GUILLOTINE

Looking back on the Central Council meeting at Exeter, the most talked of matter was the introduction of the guillotine to the amendment submitted to the report of the Peal Analysis Committee. To move to pass on to the next business is legitimate and a recognised procedure in public business. Its effectiveness as a guillotine depends on one thing only, the measure of support received. At Exeter this was not less than 75 per cent. of the members of the Council, and it came before a member of the committee had replied.

When it was too late, one sensed a consciousness in many minds that the motion to pass on to the next business was premature. The questions of Mr. C. H. Kippin had not been answered; they had been brushed summarily aside. It is true that much of the ground was traversed at Norwich, when the peculiarities of the nine bells at Basingstoke-two separate rings of eight and in no sense a Caters combination-were digressed upon at length. The arguments of the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead and Mr. Kippin were based an the decision not being explicit. In their minds there was uncertainty, but as far as the majority of the Council were concerned opinions had been formed. Unpleasant as it may sound to those who participated in the performance of Kent Treble Bob Major at Basingstoke on October 11th, 1946, with a covering tenor, the Exercise as a whole regarded it as a stunt and, in the words of the Psalmist, these changes 'travaileth with mischief.'

Mr. P. J. Johnson introduced Yorkshire wisdom and logic to the debate. His point that the backbone of our art is to secure as musical a combination on the bells as possible should be kept constantly to the fore. Ringers are largely dependent upon the goodwill of the public, and this is one of the reasons why so much emphasis is given by our leaders to the importance of good striking. The rhythm of the bells is no idle catchphrase, and it is purely from an interest in the listener's viewpoint that the Council decided 'that a performance on seven bells without the addition of a covering bell is to be discountenanced.' It is to be hoped that in peal ringing there will not be too great a concentration on 'polishing off' the 5,000 changes. There is no credit in the quickest peal on the bells if it becomes a jangle. No, the first consideration must be the musical qualities of the peal.

At the conclusion of the conference Mr. Harold Poole wisely warned the Council of the dangers attached to the premature introduction of the guillotine. It would have been a pretty point of procedure for the president to decide if, after the pass on to the next business motion had been carried, another amendment had been submitted not relating to the Basingstoke performance. The introduction of a new topic would, subject, of course, to the president's ruling, appear to be in order. It was generally felt that much was left unsaid, but the fact that the Rules and Decisions of the Council are to be revised is a crumb of consolation to our friends at Southampton.

Through an injury to his hand, Mr. F. J. Cullum was unable to conduct the peal of Cambridge Surprise at Erith in Tonour of his daughter's 21st birthday.
Miss Margaret E. L. Beamish will have a special reason to remember the Exeter conference. It was the day she rang her first peal of Surprise 'inside.' 'This she has aohieved at the age of $11 \frac{1}{2}$ and she cani claim to be the youngest lady to ring a Surprise peal 'inside.'

From Mablethorpe we have received a letter from the ringers of St. Mary's expressing their deep regret at the news of the death of Mr. F. Barber, of Doddington, Northants. During his stay at Mablethorpe from 1934-1940 Mr. Barber took a great interest in all branches of church work, being captain of the belfry.

 rung for Royalty. These date back to Feb. Mr. James George, now 93 years of age, has compiled a list of peals he has 26th, 1901, when he rang at Birmingham for the passing of Queen Victoria. Queen Mary has graciously accepted a copy of these peals and Mr . George has received the following acknowledgment: 'I am commanded by Queen Mary to thank you sincerely for your letter of congratulation on the Queen's birthday and also to tell you how interested Her Majesty was in reading of all the peals you have rung for Royalty. This record is to be put in the file of loyal serrice.-Margaret Wyndham.'Mr. John W. Adshead, of Falfield, has written pointing out that the peal of Bob Minor with two covers rung in 1923 and quoted by Mr. Kippin was not performed at Falifeld as mentioned in our report of the Central Council meeting. Mr. Adshead suggests that the peal was rung at Fairford as there is not a ring of bells at Falfield Parish Church. If we misheard Mr. Kippin, our apologies.
Veteran captain of St. Michael's, Basingstuke, is Mr. John E. Ballard, whe has held the post for almost 30 years and has completed 60 years as a ringer. On May 25th a quarterpeal of Grandsire Triples was rung in honour of his 75 th birthday by Mrs. F. A. Munday (first quarter) 1, C. W. Munday 2, R. A. Hickman 3, J. E. Ballard 4, J. Weaver 5, D. H. Anstey (conductor) 6, F. A. Munday 7, J. B Woodley 8. On the following Saturday a peal was rung in honour of the happy occasion.
Mr. Walter Brittan, who is 82 and has been a member of the Wednesbury Parish Church band for 66 years, rang in 1,260 Grandsire Triples on Whit Sunday, the 57 th anniversary of his wedding. ## FIFTIETH CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING

Broadcasting Negotiations......Television......' Ringing World '......Mr. J. A. Trollope’s Work  Rules to be Revised......Central Council Handbook...... Synthetic Bells  The Next Business-A Protest

THE second half of the agenda was of mide interest. The Rerision of Rules debate was not such an uphill battle for the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead. In 'Other business,' a variety of topics was raised, including synthetic bells and commemorating fallen ringers. LITERATURE, PRESS & BROADCASTING COMMITTEE.
Many and frequent references to bells and bellringing in the Press at large during the past twelve months indicate that editors have reason to regard the subject as one of general interest, and it is satisfactory to note that articles and occasional paragraphs of this nature show a marked improvement in accuracy and afford proof of commendable care taken to acquire correct information.
On the lighter side two or three national newspapers made midnight ringing on New Year's Eve the subject of humorous cartoons, while a local publication, after reporting a peal rung at Wrexham, indulged in unconscious humour by stating that 'the same band set up a record in London by ringing a peal that lasted 18 hours.
'The Ringing World,' after having heen ably piloted through a most critical period under the erudite and resourceful editorship of Mr. J. A. Trollope, has during the past year been edited with marked success by Mr. T. W. White.
On the subject of broadcasting we are glad to be able to present a definitely gratifying report. Through the good offices of the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, the criticisms and suggestions made in our report last year were communicated to the Rev. M. W. Willson, Religious Broadcasting Assistant, from whom a letter was subsequently received with a copy of a memorandum subnitted by him to the Director of Religious Broadcasting. This memorandum embodied, though with some oonsiderable modification, the points suggested by the committee. It is perhaps to be regretted that Dr. Welch shortly afterwards vacated the post of director, but in any case the recommendations made have to quite an appreciable extent been put into practice. The principle was accepted that bells broadcast before a service should be heard for a shart time without any interruption, and only after that faded into the background to give place to any introductory statements, and that change zingers should have opportunity to bring the bells into rounds before such fading out. In sume instances this has been done with complete success: a notable example was that of the ten bells at Watford on a Sunday morning.
It is satisfactory to note that in most "of the broadcasts heard, whether method ringing or otherwise, the striking has been good. though there have heen a small number of indifferent performances. Some broadcasts were supremely good.

Apart from religious services, both church bells and handbells have been heard in various connections, and here again a high standard has been consistently maintained. With assistance from members of this Council an admirable talk was broadcast to schoo!s on 'Ringing the Changes.'
A perfect example of a broadcast designed to interest the general public was given from Cambridge. It included information about Great St. Mary's bells, the Cambridge Youths, method ringing and the Curfew, with corresponding illustrations. A recent broadcast from Loughborough gave a lucid explanation of the making, tuning and ringing of bells. The bells of Loughborough Parish Church and the famous carillon were heard to full adrantage.

In view of the fact that most broadcaste of ringing take place without being specifically announced in 'The Radio Times,' the committee request on behalf of the Exercise that those arranging to broadcast make a point of notifying the fact, with details of date and time, through 'The Ringing World."
The Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, in moving the adoption of the report, said in the Transatlantic quiz the English question master asked his American counterpart: ' What would a man be doing if he was hanging on to "Sally " and calling "Bob"?" Naturally, the American was stumped!
Mr. A. Walker seconded the adoption of the report.
Mr. W. Ayre said he had a tentative enquiry in regard to televising. He was going to continue his enquiries and then pass them on to the Central Council.
Mr. Atkins said he lad also been asked about televising. The difficulty was to find a suitable tower within 15 miles of Alexandra Palace. Handbells had been televised.
The President: I took part in the first television of handbells.
Mr. F. Dukes spoke of the good relations concerning broadcasting that had been established in Northern Ireland. The time signal was of bells rung by ringers instead of chiming of the bells of Armagh Cathedral. No less than five occasions were the bells broadcast, and on one occasion the secretary of the Northern Branch attended to give a talk on change ringing and gave illustrations on the bells.

The report was adopted.

PEAL BOARDS COMMITTEE

Mr. W. Ayre said unfortunately Mr. Wilson, the convener of the committee, had been sentenced to six months in bed. A few more records had come in and they hoped to have them copied out in the proper way.
Mr P. Crook said he liad been asked to give some assistance from the Northern District. These would be completed before long.
The President: How far have the committee got records of peal boards destroyed by enemy action?

Mr. W. Ayre: If we had a list of the boards destroved we could oheck on that. I have nad one of interest: On January 31st, 1911, a peal of Small Bob Minor, consisting of 12 changes
Mr. Kippin: How does that comply with the rules? (laughter).

BIOGRAPHIFS COMMITTEE

The work during the past year has consisted mainly in obtaining biographies of present members of the Council. One hundred and twenty letters and formis were despatched, and so far 53 have been filled in and returned. We are grateful to these members, and hope that the remaining forms will be received shortly.
In some cases photographs of members have been sent to us on loan, and we ask the Council to give us pernission to reproduce these, and others that we mav receive on the same condition, in order that they may be returned speedily. We ask for this permission in these cases only, for the cost at the present time is rather prohibitive, being 6s. per photograph. It is estimated that at the present time there are some 30 to be copied
Mr. A. C. Hazelden, in moving the adoption, thanked Mr. Dyke and Mr. Golden for their help.

Mr. Hair seconded and the report was adopted.

THE RINGING WORLD.

Mr. G. W. Fietcher presented the accounts of 'The Ringing World' for the year ending September 30 th, 1946 . The revenue for the year was $£ 1,918$ 11s. 7d. and there was a profit of $£ 1589 \mathrm{~s}$. 7 d . against $£ 293$ 9s. 6d. in the previous year. He regretted that it had not been possible to complete the audit of the accounts. There was one serious question, that of income tax, which he would go into. He asked permission for the accounts in future to be brought up to December 31st in each year, which would simplify the apportionment.

He did not think there was much else to say. They had topped the 4,000 circulation mark for, he believed, the first time in the history of the paper. The introduction of 16 page issues depended on the release of paper. They could still take additional subscribers.

Mr. Barber proposed and Mr. Kippin seconded that the financial year as regards 'The Ringing World' end on December 31st.

On the proposition of Mr. F. Perrens, seconded by Mr. Hair, it was decided to circularise the accounts to all associations.

Mr. Fletcher said they had all heard that Mr. Trollope was seriously ill. He did feel that the services that he rendered throughout the war jears should be recognised. It was discussed by the Standing Committee and they recommended that they grant to Mr. Trollope £1 per week for the coming year and the position be reviewed at the next annual conference. They knew that they did make a considerable profit during the war years and that was largely due to Mr. Trollope
The Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards: It was a wonderful work that he did when there were no meetings.

Mr. J. Jones, Mr. Harold Poole and the Rev. H. Drake supported the motion, which was carried.

REVISION OF RULES

One notice of motion was before the Council, viz. -

That the rules of the Central Council be revised, especially those governing the ringing of peals.
The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead said he hoped that if this motion did not meet with the wishes of the majoritv it would not be guillotined like the amendment. It would appear from the morning's discussion that there was every reason for a revision of the rules of the Central Council. If the rules had been revised there would have been no controversy that morning. A clever person could get round a rule, as the Editor of "The Ringing World" said, but these peals that had been disallowed were not rung with that idea at all. They were rung because of certain circumstances which the Central Council rules did not face and these circumstances should be faced. The second point was that the rules should be logical. One point mentioned that morning was that a covering bell for seven may or may not be necessary, but is necessary for nine and eleven and not for five bells. As far as he could see, this was quite illogical. The third point was that the rules should be brought up to date to cater for new circumstances. The reason there was this talk of nine bells was because in that particular tower there were nine bells.

Mr. Frank Smallwood: On a point of order, is it in order to bring it up when we have alreadr made a decision.
The President ruled that the mover was in order.

Continuing, the Rev. Felstead said the rules of the Central Council had grown up piecemeal. There was another point mentioned by Mr. Butler , of Liverpool, in asking whether local conditions could not be taken into account. He did not think that their rules should be hard and fast and thus prevent people getting on. Take the nine bells at Basingstoke; there was a chance of ringing Caters and it was the only ohance for miles around.

Mr. G. Pullinger seconded on behalf of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild. Apart from peals, he said, there were other matters requiring attention as were mentioned at Norwich. It was possible for an officer to be elected by the Council to an important office and for his own association not to elect him to the Council.
Mr. Harold Poole pointed out the irregularity of the Basingstoke peals, as the bells were not a ring of nine, but two rings of eight. They had two rings at Leicester, he said, and although a peal of 13 bells had been suggested, he had not fallen for it. It might he argued that the first peal at Basingstoke was due to ignorance, but on the second occasion the views of the Council were known. His opinion was that with the exception of peals on five bells, only peals on an even number of bells should be permitted.
Mr. P. J. Johnson remarked that it was an dementary fact that the reason they could ring peals on five bolls without a cover was because ringers were ringing the extent of that number of bells, but to suggest that one could extend that principle to the higher numbers would jeopardise the principles of ringing. He suggested that the words 'especially those the committee was going to spring a surprise they would not have it.
The Rev. Felstead said his one idea was to get the rules logical so they knew where they stood.
Mr. Pullinger added that he had no time for the ringing of stunt peals, and when it of bringing the matter in again at a later date. So far as he was concerned he did not wish to lower the standard of peal ringing
The President: If this is carried it does not go beyond the stage of a committee making suggestions.
Mr. Johnson: We have a Standing Committee and I am going to suggest that the Standing Committee be asked to eet up a subcommittee for the purpose of revising the rules. You have a Standing Committee which is the consultative governing hody of this Council, and I feel that they are the people to deal with this matter in order to present their views to the Council. To establish a further committee would be creating a precedent.
The Rev. H. Drake supported Mr. Johnson's point of view, and the Rev. Felstead said he was prepared to accept it.
The motion thus amended was carried.
Mr. F. Dukes : May I suggest that the draft rules be submitted to each member of the Council for comment and brought back to the Standing Committee before the next Council meeting?
Mr. Pullinger : Would it not be easier if it was done through 'The Ringing World.'
The Hon. Secretary: There seems to be some doubt as to what we are talking about. The thing that required revision was the decisions of the Council; the rules were a domestic matter.

HANDBOOK

The Hon. Secretary said they wanted to give all members of the Council and secretaries of associations some handhook which montained everything in the Council's records. He had a rough draft showing sections and asked the Council for permission to print such a handbook. The first section would deal with the title of the Council when it was founded, past and present officers and leave room for additional officers. The second would give the objects of the Council, what they Intended to do and what they had done and What the Council was formed for: the Ethird would be the domestic rules as circulated; the fourth a list of all voluntary societies and addresses of secretaries; the fifth a complete Jist of honorary members past and present; the sixth a list of the contents of the library and the rules governing the borrowing of books; the seventh, decisions of the Council since it was formed classified to cover all the different branches of ringing. The whole thing would be bound in such a way that they could insert supplements.
Mr. J. P. Fidler proposed that authority be given for such a publication.-Agreed.

THE NEXT MEFTING.
The Council decided to hold the next meeting in London.
The Secretary asked members to consider whether the 1949 meeting should not be held at Dublin and be ready to vote on the matter at the next Council meeting.

RINGERS AND THE WAR.

Mr. E. Alex. Young said at the end of the first world war they compiled a beautiful book which was deposited in the library of St. Paul's Cathedral containing the names of 1,200 to 1,400 ringers who fell in the war. He thought a similar list should be compiled of those who fell in the last war.

It was agreed that the Standing Committee appoint a committee of two to prepare suol a list.

C. T. COLES memorial.

Mr. F. C. S. Turner called attention to the C. T. Coles memorial, which aimed at providing a bell in one of the rebuilt churches. Mr. Coles' activities, he said, were not confined to the Middlesex Association; he was a member of the Council for 25 years and he invited the nrembers of the Council to contribute.

Mr. A. B. Peck supported the appeal.
The Hon. Secretary said the Standing Committee discussed the matter last night and recommended that the sum of three guineas be voted to the fund.-Agreed.
The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow said the had been asked to give a lantern lecture at the Royal Archzological Institute on October 15th on Norwich bells and bell frames. He would be grateful for photographs of Norwich bell frames, ringers and peal boards.

BROADCASTING.

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards asked whenever bells were broadcast would the ringing master send word to 'The Ringing World' ' mentioning the time and programme.

FORTHCOMING EVENTS

Mr. H. Poole called attention to the Leicester Guild ringing festival, dinner and dance on October 25 th.
Mr. G. Pullinger announced the Bournemouth festival for April 24th.
Mr. G. W. Steere said there were still a few tickets left for the Cumberland dinner on July 12th.

SFNTHETIC BELLS.

Mr. F. Waite asked if anything could be done about synthetic bells.
The Secretary: The matter was discussed at the Standing Committee and attention was drawn to the circular issued in 1938-9 to church authorities.
The Rev. A. S. Roberts said Cornish clergy were being sent a catalogue of carillonic bells from an American firm.

Mr. J. W. Clarke: There is one thing we ought to remember-the Chancellor of the Diocese has to give the final decision before a faculty for such things is granted. The application for a faculty goes before the Advisory Committee and it seems to me that in the interest of ringing we should be represented on the Advisory Committees. I am from Chester and I am chairman of their Advisory Committee. The cost of synthetic bells is about $£ 150$. Ringers should be on their watch against these installations.
Mr. J. W. Jones said he knew of a tower designed by an architect to carry a proper ring of bells. Bluff had been brought to bear on the authorities and they had installed bells for chiming oniy.

MEMBERS OF THE CHURCH.

Mr. Richard Post called attention to the very great evil which the Bishop of Exeter referred to of ringers ringing for a service and not attending it. He was not accusing anyone because everyone knew where he stood individually: If they as members of the Council were going to stop this evil they would have to see that they were all members of the Church.

THE ATTENDANCE.

The Secretary said last jear he was able to report the attendance at Norwich of 100 members. That day they had a record attendance of 113 . There were 23 associations wholly represented, 22 partially represented and seven not represented. There were 52 associations and these sent 102 representatives and had 37 absentees; 11 lonorary members attended with six absentees.

THE NEXT BUSINESS.
Mr. H. J. Poole registered a protest against resolutions 'pussing on to the next business. Last year and again this year, he said, where there had been discussion somebody had recommended that we take the line of least resistance. He felt it was a most slipshod manner and a means of dodging the issure.
The Secretary: When a resolution of that kind is placed before the meetng it is voted on and members can defeat the resolution if they want to.

VOTES OF THANKS.
The President moved from the chair the following votes of thanks: To the Mayor for his welcome; to the Lord Bishop for coming to give us his welcome; to the Dean and Chapter for the use of the Cathedral bells; to the incumbents of the various churches where we have rung ; to the Guild of Devonshire Ringers for their hospitality and the arrangements they made for our comfort, particularly mentioning Mr. F. C. Smale and Mr. B. W. Biffin; to Mr. and Mrs. Dtokes for their delightful hospitality; to all towerkeepers; to Archdeacon Thompson far taking the members round the Cathedral. (As they went round the Archdeacon pointed out the great damage done to the Cathedral. He suggested that they send the Arohdeacon five guineas towards the cost of repairs. Agreed.)
Mr. W. H. Barber proposed a vote of thanks to the president and to Mr. and Mrs. Fletoher for the great work they had done. The resolution was carried with applause.
Mr. F. C. Smale, on behalf of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, thanked the conference for their visit. I have been looking forward to this day for a whole year,' he concluded.
Members of the conference were afterwards entertained to tea by the Guild of Devonshire Ringers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Truro Cathedral Peal

Dear Sir,-The ringers of Truro Cathedral are very muoh annoyed with the ringers who claim to have rung a peal to commemorate the diamond jubiles of our Cathedral. Like the Kington ringers, we know nothing about any arrangements being made for such a peal, and at a meeting of our ringers it was decided not to recognise the peal. Our ringers had loped to ring, with friends from other towers in the Guild, at the right time for a jubilee peal, and they feel that the peal rung on May 17th was in the nature of "peal snatching.

The Dean and Chapter were misled by the letter which they received from the conductior of the peal, but in future all applications for our bells will come before our ringers. Anyone wishing to ring a peal will have to be a regular Sunday service ringer. This will not apply to older ringers who have done good work for the Fxercise and are more or less retired.
I should like to point out that we have a good band of unpaid ringers, most of whom are active workers at the Cathedral. These include the Rev. R. E. Sibthorp (Succentor), the Rev. K. Peeke, Vicar of St. Paul's, and his two sisters, one churchwarden, a subwarden, four sidesmen, one lay reader, one choirman and one server.
I think this is a band to be proud of and must be a record for one tower.- Yours truly, W. H. SOUTHEARD, Ringing Master.

Truro.

1 REMEMBER

Dear Sir, - About 30 vears ago I visited Exeter Cathedral, when Mr. Shepherd asked me to ring the 72 cwt . tenor to 503 changes of Grandsire Caters for Sunday evening service. It toak three ringers to pull it off the stay I then rang it without the slightest difficulty. Mr. Shepherd then arranged for me to come and ring it to a peal of Grandsire Caters. Ho then wrote me stating the authorities had decided that the tenor bell must not be rung in future unless two men were on it. I then wrote Mr. Shepherd declining to come as I shall never ring a bell with the assistance of another man. The next time I met William Pye I told him it was the easiest tenor I had ever rung and that I should have had not the slightest difficulty in ringing this bell singlehanded to a peal.
About 20 years ago I rang at St. Paul's Cathedral, London, for Sunday morning service. I rang the loth bell to a touch of Stedman Cinques with two men on the 11 th. Mr . Winney then asked me whether I would like to ring the 11 th with Mr. Prime, as that bell was going rery badly. I declined as I would never ring a beil with assistance, but I offered to ring if the second rope was taken off. He did this and I rang the 11th single handed anite easily to a course of Stedman Cinques. One of the ringers then asked me how it went, when I replied that I found nothing wrong with the bell and that it only wanted a man on it. I then rang the heavy tenor five minutes for the service bell.

EVERCREECH BELLS

Dear Sir,-On the authority of the Rev. F. F. Robinson, the seventh was put there when the tower was (c. 1450).

Several of the rest were subscribed by the Bilbie family, and I hope the bellfounders will do their best to live up to it.-Faithfullv rours,

Psychology and Beginners

Dear Sir,-If it were possible, it would be interesting to obtain a record of the number of potential ringers lost to our belfries through lack of encouragement.

No ane is more acutely conscious of his inferiority than the inexperienced among experienced ringers. Hence the reluctance on the part of the former to 'stand in' at meetings. And, having been prevailed upon to do so, hence, too, the uncertain striking caused by fear of ringing over the wrong bell.

It may be that this sense of inferiority is a phase in the life history of every ringer-a phase too long forgotten by many-too long experienced by more.
But it is a crucial stage, when the ringer still fee's elated after ringing a new method, however elementary. If psychology is to be trusted, his elation must be made justifiable if greater confidence is to be gained.

Fvery new effort is worthy of commendation. A first plain course of Grandsire Doubles, rung unaided, gives as muoh comparative pleasure as a first peal of Superlative Surprise. For any such occasion, encouraging words are alone fitting. The criticism can await a more opportune moment when the learner has enjoyed his sense of achievement. His elation may only be short lived, but it will be found to serve as a foundation upon whioh the teacher can then hurl his criticism with far less likelihood of his efforts at teaching coming to nought, and of his belfry being bereft of potential campanoiogisłs. - Yours faithfully, R. MARY DAVIES.

FILM STUDIO RINGING

Dear Sir, -The film 'Green Fingers' just released has a scene depicting the ringing chamber of Whitby Church tower. The sound track is of Whitby bells.
The ringers operating the improvised bells at the British National Fiim Studio were seven members of the St. Albans Cathedral, one from the Oxhey band and two artistes.

The artistes appearing in the ringing had to be taught to handle the rope in half an hour before the actual shooting of the picture. The ringers were $H$. Hodgets (Oxhey band), Miss B. Copson, L. T. Hansel, G. N. Blake, B. A. Cornell, W. J. Arnold, E. Sprague and H. E. C. Goodenough.

The improvised bells were certainly interesting, the (bell) being made up of pieces of metal tube, blocks of lead and tubular scaffold clips, hung fairly well out, the action was quite good, in so much that we rang a silent course of Stedman Triples. I should imagine this is the first ever to be accomplished in a film studio.-Yours faithfully,
H. GOODENOUGH

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MINOR

Dear Sir, Mr. Golden's letter cal's for a reply. I made no elaims, and the 20 's were just as my friend Mr. W. Taylor, of Pellwortham, gave them to me. I pointed out to him that they were not new, and he has on $y$ succeeded in reproducing what A. G. Driver did years ago. To the several correspondents who have written me privately, I say many thanks for the information which I asked for.
Finally a new generation of ringers has arisen since the Mad Hatter (A. G. Driver) gave these figures to the Fxercise. So in their interest an occasional letter to "The Ringing World ' on a subject like this" can do no harm. - Yours faithfully,
