The annual meeting followed, with Canon Bewes taking the chair, but he was called away whilst the minutes were being read, and he was replaced by Mr. P. A. Corby. The electhon of officers was as follows: Secretary and treasurer. W. H. Dobbie; Ringing Master, S. M. Dobbie; District representatives, Miss D. Colgate, S. Jenner; 'Ringing World' correspondent, Miss M. A. Ladd.
Mr. Corby thanked Mr. B. V. Collison on behalf of the members for his valuable services on the committee, and also to the remaining officers of the past year. Mr. G. Acolt told members that a memorial tablet wast being given at Seal Chart in memory of Mr Wenban, late captain and member of the Association until his death since 1908, and it was hoped this would be completed by the first anniversary of his death, when a memorial service was being planned, at which members were especially welcome. Mr. Corby thanked Canon Bewes and his wife for their hospitality and generosity to the District.
Members then continued to enjoy ringing during the evening.

'DEADWOODS '-A SEQUEL

Each week we get a Bible quotation-it has become a part of 'Our Ringing World,' and how often do we quote from The Book, but pay little heed to it-I have, far too often, the las: time in the recent correspondence re Deadwoods.
Here are two more verses, St. Luke vi, 37-38: 'Judge not and ye shall be judged.' etc., and 'Give, and it shall be given unto you,' etc
These are the sequel to the correspondence 1 had recently with Reg Beale, Taunton; I judged, or rather misjudged, and Mr. Beale 'gave' good measure, pressed down, shaken together, and running, over of kindly interest, time and assistance, which helped to make our meeting of the Railwaymen's Guild at Taunton, September 29th. one of the happiest and most successful we have had, and we have not had a bad one.
I felt a bit ashamed at jumping into the correspondence re Deadwoods-even if it was on behalf of 'The Ringing World'-for 1 certainly found out that Mr. Beale was not a S: Jeadwood,' neither were his young band at S:. James', or of 'The Ringing World'; he even appreciated some of my views; we are Wow firm friends, thanks to 'The Ringing Wordd.'
Thank you, Mr. Beale, and your colleague, Mr. Reed (Branch secretary, Bath and Wells Association).
Moral.-Judge as strong as we will, but never be nasty. Give, and it shall be given unto you.

THE SMITHS THE STORY OF A RINGING FAMILY By I. N. QUICK

The time has arrived for the Hexworth team to enter the belfry in the contest at Netherton. There are three Smiths in the team: Joe, the head ringer; his daughter. Phyllis; and sun, George.

HEXWORTH IN THE TOWER

The time had arrived for the Hexworth team to ring, and Joe led his flock up the belfry as Walter Hardaker locked the door behind them and wished them luck. The team was as usual: Old George on the treble, Phyllis on the second, John the third, Henry singing number four and William and Joe five and six respectively.
They were greeted as they entered the ringing chamber by Stewart Marsden, the conducco: of Layton-on-the-Wold.

Hello, I hope you're alt feeling fit,' he said. 'Harry missed his $3-4$ places,' he went on, refersing no doubt to the bad patch of ringing by nis team. "That's something he's never done for years. Ah well, it's all in the game; we must keep smiling!' and he shook his head mourafully and looked the picture of dejection.

There was some excellent ringing. Steward," said Joe. 'It was a pity aboum the jumble, but you've nothing to be ashamed of.'

Stewart brightened up a bit

- Ean't win every time, he said. To be sure. Leyton-on-the-Wold had had their fair share of success.
Old George, taking hoid of the treble rope, asked:
" Who's bin ringin' this afore me?"
- Elijiah Shaftesbury. He didn't have no box or anythin'. It should be about the right length for you, George.
George thanked Stewart and considered for a few moments,
'I'H have a box.' he decided. 'I don't like to be shont an' I can allus take it away when we have got 'em up.'

At one time, Joe refleoted, there would not have been such a frank exchange between members of two rival teams; no quarter was ever called or given. He recalled the story of two teams from different lowers in the same lown who were drawn to follow each other in a contest. When the first team had finished, the second team, who were awaiting their turn to go up the tower, heard a great dead of bumping and shuffling from above.
"Listen,' observed one of the older hands, 'they're shiftin' all t' buffets abairt!'
It was well known that each ringer had his own bell. from which he seldom, if ever. deviated. consequently in order to avoid giving assistance to the next team, which would be able to assess the length of rope by comparison it was considered fair game to destroy all evidence of the elevation that had been required or even to attempt to confuse their opponents by placing big buffets under little move knots and generally mix things up.

Now George. having decided that he wanted a box, hurted abour until he found one to his liking and very carefully placed it in position. Then, looking up at the rope-hole in the ceiling and down again at the box. he tapped the datter slowly one inch forward with the toe of his boot in increments of ane-sixteenth of an inch. glancing upwards and then downwards after each tap in order, presumably, to check the box's position.
When he was satisfied that it was accurately located, he stood on it with his feet as far apart as the width of the box would allow and rocked from side to side, transferring the weight of his body from one foot to the other in order to check the stability of his temporary platform. Having ensured that everything was reasonably firm by inserting between the box and the floor odd bits of cardboard which he removed from his pocket, he turned through ninety degrees and repeated the operation.

Eveartuhy bo suemed satisfied.
'I think that with do!' said George, and walking to hang up his coat he caught his foot and both the and his dais went flying across the ringing chamber.

He picked himself up and glared at the offending box, saying, he had a good mind to throw the darn thing out of the window!'
Instead, however, he decided to manage without it, which was just as wedl, seeing that afterwards the rope proved to be too long. anyway.
Eventually they were all settled and the rise began. Rising and falling had always been a matter of some importance at Hexworth, and there was no botter treble ringer in the whole of the Guild than Old Gearge, when it came to this branch of the ant.
To-day, even he excelled himself, and from the first chime to the command, "Stand next!", five minutes later the ringing was almost as perfect as it was for humans to perfarm it.

Well done.' said Joe. 'We've had a good rise whaiever else happens!"
darkly, 'that anything can happen!' George pulled off the treble to "try his bell."

The trying of the bells which, ostensibly, was to give ringers the opportunity to adjust their ropes, if necessary, was, in fact, one of the greatest tests that the young or inexperienced ringer had to face. The bells were tried in order from the treble to the tenor, each ringer being allowed three whole pulls. Joe could visualise the blows being counted by the judge, who carefully put six strokes with a pencil on paper for each bell. Seeing that five faults were incurred for each whole pull under or over the stipulated amount, it only required two or three overpulls, and the contest was over for that particular team before it had ever begun.

Even five faults 'in the red' was a serious handicap and had been known to lower a team from first to third place. Consequently each ringer felt that he was bearing a great responsiblity as he tried his bell, and the strain often proved too much, especially with beginners, although it sometimes even played havoc with older hands.

A MEMORY

Joe remembered being up the tower once at Undercliffe as the supervising conductor, when Renthorpe were ringing in a contest. The first to try his bell was Charlie White, the treble ringer, who was a first-class ringer but very nervous. Charlie walked slowly to his bell watched by the semainder of the team, look hold of the Yorkshire end and placed it carefully, oh so carefully, in the crook of his finger and thumb, caught hold of the sally, looked slowly round the belfry, took a deep breath and pulled.

Up shat the sally and disappeared with incredible speed through the ceiling. which was. if you remember, exceptionally low. as it was, in fact, if you don't remember. There was a bump as the stay hit the slider and, behold. the sally was bask again! Charle made a wild grasp at it and missed. Again the sally disappeared, but this time remained out of sight as the bell rested contentedly on the stay at the back stroke.

A cold sweat broke out on Charlie's brow, and he took his hands off the Yorkshire end. removed his pince-nez and polished them with a spotlessly white handkerchief which he took from his pockot.
Nobody spake, and in a breathless hush he replaced his glasses and once more took hold of the Yorkshire end that was hanging like a tassel from the ceiling. The manner with which the bell had leaped from the handstroke intimated to Charlie that the amount of 'set' there must be fractional. He found little comfort in that! Gently, in order not to bump the bell off at handstroke, he eased the accursed bell off the backstroks. Once more the sally appeared. It made a gentle. almost polite curisey. and returned from whence it came. As soan as Charlie realised that the beli was not rising far enough to reach the balance on the handstroke, he sensibly gave an extra pull to send it up on the backstroke.
Obligingly the bell set.
Joe was always sorry that the bell set the second time on the backstroke, for he could imagine the turmoil that was going on in poor Charlie 's mind. Obviously the bell could not be left where it was; on the other hand Charlie had not yet managed to set it even once on the handstroke. Only one stroke now remained. Again Charlie pulled, and down came the sally, rising gently towards the balance. There was a gentle tap as the slider was pushed home by the stay.

Charlie sat down
The general sigh of relief was interrupted by a vialent swishing noise, followed immediately by the sound of the treble bell pealing gleefully above. Wi:h a gasp of horror Charlie realised that the bell had not been set after all. He jumped up from his seat, grabbed the rope that was lashing round the ringing chamber like the tail of an angry lion, and in three shont strokes had the bell set on the handstroke.
During the short space of two minutes, which must have seemed like an eternity to Charlie, he had lost the skin from the palms of two hands bui callected fifteen faults. which was a poor exchange by any reckoning. THE PRELIMINARIES rge, at the end of his seco
Old George, at the end of his second stroke. took up about two inches of rope. after which he completed his three whole pulls without any trouble.

The other ringers followed in turn, and each completed the task, making adjustments where necessary without further incident.
Sc far so good.
Before they started the test piece, Joe had a fina! word.

Now try and keep right, but if you go wrong don't panic. It isn't a crime, and losing a contest isn't a catasirophe. But do as I tell you as quickly as possible.
He turned to Stewart Marsden.
-Don't bother to shout the minute and a half, I will keep my eye on the time and call olf when I am ready.
Stewart nodded. Some conductors preferred it like that. The judges would be timing the rounds anyway to see whether the time limit was exceeded: his job was really to check that the test piece was rung 'true.'
Off they went into rounds and quickly settled down to a good beat. After a minute and three-quarters Joe called them off.

- Go Oxford next!'

Most of the teams preferred Oxford to Kent Treble Bob Minor. Occasionally Plain Boh was rung, and even more rarely methods like Cambridge Surprise or even irregular methods such as Woodbine or Duke of York. Oxford however, remained the favourite.

- Keep the second off a bit at backstroke. please, instructed Joe. It wasn't much, just a trifie hurried. The beat evened out. and as each ringer became more accustomed to his bell, the ringing became a joy to listen to. Everything went beautifully. and Joe called the Last "Bob which brought the bells back into the Plain Course. In order to keep the 360 as simple as possible, he had called three befores, and as he left the Slow work he glanced round to watch the bells fall into the familiar 156342.
Even as he looked he knew that Phyllis was not going to have her second dodge behind with Henry: she wasn't even looking at him!

Second behind with the fourth, he called sharply, but of course Phyllis had checked her bell to come into 3-4, and nothing could be done about that. There was a violent clatter from above as the bells registered a protest to this untoward interruption. and. Phyllis gathered herself quickly, always the sign of a good ringer, and looked round at Henry.

After the fourth at backstroke, said Joe
mly. 'Steady now, you still have ano calmly. 'Steady now, you still have another dodge. Now down into $3-4$ with the treble.'
Phyllis nodded to show that she was now all right, and the touch sailed on to its conclusion as unruffled as if nothing had happened.

Sorry, said Phyill is as the bells stood.
It was Old George who answered.
If ye niver make a bigger mistake nor that n your life, dass, ye'll noan fare so bad!'
Then he went on
' Come on. then, let's turn 'em upside down.' his favourite expression for lowering the bells. (Continued an page 703) which always amused Joe, implying, as it did. that the correct position for the bells was mouth uppermost.

The lower was equal to the rise, and waen the bells were silent, Stewart commented: "A fairish effort. I think. The winners will have to beat it," which was, Joe supposed, as near to a complimentary remark as Stewart Marsden was likely to get.

Whilst Joe stayed up the belfry to 'keep an eye' on Whetherton, the remainder of the team, together with Stewart Marsden, went down. It wasn't long before David Walker and the rest of the team, which included the two 'borrowed' Barnswood ringers, came chattering up the steps.
They were a cheerful lot, incunsistent, unpredictable, as liable to put on a sparkling exhjbition as they were to break down in the first few minutes. Nothing ever worried them. and they met success or failure with an equal degree of equanimity.
They greeted Joe as though the was a longlost brother. and Albert Noble, small, sharpfeatured and blue-eyed, enquired which bell was the treble, although he must have rung in the belfry many times before. It wasn't long before the bells were rising and Joe listened attentively
He knew that Hexworth had done well and guessed that Whetherton's ringing would determine whether they came first or second. It soon became evident that to-day David Walker and his merry men were on their mettle. If in the test piece they took a trifle longer than Hexworth to settle down it was a polished performance with no vestige of a trip or blemish.
After the bells had been lowered and they had all left the belfry and were walking across to the school Joe met Alan Slater, who said:

I think that only the judges can separate the last two teams!'
Joe thought so too.

OUTING

SOUTH DERBYSHIRE AND NORTH LEICESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION
Warwickshire was the objective for this year's outing held on September 22nd, and an early start was necessary. It was a somewhat sleepy company that arrived at Bedworth (8), where the beauty of the bells was not fully appreciated. The effect of the coffee was patent at Alderminster (a rather noisy six). where the ringing was of a much higher standard.

The route was through the interesting ald towns of Warwick and Stratford-on-Avon. Lunch was taken before tackling the heavy ring of six at Upper Brailes ( 29 cwt .), where a noble attempt was made to produce good striking. Resting in the coach afterwards it was generally agreed that such a heavy ring would not be acceptable in their own towers fo: Sunday service ringing.
The final tower was Ilmington (tenor 12 cwt.). set amid laden fruit trees in extremely picturesque surroundings and providing a firstclass ring to finish with. Before tea at Leamington Spa an enjoyable hour and a half was spent at Stratford-on-Avon. The fair in the main street of Ashby-de-da-Zouch could not be resisted on the homeward journey and several prizes were collected.

BARNSLEY DISTRICT SOCIETY

Twelve towers were represented at the Barnsley District Society's monthly meeting at Bolsterstone, near Sheffield, on October 6th. A short service was attended by the ringers present. and at the business meeting Mr. Noel Moxon presided. The invitation to hold the next meeting at Almondbury, near Huddersfield. on November 10 th was accepted. The usual vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Christopher Moxon.

OBITUARY

MR. HILDRED S. WICKENS

The death of Mr. Hildred S. Wickens occurred suddenly at his daughter's home at Maidstone on September 21st, at the age of 76. He had had one operation in May and was waiting to undergo another, when his death occurred
He started ringing at Ash-by-Wrotham, about 1907. moved to Wratham in 1915 and served in the R.A.S.C. as a provost sergeant in the First Warld Was. After the war he went to live at Meopham, where the old six bells had not been rung for many years. He succeeded in getting the bells in order again and teaching a band. In 1927 he moved to Ramsgate and joined the band at St. Laurence-in-Thanet. He rang his first peal at this tower on January 21st. 1937, his daughter (now Mrs. T. Cullingworth) ringing her first peal at the same time.

He was a butcher by trade with Eastman's Lid., and was transferred to their Ashford shop in 1942. He joined the band at St. Mary's, Ashford, and was vice-captain and steeplekeeper up to the time of his death.

Having to work all day on Saturdays, his peal ringing opportumities were restridtied. but he rang about 45 peals altogether, from Minor to Royal.

GULLDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

About 50 ringers came at different times during the day to the meeting of the Farnham District at Yorktown on October 6th. There was a special welcome from the Vicar (the Rev. A. W. Franklin) at the service, as it was his first service for ringers. An excellent meal was provided by the ladies of the church.

At the business meeting, with the Vicar in the chair. Mr. David Church, a churchwanden, was elected an honorary member. Ringing continued until $9 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. in a wide variety of methods.

Mr. W. J. Ridgman has done some good work at Haslingfield, Cambs, where the local band, with his assistance, have rung the first quarter since the bells were rehung about two years ago. The band write expressing their appreciation of Mr. Ridgman's services, and are looking forward to the first peal on the bells and the first by a local band.

The quarter peal rung at Westham, Sussex, is believed to be the first touch rung on the bells for Sunday service for nearly 40 years.

The peal at Wootton Wawen, Warwickshire, was the first ever sung in the tower by a locall band, all of whom were taught to ring at the church.
The Hibberts and the Whites, of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, have been halidaying in the South-West. In the bag was a peal of Grandsire Caters at St. Andrew's, Plymouth.

We welcome back into our peal columns the name of Mr. C. M. Lea, who took part in a peal of seven Minor methods at Jarrow. This was his first peal since his operation in December, 1961.
The Sapcote, Leicestershire, band claim that they are the first Sunday service band in Leicestershire to ring a peal of Surprise Minor in seven methods.

There are possibilities of a brighter future in some parts of rural Berkshire. In a quarter peal of Kent T.B. Minor rung by the Easthampstead and Warfield bands on October 6th, at Easthampstead, there were five firsts. The quarter, says our correspondent, was very well struck.
During the ringing for Evensong in a Sussex tower on September 22nd the ringer of the fourth, anxious that a touch should be completed, suddenly called on the ringer of the second to 'Snap.' This, however, was not done and a fresh start had to be made. At the same place in the second attempt be called 'Snap' again and, 10 and beholn, it did! The fourth rope came coiling down at his feet, having 'snapped' in the wheel.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Forty years ago the record length of Stedman Caters was rung at Appleton by five local ringers and five College Youths from London. A peal to commemorate the anniversary was rung at Appleton on October 6th. Only one member of the record length band took partMr. William Hibbert. It was regretted that Mr. Herbert Langdon, who conducted the 1922 peal, was unable to travel from London with the contingent.
Miss Jennifer Giles has left Burton Latimer, Kettering, for Liberia. She rung in a farewell quarter on September 146.

An added attraction at the joint meeting of four Guilds at Hillingdon tomorrow (Saturday) will be the showing of the film 'Ringers Required' that was exhibited at the Central Council meeting at Cardiff.

Comments Mr. C. Matthews: 'Listening to the peal of Lincolnshire at Oakham an October 6th, I thought the pace was jather jeisurely ( 3 hours 24 minutes), but the striking was very good.'

Liss ringers rang a quarter of Grandsire Triples on October 6th to make good an atiempt which failed on August 4th, as a wedding day compliment to Miss Rita Betsworth, daughter of Mr. A. Betsworth, captain of the tower.
Results of the Kimpton Cup singing competition an October 6th were: North Mymms 27 faults. St. Peter's (St. Albans) 48, Apsley 66, King's Langley 72, St. Michael's (St. Albans) 81. Hemel Hempstead 94, St. Stephen's (St. Albans) 105, Sarratt 164.

Kirby-le-Soken, Essex, is holding its second ringers' Sunday on November 4 th , putting the ringers before the congregation and giving the congregation an opportunity to visit the belfry. The preachers will be ringing parsons. Mr. F. B. Lufkin extends a general invitation to the Exercise to attend, and would even fix bed and breakfast hotel accommodation for anyone who lets him know.

HALLOWMASS

(WHEN THE BELLS RANG ALL NIGHT)

By Ernest Morris

IN olden times it was the custom to ring the bells of the churches on the Vigil- of All Saints, sometimes throughout the night. There are many instances recorded in churchwardens' accounts for the payment for repairs to bells and their fittings in readiness for this event. Thus at Heybridge in Essex in 1517 these items occur:-

Imprimis ; payed for frankyncense agenste Hallowmasse Item; payed to Andrew Elyott of Malden for newe mending of the third bell knappell agenste Hallowmasse Item; payed to Iohn Gidney of Maldon for a new rope agenste hallowmasse.

At Leverton in Lincolnshire we find them recording:-
1524. Itm. payd to Wylla' Josson Carpenter for helpyng of ye bellfrey agayns halomess.
1526. Paid to Rodley ye wryght for me'dyng of ye bells agayns halomes.
Again at Bishop's Stortford we find the payment in 1546 thus:-

> Item ; to Roger Trenham for makyng of a bell wheeleagenst all halumtyde . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . .

This ringing throughout the night was suppressed by Henry VIII on the Vigil of All Saints by an order thus addressed to Cranmer:
r. Forasmuch as that Vigil is abused as other Vigils are, our pleasure is, as you require, that the said Vigil be abolished. as the others be, and there shall be no watching nor ringing but as commonly used upon other holidays at night.
The custom was however revived in the reign of Queen Mary, for at Leverton the churchwardens charge in the year 1556:-

It'. pd. for full contention of the ryngers on alhallow
In the same year at Cheswardine in Shropshire we have this charge recorded:-
' It ' to the ryngers on all Halls nyght.
.ijd.'
and in 1568 at Holy Cross Abbey, Shrewsbury, is the item:-

It'. for lyker for the bells agaynst Allhallowtide.
The day after, All Saints was called Alsoulne or Soulesmasday, and there was much ringing of bells on its vigil. The service of the day being for all Christian souls, a general collection appears to have been made from all the people, either in the church or throughout the parish, to pay for this night-long ringing. Thus at Holy Trinity, Coventry, in 1462, it was the duty of the first deacon to 'go on all halowe day at even among ye pepyll in ye north syd off ye church and gadyer money off them for yr ringers yt ryng for Crysyn sols.' And in like manner the second deacon was to collect 'in ye south syde of ye churche.'

In a poem entitled 'Honoria or the Day of All Souls,' 1782 , the scene of which is supposed to be in the great church of St. Ambrose at Milan, November 2nd, on which day the solemn office is performed for the repose of the dead, are these lines:-

Ye hallowed bells, whose voices thro' the air,
The awful summons of affliction bear.'
Very shortly after the accession of Queen Elizabeth these and similar ringings were prohibited in the Injunctions in such words as these:
' Upon All Saints days and other like times there shall be no ringing of bells after Evening Prayer to the maintenance of praying for the dead,' and in 1562 it was asked 'that superfluous ringing of bells at All Hallowtide and on All Souls day may be prohibited.'

In North Staffordshire, Shropshire and Cheshire there is a custom known as 'Souling,' and the children go round begging for cakes and singing this ditty:-

> Soul, soul, for a soul cake!
> Pray, good missus, a soul cake!
> Peter stands at yonder gate
> Waiting for a soul cake.

It has been suggested that this custom goes back to Celtic observances. In Monmouthshire a custom prevails of begging bread for the souls of the departed on All Saints' Day and distributing it to the poor and needy. This bread is called 'dole bread.'
NOTE.-This article was written earlier this year by the late Mr. Ernest Morris with a request that it should be published as near as possible to All Souls' Day. We little thought at the time that Ernest Morris would be among those remembered today with the commemoration of All Souls. May light perpetual shine upon him.-Ed.

CONGRATULATIONS TO

 THE LADIESTomorrow (Saturday) the Ladies' Guld celebrate the 50th anniversary of its formation by a dinner at 'The Victoria.' Buckingham Palace Road, London. The birth of the Guild is told in the following account of the inaugural meeting that appeared in 'The Ringing World of November 1st, 1912.
The Ladies' Guild was successfully inaugurated on Saturday at a meeting held at St. Giles-iri-the-Fields: London. One of the great difficulties in the way of the organisation of the society is the distance which separates those who are eligible for membership. but the interest and enthusiasm of the ladies resulted in a really well-attended meeting to give the Guild a send off. Many of the best known lady ringers were present, so that the gathering was fully representative.
The following ladies were present: Miss E. N. Belcher (Fleet), Miss G. Adams (Clapton). Miss M. Chillingworth (Bradford), Miss S. Johnson (Edmonton). Miss M. Nightingale (London), Miss E. K. Parker (Edmonton). Miss S Pigott (Smethwick), Miss K. Smith (Maidenhead), Miss M. Sampson (Tamworth). Miss A. White (Basingstoke), Miss L. Willson (Leicester), Miss E. L. Bennett (New Cross), Mrs. Whittington (Cranleigh) and Miss Hazeli (Edmonton). A number of gentlemen were also present.

At the request of the meeting. Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (the Editor of 'The Ringing World') took the chair temporarily. He said that occasion marked an epoch in the annals of ringing, and the Exercise would weloome the existence of a properly organised Guild to advance the interests of ladies in their art. And while they welcomed them they als? wished the ladies every success, and he hoped the Guild would have a long and prosperous career before it. He had to ask them first to elect a president.

LONG LENGTH ATTEMPTED IN CORNWALL

For quite a long while, with the general progress in method ringing in Cornwall, it has been felt by some that something should be achieved for a future generation to either emulate or surpass. so a deal of 10.080 Boh Major has been an objective for a year or more.

Bob Southwood duly mustered his band and a prompt 2 p.m. start was made at Carbis Bay on October 13th (was it a well chosen date?) and all wellt well, with no sign of the peal being lost. for four hours when, with just over 7.000 changes rung, one of the band was overcome by faintness. The band was: G. D. Carter 1, A. Locke 2. H. Stacey 3. Rev. A. S. Roberts 4. A. J. Davidson 5. A. Carveth 6. A. F. Burley 7, R. A. Southwood (cond.) 8.

The band represented three Branches of the Truro Guild. the one who travelled furthest being Harry Stacey, who came nearly 80 miles from Stratton to represent that enthusiastic band.
At refreshments afterwards it was arranged to make another attempt on December 15th. and it was also revealed that had the attempi been successful one of the hymns in a certain church the following morning would have been Ten Thousand times Ten Thousand "!

This peal is a tribute to the hard work of John Pares. the local captain. It was through his initiative and drive that the two trebles were added in May and the regular attendance on Sunday evenings and at practices has enabled the band to progress from Grandsire Doubles to Bob Triples in under 12 months.

When John Pares came to the village, three years ago, there were no ringers. He taught three of the boys of 16 and under who were in the peal band. At the beginning of the year Phil Murdock arrived at Kingsclere. He had not rung a bell for 15 years. but with his aid the first 120 of Grandsire Doubles was rung.
Regular practices while their own bells were away taught them to ring Bob Doubles and a plain course of Bob Minor, and since having their own bells back Bob Triples has been rung. Five Kingsclere ringers have had peal experience by participating in two peals of Bob Minor and one of Bob Doubles in neighbouring towers and this helped them to score the peal of Triples on their own bells at the firs: attempt. The peal was the first on eight bells for four of the band. and was accomplished in three hours and eight minutes.

After the peal Mrs. Pares kindly provided refreshments at Priory House. The band now look forward to ringing the first of Bob Major o:1 the bells.

KIMPTDN TUP RINGING COMPETITION

WATURDAY, October 6th. was the date for this year's Kimpton Cup ringing competition. Following a disappointing response to the 1961 event. the return to the Kimpton tower was jusivified by a record entry of nine teams. One. unfortunately, however. had to withdraw on the morning of the competition due to the indisposition of a ringer.

Change of rules this year allowed competitors to choose either Minor or Dcubles for the test piece of 360 changes

Mr. Pat Cannon. for the third time. acted as a judge, and, at very short notice: Mr. Tom Southam agreed to stand in as the other. An ideal position for the judging was found in the parvis or priests' room, above the south porch of the church.
Ringing started at 3 o'clock and all teams had successfully completed their test by 5,45 p.m. As usual. various entertainments had been arranged in the Village Hall for nontingers teams. These included table tennis, darts and snooker. An innowation was the opening of a neighbouring tower. St. Paul's, Walden (6), for general ringing during the afternoon.

After the contest. over 70 ringers and friends gathered in the Village Hall for an excellent tea. The Vicar (the Rev. K. G. Martin) welcomed the ringers and said he felt sure the competition provided an incentive to achieve good ringing-a very worthwhile contribution to the worship of the Church.

Mr. Pat Cannon. in giving the results. said that the standard of ringing had noticeably improved since the last competition. The majority of faults were due to had leads The ringing of the winning team was characterised by being brisker than the others.

The methods rung and results were: North Mymms (Cambridge). 27 faults; St. Peter's. St. Albans (Kent). 48: Apsley (Cambridge). 66: King's Langley (Single Oxford), 72: St Michael's, St. Albans (Grandsire). 81 : Hemel Hempstead (Plain Bob), 94: St. Stephen's. S: Albans (Plain Bob), 105; Sarratt (Boh Doubles). 164
The Kimpton Cup was presented to Mr. T. J. Lock. captain of North Mymms. by the Vicar. Mr. Lock expressed great pleasure in receiving the cup and commiserated with Apsley in not getting a hat trick
A general discussion followed and one suggestion. that the competition should include raising and lowering the bells in peal, was rejeoted by an overwhelming majority A further proposal that the 'home' team should be penalised was also turned down.

The committee to organise next year's competition was nominated as follows: Messrs J G. Cull. W. C. Hughes, T. J. Lock. D. C Price and T. J. Southam
Mr. Walter Ayre thanked the Vicar for the use of the bells. The Vicar, in reply, said he would be very pleased to see the ringers at Kimpton in 1963

The day's proceedings were rounded off by an informal social evening in the Village Hall. During the evening recordings of atl the ringing were available and listened to with interes

HIBBERTS HENCHMEN OR SANGWIN'S SATELLITES

According to one dictionary, "Satellite' means henchman, so acting up to "The Ringing World 'holidays, such as Toogood's Tours and Pipe's Pilgrims, we thought our title pretty good. when six of us set out from Berkshire to visit Cornwall. The party consisted of Frank and Brian White. of Appleton, Edward Venn, of Oxford. John and Trish Hibbert, of East Ilsley, and the crotche'y old So-and-So. who will in this Jittle effort be referred to as the C.O.S. A rather long way round was planned on Saturday. September 22nd. to Bude, the party calling at Buckfast Abbey. where the C.O.S. was delighted to again shake hands with Capt. Poyntz. After ringing rounds on the 12 and Stedman Caters we moved off to Ashburton. Where, 60 years previously, the C.O.S.'s fathar had turned the tenot in to the first peal of D.N.C.B.M.. called by $G$. Williams, with such names as Coleridge and Robinsor being in the band.

The C.O.S. rang the lenor to a course of Bob Minor and felt quite near to his father. who rang in many of the first peals in Devon some 60 years ago.

However, we were not late in reaching Bude and had a hearty welcome from Farmer Sangwin and his sisters. Mary and Marjory: and Sunday was the last time we wore town clothes until our return. Sunday we rang twice at Stratton, Poughill and Week St. Mary, and at Week we got into the West Country style of raising and falling Monday saw the Sateflites in wellingtons and jeuns, and the farmer soon had them busy with the sheep and bullocks. with the C.O.S. at a safe distance laughing his head off at the eflorts of the drovers. Tuesday morning was farming again. but in the afternoon we went to Plymouth, met Tom Myers, brother Will and one other, and rang a good peal of Grandsire Caters on the ten at St. Andrew's.

Wednesday was Frank's day-he wanted to go to Land's End. On the way we rang on the beautiful six at Paul. and on the return journey called on the Rev. A. S. Roberts at Carbis Bay and rang Stedman and Cambridge on the pretty ten, and on the most westerly bells in England. the six at Sennen. Thursday and Friday were work days, and the younger people seemed to enjoy themselves.

COMPETITION RINGING

On Saturday. we had one of Farmer Sangwin's outings in North Devon, and at Braunton some of us heard, for the first time. competition ringing (on a good eight) and all admitted that the precision striking was wonderful and rather made us feel our method efforts were pretty grim at times. farming and ringing were the order of the day until Wednesday, when in the afternoon Brian Whise called a good peal of Stedman as Stratton and it was good to see the beatific smile come over the farmer's face as the conductor said. 'This is all.'

On Thursday another peal was rung on the lively Gillett and Johnoton's eight at Bridgerule. where dear old Kissy had everything ready, including a note of good wishes for the attempt. This was Edward Venn's first pea! as conductor of Triples, and he gave the band every contidence.

We travelled back on Friday, as Janny and Tech (as they were now called) were in a quarter peal at Ilsley for Harvest Festival, and the other four were to keep a promise at Hinton, Waldrist to meet the twins and attempt Minor. This was accomplished with the C.O.S. nearly exhausted at the finish, but he managed to stagger to the Plough, at Appleton, have a nighi's rest, and meet John Chticott and company from London to ring Siedman Caters on the Saturday. It was rather a hectic finish to a grand holiday, and 1 believe Jill. the farmer's sheep dog, was What with Farry as anyone when we drove away. What with Farmers Greenaway, Miller. Smeeth and Powell, ringers including the farmer. Harry Stacey, Horace Heard. Henry Trewen. Bert Bisat. Jan and Fred Sangwin, the fortnight went all too quickly. bu! we came away feeling beller beth physically and remeally for a holiday far away from our normal duties, and again out heartfelt thanks to Farmer Charles, Mary. Marjorie and Mrs. Brock. See you next year (D.V.). W. H.

RAILWAYMEN'S GUILD AT TAUNTON

Railwaymen all! A happy group taken in the belfry of St. Mary's, Taunton. Included in the group is Mr. S. Foskett, founder of the Guild; Mr. W. Frank Stenson, Master; Mr. B. Kynaston, Past Master; Mr. J. Brough, auditor; Mr. C. Bassett, Ringing Master, Southern Region; Mr. J. Arthur Hoare, honorary secretary.

$\mathrm{O}^{2}$N the eve of the autumn meeting of the Railwaymen's Guild, Friday, September 28th, a peal of Plain Bob Major was brought round at Drayton in 2 hours 56 minutes, conducted by Mr . Jack Brough. This peal was the forerunner of a successful weekend.
Saturday, Septomber 29th, opened fine and sunny, although it didn't last all day. In the morning there was a visit to Wilton, where the light eight at St. George's were soon ringing to Stedman. Grandsire and Superlative The ringing here was halted by the pangs of hunger, and a visit to 'Maynards' soon brought back the smile of satisfaction to all

The next tower visited was St. James'. where a fine ring of eight was kept going to various methods for over two hours. Mr. Beale. the tower captain, was soon talking of the handbells used in the world's record peat of 19.738 changes of Stedman Caters, in 9 hours 27 minutes, conducted by Mr. A. Pulling, which were hanging in a carved oak case Later, back at the hotel. These same handbells were rung by some of the company to Grandsire Caters and Plain Llob Major. We certainly thought it a great privilege to be allowed to ring these bells.
In the evening the 12 bells at St. Mary's were tackled, and $a$ touch of Grandsire Cinques was brought round. Ringing here was restricted to one hour. but several methods were rung before the bells, were lowered in peal. This concluded the ringing programme for the day
Thanks to Mrs. Jack Thomas tea was laid on in a special room at "Maynards,' and immediately afterwards the business meeting was opened hy the Master, Mr. Frank Stenson. firsi with a special prayer, and then with 27 apologies being read out by the honorary secretary. It was proposed by Mr. C. Bassett that the secretary write Mr. Jaok Pitman, expressing the best wishes of members of the Guild for a 'get well:" and strong enough to be with us next year.
A minute's silence was observed for Mr W. R. Rich and others who had passed on since the last meeting was read stating that the question of leave of absence for members attending the Guild's meeting could not be recommended by the committee.
Two ringing members and 16 associate members were elected. A letter from Mr. S Robinson (secretary, Joint Committee, B.R.S.A.)
Mr. Kynaston proposed the alteration of the date of A.G.M. Next year's meeting to be held on a Saturday, halfway between Eastor and Whitsun. This was carried. and the exact date will be published later. Mr. Kynaston also proposed a vate of thanks to incumbents for the use of the bells, to Mr. and Mrs Jack Thomas for the excellent arrangements and also to Mr. A. Reed (Branch secrebray, Bith and Wells Association), Mr. Beale and Mr. Aston for arranging transport.
Back at the hotel. Mr. Jack Brown, apart from handbell ringing. gave an excellent entertainment. ( Now, boys! I know you will like this one.') But Jack's mathematics didn't stop in one course, and it was only the Guard's Fing that brought the last course to an end.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

Penzance Branch At St. Mawgan

The autumn festival of the Penzance Branch was held at St. Mawgan-in-Meneage on October 6th. Those present included Mr. Douglas Burnett. Ringing Master. The Rector, the Rev. G. R. Wells. conducted the service and gave an address, and the lesson was read by the Rev. A. S. Roherts (Branch secretary). The robed choir led the singing.

The meeting coincided with the 25th anniversary of the dedication of the splendid ring of six at St. Mawgan's. and at tea, which very much sawoured of a feast. a large iced birthday cake, made by the Rector's wife, was cut. The Rector and Mrs. Wells were thanked by the Rev. A. S. Roberts, who also menfoned the local captain. Mr. M. Carlyon, and congratulated him on the excellent touch of call changes rung hefore the service.
At the business meeting the chair was taken by Miss Eileen Symons (Branch chairman), and it was agreed to send sympathy to Mr. William Wood. of Gulval. Branch auditor, who was prevented from attending owing to an attack of lumbago.

DUNHOLME CHURCH BELLS

Dear Sir,-I agree with 'R.B.' (page 661) in his report of the University of Bristol Society tour of Lincolnshire that the excellent ring at Dunholme has often been underestimated, but I think the remark that they could be improved with attention is rather uncalled for.
I have rung many times there during the lasi 40 years and nearly 50 years ago I went up to the tower with my father (who then used to coach the ringers) and the late Rev. $S$ Wild, who was then Vicar. He showed us the lovely carved aak screen he was making in thie clock chamber which is now the ringing chamber as well. The screen was fixed between the belfry and the mave of the church.
I remember the shock I got at that age to see a bell chamber as clean as the rest of the church.
I have never known these bells neglected ever and they get the same careful attention now as they did then. They are cleaned. frames painted, lubricated and checked for loose nuts, etc., regularly.
There is not a ring anywhere found that 'go' as well that are not on ball bearings, and I think a little explanation from ' $\mathbf{R}$. $\mathbf{B}$.' on what he means by attention would not be out of place.-Yours faithfully,
C. V. CADE.

Scothern.

Dear Sir,-Will the writer of the University of Bristol Society tour of Lincolnshire please explain how the ring of bells at Dunholme could be improved with attention, as these bells are maintained-weekly?-Yours faithfully.

BELL TO BE TOLLED DAILY
Dear $\operatorname{Sir}$,-I have recently read all the first part of 'The Book of Common Prayer...; according to the use of the Church of England ; and specially noted the following which, I think, many ringers may find of interest in reading or re-reading, as the case may be:

The item "Concerning the Service of the Church' concludes thus: 'And all Priests and Deacons are to say daily the Morning and Evening Prayer, either privately or openly, not being let by sickness or some other urgent cause. And the curate that ministereth in every Parish Church or Chapel being at home, and not being otherwise reasonably hindered shall say the same in the Parish Church or Chapel. where he ministereth, and shall cause a Bell to be tolled thereunto a convenient time before he begin, that the people may come to hear God's word and to pray with him.'-Yours sincerely,

CLAUDE RUSH

ST. LAURENCE DOUBLES

Dear Sir,-I am afraid I had expected Mr. Amos to reply in his usual friendly way to my query about St. Laurence, etc., Doubles, but I have been very surprised to see no reply from the conductor of the peal of St. Laurence Doubles at Courteenhall. While all are quite free to keep details of unpealed methods and extents to themselves, it is surely unprecedented for a conductor apparentiy to refuse to let the Exercise have the essential details of a peal he has called. This is not a question of 'methods or variations.' but of the publishing of factual reports. Continued silence on the part of Mr. Paul may well give rise to what I am sure would he quite unfounded conjectures as to the validity of the peal in question.-Yours sincerely.

NATIONAL STRIKING COMPETITION

Dear Sir,-Messrs. Halls and Carlisle are correct in saying there is a good deal of interest in local contests, but I am still sure this interest will not extend to a national contest. If there was such an interest, surely the response would have been greater than the three letters so far commenting on Mr. Cook's suggestion.
Mr. Halls' idea of making existing local contests into heats for a national competition is at present impracticable, due to vast differences in rules, standards of ringing, marking systems, etc. Thus until a standard system of marking can be devised and practised throughout the country, the quality of teams passed forward to a later theat will vary considerably

As I did not ring at Wirksworth. I am afraid I cannot be of any help to Mr. Halls in getting a team from that tower to enter the Derbyshire Association contest, but as they are only a call change band they are probably frightened off by the bonus system of marking. -Yours sincerely,
S. K. A. HUSON.

Wirksworth, Derbyshire
IROME AND HEMINGTON TENORS
Dear Sir,-If Mr. Kingsley Mason ( R.W. October 12th) refers to The Ringing World of June 8 th and 22 nd, 1956, he will note that the figures, 27-2-22, given in the second edition of 'Dove, are not the weight of Frome tenor, but probably the date on which the late Mr . J. H. Shepherd visited the tower. So far as is known the bell has never been actually weighed, and the best estimate available. made when the bells were rehung in 1937 by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, is 31 cwt . This was a reduction of 5 cwt . from the previous estimate.

Mr . Mason would find a copy of the third (1962) edition of Mr. Dove's excellent book to be a useful addition to his library, and he would discover that Frome tenor is correctly listed in it.

Incidentally, the bell was cast by John Lott at Warminster in January, 1662, and so we shall be celebrating its tercentenary in three months' time.
Adverting to Hemington, near Frome. I am glad that Mr. House has exoluded this ring from his list of heavy fives. Those observant enough to have read of the augmentation, published in 'The Ringing World ' as recently as July 13 th, 1962 , will know that it is now a ring of six, tenor $16 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.- Yours sincerely, GEORGE ${ }^{\frac{1}{2}}$ W. MASSEY, Vice-captain of St. John's, Frome, Ringers.

IRREGULAR METHODS

Dear Sir,-I am pleased to read that Mr. Chant still has the same views on irregular lead end methods as he had a few years ago. Perhaps one day we shall see the C.C. accept them. I have a list of 120 of these methods. all with $2 n d s$ or 6 ths at the lead end and, as Mr. Chant has pointed out in the past, the use of these greatly increases the number of spliced extents available. This has been proved in recent Surprise Minor peals.
Regarding bobbed leads. I would like to make it quite clear that I've never had any time for ringing a bobbed lead of a method and calling it something different, but I would count, for example, a boh lead of Cambridge as one method provided that Primrose was not included in the peal.
Finally, having rung their $25-\mathrm{method}$, Plan. Eittle Alliance and Delight extent. I would like to congratulate Mr. Lewis and Mr. Chant on their work in building up this most interesting extent. - Yours sincerely.

Swindon. Wilts.

A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT

Dear Sir,-I am glad to have read Mr. Moxon's quick reply to my letter and thank him for the information therein. Although Mr. Chant no doubt has easy access to the books the mentions, he should remember that for the majority of ringers it is very difficult to obtain these publications which I would certainly have thought did not have very wide currency. I think this is a bad thing-though the C.C. does not approve of Minor methods without the 'magic' lead ends, could not it perhaps include these methods in an appendix to the next Collection of Minor Methods in condensed form, with a small note explaining precisely why their use is discouraged?
At the risk of provoking Mr. Chant's mirth again, might I offer a comment on four of the methods (City Delight, Duke of Leeds, Duke of York Bob, High Hoyland Bob)? Surely one can't have 4ths place plain lead ends as well as 2nd and 6ths place plain l.e.'s? This is trying to butter ane's bread on three sidesit sets a dangerous precedent (we might have a band ringing a peal of Primrose S. Minorcalling the 6ths place l.e.'s, bob leads at the 4ths place l.e.'s, bob leads-and then claiming to have rung a new method), so why not call the 6ths place l.e.'s. Plain leads at 4ths place l.e.'s. Bob leads? It is common practice to call 4 ths place l.e.'s bob leadswhy depart from it?-Yours sincerely.
P. A. BRAND.

A FALSE PEAL OF 1933

Dear Sir,-While looking through a 1933 annual report of the Worcestershire and Districts Association recently, I came across a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal rung for the above Association at Coalbrookdale, Salop, on May 13th, 1933. The figures of the composition used are appended to the report and are as follows

| $23456$ | M | W | H |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 43652 | - |  |  |
| 26354 | - |  | - |
| 35264 |  | - | - |
| 23564 |  |  | - |
| ( 52364 |  |  | - |
| 64235 |  | A |  |
| 52436 | - |  | - |
| 35426 |  | - |  |
| 42356 |  | - | - |
| 34256 |  |  | - |
| 23456 |  |  | - |

This composition, although attributed in the report to the late William Pye, is false to Cambridge Surprise Royal. Had the composition been left in Mr. Pye's original form no falseness would have been incurred, but in the above form parts of the 6th and 13th courses are false against each other.
Could any correspondent say whether this peal was ever withdrawn, since it is still in the records of peals rung at Coalbrookdale held by Canon Felstead.-Yours sincerely,
R. ROGER SAVORY

REFERENCE RESENTED

Dear Sir,-In recent letters on the weights of bells there have been some unwarranted attacks on northern ringers. One does not need to be a great psychologist to observe that the persons concerned suffer from an inferiority complex. Without charging a fee, I would suggest that the persons concerned can overcome this complex by improving their ringing and making use of the bells they have mentioned in their lettors.- Yours sincerely,

LONDON UNIVERSITY WEDDING

'IWO very active members of the University of London Society of Change Ringers, Miss E. Jane Langton and Dr. Derek E. Sibson, were married at Findon Parish Church, Sussex, on September 1st. The bridegroom rang a course of Boh Minor before the service with members of the University of London Society and some local ringers.

The service was conducted by the bridegroom's father, the late Canon E. H. Sibson, of Little Shelford, Cambridge. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a white rose brocade dress, and carried yellow roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Gillian Windwood, the bridegroom's sister, Miss Margaret Sibson, and a friend. Miss Sally Faires, all of whom wore apricot duchess satin dresses. Mr. John Sibson, the bridegroom's brother, was best man.

A reception was held at the bride's home, 17, First Avenue, Worthing, and the honeymoon was spent in the Lake District. Dr. and Mrs. Sibson are now living at 6, Bourne Road, Crouch End, N. 8.

Andover District

Three teams entered for the District preliminary heat for the Alliston Cup held at Goodworth Clatford on September 15th. The set piece was 240 changes, and two of the competitors, Andover and Longparish. broke down and were disqualified. leaving Burghelere the automatic winners. The finals were at Southampton on October 13 th.

The result was arnounced at the quarterly meeting at Andover by the judge, Mr. C. H. Kippin. who was thanked for his services by Mr. A. W. Alliston, the District chairman. Notice was given by the secretary of the Disdrict striking competition at Barton Stacey on November 3rd.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Oswy Street Memorial Cup
A prompt start was made, despite the fact that one team had not arrived. for the Oswy Street Memorial Cup at Gamsion on September 29th.
With the judges, Messrs. D. R. Carlisle and D. W. Marshall, safely installed in the Vicarage the contest began. The first team ringing with open handstroke began rather slowly and unfortunately fired out after only 13 minutes ringing.
The second team. again open handstroke successfully completed their test piece of 720 changes, and it was during the ringing of the third team that the missing ringers finally arrived, having been lost en route and travedling over 100 miles to take part. The last two terms hoth rang cartwheel, thus giving the experts a chance to compare the best of both styiles.
After tea the judges gave their decision Team No. 1. Wollaton rang out; No. 2 Warsop, 61 faults, 0 penalties; No. 3, Meltham. $32 \frac{1}{2}$ faults, 5 penalties (total $37 \frac{1}{2}$ ) No. 4. Friealind, $19 \frac{1}{2}$ faults. 5 penalties (total $24 \frac{1}{2}$ ).
$\frac{1}{2}$ Mr. Ben Street, who had kindly provided the trophy, in memory of his father (Mr.' Oswy Street), presented the cup to the captain of the Firiczland team, who thanked Mr. Street and introduced the members of his team.
A vote of thanks was proposed to Mr . Street fo: the cup. the vicar for the use of the bells and a room at his Vicarage, the judges. the ladies for the tea. and the teams who had travelled all the way to Gamston to compete.

SOUTH DERBYSHIRE & NORTH

 LEICESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATIONThree towers-St. Andrew's, Derby, Diseworth and Melbourne - which had not previously competed were welcomed at the fourth annual striking competition of the South Derbyshire and North Leicestershire Association held at Diseworth on Sept 26th.

The test was a sample of Sunday service ringing and this resulted in both call changes and method ringing bands competing on equal terms. The even tenor of the competition was broken by 'The Rest' (visitors and learners) when the stay of the 2nd was broken as they pulled off in rounds. It meant a long rest while the host tower produced a new stay.
Mr. Peter Staniforth, former president of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, was the judge and his marking resulted in a tie between St. Andrew's, Derby, and Alvaston ' $\mathbf{B}$ ' for first place. Other teams in order were: Aston-onTrent, The Rest. Melbourne, Diseworth and Alvaston 'A.' The cup was presented by Mrs. P. Staniforth jointly to the representatives of the two winning teams.

'R.W.' October 18th, 1912.-
A fortnight ago we asked who could beat the record of the Wool ringers, who have rung four times every Sunday for the past five years. Mr. D. G. Taylor, of Ilminster, writes that the band at St. Mary's, Ilminster, have rung regularly for two services every Sunday since 1902, while Mr. Lawrence points out that at Little Munden the band have rung twice every Sunday for 15 years.

THE SNOWDON DINNER, 1962

THE 30th annual commemoration dinner to the memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and past officers of the Yorkstire Association was held at York on October 13th. the venue being the Windmill Hotel (often referred to by the president as 'our spiritual home').
Ringing started on the bells of Escrick (8). where, for two hours, methods up to London Surprise were rung. Cups of tea, brought in personally by the Rector (the Rev. M. S.
Walker), were much appreciated. Ringing at Walker), were much appreciated. Ringing at by the unfortunate breaking of a stay, when the bells were being raised. This restricted ringing to 10 bells. St. Stephen's, Acomb, and St. Mary's, Tadcaster, were also available.
Choral Evensong in the Minster was attended by a good number of ringers. The president (the Ven. C. O. Ellison) had been nvited to robe and read one of the lessons. The Association was welcomed to the service by the Dear. the Very Rev. E. Milner White. as were the Friends of Cathedral Music Society, who were holding a meeting in York. The singing was of a very high standard.

At the conclusion of Evensong the ringers formed a procession and, headed by the Rev. A. J. McMullen, chaplain of the Minster Society, proceeded to near the Bellfounders Window. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by members of the Minster Society, and appropriate prayers were recited by the chaplain.

At the Windmill the president presided over a company of 131. He was supported by the Right Rev. D. N. Surgent (Bishop of Selby) and Mrs. Sargent, Mrs. Ellison, the Rev. E. A. Flowerday (Vicar of Escomb and Rural Dean) and Mrs. Flowerday the Rev. A, J.
McMullen and Mrs. McMullen, and the principal officers of the Association.

LAST LINK SEVERED

After the loyal toast had been honoured, the president announced apologies of absence from the Dean of York. Miss Iris Lemare and Mr. Wm. Barton. Reference was also made to the recent death of Miss Margaret Snowdon, niece of the first president, and also Mr. Albert Sellers, vice-president. On all previous occasions Miss Snowdon had sent a message of greetings and good wishes, but now the last link with Jasper Snowdon had been severed.

The Church' was proposed by Mr. Edward Hudson, who addressed the company as fellow-churchmen. The Church as we knew it, he said, was not a united Church, but there was no doubt in his mind that the Church in the year 2.000 would be a united Church. He also visualised the time when the idea of attending service as a duty on Sunday would long have been regarded as old-fashioned. and people would attend church no: only on Sundays but on certain weekdays as well.

Then the ringers would play their part in proclaiming more regularly than now and perhaps with greater efficiency the message to the world which the Church had to proclaim. I shall never be happy until all the bells of our country are ringing, and ringing well." he said. "A ring of derelict beHs in a church is a reflection on the activity and church is a reflection on the activity and there stould be no silent bells: it is disgraceful that they should hang or that they should no be rung well.'
The Bishop of Selby responded and said he knew rothing about change ringing and could no. say what a plain hunt or a bob was. As bell ringers who used to ring from the ground floor at his home church.

VALUE OF TEAM WORK

The Bishop said there could be no more wonderful service to be rendered to the Church than that of calling people to worship and, more than that, of calling people to Iift up their hearts to God whether they were going to church or not. Bell ringing was a wonderful example of team work and if there was one thing the Church needed it was more team work' if we are ever to get the world to listen to us.' "You are among the few people whose sound goes out into the world and yet people have no idea who are making it.' He thanked the ringers and wished them well at their work
The toast of 'Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and Past Officers of the Association' was proposed by Mr. Vernon Bottomley, who referred to the difficulty of comparing ringing today with that of years ago. Jasper Snowdon and stalwarts of the past set themselves a high standard and all were expected to conform. He suggested it might be worthwhile for the Association to record some ringing now for comparison with that of a future generation of ringers. Stressing the need for maintaining high standards, he said it was easy for them to slip, but difficult to restore them.
In accordance with custom the toast was followed by a perfect course of Grandsire Caters on handbells rung by W. A. Moretion, L. W. G. Morris, F. Hodgson, W. E. Critchley and J. H. Fielden.

Miss Margaret Wilkinson toasted "The Guests and Kindred Societies, and said they were honoured by the presence of the Bishop of Selby and Mrs. Sargent, the Rev. E. A. Flowerday and Mrs. Flowerday. Mr. Flowerday had the only other ringable bells in the city, apart from the Minster.
The Rev. A. J. McMullen and Mrs. McMullen they knew very well, as they had been at previous dinners, and they thanked Mr. MaMulien for this contribution to the entertainment.

MANY VISITORS

The Kindred Societies represented that evening were the Ancient Society of College Youths, the Bedfordshire Association, the Suffolk Guild. the Leicester Guild, the Lancashire Association, the Derbyshire Association, the St. Martin's Guild (Birmingham), the Ladies' Guild. the Universities Association and the Railwaymen's Guild.
The Rev. E. A. Flowerday suitably responded for the guests. and Mr. Sidney Foskett on behalf of the Kindred Societies.
The speeches were interspersed with musical items. The Rev. A. J. McMullen gave a very pleasing performance of a Brahms Rhapsody 0.2 the pianoforte. Mr. Andrew Carter. a Minster songman and ringer. apologised as a Leicester Guild member for singing 'Glorious Devon' to a Yorkshire audience, Nevertheless he was in good voice and his singing was much appreciated. Mr. Michael Powell, a Minster songman, delighted the company as a counter-tenor. by singing 'Silent Worship: in Italian and then in English. Finally Messrs. Carter and Powell sang folksongs with Mr Carter on the piano, and Mr. Powell playing a guitar.

A toast to the chairman was proposed by Mr . Fred Hodgson, and in renly Archdeacon Ellison thanked Messrs. McMullen, Carter and Powell for their excellent contribution to a most enjoyable evening. He also thanked the York Minster Society for organising vet another Snowdon dimer. H. W.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

The autumn meeting of the S.W. Branch was held at Tamerton Foliott on October 6th. Although not a large gathering. due in some way to a change of the date, it was a representative meeting and during the afternoon and evening visitors came from Calstock, Stratton. Launceston, Kingsteignton. Northampton, Truro and Tavistock. There was some good ringing on the very nice six under the Ringing Master. Mr. T. G. Myers, and comprised Grandsire, Stedman. Plain Bob. Kent and Cambridge, with the usual 'rounds for those unable to take part in the change ringing.
Mr. and Mrs. Bray, of Whitchurch, and Mr. C. Burden were elected una:tached members. Miss Hibbert. Messrs. J. H. Foster Michael Armstrong. J. W. T. Hibbert. E. R. Venn and G. H. Clift were confirmed as nonresident members on tower elections.

It was decided to donate $£ \geq 2 \mathrm{~s}$. from the Branch for the Ernest Morris Memorial Fund. Next meeting (annual), January 26th.

OBITMARY
MR. A. V. DENT
Mr. Anthony V. Dent, of East Bridgford. Notts, who died. aged 75. on October 14th. was one of the great little men of the Exercise, almost unknown outside his own Guild, but a constant church worker, with bis ringing always well to the fore
The son of the verger at East Bridgford.
Mr. Dent started ringing at the age of 10 Peter's Church and remained there until 1936. when he moved to Mansfield and later to Bournemouth, where he spemt many happy hours handbell ringing Retiring to his native village in 1947, he once again became captain of the ringers, and spent much time teaching a new band. In 1959 he was made an honorary member of the Southwell Diocesan Guild for his services to ringing.

During the past two years iHness prevented him from tower-bell ringing, but he cantinued with his handbell ringing up to two month ago. giving many handbell concerts with the East Bridgford band, raising money for the rehanging of St. Peter's bells. It is regretted that he did not live to hear the fruits of his works. as the bells were lowered and the headstocks removed for rehanging, less than a month ago. This prevented any ringing at his home tower on the day of his funeral, October 17th, but a quarter peal of Bob Minor was rung to his memory at Holme Pierrepon in the evening. Those taking part were: Ruth M. Blackshaw 1. Pamela C. Clarke 2. T. G Goodwin 3, J. Higgs 4. M. Harrison 5. W

THE SUFFOLK GUILD  N.W. District

A good variety of methods was attempted when the N.W. District met at Elveden on October 13 th, and were joined by ringers from Downham Market. Norfolk, and the South-West Suffolk District of Hartest. The programme included Plain Bob Major. Grand sire, Stedman, St. Clement's, Kent, Oxford and Norwich.
The service was conducted by the Rev. C J. N. Gates, who gave an interesting address. and tea followed in the Institute, provided by Mrs. J. Paul and Mrs. Rose.
At the annual medting Mr. L. Wright piesided. and Mr. A. Ballam (secrelary) piesented his report which stated that four ringing meetings and seven practice meetings had been held, and one joint mee:ing with the S.W. District at Long Melford. The attendance at most meetings was good.
Officers elected for the coming year were: secretary. Wright, chairman; Mr. A. Ballam secretary: Miss G. Reeve, press secretary: Mr. R. Rase, Ringing Master; Guild representatives. Messrs. Wright and Ballam: Social Committee. Messrs, Wright, R. Fordham, Mrs. Ivings. Misses D. and G. Reeve. Six ringers from Bardwell were accepted into the District, and an evening practice is to be held thete November 10th.
Other forthcoming events are: Second annual dinner, Cockfield. October 27 th. preceded by ringing at Lavenham: practice. Horringer. December 8th: quarterly meeting. Mildenhall. January 12 th.
In addition to thanks to the Rector and the ladies, who had provided tea. appreciation was expressed of the work of the officers during the past year

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION Northern District

On October 6th there was a quarterly meeting at St. Nicholas', Stevenage. Ringing began soon after 3 o'clock and finished for the afternoon before the service. conducted by the Rev. E. A. Gaskell. The Misses Smith. of Stevenage. Bury, kindly gave a magnificent tea providing it in their own house, close to the church. It was a pity that more were not there to enjoy it.
The chief item of interest at the business meeting was the decision of the District secre ary. Mr. E. G. Buck, not to seek re-election the next annual District meeting.
Ringing continued later in the evening.

STRIKING THOUGHTS

Dear Sir --I have wondered recently how I can tell whether or not I am a good striker because even my best, friends may not tell me. My worst friends would probably tell me, but I wouldn't believe them.

A fallacy has grown up within the Exercise that a good method ringer is automatically a good striker. This view is held particularly bv the good method ringer himself, which is a pity because, once this impression is established... it is doubtful if the ringer in question wll ever improve. He will often taken umbrage if censured by the conductor for inaccurate striking.

This raises the question of who is competent to censure others for inaccurate striking? There is no reason why the conductor should be this competent person other than that he is likely to be experienced.

Isn't it true that no ringer is a perfect striker and almost all ringers could improve in this respect, especially if they were aware of their shortcomings? One requires a rhythmic sense and it is as rare for anyone to be lacking in the simple rhythmic sense required for good striking as it is for a person not to be able to walk in time to a military march.

It is fair to assume that if one has taken part in a peal which has produced good striking one is a reasonable striker. But this doesn't mean that one is a good striker. A good striker is one who helps to induce good striking in the band, whilst an indifferent striker is one who can strike well when the circumstances suit him.

A secret ballot amongst one's ringing colleagues for their candid opinions may be informative on one's striking abitity. The trouble is that we wouldn't believe these opinions if they were adversely critical. You see, we all know that we are good strikers. -Yours, etc.,
D. R.C.

Risley, Derbys.

AN AUTUMN DAY IN SUSSEX

Postponed from the end of July, Chelsfield ringers' annual outing got off to an amazingly prompt start (only 4 minutes late) on October 6th. when four cars of varying sizes left the church just after nine.
Mayfield, the first tower, pnovided the first experience on eight bells for some of the party, but after one or two shaky rounds, confidence was gained and all acquitted themselves reasonably well. A touch of Plain Bob was the only method time would allow-apart from several courses of Original. At Warbleton we found a very pleasant six and the standard of striking improved accordingly. Ringing here reached Cambridge and Norwich Surprise and included a very good touch of Stedman.

At Battle, the first tower in the afternoon, we were privileged to ring for a wedding. Although ringing was curtailed, methods included Double Norwich and concluded with a respectable service touch of Grandsire. After a short break we rang at Seddlescombe, where the tenor was not the most popular of bells.

Salehurst belfry impressed us all and. although the bells are very pleasant, we just could not produce our best striking. A most enjoyable, if rather hilarious, tea was lingered over in an ideal cafe in Robertsbridge. Ringing improved somewhat after tea, and on the recently restored anti-clockwise six at Sandhurst methods sanged from rounds and Plain Bob to London Surprise and a good touch of five Spliced Plain Minor. Fog had begun to cover the area and this, coupled with a navigational blunder. made us late at our last tower. Rolvenden. where the bells had been kindly raised for us. Ringing here included Little Bob Major and a good touch of Stedman.
We all then adjourned to the home of our old friends, Mike and Dorothy Legg, at Cranbrook. where a most sumptuous repast awaited our attention. The rest of the evening passed all too quickly. with Philip Lane at the piano. Our thanks to Mike and Dorothy. D.C.M.

ST. JOHN-THE-DIVINE,  LEICESTER

Starting at $7.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. the 25 ringers and friends participating in the outing of St. John-the-Divine, Leicester, on September 29th. arrived at Banbury half an hour early.
After taking refreshments, the musical ten were raised in peal and were soon in changes to Stedman and Grandsire Caters. After half a course of Cambridge Major and a touch of Stedman Triples, ringing concluded with three leads of Kent Treble Bob Royal. The visitors were greatly impressed with the magnificent interior decorations of the beautiful church.
On to Oxford. Here, at the Cathedral, the standard of ringing was disappointing at the beginning, but three leads of Kent Treble Bob Maximus was accompanied after two attempts. The best ringing here was Stedman Triples on the back eight. With an hour to spare, the party broke up, some of the more exuberant enjoying boating on the river.

A giant object, loaking like an executioner's axe, confronted the party on entering the ringing chamber at Brailes. Their fears were soon allayed on being informed this was the old clock pendulum. The grand heavy six presented some difficulty at first, owing to tower oscillation, but were soon mastered. A course of Cambridge, with James Poynor on the tenor, will be remembered, but the highlight was the excellent slow fall.

An almost perfect raise in peal (employing 12 persons) on the back eight of the 12 at Evesham was followed immediately by three leads of Kent Treble Bob Maximus. H. Wale. M. Brown, R. Ellway and R. Starbuck are to be congratulated on their fine performance in ringing on twelve for the first time. An excellent meal was provided at Stratford-onAvon, the party arriving home at 11 p.m.

Three hearty cheers were awarded to the organisers, 17 -year-old Keith Townsend and 14-year-old Malcolm Wade. at the end of the trip. Special thanks are due to tower captains for meeting us.

This is something unique. BELERY GOSSIP

 Cowfold, Sussex. has a centenarian, Mrs. JuliaWoolven. For her 103 rd birthday a quarter peal was rung on the village bells and the same band had rung for her 100 th, 101 st and 102 nd birthdays. Our best wishes to Mrs. Julia Woolven.

All of Mr. F. W. Midwinter's 150 peals have been rung for the Southwell Diocesan Guild.

Peals of 44 Doubles and 65 Spliced Minor methods have been rung by Mr. Anthony R. Peake's band this month.
In a peal of Minor at Castle Eaton. Mr. Geoffrey R. Drew rang in his 100 th tower for a peal out of a total of 164 peals rung on 142 different bells and 54 different tenors.
In honour of the diamond wedding anniversary of Mr. S. Loach, for 55 years a ringer at Radcliffe-on-Trent, a quarter of Grandsire Triples was rung on October 14th. M1 Laach rang the treble.

Ten lady members of St. Johns, Cardiff, rang the bells in rounds for morning service on Ociober 14th. This is the first time the ten bells have been rung for service by ladies. Later in the day five of the ladies took pirt in touches of Caters. Six of the ten are under 16 years of age.
Two lady members of the Great Yarmouth band have rung their first peal on the bells (Plain Bob Royal). They are the Misses Brenda Sampson and Juanita McBride. The conductor, Mr. Nolan Golden, in congratuhating them writes, 'The ladies rang very well in their first peal attempt.'

The wedding of two Hampton ringers, Peter Lawrence and Anna Smith, at their Parish Church on September 22nd was marked at Sunbury-on-Thames by an attempt for a quarter peal of Bob Major. Although a "shift' occurred, it was rung through to the end. Peter has been a helpful frequent visitor to Sunbury belfry over a period of szvzral years and has given assistance, which has been greatly appreciated.

Diana $R$ Southeir good wishes to Miss Coll R. Southam, who has entered the College of Art, Corsham, Bath, and Keith Young, upon his success in the H.R.H. Duke of Edinburgh's Outward Bound course.

A peal in under two hours has been rung 0:1 the five bells at Rampton, Cambridgeshire (tenor 4-2-23).
The quarter of Stedman Triples at Wantage on October 14th is believed to be the first in the method on the bells by a local band.

Was the fall down a flight of stairs at 2.30 a.m. responsible for a talented conductor from Suffoik miscalling a peal of London?
A peal of Spliced Surprise Major in 18 methods has been rung at Knebworth by Mr. John $\mathbf{R}$. Mayne's band. It was the first for the Hertford County Association.

The half peal rung on October 13 th at Lechlade was a peal attempt brought round due to the "indisposition" of the conductor's trousers.

Mr. Alfred King, who celebrated his 71st birthday on Oolober 13th, was entertained to a surprise party by his fellow ringers at Lechlade. The enjoyable function was arranged by Mrs. Walsh and her daughters.
The Archdeacon of Chesterfield (the Ven. T Dilworth-Harrison) has banned bell ringing at weddings solemnised at Chesterfield Parish Church. He is quoted as saying: 'I don't see why we should go to the trouble of getting bell ringers for people who treat weddings as social occasions.'
An interesting illustrated booklet is available on application for those who want to know more about the Holy Land Pilgrimages, 1963. The booklet, giving details of tours, including the reell ringers on August 1st, is obtainable from Holy Land Advice Centre (R.W.), 6, Borrowdale Avenue, Ipswich.

TENNYSON AND WRAXALL

THERE have been various towers suggested as having had the honour of inspiring Tennyson to write his In Memoriam '- 'Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,' which is probably the most quoted reference to bells in verse. B. J. Greenhill, in his article in 'The Cleveland Mercury ' of August IIth, on the bells of All Saints', Wraxall, repeats the suggestion made in 1895, in 'The Bristol Channel Illustrated,' that they might have been the bells of Wraxall.
' I cannot say how true the statement is,' he writes, ' but we do know that it took the poet fifteen years to write "In Memoriam" A.H.H. to his friend Arthur Hallam, who lies buried in St. Andrew's, the parish church of Clevedon, and whose father had lived at Wraxall Court, so its is possible.
The earliest of the bells of Wraxall is dated 1705, the church being pre-Reformation, as witness the narrow, tortuous staircase to the roof loft, now used by the organist to reach his elevated position.
In pre-Reformation days bells were usuanly cast in the churchyard or near to it, for roads and carriages for bells had not yet been developed. Edward Bilbie set up a bell foundry at Chew Stoke in 1690 , and, passing through the hands of William, Thomas, Thomas, jun., Abraham, and Thomas and John, it eventually closed down in 1815. leaving the bells of the Bilbies all over North Somerset, invariably marked with name or initial. They were good belts in every way. The oldest known bell is at Chew Stoke, dated I 698 , but the three in Wraxall tower are over 250 years old.
How did they take them from Chew Stoke to Wraxall? We know that local roads in 1705, so called for there were no main highways, hereabout were often impassable in winter, so the transport of bells would be a summer-time job, with the aid of a sledge and slow plodding but strong oxen in front and no doubt behind also when going down hills. Or was it done on a broad-bottomed frame with little wide rimmed wheels like rollers to spread the weight?
Tradition says that some of the bells were cast locally, i.e., in the churchyard or near, which meant the carriage of iron from Broadfield Down, furnace pots and ladles, copper, tin, a frame for the core, and perhaps clay for the mould. Arrangements would have to be made long beforehand, for matured wood was necessary for the framework. In those days the furnace would be stoked with faggots or fed with charcoal, iron would be brought for the clapper, and leather for the baldrick could be obtained from Nailsea tannery two miles away, if Wraxall bells were so made.

In the Nailsea churchwardens' accounts, for instance, are found items of 'Leather for ye clapper ' and ' Oyle for ye bell,' the earliest bells there being supposed to have been made by Bilbie by the tythe barn which is now a school.

It is possible that All Saints' had a bell or bells in the tower before 1705 , but we have no evidence. There would, of course, be a sanctus bell over the chancel, or, as the Rev. G. Aldridge put it 50 years ago, 'The sanctus bell was hung in a bell-cote between the chancel and the nave, and during the celebration of the Mass three strokes were struck upon it as the Sanctus was sung. At the elevation of the Host the sacring bell would be sounded.

The three Edward Bilbie bells of 1705 are the third, 5 cwt .3 qr .4 lb ., in C, inscribed, 'Thoft my voice it is but small, I will be herd amongst all, Ed. Bilbie' (two or three coins of William III. incorporated); the fourth, 6 cwt . I qr. I4 lb., 'R.B.T.P. Edward Bilbie cast me' (two coins of William III. cast in); and the seventh, 14 cwt. in F, "Sir Edward Gorges Ed. Bilbie cast all me " (two coins of William III, cast in).

Three bells were added by Kingston, of Bridgwater, in 1826, and in 1858, according to the vestry minutes, Llewellyn and James, of Bristol, were asked to estimate for putting the bells in order and recasting an old bell or providing a new one. At the time of the golden jubilec of Queen Victoria there were eight bells at All Saints' as follows: Treble, Llewellyn and James, I887; 2nd, Llewellyn and James, 1887; 3rd, John Kingston, 1826; 4th, Edward Bilbie, 1705; 5th Edward Bilbie, 1765; 6th. John Kingston, 1826; 7th, John Kingston, 1826; tenor, Edward Bilbie, 1705.

Early in 1893 a pinnacle fell off the tower and narrowly missed the organ, which was then at the west end of the church. A thorough overhaul of the bells was called for amongst other work, and John Taylor and Co. recast the 2nd, 3 rd, 6 th and 7 th, and added a new tenor bell. The treble of Llewellyn and James went to Failand, where it is the only bell. The eight bells were rehung with new fittings and a cast-iron H frame on a foundation of rolled steel girders.
To critics of bells, Mr. Greenhill tells this story. The Rev. G. S. Master wrote: ' It is said that the owner of Wraxall Court around 1788 planted the belt of trees adjoining the churchyard on the west to lessen the sound of the bells. This evidently not being sufficient, or the trees not growing quickly enough for his purpose, he once cut the bell ropes with a carving knife and had to do penance for the offence by standing clad in a white sheet in the church during divine service.'

REDEDICATION OF SAFFRON WALDEN BELLS

0October 20th the ring of 12 hells at Saffron Walden were rededicated by the Bishop of Colchester, after being silent for over 2 years. In June, 1960, the 11th gudgeon broke and it was then found that woodworm had attacked the old wheels, headstocks and frame. The full restoration was entrusted to Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughhorough, who have done a wonderful job The four main guiders ( 20 inches deep) and the massive frame are strong enough to take a 3 ton tenor. All 12 bells have been tuned so that the ring is now one family.

The service, which was fully choral. was attended by a large congregation. The Mayor and Corporation. in their robes, walked in procession from the Town Hall to the church. The Vicar (Canon M. R. Sinker) conducted the service and many clergy from neighbouring villages were present

The Bishop of Colchester preached an in teresting sermon, and then all the clergy and choir walked to the west door. The Bishop held a bell rope in his hands and said the dedicatory prayers and the 12 bells rang out in rounds. As the congregation left the church the bells rang out to Stedman Cinques

The visitors sat down to a cold lunch in the Parish Hall, while the local band were entertained at the private lunch, specially arranged in order that all could meet the anonymous donor of $£ 1,700$ to the Bel Restoration Fund, who at the last moment could not attend! Among the distinguished zuests at the lunch were: the Vicar and Mrs. Sinker, the Bishop of Colchester, Lord Braybrooke. Lord and Lady Wrenbury, Lady Helen Wrenbury, the Mayor and Mayoress of Saffron Walden, the Town Clerk, Mr, and Mrs. Paul Taylor and others.

The bells were kept going all the afternoon till 5 p.m.. when tea was taken in the Parish Hall. After tea ringing went on till nearly 8 p.m.. all agreeing that the bells have been greatly improved, both in 'go' and tone, by Messrs. John Taylor.
During the day many methods were rung, including Stedman Cinques, Caters and Triples. Two plain courses of Cambridge Royal and a half course were successfully completed, and London. Cambridge. Superlative Major, Grandsire Cinques and rounds on 12 for learners.
This was another great day in the history of Saffron Walden bells and ringers.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM

The Vicar of Knowle, Canon D. A. Foster extended a very warm welcome to the members of the Guild, who attended the quarterly meeting at Knowle, on October 13th. There was a good attendance at the service, when the Guild's form of service was conducted by the Vicar
The ancient Guildhal?, built in 1412, was vailable for the tea, at which the Vicar and Mrs. Foster and the organist were present The Guild was honoured by the presence of Mr. Frederick Sharpe, president of the Central Council: Mr. J. Frank Smallwood, of Darley Dale: Mr. C. H. Kinch. honorary secretary of the Bicester Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild; and Mr. Frank W. Perrens, of Coventry.
At the business meeting, over which the Master (Mr. Richard C. Ingram) presided, Mr. Frederick Sharpe was elected a life member of the Guild. The tower elections, as life memhers, of the following ringers were duly ratified: John C. Eisell (Kingswinford). A. Maxwell Lindsey (Stoney Stanton). Miss Judith M. Atkinson (Nottingham), Miss Christine Sanders and Ian C. Maycock (Whitnash).
The next meeting, being the annual, will be held in the city, on the first Saturday in January. A formal proposition to hold the Henry Johnson dinner in March, 1963, was accepted, and it was decided to invile the Rector of Birmingham, Canon Bryan Green to take the chair at this function.

A proposal that a cablet be placed in St Mantin's Church belfry to the memory of the late Albert Walker was brought before the

VILLAGE bELLS REHUNG BY VOLUNTEERS

The quarter peal at Tredunnock. Monmouthshire, is a story of silent bells again back into use. These bells had been silent for two or three years and the only ringing in the last 12 years had been that attempted by visiting bands.

In the last two months the back five bolls have been rehung on new basses and gudgeons. This was desperately needed as the old gudgeons had worn extremely oval, and the bells were regarded as unringable as the battering effect on the tower during any ringing. was quite considerable.

As the village was busy raising money for the re-roofing of the church. the Rector felt that professional rehanging was out of the question for many years. The rehanging has been nearly all done by voluntary labouronly a small charge for the new bosses being made by a local engineor-and was carried out by ringers from neighbouring towers. assisted by the Rector and churchwardens.

After ringing the quarter peal, it was felt that the "go of the bells could still be improved and. to this end, the frame is being further strengthened.

On September 9th a special ringing service was held and the Rector appealed for ringers and learners to get she bells ringing regularly once more. As a result, practice nights have been arranged for Fridays, and Mr. David Taylor, of I.landowlais, has offered to teach a band.

UNIVERSITY OF

0N Thursday, September 27th, we assembled at Lymington for our second trip 'abroad. -to spend the week-nd on the Isle of Wight. The fine eight at Lymington produced some ringing, which we hoped was a good omen for the rest of the tour. Having collected all the party, we embarked on the 'Farringford,' bound for Yarmouth. I.W.
After a short ring at Freshwater, we headed for Brading, where we had hired the youth centre for the week-ond. Beds were put logether, these swayed violently at first, but, as far as I know, no one fell out in the night. The new handbells belonging to the University College of Wales Society. Aberystwyth, were produced and rung for the first time. They were found to have a nice tone and were much in demand during the week-end. We also found that being on our own in the youth centre, an old school surrounded by playground, we could ring for as long as we liked without disturbing anyone!

The next morning, after an excellent breakfast. prepared by the ladies of the pariy. we crossed the road to the ancient Parish Church of Brading and rang for a service, which, as there was no other congregation, became a Corporate Communion, especially for us. We did not excel ourselves ringing on the light eight. which was a pity as we learnt afterwards that the local schoolmaster stopped his lessons and opened the classroom windows so tha: the children could listen to the bells.
And so to the tour proper. There was something special about every church we visited on the Friday. London on the beautiful six at Godshill, the odd bittle six at Whitwell which were rather nice once we discovered how to ring them, the old church at Niton, where the Vicar's bihle and prayer book are in braille: the wonderful view from the church at Chale and its sweet toned bells and, to finish the day, an excellent peat on the new bells at Brighstone, with two first pealers in the band. The rest of the party spent some time on the beach throwing stones into the sea! Then a toast to the peal ringers and back to the handbells.

On Saturday morning we headed for Ryde, where there are majestic sounding bells. especially from just outside the tower. Arreton has a charming little church under the Downs. with an odd-struck ring of six. Here we learned and rang Killamarsh, and discovered that the bellis sounded quite nice if they were struck well. At Newport we were pleased to meet Mr. Upton, who showed us interesting old record books of ringing at Newport in the 18 th century. Our ringing here was disappointing, the acoustics in the ringing chamber are bad, but that is no excuse really.

After dinner a treat was in store for usthe eight at Carisbrooke. voted by all to be the best on the island. As we left the tower we were approached by a gentleman who congratulated us and said he would always remember his visit to Carisbrooke Castle because of the sound of the bells. Here, too, the church was being decorated for Harvest Festival and looked every gay.

But we had to mave on to the last ringable ring of bells on the istand-the old five at Shorewell. Here we met our match, and lost. Tho bells are seldom rung and were definitely not appreciated by the little black dog at the garage opposite the church who put his head back and howled at every touch, from beginning to end!
Back to Brading for tea and a peal attempt. We do hope the schoolmaster and his chil dren were listening as we redeemed our mistakes of Friday morning and showed the village just how Plain Boh Major should be rung. Unfortunately the peal was lost. but a good quarter was brought sound. Liquid refreshment and a singsong followed at the 'local' and, much later, tea and another singsong at the youth centre.

On Sunday everyone was awake early and we managed to catch the $9 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. fenry from Cowes. Cruising up Southampton water the handbells were produced: a gentleman from Yorkshire introduced himself and joined in several touches. We rang for services in several touches. We rang for services in Park. I believe several of the party dashed to grab Winchester, and missed. And so with happy memories, back to Wales until next year.

'IRISH BELL NEWS

The Irish Bell Nows, in its autumn issue makes an appeal to place the Irish Association's Bell Restoration Fund on a firmer hasis. The aim is to increase the present capital of $\pm 61 \mathrm{6s}$. 7d to $£ 200$. The idea is to invest the $£ 200$ in 5 or 6 per cent stock and make grants from the interest money.
There are several references in the issue to Miss F. Wyman's Irish tour, and also a nearly five page report of the tour, written by Miss Margaret Lewis. (Those not satisfied with the 'R.W.' report will find an unabridged report here.)
Among the visitors to Ireland, judging from reponts. are the two cours (Miss Wyman's and Mr. Wilfrid Williams'). the Ingram family, from Birmingham: Paul. Sarah and Francis Taylor. from Loughborough: S. and L. Walmsley, Leyland; Jack Pryor and Elizabeth Murray

THE MAJOR HESSE WEEK-END

The 15 th annual gathering to honour the memory of the late Major J. H. B. Hesse was held at Wrington on October 20th.

A peal of Stedman Triples was scored at Yatton on the Friday evening and a quarter of Grandsire Caters at Wrington on Saturday after a peal attempt had come to grief.

Ringers from various parts of Somerset were entertained to an excellent tea by Mrs. Hesse, who thanked the ringers for taking part in the week-end ringing. Mr. G. Hawkins proposed a vote of thanks to Mrs. Hesse and those responsible for organising the weekend, making the commemoration possible.

Those present were: The Rector of Wrington (Rev. B. Lee), Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Knight, Miss D. Williams. Messrs. J. Baker, R. G. Beck. H. Bird. E. J. Chivers, L. Derrick, G. J. Hawkins, G. Prescott. J. Pullin. J. W. Owen, H. Sanger and S. D. Smith. G. H.

HIS CONSCIENCE WILTED

Dear Sir,-On reading Mr. Woodruffe's opening paragraph on Minar methods (page 700), I was arrested by his references to the conceited personal views' and 'unnecessary personal attacks' that had been made in prewious letters on the same subject. Eagerly I unearthed the previously published correspondence and scanned it for something that I must have overlooked. Alas, all 1 could find were a few pungent remarks and trite observations made by both sides.

Sometimes they even said nice things about each other!
I reflected that an era must be gradually dawning when opponents in the 'R.W.' feed each other with milk and molasses.

But on rereading Mr. Woodruffes remarks, I took heart; could not more be achieved by veiled references and subtle innuendos? Could not his striotures be applied to any of the correspondents and so embrace a wider field? Perhaps he was alluding not to Mr. - or Mr. -. or indeed to Mr. -, but to me! !

My consoience, which is a tender plant by any standards, wilted under the searing blast.
I grovelled, Mr. Woodruffe, positively grovelled.-Yours sincerely,
H. CHANT.

MR. WOODRUFFE TAKEN TO  \section*{TASK}

Dear Sir,-It seems that Mr. Woodruffe has now lowered himself to the point of writing velf-contradictory letters ('R.W. page 700). His lotter is indeed a conceited personal view,' which is what he professes to condemn.
With regard to his claim about the 'extent' of Little Bob Minor, if he consults the 'Ringers' Diary,' he will find that the total number of unrepeated changes on six bells is 720-thus Little Bob Munor is cleanly incapable of producing an extent. He would find, I think, that a little less pigheadedness and a little more intelligent thought would solve his problems.
With regard to his 'reasons.'
(i) There are dozens of true mothods that have not been rung to a peal before. If he wanted to ring a 'first' for the Surrey Association. St. Clement's would have been suitable, and much better.
(ii) The band were all capable of T.B. or Surprise, and could have 'skipped' Little Bob, and rung a peal of Kent or Oxford T.B. or Cambridge S , to name but three examples.
(iii) When Mr. Woodruffe allows reason and common sense to rule his wants and desires, he will probably find trimself more popular.-Yours faithfully,

DAVID C. BROOKES

CHITTERNE BELIS

Dear Sir,-I would like to correct an inaccuracy in the report of the rededication of the bells at Ohitterne, Wilts. The treble and second were indeed recast in 1862 by Gearge Mears out of the three bells, one of which was mediæval, from the former Church of All Saints. The present back three bells came from old St. Mary's, but only the 4th and 5th are by James Burrough in Devizes, 1754.
The 3rd was cast in about 1400 by John Barber, of Salisbury. This bell is of particular interest as it is the anly bell by Barber to bear his name, and without it a group of about a dozen bells, with examples as far spread as Rutland and Gloucester, could not be identified. The actual inscription with crowned letters and stops between each word is:

+ IHON • BAR • BUR • ME • MADE.
In a letter in the same issue of the 'R.W. Ludham. Norfolk, is mentioned as having a tenor of 20 cwt. Indeed the 'Church Guide" book says it is 23 cwt . On a recent tour we measured this bell and found it to be 48 inches. It was cast by the famous Norwich founder John Brend in 1637 and strikes in $E$ flat, and not a very thick $E$ flat either. I would say therefore that it could not be more than 19 cwt.-Yotus sincerely, Putney.

GO BACK TO THE BFGINNING

Dear Sir,-We in Shenfield have been vory interested in the varied opin:ons expressed in recent letters about Minor methods and peals.
It appears to us that your correspondents have overlooked the real question in thes matters. Change ringing developed from rounds and call changes. through single changes to the present system of, for Minor. Dauble and Triple changes.
Is a reversion to single change methods a retrograde step? It is not an easy question to answer, and it is because we are doubtful on this point that we have excluded such methods from the spliced peals we have so far been able to achieve.
Perhaps the Methods Committee of the Central Council could give us a lead. Some time ago, I believe, the Central Council laid it down that one 720 of a Minor method rung seven times and one 120 of Doubles repeated 41 times should constitute a peal.
Peals in these days are comparatively easy to get. and any lowering of standards in any direation must be to the ultimate detriment of the Exercise, and is to be deplored.Yours faithfully,
H. TURNER.

100 Peals at St. Michael's, Southampton

By CANON K. W. H. FELSTEAD ST. Michaet's, Southampton, has had Lells from ancient times-how long, nobody knows. The earliest mentions of the church in the extensive town archives relate to the clock and bells.
Until 1878 there was a ring of six, which originally came from the Salisbury foundry The second, third and tenor bear the date 1663 and the initials W.P. (William Purdue) the fifth is dated 1664 and as well as W.P. has R.P. (Roger Purdue). In 1680, Clement Tosier took over the foundry, and the treble is inscribed: "Clement" Tosiear cast mee in the year 1693." This bell was soon recast as the churchwardens' accounts (which started in 1686), records: Item: Clem Tosier far casting the Treble Bell and adding 1 qr. of metall, $£ 10$. I:em: Carriage of Treble bell twice to Sarum il 18s. Unfortunately, the church records do not mention the casting of the fourth bell in 1733 by William Tosier, who took over the fcundry in 1717
A great deal of restoration work was done to St. Michael's Ohurch in the 1870's, and the ring of six was augmented to eight by the addition of two trebles, cast by John Warner and Sons. The wife of one of the churchwardens whose names appear on the bells is still alive

IFATHER ROBINSON'S MISTAKE
The first peal on the bells was rung on Septembdr 17th, 1894-Grandsire Triples in 3 hours 2 minutes, conducted by George Williams. Amongst those taking part were Keith Hart and the Rev. F. E. Robinson Strange to say, in the latter's book, 'Among the Bells,' the year is given as 1904. But The Bell News' of 1894 could hardly have the record of the peal if it was not rung until 1904!
The second peal was in February 2nd, 1907 -Kent T,B. Major, again conducted by George Williams, and this was the first peal of Major in the borough of Southampton W. H. Fussell and W. H. George are famous names in this peal. Thirteen peals had been rung by 1914 , the one in 1909 being the firs peal by an entirely local band. There is a photograph in the belfry showing the local hand of 1910 ; in 1960 a photograph was taken of the band then-a 50 year later effort. The war broke up the first band, several being killed and not until my time was there a Sunday service band.
The spire of St. Michael's was found to be in a dangerous condition in 1923 and ringing had to stop, whilst repairs were made. The opportunity was taken to have the bells seen to, the back six now being over 250 years old These bells were recast and a new frame provided by Gilleit and Johnston; the rededication was at Michaelmas, 1926. The first peal on the recast bells-Kent T.B. Major-was rung on November 2nd. 1926, and George Williams again conducted.

CONSIDERATION-IN PEAL RINGING

By the time I arrived in 1945, as Vicar, 21 peals had been rung. Of these George Williams rang in 19 (conducted 13). Since that time 79 peals have been rung and the first post-war peal was my second ever. Peals have been rung at about five a year, as consideration is given to the local inhabitants This has been appreciated for only two or three complaints have been made (a notehorthy one being after a peal of London Royal on Whit Monday, 1953, by a Central Council band).

At the beginning of 1948 , two more trebles were added by John Taylor and Co., to make the third ring of 10 in Hampshire. Before than, eight peals had been rung, including the famous (or infamous!) 5,090 Cambridge Major with a single. The first peal on the 10 was Cambridge Royal on Easter Monday, 1948. Of the 71 rung since then, 60 have been on 19 bells, only 10 on eight bells and there was a solitary peal of London Minor on the front six to complete the London cycle an the bells.

Variety is the spice of life, and this shows itself in the records. The 48 peals of Royal have been rung in 20 different methods, including 15 different Surprise methods and one of Spliced Royal in four methods. This is not strictly true, since one of the 15 was the one and only peal ever rung of London Exercise Royal. Since the Central Council has now ruled out Exercise Royal methods, this will ever remain the only Exercise Royal method, having been rung and named before the rule came in. Only six out of the 48 have not been in Surprise methods. Of the 12 peals of Caters, nine are Grandsire and three Stedman. Thirteen of the 27 peals of Major (including pre-1945 ones) were of Surprise and in six different methods. Of Triples there have been six of Stedman and six of Grandsire.

C. H. KIPPIN LEADING CONDUCTOR

Of conductort, only one has beaten George Williams' total of $13-$ C. H. Kippin, with 44. Altogether 20 conductors have shared the 100 peals. Of ringers, 208 have taken part in the peals. C. H. Kippin has rung in 52 -the most of anyone. Following him, my next pead at St. Michael's will be my 50th on the bells, then M. J. Butler with 48 , Mrs. Kippin 46 and Miss N. Leahy 43. No other ringer thas yet reached 30, nearest being $\mathbf{R}$. R. Savory and R. C. Kippin, both with 27.
Returning to the peals, the 100 have been rung in 35 different methods-quite a good variety, for the object, since the war has not been to ring peal after peal in the same method, but to try to do something different as far as possible. Of course, to give ex perience to learners. the standard methods predominate (e.g. 14 peals of Cambridge Royal and seven each of Yorkshire and London Royal), but four Royal methods are the first ever rung in them and 12 other peals of Royal were the first in the county and for the Guild. In faot, except for Cambridge Royal, all the other Surprise Royal methods rung can claim to be the first in the county and for the Guild!
One or two finat points of interest. The quickest peal on the bells was that of Wye Royal in 2 hours 55 minutes. The usual time for a peal is between 3 hours 8 minutes and 3 hours 12 minutes, and 40 come between and 3 hours 12 minutes, and 40 come between Minor which took 2 hours 45 minutes. The longest peal was 6,400 Cambridge Major in 4 hours. This is (I believe) the only time the extent of the method has been rung. tenors together, and it caused a little stir at the time since 6th places bobs had to be used. Lastly,

SPALDING GENTLEMEN v. GRANTHAM PLAYERS

Although August 18th was the first day of the football season and thousands, no doubt. were passing through the turnstiles; to some ringers the cricker final of the Lincolnshire Ringers' League at Imham was a much more atiractive prospect. The match was played between the Gentlemen of Spalding and the Players of Grantham, who were both finalists and the only participants!
The Gentlemen lost the toss and elected to bat, and the Players must have despaired al the fine first wicket partnership of J. E. Allen (with C. R. Burrell as runner) and Maurice Bennett, which achieved 32 Iuns
However, the 'rot set in' when Grantham star bowler, Macartney, appeared and several aspiring batsmen were dismissed in a peremptory manner, including Leggett who fell considerably shont of his fine exhibition last year. In the 70 minutes allowed the Players scored 60 for 6.
When the Players took the field it was obvious that they had 'dressed' for the part and Denis Frith had whitened with the zeal of a rV. housewife. In spite of this observance of the rules of correct dress the Players were unable to emulate the Gentlemen and scored only 43. Again Macartney shone and scored 22 before being caught. Spalding provided a variety of bowling and Aubrey Mills made several handy catches at mid wicket. Stan Bennett was an impartial umpire.
After an excellent tea both teams forsook rivalry for ringing from rounds to Spliced Surprise on Edenham's delightful eight.

The most enjoyable day concluded with a social evening at the 'Five Bells'; here the Gentlemen had further opportunity to display their talents with handbell ringing. Denis Frith also entertained. Thanks go to Ron Noon, for making the arrangements; also to local ringers and cricketers at Edenham and Imham, whose excellent pitch was resonted to when Edenham's was not available.

SWINDON RINGERS VISIT THE ISLAND

For their last tour of the year, Swindon ringers chose the twelve rings of bells on the Isle of Wight. As expeoted, fog was encountered on most of the journey to Lymington, across the Solent and till the afternoon, then the weather brightened and remained clear. Carisbrooke was the first tower, followed by Newport and Ryde. A pienic lunch at Ryde Airport was followed by ringing at Brading, Arreton, Godshild and Whitwell, where we had tea.
The dimes for the last five towers overlupped so the party split in two, the first party raising the bells and having their ring, the second party following on and lowering. In this way a tight schedule was maintuined, a! had a ring and some good ringing and lowering were enjoyed. Niton, Chale, Shorwell, Brighstone and Freshwater completed the towers.
Our thanks go to the incumbents and local ringers who met us, and to Mr. Eric Sutton. for arranging the tour.
there has been one false peal (not counted, of course). Grandsire Caters. Since this is the only peal I have ever called, I shall always remember it. I fear I composed it as well!

THE SMITHS

THE STORY OF A RINGING FAMILY By I. N. QUICK

The contest at Netherton is over. The story continues with the judges' comments. Has Phyllis, the daughter of Joe Snith, head ringer of Hexworth, let her side down? Read on.
By the time that Whetherton had finished ringing it was about 7.30 p.m. In recent years it had been the aim of the Guild to adjust the dength of the test piece, reducing it as the number of entries increased so that if each. team rang through, the contest would finish in the early evening.
Joe could remember when the test piece had been a 720 whatever the number of entries, and on at least two occasions he, and the remainder of the Hexworth team, had had to walk six or seven miles in the early hours because the contest had finished after the buses had ceased running for the night; and in those days no ringer of his acquaintance possessed car
When Joe and the Whetherton band reached the schoolroom the remaining ringers had gathered for the business meeting, and most of them were sitting on forms or the tops of the children's desks. The indefatigable Walter had, by collecting teachers' chairs and borrowing a table from the headmistress's room, been able to invest the official body at the top end of the room with some semblance of dignity.
The vicar took the chair, and the meeting progressed on the usual lines. After about ten minutes there was a stir as the two judges entered and sat down in seats near the front to which they had been assigned. There was a quick whispered consultation between John Chappell and the vicar, resuiting no doubt in some adjustment of the agenda. after which the chairman announced that the time had now arrived to despatch the most important business of the day, 'the judges' decision!'
There was a buzz of anticipation, and quite a few ringers produced note-books and pencils in which the faults of the various teams could be recorded. Some of the note-books contained an unbroken record of all the contests that had been held in the area for the last fifty years or so. All eyes turned to Henry Hammerton, who, well aware of his own importance and the momentous mature of the announcements he was about to make, carefully unlatohed the black leather brief-case on his knee and produced a bundle of papers, at the same time holding a whispered consultation with James Hargreaves, his co-judge, who nodded gravely several times
They looked for all the world, thought Joe, like a high court judge and his recorder settling some technical detail before pronouncing the death sentence. or like St. Peter and the recording angel deciding who should go aloft or who should depart to the nether regions!
Slowly Henry Hammerton rose to his feet and carefully deposited his glasses at the end of his nose. for what purpose Joe never discovered, seeing that he removed them whenever he referred to his notes, and always looked over the top when he surveyed the room.
It had, he said. been a very interesting afternoon, and one which the felt trad been a sucoessful new venture by the Guild from which, he felt sure, nothing but good could result. The ringing throughout had been very good. and both he and his colleague (who nodded his head in agreement every few words) felt that the teams were to be congratulated on the high standard of ringing. Perhaps one or two teams needed to improve the quality of their rise and fall. but on the whole it was, he felt, a very happy situation when the Guild could produce such a number of teams with such a satisfactory standard.
The ringers listened patiently, almost resignedly, while he pursued this theme at some length, but at last be announced: "Now here are the results of our deliberations, and there was a sudden sevival of interest.
After explaining that be would give the faults in the order in which they had boen incurred, namely, rise, teot piece and fall, and pointing out that no penalties had been added by any of the teams, he referred to his notes and read them out more or less as they had been jotted down at the time.

Team No. 1. Fairly consistent; striking somewhat erratic at times. Rise 6 , test piece 37, fall 6. Total 49.
Team No. 2. Took longer to settle down. Tendency to ring in pairs; tast half very good. Rise and fail good. Rise 5, test piece 47, fall 5 . Total 57.
Team No. 3. Poor rise. Good test piece and lower. Rise 12 , test piece 33, fall 6. Total 51.
Team No. 4. Good rise and lower. Excellent striking in test piece suddenly marred by a nasty trip. (Must have cost $25-30$ faults.) Rise 6, test piece 63, fall 5. Total 74.

Team No. 5. Excellent rise and fall; extremely good ringing in test piece ; slight jumble near the end. Rise 4, test piece 31, fall 5. Total 40.
Team No. 6. Good rise and fall; excellent
Henry paused as if to gain effeot. He was, of course, fully aware that every ringer present knew that the result of the whole contest depended upon his next announcement; he would be less than human if he didn't make the most of his opportunities. Joe glanced round the room and could hardly suppress a smile as he saw whole groups of men (and women) leaning forward in eager anticipation. Old George with hand cupped behind his ear, David Walker with trembling pencil poised, and Phyllis. poor Phyllis looking. Joe thought, rather wan and woebegone: if Henry Hammerton's intention had been to create tension, there was no denying the efficiency of his strategy
Then:

Then:
Rise 6 , test piece 23, fall 6 . Total 35
His final announcoment: 'I cherefore declare team No. 6 the winners, was a mere formality, the words being half-smothered in the excited buzz of conversation.
Phyllis grimaced across the room at her father.

The vicar's wife presented the shield and prizes to the winners, and there was the usual short speech by the captain. David Walker. who followed the custom of saying how surprised he was to learn that they had won: he had thought that at least two other teams had done better.
This type of speech, comforting no doubt to the losers, is hardly complimentary to the judges. although most of these gallant gentlemen. after hearing these winning captains after-contest speeches year after year. are now quite indifferent to their imputations.
There was the usual photographh taken by the usual photographer, depicting the vicar's wife shaking hands with the winning captain, with the shield, the remainder of the team and sundry officials in the background. a photograph which was destined to appear on the usual page in the 'local rag,' a periodical that rejoiced in the name of The Barnswood Express and Advertisor" (incorporating "The Netherton Times' and 'The Ooze Valley Chronicle').

After which. as was stated in the minutes, funther ringing followed.'
That night, as the Smiths were sitting round a 2 unlit fire, discussing various aspects of the day's happenings, Phyllis turned to her father

How many faults do you think we put on in 'the jumble, father?"
'Well,' he began, 'it's difficult to say. The standard of judging varies such a lot between one judge and another.'

Come, Joe, said Annic. 'vou yourself have judged often enough during the past. I know also that you have co-judged on a few occasions with both Henry Hammerton and James Hargreaves. What would your assessment of the damage be?'

I woukd say,' Joe replied slowly. 'that we received three or four fanits; five on the outside. Not that it matters. ' he went on quickly. - if we had put on twenty-five. It is no use worrying about mistakes made in contests once they are over!'

Nobody's worrying,' said Annie. 'We just wanted your opinion.
And happily she poured out the tea whils Joe relaxed in his chair and lit his pipe
He was thinking about Henry Hammenton's parting words.

- Team number five. Joe? Very good ringing: very good indeed. Pity about that trip near the end. Lost you the contest, you know Aye, it losi you the contest!'

A RINGING COMPETITION IN LANCASHIRE

1'HE writers of recent letters complaining of lack of interest in striking comperitions may like to know that such a competition was held by the Manchester Branch of the Lancashire Association at West Didsbury on October 20th.
For some time now the twin problems of increasing the number of Sunday service ringers and of improving the standards of such ringing have been discussed at all levels from the local tower to the Central Counoil. In Lancashire, the Manchester Branch in particular. under the able and enthusiastic leadership of Derek Ogden, have given considerable thought to these problems, and produced a closely reasoned report a few months ago, with some suggestions for solving them.
One of these suggestions was to hold striking competations for Sunday service bands. course the idea of striking competitions is no! new. but the suggestion that they should become an official and recognised part of the Lancashire Association activities is new.
After considerable discussion, the General Committee agreed that a trial competition should be held in the Manchester Branch and that other Branches could send observers who would be able to report back-not on the standard of striking attained, bui on the atmasphere and attitudes prevailing.
Fents had heen expressed (based on memories or stories of prize ringing) that the always entirely healthy. and that it could result in rivalries and attitudes which would be foreign to the true spirit and purpose of the Excroise. and could spoil its happy fellowship.
From all angles, however. this trial competition proved to be an unqualified success. Out of the 19 towers in the Branch. 13 bands took part: additional bands from the university and from Accrington made the total into 15 -so that 90 ringers in all took part in the competition!
Tolls. either Diece was 120 changes on six bolls: either Doubles or Minor, and the judges were the president and vice-president of the the Association (Rev. R. D. St. John Smith and Mr. Cyril Crossthwaite) and Mr. Denis Mnttershead. of Wilmslow (Cheshire).
The standard of striking was generally very good. particularly as this was the first time any of the bands had taken part in such a compet tion. and also that nearly ail of them included young ringers who had only recently learnt to ring.
St. Michael's 'A.' Ashton-under-L.yn= ( 10 fautis). were declared the winners. with St James ' 'B.' Birch-in-Rusholme ( $27 \frac{1}{2}$ faults), secand. Other teams, taking part were: Ashton. St. Michael ' B': Ashton. St peter: Flixton, St. Michael: Manchester Cathedral Manchester Town Hall: Mosslev. Si Georg Northenden. St. Wilfred: Pendlehury, Chrisi Church: Rusholme. St. James 'A': Prestwick, St Mary: Worsley. St. Mark: Accrington. St. James: and Manchester University.
During the afternoon and evening over 100 ringers were present, and at the business meeting which followed 20 new members were elected to the Association-a record for a Branch meeting. This. together with the for's that the atmosohere throuphout was dipht-hearted and friendlv. that the ringers taking part found it to bus an enioyable and stimulating exnerience: and that the standard of their striking must have improved as a result of their efforts-led to the conclusion that the experiment was an unqualified success Well done. Manchester!

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY

By holding the autumn meeting at Shenstone on October 20th, the Society departed from its more recent traditions. A long overdue visit was made to a five-bell tower. At 3.15 p.m. the new Taylor 'Minor' five were raised in peal and ringing continued, under the direction of the Master, Mr. James S. Eastwood, until service time.
This was conducted by the Vicar, Rev. J. Ormston, who, during his address, asked that all Ringing Masters of all belfries should consider saying the Lord's Prayer, before ringing for service. He knew that some ringers would find this embarrassing, but over the months they would begin to value it. Shenstone's Ringing Master, Mr. A. Paul Sheldon, accompanied on the organ.
At the nearby Oddfellows' Hall, Miss Aubrey Birch (one of the Shenstone ringers), together with a willing band of lady helpers, provided a bountiful tea.
The suggestion was made at the business meeting that the Society should hold its own annual striking competition. Members were asked to discuss this among themselves and a decision would be taken at the next meeting which would be held at Tettenhall on January 194h.
The following new members were elected: Mr. and Mrs. H. Poyner (Shrewsbury), Bernard Ongley (Goostrey, Cheshire). E. R. Morris and P Marnis (Hodnet), F. W. Rogers (Bournemouth), W. Talbot (Norton-in-Hales), W. Watkins (Swynnerton), as life members. New resident members elected were: John Wellings (Bilston). J. R. Terry (Gnosall), John Hatt (Lichfield), Miss Janice Macdonald. Michael P Crow and Eric Cran (Shenstone)
During the committee meeting. the Ernest Morris Memorial Window, Kilifí Church Bell and St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourse, funds were discussed. It was decided that the Society would not be making its own contribution to these funds, as it was felt more desirable that individual ringers should make their own, should they so desire. C. M.S.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD Chertsey District

For the first time since 1945 the Chertsey Distriot held a full meeting at St. James', Weybridge, $\cdot$ on October 13 th, and some 50 ringers kept the eight bells going to a variety of methods.
The Guild service was conducted by the Rev. John Dry, who preached on an unusual but profitable subject of ice cream bells. Many of those present were given a fresh light on their calling.
An excellent tea was provided by the local ringers' wives, led by Mrs. Luxford and Mrs. Tyndale-Biscoe
The Master (Mr. D. A. R. May) took the chair for the business meeting, at which five new members from Weybridge were elected, new members from weybridge were elected, and the election of three compounding memand the election of three bers from Herts ratified.
There was some discussion of the Bishop's remarks about the Cathedral bells. One speaker wished to know whether the Bishop expected the organist to pay for the organ, as the ringers were expected to provide the bells.
The District Ringing Master expressed pleasure at the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Simmonds and Mr. W. Shepherd
Further ringing took place till 8.30 p.m.

GIGGLESWICK, YORKS, RINGERS' OUTING

Churches in Lancashire and Westmorland were visited by Giggleswick ringers during their annual outing on September 22nd.
Ringing started at Leck ( 5 bells), where the tenor seemed to weigh twice its weight of 12 cwt . Kirkby Lonsdale came next, with its six bells: here we were joined by an old six bells: here we were joined by an oid friend, Mr. Ted Proctor. Kirkby Stephen (8) were a joy to ring. A parked tea was eaten in the market square.
Finally, Applety, where the bells were difficult to hear, but sounded nice outside.
Thanks are accorded to all incumbents, to tower captains and to Mr. Ted Proctor. the guide.

JOINT MEETING AT LYDNEY

An enjoyable meeting was held jointly by the Monmouth Branch of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association and the South Forest Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association at Lydney on October 20th. There was a large attendance, including visilors from as far afield as Scarborough and Hull. As could be expected with over 50 ringers present, ability varied and methods rung ranged from rounds to Cambridge Major. Everyone present had the oppontunity of ringing something within his scope, and in some cases, of adrancing a little.

The best thanks of the gathering are extended to the Rev. E. A. Perry, for conducting the service the Vicar (Rey. W. H. Leach), for permission to hold the meeting, Miss C. Sleeman (Ruardean), who played the organ at short notice, and Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Horritt, for an excellent tea.

THE LADIES' GUILD

North-Western District

A meeting of the North Western District was held at Bowdon, Chesthire, on Ootober 13th. Ringing on this pleasant eight commenced shortly after 3 p.m. and ranged from rounds to Surprise. A service was held in the century old church, followed by an excellent tea, served in the school by the local ringers, to which 40 people sat down.
During the business the following six members were eleoted: Miss R. Eccleston (Poynton). Misses C. Robinson. G. Forrest (Bowdon) Misses G. Hooley, W. Poynton, J. Burgess (Sutton). The boundaries of the Distriot were again discussed. but, although the secretaries of adjoining Distriots have been approached, the boundaries still cannot be defined.

This was the first meeting held alone by the District for eight years and the officers would like to thank all those who attended and helped to make it successful.

We hear that at Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand, an attempt was being made on October 20 th for a peal of Grandsire Triples. If successful it would be the first peal on the heavy bells (tenor 32 cwt .) A peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the light eight in 1903. Going to Chrisschurch for the occasion were Dan Richards, Wellington (Cambridge University), and John and Sheila White (late Universities Association).
The peal rung at Gosberton (Lincs) on October 6 th, reported on page 708, was for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. The conductor tends his apologies to all concerned.
The Lincoln Cathedral company enjoyed an outing in the form of a peal of Stedman Cinques at Aston, Birmingham, on October 20th.
Congratulations to 16 -year-old Patricia Lockwood, of Ossett, Yorks, whose first peal of Surprise was 6,480 Yorkshire Surprise Royad rung in four hours and four minutes-a unique distinction.
The band who rang the first peal of St. George's Doubles on the eve of the 1961 Patronal Festivail at Wootton, Northants, have been promised a peal board in the belfry, recording the performance!
Puttenham, Surrey, ringers believed that the quarter peal rung on their bells on October 14th was the first by local ringers. The band was re-formed 12 months ago and has already captured some of the enthusiasm of the Farnham District.
Regarding his letter on Spliced Surprise Royal, in four methods (see page 700), Mr. A. J. Pitman writes that he intended his letter to read: 'I presume it is the first in the four methods-London, Cambridge, Yorkshire and Rochester.'
Mr. Brook K. Lunn has returned to England having completed his course of Studies at Dublin University, graduating with a first-class moderatorship in Oriental languages. He rang with his colleagues at St. Patrick's Cathedral a farewell quarter on October 14 th .

GOSSIP

 augment the twelve at Shrews bury St. Chad's. The metal used will be taken from the bell which formerly hung in the Market Hall, but which fell and was broken during demolition operations early this year. It will bear the inscription: To tell passing hours was my former fame; With new note now I praise God's holy nąme.Have the bells of Tredunnock, Monmouthshire boen rung to a peal? The inquiry is from a South Wales Nomad.
Mr. Philip J. Evans, of St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, now roleased from 'doctor's orders,' has rung his first peal since his enforced retirement, sixteen months ago.
At a recent quarter peal in Darlington the rope on the seventh was held together by a shoelace, donated for that purpose by the ringer of the fifth.
The band who rang the peal of Stedman Triples at Whitchurch Canonicorum would like to associate with the peal the names of the president of the Guild (Canon C. Carew Cox) and Dr. E. L. Taylor, both of whom celebrated their 80th anniversary this year.
A peal of 20 Spliced Surprise Major methods, conducted by Mr. John R. Mayne, was rung at Bushey on October 20th. This is another addition to the Hertford County Association's records, being the first in 20 Spliced Surprise Major.
The author apologises for the belated appearance of a report of a Lincolnshire cricket match. but maybe the memory of a fine summer's day will be pleasant to contemplate as we enter the 'season of mists and mellow fruitfulness.'
The Peterborough Diocesan Guild has now in its records 20 different. Doubles peals, rung on the Featival of the saints concerned. This band of 'saintly' enthusiasts hopes to add St. Crispin's Doubles (for the Festival of SS. Crispin and Crispinian) and St. Jude's (for the Festival of SS. Simon and Jude). Peals to the four evangelists 'are also contemplated.

The Ringing World 'was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

THE LADIES' JUBILEE

T10 the outsider there are many things inexplicable about ringing. One is the strong appeal the Exercise makes to women. Undaunted by difficult ascents into belfries or even entry by perpendicular ladders. they are today to be found in the majority of belfries making a worthy contribution in Sunday service ringing and in practices and peals. Their names are to be found regularly in our peal columns.

But it was not always so. This issue contains the jubilee celebration of the Ladies' Guild; that women should participate in the pleasures of ringing was viewed with disfavour by many ringers 50 years ago. Opposition to the proposed Guild was ventilated in "The Ringing World.' one indignant reader giving three reasons for objecting:-
(1) They will do men out of their hobby.
(2) They will be given all the privileges, while the gentlemen ringers have to take a back seat and look on.
(3) They will do as that Vicar of Quorn, Leicester, said, ' cause all the trouble.'
Among the clergy who objected was the then Vicar of St. Paul's. Bedford. who, according to Miss Evelyn Steel. who started ringing in 1908, 'didn't think it nice for ladies to ring because the men rang without coats.' And what would the vicar say of a noted cleric, beloved of all ringers, who had been known to have rung a peal without his shirt!

Looking back, it cannot be denied that the work Mrs. Fletcher, then Miss Edith Parker, did in founding the Guild, not only secured for women a recognised footing in the Exercise but was a step forward in their emancipation. Mrs. Fletcher, with her enthusiasm. was well fitted for the task: but she had more than enthusiasm-the ability to demonstrate her efficiency as a ringer. She had rung her first peal in 1910 one of Superlative Surprise, in an age when Surprise ringing was confined to a narrow circleand in 1912 had conducted a peal of Stedman Cinques at Birmingham. She also conducted the first ladies' peal at Cubitt Town some three months before the inaugural meeting.
Miss White, of Basingstoke, the first lady to ring a peal, was the first president. Justification for women bellringers was soon to be found with men away on service during the 1914-18 war. A wartime expedient in many towers became a permanency. There were two girls who learnt to ring together in 1914-Annie Parkins and Phyllis Hare-who were destined to make a big contribution to ringing. The former became Mrs. Rupert Richardson and the other Mrs. Harold Poole. There is a delightful story told of the two girls being taken to a meeting of the Eastern District of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. Their presence gave such a thrill to the male ringers present that they had to ring in every touch during the afternoon and evening so that the males could go home and say they rang with a lady!
Somehow the Ladies' Guild and the Central Council have become tightly entwined. Recognition of the Ladies' Guild came as early as 1915, and Miss Edith Parker was one of their first representatives. She was still a member in 1952. never having missed a meeting, and in 1953 life membership was conferred upon her in recognition of her work as assistant secretary of the Council. She was secretary of the Ladies' Guild for 35 years, and then became president.
A worthy lieutenant of Edith Parker in those early days was Elsie Bennett, who stood in the first ladies' peal-one of her 320 . She was the third president of the Guild, and it is her daughter. Mrs. Olive Barnett, who is the Guild's president during the Jubilee year. The Phyllis Hare of 1914 was the mother of another Guild president. Mrs. Jill Stentiford. These three had two other past presidents with them at the dinner-Miss Evelyn Steel. who is now past 80 years of age, and Mrs. Tom Lock, who before marriage was Kathleen Bradford. At the dinner the narrator of the Guild's history was another of the very earliest members-Mrs. F. M. Mitchell, vice-president of Kent Branch, who had with her three generations of her family.

Today there are few honours in the realm of ringing that have not fallen to women. They have been presidents of county Associations- -the Bedfordshire and Truro Diocesan Guild; at the universities we have seen noted ringers as Masters (at Oxford and Bristol), while quite a number have held the office of District Ringing Masters. Today the question of sex rarely enters into the picture-women with the experience and qualifications are elected to these offices and as tower captains.
While women have not figured in long length pealsalthough the records were kept by two women for many years (Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Marshall)-they are to be found in the front rank of advanced ringing. Two women have also rung more than 100 peals in a year-Mrs. Marshallsay and the late Mrs. Harold Poole.
The companionship of the belfry has in very many cases become the companionship of the home. While there are no statistics available, it is probably true to say that more ringers marry ringers than outside the Exercise. Perhaps it is only natural, for in many male eyes feminine charm is at its height when viewed from the end of a bell rope. The Ladies' Guild is truly established, and with the knowledge of the health-giving properties of ringing, the secretary of the Central Council was correct when he foretold that among those present at the Jubilee dinner were some who would live to see the centenary of the Guild. And so may it be.

LADIES' GUILD REVIEW Founder Members at the Jubilee Dinner

1. ACK of accommodation restricted the at 11 tendance at the jubilee dinner of the Lidies Guild, held at the Victoria Hotel. London. cn October 27th. There must have been hundreds. including the founder-secretary. Mrs, E. K. Fletcher, whose thoughts were with those attending the golden occasion in the history of the Guild. The gold was provided by the father of the president (Mr. F. 1. Hairs). In front of each guest was a golden paper bell which served as a name card.

Links with the early days were not lacking. Among them were Mrs. E. M. Mitchell, who told the story of the Guild. and had three generations of her family present in Mrs. Goldship and Miss Sandra Galdship: Mrs. F. I. Hairs and Miss E. Steel (early presidents): Mrs. A. Richardson, who brought her ringing daughter and granddaughter with her. Past presidents of recent years presen: ware Mrs. T J. Lock and Mrs. P. J. Staniforth. From the chair. Mrs. E. A. Barnett maintained a happy f:mily atmosphere and the evening passed all 100 quickly.

APOLOGIES

The president read three letters of apology for absence. Mrs. Fletcher, from Caister-onSea, wrote: : 1 am very sorry that I do not feel I can be with you on Saturday, hut I shall be there in spirit. I had hoped I should be able to come, but although feeling much better, my hearing does not improve very quickly.

However. I fee! so proud that the Guild has reached its 50 th birthday. and 1 should like to thank you all for your support. especially those still active members who hoisted the flag in 1912 and are still helping to keep it flying. We have had "ups and downs " due partly to the two great wars, but there have always heen willing helpers to carry on.

Keep on with the good work! My love to you all, and have a very happy evening. I will toast the Guild on Saturday at our own fireside.

The other letters were from Mrs. Emma Deal and Mrs. Gladys Barker. The president aiso mentioned that her daughter was in hospital and they would not let her out.

Proposing the loast of "The Church." the president said: "Although I don't know what the Church would do without women $t o$ undertake so many of the humdrum tasks so essential 10 its wellbeing, the fact is, as the Bishop of Chester said a few weeks ago, . the Churzh has in the past and still today is failing in large measure in its ability to offer to them opporcunities comparable to their gifts and qualifications.

The Bishop's partial remedy for this was to encourage the formation of a women's fellowship in his diocese, and 1 wonder whether, as a ringer himself in his younger days, he may have remembered something of the fellowship of Guilds such as ours. Whether so or not. if the Church in general could not do without somen, it is equally certain the belfries could not either. It is encouraging that only yesterday a report to go to the Church Assembly on :he place of women in the Church was published.

RECOGNITION OF RINGING
One of the most gratifying features of the present day, continued the president, was that clergy were coming more and more 10 recognise ringing as an important part of church services. Most of them would admit that their first interest in ringing came probably from curiosity and a desire to thave a go if they had no ringing connections or if they, like herself, had come from a ringing family where it was often for peace and quietness that they took up ringing in the first place!

To most of them ringing was very much more than a sport or hobby, as they quickly realised that to become a full member of the Exercise they had also to fulfil their duty to the Church. and though they might not attend every service for which they rang there was a certain sense of belonging that bound them to the Church, and they looked beyond ringing as a pleasant nobby and hoped that their small part did something to stir the large proportion of people who never went to church
' At the moment," said Mrs. Barnett, " 1 come in contact with a lot of these, but 1 am always glad to hear their reaction when I mention having been ringing. Very often it is: "Oh! I heard the bells on Sunday-I suppose we ought to go to church hut there's never time." Not much. perhaps, but at least their consciences have been stirred and it is possible the clergy are coming to realise that bells are certainly the biggest, certainly the loudest, advertisement they have. At the Worcestershire Association dinner the Bishop told of how, when he was Vicar of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, his great friend a docior who never put a foot inside the church. used to complain of the bells, and did so rather forcibly on one occasion. The Bishop said to him: ". My dear doctor, it is not the bells which are troubling you, it is your conscience." The doctor never complained again.

A WONDERFUL TRADITION

The Rev. J. Evans. Vicar of Walton-onThames, who depwised for the Rev. T. Ryder. of St. Clement Danes. who was indisposed. replied. He said it 'was a tremendous privilege -even at five minutes notice-to respond. He understood that there were present three who were founder members ' 50 years ago. He echoed what their president had said of the tremendous value to the Church and the community of the bells which rang out from their churches. It was a wonderful tradition that they had, and they should with glory and pride hand it on to those who succeeded them.
Mr. Evans said he understood that the Guidd had a dinner to celebrate its silver jubilee and others for 40 years and 45 years. At the first of those dinners Miss Dorothy Sayers was present, and at the other Lady Barnett as the lady Mayoress of Leicester
The toast of The Guild was proposed by Mr. Frederick Sharpe, president of the Central Council, who said he was delighted to be present on such an historic occasion in the life of the Guild. In that half-century tremendous changes had taken place in outlook and traditions had altered. It was after eight ladies had met at Cubitt Town in 1912, and had rung for the first time a peal. that their Guild was formed. In those days women were not entirely welcomed in the belfries. but all that had now changed. How different was it today: at their meetings there were as many women as men. and peals were being rung every week in which women took part. Their Guild was in a very flourishing condition and their branches were going forward from strength to strength. thanks to the hard work of their officers.

SOME STALWARTS

It was difficult to mention names. but he would like to mention Mrs. Fletcher, and they were very sorry that she could not be with them. As Edith Parker, she sonducted that first peal in 1912 and was a founder member and secretary of their Guild for over 35 years. their president for eight years, and was known throughout the Exercise for the good work she had done on the Central Council.

A founder member they were delighted to have with them was Miss Evelyn Steel, who was in the band who rang that first peal. and was a past president of the Guild. Another lady who was at the actual foundation meeting and whose life had been devoted to their art was Mrs. Hairs. She was the only lady living who was a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths. Her daughter and granddaughter were both ringing members. Another lady he would mention was Mrs. Richardson, who had been secretary of the Lincolnshire Branch for 36 years and had represented the Guild on the Central Council for 30 years. She had her daughter and grand-daughter with her that night. Mrs. Richardson and Her daughter. Enid, took part in the Australian tour.

Mr. Sharpe recalled three women who were bell-founders. There was in the 13th and 141h centuries Christiana of Gloucester. whose bells were finely cast. and there was in London another famous lady. Joanna Hille, afterward's Joanna Sturdy, who was the uidow of iwo bell-founders. In the present century they hid enly one-Mrs. Thomas Bond, of Burford. who trequenily cast bells with her hushand. Only one lady had altempled a survey of a countys hells. She was Mary Fair, who surveyed the bells of the county of Cumberland.

Concluding. Mr. Sharpe paid tribute to the work of Miss Doris Colgate as secretary of the Guild for the past ten years, and to the president for her work not only for the Guild but behind the scenes for the Central Council. Coupling the name of Mrs. Mitchell with the loast. the proposer said she had held office in the Guild longer than any other member.

-THE SUFFRAGETTES.

Mrs. F. M. Mitchell. vice-president. Kent Branch, whe replied, said encouragement was certainly needed by those of them who were linging in the years prior to the formation of the Ladies' Guild. They were often met with at hastile attitude from the opposite sex, even by parsons, and it would be cuite true to say that they were "the sulfragettes" of the Exercise and almost bulldozed their way into some sowers. 'I know I did!' said Mrs. Mitchell. to the delight of the assembly.

Giving highlights oi the past 50 years, Mrs. Mitchell said the first ladies peal was rung on July 20th. 1912. at Cubitt Town, hefore the Guild was founded in the following October.

Much time, talk and visits to other parts of the country by Miss Parker, now Mrs. Fletcher, tcok place, to say nothing of the many letters she wrote as well as notices in. The Ringing World to find out how the idea of such a Guild would be received. So great was the support from ladies then ringing that on Octoher 26th, 1912, at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, the Ladies Guild became an accomplished fact. with 15 of the 40 ladies who promised to join dt the inaugural meeting. the Editor of The Ringing World: Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, taking the chair temporarily.
Rules were drawn up and a conmittee of seven appointed, including the newly-elected president. Miss White, of Basingstoke, and, of course, the hard-working Miss E. K. Parker. The country was divided into five areas, the subscripion being 1 s ., with honorary members. 5 s .. which remained the same until four years ago.

Very happy District meetings were held, also A.G.M.'s, with a steadily-increasing membership: but with the coming of the war in 1914 some activities had to be abandoned, although, on the other hand, it was a great opportunity for the Indies to show their skill by keeping the towers open and the hells ringing, while the gentlemen were 'doing their bit for the country. So, far from being pushed out they were at last really and truly welcomed.

MEMBERSHIP 300 AFTER 25 YEARS
Their firsi highlight was in 1937, when the Guild celebrated its silver jubilee with ringing and a service at St. Clement Danes and a dinner at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet Street. where they had the honour of entertaining Miss Dorothy Sayers, author of The Nine Tailors.
During the 25 years the membership had risen from 40 to 300 , Miss Steel being the then president. Miss White, the first president, resigned through marriage: Miss Pigoit, she believed. passed away while in office, and Mrs. Hairs was elected to fill her place. Mirs, Fletcher was still secretary-no opposition! By this time they had also hecome affiliated to the Central Council.

Another 15 years passed. with membershin stili increasing. Mrs. Fletcher having succeeded Miss Steel as president. Miss Snowdon taking over as secretary for a short period before Miss Colgate was persuaded to take on the aiduous task. The second highlight was their 40 th hirthday at Leicester on October 25th. 1952. the dinner arranged by the Midland Districi receiving the verdict, "the best ever dinner." They entertained not only the Lord Bishon of Leicester. but also the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress.

The 45 th anniversary dinner was arrangod at the Fanmakers Hall. Bishopsgate. on $\mathrm{O}=10-$ ber 14th. 1957. with ringing and a service at St. Bo:olph's. An after dinner social was arranged hy Mrs. L.ock, the then presidant. some of the artistes heing members of the Guild.

CATERS BAND OF 25 YEARS AGO  REASSEMBLES

One of the greatest highlights was the gathering of the clans in January. 1961, at St. Clement Danes on the occasion of the dedication of the new peal board, recording the ladies peal of Stedman Caters which had been rung 35 years before. the original board having been destroyed by enemy action. All tut one of the original peal hand rang the service and dedication touch. Mrs. Staniforth. uho was president. taking the place of Mrs. Fletcher. who was not feeling too well.
As this had been the only 10 bell peal by ladies. it was considered time this was rectified. and as a result of the meeting 10 ladies derided to meet at Leicester and altemp: a peal of Cambridge Royal. Of course, all ringers were thrilled when. Stand was salled for the success of another ladies" peal, which brought the total to 35 -a splended achievement.

LADIES' JUBILEE-Continued

With Mrs. Barnett as their present president they were celebrating their golden jubilee and it was good to see so many of the younger generation coming into the ranks of ringers, as $y^{r}$ would be up to them to keep the Ladies ${ }^{5}$ Guild in full swing. So from a mere 40 . fifty years ago. they had reached approximately 800 jolly, happy and, looking round the company, a good looking bunch of lady ringers.

We must also be a very romantic Guild by the number of gentlemen who have found their life partners from among our ranks? Bui. please, don't let them persuade you to give up the Ladies' Guild: it is the only Guild they cannot join. so it may be a case of a wee bit of jealousy! But they will always be more than welcome to help with the ringing at our meetings.

Life is what one makes $i_{i}$, so I hope you. the younger ones especially, will make the Ladies' Guild as happy and flourishing in the future as it has heen in the past, and may it reach its century

OTHER DUTIES

Mrs. D. J. King, secretary of the South Wales Branch. in proposing 'The Guests said half their members besides being bell ringers were choristers. Sunday school teachers and members of P.C.C.s; Many were also an Young Wives". Mothers' Union or Women's Fellowship organisations and were found in great numbers in young communicants. Very few. in fact. were solely bell ringers, but she had yet to hear of one who was a churchwarden.
In a welcome to the husbands and the hushands-to-be present, Mrs. King said gentlemen bell tingers were divided into two classes, not College Youths or Cumberlands. hu: those who support Ladies' Guild meetings and those who would not be seen near one. They appreciated the former and were sorry the others were so misguided

Mr. E. A. Barnett. in his reply, assured Mrs. King that all the men dresent that evening were supporters of the Ladies" Guild. Men took a keen interest in women's activitiesone had only to go at Junch time in the City and see the crowds of men watching the netball games at Lincolns Inn. He wished the Guild well and that it would reach its century. There were many present that evening. he thought, who would witness that event.
At the conclusion Mrs. Staniforth expressed the appreciation of the gathering to the subcommittee under their president, consisting of Mrs. Oatway. Miss Freda Cannon, and the general secretary for organising the jubilee. The hulk of the work, she said. fell on their president and she presented her on behalf of the gathering with a box of chocolates.

A musical programme was provided by Miss Hazel Simkins and Miss Jean Strudwick. In the afternoon a service was held at St Clement Danes'. conducted by the chaplain. the Rev. T, Ryder, and there were also ringing facilities at a number of London churches.

LEICESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

The Melton Mowbray District were the hosts for the third quarterly mecting of the Guild which was held at Melton Mowbray on Oetober 20th. The local District committec had organised a complete ringing programme for the large number present. During the afternoon the bells at Ashby Folville. Asfordhy and Melton Mowbray were rung. Two unfortunate incidents were a 20 -minute touch of Minor at Asfordby, when approximately 40 ringers were waiting a chance of a ring, and a half-course of Yorkshire Royal at Melton which came to an ignominious end.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon C. M. S. Clarke, at which the president. Mr. F. K. Measures, read the lesson.

Tea was served in the Colles Hall for 117 certainly the largest gathering the secretary has ever known at a quarterly meeting. The 'ladies' were expecting about 40 to 50 but, as everybody had sent in their names. they were able to recruit extra help and a 'firs!-class ringers' tea was the result. Great credit is due to Mrs. M. Stimson (Melton District secretary) for the way in which she organised the catering. In opening the business meeting, the president thanked Canon Clarke, and all who had made arrangements for the meeting. He welcomed Mr. J. Gillson, of Melton- 87 years of age: and also visitors who were present from Weldon. Peterborough, Southgate. Cheshire and Heckington. Canon Clarke suitably replied. and referred to the illness of Mr . Tom Templeton (member of the local hand and a one-time District secretary), whom he had visited in hospital.

Before the reading of the minutes the president presented certificates of membership to ten members. Arising out of the minutes, it was announced that the 1963 dinner would he held again at the Shakespeare Hotel. Braunstone, on Saturday. November 2nd. 1963. and the annual meeting on April 20th. 1963.

SOUTH WALES NOMADS

$\mathrm{C}^{\mathrm{H}}$HEPSTOW'S familiar traffic jam provided a slow start to the fourth S.W.N. annual tour. When a small party of ringers set out by coach from Newport on August 13th. After a change of vehicles and a hasty snack at Cheltenham. Gloucestershire's drizzle was soon left hehind as we turned southwards. arriving $m$ Newbury at about $4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. Public service bus took us to Midgham. our first tower, where we were joined by the Rev. 'Ken' Davis, Rector of Tadley. The light. well-going ring was soon announcing our arrival. At Tadley we held a last-minuie briefing on the tour in the Rectory before booking in at the Lawes Corner Hotel, our headquarters for the week.
Tuesday began with fine weather and a walk to Holy Communion at St. Saviour's. Tadley. The rain returned and Ken's transport to Beenham and Bradfield was much appreciated. A tax: ride along near-flooded roads enabled u.s to reach Yattendon, where a faulty clockhammer took much persuasion to "keep off:"

Ken rejoined us here with the offer of a quick visit to Chaddleworth. where he had arranged to 'grab' the quiet musical four. Mr . Lawrenson and his daughter rang with us at Shaw, before showing us the way to Thatcham. Here our stay at the practice night was disappointingly short as the last bus to Tadley left us only 20 minutes to enjoy the fine octave.

FIVE-MILE HITCH HIKE

A five minute overlap in transport times the nex! morning resulted in a five-mile hitch hike to Ellisfield. No lifts were obtained and thus. an hour late, we arrived at the church. After sampling this rather loud five we were grateful to our host for lifts to the main rond, where hitch hiking proved more successful. and Alton was soon reached. A train ride to Alresford and a trek across field and common brought us to Tichborne, a truly picturesque villige, with its thatched inn and cottages. The bells were tried, photographs were taken. and then we headed towards Winchester, where the evening practize at the Cathedral was much enjoyed:

No ringing had been organised for Thursday. hut the weather did not merit the intended tri, to the coast. Consequently we inspected Tadley's stayless three and then strolled to Baughurst. where the Vicar saw us looking around the church and. on discovering we were ringers gave us permission to ring. Meanwhile. Ken had arranged an evening vsit to Padworth, where it was astounding to find that a new organ had heen installed on the halcony in such a position that the fourth rope could no longer pass to the ringing chamber below

Iaverstoke's six were much appreciated on Friday morning, but the 'go' ant Hurstbourne Priors was found to be extremely hard. Our route to King's Somborne lay through very pleasant countryside and, with the sun now making one of its rare appearances, the idea of an afternoon lazing hy the River Test was tempting. Leckford's tiny tower was not shown on the Ordnance Survey map. After a short ring on the five bells we proceeded to Longparish: ringing here being followed by a 21 mile dash to catch the homeward bus.
Special mention must be made of the Kingsclere ringers who met in force to ring with us on Saturday. Eight-hell ringing is a comparatively new venture at this lower and we were pleased to be able to 'stand in' to enable some of the locals to achieve a course of Stedman Triples.
We had heen told that there was to be a wedding later in the morning at Newbury and sn the opportunity of a ring on this grand ten was grasped by those not otherwisc engaged. The evening was spent in Blasingstoke. and an excellent dinner at the Grapes
Ho:el concluded our programme. G. M.

Bishop at Worcestershire and Districts Association Dinner

0NE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIVE people attended the 25 th annual dinner of the Worcestershire and Districts Assosiation. held at the Co-operative Hall. Worcester, on Oetoter 13th. The Rt. Rev. L. M. Charies: Edwards, Bishop of Worcester and Patron of the Association, took the chair in the abserice of the president. tre Very Rev. R. L. P. Milhurn, Dean of Worcester. Mrs. Charles-Edwards accompanied the Bishop.

Mr. E. A. Barnett, secretary of the Central Council, proposed the loast of "The Worcestershire and Kindred Associations. ${ }^{\text {© }}$ He reminded the members that the Association was now 80 sears old. He had with him a copy oi the jubi'ee annual report (1932), in which a polled histery of the Association to that time had been incorporated. He recalled personalities and peals from this and paid tribute to the Asscciation's founders. Mr. Barnett then resalled his own days in Worcester during the war when. for four months, he was stationed at R.A.F. Tallow Hill, formerly the workhouse Referring to the grant of a faculty fast year for the installation of "canned" bells at St. John's, Kidderminster, Mr. Barnetl said he understoof that application had been made for a faculty for the installation of yet ancther syntheric ring in Kidderminster. He knew how stroagly the Association fought such applizd(ions, and he gave it every eaccuragement and support.

A BISHOP'S APPEAL
He also referred to the challenge of the Bishop of Guildford to the ringers of his diocese to provide the ring of bells for the new cathedral. Mr. Barnett did not agree with the Bishop's proposition.
The toast was responded 10 by Mr. M. D. Fellows. one of the younger members of the Association. He first appealed to his younger colleagues to follow the example of their predecessors, as Mr. Barnett had reminded them. and to support fully their own bands and the Association. To the older members he said that youth looked to them for encouragement. leadership and tolerance.
Proposing a loast to "The Chairman, Mr. W. B. Cartwright. Master, said that the Bishop was a very good friend of ringers and they were very glad he was able to attend the dinner. The Association were grateful to him for his support in their objections to synthetic bells.

Replying, the Bishop said he was pleased to say that the latest application at Kidderminster had been withdrawn and that the Diocesan Chancellor had made it clear that no faculties for such installations would be granted except in exceptional circumstances.

The Bishop said that bellringers were good publicity agents for the Church, and when people complained about bellringing he wondered if it was because their consciences were being pricked. He had instructed his rural deans to arrange for the bells to be rung where at all possible. whenever he visited churches in the diocese for confirmations or inductions. Not out of deference to him but 10 remind people that an important event was to take place.

Bishop L. M. Charles-Edwards presenting a gold watch to Mr. J. D. Johnson, on retirement, after 27 years as general secretary. A watels was also presented to Mrs. Johnson.

PRESENTATION TO MR. JOHNSON

The Bishop then turned to another matter, the presentation to be made to Mr. J. D. Johnson. who hidd. retired earlier this year after 40 sears in office. 27 of them as general secretary. To mark these years of service. members of the Asscciation had subscribed 10 a gold watch. which was presented to Mr. Johnson by the Bishop. Mrs, Johnson, the secretary's secretary. was also presented with a watch

Mr. Johnson expressed sincere thanks on behalf of his wife and himself for the gifts. As secretary, he had thought of himself not as 'captain of the ship hut rather as their "umble servant, always willing to carry out the instructions of the committee. He paid tribute to all those officers with whom he had worked, and a special tribute to his wife for her help and forhearance He appealed to the older members 10 fostel'the enthusiasm of youth, who now constituted 6() per cent. of the Assosiation's niembership.

The entertainment began with a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells, by Susan Jack son 1-2, R. G. Morris 3-4. H. Neill 5-6, D. Beacham 7-8. G. Evenden 9-10. This was followed by professional entertainment for half-an-hour. Dancing-for the first time at a din-ner-then followed until 11 p.m. D. B.

RINGING IN SCOTLAND

Dear Sir,-While glancing through the letters in The Ringing World over the past few weeks, I noticed a correspondence concerning the conditions of ringing in Scotland There were contributions from bath sides of the border and the opinions expressed were, I thought. typical of the side of the border from which they came. In general, the English attitude seems to assume that a band of touring ringer: is perfectly within its rights to come to a Scattish tower and ring solidly for the whole of the alloited time. The complaints from the local inhabitants, though regrettable, are futile since official permission was given in the first place. and secondly, the offending ringers have long since moved on to their next fower. The Scottish replies, however. suggest that these complaints are not as futile as they appear and it must be remembered that it is not the visitors who suffer as a result hecause they have been and gone, but it's their hos's who remain that become the larget of the locals' displeasure.
The whole situation boils down to the fact that the English ringers don"t fully appreciate the true conditions of local ringing here. This can be only realised after actually living in Szotland: thus nobody knows more than the Scotish ringers themselves about the difficulties encountered in ringing north of the border.

In most parts of England there is always a tower somewhere nearby where permission (4) ring a peal can be oblained at a week's notice. or even less; I know this because many times I have seen the complete arrangements for a peal executed within the space of a few days: in fact I have even done it myself once or twice, but up here things are different.
In Dundee there are two rings of eight (his represents about one-seventh of the ringable bells in the whole of Scotland). We have, between these two towers. a complement of some forty odd ringers, but hardly a quarter of these are change ringers, and of these only four or five at the most could stand in a peal. Thus if anyone in Dundee wishes to attempt a peal, after obtaining permission to ring at one of the towers (which is a feat in itself). at least three ringers have to be imported from elsewhere. Looking at this from an English point of view. you would rrobably say 'So what? G.o to the next village and get some singers from there., but in this case the "next village" is Edinburgh across the Finths of Tay and Forth, an expensive train journey away.
My aim in writing this is not just to get a dig at the English ringers, I am one myself, but merely to state what appears to me to be the actual situation here. I have only been in Dundee for a few weeks, but already I am beginning to appreciate the difficulties the Scottish ringers have to face. They are fighting to keep ringing alive in a part of the country where over a hundred miles can separate neighbouring towers. towers belonging to a Church which appears alien to the average Presbyterian Scotsman: so when Scottish ringers write complaining that visits by enthusiastic English peal bands don't help them much in their struggle, then they know what they're talking about.-Yours faithfully. Dundee, Angus.

METHODS WANTED

Dear Sir,-May I ask Mr. F. T. Blagrove $t 0$ publish the figures of two Minor methods rung recently in seven Minor peals. Dorney Court. rung at Dorney. 24-6-62. St. Nichalas". rung at Horton and Fulmer, 25-8-62.-Yours faithfully. WRIAN J. WOODRUFFE.

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE ROYAL
Dear Sir.-In part answer to Mr. Roger Savory's enquiry re the false composition of Cambridge Surprise Royal rung at Coalbrookdale in 1933, I would refer him to the editorial article in "The Ringing World of August 7th. 1936, under the heading of Tampering with Compositions, which makes the following comment: Only a couple or so years ago, a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal, composed by the late William Pye, was rung in which, in order to produce "better music, three home bobs were omitted from one place, and put in at the end of the peal to bring 5-6 at home at three course ends. That alteration made the peal false.

The conductor who thought he could 'improve on Mr. Pye's composition was a wellknown figure of the day, but quite obviously was unaware of the piffalls. The editorial referred to above would suggest that his error had by this time been discovered, but whethe: or not the peal at Coalbrookdale was subsequently withdrawn I could not say.-Yours truly.
L. W. G. MORRIS.

Bradford.

Mr. Martin D. Fellows writes: "If Mr Savory cares to examine a copy of the 1934 Worcestershire annual report he will see that on page 37 a note is inserted to the effect that this peal is not included in any records. In the same report a true variation of the false peal is given as follows:-
5.040 CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE ROYAL William PYe
23456 M $43652=$

| 23456 |  | - |  |

Mr. Hector G. Pride, who was in the peal in question, writes: I believe it was Mr. C. W. Roberts who wrote to the late Mr. Robert Matthews, who conducted, pointing out its falseness. The peal was withdrawn by the conductor in the usual way. Also I have this peal blue pencilled crossed false " in my peal book.
Mr. David Beacham, general secretary of the Worcestershire and Districts Association. writes confirming that the annual report for 1934 stated that the composition was false and the peal was omitted from the Association's records.

POSITION OF THE BOB

Dear Sir- Mr. Brand in his letter comments that "it is common practice, to call a 4ths places bob in Minor methods. It has. of course, been so made only by the C.C. rulings At one time it was just as common for there to be 4ths place methods with 6ths place hobs. With methods such as Duke of York there would. in fact. be no method at all without 4 ths place lead-ends as both 2nds and foths places lead to repetition. There were many such methods
In other methods such as New London Pleasure and Violet, both of which appeared a: individual methods in 'Campanologia of 1702, the bob lead of one is the plain lead of the other and vice versa. (There is no Inds phace variation.) Ringers learnt to ring them as separate methods (I did), and indeed they are still thus rung in this area, although it is common knowledge that they bob each other.' Again there were many such pairs, some even with a 2nds place variation as well. so that ringers did. in fast, have their bread buttered on three sides.

George Lewis used to relate how he visited a tower (I think it was Ecclesnield) on two occasions when the conductor called New London with nine bobs on the first and Violet with 21 bobs on the second. He was astounded when George pointed out that the two 720 's were identical! Nobody minds these inconsistencies, and the danger that these methods will become common property, as feared by Mr. Brand, is. I think. remote.

There is a 4ths place variation of Cambridge which is called Ebor Surprise, although it would always have been regarded as Duke of York (not Cambridge Bob!) and Cambridge.

The Primrose Surprise mentioned by Mr. Brand was first published under that name. so far as I can ascerlatin. in the 1907 Collection of Minor Methods. It had previously appeared as Ringers' Surprise in a collection of methods by W. Walker, which was published in "The Bell News" in 1882-3, and was always rung under that name at Wath, Felkirk, and other places. The original Primrose Surprise. which is two centuries older, consisted of Cambridge $S$. lead-ends with Annable's 'back-work" and has "irregular" lead-ends.
It is more than likely that many peal boards before 1900 which show Primrose Surprise are recording the older method and that Ringers Surprise was the present Primrose There was a "Ringers' Surprise " in Thackrah's book. although it would not be a Surprise method under present classification. I don't think, however, it was rung a great deal and then. I imagine, only locally.
I may add. Mr. Brand, that not all my information has been of, easy access. I have been scraping odd bils from here and there for a long time now.-Yours sincerely.
H. CHANT.

Ryhill, Wakefield.

DUNHOLME BELLS

Dear Sir,-With reference to Dunholme bells (page 716) I must apologise for any distress that I may have caused. I had no intention whatsoever of suggesting that this ring could be improved. There was an unfortunate error in transcript. As I stated in my report, the bells are excellent and obviously receive careful attention.-Yours faithfully

Marlow. Bucks.

MR. JOHN W. SPENCER

On August 19th. John William Spencer passed away quietly, whilst sitting in his usual pew at St. Stephen's Church of England, Richmond. Victoria. Jack Spencer, as he was known, was captain of St. Paul's Cathedral Society of Bellringers, Melbourne, for many years.

Born in England, 70 years ago, he was taught to ring by the late Ernest Morris, and emigrated to Victoria when only 20 years of age. He was a quiet, very likeable man, ever ready to help learners and always available where and when bellringers were needed for both Sunday and special services.

An accomplished method ringer. he had the privilege and pleasure of ringing in the peal of Grandsire Cinques in 1934 during the visit 10 this country by 'The Great Adventure ' Engtisin ringers.

For some years, Jack had not been well enough to climb to the belfry and participate in any ringing, but was able to make a trip to England, with Mrs. Spercer, during the last 12 months. where he visited relatives and old friends whom he had not seen since leaving for Australia so many years ago.

He was a keen churchman, and gave many years of service 10 both St. Stephen's Parish Church. Richmond. and the Cathedral, for which we are all most grateful.

The president of A.A.N.Z.A.B. and the captain of St. Paul's Sosiety attended the funeral service at St. Stephen's Church, Richmond, and offered the sympathy of all bellringers to Mrs. Spencer and her family.

A half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung the same evening as a last token of respect.

THE REV. H. B. HOLDERNESS

The Rev. H. B. Holderness who, at the time of his death on October 16ith was Rector of Clifton Reynes with Newton Blossomville, Bucks, was particularly well known to Leicestershire ringers.

Starting as a school teacher at St. Margaret's School. Leicester, he served as a naval rating in World War I, and was ordained in 1929. After serving as a curate at Melton, he was later Vicar of Holy Trinity, Loughborough. For 10 years from 1942 he was Vicar of St. Saviour's, Leicester, and afterwards Vicar of Great and Little Dalby. He was also well known in masonic circles.

TAVISTOCK DEANERY FESTIVAL

The bells of nine churches in the Tavistock Deanery. Devan, rang out gaily on October 27th. when they were visited by teams of ringers taking part in the annual Deanery ringing festival.
Although most of the ringers in this part of Devon are call change men - enough method ringers turned up to make a team. With the Rev. G. Ruming. Rector of Calstock, and Mr. W. Boucher, of Launceston. to keep things moving good striking was heard in some Grandsire Doubles. The towers visited were Stowford. Buckland Monachorum, Meavy. Whitchurch. Petertavy. St. Stephen's, Launzeston. Kelly. Bradstone. Bradstone played host for the afternoon, and after a service in the tiny oil-lit church, at which the Rector (the Rev. Mark L. Thornewill) officiated, assisted by Preb. B. C. C. Prait. a hearty tea was provided by Mrs. S. Horrell and helpers in the Church Hall at neighbouring Kelly.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GULLD  Sonning Deanery Branch

About 30 members of the Sonning Deanery Branch. representing six towers. attended a course of instruction at Sandhurst on October 27th. In the school-room, by the church, a bell rope had been hung from the rafter, and a full explanation was given of the correct way to instruct a learner and the various faults to watch for by Mr. A. D. Barker. Afterwards the young learners present were taken to the tower and given practical instruction in rounds.
Tea and a welcome from the new Rector preceded Evensong.

The second lecture was by Mr. Wilfred G. Wilson. who. with the aid of a blackboard and chalk. and numerous charts. explained how changes were built up. Six young learners with a handbell each were used to demonstrate the talk A talk on the conducting of Plain Bob Major concluded the course, at about 8.15 p.m.. after which ringing took place in various Minor and Doubles methods Lintil 9 p.m.

Golden wedding congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Thampson. of Mill House, Hardwick. Mr. Thompson. who is a retired miller, has been a member of the Norwich Diocesan Association for 58 years. To mark the anniversary a quarter peal was rung at Si. Mary Magdalene. Pulham Market.

Mr. A. Raymond M. Watkin has now "circled the tower' at St . Oswald's, Bidston, Cheshire.

Whitley Bay put on something special for Mr. R. Alder Gofton's 85th birthday-a peal of London Surprise Major, and he rang the third!

Congratulations to Mr. Frank Sherman. of Great Gransden. Huntingdon, on his 75th birthday, and completing 50 years' service as ringer and tower-keeper at St . Bartholomew's Church, Great Gransden.

The Leicester Diocesan Guild have just held a quarterly meeting at Mellon Mowbray. The last there was in February, 1952. 'Let's hope we don't have to wait another 10 years for the next, implore the locals.

Mr. G. K. Dodd writes: 'The footnote to the Burghclere peal (page 740) is incorrect. Ascension Doubles is Plain Bob with a Grandsire single and a Reverse Canterbury bob. My apologies to all concerned.

A letter frem Southern Rhodesia informs us that Sunday service ringing takes place regularly at the Cathedral. This month Joan Winter is returning to England. There are hopes of a peal of Doubles before she leaves.

Six bells, dating back some 500 years, from the new demolished St. Nicholas'. Church. Colchester, are to be incorporated in Essex's newest church. St. Martin of Tours, at Basildon. The new church will be consecrated by the Bishop of Chelmsford on November 10th. Mr. Frederick E. Day is the first 'post-war; ringer of the South-West Branch of the Devon Guild to calt a 10 -bell peal. This he did on July 10 th by conducting C. W. Robarts' 5.039 Grandsire Caters. Now he has called his first of Royal.

Mr. Norman Chaddock has had a disappointment. The warden at Grantley Hall has oold him that the demand for courses has been so great that bell ringing has been "pushed out:" It is on his list of priorities for late 1962 or early 1963.

- The golden rule of the belfry is "Keep your ears and eyes open and your mouth shut." " -Notice in Benenden, Kent, belfry.
Congratulations to all the ladies who rang in the peal of Plain Bob Major at Batley on October 23rd, for ringing an excellent peal.
Doyen of the Radcliffe-on-Trent band is Mr. Stephen Loach, now 81. who has been a member of the band for 55 years. He rang in the peal of Grandsire Triples in honour of his diamond wedding.
The peal of Little Bob Major rung at Handsworth, Sheffield, on October 6th was the first peal for Miss Angela Truelove and not first in the method as published. She was successful after several valiant attempts.
The East Derbyshire and Notts Association meeting at Kirby-in-Ashfield on October 20th provided an enjoyable evening's ringing on the very pleasant five. Mr. J. A. Harrison, the local captain, deputised for the Association's Ringing Master, Gislingham, Suffolk (6), bells, regarded as derelict, are now ringing again. Through the mechanical ingenuity of Mr. A. H. Elwell. churchwarden, who has recently come to live in the village, they are to be heard on Sundays. According to .The Diss Express. younger inhabitants are taking a keen interest in ringing.
The first peal of Major rung at Fairford, Gloucestershire, was only the second peal there since 1931, the other being Grandsirs Triples in 1954. They are a fine ring. recast by Taylors in 1927, hung in a central tower and rung from the choir stalls. The "go' is excellent, the acoustics are perfect even for slich a long draught. The band are indebted to the Vicar and Mr. W. A. Godwin, local captain, for kindly giving permission.

MR. R. ALDER GOFTON'S 85th BIRTHDAY

Four years ago Mr. R. Alder Gofton, of St . Paul's, Whitley Bay. Northumberland, celebrated his 81st birthday by ringing a . peal of London $S$. Major on the fourth there. This year for his 85 th birthday he went a quarter peal better. The local band rang a quarter peal of Bob Major on the evening of his binthday and then on the following night a peal of London S. Major was again rung this time with Alder on the third. with his sons Billy and Dick ringing the second and fourth next to him
His performance was a joy to behold. Many young ringers could learn a lesson by following his example of concentration and alertness, and by observing the way in which he used the treble to ring a method which he had not rung in the interim between his 81 st and 85 th birthdays.
Alder, still an erect man of over six leet. rang for the first time on eight tower-bells at Hexham Abbey in 1901, when he rang an "inside " bell to a peal of Double Norwich
C.B. Major, shortly after he had returned home from the Boer War, where he served with the Coldstream Guards. He also served with the Guards for 12 months at Windsor and comments that on a recent visit there he thought the present Guardsmen looked very small and very slovenly boih in dress and drill.
Alder. with his brothers and sons, took part in some notable performances on handbells as well as on tower-bells, ringing London S. Major with four brothers. They practised courses of Cambridge S . Royal in about 1920. but did not bother to ring, a peal of it. The first peal in hand" in that method was not. of course, rung until 25 years later by Harold J. Poole and his band. |||||||||||||!|||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||!||||||||||||||||!||||||||

SIR ARTHUR HEYWOOD

$I^{\top}$T is not usual, and certainly not good practice, to see an article printed in either a newspaper or periodical without a heading, but I must confess I was unable to find a suitable heading for this article.
It all began when I read an article in a technical publication and the name of Sir Arthur Heywood was mentioned.
Most ringers know that Sir Arthur was an accomplished ringer and composer during his lifetime, but this technical publication made no reference to his ringing prowess. In fact I doubt if the writer had any idea of Sir Arthur's activities beyond what he was writing about, and I very much doubt if many of the ringers of Sir Arthur's day knew much about Sir Arthur's activities beyond ringing.
We of the ringing fraternity are perhaps rather a quaint section of the community. We meet and enjoy ringing with other ringers at meetings, tower practices, or peals, and then, after ringing, we each go our own separate ways. We are bound together by a common love of ringing, but unless we are on fairly familiar terms we are not aware of what course is pursued by our ringing brethren when we part.

How do our ringing colleagues earn their daily bread; farmworker or landowner, factory worker or factory owner, teacher, solicitor, doctor, architect, tradesman, transport? What a cosmopolitan crowd we are.

Again what other hobbies do ringers have apart from ringing. Other interests which are probably never discussed between brother (or sister) ringers: gardening, painting, music, philately, bee keeping, or perhaps just collecting bus tickets.

But all this began by seeing the name of a distinguished ringer in print, not about ringing, but in connection with another interest in which his name lives; that of narrow gauge railways.

In fact the history of miniature railways in Britain can be said to date from 1872, when Sir Arthur Heywood, an engineer baronct, took over Duffield Bank near Derby and began to experiment on narrow gauge railways. He came to the conclusion that a gauge of 15 inches could be used safely for light traffic. To prove his theory he laid out a complete railway system to this gauge in the grounds of his home. Not only did Heywood lay all his own track but he produced all his rolling stock-including steam engines-in his own workshops, the first engine being completed in 1875 .

Sir Arthur's experiments impressed the Duke of Westininster, who commissioned him to construct a 15 in . gauge railway linking Eaton Hall, the Duke's seat near Chester, with the Great Western Railway at Balderston, three miles distant. Track laying began in August, 1895, and was completed the following spring. One of the Duffield Bank locomotives, the 0-6-0 tank 'Ella,' worked all the construction trains, and Sir Arthur supplied all the necessary rolling stock for the new railway, including a four-wheeled tank engine named 'Katie.', Eight years later a larger six-wheeled engine, 'Shelagh,' was added to the stock.

The Eaton Hall railway operated successfully for many years. but when it was at last superseded by road transport the Romney, Hythe and Dymchurch Railway bought all its stock and transferred it to Kent, where many of Heywood's vehicles are still running to-day.

Heywood's rolling stock, like his ringing compositions, were meant to last; his largest locomotive, an o-8-o tank of 1894, named 'Muriel,' is still in service, rebuilt and renamed 'River Irt.' It is on the Ravenglass and Eskdale Railway in Cumberland.

So when you go on a holiday-cum-ringing tour it is quite passible you may be riding with pleasure on or behind a creation of Heywood's, and then ringing one of his popular peals.

I said carlier what a cosmopolitan crowd we ringers are; it appears we always have been.

COLLEGE YOUTHS' 325 YEARS OF CONTINUITY

MASTER TELLS RECORD GATHERING TO WITNESS TO THEIR FAITH -- BISHOP OF LONDON'S MESSAGE: 'CHURCH WORK MEANS MORE THAN RINGING BELLS'

A
REGULAR event in the ringing calendar is the annual dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths. This year's dinner, the 325 th . was held at the Bridge Restaurant, London Bridge. on November 3rd. A representative and record gathering honoured the occasion, and the youthful Master (Mr. W. T. Cook) had as his special guests the Lord Bishop of London (the Right Rev. R. W. Stopford) and Dean Matthews of St. Paul's Cathedral. It was fitting that they should be there as the enthronement of the new bishop was marked by a peal at St. Paul's Cathedral, one of those rare occasions.
Another guest who has recently travelled the world was the Rev. J. McCulloch, rector of St. Mary-le-Bow. During the year Bow bells were dedicated. Alas, they are not ringing now, and cannot be rung untif repairs to the tower have been completed.

The Master made a challenging speech on the importance of a sense of vocation in these chsinging times. The point was yuickly taken up by the Lord Bishop, who plainly told the gathering that service in the belfry was not suffi-sient-witness must be taken outside.
The report on the past year was regarded as satisfactory. Ringing had been maintained in the City, 18 peals had been rung and 62 new members elected.
The proceedings opened with the ceremonial entry of the Master accompanied by the senior steward (Mr. M. V. Chilcot1) and the junior steward (Mr. J. Phillips). The toastmaster was Mr. T. G. J. Watts. During the evening the Master took wine with three members with 60 or more years' membership - Messrs. E. G. Fenn, G. Symonds and J. S. Hawkins-and one of over 50 years-Mr. H. Stalham.
Following the loyal toast, the Master, in proposing the toast of 'The Church." extended a warm welcome to the guests, especiaily the Bishop and the Dean, as he felt their presence with them was an indication of the happy relationship which had existed between the Society and the Church in thosc 325 years. The London members were very pleased to see so many friends from the country, which showed the esteem with which their Society was held. Another example of the esteem of the Society was that that morning he saw painters painting the restaurant
When the Society was founded in 1637, he imagined that the founders felt that the times in which they lived were as troublesome and the future was as uncertain as today. The founders were living in the time just hefore the Civil War broke out which was to dezide the future of the country. the way it was to be governed and the measure of liberty of the individual. In the meantime a religious war had broken out on the Continent which dragged on for 30 years and in which many people from this country took part.

THE CHURCH AND CHANGING TIMES

We must all of us be very grateful to the founders of the Society for their vision: they founded it in spite of the uncertainties of life. They must have felt it was a time of change. and we too are living in times of change which come more rapidly than at any time in the world's history.
It was therefore pleasant to read how the Church had accepted the challenge of these times of change and was facing up to the things of today. We read of the movement of all branches of Christianity towards unity, and in the Church of England steps were being taken to make the Church meet the needs of million 3 . There were such things as consideration of changes in liturgy and the Christian Stewardship movement which was doing so much. and the efforts being made to make laymen take a greater part in the organisation and running of the Church. All this must give them cause to be very grateful.

I hope we shall all grasp the opportunities to play our part as ringers to bring home the Church's message to everyone,' said the Master. with emphasis.

THE MASTER (Mr. W. T. Cook).

As most of them knew. Dr. Stopford was very much concerned with religious education. The Master said it had been his experience as a teacher in a Church school that religious education, however well it was done, was not going to have any effect on the children unless it was backed up by the example of every one of them. They must all witness to their faith and maintain the highest standards possible-by doing their best in everything they undertook.

Apply that to ringing. There were many who felt that their standards in ringing were too low. What sort of a faith were they proclaiming if from the tower there was a considerable jangle? At St. Paul's they rang Stedman Cinques, and it was not because they could not ring Maximus: they rang Stedman Cinques to secure the best striking.

BELFRY OFFICE

They should be ringing to the glory of God. and it was hard to think of that at the end of a bell rope, for unless one concentrated 100 per cent. on the job the ringing was going to suffer. It was helpful to consider this point before starting to ring. He found it very helpful, as they did in some towers. to have a short prayer before they began to ring. He felt the Belfry Office was a very good thing, and he would like to see it introduced in every tower in the country.
In the short time he had been ringing he, had noticed the way their relationship with the Church had improved. He hoped it could be maintained. By ringing their best all the time they would be setting a good example to the people following after. He thought the discipline of ringing was a very good thing for young people. A colleague of his had a daughter who was learning to ring at Mr. Barnett's church, and he told him of the satisfaction she felt of doing something for the Church. and that since taking up ringing she was doing better work at school and able to concentrate on her work.

SIGNS OF DECLINE

Concluding, the Master reiterated his hope that in their ringing and everything they did they would do their best so that the very high standards of the Society and the tradition of the past 325 years might be maintained and not decline as there were signs at the moment.
The name of the Bishop of London was coupled with the toast, and Dr. Stopford said 325 dinners was a pretty noble record, and he look it that over those 325 years they had never failed to hold a dinner.
The Bishop said he was gratified to hear about the relationship with the Church and the connection with the Church being something more than a connection with the helfry. The Church would be very much the poorer without the service they rendered. Some of them would never have got to church in time without the help of the ringers. In his last diocese (Peterborough) he had to (ravel considerable distanies along country roads, and when at times uncertain of the route it was an inexplicable joy when he heard the church bells ringing and they knew they were going in the right direation.

Those who knew Oxford would remember that there was a certain bell which was struck 101 times each night as a signal that the college gates were going to be closed. It was surprising how far one could go before the bell stopped ringing and the gates were closed.

DISCIPLINE OF RINGING

Speaking for the clergy, the Bishop said they appreciated the support they got inereasingly from all of them who manned the towers of the country. As he went round the diocese of Peterborough he found more and more towers wera being manned. and more and more young people were coming along and entering into the discipline of learning to ring. thus making certain that this part of the Anglican tradition was t.0t allowed to die out.

The Bishop congratulated the veterans present but at the same time added that it was good to see so many of the younger generation there and to know that the tradition would he maintained. It was a sign of perennial youth that the secretary and Master could very well be his own sons if not his grandsons.

There were many things for which they could be thankful that were happening in the Church at the present time. Nevertheless the unfinished task of the Church was appalling when one thought how many people who lived in the great area of London had no connection with any form of organised religion but, as their Master said, there were signs of growth and development. One of the discoveries of the last few years had been in relation to the laity. They had begun to realise the distinction between the clergy and laity was a false distinction and they were beginning to get a clearer understanding of what they meant by the Church.
To illustrate this. the Bishop said: "Somebody said. " You will be interested to know that tny nephew has decided to enter the Church." I replied: ""Yes. my mother was in it!" It was some time before the penny dropped. We were getting past that stage, but some newspapers say the Church ought to do this or that and fail 10 realise that the Church is the whole body of Christian people.

INFLUENCE OUTSIDE BELFRY

Church work meant more than ringing bells in the belfry. Church work should mean the influence Church members exercised in their urdinary vocations. This was one of the lessons they were learning from Christian Stewardship. A Christian Stewardship zampaign was not jusi a money-making gimmick. It meant that a number of men for whom they had not found an outlet were carrying on the Church's work in the area in which they lived.
Bells and he Church of England seemed 10 go logether, that was why they missed them so much when they went overseas. There were substitutes for bells. The wheel of a motor car minus a tyre did not make a bad note. At one church he saw eight pieces of railway line of varying lengths on which a man was trying to do change-ringing.

The toast of The Ancient Society of College Youths "was proposed by Mr. John Freeman. who said he would like to extend congratulations for the future from the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and the Company of Ringers of the Blessed Virgin Mary in particular. He thought the present Master of the College Youths was a member of that Society, which was established in the early part of the 17th century. The College Youths had a continuous existence for 325 years. Many Societies were established about that lime: some had ceased to exist. others had changed their character, and many like the Society at Lincoln had no record of continuou- existence

In the past it must have needed a man of ability and enthusiasm to keep the Society going - 10 have that impact on the Exercise which the Ancient Society had had. They saw that by the visits of the Society to Oxford and Cambridge in the early part of the 18th century and later to the Isle of Wight and Norwich. Throughout the years they had established a tradition for good ringing and as servants of the Church

THE LEATHER JACK

Of the Society at Lincoln they found no record of great ringing achievements, and on an outing they read: The weather proved too hot for ringing and the Society repaired to the Red Lion. Whilst they could not boast of any records, they had a leather jack that could hold eight quarts.

Their predecessors did not neglect the social side. He thought it was a good thing that in any organisation the members should meet from time to time socially away from the background and conditions under which they normally met He felt the fellowship they got on such occasions like the present did a great deal of good. Later there would be reference to the Masters of 300,200 and 100 years ago, and the keeping of those anniversaries was more than of sentimental interest.

INFLUENCE OF THE PAST

Like things a parent passed on to his children. so the influence of those members of by gone years was still apparent in the Society as they saw from its achievements. There were more people now dabbling in composition than ever before. In the collection of peals of Stedman Caters and Cinques they would notice many compositions from their Society-their secretary, Mr. Darby, Mr. C. W. Roberts and others.
There was a "Lord Beaverbrook" in their Society who if they discussed Spliced Surprise with him would tell them that he did nor want his music jazzed. If people wanted to. do the twist it was no use putting a pavan or minuet before them. While some thought that Stedman Cinques was the thing to ring, they had to be receptive to new ideas. Men of the future would discard the dross and pick up the best of both.

There was a break from tradition when intead of the secretary the reply came from Mr Michael V. Chilcott, the senior steward. As usual, this was in the nature of a report.

APOLOGIES

Mr. Chilcott read apologies from Dr. Wand he Revs. Norman Molley (Cornhill) and Giles Galley. Messrs. A. York-Bramble, A. A. Hughes (the second absence in 59 years membership), J. T. Dyke, N. V. Harding. E. A. Barnett, F. E. Hansford, Harry Miles, D. G. Clift, W. A. A. Chalk and C. Cullen.

Greetings were received from George Pipe, Victoria: Hervey Bagot. Adelaide; Michael Gathercole. Trinidad (who cabled: 'Life in Trinidad has its compensations, but I would happily substitute Port of Spain for St. Lawrence Jewry and Si. Michael's, Cornhill. on November 3rd '): Stan Mason, California: Nelson Sloan and Daniel Richards, New Zealand

The attendance that evening of 220 , said Mr Chilcott, was a post-war record. It was regretted that no more could be accommodated and that several applications for tickets were turned down. As regarded new members, it had heen a good year with 62, including one Australian and one American, and it was pleasant 10 see such a high proportion of them present with them that night

WELL MAINTAINED

Turning to the year's activities, Sunday service ringing in the City had been well maintained at a satisfactory standard, but longer holidays made the summer months more difficult. In February they decided to change their practice nights to Tuesdays.
Two new rings of bells had been dedicatedSt. Mary-le-Bow and St. Andrew's. Holborn How bells had received wide publicity in press, radio and television, and the dedication took place in the presence of H.R.H. the Dtike of Edinburgh. They were very sorry that Bow bells were not available that day or those of St. Lawrence Jewry. The City of London Festival in July was a new event in the life of the City, and ringing took place at St. Michael's, Cornhill, and Bow Regarding peal ringing, it had been, generally speaking, a quiet year with 18 peals in 16 towers (last year 35). Their peals consisted of three Surprise Maximus, four Cinques, seven Caters and Royal, and four Major and Triples. A peal of interest was the one of Bob Major at Stamford Hill, rung by a band from the Whitechapel Foundry.

OBITUARY

Their obituary contained several well-known names and old friends of the Society. Richard Stannard ( 1890 ) was their senior member, Caleb Fenn (1896) ano her very old member, and Ernest Morris (1922) a prolific peal ringer and writer on bells and their history.
The company stood while the following names were remembere 1: Joseph Needham (1902), Richard De:l (1906), Gordon Caudwell (1923), Samuel Jones (1929). Edward Coward (1929) Ernest Morris (1922). Mark Hatch (1959), William Hart (1924). Thomas Blow (1932). Caleb Fenn (1896). Richard Stannard (1890), Richard Kendall (1913), Robert Green (1912). Percy Williams (1931), Frederick Tillett (1901), Horace Goodenough (1924), Frederick Leaker (1919), Fred White (1922), William Wilkins (1952)
Continuing, Mr. Chilcott said the country meeting was held in June in Bristol. Thanks were due to Bristol clergy and ringers for warm hospitality, and particularly to Frank Hansford for making the arrangements.

As to the future, he thought it was clear from the record attendance that night that the provincial members had a real affection for the Society and pride in their membership. Some might retain an image of the Society based on the great figures of pre-war days. Many of these men had now passed on and the London company today was composed largely of young ringers. Their aim in the years ahead should be to achieve a greater sense of unity and of responsibility for the wellbeing of the Society. They could create a new image, an image of a Society still young and vigorous after 300 years. determined to maintain the high standards of ringing and conduct of the past.
Proposing the toast of "Visitors and Kindred Ringing Societies,' Mr. Rodney B. Meadows said last year he had one of the greatest honours that could be conferred on a ringer of ringing a peal at St. Paul's Cathedral. He mentioned that the Dean was lord and master, and they were allowed to ring for the enthronement of Dr. Stopford. They were their special guests that night. Opportunities for peals at St. Paul's were very few, and this was an event of a lifetime. He thanked the Bishop for his reference to eight pieces of railway line and assured him that they hung in many towers in England. [Laughter.]
In a welcome to the Rector of Bow. Mr Meadows reminded him that the bells were very dear to the College Youths and were very sweettoned. He also had welcomes for the Master of the Society of Cumberland Youths and Mr . White. He thanked those members of kindred Societies who had made a special journey to be present. They had 23 from Oxford and 14 from Bristol-two places where he had had some of his most enjoyable ringing. There were also eight 'regulars' from a corner of North Bucks.

The Rev. J. McCulloch, Rector of St. Mary-le-Bow, said he felt that bellringing was peculiarly English, and he was not pure English, there being a strain in his blood that prevented him from understanding this mathematical pur-suit-like the English. it was curiously devious.

Mr. McCulloch said last year he did a tour of the English-speaking world, and he found wherever he went there were bellinging enthu-siasts-in Los Angeles and Brisbane they were longing to hear a good ring of bells, the strange nystique of the bells in Cheapside or a record of them.
There were very few pursuits in the modern world that people stick to for long. He gathered they were entirely male, while the other institution. the Cumberlands, were in the arms of the other sex! Whether they were wives only time would tell.

In the absence of Mr. A. A. Hughes, the Master presented the toast of The Fragrant Memory of the Masters of 300,200 and 100 years ago.
The Master of 1662 was Sir John Everard, who joined the Society in 1657. They did not know who was Master in 1762 as it was not the custom to record their names at that period, but in 1862 it was George Salisbury Shurey. He was & Kensington ringer and was elected in 850.

The usual touch of Stedman Cinques was rung 'in hand by J. Chilcott $1-2$, F. W. Per-7-8, J. Freeman 9-10, M. P. Moreton 11-12.

DORSET RINGING FESTIVAL

A record number attended the annual ringing festival at Blandford Forum, provided under the will of the late Samuel Francis Pond, and about 100 were welcomed in the Town Hall to tea by the Mayor of Blandford. The Mayor, who is no stranger to the belfry, recalled that as a boy he used to be up at the crack of dawn on festival days to assist at the tower. After tea the Mayor visited the tower and watched some touches being rung on the splendid eight.

At the service beforehand, conducted by the Rector (Canon H. G. Goodall), an address was given by the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth. Rector of Cattistock and chairman of the Dorchester Branch. Mr. Brinkworth stressed the need for good striking, good fellowship and good will in the belfry. The lesson was read by the Rev. Roger Keeley. Other robed clergy present were the Revs. P. A. Unwin and R. N. Longridge (Vicar of Bourton and secretary of the North Dorset Branch).

This year we had the distinction of being filmed and recorded by the B.B.C. for the celevision programme the following Monday evening. "South at Six." This included an impromptu touch of Grandsire Triples on handbells by the enthusiastic scholar-ringers of Milton Abbey School, Robert Master-Curtis and Tom Christie, and their equally keen schoolmaster. Mr. Grimble. The sudden and unexpeoted descent of the B.B.C. Was centainly a welcome and enlivening feature of the day's proceedings, unrehearsed as they were, even to breaking a stay-not seen by television viewers -but unfortunately almost an annual ingredient of the Blandford festival Ringing. conducted by Mr. W. C. Shute, ranged from rounds to Cambridge Major, Some rather younger ringers could not get any ringing because of the lack of any boxes to stand on-an item which perhaps could be remedied before next year, even if we have to take our own.

This is the 17th 'Blandford.' according to the Town Clerk's records. and is certainly an established event in Dorset ringing. With the great increase this year in numbers, it appears also to be a popular one. And no wondera hearty welcome, fine bells, an excellent tea and a grand act of worship in a perfect Renaissance Parish Church. What more could any ringer want? And what's a broken stay or two in comparison.

RINGER MISSING

We puhlish a photograph of Mr. Richard Lionel Patterson (57). of Merton, near Okehampton, Devon, who, last December. had a car accident. Three days after he disappeared suffering from amnesia and shock from the accident.
The police and his many friends have not a clue as to his whereabouts. He was happily married with a grown-up family except for one girl of 13.
Mr. Patterson had been a bell ringer all his life, and it is suggested that he might possibly call in a belfry and ask for a pull.

Any information would be welcome by his wife and three daughters, or his brother. Mr R D. Patterson. 108, South Street, Andover

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford District

The annual meeting of the Ashford District was held at Ashford and attracted about 60 members and visitors. Ringing was superintended by Mr. John Cooper, the District Ringing Master, who was at the organ during the short service which followed. This was conducted by the curate, who gave a stimulating address.
The members and guests were then enter tained to an excellent tea in the Parish Hall which was followed by the meeting, presided over by the Association's chairman. Mr. John Willis.
The District secretary, Mr. Crawford Hillis, presented his report, which showed that the good work done in 1961 had been carried on with equal success in 1962. Particularly noteworthy was the financial record for the year which was mainly due to the secretary's most successful recruiting campaign for new honorary members. Another favoutable point was the news that all towers in the district that con ained ringable bells were now in union with the Association
A proposal by the Lewisham District that the word "honorary" should be replaced by associate ' in the Association's rules was regarded as unnecessary and was rejected unanimously.
All the old officers were re-elected. Mr. Willis congratulating them on their work during the past year and wishing them every success during the year to come.
Mr. Nicholas J. Davies then distrihuted his illuminated cards, giving details of the histories of the district's bells, to representatives of the respective towers, which met with unanimous approval

Votes of thanks were given to the Vicar, the curate, and the ladies of Ashford for preparing the tea.

More ringing, including Surprise Major followed.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION

T'HE Association's annual meeting on October 13th clashed with the football derby between Newcastle and Sunderland, and the crowd of 62,000 did not facilitate the passage of ringers or the parking of cars for the afternoon's ringing at Benwell, Fenham and Jesmond, and the business ineeting in the Cathedral. The Provost of Newcastle conducted the service in the nave and gave an address on the text 'Workers together with God.' taken from the lesson. Mr J. T. Keen was again the organist.

Over 50 people enjoyed a good meal at Bainbridge's Restaurant, and Newcastle Cathedral's 12 and the eight at St. Mary's, Gateshead, were open in the evening. The standard of ringing at the Cathedral was probably the highes achieved there at an 'annual' in the post-war era. This might have been due to the business meeting being held in the afternoon.

CHANGES OF OFFICERS

The business meeting saw changes in the Association's officers. Mr. T. Cooke completed his maximum term as president and was succeeded hy' Mr. E. P. Rock, of Stockton: Mr. F. Ains ley retired as treasurer and so did his "big brother.' Mr. J. F. Bird. the auditor. Mr. E. N . Harrison became the new treasurer and Mr Ainsley was appointed the new auditor. Mr Cooke became at trustee in place of Mr. W. N. Park.

The other officers were re-elected en bloc, so the complete list for 1962-3 became: President. E. P. Rock ; secretary, D. A. Bayles; treasurer E. N. Harrison : auditor, F. Ainsley: editorial secretary. J. A. Ainsworth; Ringing Master, K Arthur: trustees, T. Cooke and N. I. Wright. Messrs. K. Arthur and D. A. Bayles were reappointed as Central Council representatives for 1963-5. District officers showed two changes in the vice-presidents, with Messrs. R. Bell and W Tyson replacing Messrs. C. N. Lea and K. W Cheeseman in the Eastern and Western Districts respectively. A vote of thanks to the retiring officers was moved by Mr. R. M. Gray, in which he made special mention of the long services of Mr. Bird ( 30 years as auditor) and Mr. Ainsley ( 15 years as treasurer).

PROGRESS THROUGH INSTRUCTION

Reports by the various officers described dif ferent aspects of the year's work. The combined funds declined from $£ 141$ 12s. 7d. to £127 18s. 2d., accounted for mainly by reduced income from subscriptions and increased ex penditure on printing of the report. The Ringing Master gave an encouraging report of progress in ringing instruction, the outstanding item being the one-day course at Lumley Castle. Smaller schemes had provided for the Newton Hall and Rothbury towers.

The peal report recorded 63 peals rung by 78 ringers in 29 towers. The total set a new record for the Association and included a new record length of 9.088 Yorkshire Surprise Major. the first of 5-Spliced Surprise Major and other Surdrise Major methods. There were nine first peals and one first as conductor. Leading totals y individual ringers were $A$. R. Patlerson 50. J. A. Ainsworth 46, G. S. Deas 44 and E. N Harrison 41. The leading conductor was J. A. Ainsworth, 31
Eleven new members were elected: Allendalc
Mrs. E. Clarke. Misses S. and C. Fairlamb Consett-Miss A. McDonald and R. Scoll Fenham-G. Hall and M. Todd: LanchesterA. Walker: North Shields-M. Scolt: Whick-ham-J. Crowther: Whitley Bay-Miss W Aird.
The amended rules were adopted. The main aim of the Association is to extend and improve the ringing of church bells for divine servize. The conditions of membership have been modi lied to permit call-change ringers joining. Peal referees have been abolished and the Central Council ruling will be accepted in all peals. l.ife membership and associate membership have been introduced and the duties of District officers more clearly defined.

PETERBOROUGH GUILD'S DINNNER

T
'HERE was a very good gathering of members at the second annual dinner of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, held at the Whyte Melville Hall. Northampton, on October 20th. The president, Canon G. F. Turner, was in the chair, supported by the Master, Mr. P. I. Chapman, and the general secretary. Mr. E. Billings. At the top table as guests of the Guiid were the Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Orland. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Smallwood. Mr, and Mrs. R. F. B. Speed and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Vaughan, of Scaldwell. Also in the company were Mr, and Mrs. Stephen Ivin and Mr. Ronald J. Sharp (Bedfordshire Association). Mr, and Mrs. Burley P. Morris (Derbyshire Association) and a representative gathering of 130 members and friends.

The president, after proposing the loyal toast. called upon the Master to propose the toast of - The Church. Mr. P. 1. Chapman gave a special welcome to Mr. Orland, who was recently ordained. and said a ringing clergyman was by no means a new thing in the diozesein fact two of the first were natives of the county ene being of Northampton. And it county. cne being of Northampton. An wasn't in the 1890 's but 20 year; before!
'Thomas Ball, who was horn in Northimpion, was ordained in 1672 and was rector of Elion, just over the Huntingdonshire border, for 25 years. The other, Samucl Scattergood, was born at Winwick Rectory, the son of the Rev. Dr. Anthony Scattergood, who was responsible for secing the 1662 Prayer Book through the press. Samuel was a very tilented composer of Doubles and Minor meihods, and although none of his methods were now practised, they were very ingenious.

CONTEMPORARIES OF FABIAN  STEDMAN

Both Thomas Ball and Samuel Scattergood were at Cambridge in Fabian Siedman's time, and possibly at the time the College Youths visited Cambridge and rang-so tradition has it -Stedman's Principle for the first time. Unfortunately. there was no such thing as the Peterboraugh Guild in those days, so they did the next best thing and joined the Ancient Society of College Youths! Ball was Master in 1675 and Scattergood in 1685. when he was a prebendary of both Lichfield and Lincoln Cathedrals and Rector of Blockley in Worcestershire.

The Church today was going through a kind cf re-formation. parlicularly in the way of liturgy and in relationships between the various limbs of the Body of the Church. As ringers they might become more personally involved in the liturgical changes. Service times were and presumably would be even more changed. and they would be called upon to ring it times different from what had been usual for many years. If they were taking their proper part in the life of their churches this would present no difficulty. and he hoped they would not be wanting.

There are still a few clergy, even one bishop: who are convinced that ringers are a bad lot:" said Mr. Chapman. "and it is the responsibility said Mr. Chapman, "and it is the responsibility of each and every one of us to eradicate that false impression. We in this diocese are fortunate that for almost 40 years our ringing Society has operated as an integral part of the life of the diocese. There have been, from time to time, minor domestic difficulties, but almost without exception our Guild hąs enjoyed and does enjoy the support and goodwill of the clergy and laity of the diocese.

The Rev. E. G. Orland, in reply, endorsed what the Master had said about the changing Church. and said that he thought the Guild, through its branch organisation, had showed the way to a fellowship wider than the parish.
The toast of 'The Peterborough Diocesan Guild 'was proposed by Mr. J. Frank Smallwood, who said the Guild was one of the largest with a membership of well over 1,200 and a record of which any Guild might be jusily proud.

EARLY GUILD LEADERS
It had been served by officers whose names were famous. The first Master. Fred Wilford. used to make the journey from Northampton to Birmingham, to ring at St. Martin's, on $a_{1}$ motor-cycle. He frequently rang with him on Sunday rings. When he became Master of their Guild it was his ambition to visit every tower in the diocese during the year, and considering there were over 170 iowers with bells that was a colossal joh.

Mr. Smallwood referred to the Irthling. torough tower and its leaders. Andy Tyler and Walter Perkins, and their prowess in Surprise ringing. Another name which came to mind was Horace Day, who died noi long ago. He was one of the finest exponents of Minor ring. ing ever scen in the Exercise.

The principal activity of the Peterborough diacese now reemed to be in exporting. For example, if a bishop was required, one was exported from Peterhorough, and if a good Association secretary was required in Derby:hire or Devonshire. they had one exporied from Peterborough. He saw a lot of Burley Merris, and it would he hard to find a belter clourchman or energetic secretary than he. Their present Master was a man of proved ability, and under his capable leadership the Guild would continue to p:osper.

BELLS IN BUILT-UP AREAS

In conclusion. Mr. Smallwood mentioned a matter that he regarded as of the highest impor-tance-paying more attention to the quietening of te!ls in built-up areas.

We enjoy practising our art. ' he said, 'but in doing so we must make sure we are not causing annoyance to those who are compelled to live near the bells. It is a comparatively simple matter-and certainly not costly-to reduse noise. I commend this matter ic you for earnest consideration. It is for $u s$ ta put our affairs in order heiore we have it done for us. I think you will see the point."

In responding, the president said their diocese was endowed with one of the finest collections of beautiful churches in the couniry, and they were very proud of them. They were doing their very best in their rural diocese to keep up and further the art of ringing, and it was encouraging 10 know that the ringing frasernity, through "The Ringing World." neticed what they were doing.

The toast of Our Guests and the Ringing Fraternity ${ }^{\circ}$ was proposed hy Mr. A. J. Frejt. After welcoming the priacipal guests. Mr. Frost said he was sure they all welcomed the fraternity that had grown up around their art. The knowledge that wherever they went as invited or uninvited guests on Sundays or practice nights at literally thousands of church towers they would be sure of a welcome from the local ringers was a wonderful testimony to the strength of their fraternity
In humorous vein. Mr. R. F. B. Speed replied. Before the dance, to music by the Doug. Day Quartet, the president thanked Mr. Eric Billings for making the arrangements for an excelient evening. Handbell ringing included Grandsire Caters by P. I. Chapman, Anne B. Speed. J. F. Smallwood. R. F. B. Speed and Stephen Ivin.
and Grandsire Triples by B. P. Morris, P. I. Chapman, Rev. E. G. Orland and E. Billings.

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP

On Sunday, October 28th, two veterans celetrated their birthdays with quarter peals: Squire Croft, of Richmond (73), at Ealing in the morning, and Arthur D. Barker (72). of Stoke Poges, at Stoke in the evening. We wish them many more birthdays and quarters.

Mr. H. Garton, of 152. Deane Road. Bolton; writes that he has a copy of 'Campanalogia' by W. Shipway, 1816, a book of his father's. printed by Charles Wood and Sons, Poppins Court. Fleet Street, London, and sold by Sherwood, Gilbert and Pippin, Paternoster Row, 1830. He wonders if this is in any way the missing link referred to by $\mathrm{Mr}^{\text {. Edgar Shep- }}$ herd, in his article of October 12th.
Mr. G. R. Marchant, who has now returned to Somerset the is living at Durleigh, near Bridgwater) after six years in South Wales, would like to thank all the ringers who welcomed him to their towers and especially the bands at St. John's. Cardiff, Radyr, Llandaff, Caerleon and Marshiald, which have been his 'home towers' for various periods.
The patron sain! of the D:ocese of Oxford is St. Frideswide. The Feast of ihe saint was henoured by a peal at Yattendon, a village lucked away in a fold of the Berkshire Downs. The reason Mr. Alan R. P:nk selected this church was that Ya:tendon is united with Frilsham. with its church dedicated to St. Frideswide. Unfortunately this Norman tower contains only two bells. It is the only church in the country with this dedication.
All Saints. Ealing Common. has one bell which is tolled twice on Sundiys for five minutes. A parishioner has written to the Vicar complaining, stating: I am a nervous wreck all day. really upset, so that I am less rested on Monday morning than any other day of the week.' In his reply the Vicar states: The Book of Common Prayer is a document passed by Parliament and I should he breaking the law if I did not toll the bell.
A ring of eight bells is 10 be installed in the Church of Si. Peter, Harrogate, by Messrs. John Taylor and Co.. and it is hoped tha: the work will be completed by Easter. 1963. A band of enihusiastic young people is heing trained by Mr. Edward Hudson, of Ripon Cathedral. assisted by other ringers from the Ripon area, so that a competent hand will be available when the bells are installed. This octave will provide Harrogate with its only ring of bells : those at St. Mary's Church were hung dead some 60 years ago, when they were transferred from another church.

OUTING

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST, CROYDON

Nine towers in Sussex and Kent were visited by the ringers of St. John the Baptist. Croydon, and friends from Beckenham. Beddington and Redhill on October 27th.
Ringing started at 9.30 a.m. at Withyham. followed by a fair course of Kent at Rotherfield. As a compliment 10 the young lady who met the party. call changes were rung at Mayfield. The appetising lunch at . The Bell.' Burwash, did not affect the striking when three courses of Siedman were rung for a bride at Hawkhurst. A course of Cambridge came round at Benenden. (No further comment.)
After tea at Tenterden, the visibly tiring purty climbed the stairs to St. Mildred's tower. but did not seem to masier the handling of this majestic eight. An excellent touch of Bob Triples was rung at Biddenden, and some of the best ringing of the day was at Frittenden: the installation of this levely sing being the handiwork of their Mas'er who was away enjoying the Ladies Guild dinner in London, with Mrs. Collins. The final touch 10 the day"s pleasure was a reasonable let down in peal.

DOUBLES VARIATIONS

Dear Sir, -We have resently formed a hand in this area who are interested in ringing Doubles variations; we have rung peals in 14 and 20 variations and have included in both peals a variation which we have called peals a variation which we the second peal Si. Stephen's Doubles.

It is obvious that these have been rung before under another name and one of your Doubles ringers will be sending the correct name, in which case we shall withdraw our names: however many of these variations have noi been rung before and others have two names and consequently are confused with one another.
Some five years ago Mr. Blagrove kindly sent me a chart with all the variations he knew on it, with the invitation 10 ring the unnamed ones and name them. Shortly afterwards a similar chart was published by Mr. Cyril Wratten. although not so comprehensive. with many of the same variations under different names.
Since that time various bands have sent in the odd variations after ringing them for the first time. whilst other inquiries have been received for the different variations from time to time.
I am willing to compile a complete chart of all named variations and other unnamed ones so that there will be a clear understanding by Doubles ringers as to what has been rung, and what can be rung and named, if the variations can be sent to the address below. Of those already known I shall use the names supplied to me by Mr. F. Blagrove as the correct ones. As far as I know the following methods can all be rung with varations, and if variations have already been rung will you please send the names, with type of bob used, to me:

Plain Boh. Reverse Canterbury, Reverse St Bartholomew's. All Saints'. St. Martin's. St. Simon's. St. Nicholas‘, Winchendon Place. New Bob. Hunispill. St. Vedast. Westminster, St. Remigius'. St. Osmund's. Blackburn Place. St. Hilary and Grandsire.

Of Grandsire. I only know of one and this is Londen rung with a plain course of Grandsire to give it a three lead plain course and a St. Blaise single, the way we ring it. Possibly other readers may produce others, also variations of Antelope.

Hoping this suggestion will meet with the approval of the masses and that those in the know will send the variations along.-Yours sincerely,
G. K. DODD.

SPLICED MINOR

Dear Sir.-The enclosed were rung in the peals of Surprise Minor earlier this yea

Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 were rung on February 16 hh.
Nos. 1 and 2, less two methods, and 5 were rung on January 26th.

With regard to Mr. Wcodruffe's queries, I can only assume that the numbers with reference to the dates have been swapped over, as extent No. 6 of February 16th. 1962, is the standard work and is in the Essex report book for 1959 on p. 95, and I am sure has appeared in the 'R.W:
The 1,440 is that of A. Relfe ( $\mathbf{R} . \mathbf{W}_{\therefore} \therefore$ November 25th, 1955. p. 750) and No. I of February 16 th is by A. G. Driver, arranged C. K. Lew is ( R.W. : July 15th, 1949, p. 332).

In both cases three leads of Cunecastre and three of Lindley are substituted for three of Carlisle where 2nd and 3rd place bells are fixed.

If I may be allowed to comment on the iirst paragraph of Mr. Woodruffe's letter, it has always seemed to me that the "unhealthy" type of letter keeps correspondence columns alive, e.g., Lord Grimthorpe in 'The Times' in the last century. - Yours faithfully.

A NEW PRINCIPLE?

Dear Sir,-While experimenting with figures I found out the following principle, which I had not seen published or heard of:

As can be seen. it is on the same plan as Stedman. with quick and slow divisions. but with sths place made instead of 3 rds and - $10^{\circ}$ s instead of 6 s.

Another principle can be had from this plan of 5 ths instead of 3 rds, by ringing all slow ' 10 s' ' and thus getting a principle rather likz Erin.
Could anyone tell me if these principles have ever been thought of and if they have, have they ever been rung? - Yours, etc.

Llys Esgob. Llandaff.

COINCIDENCE?

Dear Sir.-I was rather interested in the note in the 'R.W.' about the hoax perpetrated about n peal at Crewkerne on October 6th. We had made an application to go there on that date, but due to failure in getting a reply an opportunity was given us to go to Whitchureh Canonicorum in lieu. where we were successful in scoring a peal.-Yours sincerely,

THE DARLINGTON SHOE LACE

¡Dear Sir.-I was surprised to read in Beliry Gossip of November 2nd issue of The Ringing World that a quarter peal was rung at Darlington, and that the seven:h rope was held together by a shoe lace.
Why the shoe lace was necessary I do not know, as the bells have since been rung both for practice and Sunday services
What I do know is that the band who rang the quarter peal were all visitors, and that rone of the local ringers knew that such an attempt was to be made, or that a visiting band was due to ring.

I therefore feel it is only correct that the ringing fraternity are advised that we at Darlington use ropes and not shoe laces to ring the bells with.
I would also like to add that the said shoe lace was not to my knowledge donated. as was stated in Belfry Goosip, as there was no trace of this the following Sundzy morning. -Yours faithiully. F. HODGSON.

PEALS AT TREDUNNOCK, MONMOUTHSHIRE

Dear Sir.-In reply to the inquiry made in Belfry Gossid the following peals have been rung at Tredunnock:

ducted by A. Hawkins and D. G. Clift.
December 3rd. 1938, Stedman Doubles conducted by R. H. Smith.
June 14th, 1947 . Grandsire Doubles conducted by R. H. Smith.
I: is in eresting to note that the first peal was the first peal by the whole band. and the seccad was the first peal of Stedman Doubles hy the whole band.-Yours faithfully.

SPLICED MINOR

Dear Sir--Ringers of Spliced Minor may be interested in the following variation of Mr. Harold Chant's 25 -method extent, originally published in the R.W.' for June 9th, 1961 It seems to be simply a matter of caste, a Mr. C. K. Lewis pointed out at Cardiff whether one includes single-change methods in one's peals. and the same seems to be true of Little and Alliance methods. I, personally, have no objection to either and therefore make no apology for introducing the next step in the 'downward' (?) path - singlechange Ailliance methods. They do at least have the 'magic' lead-ends!
By including three of these methods, the total in the exent becomes 28. Some may care to include the two bracketed methods as well. although neither occurs as a plain lead-there is a bobbed lead of Minchinhampton, the 2nds place version of which method does not appear, and a singled lead of Newington. which is different from a singled lead of Saltwood-in which case there wall be 30 methods in the extent.

Incidentally. the question set by the inclusion of these last two methods in this manner was originailly posed by Mr. J. E. G. Roast. It has never been answered. Is it perhaps because it is unanswerable except as a question of taste? If therefore someone surely it should more than 130 methods. Wirhrings a peal in more than 130 methods, without including a plain lead of each. And at the moment there appzar to be two bands in the country working up to that figure.Yours sincerely.

CYRIL A. WRATTEN.

THE GENTLEMEN'S GUILD

Dear Sir--One reads the report of the Ladies' Guild jubilee dinner, and one wonders! We read of all the good that has come about in the helfries of the land with the coming of feminine influence, and one would think that they were all competent ringers and viriuous adornments to the art. One would also conclude thet the males would never have carried on since 1912 without females in the belfries and that it is little short of miraculous that there was still, in 1912. a spark left from which to kindle the torch of female ringers.

Now let us face facts:-
(A) There has been a serious deterioration in the standard of striking and ringing generally since 1912. due mainly to the inability of women to strike a bell accurately, for any length of time.
(B) Countless new methods have been introduced to supplant the old standard methods. The reason for this is the fickle nature of woinen which cannot be satisfied without variety.
(C) The physizal satisfaction of ringing has been reduced owing to the universal introduztion of ball-bearings-a feminine luxury.
(D) The team spirit in bands of ringers, formerly so strong, has been undermined by romantic attachment:

And so one could go on-we should have taken notice of the clergy. How right the Vicar of Quorn was!

Believing that it is still not too late to stem the tide, the writer begs to suggest the formation of a "Gentlemen's Guild, with the objest of safeguarding the rights of gentlemen ringers and the exclusion of women from the beliry.
Alas, having a wife who calls herself a ringer, I dare not sign my name, and would ascribe this epistle to yours sincerely.

AN APOLOGY DUE TO CAMBRIDGE  UNIVERSITY

Dear Sir.-In your article on lady ringers, you mention that ladies have become Masters of two University Societies-Oxford and Bristol. I feel that reference should also be made tolast year's Master of the Cambridge University Guild. Miss Hilary Muirhead, who is the first lady to have held that office. Indeed. in the last few years. most of the official positions here have at some time been held by ladiesand this in a Guild which was for so long a stronghold of anti-feminists. This achievement is all the more remarkable in that the women's colleges were only admitted to full membership of the University in 1948.-Yours faithfully.

Chew Deanery Branch

A well supporied quarterly meeting of the Deanery was held at Pertishead on October 27.th. The service, which was fully choral, was conducted by the Rector, Preb. W. L. Coombs. About 40 sat down to an excellent tea, served by ladies and helpers from the local band. In welcoming the company, the Rector commented favourably on the large number of young people present.

At the business meeting Backwell (8) was proposed for the November practice meeting. and Kingston Seymour (6) for the Branch annual meeting on December 1st. One new member was elected from Stanton Drew.

Further discussion took place on the proposed striking competition to be held early in 1963, but this item, together with several other resolutions which had been received from the general secretary, were referred to the annual meeting for full discussion. The secretary reminded members of the Branch Corporate Evensong at 7.45 p.m. on November 30th, at St. Andrew's, Clevedon, with ringing before and after service. After the usual votes of thanks, ringing was resumed at the Parish Church. and later at St. Andrew ${ }^{\circ}$. Clevedon.
The following morning the Branzh Corpora:e Communion was held $x$ Nailsea.

Cary Branch

Recruiting is still going on in the Cary Branch. At the meeting at Bruton on October 27th. eight ringers from Milborne Port. two fiom Bruton. and one from South Cadbury were elected members. The service was conducted hy the Vicar (Rev. J. J. Hayward). lesson read by Mr. H. G. White (captain of Bruton tower) arid Mrs. Mees was organist.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION  North and East District

Stanmore is only ten miles from London, 500 feet above sea level and reputed to be the loftiest point in Middiesex. The Church of St. John the Evangelist stands adjacent to the ruins of the former Parish Church dating from the 17 th century. In the churchyard lie the remains of Sir W. S. Gilbert, the librettist of the operas. Such was the setting for the monthly meeting of the North and East District on Octoher 13th. and ringing to suit all tastes was enjoyed.

The Rector, the Rev. S. R. Skemp. conducted the service, and Mr. E. J. Leversuch. leader of the local band. read the lesson An excellent tea was served by the S:anmore ringers in the Church Hall. At a short business meeting a welcome was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Baldwin from Nottingham. Mr. Roger Powell (Oswestry) was elected a non-resident life member, and three memhers of the local band. Mr. G. R. S. Norris and the Misses Mary Purves and Pamela Clarke elected ringing members.
A hearty vote of thanks was extended by Mr. C. F. Neal to all who had contributed to the success of the meeting.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON'S

AUTUMN MEETING

The first meeting of the Society for the session 1962-63 was held on October 13th in St Olave's Church Hall. During the after. noon ringing took place at St. Andrew's. Holborn, and St. Olave's, Hart Street. where the spotless condition of the belfry took the shine off the ringing. The Rev. Maurice Dean. of St. Olave's, conducted the short service, and gave the Society an enlightening sermon on The Lord's Prayer.
Unfortunately due to the usual supposer misunders!anding. tea was not provided. and the members were treated to the impeceable self-service of British Railways. Fenchurch Street. Thus refreshed, the business meeting gor off to a steady heat with the president. Philip M. J. Gray, in the chair. Finance rattled along with reports, and discussions about future tours somehow ended with votes of thanks. The meeting culminated with handbell ringing.

THE OLD BELLS OF CAMBRIDGE

By T. A. BEVIS

IKE Oxford, Cambridge is a city of bells, but of the 15 or 16 old churches in Camhose there are but few bells-apart from induce of the Roman Catholic edifice-to provingly to the city's metallic and ancient witnesses of past decades.
Nevertheless. many of these bells are worihy of mention. if only in connection with their respective founders, of which about 20 are represented
It is certain that at least five bells were cast in Cambridge, the earliest of these for Great Shelford (dated 1590). where the treble bears the words MADE AT CAMBRIDGE This bell is thought to be the work of Richard Nicholas.
John Warren, though admittedly no expert in the matter. must not be denied a place among the few Cambridge founders. He left no greai bills to perpetuate his skill in the ciiy or county, but is represented in a minor degree by a little "ting-tang hung in the tower of St. Mary the Great. (This founder has been referred to in a previous article concerning Si. Mary the Great (page 224. March 31st. 1961).)
Thomas Safford. a smith and bell-hanger, dived near the old Corn Exchange. Thrice in his life he ventured to make bells: one for Trinity Hall (1804). a bell for Fen Drayton (1828) and a tenor for Horseheath (1825)

These founders undoubtedly had theibusiness premises in Cambridge, and it is conjectured that William Hausley and Rishard Holdfield, the former known by his cacoethes tinniendi. rejoicing in jingling rhymes, as Ring and fear not-but swear not, inscribed on his bell at Fen Ditton-were also Cambridge founders, temporarily at least. Hausley's handiwork appears in the immediate neighbourhood of Cambridge.

Outside founders who provide bells for the city, from the late 16 th century up to the late 19 th century. were: Thomas Norris. Mears, Thomas Newman, Taylor (St. Neots). Robard Gurmen, John Draper, Dobson, T. Osborn. Charles Newman, Christopher Grayc. Stephen Tonnie. Pack and Chapman. Riohard Phelps. John Taylor. Richard Bowler. Richard Oldfield, Edward Arnold and Joseph Eayres.

A 14th century founder installed four hell; in the tower of St. Botolph's Church: these in 1880 were said to be in excellent tune. though remarkably thin at the soundbow. Their respective inscriptions, in Latin:
$\begin{array}{cccc}1 & \text { SANCTA } & \text { APOLINE } & \text { ORA } \\ \text { NOBIT }: \text { TO. } & & \\ 2 .+ \text { SANCTA } & \text { ANDREA } & \text { ORA } & \text { PRO }\end{array}$ NÖBIS
3. SANCTA MARGARETA ORA PRO
NOBIS.
4. NOMEN MAGDALEN CAMPANA GERIT MELODIE
Those who suffer from toothache will be interested to learn that the treble of this mediaval chime honours St. Apollinia, who, during the Decian persecution suffered her teeth to be beaten out at her martyrdom : those afflicted with toothache consequently prayed to her.
The clochard of King's College at one time contained five bells, noted as the 'greatest work in bell metal which has been heard in fown and county. There bells were sold in 1756. The third is reported to have weighed 21 cwt. 1 qr. 2 lb . with a diameter of 4 ft . 2 ins.. and measuring 3 ft . from shoulder to skirt. This bell came to King's by exchange in 1958: 'Item solut Mro. Nicholson pro exchanged the second and third bells, and 1 tr8 li. of over weight mettell ad 6 d . le Downd. xvijli. xs. viiid. It has been described as still lower (than the treble and 2nd) as to tin and not so well cast ; better metal than the other two (4h and 5th).
Blomefield's versatile pen records this: 'On the first (bell): IN MULTIS ANNIS RESONET CAMPANA JOHANNIS. And the arms of France and England quarterly with J.D.. for John Dogget, who was Provost here in 1500, when it was new run'd. The second hath nothing. The third has AVE MARIA GRACIA PLENA. The fourth hath NOMEN TUUM SANCTUM PER ATRIA CANTABO LAUDES TUAS. DOMINE, LAUDIBUS CELEBRO : F.Q.

The fifth weighs to common report, 57 hundredweight, and hath the arms of Franc: and England quartered, and the impressions of a coin or two, on one is a cross flore. on another, a person standing by a crucifix, and this: TRENETATE SACRA FIAT HEC CAMPANA BEATA. I take it. the 1 st , 2nd, 3 rd and fourth have been rund since they were first made, though the 3 rd is. and perhaps the lifth may be, the same that wer? first rund. The 1st. 4 ih and 5 th are cracked.
The treble of this ancient five tallied with the treble and second of St. Botolph's. in that it sported a cross florié.
Thomas Norris cast a bell for All Saints, Church in 1632, displaying an owl, acorn and eagle. This was hung in company with a smaller bell which, due to its eloneated shape, may have been moulded in the 13 th century: A third ancient bell had this inscription: NON SONO ANIMABUS MORTVORVM SED AVRIBUS VIVENTIVM.
At St. Andrew (the Greit) we find that Thomas Mears had been busy in 1843 when his foundry recast the 3rd. 4th. 5th and 6th bells of the ring of six. Thirteen years later that firm, then trading as $C$ and $G$. Mears. cast two trobles, thus providing an octave The oldest hell-the 7 th-borz the date 1657 (founder unknown) and the tenor lirst saw the light of day in 1722. is creator being Thomas Newman.
St. Andrew (the Less) has anly one hell by Taylor (St. Neots), circa 1800.
St Benedict's is Cambridge'; oldest chureh with a foundation harking back to Saxon times. It is through the fane's connections with Fabian Stedman that S.. Benedict's has a secure place in the illustrious history of change ringing.
The exact date of the tow is uncertain, but the pre-Conquest charaterististics are obvious. and it seems that it was iniendsd to contain more than one b ll. In Saxon witness chronicler Ingulpus. -emarks in his description of the "peal" of seven bolls ai Crowland: - Nec erat tanz 1 infa consonautia campanarum in tote Angl.
St. Benedict's had a b:Il in 1273, which was used in convening clerks to extraordinary lectures, but it is thought that the church possessed four or five hzlls. and that the enor was the hest in town Robard Gurney cast a trehle in 166?. this partnering a second. dated 1588. but with no inscription. The third $b=11$ has been called cheap and nasty' and a 'wretched tinkler. Thres hundred odd years ago there was little opportunity for bell founders' 's advertise their work as in today's manner. Hence many bells were allowed to "puff' a listle on behalf of their manufacturers. St. Benedict's cheap and nasty third is an excellent example: OF ALL THE BELLS IN BENET I AM THE BEST

Old-times founders were certainly not backward as far as wit is concerned, and occasionally they were downright sarcastic. John Draper eventually found himself at Si. Benedict's. where he was engxged in the recasting of the tenor. Observing the unwarranied vanity of the inferior third bell inspired this man-of-metal to advertise accordingly

Most bellringers are aware that Fabian S:edman-. Father of English change ringing -a Cambridge man, whose vocation was printing, became the first person to reduce His to a system.
His profession proved a useful means of cricalragement to early campanologists. Stedman enjoyed af free hand in producing printed figures of changes, and these $h=$ distributed amorig his company of ringers at St. Benedict's Church.
It is logizal to assume that Siedman was instrumental in the beginnings of a profound interest in change ringing at Cambridge, and experiments in the new art led to considerable improvement to the old ring at the Saxon church. between the years 1607 and 1615. Like a fever the success of Bene't's team laid hold of the reserved-type of ringer and the science attracted intelligent young men who invaded belfries in it manner never sean hefore. In next to no time a revolution in hellringing transpired in the University town. and the radiation of changz ringing enveloped the country at all points of the compass.
In 1611. Great St. Mary's bells were augmented from four to five and many other rings in the county, particularly the outlying area of Cambridge, received additional bells and/or were thoroughly overhauled and rehung in new wooden frames to withstand the increased vibrations hrought about by the new system. It is recorded that 18 fer cent of the bein. in Cambridgeshire were cast in the carly half of the $17: \mathrm{h}$ century. proof indeed o. vigorous enthusiasm. inspired by that fascinating break-through. But to get back to the founders.
St. Clement's Church ressived a bell in Thomas Osborn installed another in. 1780 .

Christopher Graye made a treble. a sezond and 1 third for the Church of St. Edward the Confessor in 1669 . two and three in DOMIN:UM. This church possessed three cider hells at the time Graye made his visit The original ireble, dated 1576. bore this inscription:

DF BVRI SANTI EDMONDE STEPFANUS

 TONNI ME FECIT. W.LThis founder's work is discovered from 1559 Tonni made two bells for Holy Sepulctire. these having disapreared long since. The ew iourneys Bury St. Edmunds) enjoyed a Landbeach (1577). Wicken (1582). Ste chworth (1564). Iittle Wilbratham and Wood Diston (twa bells) 1588
The fifth bell of St . Edward's. inscribed SANTA ANNA ORA PRO NOBIS. a product of Bury St. Edmunds foundry, carried a held enclosing cross arrows (a symbol of St. Fdmund's martvrdom), a hell and cross keys and a cannon, the latter of which suggests that the foundry alsn marufactured amnons. The date of this bell is circa 1500 .

Old Bells Of Cambridge-Cont.

Number six, without a founder's stamp and name, is inscribed: + NON CLAMOR SED AMOR CANTAT IN AVRE DEI.
A bell was cast for St. Giles' Church in 1629, inscribed: CVM : BVSTA : MORI CVM PULPITA : VEVERE : DES. The founder did not place a name or initials on his product, but common stops inserted between each word indicate that the bell was cas! at Stamford, Lincolnshire, by a member of the famous Norris family.
At Great St. Mary's we find Richard Phelps and Pack and Chapman well to the fore. Of the 12 bells, the former supplied the third. fourth, fifth. sixth and tenth in 1722 and the seventh, eighth and ninth in 1723. Two "tribbles’ were added by Pack and Chapman in 1733, this firm having previously cast the tenor in 1770. Odd man out, William Dobson recast the 11 th bell in 1825 , and a grand bell it is-being considered Dobson's finest work in the county.
It is supposed that Tobie Norris made bell for St. Mary the Less in the early half of the 17 th century. This highly respected Stamford resident, who received many civic honours. did not impart his name to the metal of this bell, but was contented to place an initial cross on the instrument, this providing the clue, followed with the inscription:
NON SONO ANIMABVS MORTVORVM SED AVRIBVS VIVENTIVM.
St. Matthew's Church had delivery of three bells by John Taylor and Co. in 1867, and Christopher Graye put in an appearance at St. Michael's Church in 1683, when he in stalled three bells, followed a year later by Charles Newman with a fourth
In 1603, St. Peter's Church received a bell by Richard Bowler, and Robard Gurney hung his representative at St. Stephen's in 1663
In the 18 th century five bells would be heard ringing from the tower of Holy Trinity all by Thomas Newman (1705). Nearly 100 years ago this ring was regarded as poor, light peal.
The old bells of Cambridge have witnessed stirring times. Joyful and sad occasions have heaped mountains of memories of a city renowned throughout the world, and events have been indelibly traced upon the minds of citizens over the centuries by the vibrant emotions of bells.
It might be mentioned that Cambridge affords a very eminent instance of the first Queen Elizabeth's love of bells: "A.. She entered the town on Friday, the 4th August. 1564, amidst the clanging of all the church bells and college bells in the town. The clochard at King's could hardly have been silent on the occasion. and indeed it may have helped to render the state of things just tolerable by the blending power of the boom of its heavier metal. Considering that they were but a "scratch five." and that there was not a decent peal in the place, the noise must have been too much for many a "good wag." There was no merry octave to divert the ear, little but the babel of those representatives of C. B. B flat and A. and intermediate demi-semitones.... It would have driven an Elizabeth madrigal-composer mad.
It is recorded that several 'dumb' peals. ably produced by the Cambridge Youths. sadly echoed from the stately tower of St. Mary the Great, in agreeable memory of those who merited a place in higher spheres. Of the many references made of those who have departed this life to the goodly and soothing sound of mufled bells, not one line. as far as is known, has been penned that the bells O. Cambridge were set swinging in fitting tribute and traditional farewell to the man who had in his type-stick figures and patterns of bell changes hitherto unknown. No, not even at St. Benedict's. It seems a pity that the mortal remains of Stedman were lowered into a vault at St. Andrew Undershaft. London. and not into the soil of his native county. Perhaps that is the reason for what is assumed to be an unwilling silence from the bells of Cambridge on that occasion

However. on the day of the famous Annable's death on February 1st, 1756, a ' mourning peal' was rung in Great St. Mary's tower, and the undermentioned tribute accorded Annable in the newspapers at the time

A few nights ago was buried under the tower of St. Bride's. Mr. Benjamin Annable, the best ringer that was ever known in the world. Till his time ringing was only called an Ant. but from the strength of his great genius he married it to the mathematics and tis now a science. This man in figures and ringing was like a Newton in Philosophy a Ratcliffe in Physic, a Hardwicke in Wisdom and Law, a Handel in Music, a Shakespeare in Writing, and a Garrick in Acting. 0 rare Ben!'

Ought we not to associate this delightful tribute of 18 th century journalism with thint celebrated originator of the "Largo' of campanological principles, Fabian Stedman of Cambridge? If only the city's ancient bells would speak the English tongue how much more of the inspired qualities of this man would we know?

THE SMITHS

THE STORY OF A RINGING FAMILY

By I. N. QUICK

The contest has been rung at Netherton and the Hexworth band are back home. Joe the Hexworth band are back home. Joe Smith, the head ringer, recalls in this issue a previous exploit.

CHARLIE'S PEAL
Joe gazed at the faded photograph. It must have been taken round about 1920. for there were one or two figures that he could dimly remember seeing when he thad first started, as a lad, attending the Guild meetings. It must also have been hanging in the Harmsley ringing chamber since that time; the gilt was peeling oft the frame and powdered dust was creeping across the border behind the glass The photograph had been taken outside the west door. There was the parson and two men with ohurchwarden's wands standing like sentinels, one at each end of the group: there was a small boy, a small replica of John Cole, the present local head ringer, and, in the back row, the slight, somewhat dapper figure of Charlie Saxton.

Joe always thought of him as 'Old' Chariie, although, when he first knew him. Chanlie couldn't have been more than 40 years of ago; but, of course, to a boy of ien or eleven, anyone at the wrong side of 30 , was old.

The description "dapper" was, at that time, singularly appropriate when applied to Charlie, for he was always smartly dressed with shiny black buttoned boots and a bowler which he ware at a slightly jaunty angle. He sported a smart, neatly clipped moustache and an equally elegant imperial, both of which were blacker than canal coal.

He turned up regularly at the Guild meetings, often walking distances up to 10 or 12 miles to get there. Although he rang at a six-bell tower he never lost an opportunity of taking hold on any number when 'Stedman' was announced. In this respect he was the bane of the Ringing Master's existence for bane of the Ringing Master's existence. for rang a touch of Stedman without, to the best of Joe's beliof, getting lost at least once.

He confided to Joe, at ane of those early meetings, that Stedman was his favounite merhod. a confidence that proved to be the first of many.
'I rang in a peal of Stedman Caters at Stokesville in 1910,' he told Joe. "Twas conduoted by William Pye."

He gazed earnestly at young Joe. Obviously Joc was supposed to be impressed although he hadn't she least idea at that time who Wirliam iPye was, and was vaguely aware that Stokesville was a town a long way away. "Not the William Pye?* said Joe, registering. he hoped, the necessary degree of amazement. 'Yes. indeed, no other." replied Charlie.
Joe learned later that all the ringers in the Guild were aware of Charlie's moment of glory, and, indeed. it would have been surprising if they had not been as Charlie lost no opportunity of reminding them about it.
It's as Baid to Bill Pye-, he would say or
It - It's as Bill Pye said after we

He was a likeable charaoter and really wasn't a bad Minor ringer. He liked Plain Bob, but could ring several Treble Bob methods as well, including Harmsley Delight, a concoction of irregular breeding and doubiful antecedents of irregular breeding and doubtful antecedents that had been 'composed' by an old Harmsley singer.
became years passed by. Charlie's appearance became less debonair. His bowler was replaced by a trilby and his buttoned boots by more substantial footwear. which looked as of they had been repaired at home-as indeed they had. His black suit gathered a greenish tinge and became frayed at the extremities. Joe learned that after the death of his wife he lived on his own; he was getting on in years and lived on the panish. He walked necessity and the scope of his perambulations Was restricted. He brought sandwiches to the meerings and vanished at tea-time.
The last time that Joe saw him he came to a meeting att his own tower. He must then have been nearly 80, but he looked sprightly for his age. He stayed to tea; no doubt John Cole bore the cost. Afterwards, lowards the end of the business meeting the president, John Chappell, had a whispered consultation with the Vicar, who was in the chair, whereupon the laver anose and spoke sofitly to the company. After a few well-chosen words the hat went rournd and Charlie was the richer by thirty shillings.
Joe could see him now with tears streaming down his face as the money was pressed jnto his hand.

He died a few months dater.
Several years elapsed before Joe visited Stokesville tower. He was passing through the fown and heard the ten bells ringing, and went up. Affer the usual stranger's welcome he was invited to ring, first in some Grandsire Caters and then Stedman Caters. As he was ranging in the latter he thought about Charlie Saxion and the peal he had rung on these very bells.

After the bells had been lowered and the ringers were preparing to depart, the head singer. a well known figure both locally and nationally, came acrosis to Joe and had a few words.

I knew an old ringer once.' said Joe, "who rang in a pead of Stedman Caters in this tower with Bill Pye. He often talked about it."
'Oh. and when was that?'

- 1910. I remember the year because it was the year I was born! Not that that's anything to boast about.'

All the other ringers had left. The head ringer went across to a table that stood in the middle of the floor, took a bunch of keys ou of his pocket and after unlocking a drawer removed a book.

The peal should be in this peal book,' he said, "it goes back to 1902 .'
He laid the book on the table and flicked over the pages with Joe peering over his shoulder.

- Ah. here we are: 1910.

All the entries were handwritten in ink. There were five peals entered for 1910. only one of whioh was Caters, and that was not Stedman: neither William Pye's name nor that of Charlie Saxton appeared. Carefully they went through again without success. In order to make doubly sure they looked at every peal of Sledman in the book from 1902 10 1920. when the entries ceased. Wilkiam Pye's name appeared once or twice, but never as a conductor of Stedman: Charlie Saxton's name was enlered not at all
Joe was puzzled: Chirlie had been so definite about it.

Perhaps he got the names of towers confused,' suggested the hend ringer

Joe shook his head: no. he was certain that Stokesville was the tower

- Is it possible that the peal was not eritered in the peal hook? he asked.
The head ringer pursed his lips.
'Possible," he said. "but very doubtful."
They turned to go.
'I'm sorty to have wasted your time,' said Joc.
They were about to go down when the head ringer stopped

Just a minute.' he said. 'If the peal had been rung and nat entered in the peal book it would still have been included in the Guild's annual report.
He turned back and went to a bookcase that stood against the wall, and opened the glass doors. There were two shelves of Guild reports, chronologically arranged. He selected the one for 1910. and together they pored over it. It was no use: they could discover only the same five peals rung at Stokesville that had been entered in the peal book.
"That settles it,' sighed Joe.

The head ringer was glancing through the report prjor to returning it to the shelf when something caught his eye. It was a passage in - The Committee's Report. Sidently he handed the book over to Joe with his finger pointing to a paragraph.

- Your committee," Joe read. "are very pleased to note that the great William Pye has once again rung several peals for the Guild. In all his attempts he was suocessful, although at Stokesville, owing to some misunderstanding. the band met one short. They were made up by a Mr. Saxton, a visitor, an lime to ring a quarter peal of Stedmin Caters. As this turned out to be the visitor's first quanter of Caters the afternoon was not entirely wasted.

John Cole came up to Joe as he was taking a last look at the photograph.

Queer looking iot, aren't they? That's me in the knee-breeches there, and that's Charlie Saxton. He rang a peal of Stedman Caters with William Pye, you know.

Yes, said joe. 'I know
He paused.
"-and the afternoon was not entirely wasted!' he murmured.

OBITUARY

MR. ANTHONY V. DENT

 AN APPRECIATIONMr. A. V. Dent came to Bournemouth in 1927, when the late Canon H. L. Marsh was pueferred to the living of St. Peter's. He was the new Vicar's chauffeur/gardener, and he immediately joined the ringers who were pleased to welcome additional help. Indeed. Tony Dent was the first of several singers to come to Bournemouth at that time-Stanley Andrews and Frankland Rigby (now in Holy Orders), being two others, so that St. Peter's, Bournemouth. ringers enjoyed an era of prosperity. The striking was of high order, especially when ringing Stedman Triples. as indeed it had to be because the Vicar. who was a frequent visitor to the balfry, had a critical ear and did not appreciate 'dotted notes' in ringing.

As well as being most ragular for servica ringing and in attending practice and Guild meetings, Tony Dent enjoyed tune ringing on handbells and was a member of the Rev. C. A. Phillips" band, which was much in demand at that time. He was always ready for an attempt in any of the standard methods and rang several peals in the district.

In 1936. Canon Marsh left Bournemouth for Chilbolton, in the Test Valley: the church boasted only three bells and the Rectory possessed a large garden, Plenty of work and little bell ringing , was Tony's verdict: nevertheless. he retained his enthusiasm for the bells by visiting neighbouring towers and by forming a tune ringing handbell band.

After the war Canon Marsh retired and Tony Dent returned to the Midlands. It was a pleasure to have known him. for he was one who possessed a steady enthusiasm for the hells, and such ringers are the backbone of the Exercise: we can ill afford to lose them.
A. V. D.

BELFRY GOSSIP
In the last 30 or so years only three attempts have been made on this resonant Warner eight. In 1937, fo: the coronation of George VI. Frank Bennett brought round Stedman Triples in 3 hours 17 minules, and in 1946 Oliver Sippet's conducted the first of Major on the hells (Double Norwich) in just two minutes less. These two performances are the slowes: recorded. Another attempl in Coronation recorded. Anothe

Mr. Martin J. Lock informs us that he did not take pirt in the guarter peal rung at Heavilree on September 30th (see page 741). The ringer of the fourth was $F$. Wills.

The peal. Rutland Surprise. rung at Spzldhurst (see page 650) contained two errors in the copy submitted. The number of changes was 5.120 , and William T . Beeson rang the fourth and Stanley G. Ponting the fifth.
To oblige Mr. James H. Musson, Mr. William B. Dawson travelled at very short notice from Bicker. near Bosion, to complet? the band for a peal of sevan Minor methods at Asfordby. Leics. The former asks us to let him know that his services were appreciated.

In honour of the golden wedding of that g.and Essex vateran. Mr. Edward D. Smith. a peal of Cambridga wis rung on Octoher I7tis a: St. John's. Leytonsicne, where. for 47 years, he has been a devoted churchman and ringer. Mr. Smith is almost the last sLerviving niember of the famous Leytonstone six-bell band. which made history hetween the two wars in the field of Spliced Surprise Minor: he being the conductor of many of their achievements. Although now in his 78th year, he still rings. Sundav by Sunday, al the chursh still rings. Sunday tas bazn successful and is Southern Rhodesia, be rung successful and is the first peal to ing rung in Central Africa. Another interesting point. the peal was rung at a height of 4,900 feet above sea level. The conductor. Co'in Stevenson, inquires if any other peal tas been rung at a greater height.
The Henry Johnson dinner will be held at the Imperial Hotel, Birmingham. on February 16th. 1963
Peals at St. Saviour's, Eastbourne, are rare in fact there have only been six since their installation in the 1880 's. and the last, previcus to that on October 20th, was in 1946 . Mrs. Percy is the first lady to ring a peal on the bells.
After a silence of 30 years. Easton Neston, Northamptonshire, bells are again ring ng. When the church was restored about 12 ricnths ago the bells were overhauled and new ropes fitted. The first quarter peal was rung on October 28th for Evensong by the Sunday sarvice band.
The peal that Mr. Walter Ayre conducted at Geaat Holland. Essex, on November 3rd ind:cates that he has now completed 50 years as a peal conductor. His first peal was called at Thornton Curtis. Lincs. on October 19 h . 1912, and the band contained four first paalers. It was also the first peal on the bells.

Mr. P. Gerald Mcllhone and members of the Wallingford Grammar School ask us 10 thank the Vicar and Mr. Frank Castell, the sexton at Brightwell-cum-Sotwell. for allow ng them to ring at peal at sheri notice. This we do in the hope that both the gentlerren are readers of "The Ringing World.

Mr. William Love was back again at Nerth Elmbam. Norfolk. on November 3rd to rng a psa! cn the 39th anniversary of his firs. peal, which was rung on these hells. Tr? peal was rung at the request of the church atuthorities. the ringing being accompanied by a firework display. There were no pyrotechnics in the belfry, the conductor assures us.

SOUTH WALES PEAL WEEK-END

Several ringers from the North West made the long journey southwards to Glamorgan on Friday, October 12th, to participate in a South Wales peal week-end. Four peals were arranged during the two days. and on that Friday not even the most optimistic member would have predicted the 100 per cent. success we were to achieve.

Saturday hegan early for those of us in Rhoose and Pentre, and even earlier for cur friends travelling from Bristol, but we all assembled in good time at St. Woolos Cathedral, Newport, and, with Alan Kirk standing out in order to catch up on his homework. the rest oi the party rang a well-struck peal of Yorkshire. Mention must be made of the fine performance of Ricky Shallcross, who at the age of 17 is perhaps the youngest person to ring a tenor to a peal of Surprise Maximus.
With the aid of four South Wales ringers, some of the morning band soon had the lighi octave at Caerleon moving along at a spanking tate, and under the watchful eye of John Hunt Yorkshire was brought round in a shade over two-and- - -half hours. Meanwhile the rest of the party made its way rather hurriedly to Ebbw Vale, where Mr. Stephens. as always, made us very welcome. The bells were a joy to ring, and after the peal. to our delight. Audrey Bruten. Mr. Stephens' daughter, laid on sumptuous tea. We shall long remember with gratitude the warmth of the welcome.
The fcurth peal was arranged for Sunday on the little-known ring at Llanfigan, which must be one of the best light eights to come out of the Loughborough Foundry. The peal was enlivened by the appearance in the ringing room of a wayward bat, doubtiess come to find out what was troubling its radar system: we think it was the harmonics of the Simpson tuning because from all aecounts it troubles some humans as well!

Miscalculation of the distances involved made us late in arriving at Abergavenny, where we had arranged. so we thought, to ioin the local company for service ringing. However, the local ringers had foregone their ringing on our behalf, and our very late arrival meant that ringing was confined to a bob course cf Grandsire Caters. Our sincere apologies 10 Mr . George Ward and his band.
Very sincerely we thank the families who looked after us so well. and all incumbents and tower captains.

A KIDLINGTON BIRTHDAY

After evening service at Kidlington on October 28th, ringers from Oxford. Appleton and Kidlington met to ring for the anniversary of the ringer of the third. who was born on that day and in that parish 75 years ago. A yuarter peal of Stedman Triples was intended, but SS. Simon and. Jude, who had not been consulted. took umbrage, for was not this their day as well! They caused their comrade to call a single instead of a bob, and thus prevented the bells from returning to rcunds at the appointed time.
The ringing had been so good that it see:med a pity 10 stand incontinently, so the conductor, no expert at calling 'em round, asked Walter Judge to do it. This the latter did with his usual skill in the space of seven sixes. Those who rang were Walter Judge, Edward Venn, Howard Freebern, Christopher Johnson. Neill Allnatt. Brian White, Frank White and Sidney Edwards.

EVERCREECH, 8.50 A.M.

FTOR approximately ten years the bells of Evercreech, Somerset, have sounded over the air from the B.B.C. at $8.50 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. on Sundays. A first-class ring of bells rung by first-class ringers, they have given joy and encouragement to thousands of ringers and non-ringers practically all over the world. Double Court Minor on the really beautiful front six, Double Norwich Major and Stedman Triples, Grandsire Caters and Stedman Caters we have heard Sunday by Sunday.

In the course of the many Sunday morning chores or returning home from Holy Communion, the bells of Evercreech have burst forth suddenly like the sun from behind a cloud, reminding us it is time we began or finished breakfast or started out. on our journey to our own tower, and so forth.

And now the B.B.C. thinks there should be a change at $8.50 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. on Sundays, and rightly so. The almost perfect bells and almost perfect striking have for some time begun to get stale, for after a couple of the opening changes we know exactly what the remainder will be. Even the best tends to become monotonous. Most certainly it is right to have a change but quite wrong that it should be the same bells, as only a small percentage of the population will notice the difference.

All credit is due to the ringers for the first touch in the new series - a majestic beat to a musical touch of Stedman Triples, with the microphone placed in a better position. Very nice ringing, as perfect as is possible, but tremendously disappointing that the latest B.B.C. recording of church bells was not taken from another tower.

Think of Grandsire Caters from Exeter Cathedral or St. Paul's! St. Paul's! ! St. PAUL'S!!! Yes, St. Paul's; why not? Many thousands of ringers have never heard the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, and are never likely to. There was a time when the mighty twelve at St. Paul's rang out at midnight on New Year's eve, but the practice has, unfortunately, long since ceased. The writer once asked the late Mr. William T. Cockerill the reason for the cessation, and the reply was that the fee received by the ringers was insufficient to get them home at that time of day.

With the hundreds of other fine rings of bells richly deserving the honour that has been allowed (for too long) to Evercreech it should not be at all difficult to produce as good a series from elsewhere. Certainly in this day and age, with the wonderful bells at our disposal, full advantage is not taken of the facilities of the B.B.C. and taperecorders.

In every county there are wonderful rings of bells of all numbers by various founders, and although there may not be local bands up to the standard of those who took part in the Evercreech recordings it is fairly certain a band from not so very far distant from a church where a recording is required can be collected that can come very near the striking of our Somerset friends.

It is not the intention or purpose of these lines to advise or suggest who should judge exactly what is B.B.C. standard or what is not. But it is felt all over the country that a change of bells broadcast on Sunday mornings would be most welcome, and the sooner the better.

There is general agreement that the ordinary taperecorder is not able to give a true reproduction of the sound of bells, and so far the only apparatus that can record bells to perfection is that used by the B.B.C.

It is known that several hundred ringers would generously support financially any scheme or project that would provide the means of faithfully reproducing the sound of bells, with the object of forming their own bell-recording library or that of their Association or even the Central Council.

Many differences of opinion could then be settled as to the quality of bells and notes of tenors. (We can with confidence look for generous support from our bellfounders, now alas only two.)

But to return to Evercreech. You. Harry, have great influence with the B.B.C. If you cannot arrange for us to hear Double Norwich Caters from Worcester Cathedral or Grandsire Doubles from Weston Favell, then slip over the hedge to Chewton Mendip or Ditcheat and give us a treat from there.

CECIL W. PIPE.

THE WEEK-END RINGING COURSE

By PHILIP GRAY

IFF you are going to talk about ringing courses you have got to start by talking about the pupils. You have to decide who are the people who are likely to want a ringing course and what it is they want, and ought, to know. In all the courses so far held there seems to have been a unanimity of view about the answers to these questions: they have been designed for the sort of ringer who has practical knowledge of bell-handling, can probably ring Plain Bob and Grandsire, occasionally 'puts a few bobs in' and perhaps does a little teacining himself. but above all is eager to learn more and enjoys his ringing. There are thousands of such ingcrs, more of this category than any other. and for most of them the opportunities to extend their knowledge are very limited indeed.

Those who are lucky enough to learn in, or near, a tower where there are expert ringers with the gift. and time, for teaching have fewer problems. But they are not the majority. Most belong to bands all of whom are at about the same stage in areas where the standard of ringing is not too high. What can they do to advance? Books are certainly a help, but not everyone is too good at learning from books (you cannot ask a book to stop and explain something a bit more clearly) and they do lack that personal touch which is so essential in ringing. A book becomes of much more value when you have had the elements of, say, method structure or conducting explained and have had your rootsteps guided on to the first rung or iwo of the ladder. In most areas you can find someone to teach you to handle a bell reasonably competently, but after that. there is a gap.
The ringing course is one way of filling that gap.
Two things have struck me particularly forcibly (I have now had first-hand experience of four courses) about the students who have come on them. Firstly, young and old (they are mostly under 30 , but by no means all) are really avid to learn. The intensity of concentration afforded to the speakers would make any school teacher or university lecturer green with envy. I have never seen anything like it elsewhere.
Secondly, the abysmal ignorance of many of them of even the most elementary principles of their craft. I have met ringers who do not know what ringing a bell up 'wrong' means. ringers of Plain Bob who do not know that dodges come when the treble is leading. "conductors ' who have never heard of a coursing order tower captains who believe that six ageing gentlemen constitute an adequate band and steeple-keepers who put sump oil in ball-bearings. They do not know these things because no one has e:ver told them, at least not in a way that they can understand. No art. craft or science can be wholly learnt by practice any more than it can be wholly learnt by theory. We all get plenty of practice but some theory is needed to redress the balance.

NOT FOR THE EXPERTS

This raises à practical difficulty which I am sure all course organisers have experienced: how to get over to ringers beforehand that a ringing course is meant for the likes of them. not for the 'experts.' Say what you will in advance notices, there still remain many people who would profit by, and enjoy, such courses who will persist in the belief that it is only for 'the experts.' Again and again I have heard people say. after a course has been run in their area, that they did not think "they were expert enough for it.' If anyone can suggest a method of overcoming this will he please say.

There are two types of talk given on these courses: the talk to stimulate interest and the instructional. The first is a 'must' in any course, and is invariably thoroughly enjoyed. I have heard Fred Sharpe. Paul Taylor and Ranald Clouston do this sort of talk: each has a tremendous fund of knowledge about bells and their history. each has to supply of excellent slides and exhibits and each is a very accomplished and witty speaker. We are very fortunate to have such people in our Exercise. With the ability to convey their own enthusiasm for the subject so wholeheartedly, suich speakers fill their audiences with delight and stimulate their interest in all ringing matters
The instructional talk (possibly backed up by some demonstrations in the tower afterwards) cannot be too elementary in its approach. In the time allotted (usually about an hour) it is impossible to get over more than a few hasic principles so that the students can go away and learn more by themselves. It would be nice if one were, for example, lecturing on conducting to teach a group of people who had never conducted anything in their lives everything about conducting from Plain Bob Minor to Stedman Cinques, but it just cannot be done. If one can get over to them simply what a coursing order is, how to recognise it and how to transpose it, one has laid a foundation on which they can build. More one cannot hope to do.

TIPS FOR LECTURERS

Of the speakers I have heard some have been good and some not so good (incidentally. I have several times been pleasantly surprised at the excellence of talks given by people who have no previous experience of lecturing or teaching at all) and the not so good ones have invariably fallen down by trying to put too much in. This has resulted in confusion in the minds of the pupils and the talk going on for far too long. I believe that no instructional talk should go on for more than 45 minutes and should be followed by 30 minutes of questions nd discussion. If you cannot say it in 45 ...tuutes you are probably trying to say too much. It is a curious thing that we laymen of the Church of England have, so to speak, bashed our clergy over the head during the past half century until their hour-long sermons have been reduced to 10 to 15 minutes, but let us have the rostrum and wild horses will not stop us.
I have heard several excellent instructional talks, but that given by Wilf Moreton at Knuston Hall this summer on handbell ringing was undoubtedly the most brilliant. In less than an hour he taught 40 people the elements of double-handed ringing in such a way that all could surely have gone away and, with practice, develop into competent handbell ringers.
A most interesting feature of several of the talks has been the evidence of original thinking that is going on in almost all branches of ringing. I recall particularly York-Bramble on bell handling and method structure, Brian Price on theory of composition (this definitely was for the experts), Charles Rouse on teaching first steps in. change-ringing, Patrick Chapman and Roger Fry on the role of Associations today, and several others to a lesser degree. It is most encouraging to find that such research work is going on, but it does have certain dangers in a course of this sort. The essence of research work is minute analysis and careful definition (and often renaming) of terms. When trying to instruct beginners, however, a display of such erudition can be merely confusing. Analysis must be followed by synthesis before it can be used for instruction. York-Bramble's talks well illustrate this: his technique is to smash his subject into little pieces, renarme most of them and then spread all of them out before his audience. This seems to me to be totally inadequate for instructing beginners. It also takes far too long. Speaking as one who has got a little way past the beginners' stage. I found his researches stimulating and applaud them, but the bewilderment of the heginners at the end of them pleased me less.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE

All research work does need beating out on the anvil of debate and argument to forge it into something of real worth. This can be done amongst an audience of people who know their subject. I feel that there is enough material about to hold a national ringers' conference (definitely not for beginners this one) at which speakers could present their original views and have them discussed with no holds barred. How about it, Education Committee?

Finally, a few general points about ringing cuurses. Finance: since the first course at Dillingion House at Easter, 1959, I think almosi atl have been run in conjunction with the local education committees. This has enabled them (Continued in next column)

EXTENT OF MAJOR LOST AFTER 22,064 CHANGES

The attempt for the extent of Plain Bob Major at the Loughborough Bell Foundry Campanile on November 10th, by Mr. Frank B. Lufkin and his band. failed after 10 hours 57 minutes' ringing. Some 22,064 clanges had been rung when a mistake occurred.
Mr. J, M. Saunders, the umpire, in his report states: At 5.18 a.m. on Suturday.
November loth, at the Loughborough Bell Foundry a start was made on an attempt to ring the extent of Plain Bob Major.
By $7.46 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m} .5,040$ changes had been rung i: 2 hours 28 minutes, and the quarter way of 10.080 changes was reached at $10.14 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. after 4 hours 56 minutes.
15,120 changes had been rung hy 12.44 p.m. in 7 hours 26 minutes, to be tollowed by reaching the half-way mark of 20.160 at 3.13 p.m., having taken 9 hours 55 minutes to ring.
With the half-way passed and the band looking fit and alert, it seemed as if success was on its way, but at 4.10 p.m. the bells In add. 22,064 changes had been rung. in 10 hours 57 minutes.
The band was the same as that which made an attempt last year, with each member ringing his same bell. They stood Dennis A. Chapman treble, Edgar R. Rapley 2. Peter J. Eves 3,
Dennis A. S. Symonds 4. Howard W. Egglestone 5. Norman V. Harding 6, Frank B. Lufkin (cond.) 7. Walter Arnold tenor

The band wish to thank Mr. Paul Taylor for allowing them the use of the bells and for all the arrangements he had made for their visit. Thanks are also accorded to Rohert $\mathbf{B}$. Smith and David C. Vincent, for their help and support.
I. J. M. SAUNDERS.

There were many expressions of concern at the College Youths dinner at the absence of Mr. Albert Hughes. Although he is not permitted to go out at present, his bodily health is quite good and he is able to get up most days. His difficulty is locomotion. as he is only able to walk with the aid of two sticks. Still cheerful, he looks forward to attending the dinner next year.

to be run for about $£ 2$ a head, including instruction, two nights' lodging and all meals. There is no doubt that without the assistance of the ratepayer in this way comparable facilities for a week-end residential course could not be obtained at this price. I am sure that this cost cannot be reduced, but it certainly does deter some people from coming. Only when the course is held in a town (where residential L.E.A. colleges are in any case scarcer) is it possible to hold a non-residential course at a lower cost. Other types of course: all the talks given on these courses are suitable for presentation, individually, at ringers' meetings. An hour or so devoted to a talk and discussion after tea instead of a business meeting may well be appreciated, and it is a means of getting to a wider public at negligible cost. Some Associations have. I believe, tried this, but I have no personal k.u wledge of it.

Annual courses: some Associations have already held two or three courses in successive years because they know that there are a great many people who want to attend them. There is a temptation to try to avoid repetition and add variety by altering the subjects and speakers from year to year. This is understandablc but is not. I think, wholly desirable. Each new set of pupils needs to learn the same things. and a formula of talks which seems to meet the bill should be retained. The need for elementary courses is 100 great, and will always remain so, to afford the luxury of making annual courses progressive. In some cases there may be a need for parallel courses for more advanced students, but that is another matter. A week-end ringing course is quite an experience, if only for the pleasure of being with a group of people who are so obviously enjoying it. I have never met a ringer who regretted attending one, regardless, of his technical ability.

READING AND SOUTHAMPTON UNIVERSITIES IN SCOTLAND

IN eight days fast moving around towers in Scotland and the North, motor transport for all was an inevitable but unwelcome innovation.
We met at Penrith on Friday night and the following morning admirad the bell numes in Black Letter at the Parish Church. Si. Andrew's. At Great Salkeld tower Cambridge went well. but a puncture in Jane Foster's car was the first and only of the tour. Upheavals tor organ repairs forced the ringer of the seventh at Carlisle Cathedral to balance on it girder, and the ringers of some from bells to get used to seeing visitors scores of feei below We thank the Cumberland ladies fo a welcome cup of tea which sped us to Glasgow

On Sunday morning at Paisley, Felicity Webber joined us and we enjoyed not only the hells but our first experience of Presbyterian services. Our spirits were then dampened by a Sccitish Sunday afic,noon until Mr. Boumphrey met us at Glasgow Cathedral: here Grandsire Caters went well, hut some Stedman lacked the precision the bells demanded

Rumours of the condition at Inveraray were exaggerated but the ringers of eight and nine are not advised to jump down heavily from their boxes. Michael Johnson, a former member of the Reading Sozizty, joined us for the day, and we weie pleased to walcome Bernard Ongley, who was coincidentally passing through Inveraray as we were ringing.

At Dunblane on Tuesday we found a triple striking treble and a funny two in a fine Norman tower. It was very pleasant to see a cathedral untouched by the reflexes of the Oxford movement. The evil temptation to ring the light eight at Alloa too quickly seduced the band and a course of Kent was ursuccessful

St. Paul's Cathedral. Dundee, suited us and the beginuers profited from well struck courses of Grandsire Triples. A young policeman visited us ringing in the gloomy spaciousness of the old steeple; it was purely a courtesy visit: we always kept ourselves the right side of the law. We hurried on to Edinburgh Cathedral to ring a memorable course of Grandsire Caters and wonder at the ringing chamber.
Thursday was our last day in Scotland Edinburgh St. Cuthbert's proved the best eight of the tour and produced the best Kent. $\mathrm{A}_{i}$ Leith, the traditional course of Duffield was rung: it came round. A touch of Stedman Triples was happier. Fettes College Chapel was a must, but acclimatisation took too long for the ringing to be above average.
Back ir England. the squeaks at Hexham Abbey amused everybody when we took the bells up singly, as did the announcement that two seemingly normal bells were ostensibly stavless.
Newton Halid (6) had to be taken slowly and we thought the eight at Barnard Casile a very rhythmical ring. That night we realised that the handhells had been left in Scotland so one car had to peel off hack over the horder. missing the next dav's ringing. A very fine attempt at Grinton Y.H. to mend the warden's piano compensated for the absence of handbells.
Our last full day. Saturday, started at Grinton: we took some time petting back into Doubles ringing. Southwards to Middleham and Maior again. and on to the pleasant six at Kirby Wiske. where we were nobly cotertiined to tea and scones on a tombstone by Mr, and Mrs. Bashfull. We thank them for their kindness. Our introduction to Yorkshire tails was at Easingwold, an eight noi famous for tone. By Acomb most of us had found our feet again in Doubles.

'Scientifics' and 'Stoneys' Meet Again

[By courtesy 'South Devon Journal.

Saturday, October 20th, saw the second meeting between the 'scientifics' and the 'stoneys of South Devon! The start made at Brixham last year was happily continued at Dartmouth, when representatives of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Guild, under their chairman, Mrs. Hood, of East Teignmouth, met their opposite numbers of the South Devon Association at Townstal Church, high on the skyline above the river.
A congenial company rang the light six to call-changes and 'method' until service time at 4.30 . when the Vicar of Dartmouth, Rural Dean of Ipplepen, conducted the Guild Office. The collection, which amounted to $£ 35$ s., was given to Blackawton hells restoration fund. A typical ringers' tea (with fresh crab sandwiches galore) was provided in the adjacent Church Hall, after which the party moved down the hill to St. Saviour's magnificent eight. Here mixed sets of ringers had the bells going to Queens and Grandsire. Stedman and Whittington until well after 7 oclock.
A successful' get-together '? Surely it was! Sufficiently so to have it asked of the South Devon Association members: Where's it going to be next year?"-which is adequate comment! Among the towers represented were Bihhacombe, Bigbury, Bishop's Teignton. Dartmouth TTownstal and St. Saviour's), Inolenen, Rrixham, Kingsbridge, King's Kerswell. King's Teignton. Paignton, Plymstock, Plympion, Teignmouth (St. Michael's), Tor and Upion.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The special methods were St. Clement's and Kelso when the Biggleswade District met at St. Peter's, Arlescy. on November 10th, but other methods rung ranged from Plain Bob and rounds to Landon Surprise.

The Vicar: the Rev. E.B. Edgell. conducted short service, and also presided at the business meeting. when one new member was elected. An excellent spread was put on by Arlesey lady church workers.

LNIVERSITIES IN SCOTLAND-Contd.

After attending Eucharist in York Minster, we rang there for Matins. Then the five cirs and their sixteen travel-weary occupants parted. some straight homeward. but most of the Southampton Guild rang for and attended Harvest Festival at Lechlade.
We are all indebted to Jane Foster for organising so successful a lour, to Peter Wilkinson and Hugh Evans for acting as Ringing Masters and. above all. to incumbents for granting us permission to ring.

OBITUARY

MR. HORACE H. SMITH

The Bedfordshire Association has Inst one of its older members by the death in October of Mr. Horace H. Smith, of Ridgmont. He rang over 100 peals for the Association.

Born at Husborne Crawley, he was a gardener and was in the service of the Duke of Redford, In the First World War he served with the Redfordshire Regiment and saw action in France
He was very active at Husborne Crawley prior to and following the war. A very fine heavy-bell ringer, he was associated with the Surprise band at Woburn in the 1920's, when it was in its heyday. He rang many peals with Arthur Sharman and Eddie Hobbs.
Indifferent health and failing eyesight caused him to give up singing. Of a quiet disposition, he was a member of the Luton District Committee and was much respected.

Horace Smith was 73 years old. $\AA$ wife two sons and a daughter survive him. to whom we extend our decpest sympathy. Rest in peace.

RINGERS FROM FROME AREA VISIT ISLE OF WIGHT

Although the minj-bus which left Frome on Friday, October 19th, carried 13 people, nothing occurred to prove this an unlucky number. Perfect weather, enjoyable ringing, good food, comfortable beds and excellent organisation combined to make a memorable week-end.
A smooth crossing from Lymington to Yarmouth on Friday evening, was followed by an hour's ringing at All Saints', Ryde (8). A Newport hotel provided our hungry ringers with piles of sandwiches, and handbells were rung before we retired.

The following morning, refreshed and well fed, eleven ringers and two small children left the hotel to tackle a lengthy programme. Before lunch, three churches were visited, with nearly an hour's ringing on each tower

First came St. Mary's. Carisbrooke, a fine church with eight bells, rehung by Gillett and Johnston. Although all the ropes were new, the bells were easy to manage. A tablet in the ringing chamber, dated 1777, records a peal of Holt's Grandsire Triples. St. George's, Arreton, which is partly Saxon, has a small tower with enormous buttresses. Crops here grow as if to emulate these buttresses, and the church was beautifully decorated for Harvest Festival, with flowers, and with huge cabbages, cauliflowers and pumpkins. One member of our party must have felt very much at home among these giants. The six bells are light and easy to handle.

As our band arrived at Newport to ring, a party of ringers from Swindon was leaving the tower, and they gave a kindly warning that these bells would prove difficult to manage. The treble was, indeed, very tricky, and the best ringing took place on the back six.
After lunch four villages were visited before tea-Whitwell, Godshill, Chale and Niton. Godshill was one of the highlights of the weekend, as the six bells are both musical and easy to handle

BRADING'S LADDER

After tea, which was difficult to obtain with the holiday season over the mini-bus arrived at Brading, a little behind schedule. Here, one has to climb an almost perpendicular ladder to the ringing chamber, from whence the church interior may be seen.

Two more towers were on our programme for the evening, but the bells at Brighstone could not be rung as the key was missing. The last, Shorvell, has five bells. with very long ropes. which are very difficult to strike correctly, but the braver members of our party gave a ereditable performance. Later in the evening, recordings of the day's ringing were played back, accompanied by the munching of many sandwiches
Sunday provided a happy ending to a pleasant week-end, with ringing on two musical sixes. at Freshwater in the morning, and Hrighstone after lunch. where the Rector and his dog met and welcomed the band. Bishop Ken, buried at St. John's Church, Frome. was Rector at Brighstone from 1666 to 1670. The ringers were pleased to find six bells, as the new edition of Dove Jists Brighstone as a five. The Rector explained that all the hells had heen recast by Mears, and a new treble added. The weight of the old tenor is given in the tower as 7 cwt.
On the return journey, the wait at Yarmouth was enlivened by handbell ringing, which continued in the minjbus. while crossing by ferry to Lymington. This roused a certain amount of interest and speculation among other passengers. and it is understood that the mini was mistaken. by one lady, for an icecream van.
Thanks to the Ifree organisers (I). Robertson. D. Withers (tenor. $17!$ stone) and R. Baker), everyonc enjoyed this most successfui outing, and a special 'thank you' is due io David Robertson, who did all the driving.

ST. PETROCK'S BELLS, EXETER, RINGING AGAIN

Following the article in 'The Ringing World of May 25 th by Mr. William Shepherd on the bells of St. Petrock's, Exeter, which had been silent since $1936, \mathrm{Mr}$. Norman Mallett made a detailed inspection of the tower. After a short while he formed the opinion that no major work was required to the bells, bui the tower itself (constructed of Heavitree sandstone) required certain structural works if the bells were to be made ringable.
The Vicar, Rev. J. A. Grunday, was later approached by Mr. B. H. Thompson, a Heavitree ringer and architect, and Mr. Mallett, with a recommendation that if a window was rebuilt on the south side of the tower and a new beam placed over the five bells on the lower level to carry the fourth bell (in a wooden turret) at the lop, the tower would be safe for ringing. subject to a general overhaul of the bells.
The Vicair, now 83 years of age, having been in this parish since 1935, agreed to have the work completed. This is now finished and the bells, after 26 years' silence, were rung to a quarter peal on November 10th. details of which appear in the quarter peal columns.

The dedication of this church is to a British saint, St. Petrock, the abbot of a monastery at Bodmin, who died on June 4th, A.D. 564 . Details of the bells (tenor approx. $5 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.) are:

Treble-A. Rudhall. 1742.
2nd.-Cast by J. Sidler. 1693
3rd.-Johannes est nomen Ejus. This beil shows the arms of Henry V, who came to the throne in 1413.

4th.- Cast by T. Perinington of Exeter, 1683
5th.-Soli Deo Detvr Gloria. Cast 1677.
Tenor (no inscription).
The bells were restored by Doble and Son, of Taunton, in 1922. The recent overhaul was completed by Mr. S. Sharland, a local engineer and ringer

Subject to the necessary arrangenents, it is hoped that the hells will be rededicated an December 8th, during the annual meeting of the Exeter Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers: thereafter the nowly-formed Exeter University Guild anticipate making this their Sunday tower.

RINGERS' SUNDAY IN ESSEX

Arranged by Mr. F. Lufkin, bell ringers Sunday was again held at Kirkby-le-Soken Church on November 4th. Ringing began at $7.15 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. for Holy Communion, and among the 29 ringers present were visitors from London and Si. Albans. Breakfast had been piepared for them by ringers' wives.
There was an hour's ringing before Matins. at which the Rev. J. E. F. Tredennick. of Lambeth, a bell ringer, preached. A touch of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells instead of the anthem. the band being W. Ayre 1-2. B. Fairhead 3-4, E. B. Smith 5-6. F Lufkin 7-8. The lessons were read by Mr H. Millett and Mr. W. Ayre.

In the afternoon Mr. Lufkin and other ringers gave a talk and demonstration to the Sunday school. Evensong took the same form as Matins. The lessons were read by two local ringers-Messrs. G. Ingar and $F$ I. ufkin-and another ringing parson. the Rev Giles Galley, of King's Liynn. preached. In the handbell touch Mr. U. Wildney deputised for M.r. Ayre.
As a final send-off to the day the ringers ${ }^{\text {a }}$ choir and congregation were the guests of the Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Thomas to tea and a social half-hour in the Church Room. The Vicar thanked Mr. Lufkin for his hard work to make the Sunday a success.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

Stratton Branch

The annual ringing festival of the Siration Branch was held at Week St. Mary on October 27th, and proved very successful, nearly 50 ringers being present. ncluding the Guild Ringing Master, Mr. D. surnett. The Guild service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. W. T. Simpson) and a grand tea was provided by the ladies of the church.

At the annual meeting the following oficers were re-elected: President. Rev. W. T. Simpson; secretary, R. J. Hicks: treasurer. A. J. Hambly; Branch Ringing Master. H. Slacey. Whitstone was chosen for next year's festival on the last Saturday in October. R.J. H.

JOINT MEETING AT HILLINGDON

The joint meeting of the adjacent Districts of the Ladies' Guild, the Middlesex County Association and the Oxford Diocesan Guild was once again very successful. Ring:ng in the afternoon at St. Andrew's and St. John's was in a variety of methods, and with the assistance of the younger members of the International Association, included London Surprise Royal

The service was conducted hy Rev. F. C Tyler of St. John's, and the sermon wity preached by Rev. P. C. J. Hoyal. Vicar of Stanwell. Taking as his ICx: Ecclesiastes iv 1? 'and a threefold cord is not quickly broken.' he spoke of the many 'references to ropes and cords in the Bible. and compared the strength of the Exercise with the strength of a rope, both due to the intermingling of their component parts.

After the usual satisfying tea, Mr. Tyler welcomed the visitors to Hillingdon, and M:ss D Hague, of the O.D.G., replied and thanked all those responsible for the arrangements.
Further ringing at St. John's aga:in ranged up to London Surprise Royal. and the evenings entertainment included the Canadian film Ringers Wanted.' which was much appreciated. The annual cricket match resulted in the Middlesaxons imposing an innings defeat oil those from the other side of the River Colne.
The Hillingdon joint meeting has heen held regularly since 1932. and we owe a dett of gratitude to the St. John's Society for boing excellent hosts each year.

THE COTSWOLDS IN NOVEMBER

Very heavy rain fell on the morning of November 3rd, but the sun broke through to join the rector in welcoming a small party of ringers to Elkstone Church. The tower contains a nice five ( $11 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$ ), but the staiiway was not made for oversize ringers.

After ringing the party moved to the home of Mary Bliss where she and her mother provided hot drinks for the ringers to take with their sandwiches in a nice warm room.
Next visited was Rendcomb (a very handy six. $12 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.), where the Rev. J. P. Hart welcomed the band. After half-an-hour here, a move was made to Chedworth, where the Rev. E. M. de Lucy Mann was awaiting the party. These bells ( $6,11 \mathrm{cwt}$ ) go well, but were unfortunately fitied with new ropes more suitable for Sherhorne Abbey tenor.

A member of the local band welcomed the party at Upper Slaughter, and apologised that mice had eaten the rope ends. The five (13 cwi.) go well but will not be hurried.

After teat at a café in Stow-on-the-Wold the convoy ol cars moved across the border into Oxfordshire to Ascott-under-Wychwood. The hells ( $6,7 t \mathrm{cwt}$ ) go like tops and were voted the best of the day, and the ringers were sorry to leave them to go to their homes in Gloucestershire. Somerset and Worcestershire. Ringing ranged from rounds for seven-year-old Andrew Jopp to Cambridge Surprise Minor.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD

The inaugural meeting of the Radnor District was held at New Radnor on November 3rd. The bells were available before and after the meeting. The service was conducted by the Vicar of Llanbadarn and the Rev. R. Griffiths (Vicar) gave a short history of the church. An excellent tea was prepared

The Vicar presided at the meeting, and the general secretary explained the reasons for the formation of the District. Mr. Colin Lewin gave details of the towers that would constitute the District. Mr. Hughes, of New Radnor, proposed that full support be given to the formation of the new District. This was carried, and it was decided to call it the Radnorshire District of the Swansea and Brecon Guild. The rules of the Guild were accepted into its constitution.

Mr. A. J. Lewis was elected hon. District secretary and treasurer, and Mr. Leslie Allen hon. auditor, the office of Master to be left for a later date. After a long discussion on the appointment of an instructor, it was decided to leave the matter open. Mr. Leslie Evans said he would give every possible assistance in teaching, but he didn't want to take office.

Next meeting. Llanbadarn, Rads, on February 2nd. Combined practice, Dolou, Rads, on December 1st. Mr. Colin Lewis thanked the Vicar. J. A. H.

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

A warm welcome was accorded the Barnsley and District Society by Canon Clarke, who hoped the Society would come again, when they visited Almondbury, near Huddersfield, on November 10th. An excellent tea was served to representatives of 14 towers present. The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Noel F. Moxon.

UP AND COMING YOUNGSTERS-1

ROGER F. OVERINGTON,

Ancient Society of College Youlhs.
It is by pure coincidence that, like the recent series 'Personalities.' the College Youths provide No. 1 of this new series.

Roger F. Overington was born on November 13th, 1944. at Surbiton, Surrey. He has three brothers but is the only member of the family interested in bellringing. He now lives at Chapter House, St. Paul's Churchyard, his father, Mr. H. V. Overington, being the Dean's Virger at St. Paul's Cathedral. (The spelling of - Virger ' is peculiar to St. Paul's.)

SOCIETY OF SHERWOOD YOUTHS

A very good meeting was held at Hucknall on October 27th. The blind organist assisted in the short service, and an excellent tea was served in the Church Hall by the ladies of the Guild. Recordings were made by Miss A. Henson on her lape-recorder of some of the methods rung and of the organist who played so beautifully.

50 Years Ago

November 15th, 1912:-
November Seldom, we should think, has the recasting of a peal been accomplished in such an interesting fashion as those of Portsmouth Parish Church. Th:s church has more than parochial claims. It stands almost in the position of a national institution, and its new bells will for ever bear evidence of this fact.
The peal of eight have all been recast, one by the parishioners, one by the children, one by the Clergy of the Rural Deanery, one by the doctors and another by the lawyers. The fifth has been recast by the soldiers, and, marking the national interest in the church, the sixth by the national interest in the church, the sixth by King George. Portsmouth should be proud of its bells.

Roger was educated at the City of London School, where he admits he devoted more time to bellringing than to his studies. Whilst' there he sang in Her Majesty"s Chapels Royal as a treble. He left school at the age of 16 and joined the staff of the National Bank Lid. At the age of 12 he was drawn by the sound of the bells to the tower of St. Paul's, where he met that well-known character Mr. W. J. Rawlings, who invited him to look at the ropes. Roger was so fascinated that he went again and Mr. Rawlings began to teach him to handle the five-minute service bell which is rung each day before services. He soon mastered the art of handling, and is unique in that he is the only person ever to have learned to ring at St. Paul's. He is now well known in London towers and is a rezular Sunday service ringer at Si. Paul's and St. Luke's, Chelsea.

Roger's first peal was with the College Ycuths, when he rang the trebie to Double Norwich Court Boh Major at Hampton. Middlesex, on July 2nd, 1960, conducted by Frank C. Price. His total of seven peals includes two of Stedman Caters and three of Stedman Cinques. At the age of 16 he rang the treble to a peal at St. Paul's, and says his greatest moment was when he heard the bells come round after 3 hours 43 minutes. He has two ambitions: (1) to conduct his first peal of Stedman Triples, and (2) to take part in a peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne.

Finally, Roger pays a tribure to that wellknown and much-loved gentleman Alfred B Peck by saying he will always remember with gratitude the help he gave him, for his plain speaking, and the kindly way he spoke to him when he did something wrong. NORVING.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Good use was made of the fine eight beils at St. Michael's, Sittingbourne, on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Rochester District on October 20th. Many youngsters were attending their first annual meeting and were looked after by the District Ringing Master, the Rev. Peter Bond.
Friends from the Canterbury District were included in the congregation of 70 at the service conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. D. Meacham. Tea was given by the Sittingbourne ringers and friends and served by the Mothers Union. Mr. Bond was voted to the chair for the business meeting, during which the company stood in memory of Mr. A. Hewitt, of Frindsbury, a faithful member.

The District secretary, Mr. T. Barton, reported that 34 peals had been rung during the past year, and there was a balance in hand of $£ 349 \mathrm{~s} .9 \mathrm{~d}$. Mr. Barton, who had held office for five years, tendered his resignation, and was thanked for his valuable services. Other business included the election of 13 new members.
Officers for the coming year elected were: Secretary, Mr. L. Mitchell, Newington ; Distrjct Ringing Master, the Rev. Peter Bond; District representatives, Messrs. A. J. Dunk and F, J. Cheal.
Mr. W. Hollands announced that the Railwaymen's Guild would be holding their annual meeting at Rochester next year. After the votes of thanks the company adjourned to the tower for further singing.

ST. CHRISTOPHER'S SOCIETY TOURS CORNWALL

MANY new and welcome faces were to be seen on this year's tour, which took place from July 29 th to August 11th. The party numhered 14 in the first week, reducing to ten in the second.
The main activities began on Sunday, July 29th, at St. Mary's, Launceston, where Wilfred Boucher and his band gave us full use of their fine octave to ring for Matins, which we attended. This was followed by St. Thomas' attended. This was followed by St. Thomas' encounter with really long ropes. After lunch Boyton, North Tamerton (a ringing Rector) and Whitstone preceded ringing tor Evensong at Launcells (a fine six). The day ended with Strattor ( 8 , ienor 21-3-16), where we rang out the congregation. Methods included Stedman and Yorkshire.
Friends from Cardiff and Orpingion joined us next morning at Poughill, a fine-toned Gillett six. Morwenstow Church is renowned for its former eccentric Vicar. and also for its fine views, spoilt on this occasion by drizzle. Then followed Kilkhampton, Marhamchurch, Week St. Mary, Poundstock's toneless bells, Davidstow, Lesneath and St. Juliot, and the day ended at historic Tintagel, whose church has a commanding position on the headland.

A CHURCH IN A FIELD

Bodmin's octave have recently been restored and we greatly enjoyed our visit here on the Tuesday morning. It was a pity that our Tuesday morning. It was a pity that our Hertfordshire campers broke camp too late for a pull here. Blisland is well worth a call. for it has one of the few village gieens in the county together with a most inierest-ing church. The Rev. W. H. Minors, one of several Cornish ringing incumbents, met us at Si. Breward, before we moved to Advent, a church in a field with five bells, and with ferns growing profusely on the tower's inside walls. Lanteglos, St. Teath. St. Tudy (very rough going), St. Mabyn and St. Kew preceded the magnificent six at St. Endellion. St.
Minver, Egloshayle and St. Breock concluded Minver, Egloshayle and St. Breock concluded a Cornish-style "peal.'
Wednesday's ringing began on the easy-going eight at St. Columb Minor. Then followed St. Mawgan. St. Eval (in the middle of a St. Mawgan. St. Eval (in the middle of a disused airtield!) and St. Merryn. before arriving at Padstow (unusual for Cornwall in that a climb was needed to reach the ringing room). The next ring, at Little Petherick, was rather dismal, but the Vicar kindly showed us the magnificent set of vestments. A course of Rossendale was attempled at St. Issey before we rang at St. Columb Major. where the ringing chamber is over an archway. St. Dennis and St. Stephen-in-Brannell. both in kaolin mining country, ended the day, but us to the test.
Two pleasant sixes-Crantock and Newlyn East-were followed on Thursday by a very good ring at Perranzabuloe. Which were heard in a touch of Spliced Minor. St. Agnes and in a touch of Spliced Minor. St. Agnes and Redruth preceded Illogan's detached tower. where, as at our previous call. sound chutes. were in evidence. A course of Cornwall Surprise was rung at Tuckingmill before going on to Camborne : we read that these hells grow on one-we were unimpressed by them. Crowan. Gwinear (a majestic six). Phillack and Ludgvan completed the day.

FINE SOENERY SPOILT BY RAIN
Friday, August 3rd, was conspicuous for continuous drizzle, Gallery ringing rooms seem more popular this end of the county, and Gulval has panelling provided by the iocal captain. The musical octave at Madron was followed by the noble six at Paul (14) cwt.). There is one thing to be said for Cornwall in wet weather-jts beaches are not covered with holidaymakers and cars, as we found at lunchtime. Ringing followed at found at junchtime. Ringing followed at Sennen, and then a normally scenic ride to Zennor and Towednack. At the latter two towers we were pleased to have with us Mr . and Mr. Harold Parfrey from Somerset. St.
Hilary and Lelant brought us to practice nigh Hilary and Lelant brought us to practice nigh-at Carbis Bay. When ringing the ten the treble seems too-noisy and the second too quiet-due probably to their being on different levels.

Next morning, in contrast, was bright and suony as we arrived at Helston. whose good Taylor octave began the day. Calls at Cury and Mullion brought us to Landewednuik, whose interesting church had examples of the local serpeatine stone. Lunch was laken on the rocks of Church Cove, while some of the party enjoyed a swim. Across the Goonhilly Downs and past the Telstar station to Si. Keverne, a fine $18 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cWt}$ eight, to which we did not do justice. However, we were vastly better at St. Anthony-in-Meneage, where Cornwalt Surprise was enjoyed. Manaccan, Mawgan-in-Meneage, Wendron, Constantinz and Mabe-all sixes-provided the menu for and Mabethe rest of the day.

MAJESTIC TEN AT TRURO CATHEDRAL

Sunday saw us ringing for morning service at St. Budock, and after the service at St. Gluvias, followed in the afternoon by Stithians. The bolls at Gwennap's detached tower could do with the attention of a bell hanger while in sharp contract are the glorious $12 \frac{1}{4} \mathrm{cWt}$. six a: Perran-ar-Woruhal. Ringing for Evensong was on the majestic ten it Truro Cathedral, With methods up to Stedman Caters and Treble Ten. After Evensong we inspected this impressive building before proceeding to Kenwyn, with an excellent octave and a band to match. Following tradition, it was raining on Bank Holiday Monday its we travelled to S:Clement's, Truro (a musical ring of four). From here to another four-bell tower, St. Michael's, Penkevil, where there is an eight-bell frame containing approximately $1,3,5,7$ of the octave. St. Kea and St. Erme followed. and then Ladock. whose bells could do with rehanging After leaving Ladock one of the cars was involved in an accident. fortunately without injury, but the fact that the car had to be left in Truro for repairs, and the unavoidable delay, curtailed our stay at Probus, with its fine tower and bells. For some people Veryan was very exciting, because it enabled them to complete the alphabet for towers-perhaps the first to do so? St. Gorran, St. Ewe and St. Mewan completed the day.
St. Austell's is another church where a fine tower is matched by its bells. A call at Roche brought us to Withiel; Mr. Aggett, bell hanger of Chagford, Devon, apparently cast a few bells. as some of his products were found here. After lunch we rang at Lanivet and Lanhydrock, hefore journeying to Lostwithiel, whose band is renowned throughout Cornwall for: its excellence in call change ringing for its excellence in call change ringing: our scientific stuff badly let the side down. scientific stuff badly let the side down. yery tall tower at Fowey, and here methods included Yorkshire and Double Norwich. Tywardreath and Luxulyan. our first anticlockwise ring, brought the day to a close.

PENNINGTON'S VIRGIN PEAL

We did eventually find St. Winnow Churein on Wednesday. August 28th. nestling alongside the banks of the River Fowey. This purish is joined with St. Veep. where a bcard proclams that this is a virgin peal (1770) by Thomas Pennington. Afier Lanteglos. we enjoyed Lansallos bells, where the local band holds the shield of the East Cornwall Bellringing Association, Afternoon ringing was partaken at Talland, Lanreath and Broadoak. Neot, where we paused to admire the niediæval stained glass windows for which the church is renowned. St. Cleer preceded St Ive.
Thursday morning began at Liskeard. whose tower was rebuilt in 1902 and contains a followed: St. Keyne (anti-clockwise), Duloe (where five and six are loose on their headstocks). Morval. St. Martin-by-Looe and Menheniot. where the Vicar (a keen ringer) joined us in 120 Grandsire, afterwards showing us numerous items of interest in his church. Our longest intermediate journey of 16 miles brought us to Maker, on the headland overlooking Plymouth Sound. though fog and heavy rain spoilt the impressive views normally obtainable from this point. Antony. Germans (a magnificent Norman west door). Landulph (where the Queen and Prince Philip had recently signed the visitors book) and Botus Fleming brought us to the impressive six (16-1-15) at St. Stephen s-by-Saltash

An unfortunate misunderstanding resulted in a long wait to get into the tower at Saltash rext morning, but some of us made use of the time by inspucting the new suspension bridge. Pillaton and St. Mellion preceded Calstock, where the Rev. G. W. Ruming rang with us, an unusual feature here was numbered studs in the floor to identify each rope. Afternoon's ringing was at Callington. Linkinhorne and Lewannick. Altarnon's octave provided another gallery ring, and the last call was to the noble 15 cwt. six at South Petherwin.
Our concluding day opened at two sixes. Lawhitton and Lezant, where the Vicar recited short prayers before we rang. Werringlon has probably the first complete Simpson-tuned ring. and from here a quick pull at North Petherwyn. before another grand octave at St. Stephen's-by-Launceston. After lunch, the Rev. John Scolt stood in a course of Cambridge on his good Mears six at Clawton. Then followed Ashwater. Ge mansweek and the Pennington ring at Bratton Clovelly, where the local captain called a "peal ' for us. Three uninspiring sixes brought the tour to an endThrushelton (probably the worst of all those visited!), Stowford and Broadwoodwidger.
This account would not be complete without a sincere thank you' to all those who contributed to the success of the tour; in particular, we would thank Rev. A. S. Roberts. Rev. A. J. Vincent and Bob Southwood fo: giving that little extra bit of assistance that makes an organiser's life easier. I. H. O.

RADLEY COLLEGE RINGERS AROUND SWINDON

Radley College Campanological Society took advantage of ' X . day (the one day a term on which a holiday is given for various Societies) to visit six towers in the Swindon and Upper Thames area on October 26th.
These were South Marston ( 0 ). where some of the best ringing of the day took place, Broad Blunsdon (6). baffled by the long, unguided draught and heavy, wet ropes, and Castle Eaton (6) before lunch. This was at the George Hotel, Kempsford, where the landlord, on the spur of the moment, provided bacon and eggs, and sorrows were drowned with local ale. In the church's central tower. built by John of Gaunt, we did not do justice to the pleasant. heavy ring.
Although the ringing was slow and the tenor a bit sluggish. the striking was pretty evell at Cricklade (5). The last tower was Meysey Hampton, where the ringing was rather rough and not up to standard because we were all tired. Tea was taken at the Bull Hotel. Fairford. Back at College a vote of thanks was passed to the organiser (the secretary) and to the president and vice-president for providing transport. Without exception, everybody gained much useful experience.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD Marlborough Branch

The monthly meeting of the Marlhorough Branch at the two Ogbournes on October 27ih attracted a good company, visitors coming from as far afield as Suffolk. First ringing and also the service, conducted by the Rev. H. W. Dunn, was at Ogbourne St. Andrew. A hountiful tea had been prepared by Mrs. A. Whiting and helpers at Ogbourne St. George, and the Vicar in a welcome commented how nice it was to hear the bells which were too often silent. The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. George Newman. Ringing at St. George's continued until late evening.

RING OF TEN INSTALLED AT GROTON, U.S.A.

Dear Sir,-I wish I had the time to write at greater length about the wonderful new ring of ten (tenor 18 cwt . in F) which the Whitechape Foundry has made for us, of the efficient supervision of the hanging by Mr. Harry Parkes and of the generous co-operation of the Groton School authorities-all combined to make ours an ideal tower indeed.
What are the boys going to do with the bells? First, the best handling I am capable of teaching, with the consequent good striking Secondly, opening ringing within our capabilities. Having rung quarter peals of Stedman Doubles in the motherland last summer, our ambition is to become a Stedman tower.
We still need a schoolmaster-ringer (English) to produce the best results however.-Sincerely yours,

RUSSELL S. YOUNG.
Groton School,
Mass, U.S.A.

ALREADY NAMED

Dear Sir,-I read with interest in the peal columns and Belfry Gossip of Mr. G. K. Dodd's "new" methods-Ascension and St. Stephen's Doubles.
These methods are exactly the same as Salwarpe (in the case of Ascension) and Windrush (in the case of St. Stephen's).
The methods were first rung as Salwarpe and Windrush by a well-known Worcestershire band led by Mr. P. Cattermole on March 29th, 1961, at Wychbold ('R.W.', dated April 14th, 1961. in peal columns and on page 255 in the letters). -Yours, etc.

LOUGHBOROUGH COLLEGE SOCIETIES' PEALS

Dear Sir,-Unless Mr. Robert Smith wishes to differentiate between the singular and the plural of the word college, the peal rung for 'The Loughborough Colleges Society' on Wednesday, October 17 th , was not the first tower bell peal for the Society, as claimed.
Myself and five others, who were at the time students at Loughborough, rang a peal of Bob Minor at Diseworth on Wednesday, February 25th, 1953, which we credited to 'The Loughborough College Society,' of which we believed ourselves to be the founder members.-Yours sincerely

BARRY CORBISHLEY.
Macclesfield.

EMERGENCY LIGHTING

Dear Sir,-Those interested in lighting failure in the belfry should note that there is now a portable emergency lighting unit which can be plugged into the system. The light of this unit is kept off by the electricity supply, but upon the supply failing it automatically comes on
To my mind this unit solves the problems of a power supply failure or somebody accidentally switching off the current.
The manufacturers are Nife Batteries, Redditch. Wores (Lighting Unit R.E.6).-Yours faithfully, K. FLEMING.

Deserving of special comment is the peal of Grandsire Doubles, Broad Hinton, Wilts, which was the first peal for four of the band, the first of Grandsire Doubles by the other two and the first as conductor.
The Cumberlands had a seaside excursion to Great Yarmouth on November 10th to score the first peal of Cinques on the bells.
All ringing has been suspended at St. Mary's, Weldon, owing to the frame having become loose. It is hoped that work on the bells will start in the not-too-distant future.
Mr. H. Oglesby enquires whether Miss Jennifer Sceeny (aged $16 \frac{1}{2}$ ) is the youngest lady to conduct a peal. (See peal at Hitcham, October 181h, page 740 .)
Mr. E. Chambers, who was awarded the M.B.E. for his service with the Hertfordshire Fire Brigade, is now in charge of the county fire prevention office. He is one of the most regular Sunday ringers at St. Michacl's, St. Albans.
The bells at Uffington, Lincs, have heen silent for many years, hut after attention and rehanging they are a very good go:ng and musical six. A good first peal was scored on November 3rd, with Miss Julia Larkinson kinging the third like an expert.
Congratulations to Mr. Frederick Gamble who rang his first quarter peal at Bedwerth on October 28th. Mr. Gamble has been a loyal ringer at Bedworth for a great many years, and the rest of the band tender their best wishes for many more happy ringing years.
Mr. Lester Gray, of Liverpool, realised two ambitions when he visited London for the College Youths' dinner. One was to meet his old friend Herbert Langdon, and it was good to see Lester, now 80, and rerbert. 81, with their heads together discussing old times. His other ambition was to ring the treble on the new hells at Holborn to three courses of Stedman Triples, called by his old friend Frank Smallwood. This' was fulfilled, and we imagine he returned to Liverpool a happy man.

A few years back a wellknown church had installed an amplification system for broadcasting bells. The Bishop was there to dedicate them in the presence of local dignitaries and a large congregation. Unfortunately, when the verger had been sent out to purchase a suitable record, he had chosen 'The Bells of St. Mary's.' with Bing Crosby!-St. Jude's Parish Magazine, South Kensington.

The 600th peal has been rung at the Church of St. John-the-Baptist, Erith.

An English schoolmaster-ringer is required to produce the best results on the new ring of ten at Groton School, Massachusetts, U.S.A.. writes Mr. Russell S. Young.
A new record has been heard from the tower of St. Jude's. South Kensington-St. Mary's, Thatcham, Berks, instead of a somewhat asthmatic broadcast of the bells of St. Margaret's, Westminster.

Mr. John Ashcroft informs us that the peal reported on page 756. November 9th. of icur Minor methods for the Lancashire Association was actually rung at Deane, Bolton. He sends his apologies for the error.
At Great Addington, Northants, a new band was started from scratch 18 months ago. Now a. the second attemp a first quarter of Plain Bob Minor has been rung. Keep on going!
The peal of Cambridge Surprise rung recently at Rainham was not the first peal of Surprise by the treble ringer (Mr. F. J. Cheal). Mr. W. A. J. Knight informs us that he conducted Mr. Cheal's first-Cambridge Surprise Minor-at Upchurch in 1952. The peal at Rainham was his first of Surprise Major.
A Radley College ringer, in rather an absentminded mood, addressed a matron to her face as Miss Cross. When the boy's housemaster was informed of the incident by the matron. his comment was: 'Oh, did it ring a bell?' 'No,' was the matron's reply, 'it just dropped a clanger!’

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP
Mrs. Mitchell, of Gravesend. writes that the three generation of her family who are ringers are Mrs. Z. M. Mitchell, Miss M. I. Goodship (niece). Miss S. R. Goodship (grandniece). The two last named are ringers with their father and grandfather at St. Mary-le-Tower. Ipswich

A point about the peal of Plain Bob Major at Glasbury-on-Wye is that these bells were originally a six by Jeffries and Price of Bristol. in 1838. and the trebles were added in 1907 by Mears and Stainbank. In the succeeding vears there is no record of a peal of Major on the bells.

RINGING TO THE GLORY OF GOD

AVALUABLE insight into the spiritual side of the art and craft of change-ringing was given by Dr. G. A. Ellison, Bishop of Chester, when he preached at a special service held in Chester Cathedral on November 17th to mark the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Chester Diocesan Guild, of which he is president.
Calling attention to the familiarity of the Gloria, the Bishop contended that there was always within man that desire to be united with God and show in his acts and deeds something of the glory of God itself. That was why religion has always called forth from man the highest praise and the most beautiful he can offer. Every man has tried through his acts and creative ability to express something of the glory of God.
'The craft of which you are members is one way man seeks to express the glory of God. You are not in this generation unique in this; indeed, man has always used bells in worship to express something of the majesty of God; but I believe the use of bells has reached in this land its highest expression in the ringing of bells in peals, an art which is greatly cherished in our day as it has been during the centuries when it was first conceived by man.

- We know, of course, our first purpose is to call people to worship; but if that was all we sought to do it would be sufficient if we had one bell, which we rang at the right moment when people might be concerned. Of course, we seek to do a great deal more than calling men to worship when we ring in peal. We are bringing in our craftsmanship and all its elements in personal discipline, concentrating the sense of harmony and balance which are essential to every artistic effort and essential in the craft we exercise.
'There is something awful in the majesty of bells: they can be so kind when used in the right way and so angry and dangerous when used improperly. And so in that expressive movement that takes place when bells are being rung in peal, through the craftsmanship of those using them according to a method, we are expressing something very strongly to the glory of God, to whose glory these bells have been made and hung and in whose glory we seek to use them as good as we can.
' Of all the things man has made, nothing expresses the glory of God better than in man himself. Man is made in the image of God, and the best way he can express his thanks to God is in the holiness of his own life. He cannot find the source of that glory unless it is through wer-ship in His church, through prayer and through the sacraments. These are the sources of the power of God; these are the ways which will enable them in their own lives to reflect the glory of God.
'And so the greatness of the craft which is exercised by the ringer is that he calls people to the source of their own holiness; he proclaims God in His majesty and also says: "Come to God, come to His house, come to receive what He will give you: come to Him to draw the strength you need if you are to show Him His glory." And so the splendour of the ringer's art is not so much in the perfection of what he is doing and the satisfactory completion of the complicated courses he is following, but the fact he is proclaiming the glory of God and the way man must show it in his life and service to Him. It follows that those who serve in this way should be ornaments of what they proclaim.
'Tonight we give thanks for the 75 years of the Guild men have rung bells far longer than that. but it is during that period the ringers here have been organised and have learned the fellowship of the craft they exercise. We thank God for those who have gone before and led the Guild, and those who have been drawn to it through its great artistic endeavour and learned through the Guild to do it better.
- We dedicate ourselves afresh to the work we find so fascinating and the purpose for which it is designed. We may well take a text from Psalm 85, verse 9: "Surely his salvation is nigh them that fear Him; that glory may dwell in our land ":

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD'S 75th ANNIVERSARY

Mr. John Worth Honoured

THE MASTER, Mr. J. W. Clarke.

$\mathrm{S}^{\mathrm{A}}$
TURDAY, November 17th, was a great day in the history of the Chester Diocessan Guild, with its 800 members, when its 75 th birthday was celebrated. Apart from ringing in outlying churches, there was a well attended festival Evensong at the Cathedral, when the Bishop (the Rt. Rev. G. A. Ellison) preached. the Archdeacon officiated and Mr. C. Lawton read the lesson. This was followed by the commemoration dinner at the Bars Hotel. Chester.

At the dinner the Master, Mr. J. W. Clarke. who was accompanied by Mrs. Clarke. presided, and supporting them on the top table were the Bishop and Mrs. Ellison, the Archdeacon of Chester and Mrs. Burne: Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Perrens, Mr. and Mrs. J. Worth. Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Lewis, Mr, and Mrs. H. O. Baker. Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Darmon, the Rev. and Mrs. H. Wyndham Lewis. Mr. P. Laflin and Mr. T. W. White.
The loyal toast was followed by Mr. F. W. Perrens proposing the toast of 'Church and State.' From the Coventry Diocesan Guild. of which he is president. Mr. Perrens brought their most cordial greetings. He told the gathering that Coventry had been associated with Chester for over 900 years. and that Earl Leofric, who was the husband of Lady Godiva, gave valuable gifts to the Church at Chester
From the records of the past, said Mr. Perrens, their Guild from its foundation had very loyal support from the clergy of the diocese. At the inaugural meeting the Archdeacon took the chair and there were four canons and 11 other clergy present He could only trust that the clergy of the Chester Diocese nere just as interested in the Guild as they obviously were when it was founded.

He noticed on the toast list that beneath the toast "Church and State; was the quotation "Let's get together." The consecration took place this year of Coventry Cathedral. which he had the pleasure of attending with his wife, and at the Cathedral some of them no doubt had seen the Chapel of Unity and it was this unity that he wished to spsak about

COVENTRY'S CHAPEL OF UNITY
This Chapel cost about $£ 65.000$ and this had been contributed to by all the churches in Coventry, and many overseas. Sweden had piovided a wonderful masaic. Germany $£ 5.000$ for its windows: in addition many individuals. of all denominations including Roman Catholics, had contributed funds
The complete administration of this Chapel was in the hands of a general council of Anglicans and Free Churchmen. They arranged the services and had a number of study groups meeting there. The chapel was also open to visiting parties for their services. It was not only a beautiful part of the Cathedral, but a real live Chapel of Unity.

He wished he could tell them of any unity in State affairs; alas, they were conspicuous by their absence. They could, however, say that the spirit of unity lhroughous the ringing fraternity was very plain to see. Occasionally they heard of differences between Societies and local towers and if was up to them to eradicate those troubles. It was up io them to do all they could to help unity in the Church and the State and in their ring:ng Societies and local towers.

The name of the Bishop was coupled with the toast and Dr. Ellison said. with a Iwinkle in his eye, that he made it a rule if he preached in church not 10 speak afterwardsas there was a suspicion that he had something to say that was not fit for him to sily in church!
The terms of the toast was one of titc most significant factors in the history of the country. From the earlest days the life of the secular authority and the lifz of the Church had been inextricably bound up together Much of the life of the Church was under control of the State. many of its chief officers here approved by the Queen.

- No one can regard it as satisfactory, said the Bishop. "that when any one of us goes to church we break the Law because it is totally impossible for any clergyman to conduct a service according to the Book of Common Prayer, and the Book of Common Prayer is part of the law of the Lind, and you break the law of the land if one jot thtle of that book is changed.
No one really desires the disestablishment of the Church-that is, the complete parting of the Church from its formal relationship with the State; nevertheless there are many people who feel that the Church is entitled to a greater freedom in the way she may order her affairs and especially her worship.

THE NEW MEASURE

In a very short time a Measure will be presented before Parliament which will give to the Church greater freedom in the way she orders her affairs and worship. I speak of this because it is most important to individual members of the Church. I hope you will give your support for this reasonable request of the Church to order its affairs.

We hope that so far as creating any weakening of Church and State such id

THE HONORARY SFCRETARY,

 Mr. Henry O. Baker.Measure will cement the relationship between the two because the Church will have a greater confidence in the State, and when the State is asked to legislate the thing she is asked to do has been proved by experiment by the Church

Let me congratukate your Guild on achieving this notable anniversary and achieving it in such a thriving state, because it is delightful to look around this company and see what a broad age group we cover, and to see so many young members who are prepared to accept the discipline of learning the craft and to pass on to those that come something that has given the members of the Guild a great satisfaction in life.
Mr. S. E. Darmon proposed the toast of The Chester Diocesan Guild.' and said that since he came into the area of the Guild about two months ago he had met the greatest friendliness both in and out of the belfiy. They came with the Central Council to Chester in 1951 and had an opportunity of ringing in the town and neighbourhood. Later when they were living in Dublin they had the pleasure of welcoming members of the Chester Guild. It was no mean achievement for the Guild 10 celebrate its 75 th anniversary and to be in as good shape as they were that night. Ringing as they knew it was well over 300 years old. They all knew of the low ebb ringing found itself in the middle of the last century, and it was due to the farsightedness of very few members that the territorial associations as they knew Guilds like theirs. were founded. and also the Central Council. The aim of the founders was to regulate and create a high standard, and receive recognition as worthy servants of the Church. What they knew of the Exercise today indicated that those early efforts had heen justified. They could not conceive what ringing would have been like if Guilds had rot come into being.

OUTSTANDING OFFICERS
The Cheater Guild had been fortunate in its officers. The Bishop of the Diocese. their president. was an ardent champion of ringing. their Master, Mr. Clarke, was a distinguished antiquarian. The secretary/treasurer of any organisation was the life blood and in Mr Baker they had one of the best. He knew Mr Baker was seriously ill at their dinner last year and they were doubly glad to have him with them. Their Deputy Master (Mr. John Worth) had joined the rarified atmosphere of those who had rung 1.000 peals: he congratulated him.

Their report secretary (Mr. C. K. Lewis) was an honorary member of the Central Council, convener of the Methods Committee and an intelligent heavy ender. But it was the runk and file that made the Guild and thev were fortunate in having a membershin of 750. and in ringing 150 peals last year, being nlaced fifth Guild in the country. They als? rang a peal of 13.000 Spliced six. which would st. id as a milestone for a long time.

- Your 75th anniversary is not a homing course, not even a turning course, hui is going nicely with a good steady beat, with no trips. May your ringing be always good and true.
The Master (Mr. J. W. Clarke). in his reply, said in 1886 Archdeacon Barber. a Yorkshireman. came to Chester. When he wen to his church, St. Mary-on-the-Hill, he must have had something of a shock because it was in a dreadful state and in the belfry thing: were worse. Typical of him. he staiied is raise funds straight away and in a short time collected $£ 5,000$. Looking across the river he saw the Church of St. Mary, Handbridge. being huilt and that church was buil in two years. He was present at the dedication in June, 1887. and the eight bells which had been placed in the towar by Messrs. Mears and Staimbank were heard tha: day for the first time. It wils the hearing of the bells which gave the Archdeacon an interest in bells.

CLERGY ORDERED TO GO

In 1887 he called a meeting at the refectory of the Cithedral on a Saturday afternoon. He did not invite his clergy to that meeing, but told them 10 go. The Guild was started and in the Minute Book was kept a record of attendances of clergy and ringers and he ( Mr Clarke) remembered seeing the attendance at those meetings of eight or 10 clergy and not many more ringers. He did not think the clergy were taught to ring, but he insisted that they should know something about it, and treat it as belonging to the Church. He had spoken to people who had altended that meet-ing-one walked eight miles to get there as there was no other way. The roads were ankle deep in mud and he remembered trying to get the mud from his boots before the nueeling.

They must not imagine they were the first in the field. He came across an account of the opening of the bells of Ashton-under-Lyne where the ringing lasted four days. There was a band of ringers called the Chester Youths. He thought the Chester ringers only went for 50 minutes. but two of them did ring a peal of Major later in the week.
In the 18 th century there were the Chester Scholars, who rang at the Church of St. John. the tower of which had now collapsed.
Mr. Clarke satid he was present at the 50 ih anniversary of the Guild and he wondered how many of those present were there. No fewer than eight people stood up Concluding he said he was sure the Guild: sucoess was largely dependent on the support given to the officers by the whole Guild, and as long as that state of affairs remained they would continue to flourish. He hoped many of those present would be with them 25 years hence.

MR. JOHN WORTH HONOURED

Mr. H. O. Baker said it was with great pleasure that he rose to pay tribute 10 one of their members who had distinguished himself in the field of peal ringing. Mr. John Worth, their Deputy Master. had now joined the very select company who had rung over 1,000 peals. This fine achievement had been made in many towers aN over the British Isles, and it was true to say that in almost every one he had stood either on the tenor box or near it.
Those who had seen him in action would have been impressed by the apparent ease with which he controlled the swinging bell. no matter what weight it happened to be. He was also an accomplished conductor. and 10 sec his name in any peal record could be take to indicate that it was well and truly Mrg. Baker enumerated a few of Mr. Worth's chievemen's-the fenor to the peal of 21.600 Bristol Surprise Major rung in 13 hours ai

Over on November 4th, 1950: 15.480 Cambridge Surprise Royal on December 15th, 1951 Worsley, which was the longest peal of Royal ever rung at that time. He had also rung many long lengths of Spliced Major, in cluding 13.440 with all the work for all the bells.

As one would expect from such a distinguished ringer. he was always present for Sunday service ringing at his own church at Macclesiield. where he had been captain for many years. He had. indeed. set an example and they wished him continued success in the future. Perhaps he might reach the 2.000 mark

Then at Mr. Baker's request. Mrs. Ellison. the wife of the Bishop, handed Mr. Worth Parker 51 set
Mr. Worth: I can only say thank you. very much. I did not set out for 1,000 : it just hilppened. My main aim is to foster ringing fo: the Chester Guild.
The concluding speech was a vote of thanks from the Mistor. He said they had several pcople to thank for that excellent evening, and the first must he their secretary, and also Mrs. Baker. who had been at reast three month on the job. He also thanked the Chester Branch and its officers for their help, and Mr. Arrowsmith. the toastmaster.
Between toasts there was handbell ringing starting with Grandsire Caters by F. Oshaldis ton 1-2. I. E. Bibby 3-4. J. Worth 5-6 C. K. Lewis 7-8. P. Laflin 9-10. Later the sime hand with the exception of J. E. Bihby rang Boh Major. Grandsice Triples and Treble Bob Major

A PEAL OR QUARTER AT FRESSINGFIELD

The Rev. B. T. Pitts. Vicar of Fressingfield. Suffolk. celebrates the 50th anniversary of his ordination on December 21st when a service will be held in Fressingfield Church at 10 am . attended by the Bishop of the diocese.
Mr. Pitts would like the hells rung for the occasion, and also a full peal on the following Sunday afternoon to welcome home his son from abroad. If successful a peal hoard will be placed in the belfry.
Will ringers who are able to ring on one $0^{-}$both these occasions please communicate with Mr. L. E. Etheridge, Willow House. Fressingfield. Suffolk

A SPORTING OFFER

We have received from Miss A. Henson, the honorary secretary of the Sherwood Youths. of Nottingham, the appended 5.040 Plain Rob Major. composed by Mr. Valentine Gosling the old Daybrook ringer. in 1908. Mr Gosling, who now lives in America, is 80 years of age, and still visits England.

The peal is true, but it cannot claim the nerit of originality. for it reveals itself as a reverse variation of one of the many three-part and six-part peals which have one hell fixed in 6ihs place throughout a part.
Mr. Gosling makes a sporting offer: he promises the sum of $£ 5$ to any band that will ring the peal!

CHURCH BELL CRASHES FROM TOWER

An amazing incident took place at Clough ton, near Scarborough, on November 17 th when one of the three bells of St. Mary" Church crashed down as a wedding group was being posed for photographs. The bell seighing about 1 cwi .. fell 30 feet from the beltry on io the path outside the church. The uedding party were 20 feet away. Only minutes before Mr. Victor Hey, a Sarborough photographer. Was standing on the spot where the bell fell.
Ringing for this wedding were two volun teel bell ringers-Mr. Michael Readman. a blacksmith, and Mr. Patrick Rishardson.
Mr. Readman, according to The Yorkshire Post. said: "I was holding the middle rope-i has knols on the end and also a loop. The regular bell ringer used to use his foot in the loop and manipulate the othzr ropes by hi:nd

I had never done the joh before and was warned mot to let go of the rope. I didn't hink the bell was ringing so 1 bepan to null harder and had to jump and it burned my hands

I slipped from my grasp. shot up into the belfry and then came down again, colling itself round my neck. having broken loose fiom the swivel. Then I heatd a crash and ealised the bell had fallen.?
He said: "Occasionally the ropes have been eplaced, but nothing else has needed dttention before. The church is about 100 years old.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Dear Sir-Three cheers for "Anti-Belle. whose opinions of the fair sex in the belfry nıust be shared by many males, especially fact (a). As ornaments, most of them pass the test, but as strikers they rarely do!-Yours sincerely.

SOUTHERN STRIKER.

'HACKLFS FAIRLY ROSE,

Dear Sir,-May I jnvade the ringers' territory just for a little while? I am a non-ringing wife, but I read "The Ringing World, and follow the activities of the ringing fraternity most earnestly, both male and female.
Having read the letter signed 'Anti-Belle, my hackles fairly rose, and having in mind the capabilities of certain lady ringers of miv acquaintance, were the said gentleman to come in contact with them he would not only be 'going' but most certainly 'gone.'

My advice to him is simple : he can't beat 'em, hecause they are here to stay; so why not join 'em, and, ladies, if any sustenance behind the scenes is required to give more zest to your elbow, you can count on me. -Yours sincerely, IRANC.ES FEIRN.
Cleatham, Kirton Lindsey.

WE LOVE WOMEN IN THE BELFRY

 -OR ANYWHERE ELSEDear Sir.-We have deliberated on the letter by 'Anti-Belle, and thave the following observations 10 make:
(a) We do not agree that women are unable to strike a bell accurately for any length of time;
(b) We concede that they are fickle, but do not concede that they cannat be satisfied;
(c) We cannot agree that physical satisfaction has been reduced by the advent of wamen to the belfry; and
(d) Who minds being undermined by romantic attachmen's?
Furthermore, if 'Anti-Belle' would present himself at 150 . Narborough Road South. Leicester, on any Tuesday evening at 6.30 p.m. sharp. we do assure him that Jill Staniforth would raise no objection to him ringing her pair to Cambridge Maximus while she sits and listens for a change.-Yours sincerely, JOHN M. JELLEY.

TO ANTI-BELLE

Has 'Anti-Belle' his tongue in cheek?
I hope that is the case.
$\mathrm{O}^{-}$is he just a henpecked man
Who dare not show his face?
Let's take his 'facts" up, one by one.

- A - Striking of a bell.
A. large one needs a man's pure brawn.

But please lot me now tell
That girls can strike a dittle one
To match up with the best
That men can do on lighter end.
Will he dare to take a test?
' $\mathbf{B}$ '-Methods new he now impugns
To women's fickle nature.
When methods new are rung to peals
It's male ringers that most feature.
'Tis progress, man, no more, no less.
You cannot just stand still.
And who discovers these new methods? It's Richard, John or (Bill.
' C' -Obvious now it is 10 me
He disdains a new invention.
Away with cars, 'planes, diesel trains,
To walk is my intention.
I must do things the hardest way
'Twere weakness otherwise.
Never mind those who're growing old,
Ball bearings I despise.
'D - Team spirit-now-in bands of yore
The women have swept away.
Or could it be the travel-bug,
Tower-snatching. T.V. or play?
Dare I suggest that ringing bands
Are not how so hide-bound?
But that our ringing family
Travels more and more around?
No hard feelings, Anti-Bellc,
My tongue is in my chcek.
At least while ringing in the tower
The women cannot speak.
MARG.

SPOTTED IN MANCHFSTER:

Dear Sir.-With reference to the i:em in Belfry Gossip (November 16th). I would like 10 report that a pair of migrating Baldwins has recently appeared in Manchester, after a sojourn in southern parts.-Yours faithfully, Manchester.

NOT A FIRST PEAL

Dear Sir,-The footnote to the peal at Micheldever, Hants, rung for the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild on October 20th, "Believed to be the first peal on the bells," is incorrect. A peal of Bob Minor was rung there on August 8th. 1938, conducted by the late Daniel Cooper, of Croydon.-Yours faithfully,

Sutton Scotney,
Winchester.

HIGHEST PEAL

Dear Sir.-I am afraid that the Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, band cannot claim this distinction for (aircraft- apart) they are 920 feei too low and 32 years 100 late. viz. Johannesburg, South Africa. 5040 Plain Bob Minor, "in hand" on 6/3/1930 and 7/5/1930, conducted by Canon Ridout

It has been done at sea, in bed and. I helieve, underground. Who will oblige us with the first (and higiest) peal 'tour en l'air '? A fine start for the second Great Adventure. -Sincerely, VICTOR SHEPPARD.

A HISTORY LESSON FROM BRISBANE
Dear $\operatorname{Sir}$-I was very interested in Mr Hancock's inquiry into the bells of the Vintry Ward. City of London ('R.W.' September 28th). Mr. Hancock was in doubt as to whether Si. Martin's or St. Mary's bells were used by the ringers of St. Paul's for their practices. There was no St. Mary's Church in this ward, but at a little distance in Candlewick or Cordwainers Ward is the Church of Si. Mary, Aldermary.
Allen's 'History of London (1835) given all details of the City churches, and the exact boundaries of the parishes, while Stow gives the boundaries of all the 26 wards Vintry is one of the smaller wards. situated between Cannon Street and the Thames. Before the Great Fire of 1666 it had four churchesSt. James' Garlick Lythe. St. Thomas the Apostle, St. Martin and St. Michael Paternoster The Churches of St. Thomas and St. Martin were not rebuilt after the fire, but their parishes were united to the other two, which two churches still stand today.
Though Allen's history gives the details of all bells in every ward and church. that is where there were bells, even giving the number. 8 bells, 6 bells, 4 bells and so on. yet n) mention of any bells in the Vintry churches. so that none of them had any at all The Church of St. Martin Vinery was buift about 1399 by the executors of a Matthew Columbars, a French wine merchant. of Bordeaux. As this part of the City was mostly taken up by wine dealers the ward was named 'Vintry, and the Worshipful Company of Vintners have their hall in the ward to this dav-Yours sincerely. THOMAS ROACHE.

CHEAPSIDE DELIGHT

Dear Sir,-Could anybody supply the notation of Cheapside Delight, or Cheapside Treble Bob Minor, and give the lead-end, and any other name which this method has been called.-Yours faitnfully, London. S.W.

SPLICED MINOR

Dear Sir.-lf Mr. Wratten wants to ring peals of Spliced Minor in more than 130 methods. why does he not change me:hods at the half lead-end as well as the normal position?

| e.g. | 48 changes |  |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |

| lead-end | 153523 | St. Clement's |
| half lead-end | 523641 | Double Oxford |
| lead-end | 125634 |  |

I have not made any attempt to extend this to longer touches or to extents (possibly bscause of the length of the proof!), but leave this to the ingenuity of Mr. Wratien.
If there has been a Central Council "ed:ct against this kind of thing I would like to apologise in advance. (I have no quick access to C.C. records.)-Yours sincerely.

Abingdon, Berks.
P.S. Could we not also have a half lead end bob?-C.I.R.

TAYSOM'S TRAVELLERS IN DEVON

On Friday, October 19th, a company of 14 assembled for a ringing tour in Devonshire. They were Mr. and Mrs. H. Taysom, Rita Webb, Jean Palmer, Myra Wilkins, Tony Gibbs, Bill Lampard, Brian Metcalfe (Warmley), Ivor Goulter, Peter Hurcombe (Cheltenham), Barbara Dench (Corston), David Barnett, Terry Milsom and Alan Lee (Twerton-on-Avon). As in previous years, Henry Taysom drove the mini-bus. Lustleigh, the headquarters, was reached at about 10.45 p.m.
Favoured with excellent weather, we were privileged to have Buckfast Abbey as our first lower. Here Mr. Aubrey Bennett joined us for the day. The bells gave some of the party their first chance to ring on 12 , and ringing was limited to call-changes on 12, Grandsire Caters and Bob Major on the back eight.
Through the lanes to Rattery, where Miss Yvonne Porter, from Plymouth, met us and the Rev. H. J. Knight led the band in prayer. Nearly half of the church is roped of as unsafe, but the five bells rung from the ground floor, like most towers visited, go well and sounded pleasant to Stedman, Grandsire and Bob Doubles. Diptford, a church with a crooked spire but a very good Taylor six, followed. Dodbrooke, a light six which go well, preceded lunch at Kingsbridge. The parish church, where the bells were rung upstairs, had the only octave of the day. A peal has never been rung here.

It was a long journey to the coast and to the church of East Portlemouth, dedicated to St. Winwalloe Onolaus. These bells are a very good six restored by Taylors. Ringing here finished with call-changes, in which a local ringer, Mr. Stone, joined in. At Loddiswell (6) a course of London was achieved as well as St. Clement's Minor. Again, there were call-changes for a local-Mr. Taylor. Ringing for the day concluded at Mr. Bennett's church, Dean Prior, where the bells are a joy to ring.
The day finished with a superb social evenirg at Buckfastleigh, where Mr. E. W. Penny, the organist, and Peter Hurcombe took it in turns to keep the party going with the piano, the music ranging from classical to good old English choruses.

Ringing on Sunday morning was at the parish church. On the way home in the evening we rang at Cullompton (10). The long list of thanks includes Mr. and Mrs. Palmer and Miss Gay for looking after us, Henry Taysom for driving, and Aubrey Bennett. According to a report in a local paper, the tour was 'the rest yet '-a sentiment with which all agree. One thing is certain, next year will see the Taysoms 'again 'Down in Devon.' A.F. L.

A Family Affair

The quarter peal rung at Spaxton, Somerset. for the golden wedding of Mr. Harry Short (i) former ringer) and his wife was noted for the inclusion in the band of a nephew, Mr. R. D. Short, and his wife, and also his son-in-law,
Mr. H. A. Price. The father of H. J. Cavill, Mr. H. A. Price. The father of H. J. Cavill, ringer, and the grandfather of the tenor ringer, H. I. Ford, rang for the wedding in 1912.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD  Marlborough Branch

The accent was centainly on youth at the annual meeting of the Marlborough Branch held at Marlborough on November 17th. The hells of St. Mary's Church were rung to various methods in the afternoon until the Guild service, which is conducted by the Rev. Aurmand Smith (chairman of the St. Mary's Armand Smith (chairman of the St. Mary's singers). Canon F. B. R. Browne (Retor) read the lesson and gave the address, his theme being that membership of a Guild brought both knowledge and fellowship.
Tea was enjoyed in the Toc H Room, a splendid repast having been prepared by Mesdames Brown, Armand Smith and Huxley. This was served by the Misses Noreen Bishop, Susan Eustace, Cherry Mabbutt, Pat Munday and Judith Warwick, all members, together W.rth Mrs. Brown, of St. 'Mary's band of yingers. The business meeting followed, with Mr. George Newman in the chair. Supporting him were Mr. T. A. Palmer (honorary secretary), Capt. J. I). Mansfield-Robinson (Branch representalive), Canon Browne, Rev. Armand Smith, and the Rev. A. and Mrs. Phillips, of Manningford.
The honorary secretary presented his annual report, which sevealed a slight drop in membership, but was in many respects encouraging. Interest in ringing was increasing, especially among the younger generation, and he looked forward to the future with confidence.
The election of officers resulted in both the chairman and honorary secretary being reelected with acclamation. For the office of vice-chairman Mr. A. Johnson was elected. Monthly meetings for the first quarter of 1963 were agreed (subjeot to permission) at Ramsbury, Collingbourne Kingston and Mildenhall.
Cap:. Mansfield-Robinson gave a short account of progress in the restoring of St . Peter's eight bells, of the work recently done at East Kennett and of the ideas afoot for encouraging the youth in the district to take up ringing. A meeting at Overton (Capt. Mansfield-Robinson's home tower) was envisaged for next February, when practical tuition would be given, as well as a course tuition would be given, as well as a course of lectures. A resolution, proposed by Mr. W. A.
Edwards and seconded by Mr. R. Ward. that in view of the recent increase of subscriptions, Branch secretaries should be allowed to retain a higher proportion for Branch expenses. was passed. Six new members were elected. all helonging to St. Mary's tower. W. A.E.

Dorchester Branch

The autumn meeting of the Dorchester Branch was held at Preston on October 13th. Canon Smith (Vicar) conducted the service and the lesson was read by the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth. Tea was provided for 31 members by the ladies of the church.
At the business meeting Messrs. R. Gray, W. Chapman (Wool). D. Pitman (Charminster), T. Christie (Hilton/Melton Abbey) were elected members of the Guild. The chairman, the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth, ihanked all who had contributed to the success of the meeting.
Practice outings: December 1st, Frampton; December 15 th . St. Peter's, Dorchester; December 29th. Wool; January 12th, Cattistock (all subject to permission). Next meeting (annual), St. Peter's, Dorchester, January 19th.

OBITUARY

REV. H. H. STAINSBY, M.A.
The Lincoin Diocesan Guild and in particular, the Southern Branch, of which he was vice-president, has lost an exceeding good friend by the death on November 9 th of the Rev. H. H. Stainsby, Vicar of Edenham since 1943. He died falling from a ladder while working on the east window of his church.
Aged 77, Mr. Stainsby had been 50 years a priest, serving as a cura:e in three London pârishes priar to becoming Vicar of Deeping St. Nicholas, Lincs, in 1925. Later he was appointed Vicar of Edenham.
There was always a warm welcome for ringers at his church and, despite failing sight in recent years, he usually climbed the belfiry stairs to spread a few minuies with the ringers from surrounding towers who practise at Edenham once a manth. For many years, too, we have enjoyed his and Mrs. Stainsby's lospitality on New Year's 正ve prior to ringing the old out year and the new in.
Many ringers were present at the funeral and the eight bells of his church were rung half-muffled afterwards. A half-muffled peal to his memory was rung at Deeping S: Nicholas on November 12 th , and another ait Edenham on November 17th. J.W.H.

MR. W. DICKINSON

William (Bill) Dickinsan was born at Warsop Notts, in 1911, and it was there on the old ring of four bells that, he first learnt to ring at the very early age of 10 . From there he went to Stapleford and after a period in the Forces returned to Warsop for a while, before finally moving to Staveley, Derbys, in 1951.
Although not a prolific peal ringer, Bill was a very good striker and a keen supporter of the Derbyshire Association, which he joined shortly after its formation in 1946. A very devout man he was also a member of the C.E.M.S., P.C.C. and a former sidesman, in addition to being a regular and reliable service ringer at Staveley for the last 11 years. Indeed it was whilst addressing a meeting of the Staveley ringers at the rectory on October 30th that he suddenly collapsed and died.
At the service in the Parish Church, which preceded cremation, many of his ringing friends were present. together with members of the C.E.M.S., who acted as bearers. A halfmuffled quarter of Bob Major was rung to his memory on November 14th by members of the Chesterfield District of the Derbyshire Association, who extend their deepest sympathy to his wife and family in their great loss, which will be felt deeply by all who knew him.
M. P. P.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

The meeting at North Muskham on November i7th attracted only an average number of ringers including visitors from Nottingham and the North Notts District. However, in tite afternoon, we were pleased to welcome, for a short stay, some of the band attempting a peal at Southwell Minster that evening.
The Rev. W. H. Snow conducted a service, and joined us for tea in the Newcastle Arms. If those who stayed away had seen the spread our hostess prepared for us, they would certainly have made the effort to come.
The bukiness meeting was very short, Newark was confirmed as the place for the annual meeting in January, and for the March meeting the secretary invited the District o Balderton.

THE SOCIETY OF RAVING RINGERS IN NORTH WALES

Pl'HIS year the courses of the Raving and Rov ing Ringers on their summer tours ran very close, in fact at one time the two parties were dodging with each other!

The Ravers gathered at their first tower on the afternoon of Saturday. July 28th, under dark thunder clouds. The church at Coalbrookdale was practically invisible against its hilly background as we drove up through Ironbridge. Having warmed up on the ten, we called at the local Association meeting at Pontesbury before proceeding to our camp site at Ruabon. On high ground at the east end of the Vale of Llangollen. the site offered easy access to all parts. It was also sufficiently far off the main road to prevent the party becoming a public nuisance because of its eccentric behaviour.
Morning service ringing on the first Sunday was at Llangollen, where we had ample time to view the 13th century bridge, the so-called sixth wonder of Wales.: Another 'wonder was seen in the afternoon-the yew trees at Overton-on-Dee, which impress more from their number than their size. After a ring on the six at Hammer, where the Master left half his belongings hehind, we were at Malpas for evening service. This musical octave is a joy to ring.

HIS 1.000 TH TOWER

It was Monday, time to start in earnest ard begin dodging with the Rovers. We had our first taste of scenery over the Horseshoe Pass to Ruthin. These bells are so seldom rung that the local photographer thought there was a wedding on, and was seen dashing down the High Street with his camera. The two trebles of the eight are disused, and having roped them we soon found a reason why. Set way above the other bells, their ropes appear to be fouled by the bells beneath. Grandsire Triples was an awful struggle. Rhuddlan came next-out of tune and another struggle to ring. After lunch we rang at Rhyl, Ron Russ's 1.000th tower He was duly presented with a dead fish, picked up by those who had heen paddling.
Heavy holiday traffic halved our ringing time on the good six at Abergele. but there was ample time to admire the famous marble church at Bodelwyddan. We hive no wish to resurrect the correspondence in "The Ringing World ' about the bells. but they go and sound perfectly well apart from some curious rumbling noises.

After Mold's pretty little six had been exploited, we finished at Gresford practice. The seventh wonder of Wales helped us to add Bristol to our repertoire.

Tuesday was spent mostly in Montgomeryshire. Llanfyllin has a handy six, and has a local band ringing Bob Minor. Mr. Williams made us welcome at Welshpool, and the grand six at Leighton were enjoyed before lunch. Reg. Darvill joined us here for the day. having motored up from St. Albans. He found his two sons Ken and Stephen already suffering from an overdose of Raving spirit!

First lower of the afternoon was the noisy six at Berriew, shortly to be augmented to eight. The last touch was rung by following the bells as directed on the local band's boards. The Ringing Master was lucky to get a ring here. as at one time he was squashed in a hollow yew tree beneath two of our more hefty members, and we wondered who was going to bury who.

Montgomery itself has a good six and some fine views off the tower, but Forden's hells, just across the valley, behaved as though they wanted some oil. Not so our illustrious coorganiser Chris. Clarke though; he went up the stairs like greased lightning to Bhalk up his 1,000. On our way into Shrewsbury we had a short ring at Worthen before spending an hour on the ten at St. Mary's, where a shaky half course of Cambridge Royal just struggled home. Fred Beddow then escorted us to St. Chad's practice.

A GOOD DEED

Wednesday morning was spent ringing the three sixes in the Upper Severn Valley, Newtown. Llandinam and Llanidloes. In the afternoon we set out to traverse some fearsomelooking roads over the top of the mountains to Machynlleth, and so the scene was set for the Ravers' good deed of the day. The driver of an A40 had parked his car on the verge of a lonely mountain road and had somehow finished up with a wheel in the ditch, the chassis resting on the ground and the car tilted at a crazy angle. His only hope of getting out was to manhandle the vehicle. It was his lucky day though-a minibus loaded with ringers was the answer to his problem. We had the car back on the road within seconds! The roof was off the tower at Machynlleth, so we were rather fortunate to be allowed to ring this little octave. Mr. Dove, and the Exercise in general, will no doubt be pleased to hear that Dolgelley bells are no longer unringable. Local activity in the last 12 mont's has led to extensive repairs of the fittings. and it is now possible to ring all but the second, her wheel having more than half disintegrated.

We spent the evening in Barmouth, and having put our own ropes on several bells. enjoyed a full hour on this majestic ring, which is a little overpowering in the ringing chamber. Three visitors from Notlinghamshire, on holiday, joined us. We returned to Dolgelley for supper in a specially-opened cafe, and then retired 10 a guest house.

INTO ANGLESEY

We departed in high spirits on Thursday, August 2nd, leaving a poor landlady wondering why she had ever consented to have us, and rang first at Portmadoc. These bells are a nice free-wheeling eight, which we greatly enjoyed until someone noticed that our long-haired spare-time driver, Dennis Bowen, was missing. It transpired he had sloped off for a haircut. being unable to stand his wife Christine's nagging! Our route to Beaumaris took us through Snowdonia, where many had their first view of the riountain-the third 'wonder of Wales. Our ring at Beaumaris was unfortunately a short one, but included a course of Llanfair P.G. After the photographers had popped to Llanfair $P$.G. Station, we had lunch in Bangor. Don Marshall met us at St. David's, Glenadda, where our first touch of Spliced Surprise Major was rung, and then accomeanied us to Llandegai. Llandudno bells we found difficult to strike Following tea here, we set out for the long ride back to join Wrexham practice. Rhos-on-Sea was chosen for the annual paddle. a trifie unfortunately perhaps, since two of the troops were wounded by submerged rocks. Wrexham's well-known Rudhall ten were lowered all too soon. A half course of Cambridge Royal was going so well that the Ringing Master let it run over the half way, only to see the ringing fold up within half a lead!
On Friday we did not stray so far. Buckley bells, to quote Dennis Millward, "know their Stedman,' but it seemed too early in the morning for us to make the best use of this little musical box. After ringing at Northrop. the newly-augmented light eight at Flint could not be pushed. Lunch at the Raven Hotel was undoubtedly the finest value of the week

As we crossed the Dee into Cheshire, it began to rain, the first of any consequence all week. and it stayed with us till mid-evening. After a short ring on the six at Shotwick. the infamous ladder entrance of St. Mary-on-ihe-Hill, Chesler, was negotiated, and at Handbridge we sustained our only broken rope of the week. during Double Oxford Triples, a touch of the same method being rung at Christleton on the merry, easy-going eight during the evening. A dash through the rain at Eccleston early in the evening was amply rewarded by a full hour on this majestic octave. considered by some to be the finest ring of bells they had ever encountered. We finished the day at Hoole.

THE BLIND VICAR

Saturday saw us in Shropshire. The main attraction of the morning's ringing was Clive. preceded by the good four at Baschurch. while the afternoon programme included the eight in Hodnet's octagonal tower, and also Market Drayton. After tea, the blind Vicar of Cheswardine welcomed us to his church. Our route had taken us right across the county, and the next tower was the isolated one at Broughton. just in Staffordshire. The feast of bell music we had here rather spoilt us for the dead sounding octave at Norton-in-Hales.
The salient features of the view from Ruabon tower were pointed out next morning by Mr. Bowen when we rang for morning service. After the service some of the party met our host. the Archdeacon of Wrexham. Vicar of Ruabon. Cricket back at camp was followed by sick parade, a number of Ravers having fallen foul of some sort of stomach bug. A remarkable recovery was evideni when time came to ring at Bangor-on-Dee, however! It was a local festival at Holt, called Rushbearing Sunday, and we were invited to provide a band for evening service. Permission was obtained to go for a quarter of Cambridge Minor. Members were so enthusiastic that we had to draw lots to see who should ring in it, the remainder ringing at Farndon. After the respective services we compared notes. It was ironical that the Cambridge at Holt was lost, while the Farndon band decided to also go for a quarter. scoring Plain Bob Minor-still, that's ringing!

Another lour was over. On the Monday we returned home through more rain, the worst Bank Holiday weather any of us could remember, but full of gratitude to everyone who helped to !nake our week so enjoyable.

 anniversary of his first peal, which was rung in the same tower and on the same bell Congratulations on such a notable and beautifully timed event.The quanter ai St. John-the-Divine, Leicester, on Remembrance Sunday was the first on the 10 bells since the war by an all local band.
A peal of Stedman Doubles at Cranford completed the sequence in the method for William H. Coles, Frederick W. Goodfellow and Frank C. Price.
A peal of London Surprise Major at Fenham failed after $1 \frac{1}{2}$ hours. Four of the company from the Bradford area hatd left home at 5.30 thit morning!

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Major rung at Ilkeston on October 29ih (see page 776) was conducted by David W. Friend and not by Gordon A. Halls. The sender proffers his apologies.

Mr. George Rockman, an Epsom ringer, left on November 13 th for Nigeria to be a missionary for two years before entering a theological college to train as a priest. Two days before he lefit he rang in a farewell quarter.

A correspondent writes: "If the conductor of the peal of Yorkshire Maximus at Newport, Mon. on October 13th will consult any other or the "Encyclopædia Britannica" he wiid realise that, by no stretch of jmagination, can it possibly be claimed as 'the first in Wales.'

The Parochial Church Council of St. Petar's Church. Freshfard, has decided to establish a memorial to Dr. C. N. Vaisey, who was a keen ringer there for over 30 years. This is to take the form of a set of handbells, for the ringers' use, as well as a plaque recording this, in the tower. Subscriptions should be sent to the church treasurer, Mr. C. Axford, sent to the chur Fieshford, Bath.

A long length record has been created by the Society for the University of Landon by a peal of 15.000 Doubles in 25 methods, reng 'in hand' in the helfry of St. Vedast's, London. There were 509 changes of method. The peal took 5 hours and 58 minutes to complete. Congratulations to all concerned

Mrs. F. I. Hairs did not take part in the first ladies' peal, but she was in the first peal oí Stedman Caters. Correction to Ladies Guild Jubilee report

Thatcham, Berks, are proud of the peal the Sunday service band rang on November 6th as it was the first local peal. It included three first peals and two firsts of Triples. What is more, Mr. W. Butler informs us that there are several more youngsters coming along.

Philip Daniel, aged $14 \frac{1}{2}$, at Shebbear. Devon, conducted his first quarter at first atiempt at St. Michael's Church. The performance is more noteworthy in view of the fact that there were two other firsts in the band. He is now anxious to conduct his firss peal.

In honour of the 90th birthday of Mr. Herbert W. Lidbetter, of Acle, a peal of Minor in seven methods was rung, conducted by Mr. Nolan Golden. Afterwards the band were entertained by his daughters May and Doris, and all wete of opinion that Mr. Lidbetter looked remarkably well for his age.

In the peal of All Saints' Doubles rung at Whiston (see page 778), the copy stated, Being 42 six-scores, for ob's. This was set as 'fourth observation.' Mr. Amos asks us to apologise for giving every reader the idea that a peal all one calling was rung.' He adds, 'Four ob's, which everyone of intelligence knows, means four observations.' The error has been pointed out to our staff in the hope that it will not be repeated. We ask those who annatate their copies to make or observe this correction and thus salve our conscience.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Afier some years' absence, the Watford District held a meeting at Oxhey on November 4 th , and were encouraged to see some of the young local band present. The big attendance led to cramped conditions in the small ringing chamber, but methods up to Surprise were rung

Ringing was curtailed at $4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. owing to the changed time of a ringers outing. This was unfortunate as the programme had been arranged to fit in with the visit.

At the short business meeting $C$. and $L$. Simpson, of Harrow. were elected non-resident life members. Mr. R. G. Bell proposed the vote of thanks. especially mentioning the helpfulness of the Vicar (the Rev. W. R. Peverley).

LADY 'SCAMPANOLOGISTS'

MUCH has been written, and certainly much more said in conversation, about the desirability or otherwise of lady ringers. Their Guild has recently celebrated its golden jubilee, and judging by the comments and thoughts of some of the male ringers their association with ringing has been 50 years too long.

Fortunately (or unfortunately) I was not connected with ringing 50 years ago, so being unaware of the standards of ringing prevailing then I must confine my comments to what I know by experience.

I am sure that many male ringers will agree that the ladies have produced some really first-class ringers, but I am also sure that the ladies will admit that they have produced some snorters. I am also sure that in their turn the ladies will admit there are first-class ringers amongst the men, and the men in their turn admit to their share of failures. So both sides break even on that issue

I have heard both men and women make good speeches at ringing meetings and dinners, and have also heard both types do pretty badly. So once again honours are even.

It has been suggested that countless new methods have been produced in order to satisfy the fickleness of woman, but not to my knowledge has any woman produced these new methods. So it appears these new methods have been produced by man in order to try to keep ahead of the ladies; but as fast as the new methods are produced the ladies show they are quite capable of ringing them.

As a male ringer I have corrected lady ringers whilst ringing, but I have also been put right by a lady ringer when I have been straying from the 'blue line,' which again proves that there are lady ringers capable of seeing other things than their own 'blue line.'

I have also rung handbells with lady ringers and admired their neat handling. Only once have I come across a lady who although she struck the handbells well she handled them rather untidily. But once again on the male side I have seen men ringing handbells with an action more suited to someone semaphore signalling with a pair of flags.

If it was possible to take a survey of the havoc that ladies have caused to ringing I think we should find that more male ringers have been coerced away from towers by non-ringing ladies than have been driven away by the antics of lady ringers, romantic or otherwise.

If lady ringers are blamed for bad striking, then let the men ringers tell them about it. I have known lady ringers who have been members of teams engaged in contest ringing that have beaten other teams composed entirely of men; so after all if there has been a deterioration of striking since the advent of ladies it may be the fault of the men in admiring the ladies instead of getting on with their ringing.
-There was a story going round ringing circles some considerable time ago about a certain lady who was ringing in a peal when part of her dress decided to part company with her. She very smartly disentangled her feet from the offending lingerie and, kicking it to one side, very, curtly told the men present to 'Get on with your ringing.' I wonder how many men ringers would have dealt with such an emergency as well as she did?

Admittedly the ladies do not generally welcome men to their business meetings, but usually give a broad hint to their menfolk that the bells are available if not the belles. But why should the men worry?

When a man tells a woman that a hat 'just suits you,' he says so in a complimentary manner. But if the same woman turned up in a freak of a hat the same man would maintain a discreet silence; not so a woman. She would still say the hat 'just suits you,' but would probably mean 'The hat is a freak, and I have always thought you are.'

The same with ringing meetings. If a man proposes someone for a further term as secretary he may end his proposition with the words, "We could not get a better secretary,' meaning that here is the ideal person for the job. But who knows that when the same position arises at a ladies' meeting, and the same words, 'We could not get a better secretary,' are used, these words may be meant to imply that they knew of persons far more capable to act as secretary but could not induce one of them to take on the job? No, gentlemen, it is best that you keep out of their meetings; and anyway you wouldn't understand their language.

Ringers are becoming divided into two groups-those with a car and those that have access to a seat in a car. Unfortunately my wife is not a ringer, but she quite rightly has access to a seat in my car when I go to a ringing meeting or peal ringing. How much nicer it could be if she was a ringer, and then the seat she occupies would be occupied by a ringer. She may not be a good ringer, in which case I should have no hesitation in telling her of her faults; and I presume that she would also point out my faults, of which, as a gentleman ringer, I am perhaps blithely unaware.

It has been said that the last thing man will civilise is woman. How can we hope to civilise them if we bar them from our activities?

I may have missed the point, and I may be wrong, but so far as I can see from a ringing point of view, the male and female species break fairly even.
F. AITCH.

CENTRAL COUNCLL TELEVISION & BROADCASTING COMMITTEE

A STATEMENT

It is customary for the committees of the Cenfral Council to make annual reports of their work for presentation to the Council at Whitsuntide. and all relevant details of their work are included in these reports. In view. however, of the prominence given to a recent letter H . The Ringing World ' by C. W. Pipe the following brief statement is made :

The Television and Broadcasting Committee, at the request of, and in close collaboration with, the B.B.C. have for some monith been engaged in pieparing a Library of Church Bell Ringing. of High Standard and on first class bells. The new recordings of Evercreech Bells, made at the request of the B.B.C., are merely a prelude to a considerable programme we have in mind, and which will probably extend ove: several years.

Selection from this Lihrary will in due course be used on the light Programme on Sunday Mornings. In fact. cther recording, which will be used for this purpose are to be made very shortly
No other statement will be made on this subect until our annual repont is submitied to the Council.
Referring to the hast paragraph of Mr . Pipe's ketter, should he of anv others interested care to listen to the B.B.C. Home Service programme on December $2 \boldsymbol{*} t \mathrm{~h}$. at 10.30 p.m. they will. I hope, have the pleasure of hearing the hells of Chewton Mendin and St. Mary Redclifte. Bristol. among others.

Signed. J. H. SANGER (Convener).

ST. STEPHEN'S SOCIETY, WESTMINSTER

Compared with last year, when we had sundwiches on a wet miserable beach at Clymping. this year's outing of the St. Stephen's Sociely on Octoher 27 th thad heautiful weather with a nip in the air as the minibus set off for the first tower. Farningham. Kent. where Grandsite Doubles. call changes and Cambridge Minor broke the silence of this peaceful village.
After ringing Boh Major and Stedman Triples with local ringers at Eynsford we arrived early at Shoreham. A couple of ringers thought they would quench their thirst and, as they downed their pints in the local. they mentioned to the kandlord that they were ringing the hells and had to be in the tower hefore the olhers began. 'Don't worry about that." said the landlord. "they won't start without you. I've got the key in my pocket!' And so he had. being the local captain. and after letting us in to ring some call changes and Grandsire Triples, our only regret was that the timetable did not allow us to cail and see him again.
We were pleased that Mr. and Mrs. Sills hoth met us and rang with us on the heautiful bells at Wrotham. A sandwich lunch at The George and Dragon." Ingham. was folicwed by finding our way through the organ into the ringing chamber at the Parish Church for touches of St. Clement's. silent 120 Plain Bob Doubles and call changes.
Towers visited in the afternoon were Mereworth. Wateringbury, Nettlestead (where. due to the efforts of the local hand. the bells which had for vears been unrmgable are now rung) and finallv Hadlow, with Plain Boh Triples and Cambridge Major. Here Russian hagatelle proved fascinating in the local and it was with reluctance that we eventually made our way back to London. To all incumbents. local ringers and the county of Kent we say Thank you.

HISTORY OF THE BELLS
Until 188? the tower contained at ring of six bells. all having been cast in the Wirite-chapel Foundry. In that year they were augmented to eight hy two additional trehles: the seventh was also recisi. the wort being done at Whitechapel.

Four of the present bells are over 200 years old. The sixth was cast by Richard Prelps in 1703, and the tenor, fifth and third by Lester and Pack in 1762.

The next major work took place in 1925. The eight bells were quarter turned. and independent staples and new clappers were fitted to the tenor. Zith. Sth and treble. Th:* 4 th hell was recast. The bells were hung with new gudgeons and ball hearings. and the oak frame strengthened by fitting tie holts and securing foundation beams to the tower walls. Finally, if 1952 the wheels were re-rimmed.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

A dismal afternoon did not deter some 54 members and friends of the Northern District from attending the quarterly District meeting at Clapham Park. The stanctard of striking on this fine ring of bells was a direct contrast to the weather. The service was conducted by the Vicar.

At the business meeting the Beddington hand were congratulated on heing chosen to take part in the B.B.C. Christmas broudcust. Nominations were made for the District officers to be elected at the A.G.M. at Benriiton on January 26th. Further nominations maly the sent to the District secretary helore December 29th.

The meeting then adjourned to the helfity of Immanuel. Streatham.

Handbell Ringing

1 BRANCH of our art which has been marking time' for many years, but whicn has recently beon attracting more intorest and attention. will receive a definite urge forward with the publication this month by Herbert Jenkins. Ltd.. of the ' Art of Handbell Ringing.' tin author being the well known American exponent, Nancy Poore Tufts.
This excellent and most concise addition to the somewhat meagre range of writings upon the subject will do much towards supplying an increasingly pressing need. One feels it is a "must' both for teams already in being and for those who would like to start a team to take up inis fascinating pastime since, beginning at scratch. it carries its readers through the whole field of its subject in a very satisfying manner. so that even the most accomplished teams will feel they have benefited by making its acquaintance.

The book is well illustrated. with twelve very fine photographic plates and numerous explanatory diagnams, the acknowledgments list many well known American and English personal.ties. while at the end will be found ar extensive bibliography.
After an interesting Foreword by Mr. Frederick Sharpe, president of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, the book commences with a brief history and general deseription of handbells and then proceeds to deal thoroughly with the organisation of teams and the hiandling of the bells.

Follows a very useful chapter on handbell equipment and incidentals, and a section devoted to the management and policies of handbell ringing groups

If, at first sight, this tatter appears to be a little elaborate, and in some ways mildly revolutionary to English readers, it should be kept in mind that the devotees of the art in America had very little to go upon when they started and, although their techniques generally developed alang much the same lines as in this country, one or two slight deviations. due chiefly to differing circumstances and in a mall measure, perhaps, temperaments, were bound to occur
In the next chapter, dealing with the arrangement of music for handbells, it will be noted that rather more teams use musical scores in America than is the case here, where various numerical notations and, to a lesser degree, the tonic-sol-fa are to be found, the numericil varieties of course being a logical development of the system of numbers used in referring to tewer bells and quite good for smaller sets of handbells. For the larger sets, however, the musical score comes more into its own and the subject is handled in a highly competent way after which change ringing on handbells is dealt with. references being made to the vorious books upon this in the bibliography.
Two further aspeots, the latter of which very often receives scant notice in this country, are then presented for consideration, firstly how to order lyandbells and secondly how to care for them. After reading this it may be felt that many neglected seis lying around in our belfries would benefit by a little of the loving attention accorded to them in Amerioa.

It is many years since such a comprehensive offering upon the subjeot made its appearance in Engtand. the last one being Fletcher's Handbell Ringing' published c. 1890, and dealing with the art as it was practised by the famous Lancashire and other teams in the heyday of the great contests at the Belle Vue Gardens in Manchester. It has a fairly large section on the tonic-sol-fet system. but hats been out of print for half a cemury or more. The work here considered will, without doubt, prove a worthy successor. ## Letters  CARRY ON, LADIES

Dear Sir,-May I offer a few observations

 on 'Anti-Belle.It appears to me that A. B. seems to have a grudge against the whole female sex, ringers or otherwise. The Ladies' Guild has just had its Goiden Jubilee dinner, and A. B. 'wonders' (would it be tactful to ask what the wonders?). If, as it seems, the ladies have had to put up with such oppasition as he offers for the last 50 years and are a flourishing and strong Guild despite this, then carry oil, ladies!
A. B. would appear to consider you as incompetent and unsightly in the belfry; and how many gentlemen are there who call themselves compotent, and are not? It may not be in the gentlemen's place to adorn the belfry, but then is it not acknowledged in our society chat the female of the human species should be more attractive than the male?
To take A. B.'s four points in order
(a) So women are unable to strike a bell uccurately for any length of time! Would A. B. like to take hold for a peal and say, I will noi make a single mistake the whole way through'? Humanum est errare! There are very few ringers who could truthfully say this. I do know that practically all the lady ringers of my aoquaintance who have passed the learners' stage are as capable as their male counterparts of putting their bell in the right place.
(b) Do I here detect an element of that 'stick-in-the-mud' attitude, A.B.? It is only natural that any band of ringers who ring regularly on Sundays and practise regularly will want to progress from easier methods to those requiring a greater ability. It is a basic instinct of the human animal to thirst after an increase in knowledge. Does a child in the elementary stages of mathematics stop at addition and subtraction, which it may be able to do perfectly, because it fears mistakes in multiplication and division? No! Then what is practice night for? A band that constantly sticks to one method is far more likely to go downill rather than even stay on the level.
(c) Oh, heavens! What next! There is no difference between good ball and plain bearings. The ladies have rung a peal of Cambridge Royal on plain bearings (the original hearings of 60 years ago too!). This peal may have been faster, but not most certainly may have been faster, but not most certainly Perhaps A. B. likes ptain bearings because ho can then ring the tenor and proudly display his hairy powerful biceps to the frail and trembling weaker sex!
(d) Alas! now the team spirit is gonc-due to romantic awtachments, 100 ! I suggest that such astachments beween ringers, far fram destroying the team spirit. help to strengthen it. A. B. is married; his wife is a ringer; then is a man and wife they should be a team together if they are happily married.

I suppose it is possible that under this heading A. B. really means, 'You have to watch your behaviour when there are women in the belfry.' If this is so then he ought to hide his head in shame. Or maybe he resents the intrusion of his wife (and other wives) into a 'lads' night out '! Surely if this is the case he could come to some arrangement suitable to all?
It really seems to me that A. B. is jealous of his female counterparts who are easily able to surpass him in ringing ability and hence show him up.
Might I (with due apology to Mr. W. T. Might I (with due apology to Mr. W. T. tame College Youth who will elect him into that elite body? There he will find a 'Gentlemen's Guild.' which may not have anything against lady ringers, but is at least able to offer him exclusive male company.
To my mind, the introduction of any guild on the lines proposed by A.B. would bc seriously to the detriment of the whole Exercise. Having no wife and a clear conscience I am fully prepared to accept the consequences of signing in my own name.Yours faithfully,

EVERCREECH, 8.50 a.m.

Dear Sir,-Your Jeading article of Novemher 23rd, 1962, would have been better concluded at the end of the second paragraph. It is a genuine tribute which is fully endorsed by all lovers of bells.
What does Mr. Pipe want? By way of a change, perhaps he is thinking of Surprise Major, Royal, or even Maximus. These methods can be very musical and the striking can be very good. Does it matter whether it is Surprise or Plain methods. as long as the striking is good?
Evercreech gives us as good striking-which is almost perfect-as we are ever likely to hear from the B.B.C. Further, it is unlikely that eny tower can combine clarity by the placing of microphones with the perfect striking.

I, for one, am, and 1 know there are many others, who are very satisfied with the excellent performances finom Evercreech. We do not want Exeter or St. Paul's, nor any other tcwer, unless the same standards of striking and clarity of tone can be produced Past experiences of broadcasts from the 'big' towers have generatly been disappointing. The striking may have been good, but the background hum has spoilt the efforts.
I look forward to hearing Evercreech a 8.53 a.m. on Sundays, and I never get tired of hearing the same old methads. In fact I have recommended. on mumerous occasions, teams of bell ringers to listen to the 8.53 a.m. broadcast to note particularly the leading and the striking. Much has been learned from Evercreech. So let us continue to make progress in this direction, rather than to listen to some other tower which may not produce the same results.-Yours faithfully,

FRED E. DUKES.
Julianstown, Co. Meath, Eire.
Dear Sir.-With reference to the Everoreech bells broadcast, which is the subject of your leading article of the issue of November 23 rd . could not someone persuade the B.B.C. to give the name of the method which is being fung? They used to do it, and now it has been dropped in favour of 'This is Tom Srooks wishing you.... I imagine quite a lot of people can tell from listening what is being rung, but I can't and nor can heaps of ringers. and I think one can learn something if. one knows.-Yours faithfully.

SOMERSET READER.
Dear Sir.-I confess, with Mr. Cecil W. Pipe, that from all over the country there is a desire for a change from Evercrech. I am glad Mr. Pipe mentioned Minor and Major, as I appreciate musical touches from these bells. C.W. P. states, that 'almost perfect bells. and almost perfect striking have for some time begun to get stale.' 1 appeal to Hanry, who has great influence, to suggest to the B.B.C. a recording from Darlington, Co Durham. with five or seven of his pals from Yorkshire.-Yours,
Friezland

REFLEXES OF THE OXFORD MOVEMENT,

Dear Sir -Others among the constant readers of 'The Ringing World' will, I sincerely trust, resent as much as I do a sneering remark in the article headed 'Reading and Southampton Universities in Scotland,' over the initials 'S.P.' (page 787), which runs: 'It was very pleasant to see a cathedral untouched by the reflexes of the Oxford Movement.' A remark such as this is in thoroughly bad taste, quite uncalled for, and could have been well omitted.

Let 'S.P.' and his (or her) fellow-ringers, learned and intellectual as they may consider themselves, realise that the ancient Cathedrals and parish churohes in these islands were builh fo: the Glory of God, for Catholic worship and to be as worthy shrines as man could make them for the Most Holy Sacrament of the Altar. Most certainly they were not built to be merc preaching houses. All the old churohes in Scotland are now, alas, so one understands, in the hands of the Presbyterian schism, therefore with no validly ordainod clergy to minister jn them, and so no valid sacraments, save Baptism. Also, none of the old 'Cathedrals' in Scotland (such as; for instance, St Gijes' in Edinburgh) can any longer be lawfully desaribed as such, since there is no episcopal throne therein.

Your learned student-contributor also casually mentions a visit to York Minster. Here is a Cathedral whioh most certainly is affected by the Oxford Movement, and the Catholic Revival within the Anglican Communion. Deo gratias!-Sincercly yours,
C. JOHN TALBOT GARDINER
40. William Street,

Kettering, Northants.

Dear Sir ,-What were the reflexes of the Oxford Movement and why is a cathedral so pieasant without them? - Yours faithfully.

GREAT ADVENTURE II

Dear Sir,-In "The Ringing World' of November 23 rd I note that Up and Coming Youngster-1 has an ambition to ring a peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Paul's Cathzdral, Melbourne. Such an opportunity, we hope. will be available during the proposed Great Adventure II. which is now being planned to take place about September, 1964, and I feel sure that those of us who hope to go to Australia would be pleased if Roger could auake ane of the band.
In addition, this tour is not restricted to the few who have received the initial invitation, but will include anyone with average ringing ability who would be able to spend four weeks amongst our Australian friends. I will gladly send more detajls on application.Yours faithfully,

LONG LENGTHS

Dear Sir,-Composers and conductors interested in a new record length of Superlative Surprise Mayor are invited to apply for the figures. In 'History ' by Ernest Morris (page 424), Mr. T. B. Worsley's peal of 11,232 changes is dated December, 1925. It is possible to add 96 changes to $j$ it.

May I wish success to the band attempting to ring the lorig peal of Yorkshire Surprise? I join their conductor, Mr. Ainsworth, in thanking Mr. A. J. Pitman for proving the composition.-Yours sincerely,

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Full satisfaction must have been felt by the various organisers of the unique occasion at Withyham Parish Church on November 18 th. In the morning a shortened version of Matins was followed by a brief introduction on bells by the Rector (the Rev. Peter Scort), and an interesting address by Mr. E. A. Barneit, on the origin of bells in the early ages, the growth of change ringing and the work of the various issociations and the Central Council of Change Ringers. The address was made more interesting by the use of a model bell and blackboard, and several demonstrations on handbells. After the service the congregation visited the ground floar belfry and saw the ringers in action.
At Danehill in the evening the annual ringers' service was held, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. I. Paton Hunter), during which Plain Bob and Grandsire Caters were rung on handbells, and. in place of the organ, the ringers* hymn was accompanied on hondbells by Mr. G. Francis' very capable band. Over 80 ringers were at the service, representing 13 towers, all four Divisions of the County Association, the Kent County Association and the East Grinstead Guild.
After the service the local ringers entertained the company to refireshments in the Church Hall, where more tunes and carols on handbells were enjoyed. Mr. Altan Butcher, the enthusiastic local captain is to be congratulated and thanked for the work he puts in for the Association.
Demonstrations at hoth services wers provided by Mr and Mrs. F. I. Hairs, Mr. and V:ded by Mr and Mrs, F. Mr. Hairs, Mr. and Mrs. E.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

St. Albans District

Although some District members seemed to be on holiday still, a highly successful meeting was held at North Mymms on September 15 th.
Ringing ranged from rounds and standard methods to Spliced Surprise Major (four methods), conducted and rung for the first t:me by the Ringing Master, Mr. G. Penney. It was also the first touch of Spliced for several others.
A short business meeting was held after an excellent tea, kindly provided by Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lock, at their home. It was a great change to mingle tea, telly and handbell ringing in the garden!
Long draught! Did that deter us at Wheathemstead on October 20th? (Well, no one except me!)
In spite of the difficulties and warnings of the pessimists, we had an average artendance and no stays were broken. The special method, Place Boh Double, was rung and so were Norwich, Cambridge, standard methods and rcunds.
At the business meeting the young local band were cengratulated on their progness, and the ladies thanked for an excellent tea
The welcome at Harpenden was as good as ever at a meeting on November 17 ch . An invitation from the local band there is always only too readily accepted. This is probably due to a traditionaliy excellent tea! An addition to the usual run of things, labelled 'talk,' proved to be very interesting.
Before the service, which was conducted by the Rev. P. Bradshaw, standard methods. Yo.kshire, Superlative (special method) and rounds for two of the local Harpenden hoys, who are progressing well, were rung. Mrs. J. Doóbs was organist at the service.

Mr. K. Darvill was elected chairman at the business meeting. Two Harpenden probationary members were elected, and three nonresident life members were confirmed as elected. prior to a successful peal of Erin Cinques at St. Albans Cathedral, which was composed by Mr. G. Dodds, and in which several local ringers took part. St. Albans was decided upan for the meeting on December 15th. The Ringing Master gave early warning of his intention to resign this post at the A.G.M:

The 'talk' proved to be a generous helping of Hentfordshire Delight in the form of colour slides of many Hertfordshire towers (provided by Mrs. J. Dodds), accompanied by corresponding tape recordings, with an historical comnientary (provided by Mr. G. Dodds). Mr. and Mrs. Coburn (flarpenden) projected the slides. This was very much appraciated. Has any other county presented such a record?

LADY RINGER CHURCHWARDEN

Dear Sir,-Mrs. D. J. King, the Ladies' Guild Jubilee dinner, mentioned that she had yet to hear of a kady bell ringer serving as a churchwarden. I know of one such warden at St. Stephen's Church, Bristol, who learned her ringing at Almondshury, under the late Stephen H. Wood. She has now retired from ringing. hut still carries on as Rector's warden at this famous city church.-Yours, etc.,

HARRY BENNETT. Knowle, Bristol.

DEVON ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Devon Association was held in the Diocesan Board Room a. Exeter on November 17 th, with representatives from about 50 towers present. The Association's president, Mr. T. Oatway, of Morchard Bishop, was in the chair. After the usual formalities and election of officers, arrangements were made for the 1963 festivals. Invitations had been received from Torrington and Uffculme for the eight-bell competition and, after weighing the merits of each tower and ring of bells, the preference was for the former, and the date-Saturday, April 20th. Discussion then centred upon the question of the six-bell festivals to be held on May 11 th and May 25th, with the finals at Paynembury on June 8th. Kentisbeare and Lydford were chosen for the 'north' and 'south' respectively.

Concern was expressed for the silent towers of the diocese and discussion followed on how best to meet this challenge. A suggestion was put forward that each Deanery might examine the possibility of forming a flying squad, of ringers to visit those towers and ring for a Sunday service from time to time in the hope that local interest night be actively stimulated.
Mr. Bartlett reported on his attendance at the meeting of the Central Council at Cardiff and spoke of the satisfaction derived from being there as representative of the West of England call change ringers. He also asked fo: the usual support for the summer six-bell competition, which he hoped to organise at Churchstow (Kingsbridge) on June 22nd, to felp in the repayment of a loan made to the church by the Historic Churches Preservacion Trust.
After the airing of topics of minor domestic importance, the meeting closed shortly before 5 o'clock. Being the "third Saturday' it was practice night at the Cathedral and, thanks to Fred Wreford's welcome, a set luad the privilege, of ringing the middle eight to Queens'-surely a fitting conclusion to any ringing meeting!

DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION  Chesterfield District

In spite of a rather cold wind there were enough ringers present at the District meeting held at Clay Cross on November illh to raise the bells promptly at $3 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. and to ring quite a variety of Minor methods before an excellent tea was enjoyed in the Church Hall.
At the informal business meeting, the District chairman (Mr. F. Adams), on behalf of the company, wisined the secreiary, Mr. B. Cooper, every success in his new post in Hull. In his reply, Mr. Cooper said that, although the chance was too good to miss, it was very hard to leave Bolsover after so many years.

The company then stood in silence in memory of Mr. W. Dickinson, who, whilst addressing a meeting of the Staveley ringers on October 30 th, suddenly collapsed and died. A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar, the Rev. Wynford Phillips, for the use of the bells and to the ladies for preparing such an excellent ted, was proposed by the Disirict secretary. The local captain, Mr. H. Bunting. replied.
Further ringing on this fine 8 cwt . ring of six was enjoyed in the evening.
Next meeting: Annual District at Old Whittington on December 15th. M. P. P.

THE BELLS OF BRISTOL CATHEDRAL

By RANALD W. M. CLOUSTON
'WHE article in *The Ringing World' of May 13th. 1960 (page 321), left a number of unanswered questions on these bells. A recent visit, with tuning forks, enabled the pitches of the four existing bells to be determined: these and the other data on them may be summarised thus:
Treble: diameter $28 \frac{1}{2}$ ", approx. weight 5 cwt. date $\mathbf{c} .1500$, note 0.36 semitones flat of $F$
Second: $31 \frac{1}{2}^{\prime \prime}, 6 \mathrm{cwt}$., c. $1500,0.05$ semitones flat of $E$ flat;
Third: $35 \frac{1}{2}$ ", $8 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$., c. $1300,0.15$ semitoncs flat of $\mathbf{B}$.
Tenor: $49 \frac{1}{8 \prime}, 20 \mathrm{cwt}, 1670,0.45$ semitones flat of $E$

| (3) | (4) | $57^{\prime \prime}$ |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
| $40 \frac{1}{2}^{\prime \prime}$ | E | $53^{\prime \prime}$ |
| $38 \frac{1^{\prime \prime}}{}$ | D | $46 \frac{1}{2}^{\prime \prime}$ |
| A | C $47 \frac{1^{\prime \prime}}{\prime \prime}$ |  |
| B | $44^{\prime \prime}$ |  |$|$

1 N
that the old tenor was some half a semitone flatier thin the present one and was on octave below the present second bell
Another factor is the cracked bell soid in 1802 , which weighed 11 cwt .17 lh . This would have had a diameter of about $39^{\prime \prime}$ and a note perhaps three semitones flatter than the present third.

PRE-REFORMATION RECONSTRUCTION
The evidence therefore seems to point to a pre-Reformation set of 10 bells with the followjng particulars:
sanctus: say 1 cwt
Treble: present treble, 5 cwt , pit 1, note F-. 36 .
Second: present second, 6 cwt., pit 2, E lat-. 05
Third: 7 cwt., pit A, ?D flat.
Fourth: present third, $8 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$., pit 3, B-. 15
Fifth: 9 cwt., pit $B$ ? $B_{B}$ flat.
Sixth: bell sold 1802. $11 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt., pit $D$.
A flat.
Seventh: 12 cwt ., pit $\mathrm{C}_{1} ? \mathrm{G}$.
Eighth: $15 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt., pit E,
Tenor: present tenor before recasting, 22 wit., pit 4, ?E flat -. 05
Total weight $97 \frac{1}{4}$ cwt.
The existing bells show that the musical scale did not conform to present day standards. the interval between the present second and third being two full tones instead of three semitones. The ring of nine would in some respects be similar to that at Basingstoke, where the interval between the two trebles is a full tone. The total weight of 97 t cwt . Shown above is rather in excess of the $10,006 \mathrm{lb}$. of metal said to be in the tower at the Reformation, but the margin is not great.

One thing can certainly be said: that this ring of nine was an extremely early one and was complete when other churches generally had five bells or less. However in the same county the monastery at Winchcombe, at the Reformation, had eight bells weighing 6,322 db ., and Christ Church, Bristol, signed for eight bells on May 23 rd, 1553 , received from the Commissioners. See Fllacombe's ' The Church Bells of Gloucestershire,' Appendix C. It is not clear whether these latter bells were already in the tower or whether some had been obtained from elsewhere, even perhaps the Cathedral, then the Abbey of St. Augustine.

After the company had enjoyed an excellent tea, the Vicar took the chair at the business meeting, during which the District representatives, Mrs. E. A. Barnett and Miss F. Cannon. and the seoretary, Miss M. R. Andrews. were re-elected, and Mr. J. Faircloth, of West Wickham, was elected Ringing Master for the following year.

The upward arend in membership in the District was maintained with the election of a further nine new members. The District was also pleased to eleot two new life members. Mr. and Mrs. J. Dafters; Mr. Dafters having been captain and secretary of the Lewisham ringers for many years.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH, PADBURY

The restoration work by Mr . $\mathbf{F}$. A. White. of Appleton, on the ring of six bells at St. Mary's Church. Padbury. Bucks, began on November 5th, and it is hoped to complete it by about the end of January.

The bells have been safely lowered to ground level, and the old oak bell frame, etc., removed. This is to be replaced by a steel frame at a slightly lower level. which will entail removing or lowering the floor of the bell chamber
The last big overhaul of this ring of bells was carried out by Mr. F. A. White's greatgrandfather in 1882

The appeal for the cost of the present restoration met with a most generous response: and, with the promise of a grant from the Oxford Diocesan Guild. the estimated amount for repairs is already in hand.

As requested at Cardiff, the names and addresses of conveners of the Central Council Committees have been added to the Ringers' Diary. There has also peen an expansion of Australian names. To accommodate the additional information the first 16 pages have been reset to a wider measure. The leathor used this year is a great improvement on last year's, when, owing to difficulties in supples, it was not all of uniform quality. The Diary is one any xinger couid be proud of.
Send your Christmas greetings through 'The Ringing World.' These will appear in the issues of December 14 th and 22nd. Price 4s. for 36 words
A welcome return to the peal columns was made by M. M. Kirk, of the Friday night band, when he conducted the peal at the Loughborough Bell Foundry on November 2nd
The paal at Abergavenny on November 24th was the first of Stedman Caters in Monmouthshire by a band entirely resident in the Diocese of Llandaft and Monmouth since 1933.
Within a stone's throw of St. Mary-le-Tower. Ipswich, is the Church of St . Lawrence, with a fine old pre-Reformation ring. The quarter reported this week is the longest length on the bells since a peal in 1951. There are hopes of breaking the silence more often in the future.
For the Remembrance Day service the bells of St. James'. Taunton, were sung half-muffled by a young band between the ages of 11 and 16. Seven of the company had just four months training. The standard of ringing (call changes and rounds) was a source of pride to Mr. R. Beale.
The dinner of the Southern District of the Coventry Diocesan Guild at Leamington Spa on November 24th was a most happy function. a company of 123 attending. Mrı W. Male provided the novelty highlight when he played from a keyboard of a model tower filled with tuned door bells a touch of Grandsire Triples and a plain course of Stedman Caters. Report next week.

GOSSIP
An original incident occurred on the Leeds Parish Church autumn outing into North Yorkshire on October 6th, when the ringers found themselves in a single hell tower in Ormesby, due to the organiser failing to ref er to his 'Dove.' The organiser? R.H.D. himself!

Readers are warned that postal dislocations are now likely. For the issue of December 28 th 'The Ringing World' goes to press on Siturday, December 22nd.

A married couples' peal of Spliced Surprise in five Major methods was rung at Edenham. Lincs. on November 24th. Two couples came from Yorkshire and the other two from Hertfordshire.

Our correspondent of the Reading and Southampton Universities' tour of Scotland (page 787) asks us to state that their hosts at Kirby Wiske were Mr. and Mrs. A. Bashforth and not as printed.
In sending his greetings to his many friends, Mr. Jack Worrall informs us that he will be remaining in Germany for another three years. "I still read my " Ringing World " most eagerly each week,' he adds.

Eighty-four-year-old Mr. Valentine Gosling. the old Daybrook ringer now in Amerjca, has had his composition rung at Loughborough within a few hours of last week's jssue being published. But it was rung 'in hand.' We have now heard that it was rung on the Loughborough Foundry Campanile the same day.
Mr. J. Ridyard informs us that, in regard to the peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Southport (page 775), it was not the first peal of Major by Elizabeth Brown who rang the second. Mary Pryor, also ringing in the peal. spells her name with a ' $y$ ' and not ' 1 . Apropos No. 1 in our new series, "Up and coming youngsters,' E. G. Caple writes to say that the spelling of " virger is not peculiar to St. Paul's, but has had long and ancient use at Wells Cathedral also. It may also be of interest to add that choristers at Wells are 'quiristers.'

FOUNDATIONS

THE survival of Christmas through all the changing conditions of the world and in the face of all that Science (with a capital S) puts in the field is something to be accounted for. As a product only of the imagination of men it must surely long. ago have gone the way of so many other purely human conceptions. That not being so, it throws the emphasis upon the difference between a manmade philosophy and a Revelation. People who would discount anything in the nature of a Revelation must seem rather hypocritical in keeping Christmas, and others who are unable to say just why they keep Christmas are open to an accusation of irrationality. For such, it is welcomed as a widely accepted and pleasant custom, a time for indulging in merriment and feasting coupled with the exchange of good wishes; but, for all that, unlikely to have any lasting significance.

Whereas the first quality of Christmas celebrations should be WONDER. Because it holds a mystery which carries thought beyond the mere earthly, which grows no less as the years pass on. That mystery lies in the action of God by the birth on earth of a sinless man, none other than His only-begotten Son. divested of 'the glory which He had with the Father before the world was,' humbling Himself to grow 'in fashion as a man' and to be subject to all the temptations and sufferings of humanity. The question that was once asked will be asked again and again: 'How can these things be?'. And what men find beyond their power to answer they may be disposed to deny. But that does not help. For when there is nothing to wonder at self-idolatry and materialistic attitudes become easy, and no one is any better. Take the wonder out of the basic Christian fact and you have to be content with merely a pretty story which leaves human life just as it was-unredeemed, unhopeful and unmeaning.

Plato said somewhere: 'The mood of philosophy is wonder: there is no other source of philosophy than this.' And if you look for a true and productive philosophy of life, Christmas calls you to base it upon the historical fact that 'in the fullness of time' God became man, not for anything man had deserved but simply out of His Love for mankind. Hence the wonder.

At the same time Christmas carries us back to the beauty of Simplicity. However elaborate the celebrations of Christmas may be, or may become, they are founded upon what is supremely simple. That in itself is something to wonder at. It requires no scientific knowledge or profound erudition to grasp the fact of the introduction of a saving power into a world floundering in pride and selfishness. Christmas calls for simple faith in that power to turn the lustful eyes and hearts of men away from themselves to a little Child Who can lead them to the true God and reveal the real direction of their destiny. The story of the shepherds on that Bethlehem night could have been told, no doubt, in much more fulsome language. Instead, it is a marvel of simplicity which it would be foolish to embellish and criminal to destroy.

It is usually easier to get a message across in simple words than in fantastic and elaborate diction. It is the simple melody that catches the ear rather than one wrapped around with cacophonies of notes. We can never, of course, wish to disparage or be without the music of the great masters. Nevertheless, tunes like 'Hark the herald' and 'Adestes Fidelis' - with their priceless words-appeai somehow to everybody, whether musically inclined or not. They have deeper associations than the finest opera. They bring the truth of Christmas to the mind and heart. They are sung and echoed far and wide.

We all need to start from the simple. That is the foundation of all development; yes, even of the Perfect Man. So it is from a Babe at Bethlehem that the true principles of growth are to be learnt.

If the bells ring out the Christmas Truth in some intricate method they do so no less in the simplest form, even in rounds. With that in mind the cleverest ringers will acknowledge gladly the efforts of those who cannot aspire to the heights, say, of Spliced Surprise, but who man the bells with as much sincerity and joy in their own humbler ways.

That all ringers, whatever their stage of progress, will be giving of their best in the belfries at the Christmas Festival goes without saying. Our heartfelt good wishes go out to them all at home and overseas. And those who from infirmity or for other reasons cannot take their place at the ropes will, we hope, yet be within sound of the bells and at least be able to share in the joy of their call to believe in and worship the Divine Child. For worship, as Carlyle said, is 'transcendent wonder.'

So. too, may the ears and hearts of the people who have no need to bother about the intricacy of the changes, who are aware only that the bells are ringing, be tuned to the reason for their pealing. Sad indeed if the bells in any village or town tower are silent on Christmas Day because they are unringable owing to neglect. Sadder still if the bells and ropes are sound but there are no ringers to man them. And who knows how many in such places will feel the absence of their message? Who knows, also, how many hearts and consciences may be stirred by the bells we are ringing, which in this twentieth century echo the glorious song of the first Christmas Day!

COVENTRY DIOCESAN GUILD DINNER

Southern District At Leamington Spa II EMbers of the Coventry Diocesan Guild. with their wives and friends. had a most enjoyable evening on November 24 th. when 123 sat down to dinner at the Royal Leamington Spid Pump Room Restaurant. Grace was sald by the Rev. R. S. Windmall. Rector of Honiley.

The toastmaster was Mr. G. L. P. Aldhouse (Ceorge to most ringers), and after The Queen, proposed by Mr. H. Windsor, Guild Ringing Master. he called upon the Archdeacon of Warwick to propose the toast of The Coventry Diocesan Guild. This the Ven. J. H. Proctor did in an able and witty manner. He observed that the only association of bell ringers of which he had been a member had for their motto: "Press and Run." (This rather dates. Mr. Proctor. for in my day it was "Pull and Run.') But he said how inspired and grateful he was when, at his induction to his present parish of Sherborne. members of the Guild turned out to 'Ring him in.'

He also observed that the area covered by the Southern District of the Guild, which, by the way, was the District responsible for arranging the dimner. was that area comprising the Archdeaconry of Warwick. It would be a source of great pride to him if the t:tle of the District could be changed from Southern to that of the Archdeaconry of Warwick.

Replying. Mr. P. Oram. the District secreHary. said he welcomed the suggestion and thanked the Archdeacon for his stimulating speech. He went on to say how Sunday service ringing was still the main concern and steadily being maintained at a very full standard. There were still struggling towers which would welcome all the help more experienced ringers could give them. In honour of that occasion a peal of Plain Bob Minor was rung ot Kenilwonth that afternoon and a quarter peal of Coventry Surprise Delight at Wetlesbourne.

In an all too brief specoh. Mr. V. B. Hunt (Stratford-an-Avon) proposed "The Ladies and Visitors. He reazlled that shortly after he Was appointed Ringing Measter the Vicar asked how things in the belfry were progressing. He said that all the ringers were pulling together, to which the Vicar replied that frequently they sounded like it. The response came from the guest of honour. Councillor F I. Eaton. the Deputy Mayor. who is a church bell ringer.

Possibly the most popular toast of the evening was thxat proposed hy Mr. H. (Harry) Windsor, in a yribute to Mr. Oram. the Distnict secretary, who was largely reynonsible for the evening's arrangements. Mr. Oram had constantly sacrificed his own progresis in method ringing in order to lend a hand with the struggling towers. where the hand often consisted almost entirely of learners. It was thanks to people like Mr. Onam that Sunday service ringing in the diocese was now at such a high standard. In this work he had been greatly assisted by his wife. who. with her patience and tolerance, had frequently been left a "helle widow:"
The entertainment which followed was provided ty members of the Gurld and included handbell ringing. Other items were a violin solo. a tight variety turn and thumorous duet. But the highlight was a touch of Grandsire Triples and a nhain course of Stedman Caters by Mr. W. (Bill) Make. This Stedman Caters by Mr. W. (Bill) Male. This tower fitted with tuned door bells. A feat of concentration which needed to be witnessed to he fully apprectated.

UP AND COMING YOUNGSTERS - No.

MISS B. GILLIAN SCHOFIELD, Yorkshire Association.

Bradford Cathedral can be justly proud of it's bell ritugers, who fully man the beill's regularly each Sunday for both morning and evening services.

Among its members is that brilliant young ringer of the fair sex: Miss B. Gillian Schofield. Gillian was born in Bradford on April 15th. 1945. and is one of a first class ringing family. She started her education at Bradford Moor. Primary School. where she won a schobarship which took her to Hanson Girls" Grammar School, Bradford. Whilst there she has attained seven subjects at - Ordinary ' level, General Certificato of Education. In June next year she will take chemistry and zoology at advanced level and finatly go to college
At the early age of ten. Gillian stanted having ringing lessons at Bradford Cathedral under the watchful eye of her father. Mr. H B. Schofield, and very soon became: member of the regular Sunday service band. Two years bater at the age of 12 , she rang her first peill. This took place at St. Wiffred's. Calverley, on November 14th. 195\%. when she rang the second to a peal of Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob Minor, which was conducted by Maurice Thurmott. Not content to just ring peals. Gillian entered into the field of conducting. her first peal as conductor being a peal of Minor in the same methods as her first. and was irung at Bradford Cathedral on Manoh 10th, 1959.

This remarkable young lady now has a total of 103 peals 10 her credit. including Cambridge Surprise Maximus and London Surprise Royal, and two all ladies" peals, which she conducled from the tenor, being one of Cambridge Surprise Minor at Bradford on October 27th. 1961. and one of Plain Bob Major at Batley on October 23rd. 1962.

Whilst conduoting a peal of Yorkshire Major at Batley the organist entered the belfry, and pushed his way through the ringers to switch on the mains switch, and at the same time calling out, ' It is all right, you carry on. don't mind me. A tricky situation which was handled most efficiently by th: young conductor. who continued to conduct the peal to a happy conclusion.
Gillian attributes her success in ringing to the enormous help she has received from her mother and father. her brother, Barry, and the many people who have kindly invited hel to bake pant in peals, and lastly but by no means least her closcst ringing friend. Rita Jowett, with whom she has rung well over 50 peals.
Surely this is an excellent record and fine example to the younger members of the Exercise.

NORVING.

RINGERS' FESTIVAL AT HIGHCLERE

Sunday, November 55 th, was earmarked as choir and bell ringers festival at St. Michael's Church, Highclere. Hants. and the local company arranged a most effective programme. The normal ringing for Matins was folloued by an open invitation to the congregation to witness the ringing after the service. Same 40 people squeezed into a very spick and span belfry with new lino on the fioor. which had been provided by the ringers. Rounds on eigit bells, change ringing on the back six and tune ringing by ihree ladies were included in the demonstration, which created much interest.
At the special request of the Rector. a peal was rung during the afternoon the band including regular visitors to practice nights. Visitors participated in the evening ringing and the service was tattended by all the ringers p:esent. A feature was the ringing of handbells round the font for two verses of the hymn 'We love the place. O God. The congregation were rung out of church to Grandsire Triples.
The choir and ringers were invited to the Rectory for refreshment and a very happy festival. which it is hoped will hecome an annual event. was concluded by a quartor peal of Bob Minor

EMERGENCY LIGHTING

By D. GOULD

Having read Fired Dukes' article 'Breakdown.' in "The Irish Bell News." the writer gave some thought to the problem of devising simple automatic lighting, system. It was decided to use a relay in series with the mans lump. The relay contacts are held open when current is flowing, but when the mams lamp goes out, the relay contacts close and the emergency circuit is switched on.
The emergency circuit cansists of a low voltage long-life battery, two bulbs and a switch. The switches of the mains light und of the emergency light are coupled together. so hat the emergency light cannot be left on accidentally.

This system has the following advamages:
(i) It gives protection against failure both of the mains lamp and of the mains supply itself. (The unit described on page 791 of The Ringing World gives protection mily against mains supply failure.)
(ii) It may be installed by anyone having elementary knowledge of eleotricity, provided basic sáfely precautions are followed.
(iii) Running costs ave negligible. after the itial outlay of about $£ 5$.
Having installed one such system at his home tower (Hughenden), the writer would ne pleased to give advice. including a simnie wiring diagnam. to anyone interested , his address is: "Wooderoft.' Hughenden valley. High Wycombe. Bucks.

THE BELFRY

Editor Percy M. Town has produced a very attractive issue of 'The Belfry,' the quatierly Associaion. Mr. Alec Fry, he District Ringing Master, writes a most controversial article dealing with which association a peal is rung.

Peals, he submits. come under three categories or any combination of the three: (1) all local or Sunday service bands; (2) visitors from other pants of the country; (3) bands drawn from several towers in the distric

Of peal ringing groups the rarzst peal by Sunday service ringers on their own bells. The significant thing is that the peal was rung by the company of XYZ church and not by members of any particular territorial association. Such peals should be rung under the name of the company of the church where the band are Sunday service ringers.
As to visitors peals. the present convention is that these peals should be rung in the name of the host association. This seems really a bit fraudulent. If a touring party ring 15 Surprise Major peals, this does not irdicate either the state of ringing in the county or the identity of the band. Mr. Fry contends that the name of the Guild should me omitted and this would provide more Guild in question.
In regard to peals by mixed bands. Mr. Fry states these peals form the "meat' of ati association's peal report and it could quite reasonably be argued that to ring them in the association's name was the best thing to do.

NON-ASSOCIATION PEALS

He suggests, as a general rule, that all peals should be treated as 'Non-Association.' Such in idea implies official recording of all peits rung (as is at present done in .The Ringing World '). It is only necessary to make a bound volume of . The Ringing World, the official peal record. and place it in the Central Council library each year. (The serial numbering of peals as they are published would possibly be helpful for reference.) This would save the various associations a lot of expensive duplication of effort as regards publishing and recording.
The Peals Analysis Committee of the Central Council would continue to function as at present, but it seems there is scope for a, official record of the kind at present, kept by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead. This consists of a card index of all the towers where peals have been rung and delails of all known peals have been rung peals rung in them.

There seems to be no objection to peals rung by bodies such as the Ancient Society of College Youths or the University Societies. Most all-local peals would probably be commemorated by a peal bourd in the tower, which is the most honourable reward of all.

JOINT MEETING AT WALTHAM ABBEY

Waltham Abbey was once more the venue for a joint meeting between the Essex Association (S.W. District) and the Middlesex Assooiation (N. and E. District) on November 10 th.
The 12 bells at the Abbey have recently been rehung and the tenth recast, and although some of our shorter brethren had a little difficulty reaching their ropes, the general had done a good job. The general standard $o^{-}$the ringing. which was higher than that normaily found at meetings, added praotical stipport to this view.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. H. R. Darby), and afterwards some 80 ringers sat down to a sumptuous teta, provided by the ladies of the local band.
Further ringing took pkace after tea until $8.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. under the capable control of the Mraster of the South-West District Mr. C. E.
Wilmington). who. with ringing ranging from Hilmington). Who with ringing ranging from give everyone a fair share of the ringing.
This year's joint meeting certainly enhanced the reputation that these annuil gettogethers between the two Associations have for being five-star attractionts. We look forward with confidence to the 1963 meeting, when it is the turn of the Middlesex Association to act as host.

A NEW EIGHT FOR NOTTINGHAMSHIRE

ST. GLLES', BALDERTON

St. Giles' Church, Balderton. had al near capacity congregation on Sunday. December ?nd. to witness the dedication of the two new treble bells to complete the octave
A ring of five, cast by John Taylor in 1842, with al tenor of 8 cwit. 24 do . in $G$ sharp. was iugmented when a treble bell was added in 1900 . but this was hung above the others and, becoming unsafe, was taken down in 1930 . The original bells were extremely roisy in the ring'ng chamber, which was immediately below the bell chamber and only separated by a wooden floor with no attempt at sound proofing.
In 1951 the six bells were removed to the Loughbarough Foundry and retuned. They were lowered in the towe, furned and rehung in at new 'H frame with hitwl hearinys and new fittings and with provision for two extra bells. A new ringing chamber was also provided. The improvement in 'go," tone and audibility was profound and St. Giles boasted one of the finest sixes in the diocese.

Recently, Mr. Thomas Johnson, a life-long worshipper and ohorister and onetime churchwarden at St. Giles', lost his wife. Mrs Florence Amy Johnson, and offered to provide a treble bell in her memory. The Parochial Church Council gladly accepted the offer and themselves defrayed the cost of the second bell. The bells were cast at Loughborough eanly in August. before a jepresentative gathering of parishioners.
The new bells were dedicated by Bishop Mark Way, and the service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. G. W. J. Springett, Lessons were retad by the donor. Mr. Thomas Johnson, and by the captain of the ringers, Mr. Colin W. Reed.

During the dedication the Bishop remembered Filorence Amy Johnson and immediately afterwards the bells were rung in rounds by Mrs. B. N. Reed. IP. N. White. Janet Maltby Mrs. Pritchett. Gillian Pritchett, Colin W, Reed, Trevor Wehster and B. E. White.

In his address the Bishop took as his theme the Ringers' Prayer, and also drew an analogy with the illuminated cross on the church spire The cross was a visual witness; the bells an audible witness. However men closed their hearts to God, the Church went on. said the Bishop. Short of having the 'telly" on maximum volume. they could not escape hearing the village bells calling people to worship After the service a touch of Grandsire Triples was rung by a mixed band, consistWhite. J. W. Raithby Mrs, B. N. Reed, P. N Reed, W. L. Exton and C. Pritchett
The augmented ring is now a delightful octave, completely audible both inside and ou and a joy to ring and hear. The bell founders are to be congratulated upon a perfect blending of new and old.
St. Giles" is particularly 'fortunate in having a large band of ringers with a nucleus of experienced members to match the keenness and enthusiasm of the less experienced. There is no doubt that in the years ahead the bells will continue to bear witness to the glory of God and remind people that the Church continues lto serve on this spot which has been hallowed for nine hundred years

TEN YEARS AT EARDISLAND
On December 13th. 1952, a new ring of eight was dedicated at St. Mary's, Eardisland, Herefordshire, and during the past 10 years 31 peals have been rung in an interesting variety of methods. These are: Plain Boh Major 4. Painswick College 1. Double Norwich 2, Kent Treble Bob 2, Oxford T.B. 1. Eardisland Delight 1, Cambridge Surprise 3, Yorkshire 1, Rutland 1, Lincolnshare 3, Southwell 1, Painswick 1, Bristal 1. Grandsire Triples . Plain Bob 1. Stedman 2, Doubles 3.
A local ringer. Mr. L. Evans, has taken part in all but three of the peals and in doing so has 'completed the circle' three times.
A 10th anniversary service is to be held on Sunday. December 16 th, at 6.30 p.m., when the bells will be available to visitors.

LINCOLNSIIRE MARSILLANID CHURCIIES

On an fine autumn Saturday afternoon recently David Maultby and I set out from Alford to explore the bells of some of the Lincolnshire Marshland churches. The Marshland lies to the east of the Linoolnshire. Wolds and is a wide and spacious district of farm kind. intersected by wide. reedy ditches, while along the coast are the mile-wide salt flats. over which the sea. at low water, recedes untill it is seen only as a far distant iine of blue water, edged with white foam. To the north lies the broad estuary of the Humber. with Spurn Lighthouse marking the passing of shipping to and from the Humber ports.
In this area are many fine churches. but it remarkable that between Saltfleetby and Grimsby, nearly 20 miles, not one church has more than three bells, so it was on three that we were going to rug.

Our first call was Marshchapel, a grand church. with a tall tower. having lat one corner a turret staircase topped by a small spire. The three bells are sung from the ground floor. with quite a long draught of rope. We were met here by Mr. Patrick, and commenced our ringing with a good pull up in peal, followed by rounds. call changes and plain hunting. These bells go extremedy well and are of excellent tone. the tenor being at deast

15 cwt

We were now joined $b$ Mr. H. Riggall. of North Somercotes. and. after lowering in peal. moved to our second tower. Grainthorpe, a large and airy church, with wide aisles and a 15 th century tower, containing three bells.
Rung from the ground floor, these bells are Rung from the ground floor, these bells are most impressive: deep. solemn. almost mournful in sound. The treble and 2 nd are by an early London founder and the tenor (weighing nlmost a ton) by Thomas Hedderly 1761. We rang rounds. call changes and plain hunting fere. finding the tenor plenty heavy enough for turning in.

Our last cadl was North Somercotes. again three bells; treble by an anciert unknown founder; 2nd, Tobie Norris, 1616 ; and tenor, 1603, weighing about 7 cwt . Rung from the ground floor, the ropes fall very close together and this, together with the rather tricky 'go' of the bells. prevented us from putting up a very good show, so we were content to ring sounds.

Mr. Riggall has a large and enthusiastic company of ringers here, mosily young people ; so many in fact that they have to have a rota for Sunday service ringing. They have done a great deal of work on the old bells in order to keep them ringing, and are now hard at work. with various social activities, to raise money for a complete restoration und augmentation to six. A set of new Handbells has been purchased, and they have taught themselves to ning Grandsire Doubles, with the help of Mr. T. Avery, of Louth, travelling four miles to Saitfleetby St. Clement's ( 5 bells).
Leaving North Somercotes. our way homeward took us past South Somercotes Ohurch which is known as the 'Queen of the Marsh and is the only Marshland churah, with the exception of Louth. to have a spire, and so is a landmark for miles over the flat country. The three bells there, not suitable for ringing fully up. are very interesting, being the earmest dated bells in Lincs. Cast in 1423 by an unknown founder they have inscriptions in beautiful Gothic apitals and are said to be of good tone. The tenor is $43^{\prime \prime}$ diameter, weight about 15 cwt .
Among other ringable three's is Theddlethorpe St. Helen. tenor $12 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt., hung in an iron frame for five. installed in 1927 by Gillett and Johnston on ball beanings. Rung from the ground floor they "go" very well.
Our thank, are due to Mr. Rigeall for arranging the outing and iravelling with us the local ringers and the incumbents.
J. I. SMIFH.

SPORTING OFFER PEAL RUNG

Dear Sir,-It gives me great pheasure to report that the composition of 5,040 Plain Bob Major, published in the 'R.W.' of Nov. 30th under the heading "A Sporting Offer,' was well and truly rung upon handbells within a few hours after receiving the copy! I say 'truly' because, after a glance at the figures, we realised that the last call at Middle in each pant (preceding the 6 Homes) should be a single and not a bob as published.
The peal commenced at 2.20 p.m. On November 29 th and was broight round at 4.28 p.m. Were we the first to accomplish this?
Do we now consider ourselves among the Gentlemen.' 'Players' or 'Professional ' ringers? Perhaps it depends what eventually happens to the $£ 5$ so kindly offered by the compaver. Mr. Valentine Gosling.-Yours sincerely, JOHN A. ACRES.

'HAPPY TO OBLIGE

Dear Sir,-Will you kindly publish the enciosed peal rung to the composition given in the 'R.W.' of November 30th, under the heading 'A Sporting Offer.' The composition as printed is incorrect and should read $S, M$ and 6 H , instead of $\mathbb{B}, \mathrm{M}$ and 6 H .

The conductor and band were happy to oblige Mr. Valentine Gosling and assure him that of they are the recipients of the $£ 5$ or past of it. it will be given to worthy bell ninging objectives in the Leicester Diocese.Yours fraternally,

EVERCREECH RECORDING

Dear Sir,-Much as I enjoy the few minutes of Evercreech bells, which the B.B.C. gives us oi Sundays at $8.50 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. (or $8.52 \frac{1}{2}$ if they forget to put the record on), I agree with Mr. C. W. Pipe, that a change of the sort he mentions would be good, but with onc exception. Why, please, ever consider Caters from the two great Cinques towers of London and Exeter? Incidentally, do they ring Grandshre at St. Paul's? I am under the impressioil that this is a Stedman tower. By all means let us have Caters, but from some of the splendid tens which abound. Likewise, Major, Triples, Minor and even Doubles from towers suited to this compass.

We, at Winchester, have records of parts of some recent peals of both Stedman and Grandsire Cinques. which are well wonth playing over. We also have a record of the winning Triples from the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild striking competition of 1961. If similar titbits from other Guilds were collected, the B.B.C. would have a wealth of bell music to keep their Sunday mornings busy for a long time to come
Incidentally, the announcer used, at one time, to tell us the method being rung. This was very helpful to us rabbits who try to listen with a view to improving our striking. -Yours faithfully,

Winchester.

COMPLETING THE ALPHABET IN CORNWALL

Dear Sir.-I was interested to read that some members of St. Christopher's Suciety completed the alphabet for towers on a recent lour of Cornwall. As a contribution to the answer to their query. I should like 10 mention that. together with Patuline and Alan Smith and Patrick Bird. completed the alphabat. also on a Cornish tour. in 1958.-Yours frithfully,

F. M. MITCHELL MEMORIAL

Dear Sir,-I am instructed by my committec to seek your kindness in allowing me to drirect the attention of your readers, both those in Kent and others in more distant places, to our intention of raising a fund in memory of our former honarary general secretary and treasurer, the late Frederick M. Mitchell.

Fred Mitchell joined the Association as a resident member for Milton-next-Gravesend in 1908. From those early days he was the inspiration of the local band and soon became their conductor and leader. In 1915, he became the District representative for the Rochester District on the Aswocration committee and in 1919 he became Rochester District secretary.
On April 1st, 1929, after 38 years of outstanding service to the Association as honorary general secretary, Canon F. J. O. Helmore retired and to Frederick M. Mitchell fell the task of following in office this unique man. who, for longer than most of the members could remember, had so wisely guided the aftairs of this great Association.
No better choice could have been made. For the next 17 years, until April 22nd, 1946, Fred Mitchell gave unsparing and devoted service in every cause that affected the ringers in Kent. The earlier years were bedevilled with silly and frivolous rivalries and disputes, and through it all Fired Mitchell retained the confidence and affection of members of all ages and dispositions, the quarrelsome and the peaceful. He guided us through the difficult war years, and was able to hand over to his successor an Association that was even stronger than when he took office. The Association annual reports were printed more or less at coot by the firm with which Mr. Mitchell was connected.
When Fred retired as secretary, his duties were divided. He, himself, carried on as honorary treasurer, a new general secretary was appointed and a new office of peal secretuiry was created. The holders of these offices came to realise the extent of the work Fred had hiltherto borne alone, with unfailing zeal and efficiency. He was a tower of strength to his successors and when, on April 2nd. 1956, the gave up noffice as treasurer, he was able to repart that the funds were in a healthier state than at any time during his periad of office.
He also served the Association for some 20 years as a Central Council representative and, in 1932, he had the honour to be the Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths.
At the time of his death in 1960. Fred had been a member of the Association some 52 years. He was actively connected with Milton-next-Gravesend during the whole of that time both in the days of the original six bells. when the tower boasted an outstanding Minor band. and afterwaids when the two trebles had been added. There was an ever open doar to members of the Association throughout that time and it would be fitting that our memorial to Fired should, if possible. be connected with Milton-next-Gravesend.
Donations, small or large. will be gratefully received by the treasuner of the Association, Mr. B. W. May. 'Keithston,' Keycol Hill. Bobbing, near Sittingbournc. Kent. the undersigned. or any District secretary,-Yours truly.
P. A. CORBY

Honorary General Secretary.

EMERGENCY LIGHTING

Dear Sir,-I am interested in Mr. K Fleming's letter on the subject of emergency lighting in belfries.

Before N.I.F.E. Batteries, Litd., receive orders for up to 5,000 of their R.E. 6 lighting units(!). I think it is anly sight to point out that Mr. Fleming omitted to mention certain other factors, viz.
(a) The R.E. 6 derives its light energy from an alkaline battery. which will hoold its charge without deterioration of the battery for many years
(b) The mention of charge means that an independent rectifier chyrging unit is required.
(c) Alkaline batteries require special treatment. as compared with dry and acid (car) battenies. Accordingly thove belfry authorities uho may contemplate procuring these light units should acquaint themselves with the maintenance problems and make sure that the batteries can be pnoperly serviced.
(d) In Ireland, these units cost between $£ 25$ and $£ 30$. A rectifier can be purchased for £5. It is also necessary to install an outlet socket in the belfry to accommodate the R.E. 6 unit.
(c) The lighting units can be removed from the socket and used as a portable hand lamp. which from the point of view of safety is superior to the portable lead lamp. which has to be plugged into the tower supply and used at the mains voltage, unless a low voltage transformer is installed to reduce the lamp voltage to a safe figure. Those jnierested in these units should study the informative leaflets on the R.E. 6 units, which can be obtained from the N.I.F.E. Batteries, Ltd.. or any of their repnesentadives. This type of emergency lighting is to commended.-Yours faithfully,
Julianstown. Eire. FRED E. DUKES.

OBSCURE MINOR METHODS

Dear $\operatorname{Sir},-\mathrm{Mr}$. Chant in his letter admits that it lcalling a 4ths place bob in Minor methods] has been made so [" common practice "] only by the C.C. rulings.' This surely does not invalidate the point that nowidays we ring 4ths place bobs in Minor methods. If Mr. Chant and his fellowmembers of the Bamsley and Distriot Association wish to continue ringing such methods. by all means let them do so-but it is sheer effontery to want them published in 'The Ringing 'World,' which after all is the official journal of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, and one would think would occept the rulings of the self-same Council. If a 'method' (such as Duke of York) repeals with 2 nd and 6 ths place lead-ends. surely there are enough orthodox methods to make their use superfiluous! Again, why should there be ons rule for the Barnsley and District Association and another for the rest of the ringing fraternity? Why shouldn't these methods 'become common property' if one accepts their doubtful legality?
Perhaps Mr. Chant has been 'scraping odd bits from there and there for a long time now -I unfortunately have not been ringing (or indeed been alive) long enough to have absorbed his amount of antiquarianism-when he can bring in totally irrelevant information about Primrose (or Ringers') Surprise, which is not the method under discussion.
May I make a plea to Mr. Chant? Enter finging as it is today and stop living in the obscure past in some corner of Yorkshime! Most ringers today iccept C.C. rulings and act on them-wlly shouldn't Mr. Chant and nis friends do the same?-Yours sincerely,
P. A. BRAND.

A RINGER ON HOLIDAY

A business trip to Bude in August and a chance meeting with Charles Singwin settled the venue for our holiday and a rool over our heads whilst there.

It was duning the coach journey to Bude that my wife said, You wifl be ringing most evenings, I suppose, 'Fat from it,' I replied. - Practice night and Sunday ringing at Stratton, that's about all, I should think. Honestly, that's was all that I expected.

Charles looked in to see us after breakfast the following morning, said he would be away for two days and as there was a special monthly practice at Stratton that evening, one of the ningers would call for me ot half past six.

A warm welcome at the tower from the gingers, old friends present from Combe Martin, the great pleasure of ringing with the Vicar of Westleigh (the Rev. J. Shepheard Walwyn), a grand ring of bells and good striking: thatt was the first evening of my holiday and the first ringing extra to my expectations,

Thursday evening is Stracton's usual pratice night and I was collected by car as before, enjoyed another good evening's jinging and was taken home again.

On Saturday a Branch meeting at Westleigh enabled me to add to my tower list, while o!s a lour to Clove林 and Bideford.

I had expected to ring at Stratton on Sunday, but it was an unexpected pleasure to be taken an to Poughild. where we rang on a delightful six, with the Vicar taking part in the service ringing.

Monday night found us all at Marhamchurch to join in with the local practice, which, at Charles' request, included a double-handed 120 of Grandsire.

Harvest Festival at Bridgerule on Tuesday evening iwas a gala performance. About 20 ringers lattended, including the local ringers. We all enjoyed a bright and happy service and rang the congregation out afterwards.

Wednesday was a day which I shall long remember: a seven tower outing into Corn-wall-Bodmin's restored eight, Lanlivery's great church. Fowey's lovely ring and church and the wonder of the cown and harbour, St. Austell's tower and bells. St. Stephen-inBrannelt, where two pirsons, one a ringer, me! us, Probus, whioh justifies all I had been rold about it. and finally Ladock. where the tocal ringer apologised for the bad 'go' of the musical eight. which only the bell hanger can sights.

Thank you. Stration. for the pletasure you gave me and my wife on our holiday, so much more enjoyable as it was unexpected

AN OUTING IN MIDDLESEX AND HERTFORDSHIRE

The first Siturday in November, as is now ou: custom, was chosen for an outing by a pirty from Kent and Surrey; the difference this year was that the route lay through mainly built-up areas.
Scarcely a fortnight passes without a peal at St. Mary's, Willesden, and so it was very interesting to visit a tower with such a long history of advanced method ringing; Alick Cutler welcomed us here. St. Andrew s, Kingsbury, was next to be visited, and is, of course, well known fo: being one of the churches moved out from the centre of London to the suburbs: the $19 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. octave has a pleasing tone and goes well. In recent years Hendon's six have been augmented by two new trebles from the Whitechapel Foundry, and, while they sound well, we found them difficult to strike.
Following lunch we visited the six by Thomas Janaway at Edgware, and rang methods up to Norwich. The tower of All Suints'. Harrow Weald, contains a light octave from the Loughborough Foundry, which is a delight to لisten to ; Mr. and Mrs. Hart had kindly raised the bells for us, but nevertheless the time passed all too quickly and we inad to move on to Bushey Heath's Victorian church. where we found the acoustics very poor, and here again we discovered that some of us do not know Londan Major. A Hertford County Association meeting had been arnanged at Oxhey, subsequent to permission being given for our outing, but the meeting was planned to suit our programme, a gesture which we greatly appreciated: the Warner eight (tenor 8-1-15) weren't as bad as everyone told us and went quite merrily to Yorkshire.
Ringing at Bushey was delayed due to an unexpected service, thus prolonging the teabreak, but enabling us to have a free firework display: the octave here produces a satisfying 'hum.' Our only other six followed at St. Nicholas". Elstree. where the bells are ruing from the porch. The ladies of the party riang a course of Cambridge very steadily, and this speed brought out the full, sweet tone of this ring. Monken Hadley's ootave brought the day to a close. Two touches of Spliced Surprise were enjoyed.
Our thanks are extended to all those who welcomed us at their churches, and to the incumbents and tower captains. I.H.O.

CHURCH GRESLEY

Gresley ringers spent a bleak, stormy day in Late Ootober in the Peak District of North Derbyshire, with wide though sombre views over stone-walled uplands; villages with limestone crags, gigantic yuarries and beautiful dales. It was a 'superlative' outing; the highest, lightest and (not quite) the deepest! The highest were Chelmorton bells (a new treble added to an old four), situated 1,200 feet athove sea Jevel; the lightest, Wormhill (six, tenor if cat.), above Miller's Dale. The deepest? was an interesting tour of Freak Cliff Cavern, Castleton, with its underground waterways, shadowy vaults and grottos of stalactites and stalagmites.
After this the party found the bells at Castieion (8, 18 cwt ) and Hathersage ( 6.12 cwt .) rather heavy. There was also ringing at Fsam ( 6 ), Great Longstone (6) and Burbage, Buxton (6). Our thanks to clergy and ringers who met us.

OBITUARY

LEWIS GRIFFITHS,

Holy Trinity, Llandudno AN APPRECIATION
In fact, Lewis Gniffiths was Holy Trinity. Did you ever meet him? Hundreds of ringers must have done and he always mot you with a smile; everybody was welcome.
Lewis was a very capable ringer, with characteristic Welsh enthusiasm: you would be rather unlucky if he did not arrange a bis of ringing far you whilst in IDymal Gymru -especially at the only aing on Anglesey, St. Mary's, Beaumanis.
He was ane of nature's gentlemen. God. give him rest and peace, and his wife and family comfort and courage. Called Home.

OAD BAT-ER.

MR. TED PRANGLEY

Another member of St. Mary's lower. Abergavenny, although he has not been active fo: the past eight or nine years due to a troublesome heart condition, died on November 23rd, aged 67. He was Mr. Ted Prangley, who was secretary of the tower from 1924 to 1942 . Because of wounds received in the 1914-18 war his ringing was intermpted by periods of jncapacity.
At one time he lived at Bryngwyn, and was people's warden at one of the churohes under the care of the Rev. Iver J. Richards. He was, always buoyant and a pleasant companion. His death took place while a peal was in progress at his tower.
The funeral took place on November 27th, when four ringing friends acted as bearers.
A quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung after the service, with the bells halfmutfled, by the following: R. Ward 1. G Ward (cond.) 2, Miss L. Temlett 3, N. Ward 4. G. Lewis 5, R. Horsington 6.

IN SOUTH SOMERSET

Ringers from Yatton, Chew Magna. Keynsham, East Brent, Worle and Wrington participated in a half day's tour of South Somerset on November 3rd.
Ringing started on the fine eight of Huish Episcopi, followed by the bells of Crewkerne. In this tower after the only Surprise ringing of the day, the party were found by the Revs. R O. Fry and C. J. B. Marshall.
After an excellent tea at the George Hatel, the purty rushed off to Winsham, the most southerly ring in Somerset. Here the choir stalls tad to be moved before ringing could start.

Our next stop was Chard. where we were met by Preb. and Mrs. Beechey, who, at Easter, retired to nearby Horton from Yatton. Mrs. Beechey demonstrated that she had not forgotten the mysteries of Stedman Triples while in this 'non-scientific' area. Most of us went to the Beecheys' new home for an us went to the excellent supper.
Our thanks go to the incumbents and to Mr. H. A. Price for so ably organising the Crip.

THE COMPOSITION OF CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MAJOR

1 SELECTION OF COURSES
When studying a method with a view 10 producing a composition, the first requirement is to determine the maximum number of mutually true courses which are available If there are insufficient full courses, then it is desinable to consider the maximum number of courses which can be built up from parts of courses which are mutually true.

Neither of these maxima are self evident, and the way to select them is to use the incidence of internal falseness economically by overlapping the false courses.
In this article instead of using Natural Course Heads, we use coursing order (C.O.) to simplify transpositions.

The false coursing orders of Cambridge are: $642353 / 2,2 / 3,6 / 5,5 / 6 ; 564231 / 5,5 / 1,6 / 3$, $3 / 6 ; 42356 \quad 2 / 5,5 / 2,7 / 3,3 / 7 ; 623457 / 7$; $634251 / 1$, or Maursce Hodgson's $F$ groups B. $D$ and $E$.
The false leads are identified by the figures after the false C.O.

Example: $564235 / 1$ means that the 5 th lead of the plain course 53246 is false with the first lead of course 56423 .

We now want to select the courses in such a way as to obtain a maximum number of whole courses.

Consider first $F$ group D, 56423 and 42356. This means that if we select one course there are two courses false with it, and therefore if we made our selection badly, we would expect to get only 20 mutually true out of the 60 available.

We can do much better than this by overlapping the falseness thus

53246 is false with 56423 and 42356
46532 is false with 42356 and 35642
32465 is false with 35642 and 64235
65324 is false with 64235 and 23564
24653 is false with 23564 and 56423
It will be noticed that the two right hand Give course blocks are the same because we have forced them to be the same. Thus we have a five course block which is false with another five course block.
It will also be noticed that the false C.O 64235 is also satisfied by selecting one or other of the five course blocks. The block headed 53246 is false with the block headed 42356 by reason of $F$ set $B$ as well as $F$ set $D$ and if these wore the anly $\mathcal{F}$ sets we could select 30 mutually true courses by choosing any one block from each of the six paits of blocks into which the 60 avaikable courses can be arranged.

We will now write down the 60 courses in the twelve blocks. rearranging the order for ease of writing.

|  | 53246 | X | 42356 |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  | 65324 | X | 64235 |
|  | 46532 | X | 56423 |
|  | 24653 | X | 35642 |
|  | 32465 | X | 23564 |
|  | 52436 |  | 34256 |
| A | 65243 | X | 63425 |
| 8 | 36524 |  | 56342 |
|  | 43652 | X | 25634 |
| C | 24365 |  | 42563 |
|  | 54326 |  | 23456 |
| D | 65432 | X | 62345 |
|  | 26543 |  | 56234 |
| B | 32654 |  | 45623 |
| E | 43265 | X | 3456? |
| X | 43526 | DI | 25346 |
|  | 64352 |  | 62534 |
|  | 26435 | BI | 46253 |
| X | 52643 |  | 34625 |
|  | $35264{ }^{\text {* }}$ | CI | 53462 |
| X | 45236 | AI | 32546 |
|  | 64523 |  | 63254 |
| X | 36452 | E | 46325 |
|  | 23645 | CI | 54632 |
|  | $2364 |  | 25463 |
|  | 35426 | DI | 24536 |
|  | 63542 | A | 62453 |
| X | 26354 |  | 36245 |
|  | 42635 | EI | 53624 |
| X | 54263 |  | 45362 |

We still have the false C.O's 62345 and 63425 to consider. Since we must select the plain course ( 53246 ) all the courses false with the block headed by 53246 are marked with a cross.

The selection of 6 blocks is now obviously those not marked by crosses, but out of this selection we must mark those which are still nutually false. We do this by marking a course with a letter and its false course or courses by the same letter followed by 1 . For example, the course marked AI is false with the two courses marked A. It is now noted that some of the courses are false with one other course and some are false with two other courses. These latter which are marked AI. BI, C, D and EI, we will reject in order to obtain the maximum number of mutually true full courses and we find we are left with a unique selection of 25 courses. We can be confident that this is the maximum number of whole courses (tenors together) which can be obtained.

2. ATTEMPTING TO PRODUCE A COMPOSITION

Let us naw write down our unique selection of 25 courses with a view to joining them into a round block. Complete $Q$-sels are the simplest way of joining courses and all these must first be noted. In fact we find there are no Middle or Wrong $Q$-sets and only five Home Q-sets, which as first sight is rather depressing.

| Coursing | Home | Bobs | Bobs | Bobs | Bobs |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| Order | Q-set | H | M | W | MW |
| 53246 | H1 | - | 17 | - |  |
| 65324 | H2 | - | 7 | - | - |
| 46532 | H3 | - | 19 | - | - |
| 24653 | H4 | - | 22 | - | - |
| 32465 | H5 | - | 12 | - | - |
| 52436 | H1 | - | - | 22 |  |
| 65243 | - | 23 | - |  | 20 |
| 36524 | - |  | 24 | 2 | - |
| 43652 | H3 | - | - | - | - |
| 54326 | H1 | - | - | - | - |
| 26543 | H4 | - | - | 7 |  |
| 32654 | - | 8 | - |  | 14 |
| 43265 | 二 | - | 9 | 5 | - |
| 25346 | - | - | 21 | 1 | - |
| 62534 | H2 | - | - | - | - |
| 34625 | H5 | - | - | 19 |  |
| 53462 |  | 20 | - |  | 8 |
| 63254 | H2 |  | - | 12 |  |
| 46325 |  | 13 | - |  | 23 |
| 54632 | - |  | 10 | 3 |  |
| 25463 | H4 |  |  |  |  |
| 24536 | - | 14 | - | - | 1.3 |
| 62453 |  |  | 15 | 4 |  |
| 36245 | H5 |  |  |  |  |
| 45362 | H3 | - | - | 17 | - |

The $Q$-sets are listed above and it is obvious that we cannot obtain a simple composition of adequate length by bobbing Q -sets alone so we must use other links.
At this stage it must be pointed out that. as general rule, any composition consists of a basic round block or round blocks built up of parts of courses and then expanded by joining in whole courses by bobbing $Q$-seis. For this reason we will keep all the $Q$-sets plain until the basic rond block is oblained.

We must always be as economical as possible in deriving basic round blocks and for this reason we will try first to avoid Before links since these waste parts of courses.

A consideration of the incidence of internal falseness will show that there is no falseness in the 4 th lead and therefore we can use any of the other 35 coursing orders in the 4 th lead providing we enter them with a bobbed $M$ and leave them by a bobbed W.

In the above table are noted all the H. M and W links and in addition all these extremely vajuable MW links. The figures in the columns indicate the course number into which the bob or bobs shunt us
We are now in a position to try to find a useful basic round block
By examination we find that on those courses with a W bobbed link and a M bobbed link (e.g. course 8) there is no purpose in using the M bobbed link since this puts us into a course (24) with no link. So all these can be ignored.

If we now ohoose to start with any course with a link on it and proceed tree fastion to pursue the links we find there is very little choice and the work is not laborious in producing various sound blocks.

Suppose, for example, we decide to stari with course 14 which has a $M$ and a $W$ bobbed link we can. as shown above, ignore the M link so the $W$ puts us into course 1 and this moves to course 17 with a middle. 17 now goes into course 20 with a $\mathbf{H}$ or into course 8 with a MW link. So the aree produced has the following pattern.

|  |  | Wi |  |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  | MW8 | M17 | H20 |  |  |
|  | W2 |  | W3 |  |  |
| MW20 | M7 |  | M19 | MW23 |  |
| W3 | H23 |  | H13 | W4 |  |
| M19 | W4 |  | W5 | M22 |  |
|  | M22 |  | M12 | H14 | 13MW |

and so on.
Several round blocks will be produced. but there are only two round blocks which link $u p$ all the courses without $Q$-sets on them together with five other courses each with one different $H$ Q-set member on it.

These round blocks are
W, M. H. repeated four times
M. MW. W, repeated four times

If we now bob all the $\mathbf{H} \quad \mathbf{Q}$-sets the whole of the 25 courses are now linked into one round block by both these alternatives.
The first of these round blocks, however, is su) wasteful that the composition is only 20 courses in length and therefore short.

The second composition is 25 courses long and is Mr. Middleton's well known composition.

ADDENDUM

The method of composing shown above is quick and most rewarding, but it must be pointed out that only in few cases of difficult methods (composition wise) is such a neat solution so easily found. Usually there are so many possibilities that the work is very complex and tedious.
We can think of two other methods of rediscovering Middleton's compasition. One of these methods gives a fluke solution, but the other is fundamental and very rewarding. These could be given in further articles if sufficient interest is aroused.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

 West Lindsey BranchIt was fitting theat when the West Lindsey Branch held its meeting at St. Martin's Church. Blyton, on November 17th. one of the special methods should be St. Martin's Doubles, the other being Stedman.
The meeting was well attended though very few lady members were present. This was understandable as the five at Blyzon, in ${ }^{3}$ wooden frame, are not the easiest of bells .) ring. Incidentally, this is the only remaining ringable five in the branch.
Due to some fault, the electricity was off ot the Village Hall. where a very nice meal was served by candlelight. The electric lighs and heat were nestored in time for the bus:ness meeting, at which a short silence was observed in memory of Mr. J. Dixon, who died the previous day. 'Jim" Dixon was al good Guild member and a regular and farthful ringer at All Saints', Gainsbonough, untid illhealth compelled him to give up the exerclise some years ago.
It was decided the Branch annual meeting should be held at Gainsborough on January 19th. with ringing in the afternoon and evening, special methods to be Double Narwich and Lattle Bob. There is to be no social evening this year. The meering concluded wrth a vote of thanks to the Vicar and to the ladies who had provided the tea.

An ice cream satesman, who was fined $£ 1$ at Epsom. Surrey, for illegal ohiming on a Sunday morning. told the court: "Well. they ring church bellis, don't they?'

The peal of Surprise at Egremont gives great satisfuction to the ringers in the narth-west. It was achieve faures and disappoint ments. Ringers thave been coming from places as far apart as Furness, Ambleside and Caslisle to try to improve the standard.
For the record, John B. Sansom completed h.s sequence of peals of Stedman from Doubles to Cinques with the peal of Stedman Doubles at Cranford on November 17 th, and mot Fired Goodfellow, who completed his 'set' several years ago, also at Oranfond.
A new church (All Saints'), which has been enected at Bury St. Edmunds, at a cost of $£ 22,000$, will! be dedicated on January 19 th. The spire will inconporate a loudspeaker, subject tho the approval of the Diocesan Adyisory Board, as the church will have tape recorded bells.
LLast week we recorded the peal of Plain Bob Royal at Portsmouth on November 10th. Mr T . Chapman rang $2-3$ at short notice, after meeting one short for an atthempt for Yorkshire Royal. He would like to thank Miss Mary White for the loan of her best suede gloves in order that he could ring two bells.
A best-seiler in the U.S. religious emporia is the Maas-Rowe Caritlon, supplied by Burge Electronics, to give even the smallest village church the bell ringing power of a cathedral. Casting just $£ 500$, it comes, states 'The Financial Times, in a console format, obviously designed with ecclesiasticad needs in the forefront-it looks like a cocktail cabinet.
The Cambridge University Guild band, whioh rang the peal of Plain Bob Major at Long Slanton for the 50th anniversary of the dedicat!on of the bells, would dike to associate with it the names of Major Howard Freeborn and Dr. J. B. Williamson, who are now the only surviving members of the band which rang a peal to mark the first anniversary of the dedication. The asme method and composition were rung as on that ocosion, 49 years ago.

BELFRY GOSSIP

There was another fine performance for the Middlesex County Association at Harrow Weald on December Ist. with a peal of Spliced Surprise Major in 26 methods, conducted by Mr, John R. Mayne.
Mr. Bernard F. L. Groves rang his 100 th peal this year at Withyham, Sussex, on November 25 th.

The attempit to ring 15,120 Plain Bob Minor o. handbells on November 28 th was unsuccessful: $3 t$ is hoped to make another attempt early in 1963.

Thnough illness Mr. E. P. Rock had to - call-off ${ }^{\text { }}$ a pead of Plain Bob Major at West Harplepool on December 1st. His place was taken by Mr. Jack Roach, to whom the band are indebtted.
'Ring out Christmas Bells,' the article by Mrs. Ida Hawcock in the December issue of ' The Sign,' is a faithful account of an average Sunday service tower. All those things that contribute towards a ringer's activities are piesent-the first quarter, the peal for 21 st birthday (both with treasured cards), the outing. Dove's Guide, 'The Ringing World' and 'The Ringers' Diary.' A real inside story.

Miss A. Henson, secretary of the Sherwood Youths, informs us that she has forwarded to Mr. Valentine Gosling the particulars of the two claims for ringing his composition. can assure you,' she writes, 'he is a man of his word and the $£ 5$ will be forthcoming, but it will take time for my letters to reach ham. also for one to return-unless, of course, he comes home for Christmas.'

When the royal party, comprising T.R.H. the Duchess of Kent, Pirincess Marina, Princess Alexandra and her fiance. the Hon. Angus Ogilvy, arrived at the Parish Churoh of St. Feter, Iver. Bucks, for Evensong on December 1st, they were greeted by excellent call changes, ably conducted by veteran captain Mr, G.' Stanley (ringing 54 years). The band was: G Stanley (cond.) 1, Mrs.' J. Blandford 2 J. H. Blandford 3. H. Chadwetl 4, D. G. Rowlands 5, R. J. Foster 6.

THE NOVICE

IN the spring of 1961, after 16 years spent pavement pounding as a probation officer in an industrialised northern city, I turned my back on the smoke and the grime for a similar job in a far-flung rural area of the Yorkshire Dales. In the summer of the same year I moved my home and began, at as near 50 years of age as makes no matter, an almost complete reorganisation of the business of living. Many years spent as a 'muddied oaf' impelled me to the local rugby club, purely as a spectator and supporter. Similarly, as a former ' flannelled fool,' I joined the cricket club, but not on the active list.

This was fine and dandy, as far as it went, but it didn't go far enough. I believe that all of us need things to do in isolation, and other things to do in teams or groups. Fishing, not very successfully, covered the solitude, and must be the nicest way of doing nothing ever invented by man. Finding some activity with others was not so straightforward. My best friends had told me, and finally convinced me, that it was unfair of me to try to sing. and so the choir was spared, as was the congregation. I heard by chance that ringers were getting a bit thin on the ground and turned, perhaps logically but certainly optimistically, to the belfry. This was a completely new experience. I had never been in a belfry before and literally didn't know a sally from a stay.

The captain made me very welcome, and undertook the formidable task of teaching a middle-aged pupil the rudiments of the art. He is, bless him, a man of infinite patience and perseverance, and as it turned out it is just as well that he has these qualities in such marked degree. It is. I suppose, difficult for any of us, as the years go on, to acquire a completely new skill. Joints creak, muscles seem reluctant to stretch, co-ordination one finds sadly lacking. One becomes depressed by the absence of that youthful resilience and adaptability previously enjoyed.

As a preliminary I was taken up the tower and shown the bells. and marvelled at the skill of the 'cunning artificer' who had contrived to fit so much into so small a space. My mentor left me up there while he operated from the floor in order to show me what was happening when he pulled. I descended the spiral with some difficulty, being past the stage of lissom youth these several years.

We had, then, some little talk of this and that. Unlike my teacher I am not a very patient man, and was itching to get to the job in hand. Had I not seen a slip of a girl and her schoolboy brother (standing on a box, forsooth) perform on the ropes with consummate ease? What could there possibly be in this? I was soon to learn.

Now the only creditable thing in what follows is that I didn't give in, probably being mule stubborn as well as impatient. At first I pulled the rope so hard that I kept bouncing on and off the stay. Then I didn't pull it hard enough and the captain rushed to my aid when the rope went slack. Finally I got it right for a few strokes, and then, when I was full of ill-founded confidence, got myself cut down to size when the rope picked me off my feet. all 16 stone of me, and flung me against the wall with a resounding crack and slight grazing to a bald cranium. The captain decided that I had had enough for one night.

The following week I fared a little better. This time the rope was not in vindictive mood, merely maliciously playful. It plucked my glasses off my nose just for a change. A smart bit of slip fielding by my amused teacher prevented further calls on the National Health Service. However, I made a mental note to bring an old, tight-fitting pair in future instead of trying to ring in tycoon-type bifocals. I know one shouldn't watch the rope, but anything that moves fairly quickly is very difficult to see in bifocals, and any learner wearing glasses might pay some heed to this point. Fortunately I have my own teeth or the rope might have deprived me of them too.

So we proceeded, bit by painful bit, with gradual improvement and remarkable tolerance from my team-mates in the face of my efforts and frequent apologies. Perhaps a belfry is the only place in which modern youth is found to be tolerant. However, eventually I went to take my place in rounds, and a proud moment it was when I got it right. From rounds to call-changes, and so we progress. The great moment was on the annual trip when I was entrusted with the tenor at Kirby Stephen - 16 cwt . of it and managed not too badly, although admittedly only covering. While still very much a beginner. I am now bitten with this bug, and hope before long to ring well enough to be of some general help in kecping things going.

I would list the attractions of ringing as follows:-
(a) The spiritual satisfaction of doing something in the worship and to the glory of God.
(b) The mental relaxation of complete change and concentration.
(c) The satisfaction of trying to master a difficult and precise art.
(d) The benefit of the exercise involved, for this is an exercise peculiarly suitable to those of mature years and past more violent forms.
(e) The friendship to be found amongst kindly and patient people.
I would certainly recommend ringing to any middle-aged man or woman who has got past the more active sports but still has team spirit and wants an outlet for both mental and physical energy.

THE TOWERS OF

By Ian N. Goldthorpe

Athe winter nights grow longer, no doubt many ringers will be talking about the new towers which they have visited during the past year; and with 1963 not very far away the Christmas season affords an opportunity for discussing plans for future visits to new areas and new towers. Perhaps in this respect the East Riding, an area rich in bells and mediaxal churches, is not so well known as it deserves 10 be. This predominantly rural area forms the northern extremity of a great belt of churches extending from Essex through East Anglia and Lincolnshire
The East Riding is divided into two parts by he ridge of chalk hills known as the Yorkshire Wolds an area rich in churches dating back to Norman times, but with few rings of bells. It is on the plains to the east and the west, however, where many of the greatest medireval churches in Yorkshire are to be found, together with some of the better-known rings of the North of England.
Situated at the foot of the eastern slope of the Wolds is Beveriey, a pleasant market town with some good hotels and convenient as a centre from which to explore the Riding. Here also are two of the finest churches in the area, both having an excellent ring of ten bells. Beverley Minster, formerly the Collegiate Church of St. John, possesses many unique features and has fine examples of the three principal styles of Gathic architecture. Some yedrs ago the late Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, the architect of Liverpool Cathedral, described this church as 'the finest Gothic church in Europe. The bells are no less beautiful, being a fine example of Messrs. Taylor's work at the beginning of the present century. Also of interest to ringers is the bourdon bell, known as Great John, weighing over seven tons. and the clock. which is the only one in the world which strikes on bells in two separate towers.
At the other end of the town stands the large Parish Church of St. Mary, which dates largely from the 14 th and 15 th centuries. This fine church would attract visitors from afar even if he Minster were not there to overshadow it. Situated in the robust central tower is a fine ring of ten, slightly lighter and much easier to handle than those at the Minster. These bells were also cast by Taylors and hung in the tower ahout a year before those at the Minster.

HULL'S MELLOW 12

Only a lew miles away at Hull is the East Riding's only ring of 12 . This is the recently uugmented ring at Holy Trinity Church, now the second largest parish church in the land and possessing the largest ringing chamber in Yorkhire. The bells, which were cast in 1909 by Taylors, have an extremely mellow tone.
Close to Hull there are a number of towers. The fine eight at Hedon must surely rank among the finer oetaves in Yorkshire, and was cast by Taylors in 1928. The church. known as 'The King of Hotderness,' is equally fine and towers above this ancient. and once important. seaport which has chianged little since the 18 th ceritury. An interesting feature here is the small circle of ropes in the centre of the large ringing chamber. Nearby is the pleasant six at Burstwick, hung in a 1 Sth century tower built of cobbles. St. James', Sutton-on-Hull. has a handy Taylor six which tends to be rather noisy. This church possesses some fine 15 th century brickwork, and forn the churchyard a fine view is obtained across the Plain of Holderness
Of the other chiurchies in the Holderness area undoubtedly the finest is at Patrington, known locally as 'The Queen of Holderness.' and whose tall spire dominates the plain for miles around. Access to the ringing chamber is obtained by a spiral staircase in a north transept. bultress, followed by a ramp behind the norith gable leading to a small door at the apex of the roof. The next stage entails crawling along a gangway inside the upper part of the roof with views of the church below. One finally emerges in the ringing chamber over the central cossing. The bells here were augmented to form a ring of eight as a memorial after the Second World War.

THE EAST RIDING

Nearby is a ring of five at Roos, the tenor of which is probably cracked! These bells are not rung often and need some oil. The church. however, is beautifully kept and is approached by an impressive avenue of yews. A few miles away at Withernsea there is a ring of six hung in another 15 th century tower built of cobbles from the seashore. Away to the north-west there is an excellent ring of five hung in the Victorian tower of the little church overlooking Rise Park

LARGEST VILLAGE
Cottingham, to the north of Hull, claims to be the largest village in England: and the Church of St. Mary is certainly in keeping with this claim. Access to the ringing chamber in the huge central tower is unusual in that one has first to climb up to the level of the belts before dropping down through a trapdoor and ladder to the immaculate ringing chamber below. The interesting octave (the oldest bell dates back to 1638) is much admired by some ringers but disliked by others! Some of the bells are odd-struck and difficult to strike well except with an experienced band.
Two miles away is Kirk Ella, whose 15th century tower contains the heaviest six in the Riding and the second heaviest in Yorkshire Whilst these bells, cast by Taylors in 1882, are not heavy by Somerset standards, there is a lorg draught of rope. and the tenor bell has a smail wheel due to the lack of space at belfry level. Nearby is the township of Hessle, overlooking the Humber estuary and possessing a large parish church. The ring of six was cast by Taylors in 1894, but some of the bells are oddstruck and the quality of tone is disappointing for the weight.

A little further upstream and situated at the southern end of the Wolds, North Ferriby has a light ring of six. Although the bells, which go well, are not very musical, the church is an interesting example of the early work of J. L. Pearson, the architect of Truro Cathedral. Of the few rings of bells on the Wolds, the new Taylor ring at Walkington is certainly worth a visit, the church being situated in a pleasant and well-kept village.

Further north there is the heavy six at Hutton Cranswick. cast by Mears' as a memorial after the Second World War, and perhaps the finest six in the area. Nearby is an alnost unringable six at Driftield, comprising a number of belfs dating back to the 171 h century. Another light six is to be found at Middleton-on-the-Wolds, a few miles to the west, although these hells are rarely rung and need oiling before use. Where the Wolds hit the sea is the large Priory Church at Bridington, possessing the heaviest eight in the Riding and the second heaviest in Yorkshire. This line Taylor octave is unfortunately now in need of some renovition. The short journey from here is well worth while to see the well-kept church at Flamborough with its ancient rood screen and ring of four bells.

To the north of the Wolds is the town of Norton, which almost joins up with the busy market town of Malton in the North Riding. Here there is a fine octave which has a remarkable tone for the weight. To the west is the Vale of York which, like the Holderness area. possesses many fine churches. Some 15 miles south of Norton is Pocklington. a busy little market town with a fine church. having internally almost the atmosphere of the cathedral, due to the absence of pews. Although the octave has been augmented from a six. it forms a very pleasing ring and is well worth a visit.

CHOICE FOR RINGERS

A little to the east, nestling at the foot of the Wolds, is the village of Nunburnholme. Here one has the choice of ringing the bells from upstairs or from the floor of the church. surrounding an ancient Saxon cross. Going southwards along the foot of the Wolds we come to Market Weighton. a small town which seems to have fallen asleep on a busy main roud. The wellkept church seems to suggest that this was once a much more important place. and the handy six are very pleasing. A few miles away, standing on the top of an isolated hill, is the ancient church at Holme. whose three bells have recently been retuned and augmented by Taylors to form a useful six. Further south. in a pleasant wooded setting, is the fine old church at North Cave, whose interior is rather picturesque and seems almost completely to have escaped the hands of the Victorian restorers. The six bells, rung from the floor, are equally as pleasing as the church. Travelling westwards, one soon comes to the 15 th century church at Eastrington, with its ground floor ring of six and interesting memorial window to a bellringer.
A few miles away, just as the spire of Patrington dominated the Holderness Plain, so here the tall tower of Howden Minster dominates a large area. Although the church is partly in ruins. the great central tower rises above the quiet lown clustering at its foot. The bells, which were recast by Taylors after the fire in 1929. were rehung in 1932, and might well be described as the 'Chewton Mendip of the North. One eminent Yorkshire ringer recently described these bells as the finest eight in Yorkshire. The bells, which are hung alt the bottom of the lofty ower, can be seen turning through the lower lazed windows.
Another fine landmark a few miles away is the tall spire rising from the short central tower at Hemingbrough. The six bells, five of which date from 1730, are rung from the centre of this interesting old church. Going northwards we come to Escrick, the last tower in the area, whose magnificent Victorian church. built in the 14 th century style, is possibly more interesting than the eight bells, which seem 10 be something of an anti-climax

Mention might be made of the nearby 12 at York Minster, cast by Taylors in 1925, but difficult to ring well due to the excessive length of rope and the difficulty of hearing the bells from the ringing chamber. Also the fine ten at Selby Abbey, cast in the same year as the bells at Hull and Bradford Cathedral, and each being of a similar weight

South-East District

Despite the cold weather some 30 members and visitars attended the quarterly meeting at Henley on December 1st

The service was conducted by the Vicar. the Rev. Beauford Haste, and thanks are accorded $t o \mathrm{him}$ and also to Miss Faith Cleverdon, one of the members, who played the organ at short sotice.
A pleasing feature of the business meeting was the election of 11 probutionary memhers to the Guidd, and. as an incentive to them. Mr. C. W. Pipe mide al sporting offer, in thiti he would willingly pay $t l$ to the first one of the new members who sang a 720 of Minor. The probtem of obtatining and holding recruits was discussed fully and its this is quite serious at present in the Guild it was resolved that the District Committee meet in the near future and pian a concerted effort to improve the position. To aid with this, Howard Egglestone was elected on the committee.

Henley bells were kept going throughout the afternoon and evening, under the directorship of Mrs. S. R. E. Pipe. Ringing varied from sounds and call changes to Pudsey Surprise.

Next meeting: Woodbridge, March 2nd.

At the Church of Si . Clement. Hastings. there is a peat of stcel bells cast in 1860 by Naylor, Vickers & Co. The first peal was rung 01 them last Sacurday! Needless to say the bells are not a very musical lot. but, we telieve. this performance fulfils a cherished nmbition of Mr. R. J. ## YOUNGEST LADY CONDUCTOR

Dear $S: r$, One is always glad to see and offer congratulations to young conductors of etther sex, but I'm afraid the age for the youngest lady was considerably lowered many vears ago. In April, 1913, my sister, Nellie, conducted a handbell peal of Doubles in four methods at the age of 12 years and 8 months and had conducted peals of Grandsire Triples and Caters before her 16 th birthday.-Yours sincerely,

Sedgeberrow, Worcs.

Dear Sir,-With refcrence to the correspondence concerning young ladies calling peasls. I think it worth noting that Miss Marganet Beamish (now Mrs. Chapman), conducted her first peal at the age of 13 years and of moniths. While I know that she would not dream of claiming this as a record, it beats thosie cases quoted in the 'R.W.' by a considerable margin.

Moreover, before her 14 th birthday Margaret Chapman thad rung 50 peals, includ ing Cambridge Maximus, and peals of Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques 'in hand' betore 13 th birthday - Yours faithfully,
D. J. FORDER.

IADIES' GUILD REPLY TO ANTI-BELLE

Dear Aunti-Belle (apologies), -We members dtending a Midland District of the Ladies Guild meeting at Aylestone on Saturday November 17th, deplore the fact that the letter written regarding lady singers was not signed with your name.
May we ask if you have been a ringer since 1912, if not, you are hardly in a position to judge ringing since that date. With regard to ladies not being satisfied with methods already composed, it is the gentlemen who have composed new methods and are still doing so; rarely is a lady's name mentioned as composer.

Recently, a band of ladies rang a peal of Cambridge Royal on bells with plain bearings and I am sure the gentlemen listening to this neal will bear us out when we say this was near perfect striking. The first Ladies' Guild peal of Stedman Triples, rung at Cubitt Town was also a well struck peal, and again the gentlemen listening then, who are still alive, would bear this out, too.

The experience of the ladies attending the above meeting is that towers are strengthened when ladies marry and not undermined, and many towers taday would be in a sad plight if it were not for the ladies.-Yours sincerely.
MEMBERS OF THE MIDLAND DISTRICT OF THE LADIES GUILD.
P.S.-Names of these members will be supplied to Anti-Belle only if he will write to he secretary of the Midfand District:W. M. W.

ACCEPTED AS A PRINCIPLE

Dear Sir,-In reply to Mr. Simon ( R.W. page 766), some dive years ago I also was experimenting with figures and discovered ? ? the same principle, though I treated it in a slightly different manner. I made Rounds the sixth row of a quick 'Ten' or unit, thus letting, the treble run out as in Stedman 'Bobs' and 'Singles' on the front. but anly in the middle of quick units; thus kecping symmetry within the same. I rejected' Callis taking effect on the first row of a unit, as in Stedman, because one cannot obviate three consecutive blows on the lead for a thirds place single, or three consecutive blows in fifths for a fifths place bob and single.

It is rather cramping to have only four places in the plain course in which to have 'Culls' (the other threc would cause interference to the observation bell).
If a sixths place single was the only 'Call' at could be made in the middle of all units. This would give 12 out of the 14 places in the plain course without interference.
I submitted this idea to the C.C. secretary in 1958, with a request for comments, and received the following reply :

- 1 It is acceptable as a principle, not a method, and ringable, though I do not know whether a 5,040 could be produced of Triples.
2 Originality. I have never seen the exact figures before, but the "quick ten" were printed in "The Ringing World" circa 1917 to a Caters method. Strictly, therefore, I do not think it could be called original.
3 Music. In Triples all changes have to be used in a peal, so that they are all more or less musical methods. Doublc-dodging is considered to show off music to advantage: four dodges continuously might tend to become monotonous.
4 No. Very few can. This can be extended on odd numbers.
5 I think dodging is preferable to continuous whole-pulls behind.
6 The name "St. Mark's" being first in the field would be regarded as the appropriate one, in accordance with usual practice.
7 Ringers are very conservative where new principles are concerned, and none of those introduced in the last seventy yenrs or soDuffield, Forward, Erin have really caught oni. The answer probably is that on odd numbers Stedman provides all nungers look for, variety, music, etc., and on even numbers they like the treble to have a plain or treble bob hunt, i.e. a method.'

The answer therefore to Mr. Simon's twopart question, as far as I am concerned, is: (a) Yes, and (b) We did not get sound to it -Yours sincerely,

NEW CHURCHES AND BELLS

Dear Sir,-At a recent press conference the secretary of the Church of England Council fo: Churches gave some interesting figures regarding church buildings in this country
It appears that 408 churches have been built since the end of the war and that a further 1,000 will be needed in the next ten years. The approximate cost of these new churches will be $£ 20 \mathrm{~m}$.. of which the Church Commissioners will contribute $£ 2.250 .000$, the remainder to be found by the parishes.

The speaker urged the importance of the parishioners briefing the architects in the needs of the community and I trust that the Central Counci' are keeping abreast with these new building projects, ensuring that a certain percentage, especially those in the new towns, will have a ring of bells.

I should be grateful if someone from the Central Council could furnish us with figures of the number of these new churclies which thave rings of bells and how mamy are expected in the rext 1,000 churches.

Present day architects appear to give littie or no attention to towers in the new churches. If finances only allow for a small turret to be built I feel it would be berter for the cangregation to be callled to worship by one bell than by recordings of church bells. Quite often the recordings, when amplified, are distorted and in some cases unsuitable for small churches, especially when one hears Caters or Cinques coming from a steeple which would not even hold one bell. -Yours faithfuilly,

DOLGELLY BELLS

Dear Sir, -I write from West Wales (0) tell you of our bells. We have eight bells, hung in 1809, with a 15 cwt. tenor.

All the ariginal bell furnishings are unchanged. After some years of relative silence the wheels and ropes were patched up and for the past year we have started regular change ringing practices, and a good team of ringers is growing up, but - the bolls have now been condemned.

We ring them for the last time when we welcome in the New Year, and they will be rehung completely in the old frame for Christmas, 1963. assuming our appeal is successful.

The bells here have a civic as well as church function, and the 9 p.m. curfew is a very old tradition, as is the ringing for the quarterly Assizes.

There are not many rings of bells in this par: of Wales, and with no local guild of ringers there is not much chance of regular practioe with ringers and in other towers.

When our bells are rehung we will again offer a welcome to ringers, whether on holiday or on tour; there is something very exhilara:ing in ringing here among the mountains in a part of the world where change ringing is nut yet a tradition.-Yours, etc.,
E. W. KEVIN WALTON.

First Dinner of East Berks and South Bucks Branch

('HE proposal that the East Berks and South Bucks Branch should hold a dinner was so enthusiastically received that all who desired to be present could not be accommodated at the Crown Hotel. Maidenhead, where 90 ringers and friends sat down to a repast, whicin included roast turkey.

Miss Mary Blackwood and Mr. E. Gosling excelled themselves with the devorations. The showpiece was a huge emblem, superbly executed by Mr. Gosling, representing the arms of the Diocese of Oxford and surrounded by scrolls containing the names of the towers in the Branch. It was so compelling of attention that the Bishop of Buckingham (the Rt. Rev. Gordon Savage) jocularly remarked that he was delighted to see all eyes upon him, until he realised what everyone was restlly admiring.
The chairman, Canon Eric Perkins (Rector of Slough) praised those responsible for the dinner. It was, he said, a very proper fraternisation and he hoped it would become an annual event.
The Bishop, who replied to a welcome from the chair, said ringers did not want to be thanked every time they rang, but he welcomed that oppertunity of expressing the gratitude of the Church for their work, which was ever in the minds of the clergy, and tremendously appreciated. He then proposed the health of Our Church and its Bellringers.
In his reply, Mr. W. Birminginam briefly reviewed the birth of the Oxford D:ocesan Guidd, in 1881, from a seed sown in March, 1879, at Maidenhead, when the East Berks and South Bucks Society was formed, preceding the Sonning Deanzry Society by ten months, a fact of which the Branch was justly very proud
He sefenred to the vigour of the Branch, built upon the labours of such stalwarts as J. J. Parker. Jcian Evans, the Fussell brothers. George Gutteridge. George Martin, George Gilhert, William Welling atnd, Laterly, William Butler. ariginator of the now defunct 'Ringers: Magazine' and quarterly news sheet.

He felt there was a post-war retrogression. and hoped that by recruitment of the right type of youngsters the present generation would uphold the great tradition built up by their ancestors. He specially drew attention to the Central Council's concern at the decline in "first pealers" and its desire for greater encouragement to be given to young conductors.
Mr. Birmingham criticised those who resented their pupils deaving them behind in icvel of attainment in change ringing. Such practices would not enable the Branch to hold its lead in the Guild, so that people in 50 years time could say the same about them its they today were saying about the worthiniss. scrvice, humility, fortitude, perseverance and loyalty of those who had established the position of the Branch.
He concluded by reminding ringers that all their efforts were worth while, as the bells always found a response in someone's soul, as Robert Southey felt when he wrote
' It is a music hallowed by all circumstances, which. according equally with social exultation and with solitary pensiveness, though it falls upon many an unheeding ear, never fails to find some hearts which it exhilarates, and some which it softens.' Mr. F. W. Goodfellow also replied, on hehalf of tie visitors. He spoke of the gleat hond of fellowship which, since the First World War, had existed between the Branch and its neighbours in N.W. Middlesex. When he first moved into the district from London he was struck by the friendliness of the ringers in South Bucks and Fast Berks. To the comments by Mr. Birmingham. upon old ringers, the added the name of Mr. Cecil Mayne, who did so much in and around Beaconsfield. The annual joint meeting at Hillingdon was an event his Middlesex coldeagues enjoyed immensely.

Following the dinner there was dancing till almost midnight, when the Branch secret:ry. Miss Dorcen Hague, was thanked for all her work, and the company dispersed following the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne.

Apologies wer: raceived from the Master of the Guild (Canoh C. Elliot Wigg) and the general secretary (Miss Marie Cross). W. B.

OBITUARY

MR. H. J, BUCKLE
The sudden death of Mr. Herbert James Buckle on December 2nd, a few minutes after ringing for evening service at Long Crendon, Bucks, was a great shock to all who knew him. Mr. Buckle had been a former captain of the ringers for many years. Since the death of his wife he had lived at Thame with his daughter. where he rang regularly Sunday mornings, and ut Long Crendon in the evenings.

The funeral took place at Long Crendon on December 6th, followed by cremation. The service was conducted by the Vicar. Rev. W M. Watt, with Miss J. Hole at the organ. In the evening Long Crendon bells were rung halfmuffed by members of the local band, and a similar tribute to his memory took place on Thame bells on December 17th. G.J.T.

WILLIAM HORATIO TAYLOR

The Handsworth (Yorks) company recently suffered a great loss in the passing of William (Billy) Taylor. He was one of the original hand trained by Fred Watkinson when St. Mary's bells were installed in 1920. Although he only rang four peals, the last in 1925, he was outstanding as a regular and devoled Sunday service ringer right up to being taken ill. His other great interest was football, and it was as he was leaving the ground after watching his favourite team, Sheffield United, win one Saturday afternoon a few weeks ago that he coliapsed and was rushed to hospital. After some weeks in hospital he appeared to be recovering and began to look forward to being out of hospital before Christmas so that he and Mrs. Taylor could celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Boxing Day. This, unhappily, was not to be, and he died peacefully in his sleep in the early morning of November 23 rd . He was 75 years old and leaves a widow, son and daughter. Up to his retirement four years ago he had been nearly all his lifo a winder at nearhy Orgreave Colliery. He was for many years a member of the choir and an active member of the Church Council. In his younger days he was also a keen and active cricketer and footballer.

The Handsworth company were joined by others of his colleagues in ringing St. Marys bells half-muffed before and after the funeral service on Wednesday, November 28th. Later in the evening a quarter peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor was rung in his memory by the following: J. J. L. Gilbert 1, G. Goodall 2, Eileen J. Osborne 3, F. Cardwell 4, J. S. Seager 5 . I. M. Holland (conductor) 6.

BARNSLEY DISTRICT SOCIETY

When the Barnsley District Society met at Crofton, near Wakefield. on December 8 th , the Vicar (the Rev. G. Slater), responding to a vole of thanks moved by Miss Elizabeth Peace (Shelley), said it was three years to the day when he came to Crofton. Then there were no ringers and it was through their secretary (Mr. Buxton) that they got their bells going. (ft was through Mr. Wilfrid F. Moreton and friends from Wakefield Cathedral-correction by the secretary.)
Fourteen lowers were represented, and the tea was the last event to be held in the hall, a building which, the secretaty said, hat some wonderful memories for him.
Next meeting (general), Barnsley, January 12th.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

Swindon Branch's Good Year

The Swindon Branch held its annual meet ing at Christ Church. Swindan, on December 8 tii. Ringers attended from Swindon, Bibury, Faringdon, Highworth, South Marston, Stratton St. Margaret, Wootton Rassett and Loughborough. The Vicar of Christ Church, Canon F. W. Thomas. conducted the service. Tea was served in the Parish Hall, and was followed by the husiness meeting.
Dr. H. H. Craig, the chairman of the Branch for the past eight years, announced he could no langer serve, as he would shortly be moving to a village outside the Branch area.
Dr. C. G. Roworth was unanimously elected to the chair. The remaining officials were reelected, viz.: Mr. R. Lutan, secretary ; Mr B. Bladon, Ringing Master; Mr. T. Collins. representative on the Management Committee Mr. W. H. Trueman thanked Dr. Craig for the work he had done for the Branch, and expressed the hope that we should see him often at Branch meetings. He also thanked the other officers, particularly the Ringing Master and Tony Peake, for the assistance given to enable him to ring peals of London and Bristol.
The secretary was able to report a good year, with 20 new members, mostly juniors, an average attendance of 40 at the monthly meetings, eight whole day outings during the year, three by coach, and an annual Christmas party, with films of some of the year's activities, and dancing and games. It was probably due to these extra activities that they had such a youthiful and happy Branch: it meant much extra work for the organisers, but was well worth while to keep the bells finging and to maintain the interest of the younger ringers. Their only regret was that only the towers in and near the town were represented: they wished it were possible to raise the same enthusiasm in the country towers of the Branch.
Fifteen peals were rung during the year: these included the first peals by a resident Branch band of Bristol and London Surprise Major, a peal of Rutland and three Spliced Major methods, conducted by Terry Codlins. and three handbell peals.

MR. T. H. TAFFENDER

It is regretted that Mr. Thomas Henry Taffender will no longer be able to take cither active or passive interest in bell ringing as he is at present in very poor health at West Park Hospital, Epsom. Surrey, where he is likely to remain pormanently.
On ,his behalf I wish all his friends and acquaintances, through 'The Ringing World. the compliments of the season.
Any inquiries or correspondence (which would be welcome) should be sent to me. the eldest son (receiver), and I will endeavour to convey these to him personally. -John Henry Taffender, 20. Hazed Road. Park Street Lane. St. Albans. Hetts. Tel. : Park St. 3273.)

YORKSHIRE ASSUCIATION  Southern District

The November meeting of the Southern District was held at Barnsley, and all parts of the District were well represented. As St. Mary's bells were not available until late in the afternoon, the two sixes of Cawthorne and Silkstone were hoth put to good use. An excellent te: was provided by the local ladies in the Church Halt, and here the ringers were joined by the Vicar of Barnsley, Canon A. Morley.
At the business meeting the chair was taken by the Vicar, who extended a hearty welcome to all. An apology for absence was received from Mr. H. Rusby. of Cawthorne. Four ringing members of the Association were elected viz.. Messrs. Alan Raynor and Malcolm Jowett (Crofton). Alan Jewitt (Bawtry) and George Hancock (Wakefield). The vote of thanks was proposed by vice-president Mr. Norman Chad-dock. who recalled that great character. Mr C dock. Who recalled that great character. Mr. C.

Next quarterly meeting, Conisbrough. February 16 th.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Rochester District
A very successful meeting was held on December 1st at St. Margaret's. Rochester, the first there for many years.
After the ringers' service, at which the Rev Peter Bond, the District's Ringing Master, gave a short address. and another ringer, the Rev Peter Robbins, read the lesson, over 75 ringers and friends sat down to tea, kindly given by Major Self, the tower captain, and his band of helpers.
At the business meeting, 15 new members were elected, 11 of them from the St. Margaret's band, thus bringing St. Margaret's, Rochester. back into union with the Association after a lapse of many years. The secretary was able to sell a dozen of the new Association membership certificates (designed by himself), and it is to be hoped that members both new and those well established will buy more of these. The secretary said that he would be willing to run coach to the annual general meeting in the Tonbridge district on Easter Monday and would he pleased to take names.
Further ringing followed in the tower, under the guidance of the Ringing Master. The bells are extremely noisy, conductors having to shout at the top of their voices, but nevertheless this meeting proved to be very enjoyable.
Next meeting, Wouldham, January 19th.

A LONDON GET-TOGETHER

An organiser's joy ' would be a fair comment of the joint meeting held in London on December 1 st hetween the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild and the Society of Roval Cumberland Youths. This comment is based on the popularity of the occasion and because some of London's famous bells were available for ringing. And the weather was good. ton!

The attendance far exceeded one hundred. as almost all of the 98 who submitted names fe: ten were present and then thine were many who had time or opportunity ondy of ringing in one or more of the towers. But the spirit of enthusiasm and contentment was attendance. Not only werz a large number of Metropolis ringers there. but friends and retations' from Somerset to Staffordshire and other counties cafled in for the day. After adl. rings of $6,8,10$ and 12 bills were available. so every class of ringer, except the 4- and 5 -bell ringers, was catered for.
Evensong in St. Andrew's Church. Holborn. was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Roy Deasy). and assisting at the organ was Mr. Andrews (Harrow Weakd). The address by the Vicar contained an introductory memark that they were in a church dedicated to St. Andrew during St. Andrew's-tide. Many a Scotsman would tell that the patron saint of his country was the first disciple and as suoh, was an agent of introduction. "We ringers, in our duty, are likewise agents of introduction and calling and hold an important office in the life of the Church. The address was ona worthy of being shorthanded or tape-recorded for reproduction
A buffet tea followed, and great credit was due to the 'committee, comprising Mesdame, Deal. Fardon. Francis. Hart. L.ock and Matthews. who crganised. prepared and provided.
Ringing took place at St. Leonard's. Shoreditch (12). St. Margaret's. Westminster (10). !. Andrew's. Holborn (8), and Si. Vedast's Foster Lane (6), during the afternoon and evening, and being under the Mastership of Messis. Beresford. Cutler and Mavne, every effort was made to meet the needs of each and every ane. To the incumbents of these churches and to Mr. W. H. Hewett grateful thanks are recorded, and in addition to Rev. R. Deasy, for a well nigh 'open house." T. J. L.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD  North Bucks Branch

A very enjoyable meeting was held at Stony Stratford on December 2nd. when about 55 members and visitors attended. Evensong was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. C. L. G. Hutchings), the address being given by the Branch chairman (the Rev. A. Campbell).
The customary business meeting followed tea, and at the conclusion of the formal business the secretary announced that the Branch would shortly be losing its chairman, as Mr. Campbell was moving early in the New Year to Amersham, after having held office in the Branch for almost 16 years. On behalf of all members, the secretary thanked the chairman for his work and interest over this long period, and in passing mentioned that he had held office for a longer period than any predecessor.
After wishing the chairman every success and happiness in the future, the secretary cailed upors a former sscretary. Mr. R. Howson, to make a presencation of a pen and pencil. In his reply Mr. Campbell thanked the members for their kindness and said how much he thad enjoyed attending their meetmuch and wished the Branch continued success in the future.

Ringing on both tower- and handbells continued until late evenmg.

Ringing took place at Woneish and Bramley.

Eastern Branch

Although the sun shone brighter than it had recently, the temperature made visitors prefer to ring rather than swim in the North Sea. just beyond Pakeffeld Churoh, when the Eastern Branch held their winter meeting there on December 1st. The Rev. R. Littler conducted the service, assisted by Mr. P. Kindred and Mr. Seuneke, the organist. They were thanked at the meeting, presided over by Mr. E. R. Goate, which followed tea in the Church Hall.
The members stood in silent tribute to the memory of Mrs. R. E. Browne, of Loddon. and Mr. John Denton, of Garleston, both of whom had died since ahe previous meeting. The secretary was instructed to convey the The secretary was instructed to convey the

The Association president (Mr. N. Golden). in a few general remarks, had a word of velcome for Mr. Lidbetter, for whom a 90th birthday peal was rung three weeks previously; also to Mr. W. Duncan, who is shoretly celebrating the 50 th anniversary of his first peal at East Harting: Mr. Ben Thompson and Canon Gilbert Thurlow.

Mr. C. Goodman (Association Ringing Master) hoped the Branch would do the same as other Branches and have a striking competition. After much discussion it was agreed to try and arrange one after Easter next year.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD North Dorset Branch

The annual meeting of the North Dorset Branch was held at Sherborne on December 8th, some 30 ringers being present. Touches of Grandsire Triples were rung before the Guild service at 4.30 p.m.. at which the Vicar of Sherborne (Rev. Canon S. B. WingfieldDigby) welcomed the ringers.
Iea at the Half Moon Hotel was followed by the meeting, at which the following officers were elected for the coming year: Chairman, the Rev. R. G. Chaffey Moore; vice-chairman, the Rev. R. A. Wells : hon. secretary, the Rev. R. N. Longridge; Ringing Masters. Mrs. M. Godley. Messrs. W. C. Shute and B. Ridout ; committee members, Messrs. J. Ralph and E. Chant.
In his report the hon. secretary indicated an increased attendance at quarterly meetings and an apparent drop in total membership, due to some towers not yet having paid their annual subscriptions. Membership stood at 150 paid up.
A proficiency certificate was awarded to Tony Batten, of Bourton ; Garry Page, also of Bourtoin, was elected a junior ringing member.
Quarter peals for the 80th anniversary of the Guild had been rung at Okeford Fitzpaine, Iwerne Minster and Shroton. Quarterly meetings at Iwerne Minster, Hazelbury Bryan and Shaftesbury were suggested for 1963 .
After the meeting ringing continued in the Abbey until 8 p.m.

Fifty years ago, a brother and two sisters rang a handbell peal of Grandsire Doubles.
The trio met again on December 1st at Hinton-on-the-Green, and with the same bells, same conductor calling the six-scores in the same order, repeated the performance. The ringers were Mr. Joseph D. Johnson, until recently secretary of the Worcestershire and Districts Association, and his sisters Mrs. J. Thomas and Mrs. T. W. Lewis.

Mr. Hermon J. Oliver has now rung 50 peals in the Church of St. Margaret, Downham. Sussex.

Latest entrant for handbell peal ringing is Mr. John C. Baldwin, who stood in a peal of Plain Bob Minor at Manchester.

More Yorkshire-Hertfordshire fraternising took place at Chipping Barnet with a peal of 5.280 Spliced Surprise Major in six methods on December 8th.
In a service quarter at Stratton St. Margaret, Wilts, 27 Doubles methods were rung. What is the largest number of methods rung in a service quarter?
Prittlewell is becoming quite a social tower with ohange ringing being accompanied with sandwich making, cake making and washing up. The young folk enjoy the initiative of Mi. and Mrs. B. C. Sadler.

The peal in 15 methods rung at Cawthorne on December 1st for the Yorkshire Association included seven methods which were rung in the first peal on the bells for the Association. These were City Delight, Arnold's Victory, College Pleasure, Duke of York, Violet, London Scholar's and Oxford.
The name of Mr. Gerald Scragg should be associated with the peal rung at Christchurch Priory on November 24th in memory of Mr . Len Stone, who died earlier in the year. Mr. Scragg, who was recently unanimously elected 10 succeed Mr. Stone as captain of the Priory ringers, was unfortunately prevented from standing in the peal.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Ohristmas bells will ring out on the Home Service on Christmas morning when greetings will be from Lichfield Cathedral; the Pirish Churches of St . Bronach, Kilbroney, Co. Down; St. Cuthbert, Edinburgh; Si. Mary, Cardigan; St. Mary the Virgin, Beddington, Surrey; St. Bartholomew, Lostwithiel, Cornwall; SS. Mary and Cuthbert, Chester-de-Street, Co. Durham, and the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem.
Congratulations to Mr. Frank B. Lufkin on hecoming a grandfather on December 3rd, with the arrival of Susan Lufkin. There was a quarter peal in honour of the occasion on December 9 th.

Mr. J. H. Taylor, of Southampton University Suciety, had a distinction above all other first quarter pealers of 1963 -he rang his quarter: at North Stoneham without a stay.
A thellringers' society has just been formed at St. John's Training College, York. The six bells of the Architectural Institute have been loaned for fortnightly practices. It is hoped to purchase a secondhand set of handbells in the near future for tunes and changes.
There is Jittle doubt that the first dinner of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild will become an annual event. Mr. Ernest Gosling's large emblem behind the top table was beautifully coloured and was the cynosure of all eyes.

The quarter peal of Stedman Triples at Blewbury, Berks, on December 9th; went so well that the rhythm was not disturbed when the conductor forgot to call the second bob of a pair. The bob was made by those concerned without a false blow being struck.

The promoters of the Bellringers' Pilgrimage to the Holy Land (August 1st-August 15th) inform us that the tour is arousing much interest, and early booking is advised. Arrangements are in hand for ringing bells is both Galilee and Jerusalem areas. Tours on other dates are available. Full delails Holy Lind Advice Cenve (R.W.). 6, Borrowdale Avenue, Ipswich.

Rounds at third change of last six.
First rung at St. Albans Cathedral, November 10Lh, 1962.

Erin Cinques can be monotonous stulf, so 'back-bells' variety of music was aimed at, but with a simple structure, being for the first peal on 12 as conductor. Hence the following specification:-
(1) Regular ' part ' composition with the very early 'Doubles" outlook of 'hunts and half-hunts,' current in Stednan's day.
(2) Short parts to give frequent changes of back-bell music.
(3) Maximum musical qualities within the above framework.
(4) Minimum length, but with rounds at handstroke.
It will be seen that the 6th is 'whole hunt,' treble is 'half hunt' and 4th and 5th are 'quarter hunts.' Although music is not the foremost aim, Tittums, Whittingtons, H/S Whittingtons, ' 7 E '8's,' H/S' Tittums and H/S' Back-change (1) occur on the back bells.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

ARE YOU AN 'HABITUAL'?

WHEN you read the heading above you probably answered to yourself at once: "No, I am not an habitual,' because more likely than not you associated the word habitual with the cases you read daily of the habitual drunkard who is forever in court before a magistrate.

But the word 'habitual' has a far greater meaning. The dictionary definition is 'Something acquired by habit."

It is surprising the number of things we do by habit in our daily lives. In fact. if you ask a man which leg he puts first into his trousers on a morning, or a lady which arm she puts first into her dress, I doubt if many could answer with any degree of certainty, although these are daily tasks.

There are, of course, good habits and bad habits, but bad habits are perhaps the easiest to acquire.

But my purpose in posing the question 'Are you an habitual?' was to relate it to ringing.

It is now some time since the C.C. handbook 'Ringing for Service' was published, but if you have a copy and refer to it you will find at the bottom of page 7 sentences to the effect that 'Few things display the spirit of a band more than its punctuality. Habitual unpunctuality in a band will rapidly destroy its niorale and its function.'

There are at least-two kinds of bands so far as ringing is concerned-the Sunday service band and the peal band. First the peal band.

Are you one of those ringers who agree to stand in a peal attempt arranged to start at, say, 3 p.m., but habitually arrive at 3.15 or later, so that the ringing perhaps finally starts at 3.30 p.m.? The rest of the band may have been at the tower since $2.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. ready for going off into changes at 3 p.m., which was the agreed time for starting; but due to the behaviour of one of the band the rest are rather annoyed, inwardly if not showing outwardly, with the result that when the ringing does finally start the quality of the ringing suffers.

Secondly, the Sunday service band; and although I have written firstly of peal ringing I feel that Sunday service ringing should take priority over peal ringing in the activities of ringers.

Taking the country as a whole, the state of Sunday ringing varies considerably. The amount of time spent in ringing for service varies from 15 minutes to one hour, the quality of ringing varies from poor to good, the methods range from 'Stoney' to Surprise, and the bells that are hung in the tower and regularly rung vary from being fully manned, i.e., 100 per cent., to considerably undermanned. The main question to answer is why are the bells undermanned?

There are many reasons why towers become undermanned, amongst them being a conductor who cannot keep pace with a band that desires to advance. So because he cannot keep pace with the conducting of the things the band wishes to ring, and he is reluctant to give up his position to a more capable person, the band begins to disintegrate. There are also many towers that are short of ringers today because they failed to take the simple precaution of teaching new ringers whilst the band was in a healthy state.

I venture to suggest that those towers with the healthiest state of affairs are those that regularly ring for about one hour before service, as by devoting this amount of time it does give opportunity at, say, an 8 -bell tower where ten ringers are present for all to have a fair allocation of ringing time, whereas if only half-an-hour or less is available then some or all may go away with a dissatisfied feeling. The final result is that first one and then another thinks 'I won't bather going this week; there will be plenty without me to ring for that short spell,' until ultimately the band becomes depleted.

Another aspect is the damage that the 'habituals' do. They habitually turn up for ringing five or ten minutes late. Presently other members of the band think they may as well turn up five or ten minutes late, so that the time for commencing to ring, which was originally 9.30 a.m., becomes 9.45 a.m., until the 'habitual' starts again with his or her five or ten minutes after 9.45 ; then the time for starting reaches $10 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. And so the vicious circle goes on until finally some members of the band decide it is not worth while pulling up the bells, and another silent tower is added to the list.

If one attempted to point out to the "habitual' that it was due to his misbehaviour that the bells were silent, the 'habitual ' would probably be quite indignant and say that he had turned up regularly whereas so-and-so had given up coming, entirely overlooking the fact that it was his discourteous behaviour that had driven so-and-so away. away.

I said at the beginning that you perhaps decided very quickly that you were not an "habitual.' Now is the time to ask yourself the question, 'Am I an habitual?', and if you are then make a New Year's resolution to be habitually early, not late. And more important still. do not break this resolution and return to your late habits, thereby persisting in your bad manners to fellow ringers.

Quite naturally, most of the people who read this will say: 'Ah well, thank goodness that doesn't refer to me.' Maybe not, but of course not many of us can bear selfanalysis.

BOLNEY, SUSSEX, HAS NEW BELL FRAME

The eight bells in St. Mary Magdalen Church. Bolney, Sussex, have, since Easter been silent, pending the installation of a new metal bell frame. costing neariy $£ 2,000$.
As long ago as 1905 the church was advised to get rid of its old wooden hell frame, but it was 56 years later that the P.C.C. took practicad action and inaugurated the Bolney Bell Fund. Income came from various sources -fetes and a history of the church which cold at 2s. 6d. a copy (a suggestion of Rev. E. Mathias, Vicar).

Last Easter the new bell frame was ordered und on December 16th Bolney bells broke their long siknce, when the Bishop of Chichester (Dr. Roger Wilson) dedicated the new bell frame. In his sermon. he congratulated the church in raising the money so fast and cumpleting the work in so short a time: ' It must make you very satisfied, he told the large congregation
After the service an informal Parish Break fast was held in the local primary school. $\checkmark$ isiting ringers took advantage of this break to 'have a go' on the bells themselves.
The Bolney team has its practice night every Wednesday at 7.30 p.m.. and any ringers in that vieinity at the time are welcome. On the first and third Sunday of every month the bells are rung in the morning. on the 2nd. 4 th and 5 th Sundays in the evening.

50 YEARS AGO

R.W: December 20th. 1912.-

A writer in "The Manchester Evening News."-
No particular skill is required to ring a peal oi hells in regular order from treble to bass. hut to "ring the changes' on a barge pead requires sititl muscle, and physical endurance The greater the number of bells the greater the number of changes possible. A 'Round of three bells only admits of six changes. a - Double' or 'Grandsire' of five bells consists of 220 changes. a 'Bab Minor' of six bells ( 720 changes), a "Boh Major' of eight hells (40.320 changes). There are altogether ten grades of peals culminating in a "Bob Maximus comprising nо less than $479,001,600$ changes. O.: course no one is capable of this supreme effort. A "Triple of seven betls takes three and a half hours to ring, and a 'Bob Major twenty-eight hours. A 'Boh Maximus ' would take ninety-one years to ring at the rate of ten strokes a second. A clergyman recently died, who had many times rung all the different grades up to the "Bob Major.' and had even achieved that Herculean task more than once.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD

The Southern District's annual meeting was held at St. Paul's Church, Sketty, on December 1 st , and by the time service started there were 45 present. which was very satisfactory. An excellent tea was provided by the ringers of Sketly in the Stuart Hall. Mr. Warburton thanked all those responsible.

At the business meeling the chair was taken by the Vicar (the Rev. G. James). who expressed his pleasure at seeing so many young people present. The District secretary and treasurer (Mr. J. A. Hoare) and the District auditor (Mr. T. M. Roderick) were both reelected.

Mr. Ernic Stitch hat a special welcome on his return to the district. It was a queer fate. he said, that after so many years he should be once again back in South Wales.

New members elected were as follows: Five from Llanclly, two Burry Port, four Sketty and thrce St. Mary's, Swansea
The votes of thanks included the Vicar and Mr. Trotman. the organist. March meeting : Aberavon. Guild festival, Brecon, June 15th.

PERSONALITIES OF

MR. JOHN SEGAR. Skegness.
Exactly 50 years ago. Mr. John Scgar reatured in our columns as a "Personality. That was when he was 20 years old. Today he enjoys the unique distinction of again appearing as a 'Personality.

Mr. Segar was educated at Retford Grammar School, and at the age of 11 he became fascinated by the manipulation of figures, and by the age of 14, when he left school. was at the top of his form for mathematics, which included algebra and geometry. Long schooling was not the vogue in those days, and at 14 he was apprenticed to the clothing trade-at the princely wage of two shillings a week! His duties consisted of working in a shop which remained open until 10 p.m. on Saturdays. A customer invited him to join the Ordsall band, and he did so in 1909.

TAPPER No. 2
In 1911 there was an article in "The Ringing World about the achievements of the famous Elijah Roberts, which included peals of Treble Twelve (one a very long length) and Stedman Cinques, which he tapped on handbells. He was described as Tapper No. 1. as Roberts committed suicide in 1865. John Ségar in 1912 decided to become Tapper No. 2. He made a modest start by tapping peals of Minor in three methods, quickly followed by five methods. In 1913 he tapped 7,200 Minor in ten plain methods. and 5,040 in seven Surprise methods By this time he had become so proficient that he was able to tap an extent of each of 35 methods.

Service in the forces interrupted his activities, and when he returned to East Retford he found there was no band, so he contented himself by welcoming touring ringers, and used to delight them by tapping touches of Grandsire Caters etc. He loaks back with pleasure on his assoetc. He looks back with pleasure on his assowas able to tap out difficult touches of Stedman Triples on the piano. Segar and Glenn were at one time joint peal secretaries of the Southwell Guild. Johh Segar retired from business at the age of 54 and spent 14 years touring England in a caravan. During this time he attended Central Council meetings-but in 1960 he settled down in Skegness.

Mr. Segar has excelled in the field of composition, and has produced three record lengiths of Surprise Major-21.9?0 Bristol. 15.520 York shire. 11.328 Superlative-and Spliced Surprise Major. 14 methods. all the hells, all the work He has also composed a peal of Spliced Triples with 360 bobs in 360 leads.

Among his publications in the C.C. List are Fourway Table." Spliced Triples. and the Blue Line System of 1.C.H: (sold out). The Fourway Table is recommended in the preface to the new " Minor Collection.

Mr. Segar points out that in diagrams in the Superlative page there are seven blue lines, and on the next page Cambridge with seven blue lines. He asks: How many ringers would have the imagination to use these two sets of hlue lines to find the falseness between the two methods?

Mr. Segar stresses the importance of hanging bells properly for tapping, and the picture shows the arrangement of his handbells.

John Segar has not been a prolific peai ringer. His total of 21 peals includes five tapped on handbeils, seven on tower bells for royal or national occasions, and nine on handbells retained "in hand.' His principal contributions to the Exercise are his compositions and his articles described above, and the whole ringing fraternity will be pleased that his 15.520 of Yorkshire was successfully accomplished on December 8th, a fitting compliment for his. 70th birthday. We wish him well. and hope he will be spared for many more years to help in the fields of composition and research.

JAFUS.

North Staffordshire Association's 80th Birthday

BISHOP GIVES HIS POLICY REGARDING BELLS

NE of the first of the territorial ringing Associations - the North Staffordshire celebrated its 80th birthday on December 15th in a very fitting manner. With a dinner at the George Hotel. Burslem. Recognition of the honoured place the Association holds in the life of the Church and community came by the presence and congratulatory speeches from the Bishop of the Diocese (Dr. A. S. Reeve) and the Lard Mayor of Stoke-on-Trent. The Arch deacon of Stoke-an-Trent (the Ven. G. Youell), president of the Association, presided. It was a happy occasion, and an excellent meal of Christmas fare was followed by a programme of speeches and entertainnent.
The Lord Mayor (Mr. T. W. B. Beddow), in proposing the toast of . The Church and State, said he was particularly pleased to be presen because he was a bellringer himself Some 48 years ago his father taught him to ring at Clieckley Church, and were it not that his work look him away from home in 1920 he would have been a ringer all these years.
Bell ringing to him was something he could not get out of his mind. The sound of bells just attracted him: he loved bells and. to him. they were real music. From their history hooks they knew the tremendous part bell had paid in the safety of the State over the years and how bells were rung when danger ihreatened

THE BEST LINK
The State he regarded as themselves-and their fellow men. The Lord Mayor contended that the besit link between Church and State was by looking after their people in the best possible manner, whether at the local government or national tevel, or whether in their everyday life. It was the looking after the young. the elderly and the infirm-done in a proper manner and in the Christian spiritthat was the best link between Church and State. He believed that the tying up of that link between Church and State was for the good of any community

The Bishop of Lichficld in reply said the previous day in the House of Commons there was a debate initiated hy a private member on the state of the Church of England. As he read the debate be thought to himself that athough the fact that they were an established Church. it did bring certain difficulties to them, tiae advantages of establishment were great and they revealed England as a Christian country, and he, for one. would be very sorry to see it go. That was a controversial subject but whether the Church was established or no there would always be cordial telations between Church and State.
These relations were fostered not only by whit happened in the centre at London, bu hy what look place at the local level, and as be went round his diocese and met many of the heads of Councils lie had been struck by the way they went out of their way to show that they wanted to support the Church. That support had been consistently given and it was something they should be very grateful for.

- As I was thinking about this dinner. said the Bishop. 'my mind went back to sitting by an open window of the Vicarage. as a small boy. listening to a muffled peal being rung in my father's church at Croydon, on the occasion of the death of Field Marshal Lord Roberts. It so happened that that lovely ring had been recast by Messrs. Gillett and Johnson and almost the first time those bells were ring was on that mournful occasion.

RECORD IN PLACE OF INDUCTION BELL

 What is the policy of the Diocese of Lichlield in regard to hells? will illustrate Archdeaconry but in another. at the time the present Bishop of Shrewsbury was Archdeacon of Stafford. I was taking the institution and the Archdeacon the induction. In that service the new incumbent has to ring the church hell. On this occasion the incumbent. in stead of pulling the belf rope want and put on & zramophone revord! I remember uat Archdeacon Parker had to be helped out of the tiurch.I would like to make it plain that we try i) discourage " canned" bells. I am thankful to feel that the Associations of ringers in all our Archdeaconries and in the North Staffordshire, in particular, are so much on the increase Your chairman has told me that in North Staffordshire, in which we have a Roman Catholic tower, we have more members than ever before. Long may it go on I would urge in all our towers that great cfforts should be made to arain new ringers In the past that has not always been done when we look back to the olden days I know of occasions whan some ringers would not hive anybody new in the tower. That has been altered and we find a seal desire to train youny men and ladies. This is a great advantage is the Church because if you give people a job to do it will keep them close to their church. Once you get caught by the ar. of change singing it has got you for life: you know the enthusiasm it brings and the fellowship it creates. and in the world of rit:ging the visitor is welcomed as a brother

I believe that through our bells we do much for the Church. We live in days when there is a great deal of apathy about. and apathy in religion is something we have to coniend with. But the Church goes on and ene of the ways it bears its witness is by ringing hells, calling its people to warship Our bells hear the witness of Church and State to God and the need to worship Him.'

THE FORMATION

In the absence of Mr. Paul L. Taylor through irdisposition the Rev. F. A. R. Chapman Rector and Rural Dean of Stoke, proposed the toist of "The North Staffordshire Association He said that it was on December 16th, 1882, at the Church Room at Stoke that one of his predecessors (Mr. Preston) presided, when the Association was formed. The Association objects were to promote the moral. social and spiritual growth of bellringing and to assist in the reform and organisation of beifries throughout this Archdeaconry. A great deal had happened since then, when 18 lowers be came affiliated with 124 active ringing members
What this part of the diocese promoted for ringers ather anchdeaconries sought to do It was not long before the Skifford Archdeaconty said. 'We must be in on this,' and quickly formed an association.
In 1960 the first diocesan ringing festival was held in Lichfield. and the year following the Central Counci! visited Stoke. There were now 26 towers affiliated to their Association with over 170 active ringing members
In proposing the health of the Association the Rural Dean said he did so with the same mixture as before
The mixture in 1882 was
(1) To recognise the true position of bell ringers as church warkers
(1)) To cultivate the art of change ringing:
(3) To promote order, good fecling and friendship among bellringers: and
(4) To ensure the constant renewal of all the belfry represents in the dife of the Church.
The reply was by Mr. G. W. Biddulph chairman of the Association. He said that rone of the ringers of 1882 were now with them. although longevity was prominent among ringers. The Association had always been very fortunate in having a splendid set of clergy who took a genuine interest in their activities and they could really rely on them or support
The first chairman was Sir Lovelace Stainer and he afterwards left to become the Bishop of Stafford. The Bishop of the Diocese had always been patron of the Society, and in their minute book there was a letter from Bishon McLiughlan. who afterwards became Archbishop of York, agreeing to accept office
This letter was addressed to the Rev. W W. Bolton. who was the actual instigator of the Association and its first necretary. Another well known officer wiss Dr. Cujck, a previous Archdeacon of Stoke. Who wont on to become Bishop of Chester. Sir Arthur Heywood was a vice-president in 1897, and in 1907 the Rev. E. V. Cox was curate at Longton. J. W Washbrook for years rang at Tunstall. with his four sons, who were killed in the First World War.

REDUCED RAIL EARES
Theirs was not a big Association for peals and rarely made headlines, but the first ever seven Surprise Minor peal was rung by tho Association at Bucknall in 1897 . There were no motor cars in the early days and in 1887 Railway Company for ringers to have reduced fares to attend meetings.

When the Association started the annual subscription was 1 s ., and it remained at that figure until 1919. when it went up to 2 s . It was now 2s. 6 d . Life membership stood at 3. 6d from 1904 till it was increused 5 ; in 1960 .

When the jubilee dinner was held in 1932 at the North Stalfs Hotel the price was 3, Gd. per head. Mr. Biddulph called for hose who were present on that occasion to stand up. There were eight of those members in attendance
The Association was affiliated to the Central Council in 1912, although the matter had been under discussion since 1900 . The first representative was the Rev. J. B. Frith.
from the minute book the following was recorded: A meeting of the Asoociation was held at Stone on July 7th. 1934. when 33 members were present. During the afternoon a man came up to the belfry and objected to the ringing, and said it was a nuisance. He turned out to be a street singer. and complained that people could not hear him singing owing to the bells. A note: Objection overruled.

The concluding toast, that of "The Visitors," was proposed by Mr. W. H. Pickett, who mentioned by name the honoured guests. In a reference to the Rural Dean and Rector of Stoke, Mr. Pickett recalled his generous hospitality at meetings of the Association The ladies present were also given a cordial welcome.

Mr. T. W. White, editor of 'The Ringing World. He asked the assembly to do their utmost to procure new subscribers and to arrange for a copy of the

New Record Length of Yorkshire Major Rung

THE composition for the 15,520 Yorkshire Surprise Major was received in Newcastle ii2 September, 1962, and immediately a date was chosen, and permission sought and obtained from Mr. Paul Taylor, for an attompt to be made on the bells in the Bell Foundry campanile, whilst Mr. A. J. Pitman was busy checking the figures.
As the chosen date, December 8th, drew nearer so the weather deteriorated, with snow, ice and then in the week previous thick fog enveloping much of the country. However, by Friday dinnertime most of the fog had cleared. except from tho London arrea, and so five of the band, with Jack Anderson coming along as trainer and observer, set oft (From the northeast down the A.1) at 5.30 p.m.. on what turned out to be a most fillthy drive. Both cars used a full botule of water for the windscreen washers and both had to stop twioc in 130 miles to clear headlights.
At 10 p.m. we reached Great Central Hotel, Nurghborough, and were relieved to see that Pat Cannon and David Taylor had arrived safety by train from London and that Leslic Boumphrey had got there by devious means fram Workington, via Leeds.
To bed before midnight were the orders and up for 8 a.m. breakfast. All arrived at the Foundry before 9 a.m. and, after a very brief Jook round the workshop, we adjusted ropes, ctc.. and were off into changes by $9.20 \mathrm{n} . \mathrm{m}$. A tclegram sending us 'best wishes' from William J. Davidson, of Newcastle, was much appreciated. Some good ringing was had with cach part taking about 1 hour 28 minutes-that is at 2.23 pace for a normal peal, although our speed increased to about 2.10 paice for an hour or so in the middle part.

EVE OF COMPOSER'S BIRTHDAY

The usual varjety of trips were made and fortunately conrected, and the bells came round with some excellently struck finishing courses at 4.40 p.m. as a fitting tribute to the composer, John Segar. on the even of his 70th birthday. Paul Taylor and Jack Anderson entered the (toriture) chamber and afler stretching, our legs and eating up our stocks of chocohates. etc., we left Pat and David to catch their London train whilst the north-east contingent dined at a Chinese restaurant in Nottingham and then sped home for 10.30 p.m.. dropping Leslic somewhere in the middle of Yorkstiro to find his way across country to Morecambe.

The previous longest length of Yorkshire Major was Stephen Ivin's 14,560 rung for the Bedfordshire Association on the same bells on September 21 st, 1957, in 7 hours exactly and conducted by the composer.

THE BAND

Some brief details of the ringers' history may be of interest to those who study what makes up a rather strange breed of men: i.e. those who atiempt long lengths.

LETTERS  NOT WITHIN AMBIT OF  RINGING WORLD,

Dear Sir, Others among the constant readers of 'The Ringing World, will, I sincerely trust. resent as much as I do the sreering remarks in the letter of Mr. Gardiner. He goes on, 'A remark such as this is in thoroughly bad taste, quite uncalled for and could well have been omitted. I submit that this is an apt desoription of the second paragraph of his own letter. The place for debating the theological question of the validity of sacraments is not 'The Ringing World.' and one may perhaps remind Mr. Talbot that not all Christian bodies are agrecd as to the truth and frectom from error of the Church to wihch he belongs.
So farr as facts are concemed, not all the oid churches in Scodtand are in the hands of the Presbyterian schism, whatever the meanin. $r$ of that term may be, nor was St. Giles ian Edinburgh ever a cathedral church in preReformation tines. Then it was in the Lothian Deanery of the Archdiocese of St. Andrew's; now with the Episcopal Church in Scotland and the reconstitution of the Rominn Catholic hierarchy has Edinburgh been blessed with the erection of cathedrals and the achievement of city status.-Yours faithfully,
Edinburgh. R.S. WILSON,

GOOD RECORDINGS

Dear Sir,-With reference to the recent correspondence regarding the B.B.C. and the bells of Evercrech, I feol that the BB.C. could do no better than purchase sone of the present E.M.I. recordings of church bells. Not only would it save the Corporation t:m? and expense of making new records but th: striking of those made at East Hagbournc and Bucklebury are extremely good. and I belicve were made by the Sunday service bands. -Yours faithfuly,

DBITUARY

MR. JAMES JOHN BALES

Mr. John Bales, who for many years was a ringer at All Suints", Boyne Hill, Maidenhead. passed peacefully away at his home on Decemher 10ih. aged 82 years. He was greatly respected by all who had the privilege of krowing him, and was a staunch church worker.
John Bales was born in Maidenhead. He joined Als Saints' choir as a boy. On leaving the choir he learnt to ring with George Martin, who was his lifelong friend. He was not in terested in peal ringing, and was little known omside his own locality, but he was a most reliable and devoted Sunday service ringer John was tower secretary for many years, and in that capacity arranged many excellent outings. He had not rung for several years owing to his inability to climb the steps to the belfry, but the still retained his interes: in ringing and the progress of the younger ringers. He was a member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.
Mr. Rales was district relieving officer, and was at one time vicc-president of the National Relicving Officers' Association. He served in the Royal Artillery in the First Wonld War in West Africa, France and Belgium.
All his life he was an enthusiastic musician; he sang in All Saints' choir and was a member of Maidenhead Choral Society. He was a very kecn chess and bowls player.
The funeral service, which took place at All Saints', on Dec. 14th, was a simple one, but the hells were rung half muflied before and after the service.
In the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half muffled by Miss $S$ lopper (first quarter) 1, Dr. S. Gibson (first "insper ') 2, Mrs. Gibson (first "inside") 3, Miss D. Seal 4, E. E. Gosling (cand.) 5, J Blackwood 6, L. Pearson 7, G. Gibbs 8.
Among the many floral tributes was one from the ringers at All Saints'.

MR. FRED BOWFRS

Mr. Fred Bowers, of Sudbury, Suftolk, died suddenly at his home on Decemher 6th. uged 70 years.
A native of Bures, Suffolk, the was for many years a member of that company, but for the hast 30 years he had been living at Sudbury. Never very expert in his ringing. what the lacked in that respect he made up for in keenness. When he felt like it, he would excel in tenor covering. For night on 30 years he had been a widower. He was good friend and a pleasant companion.

MR. J. VERNON HEPWORTH

Goxhill. Lines. has lost a promising young ringer by the tragic death, due to a motor accident, of John Vernon Hepworth, at the early age of 19 years, while returning home on the evening of November 30th. He will he missed by a wide circle of friends. as he served the church as a ringer. Sunday school teacher, aftar server and chorister. His cheerful nature endeared him to all.
The church was filled for the funeral service ffter which the bells were rung half-muffiled and a quarter peal of Plaın Bob Minor was ung in the evening.
Our deepest sympathy is extended to his p.rents and sister in their sad loss. S. N.

MR. W. A. WILLS

A great shock and sorrow to members in the Exeter district was the news of the sudden puissing of Mr. William A. Wills, of St. Thomas ${ }^{\circ}$. on December 7th, aged 51
Mr. Wills learnt to sing at St. Thomas', just after the hells were restored and augmented in 1923, and contributed much to the oustinding success of that band, under the deadership of Mr. E. W. Biffin. He was not a prolific peail ringer and could just manage the four standards,' but he was the perfect 'Sunday service, man, keen churchman, church counservice man, keen charchman, sidesminn and sincere Christian.
The strong St. Thomas' band broke up some 5 years ago, owing to members leaving the bistrict and the death of E. W. Biffin. Bill Wills tried and tried to restart the band with three ar four sels of recruits, without success; so now St. Thomas' is without even the nucleus of the means of resuscitation. He was also a member of the Exeter Cathedrall band fo: 25 years.
Representatives of the Devon Guild attended the funeral service, which preceded cremation at Tonqualy. and a half-mufled quarter pea! of Grandsire Triples was rung to his memory hy N. Mallet 1, G. Skinner 2, C. P. Yates 3, A. T. Truman 4. S. Skinner 5. R. Ingham 6. F. Wreford (cond.) 7, C. J. Hosgood 8, on the bells of St. Thomas'. Mr. Wills leaves behind a widow and two daughters, all of whom have learnt to ring. Sincere sympathy is extended to them.

MR. WILLIAM ROSE  AN APPRECIATION

On behalf of the St. Margaret's Society, King's Lynn, I pay tribute to William Rose, who recently passed peacefully to his rest at his home, at the age of 65 .
For the past 40 years. Bill, as he was affestionately known, had been a faithful member of the St. Margaret's Society, holding office as vice-captain for nine of them. In spite of the fact that he lived a long way away from St. Margaret's, the rode his bicycle, fair weather or foul, and was never late. Although he continued so work almost to the time of his death. his failing health slowed up his ringing activities. Bill also rang at his home tover. Tilney All Saints, and the will be greatly missed at both churches. He was a very good strike: and an excellent back-ender
Among the eleven peals he took part in at Si Margaret's the last was perhaps the ane hz was most proud of. It was Plain Bob Major on July 1st, 1957. The late Tom Greenacre also took part in this peal which was rung in his and Bill's honour. on the occasion $c^{6}$ their having completed 35 years' membership of the Society.
In conclusion I bid farewell to a grand inger and Christian gentleman.

N. V. HARDING, Captain.St. Margaret's Society.

COLLECTION OF MINOR METHODS

Dear Sir,-I would like to point out that the - Table of Plain, Alliance and Special Alliance Method Splicing in Three Leads witio Two Bells fixed, on page 101 of the list edition of the C.C.'s Collection of Minor Methods' is incomplete. The following should he added:
Grp. Fixed Plain Alliance Special Allianco

This renders the statement on 3 -lead Splicers ' on page 92 slightly inaccurate; it should hegin: In mosi of these mehods. .
To demonstrate the 'splice:ability' of these methods, herewith is a 720 which incorporates some of them, together with olher types of splices.
The second 720 was arranged to satisfy the demands of a ringing friend of mine who complained that Kent T.B. would not splice with anything according to the new edition. It has muct in common with the first 720 - Yours sincerely. Ryehill, Wakelield

MR. LEWIS GRIFFITHS

AN APPRECIATION
I should like to add my appreciation of Mr. Lewis Griffiths. of Llandudno. The summer before last I spent a most enjoyable fortnight in North Wales. I had previously contacted Mr. Griffiths, and when I arrived at my lodgings I was delighted to find awaiting me written details of all ringing in the area and simes of practices, and how to reach the towers. by rant, road or canch. I am sure he will be greatly missed.

Liverpool University Society Summer Tour

A. T 7.15 p.m. on July 12th sevenal members Change Re Liverpool University Society of the aptly named aill in climbing The Steep. Cathedral to find that their Ringing Master had already established his left luggage office culside the south-west tower. At 7.30. Mr. Walden welcomed the parly who then began the lang ascent to the ringing chamber. Memhers joined in the ringing which ranged from hers joined in the ringing which ranged finam cinques. We were all very grateful for being allowed to ning on this fine Taylor cwelve. During the evening our president armived with the minibus. whicr was to do us such good service on the following five days of the tour.
On the way back to our hotel at Grantham w. called at ta telephone kiosk to collect a copy of 'The Ringing World.' inadvertently left there by one of our number a few hours previously, and at the railway station to collect the last member of the panty. At the hotel We all signad the book, and the Ringing Master-elect being the last one up the stairs, found that he thad a broken bed, but was reprieved as a further single room was available.

The following day we enjoyed ringing at several six-beli towers. Commencrng at Barkston, we then proceeded to Caythorpe, Barkston, we then proceeded to Caythorpe, where the decorated spire was a fine example of so many similar ones which we were to see in this part of the country. We then went to the picturesque church at Fulbeck. Where we were privileged to ring a touch of Fulbeck Bob with Mr. George Scott. At dunchtime we enjoyed a very varied assortment of sandwiches in the 'local' before ringing at Leadenham church. Next came the heavy ring ( $23 \frac{3}{4} \mathrm{cwt}$.) at Brant Broughton, where much amusement was caused by one member running frantically up and down the spiral stadrcase trying to decide which door led to the ringing chamber. Unfortunately we did poor justice to these bells by attempting to ring too quickly. The day was concluded by ringing at Bassingham and Norton Disney, and after a meal in Newark we teturned to Grantham, tired but satisfied that we had not disgraced ourselves with our ringing, which have been mainly in the four standard methods.
On Saturday the weather turned bad, but did not dampen our spirits as we enjoyed ringing on the pleasant eight at Billingborough. at Folkingham and Horbling, where we were joined by Mr. Bradley, who rang with us at several towers. After lunch, in the usual surroundings, where a pint of a liquid somewhat akin to treacle was presented to the president-elect in settlement of a wager, we proceeded to Heckington Church. a magnificent example of the Decorated style of architecture, where we also rang some very large handbells. At Sleaford we had some difficulty in handling the 19 cwt. ring of eight. which were rung from the ground floor with a long draught of rope. We appreciated help from the local band who came to welcome us despite the torrential rain. which iater followed us to Silk Willoughby, where London Surprise and Double Court were amongst the methods rung.

THREE WISE MONKEYS

It was still raining when we reached Heydour. where the ring of eight is of mixed origin. dating back as far as the Jate 16 th century Mr. Bradley introduced us to the Vicar at Newton. We are very grateful to the Vionr's wife, who provided us with very welcome refreshments, and the ladies of the party were much amused by three ringers sitting on the much amused by three ringers sitting on the sofa in postures reminiscent of the three wise monkeys. Who 'hear no evil," see no evil and 'speak no evil.' After tea we were invited to ring on the five at Newton, this unscheduled tower being the first five of our tour. Back at Grantham we had a good meal nt a fish and chip parlour, and after satisfying a thirst created by a tightly-packed schedule, which had included over six hours' ringing time, we retired to the hotel. where the social gathering did not break up until, the early hours of the morning.
On Sunday we joined the local band in ringing for service on the 32 cwt. ten at to visit friends, and we bad lunch before procecding to Algarkirk, where the incumbent kindly allowed us to ring at short notice. The bells here are hung anticlockwise, the ropes falling by the chancel step, from a control tower. We had tea at Boston hefore climbing the 197 steps to the ringing chamber in this famous tower, where we rang with the local hand for Evensong. A conducted tour of the church followed Evensong, and then a sign saying "Bus Station ' proved irresistible to the trassport enthusiasts of the party. On the way back to the hotel we picked up our secretary and refreshed ourselves at the Five Bells.
The next day we set out early for Navenby, where Plain Bob and Little Bob Minor were reng. Grandsire and Plain Bob Triples were rung at Harmston, and a variety of methods at Waddington. The church here is of recent origin and pleasing design, replacing the previous church destroyed in the war. Five oi the bells are old, with a tone very different from that of the new treble. We rang on the six at Branston belore concluding the day's ringing at Lincoln. We rang cr the sixes at St. Botolph's and St. Peter-atGowts, where. in addition to the four standard methods, St. Clement's, London and Erin were rung. We regaled ourselves at a Chinese restaurant before going to the practice at St, Giles', and we are grateful to the local ringers for allowing us to join in. Most of the party joined in the singing of hymns and popular songs on the journey back to Grantham.
By Tuesday morning we were seduced to six. so when we arrived at Barrowby, the last scheduled tower of the tour, we decided that it would be a fitting end to the first Liverpool University Society tour to ring a quitrter peal. The attempt, of Grandsire Doubles, was successfully conducted by Peter S. Bennett. our rebiring Ringing Master, who was one of the founder-members of the Society and has run the practices very successfully for three
We are all grateful to Geoffrey Pullin. our driver, and to Miss Hazel Arrowsmith and Christopher Cooper, our secretary, for the hard work they did anranging such an enjoyable tour, and we are sorry that Miss Arrowsmith was not able to be with us in Lincolnshire.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Chew Deanery Branch was held at Kingston Seymour (G) on December 1st. Ringing preceded the Assosiation service. which was conducted by the Rowlands. About 4.5 members and friends were present at the tea, which was served the local hind
Following the minutes and statement of accounts the serving officers were elected for a further year, viz.: Chairman and Ringing Mishop and L. Derrick; secretary, D. G. Yeo: reporter, J. Brain

Sixteen new $m$ embers were elected. including a completely new band from Ubley Yatton was proposed for the next quarterly meeting. with practice meetings at Ubley (JanLary) and Clutton (March). where ringing is now strongly established once egain.

Details and rules of the striking competition. to be held on Fehruary 23rd at Chew Stoke, were approved. for which Mr. H Sanger, of Evercreech. has consented 10 act as judge.
The meeting agreed that for a trial period the Branch Corporate Communion should be held once a year in May or June. as at present there was insufficient support for two services.
Proposals for both changes in the title of the Association and for the date of its A.G.M were feelingly opposed by those present, and the secretary was asked to convey this to the General Committee. The present arrangements were regarded as adequate and satisfactory. A collection of $£ 3$ was made towards the Ernest Morris Memorial Window
After the usual votes of thanks, ringing was resumed at the tower until shortly after & o clock.

AITUNN TERM AT Sileibibeaif

This term has seen a change from the usual custom of holding practices at Shehbear on leigh, 10 miles ave lianged over to hilherMr. Queen and Mr. Gay far &ransport. There are eight bells at Harherleigh and this has enabled us to widen our scop: to eight bell methods. This proved invaluable ulsen several members rang in a quarter peal of Bot Major on the London orip.
On November 10th the Society was host to other members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, when they came to Shuhtar for their quarterly meeting. Melhods rung insoluded Boh Minor. Cimbridge. Kent and Stedman. The Guild repreventitives took a leading mart in these, After a short service everyone enjoyed tea in the thall
The Sunday following was Remembrance Sunday and a quarter peal of Boh Minor was rung with the bells half-muffled, by J . Coad. C. Head. P. Plant D. Etchells. P Daniel and Mr. Queen 'turning the tenor in. As conductor. Daniel became the first Shebhear boy to conduct a quarter of Minor

The highlight of the term's activites was the trip to London. We Jeft college in a minihus (kindly lent by Mr. Wallington) after Fridas afternoon school on November 23rd and reached our destination soon afte 10 p.m. Two were dropped at Haslemere and the rest taken on to Dorking, where Mrs. Holder. an aunt, put six up-certainly no eaiy proposition! After a very welcome hot dinner, and fatiqued after the journey, sleep on a soft hed came as a selief. At 9 a.m. the next day we departed for London. Arriving met by Whitechapel Boll Foundry, we were accompanied us around the foundry, lunched with us and later saw us ring. Mr. Hughe first outlined the history of the foundry and then conducted us round ahe different section: In the afternoon we rang at Si . Andrew's Holborn. and St. Vedast's. Foster Lane. Some later went to ring at Putney, with the Universities Association. In the evening. after a brief look round St. Paul's, we returned to Dorking. There we rang on the fine eight bell. (25 cwe.).
On Sunday morning we visited the new Calthedral at Guildford. We then rang at Haslemere Parish Church for Matins. on she light ten, and attended the service there. We dunched at Mr. Queen's home-a Jast attempt at hearty eating before our return. After lunch Mr. Queen, his brother. Messrs. Gay. Head. Etchells. Daniel and the locat tower captain and his wifferang a quarter peal of Bob Major. Shortly afterwards we sadly departed with vivid memaries of a successfut weekend. For a delightful conclusion we had dinner at the Roval Clarence in Exeter

The team is hoping both to increase its repertoire and get the less advanced people on to the elementary methods. We look forward to our Soclety visiting many more towers and gaining valuable experience of ringing on as mant unfamiliar bells as possible. R. J BARTLETT (aged 15).

THE STORY OF AN  ORDINARY TOWER

CHRIST CHLRCH, EASTBOLRNE

Most ringers would agree that there is no such thing as an ordinary tower. Each has its own character, as have the bells themselves. One olimbs a spiral staircase, or a straight, or the bells are rung from floor level, or in a few cases the ringer is called upon to descend steps. Or he may spend several minutes passing along triforium or rooftop. The circle is large. or it's small. or it is anti-clockwise. The size and colour of the ropes vary. The pead boards reflect the talent of Jong-dead local signwriters.
On the other hand, the tower of Christ Church, Eastbourne, has a history which could be echoed by hundreds of lown parishes throughout the country. The churoh was built it 1859. a product of the rapid expansion of the dittle village of Bourne, and money was from the start hard to come by, much being donated by the gentry who inhabited the more prosperous part of bygone Eastbourne. The tower was added in 1870. three bells in 1879, and three more in 1883. A hand of ringers was formed, and a board in the ringing chamber secords that Mr. F. Harding conducted the first peal on the bells, Mindr in seven methods.

Warner's completed the octave in 1888, and a few days later a peal of Oxford Bob Triples was conducted by Mr. Harding. By the turn of the century the Christ Church team was one of the best in the county, ringing many peals. mostly of Stedman Triples and Double Narwich. and gaining the Sussex County Challenge Bell in 1909 and 1913. The captain at that time. George H. Howse. was a prominent Central. Council member from 1909 until 1917. Of a total of 111 peals rung on the bells to date. 78 were between 1888-1914.
One remembers in more recent years old 'Bill.' who rang tenor to cover rather indifferently. yet was first outside the belfry door on all ringing occasions. He kept the tower clean during the war years when enemy plane and flying-bomb threatened the churah and its depleted congregation. One recalls the excitement when an old ringing book presented to the Guild by a friend was discovered to be Stedman's 'Campanologia,' printed in 1677; the well-meaning vicar who ruined a peal in his honour by entering the tower using, a spare key, sturding in the middle of the circte to address the ringersthis in the last five minutes! In the days when the ringers were all choir members. the demure procession at the start of the service was preceded by a far-from-demure rush from belfry to vestry, via the churchyard. It was during this period that a learner was told that if his bell was out of place in rounds. the conductor would call a change, 'then it wouldn't matter.'

Other events flock to the memory. The arrival of H.S. Hobden, to teach scientific ringing, and the subsequent altainments: the town's first lady ringer: the band which attracted the attention of the national press by its average age of 14 years; the verbal tussles which took place when the 'tenor king' was a regular visitor.

By such fragments a tower assumes its own character in the minds of ringers. But Christ Church has lately been spoken of in ringing circles for a more ominous reason. The tower, like so much of fower Eastbourne, is built on shingle, and two large cracks whinh have been under observation for some years. have hecome the subject of an archifect's report. This is to the effect that the tower must be underpinned to replace foundations which are inefficient-or it must be demolished.

Courageously, the P.C.C. has ohosen the former alternattive, and is now faced with an expenditure of $£ 5.000$. No doubt Christ Church will overcome its difficulties. as it has steadily overcome them since the days when is was referred to by the bishop as the largest-and the poorest-parish in the Diocese of Chichester,' a description whioh would probably fit today. The church has mo claim on grounds of antiquity, but countless ringers have spotted its friendly flint tower from Eastbourne's famous sea fronit, and have availed themselves of its hospitality. If any of these would care to send a donation, however small, to help save an ordinary tower, it with be most gratefully acknowledged. The Vicar's address-The Rev. S. J. N. Henderson, Christ Church Vicarage, Addingham Road, Eastbourne, Sussex.

In the long peal of Rutland Surprise Major at Quex Park, four members of the band rung their first peal of Ruth disctor called his first peal of Rutland. In addition two members were ladies, and their performances were both highly commendable. This certainly is a setback to 'A. B.'s' argu-ment!- Finally, can any other University Society go one better? London University, Society sets a challenge to the "provinciat" l:niversities.
The Warborough and Dorchester Abbey (Oxon) ringers offer their sincere congratulations to Andrew Howes and Helen Butler on their recent engagement.
The Devon Branch of the Ladies' Guild, at their meeting at Exeter, sent a Get well quick messige to Mr. E. M. Atkins, general secretary of the Devon Guild. They want him at their next meeting on Aprit 20th at Plymouth.
For some months, ringing at St. Andrew's, Holborn, for a Thursday lunchtime service has been maintained regularly by members of the University of London Society and others working nearby, who can arrange their lunch break to ring between 12.30 and 1.5 p.m. Anyone who can attend this service ringing. whether regularly or when visiting London, will he welcomed. The church is at Holborn Circus, and the nearest underground station is Chancery Lane (Central Line).
Another young hand came into being at Westleigh, Devon, by ringing for Evensong on December 9th, which was the first service ringing in this tower since the war. Three of the young band in training participated, and so pleased was a member of the congregation that a donation of $£ 3$ was sent to the Vicar (the Rev. Shepheard Walwyn) for the hell restoration fund. which now needs less than $£ 20$ to pay for the rehanging of the bells last June. The first quarter on the bells was rung on December 8 th for a Confirmation servicc, at which three young singers were confirmed. Regular Sunday service ringing, wilhout the help of visiting instructors, is expected to start at Christmas.

BELFRY GOSSIP

 St. Mary's, Sunbury-onBishop honoured by a visit from the Biston on December 10 th , when he was the guest preacher at the conclusion of a week of special mission services. After listening from the Vicarage to a well struck quarter of Bob Triples, he joined the ringers i.) thank them and, bejng a keen ringer, then rang the fifth bell. He then spent some time discussing the merits of various rings of bells throughout the country before descending to the church, where the waiting congregation was learning from the Vicar just what their missing Bishop had been doing.The peal of Plain Bob Major rung at Clas-bury-on-Wye, Breconshire (see page 793), was rung on November 101 h and not as submitted fo- publication.
Service ringing takes place at St. Andrew's Church, Holborn Circus, Landon, every Thursday, from $12.30-1.5 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. All ringers are welcome.
The Peterborough Diocesan Guild thas not a 12 -bell tower. Messrs. Geoff and Gerald Hemming kindly placed Evesham bell tower at their disposal on December 1st, and the Guild scored its first of Maximus.
Although Benington, Herts, was a famous ringing centre in the time of Squire Proctor, it is over 30 years since a quarter peal was rung there by a Sunday service band. Now Benington and Knebworth ringers combine for practices and service ringing, and were able to ring a quarter peal after the induction of the new Rector, with four Benington ringers scoring their first quarter.
Mr. T. R. Dennis, who rang the fifth to the peal at Long Stanton on December 12th, rang the same bell to the first peal on the bells exactly fifty years before. He is the sole survivor of that band. The first peal was one of Stedman Triples, which was conducted by the Rev. H. Law James, and to which the Rev. H. B. Woolley, then Vicar, rang the tenor. The present band wish to thank the Rector and Mrs. Youngman for their kind hospitality.
