A SIDELIGHT ON METHOD EXTENSION

MUCH consideration has been given, especially since the war, to the question of method extension. Discussions have taken place and learned articles have been written in the columns of this paper in an attempt to influence the opinion of the Exercise as to the most acceptable form for the extension of eight and sometimes six-bell methods to the higher numbers. As a result, the Methods Committee of the Central Council is making an effort to find a suitable formula for method extension that will be sufficiently acceptable to all parties to receive the general consent of the Exercise.

The Methods Committee has a hard problem, but it is not with this that we would concern ourselves in this article. Rather we would suggest that the attention given to this subject has exaggerated its importance and we point to a risk that the Exercise runs of repeating a serious error of judgment of the past.

In the earlier days of the development of change ringing three comparatively difficult methods, Cambridge, Superlative and London, were evolved. To these methods the family name 'Surprise' was attached and gradually it became the ambition of all good ringers to master the Surprise methods. In this way considerable emphasis was placed upon Surprise and the three original methods were followed by others in the same group. The theory was that the Surprise methods were more difficult than the others. Subsequent knowledge has proved that this is by no means true, although even to-day ringers generally are much influenced by this fallacy. The result of all this is that dozens of Treble Bob methods, often more musical, equally well constructed, as free of composition, are neglected because they are not 'Surprise.' Plain methods, of which some are exceedingly difficult, are almost entirely neglected.

The most amusing thing of all is that some thirty years ago it was found that Bristol, that prince of all methods, was not Surprise and the definition of a Surprise method had to be discreetly amended to overcome this anomaly. Surely much the same thing is happening to-day with regard to method extension. Practical ringers have set the Exercise a 'corker.' Supposed extensions have been rung and named and now the rules have got to be altered to suit the game instead of the game being altered to suit the rulesotherwise someone is bound to be offended.

This interest in extension seems to be resulting in a polite disregard of the Royal and Maximus methods that do not bear the names of methods already known on eight bells. That there is no lack of such methods can be seen from Mr. A. J. Corrigan's excellent collection.

Academic discussions on method extension are doubtless most diverting, but what is the real practical value of this problem child? If we consider Cambridge Surprise it is a fact that if a man were able to ring Cambridge Minor really well and could also ring on eight bells he could be told one or two simple points and would then be able to ring Cambridge Major without having previously looked it up. This would be even more true of the advance from Major to Royal, and when it comes to Maximus the only need is the ability to ring twelve bells.

Cambridge is an extension universally accepted. So also, one believes, is Yorkshire. However, although a knowledge of Yorkshire on one number certainly helps when ringing on other numbers the method has to be learned afresh on each number of bells. After these two methods none, within the writer's experience, bears much practical relationship on varying numbers of bells, even in the case of the universally accepted extension. It would seem, therefore, that the only practical value could be the similarity of name.

It is said that a rose by any other name would smell as sweet. And so, indeed, the value of a method is but little affected by its name. However, we must face the fact that this affection for names seems to be reaching incredible proportions. It seems to derive from a desire to wrap four methods into a neat little parcel, tie them up securely with stout string, and attach a label bearing the family name. The ringer is then able to say, 'I have completed the Cambridge family, the Timbuctoo family and so on ad inf.' The fact that the members of his family are squalling, howling brats whose parentage is often a matter of extreme doubt does not seem to matter!

What conclusion can we draw from all this? Surely the Exercise must look to the ringers with adequate ten and twelve-bell facilities to provide a lead to the rest of us. Such ringers would be doing a great service to the Exercise if they would for a year or two tackle some of the many ten and twelve-bell methods that Mr. Corrigan by his enterprise has made so readily and cheaply available. By so doing they might well pour oil on the troubled waters of method extension and make for themselves a more permanent mark in the history of the Exercise. P. A. C.

PRESSURE

The past week has been one of pressure in desting with new subscribers. Should any errors in addresses have been made, will readers at once communicate with the Editor. Our aim is that 'The Ringing World, shall be delivered by the first post on Friday morning.

Leicester has produced something new in 12 -bell ringing with a peal of Spliced Surprise Maximus in six methods by the Cathedral band.
Mr. S. Anthony Jesson has joined the select band of those who have rung peals of Cambridge from Minor to Maximus.

Errata.-The last course end of the composition of Double Norwich, on page 815, should read 32564.

Wickersley Modern School (Yorkshire) handbell ringers appeared in the Children's Hour T.V. Newsreel dressed in 1851 costume.

The peal of Doubles rung at Chelford, Cheshire, on November 27th, was the first peal in three methods for Arnold Worth and not his first peal, as printed.
Following the example of Mr. 'Bob ' Collins, of Sevenoaks, Mr. Charles A. Bassett has forwarded us a donation toward 'Ringing World, expenses of one penny for every peal he has rung. Thank you!
Mr. R. Roger Savory's question regarding young ringing masters has prompted Miss Elizabeth Morton, of Barnton, near Northwich. Cheshire, to write that she was deputy ringing master of the Northwich Branch in 1949 at the age of 19 and ringing master in the following year. Another young leader is Miss B. N. White, of Balderton. Notts, from whom a letter appears on another page.

Congratulations to the band of St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow, on ringing their first peal of Stedman Caters. The issue was never in doubt. writes our correspondent, despite the fact that A. C. Scott, the young ringer on the third, had never before attempted more than a short course of Caters. He was to have rung the tenor, but the local captain insisted on ringing the tenor himself so as to give Scott an opportunity of scoring his first peal on ten ' inside.'

GOSSIP

 celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary, To mark the occasion, members of the Andover District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild will attempt a quarter peal ot Doubles, with Mr. Andrews, whose 93 rd birthday was last Friday, on the tenor. For 73 years he has been a ringer at Longparish.St. Michael's, Basingstoke, at their annual meeting decided to purchase a copy of 'The Ringing World ' to be placed in the tower for the benefit of probationers and visitors. If this practical method of support was adopted in other towers we would soon reach the 1.000 new subscribers mark.

- Change ringers are not musicians but merely clamorous mathematicians, who do their permutations with rather more noise than people who make out football pools to a system.' - 'Glasgow Herald.' in commentary on the peal of Stedman Caters rung by the St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow, company.

Mr. George Preston, of Christchurch Priory, celebrated his 82 nd birthday on December 18th. Alas, the quarter peal of Grandsire Cinques at the Priory, which he was calling, was not successful. Nevertheless, it was an occasion for rejoicing and congratulations to this veteran stalwart of Hampshire ringing.

Featured in the 'South Wales Echo and Express' just before Christmas was an article dealing with the bells of St. John-the-Baptist, Cardiff, and an interview with Mr. Fred Hannington, the secretary of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association. At St. John's half a dozen young people are training in preparation for the time when the bells of Llandaff Cathedral can be rung again. Veteran ringer at St. John's is Mr. Seymour R. Barker, who has been ringing for more than 40 years. MEARS & STAINBANK at

RECORD PEAL OF ROYAL AT WORSLEY

Three Long Lengths Superseded

$\mathrm{O}^{N}$N Saturday, December 15th, at the Church of St. Mark, Worsley, Lancashire, a peal of 15.480 Cambridge Surprise Kuyal was rung. conducted by John Worth. The church, in a beautiful setting amid the trees, in a commanding position dominating the surrounding countryside, possesses a modern ring of ten bells which is the pride of its ringers and renowned throughout the north-west for its excellence.

Another feature of the church is the liberality which is accorded to peal attempts: they seem to take place at almost fortnightly intervals. No words can convey the welcome visiting ringers receive at the hands of the local band, and in particular Mr. Percy H. Derbyshire. Nothing is too much trouble for him. When permission was sought for the attempt the matter was soon arranged through his good offices, the Vicar, Canon Colin Lamont, kindly giving his consent. The incumbents at Worsley have always been good supporters of ringers, and the present Vicar has already shown himself in the tradition.
New ropes were obtained, and on Wednesday evening before the peal several of the band went along to see if anything was needed in the way of rope adjustment, etc., but found that everything was in apple-pie order. The ropes had been fixed by Mr. Derbyshire and used once or twice to take the newness out of them. Such care on the part of the local ringers greatly encouraged the band, and it cannot be wondered that they scored an excellent peal which surpasses all the existing Royal records and is also the longest length of Cambridge Surprise yet rung on any number.
The peal itself was uneventful, the bells went off into changes at $8.5 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. , and at the start the pace was on the slow side, but it smartened up later, and a good beat was maintained throughout. Previous records which are superseded by this peal are: 10,440 Cambridge Surprise Royal, December 26th, $1923 ; 14,000$ Kent Treble Bob Royal. April 13th, 1914; and 12,740 Plain Bob Royal, April 7th, 1950. The longest length of Cambridge on any number was, of course, 15,312 Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne on August 5th, 1929.

The ringers who accomplished the feat are men whose names have appeared in similar performances of late years.

Treble.-Henry O. Baker, a proud Salopian. took part in the 21,600 Bristol last year, is 43 years of age and rang his first peal twenty-six years ago.

Second.-Fred Dunkerley, ringer and aviator, well known in both pursuits ; he also took part in the 21,600 Bristol and 8,032 Spliced Surprise, is 46 years old, and rang his first peal 29 years ago.

Third--Wilfred Stevenson, another member of the Bristol long-peal hand, rang his first peal 22 years ago and is 43 ycars of age.

Fourth.-John E. Bibby, a ringer with a list of long peals- 11,232 Superlative, 6,496 Spliced Surprise, and, of course, 21,600 Bristol. Fifty years old, he rang his first peal 31 years ago.

Fifth. - C. Kenneth Lewis. Thirty-eight years of age, took part in 21,600 Bristol and 8,032 Spliced Surprise. Rang his first peal 17 years ago.

Sixth.-Walter Allman rang his first peal 14 years ago and took part in the long peal of Bristol and 8,032 Spliced; is 41 years old.

Seventh.-Edward Jenkins, a name to conjure with whenever long lengths are mentioned, for he conducted 11,232 Superlative and 17,824 Oxford Treble Bob, and rang the treble to the 15,312 Cambridge Maximus. His first peal was rung 33 years ago, and he is 56 years of age.

Eighth.-James C. E. Simpson, well known as a ringer and conductor: he called the 8032 Spliced, but this was his first venture into five figures. He rang his first peal 25 years ago and is 43 years old.

Ninith.-Joseph Whittaker, should have taken part in the 21,600 Bristol hut was prevented by indisposition. This time there was no doubt, and he fulfilled his task nobly. Thirty-four years of age, he rang his first peal seventeen years ago.

Tenor.-John Worth, known throughout the Exercise for his genial personality and ability as a conductor. He called the 21,600 Bristol and rang in the 8.032 Spliced, and is 41 years old. His first peal was rung 22 years ago.

DEATH OF AUXILIARY BISHOP OF SOUTHWARK

As a mark of respect to the memory of Monseigneur William Francis Brown, D.D., Titular Bishop of Pella and Auxiliary in the Diocese of Southwark, who died on December 16th, members of the local band rang the bells of the Redemptorist Church of Our Immaculate Lady of Victories, Clapham Common, half-muffled. on the following Monday evening and Thursday evening. the eve of the Requiem. The ringing included Grandsire Doubles and the 'whole pull and stand.' Those taking part were P. J. Hutchings (Master), T. J. Farmer (secretary), Miss M. E. Powell, E. J. Wall, S. Whitman, P. Somers. A. J. Clifford, J E. Twiggs and T. H. Taffender.
The Society were represented at the Solemn Requiem Mass, sung by the Bishop of Southwark, the Right Rev. C C. Cowderoy. D.D., in the presence of His Eminence Cardinal Bernard Griffin. Archhishop of Westminster, by the Master, Mr. P. J. Hutchings.

STANFORD-LE-HOPE. ESSEX. - On Dccember 16th, 1.260 Plain Bob Minor, with tenor covering: S. Bull 1, A. Recve 2, Joan Hills 3, H. Kenyon 4. Constance Chinnery (cond.) 5, A. Hammond 6. Peter Wright 8. Rung for the wedding of Guy Saunders. ringer and server at this church, to Miss Dorothy Tate, which took place at SI. James the Great. Bethnal Green. on the previous day.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD Farnham District

Special interest was taken in the Farnham District meeting at St. Michael's Church. Aldershot. on December 8 th, when the draft form of the Guild's revised service was used for the first time.
The Vicar of Aldershot (the Rev. A. L. E. Hoskyns-Abrahall) conducted the service assisted by the Rev. G. Phipps-Neap (curate), and the address was given by Canon G. L. Cole. Rector of Bentley. who is a ringing member.
Lady ringers and friends of St. Michael's prepared and served tea to 80 persons, and Mr. W. Shepherd (Addlestone) expressed the company's thanks to these ladies. He also thanked the Vicar of Aldershot, Canon Cole, the Rev. G. Phipps-Neap, Mr. G. Goodwin (organist) and the choir.
In the course of the business meeting Hannah Butter. an 11 -years-old recruit at St. Mary's, Frensham, was elected a member and welcomed to the meeting. The District officers were renominated to serye in 1952 with the exception of Mr. P. Eldridge, who has left the district. His place will be taken by Mr. W. Viggers.
Following the general business, a smaller meeting, composed of one representative from each of the District's 14 towers, discussed the past year's working and made proposals for operations in 1952. It was felt that the younger ringers should be encouraged to take over more responsibility and this is to be put into effect at future meetings and practices.

NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS

The Editor, the Editorial Staff, the Editorial Committee and Mr. J. E. Jeater extend their good wishes to all readers for 1952.
The wide measure of practical appreciation that has been evinced since "The Ringing World' faced its financial difficulties has convinced the Editor of the popularity of the journal and the strength and enthusiasm of the Exercise.
We have not yet reached the 1,000 postal mark of new subscribers; there is still time to send a subscription of $£ 1$ 2s. 6d. to Mr. J. E. Jeater, 11 Frankswood Avenue, Petts Wood, Kent, and enjoy the full benefits of being enrolled as a 1952 postal subscriber.

To those who send small donations with their peals and quarter peals we accord our special thanks. This additional source of revenue should enable us eventually to introduce improvements, notably in the field of illustrations. In the past few months these have only been used when contributors send a remittance to cover the cost.

Thus we enter upon 1952 full of confidence in the hope that the high tradition of British ringing will be fully maintained and the witness of the bells to the greater glory of God will add to the strenpth and vitality of His Church vitality of His Church.

NATIONAL GUILD OF POLICE RINGERS

Arrangements are now well in hand for the - Coming of Age celebration dinner of the Guild at Leicester on Saturday, January 26th, and it promises to be up to the usual Leicester standard. Many may remember that the Guild was founded in Leicester in 1931. It is hoped on this occasion to meet once again the many friends who have in the past been associated with the Guild annual meetings and also other ringers and friends interested in the Guild activitics. Every effort will be made to accommodate all who wish to come.
Ringing arrangements in Leicester will be adyertised later, and in addition peals outside Leicester are being arranged. Those interested should write, giving details of methods they are able to ring and whether able and willing to conduct. to Mr. C. Knight, 51, Oadby Road, Wigston Magna, Leicester, from whom tickets may be obtained (10s. 6d. each). Early application should be made, as no tickets may be obtained after Wednesday, January 16th.

HIS FIRST PEAL AT 69  DERBYSHIRE VICAR TELLS HIS STORY

BY LT.-COL. REV. R. J. MORRIS, D.S.O., VICAR OF MELBOURNE

IT must be some foul and a half years ago when I took up bellringing. driven, as I was by a strong urge to study the art of campanology and learn its mysteries in practice which. after all, is the way we learn our religion

I have learned quite a few things in 69 vears, but one of the most interesting to the hody, the mind, the spirit and the soul, is that of bellringing.
At my age, you do not see so well. You do not hear so clearly. Your brains and memory are certainly not too accurate. There is something else amiss. too. It is the power to keep still.
I have not, perhaps, found this quite so difficult. Maybe, my military training has helped me in this. To stand at ease for a considerable time, before coming to attention. to be inspected by a fighting general, is one thing. But to stand at ease (which is the position of the feet in a peal) for three hours is quite another thing. Try it. But try it in a peal and in a ringing chamber
I shall always remember the startling experience when I broke my first 'stay.
The maid at the vicarage was a learner at the same time, and what a promising pupil she was, too. How delightfully unselfish she was. I have rung up and down. and so must the Vicar ring up and down.' The Vicar did. But only up, while the ringing down process was so quick and unexpected that I was only half conscious of the rope leaping out of my hand and finding myself taking cover in the chancel and sceing the maid dashing up the nave: while my instructress was nonchalantly standing watching the rope dancing about like the devil in his glee.

FIRST PEAL.

Let me now come to my first peal, Stedman Triples. The dav and date. Saturday. December 8th, 1951. The tower. Melbourne. I was asked by my good friend. Mr. Francis Lowe, of the Derby Association of Bellringers, of which I have the honour to be a member, to ring the covering bell in a peal in my own tower.
I thought at first he might be pulling my leg. Not at all. He meant it. I wonder if Mr. Francis Lowe realises the power of faith I think he does. I have only one hope, that my answer was humble, and had in it the inspiring greatness of his faith in me.

I am most grateful to Mr...Francis Lowe in particular, and, indeed, to the other members of the Derby Association of Bellringers. who have been very helpful to me and my ringing learners. If we help each other in this way, we shall greatly advance the art of change bellringing to the glory of God.
But. of all my bellringing friends outside my own tower, let me mention a very distinguished ringer, Mr. Albert Ward. For 3! years now he has not only showered me with torrents of abuse and sarcasm of a forgotten age. both at practices and more restrainedly at every service. But, even so, let me place it on record that he has also shown a high regard to my person with that dignity that is worthy of the best traditions of the Exercise. He, of course, belongs to the old school, which, I believe, is now closed. At all events, I hope so. I shall never forget his loyalty to me.
Now come and have a pecp at my own ringers. Look at their ages. Mr. H. Hollingworth (84), of a renowned family of bellringers. He is our Master, and miy inspiration. We go down in ages now until we reach the hoys, the voungest of whom is eleven years of age. What a grand lot of boys they are. too.
Back again to December 8th, 1951. 'Look to, treble going and gonc.' 'Go, Stedman Triples.' We are eight ringers. Each ringer independent of each ringer and each ringer dependent upon each ringer. The individual and the team. No hope, no success without the individual spirit and the team spirit, the bride and bridegroom of the Exercise. This is what we mean by bellringing, and it goes back down the far distant ages of our long history and our ancient tradition.
I wonder now if I might be allowed to urge the clergy to take up and pursue the art and science of bell change ringing.
Of whatever age, you will not be too old. unless you are too old to dic. Bellringing will teach you not to be casual and slovenly in performing your offices. You will have no time to yawn in the midst of prayers. Bellringing will teach you to concentrate on what you are doing. You will learn afresh that God demands that your words start in open truths and come round and home in wider truths--the truth of your 'peal' to His command.

MUST RING TRUE

For myself, the more I ring, so the more I realise that everything I do and say must ring true. Faulty and halting words, like bad striking, are discordant sounds to the ears of our hearers. In learning to ring bells, too, you will find the right environment for laughter. It is danger.
Let me take you into a ringing chamber. Here you will most assuredly learn the saving yrace of humour. Our coats are off and 'Sally' waiting silently, and not so coy, for her revenge. The clown in the circus, and on the stage, and in the King's court, are for our entertainment and laughter. But for funny faces that split one's very side with laughter, I will show you in the ringing chamber Bellringers must be men of humble heart and spirit, and they are. How otherwise shall bellringers ring and hope their ringing may give comfort to a dying man. Our turn will doubtless come, and we only ask that God will grant us hearing enough to hear the muffled bells of our departing.

The dying change bellinger, however near to death he may be. will listen for good striking, and this will be his greatest solace and comfort at his end. It will be a new hope for his soul and, as his last breath leaves his body, his one last lingering desire will be to hear the bells come round and to know that another peal is won, both in fact and in truth. And, 1 think, his dying request will be-take my 'Sally', and treat her with that gentleness she so richly deserves, in spite of all her moods. Dying men do not ask questions. But I think they will ask just this one-has she not reminded all of us that God is not the God of the dead, but of the living?

MULTI-METHOD PEALS

Dear Sir,-Knowing how pressed you are for space, may I suggest that in future, when printing these multi-method peals, that you merely state a peal in 'say nineteen' methods has been rung, and for goodness sake cease to inflict all those queer names upon your humble readers. as they can have little meaning or interest to most of them.--Yours faithfully.

ALBERT E. LOCK
Abingdon, Berks.
Note.-We regard the name of the methods rung as cssential to the publication of the peal. -ED.

TREBLE TROUBLE AT MANCHESTER

Stephenson May Pull Off Manchester Treble

Royston trainer W. Stephenson, who saddled the Derby winner, Arctic Prince, has run up a sequence of successes with his hurdlers during the last six weeks. He may add to it at Manchester to-day, where he has excellent prospects of landing a treble with his recent purchase, Fill Gelt (Juvenile Hurdle), Tall Palm (Jupiter Handicap, Hurdle) and The Moke (Weaste Novices' Hurdle). - Daily Telegraph.'
Dear Sir,-The recent discovery of the document printed above throws new light on the question of ringing in Manchester at the close of the year 1951. The document, it is believed, is a fragment from the sporting page of a newspaper in circulation at that date. I would draw your attention to certain conclusions that can fairly definitely be stated.
Manchester ringers were clearly facing a serious problem over the handling of their light bells and had called in the veteran instructor, W. Stephenson, of the Hertford County Association, fresh from his recent success at Derby. Among the beginners at Manchester three were particularly fancied-Fill Gelt, Tall Palm and The Moke-interesting names. (In those days the term 'hurdler,' now obsolete in ringing terminology, evidently meant a beginner.)
However, 'landing a treble' is no easy operation. We know that novices (Weaste or otherwise) at the treble hunting stage are not infrequently 'too high' when coming down. and it may well have been thought that Tall Palm would have been handicapped by his failure to pull in his backstrokes. Exponents of the 'floating' backstroke in peals of Cambridge Minor are inclined to dispute this point.
Then there is the question of pulling off the treble. This, it may be thought, would not be difficult, but a ringer visiting Cassington on a certain occasion failed to pull off the tenor 'I'll try again next handstroke,' he gasped. So rounds were rung, back and hand, on the front five. and again the tenor man failed. I don't think it can be "up,"' he said.
Was this the cause of the trouble at Man-chester?-Yours faithfully, (REV.) ERIC B. WOOD.

Wilde Tenor }\end{array}$ Composed and Conducted by H. W. Wilde.
Believed to be the first peal of Major ever rung in this method.
[Some controversy arose over the naming of this now popular method, an extension of St. Simon's Doubles. The 1702 edition of 'Campanologia was cited in its favour, and the 1753 edition against. Mr. Henry Dains, however, quoted it as 'Reading Bob.' from a Doubles method published in 1668!]

RAILWAYMEN'S PEALS

Dear Sir,-Mr. F. J. Bailey, jun., has mentioned the railwaymen's peal at St . Woolos', Newport, on May 27th, 1925. There was another- 5,040 Grandsire Caters-in the same tower on June 6th, 1925, all the band being members of the Llandaft and Monmouth Association. The band was: F. J. Bailey 1, J. Bullen 2, C. Greedy 3, J. W. Jones 4, A. Pitman 5, L. Wright 6, A. Parnell 7, W. Phillips 8 , F. Chamberlain (cond.) 9, B. Weaver 10.

There were many railwaymen's peals at that time, but I think we were the first to 'kick-off.' Shortly afterwards I rang the tenor to a railwaymen's peal at my home tower, Marden, Herefordshire. This was a peal of Grandsire Doubles, arranged and conducted by J. P. Hyett. In this peal there were four signalmen.
There would be no difficulty in forming a Railway Guild. There are quite a few in the Llandaff and Monmouth Association and in Hereford. At one time there were a number in Swindon. So be a Wilfred Pickles and 'have a go !'-Yours sincerely,
B. WEAVER.

FOUR MINOR METHODS

Dear Sir,-Re railwaymen's peals, a peal in four Minor methods was rung at the Church of St. John, Cranford, Northants, for the Peterborough Diocesan Guild by six employees of the L.M.S. Railway on Saturday, July 14th, 1928.

SILENT PEALS

Dear Sir,-I think that Mr. William A. Theobald is right off his horse in his opinion on the very fine point of non-conducted or silent peals.

He states that 'the correction of trips is obviously as much conducting as the calling of bobs.' and 'I myself regard the correction of trips as conducting.' He also states that a nonconducted peal team should obey the strictest of rules.

But do they create their own rules? What are these rules he mentions? I think they still have to be properly and officially defined by the Central Council. If, according to Mr. Theobald's stipulation, the conducting of a peal demands that all trips are to be corrected by the conductor only, then I contend that many hundreds. if not thousands, of peals rung in the past should be immediately withdrawn, as no doubt these peals have been claimed as condueted, but just 'bob called.

Therefore, as we accept the publication of a peal 'conducted by so-and-so,' we must also be prepared to accept the publication of a complecely silent peal (no signs, etc.), or a peal rung with no particular ringer calling the bobs or singles. and in the same way accept the honour of truth by the peal band in question.Yours faithfully.

FRANCIS R, LOWE.

Dear Sir,-It is not usual for me to enter the realm of controversy, but I would like to comment on the leading article of December 14th by P. A. C.
There is much in the article which is commendable and desirable, and there are many towers where 'par excellence, in Sunday service ringing can, and should be, insisted upon.
In the writer's own tower, for instance-I think I have guessed his identity correctlythere is a band of very experienced ringers whose Sunday ringing should be beyond reproach in almost any method. In such towers the captain can afford to insist on good striking, etc., on a Sunday.

But my plea is for the less fortunate towers. What are they to do? A band, depleted in number, crying out for recruits, who are not easy to obtain; some willing learners, at a stage when they can just about manage to ring rounds and call changes, or at best ring the treble to a very short 'touch,' and who, unfortunately, cannot attend on practice nights, whatever arrangements one tries to make to accommodate them, on account of evening classes at school, etc. We cannot expect them to give up their evening classes for ringing practice.
Are these enthusiasts to be barred from ringing on Sunday owing to a 'no practice on a Sunday" rule, when the band is such that method ringing is possible? But when the band is depleted they are eagerly pressed into service on the vacant rope.

I have seen this 'fetish' in action, with the result that the once enthusiastic learner has become discouraged and disillusioned, and has eventually decided not to come any more.
Thus no advance has been made either in efficiency or numbers, and much teaching and patience wasted. Furthermore, more often than not, when the band is incomplete there is no ringing at all, neither practice night nor on Sunday, with the added grave risk of ringing ceasing altogether.
I am of the opinion, therefore, that we as ringers must 'cut our coat to suit the cloth,' and, however reluctant we may be to do so, relax our standards a little and accept some practice on Sunday-with discretion, of courseeven to the extent of accepting a little indifferent striking until we can afford to insist on a high standard with a competent band.
One does not expect this in our cathedrals. In fact, one does not expect our cathedrals to have raw recruits at all or inexperienced ringers.

There are many very competent ringers whose ambition is to become members of such bands, who are, after all, teams of experts without the difficulties of many lesser towers. -Yours, etc.,
A. GROVE, SEN.

Abbey Wood, S.E.2.

CHRISTMAS BROADCAST

Dear Sir,-Hearty congratulations to our callchange friends at North Tawton, Devon, for giving us such a magnificent example of perfect striking on Christmas Day. Every bell could be heard clearly and distinctly, and the striking of 1 and 2 behind, with the tenor covering, was a joy to listen to.
When broadcasting, a lot depends on where the microphone is placed, and it appears that in most cases, especially where 10 and 12 bells are concerned, this instrument is placed too close to the bells

Personally I fecl that to get a really good reception eight bells are sufficient and answer the purpose required quite sufficiently.-Yours sincerely, Betchworth.

SUNDAY RINGING AND SERVICES

Dear Sir,-In a recent issue of 'The Ringing World' we had a very good article on the subject of Sunday ringing. In a recent 'Daily Telegraph' appeared a report of some friction between a band of ringers and the clergy in a parish in Derbyshire. Whilst some 'high' church clergy are doubtless prone to be somewhat dictatorial, your contributor, P. A. C., a ringer, points out that bellringing exists for the benefit of the church, and not vice versa.
Are there in the Exercise two kinds of ringers, namely, (a) peal ringers and (b) Sunday ringers, with peal ringers as the dominant group? Is there good striking at practices and meetings, in addition to the numerous peals for which considerable space is given in 'The Ringing World, with corresponding poor striking in Sunday ringing, because the 'spivs' are more interested in ringing as a hobby than as a form of church work?

It would be a good thing if the ringers amongst themselves could agree upon a code, as a guide to self-imposed conduct, not only in regard to attending services but also to bring home $\mathbf{P}$. A. C.'s point that Sunday ringing is not just another practice. Such a code could be drafted by the Central Council and given publicity in 'The Ringing World.' I know you have a set of model rules for bands of ringers, but that is not the same as a code affecting the Exercise as a whole.-Yours faithfully,

Hull, Yorks.

YOUNG CAPTAINS OF TOWERS

Dear Sir,-I have no great wish to publicise myself or my brother, tut I felt I could not let Mr. Roger Savory's challenge pass unanswered.
At the age of 19 my brother, Mr. Peter N . White, was asked by the Vicar to form a new band of ringers as the previous band had gradually faded out. All of our present band were taught by my brother, with, admittedly, a little help from our Newark friends. At 21, Peter was called up, my other brother and myself carrying on until he, too, at 18, had to go in the Forces. I am the present captain. only temporarily, maybe, but I'm not yet 17 .
I might add that I have another brother, younger than myself, also a ringer, and tho oldest member of our band is 20 .-Yours sincerely,

> B. N. WHITE (Miss).

Balderton, Notts.

DEDICATIONS IN FOUR COUNTIES

SILSOE, BEDS
It was with pride that the residents of Silsoe heard their bells ring out merrily on Saturday, December 8th. after the dedication by the Archdeacon of Bedford, the Ven. D; B. Harris, of the new treble a d five old bells. In just under two years they had raised to within $£ 20$ of the necessary $£ 800$. (The outstanding amount was cleared on the Saturday with the collection and proceeds of a dance held that evening.)
A public meeting was first held in January, 1950, at which time they had $£ 200$ in hand. Since then there has been an unceasing campaign to raise money in addition to donations paign ored from the Bell Fund, local Sports Clubs, British Legion, etc.. the usual dances, whist drives and draws have been held; they have been carol singing and handbell ringing at Christmastide; organised a gymkhana and horse show and revived the old Silsoe Fair (originally held annually on May 13tb; they now hope to raise a further $£ 52$ to complete the job ' by replacing the chimes.
The church was filled for the joyful and im. pressive service, conducted by the Vicar. During the first hymn, 'Come let us join our cheerful songs,' the procession of Bell Fund Committee, choir, visiting clergy, churchwardens, Rural Dean, servers, Archdeacon and Vicar moved to their places. The first lesson was read by the Vicar of Maulden and the second by the Rural Dean; this was followed by the anthem, 'God is a Spirit.' beautifully sung, unacompanied, by the choir. The procession then proceeded to the tower during the singing of the hymn, 'All people that on earth do dwell.' where, following their dedication, the bells were immediately rung in rounds by the following members of the local band:-A. Martin. F. Bunker, J. Scott, T. Allen, C. White and S. Stapleton.

BELLS 'TALK'

The hymn 'Now thank we all our God' preceded the Archdeacon's address for which he took as his text "Above it stond the seraphims: each one had six wings.' He reminded his hearers that bells 'talk ' cven to non-ringers, and it is an honour to be able to help them to do this. Among his many quotations, etc.. of six syllables, he stressed mostly 'Lov'st thou Me more than these?' "Praise my soul the King of Heaven, made a most fitting ending to the service. The local band rang rounds immediately afterwards and were soon joined by the many visiting ringers who were only too eager to have a ring and also inspect the bells, which were kept going to a variety of methods, standard up to Spliced Surprise (not forgetting rounds for the learners) until quite late in the evening.
The large gathering of parishioners and vist-ors assembled in the Village Hall for tea after tors assembled in the Village Hall for tea after which, before the company adjourned to their homes or the ringing chamber. the Vicar expressed his apprectation and gratitude to all who made this act of dedication possible and asked the Archdeacon to present tokens of appreciation to the chairman. secretary and treasurer for their untiring efforts.
The old bells, which were in an oak frame, have been turned, had entirely new fittings including new clappers, and been rehung (with new bell) in an iron frame by Messis John Taylor and Co. who. all present agreed, have completed a very good and neat job.

Originally there were two bells (the present fourth and fifth) cast by Warner ir 1857. a further bell (the present tenor-weight $6 \frac{\mathrm{cwt} \text {.) }}{}$ also cast by Warner, was added in 1887 on the occasion of Qucen Victoria's Jubilee and two trebles were added in 1926 in memory of Richard and Mary Eve: these were cast by Alfred Bowell. of Ipswich. The new treble is inscribed. 'With my sound will 1 praise Him. Restoration of the peal 1951. This treble was added through the zeal and energy of the Bell Fund Restoration Committee and many friends; A. J. Woodward, chairman; T. P. Harris, secretary; E. J. Baigent, treasurer; J. Adams, Vicar.'
Silsoe had only a stoney band but now, under the able tuition of Mr. T. Harris, has a very keen band of young ringers who are aiming to establish a change-ringing band (one has already rung his first quarter) and we wish them all every success.

ROTHWELL, YORKS

The Ven. C. O. Ellison, Archdeacon of Leeds and president of the Yorkshire Association, rededicated the bells of Holy Trinity Church, Rothwell, on December 8th. The bells have been recast and rehung in a new frame by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.
Evensong was conducted by the Vicar (Canon F. E. Mercer), and during the singing of the hymn after the Third Collect a procession was formed consisting of the verger, ringers, choir, architect, representatives of the founders, churchwardens, Vicar and Archdeacon. This proceeded to the base of the tower, and the ringers only mounted into the ringing chamber. After the dedication the bells were rung in rounds for one minute by eight members of the local band. An address was given by the Archdeacon.

After the service the bells were open to visiting ringers until 5 p.m., when about one hundred sat down to tea in the Parish Hall. The Vicar gave a welcome to all present and thanked thern for coming in spite of the inclement weather. The Archdeacon voiced the thanks of the company to all concerned in the arrangements, particularly the ladies who looked after the tea. He was ably supported by the chairman of the District Council, Cclr. Phillips, and Mr. J. P. Fidler. Mr. Hemming, of Evesham. expressed to the Vicar, churchwardens and local ringers the thanks of the visitors. The bells were then open again for the visiting ringers and were lowered at 9 p.m. The founders were represented by Mr. J. P. Fidler, and are to be congratulated on turning out another fine ring. The weight of the new tenor is 15 cwt. 21 lb . The second bell was given by the local ringers.

HISTORY OF THE BELLS.

There were three bells at Rothwell in the 18th century, but when they were installed has not yet been discovered. In 1836 six bells were ordered from Taylor's, of Oxford, and allowance made for the metal in the three old bells. These were opened on January 29th, 1837. In 1838 two trebles were added to complete the octave, and these did good scrvice until the present scheme was launched. The old bell frame was unsafe and so was the floor of the bell chamber. The bells had lost all their tone and were out of tunc. A new floor has been put in and the stonework rebuilt at the set-off level of the new frame. A new iron frame has been erected, mounted on steel girders, and all the fittings are new. So now all hope that the verse on the tenor will be true for another century.

TUNSTALL, SUFFOLK

Sunday, December 9th, was a red-letter day in the little village of Tunstall, mear Woodbridge, Suffolk, when the six bells were rededicated by the Archdeacon of Suffolk and witnessed by a large congregation, including many leading ringers of Suffolk and Essex.
In his address the Venerable C. O. George congratulated the Rector and parishioners of Tunstall on the recent work completed on the church and bells, and he reminded the congregation of the uses of bells and the imfortant work of the ringers.
The Rector, the Rev. J: Milton Thompson, thanked all those who had been connected with the work, specially mentioning Mr. A. P. Cannon, who represented Gillett and Johnston, and the Blaxhall ringers, who rang the opening rounds, and who had voluntecered to teach a local band.
It was only last vear that it was discovered the bell frame and all fittings were in the last stages of decay. An appeal was immediately made to raise the necessary funds. Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have retuned the bells and supplied a new iron and steel frame and all new fittings, and Tunstall is now in possession of a first-rate ring with a tenor of $7 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. in the key of A flat. All ringers present expressed their delight at the wonderful transformation the bellfounders had made, and Mr . Cannon received on behalf of his firm many congratulatory messages.

GOLDHANGER, ESSEX

The dedication of the new tenor bell and rededication of the existing ring of six took place at the Parish Church of St. Peter, Goldhanger, on December 15th, the ceremony being performed by the Archdeacon of Southend, the Ven. E. N. Gowing.

There was a large congregation, including ringers from Borcham, Broomficld, Betchworth (Surrey). Colchester, Danbury, Feering, Kelvedon, Great Baddow, Great Totham and Maldon.
A touch (three leads) was rung by the local band immediately after the dedication, and after service a 360 of Cambridge Surprise Minor was rung by the following: H. B. Gardner (Stock) 1. H. J. Mansfield (Maldon) 2, A. H. Everett (Boreham) 3. H. Stebbings (Burnham-on-Crouch) 4, H. Bradley (Broomfield) 5, A. Patrick Cannon (Betchworth) 6.
There was also quite a lot of good ringing during the evening, including a touch of Grandsire Triples.

The tower has now eleven bells and a frame ready for a new treble when it can be afforded. First of all, however, the parish has to meet an expensive job on the tower and a new heating apparatus.

LIGHTEST RING OF SIX

What is believed to be lightest ring of six in the country has been supplied to Mr. C. O. S. Jarvis, of Home Farm, Balscote, near Banbury, by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Ltd.

The tenor is $17 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{in}$. in diameter and weighs 1 cwt .28 lb ., and the treble is $11 \frac{3}{2} \mathrm{in}$. in diameter and weighs $1 \mathrm{qr} .10 \mathrm{lb} .$, and the total weight of the ring only 4 cwt .1 qr .21 lb .

Mr. Jarvis himself constructed the framework at his farm and carried out the hanging at the site. Although so small, it is perfectly practicable to ring these bells with all the clappers going up on the right side without serious difficulties.

OBITUARY

Mr. WILLIAM EDWARDS

The Dunster Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association has lost one of its oldest members by the passing, on December 16th. of Mr. William Edwards, of Old Cleeve, aged 72 years.
For about 50 years Mr. Edwards had rung at St. Andrew's Church, Old Cleeve, being for 30 years towerkeeper. A devoted servant of the church, he succeeded his father as clerk and sexton, an office that was also held by his grandfather, Popularly knowr as 'William the Third, he gave freely of his labour far beyond his official duties and was ever ready to help someone.

Mr. Edwards leaves a widow but no children, he having marricd about 12 years ago. He was the last of the Edwards family who had maintained a sequence of 200 years' faithful service to St. Andrew's Church, and it can be truly said of him that he was a true servant of his Master.

MR. G. H. HUXLEY

With regret we record the passing of Mr. G. H. Huxley, for over sixty years a ringer at SS.
Peter and Paul's, Bromley. Kent. He died on Peter and Paul's, Bromley. Kent. He died on December 19th, just three weeks after the death of his wife, after fifty-seven years of married life. They were both in their 87 th year.

Mr. Huxley learned to ring at Bromiey as a lad. and was a member of the Bromley Youths throughout his young ringing life, and deputy leader for many years. He was a good ringer in the standard methods until handicapped by increasing deafness, which in later years became total.
Since the destruction of the old bells he had done little ringing, but he managed to ascend the restored tower upon the dedication of the new ring in September last, but did not feel up to having a pull although pressed to do so. He was a most useful member, always ready to do repairs, making bookcases. bell cases. etc., all of which unfortunately perished in the bombing of the church.

Mr. Huxley was a member of the College Youths for 48 years and of the Kent County Association for about the same period. He rang in 44 peals and conducted quite a number of quarter peals of Grandsire.

The funeral was on December 22nd in the London Road Cemetery, the Vicar of Bromley officiating. The mourners were his two daughters with their hushands: Mr. I. Emery and Mr . J. Lyddiard, representing the College Youths, with Mr. E. Mounter, Mr. G. Kite and Mr. H. Knight representing the Kent County Association and the Bromley Youths collectively. May he rest in peace.

MR. H. G. MILES

We regret to report the death of Mr. H. G. Miles, a trustee of the Ancient Society of College Youths, on December 16 th. Cremation was at Mortlake on December 21st.

A talented ringer and composer, Mr. Miles was born at Much Hadham, and was for many years connected with St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington.
We hope to publish a memoir at an early date.

LEADERSHIP

THE recent leading article by P. A. C. regarding Sunday service ringing reminds the writer of the first tower to which he had the privilege to become attached. It was that of the Church of St. Paul, Burton-on-Trent, the ringers of which had made ringing history in the ' 80 's and ' 90 's. The conductor of that band had been dead two years when Joseph Griffin gave the writer his first lesson in rope handling. As a boy of 16 , he was much impressed by what he found in the ringing chamber. What William Wakley had left behind made its presence felt. Every Sunday morning Pitstow's 408 of Stedman was rung, finishing within a few seconds of 10.25 . Then the ringers descended the tower and took their places in the choir, at the altar, or in the ringers' seat. The evening ringing was much the same. Two courses of the Surprise method then being practised were rung before 6 o'clock, and shortly after the quiet 'Now, chaps,' of the late Edward Isaac Stone sent the ringers to their ropes again to ring 408 of Stedman Triples for service. E. I. Stone followed the late W. Wakley in the captaincy. The younger members of the band always addressed him as Mr . Stone, as they had a tremendous respect for him, not only as a first-class ringer, but for his sterling character and utter reliability.

One could attribute this state of affairs to several factors; a faithful priest in the shape of the Rev. J. J. G. Stockley, as he was then; the pride in the prestige of the band; or that indefinable quality, leadership, which was possessed by the Wakley family. The four of them that we knew were men of dynamic character and of singleness of purpose. It is probable that the last of these factors was the chief cause of that ideal state of Sunday service ringing. A further reminiscence may not be out of place here. The break up of the band was tragic, and due to no controllable causes. World War I. took its toll of the band. Three died through war service, one of the older members died, another removed from the town, and when those of the band who had fought overseas returned, no fewer than four of them had to leave the town to take up work in other places far removed from the home tower. A few years ago, however, it-was apparent that the spirit of William Wakley and his contemporaries was returning to the tower. There was then a new band with a capable and enthusiastic leader.

It has been said that it is hard, almost impossible perhaps, to define the quality of leadership. So it is, but it is not so difficult to describe some of the qualities which make up a good leader. Obviously, he must know his job, and he must be at least the equal, as far as ringing ability is concerned, of those whom he leads. It is impossible to lead by pushing behind. He must show by example what he expects. He must insist on the best being produced if it be only rounds. It follows, then, that he should be able to recognise rounds when he hears it. So many are quite content if the bells strike roughly clear of one another, and are utterly incapable of appreciating that almost perfect accuracy in bell placing as was exemplified on Christmas morning from Birmingham and North Tawton.

A good leader should also know Church law as applied to ringers. It is so easy for a leader to assume powers to which he has no right. There is the example of a famous Gloucestershire ringer who quarrelled with his association, and indeed formed a separate district guild. He took to himself the right to give permission for peal attempts. Possibly his incumbent had delegated the right to him, in which case it was an unwise thing to do. One could get permission from him to attempt a peal there, but he always laid down the condition that the peal should be rung for any association but the one for which it ought to have been rung. He was a good churchman and in most respects a lovable man, but one always felt uncomfortable in the tower.

He should, too, be something of a psychologist. He should criticise. That is one of his jobs. If he is a good enough ringer, his criticisms are generally accepted with good grace, but, even so, his strictures should be made in a kindly manner. If he can do this without showing annoyance at the man who has been told many times about a particular fault, and who resents criticism, and still persists in going his own way, then he has one of the qualities which go to make a leader, and that is infinite patience. Ringing is so much a co-operative effort that ringers feel that Jack is as good as his master; anyway they are doing their best, so that the discipline in a belfry is of a different character from the discipline of the choir, and a good leader knows this and acts accordingly.
He should insist on properly reverent behaviour in the tower, and he should have the courage to recite the belfry prayer before all occasions of ringing. The atmosphere in towers where this is carried out is perceptibly better than in those towers where it is not done. He should have the power to breed punctuality in those who are inherently unpunctual. Constantly he should see to it that his ringers are ever aware of the character of their work, so that their ringing is never divorced from its primary character of service. If he should make a mistake, in whatever the branch of his duties, he should be able to acknowledge his error, openly and with good grace. On the other hand, if he makes a decision which he wholeheartedly believes to be right, he should stand by that decision. In that way he can gain the respect and loyalty of those whom he leads, so that they will follow him as he takes them to better standards of ringing and service.

There have been great leaders in the past; there are good leaders to-day. Some may excel in one branch of the art, while others by their selfless devotion inspire others to greater efforts. These men are of the salt of the earth and can truly call themselves leaders, not that they would make any such claim.

TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.
We offer our apology to a limited number of new postal subscribers who did not receive their copies last Friday morning. These were attended to as soon as possible. Pressure of work on Mr. Jeater and the Editorial staff at Guildford has been very heavy.

The bells of SS. Peter and Paul's, Lavenham, have been rung for every Sunday service during 1951. The total number of changes rung was 55,940 , comprising 480 Minor, 11,939 Grandsire and 14,573 Stedman Triples, 9.904 Plain Bob, 5.444 Double Norwich, 13,152 Kent and Oxford Treble Bob and 448 Superlative. Any other good records in this direction?

Mr. Daniel T. Matkin and Mrs. F. J. Marshallsay rang their 300th peal together at Bournemouth, on December 20th.

Mr. Ernest Morris and Mr, F. Watson have now twice 'completed the circle' at Croft tower, Leicestershire.

After 15 attempts Mr. Maurice J. Butler. of Southampton, and Mr. Arthur W. J. Butler, of London, have rung their first peal together.
The second 5,040 Cambridge Surprise Maximus was rung at Macclesfield on Boxing Day. The first was rung at Ipswich about 20 years ago.
Errata.-In the peal of 5,040 Minor rung at Blaxhall, Suffolk, on December 8th (see page 821), the method should read: An extent each of St. Clement's, Double Court, Oxford Treble Bob and two extents each of Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob. The error is regretted.

The Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, of Kington Magna, is still receiving practical sympathy over the plague of mice at his church. although the pests have been exterminated by the County Rodent Officer. Four traps and cheese have arrived from America, the gift of the Bishop of Montana.

Mr. G. A. Blaxcell, now 61 years old, cycled from his home at Stowupland to lpswich to ring St. Clement's tenor to a peal on Boxing Day, He afterwards cycled to Brandeston to ring the tenor there to a peal, and then home-a total of 50 miles. An example to the Roving Ringers !

GOSSIP

 discussions was in process ast Friday morning when the Universities Association were in town. Unfortunately for the travelling public the argument took place on the pavement opposite a zebra crossing. The disputants were eventually brought back to more mundane things by the blare of frantic taxicab horns. In front of them the traffic had pilcd ${ }^{\text {up }}$ waiting for the august pedestrians to proceed. It was indeed a Superlative Surprise to some who might have been a little woolly headed on visiting the Metropolis.Mr. John Sansom was welcomed back from Egypt at the annual meeting of the Winchester District last Saturday.
The band who rang the peal of Grandsire Caters at St. Mary's. Southampion, on December 29th, are very grateful to Mr. Harry Buckingham, who slood in at four hours' notice.

Some good work was accomplished by Mr. Frederick A. Rye at Walmer, Kent, on December 22 nd when six of the local band rang their first peal of Triples.
Mr. L. J. Malings, who rings at Porthkerry, and is welfare supervisor to the Aberthaw and Bristol Channel Portland Cement Co., Ltd., in the course of his duties edits the works magazine. The December issue contains an interesting article from the editor's pen on ringing, written specially for the non-ringer.

Mr. Frank Oakshott. of Downsview, Lewins Road, Epsom, is compiling a record of all peals rung at Christ Church, Epsom. The bells were opened in 1880 and he asks ringers for full particulars of peals rung in the tower. The following Associations have rung peals at Christ Church:-The Surrey Association, Guildford Diocesan Guild, the Middlesex County Association, the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Universities Association.

UNIVERSITIES ASSOCIATION REUNION DINNER

IMPORTANCE OF SOCIAL SIDE OF RINGING

THERE are two main dates in the year of the Universities Association the winter reunion and the ringing week. This year's reunion took place last Friday in London. Proceedings started with ringing at St. John's-atHackney, followed by St. Mary's, Walthamstow, St. John-the-Baptist's, Leytonstone, and finally at St. Giles-in-the-Fields. At the last-named church the service was held, being conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. C. Taylor) who also gave the address. The Rev. Gilbert Thurlow was organist and the lesson was read by the president (Mr. E. H. Lewis).

The evening concluded with a dinner at 'The Victoria.' The president was in the chair, supported by Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher (hon. secretary) and guests included Mr. J. G. A. Prior (Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mr. G. A. Cross (Master of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths) and Mr. A. A. Hughes. Others present included the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead. the Rev. K. C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs.
P. L. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Corby, Mr. and Mrs. Ansley Fox,

The Misses Maric R. Cross, Anne Stockdale, Mary C. Paync, Elizabeth Brown, Frances Edgar, Mary Martin. Kathleen Higgins, Joyce Lewis. Messrs. A. York-Bramble, C. Woolley E. J. Lindley, D. N. and P. A. Layton, Michael Howard, Richard Speed, - Payne, R. Clouston, R. J. Cook and brother, R J. Stokes, F. D. Mack. Brian D. Threlfall, Rodncy B. Mcadows, P. Wright, F. Wright. G. F. Carter, G. W. Sim-

David Gallop and the Editor of 'The Ringing World.' After the toast of The King and The Church,' submitted by the president. Mr. T. W. White gave the toast of "The Universities Association.' He recalled that his first contact with the Universities Association was at the Central Council meeting at Birmingham in 1945 . before, he became cditor of -The Ringing World.' It was a memorable occasion in the history of the Association. Affiliation to the Central Council had not been gained without combating considerable opposition but there was no question as to the warmth of the welcome when Miss Maric R. Cross. as the Association's first member of the Council, mounted the platform to be received by the president of the Council. Since those davs the Association had progressed and it seemed to him now that wherever there was a seat of learning and three or four could gather together to ring handbells a cell was started which developed into a useful adjunct in interesting others in their art. Those cells were not conlimed to this country. There was quite an enthusiastic !ittle hody at Adelaide University which had affiliated, and with Mr. and Mrs. Phile Gray now at Melbourne, it was possible that a development would take place at that University. In that connection it was a pleasure to welcome two Australian graduates in Tom Richards, of Oucensland ${ }^{\prime}$ 'niversity. who was a pupil of Philip Gray, and Arthur Pulford.
The Universities Association was particularly fortunate in its secretary, Dr. Hatcher. His cnthusiasm and hard work had resulted in a constant expansion and it was with great pleasure that he coupled Dr. Hatcher's name with the toast

290 ACTIVE MEMBERS

In reply Dr. Hatcher said they had, during the year, elected 45 new members from 13 Universities or University Collezes which brought the total number of members who had joined the Association to 382. Of these, 290 were on the active list. Next year they would undertake their (riennial revision. In connection with that function he had circularised the 290 and he was very gratified to receive 180 replies which gave an indication of their interest in the Association. Many of those included Christmas cards and greetings; he was sorry his own stock of cards did not permit of replies to all.
That night ten Universitics and one University College were represented. The ringing week at Bristol was a great success. They were guests of the University of Bristol Society and he would like to pay tribute to them and to the representative of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, their member, Mr. Joe Dyke, and also to the Gloucester and' Bristol Diocesan Association for their help

RINGING AT MELBOURNE

Last year at that gathering they had with them Philip and Joan Gray who afterwards went to Australia. He read a letter which he had received from them sending their good wishes to the Association. At Melbourne Mr. Gray regretted that they had not in their company a member of the University. In a week or two the band would be strengthened by the arrival of Valerie Willard, from Leighton Buzzard. Their band had about mastered Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob and had a two-hours' practice night each week. In the course of his work he flew to Adelaide and had contacted Philip Cooper.
Returning to home affairs Dr. Hatcher offered his congratulations to members of the Manchester University Guild, seven of whom had joined the Association in August and two more were for election that night. They were making remarkably good progress and had recently scored a peal of Bob Royal 'in hand.
There were a number of University Association members in Birmingham and he hoped they would get together and form a Society there. It should not present difficulties with Wilfrid Moreton and Frank Haynes to support them. He welcomed member; of the Leicester University College and was pleased to announce that they were electing that night their first member from, Southampton University. At St. Andrew's, Donald Marshall was hoping in due course to form an association to be recognised by the University. However, 20 members were required. Last year the University of North Staffordshire came into being and he noted that the first member was at Keel Hall.
The toast of 'Kindred Socicties, was proposed by the president. who said now he was retired he found there was a good deal more to do than one imagined. He was rash enough to say earlier in the past year that he would have 60 more hours a week leisure, but that had not proved the case. In the first place the chairman of his company had been kind enough to ask him to keep his seat on the Board which involved three days a month in London.

ACT AS MISSIONARIES

The Kindred Societies were really the same people as themselves and he asked members of the Universities Association to contact Kindred Societies. They were in a unique position as they had no tower to which they were attached. therefore they were in the hands of the Kindred Societies for their ringing and they owed them a great debt of gratitude. There was one way they could repay that gratitude and that was by giving their fullest support to the towers in their own districts. There were many areas where ringing was not satisfactory. He heard of a district in Surrey where out of nine eight-bell towers only two had regular ringing. In Kent he heard of a certain district where no help was given by the Kent Countr Association because the district was inaccessible. Consequently he appealed to all members of the Universities Association to go out as missionaries and get ringing started again in those bad districts.
In coupling the name of the Master of the Ancient Socicty of College Youths with the toast, Nir. Lewis mentioned that it was nearly 49 years since he first joined the Society.
Mr. J. G. A. Prior, in reply, said they in London were delighted to meet University ringers. He had a very happy association with the London University Society in 1933-34 when he was a District secretary of the London Counties Association. The Universities ${ }^{\text {S }}$ headquarters was then All Hallows'. Lombard Strcet. Mr. Lewis had mentioned work they could do as missionaries, but in London there were many bells that were never rung.

The toast of 'The Visitors ' was proposed by Mr. Tom Richards, who spoke in appreciation of the way he had been received by English ringers. Of the 15 ringers in Melbourne, he said, 12 were Englishmen.

SOCIAL SIDE OF RINGING

Mr. A. A. Hughes in responding, emphasised the importance of the social side of ringing-in fact all good College Youths and a good many Cumberlands would tell them that the social side of ringing was most imnortant and they should know because they had done it for a very long time. In the 18 th century, dinners of the College Youths were of 12 to 15 courses and, looking at an old menu, he noticed that one of the courses was a leg of mutton stuffed with herrings. It was nearly 50 years ago that he rang his first 5.000 changes. His mind went back to a South Coast resort he visited frequently after the 1914-18 war. He used to attend practice meetings at three of the towers but the ringers, when they came down from the tower, said 'Goodnight' and disappeared. He said to his father-in-law. 'Don't they ever go and have a drink?' and he replied 'I supposc they go on their own. At the next practice he asked them if they ever had a drink. They admitted they did. He then asked them whether they could not go altogether and talk it over. They did, and from that time the ringing began to improve tremendously. His experience was that in the majority of cases where the social side was strong the ringing was good, but where there was no social side there was no progress.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting followed. The secretary presented the financial statement which showed that the year started with a balance of $£ 13$ 7 s . 6 d . and concluded with one of $£ 913 \mathrm{~s} .4 \mathrm{~d}$.

The following 31 new members from 12 Universities were elected:-Birmingham: John $R$ Mayne, R. Roger Savory; Bristol: P. Meriel L Moir, Barbara J. Nix-James, Jeanette A. Rose: James G. Brocklehurst, A. James Vincent : Cambridge: Mary Buxton, Daphne Turk, C. M. P. Johnson, F. Fric Roberts J. G. Taylor, Christopher Billington (resident Melbourne) ; Dublin: Adrian Bakker and one other; Leicester: Mary C. Payne, John D. Cook. Barry Cope, James Schofield; Loughborough College: D. S. Harris: London: Sally Brown (Wye), Mary Fuller, A. Blair; Manchester: Brian Harris, Wilfred L. Robinson: Oxford: R. J. Cork, John David Mozley; Qucensland: Thomas E. Richards: Southampton U.C.: John H. Gilbert; Sydney: Arthur Pulford, John B. Willis (also London, residen: Melbourne).

The cecretary announced that the ringing week for 1952 would be at Nottingham between August 15 th and 23 rd. A satisfactory number of members had expressed iheir hope to be present. Next year's annual dinner would be held in London on January 2nd.

Mr. E. J. Lindley proposed a vote of thanks to the secretary for running the Society and to Mr. Denis Layton who hal made arraragements for the London dinner.

Mr. David Gallop thanked the captains of the towers visited for having everything in readiness, the Rector of St. Giles for conducting the service, and the president for taking the chair.

TELEVISED AT LEEDS PARISH CHURCH

The above picture shows the ringers who took part in the ringing for the first televised church service, which came from Leeds Parish Church, on October 14 th, as part of the inaugural programme from the new northern transmitter at Holme Moss, Yorkshire. Reading from left to right they are as follows:-

Middle row.-H. R. Parkinson, A. Cole, J. F. Hodson, H. Rollison, L. Boumphrey.

Seated.-Miss M. S. Rhodes, R. H. Dove, the Vicar of Leeds (Canon A. S. Reeve), L Drake, Mrs. F. Seager.

The programme gave much pleasure both to ringers and non-ringers, many of whom have expressed appreciation at the demonstration of the bells in action. Although a number of ringers were able to watch the programme, no doubt the hour of the showing, 6.30 on a Sunday evening, prevented more from doing so.

Viewers saw a three-minute introductory film sequence consisting of the city as seen from the top of the University tower, a 'still' of the Parish Church, and half-minute 'shots' each of the ringers at work and the bells in motion.

For technical reasons the film was taken a month before the broadcast but the sound of the bells was a "live' broadcast of actual Sunday service ringing by the regular service band.

The ringing was clearly audible during the entire film sequence as a course of Grandsire Cinques came home and then bells rang round: and then stood. The ringers were as follows:
H. Rollison, treble, H. R. Parkinson 2, R. H. Dove 3, Miss M. S. Rhodes 4, Mrs. F. Seager 5, A. Cole 6, L. Boumphrey 7, J. F. Hodson 8, F. Seager 9, J. Hogg 10, L.' Drake $11, \mathrm{~F}$. Gibbard, tenor, and in the film, the same band but with T. W. Thirkell and I. Slack in place of H. Rollison and L. Boumphrey.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Western District at Liversedge

The winter meeting of the Western Division of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers was held at Christ Church, Liversedge, on December 15th. This church is one of the few in the area which contains a crypt and was founded by the Rev. Hammond Roberson, who was a friend of the Brontes. He also ordered that all gravestones were to be the same size, which they are in this churchyard.

An excellent tea was served by the local company. Mr. P. J. Johnson occupied the chair at the business meeting and the next meeting was arranged for Brighouse during March.

Although the number present was a little disappointing, some good ringing took place on this fine ring of bells.

Three Peals of Loxidon Surprise Major in Three Counties in One Day

Twice before in ringing history this feat has been accomplished by one set of ringers. The third occasion was on Saturday, December 15 th, by eight members of the Midland Counties Guild

The counties were Staffordshire. Derbyshire and Leicestershire, and the band included representatives of thes a counties. All three peals were conducted by Mr. F. W. Grocott and in each case it was the first peal of London on the bells.
Arrangements for the attempt were made by Mr. J. W. Cotton, who, with his Morris "ten" and Mr. Walter G. Soar, of Ticknall, with his Austin, provided the transport.

It was a case of early rising for the whole team assembled on the massive western tower of Barton-under-Needwood, Staffs, at 9.10 a.m. They were welcomed by the local captain who wished them success in the venture Ringing conditions in this tower are ideal ; the tone and "go' of the bells, the circle of ropes, plenty of room and last, but perhaps most important, plenty of air as the ringing room opens to the church.

No incidents occurred during the peal, except perhaps Joe's bell needed a little more handling owing to the absence of the rope guide. The conductor had the pleasure of saying 'That's all' in two minutes under three hours. Before leaving 'Uncle Joe' called and thanked the Vicar for the use of the bells.

A 20 -mile trip brought the band to Measham, in Leicestershire. Here conditions are not ideal as the ringers stand elbow to elbow. It was not until after the third start that the band got into form, this being attributed to direct opposite rope sight. The peal was 20 minutes quicker than that at Barton.

The final peal was at Overseal. the home tower of the genial general secretary of the Midland Counties Guild. With ' Young Fred 'on 'Matthew, the band had this merry peal going well (the lightness of the ring has to be tried to be believed). The peal was accomplished in 2 hours and 34 minutes. It was certainly a memorable hirthday for "Uncle Joe"

The members of the band were. Frederick E. Wilshaw, Frederick W. Grocolt (Stoke-onTrent), Francis R Lowe. Harold Taylor (Derby). Sidney H. Jones (Redton), Walter G. Soar (Ticknall). Joseph William Cotton (Overseal) and W. P. Whitehead (Hinckley).

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Mr. and Mrs. Lilley's Hospitality

A number of members of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild of Ringers held a very enjoyable half-day excursion on Boxing Day. Leaving Newton Abbot soon after two o'clock the first calling place was Coombe-inTeignhead where there is a well-kept church and where the name of the patron saint is totally unknown. Despite rather stiff ropes some very good ringing took place to suit all tastes, the finishing touch being a well-struck course of Kent Treble Bob Minor.

The next tower visited was Stoke-in-Teignhead where a delay occurred owing to the clock hammer being left on the tenor bell and the mechanism took some time to master. The difficulty having been overcome a couple of touches sufficed, and a move was made to Bishopsteignton, the last calling place for the afternoon.

The ringing having concluded, a move was made to Perry Farm, Highweek, where, at the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lilley, a sumptuous tea was much enjoyed. After various ringing topics had been discussed, handbell ringing was indulged in for the remainder of the evening. The members expressed their great appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Lilley for their very kind hospitality.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LANCASHIRE HOSPITALITY

Dear Sir,-The Wigan Branch of the Lancashire Association is very much perturbed about the poor welcome afforded to the Guildford ringers on their visit to Lancashire

On behalf of the Wigan Branch let me hasten to explain that this is not the general feeling of the ringers here. I think you will agree that Lancashire has long been noted for its hospitality in all ways and we in the Exercise wish to carry on with the good name. Therefore I think I am voicing the opinion of the whole of the ringing fraternity when I say we have always done and will continue to extend a very cordial welcome to any ringers who care to pay us a visit.

At the Wigan Branch meeting held recently it was unanimously resolved that this letter be sent to 'The Ringing World 'and so show to the whole ringing fraternity that they san be assured of a very hearty welcome to any te:wer in the Wigan Branch. I trust that this will help to clear any wrong impression which may have been formed about the Lancashire Associa-tion,-Yours faithfully.
W. O. FARRIMOND
Branch Secretary.

Note.-The Guildford ringers in question thank the Wigan Branch for their fraternal greetings and sympathy. Although they did not ring they felt they were present on a memorable occasion. They know that Lancashise hearts ring true in matters of hospitality.-ED.

PEALS FOR SERVICE

Dear Sir.-In reference to Mr. Macey*s letter of December 14th. I can bear out his statement on the two peals for divine service, and as far as I can recollect we rang two 720's for the 11 o'clock service
At that time the local band, of which I was the leader, at Tunstall. always made it the rule to meet an hour before each service and, if possible, to ring two 720 s at each service. or attempt them. Of course, we were not always successful, but on that particular Surday ue were, and altogether rang 16720 's.
I should like to know. through :The Finging World. if that is a record for Sunday service ringing. There were four or five of us wfo were in the choir and attended most of the services afterwards.-Yours sincerely.

RINGING IN SYDNEY

Dear Sir,-Your issuc of September 14th icprints a letter received in 1911 from Mr. Arthur E. Barnes, of Melbourne, in which he mentions the lack of enthusiasm for change ringing in Melbourne at that time and concludes with: 'I am afraid that this country will be like America-never a centre of change ringing.

Apparently Mr. Barnes had little knowledge or contact with ringing in Sydney at that period.

I came to Sydney in 1911-on February 6thand found vigorous and enthusiastic bands of change ringers at St. Mark's and St. Mary's, and an excellent band of call change ringers at All Saints', Parramatta, and St. Jude's, Randwick.

As public opinion was against lengthy peal ringing-as, unfortunately, it still is with us al Turramurra-few peals were rung but 720 's and quarters were frejuently rung on practice nights and for Sunday evening service.
St. Mark's rang several Doubles methods and two or three Minor methods. St. Mary's, having eight bells, was the rendezvous for Grandsire. Stedman Triples and Bob Major.
The standard of ringing was high and most of the ringers attended two practices a week and rang for two services on Sundays.

In 1914 the ringers were strengthened by the arrival of Mr. A. R. Botting, of Betchworth, and Mr. C. Parr, of Ilfracumbe, who are still ringing regularly at Parramatta and Turramurra. St. Mary's tower was ably captained by Mr. R. H. McDonald-formerly of Birminghamsupported by his son, 'Ted,' also Mr. Harry Chown and a good band of ringers.

St. Mark's belfry was fortunate in having such able ringers as Mr. Tom Joyner (captain) and his son, Ralph: Mr. Archie Joyner and his son, Alfred: Mr. Charlie Porter and a number of other excellent ringers.

These men gave me a wonderful welcome when I came to Sydney in 1911. Most of them have 'finished the course" and been 'gathered to their fathers.'

Mr. Ralph Joyner and myself are the only two active change ringers who were ringing in Sydney in 1911.-Yours sincerely.

CAROLS ON EIGHT BELLS

Dear Sir,-In reply to your correspondent who wishes to know of carols that can be played on eight handbells, I hope the following list will be of some use. I have presumed that melodies of cirols proper to Advent, Christmastide and Epiphany are required and that the bells form one octave of a major scale.

The following abbreviations are used:$\mathbf{O}=\mathbf{O x f o r d}$ Book of Carols; $\mathbf{N}=$ "News Chronicle' 'Christmastide Melodies '; $\mathrm{S}=$ Songs of Praise: * Can be played on six bells.

A Sunny Bank' (a version of 'I saw three ships ').-O 3.
${ }^{1}$ A Virgin most pure .-1st tune $N$ page 48 ; 2nd tune 4 (second tune).

God rest you merry.'- 11 (not the wellknown tune which unfortunately cannot be played on eight bells).

The First Nowell.--O 27 ; N page 28; S 384.

- This new Christmas carol.--O 29*.

The Angel Gab iel. O 37: N page 16.
This endris night.-- 0 39: S 72.
Cherry Tree carol. - 066 (tune 7 in appendix).

A child is born in Bethlehem. - 073.
A little child. - O 74 : S $352^{*}$.
A boy was born in Bethlehem. - O 85 (tune ${ }^{\text {P }}$ Puer Natus, S 91*).
"In Bethlehem, that fair city."-O 120 (tune Puer Natus.' S 91*).

Sion's daughter.--O 89*
'How mightly gleams.'- $\mathbf{O}$ 104: N page 47; S 90.

Carol of the Advent. - O 133.
Earthly friends.- - O 135*
I sing the birth ' (words O 168) - N page 17.
'Infant so gentle.'-Novello's Carols No. 110
The following four carols are made playable on eight bells by a few minor alterations which do not greatly affect the shape of the tune:-

Irish carol.-O 6

- The garden of Jesus.- O 105*
"Angels, from the realms. - O 119, S 71, in which, at several points. the raising of the dominant to an octave above written pitch has the desired effect, and

A little child there is yborn.'-O 118, where an upper auxiliary note can be substituted for a lower at two of the cadences.
This list does not claim to be exhaustive in any way, but all the suitable tunes in the ' Ox ford Book of Carols ' have been given. In addition there are a few carols in the Cowley Carol Book (to say nothing of Novello's edition of carols, one of which has been mentioned) which could be played on eight bells, but, generally speaking. the carol tunes in this collection are unsuitable for such performance, as they are mostly modal or based on plainsong. - Yours faithfully, K. W. MACKINTOSH.

Wistaston, Cheshire.
Dear Sir,-Re the enquiry 'What carols can be played on eight handbells?' Answer: Hardly any, assuming those eight hells are belfry handbells, key note being the tenor, for the purpose of change ringing.

By transposing the key. the carols ', First Nowell ' and 'While shepherds watched, tune Ancient and Modern 62, might be played

If the key note is in the centre of any tune, it simply can't be rung.

HANDBELL TUNE RINGER.

I also wish to compliment Mr. John P. Fidler on his interesting account of the history of Spliced Minor ringing.-Yours faithfully.

IRREGULAR METHODS

Dear $\operatorname{Sir}$,-Since the report of the proceedings of the Central Council meeting at Chester on Whit Tuesday last year, published in your columns on May 25 th, June 1st and June 8th, 1951, I have read with growing interest the correspondence which has arisen from this report, particularly on the subject of irregular methods, and I am now of the opinion that there is in many ringers' minds a sense of confusion as to what may or may not be rung in peals in order to secure recognition by the Central Council; or, what is more important, by the Associations for whom the peals are rung. I am further of the opinion that much of this state of affairs is due to the unbusinesslike way in which the Council conducts its affairs.

Let us consider for a moment the ringing structure of to-day. The Central Council makes the rules and the Associations in membership promise loyally to abide by these rules. But the people who want to know these rules are the rank and file all over the country who have no direct voice in the affairs of the Council but are expected to obey the rules. The rules are published in the Central Council's Handbook, now in the course of revision, but how many towers have ever seen a copy of it, and. dare I ask it, how many Association or Guild Secretaries? If the Central Council is to take arbitrary action over Irregular methods, is there not a duty laid upon it to see that every ringer in membership with an affiliated Association has access to its rules? Probably this duty should be shared by the Associations also. The actual rules could be extracted from the Handbook and reprinted in pamphlet form at small cost for distribution to towers.

Now 'The Ringing World' is described as the official journal of the Central Council. but one would not gather that the best use is being made of this judging by the sequence of has happened?-
(a) A report of the proceedings was published on May 25th. June 1st and June 8th, but please note that this was not the official minutes of the Council; they will not be published until 1952 is well established Yet the minutes are the only authority and I submit that they ought to be published at the earliest opportunity so that every reader of 'The Ringing World, knows exactly where he is. I note, for instance, that the report of the work of the Methods Committec on page 331 (May 25th), although moved and seconded, does not appear to have been adopted. Are we to assume that it was accepted? Most ringers have, judging by the resulting correspondence. If the official minutes had been published we should know for certain.
(b) The leading article of June 1 st was incorrect and was put right a fortnight later by Mr. C. K. Lewis. As a reader of the "Times, I have a wholesome respect for leading articles and would like to put 'The Ringing World ' - leaders ' on the same plane
(c) In spite of the correspondence which had been going on since the reports of the proctedings, May 25 th-June 8th, the amended decisions of the Council were not published until October 26 th. On November 9 th one decision was amended by Mr. E. A. Barnett, and another by Mr. C. K. Lewis on December 7th. If the official minutes had been published at an carly official minutes had been published at an date this would have been avoided. This procrastination might possibly have led to irregularitics through ignorance.
(d) Most of the questions put in 'The Ringing World, have heen answered by Mr. C. K. Lewis. Whilst I have the greatest respect for Mr. Lewis's oninions. are they to be regarded as authoritative? I should have thought that the secretary to the Council would have been the voice of authority. since presumably he is responsible for the minutes. This I ably he is responsible for the minutes. This If the Council wishes other members to have authority officially to answer questions, it should say so. Remember the answers and questions are in the official journal of the Council.
The 'leader' of June Ist focused attention on unorthodox performances, some of which were pointed out by Mr. Lewis and by Mr. W. Ayre on August 17 th. Mr. Lewis also wrote a ' leader' on this subject on October 19th, and drew attention to the fact that the Central Council's own publication, 'The Collection of Doubles and Minor, contained two such irregular methods. Mr. Lewis warned us on December 7th that the Analysis Committee would probably ban peals containing Reverse Canterbury Pleasurc, but how can they in all equity when the Council which appoints them encourages the ringing of the method? Even Mr . Lewis himself, on June 15 th, wonders whether Plain Bob on odd numbers should not be classed as unorthodox. How lucky for him that he is not a member of the committee faced with having to make a recommendation on the matter !
I find much truth and common sense in Mr. H. Chant's letter of December 21st, and I think the whole question of so-called irregular lead heads should be re-examined. In 5 -, 6 - or 7 -bell methods all the changes have to bc rung in a peal so why is it vitally necessary to have Plain Bob lead heads? Has the Council made any pronouncement on the spiicing of regular and irregular methods? If an irregular method will splice, then surely it has a value and should not be lightly cast aside.
I hope the Analysis Committee will, in compiling its, report, take note of the points I have made, and finally I would ask all members of the Central Council to consider what is the very root and being of all our ringing. We ring to the greater glory of God, nothing more nor less. This demands from us all perfection in striking and mental skill and the result is measured by the music issuing from our towers. In the face of this is it so frightfully important that all the methods should have Plain Bob lead heads. and will irregular methods. even though perfectly rung, be unacceptable to our Heavenly Father?-Yours sincerely.

DEDICATIONS  MEMBURY, DEVON

Fifty years ago, when the Rev. E. V. Cox (or Mr. Cox, as he was then) attended a dedication service at Membury, Devon, he was accorpanied by Mr Jack Bond, of Stockland Mr. H. Stokes, of Woodbury, had rehung the five bells in a timber frame with a space for a sixth bell. On Sunday. December 23rd, he again came to Membury, to assist the Bishop of Crediton and the Vicar, the Rev. C. J. F. Huggins. at the dedication of the new treble bell to fill the vacant pit and complete the ring to six. On his way over, he met Mr. Bond while passing through Stockland, and thus, by a happy coincidence, established a $!0$ -year-old link with the past.
The captain of the local ringers, Mr. J. Denslow, was particularly delighted, as he had worked hard to raise the money for the augmentation, to satisfy a lifelong ambition.
The work of restoration was carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston and the new bell weighed $6 \frac{1}{4} \mathrm{cwt}$. with a tenor of 15 cwt . The old timber frame, being in splendid condition. was preserved, and the bells tuned and rehung in ball bearings. Everyone present seemed very pleased with the work, both tone and 'go' being excellent. The firm was represented by Mr. A. Patrick Cannon, with Mrs. Cannon.
Visiting ringers were present from Axminster, Stockland, Sidbury, Awliscombe. Churchstanton and Wellington (Somerset), including Mr. W. G. Gigg, of Taunton, who was born at Membury

HAILSHAM, SUSSEX

For centuries the small town of Hailsham has been noted for the curfew which was, until the last war, rung every day at 8 p.m. on the tenor bell.
However, of the ring of eight bells, the three trebles of which were added to commemorate Queen Victoria's Jubilee, little good could be said of them. They had a !ong draught of rope ( 70 feet) and the ropes were much too thick (the sally of a new rope was generally about eight or nine inches in diamater !). The three trebles each only weighed 3 cwt. approximately and it was small wonder that visitors rang them with great difficulty. The bells were very odd struck, the foutth being cracked and they were altogether far from being a pleasant ring.

Though Hailsham has never had a really first-class band, the local ringers were aware of all the difficulties and about two years ago. just after the neighbouring village bells of Hellingly were pronounced unsafe for further ringing. a scheme was started for the restoration of the Parish Church bells. This was ably led by the Vicar's churchwarden, Mr. A. N. Matthews, who is himself a ringer, and Mr. F. Blackman.

Over $£ 700$ had to be raised and Sunday, December 23 rd, saw the result of this great effiort with the rededication of the bells by the Ven. E. G. Reid, Archdeacon of Hastings.

The bells were first rung during the service by the following local ringers:-G. Gadd 1, E. E. Breed 2, F. Blackman 3, A. N. Matthews 4, R. Gadd 5, J. Beeny 6 , M. Puttock 7, W. Crocker 8.
The restoration consisted of the four trehles being recast and the back four re-turned. The old oak frame, still in perfect order, is still in use, but the wheels, headstocks, clappers, bearings, etc., are new. A new set of orthodox ropes has been provided and the 'result is a first-class ring of bells.
The work has been ably carried out by John Taylor and Co.
The weights, etc., of the bells are as follows:
Treble.-Weight 3 cwt. 2 qr. 4 lb ., note G, founder Taylor, year 1951
Second. -3 cwt. 2 qr. 16 lb ., F sharp, Taylor, 1951
Third. -3 cwt .2 qr. $23 \mathrm{lb} .$. E, Taylor, 1951.
Fourth. $4 \mathrm{cwt} .23 \mathrm{ib} ., \mathrm{D}$. Taylor. 1951
Fifth. 4 cwt. 2 qr. $12 \mathrm{lb} . . \mathrm{C}$, Hodson. 1663. Sixth.-5 cwt. 2 qr. 3 lb ., B, Lester and Pack. 1768.

Seventh $-7 \mathrm{cwt} .15 \mathrm{lb}, \mathrm{A}$, Hodson, 1663.
Tenor.-9 cwt. 2 qr. $5^{\mathrm{lb}} \mathrm{lb}$, G, Hodson, $16 \mathrm{~K}^{\circ} 3$. F. H. H.

CLAYWORTH, NOTTS

The dedication of two new trebles added to the existing ring of four (tenor nine cwt.) and the unveiling of a memorial tablet to Major Michael Hugh Laycock. M.C. and Captain George Arthur Jones (Notts Sherwood Yeomanry). who were both killed in action on June 1ith. 1944, took place at St. Peter's Church. Clayworth, on Thursday, December 20th.
The ceremony was performed and the service conducted by the Right Rev. Anthony Otter, Bishop of Grantham. assisted by the Rev. C. D. F. Waters, Rector of Clayworth.

In performing the ceremony, the Bishop was handed the two new bell ropes by the churchwardens and then passed on to the tablet. The two bells were then chimed by the local ringers. Immediately after the service six members of the North Notts District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild rang the opening touch of Plain Bob. The bells were kept going to various methods until seven p.m. and the visiting ringers entertained to tea at Royston Manor
The bells have bsen presented to the church as a memorial by Brig.-Gen. Sir Joseph Laycock, K.C.M.B., D.S.O., and Lady Laycock.
The work has been carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, and this fine ring of six is well worthy of their already impeccable name.

BELLS OF ST. BRIDE'S

Fragments Found of Famous Ring
Widespread interest has been aroused by the finding of portions of the bells of St. Bride's, London, in a room at the south-east corner of the church, the entrance to which was blocked by large pieces of stone and the timbers of a door.
When the church was destroyed by fire during an air raid on December 29th. 1940, the bells crashed down from the steeple. It was believed that Prebendary Arthur Taylor, the former Vicar, buried the broken bells among the ruins to ensure their safety, but he died last year without revealing where they were hidden.
The original bells were cast in 1710 by Abraham Rudhall, of Gloucester, for Wren's new church, which replaced the old building destroyed in the Great Fire in 1666 . They passed a critical audition by three ringers and eight other persons when they were first hung in 1711. Nine of these bells were still in the steeple at the time of the fire in 1940.
The tenor bell weighed 26 cwt . and was inscribed 'A.R. 1710.' The eleventh bell weighed 20 cwt . and was inscribed with the names of the churchwardens and the motto 'Prosperity to England.' The ninth bell bore, the motto 'Prosperity to our benefactors,' and the eighth, God Save Church and and the eighth, God Save Church and the treble $5 \frac{3}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$., and both were inscribed - Prosperity to our benefactors, A.R. 1719 ${ }^{\circ}$ -having been placed in the stceple at a later date. The fifth and sixth bells were recast in 1736 by Samuel Knight, of Holborn. As the 1736 by Samuel Knight, of Holborn. As the tion is visible, but the metal is much corroded. The present Vicar is the Rev. Cyril M. Armitage. The restoration appeal. aiming at a total of $£ 210,000$, was launched last November, and it is hoped that work will be started next year

LIGHTEST HANGING RING IN THE WORLD

Last week we published details of the lightest ring of bells in the world which Mr. C. O. S. Jarvis, of Home Farm. Balscote, near Banhury, Oxon, has had installed.
On December 29th Mr. Jarvis han a bell warming party at which a number of ringers were invited to try out the bells and to receive hospitable entertainment from Mrs. Jarvis.

The bells are hung in an outhouse, just outside the kitchen door, and everyone present was delighted with them. After a few pulls it was quite easy to control them. The total weight of this ring of six is only 4 cwt . 1 qr . 21 lb ., with a tenor of 1 cwt . 22 lb . (and not as printed last week), and a treble of 38 lb
During the evening 1.080 Grandsire Doubles was rung by the following:-F. Sharp (conductor) 1. E. E. Pearson 2. F. M. Stretton 3, H. H. Alexander 4 A P. Cannon 5. C. Jarvis 6. ## Harold Pailing Memorial Fund

Dear Sir.-The Fund has now reached $£ 131$ 3s. and it is proposed to close it on 31st instant.
Widespread sympathy has been extended to Mrs. Pailing and her two young sons and contributions have poured in from all parts of the country. This in itself speaks very eloquently of the brotherhood existing in the Exercise.
There is still time for last-minute donations which can be sent to me as one of the joint treasurers.

The tragedy at Daybrook was shocking, but in a small measure we are given the opportunity of relieving some of the widow's anxiety, and at the same time paying a tribute to the memory of a fine young man
I append a supplementary lisk of subscribers. -Yours faithfully.

RINGERS AND THE CHURCH

THE ringers' ' strike ' at Swanwick, Derbyshire, of which many will have read in the newspapers, brings to the forefront once again the vexed question of whether or not a ringer is under an obligation to attend the service for which he has just rung. Most clergymen, no doubt, and many ringers also, will sympathise with the view of the Vicar that all ringers should normally attend the service after ringing; most ringers, surely, will maintain that their obligation to do so is no greater than that of any other parishioner who has been baptised and brought up as a member of the Church of England. Certainly only a very small minority would go so far as to insist that a ringer should be obliged to attend every service for which he rings, while most will support the Swanwick ringers in questioning the right of the parson to make such attendance a condition of membership of his ringing band.

Nevertheless, most of us would think little of a parson who did not express a desire that his ringers should go to church with at least some regularity; most of us, indeed, although we may be reluctant to confess it, admire those ringers who do attend service regularly. We realise that if they attend two services it means that they give up practically their whole day, a fact that some clergymen may overlook. For in many cases to travel, to ring, to attend service and then to journey home again will occupy $3 \frac{1}{2}$ to 4 hours, and with a repeat performance in the afternoon not much of the 'day of rest' will remain.

The whole question arises because of the two-fold nature of bellringing, which is at once a sporting recreation and a form of service to the Church. And the wise parson and the wise ringer alike will recognise that each aspect of bellringing reacts upon the other to their mutual advantage. Most of us take up ringing and almost all of us continue to go ringing, not because we feel an ardent desire to serve the Church, but because we find ringing a fascinating hobby and wish to make progress in our art. But at the same time, since almost all our bells hang in church towers, we should never forget that it is only ' by kind permission of the Church ' that we are allowed to ring at all, and that whenever we ring we are also willy-nilly rendering a service to the Church. Likewise the wise parson will encourage his ringers, irrespective of their attendance at divine service, to practise their art, since the bells undoubtedly do remind the people around that the Church does still exist. The thoughts of one or two, especially at Easter and Christmas, may be turned to certain events of about 2,000 years ago; very occasionally some may even be tempted to venture inside the sacred building, although it is becoming less and less true to say that the primary purpose of the bells is to call the people to worship. Naturally the ringing of the bells is a convenient indication that a service will shortly take place, but, except in our country villages, there must be hundreds of churches to-day where only a handful if any of the congregation live within earshot of the bells.

In some respects the position of the ringers is comparable to that of the members of the choir. Many choristers, if they are honest, will admit that they belong to the choir primarily not because of their love of the Church, but because they enjoy singing and love music. In other words, the singing of many a choirman is as much his hobby and recreation as ringing is the bell-ringer's. But it is only proper to add that both choirman and bell-ringer should feel some pride and satisfaction that as they are enjoying themselves they are also serving the Church or, as the Vicar of Swanwick himself puts it, taking part in an act of worship.

One difference between a choir and a band of ringers should perhaps be pointed out-in most churches a wouldbe member of the choir has to reach a certain standard before he is accepted, but in far too many belfries people are allowed to ring for Sunday service before they are capable of doing so properly. The resulting noise tends rather to bring the Church into disrepute than to inspire any feeling of respect or veneration. Curiously enough, too, with a few notable exceptions, the most devout of churchmen seem to make very poor ringers!

Our first duty as ringers, surely, is to see that the sounds we send forth are worthy of the great institution we serve. And even if we are not obliged to do so, and indeed feel a strong objection to any compulsion in the matter, could not more of us look upon it as a pleasant courtesy occasionally to go inside and listen in turn to those who have been listening to us? Or could we not say that while excessive religious devotion should never become a detriment to our campanological progress, yet our preoccupation with the practical and theoretical development of our art should not be allowed entirely to blind us to its religious associations?
F. E. H.

BELFRY

 ham he has made many friends. His enthusiasm for ringing and his skill as a heavy bell handler have become well known throughout the county. Now he has been posted abroad and a farewell peal was rung at Moorside, Oldham, on December 15 th . This peal enabled two 15 -year-olds, both of whom he had taught to ring, to score their first peal.Mr. H. W. Howard, of Northwich, Cheshire, rang three peals while on holiday in Gloucestershire. He thanks all who helped to make his holiday enjoyable.

St. Peter's. Belgrave, Leicester, rang 720 Cambridge Surprise Minor as a farewell to 1951 and the same band rang 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor as a welcome to 1952

Mr. B. Challen, of Shoreham-by-Sea, with 67 years of experience as a ringer, has been re-elected leader of the St. Mary-de-Haura handbell ringers.

Mr . Joseph Burgess, of Greenfield, near Oldham, writes disagreeing with the conclusions arrived at by the Central Council in regard to proposed competitive ringing at Butlin's Camps. He writes: 'I am a competitive ringer and have gloried in it, for I have heard something in those bells which I truthfully hold and realise.' He also writes congratulating Mr. H. Chant on his letter on irregular performances.
The bells of St. James' Church, Sutton-onHull, were dismantled early last year by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. and fitted with new bearings and are now in fine trim. The bells were ringing again by St. James' Day (July 25th). All the ringers in the peal of Minor recorded in this issue are local Sunday service ringers except L. Rodmell who rang here for 50 years before going to Patrington a few years ago.

GOSSIP

Superiative Surprise Major on the Loughborough Foundry bells for December 29th had to be cancelled on account of three members of the proposed band being prevented from attending. Mr. F. W. Grocott, who was to have called the peal, writes: "Anyone who wishes to ring the composition may do so, and has my very best wishes.'
The bells of St. Mary the Great, Cambridge, were rung in a peal in two years (1951-52). The peal of Grandsire Caters came round at 12.20 a.m.

The peal of London Surprise Minor at Metheringham was rung on Friday, December 7th. and not December 1st.

The peal of Grandsire Triples at Sherborne Abbey, on December 29th, was to have been Plain Bob Major, but owing to the late running of trains it was found that if Major was rung one of the band would miss his last train. A change was made to Grandsire Triples, with Mr. G. J. Hawkins, of Bath, conducting Parker's One Part at literally a minute's notice.
The peal at Frindsbury, Kent, on December 27th, 1951, was complimentary to four generations. It was arranged primarily in honour of the 88 th birthday of Mrs. F. Jarrett, mother of the ringers of 1 and 2 . and grandmother of the ringers of 3 and 4 . It was also rung for the 32 nd wedding anniversary of the conductor and Mrs. V. A. Jarrett, and birthday compliments to Mrs. M. Y. Reader and Ronald Reader. daughter and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Jarrett, and as a compliment to Miss Giadys K. Jarrett on her engagement to Mr. Leslie Pickles. Mr. C. C. Bishop, who has been a peal ringer since 1908--he was one of Mr. W. H. B. Wilkins' band who were the first to ring 'four peals in a day '-scored his first on eight with this peal.

LEADING PEAL RINGERS OF 1951

Unbeknown to each other there was a neck and neck race to be the leading peal ringer in 1951. The honour goes to Mr. Harold J. Poole, of Leicester, with a total of $107 . \mathrm{Mr}$. George E. Fearn, of Birmingham, who headed the list in 1950, has scored 105, one less than his total last year. Mr. Poole gained the honour in 1949 with the stupendous total of 143. and Mr. G. E. Fearn was the leader in 1948 with 108.
Mr . Poole was also the leading conductor having called 79 peals, followed by Mr. Nolan Golden, of Norwich, who bad conducted 53 peals.

Mrs. F. J. Marshallsay, of Bournemouth, with 52 peals, is the leading lady, but 41 of her peals were 'in ha 1d.' Mrs. H.' J. Poole had the excellent total of 51 peals, all rung on tower bells, followed closely by her daughter, Mrs. P. J. Staniforth, with 47. Congratulations to two other ladies-Miss Margaret A. Swann, of Lincoln, with 44 . and Miss Winifred M. Burton, of Leiccster, with 42 .

The figures in parentheses denote peals conducted.

ST. MARTIN'S, SALISBURY

Condition of Spire Silences Bells

The condition of the spire of St. Martin's Church has been carefully considered and to do all that is necessary to make it safe for many years will cost, it is estimated, $£ 4,000$, which is a sum far beyond the resources of the Fabric Fund.

Writing on the matter in the January parish magazine the Rector, the Rev. A. D. F. McKenzie, says:-
' It may be possible to do the work in easy stages as and when money is available to meet the cost, but the difficulty of that plan is that the first stage-the demolition and rebuilding of the top 26 feet-is the most costly, and the other work would be more expensive if it was not done at the same time.
'One thing is clear, the bells cannot be rung while the spire is in its present state. We might have to take off 26 feet, seal off the opening, and leave it like that until there is money in hand to rebuild, but there are technical difficulties in that plan, too, and it would not be pleasant to look at. All aspects of the situation are being weighed with great care ; but this is a heavy blow.'

HUDDERSFIELD DISTRICT SOCIETY

The annual meeting held at Huddersfield Parish Church on January 5th was very successful. Although some of our members were missing, we were grateful for the help given by visitors from outside the area, especially in $10-$ bell compass. Methods fung ranged from Minor to Royal, so that everyone had a pull.

It is encouraging to see Grandsire, Stedman, Norwich and other simple methods attempted in an area which through the ycars has been a Treble Bob stronghold.

The short service was conducted iointly by Canon Woods. Vicar of Huddersfield, and the president, the Rev. A. L. Minns. In the absence of the president and vice-president at the business mecting, the chair was taken by the Ringing Master.

The secretary gave a short review of the past year's working. Meetings, he said, were held every two months and were fairly well attended. Membership stood at 49 and the financial position was sound. Quite a lot had been accomplished but much remained to be tackled. All officers were re-elected with the exception of two committee men. Mr. Gaine and Mr. Rogers were voted to the committee.

There was very little opportunity for handbells, but some members managed to stay behind for this after the tower bells were lowered at 8.30 , so closing the prcceedings. A.W.B.

TRIPLES ON EXETER'S BACK EIGHT

Last Saturday a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the back eight at Exeter Cathedral in 3 hours and 52 minutes. We join the Exercise in congratulating Mr. Frank Harris and his band on this fine achievement of heavy-bell ringing.

REOPENING OF QUEX PARK BELLS

In its picturesque setting, Quex Park, Birchington, was the scenc of an interesting ceremony on January 5th. The occasion was the reopening of the ring of twelve bells after rehanging, with the recasting of the front four bells.
Members of the Quex Park Ringing Society, together with a few friends, met in the tower and were received by the present owner, Mr. Christopher Powell-Cotton. Also present in the tower were Mr. J. Graham (agent). Mr. A. A. Hughes, representing Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, Mr. B. J. Luck, representing the Kent County Association, and two members of the old band, Mr. T. Wilson, now resident at Brentwood, and Mr. A H. Sayer, Canterbury, whose first visit to Quex was as a lad, 71 years ago.
Mr. J. A. Russell, captain of the Society, welcomed the ringers to the tower and spoke of the history of the bells.
Mr. Luck spoke of the long connection between the late Major P. H. G. Powell-Cotton and the Association as a life member, and the link that was broken by his death had now been renewed by his son, who had become a member. The connection between the Whitechapel Bell Foundry and the tower was referred to by Mr. A. A. Hughes.

Mr. C. Powell-Cotton then formally declared the tower open, and the twelve bells were rung in rounds. Ringing was then carried on in various methods.
There were there, however, ringers for whom the Natural History Museum, attached to the Mansion, held more attraction and they were shown over by Mr. Powell-Cotton, who explained the various exhibits, proving himself a most excellent guide.
Tea was held in The Bungalow Hotel. and after an enjoyable meal the members retired to the lounge for their annual business meeting. Mr . Powell-Cotton and Mr. Graham were reelected president and vice-president respectively. Mr. Russell was re-elected captain and Miss Reid secretary. Mr H Luck was also elected as vice-captain, and 'Ted ' Milstead as steeplekeeper

Following these picasant proceedings the ringers then clambered on to the lorry to be conveyed back to the tower where they were suitably 'piped aboard' by 'A.B.' Russell. Further ringing was held in the tower and during the evening the bells were well toasted in the normal fashion. A hanpy evening soon passed and at ten o'clock it was once more aboard and back to the Square to eatch buses.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World' of January 19th, 1912

IN MEMORIAM

Thomas Reynolds. of Birminglam during his career of thirty odd years [he] had rung no fewer than 98 twelve-bell peals on tower bells, of which huge total 83 were Stedman Cinques (his favourite method). At first he did a bit of tenor ringing only, being in great demand when there was a tough job on hand. Such a man could not for long be content with this, but so exclusive was the St . Martin's Society of that day that when he had even rung the tenor to the [then record] peak of Stedman Cinques $(9,238)$ on February 28th, 1881, and expressed a wish to ring inside. he was told he had "better go somewhere and get some practice first. as they could not be bothered with learners at St. Martin's"!
[Despite this treatment. Mr. Reynolds rang 305 peals, including four which were record lengths at the time -9.238 and 11.111 Stedman Cinques at Birmingham. 9,020 Grandsire, Cinques and 15.227 Grandsire Caters at Cheltenham in 1889.]

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH

 GUILDThe Parish Church of Fulham, All Saints', stands on the north side of the Thames and has one of the finest towers in Middlesex, built in 1440. Far more famous than the tower, though, are the bells, which are a very pleasant ring of ten.
In 1549 there were five 'great belles and a lyttell bell in the steple and threc hand belles.' which latter were subsequently sold. In 1650 four of the bells were rehung by Robert Turner, who also during the Civil War, rehung the second bell - over throwne by the soldiers. In 1652 the old bells were recast by Bryan Eldridge of Chertsey, and it was probably at this time that the bells were made up to a ring of six.
There is a story attached to this recasting, in which Eldridge, when the churchwarden paid him for his work, said that he had lost the paper showing that it had been done, and so the churchwarden overlooked the receipt. Later Eldridge produced it and demanded io be paid, taking the matter to court, where the Linfortunate warden had to pay again.
By 1728 the six old bells had become very dilapidated. The tenor was broken, another bell cracked, and the rest out of tune. So, in 1729, these six were recast by Abraham Rudhall, of Gloucester, and two more were added, making a ring of eight. The bells were brought back to Fulham in a barge, which sank near the church. but the bells were recovered and rehung amidst great celebrations. Several professors of music attended the ringing, which was followed by a party in the 'King's Arms,' and everyone agreed they were a fine ring.

In 1746 a Mr. Theodore Ecclestone, of Mortlake, gave two more bells, which had to be recast to fit in with the eight, the work being done by Robert Catjin. In 1760 Mr . Ecclestone's two bells were exchanged for two from Rudhall's, one of which had been recast in 1759, thus making the present ring of ten bells. whose weights, notes and inscriptions are as follows :-Treble.-Note, G. sharp. Total weight. -88 cwt .2 qr. 14 lb .
The back six are the old oncs, 3 and 4 were added in 1729. and 1 and 2 were exchanged in 1760 . In 1908 the Whitechapel Bell Foundry quarter-turned and rehung the bells with new wheels and ropes. at the same time as the tower was being repaired. and on October 4th the tower and bells were rededicated by the Bishop of London. In 1950 Gillett and Johnston gave the bells and beil frame a complete overhaul, and they were rededicated on July 9 th by the Bishop of Kensington.
Since thie early part of the 18 th century peals have been rung at Fulham. the first recorded one being Bob Major in 1730 by the College Youths, and some are worthy of mention here: the first peal of Caters and the first peal of Royal hy the Sussex Association: alsn of Stedman Caters and of Oxford Treble Boh Royal by the Essex Association: the first pcal of Bob Royal by the Kent County Association, and the first peal of London Surprise Major rung in London, performed by the Midland Counties Association and the St. Paul's Society, Burton-on-Trent, in May, 1888 ; the first peal of Royal by a band of the same Christian name (William); the first peal of Union Triples ever rung, being performed in three hours and 6 minutes by the College Youths in 1733; also three long peals, i.e., 10,080 Bob Major in 6 hours 40 minutes, by the Society of Fulham Youths in January, 1735; 10,098 Grandsire Caters in 6 hours 53 minutes by the College Youths in March, 1762 ; and 12,096 Grandsire Caters in 7 hours 50 minutes by the St. James' Socicty in May, 1837. Other methods rung to peals in Fulham tower include Old Double Caters, Tittum 10 in, and Double Norwich Court Bob Major.
Fulham has its own Association-the All Saints', Fulbam. Association of Bellringers, founded on Michaelmas Day, 1871, by the Vicar, the Rev. F. H. Fisher, who conducted the Association's first peal in 1879. Since then the Association has rung about 150 peals, mainly Grandsire and Stedman, including a peal for the opening of the Festival of Britain, 1951, and one for the close; Fulham being the only tower to do this.
No account of Fulham tower could be complete without reference to the splendidly appointed ringing room which is beautifully clean and comfortable. This is due to the untiring enthusiasm of the Ringin! Master, Mr. H. M. Page, and those associated with him. Mention must also be made of 'The Eight Bells ' in the High Street, called thus to commemorate the increase to eight bells in 1729, and where the ringers have congregated regularly for many years. There we will leave you to think on the word a poet once wrote :-

Old Fulbam bells, sweet Futham bells, How oft across the pleasant meads
Your rhythmic music swells.'

ESSEX ASSOCIATION South-West Division

The annual meeting of the Division was held at Leytonstone on January 5th. Approximately 80 members and friends enjoyed the excellent arrangements which had been made by Mr. George Dawson.
A year of progress and achievement was reported by the secretary. Sunday ringing had improved and the peal ringers had enjoyed a successful year. Peals were scored in the four standard Surprise methods together with Yorkshire and Rutland.
After 13 years of loyal and devoted service Mr. J. Chalk declined nomination as Master. Many members spoke in appreciation of the great work he had done. Mr. J. Crampion was elected to take his place and the remainder of the officers were re-elected.

NEW YEAR'S EVE AT MARDEN

On New Year's Eve the ringers of St. Michael and All Angels'. Marden Kent. held their annual dinner and meeting. Ringing took place from 7.30 to $8.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$., which started the evening in fine style.
Afterwards, a very fine dinner was enjoyed by all at the Hill Tea Rooms, 14 members of the Guild beine present.
Visitors included the Rev. H. B. Stephens (priest-in-charge). the Rev. C. G. Eapling (new Vicar). Mr. T. E. Sone (Paddock Wood) and Miss V. L A. Wallis (West Malling). At the business mecting only one change of office was noted-Miss B. M. Vidler. Longridge Farm. Marden. being the new secretary. The new office of peal secretary was given to Miss J. Haffenden.
To conclude the happy evening everybody returned to the tower to ring out the Old and ring in the New Year.

Winchester District

About 50 members and friends, some from as far afield as Clevedon, Guildford and London, attended the annual meeting of the Winchester District at Winchester on January 5th. Previous to the meeting good use was made of the Cathedral bells, methods including Grandsire Caters and Cinques, Stedman Caters, Double Norwich and Cambridge.

The chair was taken by the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth. supported by the District secretary (Mr. J. A. C. King) and the District treasurer (Mr. H. D. Buckingham). The chairman opened the meeting by welcoming all members and visitors and wishing them a happy New Year.
The secretary's report showed that 1951 had been an active year. Monthly mectings had been held since April most of which had been practice meetings and at which methods up to Yorkshire Surprise had been tackled.

Twenty-two new ringing members and 25 honorary members had been elected. Ringers from Kingsworthy tower, which had just affiliated to the Guild, were accorded a special welcome. Eight quarter peals ranging from Minimus in threc methods at Kingsworthy to Grandsire Caters at Winchester Cathedral, and two peals of Plain Bob Minor had been rung.
Preston Candover. Sparsholt, Ropley and St. Maurice's, Winchester, were four towers which were commended for their keenness. Finally the secretary gave the District a target of 100 new members for 1952 .
The statement of accounts showed the District had a balance in hand of $£ 2319 \mathrm{~s}$. 8d. as compared with £25 19s. 10d. last year. The loss was explained by the higher cost of advertising due to monthly mectings, and two grants of $£ 5$ and 25 s.
All the retiring officers were re-elected. In addition, an office of assistant secretary was created and Miss Betty Edmonds was appointed to this post. Eight new ringing members were elected. They were the Misses M. Dicker, I. Jetten. P. Howlett and M. Morgan and Messrs. G. Thornc. H. Palmer, J. Wilmot and J. Phillips. Two honorary members were also elected.

It was decided that the next annual meeting should be held in Winchester on January 3rd, 1953, and quarterly meetings held at Owslebury, Cheriton and Twyford. and the next two practice meetings at Hursley and Nether Wallop with Broughton. A District outing is to be organised in the summer followed by a dinner some time in the autumn.
A company of 63 sat down to tea, including the Mayor and Mayoress of Winchester (Councillor and Mrs. A. T. Edmonds) and also the Dean of Winchester (the Very Rev. E. G. Sclwyn). After tea, evensong in the Cathedral was attended. at which the Rev. W. A. MacFarlane, Rector of Bishop's Sutton, preached. During his sermon, he emphasised that when ringers were at work. everybody could hear them. That meant that everybody could hear the good and the bad striking and the true and the false peals. There should, therefore, be nothing underhand or deceitful about bellringing, but rather the bells should be rung to the glory of God alone.

The Cathedral bells were available for an hour after the service and St. Maurice's. Winchester, Hursley and Twyford bells were also rung.

CHRISTMAS QUIZ

This year's Christmas Quiz proved to be more popular than we anticipated. The Exercise has more keen mathematicians than might be thought.

Next week we hope to announce the winner and the solutions

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LIGHTEST RINGS

Dear Sir,-l read with interest in 'The Ringing World ; of the lightest ring of six bells recently cast for Mr. S. Jarvis by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. There is a light ring of six at Wormhill. Derbyshire, with a tenor 1 cwt. : qr. 14 lb . These bells are hung for ringing full circle and complete with all fittings.
There is a still lighter ring of six, hung for ringing on an oak frame, and complete with all fittings at Stillington. ## YOUNG RINGING MASTERS

Dear Sir,-As the subject of young ringing masters has arisen in your columns, I am enclosing a list of recent masters of the Minster Abbey Guild, Isle of Sheppey. All were taught to ring by Mr. Walter H. Dobbie, formerly of Sittingbourne, and now of Tonbridge.
Stanley M. Evans; period in office, Jan. 1947 Sept., 1948 : age on election. $16 \frac{3}{3}$. J. Garth Rooke; Sept. 1948-Jan. 1950; $17 \frac{1}{3}$ Peter C. W. Neal; Jan. 1950: 18さ. Yours sincerely

FROM SHAKESPEARE'S COUNTRY

Dear Sir.-After joyfully ringing in the New Year at Aston Cantlow, the following was composed as a fictitious summary of our activity :THE DRUNKEN RINGER or NEW YEAR'S EVE
(With apologies to William Shakespeare)
Is this a bellrope which I see before me,
The sally toward my hand? Come, let me clutch thee:
I have thee not and yet I see thee still.
Art thou not. double vision, sensible
To feeling as to sight? Or art thou but
A sally of the mind, a false creation.
Proceeding from the beer-bemused brain?
I see thee yet, in form as palpable
As this which now I pull.
Miss it not Ringer; or 'twill be the bell
Which summons thee to heaven or to hell.
Incidentally. this is the church in which John Shakespeare. the Bard's father. married Mary Arden, in 1557, and if ringers were not so scarce as they are to-day, the bell which is now our fifth would ring for them as thev left the church. The bell was cast in a small field not far from the church in the year 1410 . The hollow in the ground can still be scen to this day-Yours sincerely.
J., J. H. and H. R. FOOT.
P.S.-Please note. the verse above is fictitious and was composed after our second salutation of the New Year.

CARE OF ROPES

Dear Sir-I quite agree with Mr. Louis Wilson's remarks on the care of bell ropes. I have been a ringer at Beedon for 54 years and in charge of the tower for 35 years. In 1922 our bells were rehung and a new treble added. A new rope was put on the new bell and this runs through two guides and two floors before reaching the pulley. The five remaining ropes were new about two years later. There have been peals, quarter peals. meetings and service ringing in this tower and I have never had to splice any of the ropes. I always use tallow where they pass through the guides and wheels and they are all in good condition.-Yours faithfully.

WHAT IS UNORTHODOX?

Dear Sir,-As it is possible to take the lead ends under E (see 'Rínging World' dated October 19th, 1951), and produce a 720 Treble Bob Minor with all the 5-6 at backstroke, and each row to follow one another in the same order throughout, so if lead ends under A were used, would this be classified as unorthodox?
A conductor fixes up an attempt for a peal of Minor in seven methods. One of the methods he includes is York When he gets to the tower he finds that one or more of his band cannot ring York but can ring Cambridge and London. He then instructs them to ring Cambridge when above the treble, and London below the treble. Have they rung Yorl, or Cambridge and London Spliced?
In Mr. J. P. Fidler's 'Woodbine Group ' we find all the work on one side of the treble to consist of 'Woodbine.' Are all these unorthodox? If not, why is the parent method Woodbine ' unorthodox?-Yours faithfully,

120 STEDMAN TRIPLES
Dear Sir,-The following touch of Stedman Triples contains the Tittums, Whittingtons and Queen's changes.

As we ring Oxford Bob Triples here at Darley Dale, I would like to thank Mr. R. Overy for the nice touch recently published in The Ringing World.'-Yours faithfully,

RAILWAYMAN'S DREAM

Dear Sir,-I'm glad so many railwaymen are interested in the Exercise. There is a story of one who woke his wife up, shouting: 'Go Double Norwich Court Bob Major-London Bridge. Woolwich. Dartford. Gravesend, Strood. Gillingham-Single-Ladies' carriages near places from in front-Single-Gentlemen far places from behind. London Bridge lady? Cross the treble in 5-6, down the subway, and don't forget the driver in 3-4. Canterbury, sir? With Pleasure-Boh-Get them milk churns into the van will you? Now then, you children. Treble Bob up. leave the windows and pipe down-Bob-What's that green light doing last behind? Let's have a hit of striking, wheeltapper. Dodge, lady, dodge! Stay in 5-6 and the tenor's got you. Make places-BobTrain's crowded like Bank Holiday-BobMake your places with me now. Maidstone. sir? Straight down to the front, change at Strood. Lead, driver. Full in front now viith the first carriage-Bob-The guard's passed out. This is all!'

MINOR AND DOUBLES

The way in which those concerned bave accepted the ruling that several recent performances cannot be allowed to rank as pcals recalls that in the past the Central Councll's decisions have not always been accepted so calmly. Many ringers will remember, or have heard of, the Council's ruling in the mid 1850 's, that peals of Minor and Doubles would henceforward be published as ' Performances on Five and Six Bells.'. This led to a violent controversy, in which two prominent members of the Yorkshire Association, William Snowden and George Bollard, played a leading part, and largely as a result of the pressure they exerted, with the added threat to bring their powerful Asscciation out of the Council, the matter vas dropped after a time.
It is a familiar complaint that those whose time is mainly spent in towers with eight bells or more tend to look down on five- and six-bell ringers because they are unaccustomed to ringing on the lower numbers. This is, of course. nonsense, for any ringer with, say ten years ${ }^{\circ}$ experience of the ups and downs of a Sunday service band will almost certainly have rung Doctles and Minor ad nauscum. Sirnlarly, the argument an expert eight-bels ringer would be ill at ease in a multi-method Minor peal is equally fallacious. For one thing there is considerably less to learn in a Minor method, compared with Major, and each one in turn leads to numerous others, differing to such a triffing extent that on the higher numbers hardly anyone would contemplate splicing them. It is quite certain that the average Spliced Surprise Major ringer could cope with multi-method Minor far better than his six-bell contemporary would acquit himself in a peal in the four standard Surprise methods
The publication of this year's Analysis has revealed that out of 986 pcals of Doubles and Minor rung in 1950, no fewer than 334 were in one method only; in other words, mainly Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor. One wonders what value the participants can possibly have attached to most of these or, indeed, whether there is much justification for regarding them, or any five- or six-bell performances, as peals.
Since the earliest days of ringing. it has always been accepted that the composition of a peal must be true. This has been applied rigidly and indeed in olden times a false peal was often the subject of considerable derision. Is it logical, one may ask, to debar a peal on seven or more bells because, perhaps, half a dozen changes occur twice. when others in which 720 changes are rung seven times, or 120 changes 42 times are cheerfully acceptedindeed, in some quarters considered absolutely praiseworthy? It will; of course, be argued that the $720^{\circ} \mathrm{s}$ and $120^{\prime}$ 's of which these efforts are built are themselves free from repetition, but this is just as illogical. If the sevenfold appearance of no fewer than 720 changes can be endured, what does it matter if some of them are rung a few times more and others correspondingly less? Moreover, why should five bells be the lower limit? In Jüly, 1938, 210 extents of Minimus were rung on handbells, and the two who took part were surely as much-or as little-entitled to regard that as a peal as those who ring Doubles and Minor.

Individual ringers who feel strongly on the subject can, of course, act accordingly by not standing in five- or six-bell peals, except perhaps as an occasional curiosity. Possibly, however, the time has come to re-examine the motives which led the Council of the day to act as it did. It may well be that the reasoning was sound. but that the members who supported the motion were merely ahead of their time.

'SIDELIGHT' OR 'SEARCHLIGHT'?

Dear Sir,-The recent article, 'A Sidelight on Method Extension,' pitifully calls for a 'searchlight ' on the truth of the matter. Latterly considerable evidence has been adduced to show the opposite view of points the article raises.

In each branch of ringing-teaching, conducting, method designing and analysis, etc.there are techniques and masters of them; and it is possible (in fact more often the case) that an expert in one branch knows considerably less of another. This truth is evident from, for example, queries about method structure and extension coming from well-known conductors; also from the fact. of the mistaken idea that a knowledge of composition automatically gives an understanding of the principles of method structure, or vice versa

One of the outstanding facts about method extension is still largely unappreciated among ringers; indeed, the article only serves to confirm it! Here it is: There is not, and never will be, any doubt or difficulty about whether the 'natural' or theoretic form of extension of a method can or cannot be produced in any given case. (And this applies not merely to Surprise and other hunt-controlled, but to all, methods.) The doubt or difficulty arises only when this 'natural' or theoretic form (i.e.. if producible) fails to exhibit the two main conventional ringing requirements, namely, (a) Basic Coursing Order and (b) the full-range Plain Course. Then the 'trial-and-error-' boys get to work. invariably completely mutilatingor at best distorting-the basic method pattern, in order to produce a 'version' that may drag in those requirements. And all this is with the dubious object of trying to fill a gap in the method's family tree!
The methods of the Cambridge family, including those with Cambridge work above the treble such as Yorkshire, are not, as the article seems to suggest, the only ones with pure extensions. There are plenty of others, both inside and outside the Surprise category. For example-Plain Bob, Stedman. Duffield. Grandsire, Kent and other Treble Bob methods, also Bromley. Clacton. Devon. Essex, Leicestershire. Manchester (not yet published), Daventry (not yet published), etc., all in the Surprise greup
But, of course, it is high time that all the misnaming be stopped. and all distorted versions be given identification labels distinguishing them from the basic method of which they are no more than bastard issue, In this there is no call to the Methods Committee to attempt compromise, as the article suggests. Such was never implied in our original motion which gave the Methods Committee its mandate. On the other hand. there is ample evidence available to that committee to enable it to make recommendations to the Central Council on the only major point at issue in this extension business, i.e.. the class or classes of extension to be recognised.

METHODS COMMITTEE

At this stage, when the Methods Committee is giving further consideration to the matter, it would be premature and improper to suggest what its recommendations should be; but it is both proper and needful to take a clear view of the issue. Two classes of method extension have already been noted in this letter:-Class ' A.'-The THEORETIC, which, if it exhibits the conventional requirements, is "Ideal' and universally acceptable

Class ' C.'-The VERSION, invariably exhibiting structural mutilation of the basic method, with little similarity to its 'blue line' (Anyway, it 'rings' as a quite different method!)
Latterly a third class has been distinguished, through a rational process of analysis of the basic method; dependug on the geometric rather than the arithmetic approach, which process, in fact confirms the theoretic extension it self. (For the less technically minded this may be put in the form of an analogy-the extension thus derived is not unlike the photographic enlargement of an original picture.) This is:-

Class 'B.'-The PROXIMATE, which is the mathematically corrected theoretic form that lacked the conventional requirements, and which has no distortions, a similar bluc line, and 'rings as the same method. The method name always includes the adjective, e.g., Dulchester Major, and Dulchester Royal Proximate.
Now here lies the tragedy of it all. Many Class ' $C$ ' extensions rave been published, and some even rung to peals, when in fact the preferred Class ' $\mathbf{B}$,' and even in some few cases the perfect Class ' $A$ ' extensions obtain, On this discovery is the focusing of attention demanded, and not, as the article suggests, on some abortive and useless attempt to group as a united family certain Class ' $C$ ' extensions. Thus it is evident that too little and not, as the article suggests, 'too much,' attention has been given to this, the real core of the matter Investigation of published basic methods is now well advanced and a schedule of extension Classes is in preparation. This, with a Central Council decision on acceptables, should determine the whole business.
So clearly, all this is not, as the article suggests, mere academic theorising over a 'problem child,' but is the fundamental stuff of which are born the very methods that 'P. A. C.' conducts. Manifestly it is now our duty to purge the Art of all this higher-stage dross, and to establish, without further culpable delay, those firm foundations on which ringing posterity may securely build.-Yours very truly,
A. YORK-BRAMBLE.

RAILWAYMEN'S PEALS

Dear Sir.-I believe the first peal by railwaymen was rung at Christ Church, Swindon, and a board in the tower records the performance. The board reads: ' On Saturday. February 19th, 1898, a peal of Bob Major, 5,040 changes, was rung in 2 hours 57 minutes. $T$. Lawrence 1 . G. C. Iles 2. A. Lawrence 3, T. Robinson 4. C. J. Gardner 5, T. Ricketts 6, O. W. Layng 7, J. H. Shepherd 8. Composed by J. Carter. Conducted by T. Ricketts.

All the band worked on the Great Western Railway and were members of Christ Church tower. The peal was rung for the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and Mr. C. J. Gardner, still a regular ringer at Christ Church, is the sole survivor of the band.-Yours faithfully,
W. B. KYNASTON.

Dear Sir,-May I suggest the time is ripe for pcal reports of Middleton's peal of Cambridge Major to be booked simply as "Middleton's'? It is surely time this composition was joined up with other 'immortals,' such as Thurstans, Holt, Parker, etc.
I am further tempted to suggest this, for during the past few weeks an epidemic appears to have broken out-mainly in Cheshire and Shropshire-to, record it as 'composed by C H. Middleton.' My complaint is that neither Middleton's parents nor the people who signed the necessary documents at his funeral knew anvthing of this second initial

Other recent reports have also gone astray with names of composers. Thus we had Jas. Mott at Saffron Walden. J. Thorpe at Pulford, and even the Central Council librarian called a peal at Tring purnorted to be the composition of F. F. W. Meadows. Yours truly.

OLD RINGER.

A HERTFORDSHIRE OUNING

Once again the short winter season of ringing for the younger set (organised from the Bedford District headquarters) included a day outing to a neighbouring county, this year to Hertfordshire. On December 27th the Bedford contingent consisting of Christopher Woodhead and the Stephens trio, met with cycles at the railway station and boarded the $8.40 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. train to Henlow Camp where we were joined by Daphne Hare. A four-mile cycle ride brought us to Pirton Church, dead on time. The church has an anticlockwise ring of five bung in a central tower and rung from an upstairs ringing chamber; the circle is such that the ringers of the treble and fourth view each other behind the tenor ringer's back. We rang several Doubles methods here and as the time of departure drew near, Joan Ashton, the last member of our party, arrived just in time to ring a sbort touch before the bells were lowered.

With a bracing side-wind we arrived at St. Ippolyt's on time and began our programme of quarter peal attempts with a Delight method learnt for the occasion--Ely Delight. A shift course in the last part of the 720 put an early end to this and the remainder of our visit was spent ringing short touches. After an early Iunch in Hitchin we cycled along a very muddy country lane to Graveley, where we rang a good quarter of Treble Bob. The six bells here are rung from the ground floor.
At Great Wymondley we were greeted by a young member of the local band who was patient enough to stand by while we rang a quarter of Cambridge Surprise, this being the first of Surprise by all, except the tenor ringer, and the first 'inside' by the ringer of the second. We returned to Hitchin for a light snack and with a following wind, freewheeled most of the way to Arlesley. In spite of the tenor man's request for a leisured pace, the bells soon settled down to a fast rate of striking. This quarter of Plain Bob was. it so happens. the first touch the conductor had called.
The day's ringing was rounded off with a high tea provided by Mrs. Hare, a thought which was highly appreciated by all. and it was with great reluctance that we left the blazing fireside to combat the howling gale outside.
The quarter peal details are as follows:Graveley, Herts.- 720 Oxford 576 Kent: Mary Stephens 1. Daphne Hare 2. Joan Ashton 3. R. Stephens 4, C. Woodhead (conductor) 5. M. Stephens 6 Great Wymondley. ## THE SUFFOLK GUILD

One of the bright centres in Suffolk is All Saints'. Easton, where Mr. Sidney Wightman has a band of 12 ringers. Their weekly programme is ringing twice on Sundays and a practice on Wednesdays. On New Year's Eve the ringers. their wives. and children and the churchwardens, numbering in all 38, had their annual supper. a very hapoy function. Easton is a village which observes the old traditions with 6 a.m. ringing on Easter Day and Christmas Day.
Mr. Wightman has trained three separate teams and is now engaged on the fourth at Tunstall.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

North-East Branch

The annual meeting of the North-East Branch at Tiverton, on January 5th, was attended by over 50 members and visitors, many of the latter coming from over the Somerset border. Full use was made of the bells during the afternoon and evening. Of the many touches successfully brought round the two which perhaps best brought out, by the excellent way in which they were struck, the full beauty of this glorious ring were one of Grandsire Triples, in which the Guild president and two branch chairmen took part, and one of Bob Major, mainly by Somerset visitors.
The service was conducted by the Rector, Canon R. C. Worsley, who gave an address which, while avoiding the subjects of bells and ringing, was most appropriate to the occasion and made a deep impression on all present. The collection, in aid of the Guild Belfig Repair Fund, realised $£ 19$ s. 3d.
At the business meeting the annual report showed that despite the difficulties, mainly due to distance and isolation, with which change ringers in this area of Devon have to contend, the Branch had continued to hold its own. Regular Sunday service ringing had been the rule in all Branch towers, there was a slight gain in membership, and an increase of $£ 210 \mathrm{~s}$. in the balance in hand. It was decided to transfer $£ 5$ to the Instruction Fund in order to assist the Stoodleigh band to learn change ringing
The retiring chairman. Mr. A. J. Taylor, stated that he did not wish to seek, re-election as he felt that the Guild. in which he held two offices, would be strengthened, and greater interest in the cause of change ringing stimulated, if he relinquished one of them. The meeting accepted the resignation with regret and elected as its new chairman the Rev. J. F. Jones, the Rector of Huntsham. according him a very hearty welcome and wishing him every success during his term of office. The remaining officers were re-elected en bloc and the meeting closed with the customary votes of thanks.

COVENTRY DIOCESAN GUILD

A very pleasant meeting wis held at Snitterfield on January 5 th when about 35 ringers representing no less than 13 towers attended. These included visitors from the Worcestershire, Peterborough and Surrey Associations.
The service was conducted by the Vicar, and the organist was Mr. J. Holden, a member of the Ladbroke band. An enjoyable tea was supplied by Mrs. Smith. of Snitterfield.
Ringing included rounds and call changes and methods up to and including Cambridge Surprise.

MORE ABOUT CHESTER'S BELLS

WHILE most of our readers are practical ringers, many share the antiquarian's interest in bells. To them 'Cheshire Bells,' Part II., by Mr. J. W. Clarke, Master of the Chester Diocesan Guild, is a volume they will enjoy browsing over. When the Central Council visited Chester last Whitsun a number of members were enthralled with Mr. Clarke's knowledge of the Abbey, the bells of which formed the main part of the first volume of this series. Mr. Clarke enthuses life and understanding into his treatment of churchwardens' accounts, thus giving a valuable background.

This volume deals, as did Part I., with the bells of Chester city. Behind the eight at St. Mary-on-the-Hill, the church within the shadow of the Castle, there is a wealth of history. These bells were rehung and returned and a new tenor provided by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. in 1939. A fairly consistent record of this ring going back to 1536 is in being through the usual medium of the Churchwardens' Accounts. The first item relates to a new clapper for the 'Anthem' bell, which was rung in that early rising age at $4 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. Mr. Clarke reminds us that the word 'Anthem' is a corruption from 'St. Anthony,' the hermit, whose attendant pig carried a small bell suspended from its neck. The bell was also in pre-Reformation days known as the sanctus bell. When the Commissioners visited St. Mary's in 1553 there were 'five great bells in the steeple and an anthem bell and a clock bell.'

Evidence of control of the ringing of bells existed in Chester even in the 17 th century. After St. Mary-on-theHill bells had been recast by Jeffery Scott, of Wigan, in 1657 , they proved very popular with the ringers - so much so that the parishioners met two years later and limited their use mainly to important national occasions. Later on these occasions were more specifically described as royal birthdays, accessions, victories on land and sea and, of course, November 5th and 'Oak Apple Day,' May 29th. Even to-day royal birthdays are extensively observed by the peal ringing fraternity, but May 29th seems to have dropped out of the ringer's calendar.
Rudhalls, of Gloucester. were well represented in the city of Chester. By 1783 they had three rings of six in the city. It is difficult to estimate the big contribution to English ringing this firm made, having cast well over 5,000 bells in little more than a century. They introduced modern business methods; ready-made rings of five and six-minus the tenor-were always available, so that when the order for a new ring was received, only the missing tenor, which usually carried the wardens' names or initials, had to be cast. The sentiment of goodwill, such as 'Prosperity to the Parish,' that adorned the bells was also in keeping with the times.

There were times when Rudhall's bells did not come up to the firm's high reputation for their musical qualities; the tenor at St. Mary-on-the-Hill was a poor job and, states Mr. Clarke, its leaden sound marred the ring until recent years, when it was recast. When Rudhall supplied the new six at St. Michael's, the weighing-in ceremony - payment was by weight at 15 d . a lb . - was marked by liquid refreshment. Two significant items in the accounts: Given for to drink when the bells were weighed, 2 s .; More for drink, 2 s . This was not the only occasion for a drink. Donations to the bell fund were marked by 'Your very good health, sir.' Thus when Sir Richard Grosvenor paid his donation of $£ 20$ there was 3 s. entered in the expenses account, and when Mr. Ormes paid his he was given a pint of wine costing one shilling. St. Michael's to-day presents a dismal picture, and Mr. Clarke writes of the desolation of rusty ironwork about the bells, two ropes dangling in the ringing chamber and handbells black with grime standing on a table in the corner. The neglect arises from a fracture in the west wall of the tower that appeared in 1897. The swinging of the bells was then regarded as unsafe. Mr. Clarke suggests that the damage was brought about by faulty bonding in the stonework.
Peals frequently appear in our columns from the bells of St. Mary-without-the-Walls. This is a modern parish church, the ring of eight being provided by Mears and Stainbank in 1887 with a tenor of 19 cwt .3 qr .12 lb . The bells are hung in two tiers in a timber frame, the treble and fifth being above.

Rudhalls at one time had a six at St. Peter's, which were rung for the last time in 1897. Attention by a bellhanger would probably then have saved them. In 1921 the bells were recast by Taylors, who fitted an Ellacombe chiming apparatus. Thus the bells are still sounded until a satisfactory restoration can be effected.
'Cheshire Bells' is reprinted from the 'Transactions of the Lancashire and Cheshire Antiquarian Society.' Part II. can be obtained from the author, J. W. Clarke, Mollington, Chester (price 2s.).

GILLETT  AND JOHNSTON

LIMITED

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett and Johnston bells or tower clocks.

Gillett and Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service-as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

SUBSCRIPTION REMINDER

A substantial number of regular readers will be difappointed this morning at not receiving their 'Ringing Worlds.' When their subscriptions for 1952 are received by Mr. J. E. Jeater, 11, Frankswood Avenue, Petts Wood, we shall be delighted to add them to our mailing list. Subscription rates are quoted above. New postal subscribers also welcomed.

Ringers' dress has at times been under discussion. The New South Wales Association have given a lead by adopting an official blazer in black with silver braid and the Association's badge embroidered on the pocket.

Will 'Old Ringer' please send his address to the Editor?

The meeting of the Newbury Branch of the Oxford Guild to-morrow, is at Compton and not Beedon as was announced in our last issue.
Through a typographical error, the initials of Mr. F. E. W. Meadows were wrongly printed on page 7. The error is regretted.
The peal of Grandsire Doubles at Ringwould on Boxing Day was rung in 2 hours 30 minutes. Mr. Percival W. Cave, of Liverpool, started 1952 well with a peal of Grandsire Caters in which six of the band were ringing their first of Caters in the method.

Mr. H. Broughton, of Leicester, informs us that a peal of 5,040 Cambridge Surprise Maximus was rung at St. Margaret's, Leicester, on March 12th, 1938. It seems, therefore, that the peal at Macclesfield was the third.

In the peal of 23 Treble Bob methods at Ordsall, published on page 22, the words Braintree Doubles and Marple Doubles should read Braintree Delight and Marple Delight. The crror is regretted. Will correspondents sending in peals not use contractions. Copy should be written as they desire a peal to appear in print and in accordance with the recognised style.

Another advance in handbell ringing has been set the Exercise by Mr. H. G. Cashmore. With Messrs. C. W. Woolley, E. C. S. Turner and F. W. Brinklow, he rang the first peal in 14 Spliced Surprise Major methods 'in hand at Stanmore, Middlesex, on January 14th. The pcal contained 144 changes of method. Details, together with the umpire's report, will appear in our next issue.

GOSSIP

A large number of subscribers with their annual renewal of postal subscription to Mr. Jeater sent donations. These were acknowledged by personal receipts. Acknowledgments in 'The Ringing World ' are for those sent direct to the Editor and in lieu of receipts. We ara truly grateful to all who have helped us. Will all please accept the Committee's very best thanks.

All tickets for the Coming-of-Age Dinner of the National Police Guild at Leicester tomorrow have been sold.

The bells of Horsham, Sussex, are to be renung on ball bearings and have been sent to John Taylor and Co., Loughborough.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. Frank Blondell, who is in hospital, is making satisfactory progress and hopes to be out soon.

A Suffolk Guild toach tour of Devon is arranged for August 3rd to 9th inclusive, and all who are intercsted should immediately communicate with Mr. Cecil W. Pipe, Grundisburgh, Woodbridge. Suffolk.

In reply to University Student, arrangements are made for those who are postal subscribers to have their copies redirected to their home address during vacation. We like a fortnight's notice.

Mr. C. A. Bassett writes: 'Congratulations to the band who rang for the service, broadcast from Ottery St. Mary's, in the West of England Home Service on Sunday, January 13th. A lovely ring of bells and almost perfect striking.'

In some towers a quarter peal was rung as a welcome home to Mr. R. J. Stannard, on leave from the Royal Navy. It gives us pleasure to record these personal rejoicings. but there are two essentials to publication: the name of the town and tower and the name and address of the sender.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

A Satisfactory Year Reviewed

 THE Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, at their annual meeting in St. Martin's Vestry on Saturday, had a satisfactory year to report witi 29 new members and nine peals scored. The Master (Mr. G. H. Cross) presided, supported by the secretary (Mrs. C. J. Matthews) and the treasurer (Mr. W. R. Winterton.In welcoming the company the Master reported an apology from Mr. A. H. Pulling, a letter from Mr. Rowe sending good wishes to the Society from Australian ringers and another from $\mathbf{M r}$. Warnett, jun., thanking the Society for their letter of sympathy in the death of his father, Mr. Harry Warnett, who was for many years Master of the ringers at Lewisham.
Arising from the minutes, the Master reported that he had seen the Vicar in regard to the tenor at Shoreditch. 'It is becoming worse,' he said. "We hope to get another opinion to find out what is wrong

Presenting the balance sheet, the treasurer said they started the year with a balance of $£ 9711 \mathrm{~s}$. $9 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{~d}$. and finished with one of $£ 108$ 2 s . $4 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{~d}$. After the war the Society had only a balance of $£ 45$. The accounts were adopted.
The secretary's report mentioned the following peals rung during the yêar:- Cambridge Major at Bexley; Bob Major at Burnham: Yorkshire Royal at Kingston; Bob Minor at Brockenhurst : Yorkshire Major at Maulden ; Double Norwich Court Bob Major at Bexley; Bristol Major at Crayford: Stedman Triples at Burnham: Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's.

Meetings had been held at Reading, Guildford and Barnet and a very successful dinner held in October which showed a slight profit. Thanks were due to those who supported and helped.
The election of the following new members was notificd:-D. Verrier (Winchester), P. N. Corfield (Winchester). T H. Tocock (Winchester) and F. S. Macey (Sutton Valence). New members elected at the meeting were Miss Betty Edmonds (Winchester). Miss Mabel Prockson (Clerkenwell). Cyril E. Palmer (Sidcup) and Miss Ann West (Southampton).

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Before vacating the chair. Mr. G. H. Cross thanked the members for their support during the year. At some of the meetings in the country he had been disappointed at the attendance of their own members. He felt that when the Society visited a town their own members should give them a welcome.

On the proposition of Mr. J. Martin Page seconded by Mr. F. E. Hawthorne, Mr. G. E. Cross was re-elected Master. With a hearty vote of thanks for her services Mrs. C. J. Matthews was re-elected hon. secretary. Mr. W. $\mathbf{R}$. Winterton was re-elected treasurer

Mr. T. Bevan regretted that he had not heen able to carry on his duties as senior steward on account of ill-health.

Thanking Mr. Bevan for his services as senior steward for the past 24 or 25 years, the Master said there had been nasty jobs like sweeping the belfry and oiling the bells. He hoped his health would improve.

Mr. C. J. Mattbews endorsed the Master's thanks and said he happened to be, with Tom, as the oldest in noint of years, at St. Martin's and had worked with him since 1920. If anything wanted doing. Tom was there to give a helping hand.
Mr. F. E. Hawthorne was elected senior steward and Mr. Frank Matthew junior steward. Other elections were:-Trustees, Messrs. C. J. Matthews and A. R Ling: hon. auditors. Mrs. R. F. Deal and Mr T. H. Francis.
Mr. C. J. Matthews sugeested that the Society approach the Vicar and fix the annual meeting on a static date. He proposed that the annual meeting be held on the third Saturday in January. Mr. T. H. Francis seconded, and this was agreed to.

Mr. G. Carter said he had a very kind invitation from the Vicar and Mr. Russell for a meeting to be held at Bray. The Master said they visited Bray a couple of years ago and they had a very nice time. It was decided to hold a meeting there on June 21st.

The Master said he had had an invitation from Mr. Percy Spice to visit St. Paul's, Bromley, which had a new ring of bells. It was agreed to hold a meeting there on Sept. 20th.
Mr. Butler asked whether the Society would like to visit Southampton-they would give them a very warm welcome and there were three ten-bell towers available.
The Master suggested that Southampton should be reserved for an all-day outing, and this was agreed to.

It was decided to hold the first quarterly meeting at Finchley on March 22nd
Mr. Frank Matthews, who reported on the dinner, said he was very pleased to say that they had recaptured their enthusiasm for this function. The organisation would be casier this year if he could bank on the same members selling tickets. He asked the members to book the date-October 4th.
Upon the Master's suggestion, Mr. Frank Matthews again undertook the duties of organiser.

AN INTERESTING BOOK

On behalf of Mr. A. Brighton, Mr. E. Smith presented to the Socicty the book of Henry Thomas. There were two brothers Thomas, explained the Master, who had quite a lot to do with the Cumberlands. Whilst they were not 'terrific' as ringers. they did much for the Society. He thanked Mr. Brighton for his gift, and said he started ringing in the early nineties. Alf Brighton was very keen in those days but slow at learning. He was told that the best thing he could do was to keep away from the belfry. Brighton persevered and became a fine ringer and conductor of London, Bristol and Stedman Cinques. Although a small man he was a fine heavy-bell ringer.

Mr. Winterton suggested that the trustees should present an annual report and inventory of the books in the library.-Agreed.
The meeting decided to ask Mr. John Hill (Belvedere) to give an estimate for rebinding the books needing attention and the trustees were authorised to spend not excecding K 10 on repairs to the books.

The need for a re-issue of the rule book with a revision of the history of the Society was stressed by Mr. Geoffrey Carter.
Mr. C. J. Matthews said 500 copies of the rules were printed in 1934 and with Mr. R. Ling he promised to bring an estimate for reprinting the rule book to the next quarterly meeting.

The meeting entrusted the Master and the two trustees with the task of revising the history of the Society.
The Master expressed thanks to Miss Prockson for arranging for the ringing at St. James's; Clerkenwell. :They are a lovely ring of bells, he commented, "and although I rang there on the opening day and was presented with a little bell as a memento. I have never been invited to ring a peal there.'
Mr. F. E. Hawthorne and the Master made an appeal to those present to become postal subscribers to 'The Ringing World ' and thus improve the finances of the journal.
The Editor thanked them for their references and said a most encouraging thing had been the contributions from peal ringers and quarter peal ringers. These small amounts made a big difference to their revenue and. if maintained, would ensure that the accounts would balance.
A collection was taken for "The Ringing World' which resulted in one guinea being reccived.

GRANDSIRE TRIPLES AT EXETER CATHEDRAL

The peal of Grandsire Triples at Exeter Cathedral on January 12 th was the first recognised peal on the back eight bells there. These are the heaviest ring of eight to be rung to a peal, Success only came after some perseverance, for this was the third time the peal had been attempted. The first occasion was about a year ago when well over 4,000 changes were rung; the second, last summer when the full extent was achieved but not accepted as a peal due to the use of an extra ringer taking over the tenor; it was at the third attemptas can be seen from the peal columns-that unqualified success resulted.

The band was substantially the same as on former occasions, one exception being Geoffrey Waters on the tenor box.

After the onerous task of raising the bells and the usual preparations, the peal got under way at 4.20 p.m. After a short settling-down period a good beat was achieved and maintained throughout, a good, well-struck peal being accomplished in 3 hours 52 minutes.
(An interesting coincidence lies in the fact that the first peal on these bells which was rung nearly 50 years ago, the method being Grandsire Caters, also occupied exactly the same length of time.)

Perhaps special mention should be made of the fine manner in which the two very young men on the tenor handled that massive bell, of the comparative youthfulness of most of the band, and A. P. Cannon's ringing of the 11 tha perforinance which almost made us believe that he is as good a heavy-bell ringer as he says he is !

The majority of the band paid a visit to St. Thomas's, Exeter, on the following Sunday morning and thanks are due not only to the Exeter ringers for their very hospitable welcome but also for the privilege of ringing a peal on their magnificent bells at the Cathedral.
F. L. H.

CONGRATULATIONS

Dear Sir, Congratulations to the successful peal band at Exeter, with a special word of praise for the "Old Man' on the treble and the 'Young Man,' farmer's boy Waters, on Grandisson.
It will be remembered that almost the same band rang the same peal some time ago, but called a third man in to help on the tenor, thereby invalidating the performance as far as the Central Council were concerned. Let us hope that the Central Council find no flaws this time, but will give to this magnificent effort of perseverance the honour it deserves.-Yours faithfully,
K. R. HOLTOM

Question No. 5, the conundrum, proved to be the deciding factor in Christmas Quiz, 1951, despite its mathematical nature.
The prize has been awarded to:-John F. Rigby, 100 , Hall Road, Smallshaw, Ashton-under-Lync.
His answer to Question 5 was: ' Because they both try unsuccessfully to dodge, then go in slow, and after making a half-turn, come out quick, without waiting for whole pulls.'
This. Kewsett and the Editor consider perhaps better than the official answer!
Five other competitors sent in correct solutions to the other questions and are highly commended. They are:-
D. W. Beard, 159, Clements Road, East Ham, E.6.
E. G. Bcynon, 55, Alexandra Road, Sheerness, Kent.
D. A. Carpenter, 78, Earlsdon Avenue, Coventry.
T. G. Hawkins, Cherry Orchard Close, Stote Poges, Bucks.
P. K. Williamson, 7, Cornwall Road, Coventry.
Why is a bad Stedman ringer like a man with toothache?
Some of the attempted answers to this important problem were very amusing:-

The former tries to do two-thirds after his whole pull quick and the latter tries to get a quick pull after his holed tooth hurts.'
'They both leave it to the last moment to find their way in, and they both want to get out quickly.'
'They both nead several pulls to get right.'

- They both need Pulling (Alfred H.).' This with apologies to ringers other than Guildford ones.
'Because the 2th should bave been out quick but was kept in the front too long.'
'Both seek quick relief from slow suffering.'
' Because he is jumpy to the touch.'
- Because he mustn't forget to go in quick and have it out of course at the first call.'

ANSWERS

1. -78243165 , course 63524 . The other solution is 68243175 .
2. -44.
3.-Kate Crosby.
3. $-33 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cw}$. E-W.
5.-Because he dodges behind too long, then goes in slow. There is an agonising whole pull, a snap. then he runs out quick.
4. -25 and 55
7.-Tittums.
8.-Number ringers 1 to 13. First peal band is $1,3,4.8$, second $2,4,5,9$, etc., and rotaie band cyclically.

> 9.- 4,608
> 10.-November 2nd, A.D. 2007.
11. -58 days, 16 hours, 24 minutes, 46 seconds.
12. 120 'changes' !

OUTLINE OF SOLUTIONS

1.-All the changes are divisible by 3 and 9 . Since $7 \times 11 \times 13=1,001$, we need only trouble about 5 and 1.001 . Since the change must end in 5 , let it be abcdefg5. Divide this by 1,001 algebraically and the remainder is $100(f-c)+$ $10(\mathrm{~g}-\mathrm{d}+\mathrm{a})+(5-\mathrm{e}+\mathrm{b})$ which is either 0 or a multiple of 1,001 . Obviously ( $f-c$ ) cannot be 10 so that the remainder is 0 . On further thought this gives $\mathrm{f}-\mathrm{c}=-1, \mathrm{~g}-\mathrm{d}+\mathrm{a}=9$, $5-c+b=10$.
This gives, on considering possibilities, either 68243175 or 78243165 , the latter being the 68243175 or 78243165 , the latter solution as the tenors are unparted.

QUIZ, 1951
2.-There are 24 changes with 5 -part relationship to rounds and 20 with 6 -part relationship, 44 in all.
3.- Each number represents a letter; 1234567890 being KATECROSBY. 3214 meaning 'take,' etc.
4.- Let the treble weigh $x$ cwt.; then the second weighs $x+1$ cwt., etc., the tenor weighing $x+28^{\circ}$ cwt. The equation is then $3(4 x+10)$ $=4 x+74$, whence $x=5 \frac{1}{2}$ and the tenor weighs $33 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. The only way of dividing them up into fours of cqual weights is $1467,2358$.
5.-To solve this, extract the square root.
6.-If the ages are $x$ and $y$, the equation (after factorising and cancelling) is $x^{2}+x y+y^{2}$ $=5025$. Examination of the units figures of $x, y$ shows they must both be five. From hereon it can be solved by trial. Or, writing the equation $5^{2} \times\left(804-3 n^{2}\right)$ quac in $x$, the discriminant is $5^{2} \times\left(804-3 n^{2}\right)$ where $y=5 n$. Thus $804-3 n^{2}$ must be a perfect square, giving $\mathrm{n}=5$ or 11 .
7.-Just a matter of transposing Rounds as Tittums is to Queens. Answer-Tittums.
8.-Space out numbers 1 to 13 equally round a circle. There are thus 6 distinct lengths of diagonals joining pairs of numbers and one has to find a set of four numbers such that the 6 joins among the four are all different lengths. On rotating this pattern, all 13 bands are found.
9.-All are divisible by 9 , hence trouble only about 11. The qule is that the odd digits have the same total as the even ones. Since the sum of all digits is 36 , we have to divide 12345678 into two sets adding up to 8 . This can he done in four distinct ways, $1278 / 3456,1368 / 2457$. $1458 / 2367.2358 / 1467$. Thus there is a choice of eight ways of placing the sets. and having done so each can be arranged in 24 ways. Result. $8 \times 24 \times 24$.
10.- Every 28 years the pattern of dates repeats itself throughout the year. The rest-just a slog.
11. This is solved by a fluke! Supposing the bells carry on, then they toll fogether periodically given by the L.C.M. of 13, J5. 17. 19. 21, 23. etc., i.c., $10,140,585$ seconds. Now, since all the numbers are odd, exactly halfway through this period will he half way through the period of each hell and so shortly after, the bells toll in order, the treble $6 \frac{1}{2}$ seconds later, and so on. Since the bells start in such an order, the answer is half the L.C.M. minus $6 t$.
12.-As three of the hells sound alike, the usual changes become alike in 6's. and the total extent is 720 divided by $6=120$ changes.
Mathemeticians interested in No. 8 might try solving it for 21 ringers. 21 peals, 5 per band.
SOS Can anyone find a change on eight bells that is a perfect square?

RINGING RHYMES  No. 1-CONTROL

To ring at all. first* learn control
Of bell, so that you'll make it toll
With balanced pause, twixt hand and back
And back and hand. Without this knack
Forbear to iry e'en rounds to ring,
For belt-control is the foremost thing.
But pray beware of habits bad
Acquired at this stage-very sad!
The worst is pulling short and sharp
Without full reach from high to low,
The rope-like twanzing string of t-arp-
From side to side will loosely go.
And what is more, on a heavier bell
Your striking will be all to - blame !
But with a good style from the start
You'll play a steady ringer's part.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD Annual Meeting in City Council Chamber

The members of the St. Martin's Guild were again privileged to hold their annual meeting in the historic City Council Chamber on January 5th, by kind invitation of the Deputy Mayor of Birmingham (Alderman A. Paddon Smith, J.P.).
From carly afternoon the 12 bells of the Cathedral were in use, the spacious ringing chamber being crowded to full capacity with ringers from surrounding districts. It is very encouraging to observe that practically every tower in the Diocese was represented.
In the beautiful banqueting room at the Councll House, tea was provided for about 40 members, a privilege that was greatly enjoyed by all present. A course of Stedman Cinques was rung on handbells in which the Deputy Mayor ook part.
The meeting in the Council Chamber was presided over by the Master (Alderman A. Paddon Smith, J.P.) who expressed his pleasure at the opportunity of inviting the Guild to that historic building.
The following new menibers were elected:Miss Jean Chown, Yardley: Messrs. Anthony Ager, Fred Newton, Robert Tallis and Alfred Allwood, all of 'Packwood : Joseph Lightfoot, Knowle ; and David Barr, of Shenstone.
The tower elections of the following lifemembers were duly ratified :-Mrs. H. J. Poole, Leicester: Messis. Br an Sutton, Stourbridge ; John Rock and Leslie Evans, Eardisland ; and Michael Moreton. Hereford.
With the exception of the librarian the whole of the officers were re-elected, viz.-Master, Alderman A. Paddon Smith, J.P.; Ringing Master, Mr. G. W. Critchley; trustees, Alderman A. Paddon Smith, J.P., and Mr. E. T. Allaway; auditors. Mr. H. H. Fearn and Mr. S. O'C. Holloway; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. G. E. Fearn.
Mr. E. C. Shzpherd was elected to the office of librarian in place of Mr. J. F. Harvey. Mr. Harvey had recently been preventee from practical ringing by reason of a serious illness, but was now. happily, well on the road to recovery. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to him for his past services.
The ringers of Aston Parish Church invited the Guild to their tower for the next meeting which will take place on April 5th.
The Master (Alderman A Paddon Smith J.P.) was invited to be chairman at the Henry Jonnson dinner which will take place on March 15th.
Mr. Albert Walker proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Deputy Mayor for his kind invitation to tea and for allowing the Guild the opportunity of holding their meeting in the Council Chamber. He hoped that the time was not far distant when the duties of Deputy Mayor would allow him to take a rope in Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's on Sunday mornings.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION  Wisbech Branch

Visitors from as far afield as Cambridge. Ipswich and Peterborough attended the annual meeting of the Wisbech Branch at Wisbech on January 12th. The service was conducted by the curate, in the absence of the Vicar.
Officers clected were:-President, the Rev. J. Sturgiss Jones; secretary, Mr. J. E. Fox; Ringing Master, Mr. C. Cousins ; Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. E. H. Mastin; Repair Fund treasurer, Mr. F. Bowett.
The secretapy reported a mombership of 69, seven new members having been elected during the year. Twenty-two peals had been rung for the branch. Two rings had been restored-the six at All Saints', Tilney, and the five at Emneth. From the Repair Fund $£ 15$ had been donated towards thesc restorations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CENTRAL COUNCIL MINUTES
Dear Sir-As an old officer of the Council I should like to comment on a part of the letter which you published on Jan. 11th from Mr. Alan R. Pink, wherein he makes complaint as to the Counsil's minutes being published so late in each current year.

Upon my taking over from the previous secretary, the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies, he advised me that the minutes should be published in the spring, thus securing the advantage of coming hot out of the oven,' in view of the many annual mectings which occur at that time. Our joint experience of 30 years seems to be confirmed by that of our successor, Mr. G. W. Fletcher, with his record length of 21 years as honorary secretary. And, incidentally, cne can reflect that many years must pass ere only three such officers, of mature age, shall have served for half a century.-Yours very truly, Bromley, Kent.
E. ALEX. YOUNG.

ST. MARY'S, WILLFSBOROUGH

Dear Sir,-The ringers of St. Mary's, Willesborough, wish to congratulate the Lavenham ringers on their fine effort, but would like to put forward the claim of a six-bell tower. They, too, have rung for every service in 1951, and for service ringing in that year scored 19 quarter peals and 41 other touches of 720 changes or over, a total of 54.092 changes in nine Minor and three Doubles methods. No record is kept of any touch of less than 720 changes, but unsecorded touches certainly total more than 10,000 changes and probably exceed 15,000 changes. Even so, 1951 has not been a particularly outstanding year for the St. Mary's ringers. for in 1950 they scored 20 quarter peals and 31 other touches of 720 changes or over, in addition to many unrecorded touchcs.-Yours faithfully.
R. J. CARLTON. Secretary

St. Mary's Society of Change Ringers.
Willesborough, Kent.

BURES, SUFFOLK

Dear Sir,-With reference to Belfry Gossip remarks on service ringing for 1951 at Lavenham, I will point out that, apart from the war years, this happy position has existed there since 1912. Your request for other records has prompted us at Bures to summarise our own tower for the last year.
We have rung for 'every Sunday service possible, namely, 98 , as our bells were in the hands of the bellfounders for five Sundays, one of these being Easter when we should have rung three times, commencing at $6.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. Two of our company have rung their first peal, a third being unlucky. Five have rung their first quarter and two have conducted their first touch. We have been glad to welcome nearly 300 visitors
Three hundred and sixty-four copies of "The Ringing World' have been purchased, representing nearly fourpence per day. With a population of 1.200 we have raised an average of $£ 8$ per week and cleared the cost of our new bells and the reconditioning of the ringing chamber without any cost whatsoever to our Parochial Church Council.
The first quarter peal by an all-local company has been rung.
Thus we rang out 1951 with a feeling of satisfaction to us all.-Yours sincerely.
Bures, Suffolk.
LESLIE D. MIL!S.

CHERWELL SURPRISF,

${ }^{w}$ Dear Sir.-The composition given by Mr. E. W. Tipler for Cherwell Surprise was publish:?d by Henry Dains as a peal of Superlative in the issuc of 'Campanology' dated October 14th. 1896 -Yours faithfully, E. A. BARNETT.

CHANGE RINGING IN SOUTH AFRICA

Dear Sir,-A church in Pretoria has been presented with a set of tubular bells for calling people to worship. It is a set of 13 chromatic scale, in key of $\dot{C}$. I have been requested by the organist there to provide music for these bells. I hesitated at first, thinking it might be considered a; canned bell-ringing and heretical in the eyes of 'The Ringing World. But it is not on a par with gramophone records. for the tubular bells of Pretoria are worked from a keyboard like a piano, a carillon, so to speak, on a small scale, but not to be compared with Taylor's four- or five-octave carillon at loughborough, which requires a skilled musician.

I was reminded of my boyhood days, watching the chimer pulling the chords at Peterborough Cathedral, and recently, the apparatus at Exeter Cathedral, also that at Hazelbeech rear bere. So I concluded it was not heretical for a man to chime the tubular bells from a keyboard instead of cords.

I decided to write out and send to Pretoria Mr. J. Bennett's Grandsire Triples touch of 266. which was published a week or two ago in ' The Ringing World,' which, I believe, is the shortest that brings in Queen's, Whittington's and Tittums. I hope Pretoria will hear a musical touch of English change ringing.

J. MAURICE TURNER

Moulton, Northants.

Note--It was with great pleasure that we recorded a peal at Woodstock. Capetown. last week. We hope others will follow. There are two towers at Durban and one at Grahamstown with bells hung for change ringing as well as at Woodstock.-Ed.

HAD BILBIE A SECRET FORMULA?

Dear $\mathrm{Sir},-$ For a couple of years, immediately after the war, I was a ringer at Publow, 'iomerset, where there is a heavy, tuneful ring of six. Some of the bells were cast by Bilbie- 1 remember that the 5 th bore the inscription: ' I am a good bell and Bilbie built me.'
I was told there that Bilbie's was a local foundry-situate, I believe, at Chew Stoke. I was also told that the Bilbies bad a secret fermula for bell-tuning and that when the family died out, the secret died with them. Have any of your readers any information on this subject? There is no doubt that people in and around the Chew Valley believe 11 ere arc no bells like Bilbie's_-Yours faithfully,
A. J. GOULD

PLAIN BOB ON ODD NUMBERS

Dear Sir--Mr. Alan R. Pink, in his letter of January lith, states that Mr. Lewis wonders whether Plain Bob on odd numbers should not be classed as unorthodox. If he will look up Rules and Decisions of the Central Council, published in 1904, he will sec on page 17 the definition of a legitimate method. No bell moves up or down more than one place at a time and no bell lies more than two consecutive blows in any one place. That, I think, proves that Plain Bob on odd numbers is not only irregular, it is illegitimate.
Why not do the same to Plain Bob as is done in Double Norwich Caters, put the extra bell in the hunt and move the places to fit?
Take the formula : At each treble lead a place is made immediatcly above the bell or bells in the hunt and the remainder dodge, and you have a perfectly legitimate method for odd or even bells.-Yours faithfully,
A. TURNER.

Barnsbury, London, N.1.

IRREGULAR METHODS

Dear Sir,-The letter of Mr. H. Chant on December 2ist contains some pungent remarks and demands an answer. Let me take some of his poiats.
(1).-Campanological Balderdash. This is extremely unfortunato because the contents of 'The Ringing World ' are subject to the scrutiny of the Editor and the Editorial Committee. Surely these gentlemen know which is common sense and which is balderdash. Again, somebody has to write on different subjects or The Ringing World ' would be merely blank paper
(2).-Cartuheeling. A simple question here. Do you cartwhecl your rounds?' If you don't, then be logical and give a lead in the rhanges.
(3).-Woodbine, etc. These methods can be put right or regular (as pointed out by C. K. Lewis) by the simple addition of 5ths when the treble is behind. To go on doing things because you have always done so is not progressive. If someone shows you a better way, why not adopt it?
(4). $-6-5$ 's at back stroke don't matter. As a Yorkshireman you are going against the greatest name in ringing literature. viz., Snowdon. Both Jasper and William condemned close leads and 6-5's at back stroke.
(5). -The Council is a democratically-elected body and not a band of theoretical nobodies who just -ing eight, ten and twelve bells. They are mostly an advisory body and one of their jobs is to guide our ringing art along the right lines. In this they have been successful, but they cannot compel any ringer to do anything. Neither shall we get the best out of the Council by sarcastic remarks as to their qualifications. In conclusion let me make it plain that I am not a member nor am I likely to be. And as I have a mortal dread of being added to the list 1 must sign myself
M. R. P.
P.S.-All good wishes to 'cartwheelers' and others for 1952.

IRREGULAR LEAD-ENDS

Dear Sir.-I cannot understand why the ringing of methods with so-called irregular leadends should be discouraged by the Central Council.
If it is only the fact that they produce leadends different from Plain Bob, then surely it is only making rules for the sake of rulemaking.
If these methods, as has been suggêsted, make the calling more difficult, then they have an added attraction. All organised sports and pastimes must have some rules to govern them and change ringing is no exception. These rules should be framed (and if necessary altered from time to time) so that only the best of the many sides and branches of our art is encouraged. One of the most objectionable features of Minor ringing is when 5-6 comes the wrong way on at back stroke especially when open ends are the rule.
In the Central Council 'Collection of Minor Methods' there are 8 Treble Bob methods. 11 4ths place Delight methods. 17 3rds place Delight methods and 11 Surprise methods, a total of 47. All these methods are incapable of producing a 720 without 6 -5's coming up at the back stroke. On the other hand there are a number of methods which do not produce the magic Plain Bob lead-ends. bit which are capable of producing 720 's with all the $5-6$ 's the right way.
Which of these two sets of methods are the most desirable? The "official 'ones with the $6-5$ 's or the 'outcasts, with all the $5-6$ 's the right way? If the members of the Methods Committee can prove that the former are still desirable, I, for one, am quite willing to learn.-Yours sincerely,
H. T ROOKE

THE CURFEW IN ENGLISH LIFE

By ERNEST MORRIS

$\mathrm{O}^{\mathrm{N}}$NE of the oldest customs connected with our English bells is the ringing of 11 e Curfew. Its origin is well known. It was heard in Normandy at an early date and its use was enforced in this country-where it appears to have been partially instituted by King Alfred, who is said to have ordered its use in Oxford, at Carfax - by William the Conqueror, probably for the purpose of preventing nocturnal assemblies. On the first point we have evidence in Peshall's 'History of Oxford,' page 177, where the following passage occurs:-

The custom of ringing the bell at Carfax every night at eight o'clock (called Curfew or Cover-fire bell) was by order of King AIfred, the restorer of our University, who ordered that all the inhabitants should. at the ringing of that bell, cover up their fires and go to bed, which custom is observed to this day, and the bell as constantly rings at eight, as Great Tom tolls at nine. It is also a custom added to the former, after the ringing and tolling this bell, to let the inhabitants know the day of the month by so many tolls." Henry, in his 'History of Britain' 4 to iii. 567 tells us :-

- The custom of covering up their fires about sunset in summer and about eight at night in winter, at the ringing of a bell called "couvre feu" or curfew bell is supposed by some to have been introduced by William 1., and imposed upon the English as a badge of servitude. But this opinion doth not seem to be well founded, for there is sufficient evidence that the same custom prevailed in France, Spain, Italy, Scotland and probably in all countries of Europe in this period and was intended as a precaution against fires, which were then very frequent when so many houses were built of wood.'

PURELY SECULAR AT FIRST

Originally purely a secular custom, it did not acquire a religious significance, as we have seen, till the later Middle Ages. There are few points in ancient jurisprudence of England which are enveloped in more obscurity, or which have given rise to more conflicting opinions as to their origins and intentions than the 'couvre feu' law. Although there is no evidence to show that it originated with the Norman Conqueror, yet it appears certain that in 1068 he ordained that all people should put out their fires and lights at the eight o'clock bell. and go to bed. But that it was not intended as a badge of infamy is evident from the fact that the law was of equal obligation upon the forcign nobles of the Court as upon the nativeborn Saxon serfs. And yet we find the name - Curfew bell' employed as a by-word denoting the most odious tyranny, and historians, poets and lawyers speaking of it as the acme of despotism levclled alone at the vanquished English. However well intended the 'couvre feu, law may have been, it appears to have met with much opposition, as in 1103 we find Henry I. repealing the enactment of his father. Blackstone says that though it is mentioned a century after it is rather spoken of as a time of night than as a still subsisting custom. Thus Chaucer:-

- The depe slepe, for every hesinesse.

Fell on this carpenter, right as I gesse
About curfew time, or litel more.'
Thompson has immediately described its tyranny:-

- The shiv'ring wretches, at the curfew sound,

Dejected sunk' into their sordid beds;
And, though the mournful gloom of ancient times.
Mus'd sad. or dreamt of better.
Its continuance, however, is to be attributed to a religious and not to a civil purpose. The to a religious and not to a civil purpose. Pope John XXII (1316-1334) to be said at the sound of a bell called the Angelus, and it is probable that the Curfew was continued as a warning to all to say Ave to the Blessed Virgin before retiring to rest. This is indicated by the inscription on the fine bell hanging in the clock tower at St. Albans, given by Roger de Norton (wnu died in 1290) 'to be struck every night at the time of Curfew.' The inscription is one found on 'Gabriel bells,' of which there is good reason for thinking were used for ringing the morning and evening Angelus. 'Thrice every day (writes Polydore Vergel, c. 1550) the bells are rung that everyone may kneel and respect the Angel's salutations to the Blessed Virgin.' We gather from this statement. as well as from 'Hooper's Injunctions' in 1551, that the ringing of the Curfew was, in some places, accompanied by or replaced by, the ringing of all the bells in the steeple.

Although since the Reformation the custom of ringing the Curfew, or last Angelus, has been gradually waning, the practice still lingers in many places all over England. Still further abandonment of the practice was caused by the first war of 1914-18 during which, of course, it was not permissible to ring bells at eventide. Thus, here in Leicester, at St. Martin's Church (now the Cathedral). I myself have rung the old ninth bell for Curfew, but this was discontinued during the war and never reintroduced.

CURFEW BY-LAWS

The usual time for ringing the Curfew was eight o'clock. A bye-law passed at Tamworth in 1390 provided that no man, woman or servant should go out after Curfew from one place to another unless they had a light in their hands, under pain of imprisonment; and its sound was, for a long period, the signal for closing all the taverns and alehouses. In 1291 no wine was to be drawn after it had rung; and although until about the time of Henry VII. ale was sold without any restriction, still all public houses had to be closed at the tolling of Curfew (Palmer- ' Perlustration of Great Yarmouth,' Vol 1, pages 30 and 85). It would appear to have been frequently, and perhaps on that account, rung at nine o'clock in the larger towns. That was the hour at All Saints', Stamford; Stamford-Baron: All Saints', Northampton; and at St. Martin's, Leicester (noticed above), where a bye-law was passed in the 25 th year of Elizabeth, inflicting a fine upon any alehouse keeper who suffered any townsman to remain in his house after the Curfew bell had rung.
The ringing at nine o'clock in the evening of Bow-bell, in London. was also. in 1469, the signal for closing of shops. In the second mayoralty of Sir Henry Colet, Knt. (father of Dean Colet). A.D. 1495, and under his direction. the solemn charge was given to the Quest of Wardmote in every ward. as it stands printed in the Customary of London:-

Also yf ther be anye paryshe clerke that ryngeth curfewe after the curfewe be ronge at Bow chyrche; or Saint Brydes Chyrche or Saint Gyles without Criplegate; all such to be presented.'
In the 'Articles for the Sexton' at Faversham, agreed upon and settled, in 22 Henry VIII., we read :-

Imprimis, the Sexton, or bis sufficient deputy, shall lye in the church steeple: and at eight o'clock every night shall ring the curfewe by the space of a quarter of an hour, which such bell as of old time hath been accustomed.'
A relic of yet carlier use of the bell meets us in the direction for the bellman of Loughborough in the 15 th century, that 'at viij of ye cloke at night in the whinter and somer' he should ring the Curfew 'and then go to bed.'

THE PEALS ANALYSIS

'At a much earlier date than ringers for many years, at any rate, have been given the information, we were able, last week, to announce the list of the first eight Associations in the Peals Analysis. It must be understood, of course, that the list is unofficial.

For the first time the Winchester Guild has come out at the top, and with a fairly substantial lead. . . The Middlesex Association [came second] after a remarkable finish to the year .... during November and December 29 peals were rung out of, so far as is known, 36 attempts.

Of the conductors, many of the old names will be found among those leading the way, but Mr. A. H Pulling has taken a big jump to the front by calling 67 peals in the year. Mr. William Pye, first in 1910 with 45, was second last year with 46 , and among others well up in the list are: Messrs. B. Prewett 30, F. Bennett $28, G$. Williams 25, J. Motts 21 and Bennett $\mathbf{C}$. Glenn 20 . One other feature to which we must allude is the advance of Miss Edith Parker, who, out of 21 peals rung during 1911, conducted 17 , including seven peals of London, four of Superlative, three of Cambridge and three of Stedman

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD  Devizes Branch

In extending a welcome to the ringers at the branch's annual meeting at Devizes on January 5th, the Vicar (the Rev. E. S. Dabbs) expressed his pleasure at secing so many young people present. 'In every tower,' he said, 'it is the same cry-we do want younger people to keep the ancient craft of bell-ringing alive.' A former Vicar, the Ven. C. A. Plaxton (Archdeacon of Wiltshire), also attended.
The secretary, in his annual report, stated that Bromham bells were now in working order but owing to the state of the tower could not be rung. A fund had been opened to rectify this. He paid tribute to the late Mr. W. Hart (Westbury) and Mr. Mees (Hilperton), who were the branch's oldest members.
All the branch officers were re-elected:-Mr. W. C. West (chairman), Mr. A. T. Weeks (vicechairman) and Mr. F., Slatford (secretary).

It was decided to hold the next annual general meeting at Devizes, with the next three monthly meetings at Hilperton, Potterne and Warminster.
A membership of 213 ringing members, 11 life ringing members and 5 honorary members was reported. Accounts showed a balance in hand of $£ 157 \mathrm{~s}$. 3d.
Before the meeting, ringing took place in the three towers in the town. A service followed at St. John's. conducted by the Rector, tea being served in the Parish Room.
Ringing during the afternoon and evening ranged from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Major.

THE MEMBURY DEDICATION

Dear Sir,-According to my records the five bells at Membury were dedicated in June, 1900. not December, 1901, as remembered by the Rev. E. V. Cox. After ringing a quarter peal at Axminster, those members of the Devon Guild who attended the dedication at Membury were conveyed by horsc brake from Axminster.
I do not remember ringing with Mr. Cox or Mr . Bond on this occasion, but I am sure the date was June 21 st. 1900 . therefore the interval is $51 \frac{1}{2}$ years instead of 50 .-Yours sincerely,

PAKEFIELD, SUFFOLK

To Be Augmented To a Ring of Eight

Pakefield Chur-h, Suffolk, standing right on the edge of a cliff, was destroyed, with the exception of the tower, by incendiaries on April 21st, 1941. It was the first war-damaged church in England to be rebuilt and was rededicated on January 29th, 1950.
Its bells, an old ring of five, are shortly to be rehung in a new metal frame with new fittings. Three new trebles are being added to complete the octave, with a tenor weighing just under half a ton. The contract was placed with Messrs. John Taylor and Co., who removed the bells last October.
The old five bells are being turned and retuned. The work will be finished by the end of March and the dedication of the three new bells, the new organ and part of the new roodscreen will take place on Thursday, April 3rd, by the Lord Bishop of Norwich.
The old five bells were cast as follows:-
Treble.-Thomas Gardiner. Norwich, 1749
Second.-William Brend, Norwich, 1618.
Third-William Brend, Norwich, 1621
Fourth.-Thomas Newman, Norwich, 1728.
Tenor, replacing an earlier bell by Thomas Newman. of Norwich, dated 1728, was hung by George Day. of Eye, in 1873 , and was cast by Warners. The tenor of 1728 was broken in 1816 and the metal was sold. the money being used for new pews in the church. Raven, in his 'Church Bells of Suffolk.' only mentions the front four bells. The church was thus without a tenor for nearly 60 years.
The approximate cost of rebuilding the church, the improvements and the new bells is approximately $£ 12,500$ towards which the War Damage Commission bave contributed £6,506 3s. 7d. More money has still to be raised before the bells are to be paid for. Those familiar with this church. dedicated to All Saints and St. Margaret, and other friends are asked to send donations to the Rector, Canon B. P. W. Stather Hunt, The Rectory, Pakefield, Lowestoft.

OBITUARY

MR. GERALD LOCKE
The death occurred on January 10th, after a short illness, of Mr. Gerald Locke, aged 74. captain of the Langport tower, Somerset.
The funeral took place on January 14th and the large congregation included the following ringers: Messrs. H. G. Westlake, G. R. Mills, A. Wetherall, M. Clarke, P. Fox, H. Taylor, A. Rothwell, C. Sandford and J. Martin. The service was conducted by ihe Vicar. The local band rang the bells half-muffled after the interment.

AN APPRECIATION

Mr. Locke had been a regular and keen service ringer at All Saints', Langport, for the past 54 years and his passing leaves a gap which will be very difficult to fill. He was not a keen peal ringer. his chief pride being in good service ringing and he was always ready to assist anyone who needed help in ringing
He will be greatly missed, not only by the All Saints' band, but also by the numerous friends he made amongst the ringers in the district.
Much sympathy has been extended to his widow, son and daughter in their sad bereaveament.
H. W.

MR. JOHN GIBSON

One of the oldest ringers in the country, Mr. John Gibson, died on January 15 th at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hollowood, 44, Bargates, Whitchurch, Shropshire, aged 93 years.
After serving his apprenticeship as a pattern maker he joined the staff of Messrs. J. B. Joyce and Co., Ltd., Whitchurch, and examples of his craftsmanship can be seen all over the British Isles and all over the world. He helped to build the famous Sydney (Australia) clock, which is second in size only to that of Westminster.
Mr. Gibson learnt to ring at Chester Cathedral over 60 years ago, in the days of Freeman Ball. and rang a number of neals with the Cathedral band. He came to Whitchurch about the time that the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies was curate there. He was a great walker, and would walk the 16 miles to Wrexham for peal attempts and also to Ellesmere, 12 miles away.
He took over the captaincy of the Whitchurch ringers on the death of Thomas Baron, about 25 years ago, and retired just before his 90th birthday.

MR. R. SHARPINGTON

The Essex Association has lost by death a very old and respected member in the person of Mr. Roger Sharpington, of Galleywood, who died on January 16 th . aged 84 years.

Over 60 years ago he learned to ring at Ail Saints', Springfield. where he continued to give service until moving to Galleywood in 1914. Here he immediately joined the band, rendering faithful service in bis quiet. unassuming way. On his 80th birthday the local ringers gathered around him many of his ringing friends. and with the bnvs of his youneer days he turned the tenor in to Bob Minor. Deafness had been a great handicap for many years but what he dia was done to the best of his ability.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION  Rochdale Branch

On January 12th the Rochdale Branch held their annual tea party at Christ Church Schools, Healey, near Rochdale.
Members were present from a wide area of South-East Lancashire. Towers represented were St. Chad's, Rochdale Parish Church; All Saints'. Hamer; St. Mary's, Balderstone; St. Bartholomew's, Whitworth; St. Leonard's, Middleton ; St. Mary's, Oldham ; St. Mark's, Glodwick ; St. Thomas', Moorside ; St. James', East Crompton; Christ Church, Todmorden ; St. Paul's. Cross Stones, and, of course, the local band at Healey.
Commencing at 2.30 p.m., the proceedings were opened by several touches on the bells (six, tenor 16 cwt .), methods rung ranging from Oxford, Kent and St. Clement's Minor to Plain Bob. Grandsire Doubles. call changes and rounds.

At 4.30 there followed a ringers' service, at which the preacher was the Rev. R. D. St. John Smith, president of the Lancashire Association, an enthusiastic and capable change ringer himself. He spoke of the message of joy or sorrow expressed at different times by the bells, and of the service performed by the ringers to the community of churchpeople.
After an enjoyable tea, whist and dancing were enjoyed in the Schoolroom, upwards of 200 ringers and friends being present.
The high spot of the evening's entertainment, however, was provided by the Oldham handbell ringers, who were in tip-top form for the occasion. They faultlessly rendered a grand selection of melodies, including such well-known favourites as 'Home Sweet Home,' 'The Legend of the Bells' 'Scotch Reel,' Mozart's 'Gloria,' and as a grand finale 'Auld Lang Syne.'
The proccedings closed about 11 p.m., with many expressions of thanks to Mr. Brian Coop and the Healcy ringers for the excellent tea and arrangements, and to Mr. Ivan Kay, for arranging transport home for visiting friends.

DEDICATION

HAZFLBURY BRYAN, DORSET

Although the work of rehanging the six bells at Hazelbury Bryan, Dorset. was completed in December, 1950, it was decided to wait until the new ringers' gallery and vestry were completed before holding the dedication and thanksgiving service. This was eventually held on Sunday afternoon. January 13 th, and the ceremony was performed by the Bishop of Sherborne, assisted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. Munro) and other visiting clergy.
The church was packed with parishioners and subscribers to the Bell Fund, and arrangements for the occasion were ably carried out by Miss V. N. Cress. secretary to the Parochial Church Council. Immediately after the actual dedication. the bells were rung for a few moments by the local company under the leadership of Mr. W. E. Trevett. captain.

Later the bells were rung during the afternoon and evening by the seven visiting ringers who were invited to the ceremony. They were kindly entertained to tea at the Rectory, a gesture which was much appreciated.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Ltd., were entrusted with the work, and the bells were retunce and rehung with ball bearings together with new fittings. and the existing iron bellframe considerably strengthened. The tenor weighs 16 cwt. 1 ar
During the evening 720 Oxford Bob Minor was rung by the following :- - W. C. Shute (representing Salisbury Diocesan Guild) 1. Mrs. F. Vacher 2. S. Weeks 3. B Ridout (representing North Dorset Branch) 4. A. P. Cannon (representing the bellfounders) (conductor) 5, C. Chant 6. First $72 n$ in the method on the bells and for ringers of 2,3 and 4 .

THE LATE-COMER

AMONG the many trials and tribulations attendant on the pursuit of ringing, the late-comer must be regarded as the one perhaps the least capable of being andured with equanimity and tolerance. We encourage the learner, although he may be troublesome to us; we sustain the timid ringer, and we often tolerate the poor striker. It is our duty to be patient in these matters, for reflection shows us in some ringing matters we are all beginners, many of us timid at times, and very few of us not guilty on occasion of striking bad blows. Provided we are in earnest we cannot be taken seriously to task because human failing sometimes causes us to be a nuisance to our fellows.

But the habitual late-comer occupies a prominent place in an entirely different category, for he may be classed among the social evils. In all walks of life the late-comer is met with, and in most instances the harm he does is not confined to himself, but extends to his colleagues. In ringing matters this is particularly so, for the absence of one member of the band renders the projected work impossible. The choir may get along with the lack of one soprano, or the cricket team may at a pinch commence its match one short; but the band that meets for Cambridge Maximus must await the arrival of the twelve men before anything can be done. To the habitual late-comer such a consideration never seems to present itself, nor does he seem to mind keeping his friends waiting about, although they may have four hours of ringing before them.

In Sunday service ringing unpunctuality can be an even greater embarrassment. Here the time is limited, of course, and among the things the late-comer ignores is the unfairness of his action, not only to the band, but to the conductor, who must, perforce, adjust the length of his touch to the time available.

The late-comer and the reason for his persistence are problems nobody has solved. There may be, although it is extremely unlikely, unfortunates for whom everything goes wrong at the last minute, and who are doomed, through all their lives, to be hindered by forces outside their command. But this theory will, one is sure, never be accepted by the thoughtful. There is, without doubt, the person with the mentality that imagines that to come late is to assume an importance in the eyes of his fellows; and it must be said that this person achieves a measure of success among the timid and undiscerning. With the normal and thoughtful he brings himself near to being contemptible. There is the third type of late-comer, he who, through his own slackness and lack of preparation, cannot leave home at the proper time. He is perhaps the least pernicious, but he is none the less a nuisance.

Here is a view of this problem presented by the writer of a letter on the subject: ' To fail deliberately in an appointment with others seems to me an act of gross discourtesy. . . . If a man undertakes to meet others at a particular time and in a particular place, he is morally bound to be in that place at the time, and not at such time after the appointed hour as happens to suit the whim of the moment.' These words, written in 1892, would seem to express what every right-minded ringer thinks on this question, and remind us that however far we have advanced in change ringing we have not yet conquered this particular evil.

The psalmist counted among the virtuous 'he that sweareth unto his neighbour and disappointeth him not, though it were to his own hindrance.' We, in this age, surely need not consider ourselves priggish if we believe, with the Hebrew poet, that punctuality is a social duty and part of the make-up of a good citizen.
E. C. S.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from ' The Ringing World ' of February 2nd, 1912 SINGULAR ACTION AT BRIGG
It is, happily, such a curious and, as ringers will think, retrogressive action as that which has occurred at Brigg. in Lincolnshire, has to be recorded. The church and bells were in need of restoration, and the authorities, fearing that they would not be able to raise sufficient funds to pay for the work, sacrificed two of the bells to help meet the expenditure. The bells were formerly a light ring of eight, with a tenor of about nine cwt.; they are now but a ring of six. . . . But the irony of it all is that now all the work has been completed, there is a balance in hand on the repair fund of $£ 100$.
[In the next issue, a correspondent recalled the selling, in 1883, of the two trebles of the then ring of twelve at St. Peter's, St. Albans, to defray the cost of recasting two other bells- the only time a ring of twelve has been lost in this fashion.]

GOSSIP

An important advance in Spliced Surprise Maximus ringing is the peal in seven methods rung at Leicester Cathedral on January 21st. The methods were Rutland, Pudsey, Lincolnshire, Cambridge, Yorkshire, Belgrave and Superlative. Congratulations to the Cathedral band on a fine achievement.

The peal of Stedman Caters at Rotherham, published on page 34, was composed by Mr. G . Newson, a famous Cumberland of 50 to 60 years ago.

Mr. D. Woodward and Mr. D. Collins, of the Suffolk Guild, have now ruing peals of Minor from one to seven methods. All these peals have been called by Mr. M. P. Page.
Mr. H. S. Morley, secretary of the Eastern Division of the Yorkshire Association, has recently undergone a serious operation in Leeds Infirmary. The latest report is that he is progressing very favourably Bolsover Parish Church bells will be re-opened on March 1st. After rehanging, the bells will be dedicated to the memory of John Flint, Charles Mason, Jesse J. Moss and Rhemaliah Coupe, who gave valuable service to the tower over a long period of years.

The bells of St. Matthew's, Upper Clapton, have been replaced by Messrs. Mears and Slainbank, and the Wednesday practizes have been resumed. Sound control has seen introduced to meet complaints of nearby residents. Thanks are expressed by the band to the various ringers who subscribed to help pay for the wort

The band who rang the peal of Bristol at Crayford on January 12 th would like it to be regarded as a compliment firstly to the Rev. H. H and Mrs. Hurwood on the birth of a granddaughter, and secondly to $\mathbf{M r}$. John Wheadon, for many years a ringer at Dartford but now resident in Cheshire, who celebrated his 80 th birthday a week previously.

COMING-OF-AGE OF THE NATIONAL POLICE GUILD

LEICESTER EXCELS IN HOSPITALITY - POLICE REPRIMANDED FOR PEAL FAILURE - VALUE OF THE POLICE HELMET - LEICESTER AND BIRMINGHAM RIVALRY

LEICESTER has a big reputation in the Exercise not only on account of its prowess in the art of peal ringing but in the development of a strong social side. It was, indeed, fortunate that for the Coming-of-Age celebration of the National Guild of Police Beil-ringers the Guild's president should be a Leicester ringer in the person of Inspector Harold J. Poole, who is also president of the Leicester Diocesan Guild.

The resources of Leicester were, it seemed, at Inspector Poole's disposal to make the occasion memorable in the history of the Guild. Support at the dinner, attended by a company of 160 and held in St. Philip's Hall, on Saturday was forthcoming from the Lord Mayor (Alderman R. Hill) and the Lady Mayoress, the Bishop of Leicester (the Right Rev. Guy Vernon Snith), the Chi:f Constable of Leicester (Mr. O. J. B. Cole), the Chief Constable of Leicestershire and Rutland, Alderman Freer (chairman of the Watch Committec). the Bishop of Rangoon and the Provost of Leicester.

As to rirgers present it could truly be called a representative gathering with Station Sergeant J. G. A. Prior (Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), ex-Chief Inspector W. Bottrill (founder-president of the Police Guild) and such veteran ringers as Mr. J. W. Jones (Newport) and Mr. Josiah Morris (Leicester) present. Mr . Paul L. Taylor and Mrs. Taylor elso attended. Toastnaster for the evening was Mr. E. C. Turner and it was with great cordiality that the company received the president and Mrs. Poole and their distinguished guests.

WHY A TAILOR?

After the Loyal Toast submitted by the president. the Chief Constable of Leicestershire and Rutland (Mr. John A. Taylor) proposed 'The City of Leicester,' and 'coupled with the toast the 494th Mayor. 'I have yet to find out.' said the Chief Constable, 'what the ancient art of bell-ringing tias to do with a Taylor and one of my bright boys produced for me a book of detective fiction called "The Nine Tailors." Why is there a link with Taylors? Perhaps the president could tell us.'

The Lord Mayor (Alderman R. Hill), who replied, said all he knew about bellringing was when he used to spend his school holidays in a Leicestershire village. Bell-ringing was a memory in the minds of all English men and women, wherever they might be-in the wilds of Australia, the backwoods of Canada or in far places in Africa. Whenever they thought of England their minds went back to the countryside and the church bells. Even in mediæval England bells played a big part, as was told by a famous poet: 'The Curfew tolls the knell of parting day.

They all remembered the iragic years of the 1939-45 war when the hells were silent. He had a vivid memory of a Sunday morning in 1945 when he heard the bells of his parish church ringing again. There was a little boy of seven or cight listening to the bells he had never heard before. He was listening in wonderment. Yes, bell-ringing was truly a part of English life and it gave him great pleasure to know that the National Police Guild of Bellringers were carrying on this great tradition
-The National Guild of Police Beli-ringers , was proposed by the Chief Constable of Leicester (Mr. Oswald J. B. Cole), who said in the past 21 years he had spoken at many gatherings of bell-ringers but all he cou!d tell them was to give them an explanation of change-ringing which was in a book their president lent him: - A series of mathematical problems caused by'

INSPECTOR HAROLD J. POOLE
President of the National Guild of Police Bell-ringers bells of different tones being rung consecutively.' Now they knew as much as he did. (Laughter.)

CAUTIONED AND REPRIMANDED
He was told that the first meeting of the Police Bell-ringers was at Leicester, in 1928, when 29 police ringers met under the chairman. ship of Mr Bottrill. The details of that mecting, and also one at Birmingham, were recorded, and of a peal attempt of Stedman Caters at King's Norton, which unfortunately came to grief after 2 hours and 50 minutes through a change course. When 'Stand' had been called. stated the official minute, the culprits were reprimanded and cautioned. Those policemen present, who knew the police code. would know that there was a great difference between a reprimand and a caution.

The next meeting showed that there was some relinquishment of that stern discipline because it stated that an attempt to ring Cambridge Maximus came to grief because too many of the band wanted to dodge in 15-16. (Laughter.) There was not a word about a caution and he was wondering if it was the beginning of trade unionism among the ringers.
Mr. Bottrill was elected the firs! president of the Guild in 1931 and throughout the 21 years they had had only four presidents, the others being Mr. Williams, of Manchester. Mr. Hilton, of the Surrey Constabulary, who was president for five years. and Inspector Poole. who had been president for seven years Before becoming president. Inspector Poole was secretary for 14 years. He was sure their president would like him to mention ex-Sergeant Jelley, who gave him a great deal of help in the early years, and whom they were all pleased to see with them (Applause.)

Mr. Poole had brought a great deal of enthusiasm to hear on the National Guild of Police Ringers for it was not easy to pet people to come together from the four quarters of England and Wales. Personally, he was very proud to have their president as a member of his Force.

THE GUILD'S STALWARTS

The president, in reply, said it was a great privilege and no less an honour to be in the chair at this coming-of-age celebration of the National Police Guild. It was very casy to commence something when the enthusiasm was all of a glow, but it was not quite so easy to keep it going after the original enthusiasm had died down and it needed stalwarts to keep it afloat. They had plenty of such stalwarts in the Police Guild. They had Superintendent Williams, of Manchester. who was responsible mainly for the enthusiasin of the Manchester Force, and Mr. Bottrill, who was in the Metropolitan Force and was the mainspring in the south. There were also such keen centres as Lelcester and Birmingham. There were two names he would like specially to mention-exSergeant Lawrence, of St. Albans, a founder of the Guild, and P.C. Claydon, of Feigate. It was a great honour to have with them Station Sergeant Prior, who had been elected Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, one of the greatest honours that could be conferred on ally ringer.

Station Sergeant J, G. A. Prior, who proposed the toast of 'The Church and State,' said the toast should be really 'Clergy and State ' because it would have given him an opportunity of saying 'thank you' for the privileges they gave them. They did not say 'thank you' for Sunday service ringing because that was their work for the Church of which they were all members, but for the pleasures of other ringing. If it was not for their co-operation their neal totals would be down-and some people might say 'a very good thing. too.'
He need not say much about their relationship with the State excent to say that he hoped the State would never make them into a National Police Force. (Applause.) He also hoped that the State would never interfere with their ringing; they, on their part, must be watchful and avoid excessive ringing, thus giving the public cause for complaint.

THE SIGHT OF THE HELMET

The Lord Bishoo of Leicester, in his reply, cited incidents of the close relationshio between clergy and police. There was, he said. an admirable clergyman who lived on a high road passed by many people in the habit of calling at his house for finarcial assistance, causing him a degree of embarrassment. As a solution he bought a policeman's helmet and a pair of white gloves and put them on the table by the front door. When visitors called, the house keeper would answer 'The Vicar is engaged.' That helmet and pair of gloves were of great assistance to him for the visitor would never wait. (Laughter.)

Although the subject 'Church and State' was a controversial one as they thought of the long history of the Church of England, he would say there was nothing controversial between members of their Guild who served both equally well by ringing their bells for the great festivals of the Church, that they all delighted to keep, or on those great occasions in the life of the State such as when the mation rejoiced at the recovery of the King.

The toast of 'The Visitors' was proposed by ex-Chief Inspector W. Bottrill. the first nresident of the Guild. After complimenting the band that rang a touch of Stedman Cinques. Mr. Bottrill said so far as bell-ringing was concerned. Leicester was one of the most prominent places in the world. There was a reason for it. He now lived in the Diocese of Canterbury. Can(Continued on next page) terbury Cathedral should lead in all Church matters, but to his regret it did not lead in Church bell-ringing. There were various causes, one being that they were in the front line during the war and lost many of their people.

LEICESTER'S TRADITION

He was a Leicestershire man and in his younger days Leicester was noted for the enormity of its policemen. There was one named Stevens who weighed 23 stones, and was the heaviest policeman, and another, whose name he believed was Warrington, who was six feet six inches tall. In regard to Leicester ringing he had been in touch with it for 45 years and it had reached a pitch of excellence during the past 10 or 15 years under Inspector Poole. There was another reason for that excellence-the tradition of the City's ringing set by those great stalwarts of old such as George Cleel, Charles Fowler, William Wilson and later by Mr. Frederick Dexter. Those people laid the foundation of the bands of ringers they had to-day.
After mentioning the valious guests by name Mr . Bottrill coupled with the toast the name of Mr. Albert Walker, pas: Master of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham. There was, he said, a great friendly rivalry in ringing between Leicester and Birmingham.
Mr . Albert Walker expressed the pleasure of the visitor in being present on such an historic occasion in the life of the National Guild of Police Ringers. He complimented the Guild on providing one of the best dinners he had attended. While there was friendly rivaliy between ringers there was also good friendship: they were all very proud of their social side which helped to build $u$ their ringing.

The Leicester ringers had a reputation which had to be admired, but Birmingham also had a big reputation. The Society he represented. the St. Martin's Guild. was founded in 1755 and in Birmingham they had three rings of twelve.

He congratulated the Police Guitd on the splendid way they had kept togcther ; tiney appreciated the work they were doing because it was much harder than the work of a territorial Guild. He well remembered the first dinner: of their Guild at Birmingham which he was invited to attend. The dinner finished up with a visit to the mortuary, (Laughter.)

Interludes during the speeches included tunes rung on landbells by ex-P.C. Wilson, his wife and daughter and Mr Harry Poyner, and a touch of Stedman Cinques in which the president. his daughter, son-in-law and other Leicester ringers participated.

The dinner was followed by a concert by the Leicester City Police corcert party and a sketch by the dramatic section. Finally the very full day which had started with peal ringing ended with a dance.

The evening concluded with a vote of thanks to the president. proposed by the Rev. J. R. Collins, Vicar of St. Mary's. He also thanked Mr. Poole for his work in teaching the ringers of St. Mary's and for his splendid effort in raising personally $£ 200$ to meet the cost of installing the new bells at St. Mary's.

He had always enjoycd the companyand the confidence-of his ringers. and those of the Branch. The Vicar was re-elected chairman.
Mr. Langford expressed his wish to relinquish his job as secretary after 31 years; he would like someone younger to have the job; his resignation was accepted with deep regret.

Mr. Wilfred Kerr, hon. treasurer, was proposed as hon. secretary and asked to combine both offices: Mr. Kerr said he was very sorry. but his awkward turns of away duty would not permit him combining the two offices. Mr. Kerr was appointed secretary and Mr. F. Stenson hon. treasurer.

The Vicar asked Mr. R. D. Langford to accept. on bchalf of the ringers of the Branch, a pocket watch suitably inscribed, as a memento and as some slight recognition and appreciation of his services for 31 years. The Vicar said Mr. Langford had been a stalwart of ringing not only in Cheshire but in many other counties, and a loyal ringer, conductor, teacher and leader of the Sunday service band at Christ Church.

Mr. Clarke, Ringing Master of the Chester Guild, said he would like to pay tribute to Mr. Langford on behalf of the Guild, who appreciated both his character and ability.
Mr. William Holding, in paying his tribute. coupled the name of Mrs. Langford, who had sacrificed many hours of her husband's company, and said the Branch was greatly indebted to her.

Mr. Stenson, in support, made a strong appeal for better support of the ringers' own paper, 'The Ringing World.' without which. as withour the bells, there would not be any ringing.
Mr . Langford, on rising, received a very cordial ovation, and was obviously taken aback. He said he had had wonderful experiences, some humorous, some not so humorous. He had called over 400 meetings and had only missed 11. and could tell some very amusing stories, only one of which he would like to tell.
He had advertised a mecting and had received between 50 and 60 replies and anticipated a good meeting. However, nature intervened in the way of a terrific thunderstorm lasting most of the afternoon. and only 16 turned up. Despite this, at tea time the incumbent came into the tower and announced dinner was ready. The ringers, rather surprised, Irooped into the dinting room and sat down to a five-course dinner, to which ample justice was done.
On returning to their various towers, a mental note was made of this meeting. The following year when the meeting was announced, between 50 and 60 attended. So off they went, and ringing went on during the hot summer's afternoon: 5 o'clock came-nothing doing; $60^{\prime}$ clock came nothing doing; at nearly 7 o'clock the incumbent appeared round the belfry door and said, 'Surely you must be ready for something to eat : come down and into the "local." , They once again trooped-but this time into the bar, among the sawdust. "What are you having? ' asked the incumbent-and answered- A glass of beer all round, and some bread and cheese.' And off he went.

The ringers looked at each other, then at the secretary. then at 'mine host,' but no one dared -by the look on his face - to ask him what was wrong, until Mr. Langford ventured to ask why the change. Then ' mine host' spluttered out that the old so-and-so had not paid him for last year's dinner.

Thus ended another very happy meeting and ringing went on till nearly nine oclock. In the afternoon an hour's ringing was enjoyed at Wistaston, under the eye of Mr. Albert Crawley.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

Wellingborough Branch

A pleasing feature of the annual meeting of the Wellingborough Branch at Irthlingborough on January 19 th was the election of Mr. W. Loveday, of Ontario, Canada, to life honorary membership. Mr. Loveday, who was present, had presented, on a previous visit, a new set of ropes to St. Peter's, Irthlingborough, and reof ropes to St. Peter's, Irthlingborough, and cognised his election by a donation of $£ 2$.
The meeting was well attended. A company of 90 , including Miss E. Steel, of the Bedfordshire Association, sat down to tea following the Guild service conducted by the Rector (the Rev
L. V. Rogers). A collection for the Guild Bell Restoration Fund amounted to $£ 119 \mathrm{~s}$.
The Rector presided at the business meeting. Twelve new ringing members were elected and two honorary members were transferred to rirging members. Mr. A. Bigley (secretary and treasurer) presented his report and the accounts which showed a balance in hand of $£ 4!(\mathrm{s}$. Bozeat was selected for the next quarterly meeting.

Mr. C. Clifton thanked the Guild for assting Rushden St. Mary's Youths and a vote of thanks to the Rector and others who contributed to the success of the meeting was Froposed by Mr. L. R. Main, of Finedon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

STAND UP FOR WHAT IS RIGHT
Dear Sir.-With reference to the leading article of January 18th. I feel there are many ringers who would wish to dissociate themselves from such sentiments as were therein expressed. 1 agree that it is a vexed question and that many may hold different views from those expressed by me. There is however, only one correct attitude and no excuses can be made for any relaxing of standards.
If we ring for a service we ought to stay for it: there may be occasions when it is not possible for all ringers to stay to all the services for which the bells are rung. If however the ringers make a point of staying to at least one service on a Sunday and, what is more important. are practising churchmen and regular communicants. such situations as that referred to will not arise.
That the argument that three and a half hours or even fours hours may be taken to travel. ring and stay for service should be used is simply unworthy. The service is given to God -the fact that it is the "day of rest' is by the way: many ringers do much more to obtain a peal than 'lose ' seven hours on a Sunday.

No, let us stand up for what is right. we may not all practise it, we may not all be able to do it-the fact remains clear and simple. If we ring for service. we ought to stay. Far too many ringers, the maiority in fact-if a cross-section of the community is anything to go by-never darken the doors of a church except to climb to the tower.
I fully support any Vicar or Rector who stands up for what is right. I am proud, too, to have been trained in my ringing by two such men who I know feel as I do in this matter of church attendance. Let us realise that our first duty as ringers is to support the church we belong to and not any other. First things first. please.-Yours faithfully,
E. F. M. SAMSON, Capt.

Shrivenham, Wilts

RINGERS AND THE CHURCH

Dear Sir,-1 read F. E. H.'s leading article of January 18th with mixed feelings. It is right we should remember. as he states, that most of us ring because we find it a fascinating hobby. and I have little patience with those (including some clergy) who regard it as a sufficient act of worship.
It is also realised that a ringer cannot invariably attend every service for which he rings. but the two-fold nature of ringing does. to my mind. lay a greater obligation upon us than upon other parishioners to attend. It is a pre-sent-day disease to expect privileges without their attendant obligations, but let us hope Church workers will be the last to fall victims to it.
F. E. H. says it is a 'pleasant courtesy occasionally to go inside the church, and that excessive religious devotion should never become a detriment to our campanological progress.' Is this the faith which Christ proclaimed and for which martyrs in every age have died, in the arena, at the stake, in the mission field, and in concentration camps?
The Church has existed for centuries in a hostile or indifferent world to bear witness, however imperfectly, to a living faith. Nothing less than whole-hearted service to the Church should be good enough for us. Whatever view we take of week-day practices and peal ringing. tet us at least for Sunday ringing be mindful of our fellowship ' with that great multitude which none can number.' and join wiuh them in a corporate act of worship.

A WORD TO THE SECULAR

Dear Sir, -In your leader of January 18th the writer states that bellringing is at once a sporting recreation and a form of service to the Church; and one notices the order in which these two aspects of the Exercise are given.
The pious givers of ancient bells, and those who to-day give prayers and work and money to restore the old bells in our towers and perhaps add new ones, did and do so for one purpose only-the glory of God, and not to provide an inexpensive pastime for non-churchgocrs.

It may indeed be difficult for ringers to attend all the services for which they may ring on a Sunday; there is no sufficient reason why they should not attend one.
Let those who regard bellringing as primarily a secular recreation buy their own bells and build towers in which to hang them.-Yours faithfully.

Holford Rectory.
Somerset

A CHURCHGOING REMINDER

Dear Sir,-In view of the recent articles in The Ringing, World regarding ringing and 'churchgoing, I thought that the enclosed rhyme, to be found on the belfry wall at St. Gcorge's Church. Littleport, Cambs, would be of interess. The tower also contains a fine ring of eight bells, cast by Warner and Sons in 1891, although I believe they have recently been restored.

CONCENTRATION OF SIX-BELL RINGING

Dear Sir,-I do not know how much six-bell ringing 'E. B.' (in 'The Ringing World' of January 18ih, 1952) has donc. but for my own part I can say most truthfully ihat I find Spliced Surprise Major easier than Spliced Minor! In Major and above one has plenty of time to think of what one is doing In Minor, on the other hand. the work is almost continuous. I suggest that the writer rings a peal in 105 methods (with trifling differences in groups of methods) just to show how awfully simple it all is !

I have rung peals in single Minor Surprise methods and in single Major Surprise methods and can assure your correspondent that 1 have found that the former require more concentration.
With regard to mighty eight-hell men lower ing themselves to ring on six bells. I have seen many eight-bell giants flounder hopelessly in Spliced Surprise Minor
1 will agree that in Minor you can only obtain six changes and heace have to repeat seven times for a peal, but at least you do not get a whole group of bells monotonously plain coursing.
Finally, I find that in six-bell towers you generally get better-struck and more numerous methods rung than in the average eight- and above bell towers, where Grandsire and Plain Bob an 1 perhaps very shoddy Stedman are the sum total of their achievements.
If the Central Council ever discountenanced six- and five-bell peals. I am sure that almost all these ringers would have nothing further to do with the Central Council. Yours sincerely,

JOHN E. COOK.
University College, Leicester:
Note. - There is no intention on the part of the Central Council as at present constituted to discourage five- or six-bell peals. Their policy is to encourage peals on all numbers of bells from five to twelve.-Ed.

PEAL ANALYSIS

Dear Sir,-It a person is dismissed these days for a minor offence without previous warning and, in most cases, investigation, there would probably be a strike called by the offender's colleagues.
Bell-ringers are, I am sure, not going to sirike because they rang peals for periods of from one and a half to three and a half hours at a time. with lead ends of the three specified methods in the letter of the Peal Analysis Committec of January 4 h , atthough they had no previous warning that they would not be included in the analysis for 1951.
It is rather unfortunate that the committce should bring down 'fire and brimstone on their heads from the members of the five- and six-bell towers in particular. especially after all the hard things said at recent Councils in regard to their action in omitting peals. which although true and complete in accordance with the Council's Decisions, had leading or too many covering bells.

As a member of the Council, I must in all fairness oppose the Peal Analysis Conımittec's recommendation, and instead, suggest that they would have been well advised to insert the year ' 1952 ' instead of " 1451 '. then those of us who had rung peals in the methods with condemned lead ends would have been warned and not had to suffer the indignity of being dismissed without previous warning.'

All peals rung in these methods have been accepted by Councils in the past. and it is difficult to understand the Committec's recommendation without first going to the Council before excluding them.-Yours faithfully,

FRED E. DUKES.  Hon General Secretary,  The Irish Association.

A POINT FOR VISITING PEAL RINGERS

Dear Sir,-A problem which I constantly experience and feel ought to be known is the diffculty in obtaining permission for peal attempts at towers where the locals are not change ringers, as a large percentage are, here in the West Country
Recently I have been refused three towers because previous peal ringers had left the ropes at a different lengih from how they found them. necessitating the locals spending some time orr a Sunday morning arranging the ropes to their normal length before they can ring for service.
Surely this is not the way to treat our callchange friends who have so kindly, with the Vicar, given consent to our ringing a peal on their bells. We are doing our best to encourage these ringers into our own method of ringing rather than make enemies and treat them with disrespect.
The peal band with which I ring have always made a special effort to leave the tower exactly as they find it. and where the locals are very particular, have knotted the ropes above or below the sally rather than untuck the end, or, alternatively. arranged the ringers to suit the ropes.
Finally, it is my hop: that in future, visiting peal bands to the West Country will take this precaution, thus leaving a good impression for our call-change friends and also making things casier for peal ringers here--Yours sincerely, Axminster. Devon.

THE EMBLEM

Dear Sir,-Ringers will, no doubt. congratulate those of us who are 'mentioned in despatches.' having scored 40 or more peals in 1951. Soldiers. when mentioned in despatches, receive an oak leaf Could not the Editor of 'The Ringing World' be empowered to make a similar award to leading neal ringers? A suitable decoration suggests itself : 'The Emblem of the Loose Screw:-Yours faithfully,

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD DINNER

Ringers-An Honoured Place in Church Life

THE fourth annual dinner of the Southwell Diocesan Guild was held in the Albert Hotel, Nottingham, on January 19th. The chairman of the Guild (Canon R. F. Wilkinson) presided and was supported by his officers.

Amongst the 62 diners were Canon R. H. Hawkins. Vicar of St. Mary's, Nottingham, and the Rev. K. Thompson, Vicar of Hucknall, also Mr. A H. Ward (Derby), Mr. Chorlton and Miss Oldershaw (Spalding). Mrs. Turley (Handsworth, Sheffield) Mr. W. C. Rhodes and two friends (Birmingham) and Mr. Sidney Briggs (Rotherham).

The important toast of 'The Church' was proposed by Mr. J. Kenneth Wagstaff, who emphasised the need for freedom to-day and the great part the Chuich had to play in upholding the liberty of the individual. It was essential, maintained the speaker. that the subject should have freedom of speech, freedom of religious worship and freedom to choose own form of government.

Parents and teachers had a vital duty to perform to see that children were brought up in the Christian faith. It they were to have the country they all desired it was cssential that the children of to-day-who were the citizens of to-morrow-should be brought into that faith.

Mr . Wagstaff concluded by saying that as churchmen they should take part in the Church's activities; as citizens they should take a keener interest in local government affairs and use their vote and do all they could to foster mutual trust and confidence between Church and State.
In his reply, Canon R. H. Hawkins said that the parish churches and bells were amongst the country's greatest heritages. The bells summoned people to worship whether they did or did not go to church. Ringers made their act of worship by ringing the bells. There was great difficulty in keeping up their numbers. Ringers occupied an honoured place in church life-as much as wardens, choirmen and the Church Council
He (the speaker) had always found a complete readiness to ring on any occasion and he was glad to pay tribute to his own ringers. Canon Hawkins made special mention of Mr. Walter Nichols (Guild treasurer) for his energy, cheerfulness and ability in the exercise of his duties as Ringing Master of St. Mary's, Nottingham. (Applause.)
'The Southwell Guild ' was proposed by Mr.
F. W. Vernon who stated that it was a young guild compared with some of the mature and powerful ores of the Exercise, but judging from the activities of the past, the initiative, energy and zeal of its stalwarts. he was sure the Guild compared favourably with them and could look forward to a haopy future.

PEALS NOT THE YARD STICK
If the Guild was to be judged by the number of peals that were rung-and he believed that to be done by a few- then it did not rank very high, but surely that was not the yardstick by which the Guild wished to be valued. Their object must and should be service to the Church. What must be the parson's thoughts when his bells were rung hour after hour on a weekday and then to find them strangely mute on Sunday? Their duty was to see that every ring was manned
He counselicd aid to struggling bands as the surest way of helping the Guild, and indeed, the whole Exercise. The seasonal bogey of 'canned bells' would then disappear. He was sure that it was the firm desire of those present that the Guild remained loyal to the Church and achieved that end by regular service ringing, by insistence upon good striking and by happy fellowship.

Mr. J. W. Raithby (general secretary), in reply, stated that the Guild meant something to them. Without its protective mantle they would exist as small, scattered groups without any interchange of ideas. They would miss the friendly gatherings on meeting days and very often the desire to see how Mudlecomb in the Marsh was getting on. Without the Guild. who would trouble to arrange meetings or a dinner of that nature? asked the speaker. The Guild cost money to run. Expenses were high. At 2 s . 6 d . the subscription was not on a realistic footing.

He (the speaker) would be glad if someone would tell him how to attract recruits as he had tried almost everything without success. His own tower had a great tradition of Sunday service ringing but he was worried as to the future and what the position would be in ten years' time when the older ringers retired.
In conclusion, Mr. Raithby advised those present to cultivate esprit de corps. Make their tower the best in the District. make their District the best in the Guild and their Guild the finest in the land. The speaker had no doubt that his were!
The toast of 'The Visitors' was admirably proposed by Mr. Clement Glenn and replied to by Mr. W. G. Rhodes.

The latter said there were three kinds of visitors: (1) trespassers; (2) licensees; and (3) invitees. He had no doubt that the visitors were in the last category as he had been warmly welcomed and made to feel at home. -A function of that nature enabled them to exchange ideas and renew old acquaintances and make new friends. He wished continued prosperity to the Southwell Guild.

During the afternoon the bells of St. Mary's, Nottingham, and St. Paul's, Daybrook, were available for visitors.

A touch of Grandsire Caters was rung on the handbells as the company sat down to dinner. Afterwards tuncs were rung on handbells by Miss Pat Lewin's team. The other entertainment consisted of a delightful recitation in the Yorkshire dialect by Mr. Clement Glenn and a talented display of conjuring by Mr. D. Gardner.

THE GUILDFORD

Farnham District

Nearly 100 members attended the annual meeting of the Farnham District at Farnham on January 19th, when the Guild's new form of service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. N. Selby-Lowndes).
Mr. A. J. Stedman presided at the business meeting. supported by Mr. A. Harman (Master of the Guild). Mr. G. L. Grover (general secretary), Mr. C. $\mathbf{W}$. Denyer (District Ringing Master). Mr. G. S Joyce (District secretary), Major E. J. Brage (assistant Ringing Master) and Mr. R. H. Mills (assistant hon. secretary). The District officers were re-elected.
New ringing members elected were Messrs. J. F. Hickox, K. C. Williams, B. J. Barlow, A. J. Barlow, L. Ward. E. E. Wright, and R. Jordon. Misses B. Heskins, D. Tylecote and P. Marleton.

The Ringing Master's report stated that the District had forged ahead during the last 12 months and was now benefiting from the hard work put in during the past few years.
The report recalled events during the yearthe four Guilds festival, the ringing of 12 quarter peals on May 5th for the Festival of Britain, the rededication of Frensham bells and two successful outings.

Mr. Denyer concluded his report as follows : 'Finally, a word or two about our policy in the year ahead. As was said at the Aldershot meeting, it is my intention to delegate control of some of the ringing at practices and meetings to younger members in order that they may experience what is required of an official of a perience what is required of an official of a district. It is hoped that more variety at meet-

Peal of 14 Spliced Surprise Major

 MethodsOur peal columns this week record the ringing of a peal of 14 Spliced Surprise Majos Methods 'in hand' conducted by Mr. Harold G. Cashmore at Stanmore, Middlesex, on January 14th. The progress of this band has been watched by the Exercise and we are sure they deserve the warmest congratulations on their success.

Mr. W. Wenban, of Harrow Weald, writes :-

- As umpire of the eight, nine and twelve methods, now 14 Spliced Surprise Major peals upon handbells. I feel I must not let this occasion pass without recording my congratulations to the bands who have rung these peals, the ringing of each peal being of a very high standard throughout.
' I very carefully checked every bob, every change of method and every lead end throughout each peal; they were all very clever performances of handbell peal ringing.
'January 14th was the selected date for another attempt upon this elusive 14 Spliced Surprise. The bells went off to the tune of Wembley, then changing from method to method in a perfect rhythmic beat, maintained to the successful end of a very fine peal.
'Successes only come after many failures, indeed the 14 Spliced peal had been rung before, but owing to a rather rough lead, 3rd lead from the end. the band was determined to ring it again and the near-perfect peal was the result.'

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ringing to most standard methods was en joyed at St. Mary's, Hitchin, on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Northern District on January 19th.
At the business meeting, which followed tea, Mr. J. Dear was elected Ringing Master, Mr. E. Buck District secretary, and Messrs. L. Fidler. H. Werrett. F. Croft and W. Houghto committec. A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. A. E. Symonds, the retiring secretary, for the very good work he had done during the past 14 years.

DIOCESAN GUILD

ings, combined with a better knowledge and judgment of individual capabilities in ringers attending, will improve the relationship amongst us, whilst at the same time encouraging our youth to take more responsibility in our affairs. It is not the intention of your elected officers to pass their work on to others, but we also are not intending to hold office indefinitely.
"The ringers of the Farnham area in common with others, are travelling an endless road and we must not allow ourselves to be retarded in any way. We believe we are well forward in the affairs of the Guildford Guild. and recently we were told by a well-known Surrey Association member that, for our size, we were probably the most live district in any ringing Association. A good reputation can easily be damaged. We want to keep to the fore, but can only do so by the concerted efforts of everyone. We have worked hard in the past; everyone. We have worked hard in the past; we are happy in our present; we can and must be united to enjoy our future. May the year be united to enjoy our future; 1552 be even better than 1951:

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Six new practising members and one honorary member were elected at the meeting of the Rochester District at Swanscombe on January 19th. About 50 members and friends from 10 towcrs enjoyed some good ringing under leadership of the new Ringing Master (Mr. V. A. Jarrett), and a fine tea prepared by Mrs. Ring and her helpers.
The Rector (the Rev. A. J. Weller) conducted the ringers' service, and Mrs Newbury, wife of a local ringer, was organist.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

 Memorial to Late Rev. C. A. PhillipsThe Wimborne Branch annual meeting was held at Wimborne on January 19 th when there was a large attendance of members and friends.
At a service in the Minster, which was conducted by the Vicar of Wimborne, Canon T. W. Page-Phillips, the Bishop of Sherborne, Dr Maurice Key, M.A.. dedicated a last bellmetal memorial plate, which is to be placed on the wall of the ringing room, bearing the inscription :- To the memory of Charles Augustine Phillips, M.A., Priest for 48 years, the devoted honorary secretary of the Wimborne Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild of Ringers, who died at Bournemouth, March 271h, 1950. Aged 78 years.'
As no ringing was possible on the Minster bells owing to repairs to the west tower, and as the late Mr. Phillips was a great lover of tune ringing on handbells, a tribute was paid to his memory by the St. Peter's, Bournemouth, handbell ringers under Mr. Arthur Davis, who gave a selection of sacred tunes in the Minster before and after the service. Other members also ran; Grandsire Caters and Spliced Plain Major on handbclls. The late Rev. C. A. Phillips' family was represented by his niece, Miss Phillips, and an old friend of the family.
The Earl of Shaftesbury (Lord Lieutenant of Dorset). who is President of the Salisbury Guild and a ringer himself, unveiled the memorial and in a few well-chosen words asked the Bishop to dedicate it in memory of one they all remembered with great affection.
The Bishop, in a brie ${ }^{f}$ address, said they met in special memory of one who had served the Church and Guild in faithful ser vice for many years. Many had learnt from him the music and art of the bells, and had kept faithful in their service to God and their delightful employ of bell-ringing. 'May we ring the bells of Heaven here and there.
At a business meeting which followed tea, the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, on behalf of the branch, presented to Canon Eddrup, of Corfe Mullen. a table lamp as a mark of their appreciation of his services as chairman for 23 years.
The branch officers, with Mr. L. J. Lockyer as chairman, werz all re-clected
In the evening, the Bishop of Sberborne rededicated the six bells at Canford Magna which have been rehung by the Whitecharel Foundry, the 'go being excellent

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

South-Eastern Division

The annual meeting of the South-Eastern Division was held at Great Baddow on Saturday, January 12th, some 75 members and friends attending. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. T. A. Kingdom), who extended a warm welcome to all Dr. Armstrong Gibbs was at the organ to lead the choir and congregation in the singing. The choir is now a feature of our service and consists of Association members only. Members were the guests of Mr. M. R. French at tea, which was served in the Iron Room by Mr. and Mrs. Rabinson.
The secretary (Mr. A. H. Everett) presented his report for 1951. The year had been one of steady progress; peal ringing had declined but it is hoped that this will be remedied in the coming year. Goldhanger had made a great achievement in getting the bells rehung in a new frame within 12 months and raising nearly $£ 1,000$ to meet the cost of this work. Maldon All Saints' had returned to the active list. strengthening works to the tower having been completed.
The outgoing officers were re-elected for 1952. Thanks were accorded to the Rector. Dr. Armstrong Gibbs and Mr. Gcorge Green for making local arrangements.

OBITUARY

MR. HENRY G. MILES An Appreciation

As announced in the issue of January 4th. Mr. H. G. Miles, a trustee and highly respected member of the Ancient Society of College Youths. passed on to higher service on Decemher 16 th last.
He was born 82 years ago at the village of Much Adam, Hertfordshire, where he learned to ring. and came to London to take up a trusted position as a bank messenger: he looked very impressive in the top hat and uniform he wore.
He very soon joined the St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington. company, and rang his first peal, 5.021 Grandsire Caters. on November 7th. 1899. He also became a member of the St. Paul's Cathedral Guild and succeeded the late Harry Pasmore as secretary.
Although his total number of peals was 125 some of them were noteworthy, viz. - -5.000 Stedman Caters at Kensington on the Coronation Day of Kiň George V. (June 22nd, 1911); 5,007 Stedman Cinques at St. Paul's. which he composed and conducted on the occasion of the Coronation of King George VI.: 5.014 Stedman Caters at Kensington for the same occasion, which he also conducted. Another noteworthy peal was at Inverary, Scolland. on July 22nd, 1939. when the College Youths rang 5.067. Stedman Caters, wheich Henry composed and conducted.

He was a notable composer and was responsible for the 21.000 Stedman Caters rung at Appleton. He also composed the 12,675 Stedman Cinques, rung by the College Youths on Whit Monday, 1923. This stood as a record for a number of years but unfortunately was found to be false. The writer well remembers Henry's distress on the night he had to announce this disappointing news at the College Youths' meeting at the 'Coffee Pot.' His last peal was 5.031 Stedman Caters, rung at Isleworth, on December 16th, 1939.
So passes another fine character, well loved by all who had the privilege of knowing and ringing with him. His wise counsel, quiet wit. sterling character and friendly disposition endeared him to all, and we shall miss him.
J. F. S.

MR. E. BECKWITH

Mr. Ernest Beckwith, of Coggeshall. Essex, who died on January 141 h , was a ringer for over 60 years. He was well known in ringing circles throughout the county and had many iriends. A quarter peal of Oxford Treble Bob Minor was rung to his memory at-Kelvedon on January 21st.

MR. A. S. BOAR

The death is announced of Mr. Arthur Stanley Boar. of 9, Belmont Road, Sittingbourne, who died suddenly on Monday. January 14th, following a stroke late on Sunday night
The late Mr. Boar learnt the art of ringing at an early age at the Church of St. Nicholas, Ipswich, where he conducted his first peal.
He then joined the company of St. Mary-leTower. Ipswich, and it was here that he quickly mastered the more intricate methods of changeringing. taking part in the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Ipswich on August 15th. 1908. A keen ringer he rang peals on $5,6,8,10$ and 12 bells. He was for several years a member of St. Michael's, Sittingbourne, band of ringers.

The funeral took place at Holy Trinity Church. Sittingbourne on January 17th. followed by interment at Sittingbourne Cemetery.

Among the many floral tributes was one from the ringers of St. Michael's Church, Sittingbourne.

MR. A. E. PAYNE
-The passing at Kettering on January 16th of Mr. Arthur Edward Payne severs one of the few remaining links with the band who, under the lcadership of the late Mr. David J. Nichols. rang many peals of merit for the Central Northamptonshire Association between 1904 and 1923. Mr. Payne conducted two peals of Stedman Triples and took part in peals of Grandsire Triples and Caters, Double Norwich, Superlative, Cambridge and London. and several of Minor in various methods. His health in recent years had not permitted the long ascent to the belfry but he still retained an interest in the art. and would often comment on the standard of riliging.

HOLY TRINITY, GUILDFORD

A departure was made at the annual supper of Holy Trinity Change Ringers Society, Guildford, on January 14th, by inviting wives to be present. Canon R. G. Clitherow presided. supported by the conductor (Mr. F. A. Munday). During the year the bells had been inspected by Mr. John P. Fidler, of Messrs. John Taylor and Co. New bosses are required and some of the pulleys need renewing. This was estimated to cost $£ 39$ plus carriage. The hon. secretary (Mr. T. W. White) reported that there was no prospect in the immediate future of the Parochial Church Council meeting this expenditure. During the year a Bell Repair Fund had been launched and $£ 124 \mathrm{~s}$. 6 d . was raised. Donations received from members at the meeting amounted to $£ 913 \mathrm{~s}$., making a total of nearly $£ 22$.

Congratulations were extended to Mr. W J. Robinson on completing 25 years' service in the tower and to Mr. T. Mark White and Miss Audrey Morrison, two members of the Society, whose engagement was announced that day.
Mr. FA. Munday was elected conductor, Mr. W. J. Robinson steeplekeeper, Mr. T. W. White hon. secretary, and Messrs. A. H. Pulling, H. Hutton and T. M. White committec.

CAWTHORNE RANG 32 MINOR METHODS IN 1951

During 1951 the Cawthorne (Barnsley) ringers rang 32 different Minor methods in 720 's, the majority of which were rung for Sunday services.
Old-established customs here are ringing for 8 a.m. Celebration on Easter Sunday and Christmas Day. New Year's Eve ringing and bells half-muffed on Armistice Sunday. It would be of interest to know of other churches' special ringing customs.

RAISING AND LOWERING IN PEAL

IN his 'Ropesight,' Jasper Snowdon expresses a doubt about any written description of raising and falling in peal being of much practical use. The subject has not been referred to very much in 'The Ringing World' and few, if any, handbooks of instruction give any hints about it. Would it be extravagant to say that many first-class ringers are strangers to the practice? Yet, as Snowdon says, the raising and falling in peal is too obvious a beauty to be neglected by anyone who has once heard it really well done. Those who take a pride in it find it well worth while, and can there be anything quite so thrilling as a perfect fall?

But there is a technique in raising and falling which does call for study and some ringers may be glad of a little guidance, however elementary.

It is taken for granted that the ringer has mastered the uncoiling and coiling up of the rope necessary for the proper control of the bell in raising and lowering. Much depends upon the neatness of that operation. Let it be noted at the outset that there are four primary needs for a correct performance : (1) Practice; (2) a sense of rhythm; (3) concentration from start to finish; and (4) accurate handling.

On the word of the treble ringer all the bells should begin to swing one after the other; the little bells, especially the second, coming in close on the treble. On a lightish ring all the bells should speak at the check on the third swing - on heavy bells as many as possible-keeping an equal interval between each and gradually widening out that interval as the bells get higher. The main essential is for all the bells to strike a compass from the start.

Stress must be laid on the importance of handling the sally at the earliest possible moment, also of keeping a tight rope. When the bells are about a third of the way up the control of the sally must be carefully looked after and a little more weight given to that stroke so as to ensure the feel of the bell at the backstroke. A slight check may be required every now and then at backstroke to keep the bell in the right place, but not too much, for any cutting down may widen or lessen the interval between the bell in front and the one following, with a consequent gap or clip which is likely to upset the compass.

Close concentration of ear and eye is called for all the time, no one looking about, for everyone is part of the whole effect. The compass, once felt, must be kept throughout. Until the bells are nearly up no interval should be apparent between the treble and the tenor. The open handlead should not really come until both hand and backstrokes are near the balance. The tenors must concentrate upon the widening interval, and where any bell is falsely clappered the ear must be relied upon so that instinct rather than ropesight is doing the work, which is really true in any case. Indeed, it is questionable whether any perfect rise and fall can be expected from ropesight alone.

Once the treble begins to rise a little weight must be given to each stroke as the rope is paid out. The bells will not swing up of themselves and any slackness will make for unevenness and, perhaps, a feeling of rush.

Now a hint or two about leading up. This is not so easy as it may appear. Once the rise has begun on no account must the treble be brought down even to the slightest extent. She may be held nearing the half-way if any unsteadiness behind manifests itself, but only for a short space until the compass is recovered. The treble man must ignore any dropping in of the tenors at any time. He is not dependent upon them but they upon him, although, of course, he will be considerate to the weight behind him. He should be able to lead up with his eyes closed, or with his back to the other bells; the ear should tell him the compass, for the gradual widening of which he is responsible.

Leading down is perhaps slightly easier. The backstroke must be looked after carefully and must never be loose. It is really the key to a good fall. The treble man must not race down. As he shortens his rope he will wait for the effect upon the back bells before shortening again. On the word 'downward' every ringer must be prepared for a gentle cut in on both strokes, especially on the middle bells. The treble should be swinging considerably when the tenor comes to the chiming position. She will not be cut right down until the leader is certain that all the bells are ready for the chiming position and that no bell is swinging too far. This takes longer than may be expected.

When all are just gently chiming a clean finish can usually be assured by a call to miss one sally blow and catch the succeeding one, holding on tight to bring the bells completely to rest. Never leave the bell to swing at all after the final catch has been made.

Where all the bells clapper trúly and are well hung a good rise and fall is possible on six, eight or ten bells with tenors up to 25 cwt . On a heavy ten the tenors will probably cease to speak on one side before reaching the chiming position and, in that case, if the effort to chime them is too great, the wiser plan is to leave the front six to complete the fall. Intenser concentration will, of course, be required where bells are false struck and do not go too well.

Let it be remembered that some bells, even the lighter ones, will clapper up the wrong side unless they are made to speak at every check on the rope from the beginning until they reach the height for the double blow. The treble ringer will, therefore, keep fairly well down until he hears that all is well behind.

It is folly to assume that any expert change ringer will be able to take a bell up and down in peal if not accustomed to do so. He will soon find himself in a difficulty. Nothing but practice will make perfect, for raising and falling in peal is an art in itself, and one unpractised hand taking part may ruin the whole effect as the other ringers are really at his mercy. And nothing is more deplorable than an untidy lowering of the bells before a service.

An attempt for a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at Worsley on January 26 th cam? to grief after 5,000 of the 5.040 changes had been rung in 3 hours and 20 minutes. This was Mr. George Hesketh's second attempt for his first peal of Cambridge Royal. On the first occasion he also reached the lasi course. The two attempts have involved 6 hours and 35 minutes' ringing without success.

Eriata.-The peal rung at Beccles on January 2nd was for the Suffolk Guild and not as printed.

By ringing the tenor to a peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor at All Saints' Church, Lcicester, Mr. Frederick E. Wilson has now completed the Cambridge family
Three members of Birmingham University whose handbell peal is recorded in another column inform us that they intend to form a Birmingham University Society in the near future.
' E. C. G.' writes: Touches of Grandsire Triples can be brought round from Whittington's by calling single, plain lead, bob, single. This would reduce the three touches published on page 64 by four leads.

Over Christmas Mr. Grae'ne W. Heyes and a fellow-ringer from Ballarat, Victoria, hitchhiked to Adelaide, a distance of 400 miles each way to advance their knowledge of ringing. While at Adelaide they rang two handbell quarters and one tower quarter.

After losing their welcome peal for the new incumbert, the ringers of St. Mary Redcliffe successfully concluded Stedman Caters on Saturday. January 26th. The bandi wish to associate Mr Frank Hansford-Ringing Master of the Guild-with their success, he being unable to be prosent for the second attempt.

GOSSIP

Interest in peal ringing was shown by the Archbishop of Canterbury when he instituted and inducted the Rev. H. A. Daws to the bencfice of Holy Trinity, Queensborough. Kent. After the ceremony a peal attempt was made. His Grace visited the belfry and wished the ringers every success. The peal, one of Doubles in four methods, was brought round in 2 hours and 37 minutes.

We have received an enquiry as to what is the longest peal of Minor on record. Where was it rung and when?

By ringing a peal at All Saints', Sedgley, Staffs, on January 26th, Miss Muriel Reay and Miss Shirley V. Rymer became the first ladie; to ring in a peal in this tower.

It was a big disappointment to Mr. Sidney A. Chency that owing to indisposition he could not ring in the first peal of seven Spliced Surprise Maximus, which was rung by the Leicester Cathedral band on January 21 st.
The peal at Gravesend, on January 26th. was rung at the Church of St. George, which is now closed for repairs and will be opened as a Chapel of Unity. The bells are being retained there for ringing for special services. A last-minute rescue by three members of the Constant family enabled the peal to be rung as three of the original 'Jand could not make it owing to weather conditions. It was a case of 'ever constant. ever sure.'
Porthkerry ringers held their annual dinner at the Victoria Hotel, Barry, on January 17th. The 13 ringers were joined by the Rector and churchwardens and entertainment was provided by two friends of Mr. Malling and Mr. D. Dimmond. Mr. Malling scored a strong point in unpressing upon the band the importance of homework in learning a methed. His advice might well be followed in other towers!

THE MIDLAND COUNTIES GUILD

Increase in Annual Subscription Approved
The sixth annual meeting of the Midland Counties Guild was held at the Church of St. Wystan, Repton, on January 12th.
Repton is an historic little town lying in the peaceful meadows beside the River Trent, near the Staffordshire border, about six miles southwest of Derby. It is best known now as the home of a famous public school but in the seventh century it was the Christian capital of Mercia, one of the first great Saxon kingdoms. The ancient church with its graceful spire- 210 fect high-possesses a ring of eight bells second to none.
Upwards of 60 ringers attended the meeting from as wide an area as Crewe, Duffield. Derby, Stafford and Kingsbury. Shortened evensong was conducted by the Rev. D. P. Roberts, Vicar of Marston Whitgreave, Stafford, who gave an inspiring address. The Ven. H. E. Fitzhērbert, Archdeacon of Derby and president of the Guild, was also present. Miss Noble, a ringer at Repton, was the organist. Tea, which was kindly provided by the local ringers, followed the service.
The Archdeacon opened the meeting by welcoming the members and visitors. also expressing thanks to the Rev. D. P. Roberts for conducting the service, and in conclusion wished the Guild continued success throughout 1952 and a happy New Year to all present.
One honorary and one non-resident life member (Mr. F. W. Stenson, of Crewe), were elected before the secretary (Mr. J. W, Cotton), in presenting the annual report, spoke of the special efforts arranged by the Guild to commemorate the Festival of Britain. These included three peals. a quarter peal and a 60 -mile huss tour of the area covered by the Guild. Seven meetings had been held with an average attendance of 33. One honorary, 12 ringing and 10 nonresident members had heen elected. Fifty-nine peals had been rung in 27 churches, in four counties, with 15 conductors.
Noteworthy performances of which the Guild could feel particularly proud were the peal of 10,368 Londou Surprise Major and the three

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World' of February 9th, 1912  ODD CHANGES

One well-known conductor during January rang two peals but bad no fewer than eight failures. The causes which brought the atlempts to an end are varied and not unin-leresting:-
January Ist, Cambridge Major.-Tenor man had to give up after an hour's good ringing.
January 3rd, Bristol.-Shift course after $2 \frac{1}{2}$ hours.

January 6th, Double Norwich.-Given up after seven courses owing to bad-going bells. Attempt for Stedman Triples. bells called round it 4th part through rain coming in and soaking tenor man.
January 12th. Stedman Caters.-Treble man set up in slight trip.
January 13 th. Stedman Caters.-Shift course
January 25th. Bristol.-Breakdown.
January 26 th . Stedman Triples.-Stopped through knocking at door-choirmaster sent to say he would be glad if the ringers would finish so that he could get on with his practice
January 27 th. Siedman Caters- Seventh rope came down after three hours' ringing.

The 'Irish Bell News' enquires what is the recognised nractice in ringing for weddings and funerals. Should ringing take place on both occasions before and after the service?

DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION

He Sang Stedman Triples

The first 1952 joint meeting of the Derby and Ilkeston Districts, held at St. Luke's. Derby, was a pleasant affair. The bells are a fine, heavy eight (tenor 30 cwt .) and sound particularly impressive from outside, not that cne wanted to hear them from outside on Jathualy 26th, as the weather was bitterly cold.
Feeling so comfortable after an exceil:nt tea in the Church Room and so thoroughyy warm from the heat of two fires that members did not want to move after the business meeting had concluded. Clement Glenn was with the company and he was invited to play a touch of Stedman Triples on the piano but unfortunately there was not a complete octave on it. Failing mechanical instruments, it was suggested that he should sing Stedman. With some misgiving and apology for lack of tone in his voice he made the venture. It went something like this:
de, da, dee, dar, te, ta. dum. Dom ;
da, de, dee, te, dar, dum, ta, Dom;
da, dee, de, dar, te, ta. dum. Dom.
dee, da, dar, de, ta, te. dum, Dom: etc.
It was perfect striking with open headstroke leads and immaculate backstroke leads. On the course went with pauses for breath at the handstroke leads and occasional interjections such as 'six in quick,' 'seven in slow ' until the conclusion came with. rhythmic rounds and delighted applaus

It was fascinating, particularly as very few had witnessed this type of virtuosity before; frustrating, too, for those who could never aspire to such accomplishments.

What is the key to this ability to tap out or sing touches of a method? Merely. we are assured by a knowledge of the place-making. Practice, certainly. but surely also a natural inborn aptitude. Of all ringers only a small proportion have developed this art to a limited extent and only a handful to the extent of, say, Harry Withers.

Mr. Glenn stated he was first attracted to ringing by the sound of his village hells and knew the music of Grandsire Triples hy listening outside, before he even dared to anproach the ringers with a view to learning to ring.

Anyway, the meeting was really pleasant; good bells, original company and an ample tea in comfortable conditions. What more could a ringer want? Our thanks are expressed to the Vicar of St. Luke's, Mr. Parsons and Mrs. Lowe.
P.S.-One wonders if Mr. Glenn lulls himself to slecp at night by singing Carter's Odd Boh peal. If he ever finished it could he claim it as a peal sung for the Southwell Dioccsan Guild? Perhaps they would want a witness to make sure he didn't fall to sleep in the middle of it and wake up to finish it with Holt's Original.

MR. JOHN THOMAS RINGS HIS 900t. PEAL
His many friends in oll parts of the cointry will read with nleasure that Mr. John Thomas, now in his 70th year, has rung his 900th peal Mr. Thomas has been associated for very many ycars with Messrs. Mears and Stainbank and wherever he has worked he has joined local ringers in their activities. A brilliant gonductor both on tower bells and handbells. he has assisted many a struggling band during his short stay with them.

Mr. Thomas is one of a sclect few able to ring two tower hells and is noted for his ability to strike any hell, however oddstruck.
Reader; will remembe- the remarkable achievements of the vung hand at Edmonton both on tower bells and handbells during and after the war. These young iniers were taught with infinite patience and skilt hy Mr. Thdmas, ably assisted by his wife.
For the last five years Mr, and Mrs. Thomas have lived in Mrs. Thomas native Worcestershire, at Hinton-on-the-Green. Needless to say, two such popular ringers have an active part to play in the affairs of Worcestershire ringers.

THE CURFEW IN ENGLISH LIFE

$I^{N}$N the old play 'Merry Devil of Edmonton, (1631) the curfew is mentioned as being sometimes rung at nine o'clock, thus the sexton says: ' Well. 'tis nine oclock, 'tis time to ring curfew.' In Lyson's Environs ' i.. page 232, is the following extract from the churchwarden's accounts of Kingston-on-Thames: ' 1651. For ringing the curfew bell for 1 year £1 10s.'
In some parishes the continuance of the ringing of the curfew was sought to be secured by an endowment provided by persons who, in times when the roads were badly defined and crosscd open. unenclosed rountry, lost their way in the gloom of evening or in the darkness of winter nights, but were enabled to find their village homes by its welcome sound: with reference to this end it is sometimes only rung in winter months. "The bell of Lambourne was rung nightly as a guide to travellers over the interminable downs of Berkshire : and one at York as a signal to persons travelling the Galtres forest ' (Soc. Arch. page 68). These instances could be multiplied by many others in all parts of the country.
One of the larger bells is generally used for this purpose, which is sometimes rung, sometimes tolled:-

- The Curfew tolls the knell of passing day , (Gray's Elegy in a Country Churchyard'). The great bell called Peter, at Exeter Cathedral. is tolled as the curfew as eight o'clock, and the popular impression is that, should the tolling be omitted, the Dcan and Chapter would lose all their estates!

THE DAY OF MONTH TOLLED

As before mentioned, in many places the day of the month was tolied at the conclusion, as at Melton Mowbray, Louth, Horncastle, Market Rasen. etc. A curious custom prevails at Sheepy Magna, Leics, where the ringing is discontinued between the death and burial of a parishioner. At Bottesford it is not rung during Whitsun week : nor at South Luffenham, Rutland. during a fortnight at Christmas.
At some places the curfew is rung on Saturday evenings at seven-o.clock instead of eight o'clock. and at sleaford it is rung at this hour. not only then, but on the eve of Christmas, Ascension and other occasions when some special service is to be held. At Grantham the ringing of curfew is omitted on the Vigils or Eves of Holy Days named in the Church Calendar. and at Horncastle it is not rung on 'red letter days.' This appears to be in accordance with ancient practice, for

- it appears by the Statutes of Lichfield that the Ignitegium was sounded every night at the seventh hour, excepting on the Festivals.
The not tolling the curfew on Festivals may be accounted for by the ancient ritual of the English Monks. A.D. 1085. which commanded all bells to be ruing at Festivals "et hanc pulsationem classicum vocant.". (Ellacombe 'Bells of the Church.' page 197.)

THE 'NOWSTER

Middleton. Lancs. supplies a probably unique instance of an evening bell which is not a survival of mediæval usage but an introduction of recent times. The Rector, early in the last century, ordered a bell to be rung nightly at ten minutes to ten o'clock as a signal for closing the sheps and a hint to all who were abroad to go home. It is known iocally as the "Nowster, a name which no one seems to be able to explain, although the good folk of Middleton say it means 'Now stir!' The curfew which used to be rung in the parish has been discontinued in place of the above.
At Oxford the 10.1 strokes rung on Great Tom of Christ Church, at nine p.m. are familiar to all Oxford men, the number of strokes being (as Verdant Green's cicerone pointed out), "the number of students on the foundations. Here the object of the ringing is to warn all students. whatever degree, to return to their respective. Colleges and Halls.
The last verse of Dr. Aldrich's celebrated catch will be remembered:-
'Tingle, tingle, ting, gocs the small bell at nine
To call the bearers home.
But ne'er a man will leave his cann
Till he hears the mighty Tom.'

IN LONDON

In London the ringing of curfew must have been pretty general. Stow says: "The Church of St Martin's-le-Grand, with those of Bow, Cripplegate and Barkin, had its curfew long after the servile injunctions laid on the Londoners had ccased.' In 1848 the curfew was rung at eight p.m. at St. Edmund's, Lombard Street: St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate: St. Michael's, Quecnhithe: St. Antholin's. Bridge Row: St. Mildred's, Bread Street: Christ Church, Spitalfields; and Shoreditch. Referring back to - Bow Bell,' Stow teils us that the old steeple of St. Mary-le-Bow Church was rebuilt in 1469, and it was ordained by the Common Council that the Bow bells, should nightly be rung at nine of the clock."
In the Calendar of letter book of the City of London (L) occurs: 'Saturday, 22 April 9 Edward IV. (A.D. 1469) an ordinance of the Common Council to the effect that whereas it had been of old accustomed. for the peace of the City and keeping due time at night, for the great bells, and especially the great bell called "Bowbell" and the bells in the churches of All Hallows. Berkyng. St. Giles without Crepilgate, and St. Bride in Fletestrete, to be struck at the accustomed hours-viz: at the ninth hour on festivals and holidays [ferialibus] (Ends abruptly.)
Mr. Donne. a mercer, had devised two tenements in Bow Lane (then called Hosier Lane) for the ringing of the tenor bell of Bow Church at six o'clock in the mornings and eight o'clock in the evenings. Mr. Lott. after a considerable search for this bell, dated 1472 . eventually discovered it in the Husting's Court of London. The early ringing was supposed to be for the waking up of London apprentices, The portical remonstrance of those personages to the parish clerk of Bow, in consequence of his neglect of his duty, is also recorded by Stow:-

> Clerk of the Bow bel. With thy yellow locks, For thy late ringing Thy head shall have knocks.'
The clerk of the day was a match for the young complainants and replied in equal poetical lein :-

Children of Chepe  Hold you all still.

For you shall hear the Bow bell
Ring at your will.'
DEATH OF MR. A. W. BRIGHTON We regret to announce the death of Mr. Alfred W. Brighton, 71, South Esk Road, Forest Gate, E.7, on January 28th. We hope that one of his friends will send a memoir.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PEALS ANALYSIS-1951

Dear Sir,-In a preliminary survey of the peals rung during 1951, there has been a grand total of 2.957 peals.

This does not take into account any deletions which may be made for irregular methods or 'odd, number of changes.
The leading Guilds or Associations are as follows:-Leicester Diocesan 251, Kent County 183, Lincoln Diocesan 173, Chester Diocesan 172. Lancashire Association 165, Oxford Diocesan 145, with the Leicester Guild well to the fore
Some people, apparently, ring so many peals that they do not know whether they have sent off the particulars or not, until some time after, as is shown in the fact that in "The Ringing World' dated January 11th. 1952. there are reports of peals rung in July, August and November. while in the current issue is the report of one rung in October.

It would be helpful if peal reports could be cleared up monthly in 'The Ringing World.' irrespective of whether they were rung on twelve or six bells.-Yours respectfully.
W. AYRE.
(For the Peals Analysis Committee).

PEALS BY THREE SISTERS

Dear $\operatorname{Sir},-$ In reply to your query in "Belfry Gossip.' may I point out that the peal at Claybrooke on January 14th was not the first in which three sisters have taken part. My two sisters and I rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles 'In hand ' on September 18th, 1950. I helieve I am correct in saying that peals had previously been rung by two other groups of three sisters -the Misses Richardson and the Misses Lookbut I have no details of these performances. I should like to congratulate the Misses Proctor on their peal. Yours sincerely.

KATHLEEN E. FLETCHER .

THE BILBIES

Dear Sir,-In reply to Mr. Gould regarding a secret formula which is reputed to have died with them, the last of the Bilbies founded bells at Cullompton. Devon, from 1787 to 1813 after which the business passed to William Pannell, who first traded as W. and C. Pannell and then as W. Pannell and Son. This business was transferred to Exeter where it ended a few years later.

The Chewstoke Bilbies cast manv bells on the spot, the octave at Beaminster being a notable example.-Yours sincerely.

WILLIAM SHEPHERD.
Addlestone, Surrey.

THE MEMBURY DEDICATION

Dear Sir,-When I was talking to the writer of the account, published in your issue of January 11 th last, I knew the original date but mentioned 50 years in round numbers. Mr. William Shepherd is correct about that date When the five bells were re-opened after being rehung in a new oak frame by Stokes, of Woodbury, namely June 21 st, 1900 . I was a callchange ringer of six months' standing then. but after another 18 months I began to learn halfpull ringing. thanks to help at Oxford and Honiton (under instruction by two Otterv ringers), for which I can never be grateful enough.-Yours sincerely. E. V. COX.

West Hill, Ottery St. Mary.

OXFORD BOB IN SUSSEX

Dear Sir-Re the peal of Oxford Bob Minor rung at Fittleworth on Sunday. December 16th. 1951 This is not the first peal of Oxford Boh for the Sussex Association. A peal of Oxford Boh Triples was rung as recently as June 30th 1551, at All Saints', Hastings. conducted by C. Alfred Levett - Yours sincerely.

East Grinstead.
FRANK H. HICKS.

GRANDSIRE TRIPLES AT EXETER CATHEDRAL

Dear Sir,-I notice that no one has paid tribute to the ringer of the second (Mrs. Jean M. Harris) in both the peals of Grandsire Triples at Excter, but I had the pleasure on both occasions of ringing next to her and her performance was faultless as to style, correct ness and spacing.

Anyone who can stand the crashing boredom of this aspirational tomb of so many hundreds of young ringers is to be congratulated on doing so for the extent of a peal. It is not surprising that the Devon Guild is so far behind the others in performance for apparently, having been reared on the turgid milk of this intellectual sow, pensil and paper fall from their nerveless fingers and the struggle to progress is given up-but I digress

I, too, would like to pay tribute not only to the fine ringing of the tenor by two young men without distress, but to the 'Monarch of all I survey " on the 11 th, the conductor and other young men who were so good that their presence was almost unnoticed and that is a compliment well worth earning.

As to the striking-after the brief settling down process I believe even Chilcompton would have been $49 \frac{1}{2}$ per cent. alkaline.-Yours sincerely,

STAFFORD H. GREEN.
Sampford Peverell, Devon

WOMEN RINGERS OF 1884

Dear Sir,-Your great number of women ringers may be interested in the enclosed! Harvey Reeves, the Editor, was prompted to write this, as the previous week had seen the report of a date touch at Huntsham. Devonthe composition of Miss E. Cruwys Sharland, of Tiverton, a member of the Devon Guild, and also by the fact that three daughters of Sir (then Mr.) Arthur P. Heywood, of Duffield. (and founder of the Central Council), with Mr. J. W. Taylor of Loughborough, had rung a course of Grandsire Trioles. on handbells, at a garden party at Duffield. The daughter ringing the trebles was only seven years of age!
The Editor, early on in his article refers to these two occasions and then proceeds to point his moral. as enclosed! I thought it might be useful-and pertinent-as a tailpiece !-Yours sincerely,
C. E. BORRETT.

Sheringham.
PART OF THE EDITORIAL OF 'THE BELL NEWS.' AUGUST 23rd. 1884.
'The fact of members of the fair sex coming to the front as ringers, is certainly worth more than ordinary notice. The time may come when we can hear of them in the steeple. taking a light bell and ringing or calling a touch. This may aopear irregular, perhaps, from several points of view. But the presence of a lady in the belfry does not appear to us at all out of place We know the healthful effect of refined female influence under many conditions of our social life and such influence would not be out of place in a church belfry. And ringing a light bell in a touch now and then with the village company would be far preferable to many of those enervating occupations which the female portion of the human family are at the present time, in obedience to the vagaries of fashion. called upon to take part.'

SOLD OUT

Will readers please note that "The College Youths," by J. Armiger Trollope, is now out of print.

A CHURCHMAN'S VIEWPOINT

Dear Sir, I am a comparative newcomer to the art of bell-ringing but I hope you will allow me to comment on F.E.H.'s article. I came to bell-ringing via the Church, so perhaps I may put what I think is the Church's case.

My first point is that for a devout Churchman everything should be done for the glory of God. Our bell-ringing should carry out this principle. Ringing should, therefore, start with prayer and end with a short prayer of thanksgiving for being allowed to ring. Then all the ringers, being devout churchmen, should attend church on Sunday according to the individual's private rule.

We now meet the difficulty of a ringer who, when introduced to the art is indifferent to the Church's worship. At this point the Church Evangelical should come in. God may be calling this man to him through bell-ringing and we must be careful not to stand in God's way. It is the duty of the ringer to bring this man into the active life of the Church.

This may seem a burden to the ringers, but they should remember that a good example and prayer may be all that is needed. They should also seek the help of the parish priest in the matter.

Up to the moment I have been talking about an ideal tower: I have never come across one, but then my experience is very small.

To ring Church bells for enjoyment and not as an act of worship is wrong. The enjoyment must come with the act of worshin, the latter coming foremost. The above, as I have pointed out. is no true in individual cases. Nothing could be worse for a church than to force people to go. There would be no spirit of devotion in that church.

The responsibility of keeping the church a sacred building rests with the priest. He cannot in the nature of things allow the bells to be rung without devotion for ever: he must eventually take action. His first action should be to attempt an increase in the devotion of the ringing. If this fails he may have no other course than to close the tower. How can he ever hope to fill his church when its servants are not interested. The responsibility falls on the priest and all ringers who worship with that church.-Yours faithfully.

CHILVERS COTON'S HONOUR

Dear Sir,-May I point out to your correspondent in last week's issue of 'The Ringing World:' regarding his statement that Pakefield, (Suffolk) Church was the first war-damaged church in England to be rebuilt, that All Saints' Church. Chilvers Coton. Nuneaton, Warwickshire, was rededicated almost two and a half years earlier. The church. like Pakenham, was destroyed hy incendiaries, with the exception of the tower, on May 17th. 1941, and rebuilt hetween May. 1944, and 1947 by the voluntary labour of German prisoners of war officers and rededicated on Sentember 27th. 1947. During the rebuilding the bells were augmented from eight to ten and the two trebles dedicated on May 17th, 1947. the sixth anniversary of the raid which destroyed most of the church.-Yours sincercly

Reunion and Dinner

THE annual dinner and reunion of the University of Bristol Society of Change Ringers was held on January 26th. Proceedings commenced with a visit in the morning to All Saints' Church. Long Ashton, where, besides visitors from Swindon and Gloucester, a special welcome was paid to Mr. A. Fatrick Cannon, whose arrival was totally unexpected.
The first tower in Bristol to be visited after lunch was SS. Philip and Jacob's. Old Market, followed by St. Stephen's and Christ Church (City). At the last-named church the Rector, the Rev. H. C. B. Roden, conducted a short service in which he gave a very interesting address on the history of the bells. The organist was Mr. Kenneth E. Pinncy and the lesson was read by Mr. Robert J. Stokes.

A company of 31 members, visitors and guests sat down to dinner in the Senior Common Room Dining Room of the University Refectory, Professor R. J. Brocklehurst being in the chair in the absence of the president. Professor S . H. Piper. who is recovering from en attack of bronchitis.
After the toast of 'The King and The Church,' Professor Brocklehurst submitted the toast of ${ }^{\text {P }}$ The Exercise.' He remarked that when composing his speech he was advised by a nonringing , member of his family to begin by saying. 'The hunt is up; give her a blow behind!' This proves the contention that a little knowledge can be a dangerous thing. He thanked the Bristol City ringers for their helpful co-operation, thus enabling the Society to ring regularly in the local towers. The attitude taken by the author of the recent leading article in 'The Ringing World 'on the Swanwick strike was to be regretted in that too much emphasis was laid on the recreational aspect of ringing. He agreed that the clergy should not insist on ringers attending services but was pleased to observe that ringers as a ruie did the St. John's Rincing School: it was impossible to overstate the debt owed to him.

TRADE TERMS OF RINGING

$\mathrm{In}_{\mathrm{n}}$ his reply, Mr. A. Bennett, hon. secretary of the Bristol City Branch, said, that the remedy for the succession of ringers' strikes was to recruit regular churchgoers. In bis view, the ideal was to teach ordinands at Theological Colleges, as he had done, so producing 'a race of parsons who can appreciate the :- trade terms " of ringing.' As one of the founders nine years ago of the University Society. he app:aied to all members to keep the Society going. It was only through much perseverance and hard work in the past that the Society's present state of well-being had been attained.

The hon. secretary of the University Society. Mr. Lance C. I. Watson. proposed the toast of 'The Visitors.' On bchalf of the Society, he thanked Professor Brocklehurst for so ably taking the chair at very short notice. He read a letter of greetings from Dr. E. S. John Hatcher, hon. secretary of the Universities Association, who regretted his inability to attend. Officers. and members of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association were welcomed as was also Mr. A. Patrick Cannon. 'that travelling schoolmaster of high renown.: He wondered whether he was considering raisin' record peal bands in the future! It was pleasant to note that three former Masters and a former lady secretary of the Society were present. After quoting from a secretary's lament recently rublished in 'The Ringing World.' he encoura eed budding scapegoats (i.e., secretaries) with these words. once uttered hy the University's viecchancellor, Sir Philip Morris: A secretary is a person who can do his master's business better than his master-and who possesses sufficient tact not to let anyone know it.' With extreme tact he reverted to his original theme and raised the toast.

Mr. A. Patrick Cannon, who replied, wished to correct the secretary on one point; he was no longer a schoolmaster and presumably Mr. Watson had got the wrong end of the stick! He congratulated Mr. Jack R. Worrall on his remarkable progress and said that he was responsible for putting the Society in its present position as on of the leading University Societies. He noticed that one of the members was Mr. Alan P. Cave, grandson of the famous William A. Cave, and he hoped that he would eventually prove to be as great a ringer as his grandfather. Although a lover of slow ringing, he would have to quicken up somewhat if he rang with the Society for long, judging by the service touch of Stedman Caters at Christ Church. He wished to thank the Society for their very kind invitation : when he arrived at Bristol that day he did not visualise being a visitor to the dinner.
The toast of 'The Society' was proposed by Mr. F. G. Leaker, wh ) conveyed hearty greetings from officers and members of the Bristol City Branch, of which he is chairman. He offered another solution to the ringers' strikes in that the clergy should get to know their ringers as well as they do their choirmen. He feared that Al. Saints' bells would never be available until the demise of a certain churchwarden, who was under the impression that several hundred pounds' worth of damage would be caused if they were rung! He wished the Master every success in his teaching career.

MASTER'S REPORT
In his reply, Mr. Jack R. Worrall, Master of the University of Bristol Society, thanked Mr. Leaker for his kind wishes. A few amusing anecdotes arising out of his teaching practice at Gloucester then followed, the 'piece de resistance ' being a question asked by one of his pupils: 'Please sir, does Folies Bergere mean Shepherd's Delight?' Briefly recapitulating the Society's activities during the past year. he mentioned that four tower bell peals bad been rung, one of Grandsire Triples being conducted by the present Deputy Master, Miss B. Enid Lloyd Roberts. She vas the first lady to conduct a peal for the Society. Two unsuccessful attempts at Grandsire Caters had also been made. One quarter peal worthy of mention was that of Stedman Triples rung at Christ Church in honour of the former Master's 21st birthday. Three peals 'in hand' marked the continued progress of handbell ringing, even touches of Canibridge Minor had keen successfully brought round towards the end of last term. Several learners had been taught recently and it was pleising to note that one of them was present that evening. The year had been one of piogress and he hoped that it would be maintained.
Handbell ringing brought the evening to a close. Ringing took place at St. John-on-theWall and the Lord Mayor's Chanel. this being Mr. Cannon's 1,427 th tower, on Sunday morning and at Christ Church in the evening.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD AT DORCHESTER

Branch's Successful Year

Ringers of the Dorchester Branch held their annual meeting at the Church of St. Peter, Dorchester, on January 19th. The eight bells were available at $2.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. and were rung until 4 oclock, when the Guild service was conducted by the branch chairman, Canon A. Wilkinson Markby, who gave the address. Tea was taken at St. Peter's Institute, served by ladies of the church.
Canon Markby presided at the business mecting. Apologies for absence were read from Canon C. C. Cox, Master of the Guild, and the Ven. J. C. Chute, vice-chairman of the branch. The hon. secretary's report gave brief details of the year's activities, meetings being held at Dorchester, Martinstown. Bere Regis, Fordington, Cattistock and Milton Abbcy, with an average attendance of nearly 50 . Membership was now 187, of which 161 were ringers, 8 honorary, 17 associates and 1 life member.
Four peals were rung and 27 quarter peals: The branch practices, said the secretary, had been very popular. but he still appealed for better attendances as these occasions were ideal for those who had ambitions in the way of becoming better ringers.
All the officers were re-elected :-Chairman, the Rev. Canon A. W. Markby; vice-chairman, the Ven. Archdeacon J. C. Chute: hon. secrctary and treasurer. Mr. J. H. Hayne : assistant hon. secretary, Mr R. H. Duke : Ringing Master, Mr. F. Precey : Deputy Ringing Masters, Mr. F Stedman and Mr. E. I. P. Field.
Meetings for 1952 were provisionally arranged for Wool, April 19th: Milton Abbey on a Thursday in June, subject to confirmation by the Vicar : Abbotsbury in September; and Wyke Regis in November, also to be confirmed by the Rector
Invitations were also considered from Frampton and Preston for by-meetings, Preston hoping to have their augmented ring of six available by June. The next branch practice was fixed for February 2nd. at Wyke Regis.
It was proposed that the charge for tea be increased to 2s. per head, but after an amendment by Mr. Whalley, it was agreed that adult members should pay 2 s . but that the charge should remain at 1 s . for those members who were of school age
New members elected were Miss R. Slade, Mr . P. Rose and Mr. L. Frost, of Stratton, and Mr. A. Brown. of Wool.

A grant of $£ 2$ towards the cost of a board to record the peal rung to the memory of the late Mr. G. T. White, a former Ringing Master of the branch, was approved unanimously.

The proposed repairs to the church at West Lulworth were discussed and it was mentioned that there were some doubts as to whether the bells would be replaced in the tower. Although no ringing has taken place at this church for a number of years, it was the opinion of all present that some plea should be made to those responsible to replace the bells and that the members of the branch would be ready to help stimulate interest in the parish in order to get them ringing again.
The chairman thanked all those who had helped to make the gathering a success, and the meeting then closed, the ringers returning to the tower to ring until nearly nine o.clock.
Fordington's six bells were also available and a number of members found their way there after the meeting.

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION Northern District

The annual meeting of the Northern District was held at Braintree :In Januiry l"th when 0 members were present from 18 towers. The service in St. Michael's Church was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. P. H. James).
At the meeting it was reported that 10 peals had been rung in the District in 1951. The District Master Miss H. G. Snowden, was reelected: also the secretary, Mr. H. A. Pratt. Messrs. J. Warner (Brainirae) and J Elliott (Kelvedon) were appointed to the general committee and seven new members were elected.

An appeal was made for funds to rehang the bells and recast the tenor at Stebbing. After the meeting some members rang handbells whilst others went on to Bocking for ringing

MIDDDLESEX COUNTY South and West District

The six at Brentford and the eight at St. Mary's. Ealing, were chosen for the South and West District meeting on January 5th.
St. Law.ence's, Brentford, bells have very recently been rehung on ball bearings by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Ltd.. who are to be congratulated on a fine engincering job. Everyone was greatly impressed with the change. The old clock case. so much in the way of the two trebles. had been removed and the c! rek was lying on the floor awaiting removal.
There is quite a lot of timber and rubbish still in the ringing chamber. as the work of redecorating the room is temporarily he!d up through lack of funds. Any dust that mav liave just settled on the seats was soon reninved by the number of ringers who soon arrived. The bells are a pleasant ring, with an ancient Culverden bell of c. 1510, a Rudhill, a Mears and three Warner bells including the tenor, with a reputed weight of 11 cwt . 2 ar. 1 lb . Ringing was varied. ranging up to Spliced Surprise, includine Brentford Bob.
In the evening ringing was at St. Mary's, Ealing. Here, thanks to the excellent maintenance by Arthur Harding, the bells went very well.

SOCIETY FOR ARCHDEACONRY

OF STAFFORD

It was a real winter afternoon on the occasion of the Society's meeting at St. Matthew's, Walsall, on January 2fth. There had been a light fall' of snow and it was bitterly cold, with every indication of more snow to come. Under such adverse weathe; conditions the attendance of 63 was highly satisfactory. If it was cold outside, then it was certainly warm in the church and ringing chamber
Good use was made of the grand ring of 12 bells and Mr.. George Oliver carried out the duties of Ringing Master in his usual efficient manser. The service was conducted by the Vicar of Walsall, Canon A. T. Jenkins, assisted by the curate, the Rev. T. Morgan. In his address Canon Jenkinson stressed the importance of the office of a riuger in proclaiming the Christian message to thousands who were not connecte. I with organised religion. The very rature of such office demanded that ringers should realise their obligations to the Church and be regular in their attendance at Sunday services.
Tea was served in the Blue Coat Schools. In his remarks following tea, the hon. lay secretary requested tower secretaries to impress on their ringers the necessity of turning up for tea if they had sent in their names. The Society had suffered financial loss owing to members failing to attend after ordering tea.
On behalf of the members present, the Rev. C. H. Barker and Mr. George Oliver thanked Canon Jenkins, the Rev. T. Morgan, Mr. W. Walker and his daughter, Mrs. Jones, the members of the Walsall band and the organist of St. Matthew's for their part in making this meeting so successful.
The next meeting of the Society will be at Tamworth on March 29th.

THE CLOCK AND BELL'

We have received the first copy of the house magazine of Gillett and Johnston, edited by Mr. A. Patrick Cannon. It is an attractive publication bringing to the notice of readers the various services of the firm and its latest contracts.
Anciquarians interested in foundry marks wil] note that the firm has adopted a new foundry mark desiened by Mr. H. M. Howard and symbolic of the two crafts of bell-foundine and clock-making. The new mark reads: 'Gules, three church hells or, a rhief embattled argent, at Honour Point a sundial sable.'
Its oredecessor. used as a foundry mark only. was drrived from the armorial bearings of the late Mr. Cyril F. Johnston. It reads: Or, a saltire gules between fo ir church bells sable, on a chief gules three woolpacks or.'

THE SOUTH AFRICAN PEAL Raw，Blistered Hands and Swollen Feet

In＇The Ringing World＇of January 18th we published a record of a peal of Grandsire Doubles rung at Woodstock，South Africa，on December 27 th ．
The following story of the peal that appeared in＇The Sunday Tribune，＇South Africa，will be read with interest by English peal ringers：－
＇Six men in Cape Town have raw，blistered hands becat se on Thursday night they stood for three hours in the ringing chamber of St．Mary＇s Church．Woodstock，and rang a peal of 5040 changes for the first time in Africa since 1908.
－The ropes of the bells passed ihrough each pair of hands 2.040 times．The men could not wear gloves because the wearing of gloves is a breach of bell－ringing etiq rette．All were ex－ hausted after their tremendous effort：their feet swelled and by the end of the peal one man was ringing in his hare feet．
＂This is only the third time that a real peal has been rung on the entire continent of Africa， said Mr．Robert Stickley，of Napier Street． Woodstock．who was the conductor．＂The peal kas one of Grandsire Doubles．Six bells were used weighing a total of 6140 Ib ．We started at about 7.50 p．m．and finished at about 10.45 p．m．＂${ }^{\circ}$

The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

THE PASSING

RINGERS by their vocation are very close to the heart of the Nation. To the majority of us this week has fallen the melancholy task of proclaiming to the people the passing of King George VI. It is our responsibility to give an audible expression of the Nation's sorrow. We look back over the past 16 years of the King's reign with a sense of thankfulness to the leadership he gave the Empire in a period of unparalleled difficulty. His death, so unexpectedly, leaves a blank difficult to fill. He gave to this country two things in particular-a sense of courage in adversity and an unshaken belief in the divine hand of God. There were many examples in his broadcasts, but one we will quote again given in the blackest days of the last war: ' Let us go forward as one man, a smile on our lips and our heads held high and with God's help we shall not fail.' Those words are equally applicable to-day.

The sympathy of Church Bell Ringers throughout the land has been expressed in a telegram sent to Buckingham Palace by Mr. G. W. Fletcher, secretary of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, and a gracious acknowledgment has been received. Every man and woman in the land and the Commonwealth is conscious of a personal loss; since Wednesday, February 6th, a quiet and reverent Nation has gone about its normal avocations with a feeling of gratitude to one who, though neither born nor trained to be King, was called upon to ascend the Throne under circumstances which must have been particularly painful to him. His strong sense of duty and the assiduous manner in which he attended to the affairs of State won for him a place of deep affection in all hearts.

We also think of our King and gracious Queen as those who delighted in knowing and understanding our people. At times we ringers feel that we are the unseen section of the community and, providing the bells are rung, we do not enter into the general picture of things. There were, however, times when ringers were brought into close contact with the Royal Family. There was a memorable occasion at Chester when the ringers were introduced, and also quite recently when the Queen deputised for the King in a visit to Manchester. Her Majesty went out of her way to chat to the ringers. Probably other tower captains can remind us of similar incidents.

On such occasions as this the question is naturally asked what is the correct procedure-should the bells be rung half muffled or fully muffled? At the passing of King George V. there was no measure of agreement and more than one writer made a request to 'The Ringing World' for a ruling from the Central Council on the subject. A school of thought then advocated that for the passing of the King the bells should be rung fully muffled and for other personages half muffled. While we at Guildford do not in any sense wish to give the correct interpretation of the procedure to be adopted, our observation took this form. On the day of the King's death and on every other day before the funeral, except for the day of the Proclamation of Queen Elizabeth II., the knell was tolled on the tenor at noon. On the evening of the day of the King's death the bells were rung fully muffled to touches of Stedman with the exception of the tenor, which was half muffled. This was followed by the 'whole pull and stand" for the late King's age. The same procedure it is proposed to adopt for the memorial service.

The late Mr. J. Armiger Trollope, who in many respects was an authority on matters of procedure, when approached for his opinion as to whether ringing should be half or fully muffled, said there was no way more correct than another; the only question was which sounds the best. He added, ' Probably the most effective is to ring the " whole pull and stand" half muffled very slowly, with a whole pull on the tenor alone between each change and varying the order in which the bells are rung. To do this properly you would want a good band. When changes are rung either in touches or peals, half muffled is infinitely superior to fully muffled, but quick ringing ruins the effect, and Major is preferable to Triples. . . . The tolled bell is the only official way of commemorating Royalty. Fully muffled ringing is not much more than 200 years old and half muffled considerably less.'

Whether the ringing adopted in your tower is half muffled or fully muffled, we sincerely trust that every band in the country will recognise its special responsibility and ring on the day of the funeral and at any local memorial service that will be arranged. The clergy and the public expect it of us and also there is our own personal desire to be associated with the Nation in the tribute to one who was held in such affection by us all.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD Salishury Branch

The annual meeting of the Branch was held at St. Paul's, Salisbury, on February 2nd, 40 members and visitors being present from 18 different towers.

Six towers had been visited during the year for meetings and practice. Guild certificates for proficiency had been gained by eight members, and two peals had been scored in the Branch.
The chairman (Mr, H. A. Roles) spoke of the need of increasing co-operation between the ringers and the clergy saying that he had found in his experience that if the ringers tried to fall in with the wishes of the incumbent, he in turn stood by his ringers and co-operated with them. He also referred to the marriage during the year of Mr. Frank Harris and Miss Jean Brown. to the recording of Sarum St. Thomas' bells and to the rehanging of Broadchalke and Dorhead St. Mary bells.
The Branch officers were re-elected:H. A. Roles, chairman; W. Chalke, vice-chairman: Miss Y. Eloic, secretary and treasurer : H. Roles, J. Mussell and H. Abrahams, Ringing Masters; C. Haines and A. The bells at St. Paul's were kept going during the afternoon and evening, and St. Thomas' and South Newton also in the evening, from rounds and standard methods to Double Norwich and some Cambridge, Bristol and London.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION

Presentation to Retiring Chairman

In spite of bad weather conditions which prevented, amongst others, the Ringing Master from attending, there was a good attendance at the annual meeting of the Ilchester and Merston Branch held at Martock on January 26th. Procecdings commenced earlier than usual to enable the retiring chairman, Preb. G. W. Saunders, to get to his new hame near Bridport.

The Association service was conducted by Preb. Saunders assisted by the Vicar of Stoke-under-Ham, the Rev. Douglas Ballard. Mr. Shepherd was the organist.

The first business of the meeting was a presentation to Preb. Saunders to commemorate his 32 years in office This consisted of a specially- and beautifully-bound copy of the 'Bells of All Nations.' by Mr. Ernest Morris.
The new Vicar of Martock, the Rev. L. E Walsh (a ringer), was elected chairman; other officers re-elected were: Mr. T. Setter, vicechairman; Mr. F. Farrant. secretary; and Mr. W. H. Poole, Ringing Master. Somerton and Stoke-under-Ham were places chosen for the year's meetings. Several ncw members were elected from Somerton. Martock, West Coker and Haselbury Plucknett.

After tea, which followed the meeting, the bells were kept going until 9 p.m. F. F.

No. 3-Covering
In mathod ringing every stroke Succeeds a different bell. No cloak Can muffle clashes, made so oft When ringers let their minds go 'soft.? How find we then the bell to follow? (Beginners sometimes here find sorrow b) Wcll, first the ear will tell the sound To make you instantly glance round And check with eye, 'gainst falling rope, The stroke you're making. Llandaff Cathedral bells have been removed by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank to be tuned, quarter turned and rehung. These bells have not been rung since the disastrous blitz of 1941, when the tower was rendered unsafe for ringing. A large team of young people is now learning to ring at the local parish church of St. John.

The meetung of the Winchester District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild at Hursley has been postponed to February 23rd.

Mr. Arthur V. Pearson informs us that the asterisk against his name in the peal of Lincolnshire Surprise Major at Lye on January 16th, should read ' 100 th peal of Surprise Major.'

London ringers visiting Leeds for the Chelsea v. Leeds United cup-tie will be welcomed at the Leeds Society's meeting at St. Chad's, Headingley.

Mr. Charles Haylings has completed 25 years as sexton and clerk at St. Mary's, Ripple, Worcs.

The rings of six at Tywardreath and Lelant, Cornwall, have been removed from the towers and sent to Loughborough prior to being rehung by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co.

Great pleasure was given to the band who rang the quarter peal at Dartford, Kent, to have Mr. Harry Hoverd back with them after two years' illness.
His many friends in the Excrcise will join the All Saints', Maidstone, band in congratulating Mr. E. Spiller, their captain for the past 29 years, on completing 50 years as a ringer. Mr. Spiller rang his first peal in 1903 and although he has many peals to his credit it is as a Sunday service ringer that his sterling qualities have been directed. Seldom absent, never late, always ready to help beginners and to welcome visitors, he is, indeed, one of the pillars of the Exercisc.

GOSSIP

The youngest ringer in the Salisbury District is Raymond Haines, aged seven and a half, who was elected to full membership of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild at their recent annual meeting. His father, Mr. C. F. Haines, of 17. Shaftesbury Road, Wilton, says that Raymond was his easiest pupil and can now. after only three months' tuition, ring 120 of Grandsire with very little prompting. Raymond rings regularly for Sunday services at Wilton (tenor 8 cwt .) and has already started 'tower snatching ' with about a dozen rings to his credit.

The Snowdon dinner will be held at York on October 25 th.

Titchfield, Hants, has a promising local band which should go far. They record their first of London Surprise Minor

A novel memorial picture appeared in "The Birmingham Post' of Mr. George E. Fearn, Ringing Master at Birmingham Cathedral, tying a muffle on the clapper of one of the bells

Miss Brenda, M. Smith, who will be 17 in March, has rung the $36-\mathrm{cw}$. tenor at Evesham bell-tower (behind on the back eight). Has any other lady ringer handled this weight of metal at this age?

Mr. F. W. French, of Bourne, Lincolnshire, celebrates his jubilee as a ringer this year. He chimed the bells of Market Deeping Parish Church at the age of seven. For three years he was a district ringing master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

Sixteen-year-old Miss B. M. Vidler, of Marden. Kent, was warmly congratulated by the band who rang with her in her first peal on eight bells-Double Norwich Court Bob Major-at Brenchley. She started ringing 12 months ago and her opportunities to practise Major have been very limited

SUDDEN DEATH OF DR. J. C. E. SIMPSON

The sudden and unexpected death on February 7 th. at the carly age of 43 , of James C E. Simpson. M.Sc... Ph.D.. has removed from the Exercise a weil-known and brilliant conductor and ringer
He was taken ill on January 20th at his brother's house at Wrexham and was removed to Wrexham Hospital for what was expected to be a routinc operation. It was discovered that the trouble was more serious than had been anticipated and more tban one operation was necessary. He appeared to recover from the operations and was considered to be out of danger when he collapsed and died.
The funcral service was at St. Oswald's Church, Chester, on February 9th, when, in addition to the family mourners, the Archdeacon of Chester. the Master and general secretary of the Chester Guild and several of his ringing friends were present. Cremation followed at Landican Crematorium where more ringers had gathered to bid a last farcwell to their friend. At an appropriate place in the service a wellstruck course of Grandsire Triples was rung by a band representing four branches of the Chester Guild.
Dr. Simpson was born at Wallasey, Cheshire. on Aug. 14th. 1908. and after studying at Liverpool University and a stay in America of two years, he took up an appointment at the University of London. Subsequently he returned to Liverpool to take up an appointment with the School of Tropical Medicine and on the transference of his department to Manchester he went to reside there and was appointed Honorary Lecturer in Organic Chemistry at the University of Manchester
Of a shy and retiring nature his influence was usually indirect but he could and did speak in a very forthright manner when the occaston demanded it. He was an excellent conductor and had made a speciality of all the different onepart long course 5,024 's of London Surprise Major by G. Lindoff, and had only recently completed this task. He called the first pcal of Spliced Surprise Major in Lancashire Ior the Lancashirc Association, and, in Cheshire, the lirst peals of Loughborough Bob Major, St.

Lawrence Bob Major and several Surprise Major methods
In the ficld of Soliced Surprise he was $t^{h} \mathrm{c}$ first to call a peal in five methods and six methods in which all the bells do all the work of all the methods and he conducted the present record of Spliced, 8,032 at Frodsham, on December 30th, 1950. The attempt for 9,568 made on December 29th, 1951, failed and a pcal of Ealing, his last peal, was rung instead, conducted by him. This failure was a great disappointment to him and it had been hoped to make the attempt this year. Whether this will be done or whether, as has been suggested, the record be left as a tribute to his memory is something which his friends will have to decide.
In spite of his slight build he was a first-rate heavy-bell ringer. and it was here that his scientific training showed itself for he carefully considered each tenor he rang and the amount of energy he needed to put into each pull to do the job well. His finest feat was. in the opinion of many of his friends, to ring Beverley Minster tenor to an almost perfect peal of Cambridge Royal during which he never saw the ringers of 6, 7, 8 and 9 . for he had his back to them, and yet he placed his bell impeccably. Other fine performances were turning in Wells Cathedral tenor to Cambridge Royal with John Worth as strapper; St. Nicholas', Liverpool, tenor. and Durham Cathedral tenor to Cambridge Major.
He had the gift of getting the hest out of a band without speaking a word. One felt that seeing him at work on the box the least one could do was to support him up to the hilt. Among his many performances one might single out the first peal of Cambridge Maximus in the North of England (Liverpooil in 1928), the first peal of Cambridge Maximus in Ireland (at Dublin) and the 15,480 Cambridge Royal at Worsley on December 15th last. His ringing of the eighth to that peal was masterly and his attention to small details of striking. a marked characteristic of his. was never more apparent than in the way he kept the eighth off the tenor in the 08's at the back.

DR. J. C. E. SIMPSON.-Continued

His pcal total must be in the region of 550 but when his peal book has been obtained a detailed analysis will be made.
His unexpected death has stunned his friends who considered him to be the fittest man among them, for among his other interests were iennis, badminton, fell walking and singing. It is hard to believe we shall never see his lithe ligure nor hear his quiet voice again but one thing, I feel sure, all his friends can do, 's to strive to reach the standards of performance which he would have had us reach.
An attempt for a memorial peal at Macclesfield in 12 Spliced Surprise Major methods (he called the first one in Cheshire) failed after $1 \frac{1}{t}$ hours' good ringing, but a memorial pcal of Stedman Triples was rung at Liscard.

We hope to publish other appreciative resrages next week.

THE CURFEW IN ENGLISH LIFE

In many parish records the curfew is described as "Bow-bell." Shakespeare, who must, one would suppose, have been familiar with the sound of the curfew tolling from many various steeples, nevertheless refers to it as indicative of the most unusual hours. In 'Romeo and Juliet' (Act IV., Sc. 4), Lord Capulet says:Come, stir, stir, stir, the second cock hath crow'd.
The courphew bell hath rung. "tis three o'clock.
In 'Mcasure for Measure ' (Act IV., Sc. 4) occurs the following:-

Duke: The best and wholesom'st spirits of the night
Invellop you. good Provost, who call'd here of late?
Provost: None since curfew rung.
In another of his plays he fixes yet another hour. Thus in 'Tempest' (Act. V., Sc. 1), Prospero says:-- You, whose pastime

Is to make midnight mushrooms, that rejoice
To hear the solemn curfew,"
And in 'King Lear' (Act III., Sc. 4). Edgar exclaims:- "This is the foul fiend Flibbertigibbet; he begins the curfew and walks to the first cock.

Milton in "Il Penseroso' ( $74 / 75$ ) speaks of the curfew :-

Oft on a plot of rising ground
I hear the far off curfew sound
Over some wide-watered shore.
Swinging low with sullen roar.

ONE ACRE FOR THE CURFEW

At Byficld. Northants, we read: "A bell is rung here at four in the morning, and at eight in the evening, for which the clerk hath 20 s . yearly paid to him by the rector.' In Dorsct at Mappowder there is mention of land being given to a man to ring the morning and curfew bell throughout the ycar,' also at Ibberton is mentioned, one acre given for ringing the 8 o'clock bell, and $£ 4$ for ringing the morning bell.'

At Claybrooke we read that 'the custom of ringing curfew is still kept up, has probably obtained without intermission since the days of the Norman conqueror' (Macauley. 'History of Claybrooke, '1791). It is probable in the Middle Ages some superstitious regard was paid to the ringing of couvre-feu, for we often find, as shown by the examples quoted-land and money left for its upkeep. This feeling does not appear to have been altogether extinct even at the close of the 16 th century. for in Bishop Hall's 'Fourth Satire' occurs the following: -
Whocver gives a naire of velvet shooes
To th' Holy Rood. or liberally allowes
But a new rope to ring the couvre-feu bell
But he desires that his great deed may dwell.
Or graven in the chancel window glasse.
Or in his lasting tombe of plated brasse
We find the curfew mentioncd as a common and approved regulation in most monasteries and towns of North Europe, the intent being to prevent accidents by fires. All the common houses at this time consisted mostly of timber. and Moscow, for instance. being built of this material, generally suffered once, at least, in every twenty years. That this happened in London. Fitzstephen proves:- Solze pestes Lundonia sunt stult orum immodica potatio et frequens incendit:m.'

IN SCOTLAND

The' 'Saxon Chroniclo' also mentions the frequent burning of towns. which might be expected for the same reason, the Saxon term for building being zerimbpian. The Hon. Daines Barrington tells us:-

- Curfew is written curphour in an old Scottish poem, published in 1770 with many others from the manuscript of George Bannatyne, who collected them in the year 1568. It is observed in the annotations on them that by Act 144, part 13, Jam. I., 'this bell was to be rung in burghs at nine in the evening, and that the hour was afterwards changed to ten, at the solicitation of the wife of James the Sixth.'
There is a narrow street in Perih, Scotland. still called 'Couvre-feu Row' Ieading west to Black Friars where the couvre-feu bell gave warning to the inhabitants to cover their fires and go to rest, when the clock struck ten.
In ' The Fair Maid of Perth,' referring to this same street in February, 1396, Sir Walter Scott says:-

Curfew bell, then rung at seven $0^{\circ}$ clock at night: the cusiom has long ceased, but the street in which the bell was situated, and where The Fair Maid lived, is still called Curfew Row.
Mr. Jesse Salisbury in his ' Glossary of Words and Phrases ' used in S.E. Worcestershire, 1893, states:-
:The curfew bell is rung at Pershore at eight oclock in the evening from November 5th until Candlemas Day. It was formerly also rung at five oclock in the morning, but owing to the old Sexton-named Blake-who for many years performed the duty of ringing the curfew bells, making a mistake as to the time on one occasion, and ringing it five hours too carly, the practice was discontinued.'
Bell's ' Weekly Messenger.' September 28th, 1895, quotes: ' The curfew bell in old St. Giles, Cripplegate. which has been allowed to be neglected, and almost forgotten, has now been replaced in the cupola of the ancient church. It has been remounted in a strong English oak frame, and can be seen from the surrounding district. There can be little doubt that the old bell which has been restored was the same which rung the nightly signal when Milton lived under its shadow.

NORTH OF ENGLAND CUSTOM
A custom which still lingers in the north of England shows the truc meaning of the word curfew, and the reason why the curfew was rung. It is usual to keep the kitchen fire burning all night. About nine p.m. in the winter, and rather later in summer, a quantity of 'raking slack 'was shot out of a wooden coal box upon the fire. The box was like a big wooden shoe or slipper, with a handle on each side. Then water out of a lading can was thrown upon the fire to make it 'crozzil' better. About five in the morning in summer, and six in winter, the fire was revived by putting in a few sticks. Owing to the increased price of coal and also the invention of matches. this custom has generally become discontinued. but it is remembered by old people. In some houses in South Yorkshire the fire is still 'slaked" and kept burning all night in winter to maintain warmth. In earlier times. when wood was burnt. a big log of wood, once known as the 'head brand' or 'hearth stock,' was put at the back of the fire and then 'slaked' or covered up for the night, hy pulling this hig log down and raking other nieces of wood on it.
Amongst Greeks and Romans it was a sacred obligation for the master of every house to keep un the fire night and day. Woe to the house where it was extinguished! Every evening he covered up the coals with ashes to prevent them becoming entirely consumed. In the morning the first care was to revive the fire with a few twigs. On these grounds we may conclude that the curfew bell was rung as a signal-at least. where the above castoms prevailed-not to put the fire out, but to keep it in by 'covering up with slake ' and so to bed.

In Worcestershire also it is a custom for cottagers to keep the fire burning all night in this way. Henry Kirke White alludes to it in his Description of a Summer Eve ':

- The mistress sees that lazy Kate

The happing, coals on kitchen grate has laid
In 'The Ringing World' (1930) was given notice of a bequest for curfew to the parish of Sturminster Newton. The testator, Mr. Fiederick Giles Symonds, a retired bank manager, who died on May 10 th of that year at the sge of 83 , left estate of gross value of $£ 14,707$. By his will he left $£ 100$ upon trust to pay the income to the Vicar and churchwardens of Sturminster Newton towards keeping alive the incient custom of ringing the curfew from Michaclmas Day to Lady Day, any surplus to be paid the Vicar for the Sick and Needy Fund. He left other bequests to the church and parish. CHERTSEY ABBEY BELL.
We have shown how Shakespeare and Milton refer to the curfew and many other allusions could be repeated from our best-known writers and poets. It may not be generally known that the story told in the poem 'The curfew must not ring to-night.' is. in all probability, true. It is stated that the bell which the heroine, Bessie, prevented from ringing to save her lover's life, still hangs and rings in the belfry of Chertsey Parish Church It is known as the Abbey bell. because it was originally made for Chertsey Abbey, but was preserved and given to the Parish Church on the Dissolution of the Monasteries in the 16th century. But even if the poem be not true. the bell is interesting (1) because it was tolled for Henry Vl. when his body was taken to Chertsey Abbey for burial. and (2) because it was cast in 1310 and is therefore one of England's oldest bells. Longfellow thus speaks of the curfew in Evangeline ':

Thus passed the evening away. Anon the bell from the belfry.
Rang out the hour of nine, the village curfew. and straightway
Rose the guests and departed; and silence reigned in the houschold.
Longfellow also has this to say about it:Solemnly mournfully,

Dealing its dole,
The Curfew Bell
Is beginning to toll.
Cover the embers
And put out the light:
Toil comes with the morning,
And rest with the night.
Dark grow the windows.
And quenched is the fire,
Sound fades into silence-
No voice in the chambers.
No sound in the hall!
Sleep and oblivion
Reigns over all.'

THE BENEVOLENT FUND PROPOSAL

- We are glad to sce that the suggestion that a Ringers' Benevolent Fund should be established is being seriously considered in many parts of the country

The Kent County Association is leading the way and the scheme put forward by the honorary secretary, the Rev. F. J. O. Helmore, as the result, we are proud to think. of the question being opened up in this column, is receiving enthusiastic support in all the districts, making it almost certain that at the next annual meeting Mr. Helmore's proposals will be adoptcd.
TThe Kent County Association's Benevolent Fund has now a balance in hand of some $£ 370$. Over $£ 500$ has been paid out since it was established.]

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THREE SISTERS IN A PEAL
Dear Sir.-While congratulating the three sisters, the Misses Proctor, on ringing their peal together at Claybrooke, not forgetting congratulations to the conductor, this has already been accomplished on several occasions by members of the Johnson family.
The first occasion was a peal at Offenham (Wores) in 1931, when Rosalie, Amy and Florence took part with their father and two brothers in a family peal. Later, Amy (now Mrs. J. Thomas) conducted a peal of Grandsire Doubles with Margaret and Kathleen, and a second one with Florence and Kathleen. Still later, Amy, Margaret and Kathleen took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples with their elder brother. Joseph-these last three peals on hand-bells.-Yours faithfully,

DAPHNE J. MARTIN (Mrs.)

Dear Sir,-At the Church of St. Mary Magdalene. Ditcheat, Somerset, on April 19th, 1949. three sisters, Misses Vera, Audrey and Beryl Look. rang 2,3 and 4 respectively to a peal of Grandsire Triples.-Yours faithfully.

A PERFECT SQUARE ON AN EIGHT-BELL CHANGE

Dear Sir,-Once again I had much enjoyment from Kewsett's Christmas Quiz, and the least I can do is to answer his S.O.S. in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World' to find a change on cight bells that is a perfect square.
Here are all the changes on eight bells that are perfect squares:-
$13527684=3678^{2}$
$34857216=5904^{2}$
$65318724=8082^{2}$
$73256481=8559^{2}$
$81432576=9024^{2}$

Yours faithfully.
T. G. HAWKINS.

Mr. R. C. H. Connolly, Watford, also replies and adds no change on eight bells is a perfect cube, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth or tenth power.

TOUCHES OF GRANDSIRE TRIPLES

Dear Sir-I thought that one of your readers more expert than myself would have pointed out that the touch of 476 Grandsire Triples on page 64 is false.
It would appear that rounds has been produced from Whittington's by grafting on the corresponding part of the 308 on the same page: unfortunately this entails three consecutive bob leads.
I subjoin one possible alternative which runs again to 476 :-

'IN PLAIN ENGLISH

Dear Sir.-In reply to Mr. Stafford Green's comment on the Guild of Devonshire Ringers in your issue of February 8th. I shall be pleased to give him opportunity to air his criticism in plain English at our annual meeting at Combe Martin on Easter Monday.

DUTY AND SERVICE RINGING

Dear Sir,-In our village we have five bells. For the last two years or more we have had six ringers. Of these, one is a policeman and usually on duty; one is the postmistress and, believe it or not, works quite hard on Sundays; and one is a country doctor who is, of course, always on duty. Of these three, all can, with an effort, usually attend for half an hour's ringing. but they could not manage the extra hour if they stayed to the service. But we ring twice every Sunday and every ringer stays to either morning or evening service.
We also ring for three services on Christmas. Easter and Whit Sunday and, of course, we ring the Old Year out and the New Year in
I gather from some of the correspondence in 'The Ringing World ' that it would be better if our bells were silent.
I dislike anonymous letters though I am obviously one of the ringers mentioned, and sign my name so that those who feel they are entitled to can ' cast the first stone.'-Yours truly,

Freshford, Somerset.

Dear Sir,-Please grant me a small space in our esteemed paper to respond to the front page article re ringers and church by F. E. H. The action of those Swanwick ringers seems to me to be very much flavoured with that dreadful monster, Communism. I uphold to the utmost the action of the incumbent. I myself experienced the very same thing in my parishseven young men twice weekly at practice but never once at divine service.
I understand church bells are consecrated for the purpose of calling people to worship and to our God. I feel that when men talk and write about their rest, their foremost thoughts are upon themselves. Who to-day is overworked. when worship is rest? If anybody is overworked is it not the clergy, supposed one day a week men? Come in ye weary ones and take a rest. Have not and are not the present-day clergy pulling their weight both in belfry and in ringing meetings, etc.. uplifting the moral and spiritual wants of broth sides?
It appears to me that F, E. H. has a foot in each place. Be bold, sir. and favour no tender treatment of such men. Try and picture, if you can, all towers taking the action the Derbyshire men have done. They would very quickly be ringing their Nunc Dimittis.-Yours very humbly.
E. W. F.

AN HONEST INTERPRETATION

Dear Sir-Any Rector has, of course, the right to tell ringers who have the honesty to admit that they are interested in ringing primarily as a mental exercise to build secular towers and ring in them-just as any ringer has the right to tell such a Rector to man his ropes from his regular congregation, but where is the giain? History shows that such intolerance leads to aridity and not growth.
Sanctimonious attempts to show others "the light ' often lead to harm. and in my own experience have driven out of ringing those who can probably be of great value, that is churchgoing ringers. It is one thing to choose your course of action-another to have it dictated to you.

It seems to me that F. E. H.'s article is an honest account of the attitude of the majority of ringers and his reasonable arguments much more likely to recall those who are not churchmen to a sense of their obligations than the inflamed exhortations of some of your correspondents, which will only reaffirm the converted in their piety-a nleasing, but fruitless occupation -Yours faithfully, Southampton.

IRREGULAR METHODS

Dear Sir.-I was interested to read M. R. P.'s criticisms of my letter of December 21 st is a recent edition of 'The Ringing World.' May I be permitted to make the following observations on them?
(1). Campanological Balderdash.-It is, I assume, the duty of the Editor and the Editorial Committee to present to their readers, among other things, a true cross-section of opinion, and so will publish many letters whose views do not coincide with their own. In such circumstances it is inevitable that certain material will appear falling into the category I mentioned. If M. R. P. or any others have not read that which they consider comes under this heading, then their gullibility must be greater or their perspicacity smaller than most people's.
(2) Cartwheeling.-To a simple question, a simple answer-Yes! Logic is our strong point.
(3). Woodbine, etc.-Woodbine with 5ths when the treble is behind ceases to be Woodbine and becomes Neasden. Oxford with 5 ths in a similar place becomes Sandal. Is Sandal better than Oxford? Should Oxford not then be rung? Oh, I had almost forgotten. The comparison is unfair. There is the small matter of irregular lead ends. But you already have my views on that subject.
(4). 6-5's at backstroke don't matter.-The phrase quoted by M. R. P. has been removed from its context, and as originally written: Here, with close leads, even $6-5$ 's at backstroke don't matter is not a matter of opinion but a plain statement of fact.
(5). I am not aware, nor do I find on re-reading, that my letter stated. or contained the suggestion, that 'The Central Council' consisted of a 'band of theoretical nobodies.' Nor can I find any sarcastic references to them in my letter. I have the greatest respect for the Central Council: I was, after all, once a member myself! What I said was that many of them have but 'an academic interest in the subject." This, I am afraid, is still truc. True, also, they can't compel anyone. But if they refuse to recognise Minor peals containing methods with irregular lead ends. this amounts to practically the same thing. No, I think that the Central Council should realise that in excluding these methods it is robbing Minor ringers of interesting and useful material and should, therefore, take steps necessary to remedy the injustice.
My list does not include M, R, P.!--Yours faithfully,
H. CHANT

AN EXAMPLE FROM SHEPTON BEAUCHAMP

Dear Sir.-Although not wishing to uphold the attitude of non-church-attending ringers (I should think their consciences coupled with moral duty should tell them which is right), it is evident that the fault is not all theirs. Is sufficient encouragement with tact given from the other side?

Shepton Bcauchamp Church has for many years had the fullest support from its ringers; each succeeding Rector has enjoyed their cooperation both inside and outside of the church and belfry, and I believe this is due in the main to the following reasons which have been in operation for many years. Two ringers aro members of the Parochial Church Council, two are servers, several are members of the choir and all are regular churchgoers. If their attendance in church was missed, the Rector would say so tactfully, without an ultimatum. I think your correspondents would do well to ponder awhile and say : Are they wholly to be hlamed? "-Yours sncerclyh

Shepton Beauchamp. Somerset.
R. BEALE.

SOUTHEND & DISTRICT GUILD

An encouraging first year was reported upon at the annual meeting of the Southend and District Guild held at St. Mary's, Prittlewell, on January 26th.
Ringing was brought to an abrupt end shortly before the service by the snapping of the rope of the third bell.

The service was marked by the dedication by the Vicar of a Credence Table, the gift of the ringers of St. Mary's, in appreciation of the Vicar's work in the parish.
After tea in the Guildhall, attended by 60 ringers and their wives the Vicar thanked the ringers for their gift to him and said that during his 35 years at the church there had been other gifts made to him but what inevitably happened was that the donors told him that they were going to give him a gift and then immediately asked his wife what she would like. He thanked Mrs. B. Sadler who had presented an iced firstanniversary cake to the Guild, and also the ladies who had prepared the tea.

The president, Mr. F. B. Lufkin, who presided at the business meeting, apologised for any shortcomings there might be in the books, as the secretary had been taken to hospital, and Mr. Grimwade, the assistant secretary, had endeavoured to make a report and draw up the minutes of the last annual general meeting from what facts he could accumulate at little more than 24 hours' notice.

The assistant secretary presented the secretary's report which stated that during the last year there had been six ringing meetings-at South Benfleet, Downham, Leigh, Great Wakering and two at Rayleigh. There had been an average of 27 members at these meetings with the highest attendance at Downham, with 35 members. Two services had been held at South Benfleet and Great Wakering. The main object of the Guild was to belp learners and the accent on the mectings consequently had always been on easier methods. The week's ringing holiday in Oxfordshire, Gloucestershire and Buckinghamshire had been a great success and 35 towers had been visited.

Mr. B. Sadler presented the treasurer's report which showed a balance of $£ 22 \mathrm{~s}$.. This, he said, was mainly due to the fact that all the stationery had been presented to the Guild.

The president informed the meeting that Mr Coombes, the secretary, was unable to stand for re-election owing to his bad health and Mr . Grimwade, the assistant secretary, was also unable to stand as he was due for'National Ser-
The following officers were clected:-President. Mr. F. B. Lufkin ; Master, Mr. G. Blower; Assistant Master, Mr. B. Sadler; secretary, Mr P. Sadler; assistant secretary, Mrs. C. Woodgate; treasurer, Mrs. B. Sadler. Mr. Oliver, of Downham, Mr. Sharman. of Thorpe Bay, and Mr. Sparrow of South Benfleet, were elected to the committee as tower representatives.

The meeting closed after Mr. Sparrow had proposed a vote of thanks to all retiring officers in addition to the vicars and tower masters who had allowed the ringing meetings to be held at their churches. A social evening followed.

5.040 CAMBRIDGE MAXIMUS

Dear Sir.-Referring to "Belfry Gossip " that the peal of 5.040 Cambridge Maximus at Macclesfield was the third with this number of changes. I wish to state this was the fourth On April 12th. 1930, 5,040. New Cambridge Maximus was rung by having the first lead Primrose thereby bringing uo the wrong and cutting out the preceding leads.
On November 30th. 1932. the same number was rung of Cambridge Maximus by making the 6 th bob bell three times,. cutting out 240 changes.

Both were rung at St. Mary-le-Tower's, Ipswich. conducted by Charles J. Sedgley and yours truly.

WHEN YOU MEET SHORT  The President's Suggestions

The following Foreword Mr. E. H. Lewis, president of the Central Council, appeared in the January issue of 'The Belfry; the quarterly magazine of the Maidstone District of the Kent County Association.

Many years ago I knew a tower where practice was timed for eight o'clock. The ringers waited outside th: tower and if, when the clock struck, there were not eight ringers present, there was no practice. Probably such a custom does not prevail to-day
It is not always possible for a full band to be present at starting time and I would like to mention a few ways of filling in any time occupied in waiting for a full company. If handbells are available, as I think they should be in every tower, you can begin as soon as number two arrives. There are at least thirteen methods of getting the 24 changes on four bells. though only three of them without more than two blows in a place. They all make good practice for a beginner. As soon as number three arrives turn over to Doubles or Minor and to Triples or Major when the fourth turns up. A start could also be made on tower bells. If it is an eight-bell tower instead of ringing the front four or the back four, very good practice in striking can be had by using treble, 4, 6, tenor. This, if properly struck, sounds very well outside the tower

When the numbers reach five I would suggest that occasionally, for variety, Doubles be tried on the front five bells of six without the tenor It is good for a beginner who can use his ears because the music in a minor key, while rather pleasing if well struck, is completely ruined by bad striking.

As soon as the sixth ringer appears a good practice can be had whatever the number of bells in the tower. Again for variety I woukd suggest in an eight-bell tower that Minor be sometimes tung on treble. 3. 4. 6, 7, tenor. At Frodsham we used to call this the "Irish' six as the notes are the same as in Wearing of the Green.

In ten-bell towers there is a good choice of the front six, the back six, or $3,5,6,8,9$, tenor. Better still to learn how to hold up the trebles, and for musical effect ring Minor on treble, 2 . 3. 6. 8, tenor.

All these hints on what may be done when 'meeting short' 1 have tried when teaching and found them useful.

I would like to congratulate those responsible for "The Belfry" on their production and wish the paper a long continuation of its high standard.

EDWIN H. LEWIS.

Youth in Evidence at Nuneaton

The first quarterly, meeting of the ycar was held at St. Nicholas', Nuncaton. 45 members from all parts of the area attending. A noted feature was the presence of youthful ringers at all stages, from round ringing to Spliced Surprise. The Vicar of Chilvers Coton (president of the Guild) joined the members for tea and the beginning of the business meeting but his commitments in his own parish curtailed his stay. The Master, Mr. F. W. Perrens. took the chair. Apologies were received from Mr. and Mrs. Hinde. Messrs. R. J. Edden (Stratford District secretary) and $J \mathbf{H}$. W. White.
The report of the committee meeting regarding the issue of handbooks instead of printed reports, to reduce cost, was adopted and the hon. secretary was asked to proceed with data for the handbooks and obtain quotations from printers to present at the annual meeting. ## KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Lewisham's 22 New Members

The Lewisham District's quarterly meeting was held at SS. Peter and Paul's, Bromley, in conditions eminently suitable to the season!
Seventy ringers and friends attended and the recently-installed octave from the Croydon foundry was much in use during the time available. Mr. H. Hoverd, Ringing Master, had an exacting task fitting in the many requests and the belfry was probably the busiest spot in busy Bromley that afternoon!
The service was held in the temporary church, the Vicar the Rev. Murray Walton) officiating. The lesson (the 150 th Psalm) was read by Mr. E. Barnett (Crayford) and Mrs. Mary Walker was at the organ. The Vicar's address was very much enjoyed; it was, indeed, what its subject matter concerned- a checrful noise.' The proceeds of the collection were paid to the rebuilding fund for Bromley Church.
After tea, at which the Vicar presided, the business mecting was held in the church. Mr. P. A. Corby was elected to the chair. Twentytwo ringers, including 14 from SS. Peter and Paul's, were elected members of the Association, and the elections of two members previous to peals were ratified
Mr. A. S. Richards (West Wickham) read an excellent report of proceedings at the committee meeting held at Maidstone on November 24th, prepared by the reader and Mr. J. Dafters (Lewisham)
An invitation from the Rector of West Wickham to hold the next meeting at his church on April 26 th was gratefully accepted.
It was agreed to hold the annual joint meeting with the N.W. District of the Surrey Association at Eynesford on October 11th, when it was hoped the attendance would demonstrate conclusively that there was a demand for these combined meetings.
Votes of thanks were accorded the organisers of the social meeting held at Christ Church, Erith, last December, and it was dacided to hold one at the same place on December 6th this year.
Mr. J. Dafters urged that members skould support much more fully the various activities of the District during the coming years
The chairman moved a cordial vote of thanks to the Vicar. the organist, the verger. Mr. I. Emery and Mr. P. Spice for all they had done to ensure such a successful meeting, and extended a warm welcome from the Association to the newly-formed bands at Bromley and Chelsfield. This was carried with enthusiasm. Further ringing in the tower followed.

The annual meeting of the Biggleswade Dis-

Ball) gave his report on the year's working which was satisfactory both on the ringing and unancial side. He announced he was not seeking re-election owing to ill-health and was sorry to retire after 30 years as secretary of the Biggleswade District which was in a stronger position now than it was 30 years ago.
Miss E. Steel, of Bedford, spoke in appreciation of the work Mr. Ball had done for the Biggleswade District and hoped she would meet him at many more meetings.
Mr. C. J. Ball was presented with a chiming dock, suitably inscribed, by Mr. W. Wagstaffe, one of the oldest ringers of the District

Mr. L. H. Bywaters was elected secretary; Mr. C. H. Harding chairman; committe-Messrs. plain. Mr. C. H. Harding proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies for an excellent tea, and to the Vicar for the use of the bells.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Sheffield's Warm Welcome

A very successful general meeting of the Association was held at Sheffield on January 19th, when by kind consent of the respective authorities, the Cathedral bells (12) and St. Marie's R.C. (8) were at the disposal of the members.
The committee meeting was followed by an excellent tea served in the Wolstenhoime Hall
In the unavoidable absence of the president. the chair was taken by Mr. P. J. Johnson at the business meeting which followed. Apologies for absence were received from the president and Messrs. H. Walker, B. Sutton. R. B. Smith, H. S. Morley, A. E. Sellers, F. W. Dale, E. Hudson and T. W. Strangeway.

After the confirmation of the minutes a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Provost of Sheffield and Cathedral Authorities for the use of the bells, coupled also with the authorities of St. Marie's R.C. Church. This was moved by Mr. F. Cardwell, seconded by Mr. F. A. Staveley. A similar vote of thanks to the local companies for making local arrangements and providing such an excellent tea was carried unanimously on the motion of Mr N. Chaddock, seconded by Mr. D. Smith.

Mr. S. F. Palmer replied, saying that most of the work had been done by Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Chaddock, who had spared no effort to make the meeting a success.
Mr. Chaddock said that this was the first general meeting to be held at Sheffield for some years, and it had been a real pleasure to try and maintain the traditions associated with Sheffield and the Yorkshire Association

The chairman announced tbat the committec had considered a kind invitation from Wakefield to hold the next meeting there, but felt that to accept would mean that two general meetings would thus take place successively in the same Division, which was contrary to Rule The committee therefore recommended that the next meeting, which was the annual general meeting, be held at Bradford on Saturday. May 3rd. if the necessary arrangements could bc made. Mr. D. Smith moved, and Mr. A. E. Marsh seconded. that the committee's recommendation be accepted, at the same time expressing appreciation and thanks to the Wakefield members for their kind invitation. This was carried.

The secretary read a letter from the tower secretary at Bridlington Priory intimating that a festival week was to be held in June to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Priory bells. and asking if a preacher could be found to represent the Association. It was unanimously agreed to forward the letter to the president of the Association, who, unfortunately, was unable to be present at the meeting.

THE HON. TREASURERSIIIP

The chairman announced that the committec had received with much regret the resignation of the hon. treasurer, Mr. S. F. Palmer, to take effect from the expiry of his triennial term of office at the annual general mecting. Mr. Palmer felt that, owing to advanced ycars, while he was still physically fit he could not foresee what might take place during another triennial period, and as it was against his principle to cling to office until something happened, he would prefer to hand over now to a younger man and be available with any advice or help he could give to his successor

The chairman said that while Mr. Palmer who had served the Association faithfully and well for many years, had regrets, equally so had the Association, and he hoped that Mr. Palmer would long be spared to come among them At the appropriate place and time. a much fuller reference to Mr. Palmer's services to the Association would be made, but at that stage it was necessary to ask for nominations for the office which by Rule could be received. duly proposed and seconded, by the general secretary up to a month from the date of that meeting. SNOWDON DINNER
The chairman reported that the committee had considered a kind offer from the York Minster Society to hold the Snowdon Dinner again at York, and had pleasure in recommending that the offer be accepted with thanks. It was unanimously decided to accept same, and in order to avoid a possible clash with other meetings, it was agreed that the Dinner take place at York on October 25th.
Miss Elizabeth Bate, of Handsworth, L. D. Holland and L. E. Bouan, of All Saints', Sheffield. Pauline M. Hall, of Horbury, and Slibort Carter, of Marsden, were clected members.
This concluded the business meeting, and an adjournment was then made to the two towers where further ringing was enjoyed

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Sonning Deanery Branch

About 70 members with visitors from Reading attended the annual meeting at Wokingham on February 2nd. Ringing commenced on the bells of St. Paul's Church at 3 p.m., after which a service was held in the church conducted by the Rector, the sermon being preached by the Rev. W. F. Cornell. Rector of Easthampstead.
The annual business meeting followed tea the Branch chairman, Archdeacon Shaw, presiding, The secretary, in his report, mentioned a successful year's work, with good attendance at meetings and with all towers well manned for Sunday ringing. Twelve peals had been rung in the Branch during the year mostly by resident members, eight of whom had rung their first peal.
All the officers were re-elected for 1952 as were the representatives to the general committee. A most encouraging feature of the meeting was the formal election of 16 new members.

On the recommendation of the Branch Committee $£ 5$ was voted to the Guild Memorial to Canon G. F. Coleridge, at Oxford

During a discussion on rising Guild finances a resolution from the Branch that the annual subscription be increased was carried. After arranging meetings for the coming year the meeting closed and all dispersed to All Saints' and St. Paul's Churches for ringing until 9 p.m.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE

A joint meeting of the Southern District and the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association was held in Darlington on January 12th. The eight bells of St. Cuthbert's Church were available from 2.30 p.m. and after tea. St. John's eight bells were also available.
The meeting was very well attended and was the largest for some time at Darlington. This was mainly due to two reasons. One was the fact that it was a joint meeting and many ringers of the newly-formed Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association were present; the other being that it marked the retirement of Mr. J. T. Titt as secretary of the Southern District after 20 years in office
Tea was kindly arranged by the wives of the local ringers in St. Cuthbert's Church Hall where about 40 ringers sat down to a very sumptuous meal.
Mr. W. N. Park proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar. the Rev. G. E. Holderness, of St. Cuthbert's, for the use of the bells. Mr. Titt was then presented with a suitably engraved umbrella by the Rev. E. J. Simpson, Vicar of Holy Trinity, at which church Mr. Titt is a regular ringer. After a short business meeting presided over by Mr. T. Cooke, the District chairman, it was decided that the next meeting should be held on February 23rd at Hurworth-on-Tees.

OBITUARY

MR. ALFRED W. BRIGHTON
Mr. Alfred W. Brighton, whose death was announced in "The Ringing World of February 8 th, will be remembered by his many friends all over the country for his sterling qualities as a ringer and conductor.
He was born 77 years ago in Norwich and learned to ring with Frederick Knights and other Norwich ringers of the St. Peter Mancroft Society, among whom were J. A. Trollope, J. E. Burton and C. E. Borrett.

Although not so well known by this generation, due to the fact he did little ringing from 1913 till 1946, he was a leading figure in the Exercise in the early years of the century and rang peals in many parts of the country. Despite being small of stature and light in weight. he would often be seen at the 'heavy end' and had few superiors in that department.
His total peals numbered 242, of which he conducted 50. Eleven of his peals were in hand, most of which were rung with une Pye brothers at his residence in Forest Gate. He was at home on all numbers of bells. His peals ranged from Bob Minor to Stedman Cinques and were rung in 160 different towers in 27 counties. He was a member of the f.ncient Society of College Youths as well as many other Associations.
He will be remembered most of all for his eagerness to help local bands wherever his business took him, no matter whether there were five or twelve bells. Two peals, which he cinducted, and of which he was justly proud, were at Harrogate and Workington, both Kent Treble Bob Major, and in which no fewer than six and seven ringers respectively rang their first peal. Other highlights in which he took part were:The first neal at Exeter Cathedral : first peal of Cinques by the Middlesex Association; first peal of Double Norwich in the City of London. which he conducted: first peal at the Imperial Institute. South Kensington. rung on the occasion of the Coronation of King Edward VIIth. and that great peal of Stedman Caters at Exeter. when William Pye rang the tenor singlehanded. It is worth mentioning here that when he rang his first peal of Stedman Cinques at Ipswich. he cycled from Norwich to Inswich and back on a pennyfarthing bicycle. His last peal was one of Bob Major at Woodford. on December, 10th. 1949. on his golden wedding day.
Owing to failing health during the last few months he was not able to get out at all but he continued to take a keen interest until the end.

The funeral took place at the City of London Cemetery on Monday, February ith. In addition to family mourners, officers of the Fssex and London County Associations and fellowrineers of the Leytonstone band (of which Mr. Briphton was a member) were present. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells at the graveside by Messrs. J. H. Crampion, T. H. Taffender. R. W. Stannard and E. D. Smith. And so another great figure in our calling passes on. and we are the poorer for his passing. We shall miss his wise counsel and genial personality. May he rest in peace. J. W. C.

MR. L. J. HINDE
The Coventry Diocesan Guild has lost one of its most loyal members by the death of Mr. Lovelace John Hinde, of Bulkington, at the age of 77 years. He was a native of Brinklow, but had lived in Bulkington since 1913.
For 37 years he was foreman platelayer on the L.M.S. railway, retiring in 1939. He was clerk, verger, chorister and bellringer at the Parish Church of St. James for a number of years. He was connected with the St. John Ambulance Brigade and the Coventry Hospital Saturday Fund. He was a former scoutmaster and, during the war, a Civil Defence warden. Mr . Hinde rang one peal, at the age of 61 , the tenor to a peal of Grandsire Doubles, at Bulkington, on March 7th, 1936, when six bells hung in the tower, but was instrumental in obtaining two more bells to complete the octave in 1949.
A number of fellow Guild members attended the funeral on January 30th, the following ringing a course of Grandsire Triples over the grave:-Mrs. D. E. Beamish (Guild general secretary) 1-2, L. Trevar 3-4, E. Sibley 5-6, H. E. Ashley 7-8. A half-muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the tower bells later in the day, as reported in the peal columns.

MR. HARRY F. DAWKINS

The death occurred on February 3rd of Mr. Harry Frederick Dawkins at Brentwood Mental Hospital at the age of 76 years. He had been a patient there since May, 1940, following a nervous breakdown.
Mr. Dawkins was a regular Sunday service ringer at St. Edward's Church, Romford, for 40 years and rang many peals there with the Pye brothers. He rang his 100th peal on March 19th. 1914, and since then he had kept no records. Always of a very cheerful disposition. he was ever ready to help his fellow men and he was beloved by all with whom he came in contact. He never said a bad word about anyone and was always eager to help a first-pealer. The writer has many recollections of him during the last 44 years. May he rest in peace.

IN MOURNING

LAST week it was our painful duty to announce the passing of our beloved King. Our issue this week gives an indication of the way the various bands of ringers expressed their own and the nation's sympathy. The record is in no sense complete Last Friday, the day of the funeral service, on Saturday and again on Sunday when many memorial services were held, the bells were heard expressing messages of sympathy. Slowmeasured half-muffled ringing has a beauty of its own. In a sense it gives an ethereal effect-open, as of mundane things, and muffled, giving the distant echoes as of a heavenly shore. We ringers probably appreciate this music better than the public-our ears are more attuned to its message; we capture the rhythm and we understand more fully the hidden message. And it is a satisfying message, giving hope, aspiration and confidence. We are definitely, in the words of St. Paul, ' men not without hope.'

There is a phrase in the proclamation of the new Queen which seems to strike an appropriate note for the occasion- ' our late Sovereign of blessed memory.' It is this blessed memory that heartens us on our way. We think of our late King in his capacity for work. He was no amateur in his attention to the affairs of State. Although the call to the Throne came unexpectedly, by dint of sheer hard work he mastered the business of the Crown and valiantly overcame physical disabilities to give that personal leadership. We think of his simplicity and his goodness, qualities that are the most powerful weapons in the world and accomplish more than forces of arms or of wealth. With these thoughts the Nation mourned; crowds stood bare-headed as the funeral cortège passed and at 2 p.m. observed the Silence.
Appropriately, this week the time signal of the B.B.C. has been half-muffled ringing on the old eight of Westminster Abbey. It is good ringing with a slowmeasured beat. Some might have preferred the muffles to have been more pronounced, but perfect recording of bells is difficult to achieve. There was, however, character behind the ringing. the dignity of a heavy ring. There was also the knowledge that the message was coming from the heart of the Empire and from within a few yards of the catafalque in Westminster Hall. The choice was well made.

As our peal and quarter-peal columns indicate, the ringing was country-wide. Many of the towers mentioned are well known. Such centres as Birmingham, Leicester, Manchester and Sheffield were naturally represented. Tradition has it that St. Paul's Cathedral bells are not rung to a peal for such an occasion, but on the day of the funeral the whole-pull and stand was rung 56 times for the late King. On bells of this weight this is a great test of the stamina of the ringers. This was the second time recently these bells have paid such a tribute--the other being to the memory of Mr. Henry G. Miles, who died at the ripe age of 82 years after years of service to the Exercise as a ringer, conductor and composer. Nevertheless, there was ringing in London, notably at St. Giles-in-the-Fields and Ealing.

Most of the ringing, however, came from the country villages, and the counties of Lincolnshire, Worcestershire and Staffordshire seemed particularly prominent. Many of the towers rarely appear in our columns. Probably the tower farthest north was Kendal, but the highest was Headingley, Leeds. From the West Country the message was given from Honiton Clyst, there was ringing in Bristol and in Somerset, that county of fine towers, and from Piddlehinton, near Dorchester, where a keen young band is making progress. The bells were to be heard in the villages on Salisbury Plain, at Drayton in Berkshire, for ever constant in ringers' memories by its association with the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, and in the quiet Hampshire villages. At Titchfield a peal of London Surprise Minor was rung by the local band, an indication of real achievement. The Isle of Wight made its contribution. We think of the ringing at Prittlewell on the outskirts of Southend, at the fine old Deanery Church of St. Mary at Bocking, in Suffolk, and that centre of ringing, Norwich. While much of the ringing was in the four standard methods, and many first quarters were recorded, there were some notable performances, one being at Apsley End, Herts, in ten Surprise methods, rung, as the footnote reads, " in thankful remembrance to a truly Christian King and gentleman, His Majesty King George VI.' With the message of that footnote we conclude; it is all-embracing of what is in our thoughts.

The thousands of ringers who listened in to the King's runeral must have been deeply impressed by the ringing at Westminster Abbey. The 'whole pull and stand ' was heard in its great majesty, the slow measure bringing out the grandeur of the bells.

From Australia we have received a query asking whether East Bergholt (Suffolk) bells, which are manipulated by hand from the frame, have ever been rung to changes.
Mr. John E. Adams. who took part in the muffied peal at St. Margaret's, Leicester, on February 15th, has not rung a peal for over 15 years
Miss Brenda M. Smith's performance of ringing the 36 -cwt. tenor at Evesham at the age of 16 has reminded Miss Jane M. Plumbe that on September 16th, 1951, just one month after her 15 th birthday, the rang the $36-\mathrm{cwt}$. tenor at Queen Camel.
The same band that rang a quarter peal at Godshill. Isle of Wight, for the passing of the King, also rang for his coronation and for the silver jubilee and funeral of George V. Mr. S. Hollis also rang for the diamond jubilee and funeral of Queen Victoria and for the coronation and funeral of Edward VII.
Mr. H. J. Sanger has a very promising band of youngsters at Evercreech. Somerset. Three years age the order of the day in this tower was rounds. Now the band, on January 27th, have scored their first quarter of Caters. They were also ringing Stedman Triples and Bob Major and did, in fact, with the help of one visitor recently, ring a course of Stedman Caters. The details of the quarter peal of Grandsire Caters are:-D. Hill (13) 1. R. Crago (11) 2, A. Sanger (12) 3, R. March (14) 4, J. Nicholls (15) 5, J. Badman 6. R. Field 7. A. White 8, H. J. Sanger (conductor) 9.F. Field 10. This was the first quarter of Caters for all except the ringer of the 7th.

GOSSII

Bournemouth handbell ringers remembered the 85 th birthday of Mr. F. W Townsend, and rightly so, as he was handbeli ringing tutor to Mrs. Marshallsay and Messrs. W. G. Young and Roy Hurst. Unfortunateiy, Mr. Townsend is seriously ill and on February 5th, two days after his birthday he was taken to Boscombe Hospital for an operation. The latest report is that he is doing well.
Mr. J. Ashcroft, of Golborne, near 11 arring ton, has also supplied us with a perfect square on eight changes that was requested by Kewsett
The peal to the memory of King George VI. at Grundisburgh, on February 16th. was also a tribute to the memory of Dr. James C. E Simpson.
We have had a number of requests for peal cards in connection with the passing of the King. If those who have ordered cards want them on white with a black edge, will they please write at once.

The memorial peal to King George VI., at Walsall, was also to the memory of Dr. H. G. Crawford, O.B.E., M.C., late County Commissioner, South Staffordshire, for the Boy Scouts' Association.
Southwark Cathedral bells (back eight) were rung half-muffled on the day of the King's death from $6.30-7$ p.m. On the day of the funeral the tenor was rung muffled at minute intervals of three whole pulls, and between 6.15 and 6.45 a touch of Grandsire Triples on the back eight, half-muffled
Mr. John Bass, who tolled the knell for the passing of King George VI.. at St. James' Church, Wollaston, near Stourbridge. remembers February 3rd. 1901, when he tolled for Queen Victoria at St. Thomas' Church, Stourbridge. He rang at Wollaston for Edward VII. and at St. Michael's, Brierley Hill, for George V.

THE LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Festival Ringing Prominent Feature in Annual Review
PROBABLY the greatest attraction from a ringing standpoint, on the occasion of the London County Association's annual general mecting held on February 2nd, was the opportunity of ringing at the Festival Church of St. John. Waterloo Road, Lambeth. This is the first time these pleasant. well-going bells have been open for general ringing since the church was damaged by enemy action.
During the afternoon some 70 or 80 members and friends filed in relays into the small ringing chamber to participate in the ringing. Mr.
W. D. Grainger, who has been working hard on the maintenance of these bells for a considerable period, is to be congratulated on the condition of bells and ringing chamber.
The limited amount of service ringing possible here during the period of the Festival was carried out by members of the London County Association under the organisation of $\mathbf{M r}$. W. D. Grainger of St. John's, and the General Master. Mr. T. H. Taffender.
Other towers available for ringing during the afternoon were Southwark Cathedral and St. Stephen's, Clapham Park.
After attending Evensong in the Cathedral, tea was served in the Chapter House followed by the annual business meeting. Among those present who are members and also hold high office in other Associations were $\mathbf{M r}$. H. J. Poole (president. Leicester Diocesan Guild), accompanied by Mrs. Poole, Mr. G. H. Cross Master. Society of Royal Cumberland Youths). Mr. J. G. A. Prior (Master. Ancient Society of College Youths) and Mr. A. D. Barker (treasurer. Oxford Diocesan Guild).
In his address of welcome to the Association and in his capacity as honorary chaplain, the Provost of Southwark Cathedral (the Very Rev. on the year's activity and urged all members to observe the real purpose of their ringing. In this connection the thought he left with the meeting. but with some amolification, was- Att for art's sake is just bunk.'
The election of 13 members and ratification of three previous elections took place.
The accounts were presented by Mr. W. G. Wilson, auditor, in the absence of Mr. G. F strickland hon. treasurer. It was with regret that the meeting learned of the unfortunate land during esses that had befallen Mr. Strick condition was such that he requested that he should not be re-elected as treasurer. The accounts showed that the excess of income over expenditure was only 12 s . 10d. and it was pointed out that this represented in reality a loss as the stock of certificates. ctc.. cxpended over the year was in excess of this sum. Total assets of the Association amounted to $£ 997 \mathrm{~s}$. 6 d .

MASTER'S REPORT

Activities and work of the Association during 1. H. Taffender) in his by the Master (Mr. 1. H. Taffender) in his report. Ringing and who congratulated them on recent performances. As in previous post-war years, the work of the Association and the tireless efforts of the General Master are exemplified in the record of Sunday service ringing organised by Mr. T. H . Taffender, and carried out by ringers from all parts of London.

CLERGY INSPIRATION

On 51 occasions during the year a company visited 14 different towers where help was required, and rang 33 quarter peals. Included in in this were nine visits to the Festival Church. Mr. Taffender thanked all members who had assisted in this work and mentioned that the inspiration for this came principally from the iocal clergy and churchwardens who regularly made a point of meeting the ringers to welcome them and give hearty thanks for the services rendered.

Another achievement of the Association during the year was to broadcast handbell ringing prior to the services held in the Festival Gardens, Battersea, on no less than 15 occasions.

RULE AND REPORT BOOKS

Mr. J. H. Lott, for the sub-committee, reported that considerable work had been carried out in connection with both rule and report books and that the copy for both would shortly be ready for the printer. The rules had been brought up to date. approved at the previous meeting and were that evening passed. Factual, historical matter relating to the Association was also brought up to date In order that the book containing both rules and history should be of the greatest possible value and interest. it was suggested that in addition to the full explanation of the membership certificate by the author and designer-Mr. E. Alexander Young, A.R.I.B.A., half-tone illustrations of the Master's badge. etc.. should be incormorated

The mecting's confidince in its committee was exemplified by a financial vote of an open figure for the production of these books.
The meeting stood in respect for those members who had passed on during the year and among these were such well-known ringers as Mr . James Gearge, Mr. Thomas Groombridge. Mr. Maurice Hibbert. Mr. Harry Kilby and, probably the greatest loss sustained bv the Association for many years. Mr. T. Wilfred Taffender. Members were also informed of the death of Mr. Alfred Brighton, which took place a few days before the meeting.
Officers elected for the vear were:-Master Mr. T. H. Taffender, I.S O.: general secretary, Mr . H. W. Rogers; assistant secretaries, Mr. N. G. Hollingworth and Mrs. O. L. Rogers: treasurer Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey: stewards, Mr. C. M. Mever and Mr. Peter Hutchings: trustees. Mr. F. Blewer and Mr. J. A. Hales. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to two retiring officers who had been enonected with the Association for manv vears-Mr. C. J. Strickland and Mr. A. H. Keighley.

Resulting from a vacancy for a Central Council representative there was a close vote between Mr. J. H Lott and Mr. W. G. Wilson. Mr. Wilson, who was proposed by Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey, was elected with 29 votes whilst Mr. Lott received 20 votes.
Four teams were entered for the handbell competition. these being two from St. Luke's. Chelsea. one from All Saints". Isleworth. and one from Brentford. All four teams rang a olain course of Grandsire Triples and the 'Dawe' cun was awarded to one of the Chelsea tcams consisting of Mrs. D. Wripht. Mr. P. Carter. Miss Jean Weddell and Miss J. Atkins.

COVENTRY DIOCESAN GUILD

The combination of grand weather, a good attendance and the very hard work put into the effort by the local ladies made the meeting at Ladbroke on February 2nd a huge success.

Most ringers visited Harbury and Bishop's Itchington before ringing at Ladbroke and attending service there, which was taken by the Rev. - Packard from the Guild's form of service. The surpliced choir added colour to the service and the organ was played by Mr . Holden.
We were pleased to welcome the Rectors of Harbury and Bishop's Itchington who also joined us at tea, making a total of 49 . No less than 16 towers were represented including members of the Peterborough Guild and a strong contingent from the Coventry and Nuneaton Districts.

The social was started by the Bishop's Itchington handbell players. Later, two sketches by the Misses Palmer and Middlemiss gave us an extra laugh. Mr., Mrs. and Miss Beamish gave a fine display of tune playing on handbells before "breaking up" at 10.30 p.m. This is believed to be the first meeting-cum-social in the District. but judging from the enthusiasm of all, we are very doubtful if it will be the last.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

RAISING IN PEAL

Dear Sir,-One of my favourite quotations is from the 'Clavis' where, writing about raising and falling in peal, the authors said: ' When properly executed it is undoubtedly very pleasant and melodious, but melodious as it is, the adepts of the art of ringing in the city of London, very seldom choosing to put themselves to the pain of it, it is now chiefly practised by the country gentlemen for whose benefit we have here introduced the subject.
It would seem, therefore, that even in those days the more advanced ringers were not bothering about rising and falling in peal, and in so doing they were depriving themselves, just as do many ringers oi to-day, of one of the great pleasures to be derived from ringing.
There is one practical hint given in Ropesight ' which your leading article does not mention. It is that all the time, both in rising and falling, the treble should be kept exactly at the opposite stroke to the tenor. In fact. it is the tenor and not the treble which should set the pace. If the tenor man keeps his bell slowly and steadily moving all the time in the required direction, and the tenor man keeps at the opposite stroke throughout. many difficulties and much jangling will be avoided. This is contrary to the view expressed in your leading article but, nevertheless. I believe it to be sound doctrine.-Yours faithfully
E. J. TAYLOR.

Tiverton, Devon.

HLGHENDEN BELL RESTORATION FUND

Dear Sir,-About this time last year an appeal Was launched through 'The Ringing World 'for the restoration of our bells. We shall be grateful if we may be allowed to report progress. Up to date the sum of $£ 1,550$ has been subscribed, but $£ 450$ is still nceded before we can close the fund.
At the end of this month the bells will be taken away to the bellfounders and we hope to have them back for our Patronal Festival (September 29th).
We shall be so thankful for any further donations and, however small, they will be gratefully acknowledged. They should be sent to the Rev. S. A. C. Dickens. Hughenden Vicarage. High Wycombe. Bucks-Yours sincerely,
R. BIGGS.

SPLICED MINOR

Dear Sir,-Recently Mr. J. P. Fidler, in his article on the history of spliced ringing, mentioned the first peal of Srliced Minor in 14 methods was rung at Edenham on Wednesday, February 15th, 1911 . The publication was delayed by the Rev. H. Law James. who asind the ringers who rang the peal not to give any information about the construction of it as he was giving that out himself at the proper time. Evidently he scored on his critics. The peal was published on June 30th. 1911, on page 244. with the figures of the composition, etc.

The ringers who rang it were as follows :-Mr A. J. Holmes (Edenham) 1. Rev. H. Law James (Surfleet) 2, John W. Lake (Bourne) 3. James Osborn (Bourne) 4. Fred Blood (Bourne) 5, Rupert Richardson (Surfleet) tenor. The time of the peal was 3 hours and 14 minutes and the peal uas conducted and transposed at the time by the Rev. H. Law James.
The methods rung were as follows:-(1) Norfolk and Primrose Surprise. (2) Cunecastre and London Surpilse, (3) Beverley and Durham Surprise, (4) Inswich and Cambridee Surprise: (5) Oxford and Sandal Treble Boh, (6) Double and Single Oxford Minor. (7) Plain and Double Bob Minor.-Yours sincerely.

RINGING DURING NATIONAL  \section*{MOURNING}

Dear Sir,-As a change ringer of long standing, I was surprised to hear the bells of a 'loyal, and ancient borough 'ringing in 'open peal' for Sunday service on February 10th.

Would it not have been in better taste and shown more honour and respect to our late beloved King to have rung muffled, and should not the Central Council of Church Bell-ringers have issued a statement ruling the procedure during the period of national mourning?
Such a statement could easily have been given out through the B.B.C.
Further views on this matter would be ap-preciated-Yours faithfully, F. G. HOOPER. Newark, Notts.

HEAVY TOWERS AND EXPERIENCE

Dear Sir,-Although I have never previously written a letter to 'The Ringing World.' I do seriously question the wisdom of permitting a young lady to ring Evesham tenor.
Knowing something of the skill and high standard of engineering of the modern bellhanger. I do not doubt the possibility of the young lady keeping the bell 'up." In no sense am I criticising her. The people I criticise are the people who permitted her to attempt this feat. Do they realise the potential energy let loose in the turning of a $35-\mathrm{cwt}$. bell? The handling' of a heavy bell is vastly different from that of average size and to confront a young ringer with such a task is a risky affair unless carefully instructed in the art of heavybell ringing. If she had overpulled the bell and a stay had been broken would she have realised at once what had happened and taken the right action?

Recently a very experienced heavy-bell ringer from a county of heavy bells had an unfortunate mishap arising from a broken stay. He was seriously injured and had to spend many weeks in hospital
With this in mind I would ask those in charge of towers to exercise common sense and forgo these you ig people the dubious honour of being able to say. I rang (?) so and so tenor when I was 16.' The safety and well-being of the individual must be the first consideration--Yours sincerely,

NER VOUS.'

RINGING CUSTOMS

Dear Sir--Regarding Cawthorne's old established ringing customs. N.F. M. and many others would no doubt be interested in the customs of Shepton Bcauchamp Church and its ringing.
Early ringing commencing at 6 a.m... for service at 7 a.m. occurs on Easter Day. Whit Sunday. Harvest Festival, Michaelmas Day (the church is dedicated 10 St. Michael) and Christmas Dav. The bells are rung also for Ascension Day and the King's birthday at $7 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. Muffled ringing is carried out on Armistice Sunday and on All Souls Dav.
Shepton Beauchamp. Somerset.

BILBIE'S BFLLS

Dear Sir,--Regarding Bilbie's bells, the noble old six (tenor 20 cwt .) at Batcombe, Somerset, were recast in 1760 by 'T. Bilhie, of Chew Stoak.' who 'cast six bells out of old ones.' and 're-casting ye bells. addition of metal. carriage to and from Chew Stoak ' (about 25 miles each way) cost Batcombe $£ 79$ 16s. 11 d... or thereabouts.
My quotations are from a 'History of Batcombe "published c. 1916 in the village.
But I don't think Bilbic had any special formula. since the tenor was recast in 1887 by Aldbourne Foundry, and matches up extremely well with the rest.-Faithfullv vours.

CARTER'S DOUBLES

Dear Sir,-To the average ringer Carter's may, perbaps, be considered the most difficult Drubles mothod and therefore the 12345 one that gives the greatest satis- 21435 faction to the ringer. There is, 12453 however, a drawback to this method as compared with Stedman inasmuch as only five extents are obtainable with the recognised singles made by the bells dodging in $4-5$ between two whole turns at the back. (I am referring to the method as given in Snowdon's 'Standard 'Methods and shown as - Reverse Carter' in the Central Council Collection of Doubles and Minor Methods.)
Singles can, however, be made 14235 41253 14523 15432 51423 by the two bells double-dodging 21345 in 1-2 and if thesc are made alternately with the ordinary singles at the back, at intervals of 30 changes, five extents with four singles each can be obtained, as with Stedman, and also five extents with two each of the singles in 1-2, in addition to the five with the normal singles in $4-5$, making a possible $15120^{\prime} \mathrm{s}$ in all, as with Stedman.

To simplify calling, 'Single, could be called for the standard single in 4-5 and 'Bob' for the one suggested in 1-2.

The suggested single is shown in the margin.Yours faithfully.

GRANDSIRE AND PLAIN BOB

Dear Sir,-In reply to Mr. N. D. LomasYes, it is Grandsire, and that shows that Grandsire is the odd-bell version and Plain Bob the even-bell version of the same method.

When you use a covering bell at each treble lead it ceases to be Plain Bob and as there is the legitimate version to hand, why persist in wrong-doing? - Yours faithfully,
A. TURNER.

Barnsbury, London.

RINGING RHYMES  No. 4-Hunting

Striking at end of each new 'change,' After a different bell to range,
You've 'covered.' Now 'tis time to prove That you 'midst other bells can move.
So 'hunting,' up and down you'll go(The iatter quick, the former slow)
As blow by blow you change your place From front to back, and then retrace Your steps. In rhythmic time proceed. And though your ear and eye you'll need To find your way, yet do not pause If neither indicates. Because The rhythmic pull must kecp you right, Since other wait on your 'ear-sight.'
So once 'Go, Umphingtaughn!' is heard Keep hunting! 'Rhythmically's' the word.
A. Y-B.

MEMORIES OF THREE FAMOUS RINGERS

DR. J. C. E. SIMPSON  An Appreciation

A smile, a handshake, a sincere greeting, and now-Silence.
It is so easy to indulge in hindsight when a well-loved friend is taken from amongst us; so much to comfort one's inner mind with that it may be forgiven.
One evening in January, 1928, after a practice at St. Nicholas', Liverpool, George R. Newton remarked, ' We have a young man from the other side of the river coming to our practices who looks tike making a good Tinger: From that remark to an invitiation to stand in in an of Sur orise on March 17ith of that vear , on Royal and on May sh he stod in a pal of Cambridge Surper Maximus Surly

 ${ }^{i n g}$ in career.
On June 30th he rang his first peal of London and on July 7 th yet another peal of Cambridge Maximus. On August 6 th his first peal of Sted man Cinques was scored in which he rang the 10 th already he was getting round the heavy end. In July. 1929 he rang the 11th to Cambridge Maximus and on April 6th, 1931, he rang the tenor to Cambridge Royal. With the exception of a peal of London all these peals were rung at St. Nicholas', Liverpool, the tenor of the 12 bells. weighing approximately 37 cwt . He was then about 23 years old and we older ones were perhaps slightly worried ones were perhaps slightly worried that he should not overdo it. but his handling of a heavy beil was superb.
During 1933 and 1934 he was in the United States taking a two years' course of study at Rochester University, New York, and the friendship was maintained by correspondence. On his return he quickly took up the art again and became a recognised heavy-bell ringer. A period in London added to his experience. On his return North, he quickly found a place in our circle and in our hearts.
Of later years his brilliant conducting of Spliced Surprise became almost a household word: word : particularly marked was his clarity of enunciation: one was in no doubt as to the method to be rung. Perhap.s it is in this sphere of Soliced Surprise conducting that we shall remember him most vividly-his quiet confidence and the supreme. ability to do a good job in a simple manner.
Probably his outstanding feat was the ringing of the tenor at Beverley Minster on August 29th. 1950. to a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal. His handling of this bell was reported as amazing, and listeners agreed that they heard some of the finest Surprise Royal on that day they were ever likely to hear. This bell is orobably the toughest one to ring to Royal in the country. The tower certainly adopts a most unfriendly attitude causing the bell to have more tricks than the proverbial maiden: it has been the Waterloo of many fine ringers who. in their defeat. have had nothing to be ashamed of. Confidences should be respected but 'J. C. E.' would surely forgive the utterance of one. He wanted to ring this bell to a peal that he might equal the performance of someone clse: he not only equalled it but surpassed it magnificently.
His last great performance was the record length of Cambridge Royal at Worsley when he finished the ten hours and 23 minutes' ringing looking the least tired of anyone in the band. And now we shal!' see him no more. We have memories of his greatness. gratitude for his acquaintance, the heritage of the richness of his character and the impoverishment of his loss. Farcwell ' J. C. E.,' you have journeyed thither to the Plains of Elysium, where in time we may hope to join you, where we shall spiritually walk and talk as of yore of the gaiety and gravity of the pranks and pleasures of life on this carth-bound planet. E. JENKINS.

MR. ALFRED W. BRIGHTON
An Appreciation by the Rev. A. S. Roberts
It is with sorrow I note the passing of Mr. A. W. Brighton. He was my earliest outside ringing friend for I met him and was inspired by him just 30 years ago, when quite a lad. Cornwall, too, has lost an affectionate friend of those who struggle valiantly in her belfries, and although the rising generation will not remember him, his na:ne is inscribed in our records. Alf Brighton, as he became known to us all, was a little man with a big heart. eager and willing to help others, and always kindly in doing so. His appearance was distinctive: his neatly-waxed moustache, and big gold chain with ringer's badge, and, always, his rolled umbrella. and usually, his small leather case.
Alf's business brought him to Cornwall in the summer, and he would stay for several weeks at Falmouth, Newquay and Penzance. On arrival he turned up at a tower or someone's home, and so the programme of extra ringing began for he always wanted to help the strugglers. In those days it was all Grandsire, but that did not matter although he had done some great things in the Surprise realm but seldom talked of it. When he had helped someone through a 'first' 'touch he was radiant, and his shoulders would dance for joy !! He often spent week-ends with me at Truro.
He had learnt his ringing at Norwich (the late Armiger Trollope was a contemporary), and I usually spent a few weeks each summer in Norfolk. He always wanted news-of Norwich ringers (the Howchins and Borretts) and the Aylsham men (the Roughts and Moys). He had rung many peals with them, and so there unfolded a host of stories, and one in particular of how he had rung the old Mancroft tenor to a peal of Treble Twelve, and the bells ran round 1, 2, 4. 3 for no peal. On poing to London to live, he rang many peals with William Pye, and I noticed his name on peal boards in several London towers, e.g. Stedman Cinques at St. Giles'. Cripplegate. During the war he wrote to me: 'I was passing Cripplegate this morning. but only the tower was standing, of course ali the bells came down.
Whilst travelling the country. Alf did little or no ringing when he went home to London: 1 believe one of his first peal 'public ' appearances in London ringing circles was just before the war when there was a Police Guild meeting and he went along to St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, but when ringing began again it was good to see his name in quite a number of peals and quarters at Leytonstone. He took up again what he had left off many years before.
To return to Cornwall and the help he gave here, he rang a peal of Grandsire at Kea, one here, he rang a peal of wrandsire at Kea, one It was conducted by John Thomas (London) There was also a local John Thomas in the band. Incidentally this was the last peal in which any resident Cornish ringers took part for no less than 14 years until I rang my first peal at the same tower in 1927. Although there had been scveral quarter peals it was not until 1938 that my wife and I rang our first peal with Alf and then 1 had to return to Cornwall to do so. Again the scene was Kea. and this little man was there. standing as one does on the font step to ring the second. He was surrounded, so it seemed, by overwhelmingly big men of revered memory also-Jim Shepherd on the treble, and Rupert Richardson. Jim Bennett called the peal-it was Treble Bob.
Alfred Brichton could have gone on enjoying to the full the higher forms of ringing, but a supreme thought of his was to help those who struggled but who lacked opportunity. In this his example stands high. and I shail always thank God that Alf Briehton came my way.
otherwise my service to the Church by way of the bells might have waned for ever.

MR. SAMUEL J. HECTOR

The death occurred on Friday, February 15th, at the Trowbridge and District Hospital. after 2 long illness, of Mr. Samuel J. Hector, for many years connected with St. James' tower, Trowbridge. bridge.
Sam, as he was known to a wide circle of ringing friends. learned to ring as a boy at Curry Rivel, Somerset, coming to Hilperton, Curry Rivel, Somerset, coming to Hilperton, near Trowbridge, as a young man, where he took an interest in the tower there. In 1909 he was instrumental in getting the bells of St. Michael's restored, and rang his first peal there on May 31st. 1909. Later that year he moved to Trowbridge and joines the St. James' tower, which then possessed a ring of eight. His first peal on eight. Grandsire Triples, was rung on December 11th, 1909. From then on he became a keen peal ringer. cycling many miles in pursuit of his only hobby. His peal total is just over 200, which took many years of hard work and much travel to attain.
Perhaps it is not as a great ringet that he will be remembered. but for the work and enthusiasm - he put into the Trowbridge tower where he was captain for the past 16 years. He it was who took upon himself to call a town's meeting in 1933 to try and get the bells restored. Within a few weeks the response was so good that it was decided to go out for a ring of 12 , complete with new frame and fiftings. This was accomplished and the bells opened in 1934. There was no prouder man at that gathering than Sam
For some years he was licensee of the Black Swan, and many of the older. generation of ringers will remember this favourite stopping place for their annual outings. He was very proud of his membership of the Ancient Society of College Youths and the peals he had rung for them, and also St. Martin's Guild. He was a member of many other associations.
The writer, talking to the late George Williams a short while before his death. remembers him saying of Sam. 'He is not a great ringer, but a great character.' And perhaps this sums up one whom it will be hard to replace. May he rest in peace.

MR. SAMUEL ROE

The death occurred on Friday, February 8th, of Mr Samuel Roe, for many years a ringer at Holy Trinity Church, Rothwell, Northants.

Although during recent years illness had prevented him from coming to the belfry, he will be remembered for his consistent and punctual attendance.
His death was caused directly by injuries sustained in the $1914-1918$ war. and the patient way Mr. Roe bore his painful illness will be remembered by all those who knew him.
The ringers of Holy Trinity Church. Rothwell. paid their respects to his memory with touches of half-muffled ringing on the bells he always talked about.

MRS. DAPHNE EDWARDS

The sympathy of West Surrey ringers is extended to Mr. Alan Edwards. of Godalming, in the death at St. Thomas' Hospital. on February 12th, of his wife, Mrs. Daphne Ursula Edwards, aged 23 years.
Mrs. Edwards (neee Ward) was taught to ring at Godalming Parish Church by the late Mr Charles Childs. She was married on Easter Monday 1951. Her sweet disposition gained for her the affection of a wide circle of friends.
The funeral was at Godalming Parish Church on Saturday. and as the cortege left the clutch the bells were rung fully muffled to a toucb of Grandsire Doubles, conducted by Mr. C. E. Smith.

FORTY YEARS AGO
Extract from 'The Ringing World, of February 23rd, 1912 ODD CHANGES
Among the great performances of the past, one frequently hears reference to the peal of 40,000 rung at Leeds in Kent. A cutting from the "County News" dated April 10th, 1761 will doubtless interest many of our readers:-

On Tuesday last, the day of election of members to represent Mid-Kent in Parliament, when the Hon. Robert Fairfax, of Leeds Castle, and Sir Wyndham Knatchbull, Bart., were chosen, the Leeds Youths went off to ring a peal of Bob Major, consisting of 40,320 , being the whole number of changes upon eight bells, which was completed in 27 hours by fourteen men only. The peal was never rung or ever attempted to be rung by any set of ringers in this kingdom. Whenever it is performed by any other set the Leeds Youths are determined to maintain their superiority in all others by ringing all the changes upon ten bells."
[Perhaps it is as well they did not have to carry out this threat! The tower in this little Kentish village, which is reputed to be broader than it is high, could probably stand such treatment, however, even if the ringers could not. The churchyard contains the grave of James Barham. one of the above fourteen, the first ringer to accomplish a hundred peals.]

ST. JOHNS, HILLINGDON

The St. John's Guild held its fifth annual supper on January 25 th when a jolly party of Rev. F. C. Tyler, sat down to an enjoyable meal at the Windsor Restaurant, Uxbridge.

Various toasts were the subjects of speeches by the Vicar and Mrs. Tyler and Messrs. F. W. Goodfellow, E. C. S. Turner, W. N. Genna and W. H. Coles. Musical interludes by Norman Randal! (violin), accompanied by St. John's organist and choirmaster, Mr. John Ferguson, and change-ringing and tunes on handbells and, of course, the usual reminiscing occupied the rest of the evening. 'Auld Lang Syne' at 11 p.m. brought to an end another popular social occasion in the parish.

The annual meeting of the Guild was held on the following Monday with the Vicar again presiding. Apart from Mr. W. H. Coles becoming captain and Mr. H. W. Impey his deputy, the officers were re-elected. Mr. F. W. Goodfellow was re-elected hon, secretary for the 24 th successive year. Three peal attempts in 1952 were agreed.

HAROLD PAILING MEMORIAL FUND

Mr. J. W. Raithby, in forwarding us a final list of subscribers to the Harold Pailing Memorial Fund, states that it reached a total of $£ 16110 \mathrm{~s}$. 6d. A cheque for this amount has been paid to Mrs. Pailing.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

North and East District

The District annual mecting, attended by nearly 50 ringers, was held at the Association headquarters, St. Giles-in-the-Fields. Apologies for absence were received from the president and the District secretary through indisposition.
The secretary's report indicated that twelve towers had been visited during the past year in connection with meetings but that the attendance had, on average, been less than previous years. Two District members had died and 18 new members were elected. One hundred and one quarter peals had been reported from 14 towers and these were rung mostly for Sunday services. More Sunday service ringing had taken place in the Central London churches where there are no local bands during the Festival Year and a successful Festival ringing day was organised on August bank holiday.
Recognition was made of Mr. A. Richardson, Finchley, a blind ringer, who successfully rang the treble to a peal, and of Mr. R. Sanders, who recently turned Waltham Abbey tenor to a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major. The District welcomed two ringers into its afea in the persons of the Rev. M. C. C. Melville and Mr. E. J. Rowe.

The statement of accounts showed a working margin of $£ 2910 \mathrm{~s}$. 6 d . to be carried to the Central Fund of the Association.
Election of officers resulted as follows:-Mr. A. Cutler, Ringing Master; Mr. T. J. Lock, sccretary: Mr. C. F. Neal, assistant secretary; Mr. W. N. Genna, auditor. A list of towers for monthly meetings and the special methods for these meetings was agreed upon, and the next annual meeting will be held at Upper Clapton Ringing took place during the afternoon and evening at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, and St. Margaret's. Westminster, and thanks were accorded to the incumbents and towerkeepers for granting permission.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

A company of 54 ringers, representing eleven district towers and visitors from Coventry. Reading, Crayford and Leytonstone. attended the annual meeting of the North Western District of the Surrey Association held at Beddington on January 26th. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. M. Jukes).
Mr. F. E. Collins presided at the business meeting when 14 ringing members and four compounding members werc elected.
The annual report denoted steady progress and stated that service ringing was being well maintained in the District Officers elected were:-Ringing Master, Mr. F. E. Collins; hon treasurer, Mr. H. N. Pitstow; auditor, Mr. Layton ; hon. secretary, Mr. R Lathbury ; committee-Miss J. Smith, Mr. R. Davies and Mr. E. J. Lindley.

MR. A. G. GASSON LEAVING FARNBOROUGH

Mr. A. G Gasson, who for 34 years has given devoted service to the belfry of Farnborough (Hants) Church and trained numbers of ringers. is leaving shortly for Northampton.

At the annual belfry meeting on February 24th he was presented with a wallet as a farewell gift from the tower by Mr. C. W. Denyer (Ringing Master of the Farnham District). He was supported by the Rector (the Rev. F. B. Hutchinson), Mr. A. G. Pitt (churchwarden) and 14 ringing members.
In making the oresentation. Mr. Denyer mentioned Mr. Gasson's unfailing patience, his ability in ringing and his regularity in attendance. On behalf of the company he wished Mr . and Mrs. Gasson a long and happy retirement. Mr. Gassor returned thanks.

SOCIETY OF ROVING RINGERS

Presentation to Retiring Secretary

The fourth annual reunion of the Society of Roving Ringers was held in the Bournemouth District on Saturday and Sunday, February 2nd and 3rd.
The first tower of the week-end was Christchurch Priory on Saturday morning, where Mr. Fred Price assisted the Society in ringing Stedman Caters and Cinques, Treble Ten and Cambridge Twelve. After dinner, Bournemouth legendary sunshine was enjoyed to the full during a walk along the sea front and to St. John's. Ringing here included the standard methods and Six-Spliced Surprise.
The annual dinner was held at the London Hotel, Poole, where 19 members were joined by Mr. A. R. Macdonald and Mr. H. A. Mitchell. At the general meeting which followed Mr. A, R. Macdonald was appointed to the chair. The secretary, Mr. T. Mark White, combined his report with that of the Master, Mr. John Chilcott, and stated that the Society had enjoyed a successful year, but had not rung any peals although an attempt for Stedman Cinques at Exeter had been made. Mr. White stated that in view of his matrimonial prospects he could no longer fulfil the office of secretary. In recognition of his five years' service he was presented with a 'Peterson briar' which it is hoped will not be overtaken by the same fate as its predecessor.
Ncw officers appointed were:-Master, Mr J. Chilcott; secretary. Mr. G. Evenden; assistant secretary and treasurer, Mr D. Parsons; recorder, Miss A. Bailey. After a short discussion North and West Devon and Cornwall were selected for this year's tour, to be held from July 26th to August 9th. Five new members were elected, these being Michael Best and James Daniels (Bournemouth) Rex Corke (Aldershot). Ray Parsons (Carshalton) and Ken Mackintosh. Mr. A. R. Macdonald was elected an honorary member. The remaining part of the evening was spent in discussing past and future experiences and was brought to a close by a well-struck course of Plain Bob Minor on clapperless bells cast to a new formula.
Sunday ringing took place at St. James', Poole, when Cambridge and Yorkshire Royal were rung; at Canford Magna where the recent rehanging was not favourably commented upon; and at St. Peter's. Bournemouth. Thanks are due to Mr. Matkin for arranging accommodation.

MR. & MRS. P. DERBYSHIRE'S GOLDEN WEDDING

The peal of Stedman Caters at St. Mark's, Worsley, was rung on the 50th anniversary of the wedding of Percy H. Derbyshire and Mrs. Derbyshire. After the peal they provided a splendid repast for relatives and friends and the band who rang the peal, followed by a social evening. When the cake and wine were served, the Vicar (the Rev. - Lamont) gave a toast to the honoured couple and in doing so referred to the long service of Percy and his connection with St. Mark's. The Rev. R. D. St. J. Smith toasted 'The Ringers of England.'

Percy responded, and in his reminiscences said the day they were married they had difficulty in reaching the church as the snow was very deep He said his wife wouldn't turn back. One New Year's Eve he and other ringers were out with the handbells when they met the local police sergeant; they left their ringing venture and took him home. They had only resumed a few minutes when they met the constable; him they also took home-toth were inebriated.

Percy, as he is known in Lancashire, is very popular, always ready to help, and many owe their thanks to him for being given the opportunity to ring on that grand ring of ten at Worsley. He has rung there over 55 years.
May he and Mrs. Derbyshire be spared many more years to enjoy life together.

COLLEGE YOUTHS AS LITIGANTS

From Lloyds Weekly London Newspaper, Feb. 9th, 1862

Stockham v. Friend.-An action was tricd on Monday, in the Court of Exchequer, to recover the value of two church bells. The defendant pleaded never indebted.

The plaintiff is a musical handbell founder, carrying on business in Old Boswell Court. He is a bell-ringer at St. Clement Danes' and at Westminster Abbey, and also a member of a bell-ringing society known as 'The College Youths.

The defendant is the High Constable of Hythe, a bell-ringer and iso a member of the College Youths, a Society which Mr. Huddeston, in stating the plaintiff's case, said so much disturbed the quiet of the Metropolis by increasing the harmony of church bell-ringing.

At Hythe there was a ring of only eight bells, one of them being a recusant, ill-conditioned tenor. The defendant was anxious to have it recast and two new bells added to the number but the defendant was only able to get sufficient subscriptions for the two new bells. Several letters passed between the parties, and ultimately it was agreed that the plaintiff should make the bells for $£ 95$, the defendant observing that he looked forward with pleasure to the opening of the ten with the plaintiff and the other Collegians.

Plaintiff then made arrangements with Messrs. Mears, the bellfounders, and as there were no tuning forks in Hythe they had to send down Mr . Oliver with several to bring up to the tone of the treble to make the new bells harmonise. The bells were accordingly sent down and fixed, and Saturday. the 9th July. was appointed for the opening day.

There was a dinner at the Town Hall, presided over by the Minister and supported by the churchwarden. A programme of the proceedings was drawn up and published in which it was stated that a select band from the Old College Youths would attend and give a touch of grandsire cators, a touct of grandsire royals, a touch of steadman's eators and a touch of Kent treble bob royals "-(laughter)-with a final touch by the select band of College Youths (laughter).
The bells were ringing from twelve o'clock till six, and it appeared that the presence at Hythe of the 'College Youths, gave great offence to the old bell-ringers of the place, who had been bell-tollers from their youth upwards. At the dinner the clergymen and churchwarden and Mr. Friend eulogised the bells, and the churchwarden offered to head a subscription with 10 s. to recast the recusant bell. Some time afterwards complaints were made of the bells, and a refusal to pay for them, though they were in constant use up to within a few months.

The plaintiff was called, and deposed to the main facts as stated by the learned counsel, and said the 'Old College Youths' Society' was established 200 years ago.

Mr. Baron Martin: Do you remember it?
Plaintiff: Yes, my lord, perfectly well. (Loud laughter.) The ringers at Hythe said this was an excellent splice.
Cross-examined by Mr. Hawkins for the defendant: Are you one of the men that ring every night 'Away with melancholy' at St. Clement Danes'? (Laughter.)
Plaintiff: Yes. He heard late at night on the 6th July, that some persons were so disgusted with the bells that they could not attend the dinner. (Laughter.) The clergyman left the dinner table suddenly, but it was not because he was disgusted with the Kent treble bob royals that were being played upon these bells. It was being played at the time upon some musical handbells. The plaintiff was examined to show that the bells did not harmonise, but he said they did.

Mr. Baron Martin said he thought this case ought to be arranged between the parties. He should think it was very casy to make the bells harmonise. Mr. Hawkins said he should be glad to have the matter settled for the sake of the people at Hythe. Half the inhabitants had been driven mad by the discord of these bells (laughter) and there was such a commotion in consequence on the opening day that the clergyman could not go on with his dinner. (Renewed laughter.)

Mr. Baron Martin: What, did it turn the stomach of the clergy?
Mr. Hawkins: It did. There is no mistake about it. He gave orders, 'Silence those dreadful bells.' (Laughter.)

Mr. Baron Martin said it only appeared to be a question of harmonising the bells.
Mr. Hawkins: I am told they will never harmonise.
Plaintiff: Yes, they will, but the defendant won't have it done
Ulimately his lordship's suggestion was adopted, and the case was referred to Mr. Maunsell, a gentleman of the Bar conversant with the manufacture of bells and bell-ringing.

SUFFOLK GUILD

Ipswich District Looking For New Secretary

Sixteen members and friends (six members, ten friends) attended the annual meeting of the Ipswich District which was held in Ipswich on February 2nd. The bells of St. Mary-le-Tower were rung during the afternoon to various methods including a course of Double Oxford Major. The six bell-ringers deserve the highest praise for the way in which they tackled the heavy bells.
At five o'clock the company adjourned for tea at Footman's Restaurant and, after a satisfying meal, held a business meeting. The Rev. C. P. Newell, the Guild's clerical secretary, was elected chairman. Mr. Taylor, of St Matthew's, was elected as a new member.
Mr. Max Page (hon. secretary) submitted a report on the activities of the District during the year. He said that although each ringer and each tower had progressed by themselves. the towers were lacking in inter-co-operation and he suggested that each ringer should attend as many practice nights, besides his own tower, as he possibly could. After he had thanked the young ringers and those from Essex for attending the meetings so regularly, he mentioned several peals of note that had been rung in the District.
The Rev. C. P. Newell thanked the secretary for his report and asked that the District might make a more determined effort to attend regularly in the coming year.
The secretary said that it was likely he would soon be called to serve his period in the Forces and therefore suggested that another ringer be appointed in the office. Because the District was so very poorly represented the meeting decided to postpone the election of a new secretary until it knew definitely when Mr. Page would be going away. Tuddenham and Rushmere were proposed as the places of next meeting to be held at the beginning of March.
After the chairman had been thanked the ringers departed to St. Matthew's and there rang Ipswich, Cambridge, Double Court, Little Bob, Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Double Oxford, St. Clement's and various other methods until nine o'clock. The gathering was very honsured to have Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Marris with them.

TRIBUTES UNRECORDED

DURING the past week we have been able to measure in a sense the noble manner in which the ringers of the country gave expression to the sad news of the passing of the late King. This issue contains six pages of peals and two pages of quarter peals recording what might be regarded as 'achieved' performances. In no sense is it a complete record and it is likely that the following issue will also be a memorial number. Quarter peals have been arriving in this office at approximately a page a day. While we shall do our best to give as full a record as possible, there will be certain delays in publication and it might be that not every performance will be published. Nevertheless, we shall do our best. These are occasions in life which should be recorded, not in any sense for personal vainglory, but as an indication to those who come after us of the respect and affection with which King George VI. was held by his loyal subjects.
One of our correspondents in a personal letter to the Editor suggests that in our issue recording peals and quarter peals rung in memory of the late King some space should be reserved to remember (collectively) all those other ringers who, for one reason or anotherperhaps lack of experienced ringers or an able con-ductor-paid the best tribute they could, although unable to ring a true quarter peal. 'It was,' the letter states, ' a none the less genuine one to a much loved and honoured King.' We feel that such a sentiment will be appreciated by many ringers, and to all those who just rang we would say, on behalf of the Central Council. 'Thank you.' Some of the sweetest joys of life are the unrecorded. To the general public the finer niceties of whether a peal or quarter peal was accomplished matters not. If the bells were well struck and the method was musical to the ear then they were satisfied, and many of our readers will hold that the tower faithfully discharged its solemn obligation.

We as ringers know of the disappointment of the failure to bring home a peal for a national occasion, especially in a tower with a tradition for such observances and where these events are commemorated by peal boards or tablets going back fifty or more years. There is, at the moment, a feeling that the ringers in their day and generation failed in the fulfilment of what had been handed down to them as a sacred trust. Those familiar with the many and varied circumstances that give rise to peal failures know there is no certainty in any attempt. Errors can be minimised by the individual proficiency of the band and the conductor, but even then factors from outside have to be taken into consideration.

Take, for example, the incident that arose at the Church of St. Stephen-the-Martyr, Bristol, where a peal of 5,175 Stedman Caters was rung on February 9th with the bells half-muflied. The performance was duly notified to 'The Ringing World.' The conductor and composer afterwards discovered that the composition was false and a true peal had not been rung. His telegram arrived in time to stop publication, although the page was already imposed and passed for press. The band participating included a number of well-known Bristol and Bristol University ringers, and to them all peal ringers send their sympathy. There have been other notable occasions where errors in composition have led to a peal being lost.
In an editorial a fortnight ago announcing the King's death we made special reference to his late Majesty's wide interest in all occupations and pursuits of his people. A correspondent informs us that in 1928 King George VI. visited Chester-le-Street Parish Church. He was then Duke of York and stayed at the nearby Lumley Castle with Sir Roger Lumley, now Earl of Scarbrough. A framed photograph of the arrival at the church of the Duke and Duchess of York has hung in the belfry ever since. The Duke signed the visitors' book and this signature below another photograph was also preserved in the belfry until it was stolen a year or two ago. Ringing at this church included 720 Bob Minor, half-muffled, on the evening of the King's death, and half-muffled ringing on the two following Sundays and the intervening Saturday for a district meeting. On the day of the King's funeral a memorial peal of Grandsire Triples was rung, in which Mr. C. McGuiness, from Newcastle, stood in at short notice owing to the indisposition of Mr. S. C. Walker. There was also a quarter peal previous to the town's memorial service on Feb. 17th. The record of ringing in this tower seems quite conspicuous, although we have little doubt that in many other towers the bells conveyed the sense of the nation's loss to the people in a similar fashion.

A peal to the memory of Dr. J. C. E. Simpson was rung at Liscard, the church of which his late father was Vicar, on February 14th. At this church he rang many of his peals including his first as conductor. The peal was one of his specialities '-a G. Lindoff one-part 5,024 London Surprise Major. The attempt for a peal of Stedman Triples after the funeral was lost after 3,200 changes had been rung.
Evesham bells ar: only available to bands of ringers on day tours between 6.15 and $8.15 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. on Saturdays.

Mr. David Parsons 'completed the circle ' of Beddington tower on February 16th. The peal was also Mr. Frank Darby's 150th for the Surrey Association.

During the procession of the Royal funeral train through Slough the tenor bell was tolled and in the evening a half-muffled peal of Caters was rung on the bells of St. Mary's.

Former official of the Leicester Diocesan Guild. Mr A. Perkins is now looking after a 32-acre coastal estate near Helston, Cornwall. His adfress is Wild Acres, Ruan Minor, Helston.
The peal at St. Philip's Cathedral, Birmingham. on February 14th, to the memory of King George VI. was the first attempt of Mr. John $R$. Mayne to call Stedman Cinques. It was also J. Martin Thorley's 100th peal.
Acknowledging a copy of 'The Great Adventure' sent to him by Mr. W. Denyer, of Aldershot, Mr. G. W. Heyes, secretary of St. Peter's Bellringers' Society. Ballarat. Australia, says the book is very informative revealing things about his own bells that he did not know. After a lapse of about 34 years change-ringing has started again.

GOSSIP

The young band at St. Stephen's. Ealing, received a letter from the Parochial Church Council complimenting them on their half-muffied ringing which took place almost daily during the period from the King's death until after the funeral. The ringing included the 'whole pull and stand' which was performed quite creditably. A half-muffled peal attempt on February 19th unfortunately came to grief after two and a half hours' good ringing.

Miss Nancy Marklew is the first local lady to ring a peal on Hinckley (Leics) bells.

Mr. John Ambler is the first ringer to "circle Pudscy tower.
The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow will preach at Halesworth Parish Church on March 9th, at 6.30. when a memorial will be dedicated to Mr. F. C. Lambert.

Mr. A. S. Tomkins rang the "passing bell' at St. Andrew's Church, Bredenbury, Hereford, for Queen Victoria, King Edward VII., King George V. and King George VI.

By the peal of Grandsire Doubles at Hampton. Evesham. Worcs, Messrs. R. R. Savory, G. C. Hemming and C. J. Hemming have completed Grandsire from Doubles to Cinques.

The Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association have lost by death two popular members. Mr. Ernest Wallace, of the Newcastle Cathedra! Guild. died from head injuries received in a road accident; Mr. T. H. Surtees, of Shotley Bridge, Durham, had been a member of the Association since 1886.

It was intended to ring a memorial peal of Major at Handsworth, Yorks. for the late King. Two days before, however, Mr. Frederick Cardwell. one of the selected band, had to be rushed to hospital for an operation. South Yorkshire ringers will be pleased to hear that the operation was successful and he is doing well.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

YOUNG LADIES w. BIG BELLS
Dear Sir,-1 have never previously written a letter to 'The Ringing World,' neither is it my policy to reply to a letter when the writer uses a nom de plume. As I am one of the people criticised by your correspondent 'Nervous' in the letter in last week's 'Ringing World,' however, there are a few points he or she may like to consider :--(1) I never allow any pupil I am teaching to ring anj particular bell unless I am satisfied beforehand that he or she is capable of doing so; (2) Brenda Smith had previously jung every bell in Evesham tower before ringing the tenor; she had also rung the tenor solo before ringing it in peal. (3) Of other pupils I have at Evesham. there isn't one I would allow to ring either of the four back bells. (4) The new ring at Evesham has been described as one of the finest-going rings for its weight it is possible to find.
Regarding the accident mentioned ky ' Nervous.' I should think it would be correct to assume that Evesham tenor is only a toy compared with the bell which was responsible for the unfortunate accident to this expritunced ringer.-Yours sincerely, G. J. HEMMING.

STILL A MAN'S JOB

Dear Sir,-I feel I cannot let the correspondence on heavy-bell ringing by the female sex go unanswered.
I think perhaps I can claim to have had as much experience round the 'heavy end' as any lady ringer, which includes a peal of Bristol Surprise Major on a $21 \frac{1}{6}$-cwt. tenor. This, I think you will agree, is a vastly different job to ringing a 36 -cwt. bell 'behind:
Correspondent ' Nervous ' surprises me greatly when he writes of experienced heavy-bell ringers and broken stays ! Surely. sir, this is an accomplishment for learners only !! And as for a girl of 16 overpulling a bell of 36 cwt ., it sounds fantastic. I should have thought the opposite would have been the effect. However, I think his criticism is well-meaning, only nis cxiuses are dubious.
For a lady to ring a heavy bell it takes years of practice and experience, correct handing of the rope is essential and of course, it helps if she is physically built to do it. One of the most outstanding feats for a lady was the ringing of Wedmore tenor 'behind' by Mrs. G. W. Fletcher to a peal of Stedman : outstanding inasmuch as Mrs. Fletcher is not physically built to ring heavy bells. but in her , ioneer days in the Ladies' Guild she constantly did this.
The wisdr.m of allowing Miss Brenda Smith to ring Evesham tenor must be left to those who best know her capabilities. The wisdom I challenge is that of the correspondent for publishing the fact. To ring a $36-\mathrm{cwt}$. bell 'behind' for a touch is not the usual sort of thing to publish. Whilst I am in no way belittling the young lady's performance, it is not a record-breaking one.
I will end by a word of warning to any potential lady heavy-bell ringer, that although it can ve done with ycars of practice and experience, it is still a man's job.

IRREGULARS, RESULTS, ETC.

Dear Sir.-Reference above, six-bell methods Woadbine. etc., not to be counted in peal analysis. I beg to point out any team ringing Grandsire Trides to Holt's ten-part composition with $54768 \mathrm{H} / \mathrm{W} 45678$ at the end are ringing two halves ioined together by an irregular method called Holt's Single. To Cambridge 12 -bell Surprise. 6th place hob is also irregular. Perhaps our distinguished personnel will really give a verdict at the next Central Assize.-Yours trulv.

FRANK WARRINGTON.

GLASGOW WOULD NOT ALLOW QUARTER PEAL FOR LATE KING

Dear Sir,-Owing to several complaints which were received following our recent peal of Stedman Caters, we were not allowed to ring so much as a quarter peal to mark the death of our late King, even though the louvres are boarded up and covered with Cabot quilting and we had fitted a deadening apparatus. Such are the conditions under which we try to keep going. Even so, we continued to ring for half an hour on the day of the funeral. The back eight, rung half-muffled and very slowly, sounded solemn and majestic.-Yours faithfully.

IRREGULAR METHODS

Dear Sir,-After reading of the Minor peal at Felkirk I think that Mr. H. Chant has been indulging in the gentle art of leg-pulling. To champion the ringers of the illegitimate methods (as he did on December 21st, 1951) and then go and ring a peal in ten legitimate ones does not seem consistent. However I will make some observations on his letter of February 15th.
(1). It takes all sorts of ringers to make a ringing world, and we must respect the other fellow's point of view even if it seems rubbish to ourselves.
(2). It does not seem logical to give a lead in rounds and not in changes.
(3). Whatever virtues Woodbine has are surely retained in Neasden
(3). Sandal is, in my opinion, the stepping stone to at least eight of the ten methods rung at Felkirk. But both Sandal and Oxford have regular lead ends.
(4). Either as a statement of facr or opinion it is condemned by our best writers,
(5). The sly dig at the Central Council may not amount to sarcasm, but after all are they not regularising something which was passed years ago? I am sure that the great majority of Central Council members have had practical experience of Minor ringing. Also to the question recently asked in 'The Ringing World ' on "Does it matter? the Methods Committee should give an answer and not ignore it.
Mr. Chant has the right of reply but this is my last letter on this subicct.-Yours faithfully,

BUCKLEY'S EXAMPLE

Dear Sir.-I have read with interest the recent correspondence about ringers and their attendances at the services for which they ring.
If ringers do not attend these services I consider that primarily it is the fault of the clergy because, generally speaking, very few of them take any real interest in the bells or ringers and seldom go up into the lower to say a prayer before ringing commences.
We at Buckley Flintshire, are very fortunate because our bells and tower extension were given by a former Vicar and his wife and one of the rules of membership is "That all members must be confirmed members of the Church. and succeeding clergy have always taken an interest in our bells and ringers and we have taught some of them to ring.

Consequently most of our members hold various othe. offices in the church. The ringers in a recent quarter peal were one churchwarden, four church councillors, three sidesmen, one server and one church schoolmaster. Our other members also hold similar offices in the church.
Bells and ringers are just as much a nart of the Church as the choir and organ and if clergy would only take more interest in us the unfortunate incidents would never arise.-Yours fraternally. DENNIS H. B. MILLWARD.

APPRECIATION OF DR. J. C. E. SIMPSON

 Lancashire Association's TributeAt the Lancashire Association committee meeting held at Poolstock, Wigan, on February 16th. the members expressed deepest sorrow at the loss of one of its most brilliant conductors.

A resident of Cheshire, where most of his ringing was accomplished, he nevertheless was a member whon the rank and file of the Lancashire Association looked up to with pride. His death at so early an age leaves the Association the poorer and his absence from ringing circles in general will be sadly felt.

His diligence in any work he undertook was a by-word and his research in private life led him to the verge of success in the relief of that dreaded disease, sleeping sickness; in fact, he was just about to commence field tests when his death cut short a brilliant career.

To his mother and brother we give our sincere condolences and we can assure them that his efforts in reaching for and establishing so high a standard in the most intricate points in our art will ever be remembered in our Association. We place him amongst our great ones,
F. DUNKERLEY,

Other tributes to the esteem in which Dr. Simpson was held appear on page 142.]

LONGEST LENGTH OF MINOR

Dear Sir,-In 'The Ringing World ' of February 8th an inquiry as to a record on six bells was published.

On August 6th, 1901, a peal of Minor was rung, 10,080 changes in nine methods in 5 hours and 40 minutes. which was then a iecred for the Kent Association.

I do not know if this still holds good as a record. I am interested to know.

It was conducted by myself at St. John-theBaptist's. Tunstall.

Headington, Oxford.
W. H. B. WILKINS.

THE CHRISTIAN VIEWPOINT

Dear Sir.-In reply to Mr. Hooper's letter of last week, he said he was surprised to hear open ringing at a certain borough. But why so surprised? The King had denarted this life and gone to a higher sphere of life, where there is no more sorrow. no more pain; why, then, should we be so sorrowful?
In regard to respect, I don't think it would have shown more if we had all rung muffled : we all have a different outlook on death and what we should do regarding our ringing. I think the best thing was done-to let everyone ring as they thought best.
Death is swallowed up in victory. Eternal life we are given. Why so sad?-Yours faithfully,

FRANK HOPGOOD.
Isleworth.
PS.-If we are Christians we believe this.F. H.

RAISING AND LOWERING IN PEAL

Deal Sir,-Further to your Editorial of February 8th. Surely when 1 call 'go' all ropes should move at once. Then by the third swing, owing to the varying pendulum lengths of bells, the compass approximates to 12345678 12345678 . 123456781 . . . 1234567812 .
until 1234567812345673 is reached. Then the whole of the work is up to treble. 5 and tenor to maintain the beat. The treble should be nearly up while the tenor is still rising and the bells should take the interval from $7-8$ and as they (7-8) open out. so should all the others. Falling should be the reverse of rising.-Yours faithfully,
E. V. WILLIAMS.

BELLS IN ENGLISH LIFE

By ERNEST MORRIS

AVE, ANGELUS AND VESPERS
Another use which partook of both ecclesiastical and secular character was that of the Ave bells, or morning and evening peals. These were rung about the hours when people rise and when they retire to bed, and were evidently instituted in order to remind them not to do so without saying their prayers. Abbot Gasquet says of it:-
-The custom probably grew out of the curfew which was a civil notification of the time to extinguish all lights, but in the 14th century it was turned into a universal religious ceremony in honour of Our Lord's Incarnation and His Blessed Mother.' ('Parish Life in Medirval England,' page 162.)
In 1347 Ralph de Salopia, Bishop of Bath and Wells, desired the Cathedral clergy to say, the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night, four Aves for all benefactors. living or dead. Some few years before, Pope John XXII. had urged the habit of saying three Aves at curfew time.

The practice soon spread, and Archbishop Arundel, of Canterbury, in 1399, at the earnest request of King Henry IV ordered the usage of saluting the Mother of God, the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night. to be universally adopted in the province "at daybreak and curfew,' and the bell that. was rung was called by our English ancestors the 'Gabriel' bell. in memory of the archangel's salutation to Our Lady. A bell given to St. Albans by Roger de Norton (died 1290) to be struck every night at time of curfew.' bears the legend 'Missi de celis Habie Nomen Gabrielis' which translated is 'To me was given the name of Gabricl, sent from Heaven."

This and similar inscriptions obtained for the Angelus bell in many places the name of Gabriel or Old Gabricl, and the title is still acknowledged for the bell in the market town of Lewes.

' OLD GABRIEL'

Ave Maria, bells- that is. bells bearing as inscriptions the first portion of the Angelic Salutation-would also in many instances be used for the Angelus. In the days morning bell was literally rung at carly dawn. Thomas Barrett. of Lewes. was paid, in 1690 ; four pounds yearly for ringing "Old Gabriel " at four o'clock in the morning and eight at night. The morning bell was rung at that hour at Melton Mowbray until the year 1708. when it was discontinued.

The same custom prevailed at Stamford until 1825. and in many parishes it is still remembered. or a tradition of it exists. Abroad. a mid-day Ave was also rung, but only a few isolated cases of this are recorded in England, where it was not in use before the 16 th century.

Dr. Rock tells us that formerly the length of the ringing of the Angelus (morning, noon and evening) was regulated by the time it took the ringer to repeat the Ave and Paternoster. ('Church of our Fathers.' iii., page 340.) At Cropredy, Oxon, in 1512, the Vicar. Roger Lupton, left money for the churchwardens to toll dayly the Avees bell at six of the clok in the mornyng and xij of the clok at noone, and at four of the clok at afternoon.'
A note in the Bury St. Edmunds book gives the times of tolling the Angelus in that town as $4 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. and $9 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. in summer, and $6 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. and $8 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. in winter. The morning and evening bells (or curfew) still survive in many places and to give a complete list would fill a volume. as would the variations of time. In many places six o'clock in the morning was considered the most convenient hour, but the custom is gradually dying out.

THE GETTING-UP BELL
It had been rung as a call to daily workthus at Tydd St. Mary a bell used to be rung early 'to call men and carts to work." At Louth the third bell was formerly rung at five o'clock and was called 'the getting-up bell.' Henry Penn. the bellfounder, had this in mind when he cast a bell at St. Ives which was rung carly in the morning. for he placed on it the pithy sentence :-

Arise and go about your business.'
Longfellow has reference to this in "Pegasus in Pound ':

Loud the clamorous bell was ringing
From its belfry gaunt and grim.
'Twas the daily call for labour,
Not a triumph meant for him.'
On a bell at Friskney, Lincs, is :- Laborem signo et requiem' meaning' 'I mark out time and rest.' At Stoke-by-Clare, Suffolk :-'Surge mane servire deo' (Arisc betimes to serve thy God). The old fourth at St. Michael's, Coventry, now the tenor at St. John's in that town, has the inscription :

I ring at six to let men know
When too and from theair worke to go 1675.

At Horncastle. Lincs:-'Lectum fvgo discvte somnvm' (Fly from bed and shake off sleup). Sir Thomas Browne in his "Religio Medici" (1643) has an interesting reference to the Ave bell and its former associations :-

I could never hear the Ave bell and its former association nor think a sufficient warrant because they erred in one circumstance, for me to err in all. i.e.. in silent and dumb contempte. Whilst therefore they direct their devotions to Her, I offer mine to God, and rectify the errors of their prayers by rightly ordering my own.'

THE GHOST

There is a good story told regarding the ringing of the carly morning bell at Spalding:-

In the carly part of the last century, the widow of the scxton, continuing his duties, used to ring the six o'clock morning bell. She was also a charwoman. Being engaged at the latter occupation at a clergyman's house with other women, she left her tub to ring the bell. Onc of her companions put a white sheet around herself and. in the dark, stood on a bench in the south porch; and on the old woman coming out of the church, and whilst she was locking the door, set up a dreadful moan, thinking to frighten the old lady; but she quickly drew the large key from the lock and rushed at the figure with the exclamation: "Be ye live or dead. here's a go at yer." and nearly slew the would-be ghost.?

At Tickhill, Yorks, a large bell was rung at 5 a.m. and a small one at 6 a.m. At Sleaford, Lines, the day of the month was tolled at $6 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. At Westminster Abbey the little bell is rung daily at $8.45 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. (and also at 1.30 p.m.) for three minutes, followed by 40 strokes on the tenor of which practice various explanation are given. One is that it refers to Henry VII.'s appointment of daily masses to be said perpetually after his death. before each of which 40 strokes were to be tolled. Another is that it alludes to the 40 royal scholars on the foundation of Westminster School: and a third that it commemorates the 40 years of Dean Goodman's reign in the 16 th century (the least likely explanation of all!)

In the churchwarden's accounts of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, London, 1633, we read:-

For the tolling and ringing of the Saint's bell every working day in the morning between five and six of the clock, to give notice for people to come to prayers.

10 s .

This is not only interesting as a survival of the Ave bell in its religious aspect, but also as indicating the early hour at which Matins was said at that time.

WASHERWOMAN'S GIFT

At St. Peter's, Nottingham, the seventh bell is said to have been given by Margery Doubleday in 1544 and is inscribed:-"I was given by Margery Dubbleday in 1544 and recast with other bells 1771.' Formerly it was inscribed:-- Ave Maria of your charitic pray for the sole of Ma'gere Dubbylcay.' She was a washerwoman, and not only gave the bell, but by her will, dated June 20th, 1544 , left the rent of a close in Broadmarsh, which then amounted to twenty shillings a year, to the sexton of St . Pcter's on condition of ringing it every morning except Sunday. at 4 o'clock to arouse the washerwomen of the town to their daily labours. The bell was later rung for about three months of the year at $6 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. instead of $4 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$.

At Hammersmith an early morning bell used to be rung at 5 a.m., but in 1724 one of the parishioners complained that it disturbed him and it was stopped on condition of his agrecing to erect a cupola and clock for the church.

A WOKINGHAM DOCUMENT

The sexton of Wokingham. Berks, received two pounds yearly, the gift of Richard Palmer. for ringing the morning and evening bell. This was secured by an indenture dated April, 1664. which, while showing that the ringing of the morning bell and the curfew was general, gives the impression which it was supposed to make on a religious mind. By it Richard Palmer gave lands in trust to employ the rents of the same for a salary of the sexton to ring the greatest bell belonging to the parish church there half an hour every morning at 4 a.m, and every evening at $8 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. . or as near those hours as might be. from the 10 th of September to the 11 th of March in every year. for ever: which mode of ringing such bell the said Richard Palmer had propounded to himself to cause to be done, not only that as many as might live within the sound might be thereby induced to a timely going to rest in the evening, and early rising in the morning to their labours and duties of their several callings (things ordinarily attended and rewarded with thrift and proficiency) and that strangers and others who should happen in winter nights within hearing of the said bell. to lose their way in the country. might be informed of the time of night, and receive some guidance in the right way: and for which rational ends he conceived his said work could not but be well liked by any discreet person, the same bcing done and well approved of in most of the cities and market towns, and many other places in the kingdom. but also the better end aimed at by him, that all those whose care of being mindful of their latter end should incline them thereunto. might thereby take occasion. at the ringing of the evening bell. to think of their own passing bell and day of death: and at tne ringing of the said morning hell might also think of their resurrection and call to their last judgment, which things doing. he believed no man, unless very much hardened, could at the same time wilfully and resolutely propound to himself the leading of a wicked life. but rather be deterred and taken from it. (Edwards' 'Old English Customs,' page 202.)

115 YEARS AGO

Dear Sir,-The bells of Piddlehinton. Dorset. having been in disrepair from 1879 to 1949.1 is interesting to note. in connection with their recent half-muffled tributes to his late Majesty, that is must be at leas: 115 years (King William IV. in 1837) since the bells were previously rung for the death of a sovereign.-Yours sincerely.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

At the 'Cathedral' of the Rhondda
St. Peter's Church, 'Pentre, is rightly known as the Cathedral of the Rhondda Valley and its beautiful interior was much admired by the 50 or so visitors arid friends who attended the meeting of the Association on February 16th. These included visitors from London. Chippenham. Melksham, Radstock and Thurnby.

The bells, a fine ring of eight. worthy of the church, were made good use of during the day. The service at 4 o'clock was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. D. Spenser Jones). who extended a hearly welcome to the Association.
After the service visitors were entertained to a bountiful tea in typical Pentre style. Thanks were expressed by Mr. J. W. Jones.

At the business meeting the Vicar took the chair. He asked the meeting to stand for a few moments in respect to His late Majesty King George VI. The secretary reported he had been unable to get Bridgend bells for combined practice. Two notices of motion were read which are to be brought up at the annual meeting on Easter Monday. Onc, to divide the Association into two or more districts, the other to reviss and bring up to date the rules of the Association. It was reported that work had started on Llandaff Cathedral bells and that they were now at the bellfoundry. At Chepstow and Monmouth, where the bells need rehanging, there was little prospect of anything being done in the near future
Twelve new mombers were elected and two life members (belfry nominations) were confirmed.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

N.W. Branch at Sutcombe

The annual meeting of the N.W. Branch took place at Sutcombe, a pleasant village thrfe miles north of Holsworthy on February 16 th. The Rector. the Rev. W. H. Ravenhill, welcomed the ringers and conducted the service. and the Rev. E, P. James read the lesson. In his charminy address the Rector drew lessons from the great bell of Moscow, cracked through the inflow of a ctream of water when a fire raged near the foundry. He also referred to the sterling character of our late King George.
Some 30 members and friends from Bradworthy. Bridgerule, Black Torrington. Okehampton, Plymouth, Pyworthy Chittlchampton and Stratton were present. Tea provided by the local ladies was served in the School Hall.
At the meeting, the secretary (Mr. J. W. Sangwin) read the report and balance sheet for the past year which showed a credit of about $£ 6$. These were adopted.
Miss P. Gilbert was elected as a member. The next annual meeting was fixed for Pyworthy and it was agreed that a meeting with the S.W. Branch be held at Kelly in August.

The Rev. W. H. Ravenhill was re-elected chairman with Mr. J. W. Sangwin as secretary and treasurer and Mr. $\dot{F}$. Sangwin as Ringing Master. The Rev. E. P. James with Messrs. R. Collacot and W. J. Vinnicombe were elected as representatives of the General Committee of the Guild.

The meeting passed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector, to Mrs. Ravenshill (the organist) and all the ladies who did so much for the comfort of the company. It was a happy meeting and touches of Grandsire. Stedman. Plain Bob and Kent were rung. Later in the evening the enthusiasts adjourned to Holsworthy and enjoyed touches on the fine octave. We hope Mr . Fred Sangwin will soon be well enough

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World' of March 1st, 1912
OUR ILLUSTRATION
MR WILLIAM BANISTER
One of the "grand old men" to whom the Exercise owes so much celebrated the completion of his 88 th year yesterday. Sixty years ago, William Banister was onc of the giants of the ringing world. . . Obviously there are very few men to-day who remember Mr. Banister . . . and probably there are thoutsands who do not know the part he played in the Exercise more than half a century ago. . . . One of the last links with a bygone generation, he was ringing peals in the "forties." A native of Woolwich, his father and five brothers were all enthusiasts for the art, and the seven of them, with a tenor man. rang peals of both Grandsire and Stedman Triples. At St. Mary's Church they had an excellent company between the years 1843 and 1851, and they progressed through Double Norwich to Superlative and London Surprise. Mr. Banister composed and conducted many of the peals that they rang, including the London, which was only the second peal in the method. Mr. Banister's peal was a 5,600 . rather longer than the one at Norwich.

- In order to get practice upon the higher numbers. Mr. Banister used to walk frequently to the City, and much of his 12 -bell ringing was done at Cornhill and Southwark. Unfortunately he has no complete list of his peals, but the following from the peal book of Mr . Mat. Wood (the first which these two veterans rang together) is of much interest :-

ST. SAVIOUR'S. SOUTHWARK
THE ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS
On Wednesday, December. 19th. 1849.
in 4 hours and 9 minutes
$\mathbf{5}, 146$ STEDMAN CINQUES

[Mr. Banister moved to Devonport in 1865 . where he got the bells of the Dockyard Chapel augmented to eight, trained a band and called a peal of Grandsire Triples on them. In conjunction with Col. Trelawney and Col. Troyte, he was largely responsible for spreading the cause of change ringing in Devonshire. Apart from ringing, he became an Alderman on Devonport Council and a Justice of the Peace. He died eventually at the age of 91.]

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD

Fourth Annual Dinner

The fourth annual dinner of the Cambridge University Guild of Change Ringers was held in Cambridge on Saturday. February 2nd. During the morning cight members rang a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major at the Church of St. Vigor and All Saints. Fulbourn. In the afternoon members and their guests rang at the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady and the English Martyrs (8), at Great St. Mary's (12) and at St. Benct's (6)

About 40 people sat down to dinner at the Dorothy Restaurant in the evening. After the toast of 'The King' had been mroposed by the president the Rev. A. C. Blyth. the toast of 'The Guild ' was proposed by Canon A. C Woodard, the Vicar of the Church of Great St. Andrew. The Master. Mr. W. I. Ridgman. in reply, gave an account of the Guild activities during the year. The toast of "The Guests" was proposed by Mr. A. R. Guy, and Mr. J. W. R. Ouinney replicd.

After the dinner some of the party went to Clare College where a nleasant hour was spent

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION
The annual meeting of the Shropshire Association was held at Shrewsbury on January 19th and followed the programme of recent years.

The ringing at St. Mary's of standard eightand ten-bell methods was better sounding than is sometimes the case.
The service was at St. Chad's, where the Rev. F. T. Horan welcomed the Association.

The usual tea rendezvous at Ward's followed and the company of 40 was duly sustained.
Business followed. officers being elected as follows:-Ringing Master, Mr. F. H. Bennett; Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. C. A. Barron; secretary, Mr. G. Bagley; treasurer, Mr. W. A. Farmer. The accounts showed a credit of $£ 70$, and several ncw members were elected. Meetings were provisionally fixed for Malins Lee, Market Drayton Oswestry, Wrockwardine, Much Wenloch, Clive and Condover.
After the meeting St. Chad's twelve were put to good use in standard methods, most of which were very creditably rung

By general agreement arrangements worked smoothly, Mr. Bennett's printed agenda and balance sheet contributing. But we all enjoyed this annual opportunity of ringing on higher numbers perhaps than usual, and also meeting ringing friends from the furthest points in Shropshire as well as from Birmingham, Chester and other centres.

OBITUARY

MR. T. G. MILLER

It is with regret we announce the death of Mr. Thomas Gleaves Miller, of 4. Wilton Road, Collier's Wood, London, S.W. 19 , aged 78.

Mr. Miller will be remembered for his long association with St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington. He came to Collier's Wood about six years ago and joined the band of Christ Church, Mitcham, with whom he succeeded in ringing a few peals. He also paid frequent visits to Chelsea and the parishes around.

The funeral service was held in Christ Church, Mitcham, on February 20th Before the service 78 whole pulls were tolled at quarter-minute intervals on the half-muffied tenor. The Vicar (the Rev. G. S. Johnstone) officiated. The hymn 'Jesu, Lover of my Soul' was sung and as the procession left the church the Dead March was played by the organist (Mr. E. J. Piercey) and the half-muffled tenor was again tolled. Cremation took place in Streatham Vale Crematorium.

Among the mourners were the following Among the mourners were the following Leonard's Church, Streatham), F. Wicks (St. Mary's, Wimbledon), J. Lott, M. Meyer, F. ## MR. ISAAC T. RUSHTON

Mr. Isaac T. Rushton. Deputy Mayor of Clitheroe. Lancs. and Mayor of the Borough for two years (1949-50), died on February 9th, aged 81 .

He had a record of 60 years' faithful service to the Parish Church as a ringer and last New Year's Eve the centre-piece of the annual ringers' party was a birthday cake inscribed "I.T. R., 1891-1951.' His long service to the belfry was marked by his regular attendance on Sundays and he served the church in other directions as Sunday School teacher and later as Sunday School superintendent and churchwarden.

At Clitheroe he was held in very high esteem by people in all walks of life for his kindly nature and especially for his efforts to promote a better way of life for everyone, by practical - Christianity.

The funeral took place on February 13th, the Mayor and members of the Council attending the service. Ringers acted as bearers and the bells were rung muffled before and after the service.

DR. J. C. E. SIMPSON, M.Sc., Ph.D. Appreciations

and these departing, leave behind them, footprints on the sands of time.'
It has been said that some men are great; others have greatness thrust upon them. James C. E. Simpson very definitely belonged to the former group, and carved for himself a place among the giants of the Exercise. His ability to ring and strike heavy bells immaculately was a model for emulation, and no less so was his ability to conduct the most abstruse compositions in the most complex of methods.

Having witnessed many instances in which he brought to bear both these great attributes, I would single out for special mention his Herculean performance in turning in the 41 -cwt. tenor at Beverley Minster to Cambridge Royal ; the 57-cwt. tenor at Wells Cathedral (with Mr. J. Worth strapping) to Cambridge Royal ; and the $42 \frac{1}{2}-\mathrm{cwt}$. tenor at Leeds to London Surprise Major; while in the field of London Surprise Major; while in the field of conducting, the calm and confident way he called the peals of Spliced Surprise Major in four, five and six methods, in which all the bells do all the work of all the methods, was really monumental.

James C. E. Simpson has passed away but his fine record of achievement and example will live on. He was in every way a gentlemar-a great gentleman-and while we mourn his loss, let us at the same time take inspiration and courage from his life and gallant example. Thus we leave him with the words of a former giant of the Exercise, the late William Willson, of Leicester, echoing in our ears :

The bells in cadence sweet, pour muffled music down,
Their dirge a message oft repeat, after the cross, the crown.

LESLIE W. C. MORRIS.

Mr. J. E Cawser, of Rotherham, writes:The news of the death of Mr. J. C. E. Simpson came as a great shock to me. We had been acquainted about 25 years but it was after the last war that we became closely associated in peal attempts in many parts of the country, not forgetting the happiest two of all-Beaumaris and Inverary.

Our first ringing tour together was in North Yorkshire and Durham, in 1947, when he called Pitman's 5,152 Spliced, this being the first peal of Spliced Surprise Major in Yorkshire and, I believe, the first time such a composition had been rung on a tour. It was whilst on this tour that the famous Somerset tour was suggested by Mr. Simpson This took place in 1948 with 14 successful Surprise peals, the average weight of the tenors being 30 cwt , the Doctor ringing, amongst other tenors, Congresbury ( 35 cwt .) and Wells ( $56 \frac{1}{4} \mathrm{cwt}$.) with John Worth as strapper.

Then came Suffolk and Norfolk, in 1949, with 20 Surprise peals in as many attempts including peals in four Surprise Royal methods-Yorkshire. Rochester, Lindsey and Cambridge. In 1950 there was a tour in Yorkshire when Mr. Simpson called London Royal at Retford and, as C. K. L. has written, he achieved his greatest ambition by turning in Beverley Minster tenor to a really splendid peal of Cambridge Royal. It was the third occasion I had arranged such an attempt for him; twice previously-in 1933 and after the war-he had been unavoidably prevented from attending but on this last occasion he gave a truly great performance.

Last year it was Devon and Cornwall and it was at Exeter Cathedral that I rang with him for the last time. Little did I think when we shook hands at a street corner in Exeter later that evening that it was for the last time.

THE LONG PEAL COMPOSERS OF TREBLE BOB MAJOR

MANY of the present generation of ringers have only a hazy idea of the men who made long lengths possible. One reads that 21,600 of Bristol has been rung, yes, but what of the hours of patient labour in putting such a length together? Not to speak of the proving for truth. This is how one composer put it: 'John Smith parts the tenors and finds himself in a wilderness from which there is apparently no way out.'
Go back 50 years or nearly so when Thomas Day's 16,608 held the field and had been rung to Kent (1883) and Oxford (1892). Treble Bob was the popular method in the North of England in those days and there were plenty of men willing to have a go at beating the 16,608 , but no composition was available. Even to-day there is a school of thought which says that nothing brings out the music of the bells better than a one-part peal of Treble Bob. The music of the Middles and Wrongs is considered by some to be as good as the Homes.

The 16,608 was on the three-part plan, but in 1906 Mr . Edwin Timbrell, a country shoemaker, introduced the fivepart plan and produced a peal of 16,800 changes. This was rung by the Chester Guild on June 8th, 1906, and was conducted by Isaac Sidebottom. The writer has not full details of this performance, but there is no doubt that it was a landmark in the history of long peal composition. Timbrell extended this peal to 17,120 , but this length was never rung, and he left ringing during World War I., returning in 1924. He still further extended his peal to 17,440, but again this length was not rung.

We come now to Joseph W. Parker, of Sunderland, a composer of great merit, and for many years a pillar of strength to the Durham and Newcastle Association. He will always be remembered as the first man to splice two Surprise Major methods to a peal, this being rung at Whitley Bay in 1924. Writing in 'The Ringing World' in 1922, he said that he had been investigating the possibilities of a longer length than Mr. Timbrell's 17,120 and had succeeded in producing 17,280 . This length was duly rung for the Chester Guild at Over on July 21st, 1923.

Mr. Gabriel Lindoff had all the 'plums' already in his possession. He had composed, and all had been duly rung, 14,112 London, 15,264 Bristol, 18,027 Stedman Caters, and 19,738 Stedman Caters (handbells). He composed 18,240 Treble Bob, collected a band together and rang it at Mottram on June 10th, 1922. To the great disappointment of all concerned, Mr. J. W. Parker pointed out its falseness within a week of the publication of the figures. Thus the precarious nature of the task is illustrated, and in passing we may say that one of the best things the Central Council ever did was to insist that in future the composition was to be published some time before any record attempt. Gay Lindoff took the blow calmly and we find him later on taking part in Worsley's 17,824 .

In dealing with long length compositions the name of. the Rev. H. Law James, Rector of Surfleet and Master of the Lincoln Guild, comes to mind. We shall never know whether he composed a long length of Treble Bob, but he always seemed to be hovering in the background whenever long lengths were on the carpet. He beat the 14,112 of London by one lead, this being duly rung by his own Guild a year or two ago. Also he added four new courses to Middleton's 25 in adapting this peal to Royal and Maximus. His various compositions are too well known to be repeated here, but he did compose a 19,360 of Bristol which has never been rung.

Lastly we come to Thomas B. Worsley, a blacksmith who lived and worked in the industrial town of Bolton. He did not take up composition until early middle life, but his progress was rapid, and he produced many good compositions in all the popular methods. Then he turned his attention to long peals and produced 11,232 Superlative, which was rung at Bolton in January, 1927. This was followed by 17,824 of Treble Bob, which was rung for the Lancashire Association at Heptonstall on April 18th, 1927, conducted by Edward Jenkins. The peal is an irregular five-part. Still later he composed the 21,600 of Bristol and fortunately passed it on to his friend, E. J., with the result that everyone knows.

Tommy Worsley died at the early age of 57 , and my information is that some of his papers were lost at the time of his death. Unfortunately of this distinguished list only one is still with us-Mr. Timbrell, who lives at the village of Chipping, but at the age of 81 his composing days are over. Some might speculate if the 21,600 peal will ever be beaten and it is very doubtful if it will. There are 22,222 of Stedman Caters by Mr. Lindoff and 22,000 of Double Norwich by Mr. N. Golden, also Mr. Lindoff had a long length of Double Norwich and F. E. Taylor of Oxford. Only the future will give an answer. M. R.P.

LATE NEWS
We regret to record the death of Mr. Philip H. Pierce (86) of Brabourne, Kent, who, in 1907, rang a peal of Stedman Triples on every day of a week.

Repairs have been ordered by the Dean and Chapter of St. George's Chapel to the oak bell-frame in the Curfew Tower at Windsor Castle. A muffled peal, which is normally attempted at the death of the King, could not be rung owing to the rotten state of the timbers. This belfry was built in 1478 and has not been materially altered since.
Miss Jennic Armstrong maintained the old custom at Morpeth by ringing the 'Pancake Bell' in the Watch Tower on Shrove Tuesday.

Accommodation is strictly limited for the Middlesex supper at Heston on March 15th and tickets will be issued in rotation. No tickets will be available after March 10 th.
Mr. Paul Coste. an American, rang a half peal at Durdee Episcopal Cathedral on the day of the King's funeral. Possibly he is the first American to ring a quarter in Scotland.

A correspondent asks how many men have called peals with absolutely no observation bell. As far as he knows these are Messrs. W. H. Barber: Maurice Swinfield and Maurice F. R. Hibbert.

Mr. Eric Goldschmidt, of 1 , Old Burlington Street, London, W.1, is producing a weekly radio programme with a 'bells ' theme entitled 'Wedding Bells.' It features anniversary stories, belfry memories and true romances of listeners. Readers who would like to participate in this programme are asked to communicate with Mr . Goldschmidt.

On the day of the King's funcral a peal was attempted at St. Peter's, Leeds, but was lost after an hour's ringing. It was attempted the following. Monday. when one of the band became indisposed and was obliged to give up within ten minutes of the finish. The peal was successfully rung on February 21st. Altogether the bells ware rung muffled for approximately 12 hours apart from Sunday ringing.

BELFRY  GOSSIP

We regiet that we have not been able to publish all the quarter peals sent in in connection with the memorial services to King George VI. because of pressure of space First reiections were those which did not comply with the usual form:-Name of town or village, date rung and method. When dealing with hundreds we expect this simple co-operation. The compilation of the quarter peal pages has meant many hours of additional work.

By ringing the second in the peal at Wollaston on February 16th Mr. J. H. Pagett has now 'completed the circle ${ }^{\text {- }}$ in that tower.

The peal of Minor rung by the Oxford University Society at St. Mary-the-Virgin's on February 16 th was the first peal on the bells of the University Church by the University Society and was rung by a band all of whom are 'in statu pupillari.'

Any old member of the Oxford University Society who can join the Easter tour at Leicester from April 14th to April 20th will be heartily welcome and are requested to contac! J. B Guy, University College, Oxford, for further details,

Two peal attempts in Hertfordshire for the Royal funeral were unsuccessful. The first, at Great Gaddesden, was lost through a roje slipping wheel, and the second, at Apsley End, by a choirboy switching the lights off at the main.

A muffled peal to the memory of Samuei J. Hector was rung at Trowbridge Parish Church on February 23rd. The band, gathered from a wide area included officers of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, the general secretary of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, the chairman and secretary of the Swindon Branch of the Glousester and Bristol Diocesan Association and representatives of four Bath towers.

THE WHITECHAPEL BELL FOUNDRY MEARS & STAINBANK

THREE DEDICATION CEREMONIES

BRAMLEY, HANTS
Some five years ago a fund was started for the restoration of our bells at Bramley Church, Hants. In 1638, soon after the present brick tower had been built to replace an earlier wooden structure, our five largest bells were cast by Ellis Knight, of Reading. These five bells were rehung in a new oak frame and a sixth bell added in 1883 by John Warner and Sons.

In view of the interest taken in the church bells at Bramley-the 16 th century churchwarden accounts are full of items relating to the bells-it was suggested that we should iry and raise enough money to add two smaller bells to complete the octave. From the outset we met with difficulties. It was found that the beams supporting the bell frame were unsound; inspection disclosed that the floors in the tower were in an advanced state of decay; consequently the estimated cost of the work was much higher than we had anticipated. However. ' having put our hands to the plough' we could not turn back. After careful consideration we decided to place the work in the hands of Messrs. John Taylor and Co.

Eventually the bells were dismantled and despatched to the foundry in February of last year. On a day in May we saw our two new bells cast. The bells were returned to the tower in January. The six bells, retuned, were rehung with new fittings in new framework supported on heavy steel girders and the two smaller bells added to complete the ring of eight.
The dedication of the two new bells took place on Saturday, February 16th. When the service started every seat in our little Norman church was filled. The Right Rev. Bishop L. H. Lang, assisted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. W. Greenstreet) and Canon Jeudwine, conducted the service. During the service the churchwardens escorted the clergy to the tower. Here Mr. P. L. Taylor, representing the bellfounders, handed the ropes of the two new bells to the churchwardens. They presented the ropes to the Bishop and requested him to dedicate the bells 'To the Glory of God and to the use of His Holy Church.'
After blessing the bells the Bishop handed back the bell ropes to the Vicar. He was instructed to see that the bells were set apart from all profane and unhallowed uses.' As the clergy rcturned to their places we Bramley ringers rang rounds on the eight bells for the first time. Another hymn was sung, the Bishop gave his address and his Benediction and the congregation left the church to the music of Stedman Triples rung by a band drawn from visiting ringers.
Tea was served in the Village Hall for some 60 visitors from the following towers :-Aldershot. Basingstoke (All Saints' and St. Michael's), Bucklebury. Deane. Ditchling. Farnborough (Hants). Guildford Cathedral. Hurst, Loughborough. Mortimer (St. Mary's). Overton. Reading (St. Mary's). Sherrorne St. John. Silchester. Sonning. Thatcham Winchester Maurice's). Wolverton, Wootton (St. Lawrence's). During the evening the bells were kept ringing and everyone expressed their pleasure both at the tone of the bells and at the way they handled. Mr. Taylor must have been well pleased with the congratulations he rereived.
When finished, the work will have cost us £1.300. Towards this large sum of money the ringers have raised $£ 575$. We wish to record our gratitude to the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild for their grants amounting to £20.

We now have a very nice ring of eight bells in the key of $G$ with a tenor 3 feet $4 \frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter and of 12 cwt. 14 lb . weight. Each bell bears an inscription as follows:-
Treble.-Praise the Lord O my soul.
Second-Forget not all His benefits.
Third.-I was glad when they said we will go into the house of The Lord.
Fourth.- O, Come hither and hearken all ye that feare God. 1638.
Fifth.-This is the house of God and the gate of heaven. 1638.
Sixth. - O enter into His gates with thanksgiving. 1638.
Seventh.-And O worship the Lord in the beautie of holines. 1638.
Tenor.-For holines becometh His house for ever. Amen. 1638
W. CLIFT.

WESTON TURVILLE, BUCKS

Something like 50 years have elapsed since the five bells of Weston Turville, near Aylesbury, last rang, until their recent restoration by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Ltd.
It was certainly a red-letter day in the history of the parish on Sunday, February 24th, when the Bishop of Buckingham attended morning service to dedicate the bells, assisted by the Vicar, the Rev. H. W. Wheeler.
Four members of the local band have been instructed by Mr. H. C Jones, of Ellesborough, and they rang rounds immediately after the dedication. assisted by Mr. Roland Biggs, of Hughenden.
Other ringers present included Mr. Alan R. Pink (Oxford). Mr. Walter Lee (Hnghenden) and ringers from Wendover. The bellfounders were represented by Mr. A. Patrick Cannon, and 120 Reverse St. Bartholomew Doubles was rung by :-H. C. Jones 1, R. Biggs 2, W. Lee 3, A. P. Cannon 4. A. R. Pink (conductor) 5.

The bells have been iuned and rchung with ball bearings, in a new iron frame, together with new fittings. The tenor weighs $14 \frac{3}{4} \mathrm{cwt}$. in F shard.

THE MERCERS COMPANY'S GIFT TO NAZEING CHURCH

All Saints' Church, Nazeing, was crowded on Saturday afternoon. February 16 th, for the service of thanksgiving for the restoration of the bells and the dedication of the new treble by the Bishop of Barking (the Right Rev. Hugh Gough)

The Rev. H. F. Hawkins (Vicar of Nazeing) conducted the service before the dedication and the Rev. C. Scott-Little (Deputy Master of the Essex Association) acted as the Bishop's chaplain.
In the congregation were eight members of the Worshipful Company of Mercers, who had presented the new bell as a memorial to the late Captain Archdale Palmer, J.P., a member and former Master of the Company. Members of the Nazeing Parish Council were present and relatives of Captain Palmer including his niece, Miss Wellesley, and three cousins, the Earl of Selbourne, the Honourable Lewis Palmer and Mr. Stuart Palmer.
Ringers from ali over the county and surrounding Districts included representatives from Saffron Walden, Thaxted, Romford, North Mymms. Chadwell Heath, Waltham Abbey, Goffs Oak, Cheshunt. Hatfield, Edmonton, Broxbourne. Harlow Common. Roydon, Hertford. Benington, Woodford, Wanstead and Bengeo.
The lessons were read by Dr. P. T. SpencerPhillips, J.P.. Master of the Essex Association, and Captain H. S. Totton, R.N., Master of the Worshipful Company of Mercers.
During the singing of the hymn 'Come, ye people, raise the Anthem.' the Bishop moved in procession led by the crucifer to the tower at the western end of the church, escorted by his chaplain. the Vicar and the churchwardens. Here the Bishop received the five ropes of the restored kells from Mr. A. Patrick Cannon, representing the bellfounders. Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. Ltd., and the rope of the new treble from the Master of the Mercers Company. and. after dedicating the bells 'to the Glory of God and the service of His Holy Church." he presented the ropes to the Vicar who in turn passed them to Mr. C. W. Sams, the captain of the Nazeing band. Whilst the procession was returning to the chancel the dedication rounds were rung by the following band:-Miss Dorothy Mansfield 1.C. W. Sams 2, K. C. S. Wood 3. Miss Elsie Burton 4. W. C. Mansfield 5. R. C. L. Wood 6

In his address the Bishop said '... although in normal times this service would be a time of rejoicing, at this time our thoughts are tinged with sadness at the death of His late Majesty King George VI.' He said he could see a connection between the dedication of the bells and the dedication which King George VI. had made of his own life to service of God and the nation. After the Bishop had given the Blessing the service ended with the singing of 'God Save the Queen.'
The collection amounted to over $£ 5$ which was given to the Essex Association Bell Restoration Fund.
After the service the Bishop and visiting clergy, members of the Mercers Company, the visiting ringers, the relations of Captain Palmer and other visitors were entertained to tea in the Church Hall by the local Guild. About 70 people were present. During the course of tea the Vicar thanked the Mercers Company for their generosity in providing the money for the new bell. The Master, in reply, paid a glowing tribute to the memory of Captain Palmer who, he said. was a very revered man in the Worshipful Company and that it gave them very great pleasure in giving the bell. Ringing was then resumed in the tower under the direction of Mr. B. G. Burton, the District Master of the North-Western District.
The Nazeing kells were originally installed in 1779 by the Whitechapel Foundry and were rehung in 1900 by the same firm. The full cost of restoration and the provision of a new bell amounted to $£ 590$.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

Wirral Branch

In spite of dull, damp, November-like weather, the annual meeting held at St. Mary's, Eastham, on February 16th, attracted a gathering of 66 ringers and friends. The very finetoned ring of six was kept going during the afternoon, and after the business meeting, in methods up to London Surprise Minor. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. Wright Davies)) who gave an interesting address based on an extract from one of Lieut Bowers' letters; Bowers perished on Scott's illfated Antarctic expedition.

The company was entertained to an excellent tea (wedding breakfast, North Country style. would be a better description) in the Church School. The business meeting followed with the chairman, Mr. J. Cooke, officiating. Members stood in silent tribute to the memory of the late Dr. J. C. E. Simpson. who learnt his ringing in Wirral, and also of Mc. T. Rye, churchwarden at Eastham.

The statement of accounts showed credit balances in both general and social funds. The hon. secretary's report revealed that there had been a slight decline of interest in ringing affairs and that the "Ringing Renaissance" dating from the lifting of 'the Ban' appeared to be over. Twelve monthly meetings had been held and there was an average attendance of 47 . The third annual dinner, entertainment and dance held at the Coach and Horses Inn Moreton, in March, had been attended by 107 ringers and friends. A coachload of members had attended the Guild Annual Festival at Stockport and in June two coaches had been engaged for a half-day outing, visiting Warburton, Rostherne. Witton and Davenham. Once again the annual social proved very popular and a company of over 200 had been present.

Total membership had slightly increased from 154 to 158 . Performances worthy of mention were:- Peal of 14 Spliced Surprise Minor methods at Bidston by Sunday service band and a peal of 21 Spliced. Surprise Minor methods at Birkenhead. being the greatest number of Surprise methods yet rung to a peal for the Guild.

New officers elected were:-Mr. H. S. Bailey, auditor: Mr. C. B Penberton, Assistant Ringing Master: Mr. A. T. Sutton, representative on Guild Committee. The retiring officers were warmly thanked for their work during the year.

It was resolved that the next annual meeting should be held at Neston, provided the bells were available.

The meeting closed with an omnibus vote of thanks to all at Eastham responsible for arrangements. Mr. G. F.-Pickthall responded on behalf of Eastham ringers and expressed great pleasure at being once again able to welcome members to his tower. Mr. A. L. Shepherd, Eastham Ringing Master, also spoke, thanking Branch members for assistance given during the past three years and stated that their labours were now being rewarded as methods up to Treble Bob Minor were now being rung in place of the plain course of Grandsire Doubles formerly rung.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

The annual lunch of the Oxford University Society was held in the Forum Restaurant. Oxford, on Saturday, February 2nd. Mr. Albert Walker was present as the guest of honour, and the University of Bristol Society was represented by Mr. J. Worrall. Many old members were present and it was very pleasant to meet them ringing in Oxford again. Methods rung and standards of ringing both varied considerably during the day. but in the evening a successful attempt at a peal of Kent Royal "in hand' closed an enjoyable day.

RINGING OVERSEAS

In forwarding a peal of Doubles in three methods rung at St. Andrew's. Walkerville, Adelaide, South Australia, Mr. Philip L. Cooper writes:-
No doubt hundreds of peals have been rung in the last fortnight in England in memory of the late King and this is at least the second in Australia this week. Excluding the tenor ringer, who is 39 years of agc, the average age of our band is 18 years. We have only been change ringing since 1950 and to-day's peal went through beautifully with only a few slight lapses caused by fatigue.
The temperature was about 85 degrees during the peal which began after a State-wide two minutes silence at noon. The striking was exceptionally good and we are very pleased with ourselves
We are eagerly looking forward to being able to ring an open peal for the Coronation and perhaps another for the Royal tour of Australia.

IN HOBART

From Hobart, Tasmania, comes by this week's post the news of a quarter peal of 1,280 changes in honour of the 15 th anniversary of the opening of the tower of St. David's Cathedral. Hobart. This was rung on December 7 th. the ringers bcing:- J. Millington 1, P. Dalwood 2, D. E. Kirby 3, J. Biggs (conductor) 4. R. Hay 5. L. B. Uhr-Henry 6. This was the first quarter pcal of the Society and the treble was rung without a stay.

THE LADIES' GUILD

A very successful meeting of the Central District of the Ladies' Guild was held at St. John's, Stanmore, on February 23rd. and was very well attended. The Guild was made very welcome at the tower.

After tea the business meeting was held in the tower during which the annual meeting was decided for June 7th at Milton-nextGravesend. The arrangements for the annual meeting of the Ladies' Guild, this year to be held in London on July 5th, were discussed and put in hand.

Excellent striking and a wide range of methods, from the 'four standards' to spliced, brought a very enjoyable afternoon and evening to a close.

Thanks are due to the tower-keeper for extending a hearty welcome, and the incumbent for allowing the bells to be rung. M. F. J.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World' of March 8th, 1912  ODD CHANGES

Birmingham can boast of two of the most remarkable products of the ringing Exercise. One is Mr. John Carter's ringing machine, the ingenuity of which is so extraordinary that it almost passes belief. . . . The other . . . . is Mr. Harry Withers, the man who, without having seen the figures of the peal, took down correctly all the course-ends of the record peal of London Surprise, and who "called' a peal of Superlative while starding outside the tower and pressing an electric button which rang a bell up in the ringing chamber when bobs had to be made.

For the first time a peal has been rung upon church bells in which husband and wife have taken part, and this distinction has fallen to Mr., and Mrs. Robert Whittington, of Cranleigh', Surrey. Hitherto the only instance of husband and wife ringing in a peal together has been the handbell peals rung by Mr. and Mrs. George Williams.
[The latter statement was corrected the following week Mr. and Mrs F. C. Lambert, of Halesworth, Suffolk, having taken part in two peals of Doubles on handbells in 1895-96, some four years before Mr. and Mrs. Williams' first together.]

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

YOUNG RINGERS AND HEAVY BELLS
Dear Sir,-The letter signed by 'Nervous prompts me to write a few words regarding the apparently growing practice of allowing ringers of tender age to show their prowess on heavy bells. Often I read that such and such a bell has been rung by a young person, and my thoughts go back some 20 to 30 years when, as a fit man, possessed of more than his fair share of physical strength. I used to strain every muscle țo put that bell in its proper place. The truth is. of course, that these youngsters may swing the bell, but ring it properly they do not. Any good ringer who rings on the back end of even a light ring knows that to ring such bells properly, even in rounds, requires considerably more effort than merely to swing them. Such a practice only serves to encourage the type of 'backender' who, on the word ' Go,' stays more or less put, while the other bells, with varying success, just fall over him I am reminded of a large stone in a mountain torrent, whenever I hear this sort of ringing. except that it doesn't sound so well.
Regarding Mr. Hooper's letter. a number of ringers asked me to give my opinion in the matter of service ringing on Sunday. February 17th. I replied that, in my view, the bells should be rung open. Apart from custom and belfry usage. it does not seem fitting that people should be called to worship by muffled bells. Muffled ringing could quite reasonably, however, have been done after service.-Truly yours.

Chilcompton, Bath.

LEAP YEAR THOUGHTS

Dear Sir.-As last week's 'Ringing World appeared on February 29th. I may keep it as a souvenir, for providing it continues as at present. I'll be lucky to see another. Budding composers and future centenarians can work on a few date 'touches' or even a plain course of Major for beginners, or Treble Boh if you like. for first pealers, say-no splicing necessary, though possible, but not round at hand. As leap year comes round our thoughts will always turn affectionately to the late Maurice F. R. Hibbert, who enjoyed a birthday every four years and, typical of him, once remarked, 'I was lucky to be born at all.' I think it was February two years ago he reminded the Exercise a method existed called 'Scientific Triples ' (which appeared in print later), but apart from old dust in ' Bell News,' he never expected a peal to be knocked off.
The late Maurice Swinfield called one peal of Stedman Triples (Law James' 7 -part No. 2); also William H. Barber (Law James' 7-part No. 1). Maurice Hibbert called six such compositions with no observation bell Have we a conductor still with us of equal claims?

STEEL OR WOODFN FRAMES ?

Dear Sir-Apropos the announcement that there is rot in the nearly 500 -years-old oat timbers in the bell frame of the Curfew Tower at Windsor the following paragraph appeared in the Daily Telegraph

- Despite the difficulties of obtaining good seasoned oak, it has been decided not to use steel for suspending the bells. Bells hung from timber have a better tonc.'
I have always understood that the difference between a steel and wooden frame is negligible from the tone point of vicw. It would perhaps be interesting to hear the opinions of the more experienced members of the Exercise on this and also whether the statement could be backed up by scientific data-Yours sincerely.

EAST BERGHOLT BELLS

Dear Sir,-In reply to the query from Australia regarding East Bergholt bells, we do ring changes on them. The treble starts off and holds over the 2 nd, then the 3 rd . and so on till she passes the tenor, then she leads again (wrong) and then passes each bell in turn till she comes home again having lost a whole pull in the process, in order to be at the same stroke as the rest. The treble signals by hand to the other bells when he wants to change ; as the noise is so great shouting is useless.
In the bellcage there is a board which states: On April 21st. 1821, was rung on these bells 120 changes of Singles by making the tenor the quick hunt and the treble the half ditto. Then follows the names of the ringers. Most ringers think it means Grandsire, but whatever it was. it was a wonderful performance. Owing to the noise it had to be learnt off by heart.Yours truly, W. D. BAILEY.
Stratford St. Mary, near Colchester
MRS. PAILING'S THANKS
Dear Sir ,-May I, on behalf of my two sons and myself thank all ringers who contributed to the Memorial Fund, which I received yesterday, $£ 163$ 1s.
It will be of considerable help in educating the boys and I am more than gratcful. I fecl I must say a special 'thank you' to the Nottingham District of the Southwell Guild for all their kindness and help in the belfry.-Yours sincerely,
M. I. PAILING (Mrs.).

Arnold, Notts.

LONG PEALS OF MINOR

Sir.-I myself called a 10,080 Minor over 40 year ago (Easter Monday. 1911, in 5 hours and 55 minutes), at Ratby. Leics. The Vicar gave a peal board for this and erected it in the porch where-as he remarked at the timeeveryone going into church would see it, and not merely a few ringers who go to the belfry Several other 10,080 's have been rung, and in my 'History and Art of Change Ringing,' 1 record a 15,120 at Wath. Yorks. in 8 hours and 20 minutes on Shrove Tuesday, February 27th. 1816.

Leicester

Dear Sir-A peal of Minor of the same length as the one at Tunstall, namely, 10,080 changes in 13 methods and in the somewhat shorter time of 5 hours and 24 minutes was rung for the Bedfordshire Association at Fmberton on June 23 rd, 1923, conducted by the late Charles W. Clarke.

St. Andrew's University Society

The inaugural meeting of the St. Andrew's University Society of Change Ringers was held on February 5th when the following officers were elected:-Master Donald R. Marshall; hon. secretary. Miss M. L. Hawksley; hon. treasurer, Alan H. Batten.
For some time past members have attended practices with the local band at St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral. Dundec, and have been holding regular handbell practices in St. Andrew's.
The Society's first official ringing was, unfortunately. an attempt for a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Doubles. on February 15th. in memory of His late Majesty, King George VI. Owing to the inexperience of the band and the weight of the bells, only a half peal was scored.

Norfolk Churchwarden's 80th Birthday

On February 23 rd Mr. Ronald E. Browne, churchwarden at Loddon, Norfolk. celebrated his 80th birthday, and to honour the occasion members of the Norwich Diocesan Association of Ringers rang a peal of Superlative Surprise Major on the bells of the Parish Church.

Mr. Browne, himself an honorary member of the Association. has been associated with local ringing for over 50 years and although not aspiring to great heights as a ringer, often helped to make up a band on Sundays by ringing the treble to call-changes. He is also a member of the choir.
After the peal, the ringers, their wives and families, together with other friends, were entertained to tea by Mr and Mrs. Browne.

OBITUARY

MR A. J. CORRIGAN

We regret to announce the passing of Mr . Andrew Jame Corrigan, aged 67 years, the dearly-loved husband of Mrs. Jessie Corrigan, of Bitton, near Bristol, on February 25th, after a short illness. The funeral was at Bristol Crematorium on February 27th, and besides the family mourners, the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association were represented by the following :-Mr. John G. Jefferies (Master) ; Mr. F. G. Leaker (vice-president and chairman of the Bristol City Branch, of which Mr. Corrigan was a member); Mr. C. R. Harding (vicepresident and chairman of the Bristol Rural Branch); Mr. A. Prince (member of the Management Committce) ; Mr. Oliver E. Hill (Dursley): Mr. Allan A. Hilliar (Bristol); and Mr. Frank Skidmore (hon. secretary). The floral tributes included one from the officers and members of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association.

Andrew Corrigan was a well-known personality in the Exercisc throughout the United Kingdom and Ireland. He hailed from Ireland, having been educated in Dublin, and was taught to ring by none other than Gabriel Lindoff. He came to England and was particularly well known and respected in Norwich and the Southampton area, where he lived for a short time before coming to Bristol about 1938.

His peals, although no accurate record has been kept, numbered hundreds, many of which were rung for the Irish Association in Dublin, especially at St. Patrick's Cathedral, where he was a member for a great many years. He was also a member of St. Stephen's Guild, Bristol.

A printer by profession, he rendered valuable service to the Exercise by his publications of Surprise methods, which are widely known. The Gloucester and Bristol Association have lost a good friend who, through his professional and practical assistance, had made it possible for the Association to continue to issue its annual reports, despite the high cost of printing in these days. In fact he was working on the report for 1951 when he had the seizure from which he never recovered and this report will be his memorial. The work and time that Andrew Corrigan spent in the interest of ringing and ringers had made him loved and revered throughout the Exercise.

FRANK SKIDMORE.

MR. T. H. SURTEES

The Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association lost its oldest member when Thomas Henry Surtees, of Shotley Bridge, Co. Durham. died at the age of 84 on February 10 th. His membership dated back to 1886.

He was a member of the Benfieldside bans in its heyday of Surprise Minor ringing and his only paal was one in seven Surprise Minor methods. He had not been able to do any ringing of recent years and last rang for one of the victory celebrations during the war.

The funeral took place on February 13th at St. Cuthbert's, Benfieldside, conducted by the fieldside, where he was born. The Association was represented at the funeral and special ringing was arranged at Blackhill and Benfieldside.

Mr. Surtees rose to be manager of the Shotley Bridge Branch of the Co-operative Society. He had many hobbies in addition to his ringing and these included fishing, photography and cricket. He did much to bring happiness to his fellows by various efforts in Shotley Bridge his fellows by various efforts 'in Shotley Bridge and a crowded church at his funeral, with some mourners having to stand outside, tells of the high esteem in which be was held in the Jocality.

MR. ERNEST WALLACE

The sudden death of Mr. Ernest Wallace came as a great shock to his ringing friends in the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association and more especially the Newcastle Cathedral Guild.

He died in hospital following severe head injuries sustained in an accident involving a private car while he was cycling along Jesmond Road. Newcastle, on February 13th. The funeral was private at Heaton Cemetery, following Requiem Mass at St. Theresa's R.C. Church. Heaton, on February 18th. Mr. Wallace was only 30 years of age and he leaves a widow to whom is expressed deepest sympathy.

Ernest began his ringing career at All Saints', Newcastle, and, after a short stay with ihe Fenham band, he eventually became a member of the Newcastle Cathedral Guild. He developed into a first-class ringer both on tower bells and handbells. Under the tuition of the late Mr. W. H. Barber, and in partnership with Mr. Chris Hetherington, he was an expert tune ringer with four bells 'in hand' and there will be many ringers who will recall how these two had delighted audiences at the Association's annual meetings. On tower bells he was principally noted for his ability with complicated touches of Stedman.

Ernest was not a prolifiz peal ringer. The time that he was able to devote to ringing was. for the past few years, restricted by his spare-time study and. later, evening-class tuition at Rutherford College. He obtained his B.Sc. by these studies. Nevertheless, the list of his 44 peals, which is appended, shows a good variety and several in the more advanced methods, many of these latter being rung with little or no previous practice. He 'completed the circle" at St. John's, Newcastle, with his last peal and he had made good progress in his ambition to do the same at Newcastle Cathedral, having rung all but 1, 2 and 4 of the thirtzen.
Ringers will mourn the untimely passing not only of a first-class ringer with an unbounded enthusiasm for bells and ringing, but also a fine character and good companion, and will find the gap that he has left very hard to fill.

An attempt for a peal on the night of his funeral came to grief through a broken rope, but after this had been spliced 1,280 Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung half-muffled at St. John's, Newcastle, by C. McGuiness 1, K. Arthur 2, W. E. Robinson 3, J. A. Ainsworth 4 , $\mathbf{E}$ N. Harrison 5, T. W. Crowe 6, E‘. P. $\underset{\text { E N. Harrison } 5, ~ T . ~ W . ~ C r o w e ~ 6, ~ E ́ . ~ P . ~}{\text { E }}$ attempt is to be made for a memorial peal.

His peals are as folows:-

RINGERS' INSURANCE

ALTHOUGH bell ringing cannot be regarded as a dangerous occupation, it has a certain amount of hazard. Accidents in the ringing chamber are usually trivial, but they can be serious, and ringers would be well advised to find out the terms of the policy which, with the best intentions in the world, the authorities of their particular church take out on their behalf. Does it cover anything except mishaps in the ringing chamber? Does it indemnify a ringer against accidents on his way to or from the church on occasions of ringing? Does it cover him while attending organised ringing in a tower other than his own? Does it cover learners, not yet members of the band, and does it cover the teacher against a possible action alleging negligence on his part?

So much is done thoughtlessly, particularly in the bell chamber. No factory would be allowed to have its operatives take such, risks as are taken by men who climb about a bell frame when the bells are up. It is a common practice in one tower for the ringers to raise the bells early on the last night of the Old Year, to muffle them when up, and to return to the tower at 11.30 , to ring muffled until a few minutes of midnight. Then the more active members of the band swarm over the frame, remove the muffles and descend to the ringing chamber, which is fairly well packed with non-ringers, there to ring the bells open. The frame is of wood and there are no handholds whatsoever. This practice is, to say the least, very risky. A slip, or a failure of the light, no uncommon thing, might well lead to a fatality.

Some twenty-five years ago, a ringer slipped on leaving the tower where he had been ringing. Apparently, he was not insured against that sort of thing, and although he was incapacitated for many weeks, he received no compensation. The matter was discussed at a branch meeting and eventually at a general meeting of his Association. An insurance company was approached and a policy was issued to the Association, and some thirty towers took advantage of the scheme which, from an actuary's point of view, was very generous. Not only were insured ringers covered in respect of their own towers against accident in ringing or bell chamber, but they were covered on all occasions of organised ringing elsewhere and on their journeys to and from these meetings. After a year, however, the company revised the terms. No indemnity for travel was allowed, unless by public service vehicle, and only the named steeplekeeper was covered against accident in the bell chamber. This appeared to be no better a policy than those in existence, and the omnibus policy was not renewed. But whatever the policy, the terms of it might be invalidated if a ringer met with an accident while taking a known but avoidable risk, such as removing muffles or changing a rope while the bells were up.

Ringers can do a great deal to safeguard themselves, and it is their duty to do so. A pole with a metal loop at one end can be made so that clappers can be turned from a safe distance. A little ingenuity can devise an apparatus by means of which clappers can be turned from the ringing chamber. For less than fifty shillings a year a ringer can get a personal accident policy, the premium varying with the amount of hazard occurring in his occupation or pursuits, the benefits are very reasonable, and the policy covers all kinds of accidents. The outlay is surely a wise investment on the part of anyone.

MEMORIAL RINGING

THERE were 190 peals rung to the memory of our late Sovereign King George VI., compared with 174 rung to the memory of his illustrious father, King George V., in 1936. An analysis of the peals shows that they fall in the following categories: Twelve bell peals 9 , ten bells 11 , eight bells 90 , and five and six bells 80 . The comparative figures in 1936 were : Twelve bells 3 , ten bells 9 , eight bells 95 , five and six bells 67.

Readers will probably have noted the preponderance of the four standard methods. All the twelve-bell peals were Stedman Cinques, which produces the best music. Grandsire Caters with seven peals was most favoured in the tenbell towers. Regarding eight-bell peals, the methods were Grandsire 35, Plain Bob 25, Surprise methods 10, Stedman 7, Kent Treble Bob 7, Double Norwich Court Bob 3, Oxford Bob Triples 2, Oxford Bob Major 1.

A gratifying feature about this record is the large number of first peals. In a peal of Plain Bob Royal at Ossett, Yorks, there were no fewer than five of the company ringing their first peal. Many of those participating were not regular peal ringers. The record does indicate that in no sense is interest in the art of change ringing diminishing and that the coming generation will worthily uphold the traditions of the past.

Our feature article this week is of Crayford Parish Church, Kent. It is our pleasure to announce the 500th peal rung in this tower and we should like to hear of any other tower with a similar record. We are indebted to Mr. E. A. Barnett for the article. The statistical details indicate personal pride of the riagers. We know that very many towers keep their peal books and succeeding generations should see that these records are preserved.

The peal of Grandsire Triples at All Saints' Church. Hereford, on February 15th, was Mr. John Rock's 100th peal.
The peal of Grandsire Triples at Buckingham on Februaty 15 th was conducted by Mr. William Yates and not as stated.

Mr. Ti. Michell, captain of Pucklechurch tower, near Bristol, has tolled at this church for the death of four sovereigns.
Stradbroke bells are now at the Croydon foundry. Two new trebles are to be provided and the frame is to be extended and new fittings provided.

The 'Western Mail,' Cardiff, had an action picture of Mr. J. W. Jones ringing at St. Matthew's, Dyffryn. Neath, on November 1st. This 85 -year-old veteran has now completed his life's ambition of ringing in every tower in the Diocese of Llandaff and Monmouth.

We hope to publish at an carly date a series of three articles on the life of Mr . James Robert Haworth, who, 100 years ago. was the Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths. Mr. E. Alex Young, the author, knew Haworth personally.

GOSSIP

At the annual church mecting at Lyme Regis, Canon C. C. Cox (Vicar) made an appropriate reference to his ringers He said: "Lyme Regis tower has become well known all over the county for the practice of advanced methods which undoubtedly draws ringers to this district for their holidays. It is quite true to say there is not another tower west of Brighton or south of Bristol where a higher standard of ringing can be found. It would be some reward to the band of ringers if the restoration of the bells, for which a fund has been successfully launched, could be accomplished.'
The Master of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, Preb. A. J. Hook, has rung his first quarter peal, at the age of 75 . He rang his bell well with no spoken assistance.

An exterminator of bats in the belfry, Mr. Hooper, appeared in 'Picture Page' television feature last week. His advice was at nightfall to block up all holes in the belfry and catch the bats by using a butterfly-net. Mr. Hooper admitted that he had never heard of using a stuffed owl to keep bats away.

On the bells on which he learnt to ring, at Loddon, Norfolk, Mr. Ronald E. Browne heard on February 23rd a peal of Superlative in honour of his 80th birthday. He afterwards entertained the members of the band and their wives to tea. Mr. Browne's family have been coachbuilders and motor engineers for over a century.

Some wesks back we mentioned that a welcome home quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor was rung for Mr. R. J. Stannard, home on leave from the Royal Navy. This weck we learn that it was rung at West Stow, Suffolk. The ringers were W. R. Richwood 1, A. G. Ballam 2. R. J. Stannard 3, E. Foote 4, E. A. Murrell 5, A. F. Ballam (conductor) 6.

INTERESTING RECORD OF ST. PAULINUS', CRAYFORD

IN a letter in "The Ringing World ' of October 22 nd, 1943 , it was suggested that more peals had been rung at St. Paulinus', Crayford, than at any other church. As this was not disputed, it is reasonable to suppose that February 23 rd was the firsi occasion on which a total of 500 peals on one ring/ of bells had been reached, and it is also thought that, by taking part in exactly half of these, Mr. Edwin Barnett (who called his second peal of Grandsire Triples for the event, the other having been in 1907) has also created an individual record.

CRAYFORD PARISH CHURCH

The first peal on the bells, which were augmented from five to eight in 1876 by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, was also Holt's 10-part peal of Grandsire Triples on November 17th, 1877. so that the 500 have taken just over 74 years to amass. Except for a 6,048 of Bob Major in 1887 all have been of normal lingth, but an unusual one was on Whit Sunday, 1883. of a hich it is recorded that the bells were struck off at ten minutes to five in the morning and were brought round in good style at twenty to eight.' Not surprisingly, this does not seem to have been repeated.
In several years over 20 peals have been rung, the highest total being 25 in 1934 . Fiftyseven different methods or combinations of methods have been included, and the aim has been to cater for all tastes. Over the years, efforts to maintain a competent Sunday service band have naturally met with varying success, but of the 430 ringers who have taken part in the peals at least 80 have at some time or other been members of the local band, 67 or more, not all Crayford ringers, of course. have accomplished their first peal there.

As might be expected, individual peal totals have been high. the 30 undermentioned ringers having taken part in 25 or more. The years of first and last peals, and the number conducted, are given

Seven different Associations or Societies have been credited with peals on the bells, the vast majority, of course (446), having been for the Kent County Association. Thirty-one of these have been 'firsts.' of which 15 were conducted by the late E. Barnett, sen

BELL FRAMES AND TONE  Bellfounders' Protest

The following letter has been sent to the Editor of 'The Daily Telegraph' by Mr. A. P. Cannon on behalf of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. regarding the statement that 'Bells hung from timber have a better tone':-
Dear Sir.-There was a paragraph which appeared under the heading Rot in Windsor Castle Belfry, in your issue of February 28th, which stated that 'Bells hung from timber have a better tone.' We. as bellfounders, are anxious to refute this statement entirely.

Although timber has undoubtedly artistic merits, and has proved to be long lasting, we believe there is no tonal advantage whatsoever in bells hung from a wooden frame.

In the case of a metal frame, the bells are insulated by leather or timber pads between the headstock and the bell and so they are, in effect, hung from non-metallic material in any case.
Good seasoned timber is now very difficult to obtain and within the last 25 years the majority of frames built have been made of metal. A big advantage is that the nuts and bolts on a metal frame will remain much tighter than on one made of timber, and consequently the structure will 1 emain more rigid. A metal frame is also of much greater strength to the walls of the tower, in that its inertia takes the thrust of the bells, and the girders supporting the cage act as tie-rods. It is also not liable to attack from insects. such as the death watch beetle, which kreates hovoc amongst wood frames.

BELLS IN ENGLISH LIFE

W$E$ meet with other efforts in the latter half of the seventeenth century to revive and perpetuate the old custom of ringing the 'day, and 'curfew' bells. Thus John Rogers, gentleman. of Haresfield, Glos, by his will dated January 22nd, 1695, gave :-

All that my house and garden, called Starmead House, in the parish of Haresfield. which I lately bought upon this trust and confidence that they (his trustees) shall therein place and dwell the Parish Clerke if he shall be sufficient, or other person able to ring the biggest bell in the church at nine of the clock at night and five of the clock in the morning every day for halfe an houre att all times between the Feast of All Saints and the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Saint Mary for ever: the person soe putt in the house giveing security to the said Trustees to performe the said service and to pay five sh jlings per annum to the said Trustees for the building and repairing of the said house $\ldots$ etc.
From a document in possession of $\mathrm{J} . \mathrm{D} . \mathrm{T}$. Niblett. F.S.A., of Haresfield Court, the clerk still holds the cottage on the above tenure although the conditions are not rigidly carried out.

MID-DAY ANGELUS

Although an attentpt was made to bring the mid-day Angelus into use in England early in the sixteenth century it was not, as in France. generally heard in this country. As already noted at Cropredy, Oxon. provision was made in 1512 for the ringing of the Ave bell at noon. The daily ringing of a single bell at 6 a.m., r.oon and 6 p.m. at Fishlake. Hatfield and Thorne, Yorks, and in other parishes may be curvivals of the Ave or Angelus bell at mid-day as well as in the morning and evening. The Angelus is a prayer to the Virgin introduced liy Urban II. (Pope from 1088 to 1099) in 1095 as an intercession for absent Crusaders. It begins with the words 'Angelus Domini Nuntia vir Mariz? -The Angel of the Lord announced unto Mary. Then follows the Salutation to Gabrisl-Ave Maria-etc.

The prayer contains three verses and each ends with the Salutation. Ave Maria, and is recited three times a day, at the ringing of the Angelus bell so named from the first word of the prayer. After the Crusades the custom languished until in 1327 Pope John XXII. ordered all the faithful to recite the Ave Maria at each ringing of the bell Other names are Ave Maria be!l and Vesper bell, the latter being given by Byron in his paraphrase of a passage in Dante's "Purgatorio."

- Soft hour, which wakes the wish and melts the heart.
Or fills with love the pilgrim on his way.
As the far bell of Vesper makes him start,
Seeming to weep the dying day's decay.'
These religious customs are peculiarly beautiful in the land in which they are practised and. as the melody of a sweet-toned bell vibrates on the air. call forth the tender sentiments of love and adoration.

Longfellow more than once refers to this bell in describing the peaceful home of Evangeline in Arcadie

' Anon from the belfry

Softly the Angelus sounded, and over the roofs of the village.
Columns of pale blue smoke, like clouds of incense ascending.
Rose from a hurdred hearths. the homes of pease and contentment.'
And later:-
Softly over the village the hell of the Angelus sounded'

Everyone is familiar with the beautiful piccure of Millet's in which we see two Norman peasants, with bowed heads, saying the Angelus, as they hear the village bell in the distant steeple ringing across the fields that are growing dim in the coming twilight. This recalls the passage in Longfellow's 'Castles in Spain

The peasants in the fields, that stay
Their toil, to cross themselves and prav,
When from the belfry at mid-day
The Angelus they hear.,

MODERN EXPLANATION

We have already noted that the mid-day Ave or Angelus was seldom rung in England, but there are many places in which a bell has been rung daily at this hour in recent times; we must. therefore, look for a modern explanation of the custom. It is called the "Jinner bell" at Milton Malsor, Northants, and the "lahourer's bell ' at Spratton in that county. It must be. therefore, assumed it was instituted to call the labourers in the fields to dinner. In both cases it was rung at noon, the ordinary working-man's dinner hour, as also at Brailes. Warwicks; Turvey. Beds: Earls Barton and Finedon. Northants: and Kimbolton, Hunts. At Gateshead it was called the "potato bell.' There are some similar instances in Leicestershire, while in some countics the bell is rung at i p.m. At Cranfield, Beds it was rung at 1 p.m, and again at 2 p.m.. at Braddon. Northants. and Pnulefract at noon ant 1 p.m. At Braithwell, Yorks. the day of the month is tolled

BELLS AS TIME-TELII RS

We have already shown that in medirval times bells were rung regularly throughout the day to denote the Canonical Hours and in the old days before electric clocks vere known this must have been-with the morning and evering Ave bells-the only way of marking the time within the reach of the ordinary man. Nor was this extinct in villages where there was no church clock until quite recent times. Mr. H. B. Walters notes that in Pleshey, in Essex, the custom of ringing the $8 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. bell on Sunday was kept uo in order that people might be able to set their own clocks and watches by it once a week.
The single direction in the Rubrics of the Book of Common Prayer, for the tolling of a bell for daily services, and the meagre reiferences to bells in the Canons (15th. 16th and 18 th ) give a very inadequate idea of their constant use in the English Church in mediaval times. In churches where the Canonical Hours were then kept. the bells-or some of them- would be ringing very frequently The Canons made in King Edgar's time (A.D. 960) provided:-

That the hours be timely notified by ringing (the bells) and that cvery priest then look out his tide-song in the church (i,e.. attend his Canonical Hours) and that prayers be there diligently made in the fear of God and intercession for all people
But though-as remarked by Dr. Rock (' Church of Our Fathers, Vol. III.)world know the time by day and by night. and in those larger churches where such a custom was followed. the several bells, as well as the different ways in which they rung for this purpose. told the precise service which was then about to be chanted.' It is difficult to show the exact method adopted. The ringing rules of St. Dunstan, who died A.D. 977. and those of Archbishop Lanfranc are indeed extant. but the meaning is not alwavs certain. Briefly the regulations were:At midnight, Mattins was said: at three in the morning. Lauds: at six. Prime: at nine. Tierce; at noon. Sext: at three in the afternoon. Nones; at six. Vespers: and the day closed with Compline at nine. Thus every three hours throughout the day and night the Abbey bells were heard. not only in cell and cloister, but also in the streets of the town or the scattered cottages of the hamlet. The very early connection between bells and clocks is, however. clearly indicated by the word for a bell in German and in French, i.e.. 'Glocke' and 'cloche' respectively, a word represented by the Low Latin, 'clocca.' which appears in old Irish as 'clog.' Our word 'clock' of course, comes from the same source and it is interesting to note that the word is identical with our 'cloak.' which suggests the shape of a bell or rather that of the mould in which it is cast. Modern bellfounders speak of the outer mould as the "cope, again suggesting a comparison with the form of a garment. Alfred the Great, in translating into the Old English tonguc a passage in which the Venerable Bede speaks of 'Campana.' renders that word with 'cluggan' or clock.

RINGING RHYMES

No. 5. PLACE-MAKING

(And Division and Plain Course)

Plain hunting, up and down, once learned. Brings nearer that for which you've yearnedTo ring, by METHODS, changes true, With ev'ry stroke a change anew.
But all plain hunting brings it round.
In change-rows twice the bells that sound. Thus. on three bells 'tis round in six,
On four the same in eight you'll fix.
Such BLOCKS the same DIVISION take.
And, when they're linked, the PLAIN COURSE make.
Yes, linked! But how? Well, to extend
The rows unto the plain course end,
Plain hunting's varied by a pause
Called PLACE-MAKING: so named because
The bell 'lays' two blows in one place. While bells 'beyond; it DODGE apace. A 'dodge ' means bells in pairs must go Back one step in crossed paths; and so Proceed in same way as before.
Thus both moves bring up change-rows more.
But note-while this the plain course makes Each 'working bell' that same path takes.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Midland District

On Saturday. February 23rd the Midland District held its first meeting in 1952 at St. Mary-de-Castro's. Leicester. where the eight bells have recently been retuned and rehung by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., Loughborough.
The bells were put to good use during the afternoon a nd evening when the methods ranged from rounds and call-changes for the learners to the standard methods for the more experienced ringers.
A service. taken from the Guild's official form, was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Father J. R. Collins.

A delightful tea, provided by the ladies of the parish. was enjoyed by 70 ringers and friends. For the first time since the District has been formed. the ladies were in the majority and the gentlemen present were entertained to tea by the vice-president. Miss I. Thompson, and the secretary, Mrs. J. Staniforth.

At the business meeting (after the gentlemen had retired to the tower for more ringing) 40 members were present, representing 20 towers in five different counties within the district covered, together with one visitor from Cheshire. Nine new members were elected.

The next meeting will be held at Kingswinford on April 26 th and the annual District meeting at Mansfield on May 24th.

It was unanimously decided that as far as the ladies were concerned this was the "best-yet" meeting since the District has been formed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IRREGULAK LEAD-ENDS

An Interesting Comparison
Dear Sir-Like M. R. P. this will, I hope, conclude my magnum cipus on the subject of irregular lead-ends in Minor ringing. The main issue appears to have been diverted, of late, into interesting, albeit irrelevant, channels, but I would, in conclusion, ask anyone who is seriously interested to consider the following:-
ECCLESFIELD

Here we have two methods; the first is irregular the second is not. I have selected Ecclesfield Treble Bob (sometimes called. erroneously, Ecclesfield Delight), because it is still rung occasionally in this locality. The calling in order to bring home the fifth at the partend is also appended.

The first. I contend, is an interesting method with plenty of ' movement,' not too difficult and not too easy to ring. The second, in my opinion, is a dull and uninteresting method which would probably have disappeared long ago except for two saving clauses: (a) it is a good 'splicer, (b) it has got regular lead-ends (or heads).

Forty consecutive blows in 5-6, 32 of which are spent in plain dodging! Each preceded and followed by a triple dodge in the middle. Seven-pull dodges in Minor when five are considered by some to be a defect in Major.
Yet I am asked to believe that by uttering the theoretical abracadabra-' regular leadends '- Old Oxford is made the better method. Nevertheless if pcople want to ring it, why on earth shouldn't they? Besides it can be used as a 'stepping-stone' to Surprise Minor ringing !

Ecclesfield has one 6-5 at backstroke in the 20 th row of the 6th lead of each part. This is the only defect I can discover. At any rate it places the method in select company.
Although I have chosen neither the best nor the worst from either group. I shall, no doubt, be accused of choosing methods to suit my illustration. But why shouldn't 1? To sweep away all irregular methods because of the defects of a few is just as absurd as it would be to condemn all regular methods for similar reasons.
This accusation would at least be more accurate than that of being accused of "leg-pulling , when one is in deadly earnest.-Yours faithfully.
H. CHANT.

MUFFLED RINGING AND FOOTNOTES
Dear Sir,-Surely the object in muffled ringing is to pay homage. It seems to me that a great deal of the muffled ringing now being reported is to record personal achievements, the real object being secondary, or it would appear so, according to the footnotes. In my opinion there should be no footnotes to mulficd ringing except the one recording to whom the homage is being paid.-Yours faithfulty

Oxford.

LONGEST LENGTH OF MINOR

Dear Sir,-Re the longest length of Minor, on Jan. 1st, 1931, there was rung at All Saints', Rotherham, a peal of Surprise Minor, 10,800 changes. in 6 hours and 10 minutes, in 15 different Surprise methods. conducted by A. Nash; record for the Yorkshire Association.-Yours truly,
A. FIRTH.

Rawmarsh. Rotherham.
Dear Sir,-On Saturday, April 11th, 1896 (nearly 56 years ago), I rang the third bell at Tong Church, Yorkshire (where my father was Vicar fo- 54 years), in a peal of 10,440 changes, being $14 \frac{1}{2}$ extents in 15 different Treble Bob' Minor methods. George Bolland was the conductor and the time was 5 hours and 51 minutes. This was the longest length up to date on any number of bells for the Yorkshire Association.-Yours faithfully, East Lulworth (REV.) R. P. FARROW.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from * The Ringing World ' of March 15th, 1912 ODD CHANGES
An annuity of over $£ 50$ was left to the hellringers of Bath Abbey by Lieutenant-Colonel Nash, says 'Tit-Bits,' 'provided they should muffle the clappers of the bells of the said Abbey and ring them with a doleful accentuation from 8 a.m to 8 p.m. on each anniversary of his wedding day, and during the same number of hours, only with a merry peal, on the anniversary of the day which afforded him a happy release from domestic tyranny and wretchedness.
IIt would be interesting to know whether the terms of this bequest have ever been carried out!

What about these touches for a family affair: on handbells at Tunistall. Staffs, 504 Stedman Triples: Walter Washbrook 1-2, James W. Washbrook, jun., 3-4. James W. Washbrook 5-6, Harry Washbrook 7-8. Also a course of Grandsire Cinques: W. Washbrook 1-2, H. Washbrook 3-4. J. W. Washbrook. jun.. 5-6, J. W. Washbrook, 7-8-9-10, Mark Washbrook 1i-12. The name of Washbrook is evidently still a name to conjure with.
[Unhappily, only one of Mr. Washbrook's sons survived the 1914-18 war.]

WEDDINGS

MR. GEOFFREY DODDS-MISS JOYCE

 LEWISAt St. Mary's Church, Hemel Hempstead, on Saturday, February 23 rd, the bells rang out for the wedding of Miss Joyce Lewis, of Hemel Hempstead, and Mr. Geoffrey Dodds, of Isleworth.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a turquoise-blue costume and carried a bouquet of mimosa. She was attended by Miss Elizabeth Robson, an old school friend. The bridegroom's nrother, Mr. Eric Dodds, was the best man.

As the paity left the church in brilliant sunshine a band of ringers from Apsley and Hemel Hempstead sent the recently-rehung bells, after a few rounds and 'firing,' into a well-struck quarter of Plain Bob Major, conducted by Mr. Walter Ayres. They finished in time to join the other guests at the reception in the toast to the happy couple, who soon after left for their honeymoon in Wells.
As vefitted a ringers' wedding the three-tier cake was surmounted by a much-admired miniature bell in a polished aluminium frame. The bell had the same inscription as the old fifth at Hemei Hempstead, had the note F, five octaves above middle C and was specially cast for the occasion.

MR. G. A. OLLIFFE-MISS JEAN M. WARD

On Saturday, Februaty 9th, at St. Margaret's, Leicester, by the Rev. E. N. Ducker (Vicar), Mr . Gordon A. Olliffe, server and ringer of this church. was married to Miss Jean M. Ward, ringer of All Saints, Leizester.

Both bride and bridegroom are well-known in local ringing circles and many congratulatory tributes were paid to them. Owing to the unfortunate death of the King a wedding peal was not possible but as the bridal party left the church handbells were rung.

At the reception following at All Saints' Schools, Mr. John Bramley, the best man, acted as hosi and Mr. Arthur Catteli (churchwarden and ringer) paid tribute to the bride, one of his ringers at All Saints' Mr. Ernest Morris (verger and clerk) added his tribute, on behalf of St. Margaret's. to the bridegroom, which was supported by Mr. Donald Clark for the servers and choir.
The honeymoon was spent at Lyme Regis at the home of Mr. George Stedman Morris and as the happy couple left, handbells were again rung. On Sunday, February 17th, on their return home, a handbell peal of Grandsire Caters was rung.

FLYING OFFICER W. CANNER-MISS B. WALDRON

Miss Ba:bara Waldron, a member of St. Peter's, Bournemouth band. was married on February 23 rd to Flying Officer William Canner. R.A.F. The bride was attended by three bridesmaids, her cousin, Miss Doreen Wiggins, also a member of St. Peter's band, being one of them.
It was a beautiful spring day and the church was well filled with relatives and well-wishers, including many bellringers, and a full turn-out of the St. Peter's Youth Club, of which the bride was a member.
The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Coutis. M.A., until recently a member of St. Peter's company and now Vicar of Holybourne, near Alton. After the service he climbed the tower to take part in the first touch rung as the nappy couple ieft the church.
The reception was neld in St. Peter's Small Hall, which was filled to capacity, and afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Canner ?eft for Hindhead where the honeymoon was spent. Unfortunately St. Peter's company will lose another ringer by Barbara's marriage for she will leavo to join her husband in Lincolnshire towards the end of March.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

 Subscription Arrears Decrease BalanceThe annual gen ral meeting of the Surrey Association was held at Reigate on March 9th when nearly 90 members and friends enjoyed a fine tea following a service in the Parish Church corducted by the Vicar, and a most interesting address by the Vicar of St. Mark's.

At the meeting which followed, the committee's report indicated that scrvice and praciice ringing had been well maintained during the year, and drew attention to the fact that about 25 per cent. of members were in arrears with their subscriptions. The balance sheet indicated a fall in balance of about $£ 30$, and the Belfry Repair Fund stood at $£ 25$.
The Master (Mr. D. Cooper), secretary (Mr. W. F Oatway) and auditor (Mr. T. A. Blow) were re-elected and, in ballots. Mr. P. Davis was elected assistant secretary and Miss B. J.
Mayers treasurer. Mr. D. K. C. Birt, a past Master, was elected viec-president in appreciation of his service; to the Association, and a hearty vote of thanks accorded to $\mathbf{M r}$ E. G. Talbot. who had found it necessary to relinquish the assistant secretaryship.

An amendment to the rules whercby nominations for officers could be sent to the secretaries up to 28 days before annual meetings (instead of 14 days) was passed, but that to appoint the General Master and general sccretary ex-officio members of the 'District committees was defeated after Mr. E. J. Lindley had opposed the motion.
The annual meeting for 1953 was fixed for March 14th at Walton-on-Tnames and Oatlands Park.

After the meeting ringing continued at Reigate and at Redhill which was made available in the evening to avoid disappointment to visiters who hoped to $t$ ing there in the afternoon. following the notice that they would be available. which was cancelled at short notice. At the commencement of the meeting the Master asked the company to stand in memory of Mr. A. I). Maun, of Epsom, and Mr. F. G Miller, Mitcham, who recently passed away.

APPLETON'S OPEN DAY

On Saturday, March 1st, the 133rd anniversary of the opening of the bells at Appleton. Berks. was kept up in the usual fashion. short touches in various methods being rung in the afternoon and evening by the visitors.

Tea was provided at the Thatched Tavern and in the evening the old ringers' songs were sung and there was handbel' ringing by the White family.

Visitors included MT. F. Sharpe (Deputy Master of the Guild). Miss M. Cross and Mr. E. Humfrey (Reading), also ringers from East Hagbourne, East Ilsley. Bicester. Shrivenham. Eynsham, Abingdon. Oxford. Faringdon and Luton (Bejs).

HUDDERSFIELD DISTRICT

The meeting held it All Souls' Halifax. on March 1st, was a very good gathering. A short service, jointly conducted by the president and the Vicar of All Souls', was followed by a good tea and a quickly-conducted business meeting which all helped to create a happy atmosphere.

A vote of thanks to the local company, who are mainly lads full of enthusiasm. was heartily endorsed. To make us so welcome and pro-vide- such a nice tea and refuse to accept payment deserves great credit. May this young team prosper: indecd. our aim is to encourage the younger generation to our ranks, to strike the simple methods and io learn double handbell ringing.

The octave at this tower. with the 25 cwt . tenor, is very pleasing to the car, but it certainly takes a good team to handle some of the bells. The best ringing was just before the close of the proceedings at $8 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. The next meeting will probably be held at Lightcliffe early in Mav

SWANSEA & BRECON GUILD  Southern District

In a real country setting and excellent weather 40 members turned up at St. Matthew's Church. Dyffryn, Neath, for the quarterly meeting of the Guild on March 1st. It was the first ment ing to be held at St. Matthew's for 48 years.
The social activities, however, were dwarfed by the presence of Mr J. W. Jones, of Newport, who, by ringing at St. Mathew's Church. completed his life's ambition in ringing at every clurch in the Diocese of Llandaff and Monmouth where there are bells

During the service, which was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. - Bedgood spoke of the relationship between ringers, and he noticed they did not ring alone but as a band. This was so like every-day life-working together and following the leader.

A splendid tea was provided by Mrs. Tremaine and friends and a vote of thanks was accorded, on the proposal of Mr. K. J. Lewis.

At the business meeting, Mr. Trevor Roderick moved the adoption of the statement of accounts, and the invitation to Cadoxton for the September meeting was duly accepted. The assistant secretary reported that everything was satisfactory regarding the trip to Knighton, and in reply to Mr. Meredith's query, gave the assurance that two buses would be ordered.
The Vicar then asked cveryone to stand in silence, in sympathy with the relatives of Mrs. Buttress. J.P a life member; Mr. Reg. Pitman, son of Mr. A. J. Pitman; and Mr. Theodore Gibbons, churchwarden, in their recent sad bereavement. A prayer was also said for the speedy recovery to health of Mrs. Williams. mother of the Master and general secretary.

Mr. D. G. Williams proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for presiding at the meeting and allowing the use of the bells. A return to the tower was made by the country lanes, and the bells. uider the supervision of the Master, were kept ringing unil 8.30 p.m. J. A. H.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The February meeting was held at St. Chad's, Headingley, as the St. Michael's tower was not available. The day was ideal and the bells were rung up in peal. Various methods were rung before tea. which had been kindly arranged by the local company in the Church Schools.
Mr. T. W Strangeway (vice-president) presided at the business meeting owing to the absence of the president. Members were present from Armley. Batley. Burley, Bramley, Cat verley, East Ardsley, Guiseley. Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's). Leeds Parish Church, Otley. Pudsey. Rothwell, Tadcaster, Thorner, Woodlesford and York.

The secretary referred to the Society's loss by death of Mr. J. Bennett, of Ossett; the members stood in silence as a tribute to his memory.
The usual business details were despatched with a minimum of delay. The vote of thanks to the Vicar of Far Headingley, the local company and the ladies for the efficient arrangements at the tea tables. was proposed by Mr L. Drake, who referred to the welcome accorded to the Society by the St. Chad's company and said special thanks were due to them for accepting the meeting at short notice and providing a splendid tea. Mr. S. Keighley seconded.

Mr. A. Johnson acknowledged the thanks and said his colleagues were always pleased to welcome the Society and he was sorry their Vicar and secretary were both unable to be present.

The annual nomination meeting will be held at Bramley on March 29th.

A WEEK-END IN THE WEST COUNTRY

Over the week-end of February 22nd-23rd a party of eight kcen ringers from Bognor, Chichester, Portsmouth and Winchester spent a very enjoyable ringing week-end in Somerset and Dorset. The Bognor and Chichester members set out at the unearthly hour of $5.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$.
A search for a breakfast at Frome proved fruitless (1) and after a snack in a cafe at Shepton Mallet the first tower, Mark, was reached half an hour late. The good-toned octave (tenor 19 cwt .) was soon set going and a good peal of Double Norwich came round in six minutes over three hours. Having been congratulated by the local band, who were assembling to ring for a wedding, we went on to Burnham-on-Sea for more refreshments.
For various reasons, the afternoon peal at tempt at Burnham was abandoned and after a few short touches on the eight (tenor 22 cwt .) in this leaning tower we went to Brent Knoli. across the marshes. Here we found the local band in the belfry, after ringing for a wedding, and their captain (many thanks, Mr. Hunt ) readily gave permission for us to ring on the truly magnificent six (tenor $21 \mathrm{cwt}$. ); Cambridge. Plain Bob and Grandsire were rung.
At Axbridge a meeting was in progress and ringing on this grand Taylor six (tenor $19 \frac{3}{4}$ cwt.) was much enjoyed. A phone call to the Vicar of Wedmore gained permission to ring for a short time. The Vicar and the vice-captain of his ringer; very kindly met us at their church and some good touches were 1 ung on the grand heavy eight (tenor 30 cwt .). The eight were lowered in peal with the Vicar and the local ringer standing in. After expressing our thanks we set off for our 'digs' at Wells, which proved 'superlative
In the morning, after a good breakfast, the party proceeded on foot to the Cathedral to ring for service. Time would not allow us to attempt a quariter peal as had been proposed, but good touches of Stedman Triples were rung on the back eight (tenor $56 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.) of this magnificent ten. During the ringing Geoff Dodds and his wife (on their honeymoon!) arrived in the tower, and with their belp a course of Grandsire Caters was brought round. Our thanks are due to the Wells ringers for allowing us the use of these fine bells.
Repairs to the wagon being complete, the party left for hom. A café proprietor at Shaftesbury was persuaded to provide a meal (although his establishment was closed) and after negotiating Zig-Zag Hill (and what a hill!) and passing Sixpenny Handley (!) we reached Cranborne at 2.30. A good peal of Stedman Triples on this fine new Taylor octave (tenor 17 cwt .) came round just in time for evensong, with three minutes to spue! After refreshments in a local café we continued on via Fordingbridge and Romsey, reaching Winchester at 9 p.m.; one slight incident en route was not unconnected with an empty petrol tank All agreed that it had been a grand week-end. Thanks are especially due to Norman Smith, who made the arrangements. to John Meade, the long-suffering driver, and to Fred Burnct and John Hunt, who called the peals. P. N. B.

NORWICH DIOCESAN

Western Branch

A well-attended mecting of the Western Branch of the Norwich Association took place at Gaywood on February 23rd. Including friends from the adjoining Ely Association Branch, some 40 ringers were present. among them a gond many ladies. Divine service was conducted by the Rector, who extended a warm welcome.
One new member was elected a lad aged 13. who had rung his first 720 a day or two previously. Should he reach the same age as the oldest ringer present. 83, he can hope to accomplish a good deal The six bells were kept going to a wide variety of methods.

OBITUARY

MR. WILLIAM CHAPMAN

The many friends of Mr. William Chapman, a member of the band of the Parish Church (St. Editha), Tamworth, will be sorry to learn that he passed away on March 1st at the age of 82 years.

He was a member of the Archdeaconry of Stafford Society of Change Ringers for the long period of 63 years, and a very keen ringer, particularly so regarding Sunday service ringing.

The remaining members would like to place on record their appreciation of all the willing help he gave during his active ringing life. He was quite proud, and we with him, that he had been privileged to ring the treble at the commencement of 56 New Years. Unlortunately, his health compelled him to retire about seven years ago, and his assistance had been much missed by the St. Editha's band as a whole. It can be said of him that he was interested to the last.

MR. J. R. HAYMAN

With regret we record the death of $\mathbf{M r}$. John Robert Hayman of Lympstone, Devon, in his 71st year, after a long illness.

Until his last illness, Mr. Hayman had been a regular Sunday service ringer at Withyonmbe Raleigh since he commenced to ring in 1900. Durirg this tinte he rang 60 peals, 58 of which were Grandsire Triples and the other tmo Stedman Triples. Of the 58 of Grandsire he conducted 32, and among his 'firsts' there appears that of Holt's Original by resident members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, and in 1908 the first peal on the 'Stafford' or minor eign at Exeter Cathedral.

The funeral took place at Lympstone Parish Church on February 29th and immediately after the interment a touch of Doubles on the halfmuffled bells was rung by his fellow-ringers.

In the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung lialf-muffled at Withycombe Raleigh by members of the local band.

MR. S. J. HECTOR

An Appreciation

As one of the younger generation, may I add my humble tribute to the life of Samuel J. Hector. whose passing has deprived the Exercise of a great and good ringer.

It was with some temerity that I first $\in \mathrm{n}$ tered Trowbridge tower six short years ago, temerity which was immediately dispelled by Sam's open-hearted welcome and the prompt invitation to have a ring. In a very short time I knew why this grand old gentleman was so loved and well-respected in many tewers throughout the country.

A stickler for the best possible standard of ringing, Sam readily appreciated the difficulties confronting a learner and would do his best to help him on his way. The prospect of a young ringer making good delighted him and Sam was always anxious that one should 30 as far as possible in ringing. When, in 1950. the youngest band ever to ring a peal on twelve bells assembled in Trowbridge tower, nobody took more interest than he did. and nobody was more pleased when the peal was successfully rung on the bells he loved so well.

His peal total of 256 represented much hard work in the area and many of his peals were notable ones. Whether Doubles or Maximus the ringing had to be up to standard and Sam never hesitated to give praise where due and a kindly word of advice when necessary.

As a ringer, as a church worker, as a giand comnanion. Sam set a fine example, an example which the older ringers may respectfully admire, and one which the younger ones would do well to emulate.
R. O. FRY.

MR. PHILIP H. PIERCE
The death of Mr. Philip H. Pierce, of Brabourne, Kent, took place on Febryary 4 th at the age of 86 . At his funeral on February 9 th at St. Mary's, Brabourne, the bells were rung half-muffied, both before and after the interment. in various methods, but especially in his favourite Stedman. Ringers attended from Ashford. Hythe. Willesborough, Elham, Stowting and Folkestone, with the local band.

Many parishioners were present and the Vicar paid a fitting tribute to the steadfast character of one who for years was a ringer, choirman and member of the Parochial Church Council.

To the younger generation of ringers in East Kent, Phil Pierce is just an oft-recurrent name on peal boards. Older ringers, especially in the Canterbury District, will remember Phil as a very vigorous, forceful, and at times outspoken personality in the $1890^{\circ}$ 's and early $1900^{\prime}$ 's.

He learned to ring at St. Alphege's, Canterbury, about 1887, and later became a member of the Cathedral company. He rang his first peal in 1892 and by 1915 had scored 85 , mostly of Stedman, and almosi always at the heavy end. No bad-going bell ever daunted him and his perfect striking. even under adverse conditions, was an example to many a learner. During one week in September, 1907, he rang a peal of Stedman Triples every day, Pitstow's Variation, with W. H. Fussell on the treble and the Rev. F. E. Robinson conducting from the seventh. Removal to Brabourne curtailed his ringing activities but from 1930 until a few years ago be was captain of the local band. His eyesight failed with increasing years but even when almost totally blind he found much pleasure in attending Kent Association meetings.

The passing of P. H. P. leaves another gap in the diminishing group of old stalwarts who did so much to build up the Kent County Association in the past.

His peals:-Grandsire Triples 13 (conducted 2). Stedma: Triples 50 (18), Stedman Caters 9, Double Norwich Court Bob Major 2. Kent Treble Bob Major 9 (4). Kent Treble Bob Royal 1. Oxford Treble Bob Major 1, Plain Bob Minor 1 ; total 86 (24).

MR. S. CADWALLENDER

It is with regret we announce the death of Mr. Sam Cadwallender, of Church Road. Rainford. Lancashire, at the age of 70 years.

He was a member of All Saints' tower. Rainsford. since the bells were installed, and for a number of years he had been leader of the local band.

The funeral took place on Monday, March 3rd, and in the evening the "whole pull and stand; was rung followed by a quartes peal of Grandsire with the bells half-muffled. The ringers were:-E. Saunders 1, W. Bagley $2, \mathbf{A}$.
Wallace $3, \mathbf{C}$. Blackburn (conductor) 4 . W. $\mathbf{O}$. Wallace 3. C. Blackburn (conductor) 4. W. O.
Farrimond 5. H. Grundey 6, H. Blackburn 7, T. Singleton 8.

CONDUCTING STEDMAN

ALTHOUGH there are in existence complicated touches and peals of Stedman of various types, the conductor of average ability is normally content with those that follow the customary pattern, apart from a few different lengths that he may know by heart. In Triples, Thurstans' Four-part or one of its variations is by far the most popular peal; while in Caters and Cinques peals with the first part in the Tittums and the second part in the Hand-stroke, with the seconds and fifths place bells fixed in addition to the back bells, far outnumber the rest.

An excellent analysis of Thurstans' Four-part with some valuable hints on its calling can be found in Mr. Trollope's 'Stedman.' A simple formula that can be very helpful is this: Rounds and Rounds Reversed, Queen's and Queen's Reversed; or, if we are calling Heywood's, Queen's and Queen's Reversed, Rounds Reversed and Rounds. This gives a ready reminder of the order of the 'part ' bells and of the cyclical changes that come up a whole pull before the part-end. The Queen's changes (13524, 35241, etc.) and Queen's Reversed (42531,53142, etc.) occur in the halfpeal between the singles, the Rounds ( 12345,23451 , etc.) and Rounds Reversed (54321, 43215, etc.) in the other half. Furthermore, the Queen's changes occur between the extra bobs at $7 / 8$, and the Rounds Reversed changes between the omits.
Thus in Heywood's Variation the single puts us into the Queen's Reversed position, and since our initial sixths place bell is the 5th we know that the next will be the 3rd and that the previous part bell would have been the 2nd. This knowledge will make it easy for us to remember the bells dodging behind at the various calling positions, e.g., 2 and 6 at the 4 -bob set, 2 and 5 at 12/13, etc.; we also know that our cyclical part-end will be 31425 . The second partend should be 14253, but the calling of the extras puts us into the Queen's section with the 4th as the part bell so that the cyclical part-end is 13524, followed by 35241, $52413,24135,41352$. Then the second extras put us back into Queen's Reversed and we have the part-end previously postponed, 14253 , followed by 42531, 25314, 53142. The second single restores the Rounds position, but as the omits immediately follow we go into the Rounds Reversed section starting with 54321 , followed by $43215,32154,21543$ and 15432. Then the second omits restore the Rounds position and we end with the familiar quarter peal commencing with 23451 and finishing with 12345 .

The easiest peals of Caters and Cinques are those with the treble in seconds place and the fifth or the sixth in fifths place and their calling should present little difficulty after a few touches constructed on the same plan. As most Stedman ringers know, all that it is necessary to learn is the order of the trebles place bells, a starting course and a turning course. Then the following formula or some slight variation of it will produce a peal containing all or most of the best courses (cf. Carter's Broadsheet). In a 'half-and-half' peal call a starting course putting the sixth into fifths place then a block of eleven courses with bobs at 16 plus bobs at 5 when needed to change the trebles place bell; call a single and repeat; then call a turning course, which need contain but two or three calls, and then repeat the first half-peal.

If, as many conductors do, we prefer a peal of Caters with two-thirds in the Tittums it is usual to start with the fifth at home during the first part, which will then contain the course-ends with 5 and 6 at home. Next the sixth is made trebles place bell by an appropriate bob at 5 and is then shifted into fifths place by a bob at 4 (which it makes) in the next course or the one after. Then we ring the Tittums portion again with the 65 course ends, call a turning course and then, we might almost say, 'rounds as usual.'

Orthodox peals of Cinques are, if anything, even easier to call since we do not need to have the fifth in trebles place so much, while with two thirds in the Tittums we do not need it there at all. In fact, in the latter case the fifth or sixth becomes a 'half-hunt' bell when not in fifths place being alternately fourths and sixths place bell at the course-end, and makes the bob at all the calls at 6 after dodging with the fifths place bell. So after the starting course all we have to do is to call a bob at every 19 and a bob at 6 every other course when we see the sixth in position to make it. At this point also the new trebles place will be seen dodging down in $11 / 10$ with the old one. After 2, 3 and 4 have all been trebles place for 2 courses each we call a single instead of a bob at 6 and repeat. We then allow the sixth to become thirds place bell with an extra 19, put it into trebles place with a bob at 6 in the next course and then into fifths with a bob at 5 . Then the twelve courses with calls at 6 in alternate ones are repeated producing the 65 Tittums course-ends; a turning course follows, very often the simple one with a bob at 2 and singles at 13 and 15; and finally a block of courses in the Hand-stroke on the same simple plan.

An experienced conductor will naturally transpose the course-ends as he proceeds and will be able to tell at almost every six whether all is well. For instance, he will know in the Tittums that in the ninth six when the tenth is coming out slow the trebles and fifths place bells will be dodging in $4 / 5$, the treble itself with the eleventh in $8 / 9$. Or again two sixes later when 11 and 8 are behind the treble will be in $4 / 5$ with the trebles place bell and 9 and 10 together in $6 / 7$ as the seventh comes out slow. Such familiarity with the positions of the fixed bells at various points in the course will enable a trip to be quickly righted while the greatest danger to any peal of Stedman, that someone will force his way to the front in the wrong way and 'swop' the sixes, may be averted.

More ambitious conductors may choose with four, eight or even more turning courses, or with the seconds place and fifths place bells frequently changed (by calls at 5 and 18). But they will find that some of the beauty of the music will be lost, although there may be an increase in the 'interest ' of the ringing. Certainly peals of the type outlined above should satisfy the average conductor and all but the most expert of bands.
F.E. H.

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett and Johnston bells or tower clocks.

Gillett and Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service-as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

Among the footnotes - deleted this week was one of 'Last peal of Doubles.' We know that some ringers find Doubles ringing tedious, but an expression of this character at the completion of a peal is not an appropriate footnote: Many have made a mental chalk' mark in their memory to such effect, but we have no intention of compiling such a list.

Sapcote, Leics, Sunday service band rang their first peal on the bells on which they were taught to ring, on March 1st.

There was a raw 'deal' at Birmingham on Saturday night when a nightcap of orangeade was brought to a well-known London ringer.

The advice of Mr. Rodney Meadows "that a hat makes all the difference' we were confidentially told at Birmingham is to be tried next year by a young lady from London who did not receive an invitation for a peal attempt this year. T'HE ' Henry Johnson' commemoration dinner, held last Saturday at the Imperial Hotel, Birmingham, was another of those happy reunions. In many respects it was a brilliant gathering-wit and epigram were intermingled in the speeches. and the Master, Alderman A. Paddon Smith, with his vast lore of Birmingham civic and ringing history to draw on and his genial personality, made an ideal chairman for such a gathering.

The Master was supported by the Very Rev. Michael Clarke (Provost of Birmingham) and Mrs. Clarke, Canon Guy Warman (Vicar of Aston) and Mrs. Warman, the Rev. W. G. Aston) and Mrs. Warman, the Rev. W. G.

TAKE TOO MUCH FOR GRANTED

Mr . Harold J. Poole, in proposing the toast of 'Church and Statc.' said the toast gave ringers an opportunity of reflecting on the duties they owed to both the Church and Stats. The toast gave them an opportunity of considering the privileges they received at the hands of the Church and those responsible for the governing of the Church. 'We ringers often take a lot for granted: we are given the privilege of ringing for our own entertainment -I was going to say amusement, but I can assure you that many of the peals are far from an amusement-and the toast gives us an opportunity of expressing our very grateful thanks for this privilege.

Birmingham was very active from a ringing point of view but it could not be without the facilities granted by the Church Authorities. In these days they were apt to value things by What they cost. It might be. as far as ringing Was concerned. it had been made too cheap:
made cheap-far more cheaply than they should be. Whatever circumstances might be attached to their ringing, whether the bells were rung for their entertainment or the services of the Church, the fact must never be lost sight of that they were rung for the glory of God.
It was essential that the Church and State should go hand in hand and they had seen disastrous results to the State where that had not been the case. In their thoughts to-day was the grievous loss the Church and State had recently experienced by the death of their beloved Monarch, King George VI. They were fortunate in having as their young Queen one who was following the strict path of duty as was following the strict path of duty as her illustrious father, and they knew by her upbringing she would carry out those duties to her satisfaction, whien would be their satisfaction.

A SILENT SATURDAY NIGHT

The Very Rev. Michael Clarke, the new Provost of Birmingham, who replied, said it was a great privilege to be among them on the one silent Saturday night in Birmingham during the year (laughter). The toast of 'Church and State ' had been honoured at that dinner for 64 years and it had been honoured for many years before, and it would be interesting to picture how it had been honoured in the City 100 and 200 years ago. In 1750 there were only four churches standing in the confines of thi City of Birmingham. He could imagine an irrascible old clergyman then saying that there was no future for the country as they had increased the fares on the stage coach from Birmingham to Lichfield from 9d. to 111 d . One hundred years ago there were protests against the new tax-an income tax of 9 d . in the $£$. a thing that all right-minded Englishmen then felt should never have heen imposed. In Birmingham the relationship of Church and State had been a happy one and it was their wish that that association would be both a prosperous and happy one.
The chairman announced that he had been informed by the Vicar of Aston that the tombstone to Henry Johnson erected by the ringers of England in Aston Churchyard. was one of the two stones now standing on the south side of the church. It was preserved and left standing by the goodwill of the Vicar. in whose charge were left Henry Johnson's mortal remains which were interred beneath the shadow of the tower where he spent so many happy hours of his life.
The toast 'The memory of the late Henry Johnson' was submitted by Mr. Prank E. Haynes, who said the time was rapidly coming when it would be impossible to find anyone who rang with or knew. Henry Johnson in the flesh. Henry Johnson, in one sense. might be looked upon as the founder-not of St. Martin's Guild-but of that function, as it originated as a birthday party given in his honour when he was 70 years old by Sir Arthur Heywood. After his death it was decided to hold that dinner as his memorial on the first Saturday in March, the Saturday nearest his birthday which was February 28th. Unfoitunately this year they were not able to keep to that Saturday.

A COLOSSUS

Previous proposers of that toast had referred to Henry Johnson's character, his neal performances and his work as a composer. Henry Johnson was indeed a colossus of the ringing fraternity of their city. Their chairman had mentioned his grave in Aston Churchyard. Three weeks ago he was standing by that stone erected to his memory and he was reminded of a passage from Ruskin when he wrote about the pine trees, making comparisons with them and the oak and elm, whose rounded outlines seemed to be in accordance with the contours of the earth while the pine rose in uprightness and the spirit of independence. It struck him that Henry Johnson was like the pine, a man who was a leader and stood upright.
The toast was drunk in silence; then, at the request of the chairman, Mr. Charles Williams stood up in response to those present who knew Henry Johnson in the flesh. A silent bob course of Stedman Cinques was then rung by C. E. Shepherd 1-2, F. W. Perrens 3-4, A. Walker 5-6, J. F. Smallwood 7-8, F. Pervin 9-10. F. E. Haynes 11-12.

Mr. Fred Dunkerley, secretary of the Lancashire Association, submitted the toast of 'Continued Prosperity to the St. Martin's Guild.' He recalled that the Guild was formed in 1755 and likened it to Guilds of craftsmen on the Continent. He was himself a member of two or three Guilds in Switzerland and there, if a craftsman did not do his job properly, he was brought before a Guild to answer why. It would not be a bad idea in ringing. There were some good ringers, others medium and some bad. The bad ones they hoped would improve their craftsmanship.
They were there to pay homage to one of the Guild's most illustrious sons. but the toast he was submitting to them did not lie with the past but the future-it was the continued prosperity of the Guild. They could look hack on noted names such as Bastable. Goddan, J. Carter. Bill Short and Groves. He was told that the last-named could lower six quarts-well they had one in Cheshire who could beat him. He would not tell them his capacity-it was a challenge to Birmingham.

SECRET OF PROSPERITY

Their Guild was very fortunate in the remarkable list of its performances. Particularly impressive was the non-conducted peal of Stedman Cinques "in hand," where the pairs of bells were drawn for by the ringers. They were also very fortunate in being able to welcome to the city so many young ringers of experience and with the extraordinary good ringers they had in the city. it helped towards establishing the Guild's popularity throughout the country. But it was no use relying on past personalities. They had among them many who had given the Guild their best for many years-that great little man. Albert Walker, who had been the corner stone of the Guild for 50 years, and their hard-working secretary, Mr. G. E. Fearn.
Guilds and Associations had some force about them that could not be defined. Everyone in the country knew if a Guild was virile, and the vardstick, of a Guild's prosperity was good craftsmen and good ringers.
In days gone by there was much rivalry and jealousy between the different Guilds. They now got Associations and Guilds grouping together on ringing tours. His own Association regularly joined with the Yorkshire Association and Chester Guild in pcal performances and they were delighted to sce that the same fellowship existed among the younger people. Just look at St. Martin's Guild. If any ringer in these islands desired a peal he just wrote to their secretary and it was arranged. That would have been impossible 50 or 100 ycars ago when there was too much clannishness. He charged the vounger ringers of St. Martin's to safeguard the future. The only thing we can wish you is Godspeed ir. your work:

WAITED THREE MONTHS

Mr. Albert Walker, who responded, said he had been a member of the Guild since 1897 In his young days it was not so easy for young ringers to get on as to-day. He remembered that when he first went up St. Martin's tower he sat in that tower for three months before he was asked to have a pull. It was about 1902 that he called his first touch there--he remembered still the surprise of the Master when he called five courses of Stedman Caters. Since those days he had had most loyal support.
Throughout the years he had seen the Guild grow and prosper; to-day they had quite a lot of young ringers coming on and they were very fortunate in getting these young ringers of experience and in the fact that they could offer them a peal on any day of the week. This year there had been an innovation by starting eightbell practices and they had borne fruit as some members were ringing Spliced Surorise Major in four. six and eight methods-in fact he took part in six methods on the treble (laughter).

The popular secretary. Mr. George E. Fearn was also called upon to reply and he said their younger ringers included Mr. Wilfrid Moreton, Mr. J. Martin Thornley and Mr. Brian Warwick who werc at Saltby Training College. They had some lady rinvers in Miss Claudia Harding and Miss Shirley Rymer, and Mr. John R. Mayne. who was at Birmingham University They had made a tremendous difference to their ringinp -not that they had bcen short-hut they had been able to get them on. One of the reasons for their prosperity was the very good fellowship between the ringers and the c'ergy. He did not think there were many cities in the country where conditions were so favourable as at Birmıngham and it was because the ringers confined their ringing to one regular practice night during the week un!ess there was a special occasion.

FROM FAR AND WIDE

Mr Edear C. Shepherd pronosed 'The Visitors.' He said as lone ago as 1786 the College Youths came to Birmingham and if they wanted entertainment the company should read what happened on that occasion. Since then they had entertained a lot Charles Henry Hatterslev and Sir Arthur Heywood delighted to come to Birmingham. It was their nleasure to have with them the Deouty Lady Mayoress and Lt.-Col. Donald Paddon Smith. and with them they recalled the hospitalitv of their Master when the Guild visited the Council House Once apain thev had been honoured by many neoole from all parts of the country. From Bournemouth they had Mr Arthur Davis, East Anglia was represented by Mrs. Richardson and from Cornwall, with that homing instinct. came Mr. Herbert SDencer. There were with them friends from Lancashire and Cheshire where the loss of that great ringer Dr. Simnson was keenly felt. They welcomed visitars from Livernool where the hospitality of the Dean was on the same massive scale as the tower. From the north rame Mr and Mrs McGuiness and Miss M. Fidell. Their friends the bellfounders were with them and he also welcomed an old friend in Mr. Cecil Mayne

Mr. Shenherd concluded his speech with delishtful references to hospitality as presented by Charles Dickens. recalling such characters as Bob Sawyer and Sarah Gamp.
Mr. Leslie W G. Morris, secretary of the Yorkshire Association. deputised for Canon Bryan S. W. Green. who was indisposed, and thanked the St. Martin's Guild for their wonderful hospitality. He reminded the assemblv that the Snowdon dinner had be resuscitated and that it would he held at York on October 25 th when they would do everything possible to entertain them in the same lavish way as St. Martin's Guild had that evening.
The toast of 'The Ringing World' was submitted hy Mr Rodncy B. Meadows. Ringers.
he said. were divided into four categoriesthose who took it on Fridays by post, which he hoped applied to all those present; those who took it through the newsagent; those who did not take 'The Ringing World ' and did not read it; and those who read it and did not take it.
After wishing the Editorial Committce every success in their efforts to maintain the journal at 16 pages at its present price. Mr. Meadows proposed certain suggestions for increased revenue, stressing the importance of a contribution accompanying every peal and quarter peal. The proportion of advertisements to news in 'The Ringing World' was only 23 per cent. and compared very unfavourably with other iournals. He suggested that above the 12 -bell peal column should be a picture of a wellknown ringer ringing eleven and twelve, with the caption 'He is twice the man on Worthington ' (laughter). Above the eight-bell peals should be a picture of a forlorn damsel with such a quotation. 'Poor girl. no one asked her to stand in a peal until a hat made all the difference.' With the six-bell peals there should be one of those series of strip pictures, the first being the picture of missing a bob in the peal followed by the declaration of being a life's failure. the consultation with the doctor and the remedy for night starvation. The final picture would be one of 92 Surprise Major methods and 'Great show. old man. You know this is Horlicks, (laughter).

'PEAL CONTRIBUTIONS ESSENTIAL

Mr. T. W. White the Editor, replied. He emphasised that 'The Ringing World' would only be able to meet its obligations if those who rang peals and quarter peals sent a contribution with their reports. There was no other way the selling price of the journal could be kept at fourpence. To those who had already recognised this responsibility and sent contributions he expressed the sincere thanks of the Editorial Committee.
The health of 'The Chairman' was submitted by Alderman T. R. Pritchett, who quoted from 'Henry VIII.': 'The force of his own merit makes his way.
Acknowledging the toast, the chairman said Alderman Pritchett came from a ringing family, his father and six or seven of his uncles were all ringers at King's Norton-his Uncle John was also an alderman of the City of Birmingham and Master of this Guild. It gave him great pleasure to be Master of their Guild. He supposed that most of them, if they were not ringing. were listening to the broadcast last Christmas morning. He was exceedingly proud of the broadcast from St. Martin's: it was lovely. The half-muffled ringing of Stedman Cinques for the passing of the King was also most beautiful and he would like to congratulate those who took part. A friend of his told him the echo effect of the muffled bells sounded like a message from above.
Between the speeches, songs and duets were sung by Mr. Albert E. Barley and Mr. David Gee accomoanied by Mr. E. J. Woodfall, and there was also handbell ringing. The arrangements were made by Mr. G. E. Fearn and left nothing to be desired.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON  Annual Dinner at a Chinese Restaurant

An ecumenical flavour was imparted to the proceedings at the Society's annual dinner on February 23 rd by the decision to hold it at a Chinese restaurant. Although the spectacle of well-known members of the Exercise endeavouring to use chopsticks was obviated by the supply of more conventional cutlery, the cautious approach of the uninitiated to the dishes before them was, as a source of amusement. only equalled by the appetites of the enthusiasts.
After ringing at Immanuel and St. Leonard's, Streatham. and St. Stephen's. Clapham Park. the service was conducted at the last-named church by the Vicar, who preached an instructive and interesting sermon. The dinner followed at Ley On's Chop Sucy Restaurant, Wardour Street.
After the toast of 'Church and Queen,' the Master. who was in the chair, spoke of the loss the Society had sustained by the death of its president, Dr. J. C. E. Simpson. and of the great help he had given to it and to University ringing generally.
The secretary. Miss Mary Martin, then proposed the toast of 'The Guests.' who included the Master of the College Youths. Mr. J. Prior, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bevan and Mr. Hardy. Representatives of other universities were unfortunately absent, though whether this was due to innate conservatism in the matter of diet or to other causes was not clear, since they had sent apologies rather than excuses.
Mr. James Prior replied on behalf of the guests. and in a very kind speech suggested membership of the Ancient Society to that part of those present who were eligible. (A warm invitation to the other sex to join the Cumberlands was interjected by a member of that Society.)
Mr. Geoffrey Carter proposed the toast of The Society.' warning new members that the demands it made on their holidays and sparo time would seem to leave little opportunity for other interests. In spite of his undoubted talent (and his impersonations later that evening class him at once as a serious rival to Miss Anna Neagle) it must be pointed out that not for many years will Mr. Carter's assumption of the role of ageing and wistful uncle to the members be anything other than a brilliant tour de force.
In replying on behalf of the Society, the Master. Mr. Denis Layton, briefly reviewed this session's activities. and mentioned that a half-muffled peal had been rung in memory of the late president, a learners' practice had been held in January and good progress was being made in teaching generally. Arrangements for the Whitsun and summer tours concluded the gathering.

SUSTENANCE WHILE RINGING

Dear Sir. The peal mentioned by Mr. E. Morris (at Wath-on-Dearne) is recorded on a board in the tower of that church. A painting of the ringers "in action' depicts a small child supplying the ringers with sustenance.
A peal of Surprise Minor $(10,800)$ in 15 different methods was rung in six hours and ten minutes at Rotherham Parish Church (front six) on January 1st. 1931. conducted by the late Albert Nash. Three of the participants, Mr . C. T. Ryder (Rotherham), Mr. W. Green (Wath) and myself. are still going strong.- Yours faithfully,

10.080 MINOR AT EMBERTON

Dear Sir.-With reference to the report of the peal of 10,080 of Minor rung at Emberton on June 23rd. 1923. it was rung in 14 methods. not 13 as reported. It was the treble ringer's first peal. and he stood in at short notice owing to one of the intended band being unable to be there.
The peal was attempted three weeks previous to that date but was lost after five hours owing to the breaking of the fifth rope.-Yours, etc.,

A COLLECTION BY JASPER W. SNOWDON
Dear Sir-On looking through some old copies of 'Bell News.' I came across a list of peals of 10,000 changes which had been collected by the late Mr Jasper W. Snowdon. The longest leneth of Minor that appears there is 15.120 in 21 six-bell methods (names are not given). rung at Wath. Yorkshire. on February 27 th. 1816 , in 8 hours 27 minutes. The conductor was William Blackburn. The issue of 'Bell News' was that of June 30th. 1883, by the way. If this is true I am sorry that it refutes my friend of the Clerical Guild.-Yours sincerely, K. W. H. FELSTEAD.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY'S PEALS
Dear Sir,-While congratulating the band that recently rang a peal at St. Mary-the-Virgin's, Oxford. I think their claim that it was the first peal on the bells by the University Society is not correct. No doubt some of the band that I believe rang the first peal by the University Society there will come forward. I always understood that a peal was rung either on the occasion of VE Day or VJ Day. Indeed, I believe a second attempt came to grief shortly before the end. The Rev. C. E. Wigg, our president, rang the tenor to both attempts, I think. Unfortunately the Society's peal book was lost before I became Master, so I have never seen the report in print but have always understood that such a peal was rung: It is just possible that the peal I am recalling was rung for the Oxford Diocesan Guild, but if it was someone will no doubt correct me.
However. I cannot allow the opportunity to pass of reminding the Cambridge University Guild that there is no doubt whatever that the Oxford University Society have rung a peal at their University Church. In spite of invitations from us, they have been unable to return the complimen: although, having turned the 28 cwt . tenor in to several quarter peals. I fully sympathise with the Cambridge band who on one occasion had to give up an attempt.-Yours faithfully,
P. W. B. SEMMENS.

Middlesbrough

BRISTOL UNIVERSITY SOCIETY'S MISFORTUNES

Dear Sir,-I enclose details of a quarter peal of Grandsire Caters rung this evening, Feb 24th. This is the Society's first success of 1952 ! We attempted a half-muffled quarter of Grandsire Triples on the day of the late King's death but it broke down one lead from the end. An attempt of Grandsire Caters (also half-muffled) last Sunday evening also came to grief after 20 minutes.

Our worst luck occurred on the day of the late King's funeral; an attempt was made of a peal of Oxford. Kent and Plain Boh Minor at St. John's-on-the-Wall. We had completed two extents each of Oxford and Kent-wellstruck. too-when over half-way through the first 720 of Plain Bob the conductor. who shall remain incognito. called a bob a lead too early through becoming over-confident, as he himself admitted!

Yesterday the Society's fourth attempt at Stedman Triples was stopped after about an hour by the conductor. due to indifferent striking. What with these failures and another of Double Court Bob Minor a few weeks ago, the Society had become somewhat disheartened until the success to-night, which has done much to restore our confidence.-Yours sincerely.

OBSERVATION BELLS IN STEDMAN

Dear Sir ,-Your correspondent who asked how many people other than W. H. Barber. Maurice Hibbert and Maurice Swinfield have called peals with absolutely no obscrvation bell was obviously referring to seven-part peals of Stedman Triples. Speaking at a College Youths' dinner 60 years ago Sir Arthur Heywood said: there is nothing new to be had in the realm of composition except perhaps a sevenr part peal of Stedman Triples in which every hell must be the observation bell in its turn.'-

CENTENARY OF FAMOUS FAMILY PEAL

Sir,-It was on March 27 th. 1852 , that the famous family peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at St. Mary's Church, Woolwich, by the Banister family.
The peal was conducted by Henry Banister, who rang the 7th and his sons were stationed on the bells according to the seniority of their ages, counting from the 'back-end' (William rang the 4 th) while the tenor was rung by Edwin West, who was Henry's son-in-law.

The peal board recording this peal is a printed one and came into the possession of the tower only a few years ago. It bears a footnote: 'The only peal where a father and his six sons rang the changes mance never before achieved by one family.

That record still stands and it is doublful if in these days of small families it will ever be equalled.
The 'Bailey Peal' was rung by eight brothers many years later.
Provisional arrangements to ring a peal of Grandsire Triples to mark the centenary of this deal were made. but permission for the use of the bells has been refused, so it is not possible to do this at Woolwich.
It is hoped, however, that the centenary will be observed in the appropriate way in another tower.-Yours sincerely,
A. GROVE, SEN.

BELLS OF EAST BERGHOLT

Dear Sir--During Whitsun week, 1890, when the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows were in session at Ipswich, two of the delegates, one from Lancashire and one from Newcastle, wanted to try these bells at change-ringing.
Mr. J. Mobbs. Mr. W. Mobbs and myself, members of the St. Mary-le-Tower's band, Ipswich. in 1890 . went with them to try the bells on the Thursday evening and after several lessons in handling them (by J. Mobbs), we rang a half extent of Grandsire Doubles ( 60 changes) which we found quite enough to ring at one time.
We were given to understand that a band from West Suffolk had rung a full 120 about ten vears before that date.-Yours, etc..
R. W. STANNARD.

NO OBSERVATION BELL PEALS

Dear Sir--Page 152: Belfry Gossip: No observation bell. A peal of this description is one composed while being rung. This I did at Whittlesey on November 20th, 1948, to 5.152 Plain Bob Major in three hours and two minutes. There are many peals with no observation bell. i.e. ringing plain courses only but whatever peal it be, there are either full hunt. half hunt or quarter hunt bells and any bell can be made to these positions as circumstances permit. Looking at Mr. N. Golden's extension of Wath Minor. it would appear the music would be much better if rung in reverse, starting Apex, Tenor.-Yours truly.

FRANK WARRINGTON.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Biggleswade District

A very successful meeting of the Biggleswade District was held at Clifton on March 8th which was attended by 45 ringers representing 20 towers in six different counties.
The bells were set going at 3 o'clock and ringing continued until 4.30 when the service was taken by the Vicar. A company of 40 sat down to lea at the Golden Lion. The business meeting followed and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Southill, if the bells were available. Methods rung during the meeting ranged from Plain Bob to Carlisle Surprise.

JAMES ROBERT HAWORTH  PRINTER, PHILANTHROPIST, BELLRINGER

Looking back through 350 years of bellringing history, it is noticeable that, since 1600 , each century has produced a group of outstanding characters from the members of our Exercise. Long may that trend persist, and long may the passing commentator be able to say: ' There have been giants in our days.'

In the nineteenth century one such ringer undoubtedly stands out-viz., James Robert Haworth, who was born in the City of London, on April 21st. 1821, and died within its boundaries on Christmas Eve, 1910, in his 90th year. His whole business life was in the world of printing-as were those of his father, two brothers and other relatives. They were all, like himself, compositors. He was born, lived and died within sight and sound of Fleet Street, and that famous thoroughfare, so beloved by Dr. Johnson, was given as his address when. as an accomplished ringer he joined the 'College Youths' in 1839.

Thereafter bellringing was closely woven into the texture of his life, as was probably journalism, or perhaps both combined, for, at the age of about 55 he gave up his connection with printing, and shortly afterwards we find him writing for a weekly paper-'Church Bells'; he gave a page devoted to the Exercise and bells generally, and in so doing followed Jasper Snowdon. He is now said to have travelled much over all the country, taking part in opening ceremonies, etc., in connection with bellringing, even going across to Ireland. He probably often secured useful 'copy' for local and other papers.
Haworth, during his long life. had now reached a period in which many of his friends and contemporaries can yet recall him. (The writer rang in 'Scroof ' with him 61 years ago.) They recall with pleasure his gifts as a ringer and also his benign and quaint personality. In appearance he was still erect and spare in figure, in height a little above the medium, his face was rather pale and wrinkled-with quick-glancing grey-blue eyes, and his head was crowned with brown hair which. with his side whiskers, gave no sign of white-indeed, his use of an oily pomade suggested a dye, and he was nicknamed "Uncle Treacle." But the writer has often thought that this name derived from his earlier dynamic years, when Haworth's blend of reticence and suavity, laced with a certain whimsicality, had enabled him to gain control of those. often 'difficult.' groups of paid ringers frequently met with in those days. He was a good organiser and his cleverness was in pushing around a small number of ringers to man a large number of ropes. Of course this was all before the great reduction in paid ringing, when the vestries and church rates were abolished in 1885.
' Bob ' Haworth was by nature frugal and his love for ringing kept him in good health; he was apprenticed to a trade which alwavs commanded good money: to this must be added the steady trickle of his fees for paid ringing. On the other hand he lived cheaply in a small flat up a court off the Old Bailey--there telling away his remaining years in quiet content, till he was nearly 90.

It was now that the great eye-onencr occurred. To our astonishment, the late Mr. J. R. Haworth who had closed his life with the end of 1910. received a public funeral at his Parish Church. St. Sepulchre's. Newgate. At this. the Lord Mayor and Sherifis of the City of London were present. as a mark of respect for his useful life. It was reported that he had left several thousand pounds in Charities. And so we found that. during many years, we had been entertsining a philanthropist unawares!

The report of the Printers' Charitable Institution for 1910 contains this reference to Mr. Haworth, which we are permitted to publish by kind permission of the secretary:-

- He was an official bell-ringer at Westminster Abbey at the Coronation of Queen Victoria and took part in the ringing on the celebration of every subsequent birthday of Her Majesty, also on the occasions of her Jubilee and Diamond Jubilee. Her Majesty caused her photograph to be sent to him. This portrait is new in the possession of the Ancient Society of College Youths, of which Mr. Haworth was a member for 71 years. Every birthday of His late Maiesty King Edward VII. saw Mr. Haworth in the belfry at the Abbcy. It was his ardent wish. unhappily not to be realised, that he might live to ring at the Coronation of K ing George V

Mr. Haworth began his interest in the Prınters' Pension Corporation in the year 1846 by a contribution of two guineas, which he repeated in subsequent years. until in the year 1888 he gave $£ 200$ to form the nucleus of a Pension.
-The present secretary recalls the evening. within a few weeks of his appointment to the office, upon which an aged man came to Gray's Inn Chambers to make a gentle and kindly inquiry as to how he was progressing in his new duties. Work being pressing at thr moment, Mr. Haworth was asked to stay a Intle while. the impression formed by the secretary being that the old gentleman was probably a candidate for a pension. The secretary's astonishment was considerable when. in reply to the question as to the nature of his business, the answer came in a few brief words that he only desired to leave " a little something as an encouragement." Slowly from his pocket was brought what was thought to be a postal order, but in unfolding it there was the unmistakable rustle of a crisp bank note. Astonishment was yet to be increased when, not a $£ 5$ note but one for $£ 100$ was slowly and carefully smoothed out upon the table. Thus began an annual custom, broken only once or twice in thirteen years. Throughout that period Mr. Haworth was a familiar guest at the Anniversary Festivals of the Institution, down to that upon which His Majesty, then Prince of Wales, presided, when the Royal president honoured him by a separate audience and evinced a gracious interest in his career.

As a mark of respect for his useful life, the Right Hon. Sir T. Vesey Strong (Lord Mayor) was present at the funeral service at St. Sepulchre's Church. Holborn, prior to his interment at Highgate.'

THE KING'S SYMPATHY

- On behalf of the Council, the secretary forwarded an intimation of Mr. Haworth's death to the Right Hon. Sir Arthur J. Bigge, His Majesty's Private Secretary, from whom the following reply was received :-

York Cottage, Sandringham,

14th January, 1911.

Dear Mr. Mortimer.

I have received and laid before the King your letter of the 11th instant. His Majesty heard with regret of the death of Mr. Haworth, who, during his long life had done so much to benefit those engaged in the handicraft of printing.
The King well remembers, on the occasion of your Festival in 1909, meeting Mr. Haworth, and that he was known to be one of the oldest bell-ringers in the United Kingdom. His Maiesty is touched at the wish of the old man -alas! not to be realised-to ring at Westminster Abbey at his Coronation.
Will you be good enough to convey to Mr. Haworth's family the expression of His Majesty's sympathy with them in their loss.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) ARTHUR BIGGE.'
Extract from the annual report for the year 1912:-
'The Institution has bencfited by the Will of the late Mr. J. R. Haworth to the extent of $£ 25619 \mathrm{~s}$. To perpetuate the memory of 50 remarkable and generous a friend of the Institution. the Council have had placed over his grave in Highgate Cemetery a stone commemorating his long years of self-denying devotion to the cause of the aged printer.'

GIFT OF FURNITURE

Notes from Mr. Robert H. Lucas, Secretary of the 'Printers' Pension and Almshouse and Orphan Asylum Corporation, sent to Mr. E. A. Young:-

- The present secretary was informed by Mr. Mortimer that on one occasion Mr. Haworth visited the offices and complaned that the furniture then existing was not dignified for so important an Institution He then took Mr. Mortimer to one of the large furnishing stores ( forget which) and hought the present Board Room furniture. When he got back to the office with Mr. Mortimer he paid the bill in gold, and to ce'ebrate the occasion he took Mr Mortimer down to Henckeys, a wine store. ur derneath the Corpnration's offices. and ordered two short drinks. Just about this time there had been an increase in the price of whisky. and when the two drinks were bought he was charged a $\frac{1}{2} \mathrm{~d}$. each for soda water. This broke the old man's heart. and in spite of his generosity in handing over to the secretary ahout $£ 70$ in gold he refused point-blank the publican!'

Composed and conducted by Francis Edward Dawe.
Rung to commemorate the conductor's 50th birthday.
[Learning to ring in an age when youth is said to have been unwelcome. Frank Dawe was something of a prodigy in his day. He conducted a peal of Grandsire Caters on his 20th birthday. and one of Stedman Cinques from the 11th at St. Saviour's, Southwark, on his 21st. Master of the College Youths five times in the six years 1888-1893. he created a record unequalled in peace-time. succeeding in that office the ringer of the 2 nd in the above peal who. at less than 20 years of age, was (and still is) youngest ever to hold it. Mr. Dawe was also the first secretary of the Central Council. One of his ambitions was to ring a peal in every ancient cathedral of Great Britain possessing eight or more bells, and over a period of 50 years he came very near to accomplishing this. His death during the recent war passed almost unnoticed.]

50 YEARS AT ALMONDSBURY

Tributes to Mr. H. Atwell's Service

A very successful supper and a social evening were arranged by the local ringers on March 8th in the Old School Room at Almondsbury. Glos. to commemorate 50 years' ringing at the local tower by Mr. H. Atwell.

Mr. G. Harding (chairman, Bristol Rural Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association) presided over a paity of 35 which included the Vicar (the Rev. Radcliffe Cox). After the loyal toast the chairman said it gave him very great pleasure to come with his wife to such a gathering. Fifty years' ringing at one tower was no mean achievement and was something to be proud of. Mr. Atwell had done nothing spectacular but he had been a regular Sunday service ringer and always punctual and reliable. and these requirements meant so much to the captain and other ringers of any tower. He (the chairman) hoped Mr. Atwell would be spared many more years to carry on the good work.
The Vicar. in his remarks, thanked Mr. Atwell for his splendid record of service and said how much he and the church appreciated the amount of work he had put in.

The captain. Mr. Wells, and also the tower secretary, Mr. H. Robins. spoke of Mr. Atwell's service.
Mr . Atwell suitably replied and especially mentioned the late Stephen Wood and George Capewell. both of whom had done so much for Almondshiry tower
Sones. stories, and community singing brought to a close a very pleasant evening.

SHEFFIELD & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Society was held at Ranmoor on March 1st when about 35 members and friends gathered together to ring on the light ring of ten. Most of the towers in the area were represented and it was a special pleasure to welcome an old friend from Nottingham and a lady ringer from Stockport. The attendance would no doubt have been greater had it not been for a counter attraction at Bolsover. Derbyshire, where a re-opening after rehanging was taking place. However, "the faithful' were quickly in attendance as usual. and the bells were kept busy throughout the afternoon with rounds on ten for the less experienced, Bob Major and Grandsire Triples, Little Bob Royal and a really well-struck teatime touch of Stedman Caters.
In the Church Hall a magnificent repast was prepared by Capt. E. G. Dickens, M.C., and his helpers and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. At the business meeting which followed, the chair was taken by the Vicar of Ranmoor, the Rev. J. H. Pain, who made a short speech of welcome to the Society before commencing on the rather lengthy agenda. The balance sheet for 1951 was presented by the chief auditor. Mr. F. B. Ditcher. A total of 31 peals for the Society was reported, including one of Stedman Cinques, the leading conductor being the Ringing Master, Mr, N. Chaddock. The president, treasurer. Ringing Master and auditors were all re-elected to office and J. E. T. was called upon once again to 'sail the ship.'

THE LADIES GUILD West Midland District

A very enjoyable meeting was held at Shirley, Birmingham, on March 1st. Mr. V. A. Hemming welcomed the members and friends and an hour's ringing was enjoyed before tea, which was taken at the High Stool, Stratford Road.
The business meeting followed, the president, Mrs. D. E. Beamish. taking the chair. The secretary, Miss M. Beamish, read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were signed, and apologies were read from Mrs. Carpenter (Allesley), the Misses J. Knight, F. Warden and R. Ashley (Bulkington).

New members, proposed by Miss M. Bailey and seconded by Miss A. Timms, were Pamela Coles. June Kent. Wendy Stokes, Barbara Bayliss. Barbara Wilson, Pat Hickmott, Jocelyn Bland and Margaret Gough, all of the Shirley band.

Leamington was decided upon as the place of the next meeting. The members were asked to bear in mind the date of the 40th Anniversary Dinner to be held in Leicester on October 25th. Miss I. B. Thompson (Nottingham) was warmly welcomed
Methods rung during the meeting ranged from rounds and Grandsire Doubles to Double Norwich

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCLATION

Western Division's Encouraging

 ReportRingers, wives and friends, numbering 119, gathered at Arundel during the afternoon for the postponed annual meeting and dinner of the Western Division on March 8th.
The bells were ringing shortly after two o'clock and continued in methods up to Cambridge Major until the business meeting at 4.30 . A course of London Major was rung after.
It was a pleasure to have the Master of the Association (Mr. G. W. Cecil) in the chair for the second time in succession, supported by Mr S. E. Armstrong (hon. general secretary). The Bishop and Archdeacon of Chichester sent their best wishes to the members and regretted their inability to be present. A satisfactory report and balance sheet was approved and adopted by the meeting.
One alteration was made in the election of officers, that of auditor changing from Mr F. S. Smithers to Miss E. W. Keys. A suggestion to form a library was accepted. One of the young girls from Thakeham received congratulations on ringing her first peal, an achievement which reflects great credit on the leader at Thakeham (Mr. B. W. Farhall). The admirable bell-handling of the young persons from this tower has frequently been commented upon. The business meeting concluded with several expressions of thanks to the many contributors to the day's programme and the Divisional Ringing Master (Mr. R. P. Wood) out lined his policy to encourage further the many young ringers in the Division.
Yet, with so much accent on youth, it was pleasing to hear the expression: ' It's nice to see old John Netley here to-day:' Indeed, it is more pleasing to know of the high esteem in vtich -this grand old gentleman is held at his cwn tower of Lyminster. It is helpful at times to pause awhile and recall the amount of lad ringing these old veterans must have tolerated to encourage the present day Surprise ringer

TWENTY-ONE YEARS IN OFFICE
The most notable performance in the Division's recent history is unknown to many. The minutes of a meeting held at Heene on February 29th, 193S. records: "Mr. Butcher proposed and Mr. Walter Charman seconded a vote of, thanks to the retiring secretary, which was received with acclamation. Mr Groves replied thanking Mr. Butcher and Mr. Charman for their kind words and praise; also all the members, who had supported him during the 21 years he had held office without once being absent from a meeting.' Is any ringing performance quite equal to such an achievement? The 'Father, of the Division (Mr. A. W. Groves), it is sad to report, is in very poor health. What of progress if ringers fai recognise the work and example of these old Masters of our art?

Evensong followed. conducted by the Vicar of Arundel (the Rev. H. A. King) whose address on the various expressions of hells was helpful. A collection was taken for the local Bells Fund

The company then adjourned to a nearby hall for a dinner and social evening. It will be gratifying to the many helpers, from the typing of tickets and arrancing of tables and trestles to the talented vocalists, to know how much their efforts were appreciated. The wholehearted co-operation of so many could not fail to produce the desired result. Thank you for a grand time

TOLERANCE AND INTOLERANCE

FROM time to time there appear in our paper articles dealing with events and epochs in the history of ringing and reminding us of the achievements and work of men of the past. To a number of ringers these accounts of past times are of little interest and are often dismissed with impatience as being of importance only to the antiquarian. To most ringers, on the other hand, there must be a fascination in tracing the rise and fall of ringing bands, the struggles of composers towards the light of knowledge, the early transactions of guilds, and the gradual growth of prestige of the Central Council.

It was to Inspector Macdonald, who bluntly declared that he was a practical man and had no time for the criminal of the past, that Sherlock Holmes offered this reproof: 'Mr. Mac, the most practical thing you did in your life would be to shut yourself up for three months and read twelve hours a day at the annals of crime.' To the person who ignores the past the same advice might well be offered; for the story of ringing will undoubtedly hold for us, among other things, a chastening and a corrective, a means of humbling ourselves and adjusting our own achievements in the light of those of bygone ringers, and a source from which we may learn tolerance and moderation in the expression of our views.

For out of the intolerance, prejudice and suspicion of days gone by there have emerged slowly but surely reasonableness, forbearance and generosity, and a general desire to conduct our affairs, and particularly our controversial affairs, with dignity and restraint. This, of course, was not always so. The early volumes of 'The Bell News,' and particularly those of the ' 90 's, bear witness to jealousies and suspicions and rivalry brought often to the point of violent hatred. No one can read. for example, the great Kidlington dispute of 1899, the violent attack on the Bermondsey peal of the same year, the allegations relating to the record peal of London at Drayton, or even the minor disputes, without agreeing with reputable folk like Canon Papillon, G. E. D. Boutflower and R. A. Daniell that the whole makes melancholy reading.

It would be wrong, of course, to suppose that all controversy of that day was conducted with such inelegance and bitterness as those just mentioned, but even in the scientific discussions there was frequently an apparent lack of desire to approach problems objectively and to reject personalities. Among the composers and method builders there were constant disputes and arguments, and these ranged from the rude, such as the Rogers-Davis quarrel over peals of Grandsire Caters, to the frankly amusing John Carter-William Palmer claims to a method known as King's Norton Pleasure. Composers of the day were fierce in the defence of their progeny, and although the claims to originality were often so slight as to be inadmissible to-day, at that time they were fought for with great vigour.

It is probably true to say that much good has emerged from these former disputes, deplorable as the conduct of many of them may have been. For out of them has come knowledge, and with it a realisation that abuse is not argument. The controversy of to-day is often vigorous and outspoken, and it is well that at times it should be so. But the mistakes of the past have given to us a larger measure of tolerance in our dealings with each other, and in the maintaining of this spirit the reading of past days must have much value.

NEWS FROM DEVON

MANY of our readers have the happiest of recollections of Devonshire, a county favoured for its holiday attractions and the generous manner in which its towers are placed at the disposal of visiting ringers. This week we have received the 77th annual report of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers which will be presented at the annual meeting on Easter Monday. The outstanding event of 1951 was the rally held at Exeter to celebrate Festival of Britain year, which was attended by 350 ringers from all parts of the county. This was the largest assembly of ringers as a body throughout the country during 1951, and it is a matter of congratulation that a Guild with a membership of only 541 can stage such an event in co operation with the Devon Association of Ringers.

During the year 28 peals were rung, twelve of which were by a party of visitors during August. Of the remainder it is pleasant to observe that no fewer than 31 first peals or first peals in the method are recorded. The deaths of two notable figures in the Guild are recorded with regret. Mr. T. Laver was general secretary from 1925 to 1940 and general treasurer from 1941 to 1947, and for a few years one of the Guild's representatives on the Central Council. The other was Mr. A. H. Hayward, and it was entirely due to his leadership that change ringing has survived at all in North Devon, and the Combe Martin band, in continuing to build on the foundations he so well established, are paying the finest possible tribute to his memory.

Anniversaries, which may conceivably be called noteworthy, were commemorated by the quarter peal of Cambridge Major rung at Woburn on March 15 th, namely, the 70th of the founding of the Bedfordshire Association. the 100 th birthday of Mrs. Frost (now living with the people's churchwarden). the 4th of the latter's grandson, the 54th of the conductor's elder son (all on the same date) and the 77th of the conductor himself (Mr. H. D. Harris) which occurred the previous week.

Miss Gillian Goulding is the first lady to ring a peal on the bells of St. Clcment's, Ipswich.

Twyford bells were installed in 1913 and the peal on March 8th was the first to be rung on them by the local bandd. There were four first deals.

Mr. Frank C. W. Knight, who has been away from ringing for nearly two years through a ruptured intestinc. has now started ringing again. He has recently been appointed Director of Music at Finchley Grammar School.

The regular service band at St. James', West Derby, consists entirely of lady ringers under the supervision of Mr. W. H. Rawsthorne. With the assistance of Mr. Rawsthorne and Mr. Fred Woodward they are making good progress with Plain Bob.
Mr. J. Cheek, who rang the tenor to the peal at Arreton. Isle of Wight, on March 13th, is the first local ringer to take part in a peal although the tomb of William Raynor, a noted Newport (I.W.) ringe- of 150 years ago. is situated in the shadow of the tower. This ring was augmented to six by the addition of a treble last year and so far as is known a peal was never rung on the old five.

GOSSIP

We regret to announce the death on March 18th of Mr. J. Rumley, a wellknown London ringer, who rang at Westminster Abbey. As is the custom of servants of the Abbey, his remains were taken to the Abbey the night before the funeral to lie in state.

The average age of the band that rang the peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major at Ashton-under-Lyne on March 1st was 19 years 4 months. Is this the youngest band ever to ring a peal of Double Norwich?
It is pleasing to see Miss Eileen Symons (president of the Truro Guild) name in a peal again, this being at Sennen. Her last previous peal was at Gulval in 1939.
In the peal of Stedman Cinques rung at St. Martin's Birmingham, on March 4th, no calls were made except the opening and turning courses. Whilst. of course, there can be no question of claiming a non-conducted peal, the band find that it adds interest to peals if those on the working bells can ring the composition without bobs being called.
There were two 13 -year-old ringers--James L. Fitzgerald and Brynley J. Parry-in the peal of Grandsire Cinques at St. Woolos' Cathedral Newport, on March 8th. They are both pupils of Mr. Donald G. Clarke, and their performances were all the more praiseworthy in that they were on the front end where the bells are almost set up at every stroke. It was the first 12-bell peal for the Association, in which the majority of the ringers were resident members. The peal enabled Miss Jacqueline Evans and Messrs. D. G. Clarke. A. Ryan Price. T. Yeomans, L. A. Tremeer, C. Greedy and R. E. Coles to complete Grandsire from Doubles to Cinques.

FOUR RINGERS REMEMBERED

At Rededication of Bolsover Bells

On Saturday, March 1st, the bells of Bolsover Parish Church were re-opened after rehanging on ball bearings by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough

A very impressive service in the Parish Church was conducted by the Vicar, Canon G A. Lewis-Lloyd, and one of the lessons was read by Mr. A B. Cooper, joint Ringing Master of the Bolsover band.

In his address the Vicar made several references to a recent leading article in 'The Ringing World 'and stressed that the ringing of church bells must always be recognised as part of the complete act of worship. A tower which was full of ringers for a mid-week practice but empty on Sundays was a bad tower stated Canon Lloyd, but the tension which sometimes seemed to exist between incumbents and ringers was often exaggerated when reported in print and should be avoided at all costs by mutual discussion and consideration on both sides.

During the service Canon Lloyd reminded the congregation of the faithful service given to the church in Bo!sover by four former ringers John Flint. Charles Mason, Jesse J. Moss and Remaliah Coupe, in whose honour and memory the bells had been restored

An illuminated scroll, designed and painted by one of the Bolsover Sunday School teachers to record the names of the four ringers, was placed in the ringing room. Whilst the congregation were singing the last hymn the Vicar and the server went in procession to the ringing chamber and the service concluded with prayers of dedication and thanksgiving.

A band of Bolsover ringers rang the opening touch-Little Bob Major-and despite new ropes the striking was well up to the standard established over many years. Approximately 60 ringers were present from Chesterficld, Staveley. Denby Derby. North Wingfield, Warsop, Trecton. Diss and Heath and the bells were rung to various methods.

Tea was provided in the Church Hall and in a short speech Canon Lewis-Lloyd said how pleased he had been to see so many visitors at the service and in the tower. Mr. A. B. Cooper thanked all subscribers to the restoration fund and the wives of the ringers who had prepared the substantial meal. Mr. F. Adams, chairman of the Chesterfield District of the Derbyshire Association, replied for the visitors. Mr. Paul Taylor, representing the bell-hangers, spoke of how much he enjoyed his first visit to Bolsover.

BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM By permission of the 'MidSussex Times

A wedding of great interest to Sussex ringers took place on March 15th at Cuckfield Parish Church. The bridegroom, Mr. Kenneth A. Snelling, eldest son of Mr. A. Snelling and the late Mrs. Snelling, of 73, High Street. Crawley, is captain of the Crawley ringers. His bride, Miss Gladys A. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attractively dressed in a long pale blue classic gown of crepe marocain, worn with a cap of the same material. She carricd a bouquet of carnations, anemones and freesias. and wore a dark blue necklace, the gift of the bridegroom.
Mrs. Violet G. Reid (sister of the bride) was the matron of honour. She was attited in a pale blue gown of cloque, her bouquet being composed of mauve tulips and freesias. She was presented with a string of pearls by the bridegroom.
Mr. Stanley Snelling (brother of the bridegroom) was best man.
Following the service a recention was given by the bride's parents in the W.I. Hall.

After the service the bells rang merrily and a peal of Oxford Bob Triples was rung at Cuckfield on March 17th, in honour of the occasion.
On the previous Sunday evening the couple were presented with a chiming clock in the helfry of St. John's Church, Crawley, hy thèir fellow-ringers.

A GUIDE TO PLYMOUTH BELLS

We have received a copy of "The Rings of Church Bells in the City of Plymouth.' by F. Stuart Worth, a handy little book for those visiting the West Country. In a foreword, the Bishop of Plymouth writes: 'It brings together information not otherwise easily accessible and it will be of value both to ringers and to all who are interested in our ancient city.

IRISH ASSOCIATION

Eastern District

The annual meeting of the Eastern District of the Irish Association was held in Drogheda, Co. Louth. on St. Patrick's Day, when 70 bellringers from Arklow, Bray, Dublin (St. Patrick's and Christ Church Cathedrals, St. John's O.S.A. and St. George's), Londonderry, Belfast and Holywood and the local tower attended.
The contest for the Gabriel Lindoff Cup took place on the bells of St. Feter's Church-a fine eight recently restored by Taylor's. Bray were the first to compete and came out with 610 faults due to bad rhythm and clashing. St. George's, Dublin, were next and had reasonably good rhythm but poor changing; they recorded 402 faults. Drogheda team then competed. Their rhythm was not so good but their changing was almost perfect; they recorded 202 faults. The judges. Dr. S. E. Darmon and Mrs. Darmon and Mr. J. T. Dunwoody, worked independently and all arrived at the same results-comparatively speaking. They awarded the cup to Drogheda team. This is the first bell-ringing trophy ever won by them The team was as follows:-W. Bovenizer 1, J. Huber (15) 2. W. Green 3, Rita Dukes 4, F, Henly 5. W Graham 6, F. E. Dukes (conductor 7. M. Kearney 8. Ringers of 3 and 5 last month completed 50 years' service in ringing at Drogheda. Mr. Robert W. Smyth acted as Ringing Master for the competition.
Drogheda now have to meet finalists of Southern and Northern District contests to decide the destination of the All-Ireland trophy -the Murphy Cup.
The District chairman. Mr. F. Henly, called upon Mrs. S. E. Darmon to present the cup to Mrs. Dukes, the only lady competitor in the competition.

THE BUSINESS MEETING

The busin ss meeting was presided over by the District chairman, Mr. Fred Henly; also present were the Association 'president, Mir. William Pratt and Northern secretary, Mr. J. T. Dunwoody.

Fourtcen new members were elected and they were presented with membership certificates by the president.
The election of officers resulted as follows:Chairman. Mr. James MacManus (St. John's. Dublin); treasurer. Mr. John Fennell (Bray); Ringing Master. Mrs. S. E. Darmon (nêe Jean Southerst). St. Patrick's. Dublin ; secretary, Mr. Fred E. Dukes; vice-president of Executive Council. Mr. Sam Evans (Arklow) : delegates on Executive Council. Mrs. Darmon, Messrs. J. Fennell and J. MacManus.

Lunch and tea were kincly provided for the meeting by the local company. The ringers' wives made the catering arrangements and were supervised by Mrs. T. Emerson-an expert in this side of bell-ringing activity, although not a ringer. The arrangements were well appreciated.
The bells of St. Pcter's Church were put to good use during the day between $10 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. and 6.30 p.m. when touches of Plain Bob Triples. Grandsire Triples. Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major and Cambridge Surprise were rung. much to the pleasure of the inexperienced in method ringing. Some well-struck touches were heard and were conducted by Mrs. Darmon, Dr. Darmon. Messrs. John Dunwoody and F, E. Dukes. Handbells were available and touches of Plain Bob Minor and Major were rung.
Blessington and Dublin were decided as the venues of the next two meetings and a proposal to hold the 1954 annual meeting in Kilkenny jointly with Southern District was unanimously approved

By ERNEST MORRIS

II is probable that the earliest clock-bells were not actually sounded mechanically by the horologe. but rung by hand at stated times. The exact date when clocks, in the modern sense, were invented is unknown. All kinds of devices were tried by the ancients for measuring time and probably some of these evolved by almost imperceptible gradations into the primitive dial with its revolving hands. A curious clock. the admiration of all who saw it was presented to Charlemagne by the Caliph Haroun al Raschid, and mention is made at Westminster of one in the year 1288.

Clocks striking the hours in Italy early as the ent of the 13 th century. and the great clock at Strasbourg Cathedral, which has a number of small bells struck by figures, was first constructed in 1352 . Legend has it that the artifizer who made it destroyed it in revenge for having had his eyes put out lest he should make another equally wonderful clock for some other church. This clock has been reconstructed twice since. the first time being from 1550 to 1574 , the chief designer being Conrad Rauchfuss. assisted by David Volkenstein. an astronomer. the brothers Habreecht constructing the mechanism. and Tobias Stimmer doing the ornamental parts. Michael Habrecht repaired the clock in 1669 and Jacques Straubhar again in 1732 . It ccased to act in 1789 and the presen! clock was commenced in 1838 by Schineque and finished in 1842
All these clocks were alike in complexity and the present one has four little bells on which the quarters of the hours are struck. At the first. the figure of a little boy comes forward and strikes the first hell with an apple ; at the second a youth strikes two bells with a dart: at the third an armed man strikes three bells with a sword: al the fourth an o'd man comes with a staff and strikes four bells. At each quarter a figure of Death comes and tries to catch the boy or the man: but on the other side comes the figure of the Saviour who drives Death in again. At the last quarter Death is allowed to strike the hour on the large bell with the bone of a skeleton

JACKS OF THE CLOCKHOUSE

Similar clocks were formerly not uncommon in England the automata being popularly knowns as 'Jacks, or 'Jacks of the Clockhouse." The clock and its bells in Old St Paul's is thus described :-

- The great dial is your last monument, where testow some half of the three score minutes to observe the sauciness of the Jacks that are above the man in the moon there: the strangeness of their motion will quit your labour.
These Jacks. of course perished in the great fire of 1666 with the Cathedral, and at one time there was in contemplation a scheme to replace them. A naner called 'The Affairs of the World. published in 1700 , assures us that 'Mr. Tompion, the famous watchmaker in Fleet Sireet. is making a clock for St. Paul's Cathedral which. it is said, will go one hundred years without winding un, will cost $£ 3.000$ or $£ 4.000$ and will be far finer than the famous clock at Strasbourg: For some reason this scheme was not carried out and St. Paul's had to be without its Jacks. The hoom of the hour from the great bell now used must be infinitely more impressive than would have been possible had some imitation of the Strasbourg clock been adonted.
Mr. T. Reid, writing on clocks. avers that on a clear. still day in June. 1773. he heard St. Paul's bell toll noon at Windsor, twenty-two miles off: and the story of the soldier condemned to death for sleeping at bis post on sentry on Windsor terrace, but saved his life by declaring that he heard St. Paul's bell strike thirteen at midnıght. and producing evidence that it actually did so, is well known,

ST. DUNSTAN'S

The most famous Jacks in London are the giants of St. Dunstan's. Fleet Street. They and their clock were constructed in 1671 by Thomas Hardy and they continued the admiration of all country visitors to town until the old church was pulled down in 1829. Lord Hertford purchased the clock and all its appurtenances and put it up at his villa in Regent Park. The mechanism caused the two giants to strike two bells which hung beside them at each quarter hour Recently thev were restored to their original place at St. Dunstan's. where they now carry on their work of marking the fleeting hours as they did in olden days.
We also recall the famous figures of Gog and Magog who did duty in Cheapside, London. assisted by their subsidiary figures of Father Time and Venus. These two giants were for seventy or more years one of the 'Sights of London.' but in 1929 were sold to Mr. Henry Ford who took them to his museum in America.

Other Jacks may be scen at Southwold and Blythburgh, in Suffolk but these, like many of their kind. no longer fulfil their original duties. Minehead. Somerset, has a Jack now on the rood screen. and two at Norwich Cathedral no longer perform their ancient tasks. A!! Saints' (Leicester) Carfax (Oxford). St. Mary's (Exeter). Wimborne Minster and York Minster have their examples and. of course, Wells Cathedral which has several.
Shakespeare, who rarely missed any such items. refers to such 'Jack o' the Clocks ' in 'Richard II..' Act v., Sc. 5:-
Runs posting on in Bolingbroke's proud joy.
While 1, stand fooling here, his Jack o' the clock.'
And again in 'Richard III.'. Act iv., Sc. 2 :like a Jack thou keen'st the stroke
Betwixt thy begging and my meditation.'
In an old comedy produced in 1615 'The Fleire,' by Edward Sharpman, it is said of some gossids:-
' Their tongues are like a Jack o' the clock, stil! in labour.
Leigh in his 'New Picture of London.' Cowper in his 'Table Talk.' and Sir Walter Scott in 'Fortunes of Nigel' all refer to the giants of St. Dunstan's.

CLOCK BELLS

Many churches still oossess special hells for the clock to strike on (though usually it is the ordinary bells which are used for the quarters, and the tenor for the hour). They are to be found in London and manv in the Eastern Counties, some dozen or more being of mediaval date and may originallv have bern Sanctus bells. One at Sonning. Berks. dates from 1300 , and those at Hadleigin and Stowmarket. Suffolk. are also of the 14th centurv. Others again are of the period just prior to the Reformation and are nrobablv genuine clock-hells, as at Bocking. Great Chesterford and Littlehury (Fssex). Linton (Cambs) and Stoke-by-Clare (Suffolk). They are usually hung 'dead' in a frame as they only require to be struck hy a hammer. not swung by a rope. In some instances they hang outside on the spire as for example Hadleigh. Stowinarket (Suffolk). Braintree (Essex), Histon (Cambs). Barnstaple (Devon) and elsewhere.
St. Paul's and Worcester Cathedrals not only possess special hour bells. like most other Cathedrals, hut also quarter hells. as does Kidderminster Parish Church. and there are, of course, many examples in secular edifices of which the best known is the Palace of Westminster
The flight of time at sea is marked by a number of strokes on a bell, hung usually near the mizzen mast or in the forecastle. The whole day is divided into seven watches, five of four hours each and two 'dog-watches' of (wo hours each. At the end of each half-hour a bell rings, telling by the number of strokes how many of the half-hours constituting that particular watch has elapsed. Thus three bells' does not of itself indicate the time of the day. but simply that three half-hours of the watch have passed
The use of bells as time-tellers finds especially frequent mention by the pocts. Thus in a wellknown passage in his 'Nigbt Thoughts.' Young exclaims :--

The bell strikes onc, We take no note of time but from its loss,
Campbell, alluding to the invention of the clock by the Germans. whom he addresses in one of his odes, expresses this wish on their behalf:-

The clock ye formed to tell
By its sound, the march of time.
Let it clang oppression's knell
O er your chime !
THE BELLRINGER'S POET
Longfellow. who has been called the 'Bellringer's Poet. has several allusions to bells proclarming the hours at various times. Thus in Daybreak ':-

It shouted through the belfry tower
Awake $\mathbf{O}$ beli! Proclaim the hour
In ' Kerames ' we hear:-
suddenly sounding peal on pcal
The church bell from the neighbouring town Proclaimed the welcome bour of noon. Again in 'The Ropewalk':-

Then an old man in a tower.
Ringing loud the noon-tide hour.
While the rope coils round and round like a serpent at his feet.
And again in swift setreai
Nearly lifts him from the ground.'
In 'Evangelin?' we read:-
So the morning passed away: And lo! with a summons sonorous
Sounded the bell from its tower. and over the meadows a drum beat,
Thronged ere long was the church with men.'
In 'King Witlaf's Drinking Horn':Till the great bells of the convent. From their nrison in the tower. Guthlac and Bartholomew. Proclaimed the midnight hour.'
Sir Walter Scott in 'The Bridal of Triermain.' canto 3, vi. :-
'Twas then was heard a heavy sound.
(Sound. strange and fearful there to hear,
Mongst desert hills. where leaques around,
Dwelt but the gorcock and the deer).
As. starting from his couch of fern
Again he heard. in clangour stern,
That deep and solemn swe!!.
Twelve times, in measured toncs. it spoke
Like some nroud Minster's pealing clock,
Or city's 'larum bell.
What thought was Roland's. fucct when fell
In that deep wilderness. the kme:l
Upon his startlecu ear?
Tn slander warrior were I loth,
Yet milst I hold miv minstrel trothIt was a thought of fear.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The Northern District he!d a monthly meeting at Offlev on March 22nd. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. followed hv a short servico conducted by the Vicar the Rev. J. M. Courtenav. About 30 members and friends had tea together and a short business meeting was conduetrd by Mr. A. E. Symonds. Methods ranged from rounds to Surprise Minor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY PEAL BOOK

Dear Sir,-Mr. Semmens is correct in saying that the peal book of the Oxford University Society was missing during his Mastership, but he will be pleased to learn that it returned to Oxford some time ago.
I do not remember an attempt for a Victory peal at St. Mary-the-Virgin's. On VE Day and the following day three peals were rung, one "in hand ' one at Carfax and one at St. Ebbe's. but the Carfax peal was subsequently found to have been false, and was withdrawn. On VJ Day the Socicty was on a ringing tour in Cambridge and it was on this occasion that the peal was rung at the Cambridge University Church.

In conclusion I should like to congratulate the band which rang at St. Mary-the-Virgin's. I was able to listen to more than half of the peal and considered it an extremely good performance. - Yours truly.

Oxford.
KATHLEEN HIGGINS.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD AT OXFORD

Dear Sir,-I note that a correspondent in a recent issue appears to labour under a misapprehension regarding the peal-ringing prowess of the Cambridge University Guild. The true facts of their attempt for a peal at the University Church in Oxford are these:-The day, the hour and the band were fixed and permission was granted but the organisers entirely omitted to obtain the key. As a result the peal attempt had to be abandoned through lack of time but an excellent quarter peal was brought round.

As to the peal supposedly rung by the Oxford University Society on VJ Day. I suggest that your correspondent has again misunderstood the facts. A peal was, indeed, rung, but not for the University Society, and I believe it was subsequently withdrawn due to falseness.-Yours faithfully.

THANKS TO NEWCHCRCH, LANCS

Dear Sir.-In the autumn of 1948 a Service friend and I approached the captain of the local ringers and requested instruction in change-ringing Despite the fact that either of us was liable to leave the district at short notice, our request was granted and we received our first lessons in bell-handling.

Within a month my friend had gone overseas but, despite this early disappointment, my teacher continued to drive home the ethics of ringing, and I eventually graduated to chranges, touches and finally service ringing.

In the three and a half years' ringing 1 enjoyed with the Newchurch band, two facts have been indelibly impressed on my mind the value of open leads and good striking. Could any aspiring bellringer have been given more? I think not.

Thus, through the medium of "The Ringing World.' I would like to place on record this small token of gratitude for the kindness and tolerance shown by Mr. Joseph Leatherbarrow and the ringers of Newchurch, in Lancashire.Sincercly yours.

CURFEW TOWER, WINDSOR

Dear Sir,-I should like to point out that some of the information recently published about the Curfew Tower. Windsor Castle, was rather misleading.
The belfry. that is, the tower itself, is much older than indicated and was actually built as part of the fortifications during the years 1227 1230. It was only the wooden bellframe which was constructed in 1478 when the bells were moved from the campanile in which they had previously hung.

As regards the ringing, it is not correct to say there is a peal attempt on the death of a Sovereign; the bells are simply rung muffied during the evening of the day of the funeral.

Lastly, with regard to the statement that bells hung in timber have a better tone, I would suggest that tone in a different sense was intended and it was meant to convey the fact that a timber frame added tone to the bell's and the whole building.-Yours, etc.

Windsor.

RINGERS* INSURANCE

Dear Sir.-The question of insurance against ringing accidents has not bothered many of us until the recent tragic event of which we all have read. A number of churches have insured the ringers, but upon investigation it has been found that the policy is merely one of third-party cover, whereby the Parochial Church Council insures against any claim by a paid or voluntary church worker who has been accidentally injured by anything proved to be caused by negligence on the part of the Parochial Church Council.

Having approached many well-known insurance companies and finding nothing suitable, I eventually contacted the Ecolesiastical Insurance Office, of Norfolk St., Strand. W.C.. and have found that a proper 'Bellringers' Policy is in existence. drawn up in conjunction with the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers. I am sure that hundreds of ringers, like myself. had no knowledge of such a policy. It covers any given number of ringers: automatically allows for increase of membership during the year: covers a ringer in his own tower or any other: and also covers travelling to and from ringing at any time. All for a premium of 2 s . a year per member !! Surely this should be regularly advertised so that new ringers know of the existence of such an insurance.

The Guildford Guild is sending a circular to each of its towers logether with a proposal form. urging the captain to take up the matter with the Parochial Church Council. failing which. the ringing company should take out the policy themselves. Perhaps some Guilds and Associations already have collective policies. but I have not heard of any.-Yours, etc..

THOMAS NASH OF BATH

By ERNEST MORRIS

The note in a resent issue regarding the singular bequest made by Thomas Nash to the ringers of Bath Abbcy is contained in a codicil to his will, proved in Doctors' Commons thus:-
'I do hereby give and bequeath to the Mayor, the Senior Alderman and Town Clerk of Bath for the time being. the sum of $£ 50$ per annum, in trust payable out of the Bank Long Annuities, standing in my name at the Bank of England, for the use, benefit and enjoyment of the set of ringers belonging to the Abbey Church, Bath. on condition of their ringing. on the whole peal of bells, with clappers muffied, various solemn and doleful changes (allowing proper intervals for rest and refreshment) from eight o'clock in the morning until eight o'clock in the evenings, on the 14th day of May in every year, being the anniversary wedding-day: and also the anniversary of my decease. to ring a grand bob major and many mirthful peals unmuffled, during the same space of time, and allowing the same intervals as above mentioned, in joyful commemoration of my happy release from domestic tyranny and wretchedness; and for the full. strict. and due performance of such conditions, they. the said ringers, are to receive the sum of $£ 50$ per annum, in two payments of $£ 25$ each. on those respective days of my marriage and decease. And now that dear divine man (to use Mr. Nash's own words) the Rev. - of -_. may resume his amatory labours, without enveloping himself in a sedan chair for fear of detection. I further will and direct that the aforesaid ringer: do enter upon office (for the first time only the very next day following my interment. and to receive $£ 25$, one half-year's dividend for so doing. Written with my hand the 14 th day of May. 1813.

Thomas Nash.
The above inspored the late Mr. G. F. Margetson to break out with:

Come muse. let's sing of Thomas Nash, Who found a wife at Bath;
Who gnashed his teeth while queathing cash For ringers' gain and mirth.
Upon the 14 th day of May-
His anniversary wedding day
No joyous peals were they to ring. But long. sad. dolefu! knells :
His love had proved a wretched thing, So muffled are the bells.
With proper intervals for rest You're sure the ringers try their best.
Whole pull and stand they labour on, From morning until night.
Not sorry when the hours are gone, To see the end in sight:
Diversions then employ the cash Left by the will of Thomas Nash.
And since poor Tom has gone aloft, They ring for his decease.
Most joyous peals come stealing forth In praise of his relcase.
From all the miseries of life. By taking to himself a wife.
Bob Majors now ring wild and true. To tell poor Tom is dead.
Reminding those he never knew
To pause before they wed:
Great is the ringers' grief for Nash. But tears subside where there is cash.

PEAL WITHIDRAWN

Dear Sir.-l have just been informed by the peal secretary of thz Yorkshire Association that a composition of 5,040 Forward Major which I conducted at Handsworth. Yorks, on August 15th. 1951, is false and must be struck from the records.

May I tender my sincere apologies to all those who took part in the peal. Yours truly,

EAST GRINSTEAD GUILD Retiring Chairman Appointed  Vice-President

The 25 th annual meeting of the Guild was held at East Grinstead on March 8th when 53 members attended. representing most of the towers in the Guild's area.

After some trouble in finding the right key for the belfry door the bells were raised at 3.15 and continued in methods up to Double conducted by the president. Dr. G. GoldingBird. with Mr. Pattern at the organ. The address was by the Rev. H. F. Burroughs, Vicar of Hammerwood.

As usual, the president entertained the company to tea in the small Parish Hall and afterwards took the chair for the business meeting. conducting the same in the way the Guild had come to expect by getting up and telling some tale or anecdote between items on the agenda.
Two new members were elected-the Misses Margaret Ladd and Valerie Rood, both of Tunbridge Wells.
The balance sheet showed a drop of $£ 10 \mathrm{~s} .1 \mathrm{~d}$. on the year's working. mainly owing to the cost of entering peals into the new book and this deficit would have been much more had it not been for an anonymous donation of £5 5s.

All the officers were re-elected with the exception of Mr. E. J. Oliver, who, owing to illhealth, felt obliged to resien his oftice as treasurer. Mr. E. J. Ladd, the chairman, and Mr. G. D. Burroughs, the auditor, both spoke of Mr. Oliver's excellent services to the Guild. and said that they were sure that members would know Mr. Oliver was not giving up through lack of interest. From the chair it was proposed that. in recognition of his services. Mr. Oliver should be made a vice-president. This was immediately seconded and carried with acclamation. On the proposition of Mr . B. Collison, Mr. A. F. Wellington, of Tunbridge We!ls, was elected treasurcr.

After alternative routes had heen passed round. the one via Haslemere and Chichester was chosen for the summer outing and it was agreed that it should be held on a meeting day but in which month caused quite a discussion. Finally, after being put to the vote. August was chosen.
Mr. E. J. Ladd proposed that the Guild should celebrate its silver jubilee by holding a dinner in East Grinstead some time in the autumn. This was agreed to and a small sub-committce was set up to make all the arrangements.
At the end of the business all those responsible for making the meeting such a success were heartily thanked. especially Dr. GoldingBird and Miss Shepherd and as the company left the hall the usual belfry collection was made and realised $£ 16 \mathrm{~s}$. 7d.

RINGING RHYMES

No. 7. METHOD-FORMS

All methods into two groups fall.
The first we 'Omni-working' call:
Because all bells the same work do
In running straight the plain course through.
Examples: Erin, Duffield, and-
The method Stedman, well thought grand!
The second class is 'Hunt-controlled.' So-called because one bell will hold A steady hunting course right through.
The rest-dependent work will do.
Such hunt-bell mostly treble is.
Though other bells might well be this. Some methods have a second bell Within the hunt. (As most know well!)
Thus: Grandsire, D.N.Caters, show (With others) how these twin-hunts go. At calls the second 'hunt ' comes out. At calls the second hunt comes out.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD
A quarterly meeting of the Guild was held at the Church of St. Teilo, Llandilo, on March 8th. The bells were available at 2 p.m. and the service, at 3.30 p.m., was conducted by the Vicar (Canon Tudor Hughes), assisted by the Revs. V. L. T. Evans and R. H. Evans. Mrs. P. R. Davies was the organist.

The ringers were entertained to a very nice tea at the Church Hall where 25 members attended and the Vicar presided at the business meeting.
Before the meeting was opened all the members stood up as a token of respect to two members of the Guild who had died since the last meeting-Mrs. W. Buttress, of Godre-yGraig, and Mrs. Ed. J. Thomas, of Carmarthen. The Vicar offered a prayer.

The Vicar then declared the meeting open and the usual touch on the handbells was rung by Mr. Brian Price, Mr. Scudamore and Mr. C. H. Hawkins

A collection for the Bell Restoration Fund realised $£ 14 \mathrm{~s}$., and three new ringing members were made; the Vicar kindly consented to become a vice-president of the Guild.
The next quarterly meeting will be at Pembroke on September 13th. The secretary reminded members of the annual meeting which will take place at St. David's Cathedral on June 14th.
Although the attendarce of the ringing members was poor, the presence of Mr . Brian Price. of Brynmawr, Breconshire. Mr. D. J. Hughes, of Llandilo. Mr. L. T. Morgan, of Burry Port, and many other honorary members made the meeting a success.
A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the Vicar by Mr. J. T. Williams, of Morriston, for having the Guild at Llandilo and for the very nice tea received. This was supported by the secretary and the Vicar suitably responded.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION  Western District at Brighouse

The annual mecting of the Western District was held on March 15th at St. Martin's Church, Brighouse, when over 50 members were present from a very representative area. Despite the restrictive dimensions of the beifry, relays of visitors kept the bells going in a variety of methods until 5 p.m. when members sat down to an excellent tea provided by the local company.
At the business mecting which followed. Mr. T. W. Strangeway was re-elected Ringing Master. and Messrs. A. Bairstow and E. H. Simpson were re-elected to the District committee. Mr. A. W. Bond was elected to the vacant seat on the committce caused by the resignation of Mr. W. Dransficld. Mr. A. Bairstow retains his seat on the general committee. Arrangements will be made to hold the next meeting at Mirfield. in June.
All those present were pleased to hear that Mr. William Ambler, who gave up the secretaryship last year duc to ill-health has had a better report from his specialist and is conseouently looking forward to better health.

The Ecclesiastical Insurance Office. Lid.. was founded in 1887 to conserve for the Church of England profits arising from Church Insurances. The Office undertakes all kinds of parochial insurance.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

New Officers For South and West District

The South and West District annual meeting was held at Acton on February 9th. With the nation in mourning for the late King, the bells of both Christ the Saviour's and St. Stephen's, Ealing, were rung half-muffled during the afternoon to a variety of standard methods, well struck. Unfortunately the bells of St. Mary's, Acton. were not available but, after tea, the business meeting was held in the vestry of that church with the president, the Rev. P. Gough, in the chair.

Of the past year's officers, Mr. T. Price (Master) now holding the office of Association Master, Mr. G. Dodds (secretary), shortly moving out of the District. and Mr. T. Blunt (assistant secretary), now in the Forces, did not seek re-election.
The new officers are Master, Mr. R. E. Price; Deputy Master. Mr. F. G. Baldwin; secretary, Mr. F. W. Goodfellow; assistant secretary, Mr . G. Ingham; central committee-Mr. F . Finch. Mr. Webb, Mr. Kilby; auditor, Mr. E. C. S. Turner.

Arrangements for ringing in the District on the day of the late King's funeral were discussed and a peal was arranged at Acton on the following Saturday. Half-muffled tinging was 10 take place at most other towers on the Friday evening.
The statement of accounts showed that more peals had been rung and fewer subscriptions collected, leaving a balance much as last year. The secretary's report showed that, in spite of a fairly large number of peals and quarter peals, the general tower activity had declined. Most ringable towers in the District had had meetinge during the year.
Five new members were elected. Amongst other business. long touches at meetings were criticised. arrangements for the Heston Supper on March 15th were announced and a prepared list of meetings for the year was read out.
The meeting concluded with best wishes to Mr . Dodds on his forthcoming marriage. and to the president on his recovery. Votes of thanks were passed to all concerned in the day's arrangements.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL

Swindon Branch

The spring squarterly meeting was held at Malmesbury on March 8th and attracted a large number of visitors in addition to Branch members. Among the visitors was the Master of the Association (Mr. J. G. Jefferies). Good use was made of the recently-augmented bells in various methods up to Cambridge and Superlative

At the business meeting the Branch chairman

 (Mr. W. H. Trueman) congratulated the local ringers on the great improvement in the ringing chamber. It was proposed that meetings be held at St Mark's. Swindon. Blunsdon and Bishopstone during the next three months.W. B. K.

Gloucester Branch

A successful meeting was held on March 8th at Gloucester. The Cathedral bells were raised at 2.45 p.m. and many members and friends enjoved their first ring on the bells. At four p.m. all attended choral service in the choir. part of the Association's form of service being used. A high tea followed.
Evening ringing was at St. Mary de Erypt's and good use was made of this Rudhall. ring. Methods rung were Grandsire. Stedman, Plain Bob. Kent Treble Bob and Double Norwich. not forgetting rounds for the not-so-advanced ringers.

BRISTOL UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

A Week-end in Wiltshire

$A^{\prime}$FTER a successful tour in November of 'Ditched in Dorset,' members of Bristol University Society have once again embarked upon a similar venture. This time we were unable to have the use of the 1934 taxi-cab but 'went one better' by hiring an Austin 16 -h.p. 1935 car. It was large enough to accommodate six-Heather J. Tesson, B. Enid Lloyd-Roberts, Ivor H. Trueman. Robert J. Stokes. Lance C. 1. Watson (chauffcur) and Frank D. Mack. Another member, Alan P. Cave, heroically cycled the whole way.
The start had been timed for 6.15 p.m. on Friday, February 29th, but due to a misunderstanding about calling for the car, Bristol was not left until 7 o'clock The first tower was Wellow. amongst the Somerset hills. Although late we were paticntly awaited by the Vicar, tower master and Alan The fine old bells were soon set swinging and in a remarkably short time, considering their weight. (tenor 25 cwt .). they were 'up.' The recent work of rehanging the bells and installing a lantern roof has been a truly worthy job. At Norton St. Philip. where we were to have rung next, we decided to forgo a 'pull' because of the late hour, and proceeded to our destination, Melksham. Here a sumptuous feast was spread and, as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kennelly, we were made comfortable in every possible way.

TEN TOWERS IN A DAY

The following morning found us at Lacock soon after 9 o'clock where we were glad to see Brian Bladon, of Swindon, who was to be with us for most of the day. The bells were discovered to be not easy to handle and also slightly out of tune. At St. Paul's. Chippenham. we enjoyed a ring on the musical octave, including a touch of Stedman containing Queen's, Whittington's and Tittums. Still in Chippenham. we called at St. Andrew's where we were unable to do justice to the good Rudhall (1734) bells.

NORWICH ASSOCIATION  Branch Chairman Retires After 21 Years

Seventy-five ringers and friends from 40 parishes in Norfolk, Suffolk and Essex (a record) attended the annual meeting of the South Norfolk Branch at Diss on March 8th.
The service was conducted by Canon J. A. Appleton (Rector), assisted by Canon Nock, R.D.. the Rev. C. B. Morgan (curate) and the preacher was the Rev. F. E. Vokes. Mr. H. V. Cartwright was the organist
After tea, in the Corn Hall, Mr. William L. Duffield presided at the meeting, supported by Canon and Mrs. Appleton. the Revs. F. E. Vokes and C. B. Morgan. Mr. Ernest Whiting (Branch Ringing Master). Mr. A. G. Harrison (Branch secretary), Messis. E. G. Bennett, C. E. G. Banham, F. C. Roper, W. A. Lock and F. C. W. Phillippo (committee).

Four new members were elected-Mr. T. Stage and Mr. H. Fuller (Thetford), Miss P. Fifield (Diss) and Mr. D. Nicholls (Bunwell).
At the election of officers for 1952, Mr. Duffield asked to be relieved of his duties as chairman, owing to advancing years. Canon Appleton (vice-president) spoke of the long and valuable service of Mr. Duffield who had completed over 21 years as Branch chairman. The Branch secretary said during that time 63 meetings had been held in the Branch and Mr. Duffield had only missed 12 meetings. The Rev. F. E. Vokes was unanimously elected as the new chairman and Mr. H. Moss was added to the committee.
It was decided to visit Redenhall on May 17th.

At midday the heavy six at Corsham were set booming across the countryside, now wreathed in sunshine following the morning's wet mist. We had a spot of bother with bellropes 'slipping wheel ' and, there being only a few feet and one floor between us and the bells. we found them noisy Having lunched at Melksham. we set off adain to the south-west, stopping first at Holt. The tuneful six swung merrily to Cambridge Surprise and Oxford Treble Bob Minor. We left them behind to reach Christ Church, Brad-ford-on-Avon, afte- some low-gear work. After a pleasant ring on the light eight we went downhill to Holy Trinity Church with its contrastingly weighty octave.

At North Bradley is a fine example of good tower-kceping and we couldn't resist a touch of Bob Minor on a brand-new set of handbells prominently on view. Brian now took his leave for the long homeward journey to Swin don.
Almost before the bells were ' up,' it was ' Go. Plain Bob,' at Hilperton, which has room for six ringers only, standing shoulder to shoulder at the back of the church. A short ring at Seend concluded our day's ringing, since most of us were feeling quite weary.

On Sunday we joined the local band for morning service, ringing at Melksham Parish Church. After a hearty lunch and an early tea, we again made off in the car to Trowbridge in order to ring on the fine twelve. Here, as in many other Wiltshire places, we found yet another link with the renowned Mr. William Cave, whose grandson. Alan, was greeted by Mr. Gilbert Harding We reached Bristol quite safelv at about 8 p.m.
In conclusion we would like to record our thanks to Mary I. Kennelly, who arranged the tour (unfortunately she was unable to take part due to illness), and to the incumbents and tower captains for making our visits possible. To Mrs. Kennelly we are especially grateful for her magnificent hospitality in coping with us all. We had a happy week-end and although humpback bridges were traversed at alarmingly high speeds, we remain alive to tell the tale.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The Shropshire Association started their year's programme with a wellrattended and lively meeting at Malins Lee on March 8th. The local band, led by Mr. A. Woodvine, extended a warm welcome and full use was made of the bells in a large variety of methods; a conspicuous feature being the absence of Grandsire Doubles.

Mrs. Woodvine, Mrs. Fletcher and others provided a substantial tea which Mr. Snow (lay reader) and the churchwardens attended. As the parish is without a Vicar. the lay reader conducted the Association service and spoke of the earlier uses of bells.

It was very gratifying to see threc members of the Wrockwardine band, who were helped to ring rounds. They are being coached by Mr. L. Hewitt.

Socially the meeting was a great success as well as from a ringing point of view, the only criticism being about the bells themselves. It is a pity that these bells, the 'go' of which is second to none, should have such appalling tonal qualitics. The local band, whose efforts are evidently much appreciated by the church generally. certainly deserve better fare and the Association would like to see something done in the matter.
W. A. F.

STAFFORD.-Al St. Mary's, on Mar. 2nd, 1.260 Grandsire Triples: A. B. Garbett 1, F. R. Wigsin 2. P. Fisher 3, F. Eley 4, C. Hone 5, A. E. Garben 6, R. J. Warrilow (cond.) 7. J. Warrilow 8. To celebrate the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Wigein.

OBITUARY

MR. H. SYCAMORE

A well-khown and respected figure in Ewell, Mr. Henry Sycamore died peacefully in his bed on the morning of February 22nd. He was a regular service ringer for many years and rang his first peal in December, 1900.

In the 1914-18 war he served in the old Royal Flying Corps and in 1917 was invalided out with acute shell-shock and suffered from this for the rest of his life. But despite this handicap he still went on ringing, until forced to give up during the last war. He was determined to ring for VE Day, however, and when it came was helped up the stairs of the tower.

This was the last time he rang, but he maintained interest to the end, listening to the bells and always avid for news of ringing. Visitors to meetings at Ewell will remember Mr. Sycamore assisting his wife with the preparation of the tea.

A member of the Surrey Association (he rang in the Association's first peal this century) he also belonged to the Guildford Diocesan Guild. From active ringiag he turned to bowls, and he also enjoyed billiards and snooker. He was a keen supporter of the Epsom Football Club and attended most of their games.
His death ocsarred two weeks after that of the late King; fifty-one years after he had taken part in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Ewell with the bells deeply muffled on the Funeral Day of Our Sovereign Lady Queen Victoria, February 2nd, 1901.'
At Mr. Sycamore's funcral on February 27th handbells were rung over the grave by Messrs. A. Winch. J. Hoyle and F. Oakshott. In the evening. 1.259 half-muffled Grandsire Triples was rung by the following:-A. Reid 1 , Margaret Howard 2, H. E. Good 3, E. J. Lindley (conductor) 4 J. Seager 5, J. E. Beams 6, F. Oakshott 7, G. Hill 8.

LENT AND EASTER

By Preb. A. J. HOOK, M.A.,

Master of Bath and Wells Diocesan Association.

SOME of us are old enough to remember that Lent in our early days was something very different from the modern Lent. For example, the Theatre in Oxford was closed for the entire season, pantomimes came to an end before Ash Wednesday, there were no dances or entertainments, and there were even shocked looks at people who went hunting in Holy Week. That is all gone. With most people Lent has become no different from any other time in the year, and are people any the happier? On the lowest ground, to abstain from harmless pleasures for a time makes us enjoy them more. We should get bored with cricket if the cricket season went on all through the winter. We should begin to hate whist drives if we had to go to one every night. And it is the same with ringing. If it is curtailed during Lent, the outburst of bells at Easter is enjoyable and glorious both for ringers and for the listeners. So those who have given thought to this matter recommend that there should be no peal ringing in Lent, and that quarterly meetings which would normally fall in that season should be put off until after Easter. That would mean that during Lent there would be ringing only for services and for necessary practice. If that recommendation were adopted generally there would be a new joy for ringers at Easter. But that it is not generally observed among ringers is plain from ' The Ringing World ' of March 21st, in which it appears that 14 peals on tower bells were rung in the first week in Lent, two of them in cathedrals, and one actually on Ash Wednesday, though that one was not rung in a church tower.
All that is on the lowest ground. But ringers are church workers, and they do not ring, or they ought not to, just because they enjoy it. They will look deeper into the reasons which suggest that a disciplined Lent is right and proper. The central figure in Lent is our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. We see Him fasting in the wilderness, and then follow Him in His mysterious journey, in the gathering darkness, up to Jerusalem. There we enter into the mystery of God's love and man's sin in Passiontide, and so come to the climax in Holy Week, which significantly has been called ' Quiet Week.' Even the disciples, who did not know what was going to happen on Good Friday, were downcast, ' and as they followed they were afraid.' They would not have felt inclined to have a festivity ' as a birthday compliment' to Matthew or Thomas, nor ought we. The Passion took place in history 2,000 years ago, but it is an eternal fact in the Body of Christ. We go with the Master as truly as did the disciples, and like them we should feel an awe which surely will teach us that the joyful ringing of bells does not fit into the picture. This seems to suggest that reverence to God, for Whose glory the bells are hung and rung, would keep our bells as quiet as possible during this solemn time.
But behind all the gloom and desolation of Good Friday there is the rising glory of the Easter sun. Easter is the greatest and most joyful of all the feasts. Some of us may have a nostalgic desire to give Christmas the pride of place, but that may be a subconscious recollection of the joy of presents and pudding. The observance of Easter is older than that of Christmas, and in the primitive Church practically the only feasts that were observed were Sundays, Easter and Pentecost. So at Easter we link up with the joy of all Christians from the days of the Apostles, as well as with the Church Triumphant in Heaven, and quite naturally we proclaim that joy by the ringing of bells; and the more they are rung the better, for we show forth our joy in the triumph of Christ, and all who hear share in it. But beyond that we are making a public proclamation, which everyone can hear, of the faith of the Church which is built on the truth of the glorious Resurrection of Christ from the dead. On that sure foundation Christ's Holy Catholic Church is built, and the gates of hell cannot prevail against it.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from ' The Ringing World' of April 5th, 1912
THE CHURCH OF ST. MICHAEL AND ALL ANGELS, ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE
Not a few noteworthy performances have taken place in the belfry, but the greatest of all was accomplished on Easter Monday last year, when the record length of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, 12,240 changes, was rung in 8 hours 39 minutes under that able conductor, Mr. Samuel Wood, who, it is interesting to note, was also the conductor of the record length of 16,608 Kent Treble Bob Major some 29 years ago.
[An attempt was to have been made on the following Monday for 14,000 Kent Treble Bob Royal, but this had to be postponed. It was, however, successfully accomplished on April 13th, 1914, and with the Maximus mentioned above, remains the record in the method. The peals which these superseded had been rung no fewer than 130 and 78 years previously. The last, and most famous, long length on the bells was the 15,312 Cambridge Maximus in 1929.]

Youth was very much in evidence at the quarterly meeting of the Western Branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association at Powick on March 22 nd. The ringing catered for all tastes, with plenty of opportunity for the 'not-so-far-advanced. We appreciate the kind impulse that induced the meeting 10 send ten shillings to meet 'Ringing World ' expenses.

Mr. J. R. Worrall informs us that the footnote to the peal of Grandsire Cinques at Newnort on March 8th should read First peal of Grandsire Cinques on the bells and for the Association.

The higher costs in all printed matter has, with a new edition, necessitated Mrs. E. M. Powell raising the price of that popular publication 'The Ringers' Handbook.' New prices, including dostage, are :- 4 to 8 bells $4 s .6 d$; 4 to 6 bells 2s. 6d.

The Sussex ringers' coach tour of Gloucester and Hereford is arranged for July 6th-13th inclusive. There are a few vacant seats and anyone interested is invited to write to Miss F. Wyman, 10, Three Bridges Road, Crawley, Sussex

The peal of Double Norv, ich Court Bob Major rung at Overseal on March 15th was a birthday comnliment to Mrs. J. W. Cotton and Miss B. Curson, both honorary members of the Midland Counties Guild. It may be interesting to note that Miss Curson was elected an honorary member at the tender age of two ycars.

Veteran member of the Bunwell (Norfolk) band. who rang his first peal in May, 1902 is Mr. A. Sturman. His 80th birthday was given neal honours on March 16 th. Still keen to have a pull. Mr. Sturman visits the tower as often as possible. With this peal Mr. R. E. Burt. one of his pupils, "completed the circle" of Barwell tower.

GOSSIP

called the quarter peal of Stedman Triples recently at the local Streatham, and is a member of Nichols, band, is the son of the late David $\mathbf{J}$. Nichols, of Kettering. His father was for many years hon. secretary of the Central Northants Association, now the Peterborough Diocesan Guild. A high standard of ringing was set up in the districts around Kettering at the beginning of the century. Many Surprise peals were rung and were looked upon as great achievements in those days. It is believed there are some of those ringers happily still with us.

To those who ring peals and quarter peals a correspondent gives a reminder that the new Queen's birthday in on April 21 st.

Salehurst is in Sussex and not Kent. We rearet the error in regard to the peal published last week.

In a recent letter on East Bergholt bells, the names of J. and W. Motts was wrongly printed as Mobbs. We apologise for not being able to decipher the writing correctly.

At Apsley End peals are not normally rung during Lent, but the Vicar willingly agreed to the neal on March 15 th to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the first neal on the bells, which was conducted by Mr. G. N. Price. Mr. F. W. Brinklow rang the treble for both peals.

A gramophone recording has been made bv the Leicester ringers. On the one side is muffled Stedman Cinques at Leicester Cathedral for His late Majesty King George V1. and on the other is Cambridge Surprise Major on handbells by Mrs. P. J. Staniforth. Peter J. Staniforth. Alfred Ballard and Harold J. Poole. The records are 12 s . each and can be obtained from Mr. J. Cook Radio Engineer, 93, Wellington Street, Leicester.

GREENHORN TO GRANDSIRE  or  'THERE IS NOTHING TO IT

HAD watched them ringing out the Old Year It looked so easy: 1 must learn to ring. ' Certainly; come up half an hour before the weekly practice and we will teach you.

Eagerly I climbed the tower stairs, grasped the rope and listened to my first instructions. With an "old hand" controlling the sally, leaving me to cope with the rope's end, I began to get the 'feel' of it. I set my bell at backstroke and then at handstroke. It seemed easy. A bumped stay meant nothing to me, in spite of warnings. I thought I could ring.

In a week or two I was handling the rope both ways. I thought I was getting on fine when down came the bell with lashing rope, leaving me helpless, not knowing how to put matters right. But I persevered and was allowed to stay on at the proper practice with the band. and took my place for rounds, without a tied clapper. I could not do it. I could not keep my place. The bell was ringing me; she set in, or came down, just as she pleasca. I worked too hard. in a bath of perspiration, trying desperately to make her speak in her right place. My spirits sank. This wasn't what I expected at all. I was discouraged; I didn't want to come any more; it was too hard work.

NERVE GONE

The band was kindness itself, encouraging me and cheering me on. I tried again determined not to be beaten. Then someone was yelling to me to let go, and the rope went whipping through my hands and disappeared through the hole in the ceiling. I found myself cowering in the corner, expecting the bell, if not the whole tower, to come crashing about my ears. She had gone over. 'Never mind,' they said, 'no one can ring till they've done that, just as you cannot ride a horse till you have fallen off: I fled. My nerve was gone. Thev thought they would never see me again. My knuckles were swollen and bruised and the skin was off my fingers but it was no worse than that. It took me some weeks to get over my fright. It was a lesson I shall never forqet.

Month by month I kept on, and tried other bells in the tower. Gradually the ache in my arms went and I found I could control my bell better. Instead of wondering how much longer I could keep going I became sorry when the call came to stand. I learned to raise and lower my bell It was hard. I couldn't take up that coil without losing my place. I could not keep a tight rope. It is still one of the hardest things to do tidily.

Then came the book work. I studied and studied and wrote out the Plain Course. I memorised the letterpress and the dfagrams I wrote out "Touches." I thought I knew it. I wanted to try it but was still kept on rounds. How could I learn it without practice? How could I practise without the band? I couldn't. I was stuck. I wanted to run before I could walk. It seemed simple enough on paper but I wasn't given the chance to try it.

Then one night they put me on the third. 'Go. Grandsire.' I made the first dodge all right because I had learned the bells, but then the ropes, out of their accustomed order of rounds, confused me, and everything I had learned went out of my head. I was lost. That was all I was allowed to do that night. Week after week I ruined every effort to ring iust the Plain Course. I could not make any progress at all. I was ready to give up again. THE JIG-SAW Finally I had to memorise the whole of the coursing order of one bell, although they told me not to. Until I did, I could not see where I passed the treb'e. The TREBLE the Guiding Light in Grandsire, to which I anchored all I learned. It's just practice,' they said, but how could I practise alone? 'It will come to you all of a sudden,' but it never did. It came gradually. bit by bit, as I pieced together each new instruction and fitted it into what I had already beaten into my dull brain. I will say that it gathered momentum. so that at the end the dicture became clear like adding the last few dieces to a jig-saw puzzle and seeing the thing as a 'whole instead of innumerable little bieces. visited other towers. There they thought I knew more than I did and they put me in with a good band. At once I rang the Plain Course without a mistake. I went round more and vicked up tips that were not to be found in any books. I was beginning to get the idea; but back in my own tower I just could not do it. They knew where I usually went wrong and I always did!

The day came when I tried a touch with calls. I could see it on paper and knew what I had to do. but do it I could not. When a call came, panic seized me; I searched frantically for my dodging bell, my in-between bell, and when I had to lead. "Keep your head" they said. 'Don't get so upset when they shout at you: there is nothing to it.' No, not once vou have mastered it; not when you can ring without having to think of your bell as well as the method: not when you know where the treble parts the circle and how to keep going when she isn't there when you want her Not when you have a steady band, who catch your eye when it's time to dodge, and the bells are running well When that day came for me the swectest reward of all was when, absorbed in the work of my bell and oblivious to the passing of time. a voice called, 'This is all' and 1 heard the bells running round again, and I had rung my first quarter. "There was nothing to it.'

MEMORIAL TO MR. J. J. Pratt by the Vicar of Hillingdon (the Rev. F. C. Tyler).

Mr. Pratt was well known to the older generation of ringers in Middlesex and Bucks and rang many peals in those areas. He was secretary of the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association from 1902-1907.

Most of the local ringers and some visitors were present at the short service, which concluded with the prayer ' $O$ God by Whose word all things that we do or by which we are influenced are hallowed; pour, we beseech Thee, Thy blessing upon this bookcase, which we dedicate to Thy service in pious memory of Josedh John Pratt, that from the books contained in it. true knowledge and sound learning may ever be available to the ringers of this tower.'

Immediately after the dedication, a short touch of Grandsire Caters was rung by those who were well acquainted with Mr. Pratt, including Mrs. F. W. Goodfellow, who is now the senior active member of the band, being a member since 1918 .

Later, a peal of Stcdman Ca'ters (1,347 changes) was rung by Mrs. Manchin 1 F. W. Goodfellow (conductor) 2. Miss D. R. Fletcher (Beaconsfield) 3. A. R. G. Twinn 4. R. W. Darvill (St. Albans) $5, F$. G. Baldwin $6, F$. Corke 7. W H. Coles 8 H. W. Impey 9. T. G. Bannister 10.

The spring meeting. a combined one with the Beverley and District Society, was held at Hull on March 15th and was attended by over 50 ringers representing 20 towers. The ring of six at St. Mary's, Lowgate, was rung during the afternoon and the ring of ten at Holy Trinity Church in the evening.
The service was conducted by the Vicar of Hull in Holy Trinity Church when a course of Grandsire Trioles was rung on handbells in the middle of the singing of the 150th Psalm Tea was served in the Choir School and was followed by the business meeting presided over by the vice-president. Mr. A. E. Sellers, who gave a special welcome to the secretary, Mr H. S. Morley. on his recovery from his recent operation. The secretary thanked the meeting for their kind reception remarking how pleased he was to be with them and hoping to resume active ringing again soon.
Five new members were elected- Mr. Trevor Peat and Miss Vera Allen (Kirk El'a). Messrs. James V. Davies and John W. T. Chew (Bridlington) and Miss D. Houghton (Hull).
The annual District meeting will be held at Bridlington on June 7th.

A collection for the Association's Bell Repair Fund realised $£ 1$.

Mr. Wond began ringing at Great Hale in 1898 and his notebook shows that he has rung over 140 deals. He joined the Lincoln D:ocesan Guild in his first year of ringing.

BELLS IN ENGLISH LIFE

BELLS were sometimes used in popular rejoicings of a questionable kind. It is said that in the days when cock-fighting was in all its glory, a peal was rung to celebrate the victory of the bird of local fame. In early days the Master of Manchester Middle School provided cock birds which were to be buried up to their necks in the ground to be shied at by the boys on Shrove Tuesday and on St. Nicholas' Day: and in 1661 a Mr. Graham, by his will. bequeathed a silver bell to Mayficld School, and when the fight was over between the two cocks the bell was suspended on the hat of the victor. to be transmitted down from one captain of the school to another.
From a remote period down to comparatively modern times. schoolrooms were turned into cockpits, masters and pupils enjoying the sport. Some of the old school teachers added greatly to their income by payments made by boys for game-cocks, and from visitors going to the schools to witness the sport. At Scdburgh Grammar School. Yorks, the master used to receive on Shrove Tuesday fourpence halfpenny from each pupil for the purchase of fighting cocks. Kendal Grammar School records show similar payments, as also at Grange-over-Sands. where the amount varied according to the sociai standing of the parents, ranging from half-acrown to five pounds. At Haversham, near Milnthorpe, the cock-pit was near the school, while entries in accounts at Congleton, in 1601, and Fortrose. 1776, both show items of payments towards the sport. At Wreay, near Carlisle. their silver bell bears the inscription - Wreay Chapple, 1655' which is remarkable. for it was a year after Cromwell prohibited cock-fighting. It was the gift of Mr. Graham and seemed to show his contempt for the Roundheads !
Pocklington frammar School, which dates from 1514 . was noted for its cock-fighting. and a small silver bell, given as a prize. has been handed down by successive masters. It is about two inches in height and $7 \frac{1}{4}$ inches in circumference. At the toD is a small handle, while round it is an inscription :-

Tho. Ellifon Moderator 1666, Scholæ
Liberæ Grammaticalis de Pocklinton. Johannes Clarke Moderator 1660 . Scholæ
hannes Clarke Moderator 1660 . Sc
Liheræ Grammaticalis de Pock'inton.'
Many Scottish schools had similar customs.

'THRASHING THE FAT HEN'

A rather different form of amusement was in vogue a century or more ago. and known as 'thrashing the fat hen.' A man carried a hen upon his back and had horse-bells fastened to him by the sounds of which his fellows, who were blindfolded, endeavoured to follow him and to strike the hen with sticks.

HORSE RACING

The proverbial phrase 'bearing away the bell,' which implies superiority arose from the old custom of giving a bell as the prize for a horse race. Chester races are regarded as the oldest in England, and an order relating to them. dated January 10th. 1571, provided for the Saddlers' Ball. which was of silk. being changed for a silver bell of the value of 3 s . 4 d ., as the 'rewarde for the horse which with speedy runninge should run before all others., In 1610 three cups were substituted for the beli, and in 1623 'one faire silver cuppe' valued at £8 in place of three smaller cups. In the early period the bell seems to have been held only for the year, then returned to the Corporation at the end of twelve months to be offered again for compstition The Chester contest became known as the St. George's Race, and the prize. St. George's Bell. The latter was the prize. with 'moneyes collected' from jthe citizens for that purpose. It was to be given to the one 'who won the last course or trayne' in a race 'five times round the Roody' starting from the new tower. In 1624 alterations were made in the conditions of running. it being decided (on St. George's Day, April 23rd) that in future the successful horseman should be awarded the prize absolutely to hold as his own for ever.
As early as 1590 horse-racing was practiscd in the Forest of Galtres on the east side of the city of York, the prize being a small bell of either gold or silver, which was attached to the headgear of the winning horse, the latter rafterwards being paraded round in triumph. Manningham, in his 'Diary.' has the following entry:- To-day ( 6 April 1602) there was a race at Sapley neere Huntingdon, invented by the gentlemen of that county; at this. Mr. Oliver Cromwell's horse won the sylver bell ; and Mr. Cromwell had the glory of the day.' That Mr. Oliver Cromwell whose horse 'bore away the bell' was uncle to his namesake, the Protector.
There are traces of silver bells in Scotland, while as carly as 1552 annual horse races were established at Haddington, the prize for the winner being a silver bell. Lanark Races are said to belong to this period, the chief prize being 'also a silver bell. It is four and a half inches high, four and a half inches at its greatest girth ani to it are attached 22 tablets bearing the names of the winners. The oldest date on them in 1628, the full inscription being:-

- VIN $x$ RE $x$ ME $x$ SIR $x$ JOHNE HAMILTON OF $x$ TRABROUN $x$ 1628.
There are no more until 1852, when we learn that the race was won by Capt. Key's 'Litt!e Jack.' In 1887 there was a dead heat:-Mr. J. Hope's 'Lady Adelaide' and Mr. W. Cairn's 'Brian Born.' both being named on the label.
At Paisley. the town council, in 1608 instituted an annual horse race and voted a silver bell for the winning horse. Another instance was at Dumfries, where the magistrates ordered the treasurer on April 15th. 1662. to purchase a silver bell to be run for annually by the 'work-horses' of the burgh. This race took place in May, one condition being that the same horse and rider must win it three consecutive years before the bell should 'appertain unto the wooner therof for evir.' Whether anyone ever won the bell outright is not known, but the whole affair was suppressed in 1716: ' severall irregularities and misdemeanours to the scandal of the place and dishonour of God' hraving taken place, the treasurer was ordered 'to sell the muck-bell (as the raceprize was called) for the best advantage.'
In Camden's 'Remains" is an epitaph com-mencing:-
- Here lies the man whose horse did gaine

The bell. in race on Salisbury plain.'
In the municipal records of Carlisle are many references to Horse and Nage Bells, and some years ago two of them were found in the Town Clerk's Office. Round the larger one is the inscription:-
$\mathbf{x}$ The $\mathbf{x}$ sweftes $\mathbf{x}$ horse $\mathbf{x}$ thes x bel x to x tak $\mathbf{x}$ for $\mathbf{x}$ mi $\mathbf{x}$ lade $\mathbf{x}$ daker $\mathbf{x}$ sake.
The lady referred to is Elizabeth. daughter of the fourth Earl of Shrewsbury, and wife of Lord Dacre who was Governor of Carlisle in Queen Elizabeth's reign. The other bell. also of silver. has the initials of Henry Baines. Mayor of Carlisle (H.B.: M.C.) and the date 1559.

The churchwardens of St. Edmund's Salisbury, have an entry in their accounts in 1646 thus:-

Ringing the Race Day that the Erle of Pembrook his horse won the Cuppe . . vs.'

Until comparatively recent times the church bells of Doncaster joined in the Yorkshire carnivals of September races held on the town moor there.

CHESTER RACE BELLS
Reverting to the Chester races before mentioned, the following record by Lysons, the county historian, is most interesting and fully substantiates the foregoing notice:-
' In 1609 Mr . William Lester, mercer, beinge Mayor of Chester, and Mr. Robert Ameryc, ironmonger. Sherife of the City, at his own coste chief, did cause three silver cuppes or bells, to be made, of good value. which bells he appointed to be run for with horses. upon St. George's Daye. upon the Roode-Dee: that horse which did rune the rest to have the best bell. the seconde to have the seconde bell.for that year, putting in monev, and for to .... and shureties to deliver in the bells that day twelvemonth
The other bell was run for on the same day in like manner:-

Among the corporation records are some old articles of a race for two bells; and likewise a cup to be run for at the rings:
the bell appears to have been first given for a drize at the horse races at Chester in 1512. From this custom of running for a bell as a prize arose, it is probable, the proverb "to bear the bell.
At Chesterfield a custom of ringing at the races had arisen, probably during Georgian times. but was successfully resisted by the Vicar-afterwards. Archdeacon Hill-in 1830. A full report is given in the "History of Chesterfield' (1839). The Mayor had put himself at the head of the race-adoring party, but was openminded enough to be convinced by arguments advanced by a lawyer at the meeting which had been called for the continuance of the ringing; and better counsels prevailed against bells. The final decision as to the proprietv of the occasion lies with the incumbent, subject to any complaint in an Ecclesiastical Court should he overstep his authority.

HAWKING

In the days of falconry, bells figured in the equipment of the hawk or falcon, two small bells being fastened to the bird's legs. In 'As You Like it ' (Act. iii., Sc. 3) Touchstone says:'As an ox hath his bow, sir, the horse his curb and the falcon her bells, so man hath his desires.' and Master Stephen in Johnson's 'Every Man in His Humour' says:- I have bought me a hawk. and a hood, and bells and all.' Gervase Markham in "Boke of St. Albans, thus describes these bells:-

The bells which your hawk shall wear, look in anywise that they be not too heavy, whereby they overload her. neither that one be any heavier than another, but both of like weight; look also that they be well sounding and shrill. yet not both of one sound, but one at least a note under the other.'
These bells were often of silver. the best coming from Milan. A character of Thomas Hevwood's old plays, speaking of a hawk's flight. utters his impressions thus:-

Her bels. Sir Francis, had not both one waight,
Nor was one semitune above the other.
Mei thinkes theis Milanes bels do sound too full
And spoile the mounting of your hawke.
In a flight of hawks it was sometimes arranged that the different be'ls varied in tone, so a babel of sweet tones might be produced.
At Thurnby, Leicestershire. the bells were at one time rung on the occasion of a meet of the hounds in the village. In this case the Vicar protested and locked the belfry door, and subsequently won his case at law with the churchwardens, the clerk and the ringers for having broken into the belfry contrary to his orders.

At St Mary's. Stamford. a bell formerly rang at 10.45 on the morning of each November 13 th to announce that the 'bull-running, was on the point of being started.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FIRST PEAL OF CAMBRIDGE MAXIMUS IN LONDON

Dear Sir,-The first peal of Cambridge Surorise Maximus in London was rung at St . Michacl's. Cornhill, January 28th, 1911, and was conducted by the late Harry R. Pasmore. The inspiration to attempt the peal came from the talented band at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, who rang the first and, I believe, the second peals rung in the method. We, in turn. inspired the Birmingham men, who rang one shortly afterwards. Our band was E. Horrex. C. F. Winney, H. R. Pasmore, T. H. Taffender, H. Langdon, H. R. Newton W. H. Pasmore, F. Dench, R. F. Deal, A. B. Peck, J. W. Golding. W. T. Cockerill.

It was. of course the first of Cambridge 12 bv all the band. six of whom are still living. I think the Southwark peal was the second in London.-Yourz sincerely,
A. B. PECK.

IMr. R F. Deal als, writes reminding us of this peal, which was rung by the College Youths. and adds: If my memory serves me correctly this was rung within a few weeks of the first deal of Cambridge Maximus, which was accomplished by a mixed band at Ipswich.]

LONGEST LENGTH OF MINOR

Dear Sir,--My record of the peal of 10.440 at Tong is a printed page from the Yorkshire Association's report. I also kept a cutting from the 'Yorkshire Post' of April 14th, 1896. and a local paper of April 17th, 1896. In all three cases the peal was described as a record and I am surprised that if this were not so it was not disputed at the time. I should like to know the following about the Wath peal:-
(1) Was it rung the whole time by the same six ringers and were they all members of the Yorkshire Association?
(2) Was it rung for the Yorkshire Association?
(3) Is it possible that the Yorkshire Association had not come into being so far back as 1816,80 years before the peal at Tong?
Can anyone enlighten me on these matters? Incidentally, our record was beaten very soon after by a team who were then supposed to hold the record.-Yours truly,
(REV.) R.' P. FARROW

RICHARD CHANDLER. BELL FOUNDER, 17th CENTURY

Dear Sir.-Can you possibly give me answers to the following questions?
(1) Did Richard Chandler, who had a foundry at Drayton Parslow, Bucks, in the 17th century, also have a foundry at Gamlinggav in Bedfordshire?
(2) Northill's former fourth bell was recast in 1711 and has on it 'Richard Chandler made me. 1711.' As this was a re-casting in 1711, as is clearly shown by Northill churchwardens' accounts. why did he put on the bell ' made me 1711 '? Was this customary in a recast?
(3) North, in his book on Bedfordshire bells, says that nearly 50 bells were supplied by Richard Chandler (who had his foundry at Dravton Parslow) to Bedfordshire. Can a list of these bells be obtained from any source?
(4) Thomas Tompion made a bell for Willington Church, in Bedfordshire. Is it known where this bell was cast? The only inscription on the bell itself is: 'Thomas Tompion Fecit 1671 .
I hope, through the medium of your excellent paper. answers to these questions may be obtained. I should be so grateful for your help.-Yours sincerely,
A. J. NIXSEAMAN,

Rector of Northill. Beds.

AN 1823 PEAL AT BRIGHTON

Dear Sir,-I have recently come into possession of some o?d copies of 'Brighton Gazette and one dated July 10th, 1823, has this bit of bellringing news that might interest your readers, particularly in the Sussex area. 'On Monday last was rung in the tower of our Parish Church, a true and complete peal of 5.040 changes of Grandsire triples in three hours and two minutes, by the undernamed:John Allen. Chailey, treble: T. Markwick Uckfield 2d; T. Leney, Cuckfield 3d; W. Wells, Bolney, 4th; A. Manwaring, Benenden, Kent, 5th: J. Parsons, Ditchling 6th; J. Tester, Balcomb. 7th: S. Good, Bognor, tenor. Conducted by J. Tester.'-Yours truly [EONARD PIERCE.

DOUBLE COURT TRIPLES

Dear Sir,-I should like to point out that the peal of Double Court Triples published on page 208 of 'The Ringing World' as the composition of E. C. Gobey will be found in the Central Council Collection of Peals, Section I. (Odd Bell Treble-Dominated Methods), where it appears on page 124, Peal Number 8, as the composition of the late Joseph J. Parker, of Farnham Royal.
This collection was published in 1903. which means that Mr. Parker must have produced these figures prior to this date. In addition to this peal the Collection contains 17 other sixpart peals on this plan. It is, therefore, apparent that this type of peal has been known to the Exercise for many years - Yours sincercly,

BILBIE'S BELLS

Dear Sir,-I have noted with interest the recent correspondence relating to Bilbie's bells and I have a photographic copy of two old receipts bearing the signatures of Thomas and Abram. Bilbie which may be of interest.

The bells, dated 1769 , are by Thomas, but the 1770 bell bears the name of Abraham, the writing in both bills seems to be in the hand of Abraham, but the signature of Thomas is in a different hand.
The Bilbies may not have had a secret formula but they certainly turned out bells with a rich quality of tone and the whole was generally well balanced, and considering the crude methods were fairly well in tune

The bells at North Cadbury were tuned at the Whitechapel Foundry some years ago and the second and third had to be recast but they are still. Bilbie's bells, perfectly matched in tone, which must be due to the great art of the modern bellfounder.-Yours faithfully, Galhampton, Yeovil.

BELLS IN ENGLISH LIFE

Equally objectionable was the custom, once common enough, of ringing church bells in token of a party victory at a Parliamentary Election. In one case at least, the passagc of a Bill through Parliament itself was hailed throughout the country with bellringing this was when the Reform Bill was read a third time in the House of Commons in September, 1831. A iragic occurrence in connection with a political peal happened at Alphington, near Plymouth, on June 10th. 1826. The bells were ringing in honour of Mr. Kekewick's return to Parliament when the tower was struck by lightning and damaged and one of the ringers killed.

DEDICATION

SANDON, ESSEX
On Saturday. March 22 nd, before an assembly of parishioners and ringers, the Venerable E. N. Gowing. Archdeacon of Southend, dedicated the new treble bell at Sandon, Essex. This bell was a gift by the people of Sandon to mark the Festival Year
The bell, cast by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston bears the inscription, 'Festival of Britain, 1951.' and weighs $4 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt.

In an address, the Archdeacon paid tribute to the work of the late Rector, the Rev. E. L. Andrews, who did so much to help his parish, and was instrumental in getting the new bell installed. The late Rector suffered much at the hands of the Japanese during the war, being a prisoner-of-war for several years.
The Archdeacon stressed. the important part ringers play in the work of the Church. By ringing the bells, the message of God was sent forth for all to hear and many were, by the sound of the bells, forcibly brought to remember that the Church and God still existed.
After the dedication the local band rang the first touch upon the six.
Tea, kindly provided by the Church Council, was served in the Rectory.
During the evening ringers made full use of the bells, all being anxious to try out the treble. The old five were rehung about two years ago and the additional bell is a very good splice.

CATHERINGTON RINGERS WEDDING

The wedding was solemnised at All Saints', Catherington, on March 22nd between Miss Marian Wynne, only daughter of Mr. and Mirs. Wynne, and Mr. John H. Harding, only son of Mr . and Mrs. S. J. Harding. The Rev. P. B. Sheppard officiated. Both ring for evening service at Catherington, and the bridegroom for morning service at Hambledon, an adjoining village.
The bride was attended by Miss K. Harding (the bridegroom's sister) and two pages, the best man being Mr. Dennis Hill.
The light musical six were set going merrily to Grandsire Doubles before and after the service by the local band, Messrs. M. Dobson H. Dobson, F. Bessant, S. J. Harding, assisted by Messrs. C. Turner, T. May, Mrs. J. Hall, of Hambledon. and Mr. E. J. Harding, the bridegroom's uncle who, after the first touch acted as organist.
A surprise feature after the ceremony, was an archway of splints and bandages provided by the local branch of the British Red Cross, of which the bride and bridegroom are active members.
The bridegroom is the grandson of the late Mr. E. J. Harding, who for many years was a very active member of St. Mary's, Portsea, and of the Winchester Guild.

The honeymoon was spent in London.

JAMES ROBERT HAWORTH

AS BELLRINGER AND ONE OF THE 'OLD STALWARTS'

The first portion of these 'Notes on J. R. Haworth' as craftsman and a man of such benevolent character, left little space for further tales.' There remain. however, various items which can be gleaned from his career as a well-known ringer. Unfortunately at the present time only the 'spot-lights' can be observed -for since the late war, ordinary sources of information are still. more or less, under ' lockand key.' *
To whom Haworth was indebted for his training in ringing is yet unknown. However, as he was born and lived just off Bouverie Street, and apprenticed off Fleet Street, he had half a dozen belfries within carshot, i.e., from St. Clement Danes in the west, to Bow-bells in the east. He was probably musically-gifted, as is shown by his good 'striking.'
Haworth's first appearance in any record is his becoming a member of the St. James' Society, early in 18.39 . Gonzee (of the 'Cumberlands') being then Master: at the end of this year he decided also to become a College Youth,' and was duly elected. The Society was then under the Mastership of Richard Mills, who occupied the chair during the three years around the time of its bicentenary in 1837. and to mark which he offered to have medals struck and presented to ringers achieving the three neet peals of Oxford Treble Bob upon eight. ten or twelve bells.
One of the founders of the St. James' Society was young Tom Tolladay, who was a fine conductor and evidently a man of parts. He had joined the 'College Youths' in 1829. and was now their recognised bob-caller. In getting together suitable members to man the ropes for these peals, which he now had in view. Tolladay chose young Haworth who thus, in December, 1841, rang his first peal for the Society, viz.. one of Treble Bob Royal, at St. John's, Bermondsey. in which he rang the 3 rd, and so became a Mill's Medalist.
James Mash and other ringers also secured medals: Mash's medal was later presented to the Society. The writer believes that Haworth's is also in its possession; the other was used as the Master's Badge for some 50 years, until the Ancient Society of College Youths celebrated its 300th Anniversary in 1937, when the Past Masters gave the one now in use. After ringing in this peal, Haworth rang in seven of the eleve, which followed it durias the next four years. nearly all conducted by Tolladay. who in 1844 died. being only 41 . Haworth showed great respect to his memory and it is probable that Tolladay taught him ringing. Thereafter Haworth's name is continually met with in the peals achieved. Trollope gives his total as 176. This is only a moderate number, even for those days, and one may infer that he was certainly not a pealsnatcher.'
Haworth, who was born in 1821, happened to have for contemnoraries many of the men who were associated with the great revival in ringing which followed the disastrous 'lowwater mark ' which occurred at the turn of the century i.e., about 1790-1810. It severely affected all the change-ringing societies in London at the time when. indeed, several succumbed. Reaction, however, came. The actual weakness of the two old societies. viz.. the "College Youths and the 'Cumberlands,' with their self-imposed rule of disunion. caused the earlv strength of the joint St. James' Society, formed in 1824, and it, in return, infused them with its new blood.

As Trollope justly remarks: 'About this time a number of young and very clever ringers appeared, who for many years dominated change ringing.' He enumerates John Cox, Hewitt, Henry Haley (Cox's great rival in conducting) Haworth, Dwight. Cooter, Lansdell, Ferris and Matt. Wood; and he refers later to others, such as Stockham, Muskett, Hayes and Horrex
At this time, too, the regained knowledge of their ancient history, so long lost, was a stimulant to the old societies and a new rivalry ensued in establishing 'records' as between themselves and it extended to the provincial ones also.

In all this Haworth played a worthy part. And, throughout the years, there was hardly any prominent peal rung (or attempted) without his being in it.
During 1851 (the year of the Great Exhibition), being then only 30 years of age Haworth became Master of the 'College Youths,' for in November he followed James Dwight in the chair. In the previous January they were both in one of those often transient peals rung to 'beat the record,' or, shall we say, one to mark the wonderful year? It was one of 7,524 Cinques, at Cripplegate.
The record having, in 1858, gone to Painswick they met again, in the winning peal, one which held the record for 20 years! This time it was at Cornhill, rung in 1861, and of 8580 changes. It was justly sung by James Dwight (who composed words, music and rang the tenor) as 'he famous peal the "College Youths " did ring.' He gave to each ringer a verse. (The tune and two verses survive, but not Haworth's.)

* Many of the books of the ' College Youths ' are in the Dean's strongroom at St. Paul's. Those of the London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild (St. James' Sociery) are held by Officers, and the Trollope MSS. are at Stanmore.

RINGING RHYMES

No. 8. DIVISION-FORM AND CYCLICS
Fifth rhyme 'Divisions' did explain, As linked. the Plain Course to obtain. And this holds true for methods all. In any class you choose to call.
Divisions halve; (above-below),
And mirror-image patterns show
Moreover, at each new div-head.
POSITION CYCLIC, clear. will shed A light on where your bell should sound, As these successive rows come round. Thus : in Boh Maior ('plained ') you'll see It's: 2-4-6-8-7-5-3.
BELL CYCrIC. next. will clearly tell, For given place in row, which bell Must be there, as div-head rows form. If not-result will be a storm! Thus: in Boh Maior (' plained '), 'tis true It's: 3-5-7-8-6-4-2,
And though 'tis strange, you'll, clearly see These Cyclics 'mate ' reciproc'ly.

SNOW STORMS PREVENT LONG LENGTH

An attempt for 10.080 changes of Minor in 14 different methods was to have been made last Saturday at Holbrook, Suffolk but had to be cancelled owing to the heavy gales and snowstorms preventing the band travelling. It is hoped to attempt the peal in the near future.

OBITUARY

MR. A. J. BARTLETT

One of the best-known ringers in the Guildford Diocesan Guild, Mr. Arthur James Bartlett. of Ridgeley Road, Chiddingfold. died suddenly on March 25th, aged 68 . He had been at work in the morning at his forge and collapsed after his mid-day meal while sitting in a chair. He died two hours later.
For many ycars Mr. Bartlett had been captain of the Chiddingfold ringers. Fifty years aqo last year he called his first peal, Holt's Original, and had many peals to his credit, including one of 10,000 at Haslemere. His friendliness and cheerful personality endeared him to his many friends

Mr. Bartlett's family had been blacksmiths at Chiddingfold for nearly 300 years. Another of his interests was brass bands, and only last vear he became conductor of the Northchapel Band on it being re-forned. In his younger davs he was keen on sport and played cricket and football for the village team.

The funeral took place last Monday at Chiddingfold Parish Church.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION  Hunts Branch at Hemingford Abbots

In the small picturesque village of Hemingford Abbots. at the beautiful church of St, Margaret. a meeting of the Hunts District was held on March 22 nd. about 30 ringers attending.
Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. The Guild service, at 4.30 . was conducted by the Rev. H. B. W Denison. M.A. Rector, who gave an excellent address from 'If I be lifted up I will draw all men unte me.' Mrs. Denison was at the organ and the District Ringing Master read the lesson.

During the afternoon and evening the following methods were rung:-Beverley, Annable's, Cambridge, Ipswich. London, Norwich, Primrose and Yorkshire Surprise, Kent, Oxford and Woodbine (rebcl). Double Oxford Double Court. St. Clement's. Single Oxford, Plain Bob. Stedman and Grandsire with rounds for beeinners. It is believed this was the best meeting (six bells) held in the Hunts District. ## PRESENTATION TO SPALDING VETERAN

A Westminster chiming clock was presented to Mr. A J. Farr in the belfry of Spalding Parish Church after morning service on March 23 rd in the presence of many subscribers and the local band
The presentation was made by the Vicar (the Rev. M. R. H. Linge, president of the Elloe Deanery Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild). If they looked round the belfry, he said they would see Mr. Farr's name on many of the deal boards. It was during the captaincy of Mr. Farr that the custom of paying the ringers $£ 25$ a year was discontinued and it was very nice to think that the ringers were voluntary servants of the Church.

It was on the doctor's advice that Mr. Parr was relinquishing the captaincy and it was the wish of all present that he would ring for services for many years to come.
Mr. Farr. in accepting the clock. said he wanted those present to cast their minds back to the time when Canon Nicholas asked him to be captain. He refused as he knew there were other ringers who had been longer in the belfry and better able to do it. In August. 1929. the Rev. H. Law James, Vicar of Surfleet and Ringing Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, came and saw him and said if Mr. J. T. Brown resigned and Mr. Nicholas asked him to accept the post it was his duty to do so. This happened and he had done it as a duty ever since.
Mr. L. C. Harvey, Vicar's warden, and Mr. R. T. Proctor, parish warden. also exoressed their appreciation of Mr. Farr's services.

METHOD EXTENSION

By D. MOTTERSHEAD

The columns of 'The Ringing World' have recently contained several articles on method structure, method extension, and no doubt the subject of nomenclature will soon crop up again. May I be allowed to contribute a little towards unification of existing views upon these topics?

First, let us examine the Plain Bob system. A method extremely popular on eight bells, which causes some controversy in this section. is Double Norwich. Below are the true extensions to Royal and Maximus:-

| 1234567890 | 1234567890Et |
| :---: | :---: |
| 2143658709 | 2143658709 TE |
| 241356789 n | 2413567890 кт |
| 4231658709 | 4231658709 TE |
| 2436157893 | 2436157890 ET |
| 4263518709 | 4263518709 TE |
| 2436581790 | 2436581790 Et |
| 42C3857109 | 4263857109 TE |
| 2436587019 | 2436587019 ET |
| 4263850791 | 4263850791 TE |
| 4628305971 | 243658709 tle |
|  | 42638507 T 9 E 1 |
|  | 4628305 т7E91 |

These two extensions conform to the general rules that (1) commencing from rounds, when we examine the 3 rd, 5 th, 7 th, etc., rows, the bells striking over the treble are $3,5,7$, etc.; and a similar state of affairs exists with the even rows; (2) successive extensions are characterised by the addition of one more dodge. The Major and Minor (Double Court) methods also conform to these rules. There is, however, an unfortunate feature in the Royal, namely, that it comes round after three leads:-

23456789C
860492735
795032264
234567890
This does not apply to the Maximus, though, which seems quite in order
The extensions generally given are very dif-ferent:-

| 1234567890 | 1234567890E1 |
| :---: | :---: |
| 2143658709 | 2143658709 TE 2413567890 ET 4231658709TE   42638105т7E9 4628301TSE79 68402 T3E1579 8604T2E35197 6 6402T3E:917 8604 T 2 E 39571 806 T 4 E 293751 806T4E293751 |

| 4628301579 |  |
| 6482035197 |  |

| 6482029571 |  |
| $684) 293751$ |  |
|  |  |

[The final summary contains a note which refers to the difference in these extensions.]
Double Norwich has also been rung on odd numbers of bells. As such there are two hunts and the method resulting falls into the Grandsire system. In view of this, it might be advisable to label all extensions to even numbers Double Norwich (including Minor) and give the name Double Court to the method derived for odd numbers of bells. In 'The Ringing World ' dated January 5th (- Forty Years Ago') there apneared a deal of St. Clement's Major, with a comment that this method is an extension of St Simon's Do 'bles. It is also desirable to re-name the Doubles method. since it is exactly the same method and is in the same system: hence St. Clement's Doribles.

IThe advocation by Mr. H. Dains to call the method Reading is not surorising, since Reading is the same Doubles method with 5ths place instead of 2nds at the lead ends.]

The following are extensions of St. Lawrence Little Bob:-

| 123456 | 12345678 | 1234567890 | 1234567890ET |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 213546 | 21354768 | 2135476980 | 213547698 E 0 T |
| 231564 | 23157486 | 2315749608 | 23157496 E ¢ 0 |
| 325146 | 32514768 | 3251476980 | 325147698E0t |
| 352164 | 35217486 | 3521749608 | 35217496E8r0 |
| 531246 | 53124768 | 5312476980 | 531247698 E 0 T |
| 513264 | 51327486 | 5132749608 | 51327496 E 8 т 0 |
| 153624 | 15372846 | 1537294068 | $1537294 \mathrm{E6T80}$ |
| 156342 | 15738264 | 1573920486 | 157392E4T608 |

This method apparently extends ideally to all even numbers of bells. It retains the bells completely in their backward-coursing order throughout each division.
[A peal of the Major has, I believe, been rung.]

Finally in this section, would the following be regarded as an extension of Reverse New Doubles?

| 12345 | 1234567 |
| :---: | :---: |
| 21354 | 2135476 |
| 23145 | 2314567 |
| 32415 | 3241657 |
| 23451 | 2346175 |
| 24351 | 2436715 |
|  | 4263751 |

[New Doubles and Reverse New Doubles are half-lead variations of each other.]
Four methods are possible from the Triples, by variations at the lead-end and half-lead. The method does not seem to extend satisfactorily beyond seven bells.

Next the Stedman System, which contains Princioles. Stedman itself and Erin [which is comoosed entirely of Stedman 'slow' sixes] extend ideally to 7.9 , and 11 bells :-

| Stedman  13254 | Erin |
| :--- | :---: |
| 12345 | 21435 |
| 21354 | 12345 |
| 23145 | 21354 |
| 32415 | 32145 |
| 23451 |  |
| 24315 |  |
| 42351 |  |
| 43215 |  |
| 34551 |  |
| 42521 |  |
| 45312 |  |
| 54321 |  |
| 53412 |  |
| etc. |  |

The very simole principle named 'Forward also extends ideally :-

| 132546 | 13254768 | 1325476980 | 132547698EOT |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 123456 | 12345678 | 1234567890 | 12345678900T |
| 213465 | 21346597 | $21^{24658709}$ | 2134658709 TE |
| 124356 | 12435678 | 1243567990 | 1243567890ET |
| 214365 | 21436587 | 2143658709 | 2143658709 тE |
| 241635 | 24163857 | 2116385079 | 241638507 т9E |

Duffield, a principle by Sir A. P. Heywood, also exists for eight, ten and twelve bells; but this princiole does not even retain its coursingorder between the ends of successive divisions (cf. Woodbine). Scientific Tribles suffers from the same defect and has. furthermore, another undesirable fature in that it is not even symmetrical! Therefore it is most advisable to dispense with both these principles as soon as possible for they are very inconsistent with the rules which apply to the structure of other principles and methods.

When the principle shown is extended [ideally, it seemsl to a higher number of bells. a greater number of changes in each division is produced. In this respect it differs from the other principles mentioned and is akin to methods in other systems [except 'Little' methods, where the manner of extension bears a similarity to the way in which the more well-known principles are extended]. There is a simple formula connecting the number of changes per division with the number of bells used for this principle.
Another ideally extensible principle is Double

THE AFFIRMATION

SOME things in life give the Editor a glow of pleasure. When he hears of old ringers talking of ringing at $6 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. on Easter Day and receives reports of the band assembling at 7 a.m. and afterwards attending the Communion service there can be only two apparent conclusions. The first is a deep-seated sense of loyalty to the Church, coupled with it the boldness to make a public affirmation of their creed, or alternatively an unctious pomposity bordering on hypocrisy, as pre-breakfast ringing before a service can in no sense qualify in the realm of personal performance.

The Editor has been brought up in the belief that there are elements of goodness in all human nature, although some have slipped from the path of rectitude. Too many people get a wrong orientation by viewing life with a great element of suspicion, looking first, when anything praiseworthy is done, for an ulterior motive. 'If you knew ringers as I know them, you would take a different view,' has more than once been a comment he has received, when he has been apt to accept at face value what sounded as a sensible proposition. And so he passes in their minds for one of those simple folk, one of those foolish innocents, who will eventually be disillusioned by the wily clever folk. Of course, there have been disappointments when that initial trust has not come up to expectations, but the search after goodness in human relationship has brought a far richer reward than the matching of intellect against intellect in a war of suspicion.

Thus it comes about that the writer prefers to take the view that those who ring early on an Easter morning do so with a strong sense of affirmation. The first is that the grave is not the end of human existence; it is true it is the end of the earthly body, but the soul, in some mysterious form not revealed to man, lives on. To a degree Nature in its wonderful circles provides a degree of comprehension. The second is far more significant: the conquest of death is through Christ. The Resurrection is no empty fable. It was the Son of God Who took human form, was crucified for the transgressions of the world and on the third day rose again. This firm belief is the message of the Easter bells.

The great love of God for mankind did not reach this earth by a prophet, a university professor renowned for his learning, a writer or publicist whose word gripped everybody, a great philanthropist who drew men to him by his compassion or a monarch who by wise statesmanship ruled his people. His Son came among us as of the humblest of folk, His mother a village girl, His father a craftsman. By the skill of His hands he earned his livelihood as a carpenter, and throughout His short ministry of three years lived a life of the simplest character, accepting hospitality where proffered. That perfect life has been the greatest influence the world has known, the source of all true inspiration.

The vital thing is that that inspiration is just as virile to-day as it was in Judea 1,900 years ago. It has been manifested in many directions. The advance of civilisation, the recognition of the freedom of man, the responsibility. of man for the care of his neighbour are equally as great as the outward manifestations of that Divine inspiration as are to be found in the great cathedrals of our land often completed after centuries of labour to the glory of God. His presence and His influence, working in the humdrum things in life, are among the greatest marvels of the world to-day-totally inexplicable unless there is the basis of that affirmation.

And where do we ringers come into this picture? Those first disciples were not drawn from the ranks of the erudite or those who had lived sheltered lives, but from hardy rugged folk capable of a good round oath when the occasion demanded. In the main we as ringers are largely recruited from such a class; it is freely admitted that we have in our ranks our intellectuals and those who by scholarship or in other directions have an honoured place in the social fabric of to-day. As a body we are largely inarticulate, living simple lives either as craftsmen or in agricultural pursuits. Our affirmation of 'Christ is risen' comes not as some would regard through the orthodox channel-the message from the pulpit or the singing of hymns. High up in the belfry, away from the ordinary people, perhaps as the Psalmist describes on 'loud sounding cymbals," comes a rolling majesty giving to the world our affirmation that ' they in Christ shall all be made alive.' Let the ringing this coming Easter Day be with that conviction. Let it truly be to the glory of God; the best we can do. With prayer and faith, the message we preach, though inarticulate in words, may bring that hope and consolation so needed in our towns and villages to-day.

A NEW QUARTER

This is the second issue of the new quarter and new postal subscribers for 1952 can be enrolled for 17 s . 8d. Will those who have not vet renewed their quarterly subscriptions ( 6 s .) please remit without delay to Mr. J. E. Jeater, 11. Frankswood Avenue, Petts Wood, Kent.

We have received a quarter peal of Stedman Triples rung at a church dedicated to St. Michael and all Angels in the Chester Diocese. Will the sender please supply us with the name of the town or village in which this Derformance took place, the name of the conductor and the name and address of the sender (in evidence of good faith).

Another good ringer is going to Cornwall. Mr. F. Bradley, of Nottingham, is leaving for Penryn, Cornwall.

A West Country reader reminds us that Alphington is near Exeter and not Plymouth as was inadvertently stated in "Bells in English Life.'

Cheshire ringers visited All Saints', Loughborough. on March 29th and rang a peal of London Surprise Royal. No. 3 Version, and nrovided Leicester Guild with something new !
One of our eminent young conductors upon joining the Forces forgot one of his duties in civilian life-the prompt reporting of his deals to "The Ringing World.' After waiting three weeks his colleagues have now made good the omission.

Mr. A. Patrick Cannon, the well-known heavy-beli ringer has had the great privilege of being the first ringer to 'turn in Liverpool Cathedral tenor. This was done by ringing three leads of Treble Ten on Saturday last with the tenor rung single-handed.
We have received another interesting letter from Mr. Ernest Weatherby, of Los Angeles. He has contacted Mr Peter Povooth, who is taking a course in the Technical Institute of Pasa Ceria. Mr. Pavooth is taking additional courses with the Water and Power Company of Los Angeles and at Seattle and hopes to reach Victoria and Vancouver and ring on these bells before returning to England in September.

GOSSIP
When Mr. Denis Mottershead sent a telegram asking for assistance from the local band as he was short of a treble ringer for a deal attempt, he received the following amusing telegram in reply: 'No table wringer. Try Ivor.' Errors in transmission can be most humorous.

Mr. John E. Chilcott, one of the foremost of our voung conductors of Stedman Cinques, has now rung his first peal of Grandsire Triplesand that from the tenor!

To attend a District mecting in the Midlands, one veteran enthusiast travelled 80 odd miles by train and bus for the privilege of ringing in a new six-bell tower He adds that the few short touches of Minor were much enjoyed.
The first anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Staniforth was celebrated by peals at Leicester and Loughborough. The peal of Buckingham Surprise Maximus at Leicester Cathedral was something new in Maximus ringing. It was Peter's 300th peal and Jill and Peter's 200th together.

A number of our readers are interested in music. We have received the prospectus of the Canford Summer School of Music which embraces all branches of music. The courses are very comprehensive ranging from vocal to full orchestras. Canford is two miles from Wimborne and eight miles from Dorchester. The course is from August 10th-24th.

Members of the Leiston band of ringers rang handbells at Theberton Church on March 29th at the wedding of Mr. Alan Robert Bridges, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Bridges, of Leiston, and Miss Edna Mary Walker, daughter of the late Mr. C. S. Walker and Mrs. Walker of Theberton Post Office. The bridegroom is a member of Leiston St. Margaret's ringers. and the bride is actively connected with the Theberton Brownie Pack and Sunday School. The honeymoon was spent at Torquay.

CONCERN OVER CONDITION OF BELLS IN FAMOUS TOWERS

$T_{\text {WO interesting reports giving an insight }}^{\text {into Suffolk ringing of to-day are con- }}$ tained in the annual report of the Suffolk Guild for 1951, which will be presented at the annual meeting at Ipswich on Easter Monday.

The Ringing Master, Mr Charles J. Sedgley, writes:-

The chicf interest in our peal records for the dast year is that for the first time in its history peals of Minor rung for the Guild exceed those of Major, the totals being Minor 42 and Major 26. This opens up several interesting lines of thought, but I shall confine myself to two. The first is that the generation of ringers that built and maintained the prestige of the Guild for so many years is passing away. Some have joined the great majority, and I need only mention Charles Bailey, of Leiston, William Rumsey, of Debenham, and T. William Last and George Whiting, of Helmingham, in this respect; others, by reason of infirmity and other matters, are, we trust temporarily, laid aside.

The other inference is that we have a growing band of young Minor ringers who have put up some good performances this year, especially in seven-method peals and in whose hands lie the future prestige of the Guild. But-and here I sound a note of warning-in ringing, as in most things, we cannot remain static; either we progress or we recede; we either go forward to fame or we slip back to nonentity. That choice is theirs. but they will attain nothing by ringing peal after peal of Minor in one, two or three methods, than which nothing could be more paralysingly monotonous.

Mr. Sedgley concludes by offering his congratulations to Rodney Pipe on calling his own composition of Kent Treble Bob Royal from a working bell and to Mr. Frank L. Fisher. who in its bi-centennial year, conducted -not for the first time-Holt's Original.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASING

Mr. C. W. Pipe, as general secretary, in his reoort writes:-.
'Every person who takes more than a frivolous interest in our Guild will wish to know whether we are making progress or whether the Guild is on the decline. Progress, it may be held, depends on many factors. There are some ringers who will judge progress by the quantity and quality of peals. Others will judge by the number of meetings and the introduction of young and new members, and. finallv, there are those who base their opinion upon the increase or decrease of membership and the financial situation. The latter usually interests the majority of members and it is with great satisfaction I can report a healthy increase in membership and finance.
' It must be admitted, however, that our standard has deteriorated and it is a matter of regret that peals of Surprise Royal and Maximus, Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Cinques and London and Bristol Major do not feature in last year's peal columns. Were it not for the Surprise Major peals under the conductorship of Mr. Leslie Brett. our 1951 performances would look very humble indeed. This steady contribution of better class ringing is a challenge to many of our intelligent young men to emulate the example set by the Framsden ringers
' In other years the need has been stressed for finding recruits; for more service ringing by everyone : the prompt and regular payment of the small subscription. But if our standard does not improve, and that very quickly, there will be a sharp decline in interest and our good work will vanish rapidly. The chief fault is the failure to observe the open and closed lead and the offenders in this respect cannot claim to be good strikers.'

RESIGNATIONS AND DEATHS

Good work, stated the report, had again been put in by the District secretaries, who had arranged meetings all over the county in order to achieve better feeling, better striking and more members. Mr. George Felby offered his resignation after holding the office of a District secretary for many years. Mr. Edward Ellenger decided to become a minister of the Free Church and his resignation was received with great regret. Before this, the Guild was stunned by the sudden passing of Mrs. Ellenger. Thus Ipswich lost two staunch supporters. Mr. Max Page had taken up the work and responsibility for the Ipswich District and had already made a name for himself by his keenness. Deeply regretted also was the decision of Mr. Archie Fitch to resign as District secretary of Sudbury, a post he had held since 1945. He had given good service to the Guild.

By death the Guild had lost the Rev. George Porter, of Easton, Mr. Charles F. Bailey. of Leiston, probably the greatest ringer that Suffolk had produced, Mr. Charles Crapnell, of Ipswich, and Mr. William Dye, of Grundisburgh.

RESTORATIONS

Four very useful restorations took place during the year. At Bures, through the hard work of Mr. Leslie Mills. two trebles were added to the fine old six bells. Later, at Cotton, two trebles were added to complete the octave, and for this they had to thank Mr. Chilvers. The six bells at Copdock had been rehung on ball bearings. At Tunstall a complete restoration had taken place, and the little ring of six was now a credit both to the parish and the bell founders. Work had heen commenced at Pakefield (Taylor's), Stradbroke (Gillett's) and at Lavenham (Mears').
'It can be truly said that nearly all our heavy rings, including those of our two leading churches, are now in a poor condition. and these should be reported to the Church authorities without delay in order that funds may be opened before the bells become totally unringable and the cost of restoration double what it may be to-day. Clumsy and heavygoing bells. with poor tonal quality, will neither attract young recruits nor inspire the listening public; they are not worthy of the fine churches in which they hang. However, it is heartening to know that a dozen orders, chiefly from the minor churches, have been placed with all three bell founders and we may confidently look forward to the day when the majority of our bells are in a respectable condition and on a par with the "go" and tone of bells in many other counties.

DEDICATION OF HELMORE MEMORIAL

In spite of atrocious weather, several members braved the elements to attend the dedication of the clock presented to Canterbury Cathedral belfry in memory of the Rev. F. J. O. Helmore. late hon. general secretary of the Kent County Association
The short, simple ceremony was conducted in the belfry by the Dean, who was assisted by the Precentor. the Rev. C. Ludlow. The ringers were welcomed by the Dean (Dr. Hewlett Johnson). who said they had come that day to pay honour to one who had given much for ringing. They mustn't think of him as dead but that he was stili very near them. The Precentor read a short passage from Numbers x ., the Dean then saying the dedicatory prayers.

The clock is of decorated walnut and is a 14 -day striking one, and having the more usual Westminster chimes, together with changes on eight bells. A plate has been affixed which has the following inscription:- ' Presented by the Kent County Association of Change Ringers in memorv of Frederick John Ottlet Helmore. Priest. Honorary General Secretary K.C.A.C.R. 1891-1929. President of the Cathedra, Companv 1885-1938.'
Miss H. Helmore, who had placed a new door at the foot of the belfry steps in memory of her father. was present at the service. Among other members of the Association who attended were Mr. J. Willis (trustee) and Messrs. Knight and Norris (Rochester), J. Unwin. T. H. Holmes. W F. Jenkins. R. G. and Mrs. French and other members from Ashford. Maidstone. Walmer and Boughton.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

MEETING AT BITTON

The spring quarterly meeting was held at Bitton on March 29th and in spite of a heavy snow storm was well attended by visitors and members.
Before the general ringing a band of members rang a quarter feal of Stedman to the memory of Andrew J. Corrigan. By 3 p.m. the fine ring of eight was set going to various methods up to Double Norwich until 4.30 p.m. when the members attended a service conducted by the local Rector. Ladies of the parish afterwards entertained them to tea.

Before opening the business meeting the chairman spoke of Mr . Corrigan's services both to the Association and to the Exercise. The members then stood in silence as a token of respect.

After a successful meeting the members returned to the tower for further ringing before setting out for their homes through wind and snow.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE FOR BELLRINGERS

Many teams of bellringers are insured under the special policies issued by the Ecclesiastical Insurance Office Ltd., 11, Norfolk Street, Strand, W.C.2. Particulars will be supplied on application Those with old policies are recommended to consider increasing the scale of benefits provided.
The Ecclesiastical Insurance Office, Ltd.. was founded in 1887 to conserve for the Church of England profits arising from Church Insurances. The Office undertakes all kinds of parochial insurance

BERRINGTON, a small village with a big ringing history

V
ILLAGERS. I think, hear more of their bells than their neighbours in towns, where trains, buses and cars are more numerous. Frequently, too, village churches are comparatively isolated, instead of being surrounded by high buildings, as sometimes occurs in towns.

This is the case at Berrington, where the church of All Saints is surrounded by ficlds. excent on the south where stands the ancient manor house, now a farmhouse. In spring and summer the sound of bells floats over the countryside. mingling with the song of birds. In winter, on frosty nights, their sound seems to ec'io from the frozen ground.

Berrington is about five miles south-east from Shrewsbury, and the progress made in recent years with both bells and ringers is typical of what is happening in Shropshire and in England generally.
The handsome stone church, built in the thirteenth century, follows one of ancient foundation, as a priest is mentioned in 1086. The present font is thought to be Saxon, and the church contains other features of interest.

Parish iegisters from 1559, and also records of some of the old customs of the parish., show the continuity of social life, which was entirely centred round the church until recent times.

Church bells played an important part in sounding for services, for the deaths of parishioners, and for events of national importance.

The tower, built perhaps a little later than the church. is of pleasing proportions. Buttresses at each corner decrease in size in stages as they rise, adding to the appearance, and also to the solidity of the tower, about which there is no doubt.

THE ORIGINAL BELFRY

Perhaps bells were installed very early, but the first record is of 1549: 'Burinton iiij' bells and one sanctus.' Churchwardens' accounts of 1680 show a payment of $£ 10$ to a bellfounder and again in 1682 for 'a saint's bell.' There was a clock in 1704 and the curfew was rung regularly until 1752.
There were then five bells hung for ringing, the smallest being inscribed: "Thomas Farmer. Eaton Mascott 1653. We shall see that Eaton Mascott plays no small part in the provision of bells for its parish church. William Blakeway and William Callcott. wardens in 1611. had their names perpetuated on the third bell. and 'Roger R.F. 1616 ' appeared on the fifth. Nothing is known of the origin of these bells.
Nor do we know anything of their musical qualities. Some of this period that remain in other towers are quite good. For whatever reason, all were recast by Thomas Mears of London in 1796 into a ring of six, and these are still in use.

Although change ringing was by this time

 well estab'ished in Shropshire, it was generally only applied to eight bells, when the full peal of 5,040 changes was the aim of all. At Berrington. no doubt. the bells were rung both in 'rounds,' the natural order down the scale. and in the usual musical sequences 135246. 125346. etc.The bells were highly valued and in regular use, we may be sure. if only because the recasting mentioned above cost $£ 341$-the equivalent of $£ 2,000$ to-day!
The church was generally restored in 1877. and one authority states that Messrs. Blews. of Birmingham, rehung the bells then. This seems doubtful. as the faculty, without which alterations are not permitted to church property does not mention the bells. Further. Mr. G. E. Purslow and Mr. A. Jones. two ringers, made and titted new bearings to the tenor bell early in the present century. Mr. Purslow. whose two sons are both ringers today, is unzertain of the date.

Finally, in 1928, repairs to the tower and complete rehanging of the six bells were undertaken by the late Sir George H. Holcroft, Bart., of Eaton Mascott Hall. as a memorial to his eldest son. Gilbert Culcheth Holcroft, killed in the first World War

BAND REORGANISED

At this stage Mr W. H. Lloyd was asked to organise a new band, and although without previous experience, his efforts have been crowned with success to a considerable degree. Mr. H. Wood, of Condover helped in the early stages, with the rudiments of change ringing, Later, Mr. W. Beniams, of Ludlow, an official of the Hereford Diocesan Guild of Ringers, trained the band in Grandsire Doubles, and conducted their first poal in 1933.

Mr. W. Beniam; conducted the first of these in 1933, and in 1935 Mr . W. H. Lloyd conducted his own band in a similar peal. The ringers were: James Lloyd 1. Sydney Wear 2. Philid J. L. Purslow 3 W. H. Downes 4. W. H. Lloyd (conductor) 5, W H. Evans tenor.

Several similar peals were rung at Berrington and elsewhere, and in 1949 a peal of Plain Bob Minor, employing the six bells in changes, was accomplished. Although by no means unique, this was a noteworthy performance, as so much of Shropshire's six-bell ringing starts and ends with Doubles. The band was Alfred Owen 1, Miss Ruby J. Lloyd 2, Philip J. W. Purslow 3. Miss Ethel Duppa 4. James E. Fox 5. William H. Lloyd 6. Mr. Purslow conducted this peal, the first of Minor on the bells.

Ringing practices at Berrington attracted ringers from neighbouring towers and seven different methods were practised with a view to including them in a peal, when war stopped ringing. This record is the best in the county for variety in six-bell methods.

One more peal was to be accomplished on these six bells- that in honour of the wedding of Miss Ruby Lloyd to Dr. Bruce Laing, after they had flown to their new home in Newfoundland, and after several efforts had failed for various reasons. On one occasion a rope broke just before the end of the three hours' ringing! The final attempt included Plain Bob, Stedman and Grandsire Doubles.

POST-WAR ADDITIONS

Since the war, a new era has opened at Berrington. Ringers and friends raised the sum of $£ 400$ in a little less than two years, and provided two additional bells. These were installed in March last by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank and dedicated by Bishop Sara.
Inscriptions on the complete ring sre now: Treble-This bell and the second of this peal were added in thanksgiving for peace in 1945. Second-This bell and the treble were provided with money raised by the ringers and their friends. Third-Follow with joyful Sounds: 1796. Fourth-Unite while Joy Surrounds. Fifth-Obey each Happy Call.
 praise to God above. Ed. Ditcher, John Aston, Ch Wardens. 1796.

The new trebles have added a much brighter note to the ring. and on practice nights and Sundays Triples and Major have replaced Doubles and Minor.

We look forward to hearing a peal on this, the newest of Shropshire's octaves of bells.
[With acknowledgment to the 'Shropshire Magazine.']

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD Big Attendance at Tamworth Despite Snow
According to the calendar it was officially Sbring when the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford held its quarterly meeting at Tamworth on March 29th. The weather prevailing that dav however. was more in keeping with mid-winter and it spoke volumes for the popularitv of Tamworth and its church and bells that 79 ringers and friends braved the elements of biting icv winds. followed later in the afternoon bv a fall of snow.
The narish church of St . Editha with its massive tower is particularly fine and the grand ring of eight bells is in keeping with everything to be found in this ancient and impressive church. As usual, Mr. George Oliver. Ringing Master, saw to it that all ringers present were catercd for according to their abilities.

The service was conducted by the Vicar of Tamworth (the Rev. G. C. Batten) who also gave a most interesting address.

An excellent tea was scrved at the Monica Cafe. After tea Messrs. Bunnett and G. Oliver referred to the passing of the late Mr. W. Chapman, of the Tamworth band, who had been a member of the Society since 1889, and all present then stood in silence as a mark of respect to his memory.

Mr. Bennett thanked the Rev. G. C. Batten, Mr. G. H. Peers, jun , the Tamworth ringers and the organist for their part in making the mecting so enjoyable
The next meeting of the Society will be at Hanbury, near Burton-on-Trent, on May 17th. and it is hoped to arrange for a coach to run from Wolverhampton.

Mr. J. Hartley's 50 Years at Norbury

A social evening was held in Norbury Schools on March 27th to celebrate the 50 years as a bellringer at Norbury Churcb of Mr. $\mathbf{J}$. W. Hartley. The company included the Vicar (the Rev. E. Taylor), churchwarden (Mr. Simmonds), old ringers, friends and the present-day ringers
After games and songs by Phyllis Sellars and Mr. Marsland the Vicar presented Mr. Hart ley with a writing set and a $£ 5$ note. In in remarks the Vicar commended Mr. Hartley's wonderful record of service. To have been christened. confirmed and served 50 years in the belfry at St. Tbomas's, was certainly a record for Norbury.
Mr. Hartley, in reply, gave a brief summary of the changes which had taken plaze during his 50 years as a ringer. He mentioned four ringers whom he held in high esteem-Mr. Jaines Fernley, sen., the Rev. A. T. Beeston. Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft and Mr. T. Wilde. He thanked everyone for a most successful evening.
The Vicar then presented Mrs. Hartley with a handbag in recognition of the help she had given to her husband over the number of years.
An exhibition of handbell ringing was given bv Messrs C. K. Lewis. Wilfred Stevenson. Joe Whittaker. Peter Lafin and James Fernley. un

PEAI, AT ROBERT HERRICK'S CHURCH

A neal of Grandsire Doubles was rung at Dean Prior Parish Church. Buckfastleigh. Devon on March 29 th where the Rev. Robert Herrick. the doet, was at one time Vicar. The peal was rung by a band who were members of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild. the last Branch peal having been rung as long ago as 1929 . The members greatly appreciated the action of Mr. F. Turner. of Ashburton. who stood in at very short notice
Weather conditions were very 'arctic,' three members having to cycle back to Buckfastleigh after the peal, in the throes of a snowstorm.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

STANDARDS

Dear Sir,-The great majority of ringers voluntarily accept certain standardso to govern their ringing life. These are standards of striking. punctuality and attendance, church attendance and method advancement. Some have a very high standard, for instance the late William Pye. who once threatened to stop a peal of Surdrise Maximus because of a clipped dodge up behind. Also some will go through a whole vear without being absent or late once. But if any compulsion is used, then at once the ringers kick. as witness the recent strike in Derbyshire.

It is many years since the Central Council passed some rules governing treble-dominated methods and as far as memory serves they are as follows:-
(1) That the plain course should consist of as many treble leads as there are working bells.
(2) That the lead should be the unit, and contain all the work of the method.
(3) That the method should be symmetrical.
(4) That the method should have regular lead heads.
These are undoubtedly standards which every good method must possess. Let us admit that a 720 of Minor can be produced without these standards, and also that we get stagnation in some cases even when the standards are used. In general, however, they cover the whole field from Minor to Maximus and there are enough methods to suit even the most fastidious.

During recent months the Central Council has been subiected to severe criticism for daring to sav that it will no longer recognise methods which do not conform to the standards laid down. Clearly the Central Council is within its rights as one of its committees compiles the Analyses. I suggest that our standard of loyalty to the Central Councit should at least be on a Dar with our other standards

Let us look at the financial side; we will assume that it cost the different Associations $£ 200$ to send their delegates to the meeting. If their decisions are not to be honoured then it is a waste of good money. Criticism there must be but it should be constructive and the critics have so far failed to suggest anything better.-Yours, etc..
E. R. M.

BANISTER CENTENARY PEAL LOST

Dear Sir.-On March 29th. at Eltham Parish Church. an attempt to ring Holt's Original peal of Grandsire Triples was made by eight members of the Lewisham District of the Kent Countr Association to commemorate the centenary of the family peal of Grandsire Triples rung at St. Mary's. Woolwich, on March 27th, 1852. by Henry Banister, his six sons and his son-in-law.
As St. Mary's bells were not available for this attempt, the Vicar of St. John's. Eltham. which is situated in the Borough of Woglwich. kindly gave his consent for the attempt to be made there.

Unfortunately. after an hour of excellent ringing. the attemot came to an end by the call 'Stand!' Something had gone wrong which was not revealed at the 'preliminary inquest.'

The hour was too late to permit a restart so after a brief interval a quarter peal of 1,316 changes from Holt's Original was rung. The striking was excellent throughout and of a auality that the Banisters themselves would have adornved.

It is hooed to make another attempt for this neal at Eltham on July 4th by the same band ringing the same bells.-Yours faithfully,
A. GROVE, sen.

THE ‘ WILLIAMS’ PEAL

Dear Sir,-A peal of Cambridge Maximus had been arranged for Saturday, March 29th. at Birmingham Cathedral. to be rung by a band of iust 'Williams.' Owing to one member of the band having to withdraw a few days before the attempt. frantic efforts were made to comnlete the band without success, with the result that we met eleven
After talking it over it was decided to go for Cambridge Royal instead and Mr. William B. Cartwright offered to stand down, and on behalf of the rest of the band I would like to thank him for turning up and for his sporting gesture. I would also like to apologise to Mr. William Birmingham, of Slough, who had made the orevious arrangements for the 'Williams, to ring Cambridge Royal, which had proved unsuccessful. as we had fully intended to ring Maximus. I would now like to thank Mr. George E. Fearn for placing the Cathedral bells so readily for our use and the rest of the Birmingham ringers who turned up to welcome us and to wish us luck in our attempt. This friendship is appreciated.

Now iust a word of praise to the youngest member of the band, 17 -ycar-old William Lacey, from Leicester. who rang the treble, for after ringing for three-quarters of an hour the tuck came out of his rope and he completed the oeal on a 'single-end,' an experience he is not likely to forget in a hurry.
Thanks are also due to all the 'Williams ' who so readily came and made this peal possible, especially those who travelled such long distances on such a foul day. The three stalwarts who accompanied me by car had a journey which will not be forgotten. We encountered a blinding snowstorm with its attendant drifts which at times almost blocked the roads: we eventually arrived home at $4 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. on Monday, tired but happy.

Having read the 'Diary of William H. Fussell' ' in 'The Ringing World ' and the journeys he made to ring peals, I wonder what he would have thought of his ' namesakes' ' journey on this occasion- 380 miles covered, $14 \frac{1}{3}$ hours on the road, plus $3 \frac{1}{2}$ hours for the peal. Further time was spent on very welcome 'light refresh-ment.'-Yours sincerely.
W. ROGERS.

RICHARD CHANDLER AND THOMAS TOMPION

Dear Sir.-In answer to the Rev. A. J Nixseaman regarding the above founders:
(1) There were three Richard Chandlers who founded at Drayton Parslow but I have no knowledge that any of them established a foundry at Gamlingay.
(2) It was customary for founders to place their names. the words 'made me, and the year of casting, or recasting. on bells. This often resulted in the loss of much original data on drevious bells.
(3) No list of Chandler bells in Bedfordshire is available.
(4) Thomas Tompion is reputed to have cast one of the bells at Northill, his native parish, but evidence of this is not forthcoming. He certainly did cast a bell for Willington when he was a young man of 22. Probably this was during the period he worked as a blacksmith at some unlocated spot. prior to his becoming the foremost clock and wat-hmaker in the country. The Willington bell of 1671 became cracked in the 19th century, so no Tompion bell is now in existence.-Yours sincerely.

WILLIAM SHEPHERD.

Dear Sir-I feel that I am probably only one of many who would wish to thank you for the article on 'Lent and Easter', by Prebendary Hook. What puzzles me is that there should be so many of my brother clergy who would seem to welcome the ringing of peals on their bells during Lent. There must, of course, always be exceptions but these should be well understood as such both by parishioners and ringers.-Yours faithfully,

(PREBENDARY) E. V. COX,

 President of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers.Ottery St. Mary, Devon.

BILBIE'S BELLS

Dear Sir,-I have read with interest the correspondence evoked by Mr. Gould. It seems desirable to assume that 'tuning' bells has a much wider meaning than formerly. Winterbourne will tell you that their Chepstow bells came out of the moulds needing no tuning. I do not want to be referee between Winterbourne on the one hand and our great, modern bellfounders and orchestra leaders on the other but I think the Evans were craftsmen 'who needed not to be ashamed.' (II. Tim.)
The only method of tuning open to the Bilbies was to chop a diagonal groove inside the sound bow When the next groove was chopped about a auarter of an inch away, most of the metal between broke away, and so on, all rriund, until the note was lowered sufficiently. The solendid 10th and superb 11 th at Redcliffe were tuned thus, but modern craftsmen with mightv lathes have scraped off the crests of the ridges. The note G, $40 \frac{1}{2}$ ins., 1709 , Bilbie fourth of the Doynton five is an elegant examnle of how 'um did work in them deays.' The $33 t$ inch. 1766, Bilbic second was put up untuned. about a quarter tone sharp, and so it remained for the best part of two centuries.
Though our great, modern founders appear to keep closely in line, would any one of them say in these pages: 'I have nothing that others haven't'? Through the centuries the major ingredients of good bells have been copper and tin. but the exact proportions, the degree of heat used. the number of times melted, the amount of stirring and not least, the design of bell are all part of a 'formula.' but whether the best modern bell is better than the best old bell. and whether the best modern recast is as gond as the hest old bell are points likely to be debated till the end of time.-Yours very truly,

DERBY'S JUBILEE PEAL

Dear Sir,-Just over fifty years ago the tower of St. Peter's Church was pulled down to allow extension of the church and rebuilt further to the West. At that time there were five bells in the tower. Three were of 1636 and two rather younger. one of which was Abraham Rudhall's. These were augmented to eight. The new treble was givin by Sir Henry Benrose. M.P. the second by Sir Thomas Roe and the third by Messrs. E. T. Ann and R. B. Chambers. churchwardens. The fourth and fifth of the present ring were recast by Taylor's of Loughborough.
On April 2nd. 1902. the Bishop of Southwell (in whose diocese Derby then was) dedicated the bells. Fifty years later, on April 2nd, 1952, a iubilee peal was rung to mark the occasion by members of the Derbyshire Association of Change Ringers. This was 5.008 of St. Clement's Bob Major. The first in the method by all and for the Association.-Yours, etc.,

Derby.

NORFOLK BELLS: CASTLE ACRE AND PAKEFIELD

THE visitor to Norfolk finds himself in a place apart. Far away are the roaring blast furnaces, the smoke and grime which are necessary to stave off civilisation's fall, the unromantic scenes with which madern life has clothed itself. We are in a land of quiet cornfields, rolling plains, broads and wooded uplands, with the sea all around except for the Fens on the west and Holy Suffolk. which shares our outlook-a land where God, as our forefathers in "the ages of faith' saw Him, seems very near-a land of green fields dominated by vast churches with their towers, palaces of the beauty of a half-forgotten past. A past which can easily live again, in the imaginative mind, however.

So to Castle Acre, with its great Priory, glory of the ages of faith. We go, not to weep over the dead past, but to rejoice in the living present. For it is February 29th, and we have come to join in the ceremony-ancient yet ever full of new life-of Hallowing the bells. In the vast parish church, the equal of many a city church, and far better than many for it can house the whole village without being cluttered up with pews and its majesty disguised, the Bishop of Thetford's cope and mitre, with those around him-clergy, choir, two attendants (from the Cathedral choir, out for a spree with the Precentor) and A. G. G. his Chaplain-blend perfectly with the ancient figures, full of colour and gold, which for five centuries have decorated the glorious screen and pulpit

The anthems, hymns, and processions are arranged round the climax-the Hallowing of the bells. They stand in a group by the font -suitably placed by the place where the far greater Hallowing, the Sacrament by which folk seek new life, has happened for centuries. As the Bishop anoints and asperses each bell and blesses it, we have a foretaste of the new life which Taylor's are bringing to the old work of Thomas Newman. The presence of the donors recalls the medirval glass at Mancroft, where the donors kneel humbly in a corner presenting their gift to God. We return to the chancel, and the Bishop begins his sermon thus: "Now I am to speak about what we have done, but this talk would be given far better by my Chaplain behind me.

So out again to the village green-tea, handbells, the beloved Norfolk mardle, and we part only to meet again on April 26th, when A. G. G. T. is to reopen the bells for ringing.

A GLORIOUS RESURRECTION

And now it is April 4th, and yet another tower is bursting into new life. We find ourselves right down by the sea-into which the long-suffering Austin ten has nearly driven-at Pakefield, with a church whose situation and whose recent history are equally romantic. It is as close to the sea as possible. One tombstone overhangs the low cliff by a foot; the coast road here has gone. The church might have gone but for the erection of a new groyne, and almost everything in the church which could burn was destroyed in the war. Last time I visited it, there was nothing but bare walls and the voices of the seagulls where choristers had sung.

But there has been a glorious resurrection. Walls raised to their full height; a fine new oak roof, thatched with Norfolk reeds without difficulty because the Government didn't know thatching is still done here so hadn't made rules and regulations to forbid it; perfectly lovely new screens, pews, windows and organ, the font brought back into use, and a fine new altar.

And a glorious new ring of eight. To the old five. Taylor's have added three lovely trebles which must sound startling to any who cruise too near the shore in a fog. They may save life thus one day-who knows? So there gather together the Bishop of Norfolk, clergy and choir, and a large congregation, not for the bells alone but for a service uniting the various gifts by which we glorify God. Gordon Paget gives a recital on the new organ. The service begins by the procession pausing before the ancient chancel screen restored to new beauty, whilst the Bishop dedicates it to the memory of Robert Graunt, Rector in 1400 , who gave the scrcen. Then we proceed to the tower. The Bishop offers the bells to God, dedicates them and hands a rope to the Rector. During the rounds which follow, one visiting clergyman whispers to another: 'It really does look rather complicated, doesn't it?' (what would he think of being forced into the Roman Coliscum and made to ring Spliced Surprise on handbells or be eaten by the lions, if such historic confusion were possible?) The memorable service proceeds, much of it, oddly enough, like that at Castle Acre, copied from a service at St . George Colegate a year or so ago.

The Bishop, whose sermon, like all his, is quite brilliant, paints an inspiring picture of the overwhelming story of century after century of gencrosity of craftsmanship, of the Divine family of the Church in Pakefield, a vivid illustration of what the Church of England, with 1,300 years at least behind it, the oldest continuous life of any kind whatever in this land, has meant to us. He hardly mentions the bells (he has been heard to say, "I don't preach on bells when Thurlow is present '), but his talk is obviously of their message, as he concludes by saying that the ancient history is but the foundation for what matters to-day, the living voice of God through His Church.

The twenty-five or so ringers from Pakefield and the surrounding district have a gay hour with the usual methods and the usual mardle before returning to our own towers, encouraged once again by the work we have done together.

GILBERT THURLOW.

MR. T. H. POOK

The Exeter Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers has lost one of its most faithful members by the death on March 30th of Mr T. H. Pook.

A member of the Thorverton band and representative of the Exeter Branch on the general committee, he was also closely identified with ringing at St. Mary's, Silverton. where for many years he was a regular Sunday service ringer. He had been a member of the Guild for about 45 years.
He was born 62 years ago at Clyst Hydon, a rather out-of-the-way East Devon parish, where there were six bells. His father was leader of the local company which strove valiantly to advance from round and call-change ringing to scientific methods and achieved much success.

Harry,' as he was generally known, proved an apt pupil and soon became proficient in handling and striking and in his prime was a very good back-ender
As a young man he took up work at Thorverton Mill, settled at Upexe, from whence he had contact with eight-bell towers at Thorverton and Silverton. He graduated in Triple and Maior ringing, but had few opportunities and no great inclination foi peals, of which he had 13 to his credit. He could conduct and had some skill with handbells. He was handicapped in recent years by illness and accident, the most scrious of which resulted in a broken thigh that ended his ringing activities. but he bore his misfortunes with great fortitude and was a familiar and welcome figure at Branch end Guild meetings.
His funeral on April 2nd at Silverton. was attended by many relatives (including his wife, son and daughter), to whom sympathy is extended. residents and ringing friends.

Among the latter were Mr. A. W. Scarle, vice-president. Guild of Devonshire Ringers. W. S. Lethbridge (both of Exeter). J. Arbury, hon. secretary and treasurer, East Devon Branch (Ottery St. Mary), Mr. A. G. Selley. Ringing Master. N.E. Branch, and Mrs. Selley, C. G. Dymond, hon, secretary and treasurer, N.E. Branch (Silverton) R. B. Ford, W. H. Baker and Mrs. Baker (Thorverton) and W. Cockram (Tiverton).
The bells were rung muffed at Thorverton and Silverton in the evening,

METHOD EXTENSION

Lastly, the pièce de résistance-the Surprise methods. These methods, which form a subdivision of the Treble Bob system, seem to have caused most of the controversy, due, no doubt, to their popularity in the field of Major ringing. Cambridje and Yorkshire extend ideally, as does Pudsey Some methods, e.g., Wembley, Superlative and Rutland extend ideally to Maximus but not to Royal.

These figures are the extensions of Rochester Surprise to Royal and Maximus. It has been said that this method does not extend ideally, but the above diagrams would appear to disagree with this. I do not know whether the method as rung on ten and twelve bells is the same.

The following, which were composed independently and may have already existed, seem to be ideal extensions of Bristol:-

because of the order in which the bells come down to lead in the adjacent rows. The pivotbells in successive extensions of Bristol would appear to be $2,3,5,7$, etc.

London, however, seems to be the worst culprit with regard to extension. There is a method called Double London which extends idcally to ten and twelve bells, but it is an unorthodox method there being two formidable objections to it, viz.:- (1) A place is made below a bell lother than the treblel which is lying full behind; this work being the same as the 'slow' work performed at lead with the bell doing 'Stedman' work in London itself ; and (2) The four changes between the 2-3 and $4-5$ cross sections possess a sign-pattern which appears to contradict the laws of Treble Bob method construction. Since the method is a Double one, this also applies to certain other rows. [All change-rows have a positive or negative sign, which is a shorthand way of writing in-or out-of-course, according to the way in which they are derived from rounds; rounds being positive by convention.]

The method shown above appears to be quite in order and the extensions ideal. This is a Double method, and when examined closely it is found to bear a iesemblance to London Surprise in many respects; the Major method has several false course-ends. however
The true extension of London itself to ten bells is classed as unorthodox. and the same applies to London Surprise Maximus. With regard to the various 'Versions' which exist, it is probable that the majority of ringers are not unduly concerned about how near to the truth these haopen to be so it is sufficient to comment that none of them can. strictly speaking. be called London Surprise. Perhaps a suitable adjective. e.g., ' New' or 'Proximate,' ought to be inserted in the names of such extensions when printing peal reports of the recognised ' Version,' and then there would be little cause for complaint. Readers would not be tempted to insert their own appropriate adjectives, since it must be admitted that there is a certain amount of dissatisfaction attached to anything which is (for want of a better word) defiled. Of course, it is necissary to bear in mind that the methods themselves are quite acceptable. the real issue at stake beinz their doubtful regularity as extensions of the 'parent' methods. (The foregoing paragraph also applies to certain other methods.)

In the case of methods such as Woodbine, however, we have a definite instance of irregularity. The term 'Plain Bob Lead-Ends' will now be familiar to readers. If these are not obtained, the tenors are parted, and in view of the undesirability of this, the much-discussed stipulation [which is. expressed in more general terms. ' retention of Coursing Order between the final change-rows of successive divisions ' has been laid down. If it had not, there would be a lack of orderliness in one of the foundation stones of our art, namely, in method structure. It might be said that the tenors must be parted for a certain portion of a true extent. in any case and that Minor ringing is 'a sphere on its own.' Nevertheless. and here I speak as a regular ringer of Minor, let us remember the motto. 'Unity in diversity.

From the foregoing investigation it would appear that there are two (at least) different plans of method extension. When the work above the treble in London Surprise is examined it will be noticed that in successive extensions the main characteristics are retained relative to the treble's leading full In the casc of Cambridge. however, we find that the main characteristics of the work remained fixed relative to the treble's lying full. Bristol seems to fall into both categories to a certain degrec.

The fundamental work below tho treble seems to remain fixed relative to her leading full. in each case.
A glance at the two extension plans for Double Coust Minor given at the beginning of this letter seems to indicate that two different ways of extending one method are discernible in certain cases. Thus, in addition to Double Norwich Major, the following might be regarded as an extension of the Minor method :12345678

In a method which contains such a large number of dodges. it is hard to distinguish between those dodges which are introduced by extension and those which are fundamental to the method.]
In conclusion I should like to respectfully emphasise that (1) evolution rather than revolution is desirable in this narticular instance: (2) Any decisions reached need to be as comprehensive as possible in order to be beneficial to the whole of the Exercise, thus allowing the utmost scope for individual initiative that is compatible with social cohesion

MORE BELFRYMANSHIP

YOU are the Average Belfryman. Quite untrue, is your indignant protest. You like a bit of good striking; have rung a few peals, all good ones; don't do much conducting, but will call if there is no one else; don't like to boast, but have taught scores of learners; no, you haven't been doing much teaching lately; it is time others took a turn.
Read on. This is all about you.
Take the Man who is a Marvel with Learners. He gives them such confidence: 'Now just take it steady. Careful not to bump the stay; it's a bit weak. And remember what I am always telling you people: put some energy into your back-strokes.' (Carpentry is the M.M.L.'s hobby anyway.) Learners do not have ears of their own. When they have progressed a little and emerge into strange towers, preliminary advice is essential. "Now she's quick at hand so you want to keep her off the 4th. And cut her in at back over the little ones, but mind the tenor, it's very slow at back. And remember to hold your leads up a bit, but don't break the rhythm.' As an alternative to this and equally effective: 'Not an odd-struck bell among them, so we can have perfect striking, for once.' The hapless Learner wishes profoundly that he had (a) put off trying Kent for another week; (b) never been born.
But the M.M.L. is not typical and only a mild case. The hardened Belfryman's attitude to teaching the inexperienced comes under Agate's Law of the Non-Increasability of Nothing. They will never ring properly and he has better things to do with his time.

The difference between the Ordinary Ringer and the Belfryman is, broadly speaking, the difference between searching one's own conscience and searching someone else's. The Ordinary Ringer, suddenly realising that he is going wrong, pulls his bell in sharply. This is a sad mistake. The convulsive movement betrays him and two or three kettles are on the boil before ever the misblow sounds. Let him brazen it out and the odds are in his favour. He knows that the clash is coming and can put his word in first. A wise Belfryman reviews on each occasion his fellow-members of the band, deciding beforehand (a) those who may be hit with impunity; (b) those who must never be hit, arranging them in priority order. Never hesitate to trample on a ringer when he is down.
It cannot be emphasised too strongly that initiative is everything in Belfrymanship. One exasperating device I entitle (for want of a better name), 'Outployed by Matilda.' You are cruising placidly along in, say, Yorkshire Major, when a shrill voice breaks in, 'Missed a dodge, six.' Now you are quite certain that there was no dodge. You fume inwardly and ponder a cutting rejoinder. 'No, I haven't,' sounds pretty thin. It is all very well for Matilda with her 2 cwt . of metal. Sudden jolts round your end are more serious. That is what makes Matilda so difficult to deal with. You fume some more. (After all, this is Yorkshire, not Cambridge. That's interesting; in Cambridge there would be a dodge there with Matilda. Perhaps Matilda strayed into Cambridge for a moment. Yes, you will rub that in afterwards.) You fume some more. By now the ringing is in the next lead and you have missed your places. Now no one will ever believe that Matilda put you wrong.
The Belfryman, of course, never goes wrong. But if you should happen to, never at all costs shed the authoritative manner. Tell a ringer, who is quite firm, what he is doing. This, for some unexplained reason, puts the onus of guilt on him. Watch Mighty Willy in difficulties: he has missed his dodge in 4-5 coming Down and, after floundering in 2-3 for a blow or two, at last finds an opening at the Front. 'Here 4. I'm taking you off.' And, no matter what the ensuing chaos, Mighty Willy is once again Top Man. For the man ringing a little bell, unless he be the Conductor, I know of only one redress. This may be entitled Dunkerley's Counter. Like all effective devices it is simple. As the cyclone approaches your quarter you state quite firmly what you are doing,' e.g., 'I'm leading now,' or 'I'm doing Stedman Work.' Others, less firm, have been swindled out of their birthright. Simple, did I say? Not altogether. You have to be sure of your work and you have to know your Mighty Willy.
Important, too, is the O.K. Phrase. The O.K. Phrase (a development of Potter's O.K. Word Concept) I define as the stringing together of words that sound like practical advice and are not. A particular favourite is 'Steady, Two.' So vague, so magisterial, so uninformative, such beautiful Belfrymanship. 'Watch the leading' is a good gambit for use when there is a jumble in 5-6. For something more erudite but not as effective, 'Bells in the coursing order ' sounds good and can easily be justified at any subsequent inquest. Or 'Lead-end coming up.', 'Lead-end just gone,' 'Half-lead coming up,' 'Quarter-lead coming up., It depends on the company how far you can carry this. The less expert they are the more fatuous it sounds and vice versa. Furthermore, in the stress of the moment the O.K. Phrase can be complete gibberish. One protagonist of the art used, when the ringing went awry, to mouth the following O.K. Phrase, 'Hives half to hawthorn finds the trick,' either as a whole or a few words at a time. Since he had some idea of the Course-ends and could call Stand when he had had enough, this particular gentleman acquired a considerable reputation as a conductor in the district.

I have said nothing so far about Handbells. Yet they are, as it were, Belfrymanship all the time. There are only half the people to dominate and you have twice as many irons in the fire. Little need, or can, be said. The gestures suffice. It is possible to wave Handbells with authority and yet have extraordinarily little idea what is going on. This is partly mesmerism. You can wave at Tower Bells and produce no result. In hand the effect is magical. Remember the axiom, the Waver is Never Wrong. Or, for those who prefer versification:-

\begin{aligned}
& \text { There rings a man, a wonder man. } \\
& \text { With Handbells, a life-saver. } \\
& \text { The Band takes fright, but He keeps right. } \\
& \text { There's surely no one braver. } \\
& \text { He battles through, without a clue. } \\
& \text { A clash close-clipping shaver. } \\
& \text { He'll never be a waverer, } \\
& \text { As long as he's a Waver. }
\end{aligned}

I enjoy conducting Handbells. The touch seldom comes round
An obnoxious example of the Handbelfryman is Mr. Tinklejohn. Parker's Twelve-Part Peal of Grandsire Triples is a favourite of his. But on one dreadful occasion he miscalled it, Bob for Single in the 3rd Part. Like a skeleton at the feast 12345678 made an unwelcome appearance at the Part-end. Ashamed? Indeed no. With a disgusted look at the luckless rabbit ringing 5-6, 1 suppose it takes all sorts to make the bells come round, he observed with grim equivocation, and cancelled the supper for four.

What of those who are innocent of all this? You, who are more tripped against than tripping, take heart from a little CounterBelfrymanship.

Young Joe was assistant steeplekeeper at a twelve-bell tower, where the bells were good going but difficult to hear round the front end. Many times had he suffered from visiting Belfrymen. One day a particularly obnoxious crowd was to visit the tower. Joe left the clapperbar on the 2nd after the weekly learners' practice.

The visit followed its customary routine. Old Belfrymen commented that the back eight were fine, but the front four did not blend. Young Belfrymen self-importantly avowed that it needed a keen ear to pick out the light bells. Old Ebenezer, who was three parts deaf and, when in doubt, always shouted, 'Keep the 2nd off at back," was in goad form. Joe enjoyed every minute of the visit: he even took a turn on the 2 nd himself. Afterwards, over tea, he told them.

They hounded him out. of course. He was advised to give up ringing and concentrate on the choir. But the fund for recasting the bells was over-subscribed within a month.

The octogenarians will make a second attempt for a peal of Bob Major on April 26th at St. John's, Deptford. The band will not be quite the same as at last October, but up to the present it is as follows: Frank Bennett (cond.), Harry Stalham, Isaac Emery, John Wheadon, R. Stannard, W. H. B. Wilkins, W. J. Nudds and G. H. Daynes.

Lincolnshire County Police have a peal-ringing company. They registered their first peal at Harlaxton on March 21st.

Mr . Alfred Ballard, the well-known member of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, rang his 600th peal on April 4th.

Congratulations to L. J. Honess, of Hadlow, Kent, on scoring his 200th peal at Hadlow on April 6th. By ringing the treble, he also "completed the circle ' in this tower.

Mr. A. York-Bramble has had published his work on acronautics. 'Air-plane Flight ' (Pitman's, 35s.). Lord Brabazon has written a foreword.
'Ringing Towers'-the N.S.W. monthly has quite a substantial editorial staff. They are: Editor, Mr. W. M. Rowe; sub-editor, Mr. T. W. Goodyer; treasurer, Mr. J. J. Cummins; stenographer, Miss Ruth E. Donnelly; artist, Mr. C. N. Ward; reporters, Messrs. G. Burden, J. Campigli, J. Clark, R. Ferris, E. Fowell', I. E. Arkell and G. Logan.

The quarter peal of Stedman Triples rung at St. Michael's, Basingstoke, on March 31st, was a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Woodley on their golden wedding day. Mr. Woodley was married at the Parish Church, Witney, Oxon, on March 31st, 1902, by the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn. As a boy the Rev. Jenkyn was taught to ring by Mr. Woodley's father, and he eventually became Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

BELFRY GOSSIP

York Minster Society of Change Ringers has its first woman member in the 98 years of the Society's history. She is Miss Paddy Reeves, a school teacher at Sherburn-inElmet, who started ringing two years ago when she was at Chichester. 'I found the Minster bells rather heavy at first,' she said, 'but I am used to them now.'

The ringers of Leigh, Kent, recently organised a jumble sale to buy new ropes and raised $£ 52$.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Shelford Sparrow, of Stowmarket, on March 30th, aged 64. He had been associated with the Stowmarket tower for over 40 years.
The New South Wales Association has now been in being six years. During that time 31 ringers have rung peals for the Association and 77 quarter peals.

The Society of Roving Ringers spent Easter in Somerset with headquarters at Wrington. A peal of Stedman Caters was rung at Wells Cathedral on Easter Monday.

Mr. G. Ditton, hon. secretary and treasurer of the Hertford College Youths Society of Change Ringers, has forwarded us an interesting cutting dealing with the life of Mr. J. R. Haworth.

Mr. G. F. Woodhouse has rung Spliced Major in seven methods on his ringing machine. They are Whittlesey, Richmond, St. Clement's, Windsor, Bob Major, Halifax and Double Sandringham

We understand that the Archbishop of Canterbury has refused to approve of the new ringers' form of service prepared by the Guildford Diocesan Guild and the Norwich Diocesan Association for use in the Canterbury Diocese. This is a disappointment to the Kent County Association, whose committee was prepared to adopt the service for Association services.

THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

FIRST AIM REGULAR SERVICE RINGING - 126 NEW MEMBERS ; 162 LOST - RECORD YEAR FOR PEALS - ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION TO BE INCREASED TO 3/-

B
EAUTIFUL weather favoured the Kent County Association for their annual meeting at Ashford on Easter Monday. A company of 175 sat down to luncheon at the Ashford High School for Girls, and this followed the Association's service held in the Parish Church. which was conducted by the Vicar (Canon H. Duncan S. Bowen).

Mr. John Willis (vice-president) was voted to the chair for the annual meeting, and he was supported by Mr. G. H. Spice (hon. secretary), Mr . F. M. Mitchell (hon. treasurer), Mr. P. A.
Corby (hon. peal secretary) and Mr. George H . Cross (hon. auditor)

Apologies for absence were received from Mr. E. A. G. Allen (Rochester), Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mr. E. J. Lack.

The Hon. Secretary, in his report, said the principal aims of the Association as defined in the very first rule of its constitution were encouragement of Sunday ringing, the cultivation of the art of change ringing and what was termed 'belfry reform.' The last aim would doubtlessly appear somewhat mysterious to the májority of present members, and was indeed one which had long since been achieved. Today the sacredness of the ringing chamber and the duties performed there by the ringers was generally acknowledged. But this was not always so, and when in the last century the territorial guilds and associations were founded, it was from an instinctive realisation that only a reform movement within the Exercise could succeed in identifying the recreational life of the belfry with the divine purpose of heralding the praises of God.

What then of the first and all important aim, the maintenance of regular service ringing in all our towers? This is assuredly our hardest battle and one which can never be won outright; it requires all of us to be ever vigilant and prepared. So far this battle has not been lost, though only by the influence of our Association has the dangers of such a calamity been safely averted; not through any particular attribute of the organisation itself, but through the opportunity for real belfry fellowship which it has given, and the mutual inspiration and guidance of one another. As individuals this crusade requires sustained personal loyalty to tower and association, but more than that, the passing on of the love of our art to others-to a younger generation who will follow on.

- This teaching mission of all ringers goes far beyond the actual instruction process itself which may be restricted to one or two members of a tower. The instructors themselves must, of course, recognise the fundamental importance of their skill, but every ringer has a part to play in introducing new recruits, and when they are there in helping to ensure that the best traditions of the belfry are manifest to a high degree.'

This challenge came to all of them. For while the love of bells was still deeply ingrained in their national character, while recruits were still procurable to judge by the broad flow of new blood in recent years, while the Association was the instrument ringers had themselves forged to make their task practicable; everything really depended on the work and example of individual ringers. It was in this spirit that he trusted all of them would now approach the immediate affairs of the Association and journey with faith and hope into the new Elizabethan age.

MEMBERSHIP

At the end of 1951 the total practising membership was 1,013 , being 949 adults and 64 juveniles. Non-resident life members elected during the year totalled 23 and subscriptions were received from 86 honorary members. New practising members had joined from all districts as follows: Ashford, 17 adults, 3 juveniles; Canterbury, 18, 4 ; Lewisham, 29, 3 : Maidstone, 16, 5; Rochester, 8, 10; Tonbridge, 10, 3 . Although they had gained 126 new members, they had lost 162, which was rather disquietening.
The meeting stood as the following losses by death in 1951 were remembered: Messrs. W. F. Symes (Stowting), W. Fright (Hythe), C. Turner (Dover), C. H. Walker (Lewisham), H. Warnett, sen. (Lewisham), A. E. Gasson (Maidstone), C. F. Good (Charing), A. Lambert (Aylesford), C. H. Stone (Linton), Collshaw (Frindsbury), (Bobbing), R. Belson (Bobbing), and Mrs. C. Belsey (hon. member, Rainham). Non-resident life members: Messrs. J. George, O. Sippetts, C. Dean, E. J. Walsom, A. H. Palmer, R. Congreve Pridgeon, M. Hibbert, H. G. Miles and T. Groombridge (an officer of the Association for over 50 years).
The report also referred to the departure of Mr. E. H. Lewis to Scotland and placed on record the high esteem with which he was held during his 22 years with the Association.

COMMITTEE MATTERS

The report on committee work recorded a grant of $£ 5$ for two new bells for St. Margaret's, Horsmonden. Concerning Mr. Bottrill's suggestion, the committee felt that the time was inopportune for making further financial demands upon members in the matter of providing a fund from which to make grants towards the maintenance of bells and towers throughout the county.

With a view to cutting down expenses, the committee had decided in regard to the attendance of Central Council representatives at provincial meetings that the maximum allowance for hotel accommodation shall in future be 25 s . instead of 50 s . for each representative attending.
Newington (Hythe) had rejoined the Association. Lympne had now a ring of six. Eastwell bells had been removed from the tower and sold. Canterbury Cathedral tenor had been recast and all 12 bells rehung on ball bearings. Deal bells had been rehung and the front four at Quex Park recast and the bells rehung. The Helmore memorial clock had now been officially installed in the ringing chamber of Canterbury Cathedral. A new ring of eight had been provided at Bromley to replace that damaged by the war. Messrs. C. E. Palmer and G. F. Green, almost unaided, raised the necessary funds for restoring the bells of St. John's, Sidcup. West Malling bells had been rehung on ball bearings. The Maidstone District's publication. 'The Belfry,' was still very much alive with Mr. Reginald L. Sills as editor.

Mr. Knight moved and Mr. I. Emery seconded the adoption of the report, which was carried.

FINANCES REVIEWED

The hon. treasurer reported thatothe year started with a balance in hand of $£ 9519 \mathrm{~s}$. 5 d . The total amount received by practising members' subscriptions was $£ 9711 \mathrm{~s}$. , a reduction of $£ 416 \mathrm{~s}$. There were 82 hon. members against 68 last year with an increased revenue of $£ 5$. The total revenue was $£ 357$ 19s. 7 d ., of which the sale of badges realised $£ 637 \mathrm{~s}$. 1 d .
The principal items of expenditure were: Purchase of Association badges, $£ 528 \mathrm{~s} .10 \mathrm{~d}$.; printing reports, etc., $£ 742 \mathrm{~s}$. 1 d.; and dinner, be congratulated on the economical running of their districts during the year as the total cost of these, together with the committee meetings, only amounted to $£ 1215 \mathrm{~s}$. 1d. With the extra cost of postal rates this item became heavy and it amounted to $\mathrm{f} 11 \mathrm{17s}$. 11d. The total expenditure was $£ 24918 \mathrm{~s}$. 1d. and there was a balance in hand of $£ 108$ 1s. 8 d ., an increase over last year of $£ 122 \mathrm{~s}$. 3d. The continued increase in the production of the annual reports was a matter of concern to the committee. They decided that each tower should be provided with a copy, and the sale of copies to members only realised $£ 616 \mathrm{~s}$. in $1950-51$. It was obvious that additional revenue must be forthcoming to meet the additional cost

The experiment of providing an association badge had been well supported, as 450 were sold. The first order was sold out and a further supply obtained.

BELFRY FUNDS

Mr. Mitchell reported that the Belfry Repair Fund started the year with a balance in hand of $£ 2377 \mathrm{~s} .4 \mathrm{~d}$. Income for the year amounted to $£ 1616 \mathrm{~s}$. 5 d . On the expenditure side $£ 3515 \mathrm{~s}$. had been paid out in grants as authorised by the committee as follows: Sidcup, £10: Deal. $£ 10$; Barming, $£ 10$ 10s.; West Malling, $£ 55 \mathrm{~s}$. This showed an increase of expenditure over income of $£ 1818 \mathrm{~s}$. 7d. and a balance at the end of the year of $£ 2188 \mathrm{~s}$. 9 d .
Mr. Mitchell stated that the $23 £ 1$ rubber shares which were handed over to the Association by Mr. R. Edwards, of Tenterden. to form a fund towards the upkeep of the bellropes at Tenterden Church were sold during the year and realised $£ 33 \mathrm{17s}$. 6d. This had been invested in $3 \frac{1}{2} \%$ War Loan and produced 27s. p.a.
Only one application had been reccived for a grant during the year, reported Mr. Mitchell in presenting the Benevolent Fund account. and the sum of $£ 10$ had been voted. The fund had a balance in hand of $£ 393$ 19s. 3d.

The total worth of the Association at the end of the year was $£ 1,19917 \mathrm{~s}$., an increase of $£ 124 \mathrm{~s} .10 \mathrm{~d}$.
The accounts were adopted, on the proposition of Mr. G. Cross, seconded by Mr. E. Barnett.

RECORD PEAL YEAR
Mr. P. A. Corby, as peal secretary, reported that 1951 was an all-time record for the Association with 183 peals. These included the first for the Association of Little Oxford Bob Major and Uxbridge Surprise Major on tower bells. and St. Clement's College Bob Major and Crayford College Bob Major on handbells.
There were again 50 , conductors. including five 'first as conductor.' Mr. G. A. Naylor, who with his friends had been largely responsible for the increased number of peals, headed the list with 20 . Messrs. P. A. Corby, F. J. Cullum and M. S. Lancefield also attained double figures with 16,14 and 13 respectively.

Of 220 towers with five or more bells, peals were rung in 91 . There were 29 first peals, an increase of nine. Many peals were rung in honour of the Festival of Britain. Mr. George H. Daynes, grandson of Thomas Daynes who called the Association's first peal in 1881, had called Holt's Original in his 81 st year, being the oldest member to have done so. Congratulations were also extended to Mr. Desmond P. Ladd and his band on a peal at Great Mongeham. which was the first by all. An honoured member, Mr. H. E. Audsley, had to his credit the remarkable feat of over 100 peals at the churches of three adjoining parishes-Crayford, Erith and Dartford. A peal was rung at Northfleet to mark the 1,200 th anniversary of the church.
The following peals were rung in the county for other associations: Ancient Society of College Youths 3, Society of Royal Cumberland Youths 2, East Grinstead and District Guild 2.
Members should note that all figures in the report were subject to correction of discrepancies when the Central Council's figures for the year were published. Rule 18, with certain exceptions, was fairly well observed. (Continued on next page)

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Mr. Knight asked if all the peals were recognised by the Central Council, and Mr. Corby said he understood that they all complied with the Central Council's regulations.

The report was adopted, on the proposition of Mr. May, seconded by Mr. Knight.

The officers of the Association were re-elected, Mr. J. Russell being added to the committee. A special vote of thanks was accorded Mr. F. A. Mitchell, who mentioned that it was his 24th year as hon. secretary. Proposing the reelection of Mr. G. H. Spice, the Chairman expressed the hope that 1952 would bring him much better health and greater happiness.

SUBSCRIPTION RAISED
Mr. P. A. Corby proposed that the annual subscription of the Association be increased from 2s. to 3 s . The cost of living was now very much greater than it was in 1892, when the subscription was fixed at 2 s .

Mr. Knight seconded.
Mr. J. A. Russell opposed the motion because he felt that there were other ways of augmenting the income. He took exception to those members who attended the Council meeting getting their lunch at a reduced cost. He moved as an amendment that the annual subscription remain at 2 s ., that the annual report be available to towers at a nominal fee of 1 s . 6 d. ., and that each district contribute at least the collection of two district meetings to the general funds of the Association.

Mr . Keeble seconded the amendment.
The Chairman remarked that each copy of the report cost 4 s . 10 d . to print.
Mr . G. Cross said a 2 s . 6d. subscription would bring in approximately $£ 25$ and that would meet their requirements.
Mr . May advocated the introduction of a peal booking fee.

Dr. Hatcher deplored running the Association in a piecemeal fashion and urged the provision of adequate resources to carry on the work of the Association. The reserves of the Association had been built up during two periodsimmediately after the first world war and during the second world war. It was fundamentally wrong to carry on by 'cutting here and there.' The amendment found only six supporters and was heavily defeated.

The original proposition to increase the annual subscription was carried by 80 votes to 22 . The Chairman said that it would not come into operation until 1953.
A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. P. A. Corby to Canon Bowen, to Mr. T. Cullingworth and Mr. Everett for making the local arrangements, and to the headmistress of Ashford High School for permitting the luncheon to be held at the school. Mr. Corby also proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman.
Mr . George Cross made an appeal to those Cumberlands present to help with the additional sum required for work on the bells of St. Leonard's, Shoreditch. The Society had promised to raise $£ 710 \mathrm{~s}$.

Ringing took place in various towers in the neighbourhood after the meeting.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

Excellent arrangements had been made by the local band for the first quarterly meeting of the S.W. Division, held at South Benfleet on April 5th. Over 60 members and friends were present to give the new Master, Mr. J. Crampion, a good send-off.
A delightful old church with an atmosphere all its own was a fitting setting for the Association's form of service, conducted by the Vicar.
A most encouraging feature of the business meeting which followed tea was the election of 21 new ringing members.
An excellent but cheap tea, admirably served, with the appetites of the ' teenagers ' more than satisfied, and a profit passed on to the Bell Restoration Fund, is a good advertisement for the organisation of the local band. Thank you, South Benfleet.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR  THE STRASBOURG CLOCK

$\mathrm{Sir},-\mathrm{Mr}$. Morris' notes on the famous clock of Strasbourg Cathedral ('Ringing World,' Mar. 28th, 1952) are interesting, but from what I recall of a visit to it in October of last year they seem somewhat incomplete and inaccurate.

The clock stands in the south transept of the Cathedral and is in the original case of 1547 , the present mechanism, dating from 1838-1842, being constructed by Schwilgue, a Strasbourg citizen. The lowest tier comprises the celestia globe giving the daily movement of the stars and incorporating a perpetual calendar, being flanked on the right by a mechanism showing mean time and the moon's changes, and on the left by one giving the ecclesiastical chronology.

The next tier shows, over the perpetual calendar, symbolic figures of the days of the week which change, of course, daily, and over this again is the clock dial flanked by two small figures, the one on the left striking the first blow of each of the quarters whilst the other holds a sand glass which it turns each hour The next tier contains a planetarium and over this is a sphere showing the moon's phases In the superstructure, the lower gallery contains a skeleton (Death) holding two bells, and on the highest gallery is the figure of Christ, being flanked on the left-hand turret by the figure of a cockerel.
The performance is as follows: At the first quarter, the figure beside the clock dial strikes the first blow and the figure of a child passes before Death striking the second blow with a staff on one of the bells held by the skeleton. At the half-hour two blows are struck, the figure of a hunter taking the place of the child and striking the bell with an arrow. The third quarfer is struck in the same way by the warrior with his sword, and at the full hour the old man appears and completes the chimes with his crutch. The sand glass is then turned by the figure on the other side of the clock dial and Death strikes the hour with a bone on the second of the two bells held. Only the hour is struck during the night.
It is, however, at noon that this wonderful clock really 'goes to town, and an appreciative crowd always seems to collect in the transept to watch the quaint but impressive little pageant. After the fourth quarter has struck in the manner described above and Death begins the hour, the figure of Christ in the highest gallery steps forward and, as the Twelve Apostles pass before him, places his hand in benediction on the head of each of them whilst the cockerel on the left hand turret stretches its neck and tail, flaps its wings and crows thrice in the most realistic manner. The Apostles having passed, the figure of Christ steps forward and blesses the assembled company, which being done, the figure steps back to its place. The whole performance at noon occupies three minutes, and the writer admits to being so entranced and spellbound that he found it difficult to tear himself away from the clock. even to the delights of an excellent lunch and several (how many does not matter) glasses of that poent in the distiller's art, 'Kirsch d'Alsace.' Incidentally, the clock, at noon, goes through its little pantomime against a background of the Bourdon bell of the Cathedral tolling the Angelus in its deep, resonant voice from the tower.-Sincerely,
W. E. BOX.

SWEPSTONE, LEICESTERSHIRE

On Monday, April 7th, before a large assembly of parishioners and ringers, the Rt. Rev. H. A. Maxwell, M.A., Vicar of Copt Oak and Assistant Bishop of Leicester, dedicated two new treble bells and two commemorative tablets at Swepstone, Leics.

The two new bells are both memorial bells; one as a war memorial in memory of the fallen in two world wars, and the other in memory of the late Ernest Deacon, of Swepstone.

The church was filled to capacity for the service, which was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. Malcolm), the dedication being performed by the Bishop, who gave an inspiring address.

The opening rounds were rung by the local ringers.

During the evening the ringers made good use of the bells, all being anxious to try out this excellent six. Ringing ranged from rounds to a touch of Spliced Surprise Minor in six methods.

Afterwards about sixty ringers, representing about twenty towers, enjoyed an excellent supper, which was provided for them by the Swepstone parishioners and ringers in the Church Hall
During the supper Mr. Tyson, captain of the local ringers, presented an attache case to Mr. Ridgway, of Measham, who is teaching the local band.
The inscriptions on the bells are as follows :-Treble.-God save our country. 1952. 19141918, W. Bentley, A. G. Compton, R. Hughes, T. H. Hughes, J. H. Pepper. 1939-1945, E. W Everett, J. T. Lees, T. R. Pepper, S. H. Shilcock, T. Taylor. Taylor, Loughborough.

2nd.-John Taylor and Co., Founders, Loughborough. In memory of Ernest Deacon, died 1952. Peace be with you. Donavit B.M.D. 1952.

3rd.-God Save The King. 1664. Taylor, Loughborough. Recast in 1952.
4th.-God Save His Church. 1711.
5th.-IHS Nazarene Rex Iudeorum Fili dei Miserere. J. D. Warden. 1696.
Tenor-CUM CUM PRAIE. 1634.
The third, fourth and fifth bells appear to have been cast by Oldfield, of Nottingham, whilst the tenor bears the founder's marks of Hugh Watts, of Leicester.
The new frame contains two spaces so that the octave can be completed.-J.A. U.

A PREVIOUS COMPOSITION

Dear Sir,-I write to inform you that the composition 5,088 Yorkshire Surprise Major by Patrick G. Chapman published in a recent 'Ringing World' was composed by Mr. Robert T. Lambert some years ago. Mr. Stafford H. Green first called it at Cranbrook, Kent, to Superlative on January 8th, 1927, and the figures appear in the K.C.A. Report, 1928.

Mr. Lambert's peal commences with the last three courses and the rest of the calling is the same.-Yours faithfully,

BELLS IN ENGLISH LIFE

MANY are the legends that have-through the ages-gathered around the bells : some tell of the bells' miraculous powers of punishing evildoers, and others of their efficiency in driving away evil spirits or dispelling thunder and lightning. Yet other stories relate to spontaneous ringing in times of dire disaster or great rejoicings, and many legends are connected with the waters. It is from this class that the examples given below are drawn.

BOSHAM'S BELL-HOLE

Long years ago, when the Northmen burnt and pillaged along the English coast, a party of Danish sca rovers came up Bosham creek, plundered its inhabitants, sacked the church and carried away the silver-toned bells. Slowly they rowed the holy burden down the ebbing tide, when the heavens grew black with clouds, and an awful pall shrouded the waters of the creek. When it rolled away the guilty pirates lay fathoms deep in the great pool known to this day as 'Bell-hole.' Tradition says that on great festivals the silver-toned bells are still heard chiming in with their sister-bells on land!

WHITBY'S OCEAN CHIME

Whitby Abbey was suppressed in the year 1539 and shortly afterwards dismantled. The bells were sold and were to be conveyed by ship to London. They were duly placed on board and, amid the lamentations of the people, the sails were unfurled and the anchor weighed. But lo! the vessel refused to bear away its sacred burden. A short distance it moved out into the bay, and then sank quietly beneath the waves, and there under the waters, at a spot within sight of the Abbey ruins, the bells still remain and are heard occasionally to ring by invisibfe hands! The legend has been poctically described by Mr. Phillips :-

Up from the heart of the ocean
The mellow music peals,
Where the sunlight makes its golden path, And the seamew flits and wheels.
For many a chequered century, Untired by flying time,
The bells no human fingers touch
Have run their hidden chime.
BELLS UPON THE WIND
Many years ago the twelve parish churches of Jersey each possessed a beautiful and valuable ring of bells, but during the Civil War the States decided on selling these bells to defray the heavy expenses of the army. Accordingly the bells were collected and sent to France for that purpose, but on the passage the ship foundered and everything was lost, to show the wrath of Heaven at such a sacrilege. Since that time, however, before a storm, these bells ring up from the deep, and to this day fishermen at St. Ouen's Bay always go to the edge of the water, before starting out, to listen if they can hear 'the bells upon the wind.' If those warning notes are heard, nothing will induce them to leave the shore; if all is silent, they set sail fearlessly:-

Tis an omen of death to the mariner, Who warily fights the sea,
For the foaming surge is his winding sheet,
And his funeral knell are we;
His funeral knell our passing bell,
And his winding sheet the sea. CHURCH BELLS BENEATH THE WAVES

After Port Royal-in the West Indies-was submerged at the close of the seventeenth century, sailors in those parts for many years would tell wonderful stories of anchoring amidst the chimneys and steeples of the city beneath the sea: and they would declare that at times the sound of the church bells could be plainly heard, as they were agitated by the waves.

LOST BELLS OF PRESTON

A memorandum found among some old documents relating to Preston (All Saints') Church states that: 'In 4th Eliz. the bells were taken out of this church and exported, that the ship wherein the bells were, when she was clear of the Humbre, and launched into the sea, she yet within sight, was seen to sink down into the sea, like that of Arthur Bulkley, 38th Bishop of Bangor, who for the like sacrilege was struck blind.

THE INCHAPE ROCK

An ancient writer mentions a curious legend which runs as follows: ' By east the Isle of May, twelve miles from all land in the German Seas, lyes a great hidden rock, called Inchcape, very dangerous for navigators, because it is overflowed everie tide. It is reported in old times, upon the saide rock there was a bell, fixed upon a tree or timber, which rang continually, being moved by the sea, giving notice to the saylers of the danger. This bell or cloche was put there and maintained by the Abbot of Abberbrothok, and being taken down by a sea pirate, a yeare thereafter he perished upon the same rocke, with ship and goodes, in the righteous judgment of God.'
As is well known, this legend was immortalised by Robert Southey, in a poem wherein he says:-
The Abbot of Abberbrothok
Had placed the bell on the Inchcape Rock,
On a buoy in the storm it floated and swung, And over the waves its warning rung.
When the Rock was hid by the surges. swell
The mariners heard the warning bell:
And then they knew the perilous Rock,
And blest the Abbot of Abberbrothok.
Then he goes on to say Ralph the Rover sought to plague the good Abbot, and cut the bell from the Rock. He then scoured the sea for many a day and, grown rich by plunder, steered his course for Scotland again. A gale came on, and on this very rock his ship was wrecked and all lost.

But even in his dying fear
One dreadful sound could the rover hear,
A sound as on the Inchcape Bell,
The Devil below was ringing his knell.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

The spring meeting of the Penzance Branch of the Truro Diocesan Guild was held at Crowan on March 29th. About fifty ringers attended, including Miss Eileen Symons (president), the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella (general secretary) and Mr. W. Wood (vice-president)
The Vicar (the Rev. H. J. Skewes) conducted the service, the lesson being read by Mr. J. Carah Roberts, who gave one of the new trebles when the bells were augmented to eight in 1939. The address was given by the Rev. A. S. Roberts (branch secretary).

An excellent tea. including hot Cornish pasties, was served, this being provided through the energies of the local captain. Mr. A. E. James, and the churchwardens, Messrs. R. E. Bourdeaux and W. P. Trewhella.
At the business meeting Madron was chosen for the autumn festival on the invitation of Mr. Arnold White. Mr. R. G. Clemens (Truro branch secretary) raised the question of the insurance of ringers, and the Rev. A. S. Roberts explained the policy provided by the Ecclesiastical Insurance Office. Ltd., and which should be brought to the notice of all church councils. To him it had been the natural thing to insure his ringers from the first. The usual votes of thanks were passed, and the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella heartily congratulated the local band on the splendid and perfect touch of call changes which they rang before the service.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH GUILD

Winchester District

On April 5th, memreers and friends met together in rather wet weather for the first quarterly meeting of the Winchester District at the small village of Owslebury, just outside Winchester.

Unfortunately, there is no local band at Owslebury and no local inhabitant to take care of the bells, which are consequently rather hard going through lack of grease in the bearings. In spite of this, however, the bells were put to good use, whilst in a nearby school playground villagers speculated as to whether the bells were ringing to call people to the polling station to vote for their County Council representative.
In the absence of the Vicar, who was unable to be present due to a broken leg, the Rev. H. P. Kingdon, of King Alfred College, Winchester, officiated at the service. During the sermon the preacher stressed the importance of ringers turning up on time and regularly.

After tea in the Village Hall a short business meeting was held, at which the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth took the chair, supported by the secretaries and treasurer.

Mrs. M. E. Street, of Kingsworthy, was elected a ringing member and she is believed to be the first lady ringer of Kingsworthy. Three honorary members were also elected.

It was also decided that the May practice meeting should be held at Micheldever and the June meeting at Nether Wallop together with Broughton and Over Wallop. The second quarterly meeting was brought forward to May 31st to avoid a clash with the Diocesan Sunday School Festival.

The chairman read a letter he had received from the Very Rev. E. G. Selwyn, Dean of Winchester Cathedral, who, in a reply to the district's request that the Cathedral bells should be available for longer times at meetings, stated that in his opinion a two hour period was sufficient for all those who were competent to handle a ring of the Cathedral's size and that it might be better to make the ringing $c^{c}$ the Cathedral bells a definite privilege ior the more proficient ringers.

The meeting agreed to donate one guinea from its funds to 'The Ringing World 'finances.

The first 15 courses twice repeated, calling the first course of the first repeat, $4,5,6,15$, 16 . and of the second, $2,3,5,6,10,14$, gives 214365879.
$A=1 S, 2,4,5,6,10,11,12,13,14$.
This peal contains all the $5-6$ 's and $6-5$ 's in the Tittum position and all the $6-5$ 's in the handstroke-home position.

JAMES ROBERT HAWORTH

HIS POSITION AS 'THE KING OF SCROOFS

Among the other societies of which J. R. Haworth was a well-known member was the "Waterloo Society. formed in 1868. and which he joined in 1872, and when the Central Council was formed 18 years later. he represented the College Youths' as one of the founder members with other leading ringers of the time.

Haworth died in his 90th year in 1910, and during his long life became more and more proud of the distinction accruing trom his having rung at the Abbey for the Coronation of Queen Victoria. upon her two jubatees and upon every successive birthday. Upon hearing of this, Her Majesty caused her autographed photograph to be sent to him, and this he framed and presented to the "College Youths.' For many years it was a familiar ornament on one of the walls at the 'Coffee Pot.' Warwick Lane until destroyed by the enenyy in December, 1940 . He similarly rang for King Edward VII., and had hoped to ring for King George V. and almost achieved it. Indeed the King wrote expressing his regret that he bad failed to do so.
Ringers at the Abbey are King's servants, so its Scroof stands first, as Haworth knew. He was also appointed to the Cathedral Scroof at St. Paul's, St. Lawrence Jewry for the City Corporation and St. Clement Danes, Strand. an important church by the Law Courts. And he probably had others of a more tenuous nature.
It has been already stated that after his middle fifties he was wont to get about the country to be present at first peals and other events in ringing. One such was going across to Eire with the 'College Youths' to open the bells of the Cathedral at Waterford, in 1872. The band claimed they had rung the first true peal in the Isle. Another was the 'Opening' and the first peal at St. Paul's Cathedral, London. And here the 'Old Stalwarts' made their last full musters on All Saints' Day, 1878, and in December, 1881
The mural tablets at St. Paul's Cathedral. London, detait as follows, but the dates of the masterships ' have been added.
The ring of twelve bells was cast by Taylors in 1878 and was opened on All Saints' Day by the then leading band of the 'College Youths.' who rang three courses of Stedman Cinques. It was justly looked upon by the London Exercise as a great event. especially as the Dean. upon the advice of Sir John Stainer, who was the Cathedral organist, at once appointed a Scroof sclected from the cream of the 'College Youths.' And, of course, Haworth, as 'King of Scroofs." was one of them. But at the head was James Pettit, another wonderful man of the period group-for he seemed to radiate a kingly presence. The names of the ringers. which it is a joy to scan, are as follows:-
(1873) H. W. Haley, sen.. treble: H. W. Haley, jun. 2nd: (18757) W. Cooter 3rd. (1868) J. Pettit 4th; (1866) G. Mash 5th; (1851) H. Haworth 6th ; (1877) G. Dorrington' 7th : (1850) J. Dwight 8th; (1869) E. Horrex 9th ; (1864) G. Muskett 10th: ( 185 の M. A. Wood, G. Ferris IIth; (1876) J. M. Hayes, W. Jones tenor. The year of Mastership is shown in brackets.
All of the above, save two (Haley, jun.. and 'Soldier ' W. Jones) are of the 'Old Stalwarts." who came in mostly during the 1830's and 1840's. And, with few exceptions their names reappear three years later when, in December, 1881, he first peal on the bells was rung. one of Stedman Cinques composed by H. W. Haley and conducted by J. Pettit. The exceptions were that Ferris, who died in 1881. and the two Haleys and Dwight dropped out, and then there came in W. Tanner (another 'Old Stalwart') on the 8 th, and W. A. Tyler, who 'strapt' the tenor for Jones, who rang over him. Undoubtedly a fine band. But time was beginning to tell-Haley died in 1886, Dwight in 1892, and, as Trollope remarks, most of that wonderful band of stalwarts had passed with the nineteenth century. A few survived as very old men into the next-Haworth until the end of 1910 and within two years his juniors, Cooter, Matt Wood and Pettit, had all followed him.

It is difficult to say, for the time being, the date of Haworth's last peal, but he rang occasionally nearly to the end. However, the following items may be of interest: Haworth was to his circle of friends always "Bob.' He was probably so known by his own family but when the occasion demanded he could be James R. Haworth. And when, in the early 1880's, a 'James Pcal' was mooted, he immediately was one of it
It was rung on St. James' Day at St. James', Clerkenwell, by members of the St. James' Society-whose names were James. The writer remembers the names of J. Monday, J. Dwight and James Haworth, and that a small photograph of the latter was inserted beside his name on the page in the Society's peal book.
In 1883 an interesting centenary came, viz., the winning of the Master's silver cun in a match at Sonning. To commemorate the victory, a band of 'College Youths.' including Haworth (who was, as things turned out, probably the initiator). went down to Sonning and there rang Holt's Original. Haworth now with his usual diffidence suggests he be allowed to give a suitable companion cup: upon the gift being warmly accepted, J. E. Dawe, Master in 1888, gave the mahogany folding stand for both cups, as we sec them before the Master's chair to-day. $\dagger$

The year 1889, jubilee of Haworth's becoming a member of the 'College Youths' and his continued valuable services, was marked by a rare event, viz., the presentation of an illuminated address from the Society. A few years later he presented it back. duly framed, also his original certificate recerved when he joined the Society. Like Queen Victoria's photograph. they also perished in the destruction of the headquarters in 1940.

The writer concludes with two items, the one humorous, the other sad.

An old 'College Youth' was heard to say that. when. as a steward. he was collecting the pence paid by members attending the meeting, he would tactfully ignore Haworth and pay the pence in out of his own pocket-knowing him to be not too well off. He was, however. quietly reminded one evening by Haworth. that he wished to pay his pence, like the others
Finally. the writer remembers one Sunday evening, when the Scroof were gradually assembling to render their fortnightly ringing for Service, that Haworth drew him aside, saying: - You often seem to mention Tom Tolladay; come with me and I will show you where he lies. With some feeling of reverence. we walked quietly round from the west door of St. Clement Danes to the north one-there he paused and. pointing down before the west jamb. said: - Here I saw poor Tolladay lowered into his grave."

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

Annual Nomination Meeting

The Society's March meeting was held at Armley on March 29th. Ringing commenced at the appointed time and continued until the break for tea. The business meeting was held in the Parochial Hall following tea. The president was engaged on running repairs so his duties as chairman were taken over by Mr. T. W. Strangeway (vice-president) One new member was enrolled (Mr. B. Vincent, of Pudsey).
The vote of thanks to the priest-in-charge and the local company was proposed by Mr. H. R. Parkinson and seconded by Mr. J. Gibson. Mr. Lofthouse acknowledged the thanks and hoped all had enjoyed their visit. The Rev. R. E. Gleed, M.A. (priest-in-charge), arrived later and was introduced by Mr. H. Lofthouse. Mr . Gleed welcomed the visitors and said this was his first ringing meeting. He was sorry that his arrival was delayed, but he just had to go and see the Boat Race, as no doubt a number of ringers had been doing and also listening in to the various sporting items broadcast on this day.
The next meeting is due to be held at Leeds Parish Church on April 26th. This meeting always clashes with a special evensong at 4.30 p.m., and ringing has to stop for a short time. After discussion, Mr. L. Boumphrey proposed and Mr. A. Marsh seconded that the annual meeting be held on the usual Saturday.

The following nominations for next year's officers were received: President, Messrs. J. W. Benten and I. Slack; vice-presidents, Messrs. L. Drake. T. W. Strangeway, L. Barron, J. Gibson and Miss M. Rhodes ; hon. vice-president, Mr. F. Hutchinson; Ringing Master, Messrs. W. Dixon and A. Marsh ; secretary and treasurer, Mr. H. Lofthouse ; auditors (1951-52 accounts), Miss M. Rhodes and Mr. J. Gibson
The final item, 'Any other business.' brought the proposal that Rule 12 be amended. This item affects the Society's finances, so a month's notice required by the rules was accepted and the matter will be decided at the next meeting.
A good attendance at the annual general meeting is requested owing to the voting for the officers and change of rule.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD Chertsey Branch

The spring meeting was held at Chobham on April 5ih, when the branch received the support of a good number of visitors from the surrounding districts, over 40 ringers attending during the afternoon and evening. At $4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. the Guild's new form of ringers' service was conducted by the Vicar of Chobham. In his address the Vicar stressed the need for ringers. as servants of the Church, to lead an exemplary life. Expressions of approval of the new form of service were made, and the attendance, of the organist to lead the singing was much appreciated.
Following a buffet tea at the White Hart Hotel, the business meeting was quickly disposed of and double-handed experts took their places with handbells. Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise were rung
The tower bells were made good use of during the afternoon and evening, when under the leadership of the Ringing Master, Mr. F. J. Dodson, everyone's needs were catered for. Ringing ranged from rounds to London Surprise Major. The bells were lowered in peal at 8.30 p.m..: bringing to a close a very successful meeting.
h OOTTON, NORTHANIS.-On Mar. 22nd. 1.25.) Grandsire Doubles: H. Frost 1. P. Tayior 2. R. Tomkins 3. B. Smart 4, R. Noon (cond.) 5. To celebrate the wedding of Mr. A. R. Beebv and Miss Mary Hodges.

OXFORD SOCIETY OF CHANGE RINGERS

UNBROKEN SEQUENCE SINCE 1733

There is good evidence that a society of change ringers existed in Oxford before 1733, but the unbroken sequence of performances cannot be traced prior to this date. Mention can be made, however, of Richard Duckworth, undergraduate of Brasenose, 1648, who, while there, learnt to ring with the Oxford ringers and became an expert. He was Vicar of Steeple Aston in 1670 , and wrote ' Tintinnalogia,' or 'The Art of Ringing,' 1671. During this same period. Oxford gave its name to two of the standard methods still being rung Oxford Treble Bob and Double Oxford Bob.
John Sacheveral was another excellent ringer in 1702, and lived at Cumnor. He was good at the musical side of ringing and was in favour of adding four to the heavy six at St. Mary's. Unfortunately, this scheme never materialised, and St. Mary's still possesses the same bells.

Arthur Lloyd was made a member of the College Youths in 1723, and also belonging to this period was John Vickers, a great composer, who gave the Exercise some of the earliest peals of Grandsire Triples with ordinary bobs and singles,

In 1733, members of the Ancient Society of College Youths visited Oxford. The Oxford ringers were much impressed by the ringing of the Londoners, this proving a stimulus to them, and on December 31st, 1733, Christ Church ten bells were rung in the first peal in the city of Oxford by Oxford men. The 5,040 changes were rung in 3 hours and 27 minutes. The same company made an attempt on April 15 th, 1734 , to ring 6,876. It was unsuccessful, as were three successive at tempts, one failing because some ringers were 'much in liquor.' Success came in March, 1735, at New College, the 6,876 Caier changes being rung in about four hours on the ten bells.
The name of Pavier first appeared in a peal in 1775, and from that time until 1841 the Pavier family rang in almost every peal rung by the society. One of the outstanding record peals was 10,008 Grandsire Caters in 6 hours and 42 minutes at New College on Easter Monday, 1815, and in 1817 two men, Henry and Agabus Taylor, rang the tenor in a peal of 5,040 Grandsire Triples at Merton College. The name of John Lates, presumably of Stedman fame, first appears in the peal book in 1819 , and that of the late Mr. C. Hounslow in 1861 .

INFLUENCE OF J. W. WASHBROOK

The society continued to thrive with Mr. Thomas Hill as secretary from 1860 to 1885 . In 1875 the last peal on the bells of Magdalen College until. 1919 was rung, Holt's Ten-part. From 1883-1899 the society came under the influence of the late J. W. Washbrook, and rang upwards of 80 peals. They were rung in several towers, and methods ranged from Grandsire Triples to London Surprise Major. Among the outstanding and interesting performances were the 11,328 London Surprise Major at St. Peter's, Drayton, in 6 hours and 6 minutes in 1896, and 5,184 London Surprise Major on the rough-going bells of Merton College in the same year. This was the first peal of Major on the bells. Mr. Charles Hester was secretary from 1885 to 1911. and from 1899 to 1907 two masters of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, the Revs. F. E. Robinson and C. W. O. Jenkyn, rang several peals in company with the Oxford resident members. The Rev. Robinson and Mr. W. J. Smith did most of the conducting.
From 1907 until the outbreak of the first World War, the society dwindled to a great extent, two peals only being rung. Mr. V. Bennett, the present secretary, took over the secretaryship in 1911 until 1914, when he left for Active Service. and was succeeded by Mr. S. W. Prosser, who held office until 1919. In 1917 Mr. C. Hester died. In 1919, Mr. H. Tolley became secretary for a few years, until Mr. Bennett took over again. After the war the society numbercd about 12 active members.

A PEACE PEAL

A peace peal, 5,079 Stedman Caters, was rung at Magdalen College in 1919. This was the first peal on the bells for 44 years, and the composer and conductor, R. Congrieve Pridgeon, obtained permission for the attempt from the president of the college, Sir Herbert Warren, only through unearthing records of a peal attempted after the Battle of Waterloo in 1815. About 1925, St. Ebbe's had a very active band, which rang several sixbell peals, and in this year 5 st . Ebbe's six were augmented to eight as a memorial to J. W. Washbrook, and the first peal on them was rung in 1926. Mr. W. Harris, an enthusiastic young member of the society, died during this year. He held the office of Master for one year. All Saints' and St. Giles' were augmented to eight bells the following year.
The death occurred in 1930 of Mr. T. Payne, verger at Merton, who was many times Master of the Society. He rang in the 11,328 London Surprise Major at Drayton in 1896. During the following year the society made good progress with the younger generation, and on New Year's Eve the birth of Fabian Stedman in 1631 was commemorated by 5,039 Stedman Caters at Magdalen. The first peal of Cambridge Major in Oxford for 40 years was rung at St. Giles' in 1933, and on October 21st of that year the bicentenary was celebrated. On Christmas Day three courses of Stedman Caters on Christ Church bells were broadcast.
Christ Church bells were declared unsafe at the beginning of 1937, but in October of that year the bells were formally opened by the Dean after their rehanging. The preSmith occurred. He was the society's oldest member, 84 years old, and Oxford's chief conductor for many years. An excellent ringer, he was Master several times, and rang in the last quarter-peal on Christ Church before they were taken out of the spire in 1879.

DEVELOPMENTS IN LAST DECADE

Ald. C. H. Brown resigned his office as president in February, 1941, and Celr. W. O. King was elected. He also resigned office in the following, January and Cclr. H. C. Ingle was elected in July. The composer of the longest length of Double Norwich Court Bob Major, Francis E. Taylor, died in March, 1942, aged 52. On November 15th, the bells of Oxford, beginning with Christ Church and ending with New College, were rung to commemorate the victory of the Eighth Army in Egypt. In November, 1943 , Cclr. Ingle, the president, was elected Mayor of Oxford, and to celebrate this a peal of Grandsire Cinques was rung at the Christ Church Cathedral, 5,016 changes, conducted by W. F. Judge. In October, 1944, the back five of St. Peter's-in-the-East were rung for morning service for the first time in 50 years. Severals peals were rung in this year and in 1945, including the first peal of Bristol Surprise Major ever rung in the city of Oxford, on May 9th, $\nabla$-plus One Day. This was at the Church of St. Martin and All Saints, and was conducted by Walter F. Judge. Several well-known ringers participated and stood as follows: Richard A. Post treble, Victor J. F. Bennett 2, Betty Spice 3, John E. Spice 4, Neil I. Allnatt 5 , William C. Porter 6, Gordon Claudwell 7, Walter F. Judge tenor, Among 1945 peals were also the first peal ever rung on St. Mary's bells, seven 720's of Minor, conducted by John E. Spice on August, 30th and the first peal of Spliced Surprise Major ever rung in Oxford on November 29th on St. Ebbe's bells. The 5,056 changes comprised 2,944 London, 640 Bristol, 736 each Cambridge and Superlative. An attempt for a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus on Christ Church bells in March, 1946, failed after 3 hours 5 minutes through the 5th rope breaking. On May 17th the first peal of Lincolnshire Surprise in the city of Oxford was rung at St. Ebbe's by Betty Spice treble, V. I. F. Bennett 2, Alan R. Pink 3, Marie R. Cross 4, Richard A. Post 5, Frederick A. H. Wilkins 6, William C. Porter 7, Walter F. Judge tenor, who also conducted.

The longest length of Stedman Cinques yet rung was successfully accomplished at Christ Church Cathedral on August 24th, 12,663 changes, in 8 hours 48 minutes. The ringers, several well known, stood: W. F. Judge treble, V. J. F. Bennett 2, A. Ballard 3, A. H. Reed 4, C. W. Woolley 5, S. T. Holt 6, F. A. H. Wilkins 7, 'Ernest Morris 8, P. K. Williamson 9, R. A. Post 10, R. White 11, F. C. W. Knight tenor. The composer was Charles W. Roberts and the conductor was Walter F. Judge. The visit of their Majesties the King and Queen on October 24th was commemorated by ringing at St. Mary's and the Cathedral, and a peal of Bristol Surprise Major at All Saints', conducted by W. F. Judge.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World' of April 19th, 1912
ODD CHANGES
There was a good deal of ringing in London on Saturday, and no fewer than three twelvebell peals were attempted. But alas!. . none was successful. The first start was at Cornhill, where Stedman Cinques was rung for two hours before a mistake brought the peal to grief. At St Saviour's. Southwark. the Kent Association attempted Keat Treble Bob Maximus. The ringing, however, was very short-lived. The greatest disappointment of all, however, was at St. Paul's Cathedral. It is seldom. indeed that this majestic ring of bells can be got for a peal and .... the last was for the late Dean Gregory's 90th birthday three years ago. For nearly 4 hours all went swimmingly Then. almost without warning, the 62 cwt tenor . . . . dropped among the other bells. and a great attempt was frustrated only a course and a half from home.

The Kinging World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

OUR POLICY

RECENTLY a question was addressed to the Editor as to what was the policy of 'The Ringing World.' We know that our journal is exclusive in character as being the only weekly periodical in the world devoted to the advancement of the art of change ringing and of stimulating good striking, but while that is the purpose of - The Ringing World ' its policy covers a far wider field.

It is not inappropriate to remind the many new readers that 'The Ringing World' was acquired by the Central Council in 1942 from the executors of the founder, Mr. John S. Goldsmith. By that act of purchase the journal became the recognised medium for communications from the Central Council to the affiliated Guilds and Associations. Thus in the formulating of the policy of the journal that policy must conform to the accepted decisions of the Council and there must be an appropriate loyalty to the Council. This does not mean that the Editor of 'The Ringing World 'should stifle any point of view that is contrary to that of the Council, but there must be that primary surrender in the matter of editorials to the majority view as expressed by resolution at a full session of the Council.

Thus it comes about that the policy of "The Ringing World' is the upholding of the Central Council in the various actions it takes towards the advancement of the art of change ringing. The Central Council is in the same relationship to change ringing as the M.C.C. is to cricket. It means that the principles governing what is a true peal must conform to the conditions laid down by the Council to be recognised by that Council. That does not mean that Harry Jones cannot ring a touch of Minor with a tenor behind if he wishes to for service ringing or on a practice night. The individual has perfect freedom to ring what he likes, but if he desires to receive recognition from his fellow ringers at large that his performance is in accordance with prescribed standards, then it must conform to the Council's decisions.

While, therefore, the policy of 'The Ringing World ' is' to uphold the Central Council and act as its mouthpiece in presenting the reports and findings of the Council and its committees to the Exercise, it also performs the same service to all affiliated bodies. The true presentation of their proceedings naturally has to be concise in character because of the limitation of space, but every guild is entitled to appropriate recognition. An essential function of 'The Ringing World ' is to act as a clearing house for information between guilds and associations.

An important point in the policy of this journal is the encouragement of fraternal relationship between the whole body of church ringers. We doubt if there is another body of men and women with such a strong sense of comradeship and mutual understanding. From east to west, north to south, there has been established these strong bonds of friendship. The rivalry and petty jealousies that were, unfortunately, so marked in bygone years have given way to mutual understanding. This in no small measure has been engendered by the big social gatherings that appear in the Ringers' Calendar, the Guild Festivals, where a welcome is extended to all ringers, and those marked courtesies to visitors in a strange tower. It is the policy of 'The Ringing World ' to do its utmost to advance such friendly relationships.

The policy of the journal is to provide an open forum, within reasonable bounds, to those who have a useful contribution to make to the advancement of ringing and the general interest of its readers. While the Editor exercises a wide measure of latitude, he uses a discretionary control. Because an expression of opinion is not in accord with the existing Decisions of the Council it does not mean that the particular point of view should be excluded from the correspondence columns. It is the policy of the journal that its pages should be open to those whose criticism is fair, without malice and without an ulterior motive.

This journal is the property of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, not the Central Council of Ringers. There is a definite accent on the word Church, and it is an integral part of our policy that due recognition should be received from diocesan and similar bodies that ringers are servants of the Church. It is our desire to establish the closest liaison. Such a recognition cannot be one-sided in character. The recognition by the Church carries with it corresponding responsibilities-the faithful performance of those duties in as proficient a manner as possible and the appropriate training to give that service. It is our policy to remind our readers that such service to the Church does not end with the ringing of the bells, that we ring our bells on Sundays and other special occasions to the glory of God and it is to the advancement of His Kingdom or earth that the whole Exercise is attuned.

The peal of Double Norwich at Wicken on April 5th was rung as a birthday compliment to Mr. A. J, Green, local tower captain. Although restricted in his ringing during the last two years owing to ill-health. Mr. Green is now able to enjoy short touches on the bells. The band, and all local ringers, congratulate him and sincerely hope that his progress to better health continues rapidly. service as parish clerks, choristers and bellringers by members of the Hoare family at Woodston Peterborough, was marked by 720 Bob Minor rung for evening service on Easter Sunday by Mr. Herbert Hoare, his three sons (Eric. Stanley and Bert) and his two brothers (Charles and Stephen).
At the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association annual meeting at Berkeley no less than five ringing clergy were present. all connected with the Wotton-under-Edge Branch.
We regret to hear that Mr. C. J. More, the captain of the Diss tower, is ill. We join with the band who rang a quarter peal at Diss on April 15th, in wishing him a speedy recovery.
There has been criticism in the past concerning ringing on Good Friday. The halfmuflled peal rung at Hemingbrough, Yorks, on Good Friday, was at the special request of the Vicar. When such a request is made we think ringers should comply. Half-muffled ringing has a special message to the community.
Miss Christine Beale, daughter of Mr. Reginald Beale. of Shepton Beauchamp, Somerset. is a promising recruit to the Exercise. At her first serious practice night, on handbells, she rang her first quarter peal. which was conducted by Mr. Jack W. Drew, and her father rang the trebles We wish Christinc many happy hours in our belfries.

The Radio Luxembourg feature, 'Wedding Bells,' last Tuesday, contained the reading of a letter from Mr. Joseph Burgess. of Greenfield. near Oldham, telling of his friend Harry Nutt's 50th wedding anniversary. A guinea prize went to Mr. Nutt. Mr. Burgess and Mr. Nutt have been ringers for over 50 years. Many more happy rings together!

BELFRY GOSSIP

Cinques at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, on Easter Monday, should have been conducted by Mr. Albert Walker, who had for some time been looking forward to adding this fine twelve to his impressive list of twelve-bell towers where he has called peals. Unfortunately illness vented his ringing-a great disappointment both to Mr. Walker and to the band.
Not since 1926 had a peal of Stedman Cinques been rung here. Despite the stormy weather, several visiting ringers, as well as some of the 'locals 'gave a critical ear to the ringing throughout the afternoon.
We are certain that all will join in the hope that Mr. Walker will soon be restored to complete health and able to celebrate his 76th birthday in May with at least one peal. Last year. it may be recalled, he rang three twelve-bell peals in a week to celebrate his 75th.
Four schoolboy members of the Liverpool Cathedral Cross Guild included a course of Grandsire Triples in their broadcast last Saturday.
Mr. W. P. Cleaver, of Ramsgate, seconded Mr. J. A. Russell's amendment at the annual meeting of the Kent County Association and not as stated. (See page 250.)

A note recorded many years ago: Sixty-three men were required to ring the, five great bells in Canterbury Cathedral's campanile of the 12th century, a sixth bell added later needing a further 32 men.-E. L. H.
The christening took place on Easter Sunday at All Saints' Church, Laughton. Sussex, of Daphne Iris Booth, daughter of Mr. B. Booth. a Laughton ringer. Touches of Grandsire Doubles. Bob Doubles and Bob Minor were rung by the ringers of Laughton, East Hoathly and Hellingly.

CONCERN AT DROP IN PAID-UP MEMBERSHIP - A POOR YEAR FOR PEALS - SUCCESS OF ANNUAL DINNER

YISITORS from as far afield as Leicester and Salisbury attended the annual meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild held at $S$. Nicolas' Hall, Guildford, on Saturday. The Rev. K. C. Davis (vice-president) presided, supported by the Master (Mr. A. Harman), the hon. secretary and treasurer (Mr. G. L. Grover) and the assistant hon, secretary (Miss W. Oliver).

A majority vote decided to dispense with the reading of the minutes, which the minority did not hesitate to deplore as occasion arose. - Why keep any minutes?' commented one who felt particularly hurt This speeding-up process, which was encouraged from the chair, drew forth a rebuke to the chairman, who was reminded of the importance of the meeting and that the ringing which followed was secondary to the Guild's business ! The chairman accepted the censure with due humility to the delight of the meeting.
The secretary, having reported the re-election of the officers. the chairman made one of those delightful 'thank you' speeches which should never be forgotten, to those who give of their time 10 other people's enjoyment: Mr. A Harman's services as Master; 'Our George's' work as secretary; Miss Oliver's help as his assistant; and Mr. L. Hunter, the auditor. He thanked the District officers for their services and mentioned the change in the Chertsey District with the retirement of two old stalwarts, Mr. J. Hessey, Ringing Master, and Mr. F. Hawthorne, hon. secretary. The new officers are Mr. J. F. Dodson (Hersham) Ringing Master and Mr. W. Simmonds (Hersham) hon. secretary.

An itemised explanation of the accounts was submitted by Mr. G.lL Grover. The year had witnessed the balance in hand grow from $£ 49$ 14 s . 1d. to $£ 598 \mathrm{~s}$. 9 d . He deplored that a loss occurred on the teas at the annual meeting through the non-arrival of certain members who had notified their intention of being present. The Benevolent Fund had paid one grant of $£ 5$ and had a balance in hand of $£ 113$, and the Cathedral Bell Fund a balance of $£ 62$ 10 s . 8 d . Only nine towers sent contributions to the latter fund-the poor support being specially commented upon.

While there was a strong demand for Guild badges there was a meagre application for Guild certificates. Mr. C. W. Denyer attributed this to dating certificates to the day of issue and not the dav the individual ioined the Guild, a practice which was resented by the old members, particularly those whose membership went back to the formation of the Guild. An assurance of a wholehearted willingness to give the date a member joined on the certificate. if it would encourage sales. was forthcoming from the secretary.

The accounts were then approved.

THE REPORT

The report of the Executive Committee gave the strength of the Guild as follows:-Chertsey District 34 ringing, 3 honorary: Farnham 133. 10: Guildford 95; Leatherhead 72, 36; Life and unattached 70 . 9 : other honorary 41 ; total 404 ringing and 99 honorary. The total for 1950 was 577 and the decrease in the number of members who paid annual subscriptions was large enough to cause concern.

Restorations:-The six at Frensham had been rehung as, also, after a silence of half-acentury, had the six at St. Mary's. Guildford. At Capel, after hanging useless for 20 years, the six there were now in good going order. a young band had been recruited and rang regularly. The eight at East Molesey were being overhauled and those who had rung there in recent years would doubtless add ' Not before time, ${ }^{\text { }}$ At Hersham, too, the eight were now being rehung.
Losses by Death.-The following deaths were regretted:-Mr. T. Upshall, of Farnham, a founder-member; Mr. C. Childs, also a founder-member, who was tower captain at Godalming for many years; Mr. H. Sycamore, a ringing member from Ewell; the Rev. R. M. Bankes-Jones, of Bagshot, an honorary member of long standing; Mr. F. Wigley, an honorary member from Cobham; Mrs. Edwards, of Godalming Peals.-If peal ringing was any guide as to the vitality of the Guild, then it would appear that they were at a low ebb for only 19 peals were rung as against 34 in 1950 and 42 in 1949. What was worse. there were only two first pealers and but one first as conductor, although there were the usual varied claims to first in a different method or on a different number or as conductor in a fresh method. The first peal of Berkshire Surprise Major was rung for the Guild. There were 13 conductors, one of whom. John Wells, of Farnham, conducted his first peal.

Festival of Britain-The committee sincerely congratulated the Farnham District on the effective way in which it complied with the committee's request for special ringing to mark the opening of the Festival. Thirteen quarter peals (one at each tower-Frensham being out of service- in the District) were attempted and 12 were successful Cathedral Bell Fund.-Only nine towers remembered the special appeal that was made a few years ago for a minimum contribution of one shilling per year from each tower. Other Diocesan organisations were taking an active part in furnishing and equipping the new building: were they to be laggards?
The chairman said it was very distressing that the membership of the Guild had gone down nearly 50 and it was large enough to cause concern. He was afraid it was a case of people not paying their 'subs.
The report was adopted.

LIBRARY

Mr. A. C. Hazelden presented the report of the Library Committee and said it was a matter of regret that owing to repairs at S. Nicolas' tower the library had been inaccessible. The books were now back in their places. Copies of 'The Ringing World ' had been bound to 1950 and a schedule of library books had been prepared. Mr. W. Viggers had produced a distinctive book plate. An exhibition of books in the library by the late Mr. J. A. Trollope would be on view after the meeting. The Library Committee was re-elected.

Major E. J. Bragg reported that the Guild's peal book had been written up until the end of 1949 . He was re-elected peal recorder.
Mr. G. S. Jovce was re-elected badge secretary and Mr. A. Harman liaison officer with the Surrey Association.

NEW MEMBERS

New members elected were:-Hon. members: Mr. and Mrs. J. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Isherwood. Miss Warren and Mrs. Theobald (all from Shere); ringing members: Messrs. J. Newman. E. Norton, W. Spooner, G. Moorey, $\mathbf{F}$. Foord. T. Summers and Miss M. Kirkby (Shere); the Misses Iris Purser. Shirley Potter. Margaret Bright and Beryl Roker (West Clandon). Mr. C. F. Pearson (Haslemere, late of Warminster).
The committee decided to donate from the General Funds $£ 5$ to the Pailing Memorial Fund.

Mr. W. Simmonds reported that Hersham bells were now in order. The ringers were very satisfied with the rehanging but he was sorry to say they had still the same bells.
An application was made by Mr. E. C. Arthur for Shere to be transferred back to the Guildford District because of the difficulty of reaching Leatherhead. This was agreed to although the secretary issued a caveat that a couple of years ago the Executive Committee spent a considerable time in reorganising the Districts. There were then 24 towers in the Guildford District and the Executive Committee went to a lot of trouble to get 15 towers in each District. If transfers took place there was a danger of disturbing the balance of towers in the Districts.

AFTERNOON MEETINGS ?

While the date and place of the next annual meeting was left to the Executive Committee Mr. C. Denyer suggested that there should be an alteration with the business meeting in the afternoon followed by tea and evensong and then ringing. The suggestion brought forth an immediate protest from Miss Oliver, who pointed out that it took the whole of the afternoon for the ladies to prepare the tea.
Mr. E. J. Lindley suggested that the venue for the next meeting should be Epsom and Ewell. where, he said. there were two excellent towers. Guildford did not lack its advocates in the meeting and the matter was referred to the Executive Committee.

DINNER CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations were voiced by the chairman to those who organised the annual dinner and he expressed the hope that it would be a regular fixture in the Guild's calendar. The dinner committee - Messrs. Joyce, Viggers and Denyer-was re-elected with one representative from the Guildford District. The Lion Hotol. Guildford, had been booked for Oct. 18 th. Mr Viggers stated that a profit on the dinner of $£ 2$ 11s. 10 d . had been carried forward to next year's dinner account.

OVERLAPPING TERRITORY

Mr. W. Simmonds raised the thorny question of the overlapping territory with the Surrey Association. He regretted that the Executive Committee had not held a special meeting to discuss this question.
The secretary replied that the Executive had discussed the matter and decided to let matters remain as they were. They did not want to open up old grievances with the Surrey Associa. tion.
Asked if the Surrey Association had done anything about the matter. Mr. D. Cooper replied that there was nothing to discuss as they had not received an official communication from the Guildford Guild.
Mr. Simmonds was still dissatisfied. He maintained that it was unfair to ask for two Guild subscriptions from ringers in the Chertsey District. Chertsey was a tower where there were always complaints following a meeting there and with the Surrey Association also visiting the tower there were additional complaints.
Mr. Hawthorne assured the Guild that there was no clash of meetings between the two bodies.
The chairman voiced the Guild's congratulations to Mr. Mark White and Miss Audrey Morrison, who were to be married in August. and to Mr. Eric Lee and Miss Jean Woodward. whose wedding would take place at Hawley on May 10th.
The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. F. Hawthorne. This included the ladies who prebared the tea and the officers of the Guildford District who arranged the meeting. A (Continued on next page)

GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

PRESENTATION OF MASTER'S CHAIN OF OFFICE

0VER 100 members attended the annual meeting of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association at Berkeley on Easter Monday, and the fine ring of ten was heard to advantage before and after the meeting.

The Association's form of service was used at the service at noon, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. H. W. Fisher), who also gave the address. The Rev. A. D. H. Allan (a vicepresident) read the lesson.

The Master (Mr. John G. Jefferies) presided at lunch, served in the Town Hall. He was supported by the Revs. W. A. Pell and A. D. H. Allan. Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Romans, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. F. Oakhill, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Harding and Mr. and Mrs. F. Skidmore.

A MASTER'S CHAIN

The business meeting followed with the Master in the chair and prayer being offered by the Rev. W. A. Peel. The Master was then promptly called to order for not wearing his badge of office, to the amusement of the assembly. He was then presented by the retiring treasurer, Mr. Percy Williams, with a chain of office consisting of 21 miniature bells, replicas of the Master's bell, and each inscribed with the names of past Masters of the Association since its formation in 1878.
Making the presentation, Mr. Williams mentioned the great pleasure it was to him to make the gift to the Association as a lasting memory of the fine associations he had had during nearly 50 years of membership, in 23 of which he had served as treasurer. He regretted having to relinquish the office as he had moved from the Bristol district and taken up residence in Plymouth.
The Master thanked Mr. Williams for his beautiful gift and spoke of their long association together and the harmony which had existed between them for nearly 50 years. He congratulated Mr. Williams on his recent marriage and extended to Mr. and Mrs. Williams the wishes of the meeting for many years of happy life together.

LOSSES BY DEATH

After referring to the death of our beloved King, the Master referred to the deaths of the following members: Sidney Mills (76), St. Mark's. Swindon ; George Hacker (77). Wroughton: William Chandler (70), Lydiard Millicent; Charles Smith (50), Rodbourne Cheney; George Charles (79), Lydney; Leonard Helmes (71), Ruardean; Albert Wm. Goulding (77), Aylbur: ton: George H. Walters (71), Cheltenham; Reuben F. Hemming (72), Cheltenham; Henry Pring (81), Bristol: Rupert Saxton (65). Alveston; Andrew James Corrigan (67), Bitton, Bristol.
Speaking of Mr. Corrigan, the Master recalled his loyal service to the Association in matters of printing, which enabled the Association to continue to issue their annual report despite the heavy cost. He also referred to the tragic death of Mr. Herbert Marsh, chairman of the Chippenham Branch, who was killed whilst returning from a ringing practice, being knocked down by a motor-car.
The meeting stood in silence as a mark of respect to their memory.

MASTER'S REPORT

In his report the Master thanked all for the kind welcome they had extended to him when he visited their towers. Membership had kept about the same and peals rung had increased to 90 , the list of first-pealers being most promising. In some of the branches better support was needed at meetings, and he appealed for loyalty in this direction.

He congratulated Bishop's Cleeve on their augmentation to eight, Malmesbury on the restoration of their bells, now augmented to eight; Chipping Sodbury, Cheltenham Parish Church and St. Stephen's, Bristol, on having their bells rehung; also St. Mary Redcliffe on the addition of a flat sixth.

Points from Mr. F. Skidmore's report as hon. secretary were congratulations to the North Forest Branch on their splendid effort in the renewed interest at Huntley and Longhope, also the Cirencester Branch for their efforts in obtaining an active membership at Windrush; grants of $£ 10$ each to Chipping Sodbury and Malmesbury and $£ 15$ to Cheltenham from the Belfry Repair Fund; sale of 118 Association badges during the year.
The accounts showed a balance in hand at the end of the year of $£ 906 \mathrm{~s}$. , against a balance brought forward of $£ 100$ 15s. $3 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{~d}$. Items of expenditure which should not occur again for some years, reported the hon. treasurer, were service forms $£ 14$ 18s., register of life members $£ 27 \mathrm{~s}$. 10d., diocesan badge line block $£ 1$ 11s. 7d., reconditioning typewriter $£ 25$. The peal book account showed an income of $£ 1413 \mathrm{~s}$. 6 d . for a total of 90 peals rung during 1951. After writing up the peals for 1950 (53) and clearing the deficit of 12 s . 6d., there was a balance in hand of $£ 99 \mathrm{~s}$. 6 d . towards a new peal book which would be required before the end of the year.

The reports and accounts were adopted.
THE NEW OFFICERS
The election of officers for 1952 did not cause any controversy. Mr. Jefferies vacated the chair, which was taken by the senior vice-president, Mr. S. E. Romans, who called for nominations for Master, remarking that the Master usually held office for two years. Seeing that they had that day been presented with such a beautiful chain of office, he thought that Mr. Jefferies should be allowed to wear it for another year. He asked Mr. Jefferies if he was willing to stand for another year and. receiving his assent, there being no other name put forward, Mr. Jefferies was unanimously re-elected for 1952. Thanking the meeting, Mr. Jefferies assured them he would give of his best in the interests of the Association.

Mr. W. B. Kynaston (Swindon), Mr. S. T. Price (Stonehouse) and Mr. C. Martin (Cheltenham) were elected vice-presidents in recognition of the splendid service they had rendered the Association over a great number of years. All the present vice-presidents were re-elected. Mr. F. Skidmore was re-elected hon. secretary, and Mr . S. G. Riches was elected treasurer in place of Mr. P. C. Williams, who was retiring. Mr. Riches thanked the mecting said he would do his best to follow in Mr. Williams' steps. Mr. A. E. Reeves was re-elected peal secretary, Messrs. Stallard and Hancock were re-elected hon. auditors, and the six members were reelected to the Management Committee.
Gloucester is to be the place of the next annual meeting for 1953.
The suggested meeting in the Stow-on-theWold area was left in the hands of Mr. C. R. Harding, together with the hon. secretary and treasurer, to arrange at a convenient date.
The Master proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. J. H. W. Fisher for the use of the bells and conducting the service, commenting on the fine address he had given, also Mr. Lewis, steeplekeeper, who had everything ready, and last, but by no means least, to Miss D. M. Drew, branch secretary, for making arrangements for catering. After tea further ringing was enjoyed by all until 7 p.m., bringing to a close a very pleasant meeting.
F. SKIDMORE.

FORTY YEARS AGO
Extract from 'The Ringing World ' of April 26th, 1912
ODD CHANGES
From Mr. R. F. Deal, who a few months ago went to Australia, we have received the report of a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples rung on March 13th at St. Paul's Cathedral. Melbourne. The ringers were: A. Brown (first quarter peal) 1; J. Guest 2; C. Stocks 3; R. R. Deal (conductor) 4: A. Fitzgerald 5: A. E. Barnes 6: H. Blakeley 7: T. Perry 8. The Iondon Society of Compositors can muster a band between them, and on Saturday. at St. Saviour's. Walthamstow, they made their first attempt for a peal (Holt's Original), but lost it after ringing 4,000 changes in 2 hours 25 minutes. The bells were half-muffied as a mark of esteem to those who lost their lives in the 'Titanic' disaster, and the ringers were: J. A. Dart 1, T. Loosmore 2 J. Bartlett 3 . C N. Leman 4, G. F. Margetson 5, W. H. Dickinson 6. J. D. Matthews (conductor) 7. J Millmen 8.

special word of appreciation was said by the Master to the Rev. D. Scott Gardner (Rector of West Clandon), who gave the address at the service held at St. Mary's Church.
The meeting concluded with a little homily from the chairman, who said that as a poor ringer he hoped they all. when they rang, were not merely doing it for their own pleasure but to the glory of God. He appealed to them to keep their bells going for Sunday services. They lived in a materialistic age; people were not antagonistic to the Church-they were simply indifferent and were finding no need in their lives for God and His Church. It was up 10 them to remind them of the eternal realities and that in their midst there was a place where God was worshipped. However indifferent people might be they could not help being reminded when they heard the bells.
Mr. Harman thanked Mr. Davis for presiding.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION
Dear Sir,-I wish to draw attention to two serious infringements of the printed rules of the Kent County Association which took place at the annual general meeting at Ashford on Easter Monday. I will quote first the relevant parts of the rules affected.

Rule 7: The quarterly meetings immediately before the committee meetings in November or December shall be considered the annual district meeting. The district secretary and two representatives from each district to serve on the committee for the ensuing year shall be elected at that meeting, or districts may, if desired, elect them by tower representation.

At every quarterly meeting a business meeting shall be held to arrange place and date of the next meeting, discuss Association matters and advise representatives of the opinion of the district in respect of any important matter coming before the committee for decision.

All notices of motion for the agenda for the annual committee meeting must be forwarded to the general hon. secretary before September 1st each year, and same shall be forwarded to districts for consideration at their meeting previous to the committee meeting.
Rule 9: There shall be a general meeting of the Association every year between Easter and July, etc. . . . and a Committee of Management shall be appointed, consisting of not less than five persons elected from the honorary members, the general secretary, peal secretary, treasurer, three trustees, auditor, the district secretaries, the Central Council representatives and two representatives elected by each district; the committee to have power to add to its numbers. Eight to form a quorum.
Rule 19: No alteration or addition to these rules shall be made, except at a general or special meeting.
By Rule 9 it is clear that ordinary practising members can only be elected to the Committee of Management by being elected representatives of their district at the district quarterly meeting, or by being co-opted as an additional member. Nevertheless, an ordinary practising member was at the annual meeting elected to this committee to fill an existing vacancy. The facetious remark of the chairman, "We can make him a life member if necessary,' does not absolve the rule.

It is clearly the intention of Rule 7 that all important matters affecting the Association shall first be discussed at a district quarterly meeting and that all notices of motion shall be forwarded to the general hon. secretary before September 1st each year to enable this to be done. Nevertheless, a very important matter, the raising of the adult annual subscription from 2 s . to 3 s ., was passed contrary to this rule. This is minority rule with a vengeance.
Although present at the annual general meeting. I had not a report with me and did not venture to speak in case of error, but 1 did refrain from putting forward an important addition to rules of which I had notified the general hon. secretary in March this year, being under the impression it was out of order.

I may say I have no objection to the person elected to the committee- I think he is a very uscful addition-but one does expect the officers of the Association either to know the rules or to consult them before making a decision. Expedition in business is laudatory, but unseemly haste can lead one to serious error.

Deal, Kent.
W. BOTTRILL.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

Dear Sir,-I notice in 'The Ringing World, of April 4th that the writer commences his leading article by stating what things were like in Victorian days and then asks if people are any happier to-day. If he were to pay visits to our modern schools, modern factories, hospitals, homes for the aged or the new housing estates and compare the conditions that exist now with the conditions that people worked under and the hovels they were compelled to live in in those far off days, he would get a true answer to his question.
also notice he pulls out his hardy annual, ' No peal ringing during Lent '; also that quarterly meetings should be put off until after Easter-yet 1 notice in 'The Ringing World' of March 21 st that the Bridgwater Branch had a practice meeting advertised for March 29th from 6.30 to $9 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.

As he is chairman of that branch, did he approve of this meeting? If so, perhaps he will be kind enough to explain why practice meetings are permissible during Lent and not peals and quarterly meetings?
I have always been given to understand that the incumbent is in sole charge of the bells, also that the duly elected foreman or his deputy is in charge of the ringing. If an incumbent gives his permission for a peal attempt, a meeting or wishes to stop ringing altogether during the season of Lent he has a perfect right to do so, irrespective of what any official of an association or guild may say.

In an annual report I have by me I find the following: For just as fate would have it, for the past 21 years the church to which i owe allegiance has one small bell in a turret.' These words were written by one of our finest ringers, one who has rung hundreds of peals and is capable of conducting on all numbers, and has all the necessary qualifications for teaching the art of change ringing; yet he places his talents under a bushel, instead of using them Sunday by Sunday in the service of his Church and Creator.
What we want in our ranks to-day are ringers with a modern outlook, who are prepared to help teach, to organise our man power, etc.; for instance. if our tower has a surplus on a Sunday and another is short, the tower with a surplus should help the other.
The problem before us to-day is not 'Should ringers attend church services after they have rung?', 'Build their own towers and buy their own bells' or 'What shall we do with our bells during the season of Lent?'
The problem is, Can we provide the man power so that our bells are rung Sunday by Sunday by human hands in face of the everincreasing call for National Service, Civil Defence, etc.? Are they to suffer the fate of the Taunton twelve where the touching of an electric switch starts the bells sounding out their music prior to the services on Sunday? Sincerely yours, Bridgwater, Somerset.

ST. MARY'S, SWANSEA, BELLS

Dear Sir,-On February 23rd, 1941, Hitler smashed the ring of eight bells at St. Mary's, Swansea (tenor 19 cwt. 3 qr.), and left it in a tangled mass of metal at the base of the tower. After this 60 per cent. of the metal was stolen.
Now on Tuesday, April 1st, 1952, Canon J. J. A. Thomas Vicar of Swansea, published in 'The South Wales Evening Post' that $£ 230$ 4 s . 3 d . had been received from the sale of the damaged bell metal left on the site.
So ends a grand ring of bells, the remains of which now rest in some hole and corner in a bell founder's yard waiting to be melted with other bell metal for the process of casting another grand ring.-Yours, etc. J. A.H. Swansea.

CAMPANALOGIA IMPROVED'

Dear Sir,-I have just had the good fortune to be presented with an original copy of Campanalogia Improved,' by J.D. and C.M., and printed in 1702. My copy bears all the marks of having passed through many hands, yet is singularly free from signs of ill-usage. It has been rebound some time about 1830. The bookbinder who did the work was a master of his craft. After 130 years of constant use the pages were very frail and have consequently been interleaved with substantial plain paper. On these plain sheets there are several annotations, among them one which indicates pride of ownership with the words: 'Pugh John his book 1842.' Another owner who, like I, acquired the book as a gift was a 'Richard Bowen of Devon Cottage, George Street, CamberwelI near London.' (I like the word 'near.')

As many of your readers will know, J.D. and C.M. were members of the Society of London Scholars, but they might not know of the authors' eulogy of the Exercise, and their castigation of those 'partial and extrajudicious persons' responsible for casting 'many malicious aspersions ' upon the Exercise.
One wonders what present-day ringers would say if they were told of their Exercise ". . . that it withdraws and alienates men's minds from the business by which they obtain and procure sustinence for themselves and families, making them drunkards, neglective of their occupations and trades, and consequently the utter ruin and impoverishment of themselves and all that depend upon and receive a livlihood and maintenance from them.' There are more than eight pages devoted to refuting charges against ringers and ringing.
A handwritten note records a peal of 5,040 Grandsire Tripples rung at Condover in 1842, giving the names of the ringers.
Quite apart from the many methods in which instruction is given, absorbing interest is to be found in the Epistle Dedicatory and the Preface to the Reader. It might be that many other of your readers have enjoyed reading this book and could give their reactions.-Yours faithfully, Capenhurst, Ches. ROGER B. MORRIS.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WIFE

Dear Sir.-The arrival of The Ringing World and the National Gardens Scheme list by the same post reminds me to write you a letter that has long been in my mind.
There must be many a ringer who would eniov his art with a clearer conscience if he could find somewhere to park his wife and family while he was ringing. What better place could there be than one of England's lovely gardens? There must be many a garden within reach of a church whe:e a visiting ringer would be welcome on a Sunday evening. And if I might add a personal note, my garden is alongside Lamberhurst Church where ringers are always welcome a: 5.45 p.m. on Sundays.- Yours faithfully. WILLIAM MORLAND.
Tunbridge Wells.

EASTER MORNING RINGING

Dear Sir,-May I say how much I appreciated your leading article of April 11th on the subject of Easter morning ringing? When I first read the article I thought. ' What a beautiful idea if only it could be put into practice. But when I made inquiries of the members of the tower I found that almost without exception they had intended to make their Communion at 7 o'clock, and those who had intended to come at 8 o'clock were quite prepared to come to the earlier service. To arrange to ring before the 7 o'clock Eucharist thus presented no great difficulty, and although we are only a struggling band, we managed to ring Grandsire Triples. It was indeed a privilege to be able to ring early on Easter morning and to add our 'affirmation,' as you so rightly term it, to the great chorus of 'The Lord is Risen.' I might add that the early ringing of the bells was much appreciated.-Yours faithfully.

Ashtead. Surrey. J. T. SYMONDS.

LETTERS-Continued

BELLS' MESSAGE FOR ALL SEASONS
Dear Sir,-I should like to join Prebendary Cox in thanking you for the article on "Lent and Easter' by Prebendary Hook; it is indeed lamentable that for most people Lent has become no different from any other time in the year. It is also a pity that, in the minds of most people, bells have become associated only with festivities.
The bells are the voice of the Church-the Body of Christ-bringing the Church's message at all seasons, including Lent, to all those who can hear them. Their message can be heard by thousands of people who never attend church.
There are many churches whose bells are never heard on Sundays owing to a shortage of ringers and consequently a full peal by a visiting band, even during Lent, can do much to remind the people of their church, their obligation to attend it and to 'seek those things which are above.' It would, no doubt, be a very good thing to reduce weekday ringing to a minimum during Lent in towers where peal attempts are frequent, but such towers are rather few and far between, especially in the West Country. Yours faithfully,

NICHOLAS F. D. COLERIDGE (Rev.). Newton Abbot, Devon.

LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL

Dear Sir,-That one of the happy personalities who visited Liverpool recently should have recorded the turning in of the tenor single handed will be as pleasing to the bell-hangers as to those who witnessed the perfect technique. One feels terribly sorry that the little word 'first' should creep into this recording note Because of it, for reasons which persisted, particularly obvious to those who neither shouted nor were shouted at, no recording of this performance can possibly be recommended here
All the bells can now well and truly be heard in the ringing chamber, the ropes are no longer new and jumpy, there were no sliders oddly and unexpectedly sticking, and no howling gale through the once open belfry and, perhaps most valuable to any band, there was a feeling of goodwill and fellowship to those manning the ropes.
May one express some surprise that any individual's personal ambition should be so highly overrated. Surely there was something to be found here within this massive inspiring structure, if only of a technical nature, more worthy of report.-Very faithfully yours,
Woolton, Liverpool. E. L. HUMPHRISS.

MEMORIAL PLAQUE TO MR. CHARLES TURNER

An oak plaque to the memory of Mr. Charles Turner was dedicated in St. Mary's Church, Dover, during morning service on April 6th by the Vicar (the Rev. A. S. Cooper). The late Mr . Turner was a ringer at St. Mary's for over 50 years and captain of the band for 33 years.
Before the service 504 Stedman Triples was rung by the following: J. Willis 1, H. R. French 2, F. A. Rye 3, C. George (cond.) 4, H. J Saunders 5 T. Anderson 6, B. J. Luck 7, E. T. Ellenden 8 .

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

A Lady Elected New Master

$\mathbf{R}^{A}$AIN did not damp the enthusiasm of the 80 odd members who attended the annual meeting at All Saints', Newport, on Easter Monday. Visitors and friends who started assembling early in the afternoon were met by the Vicar (Canon C. G. R. Lewis), who extended a warm welcome to all. The bells were kept going in various methods until $40^{\circ}$ clock, the time appointed for the service, which was conducted by the Vicar

After the service the visitors were invited to the Parish Rooms, where tea, which had been generously provided by the Vicar's wife and ladies of the parish, was awaiting them. On the proposition of the Rev. Ivor Richards, they were duly thanked.

The Vicar took the chair at the business meeting which followed. The secretary, in presenting his report, reviewed the activities of the Association for the year 1951. Regarding Sunday service ringing, he thought there was little change, but in the matter of methods practised there was a definite advance, more and more varied methods being rung. Thirty-three peals were rung during the year, which was a postwar record.
Presenting the balance sheet, Mr. T. M. Roderick said the Association was in a sound financial, position. There was a balance on the year's working of $£ 94 \mathrm{~s}$. 6 d . and a total credit in hand of 6417 s . This did not include interest accrued on War Savings Certificates. The Bell Restoration Fund stood at $£ 268 \mathrm{~s}$. 5d.
The next item was a motion moved by Mr. L. H. Jones and seconded by Mr. J. Worrall that the Association be divided into districts. This has been a subject of controversy for years, and it was decided that a committee of 12 be appointed to draw up recommendations for carrying it out. The same committee is to draw up a new set of rules to submit to the next annual meeting.
History was made when Miss Jacqueline Evans was unanimously elected Master for the ensuing year. This is the first time a lady has held this post. Canon Lewis expressed a wish to be relieved of his duties as treasurer. He was thanked for his past services and the Rev. Ivor Richards was elected in his place. The secretary and auditors were re-elected.
The secretary reported on Llandaff bells and said he thought it would be quite a long time before they would be ready, there being other work to do to the tower.
Mr. J. W. Jones reported that the contract had been placed for the rehanging of Coity bells.
For the next two quarterly meetings it was decided to accept invitations to visit Marshfield and Penyfai. Cardiff was the place selected for the next annual meeting. New members elected included the whole of the Penyfai band and members from Ebbw Vale, Cowbridge, Bedwellty, Caerleon, Whitchurch and Barry.
Methods rung during the day ranged from rounds (for the learners) to Surprise.

Branston Ringers Wedding

The wedding of Mr. Adam G. Brummitt, captain of the local band, to Miss Grace Lintin took place at All Saints' Church, Branston, Lincs, on March 29th.
As the bride and bridegroom left the church the bells struck off into a peal of 16 Treble Bob methods, rung by members of the local band.
After the peal, as compensation for missing the wedding reception, the ringers were invited to supper by Mr. E. Lintin, father of the bride. The meal was much enjoyed.

GUILD OF CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL BELL RINGERS

This Guild, originally formed in 1878 to maintain regular rigging at the Mother Church of Sussex, has been reconstituted.

At a ceremony on April 2nd at the Deanery, the members took an oath of allegiance to the Dean and Chapter and were thus formally admitted to the Cathedral foundation as are the choirmen and other lay officials. The Dean. the Very Rev. A. S. Duncan Jones, presented each member with a prayer and hymn book. Refreshments were also provided.

Mr. W. G. Challen, of 6, Exton Road, Chichester, accepted the office of Tower Master, who is to have prime responsibility for the affairs of the Guild. To this office he was unanimously elected by the members. To assist him Mr. P. R. Blackman and Mr. H. F. Dunford were elected as Ringing Master and steeplekeeper respectively. The Ven. Lancelot Mason, the Archdeacon of Chichester, who is himself learning to ring and has done much to further the interests of the Guild, continues in his appointment as liaison with the Dean and Chapter.

Two important amendments have been made to the original constitution. At the request of the ringers, the Dean and Chapter have agreed to discontinue the payment of a small annual remuneration to the members and instead to pay it into a Tower Fund, from which the Guild can vote money for the improvement of the bells and amenities of the tower. There is no longer to be a limit to the number of members. Newcomers may be admitted as soon as they show that they will attend regularly and can take part in change ringing proficiently.

The thanks of the Guild are due to many visitors and especially to those from neighbouring towns and villages and to students of the Theological and Bishop Otter Colleges in the city. Their help in the years since the war has often made it possible to ring the eight bells week by week.

NORWICH ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the East Norfolk Branch was held at Acle on March 22 nd with an attendance of 42 members of the Association. The president (the Rev. A. St. J. Heard) conducted the service and the Rector of Acle (the Rev. H. Chisnell) was organist. Tea was held in the Church Room.

The Rev. H. Chisnell presided at the business meeting, when Mr. E. Goate was re-elected chairman, Mr. J. Harwood secretary, Mr. H. W. Barrett Ringing Master, Mrs. G. W. Fletcher and Mr. P. G. W. Newstead representatives on the Standing Committee. To the Branch Committee were elected Messrs. G. Bussey, P. Newstead, P. Kindred, Ling and G. Walpole. New members elected were Malcolm Minter, Brian Turner, both of Blofield, and Evelyn Killington, of Loddon.

It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Pakefield on May 3rd. A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for the use of the bells and to the ladies who arranged the tea. Handbells and tower bells were used freely after tea.

News From Australia

Mr. W. Smith, captain of St. James', Turramurra, in a chatty letter to the Editor, writes : Our ringers and bells at Turramurra were very much to the fore in expressing the deep sorrow and shock which we all experienced in the announcement of the death of our beloved King. This is the greatest shock that the Empire has had since the passing of Queen Victoria. On the day of the King's death and on the day of the funeral we rang fully muffled.

Two of our veteran ringers are Mr. C. Parr, of Ilfracombe, and Mr. A. R. Botting, of Betchworth, Surrey, who rang in England for the Jubilec of Queen Victoria in 1887 and on every national occasion since that great event.

GETTING RINGING ACROSS TO THE PUBLIC
An Example From Retford
Promoted by the Rotary Club of Retford, a hobbies exhibition was held at the Town Hall, Retford, recently.
Advantage was taken of the occasion by the East Retford Church bell ringers to bring to the public's attention some of the hidden mysteries of change ringing, and their efforts met with conspicuous success.
Three of the Sunday service band erected a stand 9 ft . wide and 5 ft . deep. A prominent sign, 'Campanology,' headed the stall and beneath was a coloured badge of the Southwell Diocesan Guild. Features of the stall were a model bell, kindly lent by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., and the belfry's instructional model of a bell. There was also the clapper stay of a 24 cwt . tenor to indicate the inside diameter of a bell and three octaves of handbells.
Method ringing was explained by two big coloured charts of Double Oxford Triples and Stedman Triples, while the Crawford Cup, at present held by Warsop ringers, was also on view. Copies of 'The Ringing World' were available referring to items of local interest.
Eight ringers took their turn to act as stewards. Punctually every 15 minutes each evening 36 changes of Bob Minor were rung, the touches being kept short so as not to interfere with short wave transmitters working all the time.

The stewards were kept busy and were required to demonstrate the belfry model almost continuously. No fewer than 2.700 people paid for admission to visit the exhibition. Appointment cards were available for people to visit the belfry, and 12 applied for the first practice night, of which six were honoured. Other appointments were received for later dates.

When the exhibition was not open to the public it was visited by 1,000 school children.
The steward on duty gave an address and The steward on duty gave an address and Bob Royal, Grandsire Caters and Kent Treble Bob Major. The talk was received with great enthusiasm and a number of other schools have asked for appointments.

Ringers in other towns should watch for similar exhibitions and offer their services

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD

Mr. F. Colclough Retires

The annual meeting was held at St. Thomas' Church, Dudley, on Saturday, April 5th, when over 50 ringers and friends attended. The Guild service was conducted by the new president, service was conducted by the new president, the Rev. T. W. Keith Murray, Vicar of Dudley, who presided at the meeting following.

A special welcome was given to one of the original members of the Guild, Mr. A. Spittle, a vice-president, who told the meeting that his family had been associated with St. Thomas' Church for over 100 years. Mr. H. Shuck, of Cradley, was re-elected treasurer and reported that there was an increase in the balance for the year. Mr. W. Davies, Netherton. was elected Ringing Master, and the retiring Master, Mr. D. Holden, was thanked for his past services.
The office of secretary was left open, as Mr. F. Colclough said that health reasons prevented his carrying on in that position, but he agreed to continue until a suitable successor could be found. Seven new members were accepted

The next quarterly meeting will be held at St. Bartholomew's, Penn. on Saturday, June 28th. A return to the belfry for further ringing brought an enjoyable meeting to a close.

The footnote to the peal of Three Spliced Royal rung at Isleworth on March 29th snould read 'First of Three Spliced Royal in the county of Middlesex.' There have been many peals of Three Spliced Major in Middlesex. The erior

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

A Promising Young Ringer

A quarterly meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held at Aston Parish Church on April 5th. The Guild's special form of service was conducted by the Vicar of Aston, Canon F. F. Guy Warman, the organist being Mr. Frank Price, of Feltham. At the business meeting, which followed a splendid tea, Canon Warman presided. New members were plentiful. Miss Shirley Rymer, Mrs. J. Smith and John McDonald were elected full ringing members. At the age of 14 John McDonald has already rung several Surprise methods and shows great promise. The tower clections, as life members, of the following nonresident ringers were duly ratified: Messrs. William T. Beeson (Cranleigh), E. G. Buck (Baldock), A. Patrick Cannon (Betchworth), Jack S. Dear (Baldock), John Hill (Ewell), Wm. H. Hewett (London), Wm. A. Lacey (Anstey), David Mozley (Haslemere), W. Norman Park (Darlington), Wm. J. Root (Leicester), W. Frank Stenson (Crewe), Wm. Simmonds (Hersham), Hubert Summers (Allesley).
Knowle was chosen as the place for the July meeting, with Tanworth-in-Arden as a second choice in the event of Knowle bells not being available. It was decided to hold a bi-quarterly meeting, which would take the form of a coach trip to two six-bell towers, Grendon and Polesworth, which, although in the diocese, are not easily accessible from Birmingham. This will take place on May 24th.

The secretary read a letter received from the Rev. Leonard Birch, of Hanbury, Worcestershire, appealing for funds for the repair of the tower pinnacles which are in a dangerous condition. A collection taken at the meeting realised $£ 211 \mathrm{~s}$. 6 d . for this object. The secretary reported that he had been successful in securing the Connaught Room at the Imperial Hotel for the first Saturday in March next year for the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner.
A vote of thanks to the Vicar of Aston for conducting the service and presiding at the meeting was carried with acclamation.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

Six Australian Members Elected

A very successful and well-attended spring quarterly meeting was held at Bishopsgate on April Sth. The Assistant Rector of St. Botolph's (Preb. H. H. Treacher) conducted the short service and gave an inspiring address.
Mr. Treacher presided over the business meeting, which was held later in the Church Hall. The following new members were elected: Messrs. John Boutland, Milpera Bridge ; Bruce Dunbar, Robert Ferris, Thomas Howell, George Williamson, all of Parramatta; Kenneth Stacey, Pymble and Harold Hazell, of Enfield. In proposing the new members, Mr. A. R. Botting intimated that they had hoped to ring at least three peals for the Society during the Royal visit to Australia. It is to be hoped that they will be rung at some future date.
In welcoming the new members, Mr. Hawthorne remarked that so far from the Society being nation wide, it was becoming world wide!
The next, meeting will be held at Bray on June 21st.
Members were reminded that the Society's dinner would be held on October 4th and tickets could be obtained from the dinner secretary (Mr. F. J. Matthews). The sum of $£ 210 \mathrm{~s}$. was collected for the Shoreditch bell fund.
Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to Mrs. Davis and her helpers for the splendid tea and to Miss Barbara Harris for providing the music at the service at short notice. Ring ing took place at St. Margaret's, Westminster, in the evening, and the Society's thanks are due to Mr. W. H. Hewett for having the bells in readiness. Methods rung ranged from rounds to Cambridge Royal.

VETERANS OF YORK MINSTER Mr. G. Horner and Mr. E. Rickitt Honoured
In the ringing chamber of York Minster's bell tower on April 6th two men who had completed an aggregate of 100 years' service were honoured by the York Minster Society of Change Ringers.
But only one of them - 77 -year-old Mr . George Horner of Clifton Green, York-was able to attend the ceremony, at which the Dean of York (the Very Rev. E. Milner-White) presided. Mr. Edward Rickitt was absent owing to ill-health.
Mr. H. Walker (president) said Mr. Horner, who was elected a member of the Society on February 2nd, 1898, became assistant secretary in 1905 and secretary in 1907-a position he held until a few months ago.
For many years before his retirement he was chief staft clerk at the Railway Carriage and Wagon Works at York.
Elected a member on February 2nd, 1906, Mr. Rickitt was an instrument maker with Messrs. Cooke, Troughton and Simms before his retirement some months ago. He has now given up ringing on medical advice.
Mr. Horner was presented with a copy of 'Bells of All Nations,' by Mr. E. Morris, who for two years during the first World War was a member of the York Society. In a letter to the Society, the author conveyed his best wishes to Mr. Horner and Mr. Rickitt.
The Dean wished Mr. Horner all happiness on the completion of his long service, and regretted that Mr. Rickitt was unable to share in celebrating a remarkable century's work.
Mr. S. H. Steel (secretary) said it was up to every member to resolve to bring more people into the Society. The Society had to maintain a reputation which had been upheld for many years by members like Mr. Horner and Mr. Rickitt.
Mr. Horner said he was not intending to leave the Society entirely, and that he would be pleased to offer any assistance required.
In addition to the presentation of the book, the Dean and Chapter joined with the members in the presentation of a sum of money to both Mr. Horner and Mr. Rickitt.

DEDICATION

LYNSTED, KENT
For the first time in about 30 years the sound of bells was heard in the pretty village of Lynsted. The occasion was the rededication of the five bells, which have been rehung.
The church, situated in the midst of orchards, was badly damaged during the war. In 1940 a bomb penetrated the nave roof and caused considerable damage. Further damage was caused by a 'doodle-bug' in 1944. Work had commenced on the rehanging of the bells just prior to the war, but this had to stop, although by this time a new oak frame was already in position. The bells remained in the church for several years. Following the restoration of the church the bells were taken to the Whitechapel Foundry. Here the second was recast and the whole five retuned, and on their return to the tower have been quarter turned and hung on ball bearings.
The service of rededication was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. D. G. Reeve, the dedication prayers being said by the Archdeacon of Canterbury (the Ven. A. Sargent). Following the prayers, and while the clergy were returning to the chancel, 120 Grandsire Doubles was rung. After the service and during the evening the bells were kept busy by ringers from Ashford, Bethersden, Canterbury, Littlebourne, Sittingbourne, Teynham and Wickhambreaux.

The church now has a useful ring, with the tenor weighing $10 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$., and it is hoped that when other schemes have been put through a treble will be added. In spite of war damage payments, the village has had to find large sums for work not covered by this scheme, and they are to be congratulated on their efforts.

OBITUARY

MR. SHELFORD SPARROW

His many ringing friends will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Shelford Sparrow, of Stowmarket. He had been ill for several months and was thought to be making progress towards recovery, but he had a relapse and passed away suddenly on the morning of March 30th at the age of 64 .

A regular Sunday ringer at Stowmarket for over 40 years, Mr. Sparrow had rung about 150 peals, mostly for the Suffolk Guild, including a 7,616 of Kent Treble Bob in his home tower and 10,000 odd in the same method at Horringer. He was a faultless striker and a thoroughly reliable method ringer, and was at home on all numbers. His genial personality won for him the affection of all with whom he came in contact in all spheres, and his passing leaves a gap which will not easily be filled. He leaves a widow and two daughters, to whom deepest sympathy is extended.At the funeral on April 4th there were representatives of the Stowmarket company and the Suffolk Guild, four of whom rang a course of Grandsire Triples over the grave after the committal. The Vicar of Stowmarket made reference to Mr. Sparrow's long period of service as a ringer, and to the work of ringers, generally

AN APPRECIATION

Shelford Sparrow was a man endowed with sterling qualities. As a friend he was of the staunchest; as a ringer, he was the acme of reliability in every way; as a craftsman few could equal him and we are proud to record that a new buttress near the south-east corner of Stowmarket Parish Church stands as a monument to his skill.

Shelly' could tap changes in standard methods on any numbers of his twelve handbells, which he suspended on a specially-made frame, and it was fitting that we used his own bells when ringing our farewell salute over him Only those who knew him intimately can bear adequate testimony to his devotion as a husband and father, but we who shared his leisure hours knew him as a truly great little man, whose passing on to the Higher Service leaves the world a poorer place.
O. G. B.

MR. J. CARWELL COOKE

The funeral took place at Crayford on April 12th of Mr. James Carwell Cooke, who was in his 90th year.

Mr. Cooke learned to ring at Aspley Guise in 1883, and one of his early $720^{\prime}$ 's, on April 26th, 1884, is of interest, three of the band at least having played a prominent part in the early history of the Bedfordshire Association. It was rung by J. Carwell Cooke (Aspley Guise) treble. Charles Herbert (Woburn) 2, Mark Lane (Aspley Guise) 3, Rev. J. C. Maltby (Rector of Aspley Guise) 4, Walter Chibnall (Aspley Guise, conductor) 5, W. W. C. Baker, Esq (Eversholt Rectory) tenor. In the following year Mr. Cooke took part in a 720 half-muffled for the late Rev. H. T. Ellacombe, the well-known antiquary and author of several county histories of bells, who was born in the 1790 's, so that the two men between them spanned some 160 years.
He was somewhat reticent about his life after leaving Aspley Guise, but in the 1930's he came to live at the Seamen's Homes. Belvedere. Kent, and later moved to Crayford, where he rang until the ban put an end to his active career. - The Captain, as he was not unnaturally known, retained his interest in ringing, however, and was also a regular member of the congregation until a few months ago. So far as is known he rang three peals, Grandsire Triples in 1902 and 1934, and Kent Treble Bob in 1936, when he was 73 years of age. E. A. B.

MR. H. P. MARSH

The death occurred on April 1st, as the result of a tragic accident, of Mr. H. P. Marsh, chairman of the Chippenham Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association and secretary of St. Andrew's, Chippenham. Mr. Marsh was walking home from the tower, where he had been instructing some young recruits, when he was struck and killed by a car which mounted the pavement. He was aged 46 and leaves a widow and son, aged 15.

The funcral service, which preceded cremation, was held at St. Andrew's on April 8th and was attended by a large and representative gathering. Among the ringers present were the Master and general secretary of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, the general secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild and members from many towers in the surrounding district. The bells were rung half-muffled before the service and as the corlège left the church.

Mr. Marsh learnt to ring at St. Paul's, Chippenham, and later joined the band at St. Andrew's. Unfortunately, no record of his peal ringing activities is available, but he was known to have rung peals in numerous methods up to Surprise Major. He was a good striker and safe ringer; his great interest was with learners, in fact he always maintained that he was as happy when ringing rounds with learners as when ringing Surprise with a good band. He was largely instrumental in bringing about the recent rehanging of the bells and had done much to improve the comfort and appearance of the ringing chamber.

In accordance with his wish, his ashes were scattered at his favourite spot in the countryside just outside Chippentiam, within the sound of the bells he loved.

THE RINGER'S WIFE  By MADELINE M. CROFT

THERE is abroad in ringing circles a tale that during the wartime ban a young lady married a ringer, quite unaware of what this was to mean. She was considerably shaken when some years later he said, 'I'm just going up to the church for a ring,' and came back some three hours later, having rung a peal. This article is really in the nature of a timely warning to such young ladies, but ringers' wives in general may take heart from having their grievances aired, and, who knows?-ringers may further appreciate their wives.

In the first place, a ringer's wife should know something about ringing-the young lady is subsequently said to have remedied her defect in this direction. She should not aim to be an accomplished or even a practical ringer because, after some years, she will find that it is much more appreciated if she stays at home, minds the children, and has a meal ready for the peal band, than if she shared with them the thrills and intricacies of, say, London. The ideal wife should be able to step in in an emergency and hunt the treble, and when the peal attempt breaks down, bear with feminine fortitude the assembled sympathy when she knows perfectly well that it was really old So-and-So who was hopelessly lost after he missed his 5-6-5

That is, however, for the ideal wife, but even for the common or garden wife, who stays at home to prepare the tea, a knowledge of bobs, singles, hunt-bells and wholeturns, etc., is desirable, and she should not be frightened by any lack of depth in her knowledge. After all, it is probably no more superficial than that of some of the ringers who eat at her table, and burble about in-and-out of course and false course-ends. In any case, she will find that if she knows something of the talk that is bandied about it will prevent her making worrying comparisons between the length of ringers' thirsts and the size of the tea ration, and it will also bring her to the comforting realisation that even if her long harboured tin of Grade I. salmon doesn't seem to be running to large helpings, her visitors are quite content to feed cannibalistically on Grandsire and its musical merits. The lady's reward for providing the meal will probably be some help with the washing up, but she should remember that ringing talk will be continued, and that in an argument on the qualities of spliced, there can be many a slip between washer and drier.

Although on an average the ringer's wife will not have his company on two nights out of the seven, and will probably see very little of him at the week-end, she will at other times have the pleasure of hearing him talk of his ringing experiences, and it is amazing how on these occasions the most even tempered of bells can acquire a Beverley-tenor temperament. She may, however, be disappointed if she expects him to move heavy furniture in the spring cleaning, as one well-known ringer's wife commented when her husband remarked on the weight of her attache case, 'A threeton bell, yes, but a suitcase-!?

From the beginning, it is as well to remember that Friday is a very special day. On Friday evenings the ringer, if he is at home, will consume 'The Ringing World,' and make idle, irritating and probably envious speculation on the number of peals Whatshisname has rung or will ring this year. One bride actually inherited a complete set of thirtythree volumes of 'The Bell News,' so any night was liable to be a Friday night, and she had to dust them!

When the ringer's wife has done all this, and more, she is expected to make the final sacrifice-her good name. When her husband, due to pressure of work, or something of the sort, abandons ringing for a time, she must, with equanimity, hear it reported back to her that at some gathering one ringer said to another, 'Old Blankety-blank doesn't ring much these days-I expect it's his wife.'

ESSEX IN 1951

Essex has 865 ringing members, an increase of 33 during the past year. What is equally encouraging is that it has 163 honorary members, compared with 120 a year ago. In these days the support of honorary members is most essential, and while the Essex Association ended the year with a balance of $£ 22018 \mathrm{~s}$., it is stimulating to ringers to have behind them the support of lovers of bells.

This friendship with the general public is essential in the maintenance of bells. Restoration work during 1951 was substantial in Essex and the Association voted the sum of $£ 110$ for this purpose, compared with an income of $£ 46$ to the Restoration Fund. Work has been done at the following towers: Kelvedon, where the Festival of Britain bell replaces a Miles Grey tenor; new trebles at Bures; Nazeing, an additional treble, the gift of the Mercers' Company; Goldhanger, a new frame, bells retuned and a new tenor added; All Saints', Maldon; Great Totham. Other work is contemplated.

Congratulations will be extended to the octogenarian band who rang their peal of Plain Bob Major last Saturday at St. John's, Deptford. Mr. Frank Bennett conducted. This is the first time a peal has been scored by a band all of whom were over 80 years of age.

No discourtesy to the Middlesex Association was intended by the visitors who. on April 19th. rang a peal at Enfield for the Kent County Association, but there were insufficient Middlesex members in the band to elect the remainder in accordance with the rules.

Mr. Leslie Barry has now called a peal from each bell at Cromhall, Glos.

The new secretary of the Bedfordshire Association is Mr. J. M. Stephens, 24, Durler Avenue Kempston, Bedford.

Mr. Peter N. Bond has accepted a teaching dost at the Rosemary Academy for Boys, Lincoln. as from September 1st.
Mr. A. E. Rowley informs us that the peal at Thstock on March 2 lst (page 244) should read: • 720 each of Double Oxford. St. Clement's. Single Court. Oxford Bob, Plain Bob, Oxford Treble Bob and Kent Treble Bob.
The 50th anniversary of the dedication of Bridlington Priory bells will be marked by ringing from $10 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. to $9 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. and a service taken bv the oresident of the Yorkshire Association (the Ven. C. O. Ellison).

The peal at Midhurst on Adril 15th to welcome the new Vicar, the Rev. R. G. G. Hooper, was the first peal on the bells since February 22 nd, 1905. The band appreciate the co-operation from the local ringers for the part they played in making the peal possible and for their kind hospitality.

Branston, Lincs, has lost one of the old originals of its band by the death of Mr. Joseph Canham, aged 82 . For over 40 years he had rung at this tower and there is now only one survivor of the first band. On the day of his funeral, April 21 st , a quarter peal of Bob Minor was rung.

The bells (8) of St. Nicholas', Newport, Shrooshire, will shortly be in the hands of Messrs. Taylor and Co. The second and sixth are to be recast and ball bearings are to replace the present plain bearing. The cost will be ahout $£ 500$.

The quarter peal at Castor, near Peterborough, recorded this week is the first by a local band. Until recently this six had not been rung regularly but a middlc-aged band have learnt to ring in the last threc years and the quarter peal denotes their progress.

A full programme has been planned for the South of England Ringers' Rally and George Williams Commemoration Dinner at Bournemouth to-morrow. Mr. A. A. Hughes has promised to speak to the memory of George Williams

Northern District's Annual Meeting

Over 100 ringers attended the annual meeting of the Northern District at St. Crmgall's, Bangor, on Easter Monday, including Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Darmon, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dukes and Mr W. Lynch from the Eastern District.

Seven teams competed for the Cunningham Cup. the standard of ringing being very high and a great improvement on last year. Mr. W. Pratt (president) and the Rev. John Barry were the judges and their placings were:-St. Thomas's. Belfast, 82 per cent.; St. Crmgall's, Bangor, 80 : St. Donard's. Belfast (holders), 78 ; St. Malachi's. Hillsborough, 58; St. Columb's, Londonderry, 52; St. Bermach's, Rostern, 46; St. Patrick's, Coleraine, 44.
After lunch the bells were rung to various methods until the meeting, presided over by Canon Good owing to the illness of the District chairman, Mr. W. Rogers.
Reports indicated that the District was in a very strong position both as regards ringing and finances. The Festival year had been a remarkable one.

Officers elected were:-Vice-president and District chairman, Rev. John Barry (Hillsborough); Ringing Master. Mr. H. Brown (Holvwood) ; District secretary, Mr. John T. Dunwoody (Holywood); assistant secretary Miss Jean Stewart (St. Donard's); treasurer, Mr . Jack Campbell (Londonderry); Central Committee, Miss Young (Carrickfergus) and Mr. F. Burrows (St. Thomas'). The next annual meeting will be at Enniskillen.
The attendance shield was presented to St. Donard's, who won it jointly with Ballymorden. Co. Cork, with a 100 per cent. record. Votes of thanks were passed to local ringers, particularly Mr. McBride (steeplekeeper) and Miss Cowley (secretary). Ringing after the meeting included touches of Cambridge Surprise, Combined Kent and Oxford Treble Bob. Pontefract Delight Major. Grandsire. Plain Bob and Oswald Delight with some call-changes.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

The annual general meeting held at Huntingdon on Easter Monday was well attended. all parts of the Diocese being represented. Visitors came from Boston. Spalding, Swineshead and Bicker (Lincolnshire), Coventry, Leicester, Tempsford (Bedfordshirer and Sunningdale (Berkshire)
Ringing commenced at 10.30 at St. Ives where the open shops and busy market stalls occasioned some surprise.
During the afternoon the bells of the two Huntingdon towers were kept going until the service at 3.30 held at St. Mary's, conducted by the Vicar with Brian Warwick, of Leicester, at the organ.
Tea was served in All Saints' Church Hall, the business meeting following with Mr. E. G. Hibbins in the chair. Officers were elected as follows:-General secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. W. Cousins; auditor Mr. T. R. Dennis; peal secretary. Mr. E. G. Hibbins; Diocesan committee-Messrs. F. Warrington, F. Newman. C. Cousins. C. Butter. R. Brooker. G. Walker. J. Gipson and C. Hurst.
The financial problem of renewing supplies of the Association's badge was discussed and it was decided to circularise the towers in the Diocese to ascertain the likely demand, before ordering a new stock. Cambridge was chosen as the place for the annual general meeting next year.
Thanks were expressed to Mr. H. S. Peacock and his helners for making the arrangements and providing tea, and Mr. E. Barker welcomed the visitors. Mr. W. Clarke, of Boston. responding.

During the evening Godmanchester bells, which are shortly to be rehung. were available. in addition to the Huntingdon towers.

FIVE PEALS IN A DAY

Hereford Band's Unique Achievement

A
T 4 a.m. on Tuesday, April 15th, a party of four, one of whom had already travelled 12 miles by motor-cycle, left Hereford by car.

The roads were deserted and the 35 -mile journey to the little Welsh village of Llanfihangel Rhydithon was made without mishap, though not a few rabbits had narrow escapes; here we met the remaindeer of the band who had travelled by motor-cycle from Eardisland
The Parish Church of St. Michael and All Angels is on a slight rise, well clear of the one or two houses which form the centre of the village.
The back five of the ring are by Mears and Stainbank. and Gillett and Johnston added a treble in 1936. In 1937 a peal of Doubles and in 1938 a peal of Minor were rung here both these peals being rung for the Hereford Diocesan Guild.
It would be hard to find a more suitable tower for peal-ringing and it was this fact which made the band decide to attempt all five peals here rather than go to five different places.
The Vicar, the Rev. E. Fowler, who is a ringer, had very kindly pulled the bells up the day before. After adjusting ropes the first peal was started at $5.35 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. and came round at about 8 o'clock.
We walked to the Vicarage and enjoyed a quick breakfast before returning to the belfry to start again at 8.45 . In the second 720 , after about 500 changes, there was a slight hesitancy ; an over-eager ringer sent his dodging partner down the wrong way and 'Stand was called. Thirty-five minutes wasted! A fresh start was made and after half a lead 'Stand' was called again this would never do! Eventually we did get off all right and came round at 11.40 . Here followed a short break during which methylated spirits and meat pies were in great demand and a drop of oil was put on the bells.
We started for the third which came round without a hitch at $2.15 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. We dashed off by car to a lunch of bacon and eggs at a cafe about a mile away and were very surprised when we received a telephone call from a Llandrindod Wells newspaper. We promised to ring them up later in the day if we succeeded in all our attempts.
The afternoon peal was rung and tea at the Vicarage was appreciated by all. The Vicar was very pleased with the ringing and when someone asked him what he would think of five peals every day for a month he said he would only be happy if we continued for 12 months! We bade goodbye to the Vicar and his niece, without whom we should have been unable to make the attempts.
The oil lamp had to be lit for the last attempt which began at 6.40 and came round at 9 o'clock. just in time for some small refreshment before the journey home.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Subscription to Remain at 1s. 6d.-

Mr. J. T. Dyke Retiring

EASTER Monday saw some 150 members at Minehead for the annual meeting of the Association, where the proceedings started with a service in the Parish Church, conducted by the Master the Rev. Prebendary A. J. Hook. A very helpful address was given by the Rev. F. M. Etherington. Lunch was followed by the business meeting.

In his report, the Master stated that he was unable to give the numerical strength of the Association as all details had not yet come to hand but everything pointed to the fact that the Association was very much alive. A great deal of teaching was going on, and throughout the Diocese there was constant evidence of the increased care of the bells. Much of this was due to the charm and tact of ringers. Talking of charm and tact. he said that there was one way in which those pleasant virtues might be more fully exercised for the happiness of all. As in all societies, ringers occasionally disagreed over matters of principle or detail. That was natural and human. But sometimes such disagreement led to personal animosity (it appeared occasionally in letters to "The Ringing World ') and that was wholly bad because it was unchristian and a breach of charity. Of course they must differ, but let them agree to differ and not get cross or personal about it. Besides, the other man was not always wrong.

Bells were primarily for the glory of God and to call people to worship. It was an axiom that they should be rung as well as possible. Hence the Exercise. Peal ringing was for the good of the Exercise, but even so, the glory of God should not be forgotten. Two things came into his mind in that connection :-
(i) It did not seem right that peals should be rung in Lent and Passiontide. He did not think that any had been rung by their Association but many were rung in other parts of the country It looked as if ringers, who were, after all, churchworkers, were discarding the discipline of the Church for the modern world practice of treating Lent as if it did not exist.
(ii) Ringers rang peals because it was good for the Exercise, and because they liked ringing them. or because there was a national occasion of importance. But the present fashion of appending the note 'Rung as a birthday compliment to the mother-in-law of Mr . X' did not seem very dignified.

In some branches Corporate Communions for ringers were regularly held and he hoped that other branches would start the practice. He concluded by congratulating Evercreech and Queen Camel on their broadcasts.

REPORT EVERY THREE YEARS

Mr. J. T. Dyke, general secretary, then followed with his report, which he commenced with a reference to the financial state of the Association. He showed that investments stood at the face value of $£ 171$ is. and that, including a credit just handed to him, there was $£ 294$ 11s. 10d in hand. At this juncture he pointed out that had the Association printed a report each year those assets would have disappeared and next year they would have been heading for insolvency. He promised to get into the printers' hands during May a report to cover the last four years. He made it clear that the Association could not afford a report even every other year. but that it could have one every third year. with a leaflet containing Master's and secretary's reports and a statement of accounts at the annual meeting in the intervening years. He felt that it would be the greatest mistake to increase the subscription from 1s. 6d. Some discussion followed relative to other means of increasing income and it was left to means of increasing income and it was left to the committee to discuss and recommend to the next general meeting.

The secretary also reported that following his efforts of some years ago the County Library had now added to its shelves both 'Ropesight' and 'Standard Methods.' He also made a plea for increased support of 'The Ringing World.'

Miss Williams then gave a short report regarding the proceedings of the Central Council meeting at Chester. She was followed by Mr. W. A. Osborn, who reported concerning the 14 towers where he had given advice during the year. An interesting item was the recasting of an old bell. but the preservation of the band of metal showing the founder's marks. In his usual inimitable manner, he gave advice concerning frame, bell and rope preservation.

Two recommendations of the committee were approved. They were to increase the grant to Central Council representatives to $£ 20$, and to transfer $£ 10$ to the Belfries Repair Fund.
The existing officers were re-elected, and some discussion took place concerning the office of secretary, as Mr. Dyke had expressed his intention to resign next Easter Monday. It was left to the committee to discuss and report to the general meeting their recommendations regarding his successor and to split up the work of the general secretary by appointing a separate treasurer and an assistant or peal secretary.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the incumbents of the churches where the bells had been made available to the members, to the Rev. F. M. Etherington and to the organist.

OUTINGS

BRISTOL UNIVERSITY

On April 7th the University of Bristol Society held their usual pre-summer term outing in which ten members participated, accompanied by Miss Joan Bussey, of Gloucester, and Brian Bladon of Swindon.

Tnwers visited were Winterbourne (6), Iron Acton (6). Cromhall (6), North Nibley (6). Dursley (8), Wotton-under-Edge (8) and Chipping Sodbury (6). Everything went strangely according to olan. all buses turned up at their appointed times (!) and everybody voted it a most enjoyable day's ringing

THAKENHAM, SUSSEX

An enioyable day in Hampshire was spent on Easter Monday by Thakenham ringers accompanied by friends from Storrington. Washington. Itchingfield and Amberley. Towers visited were Steep (6), West Meon (8), East Meon (8) Swanmore (6) and Catherington ( 0 ). The standard of ringing was exceptionally good throughout the day and methods rung included Grandsire Doubles and Triples. Plain Bob Minor and Major, Kent Minor and Stedman Doubles. The tower secretary, Mr. Farhall, arranged the outing and acted as Ringing Master and the company wish to express to him their sincere thanks.

THE GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS' FESTIVAL

Held At Isolated Tower

THE decision of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers to hold its annual festival at Combe Martin was a very courageous one indeed. Influenced, no doubt. by the change in date from Whit Monday to Easter Monday, attendances at this event have been falling, whilst Combe Martin is the most isolated tower in the Guild. being at least 35 miles from the nearest method-ringing band. In the event. however. the infectious optimism of the local ringers proved to be more than justified, as nearly 150 members and friends were present at the festival as against 60 last year.

The programme of the Devon Guild's 'annual ' is unlike that of most of the other territorial associations. Partly owing to the long distances which most members have to travelthis vear, for instance, the Plymouth contingent must have had to cover at least 150 milesnot much time can be spent at the festival tower, particularly if visits to other belfries are made on the way. A time-table is, therefore. drawn up and members ring in bands. This has its disadvantages but on the other hand the average level of the striking is probably higher than it would be and critical listening and appreciation take the place of general conviviality.
The Church of St. Peter, beautifully decorated for Easter, was nearly filled for the service conducted by the Rector, the Rev. H. M. Young, assisted by the Guild president. Prebendary E. V. Cox. The Rev. A. R. Gerry, Rural Dean. preached the sermon, which might perhaps be described as a slight variation on a very old theme. The collection, in aid of the Exeter Cathedral Restoration Fund, amounted to $£ 310 \mathrm{~s}, 9 \mathrm{~d}$.
The luncheon and annual meeting which followed were presided over by the president supported by the Guild officers and Mr. W. H. Small. Prebendary Cox followed up his appeal. which he made a year ago. for greater progress in new methods by moving a resolution suggesting that each band in the Guild should try to learn at least one new method in the coming year.

The meeting decided by a large majority to revert to the time-honoured practice of holding the annual festival on Whit Monday. Next year it will take place at Exeter.

The following officers were unanimously reelected for the coming year:-President, Prebendary E. V. Cox; hon. treasurer, Mr. A. L Bennett; hon. secretary, Mr. E. J. Taylor; hon auditor. Mr. J. C. Oke.
The president moved a very hearty vote of thanks to the Rector of Combe Martin and the local band, with special reference to Miss B. M. Boyle, for the excellence of the local arrangements for which they had made themselves entirely responsible. The branch Ringing Master. the Rev. J. H. B. Andrews, responded. Certificates-the first of a new dcsign recently approved by the general com-mittee-were presented to three young members of the locai company.
Ringing went on at Combe Martin and many other North Devon towers during the day. One party, which returned homewards through the heart of the call-change country, had the expelience of taising Swymbridge bells-in a belfry hung to the ceiling with prize-winning certificates-before the critical eyes (and ears) of four of the local band. The friendly discussion which followed and the interest shown by the local men were, the visitors felt, evidence that the cause of change-ringing had not suffered as the result of their visit.

A NORTH SHROPSHIRE TOUR

Six Chester ringers travelling by car and motor-cycle had a very enioyable day's ringing in North Shropshire on April 5th. En route they were joined by friends from Northwich and Shrewsbury.
Ringing took place at Ightfield. Prees. Stan-ton-on-Hine, Moreton-Corbet, Clive, Ruyton and Great Ness.
Methods rung included Grandsire Stedman. April Day. St. Simon's Doubles. Plain Boh. Single Oxford Bob, Double Oxford. Double Court. St. Clement's, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob London and Cambridge Surprise and Spliced Plain and Little Bob Minor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MEADOWSMANSHIP

Dear Sir.-Do we really need the doses of emetic Meadowsmanship that now appear to be our lot? Ringers generally are being lashed with a whip of satire; for what purpose? Is with a whid of satire; for what purpose? Is irritate or to help?
What guarantee have we that Meadowsmanship will not be applied beyond the belfry? Will the virus attack the altar, the clergy, the congregations, in fact the whole body of the Church. militant and triumphant? Who shall say? Some hundreds of years ago it did exist in some form. as pet names such as 'Old Mumblemass ' or 'Old Muttermatins ' were common,
Not many of my readers will be acquainted with the weird art of Aubrey Beardsley. At the end of the last century a great man of letters wrote an open letter to him. Please, letters wrote an open letter to him. 'Please, Mr. Beardsley,' he wrote, ' whatever you do with the rest of creation, leave our women alone.' I am not a man of letters, but I say to the creator of Meadowsmanship. ' Keep your devilish art off ringing, return it to the home it doubtless has in hades, with the Friars of the Summoner's tale.'

I hazard that Meadowsmanship has been born of an 'unfortunate 'ringing life and sired bv the seven deadly sins. In my experience any competent conductor or ringer has been more than tolerated for his eccentricities-even liked for them, and anyone else 'putting it on' quickly deflated. And may we not remember that a charitable attitude towards our fellowmen and brother ringers especially, is not inconsistent with the practice of the Christian religion.

With so much entertainment ' laid on' it is not easv to secure interest in hobbies like ringing or chess, so let us give the help that health and circumstances allow. and don't let us scorn the ' widow's mite '-it will be accepted.-Yours,

RADIO PROGRAMME

Dear Sir.-I should like to bring to the notice of ringers that radio programmes featuring bells are not confined to British stations. My first instance concerns a broadcast on Paln. Sunday evening and transmitted on a wavelength approximating 260 metres; while not making any claim for prowess in languages. I helieve the talk was in Dutch. I was able to identify recordings of bells including the familiar Bow Bells time signal. Lavenham, Bredon (to illustrate the famous lines of Houseman's 'A Shropshire Lad') and a remarkable one of the Westminster chimes striking the hour with the bells of Westminster Abbey ringing halfmuffled in the background. Handbell ringers were not forgotten and a Cornish (?) team was heard.
The second broadcast was at noon on Easter Day when a ten-minute carillon recital was given by Toon van Balkom (Hilversum 298 metres). The programme included well-known music such as the 'Hallelujah' Chorus (Messiah) and 'The Holy City ' and ended with a brilliant Toccata. presumably written specially for oerformance on the manuals and pedals of a carillon.

To return to British broadcasting, I must say how much I enioved the Easter bells; in addition to the bells advertised for the Home Service, the listener to the North Regional programme was able to hear those of St. George's. Doncaster. Ringers can no longer protest that the belfry is neglected in broadcast services as the ringing time allowed is frequently sufficient for at least two leads of Grandsire Triples.-Yours sincercly,

MICHAEL STEPHENS.

J. R. HAWORTH AND THE ' OLD STALWARTS '

Dear Sir.-When writing the article upon the above which you were good enough to publish, I had also in view that it might evoke letters from those fortunately possessing papers throwing further light upon an obscure but interesting period, viz., the College Youths of the 19th century.
I have already received a letter from our old friend, Mr. Charles E. Borrett, who is, he says, pleased with such articles and sends me a copy of Dwight's poem, which had been given to him by Matt Wood when they met for a ring in 1906 at Bethnal Green. It appears that he has a number of 'cuttings' and I will forward his letter to you.

From such contributions I hope we may build up a better history of this period before still more of the records are lost for ever.-Yours very faithfully,
E. ALEX. YOUNG.

KENT COUNTY MEETING

Dear Sir,-May I correct the impression given by Mr. W. Bottrill's letter (published in 'The Ringing World ' of April 25th) that infringements of the rules occurred at the annual general meeting of the Kent County Association at Ashford on Easter Monday?
At its November meeting the committee decided to recommend an increase from 2 s . to 3s. in the annual subscriptions payable by adult practising members and each District had an ondortunity to discuss this at its January meeting. Under Rule 19 alteration to existing rules may be made at a general meeting and when it was stated quite clearly at Ashford that Rule 19 was being invoked, no objection was raised. The chairman at the annual general meeting allowed free and fair discussion and, as has already been reported in 'The Ringing World,' the increase was eventually agreed by a large maiority.
Concerning the election of a practising member to the committee. Mr. Bottrill, in quoting Rule 9 omitted the relevant words, i.e., 'any other necessary officers shall be elected.' I did have a copy of the rules with me at the time and it seemed to me quite proper for a member to be elected to the committee under this rule.
I hope the foregoing will satisfy Mr. Bottrill that no infringement of the rules was intended, or. indeed. made, but would suggest that should he at any future meeting have any misgivings as to the correctness or otherwise of the proceedings. it would be better to voice them at the time.-Yours faithfully.

LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL

Dear Sir,-In reply to the letter from Mr. E. L. Humphriss. I do hope that he did not think I was unmindful of the wonderful engineering feat to Liverpool Cathedral tower.

I also noted the happy atmosphere amongst the ringers in the belfry and the cordial welcome which the visitors received from Mr. G. R. Newton. Mr. E. L. Humphriss and other members of the local company on that day.

I much appreciated the goodwill of those present who agreed to my request to try three leads of Treble Ten. It was simply a question of taking advantage of an opportune occasion and I'm sure that anyone else will have the same chance if they are so minded.
All of us have our little ambitions though not all of them are granted.
Good luck to all Liverpool Cathedral ringers, and I'm looking forward to my next visit. A. PATRICK CANNON.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

Dear Sir,-As Mr. Jeanes referred to me in his letter in ' The Ringing World ' of April 25th, perhaps I might be allowed to say that an incumbent certainly has charge of the bells in his tower and can allow them to be rung when he likes. It is obviously the incumbent's resoonsibility as to whether a peal in his tower should be rung in Lent or not.

Mr. Jeanes asks whether I approved of a practice meeting which was held in the Bridgwater Deanery on March 29th. Certainly I did It was auite in order. The recommendation, and it cannot be more than a recommendation, of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association is that in Lent the bells should be silent except for service ringing and necessary practice. That is the answer to his question.-Yours faithfully, (Preb.) A. J. HOOK.

AN IDEA

Dear Sir,-I usually put my copy of "The Ringing World' in the church after I have read it as I think it may be good propaganda. One of our clergy told me he was much impressed by the leading article on Easter ringing on April 11th.
How nice it would be if all the clergy were more interested in the ringers and their ideas and aspirations. Also how nice it would be if all the ringers took more interest in Church affairs apart from the belfry.-Yours sincerely,

DORIS H. SHEPPARD (Miss).
Chalford, near Stroud, Glos.

STONHAM ASPAL BELLS

Dear Sir,-Many ringers all over the country have rung on the fine heavy ring of ten bells at Stonham Aspal, and no one who has asked permission to attempt a peal has been refused.
It is with regret that I have to announce that our bells are now difficult to ring and about $£ 700$ is needed to recast the cracked eighth bell, reclapper, retune and rehang all the bells and strengthen the frame, etc., in order that the bells may continue to be rung.
